Editor Says Most Little Rock Citizens Will Obey The Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Arkansas editor says most white citizens of Little Rock, although opposed to racial integration, are willing to comply with the Supreme Court's school integration decree.

Harry Ashmore, executive editor of Little Rock's Arkansas Gazette, said yesterday on a TV interview that "we could have done so without trouble" were it not for the actions of Gov. Orval Faubus. Ashmore said the governor's moves in the Little Rock school crisis were politically motivated.

The editor said it was a "dreadful" possibility that the Arkansas Legislature might close Central High School, center of the integration row in Little Rock. Faubus has said he is considering asking the Legislature to take such a step.

Federal troops now are on duty at Central High to enforce court orders requiring admission of Negro pupils. The paratroopers were ordered to Little Rock after mob violence by segregationists.

Ashmore said he believes "the first reaction of Little Rock to the appearance of federal troops was one of relief" after more than three weeks of tension and some disorders. But he added that "now, since order has been restored, we look out and see federal troops . . . on our streets—it's an incredible sight." He said the troops should be withdrawn as soon as possible.

Referring to Faubus' description of him as an "ardent integrationist," Ashmore said he is ardent in upholding law and order. "This is the only issue before the people of the South and of my town," he said.

Ashmore noted that the federal courts twice had upheld the Little Rock school board's minimum plans for spaced-out integration.

"I believe that a high proportion of the white citizens of our town do not want their schools integrated," Ashmore said. "This has not been the question at all. The question was whether we could, with order and good will, comply with the law, or whether we would resist . . . I believe that considerable majority . . . support the proposition that we should have complied and believe that we could have done so without trouble had the governor not acted as he did."

Ashmore, who served on Adlai Stevenson's staff during the Democratic presidential candidate's unsuccessful campaign, said the Democratic party has been "badly damaged." He said Faubus had "virtually invited a split in the Democratic party in the South." However, he said it was too early to estimate the impact of the Little Rock events on next year's congressional elections or the 1960 presidential race.

Rep. Powell (D-NY), one of three Negro members of the House, said the Democrats have done nothing to help integration in Little Rock. He said in a TV interview, "I don't see how the Democratic party is going to keep the Negro vote . . ."

LIFE WITH MUSIC

Instrument Choice Important Factor

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS

What instrument to study is the query in the minds of many students and their parents as the school year begins.

The piano, of course, is the most comprehensive. Its literature is the greatest and the player can enjoy the fullest play of tonal richness and color from the music of ancient times to the most abstruse experiments of contemporary composers. It is the finest of solo instruments and the customary accompaniment of most others.

PIANO BEFORE ORGAN

Organ is best studied after a secure basic training on the piano. Since it is available only in churches and a few other places, frequently even rehearsal time must be scheduled and paid for.

In recent years, the accordion has become very popular. It is portable and easy for a beginner to learn, having many of the advantages of the piano, though suitable music is limited.

A stringed instrument is a great advantage in later life to the student who wants to enjoy music without making it his career. Community symphonies always have room for more string players and small groups or ensembles easily can be formed. Stringed instruments require some hard work at the beginning of study, as well as a sensitive ear for intonation, but they are particularly rewarding in the long run.

Most public schools stress woodwind and band instruments in order to have marching bands for the various school sports and other functions. While they are not especially easier to play, they are much simpler for the instructor to teach. Players who really become proficient also may gravitate in later life to local symphonies and other groups for fun.

LEARN TO PLAY WELL

The prospective student should select the instrument whose tone most appeals to him, and then devote himself to learning to play it well. The groundwork may not be easy, but the skill once attained will help to make life easier in years to come.

COURT ACTIONS

As for future government moves in the Little Rock situation, Ashmore said, "My guess is that the federal government will move now through court action. It will be a few days against leaders of the mob . . . around Central High School." He did not say what form he thought those court actions would take.

Meanwhile, a panel of Southern newsmen offered varying opinions on what effect the use of troops in Little Rock would have on the South in general. They appeared yesterday on a special CBS-TV program on the integration problem.

"Bitterness" was the term used by both Joseph B. Parham, editor of the Macon (Ga.) News and W. D. Workman Jr., correspondent for two South Carolina papers, to describe the reaction in their areas.

But Weldon James, associate editor of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal, said the attitude in the border states seems to be

Divorce Case Nags British

LONDON (AP)—Buckingham Palace is concerned about evidence that might emerge if a close friend of Prince Philip is sued for divorce, a leading British newspaper says.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express said the wife of Lt. Cmdr. Michael Parker, former secretary to Philip, is preparing a divorce petition to be presented next month.

Palace officials are worried, the newspaper said. It added: "One of their anxieties is that, whereas the British newspapers are forbidden by law to publish the detailed evidence given in divorce cases, the foreign press is not similarly inhibited."

After a report in February that Parker and his wife were separated, Parker resigned as secretary to Philip. But he and the prince are still friendly and he sometimes calls at the palace.

Armored, Air Defense Units To Be Dropped In Army Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—One armored division and 14 air defense battalions will be dropped by the Army as part of its drive to cut 100,000 men from its strength by next June 30.

The announcement last night did not specify which units would be affected, but said the number of troops at various posts also will be cut back, with some of the installations being closed.

The greater part of the reduction, 71,000 men, will be accomplished by Jan. 1, the Army said, with the remaining 29,000 being eliminated by next June 30.

To the extent possible, the cuts will be concentrated in administrative, supply and special activities so maximum combat strength can be maintained.

The Army cuts are part of an overall reduction of 200,000 men in the armed services ordered by Secretary of Defense Wilson in separate orders last July 16 and Sept. 19. The cut will leave the Army with 900,000 men.

An armored combat command will be substituted for one of the two armored divisions now in the United States, the Army said. The two are the 1st Armored at Ft. Polk, La., and the 4th Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex. The Army did not say which one would be affected.

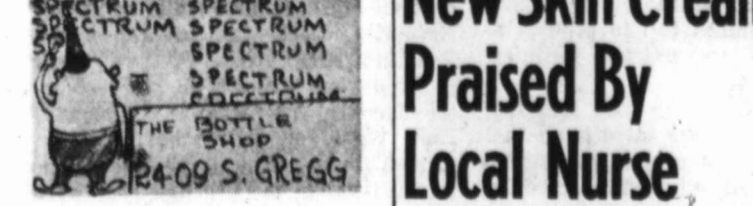

The armored combat command will have 5,000 men. The strength of an armored division is about 14,600.

The air defense battalions to be eliminated will be either gun or sky-sweeper units. The Army said the need for them is being reduced with the development of new air defense missile units.

The Army said it will be necessary to "phase down or close" some posts, camps and training stations.

A Bible Thought For Today

Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all other things shall be added unto you. (Matt. 6:33)

Blaze Marks On The New Trail

From Washington comes the news that motorists will soon be seeing a new marker designating official route numbers on the great new network of interstate super-highways.

It will be an adaptation of the small shield that has been in use for years to mark "federalized" highways—those built with money partly supplied by the federal government, or by state or private money and later designated as part of the federal system. (State toll roads that have been incorporated into the interstate defense systems will be the first to get the new marker.)

The shield will be in red and blue, and reflectorized to permit of easy night reading. This last touch should add a great deal to the convenience of the public. The old dead black-on-white shields were very difficult to read at night.

The old shield was created in 1926. Incidentally, the new one will go up on 2,100 miles of state toll roads, a surprising total for people who haven't kept track of the rapid growth of toll roads, of which Texas recently opened its first, privately owned, between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Texas not only has one of the best systems of highways in the country—though much of it is in need of repairs and widening—but one of the best-marked systems in the country.

You don't know how to appreciate these markers until you travel in some of the other states where they are few and far between. On Texas' principal highways you're never at a loss as to your whereabouts, the distance to the next town, the number of the route, and the condition of the road ahead.

The principal streams are indicated on bridge approaches, and this is a thoughtful service that most people appreciate. The only complaint we have to register under this heading is that there are not enough of these "name" signs; every large creek, as well as all rivers, should bear a name, for many of our small streams have their own historic interest to Texans if not to tourists, and the names some of them bear are intriguing—like Wagontown and Dead Man, for instance, and down between Austin and Bastrop, Onion Creek.

Human Nature Prevailed

In June, at the request of the Chamber of Commerce Parking Committee, the Commission in our neighboring city of Abilene made parking on downtown business streets free to everyone all day Saturday.

The theory was that it would make more parking spaces available to shoppers.

What happened? Well, this statement from the committee to the commission explained everything:

"The committee now feels that the plan in effect did not work very well due to the fact the employees took advantage of the free parking and thus defeated the purpose of free parking for customers."

Thus the commercial instinct of self-preservation ran up against human nature, and as is most often the case human nature won. It was the first time in many years anybody who works downtown had a chance to park free on a business day, and they spent an enjoyable summer of Saturdays doing it.

So they moved in by the dozens, and shoppers found fewer than the normal number of parking spaces.

And speaking of downtown parking, double-parkers gum up the works with increasing frequency. It is one thing to double park only long enough to take on or put out a passenger, quite another to block traffic for five or 10 minutes. Service trucks are the worst offenders.

Among Casualties—The Republican Party

WASHINGTON—The casualties in President Eisenhower's war against the states will be counted for years to come, but as of today the biggest casualty is the Republican Party.

Irrespective of what the President's political advisers may have intended, the action taken in Arkansas will boomerang. If anything were needed, in view of the adverse economic conditions now prevalent, to insure the defeat of the Republican party in the congressional and presidential elections in 1958 and 1960, it is the hasty, impulsive action taken in bringing back an era of "government by injunction" enforced by military power. Labor strikes involving any disorder not now being promptly squelched by federal troops if "equal protection of the laws" means what the President says it does.

For every Negro vote gained by the Republicans, there will be ten Republican white votes lost in the North—many of them labor-union votes. They will be lost either through stay-at-home tactics or direct voting for Democratic nominees. The President might as well kiss goodbye to his legislative program for the next two years—it will be sabotaged by a vengeful Congress dominated by Southern leaders.

Resentment is nation-wide and, though it may not be a numerical majority in the North as a whole, it means a big enough defection in the Republican party to swing the electoral vote of state after state.

As for the South, it may come to see its only hope in a victory for the Democratic ticket in the next presidential election. At least inside the Democratic party there is considerable power wielded by southern chairmen of committees in Congress. They would have a controlling influence with any Democratic president who wanted to get his legislative program adopted and make a record for re-election. He would have to conciliate and compromise. Despite the expressions of a few so-called "liberals" in the Democratic party in the North today who mildly bask Mr. Eisenhower's action in Arkansas, the politics of the situation will cause these same Democrats naturally to support their own ticket at the polls. They will hardly vote Republican.

It's the biggest break the Democrats have had since 1932. For the Republican party now has returned to its extremism of Reconstruction days, beside which the Democrats will emerge as "moderates." The issue is by no means sectional. The "Wall Street Journal" of New York, which certainly is not Southern but is a staunch exponent of conservatism in America, had this to say editorially:

"The trouble thus far has been that there has been hardly pause to break the chain reaction. Governor Faubus would not wait and see before he called out the guard. Judge Davies, when asked to delay the desegregation order, was too impatient even to grant a hearing. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People would not wait even a day to test the mob. And the mob, inevitably, would wait on nothing.

"When President Eisenhower acted it was not without pressure and without provocation; he had, up until Monday, proceeded with moderation. But on Monday the dust had hardly settled in Little Rock before the action of the mob brought the reaction of proclamations with their own clear threats of force. The troubled authorities of the city were not given 24-hours to see what they might yet be able to do to handle their city's troubles.

"The people of Little Rock were given less time to act in the spirit of the proclamations. On the evening of Monday the President warned of force. On Tuesday morning he federalized the Arkansas National Guard. By late afternoon Tuesday airborne federal troops were before a stunned Little Rock."

This is a tragic example of irresponsible government—what the Europeans and Canadians, with their parliamentary systems, have always criticized about the American system. For the President did not feel it necessary even to call a meeting of his Cabinet or to summon congressional leaders for consultation after Governor Faubus called out the Guard—when there was plenty of time for discussion of the best way to meet the crisis. The President instead consulted a few lawyers and zealots in the Department of Justice. It was not a Cabinet decision. It was the hasty act of a single department. No other point of view had a chance for presentation. Now the whole Eisenhower administration and the Republican party will suffer irreparable injury.

Government by bayonet has superseded government by the laws of Congress in supposedly free America. The Fourteenth Amendment, allegedly forbidding segregation, was itself ratified illegally by the pressure of military force. And, besides, the Fourteenth Amendment says clearly that Congress—not the Supreme Court or federal troops—"shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article." Congress has never done so. No law forbidding segregation has ever been passed by Congress.

Postal Era Ends

OTTAWA, Ohio (AP)—An era ended in nearby North Creek when Miss Grace Ball retired after 36 years as postmaster. Her homey little post office was closed up forever under a reorganization program. The post office, in a building owned by Miss Ball, had knotty pine paneling, lounge chairs, rugs and curtains and was a favorite gathering place for the villagers.

Red Propaganda Not Convincing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians may not have gained as much as they hope for the Little Rock affair.

They made all the propaganda they could out of it, they used the photographs and the eyewitness accounts of violence in an obvious effort to hurt the United States. The point they tried to make—especially with the nonwhite majority of the human race—was that cruelty and intolerance are the rule of life in this country.

This isn't true, of course.

For all that we may be going through a revolution in race relations, and for all that Negro-white dealings have seldom been satisfactory to either side, the races have somehow got along. Those Little Rock pictures tell a true, sad story. But...

As everybody in this country knows a Negro can walk down the main street of any town or city without a thought of being molested. And, the Little Rock experience notwithstanding, American children do normally go to school without protection from bayonets.

The lesson gradually emerging from Little Rock is not—as the Communists would have it—that this is a country torn by racial violence.

Rather, it is that in spite of occasional missteps this is a country governed by law and not by the whims or prejudices of men.

The men in the Kremlin can hardly, with a straight face, make the same claim for their part of the world. Not after the iron rule of Josef Stalin, the crushing of resistance in Hungary—well, the bill of particulars is too well known to need detailing.

As for the missteps in this country: There was the "mob of extremists," as President Eisenhower put it over the weekend, which stopped some Negro adolescents from going to school at Little Rock. The mob was dispersed, and in short order, by federal troops.

Not—and this is important—because the President necessarily favors mixing of white and Negro pupils. He has been careful to avoid a strong personal opinion one way or the other. He called out troops on the ground that a federal court order directing integration was being flouted. The troops restored order. The court's decree is being carried out.

The Soviet Union is moving toward creation of a Khrushchev cult to replace that of Stalin.

The importance and prominence of the ebullient Communist party boss have been steadily increasing for the last four years—but till recently he has been bound by certain very specific rules imposed by "collective leadership."

One of the most important of these rules was that statements and pronouncements of living Soviet leaders were not to be directly quoted and credited to them in articles and editorials in the Soviet press.

Khrushchev has broken through this rule—so far as his own pronouncements are concerned.

The magazine Kommunist and the newspaper Pravda have printed an article setting forth in condensed form three Khrushchev speeches dealing mostly with art and literature. This article entitled "For a Firm Tie of Literature and Art With the Life of the People" appeared Aug. 27.

On Aug. 29 Pravda followed through with a major editorial, "The Chief Line of Development of Literature and Art." The editorial quoted from Khrushchev with attribution—in bold faced types—just as it used to do with Stalin.

The editorial consisted almost entirely of words and whole paragraphs lifted bodily from the Khrushchev article.

Some other papers, seeing the way the wind was blowing, followed suit. Thus the Literary Gazette on Sept. 7 devoted most of its front page to praise for Khrushchev's article in art and literature.

This initial quotation from Khrushchev and the praise of his ideas have been on a modest scale compared to the praise accorded Stalin whenever he said anything.

It will unquestionably develop further.

Wired For Thieves
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Any thief who tries to take the hubcaps from a car belonging to Eldo McLaughlin of Albuquerque is in for a surprise.

McLaughlin has not only wired his hubcaps with a stiff electrical jolt but has rigged a device to shock anyone who tries to open the doors, the hood or the trunk.

And if the circuit is interfered with at all, the horn begins to blow.

Switch Evidence
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—They are still talking about the big one that got away at Van's Tavern and wondering how it happened. A 50-pound four-foot dolphin disappeared from its display spot on the tavern wall. In its place someone put a small, sad-looking salt mackerel. The mackerel wasn't treated for display purposes and the management soon got wind of the switch.

Around The Rim

Hobbies Recommended For All People

Hobbies are recommended for all people. Even if we're held up to ridicule in pursuing them.

President Eisenhower jumps at the chance to chase a golf ball around a course. There are some who insist he thinks more about what iron to use to get to a green than he does about foreign policy but there's no question but what the game is good for him.

It's comforting to note that the great and the near-great like the same forms of relaxation we common folks do. Bird watching, for example, or girl watching, or boating.

Winston Churchill, who became a legend in his time, has always liked painting an endeavor that might appeal to me if I could distinguish between a weasel and an eagle.

Paderewski, the statesman-pianist, found great relaxation in billiards. Mark Twain took to the same endeavor with enthusiasm.

Card playing appeals to an overwhelming majority of our people, whether it be poker, canasta, gin rummy or solitaire.

Alfred Lunt, the actor, relishes the opportunity to go into his kitchen and cook a meal. Christopher Morley, the writer, jumped at the same chance and it was he who organized the Three Hours for Lunch Club.

The British dramatist, Christopher Fry, said he enjoyed "planning holidays which he did not take."

A friend of mine in Europe has recently taken to mountain climbing, which he finds both relaxing and educational. He writes that "mountaineers will always be free men, because everyone is equal up here."

Guy Lombardo, the band director, has a weakness for speed boats and has won several prizes with his craft.

Gardening is a favorite hobby of a lot of famous people, including Maurice Evans, the actor, and the Duke of Windsor. And they say the Duchess still likes to play jacks.

King Edward VII found his recreation in playing practical jokes—his idea of a high old time was in dropping a scoop of ice cream down the back of a woman in a low cut dress.

Some people collect butterflies, others the heads of wild game. Some (like Lord Byron) swim the Hellespont. John D. Rockefeller handed out dimes. Another I know liked to throw them away, if it had the head of a certain president on it.

Calvin Coolidge, the late president, had the best hobby I know of—sleeping. It doesn't take much practice to become an expert at that and the experience is so enriching.

They Tread The Grapes, As Of Old

REGUA, Portugal—This is the land to madden the heart of a Carrie Nation and that of her spiritual descendants, the good ladies of the WCTU.

Portugal wears an eternal vine leaf in her hair. Not since we left Lisbon hundreds of miles ago have we ever been without sight of the vines that produce the cup that cheers.

No country is ever more beautiful than at harvest time when the earth pours forth her bounty. We have driven through miles after mile of vineyards with the grapes hanging like oblongs of unpolished amethyst.

In the Vinho Verde country, the grapes are trained to grow up tall trees and the traveler drives through endless avenues draped on each side with high swags of green vines heavy with the autumn harvest of fat purple or pale, translucent green grapes.

And tonight we are tenting in Regua, queen city of the highly restricted region that produces Portugal's peerless product, port wine. For centuries port wine has been the most famous and one of this nation's most profitable exports. By law, the grapes that produce port can be grown only on the steep canyon of the Douro River and a few of its tributaries.

"Douro" means "of gold," and never was the name of a river more happily chosen than that which banks nourish this nectar fit for the gods. It seems doubtful if even the diamond industry of South Africa is more rigidly controlled by Federal law than the growth, production and sale of port wine, so vital is it to the economy of this small country. (Only cork, sardines and ores, in the order named, exceed port wine in their export value.)

As my husband and I drove through the Douro (as the whole port wine region is named), we passed many groups of men, women and children walking, in a holiday mood, into the region to help with the harvest.

And the strong, young men, to the music of the guitar and the accordion, march into the Douro to tread the grapes, as men trod them before history was written. For after many decades of experimentation with substitutes for the human foot, the port wine industry now knows that there is no substitute for it—at least in the making of port.

Both the grape and its skin must be crushed to produce port, yet it will be ruined if the pulp or seed is crushed, too. Only the human foot can crush both grape and skin and yet leave the seed intact.

Oddly enough, it is arduous work for the young and strong. Only after their feet have been fairly parboiled do young men step into the great stone treading troughs. And a fine sight they are, in bright-colored shorts, their legs stained purple to the knee, rhythmically treading back and forth to lively music for hours after hour.

After the grapes have been trod (in a machine age, it's rather nice to be able to get something foot-made) to a certain point, and fermentation has set in to a further point (all carefully regulated and controlled), the process that separates port from table wines then begins.

Now grape brandy (preferably brandy from Douro grapes) is introduced into the vintage in the ratio of one-fifth of brandy to four-fifths of vintage in order to "fix" the sweetness of the port at the required level. And at this point all an innocent bystander has to do is sniff the air of the Douro to be drunk as a lord.

The Gallup Poll

Parents Blamed For Teen-Age Crime

PRINCETON, N. J.—America's adults place most of the blame for the recent upsurge in juvenile crime on the shoulders of the parents.

But some of the blame, they feel, should be shared by the community for not providing adequate recreational facilities for today's youth.

This is the gist of replies which U. S. adults gave interviewers from the American Institute of Public Opinion when they were asked these questions:

Why are teen-agers acting up?
What can be done about it?

Since a majority of those interviewed are parents themselves, the views recorded in the study give some indication of how the parents of the nation feel about the problem of troublesome teen-agers.

On the first question of why teen-agers are acting up, the public is overwhelmingly of the opinion that the blame for teen-agers "going wrong" rests with the parents.

They point specifically to lack of proper training in the home and the granting of too much freedom to youths on the part of their parents.

At the same time, they feel that children are likely to get into trouble when they have nothing to do with their spare time. In this connection, many people feel that some communities fail to provide a proper amount of recreational facilities for today's youth.

Interestingly enough, the idea that the communities, or someone other than the parents, should share the blame seems to be one that has assumed prominence only in the last few years.

In November, 1954, when adults were asked these same questions, the lack of recreational facilities received only scattered mention. Today, it is in third place as one of the major reasons for increased juvenile delinquency.

The Institute assigned its corps of reporters to put two questions to a representative cross-section of adults living in big cities, small towns and rural areas across the country, as follows:

"There's been a lot of discussion recently about our teen-agers getting out of hand. As you see it, what are the main reasons for their acting up?"

Here are the five major reasons ranked by order of mention:

1. Parents do not provide a good home, do not give proper home training.
2. Parents are not strict enough, they give teen-agers too much freedom.
3. Children have nothing to do in spare time, recreational facilities are lacking.

4. Parents have too many outside interests, don't pay enough attention to their children.

5. Parents are both working, mothers are not home when needed.

Other reasons mentioned included the draft, TV, comic books and movies, drinking, dope and teen-age gangs.

The next question:

"Well, as you see it, what do you think is the best thing that could be done to cure these conditions among our teen-agers?"

Here are the five leading cures that the public suggests, ranked by order of mention:

1. More home supervision, closer home ties.

2. Give children something to do in their spare time, more recreational facilities.

3. Lay down stricter rules of discipline.

4. Re-educate the parents, punish parents for children's wrongdoing.

5. Pay more attention to church-going and religious training.

Mr. Roach has been experimenting on a futuristic school teaching method which is now being practiced in the Andrews system. He pointed out the fact that pupils must learn to use their heads more because in our present and future push button world they will be using their hands less and less. He said pupils are being taught about the past decade and there is a need to teach of the future.

In reporting on the federation project of "Cows for Korea" the project was announced a success with $2,800 worth of bred heifers sent to Korea. The project has been terminated. Announcement was made of the district convention that is to be held March 27-28-29 in Alpine.

Margaret Simmons Wed To Allen Lee Bailey Jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Simmons, Lamesa, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lee Bailey Sr. of Brownfield.

The Rev. Milo B. Ar buckle, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony as the couple stood beneath an archway entwined with greenery and flanked by baskets of white gladioli. Forming the background for the ceremony were white carnations and woodwardia palms with branched candelabra holding white tapers. A white kneeling bench completed the setting.

Mrs. Neil Buckalew was the organist and accompanied Julia Holder, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original model wedding gown of white imported Chantilly type lace and nylon tulle over net and satin. It was designed with a high neckline framed with a Mandarin collar of lace. Party Book For Young Hostesses Should Be Help In Entertaining

"You must not expect to become a perfect hostess overnight. It takes experience—the kind of experience that can only come from entertaining friends in your home," assures Florence Hamsher in the opening chapter of "Party Cues for Teens," published this month.

Apart from experience, however, the author stresses the factor of hospitality—the genuine desire of the hostess for her guests to have a good time. The hostess who is overcome with self-consciousness when the doorbell rings indicates that she is thinking more of herself than of her guests, warns Miss Hamsher.

The basic etiquette rules and tips for entertaining for teenagers to be found in Party Cues for Teens will prepare the young reader for the time when she has her own home.

Some of Miss Hamsher's ground rules that will serve as a guide for a lifetime of entertaining include how to handle introductions—don't rush them, but spend a few moments talking with the person to whom you have just been introduced; food—fancy or simple, have plenty of it.

She deals with accidents—clean up any spilled or broken things and go on with the party, never letting your guests feel uncomfortable about the mishap; the party musician; she says both the overly shy person and the Party Wolf can contribute to the success of a party when the hostess singles them out for special attention.

Basic rules for the guest are summarized briefly in "Six Ways To Be a Bore at a Party" and "Seven Party Rules for Popular Guests" where the reader learns not only how to make a guest welcome but also how to be a welcome guest.

"Party Cues for Teens" contains ideas for all kinds of parties: for holidays and special occasions, such as Sweet Sixteen parties and graduations; for barbecues, progressive suppers and formal teas. Detailed menus, recipes, and a variety of ice-breakers and games are also treated fully in individual chapters.

Local Woman Praises Tranq-wal

To My Friends:
I have always been nervous or high strung, anyway I could not sleep at night. Some nights I would go to sleep when I first went to bed, but wake up from twelve to one or two or three, then I could not go back to sleep. Sometimes I could not sleep at all.

I saw where Tranq-wal was recommended to make a person sleep and still not be habit forming, so I tried a box. They were just wonderful. I do not take them every day or night now, because I do not need them. Now I am not nervous as I was. I gave my husband, daughter and aunt some and they like them too.

Sixteen Members Added To AAUW At Tea Saturday Afternoon

Sixteen new members were added to the roll of the AAUW Saturday afternoon at the membership tea given in the Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College.

Elizabeth Daniel, president, welcomed members and guests and presented Ira Schantz, soloist, who sang three selections accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Boyd. These included "Somber Woods" by Lily; an aria from Mozart's "Don Giovanni"; and "I Am A Harp."

Nell Brown, treasurer, traced the history of the association, which this year, celebrated its 75th anniversary. It was founded in Boston, Mass., on Jan. 14, 1882, she told the group, with 65 graduates of eight colleges.

The organization has grown to more than 140,000 members, with 377 colleges approved for membership. There are 1,865 branches in the 48 states, Alaska Hawaii, Guam and the District of Columbia, Miss Brown said.

Hostesses for the affair were the officers and the committees for arrangements, which included Mrs. A. Locke, Mrs. M. T. Kuykendall, Mrs. J. C. Bownds, Elizabeth Pace, Mrs. C. N. Humphrey, Mrs. Marshall Box and Blanche Yarbrough. The next meeting was announced for Thursday at 7:30 p.m., in the home of Mrs. James Wilcox, 512 Westover Road. The invitation is still open for new members, it was announced this morning by Helen Hurt.

Joining the association Saturday were Mrs. Robert M. Burnett, Mrs. Wayne Bratcher, Peggy Brasher, Margaret Cooper, Mrs. Wesley Deats, Mrs. Joe Tom Draper, Mrs. John Hardy, Mrs. Mary Newell, Irene Moss, Mrs. Gerald Sjaastad, Louise Williams, Mrs. Ira Williams, Mrs. Lynn Stormans, Mrs. Norbert Zable, Mrs. Robert A. Bonnell Jr., and Mrs. Sam Anderson.

Necchi Sewing Machine 'Will Do Anything Better'

"Anything any sewing machine will do, the Necchi will do better" is the proud assertion of the Gilliland Sewing Machine Center, 1010 E. 12th.

A demonstration of the versatility and efficiency of the Necchi will be provided. Opportunity to become the owner of one of these marvelous machines can also be worked out.

Gilliland is Big Spring agent for the celebrated Necchi and Elna machines. Among women who sew, the Necchi and Elna are regarded as the tops in the world of sewing machines.

There's just nothing that a sewing machine can be expected to do that the Necchi and Elna can't do—and in addition, they perform many special services which no other machine on the market can provide.

Gilliland would be happy to discuss how you can become the proud owner of a Necchi or an Elna.

A. F. Gilliland points out that selling these machines is not a "sales" job at all. Every housewife knows about them; that is needed is for the opportunity for the purchase to develop.

LOOKING OVER EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Strange that the 'belly' play, which Big Spring (under Carl Coleman) introduced to this area, should be used so effectively so often against our troops now.

Even though you know it's coming, it's hard to defend. You've got to know when to crash.

One thing you can say for our Steers: They haven't been beaten the last two Fridays because they're not in shape.

They haven't been beaten the last two Fridays because they're not in shape. They're as physically trim as any Big Spring team in history.

Big Spring's Tommy McAdams drew all the raves in McMurry College's 6-0 victory over Texas A&I last weekend.

Big Spring's varsity troops are playing at only a .333 clip after three starts but the 'future book' holds promise.

The city's five teams down through the 7th Grade level have won seven of 12 starts.

The much-improved B team is 2-1, having beaten Lamesa and Snyder while losing to Andrews.

One of the weaknesses of the present varsity team lies in a lack of quickness.

The future looks better, however. Big Spring has some very fast youngsters playing in junior high schools.

Two of Snyder's boys, Rex Wilson and Bud Morgan, were among the area's finest trackers last spring.

Paul Mosley, the Leuders coach who was in the news recently after he was assaulted by several irate athletes, is a one-time Gail mentor.

Some uncomplimentary things were said about his iron discipline during his tenure at Gail.

Stuart Peake, one of the finest football guards Abilene High School ever had, has been moved to end at the University of Texas.

WIDE OPEN SCRAMBLE FOR SWC TITLE LUE

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor

TCU and Arkansas tear at each other Saturday in the first game that counts in the Southwest Conference championship.

The conference's great showing against outside opposition indicates a wide-open fight for the title.

The intersectional mark of nine victories and two ties in 11 games found the so-called weaker members—TCU, SMU and Texas—had looked just as good as upper crust Texas A&M, Baylor, Arkansas and Rice.

TCU knocked over Ohio State 18-14 Saturday. SMU played Georgia Tech to a scoreless tie.

This week Rice meets Stanford at Houston, Texas played South Carolina at Austin, A&M tangles with Missouri at Columbia and Baylor journeys to Miami, Fla., to swipe at Stanford is undefeated in two games, beating San Jose State 46-7 and whipping Northwestern of the Big Ten 26-6.

Missouri might give A&M a run for its money. The Tigers tied Vanderbilt 7-7 and last week beat Arizona 35-13.

Coach Paul Bryant of the Aggies says "Missouri is the same type team as A&M but looks like a sponner outfit.

The Aggies were given a strong fight by Texas Tech and Bryant observed "We're improving but we have a long way to go.

Other results Saturday included a 20-6 victory by Texas over Tulane, a 41-14 strapping of Tulsa by Arkansas and Baylor's 14-6 decision over University of Houston.

Coach Abe Martin of TCU admitted it was quite a feat but he was thinking more about Arkansas.

Farrell was ousted last night as the sixth-place Tribe finished in the second division for the first time since 1946.

Both batting titles were determined earlier, but Boston's Ted Williams pushed his winning mark to .388 with a double and single against the Yankees for his 12th AL crown.

Cardinal Stan Musial won his seventh NL championship .351, tying ex-great Rogers Hornsby for second in the all-time league list behind Honus Wagner, who won eight.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, last year's NL batting champ (.328), is the home run king with 44 and also leads in runs batted in with 132.

That massive stadium, with the vast outfield expanse, the treacherous left field barrier, the short right field fence, the darkening third tier and the murderous late-inning haze could conceivably play an important role in deciding the World Series.

The Braves, with right-handed power boys like Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington, can match such Yankee offensive weapons as Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and Moose Skowron.

The pitching of Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl, with Gene Conley and Bob Trowbridge held in reserve, figures to be superior to the hurling of Whitey Ford, Bobby Shantz, Tom Sturdivant, Don Larsen, Bob Turley and Johnny Kucks although the Yankees have the edge in the bullpen because of Bob Grim.

There is little to choose in the infield. The Milwaukee outfield, in the opinion of this impartial observer, is one of the poorest in the National League defensively.

This weakness is not so pronounced at Milwaukee's County Stadium because of the well-proportioned playing area, the symmetrical foul lines and not-too-distant 402-foot center field fence.

Yankee Stadium is laid out quite differently. It has a short 296-foot "porch" in right field which veers off into a tricky corner.

Center field, at its furthest point, is 466 feet away, and it has been said that if the center fielder ever missed making a shoe string catch, it will take him three weeks to come back after retrieving the ball.

The most difficult position to play in Yankee Stadium is left field because of the large area and the difficult shadows, particularly at World Series time.

Farrell said Greenberg told him his one-year contract would not be renewed as they drove into Cleveland from the airport. They had flown home from Chicago, where last-game victory over the White Sox left the Tribe in sixth place in the American League—its worst finish since 1946.

Cardinals' fullback Joe Childress went 30 yards in the second period against the San Francisco 49ers to build a 14-10 lead for Chicago and Pat Summerall kicked two second half field goals.

"Frisco's Gordy Soltau opened the scoring with a 35-yard field goal. Dick Mogle made it 9-6 when he sprined 18 yards in the first period. Soltau converted the last point the 49ers made.

Quarterback Earl Morrall arrived from the 49ers in time to practice six times with the Steeders. He learned enough to throw scoring passes of 25, 42 and 42 yards in Pittsburgh's win against Washington.

L. G. Dupre caught two of Units' scoring passes. Jim Mutscheller and Ray Berry hauled the other two. The big Baltimore line pushed Lion quarterbacks Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote to almost complete ineffectiveness.

To Play Against LSU

Floyd Dellinger is scheduled to play quarterback for Texas Tech against Louisiana State at Lubbock Saturday night.

Termed by his Victoria College coach, Rusty Russell, as "one of my great players," he has been outstanding as a runner, passer, punter, and defensive player for the Red Raiders.

SEEK REVENGE

Rugged Mustangs Await Bovines

The Big Spring Steers face one of their big assignments of the year Friday night, when they challenge Sweetwater in Sweetwater.

Scouts coming back from the Sweetwater-Stamford game last weekend reported to Coach Al Milch that the Mustangs returned most of their boys from last year but "are not the same team."

Sweetwater played one of its poorest games in losing to Big Spring in 1956, 28-7. Big Spring played fair and away its best game.

The Mustangs have a great line, led by Pat Gerald, son of the former Mustang head coach, and two backfields.

The Ponies opened the season by trying mighty Breckenridge, then played Abilene off its feet for a half before losing, 34-14.

The Cavuses brought an end to Stamford's 35-game winning streak by capturing a 24-7 decision.

Big Spring hasn't beaten Sweetwater in Sweetwater since 1940, when the Steers wound up as conference champions.

In a recent telephone conversation with Coach Emory Ballard of Sweetwater, Milch was told Sweetwater was the best team the Buckaroos have faced all season and the Bucks later knocked off respected Wichita Falls.

The Steers came out of their losing effort with Snyder last weekend without serious injury, although back Buddy Barnes hurt his knee and had to leave the game.

Conference play is well under way in Class A. The busiest district is 31 where a showdown comes Friday when Bishop plays Orange Grove.

Abilene, Amarillo and Corpus Christi Ray were considered the best of Class AAAA, with the former two to furnish Ray's opponent in the finals.

Nederland, Graham and Breckenridge got the call in Class AAA, this trio offering the same situation as AAAA—Nederland to meet either Graham or Breckenridge for the championship.

But there were 15 unbeaten, untied teams left in AAAA and 20 in AAA, along with a regiment of outfits that had only ties to mar their records.

The conference race has yet to open. The first conference game comes up Friday at Lubbock and Plainview, neither among the favorites, start the ball rolling in Dist 3 AAAA.

Abilene whaled Lubbock Monterey 58-0 last week to run its winning streak to 40 straight—just three short of the all-time record.

Amarillo was fearsome in a 47-7 conquest of San Angelo while Ray beat the other heralded power of the South—Baytown—6-0.

Nederland rolled right along with a 25-7 victory over Beaumont South Park; Breckenridge, conqueror of AAA Wichita Falls, whipped hitherto unbeaten, untied Gainesville 26-0, and Graham which had run up 144 points in two games, was idle.

A big game for both divisions sends Abilene to Breckenridge Friday. The latter is unbeaten but tied.

Class AA doesn't have a stand-out favorite now that the Stamford bubble has burst. The Indians, twice state champions, had their winning streak snapped at 35 straight last week when they lost to Sweetwater 24-7. This projected undefeated, untied Seymour as the probable champion of Stamford's district.

Only 3 Hurlers Win 20 Games In Big Leagues

By The Associated Press

There was only one more 20-game winner in major league baseball this season than there were 20-game losers.

Right-hander Jim Bunning became the third to win 20—joining southpaw Warren Spahn (21-11) of the National League champion Milwaukee Braves and Billy Pierce (20-12) of the Chicago White Sox—with 3 2-3 innings of shutout relief as Detroit defeated Kansas City 7-4 in the closing game of the regular season yesterday.

Left-hander Chuck Stobbs of the Washington Senators, meanwhile, lost his 20th—pairing with Robin Roberts (10-22) of the Philadelphia Phils—in a 7-4, 10-inning victory by the Baltimore Orioles.

Spahn, slated to pitch Wednesday's opening World Series game against the New York Yankees, led the NL for the third time with his eighth 20-victory year, a record for southpaws.

Right-hander Bob Buhl of the Braves (18-7) missed a shot at No. 19 yesterday although Milwaukee defeated Cincinnati 4-3.

A two-run ninth did it for the Braves, who rolled up 95 victories for the year—their club high, passing the 94 scored by Boston's miracle Braves in 1914.

In yesterday's other final NL games, the Chicago Cubs whipped the second-place St. Louis Cardinals 8-3; Philadelphia smacked Brooklyn's erstwhile champs 2-1 and Pittsburgh made a shambles of the San Francisco-bound New York Giants' last game at the Polo Grounds, 9-1.

In the American League, Boston tripped the Yankees 3-2, Cleveland socked the White Sox 5-3—but couldn't save Manager Kerby Farrell's job.

Farrell was ousted last night as the sixth-place Tribe finished in the second division for the first time since 1946—due mostly to pitching injuries. They were sixth, Bobby Bragan, ousted earlier as manager of the Pirates, will replace Farrell.

Both batting titles were determined earlier, but Boston's Ted Williams pushed his winning mark to .388 with a double and single against the Yankees for his 12th AL crown.

Cardinal Stan Musial won his seventh NL championship .351, tying ex-great Rogers Hornsby for second in the all-time league list behind Honus Wagner, who won eight.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, last year's NL batting champ (.328), is the home run king with 44 and also leads in runs batted in with 132.

That massive stadium, with the vast outfield expanse, the treacherous left field barrier, the short right field fence, the darkening third tier and the murderous late-inning haze could conceivably play an important role in deciding the World Series.

The Braves, with right-handed power boys like Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington, can match such Yankee offensive weapons as Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and Moose Skowron.

The pitching of Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl, with Gene Conley and Bob Trowbridge held in reserve, figures to be superior to the hurling of Whitey Ford, Bobby Shantz, Tom Sturdivant, Don Larsen, Bob Turley and Johnny Kucks although the Yankees have the edge in the bullpen because of Bob Grim.

There is little to choose in the infield. The Milwaukee outfield, in the opinion of this impartial observer, is one of the poorest in the National League defensively.

This weakness is not so pronounced at Milwaukee's County Stadium because of the well-proportioned playing area, the symmetrical foul lines and not-too-distant 402-foot center field fence.

Yankee Stadium is laid out quite differently. It has a short 296-foot "porch" in right field which veers off into a tricky corner.

Center field, at its furthest point, is 466 feet away, and it has been said that if the center fielder ever missed making a shoe string catch, it will take him three weeks to come back after retrieving the ball.

The most difficult position to play in Yankee Stadium is left field because of the large area and the difficult shadows, particularly at World Series time.

Farrell said Greenberg told him his one-year contract would not be renewed as they drove into Cleveland from the airport. They had flown home from Chicago, where last-game victory over the White Sox left the Tribe in sixth place in the American League—its worst finish since 1946.

Cardinals' fullback Joe Childress went 30 yards in the second period against the San Francisco 49ers to build a 14-10 lead for Chicago and Pat Summerall kicked two second half field goals.

"Frisco's Gordy Soltau opened the scoring with a 35-yard field goal. Dick Mogle made it 9-6 when he sprined 18 yards in the first period. Soltau converted the last point the 49ers made.

Quarterback Earl Morrall arrived from the 49ers in time to practice six times with the Steeders. He learned enough to throw scoring passes of 25, 42 and 42 yards in Pittsburgh's win against Washington.

L. G. Dupre caught two of Units' scoring passes. Jim Mutscheller and Ray Berry hauled the other two. The big Baltimore line pushed Lion quarterbacks Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote to almost complete ineffectiveness.

Yanks Put Skowron's Ailing Back To Test

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees ailing back to a test today when Manager Casey Stengel tried to figure out how he'll have at first base if Skowron can't make it for the World Series opener against the Milwaukee Braves Wednesday.

The American League champions, entering their eighth series in Stengel's nine-year reign, also wanted to get a fresh line on Mickey Mantle's bum legs during the work out at Yankee Stadium, but Mantle is already considered a definite starter.

The big question is Skowron, one of the Yankee sluggers and a righthanded hitter Stengel would like to have in the lineup against southpaw Warren Spahn, the Braves' pitching choice for the first game.

Skowron pulled a back muscle September 10 and hasn't been able to bend over—as he would while fielding his position—without pain since. Neither he nor Mantle, still bothered by shin splints, made the trip to Boston for the final games of the regular season last weekend.

The opener stacks up as an all-out pitching show, but the Braves' starting nine is a little easier to figure than the Yankees'. With Skowron a question, Stengel might have to play Elston Howard at first, Andy Carey at third and rookie Tony Kubek in left field.

If Skowron can play, Howard will wind up in left, with Kubek or Carey at third.

The only likely changes in Haney's choice involve the Yankees' pitching choice for the first game.

Tennessee Trying To Pick Up Pieces After 7-0 Loss

By ED CORRIGAN

Tennessee Coach Bowden Wyatt—who could do no wrong a year ago—today found himself in the position of trying to pick up the pieces of a shattered dream in which his team would race through two straight all-victorious football seasons.

Wyatt, who went to the Vols from Arkansas after lifting the Razorbacks from the depths of the Southwest Conference, produced an undefeated team last year.

Now things are different. Tennessee's record is 0-1. The Vols must beat Mississippi State this week if they hope to keep in contention for the Southeastern Conference crown.

State should be no match for Wyatt's outfit. But neither was Auburn last Saturday. Yet the Tigers trotted off with a 7-0 decision, held Tennessee to six first downs and 84 yards.

Georgia Tech, which was rated the Vols main threat, could do no better than a 0-0 tie with Southern Methodist.

After a week's rest, Oklahoma, superman of college football, opens its bid for its 10th straight Big Eight championship against Iowa State. The Sooners also will be seeking their 43rd straight victory.

Notre Dame meets Indiana Saturday and the word around South Bend is that Coach Terry Brennan is, temporarily, at least, off the spot. After a wretched 2-8 record last year, the Irish began the long road back Saturday by blanking Purdue 12-0.

Out of the shambles of the Big Ten emerged one giant—at least for a week. Minnesota pulverized Washington 46-7, and this week tackles Purdue, so the Gophers should keep their record clean. They looked like the bonecrushers of old and if they can keep up a full head of steam, the rest of the league teams can concentrate on fighting for second place.

When R. "volunteer" Rose Bowl representative of the Big Ten last year, rolled up a 70-14 victory over Utah State—its highest point production since 1914, but the opposition was weak.

Not too long ago, a Duke-Maryland game would go a long way toward settling the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. The two meet this week, but the Blue Devils will rate heavy favorites. They just might go all the way to the title. They crushed Virginia 40-0 last week.

Maryland's Tommy Mont looks to be in for another bad season, although his club is not as bad as its 49-13 defeat at the hands of North Carolina State would indicate.

Rare are the surprises in the Ivy League, but underdog Columbia shocked Brown 23-20 Saturday.

Adm. Brown Holds 6th Fleet Ready To Back Up U.S. Policy

By WATSON SIMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

"We're sitting on a volcano, and it could erupt tomorrow. Any day could be our Pearl Harbor unless we're ready."

Orders Action

Vice Admiral Charles R. Brown ordered U.S. jet interceptors to shoot down Sidewinder missiles a possible hostile aircraft over the U.S. 6th Fleet off Turkey. The plane escaped to Communist Bulgaria before U. S. Navy delta wing Skyrajs could catch it.

will be fought with some degree of sanity," he says. "I don't accept the argument that a shooting war would automatically go into an all-out nuclear fight. If it does it will be the end of civilization. "And sometimes I look at a sight like the lights of a beautiful city at night and tremble to think that all of this could be wiped

As commander of the U.S. 6th Fleet within the tight confines of the Mediterranean, the soft-voiced Alabaman directs the chief instrument of U.S. foreign policy in the Middle East as Syria accepts Soviet military aid and some of the other Arab countries voice support.

Americans got their first good look at Adm. Brown last October when his 6th Fleet brought the only calm to a troubled Mediterranean as the British and French invaded Egypt.

When Russia was told that "volunteers" would not be allowed to enter Egypt the atomic punch of Brown's ships backed up the warning. The fleet evacuated nearly 2,000 Americans from the war zone and remained poised at sea until the danger passed.

The fleet is the teeth in the Eisenhower Doctrine against Communist aggression in the Middle East, the weapon which the Doctrine says will be used if and when needed.

Adm. Brown is responsible for showing the weapon in the proper places—as in the eastern Mediterranean during the present Syrian crisis. He is also charged with keeping the weapon clean and sharp.

"I'm just a sailor carrying out orders the way I've always done," Brown says, "a pawn in a game where somebody else calls the moves."

A devoted gardener who chooses to spend his life at sea; a rigid disciplinarian yet an uproarious practical joker; a terrifying taskmaster but one who likes playing Santa Claus for the children of his 25,000 men—Brown is all of these.

And the admiral whose planes could whisk nuclear bombs to Moscow in a few hours is a Bible-reading Baptist. He admits the thought of all-out war gives him nightmares.

"I pray that any war to come away in minutes." Fearful though he may be of what war could bring, Brown believes the best way to avoid any emergency is to be ready for it. With his ships always within range of even obsolete Russian bombers, Brown drives his fleet with urgency.

Brown feels the first few hours of atomic war would decide the fleet's survival.

"If I could last the first 16 hours my chances of making it through would be tripled," he says.

"By then, the strategic bombers would be on the job and I'd be getting my own licks in. If I could last the first 48 hours my chances would improve 10 times over."

Against this background, Brown's formula for preparing his fleet is speed, speed and more speed. He says: "When I cry wolf I want every man to act as if the world were right there grinning at the door."

'Forgotten Man' Protests Canceled Meeting With Ike

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP)—Shopkeeper Richard J. Cunningham, a self-styled "little man," now says he's the "forgotten man" as far as President Eisenhower is concerned.

Cunningham's invitation to meet with the President at the latter's Newport vacation spot was canceled yesterday.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said the meeting didn't come off because Cunningham talked too much about it after being asked to keep the matter confidential.

The owner of the Cranston Variety Store said he had never been told to keep the matter quiet.

He said he couldn't understand Hagerty's comment that the press secretary had phoned him to keep the news quiet. "He couldn't have called me," the shopkeeper said, "because I don't have any telephone at home."

Cunningham said also: "Probably everyone began asking for similar meetings with the Presdent when the news broke and Mr. Hagerty got mad and called everything off."

"I'm not sure at the President. I'll never have anything against him. I'm mad at Mr. Hagerty who promised me this meeting, then never said anything about it later."

There was no indication that President Eisenhower knew anything about a meeting with Cunningham.

The shopkeeper said he wrote Hagerty last month that he had an argument with a couple of his customers after the customers contended the President didn't have time to bother with "the little guy" and small businessmen.

Vote Of Confidence Due French Premier

PARIS (AP)—Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury faced up to the opposition of extreme right and left wings of the National Assembly today as he moved toward a showdown confidence vote on his Algerian home rule bill.

The Radical Socialist Premier's hope of remaining in the office he has held for only 3½ months rested primarily on the difficulty the Assembly would have in agreeing on a successor.

Bourges-Maunoury hoped to rally enough center party votes to beat back the combined forces of the Communists on one side and the Poujadists of the extreme right. The vote may be very close. In advance of the Assembly session, he could count definitely on about the same number of votes as the opposition, with about 100 more uncommitted.

The Assembly was expected to debate at length today and tonight, with the vote coming after midnight. A defeat for the government would force it to resign. The government bill would divide Algeria into six or seven territories, each with a locally elected Assembly. This would give European settlers control in areas where they are most numerous, the Arabs control elsewhere. Later a federal assembly and executive would be set up in Algiers. The Communists contend that Algeria, formerly a colony and now by law a part of France itself, should be given complete independence now. The North African Nationalists fighting the French already have rejected the new proposal and again demanded independence.

The right wing opposes the bill on grounds that it would give the Arabs too much control and would open the way for them to declare their independence.

Ousted Priest Says College Degraded

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest ousted as the recognized chaplain of Catholic students at Princeton University said yesterday that there is "a moral degradation" at the world-famous university.

The Rev. Hugh Halton asked the 250 students hearing his sermon for their prayers and financial support.

The university president, Dr. Robert Goheen, withdrew all campus privileges from Father Halton last Monday. Goheen said the priest "under the claim of advocating the truth, has resorted to irresponsible attacks upon the intellectual integrity of faculty members."

Thousands of Motorists Compete in HUMBLE Football Season Contest!

Tips for Contestants

Humble dealers supply their customers with three grades of gasoline. One, Humble Motor Fuel, is regular grade; another, Esso Extra, is a premium gasoline; and the third, Golden Esso Extra, defies classification—it's better than premium, better than "super-premium"; it's the world's finest gasoline.

More Texans use these three Humble gasolines than those of any other petroleum marketer. The reason why is obvious: whatever the price, the user of a Humble gasoline gets full performance value for his money.

Contestants Tell Why They Use One of Humble's Famous Gasolines

Throughout Texas motorists are stopping under Humble signs to enter the Company's Football Season Contest. Though rules do not require a purchase, thousands are filling up with one of Humble's famous gasolines to get first hand information on the performance of these fine fuels. Then they tell, in 25 words or less, why they use a Humble gasoline.

72 Prizes Every Week
Seventy-two contestants win prizes every week: 24 first prizes, and 48 second prizes. At season's end, four grand prize winners will be selected.

Have You Entered?
Ask your neighbor under the Humble sign for contest rules and an entry blank. You can enter as often as you like in any week; you're urged to enter every week during the football season.

Ike, Faubus Under Gov. Daniel's Lash

EL PASO (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel said last night he didn't think President Eisenhower or Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus did all they could to prevent the Little Rock situation.

It was "not a very democratic process for President Eisenhower to enforce court orders with bayonets in the Little Rock school integration crisis," he said.

"Of course, here in Texas we would have sent a couple of Texas Rangers to handle the situation," he told reporters.

He said if what he called Eisenhower's enforcement of court orders with bayonets is "followed in other Southern states, it will actually slow down integration and could destroy the public school system in some states."

"I sincerely hope the situation will be handled in such a way to preserve the school systems of the states and maintain good relations many people throughout the South have worked to establish," he said in a televised news conference.

Daniel wired a strong protest to Eisenhower last week over the use of troops.

"I certainly would not call the National Guard or soldiers in to control a high school campus and conduct children to classes with bayonets," he asserted.

"I think it was unfortunate that Gov. Faubus thought it necessary to call out the National Guard, and I think it doubly unfortunate that President Eisenhower had troops sent into the South for the first time since Reconstruction Days."

The governor said a "calmer, clearer" attitude of the people toward integration would make "troops, machine guns and bayonets unnecessary in integrating schools."

Daniel, here to visit with Democratic leaders and his campaign managers, said he expected the breach in the Texas Democratic ranks to be healed enough by the next election for the party to present a united front.

Fall Weather Clings To Texas

By The Associated Press
Sparkling fall weather clung to Texas Monday.

Skies were clear except for a few clouds over Beaumont and the Weather Bureau said no change was expected in the next couple of days.

Predawn temperatures ranged from Junction's 48 to Galveston's 69 degrees.

Highs Sunday ran from 91 at Presidio to 76 at Sherman.

Flooding of low areas on the Guadalupe River around Victoria continued, however. Three families were evacuated and authorities said five other families might have to move.

The Guadalupe was expected to crest at 29.2 feet Monday. Heavy rains last week sent the lower reaches of the Guadalupe and some other streams in the South Texas area rising.

More rain fell in the southeast part of the country Monday after a weekend of stormy weather in some areas.

Showers sprinkled some West-Texas states but generally pleasant weather prevailed in most other sections of the country.

General rainfall was reported in the Virginias and North Carolina and the wet belt extended southward through Georgia and Alabama. However, the rains had diminished considerably. Heavy downpours and strong winds lashed coastal areas of the Carolinas yesterday. More than 9 inches of rain fell at Ocean Drive near Myrtle Beach, S.C., since Saturday.

Woman Dies At 111

BRYSON CITY, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. Candace Nations, who never left her native Swain County during the 111 years of her life, died Saturday. She recalled events of the Civil War and remembered playing with children of slaves.

"If Lincoln proved that being poor is no handicap to an American boy, Washington proved that being rich isn't either!"

White Boy Saves Negro Companion

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two young boys, one of them semi-conscious from severe electrical burns, spent more than 10 harrowing minutes atop a slow-moving freight train last night as it wound 3½ miles through a long tunnel.

The grueling experience began in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards at Union Station, where a group of Negro and white youths were playing.

John T. Powell, 10-year-old Negro, climbed on a standing freight train and was severely shocked when he touched the high-voltage electric wires overhead.

Two companions ran several blocks to his home and returned with his mother. She wanted to climb up and get her son, who was lying unconscious on top of the train.

But Donald Maler, 16-year-old white youth, persuaded her not to try it, to wait until firemen and railroad workmen arrived.

About eight minutes passed while young Maler dissuaded the frantic mother from climbing on the freight train.

Young Powell, meanwhile, regained consciousness and rose to his knees on top of the freight car just as the train started up. Seeing that the Negro boy—injured and dazed as he was—would be swept off the car when the train passed under a street bridge, young Maler climbed on the moving train and held Powell down.

The freight moved westward out of the yards, through a low, winding 2½-mile tunnel and on another mile to Gwynn's Run before railroad officials were able to flag it down and shut off the electric current in the overhead wires.

Firemen removed the two boys to Lutheran Hospital, where Pow-well was reported in fair condition with third- and fourth-degree burns of the scalp and third-degree burns on the feet.

Hospital attendants said it would be some time before the extent of the boy's internal injuries are determined and his chances of pulling through assessed.

Maler, credited with saving the Negro boy from instant death by his heroic action, was not injured and was released from the hospital after examination.

Uncle Ray: Assyrian King Told Why He Was Great

By RAMON COFFMAN
Long ago, far upstream on the Tigris River, there was a city that the name was pronounced "AH-shoor."

Q. When was Ashur founded?
A. So long ago that the original facts have been lost! We do have a record, however, which shows that a city existed there more than 4,300 years ago! The city may have been a thousand years old at the time the record was made.

Q. Was Ashur also the name of a god?
A. Yes. There was a god called Ashur who was supposed to be powerful. Whether the city was named for the god, or the god for the city, is a question which has not been settled.

In any case it appears that Ashur was, for a time, a deity with a following only inside the city. The city gathered an army, and the army spread knowledge of their chief god. When another city was conquered, the people were told that they must admit the power of Ashur. Since their own gods had failed to save them, many of the conquered felt that it was right to pray to Ashur.

Time rolled along and dozens of cities and towns became parts of a country which had Ashur as the capital. This country was called "Ashuria," later "Assyria."

One king of Assyria was Tig-lath Pileser. Statements about his greatness were placed on slabs of clay. Some of the slabs have been found—thousands of years later. Here are a few statements by Tig-lath Pileser:

"Ashur and the other mighty gods made me great . . . they told me I must make my country larger. They put mighty weapons into my hands.

"Through 16 mountain ridges I marched. I crossed the mighty river and 23 kings fought against me. I destroyed their armies."

'Hardrock' Drilling Champion Dies

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Walter Bradshaw, 84, known as "The Last of the Hardrock Drilling Champions," died in a Butte hospital yesterday.

Bradshaw and a partner Joe Freethy, set a world hammer and drill record in 1901, when they bored 55 feet into a concrete slab in 15 minutes. The record has never been surpassed.

It was estimated that Bradshaw won about $35,000 in hardrock drilling contests. He was capable of slamming home 80 blows a minute with a heavy sledge.

After 40 Highly Praised

To Whom It May Concern:

I was tired, nervous and had no energy or pep, I knew something was wrong with me, as I am only 46 years old, but all my pep and vitality was gone.

After 40 was recommended to me. I tried one bottle on a money back guarantee. I could tell from the first dose I had gotten help. Some told me I had to go away to some hospital or clinic to be treated, I don't want anything better than After 40.
