Yank Frees Family From Slave Camp

CHICAGO (AP)—A reunited family today marked the end to 11 years of separation. 11 years spent by the American father in seeking to free his Lithuanian wife and two children from a Communist labor camp in Siberia. William Gavcus, 47, a naturalized American, greeted his happy family at Midway Airport yesterday. Seeing them for the first time in more than a decade, he was speechless with emotion. "Everything dimmed—I was in tears," he told newsmen. "I'm just beginning to come to. I am the happiest man in this whole wide world I do not have the words to express myself." Monika, his 44-year-old wife, took it calmly. So did their daughter Rutha, 16, and son Romualda, 13. Neither Mrs. Gavcus nor the children speak English but they chatted happily in Russian and Lithuanian. Gavcus married Monika in 1939 on a trip to his native country. He had to leave his family behind when he returned to the United States in 1946, he said. He began then to plead with officials to bring the family together on American soil. Three years after they separated, the wife and children were sent to a collective farm in Siberia. Gavcus intensified his appeals. He asked an attorney from New York, Marshall MacDuffie, to help. MacDuffie, a former United Nations official, took the appeal personally to Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev, but he met with little success. Eventually, MacDuffie asked Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to intercede. She too spoke directly to Khrushchev. This year the family was released. Gavcus, who operates a liquor store in suburban Oak Park said he financed most of the Siberia-to-Chicago trip himself. The wife of the Lithuanian consul, Mrs. Petras Dauzvardis, said this was the first time the Soviets have released anyone from Siberia to settle in the United States.

Singer Says Ballad Is Here To Stay

DALLAS (AP)—Ballads will always be popular despite trends such as rock 'n' roll, says oldtime country music singer Herald Goodman, a member of the "Original Vagabond Trio" of radio fame in the 1930s. As evidence, Goodman points to a planned revival of the song that made his group famous—"When It's Lamp Lighting Time in the Valley." The death of guitarist-singer Curt Poulton, a member of the trio and co-author of their theme song, brings back memories of the vocal group who were among the first country singers to climb to stardom. Poulton died Saturday in St. Louis. "There never has been an age in the history of popular music that hasn't had the ballad, even with all the trends," Goodman says. He classifies as examples the songs made famous by the Vagabonds on the "Grand Ole Opry" and other radio network shows. "We're still getting royalties off 'Lamp Lighting Time' from all the English-speaking countries in the world," said Goodman, 57, who operates a drive-in theater here. He said more than a million copies of the song were sold in sheet music form and it is now being arranged for a revival by a leading male singer. Other songs written and introduced by the trio include "Little Mother of the Hills," and "99 Years Is Almost for Life." Although such songs would be classified as "hillbilly" music today, Goodman said they were known as country ballads in the '30s. "We were restricted from using the word hillbilly then because it offended people of the Old South." The trio broke up after nine years on radio in 1939. The third member, Dean Upshur, now operates a radio station in Bessemer, Ala. Goodman says rock 'n' roll derives from country music and some of its leading exponents will probably last even though he thinks the trend itself will die. "Of Mr. Rock 'n' Roll himself, Elvis Presley, Goodman says: "The boy has talent. There's no doubt about that. And I think if Elvis and his management are as smart as they seem to be, he will settle down and sing ballads and other general type songs."

Writer Takes Note Of Life In Russia

Editor's Note: Miss Mayer, a state Capitol correspondent for several Texas newspapers, recently returned from Europe. In Russia, she got a good look at some average Russians. At the request of The Associated Press, Miss Mayer wrote this story.

By MARGARET MAYER
Written For The Associated Press

An average looking young Russian walked into the lobby of the Hotel Metropole in Moscow one rainy morning, sat down in a lounge chair and took off one shoe. The shoe had a hole in the bottom and his sock was wet. He took off the sock, wrapped it in a newspaper and put it in his coat pocket. The other half of the newspaper was folded to fit in the bottom of his shoe. A clerk watched him with unconcern. The hotel manager appeared not to notice. There are undoubtedly some things Moscow's big Hotel Metropole will not tolerate, but this was not one of them.

SOVIET SHORT COMINGS

It was, however, indicative of shortcomings of the Soviet system, visible on every hand. "Do not judge the Russians by their plumbing (or by the holes in their shoes)," was the advice given this reporter at the outset of her 18-day tour of the country. The girl guide-interpreter assigned for the tour made the trip across the Black Sea from Odessa to Sochi, up the Don-Volga from Rostov to Stalingrad and on to Moscow with all her travel necessities in one small overnight bag. Her wardrobe was a blue plaid cotton dress and a brown plaid rayon dress, one pair of black shoes, a red sweater and a brown cloth coat. She washed the cotton dress on shipboard during a two-day trip up the Volga-Don. Galya, as she was called, was well dressed compared with her sister Russians. Moscow had its first snow of the season during the visit there. As our big black Zim (copy of 1948 Buick) stopped for a red light, a Pobeda (copy of 1941 Ford) skidded up beside, scraping fenders. A traffic cop on the opposite side of the avenue refused the beckonings of our chauffeur and waved.

Jap Girl's Fiance On Missing Plane

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Masako Sasaki sorrowfully missed a date at the railway station today after preparing for it all year. Last week, the Japanese girl got the happy word from her American fiance that he was flying back to Japan. "Meet me at Kyoto station, 6:30 a.m. Monday," William Deck, 24, of Radford, Va., cabled. Deck is one of 44 persons missing on a Pan American airliner lost somewhere in the Pacific. He had planned to stay three weeks in Japan, just long enough to marry Masako. "I don't know what to do," she sobbed over the telephone. "I received a wonderful letter from Bill's mother just today, and now Bill isn't here. I'm so worried." Masako said the couple met two years ago when Bill was stationed in Japan, "but I haven't seen him since last October when he was discharged." She said she spent the past year preparing for marriage and studying dress designing in Kyoto. "The shock is too big for me. I can't talk about it," she said quietly as she hung up.

around other pupils. The director hushed them at once but grumbling could still be heard. The Russian little guy, indicated by these instances, has a respect for authority but no apparent fear of it. He does not flip away a burnt match or grind out a cigarette on the street because it is against the law. But, if the vodka he started drinking at breakfast catches up with him later in the day, he might sleep it off on a sidewalk without fear of being disturbed. Drunks are not an uncommon sight. The Russian drinks more beer than vodka. It is cheaper. There are no bars and few restaurants. Tovarich buys his vodka by the dram in a restaurant or by the bottle in a package store and takes it home to the one-room apartment he shares with two or three others. In the south he might share it with his friends over chess or dominoes. Some things the American touring Russia views only by looking from the outside in. The Russian home is one of these. Repeated requests to visit a home or an apartment house brought no results. On one occasion the guide said she could not take us to her own two-room apartment, which she shared with her mother, because she had no key. On another, the guide said bluntly Russians invite only their friends into their homes and prepare for the visit for days in advance.

NO HOUSING BRAGS

The Russians do not brag about their housing. A Canadian woman who had fled Russia 35 years ago was back this year visiting relatives. Her two nieces and one nephew lived together in a three-room, one kitchen, one bath apartment. One niece was a construction engineer; her husband, a refrigeration engineer; they had one daughter. The nephew was a construction engineer; his wife, a doctor; they had one son. The second niece was widowed, a music teacher and had one daughter. Each family had one 10 by 15 foot room in the apartment. The widowed sister had a dining room table and a television set, which they all shared, in her room. Kitchen facilities consisted of a four-burner gas stove, a refrigerator and a washing machine for clothes. "They consider themselves lucky," the Canadian visitor explained. "They know a family with three children who live in one room."

How do the Russians feel about their abrupt shifts in leadership? "This is very difficult to explain," observed one guide. "I have my own opinion. Other people have theirs. Mine is that Malenkov was a technician. Khrushchev is a party leader. We know things wrong."

But we explained, it is inconceivable to an American that a country's leader could be shifted without a vote of the people. "I too can vote," the Russian stated. "I know my rights."

Small Fry Follow In Dad's Footsteps At Rocket Base

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M., Nov. 11 (AP) — Quiet warfare is raging between Martians and Plutonians on this southern New Mexico rocket base, but authorities are not particularly disturbed. In the first place, it's only a battle of wits; in the second, the forces involved are small—seven elementary school students. At issue is the competitive production of two "secret" documents containing highly futuristic designs of automobiles, space ships, and flying saucers. No telling what ghastly fate might befall the losers. The race started some weeks ago, even before the Russians put their earth satellite into space. In the atmosphere of this missile base, such competition is neither unexpected nor discouraged. Commanding the three Martians is Danny Evans, 11. Leading the four Plutonians is Galen Starney. Their troops are no strangers to rockets, space, and visions of the future. The windows of their school overlook the prime firing area of one of the nation's top missile testing bases—one sometimes called the "Gateway to Space." No swift decision in the design battle is expected. "It may take a long time," says Danny. "Both sides are full of ideas." Small fry experts at White Sands are untroubled by Russia's success in putting the first man-made satellite on orbit. "That puts us off to a pretty good start," says seven-year-old Jimmy O'Donnell. Eleven-year-old

Mike Block says "it'll probably help us all some day." Danny Evans sees the United States putting a manned rocket on a planet "within 10 years if we can whip the engineering." But the youngsters at this rocket base are not solidly sold on making the first space flight. Second-grader Jimmy O'Donnell for instance, is more interested in the scientific—not the flying—angles. A reader on the ninth grade level, 7-year-old Jimmy predicts "we'll put a man on the moon by the end of this century." He says he doesn't believe the first space flight will find any life on other planets because "almost all kinds of life need air and there isn't much air up there." Mike Block, a sixth grader and the son of a Navy machinist, would like to "go up in space—that is, if I could get back." He would prefer, however, to develop a communications system which would enable a space pilot to "talk to us here on earth." He's developing an intercommunications system for his home and already is working on a transmitter for space—an outgrowth of his development of a code system for passing notes in school which teacher never did catch on to.

Japs Almost Killed Man Who Might Become Next President

By ROGER GREENE WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — A blacked-out Japanese destroyer, knifing through the darkness in the South Pacific, almost snuffed out the life of the young American torpedo boat skipper who could be the next president of the United States. His name is John Fitzgerald Kennedy — Democratic senator from Massachusetts. That night in Blackett Strait, off the enemy-infested Solomon Islands, and the seven perilous days that followed Kennedy's brush with death on Aug. 2, 1943, were enough to leave an imprint on any man. War hero Kennedy has been in a hurry ever since.

Plunging headlong into national politics... Courting and winning "the most beautiful girl in Washington" — Dashing off a Pulitzer prizewinning best seller entitled "Profiles in Courage" — crisscrossing the country to speak... "He's always in a hurry," says his wife, Jacqueline.

Nationwide polls show him the early front runner for the Democratic nomination in 1960. In recent months he has received such a deluge of publicity that his aides go out of their way to deny he's being given a buildup by one of New York's high-powered publicity mills.

"Sometimes we wish we had extra help, but we haven't," says Ted Sorensen, his legislative assistant. Interviewed at his Boston apartment the 40-year-old senator said:

"I'm not thinking about 1960. I'm tremendously interested in my Senate job and want to stay there." Political bigwigs note that Kennedy, regarded as a shoo-in for Senate re-election, is already running hard. They doubt his ambitions are limited to the Senate. Skeptics further note that Kennedy has been bobbing up on speaking engagements all over the country. When a senator does that, they say, he needs the money or he is aiming for higher office. One thing is sure. Kennedy doesn't need the money. His father, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Britain, set up a million-dollar trust fund for young Jack when he was nine years old. The elder Kennedy's wealth is estimated between 200 and 400 million dollars. With a frankness that makes oldtime politicians shudder, Kennedy cites three possible drawbacks to his chances of being a presidential candidate: 1. "The Senate," he says, "is not a good place to pick a presidential candidate because a senator must take a stand on so many controversial issues." 2. He is a Catholic—and the last Catholic nominated for the presidency, New York's derby-hatted Gov. Al Smith, lost much of the "Solid South" and was snowed under by six million votes in 1928. 3. At 43, his age in 1960, he might be regarded as too young for the highest office in the land.

Only one man in U.S. history has been elected president while serving in the Senate: Warren G. Harding of Ohio. Moreover, Kennedy has peeved some farmers because he voted for the Eisenhower administration's program of flexible farm price supports. Kennedy's farm support has already boomeranged. At the 1956 Democratic national convention in Chicago he came within 38 votes of beating Sen. Kefauver for the vice presidential nomination, but lost when Oklahoma led a farm-bloc swing to Kefauver.

Kennedy has also flicked southerners on the raw by upholding, without applauding, the Supreme Court's desegregation decision.

"Whether we favor the decision or oppose it," he says, "it is going to be carried out. It is the law of the land; there is no appeal from it."

As for his catholicism, Kennedy declined to say in an interview whether he thought it would be a bar to the presidency. "I think it would be a mistake for a Catholic to comment," he said.

His Vassar-educated wife, the former Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, a green-eyed dark-haired beauty, met Kennedy as a Washington Times-Herald "Inquiring Photographer." Married in 1953, they lost their first child by premature birth in August 1956. They are expecting a baby early in December.

Despite recurring attacks of malaria, three spinal operations and a severe cold which recently put him in the hospital, Kennedy insists his health is robust.

He suffered a troublesome spine injury in World War II when the Japanese destroyer sliced through Kennedy's flimsy PT boat. Two of the crew were killed.

Lt. Kennedy suffered a badly wrenched back but somehow managed to tow an injured crewman to an island three miles away by gripping the end of the man's Mae West strap in his teeth. It took five hours.

Rescued with 10 other survivors after a deadly week-long game of hide and seek with the Japanese, Kennedy won a Navy citation for heroic conduct.

Announce New Way to Drain Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New tablet invention for sinus sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pains

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet invention which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas. Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion. The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or your full purchase price will be refunded. © 1957 Whitehall Pharmaceutical Company

Love Mixup End In Deaths

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police said a married man involved in a romantic quadrangle has admitted killing his two teen-age sweethearts because he was afraid his wife would find out about them. The bodies of Miss Beverly Ann Eldred, 17, and Mrs. Deanna Jean Fouch, 16, both of Dayton, were found by a motorist alongside a county road about five miles south of here yesterday. They had been shot.

Detective Lt. R. C. Beckett of the sheriff's office said Robert Crites, 31-year-old father of four, admitted in a signed statement that he killed the girls. In the statement, Crites was quoted as saying he didn't want the girls to do to others what they had done to him. He said he had spent much time and money on them.

Beckett said the statement also mentioned that Crites intended to take the girls' bodies to Colorado and, while there, kill his wife's sister because "she's just like the other two." But he abandoned that idea after the slaying.

Beckett said he will ask the prosecutor today to file first-degree murder charges against Crites. Crites said he fell in love with Deanna but had promised to marry Beverly. Deanna was separated or about to be separated from her husband, authorities said.

A Bible Thought For Today

For I long to see you, that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established. (Romans 1:16)

We Seem To Be Stuck With It

Mr. Eisenhower's plan for offsetting the damaging effect of Russia's missile-satellite leadership, with its attendant train of dangerous propaganda, is to name a new presidential assistant to ride herd on the over-all program in that field. The nod went to President James R. Killian of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but the extent of his power was not outlined in detail by the President's announcement.

As explained by the President, Dr. Killian, at once a scientist and an experienced administrator, is empowered to curb interservice rivalry in the missile field, to prevent needless delays and to give high priority to certain secret projects only hinted at. Not by chance perhaps these are precisely the shortcomings most often complained of and the President's announcement apparently was calculated to appease public feeling and satisfy public demand.

Shocks Of Wars And Sputniks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Truman and Eisenhower administrations both fell asleep. They were shocked awake by a war and a Sputnik. And it was not until "Advocates of government economy and tax reduction, therefore, continued to urge acceptance of their program. They are convinced that the nation's defense needs could be met and, in addition, there would be an adequate surplus for tax cuts."

Nothing Mr. Eisenhower said in his speech indicated he disagreed with these views. In sum, what the President's talk and the views of the NAM add up to is "What's the excitement all about? Relax, everything's under control." That's their story, and the American people seem to be stuck with it.

R. Killian of Massachusetts Institute of Technology as his special assistant to coordinate an American scientific defense effort. Eisenhower, who appeared very calm over the first Russian Sputnik, took this action after the second Sputnik went up a month later. But just how much Killian's appointment means remains to be seen.

Start But A Shaky One

If Secretary Dulles hoped to create the illusion of all-out nonpartisan cooperation by calling in seven members of the Truman administration for consultation on ways of cementing the free world closer together in meeting the Russian challenge, he might have doubled or tripled the effect by reaching a little higher on the shelf for his choice of conferees.

was George Kennan, former ambassador to Moscow and also former policy planner, both of whom have criticized Mr. Dulles' conduct of foreign affairs. At least two other former secretaries of State, James Byrnes of South Carolina and Gen. George C. Marshall, might have been available to lend more weight to the consultation. Mr. Byrnes might have criticized the Dulles record from time to time, for the old fire-eater isn't tongue-tied; but Gen. Marshall is notably tight-mouthed.

Reassurance In President's Address

WASHINGTON—Words of reassurance and action—this is what the American people expected of President Eisenhower, and they were given both in his nationwide address last week. A high sense of urgency was reflected by the President, but he counseled against any idea "that we should mount our charger and try to ride off in all directions at once."

larity of the atomic submarines and the huge naval carriers "with the most powerful nuclear weapons and bombers of great range to deliver them." There was no doubt, when the President finished his address, that he had given the first authoritative summary of the entire military power of the United States in the world today. Guided missiles are in production. Intermediate-range missiles have been tested successfully over a range of 3,500 miles. While an intercontinental missile is required, the President pointed out, nevertheless, that because of our bases overseas, "an intermediate-range missile is for some purposes as good as an intercontinental missile."

We Have In-Laws, Too

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never learn if he didn't open his mail, his mind or his ears. That some Pakistani villagers have an odd way of testing a bridegroom. He is hauled before relatives of the bride who in turn they can call him. The theory: if he can survive the vocabulary of his new in-laws, he can put up with anything from his bride.

That there is a small dishwashing on the market now in which the water is agitated by sound waves, whether or not the lady of the house is talking over the kitchen telephone. That if you want to be sure an ink-writer's address won't be smeared on your Christmas packages, rub the area several times with the stump of a white candle.

Mr. Eisenhower didn't question whether Russia could bring back a missile from outer space but preferred to say it this way: "One difficult obstacle on the way to producing a useful long-range weapon is that of bringing a missile back from outer space without its burning up like a meteor, because of friction with the earth's atmosphere."

There's the real point of all the talk about the "sputnik" as a military weapon. Much can be learned from these spectacular experiments, but the problem of guiding a missile from outer space to a specific target has already been solved by the United States. Mr. Eisenhower was right in paying a compliment to Soviet Russia's scientific achievements. It was the courteous thing to do. But he was careful to say that the military significance of the "sputnik" in itself was not great, though much might be learned from the experiments for future use.

That during the next year out of 1,000 people, 320 will be sick once, 140 twice, 50 three times, 20 four or more times, and 470 won't get sick at all—or if they do, they won't brag about it. That Americans bought an average of 3.15 pairs of shoes each last year. But I'll bet women and children swell the average. Most men I know don't buy more than two pairs.

That this is one legend on the origin of the phrase "Make mine Manhattan." A Florentine navigator landed on the present site of New York City, and gave the natives liquor. The grateful Indians named this location "Manna-ha-ta" or "Place of Drunkenness."

The Chief Executive spoke particularly of the atomic submarines and the huge naval carriers "with the most powerful nuclear weapons and bombers of great range to deliver them." There was no doubt, when the President finished his address, that he had given the first authoritative summary of the entire military power of the United States in the world today. Guided missiles are in production. Intermediate-range missiles have been tested successfully over a range of 3,500 miles. Mr. Eisenhower was right in paying a compliment to Soviet Russia's scientific achievements. It was the courteous thing to do. But he was careful to say that the military significance of the "sputnik" in itself was not great, though much might be learned from the experiments for future use. Appointment of Dr. James R. Killian, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as special assistant to the President on matters of science will be well received by the country as he is an outstanding man in the scientific world. Co-ordination of missile research inside the Department of Defense is also a step forward. But the most important thing about the President's address was its positiveness, its call for an abandonment of partisanship in this matter and the stirring appeal he made for peace.

And it was not until "Advocates of government economy and tax reduction, therefore, continued to urge acceptance of their program. Feed The Men-With Dishes They Like Men have to eat too much 'girl' food and not enough good food. So say some of the chefs and waiters who cater to men. They suggest the dolls cut out the cottage cheese and the dainty fruit salads and make with the sauces or a good stew, if they want to catch a man. Or hold him, if they have already snagged him. Authorities on the subject of food point out men always fall for old-fashioned dishes like lamb stew, beef and kidney pie, chicken pot pie or corned beef and cabbage.

U.S. Is Just Too Much For Bevan

With a little bit of luck, there'll always be an England. But over, above and beyond that, there'll always be an English lecturer treading the boards in the U.S.A. to latch onto his share of what makes the mare go and telling us Americans how to mind our own business. The current hair-shirt from Blighty is Aneurin Bevan, long-time leader of the left wing of Britain's Labor party. Anti-Americanism has long been one of Bevan's most popular stocks-in-trade, and this is important to you and me, since he is slated to be England's Foreign Minister if and when the Labor party wins the next national election.

Bevan, whose last visit to the U.S.A. was in 1934, is now going up and down our land exhorting us not to be beastly to the Russians, who are full of peace, good will and sweet reasonableness as opposed to us mean, suspicious old American curmudgeons. This Socialist bigwig is telling American audiences that Red science is not "alarming" (because Russian intentions are so peaceful) and that the West ought to ease the cold war on communism. (What's that again?) However, Bevan seems to have gone a bit too far in a speech before New York's famed Economic Club when he described Nikita Khrushchev as "a simple sort of fellow." There were persons in the audience who thought someone was simple, all right, but not necessarily Khrushchev.

High Potential Of Power In Bay Of Fundy

EASTPORT, Maine, Nov. 11 (AP)—When the Atlantic Ocean, obeying silent orders from the moon, roars down the Bay of Fundy, nature wastes tons of power against the shore. Now the United States and Canada are joining in a three year study to decide once and for all whether man can successfully harness the giant tides of the bay for electrical power.

Here, on the Atlantic shore between Canada and the United States, engineers have envisaged the use of two bays as huge storage basins to provide an unending source of energy. Passamaquoddy Bay in New Brunswick, Canada, would serve as the upper storage basin, Cobscook Bay in Maine as the lower.

Both bays are part of the Bay of Fundy, whose tides are the highest in the world. Mean tides average 18 feet where Passamaquoddy and Cobscook Bays converge and enter the Bay of Fundy. Engineers have long dreamed of harnessing the enormous energy created by the more than four billion tons of water that twice daily flow in and out of Passamaquoddy and Cobscook Bays.

The Need To Stimulate Confidence

In speaking to the country the President is bound to be very conscious of the fact that the times have changed. Always, since he was first nominated for President, even during the pause in 1954, the general mood of the country has been bullish. He himself has been the symbol and the carrier of a general confidence that as the country was growing and expanding all things were bound to come out right.

While this was the mood of the country, he himself, as compared with any other President one can remember, was peculiarly and uniquely invulnerable. He received the credit for all that went well and was never held personally accountable for what went wrong. That mood has passed. The President himself is very much aware of this fact, and that is why he is making a series of speeches. He finds it necessary "to stimulate the faith and confidence" of the American people in their defenses, their foreign policy, and their economy.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Truman and Eisenhower administrations both fell asleep. They were shocked awake by a war and a Sputnik. Candlelight Ceremony Unites Couple Saturday

LAMESA - A candlelight ceremony, read Saturday evening in the First Methodist Church, united in marriage Jimmie Louise Davis of Odessa and the Rev. Alvin G. Smith. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Davis of Route A, Lamesa, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith of Colorado City. The exchange of vows was made before an altar of greenery and white stock with a background of foliage and cathedral tapers. The Rev. C. T. Jackson of Garden City read the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Jake Lippard, organist, presented the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Cecil Slover of Earth as she sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." "I'll Walk Beside You" and "The Wedding Prayer." The bride sang "Whither Thou Goest" immediately preceding the exchange of vows. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white tulle over satin, featuring a scalloped sweetheart neckline. Her short sleeves were complemented with matching lace mitts, and her chapel length skirt was of lace. To a crown of seed pearls was attached a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of feathered carnations surrounding a white orchid atop a white Bible. Mrs. Bob Hale was her sister's matron of honor. Other attendants included Clarice Fay Davis, sister of the bride; Mrs. Leo Davis of Goldsmith, sister-in-law of the bride; and Mrs. A. J. Hale. They wore identical dresses of powder blue cotton satin with sashes of brocade satin. Their accessories were of white and they carried colonial bouquets of Frenched carnations tied with blue satin ribbon. Deborah Adele Hale, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Her dress was fashioned after the bride's gown.

Forest Smith of Sterling City, was his brother's best man. Ushers included Lloyd Smith, Westbrook brother of the bridegroom; Leo Davis, of Goldsmith and Clarence Ray Davis, brothers of the bride; Lee Ruddick, Colorado City; Bob A. Hale, and Weldon Thomas of Lawn. Lighting the tapers were Clarice Fay and Clarence Ray Davis, brother and sister of the bride. For the reception, which followed in the parlor of the church, the bridesmaids' bouquets were used to form the center arrangement for the serving table. The table was laid with a white lace cloth and held the traditional tiered wedding cake. For a trip to Florida, the bride chose a brown suit with beige and brown accessories. Mrs. Davis is a graduate of Lamesa High School and McMurry College. She taught in the Lamesa school system before joining the Ector County Public School faculty in 1954. A graduate of Colorado City High School and Howard County Junior College, the Rev. Smith has done work on his B. A. degree at McMurry. He is the pastor of the Clark Methodist Church in Lamesa. The couple will make a home at 1004 S. 4th St., in Lamesa.

Posture Plus Voice

Cheryl Clarke, who came to Hollywood from Fort Worth, Texas, contends that two ways a girl can make herself more attractive is by improving her posture and speaking voice.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Starlet Has Remedy For Weight, Height

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD—Cheryl Clarke, who got her first movie break in the comedy "Oh! Men, Oh! Women," was surprised to find that the screen made her look 10 pounds heavier. "All my life, it seems, I'd been drinking malts or taking hot chocolate at bedtime to try to put on a few pounds. But in Hollywood it became a different story. Now I'm counting calories," Cheryl admitted.

I admired Cheryl's figure, remarking, "Whatever you've done has been a success." "I have a routine that is high in health and low in calories. For lunch I have cottage cheese, the low calorie type, or hard boiled eggs, skim milk and tomatoes. "I choose lean beef, chicken, broiled fish or liver for dinner, and steamed beans, spinach or asparagus. I have raw carrot and celery sticks, black coffee and a vitamin supplement. It's nice to know that eating like this for two days can drop four pounds."

Cheryl is tall, but she carries herself beautifully. When I told her she confessed that this compliment pleased her very much. "In the 7th grade I was my full height," she explained. "I simply towered over the boys in my class and naturally this made me self-conscious. I tried wearing flats and stooping over until my posture became so bad my family sent me to modeling school to see if that could help me. "This was a turning point in my life. I learned to take advantage of my height. "The instructor at the school stood me against a wall and made me try to touch the wall from heels to my head. Then with a sliding motion and keeping my

Make Powder Room From Closet Space

If you have toyed with the idea of converting closet space into a powder room, but wonder if it will look cramped or dark and dingy, the color magic of plastic wall tile will work wonders. Tiled walls will give brightness and dimension, and if you use contrasting color tiles from wall to ceiling in every corner, you will achieve a most satisfying effect of greater perspective. A delightful combination might be pale yellow, with turquoise tiles where the corners meet. A frame of turquoise, around the wall mirror, will give even greater depth to the reflection of space.

Nautical Wool Knits Make Fashion Hit

In honor of the nation's boating fans, the nautical touch is seen everywhere this season—even in daytime casuals that need never go near a boat to make its solid fashion impact. Slim and svelte in line, one dress is of finest feather-weight wool knit in clay beige with accent sleeves and midly collar of beige and white striped wool knit. "Sailor tie" of self fabric extends from shoulder line, and collar falls low and "midly square" at back. A perfect all-wool fashion to take along for wrinkle-free, carefree smartness whether you're planning a Caribbean cruise or just a weekend in the sun. In all-wool it travels superbly, and retains its spic-and-span look in true sailor fashion.

From Parker To McAuliffe, Words Have Turned The Tide

By TOM HENSHAW AP Staff Writer

It is April 19, 1775. Times are tense in the English colony of Massachusetts. There is an ominous feeling that a crisis is fast approaching. The feeling grips a small knot of men in homespun, gathered in the dawn on Lexington green. These are Minutemen, called to arms by Paul Revere in the name of liberty and rebellion. The feeling runs also through the ranks of soldiers marching down the Boston Road toward Lexington. They are British soldiers, assigned to nip rebellion in the bud.

The two groups face each other across the green, quiet but for hushed voices and the clank of arms. There is a moment of hesitation. The Minutemen look to their captain. His voice is calm. But there is determination in his voice.

WAR BEGINS "Stand your ground," says Capt. John Parker. "Don't fire unless fired upon. But if they mean to have a war, let it begin here."

A shot is fired. Then a volley. Men die. The Minutemen are routed. The British march on. The war that is to end in American independence has begun. Months later, Capt. John Parker is dead. But his calm order given that April dawn goes on imperishably. It is the first of a long line of fighting words uttered by American military men in times of strife and great decision. The day is Sept. 23, 1779.

It is an unequal battle, that crashing, flaming, bloody sea fight between the sleek British warship Serapis and a rotten converted merchant ship called the Bon Homme Richard.

stem to stern. Soon it is a disabled hulk. English gunfire takes its terrible toll in life. The commander of the Chesapeake is mortally wounded. As he is carried below, he issues a final order. "Don't give up the ship," implores dying Capt. James Lawrence. "Fight her till she sinks." The Chesapeake finally is forced to strike. Shannon tows her away, a prize of war. But Lawrence's dying words go on to a victory.

Feb. 24, 1836: A bleak winter in the Mexican Province of Texas. Texans have repudiated Mexico as an authority. Now, the Mexican dictator himself, Santa Anna, is marching with 6,000 men to restore his rule. Texas commander Sam Houston needs time to gather an army. The Mexican advance reaches San Antonio, where 183 Texans are holed up in an old Spanish mission, the Alamo. Santa Anna runs up the blood red flag. No quarter. The commander of the Alamo sends a message to the outside world.

"Have answered with a cannon shot and our flag still waves proudly from the walls," writes Col. William Travis. "I shall never surrender or retreat." The Alamo falls, its defenders slain to a man. But Sam Houston is defeated nearly two weeks in time. Gained at the Alamo is turned into victory at a place called San Jacinto.

Aug. 5, 1864: The Confederacy is dying. An army under Grant has a bulldog grip on Richmond, its capital. Another under Sherman has begun a march of destruction through the world than the deadliest weapons of destruction.

One panel group suggested doubling U. S. aid to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization every two years for a decade.

Delegates agreed economic aid must continue and be expanded but with more attention to Asia's real needs than to what Americans think Asia needs.

Also that more and better news, both ways, is needed; so are more movies, books, art forms and personal contacts, they said.

Enemy guns spit flame into each other's muzzles. Fires break out aboard both ships. The fighting is hand to hand. The Britisher gains a momentary advantage. From the Serapis comes the call: "Do you surrender? Have you struck your colors?"

"Surrender," replies Capt. John Paul Jones. "I have not yet begun to fight."

The battle goes on. Colors are struck. But it is the Serapis that surrenders and, when the Bon Homme Richard finally does sink, Capt. John Paul Jones sails away in a captured warship.

June 1, 1813: The Chesapeake is a jinx ship, its career studded with misfortune, humiliation and disaster. Now it is trapped in Boston Harbor. Dissemision rides high among its untrained crew. Its first and second officers are ill.

There is only one way to close the port. Entrance to the harbor is a narrow channel, thick with mines (torpedoes, they are called) and dominated by forts on each side. The Union commander decides he must force the channel. An ironclad monitor, Tecumseh, leads the way. She strikes a torpedo, careens and plunges to the bottom. The second ship, Brooklyn, hesitates, almost halts under the guns of the forts. Aboard flagship Hartford, the Union commander questions the delay. Torpedoes ahead, he is told. Adm. David G. Farragut explodes: "Damn the torpedoes. Full speed ahead!"

Hartford takes the lead. The flagship strikes a torpedo. It's a dud. Guns of the forts take a fearful toll. But, at last, the channel is forced. The fleet is inside the harbor. The last Gulf port is closed to the Confederacy.

Dark days for the Allied forces in France. A Great German offensive has rounded to within 40 miles of Paris. Battle weary Allied soldiers brace themselves for another attack.

American troops have only just begun arriving at the front in large numbers. They are held in reserve near a place called Belleau Wood. The word comes down to retreat. An American officer is outraged.

"Retreat hell," snaps Marine Capt. Lloyd Williams. "We just got here."

A sharp battle is fought and won at Belleau Wood; another at Chateau-Thierry. The German drive is blunted. Soon the Allies are on the offensive. The war ends with victory in November.

Dec. 15, 1941: Wake Island is a lonely, hopeless American station. Of its companion bases in the Pacific, Guam is gone, the Philippines are going. Pearl Harbor is in ruins, Midway girls for attack.

Japanese planes are over Wake every day, bombing, strafing, killing, destroying. A major landing is repulsed. The original force of less than 400 men is reduced through death and wounds. Two of 12 planes are left on the flight line.

An anxious Navy in Honolulu wants to know: "Is there anything you want?" From beleaguered Wake Island and its commander, Marine Maj. James Devereux, comes the radioed request: "Send us more Japs."

More Japanese come. An attack by 200 planes precedes a landing by thousands of troops. And from the embattled Wake garrison comes a final report: "Enemy on island. Issue is in doubt."

Wake Island falls two days before Christmas. But the unexpected stand has upset the Japanese timetable by more than two weeks. Dec. 23, 1944: A diving thrust by the German Army has stalled the Allied offensive and the brink of victory in Western Europe. The drive sweeps across Belgium, leaving behind small pockets of resistance. One of these pockets is the little Belgian town of Bastogne.

The 101st Airborne Division has been trapped in Bastogne for seven days. German attacks are continuous. Food and ammunition are running low. A German officer appears, demanding surrender.

"Nuts," says Brig. Gen. Anthony McAuliffe and the German is puzzled. "He means," translates a grinning captain, "Go to hell."

The determined defense of Bastogne restricts German military movement. The drive grinds to a halt and is thrown into reverse. Bastogne is relieved and the Allies have the offensive again.

From Parker to McAuliffe, the words are different yet the same. Each has inspired a turn in the tide that has wrung victory from defeat.

Parley Determines How Twain To Meet

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The gaps between Asia and America remain wide, but America's largest conference on Asia detailed ways to close them.

The sixth National Conference for UNESCO ended Saturday with a warning by India's First Lady, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, that "half the world cannot move around in ox carts while the other half rides in Cadillacs."

Closing the oxcart-Cadillac gap was only one small phase of the conference, where 1,500 Americans attacked the problem "Asia and the United States—What the American citizens can do to promote mutual understanding and cooperation."

Greetings from President Eisenhower, Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, Philippine President Carlos Garcia and other chiefs of state underlined the urgency of the conference.

Mme. Pandit, India's high commissioner to the United Kingdom, cited these reasons for lack of Asian-American understanding: 1. American ignorance of Asia. Asians also don't know what America is all about, she said.

2. Racial prejudice in the United States, which she conceded hits Asians with "disproportionate impact."

3. Resentment of Asian national experiments in socialism. "We in Asia... must develop our democracies according to our own conditioning and our own needs."

4. The oxcart-Cadillac gap, which she called "an imbalance of... far greater danger to the world than the deadliest weapons of destruction."

Delegates agreed economic aid must continue and be expanded but with more attention to Asia's real needs than to what Americans think Asia needs.

Also that more and better news, both ways, is needed; so are more movies, books, art forms and personal contacts, they said.

In connection with that report, U. S. Education Commissioner Lawrence G. Dertwick said it is clear Russian education is "making an increasing contribution to the Soviet objectives, particularly in science and technology."

The report said that enrollment in Russian institutions of higher education rose from 169,000 in 1927 to 1,967,000 last year. In the United States, it said, enrollment in comparable institutions increased from 1,144,000 to 2,996,000 over the same span.

The report's main point was that Russia educates its children for the good of the state while schooling in the United States aims at developing the individual.

It takes a GIANT to stretch from coast to coast to coast. Just as an enormous oil pipeline carries petroleum from producer to consumer, so does a giant medium carry goods from advertiser to consumer. That medium is the daily newspaper, a giant that lives in every town. The newspaper pipeline is the shortest distance between advertiser and buyer. It functions without letup, carrying sales messages to an average 100,000,000 people daily. The complete and constant coverage that newspapers guarantee every advertiser is one of the reasons that prompt advertisers to place an overwhelming emphasis on newspapers. Last year all advertisers spent $3,235,600,000 in newspaper advertising—more than they spent in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined! If you want a steady flow of your products to your consumers, use steady advertising in the daily newspaper. It's the most efficient and direct pipeline. All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

NO FASHION CAREER FOR PEGGY? Peggy longs for the day when the three magic words, "Designs by Peggy," will mean she's arrived in the fashion world. But she needs a lot of good schooling to make her wish come true. Unfortunately, Peggy lives in a community where there's a serious shortage of classrooms, teachers and good schoolbooks. That means less schooling for Peggy than she needs. Let's see that this doesn't happen in our schools. You can help by supporting our School Board, by attending PTA meetings and school conferences.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

I think one of the area's best coaching jobs has been done with the Big Spring High School B team. When the season started, it began to appear the local school was not going to be able to field a reserve unit. There simply weren't enough boys to man 11 positions.

Coaches Sam Bell and John Perry Yates have brought their club along well, however. Right now, the youngsters compose one of the area's best, most spirited B teams.

The Shorthorns have beaten Snyder and knocked off Lamesa twice while losing to Andrews and Abilene. Against the latter team, they gave up no more touchdowns than they scored but lost by two points because they couldn't kick a PAT.

The team will wind up playing only six games. Eight were booked originally but two were cancelled because of an outbreak of the flu.

Their record is all the more impressive when you consider the fact that their counterparts last year played nine games and failed to win a decision. Their best effort was a tie with Lamesa.

One of the area's best known gridlers has been a dismal flop this fall and some observers credit it to the fact that he was given too much publicity as a sophomore.

Each of the eight coaches on the University of Texas football staff hails from a different college.

When Ed Price was head coach there, the staff was composed almost exclusively of Texas exes. Now, F. Jones is the only former Longhorn associated with Darrell Royal's staff.

For the last four weekends, Big Spring football teams — from the 7th Grade level on up — have failed to notch a football win.

I don't think Midland will fare as well against either Abilene or Odessa as did Big Spring.

The Bulldogs are slow, as slow as any team I've ever seen represent Midland.

Abilene's hard-charging line will discredit the Midland forwards Odessa's primary, manned by quick, little men, will probably do almost as well against the Bulldogs.

Big Spring blew any number of chances to score on Midland but despite its mistakes, probably would have won had not Wayne Fields been injured.

You can't get three of your four starting backs injured, as Big Spring had Friday, and win many games.

Al Milch, the Big Spring coach, sought out the game officials following last week's contest to call their hands on several decisions they made.

Al spared two of the arbiters in his tirade, conceding they did a reasonably good job. It'll probably be a long time before the other two will work another game involving Big Spring, however.

Some of their work wasn't very professional, to say the least.

Milch had nothing but praise for his boys. Looking back on the game, he says he can't figure out how they played as well as they did, all things considered.

Fields will be available to play against San Angelo Friday night, unless he aggravates his knee miseries. The game leg just played out on him Friday night, that's all.

Lamar Tech Nears LS Championship

By The Associated Press

Lamar Tech is expected to clinch a tie for the Lone Star Conference championship in its closing game this week against Sul Ross.

The Cardinals are undefeated for the campaign but have two ties on their record. Thus East Texas State, which it beat 7-6, isn't much better off than Tech in Texas State, which it beat 7-6. Tech enters its final week with five victories and one loss while East Texas has 4-1. The latter plays Southwest Texas Saturday and closes the campaign next week against Sul Ross. If the Lions win those two games they will tie Tech for the title in the event Tech beats Sul Ross.

Texas A&M caused Tech all its trouble when the Javelinas, slaughtered by East Texas 42-12, rose up to tie the 13-13.

East Texas stayed in the race with a 19-12 triumph over Stephen F. Austin while Howard Payne won its first conference game by trouncing Sul Ross 20-6.

Southeast Texas knocked Sarrilsons out of the race by downing the Beakats 9-0.

Stephen F. Austin plays Sam Houston at Nacogdoches and A&M meets Howard Payne at Brownwood this week.

Short A Player, Scorpion Mockey Team Wins, 6-4

LEVELLAND (SC) — Though short a player, the Big Spring Scorpions raced past Levelland, 6-4, in a West Texas Roller Hockey league game here Sunday afternoon.

The team Brodie Cain brought from Big Spring was not at full strength due to illness. For that reason, the Scorpions used only four players to face Levelland.

Don Pederson, Don Chapman and Eugene Walker each scored two goals for the Scorpions while Harold Caldwell did a stellar job as the Big Spring goalie.

The Scorpions next see action in Odessa two weeks from yesterday. On Jan. 15, the Big Spring club takes part in a district tournament at Midland.

BROWNS DO ALLRIGHT, EVEN WITHOUT OTTO

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press

Otto Graham, who he? The Cleveland Browns, who bristled with an aura of invincibility while Uncle Otto was lofting TD passes, were supposed to turn into the National Football League's palsies when he made his second "retirement" permanent at the close of the 1955 season.

But Coach Paul Brown went the prognosticators one better and installed the veteran George Ratterman at the helm. He filled in ably until a knee injury signaled an end to his career.

A dejected Brown put out a call for available talent and Tommy O'Connell, former Illinois great, answered it.

It's been O'Connell in the quarterback slot since late 1956 and he's beginning to make them forget the fabulous Graham.

O'Connell tossed two touchdown passes yesterday as the Browns maintained their hold on the Eastern Division lead with a 24-0 victory over Pittsburgh's Steelers.

This, coupled with San Francisco's 37-24 loss to the Los Angeles Rams left the Browns with the best mark in the league, 6-1.

Despite their loss, the 49ers continued to pace the Western Conference with a 5-2 record, one hop ahead of Baltimore and Detroit at 4-3.

The Colts remained in contention with a 21-17 victory over Washington and the Lions dropped Philadelphia 27-16. In the East, Giants (3-2) stayed right behind the Browns by defeating Chicago's Cardinals, 27-14.

In the other game on the full program, Chicago's Bears beat Green Bay, 21-14.

Lou Groz opened the Cleveland scoring with a 34-yard field goal, his eighth this season. Then O'Connell took over. He completed 7 of 11 passes for 156 yards and touchdowns to Ray Renfro and Preston Carpenter.

Ten-year veteran Bobby Layne, his injured ribs strapped with tape, came off the bench to win it for the Lions. He threw three scoring passes, kicked two field goals and added a trio of conversions. The Eagles were leading 3-0 when Layne pulled himself together. At one point in the second quarter, Layne completed six in a row, every other one a TD.

FOR 1958 SHOW Weaver Is Named Relays Director

Judge R. H. Weaver has been named director of the 1958 American Business Club Relays, which will be held April 4-5 in Memorial Stadium here.

Weaver succeeds George McAlister to the job. McAlister will continue to assist the games committee, however.

It will be Weaver's job to contact the universities about sending teams here and Weaver has indicated he is hopeful at least eight schools will be represented here next year.

Last year, the university division was won by the University of Southern California. Other competing schools were Oklahoma A & M (now Oklahoma State), Southern Methodist and the University of Houston.

USC will not be able to return here, due to a conflict in dates with the Pacific Coast Conference meet, but the committee is hopeful of bringing in both ACC and the University of Kansas.

The meet will be run as a true relays rather than a regulation track meet, the games committee has decided. An exception will be made in the field events of the high school division, where all events will be staged.

All relay races will be staged in the university division, with the possible exception of the four-mile event.

Harold Bentley, high school track coach here, will shoulder the responsibility of inviting the high school teams, while Harold Davis, HCJC mentor, will issue invitations to the junior colleges.

Abilene Nears 2-AAAA Title

By The Associated Press

Only seven districts have established representatives in the state playoffs but the others are well defined in the upper classes of schoolboy football.

El Paso Austin, Dallas Highland Park, Texarkana, Houston Bellaire and Galena Park will be in the playoffs in Class AAAA while Brenham and San Benito have won their way in Class AAA.

Favorites in the other districts of AAAA are Abilene, Amarillo, Fort Worth Paschal, Dallas Crozier Tech, Wichita Falls, Houston Reagan, Orange, Austin, Corpus Christi Ray, San Antonio Jefferson and Alice.

Expected to join Brenham and San Benito in the Class AAA playoffs are Littlefield, Kermit, Sweetwater, Breckenridge, Garland, McKinney, Kilgore, Cleburne, Killean, Nederland, El Campo, San Antonio Edison, Eagle Pass and Cuero.

The two defending state champions thus still are very much in the running. Abilene is the king of AAAA seeking another crown while Garland is the AAA champion that appears destined to win its district title this week.

Abilene, with a 45-game winning streak going, rolls against Midland Friday needing only a victory to sack up its district title.

Garland can win its way to the playoffs by downing Fort Worth Brewer.

White Classes AAAA and AAA have two more weeks to go before the playoffs, Classes AA and A must determine all district champions this week.

Sixteen district champions in AA and 20 in A await the start of the playoffs.

AA's district representatives are Dimmitt, Lockney, Perryton, McCamey, Ranger, Hamilton, Lewisville, Terrell, Bonham, New London, Marlin, Jasper, Belton, Liberty, Boling and San Antonio Sam Houston.

Teams winning their way to the playoffs from Class A are White Deer, Sundown, Ozona, Mason, Crowell, Henrietta, Wilmer-Hutchins, Cooper, Linden, White Oak, Clifton, Mart, Madisonville, Garrison, East Chambers, Tomball, Bastrop, Hallettsville, Bishop and Los Fresnos.

Both Classes AA and A will have new state champions. Stamford was eliminated in the district race in AA and Stinnett fell in Class A.

King Hill Is Far Ahead In Offense

DALLAS (D) — Rice's versatile quarterback, King Hill, threatens to go off and hide with the passing and total offense championships in Southwest Conference football.

Jim Shofner of TCU finds the ball-carriers moving in on him from all directions.

Shofner was idle last week and Larry Hickman of Baylor and John Crow of Texas A&M made hay. Hickman, the big Bear full-back, racked up 45 yards smashing the Texas line to move within 27 yards of Shofner. Crow gouged 89 yards out of SMU to roll into fourth place only 94 yards away from the TCU flier.

Hill passed for 79 yards and ran for 57 against Arkansas. He now leads in passing with 38 completions in 65 attempts for 731 yards and in total offense with 968 yards on 131 plays. King also has three games to play compared to two for his closest pursuer in passing, Doyle Traylor of Baylor, and seven in total offense, including 197.4 yards per outing.

MCV Teams Win All Five Games

By The Associated Press

Missouri Valley Conference teams enjoyed their finest single day of the football season Saturday, winning all five of their games.

Houston, which can clinch the conference title by beating Wichita this week, knocked Mississippi Southern from the undefeated and untied list 27-12 in Jackson, Miss.

Wichita won its first game of the season, beating Drake 14-7 and thereby dumping another team which hadn't been beaten or tied. It counted as a league game for Wichita.

Cincinnati ran over Indiana 21-0. Tulsa edged Texas Tech 3-0 and North Texas beat Chattanooga 12-0.

Cincinnati and Tulsa clash in another conference game at Tulsa. Drake will meet West Texas at Des Moines. North Texas entertains Youngstown, Ohio, in Denton.

Dallas, Houston Plans Corraled

DALLAS (D) — Dallas and Houston were denied permission again yesterday to seek affiliation with higher class leagues.

The two Class AA Texas League teams also were turned down Oct. 14.

Brennan Expects His Irish To Be 'Up' For Oklahoma

By BOB VOGES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (E) — The Irish of Michigan State are still enjoying an off-season St. Patrick's Day celebration after their 34-6 football beating of the Irish of Notre Dame.

Coach Hugh (Duffy) Daugherty awarded the game ball to team captain Patrick Francis Burke. Daugherty retained the shillelagh that is the personal trophy between him and not-so-happy Notre Dame Coach Terry Patrick Brennan.

Brennan next Saturday faces a high-riding Oklahoma, which polished off Missouri 39-14, running its victory string to 47.

"Michigan State is the best team we've met this year," Brennan said. "You just can't defend against speed but I still think we can get up against Oklahoma. We weren't as bad as the score would indicate."

Michigan State ends conference play against Minnesota next Saturday and will watch Ohio State, hoping for two Buckeye losses or a loss and a tie that will send the Spartans to the Rose Bowl.

In handing out post-game credit, Daugherty practically ran through the entire roster of the 51 Spartan participants.

Four Teams Can Win Bowl Trips Saturday

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The college football season reaches its most frenzied pitch next Saturday when no fewer than four teams can wrap up bowl bids.

Texas A&M, Ohio State, Duke and Oregon, could join Oklahoma, which has cemented its berth in the Orange Bowl and "relinquishes" against Notre Dame before a nationwide television audience.

The Sooners, who beat Missouri 39-0 last Saturday, will be heavily favored against the Irish Notre Dame, showing the effects of a murderous schedule, dropped a 34-6 decision to Michigan State.

As for the bowl situation, here is how it shapes up:

Rice—Ohio State is the Big Ten favorite. The Buckeyes and defending champion Iowa go at it this week, and an Ohio State victory would end it. Iowa is ineligible. Michigan State is the only other team with a chance. The Spartans have to beat Minnesota Saturday, and hope Ohio State loses its last two games.

On the other end, Oregon, despite a staggering 13-6 loss to Washington last week, still is in the most favorable position in the Pacific Coast Conference. The Ducks need only one more victory to clinch a tie for the championship and their opponent this week, Southern California, has won just one game.

Cotton—Texas A&M, No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll, has only Rice standing in its way. Rice, although it scored a 13-7 upset over Arkansas Saturday, doesn't appear ready to cope with Bear Bryant's men.

The second team in the Cotton Bowl usually is the second-place outfit in the Southeastern conference. Last year, however, Syracuse was plucked.

Sugar—The Southeastern Conference champion traditionally acts as host. But Auburn, which

SWC Race Could Be Ended In Houston On Saturday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Texas A&M collides with Rice at Houston Saturday in a game that can end the Southwest Conference football race or throw it into confusion.

The odds say it'll all be over when the smoke has cleared and A&M will be headed for the Cotton Bowl as conference champions the second year in a row.

Rice indicated last week, however, there could be some anxious moments for Aggie backers. The Owls whipped Arkansas 13-7 and showed a tough defense the first time this season.

The Aggies stayed undefeated and untied through eight games Saturday when they beat off SMU 19-6.

Should Rice upset the nation's No. 1 team three outfits would be pitched back into the battle for first place if Texas managed to beat TCU and four if SMU played Arkansas.

Texas will be meeting TCU at Austin while SMU hosts Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl.

Arkansas is out of the race and so is Baylor. The latter didn't help its cause Saturday when it fought Texas to a 7-7 tie since it already had been eliminated. But it was a blow to Texas, which

10 Aggies Do Most Of Work

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (C) — Texas A&M, the nation's No. 1 team, sped through its eighth straight victory Saturday with 10 boys getting in 40 to 50 minutes apiece, as usual.

You have to be tough to wear the mole skins of Aggie land. Never more than 28 players get into a game and 13 of those do about 90 per cent of the playing.

This may be the thinnest squad, quantitatively speaking, to ever lead the nation.

"Are the boys tired and weary?" somebody asked Coach Paul Bryant after the Aggies were "up" four weeks in a row for important Southwest Conference games.

"Tired?" snorted the coach. "They can't get tired with the little work we've been able to get in. They don't have weather, injuries and illness."

Bryant might have said something about how he works his substitutions like a game of chess, making them at the time when there can be no ill effects from the loss of strength.

He also might have mentioned that the Aggies are noted for strong finishes. They seem tougher at the finish than at the start.

They're in mighty fine condition for boys who get to work so little. The fans call them "Bear-tearing players." They mean that the Aggies call on all their reserve strength when the going gets tough because they have pride—a pride that says they won't let down for their coach.

The 10 who usually play from 40 to 50 minutes each are ends Bobby Marks and John Tracey, tackles Charles Krueger and Ken Teek, center John Gilbert, guard Tommy Howard, quarterback Roddy Osborne, halfbacks John Crow and Loyd Taylor and full-back Dick Gay.

Only at guard are these numerous substitutions and it's because there are few experienced men at these posts. Eight boys have been used at the two positions. "We just have to sort of hide our guards," says Bryant.

Sifford Winner In Coast Play

LONG BEACH, Calif. (L) — Philadelphia's Charlie Sifford won a "sudden death" playoff for first money in the $11,500 Long Beach Open Golf Tournament, beating Eric Monti of Los Angeles.

The two had finished in a tie for first place yesterday with 34-hole scores of 203, 10 under par.

Monti's putt for a half was an inch short in the third extra hole and Sifford became the first Negro to win a tournament in which many big name players participated. He won $1,200; Monti, $1,100.

Six finished in a tie for third place with 204: Dale Anderson, Pittsburgh; Al Bessellink, Grossinger, N.Y.; Howie Johnson, Akron; Billy Casper, San Diego; Bill Parker, Tulsa, and Bill Johnston, Provo, Utah. They won $750 each.

Sun Devils Clinch Tie For Top Spot

By The Associated Press

Arizona State at Tempe clinched at least a tie for the Border Conference football championship last weekend.

The Sun Devils beat Texas Western, defending champion and preseason favorite, 43-7.

Arizona State has only one conference game remaining, Arizona.

In another conference game, Hardin-Simmons guard Joe Biggs blocked a punt for a touchdown and pounced on a fumble that led to another to pace the Cowboys to a 26-20 victory over Arizona.

West Texas punched over two touchdowns and gave up a safety, all in the third quarter, to down Abilene Christian 12-2.

New Mexico A&M dropped its sixth game of the year, falling to McMurry 26-6.

Texas Western will try to get back in the victory column next week in a conference game against winless Arizona.

Looking 'em Over

With Tommy Hart

I think one of the area's best coaching jobs has been done with the Big Spring High School B team. When the season started, it began to appear the local school was not going to be able to field a reserve unit. There simply weren't enough boys to man 11 positions.

Browns Do Allright, Even Without Otto

By MIKE RATHET

Otto Graham, who he? The Cleveland Browns, who bristled with an aura of invincibility while Uncle Otto was lofting TD passes, were supposed to turn into the National Football League's palsies when he made his second "retirement" permanent at the close of the 1955 season.

Baby Strangled On Windshield

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—Lucinda Lynn Howell, 22 months old, was strangled last night when her mother rolled up the window of an automobile without looking. Sheriff's officers said Mrs. Vera M. Howell, 25, told them she was sitting in the front seat of the car with a neighbor and chatting with relatives standing alongside. Three children were playing in the back seat.

There was a draft through a rear window so she reached back and rolled up the glass without looking. She did not see Lucinda Lynn had stuck her head out the window.

A few moments later one of the children said "Oh look, little Lynn is asleep."

The little girl was dead on arrival at a hospital. Doctors said the top of the glass caught her windpipe and vocal chords. She could neither breathe nor cry out.

Nonpartisan Probe Of Missiles Seen

NEW YORK (AP)—The lawyer who will direct a Senate inquiry into the nation's missile and satellite programs says the probe will be "nonpartisan; constructive and patriotic."

Edwin L. Weisl, New York City lawyer, said the inquiry will focus on "irrelevant issues" and that scientists and others called to testify are all "persons whose ability and motives are beyond question."

Weisl was named last Friday as special counsel to direct the inquiry. It will be conducted by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee of the Armed Services Committee. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) is chairman of the subcommittee.

Weisl said he will begin his work in Washington today. He will lay the groundwork for a series of five public hearings, which are to begin Nov. 25.

Cuban Atrocities

NEW YORK (AP)—The World Medical Assn. has asked Cuban President Fulgencio Batista to permit an association committee to investigate allegations that doctors of Cuba are victims of atrocities, including murder, for treating Cuban rebels. Texas Veterans Take Part In Observances

By The Associated Press
 Veterans of four wars, and possibly five, took part in Veterans Day observances over Texas Monday.
 Veterans of the Spanish-American conflict, World Wars I and II and Korea paraded, listened to speeches and took part in other observances. Walter Williams, 114, veteran of the Civil War, wanted to ride in an ambulance in a Houston parade, but relatives said they didn't know whether he could make it.
 Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth all planned downtown ceremonies. Some 1,000, including six bands, were scheduled for the Houston parade.
 Fort Worth planned a 2,500-man parade headed by a group of musicians led by Hartley Edwards of Denison. Edwards was a World War I bugler for Gen. John Pershing who recently returned to France after 37 years to play taps at the Arc D'Triomphe. Armed forces units and a Nike missile group were to take part.
 The marchers were to halt for a minute of silence for taps. A formation of jets was to streak overhead.
 U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough scheduled a speech at New Braunfels. The World War II veteran said in a prepared speech America's dedication to the "idea of human freedom is our greatest weapon" and "we would not trade it for any new weapon known to man."
 Yarborough paid tribute to Texans who "in all of our wars for freedom have served beyond the call of duty in the undying tradition of our soldiers at the Alamo."
 Veterans Day was proclaimed by Congress several years ago in place of Armistice Day.

Speed And Gravity Make Difference

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
 AP Science Reporter
 NEW YORK (AP)—Sputniks merrily circle the earth. But a U.S. rocket soaring 4,000 miles high falls back to earth. How come?
 Why didn't the American rocket stay up when it went that high? What keeps Sputniks up? The questions still puzzle many people.
 Gravity and speed are the main answers.
 Gravity usually means that what goes up must come down.
 But there's a way of getting around it, through speed. This is what Sputniks do. They travel fast enough so their speed counterbalances the pull of the earth's gravity. So they keep swinging around somewhat like a ball on the end of a string.
 For a Sputnik near the earth, this speed has to be about five miles per second, or 18,000 m.p.h. Our regular moon stays up for the same reason. It travels only about 2,300 m.p.h. But that's just right for a heavy moon 240,000 miles away from the earth. The earth's gravity keeps it on the invisible "string."
 To hang a Sputnik in space, you need something more than just speed. You need very good timing and aiming.
 If a rocket just goes straight up, it falls down again. The earth's gravity keeps slowing it down, like a brake on an auto. Finally it stops, and falls. Or it makes a long curving flight and falls.
 This is what happened to U.S. rockets that went higher than any Sputnik. President Eisenhower said three of them reached heights of 2,000 to 4,000 miles. Where they fell to earth, or the sea, was not said, may not be known.
 They weren't aimed to stay up. To get a Sputnik up, you make the rocket curve so that the last-stage rocket is flying parallel to the earth. It's going about 10,000 m.p.h., at least 200 miles high.
 Then the third rocket engine fires off, and boosts the speed to nearly 18,000 m.p.h.
 The rocket with its Sputnik tries to go straight, but gravity hauls on it and makes it curve. It circles the earth, with very little air friction to alter its speed.
 The angle at which you fire the last rocket determines the orbit—how close or far away from earth it swings.

Uncle Roy: World Attention Focused On Second Satellite

The launching of a second satellite by Russia caught the world's attention during the past week. Pity was expressed for the animal which went rushing into an orbit around the earth.
 Q. Do you still believe that your prediction, made four years ago, that a rocket would reach the moon by the year 1963 will come true?
 A. Yes. The satellites launched this autumn make it seem more likely than ever that a rocket in the early future, the United States could gain back much of the ground recently lost by being first to send a rocket to the moon.
 Q. Would such a rocket carry people?
 A. Live animals have been sent on short rocket trips. The dog aboard the second Russian satellite called forth widespread attention. Such tests suggest that human beings can remain alive on space rockets if proper provisions are made.
 Q. Is the hope of exploring a part of our solar system brighter today than it was before?
 A. Yes. The artificial "moons" have caught the imagination of the world. Nations now are willing to spend more money for rockets designed to get away from the gravitational pull of the earth.
 Q. Do you still believe that the first rocket which reaches the moon will be without passengers?
 A. Yes, I think that is likely. Cameras can be installed in space rockets, and automatic motor controls may turn a rocket around. Perhaps it will come within a few thousand miles of the surface while circling the moon. Excellent pictures of the moon's surface may be obtained in that way.
 Q. What about the old story of a "man on the moon"?
 A. That silly fable arose from the fact the moon's surface markings which suggest the face of a man. Scientists know that the moon is, at present, completely free of population.

 Temperatures dropped to near freezing into northern Georgia as the cold air mass spread across the Atlantic Coast states. Only southern Florida escaped the chilly blasts. Generally fair weather prevailed in most areas.
