Most A&M Exes Here Oppose Admitting Coeds

By JOE PICKLE
Reaction among Aggies to a ruling by Judge McDonald which would open the doors of Texas A&M College to women was heavily in opposition here.

ty of Texas exes, Jack Cook, staunch Aggie, retorted facetiously and with some sarcasm, that "I'll favor admitting women to A&M when they let men in the University."

"It's rank commercialism," he declared. He blamed the merchants and others in Bryan for most of the agitation for women admittance and said that outside of the Bryan vicinity there wasn't a handful of people who really wanted A&M co-educational.

Bike Carries Lad To Death Under Truck

By DON HENRY
A happy ride home from Washington Place School ended in tragedy about 3:35 p.m. Wednesday when a bike bearing two 9-year-olds crashed into the side of a heavily loaded cable dump truck at the corner of Eleventh Place and S. Monticello, killing one of the pair.

Today, parents of Robert D. Combs prepared for the boy's funeral, and Gary W. Ware was in Big Spring Hospital with leg and hand fractures.
Funeral services for the Combs boy have been set for the First Methodist Church at 10 a.m. Friday. Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor, will officiate. Robert is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Harry F. Combs, 3307 Auburn.

Not here for comment Thursday but on a visit here a short time ago, James Davis, for whom the legendary "Jim Davis" stop on the old Toonerville trolley (interurban line from College Station to Bryn) was named, favored letting women enter. Davis, now vice president of Pioneer Gas Company, said that he thought not being co-ed penalized A&M in its bid for all types of students, athletes included.

Jap Trucks
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) disclosed today a defense Department contract to buy 21 million dollars worth of Japanese-manufactured military trucks this year. He called it a shocking agreement.

Delay In Alarm Blamed In Fire That Killed 24

NEW YORK (AP)—A delay in sounding an alarm was blamed in large part today for the toll of 24 dead in a downtown loft building fire yesterday.
The fire conceivably was going like hell for 10 minutes before the fire department could get to fight it, Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. told newsmen. He said the loss of life occurred in the first two or three minutes.

Report Made On New Housing Plans

Big Spring builders contemplate the construction of about 200 new houses between now and Sept. 1, Cecil D. McDonald, local developer, told Col. Kyle Riddle, commander of Webb AFB, this morning.
Figures gathered in McDonald's survey of building intentions will go into a report Col. Riddle and other Webb officials are making to Air Force headquarters on the housing situation here. The report is being filed in connection with AF studies on the feasibility of expanding the role of Webb AFB in the Air Force program.

Butcher's House Is Razed By Fire

PLAINFIELD, Wis. (AP)—The farmhouse where Edward Gein butchered his murder victims and hid bodies he looted from graves was destroyed by fire early today.
Vacant since the arrest last fall of Gein, 51-year-old bachelor recluse, the house had figured recently in a local controversy.
Several area clergymen, among others, had protested plans for an auction of the Gein property on Palm Sunday.

Lamesans Call For Box Reinstatement

LAMESA — The Lamesa City Council took no action this morning on a petition signed by 324 voters asking the reinstatement of Leo Box as police chief.
In addition, 56 high school students signed another petition asking his reinstatement. After the council meeting Mayor Bob Crawley said, "I foresee no action on the petition."

Box resigned last Friday after the council agreed to ask City Manager Carroll Taylor to ask Box to resign.
Bob Millikan presented the petition to the council this morning. In his comments in regard to the petition he stated, "The feeling of the people who signed this petition is that Chief Box did not get a fair shake. We have confidence in you as a council, but we wanted to have a say in this matter and would like for you to consider it."

Measure Aimed At Career Men

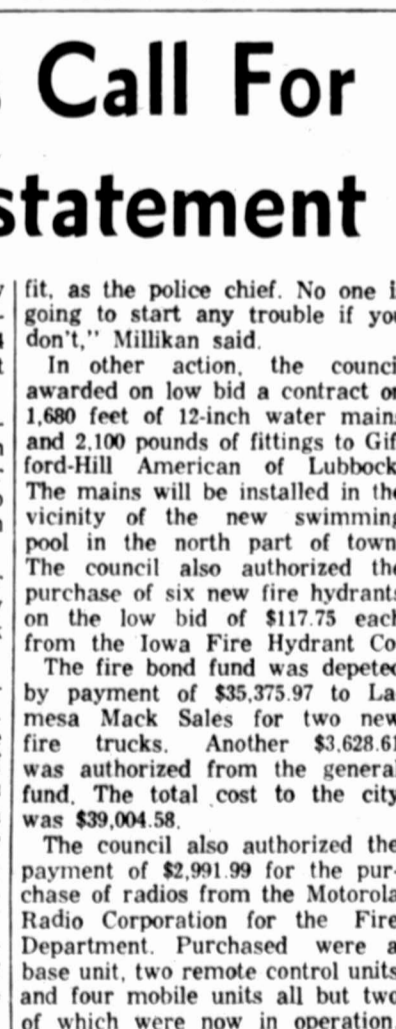

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved a bill to raise the pay of practically all career servicemen. The measure also would authorize special pay for military skills.
To encourage men to make their careers in uniform, the pay raises were set higher in the upper ranks, both for officers and enlisted men.
Twenty-nine committee members voted to approve the bill. Rep. Bray (R-Ind.), who with Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) and others asked for more time to consider it, voted "present." There were no votes against the measure, and no adverse criticism.

Congress Awaits Ike Economic Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress took a breathing spell today from its scramble to pass job-creating measures while it awaited President Eisenhower's unemployment compensation proposals.
The House, which sent to Eisenhower a $1,850,000,000 emergency housing bill he was expected to sign, prepared to act on a farm price support freeze measure that seemed headed for an almost certain veto.

Uncle Sam's Move In Tiff With 'Country' Of Eneeri

WALLER, Tex. (AP)—It looked like the government's move again today in the skirmishing with the newly declared country of Eneeri.
Mrs. Cliett contends the late George Scott was not a partner, as his heirs asserted. She refused to surrender title to 350 acres and early this week seceded from the union. A spokesman for Mrs. Cliett said she has sought membership in the United Nations.
Binford started trying to find Mrs. Cliett Monday.

State May Continue Lid On Oil

AUSTIN (AP)—Key executives of major oil buying companies said today they believed the domestic oil production would not be substantially increased this year.
The executives, including presidents of some of the largest companies, appeared before the Railroad Commission which was expected later today to set a nine-day producing pattern for April.
Only nine days of Texas oil production would be the same as the March nine-day pattern, which was the lowest in the state's history.
Officials at the proration hearing were about split on whether domestic demand for petroleum would increase during the year. Some said they thought it would be up from one to two per cent while at least as many more predicted no increase.
Generally the oil industry has expanded between four and five per cent each year.
The oil executives were almost unanimous in declaring that domestic stocks of crude and other products were too high.
Morgan Davis, president of Humble Oil Corp., said Humble estimates that domestic crude stocks were 67 million barrels greater than needed for efficient operations.

State May Continue Lid On Oil

Chairman Kilday (D-Tex.) of the subcommittee which worked out the bill, told the full committee no military witnesses would back up Cordner's claim that the proficiency pay system would save five billion dollars a year by reducing turnover, but witnesses agreed there would be improvements in economy and efficiency.

Knott P-TA Sets Special Meeting

KNOTT, (SC)—A special meeting of the Parent-Teacher Assn., has been called here for tonight. Larry Shaw announced that the special meeting would be held at the Knott school cafeteria at 7:30 p. m. Oil Restrictions Cut Use Of Water

The drastically curtailed oil production pattern is affecting the water deliveries of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Total sales of 506,130,000 gallons for February was 70,838,000 gallons less than for the same month a year ago, monthly statement of the district revealed. Of this, three major repressuring units which rely on water from Lake J. B. Thomas took 65,247,000 gallons less than a year ago. The City of Odessa actually increased its consumption by four and a half million gallons despite a comparatively wet winter. Big Spring was off by 10 million gallons and Snyder dropped by less than a million.

Sales in February showed 140,590,000 gallons to Odessa, 99,873,000 to Big Spring 33,870,000 to Snyder 163,898,000 to SACROC repressuring, 28,896,000 to Lion Oil repressuring, 36,143,000 to Sharon Ridge repressuring, and 2,860,000 to Texas Gulf Producing. Production of 516,982,000 gallons included 361,334,000 from Lake Thomas, 1,346,000 from city lakes, and 154,302,000 from the district well field.

Revenues of $123,365 from water sales compared with $108,856 for the same month a year ago, the gain being due to rate adjustments to cities to establish coverage for system expansion. Recreational revenue amounted to $3,828 as compared with $1,879 for February of 1957. Expenses for the month were $44,530, up from $29,830, the increase being due to $4,800 more in maintenance and $7,555 for institution of an employee retirement plan. During the first two months of the year $150,422 has been transferred to funds for bond retirement, etc.

New Drive-In Ready For Opening Friday

ON ANGELO HIGHWAY

Big-M Drive-In To Open Friday

The Big-M Drive-In, modern in every respect and surrounded by several hundred square feet of paved parking area, will open for business Friday.

The new establishment, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Masters, is located at the south edge of the city on the San Angelo Highway, just across from the Jet Drive-In Theatre.

The Big-M will feature all regular short orders, such as hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches, malts, milkshakes, and other drinks. The Masters also promised "something new" in salads. Sherbets and "soft" ice cream will be featured.

The new drive-in occupies a spacious lot just south of the U. S. 57-FM 700 intersection. Of masonry construction, it has been equipped with all new and modern fixtures and kitchen equipment. A new ice machine is capable of producing 1,000 pounds of ice per day. The establishment will cater parties.

Much of the paved parking area is sheltered by permanent metal awnings.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters have been in the food service business in Big Spring since 1945. Masters also is a veteran employee of Humble Oil and Refining Co. here. Actual operation of the Big-M will be largely in the hands of Mrs. Masters.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters formerly operated Masters Drive-In here and they have owned and managed other establishments in Big Spring and Forsan.

The Big-M will be open daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

WASHINGTON — A lady giraffe with an unlikable appetite has eaten her way into a new deadlock with the Department of Agriculture.

The department wants to collect $2,100—mostly for food—from her owners before releasing her from the Clifton, N. J., government quarantine station.

Authorities said it costs as much as $125 a month to feed her. The remainder went for housing in a heated barn.

The giraffe was brought to the United States in September 1956 by a private zoo at Boca Raton, Fla.

The quarantine branch took the view she could be released only to an approved zoological park under acceptable government control. The Agriculture Department said it was afraid the giraffe, although free from disease, might be a potential carrier of foot and mouth disease.

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled last month that the secretary of agriculture acted arbitrarily in refusing to let the giraffe move on to the zoo.

Ernest C. Tucker, attorney representing the private zoo, took the court's release order to the Department of Agriculture.

"They looked at it and said that was nice. But then they said they wanted $2,100 before I could have her," he said.

"It's like being in jail. The court decides you shouldn't have been there but then the jailer wants you to pay for the food you ate."

The court suggested Tucker give another try at settling things and return if he can't.

Spring Fever Is Hothouse Variety

LOS ANGELES — Spring fever is blamed by a university professor on winter hothouse living.

Spring officially starts today. Dr. Laurence E. Morehouse says Californians are generally immune to severe spring fever. The temperate climate allows year-round physical activity, he says.

But the Easterner who reacts to ice and snow by creating a tropical climate within his home, hotel or automobile is a sure victim, says this professor of physical education at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Morehouse, 44, contends he has not suffered spring fever since he moved here in 1946 after being a research fellow at Harvard University's fatigue laboratory.

In his view, the spring fever victim is out of condition. His temperature-regulating mechanism—the tiny blood vessels under the skin—reacts slowly at first to warmer days. Then these capillaries overreact, as do the heart, larger blood vessels and the blood pressure of an out-of-condition body under sudden stress. This overreaction creates above-normal temperature.

Thus, while Webster defines spring fever — "the lazy, listless feeling which comes to persons with the first warm days of spring" — as a humorous state, the victim actually has a feverish feeling of weakness and inaccurate temperature control.

To prevent spring fever — and this may do more good next year than this, if you've already got it, Morehouse suggests: Get daily physical activity, indoors or out, to keep your muscles from "hibernating" in winter months. Have frequent and regular exposure to temperature changes at a "gradual and gradual pace."

If you've already got it: Resist the initial temptation to outjump the spring lambs or, later, succumb to lassitude. Begin a gradual program of physical exercise. Drink plenty of water. Be more generous with the salt shaker.

San Marino Wants Anti-Red Help

SAN MARINO — The anti-Communist government of the world's tiniest republic wants the United States and Italy to help clean up the financial mess the Reds left behind.

Foreign Minister Federico Bigli told San Marino's Parliament that the Communist government, ousted in a bloodless revolution last October, left the treasury $1,225,000 in the red.

Bigli said San Marino "can cure its ills only if it has the friendship, understanding and extraordinary aid from great democratic countries, especially Italy and the United States."

Tunisian Chief Blisters French

TUNIS — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba today reaffirmed his desire to keep his North African country on the side of the West but launched a blistering new demand that France pull her troops out of his "occupied" country.

Although he roundly denounced the French, the Tunisian leader did not follow through on his threat to break with the West today, the second anniversary of Tunisia's independence from France.

Instead he said in a speech to the National Assembly: "We have preferred cooperation with the West in order to shut the gates of hell. . . . Once again we must reason and remain lucid."

Leaning heavily on the U. S.-British good offices mission now trying to patch up the bitter dispute between France and her former protectorate, he assured his audience that "the Tunisian republic will be evacuated of foreign troops."

"The French troops which occupy our country will be evacuated," he declared. "The turn of Bizerte (the big French naval base in northern Tunisia) will come. Its evacuation will also take place someday."

This was a reference to the modified proposals Bourguiba and the good offices team worked out which the U. S.-British negotiators now are discussing with French Premier Felix Gaillard in Paris. They call for progressive evacuation of French troops, a French declaration of Tunisian sovereignty over Bizerte and further negotiations on French withdrawal from the naval base.

Bitter right-wing opposition to the proposals in Paris has endangered their chances of acceptance by Gaillard's government, however.

Bourguiba said the good offices mission now would be available to Tunisia "each time we wish."

"The positive result is that a little country like ours has found the way to progressively regain its legitimate rights," he asserted.

To loud applause, he called on his people to take up again the battle for Tunisian independence, without specifying how he wanted them to battle.

Harris Sees FCC 'Pattern'

WASHINGTON — Chairman Harris (D-Ark.) of a House investigating subcommittee said today he thinks there has been a pattern in the way the Federal Communications Commission decides cases.

Harris said in an interview there had been charges a "pattern" in the FCC "developed out of certain influences and particularly White House influences."

He said his subcommittee needs to look into more contested television cases to establish whether there was such a pattern.

For more than a month, the Harris subcommittee has been investigating allegations that influence and pressures were exerted on behalf of various applicants for TV Channel 10 in Miami. In a 4-2 decision, the FCC awarded the coveted license to a National Airlines subsidiary in February 1957. But the FCC now has moved to reconsider that grant.

"We cannot say any one pattern has developed out of this one case," Harris said, referring to the Miami contest.

Protestant Magazine Editor Visits Webb

The Rev. D. Lawrence P. Fitzgerald, editor of the Link Magazine (a Protestant journal for Armed Force personnel), has been given a one-day tour of Webb Air Force Base. Webb, along with Lackland AFB, was chosen for his tour of the ATC bases.

Chaplain Verlin E. Mikesell discussed the expansion of the Link magazine, its extended use in the chaplains' ministry, and the kind of articles that would be of most interest to service personnel.

Chaplain Mikesell took Dr. Fitzgerald on the tour of Webb and was aided by Maj. Vincent F. Brophy, who conducted the tour of the flight line, and W. O. William O. Slaven, who conducted a tour through the operations tower.

Asks Lower Aid For 'Long Haul'

WASHINGTON — Sen. Long (D-La.) said today direct military aid should be brought down to a level of one billion dollars annually "for the long haul."

He made this observation as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called a closed-door session to get a country-by-country breakdown of how the Defense Department proposes to distribute the $1,800,000,000 it is asking in military aid for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Long told newsmen he is convinced this military assistance figure, included in President Eisenhower's new $3,900,000,000 foreign aid program, "can be drastically reduced."

U.S. Jets Speed To New Zealand

TOKYO — Six U. S. jet warplanes sped south today on a good will visit to salute New Zealand's Air Force and demonstrate the mobility of Western airpower.

Four F100 Super Sabres and two RB66 twin-jet light bombers took off from Yokota Air Force Base near Tokyo on the first leg of their 5,360-mile flight. They will refuel in flight and stop at Guam and Brisbane, Australia. They are due in New Zealand next Tuesday.

'Power Thinking' Steering

An engineer holds the stick of an automatic "power thinking" or control system, developed by Bendix Aviation Corp. for the supersonic B-58 bomber, the Hustler. Its maker says that without the system the plane would be harder to control than a bucking bronco. The system translates motions of the stick through its electronically and hydraulically actuated circuits into delicate control-surface motions adjusted to varying flight conditions. The variable stick-to-control-surface motion, called "ratio changing," is computed electronically over the plane's entire range of speed and altitude.

Daniel Urges Mandatory Oil Import Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Daniel called today for mandatory controls over oil imports.

He said it was not fair for the states to shoulder the load of cutting production without placing similar restrictions on importers. Daniel testified at a hearing of the House Ways and Means Committee investigating the petroleum industry and the voluntary program of crude and oil products import restrictions.

The governor said the states' conservation program had to be continued to meet the demands of national defense but "today its effectiveness is being destroyed by excessive imports."

He said in 1955 Congress indicated the President should use the National Defense Amendment to limit petroleum imports to the 1954 ratio. "This mandate has not been carried out," he said. "The national security is being threatened. Therefore, I strongly urge that this committee approve any one of the pending amendments imposing mandatory limitations on petroleum importers in accordance with the 1954 ratio between petroleum imports and domestic oil production."

Daniel said repeated pleas by the administration that importing companies "practice industrial statesmanship and voluntarily reduce their imports in the interest of the national welfare" have been ignored.

He said in 1955 imports were 43 million barrels in excess of the 1954 ratio and in 1957 were 122,491,000 barrels in excess. At a price of $3 a barrel, Daniel figured the total loss in sales for the three years was $750,000,000.

Daniel listed four reasons for what he called the failure of the voluntary program:

1. It has applied to imports of crude but does not include crude products.

2. The 1954 ratio has never been strictly followed in assigning total import quotas.

3. The West Coast originally was exempt and was included only in January.

4. Several importers have neglected or refused to comply with the program and cannot be forced to do so unless the program becomes mandatory.

"The result is that total imports have increased well in excess of the national security ratio," Daniel said. "Instead of the 1954 ratio of 16.6 per cent of domestic production, we now have an import ratio of approximately 24 per cent."

Survivors include his wife; a son, Jack Little of Longview, and two daughters, Mrs. Lindley and Suzanne Little of Waco.

Funeral services will be held here Friday afternoon for C. H. Little, 65, who died in Kilgore Wednesday.

Mr. Little is the father of Mrs. Bob Lindley of Big Spring, and he lived in Coahoma for several years before moving to Kilgore in 1946.

Drug-Resistant Staph Bacteria Kills 16 Babies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A spreading bacterial infection, which resists antibiotics, has claimed the lives of 16 babies in 2½ months in the newborn and premature nurseries at City-County Hospital.

The hospital board of managers said incomplete statistics show at least 81 babies have been infected, and 21 mothers infected in February alone.

The announcement said the bacteria are suspected of a key role in an increased number of pneumonia cases among elderly patients. It was described as the same epidemic strain that has been picked up in other hospitals throughout the country. Staphylococcus causes a myriad of troubles ranging from boils and abscesses to frequently fatal infections such as blood poisoning, pneumonia and heart valve infections.

The increased threat has come about because the bacteria has become resistant to the most commonly used antibiotics, hospital authorities said.

Ben Taub, chairman of the board of managers, said emergency measures are being taken, but added: "These procedures may not be adequate to control the infection among the newborns and in that event the only alternative may be the re-establishment of the maternity and nursery divisions in entirely new locations."

Court's Decision Stirs Up Aggies

Girls going to boys' schools, boys going to girls' schools—things were just all mixed up Thursday.

Some Aggies are wailing. Some exes say women at A&M will help the football teams. Some say things that can't be printed.

It's all because Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald ruled women should be admitted to all-male Texas A&M College. The decision was made at Bryan in a suit by Mrs. Lena Bristol and Mrs. Barbara Tittle, both of Bryan.

And, following that decision, a 6-foot-5-inch, 185-pound high school football player at Alice, Claude Thormalen, applied for entrance at all-woman Texas Woman's University at Denton.

Asked for the reasons he replied, "Aren't they obvious?"

The registrar at TWU, Francis Emerson, said Thormalen's application had not been received. He said it would be rejected because the law specified the school was for girls.

Texas A&M students were fairly quiet immediately after the decision Tuesday night, but Wednesday morning an effigy of Judge McDonald was hung in front of one of the school's dining halls.

It carried a sign: "Judge McDonald, a true Aggie!" McDonald, a true Aggie!" McDonald graduated from A&M in 1933. John Barron, who fought the case for the women and who asked police to send a patrol car around to his house occasionally for the next few nights, said his clients are not sure now just what they are going to do about entering the school.

Barron said indications are that the women will take no action until the case is finally settled. James Ladlum, the college chief counsel, said he would appeal the decision, "probably filing Tuesday."

McDonald ruled the women's rights had been violated under the 14th Amendment when they were denied admission to the school.

Comments from ex-Aggie students were widely varied.

Ralph Gorman Jr., president of the Dallas A&M Club, said: "It will do the school a lot of harm. I can't see how anybody can favor it. I can't imagine what kind of girl would go to A&M or what kind of boy would go to a woman's university if it has to admit men."

And the reaction ranged from there to the idea of Damon Tassos, former all-conference guard at A&M.

"Best thing that ever hit 'em. We'll get some athletes now—this'll make recruiting easy."

Brigham Young Coeds Eat Well On 50 Cents A Day

By ROBERT F. ALKIRE
PROVO, Utah (AP)—Coeds at Brigham Young University are constantly doing what any housewife knows can't be done—eating on 50 cents a day when meat and potatoes come high.

The girls don't seem to lose weight; they get nutritious but simple meals and they have a reasonably varied diet.

They do it in a sort of combat course for senior students of homemaking. The homemaking instructors feel every girl should learn how to avoid starvation in hard times.

For nine-day stretches, two of the girls move to a separate apartment set up by the university. Mrs. Stella Lewis, homemaking instructor, hands over "hubby" paychecks—a measly $10 for the nine-day period.

One girl becomes "husband" or "host" and the other becomes "planner" or "wife." With these trappings of reality, the shoeing campaign begins.

Just to prove that life needn't be all steak, potatoes and dollars, seniors Pauline Barlow, 22, and Rachel Schmidt, 23, produced the following evening meal:

Beef stew, dumplings, tossed salad with a microscopic slice of bacon and a razor-thin egg slice, milk (whole mixed with powdered and chilled to taste better) and apricot gelatin desert.

The cost: just over 49 cents for both girls—or about 28 cents each. Sumptuous dinners like that mean breakfast and lunch must be held to pennies per girl.

The meals wouldn't provide ballast for a lumberjack's fork, but they would hold him until he could find a restaurant.

Mrs. Lewis says the girls have no trouble living on 50 cents a day—that all of them turn back a dollar or two from the $10 paycheck.

They are required to prepare three meals daily. Skipping breakfast or lunch brings on a wave of iceboxes raiding that depletes the budget.

Some of the girls plan to become home economics instructors or kitchen equipment demonstrators. Others are fully aware they probably won't snag a millionaire. And they are preparing for the possible "worse" in the "for better or for worse" clause.

Learned The Hard Way

Yvette Vickers discusses the pros and cons of dyeing or bleaching your hair. She had learned the hard way to overcome the problems of doing it herself.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Get Professional Aid When Changing Hair

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Yvette Vickers is a local girl whose parents are musicians. "I always knew I wanted to try for a career in pictures," she told me in her dressing room at U.I.

"I didn't know how to go about this and I made many mistakes. Instead of taking weeks, I applied peroxide and ammonia three times in seven days and my hair got just like straw.

"It is interesting to me how much hair influences your personality. Men expect a blonde to be more frivolous and less intelligent. But," Yvette warned, "don't act in haste about coloring your hair. It takes time and is something that will detract if you don't keep it in condition.

"It is natural for a teenager to want to streak her hair. But before she makes a drastic change," Yvette cautioned, "she should seek professional advice. If she can't afford to go to a salon, she should go to a class. Most hair color houses have local representatives to show the do-it-yourself way."

Yvette's hair is now a soft shade which she calls Swedish blonde. "When I get into the sun and it gets brassy I tone it down with a rinse," she explained.

STEERS SEEK THIRD WIN HERE FRIDAY

The Big Spring Steers go after their third victory in four baseball starts here Friday afternoon, at which time they challenge the Pecos Eagles in a 4 p.m. game at Steer Park.

Virginia Pickett of Truman Jones had a 178 for game high.

Second was Juanita Newton of Zale's, who had a 162.

Bobbie Wright of Good Housekeeping registered the top aggregate, with a 428, four pins higher than Isabel Mangan of Girdner's.

Splits were converted by: Anita Campbell, Wasson-Tranham, 2-7; Jewell Wadsworth, Wasson-Tranham, 4-10; Frances Hanson, HiFi House, 3-7-10; Mary Ellen Schmidt, HiFi House, 4-5-7; Jackie Connor, Good Housekeeping, 3-10; Bobbie Wright, Good Housekeeping, 3-10; and Jean Cable, Cable's, 5-6.

Next week, Gandy's challenges Cable's, Zale's meets Jones, Girdner Electric opposes Wasson and Tranham and Good Housekeeping takes on HiFi House.

In Tuesday nights bowling at the Clover Bowl, the P. T. Group League race for first place became a tight three way tie as the Supers took three from the 7th Place Group. Snoots to move up into the tie from 2nd place.

Charlie Porter's 203-548 series led the Supers scoring. The Cotton Pickers, formerly sole occupants of first place, lost three to the Redeyes who moved into 4th place.

Kneadik's 201-480 series was high for the Pineapple Pickers, while Nilholias turned in a 182-458 series in a losing effort.

The 6th place Acads split with the last place Guzzlers with total pins being decided by 8 pins in favor of the Acads. Nixon's 198-800 series helped the Acads salvage 3 points.

Xavier's Coach Doesn't Think Team Will Cool

BY BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Top-ranked Dayton and third-seeded St. Bonaventure are favored to win semifinal games in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight. But the coaches of the underdog teams think the odds are out of line.

"I don't think my team will cool off — the momentum should keep us going," said coach Jim McCafferty of Xavier (Ohio) which takes on St. Bonaventure in the second game at Madison Square Garden. And, said Joe Lapchick of St. John's, which goes against Dayton in the opener. "The teams are evenly matched."

The Flyers (24-3) are rated four point choices over St. John's (18-8) while St. Bonaventure (20-4) is figured three points better than Xavier (17-11).

St. Bonaventure coach Ed Donovan is worried about Xavier and he has a right to be. The Musketeers from Cincinnati dumped Niagara and then eliminated defending champion Bradley to reach the semis.

St. Bonaventure will be at a disadvantage in height. But the Bonaves had the same trouble with St. Joseph's and came out on top 79-75.

Dayton, which has made seven previous NIT appearances before Fordham 74-70 in the quarter-finals.

"We should do better against St. John's," said Flyers' coach Tom Blackburn. "We hadn't played since March 4 and we were very rusty."

The championship game will be played Saturday afternoon. It will be televised in most sections of the country (4:30 p.m. EST, CBS).

Baylor Bears Open With Razorbacks

WACO (SC) — For the second time in its history, Baylor University will play its Homecoming Football Game at night. Athletic Director George Sauer announced today. The Homecoming game is scheduled against the Texas Aggies on Oct. 25 and will be Baylor's first 1958 home game against a Southwest Conference foe.

The Bears and Aggies met here in 1956 in the only previous Baylor Homecoming game played at night. That game, won in the final moments by the Aggies, 19-12, virtually assured them the Conference title, and it drew the only capacity crowd ever seen in 50,000-seat Baylor Stadium.

Sauer also announced that the Oct. 4 game in Waco against University of Miami will be Band Day; the Nov. 8 game here against University of Texas will be Dads' Day; and the Nov. 29 game here with Rice Institute will be Boy Scout Day.

The Homecoming Game against Texas A&M is the only Baylor home game thus far definitely set for night play. Designation of other home games as night contests will not be made until after announcement of NCAA and Southwest football television schedules.

The schedule:

Sept. 20-Arkansas at Little Rock (SWC)
Sept. 27-Hardin-Simmons at Waco.
Oct. 11-Duke at Durham, N. C.
Oct. 18-Texas Tech at Lubbock (SWC)
Oct. 25-Texas A&M at Waco (SWC)
Nov. 8-Rice at Fort Worth (SWC)
Nov. 15-Texas at Waco (SWC)
Nov. 22-Southern Methodist at Dallas (SWC)
Nov. 29-Rice at Waco (SWC)
Dec. 6-Texas Tech at Waco (SWC)
Dec. 13-Southwest Conference Game.

Ducat Demand Still Heavy

The supply of reserve seat tickets for the Saturday afternoon finals of the ABC Relays here April 4-5 is dwindling fast.

Bill Quimby, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, the agency in charge of ducat sales, said Abilene Christian College had sold all of its allotment of 937 ducats and is asking for 200 more.

Colorado City asked for 173 ducats and reported it had only one left this morning. The tickets, priced at $1.50 each, have been on sale here at the Colorado City Record.

Dibrell's Sporting Goods store here disposed of 500 of the pastebords and came back for more. Lee Hanson's Men's Store sold 241 and came back to get another 112.

In all, nearly 4,500 tickets were converted to reserve seat sections and a sellout appears certain long before the big meet.

The biggest crowd in the history of local athletics, upwards of 10,000, is expected to be in the stands when A&C's famed Bobby Morrow and Duke's Dave Sim started down the runway in their heralded 100-yard dash April 5.

Aaron Says He'll Take Assignment

BRADENTON, Fla. — Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves has decided he doesn't mind playing center field after all.

The National League's most valuable player started out in right field last year but moved to center when Bill Bruton was hurt. As camp opened this year he said he wanted to go back to right.

But yesterday, as rain washed out the exhibition game with the Detroit Tigers, Aaron said:

"I've changed my mind and would prefer playing center to right or left. It's a big challenge and I'm looking forward to playing there."

"I don't want to knock anybody out of a job," Hank added. "Center field belongs to Bruton, and if Billy is ready, I'll be glad to step aside. Or if manager Fred Haney decides he wants someone else to play center field, that's all right with me."

Aaron had a couple of reasons for making the switch.

"I've proved I can play left and right fields," he said. "So now if I can excel in center, too, it will increase my value to the club and when the time comes to discuss contract next year, I'll have a pretty good argument for more pay. I figure if I play center field, it's like money in the bank."

Sam Baugh Talks To Coahoma Team

COAHOMA — Members of the football team, their coaches and the five cheerleaders were honored with a banquet Tuesday night at the high school cafeteria. Guest speaker was Sammy Baugh, football great and coach at Hardin-Simmons University.

Gifts of appreciation were presented to the three coaches: Dub Behrens, head mentor; G. W. Walker, assistant; and Bill Easterling, Junior High coach.

Butch Hodnett, Cariker Wright, Lonnie Anderson and Jim Cearley were announced as football captains for next year.

Approximately 200 attended the event.

WACO — Baylor whipped Southeastern Oklahoma State 5-1 in tennis yesterday.

Injured Cat Cager Expects To Play

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Johnny Cox has injured a finger on his right hand, but he's expected to be ready to play against Temple tomorrow night in the NCAA Basketball Championships.

Cox's finger was painfully swollen yesterday and he missed practice.

The Wildcats, Temple and Kansas State are due to arrive today and hold practice sessions at 18,500-seat Freedom Hall.

Seattle, the other finalist, arrived last night. Coach John Castellani said, "Everybody is in good shape. Temple Coach Harry Litwack said his high scorer, Guy Rodgers, will be in good shape after a strained back last week."

Castellani said Seattle's battle with Kansas State in the second game tomorrow night "probably will depend on the question of rebounding."

Kentucky and Temple open the battle for the title. The winners meet Saturday night in the finals.

Meanwhile, some 400 coaches arrived here for the 32nd annual National Assn. of Basketball Coaches convention.

One of the most controversial questions being batted about by coaches is the 24-second rule which the pros use, requiring a player to shoot or pass within 24 seconds of getting the ball. Some want it adopted for college play.

One coach, Phil Woolpert of San Francisco, definitely is against the proposed rule.

"If they passed a rule like that, I would do one of two things—quit or use a zone defense, and I hate a zone," he said.

"What the game really needs," Woolpert added, "is to leave the rules alone for a year and let everybody catch up with what's going on."

HCJC's Gerald Scott wound up with a 79 in the Fort Worth Recreation Golf Tournament last weekend, despite the fact that he was charged with eight penalty strokes.

Big Spring's Jimmy Evans was one of 12 athletes Texas Tech signed the first day the Southwest Conference schools could seek signatures on athletic "letters of intent."

Sundown's Jerry Ferguson, an all-state tackle; Larry Mullins, Snyder tackle; and Ken Sherrill, Graham lineman, were among other boys who signified they want to play for Dee Weaver.

Hugh Bob Tilson, the former basketball star at Plainview High School, is now the No. 1 golf player on the West Texas State College team. He also plays basketball for the Buffaloes.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation's gift of a baseball park to the Little League here will fill a long-time need for a plant south of the TAP tracks.

The patron saint of the local athletic seems to be Raymond Tollett, president of Cosden, who has come along so many times to help a lagging program here it's hard to keep track of his benefices.

R. W. Thompson, Sam Burns, Dick Johnson and J. T. Wilkerson are others who did a lot to nail down the venture. Too, the latter is president of the National Little League, incidentally.

A plot 300 x 300 feet, which will be converted to Little League use by Cosden, will not only be big enough for the park itself but should prove ample for parking space, too.

Present plans call for both the National League and its farm affiliate to use the facility.

However, if the Texas League is forced to vacate its park on North 12th Street, it may have to be permitted part-time use of the park.

The park will include rest rooms, something no Little League plant has had here before. The lighting system will be good—there'll be 60 lamps, in all.

Present plans call for the pitcher to face northeast in the park. There'll be bleachers (seats) for 300 spectators running down the first and third base lines but none behind the plate—Little League officials have arrived at the conclusion that it isn't good for the fans to be in an advantageous position so that they can second-guess the umpire. For that reason, the concessions house will be situated directly behind the plate.

The fences will be chain-linked, four feet in height. They're not only more durable than board uprights but the fans parked around the field will be able to see more.

If the American Little League can get its park built — and members of the Moose Club are working hard to see that the facility becomes a reality — then it'll be happy sailing for the small-city baseball enthusiasts here.

Bill Meek, the SMU football coach, says the football pickings in Texas high schools are lush this spring, particularly in back. Even better than last year and 1957 was considered outstanding by the scouts.

When Kentucky played Auburn in basket ball recently, Center Phil Johnson of the Cats fell to the floor in the closing seconds of play and coaching aide Harry Lancaster noticed the boy was in serious trouble.

Lancaster rushed to the floor and saved him from strangulation. Johnson had started to swallow his tongue. Lancaster rammed his hand down the boy's throat and pulled back the tongue.

Plan Is Told To Construct 5 Million Dollar Stadium

FORT WORTH (AP) — Tarrant County commissioners heard today a plan to raise 5 million dollars to build a major league baseball stadium between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Commissioner Rosco Minton said he has been guaranteed a franchise can be brought to this area as soon as a stadium is ready.

"I understand Dallas County commissioners already have agreed to cooperate," said Minton. "In fact, if Tarrant County doesn't join in the movement, a group of private citizens in Dallas say they'll raise the 5 million dollars and go it alone."

Minton mentioned J. W. Bateson, a millionaire contractor who owns the Dallas Rangers of the Texas League.

"Mr. Bateson has promised to pay $25,000 of the cost of hiring a firm to make a survey of the situation," Minton said. The survey would show the best spot to put the stadium and exactly how much money it would take.

The man behind the plan, Minton said, is John Reeves, former president of the Texas League and of the Fort Worth baseball club.

Reeves, an oil lease operator, has filed applications for franchises with both the American and National League offices.

"John told me several big league clubs want to move down here," Minton said. "We've got to hurry up and get this stadium finished or we might lose the opportunity."

Wayland Nearer To Nat'l. Title

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Wayland College of Plainview, Tex., moved closer last night to a fifth successive national women's AAU basketball title, defeating Omaha 54-26 in a quarterfinal game.

Tonight the Flying Queens are matched with Nashville, Tenn., in the semi-finals.

The victory over Omaha was the 131st without defeat for Wayland. Patsy Neal paced the winners with 17 points.

In other quarterfinal games, Iowa Wesleyan whipped Clarendon JC (Tex.) 62-49; Kansas City Midland quelled a second half rally and defeated St. Joseph Platt 54-44 and Nashville routed Milwaukee 61-33.

Billy O'Dell Should Hit Stride For Baltimore

By JOHN CHANDLER
This could be the year the Baltimore Orioles can quit "nursing along" Billy O'Dell, the southpaw pitcher who jumped right out of Clemson College in 1954 via the house route and into a major league uniform.

O'Dell, only 25, became the first hurler in the majors to go nine innings this spring when he defeated the Chicago Cubs with a 7-hitter yesterday at Mesa, Ariz. Of course, O'Dell played in the Cuban winter league, and is further advanced than other mounds-men.

Chicago scored three runs off O'Dell in the first inning, two coming on Lee Walls' home run, but the young lefty from Newberry, S.C., blanked the Cubs from then on.

Five games were cancelled, all in Florida, because of rain or wet grounds. The Kansas City Athletics defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 in 12 innings at Ft. Myers, Fla., and the San Francisco Giants were beaten 6-3 by the Cleveland Indians at Phoenix, Ariz.

O'Dell had a 1-1 record with Baltimore in 1954, when the club said "we'll nurse him along. . . . In 1955 and through August of 1956 he was in the Army. He had a 4-10 record last year.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former St. Louis Cardinals star southpaw and Orioles pitching coach, has been tutoring O'Dell since he left college.

O'Dell walked one batter and struck out six Cubs yesterday. He admits he still has a lot to learn. Brecheen predicted, "He'll be a great one. . . ."

Albie Pearson, Norm Zauchin Helping Sens

By JACK HAND
ORLANDO, Fla. — Thanks to the Boston Red Sox, there is new hope in the camp of the Washington Senators this spring. It all stems from a deal that brought a center fielder and a first baseman to the cellar club for handyman Pete Runnels.

Albie Pearson, a half pint (5-6) outfielder is counted upon to fill the defensive manhole in center. Norm Zauchin, a .254 hitter with the Red Sox who never has lived up to his rookie promise of 1955, is the new first baseman.

When they asked Manager Cookie Lavagetto what he needed most after the 1957 season, he said "outfielders who can catch and throw." Pearson may fill the bill. "Everybody in the Pacific Coast League speaks highly of him," said Lavagetto. "He definitely is my center fielder."

Washington finished last in 1957 and it is difficult to see anything more of the same. The pitching staff is the worst in the league with not much hope of improvement.

"We hope to do better," said Lavagetto bravely. "We hope to play 500 ball."

Playing 500 ball would involve some fancy hi jinks for the club that had a 55-99 won-loss record last season.

"We're going to be better defensively," said Lavagetto. From some hidden corner he dragged out a figure—70 per cent better. The Senators' pitchers who saw the enemy score 808 runs, will welcome any tightening.

"Pearson and Zauchin should help us," said Lavagetto. "With a winter's rest, Camillo Pascual ought to win 15 (he had an 8-17 record last year). Pedro Ramos (12-16) should do better and Chuck Stobbs (8-20) has to improve."

The best part of the Washington club is Roy Sievers, the left fielder who led the league with 42 home runs and 114 runs batted in. The club's all-time home run champ is a real threat to any enemy pitcher. Pearson in center and Jim Lemon (284 but 94 strikeouts) in right will be the starting outfield. Pearson had 28 assists at San Francisco where he hit .297 with fair extra base power for a little fellow.

Two Teams In Tie For First Place

The Bowleros tied with the Pin Heads for first place in the OWC bowling league at the Clover Bowl Monday night when they checked the Jet Streams, taking all four points.

In other matches, the Pin Heads turned back the Topplers, 3-1 while the Jet-ettes halted the Odd Balls, 4-0.

Evie Malott posted the high game and the high series for the night with 181-454. Joyce Ruhl's 174-442 edged Kay Leighty's 152-442.

The Jet-ettes led the team scoring with a total of 2305 pins, plus handicaps.

Splits converted were the 2-7 by Winnie Berrick; 3-10, 5-10 by Joyce Ruhl; 4-5, 5-6-10 by Charlotte Townsend; 4-6-10 by Kay Leighty and the 5-10 by Mary Ellen Schmidt.

CRITIQUE

Of The Local Entertainment Scene

By BOB SMITH

Notes On HCJC Art Exhibit

I don't claim to be any great shakes on art. It was for this reason that I called on Mrs. Terry Patterson, HCJC art instructor, to answer questions about the exhibit now decorating the walls of the library and administration building's hallway.

My first impressions, combined with Mrs. Patterson's explanations and answers to my questions, resulted in the critique below. Understand these are merely one man's opinion, and a non-expert at that. It might be noted, however, that it is often the unlettered layman that buys paintings.

The pictures were painted as class projects by Mrs. Patterson's students. Each is accompanied by a name, a number and identification of the artist.

1. "Dancing Scarecrow," by Mrs. Winnie Unger. Good balance of color and geometry in a "modern" version of a scarecrow model.

2. "Interpretation" (of the teacher), by Dr. Josh Burnett. Portrait, but not exact likeness. Interpretation of character is goal, rather than photographic likeness.

3. "Man from Enchanted Land," by Burnett. Portrait of "Rusty" Smith, also an interpretation. An impressionist work, striving for a mood or feeling.

4. "Rusty," by Mrs. Unger. A likeness portrait of the same model, good color, but it doesn't do as much in the way of interpretation.

5. "The Writer," by Mrs. Ennis Cochran. A likeness portrait of Tommy Hart which also has captured feeling of character.

6. "Joyce," by Mrs. Unger. Portrait of Joyce Lankford in which likeness suffers, but skin coloring is excellent.

7. "Bandit," by Mrs. Jean Carden. Portrait of a pet dog with good color balance, excellent technique in capturing hairy effect.

8. "Memories of Duty," by Mrs. Unger. Portrait of Robert W. Paul in uniform, in which likeness is not exact but mood is captured.

9. "Bright Eyes," by Mrs. Carden. Portrait of the teacher whose eyes form the central theme.

10. "Pretty Boy," by Mrs. Unger. Portrait of Hart which is a better likeness than efforts by other artists, but makes the subject look too "pretty." His eyes, however, catch the mood.

11. "Drinks to Serve," by Mrs. Bill Rosser. A still life whose name shows imaginative interpretation of the common artistic subject of fruits and a wine bottle.

12. "Acromegaly," by Dr. Burnett. Taken from an X-ray of a gland located in the human skull. Without knowledge of the source, the viewer might mistake this as an impressionistic picture of a stormy ocean.

13. "Hindu of the Jungle," by Mrs. Unger. Imaginative interpretation from a single posed article, a carved wooden bust of an inhabitant of the jungle.

14. "God of Fire," by Burnett. Fiery interpretation of the same article, with imagination and excellent mood coloring.

15. "Still life with Shell," by Mrs. Carden. Subdued coloring of an uncommon combination of still life subjects.

16. "The Rain Came through the Window," by Mrs. Unger. Still life of ordinary subject, but with a colorful background.

17. "The Monks at Work," by Mrs. Carden. Again, the colors are influenced by an arctic mood, depicting Canadian monks at work, but overshadowed by the spring colors in the background, to good effect.

18. "The Large Portion," by Burnett. Still life of a lunch basket, with an exaggerated effect.

19. "Enchanted Land," by Mrs. Lonnie Griffith. Another version of the scarecrow theme. This one also has excellent coloring, but is more of a storybook type of subject.

20. "Still life of the Sea," by Mrs. Griffith. Same seashell models as in painting No. 15, but the bright colors give the subject a cool atmosphere.

These paintings will continue to hang in their present location for several days yet. Why not go out and examine them, and see if you agree with me?

PROTECT FLOWERS

Weeds Serving Purpose In Park

Weeds are being left in the City Park on purpose. In an effort to keep people from trampling on the flowers in the park, Johnny Johansen, park superintendent, has left many of the weeds—at least for another two or three weeks.

Johansen said that youngsters use the park annually for Easter egg hunts, and they need some vegetation to hide their eggs. And if there are no weeds in which to hide them, Johansen said the youngsters would use the flowers, and naturally, the flowers would be trampled in the process.

So the park will be partially covered with weeds for a while.

Johansen's men have cleared out many of the weeds already, and most of their time now is being spent in weeding. This is in addition to maintenance work of equipment.

If any season could be considered "slack," this is it. Johansen commented, and for this reason, the men spend a lot of their time in maintaining equipment and painting.

Weeding work has superceded watering in the park this month because of the abundance of rain during the winter. This also brought on most of the weeds.

All cutting and trimming of trees was accomplished during the winter, Johansen said, and this chore has been completed until another year. All trees in Birdwell Park had to be trimmed and many in the city park, too.

Although no trees died during the past winter, several were replaced which had died the previous year. In addition, Johansen's men planted about six new trees.

The park superintendent has a few trees in reserve for the time when he gets the "go ahead" on landscaping the North Side Park. The park will include the remainder of the block in which the North side fire station is located.

These trees have been given to the city by individuals and Johansen has them spotted in parks temporarily awaiting the time they can be placed permanently in the new park. Johansen said he would welcome any more trees, however.

He contended he knew nothing about the mistreatment.

Court-martial witnesses testified prisoners were struck with clubs and fists, kicked in the body, and forced to stand with nose and toes pressed against a wall for extended periods.

Kilian, a 1914 graduate of the University of Missouri, served as a cavalry officer in World War I and received the Legion of Merit in 1944 for "exceptionally meritorious" service as depot commander.

He is survived by his widow, Kathryn, of suburban Bethesda, Md.; two sons, Army Capt. James F. Kilian of Ft. Holabird, Md., and Lt. Joseph R. Kilian of Ft. Bliss, Tex.; and a daughter, Nina Louise Kilian, Bethesda.

2 Boys Watch Own 'Search'

FORT WORTH (AP)—Two teenage boys were reported drowned in Eagle Mountain Lake and a fleet of 15 boats began the search for the bodies.

The report was made when their canoe was found adrift in the lake.

Mike Reynolds and Earl Newton, both 16, made their way ashore in another boat. They stood by and watched the search for awhile, then went into town to tell the sheriff all about it.

Going To Sleep?

It might be that the lady is going to sleep in her wheelchair, and the nice man is fluffing her pillow. Then, why the odd expression? Maybe she's just yawning, suggests Fred Short, HCJC drama department head, whose College Players may be seen in tonight's opening performance of "Night Must Fall," a psychological thriller about people with murder on the mind. Come to think of it, maybe the lady's being murdered. Short won't say. The actors in the picture, incidentally, are George Kozachuk and Sandra Havens.

'Night Must Fall' Will Open Tonight

The College Players begin tonight the first of three performances of "Night Must Fall," a psychological thriller that holds the audience in suspense until the final climax.

Action will take place in a tiny arena with the audience practically breathing down the actors' necks. It is the first three-act in the round production at HCJC. Seated on four sides of the stage, the audience will look down on a scene centered by a small carpet, and bordered by just enough pieces of living room furniture to give the impression of a living room's central area.

Actors will walk into the arena from off-stage, and scene changes will be made in blackout. This type of theatre production has proved popular where ever it has been presented, as it gives the on-lookers a feeling of intimacy rarely found in any other entertainment medium.

It is in this living room of an isolated English manor house that a day which dawned like any other is followed by nightmare for those caught up in the sweep of events. "Night Must Fall" is the story of a household ruled by an emotionally intemperate tyrant, visited by a suitor of one of the members of the household, by a police officer investigating a murder, and by a bell boy who got the maid "in trouble."

Subtle hints are thrown to the audience as the plot unfolds, and as the police snoop closely for the killer of a woman in the woods nearby. As suspicion grows, so does the suspense, as the audience begins to wonder what will happen next.

Good portrayals are expected from the cast, which includes Sandra Havens, George Kozachuk, Danne Green, Jack Culpepper, Joe Beard, Mary Denham, Beverly Alexander and Barbara Coats.

Tickets may be had by reservation or at the door. Prices are 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for students. Those wishing to buy tickets by reservation may call AM 4-6311.

Curtain time for the Emyln Williams play is 8:15 p.m., and performances will be given Thursday, Saturday and Monday. The play, after a highly successful Broadway run many years ago, was made into an equally successful movie. The story went over well on a recent television national hookup.

Pioneer Spots 'Good Old Days'

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (P)—Mrs. M. E. Starnes is one oldtimer who doesn't think the old days were best. Pioneers thought they lived well, she said recently, because they didn't know any better.

But she still has a great deal of pioneer independence. She lives alone and likes it. She is 94.

"From ox wagon to airplane, that's me," says Mrs. Starnes, her blue eyes twinkling.

She has, for the past 12 years, made it quite plain that: She is able bodied, independent, and of an age to know her own mind. And that is: That she will not dismantle her house and be a guest, no matter how honored, in anybody's home, even though that home belongs to one of her children.

Her daughter, Miss Beulah Starnes of Lubbock, said that when her mother decides she needs a change of scenery around the house, she moves her furniture.

As to the good old days, they were maybe not so good as you heard they were, she declares. Anyway, after this present soft living, she wouldn't go through them again, she is sure.

"We cooked on open fireplaces. We rode horseback, us girls in riding habits with sort of Derby hats, sidesaddle, of course to playparties, to singings."

Snow Greet Spring Season

By The Associated Press

Snow and sleet storms pelted Eastern parts of the country today, making a wintry, slushy scene for the arrival of the spring season.

Gusty winds up to 45 m.p.h. whipped the snow and sleet across wide areas of the mid and north Atlantic states during the night and this morning.

Up to 16 inches of snow fell in northern suburbs of Baltimore — and snow continued to fall. Depths from 10 to 15 inches were in prospect for many areas in Maryland and in eastern Pennsylvania.

A white covering of snow and sleet 8 to 10 inches deep gave a mid-winter look to sections of Washington. Power failures were reported in many parts of the nation's capital as well as in neighboring Maryland and Virginia suburbs.

Two inches of sleet were reported at Washington National Airport, 5 inches at Baltimore and 2 inches at Philadelphia. Snow mixed with rain also fell in New York City.

Temperatures were far from spring-like in the storm areas, with readings in the 30s and below freezing.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK

Two Extensive Professional Libraries Maintained Here

Big Spring has two of the most extensive "professional libraries" to be found anywhere in West Texas. They are the law library at the courthouse and the medical library at the VA Hospital. Each contains hundreds of volumes on the various branches of the field it represents. There are approximately 2,500 books, valued at close to $15,000, in the county law library. The VA medical library includes slightly more than 1,200 books and their value is somewhere between $15,000 and $20,000. The law library is financed by special fees collected with the filing of civil lawsuits. Litigants pay $5 each into the library fund when the suits are filed. A committee of the Howard County Bar Assn. determines what books are purchased. There are four principal types of books in the law library—statutes, case reports, encyclopedia and digests. Texas law is covered in both books of statutes and digests. There are case reports covering all states except a group in the Midwest including Montana, Minnesota, Nebraska, the Dakotas, etc. The case reports also cover all federal courts of appeal. The books of digest take in every reported case of every court of record in the U. S. Encyclopedia are of three types.

One group is a textbook-type discussion of general law of the United States. Another covers Texas law in the same fashion, and the third group, consisting of 10 different sets, covers specific phases of law, such as oil and gas, wills, contracts, etc. Local attorneys say the law library is complete except for U. S. Supreme Court reports, the federal digest system, and the U. S. Code. Plans now call for acquisition of the U. S. Code. Lawyers say there is not enough demand for the other two groups of books to justify their purchase. From 15 to 20 books are added to the law library on a subscription basis each month. In addition, supplements are secured as regularly as they are published, so that each volume always is up to date. The law library, on the third floor of the courthouse, is all but full at present. Additional bookshelves will be added to the facility as the additional lawbooks are received. The medical library at the VA Hospital includes material on every phase of medicine except pediatrics. In addition to the newest editions of medical tomes, it includes current and past issues of all the leading medical journals. A library committee made up of VA doctors determines what books are acquired. In addition to the medical books and periodicals, the library has the facilities of a VA microfilm service and a microfilm reader is maintained. It also cooperates in the inter-library loan system of the VA. Private and Air Force doctors are invited to use the VA medical library. The county law library is available to all attorneys and to anyone else interested.

Red Pen Pal Repeats Charges

LONDON (AP) — The Western Allies' most prolific and most troublesome pen pal charged today that the West is rushing war preparations while delaying a summit conference by insisting on discussion of unacceptable terms. Soviet Premier Bulganin's fresh wording of old demands and accusations came in another letter to Prime Minister Macmillan, made public today. Bulganin gave no hint that the Kremlin is willing to modify its conditions for the summit talks which it proposed originally. Progress toward the meeting of government heads is now stalled by the inability of the Soviets and the West to agree on either what will be talked about or the level at which to open preliminary negotiations.

Baptist Sunday School Workers Set Convention

DALLAS — Nearly 3,000 Texas Baptist Sunday school workers are expected to attend the 29th annual state Sunday School Convention April 21-23 in Lubbock. Five general sessions and 25 special conferences will be held in Lubbock's First Baptist Church. Conferences will emphasize planning, teaching, training and witnessing, said state Sunday school secretary Andrew Allen. Dr. Ullin W. Leavell, professor of education and director of the McGuffey Reading Clinic at the University of Virginia, will be principal speaker for the meeting. A national authority on child education and author of the Golden Rule Series of readers, Dr. Leavell will discuss Bible study, mental discipline and Christian character in four addresses. Our speakers and conference leaders will include nine Southern Baptist Convention workers, two Baptist General Convention of Texas leaders and several educational leaders from BGCT churches. Dr. J. N. Barnett, secretary of the SBC Sunday School Department, will speak at a banquet for associational Sunday school officers. Other BSC speakers will include Dr. W. A. Harrell, secretary of the church architecture department, and Dr. W. L. Howse, education division, Baptist Sunday School Board. More than 1,111,400 persons are enrolled in Texas Baptist Sunday schools. The denomination will attempt to enroll another 100,000 persons this year, said Mr. Allen.

Here's Your Toy

Lisa has taken it upon herself to see that her baby sister, Leslie, is well entertained. Looking on with approval is their mother, Mrs. Jack H. Taylor.

Versatile Homemaker Collects Recipes, Counts On Deep Freeze

Model, home service adviser, housewife and mother—that has been the pattern of Mrs. Jack H. Taylor's career. The first two phases were in themselves preparation for the major mission, but they were chapters in her life that she would not like to have skipped.

Fresh out of her teens and full of ambition to become a fashion model, she left Breckenridge with her family's blessing and headed for New York City. Not far from the metropolis lives a married sister, so she had a home away from home.

She enrolled at the Barbizon School of Modeling and, upon completion of her study there, spent almost three years in the big city as a professional model in wholesale, style shows and military. Adult education courses in various subjects occupied many of her evenings.

Before her marriage to Taylor, a Breckenridge boy, and shortly afterward she was home service adviser for a gas company. Included in her duties, of course, were demonstration of gas appliances and preparation of meals. This was right down her alley, so to speak, because she has always enjoyed cooking and collecting recipes is a longtime custom with her.

The Taylors moved here three years ago from Breckenridge and have a home at 2105 Morrison Drive. Their two daughters are Lisa, 2½, and Leslie, 6 months. Taylor specializes in oilfield dirt contracting but also operates a water and oil transport service. He is a member of West Texas Contractors Assn.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are square dance fans and enjoy gardening. She is vice president of the Four O'Clock Garden Club and the newly-elected treasurer of Junior Woman's Forum. She likes to sew but finds little opportunity to sandwich it in between her homemaker tasks and keeping books for her husband.

A firm believer in the deep freeze, Mrs. Taylor relies on it for providing meals for unexpected guests. Every year she freezes fresh fruits, particularly peaches, and makes these into jellies and jams at her convenience. A specialty is peach marmalade.

A dessert trick of hers is to store the trimmings from pie pastry, wrapped in saran, in the freezer; an accumulation of the dough strips is combined with fruit to make a delicious cobbler. One of the family recipes she shares today, the Buttermilk Cake, can be made in layers, frozen without the orange glaze, and brought out on occasion to serve as the base for excellent shortcakes. The Herald folk, gifted with one of these cakes of their own, can vouch for its delectability.

The recipe for Patient Potatoes is a standby. At the annual Taylor reunion this dish inevitably shows up as the favorite. But perhaps her husband's No. one meat dish is the Chicken Cacciatore for which instructions are given below. The Fudge Cake has won her a pile of compliments.

Here are Mrs. Taylor's recipes:

BUTTERMILK CAKE
 1 cup shortening or oleo
 2 cups sugar
 4 eggs
 1 cup buttermilk
 ½ tsp soda
 3 cups sifted flour
 ½ tsp salt
 1 tsp. lemon, orange or vanilla extract (or all three)
 Cream together shortening and sugar. Add the eggs, beaten in one at a time. Stir buttermilk, with soda added, into the above mixture alternately with the flour into which has been sifted the salt. Mix well; add the extract.
 Bake in angel food cake pan (greased and floured) at 275 degrees for one hour, or until done.
 During the final half hour the cake is baking, cook ¾ cup sugar and ½ cup orange juice slowly; with soda added, into the above mixture alternately with the flour into which has been sifted the salt. Mix well; add the extract.
 Bake in angel food cake pan (greased and floured) at 275 degrees for one hour, or until done.

PATIENT POTATOES

LENTEN SALAD PLATE
 Two and one-half cups torn fork-size salad greens, 1 can (about 8 ounces) small whole cooked beets (drained), 4 hard-cooked eggs, 4 stalks cooked broccoli (cold), 12 green olives, mayonnaise or French dressing.

 Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a small skillet; add onion and cook slowly, stirring often, until transparent and tender but not brown; stir into salmon mixture. Rinse hands in cold water and shape mixture into flat patties, using about ¼ cup for each. (Mixture may be quite soft.)
 Spread about 2 tablespoons flour on a large piece of waxed paper; place patties on flour to coat, using a wide spatula or pancake turner to turn. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet (about 10 inches); add half the patties or as many as the pan will hold without crowding.
 Fry slowly until hot enough and browned on both sides. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons more butter if necessary to fry remaining patties. Makes 14 to 16 patties.

Old Reliable Is Marinated Cucumber

An old-fashioned stand-by, marinated cucumber slices and onion rings, makes a delightful accompaniment for fish or fowl. The marinade can be made of plain cider vinegar or varied with additional ingredients.

Tarragon vinegar may be substituted for part of the cider vinegar. Either sweet or sour cream seasoned with lemon juice, sugar, white pepper and a dash of garlic salt acts as a zippy marinade too.

 2 Tbsp. water
 ¼ tsp. salt
 White pepper
 Wash cucumber in cold water and dry; cut off ends. With swivel-blade vegetable peeler, pare cucumber lengthwise leaving part of green skin in a striped effect. Slice into paper-thin rounds.

Need Lenten Recipes? Maybe These Will Help

Chances are that, with the end of Lenten season approaching, many homemakers are scraping the bottom of the idea barrel for appropriate menus.

Eggs, cheese, fish can add up to monotony but need not, with an extra share of imagination applied in the kitchen.

Here are some recipes that might boost appetites:

PARTY TUNA BALLS
Ingredients:
 Three and one-half cups dry cereal, 1 cup (17 oz. can) tuna fish, ¼ cup finely minced onions, 2 Tbsp. minced parsley, ¼ cup condensed consommé (optional), 1 egg, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 Tbsp. prepared mustard, 1 tsp. poultry seasoning.
Method:
 Crush 2 cups cereal into fine crumbs. Combine with tuna fish, onions, parsley, consommé, egg, mayonnaise, mustard and poultry seasoning. Mix well. Shape into balls about one inch in diameter. Crush remaining ½ cup cereal into fine crumbs. Roll tuna balls in crumbs.
 Fry in hot deep fat (375 degree F.) about one minute, or until golden brown. Serve with lemon slice or tartar sauce. Yield: Two dozen balls.

PARSLEY OMELET
Ingredients:
 Five large eggs, 2 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter.
Method:
 Beat the eggs, water, parsley and salt with a fork just until yolks and whites are combined and there is as little froth as possible.
 Place a seasoned cast-aluminum skillet (8½ by 1 inch) over low heat; when it becomes very hot, add any piece of extra butter; if the butter sizzles but does not brown the skillet is ready. (If the butter browns, remove skillet from heat and wipe out with a paper towel.) Add 1 tablespoon butter to skillet and swirl so entire inside surface will be coated.

 Pour in half of omelet mixture and have heat high enough so eggs sets around edges immediately. Stir entire omelet with flat of fork with a circular motion so uncooked egg will reach bottom of pan; allow to stand over low heat just long enough to set bottom after stirring but do not allow to brown.
 Roll up with fork and the help of a spatula if necessary toward side away from handle; hold plate at edge of skillet and tip out omelet. Make second omelet the same way using remaining tablespoon of butter for cooking. Makes 2 servings.

MACARONI CHEESE
Ingredients:
 One and one-half tablespoons butter or margarine, 1½ tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, 1½ cups milk, 1½ cups grated cheddar cheese (packed down), 1 cup (8 ounces) elbow macaroni, 8 slices bacon (cooked until about three-quarters done but not crisp).
Method:
 Melt butter in medium-sized saucepan over low heat; stir in flour, salt and pepper until smooth. Add milk; cook and stir over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat; stir in cheese until melted; cover, reserve.
 Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain in colander. Reheat sauce if necessary; pour very low heat. Mix with cooked drained hot macaroni.
 Turn into buttered shallow 1- to 1½-quart baking dish (a round heat-resistant glass cake dish that is 8½ by 1½ inches is fine). Arrange partly cooked bacon slices over macaroni. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven until bacon is crisp and browned—20 to 30 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

A Bible Thought For Today

For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. (Luke 19:10)

Easter Seals And A Helping Hand

You're pretty lucky if you're in the great majority—you have all your limbs and good physical control of them and can lead what we call a normal life. But that's not true for everyone, and where people are left, either from congenital conditions or from disease and accidents, with some physical disability, a great problem exists.

Nowhere is this greater than with children, for children have so much of life to look forward to. The instinct to help therefore possesses a greater tug and appeal so far as children are concerned.

And the bright spot in the picture is that so many of these youngsters—practically all of them, as a matter of fact—are able to be helped.

Expert care and understanding treatment can work wonders. In numbers of cases youngsters learn to all but overcome these handicaps. In others, definite progress is possible. In still others, learning to live with the handicap or to take courses of action which will help compensate for them is a sound course.

There isn't a one of us but who would stop to lift up a fallen child or help one through these specific opportunities, we do have an omnipresent chance to be of help to these crippled children—and that is through purchase of Easter Seals.

Three-fourths of every dollar you give goes to help youngsters here. Virtually all of the remainder goes to help on a state and national basis. So be as generous as you can when the appeal is made to you.

Fantastic? Not Any More

Vanguard I, the Navy rocket that put a small gadget into orbit around the earth Monday morning, may well be the prototype of the vehicle that eventually sends a satellite whirling around the real earth satellite—the moon.

There is evidence that the Russian Sputniks were improvised, concocted in great haste to win a smashing propaganda victory over the United States. So was our Explorer I, the Army Thor, to offset the Russian triumph. It had elements of other rocket types in its make-up.

But Vanguard I is a unified, organized, painstakingly constructed, integrated unit—a "sophisticated" power plant, to use a word applied by the Army's missile expert, Dr. Von Braun, to describe the Navy Vanguard after two of them had come to grief.

It can be taken for granted that the builders of Vanguard I capitalized on the mistakes that brought its predecessors to ruin. That is the only way any contraption has been perfected—by capitalizing on past mistakes.

Even today's Vanguard and other types a-building must go through many months and probably years of trials and errors before long-range, guided missiles and space ships are brought to a matter-of-fact, routine performance.

The very thought that a missile could be launched into space and made to follow a predetermined orbit around the earth was fantastic from the beginning. It came under the heading of "science fiction," a division of literature conceived by diseased minds to entertain and bemuse other minds.

But it was difficult for ordinary minds to grasp the very idea of interplanetary travel, it is equally difficult for ordinary minds to understand the difficulties involved in bringing that wild dream to the verge of reality.

Nevertheless, it has been done.

It is in the works.

Sooner or later—this year, next year, and the experts say inevitably within five to ten years—earth's great satellite, 240,000 miles out into space, will be given a satellite of its own to keep it company. Eventually, the infinitely more difficult feat of landing a live human being on the moon, then taking him off and bringing him back safely to earth, will be accomplished.

"Fantastic" to be sure. But no more fantastic than launching artificial satellites, and no more difficult. Just a matter of putting down one foot after the other and walking to the stars.

High Idealism Vs. The Communists

WASHINGTON—Sometimes the flow of news creates an impression that we as a nation are in a bad way, so to speak, when all of a sudden a tiny sphere is catapulted into an orbit around the earth, and it starts a wave of good feeling with beeps of international approval.

The news about Vanguard's successful flight into space comes at a time when Washington has been in the doldrums over the recession as well as over the alleged improprieties surrounding the federal regulatory commissions. Virtue is supposed to be struggling to emerge as against the invisible peddling of improper influence designed to sway decisions in some governmental agencies.

Maybe the congressional investigations will assist in a broad sense the cause of righteousness. But the methods being used to attain such a laudable objective are still subject to severe criticism. Take the case of Colonel George Gordon Moore, whose chief "sin" seems to be that he is related by marriage to President Eisenhower—they married sisters.

The Colonel, it seemed, was accused by a variety of immoderate and sneering, leaked-out from the House committee. He was supposed to have assisted in some way in getting the Federal Communications Commission to issue a television license to an airline with the officers of which he had at one time done some business. He denied this unequivocally under oath, saying he had never contacted directly or indirectly anyone at all at the FCC or anybody else in the government about the airline's application for a TV license.

Instead of examining in executive session all the various rumors and inferences concerning Colonel Moore's alleged activities and coming forth with an explicit statement that Colonel Moore had nothing to do with the pending case, some members of the congressional committee during a period of nearly three weeks had allowed the harmful impressions to continue to prevail through ambiguous words, comments, repeated by casting doubts on the propriety of his activities and implying that maybe he had been guilty of some irregularity in connection with the Federal Communication Commission. It seems as if some people will try almost anything in order to get in a dig at Ike or his family.

In these days of expediency on the political and ideological fronts it is refreshing, therefore, to turn to a statement that is an example of courage and forthrightness. It comes from a United States senator, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Democrat. He is noted for his common sense as well as his indifference to political gobbledygook. He wrote a reply to the other day to Dr. Joseph Link Jr., associate professor of economics at Xavier University in Cincinnati, who had asked the senator what he thought of the suggestion that apart from any official "summit" conference, Khrushchev be invited to come to America for a visit. Senator Lausche said, in part:

"The impact upon our allies and friends would be prejudicial to our cause. They would be justified in believing that an intimacy was being developed between the free United States and Communist Russia that would lead eventually to the abandonment by the United States of the free people."

"Motivated solely by a desire to preserve itself, there has been no change in the Soviet concept that, by the very nature of things, Communism cannot exist so long as there lives in the world any governmental unit ruling under a philosophy inconsistent with that of Communism."

"I am convinced that the attitude of Khrushchev and his cohorts will not be changed through the contact that he makes with our way of life, with our governmental officials, and with our people. To him, the visit would be a tactical operation, believing that he could not refuse the people of the United States toward Communism, but that through the visit, he could undermine the trust and the confidence which the free people of the world have in our country."

Just why so many Americans want to see our highest officials fraternizing with the men of the Kremlin who have on their hands the blood of the Hungarian patriots is difficult to understand, particularly in a country dedicated to high ideals and where the slightest impropriety in our own governmental circles is pounced upon as a violation of public morals.

Which Way Did The Rabbit Go?

WASHINGTON (AP)—In 15 years in Washington this writer has never seen anything more fouled up than what happened yesterday at the White House after President Eisenhower conferred with eight state governors.

It was hard to tell whether a rabbit was being pulled out of the hat, or a rabbit was being put back into a hat.

Eisenhower called in the governors to discuss his idea of providing federal money to those unemployed workers who have used up the jobless pay given them under the federal-state system of unemployment compensation.

When Eisenhower first offered his idea March 8 he seemed to indicate he was thinking of a grant—a gift, which didn't have to be paid back—to the states to give to the unemployed who had exhausted their UC benefits.

This would be a plain dole. The idea of a dole got furious reaction within Eisenhower's own administration. Then administration people began talking of a loan, not a grant, to the states.

So nothing was clear when the governors went in to see Eisenhower. When they came out and held a group news conference this was the main question: Was Eisenhower thinking of a grant or a loan?

That news conference was plain hash. It was so vague it was almost unbelievable. James Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, was there and could have cleared it up, or tried to, but he didn't.

Then the reporters tackled the governors individually. Republican Gov. Knight of California and Democratic Governors Roselli (Washington), Faubus (Arkansas) and Muskie (Maine) talked of the federal help as being in the form of grants.

Knight and Roselli told this writer the grant idea—requiring no repayment by the states—was the only one on which all eight governors agreed.

But then a White House spokesman gave a different version after newsmen, now thoroughly confused, besieged him for clarification. He said the President was thinking in terms of a loan that would have to be paid back.

He was asked how there could be such a difference of interpretation on what the President had in mind that the governors talked of a grant and he talked of a loan. The spokesman said: "Well, if you were a governor you might look on it as a grant while we look on it as a loan."

Joe's A Somebody

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—"My God is so great, I am only a piece of nothing," said Joe Palughi. And to thousands of sailors around the world, Joe Palughi is distinctly a somebody. He is a friend at port to men at sea—men who often feel nobody cares what happens to them.

Joe does. That is why, when their ships dock here, seamen of all nationalities—English, Greek, Italian, Japanese—head first for "Joe's Place," a restaurant.

Word has gone from ship to ship that here is a place where seamen can spin a yarn, eat or drink, or bring his girl and dance in peace. Nobody will rob or roll him. And if he needs help—there is Joe, an ex-seaman himself who knows the sailor's problems.

Palughi, a short, dark-haired patient man whose eyes always look as if they are fixed on the horizon, is deeply religious and Pope Pius has made him a Knight of St. Gregory.

To many landlubbers the sailor ashore is a noisy troublemaker. To others he is merely someone to exploit or rob. Few bother to try to understand him.

"A seaman actually is a wonderful fellow," insisted Joe. "His mouth may sometimes be as big as his heart. But he isn't vicious. He's lonesome. And usually he is harmless and easy to handle—if you know his ways."

Palughi realizes that a seaman in port is hardly an angel on a picnic, but said:

"When I first went to sea the monthly pay was $42.50. Now it's around $300. As the world progresses, as the living standard gets better, people get better, too. At least they act better."

No missionary but a businessman, Palughi has prospered—and is proud he's done well enough to see that his three children will get the education he didn't.

Here is his philosophy:

"I am grateful to my Creator and humble toward him. I have no kicks against life, because this life was given to me. Therefore it does not belong to me.

"I do the best I can. If I desired more, God would give it to me. He has already gone out of his way to be kind to me, and I don't deserve that. How can anyone kick against life?"

Stories Out Of The Exhaust Fumes

The Russians, it appears, have a traffic problem just like ours: Too many automobiles trying to occupy the same space.

However, the wily Reds have solved the problem on their streets. They simply did away with all speed limits. Now traffic flows rapidly.

The speed limit in Russia was 45 kilometers (about 37 miles) per hour before it was lifted.

The same sort of solution might work in this country. At least we could eliminate a lot of autos and drivers, along with the speed limit.

British pilots soon may be using road maps as their chief navigational aid.

The Ministry of Transport and British Amateur Flying Clubs are working on plans to paint directional signs, with 10-foot lettering, at important road junctions.

The average American driver is more skillful, more willing to accept discipline, and pays more attention to safety regulations than his English cousin, according to the British Automobile News Bureau. The American needs to be better, however. He drives much faster than the Englishman.

Blue and red are the most popular 1958 car colors, according to the Buick people. Buick sales through February showed 16.4 per cent of buyers preferred blue and 15.9 per cent wanted red.

Meanwhile, the traditional "solid" blacks and whites slipped to 12.1 and 10.3 per cent in buyer popularity.

Before long, they may have to paint fire trucks black in order to make them stand out in the crowd.

Ford Motor Co. has recognized the demand for the smaller car in the American market.

A new Ford division is being created to push the light, British-made Ford in this country, according to Ford Motor Co. Ltd. of Britain.

European manufacturers currently are sharing in the boom of small-car sales in this country. Several of them report U. S. sales are up as much as 50 per cent this year. One, MG (Morris Garages), doubled its American sales last year.

The automobile may be taking on new legal significance. It is in one court, at least.

A man recently was being sued for non-payment of a debt, when the attorney for the complainant asked if he owned a car. "Don't consider it," ruled the judge. "That's a liability, not an asset."

The judge must drive in the same bracket I do.

This Bone-Pointing Is Interesting

Editor, Sydney Daily Mail, Sydney, Australia, Dear Sir:

I am writing you for additional information concerning what is apparently an ancient Australian aboriginal means of putting a hex or curse on a foe.

The Sydney Daily Mail has been widely quoted in the United States with reference to the practice of Arunta tribesman in "pointing the bone" at an enemy. Thereafter, the Mail says, the enemy obligingly sickens and dies.

Unfortunately, probably because of cable tolls from Australia to the United States, there is no description of this ceremony or any particulars concerning the type of bone or bones used.

For example, would turkey bones, of which I am in current supply, do the trick? Or a leg of lamb, which will be completely denuded and ready for extralegal action after dinner tonight? (Honestly, don't you think leg of lamb is sort of disheartening after the third day? Does your food editor have any suggestions?)

I would also like to know the status of a pig's knuckle or a prime rib in this Arunta ritual. I hope domestic bones such as these, which are easily available to Americans, are suitable. It would be difficult for us if bones required for the successful completion of this ritual were limited to such Australian fauna as kangaroo, wallaby, wombat, the spiny anteater, the flying opossum or the platypus, which are in extremely short supply here.

Or is there now available in Sydney a "Pointing-the-Bone-Do-It-Yourself-Kit"? It is one woman's opinion that there would be a wide demand for such a kit on the American market, if it is available in export quantities. I believe you would have no tariff trouble with this item.

Up Yonder we are more familiar with voodoo practices than we are with the bone hexes of Down Under. But in recent months I have had very little success with the standard voodoo custom of disposing of an enemy by making a wax image of him and sticking it full of pins over a period of time.

In the first place, wax is messy, and in the second, I am not very good at sculpturing. It could be that the evil eye sees no resemblance between the object of my vendetta and the wax image, and therefore is unable to administer the hex.

Again, pins are a chancy thing. Now, I know a woman who spilled a few pins on the floor—honestly, only three or four—and her husband planted his bare foot on one. Well, sir, his language melted the image, and there this woman was with a new enemy on her hands, her own husband. And he has begun to make a wax image.

What is all boils down to is this: I shall be grateful for any information you can send me on this bone business. In this ever-shrinking world, we should all be friends and try to help each other, don't you think? Quid pro quo, would you care to know anything about the Pennsylvania Dutch hex business? Understanding each other's customs is bound to make for international good will, no? Hands across the sea and heads across the block, eh?

Sincerely,
Inez Robb

New Brains To Shape Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON—In the watches of the night, as he has several times admitted, one of the things disturbing the sleep of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is: Who writes the notes that Soviet Russia broadcasts to the world in such an unending stream?

The latest one is conceded by all concerned to be a 10-strike. It seizes on such appealing propaganda devices as control of outer space by the United Nations and inspection-of-arms limitation agreements here on the earth.

In short, it is full of ideas, and whether they are valid or merely gimmicks is, in the present context, unimportant. This is a propaganda war to gain the allegiance of peoples everywhere, and the United States has been steadily losing ground in that war.

As Dulles returns from Manila and the meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, he will confront in a more acute form a situation over which he has often in the past done some solemn headshaking. As he said recently, the United States has a far better case but it does a much poorer job of presenting it. That this should be so in a nation so highly articulate on every subject is one of life's larger ironies.

Sportily before he went away Dulles named James J. Wadsworth to be disarmament negotiator. It would be incorrect to say that Wadsworth, who has been deputy to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. at the United Nations, has been put in Harold Stassen's place.

At the time of the Wadsworth appointment Dulles also named four advisers on disarmament. They were John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York and former director of America's zone of occupation in Germany; Robert Lovett, also a New York banker and former Secretary of Defense; General Alfred N. Gruenther, President Eisenhower's long-time friend and national head of the Red Cross, and General Walker Bedell Smith, also a long-time Eisenhower associate, a former ambassador to Moscow and Undersecretary of State and now a big business executive.

These are all able men with long experience in public affairs. But with the best of intentions they could give only a small fraction of their time and attention to the difficult and complicated issue of disarmament.

It is not from such advisers that the Secretary of State will get ideas if he really wants them in prosecuting the struggle on which survival itself depends. There have been some doubts on this score. One of Dulles' closest associates, seeking to explain his chief, once put it this way:

"You see, Foster's trouble is that he doesn't respect the opinions of anybody who knows less than he does about foreign policy, and since nobody else knows as much as he does, this leaves him in a pretty lonely position."

To a greater degree than in the past, Dulles has begun to delegate a part of his burden. Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter, who felt a few months ago that he had so little to do that he might better resign, has been given areas of operation in which his considerable abilities should find an outlet.

But this is the smallest beginning in the transfer of the conduct of foreign policy from the Secretary's hat to the large and costly apparatus that is the Department of State. If Dulles wants ideas and skilled assistance in the note-writing contest, he will find them not from the big names but in the growing corps of men in the universities specializing in various aspects of foreign policy.

At Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Chicago, Stanford and other centers of learning are knowledgeable specialists who do have ideas. They can be found, too, in organizations such as the Foreign Policy Association and the Council on World Affairs.

Here is an untapped reservoir, and now that eggheads are respectable again it should be drawn upon. The time is past for wondering about how Russia achieves its propaganda successes. We should use the abilities we have to get ahead in this race.

Little Change In Meat Prices; Pork Still Good

By The Associated Press

Food shoppers will find little difference in prices and supplies of red meats, with pork cuts remaining better buys, the Department of Agriculture said Thursday.

Best values in fresh pork are in shoulder roasts, chops, ribs and picnics. Half or whole smoked hams are good buys, as are cured picnics. Best beef values are to be found in chuck and shoulder roasts, ground and boneless stew meats. Many stores are featuring baby beef at reasonable prices, the Market Service said.

Prices of dairy products, including milk, cheddar and cottage cheese, eggs and broiler-fryers are about unchanged and supplies are well distributed for continued use of these high protein foods.

At the freezer counter, homemakers will find good values in fresh frozen hens, large size turkey toms, beef, turkey and chicken pies, ocean perch fillets, fish sticks and whiting.

Texas food shoppers will find their best fresh vegetable buys in film pack carrots, cabbage, spinach, bunched greens, green onions, radishes, lettuce, bulk turnips, celery and cauliflower.

Lettuce is priced slightly lower than a week ago, as are Mexican tomatoes and crystal wax onions. Florida celery is also down in price, although California celery prices are slightly higher.

Old-crop russet and red McClure potatoes and old-crop onions are higher. Texas new-crop potatoes have started to move to market in small volume; however, quality is not too good, said the service.

There has been some increase in shipments from Florida on round red potatoes, squash, eggplant and green peppers, but supplies are still light and prices relatively high.

With many fresh vegetables in short supply, buyers will find stocks of many canned and frozen items in good supply for use as substitutes. Known brands of corn, green peas, green beans and spinach continue to be featured at attractive prices. Canned tuna, chum salmon, peaches and pears are plentiful and reasonably priced.

Cattle Men Favor Better Meat Grading

SAN ANTONIO (P)—Cattle raisers voted yesterday for improvement in federal meat grading practices and procedures in the windup of the annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn.

Pretty Pictures

WASHINGTON (P)—People order things from catalogues, but the government buys them from schedules. Clarence D. Bean, commissioner of federal supply, explained the difference this way: "Catalogues have pretty pictures and numbers."

Science Corner

Second Grader Mike Lambert holds up a bottled chrysalis for classmates Jan Holley and Steve Cottrell in a science class at Jane Long Elementary School in Midland. They raise plants and a turtle, study the various forms of insects and plants for answers to questions about environment.

Thomas Close To Problem Of School Science

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON (P)—Committees of Congress are concerned with improvements of the nation's educational system but few are so close to the problem as the House Appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. Albert Thomas (D) of Houston.

The record of a closed door session points this up. Throughout a discussion in which top scientists and congressmen participated, there is constant reference to Russia's Sputnik—and acknowledgement that Russia has made remarkable scientific progress through a highly developed educational structure.

There seemed agreement that the fate of America depends on the ability of its schools to do a better job, and that this means better taught pupils all the way back through the elementary grades.

The question left unanswered is how this can be done without federal encroachment on states' rights, and how to convince a tax-conscious public that national survival may depend on raising the money to provide better schools, better trained teachers and to see that no one with ability lacks maximum schooling because of personal finances.

Prominent in the committee discussion was Dr. Alan Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation. The foundation was established by Congress six years ago with directions "to develop and encourage the pursuit of a national policy for the promotion of basic research and education in sciences."

The NSF was asking 140 million dollars to carry on in the year beginning July 1, as compared with 40 million this year.

"You do not have the authority to go out and establish a laboratory and operate it yourself," observed Thomas. "You have authority to give some money to some very bright folks."

In the ensuing exchange Waterman said: "One thing very impressive about the Russian situation, and you understand I believe we should develop our own method, is that they do not succeed in identifying those with aptitude for science and making sure they go into it, whether in research, teaching, or industry."

Midland Students Need No Urging To Study Science

MIDLAND (P)—In this West Texas city where oil is king, students needn't be urged to study science. It's part of their daily lives. Their appetites for such subjects are whetted by the talk they hear around home from their fathers, perhaps a big brother and neighbors. More students are signing up for science courses each year. In three years the increase has been 29 per cent.

Midland High School included eight new science rooms, some large science store rooms, new furnishings and a greenhouse in its 1957 expansion plans.

School authorities say science equipment in Midland High School ranks with the best schools and with many colleges.

The school system introduced informal science periods four years ago in elementary schools. Teachers now wish the students were as enthusiastic about other subjects as they are about science.

Local scientists and other oil company employees respond eagerly, say school officials, when asked to talk or demonstrate on some science subject.

Students pick up a great deal of geology and other scientific matters anyway in talk overheard between adults who are concerned with the oil industry.

Cop Outwits Gunman Threat

PHOENIX, Ariz. (P)—Patrolman Don Ansel, a policeman for only 14 months, stared at his own gun, held by a man threatening to kill him.

"You're under arrest for assault with a deadly weapon," Ansel said levelly, "and feloniously obstructing an officer in the line of duty."

A crowd of homebound workers, including Mayor Jack Williams, stopped at the busy intersection and watched the tense drama.

None interfered.

A few minutes earlier, Ansel, 27, arrested Richard Haupt, 31, for investigation of drunk driving. Haupt's brother Bernard, 29, a passenger in the car, grabbed Ansel's gun as the patrolman wrestled with Richard, who resisted arrest. Bernard shouted: "Let my brother loose or I'll kill you."

Ansel remained motionless as Deputy Paul Cavicchi arrived on the scene. The deputy distracted Bernard and Ansel snatched back his weapon. Both brothers were arrested. No charges have been filed.
