SAC Adds Entry To Its Achievement Log

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—The Strategic Air Command had another entry today in its log of achievements—a 10,600-mile non-stop flight of six jet bombers from the United States to Buenos Aires and back.

The flight marked the first time a "cell of planes," as the Air Force describes the group, had made such a trip. It took slightly less than 24 hours.

The big B52s landed at Plattsburgh Air Force Base yesterday. The 54 crewmen caught up on their sleep while the craft were checked and fueled, then they were off to the home field, Loring Air Force Base in Maine.

Hearings Take Spotlight In State Capitol

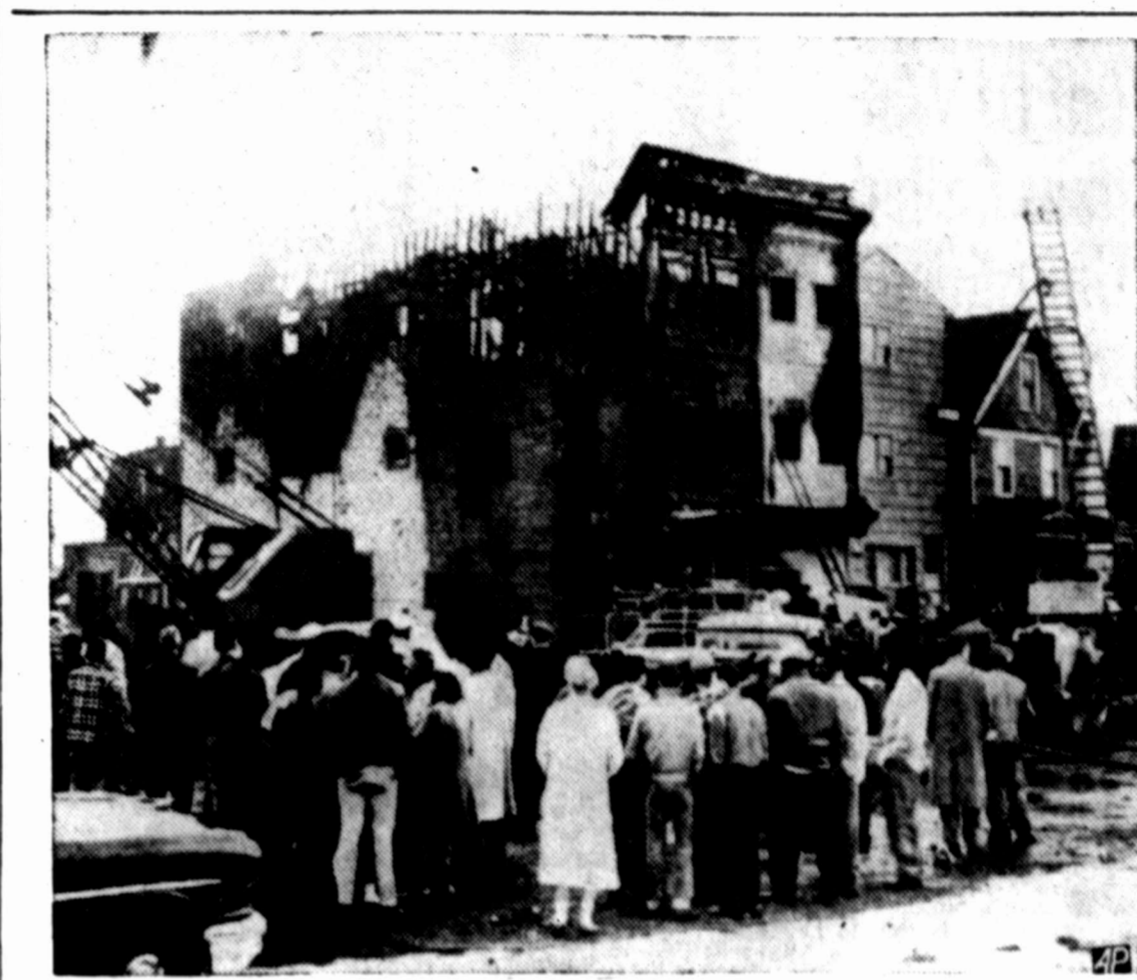

AUSTIN (AP)—State senators, fresh from a weekend with the folk at home, today asked whether or not an anti-troop bill would take too much authority from the school boards.

Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center explained his bill (SB1) to the State Affairs Committee and was peppered with questions by members from throughout the state.

The bill would allow the local school boards to close schools where there was sufficient violence or threat to bring on military troops. The school still would get state aid if closed under those circumstances.

Lane said the bill patterned "along the lines suggested by the governor" would provide that if the governor was informed of threatened violence he could issue a proclamation but the board would be the only agency that could actually close the school.

Handyman Held In Butchering Of 10

Seventeen persons—including 14 children—were burned to death when an early-morning fire razed this three-story former hotel at Niagara Falls, N.Y. The structure was occupied by two Negro families. The cause of the fire was not determined but firemen said it could have started by the explosion of a heater.

Cannibalism Suspected In Farm Deaths

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (AP)—The Waushara County district attorney said today that five more heads have been found on an isolated farm near Plainfield, raising to 10 the number of cadavers discovered so far in the house where a mild-mannered handyman lived alone.

Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen said that Edward Gein had broken a stubborn 30-hour silence and admitted that he "knew something" about the macabre collection.

Kileen said that Gein told him he might have killed the victims, and admitted the ghastly butchering of a 58-year-old Plainfield businesswoman Saturday.

Gein was asked whether, in connection with the disemboweling of Mrs. Bernice Worden, he had intended to eat his victim.

"On that point he still has a lapse of memory," Kileen said. The five latest heads to be found were wrapped in plastic bags.

Shortly after 11 a.m. the 51-year-old Gein—a frail-looking 140-pound bachelor—wearing rubber boots, and with his red cloth gloves handcuffed before him, was taken from jail at Waubesa by Kileen, Sheriff Art Schley and County Judge Boyd Clark.

"He has something he wants to show us," Kileen said. The farm scene where the grisly discoveries were made lay under a four-inch blanket of snow today but State Crime Laboratory officials continued their chilling work of searching the buildings.

Investigators found the remains of four women in the farm home yesterday. Law enforcement officials refused to furnish any details. Dozens of city, county and state officers searched the 160-acre property throughout the night.

There were rumors that Gein's bedroom was decorated with furniture upholstered in human skin. Kileen yesterday said the case appeared to be cannibalism. He said he could place both robbery and murder charges against Gein.

Kileen explained a robbery charge would involve theft of a cash register and a pickup truck from the hardware store Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, had operated in this community since her husband died 26 years ago.

The cash register was found in Gein's house on an obscure road about seven miles from Plainfield, which is about 120 miles northwest of Milwaukee.

Blustery Cold Front Lashes State, Brings In A Tornado

By The Associated Press

A blustery cold front raced deep into Texas Monday in the wake of turbulent weather that sent a chalk-white "cracking and popping" tornado across the edge of Fort Worth.

A heavy rain driven by northwesterly winds up to 53 miles an hour lashed Galveston, while Beaumont Monday morning reported a thunderstorm and gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

The twister, plainly visible from downtown Fort Worth, damaged at least 10 buildings and knocked out power lines in the White Settlement Community on the northwest edge of Fort Worth Sunday.

It broke up in about 15 minutes after passing over Carswell Air Force Base.

The cold front Monday was nearing Brownsville, which had an overnight low of 75 degrees in contrast to sub-freezing 30 degree readings at Amarillo and Dalhart.

Skies were clearing in West Texas and were expected to begin clearing in North and Central Texas by tonight.

The Department of Public Safety made a preliminary damage estimate of $4,000 at Fort Worth. No injuries were reported.

"I tried to lift me off the ground, but I grabbed the porch rail and hung on," said Jerry Williams, 18, who was standing on the front porch of his home when the twister passed about 40 feet away. "It was picking up two-by-fours and big pieces of scrap and tossing them all over the place. It crushed a steel garage like it was paper."

Sgt. Edward Foulkes of Carswell said he saw it lift a 36-foot trailer. "It picked the trailer up, held it aloft a minute, then dropped it back squarely on its side," he said. "It made a whale of a crash when it hit."

R. W. Grims of White Settlement said the tornado was "long and white." He said he and his wife looked up when they heard a "cracking and popping" overhead.

Rain and drizzle covered much of Texas Sunday. Hail hit some areas. The South Texas-Lower Rio Grande Valley area was the only section without precipitation. A cold front moved across the state, kicking off the rain and turbulent weather.

Three people were killed in an auto smashup on a rained-slick South Plains highway. Mrs. Billy Howerton and her 2-month-old baby, both of Littlefield, and Arturo Garcia of Sudan were killed.

Snow mixed with rain fell in parts of the Panhandle, melting as it hit. Hail the size of marbles fell west of Wichita Falls, blanketing the ground for a time. Hail ranging up to 1/2-inch in diameter battered Paris Sunday.

Carrollton, north of Dallas, got 2.51 inches of rain. Cottonwood Creek there swelled and covered a bridge with three feet of water. Most rain measurements were less than half an inch. Paris got .28. Rainfall reports for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 p.m. Sunday included Amarillo .10 of an inch, Dallas .34, El Paso .12, Fort Worth .54, Galveston .03, Houston .02, Lubbock .15, Lufkin .10, Van Horn .08 and Childress .17.

The Department of Public Safety said the twister destroyed one trailer home, damaged seven homes and a trailer house and a business.

Roofs, windows, trees and television antennae were hard hit. The power was off for a time with power lines torn down.

The community has considerable heavy industry, including the Convair aircraft plant.

One severe weather alert for Northeast Texas expired at midnight. But a second continued until 5 a.m. It said "a few severe thunderstorms with a tornado or two are expected in extreme Northeast Texas" and parts of Louisiana and Arkansas. "The approximate area is along and 60 miles either side of a line from 10 miles southeast of Tyler, Tex., to 30 miles east of Walnut Ridge, Ark.," the forecast said.

Small craft warnings were ordered hoisted along the coast from Brownsville to Morgan City, La., Monday. The warning read, "hoist small craft warnings at 3 a.m. from Brownsville, Tex., to Morgan City, La., for southerly winds 15 to 25 m.p.h. shifting to northerly 20 to 35 m.p.h. today."

Another bill related to the troop-school closing question was actually incorporated in Lane's bill. It would specifically authorize a transfer of $50,000 from the governor's fund to the attorney general's fund to represent local school districts sued in integration matters in federal court.

Lane said he would keep both bills together if the attorney general held they were the same subject matter. Only one subject may be covered in a bill.

Dr. Kelley Barnett, professor of Christian ethics, Episcopal Seminary of the Southwest at Austin, told the committee the legislation authorizing closing of schools merely "tells agitators and mobs, boys you can get it, come and take it over."

Not referring to Daniel by name, Barnett said: "The governor is reluctant to use his powers for the enforcement of law and order when a school system is in the process of integration. He is asking you to relieve him of a difficult executive decision. It's a hot potato, but I suggest you throw it back."

"If we instruct the governor not to disobey federal law, that will keep troops away," Barnett said. "The governor should use his prestige and powers to say Texas is governed by laws and not mobs."

Barnett said passage of the bill as suggested by Daniel "is the first step in the destruction of the public school system in Texas."

The House adjourned until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow after a brief session. Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas introduced a bill (HRS) calling for registration of organizations whose activities "may result in serious disturbance of the peace." It was sent to committee without comment. Pool said previously that he expected it to be questioned as being outside the scope of the second legislative session as called by the governor.

SYMPATHY FOR A&M The House also spent some time in passage of a resolution extending sympathy to Texas A. & M. for the Aggies' football defeat Saturday by Rice. Rep. B. H. Dewey of Bryan presented a large black-festooned wreath in a mock memorial ceremony.

The House State Affairs Committee meets at 2:30 p.m. to take up varying versions of the troop-school closure legislation. This committee also will consider several proposed concurrent resolutions.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's office worked over the weekend on the request of State Affairs Chairman W. S. (Bill) Healy of Paducah for a ruling on the constitutionality of the school closing legislation. At the last regular session, two segregated bills finally passed by the Legislature and signed by the governor were not given this pre-text of validity.

Wilson's office was also working on a requested opinion on legality of the Senate action last week in rejecting the appointment of William A. Harrison as state insurance commissioner. Validity of the Senate's action was questioned by the insurance board, which had appointed Harrison.

Cotton Festival DALLAS (AP)—The 1957 Christmas and Cotton Bowl festival was to be launched with a parade today. The festival runs through Jan. 2.

County May Take Over Fair Plant

Howard County Commissioners court, polled by R. H. Weaver, county judge, expressed unanimous approval of a proposal that the county take over the buildings, assets and properties of the Howard County Fair Association—provided that such a step is ruled to be within the legal powers of the court.

The matter came before the court on Monday morning when a sizeable committee representing the Howard County Fair Association, the Howard County Rodeo Association and the Farm Bureau, appeared before the body with a renewal of a request made last spring.

The Fair Association, with Joe Pickle as its spokesman, said that it wanted the county to assume ownership of the fair property and that the rodeo group had agreed to deed to the county two acres of land which the fair has leased on a 99-year term. It was also specified that the county assume an indebtedness which the fair association has of $10,500 on the property. This indebtedness is to the Farm Bureau.

The Farm Bureau, represented by J. W. Fryar and others, assured the commissioners that there would be no pressure by that agency for immediate payment of the obligation. It was indicated that about $1,500 in interest, insurance and other costs needs to be liquidated at this time.

Weaver pointed out that no allowance has been set up in the budget for 1958 for any extra expenditures. He also said that the legal opinion of the county attorney on the right of the county to accept such a proposition would have to be heard. The county attorney was not available.

Earl Hull declared he was "for the acceptance of the plan—if it can be done under the law."

P. O. Hughes, G. E. Gilliam and Hudson Landers also said they would like to see the county take the property, provided such a deal can be worked out.

The committee present pointed out that it was hoped, if the transfer of the land and property is accomplished, ultimately the county commissioners would see their way to add improvements to the existing facilities.

Weaver told the group and the court that he had discussed the proposal with a number of citizens and that he believed the public would be in favor of such a program.

The committee was told that the county attorney would be asked for an opinion and that action, based on that opinion would be taken as soon as possible.

Held 60 Years As Feeble-Minded, Iowa Man Freed

GLENWOOD, Iowa (AP)—Mayo Buckner, 67, has an intelligence quotient of 120 but he has been a resident for 60 years of the Iowa School for Mentally Retarded here.

Buckner says "I would now like to see if I could make it on the outside."

An individual generally is regarded as of fully normal intelligence if he has an IQ between 90 and 110. Buckner is a competent printer and an accomplished musician, Alfred Sasser, institution superintendent, says.

School records show that Buckner's mother brought him here because, she said, other children "picked on him" and her son would not defend himself. She also said her son "rolled his eyes," the records show.

Only in recent years did testing programs establish Buckner's apparent above-average intelligence.

Adlai Arrives To Confer With Dulles On U.S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson arrived at the State Department today to confer with Secretary of State Dulles on President Eisenhower's plans for breathing new life into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"I am here to make comments and be helpful, to consult and discuss," said Stevenson who was defeated for the presidency in 1952 and 1956 by Eisenhower.

Speaking to newsmen as he arrived in a drizzle, the former Illinois governor told newsmen he could add little to what has already been said about his mission.

He has agreed to act as a consultant, while declining an offer to head a group formulating policy.

Reporters asked him how he could make comments on policy before it was made final without, in effect, helping draft it.

"I won't go into that," he laughed. But he said he would "be as helpful as I can" in arguing for the policies "to the extent that I agree with them."

Stevenson was about 10 minutes early for his appointment with Dulles.

Stevenson has been asked to meet later with President Eisenhower, who now is vacationing in Augusta, Ga.

Arriving here from New York, Stevenson issued a statement outlining some of his own views including the need for "highly mobile forces" to combat brush fire wars, development of joint policies, and aid to underdeveloped countries.

"I am here to help if I can to bring about a closer military and political association through NATO (the North Atlantic Treaty Organization)," he said.

He agreed to this attempt at bipartisanship, he said, because of "the gravity of our situation in the world."

Guardedly, in response to Dulles' initial overtures last month, he refused to head up a State Department task force which would write the policy for Eisenhower's personal attendance at a NATO summit meeting next month. But he agreed to "review and discuss" administration proposals and to support them "when we were in agreement."

In August, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower wrote Stevenson last week expressing regret he would not be in Washington during Stevenson's visit today.

Eisenhower also said he intends to confer with Stevenson before leaving for the NATO meeting in Paris, Hagerty said, but added no date for such a meeting has been fixed.

"I haven't the remotest idea," he replied. To a similar question, Hagerty said he has not heard such a Stevenson trip discussed in the government.

In his formal statement, Stevenson made an apparent reference to some suggestions Dulles is considering, saying that "genuine partnership means more than pooling our military and scientific resources. We must also work out joint policies in areas of common interest and common danger before crises like Suez arise."

Farmers, who have been severely handicapped by the prolonged wet weather, were hopeful with the return of bright sunshine on Monday morning they could get back in their fields today. Cotton harvest is lagging badly behind schedule due to the almost incessant rains which have prevailed throughout the past three weeks.

Big Spring's share of moisture was light but it was reported that Colorado City had 10 inch. Sunshine had returned to that area Monday.

The total rain for November is now 1.66 and for the year 22.54 inches.

Low Of 28, Snow Are Forecast Here

Bright sunshine greeted Big Springers Monday morning, bringing a respite from a gray, damp and drizzly weekend. However, if the U. S. Weather Bureau is right, the reprieve is of short duration.

Forecast for Monday issued at 11 a.m. saw possibly light snow flurries for this afternoon and it also ominously forecast a locally hard freeze Monday night.

The forecast said it would be colder today and that 50 was the best the maximum could achieve. A low of 28 is on tap for tonight.

Tuesday should be around 54, it was said.

Big Spring residents had another gray and damp weekend—a continuation of a series which has been the prevailing rule for some weeks.

U. S. Experiment Station reported that the mist and occasional drizzle which kept the countryside garbed in a wet coat added .02 inch to the total precipitation for the year. The temperature was never higher than 52 during the day and dropped to 38 during Sunday night.

Local Couple Hurt In Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. Will J. Sheppard narrowly escaped grave injuries Sunday in a car mishap near Roscoe.

Mrs. Sheppard sustained severe lacerations about the head and face and was removed from a Sweetwater hospital to the Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital here. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

Sheppard sustained painful bruises and cuts but was not thought to have suffered serious injuries.

The accident occurred about 5 p.m. in drizzly, foggy weather as the Sheppards were returning from Dallas. As he turned off the highway into a detour around a culvert under construction the approaching car swerved. Sheppard braked his car and the two collided. Luckily one of the first persons on the scene was an unidentified registered nurse who was able to control the bleeding from Mrs. Sheppard's wounds. Impact of the collision drove the steering wheel back into Sheppard with such impact that it broke. The front seat also was knocked completely loose.

Farm Bureau Meeting Gathers

DALLAS (AP)—About 1,500 members of the Texas Farm Bureau gathered today for the organization's annual convention.

Gov. Daniel will address the group Thursday.

3 Times Wed, But Only Last Counts

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Three times Howard Lawson and Mary Sylvester heard the minister intone, "I now pronounce you man and wife."

Once in the minister's parlor, a second time under a street light in rural Mansfield and finally in a car 35 miles from home against the background of "The Star Spangled Banner."

And only the last ceremony—Saturday—really counted.

The trouble could all be laid to red tape and geography.

The couple tells it this way: Howard of nearby Normal, and Mary of Bloomington decided last Thursday to get married. They drove some 60 miles to Urbana for their blood test and returned to Bloomington for the legal three-day waiting period.

Saturday morning they learned the blood samples had been spilled and they would have to take another test. They did and then went to the Champaign County clerk to pick up the marriage license. But the clerk said there was an error on the certificate. Another dash to the laboratory and then seconds before the noon closing time the clerk issued a marriage license.

Howard and Mary were married Saturday evening by the Rev. F. Roy Doland of Bloomington. But the minister noticed that the license was issued in Champaign County and the ceremony wasn't legal in Bloomington (McClean County).

So the wedding party—bridesgroom, minister and two witnesses—drove to Mansfield, where the Rev. Doland obliged a second time beneath a street light.

That seemed to take care of everything, so the newlyweds headed back to Bloomington to celebrate.

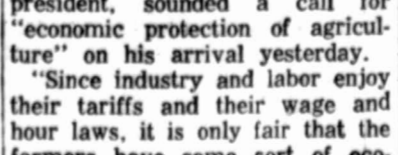

But at 10:30 Saturday night the Rev. Mr. Doland telephoned and told the couple: Mansfield isn't in Champaign County either—it's six miles short, in Piatt County.

A two-car motor caravan sped to Mahomet, where it was ascertained that the party was on Champaign County soil.

There, in front of Charlie's Market the couple, still in the car, heard the blessed—"and legal—words repeated. A patriotic note marked the brief ceremony. A radio at the market was playing "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Snark In Action

This is a recent view of the Air Force's intercontinental guided missile, the Snark, which was disclosed to have carried a simulated hydrogen warhead to a target 5,000 miles from its launching. The announcement termed the Oct. 31 test flight "the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability" and said the Snark hit "with unprecedented accuracy."

Estimates Okayed On Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the Internal Revenue Service says that where necessary, estimates may be used in reporting expense account items for income tax purposes.

But Director Russell C. Harrington, asked about reports from his service that the little taxpayer can forget the whole thing, replied, "Such reports are not correct."

He did agree in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News & World Report, that "generally speaking, yes" it is the people with large expense accounts on whom the service will check carefully.

"A revenue agent isn't going to spend a lot of time on small amounts," he said at one point. Ever since 1921 the law has required that an employer who incurs business expenses for which his employer repays him must report as income the money he received in payment. He then may deduct his expenses. But that requirement has been generally ignored by many with small expense accounts, and the revenue service has not complained.

The revenue service has changed 1957 income tax forms to require listing totals of these items on a separate sheet of paper. That led to reports of an intensive crackdown, which IRS officials sought informally to contradict with word that little change was anticipated.

Harrington gave some backing to that view even while describing the reports as incorrect. He was asked whether agents would be lenient in going over the 1957 returns "for omissions of the kind that people have been making for years."

"There will be no change in that for the 1957 returns," Harrington replied. At another point he said, "Now we have put people on notice. So, beginning with 1958, we will be in a position to adopt a stricter attitude in examining these expense accounts."

For those reporting, he said, "some accounts would obviously have to be estimates, or at least not supported by vouchers." On the returns, he added, only lump sums need be used for car expenses, hotel costs and other categories. More details will be required only if the return is questioned.

Asked what should be done by a taxpayer who had kept no records because he didn't know he had to this year, Harrington said, "He could rely on secondary evidence (estimates) of the type I previously discussed."

He said the service will not require any more detailed information to support these claims for deductions than we have in the past.

Half Of Water Plans Called 'Unjustified'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Are less than half the nation's water resource projects economically unjustified?

That's the conclusion of Otto Eckstein, assistant professor of economics at Harvard University, in a paper submitted to the House-Senate subcommittee on Fiscal Policy.

The subcommittee will question Eckstein and other resource panelists Friday as part of its study into the effect of government spending programs on the nation's economy.

Eckstein reached his conclusion in a critical discussion of the benefit-cost ratio used by government agencies and project sponsors to determine the worthiness of a proposed project. If the purported benefits from a project exceed its cost, the project is said to have a favorable benefit-cost ratio. The higher the ratio, the more worthwhile the project.

Eckstein contended, however, that concepts and techniques that have been employed by agencies to measure benefits in the past 15 years have yielded figures which considerably overstate the additions to national income.

Victims' Body Recovered

The cutter Bering Strait, right, stands by as a small whale boat, lower left, recovers the body of one of the victims of the Pan American stratosphere jet that crashed in the Pacific Ocean with 44 persons aboard. The commander of the carrier Philippine Sea reported recovery of 17 bodies during the search. All bodies found were shoeless; most wore life jackets and all of them had external injuries and multiple fractures, the Navy reported.

Echoes Of Little Rock Still Thundering Thru Deep South

By RELMAN MORIN

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18 (AP)—The echoes of Little Rock are still thundering through the Deep South today and authorities everywhere see three major effects on the anguished question of desegregating the schools.

1. A definite hardening of the determination of many Southerners to resist the Supreme Court order. People tell you they were prepared, reluctantly, to accept integration before, but now are ready to battle to the bitter end to avoid it. Tempers are edgy.

2. As a result, there is widespread talk of a "cooling off" period. Southerners believe—perhaps wishfully—that Little Rock will cause proponents of integration to postpone new petitions for court orders to enroll Negro children in all-white schools.

3. Prior to Little Rock, most of the pronouncements from the South came from the extremists. The North—bearing little else—took this as representative of the whole Southern opinion, a solid, monolithic point of view.

Today, the other points of view are emerging. Men who were silent before on the moral and social aspects of the problem are finding the courage to speak out. Along with this, there are reports of economic boycotts aimed at the Negro, new state laws to preserve segregation, and much discussion, pro and con, of the desirability of deserting the Democratic party and forming a new one.

friendships shall cease. As we succeed, your business shall fail."

But in Atlanta, 80 prominent clergymen sign and publish a clear-cut manifesto.

"We believe that all Americans, whether black or white, have a right to the full privileges of first-class citizenship. . . . God is no respecter of persons. . . . No policy which seeks to keep any man from developing every capacity of body and mind and of the spirit can be justified in the light of the Scripture."

In Birmingham, Ala., a Negro is emancipated. In Concord, N.C., the Ku Klux Klan beats up a woman reporter and a male photographer, both white. In Jacksonville, Fla., on the steps of a church where a Negro woman is making a speech, they find a package—a brown doll with a crushed skull, drenched in red ink to simulate blood.

But in Clayton, Ga., white attorney Lillian Smith—long and fiercely criticized in the South for attacking segregation—finds a new attitude in the little town today. She says neighbors applauded her remarks on a recent television program and said, "We can't tolerate having the lawless elements take over our town."

In Augusta, Ga., the segregationist newspaper, Augusta Courier, tells its readers: "We should have a plan of operation in case we are occupied by the armed forces of the nation and our schools are policed by federal troops. . . . U.S. forces can exterminate Southern white people but they will never be able to force mixing of races."

But a Mississippi-born newspaperman, Bicknell Eubanks, writes from Dallas: "Few Southerners want a reputation of Little Rock and Nashville. Only those who thrive on dissension and make a career of fostering suspicion and hatred in disturbed communities want more of the violence which has marked the capitals of Arkansas and Tennessee."

WONT LIE DOWN With apparent confidence, Mrs. Ruby Hurley, Southeastern regional director of the NAACP, says today, "Segregation is dead."

"Maybe so," say the officers of the Southern Regional Council, a research group working to improve race relations, "but it's going to take a long time to lie down."

So, in many ways, the shadow of Little Rock—especially the use of federal troops to enforce integration there—lies heavily over the Deep South. Southerners quietly tell you that this is all too reminiscent of the tragic days of the Reconstruction.

The picture varies from place to place. For example, people tell you there are parts of Georgia where they will never—and they mean just that—accept integration.

But in Atlanta, although it is not generally known, an unofficial move to study a desegregation plan was under way prior to Little Rock. It has been dropped since then.

The Southern School News, which simply reports and does not take sides, recently said of Louisiana: "A consultant who hires out to industries is telling his clients that in the end South Louisiana will accept integration gracefully. . . . Persons agree the southern part of the state is not typical."

Tornadoes Kill 5 In 2 States

JASPER, Ala. (AP)—Tornadoes struck 13 rural communities in Alabama and Mississippi yesterday. Five persons died and scores of homes were battered.

Alabama was hardest hit. Three persons were killed and nine injured, one critically. Two were killed in Mississippi and the state patrol said several persons were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford E. Bradford and their 14-year-old daughter Billie Lou were killed when their home was blown down at Cross Roads, six miles west of Jasper. June Speagle, 14, who was visiting the Bradford girl, was in critical condition. Her legs were crushed by falling timbers, hospital attendants said.

Human Runner Wants Another Horse Contest

ROOSEVELT, Utah (AP)—The results of that 158-mile horse-versus-man marathon that ended yesterday apparently didn't settle much. The exhausted foot racer who lost wants to try it again next year.

"I'll be back again." 24-year-old Brigham Young University student Albert Ray of St. Albans, N.Y., said as he hobbled around on swollen feet.

Ray had to give up 50 miles from here on the Salt Lake City-to-Roosevelt run. He was pushed and the two horses he tried to beat were near the finish line.

The race began in the Utah capital city Friday morning and ended 57 hours and 15 minutes later. It snowed at times and the mercury dropped under freezing.

The grueling "marathon" that was supposed to settle an old Western argument about which is faster—man or mount—ended when 76-year-old cowboy Roy Hatch and corider Ray Hall, 18, both of Roosevelt, trotted their steeds down the main street last night and broke a ribbon stretched across an intersection.

The two saddle sore cowpokes indicated they would be happy to ride again in 1958. Then they went to bed.

Indians, children, tourists, race officials and spectators doubled this town's 2,000 population to be on hand for the finish.

In the welcoming committee was Ray the runner. When he couldn't make it the last 50 miles here, he piled into a car and whizzed past the riders.

Ray had started the marathon with 18-year-old Terry Jensen of Idaho Falls, Idaho, another student at BYU in Provo, Utah. Jensen withdrew after the first day with a tight tendon.

Announce New Way to Drain Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

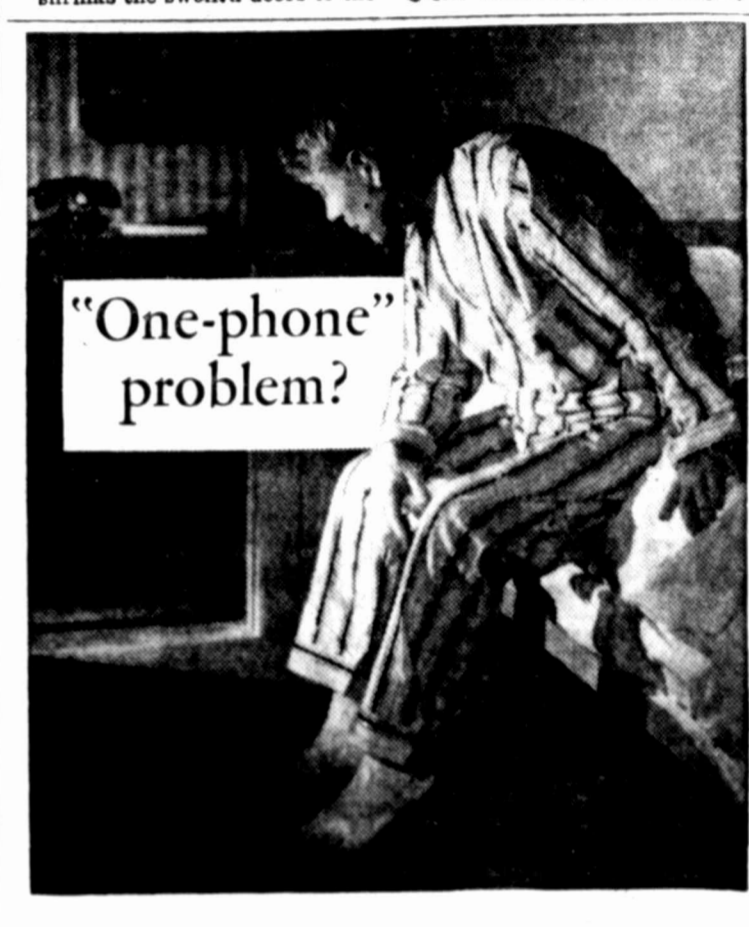

New tablet invention for sinus sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pains

New York, N. Y. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet invention which has a remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure pains, stuffed-up head, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished with extraordinary speed and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its remarkable work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a new medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful typically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan® Tablets. Dristan® Tablets cost only 98¢ for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan® Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, or your full purchase price will be refunded.

Borrows Bus

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Raymond D. Welke, 21, was pursued for two miles by police as he drove a big bus on an erratic course through town. Officers said Welke told them he became tired of waiting for a bus and finally walked to a nearby depot and helped himself to one. He was booked on suspicion of drunk driving and auto theft.

Coahoma Woman Praises New Medicine

To my Friends and Loved Ones: This is my first time to write a testimonial about any kind of medicine, but this Citru-Mix has helped me so much that I want to tell others who suffer from that dreadful thing called rheumatism.

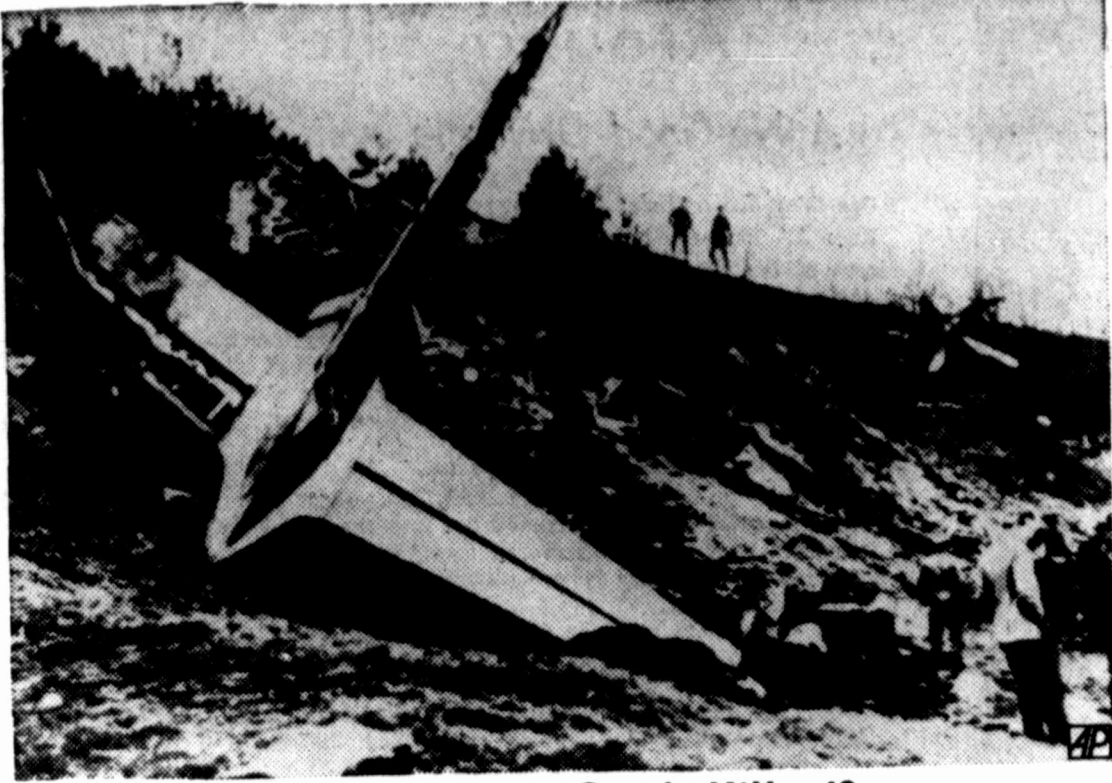

I had it, rheumatism, arthritis or lumbago, or whatever you call it all over my body. It would be in my right shoulder then jump to my back or hip. It seemed that it would play around over my body. It has been in my toes, eyes and teeth. I would have to go to bed and quit, but not often as I am a mother of five children. I have been in hospitals and have gone to Mineral Wells and Marlin, Texas.

Coahoma Woman Praises New Medicine

Citru-Mix was recommended to me by a neighbor and I took three bottles. I got relief in less than two hours after the first dose. That has been ten months ago and I have not had one ounce of trouble since then. I want you to try just one bottle if you have suffered as I have.

I have written this letter with my own free will and no one has paid me one cent for it. You may use it as you wish for advertising purposes.

Blues Composer Notes Birthday

NEW YORK (AP)—A throng of admirers joined last night in singing happy birthday to William C. Handy, the trail, blind composer of "The St. Louis Blues."

For the 84-year-old Negro, it was a long way from St. Louis where, he recalled, "I was a tramp." About 800 persons gathered in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and paid $50 a plate—proceeds to the W. C. Handy Foundation for the Blind—in a tribute sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

As Handy entered the ballroom in a wheelchair, a 30-piece Paul Whiteman orchestra saluted him with "Alabama Bound." Handy was born in Florence, Ala. President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and New York's Gov. Averell Harriman sent telegrams of congratulations. Among 36 persons on the dais with Handy and his wife were Ralph Bunche, United Nations official; Oscar Hammerstein II; and singer Merton Downey.

Officers Probe Racial Gunfight

CLANTON, Ala. (AP)—An investigation continued today into a series of gunfights between Negroes and white law enforcement officers at nearby Lomax which left one Negro man dead.

Four sheriff's deputies were wounded by flying pellets in gun battles which began Saturday night and lasted into the early hours of Sunday.

Willie Dunigan, 43-year-old farm hand, was fatally wounded in a gun battle with officers at his home early yesterday. He died about five hours later of chest wounds. Eight Negroes were being held at the Chilton County jail for questioning.

One of them, Osie Hill, 45, was captured with the aid of bloodhounds, ending an extensive manhunt which followed the wounding of Deputy Sheriff Floyd Porter.

Porter's left arm was shattered by a shotgun blast at close range. The other officers were not believed seriously hurt.

There was speculation that the shootings might have grown out of tensions caused by Ku Klux Klan activity in the county. A cross was set afire by Klansmen at Lomax Thursday night.

Sheriff Hugh Champion said he was baffled at what caused the trouble because "feeling between whites and Negroes has been good in our county."

Another Victim

CAMERON, La. (AP)—The marshy coast of Cameron Parish (county) has yielded another victim of Hurricane Audrey, which claimed more than 550 lives last June. The body was identified yesterday as that of Harry P. Melancon, 35, of Broussard.

Truman Advises On Ways To Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Democratic party organization listens to former President Truman it may form a 1960 presidential candidate who can appeal to the Northern big city vote without writing off the entire South.

Truman has told friends here he envisions a campaign somewhat similar to his successful race in 1948. In that year, Truman lost four Southern states to a Southern States Right party because of his espousal of civil rights legislation.

As do many other national leaders of the party, Truman believes the 1960 Democratic nominee must stand firmly for enforcement of the Supreme Court's school integration opinion.

But if his remarks are being interpreted correctly by his associates, Truman would rather see as a nominee a man whose support of this position is accepted without fanfare than one whose selection would wave a red flag in the face of the South.

The difference is illustrated by Truman's friends—but not the former President himself—as lying between the possible candidacies of Democratic Governors Robert F. Meyer of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Both are strong advocates of civil rights but Williams has been more vocal on the subject. Along with most other Democrats, Truman evidently believes the Republican party will be no threat in the South three years from now. This is based primarily on reaction to President Eisenhower's sending of federal troops to enforce a court order for integration in the Little Rock, Ark., high school.

Truman knows from experience, however, there can be more than a latent threat in the South's quadrennial talk of a third party. With the Republicans almost certain to nominate a candidate with a strong civil rights record, Democrats seem likely to have their hands full in the city areas where they were strong throughout the four Franklin D. Roosevelt and one Truman election.

While the Democrats are counting confidently on making inroads into traditional Republican strength in the Midwest farm belt, not many Democratic strategists believe they can afford to write off the entire South and still win.

Boy Killed In Family Shooting

HOUSTON (AP)—A boy, 7, was shot to death last night when he ran between his mother and father and was hit with a bullet intended for his father, Dep. Sheriff Gus George said.

Charged with the murder was Mrs. Ida Thomas, 38, who told George she accidentally fired a bullet into the back of her son, Stanley, just as her husband walked into the tavern they own.

The couple's daughter, Georgia, 11, Mrs. Thomas' son by a former marriage, Wayne Bruney, 15, and a 15-month-old daughter, Sonusray, were witnesses to the shooting.

The older children told George their mother walked from behind the bar with a .22 caliber automatic held by her side as her husband walked into the tavern. Just as she fired, Stanley ran between his mother and father and was struck in the back.

Georgia said he took three or four steps and fell on his face. He was dead when taken to a hospital.

Mrs. Thomas told officers she and her husband, W. G. Thomas, 42, had been married 12 years and had fought constantly.

Hearing Delayed In Beating Case

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A hearing in a summary court-martial for a Tyler, Tex., Marine accused of mistreating Navy prisoners was postponed today.

Sgt. Bobby Phillips of Tyler, one of 16 Marines facing a variety of mistreatment charges, went on trial Saturday.

Today's hearing was postponed because his civilian attorney, Frank Scolinos, was unable to be present.

Two Marines have been convicted on charges of abusing prisoners in the Sasebo Navy Base. One and another has been acquitted. Three others await trial before summary courts, eight before special courts and two before general courts.

A Bible Thought For Today

They shall perish, but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment; (Hebrews 1:11)

Fates Conspire To Loosen Ties

It sometimes seems as if the very fates conspire to loosen the ties that in one form or another have bound Britain, France and the U. S. together, with a few hiatuses, for almost a century and a half.

At the very time the three countries, along with other NATO nations, were preparing a new pledge of mutual respect and confidence, a new stumbling block developed, this time over the arming of Tunisia.

France fears that any arms shipped to Tunisia might find their way to rebel forces in adjoining Algeria. France proposed to arm its former protectorate, Tunisia, but hedged the deal about with so many restrictions calculated to keep the arms from being shipped to the Algerian rebels, that Tunisia refused to accept.

At this point Soviet Russia, acting through Nasser of Egypt, offered to sell Tunisia all the arms she needs. Egypt has been fishing in those troubled waters ever since Nasser came to power.

As a means of keeping Russia out of North Africa via Egypt, the U. S. and Britain decided to supply the young 6,000-man Tunisian army from their own stockpiles.

That tore it. France, not unnaturally, hit the ceiling. Here were two of its best friends and allies, preparing to do something that cuts squarely across what France considers its best interests. The new French government, if it assents to the Anglo-American proposal, faces a downhill before it had hardly got its seat warm.

There the matter rests as this is written, but where it will wind up nobody knows. The situation is made to order for the Kremlin.

The Anti-Troops Bill

The suggested contents of a bill sent by Governor Price Daniel for consideration of the second called session of the Texas Legislature is titled, "Proposed Anti-Troops Bill."

"The purpose of this act," reads the first sentence of Section 1, "is to further provide for the maintenance of law, peace and order in the operation of the public schools without resort to military occupation or control."

Section 2 says that the executive shall provide assistance when called upon by local authorities to prevent violence and maintain peace and order in the operation of the public schools. It says the National Guard shall not be called on by the governor "except as a last resort." If the local board finds that violence or the danger thereof cannot be prevented except by resort to military force or occupation, it is authorized to close the school for such period as may be necessary.

That much is permissive. But if the federal authority orders the National Guard or any other military force to move in and occupy, it is mandatory upon the board to close the school forthwith.

The salaries of school officials, teachers and employees would go on as usual should the school be shut down. There would be no loss of accreditation nor of the state funds, and compulsory attendance would not be applicable. Pupils could be transferred to other schools, and teachers could also be reassigned for the interval.

This is a bare outline of the suggested bill; it could be widened or narrowed by the Legislature—or thrown out altogether.

While this or similar laws might be within the constitutional purview of the Texas Constitution, nothing the U. S. Supreme Court has done since 1954 indicates it would stand up there.

The Educational Process In Russia

WASHINGTON — It has been a rude shock to many Americans to discover with the dramatization of the sputniks that the Soviet Union, supposedly backward and primitive, is graduating from two to three times as many scientists and engineers each year as are graduated from the schools in this country, which prides itself on its advanced technology.

The ready explanation is a compulsory curriculum with physics, chemistry, biology, astronomy and other sciences as required subjects from the fourth grade on. But that is not the only reason for the interest in science and technology is shown by a study recently released into how the Soviets instill a desire for knowledge in these fields in their young people.

The most far-reaching organization of science clubs supplements the teaching in the schools. These are given lavish support by the government in equipment and able leaders to direct activities. The author of the study showing the varied ways in which the students' interest is stimulated and directed is Mrs. Eleanor S. Lowman, who helped prepare the lengthy report on education in the U. S. S. R. by the Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"The actual work of the science clubs varies," Mrs. Lowman writes, "with the age of the members and the subject matter. In general, students interested in chemistry can carry out a variety of experiments in which they learn advanced laboratory techniques and undertake more difficult chemical analyses.

"The work of the physics clubs may be experimental—in radio, aviation, electricity, the remote control of machinery and other subjects of interest to young experimenters. Or it may involve members learning research techniques through the preparation of papers on the history of physics or the compilation of digests of the more popular accounts of current physical theories. When charts, models or pieces of apparatus made in these clubs are found to be of use in the regular school lessons, they may be manufactured for mass distribution or suggested for duplication in other schools."

Mechanically-minded members of the science clubs are encouraged to develop an original approach in whatever they undertake. Soviet youth, according to Mrs. Lowman, cannot buy model aircraft kits like those available to American children. Members of the "Young Aircraft Modelers" are provided the raw materials and left to develop and construct, through trial and error and inventive growth, their own aircraft.

"In this way," the author notes, "both boys and girls learn many principles of aviation, and at the same time they may also create new designs. Every idea submitted is considered by the club leaders. Whenever one appears practical, the student makes a blueprint and then begins construction. In the process, he learns a great deal about expert guidance.

The groundwork for this interest is laid in the primary school curriculum in Grades 1 to 4 for children from seven to 10. They are taught a great deal about nature, natural resources and conservation in these early grades.

In the fourth grade, instruction begins in natural science and geography. In the four-year primary school, mathematics instruction progresses from simple arithmetic to the rudiments of geometry.

By the time he has received his diploma from the standard secondary school—through the 10th grade at about age 17—each Soviet graduate has had 10 years of mathematics, five of biology, plus botany, zoology, anatomy, physiology, the principles of Darwinism and a sixth year of general psychology, four of chemistry, one of astronomy and five of physics.

In contrast, of the 1,300,000 high school students graduated in this country in 1955, it is estimated that less than a third had as much as a year of chemistry, about a fourth had a year of physics and less than a seventh had studied advanced mathematics.

Mrs. Lowman's report was published in the Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. It deserves far wider reading by Americans who have for too long been complacent about American superiority.

What Others Say

In a speech Tuesday night at San Francisco it fell to the Vice President Nixon to tell the GOP and country some unwelcome news. And to his credit he made no effort to gloss over or minimize the importance of Russian scientific progress and the Sputnik as even the White House has been trying to do.

Frankly, said Mr. Nixon, military strength must take priority over tax cuts. If we accept this fact, launching of the Soviet satellite may serve the cause of freedom but "only if we react strongly and intelligently to its implications."

The vice president also accepted a fact which the administration and most of the American people have been reluctant to admit. If the Communists take over Asia and Africa, the Kremlin will have assured its victory in the battle for world control. Loss of resources of those two continents, he correctly pointed out, would force the West "to surrender without firing a shot."

The American people, however, cannot help wondering where Mr. Nixon was when the GOP began taking the risks with our defense program and foreign affairs.

Meanwhile, the situation is serious. United States prestige has taken a deadly blow. Moscow is using its advantage to the hilt.

While grateful to the vice president for talking sense, it is a bit late and should it go unheeded it very well might prove fatal.

Self-Conscious Over Sputniks

WASHINGTON — We're getting self-conscious. We've been busting our buttons—talking and performing—to show how strong we are ever since Russia fired the Sputniks. But we didn't have the right muscles at the right time. The Russians won a propaganda victory.

Allies and neutrals were left with visions of Russian missiles and hydrogen warheads dropping in their flowerpots.

Something had to be done to reassure friends, warn foes. A whole batch of statements and performances followed, none as spectacular as Sputnik.

Last Wednesday Gen. Curtis Le-

May, vice chief of staff of the Air Force, captained a jet-tanker nonstop from Massachusetts to Argentina over 6,000 miles. After a rest, he flew it back to Washington, also nonstop.

That same day three jet-bombers flew 8,000 miles from California to the Philippines, nonstop but with refueling.

Over the weekend six B52 bombers flew nonstop from Florida to Argentina—and without landing but with refueling—back to update New York.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department announced the Navy was being equipped with atomic depth bombs, said it had shot off various kinds of missiles, and told of breaking an altitude record with a rocket.

All this illustrated President Eisenhower's talk to the nation two weeks ago, a talk in which he said he would give the "rough" with the "smooth." There was more of the smooth than the rough.

He said, with examples, this country had developed a family of missiles, with some 38 different types either in operation or under development.

In some instances he's been accused of overstating his case.

Pays To Know The Kids

NEW YORK — Sometimes it pays to spend a little time with the kids.

An hour devoted to helping two of his four children has set Martin Umanoff, 32-year-old industrial designer, on the road to becoming a millionaire.

One evening last December his two daughters, Laurie, 8, and Sandee, 7, came to him and said, "Daddy, we're trying to learn to tell time, but it's too hard. Can you help us?"

The problem intrigued Umanoff, a former Air Force sergeant. Puzzles had interested him since childhood, much of which he had spent in a wheelchair as the result of a polo attack.

With crayons, cardboard and thumb tacks he invented a new type clock within half an hour. The left side was clearly marked "before," the right side "after." The hour numbers and hour hand were red. The minute hand and numbers in blue.

Using his simplified clock he taught his children in 15 minutes to tell time.

"We have since found that any child, even as young as 4, who can read numbers up to 30 can learn to tell time in a few minutes," Umanoff said.

His children took the working model of his clock to school the next day. The teachers immediately asked for more. Within a few weeks Umanoff made and distributed 1,000 free.

Then a school principal told him: "Your clocks are a wonderful idea, but children need to learn more than simply how to tell time. They need something to teach them the importance of time."

Umanoff's answer was to create a cartoon character called Terry Tell Time, a half-imp, half-child in a Tyrolean hat.

The little character has proved—as did Mickey Mouse and Davy Crockett—an immediate commercial bonanza.

Umanoff has leased rights to manufacturers for $20,000 worth of merchandise using his Terry Tell Time symbol. Terry will be watches, school pads ("it's time to do your home work"), toothbrushes ("it's time to brush your teeth"), school bags ("it's time to go to school"), and some 55 other toys and products.

There will also be a television program for kids which Umanoff is arranging to distribute to 150 stations.

Although Umanoff has invented a dozen other items, the little Terry Tell Time character has overshadowed all his earlier creative efforts.

"Who would expect that an hour spent on a child's problem would change your whole life and grow into a multimillion-dollar business?" he asked.

"The kids themselves haven't asked yet for a share of the profits. They do ask me if I can't spend more time with them—I'm so busy I only have one day at home."

"But it's their own fault. If they hadn't asked me to teach them time to tell time, I'd have more time now to play with them."

A No-Good Driver Is Just A No-Goodnik

One thing and another: Ross A. McFarland and Roland C. Moore of the Harvard School of Public Health, who have made a long-time study of the cause and effect of automobile accidents, say "a man drives as he lives."

It is their contention that people who are misfits in society, as indicated by records in law courts, credit bureaus or social service agencies, are more likely to have repeated accidents than others.

Other research groups discovered specific attitudes which they believe contribute to highway risks.

As an example, there is the driver who usually expects that the other fellow will take the action necessary to prevent an accident. And there is the one who generally assumes that the road is clear around the curve or over the hill. And there is the driver who over-estimates his driving ability because he has escaped accident for a long time.

what the trained meteorologists have to say about it.

Hugh Cabot, sociologist and executive director of Age Center of New England, Inc., says far too many older people are being talked into defeat and decrepitude today by a younger generation which knows very little about old age and aging.

Cabot reasons that "much of our thinking about old age must be scrapped."

The sociologist cites one study which stated that if men and women over 50 were cranky, chances are they were cranky when they were in their 20's and 30's.

"The same goes for mental sluggishness," says Cabot, "unless it is caused by disease. Many teenagers show sluggish thinking if their environment bores them. This would be laid to 'old age' if they were 40 years older."

"Actual vigor appears to be a matter of individual constitution, desires and environment rather than a matter of age," Cabot added.

Am I in error or am I right in thinking there are far fewer amateur meteorologists these days, people who are willing to make long range forecasts of our weather?

Time was when you could get an opinion on the way the elements would behave on every street corner.

The prophets would come to their conclusion after seeing how far the fish descended into a pond during the autumn days or by studying the bark on a tree.

Nowadays, it's too easy to turn on a radio or pick up a newspaper and learn

Did you know or realize you spend anywhere from 11 to 14 per cent of your waking hours in total darkness?

That's how much you blink.

A nervous high-strung individual might blink as much as 40 per cent of the time.

Men are supposed to blink more than women. The average man blinks every three seconds, whereas the average woman has a blink rate of once in four seconds.

Concerning The Stevenson Appointment

Mr. Dulles, having turned to Mr. Stevenson for help, has been promised less than he hoped for but as much as he could reasonably have expected.

Mr. Stevenson will not undertake to formulate the Administration proposals for the NATO meeting at Paris in December. How could he? He is a private citizen. These proposals will have to be a compound of what can and will be done by the Pentagon, the Treasury, the Budget Bureau, and the State Department. Nobody can formulate these proposals who is not in the inner circle of the Administration, indeed who is not vested with the authority of the President himself.

All that an outsider, no matter how eminent, can do is to comment, to criticize, to support or to oppose what those who have the power of decision propose. For the outsider to attempt to do more, acting as if he himself had authority, would be a pretense, and to participate in it would be a reflection on his own judgment.

ment, knew that if he was to work successfully with the Roosevelt administration, he must secure his own power within the department he was invited to head. He knew better than to indulge in the pretense that just because he was a prominent Republican, he could, naked and unarmed, do what was supposed to result from the appointment of a Republican by a Democratic President.

In his statement, Mr. Stevenson said that "in view of the gravity of our situation in the world, I have both the desire and the duty to assist our government, regardless of partisanship or personal convenience." There is no doubt about it. The situation is grave and it is everyone's duty to assist the government. The only question is how each person can best assist it, and particularly if he is Adlai Stevenson.

We shall mislead ourselves, I believe, if we suppose that our situation is like that in war time when in order to have unity in action it is necessary to forego debate and dissent. The real issues in our present situation do not turn primarily on the capabilities or the intentions of the Russians to wage war. They turn upon our own capacity and willingness to make the effort to meet the challenge of Soviet competition. This involves a truly agonizing reappraisal of our policies and of our attitudes at home and abroad.

In such a reappraisal the loyal opposition has a great function to perform. It is not to do the work of the Administration. It cannot do it. It is not to be the salesman and the lobbyist of the official line. It is to analyze fairly, generously, but firmly, the official policies and actions and to offer alternatives so that there can be choices and an enlightened debate.

Many in recent days have mentioned, as if it were a precedent, the action of President Roosevelt on the eve of World War II in appointing two Republicans, Stimson and Knox, to be the civilian heads of the armed services. It was a wise and fruitful move, a guarantee to the country that the coming war would not be exploited for partisan New Deal politics.

But it is useful to recall that before Stimson accepted the enormous responsibility, he laid down conditions which he believed would give him the necessary power to meet the responsibility. He stipulated that he would become the Secretary of War only if he had the unconditional right to appoint his own subordinates. To this Roosevelt agreed, and Stimson appointed a brilliant group of Republicans whom he knew and trusted. They included Robert Patterson, John J. McCloy, Robert Lovett and Harry Bundy.

The moral of this example is that Stimson, who understood politics and government, knew that if he was to work successfully with the Roosevelt administration, he must secure his own power within the department he was invited to head. He knew better than to indulge in the pretense that just because he was a prominent Republican, he could, naked and unarmed, do what was supposed to result from the appointment of a Republican by a Democratic President.

In his statement, Mr. Stevenson said that "in view of the gravity of our situation in the world, I have both the desire and the duty to assist our government, regardless of partisanship or personal convenience." There is no doubt about it. The situation is grave and it is everyone's duty to assist the government. The only question is how each person can best assist it, and particularly if he is Adlai Stevenson.

We shall mislead ourselves, I believe, if we suppose that our situation is like that in war time when in order to have unity in action it is necessary to forego debate and dissent. The real issues in our present situation do not turn primarily on the capabilities or the intentions of the Russians to wage war. They turn upon our own capacity and willingness to make the effort to meet the challenge of Soviet competition. This involves a truly agonizing reappraisal of our policies and of our attitudes at home and abroad.

In such a reappraisal the loyal opposition has a great function to perform. It is not to do the work of the Administration. It cannot do it. It is not to be the salesman and the lobbyist of the official line. It is to analyze fairly, generously, but firmly, the official policies and actions and to offer alternatives so that there can be choices and an enlightened debate.

Tougher Words For Dictator Khrushchev

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's speech in Oklahoma City was in some respects the most sensational he has delivered on international affairs in his entire administration.

Coming, as it does, after the summary removal of Marshal Zhukov, the address sharply pinpoints America's conception that a dictator now rules Soviet Russia. It serves a warning that the United States does not trust the present regime in Moscow and will not be dissuaded from defense preparations either by threats or by soothing words from the Communists.

The President said:

"You may recall there was once a dictator named Hitler who also said he would bury us. He wrote a long, dull book telling precisely how he was going to do it. Not enough people took him at his word. We shall not make that mistake again."

The reference to Hitler's remark recalls the comment, "we will bury you," as expressed to Western diplomats by Khrushchev a few weeks ago at a cocktail party in Moscow, when he was discussing the Soviet's military prowess.

The fact that the President now calls attention publicly to this threat by Khrushchev is one of the most significant changes in recent policy here. Heretofore statements and speeches by the President or the Secretary of State have been couched in implicit rather than explicit phrases. There has been a general avoidance of such words as "dictatorship" in any specific reference to individuals. But apparently, with the emergence of Khrushchev as the master tyrant evidenced by the removal of war hero Zhukov, there now is a tendency to rely less on the kid-glove treatment. This is a salutary happening, because the real way to prevent the next world war is to encourage the people of Soviet Russia to get rid of the existing dictatorship, which can plunge them into war at any moment.

The President referred specifically in his speech to the "rigorous educational system and technological achievements" of the Soviets, but added:

"We see all this happening under a political philosophy that postpones again and again the promise to each man that he will be allowed to be himself, and to enjoy, according to his own desires, the fruits of his own labor."

This is a vivid description of slavery. The President is, in effect, telling the world and particularly the people of Soviet Russia that whatever they may achieve in a material way does them little good—for they have no individual freedom. It is the core of the whole problem of Communist tyranny which is celebrated now as the 40th anniversary of a "revolution" whose fruits have been denied to the people of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Eisenhower mentioned the "dramatic evidence" of "some remarkable material achievements" recently, and undoubtedly he was referring to the launching of the "sputniks" as he said.

"When such competence in things material is at the service of leaders who have so little regard for things human, and who command the power of an empire, there is danger ahead for free men everywhere. That, my friends, is the reason why the American people have been so aroused about the earth satellites."

This is plain speaking, and the words of the President should be read carefully in every so-called "uncommitted" or "neutral" country, for it is evident that if the Communists could conquer the Western allies, there would be little chance for freedom anywhere else. The President expressed a national doctrine of fearlessness and self-confidence as follows:

"The real strength with which the self-governing democracies have met the tests of history is something denied to dictatorships. It is found in the quality of our life, and in the vigor of our ideals. It manifests itself in the ever-astounding capacity of free men for voluntary heroism, sacrifice and accomplishment when the chips are down."

"This is the weapon which has meant eventual downfall for every dictator who has made the familiar mistake of thinking all democracies 'soft'."

Pointers Given On Care Of Man-Made Fur Coats

Natural gas, salt, water and coal are making big fashion news this fall. These raw materials are among those being spun along from chemist to consumer in the form of improved man-made furry fabrics.

Luxurious deep-pile coats already have warmed their way into the hearts of America's females and the new fabrics are expected to make them even more popular. They are soft but sturdy, warm but lightweight. And designers and manufacturers have been on pins and needles, waiting for public reaction to their ultra-high-fashion styles.

In 1957, models come in the very latest shorter-than-long fashion, in full lengths and tiny boleros. The classic one-button still is available and the barrel and oval looks, the cocoon wrap and the double-breasted silhouette have been added. Colors run the spectrum from dawn beige to midnight black.

These tough but feminine creations of the chemist and cutter can be excellent investments, especially if Milady recognizes a few simple do's and don'ts of coat care. For example:

1. If your coat is caught in rain or snow, shake it briskly and hang it up to dry—bottoms up.

2. Keep the coat away from direct heat.

3. Lift the pile from time to time with a roller brush.

4. Give it breathing space in the closet.

5. Don't load up the pickets; avoid repeated bundle and package friction in the same area.

6. When necessary, use a good aerosol spot remover and rub gently and carefully.

7. Specify "fur cleaning" at your dry cleaners and have it cleaned regularly.

8. Most coats come with information booklets on their care. Keep it and follow its instructions.

Pick Travel Clothes Of Miracle Fiber

No farseeking traveler wants to bother with a wardrobe that requires pampering and special attention. Smart ones choose easy-to-care-for clothes made with new chemical textile fibers.

Even the most fashionable clothes made with acrilan can be packed at home without reams of tissue paper, hung up upon arrival, and travel wrinkles disappear within a few hours. No need to dip into precious travel budgets for valet service, either.

Many such garments can be washed at night, dripped dry, and be ready to wear for an early morning tour with scarcely a touch of an iron. Clothes will keep their well groomed looks through the day's busy schedule, too, as acrilan keeps out wrinkles, keeps in sharper pleats and trouser creases.

Simple, With Exercises

Singer Keely Smith knew the importance of getting her figure back after her baby was born. It was simple with the exercises she tells about in today's Hollywood Beauty. The Capitol recording star and night club entertainer will soon make her movie debut in "Whippoorwill."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Post-Natal Exercises Restore That Figure

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — "If my husband weren't such a good cook," Keely Smith complained, "I wouldn't ever have a weight problem. But Louis's mother (her husband is Band Leader Louis Prima) was a fabulous cook and he learned from her. And you know how delicious and how fattening good Italian food can be."

Just then Prima walked into their dressing room at the famed Mocambo night club where they were appearing and said, "What's she complaining about? She looks good, doesn't she?"

"We both have a weight problem in Las Vegas," Keely continued after Louis left the room. The Prima's are regular performers at the Sahara Hotel there. "But we don't finish our act until about 3:30 in the morning. By the time we relax a little and eat, it's around 6 before we get to bed. But when we eliminate that late meal and have our dinner before the show, we have no trouble keeping our weights normal. Eating a heavy meal when you don't follow it with some sort of exercise is the easiest way to gain extra pounds."

I complimented Keely on getting her figure back so quickly after her baby was born.

She smiled. "I started exercising the first week. Nothing strenuous, but I did make the effort. And I never missed a morning workout. If you don't delay it's so much easier to get yourself back in shape.

"I usually began by sitting on the floor with my legs out. Bending over, I'd touch my toes, first with one hand and then the other.

"Then I'd lie down, bring my legs up and lower them to the floor slowly. As my muscles became stronger, I exercised longer. I would raise my legs and bring them down without quite touching the floor. This gives a stronger pull where it's needed.

"Then I would stand up and rotate from the waist, first to the right and then to the left. And of course I did those knee to chest routines until my organs were back in position."

Wonderful things are happening to Keely this year, in addition to motherhood. Her new Capitol album will come out in January, and Robert Mitchum chose her to sing and act in his "Whippoorwill" movie. This is all a great success for a girl who never had a singing or acting lesson in her life.

Red Leader Brags Of CBM, But U.S. Expert Doubts It

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet marshal says Russia has intercontinental missiles that would be decisive in any future war. But one American scientist says Russia's satellite launchings provided only partial evidence that Russia has such weapons.

Meanwhile, the Martin Co. said in Baltimore it is establishing a new division to speed arrangements for launching an American satellite under the Navy-directed Project Vanguard. The Martin Co. is prime contractor for the Vanguard satellite's three-stage launching rocket.

In the political realm, the Democratic Advisory Council declared, "The all-out effort of the Soviets to establish themselves as masters of the space around us must be met by all-out efforts of our own."

The Russian missile boast was made by Artillery Marshal S. Barentsev yesterday in an article in the Communist newspaper Pravda. Barentsev's article followed the line taken by other Russian military leaders in celebrating Soviet Artillery Day.

Barentsev said long-range missiles give the Soviet Union the ability to smash any aggressor anywhere and under any conditions.

Another artilleryman, Marshal S. S. Varetsov, said Russia has ready a vast array of modern weapons, including atomic, thermonuclear, hydrogen and long-range rockets capable of destroying enemy targets at distances unimagined at the end of World War II.

And Mikhail N. Chistyakov, still another artillery marshal, claimed that Soviet artillery is maintaining "its superiority over those who openly call themselves our enemy."

Dr. Fred Singer, a University of Maryland astrophysicist, said on a TV program the launching of two Russian Sputniks demonstrated positively only one of four requirements for an effective intercontinental ballistic missile.

The four requirements, he said, are propulsion, accuracy, guidance and a means for protecting the missile's warhead from destruction by atmospheric friction when it heads back toward earth from space.

"If we just look at the Sputniks," Singer said, "we can certainly say they have the propulsion. They claim all four, but Sputnik shows us only one."

A spokesman for the Martin Co. said in Baltimore the creation of its new division was not indicative of any dissatisfaction among company officials with progress so far in its satellite-missiles work.

"We're on schedule," he said, but the schedule is behind the Russians.

A formal company announcement said the new organization will embrace also other Martin activities at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla. This is the American missile test center. Martin activities there include test work on the Air Force Matador tactical missile and matters connected with the Air Force's Titan ICBM.

Former President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidates in 1952 and 1956, were among the 17 members of the Democratic Advisory Council who approved Saturday's statement. It declared that the United States has fallen back of Russia in the planning "weapons of tomorrow."

The council said the group's other seven members could not be reached "if our military and research programs are being held back because of lack of funds."

Opening the hearing on Defense Department information policies, Moss said it was only when Russian satellites started whizzing overhead that federal agencies appeared to "wake up" to warnings by scientists that the United States was lagging behind the Soviet Union in technology.

Only the ironing out of minor working is holding a cutoff date back of which nearly all formerly secret documents will be opened for public use. Hoskins said some such date as January 1946 following World War II is under consideration.

Not only do military documents of World War II in a tremendous profusion, still carry a secrecy label, but also documents going back to World War I, the Civil War and a few even to the Revolutionary War.

Moss asked Hoskins whether it might be advisable, because of the extreme importance of scientific affairs, to consult outstanding scientific experts on the problem of releasing secret scientific information.

"I think it perhaps would be and we'll follow up on that," Hoskins replied.

Gardner, who formerly headed Air Force research and development, said yesterday U. S. taxpayers have a right to know the status of American military developments.

In a televised interview, he said the government should say whether it had advance knowledge that Russia was close to launching an earth satellite, whether any such information was kept from President Eisenhower, or whether it was given to him but "not properly interpreted."

Two damage cases were announced ready for trial Monday morning when Judge Charles Sullivan, 118th District Court, sounded the docket at the opening of a week of jury trials.

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Christian Pineau was flying to the United States today to press French objections to U. S. and British arms shipments to Tunisia.

Unofficial sources in London said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd might join Pineau and Secretary of State Dulles for the talks in Washington.

"The aim of my trip is to ameliorate things to limit the damage," Pineau said.

It is necessary to think of the existence and the strengthening of the Atlantic Pact. . . We intend to insist on finding a system which will assure the solidarity of NATO in all fields."

He said he would tell Dulles about "the uneasiness of the (French) government and show him how lively the reaction of public and parliamentary opinion has been about the delivery of arms to Tunisia."

Pineau is scheduled to see Dulles in Washington tomorrow.

Informal sources said Pineau will call for an end to the arms shipments and full U. S. support for France in revolt-ridden Algeria.

The sources said Dulles most likely will refuse to give any guarantee which in effect would give France control over U. S. relations with Tunisia, a former French protectorate.

Although the United States may support France in the forthcoming U. N. debate on Algeria, the informants said, it is also unlikely Washington will extend unconditional support for French actions in Algeria.

France's main fear is that the Tunisian army will turn up in the hands of the Algerian rebels, with whom Tunisia's government is sympathetic.

Negotiations on French supply of arms to Tunisia were held up by the monthlong Cabinet crisis which followed the fall of Maurice Bourges-Maunoury's government. The United States and Britain decided to go ahead with a token shipment — 920 semiautomatic rifles, submachine and Bren guns and ammunition — to help pro-Western Premier Habib Bourguiba from accepting Soviet-bloc arms from Egypt.

Five cars—two of them parked—were involved in an accident here Sunday.

The mishap occurred at 15th and Main, with cars driven by Robert Gray, Midland; Neil Pettitt, 2108 Johnson, and Wilbert Darnell Jr., Coahoma, involved. Two parked cars owned by C. C. Grogan, 1411 Main, were also hit in the accident. No injuries were reported by the police.

Also Sunday, Charles Summers, Webb AFB, was in a 1954 Plymouth which hit a 1955 Ford which was parked at 407 Johnson. The Ford belonged to G. A. Lewman, 1604 Scurry, police said. Robert Barnett's 1955 Ford was parked at 604 Rannels when hit by a car driven by Roscoe Lynn of Odessa.

Pentagon Sets Censor Lift For Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon reported today that plans are under consideration for wider and more timely distribution of technical information to scientists.

Vice Adm. John M. Hoskins, chief director of declassification policy in the office of the secretary of defense, also told a House subcommittee there is a new attitude among the military services which inclines toward ripping secrecy labels off as much information as possible.

Hoskins testified before the House government Information subcommittee. Its chairman, Rep. Moss (D-Calif.), contends a blanket of secrecy is stifling scientific advance.

Opening the hearing on Defense Department information policies, Moss said it was only when Russian satellites started whizzing overhead that federal agencies appeared to "wake up" to warnings by scientists that the United States was lagging behind the Soviet Union in technology.

Only the ironing out of minor working is holding a cutoff date back of which nearly all formerly secret documents will be opened for public use. Hoskins said some such date as January 1946 following World War II is under consideration.

Harmony Roundup Show Attracts 800

A crowd of some 800 people heard an unusually good show Saturday evening at City Auditorium. The occasion was the annual Roundup of Harmony show presented by the Big Spring Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, and sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

Choruses and quartets came from Odessa, San Angelo, Lamesa, Dallas, El Paso, Abilene and Lubbock. Among the performing quartets were the Cat Rockers from Lubbock, the Madcaps from Dallas and the Four Pesos of El Paso. In addition, all singers took part in a massed chorus of about 100 voices.

James Gambino of Odessa was conductor for the show.

A sampling of the well-received numbers includes "Sugar Cane Jubilee," "Drink Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm."

The traditional "afterglow," held at the Cosden Country Club, was attended by about 125 members of the audience. At this event, several quartets were featured that were not on the regular program.

The afterglow is an informal song fest where the singers let their hair down, and members of the audience may request numbers.

An early breakfast was served at the afterglow. Capt. Lute Churchill, of the U. S. Defense Board in El Paso, and president of the Southwestern district of SPEBSQSA, was a special guest.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States assured the U. N. today that any incident involving U. S. servicemen and Koreans brought prompt investigation and "appropriate action," under military law.

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) gave the assurance in speaking as U. S. delegate in the General Assembly's Political Committee.

The United States and 10 other countries are sponsoring a resolution there favoring "a unified, independent and democratic Korea."

Four South Koreans were shot and killed last month by American soldiers hunting game or guarding U. S. property. Last Wednesday the Republic of Korea renewed a demand for a status-of-forces agreement that would let it try U. S. soldiers for offenses committed while off duty.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, addressing the committee Tuesday, accused U. S. servicemen in Korea of "indiscriminate shooting of civilians" and "banditry and gangsterism." He said popular indignation "may reach the boiling point." A Ukrainian delegate made similar remarks the next day.

Judd said the purpose of the criticism was "all too apparent."

"I wish to state categorically to the committee," he continued, "whenever any incident occurs involving a United States serviceman and a Korean, it is thoroughly and promptly investigated by military authorities. On the basis of these investigations, whether the incident is accidental or otherwise, appropriate action is taken as required by the Uniform Code of Military Justice."

"I also wish to point out that United States military authorities have taken firm measures in cooperation with the authorities of the Korean government to prevent the occurrence of such incidents," Judd said.

Agreement between the United States and South Korea, The Americans so far have refused to conclude such an agreement on the grounds that North and South Korea are still technically at war and that any such agreement should be made with the U. N. Command to cover all foreign troops in South Korea.

Reach Pact On U.N. Arms Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Diplomatic quarters said today an agreement had been reached on a compromise plan to avert a breakdown of U. N. disarmament negotiations.

These sources said the Western Powers had agreed to demand by India and other neutral countries to add 14 new members to the present commission instead of the 10 proposed by the West.

Informal quarters said this would satisfy the Soviet Union, which had threatened to boycott future disarmament talks unless the U. N. disarmament machinery is expanded to give larger representation.

The question will be acted upon by the 82-nation General Assembly tomorrow.

First Baptist Church Sets Loyalty Dinner For Tonight

More than 430 reservations have been made for the First Baptist Church loyalty dinner set for 7 p. m. today in the junior high gymnasium.

Roy Reeder, general chairman and who will preside, expressed hope that there would be an even greater number present for the church family gathering which precedes an intensive combined fund-raising and visitation campaign.

Arrangements are in charge of a number of women of the church who are serving as table hostesses. Following the invocation by Wayne Nance, educational and music director of the church, there will be a recitation of the church history by Mrs. Clyde Angel. G. H. Morehead will explain the needs which have occasioned the campaign and Dr. P. W. Malone, chairman of the board of deacons, will discuss plans. Leroy Hollingshead, Merrill Creighton and T. H. McCann will discuss various mechanics of the campaign organization, committee setups and how to make pledges. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor, will make a summation. Reeder said there is no solicitation at the dinner and that the program will be concluded by 9 p. m.

Cannibalism Is Suspected In Butcher Deaths

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (AP)—Investigators found the remains of four women yesterday in the home of a 50-year-old farmer who was taken into custody Saturday night after a Plainfield businesswoman was found butchered at his secluded home.

Law enforcement officials, sifting through the 160-acre farmstead of Ed Gein, refused to furnish any details of the investigation conducted by dozens of city, county and state officers since Saturday night.

But this chilled community was full of rumor of how the bedroom of Gein, a bachelor and sometime babysitter, was decorated with furniture upholstered in human skin.

Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen said Gein would be arraigned before County Judge Boyd Clark today on a charge of robbery.

Kileen, who earlier had said first-degree murder warrants would be issued, explained that the robbery charge would involve theft of a cash register and its contents from the hardware store which Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, had operated in this community since her husband died 26 years ago.

The cash register was found in Gein's rambling old farm house on an obscure town road seven miles southwest of Plainfield, about 120 miles northwest of Milwaukee.

Yesterday Kileen said "It appears to be cannibalism."

Mrs. Worden's disappearance Saturday touched off the search that led to the grisly trove.

Her decapitated body was found hung by its heels in the summer kitchen of Gein's home.

Officers said state crime laboratory officials had found four other skulls and other segments of female bodies in the house—mostly in the first-floor bedroom and kitchen which Gein occupied.

The rest of the house still is nearly furnished in a period of 50 years ago. Neighbors said most of the house was little used since Gein's mother died many years ago.

The search for Mrs. Worden began like this:

Bernard Muschinski Sr., who operates a service station across the street from the large Worden hardware and implement store, saw Mrs. Worden in her store about 8 a. m. Saturday. However, at 9:30 a. m. he noticed that the store was locked. Since this was the opening of the deer season—a time when many small businesses close while the proprietors go hunting—the locked store excited no comment until evening.

Mrs. Worden's son Frank arrived at the station to inquire about a big back contest, and Muschinski had asked him whether his mother had gone hunting. Worden said she had not and became concerned. He went home for his key to the store.

When the store was opened, blood was found splashed on the floor and the cash register and a pickup truck, usually parked inside the rear of the building, were missing.

Frank recalled that Gein had been in the store several times during the past week and had declared Friday night he would return Saturday morning to buy a gallon of antifreeze. A sales slip for one gallon of antifreeze was the last item Mrs. Worden wrote appeared.

Her son told Sheriff Art Schley of the incident, and Schley went to the Gein farmhouse, where he found the body.

Publisher Praised At Funeral Rites

WEATHERFORD, Tex. (AP)—Weatherford newspaper publisher A. C. MacNelly was eulogized yesterday as a "man who thought for himself rather than taking what someone else thought."

Claude Smith, pastor of the Southside Church of Christ, told mourners in the crowded church, "He was a man of convictions and unflinching courage."

MacNelly, 77, was president and publisher of the Weatherford Daily Herald and the Weekly Herald.

He died Saturday after being ill for about two months.

"There never has been a better-known face in Weatherford or Parker County," than that of MacNelly, Smith said.

"He was known almost to everyone in this area. He was an individualist and we don't have many of his kind."

He thought for himself rather than taking what someone else thought. He kept himself informed in many fields.

"He was always an independent thinker who reached his own conclusions. He was a man of convictions and unflinching courage," the pastor said.

Smith described the veteran publisher as a man "who respected the rights of every man to have his convictions. He had an unflinching sense of loyalty to his friends and during times of adversity he always had the courage to speak up for those friends."

"Mr. MacNelly lived a wonderfully useful life and although he reached the age of 77 and worked almost to the last he never had a thought of retirement," the pastor said.

Masonic rites were held at graveside. Funeral services were held in Cotten Bratton Chapel.

MacNelly was a native of Wilmington, Del., and came here at the age of 14. He and the late J. E. Ralley established the Herald Publishing Co. 53 years ago.

Willard MacNelly, a son, now operates the newspaper. Other survivors include the widow, whom he married 57 years ago; another son, Charles, of San Perita, Tex.; four daughters, Mrs. Bill Moore, Fort Worth, Mrs. Sam Morrison, Garland, Mrs. Ralph Daves, Corpus Christi, and Mrs. Florence Glass, Weatherford; 13 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren.

There's Always One In The Barrel

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona Republic columnist Don Dederer recently wrote about desecration of Arizona's historical landmarks.

Letters piled up from readers asking what they could do to prevent it.

But one reader asked for directions to one of the old graveyards so he could "get one of those rustic headboards before they are all gone."

Mr. MacNelly lived a wonderfully useful life and although he reached the age of 77 and worked almost to the last he never had a thought of retirement," the pastor said.

Uncle Ray: Baikal Is Deepest Fresh Water Lake

By RAMON COFFMAN

If we believed an old Irish story, we could look to Ireland for the deepest lake on our planet.

A guide once told me about the Devil's Punch Bowl, a small lake near the summit of a mountain in the Killarney region.

"This lake," he said, "is so deep that no one could find out its depth until an Australian visitor dived into it. He kept going down until he reached Australia! Then he sent a cablegram asking that his clothes be shipped to him."

I related that playful story to an audience of school children. After my talk, a boy raised his hand to ask a question.

"That wouldn't be possible, would it, even if a lake could be as deep as that?"

I agree, and asked him to tell his reason.

"Anyone going down into the earth," he said, "would have to stop when he reached the center, because gravity would hold him there."

You may think of other reasons.

Great Salt Lake is famous because it has water so heavy that a person cannot sink unless he holds heavy weights.

The Dead Sea, on the border of Palestine, is really a lake. It contains salt water, but the strangest fact is that the surface is 1,292 feet below the level of the Mediterranean Sea!

The Lake of Lucerne is one of the world's most beautiful lakes. Almost all around it are high mountains. It is 23 miles long, but it is less than two miles wide on the average.

A view of the Lake of Lucerne.

why the story could not be true. For instance, the Australian would have been drowned soon after he started his journey!

Such a deep lake as that does not exist, but there are some very deep lakes. Lake Baikal, in Russia, is the deepest fresh water lake. At one point, it has a depth of 5,400 feet, or more than a mile.

Great Salt Lake is famous because it has water so heavy that a person cannot sink unless he holds heavy weights.

After 40 Highly Praised

To Whom It May Concern:

I was tired, nervous and had no energy or pep. I knew something was wrong with me, as I am only 46 years old, but all my pep and vitality was gone.

After 40 was recommended to me. I tried one bottle on a money back guarantee. I could tell from the first dose I had gotten help. Some told me I had to go away to some hospital or clinic to be treated, I don't want anything better than After 40.

Signed: L. M. Morton
Address: Sand Springs, Texas
After 40 is sold at the Collins Brothers Drug Store and the Walgreen Agency Drug Store in Big Spring. (Adv.)
