Last-Minute 'Bug' Halts Missile Try

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—A mechanical "bug" halted the test launching of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile today a split second before the blastoff. The countdown reached zero and the button was pressed that would have sent the mighty weapon roaring skyward. Its tail belched a great cloud of smoke. Then, warned of possible trouble by his complex instruments, the test conductor pressed another button that cut off the engines. For a few minutes when smoke hid the Atlas from view, watchers on the beaches outside the cape thought it had blown up on its launching pad.

Agreement Due For British Missile Bases

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A long-awaited agreement to build U.S. nuclear missile platforms in Britain will go into effect Monday or Tuesday, the Defense Ministry said today.

The agreement calls for building Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile bases along Britain's east coast facing the Soviet Union. The agreement will become effective after a formal exchange of letters in Washington between Secretary of State Dulles and British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia.

Full details of the agreement may not be disclosed. A white paper, probably to be issued Thursday, will answer some of the opposition questions raised in Britain against the missile agreement, Defense Minister Duncan Sandys has indicated.

British and U.S. sources said four IRBM bases are planned. The United States and Britain would have joint control over the bases and any possible use of the missiles.

U.S. crews will handle the missiles at first. British Royal Air Force men are now being trained in the United States in their use.

The missiles will be delivered ready for firing by next winter, these sources said. The rockets, plus the warheads would be supplied free by the United States, the sources said. At least 16 will be sent over as soon as available, the reports said.

Britain reportedly has agreed to pay for construction of the bases at a cost of about 90 million dollars.

East German Purge Brings On Dispute

BERLIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—East Germany's Premier Otto Grotewohl tonight was reported to have split with Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht in protest against the recent purge of so-called liberal Communist leaders.

Usually reliable Eastern sources said Grotewohl left East Berlin this week after defying seriously for the first time the Stalinist dictator he has served for eight years as government front man.

Officially, the 64-year-old Grotewohl is supposed to have chosen the moment of a major government reshuffle to leave for several weeks' vacation. But underground reports persist that he actually had left East Berlin in hopes of going to Moscow to plead the case of the purged leaders.

In Bonn, the West German capital, the press service of the Socialist party quoted underground sources as saying Grotewohl's departure at this time made it nearly certain he had fallen into disgrace.

East Berlin sources said Ulbricht was facing a major break-down in the governing machinery of the German state as a result of his dispute with Grotewohl and confusion stemming from last week's purge.

Grotewohl, as well as many Communist leaders, were displaying sullen dissatisfaction with Ulbricht's ouster of the liberal leaders who had won a more loyal following than the Stalinist-oriented Ulbricht.

It is interesting to note that reports show 5,356 scholastics enrolled in Big Spring schools, virtually the same number who were reported on last year's census. We have 542 more in school than at the same time a year ago.

Small wonder then that trustees turned their attention toward the possibility of enlarging senior high school classroom facilities. Several years ago, not long after the present plant was completed, the Herald predicted this step would become necessary about now. It

After 59 Years In The Belfry

The venerable bell of St. Mary's Episcopal Church was removed Saturday from the station it has held since 1899 in the church belfry. It was transferred to the church's new building at 10th and Goliad where it will be given a place of honor in the courtyard. The 400-pound bronze bell was cast especially for St. Mary's Church in 1899 by Meneely Bell Co. of Troy, N.Y. It has rung for virtually every service held in the church since that time, and has been tolled scores of times for the funerals of deceased church members. It bears the inscription: "Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth Peace, Good Will toward Men." The church at 5th and Rannels was erected in 1896. It will be vacated next Sunday morning when the parish members gather for their first service in the new building at 10th and Goliad.

Seek Definite Aims For Summit Talks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower has written a new letter to Soviet Premier Bulganin which is designed to try to pin Bulganin down to brass-tacks talk about arranging a summit conference.

The letter has been cleared with this country's North Atlantic Treaty Allies, informants said today. It will be delivered in Moscow early next week, probably Monday.

Information about it became known here as State Department officials studied evidence that the Soviets are whipping up a worldwide diplomatic offensive in support of their drive for a summit conference. This involves Far Eastern as well as European moves and could lead to some new Russian bid to include Red China in a summit conference.

However, authorities here say that if the Soviets are really serious about setting up East-West talks they will not press the Red China issue, since the United States does not recognize the Chinese Communist regime.

What is more puzzling to administration leaders at the moment is the question of whether the Russians really do want a summit conference—or whether they simply want to go on making propaganda about it.

Eisenhower's letter reportedly tries to pin Bulganin down on specific points concerning with conference preparations, including:

Snow flurries swirled in the Dalhart area Saturday as temperatures remained below freezing across North Texas and rose slightly elsewhere.

Another hard freeze was forecast across the northern half of the state with snow flurries in the Panhandle-South Plains.

D.A. To Prove Murder Confession Was A Hoax

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 15 (AP)—District Atty. Hubert Green tonight declared he would send the Board of Pardons and Paroles what he called step-by-step proof Donald Summers' confession of a rape and murder is a hoax.

Summers saved Jimmy Shaver, 31, from a date in the electric chair Feb. 5 by confessing to the slaying of Chere Horton, in 1954.

Tax Cuts Studied If Need Arises

New Formulas Prepared For Business Dip

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Eisenhower Administration and Democratic house leaders both are reported working quietly and separately on tax reductions plans to use if business continues to slump.

Each side wants to be ready to move quickly when and if necessary.

The Democrats are reported putting together a package plan of tax cuts totaling more than five billion dollars and cutting across the economy in both general and selective areas.

Administration officials were disclosed today to have been calling in private experts and conferring among themselves in an effort to work out tax reduction formulas to meet any of a number of conditions of unemployment and declining production.

"PREPAREDNESS" Informed government sources said the Treasury, the President's Council of Economic Advisers and other agencies were studying "preparedness" plans, but denied any expectation of using them.

"Those best informed still expect business to start upward by summer," one official said privately.

"But it would be the height of folly not to be thinking now in terms of what might be done if events take a different course."

An administration official said: "We're not trying to draft a ready-made 'tax package.' Things haven't gone far enough to know what we would need or whether we will need anything at all."

UPTURN COMING? The administration will be especially wary, this source added, of initiating a tax cut just as the economy might be turning upward toward recovery, thereby pouring inflationary gasoline on the fire.

President Eisenhower hinted at this particular concern in his "chins up" statement last Wednesday when he said the government should be careful not to take any "wrong steps."

In final form, the Democratic package is expected to contain proposals for whole or partial elimination of the World War II transportation tax, a tax cut for income brackets, tax relief for business, and possible tax law revisions to wipe out some unintended hardships.

Orders for preparation of the standby tax legislation have gone out from House Speaker Rayburn of Texas. In response to his directive, several alternative proposals are being prepared by the staff of the House Ways and Means Committee for consideration by Democratic policymakers.

REVISION Rayburn, who wants to be forearmed if a tax cut becomes necessary, is represented as preferring to view possible future action as more in the nature of tax revision than general reduction — action primarily aimed at "smoothing out the bumps" in areas of the economy where it will be more effective.

The final form of the Democratic tax package has not crystallized, and Democrats say it will be March or April before they know whether they stand. They say their decision will be influenced by economic developments in the meantime, the course of unemployment, and the Treasury's mid-April revenue estimates.

No exact revenue figures have been applied to the Democratic tax program. Leaders, however, have been talking in terms of five to ten billion dollars if tax cuts become necessary to stabilize the economy.

PROPOSALS On the score of individual tax relief, Democratic thinking now leans toward splitting the bottom income tax bracket. This presently is $2,000 and subject to the minimum rate of 20 per cent.

It is proposed to split the first $2,000 into two classes of $1,000 each, with a lower rate on the first $1,000.

In the opinion of some key Democrats, proposals to raise the present 6000 personal exemption by $100 have been discarded as inequitable. It has "gone by the boards," said one Rayburn adviser.

Elimination of the World War II transportation tax appeared to have support in all Democratic thinking. Leaders believe it would help the hard hit transportation industry in particular and taxpayers generally.

Stassen Quits Arms Job To Seek Governorship

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 15 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen stepped out today as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser and announced he is a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

Stassen's resignation in order to run on the Republican ticket in the May primary was announced at the President's vacation headquarters.

Eisenhower said he was accepting the resignation with deep regret. As is his custom in the case of primary races, the President did not directly endorse Stassen's gubernatorial bid. But in a "Dear Harold" letter to Stassen he said "you have much to contribute to the future of our country."

In recent weeks there have been published reports — one pinned to a high administration official — that Eisenhower had decided Stassen had outlived his usefulness as disarmament adviser and would have to go.

But White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty replied today "of course he wasn't" when asked whether Stassen had been requested to quit. He said the friendly tone of the President's letter should scotch any such idea.

Hagerty said it was Stassen's own decision and added that the decision was inevitable and automatic once Stassen decided to re-enter the political arena.

The decision came as no surprise. Stassen, 50, three times governor of Minnesota, has been sizing up the Pennsylvania picture for months.

He acted against a background of increasing disagreement with Secretary of State Dulles over disarmament policy and negotiation with the Russians.

Pennsylvania is Stassen's adopted state, as it is Eisenhower's. After being elected governor of Minnesota three times he resigned during his last term to enter the Navy in World War II. After the war he served as president of the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1956, Stassen touched off a political furor with his vain attempt to block renomination of Vice President Nixon. Eisenhower took no side publicly but granted Stassen's request for a leave of absence as disarmament adviser in order to devote full time to trying to dump Nixon.

The attempt failed, and Stassen then made a convention speech seconding the nomination of Nixon. Eisenhower stood by Stassen and returned him to the disarmament post.

Election of Stassen to the governorship would give him an excellent forum from which to make another bid for the GOP presidential nomination. It appears now that such a bid would pit him against Nixon as a principal competitor in 1960.

Washington Seeks To Avoid U.N. Fuss On Tunisia Crisis

TUNIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—The United States worked in the background today in an effort to settle Tunisia's bombing dispute with France without hauling it into the open forum of the United Nations, informed sources said.

Both sides gave signs of conciliation. Western quarters feared a U.N. debate on the French bombing of a Tunisian border village a week ago would become a Communist sounding board to aggravate anti-Western feelings in sensitive North Africa and the Middle East.

Informants said the United States hoped to get talks between France and Tunisia started before Tuesday, when the U.N. Security Council is scheduled to take up the dispute with the Soviet delegate, Arkady Sobolev, sitting as president.

As U.S. diplomats conferred with French officials in Paris and Washington, President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia publicized a list of modified demands for settlement. His announcement coincided with decisions taken at a special meeting of the French Cabinet.

Diplomats here said Bourguiba's modification of his demands and the action of the French Cabinet indicated a strong possibility some sort of conciliation could be reached.

Bourguiba's official spokesman said the President's changes were given to the Rome newspaper Il Tempo, after an interview.

They included: 1. French acceptance in principle of troop evacuation (France, in fact, already did this in March, 1956, when the French gave up Tunisia as a protectorate. Under an agreement at that time, France was given 20 years to complete a troop withdrawal.)

2. Immediate abandonment of minor French garrisons in Tunisia. (The French Cabinet considered this today.)

3. Provisional concentration of French forces in the two main bases at Bizerte and Sfax.

4. Opening of negotiations on turning the French Bizerte naval base on the Mediterranean over to NATO. (The French suggested this earlier in the week.)

In the beginning, Bourguiba demanded that France immediately pull all of her 15,000 troops out of Tunisia and abandon the strategic Bizerte base.

His modification was seen by one important diplomat here as clearing a good part of the way toward solution of the crisis.

On the French side, diplomats said a French Cabinet decision to make restitution for the bombing of Sidi Youssef also would help clear the air.

Navy Submarine Runs Aground

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Navy said today the submarine Guavina is aground on the north side of San Salvador Island in the Caribbean.

The submarine, which is used as a fuel supply vessel for submarines and aircraft, went aground Feb. 12 when high winds and heavy sleet caused the boat to drag anchor.

Broad Belt Of The South Under Thick Snow Cover

By The Associated Press Heavy snows staggered traffic in a broad storm zone in the South Saturday.

Arctic air—coldest of the season in some states—rolled across the north.

A storm center that moved eastward across the South and then headed toward New England touched off the snow in Dixie. In some places it was the heaviest in years.

The snow blanketed Tennessee. Snow spread across all of Virginia except the coast.

North Carolina's snowfall amounted to seven inches at Asheville in the mountains and six inches at Hickory in the foothills. Snow was heavy in the northern part of South Carolina. It coated all of Maryland except the southeastern reach of the Eastern Shore. The white coverlet ranged from two to four inches in Kentucky.

Northern Mississippi had up to 2 1/2 inches of snow. The Mardi Gras parades were resumed in New Orleans but the chill held down the crowds.

Snow also fell in Washington, D.C.

A cold wave was expected to move across the Midwest during the night and push into Kentucky and Tennessee. Weather Bureau predicted 25 to 35 below zero for northern Minnesota, readings around zero along the Ohio River and freezing all the way to the Gulf of Mexico.

The cold already was intense in much of the area between the Rockies and the Mississippi,

Baylor Group To Sing Here

The Rhapsody in White and the Baylor Bards choral ensemble from Baylor University in Waco, will appear at the First Baptist Church here on Feb. 27.

Personnel of the ensemble includes students from 15 states, and the group numbers about 65 who are drawn from all departments of the university. They have presented programs in all parts of the East, Mid-West, South as well as in Mexico. The young singers have had several radio and TV appearances.

Conductor of the ensemble is Martha Barkema, professor of voice and director of glee clubs in Baylor's school of music. Miss Barkema also was organizer of the original group in 1937.

Repertoire includes sacred works from the masterpieces, excerpts from favorite popular musicals, hymns, etc.

Among the vocalists is Walter Wheat, Big Spring, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wheat.

The program here carries no charge and the public is invited.

Science Institutes Set This Summer

LUBBOCK, Feb. 15—A limited number of high school juniors who show exceptional promise in science will have an opportunity to study at special science institutes to be held at five Texas institutions this summer.

More than 100 Texas high school students will be named to participate in institutes to be held on the campuses of Texas Tech, Southern Methodist, Rice Institute, University of Texas and Texas A&M.

Students must apply through the office of their high school principal or superintendent before March 20. Final selection of students will be made by the Institutes Directors April 14, according to J. W. Day, Tech associate professor of physics and director.

No tuition is charged for the special institutes that are sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and Texas high schools under a grant made by the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Wreck Results In Suit For Damages

A damage suit in which Ray Webb asks $47,900 of W. K. Simpson was filed in 118th District Court on Friday.

Webb alleges that he was driving his car on U. S. 80 in Big Spring on Nov. 4, 1957, when he was rammed from the rear by Simpson. He alleges heavy damage to his automobile and serious physical injuries. The total damages asked in the petition are $47,900.

Pork Output May Increase

AUSTIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Pork production in Texas is expected to increase 11 per cent this spring over last year, but the state could produce ever more, the Bureau of Business Research said today.

Texas has ideal conditions for hog production. Prices received at the end of 1957 were $2 per hundredweight more than in 1956, the University of Texas Bureau's George Neel, Jr., wrote.

He said swine growers in Texas produced 1,436,000 pigs in 1957, less than 2 per cent of the 89.7 million U.S. pigs farrowed.

Overproduction in past years sending the price down to less than 10 cents a pound probably is keeping Texas farmers from raising more hogs, Neel said.

"It is estimated that at present growers could easily expand their pork production from 1 1/2 to 4 million hogs per year without fear of feed shortages," he said.

Hogs thrive on sorghum as well as they do on corn, Neel said. Texas produced about 40 per cent of the U.S. total sorghum in 1957, which Neel says should be used for more hog production.

Hale County which led the state with 11 million bushels of sorghum harvested in 1954, also was a leader in hog production with more than 7,000 hogs and pigs.

Deep East Texas is the major pork area out of the sorghum producing sections. Included are Jasper, Newton, Polk, Tyler and Hardin counties where 5,000 to 10,000 hogs and pigs were on farms in each county.

Stockyards in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, El Paso and San Antonio are of special importance to hog production, Neel said. The Fort Worth stockyard, he said, "is outstanding as a hog market."

Its hog volume has averaged about 200,000 head annually while San Antonio has averaged about 70,000 and Houston about 11,000."

W. C. Underwood Asks Re-Election

GARDEN CITY (SC)—W. C. (Pete) Underwood announced here Saturday that he would enter the Democratic primary again seeking the nomination as justice of peace.

A resident of Glasscock County for approximately 45 years, he has served as the justice of peace in Glasscock County for more than eight years.

"I have endeavored and will continue to give prompt and impartial service and will cooperate with all officials," said Underwood. "I will always be considerate and understanding of the rights of all."

Street Repairs Slated Monday

The city is ready to start the downtown paving work, and again barring bad weather, the city manager announced Saturday that work would begin Monday.

The city had planned for the work to start last Monday, but freezing rain and low temperatures all last week prevented the contractor, W. D. Caldwell, from laying the hot mix surfacing.

Under the city's specifications, no work can be done with the mercury below 40 degrees, when the mercury is falling.

All the 16 1/2 blocks to be paved have been "scalped" by the city, and a large part of the repair work to the base has been done.

New Sports Editor On Houston Paper

HOUSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Dick Peebles will join the Houston Chronicle Monday as executive sports editor.

Peebles has been sports editor of the San Antonio Express since 1946.

The Chronicle said Peebles will assume active direction of the Chronicle's sports department and cover major sports assignments.

Dick Freeman, veteran sports editor, will continue in that capacity.

Knife & Fork Members To Hear Fielding Talk Monday

A former captain of the Indian army, born of English-Irish parents, and now an American citizen who has been forecasting coming events since World War II with amazing accuracy, Michael Fielding, journalist, world traveler, observer and noted author, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Big Spring Knife and Fork Club at the Settles Hotel. Dinner is at 7 p.m. Monday.

Born in India in 1896, and fighting in the Indian Army during World War I, Fielding achieved his rank of captain before leaving the army in 1920 when he decided to come to the United States.

Fielding's observations based on knowledge of current trends in many parts of the world where he has visited during the past dozen years, have led him to state that World War III is not inevitable as some of the political observers have led us to believe.

The former captain of the Indian army has achieved a record of being about 95 per cent correct on

HCJC Within Budget Outlay

January disbursements at Howard County Junior College amounted to $37,942.30, or $29,475.73 less than receipts for the month, according to the monthly financial statement approved by the board.

The rate of expenditure was normal and brought the total from the general fund to $180,201.35 for the year. There were no interest and sinking fund payments for the month, leaving the year's total at $24,863.50. Balance in this fund was $47,155.67, which is within about $3,000 of the amount required for the remainder of the year.

General fund balance at the end of January was $107,610.54. The state and county fund contained $44,532.78; the building and equipment fund $4,000.

Receipts of $67,418.03 during January included $41,737 in state subsidy and $13,285.60 in regular tuition. Local taxes accounted for $4,894.87, the bookstore $3,060.20, the athletic program $1,282. Re-

Alert Telephone Operator Saves Family From Gas

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Feb. 15.—A little boy's cry over the telephone "I want my daddy" was translated into life-saving action by an alert telephone operator last night, who summoned help for a family of five on the verge of asphyxiation.

When asked about Schwartz's allegations of White House pressure, Harris said the former subcommittee counsel "will have an opportunity to present that." He said Schwartz would be on the stand, starting Monday, to "clean up" questions still pending from Schwartz's lengthy testimony Thursday.

Blizzard Halts Recovery Of Four Buried In Slides

OURAY, Colo., Feb. 15 (AP)—A blizzard and the threat of new slides cut short an attempt today to find the bodies of four men buried beneath two avalanches.

Blizzard conditions prevented bulldozers in three snow-covered areas. It is too dangerous. A dozen workers dug a cliff path three-quarters of a mile closer to two spots where the huge snowslides yesterday swallowed up the men.

Heart Fund Seeks Financial Backing

More than 800,000 Americans died in 1957 because a tiny pump, no larger than your fist, developed a fatal malfunction. Thus heart disease or heart attack maintained its record as the nation's No. 1 health problem, accounting for 54 per cent of all deaths.

Research is seeking the answer to the questions of what causes arteries of the heart to become thickened, roughened and narrowed so that the stage is set for "heart attack"; of what mechanisms are responsible for abnormal constriction of tiny ends of arteries and raising of blood pressure; of what is the process through which "strep" infection leads to rheumatic fever, and consequently to rheumatic heart disease.

pressure and rheumatic fever — cause more than 90 per cent of all heart disease. Knowledge of these mysteries can be obtained only through laborious, time-taking, basic research in which trained scientists are free to investigate every potential source of information.

development of new and better methods, drugs, surgical procedures to bring relief or near-normal living to those who already have suffered from heart disease. This is why the Howard County chapter is stepping up its appeal for the Heart Fund this year.

THE THREE R'S—TODAY'S VERSION

Testing Program Makes For Sound Curriculum

By WAYLAND YATES

No school system is any stronger than its testing program. That's the belief of a great many educators, and the three men engaged in testing and counseling in the Big Spring schools heartily concur.

"Without a good testing program," they ask, "how can you know where you are, where you're going, or what your needs are?" The three counselors here also believe Big Spring has a start on a good testing and counseling program, although they are the first to admit it has some weaknesses.

Their principal problem is the large number of pupils they must serve. It is generally recommended that a school system have one counselor for each 300 students. The three counselors here must work with more than 5,000 pupils.

However, Big Spring schools are more adequately staffed than most other Texas schools. The system here has three of only 261 certified counselors in Texas.

The testing program here is coordinated throughout the 12 grades of public school. It starts with "readiness" tests when a child enters the first grade and is gradually expanded to cover achievement, intelligence, abilities in the various fields of study, interests and preferences.

Foundation of all counseling of course is the testing. And the general objective of the entire program is to provide social, emotional, educational and vocational assistance to the individual student.

Interpretation of test results is probably the most vital phase of the program. For, counselors point out, the wrong interpretation could result in harm that could never be corrected.

Correct application of the test data also is a critical function. This must be accomplished on an individual basis — not on the "group" level, the counselors emphasize.

Although Big Spring has had counselors at various levels in the school system for a number of years, this is the first time in several years that counselors have been on duty simultaneously at elementary, junior high and high school stages.

The counselors are Norbert Zabel for the elementary system, William F. Williams at junior high, and Bennie Pierson at the high school. Williams and Pierson also double as assistant principals in their respective schools.

The coordinated testing and counseling program begins, of course, with Zabel, who administers the first tests. He starts with the "readiness" tests for the beginning pupils. This is followed by group intelligence tests, also in the fall, and general achievement tests in the spring term.

Intelligence and achievement tests are given again in the second grade, and in the third grade a "social maturity" test is being given this year. However, a "state-of-facts" concerning the individual child's behavior, personality patterns, etc., may replace the social maturity tests.

Standardized, authoritative achievement tests are administered each year through elementary school, as are intelligence tests. Junior inventory tests are added at the fifth grade.

These take in health, the pupil's ability to get along with other people, and provide data on the child's evaluation of himself, his home and his school. This is the basis for social and personality studies which become increasingly significant as the child progresses.

Teachers are especially cooperative in attempting to fit the educational program to individual pupil needs, as shown by the tests, Zabel said.

To show how results of the testing program are applied, Zabel outlined the testing program of the early grades.

The tests given in the fall show the various pupils' strengths and weaknesses in the different school subjects.

"In other words, they show us where each child stands," he said. "This enables the teacher to group pupils for more effective instruction, and permits her to conduct interviews with parents.

The achievement tests in the spring furnish the teacher with a measure of the accomplishments of each child.

The teacher also is able to choose books to fit the interests and vocabulary levels of the different students.

In the elementary schools, tests are administered, scored and recorded by the counselor, but, Zabel points out, the results must be applied by teacher, students and parents to be fully effective.

Parents have standing invitations to confer with the teacher of their child or with counselors. A similar pattern is followed in junior high school where Williams first tests beginning pupils to determine deficiencies which may not have been discovered in the elementary grades. Subsequent tests are used to measure progress. For those found weak in certain fields, the junior high now has three special classes to help bolster weaknesses.

Classes are provided for pupils with deficiencies in English (taught by Marie Carter), mathematics (taught by Mayme Clanton), and reading (taught by Joy Corbin).

Williams points out that weaknesses in the fields probably were discernible in the elementary schools, but no special remedial program is provided at that level. And he says additional special classes, which run for only one semester, are needed in junior high.

The junior high counselor is available at all times for conferences with individual pupils, although he makes no effort to schedule the individual interviews with the 1,283 junior high pupils.

However, he plans to confer privately with each freshman student this spring to tentatively plan a schedule of courses for the high school grades.

Bulk of the testing is completed by the eighth grade, although personal interest, vocational preference, and language abilities tests are given in the last four grades, along with some achievement and intelligence tests and special examination where a need is seen.

MUST BE CONSISTENT All the counselors agree that consistency in the testing program is essential if the over-all results are to be evaluated. As a result, only standardized, nationally-accepted tests are employed.

This not only enables counselors, teachers and administrators to evaluate an individual student's progress, but also shows how the achievement level of the local schools compares with what is termed the national "norm."

Last year, for example, achievement tests showed the Big Spring system failed to measure up to the "norm" in arithmetic. As a result of that discovery, steps have been taken which officials hope will provide a stronger arithmetic program.

Counselors, while recognizing the lack of funds and scarcity of personnel of the type needed in a good counseling program, have several recommendations for improvement of the local program. One, of course, is additional personnel to help serve the burgeoning school population. Another is establishment of better student-professional libraries for benefit of teachers. Zabel suggests at least one such library for each school, to contain source books, professional journals, and other materials to guide and assist the teacher.

Williams also points to the lack of counseling facilities at the junior high, where the counselor occupies a corner of a room which also contains "offices" of several other officials. However, Williams expects that situation to be improved next year when the city's junior high goes into operation.

Counselors and administrators recognize the need for a special curriculum for "gifted" students. They are studying that problem, along with enlargement and improvement of the program for handicapped children.

Williams appeared to sum up the attitude of all three Big Spring counselors toward their work with this statement: "I believe we have the makings of a good program here. I see no reason why we can't rank in the top three or four school systems in the state with our program in the next year or two."

A&M Official Sets Talk Here Thursday

Fred Benson, dean of engineering at Texas A&M College, will address the Permian Basin chapter of Texas Society of Professional Engineers here Thursday.

The meeting will highlight the observance of national Engineers Week in this area.

Louis J. Thompson, vice president of the chapter, said a large number of visitors were expected from throughout the chapter's 19-county territory.

Mayor G. W. Dabney issued a proclamation taking official recognition of the special observance, noting that "the tremendous importance of an adequate supply of well-trained engineers has been demonstrated over and over again in the last two decades. We have been reminded once again by the hurling of missiles into space of the need for disciplined technical minds. It is significant, therefore, that the emphasis in Engineers Week this year is upon education."

Benson, who is a member of the firm of Benson-Thompson-Nash of Big Spring and Bryan, is to speak on "Engineering Education" before the gathering at 7:30 p.m. in the Wagon Wheel.

He served as vice director of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, having been made dean of engineering Dec. 1. Benson joined A&M in 1937 as an instructor and has been an assistant, associate and professor on the faculty, a research engineer and executive officer of the Texas Transportation Institute. He is a 1933 graduate of Kansas State College and holds his M.S. degree from Texas A&M. During the war he saw service in the Civil Engineering Corps of the U. S. Navy.

In the Permian Basin chapter of TSPe there are 274 registered professional engineers. Twenty-one of these are in Big Spring, 155 in Midland, 51 in Odessa and the others distributed among nine cities.

Chapter officers are K. E. McFarland, Midland, president; Thompson, vice president; S. W. Howell, Midland, secretary-treasurer; K. E. Esmond, Odessa, state director; R. L. Fallinson, Odessa, state director at large; Paul Kasch, Wilton A. Walker, D. E. O'Neal, Odessa, and W. H. Herndon, Midland, chapter directors.

Unemployment Showing Gain This Month

An average of 165 claims for unemployment compensation are being lodged with the Big Spring office of the Texas Employment Commission. Last week, 177 such claims were filed and the week before 165 claims.

February, as it is now shaping up, will show a heavier trend toward unemployment than January in the opinion of Leon M. Kinney, in charge of the office.

There is also a slight increase in the number of applicants for employment. Last week, there were 73 new names added to the TEC list of persons in need of work. However, the week saw 58 persons placed on jobs. Kinney explained that 20 of these were employed by the military authorities at Webb Air Force Base for some sort of street work at the base.

The first week in February saw 110 persons apply for employment which was a considerable increase over the last week in January. Kinney said that the average of 165 per week seeking unemployment insurance payments has prevailed consistently since Jan. 1.

He also pointed out that farmers are still pleading for workers and that persons interested in this kind of employment can be provided with jobs. He said there were some placements in this field on the heels of an announcement a week or so ago for workers but that the demand is still existent.

Armed Man Is Arrested At Truman Home

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Feb. 15 (AP)—An armed man was arrested today at the Harry S. Truman Library after he had made an unsuccessful attempt to gain admittance to the former President's home.

Mike Westwood of the Independence Police Department said the man told him he had talked to Truman yesterday about employment. He was quoted as saying he had not finished his discussion with the former President and wanted to see him again.

Westwood said the man gave his name as Richard Paul Goff, 33, Elton, Pa. He said he had been a personnel director at a hospital in Crescon, Pa.

He was carrying a foreign-made automatic pistol.

Employment Group Sets Meeting Here

Big Spring will be host to the San Angelo chapter of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security on March 21-22.

The two-day institute will be sponsored by Howard County Junior College, said Leon Kinney, Texas Employment Commission manager. The importance of communications will be stressed in the various talks and panels, said Kinney.

Parents, Teachers Invited To Inspect Book Display

Parents and others interested in good books for children are invited to inspect a special display of 600 new and recent volumes this week.

This display will be at College Heights elementary school Monday through Friday from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m., according to Ruth Beasley, junior high librarian. Teachers in schools outside of Big Spring plan to visit the displays as well as local teachers. Refreshments will be served by the P-TA units.

There will be no sales, nor will any orders be taken, explained Miss Beasley. The primary purpose is to afford parents and teachers an opportunity to handle the books which cover 32 subject categories and extend from the kindergarten through high school. Both fiction and non-fiction are represented.

A complete graded and annotated catalogue of the exhibit is available for free distribution to teachers, librarians and other school people.

The books on exhibits represent a cooperative enterprise of the country's leading publishers. The arrangement is such that teachers or parents could make selections easily.

Among the subjects covered are adventure, aeronautics, animals, arts, biography, careers, classics, conservation, exploration, fairy tales and folklore, fiction, foreign lands, games and parties, geography, history, hobbies, activities, Indians, information intercultural relations, inventions, language, nature, picture books, pioneer life, religion, science, ships, social studies, sports, story books, transportation, verse.

ALL-DAY CONFERENCE TUESDAY

Speakers To Arrive Monday For 'Agri-Business' Program

Some of the state's leading authorities on agriculture and business are to arrive here Monday for the all-day "Agri-Business Conference" to be held at Howard County Junior College Tuesday.

Ralph White, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Agriculture and Livestock Committee, said a breakfast honoring the battery of speakers will be held at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Wagon Wheel Restaurant. White is in charge of local arrangements for the conference, one of only two planned for this section of the state. The other meeting will take place at Colorado City Wednesday.

Programs for the two conferences are almost identical.

A crowd of from 200 to 300 farmers, stockmen and business operators are expected for the HCJC gathering, White said. The local Chamber of Commerce will serve a free barbecue lunch to everyone attending.

Loyan Walker, manager of the Agricultural Department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is expected to preside at the conference. Speakers and their topics will be:

Charlie Thompson, Colorado City banker and chairman of the board for the Federal Land Bank at Houston, "Farm Credit Problems."

C. B. Spencer, Dallas, educational director for the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association, "The Future of Cotton."

Paul Marion, Spur, superintendent of the Spur Experiment Station, "Utilization of Home Grown Feed for Livestock."

Charles Casebolt, Lubbock, West Texas representative for the DeKalb Agricultural Association, "Grain Sorghum and Its Problems."

Jack Bond, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Bushland, "Land Management in Predominantly Dry Areas."

V. G. Young, College Station, state farm agent, "Agriculture Today and Tomorrow in West Texas."

Dr. J. E. Hogan, president of the local Chamber, will welcome guests to the conference. Also on hand will be C. B. Senter, manager of the T&P Railway Co.'s agricultural division.

Invitations have been mailed to all Howard County farmers and stockmen, and White said Saturday that all local businessmen are being urged to participate.

Sponsors of the conference are the local Chamber, Texas & Pacific Railway Co., WTCC, and several state and federal agricultural agencies. Expenses of the activity will be paid out of the "projects budget" of the Big Spring Chamber.

Directors To Study Budget For C Of C

A proposed budget for this year will be submitted to Chamber of Commerce directors at their session Monday.

The board also will hear a recommendation that the Chamber oppose a proposed amendment to the Robinson-Patman Act which makes "good faith" an absolute defense in federal anti-trust cases where price discrimination is alleged.

Legislative Committee of the Chamber will recommend that the directors adopt a resolution opposing the amendment which would make the "good faith" defense applicable only in cases where alleged price discrimination "does not substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly."

The budget proposal will be submitted by Dr. J. E. Hogan, president, and J. R. Hensley, treasurer of the Chamber. It has the endorsement of the Chamber's Executive Committee.

Ralph White, chairman of the Agriculture and Livestock Committee, will tell directors of plans for the "Agri-Business Conference" to be staged Tuesday. Walker-Bailey, Rural Relations Committee chairman, will report on plans for a goodwill dinner at Elbow Feb. 25.

Directors will meet at noon Monday in the Chamber offices in the Permalin Building.

Garlington Case To Be Appealed Again

Garlington et al versus Wasson et al, historic lawsuit over title to several sections of Howard County land, is soon to be on its way to the Texas Court of Civil Appeals once more.

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, Friday sustained a plea for abatement advanced by Clyde Thomas, attorney for the defendant, in a new legal effort by J. S. Garlington to regain title to the land in question.

This resulted in formal announcement that the case would be appealed.

The case heard Friday was an effort to prove that preceding actions in the case which began in 1939 were invalid and that Garlington, a former Howard County judge, should be restored to possession of the land.

The hearing dragged through three hours in the court. No witnesses were presented and the session was devoted solely to legal argument by the attorneys.

The litigation between Garlington and A. L. Wasson first developed in 1939. Garlington had borrowed $5,000 from Wasson as down payment on the land in question. He did not repay the debt and Wasson acquired the notes for the other unpaid balance due on the property.

The law suits which have been heard in every court including the U. S. Supreme Court since that date have been based on contention of the plaintiff that he should have title to the land.

One trial set a record for time consumed in a single case in the local court. It required 13 days to complete.

Plea For Atheism

Laws Issues Statement On Candidacy For City Office

O. W. Laws, in announcing his candidacy for the City Commission, said that his 14 years on the fire department will help him better understand city affairs.

Laws, now employed by S&M Lumber Co., has lived in Big Spring for 18 years and has resided in Howard County for 34 years.

"Being closely associated with the city as a fireman, I was closely associated with the city hall," said Laws. "That being the case, I was able to hear much of the trials and troubles of the employees of other departments as well as the citizens of Big Spring."

"I feel that I am able to cope with every phase of the city's problems. But while the business side of our city must go on, we should take time to see how the manual side is managed."

Laws said that there must be a close working relationship between the several hundred men and women employed by the city and the heads of departments, with none being dominated because of race or religion. He stated that religion should not be given priority over an employee's position.

"If I am given your support,"

O. W. LAWS
Laws stated, "I will do my part to see that the church does not dominate civic affairs. Also, if city employees desire Civil Service and organized labor, I will do my part to help them get it."

H-SU Receives $20,000 Gift

ABILENE, Feb. 15—Hardin-Simmons University has received an anonymous gift of $20,000 to be applied to the university's current operating fund. H-SU President Evan Allard Reiff has announced.

The gift of $20,000 brings to $80,000 the total amount of donations given to Hardin-Simmons University by the anonymous benefactor. The previous $60,000 was applied to the erection of Behrens Hall, new dormitory for women. The dormitory, which houses freshmen women, is debt free.

"This donor, who has preferred to remain anonymous, is a West Texas citizen of distinction who has a genuine interest in seeing that young people may receive sound Christian education," Dr. Reiff said.

Dr. Reiff also announced a bequest of $10,000 from the estate of the late Dr. E. B. Atwood, longtime member and head of the H-SU Bible department. It will be used to establish a scholarship at the university to memorialize Mabel Bagby Atwood, wife of Dr. Atwood. She died in 1954 and Dr. Atwood in 1957.

Jury Panel Called For Criminal Cases

Sixty persons have been notified to report to 118th District Court at 10 a.m. Monday for duty as jurors this week in the trial of criminal cases.

Judge Charlie Sullivan will qualify the jurors at 10 a.m. Immediately afterward, the first of 12 cases tentatively slated for trial will be called. It was not definite Saturday which case would be the first to come to bat when court begins.

Gil Jones, district attorney, said that it was possible one or two pleas of guilty would be heard before the court begins. Some of the defendants who are booked for trial have been considering the advisability of entering guilty pleas he said.

Jones has docketed 12 cases for the week but it was pointed out that it would be impossible to try that many criminal matters in a single week.

"If we can dispose of four," said Jones. "I will be well pleased."

All 12 of the cases on trial are products of the recent grand jury session which returned 49 indictments. Of the original 47 persons indicted more than 20 indictments have been terminated by the defendants entering pleas of guilty. The 12 cases which are listed for trial include:

Orville J. Key, indicted as habitual offender; Fred Snowden, forgery; T. L. Davis, habitual offender; Troy Melgene Whitfield, DWI second offense; Francis Eugene Seale, DWI second offense;

Thomas Jefferson O'Haver, DWI second offense; Israel Ortega, burglary; James Henry Shelton, burglary; David Wright Stafford Jr., arson; Lewis Cavallas, Leandre Cavallas and Narciso Cavallas, theft.

Jones pointed out that the two habitual offender indictments constitute the gravest offenses on the list. Under state law, if a person is found guilty on an indictment of this character, the penalty is automatic life imprisonment.

The three Cavallas are charged with theft in the indictment and actually accused of stealing four roosters. The case will be one of the first in a great many years in district court where the defendants are to be tried for stealing chickens.

Texas law makes chicken theft a felony.

None Hurt In Mishaps

Highway Patrol Officers reported investigating two accidents on Friday.

The first occurred at 7:45 a.m. 16 1/2 miles northeast of Big Spring in front of Gay Hill school.

Thomas A. Norman, 37, Veal-moor route, was in a Ford pickup and was travelling south. His truck and a car driven by Oscar G. Ovalle, 15, Gall route, collided. Ovalle was en route to a basketball game, the patrol said.

Norman suffered a minor cut on the lip.

A young girl, whose name was not learned, was in the car with Ovalle and was thrown against the windshield by the impact. She was not seriously hurt.

A second mishap occurred at 12:50 p.m. 1.7 miles west on U. S. 80.

Johnnie L. Darnell, 55, Odessa, was en route to a hospital where his wife was to be admitted as a patient.

His car and that of Delton H. Rudolph, 24, Big Spring, collided and damage was limited to the vehicles. Darnell's car suffered $100 damages and that of Rudolph, $40.

An ambulance was called and Mrs. Darnell continued on her journey to the hospital in this vehicle. The patrol said that she suffered no injury in the crash, however.

It takes a GIANT to quench a 36-billion-gallon thirst

The man who asks, "Fill 'er up, sir?", is one of thousands of friendly operators and attendants of the more than 182,000 service stations across the country. Together, they pumped over 36 billion gallons of gasoline and poured almost a half billion gallons of motor oil into passenger cars in 1957.

Over 58,000,000 newspapers are bought daily by people who thirst for news and buy from newspaper advertising. That's one of the reasons why dealers, jobbers and manufacturers of petroleum, like so many other sellers of goods, place more money in newspapers than in any other medium.

Processing, distributing and retailing petroleum products is a gigantic job requiring the services of men, machines and media. Highest on the list of advertising media are newspapers—a giant that keeps the public informed of the quality of these products.

If you have a thirst for sales, you can quench it quicker and with much more satisfaction in the action medium—the action-packed daily newspaper.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.

Texas Has Advance In Major Crimes

AUSTIN, Feb. 15 (AP)—Texas' major crime rate was up 9.2 per cent in 1957, the new State Law Enforcement Study Commission heard today.

Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr. said murder led the increase with a 25.2 per cent rise. He said 1,064 persons were killed last year—11.8 persons out of every 100,000 Texans.

Commission Chairman John Crooker Sr., former Houston district attorney, agreed with Garrison that public attitude toward law enforcement needs to be changed.

"You get in law enforcement what people demand," Crooker said. "We must arouse public sentiment."

The commission's main job is to study criminal procedure and laws and suggest to the Legislature ways to improve crime prevention and law enforcement.

The commission adopted Gov. Price Daniel's suggestion that it work closely with the Texas Youth Council in an effort to determine how to cut down juvenile crime. "Juvenile crime is one of Texas' most critical problems today," Daniel said. "Forty-six per cent of the major crimes in this state during 1956 were committed by boys and girls 17 years old and younger."

Garrison said the figure was 50 per cent in 1957.

"We need more respect toward law enforcement officials," Garrison said. "There were a total of 154,000 major crimes in Texas last year by juveniles and adults. There were 141,790 major crimes in 1956, which recorded an 11 per cent increase over 1955."

He said there were 1,189 estimated rape offenses, a 3.4 per cent decrease over 1956.

Other major crimes totaled: robbery 2,711, up 10.4 per cent; burglary 38,738, up 6.3 per cent; aggravated assault 8,287, down 4.1 per cent; theft $7,614, up 10.3 per cent; and auto theft, 15,170, up 17.8 per cent.

"The viciousness of juvenile crime is what concerns us so much today," Garrison said. "It is interesting to note Texas spent $1 per person for education and $1.40 per person for crime prevention, and crime cost each family an estimated $195."

Garrison told the commission that to improve law enforcement, Texas needed:

1. An increase in police forces on the state level, which is half the desired minimum strength, and also on the local level.

2. Speed and certainty of prosecution and a more extensive parole system.

Texas Youth Council Executive Director Jack Thurman told the commission its correctional school for boys juveniles at Gatesville "is our most pressing problem."

He said 898 boys are confined there in facilities available for only 650.

Forsan Club Hears Dr. Hunt

FORSAN, Feb. 15—Work awaiting the Howard County Hale-Aikin Committee for the study of school problems was discussed by Dr. W. A. Hunt, Howard County Junior College president, at the meeting of the Forsan Service Club Thursday evening.

A motion picture concerning hunting dogs was shown, and the club made plans for a "ladies night" banquet for Feb. 27. Members also chose a committee to determine what improvements shall be made on the community club house which was moved into town last week. On the committee are O. W. Scudday, C. C. Brunton, D. M. Bardwell and T. T. Henry.

James Blake, basketball coach at the local high school, announced plans for the playoff games between Forsan and Garden City—the first to be held here, the second at Garden City, and the third, if required, at HCJC in Big Spring.

Guests included Hubert Crumley of Doole, and Jack Smith and Dee Foster of Big Spring.

Field Activity In High Gear

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 8 (AP)—Field activity in Texas moved into high gear during the week in areas where soil conditions permitted farmers to catch up with their work, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

Director John Hutchinson said district agricultural agents report seedbed preparation in the Panhandle, far West Texas and in other scattered upland areas. But he said generally the eastern half of the state needs more warm, dry weather, especially the soggy fields near the Gulf Coast.

Low temperatures earlier and too much water have retarded small grain growth and made grazing difficult for livestock, he added. Livestock is in generally fair to good condition, but feeding is increasing.

Ranchers trying to restock after the prolonged drought are finding it a slow go due to scarcity of stocker cattle and high prices. Those able to hold on earlier have excellent prospects.

Conditions in the Panhandle have been very favorable for wheat and cattle, and land preparation has been going forward at a rapid pace. Moisture is fair to good except in the northern tier.

In the South Plains W. H. Jones said at Lubbock that cold weather and wet soil has allowed very little field work. Wheat is growing nicely.

Most farm land in far West Texas is about ready for pre-irrigation and planting spring crops. Livestock is mostly in good condition with more feeding on way.

Restocking ranges in the Edwards Plateau is in progress, but slow because of high prices, Roy Huckabee said at San Angelo. The outlook for livestock, ranges and a small grain crop is excellent. Warmer weather would mean added vegetative growth. Livestock is in fair to good condition. There's some feeding.

Methodist Men Raise Scout Funds

Boy Scout Troop 9, Post 9, and Cub Pack 109 will have about $200 added to their treasury this week, thanks to Wesley Methodist Men and their benefit chili supper Thursday night at Wesley Church.

Every year the men sponsor the chili supper and a pancake party to build up funds for the Scout work which the church sponsors. A large crowd turned out for the Thursday night event.

The men of the church will have a regular meeting at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 in Fellowship Hall. Officers for the year beginning in March will be elected.

Gen. Schriever Will Talk At Texas A&M

Knowland Opposed To GOP's Taking Houston Dinner Funds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said today he is opposed to acceptance by the GOP Congressional Campaign Committees of any of the $100,000 raised at Houston, Tex., dinner last week.

At the same time Sen. Williams (R-De) said he thinks reaction to the methods used by Texas GOP National Committeeman H. J. Porter in staging the affair may force a Senate showdown on Williams' proposal to cut the oil depletion allowance from 27 1/2 to 15 per cent.

Republican National Chairman Meade ALCORN, backed by President Eisenhower, said the GOP National Committee would not accept the $100,000 because Porter had urged contributors to show their appreciation of past and prospective future support of the Natural Gas Bill by Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, House minority leader.

Chairman Schoeppel (R-Kan) and Simpson (R-Pa) of the Senatorial and House Campaign Committees joined in condemning Porter for an action they said put Martin in a false light.

But the two chairmen said that if the Texas Republican State Finance Committee wants to contribute to the congressional campaign groups, they would not reject funds from that source.

In Houston, Porter said he is standing on his previous statement that the $100,000 will go to the state committee "if the national committee doesn't want it."

There was no indication whether the money would be requested from other funds that may be raised to meet the $101,000 quota the national committee still maintains on its books as expected Texas contributions to the Republicans' overall $3,600,000 campaign budget for 1958. Porter said that without the $100,000 the state committee has a deficit from the 1956 campaign.

Knowland, who is seeking the governorship of California, said he doesn't believe any of the political funds from the Houston dinner "will or should be turned over either to the national committee or the campaign committees."

"The letter in question should never have been written by Mr. Porter, and it would be a mistake for any funds raised at this dinner to be used—directly or indirectly—by any of the three committees," Knowland said.

He said on the other hand that "if the fine people of Texas want to make contributions through the regularly established channel of the State Finance Committee, I don't want to indict the Republican organization in Texas for sharing its responsibility in raising campaign funds."

George Zachariah Offers For City Commission Post

George J. Zachariah, purchasing agent for Cosden Petroleum Corporation, Saturday announced he is submitting his name as a candidate for the City Commission, in the municipal election of April 1.

Zachariah, resident of the city since 1940—when Cosden moved its general offices here from Fort Worth—has been identified with many civic endeavors.

He is currently president of the Howard County Society for Crippled Children and Adults and is vice chairman of the Howard-Glasscock Chapter of the National Society for Infantile Paralysis.

He is a past president of the Howard County American Legion Post and a past president of the local American Business Club. He is a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and has membership in the Elks Lodge, Country Club, Western Sportsmen's Club, and Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club.

Zachariah has worked on details of office organization for the United Fund ever since that organization was established. Graduate of high school in Baton Rouge, La., Zachariah holds a B. S. degree from Louisiana State University, with a major in accounting, and also had night courses at Texas Christian University. He and Mrs. Zachariah reside at 1201 South Monticello, plan to move soon into a recently-purchased residence at 513 Hillside.

Zachariah made this statement concerning his candidacy: "Big Spring will inevitably grow as part of a growing area. Whether that growth is planned or not is today's most important issue. "Under a new and alert leadership, the Chamber of Commerce is already committed to a progressive program for both the present and the future, including bringing in new local industries. "Construction of a new county airport and expansion of the Colorado River Water District facilities are evidences of present growth bringing new responsibilities for consideration by the city.

"In a thoughtful and humble spirit my name is being submitted as a candidate for city commissioner with only one purpose in mind. That purpose is to perform to the best of my ability for the best interest of Big Spring, not my native but my adopted home.

"It is upon this platform, if it may be called one, that your vote and support are earnestly solicited. God willing, it is my hope you shall never find me unworthy of your confidence."

Red-Hot Hawks Kayo Amarillo

AMARILLO, Feb. 15 (SC) — The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks kept alive their faint hopes for a second place finish in West Zone basketball standings by racing past Amarillo JC here Saturday night, 79-60.

The win was their second in conference play, compared to four losses, and enabled them to tie Amarillo for fourth place. The Hawks lost Friday night to Clarendon, 86-78.

Overall, the Big Spring club has now won 19, compared to eight losses. They will seek their 20th victory in a game against league leader Frank Phillips in Big Spring Tuesday night, then close out regular play on Friday against Odessa JC.

The Hawks jumped off to a 10-4 lead over Amarillo early in the game and were out front, 23-8, after ten minutes of activity. By half time, it was 50-30.

Coach Harold Davis made liberal use of his substitutes in the final 20 minutes. The Hawks failed to connect a point in the final three minutes of play but it didn't matter.

With three minutes to go, the Big Springers boasted a 29-point lead. They hit 22 of the 38 shots from the field the first half for a 58 per cent average.

Benny Carver, who experienced a fine road trip, scored 21 points while Larry Gore counted 13, Tommy Zinn 12 and Bill Borries 11.

Dale Tarbet led Amarillo with 22 points, while Royce Hardway tallied 20. The Hawks held Jimmy Bevers to one field goal.

Against Clarendon, the Hawks had much the better of the argument from the field but Clarendon made 28 of 36 free shots to finish in front.

The Bulldogs committed only 12 fouls during the game, six in each half, and the Hawks did not connect on a 1-1 shot all night.

In that game, HCJC had a 61.8 shooting average in the last half, after getting 44 per cent the first half. Overall, their average was 54 per cent, compared to 59 for Clarendon, which now has a 3-4 league record.

HCJC outshot the Bulldogs from the field, 34-29.

Carver led HC with 17 points while Gore and Borries each had 14. Borries hit five of five tries from the field.

Steve Jarnigan counted 26 points for the Bulldogs, who lost to HC by one point in Big Spring.

Gore came down with ten rebounds against Clarendon and 11 against Amarillo. Woodruff had ten in the Amarillo game, as did Zinn.

Sime Winner At 60 Yards

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP) — Ron Delany outspurred Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary tonight and won the Baxter Mile in a low 4:10, at the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden.

It was Delany's 20th indoor victory in a row at the mile and perhaps his strangest. It also was the slowest of the year.

It was a tactical race all the way. Rozsavolgyi, the Hungarian world record holder at the 1,000, 1,500 and 2,000 meters who arrived here Thursday, tried to steal the race by outspurring Delany at the end.

Perry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker, smashed his own listed world indoor record in the shot put with a heavy of 61 feet 5 1/2 inches.

That was a quarter of an inch better than the standard he set in 1956. However, last week in Frankfurt, Germany, O'Brien, who holds every shotput record in the book, got off to a loss of 61.874. That hasn't been officially accepted yet, purely because the international federation doesn't meet until the end of the year to act on new records.

Dave Sime, the tall redhead from Duke, won the 60-yard dash in 6.2 seconds, overtaking—as usual—his opposition in the last 20 yards.

Lt. Ken Kave of the U. S. Army was second, not more than a couple of inches behind Sime and Mel Barnwell of Pitt was third.

Elias Gilbert of Winston Salem (N.C.) Teachers captured the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.4. Al Hindorff of Georgetown was second and coming fast at the end.

Tom Murphy of Manhattan won the Matt Halpin half mile in 1:52.6 taking over the lead with a lap to go and lengthening his advantage with every stride until he had a margin of about 10 yards over North Carolina's Dave Scurluck at the end.

Smashes Record NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Perry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker, smashed his own listed indoor world record in the shotput tonight with a heavy of 61 feet 5 1/2 inches in the New York Athletic Club Games.

Odds Against The Slugger NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—What's the chance of your favorite home run slugger delivering his specialty in a given time at bat? The odds are probably about 25-1.

But if he happens to be either Eddie Mathews, Ted Williams or Willie Mays the possibility is not so remote.

Mathews, in fact, is most apt to do it. The hard-hitting Milwaukee third baseman has walloped 222 homers in 3,206 times at bat. That means he has hit one home run for every 14.4 official trips. This is the best lifetime record among active major league players.

Williams is next with a lifetime aggregate of 456 homers in 6,713 at bats and a 14.7 average. Mays, the San Francisco Giants' star, follows with 155. Willie has 187 circuit blows in 2,899 official trips.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Hank Sauer of San Francisco are tied for fourth place. They have hit a home run for each 16.5 times at bat.

When Babe Ruth had 60 homers in 1927 to set the big league mark, he connected once in every nine official times at bat. And during his brilliant career, the Bambino compiled 714 homers, 8,299 tries for an 11.8 lifetime average.

Jimmy Fox, who is next to the Babe in career homers with 534, drove one out of the park once in each 15.2 attempts. All-time leader, Ted Williams, delivered one of his specialties in each 18.3 tries.

Behind the top five among the active big leaguers come Duke Snider of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who has hit a homer in every 16.8 times at bat. Snider is followed by Gus Zernial of Detroit, 17.2; Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, 7.3; Roy Campanella of

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Texas A&M football team for the first time tonight and told the Aggies he believes Texas athletes will like his single wing formation.

The new A&M head football coach introduced his staff of assistants at the annual Winter Sports Banquet honoring the 1957 football and cross-country teams.

"It has been amazing the way high school coaches and athletes in Texas have received us," Myers said. "They have the idea the single wing is something from outer space. I believe everything will work out fine I want to win just as much as anyone else."

John Crow, Heisman trophy winner from Springhill, La., received the top individual award presented at the banquet.

Raiders Upset Porkers; Rice Is Surprised

LUBBOCK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Texas Tech jumped into a second place tie in the Southwest Conference basketball race by thrashing front-running Arkansas 69-48 before a record-shattering crowd of 10,220 in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum tonight.

Arkansas still leads the race with a 7-3 record while Rice and Texas Tech are now 6-3 in Southwest Conference play.

Charley Lynch paced the Raiders with 24 points and was the game's leading rebounder with 12. Defensively, Lynch held the Razorbacks' Fred Grim to 8 points, 10 fewer than his average in conference play.

Arkansas lost the backboard battle to the Red Raiders 50-40. Lynch's three-point play with five minutes elapsed sent Tech ahead 5-4 and the Raiders never relinquished the lead.

Their first half margin to 12 points, 24-12, with 6 minutes to go but Arkansas finished strong to trail by only 30-22 at halftime.

Harry Thompson's jump shots kept the Razorbacks in contention early in the second half and Arkansas cut the margin to 6 points, 43-37, with 10 minutes gone.

WACO, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Baylor Bears ended a 12-game losing streak tonight by breaking on top and staying there for 38 of the 40 minutes to edge heavily favored Rice 63-62 in a Southwest Conference game. It was Baylor's 10th conference victory after 9 straight losses.

The Bears built up a quick 9-2 lead over the Owls and led 39-27 two minutes before the half.

After the intermission, when the Bears led 41-32, a Rice rally steadily whittled at the Baylor lead. Dale Ball finally put the Bears out in front with a long one-hander at 45-44 seven minutes deep in the second half.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 15 (AP)—SMU's string of seven straight victories over TCU was snapped tonight as the Frogs routed the Cowboys 82-71 in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

However, the defending champion Mustangs still retained a good shot at its fourth straight title as Arkansas and Rice also bowed. SMU's conference record is five victories against four losses.

Evans played perhaps the finest game of his career in guiding the Steers to a 7-0 record.

EL PASO AUSTIN IS LIKELY STEER FOE

Having broken the Abilene-Odessa monopoly of major sports titles in District 2-AAAA by beating the Odessa club before a near capacity house in Odessa Friday night, the Big Spring High School cagers must now await the outcome of the District 1-AAAA race.

El Paso Austin has already clinched a tie for the title in the Border city race and can see it up by shading a mediocre Burgess team Tuesday night. The Austin team must also play Friday, however.

For that reason, Big Spring and the El Paso titlist cannot meet until Monday, Feb. 24; or Tuesday, Feb. 25.

Coach Johnny Johnson, together with athletic director Al Milch, will scout the Austin team Tuesday and most probably arrange a date and a site for the all-important game at that time.

The playoff will have to be "sudden death," or one game, contrary to the general belief. It can, under no circumstances, be the best-of-a-three game series.

The Regional playoffs will also be one game and must be played either Feb. 28 or March 1. The winner of the Big Spring-El Paso game will become eligible to play the District 3-AAAA (probably Pampa)-District 4-AAAA (the Fort Worth district) winner in Regional.

The winner there goes to the State meet at Austin.

Coach Johnson said this morning the mentor of Graham, the 4-AAAA champion, had contacted him wanting to play a home-and-home series. Johnson stated his team could only play on Friday night and the exhibition would have to be here, although the Graham mentor suggested Abilene as a neutral site. Kermit, which also won its AAA conference crown Friday night by beating Andrews, may also seek a game with the Steers but Johnson said it was extremely doubtful that he would be able to arrange such a game, due to a lack of playing dates.

Evans played perhaps the finest game of his career in guiding the Steers to a 7-0 record.

Longhorns to an impressive 73-66 victory. The triumph clinched District 2-AAAA championship honors for the Steers, the first basketball title the school has won in 25 years.

The game was not as close as the score would indicate. The Steers, who have had trouble beating Odessa over the years, led by as much as 15 points with less than three minutes to play.

Loudermilk committed four fouls before the mid-game rest period.

The Steers outscored the Red Hoses in every quarter but the last, at which time the home club put together a 22-point rally.

The Hoses made good on 26 of 36 free throw attempts but were sadly beaten from the field. Big Spring cashed in 50 per cent of its goal attempts, having made 27 of 54. Odessa could make but 20.

Following the game, the two officials—Hugh Inman and Joe Shodid—got the two teams together and lauded them for the sportsmanlike play and said they had never worked with two finer teams.

Odessa's B and C teams won preliminary games. The Bees felled the Big Spring Dogies, who were far below peak strength due to illness and promotions, by a score of 69-62. Jerry Brooks had 22 points and Bill Parsons 13 in that one.

The Big Spring Cees lost their first game in nine starts this season by blowing an overtime verdict, 53-51. Four free tosses helped turn the tide for Odessa.

Dee Given New Pact

LUBBOCK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Texas Tech's directors voted unanimously today in the face of student opposition to extend by two years the contract of DeWitt Weaver, head football coach and athletic director.

The action was taken without debate at an open meeting. The current contract expires Feb. 1, 1959.

Harold Hinn, Plainview board member, stated before the vote that he thought the extension would "add continuity and direction to the Tech athletic program in the next few years and give stimulus to the program."

The board also reelected W. D. Watkins, Abilene, chairman; Jim Lindsey, Midland, vice chairman; and Roy Wells, assistant to the president, secretary.

The board held a 70-minute closed conference last night with David Thompson, student body president, and Dan Howard, student representative on the athletic council.

The directors' committee and the faculty athletic council on Jan. 25 voted at a joint meeting to recommend that the contract be extended to Feb. 1, 1961.

"We said we felt that to the best of our knowledge the vast majority of the student body is not in favor of extending DeWitt Weaver's contract," Thompson said after the meeting.

The Red Raiders won only 2 of 10 football games last season. Tech starts playing Southwest Conference football in 1960.

Thompson said he and Howard weren't "in favor of breaking or paying off" Weaver's present contract.

He added the conference was closed because "personalities were involved who did not want their names revealed to the press or the administration."

Howard predicted the student body will back Weaver and the team next fall.

OKLAHOMA STATE IS SELECTED TO PLAY IN NCAA TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Oklahoma State, operating as an independent this year, today was selected to play in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s 20th basketball tournament.

The Cowboys, who withdrew from the Missouri Valley Conference but do not become a full fledged member of the Big Eight until next year, were named as an at-large team by the Western Tournament Committee headed by Roy S. Keene of Oregon State.

The draw calls for sixth-ranked Oklahoma State to meet another at-large team to be selected. The dates are either March 10, 11 or 12 at a site to be announced. The winner will advance to the Midwest finals at Lawrence, Kan., against the winner of the Southwest Conference.

Oklahoma State, national champion in 1945 and 1946, is entering its seventh NCAA title event. Only Kentucky has been in more. The Wildcats have played in nine. Wyoming also has participated in seven.

Coach Hank Iba's defensive-minded team won 16 of its first 18 games.

Steer Baseball Team Opens Play March 8

Whenever the weather permits, and that has been seldom, lately, the Big Spring High School Steers go through their baseball drills.

Coach Roy Baird now has about 18 boys working out and expects several more when basketball drills end.

Lettersmen out include George Peacock, first sacker; Wilson Bell, infielder-outfielder; Billy Bob Lewellen, outfielder; Preston Daniels, shortstop; Jackie Thomas, third sacker; Chubby Moser, pitcher; Kenny Johnson, outfielder; Wayne Fields, outfielder; Bobby McAdams, outfielder; and Salvador Sarmiento, catcher.

Freston Hollis, outfielder; and Bernard McMahon, infielder, are among the veterans due to report when basketball season draws to a close.

Baird intends to keep the Steers busier than they were last year. They played about 16 games in 1957, now have about 21 scheduled.

The Steers will play Plainview and Andrews in non-conference series again. Newcomers to the card include Fort Worth Poly, which comes in here for three games; Tom S. Lubbock and Lubbock Monterey.

The Bovies launch their season Saturday, March 8, meeting Plainview in Plainview. They play their first home game Saturday, March 15, at which time they host Andrews twice.

The Anchors open conference play against San Angelo here Tuesday, April 8, and close out against Midland here Tuesday, May 6. However, they meet Snyder after 2-AAAA ends, journeying to Snyder for a Saturday, May 10 game. Among bright newcomers in camp are the LeFevre twins, Jay and Zay. Both are former pitching staffs in the Junior Teen-Age league here. The two are southpaws, by the way. The twins are still playing basketball.

Others who have already checked out playing equipment include Terry Stanley, James Kinman, Elton Kelly, Subia Sisto, Dickie Halbrook, Rayford Harrison, Jimmy Roger and Johnny Curtis.

The schedule: Saturday, March 8—Plainview here. Tuesday, March 11—Andrews here. Saturday, March 15—Andrews here. Tuesday, March 18—Tom S. Lubbock here. Saturday, March 22—Plainview here. Tuesday, March 25—Lubbock Monterey here.

Heiss Winner In Paris Show

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N. Y., Miss Personality of the ice, captured her third world figure skating championship tonight with a perfectly executed freestyle exhibition.

The New York girl added to her lead in the final round after having built up an almost insurmountable advantage in the compulsory figures which were completed earlier today.

So precise was Miss Heiss' skating tonight that she turned the 12,000 spectators in the Paris Sports Palace into a cheering, foot-stamping mob.

"I'm so happy, I'm so happy," she said after her victory as she skated into the arms of her coach, Pierre Brunet of New York, with tears streaming down her cheeks.

The critical and eagle-eyed judges also thought that it had been an amazing and seldom-seen performance.

Judging is done on a scale in which six represents a seldom-achieved perfection. Not one of the nine judges rated Miss Heiss at less than 5.7. Three of the judges gave the 18-year-old ice queen a rating of six.

David Jenkins of Colorado Springs, Colo., also got extraordinarily high results from the judges last night when he won the men's figure skating championship. But Jenkins commanded only one accolade of six.

The Lakeview Rockets of Big Spring (above) qualified for the State Negro basketball tournament, which starts in Prairie View, Feb. 20, by winning District 1-A championship laurels recently. Left to right, front row, they are E. F. Newton, Holston Banks, Robert Byrd, Arbia McIntire, Lewis Brown and Harvey Foster. Back row, Rogers Evans, T. J. Kinnard, Robert Allen, H. T. Baker, Willie Myles, Eddie Wright, Johnny B. Wright and Coach Roosevelt Brown.

ACC's Jackson Applauds ABClub On Relays Field

By TOMMY HART
Oliver Jackson, famed track and field coach at Abilene Christian College, telephoned R. H. Weaver, chairman of the 1958 American Business Club Relays and congratulated him on the fine field of local service club has assembled for its meet.

Jackson said he was particularly pleased to get an Eastern power like Duke University into the show and stated, without reservation, "we'll have a real good meet."

The duel between ACC's Bobby Morrow and Dave Sime of Duke is attracting world-wide interest and is being heralded in some quarters as the "race of the century."

Actually, Morrow and Sime will be only two of eight boys in the 100 yard dash. Texas University will field some exceedingly fast athletes in the dash, as will Baylor, Houston and North Texas, among others.

The ACC coach said his "phone had been ringing off the hook" since his school and Duke entered the meet and stated the demand for tickets to the local show would probably be heavy in Abilene.

Darrell Royal, voted the university coach of the year by the Texas Sportswriters Association, has agreed to serve as referee of the Relays. Judge Weaver revealed late Friday.

The University of Texas grid mentor, one-time star quarterback of the Oklahoma Sooners, will spend part of the Easter holidays in Abilene.

Manpower losses were few from 1957 squad that established a new scoring record in winning the Southwest Conference championship, yet the absence of Capt. Bobby Whilden will be keenly felt. He was anchor man of the 440 and 300-yard world-record relay combinations and was high-point man in the conference meet despite being upset by Teammate J. Frank Daugherty in both sprints.

Although the Longhorns won half of the individual championships, two of them with record performances, their forte was relay strength. With Sophomore Eddie Southern, the Olympic hurdler, sidelined by injury, the Longhorns failed to win a single national collegiate championship as they served as hosts of the colorful NCAA meet.

Several university coaches have requested that their freshmen be allowed to compete in the junior college class, among them Jackson.

Last year, first-year teams at senior colleges were not permitted to take part here. The Relays committee will meet Monday to vote on the request.

Weaver stated some stellar athletes would be excluded from the local meet, unless it was opened up to freshman teams.

Trophies for the April 4-5 show have already been ordered. The club is spending close to $1,000 again for the awards.

Weight strength is assured again, with Footballers Mike Dowdie and George Blanch joining Letterman Johnny Warren, Paul Schumann and Joe Irvin. Texas placed four men in the varsity javelin and three in the freshman event last year, and all of them return.

Although Texas won the freshman division last year, there's not a single individual champion moving up to the varsity. Quarter-mile Charley Rosemond has dropped from school, yet Sprinters Dale Littlefield and Charles Hayman should help, along with Johnny Cotton and Drew Dunlap, middle-distance men, and Hurdlers Donald Beard and Bill Ely.

Either Dale Littlefield or Don Casselberry, a junior college transfer, is expected to team with Southern, Gaine and Wally Wilson in a resumption of spring relay success. Every member of the mile relay team that posted the nation's best time of 3:11.8 has returned, but only Wilson and Southern appear assured of their positions again.

The schedule: March 11—Houston and Texas A&M at Austin. March 14—Border Olympics at Laredo. March 15—Southwest Recreation Meet at Fort Worth. March 22—West Texas Relays at Odessa. March 29-30—Texas Relays at Austin. April 3—Raytor and SMC at Dallas. April 5-ABC Relays at Big Spring. April 12—Southwest Louisiana Relays at Lafayette, La. April 17-20—Oklahoma and ACC at Dallas. April 18-19—Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Kan. April 25-26—Drake Relays at Des Moines. May 1—Texas A&M and Rice at Austin. May 5-10—Southwest Conference Meet at Dallas. June 6-7—Meet of Champions at Houston. June 13-14—National Collegiate Meet at Berkeley, Calif.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Gene Woodling signed his 1958 contract with the Cleveland Indians today, getting a substantial raise.

Jan Shatters Own Record

Big Jan Loudermilk, although hampered by four first foul against Odessa Friday night, scored 12 points to break his own 2-AAAA scoring record of 102. His mark set last weekend will stand at 108.

Randy Hurst of Abilene jumped from third position to second, by passing Al Dodson of San Angelo for runner-up honors to Loudermilk. His 25 points against San Angelo pushed his total to 131.

to Villarreal and Parker there are Southern, the high hurdle king who plans to concentrate on the quarter and relays; Gordon Ratcliff, the two-mile victor and Brooks Patrick, half-mile winner.

Weight strength is assured again, with Footballers Mike Dowdie and George Blanch joining Letterman Johnny Warren, Paul Schumann and Joe Irvin. Texas placed four men in the varsity javelin and three in the freshman event last year, and all of them return.

Although Texas won the freshman division last year, there's not a single individual champion moving up to the varsity. Quarter-mile Charley Rosemond has dropped from school, yet Sprinters Dale Littlefield and Charles Hayman should help, along with Johnny Cotton and Drew Dunlap, middle-distance men, and Hurdlers Donald Beard and Bill Ely.

Either Dale Littlefield or Don Casselberry, a junior college transfer, is expected to team with Southern, Gaine and Wally Wilson in a resumption of spring relay success. Every member of the mile relay team that posted the nation's best time of 3:11.8 has returned, but only Wilson and Southern appear assured of their positions again.

The schedule: March 11—Houston and Texas A&M at Austin. March 14—Border Olympics at Laredo. March 15—Southwest Recreation Meet at Fort Worth. March 22—West Texas Relays at Odessa. March 29-30—Texas Relays at Austin. April 3—Raytor and SMC at Dallas. April 5-ABC Relays at Big Spring. April 12—Southwest Louisiana Relays at Lafayette, La. April 17-20—Oklahoma and ACC at Dallas. April 18-19—Kansas Relays at Lawrence, Kan. April 25-26—Drake Relays at Des Moines. May 1—Texas A&M and Rice at Austin. May 5-10—Southwest Conference Meet at Dallas. June 6-7—Meet of Champions at Houston. June 13-14—National Collegiate Meet at Berkeley, Calif.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Gene Woodling signed his 1958 contract with the Cleveland Indians today, getting a substantial raise.

'My Greatest Honor,' Says Gibson Of Miller Award

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—"This is my greatest honor," Althea Gibson said today after receiving the trophy as outstanding female athlete of 1957.

"My past honors have been confined strictly to tennis," she added. "This covers women in all sports. I am deeply moved to be able to join such famous athletes as the late Babe Zaharias, Patty Berg and Pat McCormick as winners of the award."

The Frederick C. Miller Trophy, donated by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was presented to the Wimbledon and American tennis champion by Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee in the offices of The Associated Press.

The trophy is based on the annual Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters. A similar trophy went to Ted Williams, the baseball slugger of the Boston Red Sox, as male athlete of the year.

Miss Gibson, 30, who first learned to play the game with wooden paddles on the sidewalks of Harlem won by a landslide. She received 420 of a possible 516 points—325 more than her closest challenger, golf pro Patty Berg, who had 95. Bowling champion Marion Ladewig was third with 81.

Miss Gibson swept through women's tennis last year as no other player had done since Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly. Besides winning the Wimbledon and American championships, she also captured the National Clay Courts, Asian, Pacific Southwest and Pacific titles. She was beaten in the finals of the Australian nationals by Shirley Fry, now retired.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sal Maglie, who will be 41 on April 26, has signed his contract with the New York Yankees. No salary was announced.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—Jackie Pung couldn't do a thing right today and her nine stroke lead in the St. Petersburg women's open golf shriveled to one stroke after three rounds.

Mrs. Pung hit into traps, she plumped shots into trees and landed into a water hazard for a 41-40-81. This was far different from her earlier sparkling rounds of 66 and 70. Her 54-hole total was 217.

Betsy Rawls of Spartansburg, S.C., shot a 36-37-72 after shooting even par golf on the front nine and getting a birdie and two bogeys on the back nine. She wound up with 218.

Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., took over undisputed possession of third place with 220. She also gained eight strokes on Mrs. Pung.

Play was on the cold, wind-swept sunset course where wind whipped up to 30 miles an hour. Women's par on the 6,116-yard course is 74.

Coyotes Still Are Unbeaten

LOOP, Feb. 15 (SC)—The Gail Coyotes won their 22nd straight basketball decision by beating the Loop Longhorns in a District 8-B basketball game, 59-53, here Friday night.

The Coyotes, coached by Eddie James, will probably meet Meadow in bi-district competition. Meadow has now clinched a tie for the championship in its district and is still undefeated within the conference.

The Coyotes visit Klondike for a makeup game Tuesday night. Bunny Massengill paced Gail's attack against Loop, scoring 15 points. Jerry Stagg had 11. Reuben Vaughn eight, Jerry Redd and Larry Doyle seven each. Lloyd Ramsey five, Wilson Walker four and Sonny Anderson two.

For Loop, Johnson counted four, Falkenberg 15, Bagwell eight, B. Oates 14, J. Oates three and Wynn six.

The Loop girls defeated Gail, 58-38, in a preliminary contest.

15 Open Linksters Tapped For Meet

FORT WORTH, Feb. 15 (AP)—Fifteen golfers in this week's Texas Open field at San Antonio have been tapped for the National Invitation Tournament April 30 through May 4 at Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth.

The 15 are: Al Bolding, George Rayer, Tommy Bolt, Jack Burke, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford, Paul Harney, Chandler Harper, E. J. Harrison, Jay Hebert, Lionel Hebert, Billy Maxwell, Johnny Palmer, Mike Souchak and Frank Stranahan.

Combined with the entries of Roberto de Vincenzo, Ben Hogan and Dick Mayer announced a week ago, the 15 additions revealed today fill 18 of the 48 places in the 1958 National Invitation field.

Littlefield will Be Meet Starter

FORT WORTH, Feb. 15 (AP)—Clyde Littlefield, dean of the Southwest Conference track coaches, has been named referee of the Southwestern Recreation Track Meet to be held March 14-15.

The University of Texas coach will serve as referee of the university, college and junior college-freshman divisions.

R. A. Snodgrass, veteran track coach at Brownwood High, will be referee of the huge schoolboy division.

The selections were announced by Harry Taylor Sr., director of the Southwestern Recreation meet.

Yearlings Begin Football Workouts Here On Monday

Al Milch, athletic director at Big Spring High School, revealed Friday that Ninth Grade football training would begin here Monday afternoon and would continue for several weeks.

He stated all coaches in the system would work with the yearlings.

High school grid drills get under way here Monday, April 28, according to present plans and will continue through Saturday, May 17.

The senior high workouts will be climaxed by an intra-squad game which will be open to the public. The intra-squad bout replaces the annual Exes-Senior engagement.

Milch stated the game with the Exes would not be held here again, due to the fact that friction has occurred in past contests and no one wanted to run the chance of getting hurt.

The Ninth Graders will work out on the old football field.

Another 4-Minute Mile For Elliott

PERTH, Australia Feb. 15 (AP)—Herb Elliott, 19-year-old Perth runner, gave the home folks a thrill today when he defeated Mervyn Lincoln by half a yard for his third consecutive mile relay success. Every member of the nation's best time of 3:11.8 has returned, but only Wilson and Southern appear assured of their positions again.

The schedule: March 11—Houston and Texas A&M at Austin. March 14—Border Olympics at Laredo. March 15—Southwest Recreation Meet at Fort Worth. March 22—West Texas Relays at Odessa. March 29-30—Texas Relays at Austin. April 3—Raytor and SMC at Dallas. April 5-ABC Relays at Big Spring. April 12—Southwest Louisiana Relays at Lafayette, La. April 17-20—Oklahoma and ACC at Dallas. June 6-7—Meet of Champions at Houston. June 13-14—National Collegiate Meet at Berkeley, Calif.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Gene Woodling signed his 1958 contract with the Cleveland Indians today, getting a substantial raise.

Neither the club nor Woodling disclosed his 1958 pay, but the Indians did say it was around $30,000 and about one-third above his salary for 1957.

Streit, Robbins Win At Jupiter

JUPITER, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—The golf champion team of Marlene Streit and L. Hillman Robbins won the National Mixed Foursomes Tournament 6 and 5 today as 30 mile winds swept the Tequesta Country Club course.

Mrs. Streit, Canadian women's champion from Font Hills, Ont., and Robbins, U.S. amateur champion stationed at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., defeated Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Tim Holland of New York City.

The Streit-Robbins team was 4 up at the end of the morning round and went five up on the first hole of the afternoon match. The pair then lost two holes in a row but went five up again when Mrs. Streit sank a 25-foot putt from off the green at the 25th hole.

The match ended at the 31st hole when Robbins made a beautiful chip shot over a trap to land within two feet of the cup.

Miss Gibson swept through women's tennis last year as no other player had done since Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly. Besides winning the Wimbledon and American championships, she also captured the National Clay Courts, Asian, Pacific Southwest and Pacific titles. She was beaten in the finals of the Australian nationals by Shirley Fry, now retired.

Three World Swim Records Bettered At Melbourne

MELBOURNE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Three world records were set on the first night of the Australian Swimming Championships tonight and 19-year-old Olympian John Monckton had a share in all three.

The first two new marks were all his own. He easily won the 110-yard backstroke title in a record 61.5 seconds—also an improvement on the 100 meters mark.

In contrast to Monckton's successes, John Konrads, although a winner, failed in his attempt to break 2:05 for the 220-yard freestyle.

David Thiele, another Australian, held the 100-meter backstroke record of 62.2 seconds.

Monckton looked well within himself when he glided to the line with a comfortable 12-yard edge on runner-up John Haynes, who was timed in 64.6.

But Monckton's best effort came an hour later when swimming for New South Wales in the 400-yard medley relay. He covered his 110-yard backstroke leg in 61.4 to start his team on the way to another world record of 4 minutes, 40 seconds.

Terry Gathercole swam the 110-yard breaststroke in 76.9, Brian Wilkinson the butterfly leg in 64.9, and world record holder John Devitt wound up with a 56.2 freestyle final leg.

Konrads failed by three-tenths of a second to lower his world freestyle record for 220 yards when he won by two yards from Gary Chapman and John Devitt in 2:05.1. Chapman's time was 2:06.3, and Devitt's, 2:08.5.

New Boss Regarded As Net Capt. Bligh

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—When Pancho Gonzales was a stringy, gawky youngster of 15 he was ordered off a Los Angeles tennis court one day by Perry Jones. "You can't play in those shoes," said Jones, then secretary of the Southern California Tennis Assn. "They're all I've got," said Pancho, looking at his dilapidated worn-out sneakers. Crestfallen, he shuffled to the sidelines. He was bitterly disappointed. He was shortly appointed to a new position. Shortly afterward, Jones came back with a pair of new shoes in his hands. "Here, put on these," he said gruffly to the little Mexican boy, "and get out there and hit some."

The incident points up the two-sided nature of Perry T. Jones, 68, retired Hollywood lumber executive and longtime tennis official who last week was named U.S. Davis Cup captain to succeed Bill Talbert. Already tennis people are referring to Jones as "America's Harry Hopman," stern disciplinarian, meticulous organizer, talent developer and man of many fetishes. He is, they say, a tennis Captain Bligh, a tyrant who likes to run the show with an iron hand. But friends say he is kind and sympathetic. Will he be more successful in bringing back the Davis Cup? "I always have been a great admirer of Perry Jones," says Jack Kramer, one of the multitude of champions who came out of the Jones' tennis factory on the West Coast. "He is wonderful with young players. He is a fine organizer. He has powerful influence with the tennis association. "I think Bill Talbert did a marvelous job with the little cooperation he got and the material at hand. But Jones, with his weight, may achieve more with the organization."

Jones is credited with helping develop more grass court champions than any other man in the world. His list of proteges includes E. L. S. Vines, Don Budge, Bobby Riggs, Kramer, Gonzales, Louise Brough, Maureen Connolly and Pauline Betz.

Snyder Bombs Ponies, 61-46

SWEETWATER, Feb. 15 (SC)—Snyder made sure of at least getting a tie out of the District 3-AAA basketball struggle by downing Sweetwater, 61-46, in a contest here Friday night. Snyder, 5-2, in conference standings. Snyder's balanced attack, featuring four boys who hit in double figures, slowly edged out and away from the Mustangs in the game viewed by a jam-packed audience. They took a 13-12 first quarter lead, pushed it to 26-19 at halftime, and gradually eased out of reach. Israel Hinojos connected for 16 for Snyder, while Buford Patterson had 14 for the losers. SNYDER (61)—Hinojos 16-16; Phillips 4-13; Vice 3-11; Reed 4-14; Ward 2-5; Allen 1-2; Totals 24-54. SWEETWATER (46)—Parker 3-7; Holcomb 4-9; Curry 1-4; Greer 3-4; Clark 3-6; Patterson 7-14; Totals 19-54. Halftime score: Snyder 26, Sweetwater 19.

Houston Boasts Longest Course On Golf Tour

HOUSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Touring golf pros take a look at the winter tour's longest course next week while shooting for $30,000.

The $37,000 Houston Open became the $30,000 Classic Invitation Tournament late last year through a compromise settlement of a dispute with the PGA over entry fees.

The 72-hole tournament will start Thursday on the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course with a field of only 130 instead of 175 as in the past.

The PGA is controlling invitations to 65 players. Another 45 will be determined in a qualifying round Tuesday. The sponsoring Houston Golf Assn. has issued invitations to 20 Houston area players.

Only 4 of the top 60 money winners of 1957 have not accepted invitations so far. They are Sam Snead, Jerry Middlecoff, Bob Inman, and Jerry Barber. Snead and Middlecoff may be here, however. Middlecoff is the tournament's lone double winner, taking $2,000 in tournament money in 1950 and $4,000 in 1953.

The tournament already is a financial success. Advance sales of $100 sponsorships already have exceeded 650, compared to last year's 655. Last year's tournament made a profit of $21,137, most of which has been used for a junior golf program in the Houston area.

Arnold Palmer won $7,500 in top money here a year ago with a nine-under par 279.

CAGE QUERY

From time to time, The Daily Herald receives inquiries relative to old and new basketball rules. The newspaper, with the help of the Texas A&M Southern Basketball Officials Association, endeavors to answer as many as possible of them. Following is a typical question:

PLAY. Several teammate substitutes enter without reporting to scorer.

RULING. This is team foul. Only 1 technical free throw is awarded.

Knott Girls Set A Record

KNOTT, Feb. 15 (SC)—The Knott High School girls, already crowned 19-B basketball champions, set an all-time school scoring record by thumping Stanton, 81-64, here Friday night in a practice game.

The previous high score for a Knott girls' team was 74 points. Jean Sample tossed in 31 points in the process of winning their 23rd game in 26 starts. Ann Rogers had 27 for Knott, Sue Paige 17, Virgie Graham four and Sharon Cline two.

For Stanton, Linda Gage completed 26 points, Jonnie Rhodes 20 and Renya Elda eight.

Knott led at the end of the first quarter, 12-9; at half time, 27-25; and after three quarters, 64-47.

The Billies' three losses this season have been to Water Valley, Stanton and Flower Grove. They have beaten Flower Grove twice in three outings, are 1-1 with Stanton and have yet to play Water Valley again.

The girls are awaiting a March 3-4 playoff, which probably will be with Merton. Knott is booked to play Loop in a practice game Friday at Loop. The two teams may meet in Knott March 1.

Coach Bill Bolk of the Billies said he would seek a practice game for Feb. 28.

The Knott boys trounced the First Christian church team of Midland in an added attraction, 52-44. Knott thus wound up with a 7-10 win-loss record.

Thomas Day tossed in 21 points for Knott. Jim Ward had 13 for the visitors.

KNOTT (52)—Thomas Day 21-21; Buck McNew 2-3; Mike Shookley 1-2; Leo Williams 6-9; Dots Ray 10-24; Roland Wyatt 7-9; Totals 52-44.

MIDLAND (44)—Ed Pierce 3-4; T. Downing 1-2; Melan Dunn 3-4; Bill Jones 1-2; Jim Ward 5-13; Jerry Jennings 3-4; Al Pierce 1-2; Totals 16-44.

Score by quarters: 11 22 48 52. Knott 12 17 30 44. Midland 12 17 30 44.

Merkel Undefeated In District Play
ROTAN, Feb. 15 (SC)—Merkel closed out its District 6-A slate here Friday night with a 10-0 record, defeating the Rotan Yellowhammers, 66-43.

Manley Denton scored 27 points for the champion Badgers. Bubba Edwards had 26 for the 'Hammerers.

MERKEL (66)—Denton 13-17; Seymour 3-5; McLeod 6-13; English 1-2; Patterson 2-3; Totals 66-43.

ROTAN (43)—Edwards 10-22; Bassett 1-2; Hill 1-2; Thornton 4-8; Patton 2-5; Totals 17-43.

Around The Rim There's Drama In The Want Ads

You know, there's more than just commercial transactions involved in the Classified Advertising columns of a newspaper—the "Want Ads." we are accustomed to calling them.

There's human drama, a lot of times, if you just get down to reading the compact type in a lot of papers, and trying to fathom what is behind certain ads.

For instance, in the Personal Column, you might read: "Genevieve, please come home. All is forgiven." And you wonder what drove Genevieve off in the first place; and in the second place, would you really want Genevieve back? Or, if you read that Elmer Zlich declines to pay any obligations other than those incurred by himself, you know that Elmer has sure enough been having trouble at home. On the other hand, if Julius Jan-derfoot takes an ad to proclaim his love for his wife on their 25th anniversary, you can bet they haven't been having much trouble at home.

I got to thinking you might trace out the basis of a family history with the Want Ads, so just pretend along with me:

The Classified Section of The Herald is where buyer and seller meet... where tenant and landlord get together... where those who are seeking almost anything can find it... with all of the human interest and diversity in the ads, it is no wonder that in most newspapers these pages attract a big majority of its readers.

And yet, with all of this result potential, a want ad represents a VERY SMALL outlay of money... In fact, for the approximate cost of only three gallons of gasoline a fifteen-word want ad will be delivered by The Herald into nearly 10,000 homes in the Big Spring trade area. Nothing to it—dial AM 4-4331—call for classified.

DO YOU NEED $440 QUICK?

They FLY down here, man! Shake hands with an outfit that really puts it out, day after day, to folks just like you — folk, who like sympathy, but NEED CASH! Man, those are big wide smiles they wear when they tuck those S.I.C. checks in their wallets. We know how to smile, too, and you'll get one EVERY TIME, even if you just come in to ask for a blotter. LOOK: $22.77 a month (24 months) repays that $440! At S.I.C. Subject to usual credit requirements, of course. Why get ulcers — SOS-SIC you can — S.I.C. LOANS.

Looking To Spring --

PRUNING PLANTS AND SHRUBS will bring forth new growth on which blossoms are formed, and this should be done late in February, lest the shoots freeze. Evergreen shrubs, such as the one in the yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hewett, 600 Edwards Circle, should be pruned to control branches which have grown out of proportion and make the plant unsightly. Do not be in a hurry to prune rose bushes, most gardeners advise, and add that it is better to be a little too late in pruning than too early. Seems that the pruner is getting plenty of help from his wife and their son, six-year-old Vernon Jr.

(Photos by Keith McMillin)

HARDY PLANTS FOR EARLY BLOOM are being set out by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Shirley at their new home, 911 Lancaster. Ready for transplanting are snapdragons, carnations and calendulas. The landscaping has been done by the couple, gardening being the hobby of Shirley. The tiny hedge at the walk is dwarf ligustrum, and it also fills the planters at the front of the house. There is a hedge of boxwood at the side of the house and a Colorado blue spruce centers the lawn on each side of the walk. They plan to use St. Augustine grass as the ground cover.

ROSE BUSHES planted in February have time to establish a good root system before the heat of the summer, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cherry have learned. Consequently, at their home in Indian Hills, they are busily setting out various kinds of roses. In the spot they have chosen for this bush, it will be sheltered from the strong winds and will receive plenty of sunshine. In the foreground, the daffodils and jonquils should soon make a colorful border, if they are not uprooted by the family collie, Laddie.

THE LADY OF THE CAMELIAS will have nothing on Mrs. J. R. Hensley if the bushes being planted at the family's new home work out as well as she hopes. Bill Hensley finishes digging the hole as Randy lifts the bush, balled and burlapped, to be placed in the ground. Knowing that camellias need protection in this section, Mrs. Hensley will plant the bushes on the south side of the house and will see that acid soil is provided for them.

Miss McGibbon's Betrothal Told At Valentine Open House

The engagement and approaching marriage of Kenda McGibbon and Charles Webb Jr. of Dallas was revealed to relatives and friends of both families at a Valentine open house, given by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. McGibbon, Friday evening in the McGibbon home.

Guests were greeted by the hosts and presented to the engaged couple, who in turn introduced Mr. and Mrs. C. Haiz Webb, parents of the prospective bridegroom.

All decorations and party appointments were in varying shades of rose red and pink. Over the mantel was hung a plaque, featuring a musical theme; underneath was a bank of snapdragons in the chosen hues.

The serving table, covered with a pale pink floorlength cloth of ruffled net over satin, was centered with a nine-branch candelabrum in which burned pink tapers. This was the base for a profusion of snapdragons roses and smilax.

One end of the table held a silver punch bowl and the other an antique silver coffee service. All other table appointments were of silver.

On the buffet was a similar arrangement of flowers and tapers; other entertaining rooms were decorated with bouquets and tapers in harmonizing colors.

KENDA MCGIBBON

prospective bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Poole Sr., all of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Simmons, Lubbock; Mrs. Ted Myers of Stamford, and Glenn McGibbon and Glenda of Perryton.

Background music was furnished by Barbara Coffee.

ATTENDANTS NAMED

Miss McGibbon has announced the attendants for the wedding, which is scheduled for the First Methodist Church, with Dr. Jordan

Valentine Banquet Fetes Forsan Pupils

FORSAN — Students in the eighth grade at Forsan School were entertained with a sweetheart banquet Saturday night in the cafeteria.

Danny Henry and Dolores Parker were named sweethearts. Miss Parker was escorted by William Conger, and Linda Nichols was Henry's partner.

Dr. Marvin Baker, assistant to the president of HCJC, was guest speaker, and was introduced by Joe Holladay, Forsan superintendent. Music was provided by an octet and by soloist Jonita Evans, with Sandra Griffith leading the school song.

Ronnie Gandy gave the invocation and the welcome was voiced by Joyce Shoultz. Other participants were Jackie Whetsel, history; Roger Park and Larry Stroud, boys' sports awards; Jan Stockton, girl sports award; Blanche Ratliff, prophecy; Dorothy Willis, T. M. Spell, class teacher, gave the benediction.

Red hearts hung from the ceiling on ropes of twisted red and white crepe paper. Placecards and programs were shaped as valentines, and white handmade flowers decorated the tables.

Pupils of the seventh grade did the serving.

Lamesa Study Club Honors Husbands

LAMESA — Members of the Woman's Study Club entertained their husbands with a Valentine dinner at the clubhouse Tuesday evening. Dinner music was furnished by Mrs. Davie Jones.

The buffet table was laid with a white lace cutwork cloth over red linen and held a center arrangement of red roses surrounding a cupid. Red roses centered the quartet tables at which the guests were seated.

The evening was spent in playing progressive 42.

Fifteen couples attended the dinner, which was hosted by Mrs. Hubert Nelson, Mrs. L. D. Echols, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. John Banta and Mrs. Glen Jones.

Couple's Class Has Valentine Party

A social and business meeting for the Couples' Sunday School Class of Park Methodist was held Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mitchell.

Valentine games were played, and refreshments followed the seasonal theme. The evening entertainment also included games of 42 and canasta.

Eleven members were present for the party.

Local VIC Members At Midland Party

Twelve members of the Vocational Industrial Club at Big Spring High School went to Midland Thursday night for a Valentine party at the Youth Center. Hosts for the social were members of the Midland VIC. Also represented was the Odessa chapter.

Entertainment included shuffling-board, basketball, pool, dancing and getting acquainted. About 75 attended.

Edward Shive, coordinator, and his wife accompanied the Big Spring delegation.

MUSICAL NOTES

Each guest was presented with a small musical note done in shades of pink bearing the inscription in gold, "Kenda and Charles, June 21."

The house party included Miss Milburn Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Foster M. Poole Jr. of Dallas; Sarah Simmons, Lubbock; Anne Stevenson, Chickasha, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pond, Dr. and Mrs. Anthony Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. Arch Carson, Dr. and Mrs. Jordan Grooms, Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, Also, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Keaton, Dr. and Mrs. Roscoe Cowper, Mr. and Mrs. J. Umbrellas, Pears Inspire Hats For Spring, Summer

PARIS — Paris hats take many shapes for spring but they have one thing in common—all are worn off-the-face, and all are dramatic enough to provide a balance for the drooping sack silhouettes of the season.

The umbrella line and the pear-shaped toque are among headliners in the millinery lineup. The big-brimmed cartwheels form a decorative frame for the face, and often are built on bandeaux, so the brim will not hide the wearer's features.

There are many versions of the beret, done in straw or printed silk fabric, usually worn back on the head. Veils are in favor with many of the smaller hats, while others employ long streamers or cut-out crowns which show the hair.

Designer Starts War On Sacks

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Nature's most magnificent creation is the female figure, says Oleg Cassini, and he, for one, doesn't intend to hide it under a gunnysack.

Pursuing his one-man war on the current sack silhouette, Cassini shows a spring collection of frankly fitted and subtly sexy dresses, which do full justice to all curves of the feminine form. Says this Italian-born designer: "I have too much respect for the beauties of nature to drape tamper with the lines of a woman's figure. When a fashion ad abolishes feminine curves, it's time to stamp it out."

Cassini's collection for spring goes in for well-defined waistlines, revealing necklines, soft drapery, intricate cut and his well-known peekaboo cutouts, designed to attract the male eye—the real purpose of any successful dress, according to this designer.

He employs a number of new fabrics in linen knit, cotton knit and silk-and-wool petit point; for daytime, but sticks to soft, slithery silk crepes and chiffons for evening.

Dress-and-jacket costumes usually consist of a demure cover-up jacket over a dress with daring neckline, a device of which Cassini is fond. Says he: "Dresses are designed to make a man look at a woman. And what man wants to look at a sack?"

Daughter Is Born To Robert Walls

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wall, 1605 Lancaster, are parents of a daughter, born Saturday morning at 6:50 at Cowper Hospital. The baby weighed 5 pounds, 3 ounces.

Mrs. Wall, the former Sue Zollinger, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Zollinger, 607 West Sixth. The paternal grandparent is Robert A. Wall of Savannah, Ga.

MRS. JERRELL M. GRANT

Jerrell Grant Weds In Cedar Hill Friday

A Valentine red and white theme marked the wedding of Carolyn Juanette Chauvin and Jerrell M. Grant Friday at 8 p.m. in Cedar Hill.

Vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church of Cedar Hill with the Rev. Rudy Sullivan, pastor of the Prairie View Baptist Church, Big Spring, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Chauvin of Cedar Hill; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Grant, Knott Route, Big Spring.

VALENTINE SETTING

For the double ring ceremony, the wedding party stood before a background of white candles based in red hearts and centered by a large red heart. At each end of the row of 28 candles were arrangements of white gladioli.

Charles Park of Dallas, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Wolfe, pianist, sang "I'll Walk Beside You," "O, Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a ballerina length gown of white Chantilly lace, fashioned with basque bodice and full skirt. The low neckline was scalloped and was completed with illusion to form a high neck; long sleeves ended in points over the hands.

Seed pearls trimmed the wedding gown and the tiara, to which was attached a waist length veil of illusion. The bride carried a white orchid on a Bible.

Mrs. Alan Hubler of Dallas served as matron of honor; bridesmaids were Mary Lynn Cavitt of Dallas and Harvey Lou Newton of Cedar Hill.

All attendants were identically dressed in frocks of red taffeta and all carried bouquets of white carnations formed into hearts.

Alan Hubler was best man; ushers were J. Millard Chauvin, brother of the bride, and Tom Rowell of Irving, who also acted as taper lighters.

Melody Shaw was flower girl.

RECEPTION

At a reception held at the church, the couple was assisted in receiving by their parents and the feminine attendants.

A red satin cloth covered the table, which held a four-tiered white cake, based in white flowers and holding a bridal pair.

Guests were registered by Eloise Wolfe of Cedar Hill, and in the house party were Sue Garrett, Coahoma; Jackie Sue Wilson, Garden City, and Linda Ann Peterson, Coleman.

Other out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Albricht of Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Trout of Bowie.

For a wedding trip, the bride chose a red cashmere sheath with red satin cummerbund and jacket. Her accessories were white.

The new Mrs. Grant is a graduate of Cedar Hill High School and has been attending Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. Her husband was graduated from Knott High School and H.S.U. He is now employed by Chance-Vaught Aircraft in Grand Prairie. The couple will make a home at 801 North Crawford, Dallas.

Modern Woman's Forum Sets Tea To Mark 30th Anniversary

Plans for an anniversary tea were completed Friday afternoon by members of the Modern Woman's Forum. The tea, to be given on Feb. 23, will mark the 30th anniversary of the founding of the club.

Calling hours were announced for 3 to 5:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. C. Bass, 106 Washington.

Hostess for the Friday meeting was Mrs. E. R. Wood.

Mrs. Hugh Duncan was leader for the program, which was based on fine arts. She confined her discussion to the paintings and sculpture of the masters and showed color slides of various examples.

Serving as commentator for the slides, Mrs. Duncan told of each artist's life, his technique and style and of the preservatives used in his materials.

Included in the showing were Giorgione's "Adoration of the Shepherds"; Jan Vermeer's "Girl

With Red Hat"; Sassetta's "Meeting of St. Anthony and St. Paul"; and "Madonna of Humility" by Fra Angelico.

An example of a master's sculpture was the bust of a little boy by Desiderio da Settignano.

On the tea table, the hostess used a hand-drawn cloth from Mexico. A white styrofoam heart held a center of red carnations and was bordered with a ruffle of pink maline, trimmed with tiny red hearts.

Red candles flanked the centerpiece, and heart shells fashioned the cherry tarts served as part of the refreshments to 20 members.

Lamesa Couple Will Mark 50 Years Together Today

LAMESA—Mr. and Mrs. Brad Barnett will observe their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception at the Delphian Clubhouse this afternoon from 3 to 5. Hosting the reception will be their daughter, Mrs. John Mackay and two sons, John and Brad of Wichita Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett were married on February 16, 1907 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith of O'Brien in Haskell County.

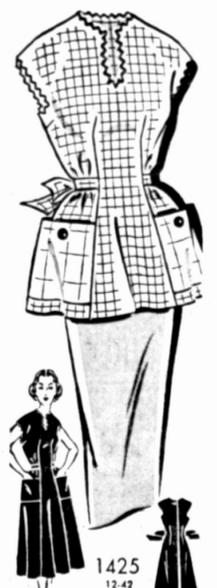

The couple made a home in Haskell County where Barnett was engaged in farming until 1919 when they moved to Dawson County. Mrs. Barnett, who is the former Betty Lee Smith, said they shipped out to Lamesa on a train in a emigrant car. They settled just on the outskirts of Lamesa, where they still live, and farmed until about 12 years ago, when Mr. Barnett retired from farming and entered the grain business.

The couple's sisters, Mrs. Marvin McNab of San Angelo, Mrs. E. B. Speck of Lubbock and Mrs. Elizabeth Bosley of Dallas, will be members of the houseparty. Mrs. W. J. Beckham will furnish music during the afternoon.

Laid with a white linen cloth.

the serving table will feature an arrangement of white carnations sprinkled with gold glitter with a gold "50" in the center. A three tiered wedding cake will complete the table decoration.

Included in the houseparty will be the nieces of the Barnetts, Mrs. Walter Tapers, Fort Worth; Mrs. Eunice Stanfield, Plainview; Mrs. Azalie Bell, and Lee Ann, Anton; Mrs. Evelyn Covert, Littlefield; Mrs. Juanita Thornton and Mrs. Dan McNab, both of Abilene and Betty Jo Underwood, Houston. Invitations have been extended to over 200.

Skillet Shrimp Is Good With Almonds

Next time you have guests, impress them with a stunning and delectable main dish such as this:

Ingredients:
1 pound shelled and deveined individually frozen shrimp
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup blanched whole almonds
Parsley

Method:
Turn shrimp into a skillet (about 10 inches) and cook over low heat until glaze melts; turn often; cook a few minutes more or just until shrimp are opaque through.

Meanwhile melt butter in a smaller skillet (about 8 inches) and add almonds; brown almonds, turning often, over low heat.

Drain liquid from shrimp and mix shrimp with almonds and browned butter; reheat gently if necessary. Serve at once. Makes 3 servings.

NOTE: Large shrimp, ones that count from 26 to 30 per pound, are fine for this recipe.

Jo Copeland

RIDDLE SOLVED

Chemise Not Chemise If Made With Curves

When is a chemise not a chemise? When it is given artful shape by that lady who knows how other ladies want to look—Jo Copeland.

Marvelously cut with a curve in the side seam that molds into the waist and continues up to the sleeve, it does miraculous things to the figure.

The big V collar, with an extra contrasting one to button in so that you will always look immaculate, takes a deep plunge in front and tapers into the concealed zipper closing.

Choose crepe, as in the original, shantung, novelty cotton, fine wools. From this size chart select the one size best for you:

Size	Bust	Waist	Slips	Neck of necktie	Waist
8	33	23	34	16 1/2	16 1/2
10	34	24	35	17	17
12	35	25	36	17 1/2	17 1/2
14	36 1/2	26 1/2	37 1/2	18	18
16	38	28	39	19	19
18	40	30	41	20	20

Size 12 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for dress and 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material for contrast.

To order Pattern No. 1334, state size, sent $1.

For Jumbo 96-page Pattern Booklet No. 14, send 50 cents—for JO COPELAND label, send 25 cents.

Address SPADEA Big Spring Herald, Box 535, G.P.O., Dept. B-3, New York 1, N.Y.

If paid by check, bank requires 4 cents handling charge.

SAGA OF SADIE

Sad But True; She's A Procrastinator

By HELEN HURT
Sadie freely admits it. She is the world's champion procrastinator.

Not that she's proud of the fact; her philosophy is that she might as well face the truth. And every January there is the New Year's resolution that she will improve.

Cocoon Drape

This is a newsy suit with its cocoon draped back on both jacket and skirt caught in with a self bow. The jacket has a collarless V-neckline in front and the front of the skirt is slim and straight. Designed by Charles Cooper. It is made of sheer worsted wool in black, navy, gray or beige. Sleeves are semi-dolman, three-quarter length and loose-hanging.

She does, too, until February: the rut is simply too deep.

Recipes have always intrigued her. With gay abandon she clips them from all the magazines and newspapers, determined to give each one a whirl before she files it permanently. They are in her purse, in the bureau drawer, in coat pockets, stuck in books around the house and, believe it or not, there is a pile in a kitchen cabinet.

Sadie honestly intends to gather these up and put them in a looseleaf notebook. In fact, she has made a couple of starts in the past three years. Something intervened each time.

But the mention of her purse brings up another problem. Sadie needs a new one, honest. To be truthful, a portable file cabinet would suit her purposes far better. We took an inventory of the contents yesterday. There was a dire need for a screwdriver and no one could find one. Sadie brightened up with the observation that she had one in her purse.

Sure enough, it was there. We found it after delving deep and emerging with such routine items as compact, lipstick and brush, comb, pencil, notebook, mirror, billfold (with 21 cents), scarf, a broken bracelet which was originally headed for the jeweler, key-chain, book of matches, check book, a 1955 calendar and two handfuls of facial tissues. And Sadie exclaimed, "Why, there's that earring I've been looking for since August."

Her personal correspondence is stacked up beyond belief. But she's going to start in on that today. What prompted this? A card came in the morning mail from one of her dearest friends. It bore but two words—"Remember me?"

Training School Set

LAMESA—The annual training school for Sunday School workers in the Lamesa Baptist Association will begin Monday evening. The school will be held for the four Lamesa churches at the First Baptist Church Monday through Friday; it will run from 7 to 9 each evening. Rev. A. E. Hughes, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, is the director.

Safari Cotton

The beasts of the jungle have left an imprint on resort beachwear. Tina Lester chooses sheers cotton for a sun-colored ensemble in a glamorous leopard print.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By KATHY McREE

Last Sunday afternoon the Women's Recreational Association served as cohostess with the Majors Club of high school for their annual Mother-Daughter Tea. Jarr-Bilzard, as mistress of ceremonies, introduced the sponsors. As the highlight of the program, Mrs. J. C. Pickle gave a short talk on "Tips to Teen-agers." A trio consisting of Lovelle Fletcher, Patty and Peggy Francis sang "I'm Available" and "Sugar Time". Thirty-three attended this tea.

The Jayhawk Queens opened their volleyball schedule here last Monday night preceding the basketball game. They were hosts to the McMurry Indian Maidens. The Queens had only five workouts behind them but managed to outplay the visitors by a score of 38-15. Rose Stephan and Lovelle Fletcher tied for high point honors with eleven points each. Sylvia Schmidt contributed six points.

The same evening the Hawks scored over the McMurry College Freshmen in an exciting game by a score of 66-63. This game was one of the best that the Hawks have played this season.

Not only was the basketball game a good one, but also the dance which followed was a great success. Bobby Hinkel, Cynthia Gabert; Larry Glore, Londa Coker; Doug Burrage, Brenda Barr; Delbert Shirey, Carlene Coleman; Carol Letcher, Ann Mobbs, Jarr-Brown, Don Anderson, Richard Engle, Rose Stephan, and Sylvia Schmidt were just a few who were there.

The student council held an assembly Wednesday morning for the purpose of electing nominees for ABC Relay Queen, ranch foreman, queen, and sheriff. The nominees for ABC Relay Queen are Sue Barnes, Glendene Phillely, Londa Coker, Cookie Sneed, Barbara Shields, and Lovelle Fletcher.

Nominated to serve over Ranch Day, to be held in March, were the following: Sheriff—Bill Borries, Charlie Dobbs, and Ben Faulkner; Queen—Londa Coker, Barbara Shields, and Kathy McRee; Foreman—Don Anderson, Jerry Barron, and Eddie Gill.

The annual staff has been working frantically the past week in order to meet another deadline. Mr. J. T. Clements, annual sponsor, asked me to announce to all new students and transfers that you are to pay three dollars to the business office if you wish to have an annual. Part of the activity fee which you paid at registration has already gone in to pay for part of your annual; but we must have this three dollars to pay for the complete annual.

Thursday night the Jayhawk Queens won their second game over Odessa Junior College. This Tuesday, the Queens will oppose Hardin-Simmons at Abilene. Be sure and attend as many of these games as possible.

Friday morning the Iota Beta Chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa fraternity held a pledging ceremony for the new pledges. These students, judged by their scholastic standards and citizenship, were chosen by the school faculty and the Phi Theta Kappa members. Those chosen are Tommy Pickle, Denise Honey, Anita Gardner, Sue Barnes, Glendene Phillely, Jerry Richardson, Donald Shortes, Rose Stephan, Doug Burrage, Rachael Hamrick, Billy Thornton, and Kathy McRee.

New moons overhead have kept the science department very busy lately. The Moonwatchers meet whenever the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory notifies them and collect data on what happens in the sky. The information they collect helps them to pinpoint the moon, or satellite, much easier. HCJC is one of a hundred such stations scattered over the United States.

Felt Jacket Will Perk Up Wardrobe

AP Newsfeatures
Young mothers-to-be have discovered that a maternity wardrobe needs at least one item specifically designed to give the spirit a lift on gloomy days.

A bright idea for this purpose is a jacket of wool felt with a little mandarin collar and brass buttons.

Choose jade green felt for a model jacket, easy to make at home, using a standard pattern.

As any home seamstress knows, felt is one of the easiest of fabrics to sew, since it can't ravel and so needs no seam bindings or hems.

The maternity jacket selected is trimmed with decorative stitching, easy to do with the new automatic slant-needle sewing machines, or with the automatic zigzag attachment for standard machines.

A double row of stitching accents the front closing and the little side slits. Even buttonholes are done automatically, in contrasting thread to match the rest of the decorative stitching.

The mandarin collar is lined with organdy, and the stitching on this is done before the collar is attached to the jacket.

It's a good idea to make several jackets at once, in different colors, using the assembly line system. Do all the cutting at once, all the buttonholes at once and all the decorative stitching at once.

This way it takes very little more time to make two or three jackets than it does to make one.

has been the chief project of the music department. Mr. Jack Hendrix announced that the students in this ensemble are Glendene Phillely, Don McClain, Nancy Lohner, Billy Evans, and Harlen Thornton. Mr. Ira Schantz and the college choir are working hard on the Easter program. Also on the agenda of the choir are the following: an operetta, a part in the Lion's Club Minstrel and the Spring Tour.

Billy Evans, a credit to the music department, traveled to Amarillo recently and won the Young Artist and the Young Soloist competitions. This was sponsored by the Amarillo Symphony. Billy will play with the symphony on Feb. 25 and again on March 30.

The speech department has set a tentative date for the play, "Night Must Fall," as March 8-8. Not only have the speech students been working hard on the play, but they took part in the speech tournament at Abilene this past weekend. Jack Culppeper, Joe Beard, Doyle Phillips, and Mr. Fred Short were those who attended. They returned Saturday afternoon.

Saturday night Mr. Short took

George Kozachuck, Joe Beard, Jack Culppeper, and Mary Denham to Midland to see the stage production of "Oklahoma."

Charlie McCarty traveled to Texas Tech this weekend. He was to attend a Sigma Kappa sorority dance.

Mrs. Jamison, underwent a minor operation Friday morning at Malone-Hogan Hospital; she expects to return home in a few days.

The Hawks left Friday morning for Clarendon where they played Friday night. Saturday night, they opposed Amarillo Junior College at Amarillo. Julie Rainwater, Cookie Sneed, and Barbara Shields went with Mr. Gentili to see these two games.

The Who's Who list was announced Friday. Those honored are Richard Engle, Bennie Compton, Julie Rainwater, Mark Reeves, Joe Hunt, sophomores; Don-Lovelle Fletcher, Virron Harten, Larry Glore, Bob Fuller, Oscar Williams, Rodney Sheppard, Tom-

HI--TALK

By Brenda Barr

As everyone knows, Friday was Valentine's Day—a day set aside each year especially for sweethearts. To celebrate this gala occasion the following couples attended the big midnight show Friday night: Harriet Gebert and Jimmy Hayworth; Dee Mabrey and Lloyd Underwood; Beverly Robinson and Lee Denton; Nora Lee Horton and George Lowe; Judy Jennings and Charles McKasla; Karen Arness and Delbert Davidson.

Congratulations are in order for the volleyball girls, it seems, as they won their tournament in Odessa last weekend. Darlene Williams, Barbara Porch, and Barbara Burchett were elected on the All-Tournament Team.

Escorted by Billy Bob Satterwhite, Jean Fuqua was crowned the 1957-58 Basketball Queen at the game with Abilene Tuesday night. In her court were Shirley Terry, escorted by Jimmy Evans, and Carolee Coleman, escorted by Jan Loudermilk. Congratulations, Jean!

Wesley Grigsby, Shirley Terry; James Howard Stephens, Carolyn Sewell; Bill French, Marilyn Bigham; George Peacock, Edith Freeman; Buddy Barnes, Linda Greene; John Puckett, and Koila Grant were just a few of the couples at the DeMolay banquet and dance Saturday night. The new DeMolay Sweetheart was presented at the affair. Nominees for the honor were Shirley Terry and Carolyn Sewell.

The First Baptist Church held its annual Sweetheart Banquet Thursday night. Among those enjoying the food and fun were Betty Lou Jones, Clarence Percy, Nancy Smith, and Charles Arnold.

Peggy Isaacs was surprised Wednesday night with a birthday party. Those wishing Peggy a happy birthday were Sharon Creighton, Katy Thomas, Judy Reagan, Jo Ann Ebling, Judy Cauble, Jane Ann Johnston, Lynn Anderson, Janet Carpenter, Gladys Greenwood, Karen Montgomery, Sandy Hale, Pat Neill, and Camille Hefley.

Several members of the VIC Club attended a party in Midland Thursday night. Those enjoying the pool, basketball, shuffle board, and dancing at the Midland Youth Center were Sandra Murphy, Nancy Cunningham, Jackie Tucker, Bobby Thurman, Benson Kennedy,

JIMMY EVANS

Don Richardson, Jimmy Bailey, Charles Briggs, Marion Masters, Tommy Williams, Joe Davis, Allen Paddock, Charles Nance, and Mr. and Mrs. Shive.

Saturday night the VIC Club held a Valentine party in the cafeteria. A few attending were Nita Jean Jones, Wilma Cole, Bobby Thurman, Sandra Murphy, Shirley Lee, Charles Nance, Allan Alexander, and Jackie Tucker.

Today's Senior of the Week is Jimmy Evans, who is quite well known around BSHS for his athletic ability. He served as co-captain of both the football and basketball teams this year and has been an excellent player on both teams. Jimmy also participated in track. Jimmy is a member of the Key Club and was chosen Best All-Around Boy during his senior year.

Next fall, Jimmy plans to enter the University of Texas where we all know he will continue to shine as an athlete.

'Indian Love Call' Cues A Sweetheart Banquet

An all-time favorite song, "Indian Love Call" was the inspiration for decorations and program of the Sweetheart Banquet held Friday night at Hillcrest Baptist Church for the Intermediate and Young People's Training Union groups. Leaders of the units are Mr. and Mrs. Terry Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hendrick. The 45 guests were greeted by Mrs. Hendrick, who was costumed as an Indian squaw. They were seated at quartet tables by the Indian children, Diane Spivey, Sherrie Baird and Dixie Bugg. In the background an Indian village was devised, and smoke signals issued from a large black iron cauldron. Sweethearts chosen by the group were Louise Baker and Ronnie Bingham, Dorothy Bryant and Jerry Henderson, Mary Oliphant, last year's sweetheart, and Mrs. Carter presented old-fashioned bouquets of pink carnations to the girls and boutonnières to the boys. Carrying out the Indian theme, a team of players enacted a skit, "Heap Big Romance in the Park." Jeannette Johnson, Jimmy Weathers, Bobby Thurman and Jimmy Johnson took parts, and Ronnie Bingham portrayed the medicine man. Climax of the program came with group singing of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

Garry Moore is one of my favorite television stars, but when it comes to Garry Moore and his parapraps, Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "How Do I Love Thee" to sell crackers, that upsets me. There are some things that just don't seem to fit and that, to me, is one of them. . . . Had you noticed how many times cutting corners for quick meals means using mixes? Now even some home demonstration agents are using mixes in working out new recipes. . . . What is everyone getting in such a hurry about? I think some mixes are good, but I have yet to find one that makes a cake as delicious or one as fine in texture as the ones that are made by hand from the bowl to the stove. . . . But then perhaps I still remember the cakes my mama and grandmothers made. . . . which I might add were just really old-fashioned good.

Everyone who plans on doing anything this week is planning with reservations. If the weather doesn't flare up, some are planning to make little trips.

MR. AND MRS. LUCIAN JONES and MR. AND MRS. JIMMIE JONES plan to leave Thursday for Lafayette, La., where they will attend a convention of auto parts dealers. The two couples have made several convention trips together and are looking forward to this one.

MRS. THOMAS W. HARDY and son, Jim, plan to leave Friday for Austin, where they will spend several days with her mother, Mrs. D. H. Curlee. Mr. Hardy and Lige Fox plan to come down Saturday to attend a meeting for sanitariums.

MR. AND MRS. R. E. SMITH have had as their guest her mother, Mrs. J. S. Edgar, whose home is in Odem. She returned there Thursday.

SHEILA DALE has returned to her home in Noxice, after spending several days with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Nichols.

MRS. ANNIE SMITH was in Midland Thursday morning to attend a bridal shower for her niece, Geraldine Whitmore. The party was held at the home of Mrs. George Damron.

We've always heard the saying "If you've time to spare, go by air" which turned out to be true last weekend when MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON BETTLE and MR. AND MRS. R. L. HETH flew to San Antonio and Austin for a short trip. When they got to Austin and completed their visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gage, they found the weather was too fouled up to fly back home. They got back. . . . overland. . . . but the plane is still waiting for someone to return and bring it back here.

One of the prettiest parties of the year was the announcement party for KENNA MCGIBBON and CHARLES WEBB Friday night at the McGibbons home. The flowers were something to remember. Not only was it a big day for the prospective bridegroom in being part of the big announcement, but he was also celebrating his birthday anniversary. . . . Others at the party who were also giving Valentine Day an extra look along the birthday lines were ROBERT WEST WHIPKEY and MRS. CARL MURPHY.

Spending the night here last week was AL DILLON, former resident who now resides in Irving. The Dillon clan is growing up and scattering. LT. LARRY DILLON, wife and child are in Alaska with the Air Force; BILLY DILLON is a sophomore at A&M College; PATRICIA DILLON is in her second year of school teaching at Brownfield; and BOBBY, now a senior in high school, is the only one of the children still at home with Mr. and Mrs. Dillon.

Mrs. Blake Runner-Up For Beauty

PLAINVIEW—As an exciting moment in the last months of her college career, Beverly Edwards Blake was named runner-up in the 1958 Beauty Pageant at Wayland Baptist College on Feb. 6. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Edwards, 1006 Wood, and a graduate of the Big Spring High School in 1954. Mrs. Blake and her husband, Norman Blake, will be graduated in June from Wayland. Throughout her college career, she has been one of the top ranking students and active in many campus organizations. Currently she is clerk of the student government senate and a member of Future Teachers of America. This was the third year Mrs. Blake has been nominated for beauty honors, and for the past three years, she has been one of the nominees for the title of Homecoming Queen. She will be featured in the personality section of the 1958 Traveler, college yearbook.

City HD Club Adds 3 New Members

Mrs. M. E. Anderson was hostess to the City HD Club, Friday afternoon, when three new members were presented. They are Mrs. Robert A. Bonnell Jr., Mrs. D. D. Johnston and Mrs. C. L. Lumpkins.

The devotion was brought by Mrs. Anderson, and Mrs. Ross Callihan directed the recreational period. The 17 members began work on their new project, which is making mosaic tile trays.

When their turn comes to help with a party at the state hospital, the members agreed to bake cookies for the occasion.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Feb. 28 in the home of Mrs. Callihan, 433 Dallas.

Vieta Cornett, Charles Zeek Take Wedding Vows Saturday

LAMESA — Wedding vows read Saturday evening in the Bryan Street Baptist Church, united in marriage Vieta Goldie Cornett and Charles Ernest Zeek. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cornett and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Zeek both of Lamesa. The exchange of vows was read by the Rev. E. L. Jones, pastor of the church, as the couple stood before an archway of greenery entwined with red carnations. Baskets of white stock flanked the altar decoration and the branched candelabra, which held white cathedral tapers.

MRS. CHARLES ERNEST ZEEK

As the guests assembled Mrs. Bennie Lybrand of El Paso presented a prelude of organ music. She also accompanied the soloist, Julia Holder, as she sang "Pledging My Love", "I Walk with God" and "The Wedding Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white bridal satin and lace fashioned with a scooped neckline outlined with seed pearls. Her long tapered sleeves extended to points over the hands. A fully gathered chapel length skirt of lace and satin joined the bodice at the natural waistline which extended to a point at the center front.

Her veil of illusion floated from a scalloped lace bridal cap embroidered with seed pearls and highlighted with tear drop pearls. She carried a bouquet of feathered white carnations surrounding a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Tahita Neimeyer was the maid of honor; the bridesmaids included Lynda Gorman, Connie Calhoun, both of Lamesa and Clarice Cornett of Brownfield, cousin of the bride.

They wore identical gowns of white crystalene fashioned with low necklines outlined with narrow bands of red chiffon. Their headbands were fashioned of tiny red chiffon ruffles accented by seed pearls. Their colonial bouquets were formed of red carnations.

Bennie Lybrand of El Paso was the best man, and the ushers were Bob Boardman of Midland; Carl Crouch and Gerald Hardage both of Lubbock.

Cathy Cornett, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Tapers were lighted by Cheryl Barringer, cousin of the bridegroom, and Victor Cornett, brother of the bride.

Following the exchange of vows, a reception was held in the church parsonage. The table featured the attendants' bouquets as the center arrangement surrounding white tapers. A tiered wedding cake completed the table setting.

HOUSEPARTY Members of the houseparty included Barbara Harris, Charlette Cornett, Olinda York, Mary Lee Taylor, Ruth Ann Scott, Mrs. E. L. Jones, Mrs. G. Gorman, Mrs. E. H. Pearson, Mrs. R. E. Houston, Karen Campbell, Karen Applegate and Sue Vaughn.

At the time of her marriage the bride was a junior at Lamesa High School. Her husband was graduated from Lamesa High School and attended Texas Tech.

Churches Give Sweetheart Events For Young People

LAMESA — The senior class of Dawson High School was entertained with a Sweetheart Banquet Thursday evening at the Welch Baptist Church.

The speaker's table featured a white styrofoam heart nestled in white roses and red tulips and encircled by red net and cupid. Red and white candles were used on the tables and the background for the room featured cupid and hearts.

Mrs. M. L. Keener, WMU president, gave the welcome with Doyle Coor, senior class president, giving the response. "I've Got a Secret" was the entertainment for the evening, high school teachers made up the panel and the seniors were the contestants.

Rev. C. R. Blake pastor of the church, concluded the program with "Four Minutes of Your Time."

MIDWAY BAPTIST The junior senior sweetheart banquet was held in Fellowship Hall of the Midway Baptist Church, with "True Love" the theme.

Floyd Parsons, superintendent of schools from Big Spring, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Love of Neighbor." Special music was presented by Gene Campbell accompanied by Mrs. W. J. Beckham; Elena Esmond told the story of "Love in Action." Mrs. Bill Love gave the welcome.

Red carnations formed the center arrangement for the speaker's table with red tapers completing the table decorations. Cupids and hearts were suspended from the ceiling and around the room.

Melba Glover Is Bride Of D. Rogers

The home of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Lewis, 1319 Sycamore, was the scene of the wedding of Melba Laverne Glover and Doyle Rogers on Feb. 7.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Maurine Reed of Big Lake; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rogers, 406 State. Lewis is an uncle of the bride.

The double ring ceremony was read by Thomas E. Cudd, minister of the Main Street Church of Christ.

For her wedding, the bride chose a dress of white with a small black hat and veil. Her attendant, Nelda Gilmore, was dressed in pale blue with white hat and veil.

Serving as best man was an uncle of the bridegroom, Earl Ray Glover of Elgin.

The couple will make a home at 118 Madison.

Veteran Highway 'Troubleshooter' Faces Retirement Soon At Age 65

By WAYLAND YATES

In the prohibition days of the mid-1920s, a young Kent County sheriff started into the twin barrels of a booze maker's shotgun and talked for his life.

As he talked, the bootlegger edged closer and closer. The gap narrowed until the sheriff fancied he could read the No. 4 buckshot labels on the fronts of the cartridges. Suddenly he sprang forward, knocked the shotgun aside and clubbed its owner into submission.

The sheriff was S. A. (Sam) McComb, now of Big Spring, and his capacity for firm, decisive action under pressure made him a few years later a sort of "troubleshooter" and mountain mover for the struggling Texas Highway Department.

His services as a troubleshooter were so much in demand that McComb had eight different assignments the first 18 months he was with the Highway Department. Then, after finally alighting more or less permanently in charge of the Big Spring maintenance district, he and his crews were called upon to perform one of the most Herculean tasks on the records of the Highway Department.

Texas was preparing to open its 1936 Centennial celebration, and wanted U. S. Highway 80 open across the state into Dallas.

There was an 8 1/2-mile gap in Howard County. It was 60 days before the opening of the Centennial when District Engineer W. A. French Sr. of Abilene got the funds and the go-ahead signal from the highway commission.

That's when he joined the Highway Department—early in 1932. His first assignment was at Albany, where he worked as foreman on a team gang cutting down the notorious hills on U. S. 180 west of Albany.

After about four months there he was assigned to Snyder where—for six weeks—he helped get a road construction job going. Then he was sent to Rule on another troubleshooting job, then to Sweetwater, Abilene, Baird and finally to Big Spring, arriving here in September, 1933. He has been here ever since except for a year at Snyder in 1939-40.

McComb recalls that when he came here, the Big Spring maintenance and construction district had two trucks—an old Wichita with hand-crank dump and a chain-drive Mack.

"The rest of it was No. 2 scoops and picks," he says. At that time, Highway 80 was paved across the county, and U. S. 87 was paved 3 1/2 miles each way out of town. Rest of the roads in the county were in the "dirt" category.

"When it rained, we didn't go," McComb remembers.

In 1934, the federal government started making "relief jobs" for the thousands of unemployed across the nation. One of the projects here was the rebuilding of U. S. 80 from Big Spring to the Mitchell County line along its present route.

McComb's force grew to as many as 400 men and 200 mules, and it was 8 1/2 miles of that undertaking that was completed in 58 days.

"The Austin office said it couldn't be done, but Mr. French (W. A. French Sr., district engineer, father of W. A. French Jr. of Big Spring) said it could," McComb recalls.

"The Centennial was to open in June. When Mr. French finally got the money, we had just 60 days to do the work. We gave them back two days."

DOZEN SECTIONS McComb and Roberts put 12 foremen to work on the job, dividing the 8 1/2 miles into 12 segments. They built the culverts, established grades, installed the base and surfaced the roadway in time for the first Centennial traffic.

Much of the highway remained in service until freeway construction started about three years ago.

That was the last major construction project for McComb's Big Spring crew. Since then the workmen here have concentrated on maintenance and minor construction.

The two ancient trucks McComb started with here have been succeeded by a fleet of 10 modern dump trucks, three maintainers, two big 1 1/4-yard loaders and numerous pieces of smaller equipment. The crew now ranges from 15 to 20 men.

They now have more than 300 miles of state and federal highways to maintain, along with access roads, the thousands of signs and other accessories.

Along with his highway work, McComb has found plenty of time for youth and civic work. He has been a leader in the Scouting movement for 20 years, and has been in Chamber of Commerce work for a decade, having served as a director for several terms.

In the Scout program, he is now district chairman for the four-county Lone Star District. He has served as camping and activities chairman for two years and has been a member of the council executive board for several years.

He and Mrs. McComb, the former Verda Mae Bilberry, also of Kent County, are members of the First Presbyterian Church where McComb serves as an elder.

He also is past president of the Presbyterian Men's Class. A Shriner for 33 years, McComb is past president of the Big Spring Shrine Club. He is a member of all the Masonic bodies here and is a charter member of the Suez Shrine Temple. He is a past president of Highway Chapter No. 57 of the Texas Public Employees Association.

The McCombs have three children, Ell, district geologist for Cosden Petroleum Corp.; Dell, speech coach and teacher at Abilene High School and former instructor in Big Spring High; and Sammie Sue, now a senior in Big Spring High School.

Both Ell and Dell received degrees from Texas Tech, and Sammie Sue plans to enroll there after two years at Howard County Junior College. Ell, only one of the trio who is married, is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Currie of Big Spring.

164 On 'Priority' List For Soil Bank

Gabe Hammack, manager of the Howard County ASC office, said that 164 farmers have signed a "priority list" in this county for the soil bank program.

They are in addition to 124 who signed contracts, and will be offered contracts if additional soil bank funds become available.

Earlier this week, a soil bank official said that Texas cotton growers who signed up for the bank before the $5 million dollar ceiling was reached would be paid. I. H. Lloyd, who has charge of Texas' soil bank section, said there had been a much heavier participation than had been expected and county offices were notified to cease accepting agreements until allotments on a county basis could be figured.

Hammack disclosed Howard County's budget is $250,000 for 1957. There were 124 cotton growers have inked the agreements here before the signing of contracts was suspended.

Hammack said that the imposing list of waiting farmers seems to point out the difficulty a farmer would have in getting an application into the program now. "However," he added, "we are not trying to discourage anyone from getting his name on the priority list. By doing so, should a change of events make more funds available, he could be offered the same deal."

Cotton growers wishing to sign the waiting list should do so as soon as possible. The program, which began to take applications Jan. 13, will close its doors on Feb. 20.

Farmers who do not sign for priority before then will definitely be out for the year. Hammack said the local unit was not encouraging or discouraging applications, due to lack of information at the present and the large number already signed or waiting. Any farmer who has an agreement has until Feb. 20 to cancel it.

Farmers will receive from $26 to $36 per acre under the acreage reserve plan. Hammack noted that the County Community Committees had wanted to figure payments on a flat-rate basis. This, however, turned out to be negative to ASC policies. On the average, most farmers can count on $32 per acre as compensation. Tenants may draw to a maximum of $3,000.

Advice Offered On Handling Credit

"Credit selling is one of the many ways a small business can boost its sales volume. To succeed in the credit field, however, you must select customers who pay bills promptly and in full.

In order to get the greatest possible number of good customers, each person who asks for credit. The most important question is 'How promptly does the applicant pay his bills?' If he has never had an account, the question is 'How well may the applicant be expected to pay his bills?'

This advice comes from a U. S. Department of Commerce Bulletin titled "Summary of Information on the Retail Credit Bureau as an Aid to Profitable Credit Selling," available for review in the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce reference library.

"A credit bureau is a storehouse of credit facts about the customers in your community. It has as its major purpose the gathering and reporting of all types of information that may affect a person's paying habits, and makes this information available to business and professional people for their confidential use in extending credit."

A Bible Thought For Today

Howbeit Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee. (Mark 5:19)

A Whale Of An Attraction

Within about eight weeks, Big Spring will be the scene of a track meet which is due to bring two of the world's fastest men together for the first time. One is Bobby Morrow, the famous Abilene Christian College sprint champion of the last Olympics; the other is Dave Sime, the Duke University streak who has been prevented by scheduling and injuries from being entered more than twice with Morrow—and each has one victory. This is, in the sports writers jargon, a "natural." If it materializes as now planned, writers and fans from a wide area should flock into Big Spring for the April 4-5 ABC Relays. The interest of millions of others will be focused upon us. Perhaps this will dramatize as nothing else could just how major an attraction the meet, sponsored by our American Business Club, has become. Consider that it will have the leading West Texas high school teams enrolled; that it is already the biggest junior college attraction; that it is also a major meeting for senior colleges and universities. Club officials have succeeded in getting commitments from Southern Methodist University, Baylor University, Texas Tech, The University of Texas (all of them Southwest conference schools), the University of Houston, Abilene Christian College, North Texas State College, and Duke University. If that's not a potent line up, we don't know what would beat it. Shortly when ABC members go out with their programs and tickets, they certainly will have a whale of an attraction to sell.

Don't Delay Your Heavy Planting

This is an old subject, but have you done your heavy planting for your yard? Right now we are in the season of the year when trees, shrubs and bushes ought to be put into the ground for best results next summer. Within less than a month the weather will warm considerably and sap will be rising. You need to get these items in place before that time so that they can begin putting out their underground feeder system and get it well established before the hot weather season comes. In the interest of beautifying our community we urge you to get busy during the remainder of February on this heavier type of planting. Flowers and grass can come later, for most of them are hot weather plants anyhow. The only way we will make our town have a more attractive appearance is to plant more, work at it more, and clean up more often and more thoroughly. All of this not only will give us cause for greater pride, but it will be a means of advertising to others that here is a city that does try to be cleaner and brighter.

David Lawrence

The Recession And What To Do About It

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has just placed an important "bet" on the future trend of American business. He bets that the bottom of the present "recession" will have been reached next month and that the "pickup" will then begin. He doesn't say when the "recovery" process will be completed but predicts that it will be well under way "later this year." Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, says that the government will use its economic and financial power to promote "recovery" but only "in every sound way." The mere fact that such a statement was issued shows an awareness on the part of the administration of the psychological impact that could result from Tuesday's announcement that 4.5 million persons are unemployed. Mr. Eisenhower accompanies his comment with a fact sheet outlining the measures being taken by the government to encourage construction, to speed up the fulfillment of defense contracts already authorized and to operate more flexibly the credit machinery of the nation, especially in the mortgage field. The real problem is to determine exactly how and when the various remedial measures will take hold in our complex economy. Perhaps the most important factor of all is to be found on the psychological side. The President is positive that the recovery will be under way soon and he is emphatic that "we are not facing a prolonged downswing in activity." This in itself is a stimulus. The President doubtless has in mind the experience of the country in previous recessions and that it takes a year or more for them to run their course. To most people the present "recession" began in this month when they first heard of large unemployment. Actually, the "re-adjustment" began in the spring of 1957 but was not recognized as having considerable momentum until the last quarter of 1957. This correspondent on October 23, 1957, wrote of the "economic recession" then going on and said "there is no denying that a major change in the economy is in process of evolution this year." Later—November 19, 1957—it was pointed out in these dispatches that the action at that time of the Federal Reserve Board in reversing its "tight money" policy "may historically emerge as a step that possibly avoided a 'depression' and, in actual fact, curbed a 'recession'." The question all along has been how far the downward swing would go, and on January 22, 1958, this correspondent said: "All of the bad news about the impact of the recession has probably not materialized as yet. Unemployment is around four million, and there are many indications that it will reach beyond five million and even to six million before the first quarter of 1958 is over." Now the President says that "we have had most of our bad news on the unemployment front." This is reassuring.

Production Sags Again, But Worst May Be Near

The news isn't good. Production slipped another three points in January. The Federal Reserve Board index, at 133, is down 12 points since August (8) per cent, and 14 points (10) per cent since December, 1956.

Business failures in the week ended February 6 were the highest for any week since April, 1940. For the first six weeks this year, failures came to 1,788, or 10 per cent higher than the same period last year. And the 1,120,000 rise in unemployment in January was so sharp, it jarred loose a statement of reassurance from President Eisenhower. The number of persons out of work rose from 3,374,000 in December to 4,494,000.

An increase was to be expected. In January, persons who have temporary Christmas jobs are let go; and industrial production usually sags seasonally. But this rise was about double what might be considered "normal." And more bad news.

Another increase is possible in February, bringing unemployment close to 5,000,000. I'd expect that to be the 1958 peak, despite scare talk of 6,000,000 and 7,000,000. The good news is President Eisenhower's statement of Wednesday, though it, like the unemployment statistics, must be "adjusted." The President has to weigh not only what he says but how what he says will affect others. He can't be pessimistic; he would only accelerate what he's trying to stop—the decline in business. But Mr. Eisenhower is alert to the problems. That's a real plus. He's not going to bask in inactivity.

True, the President put his best statistics forward. In promising a drop in unemployment in March, he has a nine to one bet. Since 1941, unemployment has increased between February and March in only two years—1946, the recession year, and 1954, a recession year. And in '54, unemployment dropped rapidly after the March increase.

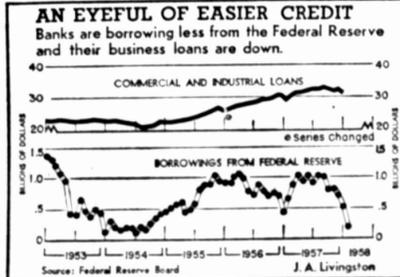

The ingredients going into the business pot have not changed since last fall. Business men are less spendy; they're putting less into new plant and machinery. Consumers, well bought after 12 years of postwar prosperity, are not clawing their way to new cars, new furniture, new houses, new TV sets.

This is a capital goods lull and a consumer goods lull, aggravated by a decline in inventories. People who are out of jobs are buying less. People who are on shorter work time are buying less, too. And relatives and friends of those on "uneasy street" are less willing to spend freely or go into debt.

Now this will slowly change. The Department of Defense has been pushing out orders much faster than expected. These are for missiles, planes, and other equipment already in production. It won't take long—at the most three months—for these demands to exert pressure on prime contractors and suppliers. They'll provide jobs and increase consumption of basic materials—aluminum, steel, copper, fabrics. Inventories, now being reduced, will have to be replenished.

And state and local government outlays on schools, highways, hospitals are rising. The Federal Reserve Board continues to make credit easy. Member banks are borrowing less at Federal Reserve Banks (see chart) and their commercial loans are declining. This makes them anxious to lend. Soon, they'll be shopping for borrowers. Credit is easier and cheaper.

A conservative economist—looking at the statistics, seeing reports of continued layoffs which outnumber reports of rehiring—can only make one comment on the future: The trend continues down; there are no signals yet of an upturn. As Heinz E. Luedicke, editor of the Journal of Commerce, said recently in his column, "The turnaround is still largely guess work." As I figure it, the production index will drop another two or three points to 130, but the forces for reversal of the downturn are already at work. The downturn should be arrested by May or June, and be followed by a modest upturn later in the year. That's my guess. I hope it's educated.

'Hans Brinker' Was Boring To Video Critic

By CHARLES MERCER NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—"I'm not complaining and I have no regrets," said Milton Berle, "but I wish that I'd come in on the cream of television instead of getting the bottom of the bottle in TV's earliest days."

Berle discussed the past, present and future during a break in rehearsals for a straight dramatic role he plays next Wednesday on "Kraft Theatre" NBC-TV, 9 p. m. EST. After refusing dozens of offers Berle said that he accepted the lead in "Material Witness" by Henry Denker because:

"This is an intensive, vivid study of a guy who becomes involved as a material witness in a murder. He might be anybody. He's a kind of Joe Doe. Certainly he's not a television comedian — which is a role I wouldn't care to play. After all, I've been one."

Berle is so fixed in the public mind as a comedian that practically no one remembers he was first a straight dramatic actor with numerous movie and stage credits.

Recently returned from a European trip, Berle has been playing night clubs in this country and making what he calls spasmodic appearances on television.

Is there any possibility of Berle coming back as a TV comedian on a regular basis? "The only basis on which I'd consider doing my own show again," he says, "is that it not be a weekly program. I'd be willing to do eight or 10 shows a year in a 39-show season. I'd want them to be just as good as they should be, and I don't think any comedian can do more shows than that in a TV season, and make them what they should be. The physical and mental hazards of one a week are simply too great."

For seven years, from 1948 to 1955, Berle did a show a week. He is still under a long-term contract to NBC, but has not done a full comedy show for the network in more than a year.

Now Closing RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—When a sudden January storm dumped four inches of snow on Richmond, many local employers let their workers off early so they could get home safely. One of the first firms to close for the day was the Eskimo Pie Corp., manufacturers of ice cream bars.

Around The Rim

Not Very Efficient, But Very Cozy

If it hadn't been as cold as assorted items in Montana when the gas bill came, I probably would have had a nuclear fission all my own. As it was, I just simmered a little, since I appreciated the fact that the house was warm, and that's worth something.

So let it be understood right now I got no quarrel with the fuel people. Gas is downright clean and convenient and efficient, but it ain't cozy. What I mean is, when you come blustering in out of the snow, chilled to the marrow by a north wind, you need a source of heat you can get right up next too. To rub the hands by, to let the ears tingle as they warm up, and even turn around and give the seat of the pants a good soaking in heat. 'Nother' better than getting toasty real quick after a spell in the cold.

This central heating is right up my alley, most times, but it doesn't fulfill the immediate needs as outlined above. What you have to do nowadays is stamp around flinging arms around your shoulders and all that stuff until your body temperature gets up to that of the room. This is just not cozy.

You old enough to remember when fireplaces were utilitarian sources of heat and not things of luxury? They had their shortcomings, particularly when they had to be started come daylight on a frigid morning; when they called incessantly for more kindling to be chopped, more wood to be split, more coal to be brought in.

Well, we lived with 'em in my old home place when I was a youngun. Had some cozy moments, too. But as times went on and progress crept in, Papa acquired one of those tremendous things of majestic proportions called a base burner.

This was set up in sort of a central room, and was designed to heat more than one room at a time! Better 'n' that, the chute at the top of the thing could be filled with a scuttle or two of hard coal, and as the fire was hot enough to keep glowing throughout the night. Then, the daylight chore was not so bitter, but consisted merely of shaking down the grate, getting out the clinkers, and opening the dampers. What you had was some warmth all the time, and that was luxury. This base burner of ours must have stood five feet high, had ornate steel ornaments on top and down the corners. And the bulging sides around the fire box had those little squares of insulating, through which you could see the tongues of blue flame.

Well, this was the focal point of a modest home, on a winter evening. The head of the household was on one side, in his Morris chair, reading the evening paper. The lady might be on the other side, darned stockings.

And smack in front, on the floor, would be two or three kids on their bellies, maybe working away at a map that the geography teacher next day might find acceptable. There would come a time, after awhile, for everybody to eat an apple or some other simple refreshment before the kids were undressed and sent hustling into an icebox bedroom. Then the old man would shake down the stove, fill the top with new coal, close the dampers and everybody would hit the hay.

Nothing very exciting about this, and nothing very efficient about the heating. But, like I say, it was downright cozy. —BOB WHIPKEY

Just Take It Easy, And Relax

I hailed the taxi at 84th and Madison, and we started downtown. What a trip! The driver was, by all odds, the most tense taxi man I had encountered even in America's tension capital. In the teeming Madison Avenue traffic, he fumed and fretted. Other drivers exasperated him. He vociferously expressed his opinion of them, using theological terms, but certainly not putting them together in a theological manner. All this with complete unawareness that his passenger was a member of the clergy. This man gave the impression that he, alone, knew how to drive. He was obviously not expert in peace of mind.

Then I noticed a card about 5 x 7, appended by scotch tape to his instrument panel, where it hung in full view. On it in large letters, were printed these words: "If you can keep your head in the midst of all this confusion—you don't understand the situation."

I asked him what the sign meant, and he replied that he didn't know, but that it appealed to him.

That could be one of the things wrong with us today; we are not keeping our heads too well in all this confusion. And when we are tense and nervous in thought and reaction, it is only natural that we should not "understand the situation."

The mind cannot think effectively when heated. Only the cool mind can operate rationally and factually. It was never intended that we should think with our emotions. The mind is the instrument of thought, and to function at its best, it must be free from tension and super excitement. When tense, the mind tightens up. There is no free flow of mental power. Only when relaxed can the mind produce the insights and intuitions that enable one to grapple successfully with tough situations.

So we greatly need to learn to relax our tensions.

It is pathetic how tense many people are. I went into the big bus terminal in New York, to take a bus to New Jersey. In the terminal is an escalator which, I'm told, is the fastest in the country. Starting to get on, I was rather rudely brushed aside by a businessman. How did I know he was that? Well, he had a briefcase under his arm, and a worried look on his face. And believe it or not, I watched that man actually run up the fastest escalator in the United States!

On the street in New York I met a friend. When I asked the usual question, "How are you?", he went into a long and detailed dissertation on how bad he felt. "I'm so tense, I can hardly take it," he complained. "Life in this town is getting me down," he fumed. He waved his arms in the general direction of the whole city and said, "The very air of this town is filled with tension."

"No, Bill," I said, "I must disagree with you. If you were to take a sampling of this air into a laboratory for analysis, they wouldn't find a trace of tension in the air. You see, tension is in the minds of people who breathe the air."

And that is true too—tension is in our thoughts. If we keep relaxed within, we can handle the confusion that is without. A friend of mine is the world famous missionary, Dr. E. Stanley Jones. When people say to him, "You must be tired and tense," he replies, "No, I am fresh in God."

It's an interesting phrase, "fresh in God." It rather reminds you, doesn't it, of that wonderful Bible passage, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint." Economic Skirmishing In Detroit

DETROIT, Mich.—In this city that gave the world mass production and the low-priced car there is today an underlying uneasiness that does not derive entirely from the fact that one out of every eight workers is without work.

Detroit has always led, whether in the peak of exuberant prosperity or the grim depths of depression. Unemployment of mid-January, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission, was 12.4 per cent of the labor force, and that is somewhat more than double the national average. The other automobile centers in Michigan have also been hit, and the total unemployment in the state is put at 320,000, which is 11 per cent of the work force.

This reporter has talked with industry, union and government officials and almost without exception they are frank in saying they do not anticipate the business upturn predicted by the Administration in Washington for next summer. Some are of the opinion that the level of employment will hold about where it is, while others believe the number of jobs is bound to increase.

Economic analysts of the United Auto Workers Union are saying that only by an immediate sharp tax reduction, increasing take-home pay by lowering the automatic deduction for Federal income tax, will be sufficient to halt the decline. Industry spokesmen are more cautious.

For a considerable time Detroit has had a hard core of unemployment up to 100,000, and in the past year and a half it has gradually increased. But during the period from December 15, 1957, to January 15 of this year an abrupt change took place that went far beyond the most pessimistic projections of the State Employment Commission.

The companies that supply the big motor manufacturers are beginning to be hit. A fairly large supplier did some calculations and found that he could fill all existing orders in nine days of operation each month. This meant a drastic cutting down of overhead, and he faced the unpleasant necessity of firing or furloughing salaried employees.

The immediate reason is obvious enough — the new cars are not selling. According to unofficial estimates, Ford sales for January were down 30 per cent, Chrysler 34 per cent, General Motors 11 per cent, American Motors, with its smaller, more economical car, went contrary to the trend with a 26 per cent increase.

As a result of the lag, the inventory of new cars jumped by about 110,000 to well over 800,000. This is 20 per cent higher than the level in January a year ago.

Why the cars are not selling is something else again. In their testimony before Senator Estes Kefauver's anti-monopoly committee, the industry executives insisted that higher prices had nothing to do with it. They talked of lack of confidence, pointing out that total income is still at a very high level. One of GM's vice presidents, Edward T. Ragsdale of Buick, complained in a recent interview that the newspapers were giving too much attention to pessimistic news.

Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers put it all down to high prices, high profits and lack of consumer purchasing power. He came up with a plan for splitting a percentage of the company profits by way of a bonus to the workers and a rebate to each car buyer at the end of the year.

But these were only the preliminary skirmishes in a struggle to come in the months ahead between the powerful forces of big industry and big labor for which Detroit has become the symbol. It is this impending struggle, with all that it means, not alone for Detroit and for the auto industry but the whole nation, that explains the uncertainty in the air.

Inevitably, of course, this has become political, and with 73,273 workers exhausting their 26 weeks of unemployment benefits this year—averaging $36 a week — Governor G. Mennen Williams has sent a message to the Legislature calling for a variety of moves to help create employment. But that is also a preliminary skirmish, for no one here doubts that in the congressional election in the fall the recession will be the big issue. (Copyright by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 139:7—"Whither shall I go from thy spirit? Or whither shall I flee from thy presence?"

PSALM 23:6—"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." (King James Version)

A father, writing to a son serving overseas in the armed forces, closed his letter with these words: "Remember, my son, no one is ever far from God."

It seems that this faith must have been in the mind of the psalmist when he put down these words: "Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?" For these verses are not saying that God is a super policeman who keeps us under His eye. Rather they tell us that man cannot go where God is not.

Let faith be the sustaining factor in the living of these days, assuring us that as God has been with us in all our yesterdays, He will be with us in our unknown tomorrows. As an old saint of God put it: "O Lord, help me to understand that you won't let anything come my way that you and I can't handle together."

The man of faith finds strength and courage even in life's darkest hours because God is with him. "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life. . ."

GM Marks 50 Golden Years Of Automotive Production

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automobile Editor

DETROIT, Feb. 15 (AP)—If you had bought 10 shares of General Motors stock in 1908 for $1,000, kept it and exercised your rights to buy more, you would now have 22,869 shares worth more than $776,000.

And you would have received nearly $600,000 in dividends over the years.

Although the world's largest industrial corporation won't be 50 years old until Sept. 16, it already has begun observance of its golden anniversary. The golden stream it has poured forth over the years reached an unprecedented $1,189,477,082 in net income for the auto industry's record year of 1955.

Brain child of a onetime buggy maker, who developed into a financial wizard, board chairman of the corporation, General Motors has made more than 68 million vehicles in less than 50 years. It has also made scores of millionaires.

The erstwhile buggy maker who headed a gigantic single corporation to build modern vehicles was the late William Crapo Durant. He was credited with a Midas touch but lost two multi-million-dollar fortunes in stock market speculations.

It was Durant who brought Oldsmobile, Cadillac, Buick and Oakland (later Pontiac) together to form the nucleus of General Motors in 1908. But others fashioned the structure that held GM together.

There was Alfred P. Sloan Jr., now honorary board chairman, who sold roller bearings before joining General Motors. Sloan, now in his 83rd year, was an organizational genius. GM got Sloan when it took over United Motors in 1918.

Then there was the fabulous Charles F. Kettering, long the auto industry's No. 1 engineer-scientist, who was involved in so many engineering advances of the car industry they almost challenge tabulation. He adapted the self-starter to cars in 1911. He figured prominently in development of so-called ethyl gasoline for cars and in numerous medical procedures. With Sloan he founded the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Foundation.

Another was William S. Knudsen, a Danish immigrant. He became a production genius, built up Chevrolet, GM's big money maker, became president of General Motors and left the corporation to direct production for the government during World War II. The destinies of General Motors now are directed by a onetime accountant, Harlow H. Curtice. Curtice joined GM in response to a classified advertisement in the Flint (Mich.) Journal calling for a bookkeeper.

BOUNDLESS ENERGY

He has been described as a man of great administrative skill, boundless energy, optimism and much of the supersalesmanship credited in the earlier days to Durant.

GM prides itself on the fact it has many stockholders. At last count they numbered more than 700,000. In contrast, its employees number about 600,000.

Few if any of the original purchasers of General Motors stock in 1908 held it through the numerous splittings that were made during the last 49 years. Durant lost most of his holdings in his stock market speculations.

Most of the smaller holders lacked the vision to foresee a golden tide from their investments. There were times, too, when even bankers wanted cash rather than General Motors stock certificates.

The larger holders — like Kettering, Charles S. Mott, Sloan, members of the Du Pont family and the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. — in virtually all instances have turned substantial parts of their great earnings back into far-reaching benefactions.

Besides the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Research Foundation, there is the Mott Foundation, figuring broadly in charitable, cultural, scientific and economic projects.

General Motors as a corporation devotes millions of dollars annually to research projects, university scholarships and fellowships. Its General Motors Institute at Flint, Mich., is the world's largest industrial educational institution. It has been part of GM since 1926. The curricula include engineering and business administration and dealer cooperative programs.

BLAZING A TRAIL FOR BRUSH ERADICATION
Roy McNew works from strip to kerosene mesquites on his range

Four-Year War On Mesquite Under Way On Fairview Farm

Roy McNew is blazing a trail through his mesquite thickets in a four-year march to restore his grasslands.

McNew, who has a section of land in the Fairview community northwest of Big Spring, was the first to sign under the Great Plains conservation program. By the end of 1961 he hopes to have brush off all his land and reseeded grasses well established over all the place except 120 acres in cultivation.

His Great Plains program worked out with the aid of Soil Conservation Service technicians here, earns payments for varying practices. These range from approximately 50 per cent in the case of brush control to as much as 80 per cent for grass reseeding.

When his family came to Howard County 50 years ago, according to McNew, most of the rangeland was a sea of grass. While much of the pasture has been turned into cultivation, the remaining acres have been invaded by brush. McNew figures that if he gets rid of the brush, the moisture it consumed will be left largely for beneficial grasses.

The McNew farm, located a mile north and 3 1/2 miles west of Fairview, has the 120 cultivated acres put to high residue producing crops of grain and forage. Part of the planting is interseeded with guar, a legume designed to improve the soil. Residues from the crop are left on the surface of the field to protect against blowing.

Scholastic Count Shows Increase Of 6.8 Per Cent

Preliminary figures on the 1958 scholastic census shows a 6.8 per cent increase over the previous year.

Total of scholastics included on the first preliminary total is 6,363, said Dan Conley, census officer for the Big Spring Independent School District. This is an increase of 407 over last year.

"There is a possibility that others need to be added to the list," said Conley. "If we have missed enumerating any child who will be six years old on or before Sept. 1, 1958, or who will not have attained his or her 18th birthday on or before Sept. 1, 1958, please call our office."

Conley said that try as enumerators may, there always are some who are inadvertently overlooked. It is vitally important to the school district to have all scholastics on the roll, he said.

He asked anyone who knows of children not yet counted to call him at AM 4-6819.

The preliminary figures, subject to audit for duplications, shows 5,991 white and 372 Negro scholastics, a total of 6,363, where as a year ago the total was 5,828 white and 328 Negro. The white scholastics are up 6.4 per cent and the colored 13.4 per cent.

McNew broke his program into four parts. He will do root plowing on 115 acres the first year, along with brush eradication on 50 acres. In the next three years he will eradicate brush from 50 acres per year, which will complete the job because he already has cleared 200 acres of mesquite.

He follows a unique plan in his brush control, slashing a path through the thickets. At intervals he sets up kerosene barrels, which serve as a source of supply for recharging portable sprays. The stumps on the slashed area are sprayed, and so is the base of the brush in proximity on either side.

He watches the area for signs of revival of the brush. Any new growth is promptly given a spray of kerosene again until the kill is complete. McNew explained that the process is too costly to let it revert back to brush after a few years.

Under the root plowing, the massive sweep moves underground about 15 inches, cutting roots and raking them to the top. At the same time, grass roots are barely disturbed. Behind the root plow, an attachment reseeded grass as the operation proceeds.

The whole undertaking, said McNew, is designed to make and keep his place a grassland—not a brushland.

Post Office Receives Bids On Cuspidors

Believe it or not the 17 cuspidors which have performed long and valiant service in the lobby and workroom of the Big Spring post office, now retired, have some value.

Elmer Boatler, postmaster, said he had received three bids for the cabs and that two of the three were from dealers in antiques.

The third bid, he said, was submitted by a resident who said he wanted to own the spittoons for "sentimental" reasons.

Boatler indicated he would sell the 17 relics to the best bidder on Feb. 18. He added he would welcome any additional bids.

The spittoons were ordered removed from their time-honored locations by the Post Office Department effective on Feb. 1.

The Post Office Department decreed that such facilities were no longer needed and were not artistic additions to the postal surroundings. The postmaster was instructed to gather up those cuspidors still in existence, polish them as best possible, and offer the lot for sale to the highest and best bidder.

If no bids were received, the postmaster was instructed to otherwise dispose of the lot.

The Big Spring lot, however, will be sold. The presence of three bids insures that a sale will certainly be made when Feb. 18 rolls around.

Carr To Speak At Editors Meeting

ODESSA, Feb. 15 (AP)—Wagoner Carr of Lubbock, speaker of the Texas House, will address the West Texas Press Assn. at its mid-winter meeting here Sunday.

Carr will speak at the luncheon Sunday noon.

The meeting opened Saturday night with a reception given by the Odessa American.

Speakers at the Sunday morning business session will include W. H. Graham of Farwell, Association president; John Guffey of Odessa; James N. Allison Jr., of Midland; Glenn Edwards of Haskell, Iowa; Joe Pickle of Big Spring; Fredric Devries of Slaton; Roy Craig; Roy Fox; F. E. Perry; Curtis Sterling; Nell Vanzant of Odessa; and Bill Collyns of Midland. Roberts of Andrews will be the chairman of the morning session.

Calm Playwright A Rebel At Heart

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Appearances are deceiving with John Osborne, Broadway's new dramatic sensation.

External calm conceals an inner volcano.

And, conversation with the author discloses, sudden success is not taming the rebel mood.

"Boring, tedious and meaningless," is Osborne's retort to those who label him England's "angry young man."

"The words are something of an Osborne slogan in other directions too. He rarely says the expected.

Osborne, who is 27 and has remarked that he likes to give people "lessons in feeling," has provided two sizzling hits this fresh season on Broadway.

He has just followed up "Look Back in Anger," a drama that has been packing them in since October, with "The Entertainer," a frank portrayal of some seedy souls that has enticed Sir Laurence Olivier back to Broadway for one of his rare appearances.

"The Entertainer" set box-office records during a two week stop in Boston and arrived this week at the Royale amid a record ticket scramble. Olivier has promised to stay only eight weeks, but sponsors are hoping that Sir Laurence's noted caution about long engagements will be overwhelmed by the public demand.

Girl in makeup: Another stand-out Broadway visitor from England is Joan Plowright, an actress of many ages.

Miss Plowright, a roundish lass of 26 with intense black eyes, has just wound up her American debut as a hag of 94 years in Ionesco's nihilistic irony "The Chairs," at the Phoenix Theater.

That chore completed, she has joined "The Entertainer" in a rare appearance as a girl of her own age.

In the last several years she has variously performed as a lad of 8, an adolescent and a matron of 30.

Such age versatility "is not as unusual in England as it obviously is here," she says.

Rialto Roundup: Composer Meredith Willson believes in getting supermileage out of melody, careful listening to the score of "The Music Man" discloses.

Two of the hit show's top songs are actually the same tune with different words and rhythm.

Show business trade paper Variety has confirmed public opinion that this is Broadway's best season in years, but a sudden flock of flops has dulled some of the glitter.

Indications are that producers David Merrick and Leland Hayward will prepare Ethel Merman's next Broadway appearance, a musical version of Gypsy Rose Lee's memoirs. TV Singer Dorothy Collins has cancelled her stage debut in a City Center revival of "Oklahoma," because of impending motherhood.

Scheduled openings this week are "Portofino," a musical at the Adelphi on Wednesday, and "The Day the Money Stopped," a drama starring Richard Basehart, at the Belasco Thursday.

Nobody Is Ever TOO YOUNG TO START SAVING

Take charming Chris Elaine Davis, for instance. She's just three months old — but already she's an investor in First Federal Savings & Loan. At left you see young Chris Elaine with her mother, Mrs. Harold L. Davis, 1738 Purdue, as they receive an account book from Mrs. Helen Mahoney of First Federal.

That account of Chris Elaine's can grow, and g-r-o-w! It will draw 3 1/2 per cent, compounded each six months. It can be the start of a college fund, it will be there for any purpose in the future.

You, too, can profit from thrift, with a regular savings account at First Federal. Encourage your children to establish an investment account, and to add to it regularly. You — and they — will be surprised how it will grow!

Marilyn Morris In Tech Play

Marilyn Morris of Big Spring is among 23 students at Texas Tech who will participate in the 1958 Varsity Show in Lubbock April 17 and 18.

This year's show will be "Guys and Dolls," a stage production that ran successfully in New York.

Miss Morris, a sophomore in arts and sciences, will take the roles of both Agatha and Mimi in the play, and will also understudy for the role of a major character, Adelaide.

Only one other area student is taking part in the production. She is Mary Herrington of Odessa, filling the job of associate choreographer.

Hi School Follies Due This Week

This year's High School Follies follows the general pattern of most of those given in the past.

The "New Follies of 1958" will be a variety show with a central theme to tie the acts together.

into some sort of continuity. The central theme this year will be aboard ship on a round the world cruise. Last year's theme was a travelogue.

According to Mrs. Betty Lou Green, faculty supervisor of the Follies, the passengers and crew of the ship take turns in entertaining each other. In this way, continuity is given most of the acts.

There are other scenes one might not expect to see aboard a ship at sea, so these are solved by having the ship dock in various ports. On the Riviera, for example, a night club scene presents six couples dancing to "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend," plus a Spanish number. A stop at the South Sea island of Pango-Pango makes room for a modern dance version of native customs.

There are a few Western vignettes that were solved by means of the "flashback," in which cowboys among the passengers begin recalling events from their past.

This fifth year of the follies will be presented next Thursday and Friday in the High School Auditorium. It is sponsored by the Student Council and the Court Jesters, speech department organization.

Milton Berle Has No Regrets On Video Life

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—"I'm not complaining and I have no regrets," said Milton Berle, "but I wish that I'd come in on the cream of television instead of getting the bottom of the bottle in TV's earliest days."

Berle discussed the past, present and future during a break in rehearsals for a straight dramatic role he plays next Wednesday on "Kraft Theatre" NBC-TV, 9 p.m. EST. After refusing dozens of offers Berle said that he accepted the lead in "Material Witness" by Henry Denker because:

"That is an intensive, vivid study of a guy who becomes involved as a material witness in a murder. He might be anybody. He's a kind of Joe Doe. Certainly he's not a television comedian—which is a role I wouldn't care to play. After all, I've been one."

Berle is so fixed in the public mind as a comedian that practically no one remembers he was first a straight dramatic actor with numerous movie and stage credits.

Recently returned from a European trip, Berle has been playing night clubs in this country and making what he calls spasmodic appearances on television.

Is there any possibility of Berle coming back as a TV comedian on a regular basis?

"The only basis on which I'd consider doing my own show again," he says, "is that it not be a weekly program. I'd be willing to do eight or 10 shows a year in a 39-show season. I'd want them to be just as good as they should be, and I don't think any comedian can do more than that in a TV season and make them what they should be. The physical and mental hazards of one a week are simply too great."

For seven years, from 1948 to 1955, Berle did a show a week. He is still under a long-term contract to NBC, but has not done a full comedy show for the network in more than a year.

CINEMA COMMENT 'Sayonara' Tells Nostalgic Story

"Sayonara." A young fellow who's trying to get back to a wife he left in Japan summed it up succinctly: "This is the most true to life movie I've ever seen. This is Japan." He went back to his seat to see the film again.

There is very definitely a strong nostalgia about this story, even for those who never made it to Japan, but would have liked to. It has an appeal to many others who have only heard about the beauties of Japan.

The acting and direction are as superb as the photography. I once saw Red Buttons on TV, and changed to another channel, but his performance in "Sayonara" of a GI homelessly in love with a Japanese girl deserves an Academy Award nomination. He helps to capture that indefinable atmosphere of the Orient that many an ex-GI has tried in vain to describe to the folks back home.

Direction by Joshua Logan makes that atmosphere an integral part of the story. An example may be had in the death scene. According to European opera tradition, which was adopted as standard for American movies, any actor who comes upon a scene of death must open the door violently and throw his arms upward, his scream or other expression being accompanied by crashing music. But in "Sayonara," Logan kept it strong but subdued, in perfect keeping with the emotions which the people involved feel but do not show fully.

Miiko Taka and Miyoshi Umeki create a true impression of the sweet innocence that broke down the reserve of many a mother-dominated American and made him feel the male strength of his pioneer forebears. Marlon Brando holds his performance in restraint as the soft-spoken son of a military family who must decide between his Air Force career and his love for a Japanese girl.

If you've ever wondered what Japan is like, or if you'd like to live some of it, "Sayonara" comes highly recommended.

The Abominable Snowman of the Himalayas. This makes the second attempt at getting a story out of one of the world's more famous legends.

Hollywood might do better to wait for Tom Slick to capture himself a Yeti (as the snowmen are called) and then buy the film from his expedition for use as a documentary.

In the present opus, the Yeti are depicted as a super-intelligent race awaiting man's self-extinction to take over the world. (Scientists think the snowmen, if they exist, might possibly be rather stupid descendants of apemen who escaped the onslaught of homo sapiens.)

In the film's exploration party are a British botanist, his beautiful wife (naturally) and a nasty old American villain.

Mr. Slick couldn't be blamed if he sued for libel.

"Deep Six." Alan Ladd stars in his own Jaguar production in this story of a naval officer with a Quaker upbringing. The plot centers around the often-used formula of a man fighting his conscience to gain a sense of duty more in line with that of his comrades in arms. William Bendix and Keenan Wynn help in developing the plot as two of the people who think an officer must be a killer—as often he must, before he can be a hero. The Quaker's main victory is in proving a man need not kill to prove his courage, but he cancels out whatever moral victory he may have gained by eventually overcoming his religious background and becoming a good officer.

"Man of a Thousand Faces." James Cagney in one of the best of his recent roles. He portrays Lon Chaney, the makeup wizard whose uncanny ability at disguise brought him before millions of movie-goers in the days of silent films.

A child of deaf-mute parents in a day when such people were cruelly mistreated, Chaney became the greatest exponent of kindness of his generation. His roles as the hunchback of Notre Dame and the phantom of the opera, to name only a few, were designed to gain sympathy for unfortunates.

But the film concentrates mainly on the mystery of Chaney's life off the screen. It is, in essence, the story of a troubled man who cannot, until the day of his death, understand the forces that drive him.

"All Mine to Give." Glynis Johns and Cameron Mitchell as the parents, and Patty McCormack and five other talented youngsters as the children, portray a true story of frontier life.

The story was written by a descendant of the family, and gained notice in print as "The Day They Gave Babies Away." It is a deeply emotional story, but not quite of the tear-jerker, soap-opera variety.

The parents, immigrants to a new country, start life on the frontier, overcoming all the obstacles that people faced in those days, and rearing their children like children used to be reared. Death takes the parents, and the six children are left to their own devices.

It is in these last scenes that the children's talents shine through. For the children, showing the spunk their parents drilled into them, set out to find new homes instead of settling into a self-centered quagmire of self-pity.

Best Way To Bathe

In Japan, it is said, a man need put forth no effort in the keeping of his home. This rule extends even to the taking of baths, as Red Buttons discovers in his role of an American GI in love with a Japanese girl, in this scene from "Sayonara." The film was taken from James A. Michener's best-selling novel of East-West relationships in Japan.

Kefauver Crime Hearings Relive On '20th Century'

"Crime and the Committee," a study of the Kefauver hearings, will be told on the Twentieth Century program, on Channel 4 this afternoon at 5:30. The program will relive the hearings, showing the testimony of Virginia Hill Hauser, girl friend of the murdered Bugsy Siegel, the walk-out defiance of Frank Costello, and other drama involved in those days of seven years ago.

A well-publicized musical spectacular is a headliner for Friday evening at 6:30 on Channel 4. This would be the Cole Porter-S. J. Perelman adaptation of "Aladdin," a 90-minute show with a cast including Cyril Ritchard, Anna Maria Alberghetti, S. A. Mineo, Dennis King, Basil Rathbone, Una Merkel and Howard Morris.

Victor Borge, the comedian-pianist brings his antics back to television for the first time in more than a year. He's on Channel 4 at 8 p. m. Wednesday, with a sketch he describes as the "third half" of his Broadway success, "Comedy In Music." He has given excerpts from this show on TV twice before.

An idolized singer is killed in a plane crash, and the aftermath weaves a net of deception around those who knew him best. This is the basis for "The Secret Love of Johnny Spain," with Terry Moore, Audrey Totter, James Best and Conrad Nagel. It's the Climax offering, Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Family Drama

Cameron Mitchell and Glynis Johns co-star with six children in "All Mine to Give." Thursday through Saturday at the Jet. Based on a true story, this film tells of the courage of a frontier family in face of privation and death.

One Of A Thousand

Lon Chaney, portrayed by James Cagney, shows his normal face in this scene with Robert Evans from the film, "Man of a Thousand Faces." Sunday through Tuesday at the Sahara. Chaney was world-famous many years ago as a sympathetic portrayal of those who were outcasts because of physical appearance.

NEWLY RE-WED Actor Is Sued

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Newly married actor Allan Jones has been sued for back alimony by actress Irene Hervey.

She alleged he is $1,350 in arrears on a $3,000 due since they signed a financial settlement Dec. 26. It allotted her $1,500 a month for life unless she remarries.

The actress divorced Jones Dec. 27. The same day he married Mrs. Mary Florsheim Packing, shoe fortune heiress.

Going Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway has figured out a way of giving audiences a realistic trip in an elevator to the top of the Empire State building.

For the new comedy "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" the technicians have included in one stage setting an elevator that actually rises 12 feet during the scene. With the assistance of a fast-moving backdrop, spectators get the illusion of an 85-story ride.

Sterling Hayden's Name Is Official

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sterling Hayden is now officially Sterling Hayden.

Superior Judge Burnett Wolfson granted the actor's petition to replace the name John Hamilton, which he had legalized to keep from drawing attention to his movie identity when he joined the Marine Corps in 1942.

The actor's petition said he was born Sterling Walter in Montclair, N.J., but that when he was 10 his mother had his name changed to Hayden to conform with his stepfather's.
