Braves Cop Series In Final Game, 5-0

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves won the World Series today by crushing the New York Yankees, 5-0, in the seventh and deciding game behind the brilliant pitching of Lew Burdette.

A four-run spurge, highlighted by Eddie Mathews' two-run double, in the third inning, gave Burdette all the batting help he needed. Del Crandall added a solo homer in the eighth.

The right-hander stopped the Yanks cold with seven hits to become the seventh pitcher to win three games in a seven game World Series. The last man to accomplish the feat was Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946.

Burdette beat the Yanks 4-2 in the second game, and 1-0 in the fifth game, each time yielding seven hits. He blanked the Yanks for 24 consecutive innings also. The Yanks scored on him last in the third inning of the second game.

An error by rookie third baseman Tony Kubek, a Milwaukee resident, proved costly to the Yankees and started Don Larsen, in the Braves' third inning.

After Burdette had fouled out to lead off the third, rookie Bob Hazle lit the blaze by singling. Johnny Logan hit a sharp grounder to Kubek whose throw to second pulled Jerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman's relay to first was too late to get Logan.

Mathews then brought a roar from the 61,207 fans by lashing a double to the right field corner, scoring Hazle and Logan. Larsen, who last year pitched the only perfect game in World Series history, was replaced by little Bobby Shantz.

Harry Aaron, the mighty Milwaukee slugger, drilled a single through the middle of the diamond to score Mathews. Wes Covington followed with another single to send Aaron to third. Hank came home with the fourth run on Frank Torre's high chopper to Gil McDougald at short. Felix Mantilla filed deep to right to end the decisive spree.

Burdette, a fidgity, 6-2, 180-pounder, simply annihilated the Yankees with his breaking pitches except in the first, sixth and ninth innings. In between the first and fifth innings he retired 11 straight batters.

He ended the brilliant performance on a dramatic note when the Yankees loaded the bases with two out in the ninth. Bill Skowron hit to Mathews who made a sensational backhanded stop and stepped on third to force Jerry Coleman and end the game.

FIRST INNING
MILWAUKEE: Hazle struck out. Logan bounced to Kubek who threw him out on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NEW YORK: Bauer swung at the first pitch and looped a double over third base. It was his 14th straight Series to hit safely, a record. Slaughter hit back diamond and Bauer was trapped between second and third. In the rundown, Bauer scrambled back to second safely but Slaughter, who had advanced to second during the rundown, was tagged out by Logan. Burdette, Logan Mathews received the ball. Mantilla tapped a 2-2 pitch back to the catcher and was out. Burdette to Torre. Bauer held second. Berra was given an intentional pass, the first walk of this kind in the Series.

McDougald raised a high pop to Mathews. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING
MILWAUKEE: Aaron singled to left. Covington bunted inside the first base line and was out. Larsen to Collins. Torre walked. Mantilla filed deep to Slaughter. Aaron racing to third after the catch. Crandall rolled to Kubek who tossed to Coleman forcing Torre at second. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

NEW YORK: Mathews made a spectacular gloved hand stab of Kubek's sizzling grounder inside third and threw him out. Mathews made another fine play, charging in fast for Coleman's slow hopper and coming through with an off-balance throw to nip the runner. Torre helped the play with a fine pickup of the low throw. Collins went down swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING
MILWAUKEE: Burdette fouled to Kubek. Hazle punched the first pitch between short and third for a single. Logan hit a sharp grounder to Kubek whose throw to second pulled Coleman off the bag and Hazle was safe. Coleman's relay to first was too late to get Logan. An error was charged by Kubek. Mathews doubled over Collins' head into the right field corner, scoring Hazle and Logan. Bobby Shantz replaced Larsen as New York pitcher.

Aaron drilled a single through the middle of the diamond scoring Mathews. Covington dropped a Texas Leaguer into center field. Aaron racing to third. Torre sent a high chopper to Coleman who threw to McDougald forcing Covington. Aaron scored when Covington's relay was too late to double up Torre at first. Mantilla chased Bauer to the auxiliary score board in deep right for his long fly. Four runs, four hits, one error, one left. Two runs earned.

NEW YORK: Jerry Lumpe batted for Shantz and struck out. Bauer filed to Aaron. Slaughter bounced out to Torre. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Art Dittmar went in to pitch for the Yanks. Crandall sent a high fly to Slaughter. Burdette struck out. Hazle slashed a ground single past Coleman into right field. McDougald made a gloved hand stop of Logan's smash to his right but Hazle was safe at second on his low throw to Coleman. Mathews lined to McDougald. Mathews lined to Mantle in deep center. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

NEW YORK: Mantle missed two powerful swings then raised a high fly to Hazle. Berra lined to Hazle. McDougald filed to Hazle who made a nice running catch in right center. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Aaron dropped a bunt in front of the plate and was safe when Berra fumbled. Hazle walked too late to Collins. It was an error for Berra, the third Yankee error of the game. Kubek came in fast for Covington's slow grounder inside third and threw him out. Aaron taking second. Torre bounced sharply to Collins who stepped on first as Aaron advanced to third. Kubek threw out Mantilla. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

NEW YORK: Kubek filed to Covington. Coleman fouled a pitch off his left foot and limped in pain. Coleman then lined to single to right center. Collins bounced to Logan who threw to Mantilla, forcing Coleman at second. Bill Skowron batted for Dittmar and rolled to Logan whose throw to Mantilla forced Collins at second. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Tom Sturdivant went to pitch and Skowron took over at first for New York. Crandall bounced a single past Sturdivant into center field. Burdette, given a tremendous ovation, dropped a sacrifice bunt halfway to first and was out. Skowron to Coleman, covering first. On Sturdivant's third pitch to Hazle, Crandall broke loose for third and beat Berra's throw to Kubek but he over slid the bag and was tagged out by Kubek. It was no stolen base. Hazle raised a high fly to Bauer. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

NEW YORK: Bauer was out on a one-bouncer to Mathews. Slaughter filed to Aaron. Mantle slashed a single past Berra's grounder that took a tricky bounce. Mantle stopping at second on the error. Mathews scooped up McDougald's roller inside third and stepped on the bag to force Mantle. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

SEVENTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Logan got an infield single when Coleman failed to handle the tricky grounder to his left. Mathews sacrificed, Skowron to Coleman covering first. Aaron fanned. Covington lined to McDougald. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

NEW YORK: Attendance was 61,207, net receipts $405,102. Kubek sliced a single over Logan's head into left field. Burdette darted to his right for Coleman's high bouncer and threw him out as Kubek went to second. Elston Howard battle for Sturdivant. Haney complained to the umpires that Stengel was taking too much time before sending his pinch hitter to the plate. Howard struck out. Logan threw out Skowron. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

EIGHTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Tommy Burne became the fifth Yankee pitcher. Torre walked on four pitches. Mantilla bounced into a double play. McDougald to Coleman to Skowron. Crandall smashed a 3-2 pitch into the lower left field stands for a home run, about 375 feet. Burdette walked, Andy Parko batted for Hazle and fouled to Skowron. One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

NEW YORK: Parko went to right field for the Braves. Bauer raised a high pop to Logan. Slaughter fouled to Crandall. Mantle went out on a towering fly to Covington. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING
MILWAUKEE: Logan lined to Kubek. Coleman tossed out Mathews. Aaron filed deep to Mantle. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NEW YORK: Berra popped Burdette's first pitch to Torre near first base. McDougald lined a 2-2 pitch into center for a single. Kubek hit the first pitch and filed to Aaron in right center. Coleman sliced a single to right. McDougald stopping at second. It was the sixth hit off Burdette.

Byrne took a ball and a called strike, backed away from another called strike that broke away from him, then smashed a single off the diving Mantilla's glove, filling the bases. Skowron fouled off a pitch, and smashed a hard grounder inside the third base line. Mathews made a brilliant back handed stop and stepped on third to force Coleman. No runs, three hits, no errors, three left.

Second Victim Of Wreck Dies

LAMESA—Mrs. Lizzie Sanders, 40, injured in a car accident near here on Monday night, died at 6 a.m. today to become the second fatality of the wreck. She died in a local hospital.

Mrs. Octavia Barker, 63, sister of Mrs. Sanders, died soon after the accident occurred.

A third victim of the accident, Clifton Hooper, 21, a passenger in the second car in the crash, was reported in critical condition at the hospital. It had not been believed at first that Hooper was seriously hurt but his condition has steadily worsened since the accident.

Recovering are Clifton Neugent, 23, driver of the car in which Hooper was riding, and Leroy Douglas, 50, driver of the car in which Mrs. Sanders and Mrs. Barker were riding. Douglas is in the VA Hospital in Big Spring and Neugent in the Lamesa Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sanders and her sister are incomplete but will be jointly conducted.

20 On Plane Escape Death From Fireball

DENVER (AP)—A huge fireball, described by some as being as large as a house, streaked across western skies today narrowly missing a Navy transport plane with 20 persons aboard.

An official of the Civil Aeronautics Administration here said the object undoubtedly was a meteor. It was reported to have hit the ground near Myton, Utah.

A spokesman at the Naval Air Station at Alameda, Calif., said a DC6 which left Alameda at 12:33 a. m. was near the fireball as the plane flew en route to Norfolk, Va.

The pilot, Lt. Cmdr. W. F. Norris, radioed he was "all shook up because the fireball came so close."

The CAA log at Salt Lake City reported the pilot had to make a sharp turn to avoid the object. He followed it down and circled after it crashed near the Utah-Colorado border.

Oil workers north of Worland in north-central Wyoming told news men of seeing a fireball "as large as a house" streaking from north to south. They said "there were flaming chunks falling from it."

The University of Colorado, Dr. Walter Orr Roberts said he is convinced the fireball had no connection with the Russian satellite launched last Friday. Dr. Roberts is director of the High Altitude Observatory at the university.

The Denver Post reported that two meteor experts told them they are sure the fireball was a meteorite. They are Dr. Harvey Nininger of Sedona, Ariz., and Dr. Lincoln La Paz of the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque. Dr. La Paz said he is convinced the object was a stray fireball from the Giacobinid comet.

The Colorado 3rd grad 99 The Colorado Highway Patrol and the U. S. Weather Bureau said they received reports from several Denver residents who observed the bright object.

The highway patrol said the "bright thing" also was seen in several northwestern Colorado communities and also at Alamosa in the south-central part of the state.

The CAA said it had an unconfirmed report that the object, or part of it, had landed near Myton, Utah.

The CAA said no planes are reported missing in the region.

Several reports from pilots who sighted the object were monitored by the CAA's Air Route Traffic Control Center in Salt Lake City.

The pilots said they saw a green fireball on the eastern horizon, apparently over Wyoming, moving slowly in a north-to-south direction. Both said it looked as if the object were traveling in a path parallel to the earth. And both said that, while they watched it, the object changed color from green to white to orange, and then disintegrated in the air.

The CAA center in Salt Lake City said it had had—or heard of—sightings reported in Washington state; at Pocatello, Idaho; Rapid City, S. D.; at points in Colorado, and by pilots over western Wyoming, Utah, and Dalhart, Tex.

More Reports Due For United Fund, $25,750 Raised

The World Series telecast Wednesday reduced attendance at the United Fund report meeting, but UF campaign leaders said today they are counting on the lag being made up at another report meeting Friday.

About $7,500 in new contributions was reported Wednesday, bringing the campaign total to $25,751, or about 29 per cent of the goal of $89,100. Advance Gifts workers reported another $6,665, bringing their total to $23,721. Special Gifts collectors brought in $930, boosting their total to $1,030.

Another $1,000 has been raised by the Employee Gifts Division which opened its phase of the campaign earlier this week.

K. H. McGibbon, general campaign chairman, said he was disappointed at the small turnout for the report meeting yesterday. However, he said he is hoping for a big report Friday. Advance, Special, Employee and General Divisions are to turn in reports at a joint meeting at noon Friday.

U. S. Urges Plan For Space Control

STILL SPINNING

Sputnik's Oblivious To Dire Predictions Of Fiery Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sputnik's burned-out rocket, circling in space with the Russian satellite, was spotted today by an observation team scanning pre dawn skies over New England. Scientists called it the first visual fix in this country, though there have been previous sighting reports from individuals.

The historic sighting was reported by a New Haven, Conn. moonwatch team at 5:23 a. m. EST and was confirmed by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory of the Smithsonian Institution at Cambridge, Mass.

At Cambridge, Dr. J. Allen Hynek said the third stage rocket which kicked Sputnik into its space orbit is larger than the satellite itself and gives much brighter reflections of light. Observers equipped both the rocket and the radio-equipped satellite as satellites.

James Plato of the New Haven moonwatch team was first to sight a flash of light in the northeast sky as Sputnik and the rocket made a pass across the skies northeast of Boston.

"It looked like a star moving across the heavens," Plato said. Plato pointed it out to Dr. Robert U. Brown, head of the New Haven moonwatch team and professor of science at New Haven State Teachers College, where the sighting occurred.

Plato said the satellite was not visible to the naked eye but with a 6.5 telescope.

In Washington, at headquarters of the Navy satellite tracking system staff members said no other reports have been received of a U. S. sighting.

They said, however, reports of visual sightings in other parts of the country were being reported to the Smithsonian moonwatch coordinating headquarters in Cambridge.

The first visual sighting of the satellite was reported from Sydney, Australia, yesterday. Photographs were made at New Brook, Alta. Canada, yesterday, and Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif., reported a radar tracking.

WATCHEES THWARTED
Thick fog over the northeast U.S. coast thwarted some watchers today as Sputnik made its pre dawn pass in that area. A Cambridge team manned telescopes at Harvard College Observatory but the fog hid their target, as clouds had done yesterday.

Scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory here said the Russian satellite is still holding to its original orbit and speed which carries it around the world every 96.1 minutes.

The laboratory's tracking station at Blossom Point, Md., reported that an intercepted stream of clear radio signals from Sputnik this morning, starting at 6:48 a. m. EST and lasting until 7:01.

That time period included the satellite's diagonal crossing of the United States from the northwest to the southeast over northern Wisconsin, across Ohio and out of the United States north of Charleston, S. C. Sputnik crossed over the coastline at 7 a. m. EST exactly on its pre-determined timetable.

The Blossom Point tracking station said Sputnik's radio signal was the same as yesterday, strong in the 40 megacycle band and more of a steady signal instead of the original, "beep . . . beep . . . beep."

DIRECTION CHANGES
All of today's crossings of the United States were in a southeasterly direction. Sputnik will return tonight and make several passes over the country in a northeasterly direction.

Fog over much of the northeast U. S. coast thwarted efforts to get a visual fix on the man-made satellite early today.

Scientists and moonwatchers of a Cambridge team manned telescopes atop the Harvard College Observatory as the moonlet sped on a southeasterly course above Nova Scotia, northeast of Boston, at 6:40 a. m. EST. The fog hid the target, as clouds had done when the Cambridge observers made their first effort yesterday.

Monitoring stations in the Western Hemisphere and Europe reported signals from the speeding sphere were coming in strong, although with varying tones.

There was some difference of opinion among scientists whether the satellite is maintaining its rate of speed and its altitude.

This first official picture of the Soviet satellite was issued in Moscow. It shows the four-antennae baby moon resting on a three-legged pedestal.

Alberta. Earlier, it was reported that a photograph had been taken at Auckland, New Zealand.

NO NEW DATA
Dr. Fred Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said no new information had been received to define more closely the satellite's orbit.

He said he is satisfied that "all the visual observations to date were on the final stage rocket, not the satellite itself."

Russian and Western scientists have said both the satellite and the rocket that propelled it into the heavens are shooting about in outer space. The Russians say the rocket's nose cone also is orbiting.

Whipple said "some reasonably reliable visual sightings" yesterday indicated the rocket now was traveling ahead of the satellite.

The signals emitted by the sphere were reported by listening posts in various places to have changed from the original beep-beep sound.

The U. S. Naval Research Laboratory here said it was receiving a hum interspersed with an occasional beep. Radio operators in Mazatlan, Mexico, told of hearing a signal that sounded like "psst, psst, psst."

A spokesman at the Naval Research Laboratory said the difference in signals might be explained by a variation in receiving equipment or perhaps the location of the sets in relation to the path of the satellite.

CONFLICTING VIEWS
Two Moscow radio broadcasts, both for home listeners, gave conflicting views on the moonlet's speed. One said it was speeding up. The other said it was slowing down. There was no attempt to explain this conflict.

2 Million Miles
LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said the Soviet satellite completed its 78th orbit around the earth early today. The broadcast estimated the sphere up to that time had covered 3 1/2 million kilometers, or about 2,190,000 miles.

Haren and Capt. A. B. Matsger, deputy chief of naval research, told the Senate committee Aug. 2 that all tests to that date had been successful and that scientists expected "major breakthroughs in problems that involve our knowledge of the earth and the sun."

They said the U. S. satellites would circle the earth once every 90 minutes at a speed of about 18,000 miles an hour, traveling some 200 to 1,500 miles out in space.

The calculated perfect control and performance by a U. S. satellite 300 miles above the earth might enable it to stay up nearly a year.

The Senate committee was told the American satellites would weigh about 20 1/2 pounds and would be packed with instruments. The Russians say their satellite weighs about 184 pounds.

U.N. Considers Peaceful Use For Satellites

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States declared today it is ready to begin multi-national talks immediately on steps to harness space missiles for peace.

The statement was made by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge as the U. N.'s 82-nation Political Committee plunged into a detailed debate on disarmament.

Lodge asserted the United States was willing to separate the discussion of space missiles from the general disarmament debate and proceed with it independently.

The Lodge delegate reminded the committee that the United States 10 years ago had taken the initiative in proposing international control of atomic energy. If this proposal had been accepted, he said, widespread international anxiety could have been avoided.

"We now have a similar opportunity to harness for peace man's newest efforts in outer space," he said. "We have therefore proposed to work out an inspection system that will be a sufficient guarantee that such missiles will be used exclusively for peaceful purposes."

"The United States is prepared to join in this initiative without awaiting the conclusion of negotiations on other substantive issues."

OLD IDEA DROPPED
The United States with Britain, France and Canada, had proposed in the London meetings of the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee that the supervision of space objects be included as a part of a general disarmament agreement.

Lodge told the committee international control of the newest devices of science—outer space missiles—was urgent because they can either be restricted to peaceful uses "or they can be used to blow us to bits."

"We already know that the prospect of an outer space missile armed with a nuclear warhead is too dangerous to ignore," he added.

On other phases of the disarmament problem, Lodge said:

1. The United States would agree to suspend nuclear tests only after the Russians had agreed in principle to other related matters, including a ban on the production and stockpiling of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

2. The United States is ready to halt the production of fissionable materials for weapons purposes and to reduce its armed forces as soon as proper safeguards can be set up to prevent surprise attacks.

3. The United States wants to keep the disarmament talks going in the Five-nation Disarmament subcommittee, which includes the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Canada.

4. The United States feels there is no cause at this stage for despair, despite wide differences which still persist between the Western Powers and Russia.

SUSPEND TESTS
Lodge was followed by Japanese Ambassador Koto Matsudaira who formally presented a proposal for suspension of nuclear tests.

"As a problem of peacetime," Matsudaira said, "we cannot ignore the effects of radiation resulting from test explosions."

International control of long-range missiles and space satellites was mentioned in the Western plan outlined in London. But introduction of the resolution—which is sponsored by some 20 free world nations—was held up after the launching of the Soviet earth satellite to put more emphasis on this point.

Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev said in an interview in Moscow this week that Russia also would amend its disarmament proposals to provide for international inspection of rocket-launching sites as well as airports.

Russia and the West have each rejected the main points of the other side's arms plan so far. Each now wants the 82-nation assembly to put pressure on the other by endorsing its plan as a basis for future negotiations in the Disarmament subcommittee.

Trustees Let Contract For $712,700 Jr. High School

School trustees yesterday let a $712,700 contract for construction of a new junior high school.

Receiving the contract was Warner Construction Co. of San Angelo. The firm's bid was the lowest of 15 submitted by one of the largest groups of contractors ever to assemble here. More than 125 contractors, subcontractors and supply men were on hand for the bid opening at the high school cafeteria.

The low bid was about $72,000 under what Architect Jimmy Fox had predicted, and school board members said they were surprised also.

"In fact, I'm elated," said Board Chairman Clyde Angel.

Construction on Goliad Junior High School, to be erected facing Goliad St. just south of the College Heights Elementary School, is scheduled to start Oct. 21. Contract calls for completion by Aug. 30, 1958, on the eve of opening of schools for the 1958-59 term.

William Warner told trustees he is confident his firm can complete the project on schedule.

The plant, to be of masonry construction, will include 65,390 square feet of floor space. In addition to classrooms, it will have a gymnasium, cafeteria, quarters for shops and band, and administrative offices.

Trustees also awarded contract yesterday for kitchen equipment for the cafeteria. Winning that pact was West Texas Coffee & Equipment Co., Abilene, on low bid of $16,745. The contract was awarded subject to architect's recommendation.

School officials figured that after building, and furnishing the new plant, some $35,000 will be left out of $900,000 earmarked for the project.

About $40,000 has been spent for a site. Furnishings are expected to run to about $60,000 and architect and engineering fees will be five per cent of construction costs.

The new junior high is designed for 750 students, but school officials said it will be capable of accommodating 1,000 without severe overcrowding.

The city's other junior high, at 10th and Rannels, now is badly overcrowded with more than 1,200 students.

Highest bid turned in yesterday was $838,000. Bidders in addition to Warner were J. W. Cooper, Doyle Construction, S. R. Duncan, J. J. Fritch, Jones Construction, A. P. Kasch & Sons, Boyd J. McDaniel, Newton Construction, Rose Construction, Shiflet Taylor, Suggs Construction, James T. Bryor & Son, Templeton-Cannon, and West Texas Builders.

On hand for the bid opening were all three members of the architectural firm of Atchison, Atkinson & Fox of Lubbock.

State Reopens Its Case Against Cox

AUSTIN (AP)—The state reopened its case in the bribery trial of former Rep. James Cox of Conroe today with a witness who testified Cox's bill to outlaw naturopaths died in committee during the last Legislature.

Cox is accused of agreeing to accept a $5,000 bribe to kill his bill regulating naturopathy.

Cox first said his acceptance of the $5,000 bribe offer was part of a plan to curb illegal lobbying when he made a sensational speech on the House floor after posting bond.

The cotton was beginning to roll into Big Spring, but suddenly stopped with the damp weather yesterday. The bales came from all parts of the county, but one ginner said there seemed to be more boll pulling in the Elbow community.

Ginners don't expect the harvest to get into full swing until the last of next week, assuming that the weather turns dry.

Howard and adjoining counties will probably have more bracos this fall than ever before. A larger crop was harvested in 1949, but at that time most farmers were using native laborers for harvesting. The only labor association in operation was the Tarzan Marketing Association.

In 1955 the Howard County Labor Association brought in 1,680 Mexican Nationals, according to Jack Buchanan, but then they were serving nine counties. This year they are allowed to work in only three counties, Howard, Glascock and Martin.

The association has a 40-passenger bus that keeps the tires hot running from here to the Mexican Border and back. The driver, Russ Smart, is making a round-trip about every 24 hours.

Buchanan said that nearly 350 laborers have been brought in thus far, but the number will almost double in the next 10 days.

Poultry owners are at last in a position to make some money. The Chicago market for large grade A eggs is 55 cents a dozen, and the price is inching upward. Another bright spot is that feed has started down. Some of the manufactured feed is off nearly 50 cents a sack, while whole grains are also dropping.

At present there are slightly more than 900 caged hens in Howard County. Only one new producer has been added the last few months, but two or three others are increasing the size of their flocks.

Dub Coats will soon have 600 new hens ready for cages, which will raise his total past 2,000. Coats raises his own grain, then grinds and mixes it with a laying

General Urges Missile Corps

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U)—Brig. Gen. Robert L. Scott, commanding general of Luke Air Force Base, says the United States must meet the challenge of the Russian satellite or "be at the mercy of the Soviet Union."

"If necessary, let's get rid of all three branches of the military service," he told the Phoenix Executives Club last night. "Let's pull out from each of the branches enough forward-looking men to form a missile corps."

Gen. Scott is the author "God in My Co-pilot," a best seller of the World War II era. He formerly was stationed at the Pentagon. He is due to retire from the Air Force later this month.

"We're being beaten in the field of science," he declared. "Oh, America is ahead on a lot of things—Cadillacs, television, refrigerators and Revlon's Love-pat. But we have failed to launch a satellite."

Gen. Scott said he is infuriated by a Navy spokesman's comment that the Russian satellite is just a hunk of iron," he said. "The world is no longer controlled by land masses and the seven seas—but by Sputnik, circling us in its own orbit."

Skies Cloudy Over Texas

By The Associated Press
Skies were cloudy over Texas Thursday with more rain forecast. Rains of up to 5 inches at Uvalde Wednesday blocked roads and flooded some streets. Peggy, near Kenedy, had 2.80 inches. Three Rivers had 2.40, George West 1.50 and Tilden 1.99.

Ahliene's Elm Creek flooded for a time after rains along the Taylor-Nolan County line. Lake Ahliene rose 1 1/2 feet.

Rainfall reports for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday included Cotulla 2.60 inches, Kingsville 1.73, Junction 1.50, San Angelo 1.35, Laredo .92, San Antonio .63, Beville .42, Corpus Christi .31, Mineral Wells .19, Big Spring .13, Alpine and Houston .05, Lubbock .03 and Del Rio and Victoria .01.

Showers fell Wednesday night around Beaumont and Houston. Showery and cloudy weather persisted in sections of the Northwest and Southeast Thursday but it was dry and fairly pleasant in other parts of the country.

Clear skies and temperatures in the 80s were indicated for the seventh and final game of the World Series in New York.

The continuing low pressure off the southern Oregon coast spread a blanket of clouds over most of the northern parts of the Far West and eastward to the Rockies. However, rain fell mostly along coastal sections of northern California and southern Oregon.

San Angelo Child Killed In Wreck

MESA, Ariz. (U)—Robert Beasley, 2, of San Angelo was killed in a car-truck collision yesterday. He was a passenger in a car driven by his uncle, L. A. Bayless, 18, of Gruver.

His grandfather, Lewey Bayless, was injured slightly. The mother, Mrs. Phyllis Beasley, and Mrs. L. A. Bayless were not injured.

supplement. He can get more for the maize this way than by selling it on the market.

The country storekeepers in Dawson County are busy trying to make some money that they haven't made for several years. Last Saturday the stores were filled with braceros, and they all were buying groceries, soda pop and other items. In one store I counted nearly 30 workers, and the owner was happily listening to the ringing of the cash register.

"It's not as good as when the native workers picked cotton," he said. "They spent everything they made, while these boys send a lot of it home. They don't spend much, but they do spend some. If we hadn't made a good crop this year, a lot of us might have been forced to close our stores."

Man is making steady progress at conquering outer space, but he is barely holding his own against insects. A report from Africa, however, states that the dreaded tsetse fly is at last being confined to a small area.

Last year the flies showed signs of spreading to other colonies, so the government blocked off a 10 or 15-mile strip and sprayed it regularly to hold the insects back. Most of the control program was done in small boats chugging up the rivers and spraying the trees on either side.

The tsetse fly causes sleeping sickness, and was so bad in some areas that domestic animals could not be raised.

The Cotton Center gin southeast of Lamesa devised a good method of getting plenty of cotton to gin, when the manager, J. E. Griffin, decided to build housing for braceros.

He and his partner put up two barracks to hold 150 workers.

These men stayed here all fall and are sent around to the various fields belonging to the gin customers.

"It was expensive," said Griffin, "but I think it was a good investment. We get more ginning, and it enables a lot of farmers to get their cotton pulled without fixing up living quarters of their own."

A few years ago Clifford Firestone of Lamesa did what a lot of business men would like to do. He hired a manager for his feed store and retired to a stock farm near Gatesville. Now he spends one or two days a month at Lamesa, and the rest of the time works with his cattle and goats on the farm.

Firestone says there has been a big change in farming downstate. At least 80 per cent of the farmers around him are now working on salaried jobs at Gatesville, Killean and other towns, and they to farm on the side.

"Some of those plants are laying off hands, though," he said, "and the farmers are the first ones to draw pink slips. It looks like a lot of them are in for a rough time."

Firestone has been improving his pastures, and uses goats to do it. Those billies and nannies will forage on any kind of brush and most of the weeds, but won't eat grass unless forced to it. Now with the brush almost gone, the 38-inch cover of grass on all his pastures. He says a man with limited capital can make a better living in Central Texas than here. There is not enough pasture left in this area, the rainfall is too scanty and land is too high.

"Not many farmers are doing it," he said, "but with a half section of land and some good management, a man can still make a living on a farm back east."

Appearance Important

Joanne Woodward, the New York actress soon to star in "Three Faces of Eve," once felt her talent, and not her appearance, was the important thing. Now she has learned that being well-groomed is a habit which doesn't take any longer than throwing yourself together.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Good Grooming Is Established By Habit

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—There are those in the industry who believe that Joanne Woodward's new picture, "Three Faces of Eve," will make her a full-fledged star. The pretty blonde actress came to films from New York via television.

"On Broadway the footlights separate you from the audience," Joanne told me. "Beauty is not as important as it is in Hollywood, where your face appears on the screen as big as a door."

"Hollywood has made me much more conscious of grooming," she confided. "I'm a hard worker, and I felt my talent, and not my appearance, was the important thing. But making yourself look as attractive as possible can become a habit, so that you dress more carefully but give it no more thought than you did when you dressed hurriedly."

Joanne is from Georgia, but she has no trace of Southern accent. "I had to work to get rid of it," she admits. "I think a characteristic of Southern speech is a lack of resonance. It springs from an emotional quality—a lack of vitality. We Southerners are essentially languid."

"People must learn to breathe properly—from the abdomen and not the chest—before they can have musical or resonant voices."

Joanne is fascinated by the real character she plays in "Three Faces of Eve." This girl had three distinct personalities, and the psychiatrist who treated her has recordings and films of his work.

"Without changing one thing but her feeling of identity," Joanne told me, "the girl switches personalities completely—her voice, facial expressions and attitudes. Right before your eyes one girl disappears and another appears."

"Watching these clinical films made me realize how important it is to have a stable mind. At one time I was so painfully shy I went to a psychiatrist, and he helped me. Now I feel much more comfortable meeting new people."

"Southerners are rarely shy. I think their friendliness springs from a genuine feeling of the importance of hospitality. And," Joanne said in parting, "a charm that comes from a desire to make others comfortable."

"Music Is A Door To The Past" Is Music Club Program Theme

"Music is a Door to the Past" was the theme of the meeting for members of the Music Study Club at the home of Mrs. Omar Pitman Wednesday afternoon. Hostesses were Joyce Howard and Mrs. Fred Beckham.

Mrs. Floyd Parsons was leader for the program, which began with the group singing the month's hymn, "O Jesus, Thou Art Standing." Ensemble numbers were Orlando di Lasso's "Adoremus te, Christe." "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" by Martin Luther and "Now is the Month of Maying" by Thomas Morley. Mrs. H. M. Jarrett was their accompanist.

For a vocal selection Mrs. Noble Kenner sang "Awake My Heart Beloved" by Hans Sachs and was accompanied by Mrs. Robert Mason. Mrs. J. L. Christensen's piano numbers were Byrdes' "Pavana," "The Earl of Salisbury," and "Gaiardo."

Another vocal solo was by Mrs. N. B. Furlong, who sang "My Heart Ever Faithful" by Bach, accompanied by Mrs. Pitman who also played "Adoremus te" by Palestrina as an organ number and Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary."

Mrs. Leslie Green and Roberta Gay combined organ and piano for Bach's "Arioso."

The club will continue to furnish choir music for the church services at the state hospital and will also aid in volunteer work sponsored by the Mental Health Association. They will also cooperate with the Civic Music Association.

Dr. Frankie Williams Is Child Study Club Speaker

The Child Study Club met Wednesday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. Wayne Bartlett, with Mrs. Wayland Yates serving as co-hostess.

Dr. Frankie Williams, of the Big Spring State Hospital was guest speaker. Her topic was "Emotional Experiences in Childhood Essential for Mature Development."

The speaker defined a healthy personality as one who gets along well with other people, who does his job well and realizes it; or who does not do his job well and realizes it. A mature personality develops gradually, she said, beginning with the first time a child comes in contact with other people, and goes through stages of development. To develop a child to have a healthy personality, you must be genuine in all things; and the surrounding must be genuine, members were told.

Besides the speaker, Mrs. Kyle Lord was a guest. An election was held for new members during the business session.

Mrs. Glenn Allen and Mrs. Hayden Harrell volunteered to be the representatives from the club to the Mental Health Association.

Halloween colors, and a Halloween theme were used in the refreshments.

Oasis Club Has Brunch

A brunch, given in the home of Mrs. Floyd Parsons Wednesday morning, was the opening session of the Oasis Garden Club.

Mrs. W. F. Taylor was co-hostess. Members were seated at tables covered with green linen and centered with arrangements of orange pyrantha in brass bowls.

Mrs. W. R. Douglas gave the invocation. During the business meeting, Mrs. Taylor reported on the meeting of the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs.

Mrs. J. D. Leonard and Mrs. Jimmy Beale discussed the things to be done at this time in preparing the garden for winter.

The sponsor of the club, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, explained the schedule for the Fall Flower Show to be given Oct. 24 and gave tips on making flower arrangements.

Government Is Studied

"A Glimpse at Your Federal, State and Local Governments" was the program topic at the meeting Tuesday evening of the Spoudazio Fore Study Club in the home of Mrs. Bob Bright.

Members answered roll call with a recent city event. Mrs. John Hill was in charge of the program which was a part of the year's study on "Our Challenge in Americanism." She explained the different parts and forms of the national, state and municipal governments and the part they play in forming our American way of life.

October was the date set for the annual rummage sale. Mrs. James Tyler of the finance committee will set up a schedule of hours for the members to serve at the sale. Mrs. Bright read a list of activities proposed for volunteer workers at the state hospital.

Mrs. Richard Patterson was co-hostess and assisted in serving refreshments to the eight members present.

Lutheran Group Goes To Sparenberg Rally

Women of the local Lutheran Church attended the Fall Rally of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League Wednesday at the Sparenberg Church.

Attending from Big Spring were Mrs. Walter Paschall, Mrs. Gilbert Paschall, Mrs. William Heckler, Mrs. William Schneider, Mrs.

Moran Oppgaard, Mrs. Gus Oppgaard, Mrs. Cornelius Sterdt, Mrs. Albert Hohertz, Mrs. Henry Fehrer, Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. Marie Smith and Mrs. Wayne Dittloff.

Theme of the all-day meeting was "Loving Thou Me." The morning session was in charge of the Rev. C. E. Kleber, pastor of the host church. A business meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. A. Elffe of Pecos, president of the West Texas Zone.

It was decided that the offering taken at the meeting would go to the Lutheran Student Center at Texas Tech. The Rev. Wayne Dittloff gave the afternoon devotion. The guest speaker was the Rev. G. W. Heinemeyer, area vice president of the Texas District.

The zone includes Pecos, Fort Stockton, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Andrews and Sparenberg.

Nedeline Pitcock has been dismissed from Medical Arts Hospital.

Mrs. Alvina Saunders of Aransas Pass, who has been visiting her son, H. A. Saunders is now a guest in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Newsom of Midland.

Henry Park was a recent visitor in Mentone.

Mrs. Vera Harris has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig in Sterling City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kubecka were recent Odessa visitors.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Camp and Linda have been Mr. and Mrs. Leland Camp of Lamesa.

Visiting in Lamesa are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nash, who are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash, who have returned from a visit in Brady, have as their guest his aunt, Mrs. I. R. Jackson of Coleman.

San Marino Rivals To Meet As Reds Threaten To Shoot

SAN MARINO (AP)—Leaders of San Marino's two rival governments planned to meet late today as some Communist volunteers threatened to shoot to defend their hold on government buildings.

Leaders of the anti-Communist "White" regime hoped to end the stalemate produced by Communist refusal to surrender the 38-square-mile mountain republic. An earlier agreement broke down last night.

Zaccharia Sovorotti, a member of the White government, said that a final decision might be reached at today's meeting.

Savoretti said that Domenico Morganti, interior minister and strong man of the Communists, had cautioned patience to avoid possible violence. He said Morganti had warned that some Red volunteers were holding on to their guns and threatening to fire if anti-Communists tried to take over the Capitol.

Morganti told White leaders the Communists hoped to disarm all their volunteers today.

The rival leaders met across the border in nearby Rimini, Italy, early today and a Communist official said later, "We hope to clear things up definitely in further talks."

The anti-Communist forces, recognized by surrounding Italy and other Western nations after they proclaimed their government 10 days ago, had delivered an ultimatum to the Reds to hand over the government.

Office Pool To Pay Satellite Winners

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—An office pool in an advertising agency will pay $3 to each of two winners when the Russian space satellite's flight is officially declared ended.

Chances at 35 cents each were sold on both the day and the hour Sputnik quits.

The $2.40 balance in the 24 chance pool will be contributed to the Defense Department to help finance launching an American satellite.

Riot Breaks Out After Grid Game

WACO (AP)—A near riot broke out last night following a football game between Moore High of Waco and Madison of Dallas, both Negro. Officer John Fields received a cut cheek and Loberta Chew, 16, of Moore High, a cut head from thrown rocks. A few students were taken into custody.

said his side rejected the ultimatum but added that the Whites could take over the hilltop nation "at any time." The Communists have been occupying government buildings and most of San Marino while their opponents operated from an abandoned factory on the border.

Top Communists explained the Reds did not want it to appear that they had willingly relinquished power. That way, they might later claim their ouster had been illegal.

Morganti said the peace talks broke down because the anti-Communists wanted all 29 reds and pro-Communist Socialists in San Marino's 60-member Parliament to resign. The crisis began when the Reds lost a parliamentary majority they had held since 1945. The Red government ordered Parliament dissolved to keep from being kicked out of office.

Officers Talk As Girard Defense Opens

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—The defense of GI William S. Girard opened today with testimony from two of his officers on the firing range where he shot Mrs. Naka Sakai fatally on Jan. 30.

One of the officers said he told the Illinois soldier to guard a machinegun and the other officer said a few hours before the shooting Japanese collecting scrap brass had to be driven away from the gun.

Girard admits firing the empty cartridge from a grenade launcher on his M1 rifle that killed Mrs. Sakai. But he contends he was performing his duty, was trying to scare her away and hit her by accident.

Lt. Billy Mohon, 25, of Comyn, Tex., said he told Girard and another specialist 3rd class, Victor Nickel, to guard the machinegun about 5 or 10 minutes before the woman scavenger was killed.

Nickel testified earlier as a prosecution witness that there was no danger that the Japanese would approach the machinegun.

But Lt. William A. Gigante, 25, of Detroit said about 150 shell pickers swarmed over the machinegun earlier, knocking the gunner from it and raising the possibility it might fire accidentally.

Gigante also testified that Lt. Col. Walter C. Sharp Jr. of Beech Haven, N. J., had lectured the men before the practice and told them it was necessary to keep the brass scavengers away from the exercise.

Mohon, commander of Girard's platoon, said he was acting as safety officer following the troops. He testified he saw no one fire empty cartridge casings toward the shell gatherers prior to the fatal shooting. Previous prosecution witnesses claimed Girard fired at four other Japanese before he shot Mrs. Sakai.

The final prosecution witness was Akikiehi Sakai, farmer husband of the dead woman.

Sakai said, "Time after time I warned her not to go where it was dangerous." He said his wife made about $139 a year for the family by cultivating silk worms and only picked brass when she had time from the farm work.

"Like any woman, she wanted to make pocket money," Sakai said.

Anti-Integration Bill Dies In Confusion

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—One anti-integration bill blossomed from the Legislature which adjourned last night and a critic labeled it a dud.

The last resort bill, which stirred legislative strongest, died in a confusing final day along with two other measures aimed at keeping integration from the schoolhouse door in Florida.

Sen. Tom Adams, one of the strongest promoters of last resort school suspension, said of the measure which was passed—the Moody bill to close schools if federal troops are called out — "we have only a padlock to put on the barn door after the horse escapes."

Tempers were so taut and feelings so high that one senator, Herve Belser, withdrew from the Senate. He said he was quitting because of the Legislature's refusal to pass more stringent anti-integration measures.

All other bills to block integration withered on the vine in the Senate. Up to adjournment, last resort advocates still had hopes of getting some form of their pet legislation through the session.

Put to sleep by the adjournment were the so-called parent option bill to permit a county school board to allow withdrawal of a child from an integrated school upon petition of a parent, and the "jury mercy" bill. The latter would permit jury trials for persons accused of violating the school attendance law and if the jury recommended mercy the fine would be only $1.

The last resort would permit closing of public schools after a local option referendum if integration were threatened.

Hog Coach Worries About Heat In Texas

Arkansas Coach Jack Mitchell worried about Texas' heat but had a healthy squad Thursday while Coach Sam Boyd of Baylor struggled with injury problems.

Boyd was pleased, however, with improvements in the Bears' physical condition compared to the floundering team a week ago.

The thermometer at Fayetteville stayed in the 80s Wednesday and Mitchell moaned, "It's going to be hot in Texas, and this may hurt us." He ran the Razorbacks through a heavy offense and defense schedule in preparation for Saturday's Southwest Conference battle with Baylor at Waco.

At Waco, the Bears ran through another long scrimmage with defense stressed. Center Larry Cowart missed the rough work and halfback Joe Allen was out. A knee injury appeared likely to sideline left end Albert Wither. At Austin, the Longhorns worked on ways to stop Oklahoma's varied offense. Guard James Shillingburg will miss the Sooner game in Dallas Saturday.

Texas A&M avoided contact injury for the first two units as illness and injury handicapped the Aggies. Offensive and defensive assignments were reviewed in a dummy scrimmage. A&M plays Houston Saturday.

TCU coaches called Wednesday's workout successful as the Horned Frogs prepared for the Alabama game Saturday. The Frogs worked on defensive formations and some offense.

SMU worked heavily on passing, both offensively and defensively. The Mustangs will get Harlingen to start the championship race in Dist. 14.

69 Teams Seek To Retain Unbeaten Status Friday

Schoolboy football rolls into conference play in all classes this weekend but the emphasis is on efforts of 69 teams to keep undefeated, untied records intact.

In only two cases do teams with perfect records meet each other. San Benito clashes with Uvalde at San Benito Friday in the feature game of Class AAA. Cuero of AAA steps down to battle Edna of Class AA, an unbeaten, untied outfit, at Cuero.

Ablene, defending champion, winner of 41 straight and one of the favorites for the Class AAAA title again, plays Lubbock, a twice-beaten eleven, at Lubbock Friday.

Stinnett, kingpin of Class A riding a 19-game victory kiss, should

Irish In Poor Shape For Tilt With Cadets

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Terry Brennan says his flu-ridden Notre Dame football team is in poor physical shape for Saturday's game with tough Army in Philadelphia.

Six of his regulars and two second-stringers were sidelined by the flu bug yesterday.

"We are hurt, hurt badly," Brennan said after the squad walked through no-contact drills.

"There is no likelihood that we will be in top shape for Army although all of the men who are down with the flu now probably will make the trip."

He named the flu victims as Dick Lynch, guard Jim Schaaf, co-captain E. Sullivan, halfback end Gary Myers, fullback Nick Pietroski and center Bob Scholtz—all starters—and No. 2 guards Dave Hurd and Bob Gaudos.

The outlook was different in Army's camp. Coach Earl Blaik said his staff—currently guiding the top-rated team in the East—apparently feel confident.

Line Forms Early For Bleacher Pews

NEW YORK (AP)—Although the bleachers were only half-filled at yesterday's game, several persons were in line early this morning waiting for the gates to open for the seventh and deciding game of the World Series.

Ralph J. Belcore, 43, of Chicago, headed the slim line. He took his place immediately after yesterday's game. He is rooting for Milwaukee.

Three Years Left

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Jim Schuler, University of North Carolina halfback, may be a junior but he still has three years of football eligibility. The resident of High Point, N. C., transferred to UNC last year from the University of Washington when his family moved to this state.

McMurry Must Face Expert Passer In Lutheran Star

ABILENE (SC)—The rifle arm of Texas Lutheran's Charlie McMahon, 1956 Little All-American, posed a serious threat for the McMurry Indians this week.

Slowed by injuries in their 20-6 loss to arch rival Abilene Christian College, Coach Tommy Ellis sought this week to strengthen the Indian pass defense for an anticipated McMahon aerial circus.

Ellis also had an eye on the junior pass-master's 1956 record of 80 completions in 131 throws, which gained 1,104 yards on an eight-game schedule.

Tribe coaches, however, continued to stress the Brave running game. Stiff practice sessions this week included goal line defense, blocking and tackling.

The Saturday night tilt between McMurry and Texas Lutheran will be the first meeting between the two schools.

Scouts who watched TLC in Arda, Okla. last week reported that the Bulldogs played good despite the absence of six regulars. McMahon was among the absent.

Brave halfback Jim Boyd leads the Tribe in yardage rushing—he was among the top 20 in the nation's small college list last week—with 230 yards on 23 carries. Quarterback Tommy McAdams has hit nine throws of 20 attempts for 122 yards.

Another sparkplug in the Warrior ground game is Fullback Ernie Davis. The veteran back also is a capable passer.

Top hand up front is Co-Capt. Charlie Davis, 200-pound junior, and a brother to Ernie. The muscular guard plays well on both offense and defense.

Davis and Jim Baldwin, 215-pound center, are key men in the Ellis line. Behind these two are Bill Gorman, 230, tackle, Eugene Dryer, 180, guard, and Charles Baldwin, 200, at the other tackle. Baldwin is a brother to the Indians' center.

Opposite Ernie Davis, Boyd and McAdams in the Indian backfield is Co-Capt. Weldon Brevard. The three-year letterman is off to a slow start, but looked like he had regained some of his old form against ACC.

Brevard is a dangerous runner and good pass receiver. He is exceptionally good on punt and kick-off returns.

9th Grade 11 Seek 3rd Win

With three key backfield men sidelined, the 9th grade Yearling gridders take on Leveled here Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

A large part of the responsibility to rest on the shoulders of a 2-2 record, blasting Big Lake "B" 54-0 and edging Lamesa 6-0. They dropped games to Andrews, 33-7 and Snyder, 20-13.

Said Backfield Coach Dan Lewis, "Against Andrews we played too much by our news clippings. And, too, we were penalized 250 yards. That hurt." Scoring has been even among the boys and their ground attack has been so consistently good there has been no need for passing. Carey King and R. L. Lassiter have monopolized the broken field running game but the key to their success has been unselfish teamwork. A sharp defense has been held tight by middle guard Charles Wilson and right tackle Tim Williamson.

Coaches Lewis and Van Pelt admit they know little about Leveled, but are expecting a hard-nosed power sweep series. The Yearling line averages 165 pounds per man.

Bufs Host Rugged Water Valley Friday Evening

FORSAN (SC)—Coach James Blake is expecting his Forsan Buffaloes to have their toughest test of the season Friday night, when they play host to Water Valley. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Wildcats will bring a 4-1 won-lost record to town. Forsan's record is unsullied in four starts. Last week, the Bisons trampled Noice but only after an all-out offensive effort. The score was 66-48.

Some of the Buffs are still ailing, a siege of flu struck the Forsan camp last week and about 15 boys were ailing at one time.

Water Valley has an offense equally as potent as that of the Buffs. The Cats have been averaging about 40 points a game.

LAMESA CLUBS GUESTS Yearling Elevens Play Here Tonight

By BOBBY HORTON
Coaches Hugh Hamm and Jimmy Marcus will field an undefeated 7th grade Yearling team against Lamesa here tonight. The 7th graders have beaten Andrews 20-7, and Odessa 6-0, giving some indication that they will be hard to handle. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

On the other hand, Lamesa will display an unbeaten team, which holds victories over Snyder and Colorado City. Coach Hamm will depend a great deal on three backs to furnish the punch in his winged-T running attack: quarterback Rick Wisener, tailback Tony Dutcher, and wingback Jerry Bethell, also a good boy on defense.

Says Coach Hamm, a Decatur Junior College product, "Our running game has been the most consistent so far, but we do plan to pass more and more eventually."

Coach Jimmy Marcus' defensive line has been bolstered by five performers. Horton, Jennings, Boles, Wisener, and Bethell. Only one boy has missed practice because of injury. Doyle Hail, a starter, is out because of twisted knee ligaments.

Wildlife Lands May Be Saved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interior Department proposed today a new policy on restricting oil and gas leases on federal wildlife lands.

The proposed regulations would forbid leasing on wildlife refuge lands which are under complete jurisdiction of the Fish and Wildlife Service, except where the government has determined the lands are being drained by nearby wells.

The proposals would apply to wildlife refuges, game ranges, Alaska wildlife areas, and federal-state cooperative lands.

Conservationists have charged wildlife refuges were being ruined or endangered by oil and gas operations.

The new regulations will be published in the Federal Register. Interested persons then will have 30 days in which to submit comments to the director of the Bureau of Land Management here.

Shows Early Foot

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Jerry Penland, second best ground gainer in the Southern Conference last season and top man for Furman, already has started on the right foot. In the opening game against East Tennessee State, Penland gained 65 yards. The Greer, S. C., senior carried the ball 15 times. Penland gained 591 yards in 1956.

SMU Punter Tops With 50.3 Average

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Winters of Utah State, the total offense leader, and high scorer Wray Carlton of Duke were the only major college football individual leaders holding over from a week ago, the NCAA service bureau reported today.

Winters, who is leading in forward passing with 492 yards in three games, is tops in total offense with 515 yards. Bob Stransky of Colorado, second in total offense with 436 yards, leads in rushing with 369 yards. Arizona State's Leon Burton is the rushing runnerup with 365 yards. Carlton scored eight points as Duke defeated Maryland 14-0, running his total to 40, 10 more than for Jerry Mertens of Drake and Idaho's Howard Willis.

In punting, with seven or more kicks, Dave Sherer of Southern Methodist leads with an average of 50.3 yards on nine punts. Jim Conroy of Southern California is next with an average of 45.7 yards on 10 kicks, and Ralph Anastasio of West Virginia has 45.3 yards on nine punts.

Steers Hampered By Miseries

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas football team is hampered by colds and sniffles, but should be in fair shape in time for the Oklahoma game Saturday.

James Shillingburg was out. Others have had what was definitely the flu, or severe colds, but they seemed to be mending, Hoyal said.

J. T. Seahorn, named Lineman of the Week in The Associated Press ratings, was still listed as under the weather from an abscessed tooth but he should see some service.

Tidwell Chevrolet and Standard Sales continue in a tie for first place in Men's Classic Bowling league standings after games this week, although Tidwell has an 11-4 won-lost record compared to a 10-5 mark for Standard.

Stengel Beginning To Look Old, Tired

By ED WILKS
NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, the foremost genius in baseball, begins to look like a tired old guy at this stage of the game.

York Yankees had to prevent a sixth game defeat that would have decided the title.

BURDETTE SEEKS 3RD WIN OVER NY YANKEES

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees once again were favored over the Milwaukee Braves today to win the World Series.

Haney Is Still Confident Despite Milwaukee Loss

By JOHN CHANDLER
NEW YORK (AP)—There were broad smiles on all faces in the New York dressing room after the Yankees squared the World Series at 3-1, but the happiest guy of them all was Bullet Bob Turley, who pitched and won his first victory in the autumn classic.

Remainder of the squad includes: Ends—Jim Brock of Fort Worth, Garland Cartwright of Matador, Mike Seay of Andrews, Stanley Bolding of Dallas, Elton King of El Paso, Homer Spooner of Colquhoun, Ga., Don Davis of Justin.

Rewards For Suggestions

Cash Awards Presented For Money-Saving Ideas

Checks totaling $295 have been presented to three civilian employees of Webb AFB in the Civilian Incentive Awards Program for suggestions to speed up and simplify their work.

L. H. Steward received $110.70 for an idea concerning construction of a power unit trailer. J. E. Clark received $99 for a suggestion involving a special strapping device for aircraft strut installation. D. W. Karns won $86 with an idea for improving one of the processes used in the machine shops at Webb.

In February of this year a major drive to encourage suggestions was begun. All awards made under the Civilian Incentive Awards Program are based on dollar savings to the government. Since the drive began, 19 awards have been made, with the average check being $18.6.

WAC Detachment Told 'Shape Up'

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP)—The WAC detachment in Yokohama has been told to shape up before Saturday, with an assist from falsies and girdles where necessary.

The word came from the outfit's new — and shapely — young commander. Some of the girls think Lt. Jean Wolcott of Kent, Ohio, went too far. One subordinate said she might write her congressman.

"I didn't exactly order them," the pretty lieutenant said today. "I just told them, and next Saturday I'll see what's been done."

The advice, a "girl-to-girl talk," came after Lt. Wolcott's first inspection last Saturday of her 96-woman detachment. The female outfit is on duty at the Army transportation terminal and regional camp in Yokohama.

This is what the lady loopy says she found when she inspected:

Only one of the 96 women standing inspection "met specifications perfectly."

Most of the faults were minor. Some "did not fill their WAC uniforms properly."

"Some of the young ladies who are not too gifted in some ways were told they could make improvements. For a few who were beginning to bulge a bit, I suggested girdles. For a few others I suggested padding for the shoulders—and elsewhere.

"When a WAC isn't well endowed," the lieutenant explained, "the uniform has a tendency to dip in front of the shoulders. Padding at the shoulders will take the dip out. So will falsies."

Lt. Wolcott admitted that neither falsies nor girdles are government issue. The girls must buy their own.

"For this reason I couldn't order them to improve their appearance, and there will be no disciplinary action against any who refuse to do so," she assured.

She hastened to add that she thinks her WACs "are among the best and I want them to be the best looking in the world."

Come Saturday, a male officer from headquarters will inspect the feminine detachment.

"But he certainly will make no comment on padding or girdles," said Lt. Wolcott.

N. Korean Who Gave MIG To U.S. Is Now In College

NEWARK, Del., Oct. 10 (AP)—Kenneth Rowe has $100,000 in the bank. He's earning an engineering degree, owns a car, plans to make a down payment on a home and will become a U. S. citizen by 1961.

All of this came about since the September day in 1953 when Rowe, then called Kim Sok No, landed his Russian MIG15 on an American airfield in Korea and became the recipient of a $100,000 reward.

Today, almost fully absorbed into the American scene, Rowe is still fighting a three-year-old battle to bring his mother from South Korea to the United States.

"I think if she dies before she comes here, I shall never be happy," said Rowe. A 25-year-old senior at the University of Delaware, Rowe said his mother is waiting in a refugee compound near Taegu, South Korea.

She is Kenneth's only family and he is her only child.

Ironically, Kenneth claims, it was his mother's escape with United Nations troops from North to South Korea that convinced him he too must escape. A month after his mother had left her village, Senior Lt. Kim of the North Korean air force took his chance.

Rowe said he knew nothing of the $100,000 offer for a MIG15 by Gen. Mark Clark. He said he had been stationed in Manchuria where he had taken part in 60 missions against U.N. forces, but was out of reach of leaflet-bearing U.N. planes.

He said Red pilots were allowed to listen to only two Communist wave lengths on the radio. Besides, he pointed out, with North Korean devalued currency counting in the thousands, no pilot had any idea how much $100,000 was.

Reduction Reported In Paralytic Polio

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom today reported a dramatic 80 per cent reduction in paralytic polio in this country over the past two years.

A sharp decline was noted also in the less severe nonparalytic cases.

Folsom said the success of Salk polio vaccine provides the means for "a knockout blow" to the disease next year if the millions of Americans under 40 who still have not done so will get the full three recommended doses.

He spoke out in a statement launching a new program to encourage use of the vaccine.

He reported that the number of paralytic polio cases this year up through Sept. 28 was only 1,576, compared with 7,886 two years ago, before widespread use of the Salk vaccine, and 5,241 cases up to this time in 1956.

"If people will use the vaccine available, it is possible to give paralytic polio a knockout blow within the next year," Folsom said.

"Still, more than 37 million Americans under 40 have received no vaccine, and 44 million have taken only one or two doses and have yet to complete the full schedule of three doses.

"It will be a tragedy if, simply because of public apathy, vaccine which might prevent paralysis or even death lies on the shelf unused."

He recalled that a big supply of unused vaccine developed last fall only to disappear quickly with the start of this year's polio season. Supplies again are starting to build up, he said, adding: "If unvaccinated persons will start now, they can get the full schedule of three doses before the next polio season begins."

Folsom said only 63 cases of paralytic polio had been reported among the 28 million persons who have had three vaccine shots, and not all those cases have been confirmed.

Statistics showed there had been only two deaths among persons who had three shots — one death in 1956 and one early this year.

It was noted that even though the vaccine is designed to prevent paralytic polio, as distinguished from the milder, nonparalytic type, there has also been a sharp reduction in cases of all kinds.

Through Sept. 28 there had been 4,851 cases this year, compared with 12,146 a year ago, 21,667 two years ago, and an average of 24,928 a year over the past five years.

British Fascist Fast Becoming No. 1 Has-Been

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Sir Oswald Mosley, once the most feared man in Britain, is still bombarding society with his conception of a new world according to Mosley.

But at 60, the prewar leader of the British Union of Fascists is in danger of becoming the country's No. 1 political has-been.

There are very few youngsters in Britain today who even know his name.

That is not for want of reminders. Mosley's postwar party—the Union Movement—plasters the streets with his portraits.

Occasionally, the lightning flash emblem of the prewar Fascists is chalked on a gray London wall.

It is the people over 30 who remember Mosley best.

They recall the huge prewar rallies by his jaunting followers, the street fighting and racial antagonism that erupted around his movement—and the sieg heils.

Mosley has a tough job on his hands if he is ever to convince his age group his ideas have changed. Still he tries to say that Fascism is behind him.

The immediate political aims of the Mosley movement have changed. Before the war, Mosley wanted Britain to solve its manifold problems by retiring into its empire. Today, he advocates a united Europe, including Britain, which would exploit the vast resources of the African continent for its economic stability.

Other aspects of Mosley's creed have also changed. His movement no longer campaigns for the expulsion of Jews from Britain. Instead, it carries on a crusade against "the colored invasion" of Britain by immigrants from its commonwealth and empire.

So far, his ideas show no sign of catching on here except among his remaining followers.

These days, Mosley is something of an exile. He lives mainly in Ireland or at a mansion outside Paris.

His wife is, the former Diana Mitford. Her sister, Unity Mitford, was known in British social circles before the war as pro-Nazi and a friend of Hitler. Lady Mosley has been with him through all the tough years, including his wartime imprisonment.

Ghana Accepts U. S. Apology

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—The Foreign Ministry announced today it has accepted a U. S. government apology for a color-bar incident involving a Ghana Cabinet minister visiting America.

"K. A. Gbedemah, minister of finance who had been attending the World Bank meeting, was turned out of a restaurant in Dover, Del., Monday because of his color."

"We were very much worried when we first heard of the incident, but became relieved when President Eisenhower invited Mr. Gbedemah to breakfast," a ministry statement said.

A spokesman added: "I think the whole affair is now forgotten."

U. S. Ambassador Wilson Flake expressed his personal regret to the ministry last night and said: "The incident should be construed in the light of what it surely was, an exceptional and isolated incident that does not reflect the view of the U. S. government or the vast majority of the American public."

Uncle Ray: Poem Says Beatrice Was Guide Of Dante

By RAMON COFFMAN

In his long poem, the "Divine Comedy," Dante told about the horrors of the inferno. He said that he and Virgil, his guide in that area, were carried there on the back of a monster.

Among the figures seen in that unhappy place was one named Tantalus, supposed to have been an ancient king. He stood in a lake and was thirsty. When he tried to drink the water, the level would go down and he never could quench his thirst. From Tantalus comes our modern word "tantalize," which means to tease or torment.

After taking his guest to the top of the Mountain of Purgatory, Virgil was required to go back to Limbo. Dante was greeted at the entrance to heaven by the spirit of Beatrice.

The poem goes on to say that Beatrice guided the poet through several levels of heaven, one being the heaven of the moon and another the heaven of the sun.

Words have been spoken against Dante because he "placed his friends in heaven and his enemies in the inferno." Those words are not entirely just. Some of his political enemies (who had sent him into exile) were portrayed in places of suffering, but he never had seen many of the figures mentioned.

Beatrice greeting Dante at entrance to heaven.

Certain of them had lived in many hundreds of years before.

One case, in particular, is mentioned as showing his "stern sense" of justice. According to the poem, he found Brunetto Luti, his one-time good friend, suffering the pains of the inferno.

People have taken keen interest in the "Divine Comedy," which has been published in hundreds of editions. The beauty of Dante's style did much to build up the Italian language, as Shakespeare later was to beautify and improve the English language.

22 Crewmen Taken Aboard Rescue Ship

HONOLULU (AP)—Twenty-two of the 45 crewmen of the stricken tanker Mission San Miguel were safely transferred to a Navy LST which was maneuvered into position to take on the rest, the rescue craft radioed early today.

Rising waves smashed into the reef that wrecked the Mission San Miguel. Its engine room was flooded, the LST messaged.

The tanker went aground Tuesday night on Maro Reef, a wave-swept area of rock and shoals some 12 miles long and 5 miles wide. The reef is 745 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Lamesa C Of C Okays Program

LAMESA—Directors of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce Board of City Development adopted "A Blueprint for Progress" as their 1957-58 program of work. The group met Wednesday at Lidel's Restaurant and heard an audit report, the program of work report, proposed budget for the ensuing year and plans for the Oct. 21 banquet. Major objectives are to: (1) Seek cooperation in the provision of adequate swimming pool facilities; (2) Study need and develop plans for a supervised youth recreation program; (3) Initiate study and foster citizen understanding and support for city planning and zoning; (4) Determine need and assist in promotion of an auditorium.

Long range objectives are: (1) Encourage closer cooperation with agricultural agencies concerned with more profitable and efficient agricultural and livestock development in Dawson County; (2) Work more closely with the problems and needs which will further develop the oil industry in Lamesa; (3) Promote Lamesa as a tourist "stop over" point and work actively to bring more conventions and visitors to Lamesa and (4) Maintain continuous survey of area resources to promote new industry.

Hull & Phillips Supermarket Holds Opening At Lamesa

LAMESA—Lamesans jammed the new Hull and Phillips Supermarket which opened here Wednesday at N. 7th and Bryan Streets.

Owners of the new supermarket are Ted Hull, Pete Hull and Elmo Phillips, all of Big Spring, where they operate two stores. Manager of the store is Carl (Bud) Billings, another former Big Spring man, who now resides at 1006 North 8th Street here. There are free gifts for each person visiting the new Hull and Phillips Supermarket during the four-day grand opening. Chamber of Commerce President Richard Crawley, Mayor Bob Crawley and Phillips took part in the brief ceremony opening the new supermarket. Phillips said about 30 minutes after the firm opened its doors that while they had expected a good crowd to turn out, they had not expected to have a waiting line, and that they regretted they were not able to serve the hundreds who came to the grand opening as they wanted to.

Theft Suspect Is Freed On New Bond

Connie Garza, charged with theft from a person and who has been at liberty on bond for sometime, was re-arrested on Wednesday night and placed again in the county jail. Sheriff Miller Harris said that the woman's bondsmen had surrendered their bond and asked to be relieved of their liability. Thursday morning, the defendant posted a new $1,000 bond which was accepted. She was released from the jail.

Junior College Board Sets Meeting Today

Regular meeting of the Howard County Junior College board of trustees is set for 5 p.m. today at the college. Official notice is due to be taken of the gift of $300,000 from the Dora Roberts Foundation for construction of a student union building at the college. Otherwise, only regular matters are on the agenda.

Knott P-TA Slates Important Meeting

KNOTT (SC)—The Parent-Teachers Association of Knott is having an important meeting at 7:30 p.m. today and Supr. Bill Bozin said he was hopeful that there would be a good attendance. Program for the event will be furnished by the fifth grade pupils of Mrs. Nellie Beckmeyer. Several school matters will be discussed.

Col. Lovelace New On Staff At Webb

Arriving at Webb recently from Headquarters, Fifth Air Force, Nagato, Japan, Lt. Col. David R. M. Lovelace has assumed command of the 356th Installations Group. Col. Lovelace, whose home is in Courtland, Ala., has spent four of his 12 years of active duty overseas in Central Pacific areas of Okinawa and the Marianas, and in Japan and Korea. The colonel has taken courses at Louisiana State University, Central Army College at Shreveport, and at Harvard University. In 1950, he completed the Field Officers Course at Ft. Belvoir, Va., Engineers School. While on inactive reserve status, Col. Lovelace was employed as associate civil engineer for a firm in Shreveport, La.

Holder of the coveted Black Belt of judo, he was active in American boys' judo training while in Japan. The colonel and his wife, the former Marilyn Hotchkiss of Courtland, Ala., live at 1607 Kentucky Way, Big Spring. The family also includes two children; Richard 13, and David 10.

Pan American Picks Site For Second Breedlove Field Test

Pan American Petroleum Corp., which completed a well in the Breedlove field of Martin County last week, today announced location for another venture in the area. The new location is Pan American No. 1 Irvin Snell and is about six miles southwest of Patricia. It is in the North Breedlove field and will drill to 12,500 feet looking for Devonian production. made hole at 11,618 feet in lime, shale, and chert. The wildcat is 10 miles southwest of Patricia, 660 feet south and west lines. Tract 28, League 258, Briscoe CSL Survey.

Lawless No. 9 Bird has been completed for a daily pumping potential of 78.21 barrels of oil and 2 per cent water. The well is in the Westbrook field, 2,310 from south and 660 from east lines, 40-38-in. T&P Survey, three miles northwest of Westbrook. Standard of Texas No. 34-1 Foster is a new location in the Latast East Howard field about three miles east of Coahoma. Drillsite is 2,740 feet from south and 1,650 from west lines, 5-29-1s, T&P Survey. Drilling depth is 3,000 feet.

Concert Association Is Assured Of Goal

The goal is assured and the membership campaign for the Big Spring Concert Association is closing this evening. Mrs. Clyde Angel, president, urged those who may have been delaying in securing their memberships to make contact by 6 p.m., the deadline time. Reports from all directors indicate a good response to appeals which accompanied the announcement of the deadline. After today no memberships will be sold to anyone, said Mrs. Angel, because the energies of the board members will be required to prepare for the first presentation Saturday at 8 p.m. in the City Auditorium. This is "The Rivalry," the play about the Lincoln-Douglas debates and starring the celebrated Raymond Massey in his legendary characterization as Lincoln, together with Agnes Moorehead as Adele Douglas, wife of Sen. Stephen A. Douglas, who is portrayed by Martin Gabel. The play, written and directed by Norman Corwin, went on the road in mid-September and has been getting remarkable reviews. It is to be premiered in New York in January. Other offerings on this year's series include the internationally famous Pamplona Choir from Spain, the musical comedienne, Anna Russell, and a rising operatic and popular baritone, Theodor Uppman.

$428 Is Given To School Fund

High school students have contributed $428.86 to the United School Fund, an agency to consolidate all school fund raising efforts in one annual campaign, Principal Roy Worley reported today. The campaign is continuing. Worley said objective of the drive is to secure the price of one show ticket on each pupil. So far, contributions have averaged 63 cents per student. As an incentive, first period classes contributing 100 per cent were promised a class "cut" Friday morning. So far, 18 classes have qualified for the offer. Money raised by the United School Fund will be divided among the various outside agencies students are called upon for support. Included in that group is the Big Spring and Howard County United Fund, also conducting a campaign at present.

Discussion Slated

The second in the "Human Growth" series at the YMCA is set for 8 a.m. today at the YMCA. Dr. Clyde Thomas Jr. is the discussion leader and the topic is: "The Human Body, How It Is Made, And What Makes It Grow?"

New Motion Filed In Extradition Case

Harry Sonnier, wanted in Louisiana to answer a child desertion charge, who lost an effort to evade extradition in the local courts, then failed to convince the criminal appeals court of his contention at a recent hearing, has now filed a motion before that court for a retrial. Sonnier is at liberty on bond. He was arrested here on request of Louisiana officials some months ago. He refused to waive extradition and a request to the governor for an extradition order was granted. Sonnier then sought by habeas corpus to avoid removal to Louisiana. This was denied and he gave notice of appeal. The first appeal was denied and this, according to officers here, is a new effort by Sonnier to avoid being returned to his former home state.

CD Organizational Meeting Scheduled

Civil defense leaders will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the County Court room for an important session. W. D. Berry, co-ordinator, announced. He said that this is to be an organizational meeting occasioned by a reshuffle of the civil defense and disaster unit in Howard County. Others are Douglas Orme, Oscar Glickman, Brown Rogers and Mrs. Lubert Rutherford, representing the city of Big Spring; Lawrence Atkins, Wayne Monroye, Harvey Adams and Dean Johnson, representing Howard County; Mayor W. C. Hutchins, representing the City of Coahoma; Mrs. Obie Bristow, women's clubs; T. J. Compton, Texas Department of Public Welfare; Lt. Fred Overton, Salvation Army; Mrs. Moree Sawtelle, Red Cross; Dr. Broadway Broadrick, Medical Society; Dr. Rev. Gage Lloyd, Big Spring Pastors Association.

Chill Weather Still Prevails

The Weather Bureau was 10 degrees too high in its predicted maximum temperature for Big Spring on Wednesday and the citizenry was well aware of the error. Instead of the maximum reading of 78 promised for the day, the mercury never got higher than a chilly 66. The low was 54 last night—which was two degrees lower than the bureau had forecast. There seemed very little probability the maximum guessed for Thursday would be reached, either—the bureau having said that the top reading for today would be 78. The chances of the sun getting in licks enough to hit that mark were dim at 11:30 a.m. today. The very best that the mercury had been able to accomplish was a brisk 58 degrees.

Mail Routes Extended

Mail delivery service to 30 more Big Spring families was initiated on Thursday morning. Mail routes were extended on four routes to provide house delivery to approximately 100 persons, the Big Spring post office announced. Extensions put in operation Thursday included the 600 block on Elgin Street, the 1200 block on E. 18th, the 3200-3300 blocks on Cornell and the 1600 block on Indian Hills. Requests for mail delivery on these blocks had been presented and had been given official approval by the post office department.

Youth Sentenced To Prison Term On Murder Conviction

Ramon Gomez, 18, was formally sentenced to serve 20 years in the state penitentiary this morning. Gomez was convicted by a jury in 118th District Court Sept. 25 of the murder of Moses Corrales, 27. Corrales was knifed to death at a dance hall on the northwest side of Big Spring. Sentencing of Gomez was the final act before the youth is removed to the state penitentiary. Judge Charlie Sullivan, presiding in the court, told Gomez he had conferred with Clyde Thomas, defense attorney, and that the lawyer had informed him he did not desire to be present at the sentencing. Gil Jones, district attorney who had prosecuted the case,

Election Called On Park Bonds

LAMESA—The Lamesa City Council, in a special meeting Wednesday afternoon, called a city park improvement bond election for Tuesday, Nov. 5. Voters of the city will ballot on $50,000 for the city's share in the construction of two swimming pools and other park improvements. Councilmen J. D. Dyer Jr., Ray Evans and Fred Flanniken voted to call the election, while councilman J. Ray Williams voted against the proposal. The city thus joins Dawson County in balloting on park bonds. The commissioners court last Monday called a $125,000 park improvement bond election, also for Nov. 5, to coincide with the general election. The city council named the First Southwest Company to act as fiscal agent for the bond election. Representing the company at the council meeting was J. M. Barker of Plainview.

Command Pilots

Lt. Col. Leslie F. Garrett, left, and Maj. Vincent Brophy of Webb AFB have received their command pilot wings. Garrett completed flying training and received his first wings at Luke AFB, Ariz., Sept. 23, 1957. Brophy completed flight training one day earlier, on Sept. 23, 1957, at Stockton, Calif. The star and wreath were added to their wings on Sept. 30, 1957. Garrett is wing personnel officer and Brophy is base operations officer.

Khrushchev Says Soviet Ready To Defend Mid-East Interests

NEW YORK (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev has made it clear that the Soviet Union is prepared to use military force if necessary to defend its interests in the Middle East, the New York Times said today.

During an interview with James Reston of the Times, Khrushchev also accused Secretary of State Dulles of inciting Turkey to start a war in the Middle East by attacking Syria. The Communist party boss challenged the U.S. Senate to investigate his charges.

The interview took place Monday at Communist party headquarters in Moscow. The final portion was released by the Soviet government for publication today.

Reston reported that, in what seemed to be a clear threat of Soviet intervention in any Middle Eastern war, Khrushchev said: "If war breaks out, we are near Turkey and you are not. When the guns begin to fire, the rockets (missiles) can begin flying and then it will be too late to think about it. . . . Turkey would not last one day in case of war."

DULLES CHARGED

Khrushchev charged that Dulles first instructed Loy W. Henderson, deputy undersecretary of state, to incite Jordan and Iraq against Syria on his trip to the Middle East after leftist officers took control of Syria's armed forces last August.

Failing to incite Jordan and Iraq, Khrushchev said, Henderson turned pressure on Turkey to attack Syria, Turkey is an American-armed ally in NATO.

When Reston asked Khrushchev for verification of the charges, the Soviet leader replied: "Why don't you ask Mr. Dulles? In his speeches he often refers to God. Then let him swear under oath and tell the truth about the instructions he gave Henderson. If he is truly a believer and does not want to be a perjurer, he will admit that he did give such instructions."

After Reston expressed disbelief at the accusations, Khrushchev went on: "I quite understand you when you say you are flabbergasted, but it is true. Perhaps there may be more factors now for peace than for war, but the United States is pushing Turkey into war with Syria. We will do everything to prevent it."

"In moving their troops the Turks are even laying bare some parts of their frontier with us. They should not do that. They are very weak. Turkey would not last one day in case of war."

Later on Monday, at an East German Embassy banquet, Khrushchev repeated his charges against Turkey and his slightly veiled threat of Soviet retaliation to any attack on Syria. The Turks have rejected the charge of aggressive intent and said their troop movements are a defensive measure made necessary by Soviet arms shipment to Syria.

Khrushchev told Reston there were documents to prove his charges which eventually will be published.

"It would be useful if the American Senate would acquaint itself with those instructions which Henderson received from Dulles," Khrushchev said.

Reston reminded the Russian leader that the United States had gone against its major allies in the Suez crisis to bring peace to the Middle East and was now confronted with new Communist arms and provocations in Syria.

HITS IKE DOCTRINE

Khrushchev replied with condemnation of the Eisenhower Doctrine. He said, "From the Soviet side there were no provocations in Syria. There is not a single Soviet soldier in Syria. There is but an economic delegation with a group of technical experts."

Khrushchev conceded that Soviet arms had been supplied to Syria but added that the United States has also supplied arms in the Middle East.

Khrushchev observed that Arabs in general are far from Communist ideas. He said they are not Communists but nationalists and President Nasser has even jailed Egyptian Communists.

While aware of Nasser's views on Communists, the Soviet Union cooperates with him against all kinds of colonialism, including American, Khrushchev said. He called that "practical coexistence."

FINE JEWELRY

Stoelting Denies Rape Charge

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP)—Thomas Stoelting hobbled to the witness stand yesterday and denied he ever raped Sandra Hauck, 15.

"I have never had any intercourse with Sandra Hauck or any member of the Hauck family," said the geologist, 52.

Stoelting returned to the stand today in his trial on charges of carnally abusing Sandra, daughter of former Hunterdon County Prosecutor Anthony Hauck Jr.

A longtime guest in the Hauck home, Stoelting said he had kissed Sandra "thousands of times like

"I would kiss my own daughter." Stoelting is recovering from the bullet wound inflicted by Sandra April 3. The girl claimed the shooting was an accident.

Sandra said her alleged affair with Stoelting started when he followed her into a barn behind the Hauck home in Clinton Sept. 30, 1955, and raped her.

Sandra had testified they had relations "two and three, sometimes four times a week" between Sept. 30, 1955, and May 1956 when she broke off the alleged intimacies because, Sandra said, Stoelting asked her to perform an unnatural act.

Stoelting denied this.

His attorney, Jules St. Germain, has claimed it was Ralph Meuer, 59, of Randsburg, Calif., another guest in the Hauck home, who carnally abused Sandra. Meuer was associated with Hauck and Stoelting in a mining venture.

Missionary Will Speak Tonight At Nazarene Church

Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Harmon, missionaries for the Church of the Nazarene in Trinidad, have recently returned to the United States for a year's furlough.

Rev. Harmon will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the local Church of the Nazarene, 14th and Lancaster. The public is invited to hear the talk, said Rev. Lawrence Gholson, pastor.

While in Trinidad, Rev. Harmon pastored the St. James Church of the Nazarene, and both he and Mrs. Harmon assisted in the teaching at the Nazarene Bible School in Port au Spain, Trinidad.

Before going to the mission field, Rev. and Mrs. Harmon attended Bethany Nazarene College, in Bethany, Okla. Rev. Harmon also pastored in Buffalo, Kans., and in Sarcoxie, Mo., before being appointed as a missionary.

Rev. and Mrs. Harmon will be traveling in deputation services for the church while on furlough, and will be speaking concerning the work of the church in Trinidad, and their experiences during their recent term of service.

Jet Trainer Crash Fatal To 2 Fliers

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—A T33 jet trainer crashed while making an instrument approach to Offutt AFB last night. Two men died.

Positive identification was held up pending a detailed search of the crash site, about 10 miles east of Offutt.

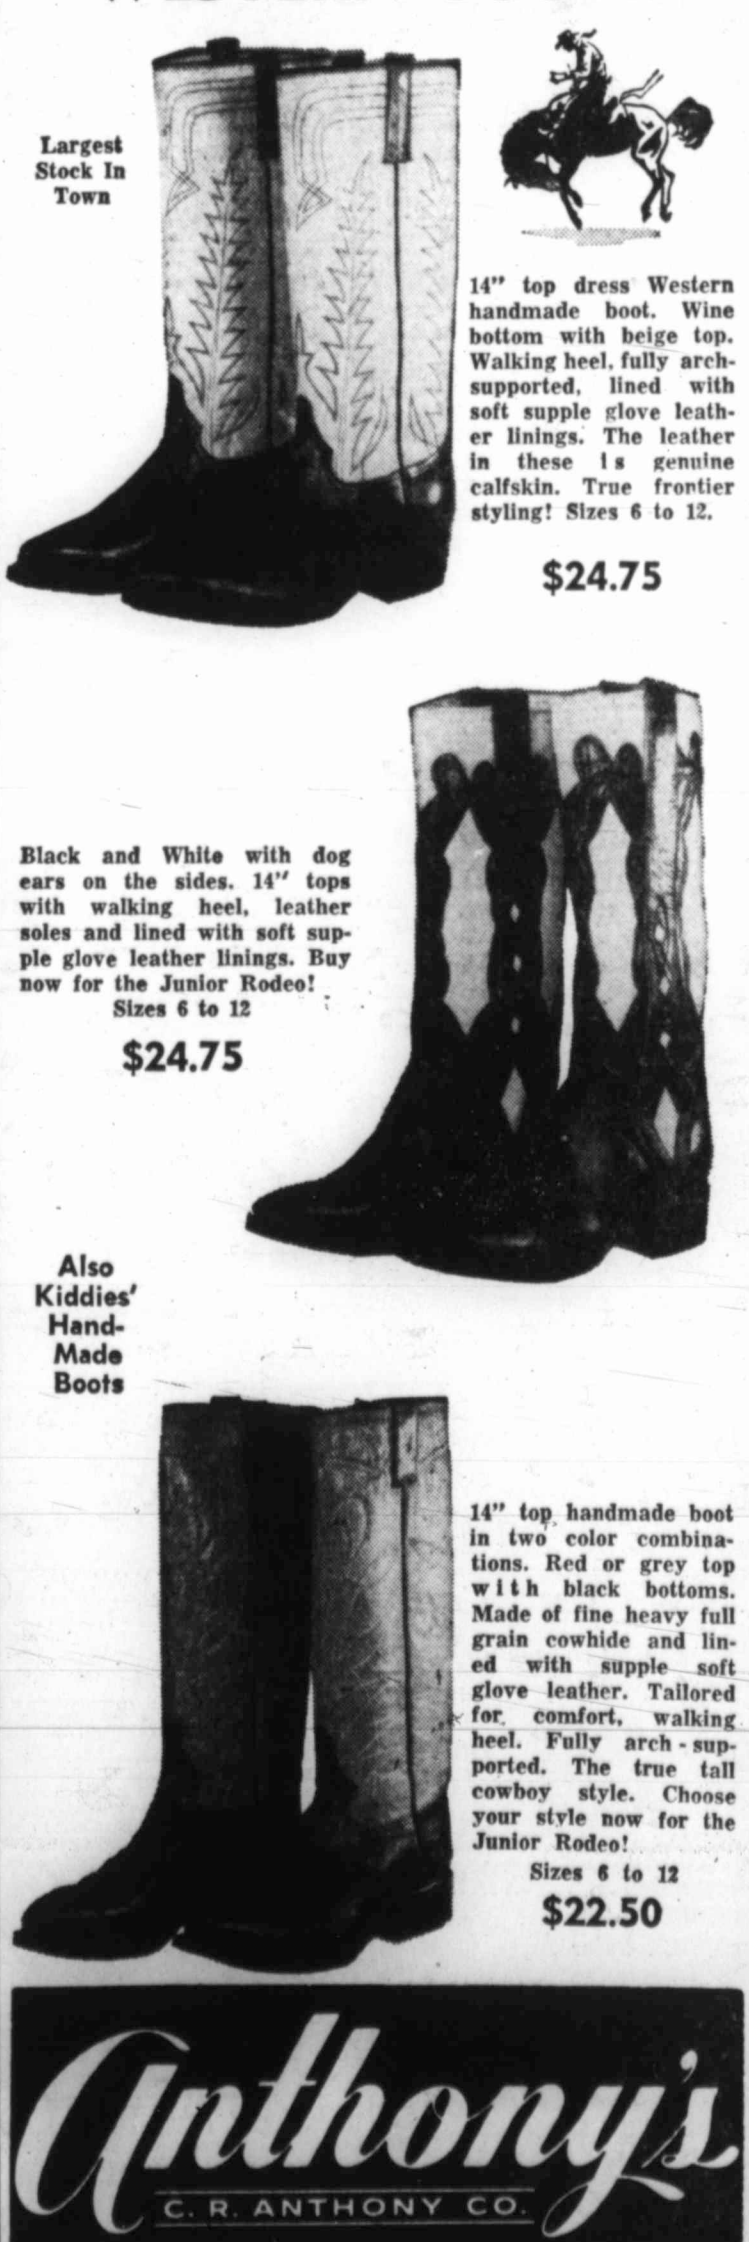

The plane was from Laughlin AFB, Del Rio, Tex.

Ike, Nixon Eat Breakfast With Barred Legate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon had breakfast today with Ghana's Finance Minister K. A. Gbedemah, barred from a Dover, Del., restaurant because of his color.

Howard Cook, who operates the restaurant under a Howard Johnson franchise, confirmed that Gbedemah and his secretary, also a Negro, were told by a waitress they couldn't eat in the restaurant. Cook said he was not on hand at the time and that he regretted the incident.

Gbedemah, accepting Eisenhower's breakfast invitation, said he thought he would forget about an official protest he had been contemplating.

The State Department, without waiting for any protest, sent a formal note of apology to the Ghana Embassy here.

Howard Johnson personally telephoned his apologies to Gbedemah.

In Quincy, Mass., a spokesman for the restaurant chain said his company believes in serving everyone. He said the restaurant in Dover has been advised of that policy, but added that in franchised restaurants the chain controls only the food and the architectural appearance of the buildings.

The finance minister obviously was pleased by Eisenhower's bid, and he said he said regarding the Dover episode, "I don't think it will affect our (U.S.-Ghana) relations in any way whatsoever."

Non-Wearing Suit Is Item For Future

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The suit that won't wear out may be one of the fantastic items in the wardrobe of the future.

Here are some other items: Shirts and coats that won't catch fire; wrinkleproof trousers and dresses; new color-fast fabrics; drapes and curtains that won't fade in the sunlight; carpets that don't give you shocks.

If and when these developments come, it's a good bet many may be traced back to a converted stone mansion on the shores of Lake Carnegie here — headquarters of the Textile Research Institute.

At the institute 60 full-time scientists and a dozen Princeton University graduate students go to the basics of the clothing problem — the individual fiber that makes up wool, cotton, dacron, silk and other fabrics.

Watching over the studies is Dr. John Henry Dillon, 52, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Ripon College, Wisconsin. What his team finds in the area of basic research, 100 member companies apply to fabrics and clothes.

The institute has discovered that each fiber has certain characteristics that make it particularly suited for some uses. Some lend themselves to a combination to get the best points of each.

Heart Attack Kills U.S. German Judge

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—William L. Clark, former chief justice of U. S. courts in Germany, died yesterday of a heart attack in the central Ceylonese resort of Nuwara Eliya.

Clark rocketed into prominence in 1953 when he was told he would not be reappointed to the German court position and then refused to go home. He was suspended and his passport picked up.

AT ACKERLY $100,000 School Budget Adopted

ACKERLY (SC) — The Ackerly Independent School District's budget for the 1957-58 term calls for total expenditures of $100,522, which is about $8,000 less than actual disbursements of the past year.

The difference is in capital outlay. Actually, the current operating budget is for $81,422, which compares with $74,835 the previous year. Capital outlay this year is $17,000 whereas last year the total was $17,839. Debt service will cost $17,400 this year as compared with $16,096 last year.

Administrative costs are pegged at $8,450 (up about $1,400), instruction at $50,322 (up about $1,800), auxiliary services such as transportation etc., $13,850 (up almost $500), operation of plant $6,500 (up about $750), plant maintenance $750 (up $210), insurance $1,500 (up $855).

Principal sources of revenue anticipated are $1,600 from federal lunch funds, $58,150 in state support, $4,000 in county funds, $24,285 in local taxes, a total of $88,035 for current general fund operations. Debt service revenue from local taxes is estimated at $12,500.

The district started the current fiscal year Sept. 1 with $1,103 in the state and county available fund, $185 in the transportation fund, $2,803 in the local maintenance fund, $9,505 in the interest and sinking fund.

Last year the district redeemed $3,500 in bonds, leaving the funded debt at $191,000. The short term debt is $12,360.

Californians Aid Stricken Japanese

CALIPATRIA, Calif. (AP)—Japanese-born Takeo Momita is a druggist in this Imperial Valley community of some 2,500 persons.

While driving with his wife to visit a married daughter in Los Angeles last Saturday, Momita was involved in a head-on collision.

His wife Shizuko, 50, was killed. A delegation of friends and city officials called on Momita at a hospital, where he was recovering from lacerations and shock.

"Give us the keys to your store," said Mayor Edward Rademacher. "We'll keep things going until you get back on your feet."

Townfolk took turns running Momita's drugstore. They kept it operating just as if he were there. Chester Thompson, druggist in nearby Brawley, came over a few hours a day and worked in the pharmacy department.

he had been in the United States since 1908.

Today Momita is recuperating at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Louise Kikawa in Gardena, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Mayor Rademacher said the townfolk will continue to run his store until he is well enough to take over.

"This is not like the Little Rock story," the mayor said. "It is the story of the better side of our life that too often is not presented."

"It's good to know you're part of the community," said Momita.

Worker Killed In Styrene Drum Blast

PORT NECHES, Tex. (AP)—Luther Winch Jr. was killed yesterday when a styrene drum exploded.

Winch, a Texas U.S. Chemical plant employe, apparently bent over the 55-gallon drum to loosen a cap and relieve building pressure. It exploded in his face and pieces of the drum hit just under his safety helmet.

EASY RULES MAKE IT FUN!

- Complete the jingle in the entry blank to the right with a line which rhymes with "two" and has the same rhythm as line 3, or write an entry blank obtainable at your dealer's or on one side of a plain sheet of paper. Print your name and address plainly.
- Mail to "Wife-Saver" Contest, P. O. Box 51, Cincinnati 1, Ohio. You may enter the contest as often as you like, but each entry must be accompanied by proof of purchase from two different "Wife-Saver" brands (jars from Ivory Soap or Camay, box tops from Spic and Span or Oxydol, or the number copied from the bottom of any Joy can). All entries must be postmarked before midnight, November 18, 1957, and received by December 2, 1957, to be eligible.
- The prizes will be: First prize... $20,000 in cash. Next 4 winners... a Plymouth station wagon. Next 55 winners... an RCA color television set. Total: 60 winners... $60,000 in prizes.
- The fourth line of the jingle will be judged for originality with contentment, rhythm, rhyme and aptness of thought. The judges' decisions will be final. Except for incidental help from family and friends, entries must be wholly the work of the person in whose name the entry is submitted, and will be disqualified for outside professional or compensated help. The purpose of this rule is to disqualify entries prepared in whole or in part by professional or compensated writers, schools, or services.
- Entries limited to residents of the Continental United States (including Alaska) and Hawaii, except employees of Procter & Gamble, its advertising agencies and their families. Government regulations apply. In the event of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Only one prize will be awarded to any person. No entries returned. Entries, contents and ideas therein being unqualifiedly the property of Procter & Gamble for any and all purposes. The winners will be notified by mail about 8 weeks after the close of the contest.

'Black Monday' Saw Women Turn Into Screeching Harpies

By RELMAN MORIN
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—On the morning of Sept. 23, a Monday, 99 per cent of the people of Little Rock were nowhere near Central High School.

You don't often begin a report by noting something that didn't happen.

It's important in this case, however, because Sept. 23 was "Black Monday" in Little Rock, the day of the riots at the high school.

That was the day when a relatively few people, about 400 in all, beat up Negroes and newspapermen, fought with police, raged in the streets, and screamed to the children inside the high school, "Come out! Don't stay in there with the niggers!"

In the space of an hour, these few—

1. Brought shame and disgrace to a community of good people.
2. Fashioned a deadly propaganda weapon for the Communists to use against the United States in Asia and Africa, among the black, yellow and brown races this country wants as friends.
3. Rescued Gov. Orval Faubus, who had predicted violence, from what had appeared to be the role of a false prophet.
4. Figuratively tarred and feathered those people, on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line, who are patiently searching for the answers to the immense problems that sprang from the Supreme Court ruling that segregated schools are unconstitutional.

ONLY A HANDFUL

Only a handful are responsible for this and more.

The rest of Little Rock was in its homes and offices and places of business as on any other day.

This is not to say that they approve integration. They don't. They overwhelmingly oppose integration and want no part of it.

But they also believe in obeying the law. And there is the dilemma. It is not easy to obey a command that rowels your deepest sensibilities, nor readily comply with an order that you feel, in blood and fibre, is wrong.

Today, many people in Little Rock are sick and tired of "the mess," as they call it. They are prepared to accept integration simply as the lesser of two evils.

Others shrug and say, "You can't fight the U.S. government. Why try?"

Still others, businessmen who are thinking of the future development of Arkansas, are anxious to regain the nation's respect.

Much of this sentiment came as a reaction to "Black Monday," and the two days that followed—three days that shook America.

Who were the people who gathered in front of Central High School that morning?

HARD NOSED HATERS

There were some hard-nosed haters, looking for Negroes and "Yankee reporters" to slug—provided the odds were right.

Some were merely curious, waiting to see what would happen. And some were crusading for kicks.

Finally, there were the women. They were the most frantic of all, the noisiest, the most vulgar. Apparently average housewives suddenly turned into harpies, screeching, crying, tearing their hair. They had a fine old emotional binge that morning, a real spree.

They were the first to pass the wooden barricades and rush up to the policemen.

The police kept control inside the barricades. But they did next to nothing about the beatings that took place outside. First, the crowd attacked four Negro newspapermen. Later, they turned on white reporters and photographers. During all this, there were policemen close at hand.

Was the rioting organized? Did ringleaders come to the school with a plan?

That's what the FBI is tracking down now. They won't say whether they have any suspects or what charges may be brought.

The night of Sept. 23 in Little Rock was a nightmare.

RACIAL BRAWLS

Soon after dark, reports began coming in of fights between whites and Negroes. One white man was hit on the head with a brick and suffered concussion. Police fired on a speeding car full of Negroes, pursued it until it crashed; two of the men in it were injured. There were reports of gang fights.

On Tuesday, Sept. 24, the electrifying news came that President Eisenhower had put the National Guardsmen under federal orders, and that units of the 101st Airborne were on the way to the city.

Shortly after dark, a convoy of Army trucks rumbled over the main street bridge from the opposite side of the Arkansas River. People stared in utter disbelief.

Nothing like this had been seen in a Southern city since the days of the Reconstruction, 90 years ago.

There was every form of reaction in Little Rock—surprise, dismay, relief, blood-hot indignation. I went around the city that night, first to the school, then to other areas, talking with people.

The next day, Wednesday, Sept. 25, the paratroopers' officers quickly and efficiently demonstrated to the smaller crowds again gathered at the high school that they meant business.

G'S CRACKED DOWN

The soldiers broke up two groups. One man suffered a scalp wound when he tried to grab a paratrooper's rifle. Another was jabbed in the arm with a bayonet.

After that, there was no serious trouble.

Then the campaign began to induce as many parents as possible, by threats or persuasion, to keep their children out of school. It appears to have failed.

The hard-core segregationists who first remained away from classes came back last week. Then, soon after classes began, they tried to start a mass walkout. The snowball didn't roll.

Sixty-nine students were suspended last weekend. Most had joined in the walkout. Some had attacked two Negro boys. Supt. of Schools Virgil Blossom is prepared to crack down hard, he says.

But what of the future? The troops won't stay in Little Rock forever. What then?

A-Bomb Fired

MARALINGA, Australia (AP)—Britain exploded a balloon-suspended atomic bomb about 1,000 feet over the semiarid Maralinga Wastes today.

Sidewinder Downs Plane

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—An F100 supersonic fighter fired a target rocket—representing an enemy plane—here yesterday and then swiftly shot it down with a heat-seeking Sidewinder missile.

Nearly 6,000 persons attending an Air Force firepower demonstration watched the sudden, uncanny destruction of the tiny target, only five inches in diameter, moments after it was launched.

One Defense Department scientist who helped develop the GAR8 Sidewinder said in awe, "That's what we intended it to do—but I still can't believe it."

Maj. John M. Simmons, Gadsden, Ala., piloting the North American Super Sabre, fired the target rocket straight forward as he approached the demonstration area.

The rocket, easily tracked by its smoky trail, hurtled far in advance of the speeding jet. Then Simmons released the Sidewinder—a simple and relatively inexpensive Navy-developed weapon which has no more electronic parts than an ordinary radio.

The Sidewinder instantly sensed the heat of the target and streaked after it. A fiery explosion destroyed both.

4,000-Mile Jump For Rocket Planned

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A device described as a four-stage rocket is being tested at Redstone Arsenal in preparation for a hoped-for record jaunt of 4,000 miles into space, the Birmingham News said today.

The device resembles a cluster of stovepipes dangling behind a giant balloon and will be launched from Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific within a few weeks, the News said.

News staffer Steve Yates described the device as a four-stage rocket which will be boosted by the balloon to 100,000 feet. This would be above 90 per cent of the earth's atmosphere. The device then would be sped by rockets at 17,000 miles an hour into the upper reaches, the story said.

British Radio Whodunit Leaves Audience Confused

LONDON (AP)—The British Broadcasting Corp. set out to mystify its radio audience last night with a murder play called "Death of a Leading Lady" — and succeeded beyond its fondest dreams. The play, which was recorded, came out backwards.

The program began three minutes late and listeners were thoroughly mystified to hear it start with the play's detective summing up his conclusions.

This went on for eight minutes before an announcer interrupted. "We seem to be having a little trouble with the 'Death of a Leading Lady,'" he said. "She seems very dead at the moment."

He turned the tape player off then restarted it. This time the listeners heard suspects in the murder case being grilled, although as far as the air waves were concerned there hadn't yet been a murder. The second tape ran on for 18 minutes and then the announcer interrupted again.

"Not much point to allowing this program to go on," he said. "I'll play some music until 10 p.m."

He played a couple of bars and announced:

"That was 'It Might As Well Be Spring.' It might as well be spring. It might as well be autumn or next Thursday fortnight. We will now hear the 10 p.m. time signal."

Some time passed, but the signal failed to sound.

The disgruntled announcer apologized and expressed hope that the next program would go on roughly as advertised. It did.

Good Cook, Good Bookkeeper

Mrs. Ruby Rowe is a bookkeeper for the Duncan Drilling Company during the day but when she goes home she is an excellent cook. Her recipes today are for tortes which are a different and delicious dessert on the light side.

Mrs. Rowe Gives Recipes For Two Favorite Tortes

When a hostess wants to make an impression, favorable of course, on her guests, a good person to contact is Mrs. Ruby Rowe who has two most delicious recipes for tortes which she shares with food readers today.

One, the fruit cocktail torte, was served recently at a meeting at the Methodist Church, and nearly everyone there wanted the method of preparing the "culinary diet madness."

FRUIT COCKTAIL TORTE
Drain one medium size can fruit cocktail.
Sift and then measure 1 cup flour.
Add to flour 1 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
1 beaten egg

Add cocktail and mix well. Put in buttered dish (7" x 11").
Make a topping of 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1/2 cup or more of pecan halves. Bake at 325 degrees 20 minutes or until firm. Cut in 8 squares and serve with whipped cream.
This is a flexible dish as it can be made the night before serving or is good made early in the morning of the day it is to be served.

COCONUT CRUNCH TORTE
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup chopped shredded coconut
1/2 cup nuts chopped
4 egg whites
1/4 tsp. vanilla
1 cup sugar
Combine crumbs, coconut and nuts. Beat egg whites with salt and vanilla until foamy, gradually add sugar until very stiff. Fold crumb mixture into egg whites. Spread in buttered 10-inch pie plate. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool and serve with ice cream. This will serve eight.

Mrs. Rowe says that either of the tortes is equally good. They are always the best when served to her family which is composed of four daughters and their husbands and five grandchildren. She is a member of the First Methodist Church and for the past four and a half years has been a bookkeeper for the Duncan Drilling Company.

Butter Cream With Coffee Flavoring

A delightful but rich dessert for an afternoon tea or other refreshment is the coffee butter cream loaf which is chilled before serving. It is a pretty as well as tasty sweet and the recipe is large enough to make 12 servings.

BUTTER CREAM LOAF
1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup brown sugar
1-3 cup strong coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 dozen ladyfingers
1 cup whipping cream
Melted semi-sweet chocolate pieces
Cream butter thoroughly. Add sugar gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add coffee very slowly, a few drops at a time, while beating. Stir in flavoring. Place a single row of ladyfingers in a loaf pan, lined with waxed paper. Sprinkle generously with additional strong coffee. Spoon layer of butter filling over them. Repeat, ending with ladyfingers and sprinkling with coffee. Cover with waxed paper.
Chill overnight. Unmold and frost with whipped cream.
Swirl melted semi-sweet chocolate into cream with tip of knife. Slice to serve. Makes about 12 servings.

Savory Salmon Loaf Good Main Course

Savory and satisfying—that's this piping hot salmon loaf. Bake it in an old-fashioned fish mold for a different looking loaf! It looks lovely decorated to resemble a fish. But cooked in a mold or a loaf pan, it's a perfectly seasoned salmon main dish made refreshing with lots of lemon juice.

The green pepper-celery sauce is just right for the salmon. Canned celery soup is diluted to make the easy sauce which has lots of cooked, garden-fresh green pepper!
Ingredients:
2-3 cup uncooked white rice
1 teaspoon salt
1-1 1/2 cups water
1 pound can of salmon
Evaporated milk
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg, beaten
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup water
1, 10 1/2 oz. can condensed cream of celery soup.
Method:
Put the rice, salt and 1-1 1/2 cups water in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid. Simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes.

Drain the juice from the salmon into a measuring cup. Add evaporated milk to make 1-1 1/2 cups liquid. Flake the salmon. Add the milk mixture, onion, pimiento, lemon juice, egg, black pepper and cooked rice. Mix well. Thoroughly grease a glass 9" x 5" x 2 1/4" loaf pan holding at least 5 cups with shortening or salad oil. Use a greased fish mold which may be placed in the oven, if desired. Pour in the salmon mixture. Place in a preheated 350 degree F. oven. Bake about 55 minutes or until a knife inserted in the center comes out almost clean. This is a moist loaf.

The loaf will brown around the edges and pull away from the sides of the pan. While the loaf bakes, make the sauce. Cook the green pepper in the 1/2 cup water about 7 minutes or until tender. Stir in the celery soup. Season with salt and pepper if desired. Heat until very hot. Add a small amount of water until the sauce is the consistency desired.

When the loaf is done, remove from the oven and allow to stand about 5 minutes. Run a knife around the sides. Place a large platter over the pan and invert. Remove the loaf pan.

Garnish the loaf with pimiento strips, lemon wedges, hard-cooked egg slices or parsley. If a fish mold has been used, decorate with olive slice for the eye and green pepper or pimiento strips for the fins. Serve with the hot celery-green pepper sauce.

This recipe makes 8 to 10 servings.

New Style Lamb Stew

This is a far cry from Irish stew but the Irish would probably enjoy it as much as the other people even if it doesn't have potatoes.

LAMB STEW
3 tbsps. flour
2 tpsps. salt
2 tpsps. paprika
1 tsp. pepper
2 lbs. lamb shoulder, cubed
2 tpsps. butter
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes
1 cup dairy sour cream
Combine flour, salt, paprika and pepper. Coat the meat cubes with this mixture. Melt butter in a 3 quart saucepan. Add meat and chopped onion and brown lightly. Add remaining flour mixture if all was not used to dredge the meat. Mix well. Add tomatoes. Cook over low heat for 2 hours. Add additional tomatoes or tomato juice if necessary. Just before serving carefully stir in the sour cream and blend well.

A Bible Thought For Today

I will give unto that is athirst of the water of life freely. (Rev. 21:6)

Tremendous Discovery In Its Day

The crews of those tiny cockleshells had sighted various objects indicating the nearness of land the day before—a branch covered with berries, a pole, a board, a whittled stick. That very night the Admiral himself had seen some sort of light, indicating dry land.

Two hours past midnight a sailor shouted "Land!"

It was October 12, 1492. There had been much grumbling and many threats of mutiny aboard. The Admiral had falsified his log to make the distance traveled appear much less than it actually was; for these men were heading into an unknown world, in search of far Cathay. Their enterprise was fraught with all the mystery, the uncertainty and the fears that awaited the launching of the first earth satellite.

Columbus called the land San Salvador,

Holy Savior. Nobody knows for certain which island it really was, but most think it is the one now called Watling Island. Columbus thought success had attended his search for another way around the world; he died years later in ignorance that he had discovered an entirely new world.

Undoubtedly others had preceded him to this new world, but Columbus' discovery was set in the proper moment and rhythms of the times, and his was the only discovery that counted.

In his diary he left to us a legacy of profound wisdom, a bit of advice we are prone to ignore. He "perceived" that the natives "could be much more easily converted to our holy faith by gentle means than by force."

The Timing Of Events

An Australian scientist, directing a "moon-watch" station equipped with American instruments in the wilds of the bush, asserts the Russians sent a message to their earth satellite last Sunday saying, in effect, "Now tell us what we want to know," and the satellite responded.

Not in so many words, to be sure, but by electronic devices enclosed in the satellite that responded to predetermined signals from the earth.

And from Moscow itself, but unrelated to the Australian incident in point of time and coordination, came the claim that the whirling satellite had indeed "already taught us something." That something, the Moscow report went on, had to do with the vagaries of the magnetic fields that earthbound scientists never knew before.

That "something" could well be the instruments that the Australian had picked up on his instruments, but of course the Aussie had no way of decoding it. To catch it at all he had to improvise his instrumentation because the American devices were designed to pick up signals from the American moon—if and when it is launched.

Under the agreement entered into by the world's leading nations, including the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.—both of which engaged themselves to send up moons—all data gathered by these moons and by all the other operations of IGY—International Geophysical Year—were to be shared and shared alike. This sharing extended to the signals sent out by the moons, including the code employed.

But the Russians double-crossed the scientists of other nations, and not only failed to announce the launching at the time it was made, but failed to reveal the code in which the signals were sent. Did anybody seriously expect them to come clean?

The Kremlin piled Pelius upon Ossa with their propaganda spurge. They announced the setting off of a "new" kind of hydrogen device at the height of the first excitement over the earth satellite.

This was no accidental timing, but part and parcel of the Soviet Union's careful scheduling of events for their maximum propaganda effect. (Khrushchev's "offer" of a plan for international control of earth satellites obviously is one of them.)

No doubt other startling developments can be looked for, in furtherance of this gigantic propaganda program, designed to make Russia look invincible and all-powerful, and the U.S. to look incompetent and undependable as leader of the free world.

We would be lost to all sense of reality indeed if we failed to realize and act upon the implications of these shattering events.

David Lawrence

No Cause For Panic From Satellite

WASHINGTON—What a strange case of fitters has swept the most powerful country in the world! The Soviets shoot a rocket 500 miles up in the air and send a ball spinning into space and everybody forgets that the U. S. Army sent a rocket 600 miles into the air a year ago. It went 3,600 miles across the earth's surface and just didn't happen to have a ball attached to it to be flung into space.

Yet today the emphasis is on the fact that the Soviets have the power to fire guided missiles across continents, and presumably America doesn't. This is supposed to terrify the American people and tell them that Russia has intercontinental missiles and America had better bow in humble submission.

The truth is that, in the game of missiles, much progress has been made by science in many countries and the question of whether one nation can fire a missile farther than another is already academic. In due time the mysteries of the missile will be as well known as the capacity of the H-bomb to destroy cities. Also the next step—the interception of missiles—is a countermove already under way.

Some of the hysterical reaction arising in the United States from the Soviet announcement was promptly noted in the Soviet press. Immediately there were demands that America "change" her foreign policy and agree to "coexistence." This is but another way of demanding that the Soviet policy be accepted. This means infiltration wherever the Communists wish and continued enslavement of hundreds of millions of people.

Judging from some of the comments in America, there are persons who feel the only thing to do is to surrender to the Russians and forget about any possible resistance. One is reminded of the tales told in the 1930's by those prominent visitors who were invited to see the Nazis' air strength and their armored divisions. These observers immediately counseled that there was no use resisting such military power and that it was better to try to "do business with Hitler."

Unquestionably the Soviets have pulled off a propaganda stunt which is dramatic to the extreme. But American foreign policy is not usually upset by propaganda.

There are bound to be certain consequences in the other direction—a stiffening of American policy. Instead of assuming that military preparation can be cut down through "disarmament" discussions, there will be a tendency here to urge larger appropriations for armament. The "economy drive" of the last session of Congress may lose some momentum now. The funds for scientific research will be increased, though sometimes an abundance of money is no substitute for concentrated and well-coordinated research.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the new revelation is the confirmation it gives of the wisdom of President Eisenhower's aerial inspection program. It has been known for some time that airplanes could fly at tremendous heights and avoid detection. They can photograph from the sky and go unobserved. The theory that one government will not permit another government to fly planes over its territory without permission seems to have been abandoned by the Russians in their latest exploit. They were supposed to have announced in advance, for scientific reasons, their intention to traverse the air over America, but they didn't.

One wonders what the Soviets would have said if an American contrivance had been sent spinning over Russian territory. Maybe the Soviets have unwittingly created a precedent for future reconnaissance through the air. They have been arguing that twelve to thirty miles is the territorial limit horizontally. It might be contended now that vertically there is no national sovereignty over space way up high in the heavens.

This isn't a time for partisan politics, though there are some in Congress who already seem to think that America has suffered some kind of defeat because of the Soviet exploit. Does it really prove that the scientists of one country are better than those of another country just because one group first gets a device that traverses the higher spaces?

Long before the Wright brothers flew the first plane, there were adventurous pioneers who traveled high in balloons. But while balloons are still of value for weather purposes, they don't play any part in warfare.

So, too, while Russia's earth-girdling ball is spectacular, militarily it is of no value in and of itself. What is important is that power to send military weapons around the world and the danger on that score is that the weapon might go all the way around the globe and come back and destroy the people who initiated its tragic flight. The aim could be all wrong.

We are a long way from the "Buck Rogers" era yet—and the moon seems to be not just 500 miles in the air but still at least 215,000 miles away.

Ike On Sputnik: So What?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's attitude toward the Soviet satellite could be summed up in two words: So what?

Many people—scientists, military men and the rest of us—have reacted somewhat differently. Some are alarmed, others are embarrassed that the Russians get there first, most are fascinated at the very least.

But not the President. He has asked himself: What did the Russians really accomplish?

And he gave his answer at a news conference yesterday: "Apparently, from what they say, they have put one small ball in the air."

Eisenhower showed less concern about this than he has been seen to show over the progress of one small ball from the fairway to the green.

No sarcasm is intended. The President was plainly aware of the worldwide uproar over the miniature moon. He came prepared with a long statement on the subject—something he rarely does.

But the essence of his words was: What's everybody so excited about? We could have done it ourselves if we had wanted to. And what does it really amount to,

after all?

Others may say—and are saying—that the Russians have scored an historic triumph. There is all manner of speculation about what happens next: Do the Russians zoom ahead in missile development? Do they beat us to the moon? One British rocket expert, Arthur C. Clarke, goes so far as to say the United States became a second-class power when the Russians shot their small ball into space.

Eisenhower has a word for this sort of talk: hysteria.

Tired Thief

ANADARKO, Okla. (AP)—Falling asleep cost 17-year-old Herbert Hensley, $53 in fines and court costs.

Sheriff's officers awakened Hensley as he slept in his car, parked in the Caddo County garage. A siphoning hose was connected from a truck gasoline tank to the tank of Hensley's vehicle.

Hensley said he fell asleep waiting for the gasoline to be siphoned into his tank.

He pleaded guilty to petty larceny and an additional charge of driving a car with an improper muffler.

He said he realized all along that the Russians would get "a great psychological advantage in world politics" if they were first with the satellite. But he said this country was concerned with orderly scientific research, not with propaganda, and "there didn't seem to be a reason for just trying to grow hysterical" about beating the Russians.

Nobody spoke up in favor of hysteria. Hardly anybody ever does. Nobody asked, either, why this country wasn't concerned with "psychological advantage," when it spends millions each year trying to convince the rest of the world that Americans are smarter and nicer than Russians.

Irene Dunne Like New Role As U.N. Envoy

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Irene Dunne, 25 years a movie star, is in the new role of U.N. delegate. She likes it.

Miss Dunne is a U.S. alternate representative to the U.N. General Assembly.

Before the cameras, she says, she always felt a little frightened. But when she spoke to the General Assembly, "I didn't have any stage fright and I didn't see anybody else that did."

"They were all talking about something they believed in," she commented. "They weren't trying to dream it up, and so they weren't nervous about it."

In the Assembly Miss Dunne, auburn-haired, green-eyed and trim in a gray tweed suit, had said the United States would give $21,800,000 for Palestine refugees in the fiscal year to end next June 30.

Wearing glasses, she stood behind a green marble lectern and told other delegates the refugees "look to the United Nations for their very life." She spoke for five minutes, and there was brief, polite applause as she walked back to the U.S. desk on the Assembly floor.

Miss Dunne's work at the U.N. is chiefly concerned with the trusteeship committee, which looks into trust territories administered by U.N. members, and the Special Political Committee. The latter is concerned with admission of new members, South African race problems, the Palestine refugees and enlargement of U.N. councils and the World Court.

A national delegation to the Assembly consists of five representatives and five alternates.

Miss Dunne and her husband, Dr. Francis Griffin, live in Los Angeles. They will celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary next year. They have a married daughter.

Miss Dunne has an office with a State Department secretary at U.S. delegation headquarters. She spends much time there reading documents and putting her speeches into final shape with the help of advisers, who write them.

A colleague says, "She has been very earnest."

Family Affair

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Howard went to court to seek an order to restrain eight of their in-laws from annoying them or making remarks about them in public.

Common Pleas Judge John W. Daniel entered an order in the case prohibiting among other things, the use of strong language toward one another in public.

Around The Rim

A Look At The Future?

While there's still time, would you like to sit back in your easy chair and look at the end of the world?

If so, read "On The Beach," Nevil Shute's latest novel. I recommend it, although I'm still having nightmares from reading the thing. Mornings, I wake up wondering if these are the last days.

Shute scares me because we're perfectly capable right now of doing just what he describes—bringing human life on this little old planet to a speedy, sickening finale. I'm afraid we might do it, too.

The world ends on the southern beaches of Australia, South America and Africa, in Shute's yarn. About nine months after the Third World War, which lasted but 37 days.

It was all a mistake, too, taking place maybe because of the blunders we're committing now. A spark flame, and in a moment of confusion everyone starts setting off nuclear bombs all over the place.

The blasts don't set the world afire, but they do start an invisible, expanding shroud of nauseating radiation that slowly wraps itself around the earth.

People still living know it's coming, can trace its progress and can predict almost to the day when it will reach them.

Of course there is the quest for escape. One man becomes the only living soul to be standing on the North American continent, surrounded by normal-appearing homes, business places and even machinery, that whirs on, performing the task to which it was assigned by a once-living nation.

All he can do is turn off the machines, so they won't wear themselves out needlessly. It's too late for anything but regret that the world's statesmen failed in the tasks to which they were assigned.

Statesmen around the world should read Shute's hair-raising story. I think it would make them take a new look at the stakes with which they're playing.

Our Libraries Abroad Mean Something

MADRID — In these techy times, it seems increasingly difficult for the United States to make friends and influence people beyond our shores. So it heartened this taxpayer, and may encourage others, to learn what happened in three Spanish communities when the slashed budget of the U. S. Information Service forced it to close three of the seven libraries it had been operating here.

When the announcement was made that the library (Casa Americana) would be closed in Cadiz, Saragossa and Valencia, the American embassy in Madrid was stunned by the number of protests from both town officials and from just plain people. All begged that the library in each community be maintained.

When it was finally obvious to the citizens of all three communities that the United States could no longer maintain the libraries, each of the cities rallied to the rescue.

First, the Mayor of Cadiz asked the embassy if it would leave the American library in his city if he would find a place to house it and help to run it. His solution was to move the books and magazines to the municipal library and open it as the American Section.

The solution in Saragossa paralleled that of Cadiz, except that a municipal committee assigned the technical volumes to the University of Saragossa and the rest to the public library.

And finally, in Valencia, a group of private citizens got together to operate the American library. The group rented new quarters, moved the books there at its own expense and is running the library. But, in addition, the group also started free language lessons in English, and at last count had enrolled more than 100 students!

This real hunger for contact with the United States and a free democracy also makes the library of our sparkling new embassy in Madrid a crowded place. It averages 275 to 300 daily users in all age groups. I noted a 10-year-old boy spelling his way through Popular Mechanics, a young Spanish mother reading Spock, an old gentleman deep in "The Complete Poems of Robert Frost," and another in Carl Sandburg's "Lincoln, the War Years."

The unsung Technical Exchange Program sends some 500 Spaniards annually to the United States to study everything from the American production of hydroelectric power to the manufacture of shoes. Its by-product in good will is estimated as "invaluable."

So eager are graduate Spanish students to study in the United States that 500 to 700 applications are filed annually for the 20 to 30 scholarships offered by the International Institute of Education. Those who are accepted to come to America for a year of advance study and go home to spread the story of democracy in action.

And finally, five leaders in Spanish business, government and education are chosen annually for a three-month look at the U.S.A., a program run by the State Department. The object is an informed and influential nucleus of Spaniards to tell the American story at home.

Uncle Sam is trying in every way to win Spanish friendship. All servicemen will be sent in increasing numbers to our four new Air Force and one naval base must learn Spanish. They will not be permitted to wear uniforms when off base and off duty, lest the sight of too many "foreign" uniforms aggravate any irritations inherent in such a situation. And, insofar as possible, married men are being sent to man the bases in the hope of avoiding that prime irritant, the girl problem.

Knowland Candidacy And Union Labor

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — By defying almost every segment of public opinion in electing James Hoffa as his president, the Teamsters have set in motion a chain reaction that is likely to alter the status of all union labor in this country.

Sen. William F. Knowland is the first national leader to run for the Presidency—and that is just what he is doing in seeking the governorship—on a platform that has as its base a demand for state and national legislation curbing the power of trade unions. But one can be sure that he will not be the last candidate to run with this issue.

Knowland is for a state right-to-work law. If California should pass such a law under his leadership, it would be the first with sizable industry, with the exception of Indiana, to prohibit the compulsory union shop. The senator says he has asked for reports from Indiana to determine whether, as some have charged, the right-to-work provision will undermine industrial stability.

But also in his stern, determined fashion, Knowland in every speech he makes is advocating a seven-point code of rights for the union rank and file to be enacted into federal law. The Knowland program, for which he will work actively in the next session of Congress, is as follows:

1. The right of union members to elect their officers by secret ballot, insuring the counting of ballots against fraud.
2. Union officers subject to recall by the members through secret ballot.
3. No strikes to be called except through secret ballot.
4. The use of union welfare funds to be protected.
5. The use of union funds from dues and initiation fees to be expended only by vote of a majority of the union.
6. Members to have the power through some legalized initiative and referendum to override the action of their officers.
7. Union officers to be forbidden to perpetuate themselves in power over many years without a periodic vote of the membership.

Some of these recommendations, such as the protection of union welfare funds, have long been put forward by friends of organized labor such as Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) and Sen. Irving Ives (R-N.Y.). But others would give such broad supervisory power, presumably to a federal agency, as to mean virtually the end of the system of free trade unions as it has developed in this country.

Union leaders should not, however, deceive themselves if they think that the Knowland proposals are self-defeating because they go so far. The senator in his solid, earnest fashion makes an impressive case for sweeping reform and he does this with only a passing reference to the scandalous disclosures of the McClellan committee.

He talks about how at the beginning of this century business had got so big and powerful that Congressional investigations showed it to be guilty of all sorts of abuses and the anti-trust laws were the result. This leads him to suggest that perhaps the unions should now be brought under those laws.

He talks, too, about the example of Scandinavia's voluntary trade unionism and about how union executives must demonstrate their integrity and ability so that they will win the support of the rank and file. His audiences almost always applaud at this point.

Conviction to one side, Knowland is conducting an extremely shrewd campaign. He says that, because of his stand, labor leaders have marked him down for "liquidation," but he will ignore their warnings. This is the same approach used by Knowland's mentor, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft when he won re-election in Ohio in 1950 by a thumping majority.

Asked whether he intends to make over the Republican party as a conservative party, Knowland replies this is not his intention and that the GOP will still have room for every shade of opinion. But certainly he seems to be leading the way to the kind of division that could end with a conservative and a liberal party or even a labor and an anti-labor party. And that would mean a revolutionary change in party politics in America.

Modern Pirate

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—A modern pirate boarded a ship tied up here, got her under way by himself and sailed out of the harbor before being overtaken and captured by a water-borne posse of local yachtsmen.

The ship, a 16-foot sloop, was turned over to its anxious owner.

The "pirate," a 10-year-old boy, was turned over on his father's lap.

Poor Hunting

SCHUYLER, Va. (AP)—John Mayo thinks porcupines is still a fine thing, but he deplores the fact that rabbit hunting isn't as good as it used to be.

Mayo, retiring after 51 years on the Nelson and Albemarle railroad, owned by a stone company, says he used to stop the engine almost any time and shoot a rabbit—got 14 in one season. As engineer he covered the railroad's 32 miles every day after he advanced from fireman in 1925.

QUICK DESSERT WITH CRUNCHY TOPPING
... nourishing milk instant pudding

Instant Mix And Cake Make Good Dessert

A good dessert is the exclamation point to a fine meal. With the wonderful ready-mix products on the market today the housewife has no longer to spend the afternoon sifting, measuring and blending in order to attain the most appealing dish, and it's a smart cook who keeps a supply of "instant" mixes in the cupboard for last minute plans or unexpected guests. Combining the various products can often lead to the most compliment-fetching dessert.

The Foremost kitchens have prepared this recipe which can be made with instant pudding and a mixed cake layer — planned with the busy homemaker in mind. With a very easy-to-make topping of creamy butter, sugar and cream and crunchy nuts, this is an inexpensive dessert which requires no cooking and is just as tasty and nutritious as the most laboriously prepared, made-from-scratch dessert. The cake layer can be purchased or baked from a favorite mix.

BEEHIVE

1 pkg. vanilla instant pudding
Foremost Homogenized milk
1 baked cake layer
Browned topping:
2 tbsps. butter
¼ cup brown sugar, packed
2 tbsps. cream
½ cup chopped nuts or coconut (optional)

Prepare pudding according to directions on the package. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract. Chill.

For topping melt butter and blend sugar and cream and nuts. Pour over cake later (set in foil) and broil until bubbly—about one minute. Split cake, spread bottom half with pudding and top with other half.

Old Fashioned Cake Served With Sauce

With club meetings starting and entertaining of groups in varying sizes, hostesses are looking for some refreshment other than cakes and cookies to serve at the refreshment hour.

A suggestion would be a slice of good old-fashioned cake served with a sauce with coffee or tea.

For sauce, combine 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ cup sugar, blend. Gradually add 1 cup water and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear.

Add 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon nutmeg and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Cook, stirring occasionally, until butter or margarine is melted. Serve warm with cake. Makes 1½ cups.

Apples Accompany Meat; Make Favorite Desserts

Everybody in the family loves an apple, so it's good news to home-makers that the harvest this year is beautiful and bountiful. No more guessing what to include in the school lunch box, or what to nibble on for a mid-day or TV time snack that has few calories!

Already your market has orchard-fresh, all-purpose Jonathans, and Red Delicious, famous for crackling, juicy eating. 8 in. or growing conditions were just right in the broad valleys of Washington State this year, prices are right, too, so you can buy generously of this vitamin-rich fruit.

For variety, here are unusual recipes—using apples first as a meat accompaniment, and then in an easily-prepared family dessert: JONATHAN APPLE CONSERVE

2 cups diced Jonathans (unpeeled)
2 cups finely ground carrots
1 orange—skin, juice and pulp put through grinder
2 cups sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ cup chopped walnut meats
½ cup seedless raisins

Cook carrots until tender in enough water to cover. Do not drain. Add diced apple, ground orange, sugar and salt. Cook until clear. Remove from heat, add nuts and raisins. Serve with meat, or seal in jars. Good to have on hand for use as a spread on brown bread to serve unexpected company.

JONATHAN APPLE JAVANESE
2 cups water
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup uncooked rice
¼ cup raisins
3 cups apple sauce
½ cup chopped almonds (or walnut chestnuts)

Bring water and salt to a boil in a saucepan with a tight-fitting cover. Add rice. Cover and cook until tender, about 25 minutes.

Meanwhile, rinse and drain raisins. Add raisins and nuts to apple sauce along with lemon peel. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Butter a 1½-quart casserole generously; put in one layer of rice, then one layer of apple sauce, and dot with butter. Repeat. Sprinkle half the sugar and cinnamon over the top. Dot with more butter. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 30 minutes, or until top is golden and crisp. Serve hot with the remaining sugar and cinnamon and table cream. Serves 4 to 6.

Use Fresh Peaches For Molded Tea-Time Fare

If refreshment time comes close to the dinner hour a good suggestion would be to serve a light molded dessert. One of the happiest choices would be a combination that uses fresh peaches as the 'peach royale' that is offered today.

'PEACH ROYALE'
1-3 cup water
½ tsp. almond extract
1-3 cup instant dry milk powder
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin (about 2 tablespoons)
1 cup cold water
½ cup sugar
2½ cups pureed fresh peaches (about 4 large peaches)

Pour 1-3 cup water and extract into deep one-quart bowl; sprinkle instant dry milk powder over surface. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in refrigerator.

Soften gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Combine remaining water and sugar in saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to boil.

Boil one minute. Remove from heat. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Stir into peaches. Rinse a one-quart mold with cold water. Pour one cup of the peach-gelatin mixture into mold. Chill until just set.

Chill remaining mixture over ice water, stirring constantly, until consistency of unbeaten egg white; fold in whipped dry milk powder. Pour into mold on top of peach gelatin mixture. Chill about 2 hours. Unmold just before serving.

Zesty Tomato Soup
Lightly cooked shredded green cabbage is delicious added to tomato soup flavored with onion.

Crisp Carrots
Small fry usually enjoy raw carrots when they are cut into match-like strips.

ring constantly, until mixture begins to boil.

Boil one minute. Remove from heat. Add gelatin; stir until dissolved. Stir into peaches. Rinse a one-quart mold with cold water. Pour one cup of the peach-gelatin mixture into mold. Chill until just set.

Beef, Limas Good For Skillet Meal

Here's a quickie meal that is as delicious as it is nourishing. BEEF AND LIMA SKILLET

Melt 1 tablespoon cooking fat in a large skillet or saucepan. Add 1 pound ground beef and 1 cup chopped onion. Cook until meat browns. Stir in 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon black pepper, 3 teaspoons steak sauce, dash of garlic powder, 1 cup uncooked white rice and 3 cups water. Mix well. Add 1 No. 303 can tomatoes and 1½ to 2 cups uncooked fresh or frozen lima beans. Cover. Simmer about 30 minutes or until lima beans are cooked tender and most of water is absorbed. Stir occasionally. Thin with water if desired. This recipe makes 8 servings.

Sour Cream Veal Chops

Here is a recipe for a main dish meat that combines a Viennese flavor with a touch of Italian cheese. Put it in a baking dish and then into the oven and it's all over until time for the topping which is the crowning glory.

SOUR CREAM CHOPS
4 lean veal chops
2 tbsps. butter
Salt and pepper
4 large slices sweet onion
¼ cup water
1 cup dairy sour cream
Grated Parmesan cheese

Brown chops in butter in frying pan. Arrange in baking dish. Season to taste with salt and pepper and place an onion slice on top of each chop. Mix ¼ cup water with the drippings in the frying pan and pour over the chops. Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Remove the cover; spread sour cream over the tops of the chops, sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, and return to the oven uncovered for 20-30 minutes more or until brown. Serves four.

Other Implications Clouding Scientific Value Of Sputnik

NEW YORK (AP) — The political and military implications of Sputnik are throwing a smoke screen around the scientific value of a man-made, man-controlled earth satellite.

While the West mourns a race lost, Sputnik spins merrily on, its stuttering beeps apparently transmitting scientific data to its earth-bound makers.

What information is Sputnik transmitting?

The Soviets have said it is counting meteor hits and collecting data on the South Magnetic Pole. One Russian scientist has hinted it also is measuring temperatures in space.

That's only part of what earth satellites—Russian and American—are expected to do this International Geophysical Year.

The 6 to 10 planned by the United States will study meteors, magnetism, temperature as well as cosmic and sun rays, air density, space pressure, even the shape and composition of the earth.

These things have been studied before but never outside the atmosphere, the dense layer of air that envelops the earth and obscures the secrets of space.

Data gathered by the prying satellites probably will not have immediate practical value. But it will provide a foundation on which future practical results may be built.

A half century ago, Albert Einstein formulated a basic theory that matter can be converted into energy. It was 40 years before practical atomic energy grew up on that platform.

Already, scientists can guess at some of the practical results which may evolve if the satellite reports can answer questions like these:

What effect do temperatures in the ionosphere (the electronic curtain that hangs over the earth) have upon wind velocities on the surface of the earth?

What does this mean for weather forecasters?

What is the connection between sunspots, those vast, turbulent storms on the face of the sun, and the auroras that frequently raise hob with earthly radio communication?

What does this hold for the future of radio?

What is the source of cosmic rays, powerful and penetrating electromagnetic radiations which create energy as they pass through the atmosphere?

Can they be harnessed to serve mankind?

What physical effect will meteors (which may vary in size from speeding grains of dust to hurtling mountains) have on the satellites? And what is the intensity of the lethal ultraviolet rays which are blocked from the earth's surface by the atmosphere?

What will they mean for the future of possible space travelers?

The satellites, of course, are man's first tentative steps toward space travel.

The artificial moons reach a balance at 18,000 miles an hour between the possessive pull of the earth's gravity and centrifugal force tending to hurl them into outer space.

A relatively not-much-faster push would allow them to break gravity's hold and possibly reach the moon, a target the Russians say they hope to hit within the next decade.

U.S. Sees No Pact Yet With Soviets

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. officials see no present possibility of practical agreements between Russia and the West on major world issues such as international control of space satellites.

They feel that Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev is not seriously interested in reaching any such agreement at this time.

This estimate of Khrushchev maneuvers in foreign affairs is based primarily on an assessment of Secretary of State Dulles' talk here last Saturday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

It also is described as taking into account the positive purposes of Khrushchev's apparently well-planned diplomatic offensive in connection with the launching of the earth satellite.

In the American view he is seeking simultaneously to impress the world with Russia's scientific progress and military power, and to promote the familiar propaganda line that the Soviet Union is actively seeking peaceful settlements with its power rival, the United States.

The Dulles-Gromyko conversation impressed Dulles and other top officials chiefly by demonstrating what they now term the "inflexibility" of Soviet policy on the disputed problems talked about—these were mainly the Middle East, disarmament and the European situation.

Gromyko, according to authoritative information, gave no intimation of any Kremlin willingness to change position on any of these subjects.

Since the Moscow announcement of the satellite launching last Friday, Khrushchev has made a number of public statements. He has alternately taken a tough line emphasizing the strength of Soviet arms and a peaceful line stressing his contention that Russia is trying to gain United States acceptance of peaceful co-existence.

He has called for direct understandings between Washington and Moscow which, he said, could lead to international control of objects propelled into outer space. He leaves the implication that other problems of disarmament and world politics would similarly be amenable to solution.

President Eisenhower in a clear at a news conference yesterday that the United States has no intention of joining with Russia in any "attempt to dictate to the world."

Secretary of State Dulles, departing for a long weekend at Duck Island, his Lake Ontario retreat, told reporters at the airport that there would be no bilateral talks with Russia—talks from which America's allies would be excluded.

The United States has carefully avoided any direct contacts with Russia which might upset this country's relations with Allied countries.

12-B Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., Oct. 10, 1957

She Floats Through The Air . . . Helene, internationally-known flying trapeze artist, receives a big rose from one of the clowns of the Clyde Beatty Circus which will show here Friday. Helene is one of the feature attractions of the circus, largest now being presented under the big top.

Beatty Circus Is Due Here Friday

The famed Clyde Beatty Circus, the largest now being presented in this country under canvas, moves into Big Spring Friday for two performances.

The big top will be set up on property owned by Cecil McDonald just southwest of Big Spring near the Old San Angelo Highway.

Performances are scheduled for 3 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Doors to the menageries will open at 2 and 7 p.m.

There are 600 people traveling with the big show this season in addition to 30 billposters, agents and advertising men who travel in advance. Two special truck convoys are utilized for transportation. Two hundred wild animals and a herd of 15 elephants are promised.

Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, Cossacks from the bleak Mongolian wastes and rough riders will be seen in the Wild West show. It will be a revival of the old West with its picturesque frontier days.

Clyde Beatty, the famous wild animal trainer, will appear at each performance, battling 40 lions and tigers in the big cage.

Famous riders, aerialists, Jean Attilana, famed tight wire walker; Helene, internationally-famed, on the flying rappee and John O'Brien and his liberty horses are highlights of the big show performance beginning at 3 and 8 p.m. Doors open at 2 and 7 p.m.

California Town Elects Japanese To Mayorship

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — For the first time in history of California, a community has chosen a person of Japanese ancestry to be its mayor.

The new mayor of this new community is a determined young man who is not only making racial history in California but is leading a drive to protect farmers from the mass housing engulfing valuable farm lands.

Jim Kanno, 31, and his fellow truck farmers see the shadow of the subdivider's bulldozer all around them. They know that before long it will invade Fountain Valley, a city of about 1,000 persons 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Kanno's community has passed a zoning law to control use of the land and is taking other steps to preserve land values.

As an individual, Kanno's life has been much like that of any other young Californian of his period. He was born in nearby Santa Ana. His ancestors were farmers in the Fukushima prefecture of Japan. He attended public school in Santa Ana, Santa Ana College for two years and then the University of California at Los Angeles, where he majored in agriculture and mechanical engineering.

Speaker Urges Baptist Men To Greater Service

The Rev. R. B. Murray, pastor of the North Side Baptist Church, urged men of the First Baptist Brotherhood to open their eyes to opportunities of greater service during the coming year.

The Rev. Murray addressed the group at its meeting Tuesday evening, urging greater efforts with boys and to devote more time to the work of the Brotherhood and its prime mission of evangelism.

Next meeting, on Nov. 12, will be ladies night in keeping with laymen's week activities. Dr. Charles Tyler is in charge of the mid-week prayer services and Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Lubbock, will supply the pulpit Sunday.

New officers announced by R. W. Whipkey, president, are Ormer Williams, program vice president; Ted Hull, attendance vice president; Paul Sledge, activities vice president; L. B. Brackeen, secretary-treasurer. Committee chairmen are Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Paul Sledge, C. R. Eubanks, John Annen, Wayne Smith, Dr. Marshall Cauley, Ted Hull, Dave Dorchester, Roy Cornelison, Wayne Nance and Roy Reeder.
