New Power Source Used For Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—The West today weighed the significance of a Russian announcement that new instruments and sources of power were used to send Sputnik II and its dog passenger more than 1,000 miles into space.

Some doubts were expressed that the Russians had used any revolutionary new kind of fuel, but no one could be certain.

American scientists, who have received meager information from the Russians on Sputnik I and Sputnik II, had to rely mainly on their own studies and knowledge in reaching any conclusions.

Laika, the fluffy little female dog making a lonely space journey aboard the half-ton Sputnik II, was reported by the Russians to have come through her first 24 hours aloft in satisfactory condition.

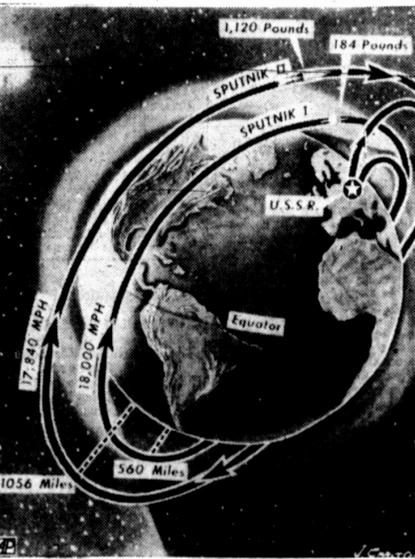

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow that this was confirmed by recordings of Laika's pulse, breathing, blood pressure and other information sent back by the satellite's radio transmitters.

OPINIONS DIFFER However, there appeared to be differences of opinion among Russian specialists as to Laika's life expectancy.

Officials at the Soviet Planetary Society suggested the dog may be parachuted back to earth. But Prof. Kiril P. San'yukovich, a Russian rocket expert, implied Laika may die en route in the huge satellite sent aloft last Saturday night.

Russia's pioneer earth satellite, launched Oct. 4, took a back seat as world attention focused on the much more bigger Sputnik II. The first satellite, a sphere said by the Russians to weigh about 184 pounds, has completed nearly 500 trips around the earth. Its radio equipment is dead.

Officials at the Soviet Planetary Society suggested the dog may be parachuted back to earth. But Prof. Kiril P. San'yukovich, a Russian rocket expert, implied Laika may die en route in the huge satellite sent aloft last Saturday night.

mer president of the American Rocket Society, said that in his opinion the Russian launching system is based on "conventional propellants such as liquid oxygen and kerosene. Durant said he believes the Russians have developed large rocket engines.

Dr. H. Guyford Stever, associate dean of the engineering school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, also voiced skepticism about any new Russian super-fuel. However, he said it is possible the Russians are using batteries deriving energy from the sun's rays to power the satellite's instruments. This, he said, "would be quite an achievement."

"We in this country have considerable cause for alarm," Durant said. This jibed with the views of a number of Congress members, who have said urgent moves are needed to keep the United States from falling far behind Russia in modern weapons capability.

Three Senate leaders yesterday received a seven-hour Pentagon briefing on U. S. progress in missiles and rockets.

After that briefing, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was asked if he had changed his opinion that the United States has "not kept in step with the needs of our times." He replied "no."

Missile Man Reports Seeing Mystery Object

LUBBOCK (AP)—A missile engineer reported seeing a "brilliant colored, egg-shaped object" which he said stalled autos in New Mexico yesterday.

The Air Force started an investigation yesterday into similar reports in this and other areas. Witnesses say a mystery object skipped about the countryside here and near scientific military bases in New Mexico over the weekend. The reported sightings startled citizens, peace officers and servicemen but apparently left no concrete trace.

James Stokes, 45, an engineer from the Air Force Missile Development Center at Holloman Air Force Base, Alamogordo, N.M., told news director Terry Clark of KALG, Alamogordo, 10 autos were stopped on an isolated desert highway, U.S. 54, between White Sands Proving Grounds and Alamogordo yesterday.

His description was similar to ones reporting a big ball of fire flitting about much of this West Texas area over the weekend. A huge, oval object "nearly as bright as the sun" was reported seen at White Sands Proving Ground Sunday, hovering near bunkers used in the first A-bomb explosion.

OTHER LIGHTS Witnesses said other strange lights were seen over other parts of Texas, near Chicago and in Virginia.

Clark said the Air Force at Holloman gave him permission to use Stokes' story.

He said Stokes told him occupants of cars saw a strange, unidentified object flying toward them from the northeast. He said his auto radio faded and died, then his engine stopped. He said several other cars were also stalled.

Looking up, he told Clark, "I saw a brilliant colored egg-shaped object making a shallow dive across the sky to the northeast. Then it turned and made a pass at the highway and crossed it not more than two miles ahead. Then it moved away toward White Sands Proving Grounds to the southwest. As it passed... I could feel a kind of heat wave, like radiation from a giant sun lamp. But there was no sound. It had no visible portholes and there was no vapor trail."

Coahoma Gets Hail As Drizzle Continues Here

More rain fell on saturated Howard County on Monday night. In the vicinity of Coahoma and Moss Creek, the showers were accompanied by a brisk fall of hail. The stones were described as sizeable and Coahoma reported that some of the hail was still on the ground at 9 a. m. — six hours after it had fallen.

Here in Big Spring, the U. S. Experiment reported rainfall since 8 a. m. Monday at 24 inch. Other points in town had as much as 31 inch.

Some parts of the county, particularly in the Luther community and in the vicinity of Gay Hill had received nearly 2 inches of rain in the current wet spell.

Roads were reported slippery and Coahoma schools were shut down—partially because the school buses found it difficult to navigate the roads and partially because of the onslaught of rain and bad colds. Attendance had dropped sharply and a shutdown was ordered by S. H. Miller, superintendent.

Doyle Fenn, principal at Gay Hill School, estimated that muddy roads had reduced attendance at school there by 33 per cent.

Traffic generally was slowed by the rains and slippery roads. Travelers who have to travel the Snyder highway were being urged to take by way of Coahoma and to take the farm-to-market road from the highway back to the Snyder road. Construction on the road beginning at the north edge of Big Spring has left numerous difficult points on the road.

Lake J. B. Thomas rose slightly on the strength of slow rains during the past three days.

FEW MAKING WAY TO POLLS

Probably the lightest turnout of voters in the county's history trickled to the polls today for the off-year general election.

Only three proposed changes to the state constitution are listed on the ballot and an apparent lack of interest in them combined with a cold mist to keep voters away.

Shortly before noon, only 11 ballots had been marked in precinct No. 2 (Washington Place), the county's largest voting box. Voting was proceeding at about the same pace in the county's other 15 polling places. Only five absentee votes were cast in advance of the election.

Polls will remain open until 7 p. m. today in all the precincts.

Heavy Rains Pour Down On N. Texas

Heavy rains swamped parts of North and Central Texas Tuesday, washing out bridges and sending streams spilling out of their banks.

More than 5 inches of rain was reported in some parts of North Texas and no letup was in sight. The rains set new annual records in some places.

A deluge measuring at 5.10 inches in the past 24 hours caused a landslide at a railroad underpass on U.S. 271 near Mt. Pleasant. Large slices of dirt spilled down on the road, but repair crews quickly removed the obstruction.

Sherman and Denison reported up to 5 inches for the 24 hours ended early Tuesday.

Other reports: Anna 4.14, Paris 4.04, Pilot Point 3.95, Gainesville 3.65, Gunter 3.30, Decatur 3.28, Salina 3.25, Valley View 3.20, Slidell 3.11, Denton 2.65, McKinney 2.40, Boyd 1.63, Tarkenton 1.60, Roanoke 36, Dallas 1.50, Fort Worth 1.05, Mineral Wells 56, Abilene 49, Childress 32, Big Spring 21, San Angelo 21 and Midland 11. Scores of other points also had rain.

Gonzalez Protests Governor's Talk

AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio told the Senate today that Gov. Price Daniel lied when he accused the senator of wanting federal troops brought into Texas schools.

This explosive reaction to Daniel's speech came in the midst of threats of another called session and of more filibusters.

Daniel said last night Gonzalez "is in favor of occupation of our schools by troops." He said he regretted that Gonzalez's injection of the issue had endangered the special session program.

"I say that is a lie," Gonzalez asserted in a personal privilege speech in the Senate. "I don't now and never will advocate bringing federal troops in." He demanded equal statewide radio and television time to answer the governor.

Questioned by Sen. Wardlaw Lane of Center about his views, Gonzalez said the situation at Little Rock presented a choice of mob rule or carrying out of court orders. He said that while he did not advocate use of federal troops, it was the better choice at Little Rock.

Gonzalez filibustered yesterday for three hours, seeking to delay possible submission by Daniel of a bill that would close Texas schools if they are threatened with occupation by federal or state troops. The filibuster also delayed Senate debate on a lobby control bill.

Gonzalez said he did not intend to obstruct the lobby bill. Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Texas and Sen. J. Lee Rankin of Louisiana also filibustered against a resolution critical of President Eisenhower's action in ordering federal troops to Little Rock unless his language was toned down.

The Senate State Affairs committee gave the administration program a boost. It recommended a House-passed bill calling for a crime study commission and another that would require registration of those who practice before state commissions.

The powerful Senate Policy Committee also approved 13 of the House resolution hitting Eisenhower on his Little Rock troop order.

The House went to work again on its lobby curbing measure. Daniel's water legislation ran into more trouble. This was a technical delaying action by Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston, who "tagged" the House-passed version calling for a guidance-only long-range statewide water plan.

The "tag" by Bracewell means 48 hours public notice must be given before the bill can be approved by committee. Sen. George Parkhouse said his water committee would meet this afternoon in an effort to get committee action by Thursday.

Rep. W. N. Woolsey of Corpus Christi, who sponsored the governor's original bill, was left out in the cold for the final push. Reps. Amos Martin of Paris and Harold Parish of Taft are sponsoring the Senate-passed version calling for research and investigations on surface and underground water.

Woolsey said he did not know why he was not asked to sponsor the Senate bill.

Parish and Martin were on opposite sides in debate over the farm bloc amendment attached to the House bill. Martin supported the amendment applying to 200-acre foot reservoirs.

Rep. Leroy Saul of Kress, chairman of the House Water Committee, said the Senate bill would be heard at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Knight Pulls Out Of Governor Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California today pulled out of the race for re-election and announced he will run for the U. S. Senate next year.

Knight made his announcement after a 25-minute conference with President Eisenhower at the White House and a 30-minute talk with Vice President Nixon at the Capitol.

Knight said he reached his decision after long and careful consideration "that the best and most constructive course of action in the interest of my state and my party would be to run for the United States Senate."

In his written statement Knight said the decision is his own and "is based on much broader considerations than my own personal ambition."

The major reason, Knight said, is that national and state GOP leaders became convinced that a primary contest between Knight and Sen. William F. Knowland for the governorship "would split the party so badly that it would, in all probability, lead to loss of the state to the Democratic party at the general election."

"I am confident that my decision will contribute to party harmony," Knight said.

He called for the support of good friends and supporters, who he said had indicated disappointment that he will not seek another term as governor.

Knight said he also hopes to get very substantial support from Democrats and independent voters as well as from his own party.

Knight and Knowland had been the only announced contenders for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Thus Knight's pullout leaves Knowland with a clear field, barring some other entry later.

Dawson Men Post Bonds In Shooting

LAMESA—Bonds of $10,000 each were posted here Monday afternoon by John A. Billingsley, 30, and his father, Alva Billingsley, 62, charged with the fatal shooting of the younger man's estranged wife and Jimmy Thomas Scholer, 26.

The complaints filed by District Attorney Mitchell Williams charged the two men with murder with malice. Specifically, John Billingsley was charged with killing his wife, Mrs. Nona Billingsley, 26, and Alva Billingsley was charged with slaying Scholer.

Services were set for Mrs. Billingsley at 4 p. m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. E. L. Jones, Bryan Street Baptist minister, officiating. Burial was to be in the Lamesa City Cemetery under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home. Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Jerry, 7, and a daughter, Gwendolyn, 8, her parents, a sister and two brothers.

Officers said that the slain couple was met at the southwest entrance of Lamesa General Hospital where Mrs. Billingsley was to have gone on duty at 11 p. m. in a statement of officers, John Billingsley said he had not fired at his wife but that she got or was pulled in the way. A bullet from a 9 m. m. Luger struck her in the chest at the neck line.

One bullet from a 45 calibre pistol went wild and lodged in the door of a car, but another shot caught Scholer in the abdomen. Mrs. Billingsley died at 2 a. m. and Scholer at 4 a. m. Monday.

She had filed a petition seeking a divorce from John Billingsley on Oct. 16. Scholer, estranged from his wife, had been living for the past three weeks with his parents in O'Donnell.

Pioneer Ranch Operator Dies

Arthur M. Roberts, 81, pioneer rancher who came to this county 78 years ago, died at the home of his niece, Mrs. Morgan Martin, near Moss Creek Lake, at 11:30 p. m. Monday.

Mr. Roberts, who was born in Georgetown on Nov. 18, 1876, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. T. (Bud) Roberts. Bud Roberts was the first white settler to come to what is now Howard County and establish a permanent residence. He brought Arthur with him to this county in 1879 when the boy was three years old.

Up to about 12 years ago, Arthur Roberts was a rancher. He had been in a seriously ill health since last July. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Etta Wade and Mrs. E. W. Flanagan. There are four nieces, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. H. A. Hayes, and Mrs. Harold Choate, all of Howard County, and Mrs. Lindsey Marchbanks, Dallas.

U. S. Weather Picture Bleak

The nation's weather pattern showed only minor changes today, with chilly winds, cloudy skies, drizzle, showers or snow in many areas.

Only the extreme Southeast and Pacific Northwest were out of the bleak weather picture. Although northerly winds spread cool air from Canada across the eastern half of the country for more than 24 hours, a blanket of clouds kept temperatures slightly above normal from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard.

Skies were clear in Georgia and the Carolinas and there was a little cooling. North Dakota, with cloudiness, reported readings 8 to 15 degrees warmer than yesterday. A low of 15 chilled Livingston, Mont.

Widespread rain and drizzle dampened most of Texas and bordering areas of Oklahoma and eastern New Mexico.

Queen Reports Ike Talks Help Unity

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II told the opening of a new parliamentary session today that Prime Minister Macmillan believes his recent talks with President Eisenhower "will greatly further" free world unity. Seated on a throne in the glittering red and gold House of Lords, the young sovereign opened Parliament for the third time since she became Queen in 1952. In the speech, written by Macmillan's government to outline its program, the Queen emphasized the close association of the United States, Britain and the Commonwealth along with other democratic nations. In an oblique reference to the Soviet Sputnik, the monarch said Britain will continue to search for an international disarmament agreement, "mindful that, at this momentous time, the advance of science into the unknown should be inspired by the hopes, and not retarded by the fears, of mankind."

The Queen served notice that the government is going ahead with its controversial plan to make the House of Lords more democratic. She said this session will be asked to approve legislation creating non-hereditary peerages for both men and women to sit and vote in the upper house. Women have sat in the elected House of Commons for years but never in the Lords. Other controversial issues were barely mentioned. The problems include a growing tide of labor unrest, and demands for pay raises that the government says would ruin the strained economy. A still unresolved battle against the rising cost of living, and efforts to maintain the value of the pound sterling. Elizabeth spoke for nine minutes in a firm, clear voice. She wore a dress of gold tissue, the bodice embroidered with brilliant and gold and a jeweled diadem. Prince Philip, her husband, sat in a chair to the left of the throne. He wore an admiral's uniform.

Ike Calls Cabinet For Budget Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and his Cabinet today discuss administration spending and legislative programs for next year against the backdrop of Russia's continuing achievement in outer space.

The President called his key advisers to a special session and plans further discussion of domestic and foreign policy programs at Friday's regular weekly meeting of the Cabinet.

This is only the sixth time since Eisenhower took office in 1953 that his Cabinet has been summoned to two sessions in a single week. But Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, told a news conference late yesterday the two meetings arranged for this week reflect no emergency. She added in response to a question that the sessions are in no way related to Russia's launching of a second satellite during the week-end. She said the meetings were planned before that development.

It was obvious, however, that any Cabinet discussion of the administration's spending plans and legislative program inevitably has to take into account the Soviet Union's progress in the satellite and missile fields.

The White House said yesterday the President and his science and national security advisers are making a very careful analysis of the rocketry and the significance of Russia's Sputnik II orbiting around the earth with a dog aboard.

Each year the President and his Cabinet hold a preliminary discussion of the legislative and budget programs he submits to Congress in January.

The preliminary discussions this year are earlier than usual for two main reasons.

First, Eisenhower is planning about six speeches in various sections of the country between now and early January. The purpose is to try to bolster confidence in the national science program, defense generally and the domestic economy.

The President will make the first of those talks, to be carried nationwide on television and radio, in Oklahoma City Nov. 13.

Secondly, Eisenhower is going to Paris in mid-December for a NATO Council meeting which other NATO nation government chiefs also plan to attend. A principal purpose of that meeting is to try to arrange a pooling of scientific resources of friendly Western nations.

In advance of the Paris conference, Eisenhower plans to meet with congressional leaders of both parties for a discussion of what he plans to propose at the NATO session.

He also plans a meeting early in December with Republican leaders of Congress to talk over the administration's domestic program.

Cabinet discussion of spending plans for the fiscal year starting next July 1 commences with the outlook comparatively bleak for holding expenditures to the 70 billion dollar target set up last September by Budget Director Perovich Brundage.

Informed government and congressional fiscal experts predicted during the weekend that target will be overshoot by at least two billion dollars.

Surgeon Describes Bosom Expansion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Johns Hopkins surgeon describes an operation giving flat chested women the large bosoms they crave by inserting plastic sponge padding.

"We have done the operation in 32 cases," Dr. Milton Edgerton told the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery.

"In 31 the patients described the result as total satisfaction. Our psychiatrists were bowled over by how much these patients were helped."

The one woman not completely happy, said Edgerton, was disturbed only because she had not expanded enough.

"She continued to use falsies and thus felt she was doubly defeated," observed Edgerton, associate professor of plastic surgery at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine at Baltimore.

He said the surgery should be employed only in cases of serious emotional disturbance.

CRITIQUE Of The Local Entertainment Scene

By BOB SMITH

Revolution In Singing Trend

"Way back in 1938, one man led a revolution against the trend, largely due to radio, which was rapidly shoving out vocal harmony in favor of vocal solos. The man was the late Owen C. Cash, and his rebellion brought about a basic change in the music patterns of America."

We still have solo vocalists, but the harmony of grouped singers still with us and is undergoing unheard of experimentation that would be impossible for a lone voice. The trends in popular music, as well as in modern choral work, have shown the effects of Cash's salvage work.

But Cash was not out to save the whole field of music. There was one field of harmony he sought to preserve, and it comes down to us today in the traditional manner.

Cash began by writing an open letter to a circle of friends. It reads in part: "In this age of dictation and government control of everything, about the only privilege guaranteed by the Bill of Rights, not in some way supervised or directed is the art of barber shop quartet singing. Without a doubt, we still have the right of peaceable assembly, which we are advised by competent legal authority includes quartet singing. The writers have for a long time thought that something should be done to encourage the enjoyment of this last remaining vestige of human liberty."

Cash and his friends met in the Tulsa Club, the local paper reported it, and the wire services picked it up. In a short time, chapters had sprung up over the Middle West, and they were incorporated into the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. Today, its international membership roster numbers thousands of men from every walk of life in more than 400 chapters.

One of these chapters belongs to Big Spring. The local chapter is sponsoring its annual concert Nov. 16, and will feature choruses and quartets from many points in the Southwest. If you like good music, plan to attend. The show is co-sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Director John Austin has cast all but two roles. Further readings for the parts will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in the Chamber of Commerce offices, in the Permian Building. The lead role is that of a young and beautiful witch, a part that requires a young, pretty and talented woman. The other role to be filled is that of a middle aged and alcoholic writer.

Miss Betty Smith, teacher in Big Spring schools, was selected for the part of Aunt Queenie, the elder witch. Miss Smith, who shows signs of top talent, was a cinch for the part. Dewey McGee takes the role of the mortal who entices the entire family of supernormals to lead a mortal life by causing the young witch to fall in love with him. Jim Hennigar will portray the warlock or male witch, member of the family.

Austin, who says rehearsals may start Wednesday, is thinking of presenting "Bell, Book and Candle" in the round, that is, with the stage in center and the audience arranged on all sides. In the round productions allow for closer viewing, less need for makeup, and all in all, a more intimate relationship between players and audience. In the round also produces more realism, as members of the audience may sometimes feel they are actually taking part in the proceedings.

McGee, who is president of the theatre group, and Austin extended an invitation to all Big Springers who enjoy theatre work to attend the meeting Tuesday night. Actors, of course, are needed to fill the two remaining roles, and there is plenty of production and stage work to be done.

Unitarian Profs To Quit Baylor

WACO (AP)—Two Baylor professors say they will resign because of the school's attitude toward their religion. Both are Unitarians. Dr. Paul Willis, psychiatry instructor and Dr. Harry Hollien, head of the Speech Clinic, spoke out last night.

Willis said he would resign before the 1958 school year starts because he had been told by administration authorities "to conform to a Protestant faith."

Hollien said no member of the administration had talked to him directly. But he added, "I have heard the rumor that we were not to be offered contracts next year."

Unitarians stress freedom of religion and the responsibility of the individual to forge his own creed through reason, conscience and experience.

Willis said Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor, suggested that he disassociate himself from the Unitarian group.

Dr. White said he had been assured by Willis that he still retained membership in the Baptist Church although he had worked with a Unitarian group. White said 70 per cent of Baylor instructors are affiliated with Baptist churches. The other 30 per cent are of other Protestant faiths.

Youth Held In Officer's Death

Pennsylvania State Police officers hold William Clayton Henderson, 16, after he was finally taken into custody at Pottstown, Pa. He is accused of killing a policeman by firing a shotgun point-blank at his face and handcuffing two state troopers to a tree. The dead trooper, Philip Melly, 43, lies covered at right. Trooper Thomas McCann, one of those who had been handcuffed, stands behind the boy. Police had been called after the boy had argued with his parents and ran off into the wooded area with a shotgun.

Senator Sees U. S. Return To Missile Lead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today he is confident the United States quickly will "move back into the king row" in missiles and satellite development. But three other senators indicated no such confidence.

Dirksen, assistant Senate Republican leader, made his statement after a conference with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Dirksen declined to comment directly on the briefing he received yesterday from Radford.

The Illinois senator did say he has reason to believe the United States has made strides in the missile field not matched by the Soviets, despite their feat in propelling two satellites into space. "We have many programs going, on which information has been withheld, that have attained amazing results," Dirksen said.

Other senators, emerging from a separate seven-hour briefing at the Pentagon, did not echo Dirksen's optimistic statements.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas contended before the briefing that the United States has "not kept in step with the needs of our times."

Asked later if the top level conference with Defense Department officials had changed that opinion, he replied with an unqualified "no."

Johnson, Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Bridges (R-NH), the committee's senior GOP member, underwent an extended briefing after lunching with Secretary of Defense McElroy.

Bridges said the country needs a "top coordinator of all activities" in the development of military scientists. Russell said he wants to assimilate the information and tie "a lot of odds and ends together."

Johnson declined to say until later this week whether a preparedness subcommittee he leads will launch a full-scale investigation of the U. S. program.

U.N. Disarmament Program Smashed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N.'s long push toward disarmament faced complete collapse today following Russia's refusal to continue negotiations unless they are widened to include all 82 U. N. members.

There was no indication whether the Russian walkout would force the Western Powers to reconsider their previous rejection of the Russian proposal for large-scale talks. The West considers any such idea an unrealistic propaganda move.

Delegates were shocked by the Soviet decision to quit both the U. N. Disarmament Commission and its five-nation subcommittee. Most of them felt this killed off chances of any more disarmament negotiations at present.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov disclosed his government's decision yesterday to hush delegates in the Assembly's 82-nation Political Committee.

Kuznetsov threw cold water on any hopes the Russians might reconsider by telling delegates his government was not given to making statements rashly.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge voiced hope the Kremlin move was "just a passing thought and wiser counsels will prevail."

Jules Moch of France expressed hope the Soviet Union would "reconsider its position before it shoulders the responsibility of breaking off disarmament negotiations."

British Minister of State Allan Noble called the Soviet move a "discouraging development." Wallace Nesbitt of Canada said his government would be "shocked and disappointed at this ultimatum."

Nesbitt later told a reporter he thought Russia had acted after it became convinced the Assembly would pass a 24-nation Western arms proposal. The resolution calls for resumption of talks by the disarmament subcommittee on the basis of Western proposals Russia rejected in London last August.

Delegates had expected Russia to make some drastic move since the United States and other Western nations blocked the Soviet proposal that future arms talks take place in an 82-nation "little U. N. Assembly."

Seeks Adoption Of Former Wife

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—A former secretary of the Borden Co. New York, wants to adopt his divorced wife as his child and heir.

Walter H. Rebman, 76, who retired eight years ago, filed a petition in Highlands County Circuit Court yesterday to adopt Mrs. Virginia M. Rebman, 44, to whom he was married for more than 10 years.

Mrs. Rebman, who is in the real estate business, joined Rebman in the unusual petition.

They were married at Palm Beach, Fla., in February 1947, and came to Sebring in 1949. Mrs. Rebman filed suit for divorce and the decree was granted Oct. 21. She charged mental cruelty and alleged that her husband suggested she get the divorce. He did not contest it.

Voters In 6 States Ballot Today In Off-Year Elections

By The Associated Press

Voters in a half dozen states balloted today in scattered off-year elections that may furnish a few indicators for party managers looking to the 1958 congressional contests.

State and local issues dominated the campaigns, although there was some mention in New Jersey of the Little Rock integration troubles, and school segregation was debated almost exclusively in Virginia.

The elections were the first since President Eisenhower dispatched federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., in September to back up a court order for school integration after National Guardsmen called out by Gov. Orval Faubus had prevented Negroes from entering a former all-white school.

In the Second District, voters were electing a successor to the late Republican Rep. T. Millet Hand, a 2-1 victor last November. Assemblyman Milton W. Glenn, Margate Republican, and farmer Joseph G. Hancock, Greenwich Township Democrat, were the candidates.

VIRGINIA — The Democratic candidate for governor, J. Lindsay Almond Jr., was favored generally to win over Republican Ted Dalton, a state senator and GOP national committeeman.

Both favor segregation but differ widely on how to keep schools racially separated. Almond, backed by the strong Democratic organization headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), followed the "massive resistance" doctrine laid down by Byrd. This means backing up state laws for closing schools and withdrawing state aid if integration takes place.

Dalton favors a pupil assignment plan, administered by local school boards, which would permit token admission of Negro pupils to white schools.

or Robert F. Wagner of New York City was regarded generally as headed toward a second term in his $40,000 a year job. He was challenged by Republican Robert K. Christenberry, hotel executive and former chairman of the New York Athletic Commission.

In all, the state was choosing 51 mayors. The Republicans now hold 29 of these places, the Democrats 19 and non-partisans 3. Among statewide issues were whether to legalize bingo under local option, and whether to call a state constitutional convention in 1959.

OFFICES AT STAKE

Offices at stake were two governorships, in New Jersey and Virginia; two House seats, one each in New Jersey and Pennsylvania; scores of mayors' seats, including that in New York City, and three state Legislatures.

Democrats held the two governorships and the New York mayoralty, and were confident they would hold them.

Republicans counted on retaining the two House seats and were hoping for an upset or two elsewhere, particularly in New Jersey, to give them what Eisenhower said the party needs—a big shot in the arm.

Eisenhower endorsed the GOP candidates in the two governor races and in New York City.

The main contests:

NEW JERSEY—The race for governor was between Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner, seeking a second four-year term on the strength of his record at Trenton, and Republican State Senator Malcolm S. Forbes, a 38-year-old publisher.

Meyner, favored in advance polls, was putting on the line what chances he may have for getting on the Democratic presidential ticket in 1960. Four years ago at 45, he gained political stature by winning his first term as governor in a normally Republican state by 153,000.

Forbes not only attacked Meyner's record on budgetary and other scores, but raised the civil rights issue. He told Negro audiences "I don't think any Negro can afford not to show support" of the Republican action in pressing for strong civil rights legislation in Congress and of Eisenhower's intervention at Little Rock.

Meyner has replied that "if I have any voice at all in national Democratic affairs, I'm for a strong civil rights position."

Of the state's 2,783,315 eligible voters, approximately 120,000 are Negroes.

HOUSE MEMBER

PENNSYLVANIA — Was electing a House member in the 13th District to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Republican Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr., an easy 2-1 winner last year. The candidates were Republican John A. Lafore Jr., Haverford, and Democrat Glenn W. Preston, Orlend.

Voters also were picking mayors in Pittsburgh, Scranton and 21 other cities and deciding on a proposal to pay a Korean War bonus if taxes were raised to finance the bond issue.

KENTUCKY—Electing 17 of its 38 state senators and all of its 100 representatives; also mayors in most state cities, including Louisville.

CONNECTICUT—Electing mayors in several cities, including New Haven, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

Rocket Maker Isn't Worried

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Dan A. Kimball, former Navy secretary, declares the United States could put up a heavier satellite than the half-ton Sputnik II but hasn't because "we've taken a little different approach" in the satellite program.

Kimball, who now heads Aerojet General Corp., rocket manufacturers, told reporters the United States long has had enough scientific know-how to reach the moon but declared there was no money for such a shot.

"I know we have," answered Kimball when asked if the United States had a rocket capable of launching a satellite heavier than Sputnik II.

MISSILE WORKERS STRIKE APPROVED

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—A union executive committee was authorized yesterday to set any date after Nov. 23 for a strike against Pan American Airways which could also halt the guided missile testing program at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The Pan American Division board of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees authorized the move yesterday.

GAILLARD CINCHES TOP FRENCH POST

PARIS (AP)—Felix Gaillard, youngest man to seek the French premiership in more than 75 years, appeared certain of winning National Assembly approval today.

Endorsement of Gaillard and a Cabinet drawn from all factions except the Communists and the extreme-right Poujadists would install France's 24th postwar government and end a 36-day government crisis.

Muttnik No Dog, Just A Politician

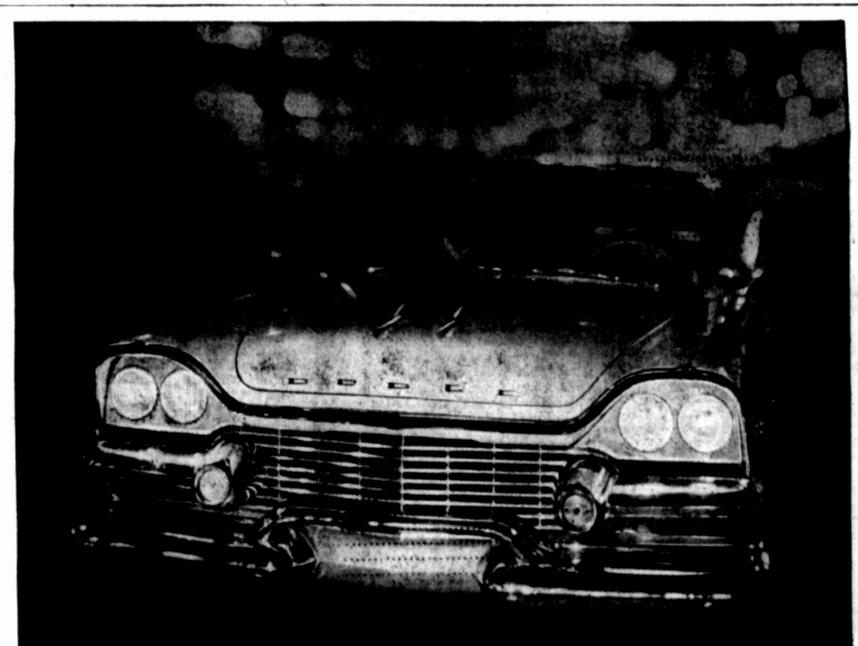

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Muttnik is a real Russian word, said Capt. Robert Kamdron today, but its meaning has nothing to do with a dog-carrying satellite.

"It means one who fishes in muddy water," said Kamdron, 72, of Seattle, Russian-born tanker pilot for the Union Oil Co.

A Bible Thought For Today

Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee. (Isaiah 26:3)

Sputnik II And Whatzit I

Internationally the second Russian satellite (with its cargo of a live dog) is making tremendous splash, but in our own area it is having to share the spotlight with some sort of phenomenon which apparently took place east of Levelland on Saturday night.

Some wags are suggesting we call them Sputnik II and Whatzit I.

The Russian experiment hardly stirs as much excitement as did the original Sputnik, because the first satellite was just as the adjective indicates—first. Never before had man succeeded in living an object on the fringe of space. The fact that a living creature has been hurled into a similar orbit is of course, exciting and fantastic, but it is in effect a stepping stone erected after the barrier had been broken.

It is not improbable that the signals radiated back will, so long as the dog lives, detail scientific information which would be of great value to man if and when he elects to step into the brink of space.

Meanwhile the Russians will seek to capitalize on the propaganda aspects of the event, but the effect will not be so momentous as the historic launching of the Sputnik. Internal to the headlines, set up some competition for the headlines.

As for the Whatzit—this object or condition which was reported near Levelland—we can only conjecture on the basis of what was reported. This unidentified Flying Object differs from others in that it was seen in substantially the same form by so many at almost the same time. Very interesting.

Having A Look At Our Resources

The State of Texas is a billion-dollar business, or so close to it that a few odd millions wouldn't make any difference. The state can only spend the money that comes in from the various sources—taxes, fees and the like.

What are the tax resources of Texas? What source bears a too-heavy share of the burden, what bears too small a share? Nobody knows. Whenever it needs new revenue, as it necessarily does, the Legislature dabs down on the old familiar dependables, and tacks on another few percentage points. The fall gales have been cigarettes and gasoline, convenient and helpless targets, both ready and dependable sources of supply because easily collected. Besides, they are called excise taxes, because the state Constitution interdicts the levy of sales taxes, though in the end the consumer pays.

Last January Governor Price Daniel recommended to the Legislature that a thorough study of tax resources be made, and this week the first active step in that direction was taken by the State Tax Commission, after listening to experts in governmental problems including the Princeton Surveys, which has had experience in that field.

The chore was delegated to the Texas Research League, a non-profit organization that has carried out a number of governmental surveys and made extensive recommendations. The League has not yet accepted the request, but is expected to. This time it will make no recommendations, but simply dig out the facts and present them to the commission. The commission has announced it will take no action on the facts to be presented, but will pass them on to the Legislature for study and action.

Until now the principal source of revenue has been the petroleum industry in its various ramifications. Every time the price of crude oil goes down, the State Treasury loses millions of dollars in revenue. Every time another day is lopped off the production schedule the state loses more money.

These have gone down and down, until the maximum declined to twelve days a month only recently, thanks largely to the competition of foreign crude imports. Clearly, the bonanza tax yield of petroleum has about reached its summit, and other sources of revenue must be developed to make up chronic deficits.

The survey is expected to be completed and a report made late next year. The surveyors will ask for information and testimony from all quarters in making its findings. It should provide the Legislature with information it never had before, to form the basis of future tax legislation.

Ike's Popularity Lowest In 3 Years

TREND OF EISENHOWER POPULARITY (Nationwide)
Month	App. Per cent
January, 1957	79
March	72
May	67
June	62
July	63
TODAY	57

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Eisenhower's personal popularity index has dipped to the lowest point since the November, 1954 elections when the Democrats swept both houses of Congress.

Nationwide, 57 per cent of voters today give Mr. Eisenhower a vote of confidence, while 27 per cent disapprove of the way he is handling his job as President and 16 per cent express no opinion.

The President's popularity has fallen off most sharply in the South. For the first time, more Southerners today say they disapprove than say they approve of the nation's Chief Executive.

Whereas 72 per cent of Southern voters approved of President Eisenhower in January of this year, only half that number—or 36 per cent—today approve, while 43 per cent disapprove and 21 per cent express no opinion.

Throughout the country as a whole, there has been a drop of 22 percentage points in the President's popularity since January—from 79 per cent to 57 per cent today.

The January figure represented the highest point in the Eisenhower popularity index since August, 1955, when 79 per cent of the nation's voters gave the President a vote of approval following the Geneva Summit Conference.

The survey question, which the Institute has used over the last 22 years to determine the popularity of the occupant of the White House, was:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Eisenhower is handling his job as President?"

Today's vote:

NOVEMBER, 1957
Approve	Per cent
79	79

SOUTH
Approve	Per cent
36	36
43	43
21	21

By way of comparison, here is the vote in other sections of the country:

Section	Approve	Per cent
EAST	65	65
MIDWEST	63	63
WEST	62	62

The sharpness of the drop in the President's popularity in the South is indicated in the drop of 15 percentage points in the last three months, a period highlighted by the trouble in Little Rock.

Here is the trend of the approval vote in the South:

Month	App. Per cent
January	72
March	67
May	62
June	55
July	51
TODAY	36

Another important aspect of today's survey is the fact that, for the first time, more Democrats across the country say they disapprove than say they approve of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his job as President.

Here is the vote today by party affiliation:

Party	Rep.	Dem.	Ind.
Approve	82	38	56
Disapprove	8	44	22
No opinion	10	18	22

This was not the case at the time of the November, 1954 elections, when Mr. Eisenhower's popularity dropped to 57 per cent.

At that time, 41 per cent of rank-and-file Democrats approved of the way he was handling his job as President, while 37 per cent disapproved and 22 per cent expressed no opinion.

Wilson's Still Not Excited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Wilson, former secretary of defense, is still pretty relaxed about the Russians sending satellites into outer space ahead of the United States.

Wilson said he didn't care whether the Russians beat us into outer space. That was when they were reportedly going all-out on their satellite program.

Now they've launched two Sputniks, proving they are way ahead of us in space. Wilson said he has enough problems on earth.

Question: "Is there such a study under way at the present time?"

Wilson: "In this space-business? Oh, no."

Question: "Forrestal wrote about it. There was a study in 1948. Has it been discontinued or is it still under way?"

Wilson: "You are going back too far for me. I don't know of any such study."

Question: "Well, there have been recent published reports that the Russians have given priority to the establishment of a space satellite. Are you concerned that they will beat us in the air with it?"

Wilson: "I would not care if they did."

Question: "You really would not? You mean you don't care if they get to the moon first?"

Wilson: "I would rather they go on to the moon or some other place than come over here."

He is ahead of everybody. Here were the questions asked him—and Wilson's answers—at a news conference Nov. 17, 1957.

Question: "Mr. Wilson, what progress has the Defense Department made since 1948 when the defense secretary at that time (James Forrestal) said that they were studying earth satellites and spaceships?"

Wilson: "I like to try to get my feet on—you know, down to earth. I have enough problems on earth."

Question: "Is there such a study under way at the present time?"

Wilson: "In this space-business? Oh, no."

Question: "Forrestal wrote about it. There was a study in 1948. Has it been discontinued or is it still under way?"

Wilson: "You are going back too far for me. I don't know of any such study."

Rocket's An Old Invention

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

Around The Rim

A Memorable Christmas

I'll always remember one Christmas. It was when I was about 7 years old. Things had been pretty rough with us. We had left our former home and somehow, in the course of our wanderings, we happened to get off a train in a West Texas town on a cold Christmas eve. There was snow on the ground and more snow falling.

It seemed that we knew only one family in the town. If my parents knew anyone else there, I do not know who it may have been. I remember we went to a store that this man operated. A sporting goods store, as I remember it. It must have been around 8 or 9 o'clock. The man was getting ready to close up for the night.

Things had been so hectic with us that I had not really given much thought to the date. I was reminded by the gay lights and the show windows filled with gifts and toys. I was also very cognizant that I had no gifts and that, the way things looked, I probably would have none on Christmas day.

For a grown person, this may not be an unbearable situation. I read my name on the card.

I ripped away the Christmas paper. In the package were four books—typical boys books of that day. Two of the books, I no longer recall. I do remember vividly the other two.

One was "With Cortez in Mexico." The second was "The Young Carthaginian."

They were written by an author whose name was then unfamiliar to me—G. A. Henty.

It was not a difficult thing for an author's name in those days to be unfamiliar to me—I had not read a great deal by any writer.

I know I spent a delightful day, curled up by the stove, reading these books. And when I had read them through, I read them again.

I kept these two books for a long long time. Indeed, when I moved to Big Spring and had to cull my library I reluctantly included "The Young Carthaginian" to the heart-breaking pile I was forcing myself to abandon. Many times since, I wish I had not done so.

Boys today do not read G. A. Henty. I wonder how many fellows of my age recall him? I am a little amazed that his books have not been reprinted. They were all (I read a dozen or more other Henty books later) historical novels. The amazing thing about them—they were extremely accurate in their historic detail. Henty's plots were simple—he took some young fellow, placed him in the close company of some celebrated figure of history and told the story of that particular day as though it was seen through the eyes of his young hero.

In "The Young Carthaginian" his historic figure, of course, was Hannibal; his story, the march against Rome. In the other book, naturally Cortez was the historic character; the story told of the conquest of the Aztecs.

Henty was born 125 years ago this year. He lived in the day of Lewis Carroll. He was British, I think, and for a fleeting interval was a highly popular writer with younger readers. I know now that the books I received on that Christmas day, so long ago—must have been reprints of Henty's works. Even then he must have been dead for many years.

I wonder why his books have completely vanished.

Boys have changed, perhaps, but they have not changed enough that they no longer like exciting stories of adventure. Boys still like "Treasure Island" (I hope they always will).

Why are there no reissues of the Henty books?

I think that there are youngsters today who would get just as much of a thrill out of his stirring stories as I did when I was a boy. And I know that other boys of other generations before me had been equally thrilled.

I will always remember that Christmas ... and I will always remember George Alfred Henty.

A Job To Be Had If You Want It

It is not exactly top secret that I admire persons who are imbued with spunk and get-up-and-go, and who believe that God helps those who help themselves.

This puts me at odds with England's "angry generation" and America's "beat generation" of young people—a minority group, thank goodness, but an extremely vocal minority. Their solution to life's trials and tribulations in mid-century is to meet them head-on with loud lamentations while sprawled on their hunkers.

So the lesson for today is the true story of a business woman of 66 and what she did recently when, after a lifetime of hard work, she found herself bankrupt. When she took stock of her situation, she discovered that she had left only a second-hand car, her clothes, a few family keepsakes and $100.

The idea of going to live—or "sponge" as she saw it—on relatives was repugnant to her and was rejected outright. When a friend in California, knowing her pride and her pluck, found a job for her in San Francisco, Mary put all her worldly possessions in her car and headed West.

Well, $100 will only take you so far, since you can't put a jalopy on a cheese-and-cracker diet. But it got Mary to Reno just in time for one of the old tires to blow beyond repair. She had enough money to pay for two nights' lodging in a decent boarding house and for another box of crackers and a half-pound of cheese.

Her problem was to make enough money for a "new" second-hand tire and enough gas and cheese to take her on to San Francisco.

Mary started combing the town for work. One of Reno's largest hotels advertised for a bookkeeper and she answered the ad. The personnel manager looked her over carefully. What he saw was a lady who strongly resembles an updated Queen Victoria with a pale blue poodle haircut and sense of humor.

"You're wasting your time," he told Mary, and her heart sank. "I got a bookkeeper. But, lady, you got the makings of the best damn skill in town!"

A skill, he explained, is a person hired by a gambling casino to pretend dice absorption in dice, roulette for twenty-one until enough suckers have been lured to a particular game or table to make it worth while for the house. Then the skill floats to the next table.

"So suppose you don't know anything about gambling. We got teachers," the personnel manager said. "With your looks, you got a future in this biz."

So within a matter of minutes, Mary found herself learning the intricacies of dice, roulette and twenty-one. That night she went to work in the hotel's gambling casino on the gray-eyed shift, 2 to 10 a.m.

To make a long story short, Mary, who had once taught history and English at a young ladies' finishing school, had the time of her life. For three weeks this woman, who looks like a younger Josephine Hull, shined her way to success. By that time she had earned enough money for the second-hand tire and a nest egg to see her and the jalopy to San Francisco and the new job.

The congregation is invited to write its own moral.

Proving Success Of Jet Transports

WASHINGTON—On his list of 52 proposed exchanges between the Soviet Union and the United States, Ambassador Georgi Zaroubin included airlines to fly between the two countries, thereby pointing up one of Russia's propaganda claims.

This claim is that the Soviets have had in flight for two years a jet passenger plane, the TU-104. The British had the Comet, which was defective and taken out of service after two mid-air explosions. Two American passenger jets, one by Douglas and one by Boeing, will go into service sometime in 1959 and the British Comet IV late next year.

Whether the TU-104 is in fact a passenger plane that could be operated on a practical basis or merely a spectacular demonstration for propaganda purposes is debatable. And the debate illustrates in a dramatic way what it means for free enterprise to compete with a totalitarian economy.

In the Soviet Union, an order from on top can produce a TU-104 regardless of cost or any other consideration. Its fuel consumption may be so high and its payload so small as to make its operation on a profit-and-loss basis out of the question. But that makes no difference to the Russians if by flying it to America, as they did in September when the plane brought over members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, they can make a splash in the free world.

Boeing, in building the jet 707 and Douglas in the DC-8, will probably have a total capital investment of half a billion dollars before their planes can be sold and put into service on the world's airlines. These airlines—and this is particularly true in the United States—have a large investment in propeller-driven aircraft which must be worked out in relation to the big new investment in jets. The price tag on the 707 and the DC-8 will be $6,000,000 plus.

In still another respect the competition to be first with this new, far faster form of air travel illustrates the complexity of the relationship between government and private enterprise. Jet passenger airlines cannot be flown on the present outdated airways in the United States. With the extraordinary increase in passenger traffic, these airways are outmoded without the addition of a single civilian jet.

It takes government action to bring the airways up to date with semi-automatic control over planes while they are in flight and while they are landing. The Eisenhower Administration let precious time go by without starting this modernization. Now, fortunately, an able expeditor, Lieut. General Elwood R. Quesada, has been brought in as chairman of the Airways Modernization Board.

With his long background in the Air Force and later in the aviation industry, Quesada is pushing hard on a program that will mean a combined control system for both civil and military air operations.

A jet plane flying non-stop from Los Angeles to New York must have complete information for landing in New York roughly midway in the flight. And there can be no hesitation once the plane approaches the airport, since a jet, because of fuel supply and fuel consumption, cannot wait to land as propeller-driven craft can.

This indicates how vital a modern system of flight control and approach is to the aircraft industry. Some aviation executives are concerned because they feel that already the limitations of an outmoded, hand-operated system for control of landing and takeoffs has begun to affect passenger business. The serious handicaps of this system were aired in a Senate inquiry conducted a year and a half ago by Senator Mike Monroney of Oklahoma.

If you want to get out and have tire trouble on a cold icy day, don't go by Creighton Tire Co. But if you would like to remove all cares about your tires through the cold winter months, check with Charlie Creighton and get a new set of Seiberling tires. Creighton fully believes in Seiberlings; he should because he's been handling them for over 27 years in Big Spring.

The spotlight is on Seiberling's Sealed-Aire tubeless tire now at Creighton Tire Co. at 203 W. 3rd. This tire has everything.

Dramatic tests performed on the Sealed-Aire at Daytona Beach and Silver Springs, Fla., proved the superiority of this tire, known as the "world's first."

During this test, the tires were subjected to tortures worse than would ever be encountered in a million miles of normal driving.

The Seiberling people punctured the tire with knives, bullets, hunting arrows, and underwater guns capable of killing sharks, but the tire sealed every one of the punctures.

Adair Music Distributes Famous Baldwin Pianos

When people speak of the finest in violins, they name the Stradivarius. When they talk of great pictures, they cite Rembrandt.

When they speak of finest pianos, they say Baldwin.

More and more of the great musicians of the world demand the Baldwin as their instrument when they are presented in concert.

They know that a Baldwin is a masterpiece—a perfect instrument. And they know that their skill will be shown at its ultimate in the production they are able to give with a Baldwin.

However, it is not necessary for a person to be a master of the piano to make him want and admire the Baldwin. The man or woman buying a piano for their home will have just as much reason as the virtuoso for wanting the very best.

That's why discriminating folk everywhere buy Baldwins and why they proudly display these fine pianos in their homes.

Baldwin is the master achievement in piano manufacturing. It leaves nothing to chance; it is painstakingly built to produce the finest possible of all pianos.

Baldwins are breath taking in their beauty. Go by Adair Music Company at 1708 Gregg and feast your eyes on the beautiful, perfectly built Baldwins they have in stock. If you are in the market for a piano, be certain you talk to Adair before you make your final decision.

American flyer Bill Wyatt appears to be off balance as, with gestures, he tells the story of ditching his plane in the sea off Spain, to Commander B. C. G. Place, skipper of the British destroyer Coruna, as the ship arrives in London. Place appears to be doing just as well as Wyatt with the gestures. Between them is the fuselage of Wyatt's plane, the City of Galveston, in which Wyatt was attempting a non-stop flight from the Texas city to Rome when he was forced to ditch in the sea.

Soviet Scientist Says Reds Developed New Rocket Fuel

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist today said the Russians developed a new fuel for the Sputniks.

T. Khachaturov wrote in the Transport Ministry newspaper Gorkod that in order to reach the enormous speed of 8 kilometers per second it was necessary to produce new fuels for rockets.

The speed he mentioned would be 5 miles per second, or 18,000 miles per hour, about the speed of Sputnik I and slightly greater than the reported speed of Sputnik II.

Khachaturov also described what he called an "electronic brain" which could correct any deviation in Sputnik's movement before it entered its orbit.

Soviet writers and scientists implied that the dog-passenger circling the earth in Sputnik II will die.

Moscow Planetarium officials yesterday suggested the animal might be parachuted back to earth. The Russians may hope to recover the dog's body for scientific study.

The implications that the dog, called Laika, will be sacrificed to science were contained in articles on possible voyages to the moon.

I. Isakov, a Stalin Prize winner in biological science, said in a Communist youth newspaper that Soviet scientists will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on the moon.

Revolution on the moon. This prediction—less spectacular than that by some Soviet writers—indicated there still were problems to be solved before man can be blasted into space with the hope of returning alive.

Some scientists in the United States, including Clyde Tombaugh, discoverer of the planet Pluto, say the Russians already may have fired a rocket with the intention of landing it on the moon Thursday, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. They estimated it would take about four days for a rocket to reach the moon.

Prof. Yuri Khlebzevich, speaking on Moscow radio's foreign service predicted Russian scientists would be able to send a rocket to the moon and back after a circuit of that body "before too long."

In the Communist youth newspaper article, Isakov said "We believe that in the next 5 or 10 years flights of humans into cosmic space, perhaps with landings on other planets of our sun's system, will be a reality. Possibly the 50th anniversary of the great October revolution will be celebrated on the moon just as we are now celebrating the 40th on our planet."

He said a long period of experimentation with animals as rocket passengers was first necessary in order to solve the problem of a safe return to earth through the atmosphere.

The article failed to spell out whether Sputnik II had been equipped with a catapult for an attempt to return the dog passenger or its body to earth, but it said some such apparatus must be developed before human flight into space becomes practical.

"It would be quite advisable to perfect means of saving these animals after completing their movement to make studies of their condition after scientific observations aloft are finished," Isakov said.

Irina Volk wrote in the Literary Gazette that the little shaggy dog "has become very popular and some foreign journalists have even invented a name for it."

"But in the laboratories this air traveler was more often called 'Laika' both for its breed and because it suits its character."

The writer outlined a number of measures to assure the dog's comfort aloft, including long training to ration its own food.

Before being lodged in her air-conditioned tent in the rocket the writer continued, Laika was given a "grand flying meal" brought from the airframe kitchen, including, soup, a second dish, and dessert.

The writer said "bigots and hypocrites" had been deploring the fate of the Soviet dog but had raised no similar outcry over animals used in other experiments, including those used at Bikini for U.S. atomic tests.

Shakespeare Course Opens

Approximately 100 people took part in the opening session of the Shakespeare short course which started Monday evening at the Howard County Junior College.

Elizabeth Daniels, member of the English faculty, gave a brief lecture explaining the setting and background under which the first offering, "Henry V," was created by Shakespeare.

In the second offering, "Hamlet," she spotlighted some of the more familiar and beautiful passages which were heard later in the Sir Laurence Olivier color production. The film was high in pageantry as well as in Shakespearean poetry and philosophy.

The second performance is set for Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the college auditorium when "Richard III" will be presented. The third will be "Hamlet" on Nov. 15 and the final in the series "Midsummer Night's Dream" on Nov. 18.

Any interested individuals may register Thursday for the remaining plays.

Planning For Space Flight?

CATSKILL, N. Y. (AP)—Four black bears—each weighing about as much as a human—have been shipped to the Air Force missile development center in New Mexico by the Catskill game farm.

Roland Lindemann, game farm owner, said today he was not told how the bears would be used.

Lindemann said the bears were trucked to Albany Friday and then flown to Holloman Air Force Base, N. M., in an Air Force plane.

The bears are 2 to 2½ years old and their weights range between 120 and 200 pounds.

Scouts Preparing Entries For Exposition Nov. 22

Boy Scout units in the Lone Star District are beginning work on exhibits for the annual Scout Exposition here Nov. 22-23.

The show this year will be held in the former location of Big Spring Motor at 500 W. 4th Street, and officials are planning for the largest number of entries on record.

100 At Volunteer Orientation Clinic

Good response has marked the first orientation series for volunteer workers at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Despite adverse weather, Mrs. Ira Thurman, coordinator of volunteer activities, said that approximately 100 representatives from various organizations have taken part in the sessions spread over two days.

Mrs. Mary Alice Combs, Austin, occupational therapy representative from the state rehabilitation services, was unable to appear due to illness. In her place, Bill Lowler of the Abilene State Hospital Staff talked on the subject of occupational and recreational therapy.

Guests for the morning sessions were served lunch at the hospital and were taken on a tour of the institution. Later they raised various questions in a forum period. Speakers were Dr. William Horbaly, superintendent; L. K. Miller, business manager, the Rev. Marvin Berkeland, chaplain; Madeline Trees, nursing supervisor; Charles Rich, psychologist; Dr. Frankie Williams from the hospital professional staff; and Mrs. Thurman.

Mrs. Thurman said there was an unusually good cross-section of representatives and that out of town visitors were present. Numbers of those participating made selections of projects which they would recommend to their clubs, she said.

Witness Balks At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Kamenow, former top Michigan aide to Nathan Shefferman, refused to tell Senate investigators whether he paid union officials to refrain from organizing the employees of his clients.

With beads of sweat conspicuous on his face, the bulky Kamenow took the Fifth Amendment before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. He tried also to invoke provisions of the Michigan constitution.

"I decline to be a witness against myself," Kamenow said, reading from a typed statement. Kamenow refused also to hand over his personal financial books and records which the committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), had attempted to subpoena.

In sharp tones, McClellan told Kamenow "I can see no difference" between crooked union leaders who take refuge in the Fifth Amendment when called to account, and representatives of business who also invoke the Fifth.

Coast Guard Cutter Sights Mystery Object

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Coast Guard cutter Sebago reported sighting an unidentified flying object over the Gulf of Mexico at 5:21 a. m. CST today. The object, seen for about three seconds, resembled a brilliant planet moving at tremendous speed, the report said.

Coast Guard headquarters in New Orleans received a radio message about the sighting. The message did not say exactly who on board the cutter had seen the object.

The message said the object had been tracked on the Sebago's radar screen for 11 minutes before the visual contact and for 16 minutes afterward. During these periods, the object darted off the screen every few minutes but soon returned.

Cmdr. James Schrader, head of search and rescue operations in the Gulf, said the object had been seen about 200 miles directly south of the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Cmdr. Schrader said the radio message gave this log of the morning incident:

5:10 a. m.—The object was seen on the radar screen, moving north to south, about 14 miles from the cutter. The object continued to move closer, shifting toward the port side.

5:14—Contact was lost.

5:16—Contact was regained with the object about 22 miles north of the cutter. It was moving north to south, about 55 miles from the Sebago, faded off the screen.

5:20—Contact was regained. The object appeared stationary, seven miles due north.

5:21—The object was seen, moving horizontally south to north. It was seen for about three seconds and resembled a brilliant planet with a high rate of speed.

5:21—Radar contact was resumed.

5:37—The cutter reported its last radar contact with the object about 175 miles north of the ship.

The Sebago is expected to report back to its home base in Mobile by Thursday.

'Little Stalin' Whips Germany Into Satellite

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—His fellow Germans call him "Little Stalin" and "Kremlin hatchman." Even Communists recognize him as "the most hated man in Germany."

He is Walter Ulbricht, 64, the stocky, cold-eyed boss of the East German Communist party and Moscow's "star pupil" among satellite leaders.

This fall the Russians have reason to pin Red stars on him.

While rumblings of discontent against Moscow domination swirl elsewhere in Eastern Europe, Ulbricht has killed off stirrings of independence among the 18 million East Germans.

The bearded Stalinist dictator has whipped East Germany into the No. 1 Soviet satellite.

Industrially, East Germany now ranks second to Russia within the Soviet bloc.

Strategically, it provides bases for 22 Russian divisions and supporting air units—the main Soviet striking force confronting Western Europe.

Politically, the East German puppet regime has given Russia a legal facade for blocking creation of a reunited Germany through free elections.

To reward Ulbricht, Soviet party chief Nikita Khrushchev recently flew to East Berlin, kissed the German on both cheeks and tagged him for a key role in the future East-West struggle for Germany. The Russians will put Ulbricht against Konrad Adenauer, re-elected chancellor of West Germany.

As the Russians purr over Ulbricht, what are the East Germans saying?

One might recently in a heavily guarded studio of West Berlin's Radio Free Berlin, a gaunt, gray-haired man stepped before a television camera.

State Hospital Funds Okayed

An allocation of $7,500 to improve plumbing facilities at the Big Spring State Hospital was approved Monday by the board for State Hospitals and Special Schools.

The Big Spring and other projects were authorized after the board voted to establish a $2 million school for retarded children at Denton. It was announced that Denton residents subscribed $100,000 to buy a site for the school.

The chairman of the site committee, George Pirtle of Tyler, said, however, "The compelling reason for selecting Denton was the proximity of two large state colleges, both of which have excellent training programs in the field of mental health."

Other improvement projects voted totaled $460,000. They included:

- Wichita Falls Hospital, $30,000, new water distribution system.
- East Texas Tuberculosis Hospital, $15,000, new main electrical distribution center and furniture for visiting room; $35,000, ward building repairs.
- Legion Hospital, $27,000, new floor covering in two buildings, renovating bath room.
- McKnight Tuberculosis Hospital, $15,000, addition to laundry.
- Kerrville Home, $20,000, new maintenance shop.
- Harlingen Tuberculosis Hospital, $40,000, window changes, install water softener and treatment equipment, install facilities for reducing glare on ward buildings.

The board voted to build a $26,500 residence for Dr. Samuel Topperman, superintendent of East Texas Tuberculosis Hospital, and also authorized the beginning of the expansion of the occupational therapy facilities at the Harlingen Tuberculosis Hospital.

Clerk To Tally Voting Results

Mrs. Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, said her office would remain open tonight to collect election returns from today's countywide vote on three state constitutional amendments.

She said the special canvass board will count the votes in the absentee voter box this afternoon. Only five such votes were cast.

An extremely light vote is anticipated. Interest in the three questions is low and the bad weather will probably result in an even smaller vote than might have been the case had weather been good.

Mrs. Petty asked that all election judges endeavor to advise her office tonight on the outcome of the voting.

Moonwatch Teams Alerted

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Sharp-eyed observers in the United States may be able to sight Russia's dog-carrying satellite tomorrow morning before sunrise.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory also predicted today Russia's first satellite rocket will make a flaming plunge to earth Dec. 11.

The Smithsonian astrophysicists alerted 105 American Moonwatch teams to begin optical tracking of Sputnik II tomorrow morning.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, Smithsonian director, cautioned that the predictions are based on rough data which placed the present period of rotation of Sputnik II around the earth as 103.7 minutes. He said if Moonwatch teams tomorrow can get accurate sightings they will be able to better to pin down the orbit.

The prediction on the fall of man's first satellite was based on computations by Dr. Leland E. Cunningham of the University of California and his staff at the radiation laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

Dr. Cunningham, formerly of Harvard, used data on Sputnik I forwarded to him by the Smithsonian observatory.

Tomorrow, Sputnik II will make its first pass off the East Coast at approximately 5 a. m. EST, from a point east of Florida to Nova Scotia. The next pass will begin at the lower end of Texas at 6:43 EST and swing near Chicago at 6:47 a. m., leaving the country in the Great Lakes area.

Paying Dividends Now

Here are two practices which are paying dividends during this wet late autumn. Above is a pasture which was plowed and seeded when it was barren as a result of drought. Below, on the Wilson Ranch north of Luther, is a section of range which was subjected to root plowing. In both cases, the depressions and litter held the rains and increased penetration. Soil Conservation Service technicians made some moisture measurements and found that in pastures which were plowed and seeded, penetration was about 20 inches. Ranges given root plowing (where giant plows cut brush roots loose below the surface) had penetration of 18 to 36 inches. Best penetration of all came on ground with good range cover. Moisture in these places went down to 36 inches or to the reserve deep moisture left from spring rains. Pastures with little or no cover or which had no mechanical treatment had penetration of only 12 inches.

Daniel Appeals For Legislative Support

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Daniel has made a grass-roots appeal to voters to urge their legislators to pass the bills which he recommended to the special session. In a statewide radio and television address last night, Daniel implied he would call another session if necessary to pass a "reasonable but strict lobby bill." Daniel said a large majority in both houses want such a bill passed "and I shall see that they have the opportunity. It will not be killed or weakened because of time running out." The governor asked voters to cast their ballots today for the three proposed constitutional amendments which he said were "of very much importance to the future progress of Texas." House and Senate members today were to discuss the administration's lobby bill which has been branded by critics as a "loophole bill" and one which would be worse than the present lobbying law. Daniel said the people of Texas may have to share part of the blame for delays in passing his program. He said "many members of the Legislature have stated publicly that they have not heard from the folks back home on these issues and that they do not believe you are interested." "I think they have misjudged the attitude and opinion of the people of this state," Daniel said, adding he thought it was the duty of the voters "to let your members of the House and Senate know that you will back them up in their fight to pass the bills which the governor has recommended." Both houses have passed a water planning bill as asked by Daniel and he said he was confident the "best parts" of each bill can be combined in a conference committee. He said he called the session partly "because I believed that Texas should have a lobbyist registration and control act... legislative investigating committees and grand juries have recommended this reform." "It will help correct and prevent some of the scandals which have brought shame to our state... nearly everyone who ran for state office in Texas last year advocated a lobby control act. It failed in the last regular session and because of the hard core of opposition from those who do not want the public to know of their activities, I do not believe such a bill could ever be passed except at a special session," Daniel said. He said this bill and "the proposed law enforcement study commission are necessary to protect the good name of our state and to bring about better enforcement of our laws."

Daily Average Oil Production Down

TULSA (AP)—Daily average production of crude declined 56,500 barrels to 6,720,200 the week ended Nov. 2, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. Oklahoma dropped 11,100 barrels to 551,000. Arkansas fell 100 to 80,000 and Louisiana 25 to 803,073. Colorado rose 600 barrels to 46,400. Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,650,100 barrels, and New Mexico, 253,300.

Insurance Board Eyes Proposal On Small Loans

AUSTIN (AP)—The Insurance Board studied today recommendations from the attorney general that it take the small loan business out of the insurance industry. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson promised yesterday to help the board "plug up the abuses." He asked the board to reduce credit insurance rates and put a ceiling on commissions awarded for sales. The board took Wilson's arguments under consideration in a public hearing. There have been charges that some loan companies used credit insurance—often required with small loans—as a dodge to exact what amounts to usurious rates. "We do not condone those practices," said Cecil Burney of Corpus Christi, representing 21 credit insurance companies which belong to the Texas Consumers Credit Assn. "We stand ready to help and those practices should be corrected," Burney said. "District attorneys should ask for prosecution and the board could do away with licenses of (insurance) companies performing those abuses." However, Burney and other insurance spokesmen disagreed with other recommendations by the attorney general. Burney said commissions paid to loan companies and other agents were not out of line, nor were Texas' credit insurance rates inconsistent with other states. Burney asked the board to defer action on any rate changes this year. He said not enough was known about credit insurance sales. Wilson and three of his assistants presented a 77-page investigative report pertaining to credit insurance uses in Fort Worth, Galveston, Corpus Christi, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Amarillo, Temple, Killeen and Waco. They said: 1. Loan companies were allowed under past Insurance Boards to pad charges with various insurance not necessary to protect the person making the loan. 2. The Insurance Board should "take usury out of insurance. The board's job is insurance only and it should not worry about what would happen to the loaning industry," Wilson said. 3. The credit insurance statutes are constitutional, although the past board rulings and regulations have had "an unconstitutional effect because of devices of high commissions allowed," Wilson said.

WIN-'EM-ALL AGGIES RETAIN POLL LEAD

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Tough, win-'em-all Texas A&M not only retained, but strengthened its hold on the No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press college football poll this week—the first club other than Oklahoma to stay on top two straight weeks since mid-1955.

Not since Oklahoma took the top spot from then mighty Maryland in the eighth week of the '55 campaign have the Sooners been unable to bounce back after a week. They had been out of the No. 1 position only twice, stepping back for Tennessee and Michigan State last year.

Big Spring's Big John

John Birdwell, 190-pound football junior from Big Spring, is considered one of the finest performers on defense at Hardin-Simmons University. Birdwell usually performs at right end for the Cowboys.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

EARL BLAOK, Army football coach
"Don't misunderstand me, I'm not shopping for setups to start the season, but I think that sometimes it takes a team a long time to recover from being beaten the way Pitt was by Oklahoma. If I can open by winning by one or two touchdowns I feel as though it does us more good than getting a good walloping."

RED SCHOENDIENST, Milwaukee infielder
"I've played with Willie Mays, and I've played against him, and as far as I'm concerned there never could be any better center fielder."

GEORGE WRIGHT, Baylor University sports publicist
"When a reporter comes to write, or talk about your game, he wants to know, did you win—or lose—and not how close you came."

J. B. (Ears) WHITWORTH, Alabama football coach
"We've played LSU, Vanderbilt, TCU, Tennessee and Mississippi State this season and Mississippi State is, without a doubt, the best team we've met."

TOMMY HOLMES, former manager of the Boston Braves
"I know Lew Burdette doesn't throw the spitter. I've seen a few thrown by Nelson Poffner and Claude Passeau. Sure, Lew wets the ball but many pitchers are doing that. . . . He wouldn't take a chance on throwing a wet ball — not while he's a big winner. He loves baseball too much to face a suspension."

JOE COLEMAN, former American League hurler
"Ten per cent of the major league hurlers today use the spitball. Lew Burdette admitted to me, when he first came up to the Yankees, he used the spitball to get batters out. I, myself, have used the spitball on occasions."

DARRELL ROYAL, Texas University coach
"I'm no hard-nosed coach. I have no definite set rules. I just want the boys to give us a good effort. Everything is an individual effort. We have to get them to want to do the right thing. . . . I don't drive them and make them do something out of fear. We want them doing things because they want to. That's the only way I know to get morale."

JOCK SUTHERLAND, late, great football coach
"The best time to use sophomores is when they are juniors."

BOBBY DODD, Georgia Tech grid mentor
"A wet field always helps the underdog."

CHUCK MATHER, giving advice to coaches whose teams are experiencing a losing season
"Sleeping end runs are the best things to use when your team has the ball. The runner runs a long way and the spectators who see it play from an angle can't tell whether it is gaining or losing. Also, I order my quarterback to throw a long interception. It takes up time and engenders a certain measure of suspense."

WILL CONNOLLY, San Francisco sports writer
"They now have five officials to catch violations in football. In what should be a college boy game, if football needs that many officials, then the game is in a bad way. It's more punitive than positive."

BULWER-LYTTON, not a sports personality but a person whose philosophy could apply on the athletic field
"Nothing is so contagious as enthusiasm; it moves stones, it charms brutes. Enthusiasm is the genius of sincerity and no victories are accomplished without it."

North Texas May End Grid Relations With Trinity

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas News said today North Texas may sever football relations with Trinity University.

Odas Mitchell, coach of North Texas, was quoted in Dallas as denouncing the officiating. "They (the officials) refused to let our team co-captains talk to them about infractions. Not until the last minutes of the game did they impose a penalty upon Trinity," he was quoted. Mitchell said he had submitted a list of acceptable grade one officialists but none was used. "I've never seen my boys so upset over the treatment they received from the officials," the News quoted Mitchell as saying. "It took something out of them." Mitchell did not say positively, after viewing film of the Trinity game, that he was severing relations but pointed out that his 1958 schedule was about complete. If relations are severed it would end one of the longest rivalries in Texas college football. The teams started playing in 1916.

Don Meredith To Be At Helm Against A&M

DALLAS (AP)—Don Meredith, because of careful coaching, is the newest star to shine in Southwest Conference football just at the time when needed most by Southern Methodist.

Saturday night Don, the tall sophomore who started tongues wagging last week when he led SMU to a smashing 19-12 upset of Texas, will be at the helm when the Methodists try for the big one at College Station—against undefeated, untied and nationally ranked No. 1 Texas A&M.

The fans are wanting to know where Don had been so long, why he wasn't quarterbacking the Mustangs back when they were floundering around and losing games.

The answer is easy. Coach Bill Meek just didn't feel that he was ready, he had too much to learn before he could step in as field general of a major college football team.

Meek was determined to bring his prize along slowly and not throw him to the wolves at a time when he might have his future ruined by a hurtful error.

Meek had given him a few chances but only where no harm might result either to Meredith or to the team. Actually, Don hadn't done too well. In three games he had carried the ball nine times, gained 19 yards and lost 19. He had thrown one pass for 22 yards but had followed this up with a fumble that gave the ball to Georgia Tech and wiped out SMU's chances of scoring.

But, by the time the Missouri game arrived, Meek felt Don had matured. However, he had a shoulder injury and couldn't play.

Next came Rice and when Meredith entered the game in the fourth quarter the fans saw the SMU offense come to life with a bang. He threw passes for 30, 31 and 11 yards in an 86-yard drive and he banged over from the Rice two for a touchdown. It was too late to win the game but it was obvious that Meredith had arrived.

3 Champs Await Grid Playoffs

By The Associated Press
Three district champions await the playoffs and 12 more are due to be determined this week in Class A schoolboy football.

One team that should win its title is replacing Smetten, the 1956 state champion, White Deer, which tumbled Smetten last week to end the champions' winning streak at 22. Can clinch the Dist. 1 crown Friday by defeating Panhandle.

Already champions are Linden in Dist. 15, Madisonville in 21 and Bastrop in 26.

These titles go on the line this week: Dist. 1, White Deer by beating Panhandle; 5, Sundown by beating French; 8, Ozona by beating Junction; 9, Mason by beating Cross Plains; 11, Crowell by beating Paducah; 16, Hawkins by beating White Oak; 20, Mart by beating Franklin; 22, Garrison by beating Joaquin; 23, East Chambers by beating Hardin; 30, Bishop by beating West Oso; 32, Los Fresnos by beating Rio Hondo.

Frank Malzone Is Selected As 'Soph Of Year' In AL

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox, a last-minute ineligible candidate for 1957 American League Rookie-of-the-Year honors, was an overwhelming selection today as the best sophomore in the AL.

The slugging third-baseman earned the league's sophomore award by a landslide in the annual vote of the Press poll of members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America. Malzone was named on 166 of the 182 ballots cast.

Shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox, Rookie-of-the-Year in 1956, was second with 14 votes. Outfielders Tito Franco of Baltimore and Rocky Colavito of Cleveland each received one vote.

For most of the 1957 season Malzone, 27, had been touted as DALLAS (AP)—Amarillo gained the undisputed lead in the Dallas News' poll of Class AAAA school boy football teams today.

Amarillo was tied with Abilene last week.

The top 10 in order: Amarillo, Abilene, Corpus Christi Ray, Austin Maroons, Dallas Crozier Tech, Dallas Highland Park, Temple, Texarkana, Wichita Falls, San Antonio Jefferson.

Odessa Considered
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Odessa and Memphis, Tenn., are being considered as a new site for the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics' championship football game Dec. 21. The game was held in Little Rock last year but officials said conditions are too unstable there this year. The teams have not been named.

Irish 11 Can Look For Rough Saturday

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Notre Dame, the school that gave Michigan State its first important assist into big money football, can only expect a hard time as thanks on Saturday.

The Irish appearance here, a Midwestern classic in recent years, will be the first sellout in the new 76,000-capacity Spartan Stadium.

In the last few years, the Spartans have beaten the ears of the old buddies who gave them the initial lift into national prominence. Michigan State is a slight favorite.

The MSU-Irish football series dates back to 1897 but was discontinued after Notre Dame won a 49-0 shutout in 1941.

Michigan State decided to gamble on getting into big league football when enrollment started booming in the years following World War II. A solid gate attraction was needed to justify enlarging the stadium capacity from 26,000 to 51,000.

Notre Dame signed for a long-time series starting in 1948 and the rise of the Spartans dates from that agreement.

State later was accepted into the Western Conference, had several unbeaten seasons, topped the national ratings and has continued enlarging its stadium.

The Irish won the first two games of the modern series, in 1948 and 1949. But State has taken five out of the last six, including a 35-0 shutout in 1951 and a 47-14 wallop last year.

Michigan State has measured Indiana, California, Illinois and Wisconsin this fall while losing only to Purdue 20-13. Notre Dame topped, Purdue, Indiana, Army and Pittsburgh before bowing 20-0 to Navy last Saturday.

"We'd rather beat Notre Dame than any one but probably Michigan," said a player spokesman to explain the MSU attitude. "When you take them on you know you're meeting the best."

Sooner Fans Are Unhappy With Grid 11's Efforts

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma is riding a 46-game football winning streak, and is No. 2 in the nation, but this isn't satisfying some Sooner followers.

Fair-weather spectators are unhappy because Oklahoma isn't piling up 5 and 6 touchdown margins.

The situation was brought into focus Saturday as the Sooners, a touchdown favorite, had a hard time beating weak Kansas State 13-0. A 14-13 victory over Colorado in another Big Eight Conference game didn't set well with some.

It's a perfect situation for Sooner Coach Bud Wilkinson, who has a reputation for being pessimistic about each upcoming game, to say "I told you so."

Wilkinson today just pointed out what he had said all season, that he didn't have a superman team and his squad is playing at the peak of its capabilities in each game.

"I feel it's not in the cards for us to keep winning," said the graying Wilkinson, 41, in forecasting Oklahoma's string would come to an end against Missouri at Columbia Saturday.

"We'll be trying as hard as we can to win. But we have just an ordinary squad on offense."

He's happy with the Oklahoma defense, which has stopped all touchdown bids on the ground. "I think we have improved and I'm very well pleased with the way we've played. But we're going to have to move the ball more consistently and improve our kicking."

Then Wilkinson added: "Even if we lose the next three out of our four games the rest of this season, I'd say we had done real well."

DOHERTY HAS READY REPLY

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Football Coach Ed Doherty of the University of Arizona was asked what he planned to do after retirement in a meeting of the Tucson Towncats, a downtown booster group.

Doherty, 38, whose Wildcats have not won this season, said he and his assistant, Gene Fetter, plan to head for Mexico with football under their arms.

"When we get far enough south so someone asks, 'What's that thing you're carrying?'" he added laughingly, "that's the place we'll retire to."

WORKOUT CUT SHORT All Hands On Deck For Steer Drill

The Big Spring Steers Monday got off to a slow start in their preparations for their Friday night District 2-AAAA game with Midland in Midland.

The soggy condition of the field, together with the light rain, caused the coaches to limit the physical labor to between 20 and 30 minutes.

Coach Al Milch and his aides plan to work their charges much longer this afternoon, if they get a break in the weather. The Steers are in uniform again Monday.

Midland is due to be at full strength for the Steer game. Don Boyce, playing under a handicap last week against San Angelo, is due to be in top shape again.

Boyce, a junior, has been favorably compared to the Bulldogs' great Wahoo McDaniel, who is now at the University of Oklahoma.

Midland is one ball club which can match the Steers in size. The Bulldogs have an especially big line.

This will be the final road game of the 1957 season for Big Spring. They close out against San Angelo in the local stadium next week.

Colvin Easily Retains Lead

They didn't play last week but Chuck Colvin and Stan Cozby of Abilene remained 1-2 in the District 2-AAAA individual scoring race.

Colvin has 84 points and Cozby 42.

Buddy White of Odessa moved into third place in the race, with six touchdowns and five extra points for a total of 41 points.

Four players, including Big Spring's Wayne Fields, are tied for fourth place, with 36 points each.

Rain Hampers Drills In SW Football Camps

By The Associated Press
Rain hampered workouts Monday as Southwest Conference coaches juggled lineups and worried about injuries and mental condition as they shot for the angles in an attempt to figure in the title race now dominated by Texas A&M.

A&M, the only undefeated conference team left, worked an hour and a half in sweat clothes preparing for SMU. The Cadets got a scouting report and watched movies of the 7-6 victory over Arkansas.

SMU was kept indoors by rain. The Mustangs studied movies of the victory over Texas and ran around the coliseum. Brady Wyatt, No. 1 left end, was ruled out of an Aggie game because of an injured knee.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal shook up his lineup again. He moved soph halfback Rene Romize to the No. 1 team, based on his defensive showing against SMU. Walt Fondren was moved back to the No. 1 quarterback slot over Bobby Lackey. Fullback Mike Dowdle was named to the starting lineup ahead of Don Allen.

Guard Don Wilson and tackle Will Wyman were injured. The Mustangs studied movies of the Baylor game, then took the day off.

Rice Coach Jess Neely gave his varsity the day off. The Owls meet Arkansas Saturday.

Arkansas was in good condition physically, but Coach Jack Mitchell said the Aggie defeat left his team with a "mental letdown." Arkansas escaped without injury and only two Razorbacks were out with flu.

TCU, idle this weekend, watched movies of the Baylor game, then took the day off.

Vote To Split

Long-Secret Film Of West Texas 'Light' Released

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Morning News carried a picture today of a strange light a former bomber pilot said he took over West Texas a year ago.

J. G. Kirby, a Dallas rare rocks and gem expert, said he took the picture near Amarillo at 4 a. m. Aug. 2, 1956. He said the picture and story were held up by the FBI and Air Force authorities until a few days ago.

Kirby, a B17 pilot in World War II, told the News he and his wife and two children spotted the light while on a rock hunting expedition.

He said he snapped the picture with a small camera and called the FBI on his return to Dallas. He said he had a visit from an agent who studied the picture and conferred with authorities at nearby Hensley Field.

He said authorities told him only recently he no longer had to keep the photo and story quiet. Kirby said the Air Force theorized the glow was radiation vapor.

Kirby, who said he shot a whole roll of film, asserted the object was about 15,000 feet high and weaving through and around a frontal cloud. He said the object emitted an emerald green glowing trail which apparently hit the ground.

The lapidarist said he has seen similar sights twice since, both in West Texas, where glowing, flying objects have been reported recently.

VIENNA (AP)—Russia's second earth satellite was visible to the naked eye over Vienna this morning from 5:30 to 5:33 a. m.

Girard Death Trial Closes

MAEBAEHL, Japan (AP) — The Japanese manslaughter trial of GI William S. Girard ended today with a defense plea for acquittal on grounds that the Illinois soldier was "carrying out his due business" when he fired the shot that killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

The three-judge District Court said it would announce its verdict Nov. 19. The prosecution has asked that Girard be given five years in prison for the fatal shooting on a U.S. Army firing range last Jan. 30.

Presiding Judge Yuzo Kawachi is expected to rule also on Nov. 19 on a defense motion to throw out the case on the grounds that Japan lacks jurisdiction because Girard was on duty as an Army guard.

There has been considerable speculation that the soldier, if convicted, would get a three-year sentence and that this would be suspended so he could return to the United States.

Girard contends he shot over the heads of Japanese scavenging for scrap brass to protect Army equipment he was guarding. He says the shot, an empty shell casing fired from a grenade launcher, hit Mrs. Sakai by accident.

Chief defense lawyer Itsuro Hayashi in his 12,000-word summation said even if the court claimed jurisdiction, Girard should be acquitted under Article 35 of the Japanese criminal code. This provides that no person shall be punished for an act done under law or order, or in carrying out his due business.

Dies Says Negro Isn't Ready For Integration Yet

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The integration movement in the South is a political move to capture the Negro vote and not to help the Negro, Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex.) said last night.

"And the Negro is not ready for integration," he added. Dies, keynote for a state rally of the Citizens Council tonight, spoke at a news conference. Citizens Councils are groups of white men dedicated to preventing integration in all phases of Mississippi society.

Dies, organizer of the Un-American Activities Committee of the House before World War II, said the entire integration movement stems from a Communist blueprint.

The High Fidelity House

Features the Ultimate in Sound
1004 11th Place—AM 4-4623

print drawn in Moscow decades ago. The movement was carried on by do-gooders, politicians and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, he said, adding:

"The NAACP grew out of the National Negro Congress, a Communist organization created to carry out the Moscow program. I won't say the NAACP is a Communist group but the leaders of the Negro Congress had a great influence on the NAACP after the Negro Congress dissolved."

Dies said all efforts to integrate do not stem from this Communist blueprint.

"There are many good people who think it is the thing to do but who don't understand the problems involved," he said.

The Texan said the movement was begun in the South because that area is "the bulwark of Americanism, that is, limited federal sovereignty."

He described the South as the balance of power between the Northern Democrats and Republicans. He said the South could keep segregation indefinitely if it is united for the best interests of the nation rather than on a sectional basis.

Flu Hits More Schools In Texas

By The Associated Press
Flu struck at more Texas schools Monday, closing some and slashing attendance at others. Snyder, Talpa and Highland in West Texas all closed Monday. Snyder schools were to try to re-open Wednesday, but the others would be closed at least until Thursday.

The Martinsville school in Nacogoches closed Monday with 27 per cent of the students absent. The Central Heights schools, with 31 per cent absent, and the Chireno schools which had some teachers ill, both in Nacogoches County, were supposed to reopen Monday but couldn't.

The Easter school near Weatherford closed Monday, as did schools at Rowlett, Richardson and Grand Prairie in the Dallas area. The Dallas school system said 83 schools had at least 20 per cent of their 19,098 enrollment out with flu.

Texans Cast Light Amendments Vote

By The Associated Press
Texans cast a light vote Tuesday on three amendments to the state Constitution.

One would create the Water Development Board and provide for issuance of 100 million dollars in state bonds. The other two would provide more fringe benefits for state employees and increase old age and other pensions.

Rain and drizzle covered much of the state. This was expected to hold down a vote already forecast as small. Bob Johnson of Dallas, head of the Texas Election Bureau, estimated a vote of 200,000. About one million votes were cast in last April's special Senate election.

Most controversy centered about the water amendment. Funds from the bonds would be used to purchase bonds or other securities from cities, river authorities or water districts for water control and development.

Those opposing the amendment say it is inadequate or too costly, depending on the point of view, and that it does not guarantee construction of local projects. Backers say it would result in ultimate savings and there would be no direct cost to the state.

Gov. Price Daniel and others have urged passage of the amendments. Daniel said in a statewide radio and TV address Monday night Texas "can contribute to the history of Texas for conservation of the waters that now flow into the Gulf of Mexico."

The fringe benefit amendment is designed to keep more state employees in their jobs. It would guarantee a minimum pension of at least $30 a month plus more liberal provisions in case of retirement because of disability and more generous death benefits. Some say the added cost to the state would be $400,000 a year or higher. Backers say it would be worth the money to keep good employes working for the state. The pension amendment would make cost-of-living increases for the aged, the blind and dependent children.

It would increase the maximum per person state payment for old age assistance from $20 to $25 a month, with a provision that no payment in excess of $21 be made without federal matching money. Opponents also criticize this bill on the grounds it would cost too much. Proponents say the cost will stay within the limits of expected revenue.

Boy On Bike Gives Firemen A Chase

DETROIT (AP)—Six false alarms were registered in rapid-fire order in one East Side precinct last night. After the first three runs, firemen stopped looking for a fire and began searching for a culprit. They found him: a 12-year-old boy who rode from box to box on a bicycle.
