Inspects Test Satellite

Sen Lyndon B. Johnson, (D-Tex.), chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, currently holding hearings on the U. S. missile program, holds a test satellite brought to the session in Washington, D. C., by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Navy's Project Vanguard.

PROBERS PRAISE DECISION

McElroy Orders Two Rival Missiles Into Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, striving to catch up with Russia in medium range missiles, has ordered two rival types into production. The goal is to have them ready for use in another year. The Senate Preparedness subcommittee, to which Secretary of Defense McElroy made the announcement at a hearing yesterday, welcomed it as "good news" and termed McElroy a man "with both the power and the willingness to act." Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said McElroy is the "real czar" in the battle to surpass Russia in missile development, and told reporters he hoped that other decisions which McElroy promised "will come just as soon as possible." The subcommittee, before recessing its hearings until Dec. 13, also heard Deputy Secretary Donald A. Quarles testify that this country is running "neck-and-neck" with Russia in developing the intercontinental ballistic missile, and that "as a whole, as of today," the over-all U. S. missile program is ahead of Russia's. Quarles agreed with committee counsel Edwin L. Weiss that, for the sake of safety, this country should base its ICBM program "on the assumption that the Russians are ahead."

Hardeman Charges Daniel Failed To Nail Tideland

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Daniel "missed the boat" when he had a chance to nail down the Texas tidelands, Sen. Dorsey Hardeman charges. Hardeman reaffirmed yesterday his position taken in a speech to the Senate Tuesday which prompted Daniel to issue a statement saying he was "shocked and surprised" at Hardeman's stand. The San Angelo senator said the Submerged Lands Act of 1953 does not specifically define the Texas tidelands and "that's why they are having the lawsuit. There's only two ways to determine a boundary, either by lawsuit or by a bill in Congress." Daniel said if Hardeman "will read the act he will see that it conveys title to each state's boundaries as they existed at the time such state entered the Union." In the case of Texas that is a definite three leagues in the Gulf. Hardeman exhibited a copy of the bill which says that a state's tidelands boundary could not extend past the three marine leagues in the Gulf. "That doesn't say the tidelands can go that far, it says it can't go beyond that," Hardeman said. "Why wasn't it set out specifically what our tidelands are? The lawsuit would be unnecessary if he had... Even (former Atty. Gen. Herbert) Brownell tried to get him to attach a map to his bill showing where the boundary was and he didn't do it."

NATO Meeting To Go Ahead Despite Illness

PARIS (AP)—Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, today announced that the summit meeting of NATO's chiefs of government would go ahead as planned despite the illness of President Eisenhower. A communique issued after a meeting of the permanent NATO Council said the group had "learned with satisfaction" that Vice President Nixon will head the American delegation for the meeting. A member of the U.S. delegation to NATO said yesterday Nixon had been proposed to the members as a substitute for Eisenhower. But Nixon said later in Washington that the statement "was not made at any direction from the White House." The communique issued by Spaak said: "The North Atlantic Council, having learned with regret that President Eisenhower will be prevented from attending the NATO Council meeting in December, decided that the meeting should take place at the level originally planned."

Addicts Get Help In Shaking Habit

FORT WORTH (AP)—Shaking the habit is tough for a narcotics addict, but when he passes through a small cream-colored gatehouse here, he knows the U.S. Public Health Service will help him. The extensive layout of the hospital here is geared to help the addict help himself. The patient population of about 900 is about equally divided between psychiatric cases and narcotics addicts. Patients fall in two categories—federal prisoners sentenced to the cure and addicts who volunteer for the treatment. "There is no single cause of drug addiction and consequently no universal method of treatment," says Dr. John Trautman, medical officer in charge. Trautman was a chief witness before a Senate investigating committee headed by Price Daniel two years ago.

Legislative Halls Silent As Texas Solons Halt For Holiday

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' legislative halls were silent today as lawmakers took time out to eat turkey, watch football games, and think over yesterday's chaotic session. House Speaker Waggoner Carr, commenting on action yesterday, said: "We've done a lot today on nothing." The probable net effect of yesterday's battle between the House and Senate on when, if ever, to finally adjourn the second special session was to postpone everything—including a pending segregation bill—until Monday. The Senate voted to come back to work Friday at 3 p.m., the House Sunday at 6 p.m. Nobody expected a quorum to show up for either and that means no business. Still pending in the House was a measure admittedly aimed at the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, but calling specifically for registration of any organization that might interfere with public school operations. The Senate passed the House version yesterday and sent it back to the House. The House segregation bloc did not have the needed four-fifths majority to set aside constitutional rules to work on it immediately. Under the rules it could begin debate Friday. All day in the House there was a continuing see-saw between pro and anti-segregationists, legislators who were just tired of it all and who wanted to end the session, others who pleaded that the voters were complaining about the cost of continuing special sessions. Rep. Robert Patterson of Snyder told the House in one argument over adjourning until Monday if the Legislature did so, it would be a "100,000 lost weekend." Rep. Barefoot Saunders of Dallas told the House the long weekend holiday would cost the taxpayers $55,000. Rep. Reagan Huffman of Marshall, pushing all day for action that would guarantee passage of the registration bill, said that the cost was a minor consideration. He said the bill if passed would be "worth millions of dollars to Texas."

Turncoat Home For Holiday

CRACKERS NECK, Va. (AP)—Edward S. Dickenson, the turncoat former Army corporal recently released from imprisonment, was back with his parents today to spend Thanksgiving in their three-room mountain home. Some 20 friends, relatives and neighbors were on hand to greet him last night as he arrived from Knoxville, Tenn., with his stepbrother Charles Dickenson, a Knoxville sign painter. Dickenson was described by his family as "very nervous" and they expressed hope that he would "settle down and find himself." Last night he and his father Van Buren Dickenson sang and played the five-string banjo together. Dickenson was imprisoned 3 1/2 years after his conviction for collaborating with the Communists while a prisoner of war in Korea.

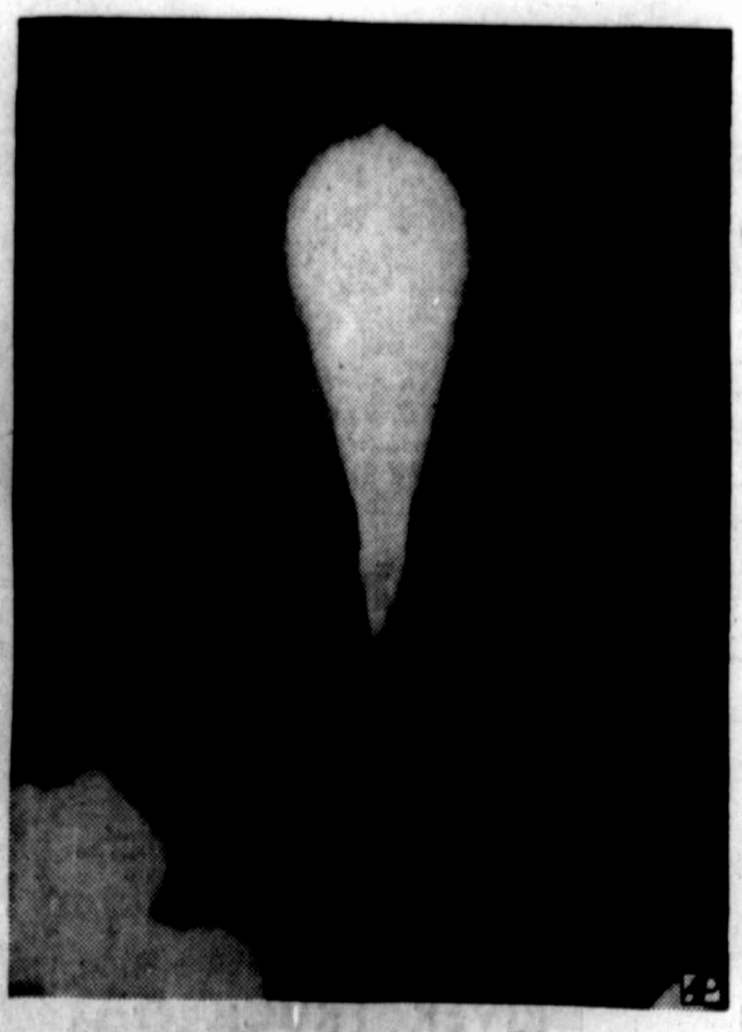

Daniel Signs Bill For Crime Study

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel signed into law today a bill setting up the Texas Law Enforcement Study Commission. The bill authorizes the commission "to make full and complete studies, recommendations and reports to the governor and the Legislature for improvements in the penal code and the code of criminal procedure but shall not include any specific crime or crimes nor any individual or individuals."

Students Give For Thanksgiving

This group of Big Spring High School students and their leaders posed Wednesday afternoon with the large stock of canned foods collected for distribution to needy families on Thanksgiving. More than 1,800 cans were contributed—more than two cans per student. The food went into 15 Thanksgiving baskets, each of which also contained a dressed chicken. The Key Club contributed six blankets, also. Sam Bell's room won the prize for best contributions per pupil. Second was Frank Fazzar's group, third was Mrs. Zanzell's room, fourth was Louis Manely's class, and fifth was Trustee Vines' room. Twenty-two rooms contributed at least one can of food per pupil.

54 On Honor Roll At Lamesa

LAMESA—Fifty-four students have been named to the "A" honor roll at Lamesa High School during the first nine weeks, according to Abe Holder, principal. They are: Ronnie Acuff, Rod Barron, Ruby Barron, Barbara Bearden, James Bird, Marilyn Bell, Nancy Bowers, Karen Campbell, Kay Campbell, Jay Claiborne, Bobby Clement, Jimmy Cox, Richard Crump, Linda Currie, Don Dudley, Julia Durham, Kay Edwards, Linda Esmond, Lynda Groman, Sue Green, Gayle Harris, Carolyn Hatch, Geraldine Henderson, Kay Hoskins, Linda Jelmer, Sandra Jordan, Wanda Kilo, Linda Lauderdale, Carol Lee, Kathy Lewis, Bill McCulloch, Frankie McKinney, Linda McPhaul, Jim Martin, Sandra Meador, Janice Minor, Sonja Minnix, Tahita Niemeyer, Ronnie Nix, Dottie Norris, Linda Norris, Peggy Nutt, Sunny Palmero, Marianne Peterson, Nancy Ray, Sylvia Reed, D'Linda Shillingburg, Charlene Short, Joan Tarter, Mary Lee Taylor, Nancy Taylor, Lynn West, LeRoy Woods and Klata Wood.

Cosden Casing Ector Wildcat, Cores Indicate Oil Production

Cosden Petroleum Corp. prepared to run casing today at a wildcat in Ector County which showed signs of possible oil production. Meanwhile in Howard County, Sawnie Robertson staked three new tracts in the Snyder field. Ector Cosden No. 1-A-A Cosden, a wildcat 14 miles northwest of Goldsmith, prepared to run 5 1/2-inch string today before continuing tests. The venture is bottomed at 6,536 feet. It showed possible production on cores from several sections. It is 860 from north and 550 from east lines, 9-45-2n, T&P Survey. Howard Robertson No. 5 M. H. O'Daniel is located 12 miles southeast of Coahoma, 2,313 feet from north and 1,675 from west lines, 29-30-1s, T&P Survey, and it will also project to 3,000 feet. Guthrie No. 6 Mary Chalk pumped 66 barrels of 29-degree oil on 24-hour potential. It is 330 feet from south and 990 from east lines, 114-29, W&N Survey, in the Howard-Giasscock field. Total depth is 2,400 feet, with production reached at 2,190. Perforations stand from 2,195-275 feet.

Grain Harvest Is About Half Finished

The Howard County grain sorghum crop is 50 per cent harvested, according to local grain dealers. Combines are busy throughout the area and should finish most of the fields by the last of next week, providing the weather remains dry. Some maize is being piled along the turn rows, says E. T. Tucker, as farmers wait for it to dry enough to meet government specifications. Grain must contain not over 13 per cent moisture before the government will accept it. Maize can be dried this way, Tucker said, if the piles are not too thick. Another dealer, Ray Winans, says the maize has dried out fast the last few days. "About half of it is down to 13 per cent now," he said, "and it should all drop to this point with another two or three days of dry weather." The yield is probably better than in several years, but varies from one field to another. Tucker estimated the average to be between 1,500 and 2,000 pounds per acre. Only a small per cent of the stalks have fallen, but there is not enough loss to affect the yield. The only danger now, the dealers say, would be a strong wind of several hours duration or a long period of wet weather. This was not only a bumper maize crop for West Texas, but is heavy throughout the grain-producing region. Winans said high yields have been reported from South Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma. Practically all the crop will eventually be used in livestock and poultry feeds. California in particular is a heavy user of grain sorghums, where it is used in the manufacture of poultry and dairy feeds.

Baptists Close Fund Campaign

First Baptist Church workers formally closed out a combined funds campaign Wednesday evening, although there remains a considerable number of contacts for the follow-up committee. Reports indicated slightly more than $2,700 weekly had been pledged toward the regular church budget and toward expansion. R. B. Reeder, general chairman, announced that Merrill Creighton had accepted chairmanship of the monitoring committee which will keep the enrollment on a sustaining basis. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor, said that plans were in the making for an intense visitation for church attendance in January. Reports were made at a pot luck victory dinner in the church basement.

Support Asked For Children's Home

Members of the Knights of Pythias are continuing their annual roll call in support of their children's home until the end of December. More than 60 were on hand for the roll call program Tuesday, but there are approximately 140 others who are urged to make their roll call gifts. These cash donations go toward the operations of the home at Weatherford for the entire year, not just for Christmas cheer. Pythians have the physical facilities and a 640-acre farm, but the cash is needed for operation.

Thieves Hit Car For Second Night

Hub caps were taken from two cars Wednesday night. Odas Williams, 1944 Vines, reported that two hub caps were taken from his car while it was parked at the Acme Building Wednesday night. Williams' car was ransacked just one day earlier. B. R. Carter told officers that two hub caps were taken from his 1958 Chevrolet while at the Clover Bowl.

Police Car, Pickup Collide

A police car was involved in one of four traffic accidents which occurred Wednesday afternoon. Patrolman Claude Morris was driving a patrol car which was in an accident with a 1956 Chevrolet pickup driven by William Kimberley, 900 Douglas. The accident occurred in the 300 block of N. Bell. At 15th and Settles, Mary Cochran, 2003 Main, and Patricia Ellison, 1706 Settles, were in collision. Drivers of cars colliding at 4th and Runnels were Beatrice Hilliard, 804 Johnson, and Charles Briggs, 1805 N. Monticello. Two out of towners, Cled Ketchersid of Lubbock and Henry Berry of Monahans, were in an accident at 4th and Scurry.

Officers Worry Over Speeders

Highway patrol officers were shaking their heads on Thursday morning in gloomy consideration of the dangerous possibilities of a possible bad holiday on the roads. In Howard County, patrol officers said there was a marked tendency on the part of many drivers to drive at excessive speeds as the holiday was ushered in. The patrol contacted 29 drivers on Wednesday night for violation of traffic rules. Nine of these were given tickets for offenses. No extra patrol officers have been assigned to Howard County but the two officers regularly assigned here, Krel Davis and Jimmy Parks, were working round the clock in an effort to lessen the possibilities of disaster. Traffic was reported to be heavy on the main highways as holiday travelers hit the road on Wednesday night for Thanksgiving Day visits in other communities.

Hospitality Bid Finds No Takers

A bit of Texas hospitality went a-begging today. No one at Webb apparently wanted a free Thanksgiving dinner, or perhaps there are no South Carolinians at the base. A Midland resident, William Shirkey, called Webb AFB Monday and asked for an airman or officer to dine with him at his home on Thanksgiving Day. The only requirement was that the airman or officer be from South Carolina. The word was passed to all Webb personnel, and anyone interested was to contact the Office of Information Services. No one had called to closing time Wednesday, so the bid was informed Shirkey he would not have a Webb guest.

Driver Not Hurt In Truck Mishap

Delma Armstrong Graham, 42, of 1110 Nolan, was given a check-up at a hospital but was found to have suffered no serious injuries in a car-truck mishap at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday. The car which she was driving was rammed from the rear by a truck. The truck, driven by Jessie Calvin Chambers, 38, Georgetown, was following Mrs. Graham's car when she sought to turn off Lamesa Avenue onto 12th Street. Patrol officers said that the impact caused extensive damage to the 1956 Chevrolet. There was no serious damage to the truck.

Girl Scout Building Okayed At Lamesa

LAMESA—Construction of a building to be used as a Girl Scout meeting place was authorized Wednesday morning by the District Board of the Girl Scout Association here. The building which will include a 30 by 80 meeting room, four 10 by 10 troop meeting rooms, kitchen, storage and rest rooms, will be built at an estimated cost of $11,200, plus lockers and a fire-place inside, and an outside barbecue pit. The building will be constructed of concrete block with a built up roof. The trustees of the building were authorized to negotiate a contract with Bowers Purcell who also drew the final plans for the building.

Americans Abroad Pray For Speedy Recovery By Ike

LONDON (AP)—Americans abroad prayed at Thanksgiving Day religious services today for the speedy recovery of President Eisenhower. Traditional meals were served in private homes and at military bases stretching throughout Britain and Western Europe. Many formal banquets were planned for this evening. Ambassador John Hay Whitney will preside in London at the annual Thanksgiving dinner of the American Society. Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey is one of the invited guests. In Rome, Ambassador James D. Zellerbach read the President's proclamation at St. Paul's American Protestant church. Msgr. Andrew P. Landi celebrated a Mass of Thanksgiving at Santa Susanna American Catholic church. Many Italian restaurants proudly offered dinners with stuffed turkey and pumpkin pie, odd for Italian menus. In the Netherlands, Ambassador Philip Young celebrated Thanksgiving with Fulbright and American medical students at Leyden University. Some of the pilgrims stayed in Leyden before sailing for the New World.

English Balloonist Made Trip To Rhine

By RAMON COFFMAN
Two years after the first flight of human beings in a balloon, a certain baby was born in England. He belonged to the Green family, and was given the name of Charles. He was late in entering the field of ballooning, but after he started, he became one of the world's leading balloonists. Green built his first balloon in his thirties. It was filled with coal gas, and was the first balloon to use that kind of gas for any ascent.

The "Great Nassau" above the Rhine River.

Before a crowd, he rose to a height of two miles. His flight lasted 40 minutes. The descent was too rapid. The balloon struck the ground and bounced upward. Green fell part way out of the basket, but managed to cling to it. He avoided any serious hurt while the basket was dragged a quarter of a mile along the ground. During later flights he struck a chimney, landed in a tree and had other mishaps. He kept on with the work of ballooning, however.

Moroccans Claim
30 Spaniards Die
In Africa Revolt

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Moroccan nationalists said today 30 Spanish troops were killed last weekend in crushing a revolt in the Spanish colony of Ifni. Western observers doubted the report. El Alam, the official newspaper of the Moroccan Istiqlal (Independence) party, claimed rebels had raised the Moroccan flag over a Spanish military post in one small village of the 741-square-mile Ifni enclave.

Spanish authorities in Madrid reported four Spaniards were killed in fighting in the Atlantic coast colony. They denied earlier Moroccan claims that Sidi Ifni, chief town of the colony, had been captured by rebels.

Whether the fighting was primarily against internal insurrection or invasion from Morocco was not clear, although both elements could be involved in the boundaryless desert area of nomadic tribes.

Generalissimo Franco of Spain was reported to have met with top military advisers to plan defenses against further attacks. Fighter and bomber planes plus troop reinforcements have been sent to Ifni.

Since Morocco won independence from France last year, its irregular "army of independence" has been conducting an unofficial guerrilla campaign against the French on the ill-defined Algerian border of southern Morocco. The nationalist army is also seeking to extend Morocco's territory to include Ifni and part of Spanish Sahara south of Morocco.

until he became an expert of the first order.

At the age of 50, Green made a flight of high importance. With two companions he went aloft in a large balloon, the "Great Nassau," and flew from London past the city of Canterbury, where a letter addressed to the mayor was dropped and delivered. Another letter was sent down at Dover, and reached the hands of the mayor there. In this way, Green delivered "air mail."

Across the English Channel went the bold airman. The next morning they found themselves above the Rhine River. Soon afterward they made a landing, and were greeted by German farmers. Green and his companions were hailed as heroes of aviation. Their 18-hour journey had carried them to a point 375 miles from London! Never before had anyone traveled so far through the air.

Journalism Exes
Of Tech Organize

LUBBOCK—An informal organization of former Texas Tech journalism students has been established, Mrs. Louise Allen, associate professor of journalism at Tech, has announced.

Called the Texas Tech Journalism Ex-Student Assn, the group's main aim is to keep all journalism exes informed about their college friends and classmates, Mrs. Allen said.

Choc Hutcheson, Lubbock oil property broker and Star-Telegram sports correspondent, has been named president of the association. First vice-president is Mrs. Donald Thompson of Abilene. C. W. Ratliff, Lubbock Avalanche associate editor, is second vice-president. Jerry Hall, public relations man for Cong. George Mahon, is secretary.

Among the board members are Mildred Young, 1919 Main, Dallas; Miss Young, now a member of the Texas Methodist public information staff, was formerly women's editor of The Big Spring Herald.

Early Start For Christmas

Mrs. W. D. Caldwell, left, and Mrs. Kent Morgan are among several local women who are getting an early start for Christmas at the Big Spring State Hospital. And well they might, for these volunteers are going to wrap gifts individually for something like 800 patients. The gifts are being provided by several local organizations who will also put on programs. Assisting Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. Morgan in wrapping the first of the gifts were Mrs. Harold Hall, Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards and Mrs. Nell Norred.

Applicants For Pre-Christmas Work Swamp Local Retailers

Is Big Spring suffering a minor pitbreak of unemployment or is the flood of applications which has hit downtown stores in the last few days only a widespread desire to earn a little extra Christmas shopping money.

Store managers do not know the answer—they only know that never in many Christmases have so many persons sought extra work during the Christmas rush season.

Majority of the applicants, they said, are women. A great many are wives of Air Force men at Webb Air Force Base. Some are students who want a few days work during the holiday season.

Most of those who ask for work, the store managers report, are wholly inexperienced. Hiring inexperienced workers for rush seasons is sometimes necessary but naturally the management prefers, if it can do so, to engage those persons who have had some training in the art of selling.

This year, however, the number of applicants and their persistence has given the situation a new look, Big Spring merchants report.

In Waves

Margie Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Harrison, 1400 W. 2nd, recently completed nine weeks of recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. The Wave is a former student at Big Spring High School and will receive 14 days leave before reporting to Great Lakes, Ill., for hospital corps school.

"About all I do," said one manager, "is to take down their names and addresses. I will hire those I can if the need develops. I could not possibly provide jobs for all of the applicants who have showed up at this store."

Officers said the dead women were believed to be a Mrs. Catherine Gipson, apparently from Pampa, Tex., and a companion with the first name of Ann, about 20.

The sheriff's office and hospital attendants said the injured woman, in critical condition, was unable to talk. She was believed to be Mrs. Reba Shoemaker, 26, of Lindsay, Okla.

"One or two have asked for a job which I just didn't have open and when I had to refuse them have left me with tears in their eyes," one manager reported.

Investigators said Oklahoma relatives said Mrs. Shoemaker and a sister-in-law made a trip somewhere in this area to take her children by a former marriage back to spend Thanksgiving day with her in Oklahoma.

For the first time in a good many holiday seasons, one store boss estimated that he could, if he chooses, recruit a complete duplicate crew of extra clerks.

"I could operate extra hours during the season ahead and not require any of my regular help to do any overtime at all," he observed.

It is not unusual at the Christmas season for a great many per-

Fried Chicken On Menu At County Jail

Howard County courthouse presented a perfect picture of complete inactivity on Thursday.

The only signs of life was in the sheriff's department.

All other doors were closed and all lights were doused.

The offices will resume operations Friday but there is little likelihood of any grand rush of business for the remainder of this week.

District Judge Charlie Sullivan has gone to El Paso so business will be transacted in the 118th District Court. Wade Choate, district clerk, is in Little Rock, Ark., attending a wedding. He will not be back until Monday. Judge Sullivan will also extend his stay in El Paso over the weekend.

Even the Howard County Library was closed down. It will be open again Friday, however. Wednesday afternoon saw a flood of patrons in the library—mostly younger residents—stocking up on reading material for the long weekend.

Sheriff Miller Harris and his deputies were on the job and the highway patrol officers, while not in their offices, were definitely at work. They are on fulltime duty as the State Department of Public Safety moved into the second day of its Thanksgiving drive to lessen the number of accidents on the highways. The patrol is being augmented in some parts of the state by men from the inspection and weights and license divisions.

Of course, on the fourth floor of the courthouse, business was as usual.

There are 15 "guests" on that County jail.

Joe Pierce, jailer, said that he would see to it that the prisoners had fried chicken today as a special Thanksgiving meal. As might be expected, fried chicken is not a regular item on the jail menu.

The 14 men and one woman held in the cells will eat their Thanksgiving day dinner around 3:30 p. m. Thursday, the jailer said.

30 Weddings In November

Marriages have been popular in Howard County during November.

With one "business" day still to go, the office of Mrs. Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, has already issued 30 licenses to wed.

This is well ahead of the average monthly run in this department for some months.

Thanksgiving Day weddings may have been the explanation for the sudden increase in the need for marriage licenses, Mrs. Petty speculates.

Strong Offense Is America's Defense Policy, Garrett Says

The United States policy of defense in the current world crisis is a strong offense, Lt. Col. Leslie Garrett, personnel officer at Webb Air Force Base, told the Big Spring Kiwanians at their Wednesday luncheon.

The officer, who has had a long and varied career in the Air Force, and who was for a considerable time attached to SAC—first line of defense of the nation against air attack—was presented to the club by Capt. Allen R. Robertson, base information service officer.

Col. Garrett devoted the latter portion of his time to questions and answers on phases of the American defense program.

The Air Force officer informed the Kiwanians that the SAC maintains a "ring around" Russia. He does not believe, he said, that the Russian program is materially further advanced than our own except in certain fields. He cited the aircraft which make up the bulk of Red air power and named their comparative counterparts in this country.

The Kiwanis met on Wednesday in order to avoid a Thanksgiving Day session. Next week, the club meets as usual on Thursday.

Attractive Leftover

A fruit salad, with avocados, orange sections and seedless grapes, is a delicious prop for the remains of that Thanksgiving turkey.

Perk Up Cold Turkey With Fruit, Rolls

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor
One of the pleasantest ways to serve sliced leftover turkey is to accompany it with a fruit salad and a hot bread.
A popular salad, and one that tastes delicious with cold turkey, is made from avocado, orange sections and seedless grapes. The salad dressing recipe is brand new and its flavor and texture recommends it. Do try it!
The hot bread for this lunch or supper meal is simple to prepare. We've come upon recipes of this sort often, but we were never convinced of their worth until we tested this version. Chances are both grownups and small fry will love it.

AVOCADO FRUIT SALAD
Ingredients:
3 avocados
3 oranges (sectioned membrane-free)
small bunch seedless grapes
Orange French dressing
Method:
Cut avocados in half lengthwise; remove pits. Arrange 6 or 7 orange sections in avocado halves with white grapes. Serve with Orange French Dressing. Makes 6 servings.
Note: If desired, avocados may be peeled and sliced; arrange slice on salad greens with orange sections and grapes.
ORANGE FRENCH DRESSING
Ingredients:
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice
2 cups salad oil
4 cup cider vinegar
3 to 4 tbsps. sugar
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. Tabasco sauce.
Method:
Put undiluted orange juice concentrate, salad oil, vinegar, sugar, mustard, salt and Tabasco in jar, bowl or bottle. Shake or beat until blended; or mix in electric blender. Dressing may be stored covered in refrigerator. Shake well before using. Makes 1 1/2 cups dressing.

Casserole Of Peas, Nuts And Turkey

Combine leftover Thanksgiving turkey with canned chick peas for a hearty casserole. First saute 1 large onion, chopped fine, in 2 or 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil; add 1 clove garlic, crushed, and 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento or sweet red pepper. Combine with 1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) drained Mexican chick peas, 1/2 cups diced turkey meat, 6 Brazil nuts, chopped, and 1 cup leftover turkey gravy or canned beef gravy. Season to taste. Pour into casserole which has been rubbed with olive oil. If you have leftover mashed potatoes, use these as a "crust," brushing top with oil; or use seasoned bread crumbs blended with olive oil. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Artichoke Hearts Add Menu Variety

Frozen artichoke hearts are utterly delicious when prepared this way: Heat 4 tablespoons Spanish olive oil in a heavy pot or casserole which can be used on top of stove. Add 1 onion, sliced, and 1 carrot, diced fine. Over these place 1 package frozen artichoke hearts. Drizzle another tablespoon of Spanish olive oil over chokes, sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon salt and dash of pepper. Cover, cook over medium heat until onions begin to turn golden. Stir to break up frozen chokes. Add 1 cup chicken broth, 1 teaspoon rosemary. Cover, cook until artichokes are tender, about 4 minutes more. Serve hot, add 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice to sauce.

Versatile Apples Make Winter Dishes Flavorful, Colorful

When holiday time appears each year, every hostess yearns for a new way to use old favorites, especially those that are easy on the budget.
The Apple-Cran-Orange Medley is a particularly good relish with turkey or pork, and the Golden Delicious Salad, simply prepared ahead of dinner to save last-minute fussing, may be served as a dessert or salad, bringing beauty as well as a delightfully tangy taste to your table. The stuffing is excellent for duck, chicken or turkey, as it retains moisture, and has a delicate flavor.
APPLE-CRAN-ORANGE MIX
1 quart cranberries
2 cups finely shredded fresh apples
1 large seedless orange
1 cup sugar (brown or white) or honey to taste
Pick over cranberries, discarding soft ones, and wash in cold water. Peel orange and remove white inner membrane. Separate orange into sections, removing membrane. Put cranberries, orange sections and yellow part of skin through a food chopper, using the coarsest cutter. Stir in the sugar, turn into a glass bowl and let stand overnight or longer in the refrigerator. To this add 2 cups finely shredded or chopped fresh apple, with juice of half a lemon, increasing the sweetener used to suit your taste. We recommend adding the apple after the first mixture has stood overnight.

GOLDEN DELICIOUS SALAD
1 package lemon jello
1/4 cup hot water
1 1/2 cups gingerale (or 1/2 cup sauterne wine)
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1/4 cup pitted ripe olives
1/4 cup chopped walnut meats
1 1/2 cup diced Golden Delicious apples
Pinch salt
Pimiento sticks
(Optional: 6 artichoke hearts, halved, or asparagus stalks)
Dissolve jello in 1/4 cup hot water, let cool. Add the gingerale and stir until jello is dissolved. Add lemon juice. Pour 1-3 liquid jello in mold and chill until syrupy and almost set. Rotate mold so jello adheres to sides, and place sliced olives, a few unpeeled apple slices

Pennsylvania Dutch Scrapple Best, But This Is Very Good

Scrapple became a delicious part of the American cuisine when, years ago, Pennsylvania Dutch farmers first started putting this hearty dish together at butchering time.
Scraps of meat, liver and other internal organs were cooked in water—so as to utilize them—and then both broth and meat were combined with buckwheat flour plus cornmeal to make a sage-seasoned mixture. The meat-enriched mush was turned into a bread pan and chilled, then unmolded and sliced thin; finally it was fried until lightly browned and crisp.
Nowadays, although cornmeal scrapple is available in many food markets, some homemakers make versions of it in their own kitchens. This recipe is a far cry from the original, but we think it's attractive and delicious.

Some Sunday morning serve crisp slices of this scrapple with maple syrup, baked apples and good hot coffee—and you'll probably have no complaints!
You'll notice that in this recipe less water is used to cook the cornmeal than in a regular "breakfast mush" recipe. There's a reason for this. Although Miss Fannie Farmer did not see fit to include a recipe for scrapple in the first edition of her famous cook book, she does say, "Where mushes are cooked to fry, use less water in steaming." That succinct advice was given in the first (1896) edition of The Boston Cooking-School Cook Book but it still holds good today!

SAUSAGE SCRAPPLE
Ingredients:
1 pound pork sausage links
4 cups water
1 1/2 cups yellow cornmeal
2 tps. salt
2 cups cold water

Method:
Pan-fry pork sausage links, in 10 to 12-inch skillet, according to package directions. In a 3-quart kettle, heat 4 cups water to boiling. Stir cornmeal, salt and 2 cups cold water together until smooth; slowly pour into boiling water, stirring constantly. Stirring often, cook until thickened. Cover; continue cooking over low heat for 10 minutes or until very thick, stirring occasionally. Turn about 1 1/2 cups of the mush into a loaf pan (about 5 by 9 by 3 inches). Arrange half of the cooked sausage links lengthwise over mush. Turn another 1 1/2 cups of the mush over the sausage.
Repeat sausage layer and pour remainder of mush over top. Chill. To serve, cut into 1/2-inch slices. Fry on lightly greased griddle or skillet until golden brown. Serve with maple syrup. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Stretch The Leftovers From Turkey

These brown-flecked turnovers are an excellent way to use chopped, cooked turkey or chicken (or stretch a small amount). The turnovers actually are small griddle cakes cooked to a crispy, golden brown. They're made of eggs, rice and chopped turkey or chicken.
We think you'll like the refreshing flavor the lemon juice gives the turnovers. The chopped parsley adds a delightfully green color as well as nice flavor. An easy sauce is made by diluting canned mushroom soup with milk and heating until hot.

Ingredients:
2-3 cup uncooked white rice
1-1 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped or snipped parsley
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 eggs, beaten
1/4 cup milk
1 1/4 cups finely diced, cooked turkey or chicken
1 cup milk
1, 10 1/2 oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup.
Method:
Put the rice, water and salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down low. Cover with a lid and simmer over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat but leave the lid on 10 minutes. After the rice cooks, stir in the black pepper, parsley, lemon rind, eggs, the 1/4 cup milk and turkey. Mix well.
Melt cooking fat in a large skillet so the skillet is liberally greased. Heat until hot. Spoon the turkey-rice mixture into the skillet to make cakes about 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Spread the mixture so the cakes are thin enough to cook through and be turned easily. Add fat to the skillet when necessary. Cook on both sides until a golden brown. The cakes are crispier when cooked in a liberal amount of fat. Keep the cakes hot. Make turkey sauce by slowly stirring the milk into the mushroom soup. Heat over a low heat. Serve hot with the hot cakes.
This recipe makes about 20 cakes 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

Buffet Serving Suggested In Serving Holiday Meals

After giving many Thanksgiving dinners, there is one serving procedure that is recommended if the menu is to be a traditional one.
When there is a large family plus guests, and no outside help, using a combination buffet and sit-down service is convenient.
For this, set places around the dining table (extended, of course) and arrange the centerpiece. In one house this is always a blue milk-glass composite of fresh fruit that never fails to include persimmons and grapes; the composite is surrounded by blue milk-glass egg cups—small ends up—holding tall tapers. On the table, too, go matching blue dishes of cranberry sauce and other relishes, trays of crisp hard rolls and butter pats.
The main course is served from a separate buffet. This means that the bird—after his rich brown glory has been properly admired—is carved and arranged on an electric platter. The stuffing is spooned into a chafin dish to keep hot and the vegetables are served in covered dishes.
Everyone goes to the buffet, helps himself and then sits down at the large table on which there are place cards. One member of the family usually takes it on himself to look after those who want second helpings. Another member of the family eventually clears away the main-course dishes and brings on the dessert which is cut and served at the table.
As part of this plan, serve the first course in the living room, whether it is a before-dinner drink and hors d'oeuvre or soup or both. Then glasses and plates are cleared away before the bird and trimmings are served.

Turkey And Oysters Make Perfect Chowder Blend

This chowder has both turkey and oysters! The two foods complement each other deliciously. You'll like the celery flavor and the hearty creaminess the milk gives the chowder. Add more turkey if you wish, but the chowder is a meal in itself as it is.
Ingredients:
Turkey or chicken bones, if available
1 small onion
5 cups chicken broth or use chicken bouillon cubes
2-3 cup uncooked white rice
1 cup finely diced celery
2 1/4 tps. salt
1/4 tsp. black pepper
1 1/2 cups milk
2 tbsps. all-purpose flour
1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey (more if desired)
1/2 pint oysters
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Salt and pepper to taste
Parsley or parsley for garnish
Method:
Make turkey stock or broth by packing bones in a large kettle and covering with cold water. Add the onion. Cover. Simmer for about 3 hours. Strain. Cool. Remove any remaining meat from the bones. Refrigerate.

About an hour before serving the chowder, place 5 cups of the broth in a large soup kettle. Add the rice, celery, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer thirty minutes. Stir the milk into the flour. Stir into the hot mixture. Add the turkey, oysters, butter or margarine and salt and pepper to taste. Heat. Thin with additional stock if desired.
Serve hot, sprinkled with paprika or chopped parsley. This recipe makes about 2 1/2 quarts of chowder.

Here's A New Twist For Salad Dressing

For a new flavor in salad dressing, crush half a dozen toasted blanched almonds in a mortar until smooth and paste-like (or grind very fine in food grinder or electric blender, then mash with back of spoon). Blend with 3 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon wine vinegar. Mix thoroughly, toss with salad greens.

A Bible Thought For Today

Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust. (2 Peter 1:4)

Prayers For President's Recovery

Every praying citizen about whom we know unites in a solemn petition to God in behalf of President Eisenhower. When it comes to prayer, there is no partisanship, and when it comes to the health of a good man everyone is rightfully concerned.

Beyond the human element, we all have an added concern about the leadership of the nation. Just as man is mortal, so is he dispensable. This not to say, however, that the loss of services of one man can be felt far more keenly than another. The maturity of knowledge which has been tempered through the fires of experience is something not acquired in the twinkling of an eye.

No doubt, the President will have to face a less demanding schedule than before, at least for a time, but this need not involve the surrender of any fundamental duties. Perhaps the delegation of lesser duties will be not only a good thing for him but for our system. Yet the steady hand of an "old pro" is needed in high office just as in the realm of sport. Internationally, we are in such a close game that we can ill afford to gamble on erratic play unless it is forced by circumstances beyond human control.

If Mr. Eisenhower is spared with reasonable vigor, as it now appears, we need to make compensation for the fragility of his health. By now it should be apparent that he is not official communications notwithstanding, the robust man he once was. Time and duty have taken their toll.

We Can't Leave Him Out

In spite of many superficial and some very real signs that all is not well with our world, we Americans above all people have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day.

We have our troubles, our problems, our disappointments, our doubts and our challenges, to be sure.

But for one thing we can be thankful that we realize that we do have challenges and that is half the battle. We are not asleep, and we are not soaked in smugness. We recognize the gravity of the challenge that confronts us from a totalitarian country, a country that is not, as we once foolishly believed, inferior to us in the skills and sciences that limited their ability to do us grave injury. We no longer expect the ramshackle structure that is the Soviet Union to strangle to death in its own sea of red tape and economic im-provisions, nor expect an outraged Providence to strike it dead for its godlessness. We know of a surety that God helps those who help themselves, and just wishing an evil threat would go away and leave us alone won't cause it to vanish.

The Pilgrims had to fight for everything they got, and with the blessing of God they triumphed over their difficulties.

Who are we that we can assume God is on our side? It is important that we be on God's side.

We set aside one day a year for special acknowledgement of God's providence, which too few of us render with the humility that should accompany it, and take Him for granted most of the 364 remaining days of the year.

We can't leave Him out of our calculations for the future and expect to survive much longer as a free people.

Scientists' Role In Satellite Delay

WASHINGTON—Seeking to pinpoint responsibility as to why the Soviets took the lead in launching "spatniks" and why America may be lagging in the missile race is like trying to find a needle in a haystack. The story is the familiar one of everybody having a different idea and of the tendency of many scientists to present varying ideas, so that no decisions were reached.

The reason it is familiar is that the same thing happened—but fortunately without disastrous results—when the hydrogen bomb was being developed. Leading scientists were reported to have told the Truman administration, for instance, as late as the autumn of 1949 that the hydrogen bomb should not be developed for "moral reasons," that it was not "feasible," that there were "insufficient facilities and scientific personnel to carry on the development," and that it "was not politically desirable."

Those were the days when some of the scientists arrogated to themselves the role of political advisers—a role some of them have since maintained in their repeated opposition to further tests of the H-bomb despite Russia's continuance of testing. Yet it is by testing and experimenting that the Soviets have gone ahead.

It would be wrong to generalize on the ways of scientists, though some of them will have to bear the responsibility for America's recent defeats. Thus one of the best-informed men in the government, himself a scientist here who has been on the inside of what's been happening in the missile and satellite fields, describes the planning on the satellite this way:

"The idea was to act fast, get a ball into the air, and after that worry about the refinements."

This source states further that the United States knew the Russians were working on a "spatnik" and that hence it would be desirable to launch America's satellite "as soon as possible."

But this simple plan, which could have been pushed through to success, fell into the hands of numerous groups, and the original idea became burdened "with a complicated scientific program." The explanation continues as follows:

There are good scientists and bad scientists. And when you have an idea and it is shared with others, well, all kinds of complications are added. There are second thoughts, doubts, and the people who get in on the picture at a later date have their own ideas. This and that scientist would want to add complicated scientific devices. This went on until it became too late and the Russians got ahead of us. This is what happened to our satellite."

Asked about the President's knowledge of the situation, the same source declared that Mr. Eisenhower seemed fully informed about the program itself, and added:

"Frankly, he amazed me with his knowledge. I expected him to be rather dull on the subject, but he seemed to know all about it, and seemed to have a good grasp of the scientific data."

The same individual said it seemed to him that it was not a question of the President not knowing but a question of his not being able to reach a decision. When, however, scientists disagree, it's small wonder that a layman like the President should not be able to make an explicit determination as to what to do.

When somewhat the same problem faced the Truman administration and divided reports came in about the necessity of developing the hydrogen bomb, serious delays also occurred. Luckily, in the end a decision was reached which enabled America to perfect the H-bomb, but soon afterward the Communists in Moscow caught up.

The demand for a "czar" or a "boss" for the missile program assumes that the difficulties which arise in scientific matters can be met by a kind of dictatorship. It's just as easy for a "czar" to make a wrong decision as it is for anybody else when confronted with conflicting views as to what ought to be done in the scientific field.

The "czar" idea is based largely on the theory that "inter-service rivalries"—which could, of course, be conquered by civilian authorities—are at the bottom of the mess, when the truth is that scientific men as well as civilians are involved. It is being wisely suggested that the way out is to impress on the scientists summoned to advise the government that they must keep out of the political arena, and for civilian authorities to order programs completed by fixed dates irrespective of whether the devices are "perfect."

Important above all else now is not the next satellite but the long-range missile and the anti-missile weapons being successfully developed in American military and scientific projects.

Ike May Have Considered Quitting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Men around President Eisenhower have sought to give his illness a sunny look—and brushed aside any idea he might resign. But he himself has probably considered it, whether or not he's rejected it.

This country's problems—and those of the world—are more critical now than at any time of Eisenhower's two previous major illnesses: the heart attack in 1955 and the intestinal operation in 1956.

In the weeks and years ahead this country will need the most competent and active leadership it can get. Eisenhower already has shown himself sensitive to the problems of an ill president and the need for one able to do his job.

After his heart attack and his operation, he said that if he ever felt he couldn't carry out his duties, he would tell the public. So the problem of his own ability to fulfill his job has been high in his consciousness.

He has been less active—as he said he would be before last year's election—since the two previous illnesses. Just how much his latest seizure cuts down on his activity and ability remains to be seen.

Both Eisenhower's press secretary, James Hagerty, and Vice President Nixon, who would become president if Eisenhower quit, have attempted to inject an optimistic note into the mild stroke he suffered this week.

Although London newspapers predicted Eisenhower would quit, very little of that talk has been raised in this country. But Hagerty and Nixon both discounted any thought of Eisenhower's resigning. Hagerty called it laughable.

Although the stroke impaired Eisenhower's ability to use or find certain words—a condition his doctors said is clearing up—Hagerty said the President was amused by his difficulty.

Nixon, in his desire to picture Eisenhower as full of vitality, went so far last night as to picture him as a "caged lion" in his eagerness to get to his job. His doctors said he'll have to reduce his activity substantially for some weeks.

When Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in September 1955, Congress had gone home, the world was fairly calm, this country appeared in no danger, and Eisenhower with the help of his aides had three months to get ready for the next Congress.

When he had his intestinal operation in June 1956, the world was still calm, Eisenhower's major problems with Congress were pretty well finished, and Congress itself was anxious to get home for the 1956 elections.

Eisenhower's main problem at that time was to get back into shape for the election campaign.

But this week's mild stroke hit Eisenhower just after Russian missile and satellite developments pointed up a need for the ablest direction to help this country catch up with the Soviets.

At the same time, Eisenhower was preparing to go to Paris for a conference with allies who not only were badly split but had suddenly been forced to wonder about this country's leadership after the shock administered by the Russian Sputniks.

In addition now, when he must reduce his activity, he has only a month in which to get ready for Congress, which returns in January. That means preparing his budget and organizing his ideas on the various programs, including defense, which he'll have to lay before Congress in 1958.

Divide The Bird Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—Some suggestions, reminders, helpful hints and irreverent thoughts on this Thanksgiving Day:

Eight, 12 or 36 pounds, the bird still has only two drumsticks, two wings, one breast, one wishbone. Cold or warm, fair or cloudy, there will be 23,498,546 women who this day will say, "I wish my husband would take the trouble to learn to carve like that."

Etiquette books agreed that a guest need not reassure a querulous hostess-cook more than nine times when she asks, "Does it really taste all right?"

Tonight, in 12,876,987 American homes, mother will firmly resolve that the next year she will serve dinner before the game to the sure everyone is there on time. Tonight, in 12,876,987 other American homes, mother will firmly resolve that next year she will serve dinner after the game to be sure half the family doesn't rush off without their pie.

Neither etiquette nor wisdom really require you to comment when the woman gorging herself says, "Tomorrow, I start my diet."

In 3,478,233 American homes the dining room rug will be spotted by an uncle showing how the mountaineers used to pour cider from a jug on their shoulder without spilling a drop.

There will not be a single dinner served in a single American home today without at least one female warbling, "You must give me some turkey legs!"

Formula For 'Good Eating'

Maybe I was born 30 years too soon, but I'm glad.

I'm glad that when I was just a kid Mother didn't say to me, "Son, open up the freezer and hand me one of those chickens."

I'm happy, instead, that she nearly always said:

"Son, look like we're having company. Better get out there and run down a chicken."

There wasn't any such thing as company catching Mother so unexpectedly that she couldn't serve up a tasty meal in short order. And she never owned a home freezer to keep stocked for unexpected guests.

Instead, she operated most of the time without even a refrigerator, relying on a barnyard full of frying and baking-size chickens, a smokehouse loaded with pork, and a cellar stuffed with canned fruits and vegetables.

There was no panic around our house when Mom looked down to the road and saw a car turning in, with mealtime approaching.

"Go catch a fryer," she'd say. Or else she'd send one of us to the smokehouse for a sack of sausage, a ham or something similar.

I always hoped she would order up chicken, though. I loved to chase down chickens. I always secretly played like I was a cowboy and the chicken was a wild Indian or some other mean varmint.

And away we'd go, sliding under fences, darting around the barns and over the haystacks. Always I'd emerge the conqueror; for the chicken would soon tire and huddle in a corner somewhere, easy to latch onto.

The part I didn't go for, much, was the beheading and the skinning that followed. Mother generally took care of that, though, as well as the cooking.

The meal that followed always more than made up for the unpleasantness of the slaughter. An appetite whetted by the chase, and the aroma of a just-plain-fried pulleybone, uhhmm. What a formula for "good eating!"

For A 'Be Kind To Margaret' Week

My two front teeth are just dandy, thank you. But as a special holiday favor, I wonder if the British branch of the newspaper business would kindly declare a moratorium on Princess Margaret.

No more daily stories, please, criticizing this young woman for an addiction to rock 'n' roll, no more hullabaloo over an unbecoming haircut, no more needling articles over her spinster status, no more pious outcries that she is robbing the cradle if she has a date with a younger man (Gee, things are tough ALL over!) and, please, leave her cleavage to her conscience.

Goodness knows what all this constant, nagging criticism is doing to Margaret. I shudder to think of the effect on this young woman when it is forcing republican me to yell "Uncle!" and plump for a "Be Kind to Margaret Week."

Surely, in this season of peace on earth, good will toward men, the British press can include the Queen's sister in a general amnesty. Oh, it will work a hardship on Fleet Street, and no mistake, as viewing Margaret with alarm is now a standard circulation-getter.

I don't know just why the British press elected Margaret to the post of whipping boy for the royal family, except that the editors don't quite dare attack Her Majesty constantly and Prince Philip could lick 'em, man to man, in the alley.

For a while it looked as if Margaret's lively cousin, the Duke of Kent, might get her off the hook and replace her as royal scapegoat. He made a good start, cracking up cars and champagne bottles, dropping paper bags filled with water out of fourth-story windows on innocent bystanders, and going for a midnight swim in white tie and tails.

But he faded fast. In addition, Margaret is prettier in a picture layout, and that is important in the newspaper trade. The Duke can still be useful on a dull day, but year in and year out Margaret wears well as a prime grumpy target.

In fact, if Margaret retains her looks and her stamina, her position as royal whipping boy is not apt to be challenged for another eight or 10 years. Then, and I don't think it takes much of a prophet to foresee this sure thing, Princess Anne will be of an age to take over.

Indeed, it seems to me the British press is already grooming the little princess to replace her aunt eventually. It is now chucking over the high spirits and independence of this little girl just as it chucked over Princess Margaret's independence and high spirits 20 years ago.

The chukles turn to chucks, in the case of Margaret when she reached her late 'teens, and it's a sporting wager that Princess Anne rates the same transition eventually.

But, in the meantime, I'm kinda weary of reading all these daily alarms over Margaret's doings. She may even get herself a husband yet. There's still hope. Why, our Margaret (Truman) didn't latch onto one until she was well into her thirties, but at least the American papers never gave up hope for her.

The British press is simply undermining Princess Margaret's confidence and my patience. What about that moratorium on Margaret for Christmas?

Independent Cuss Is New Kind Of Star In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A new kind of star is rising in Hollywood—the independent cuss who barks back at the studios yet lacks publicity flair.

A case study is Paul Newman, handsome, brooding-lipped young actor who typifies the new breed. There have been others like him—Marlon Brando, James Dean, Tony Franciosa, John Cassavetes, Ben Gazzara, etc.

All were trained in New York, many at the Actor's Studio. Each has been as independent as a hog on ice and though they have made the news on occasion, they shun the publicity mills of Hollywood.

Newman differs from the others in that he is signed up exclusively to a studio—Warner Brothers. How come?

"Panic, I guess," he said. "You keep passing up opportunities until finally you worry that it might be the last time you're offered one. I didn't want to sign, because I figured I wasn't ready for it yet. The Silver Chalice proved that I was right."

Despite his pessimism in that religious mishmash, he went back to Broadway for some seasoning in "The Desperate Hours," then returned to score a smash on a loanout to MGM in "Somebody Up There Likes Me." Warner's discovered it had a star on its hands.

Warners also found Newman to be a problem. The guy just wouldn't do what he was told. He has turned down three big productions which most newcomers would be delighted with. How does he get away with it?

"I just tell J. L. Warner I can't believe in the roles," he said. "So far, I've gotten away without a suspension. On the other hand, there are roles on the outside that I haven't been able to do. He has a great way of winning arguments. He just orders me out of his office."

Newman has methods of winning his own way. He agreed to do "The Helen Morgan Story," which he wasn't too hot for, in order to do an outside picture, "The Long, Hot Summer."

The actor declared that such studio battles are mistakenly attributed to temperament. He said it's merely a matter of a man sticking up for his rights.

Old New School

SOUTHINGTON, Ohio (AP)—For the first time in 32 years, school bells are ringing again at the one-room District Four schoolhouse. Built in June, 1897, at a cost of $750, and discontinued in 1905, the old building is being used until a new addition to Southington School is completed.

Incentive Pay For Professors?

PHILADELPHIA—Lest it be overlooked, I herewith report the revolutionary proposal of Ralph J. Cordner, president of General Electric Co., who has applied his wide and successful experience in industry to the problem of higher education in the United States.

In an address to the Wharton School Alumni Society, University of Pennsylvania, Cordner rejects as sterile the thesis that America "will have to settle either for quality or quantity, not both" when the student body in colleges doubles ten years from now. Cordner would use incentive pay to step up professional productivity.

The meaning was instantly clear to an audience of distinguished business men, avidly attentive to a man who had reached the top in America's managerial hierarchy. General Electric had been able to attain high quality and high production in manufacturing refrigerators, washing machines, toasters, and jet engines. General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler made good automobiles in quantity. If so, why not mass-produced students?

"There are some educators," declared Cordner, "who are actually proud of the declining ratio of students to faculty. . . . To my knowledge, there is no other field of human endeavor which actually prides itself on declining productivity. The question is partly a question of management."

In business, salesmen are stirred to higher and higher exertions and norms by quotas, bonuses, and profit-sharing plans. TV producers and performers are constantly alerted to public reception of their output by listener audience indexes.

As an executive, accustomed to administrative simplification, Cordner would apply similar marketplace standards to professional salaries.

Cordner suggests that each university faculty "determine its own pay," thus encouraging "increased ingenuity and effort" to attract freshmen and turn out seniors. He would set aside a predetermined percentage of tuition for the faculty. Then, the greater number of students picking a college, the greater would be the pot to be divided among the professors and instructors. "The more students per teacher, the more pay per teacher. Then the teacher would be like other professionals, who derive their income directly from their clients on the basis of services rendered."

In such a marketplace environment, professors would be weaned away from Hamilton, Haverford, Amherst, Williams, Swarthmore, Bryn Mawr, and similar colleges with small enrollments and small classes to the larger campus and the bigger pot. Canny professors would pass the word around that homework would be minimized and grades maximized. Teachers of musical appreciation would bring ukeleles to class to woo students of pop as well as classical melodies. Anecdotes and humor would become standard classroom currency.

Professors who resort to surprise quizzes, laborious assignments, and black-board grilling would be rewarded with low paychecks for their educational devotion. Professors of physics, mathematics, chemistry and the difficult subjects would find it more remunerative to apply their energies and skills to English, history, literature, and physical education, which always command a large attendance, either because they're required subjects or easy.

To be sure, such diversion might frustrate General Electric in its annual search for well-trained mathematicians, scientists, and engineers on the nation's campuses, for only professors without student pulling power and marketplace inimitation would teach such courses. Nevertheless, there's an offset. The Cordner scheme would encourage dedicated professors of physics, chemistry, math, and engineering to make their subjects so easy and attractive that the size of their classes and, hence, their income, would rise to snap-course levels.

To my knowledge, piecemeal incentivism has never been applied to higher education in the Soviet Union or elsewhere. And that is why I think Mr. Cordner's suggestion deserves to be called "revolutionary."

Tales Out Of School

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Don't tell the kids, but teachers can be troublesome when abroad.

"They get so interested in what they are seeing that they straggle behind and are liable to get lost," says Dr. Wesley Childers, of Albany State College for Teachers.

The professor should know. He has escorted teachers to Europe seven times, usually in groups of about 20.

Welcome Guest

OKEMAH, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. J. G. Bruton said a friend noted a Texas motel for a reservation and asked if he could bring along his dog.

The reply said: "We have never had a dog fall asleep in bed smoking and burn anything up. We have never had a dog spill alcoholic drinks all over the furniture and ruin it. We have never caught a dog leaving the premises with a bath towel or pillowcase in his suitcase. Sure, the dog is welcome."

ALIDA, MY LOVE... MY LIFE... I'VE FOUND YOU... DON'T YOU KNOW ME?

KNOW YOU? ...I ...?

I'VE BROUGHT YOU ROSES... RED ROSES... ZORKA, YOUR HUSBAND.

ZORKA?

YOUR HUSBAND, ALIDA... DON'T YOU REMEMBER ME?

MY HUSBAND? ZORKA? ...AH, YES, OF COURSE... NIGHT AND DAY HE IS BY MY SIDE. I AM GOING TO WEAVE HIM A COAT, DO YOU THINK HE WILL LIKE IT?

DIXIE DUGAN

NO CRACK ABOUT YOUR COOKING INTENDED—I'M JUST NOT HUNGRY!

WHAT ABOUT YOUR FLYING FRIEND? HAS SHE LOST HER APPETITE TOO??

OR WOULD YOU PREFER TO BE LEFT ALONE?

THAT'S THE BEST IDEA YET!

SEE WHAT I AVOIDED BY NOT MARRYING HER?

L'IL ABNER

IT'S SADIE HAWKINS DAY IN DOGPATCH, AND—YOU ARE THERE?!

FOR GENERATIONS, THE HORROR-STRIKEN BACHELORS AND THE GRIM, TRIUMPHANT FEMALES HAVE BEEN MARRIED ON THE SPOT.

WITH NO MERCY SHOWN—BY A RATHER DIRTY OLD MAN NAMED SAM?!

BUT, THE MIRACLE OF TELEVISION HAS CHANGED ALL THIS!! LET US LOOK IN ON THE FIRST MARRIAGE!!

BLONDIE

DAGWOOD, TELL ME WHAT YOU THINK OF MY NEW HAT

DON'T YOU DARE SAY THAT!

I NEVER SAID A THING

ANNIE ROONEY

YOU'RE BACK FROM YOUR PATROL DOWN THE HIGHWAY MIGHTY SOON, IT'S PRETTY QUIET, HUH?

YEAH, THIS PATROL DUTY IS FAST WORK SINCE THE ROAD OVER THE MOUNTAINS IS CLOSED FOR THE WINTER. NOTHING LEFT BUT THE COAST HIGHWAY TO COVER.

EXCUSE ME, BUT DID YOU SAY THERE'S ONLY ONE ROAD IN AN OUT OF TOWN?!

SURE, THE NORTH AND SOUTH COAST ROUTE—ANY REASON FOR ASKING?!

NO, SIR, JUST TRYIN' TO LEARN THINGS—

FINE THING! A LOCAL KID NOT KNOWING THAT DON'T THEY TEACH 'EM GEOGRAPHY IN SCHOOL ANY MORE?!

ONLY ONE ROAD—GOLLY!!

SNUFFY SMITH

PAW! GRAB YORE SHOOTIN' AR'N! THAR'S A FLOCK OF CROWS AFTER YORE CORN!

YORE TETCHED IN TH' HAID, WOMAN—TH' CORNFIELDS ALL FLOWED UNDER!

LOOK OUT TH' WINDER, MR. SMART ALECK!

GRANDMA

GRANDMA, WILL YOU BE KNITTING IN YOUR BIG ROCKER TODAY?

YES, I HAVE A LOT O' KNITTING T' DO THIS AFTERNOON!

HAW! NOW, WHY WOULD THOSE KIDS WANT T' KNOW THAT?

BE CAREFUL NOW, AN' CRACK TH' NUTS INSTEAD O' YOUR FINGERS!

DONALD DUCK

DARN! WHERE IS THAT NEW WATCHDOG HERE, POOGH?

I KNOW HE'S IN THE HOUSE SOMEWHERE! HERE, BOY!

GRRR... WOOO... WOOO...

JOE PALOOKA

HERE'S THE BOY I PHONED YOU ABOUT, MRS. WILSON... I'D LIKE TO STAND BY...

OF COURSE, MR. PALOOKA? OUR DOCTORS ARE WAITING TO SEE HIM NOW?

WHEN THEY HAD HIM IN THERE FOR HOURS... GOSH? I'VE BECOME SO CONCERNED FOR THAT KID—I ALMOST FEEL AS THOUGH HE WERE MY OWN?

THE BOY REFUSES TO TALK... THE PSYCHIATRIST SAYS IT WILL TAKE TIME TO DRAW HIM OUT... YOU MAY AS WELL GO HOME!

THANK YOU... BUT IF IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH YOU—I'LL BE BACK FIRST THING TOMORROW!

MARY WORTH

AT THE ANNUAL PRESS PHOTOGRAPHERS' BALL... THAT MARLO DAME MUST BE QUARTERLY EVERY TIME I AM A CAMERA, SHE'S IN FRONT OF IT!

YEAH! LET'S ELECT HER THIS FLASH-CRAZE OF 1937!

WHAT'S SHE EXPECT, ANYHOW? SHE'S ALREADY HAD HER MUG ON EVERYTHING BUT A WOOD BILL!

SHALL WE GO SOMEWHERE ELSE, TOMO?

AS YOU WISH, DARLING!... THE #4 CLUB... EL ENCANITO...?

I... I'M TIRED OF CROWDS, TOMO! ...AREN'T YOU?

REX MORGAN

I THOUGHT THE GIRLS WOULD NEVER LEAVE, PROFESSOR... AND I DID WHAT I COULD WITH YOU!

I AM AT YOUR SERVICE AT ANY TIME, MRS. BARTON!

YOUR THOUGHT OF ESTABLISHING A FOUNDATION INTRIGUES ME!

I AM AFRAID THAT IS BUT A DREAM, MRS. BARTON!

BUT PERHAPS SOMEDAY... AFTER I AM GONE IT WILL BECOME A REALITY... AND OTHERS WILL TAKE OVER WHERE I'VE LEFT OFF... BUT IT NEEDN'T BE THAT WAY, PROFESSOR! YOU MUST GO ON WITH YOUR GREAT WORK!

YOUR ENCOURAGEMENT WARMS MY HEART MORE THAN YOU KNOW, MRS. BARTON!

POGO

GLAD TO GET HOME—WHAT A DAY—HOPE SOMEBODY'S HOME. I AIN'T GOT THE KEY.

NO-BODY—GO IN THE SOB WINDOW ASAN.

HOPE SOMEBODY IS HERE—NO KEY—

SOBRY, THERE'S NOBODY HOME I JUST KNOCKED MY HAND OFF.

WELL, WAIT.

I'LL WAIT WITH YOU—IT'S ONE OF THESE IN THERE.

KERRY DRAKE

I HOPE THAT'S FOR US, KERRY... THIS IS THE Dullest Day I Ever Had On Robbery!

YOU GOT YOUR WISH, DUDE! BIG DEAL... A CLOTHIER IS HOLDING A SHOPLIFTER... WANTS US TO BRING A ROY SQUAD, PATROL WAGON AND A LIE-DETECTOR!

MEANWHILE...

I TELL YOU... THERE'S BEEN A HORRIBLE MISTAKE!

THERE SURE HAS!... AND YOU MADE IT, MISTER!

Mitchell Asks Aid Support

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, speaking for ailing President Eisenhower, urged the nation Tuesday night to accept the "austerity and privations" required to give military and economic aid to other countries of the free world. Mitchell digressed from a prepared speech of his own to deliver the gist of the "chins up" talk that Eisenhower had planned to broadcast Tuesday night from Cleveland. The main topic of the Cleveland talk, canceled because of the President's illness, was the importance of international cooperation in halting Soviet imperialism. Mitchell, whose speech before a dinner of the Manufacturing Chemists Assn. was not aired, said the administration believes "no investment we can make pays greater dividends than reasonable economic aid to friendly nations." Mitchell listed three specific points that the President had intended to make in the Cleveland speech. They were: 1. The Eisenhower administration believes the people of the United States owe full support to the mutual security program in both its military and economic phases. 2. Eisenhower will recommend to Congress in January that the expiring Trade Agreements Act be broadened and extended for a period longer than the present three-year term. The proposal would provide for broader authority for the negotiation of reciprocal trade pacts. 3. A call for United States participation in the Organization for Trade Corporation. Mitchell described the agency as "a business-like unit" to guarantee maximum benefits from the negotiation of trade agreements. Jupiter Work WASHINGTON (AP)—Mass production of the Army's Jupiter missile may begin at Chrysler Corp. in Detroit, Rep. Ford (R-Mich.) said today.

Okinawans Ask Return Of Mayor

TOKYO (AP)—Okinawan residents in Tokyo today petitioned the U.S. Embassy here to repeal the recent ouster of Naha's leftist Mayor Kamejiro Senaga. The spokesman for the Okinawan Residents Assn. said, "The United States itself offends the Lincoln spirit. We demand the immediate repeal of Moore's order, the revision of election law." Senaga was ousted from the mayor's post after U.S. High Commissioner Lt. Gen. James E. Moore made four changes in the law which made possible the official's removal by Naha's City Assembly.

Russians Could Claim The Moon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Andrew G. Haley of Washington, an expert on international law and president of the International Astronautical Federation, says there is no law to prevent Russia from obtaining ownership of the moon. Speaking last night on "The Law of the Age of Space" before the International Law Club of Harvard law school, he said: "By planting the red star or the Soviet flag on the moon via a rocket, the Russians would be able to lay claim to the moon."

Planned Parenthood Units Help Opposite Purposes

By IRWIN FRANK
HOUSTON (AP)—Planned parenthood centers in eight Texas cities are both teaching birth control and helping childless couples have children. Such centers have been in Texas more than 20 years. Miss Grace Buzzell, director of the Houston center for six years, says the centers have four aims: Medical advice on child spacing. This, she points out, does not necessarily mean limiting the number of children a family wants. She says it means having children when a family wants them and can afford to care for them.

Education for marriage. Miss Buzzell says the centers always refer young couples to their doctor and clergymen for additional advice and help. Educating and interviewing childless couples is a main task of the centers. They refer couples to doctors for medical examinations and to child placement centers if adoption is necessary. Medical research, which is carried out only in the New York center, is the fourth aim.

Miss Buzzell says that about one marriage in 10 is "involuntarily childless" and that about one-third of childless couples are able to have children after receiving medical help. The majority of the 2,898 patients who came to the main Houston center last year sought information to help on birth control, or child spacing, Miss Buzzell said. About 70 per cent of the patients come from homes where the income was less than $3,000 a year.

The two centers here, and the one in Dallas, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, San Angelo, El Paso and Fort Worth gave treatment on a "pay what you can basis" and no one is turned away because of inability to pay.

Ex-West Texan On Socony Board

DALLAS (AP)—Fred Wilcox, a former West Texas geologist, was elected to the board of Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc., Magnolia Petroleum's parent company, in New York today.

Wilcox headed the geological investigations in the West Texas-New Mexico area in the 1930s for Vacuum Oil Co., and later Magnolia. He went to New York in 1949 as coordinator of domestic production for Socony in 1949 and became production manager in 1953.
