Queen Sees First U. S. Football Game

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, in a holiday mood, went to her first American football game today—by a stadium jam-packed with 43,000 tuned up to roar for titles as well as touchdowns.

Elizabeth and her husband, himself as tall and rangy as a T-formation quarterback, drove in President Eisenhower's bubbletop limousine to the Maryland-North Carolina game in nearby College Park, Md.

Philip rejoined his wife for the game after going on his own to the historic U. S. Marine barracks to watch a troop review. He wore the elegant uniform of a captain general of Britain's Royal Marines, one of his military ranks.

While he was doing that, Elizabeth conferred knightly honors at the British Embassy, laid a foundation stone for a new embassy office building, received presents from America's Boy Scouts and mingled with 2,348 staff members of the 10 Commonwealth embassies here.

The White House meanwhile announced that the royal couple exchanged gifts last night with their hosts, the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

PRINCELY PORTRAIT

The Eisenhowers gave Elizabeth and Philip a portrait of their son, Prince Charles, painted by the President and signed "DE," as well as a ceramic sculpture of Philip on his polo pony.

From their guests the Eisenhowers received a pair of porcelain birds and an elaborate candlestick designed around Eisenhower's World War II invasion plot. Elizabeth and Philip will take a ride into the Virginia countryside tomorrow to look at horses. They will drive to the horse training center of millionaire Paul Mellon at Middleburg, Va., for tea. They will fly back in a two-engine British aircraft which belongs to the British Embassy.

Formal goodbyes will be said at the White House Sunday night before Elizabeth and Philip go to a Commonwealth dinner at the Australian Embassy.

On Monday they will end their six-day American stay with a day in New York City, where they will go by special train Sunday night. They will fly shortly after midnight back to London.

The Queen and her consort had typical football weather for their outing at College Park: Overcast sky with a chill wind from the west.

neered 50-yard line box—bright cheering section cards, majorettes and colorfully uniformed bands of the two schools.

The Queen, clutching a yellow chrysanthemum, received the rival co-captains. They gave her a football autographed by the Maryland players and a replica of the coin tossed for the choice of goals.

When Elizabeth laid the foundation stone at the embassy she used the gavel with which a distant kinsman, George Washington, started building the Capitol in 1793. She took an interest in it, looking at it and asking questions after the ceremony.

The embassy ballroom was hushed as Elizabeth, using a gleaming slender sword, tapped the shoulders of two British subjects in the impressive ceremony of the final accolade of knighthood. She also gave honorary knighthood to three Americans.

YANKEE "KNIGHTS"

The honorary American knights were Lewis W. Douglas of Sonoma, Calif., Hugh Bullock of New York City, and John Strider Coleman of Detroit. Douglas was U.S. Ambassador to Britain in 1947-50. Bullock is president of the Pilgrims of the United Fund's Drive Due To End Thursday

This is supposed to be "Victory Week" for the 1957 United Fund campaign.

And although little more than half the campaign goal has been achieved, drive leaders were hopeful Saturday that a big push early in the week will enable solicitation efforts to grind to a halt on schedule Thursday.

Two more report meetings are scheduled—one at noon Tuesday and the other at noon Thursday. The latter is on the calendar as the last of the campaign.

K. H. McGibbon, general chairman, said Saturday the goal can be reached on that date if all workers will make their contacts and turn in reports either Tuesday or Thursday. Pointing out that no worker faces assignments that will require more than about 2½ hours of his time, McGibbon appealed for everyone to complete his task and turn in a report—by Tuesday, if possible.

Goal of the drive is $89,100 to finance the operations of Salvation Army, Red Cross, Milk & Ice Fund, YMCA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cancer Society, West Side Youth Center and Summer Recreation Program for another year. So far, $46,325 has been raised. Needed to complete the campaign is $42,775.

Autos Crash On Barricade

Highway Patrol officers answering a call to investigate an accident involving a barricade at one of the bridges being rebuilt on Highway 859 Friday night found that a second accident at the same bridge had occurred in the interval.

The patrol said that Andrew B. Wright, 54, Odessa, in an Austin-Healy, had crashed the barricade on the north end of the closed bridge. The impact had damaged the front of his little car and broken the windshield. Wright had suffered painful but not serious facial cuts. This mishap occurred at 9:20 p.m.

This was the accident the patrol set out to investigate. The 198 cases of influenza last week, 159 were bothered by upper respiratory trouble.

Another 10 had pneumonia, and 30 suffered from colds. Thirty-three cases of tonsillitis were listed, and 20 cases of diarrhea.

Four cases each of gastroenteritis and trench mouth, three cases of streptococcal, and one each of chicken pox and measles completed the report.

Scores Infected By Flu, Respiratory Diseases Here

Flu cases in Big Spring jumped to 189 at the end of the week, according to the survey taken by the city-county health unit.

The weekly report for the week ending Oct. 12 showed only 150 cases. In addition to the 189 cases of influenza last week, 159 were bothered by upper respiratory trouble.

Another 10 had pneumonia, and 30 suffered from colds. Thirty-three cases of tonsillitis were listed, and 20 cases of diarrhea.

Four cases each of gastroenteritis and trench mouth, three cases of streptococcal, and one each of chicken pox and measles completed the report.

Daniel Confident Legislature Will Pass Water Bill

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel said today he was confident the special legislative session would finally approve his statewide water planning bill, despite considerable committee wrangling the first week.

House and Senate committees spent two days debating the governor's million dollar emergency water planning bill without making any changes in it.

Odessa Newsman Hurt In Wreck

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Brad Carlisle, 34, managing editor of the Odessa-American, was seriously injured last night in a head-on collision 1.2 miles north of here.

The car he was driving collided with one driven by Bonato Bernal, 38, Asherton, Tex.

Carlisle's wife Betty, 26, and Frank A. White, 31, advertising manager of the Odessa newspaper, suffered minor injuries.

Carlisle suffered two broken legs, a broken collar bone, broken wrist and severe scalp lacerations. Bernal had a broken leg and head injuries. Both were admitted to Dimmitt Memorial Hospital.

The Carlises and White were en route to Mexico City for a two-week vacation via Laredo.

U.N. May Hold Long Debate On Mid-East Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.N. General Assembly, it was said today, may hold day-and-night debate next week for quick disposal of Syrian-Soviet charges that Turkey plans to attack Syria with U.S. help.

Meanwhile the idea of sending a commission to investigate the situation seemed to have won wide acceptance. Various delegations consulted on the terms of a resolution to set up the commission.

The diplomatic informant, speaking anonymously, told a reporter the Assembly president, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, would like to finish with the matter before Thursday's celebration of U.N. Day, 12th anniversary of the U.N. Charter's coming into effect.

The new Middle Eastern question seemed headed for action in little more than a week.

Only yesterday afternoon the Assembly, at Syria's request, decided to consider a "complaint about threats to the security of Syria and to international peace."

This new item was added to the agenda by a vote of 66-0. Liberia abstained.

The complaint was made only Wednesday. Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar wrote the U.N. that Turkish troops were massed on the Syrian border in a manner "which presages imminent attack."

He said the Assembly should set up a commission to investigate and report back to it.

Later Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Gromyko in a similar letter charged Turkey had concentrated 50,000 men on the frontier and, with U.S. advice, was planning to attack Syria right after the Oct. 27 Turkish election. He called for an investigating commission to report both to the Assembly and to the Security Council.

Turkish Ambassador Seyfullah Esin told the Steering Committee the charges were false. He said Russia was using a "fictitious situation" to justify threats against Turkey.

Other delegates generally held the Syrian-Soviet charge was propaganda—not war. But in the Assembly, E. Ronald Walker of Australia said there was a dangerous threat to the world. He said a mistake by a junior officer carried away by the tension could bring incalculable results.

Knowledgeable diplomats said most delegates favored sending a commission to the Middle East but there was disagreement over details.

The Syrian and Soviet letters said the commission should investigate "the situation on the Syrian-Turkish" frontier. But the United States was understood to favor having it range over parts or all of the rest of Syria and Turkey and also investigate big-power policies toward the two countries. The United States has charged Soviet domination of Syria.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William F. Tompkins examines a hollowed-out bolt in which a microfilm message linking U.S. Army Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes to a spy ring was found. FBI agents, testifying at the espionage trial of Rudolf Ivanovich Abel in New York, said the message was found in a box of bolts at the home of Reino Hayhanen, confessed Soviet agent, at Peekskill, N.Y. Wyatt Dunks Plane In Ocean

CORUNA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dived his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome.

William Wyatt, 25-year-old ex-Marine from Dallas, was plucked from the sea by a Spanish fishing vessel he had signaled with a mirror from the air. He was uninjured and his plane, a single engine Mooney Mark 20, was towed ashore.

Wyatt was trying to break a flight record for small planes set in March 1949, by the late U.S. flier, William P. Odom, who flew a Beechcraft Bonanza 4,357.24 miles from Honolulu to Teterboro, N.J.

Wyatt's backers in Galveston said they did not believe Wyatt had succeeded in setting a new record. They said the plane went down 850 statute miles from Rome. Wyatt's planned flight had called for a total distance of 5,693 miles. He said he had had luck all the way across the Atlantic. Headwinds cut down his speed for 32 hours. He radioed the airport at Bordeaux, France, yesterday that because of the winds he was using more gas than he had planned on.

nor bruises and the plane apparently only minor damage.

Wyatt will decide Monday whether the plane can be flown, Rachel said, and if so he will take it to Paris and fly it back to Galveston.

Wyatt took off from Galveston at 9:25 a.m. Thursday and had hoped to reach Rome in about 40 hours. He had fuel for 44 hours. Wyatt estimated he had flown about 5,000 miles in 37 hours before landing at 1:20 a.m.—Greenwich Time.

GAVE ACCOUNT

Rachel said Wyatt gave him this account:

Wyatt's plane was under guard by customs officers and he couldn't get to it to check his charts. He estimated he flew 2,900 miles at 7,000 feet over the ocean which he didn't see because of clouds.

He made a perfect ditch landing but was too busy to put out a radio distress call. A wing strut on the plane was broken in landing.

Rachel quoted Wyatt as saying, "I believe I could have made it to Rome but it would have been close."

He was congratulated but asked, "For what, falling in the ocean?" and was quite disappointed," Rachel said.

Wyatt is staying with a retired U.S. Army major, Antonio Couto.

Turks Dig In Along Border

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 19 (AP)—Returning travelers reported today seeing large numbers of Turkish infantry and strong armored units dug in along the tense Syrian border.

Eyewitnesses who toured the dusty roads along the western section of the border said military trucks were rumbling in the area night and day. Troops and armor appeared well dug in and in defensive positions, one traveler said, with equipment camouflaged from ground or air observations.

Two witnesses said they saw about 30 American officers and noncoms clad in field uniforms in the area. These apparently were technical instructors and advisers attached to Turkish units for training purposes as part of the American defense aid program here.

Turkey has repeatedly rejected Syrian claims that troops are poised for anti-Syrian aggression. In several notes Turkish leaders have insisted on Turkey's right to maneuver her own troops for defensive purposes in her own territory.

Race Controversy Down To A Simmer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 19 (AP)—The controversy over integration at Little Rock Central High School here simmered at a low point today.

Gov. Orval Faubus, who opposes the federal government in its protection of nine Negro children at the school with paratroopers and federalized National Guardsmen, was at Fayetteville, Ark., for the Arkansas-Texas football game.

At Fayetteville, Faubus repeated earlier statements that he "expected" a special session of the Arkansas Legislature to deal with the problem.

Only Faubus can call such a session and he gave no indication when he might do so.

Faubus also has said the state might take up a legal fight to have the troops removed, but there were no developments along that line today.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N.D., Thursday dismissed without hearing a citizen's suit seeking to have the troops ordered out.

This action resulted in a protest from Faubus and a demand from the plaintiff's attorney for "impeachment" of Davies. The lawyer also said he would appeal the dismissal order.

Troops were still on duty in the vicinity of the high school today despite the weekend process.

Recognition Of E. Reich Stirs Action

BONN, Germany, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Bonn government unhappily broke off diplomatic relations today with Yugoslavia, one of West Germany's best customers. Yugoslav reaction ranged from anger to sadness.

The action was prompted by Yugoslavia's recognition Tuesday of the Communist East German regime.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano seemed none too happy at a news conference. He said West Germany considered it regrettable that the step had to be taken.

Von Brentano said his government does not feel hostile either to the Yugoslav people or its regime, headed by President Tito.

Dusan Kveder, Yugoslav ambassador to Bonn, looking more sad than angry, told newsmen the move amounted to senseless pressure that could do no one any good.

The Belgrade News Agency Yugoslopress called the decision unreasonable, adding that "no move of Bonn officials can deny the fact that two German states exist."

In Washington and London, the United States and Britain expressed their sympathy with the West German action. They said they fully understood the reasons for Bonn's move. France approved in advance.

ALLIES AGREE

Like West Germany, the United States, France and Britain refuse to accept the legal existence of the East German Communist regime. They maintain East Germany is occupied by the Soviet Union and that the 17 million residents have no voice in their own affairs.

What would happen to the bustling trade between Yugoslavia and West Germany, amounting to 100 million dollars a year, remained to be seen. Both Von Brentano and Kveder said the question of economic relations remains wide open.

West German industrialists opposed a break, fearing a loss of income. The average Yugoslav worried that otherwise scarce consumer goods, bought by large credits from West Germany, might vanish from shops.

Yugoslavia also wondered how the rupture will affect the profitable tourist trade. West German tourists are the most numerous visitors to Yugoslavia.

Von Brentano said West Germany will not maintain an economic mission in Belgrade, France, acting as Bonn's representative in Yugoslavia, will act as go-between on trade matters.

West Germany appeared in no mood to halt its payment of war reparations to Yugoslavia. This is in the form of a 67 million dollar long-term loan, interest free.

OPPOSITIONS LINE UP

In addition to the industrialists, the opposition Socialists and Free Democrats and even some of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats stood against the move.

But Von Brentano told reporters West Germany would be abandoning its foreign policy if it took the Yugoslav diplomatic slap lying down.

Bonn argues that if East Germany acquires a standing in polite society, the division of the country would be made permanent and the East Germans surrendered to slavery.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

About all the weather did for us last week was leave the cotton harvest on high center. Most places didn't get enough to add to underground reserves, but high humidity hung around all week. More over, bolts which needed warm weather to mature and open, instead stood cold and still. One bright spot was that Lake J. B. Thomas, coupled with another slight rise, picked up around 3,500 acre feet of water.

Webb AFB turned out another crop of the world's finest pilots—and spunkies, etc. notwithstanding, they're still just that.

Second Lt. Gene E. Penn was honor graduate of Class 53-A.

Bank figures were relatively steady last week, combined statements of the three local institutions showed. Deposits of $27.5 million were down by more than a quarter of a million, and loans of $10.9 million were up by little less than a million. If our harvest can get going, that picture will change drastically by the Dec. 31 call.

Halloween is coming on before long, and parents are reminded to exercise care in getting costumes and masks which might catch fire easily.

When spook night comes on, it will be wise for parents to accompany their trick-and-treaters, particularly if their costumes are dark. By the same token, drivers are urged to be especially careful.

Police hauled out the radar unit last week and unlimbered it along Third and Fourth Streets. The toll in one day was 78. We'd say that it is still working pretty good.

Demos Slap Ike For Cuts In U.S. Military Budget

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Democratic Advisory Council today accused the Eisenhower administration of having undertaken "unilateral disarmament at the expense of our national security . . . in the face of Russia's rapid progress in science and technology."

If continued, the council said, the present policy "will, by 1960, take the United States far toward political isolation, continue to weaken our military position relative to the Russians, and leave those nations of the still free world which are capable of industrial development looking to Moscow for capital and technical assistance."

The council's views were contained in a statement issued after the first session of a two-day meeting here. The statement was approved by all 17 council members present, including Adlai Stevenson, two-time Democratic presidential nominee. Paul M. Butler, Democratic National Committee chairman, said former President Harry S. Truman, one of the seven council members unable to attend, had endorsed the statement.

The council said the Eisenhower administration "has made the fundamental error of placing fiscal objectives and domestic political considerations ahead of the nation's security. It has tailored our defense establishment to meet preconceived budget goals rather than to provide the strength needed to preserve our national existence."

The Republican administration, it said, has slowed down the missile programs and canceled "the contract for our only existing supersonic intercontinental missile" at a time when Russia has "dramatically demonstrated" its progress in science and technology by launching its satellite.

Dawson County Gets 3.9 Inch Of Rain

LAMESA, Oct. 19—Rainfall which measured 3.9 inch fell in Lamesa and over most of Dawson county Saturday.

The rain, which began around 9 a.m. and continued intermittently until 2:30 p.m., was not welcome. Cotton harvest is in full swing and the moisture has brought a halt to operations.

Jordan Airliner Fired On By Israeli Jet Fighter

CAIRO, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American pilot of an Air Jordan passenger plane reported tonight an Israeli jet fighter fired on the plane five times over Jordan territory in a vain effort to force him to land in Israel.

The Air Jordan craft was not hit. It landed safely at Cairo with its 14 passengers and four crew members unharmed.

Capt. Jesse Stallworth of Pine Bluff, Ark., said in an interview the incident occurred about 50 miles north-northeast of Aqaba, Jordan, in mid-afternoon as he was flying the DC3 from the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem to Cairo. He said the Israeli jet crossed his path, made two passes around the plane and indicated it should head from the Arab nation toward Israeli territory.

"When I tried to continue on my regular course, the Israeli plane opened fire at us five times," Stallworth said. "Each time he fired approximately 25 rounds of ammunition. The flak came so close we flew through puffs of smoke, but apparently we weren't hit. Frankly I don't see how he missed us."

Stallworth said five of his 14 passengers were Americans. He said he frequently carried 30 to 40 on flights over that route.

Compactness, Economy

Compactness and economy keynote the new Rambler line for 1958. Designed to take advantage of the trend toward cars which are economical to operate and easier to park and handle, the new Ramblers also maintain traditional American styling and interior roominess.

SHOWN HERE THIS WEEK

New Ramblers Push Trend To The Compact Automobile

American Motors this week is unveiling its 1958 line of six and eight-cylinder Rambler cars, with scores of major styling and engineering improvements. The new line is designed "to take further advantage of the trend toward compact cars."

made even stronger and safer by structural changes, a step-on parking brake and the optional Pow-Lok differential for V-8 models, which is designed to improve performance while driving through sand, mud, snow or ice. Pow-Lok permits the rear axle to send the greatest driving force to the wheel with the best traction.

and Borg-Warner's smooth and efficient Flash-O-Matic, also optional. As a new AM "first" for 1958, internal transmission shifting is automatically governed by an engine vacuum control system—rather than a mechanical linkage—which more accurately senses engine-load and car-speed requirements. Service problems are minimized since mechanical adjustments are not required.

Hungarians No Longer Fear Reds

By ENDRE MARTON Associated Press Staff The present in Hungary is undeniably grim. Today, Hungary is again the model of the police state. But where, before the revolution, the people were cowed by their Communist bosses, today they can jeer.

American novelist Howard Fast has turned their backs on Moscow. Theirs are only two names picked at random. The number of disillusioned Western intellectuals is enormous. The revolt itself was crushed by the sheer force of a great power, but its consequences continue to spread.

This is perhaps the truly significant outcome of those flaming October days a year ago when Hungarian boys and girls, armed with explosive bottles of gasoline, took on Soviet tanks in the streets of Budapest.

Red Chinese leaders openly admit that the Hungarian revolt fomented unrest in their country. Britain's Communist party virtually disintegrated and the Hungarian-sparked ferment is still causing headaches in the Communist parties of France and Italy.

Historians, statesmen and diplomats may argue the reasons for and consequences of the revolt. But they must agree on one thing: Events in Hungary last October represent a milestone in the history of international communism.

What does the future, even the present, hold for Hungary? Internment camps are again filled with revolutionaries. Prisons are packed to capacity. Undesirables are deported to remote places. The secret police are again the No. 1 power in the country.

The revolt was an eye-opener too for both neutrals and idealists. Events in Hungary bare communism as the No. 1 imperialist power of our time.

Is Hungary back where she was during the darkest times of tyranny from 1948 and 1953? No, by no means. The difference is not so much in the brutality of the Red regime. It is in the way that the Hungarian people are reacting to it.

Moscow Asks Summit Talks On Mid-East

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Moscow suggested today that Britain and the United States call Russia into an East-West summit conference aimed at restoring calm along the troubled border between Turkey and Syria.

Moscow radio timed its suggestion to coincide with a call by British Communist party Secretary John Gollan for summit talks "to stop war breaking out" in the Middle East.

The Communist strategy was unfolded only three days before Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flies to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower on a variety of world topics, including the Turkish-Syrian crisis.

A commentary in Moscow's English-language service asserted the two Western statesmen cannot solve the problem alone. "If they really want to bring the Middle East back to normal, why don't they invite other countries to confer?" the broadcast asked.

It implied that the Soviet Union and probably Red China should be asked to join a round-table meeting designed to allay fears of a new world war springing from the Turkish-Syria dispute which Moscow seems content to keep at the boiling point.

After all, Moscow radio said, "there is not a single international problem now that can be settled singly. But Mr. Macmillan's meeting with the President hints at a separate plot by one group of powers against others; against the Soviet Union in particular."

Red China has supported Soviet charges that the United States is plotting to invade Syria. It pledged military support for Syria in general and aggression.

The British Foreign office is cool to the idea of a summit conference. A spokesman said it was unlikely to be discussed by Eisenhower and Macmillan.

Soviet war talk about the Turkish-Syrian border has puzzled Western diplomats as well as the Turks, who deny they are about to attack anyone. Even some Syrian quarters privately discount the threat.

But Moscow shows no sign of letting up in propaganda broadcasts beamed to the Middle East portraying Russia as a defender of the Arab states.

Piney Woods Legislators Gain In Fight Against Integration

By GARTH JONES AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—East Texas segregationists took an oath of secrecy after talking to Gov. Price Daniel this week but it was no secret that the piney woods legislators got what they wanted—another legislative fight against federal integration orders.

Whether the struggle to strengthen state segregation laws will come during this special 30-day session or at a later special session—probably in 1958—was still to be decided. Some legislators predicted Daniel would have to set a definite date for action on segregation bills before he got definite action on his prime targets of water, lobby and influence control, and a crime commission.

Before the Legislature adjourned for the week Thursday, administration-backed lobby control and water bills found rough going in committees. Sen. Senefors complained of numerous "loop holes" in a lobby registration bill offered by Sen. Crawford Martin and put off further study on it and three similar measures until Monday.

Committees wrangled for two days over Daniel's statewide water planning bill and reached no conclusions. They agreed to resume study Monday.

The House State Affairs Committee will hold its first public hearing on the five lobby control bills Monday, if it doesn't get sidetracked on segregation. Set for hearing at the same time is a resolution condemning the use of federal troops at Little Rock and a resolution demanding that Daniel say now whether he will submit segregation proposals for action at this Legislature or at another special session.

The resolution wanting immediate action on the segregation session was introduced by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas after Daniel talked secretly with East Texas lawmakers Monday, then spoke at an East Texas delegation breakfast Tuesday morning.

The breakfast was given by a pro-segregation organization known as the Texas Referendum Committee. About 70 attended, most of them from East Texas but with a sprinkling of West Texans.

Daniel said he had talked behind closed doors for 1 1/2 hours the day before with the segregationists. "I will talk when I'm ready to act and I think something effective can be done," he said, then promised that federal troops would never march on Texas schools while he was governor. There was loud applause.

"But the governor didn't say there would not be integration in Texas," complained Pool. "I want him to say that."

Rep. Reagan Huffman of Marshall, leader of segregation forces which pushed through two bills in the regular session of the 55th Legislature said he would support Pool.

"I want the governor to get down on the dotted line," Huffman said. There was loud applause.

"You're acting like some of those people in Little Rock," warned Rep. Jerry Sadler of Permian, an outspoken segregationist who often votes with, but sometimes disagrees with, the bloc. He said he thought "the governor will help us if we let him along for a few days."

"I'm firmly convinced that if he does not submit our bills in the last 10 days of this session he will call a special session before the sun goes down on that day," said Rep. Joe Wintree of Houston.

Johnson Urges Space Program

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said tonight "Our minds must grasp the fact that for the first time in recorded or unrecorded history, men have managed to escape the earth into outer space." "The point that must be realized is that we live in an age of miracles which are not miracles. There was no witchcraft involved in the Soviet satellite. Nobody sacrificed a goat by the light of the moon. No old crones stirred a brew of batwings, toad legs and cauldrons.

"The Communists simply mobilized their brainpower; pooled resources to place Sputnik into the sky. "We could make precisely the same decisions. We could mobilize our brainpower, pool our information and dedicate our resources."

Corruption Scandals A Big Hallowe'en 'Boo' For Unions

By NORMAN WALKER WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The corruption scandals haunting some labor unions come to roost next week in a giant, pre-Hallowe'en boo for the union labor movement.

But there is every indication the rulers of the 15-million-member parent body, the AFL-CIO, won't scare. They seem ready to mete out tough punishment to their racket-tainted problem children, including the Teamsters.

Leaders of the Teamsters and several other AFL-CIO unions have been accused of raiding the cookie jar—their union treasury tills.

Most of the rest of organized labor seems to realize public spankings are in order if unions in general are to avoid punitive legislation by Congress and state legislatures.

George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks Brotherhood, an AFL-CIO vice president and one of its most influential leaders, said: "The federation is determined to clean its own house."

This is the theme voiced by George Meany, AFL-CIO president and such other key federation leaders as Walter Reuther. They maintain the nation can rely on labor rid its ranks of racketeering and corruption without help from Congress or other outsiders.

But this discounts the fact that Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Committee, which has leveled most of the corruption charges against the Teamsters' and other union officials, has along with a number of colleagues called for legislation to guard against union wrongdoing.

Thus the parent AFL-CIO itself will be on trial next week when its powerful 29-man Executive Council meets to weigh the fate of the Teamsters, the Bakery Workers and the United Textile Workers unions. All have been labeled corrupt by McClellan's committee.

Much depends on what happens here Monday before Federal Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts in a rank-and-file members' lawsuit challenging the legality of the recent Teamsters convention election of James R. Hoffa as new Teamsters president.

Pending this hearing, Letts has issued a temporary restraining order against Hoffa taking over the Teamsters helm from the retiring president, Dave Beck. Both Beck and Hoffa have been tagged by McClellan's committee and the AFL-CIO itself as corrupt.

Beck is staying in office pending the outcome of the court challenge of Hoffa's election. It is charged that delegates to the Teamsters' convention in Miami Beach, Fla., were harassed by Hoffa and Beck, in violation of the Teamsters' own constitution, to rig the balloting for Hoffa.

Neither acceptable. But it appears that so far as the AFL-CIO is concerned, neither Hoffa nor Beck is acceptable. So an AFL-CIO suspension of the Teamsters from federation membership is regarded as a virtual certainty at the council meeting here next Thursday.

The only possible out seems to be if Judge Letts puts the Teamsters under a court-appointed receiver, as asked by the plaintiffs. In that event the AFL-CIO probably would postpone any action pending clarification of the Teamsters' leadership.

The Teamsters are holding their own powwow in Chicago Tuesday. Beck has summoned the union's executive board to map plans on whatever Letts may decide at the Monday court hearing. The Teamsters also will plan what they will say when they go before the AFL-CIO council for their spanking Thursday.

Beyond all that, Hoffa, 44, currently being called the real baby of the labor movement, faces a court hearing next Friday in New York. He has asked an indefinite delay in trials on wiretap conspiracy and perjury charges. Hoffa's attorneys claim he has been victimized by McClellan and can't get a fair trial.

Weather Slows Cotton Harvest

Dampish weather last week slowed the harvest of cotton sharply in Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties, the Texas Employment Commission survey revealed.

Martin County, with 3,868 bales ginned out of an estimated crop total of 63,750, has 35 per cent of its cotton open and ready for picking, the report stated.

In Howard County only 1,173 bales out of an estimated 31,000 have been ginned. It was estimated 30 per cent of the crop is ready for pickers.

Glasscock County, with 50 per cent of its crop now open, has ginned 946 bales out of 16,000 as the week came to an end. Rainless weather will vastly accelerate the harvest this week, the TEC office predicted.

Savings Bonds Shrink Sharply!

Mrs. Margaret Vance of the staff of the State National Bank, shows how the new Series E Savings Bonds compare with the old size which has been in use for many years.

PUNCHCARD DESIGN

Bonds Shrinking, But Not In Value

Series E Savings Bonds—the old popular investment for millions of Americans for so many years—have shrunk in size but they still have the same face value. Supplies of the new model bond forms, which are about the size of a commercial bank check, are now on hand. State National Bank officials said the new bonds were scheduled for distribution effective on Oct. 1. The supplies reached here a few days later but are now being used exclusively in the area. The new bonds are punchcard design—each has certain mysterious IBM perforations which will greatly expedite the recording of the securities in Washington and in the centers where they are handled. They are 3 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches in size as compared with the old size of 4 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches. The government, it was explained, changed the size of the bonds for two reasons. One, the new bonds will save half a million dollars a year in printing costs due to the smaller size. The second reason is that the punchcard form will speed up record keeping. Another reason is that the bonds are much easier handled by the purchaser. Bank officials at the State National Bank said that the new bonds also eliminate one step in the sales process. Mrs. Margaret Vance, secretary of the State National Bank, said the new bonds better than the old. "One patron," she added, "asked if he could bring in all of his previously purchased bonds and exchange them for the new smaller size." Robert Currie, president of the bank, said that though the bonds may have shrunk in size, they still represent a very sound investment. "You still get four dollars for every three you invest," he pointed out. Sales of the popular Series E bonds locally hold about on an even keel from year to year, he said. However, a great many bonds are cashed in by their owners as emergencies arise which make it necessary for the owners to obtain cash.

Dulles Making New Agonizing Re-Appraisal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles is reported to be making a careful reappraisal of U. S. support for Yugoslavia. The question is whether that Communist country has kept enough independence of Russia to justify continuing American aid. The United States and its British and French Allies may be approaching the brink of another cold war defeat at the hands of smart and aggressive Soviet leadership on the Yugoslav issue. Officials here are not prepared to concede a setback now but they are uneasy about the future.

It would be a political-diplomatic triumph for Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev if he could pull Yugoslavia, President Tito back into the Soviet orbit completely—or achieve virtually the same result by creating a situation in which Tito had no other place to go. The Yugoslav problem was spotlighted today by West Germany's break in diplomatic relations with the Tito regime over its recognition earlier this week of Communist East Germany.

The recognition was in line with Russia's policy of building up the Red German regime and trying to compel direct negotiations between it and the West German government.

The United States together with Britain and France in effect supported Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany by expressing the sympathetic understanding of his move.

The American action in itself was secondary but by far the most important consequence of the Yugoslav-German dispute may be its impact on Yugoslavia's relations with the United States.

The situation has reached a critical point in the view of officials here for two reasons:

First, the increasing evidence that Tito, once reviled and condemned by Moscow, was becoming constantly more friendly with the Khrushchev regime.

Second, the fact that Congress has put increasingly heavy pressure on the State Department to prove that its Tito aid policy is justifiable by showing that Tito remains friendly and dependable so far as the west is concerned.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) called today for an end to all aid for Yugoslavia, calling such aid "a travesty on sound diplomacy and a waste of the taxpayer's money."

Bridges, top Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the United States has given Tito nearly 1 1/2 billion dollars worth of military and economic aid.

More Fish Added To Lake Thomas

More fish have been added to Lake J. B. Thomas, E. V. Spence, general manager for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said Friday.

Luke Proctor, in charge of the Texas Game & Fish Commission hatchery at San Angelo, brought 8,000 black bass ranging from six to seven inches in length.

In addition, there were 10,000 bream, some of them of the long-ear type and some of the red ear variety. The final group included 8,000 channel cat.

The fish were introduced to the lake at various points.

Sparkling New Gem In Theatre Diadem

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—As a sparkling new gem in Broadway's theatrical diadem, Mary Ure is getting double attention. Miss Ure—pronounced Your—a reed-slender blonde with darkly magic eyes, has just reaped a bevy of critical bouquets in her New York debut as the female star of "Look Back in Anger." Four months ago she married the play's author, John Osborne, who has been separately hailed during the past year as the rawest, freshest new spirit to sweep across the English stage in a generation. The result is that Glasgow-born Mary gets asked twice as many questions as normal, speaking for herself as well as her husband. She is skillfully handling the off-stage assignment with a mixture of little girl smiles and dowager aplomb far beyond her 24 years. "Look Back in Anger" concerns a wildly embittered young man in revolt against the established order without having any alternative hope. Miss Ure agrees that American writers such as Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams and Clifford Odets have been working with youthful rebellion for years, and U.S. audiences are more used to troubled studies. PRICE SPIRAL: Broadway box-office prices keep rising, but there are all kinds of opinions among producers and managers concerning the reasons and effects of the spiral. The latest high mark is a $9.90 tab for the drama, "Time Remembered." The problem was recently discussed in a symposium at the Drama Desk, New York's organization of theatrical reporters. Producer Kermit Bloomgarden feels that the pressure of backstage costs is the main cause of ticket price boosts. But Roger Stevens, Broadway's busiest investor, feels "it isn't relevant to defend ticket prices in terms of cost." RIALTO BRIEFS: Like Eugene O'Neill, Sean O'Casey and Dylan Thomas, a writer getting increased playhouse attention these days is Samuel Beckett, whose "Waiting for Godot" was one of Broadway's biggest dilemmas two seasons ago. Now his "Endgame" has been scheduled for early production at the off-Broadway Rooftop Theater, and his "All That Fall" has been called back for repeat performance at the Carnegie Playhouse after being originally set for a solo showing. "Eddie Hodges, of Hattiesburg, Miss., a 10-year-old TV quiz winner on "Name That Tune" has been signed to play a pivotal juvenile role in "The Music Man," which arrives on Broadway in December.

Gay Hill Names Principal's Aide

The office of assistant principal has been created at Gay Hill School. George Archer, who has been performing these duties, was named to the position by the board Friday evening. The board voted not to finance the issuance of a yearbook this year due to increased cost of instruction and the burden of new construction. The district has been picking up the tab for the yearbook. T. D. Shelburne & Son, Snyder contractors, informed the board that the south wing of the new additions to the school could be occupied Oct. 23, although there may be some minor details to be completed then. The remainder of the project is due to be complete by Nov. 22.

COLLEGE GROUP HELPS WITH RECREATION AT BIG SPRING STATE HOSPITAL

STUDENTS HELP

Mental Patients Enjoy Recreation

Members of a women's physical education class at Howard County Junior College set out to help patients at the Big Spring State Hospital. They feel they have received an even greater "charge" out of the experience than the enthusiastic patients.

Araf Phillips, dean of women at HCJC and in charge of the women's PE activities there, said that the group had entered upon the project of recreational activities at the hospital with some uncertainty. "We weren't sure how they would respond to our program," she said, "and we weren't sure exactly what to do. At the start we found them very shy and reticent, but gradually they began to take part. When the time was up they were laughing and enjoying themselves."

She and her students left it up to the patients. They would gladly come back so long as they were needed, she said, and the round of applause and smiles they got gave the college group its answer.

Miss Phillips said that so long as weather will permit that the recreation will be held out of doors. There will be light exercises and calisthenics, but mostly simple games involving mild exercise. Later, activities will be moved to the dayroom in the north ward building. The schedule calls for visits from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursdays.

Frances Reynolds, one of those who was in the class which helped with the project, said that "I never felt so good about doing something for others in all my life."

If some thought there might be a sense of depression in working with the mentally ill, Mrs. Tommie Jo Hunt had the answer: "You can't feel depressed when patients get so much enjoyment out of what you are doing." Mary Beth Gaston said that "somehow you get the feeling what you have been doing is not so important along side of helping the patients because they are so grateful and enjoy it so much."

Marines Have New Policy On Women

Women applicants for the U. S. Marine Corps may now enlist for a two-year period and then delay their departure for activity duty up to 120 days, according to M. Sgt. Robert E. Porter, area recruiter.

Several occupations are open to women, including photography, communications, administration, electronics, radio, aviation and transportation. Basic qualifications for enlistment in the Women Marines include: be at least 18 and not more than 30 years old; a high school graduate or equivalent; unmarried with no dependents; be of excellent character and a United States citizen. Additional information may be had from Sgt. Porter at 207 Burks Bldg., Odessa.

Colder, Wetter Weather Forecast

It will be much colder and much wetter than normal in the period from Oct. 15 through Nov. 15, the U. S. Weather Bureau forecast for this part of the nation asserts.

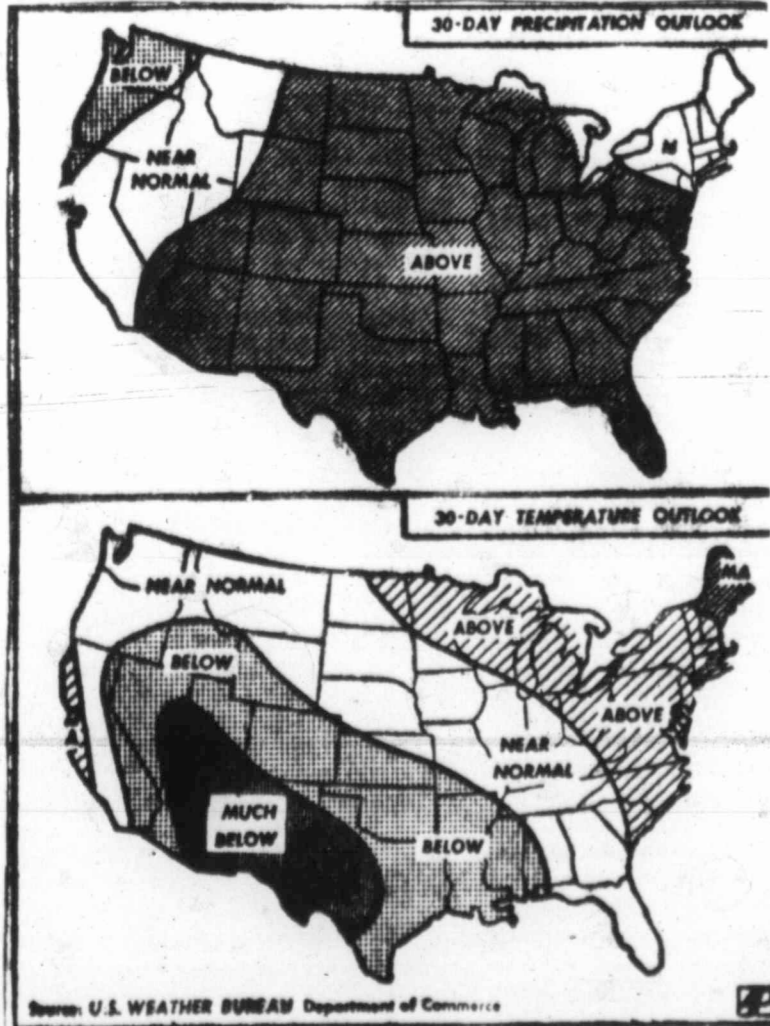

The West Texas area is part of a wide expanse of the nation rated to receive above normal precipitation in the 30-day interval. It also is a part of the one area of the United States designated by the bureau to have temperatures "much" below what is termed normal for this season of the year.

Nearly all of the middle Southwest and some of the West is to be below normal in temperature but the "much below" area covers only the Southwest segment of the nation, encompasses half of Texas and nearly all of West Texas.

Normal rainfall for October in this area is 2.02. November's average is 1.04. Up to the present time, October is lagging badly in precipitation and only a little more than a third of an inch has been gauged in Big Spring. However, in the area generally rains have been much heavier and in some adjacent counties extremely heavy.

Coldest weather ever recorded locally in the period Oct. 15-30 was 27 degrees in 1911.

"Chillest day ever recorded in Big Spring in the period Nov. 1-15 was 12 degrees. This was on Nov. 14, 1916.

Weather Outlook

These maps, based on those supplied by the United States Weather Bureau, forecast the probable rainfall and temperatures across the nation during the next 30 days.

Khrushy Claims Sputnik Causes Drive For Data

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Soviets said today their satellite success is inspiring a drive by Britain to get nuclear weapon information from the United States.

Without remarking on this particular statement broadcast by Radio Moscow, U. S. Secretary of the Army Brucker said Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev has started "a clever campaign of exploitation to get all the propaganda value out of the Russian satellite."

Brucker, in a talk at the dedication of a Revolutionary War monument at Yorktown, Va., said all right-thinking Americans support Secretary of State Dulles in warning "Khrushchev that America doesn't scare easily."

On the contrary, Brucker said, the danger is complacency after the initial effect of something like the satellite launching wears off.

The Moscow broadcast, quoting the government newspaper Izvestia, said that on his visit to Washington next week British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will use the Soviet earth satellite as justification for seeking information on nuclear weapon production.

There have been signs, during the current visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip to the United States, that further pooling of British and U. S. efforts in advanced scientific fields may be under consideration.

In an exchange of toasts at the White House Thursday, President Eisenhower said, without specific reference, "our scientists must work together." The Queen spoke of "the beginning of a new age of discovery and exploration in the world of human knowledge and technology."

Rep. Keating (R-NY), who often handles White House legislation, called for a greater integration of scientific efforts with those of NATO allies.

Yesterday Secretary of Defense McElroy took what might be one step in this direction by calling for weekly reports direct to him of progress in the missile work being carried on by the various armed services.

The cause of all the talk, Sputnik the satellite, spun so routinely around the earth today, well into its third week in orbit, that there was little technical comment from observing scientists.

Girard Aides Celebrate, Confident Of Acquittal

MAEBISHI, Japan, Oct. 19 (AP)—William Girard's defense lawyers celebrated tonight, confident the soldier will be acquitted in the death of a Japanese woman on a firing range.

The defense was cheered by what it considered confused and conflicting prosecution testimony at today's outdoor session at the shooting scene, the nearby Soma-gahara firing range.

"I think the verdict is quite clear now," said Itsuro Hayashi, Japanese criminal lawyer who is the Ottawa, Ill., soldier's chief counsel. "Girard is not guilty of the charges because he was performing official duty. As a matter of fact, the defense lawyers are celebrating tonight. The case has turned definitely in our favor."

Hayashi said he intended to put Girard on the stand Monday or Tuesday. Girard admits firing an empty shell casing that killed Mrs. Naka Sakai, a scrap collector, Jan. 30. But he says he fired in warning and the slaying was accidental.

Hayashi based much of his confidence on testimony of Sp. Victor Nickel of Inkster, Mich., who was on duty with Girard on the fatal day.

The attorney said Nickel testified "the incident occurred during a time he personally assumed to be a 10-minute break and that the break—was not an order given by an officer."

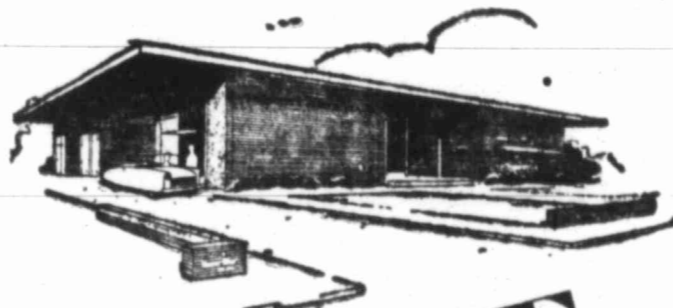

"Thus, the defense contention that Girard was on guard duty still stands, as there were no official rest period."

The defense contends Japanese courts have no jurisdiction if the shooting occurred while Girard was on duty.

HOUSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A bomb scare caused about 1,000 students at the Smiley elementary school northeast of here to leave the school building yesterday. Nothing happened.

A Bible Thought For Today

What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye have them, and ye shall have them. (Mark 11:24)

We Meet Such Interesting People

One of the most rewarding things about being home for an installation such as Webb AFB is, to borrow a cliché, that we meet such interesting people.

There was a time, perhaps, when entrenched natives regarded military personnel with somewhat the same vague suspicion they attached to a travelling carnival crew. They either didn't want to be bothered or else they secretly feared some foreign influence was bound to result from different tempo or inflections in speech.

That was long ago, however. Our mutual experiences with those in the Air Force family have repeatedly reaffirmed the knowledge that they are, by and large, the cream of the crop. Some few bad apples creep in, and some few delight in letting all around them know what a noble sacrifice they are making to sweat out tenure in such unappealing surroundings. The percentage of these is far less than the percentage of the same (or worse) types in the remainder of our population.

Thus, the important thing is that we are brought into contact with so many stimulating people. Being cultured people, they are a friendly lot. Many of them possess special skills and talents which they willingly apply. Many of our institutions such as schools and churches have acquired the services of individuals exceptionally well equipped to enrich their programs.

The presence of these citizens is having a beneficial effect in our educational and cultural levels. It is broadening our outlook and mellowing attitudes. Many of the petty bounds of provincialism are being swept back because of it.

In a very real sense we are getting our roots down all over the nation and all over the world—for many of the young men who are stationed here take the flower of our young womanhood to wife. Countless others maintain ties through the friends they have found here, and some even settle down to call this home when retirement comes.

Putting On The Old Squeeze

Syria (fighting weight 35,000 men) has been making faces at Turkey (rated strength 1,000,000) while Soviet Russia (standing army 4,000,000) eggs her on with provocative words and threats of intervention in case the Turks starting shooting at the Syrians.

At this point Mr. Dulles steps from the wings on-stage. Let no one assume, says the Secretary of State in diplomatic tones, that if Syria and Turkey tangle and the Soviet Union goes to the rescue of Syria (Syria would last about twenty minutes without outside assistance)—let no one assume that the United States would stand idly by and watch a friendly power and ally like Turkey get gobbled up.

Nor would our area of concern be confined to the immediate scene of the conflict, the secretary went on, still in diplomatic language. Implication: If Russia joined Syria in attacking Turkey, there would be no Yalu River to stop U. S. warplanes.

Both Russia and Syria have borders touching Turkey's, and this piece of cold-war squeeze is part of the Kremlin's program of keeping the pot of trouble brewing. But in case Russia gets the notion she can pull another Korea or Indochina without all-out American action, Mr. Dulles' clear warning should disabuse the Kremlin's mind on that point.

Thus having committed the U. S. to such an extent, we would have no recourse but to carry out Mr. Dulles' threat should the cold war suddenly become hot.

Russia has been practicing the art of cold war on Turkey for centuries, and it hasn't always remained cold.

Should it become hot in reality, World War III would of a certainty come. Russia, however, would want to stop short of that so long as it might prove her undoing.

We'd Better Start Talent Scouting

J. A. Livingston Re-Adjustment Now Under Way

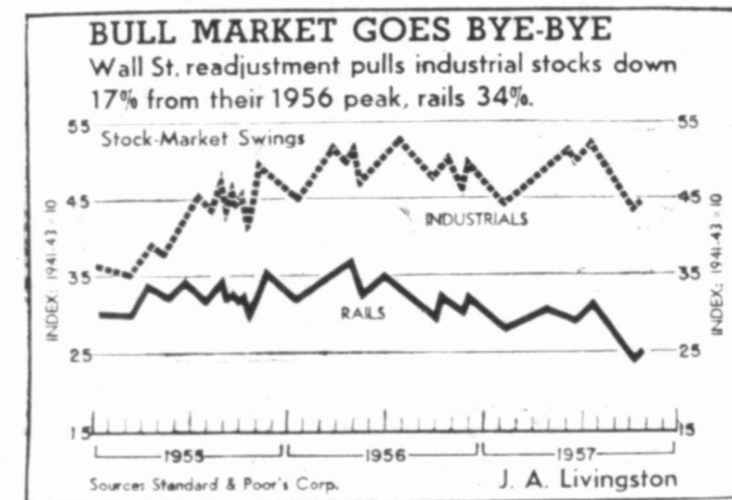

The long, 12-year postwar boom is spluttering again, even as it spluttered in 1949 and again in 1953-54. A readjustment is under way in business and in sentiment. The falling stock market in Wall Street and the Soviet Union's spunk arching in space dramatize the change.

The readjustment is many-faceted. It's government-sponsored. The Federal Reserve Board, with great courage and the support of the U. S. Treasury, has deliberately crimped the easy-go-happy notion that inflation is a perennial flower with dollar-sign petals. Alfred Hayes, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, has just emphasized that it "would be a great mistake to relax credit restraint just as we see hope of achieving the price stability we have so ardently sought." Investors now know that the Federal Reserve says what it means. Industrial stock prices are off 17 per cent from their bull market top and rails are down 34 per cent (see chart).

More than credit restraint underlies the readjustment. Industrial activity has shown no post-Labor Day omph. Through most of 1957 corporate profits have slipped, costs have risen, sales have failed to achieve budgeted gains. So manufacturers cut inventories, purchases. In reporting a drop in third quarter earnings, E. J. Hanley, president of Allegheny Ludlum Steel, noted that steel users are buying less.

The readjustment has had an assist from Russian science. The Soviet spunk has forced President Eisenhower to speed up the tempo of U. S. defense outlays. There's less likelihood of a tax cut next year. And a tax cut was what optimistic Wall Streeters were betting on to bolster stock prices. They reasoned: "If business slumps, the administration will try to stimulate consumer and corporate spending by reducing tax rates."

The spunk is a psychological setback, a blow to American pride and confidence. Underdeveloped nations, yes, even western European nations, now have tangible evidence of Soviet scientific and military potentials. And Wall St. readjustment pulls industrial stocks down 17% from their 1956 peak, rails 34%.

America's faith in its own scientific forwardness is shaken—and quite properly. This also affects Wall Street. To be sure, an increase in military outlays will have the immediate effect of increasing employment and overtime. But, if carried on and on, it would lead to price and profit controls, higher taxes, and more anti-inflation credit restraints. That's what happened during the Korean War—government controls. Thus the spunk is a long-range threat to the U. S. the world, and freedom. The military maneuvers on the Turkish-Syrian border seem more than coincidental. SH—Wall Street's Hope.

All this suggests a tough, draggy year ahead. There's no positive, foreseeable, assertable force to lever business upward. Especially with the Federal Reserve determined to make the U. S. dollar a respectable currency, a medium of exchange which Americans will want to save rather than get rid of for an inflation hedge.

Nevertheless, a sideways year would still be a good year for you and me, for most of us. In spite of all the restraints, employment is stable. Manufacturing jobs are down slightly, but nonmanufacturing employment is at peak levels. Workers are getting less overtime, but this hasn't resulted in any great jump in bad debts. Roy F. Cooke, assistant commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, observes that FHA home modernization loans are a hundred million

Around The Rim Two Fellers Doin' A Lot Of Talkin'

Dear Rufe:
Well, they had some more of that culture stuff here the other night, and it wouldn't hurt you none to have heard it.

This time, though, it wasn't music, and it wasn't no fancy dancin'. What is this, was talkin'.

Powerful lot of it, too. And three people done it all. It was a kind of a strain on the brain to get what they was talkin' about, but it seeped through that if we don't watch what we're doin', this country is going to Hades in a handbasket.

There wasn't no scenery on the stage, and so there was not much pretty to look at. They didn't even ring down the curtain between acts, so that a feller could have passed the time reading where the best dry goods and notions are to be had, and where to go to eat after the show. Pity not to take advantage of them curtain signs.

Well, on the stage, just a table and three chairs. Pitcher of water, like any speaker would have to have, and a bottle of booze showed up once, too, but nothin' serious came of this.

These three people I was tellin' you about played like they was Abraham Lincoln. At least one of 'em did. Another played like he was a guy named Douglas, and the lady in the act was Mrs. Douglas.

That it was, Abe Lincoln and Steve Douglas was runnin' for the same office. This was a long time ago, you understand, and they couldn't use no squealin' radio jingles or no toothy smiles on television, so they had to up and talk right straight to the people. They done it together, going around to the same towns at the same time, staging a debate.

There was considerable more high-flung language back in those days, it seems, than a politician is able to get together now. Moreover, they was making their own speeches, which is something else that don't hardly happen no more.

Abe Lincoln would talk awhile, pretend in the audience was his political crowd, and then Steve Douglas would get up and whole right back at him. At times, things got so hot, like political talks do, that it's a wonder somebody in the crowd didn't jump up and yell, "Pour it on him, Abe!" like we used to do when Jim Ferguson was lambasting his enemies. I nearly did, once.

These guys got pretty rough at times. Steve durn near accused Abe of voting like a traitor to his country, and they both said the other one had been around the taverns too much.

But later they sort of cooled off, and talked mostly about what kind of a jam the country was in. It was, too, with part of the people wanting slaves and the other part dead set against 'em. And all the time new states coming into the union, and nobody in agreement as to whether they should be slave or free.

Abe and Steve both had some good solid ideas, but they went at 'em different ways, and that's what brought the debate. This feller Douglas was the campaign, I hear, but Abe Lincoln probably won the war.

One thing Abe brought out to his people was, that a house divided against itself cannot stand. "This turned out to be true as a sharpshooter's rifle barrel. What we gotta watch, Rufe, is that we ain't headed for the same ornery division. Even you didn't hear the speeches, you think about this.

Marquis Childs Poor Preparation For A Grim Crisis

WASHINGTON—Just one year ago the Republicans were pledging peace with prosperity in a campaign in which the political promises, normally discounted, seemed to go beyond the point of acceptance.

The contrast with today, as administration officials openly suggest a parallel with the events that led up to the Korean War, is sharp. Until recently a front of determined optimism has been maintained and the administration has deliberately screened from the public the narrow squeaks that have brought war close.

Invidious the South to woo the Southern states with talk of handing equal rights on a state and local basis, President Eisenhower continued to give assurances of peace on the day that the Israeli-British-French war on Egypt broke out. He held an audience at Richmond, Va., that three and a half years ago we ended the Korean War and since then "our people have not known the tragedy of daily casualty lists."

He did add that, looking to the future, "the risks of new Koreans are sure to be there." But what neither he nor anyone else in the administration has ever disclosed is that less than three weeks later a full war alert was secretly ordered.

This meant, it has been learned, that bombers of the Strategic Air Command took to the air fully loaded with nuclear weapons. At one further signal they could have been speeding toward Soviet targets with their burden of unprecedented destructiveness.

That happened when Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin sent notes to France and Britain, threatening that if the attack on Egypt did not cease, rockets would begin to rain down on Paris and London. Publicly, the West at that time discounted the rocket threat, claiming that the moral persuasion of the United Nations action had succeeded in stopping the Egyptian invasion.

Actually, the Bulganin note produced something like panic in the Western capitals. The rocket threat may not at that time have been taken with complete seriousness, although since then the existence of launching sites in Western Russia capable of sending missiles with a range sufficient to hit all points in Europe has been verified. It was undeniably a factor, however, and perhaps a major factor, in ending the Suez conflict.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles spoke this week of public complacency and the fortunate effect of the spunk in jarring that complacency. In assessing the reasons for whatever complacency may exist, the campaign promises of peace and prosperity, together with a policy of keeping up a facade of determined optimism, must be taken into account.

Similar assurances were given in the months that followed. The public was told that the American position in the Middle East had been strengthened because the United States sided with the Arab states in the U. N. in rebuking France and Britain. Still later the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East was heralded as a move to consolidate the American position in that region.

Republican campaign strategists directing the well-financed advertising campaign in newspapers and on television pushed the peace pledge even harder than responsible officials at the top. In three campaigns—'52, '54 and '56—the casualty lists in World War I, World War II and the Korean War were added up and put in the Democratic column with the Republican claim that the Democrats always bring war.

If this did not produce complacency with the comfortable conviction that so long as Mr. Eisenhower was in the White House all would be well, it produced something very like it. And that is poor preparation for the grim crisis now confronting the administration.

Norman Vincent Peale The Proper Place To Put Your Trust

Some time ago, I was flying in a Navy plane with an officer who, I am told, is considered one of the best pilots in that service.

We were scheduled to land at Floyd Bennett Field, just outside New York. But, several hundred miles out, my pilot friend told me that the ceiling at Floyd Bennett was only two hundred feet. Nevertheless, as we approached the New York area, I felt the plane begin to lose altitude. "You're not letting down here?" I asked in some surprise.

"Oh, yes," he answered, nonchalantly. We hadn't broken through the clouds yet and I could see nothing below. "Where are we?" I asked.

"Over Long Beach, going into Floyd Bennett," he said. And just then I saw below us a long stretch of sandy beach. I don't believe we were more than a hundred feet above it. Then we were over water, then a sandy beach again and, finally, a runway. The lights were on at its sides, although this was the middle of the day.

We made a smooth landing and I complimented the pilot. "That was a marvelous landing; it required real skill."

"Not altogether," he replied. "It wasn't all skill. It required faith, too; faith in my instruments. I couldn't have made that landing by my own skill alone. When I'm sitting there in the cockpit under conditions like this, I don't say to myself, 'These instruments could be wrong; they might be off a bit.' I say, 'These instruments are right and will bring me down to a safe land.' I put my trust completely in them, not in myself. To doubt those instruments could be fatal; to have faith in them means security."

This application is simple, isn't it? We are flying through life, and often we are in fog, mist and storm. Visibility is low. But we have instruments, too—reliable spiritual instruments. We can't trust ourselves too far—there is too much error in the human mind, far too much: prejudice, hate, ignorance and strange twists and turnings we cannot explain. It is these things that lead us off the beam.

Fortunately, on our personal instrument panel, we can have God, faith, prayer and love. And if we keep our attention fixed on them and trust in them, we can make our way with remarkable accuracy through all the vicissitudes of life.

A person who trusts in these wonderful spiritual instruments which we all have available will achieve the best results in life. He will act with a wisdom and insight far beyond his native capacity. He is being guided by a greater power.

I would like to plant just one thought in your mind. If things haven't gone too well for you, perhaps it's because you've trusted too much to your own supposed skills. Maybe you have been trying to reach your important decisions without the guidance that is based on truth. Perhaps you have been looking fearfully into the fog and the gloom, into the uncertainties and the shadows, rather than straight ahead at your true instruments.

To get on the right course through life and come in for a safe and happy landing, keep your eyes on God. Trust in Him, look ahead and plan in His name, and you cannot go wrong.

Bible Words for Today

2 CORINTHIANS 2:14, 15 — Thanks be to God, who in Christ always leads us in triumph, and through us spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of him everywhere. For we are the aroma of Christ to God... (RSV)

Paul's letter reveals a depressed apostle attempting to guide a wobbly church to maturity. Word from Titus cheers him, however, and he burst forth in thanksgiving, as recorded above.

Overflowing with gratitude and assurance, Paul simply declares that Christians have a spiritual odor, a pleasant aroma. This fragrance is pleasing to God, much more so than our earthly odors of freshly-baked bread or rain-cleaned air to us.

All who work lovingly in the church of Christ are fragrant spirits. We are the aroma of Christ, our surrendered lives revealing God, our radiance speaking of the ultimate victory of good, and our serenity preaching the gospel of peace. The surrendered life is not easy, but it is the crushed rose that gives off the finest perfume, and the broken alabaster box that permits Mary to anoint the feet of Jesus.

David Lawrence Events Have Done In GOP Hopes

WASHINGTON—A political earthquake has struck America. Its repercussions will be felt in the 1958 congressional elections and in the 1960 presidential election. For the United States has gone the way of so many democracies. Instead of two major parties, it now has four political blocs and the beginning of some splinter parties.

Out of the wreckage, a Democratic presidential nominee—possibly even Adlai Stevenson—has the best chance to put humpty-dumpty together again and win an electoral majority.

For Stevenson, 57 years old, is the most experienced, the best informed and the most widely known of the Democrats. If he could disentangle himself from some of the academic advisers who have misled him, and revert to the "moderation" doctrine with which his training as a corporation lawyer has imbued him, he might yet come out on top. The same reasons that caused the Democrats to nominate Bryan for a third time are present today—Stevenson is the best vote-getter the Democrats ever had. He polled more total votes than FDR and did it even against a popular personality—General Eisenhower.

The chances of the Republicans to win any elections perhaps for many years to come—if indeed the party itself survives—have been gravely impaired in the last several months by mistakes that are tragic because they could so easily have been avoided.

The Republican party is split badly. It lost materially when it failed to satisfy the economy-minded in the party, when it succumbed to those anti-conservative influences known as "modern Republicans." And when it sent federal troops into Arkansas. There is a big enough defection now to cause a substantial percentage of Republican voters to stay away from the polls altogether, as happened in Wisconsin recently.

A big loss to the Republicans—or rather, a big addition to the stay-at-home vote—has resulted from the Little Rock affair. The Republican high command here concedes that the Republican party president; Mrs. Mentora Carter, recording secretary; Bob Smith, board member; Roy Rogan, board member; and J. A. Selkirk, treasurer. Dan Conley, president, was elected in absentia and was not present for the picture.

Off To A Flying Start

DIRECTORS MEET TODAY

Civic Music Assn. Officers Elected

The Big Spring Civic Music Assn. became a reality last week with the election of officers, and the fledgling organization will try its wings with a meeting of the board of directors this afternoon. Meeting in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening, a group of interested citizens heard the purposes of the music association explained by Bob Smith, Herald amusements editor and chairman of the Community Band. The Community Band, one of the sponsoring organizations, was incorporated into the CMA. Other sponsoring groups were the local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, and the Music Study

Club. In addition, there were representatives from various civic organizations. Smith explained the purpose of the CMA is to foster music culture in the community. He emphasized the music will not be restricted to the symphonic or classical types, but will cover fields not already covered in commercial exploitation. The association will form several musical groups out of its general membership, including an orchestra, choir, band and various ensembles. The community stands to benefit in many ways, including entertainment for meetings of civic organizations, entertainment for state and VA hospital patients, programs at Christmas, the Fourth of July and other holidays, in addition to the regular schedule of concert events. Dan Conley, public schools employee who is also a former band director, was given the post of president by an overwhelming majority. Conley, being out of town Tuesday, was elected in absentia, and will make his decision on acceptance at the board meeting today. Named vice president was George Larson of the Cosden Corp., J. A. Selkirk, also of Cosden, was elected treasurer, and Mrs. Mentora Carter, Cosden employee, was given the post of recording secretary. Directors named were Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, president of the Music

Study Club; Mrs. Nell Frazier, of the B&PW; Mrs. James Hill, State Hospital employee; Roy Rogan, city employee; and Bob Smith. The board meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Frazier, will have many problems on the agenda. These include methods of financing the organization, discussion of a program schedule, organization of the music groups, the membership drive and drawing up of the charter. Also to be discussed will be a program for the next membership meeting of the CMA.

Lile Lewter Shows Champion Junior Steer At State Fair

Howard County and West Texas in general shared generously in the winnings at the Dallas State Fair Junior Livestock Show, a check of the winners reveals. A former Big Spring boy, Lile Lewter, showed the grand champion steer. His animal also was rated Champion Hereford Steer of the show. Lewter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Lewter. The father was Howard County agent for many years and in his tenure won national renown for the remarkable parade of 4-H Club champion feeders his young proteges entered in livestock shows across the country. Stock owned by Howard County 4-H Club members won virtually every major Southwest show. Lewter was—and is—regarded as the outstanding man in this field of 4-H Club work. Lile, who is just 12 years old, has been a member of the 4-H clubs for four years. A Plainview FFA member, Truman Reese, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odie Reese, showed the reserve grand champion steer. He has been in FFA work for four years. Rodney Brooks, Big Spring, showed the second place Hereford in Class 7—steers weighing under 850 pounds. Joyce Robinson, Big Spring, was third in the Class 6 Hereford division. Joyce also won $80 for third place junior steer showmanship. Lewter picked up $60 additional reward in this division as fifth place showman. Bobby Sale, Stanton, was first in junior showmanship and won $100. Other West Texas boys and girls who won in the steer division of the big show included Bobby Sale, Stanton, second in Class 5 and Marilyn Sale, Stanton, third in the same division. Four Big Spring entries placed in the junior lamb show. Larry Adkins, placed 20th and Bobby Adkins, 18th and 35th in the Class 1 Fat Lamb division. Tommy Buckner was 16th in the Class 2 Fat Lamb competition. Charles Engle was third in Class 4 Fat Lambs, and Buckner was 69th in Class 5. Doyle Warren, Coahoma, was 6th, in Class 4. Other boys and girls from this area who placed in the lamb division: Class 1: Patsy O'Neal, Midland, 7th; Eugene Williams, Mullin, 17th; Bobby Stewart, Gail, 30th; Jimmy Hale, O'Donnell, 31st; Ben Mott, Stanton, 39th; Billy Edwards, O'Donnell, 40th; Wayne Derstine, Lamesa, 42nd; Ben Mott, Stanton, 50th; Donald Vozler, Lamesa, 74th; Charles Vozler, Lamesa, 75th; Class 4: Lammie Brewer, O'Donnell, 11th;

Farmers around Coahoma must stretch their memory back several years to recall a cotton crop like this one. Some of the sub-irrigated land in the low areas east of town may make a bale to the acre. One such field which is as good as most irrigated cotton belongs to Charles Reed.

Cotton is opening right along, despite the damp weather. Mrs. A. D. Shive, whose husband manages a gin, says they ginned 39 bales Friday for the best day of the season.

Northwest of Coahoma the cotton and feed stalks are heavy and well-filled. This is one of the very best crop areas in the county.

Johnnie Walker is expecting to make three-quarters of a bale on 10 acres of cotton and the feed is even better in proportion.

North of Walker's place toward Lusher the crops are more stunted as the soil changes from sand to tightland. But even here the yield is much better than in several years.

Clyde Angel, chairman of the Big Spring school board, will participate in the program of the Texas Association of School Boards and Texas Association of School Administrators in Austin Monday.

Jack Z. Anderson, administrative assistant to the President, will be the main speaker at a banquet to be held at 7:30 p.m. the first day of the meeting.

There is no admittance charge, and irrigation farmers in particular are urged to attend.

Cattle prices for the next year are likely to be steadier than they were the last 12 months, thinks Mickie Casey, co-owner of a local packing plant.

SKETCH OF PROPOSED STUDENT UNION BUILDING
Architects now working on plans for $300,000 structure

Senate Probers Report On Illegal Blocking Of Unions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Senate rackets probers reported evidence today that "some of the largest companies" used illegal means to block labor unions out of their plants.

The investigators also said there was evidence of deals to get "sweetheart" contracts with friendly unions. Such contracts give workers few if any benefits.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) announced his special Senate Investigating Committee will explore allegations against more than a dozen companies in 11 states. He said the public hearings will start Tuesday and run for two weeks.

Suspect employers will be the main targets of the inquiry, he said, but added that it also would "center on the far-flung operations of Nathan W. Shefferman," who represented the companies as their consultant on labor relations problems.

Shefferman heads Labor Relations Associates Inc. of Chicago and has been under the committee's fire before for his acknowledged financial dealings with Teamsters Union President Dave Beck. He and Beck are under federal indictment now on income tax evasion charges.

"The committee expects to explore the efforts by some of the largest companies and concerns in the country to avoid unionization by improper or illegal means or to make a sweetheart contract with a friendly union by employing the services of Mr. Nathan Shefferman's concern," McClellan said in a statement.

He named none of the firms involved in the inquiry, but the committee's counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, confirmed that one is the Morton Frozen Foods Plant at Webster City, Iowa.

Kennedy said companies in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, California, Oklahoma, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts and their officials will be investigated in the hearings. He said some witnesses from Texas also are among more than 50 subpoenaed to testify.

McClellan's statement said "many" officials of the companies involved "have been less than cooperative or fully responsive with their answers" when staff investigators quizzed them. Kennedy said some of them have sent word they will invoke the Fifth Amendment and refuse to answer some questions as witnesses, lest answers tend to incriminate them.

Kennedy said that charges under scrutiny are that employers "were the major offenders," in seeking out means to fulfill anti-labor union aims prohibited by federal law.

Student Union Building To Be HCJC Extra-Curricular Center

Drafting of specific plans for the new student union building at Howard County Junior College is well under way, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, said Saturday.

The unit, which will be constructed under a grant of $300,000 to come from the Dora Roberts Foundation, will contain approximately 20,000 square feet under roof, plus a functional patio.

Design of the building is entirely in keeping with its intended use—that of a place for extra-curricular student activity. It contains spacious quarters for kitchen, dining room and snack bar; student council and publication offices; bookstore; lounges and recreational area.

Floor plan which has shaped up in conjunction with Puckett & French, architects and engineers, revolves around a basic hollow square. Glassed walls have been employed generously to add to the brightness and attractiveness of the structure. Interior planters also are arranged as functional breaks as well as for decorative purposes. The surfaces surrounding the patio will be glassed to take full advantage of the light.

One wing of the building will contain kitchen and cafeteria service area, which leads off the corridor and patio area so as to avoid congestion. This, of course, adjoins the dining area sufficient for at least 40 tables. Adjacent to this is the snack bar with its grill facilities along with an arrangement for seven booths and three tables. This may be joined to the dining area, by opening accordion doors, for large banquet gatherings.

The wing extending off the snack bar side contains a big recreational area and a manager's office, which, because of the glassed areas, commands a view of much of the plant.

Between this wing and the other wing are the lobby, the patio, and the lounges.

The remaining wing, which adjoins the kitchen, contains a dining room for small groups. It also has a conference room for the student council, plus separate rooms for the Jayhawker yearbook and El Nido (newspaper) staffs. The remaining space is devoted to the bookstore, with an adjoining office for the bookstore manager.

Dimensions of the plant are roughly 144x130 feet, with space taken out for the patio. This puts 17,500 feet under roof, plus another 1,200 in the porch area. The patio would exceed 2,000 square feet.

Dr. Hunt said the architect and engineers were pressing work on the plans in order that they might be ready for final action as soon as possible.

UNITED FUND

Three-Day Drive Planned In C-City

COLORADO CITY, Oct. 19—Mitchell County's annual United Fund drive is planned to consume a whirlwind three days instead of the customary six weeks, according to George Womack, publicity chairman. Solicitations will begin Monday and will end at midnight on Wednesday.

The drive's "New Look" will eliminate much of the red tape formerly associated with UF drives as well as a former source of complaint. Some criticism, in the past, has been leveled at the Fund's use of a professional fund raiser. This year the local Chamber of Commerce has assumed overall direction of the effort and will receive a fee for the service.

Supporters of the plan point out that all of the money collected will remain in Mitchell County. Volunteer workers will do the solicitation work as usual.

The goal for the drive is $25,454, with benefits going to the American Heart Society, the Red Cross, Boy and Girl Scouts, USO, 4H and FFA Clubs, the Salvation Army, the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation and the Texas Society for Mental Health.

United Fund president is Dr. Bill Rhode, campaign chairman is Charles Root, and coordinators are Advance Gifts, Dr. Oscar Rhode; Special, R. K. Snetten; General, B. J. Williams; Employees, Trevor Crawford; Lorraine, Mrs. Bruce Johnson; Westbrook, Gwan Strang; and rural, Mrs. Mary Womack.

Mitchell County made its initial UF solicitation in 1954.

KERMIT JACKETS TURN BACK BIG SPRING STEERS, 13-6

Kermit's Yellow Jackets "played it close to the vest" here Saturday night, cutting their mistakes to a minimum and catching Big Spring out of position too many times in rolling to a 13-6 non-conference victory.

The Steers, who have come a long way back from the flu epidemic which had incapacitated 18 of their numbers as late as last Tuesday, matched touchdowns with the visitors in the second period but the Jackets took the second half kickoff and marched 63 paces for the clinching TD.

Gene Williams sliced over from Big Spring's one for the first score of the game with 2:55 gone in the second period. The score came at the end of a 59-yard drive, which was highlighted by a 26-yard pass from Jack Probst to Williams carried to the Steer one.

Charlie Thompson's try for point was blocked. Six and a half minutes later, Big Spring maneuvered for its only tally, Jimmy Evans powering over from four yards away on a fourth down try. The drive was set in motion when Bill French intercepted a Jacket aerial and returned five yards to Kermit's 49.

Shortly before the quarter ran out, Big Spring tunneled its way to the Kermit 14 only to yield the ball on downs. The Steers never did get as close again. Kermit fired up and powered its way down to Big Spring's nine early in the fourth but Jan Loudermilk intercepted a Probst pass and ran it out to the 13.

Big Spring brought to the Kermit 47 but the Jackets dug in to hold.

and force Billy Bob Satterwhite to kick. Big Spring drove to Kermit's 39 the first time it got its hands on the ball but surrendered the pigskin on downs at that point. The longest scamper of the evening was turned in by Wayne Fields in the third quarter when he scooted 40 yards to the Jacket 35. That was the time Big Spring scrapped down to the Kermit 14 before the ball reverted to the visitors.

Fields was Big Spring's top ball carrier, with 91 yards in 16 carries. Loudermilk picked up 54 in 14 lungees for the Steers. Thompson had 88 in 14 attempts for Kermit. Gene Williams carved out 58 in 14 tries.

George Peacock played an outstanding defensive game for Big Spring, as did Danny Birdwell. Chubby Moser and Bobby Adams. Bud Bridges also made his presence felt in the Steer forward wall. Lanny Hamby did an able job in the Steer defensive secondary.

The defeat left Big Spring's record at 2-4 for the year. Kermit has won three out of four.

Owls Edge Ponies By 27-21 Margin

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Charley Jackson ran a pass interception back 102 yards for a spectacular touchdown tonight but it couldn't offset an explosive offense along the ground and in the air and Rice won a 27-21 Southwest Conference victory over Southern Methodist.

The Rice two-pronged offense, triggered by Big King Hill, also produced some sensational plays, particularly a 55-yard pass - run from Hill to Rice's great end, Buddy Dial, and a 40-yard gainer by the same combination. But Jackson's great dash was the big thrill for the 36,000 who turned out to see the two teams open the conference play.

Dueitt, the Corpus Christi, Tex., sophomore who wound up as the game's leading ground-gainer with 63 yards, scored the first Rice touchdown early in the opening period, running 15 yards. Billy Dunn, the SMU quarterback, broke through to block Hill's try for point and that set up the chance for the Methodists to take the lead.

BOVINES LASH PORKERS, 17-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, led by Bobby Lackey and George Blanch, turned three Arkansas mistakes into scores today and applied terrific defensive pressure to smother the Porkers' speedy ground attack 17-0.

The upset dealt a severe blow to previously undefeated Arkansas' Southwest Conference title hopes and put the Longhorns up among the league's top contenders.

plunge over right tackle after he had intercepted a pass on the Arkansas 24. Dowdle bulled his way for 15 yards to provide the punch in the short drive.

After Lackey forced a fumble—and then grabbed it on the Texas 33—at the end of a 25-yard pass from George Walker to end Richard Bell, Texas fullback Mike Dowdle demoralized the Porkers with a 33-yard gallop and Texas scored three plays later on a 27-yard pass from halfback Max Alvis to Blanch.

Another factor in Texas' successful Southwest Conference debut was the punting of Lackey and Walter Fondren. Lackey's punting average was 42 yards on three punts.

Dial, with his two catches for 95 yards, matched his average per game in receiving for the season. He has caught 13 passes for 381 yards—a 29.3 average—and has scored three touchdowns.

Christians Fumble Away Chances To Tip Aggies

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Roddy Osborne passed 10 yards for a touchdown in the first five minutes, then Texas A&M stopped fumbling Texas Christian time after time the rest of the way for a 7-0 victory.

The Aggies cashed in on a TCU fumble for their score which came on the fifth pass Osborne had thrown all season—he has gotten three touchdowns out of the five—then the Horned Frogs, with towering Buddy Dike in the lead, zipped and roared up and down the field for three periods, reaching the Aggie 6-yard line twice and 5-yard line once.

John Crow, the great Aggie halfback, was pretty well bottled up by the powerful TCU line that gave the A&M wall a strong licking until the closing minutes. But it was Crow who saved the day for A&M. He stole the ball from Finney, the TCU quarterback as Finney was headed for a touchdown and fell with the pigskin on the Aggie six to end the last Frog threat.

A crowd of 46,000—the largest ever to see a football game in TCU stadium—and in all West Texas—watched the battering rib-rattling game that saw the Frogs dominate most everything except the score. But six fumbles, on which they lost the ball three

Bears Escape From Red Raiders, 15-12

LUBBOCK, Tex., Oct. 19 (AP)—Baylor's ponderous Bears had to dip deep into their reserves to stand off underdog Texas Tech and grind out a 15-12 non-conference football victory tonight.

A 20-yard field goal by junior halfback Arthur Beall as the first half ended proved the winning margin.

Swift Ronnie Rice, who scampers 71 yards for one of his two touchdowns, almost paced Tech's Red Raiders to an upset before a Dad's Day crowd of 23,000.

The issue wasn't decided until Bill Anderson, Baylor's No. 2 right end, gathered in Louis Humphrey's five-yard toss on the goal line for the last score early in the fourth period. Baylor entered the game minus eight regulars, who were left at home with injuries, and may have suffered further manpower losses sorely needed for the Bears' big game next weekend with Texas A&M, defending Southwest Conference champion.

Bobby Peters, No. 2 Baylor right halfback, was carried off the field unconscious as the first quarter ended. He was taken to a hospital.

Statistically, the game was as nearly even as the score. Baylor ground out 232 yards rushing against 238 for Tech, but the Red Raiders had an edge of 64 to 44 yards passing.

John Paul made the first of three extra points for the winners. Amos passed to Tim Smith for a College Heights' second tally in the third and went across on a quarterback sneak in the fourth.

Highly Rated Spartans Are Upset By Purdue, 20 To 13

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 19 (AP)—Injured, ailing and underrated Purdue pulled a stunning football upset today by knocking off Michigan State, the top rated collegiate team in the nation, by a convincing 20-13 score.

The MSU Spartans were a 21-point favorite going into the game and were expected to run all over the bruised Boilermakers who had the added handicap of having some key men missing because of the flu bug.

But 18-year-old Ross Fichter, a green-as-grass sophomore quarterback, had different ideas and directed his Purdue crew to the upset with all the poise of a pro veteran.

The only thing in recent football history that could compare with this shocker was the time that Purdue did the exact thing here a few years ago.

COAHOMA 'DOGS WIN IN 6-A DEBUT, 13-0

By DON HENRY
COAHOMA, Oct. 19 (SC) — Off to a fast start in 6-A competition, Coahomans turned their eyes to the game with Roby next week.
That fast start came when Coach Dub Behrens' bulldogs shocked the Roscoe Plowboys here Friday night 13-0. Coahoma is now in a first-place tie with Roby in 6-A play with 1-0 records. Roby whipped Stanton, while the other league members, Merkel and Rotan, tied.
Coahoma rocked former Big Spring Cliff Patton's Plowboys back on their heels on the opening kickoff. The Bulldogs kicked off and Max Kenemer recovered a Roscoe fumble on the Roscoe 6. Two plays later, the score was 6-0.
Don White gained two yards, and then Harold Harrington bulled over from the 4 to open scoring. The Bulldogs had things their way the remainder of the time.

BY RAPPING PITT Army Makes Bid For East Title

WEST POINT, N.Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Army shook Pete Dawkins loose twice in the final quarter today and scored a smashing 29-13 victory over Pitt's Panthers in a game that had been expected to settle the unofficial Eastern football championship.
It was a stirring, surprising finish to what had started out as a grind-it-out struggle with Pitt dominating the first half.
Army scored once in the third quarter, strictly on slashes through the line, to take a 13-6 lead. Then Dawkins, a junior from Royal Oak, Mich., who started out as a 32-yard scoring pass from Dave Bourland and to set up a field goal by Maurice Hillard with a 54-yard run.
Those two plays broke up the ball game, but before it was over, Pitt scored again on a long pass from Ivan Tonic to Dick Haley and gave away another to Army.
The 29 points scored by Army today was the biggest total ever made against a Pitt team in the three years Johnny Michelosen has coached the Panthers, who passed the 26 points made by Oklahoma in handing Pitt its first defeat this season.
Each team scored once in the first half. Army got a quick one after an early break on a punt

Bobcats Routed By 38-13 Tab

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 19 (SC) — Gaining their scores the hard way, by powering through the line for short gains, the Thomas Jefferson Mustangs of San Antonio stamped over San Angelo here Friday night, 38-13.
Charging to 23 first downs, the Mustangs gained 332 yards rushing and completed one of four passes for 20 yards. San Angelo, with 11 first downs, could pick up only 92 yards rushing. They completed four of 13 passes for 46 yards.
The Bobcats of San Angelo held on for three quarters, with a 7-7 first quarter tie and trailing only 14-13 at half. Mustang back Ed Niemyer scored for Jefferson to help them to a 7-0 lead. Bobby Lowry tied it up for the Bobcats.
Charlie Morton, after recovery of a Bobcat fumble, rambled for 22-yard touchdown. Angelo's John Barnes scored but Mack McCoulskey's kick was blocked. Halftime score was 14-13.
Jeff proceeded to pound at the Bobcat goal. Stuart McBurnie and Charlie Morton each tallied twice to put the Mustangs out of reach. An inside kick recovered at the Bobcat 43 set up the final TD.

Villanova Kayoed

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 19 (AP) — Boston College marched 67 yards on the hard driving of halfback Alan Miller today to score a 12-9 football battle at rain-soaked Alumni field.
At halftime Ackerly led, 25-14, and continued to put on the pressure. Buck McNew scored once and Thomas Day twice to keep Knott side by side with Ackerly.
Ackerly maintained its offensive drive for a 53-42 finale. Phil Wallace scored the aforementioned 32 points, James Savell had 12, and Jim Bristow countered for a TD for the Ackerly crew.
For Knott, McNew tallied three times, Day twice, and Day-to-McNew passed accounted for a last score.

Only players lost to the Knott club were Joyce Rainsback, Joan Blagaves and Ann Williams, all of whom were guards.
The Billies open play here Nov. 24 against Ackerly. Bill Bolin is coach of the Billies.

Phil Wallace Is Standout In Eagle Win Over Knott

ACKERLY, Oct. 19 (SC) — Ackerly and Knott went all out offensively before Ackerly finally prevailed as victor in a 53-42 six-man decision here Friday night.
Lead by Phil Wallace's 32-point barrage, the Ackerly 11 finally repelled a passing invasion by Knott which netted 210 yards. Knott completed 7 of 14 passes.
Ackerly, however, relied upon an overpowering 412 yards rushing to carry them to victory. Both sextets had nine first downs. Ackerly was penalized 70 yards, Knott was assessed 30.

Maryland Wins Before Queen

By TED SMITS
COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 19 (AP) — Maryland upset North Carolina 21-7 today, giving Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain a much more thrilling show of American football than had been expected.
North Carolina was favored by two touchdowns but an 81-yard touchdown run by Ted Kershner broke a 7-7 tie in the last quarter and then Maryland added a third touchdown on a 67-yard march down the field.
The capacity crowd of 43,000 went wild in the last half to provide a background of enthusiasm that appeared to delight the Queen and Prince Philip.
North Carolina scored in the first period and seemed well on its way to a decisive victory. The touchdown came after the Tar Heels recovered a Maryland fumble on the North Carolina 35. Short plunges carried to the 11 from where Daley Goff swept his left end to tally.
Gene Verardi, a sophomore, sparked Maryland's comeback during the third period when North Carolina took a gamble that failed. With three yards to go for first down, the Tar Heels tried to run from fake punt formation and lost the ball to Maryland on downs on the North Carolina 39. Verardi's 16-yard sweep was the longest gain in the steady march climaxed when Bob Rusevlyan sneaked over from inches away.
This made the score 7-7 and set the stage for Kershner's great run. Taking a handoff on his own 19 he charged through the center of the North Carolina line, veered to his right, and went all the way with Goff in hot, but futile pursuit.
Mac Robinson converted after a Roscoe penalty had given him a second chance. This ended the scoring but not the ball game.
The Plowboys stuck to a spread formation in the second half with all-purpose Larry McBurnett directing the attack. McBurnett called a pass on every play except one during the last half—discounting two punts—but was unsuccessful on moving any great distance.
Two running plays showed up on the books during the last half, but on one, McBurnett had to hold onto the ball and was smothered for an eight-yard loss after failing to find a receiver.
Coahoma struck to the Roscoe 15 in the third quarter but fumbled away the drive when Plowboy Jerry Richburg recovered the ball. Again in the final stanza, the Bulldogs moved from their own 32 to the Roscoe 15 before losing the ball on downs. A 15-yard penalty from the 18 actually stymied the drive, because Coahoma was able to only make up all but seven of the needed yards.
The complete dominance by Coahoma is shown in the statistics. The Dogs racked up 13 first downs to five for Roscoe. The Plowboys were able to grab only 10 yards on the ground but struck through the air for another 110.
Coahoma meanwhile moved 244 yards on the ground, with Harrington and White getting the large chunks, but could muster only 13 through aerials.
The Roscoe center found Bulldog Bobby Null looking down his throat on every play, and as a result, several snapbacks to McBurnett missed their mark. The entire center of the Coahoma rushed the Plowboy backs continually which probably caused Patton to go to the air exclusively the last half.
That same Coahoma line opened large holes enabling the backs to hit the secondary on numerous plays before facing any defenders. Only twice during the evening did Coahoma lose yardage on plays. Harrington was bothered all evening however by running into his teammates when in the secondary, several snapbacks to McBurnett missed their mark.
Next Friday, Coahoma holds Homecoming activities here for its eyes and faces the Roby Lions in a district contest. That winner will emerge as undisputed leader of the league since each has won its only conference game this season.

Van Pelt Paces Michigan To Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 19 (AP) — Quarterback Jim Van Pelt got out of a sick bed today and led Michigan to a 34-14 Big Ten football triumph over a courageous, upset-minded Northwestern eleven before 70,884 homecoming fans.
The slick senior signal caller, one of 25 Michigan players stricken with flu during the week, teamed up with third string fullback Jim Byers and pulled the Wolverines together for a pair of fourth period touchdowns that broke a 14-14 deadlock. Michigan's reserves scored again with less than a minute remaining.

Roby Lions Upset Stanton Buffaloes In 6-A Contest

ROBY, Oct. 19 (SC) — The Roby Lions upset the Stanton Buffaloes, 19-13, in a District 6-A football game here Friday night.
The Lions went out in front early and Bowden Cook's Bisons could never catch up.
Doug Pyburn scored Roby's first touchdown on a two-yard line buck, then added the extra punt on a run. A long pass to Billy Moore set up the score.
The Lions scored again in the first period allowing a 29-yard pass from Billy Simmons to George Kiker that moved the ball to the Stanton three. Jerry Hale carried it over.
The two teams matched touchdowns in the second round. Simmons hit Billy Mac Moore with a 25-yard pass play for Roby's third touchdown while Delton Chesser scored from two yards out for Stanton. The drive covered 30 yards. Eddie Avery added the PAT.
In the third period, Wayne Thompson lunged over for Stanton on the one-yard line.
Rotan made 13 first downs to 10 for Stanton, picked up 188 yards rushing to 99 for Stanton and 79 passing to 12 for the Buffs.
Stanton completed only one of four passes to three of eight for

Abilene Seeks All-Time Record In Steer Game

By The Associated Press
Abilene goes after an all-time record 44 consecutive victories and Temple battles Austin in the headliners of Texas schoolboy football this week.
The "honor" of helping Abilene to the record goes to Big Spring, which opens the conference race in District 4-AAA against the defending state champions.
Abilene ran its string to 43, tying the record set in the Thirties by Hull-Daisetta, with a 27-7 victory over Waco last week.
The big battle of the upper echelons, however, matches Austin and Temple in District 13-AAAA. They are undefeated, untied teams opening the conference race.
Temple was impressive last week with a 34-0 smashing of Class AAA Killeen. Austin was whipping San Antonio Harlandale, 33-0.

OVER TV MIFF Michigan Football Fans Up In Arms

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — The Yankees should have seen the handwriting on the scoreboard. There were still two World Series games to be played when the American League state of Michigan-bowed to Milwaukee and announced the official arrival of the 1957 football season.
Every man, woman and child, Spartans and Wolverines alike, including Gov. G. Mennen Williams, protested in the announcement — a show that something was rotten elsewhere.
"How can we be hounded," the Michigan-Michigan State game will not be carried on regional television?
That was the game last week in which Michigan State smashed then sixth-ranked Michigan 35-6, thereby moving atop the national rankings. The same day the Midwest regional TV audience saw Ohio State beat Illinois 21-7 in a much closer, but less important (at least from a Michigan viewpoint) Big Ten football game.
The NBC network holds exclusive rights to national football TV via a contract with the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA). Also, under a separate contract with the Western Conference, NBC handles televising of Big Ten games. Under these arrangements the network, the conference consenting, has control of six Big Ten football dates. The NCAA regulations permit a school to make only two TV appearances, only one of which can be national.
Therefore, even before the season started, NBC was faced with the problem of choosing six first-class games within the framework of the NCAA limitations. That the network further compounded the problem by choosing Michigan State and Northwestern for early-season national appearances must also be noted.
That was the situation before the Michigananders protested and were rebuffed by both NBC and the NCAA. And that's the situation today as millions await the word this week on what games will be televised next Saturday, the second of four on which the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, the Big Ten, the Pacific Coast, the Big Eight and the At-

Gophers Upset By Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 19 (AP) — The slithering running of halfback Bob Mitchell, hospitalized earlier in the week with a temperature, touched off an Illinois homecoming explosion today that blew apart Minnesota, the nation's fourth-ranked team 34-13.
While 69,619 fans cheered the two-touchdown underdog Illini and millions of others watched on the national TV hookup, Coach Ray Eblot's upset-minded team, deluged the Gophers, 21-0, by halftime, and maintained the pressure to hand them their first defeat in four starts.
And while the Gophers were trying to contend with Mitchell's slippiness, a 205-pound junior fullback from Chicago, Jack Delveaux, riddled them down the middle and quarterback Tom Haller, a junior from Lockport, Ill., harassed them with passes.
Delveaux scored twice in the first quarter. He ran back a punt 30 yards midway in the period to fuse an 83-yard touchdown drive in 12 plays. Haller's jump pass of 10 yards to Bob Delaney set up Delveaux's eventual 1-yard scoring blast.
Four minutes later, Mitchell recovered halfback Bill Martin's fumble on the Gopher 28. Mitchell wormed his way 18 yards on the next play. When Delveaux drilled over from the 10.
At the outset of the second quarter, Mitchell's 1-yard touchdown smash ended a 53-yard Illini thrust in 9 plays. Mitchell's mercurial scampers of 16 and 9 yards set the props.
The Illini kept it up in the third quarter, scoring again in the first seven minutes in a 69-yard frolic in 14 downs that included four Haller aeriels good for 62 yards. Haller's 23-yard pitch to Capt. Dale Smith made way for Smith's final 2-yard touchdown plunge.
Five minutes later, the Illini scored again on the game's most sensational pass play. A poor 18-yard punt by the Gophers set Illinois in motion on the Minnesota 47. Mitchell's running carried to the 21, but a holding infraction set the Illini back. Then Haller found end Ron Hill in the clear near the sidelines. He rifled the ball to Hill on the 5. Hill juggled it momentarily, then lunged it over the goal line.

Another feature game sends Graham against Weatherford in a District 4-AAA. Graham, which had swept through 4 games for 295 points against none for the opposition, met its Waterloo last week, dropping before Sweetwater 35-28 in an inter-district contest. Weatherford, undefeated and untied, had an open date. The Kangaroos swing into the conference grind against Graham.
Nederland, the team that's favored for the AAA championship, smashed Beaumont top AAA outfit, Neches, another Port Arthur of AAAA 15-14.

COLTS, BROWNS SEEK TO STRETCH STREAKS

By MIKE PATHEP
The Associated Press
Power-laden Baltimore and defense-laden Cleveland will try to stretch their unbeaten streaks to four today against opponents they handled with quick dispatch, the first time around.
The Colts, leading the National Football League's Western Division, meet the second-place Detroit Lions (2-1) before an expected 54,000 in Detroit's Briggs Stadium. Baltimore crushed Detroit 24-14 in the season's opener.
The Eastern Division leading Browns, who defeated Philadelphia 24-7 last Sunday, face the cellar-dwelling Eagles (0-3) on the road.
In other games in a full program, defending champion New York, currently runner-up to Cleveland in the East, opens its home season against Pittsburgh. San Francisco meets Green Bay at Milwaukee. Los Angeles and the Bears go at it in Chicago, and Chicago's Cardinals are at Washington.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart
Local football fans who were critical of Coach Al Milch for not making greater use of Jan Loudermilk's talents earlier in the season had no idea how badly Jan's arm was injured in that pre-game scrimmage... He's definitely all-district material.
Don Hitt, the former Odessa football-basketball star, is running on the first string at Oklahoma State University... Prentice Gautt, first Negro ever to play football at Oklahoma University, came to Ned Wilkinson from an Oklahoma City high school team which had won 76 straight... He may never play on a defeated club... The Lamesa Tornados earned 13th place on Waco scribe George Raborn's poll of AAA football powers in the state, even after their 21-7 loss to Big Spring... Graham was ranked at the top, followed by Nederland and Weatherford... Breckenridge was fourth, Sweetwater fifth and Snyder sixth... In Raborn's Class AAAA poll, he had Amarillo on top, Abilene second, Odessa seventh and Midland 20th... Glenn Frazier paid a Midland official $40 recently to stay home... Frazier had hired him to work the Andrews-Levelland football game but became angered over a 'roughing the kicker' call the arbitrator had made in a previous game and decided to pay him off rather than use him... The Coahoma Bulldogs could make use of the talents of Eddie Allen, fleet back who quit school recently... Paul Jorgensen, the Texas featherweight, has offers to fight in Manila, Bangkok, Tokyo and Caracas, Venezuela... Southern California will not be able to take part in the 1958 American Business Club Relays because the time (April 4-5) conflicts with the Pacific Coast Conference meet... An invitation has been sent to Kansas University, which always fields top track teams... OU isn't the only Oklahoma team which makes use of the talents of Texas football players... Eight members of the Tulsa freshman outfit are natives of the Lone Star State.

Impatient Youth Ready For Game

McLeod Regarded As Fine Prospect

When the Big Spring-Kermitt football game was moved back to Saturday night, it meant that local scouts (like John Yates, Sam Bell and Roy Baird) would get to see the Steers in two local games rather than one... The scouts ordinarily are privileged to witness only the last game of the season... Bill Henderson, Baylor's basketball coach, says McKel's Robert McLeod, who played here against Ropesville in that playoff game last season, was the best looking varsity prospect on display at the summer basketball all-star game in Dallas... McLeod started at the University of Texas this fall but later transferred to ACC... Though the theatre-TV screening of the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio fight grossed over two million dollars, the Theater Network Television stands to lose $100,000 on the telecast, according to reports... Many theaters reportedly played to only 60 per cent of capacity... Frank Long, the one-time Big Spring quarterback, finishes his six months' tour of duty at Camp Chaffee, Ark., shortly and

Helen Morgan Story

Anne Blythe, as noted songstress Helen Morgan, takes it on the chin from Paul Newman, in this scene from "The Helen Morgan Story," showing Sunday through Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Maybe He's Stir-Crazy

Red Skelton just can't work up the courage to kiss lovely Janet Blair in this scene from the riotous comedy, "Public Pigeon No. 1." Skelton's just escaped from prison; maybe that has something to do with it.

Red Skelton Returns To Screen In 'Public Pigeon'

Red Skelton returns to the screen after a long TV absence in "Public Pigeon No. 1," showing Thursday through Saturday at the State Theatre.

Skelton plays a dumb, but rather likable, lunchroom attendant. Together he and Janet Blair have saved $1,506.86 to get married, and Red has contributed $40 to this fund.

But Red entrusts their savings to some stock swindlers whose front is luscious Vivian Blaine.

Red unwittingly becomes the courier for the swindlers and winds up behind prison bars. It's just an excuse for one of the most riotous jailbreak scenes ever filmed, with everyone from the warden to the guards striving manfully to help Red escape so he can lead the police to the real crooks.

Busy On Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—Because the star is too busy to go to Paris, some of the preparations for a new musical to open there are being made on Broadway.

Lilo, stage and night club singing star, is set for the show but because of commitments here members of the production staff have had to come talk with her, and some U-S-rehearsals may be required for the French show.

Several years ago Lilo (in private life the Marquise de la Passadriere) pioneered another show business frontier by flying here over a weekend between performances in Paris to audition for her Broadway debut in "Can-can."

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

Patrons of the Howard County Free Library are just like the patrons of all libraries every where in this broad land—they insist on reading the "best sellers."

A new book can be placed in the stacks and collect dust for days on end.

Then it is revealed in the public prints that this book has suddenly achieved unexpected popularity and has become a member of that exclusive caste known as the "best sellers." The grand rush develops for the privilege of reading the book.

That's the story of "The World of Suzie Wong." A few folk read the novel when it was first made available. Now it has made the best seller group and there's a waiting list.

The library wishes it had a whole clutter of copies of "Peyton Place," "On the Beach" by Nevil Shute is also in heavy demand.

One exception to the rule seems to be Max Shulman's "Rally Around the Flag, Boys." This book is No. 3 on the national list of the books in most demand but I noticed that it was still in its place at the library last week.

"Where did you go? Out" is also in very light demand although it rates fourth in the list of best seller non-fiction books.

The funny thing to me is—there is a whole army of books, newly published, which are just as good and just as important (some even more important, probably) which will never be on the best seller list and which are available at the library. No one asks for these.

I don't think anyone quite understands what it is that makes a best seller out of a book. I am quite sure that the publisher and the author sincerely hope each effort will achieve that goal but I doubt if they have any illusion any such happy development will arise.

Actually, it seems that a great many of the fiction best sellers owe their sudden popularity to the sensational character of their plot rather than to any true literary value they may possess.

And it is notorious, isn't it, that best sellers, once they have had their heyday, seldom ever continue in solid if unspectacular popularity?

I wonder if the so-called "classics" do not owe their prestige more to their ability to hold interest of reader year after year than to any flare of sudden fame they may have enjoyed at the time they were first published.

'Omnibus' Back On TV Screens For 6th Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Omnibus" returns to the home screen for a sixth consecutive year tomorrow when it presents "Stover at Yale," a 90-minute play with music on NBC-TV at 2 p.m. CST.

There are several interesting aspects to this dramatization of Owen Johnson's celebrated story of football's turtle-neck era. But Robert Saudek, executive producer and guiding spirit of "Omnibus" throughout its distinguished history, suggested one special aspect of the other play.

"Stover at Yale" puts the hero back in his proper place in society," he said. "It doesn't contain any of the anxiety of self-embarrassment that is so common in current heroes. In those days you were proud of leadership; the hero had a good sound conscience."

Saudek pointed out that there's a lot of humor in "Stover at Yale," which will star Bradford Dillman and was adapted for "Omnibus" by Douglass Wallop, author of the Broadway hit musical, "Damn Yankees."

"We've developed comedy from the story," Saudek said, "not through parodying the period, but by playing it straight. The costumes, language and customs of the era have their own quaint humor. The music is from the period—some wonderful numbers that many people have forgotten."

In its new season, the first to be produced by Robert Saudek Associates without financial backing from the Ford Foundation, "Omnibus" will appear on alternate Sundays with "Wide World of Sports."

Saudek does not visualize any changes in the philosophy of the program which has won more awards than any TV show. Its primary purpose, he says, is to entertain. But to the shadow of pure entertainment it seeks to bring good substance of the intellect.

St. Louis Opera Attendance Up

ST. LOUIS—The Municipal Opera closed its 39th annual summer in Forest Park Sept. 1 with the season's total attendance registering an increase after several years of declining figures. Attendance for 1957 was 637,022, an increase of 9,161 over the previous summer.

The increase was attributed to the number of modern shows which were in the repertoire, with five of them being seen for the first time at the Municipal Opera. Costly casts with well-known stars also was a major contribution to larger audiences.

The fact that only one performance of the scheduled 88 was cancelled by rain as against three cancellations last summer also resulted in an increased attendance figure as well as box office income.

Civic Music Assn. Off To Good Start

The Civic Music Assn. is now no longer just an idea for local music lovers to bat around—it is a going organization. You may look forward soon to a schedule of musical events in Big Spring.

The membership drive will start, probably sometime this week. So, if you play an instrument (particularly a stringed instrument), if you sing or like choral work, or if you can't do any of these but just like good music, then contact any of the CMA's officers. They'll sign you up post haste.

There will be programs before Christmas, although not of the spectacular variety, and a Yuletide program is being planned. When things liven up in the spring, it is expected the several musical aggregations of the CMA will begin full scale operations.

A board of directors meeting scheduled for today will iron out many of the problems ahead, and will set the course for the organization.

College Players Hit By Flu Bug

Football teams are not the only ones hurt by the flu bug. The cast of the HJC Drama Dept.'s play, "See How They Run," has been hit hard. The production, now scheduled for presentation Oct. 28-29, will probably come off alright, but the players as of now are hurting for lack of ailing cast members for whom someone not familiar with the role must fill in. This throws a kink into the entire rehearsal. It seems, however, as if the flu bug will have bitten all the cast members long before curtain time, giving the kids time to get their play in shape.

Rehearsal becomes much easier after the scripts are tossed away. Then, with the words memorized, the players can concentrate on nuances and other shadings of words, as well as stage movements. A play is ready to open when words and movements flow smoothly and uninterrupted.

The college players have tossed away the scripts, and are planning to begin dress rehearsals Monday. Putting on a play takes a lot of long, hard hours. It's fun, but it's work, too. And these kids are enthusiastic, so the play ought to be good.

Incidentally, anyone who has a British Air Force uniform could do the Drama Dept. a big favor by loaning it to the cast. And anyone else, for that matter, who has stage costumes could also help in later productions by calling the Drama Dept. office. A stage wardrobe is now in the building stage.

Fred Short, Drama Dept. head, reminds all Webb enlisted men they will be charged only half price for "See How They Run."

Theatre Planning New Production

Another three-act play before Christmas is the aim of the Big Spring Civic Theatre. The board of governors meets today to hear reports from the play reading committee and to select the play for production. The governors also will discuss setting up a schedule of productions for the coming year.

The membership meeting Thursday night indicated the theatre group is raring to go on a wide front. The Easter Pageant and production of plays for children received lively discussion.

Reports were heard on the one-act plays which the theatre group presents for free at meetings of civic organizations. "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," a 12-minute farce on workmarking, has already been presented to several groups, and will be given again Monday evening at the JayCee's Ladies Night. Another one-act, "Overtones," is still in the formative stage. Trouble here comes from the fact that look-alikes are needed to represent the "other selves" of two women who, in the play, engage in polite conversation while their "other selves" make acid comments. Director John Austin stated "opposites" are also permissible with this play, and he is thinking of using "opposites" instead of look-alikes to get around the casting problem.

The theatre group is sending Dewey McGee, president, as a delegate to the Southwest Theatre Conference in Tulsa Thursday through Saturday of next week. Other members of the group may accompany him.

Jim Falk lived the entertainment portion of Thursday's meeting with a lecture on parliamentary procedure, including an analysis of Roberts' "Rules of Order." Falk pointed out that the purpose of parliamentary rules is to speed up group business, not to delay it. But it can be used either way.

Important note: The Civic Theatre needs a theatre building and a warehouse for storage of stage property. If you've got an old and unwanted building sitting around gathering dust, you have the opportunity of promoting an important area of culture.

Negro Heir Dies At Swank Home

MIAMI, Fla.—Ezekiel Dorsey, a Negro who inherited $200,000 in 1932 after 56 years of poverty, died yesterday in the swank home he occupied.

Dorsey ran away from home in Palatka at the age of 12 and lived as a migratory farm worker. In 1952 a Miami court ruled he was the long-lost son of the late Dana Albert Dorsey, who made a fortune in real estate.

Zeke was living in a shack when he came into money.

He moved into a $17,500 home and spent the rest of his life enjoying what to him were luxuries—candy, soda pop and the like—under a court-appointed guardianship.

Hurok's Principles Listed By Variety

NEW YORK (AP)—Sol Hurok, one of the busiest concert and stage impresarios, lists three key principles of show business in the trade magazine Variety.

"There are no bad acoustics for good artists."

"If the public doesn't want to come to something, you can't stop them."

"If you give a pass to someone important, be sure it's a good show, or he'll want his money back."

High Replacement Rate On Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway's new theater season is setting some kind of a record for cast changes during out of town tryouts.

There's always a certain amount of shaking down and shifting during the warmup weeks, but thus far five shows have made a total of 10 replacements in key roles. One of the five, "Saturday Night Kid," later was withdrawn.

Yankees Rout Jinx

NEW YORK (AP)—"Damn Yankees" continues to rout baseball's old theatrical jinx.

The latest report on the musical shows profits of $900,000. Until it came along, no show concerning baseball ever succeeded, and theatrical wisecracks believed the diamond sport was a sure hoodoo on the stage.

Bard's Still Top Drawer

NEW YORK (AP)—Shakespeare has netted neat profits to the festivals at Stratford, Conn., and Stratford, Ont.

The Connecticut enterprise, in its third season, grossed $425,000 in a 12-week production schedule with an operating profit of $170,000.

The fifth season of the Canadian project grossed $600,000 for a combination of Shakespeare, classical music, jazz, and a film festival.

It's the Big Show!

... the same great production that plays Madison Square Garden, New York, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles.

CINEMA COMMENT

Most of you old-timers remember the chills and excitement of the early-day horror shows, back when the motion picture industry was in its infancy and acting was still an art. And, if you remember the chills, you'll remember the man who frightened more people than any previous actor.

This was Lon Chaney, whose adeptness at makeup before the advent of the studio makeup expert caused him to create some of the most repulsive monsters ever imagined, such as the hunchback of Notre Dame and the original Frankenstein creature.

Chaney's story is told in a film showing here this week. The title, "Man of a Thousand Faces," is taken literally from the name movie-goers gave their terrorist. James Cagney, as might be expected from an old veteran, gives a memorable performance.

LIFE WITH MUSIC Tabernacle Choir On Radio 25 Years

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS
 But Ridges personally built the organ entirely of yellow pine and mountain mahogany hauled over 300 miles by ox team. The first organ had 2,000 pipes, making it the largest in the country at that time, and though it has been improved and augmented many times since then, the big 32-foot stop still vibrates the seats of the building.

ADJUNCT OF FAITH
 Choir, organ and Tabernacle are all achievements of historical importance. Significant, too, is the demonstration that to all people who value and appreciate beauty, music is a necessary and inspiring adjunct to faith.

THE FIRST ORGAN
 The first organ, ten years later, came all the way from Australia, where it had been built by a convert, Joseph Ridges. It was shipped to the California port of San Pedro, whence it was hauled to Salt Lake City in 12 mule-drawn wagons over some very rugged terrain.

TOPS ON TV Winston Churchill Career Reviewed On New Series

When the new CBS series "20th Century" bows on Channel 4 this afternoon at 5, it will tell of the "man of the century," Sir Winston Churchill, the man who, more than any other, has come to symbolize the indomitable spirit of western civilization.

This program will cover the statesman's life from the time he was a 12-year-old schoolboy at Harrow, through his career at Britain's West Point, his life as a combat observer and correspondent in Cuba, India and the Boer War in Africa.

Later sequences show him as home secretary at the age of 36, as minister of munitions during World War I, as a brick laying hobbyist in the depression of 1929, his return as first lord of the Admiralty again in 1939, and his election as prime minister. The final portion of the documentary shows Churchill's World War II career.

Tin Pan Alley Gives A Noisy Lie To Adage

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The discordant notes coming these days from Tin Pan Alley, the 10-story collection of tiny offices and tiny pianos on upper Broadway, drown out the old adage: "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

Instead, you hear the raucous snappings and snarlings of song writers and publishers belaboring each other in a real dog fight—a hound dog fight, you might say.

REASON FOR FIGHT
 Both are engaged in collecting performance fees under the Copyright Act of 1909, which guarantees to owners of musical copyrights the exclusive right of public performance for profit. The courts have held this to mean that whenever a song is played on radio or television, in a movie sound track, in a restaurant, dance hall or burlesque house, someone must pay both the piper and the writer of the tune he pipes.

A song writer cannot belong to both, but a publisher can if he sets up separate companies.

Congress and the federal courts have been busy looking into charges that BMI, set up by the broadcasters in competition to ASCAP, is engaged in a conspiracy to keep ASCAP music off the air and thereby curb the earning power of some of the nation's leading song writers.

The public has been dragged into the act with claims that it is being rock-and-rolled to the cultural depths by some disc jockeys playing trashy, sometimes obscene songs behind a sinisterly controlled electronic curtain.

Is America's taste in popular music going to the hound dogs? Several entertainers, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Gisele MacKenzie among them, seem to think so.

TOO MUCH TRASH
 "It galls me," said Crosby, "to see so much trash on our airwaves and TV screens while the work of dedicated song writers is crowded out." Crosby's objections, however, did not prevent him from contracting to do an album of BMI Christmas music.

Before leaving the "Hit Parade" to do her own show, Gisele MacKenzie took a blast at the caliber of today's hits and was particularly all shook up about a number called "All Shook Up."

But practically the same criticisms were leveled in another day against other musical innovations. Gilbert and Sullivan were assailed for producing junk. Victor Herbert was regarded as culturally uncouth, and George Gershwin heard the word trash echoing in his talented ear.

What the courts and Congress are interested in is not whether the songs are good or trashy but whether the public is being forced to swallow them by being kept from hearing anything better.

TV To Broadway

NEW YORK (AP)—Elizabeth Allen, Broadway's newest Juliet, got her first big break in show business via the TV cameras.

Miss Allen, chosen for the title role in "Romanoff and Juliet" after three other actresses had essayed the part, previously appeared on the Jackie Gleason show with one line of dialogue each week. It was "And Away We Go."

The Jersey City, N. J., miss has performed in summer stock in "The Reluctant Debutante" and "The Tender Trap."

Four Out Of A Thousand

James Cagney, in the role of Lon Chaney, is made up for four of the many roles that made the late Chaney famous. In the first picture, Bud Westmore (center), studio makeup man, aided by technician Jack Kevan, fixes up Cagney as a clown; in the second picture, Cagney is transformed into the masquerading crook of "The Unholy Three"; in the third picture, Cagney views himself as the "Phantom of the Opera," a job that took several hours; in the last picture, Westmore creates Cagney's portrayal of Chaney in the role of the "Hunchback of Notre Dame."

'Man Of A Thousand Faces' Fantastic Story Of Lon Chaney

Hollywood's archives have furnished the fantastic true story of the late Lon Chaney, titled "Man of a Thousand Faces" and showing Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre. James Cagney stars as Chaney, the actor whose private life, in the days before Confidential magazine, was cloaked in mystery.

companion during the plush years of his screen career. Cagney gives a deft impersonation of the brooding performer, from a lowly beginning as a vaudeville clown to the pinnacle of stardom.

There are vignettes of human interest in early scenes showing Chaney's devotion to his deaf mute parents, the scandalous separation from his first wife, and the attempt to isolate himself with his small son.

PLATTER PALAVER

Pat Boone has done it again, (made another hit, we mean). His latest for Dot is "April Love" and we believe it will still be around when April comes. It's the title ballad from the artist's latest movie, and has a definite commercial sound. The flip side is the Leo Rene evergreen "When the Swallows Come Back to Capistrano" delivered with the usual great Boone stylings.

to "Short Fat Fannie." Larry Williams has recorded the song in answer to his latest big hit record and may have a repeater. "You Bug Me, Baby" is an up-tempo adaptation of "Irish Washerwoman," that has a rocking beat on the other side.

Both sides of Johnnie Ray's new single have got the sound and the beat to set the teenage set in motion. The new disk features arrangements with Ray Conniff's orchestra, with "Pink Sweater Angel" and "Texas Tambourine." Another Ray hotif present is "Up Above My Head" on which he collaborated with Frankie Laine.

EIGHTEEN FEET VESSELS HEART OF BUTADIENE CATALYTIC UNIT
Odessa facility turns butane into feeder stock for synthetic rubber plant

Crowds See Odessa Plants Give Gas Products A Bounce

ODESSA — Thousands of visitors Saturday thronged through the $32 million butadiene and synthetic rubber plants whose operations have been integrated in an important petrochemical "milestone" in West Texas.

Friday dignitaries, including Paul Kayser, president and founder of El Paso Natural Gas (whose El Paso Products is owner and operator of Odessa Butadiene), William O'Neal, president and founder of General Tire and Rubber, former governor Allan Shivers, now a pipeline executive, Texas Secretary of State Zolle Stealey and others, took the lead in dedicating the new facilities. Saturday open house for the public brought throngs of proud and curious onlookers.

The plants are the first of their kind to be fully integrated and fully financed by private interests. O'Neal predicted that they could be made to operate better than those in which the government had taken a lead.

Around $22 million of the investment is in the butadiene facilities. Feed stock (butane) comes from the El Paso natural gas plant at Midkiff. It is subjected to a catalyst (chromium alumina) under vacuum at 1,100 degrees temperature. Through dehydrogenation (knocking hydrogen atoms off the molecular chain of butane), the material is converted into gases rich in butadiene. Through a series of processes including compression, absorption and fractionation the butadiene is separated and purified.

Hot gasses coming from the reactors are brought quickly down to 100 degrees temperature. The material is compressed in phases and is subjected to an oil which absorbs the butadiene. Because the absorptive rate is stepped up under minimum temperatures, refrigerative capacity sufficient to cool all homes in a community the size of Colorado City is used. Finally, the material is fractionated in tall towers to purify it. An infinitesimal amount of inhibitor is infused to keep it from polymerizing (that is, the molecules from joining to form a viscous or solid material).

One of the most fascinating parts of the plant is the complex system of valve control at the reactors. This is done electronically so that two dozen 36-inch, eight 20-inch, eight 14-inch, eight 8-inch and eight 4-inch valves are opened and closed within 18-23 minutes. Because of the danger of damage or explosion, each closing and opening is checked electronically before the next can begin.

Another interesting element is the air compressor station, which compresses one million pounds of air per hour, most of it used to burn coke off the catalyst.

Butadiene is pumped to the General Tire & Rubber plant located to the north. Here the inhibitor is removed and the pure product mixed three to one with styrene. Soap is added along with modifier to emulsify the elements. The mixture goes into a refrigeration system and then into reactors which agitate it until a precise chemical change has taken place. Then a shortstop is added to halt the chemical action.

The milky liquid then goes through units to recover unactivated styrene and butadiene, which are recycled until they are used. The resulting pure product (latex) is mixed with brine in a creaming operation. Then it is subjected to sulphuric acid for coagulation. The coagulated material is skimmed, rinsed and dried. These gummy crumbs are pressed into 75-pound bales wrapped in polyethylene to prevent them from sticking to each other and is shipped to rubber plants for tires and other uses.

Midget Mile-Stretchers To Spell Trouble For Oil Trade

NEW YORK — If the sales of small cars continue at their present rate—and from all indications the market will hit 200,000 this year, and top that next year—a limiting influence will be felt on the growth of premium gasoline sales, reports National Petroleum News.

This is a situation oil men cannot afford to ignore. The fact that small cars use less gasoline, need lower octanes and are harder to service and supply, creates a problem for oil marketers, the magazine says.

To meet foreign small-car competition, automobile makers say they now have three choices—all of which could spell bad news for the petroleum industry.

1) Increase imports from their foreign subsidiaries (where labor costs are considerably lower).

Drilling Off But Slightly

Drilling dropped off slightly for the week ending Oct. 14, according to the Hughes Tool survey for the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors.

There were 2,620 rigs turning on that date in the United States and Canada. The week before there had been 2,681, a month ago 2,746 and a year ago 2,801.

Texas showed 876 as compared with 898 the previous week. Of this number West Texas had 351 as against 359. New Mexico had 139, down two, Louisiana 432, down two, Oklahoma 251, down six, Western Canada, with 165, was off 25.

Two Hit-And-Run Wrecks Reported

Hit-and-run accidents produced two of the three accidents which occurred in Big Spring Friday and Saturday.

David Mugg, Webb AFB, told police that someone ran into his motor scooter while it was parked on E. 3rd Friday.

Early Saturday, a car owned by Marian O'Neal was hit by a 1947 Buick. The driver of the Buick was located, and police said he would be charged with driving while intoxicated.

Later Saturday, Manuel Alderete, Rt. 1, and Wilburn Forrest were drivers of vehicles in collision in the 700 block of Lamesa. Police said Forrest was backing up at the time.

Blue Danube Spots Mitchell Location

Blue Danube Oil Co. of Fort Worth located another venture in the Westbrook field of Mitchell County at the end of the week.

The Blue Danube No. 1-B Leroy Grissett is located 990 feet from south and 330 from west lines, 26-28-in. T&P Survey, and three miles north of Westbrook. Contract depth is 3,200 feet.

TKL No. 2-B Mitchell Fee, being drilled by C. D. Turner, made hole at 1,818 feet Saturday. It is in the Westbrook field, 1,300 feet from north and 330 from east lines, 37-29-in. T&P Survey, 4 1/2 miles west of Westbrook.

'Coyotes' Hit

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19 (AP)—"Braceros" who want to go to the United States to work are the victims of "coyotes" and minor officials to the tune of nine million dollars a year, the Braceros Alliance estimates. "Coyotes" are men who hang around government offices and offer for a fee to get the necessary documents in order, but seldom do.

Falcon Stakes Borden Wildcat

Falcon Seaboard will begin immediately drilling an 8,500-foot wildcat in the western part of Borden County.

The location is Falcon Seaboard No. 1 W. D. Johnson about 12 miles north of Vealmoor. It is on a 640-acre tract and is a mile and a half northeast of the Luckpot field discovery well. The new site is surrounded on four sides by dry holes however.

It stands 660 from south and east lines, 44-32-5n, T&P Survey.

In the Arthur Field, Seaboard No. 445 T. J. Good has been located 7 1/2 miles north of Vealmoor. Drillsite is 660 from north and 1,980 from east lines, 45-33-4n, T&P Survey. Drilling depth is 8,400 feet.

Cosden Resumes Work In Ector

Cosden No. 1-B Stoker, in the southern part of Garza County, treated and prepared to go on pump at the end of the week. Total depth is 3,160 feet. The well is in the Rucker A field.

Stocks Ample For Severest Weather

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Reports from the oil industry indicate ample supplies of fuel oil for next winter, even if the winter is a severe one.

Gasoline stocks of both fuels are well above a year ago and, with the transportation facilities that are available, should mean no shortages anywhere in the country.

This assurance comes from the National Petroleum Council and the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPIPA). IPIPA reports stocks of some heating fuels totaled 173 million barrels Oct. 11, up 20 million barrels from a year ago. Gasoline stocks were 178 million barrels, four million barrels

Missing Auto Is Located Saturday

A car reported missing early Saturday morning was found only a few blocks away at noon.

F. C. Reece, 1502 E. 6th, reported his 1949 Chevrolet stolen Friday night. He said it was parked at the Sinclair Service Station, 311 N. Gregg, but the keys were not in it.

Shortly before noon Saturday, Patrolman James Baker located the car in the 200 block of NW 2nd.

Someone tried to take a car belonging to Albert Rodriguez Friday night but was unsuccessful. They took one rear-view mirror from the car and broke another one.

Rodriguez said the car, a 1957 Mercury, was parked at the Spanish Inn, 300 N. Gregg, during the night. Investigation revealed that someone had tried to wire around the switch.

Council To Meet

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Texas Citizens Council will meet here Monday night to discuss legislative activities affecting the preservation of school segregation. The group is affiliated with the White Citizens-Council, advocates of segregation.

Water Recovered With Oil In Northwest Howard Outpost

Operator found large amounts of free oil—but quantities of salt water also—at the second location in the Knott (Pennsylvanian) field of Howard County this weekend.

At the Ashmun-Hilliard-U.S. Smelting No. 2 Grantham, 14 miles northwest of Big Spring, operator ran two drillstem tests in the Pennsylvanian. On the first from 8,983-9,000 feet with the tool open three hours, recovery was 50 feet of oil-cut mud, 180 feet of free oil, and 10 feet of salt water.

Flowing pressure gauged 50-75 pounds, and 30-minute shut-in pressure was 355.

Operator then took a drillstem test from 9,105-25 feet with tool open 10 hours. Recovery was 1,100 feet of free oil, 200 feet of mud, and 4,683 feet of salt water. Flowing pressure went from 805-2,740 pounds, and shut-in pressure for 30 minutes gauged 2,785 pounds.

WEST OUTFOST

The venture is half a mile west of the discovery well. Drillsite is 1,638 from south and 2,317 feet from east lines, 8-33-2n, T&P Survey.

Elsewhere in the County, Cosden No. 1-B McDowell, 10 miles southwest of Big Spring, deepened to 3,170 feet and prepared to core Saturday morning.

The location is 1,960 feet from south and 2,310 from east lines, 46-34-1s, T&P Survey. Contract depth is 3,600 feet.

Sinclair Oil staked two new projects in the latan East Howard field of eastern Howard County. Sinclair No. 111 Granville Dodge is 990 feet from south and 2,310 from east lines, 11-30-1s, T&P Survey, five miles east of Coahoma. Drilling depth is 3,000 feet.

Sinclair No. 110 Dodge Estate is staked 1,650 from south and 940 from west lines, 11-30-1s, T&P Survey, five miles east of Coahoma. It will deepen to 3,000 feet.

SWAR LOAD

In the Snyder field, C. D. Turner No. 3 Edwards continued to swab back load at the end of the week. Bottomed at 2,700 feet, operator fractured and recovered 350 barrels of load oil by Saturday morning.

The venture is 1,650 from east and 330 from north lines, 32-30-

Teague Named Driller Chief

TULSA, Okla.—J. U. Teague, president of Columbia Drilling Company, Houston, last week, was named president-elect of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, now holding their 17th Annual Meeting at the Mayo Hotel.

Teague will assume office Jan. 1, 1958, for a one-year term. Present officers will continue in office until the end of the year, as a result of a revision of the AAODC by-laws approved by the board of directors yesterday. Jack H. Abernathy, Oklahoma City, is the incumbent president.

Teague is currently national vice president of the association. He was graduated from the Rice Institute, Houston, in 1930 with a B.S. degree, and worked for Humble Oil & Refining Company for ten years as a petroleum engineer, leaving to join Hog Oil Company. During World War II, he served in the Navy 3 1/2 years. He organized Columbia Drilling Company in 1949.

Work Slated On Dawson Wildcat

Work will begin immediately on a deep wildcat in Dawson County being staked by Texas Crude Oil Co.

Drilling depth is 9,000 feet.

Also in Dawson County, The Texas Co. No. 1 B. E. Miller, four miles southwest of Lamesa, deepened to 9,570 feet in lime and shale. The operation, seeking Pennsylvanian production, is 1,979 from south and 660 from east lines, 17-36-5n, T&P Survey.

Reagan-Lanphere No. 1 Barrett made hole at 11,845 feet in shale and lime. Location of the wildcat is 8 1/2 miles northwest of Lamesa, C SW SW, 44-N, EL&RR Survey.

Krausse Speaks At Club Meet

COLORADO CITY—Dan Krausse, vice president of Cosden Petroleum Corp., spoke to a joint meeting of Colorado City's service clubs Thursday at Civic House.

The address by Krausse was a feature of Oil Progress Week.

Krausse pointed out that in 1918, 15 per cent of the energy used in the United States was produced from oil by 1957, 66 per cent of the energy produced is supplied by petroleum.

"Seventy three and a half billion dollars will have to be spent by the oil industry to find, produce, transport, refine and market the oil that this country will be using by 1965," Krausse continued.

Krausse noted that the money to do the job will come from depletion and depreciation allowances, from profits and from the investments made by small investors in the petroleum industry.

Following the talk by Krausse, the group toured the Col-Tex Refinery, which is owned by Cosden.

Completions Continue Lag

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 260 oil wells were completed during the past week, making a total of 12,714 for the year compared to 13,252 for 1956.

There were 45 gas well completions and 132 dry holes. Wildcats drilled included 6 oil and 2 gas wells and 67 dry holes. A total of 22 wells were plugged, including 61 oil and 9 gas wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,955,567 barrels compared to the Oct. 12 allowable of 2,940,139.

Operator cored this weekend at Cosden's rank wildcat in central Wyoming, the No. 1 Government. Operator cored at 9,113 feet. It is a 10,000 project on a trend from the Lost Soldier and Wertz (Devonian) fields.

Clear Fork Test For Glasscock

J. Roy Derrick of Midland will try the Clear Fork in the Spraberry Trend Area of Glasscock County.

Location is Derrick No. 1 H. W. Hoelscher about 15 miles south of Garden City. Drillsite is 660 from north and 1,980 from east lines, 34-35-5s, T&P Survey.

Drilling depth is 6,000 feet.

Five miles north of Garden City, Fair-Williamson No. 1 S. C. Currie deepened to 7,926 feet in shale. The location is C NE NE, 26-34-3s, T&P Survey, in the Carter (Wolfcamp) field.

Rites Held For Athens Oil Man

ATHENS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Services were held today for Ike LaRue, wealthy East Texas oil man killed while hunting in Canada.

LaRue, 61, was killed near Kerrobert, Sask., the day before. Coroner C. W. James was informed Fred LaRue, a son, leaped to his feet as a flock of ducks approached the hunters from behind and a shotgun was fired by accident. The charge struck the elder LaRue in the chest.

Another son, Ike Jr., accompanied his father on the hunting trip. He and Fred live at Jackson, Miss., where the multimillionaire oil man had one of several homes.

Other survivors include LaRue's widow and a daughter, Mrs. Harry Owen of Jackson.

DURWOOD O. CUMMINGS

This is the 15th in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

Born in 1897 at Anson, Durwood O. Cummings was reared on a farm at Clarksville, attended school there and continued to work on the farm until 1919, when he went to work for the T&P Railroad. After 11 years of railroading, he went into construction work, following that trade until his start with Cosden on August 22, 1942. He is presently a painter's helper first class.

Mr. Cummings was married in 1920 at Baird to the former Miss Ada Danler, a native of Shreveport, La. They have two sons, Charles R. Cummings, 24, who also lives here, and 17-year-old Durwood O. Jr., who has been in the Air Force since last November and is now stationed on Guam. They also have one granddaughter, Deborah Ann, 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummings own their home at 508 Donley and spend many hours working in their yard. He also goes in for hunting as a hobby.

Daniel's Water Bills Untouched

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP) — Gov.

Price Daniel's million dollar emergency water planning bill remained untouched in the first week of the special Legislature except for verbal jabs and praises. House and Senate water committees spent two days debating the measure. Testimony was firm in one direction—statewide water planning is needed and the bill's principle is good. More testimony starts before the House committee at 7 p.m. Monday and at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Senate committee. "This bill is in better shape for final passage in its present form than most people realize," Rep. W. N. Woolsey of Corpus Christi said.

A sponsor of the House measure, Woolsey said he was pleased with the representatives' response to the bill seeking to create a water planning division within the State Board of Water Engineers. "As a whole, the members of the House are eager to come up with a solid, workable bill," Woolsey said.

The planning division would be headed by a $17,500 a year engineer who would direct a staff in creating a statewide water plan for ultimate development of water resources.

Sens. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton and Otis Lock of Lufkin asked most questions at the Senate hearing.

Lock called the bill "highly controversial," and said its present form had caused "major head-on clashes" between water users.

Phillips was concerned with the planning division's work and river authorities' already-state approved master plans.

Members of the Board of Water Engineers each wrote Daniel their views on the measure. Chairman R. M. Dixon said the three agreed to the bill in principle. H. A. Beckwith suggested 10 changes. Otha Dent said he liked the bill as now written. Dixon said he couldn't understand it and could find no one who could explain it thoroughly.

The hearings moved slowly with the major "no" against the plan coming from Rep. Bill Stromman of San Angelo. He claimed the bill would give the water board legislative powers.

Cop Overcomes Fear Of Height

CHICAGO (AP) — Policeman Edward Bourke, who suffers from acrophobia — a dread of great heights — climbed a narrow outside ladder from a ninth-floor ledge to the roof of an 11-story building yesterday to serve a traffic warrant.

Bourke, 48, thus ended a five-month search for William S. Cavenagh, 27, an electrician. Cavenagh, who was repairing a big sign on the Illinois Central Railway Building, was charged in the warrant issued May 15 with driving a commercial vehicle on a boulevard. He was booked for appearance in court Nov. 18.

"I had no other choice, I had to do it," Bourke said in explaining why he climbed to the roof. "But now that it's over, I hope I'm grounded for life."

Due Here For Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Jones of Tulsa, Okla., are expected to arrive here today to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Jones. The couple planned to watch the Texas Tech-Baylor University football game in Lubbock last night.

Garden City FFA Units Organized

GARDEN CITY, Oct. 19 (SC)—The two FFA Chapters of Garden City High School recently organized for the new school year. They elected a full set of officers in addition to choosing chapter sweethearts.

Pat Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Carr, Route 2, Big Spring, was chosen as sweetheart of the Greenhorn Chapter. Pat is a freshman in Garden City High School.

The Senior FFA Chapter chose Doyleene Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Little. She is a senior in high school.

New officers of the Greenhorn Chapter are as follows: Gary Siebenberger, president; Joe Carter, vice president; Doug Parker, secretary; Bill Schraeder, treasurer; Jack Asbill, reporter; and Buster McCartney, sentinel.

The senior chapter, officially the Garden City Chapter of the Future Ranchers of America, chose Milton Mow for president. Other officers are Jimmy Davee, vice president; Bobby Fisher, secretary; Glenn Joe Riley, treasurer; Donald Plagens, sentinel; Frank Murphy, reporter; Kenneth Robinson, historian; Billy Blalock, second vice president; Harold Jones, third vice president; and Dennis Schraeder, parliamentarian.

The chapter projects program this year is made up of a wider variety of activities than ever before, according to reporter Frank Murphy.

Eleven boys have a total of 33 lambs; four boys have a total of 10 fat barrow projects, and one member is feeding 10 commercial lambs. There are also two projects of breeding stock. Two boys have 20 head of sheep while three others are keeping six sows and gilts. There is only one beef project, with one member owning four cows.

There was an increase in crop projects this year. Three boys raised cotton, three grew grain, while one had an acre of vegetables.

The two chapters have scheduled a full calendar of activities for the coming year. One of the first will be a Halloween program at the end of this month.

Gerald Oakes, high school agriculture teacher, is the chapter advisor.

Cost Of Oil Discussed By John Kelly At ABC Meet

A talk on the "cost of oil" was delivered to American Business Club members at their regular Friday luncheon at the Settles Hotel by John Kelly of the Cosden Petroleum Corp.

Kelly said the oil industry expected to spend $73.5 billions in the next 10 years in maintaining its high degree of service to mankind and said experts were anticipating a 60 per cent increase in oil consumption during that decade.

As an example of increased cost, Kelly pointed out that it now costs an average of $60,000 a month to get a seismograph crew in the field, whereas 10 years ago the expense ran to only $15,000.

He also pointed out that it required nine times as much capital to drill for oil in off-shore operations as it does inland.

DAV Groups To Stage Party At VA

Members of the Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary are planning a party for patients at the VA Hospital on Oct. 29. Details of the plans were discussed at the joint meeting last week.

Five new applications for membership were approved. R. R. McKinney is area co-chairman of membership and eligible veterans should contact him.

Kelly was introduced to the group by Jerry Mancil, who had charge of the program.

Highlights of 1956 Southwest Conference football, a film prepared by Humble, was also shown here by Tom Conway, a club member.

Walter Named To Judge Post

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel appointed Esco Walter of Abilene today associate justice of the 11th Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

He succeeds the late Judge Milburn Long. Walter was district attorney from 1940 to 1950 and resigned to enter private law practice. He had three terms as county attorney and one as a justice of peace.

He is a past president of the District and County Attorneys Assn. In 1927 he was an all-state quarterback on the Abilene High School football team. He and Daniel were classmates at Baylor Law School.

C-C To Choose New Directors

Proposed schedule for the election of new officers and directors for the Chamber of Commerce will be submitted to the C-C board Monday.

R. L. Beale, president, is expected to appoint the board's 15 hold-over directors to a nominating committee. This group will choose 45 nominees for 15 two-year places on the board.

Schedule calls for names of the nominees to be submitted to the board for approval Nov. 4. After that, ballots will be mailed to all Chamber members.

Election of the 15 new directors is due to be announced at the board meeting Dec. 2. New and holdover directors then will meet to choose up to 10 additional one-year board members. The new board will appoint a nominating committee for the selection of new officers early in December.

Preparing For Flower Show Thursday

STAGING OF A FLOWER SHOW is partly responsible for the success of the occasion, as is well-known by members of the Council of Garden Clubs. Mrs. J. G. Lewis, at left in photo above, is chairman of the committee which will see that the background for the exhibits features an atmosphere of Texas. Theme of the flower show, to be given Thursday afternoon and evening, is Lone Star Parade. Mrs. J. T. Anderson, one of the staging committee, attempts to "adjust the flow of oil" from the tiny derrick which will be part of the decorations for the show. Both women are members of the Rosebud Garden Club.

FOR THE JUNIOR DIVISION, Mrs. W. B. Younger, a member of the Rosebud Garden Club, encourages her son, Jerry, to make an arrangement for entry in the Mavericks Class in the Fall Flower Show. The show is to be presented at Howard County Junior College on Thursday by the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs. The Mavericks Class is open to juniors from 10 to 15 years of age; another class, Buckaroos, was formed for boys and girls from six to nine years. Jerry's arrangement, in photo above, is of dahlias, purple salvia and foliage from iris.

NEWEST MEMBER of the Big Spring Garden Club, Mrs. Raymond River, at left, takes a lesson in flower arranging from Mrs. J. W. Dickens, a member of the Planters Garden Club. Mrs. Dickens is recording secretary of the First District of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. For the Flower Show, to be presented Thursday at Howard County Junior College, she is chairman of the classification committee. This group has to know horticulture as well as being familiar with the various types of flower arrangements. The arrangement which the two are studying in the photo above is a line mass arrangement of marigolds and barbary.

World Affairs Study Begins At Meeting

Members of the Woman's Forum held their first study meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Boles with Mrs. W. H. Bain as cohostess.

Foremost in the plans of the project committee was the work at the Fashion Shop operated by the club at the Big Spring State Hospital. The club also voted to enter two contests in addition to hearing the first part of the course of study on "World Affairs Are Our Affairs."

Mrs. Gullford Jones and Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas Jr. gave the discussion on "Story of U. S. Foreign Policy" with Mrs. Jones bringing the foreign policy of the nation from the days preceding World War I through the war's aftermath.

Mrs. Thomas' talk dealt with the events that led to the attack on Pearl Harbor and the Second World War up through the Korean conflict. She also gave the author's views of what might be expected to develop in the next few years.

Mrs. E. P. Driver, project chairman, announced that two clubs will assist Forum members in operating the Fashion Shop. They are the Officers' Wives' Club and the City Home Demonstration Club.

Eager Beaver members have offered to mend clothing for the shop at one meeting a month.

The club was reminded of the volunteer workers orientation class that will be held at the hospital on Nov. 4 and 5. Those who would like to attend the classes are asked to call Mrs. Driver before Oct. 21.

The Forum will enter a contesting number in the Junior Woman's Forum Jabberwock, which is slated for Nov. 23 at the junior college.

Mrs. Bill Gage was named chairman of a committee, composed of Mrs. Driver and Mrs. Jim Lewis, who will be in charge of recording achievements in the Community Achievement Contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Fresh Shrimp In Spicy Dip

Fresh shrimp, properly cooked and chilled to crispness, is a most tempting way to start a meal. Dip it in this spicy sauce and the guests will keep your house in mind when the subject of good food enters the conversation.

SHRIMP WITH FRAN'S DIP

Ingredients: 1/2 cup tomato catchup or seafood cocktail sauce, 1/2 cup chili sauce, 1 medium-sized green pepper (finely minced), 1 medium-sized onion (finely minced), 1 tsp. bottled grated horseradish, 1 tsp. pepper, Juice of 1/2 lemon, 3 pounds shrimp (cooked and shelled and deveined).

Method:

Stir together the catchup, chili sauce, minced green pepper, minced onion, grated horseradish, pepper, and lemon juice. Chill in a tightly covered jar overnight. Serve in a small bowl surrounded by the cooked shrimp. This makes enough dip for the three pounds of shrimp, serving 12. If any sauce is left over, store in tightly covered jar in refrigerator.

NOTE: To cook the 3 pounds of shrimp, add 1 tablespoon pickling spices to 2 1/2 to 3 quarts water; bring water to a boil; add the shrimp; bring to simmering. Cover saucepan and simmer 3 to 5 minutes. Drain shrimp at once, shell, devein and chill.

Malted Milk Cake Frosting Is Easy

An easy and delicious frosting for a cake of almost any type is the one made of whipped cream and instant malted milk powder. It is especially good with the chocolate flavor.

CHOCOLATE MALTED MILK CAKE

Ingredients: One cup heavy cream, 1/2 cup chocolate flavored sweetened instant malted milk powder (Spoon-ed lightly into container when measuring), salt, one 8- or 9-inch cake layer.

Method:

Put cream, malted milk powder and a pinch of salt into a 1-quart deep bowl. Beat with rotary beater (hand or electric), scraping sides of bowl at beginning of beating, until very thick. With long serrated bread knife, cut cake in half crosswise to make two layers. Fill and frost cake, covering top and sides, with chocolate malted cream. Refrigerate until serving time. If any is left over store in refrigerator.

NOTE:

One layer of a 2-egg vanilla chiffon cake covered with the chocolate malted milk frosting is delicious. The amount of malted milk powder called for makes a rich sweet covering.

Berkeland Family Taking Final Steps Toward Making Home Here

When the Rev. Marvin Berkeland and his family return from Nebraska in several weeks they will bring the final load of their household furnishings and settle down to being bona fide residents of Big Spring.

Rev. Berkeland is the chaplain at the Big Spring State Hospital and has been in Big Spring since Sept. 15, coming here from Austin where he had been associated with the Austin State Hospital. His family is composed of Mrs. Berkeland, Luther, 4, Marjorie, nearly 2 and Gerald, six months.

Before coming to Texas for the first time this summer, the family had made their home in Porter, Minn. He is a native of Brookings, S. D., and she is from Funk, Neb.

After the couple get their furnishings ready for shipping, she and the children will go to visit her family, while Rev. Berkeland attends the National Council of Clinical Training, Inc. in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Berkeland is a graduate of Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill., and has a degree in library science from the University of Minnesota. She worked in the university library while doing her work toward her degree, and it was while she studied here that she met her future husband, Rev. Berkeland was attending the Lutheran Theological Seminary in St. Louis.

While he hasn't had an opportunity to hunt since he came to Texas, he is looking forward to getting to hunt deer this fall. In his native state, this is the time of year that he hunted pheasants. Another hobby is work-working which has resulted in several small pieces of furniture for the house.

The family attends services at St. Paul Lutheran Church and are anxious to get themselves settled in their home so as to meet more Big Spring people. They are at home at 1408 Eleventh Place.

Mix, Match Decor In Your Kitchen

With color invading every corner of the kitchen, homemakers with an eye for decoration will be pleased to know about the bright new note in American machine-made mixing bowls. This kitchen necessity today is available in colors and designs that mix or match any decorative scheme of your choice.

If you've a green ivy print on towels and walls, you can now find this perennial favorite on handsome white bowls—or maybe your kitchen decor calls for one of the new sets in alternating yellow and white with a black gooseberry pattern.

There's a striking Swedish modern design in pale turquoise if you prefer a solid color, and all-white bowls to set off other colors. And, of course, there are "see-through" clear glass bowls, too, as well as a pretty frosty grape pattern on a clear ground.

These new color-conscious glass bowls are so attractive you'll have a hard time keeping them in the kitchen. Some of them are heat-proof and may be used for baking—and they're good looking enough to bring right to the dining table for serving. They're perfect for salads, and—before you know it, they'll be out in your livingroom holding flowers or hors d'oeuvres!

Aluminum Foil Easy To Use In Making Costumes For Halloween

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Women's Editor

Time for Halloween costumes again, when every little fellow fancies himself a knight in shining armor, a clown or a big black cat.

Take the easiest way out if you can, mom, because mainly the costumes are one-shot. Even if they are put away for next year, they'll be outgrown or "out of style," when witching brew time comes 'round again.

CLOWN SUIT
Aluminum foil may serve as a quick, easy-to-use material for junior party-goers. Last year's clown suit if it still fits may get a new ruff of glittering foil and a conical shaped hat. Or make armor-like accessories for a young knight to perk up costume.

The ruff may be made by tearing off a yard of household foil and pleating it, accordion fashion. Squeeze one edge tightly over a piece of string. Do the same with a second piece of foil, squeezing it over the same piece of string. Spread both pieces of foil so that the ruff will fit around the neck. Tie it at the back of the neck with string.

The hat may be made of heavy paper or cardboard and covered with foil. Cover it with foil and decorate it by making four balls of foil and attaching them to the hat by glue or small pieces of thin wire passed through the balls and through the hat. Place them in a line from top down the front of the hat.

SHINING ARMOR
A knight's helmet may be made with three pieces of household weight aluminum foil about a yard long, formed over a small lampshade. An inexpensive one from a variety store will do the trick. Mold each piece of foil with the hands to the shape of the shade, overlapping the foil to make the complete helmet.

Round out the top by placing a hand inside the helmet, and forming it into a round shape. Turn up the bottom edge, making two vertical cuts with scissors at the front to form an opening for the face. Turn up this piece of foil higher than the rest of the brim. Top with a plume formed of foil, and glue it to the top of the helmet.

A shield can be made by cutting a piece of cardboard into an oval or round shape. Cover it completely with foil and decorate it in any interesting design with lengths of foil that have been crushed into a rope in the hands. These lengths can then be glued to the shield. A piece of stout string at the back provides a handle and also bends the shield into a rounded shape.

A sword is made from a piece of stiff cardboard covered with foil and decorated at the handle with colored tape.

FAIRY QUEENS

HALLOWEEN GLITTER
... costume accessories made of foil coat hangers, cardboard, wooden dowels and ribbon made into wings, wands and crowns. The crowns may be made easily by shaping cardboard into a circle, stapling it or sealing it with cellophane tape, and then covering it with foil. It may be decorated with sparkling sequins in real fairy queen tradition, if you like.

The wand is a long wooden dowel (or fly swatter handle) covered with foil. Top it with a cardboard star covered with foil. A bright ribbon may be spiraled down the length of the wand and secured at the bottom with a big bow.

Wings may be made of two wire coat hangers. Cut off the hooks and pull slightly the straight bottom sections of the hangers and cover them with foil. Join the two hangers together by binding them with string at the hook ends. Where hangers are joined, attach four 3-foot pieces of twine. These may be brought over the shoulders and under the arms to attach the wings to the back.

For Tasty Sweet, Try 1-2-3 Fudge

If all the household want some good-eatin' sweets for odd moments during the fall season, they'll really be delighted with "1-2-3" Fudge. Give this recipe a try:

3/4 bar Imperial margarine
4 oz. unsweetened chocolate
1 egg, unbeaten
3 tsp. light cream
1 tsp. vanilla
1 lb. confectioners' sugar, sifted
1 cup walnuts, coarsely cut.

Method:
Melt margarine and chocolate together over hot water. Put next four ingredients in large mixing bowl and mix; add chocolate mixture and beat only until blended. Quickly stir in nuts. Turn into margarine 8" x 8" pan. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Cut into 1" squares. Makes 49 squares (about 1 1/2 pounds).

Housewife Knows Her Calculus

ATLANTA (AP)—Who said women and math don't mix? Mildred White does on calculus. The only figure this graying, bespectacled housewife shies away from is her age.

"If anybody asks I just tell them it's none of their business," she says with good-natured firmness. But otherwise numerals are Mrs. White's meat.

As far as she knows, she is the only woman who is official statistician for a baseball league. She holds the post for two: the class AA Southern Assn. and the class D Alabama-Florida League.

As such, she's up to her neck in hits, runs and errors (diamond variety) from early April until the end of the baseball season.

"I have my office in my home and all those box scores and sheet after sheet of figures disrupt everything," she said. "But it is fascinating. I thoroughly enjoy it."

Short, Quick Way To Make Hot Chili

Although long, slow cooking does improve the flavor of chili, that doesn't mean it must be done to be good. Try this quick easy way to prepare chili for an easy meal.

QUICK HOT CHILI
Ingredients:
Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 pound lean ground chuck beef, 2 tablespoons chili con carne seasoning powder, 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes, salt.

Method:
Melt butter in 10-inch skillet; add beef and sprinkle with chili con carne seasoning powder. Mash with long-handled fork over moderate heat until beef loses its red color and is crumbled. Add kidney beans (including liquid) and stewed tomatoes (including liquid). Bring to a boil, mixing well; add salt to taste and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve in soup bowls with crisp crackers. Makes four 1-cup (generous) servings.

NOTE:
If this seasoning is not available, be sure to add chili powder and garlic salt or crushed garlic cloves to taste; if on hand, also add cummin, coriander and oregano to taste.

ative of Howe News Bureau, a national statistical agency, moved into her post gradually. She started about 20 years ago helping her husband, Roy, then the Howe statistician in Atlanta. When he resigned, she took over, and for the past two seasons Mrs. White has been the "boss lady."

"Baseball is my favorite sport," says Mrs. White, "but Roy and I don't get to see many games. No time."

Paris Likes 'Em Lacy

PARIS (AP)—Dramatic use of lace is a prominent feature of the Paris fall fashion collections, seen principally in cocktail and evening outfits which give full play to famous French craftsmanship.

Although some of the daytime clothes seen in top Paris salons this season may startle the beholder, evening fashions are almost always feminine, flattering and distinguished by delicate and intricate hand work.

It is the French belief that women should look romantic after dark, and they achieve the desired effect by use of fragile, cobwebby chiffons, gauzy lace, sheer point d'esprit and other fabrics noted more for beauty than for durability.

Evening gowns in the Paris collections are about equally divided between short and long skirts. The formal ball gowns are, of course, full length, but the youthful dance frocks are likely to be short and sweet.

Make-up, Jewels Join To Give You Sparkle

Not since Marco Polo ripped rubies, emeralds, diamonds and pearls from the seams of his clothes have gems—precious and otherwise—been such an important part of the costume.

Because of the dominance of this fall's massive Florentine settings and because the splendor of gems echoes the coming of a queen, jewelry can usually call the make-up cues.

This is particularly true, according to a Hollywood make-up expert, of new bit necklaces set with stones as multi-colored as the Aurora B's and of gem-studded chains, long enough to throw out as a lariat.

The only make-up accessory that can rise above this splendor, the expert says, is a lipstick color in such a clear, clear red that it becomes one of the great primary shades, and every jewel, including Queen Elizabeth's famous large drop earrings, has to bow to its brilliance.

This means, that no matter what colors the stones are in your jewelry, a clear, clear red lipstick can take them on.

But that's not so of eye make-up, says the make-up artist. It does well, he thinks, to take its cues from assertive jewelry colors. Take blue eyeshadow. "What better company could it be with than a huge cabochon-cut sapphire or turquoise?" he asks. "Or with a necklace of lapis beads, mixed in with your multiple-strands of pearls."

Citing another example—green eyeshadow—Factor says it looks like liquid emeralds or jade, so therefore its affinity with these jewels couldn't be closer.

Next, there's brown eyeshadow, waiting to be worn with the new season's brown or copper-toned jewelry. These are the pearls that look as though they were dipped in bronze. These are the earrings as coppery as kettles, and almost as large; and topaz bracelets and beads luminous as the eyes of your favorite cat. For such dazzlers, able to make a maharanees sigh, there is no better choice of an eyeshadow than brown.

And even if you never wore cheek rouge before, wear it now but wear it delicately, with pearls. It will do more to enhance the flash and intensity of a simple strand of pearls than a white satin display box will for Imperial pearls.

Antiques Can Be Used In Many Clever Ways

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Who would ever think of discarding an antique? No one would toss an old piece away, if it could be used in some way.

There still are antiques used for the purpose for which they were made, of course. A Windsor chair or bench may still be used for sitting; a Pennsylvania dower chest is still useful for storing blankets and a butterfly table may be lovely in a number of settings.

But many of the 500,000 antiques displayed by 125 dealers at the New York Antiques Fair (October 14 through 19) do double duty or take on a new life in a new home.

A wrought iron bird cage makes an excellent planter for indoor greenery. Iron stove finials, ironstone urns, huge blown glass jars and tole foot tubs may be used

Antique silver spoon warmers make charming centerpiece when filled with blossoms. An old wooden scoop may be filled with fruit and used for the same purpose. Another attractive table accessory is one of the large blown glass bells formerly used to cover massive cheese platters. These now are used over the Thanksgiving bird, a large ham or platter on the buffet table.

Many people use 18th Century bed steps as end tables. Bases of old coal stoves may be outfitted with marble to serve as coffee or cocktail tables. Marble-topped commodes and dry sinks are used as wine cabinets in many homes. A large china pitcher serves as a wine and champagne cooler.

Old tole bins become clothes hampers, toy storage bins, con-

Jersey Is High On 'Wanted' List Of Styles From Slacks To Formals

Wool jersey is walking off with fashion honors this season in everything from slacks to formal wear. This supple fabric with its superb draping or straight line qualities is a natural for interpreting that gracious, relaxed silhouette stemming from the designs of the incomparable Chanel.

Fluid, flexible with a cling where desired, it glorifies the figure that craves for the new look in dresses, suits, and separates, with sculptured lines that subtly hint at curves without constricting them.

New designs, textures and weights continue to widen the wardrobe versatility of wool jersey. The lightest chiffon textures make elegant cocktail dresses and blouses; the heaviest weights are handsome in coats and rainwear. Among the diversified texture and design treatments giving a new face to an old favorite are fine and heavy ribbing, tweedy patterns, plaids and stripes.

Because of the special affinity of the natural wool fiber to dyes, all wool jersey colors are true and beautiful and are matched to perfection with other fabrics. Of enormous appeal in the way this insulating fabric adapts itself to four-season-all-occasion wear. No fabric known today packs as well or shows so few wrinkles as wool jersey.

The dress and long coat ensemble, the dress with its own matching casual cardigan jacket, the new easy-line chemise, the Chanel-look suit, separates with a costume air, beautifully draped cocktail dresses, lithe and slim lounging slacks—all reflect the season's style highlights.

Wool jersey lingers happily at home or travels 'round the world with the most gentle manners. Millinery, too, goes in for wool jersey in a big way, especially in those soft and intricately manipulated tulip turbans.

The wool jersey trend has been a sell-out in the loungewear field with styles in abundance on brunch coats, lounging robes, and hostess gowns. For "curling up" at home, there is nothing that matches its superior habits—giving and taking, it flexes while you stretch or relax. There's never a worry about smoothing it carefully while you lounge, and it has that lovable way of emerging wrinkle-free and smooth at all times.

Plans December Wedding

The approaching marriage of Beverly Jane Meador and J. B. Riley Jr., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Meador of Coahoma. The wedding will take place at 7:30 p.m. on December 21 at the Methodist Church in Coahoma. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Riley of Burk Burnett are the parents of the prospective bridegroom. (Bradshaw Photo).

Denim For All

For work and play, blue jeans long have been popular with teenagers. Now the same rugged fabric, cotton denim, is being used in work and sports clothes for the entire family. For Mom, there are good looking culottes and wrap-around reversible skirts coordinated with bright cotton print blouses. Designed especially for Dad are new cuffless blue denim slacks and blue and white striped, neatly tailored jackets. There are even blue jeans with waterproof linings for the diaper set!

Check Fasteners

In buying cotton denim garments for work or play, check the fasteners. As a general rule, zippers, snaps, and buttons that are stamped with a name or emblem represent low-cost fasteners and may not give satisfactory service.

ers for kindling wood beside the fireplace. Victorian umbrella stands have just the right dimensions to hold fireplace tools.

The old Victorian wall hat rack becomes a hanger for guest towels in the bathroom. Some old articles such as cookie boards or potato mashers become kitchen wall decorations for a different look.

AP Women's Editor

Note to the State Department: If you really want to cement international good will and promote global understanding, just turn an American housewife loose with the housewives of all nations.

Agnes Reasor Olmstead of Atlanta, Ga., home economist and former television food editor, has just returned from a month at the International Trade Fair in Zagreb, Yugoslavia, as a representative of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

She presided at the exhibit of American appliances in the United States Pavilion, and demonstrated to wide-eyed Yugoslavs how Americans can take a cake mix out of a box, or produce a meal of frozen foods in five minutes flat, or cook in an electric oven with a glass door.

"I couldn't get rid of the crowds," says she. "They came and just stood and looked for hours. The women had never seen anything like our appliances and packaged foods. And the men were just as fascinated as the women."

The American exhibit at the Zagreb fair was sponsored jointly by the U.S. Department of Commerce and the National Assn. of Food Chains. In addition to automobiles, tractors, TV sets and household appliances, the exhibit included a complete replica of an American supermarket, source of unending wonder to the Zagreb residents.

"I couldn't speak Polish and they couldn't speak English," says Mrs. Olmstead, "but I found that when I started to bake a cake or cook a pudding, I needed no interpreter. When they saw me turning out marvelous foods with such speed and ease, they were flabbergasted.

"After some of the Yugoslav men had watched my cooking for a while, I got nine proposals of marriage."

Regulate Stitch

If you're sewing with new cotton knitted fabrics, be sure to reinforce underarm, shoulder, and waistline seams with matching bindings. Use a slightly longer than usual stitch on a straight sewing machine. On an automatic zigzag sewing machine, use a small zigzag stitch. In this way, the seam will have the same "give" as the fabric, and the sewing threads will not snap.

Inexpensive Glassware Can Give Pleasing Note

The wonderfully crowded counters of merchandise in your local variety stores make shopping an exciting venture but occasionally confusing.

However, today's modern manufacturing methods make it possible for inexpensive glassware to have great durability, and a few simple tips will help you select glass that is sturdy as well as beautiful.

Whether your choice is a practical water tumbler or a full set of tableware, the principles of careful buying are the same.

Here are ten tips to insure good quality when you buy glassware, no matter what the price:

1. Resist glass that will not blend with the rest of your tableware.
2. Avoid the over-decorated or the extravagantly colored piece.
3. Buy an extra glass when you buy a set. You may not be able to replace pieces from your set and you may discover an extra use for the glass you buy and then need more than you think.
4. Judge the shape of a glass by holding it against a dark background or against the sleeve of your coat.
5. Judge the clarity of glass by holding the piece up to the light. Check for bubbles or other imperfections. They will not weaken the glass but might interfere with the clear refraction of glass, and that is what makes glassware sparkle.
6. Don't be afraid to mix glassware if it is of different but harmonious design or color.
7. Heft the glass in your hand. It should feel well balanced.
8. Choose decorated glass carefully to go with your tableware and linen. An elaborate glass will be set off best by a plain cloth and tableware.
9. Learn to see more than one use for a piece of glass. A pitcher can be used effectively for flowers. A champagne glass is perfect for serving puddings.
10. Watch when your purchase is wrapped and see that the salesperson covers your glassware with enough paper to prevent breakage.

Remember when you're shopping that every home needs three glassware collections: one for cooking, one for serving and pieces such as ash trays, vases and candy dishes.

Give Dad A Bottle Of Pre-Electric
Shaving Lotion

A gift for Mr. Executive or Mr. Tycoon-to-be, is a pre-electric shave lotion (according to statistics, electric razors are out-buzzing the power saws in this country!)

Because there are so many, now on the market is a lotion to set up a beard for smoother shaving and for pampering a razor-burned skin. This lotion does these things for a man—and more. It also lubricates his razor's shaving head for a longer shaving life.

A suburbanite's growing need to groom himself in his office, after working hours—to shave, then to change to a dark suit, a fresh white shirt and a black tie—almost makes this new lotion a desk-drawer "must." But it also has an affinity for a man's toiletries chest at home. But when it takes up its abode there, the liquid line in the bottle is apt to go down faster, if there are lady shavers (of legs and under-arms, of course) in the family.

you'll say when you receive Lydia Lane's brand-new 12-page booklet called "Discover Your Type." Vital information on every phase of beauty is included. Jean Simmons, one of the book's contributors, talks about diet, fashion, exercise and glamour. Such top stars as Esther Williams, Jeanne Crain, Shirley MacLaine and Rosalind Russell report on the five "basic types." Photographs and autographs are also included. You'll receive your copy of "Discover Your Type" when you send fifteen cents (15c) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of the Big Spring Herald.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

It's Important That You Know Your Type

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—"I love slinky clothes, but unfortunately I'm not the type," Jean Simmons told me between scenes of her new picture at MGM. "Everything has to be designed simply for me. I look ridiculous in anything too extreme."

She looked so pretty in a coral cocktail dress that I told her so. Then I asked, "What type are you?"

"I'm afraid I'm stuck with being the 'jeune fille' (little girl) type. At least that is what Jimmy tells me (her husband Stewart Granger's real name is James Stewart), and he has very good taste. I'm so glad, because he goes shopping with me and keeps me from making mistakes."

"I sometimes see myself in very sophisticated outfits which Jimmy says overpower me. I really can't wear the clothes I admire."

"But you always look so charming," I assured her.

"Thank you," she replied, "but I wouldn't if I didn't choose my wardrobe carefully. I'm just over five-four, but because my bones are tiny I give the impression of being much smaller. With me, clothes have to be in one piece, so that the eye travels an unbroken line."

"A dress that is well-fitted without a belt is much more becoming to me. I've tried colored belts, but they cut me in half unless I have on a very full skirt."

"And I like full skirts. They are so comfortable. But a straight skirt does more for me."

"The length of my dresses makes a difference, too," Jean continued. "I wear all my skirts 14 inches from the floor. In heels, this hits me about the middle of the calf. There is talk every season about hemlines going up or down, but I never change mine. I think you have to take a stand with fashion and choose from it what fits your type."

"If I had my way," Jean admitted, "I'd wear nothing but black. But Jimmy prefers me in colors, and fortunately I can wear almost any shade. His favorites are blue and yellow."

"I adore jewelry," Jean exclaimed, "but I have to be so careful. If I wear earrings, I can't wear a necklace. I have to keep this simple, too. I'd love to wear rows of bracelets, but I look best in only one piece at a time."

"Accessories, when they are wrong, can take away from your appearance. I'm wearing brimmed hats in this picture and love them."

Rex (the designer) made them for me, and they really fit. I always feel uncomfortable in those little nothings that are called hats."

We chatted about Jean's little girl, Tracy. "I weighed less after she was born than I ever had. My doctor was very strict about my diet. I had an easy time, and getting my figure back was no problem."

"Very conscientiously," she admitted. "I worked every day on the routines he gave me. They help to tone your muscles and get everything back into place. They're quite necessary. I'm a great one for not doing today what can be done tomorrow, but I didn't procrastinate here."

Jean's skin is clear and lovely, and she has such thick, black lashes that she rarely wears any make-up, except a little lipstick.

"But when I'm going to a gala, I go all out and take about three hours to bathe, do my hair and nails and dress."

"As to a glamour make-up," Jean said, "I like to cream my face, then wash most of it off with cold water. I powder over what is left, then splash on water again and blot with tissue to take away that powdery look. This makes an excellent base to begin with."

HERE'S NEW BEAUTY BOOK
"It's the biggest beauty bargain of the year!" That's what

She Knows Her Type

Lovely Jean Simmons is the "little girl" type. She tells Lydia Lane that great care must be used by the small girl in selecting clothes and accessories. First announcement of Lydia Lane's new beauty booklet, called "Discover Your Type," is made today.

COVER-UP JACKET

Versatility Of Frock Depends On Fabric Used

Straight from the desk of Charles LeMaire comes the fashion write-up of this party dress with its deeply collared cover-up jacket.

For winter, he thinks it is best if the jacket is made of velvet with a skirt of light weight wool and a bodice of heavy lace. Color and use of contrast is up to you.

For resort and cruise wear, he likes linen, repeated as the finishing for the neckline and sleeves with the bodice in cotton lace.

The jacket, also in linen, takes a collar of lace.

From this chart select the one size best for you.

Size	Bust	Waist	Blaze	Neck	Length
10	34	24	35	16 1/2	38 1/2
12	36	26	36	17	39 1/2
14	38 1/2	28 1/2	37 1/2	17 1/2	40 1/2
16	40	30	38	18	41 1/2
18	42	32	39	18 1/2	42 1/2

Size 12 requires 2 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for jacket, 1 1/2 yards of 54-inch material for skirt and 1/2 yard of 39-inch material for cummerbund.

To order Pattern No. 1325, state size, send $1.00. For new Jumbo 96-page Pattern Booklet No. 14, send 50 cents.

For air mail service in U.S.A., add 25 cents per pattern, 50 cents per booklet. Sales tax extra.

Champion Designers Get Awards

Associated Press Women's Editor

Voted tops in American fashion this year are three designers who shared honors in the full-dress presentation of the Coty American Fashion Critics' Award at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Sydney Wragge, designer of ready-to-wear sports clothes and separates, and Miss Leslie Morris, custom designer for a New York specialty shop, each received "Winnie" trophies, while a special award of a silver plaque was made to Emeric Imre Partos, Hungarian-born fur designer.

As winners were announced by Eugenia Sheppard, women's editor of the New York Herald Tribune, the awards were presented by Grover A. Whalen, representing Coty, climaxing a fashion show of selected garments from previous award winners of the last 15 years before an audience of 700 invited guests.

Wragge, big, bluff and ruddy, looks more like a sportsman than a designer, and spends most of his spare time either sailing or golfing. A former men's shirtmaker, he started designing first shirts, then skirts for women, and continued to his present eminence.

Miss Morris is a Philadelphia socialite, wife of Ira Jewell Williams Jr., and a designer of made-to-order clothes for one of New York's top-bracket shops.

Special award winner Partos was born in Hungary, fought with the French army during the war and afterward worked with the French underground, working in the salon of Christian Dior after the liberation, before coming to New York.

Leather Goes To College

Along with raccoon coats and Bermuda shorts, leather coats and jackets in all colors blossom on college campuses this fall.

Now that new techniques of tanning and dyeing have made leather garments easily cleanable, girls have discovered they are among the most useful items of campus wear—at home with skirts or dresses, slacks or shorts.

A beige suede polo coat with a low back belt is proving one of the most popular styles with the campus crowd, clear across the country.

And for casual wear with either shorts or skirts there is a red kidskin shirt with a drawstring bottom and nailhead snaps.

In the high-style category is a white kid reversible car coat with detachable hood, with a bold red and black blanket lining in nylon fleece.

Half-Million Dollars In Furniture For Your Selection

Home Stores Can Suit Every Desire

Dining-Room Atmosphere Can Create Meal-Time Pleasure

If you were free to roam around a half-million dollars worth of home furnishing items, don't you think you could find the style, the quality and the price to suit your wishes? You had your opportunity to shop for furniture among nearly a thousand lines. Don't you believe you could find exactly what you want? You could consult with home furnishings people who attend 20 markets a year, and who have nearly 200 years experience in handling items for the home, don't you think these people could help you? You could range around nearly 500,000 square feet of floor space, just looking, testing, examining and pricing, don't you think you'd be happy with the selection of furniture occupying such space?

The answer is probably "yes," for Big Springers. In the composite, all these things are available to local people, right in their own furniture stores. Ten of the outstanding dealers in home furnishings are coordinating sales, display and advertising activities this week, to emphasize "Home Fashion Time."

To accentuate the variety in selection, quality and price available right at your doorstep, a survey of these stores was made. It shows some interesting facts:

1. The people who operate the furniture stores in Big Spring show an aggregate of 196 years in the trade. This means, simply, that they are people who know their business in buying merchandise that is suitable for West Texas, that meets the demands for traditional or contemporary, for top quality furniture or more modestly-priced lines.

2. Their experience in Big Spring alone totals 142 years. This means, again, that they know the local trends, the general styling in homes, in decoration, in what's suitable for this area.

3. They have a total of 51 employees. This means that there are in these stores, competent and courteous people who are ready, willing and able to assist every person in a full survey of all items on hand, to give full description of various pieces, to assist in planning home arrangement.

4. The floor space of all these stores amounts to a total of nearly 86,000 square feet. That's about the equivalent of 19 city blocks, which means there's a lot of space for display and customer convenience.

5. The number of lines carried, in the aggregate, is 942. This means, certainly, that practically every type of household item can be had through Big Spring stores. The lines range from the most exclusive, to the very practical—a range that fits every desire, every home plan, every pocketbook.

6. The number of special furniture markets attended by these store operators amounts to 20 per year.

This means that the Big Spring furniture man is up to date on the latest trends, the latest styling, the newest in construction and design, the most desirable in today's modern homes. He's "in touch" with what goes on today, in the field of home furnishing.

Some Tips On Buying A Rug

Shopping for a carpet or rug with the wealth of variety available today might seem confusing at first, but it need not be. Here are some tips for arriving at the right choice for your needs, tastes and pocketbook.

First, analyze your basic requirements and make a list. Do you want the carpet for an area with light or heavy traffic? How big is the area? Measure the width and length in feet. Does the room have a dominant decorating style? Is it a formal or casual room? What is the color in mind? Do you prefer a plain carpet, a gentle or bold pattern?

Keep an open mind on answers to the decorating questions until the second step—visit a dealer to see the carpet variety available. There are new colors and designs that may spark new thoughts on the way the room should look. A colorful carpet can be the foundation for the whole room color scheme.

Tell the dealer your practical needs and room measurements. He can best estimate the quality required for long-lasting service, advise you on construction and type of fiber, and figure the best value for your needs.

It is only good shopping to take advantage of a bargain. But there is no "bargain" if the carpet is of poor construction. A quality carpet or rug is a durable product and is built to serve a long time. Rely on a recognized brand name, and visit a responsible local dealer.

He offers many extra services. You may purchase the carpet over a period of time on an accredited payment plan, thereby allowing you to own a better quality. You may select the carpet right in your own home, and be sure that the color and texture blends with other furnishings—and be sure the whole family likes it too! It is easy to own and enjoy a carpet or rug.

Hexagonal Table

home furnishing. 7. And—most impressive of all, the retail inventory of these Big Spring stores amounts to $472,000. That means stocks on hand of variety, of choice selection, of quality plus price. It means a range that encompasses desires of the most demanding householder, whether you're "starting from scratch" in a new home, whether you're redoing most of your rooms, or whether you're just replacing some outworn and outmoded items, or adding to the layout of your rooms.

It means, actually, that the availability in home furnishings is as good in Big Spring as in any major market; that the trip to look at selections elsewhere is unnecessary because the same variety, the same quality, the same price range are available here.

To drive home this point, Big Spring stores this week are putting special emphasis on their variety of displays, in observance of "Home Fashion Time." Evening hours are being observed, and the family is invited to come into the local stores for a close examination.

It's a special week, designed to help every person interested in home improvement.

Always Popular

One of the many styles and periods of furniture on display at White's during Home Fashion Time. This three-piece Early American solid rock maple bedroom suite. It consists of a Mr. and Mrs. dresser with large mirror, distinctive bookcase bed and large eight-drawer chest with mirror... all with hand rubbed finish.

Dining-Room Atmosphere Can Create Meal-Time Pleasure

King Henry the Eighth was a man who really enjoyed his meals and he would enjoy them doubly as much in the lovely dining rooms of today. Designers of furniture understand that it is important to eat in pleasant, relaxed and comfortable surroundings. The dining room furniture they offer is designed to create just such an atmosphere.

There is furniture available for every type of dining room, whether it be full-scale or only a dining area. For dining areas, the furniture is lightly scaled, so that it does not appear to be out of proportion. Correlated collections of living-dining room furniture solve the problem of harmony in these cases, too.

Did you know that there is sectional furniture available for dining rooms? We ordinarily think of sectionals in terms of sofas but this word can apply to wooden furniture as well.

Sectional dining room furniture consists of chests which are the same height, but which may vary in width. You may use as many of these chests as you want or need in any number of arrangements along the walls. You might for instance, use chests on adjoining walls. A triangular china cabinet between them will help to turn the corner. The result is an attractive dining room with plenty of storage pieces, by the way, are an important part of your dining room. Be sure that they are spacious enough to hold your large trays and platters and odd-shaped serving pieces. Most buffets and-or china cabinets now contain a special drawer in which you can store your silver.

China cabinets or breakfronts often contain a fall-front desk. This is a wonderful extra feature, particularly if you do not have room in your home for a full-sized desk. The fall-front desk will be a spot where you can do your household accounts, catch up on correspondence, or where Dad can catch up with some of his office work. These tasks seem much more pleasant to do when you have a special place at which to do them.

A server is a useful piece in the dining room. It can act as a decorative and storage piece when not in use. The server will save you many steps when you are serving dinner in the dining room. Or casually entertaining in the living room as well.

Load the server in the kitchen and roll it into the dining room. Then you can join the family at the table and enjoy the meal with them. You will not have to be constantly getting up to bring in things. Then the server will allow you to clear the table in just one or two trips, too.

Many dining groups are now protected by special finishes which make the wood accident-proof. Beverages glass and hot dishes will not leave rings on the fine wood. A cigarette dropped carelessly on the table surface will not damage it at all. Light, surface scratches can be easily polished away.

Metal furniture eliminates a great deal of the care, too. The new metal furniture is beautifully styled and comes in coordinated groupings of table, chairs, buffet and china cabinet. A room can be decorated in a lovely and imaginative way by using this furniture.

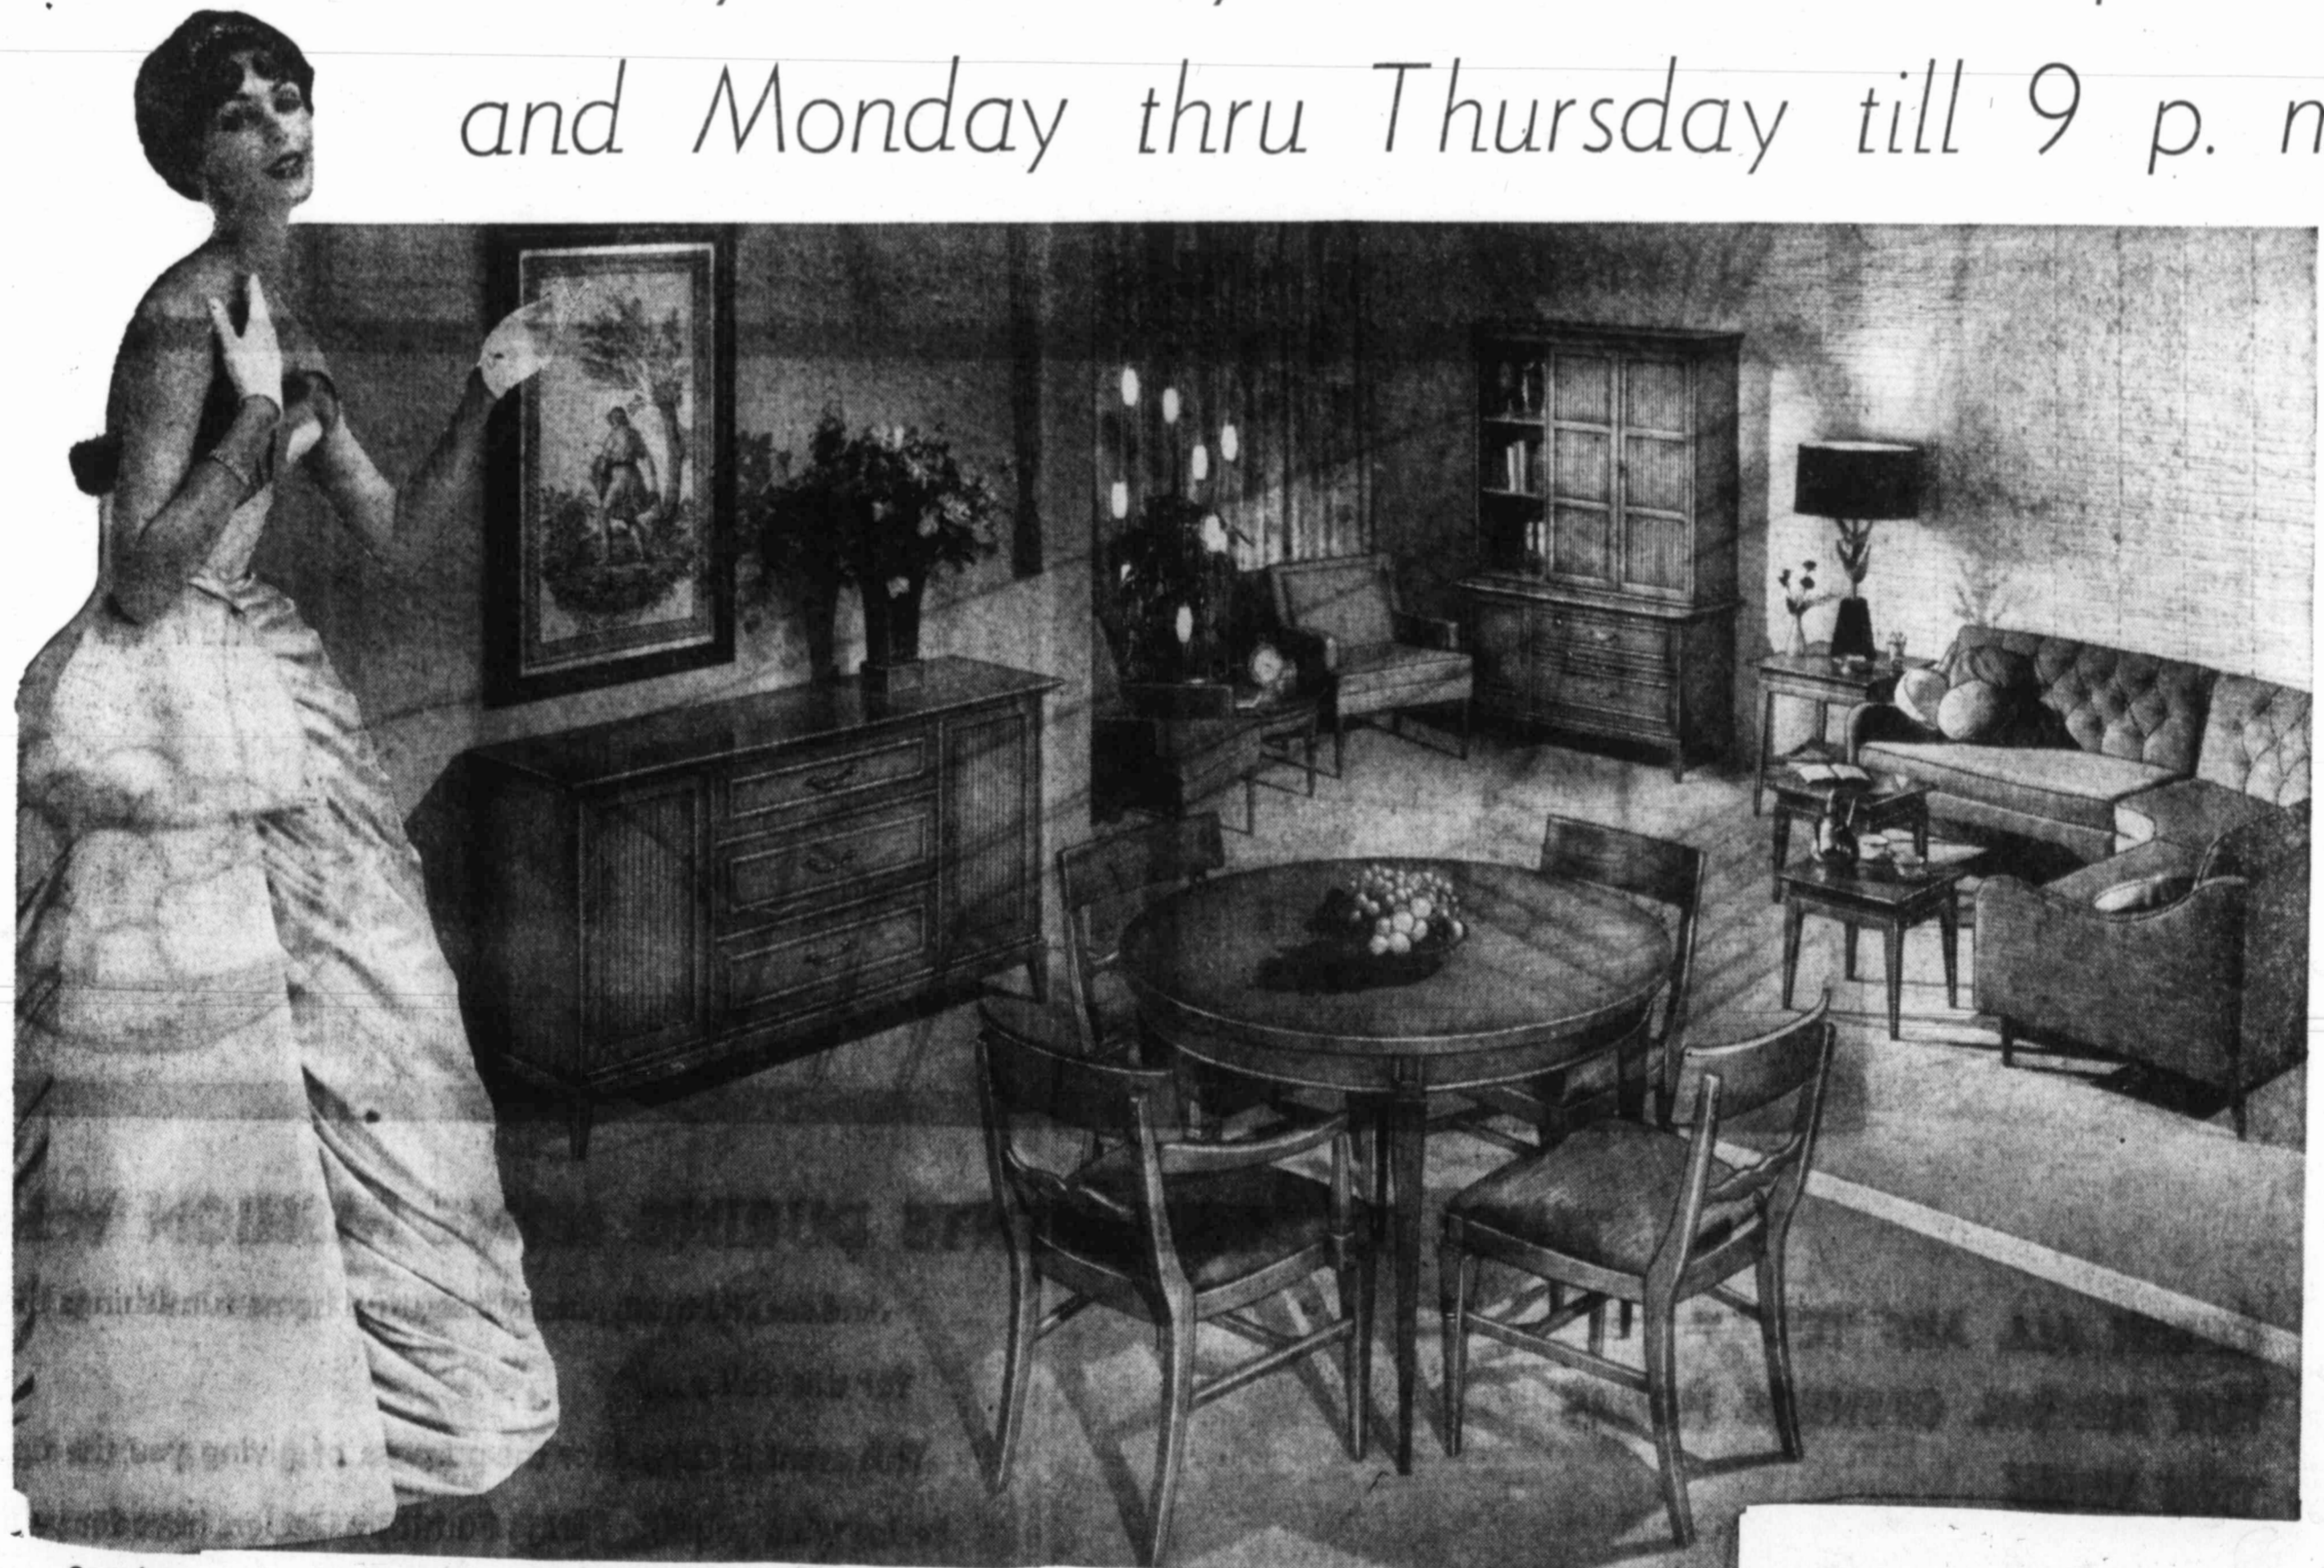

Walnut is a popular wood for the contemporary dining groups. It is available in every shade, ranging from a very pale scrubbed walnut up to the rich darker warm tones.

Convenience Is Key To Room Arrangement

Relax, madam, and make life easy for yourself. Arrange your home so that you can enjoy being with your family and entertaining guests.

Your dining room, particularly, should be arranged in the most convenient manner possible. Study the floor plan of the room and then place your furniture in the way that will save you the most steps and which will make serving a pleasure.

A storage piece, such as a buffet, should be placed as close to the kitchen door as possible. It will spare you from a great deal of running back and forth if your silver and china are stored there. When you need the serving pieces, they will be close at hand.

The buffet can also act as a serving area. You can bring your hot dishes in from the kitchen and place them all on the buffet (make sure it has a mar-proof surface or a glass-protected top, however). Then you can serve from the buffet and stay in the dining room with your guests, instead of dashing back and forth into the kitchen. In this day of casual entertaining, when so many meals are served buffet style, having this piece near the kitchen door is a wonderful convenience. Bring the food out from the kitchen, place it on the buffet, and you are ready to go.

Make sure that you have enough storage space in your dining room. Most buffets and china cabinets now come equipped with special silver drawers. There is even a new dining room table in which a silver storage drawer is concealed underneath the leaves.

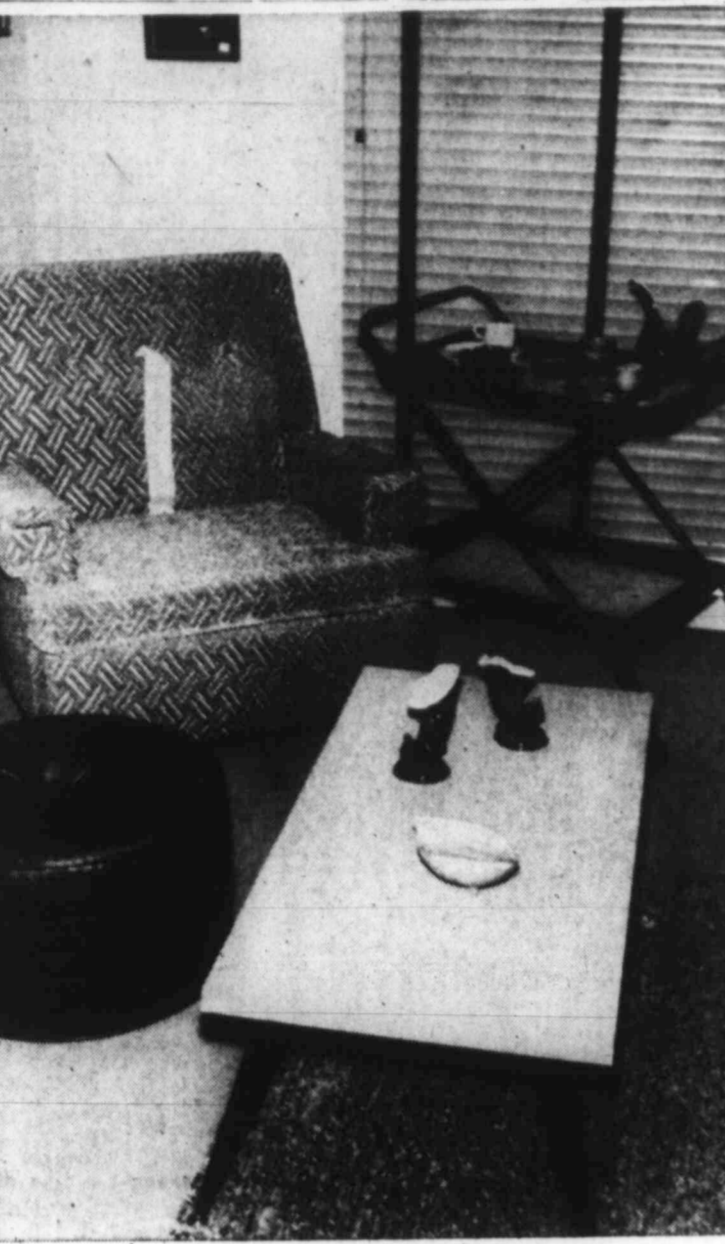

Be sure, however, that the cabinet is large enough to hold your bigger serving pieces, such as trays and platters. It is wonderful to be able to have a place for everything—and to have everything in its place.

Above all, make sure that your dining room is arranged in a manner that is convenient for you. No one plan can serve the purposes of everyone. It must be adapted to your way of living so that you can achieve relaxed entertaining in lovely surroundings.

Untimely Accident

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Truck driver Elmer Vargo, 30, picked a poor place to have an accident. Hit in the rear by another truck which was making a left turn, Vargo's truck hit a third truck and careened into the nearby Bay-view post of the Ohio State Highway Patrol. He was charged with failure to — yield the right-of-way.

To Brighten The Home

Furniture pieces to brighten any home where the owners are wanting to replace the old with the new, are these pictured, from Thompson Furniture. The attractive coffee table is of plastic finish lined oak, contrasting with black legs. The serving cart, a handy addition to any home, is of metal, folds for convenience, and is on rollers. A metal tray top sets it off. The chair featured here is a combination rocker and swivel, foam rubber filled, and of nylon upholstery in beige. It's the popular type of comfort chair for most homes.

Watermelon Patch Traps Jailbreakers

ROSHARON, Tex. (AP) — Wesley Stanford Emerson, 35, and Curtis Rogers Jr., 22, two convicts serving time for robbery, escaped from nearby Ramsey Prison Farm. Two nights later they were captured in a watermelon patch near here. They said they had stopped to raid the patch, and gorging themselves, they fell asleep.

Big Catch

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Bruce Clarkson of Toronto landed a fish nearly big as himself. He caught a 43-inch muskellunge weighing 27 pounds in Sturgeon Lake.

Skeleton In Closet Wasn't Fanciful

GUTHRIE, Okla. (AP) — C. C. Pike was checking a building he had just purchased and was startled when he opened a closet door and found a skeleton. Pike checked with authorities and found that a doctor formerly had his offices in the building. Apparently the skeleton was used for experimental work.

Caribou Herds

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP) — Caribou population in Newfoundland is estimated at 6,500 by the provincial government. About 300 are taken by licensed hunters each year in a season opening in September.

New Home Furnishings Are Elegant, Gracious

Live in luxury and love it—in a luxury that reflects your personality, your tastes, your way of living. Combine the feeling of having roots, of belonging, that gracious traditional styles give you, with the sleek exciting designs of today, and you have achieved the new American look. This look is a blending, a softening, of the stark contemporary designs of a few years ago, with the richness and elegance of yesterday. Your home should always show the personal likes of your family—never appear as a stage setting.

The new American look draws from the rich softness of all the world, just as we ourselves share in the culture of other countries through our ancestors. But these source designs have been softened, adapted, changed to our own 1957 way of living. Sturdy Colonial, so popular today, fills the need of strong, crafted appearance. Together with the casual way of life so many of us lead. Eighteenth Century traditional and the more ornate Provincial designs give us the romantic look along with the practical finishes and engineering of contemporary science.

Modern styling is not only using the inspiration of Scandinavian, Italian, French and Oriental designers, but is becoming a beautiful blending of ornament and fine detail. All of these, of whatever inspiration or period, have been adapted in size and utility to the modern American home.

Designers today are striving for richness in the furniture they produce. As one designer expressed it, "We are fundamentally a romantic people, and our homes should reveal that. We do not have to settle for one dominant look. This creates monotony."

Just as the new look in decorating combines periods and styles, so does the new look in individual pieces represent a bringing together of the best of today and yesterday. This look of elegance and richness is being achieved in a number of ways.

Designers are producing wood pieces that depend on the beauty of the wood grain and its own soft lovely color for a dramatic effect. Careful placement of veneers is creating exciting patterns on table tops and fronts of chests. Drawer pulls are used for decoration, too. They are made of gleaming metal, or of matching or contrasting wood—with ceramic pulls adding a touch of color, unexpectedly and beautifully.

Decorations which are applied directly to the furniture are becoming increasingly important. One large new collection features silk screen printing of Mexican motifs in green on a sand-finished walnut. In provincial furniture, entire pieces may be painted, or the legs of a dining table may be painted to contrast with a wood top. Tiles are used to create interest and to bring color to table tops, either completely covered with tiles, or scattered about the surface to create a pattern.

The trend in furniture design, in recent years, has been towards correlated collections of pieces made to go with each other. The new "blending" look, with its added decoration, has eliminated the monotony which was once the danger in these correlated groups. Now, several pieces of a group may contain design features which are not found in other pieces, offering variety and interest.

For example, a chest may have some brass trim which is not seen at all in other pieces in the group. Or the shaping of hardware may differ from piece to piece, such as round drawer pulls on a chest and oblong pulls on a table drawer.

Textures bring interest to home furnishings, too. Many chests feature panels which are reversible.

He's In Such A Rush, You'd Best Send A Saucer

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M. (AP) — A space-minded youngster in Australia says he is willing to let scientists at this missile base in on his space travel secrets.

Young Garry Jack makes the announcement in an urgent note air-mailed from his home in New South Wales and addressed to "Person in Charge, White Sands." "I've read one of Walt Disney's comics," Garry wrote, "and things you plan to do are silly. I could give you a plan that would take you hundreds of years to find out."

"One of my plans is a flying saucer. If you are interested, write me and tell me when you are going to send a fast plane to take me to your headquarters . . . and hurry!"

Foots Facts

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — After a year-long study of walking habits, Dr. Willard C. Myser and Dr. James C. Haub of Ohio State University's zoology and entomology department reported to an Ohio Academy of Science meeting here: Males walk faster than females by taking longer strides; to walk faster, people take longer rather than faster steps; people walk faster when the temperature is lower.

Dining Rooms Enhanced With Use Of A Carpet

Candles aren't put on dining tables by chance. They help create a mood of elegance and relaxation, that makes for calmer and healthier eating.

In the same way, carpet in the dining room provides a sense of luxury at mealtime. It quiets the shuffle of feet, the scraping of chairs, so that pleasant conversation can continue in normal tones over the bustle of serving.

A favorite color or interesting texture in carpet brings visual pleasure in this room—that should be enjoyed. After many years of building houses without dining rooms, American families discovered they were missing the important ritual of mealtime together. The dining room is back to stay. A good choice in carpet or rug for a dining room is a gentle pattern or texture that disguises signs of crumbs until clean-up time is convenient. Actually, this room can take a bold and lively pattern, if you wish to be daring in decoration, because it is not lived in constantly.

If the room serves double duty, such as for TV or sewing, the practical pattern is the answer here, too.

In The Family

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An excited man called police to report that his car had been stolen and he thought he saw the culprit driving it south toward nearby Norman. Norman police were alerted, and they picked up the car. The driver was the man's wife.

BRONZE OR CHROME

Popularity Of Solid Maple

Always a favorite, solid maple from the Cloud line is featured at Wasson & Trantham. The bedroom suite pictured here shows a "Mr. and Mrs." dresser with roomy drawer space; a chest-on-chest for attractive design and more storage; night stand; and bed, which can be had with panel or bookcase headboard. Drawer pulls are of copper, and the mirror (either attached or detached) is copper coated. This is an authentic early-American styling, and is of genuine solid maple. The Cloud line offers this maple in suites for every room in the house.

Dress Up Your Home For Comfort, Beauty

A shabby worn-out dress in your wardrobe is quickly placed in the "to-be-discarded" pile. Do you pay the same attention to your furniture, as you do to your wardrobe? You want your home to reflect you, the kind of person you are, the type of life you live. You want it to create the best impression possible.

The furnishings in your home have undoubtedly received a great deal of wear since you first purchased them. The nicks and scratches and tears which were placed on the furniture by your children may bring back sentimental memories to you, but they do not have that same effect upon your guests. Take a look around your home. Perhaps it is time for a change.

It isn't necessary to entirely re-furnish a home in order to give it a new look. A few new pieces will work wonders to create an air of freshness. Examine your furnishings with a cold, unprejudiced eye and decide what needs replacement. You will be amazed at the change that just a few new touches can bring.

Don't feel that you must either re-furnish completely or do nothing at all. Probably several of your old pieces are still in good condition. And they will live very well with the new furniture you buy.

As a matter of fact, your old pieces and your new furniture will complement each other. Lovely, old furniture—in good condition—takes the "newness" out of new pieces and lends a softness and mellowness to the room. In a reverse manner, new pieces will brighten up the older furniture in your home.

Probably your sofa is in dire need of replacement. Your children bounced on it when they were very young and sprawled all over it when they were teen-agers. And in the past few years, you have spent a great deal of time on it while watching television. It has given you good service, but you

Unify Colors In Your Dining Room

Consider the time of day when your dining room is usually in use when you come to furnishing and decorating. If you have adequate eating area in the kitchen, or a breakfast room, chances are that the dining room itself is used mostly at dusk or after dark.

You are trying to achieve a feeling of relaxation combined with enough excitement to stimulate conversation. This would ordinarily mean soft background colors, with perhaps one or two bright accents. But artificial light is softer, less brilliant than that which comes in from the outdoors. And you probably prefer the more intimate lighting of indirect lamps or candles, anyway.

have noticed that it is just not as comfortable as it used to be and that it really looks quite shabby. You would be much wiser to replace it with a new one than to consider repairing it. Actually, it would probably be far less expensive to buy a new sofa.

You will find many more conveniences in today's new furniture, too. Fabrics on upholstery are spill and dirt-proof. Wood tops on tables and chests are, in many cases, protected by a special finish which prevents staining and accidental burning. The new furniture will relieve you of many worries.

Old furniture doesn't flatter you. It does not provide you with the kind of background in which you should live. Be sure your home furnishings are as up-to-date as you are. New furniture will make many wonderful memories—look years younger.

Before arranging your furniture, study the traffic pattern through the room. Be sure to leave often-traveled paths clear of furniture so that your living room does not become an obstacle course. Don't forget, too, to leave enough leg room between the sofa and the coffee table which stands in front of it.

With a little careful planning, your living room will be the kind of room you really want it to be—an attractive room that is warm and inviting and which offers a great deal of comfort to your family and your guests.

Put Harmony In The Home Color Scheme

Start your color planning for the whole house in the living room—then translate the scheme into a variety of ideas for other rooms in the house.

The basis for your color plan might be a new carpet or rug—either in a plain color that you are fond of, or one of the new textures or other designs. Select a blending shade for the walls, then one or two other colors for contrast on upholstered furniture.

If you use the same basic colors throughout the house, you can have variety and unity at the same time. The actual colors and their brightness or dullness will depend on the room where they are to be used.

For example, perhaps your living room has an aqua carpet with medium beige walls, brown and bittersweet upholstery, and white lamps. In a smaller, darker bedroom, you might use white walls, bittersweet, a carpet, a striped spread of bittersweet, aqua and beige. A tiny slipper chair could be covered in a print with a white background and an aqua pattern. The bedroom scheme would suit the room perfectly, be completely individual, yet tie in with the living room, and give your home a well-planned look.

Don't forget the importance of the wood tones in your decorating. A large area of every room is usually in wood, and this should be a part of the over-all plan. These wood tones can be used to give a substantial look to an otherwise pale scheme, if you use the dark finishes. Or you can accent a dark color scheme with a pale, light finish. Painted wood can offer a brilliant note of color.

When you are decorating your bedroom, consider the warmth of the wood furniture you use. If the room itself has a warm exposure, you will probably want to cool it off by using a cool-looking carpet and woods on the grayed side. Brighter color can accent these large areas when used on slipper chairs, in lamps, and in the bedspreads.

The trend in the past few years has been to neutral tones for wall colors, with the rugs and spreads affording the brighter colors. Particularly popular recently has been the use of white walls, which gives a clean and larger look to any room, and can be used with any other colors.

The deeper, stronger tones of blues and greens are coming back into high fashion, and you can expect to see them this fall. If you do plan your rooms with these darker background colors, you will probably prefer lighter, clearer colors in your upholstery fabrics, and in the wood tones of your tables and chairs.

'Invitation' Grouping

An "invitation" grouping from the Broyhill line is among the fine displays of home furnishings to be found in Big Spring, this being on display at the Good Housekeeping Shop. The suite is of cherry wood, in umbrine shade, for distinguished, quiet beauty. Featured are the drop-leaf table, hutch (in background), and aristocratic drop-leaf serving table. The caneback chairs of modern line have seats of cotton rayon, in persimmon color. Thirty-seven pieces are offered in the line for correlated groupings to suit the householder.

Arrange Dressing Area In Bedroom

Even if yours is a small bedroom, you can still arrange for a separate dressing area if you wish. It will leave the bedroom area clean and uncluttered, more restful and refreshing.

If you need a large amount of storage space, curtain off one side of the room with a translucent drapery on a ceiling traverse track. In that area, place your chests and dressers, with convenient chairs for dressing. The rest of the bedroom can be devoted to the sleeping area—the bed, lamp tables and so on. You'll get an added feeling of space, even though you have actually divided the room.

If you are lucky enough to have a separate dressing area, do treat it as decoratively as you do the actual bedroom. Relate the style of your furnishings—perhaps use similar chests in both areas. Identical mirrors will give unity, too, as well as make the rooms seem larger.

Striking Effect With A Screen

An exciting accent piece is a new screen, available in any number of sections, which has a walnut and ebony frame enclosing a new translucent plastic panel. The panel material consists of a double sheet of thin fiberglass with a colorful and intricately designed fretwork of the same material sandwiched between. The effect is striking.

Attractive Dinette Suite

The dinette grouping, so popular in today's modern homes, is strikingly presented in this merchandise offered at Wheat's. The Formica top table is in a yellow shade, with decorator legs of black tubing. Chairs, matching the table top, are of fabric base plastic. All these pieces have adjustable contour tips on the legs, for leveling, and for protection of floors and carpet. Other items, nearly always on the home shopper's list are the Cosco utility table and the Cosco step stool, available in a variety of colors.

Family Room Can Be Made Into Place Of Pleasure

Doing things together brings a family closer to each other. It is very fine if one room in your house can be set aside as a family room where all members of the family can gather to enjoy their hobbies and to be comfortable.

The family room can be more than just an extra room in the house. It should be furnished comfortably and with durable furnishings so that everyone can enjoy using the room without worrying about marring the furniture.

Perfect for family rooms are sofas covered with soil resistant fabrics. These fabrics are treated to resist dirt and stains. Spills can be quickly and easily wiped away without leaving any trace.

Wooden furniture for this room, too, should have marproof tops. Children cannot enjoy the family room if they are constantly told to beware of scratching the furniture. The new abuse-resistant tops are given a special finish which makes them impervious to spills, scratches, stains, and cigarette burns.

Your family room as well as the rest of your house, should be furnished in accordance with your family's likes and dislikes, and to suit their particular interests and hobbies. It can be the room where you have your television set and your phonograph. There should be storage room for books and games. A game table should be included for the family bridge, scrabble or monopoly tournament.

The key word for this room should be comfort. It should be a room in which the entire family can relax and in which they can enjoy being together. Enough room should be allotted to each person in the family so that everyone will have their own particular corner for pursuing his hobby. And they can share their interest with each other.

The family room can serve another purpose, too. It will give the teenagers in the family a good place to entertain their young friends. Also, it will give the teenagers a spot in which to entertain themselves when adults have guests in the more formal living room.

Dual Purpose Furniture Useful And Economical

With space so much at a premium in today's homes, it is a wise homemaker who buys her home furnishings with an eye to more than one use.

Sofas which convert into beds are the most obvious piece of dual-purpose furniture. Today's sleeper sofas are a far cry from the bulky, hard-to-manage sofa beds of the past. They are now as slim and as smart in styling as conventional sofas.

Sofa beds are available in almost any kind of styling which you can imagine. They may be modern or traditional in design. The sofas in modern styling may stand on slim legs, giving them a floating appearance, and eliminating any look of boxiness. The development of new opening mechanisms permits the design of a much slimmer profile.

A new sofa bed in Early American design is particularly attractive. It solves the problem for rooms which are decorated in Early American and in which a contemporary sofa bed just would not fit. This sofa has the traditional wing back and may be covered in a suitable fabric, with an Early American feeling. A matching wing chair is also available.

Though you may not think of serving carts as dual purpose furniture, they actually can fall into this category. They can act as a decorative and storage piece in a room when they are not in use.

Table-benches, too, are useful pieces which serve more than one function. These can be the long low benches which serve as tables and which, with the addition of a flat cushion, make excellent seating pieces. Also attractive are small square tables which are seats when a small cushion is placed on top of them.

Fall-front desks are useful, too. They take up no extra room, yet provide a separate area for going over the household accounts, letter-writing, or for Dad to finish up work which he has brought home from the office.

Relax In Style Plus Comfort

Furniture manufacturers are very anxious to keep peace in the family. A number have recently come out with groupings which they call "Mr. and Mrs. Chairs."

These chairs are comfortable, roomy ones which are deliberately scaled to fit either the Mr. or the Mrs. of the family. The Mr. Chair normally has a higher back and deeper seat to accommodate the taller member of the family; the Mrs. Chair is smaller in scale to ensure the comfort of the lady of the house.

These groups of chairs are usually accompanied by an ottoman—and this just might cause an argument. The wise thing would be to buy two of them and be on the safe side.

While investigating the subject of reclining chairs, be sure to look at the new reclining chairs on the market. A revolution has recently taken place in this group of furniture.

Reclining chairs are no longer unsightly, bulky things which you bought because they were wonderfully comfortable, but which you consigned to a dark corner of the house. Today's recliners are styled as trimly and as attractively as any other furniture.

One new reclining chair is even available in Early American styling. It has the traditional wing back and is covered in an attractive print fabric. Yet this chair, which looks neat and trim, has all of the features of a recliner.

Reclining chairs are available in many kinds of styling and in the same variety of fabrics you will find in conventional upholstered furniture. Treat yourself to comfort. Try a reclining chair on for size—you'll love it.

Comfort In Bedroom Requires Planning

Your bedroom should provide you with the ultimate in comfort. If it does not do that, it is not serving its purpose. If your bedroom furnishings have seen many years of service, it is time to replace them. You just cannot be at your best during the day when you have not had a good night's rest.

Whether your bed is king size, standard or twin size and whether you are heavy or slim, the mattress and springs can live only so long before showing signs of age. The result will be a backache for you due to improper support while sleeping.

The rest of your bedroom furnishings should be comfortable, too. They should provide you with the proper amount of storage space. Things should be within convenient reach. The furniture in the room should be designed to create a restful atmosphere.

When you are furnishing your bedroom, be sure that you have the proper pieces. It is important to have night stands, with lamps, on both sides of the bed so that there is sufficient light for both husband and wife to read their current novel or newspaper.

Children's rooms should be designed to grow with them. There should be space for study and space for play. And do not relegate cast-off furniture to the children's room. It is important for them to have a room of which they can be proud. They will bring their friends to it. If they are proud of the way their room is furnished, it will be an extra inducement for them to take care of the furniture and to keep the room neat.

Carpeting is a wise choice for bedrooms. It will provide a warm floor surface and give a lush atmosphere to the room. Then, too, it will absorb sound so that noises will not disturb other sleeping members of the household.

Stairs Safer With Carpets

Of all floor areas in a house, a stairway is the noisiest. The sheer weight of walking—or hopping, skipping or jumping, as children will do—makes clatter. Taken in the total of a day, this kind of noise can set nerves on edge.

Let carpet on your stairways guard your health, both for safety and the diminution of noise. It has always been known that carpet quiets a room, but recent scientific studies have revealed just how much carpet contributes to noise reduction, in terms of decibels. It equals other standard acoustic materials, created purely for the purpose of quelling sound. But carpet adds so much more.

It gives beauty in color and pattern to the entrance-hall, and welcomes guest or family to the second floor. It guarantees the sure-footed step, and cushions the bump should accidents happen.

Chair Arms Can Support Trays

Hostess trays which attach to the arms of a group of chairs and act as tables are an innovation on the style scene. The fruitwood arms of the chairs serve not only as style notes but perform a definite function—that of supporting the matching woodgrain thermoset plastic hostess trays which double as tables when slipped over the turnings of adjacent chairs. The chairs may be set tete a tete or facing in the same direction.

A Sofa At Its Finest

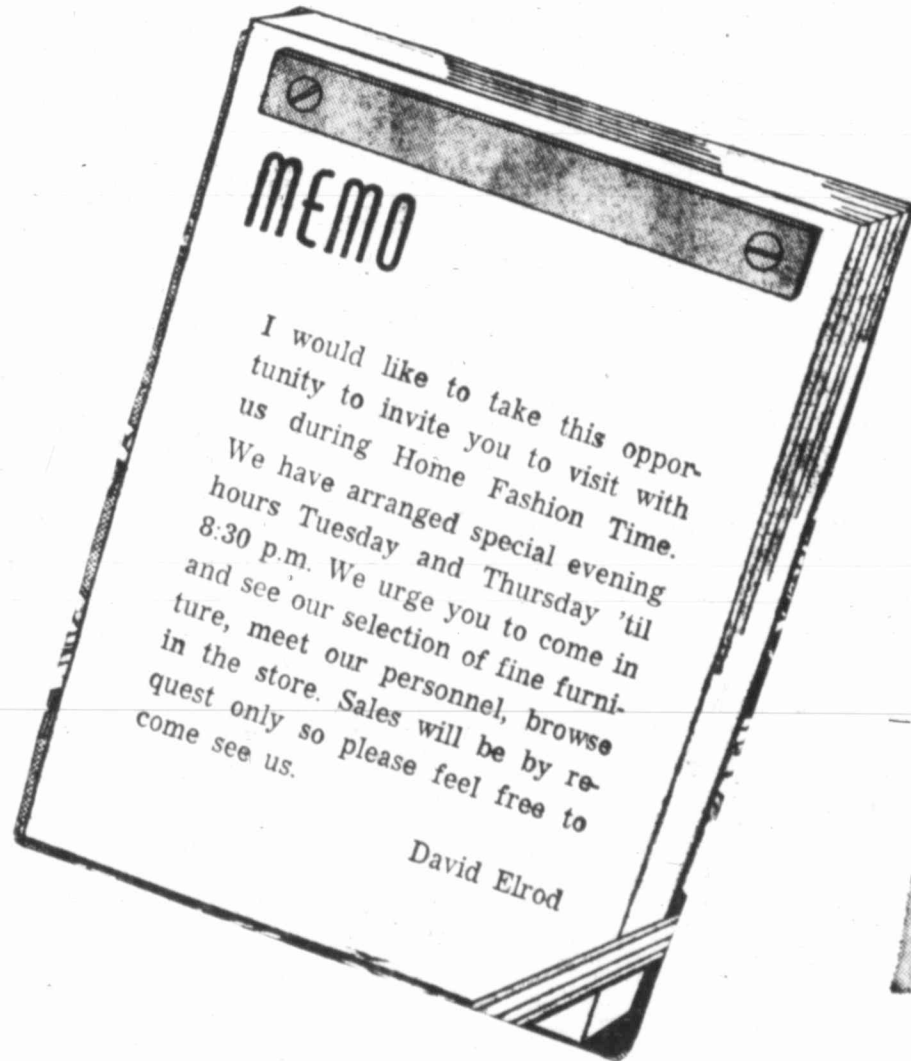

Sample of outstanding home furnishing items to be found in Big Spring stores is this lovely Central sofa. It embodies a hand-made back over an eight-way hand-tied coil spring base which is completely webbed and filled with the luxury cushioning of pure down and springs. This sofa is one of many in modern, traditional, provincial and contemporary styling shown at Elrod's.

Color Unlimited

favorite, with many variations. New tones have a rosy cast. New accents are tangerine and gold. For more sophisticated settings, members, like powder blue and periwinkle. Aqua, a steady favorite, is more on the blue side. The choice of color in carpet is exciting and unlimited.

Brocatelle Covering Featured

At Brooks Town & Country is to be seen a special living room grouping, featuring sofa and chair in brocatelle covering. This is a period design by Lobe. The sofa is in a cinnamon brown, the chair in aqua, and the whole achieves an air of elegance. The Duncan Phyfe drop coffee table is by Artline. In solid mahogany with leather inlaid top, and the drum table top matches it.

Storage Units Are Flexible And Useful

New storage units are engineered with a feeling for the individual needs of the person who will be using them. Drawers are deep enough for piles of shirts, or shallow enough for lingerie. Some new pieces have cabinet units, with sliding shelves—ideal for storage of sweaters, blouses, shirts, scarves, and so on. Sizes are almost unlimited, from the big Mr. and Mrs. chests, which furnish the whole side of a small room, to individual chests for special storage. You'll find that even a small room looks larger when you use one or two good sized pieces, rather than odds and ends of small ones. Many of the chests and dressers available are from groupings which are designed to fit together, giving the look of big pieces. You can make your own "storage" walls, fitted to your exact needs, by selecting the individual pieces that will serve your purposes, using them together as one big unit. The mixing of styles and periods is the newest decorating theme. Just be sure that you use informal pieces together in a casual room, formal styles together in a more elegant setting. You'll find the results usually more pleasing if you use one style in about two-thirds of the room, letting the others serve as accents. If yours is a temporary home, or you plan to buy a bigger home as your family increases, consider the many uses of good storage pieces. A chest may begin its life in your bedroom, go on to serve as a buffet or for linen storage in the dining room, or as a beautiful ac-

Outstanding In Eye Appeal

Outstanding in novel appeal is this sofa and chair combination of Danish modern design, covered in white plastic. Button-down cushions are upholstered with rubberized hair. The step coffee table, for contrast, is in black, with Formica top, and the step tables for lamps are of matching construction and design. Black and red throw pillows set off the eye appeal for this arrangement, shown at Carter Furniture.

Home Should Put Best Foot Forward

More and more these days, entertaining is being done at home. When your guests arrive, does your living room put its best foot forward? It should. Your guests can quickly see, by the way you live, what kind of person you are. In these days of television viewing, your living room receives much more abuse than it used to. It is no longer the formal "guest parlor." It is clearly what its name implies—a room to be lived in. And it probably shows the effects of having been lived in. Hours of sitting and watching television have probably taken a toll on your sofa and chairs. The cushions may be sagging and the upholstery may be quite frayed. And perhaps you can even see a path worn in the carpet between the sofa and the television set. Remember all the times you walk back and forth to change channels. Tables, too, may be the worse for TV wear. You've used them for serving quick snacks while watching a favorite program. Stains, cigarette burns and rings from beverage glasses do not present an attractive appearance. It doesn't take much to spruce up your living room and give it a bright, fresh look. Examine your way of living and replace the things which have had too much wear with new things which will fill your needs. New tables will do a great deal to freshen the appearance of your living room. And when you buy them, invest also in a set of small snack tables with mar-proof tops. These tables fold compactly out of the way when not in use and can be stored easily. They will save a great deal of wear and tear on your living room tables, if you use the snack tables for serving informally when you have a few casual guests or when you are watching television. A sofa, too, is a wise investment.

It will repay you with many hours of beauty and added comfort. Long hours of watching television may leave you with a backache if you are sitting on a sofa which has lost its spring and is no longer comfortable.

If you do much entertaining, a service cart will save you many steps. It can be a handsome decorative piece against a wall when you are not using it. And, when you have guests, you can load the cart in the kitchen and roll it into the living room for serving.

Take a look around your living room. Just a few little touches are probably all it needs to offer the comfort plus beauty you want.

MEADOW VALLEY, Calif.—Who said prices were cheaper in the old days? Ponder these: Peaches, $2 a jar; flour, $9 for 50 pounds; bacon, $1, a pound. That's what gold miners who traded at the Meadow Ranch store in this Sierra community paid in 1853. The prices are shown in store accounts passed down by early-day merchant, Wilson Deane. As the story goes, the miners considered these prices reasonable as everything was brought in by mule pack train, often the last leg of a journey that began by ship out of New York.

Children Benefit From Carpeting

No one knows more about a floor than a baby or small child. If asked his opinion, he would cry for a carpet or rug to keep his world warm and soft. And if he cried long enough, Mother would ask for carpet just because of its ability to quiet the sounds of clanking, rolling toys, peg hammers or what have you. There are many kinds of carpet suitable for nurseries and playrooms—today—with new stain-resistant qualities that ignore accidents. There are soft weaves for the crawler, and tough weaves for the booted set. Colors, that so delight a child, are unlimited, from baby pastels to bright red. A good choice is a tweed-of-many-colors, because it lasts through the several generations of childhood. See, too, the rugs with designs especially for children—of all ages. They make excellent Christmas presents.

Off Course

SHORT PUMP, Va.—A flamingo, which should have been flitting about palm trees and sandy tropical areas, turned up in a pond with three domestic ducks here. The three-and-a-half foot tall bird drew the attention of the Virginia Game Commission. Commission experts said it wasn't impossible for the bird to fly to Virginia but highly improbable, and expressed the view that it had escaped from a bird dealer.

Queen's Not Likely To Join U.S. Critics

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

It is probably safe to suppose that Queen Elizabeth will not write a travel book about her American tour after she returns to England. Although it might be jolly good fun, she's too amiable and well-bred to give it the traditional treatment: Acid-dipped fingers pointing with cousinly condescension at the quaint and overheated American scene. She will, however, enjoy the standard length of time required for the usual penetrating analysis of American character. She will be in this country an entire week—meeting people from all walks of life, from the President down to mere socialites. Nevertheless, a deterrent to such royal recollections is the fact that there's practically nothing left for the British traveler to say of America that hasn't already been said. Except pleasant things, but they make for such dull reading.

Poking fun at Americans—often in the highest good humor—has long been a favorite English pastime. On occasion it even has shown signs of replacing cricket, which itself is a successor to bear baiting as a popular sport. It's a democratic game which anyone can play. And it's made especially easy because almost the same language is spoken in both countries. The ground rules were laid 125 years ago by an English visitor named Mrs. Frances Trollope. She was not the first to exorcise in print, but possibly the most famous. With her gossipy and vitriolic best-seller, "Domestic Manners of the Americans," a sort of 19th Century non-fiction "Peyton Place," Mrs. Trollope almost overnight became the most widely read writer on both sides of the Atlantic—and the most hated in America. Since those days the national hide has toughened. Now Americans are next door to amused when they read, for example, the latest observations of touring British newsmen—of whom there seems always to be at least one out in the field. Keith Waterhouse, one mass observer for the London Daily Mirror, returned to the Isle of Sanity and Sensibility to complain of America's unpunctual bus service, unappetizing cafes and atrocious manners. The American institution almost unanimously admired by its visitors was Niagara Falls. Charles Dickens called it, "an image of beauty." But Oscar Wilde, coming along in 1882, saved the day with: "I was disappointed with Niagara. Most people must be disappointed with Niagara. Every American bride is taken there, and the sight of the stupendous waterfall must be one of the earliest, if not the keenest, disappointments in American married life." The dandified poet with long hair and lacy cuffs took in the view while on a cross-country lecture tour. Later he wrote: "As for art, Americans were Philistines. When I was in America, I did not dare to tell Americans the truth; but I saw it ever then—that the discovery of America was the beginning of the death of art."

Through Turkey's ties with the Atlantic Pact and America have not been seriously questioned by any candidate, the vote is nevertheless one of the most severe tests of friendship with the West any county has faced. The Turkish voter—for all his fighting reputation—would have to be deaf not to hear the provocations aimed his way. There is shouting on his southern border, where Syrian guards are brandishing newly acquired Russian arms. There is shouting from the overpowering North, where Nikita Khrushchev keeps warning Turkey—under threat of missile attack—not to take arms against Syria. The things the Turk has in his favor are important too. The U.S. 6th Fleet, and hence U.S. military aid, is close by. Turkey's strategic position is historically important and her grip on the Dardanelles keeps the great part of Russian Black Sea naval strength out of the Mediterranean. In addition, the Turk has a ferocious men and earned his most recent battle respect as the screaming, ear-battering warrior of the Korean War. Turks are concerned with four burning domestic issues that could determine the course of Turkish democracy and hence the stability of Turkey herself. First, there is Premier Adnan Menderes himself. This tough, dynamic man has been overwhelmingly the most important force in Turkish affairs for seven years. Now 58, he is still dark-haired and amazingly vigorous. He became premier in the Democrat landslide of 1950 and was re-elected in 1954. Second, there are very serious shortages of consumer goods and some industries. Third, inflation is squeezing the economy. Statistics are unreliable here, but by various estimates the cost of living has risen 16.7 per cent or as much as 33 per cent in the past year.

ISTANBUL, Oct. 19 (AP)—Flanked on the northeast by Russian soldiers and on the southeast by Syrian soldiers with Russian guns, the Turkish voter plods to the polls next Sunday in elections marking a major crossroads in Turkey's history as a republic. To the West, long used to the unwavering friendship of its strategically placed Middle Eastern ally, the Oct. 27 balloting has a hidden significance. Modern Lines For Modern Homes

Comfort in the modern design is demonstrated in this living room suite, from the Howard Porter line featured at Montgomery Ward. The lounge and chair have a heavy carpet, all-nylon fabric cover; have solid foam rubber cushions; and double coil springs on a solid hardwood frame. This suite is in beige, and the line has a variety of styles and colors. The step coffee table is in limed oak, with plastic top.

Living Room Groups Offer Luxury, Style

"Step into my parlor . . ." and what a variety of things for furnishing a beautiful parlor can be seen now, during home fashion time. Upholstery, tables, chairs are all blossoming out in new dress to give you the lovely home which you want to have.

Slimness is still the key word for upholstered furniture. The aim of the designer is to create a clean, uncluttered line while presenting a beautiful appearance and the maximum in comfort.

Sectional sofas are still of prime importance in the upholstery field. They are popular because they allow for flexibility in arrangement. But don't think that you must have modern furnishings in order to have a sectional sofa in your living room. Sectionals are available in French provincial, Italian provincial and Early American styling as well as modern.

Sectionals and one-piece sofas both are showing off their pretty legs this year. Neat legs lift them gently off of the floor to present a light, floating appearance. The legs may be metal or wood or they may be wood brightly tipped with metal.

Designers are using more exposed wood than formerly to create decorative interest in upholstered furniture. Wood stretchers are used along the bases of sofas. Arms of sofas and chairs may be entirely of wood or may have wood frames around the upholstery or around panels of cane, grass cloth or leather.

The fabrics used on upholstery are tending to become more elegant. There is a movement away from the rough tweeds and heavily textured fabrics toward a more lush and smooth feeling. There is still a slight texture in the fabric but it is not as pronounced as it has been.

Color is an important factor in your decorating scheme. Use it wisely on your upholstered furniture. The many-pillowed sectional

Furniture Legs On Straight Lines

The once popular brass ferrules on furniture legs are disappearing and so are the tapered, slanted legs that have held up most modern dressers and tables for years. More often now, legs are straight, square or imaginatively shaped. They seem to blend into sculptured stretcher bases or side panels.

or long sofas offer good opportunities for using color. The pillows may match the fabric of the sofa or they may all be of one contrasting color; they might be of several complementary colors or they might be in a print or striped fabric against the solid sofa.

A striking accent piece is seen in a bright orange coachman's seat. This little upholstered chair, which seats two comfortably, is a copy of the coachman's seat used in French country homes in the early 1700s.

The variety of living room furniture available is so great that you should have no problem choosing things which will fit well into your home. Analyze your pattern of living and pick things which will fill the needs of you and your family.

When furnishing your living room, try to arrange the seating pieces in conversational groupings. This will help to create a warm and friendly atmosphere. It is no fun to have to shout across the room when trying to hold a conversation.

Try, too, to have tables conveniently near each seating piece. It is not very comfortable to have to balance an ashtray, glass, and plate and try to carry on a conversation or enjoy watching television at the same time.

Redecorate Floors With Carpet, Rug

A home is first furnished when the family is new, and through the growing years receives a great deal of jiving wear and tear, particularly the floors.

Then suddenly, one day when the sun is shining bright, the shabby spots show — and it's time to redecorate.

It doesn't take much to give a life to a tired room. One good rug with fresh color and texture will do it. Pick coordinating wallpaper and paint colors right out of the design.

If the floors are truly worn and need refinishing, save one operation and cover them with carpet wall-to-wall. This provides built-in decoration as well as floor finish and gives the extra benefits of warmth and quiet — sometimes lacking in older houses. These benefits are carpet's contribution to any area.

Put a new face on the front hall and stairway with carpet in a distinctive pattern. Carpet at the door is practical, as it keeps dirt from being tracked through the house. This area may require more frequent cleaning, but it is much easier to care for than a long trail of foot-prints.

And carpet on the stairway is a safety precaution, particularly in older houses, where the stairs tend to be steep.

Remember the "forgotten" rooms—the second bedroom, the space in the attic, easily converted into comfortable heartwarming quarters with a soft floor-covering. Make the house live again—and you will, too.

Mama Pays Fine, Stays With Kids

HOUSTON (AP)—Mrs. Beverly Oren, 28, vowed to go to jail before paying a fine for speeding and not having a driver's license.

Her husband said: Nothing doing—who'd take care of the kids. So Mrs. Oren paid a $65 fine.

Horse Spooked

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Don Adams explained that a dog "spooked" his horse and that was the reason his mount "ran over" a car on U. S. Highway 66 east of Albuquerque, smashing in one side of the vehicle. Adams was unhurt, the horse recovered and insurance paid for the damage to the car.

Unwilling Police

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Policemen called to quiet a noisy party in a residential area here, stayed with the celebrants longer than intended. Celebrants made off with both police patrol cars, which were later found abandoned nearby.

Keystone Of Comfort

Shoppers during Home Fashion Time who are looking for a point of comfort in the home would be attracted to the full reclining chair pictured here, and offered at the Big Spring Hardware Furniture Department. Made by Dearborn, it is of Northern hardwood maple, with tweed cover in beige, and of spring construction. This chair is so designed that it adjusts automatically to any desired position of the body. The leg rest folds in and out according to position.

Wide Range Of Design In Carpets Offered This Year

Today's carpets are matching today's pace for self-improvement and self-expression. Never before has there been such a wide range of color and original design to suit the taste of any home-maker.

Never before has so much performance been built-in, with improved fibers and new ones-engineered especially for carpet use. And never before has carpet been so easy to select and own in every price range.

The reason is clear. Carpet is a desirable floor-covering. At first glance, it provides color and pattern and texture—elements necessary to home decoration. But beyond its sheer looks, carpet contributes a background for good living, with quiet and warmth and safety underfoot.

So, designers, loom technicians, fiber and dye scientists, manufacturers and many others have joined to create the best possible carpet that will please the homemaker. Americans always want to make things better and usually do. The lady with this world under her feet only has to make up her mind from an abundance of choice.

Even this has been made easier. New ways of displaying carpet for convenient selection in the store were introduced this year. Or, if preferred, selection can be made right at home. The cost of a carpet or rug can be budgeted over a period of time, the same as any other home furnishing. Salesman at reputable dealers are trained in giving decorating advice, as well as technical information on fibers, construction and quality of carpet. 1957 carpets and rugs are worth viewing.
