Brian Donley, who had originally been picked for this part had to withdraw for personal reasons, said Gregory.

After the basic training they will go into the field for a few weeks of general work. Then the men will return to the training school for special training in one of the specialties of the department, such as highway patrolmen, license and weight patrolmen, drivers license examiner patrolmen, or motor vehicle inspection patrolmen.

Texas Water Development Jobs Get OK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Army Engineer Board of Rivers and Harbors recommended today three water projects in Texas, including one which would provide improvements for the Galveston harbor and channel and the Houston ship channel. Board recommendations go to the chief of Army Engineers and then to Congress for consideration. The board approved also projects for improvement of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway Channel to Port Mansfield and for construction of the proposed Bardwell Reservoir on the Waxahachie Creek, a tributary of the Trinity River. The board said the Galveston harbor and channel project involves dredging to a depth of 42 feet from Bolivar Roads to a point two miles west of the seaward end of the north jetty, then to a depth of 40 feet to the junction of the Houston ship channel. The federal cost is estimated at $2,342,000 for new work and $11,700,000 for rehabilitation of jetties and other structures. The Houston ship channel involves dredging to a depth of 40 feet from Bolivar Roads to the lower end of Brady Island and in the Hunting Bayou turning basin; realignment between Carpenters Bayou and Greens Bayou; a turning basin at Clinton Island and other work at an estimated federal cost of $14,854,000. The Port Mansfield project would include a 16-foot channel from the Gulf to Padre Island and a 14-foot channel to Port Mansfield at an estimated federal cost of $361,000. Bardwell reservoir would involve a federal cost of $5,104,000. Local interests would be required to contribute $1,888,000.

Withdrawals Of Water Averaging 5 Million Gallons

The city has maintained a five million gallon water consumption average through 27 days of September, although usage dropped below that mark during the past week. Through Saturday morning at 8 a.m., the city had consumed 141,870,000 gallons for a daily average of 5,254,000 gallons. This average would give 157,620,000 gallons for the month. However, this total does not include water used by Cabot and Cosden. A prediction in March was 185 million for September. A total of 4,580,000 gallons was used Friday and 4,490,000 on Thursday. Wednesday, however, it was 5,210,000 gallons. Maximum usage this month was on Sept. 3 and 20 when 6,810,000 gallons were metered. The minimum was registered on Sept. 7, a 2,730,000-gallon day.

Webb Water Line Plans Nearly Ready

Although being held up on the sewer line by state work, the city has practically completed work on specifications for a water line to Webb AFB. The water and sewer lines will be constructed from funds provided by the city and the federal government. However, the money coming from the government will be a loan. The sewer line will go from the proposed Webb housing area directly to the sewage disposal plant, while the water line will be laid from the Edwards Heights reservoir to the east gate of Webb. Saturday, the city engineer, Clifton Bellamy, said the water line specifications could be completed in a short time. Easements have already been secured, the city manager, H. W. Whitney, reported. The line will go westward from the reservoir to FM 700 and then follow the north side of the highway around Scenic Mt. to the east gate of the air base. From that point, the government will lay a line. However, on the sewer line, the city is being held up pending location of the east extension of FM 700 from U.S. 87 to U.S. 80. Until the exact route is laid out, the city cannot plot a route for the sewage line. City officials have talked to some property owners who might enter into easement needs, but these talks have been made informally, Whitney said. Naturally, since the sewerage line west of 87 is fairly well established, the city has been able to obtain some easements. The government has agreed to furnish up to $175,000 toward payment of the lines with the city to add all above that. The city voted $50,000 bonds to cover its initial part. Then the city will pay back the borrowed sum interest free out of Webb water and sewer bills.

Progress Of Integration Under Survey

By The Associated Press

While controversy swirls around the use of federal troops to enforce racial integration in a Little Rock, Ark. high school, what is the broader factual picture of integration as it now stands nearly 3 1/2 years after the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in the public schools?

Slow and steady is a ready and reasonably accurate answer. But how slow and how steady?

The Southern Education Reporting Service, a nonprofit organization supported by the Ford Foundation and made up largely of Southern newspapermen, seeks to keep abreast of the constantly changing situation by a system of reports from its newsmen.

Its announced goal is the gathering of factual information, uncolored by the reporters' personal opinions. Soon it is to publish a book, "With All Deliberate Speed," which will sum up the work to date.

Various chapters of the book will be contributed by newsmen who have centered their fact-finding efforts in different fields of education.

The Associated Press asked three of these newsmen, plus Don Shoemaker, executive director of the SERS headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., to provide a preview report of what is going into the book which takes its title from the May 31, 1955, ruling in which the Supreme Court directed that integration must proceed "With All Deliberate Speed."

The Supreme Court's May 17, 1954, decision affected 17 states and the District of Columbia which had histories of separate schools for whites and Negroes. The District of Columbia desegregated soon afterward.

Shoemaker said the survey "is the first effort to wrap up developments in detail and in depth from the vantage points of 17 states and without any expression of opinion."

"Our survey will show," he said, "that at the end of three years there were less than 700 school districts desegregated out of some 3,000 biracial districts in the region and that of these only a handful were outside the border states, and that some two million white children and 325,000 Negroes were involved in 'integrated situations.'"

Joseph B. Parham, editor of the Macon (Ga.) News, discussing higher education exclusively, said that "Negroes enrolled in 105 of 200 public colleges, 55 of 188 Protestant schools, 35 of 45 Catholic schools and 28 of 114 private schools in the South last term. About 25 more institutions were integrated this fall."

Weldon James, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, said that one of the reasons for the "relative smooth transition to integrated schools" in Kentucky was the fact that leaders of both major parties bespoke compliance after the Supreme Court's 1954 ruling.

W. D. Workman Jr., South Carolina Capital correspondent for the Greenville (S. C.) News and the Charleston News and Courier, reported on the "Deep South," Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Florida.

"In general," he said, "the Deep South had a stronger body of pro-segregation legislation on the statute books in 1947 than in 1954."

He said leading Negro educators say desegregation will not doom Negro colleges.

Parham also reported that "some schools indicate race by symbol on admission cards despite claims that no records are kept by race."

"Teachers colleges outside the South sometimes give what Negroes privately call 'colored degrees' by showing favoritism to Southern Negroes," he said. "The double-standard of grading whites and Negroes will cause trouble in Southern colleges trying to integrate. Negroes may blame discrimination for what is actually academic unpreparedness."

James said removing integration from politics in Kentucky and the fact that the Negro population is only seven per cent of the total "made it easier for many school boards to make their plans by reliance on the doctrine of 'inevitability.'"

Texas Schools Struck By Flu

By The Associated Press

One of the worst outbreaks of influenza in Texas since the big epidemic of 1918 was indicated in reports this week.

But from all sections the outbreak was described as of mild form and nothing to compare with the treacherous malady of 39 years ago.

Hardest hit were schools and colleges. Most large colleges had hospitals filled. Nearly all reported an improved situation as the week ended.

Texas A&M had 1,600 cases diagnosed as the Asian type.

The University of Texas Health Center was crowded with patients. An appeal was made for extra nurses. Dr. Ben Primer, health officer at Austin, estimated 1,700 cases in Travis County, tripling last week's total.

The Public Health Service in Washington indicated Texas was one of the hardest hit states. The number of new cases of Asian flu over the nation increased 122,650 in one week, bringing the total since late May to 222,650.

Jess Talkin' by Jess Blair

Yesterday we had to go to Midland, so I did a little inquiring about crops while there. The Midland County estimate for cotton is between 16,000 and 18,000 bales.

The latter figure may be reached if frost holds off until the normal time, says Perry Collins, manager of the Farmer's Co-Op Gin in Midland. Most of the cotton was planted late, but looks better than any dryland crop since 1950.

Two severe hailstorms ripped across the county, with the last one coming last week. The areas were small but several hundred bales were ruined.

Collins said his gin had turned out 343 bales yesterday at noon. Altogether, the three gins in Midland have ginned about 600 bales. The average yield for dryland crops should be a third of gin bales to the acre. Irrigated fields will range from a bale to three bales, depending upon crop conditions during the year, but mostly upon the man doing the farming.

Midland County has some of the best farmers in West Texas, and also some of the poorest. One of the good ones is H. R. Solomon, an ex-baker, who bought a farm north of Midland about 10 years ago. He has made three bales to the acre on certain fields two or three times. This year his place was in a hailstorm and the cotton was damaged.

23rd A-Blast Termed One Of The Brightest

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Sept. 28 (AP)—The next-to-last atomic explosion of the 1957 test series was detonated today with a bright flash seen over much of the West.

In San Francisco, 400 miles away, early risers saw the 6 a.m. flash through drizzly skies. It was clearly visible in Los Angeles, some 250 miles southwest of the test site, as a bluish colored false dawn.

Observers in Las Vegas, Nev., 75 miles away, said that today's test—code-named Charleston—was one of the brightest of this year's Atomic Energy Commission tests. Today's was the 23rd shot. Another is planned in a week.

The AEC said Charleston turned out to be less powerful than expected. Even so, it was rated as about nominal, a nominal blast being the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT. The rumble from the test was heard as far away as Boulder City, Nev., 90 miles distant.

Charleston was detonated from a balloon tethered 1,500 feet above the desert. The AEC said that only traces of radioactive fallout were measured outside of the test area.

There were no military maneuvers in connection with today's test. It was termed a "highly experimental" shot. Seventeen scientific tests of an undisclosed nature were conducted in connection with it.

Trans-Tex Proposes Daily Air Service To Big Spring

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce will support Trans-Texas Airways in the firm's application for authority to serve Big Spring as an intermediate point on a route between Dallas and El Paso.

Hearing on the Trans-Texas application probably will be held by the Civil Aeronautics Board in the latter part of 1958.

The local Chamber now is supplying Trans-Texas with information to support its application, and Wayne Smith, C-C manager, said other backing probably will be supplied prior to the hearing.

Joe C. Crawford, acting director of economic research for the airline, said that Big Spring will be given one-stop service twice daily to Fort Worth and to El Paso, with no change of planes, if the Trans-Texas application is granted.

Terminal points of the proposed routes are Dallas-Fort Worth and El Paso, with stops planned at Big Spring, Midland-Odessa, and Abilene.

Crawford said his research has shown that Taylor (Abilene) Midland and Howard counties had retail sales ranging between $50 million and $100 million during 1956. Fort Worth, Dallas, Odessa and El Paso each had sales exceeding $100,000.

Trans-Texas proposes to schedule two round trips daily over the route.

Crawford said hearing probably won't be held until late 1958 because the CAB is now conducting extensive area hearings on other matters expected to require several months to complete.

Bracero Center Stops Flow Of Cotton Hands

HIDALGO, Tex., Sept. 28 (AP)—Officials of the Hidalgo bracero reception center prepared today to end the processing of cotton harvest workers.

E. E. Scannel, in charge of the center, said 1,500 to 2,000 Mexican farm laborers have been processed daily for three weeks, mostly for the cotton harvest in Arkansas. He said this phase would end this week.

The big demand for workers from now until the end of the year will be for braceros to help plant and harvest winter vegetables and harvest citrus in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Field Day Slated At Experiment Farm In Lubbock

Several Howard County farmers, and Jimmy Taylor, county agent, are planning to attend the annual field day at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock on Oct. 8.

Taylor said he had been advised the tour opens at 9 a.m. Tractor drawn trailers will take the visitors to view the experimental plots and exhibits of the latest development in agricultural research. County agents will serve as guides for the groups.

In the afternoon after a lunch has been served, the remainder of the day will be devoted to explaining the highlights and new developments at the Experiment Station.

Water management, different levels of irrigation, and fertilization influence on cotton and sorghum hybrids will be demonstrated.

Taylor recommended that as many Howard County farmers attend the annual field day as possible.

Propaganda Aside, Red Jet Is Far Behind West's Models

By WES COOK

The Associated Press. Showing off, Russia this month flew a jet passenger liner to the United States. But under the propaganda veneer, critics discovered a plane that can carry fewer passengers a shorter distance at slower speeds than Western jets in service or in production.

that is as much a part of the government of Russia as the Soviet Air Force. The factors that a civilian airline—operated as a self-sustaining business—must consider in choosing a transport do not apply in Russia. "If they did, the TU104 would have been as impossible a commercial transport for Russia as it is for America."

Other objectionable features include the location of the engines (in the wing roots near the juncture of the wing and fuselage), interior workmanship on the outer skin, use of instruments below U.S. standards, lack of interior appointments for safety and comfort, and use of drag parachutes to slow its landings at certain airports.

All handicapped workers who desire jobs are invited to file applications with the TEC office. The committee in its approach to merchants and others points out several important factors: Handicapped workers have the same wide range of skills, abilities and interests as other workers.

407 Suspects Freed Of Charges In County Court

That fat volume titled "Criminal Docket, County Court" is a lot thinner today than it has been in many months.

The reduction has been achieved by the dismissal of 407 old complaints on file in the County Court Attorney John Richard Coffee has completed a check of the docket and has obtained dismissal for 407 cases which were on file but which had never been brought to trial.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, checked and signed the order instructing Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, to remove these cases from the docket.

Coffee explained that the oldest of the cases he dismissed goes back to 1949. Many were filed in 1952, 1953 and 1954. The youngest case to be dismissed, Coffee said, was one which had been on the blotter over a year.

The cases were those in which successful prosecution is deemed impossible. In a great many of the cases, Coffee pointed out, no arrest was ever made. This is particularly true in the mass of worthless check complaints thrown out. In others—again in the worthless check category—the defendant has paid off the check and the complaining witness is no longer willing to prosecute. In many others, where a considerable length of time has elapsed, efforts to find witnesses are futile. In some cases the defendants have long since left Howard County and their present addresses are not known.

YEAR AFTER YEAR

The cases where arrests were made and where the defendant originally entered a plea of not guilty have been carried on the docket from year to year. In the interval that has passed, chances of ever bringing the cases to trial has dwindled.

Coffee said that he ordered dismissal of 331 complaints where defendants have been charged with writing worthless checks. Twenty-six of the cases ordered thrown out of court alleged driving while intoxicated, first offense; 16 alleged theft; eight charged assault. Others are transfer cases from the corporation court and some involve such charges as evading payment of board and lodging, carrying concealed weapons and there is one charge alleging the defendant left the scene of an accident illegally. One case alleging illegal removal of mortgaged property is on the list. A number of complaints accuse the defendants of "threatening."

Probably the oddest case on the list is a charge filed many months ago alleging the defendant sold "devitalized nursery stock."

"I see no use in carrying these old cases on the docket," Coffee said. "The county will never be able to prosecute in most of them."

SOME PAID OFF

"This is particularly true in the 331 worthless check cases—in a great many instances no arrest was ever made. In others, the offender has long since paid off the check and the person who signed the complaint has never bothered to report the settlement to the court. If we attempted to try these defendants, we would have no witness to testify."

"In the DWI cases, the defendants seem to have pleaded not guilty and posted bonds. Many of these persons, we have discovered, no longer live in this area and are at present unavailable.

"Furthermore, trial of the cases by the court at jury terms would be a monumental task, which we could never complete."

He added that all cases which have been filed since last May when he took over the duties as county attorney are "still on the docket and still very much alive."

Recent experiences in trial of county criminal cases before juries have been rather disappointing in results achieved by the county. The process is tedious and only a few cases can be handled in a week's time. The average number of such cases which might be tried has averaged out around three a week.

If the county court set a continuous jury docket (which officials say is impossible) and could try one case a day of those on the docket prior to this general dismissal action, it would require more than a year and a half to complete the job. This, of course, would assume that all cases called for trial would be ready and that no delay in the procedure developed.

HERBERT FEATHER

Newspaper And Printing Firm To Merge At Snyder

SNYDER, Sept. 28.—The Snyder Daily News and the Feather Printing and Publishing Co. will merge, effective Oct. 1, Herbert Feather, publisher of the newspaper and head of the printing firm, announced today.

Both firms will continue to operate with their present facilities and with the present staffs of personnel, Feather said.

The Feather Printing and Publishing Co. is owned by Herbert Feather, J. F. Feather and Mrs. Erle Feather. Herbert Feather has been publisher of the Snyder Daily News since May of 1950, the year the newspaper was founded.

Herbert Feather was, for many years, advertising manager of the Herald before accepting the publishership of the Daily News. Mrs. Feather had been operating a women's apparel shop here.

Thomas has been with the Social Security Administration for several years working most of the time in West Texas and New Mexico. His most recent assignment, however, was as manager of the Social Security Office in Texarkana. His appointment as manager at Odessa is somewhat of a return home.

Thomas has been active in various civic and governmental organizations. He is a Scottish Rite Mason and Shriner. In Texarkana he was recently elected to a three-year term as Director of the Community Service Council.

Burke Johnson, former manager of the Odessa District Office, has accepted a promotion and transfer to the Regional Social Security Office at Dallas.

Whooping Cranes To Fly Southward

The last wild flock of whooping cranes will soon be on the move again.

To help them on their way, sportsmen's groups, state and national conservation officials have sounded this appeal:

"Do not shoot at any large white bird."

Aerial surveys conducted by the Canadian Wildlife Service in the vicinity of Wood Buffalo Park, Northwest Territories, indicate that some of these rare birds are already concentrating in the Sass River area in preparation for their 1,800-mile journey southward.

The National Audubon Society, in conjunction with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has conducted a research project on these nearly extinct specimen. The birds do not migrate in one large flock, but as small groups and as individuals. Those birds which did not nest, or are too young to have mated, usually migrate ahead of the family groups. These first migrants usually appear in the Dakotas after the first of September. Parents with young travel much more slowly, stopping to feed and rest along the way. The last of these family groups may still be along the flyway during early December.

No one should mistake a whooping crane for a duck or goose, and yet in the past some have been shot along the flyway. The adult whooping crane is a large white bird with a red crown on his head and jet black wing tips. It stands about three and a half feet tall. The young cranes usually are a brownish color, spotted with a few white markings and their call is similar to the sound of a bugle or a whoop.

The migratory route extends across the states of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas and people within those areas are asked to watch for them and to give them safe passage.

Highway Letting Slated Oct. 10-11

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Highway Department said today it will take bids Oct. 10-11 on 181 miles of road work. Bids are estimated to total more than 17 million dollars.

About 100 miles will be on farm roads. State and U.S. highways make up the other projects.

County CD Unit Being Organized

Howard County's civil defense and disaster set-up is being completely revised.

Details of this reorganization will be revealed at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 10 in the County Courtroom, W. D. Berry, coordinator, announced.

Under the revision, a citizens' advisory committee is being established to help shape and direct the program.

Mayor G. W. Dabney will be chairman of the committee and County Judge R. H. Weaver will be the vice chairman, and the two of them are co-directors.

Berry continues as the coordinator, the operating executive, Roy Black will be assistant coordinator and will function when Berry is unable to do so. Succeeding Black, who has been county supervisor of the ground observers corps, will be J. N. Young.

Personnel of the advisory council are the mayor, the county judge, the coordinator and eight members at large, plus institutional representatives.

Members-at-large, named by Judge Weaver for terms of one, two, three and four years respectively, are Harvey Adams, Knott, Dean Johnson, Vincent, Wayne Monroney, Forscan, and Lawrence Atkins, Lomax. Those named by Mayor Dabney are Mrs. Hubert Rutherford, Oscar Glickman, Brown Rogers and Douglas Orme.

Institutional representatives on the board include the commander of Webb AFB or his representative, executive director of the Red Cross chapter, president of the county medical society, president of the pastors association, president of the city P-TA council, county post advisor of the ground observer corps, commander of the Salvation Army, representative of the State Department of Public Welfare, and the mayor of Coahoma.

At the Oct. 10 meeting, a review of the local defense and disaster set-up will be made, said Berry. Evacuation, traffic and other emergency plans will be discussed.

Square Dancers Set Program For Season

The Lubbock Square Dance Federation has announced that the first guest caller of the 1957-58 season will be Marvin Shillings of La Veta, Colo. Shillings will call for the dance Oct. 3, 1957 at the VFW Hall, 1505-34th Street in Lubbock. The dance will start at 8 p.m.

The federation board chairman, Roy Parks, said that Evy Glasner has been selected as master of ceremonies for the coming season. The federation meets each first and third Thursday, October through April.

Fireball Muffler Now Operating In New Home

Fireball Muffler Service Company, a well-known business establishment of Big Spring for nearly four years, is now established in its modern new home at 1004 W. 4th, and is inviting its old friends and new friends to visit it.

A. J. Ball, owner of the company, has moved into his new concrete block building at the new location. The building, which Ball designed and built to serve the particular needs of his operation, contains 2,500 feet of floor space and offers ready accessibility to customers.

Fireball features 20-minute muffler and exhaust system service. The store stocks more than 1,000 items and is ready to provide muffler and exhaust equipment for all makes and models of cars.

Special machinery to facilitate workmanshiplike installations has been provided and Ball personally directs and performs the work. First line Marmont Mufflers, described as the best available, are featured. Installations are guaranteed.

The operators of the Fireball Muffler Service Company are Mr. and Mrs. Ball. They came to Big Spring four years ago. Recently they built and moved into their new home in Hilldale Addition. They have two daughters, Diana and Marsha, both of whom are junior high school students.

Ball got into the muffler and exhaust business as outgrowth of what used to be a hobby. For years he was in construction work specializing in pipe work. When he came here in 1952, he opened up his place at 1220 W. 3rd, and quickly built up a wide reputation for the quality of his work.

Bringing The News To Your Door

This is National Newspaper Week, and among the people who play a key role in making your newspaper a constant home companion are those responsible for delivery.

On the far-flung Herald motor routes, women occupy a place of importance, making long trips weekday afternoons and Sunday mornings, to provide area people the same quick service with the news that residents in Big Spring receive. Some of those who are Herald agents are pictured on this page.

Every day, cars and trucks fan out from The Herald office to cover the Big Spring territory, with six routes covering a total of 715 miles daily. These agents handle more than 2,000 papers, getting the news of the day to readers in Stanton, Lamesa, Ackerly, the Ackerly Route, Coahoma, Sand Springs, Westbrook, Colorado City, the Center Point Route, the Vincent Route, the Knott Route, and to Garden City and Forsan.

The world and local news is important, but it achieves that stature only when it is in the hands of the reader. People like these are the final link between the newspaper and its readers.

INTO HER STATION WAGON goes one stack of the 264 papers to be delivered by Mrs. James L. Smith, 1105 Pickens. She has made the run of about 109 miles round trip for 16 months, besides keeping house and taking care of three children. They are Gary, 6; Deanna, 5, and Mitchell, 2. Deanna goes along with her mother as she drives to Garden City, delivering The Herald in Elbow, back through the oil fields to the south of town, Forsan, and in the Silver Heels Addition. She is active in work in the Hillcrest Baptist Church, and for recreation, she likes to bowl.

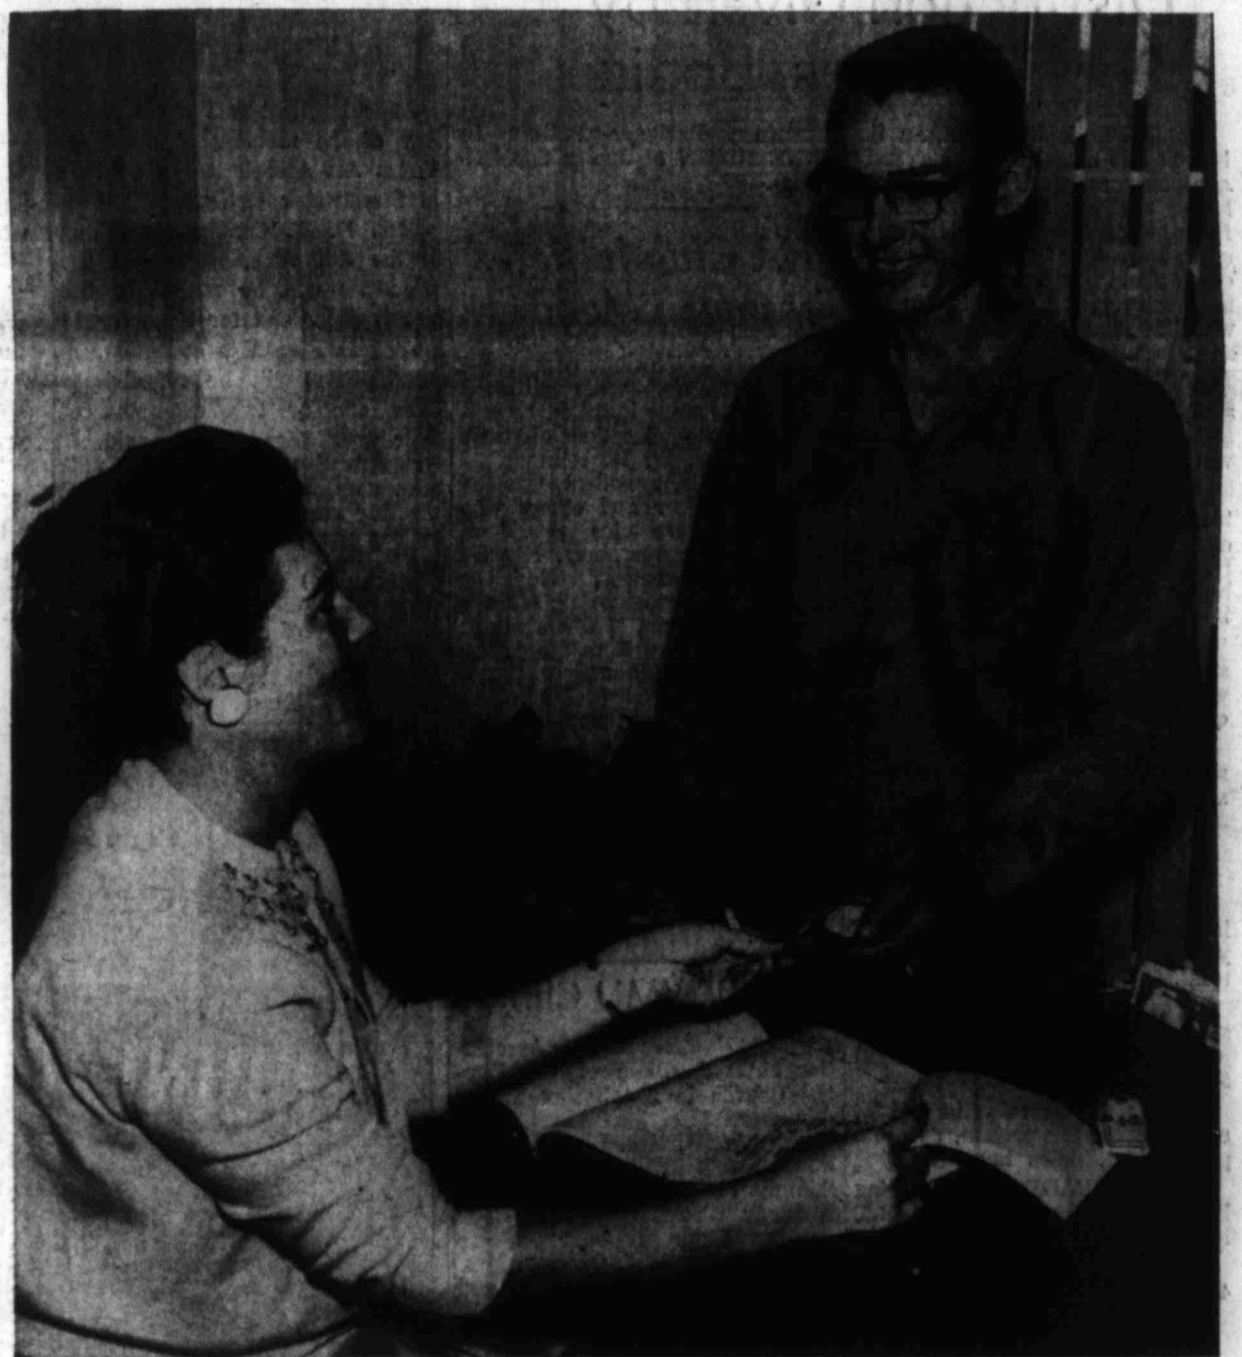

READY TO AIM A PAPER is Mrs. Curtis Hood, (above), 610 Main, who makes the drive to Colorado City to leave bundles of The Herald. She also delivers in Westbrook and on the way back, leaves papers in about 100 homes between Sand Springs and Big Spring. The route takes about two and a half hours a day, and she has had about three years of the work. A son, Larry, who is 11 years old, helped her during the summer, but now his sixth grade studies take up his time. A daughter, Louann, 16, is a sophomore in high school.

A SUPPLY OF ROLLED PAPERS before she starts the drive helps Mrs. G. W. Holt, (above), 3307 Maple, as she delivers The Herald on the Vincent Route. It takes her about four hours to make the round trip of about 130 miles, and she is always accompanied by her three children, Kathy, 6; Stevie, 5, and Marsha Ann, who is 3. There's no time left for a hobby, Mrs. Holt explained, but she does like to sew. That's a good thing, she thinks, since she has two little girls who love the new frocks she makes for them. She has had the route about five months.

QUITE A LOAD of papers Mrs. Marvin Hanson, (pictured at right), is preparing to stack in her car as she leaves for her drive to the Center Point area. She estimates that she travels about 54 miles each round trip, which takes her about two and a half hours. She delivers The Herald to 104 locations, and enjoys the drive, she said, since she knows nearly everyone along her way. Until Mrs. Hanson started the paper route, she drove a school bus. The Hanson home is at 312 Mesquite, and there are two sons, Lovell, 14, and Dwaine, 10.

OLDEST IN YEARS OF SERVICE in The Herald carrier department is Dickie Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Snyder, 1507 Gregg. In photo at right, he checks the money received from his deliveries with Mrs. W. H. Rosser, bookkeeper in the circulation department. Dickie has worked as a carrier since he was 12 years old, which is the starting age for the "Little Merchants." Now, he is employed in the insert division, which assembles the various sections of your Herald, such as comics, Family Weekly and the regular sections.

Family With Cool Name Makes Home On Tucson

For almost a month, now the Jack Frost family has made a home at 1505 Tucson. And "the family means Mr. and Mrs. Frost, nine-year-old Anna Karen and 13-year-old Owen; four cats, Squeaky, Inky, Dinky and Sylvester, and a talking parakeet, Pete. Pete, probably because he hears it so often, is quite adept at saying "Get up, Owen." Sylvester, a newcomer, joined the family just recently and took the place of Daisy, another cat, which disappeared.

Anna Karen lists "cat-raising" as her hobby, but Owen goes in for building model planes, hunting and fishing. In the latter two he joins his father, who also adds boating and gardening to his list of interests.

Mrs. Frost admits that although her hobby is gardening, she is

Scorned Girl Hard On Friend's Car

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Aaron Jones, 44, of Dayton sadly viewed the remains of his auto and reflected upon the fury of a woman scorned.

Jones told police a young woman became angry at a party he was giving and upon leaving went to work on his car.

Police said she had sprung both doors, tore up the front seat, smashed both headlights, tail lights and back-up lights; snapped the right windshield wiper, broke the horn ring, smashed the electric clock, broke both sun visors, tore off the accelerator and bent the gear shift lever.

NO BELT NEEDED

Distinction Given By Double Gores, Bodice

Mollie Parnis throws away the belt in this model in the currently accepted manner. Because she knows that her devoted American following prefers not looking like a sack, but rather like a woman who cares about her figure, she shapes the bodice, gives definition to the waistline and bosom, allows the skirt to flare.

The peaked gores of the skirt are precisely fitted into the bodice and are cut so that the hemline will never sag.

For the double collar, use a contrasting texture, satin on wool, for example, and repeat it for the cuff trim. Mrs. Parnis used leather buttons on the original with a ribbon tie.

Choose wool crepe, faille, alpaca, silk and wool mixtures or even winter cottons. For contrast — pique, linen or taffeta are suggested.

From this chart select the one size best for you:

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Neck to waist	Waist to hem
10	32	24	35	16 1/2	36 1/2
12	34	25	36	17 1/2	37 1/2
14	36	26 1/2	37 1/2	18 1/2	38 1/2
16	38	28	39	19 1/2	39 1/2
18	40	30	41	20 1/2	40 1/2

Size 12 requires 3 3/4 yards of 54-inch material for dress and 1/4 yard 36-39 inch material for contrast.

Before-Luncheon Chat

After a ride over from Colorado City for the Hyperion Council luncheon Friday, a cup of coffee just hit the spot for Mrs. George Mahon, wife of the guest speaker, Rep. Mahon, who always settles for tea. Joining in the conversation at Cosden Country Club were

State Representative Obie Bristow, Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, president of the council, and Mrs. Norman Read, who arranged the program for the occasion.

Rep. George Mahon Is Speaker For Hyperion Council Luncheon

"Women have a great stake in the future of our country, and it well-behoves them to assume some of the responsibility of public affairs," Rep. George Mahon told members of the Hyperion Council Friday at noon.

The group had assembled at the Cosden Country Club for the opening luncheon of the six clubs in the council.

Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, president, received guests as they arrived for the luncheon, and presented the guest speaker, Mrs. Mahon; Mrs. Norman Read, who arranged the program; and Obie Bristow, state representative.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Read introduced the speaker, who has served as representative of 19th District for 23 years. He told of the work of women in politics, mentioning especially a Washington favorite, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

"For the good of the country and of the interests of women," he told the group, "there are women in the state legislatures of the country as well as in Congress; they are in the foreign services and there are four federal judges who are women."

He spoke of the trend toward the elevation of human dignity, which is an excellent thing, the speaker told the group, in spite of the confusion attending the movement. The need is to avoid the confusion and to hope for a forestalling of conflict between East and West.

he said, discussing problems in various countries. During a question and answer period, Mahon discussed such subjects as the United Nations, segregation and the correspondence received by law-makers.

Members introduced their guests, and presidents of the clubs stood for recognition, with members of the various units.

Tables were decorated with runners of pyracantha berries and foliage, with head table marked by an arrangement of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums in a

Back In Place

APPMATOX, Va. — The marble statue of a Confederate soldier is back on its pedestal here after a three-year absence and Sheriff David T. Robertson is the modern hero of this Civil War surrender ground.

The statue was toppled by Hurricane Hazel in 1954. It shattered into many pieces. Souvenir hunters carried some away. Pleas by Robertson in newspapers caused return of the souvenir pieces. After three years he got all together with dental cement and the statue was rededicated.

MRS. CAROL E. BELTON

Carol Belton Marries Gerry Schwab Saturday

In a ceremony performed Saturday morning in New Braunfels, Gerry Schwab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bethold E. Schwab, became the bride of Carol E. Belton, of Big Spring.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. An original design by Sonia, the dress was created with a small lace collar, a shadow yoke of illusion and sculptured bodice fastened with small covered buttons. The tiny tulle ruffles overlaid with a lace apron fashioned the waltz length skirt. The fingertip veil was held by a small lace cap.

The bride's flowers were white roses laid in a crescent of English ivy and tied with lace streamers.

NUPTIAL MUSIC

Sister Mary Arcadius was organist for the ceremony and accompanied the Children's Choir as they sang "Panis Angelicus" and "Ave Maria."

Matron of honor was Mrs. Richard Albright of Houston, sister of the bride. Mildred Pesek of Galveston was maid of honor and Pat Fisk, also of Galveston, served as a bridesmaid.

All feminine attendants wore street length dresses of jade poudie sole styled with a boat neckline, a scooped out back and capped sleeves. The flared skirt was trimmed with a small dropped half belt on either side.

All three attendants carried bouquets of jumbo bronze chrysanthemums.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Randolph Gronle before an altar decorated with white gladioli and asters. Flanking the flowers were potted palms.

Serving the bridegroom were Stafford Babbitt of Houston, who was best man; Dan Krause of Big Spring; John Bonner of Houston, groomsmen; Jim Tarpey, Houston, Kelley Lawrence, Big Spring, and Bill Parkey, Galveston, were ushers.

For a traveling costume, the new Mrs. Belton chose a gray dress of French rayon with black and white accessories. The couple will be in Las Vegas, Nev., until they return here to make a home at 1724 Purdue.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Belton, Hingham, Mass., and is co-ordinator of manufacturing for Cosden Petroleum Corp.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding a reception was held at Hotel Faust.

The guests were served from the bride's table that was laid with an imported cloth of Irish linen. The three-tiered cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom, which were used on the wedding cake of the bride's parents and also that of her sister, Mrs. Albright.

Serving in the houseparty were Mrs. Elvera Knoeuper, Mrs. Arlon Koehler of New Braunfels, Joy Plak and Mrs. Stella Andrews of Galveston, and Mrs. Joan Rosenthal of San Antonio. Mrs. Roger Reining of New Braunfels registered the guests.

Good Time To Decorate Home Is Now

Now that the children are back in school, many mothers are finding that they have time to get in a little redecorating. First chore often turns out to be the bedrooms.

Washable bedspreads, slip-covers and drapes are a necessity, especially in homes with children and puppies. Now, it's possible to make spreads and curtains of top-sail, that long-wearing, gay and washable light-weight sailcloth that has been a standby in small-fry play clothes and is available in decorator widths of 48 inches.

The decorator topsail comes in patterns coordinated with solid colors. You may choose stripes, checks or plaids teamed with matching colors.

A fresh and pleasing combination is a pink and white striped bedspread with solid pink dust ruffle. Curtains may have plain valance and striped drapes.

Make a reversible bedspread, plain on one side, striped on the other, to go with a solid color dust ruffle. One full width of fabric goes down the middle of the bed, with a half-width stitched to each side to form the overhang.

Cut two complete spreads, one striped, one plain, round the corners at one end, and stitch right sides together around both sides and rounded end, leaving top open. Trim seams and turn to right side, just like a pillowslip. Press carefully to eliminate wrinkles and top-stitch open ends together.

Coordinated cafe curtains, in striped and plain topsail, make a good decorating note.

Next Tuesday the El Rodeo staff begins its sale of the 1956 El Rodeo. These books will be on sale through the months of October and November. There will be no sales in December or January as in the past because the number of annuals to be made has to be turned in to the printer by December 1. The staff believes that the annual will be better than ever, so make it a point to purchase a book.

Jean Fuqua has been placed on the annual staff. She has been appointed assistant art editor.

Monday Carolyn Sewell was elected to the post of secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class in a run-off election with Jane Cowper as her opponent. Students, it is your right to select your leaders. The pep squad was transported to the game in three buses. These girls are a great improvement to our cheering section and are winning fame with their card section. Keep it up, girls. They were taken to the dance which followed the game.

Snyder was our host for a dance at the Boy's Club in Snyder. Cookies and punch were served by the parents. Some of those who seemed to enjoy the dance were: Brenda Gordon, Donald Love, lady, Katie Thomas, Mike Mustang, Tony Thomas, Glen Whittington, Elaine Russell, Dwaine McHorey, Jacqueline Cox, Wendell Brown, Glenda Greenwood, Johnny Roy Phillips, Judy Purdue, J. D. Adams, Darlene Williams and Jesse McElreath.

Many people traveled to Lubbock to see the Texas Tech-A&M game, among them, two of our own students, Judy Cable and Nita Jones.

That is all for now. Hope you enjoyed the chat.

VALJEAN LACROIX

Valjean LaCroix Is Installed As Worthy Advisor Of Rainbow Girls

Big Spring Assembly No. 60, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, held public installation of officers Saturday evening in the Masonic Hall with Valjean LaCroix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaCroix, installed as worthy advisor.

Miss LaCroix chose "Purity" as her theme, white and blue for her colors and the gardenia as her flower for her term. White hearts with blue lettering were used as chair markers for the various stations. Arrangements of white asters were used in the decorations. The officers-elect were presented in an archway decorated with ivy and white and blue flowers.

The retiring officers opened the ceremony with a drill. The invocation was given by Cecil McDonald. Following the introductions, a special tribute was paid to the incoming worthy advisor by the officers forming a bow, three deep, each row holding a streamer making the bow blue, indigo and violet, while the choir sang "Someone Is Looking to You" to Miss LaCroix.

Installing officers for the formal ceremony were Barbara Coffee, outgoing worthy advisor as installing officer; Betty Anderson, marshal; Lynn Anderson, chaplain; Kathleen Soldan, musician and Carolyn Sewell, recorder.

The other officers were: worthy associate advisor, Sammie Sue McComb; charity, Kathien Thomas; hope, DeLores Howard; faith, Carol Ann Phillips; chaplain, Kay McGibbon; drill leader, Shirley Terry; love, Sherry Lurting; religion, Kathy Johnson; nature, Anne Homan; immortality, Judy Mitchell; fidelity, Marilyn Bigham; patriotism, Dane Mansfield; service, Diane Baker; confidential observer, Marilyn Phillips; outer observer, Linda Phillips; musician, Jerilyn McPherson; choir director, Sharon Gary, and prompter, Maudie Sammons.

The new officers paid a special tribute to the members of the advisory board with a drill and the choir sang "Always." The officers carried Rainbow Bibles decorated with white asters tied with white and blue ribbons and the Rainbow color streamers.

Immediately following the installation vows, Mrs. LaCroix presented her daughter, on behalf of the assembly, a Rainbow Bible decorated with a gardenia surrounded by purple flowers.

Miss LaCroix introduced her mother and father and presented them with an arm bouquet and boutonniere.

Barbara Coffee, outgoing worthy advisor, was presented a past worthy advisor's pin on a white gardenia and her gavel with the Rainbow color streamers with offices she has held printed on the ribbons.

A tribute was paid to Mrs. Tracy Roberts, past mother advisor, and Mrs. Noel Hull, present mother advisor.

Miss LaCroix was presented a Rainbow Ring by Mrs. Noel Hull, for her parents. Barbara Coffee sang "Moments to Remember." Dr. P. D. O'Brien was the guest speaker for the evening.

Beverly Alexander was presented with the "big sister award" by her "little sister," Carolyn Cross. Thirty-six girls received merit awards earned during the last term.

The refreshment table was covered with a white floor length organza cloth and interest was centered on a floral background for a doll dressed to represent the new worthy advisor.

Miss LaCroix's dress was a white floor length formal; the lace bodice had a scoop neckline and off-shoulder sleeves. The skirt was formed of tiered net ruffles with lace medallions and a full lace panel in the back.

She was initiated into Big Spring Assembly Feb. 23, 1954, and has held several offices. She was a member of the choir at Grand Assembly this year and is a member of the Grand Cross. She is vice president of the Senior High student council, cheer leader and active in various other high school organizations as well as Tri-Hi-Y. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church.

It is the custom of Big Spring Assembly to attend church in a group following each installation. The girls and board members will attend the First Baptist Church this morning.

Texas Models Will Show Home Sewing Fashions At State Fair

A bevy of glamorous Texas models will make home sewing news in the first Sewing Fashion Festival to be featured at the annual State Fair of Texas, in Dallas from Oct. 2 through Oct. 30. For the first time in the 72-year history of the Fair, a fashion show for home seamstresses will be presented, sponsored by six firms in the home sewing industry. Styles ranging from teenage through fashions for matrons will be modeled, and the Sewing Fashion Festival will dramatize the newest developments in home sewing. These will include not only the newest and most exciting fashions, but also new sewing techniques, the professional touches which give a home-sewn garment a custom-made look, and tips on fabrics. The festival will emphasize the fun and creative satisfaction to be achieved by sewing.

Shows will be presented twice daily and three times on Saturday and Sunday, in the auditorium of the Women's Building, the newest exhibit building on the State Fair Grounds.

The Texas models will show six capsule wardrobes, created by the six participating companies, and will join in a dramatic finale to show six evening creations.

Styles from Anne Fogarty, Edith Head, and Helen Barbieri, with typical Texas styles ranging from a suit and tailored shirtdress to the sculptured sheath will be shown. Designs from Givenchy and Trigerre, plus a fun design of patio culottes made of fur, will join daytime and party ensembles. One company will present new designs in an ingenious "collection, to show that by zipping various items together, a versatile wardrobe of coordinated fabrics is created. This ranges from slacks and tailored shirt to a dinner-and-theater outfit.

The grand finale will present the Texas models dramatic evening styles, a cocktail dress designed by Helen Barbieri; evening separates of red chiffon; a black wool crepe evening dress by Trigerre; a cotillon gown in white net; a grey satin evening gown with nylon padded lace applique, and a cloud-like evening skirt teamed with a party blouse.

Versatile Ensemble

A costume of rich pean de soie for the gracefully cut coat, and a sapphire brocade for a figure-bugging sheath will be a highlight of the Sewing Fashion Festival to be shown at the State Fair in Dallas Oct. 5-30. An air of elegance is given by the lining of silver lame in the coat, which can serve for afternoon or evening occasions.

Party Game

For fun at a party, try this: Clip an amusing story from a magazine or newspaper cutting each sentence apart. The leader keeps the first sentence and the others are jumbled. Each guest draws one. The leader reads his sentence and the others read theirs where they think they fit in. The result is sure to be funny and to provide many a good laugh.

Big Spring Sailor Tells Of Trip To Island Of Tahiti In South Seas

By HALEY HODNETT

I was in the newspaper office at Barber's Point Naval Air Station where I had been working as reporter for the past year, when the phone rang. The editor answered.

Telephone conversation had become a part of the noises to which I'd become accustomed, and I continued my work without paying much attention to what was being said, until I heard the editor mention "trip to Tahiti." Then I perked up.

"That was fleet headquarters' public information office," the editor informed me, later. "They want to borrow a man to go to Tahiti with USS Sussex. Interested?"

As simple as that! The following Monday I reported to Pearl Harbor and received a briefing about the trip and what was expected before boarding Sussex Aug. 1, the day she departed Pearl Harbor.

Once on board, I met some of the 100 Samoan-born U. S. servicemen who were hitchhiking a ride to their homes, courtesy of the Sussex.

BECOMES 'SHELLBACK'

Six days out of Pearl Harbor, the bow of the Sussex clipped the Equator. This called for ceremonies initiating all "polywogs" into the "Solemn Order of the Mysteries of the Deep." Age-old Navy tradition calls for an initiation of all members of any vessel to receive a thorough test, proving their ableness as seamen when they "cross The Line" for their first time.

King Neptune (the "shellback" whose certificate of crossing bears the oldest date) appeared from nowhere with his Royal Court, and the day was devoted to transforming us polywogs into sturdy shellbacks. After visiting the Royal Barber, we heard just about every Yul Brynner joke there must be.

At Pago Pago, Samoa, thousands of people greeted the Sussex, which was bringing home their sons, many for the first time in as much as 13 years. The welcome we received from the Samoans was tremendous. All doors were open.

After a weekend in Samoa, we left for Tahiti, thus getting a chance to see the South Pacific's fabled island. This in itself was a rare treat, as U. S. sailors seldom get the chance to visit this remote spot.

HARBOR QUIET

Once inside the quiet harbor at Papeete, her clear waters were calm as a lake. Yachts from the world over dotted the harbor. An irregular stream of two-wheeled traffic, bicycles, motor scooters and motor bikes, flowed along the waterfront.

Papeete is set at the foot of stand majestically with their heads in the clouds. The red and green corrugated roofs shone dully in the morning sun as the Sussex eased beside the dock. Sailors of the French Navy in crisp white shorts and red pom-pommed hats, helped tie up the ship as lines were heaved over. There was some official bustle about the docking though, as the French don't allow ships that lie over at Samoa to use a dock, for fear they might have picked up coc-nut bugs, which are dangerous to Tahiti's copra industry.

Finally, the ship was ordered to an anchorage off the pier, where her liberty launch began its transport of liberty-bound sailors. The first night in port was Saturday. People from all parts of the island came into Papeete for a weekend fling. Into the hours of the morning, hypnotic drums and the cries of Tahitian beauties could be heard as one would jump to her feet and, in a frenzy of motion, spell out an age-old dance for her American visitors.

BIG SPRING'S SIZE

The island of Tahiti is about twice the size of Howard County and shaped like a giant turtle. The turtle's head is Tahiti Iti and body Tahiti Nui, where Papeete is located. Papeete, the population center of the island, has about the same number of people as Big Spring. The island's main export is copra, dried coconut meat used in the manufacture of soap and perfumes. Fishing, as well as a principal pastime, is the island's key industry.

Tahitian, French and Chinese, in that order, with various combinations of the three races, constitute the majority of the island's beng he most attractive combination and the French-Tahitian the largest group.

Daytime was spent shopping in Papeete with sidewalk vendors selling grass skirts, kava bowls and wood carvings. Most shopowners are Chinese. They peer solemnly at you from their doorways, and are most courteous when you enter. Also, the prices they ask for shells, hats, and other curios are very reasonable.

After seven days Sussex crewmen bade a lingering farewell to what veteran crewmen described as "the best liberty port I ever hit... even better than Japan!" and headed for Samoa to pick up the leave takers there.

KAVA CEREMONY

During the second brief stay in Samoa, I witnessed Kava ceremonies in the Vaitogi Village, Tolupeni Lui, 18-year-old princess of the village, prepared white stringy taro root, which is used in making the kava drink. She began by beating the root and making a hemp-like fiber. This was dipped in the water of the kava bowl. On each side of her a young man of the village, tattooed from above the knees to just below the waist, sat cross-legged in lavas, eyeing the crowd.

An aged talking-chief also sat to her right, his job being to chant while the drink is served. After each dipping and squeezing, the princess would hand the root to one of the two young men who would then swing it around like a whip and pop the remaining water out. This makes the root even more flexible and easier to squeeze. After much squeezing and popping, the drink is considered ready. The old talking-chief, in his best voice, began a high-pitched chant that borders on yelling but has enough lyrical quality in the words to make it pleasing and impressive to hear.

SAMPLES DRINK

When he finished the chant, one of the young men beside the princess rose and presented the first coconut hull full of kava to the village's chief. He gulped it down, smacked his lips and handed the empty cup back. Between each serving, the talking-chief continued his chant until the cup was thrust in my face.

I eyed the white milky-looking substance warily before putting my lips to the cup. It had no taste at first, to my relief, making it easy for me to gulp it down without stopping. I had been informed that the kava, though non-alcoholic, could be intoxicating if consumed in great quantity, so I had no intentions of over-indulging. I rubbed my tongue over the roof of my mouth and tried to compare it with something I had tasted before. The nearest I could figure was that it tasted like fruit juice left in an open can, and left a coppery sensation like your mouth gets when sampling stagnant water.

Village high chief Togiananu Lui explained the method and reason for tattoos on the men's bodies. These are done by the village artist without guide lines, using only a shark's tooth tied between two twigs. The tooth is dipped in blue dye made from burned meat, and designs are painted into the body by pricking. The chief showed me his own tattoos but wouldn't permit photographs. He's a missionary now and can no longer approve this ancient practice.

SAILOR PROMOTED

In all, the cruise was an unusual one. One passenger, a Navy musician third class, was promoted to "chief" (of his own home village, of course) which is unheard of in the U. S. nautical service. On the Sussex we gave a lift to a cameraman who is touring the South Seas getting film for a nationwide TV program, and we sent a small boat through a coral reef to put ashore a native nurse whose services were needed on Swain's Island, a spot not often seen by regular steamers.

I was all eyes and ears throughout the trip, taking notes and mentally writing my story for Fleet Headquarters, and was making great progress until I tried some day-old Samoan on the high chief of Vaitogi Village. Using pidgin and one-syllable words I framed my opening question, whereupon he said:

"I'm Togiananu Lui. I'm retired from the U. S. Navy as a musician first class, and draw $175 a month pension from the U. S. government. That's not bad dough around here."

But even that wasn't enough to break the South Seas spell, and I'll be remembering the trip as long as any of Sussex's 77 crew members. What I'll remember most, probably, is the way Samoans have shortened my Texan "Y'all hurry back now" to one word, "Talofa!"

THE WORK BENCHES OF GOD

Christians are not turned out on assembly lines. The skill and patience of many a human soul, the blueprint of Christ's own example, and the unseen but mighty craftsmanship of the Creator Himself—these over the decades bring forth a noble Christian life.

There must be understanding, guidance, faith. There must be a Christian home with sincere, loving parents. There must be prayer, the Bible, worship, thought, study. And at length practice and persistence must win many a victory over self before the world begins to recognize the hand of God in the life of a man.

Nearby in the church you will choose, there are busy hands at the work benches of God. And room for more—your child's and your own!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Colorado City Methodists To Celebrate 75th Anniversary

COLORADO CITY, Sept. 28 — Colorado City's First Methodist Church will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee with a week-long program beginning October 27th, according to Rev. Clarence Collins, pastor. Church records indicate that the church was organized and received its first six members in April of 1882. They were J. F. Clayton, Mrs. Lee Clayton, Mrs. Catherine Cooksey, Mrs. Sallie Avery, Mrs. Lizzie Mullen and Mrs. A. S. Bell. The five were received by Rev. R. F. Dunn, a visiting pastor. The first pastor of the little church was Rev. Bascom J. H. Thomas, a youngster just out of Southwest University, assigned to the Colorado-Big Spring Mission. Thomas arrived in Colorado late on a cold fall night and found only one lighted building—a saloon. The saloon keeper gave him shelter and found him a place to stay the next day.

Thomas was probably busy, since sin was a major product of Colorado at the time. The little town was a lousy offspring of the Texas and Pacific Railroad, which had arrived the previous year.

The presiding elder of the church was J. T. L. Annis of Abilene and he and Thomas began to build a church which was completed in 1884. The original church still forms a part of the present building. The building was enlarged on several occasions and in 1950 a new educational building—much larger than the parent church—was built behind it.

Despite the enlargement program of the church and the construction of the Educational Building, a steadily growing membership seemed to indicate the spreading out of Methodist membership in Colorado City and in 1952, the First Methodist Church sponsored the organization of St. Luke's Methodist Church. St. Luke's proved to be a thriving offspring of the parent church and now has its own building and parsonage.

The First Methodist Church is now completing a spacious new parsonage for its pastor—the building to be completed in time for Rev. Collins to be in new quarters by Diamond Jubilee time.

The present parsonage, a two-story brick in excellent condition, will be used as an adjunct to the educational building.

Present membership of the church is 725, according to Rev. Collins.

Policemen To Open Month's Schooling

City policemen will find class-work added to their daily schedule for a month beginning next Tuesday.

Under the sponsorship of the city and the Extension Service of Texas A&M, a special police training school will be held four days weekly during October, C. L. Rogers, police chief, said.

Two separate four-hour classes will be held each day to enable every member of the department to take the training. The evening shift will go to school from 8 a.m. to noon each day, while the day and night shifts will be in the classroom from 2 p.m. to 6 Mondays through Thursdays.

Coordinator for the school and also an instructor will be Wallace Beasley. He is an instructor for the Texas Municipal Police Training School, a part of the Extension Department.

He will have Ira Scott and Ed Powell as instructors from out of town, plus police officers from other cities in the state. These officers will be here for only one day each during the month. Rogers said that Gil Jones, district attorney, and District Judge Charlie Sullivan, and possibly Eldon Mahon, district attorney at Colorado City, will participate.

Covered in the school will be authority of policemen, laws of evidence, patrol methods, police tactics, criminal law, criminal investigation, and public relations.

Rogers said the sheriff's department had been invited to take the training as had law-enforcement officers at Lamesa, Snyder, Colorado City, Sterling City, Garden City and Stanton. Also included in the invitation were Webb AFB Air Police and the special investigators there.

The city annually sends two policemen to the school at Texas A&M, but the chief said it would be cheaper and more profitable for the instructors to come to Big Spring and present the school here.

Rains Further Help Outlook For State Crops

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 28 — Rains further improved the outlook for fall and winter crops and pastures, the Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"Small grains are expected to make fast growth and provide early grazing for livestock and the moisture is an aid to planting," said Director J. E. Hutchison.

The rains missed the Panhandle and South Plains.

District Agent Knox Parr at Amarillo reported continued dry weather was hastening the harvest on grain sorghums, silage and vegetables. Most wheat had been planted. Cattle were moving to feeder ranges in fair condition. W. H. Jones reported from Lubbock a few bales of cotton were being ginned. The chance of an early frost threatens a fine prospective crop. Sorghum was being harvested. Crops are good.

Rains fell over part of far West Texas east of the Pecos River but other district counties were dry.

The cotton harvest was gathering speed. No labor problems had been reported. Fall sheep shearing was on in the Edwards area and few ewe lambs were leaving the district. Most are being kept for replacements. Livestock was in poor to good condition.

In the San Angelo area, good rains supplied needed moisture. Sorghum in the Nolan County area was maturing rapidly with yields good. Livestock in most counties was in fine condition.

Cotton was opening in Taylor County.

Three Farm Loan Associations To Vote On Consolidation Plan

Stockholders of three national farm loan associations in this area will ballot soon on a proposal to consolidate.

Representatives from the Martin-Midland National Farm Loan Association, the Big Spring Farm Loan Association Saturday recommended the merger as a means of strengthening operations.

Ed Carpenter, Vincent, was named temporary president of the consolidated association, provided it is approved in the three referendums Martin Murphy, Hermleigh, was elected temporary vice president, and other temporary directors were B. A. Harris, Garden City, Max West, Snyder, J. C. Franklin, Midland, Marion Yell and Mike Anderson, Stanton.

The Big Spring group will vote on consolidation Oct. 11, the Stanton group on Oct. 12 and the Snyder group on Oct. 22. The three had extended the Colorado City association an invitation to join operations, if the Mitchell group were to consider taking part in an area set-up.

If approved, the consolidated unit would have something like 700 loans in the three associations in the aggregate amount of $3 1/2 million. Combined capital stock would approach $200,000. The name would be the Big Spring National Farm Loan Association with H. M. Fitzhugh, Big Spring, as secretary-treasurer, and John Storey, Stanton, and E. J. Richardson Jr. as assistant secretaries. Effective date, if approved, was set for Nov. 1.

The proposal to combine fits into a general pattern over the state.

FOR STATE HOSPITAL

Advisory Council To Be Organized

Permanent organization of the Big Spring State Hospital Advisory Council will be effected at a meeting to be held Monday evening.

It is called for 7 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce offices. A pre-organization steering committee will report on a suggested program of policy and procedure, and will submit nominations for officers of the Council.

The Council, to be made up of representatives from various civic, church, fraternal and study organizations, will serve in a coordinating capacity to widen the scope and increase the effectiveness of volunteer work being done with mental patients.

It will function in liaison with the State Volunteer Councils for Mental Hospitals, and also the Texas Society for Mental Health.

Local activities will be channeled under the general supervision of Mrs. Doris Thurman, coordinator of volunteer services at the State Hospital, working under Dr. Wm. V. Horbaly, superintendent of the hospital.

A full outline of the Council's program will be given at the Monday evening meeting. Notices have gone out to about 80 representatives, and a full attendance is urged.

Fairview Gin Has New Lint Cleaner

Installation of a Moss Lint Cleaner in the Fairview Gin has been announced by J. R. Dillard and C. Meek, owners.

Addition of the equipment places the gin in the ranks of the most efficient plants in the country, the owners said. It is claimed that cotton cleaned by the Moss Lint Cleaner is raised a full grade or more. The equipment also is said to assure uniform staple length.

The cleaner was custom designed for the Fairview Gin.

"We believe it will give cotton growers of our section the opportunity of making more profit from every bale of cotton," said Meek and Dillard.

Chaplain Marvin Berkeland Joins State Hospital Staff

The Rev. Marvin A. Berkeland has assumed his duties as chaplain of the Big Spring State Hospital.

Prior to coming here, Chaplain Berkeland was assistant chaplain supervisor for the Austin State Hospital in Austin. Previously he has been in pastoral clinical training under the auspices of The Council for Clinical Training, Inc., 2 East 103rd Street, New York 29, N. Y. Among training centers where he served are Wilmar State Hospital at Willmar, Minn., Topeka State Hospital, Topeka, Kans. and the Austin State Hospital.

Open Houses Urged On Publishers For Newspaper Week

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 — Texas publishers were urged today to show the public what makes a newspaper go with open houses during National Newspaper Week Oct. 1-8.

"Publishers owe it to their townspeople to tell the newspaper's story," said Jimmie Gillentine, president of the Texas Press Assn. and publisher of the Hereford Brand.

Gillentine said emphasis again would be placed on the freedom of the press.

Gov. Price Daniel joined Gillentine in urging "due recognition of the contributions of a free press." In proclaiming Newspaper Week in Texas, Daniel said:

"Texas newspapers and newspapermen have consistently shown recognition of the great obligations and responsibilities which go with freedom of the press."

It takes a GIANT to reach across a river

A giant bridge stands as a familiar landmark on the local scene, conveying its traffic to a specific destination. And just as familiar is the daily newspaper, a giant medium continually conveying news and advertising into almost every home in the nation.

More than 57,000,000 newspapers are bought daily, reaching almost every prospective customer in the land. And just as a bridge connects people on opposite shores, so does the daily newspaper link people on opposi-ties of business—the buyers and the sellers of goods.

For wholesalers, distributors, retailers and regional manufacturers the newspaper is an indispensable courier. It calls on practically all families in the local market and waits to be read at their convenience.

If you want the fastest way to get your story across, you should be using the daily newspaper. It's the surest bridge between you and the people you want to sell.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Fun From Tops To Bottoms In 'Pajama Game' Musical

"The Pajama Game," film version of the Broadway hit, plays Sunday through Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

The film stars Doris Day and John Raitt, plus members of the Broadway cast, Carol Haney, Eddie Foy Jr., and Thelma Felish.

"The Pajama Game" reputedly is even better in its film version than as presented on the stage—the complete reverse of the usual state of things. The play ran for

These are four of the five people who have been given the power to destroy the human race. An alien being whose people covet the Earth is the villain of the piece. The Earthlings must each make a decision on whether to use their awful power and thus depopulate our planet so the aliens may move in.

'27th Day' Science Film Due At Ritz

An American newspaperman, an English beauty, a German scientist, an Iron Curtain soldier and a Chinese peasant girl are mysteriously whisked aboard a spaceship by a creature from another world and are given capsules capable of destroying all human life on earth. This is the starting theme of "The 27th Day," playing Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

What will they do? What will their governments force them to do? These are the all-important questions that torment them.

CINEMA COMMENT

A long-awaited movie arrives this week, the film version of the long-run Broadway hit, "The Pajama Game." The plot of the musical centers around labor-management troubles, but without the propaganda that usually goes along with this particular issue. It's all music and spoofing.

Some of the famous songs you will hear include "Hey There" and "Hernando's Hideaway," the latter having made the hit parade by the show's star, Carol Haney.

Doris Day and John Raitt fill out the rest of the top billing. The three of them, plus a large cast, turn the pajama factory into a riotous scene very few factories have ever experienced.

It was from the "Pajama Game," incidentally, that a new-widespread custom was inaugurated: the sharing of an oversized pair of pajamas by married couples, with the tops on Mama and the bottoms on Papa.

"The Pajama Game" is highly recommended for all those who are tired of guided missiles, nuclear bombs. Little Rock and high cost of living.

The Robinson-Basilio fights are

'Bayou' Story Of Swamp Country

"Bayou" is a rough and rugged movie tale of the swamp country of Louisiana, showing Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

Peter Graves is starred as the outlander who enters the swamps only to find a deadly enemy. Lita Milan is starred as the swamp girl who provides the romantic interest and a dangerous triangle.

Patricia Medina Is 'Buckskin Lady'

Patricia Medina is seen in the lead role of "Buckskin Lady," showing Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre. She is cast as a frontier woman caught up in the machinations of an outlaw.

Richard Denning is seen as a gun-slinging doctor who saves the heroine from a fate worse than death.

Jerry Lewis Film In Return Showing

Jerry Lewis returns to the screen of the Jet Drive-In Theatre Thursday through Saturday in "The Delicate Delinquent," his first movie without his former partner, Dean Martin.

Lewis, injecting human interest into his well-known riotous capers, portrays a youngster who is salvaged by a police officer and, in turn, decides to become a policeman himself.

three successful years on the Great White Way.

All the original Richard Adler-Jerry Ross songs are in the film, including two that made the Hit Parade: "Hey There" and "Hernando's Hideaway."

Miss Day plays the role of Babe Williams, the cutie who can belt out a song and make love on a porch swing with equal velocity. Leading man is Raitt, whose big voice and handsome features may

PLATTER PALAVER

By Rodney Sheppard

Are you a Frank Sinatra fan? If you are, you can look forward to a new album soon to be released with songs from the movie "The Joker Is Wild." Frank stars in the movie as Joe E. Lewis. A single record has already been released and is enjoying a great deal of popularity in the local area. The new single is "Chicago" backed with "All the Way." Both tunes are oldies with a slight touch of modern arranging.

The ("Little Darlin'") Diamonds may have another hit on their hands with a red-hot release from Mercury. It's "Cool Daddy" and "Silhouette." "Daddy" side is a rhythmic rocker while "Silhouette" is in the slower vein. Early indications tend to hint toward a "big one" for the group.

One of the most beautiful and soothing ballads to come to the charts for some time is currently in the top-10 tunes. Kar Starr has the best version of "My Heart Reminds Me." This is the first record to turn into "plastic gold" for Kay since her "Rock and Roll Wedding" of some years back. Also having recorded the song are Richard Haymen, Ted Heath, Nick Noble, Billy Vaughn and several others.

It is sometimes interesting to look at the popularity charts of Europe in comparison to those of the U. S. Contrary to what many people believe, the two continents have similar taste in music. Elvis Presley is one of the top names in the record business in Britain. Also taking places on the British charts are American stars Pat Boone, Tommy Sands, The Diamonds, Billy Ward, Harry Belafonte and Johnnie Ray. One of the biggest turnouts for many years in London was a recent rock and roll show from the U. S. It seems as though music is certainly internationally enjoyed and may some day be a stepping stone to world unity.

We might mention that a new fall TV show is spotlighting hit records of the present as well as the past. Patty Page is hostess each week to the top performers of the hit records. KEDY-TV spotlights the show each Wednesday night at 9 o'clock. It's one full hour of musical entertainment with the very finest entertainers to be found. "The Big Record" also gives the public a chance to see the singers they listen to on the radio and record players.

Columbia has just released a new line of albums for fall sales and we would recommend two of them specifically. "The Pajama Game" is a sound track recording of the big hit musical on Broadway a few years ago and now enjoying new popularity in the movie version. Many of the originals from the Broadway cast are in the movie including the male lead, John Raitt, who plays opposite Doris Day in the movie version. Some of the more popular tunes on the album are "Hey There," "Steam Heat," "Her Is," and "Hernando's Hideaway."

The other Columbia album is "Now Hear This" with the Hi-Lo and Frank Comstock's orchestra. The group's third package on the label may well be its best to date. Outstanding vocal as well as band arrangements for the Frank Comstock outfit are woven into a variety of moods and tempos, from straight ballads to calypso and folk numbers to gently spoofing folks where a few toes are lightly stepped upon. "Heather on the Hill" and "My Time Is Your Time" are two of the better selections on the album.

'D.I.' Returns

Jack Webb, noted star of the TV production, "Dragnet," portrays a tough drill instructor in the film, "The D.I.," returning Thursday through Saturday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre. The film's thesis is that tough handling in the first days of military life results in a finer brand of soldier, and Webb goes after his recruits with hammer and tongs.

Capule comments:

"20 Million Miles to Earth." A souped-up Frankenstein tale.

"Ballout at 43,000." Interesting to the air-minded. Jerry Lewis proves he doesn't need Dean Martin, and adds a little human interest to his slapstick.

Jim Davis is shown in a scene from "The Badge of Marshal Brennan," showing Tuesday and Wednesday at the State Theatre.

NEW DEALER FOR JEEP LINE
Truman Jones surveys models of utility vehicle

Truman Jones Motor Co.- Jeep Distributor Here

New distributor for the Willys Jeep in the Big Spring area is the Truman Jones Motor Company, 403 Runnels Street.

Details were completed this past week for the franchise, and various Jeep models already are on display at the motor firm.

Jones announced that he will maintain a complete line of the famous utility vehicle, and also will have a full inventory of parts, and be equipped for full servicing.

He pointed out that the service department manager, Marvin Hayworth, has as an assistant H. M. Rowe, who has had many years experience in servicing the Jeep.

Jones, also dealer for Lincoln and Mercury here, has been in the automotive business for 25 years, and has been in business in Big Spring for 10 years. "I am happy to announce the addition of the Jeep line by our firm," he said, "and I feel that it can broaden our offerings to the Big Spring area with a line of utility cars designed and adapted for almost every service."

The Jeep, which gained fame as a "workhorse" in World War II, has since proved its versatility in a wide range of automotive demands. The line is headed by the popular Universal model termed "the world's most useful vehicle."

There are also such models as the hardtop delivery, the two-wheel drive Jeep dispatcher, the Forward Control 4-wheel drive trucks.

Mosquito, Fly Crops Smaller

Despite a summer conducive to mosquitoes and flies—moisture and moderate temperatures—the city sanitarian reported less of these pests this summer than in past years.

Lige Fox, city sanitarian, attributed the smaller numbers of flies and mosquitoes this summer to two natural causes—an abundance of marine life and the rains. Fox said he personally saw fewer pests and had fewer calls this year than in the past.

Actually the rains should have produced large numbers of mosquitoes, but the frequency of the showers kept the crop down, Fox said. He added that the mosquitoes did not have time to multiply when their small breeding ponds were frequently washed out by rains.

In addition, Fox said that the large amount of marine life in ponds and streams in the immediate area helped keep down the number of mosquitoes. Whereas in past years the amount of marine life has been small—especially in the dry years—it was extraordinarily large this year. Fox said he could find no reason for the large number of minnows and other fish in ponds.

As a result, the marine life kept ponds free of mosquito eggs. Fox said the health unit was not forced to oil any ponds in the area this summer while most of them have been oiled at least once per year in the past.

Open House Slated At Cotton Classing Station In Lamesa

LAMESA — Members of a committee on arrangements for an open house at the newly completed cotton classing sub-office in Lamesa have made plans for the formal opening on Oct. 5.

It was reported at the meeting that Department of Agriculture officials have tabbed the Lamesa office as the finest in the country. Officials stated that the Lubbock classing office is the largest in the nation, but that Lamesa's office is the most modern.

The open house will be held from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m., with the Round Up Club of the Chamber of Commerce serving coffee, cold drinks and doughnuts. Members of the club will also serve as guides in showing visitors the mechanics of the classing office.

SUPPORT IS URGED

Proclamation By Gov. Daniel Backs United Funds, Chests

Gov. Price Daniel has proclaimed September, October and November as "United Community Campaign Months" in Texas.

In his official proclamation, issued at the Capitol in Austin, Gov. Daniel said that "United Community Campaigns, frequently called United Fund or Community Chest drives, deserve the support of everyone."

Copy of the governor's proclamation was received here last week, on the eve of the opening of the 1957 finance campaign of the Howard County United Fund. The drive gets under way Monday morning with the opening of solicitation in the Advance Gifts Division.

Goal of this year's local effort is $89,100. Scores of volunteer workers will seek to raise the funds. K. H. McGibbon, general chairman, said plans call for completion of the campaign in five weeks.

Last year, Howard County citizens contributed $87,550 to the United Fund, with the money being used for operation of local welfare and character development agencies.

Here's text of Gov. Daniel's proclamation: "Many worthy activities benefit from this unified approach, and the contributor has the added satisfaction of knowing that whatever

Guided Missile Flight Success

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—The Air Force says the first flight of a Matador guided missile from New Mexico to Utah was a success.

The big surface-to-surface missile was escorted on the flight of about 600 miles from the Air Force missile center here to a range at Wendover Air Force Base, Utah, last week by four jet fighter planes.

The Air Force says it plans similar off-range tests from time to time and jet escort planes accompanying the missile will be able to destroy them if trouble develops.

he or she gives will be used for the greatest possible good.

"These coordinated efforts to raise operating funds for local agencies make fund-raising more efficient and equitable."

"Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the months of September, October and November, 1957, as United Community Campaigns months in Texas, and urge all of the people of our State to participate generously in the campaigns which are carried on in their local communities."

Plane-Car Crash

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP)—Constable J. G. Thompson of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was severely injured when the wheels of a landing Trans-Canada Air Line passenger plane struck the roof of his patrol car.

The plane landed without difficulty. The patrol car was on a highway skirting the airfield.

Webb AFB Band To Lead Parade At Andrews Fair

Featured in opening day activities of the Andrews County Fair Thursday will be the 24-piece Webb Air Force Base Band. The band will lead the opening day parade and will play a concert at the Fair Grounds the same evening.

T-Sgt. Herbert Bilhartz is band leader. Baritone vocalist with the band is A-2C Charles D. Turpen of Odessa.

Plans call for the Webb Band to be enlarged to full concert proportions and Sgt. Bilhartz states he has vacancies for flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, French horn, and trumpet. Young musicians who play any of these instruments and are interested in joining an Air Force band may contact Sgt. Bilhartz at Webb, or they may get in touch with T-Sgt. Omer L. Binlon, Air Force recruiter.

A new Air Force regulation permits musicians with no prior military service to enlist directly in the band of their choice.

The Webb Band serves most of the Air Force Bases and many civilian communities of West Texas playing parades, concerts, dances, and other events.
