Texas Flier Is Far Out Over Ocean

BOSTON (AP)—The air control center at Boston said today William Wyatt, flying non-stop from Galveston to Rome, in a single-engine plane, was 1,600 miles over the Atlantic at 5 a.m. (EST).

Wyatt has been in constant touch with a Trans World Airlines plane flying the overseas route.

On the last report, Wyatt gave his position as 1,600 miles east northeast of Boston. Apparently, he was experiencing no difficulties, air control center officials said.

The Texan is making his second try at a Galveston-Rome non-stop flight.

In Galveston, a 2 a.m. (EST) report from Wyatt relayed from Gander, Newfoundland, advised that he was feeling fine and expected to reach Rome in 20 to 32 hours.

He was then about 20 hours out of Galveston and estimated he had enough fuel left to keep him aloft for 25 hours.

Wyatt advised his backers that he expected to pass over Florida, France about 16 hours after leaving Gander.

Hal Rachel, president of Mooney Aircraft, Inc., which built Wyatt's plane, estimated the former Marine fighter pilot would be in Rome between 10 and 11 p.m. (EST).

Wyatt reported he was flying about 127 m.p.h. A tailwind at 7,000 to 10,000 feet was adding 30 m.p.h. more to his speed.

He said the weather was good but his automatic pilot, which failed yesterday, still was not working. As a result, he was flying the plane manually and unable to take an occasional nap as he had planned.

Wyatt said he had 135 gallons of gasoline left from his original load of 246 gallons. He figured he had burned 5.8 gallons per hour up to that point but said the rate of consumption should drop to 5.4 miles per hour the rest of the way.

His plane flew over Charlotte, Prince Edward Island, at 1:25 a.m. (11:25 p.m. EST Thursday).

September Fire Losses Light

Although incomplete, the city's fire loss record for September is well below the amount lost during August.

Insured loss came from three fires during the month, but one of them has not been settled.

Charles Harwell's residence at 1206 Wood had a fire Sept. 2, but the fire inspector, F. W. Bette, said adjustment had not been made. The loss would be low however. Harwell has been out of town.

The two fires settled, however, brought only $139.81 in losses. This compares with $15,900 lost during September of last year.

Total fire loss for the year amounted to $32,897.01 as against $33,100.11 for the same time last year.

Total fire loss for the year amounted to $32,897.01 as against $33,100.11 for the same time last year.

Firemen answered 19 fire calls during the month in addition to one false alarm. Five each were caused by faulty wiring, gas connections and stoves, and unknown reasons. Two were caused by smoking, and one each from rubbish and a flooded carburetor.

In addition to the Harwell fire, insured losses came at A-1 Television, 603 E. 3rd on Sept. 2 ($64.81) and a house at 509 Young owned by S. E. Eldridge. Loss there amounted to $75.

More Hub Caps Stolen Thursday

Thieves continued to prey on cars with hub caps being the items most sought. Six hub caps were reported stolen Thursday.

Gasoline was being taken from a car in the 1400 block of Runnels Thursday night when the police got a call concerning it. Two airmen were arrested in connection and were turned over to the Webb authorities.

Mrs. E. C. Bell, 602-Caylor, informed the police that her son's bicycle had been left at the East Wood School for two or three days and was missing — presumably stolen.

Slow Progress

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The arresting officer said Anthony Bucemi was driving his truck along the Pasadena Freeway at 28 m.p.h. Bucemi got a ticket for driving too slowly.

A jury cleared Bucemi yesterday after he explained the hubcap was being taken by mistake and was shifting gears on an upgrade when arrested. The truck contained guided missile components said Bucemi.

Commented Municipal Judge Mark Brandler: "The court can understand now why the United States is behind Russia in the intercontinental ballistic missile program when trucks carrying guided missiles are going only 28 miles an hour."

Group To Map Yule Plans For State Hospital

Over-all plans for Christmas observances at the Big Spring State Hospital will be mapped by a special committee named by Jack V. Smith, president of the local volunteer workers' council.

The plan will be presented later to a general meeting of the advisory council. If approved there, it will be submitted to clubs, who may take various segments of the proposed activities.

Mrs. Helen Colburn, state director of coordinators of volunteer services in hospitals, was here for the meeting of the executive committee of the council on Wednesday.

Witness Against Girard Called A 'Trouble-Maker'

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—An American officer today pictured a key prosecution witness against GI William S. Girard as a trouble-maker who tried to coach other witnesses in their stories.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Sharp, testifying in the Ottawa, Ill., soldier's Japanese manslaughter trial, made the accusations against Lt. Madetsugu Onozeki. Onozeki has testified Girard lured Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, closer to the firing range last Jan. 30, then shot and killed her.

Girard admits carrying the fatal shot—an empty cartridge from a grenade launcher—but claims it hit Mrs. Sakai by accident.

Sharp, Girard's battalion commander from Beach Haven, N.J., said while he was questioning a witness on the Army firing range, Onozeki and other collectors of scrap brass "tried to get him to change his story."

Sharp said Onozeki spoke to other witnesses and was "arrogant"

Youth Willing To Confess Anything

A young Negro, known to have been involved in earlier burglaries but who has a penchant, according to Jack Shaffer, chief deputy sheriff, for confessing to all and sundry burglaries suggested to him, is being held in the county jail.

It is just possible, Shaffer feels, that out of a long list of break-ins which the young Negro readily admitted doing, he may have been actually involved in perhaps four or five.

The Negro drifted into the sheriff's office on his own volition on Thursday. Officers quizzed him. Before long, the visitor was telling the deputies and police officers that he had committed nearly every burglary in the last six months.

County Engineer Moves To New Offices In Courthouse

Walter Parks, county engineer, has changed his mind.

Some months ago, when the Agricultural Stabilization Committee removed from its second floor offices in the courthouse, the engineer was offered the suite.

He declined.

Today he is moving into the offices. All equipment had been taken from the small suite on the third floor and set up in the old ASC quarters.

The engineer's office has been located on the third floor since the new courthouse was first occupied.

"I just got to thinking about it," Parks said, "and I decided that we needed more room than we had on the third floor. The ASC quarters are much larger than the tiny rooms and, in addition, will be more convenient to the public."

No announcement was made of what use would be found for the rooms vacated by the engineer.

Removal of the engineer's office leaves the third floor tenanted by the district attorney, the district clerk, the district judge and the court reporter. The law library, the court room and the jury and witness rooms take up the other available space on that floor.

One other small office on the second floor is also without occupant at this time.

"Machines cannot think and machines can and do break down, therefore they will not replace man," observed Krause. "Man is here to stay."

Uncle Roy: Date Line Helps To Keep Time Straight

reproach the hero for failing to read some of them during his journey. He should have corrected his program by observing the news paper dates. Nevertheless he was a clever fellow in other ways, and we may pardon him for slipping.

Since he was moving east, the hero (and his entertaining assistant) lost an average of about 18 minutes a day. Their average day lasted only about 23 hours and 42 minutes.

What happened to the other 18 minutes? Those minutes were lost, in a sense, but from another viewpoint they were simply "stored up."

There was only one way to give them back, and that was to change the date by one day somewhere along the round-the-world route.

Round-the-world voyages started almost (but not quite) four and a half centuries ago. In the past century, the number of world travelers increased rapidly. Seamen and others found it necessary to add or subtract a day, depending on which direction they were going.

To meet that need, the international date line (often called just the date line) became recognized. It runs from the North Pole through the Arctic, Pacific and Antarctic oceans to the South Pole.

LIONS TOLD Radiation Effects Still Undetermined

All radiation is harmful, but science has not yet ascertained the degree to which the human body can tolerate its effects.

Whether fallout from atomic tests portends of genetic troubles generations down the line is, of course, uncertain, Esker Gene Powell, HCCJ instructor, told the downtown Lions Club Wednesday. Perhaps one of the things of most concern about radiation is that its effects seem to be cumulative. Another is that it may attack the reproductive cells with subtle, delayed action.

Yet, he continued, the human body has endured a certain amount of radiation from the constant bombardment by the sun's rays. Some scientists say that the current rate of testing nuclear devices might continue up to 50 years without reaching a critical level.

Powell, who instructs biology at the college and who has done special studies and research with the Atomic Energy Commission, told the club that massive exposure could produce cancer or could kill slowly by destroying blood cells.

One laboratory technician who heretically separated a critical mass of fissionable material died within eight days coming to resemble a boiled lobster. His immediate symptoms were nausea and dysentery.

"Your duty as a citizen is to be interested in the subject, to read and inform yourself so you can reach sound conclusions on the matter," Powell told the Lions.

He also told the club of the great number of beneficial uses to which radiation is being applied.

Guest at the meeting was Ira Schantz, voice instructor at the college, who was accompanied by two numbers by Jack Hendrix. President Carl Smith stressed the annual light bulb sale starting Monday evening.

Syrian Defense Spots

With tension growing over charges that Turkey is planning to attack Syria, officials here said that arms have been issued to "resistance" organizations in Hama, Aleppo, Latakia, Hama, Damascus (all underlined) and other northern villages near the Turkish border. Syrian forces, estimated to total 50,000 men, were recently bolstered by the arrival of Egyptian troops at Latakia.

Role Of Newspaper Described For Club

Kiwanis Club members were told of the role modern newspapers play in American life and in particular the part the Big Spring newspaper has in affairs and activities in this city Thursday.

The speaker was Sam Blackburn, local newsman, and the occasion was the club's belated observance of National Newspaper Week. Delay in the program from the first week in October when National Newspaper Week was observed was due to the absence from town at that time of the speaker.

Blackburn traced briefly the history of newspapers and the amazing development of this medium of information in the United States. He told the club members that steadily increasing costs of production in the field was diminishing the number of operations but that the total of persons subscribing to newspapers was increasing yearly.

He likewise emphasized the need for American citizens to support the newspapers' constant effort to prevent official restriction on information and news—warning that such restrictive actions may ultimately destroy the effectiveness of the American press in keeping the public informed on affairs and events pertinent to the welfare of this nation.

Horace Reagan, president of the club, reported briefly on the recent convention of Kiwanis clubs in Tulsa. He and Jack Alexander, president-elect, were the delegates. He announced that it was tentatively agreed at the convention Floyd Parsons, superintendent of the Big Spring city schools, would be lieutenant governor of the Texas Oklahoma district in 1959.

Ike Urges Pooling Of NATO Brains To Meet Red Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is developing a far-reaching proposal to pool the scientific brainpower and creative resources of the North Atlantic Alliance. The aim is to meet the challenge of Russia's weapons advances as well as its progress in the conquest of space.

The first hint of a program along this line came in the toast Eisenhower proposed to Britain's Queen Elizabeth last night.

Informed officials said today the project may be the major topic of discussion when Eisenhower meets British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan here next Wednesday.

What the President has in mind, however, according to persons familiar with his planning, is designed to bring into play the resources of the whole 15-nation NATO alliance.

Eisenhower gave the tip-off in this portion of his toast to Queen Elizabeth at a White House dinner last night: "We have the power. The only thing to do is to put it together."

"Our scientists must work together. NATO should not be thought of merely as a military alliance. NATO is a way of grouping ability—of our manhood, our resources, of our industries and our factories."

Eisenhower said the total assets of the free world are far greater "than those of our potential enemy," but he added "we are too much separated by things that concern us locally."

Presumably the President's proposal would lead eventually to a request by him for modifications in the law barring the disclosure of much basic atomic weapons information. The British government has long sought re-establishment of its World War II partnership with the United States and Canada which produced the first atomic bomb in 1945.

More immediately, however, the Eisenhower proposition, which follows a long series of meetings with his science advisers and other officials over the past two weeks, is evidently designed to deal with the challenge of Russia's intercontinental missile and its launching of history's first earth satellite.

The information as to Eisenhower's plan came to light just ahead of a conference between Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. The aim of that talk obviously was to play the ground for next week's Eisenhower-Macmillan meetings.

Moscow announced the firing of an ICBM two months ago and the launching of the satellite two weeks ago.

The first event indicated that the Russian missile program was ahead of that of the United States. The Sputnik victory dealt a blow to United States prestige all over the world and shook the confidence of friendly nations in this country's leadership and its use of its scientific resources.

Almost immediately Allied leaders in Europe began talking about making a greater use of the full resources of the Western Alliance. American officials were slow to pick up the idea, waiting for a lead from the White House.

Eisenhower spent many hours in almost daily conference with his science advisers.

Lyndon Slaps Missile Failure

TYLER (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson said today the only reason the first successful earth satellite was labeled "made in Moscow" was lack of intelligent, united effort in the United States.

He promised to lead efforts in Congress in finding out why and what could be done about this "man-made object whizzing through the air over our heads."

The Senate majority leader spoke at the Tyler Rose Festival.

"We have got to admit frankly and without evasion that the Soviets have beaten us at our own game—daring, scientific advances in the atomic age," Johnson said. "This is obviously a situation which requires a careful study by Congress. The reports are conflicting. The official sources are long on warm optimism; short on cold facts."

He added that the congressional inquiry will begin with a study at the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee, of which Johnson is chairman.

Johnson said the subcommittee's preliminary work would try to get the answers to such questions as: "Could we have matched the Soviet achievement? Would it have been worthwhile to match the Soviet achievement? Does the Soviet satellite indicate that this country has slipped behind in the development of its defense? If so, what do we have to do to catch up?"

"We may discover that the alarms are false; that there is no great cause of concern," Johnson said. "But we may also find out that our whole defense structure needs a thorough overhaul from top to bottom."

Kasper Awaits Trip To Prison

WASHINGTON (AP)—Segregation here today awaiting transfer to a federal prison to serve a one-year term for contempt of court.

He was arrested last night by marshals on orders from U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn.

Taylor found Kasper guilty of contempt in September 1956 on grounds Kasper violated an injunction prohibiting interference with racial integration at the Clinton, Tenn., high school. Kasper had been free on bond since that time pending appeal.

Kasper was convicted a second time of contempt last July when he and six residents of the Clinton area were found guilty of violating the same injunction which led to Kasper's first contempt conviction.

Mostly Dry In Texas Again

By The Associated Press

Texas weather was mostly dry again Friday but low areas in the southern part of the state still were having troubles with floods from earlier downpours.

Moderate rain was falling early in the day around Wink in West Texas. Clouds were banked over the extreme western section of the state. It was fair to partly cloudy in the east half.

Brownsville received 1.99 inches of rain in the 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday. El Paso had .02 and Midland a trace.

The flooding Guadalupe River was expected to force some families from homes near Cuero. The Weather Bureau said extensive flooding was expected for several days along the Colorado River in the Wharton, Bay City and Matagorda lowlands.

A 30-foot crest was predicted at Wharton, 4 feet above flood stage and the highest there since 1951.

Flood conditions on the Brazos were blamed for a series of gasoline pipeline explosions Thursday near Rosenberg, west of Houston. Flames shot 1,000 feet up as at least three blasts erupted within a few minutes.

Investigators said a pipeline crossing the river apparently shifted, causing a leak. No injuries were reported. Windows were broken at Rosenberg and balls of fire bounded across the floor in a home nearby. A farmer reported a horse was burned, and rabbits, chickens and dogs in the area were scorched to death.

Reagan County Sets Vote On $850,000 Water Bond Issue

BIG LAKE — Residents of Big Lake and Reagan County will vote Oct. 29 on an $850,000 bond issue to finance a water development program.

The program is described as a civic project by Z. I. Ashcraft, president of the Reagan County Water Supply District board which is sponsoring the development.

"After 10 years of drought and bad water for longer than that, we now have an opportunity to furnish Big Lake and all of Reagan County with water of considerably better quality," Ashcraft said. "Further, with completion of this development, we will be in position to invite new industry into the area. We expect 100 per cent support from all our citizens."

The development would include sinking five wells, erecting a storage tank and pump station and laying an 18 to 20-mile water supply main to Big Lake. Bids on construction probably would be called around Nov. 12 if bonds are approved.

U. S. Redoubles Efforts To See Russian Moon

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials are redoubling efforts to obtain visual sightings of the Russian space satellite. They said there have been few such sightings in the nearly two weeks Sputnik has been aloft.

Dr. Armand N. Spitz, coordinator of visual observation for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, indicated last night that U.S. scientists feel moonwatchers have been paying more attention to the satellite's carrier rocket than to the harder-to-see sphere itself.

"We must now universally impress on our volunteer observers that no matter how impressive the preliminary object—the rocket—is, our duty lies with the satellite from which we hope to gain most scientific information," Spitz said in Cambridge, Mass.

Observatory officials said the only satellite sightings reported from the Southern Hemisphere came from Australia.

The rocket which carried Sputnik into orbit into outer space is itself circling the earth. Scientists say it is running more than 20 minutes ahead of the satellite in an orbit which carries it closer to earth.

Leon Campbell, director of the moonwatch project, told newsmen in Cambridge that three observers there reported yesterday seeing an object following the rocket by about 30 minutes. Campbell said these reported sightings have not been confirmed or identified.

In South Pasadena, Calif., scientists manning a huge satellite tracking camera said they had seen Sputnik and had photographed it.

Meanwhile, the Moscow radio said that Sputnik had circled the earth 190 times and had traveled 5,199,000 miles.

Aviation Daily, an industry publication, came up yesterday with a second report that the Russians may be about to shoot a rocket to the moon. Another report along these lines came yesterday from Christian Clausen, science editor of the Los Angeles Examiner.

The story in Aviation Daily said certain informed sources expect the Soviets to try to send a rocket to the moon in connection with the Nov. 7 celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.) said in Atlanta that President Eisenhower or Secretary of Defense McElroy should "knock some heads together" to get steam behind an adequate missile development program.

Rayburn said it appeared to him the United States has lagged on the missile program, but that it wasn't the fault of the Democratic-controlled Congress. "We gave every dollar that the administration asked for," he said.

Lincolns, Mercurys Displayed, Many New Details Shown

DETROIT (AP)—The 1958 Lincolns and Mercurys were previewed yesterday, disclosing numerous new styling and engineering details.

James Nance, heading the Lincoln and Mercury divisions, says the division will produce a new Continental Mark III, on a longer wheelbase with a lower price tag.

With an over-all length of 229 inches the new luxury model will be one of the longest American-made cars. It will be powered by a 375-horsepower engine with 10.5 to 1 compression ratio.

The Continental and the new Lincoln models will be built with integrated body and frame type construction.

The Continental's 1958 price has not been disclosed.

The entire line has been restyled. New engines featuring fuel economy have been developed.

Retail deliveries of Lincoln for this year's first eight months totaled 24,534 compared with 30,406 in the like 1956 period. Mercury registrations numbered 191,069 for January through August this year against 197,363 in the same 1956 period.

has been in the Army for 15 years. The FBI said the bolt containing with Rhodes in Moscow when he was attached to the embassy, adding: "It's the biggest frameup I've ever seen. I don't know how they ever did it but it must be serving some purpose."

The microfilm message said Rhodes had lived in Red Bank, N.J., and owned three garages there. Said Mrs. Rhodes: "We have never lived in Red Bank. And if we had three garages, I of the microfilm message was found last May 12 in a box containing loose nuts, bolts and screws at the home of Reino Hayhanen in Peekskill, N.Y.

Hayhanen, 37, confessed Soviet spy, defected to the West last May. He has been the government's star witness in the trial of Abel, whom he claims was his espionage boss in this country.

An enlargement of the microfilm message shown to the jury by the government referred to Rhodes under the code name of "Quebec."

"It read: 'Quebec, Roy A. Rhodes, born in 1917 in Oilton, Okla., U.S., senior sergeant of the War Ministry, former employe of the U.S. military attaché staff in our country. He was a chief of the garage of the embassy.'"

"He was recruited to our service in Jan., 1952, in our country which he left in June, 1953, recruited on the basis of compromising materials, but he is tied up with us with his receipts and information he had given in his handwriting."

"He had been trained in code work at the ministry before he went to work at the embassy but as a code worker he was not used by the embassy."

"After he left our country he was sent to the School of Communications of the Army C. I. Service, which is at the city of San Luis, Calif. He was to be trained there as a mechanic of the coding machines."

"He fully agreed to cooperate with us in the States or any other country. It was agreed that he was to have written to our embassy here special letters, but we had received none during the last year."

It could not be immediately learned whether the message referred to San Luis Rey or San Luis Obispo in California.

Further notations on the microfilm described Rhodes as the owner of three garages operated by his sister in Red Bank, N.J.

The microfilm message also read: "His father, Mr. W. A. Rhodes, resides in the U.S. His brother is also in the States where he works as an engineer (sic) at an atomic plant in Camp, Georgia, together with a brother-in-law of his father."

DEAR MARY: Go to my sorry, sorry... I didn't realize how much humiliation I was causing you. You told me when I married you that you would work... all I was trying to do was fulfill your wish... a woman's sense to be working... is there? When I moved my sister, her husband and children in with I thought it would be nice to be all together, especially at dinner time and about the extra money... we didn't raise it did we? And about my being you all the time... a woman's sense to be working... and you're no different BUT because I love you so dearly I can't refuse... I will go to McEVEX MOTORS and see their bargains, but remember... it's only because I love you. And because McEVENS has the best buys in town! JOHN

Paratroopers Ready To Leave

Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division stand by with their gear, ready to load the C-123 transport in the background. About one-half of the paratroopers who arrived in Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 24 to enforce integration orders at Central High School after a mob prevented compliance with federal court and Little Rock school board orders, returned by plane to Fort Campbell, Ky. The other half remained in Little Rock.

AT AGENTS' MEET

State Insurance Officials Heard

Discussions on various phases of insurance were given by state officials at a meeting here Friday of District 13, Texas Association of Insurance Agents. About 60 attended the all-day meeting, held at the Cosden Country Club. Preston Parker of Odessa was elected new regional chairman, succeeding Joe Pond of Big Spring. The Big Spring Association of Insurance Agents was host to the group. Speakers included A. W. Penn, chief of the license division of the State Board of Insurance, who detailed policies and operations of the Board; Robert C. Estus, supervisor of general liability for the state board, who discussed general liability insurance; and Leroy Piper, chief rater of the property rating unit, who talked on the new package policy program of coverage. The group also heard J. D. Squibb, manager of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, discuss automobile insurance; and William J. Harding, public relations director of the Texas Insurance Advisory Association, talking on "How Do We Stand With The Public." Pond presided for the meeting, and greetings were extended by Marion Sanford of Lubbock.

immediate past president of the state association. At a luncheon session, the delegates heard a talk from Wayne Smith, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Alaskans Mark Deal With Russia

SITKA, Alaska (AP)—On a cool afternoon just 90 years ago today the Russians lowered their flag on this continent, giving up the huge and strategic territory of Alaska to the United States. Alaskans from Gov. Mike Stepovich on down are celebrating the anniversary today and many voiced the suggestion of how Russia might now look upon a suggestion it give up such a great piece of land. The hard-pressed Russians handed it over for $7,200,000 in 1867. The deal was greeted with much grumbling in the States. The 586,400 square miles, more than twice the size of Texas, was dubbed "Seward's Icebox," a reference to the climate and Secretary of State William Henry Seward, who negotiated the purchase.

Odessa Dedicates Butadiene, Synthetic Rubber Plant Today

By JOE PICKLE
ODESSA—Top officials of two divergent industries joined with people of this city today to dedicate the progeny of their wedding. The objects of this celebration are the plants of Odessa Butadiene Co. and General Tire & Rubber Co. Erected at a cost exceeding $22 million, the facilities are converting a low yield of natural gas into synthetic rubber.

Here for the occasion are William O'Neil, founder of General Tire and Rubber of Akron, Ohio, and Paul Kayser, El Paso, chief architect of the phenomenal El Paso Natural Gas Co., the parent of the subsidiary which will operate the butadiene unit. Other speakers scheduled to take part on the program which started at 12:30 p.m. in a tent pitched near the rubber plant's headquarters building are Allan Shivers, former Texas governor and now an executive with Western Pipeline, Inc., Aubrey K. Barlow, president of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Harold L. Downs, Odessa. Jesse Owens, former manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce and now manager of new developments for El Paso Natural Gas Products Co., was the master of ceremonies. In the background but much in evidence for the key roles they played in bringing the plant to Odessa are William Noel and E. G. Rodman, bankers, miners, oilmen and community-builders of Odessa. Open house will be observed Saturday at the two plants located five miles southeast of downtown Odessa. Members of the press, television and radio were given a preview of the facilities Thursday. Engineers, serving as guides, explained how butane, one of the yields of natural gas incidental to oil production, is converted into butadiene. Giant reactors, with catalysts, plus compressors, absorbers and strippers accomplish the chemical transformation.

Reflecting the integrated phase of the operation, the product is piped through a two-inch line to the adjacent General Tire & Rubber plant. Here it is emulsified, stabilized and eventually coagulated into rubber crumbs. In the end, through carefully controlled temperatures, mixtures and pressures, bales of GR-S rubber emerge. These are boxed and shipped for use in the company plants at Waco and at Akron, Ohio. The yield is sufficient for 66 million automobile tires per year.

At a luncheon and press conference Thursday noon at the Lincoln Hotel, M. G. O'Neil, son of the president of General Tire, cited the teaming of El Paso and General with others as an example of the superiority of U. S. technical teamwork.

William O'Neil, speaking in honey tones, urged people not to downgrade synthetic rubber in their thinking, for he said, it is actually superior to natural rubber and supplies 60 per cent of the current demand. Kayser told the group that the plants typified the combination of raw materials and brains which permitted conversion of a low value product (butane) into one of great demand.

Visitors were made honorary citizens of the State of Texas by Zolie Stekley, Secretary of State, acting for Gov. Price Daniel, who was unable to attend due to press of duties during the special session. Odessans also made members of the press honorary members of their sheriff's posse.

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" include the following (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

From the Bible will be read the following (11 Corinthians 5:17): "There if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

The Christian Minister

PAUL DEFENDS HIMSELF AS AN APOSTLE OF CHRIST

Scripture—1 Corinthians 9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN TWO previous lessons we have learned about the dissensions among the members of the church in Corinth, the church Paul had founded. He had been informed that there was much argument there as one group claimed that, because Paul was not a member of the original 12 Apostles, Christ's constant companions, he was not really an Apostle.

Writing about this matter to the Corinthians, Paul defended his ministry and his claim to be called an Apostle. He writes: "Am I not an Apostle? Am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ, our Lord? are ye not my work in the Lord?"

We all remember the dramatic story of Paul (then Saul) on his way to Damascus, bent on dragging Christians to Jerusalem in chains if need be, to be persecuted. How Christ appeared to him in a blaze of light from above, asking, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?"

Convinced then that Jesus was really the Son of God, Paul proceeded, by command, to Damascus, and after his experiences rewards for their labors, Paul maintained. In our modern church life, the minister's duties are often very arduous. But Paul writes, "But I have used none of these things, that it be done unto me; for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void." If Paul did not want to be paid for his labors, it was because he felt, as he says, "If I do these things willingly, I have a reward."

In further defense of his apostleship, Paul points out that he is a free man among men, but that he has become the servant of all men. He has preached to the Jews to gain them to the great cause; to the weak, the strong, and the lawless.

Paul illustrates the race that Christians must run to obtain the prize of life. He writes of a race run in an athletic contest. There are many runners and all must run their best and ablest, but only one wins the prize, which would, after all be an earthly and temporary token of skill.

In the life of the true Christian, he too must run, and must fight to win, not a mere earthly or corruptible prize, but to obtain the "incorruptible crown."

The lesson is not easy for the teacher of the younger classes, but, as Dr. Wilbur M. Smith suggests, they will be interested in a description of the race, and can be brought to see that they, too, are running a race, and if they go through life following in the steps of the Master, they will gain a prize which no one can take away from them.

Dr. Smith also suggests that if it is possible to get the minister of the church to be the teacher for this particular lesson, he would be the best instructor. If this is not possible, however, the teacher could discuss with the class the activities and problems of a minister, and their relations with him. It might be suggested to them some ways in which these young people could help to strengthen the church and aid their pastor.

GIVE

THE UNITED WAY

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

THE "BLACK SHEEP" OF OUR FAMILY

When Johnny started Sunday School . . . the Devil thought he had his foot in the door.

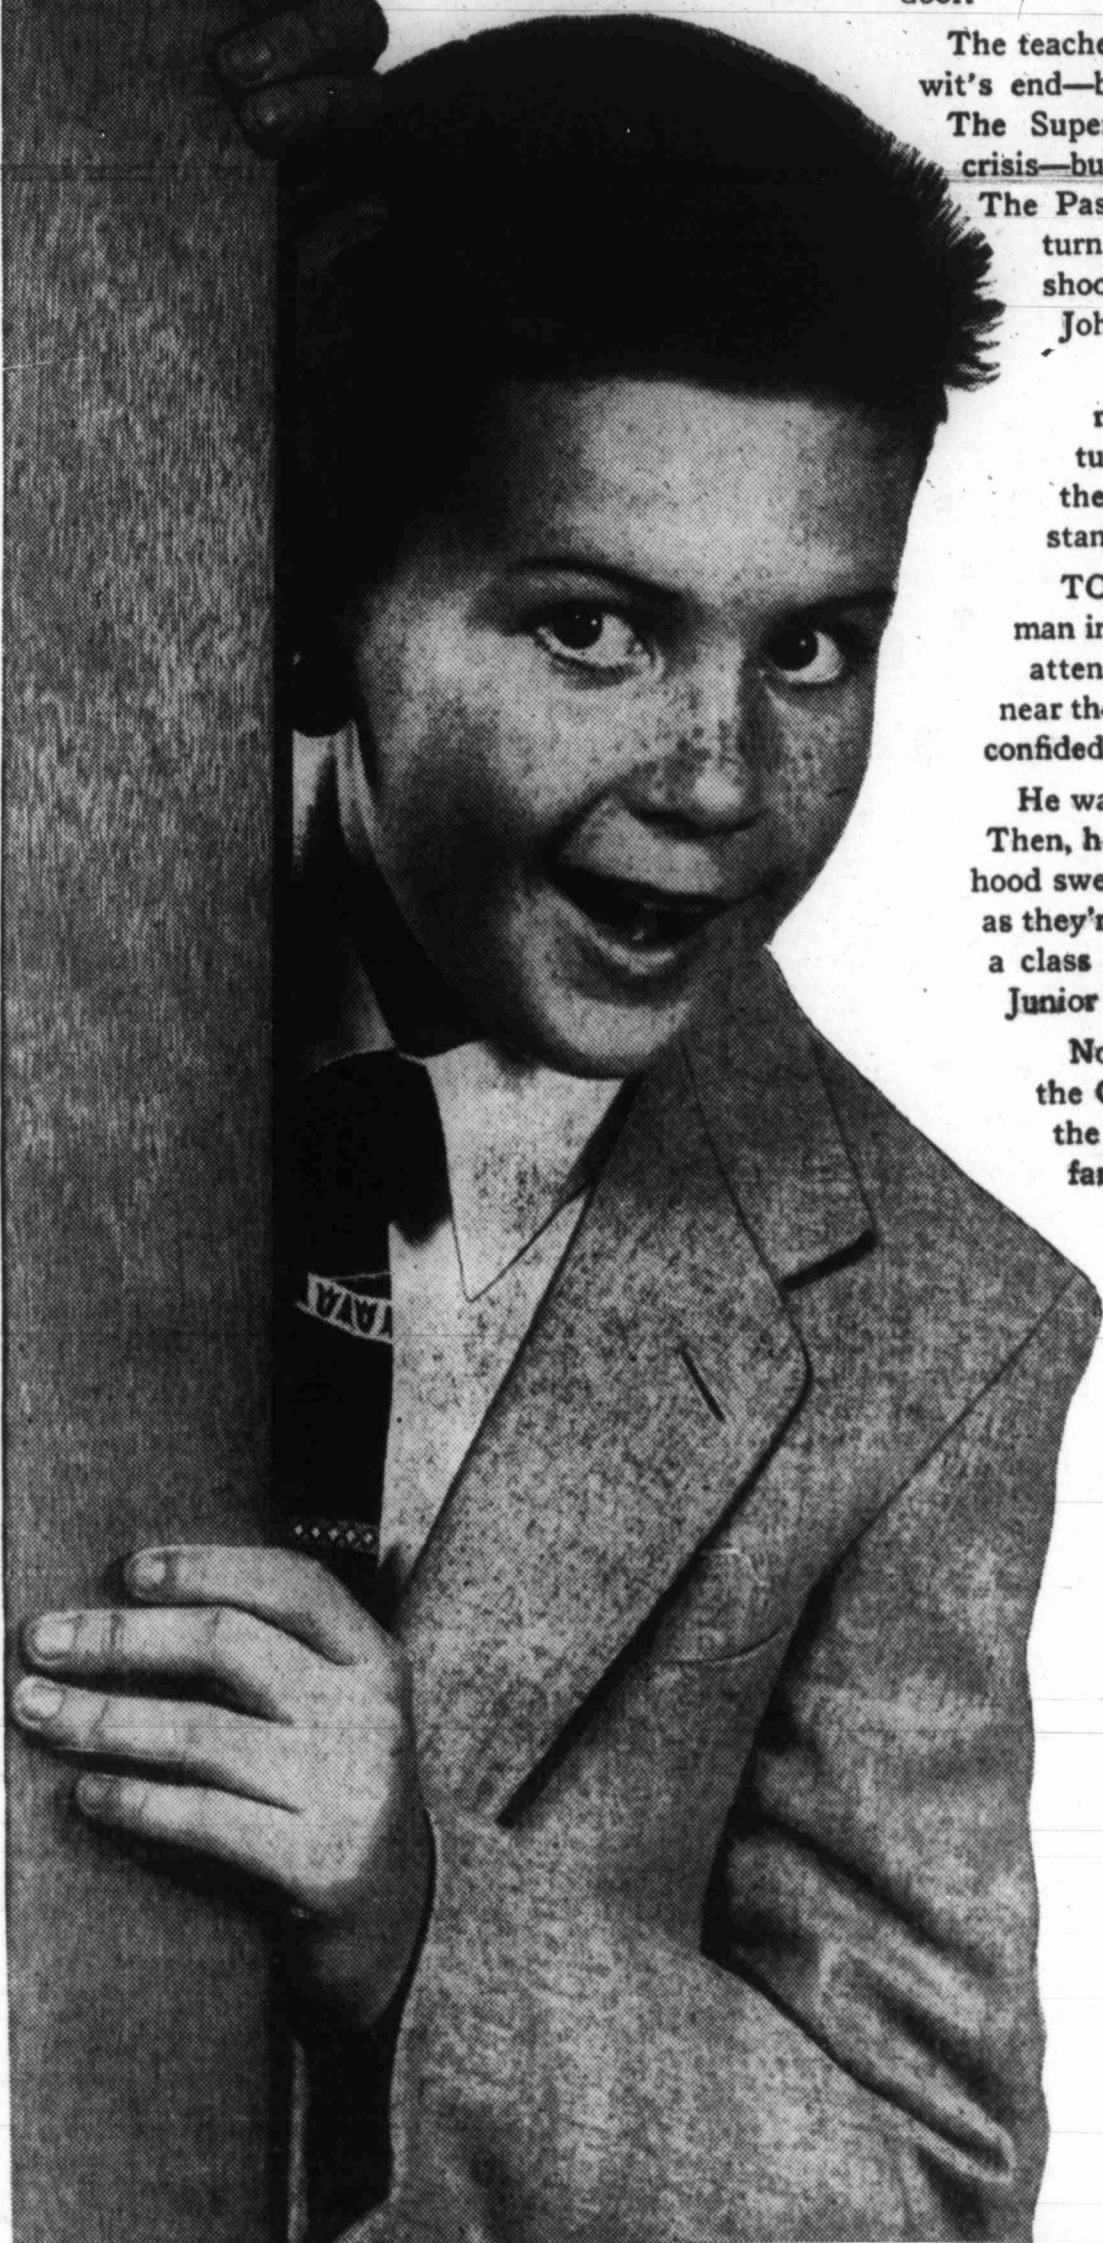

The teachers must have been at their wit's end—but they never showed it. The Superintendent faced many a crisis—but always he was patient. The Pastor even smiled as he returned the confiscated peashooter. "You're not a bad shot, Johnny," he said!

Claire and I soon began to realize that Christians do turn the other cheek . . . in the Junior Department it's standard operating procedure.

TODAY, Johnny is a freshman in college. Every Sunday he attends the church of our faith near the campus. And, recently, he confided to me his ambitions:

He wants to become an engineer. Then, he wants to marry his childhood sweetheart, Jane. And as soon as they're settled, he wants to teach a class of "real gone" kids in the Junior Department.

Now Claire and I realize what the Church means in the life of the "black sheep"—of your family or ours!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Bible Thought For Today

If thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God . . . the Lord thy God will set thee high above all the nations of the earth. (Deut. 28:1)

Congratulations To Our Neighbor

Big Spring rejoices with Odessa in the formal opening of its butadiene and synthetic rubber facility, the first fully integrated unit of its type which has the distinction of being privately financed.

Through our own experience with Cosden and its pioneering in petrochemical fronts that work in conjunction with refining processes to upgrade certain products into more valuable ones, we can testify as to the benefits accruing to a community and an area.

The chemical wizardry itself is exciting, and officials of El Paso Natural Gas Company, the parent of Odessa Butadiene, and those of General Tire and Rubber, pointed out that plants such as the ultra-modern facility at Odessa is the product of materials plus brains. Indeed this is so, and it points up another value which extends beyond the mere payrolls and trade resulting from a plant of this sort—that of an intelligent, high-grade, citizenry required to operate it. Any city or area is much richer for them.

Pride Goeth Before A Fall

The Soviet press made another announcement this week. Seventy-odd thousand engineers were graduated from Soviet schools this year. Comparable figure in the United States: Around 26,000.

It may be true, as one commentator observed, that Russia has a bigger deficit in engineers to make up before she overtakes us, and a big rush to stock up on engineers might result in an inferior product.

We are rather good at this sort of thing—that is, we are fond of saying, oh, well, we have a lead on the Bolsheviks, and besides the quality of our engineers and scientists in general is superior to the dumb Russians, so what's the hurry.

That's what we used to say back there in the 1930's, about the Japanese. We said the fool Japs wouldn't dare take on the greatest nation on earth (us) and the mightiest empire (the British) simultaneously. Our Navy would mop them up in three weeks.

As for the Jap Air Force—why, everybody knew the galoots couldn't fly worth a cent. Their eyes were no good, and they had no background of mechanical skill and technical knowledge to compare with the skills and abilities possessed by our American kids.

A proper amount of pride is a very fine thing, up to a point. But it isn't a good thing to be possessed of if it gives us the notion no other people have as much on the ball as we have.

Our lads in the air, on the sea and on the land didn't mind the Japs pushovers, exactly. They were tough hombres wherever we met them, and while their planes and ships might not have been as substantially built as ours, they did the work cut out for them, and they were handled skillfully. The dumb Chinese in and over Korea were hardly pushovers either.

We have got to realize that the enemies who thirst for our blood don't fight with bamboo spikes wielded by ignorant savages.

Humility becometh a man or a nation. As a nation we have much to brag about, legitimately—the highest living standard in the history of the world, for example. In a world of wants, hates and envies, that can be an ever-present danger. Having got it, we hate to give it up. We hate to see all that money going into military uses. We hate to see all that productive energy and material wealth going into the national defense. Seldom do we stop to think little good all our advantages would be to us if we lost our identity as a nation and our souls in worship to softness, comfort and a high good old time.

Perhaps what we need is a Day of Humiliation. "Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, be with us yet!"

Battle For Morality Is More Important

WASHINGTON—There is great need of an intercontinental missile—but it's a missile that should be aimed at destroying the evil in the human heart.

For it isn't the atom bomb or the ballistic missile that constitutes a threat to mankind—it's the mind and hand of government that triggers the use of these lethal weapons.

Propaganda is a much-abused word. But the sad truth is that, despite the whirl of an iron ball around the world in 96 minutes, there is as yet no effective means of communication between a free people and enslaved people. Congress shows a surprising indifference to the problem.

What is vital is not just mechanical ingenuity or a sense of urgency or the coordination of bureaucratic effort but something else far more important—a willingness to acknowledge error in ourselves and a willingness to furnish an example of righteous living as a nation.

For the dropping of the atomic bomb was our biggest sin. Within a few days after the news of Hiroshima came in August, 1945, this writer denounced the decision to use that awful weapon without warning and against a city of civilians. It is still a crime for which America stands convicted before humanity. America has never acknowledged its error. For the bomb was aimed not at conventional military targets but at helpless men, women and children in a big city in Japan.

Today the world is talking of intercontinental missiles, and an almost hysterical passion has seized many Americans who are demanding that everything else be sidetracked and billions of dollars be spent to perfect a weapon which will kill human beings indiscriminately—without worrying about military targets.

The United States at the outset of World War II, speaking through President Franklin Roosevelt, appealed to the belligerents to avoid bombing civilians in unfortified cities. But Hitler scorned the appeal and, before the war was over, all belligerents—including the United States—were bombing men, women and children everywhere.

U.S. Propaganda Revised

WASHINGTON (AP)—What has the United States done to knock down Sputnik — in a propaganda sense, that is?

As of today, two weeks after the Russians launched their little ball into space, the U.S. government has announced one affirmative action: it has shaken up its own information (or propaganda, if you don't object to the word) machinery.

Out goes Arthur Larson as head of the U.S. Information Agency, the outfit which has the job of telling this country's story overseas. Larson becomes a special assistant to President Eisenhower for "special projects" in the propaganda field. The White House says he'll deal with "among other things" — the satellite's impact on world opinion.

Into Larson's job goes career diplomat George V. Allen, who has held pretty much the same job before. He is not to be confused with George E. Allen, who used to play poker with President Truman and now plays golf with President Eisenhower.

George V. Allen takes over as this country's nearest equivalent to a propaganda minister. Or at least he will take over as soon as he winds up his affairs as ambassador to Greece. It might be asked what he will have to publicize in the way of a counter-attraction to Sputnik. There is no ready answer.

If this country has in mind any scientific achievement which would eclipse the satellite — as a propaganda stunt, whatever the military or scientific value — the public hasn't been told of it.

So, from that standpoint, shifting information chiefs around is like firing a baseball manager because you didn't buy him any good players.

Fortunately, this country has more to tell the world in the way of honest propaganda than a satellite story. And it usually is possible to count on the Russians to do anti-Soviet propaganda for us — as they did in Hungary and are doing in the Middle East.

But it would be nice if we had a supersatellite or some sort of scientific gizmo to take the spotlight off Sputnik. Any ideas?

Meany Needles Russians Over Labor Issues

By LAWRENCE MALKIN UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—George Meany is used to being called "a tool of Wall Street." But the president of the AFL-CIO isn't going to let the Russians get away with it.

The squat, plainspoken labor leader is busy answering the Russians these days as U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

An ex-plumber from the Bronx, Meany shares the U.S. spot on the Social, Cultural and Humanitarian Committee with Mrs. Z. V. Mironova, a tall, imposing woman from Moscow who called U. S. labor leaders "tools of Wall Street" in a recent meeting.

Meany told her that "American workers set their own wages here by mutual agreement. In Russia they're set by a state committee — and that sounds like management."

Then he quoted Russian statistics showing that a plant manager can earn 40 times more than his workers. "We have capitalists here in America," Meany said, "but we don't have any like that."

Mrs. Mironova did not answer Meany directly. Later she complained that "Mr. Meany is disturbing the harmony of our committee."

Meany spends three to five days a week at the U.N.

"American labor has a lot to say," he said, "and we can get a lot of it across to the world right here."

Accident-Prone A Disease

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of five of the 95,000 persons killed in accidents in America in 1956, it is estimated, was accident-prone.

"Accident-prone is a disease, a psychosomatic manifestation of a disease process," said Dr. John Henderson.

Dr. Henderson, medical director of Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., is one of a growing number of experts in the field who feel that the nation's high accident rate cannot be effectively lowered until it is realized that accident-prone is an ailment, just as are alcoholism and heart attacks, and proper treatment is employed.

The accident toll last year, beside 95,000 dead, included 9,500,000 injured, of whom 350,000 suffered permanent physical impairment. The National Safety Council estimated the cost at $11,200,000,000 in property damage and time lost from work.

As the result of studies, scientists now feel they can often detect by psychological tests the accident-prone person, who is usually either maladjusted emotionally or immature in judgment, or both.

"Accident-prone is partly a matter of age," said Dr. Henderson. "It is not altogether an accident that the leading cause of death from the age of one to about 25 is—accidents. This is the period of greatest rebellion, repression and emotional conflict."

"After 30 the tendency to have accidents begins to fall off. But there is much truth in an old adage of the insurance business — after three accidents luck is no longer the major factor in the picture."

Are you accident-prone yourself? You may be, according to Dr. Henderson, if:

1. You are fundamentally resentful against anyone or anything in life, carry a deep personal sense of guilt, or brood about your problems while you are at work or behind the wheel of a car;
2. You haven't won the acclaim you feel you deserve in an important field, and you drive fast or dangerously merely to call attention to yourself; or
3. You become flustered in any emergency, and react emotionally — instead of with mature and immediate judgment.

Why Not Insure Your Diet?

I note in the news that a tape salesman from Maine has challenged a state representative to a weight losing contest. He figured they might as well make it a contest since both are planning to go on a diet anyway.

Last time I climbed aboard a bathroom scale, I tipped it at 203. Thus, this little news item gives me an idea.

The big problem in dieting nearly always has been lack of will power to keep it up. Yet, nothing is so powerful as the pocketbook. Which hurts worse, an empty stomach or an empty wallet? The stomach, under dieting, will eventually shrink so a man's not so hungry any more, but the wallet isn't so kind.

Why can't several overweight people get together, put some money in the pot, and hold their own weight-losing contest? The ante would have to be big enough to insure against all but the weakest pulling out of the contest. The plan would give the pot to a neutral (and rather lanky) person for safekeeping. Those who stick to their diet and make the deadline get their money (or most of it) back, but those who drop out or miss the deadline forfeit the ante. And, to add to the incentive for winning, a grand prize is awarded the person who loses the most fat, the prize money being made up out of forfeited antes.

This might be classified as gambling by some people. Actually, it is far from that. It's more like insurance, and it's for a good purpose.

When I was a youngster back in Me-

Camey years ago, I used to clamber over the mesas that lie scattered over the countryside. A few months ago, while driving over an oilfield road atop King Mountain, I halted and sat awhile looking out at the hills across the valley. My imagination was always overly large and as I considered the situation, I wrote down the thoughts that came my way.

"The Brooding Hills" is as good a title as any, and here it is for what it's worth: They have slept, these brooding hills, through the million years since their birth.

And now they are rudely awakened. They are sprawled like huge dogs infested with fleas.

But they cannot scratch. They can only wait.

Time was, they knew not the hand of man. Nor did they suffer from chipmunks at their flint.

By hands with brownish skins. But now, they have felt the greedy tearing at their bowels in quest for gold, they feel now the needle-point through their backs and the slow draining of their only blood, they feel now the harsh scratching of their skins for gravel and caliche.

They await, these brooding hills, the final disaster of man.

That they may once more sleep in peace. But if that final disaster does not come, man may be here after the hills have eroded into death.

And the thought shakes the hills into wakefulness.

History Repeats With The New Queen

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This is where I came in 18 years ago with another royal road show. In the interim there have been some changes in the case, but the scenario is virtually the same.

Eighteen years ago it was King George VI and his Elizabeth, now the Queen Mother, who took this capital by storm. As delirious residents tossing their caps in the air oblivious of the fact that the Red Coats burned the settlement to the ground in 1812.

Today it is their daughter, Elizabeth II, and her husband, Prince Philip, the all-purpose dream boat, for whom hats are sailing through the blue, their owners 18 years more oblivious of the fact that ancestors of Her Majesty put a torch to the original White House.

All the adjectives that we of press and radio—no TV in those ancient, underprivileged times, but somehow we managed—dusted off for that first Queen—"radiant, lovely, charming, gracious, warm, friendly and dignified," have been dusted off and are doing double duty for her radiant, lovely, charming, gracious, warm friendly and dignified daughter.

Why, dear Mr., there is even something familiar about the jewels worn by Elizabeth II. Keep this under your hat, because I don't want to start any crude gossip, but some of the jewels worn on this journey by Her Majesty were broken in or first introduced to American audiences by the Queen Mother 18 years ago. But, as I always say, if you have to wear hand-me-downs, diamonds are a girl's best bet.

I am not the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter born with a veil. But, although this column is written slightly in advance, I can tell you this is the day of the riot at the British embassy.

At 5 p.m. today the heads of mission of the Commonwealth countries are giving a reception in honor of Her Majesty at the embassy to which some 2,500 guests have been invited.

Eighteen years ago, when a comparable event—a garden party—was given at the embassy in honor of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, the most refined social riot in the history of Washington took place, and only 1,400 guests received invitations on that occasion. Then—now—would-be guests used every straggle, legal and illegal, to snare an invitation. Nothing was too ingenious, including mayhem.

The garden party for the parents of Elizabeth II was held on the most hot and humid day of summer. Male guests in formal morning dress looked like boiled lobsters. The late J. P. Morgan was among the lobsters, as was John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Because there were so many guests, the garden of the embassy was divided into two sections, with the Queen shaking the anxious hands of guests in one portion and His Majesty the awed hands of those in the second part.

I am willing to bet a cookie that history repeats itself at the British embassy today. For on this current tour of Elizabeth II, the more things change, the more they are the same.

Backward Look At Our Missile Failure

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Because of drastic economies by the Defense Department, the aircraft industry is cutting back both the production of piloted aircraft and the development of missiles. The consequences in this area, where aviation is 20 per cent or more of all industry, are unforeseeable, as they are in the far larger context of national security.

How serious are the cuts, says the Air Force's action in notifying contractors that they must wait until after January 1 to get paid, is another of those questions that only a really thorough and unimpaired Congressional investigation could answer.

On August 10 and 15, 1950, John A. McCone, then Under Secretary of the Air Force, sent along two memoranda that ultimately reached President Truman. In the light of recent events they show a remarkable prevision of what was needed to put America out ahead in the race for a missile system. Pointing out that the first wavering steps had been taken three years before, McCone wrote:

"In my opinion, however, progress is not satisfactory in view of the urgent need. This apparently is attributable, on one hand, to the manner in which the development programs have been organized within the three services and, on the other, to very serious lack of funds.

"This might be illustrated by the fact that the Germans, in developing the V-2 rocket, are reported to have spent $500,000,000 (probably equal to $1.5 billion at American standards) and fired 1,500 test rockets before the V-2 was ready for service. Fortunately, they were a little later, for they appear to have had in this weapon the ability to destroy the Allied offensive effort from England."

The V-2 was the powerful rocket—big for that day—fired from German launching sites in Belgium on London in the closing months of the war. If the Germans in 1944 and '45 had nuclear warheads for these rockets instead of conventional explosives, they would have wiped out England, even though a relatively small number fell in the British Isles.

U. S. Navy spokesmen have just stated what American intelligence has known for some time through incontrovertible evidence—that the Soviets today have intermediate range missiles with nuclear warheads that can be fired from Western Russia to reach any American base within a 1,500-mile radius.

McCone, in his memoranda, recommended spending about $2 to $3 billion, with "much more as progress warrants extensive procurement and production programs." But mere spending, with the three services competing, would not be enough, McCone implied. He concluded:

"The effort directed toward the project will in no way resemble the effort expended to date. It will be more like the Manhattan Project which so successfully developed the atomic bomb in a very minimum period of time; but to do it required absolute authority in the hands of the project management and the mobilization of a very substantial part of the technical skills of the country."

President Truman was impressed with the McCone memoranda. A little later, an industrialist, T. K. Keller of Chrysler, was brought to Washington to explore the missile field and consider the possibility of a Manhattan-type project. Keller subsequently reported that to undertake such a project, giving authority to one management team, would cause too much disruption in the military services.

The services argue that competition stimulates new ideas, and to some degree this may be true. The aircraft companies are resentful of even the management coordination the Air Force has attempted in the missile-development field through a private firm. Their spokesmen insist that authority exercised in wartime through a Manhattan project would not work in peacetime.

But in the present mood, stirred by the triumph of sputnik, neither Congress nor the public is in the mood to accept excuses.

QUEEN TO SEE TERPS AND NC

By GEORGE BOWEN
COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Queen Elizabeth is more than likely to come away from tomorrow's Maryland-North Carolina game with the impression that college football in the United States is a sluggish sport.

It may look to her uninitiated eyes as nothing more than a tug of war.

Coach Jim Tatum of North Carolina never has been known to try much fancy football. His forte is a rugged defense aimed at forcing the other team to make mistakes which can be turned into quick touchdowns.

Tommy Mont, who succeeded Tatum as coach of Maryland in 1936 after being his assistant for five years, doesn't intend to pull any unusual stunts either.

"I coached under Tatum long enough to know that trick plays aren't going to beat him," says Mont.

He believes that Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will see a grim defensive battle in which "the team that gets two touchdowns will win."

Big, strong lines have been an earmark of Tatum teams and this North Carolina one is no exception. Maryland's defensive line play also has been the best part of its performances so far this season.

While the bruisers might settle the issue, each team also has a fast breakaway runner or two in the backfield who could open up the contest.

Halfback Jim Schuler is playing his first year for North Carolina after transferring from Washington. Maryland's fanciest stepper is halfback Howie Dare, a senior who started his playing for Tatum.

However, sophomore Gene Verrardi may delight the Queen and Maryland if given a chance again.

CALHOUN IS 3-1 CHOICE

NEW YORK (AP)—Rory Calhoun, the middleweight division's strong man, is a 3-1 favorite to beat clever, elusive Rocky Castellani at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The 19-rounder between the 23-year-old better with the bulge biceps and the fleet-footed, seasoned Castellani headlines the first fight show in the Garden since last March. Evangelist Billy Graham, an ice show, the rodeo and other assorted events have occupied the arena.

If there's going to be any thrills, it will be up to Calhoun to provide the action. The 30-year-old Castellani, once a top contender but now unranked in the 160-pound division, is a boxer who relies on his left jab and hook, an occasional right, clutching arms and a fast get-away. It may not be an exciting style but it has helped up his 65-12-4 record.

"It won't be dull," vowed Rory. "I know his style and I will make him fight."

Locals Lose, Play A Tie

A Big Spring 7th Grade football team, its ranks thinned by illness, dropped its first decision of the season here Thursday night to Snyder's big and rugged junior high team, 13-0.

Big Spring's 8th Graders, with three regulars missing from the lineup for allied reasons, were held to a scoreless deadlock by the Snyder-8th in the other contest.

The local 7th Graders were playing without the services of two regular linemen in addition to both their quarterbacks, Rickey Wisener and Gene Lamb, along with halfback Joe Don Musgrove.

Snyder brought a 3-1 won-lost record to town. The visitors had lost to Sweetwaters, 27-6, but won from Lamesa, 32-0; Colorado City, 48-7; and Lee of San Angelo, 42-14.

Big Spring had beaten Andrews, 20-7; Odessa Ector, 6-0; and Lamesa, 37-7, in that order.

Jerry Bethell did a reasonably good job of running the Yearling ball club, even though he was trying his hand at the job for the first time.

Stuart Long scored Snyder's first touchdown in the first quarter on an end sweep from the Yearling 16. The drive carried half the distance of the field.

With Tony Dutchover doing most of the ball hugging, Big Spring moved as far as Snyder's five late in the second period but couldn't muscle it through.

Snyder scored again in the fourth when Bob Pena dashed 18 yards after Snyder had recovered a Big Spring fumble at that point. Jim Taylor lunged through for the extra point.

In the 8th Grade game, Snyder drove as far as Big Spring's 20 in the opening round but lost the ball on a bobble at that point.

The visitors had another drive going shortly before the half ended but Dean Lee intercepted a pass and almost got away, returning 25 yards to Snyder's 45.

Not long after the second half opened, Snyder recovered a Big Spring fumble on the Yearling 29 and maneuvered all the way to the six only, to yield the ball on downs.

Big Spring made its most serious threat in the fourth period when Jimmy Madry drove a drive that carried to Snyder's ten but Snyder dug in to hold at that point.

Dexter Pale contributed some excellent punting for the Yearlings. The Yearlings were playing without the services of John Schwarzenbach a big end; Mike Hughes, tackle; and back Jerry Tucker.

Snyder had lost to Lamesa while winning at Lee and San Angelo. Big Spring has now beaten Andrews, 27-6; and Lamesa, 13-12, in addition to the deadlock with Snyder.

Flu Bug Is Top Winner Among College Clubs

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The flu germ has cut a heavy swath through the collegiate football schedule for the third straight week. Still, there will be the usual jockeying for position in the upper echelon.

Michigan State, reigning king, entertains Wisc. Purdue, and Oklahoma, the shaky but plotting former monarch, plays Kansas tomorrow.

Numerous games have been canceled and many teams weakened by the flu bug. But all the prestige games will be played. In several instances teams which would have been idle because of their opponents' physical condition have agreed to play each other.

Drake called off its game with Colorado State, Omaha also canceled its contest with Bradley. So Colorado State will play Bradley at Peoria, Ill.

In western Pennsylvania, St. Vincent canceled its scheduled meeting with Waynesburg and California Teachers called off its game with Edinboro Teachers, thus setting up a Waynesburg-Edinboro clash. Wheaton, Ill., scheduled Kentucky State to replace flu-crippled Illinois Wesleyan.

Among other games canceled were Washington and Jefferson-Thiel, Johns Hopkins-Haverford, Rip-Union, Bowdoin-Williams, Slippery Rock-Western Reserve, Washington University (St. Louis)-Western Michigan, Brandeis-Springfield, Alfred-Hobart and Montana Miner-Northern Montana.

Many major schools also have been weakened by the virus. But no manpower shortage has been reported at Oklahoma or Michigan State. Neither the Spartans nor the Sooners are expected to have any undue difficulty, although Oklahoma has proved, at least, that it's human in its three victories.

The suspicion that Bud Wilkinson's outfit might get beaten somewhere along the line—plus its relatively weak schedule—undoubtedly influenced the voters in this week's Associated Press poll to send Michigan State to the top.

Last week, Oklahoma had to come from behind to defeat Texas, which had not been rated a problem, 21-7. Meanwhile, Michigan State was grinding out a 35-6 conquest over a strong Michigan outfit.

There are loads of other top games around the country.

If Washington State can get by Oregon, the Cougars are almost certain to be elected the Pacific Coast Conference representative for the Rose Bowl.

The Cougars already have licked California and Stanford, so if they get by Oregon, they will have no one else to beat among the eligibles.

Raiders Host Baylor Bears

LUBBOCK, (SC)—Passing Doyle Traylor and smashing Larry Hickman, operating behind a big Baylor line, seek to add a fifth straight loss to Texas Tech's record in a Saturday night game in Jones Stadium.

Baylor, rated in the top ten as the season started, has merely broken even in four starts, but the Bears are believed recovered from the flu wave that slowed them.

Tech, with one of the thinnest and least experienced squads—only nine returning lettermen—did not score a point in its first two contests but managed to gain second half leads in its last two outings. The Red Raiders, too, are considered over a hard siege of the flu.

Traylor, the injury-ridden performer rated one of the best passers in Southwest Conference history, is leading the conference in passing, and Hickman ranks second in rushing. Tech fans recall Traylor well as the man who triggered the Raiders' 27-0 defeat last year with a 50-yard scoring pass to Del Shofner.

Much of Coach Sam Boyd's offense is built around Traylor either handing off to the speedy, 210-Hickman or faking to him and throwing to sure-handed ends. Baylor's top four wingmen—Jerry Marcontell, Earl Miller, Bill Anderson, and Gary Wisener, rank among the leading six receivers in the Southwest Conference.

Protecting the Bear ball carriers is a line, averaging 217 pounds from tackle to tackle, headed by 6-6 Charles Bradshaw, 233-pound senior from Center.

Coach DeWitt Weaver has made a pair of changes in the Red Raiders' starting lineup. Junior Berry Bell, squadman from Balingier, who has been in for all four of Tech's touchdowns drives this season, is to start a quarter-back, and sophomore Jerry Seefridge of Borger, the converted basketballer, is likely to get the nod at left end.

B&H Continues As Loop Leader

B&H Well Service dropped a 2-1 decision to Frager's this week but held on to first place in the Industrial Bowling league by half a game.

In other matches, Tom Conway's turned back Donald's, 2-1; Wilson's blanked Alexander's, 3-0; and Snyder's Gulf Service edged Toby's, 2-1.

Charlie McLawhorn had a high game of 226.

Ready For District Opener

Overconfidence May Trip Us Up, Says Dub Behrens

COAHOMA (SC)—Coach Dub Behrens was fighting a case of over-confidence as he prepared his Coahoma Bulldogs for a 7:30 o'clock outing here tonight with the Roscoe Playboys.

The game opens District 6-A play for Coahoma, which will carry a 4-1 won-lost record into the field. Coahoma has lost only Ozona this season.

Roscoe holds victories over B teams representing Sweetwater and Abilene. The Playboys are coached by Cliff Patton, one-time Big Spring lineman and later an ace field goal kicker for the Philadelphia Eagles.

Behrens said he was afraid his team wasn't impressed either by the Playboys' record or their size. Roscoe, he says, has a small but hard-hitting team.

Ace of the Roscoe backfield is Larry McBurnett, a 150-pounder, who plays left halfback.

Don White, star halfback of the Coahomans, has been ill with the flu but has gotten two afternoons of workouts. Cariker Roy Wright, starting tackle, is back after a siege of the flu and may see action only on defense tonight.

Coahoma received some bad news recently when it was learned Harold Griffith, reserve tackle, has been lost for the season due to a back injury sustained during the summer. He is a junior.

Behrens said he was especially pleased with the development of Null, the big tackle, who has come a long way since the season started.

Coahoma has beaten Hermleigh, Loraine, Sonora and O'Donnell this season while losing to Ozona.

Knott Invades Eagle Field

ACKERLY (SC)—Knott visits Ackerly tonight for a District 7 six-man game, with the winner due to argue with Gail about the conference championship. Game time is 8 o'clock.

Ronald Fryar is still out of the Knott lineup and Buck McNew, top scorer on the Billie team, is a doubtful starter.

Coach Morris Molpus of Knott is due to start McNew at halfback, however, along with Dois Ray and Mike Shockley at ends, Delbert Conway at center, Thomas Day at quarterback and Leo Williams at fullback.

Phil Wallace, star Ackerly back, was ill last week but should be able to play tonight.

Knott has beaten Ira and Flower Grove while losing to Garden City and Sterling City.

National League May Open Coast Parleys On Nov. 1

By JACK STEVENSON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Negotiations to determine damages to be paid the Pacific Coast League by National League teams taking over the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas are expected to start Nov. 1.

That's the next big step in the move West by the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers. It could bring some heated debate.

A spokesman for the Giants, already in town as the San Francisco Giants, said representatives would be at the PCL annual meeting starting in Sacramento Nov. 1. Proposed transfer of the San Francisco PCL franchise to the Giants from the Boston Red Sox in return for the Minneapolis club of the American Assn. needs league approval.

President Horace Stoneham of the Giants is expected to head the delegation that will seek PCL approval. At the same time it was indicated the whole, knotty question of damages may get its first full airing.

Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle Rainiers, declared last night he would oppose transfer of the San Francisco PCL franchise unless the Giants and Dodgers "get down to business with us" on damages. Transfer approval requires six of the eight PCL votes.

Sick has threatened to sue the two National League clubs if damages for invading the PCL fall short. He estimated his investment in the Rainiers at two million dollars but said he probably would be "agreeable to a reasonable deal for the benefit of baseball as a whole."

President Leslie O'Connor of the PCL said neither the Giants nor the Dodgers has approached him on the matter of damages. The only time he mentioned money figures was in saying previously that damages in recent realignments have been $50,000 per club. "If anybody thinks we'll settle for $50,000 per club, they'd better wake up," said O'Connor, an attorney. He has also challenged legality of baseball's setup of arbitration on such matters.

Stoneham has said he hoped the Giants and Dodgers could settle for less than $100,000 each.

Movement of the National League to the West means realignment of at least the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Hollywood franchises. Brooklyn already owned the Los Angeles Angels. Stoneham, in announcing agreement with Boston in the trade for the San Francisco franchise, said he would move it to any city approved by the PCL.

Giants Buy Four Dallas Players

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants yesterday skimmed rich cream from the roster of the Dallas Eagles, buying two top hurlers, a catcher and an outfielder from the 1957 Texas League champions.

The Giants picked up the tab, which was not disclosed, on right-handers Tommy Bowers, 23, and Ernie Broglio, 22, outfielder Don Taussig, 25, and catcher Nick Testa, 29.

Bowers had a 20-8 record with the Eagles last year and was voted the league's pitcher of the year. He had an earned run average of 3.06, struck out 90 and walked 85.

Broglio, who stands 6 feet and weighs 200 pounds, had an ERA of 2.55 and pitched 16 complete games. He whiffed 120.

Taussig hit .285, including 23 home runs and 90 runs batted in. Testa, a defensive bulwark, hit .255.

Jack Is Purchased

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Purchase of Richard Wilder Jack, 6-foot 9-inch righthanded pitcher, from Shreveport of the Texas League was announced yesterday by Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League.

Shadow Of Doom Hovers Over SWC Favorites

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Southwest Conference plunges headlong into the fight for the championship this weekend and there's a shadow of doom over the favorites—Texas A&M, Arkansas and Rice.

Each is a solid choice, something that's mighty risky in this conference noted for making upsets the real form.

The Aggies, who have gone 14 games without defeat, are 12-point picks over Texas Christian at Fort Worth Saturday afternoon. On the basis of season records and their known personnel, this would appear about right.

Arkansas is a 10-point selection over Texas at Fayetteville in another day game. This, too, seems in line except for what Texas did to mighty Oklahoma's national ranking last week in a losing but furious battle.

Rice is one-half point better than a touchdown favorite over Southwestern Methodist Dallas in a night game. This night net is enough, thinking about SMU's poor showing last week in losing to Missouri 7-6.

But Southwest Conference football is something apart because of the blood feuds and bitter rivalries that bring the lowly to an equal plane.

Anyway, more than 110,000 fans are expected to watch the Aggies, Rice, Texas and Southern Methodist make their starts in the championship race.

Arkansas leads the field with two victories in two tries. About 30,000 fans will watch Jack Mitchell send his veteran eleven against the sophomore-studded team coached by his old teammate Darrell Royal.

Some 46,000—the first sellout for the enlarged Texas Christian stadium—will look over an Aggie outfit rated No. 3 in the nation and aiming higher.

It's always a jolly afternoon when Aggies and Frogs get together, and this time TCU may have the most incentive. The Frogs are still thinking about a 7-6 loss last season when they felt they should have won. It knocked them out of a second straight conference championship.

In Dallas' Cotton Bowl there will be 35,000 to see if what they've heard about that dazzling Rice offense is true. It could be and Rice still not win. The Owls couldn't get more than six points over the goal line against Duke last week.

While there's bitter struggling elsewhere, Baylor will be having a friendly game with those wireless cousins, Texas Tech's Red Raiders, at Lubbock. Tech's in the conference but not trying for a championship yet.

Baylor is pretty well crippled and can't be expected to be in a raging mood, but the Bears ought to take care of Tech. A crowd of 25,000 is expected.

Three out of six last week was the poorest prediction average of the year. It could be worse this week, since there are fewer games.

Texas-Arkansas—It's Dad's Day at Fayetteville but the Razorbacks should be able to win this one on their own—Arkansas by two touchdowns.

Texas A&M-Texas Christian—A TCU victory just seems an impossibility.

Rice-Southern Methodist—There doesn't seem to be anything much equal about this one—Rice.

Baylor-Texas Tech—Tech could win it if Baylor had its mind too much on the next week's battle with Texas A&M. But it's Baylor in a close one.

Jorgensen Winner By KO In Tenth

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ranking featherweight Paul Jorgensen of Fort Arthur, Tex., knocked out Mexico City's Ernesto Figueroa in the final round of their scheduled 10-rounder last night. Both weighed 128.

In the 10th, Jorgensen, who had twice dropped Figueroa in the first round, was leading on cards of the referee and two judges.

Figueroa opened the final round with a blistering two-hand attack and Jorgensen retreated, covering and slipping most of the blows. Suddenly the Texan brought up a right that clipped the Mexican on the button and dropped him flat on his back. Referee Dynamite Jackson counted out Figueroa at 2 minutes and 5 seconds of the round.

Jersey City May Return To Game

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—With the far-flung International League indicating a desire to retrench and then drive for major status, this part-time big league city today found itself a jumping off point in baseball's continuing battle of shifting franchises.

Home of the Brooklyn Dodgers for 15 games during the past two seasons and for years an IL salient before the Jersey City Giants moved out in 1950, this metropolis of 300,000 is just a healthy peg across the Hudson River from New York City.

And that's undoubtedly where IL President Frank Shaughnessy was looking yesterday when he announced from Montreal that the league would move back into Jersey City in "the first big step in becoming a third major league."

New York, no one-team city since both the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants have announced moves to the West Coast, has only the American League Yankees to draw from a metropolitan population of 15 million.

The IL, a Triple A circuit, claimed Jersey City to replace either Havana or Miami, both of which suffered losses at the gate this season. Other teams in the league are Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto, Montreal, Richmond and Columbus, Ohio.

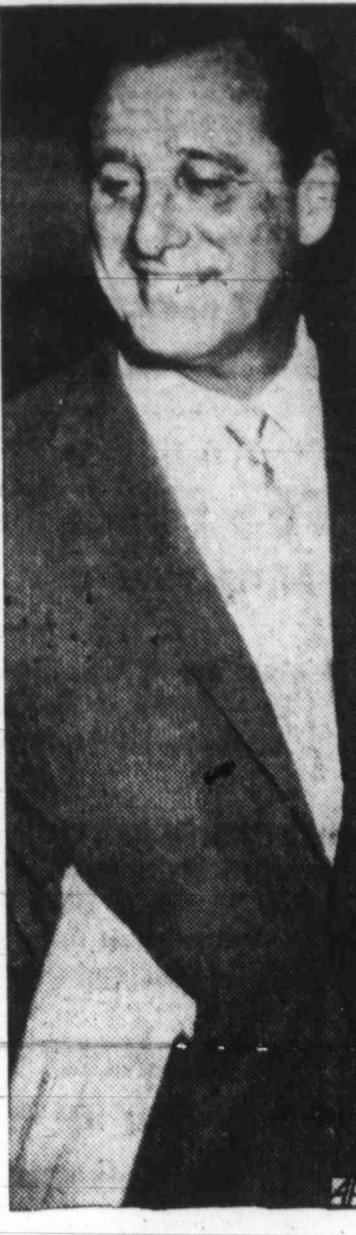

STEERS SEEK THIRD WIN HERE SATURDAY

The Big Spring Steers and the Kermit Yellow Jackets will try a delayed handoff or two here at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

Delayed 24 hours, that is. The exhibition game—last of the season for Big Spring—was originally scheduled for tonight but was advanced a day at the insistence of Al Milch, the Big Spring coach.

Milch and Joe Etheridge, the Kermit mentor, conferred several times during the week after 18 of the local players had been stricken with the flu.

Out of the last conference came a decision to move the game back. Milch said it was either that or cancel the game entirely.

Greenberg Fired

Hank Greenberg manages a smile after he was notified that his contract as general manager of the Cleveland Indians would not be renewed.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring will be afforded the privilege of seeing the Harlem Globe Trotters' No. 1 basketball unit this year, according to Chuck O'Connors, advance man for Abe Saperstein's club.

The Trotters will bring their casaba circus here the night of Thursday, Nov. 28, for a game. That means the public can enjoy its Thanksgiving Day turkey, take a nap and then dust out to Steer Gym for a great show.

The Trotters appeared here one Sunday afternoon last season and the attraction did little more than half fill the gym. However, the Trotters aren't mad at anyone. They knew cities like Big Spring and Abilene (which was mentioned) don't respond very well to Sunday afternoon indoor entertainment.

Showboat Hall, who is the nearest thing to Goose Tatum the Trotters have ever developed, will be with the Trotter team which visits here. Hall paid Big Spring a visit a couple of years ago and delighted a nearby capacity house with his screwball antics. It'll be good to have him in our midst again.

O'Connors, who travels 40,000 miles over a five-months' period as advance man for the Trotters, revealed some of the reasons why Tatum and Marques Haynes both quit the club a couple of years ago.

Tatum was the star of the act, O'Connors says, and owner Saperstein made a mistake he was to realize later when he built too much of the show around the Goose.

Tatum, it seems, developed a prima donna attitude. When Haynes or some other member got too much applause, he sulked.

Too, Goose always seemed on the shorts, although Saperstein was paying him 65 grand a year. Tatum was forever putting the bite on a teammate or Saperstein himself.

It finally got to the point where Saperstein had to let him go, although Tatum would have you believe otherwise. He announced publicly he himself walked out.

When he and Haynes organized a troupe, the move surprised everyone in the Trotter troupe, because Goose and Haynes had never hit it off when both worked for Saperstein.

The alignment lasted only one year, however, and each is going his own way this year.

Since the two departed, Saperstein refuses to build up any one individual on his two teams (last year there were three clubs), although Hall is the nearest thing to a real star.

Incidentally, the same Trotter team which visits here will play Odessa and five other West and Central Texas cities.

In the past, Big Spring and Odessa have played hosts to different Trotter contingents.

O'Connors says the Trotter intermission acts will be better than ever this year, and they were always top drawer.

A couple of the acts will be remembered by the local spectators but others will be new.

Incidentally, the Trotter show will again be sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A member of the local school board wants it emphasized that the school's decision on athletic awards—wherein members of varsity teams only earn jackets—was made by the school board, long before Coach Al Milch arrived on the scene. In other words, Al had nothing to do with it.

Neither coach wanted that to happen. Milch's boys must go up against mighty Abilene next week. Etheridge's hands must take the field against rough and ready Andrews one week from tonight. In addition, Kermit is getting rusty from inaction. The Jackets weren't scheduled last week, and they had a game canceled out on them early in the season.

Milch is recruiting top hands off the B team to fill out his roster, reasoning that all of his athletes will not be ready tomorrow night. Fourteen of the 18 boys stricken here returned to the practice field Wednesday but some of them went through the workout on shaky underpinnings. There's no telling how much any of them can take tomorrow.

Big Spring picked up a lot of prestige in knocking off Lamesa, 21-7, last week. A win tonight could even their won-lost record at 3-3 for the year.

Big Spring went up against a team that had a 2-1 record last week and faces the identical situation tonight.

Kermit beat Lamesa, 20-13, after jumping off to a three-touchdown lead over the Tornados.

The Jackets lost 26 letters from last season but returned 12 veterans. Three Kermit's four backs were regulars last year.

Charlie Thompson, a 175-pound senior, is the Jackets' leading scorer and biggest threat.

Jack Probst guides the Kermit attack, just as he did last year.

Kermit beat the Steers last year, 21-20, and most observers conceded that it was lucky to do it. Big Spring simply lost the ball too many times on fumbles inside its own ten-yard line.

Joe Etheridge is in his first year as head coach at Kermit. He succeeded Max Jones, who moved to Conroe. He's a former SMU line standout.

Stanton To Play Roby Tonight

STANTON (SC)—Boasting a 3-2 won-lost record, the Stanton Buffaloes head for Roby tonight for a 7:30 District 6-A football contest with the Roby Lions.

The Bisons have beaten Grandfalls, Meadow and Loraine this season while losing to Rankin and O'Donnell. Even in the losses, the Buffs looked to advantage, however.

Roby has lost to Hermleigh and Aspermont, among others, and hasn't lived up to expectations.

The Lions could be tough in their own back yard, however.

Grapevine Suffers Initial Loss To Lancaster, 12-6

By The Associated Press

Grapevine fell but San Antonio Burbank and Wilmer-Hutchins protected their unbeaten records in a scattering of Thursday night games in the Texas schoolboy football campaign.

Grapevine, which was one of 14 undefeated, untied teams in Class AA, took it on the chin from Lancaster, another Class AA outfit, 12-6.

Burbank, unbeaten but tied, downed San Antonio Tech 20-13 in Class AAAA.

Wilmer-Hutchins, a highly ranked AA eleven, won over Richardson 13-6 to keep its undefeated, untied record.

Only 47 teams have perfect marks as the schoolboy field moves into the heart of the championship campaign Friday night.

Abilene goes after its 43rd straight triumph in a battle with Waco. The Eagles aren't in top condition for the big test that would tie the all-time record for consecutive victories. Abilene has some key men out with flu.

San Antonio Club Is Up For Sale

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The San Antonio franchise in the Texas League is for sale and Bill Walsingham, vice president of the Baltimore Orioles, who own the franchise, says he has a couple of prospective buyers.

Walsingham came here from the Texas League meeting at Dallas, where Paul Richards, general manager of the Orioles, had said San Antonio would be in the league next year.

Charles Coffin, who is working on a deal to obtain several hundred San Antonio people as stockholders, conferred with Walsingham. The latter wouldn't reveal who the other interested party was.

Brown Says His Boys Innocent

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul E. Brown, still concerned about the rough stuff that nearly turned last Sunday's game into a riot, didn't come right out and say it was the fault of the Philadelphia Eagles.

But he told a local radio audience last night that National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell knows the Cleveland Browns were not responsible for starting the fights.

Seven players were ejected during the game, which the Browns won 24-7, and players from both benches swarmed onto the field in the fourth quarter to join in a wild melee.

New Solar Photos Taken

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Scientists today awaited the chance for a new, closeup look at the sun in 8,000 pictures taken by a balloon-borne camera at 83,200 feet yesterday.

Dr. Martin Schwarzschild, heading the stratoscope project, termed it an outstanding success after the huge camera was parachuted safely 20 miles southeast of Blue Earth, Minn.

The 35mm. films, exposed at the rate of one per second, are being processed in a University of Minnesota laboratory.

The balloon, with its nearly three-quarter-ton cargo of apparatus, was launched from Huron, S.D.

Dr. Schwarzschild, Princeton University astronomer, said the project is providing valuable information for possible satellite launchings. The camera achieves clarity through being free of 95 per cent of the earth's atmospheric haze.
