Hundreds Arrive For T-P Banquet

Like a three-ring circus, the crews of caterer Walter Jetton of Fort Worth moved in on the Texas and Pacific freight warehouse today transforming it into a mammoth banquet hall.

From up and down the line members of the T&P family and officialdom began to arrive for the 6:30 p.m. banquet honoring the western division personnel for the system's outstanding safety record of the year.

W. G. Vollmer, Fort Worth, will head a bevy of top figures in the T&P organization and will make the actual presentation of the company trophy to K. H. Hester, superintendent of the division.

Other guests include Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McCavner, Sweetwater, and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stafford, Roscoe.

McMahon Is New President Of UF

Trustees of the United Fund of Howard County named Clyde McMahon, concrete and gravel supplier, to the presidency of the organization at the annual meeting Thursday.

McMahon succeeds Robert V. Middleton, who drew an expression of praise and thanks from the board, and especially from his successor, McMahon, in taking over direction of the community's combined funds appeal, also recognized the work of K. H. McGibson, campaign director, and all who had helped during the past year.

Other officers named were Raymond River, vice president, and John Currie, treasurer. "I know I can count on all of you helping and upon the cooperation of everyone in the community. Otherwise I wouldn't attempt to take this assignment," said McMahon.

Dreadful Row Breaks Out Among Britain's Elite On Statue Site

LONDON (AP) — A dreadful row has broken out here over a proposed change in site for a famous statue of King James II.

George Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Samuel Pepps and Sir Walter Raleigh have been dragged in, along with the American tourist trade. Horatio Nelson has been called names you wouldn't believe.

Leading artists, architects and art lovers are beating each other over the head with adjectives, citations from British history and even cold logic. Letters have been written to the papers. Statements have been made in Parliament.

So far Jimmy the Two — as he is known to the Cockney element — is still firmly planted next to George Washington in front of the National Gallery, overshadowed by the towering Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square.

Living Costs Pushed Up By Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new high for food costs sent the nation's living cost level to still another peak mark in mid-February.

In reporting this today, Labor Statistics Commissioner Ewan Clague said he could see little hope for a living cost downturn in the next few months.

The official index rose two tenths of 1 per cent between January and February, reaching 122.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is 3.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Food alone soared to a point 4.5 per cent above a year ago, a new record.

The new over-all living cost peak is the 16th time in 18 months that the index has broken over the top to a new high.

Clague said the reason living costs are not responding to the general business decline, but continuing upward on their own, is that most consumer cost items don't respond quickly to general economic conditions.

He said farmers suffered their recession two years ago with a result that farm prices have since strengthened. Food plays a major part in living costs.

Clague said durables, such as autos, appliances and so on, and soft goods, such as gasoline, fuels and clothing, are responding somewhat to the general downturn.

But food and service costs — haircuts, medical care, public transportation, rent, repair and cleaning charges — are still rising.

The new hike in living costs means a pay raise of one or two cents an hour to about 100,000 workers in assorted aircraft, metal work and local transit companies.

The aircraft firms are Martin, Hughes and Fairchild. Food cost rose four-tenths of 1 per cent from January to February.

Prices of most meats, fruits and vegetables, and restaurant meals, increased.

An exception was rib roast prices, indicating consumers have shifted to cheaper meat cuts. Prices for eggs and most dairy products declined a bit.

Veto Considered Likely On Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rushed to President Eisenhower a farm price support freeze bill which he is considered likely to veto.

The Senate completed congressional action by accepting a House amendment to limit its effect to 1958.

The Senate vote on that issue was 48-32. Previously the Senate had passed the measure without the limit, 50-43. The House bill passed that branch, 210-172.

The measure would prevent any reduction in price supports and acreage allotments below 1957 levels.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson both have expressed sharp opposition to it. The secretary has asked Congress for authority to lower supports on basic commodities to 60 per cent, as compared with the 75 per cent floor in present law.

Democratic backers of the freeze contended they were giving the farm economy a half-billion-dollar shot in the arm, not playing politics.

The Senate, meantime, passed a bill to extend for two years beyond June 30 the government's authority to dispose of farm surplus commodities abroad in exchange for foreign currencies, or as gifts in case of disaster.

Passage came on a voice vote after the Senate rejected 44-39 an effort by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) to force Secretary of Agriculture Benson to use barter deals for at least half a billion dollars worth of surpluses each year.

Permissive authority for barter remains. The Senate bill authorizes disposal of an added 2 1/2 billion dollars of farm surpluses during the extension period. The administration had asked a one-year extension and authority for disposal of 1 1/2 billion dollars of commodities.

The disposal bill now goes to the House.

Death Claims Mrs. Bennett, Rites Saturday

MRS. M. H. BENNETT

Mrs. Maude Bennett, wife of Dr. M. H. Bennett, and one of Big Spring's best known citizens through a lifetime, died Thursday in a local hospital.

Death occurred about 6:30 p.m., following a long illness. Mrs. Bennett's condition became critical a week ago, and she has been in the hospital continuously since.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the rector, the Rev. William D. Boyd, directing. Burial will be in the City Cemetery with River Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Revolution Brewing In Eneeri?

WALLER, Tex. (AP) — There were reports of dissension within the land of Eneeri — Irene spelled backwards — today as Mrs. Irene Cliett continued her game of hide-and-seek with a deputy U.S. marshal.

The Houston Chronicle said it had been asked to act as an intermediary in arranging for deputy Marshal Ellis Binford to serve Mrs. Cliett with injunction papers but that Mrs. Cliett declined.

The Chronicle said the deal fell through as Mrs. Cliett fought off a mild attack of flu and apparently renewed her determination to continue hiding from Binford.

The deputy has been trying since Monday to serve the papers in spite of Mrs. Cliett's defiance of a court order that her 705-acre farm be divided on a 50-50 basis with heirs of a friend.

Lease Funds Cut But Other Money Added

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today cut off funds for the lease-purchase program. But it recommended $177,255,000 in new cash to finance construction of 66 public buildings in the program. The committee said the direct appropriation procedure will save money. It ordered that hereafter the lease-purchase method be used only for constructing post offices.

As an antirecession measure, the committee approved 75 million dollars to accelerate repair and improvement of government buildings. The committee's action was in connection with approval of a $6,349,920,900 bill to finance independent federal agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. This is $627,577,400 more than President Eisenhower requested and $1,159,968,100 more than Congress gave the same agencies this year.

In a sharply worded explanation of its lease-purchase action, the committee criticized Franklin G. Floete, the general services administrator, and Maurice H. Stans, who recently became director of the Budget Bureau.

It said it asked Floete not to bind the government on any more lease-purchase contracts until further notice. But, the committee added, he "ignored the request and within the last two weeks has signed two lease-purchase contracts and advises the committee that he intends to sign 26 others." The committee said Stans ignored a request not to require GSA to enter into any commitments for lease-purchase contracts until Congress could decide whether the buildings should be constructed under direct appropriations.

"NO RESPECT" Stans contended "lease-purchase was an administration policy," the committee said, adding that his action "was arbitrary and clearly showed no respect for the congressional request."

The lease-purchase law, enacted in 1954, provided for private construction of public buildings such as courthouses, with the government eventually obtaining ownership through annual rental payments. Congress refused last year to renew the law and the committee noted that only one public building has been constructed under the program since the law was enacted.

The 66 buildings for which the committee recommended direct appropriations had been approved for construction under that law. Through the direct appropriations procedure, the committee said, the government will save about 171 million dollars on the 66 projects. It said a General Accounting Office survey indicated it costs at least $164 under lease-purchase to buy the same amount of building that can be obtained for $1 in direct appropriations.

The committee's action is subject to approval by the House next week. Largest money allotment in the bill was $4,932,210,000 for the Veterans Administration. This is $35,342,000 less than Eisenhower asked.

Snowstorm Slices Thru Eastern States

By The Associated Press An eve-of-spring snowstorm whipped by gale-force winds cut a devastating swath yesterday from Maryland to New England, dumping 3 to 3 feet of snow, leaving hundreds of thousands of homes without light and heat, and crippling all forms of transportation.

In some areas the havoc was termed worse than hurricanes of recent years. At least 21 deaths were attributed to the storm, which wheeled shoreward Wednesday from off the Carolina coast and swirled northward.

It was still snowing in many of the stricken areas today, but moderating weather was forecast in most sections by late tonight or tomorrow.

In Maryland the wet, freezing snowfall snapped power lines feeding some 100,000 homes. Annapolis was without power for nine hours. A large frame house in Baltimore burned to the ground when firemen were unable to surmount the drifts.

Highways were closed by fallen poles, and Pennsylvania Railroad service from Washington to New York was shut down for several hours. Nearly two feet of snow fell in the Baltimore area and about the same amount blanketed Frederick, Md. Six storm-caused deaths were reported in Maryland.

As spring officially came in at 10:06 p.m., some 300,000 persons in the area of Washington, D.C., were without electricity. Power firms said it may take another 24 hours before full service is restored.

In the nation's capital, the White House telephone system was partially knocked out for about an hour. Security police at the White House gates used walkie-talkies. An evergreen tree was felled on the White House lawn. Air traffic at National Airport was cut 25 per cent. Some 10,000 homes had no telephone service.

Slashing into Pennsylvania, where six weather-connected deaths were reported, the storm caused widespread power failures in the southeastern part of the state. The town of Oley, Pa., 14 miles southeast of Reading, reported 36 inches of snow. The Harrisburg area was struggling under a 30-inch fall. The western part of the state suffered much less from the storm and winds. Although three western counties estimated snow depths ranging up to 13 inches. Thousands of Pennsylvania homes were lightless, heatless and phoneless. Roads were blocked, transportation was at a crawl, and many trees were broken or stripped of their branches.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was closed for 111 miles from Harrisburg to the New Jersey state line. An estimated 800 persons were stranded at a small restaurant on the turnpike near Morgantown, Pa. The food supply had to be rationed. One man collapsed and died after forcing his way through drifts from his car to the restaurant.

Tranquilizers For Nervous Animals

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Got a barking dog, unstable cat, wild bull, skittish horse?

Try tranquilizer drugs, advised about 100 veterinarians at a symposium here yesterday. The veterinarians reported on their use of tranquilizers in Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas.

Dr. Donald F. Walker of Broken Bow, Neb., told how he tested the money-saving quality of tranquilizers in shipping cattle.

He tested 63 beef animals shipped from Belle Fourche, S.D., to Broken Bow. He injected the drug in 33. The untreated animals lost an average of 69 pounds on the trip. The tranquil ones averaged losing only 44.5 pounds. ($140.)

Students Attend TASC Meeting

By GRETCHEN BRIDEN Modesta Simpson, Jane Guin, Carey King and Jimmy Hinds left Thursday morning to attend the Texas Association of Student Councils in Abilene. Mrs. Marie Carter and Mrs. Jean Evans accompanied the students as their sponsors, and Mr. Thomas Ernest, principal, was also due to attend the meeting. Modesta was to head a panel discussion on "Money Raising Projects for Junior High Schools." The delegates plan to return Saturday afternoon.

will hold a social Saturday evening, and all members are urged to take part.

Our Freshman of the Week is Jane Guin. In the seventh, Jane received two honors—she was runner up for Harvest Queen and was a nominee for El Palomar Queen.

She was a representative from the eighth grade to the student council, and this year she is the council parliamentarian. Thursday Jane left for Abilene as a delegate to the state student council meeting.

She was secretary of the eighth grade Tri-Hi-Y and in the seventh and ninth she served as historian. Jane also was a nominee for best all around girl.

She is a member of FHA, the Rainbows, and attends the First Presbyterian Church.

Next week, March 23-29, is FHA Week. The Future Homemakers of America are planning to be busy everyday of next week. They will be having fun as well as working, and some special observances are planned.

Girls, Twirp Week will be coming around next week, so plan on asking your favorite fellow for a date. And abide by all the rules such as carrying books, opening doors, and other points to do the bidding of your date. Remember, Twirp Week is simply turning the tables.

What does BCMBS mean? This is the basis for a contest sponsored by the school paper, "The Round Up." Prize winners will be announced Monday.

Frankie Morgan held a slumber party last Friday night, and those attending were Joyce Gunn, Sharon Starr, Gale Potter, Carla Sledge, Judy Gillian, Katie Bess Morgan, Linda Grant, Linda Gall and Telie Grooms.

Congratulations to Rachel Phelan, Sally Pachall, Lynn Wood and Brenda Morgan! They took first division rating in the solo division at the district music contest. Congratulations also are in order for the choir, because it took a second division rating.

GETTING SET FOR SOME SERIOUS READING
Charles Cain relaxes with French literature

LIBRARY WEEK—AND ALL OTHERS

Reading Is Full-Time Job For Charles Cain

To Charles Cain goes the nomination for Big Spring's most avid reader.

Every week is "library week" for Cain, 64. He estimates he reads an average of five hours each day.

It isn't light reading either, although Cain admits he does read a lot of fiction. But most of his time is spent in pursuing additional knowledge in such fields as history, philosophy, mathematics and linguistics.

Cain can "read easily" in 15 languages, manages "pretty well" in about 35, and "dabbles" in more than 100.

Something of a philosopher himself, Cain points out that his reading in all fields is of a general nature.

"I'm interested in the interrelations of things," he says. "I like to know why people act as they do. If I live long enough, I hope to find out."

Cain, a Big Springer since New Year's Day, 1955, can be found around the Howard County Library nearly any day of the week. He goes there for his English material. Books in other languages are ordered from out of town sources. Cain also has a sizable library of his own—in French, German, Italian, Spanish, etc.

Reading must have come naturally for Cain. He started reading at the age of three years, without a teacher. In fact, he doesn't remember learning to read, merely having picked up the art over a period of time during his early childhood.

Born in Decatur, Ill., he grew up as a bi-linguist. His father spoke both French and English, and Charles learned French as quickly as English. He was surrounded by German-speaking people in his Midwest home and also learned that tongue while being "exposed" to several others.

Cain spends a great deal of his time now in giving others "a general steer in linguistics." A private teacher, he puts in about four hours daily tutoring students of French, German, Italian and Spanish and the fundamentals of other languages, including Portuguese and Russian.

His reading has developed in Cain a great respect for the ideas, accomplishments and potentials of people of all races and nationalities.

"If we're losing the war now, it's because we're too narrow—too self-satisfied," he says.

College Players Successful In Staging 'Night Must Fall'

By BOB SMITH

An expert cast weaved in and out of the intricacies of the plot Thursday evening to bring to a successful climax the College Players' first in the round dramatic production.

"Night Must Fall," the psychological mystery by Emyln Williams, requires that changes in mood be made smoothly and quickly, and these transitions were made without untoward incident by the HCJC thespians.

The drama will be presented again Saturday evening, and will close with a performance Monday.

The story of "Night Must Fall" finds a grumpy and neurotic old tyrant, Mrs. Branson (Sandra Havens), ruling over a long-suffering household consisting her employe - niece, Olivia (Danna Green) a rather naive maid, Dora (Beverly Alexander), and a sassy cook who calls "em as she sees 'em, Mrs. Terrence (Mary Denham).

Visiting in the isolated English manor are a flutery nurse, played by Barbara Coats, and an insufferable bore, Hubert, a role well carried off by Joe Beard. Hubert is there to try to win the hand of Olivia, a spinsterish and repressed young lady, and provides some comic relief.

And, in fact, the play is at first something of a comedy, especially with the arrival of a bell boy, Danny (George Kozachuk), from the nearby town. Danny's complete innocence slowly gives way to a mounting atmosphere of sinister suspicion. Arrival of Belsize, the police officer, swayed portrayed by Jack Culpepper, sets off a chain of events that steadily increases the sense of dread that permeates the household.

Despite the inane remarks of a little girl in the audience at critical moments in the plot, the cast carried off one anti-climax after another without being unsettled. Not even that bogeyman of all theatrical productions, the missing of cues, stumped the cast—they adlibbed through their troubles and picked up the script again without the audience being aware they missed something.

Kozachuk, a psychologist, gave an intimate portrayal of the slow revelation of a schizoid personality. His change of character was made smoothly. Miss Havens showed top talent throughout, but was especially notable in scenes of extreme emotion.

Miss Green conducted herself through her role as one would expect of an "old veteran," and her changes of mood rivaled those of Kozachuk. The script called for an unattractive young woman, but it proved practically impossible to make her look plain. She made up for this through her acting ability to give the impression of lack of beauty coupled with repression of natural desires.

Culpepper stepped into his role without a hitch, and successfully created a suave detective whose shrewdness is kept artfully concealed. Beard's main problem was in playing down his humorous role to create the character of a typical English bore, an attempt in which he was successful. Culpepper and Beard were named among the top six actors in a recent statewide contest.

Mary Denham, who entered the cast without previous experience, was the surprise of the season.

Some Rebs Just Don't Fade Away

WASHINGTON — Some old soldiers, especially Confederates, never fade away so far as the National Archives are concerned.

A House Appropriations subcommittee was asked for $60,000 to start microfilming cards which contain the military service records of Confederate veterans.

"There has been a great demand for such data from the Southern states which did not get a kind of information from the federal government after the Civil War," U.S. Archivist Wayne C. Grover told the subcommittee.

He said once the cards were filmed, copies could be prepared inexpensively for the 12 or 13 states interested and ultimately the National Archives would have fewer requests for information.

Road Crash Kills 3 Members Of Family

GREENVILLE — Three members of a Kilgore family were killed and three other persons were injured in a highway accident near here last night.

Mrs. James Sizemore and her daughter, Marsha Sizemore, 6, were killed in the accident. A son, James Sizemore Jr., 5, died of injuries early today in a Dallas hospital.

James Sizemore, 25, his son, Robert, 2; and daughter, Gloria, 15 months, suffered lesser injuries.

Police said Sizemore was blinded by a passing car, got off on the shoulder and the car flipped at least twice. The accident occurred 8 miles north of Greenville on U.S. 69.

A Bible Thought For Today

Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven. (Acts 1:11)

Not A Sectional Problem

Pegging of the production pattern for April at eight days, another new record low for the Mate, represents another desperate bid by Texas at trying to tune the oil industry to hit on all cylinders. If this can be accomplished by giving the abnormally large surplus stocks a chance to be absorbed, then the process of "revving up" the trade can follow.

Right now it's no cinch that either or both can be accomplished, and the fly in the ointment is the excessive importation of foreign oil.

While some would favor a flat bar to imported oil, most oilmen and others take a realistic view. We must absorb a reasonable amount to maintain trade balance and the achievement of the sounder goal of trade in preference to aid. At the same time, we must also furnish an outlet for crude oil which otherwise might go to Russia by default.

But beyond these points, it is not prudent to slowly drown the domestic industry to satisfy the operational convenience of most of the major companies. The lack of restraint simply in order to balance high domestic charges with low prices foreign oil is short-sighted and ominous.

Texas and the Southwest, source of most of the domestic oil, and also the haven of the bulk of enterprising independent operators, are unfortunately a minority in the halls of Congress. Weight of representation is with the eastern seaboard where import supplies are easy and where states do not feel any immediate financial pinch.

They are and will be affected, however, because when the Texas and other southwestern markets dry up, the pipe-makers in Pittsburgh, the car-makers in Detroit, the rig makers in the east all will feel the loss. Their chickens may be slow in coming home to roost, but they will surely come home.

Thus, the crisis is not one for Texas alone because of terrific tax revenue and employment losses, but one for the entire nation. Texas and the Southwest have carried this load long enough. It is time that some tighter controls be placed on imports, else the camel will take over the entire tent.

Not Everyone Favors "Utopia"

Last Sunday 133,796,001 persons of voting age went to the polls in the Soviet Union and voted in the new parliamentary elections.

But they were just spinning their wheels. They were just donating their time. They were just going through the motions. The only names on the ballot were those picked by the Communist Party bosses. All the "electorate" could do was to okay what the Party bosses had already done for them.

But it now develops that not all the voting population of the Soviet Union obeyed the bosses literally. Less than one per cent of them, or 944,377, went through the motions of marking their ballots, but they scratched out all the names thereon. There is a faint glimmer of improvement in this, for the number of obliterated ballots last Sunday was double that in the election of 1954.

There are nearly a million people among the Soviet's teeming millions, obviously, who do not swallow the party line all the way. They mustered enough courage to register a protest—a futile protest, to be sure, but nevertheless a protest.

In doing so they risked exile or death. It would have been a simple matter for the Party to have thrown out the scratched ballots, and make it appear the vote was unanimous. But it is better, for propaganda purposes, that the news be circulated. See, the Reds will tell the world, less than one per cent of the Soviet peoples are dissatisfied with their government.

It's not hard to imagine what a big slash in defense spending could do, particularly in this recession period when the government is trying to strengthen the economy to stimulate employment and production.

The Soviets have repeatedly charged that prosperity under

The Tottering Trestle

James Marlow Unpleasant Arms Question

WASHINGTON — Just how much disarmament can this country stand when the government is anxious to shoot the economy up, and keep it there, and big defense spending means jobs and profits?

It's an unpleasant but realistic question which hovers over the prospects for a disarmament agreement with the Soviets. Almost 40 billion dollars — of this year's record peacetime budget of almost 74 billion — is for defense.

It's not hard to imagine what a big slash in defense spending could do, particularly in this recession period when the government is trying to strengthen the economy to stimulate employment and production.

The Soviets have repeatedly charged that prosperity under capitalism is artificial and based on war spending or war preparations.

Since the Communists completely control their economy and manpower, it is possible they might be able to chop down their own huge defense spending and stay on an even keel. They still have to show they can.

But the Republicans have also complained of the artificiality of American prosperity — under the Democrats. The latter were in charge before, during and after World War II and before and during the Korean War.

In their 1952 campaign platform the Republicans said of the Democrats: "They claim prosperity, but the appearance of economic health is created by war expenditures, waste and extravagance, planned emergencies and war crises."

They took another crack at the Democrats along the same lines in 1956. The fact is, the American economy has not stood on its own feet since the depression days of the early 1930s.

First, there were the big New Deal spending programs to get out of the depression. They didn't quite make it. There were still almost 10 million unemployed when defense spending began in 1939.

At the peak of the war effort — in 1944 — unemployment had dropped to an annual average of 670,000 when almost 12 million men and women were in uniform.

The war created a gigantic, pent-up demand for goods and services. And the economy boomed after the war but then started to slide in 1949. Came the Korean War of 1950 and the economy soared up again.

It slid again in 1954 but the country, while maintaining peace although putting huge sums into defense, righted itself and went up to new peaks of prosperity.

Now it's in another slide even though the government is planning record peacetime spending for defense next year.

Hal Boyle How To Put A Cat To Sleep

NEW YORK — There is a furbearing stranger in our house. He is large and fat and insolent. In color he ranges from a faded midnight to a misty mountain twilight. He has eyes of sapphire, and they are slightly crossed.

This stranger is a Siamese cat. Or so he claims. And he bears the unlikely name of Ralph Beauty Marble Candy.

During the day, Ralph is a sleeping volcano. He permits his wife, Frances, to go about her usual chores. He allows our daughter, Tracy, 5, to hug him around the house, as over his face there settles a look of dignified resignation that clearly says, "This, too, shall pass."

But at night Ralph, worn out by daylight dozing, is like a prowling phantasm on which the record has become stuck. He is a self-winding music box—he winds himself up by waving his tail back and forth—that can give off but a single sound.

Most cats say "meow." Not our one-note Ralph. Over and over he groans "Ow!"

At first we thought he had worms, a bone stuck in his throat, or a splinter in his paw. Nope. A check showed Ralph was no 4F. His health was perfect.

"Why don't you try keeping him awake during the day?" I suggested. No dice. Ralph sleeps through anything during the day — even ringing bells and the "Overture" from William Tell. My wife once hollered "fire" in his ear and all Ralph did was open an eye, yawn and fall asleep again.

"He just has loneliness insomnia," finally said Frances. "Someone in this house just has to stay up and keep him company at night until he gets accustomed to the place."

How do you set about curing a cat of insomnia? At first I tried conversation. I praised Ralph until I ran out of adjectives. I told him about all the famous cats of history.

"Ow!" he answered. I even told him the story of my life. This made him "Ow!" more than ever.

Desperate, I finally opened a can of dog food—tasting it first myself to prove to him it wasn't poisoned — and stoked the red furnace of his mouth. Then I picked up a book and read to him.

Well, believe it or not, in half an hour he was sound asleep, and I was able to get up from my chair and go to bed.

If you have a cat with insomnia, here is your best cure: Put a can of dog food and a copy of Joyce's "Finnegan's Wake" on your bedside table before you retire. If the cat begins to howl, feed it two heaping table-spoonfuls of dog food—and take a small one yourself, if you feel hungry. Then open "Finnegan's Wake" at random and read three pages.

Five minutes later, I guarantee, both you and the cat will be sound asleep, purring happily.

Bringing In TV Network Shows A Big Problem

By CHARLES MERCER
WILMINGTON, N.C. — Readers in various parts of the country often write this department in New York and complain that local stations do not carry this or that program.

"I know what they mean," says Claude O'Shields, manager of Station WECT-TV here in Wilmington. "People in this area sometimes say to me, 'You're carrying three networks — ABC, CBS and NBC — so why don't you get such and such a program?'"

Bringing a network program into a specific area is a more complex than most people imagine.

WECT-TV is the only station in the Wilmington area. It is an optional station of the NBC-TV network. It also takes CBS-TV network programs live and ABC-TV programs which are expressed here on kinescope. O'Shields says that special antennae are necessary to receive other Carolina TV stations here.

After reviewing the WECT-TV schedule I believe that viewers in this area are receiving as diversified and excellent programs as could be found in any one station area in the country.

Tonight, for example, after a morning primarily devoted to NBC network shows and an afternoon made up chiefly of CBS programs, it brings Douglas Edwards' news report (CBS), followed by Disneyland (ABC), the Betty White Show (ABC), The Millionaire (CBS), I've Got A Secret (CBS), the Pat Boone Show (ABC), and then the weather and a movie.

So it is rather astonishing to learn that WECT-TV, prospering financially as a result of its local and regional advertising, actually loses money on its network programs. O'Shields pointed out, for instance, that last month the station received $6,300 from network programs sources. Yet to bring these programs to Wilmington by long lines it paid AT&T $7,600. Fortunately for both viewers and station, however, its monthly gross was about $45,000.

"To put it simply," said O'Shields, "we know that we have more viewers than people in New York are convinced than we have."

A Nielsen survey has fixed WECT-TV's "saturation" at 51 per cent. More recent surveys by the American Research Bureau and the Carolina Power & Light Co. place the station's "saturation" at over 90 per cent.

Around The Rim Are Executions Necessary?

The Shaver-Leopold cases bring up a point: Is the death penalty really so necessary?

Nathan Leopold spent most of his life in prison for a senseless killing. Those who have read his story know he has been punished sufficiently. Now he's a free man and can live out the rest of his life in peace. During his life in prison, he studied, contributed a wealth of knowledge in his researches.

What Jimmie Shaver might contribute were he saved from the electric chair, no one can yet know. But even were he to become a human vegetable in serving a life sentence, our own hands would be clean. Shaver was convicted on circumstantial evidence, and no one but he knows if he is really guilty.

There are some who would electrocute a man just to be certain, just in case he really were guilty. This is a murderous attitude.

So-called confessions extracted by police brainwashing techniques are coming into ill repute, but they still get convictions. Confessions prove only how much a man can take before breaking, not guilt.

There are too many death penalties handed out on circumstantial evidence, too much blind vengeance by the public, especially in sex crimes. It's too easy to railroad the wrong man. Once a man is executed, his case is closed—friends and relatives give it up as hopeless, and if he is innocent, his name will never be vindicated. A man given a life sentence has the rest of his life to vindicate himself.

There are those who believe the death penalty is necessary; that it discourages murders and sex crimes. There is no evidence to support this opinion. Some states have no death penalties, yet their crime rates are not radically different. People have been hanged, beheaded and subjected to nearly every other form of execution for centuries, and not one dent has been made in criminal activities.

Life imprisonment proves to be as much of a punishment as death.

But is punishment really the correct attitude upon which to base our legal system? It is the duty of the state to protect its citizens against those who have proven themselves dangerous to society. The state has the duty to isolate these people, but not the right to kill in a formal ceremony. The state has no more right to take a life than any individual.

One might forgive the angry father of a despoiled girl for committing murder—he's only human—but the state is supposed to be above mere human nature. To kill legally at a later date smacks of pure vengeance. Life imprisonment gives an innocent man a chance at ultimate freedom, but still punishes the guilty and keeps them safely isolated.

There are those who would say that killing of criminals is the only sure way to keep them from out of our midst—that, if given a life term, a smart criminal could still get out. These people forget that the smart criminals seldom get caught; that, death penalty or not, smart lawyers can obtain acquittals. It does not change the picture.

Doing away with the death penalty would give some protection to the accused—whether guilty or innocent—from blind public wrath. Shaver is a case in point—I recall this vividly because it happened the same day I left Odessa for a new job in San Antonio, where Chere Jo Horton was raped and murdered. On arrival in San Antonio, I looked over the city's newspapers, saw how they had played the case to the hilt and had Shaver as good as convicted with the first edition. The worst looking pictures of Shaver were used, depicting a seedy and criminal-looking man in tow by deputies. There were sickening photographs of the slain girl. A newspaper editor can pick and choose his illustrations, can make a decent looking man look like a criminal. And I have seen press photographers working with law officers to shake up a suspect into the proper condition.

There are some newspapermen who believe in conviction by publication—one of my fellow copywriters expressed a desire to see Shaver burn, even though he did not know all the evidence in the case, evidence that turned out to be circumstantial at best.

Shaver eventually got a change of venue, but publicity reaches a long way, and the public still takes for granted that a man, at least in a sex crime case, is guilty until he proves himself innocent. Shaver's confession helped convict him, but confessions extracted in San Antonio jails sometimes have a questionable validity.

Maybe someday we'll learn to abide by a rule laid down nearly 2,000 years ago by a Man much wiser than we—or do you still believe in an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth?

—BOB SMITH

J. A. Livingston When Excesses Are Catching Up

David F. Appleby, a student in the evening school of Temple University, tells of the well-dressed man who got settled on a psychiatrist's couch, and said: "Doctor, I have this insecurity feeling throughout my whole body. Please help me."

The doctor asked: "What are your circumstances?" Where do you live? How do you live?"

"Well, doc," the patient answered. "I live in a 20-room mansion with my wife and two children. I have two swimming pools, one for my wife and me, the other for the children and their friends. I have two cars. My son has a speedboat. I enjoy the best entertainment. Last month my Diners' Club bill was $900."

The psychiatrist asked the patient if he himself, could offer an explanation of his insecurity considering his excellent scale of living.

"I only make $50 a week," replied the patient.

Mr. Appleby and his fellow classmates wonder if happy-go-lucky credit expansion in 1956 and early 1957 ("It's our pleasure," says the lender. "You're sure I'm not borrowing too much?" asks the debtor) is not a contributing force to the current economic downturn.

The answer is simple. Yes.

Total consumer credit reached an all-time high in December at more than $44 billion dollars; it dropped a bit in January, which is normal, but the drop was less than usual for the month. So, on a seasonally adjusted basis, the volume of consumer credit rose. And it rose at a time when an increasing number of debtors were running into difficulties.

Human beings have the great shortcoming of being human. Some people drink too much. Some people eat too much. Some people spend too much. Some people lend too much. We're in a period when excesses are catching up.

Lenders are examining the earning power of installment purchasers more studiously. Yet, this could well be the time when scrutiny will be overdone.

And borrowers will be loath to pay. They've heard about neighbors or friends or relatives whose cars have been repossessed. They're conscious of what a little drop in income will do to families that have lived full up to their overtime earnings. But consumer debt isn't going to shrink rapidly.

First, most of the loans that were made were sound loans. Most debtors didn't overborrow. Most lenders didn't overlend. Most loans will be paid off slowly, steadily. A small percentage of loans will be written off. All the while, some people who have jobs and who need things will be borrowing to buy.

Second, the history of consumer credit in the United States is one of steady expansion, except during the great depression in the 'thirties and during World War II when people couldn't buy the things they go into debt for—autos, refrigerators, etc.

Unless this recession goes much deeper than I expect, millions of Americans will continue to buy on what they expect to make rather than on what they have saved. In so doing, they'll be operating no differently than railroads, public utilities, or industrial companies which sell long-term bonds on the assumption that earnings will pay off the debt. Even in recession, consumer debt could increase slightly—as it did in 1949-50 and 1953-54.

A New First Law Of The Jungle

Today deponent would like to offer up Robb's First Law of the Jungle, to wit: The next best thing to living on air is to live on politics. Both lives can be equally beautiful and orchidaceous.

In the past eight weeks I have come up with a corollary to that law to the effect that only real stupid people work for an honest living.

This law and corollary spring full-fledged from close study during the past two months of political shenanigans in the federal, state and local levels of government.

Reform, maybe? In Tammany? You kidding?

So we come to the federal level. Here, a glimpse into the workings of the Federal Communications Commission reveals what a bonanza the federal regulatory commissions could be for a public servant with his eye on the main chance and his foot in the door. To the citizen who is averse to merl and terl—as who needs is an armored truck.

And do I think the federal regulatory agencies will be tied up? Only if Congress can wield the broom. And the last persons who want a really tough law transforming these agencies into judicial bodies, which is what they should be, are members of Congress. Such a law would deny Congressmen access to members of such commissions and put commissions beyond the influence of individual Congressmen whose chums in the boondocks have axes to grind. No politician ever knowingly slits his own throat.

As it is, there are days when I feel I can't like 'em and when my impulse is to join 'em, except for my risen gorge.

Old Ninety-Eight, affectionately known as the Looters' Local.

Now we come to the local level, New York City. My home town has just discovered mice in the Bureau of Real Estate. As this is written, $49,000 is missing, and there is suspicion that a lot of little black bags are making beautiful, jingling music together. Kickbacks and possible bribery are also under investigation in the bureau.

New Word Game

CHICAGO — Hostesses hunting a new way to liven up a party may find a solution in a new word game devised by Herb Daniels.

He calls it "herd." It results from picturesque words used to designate groups—like herd of cattle, pack of wolves, a sulk of foxes, a muster of peacocks, a gaggle of geese or a crowd of people.

Guests think of new twists such as a FIX of politicians, a PETTY of bureaucrats, a GIGGLE of girls, a WRANGLE of wives or a STUMBLE of drunks. The rush hour suggests a FRUSTRATE of drivers or a HELTER of pedestrians.

For girl watchers on warm windy days, there's a WOW of girls.

The author is Mrs. Aubrey B. Tipps of Austin, foods teacher at the Texas School for the Blind. She made the study "to broaden the opportunities of the blind homemaker."

"Cooking Without Looking" is in magazine format for convenient use in the kitchen. Contents include abbreviations, equivalent weights and measures, measuring and substitutions, meal planning and marketing, table service and etiquette, beverages, breads, cakes and frostings, candy, casserole cookery, cereals and starches, cookies, desserts, eggs, frozen foods, meats, poultry and fish, mixes, pastry and pies, salads and salad dressings, vegetables.

Thirty-seven totally blind homemakers answered questionnaires for the study, and 31 of that number were chosen to test recipes for the cook book. Two recipes were sent to each homemaker. They lived in Athens, Austin, Big Spring, Cisco, Dallas, Edinburg, Floydada, Fort Worth, Gonzales, Hearne, Houston, Llano, Lufkin, Palestine, Port Arthur, Rockdale, San Antonio, Sanatorium and Waco.

Of that group, Mrs. Charlie Boland, 104 West Sixth, was the local woman who received the recipes. She prepared potato salad and a peach cobbler, and according to this accomplished cook, "the cobbler is wonderful." She added that she still uses the recipes in her homemaking duties.

Copies of "Cooking Without Looking" are available at $1.95 each, plus postage, from American Printing House for the Blind, Louisville, Ky.

Marvin Wises Will Live In California

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wise are at home in Petaluma, Calif., following their marriage, March 8, in Two Rock Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the former Margaret Josephine Winkler, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Winkler, Petaluma; Odie Wise, 1107 Lamesa Drive, is the father of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Burton Reed, pastor of the Baptist Church, San Leandro, Calif., read the double ring wedding vows.

Robert A. Winkler gave his sister in marriage. She was attended by her sister, Florence Elizabeth, and the best man was William B. Tolleson of Oakland, Calif., an uncle of the bridegroom. Joe Hrapczak served as usher and taperlighter. Following the reception, held at the church, the couple left for a wedding trip to Donner Lake.

The bride received part of her schooling in Alpine, and she was graduated from high school in Hayward, Calif.

Wise was graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College. He is a member of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges and also the DeMolays. He is now with the armed forces at Petaluma.

Quick Casserole

Here's a favorite casserole to serve with charcoal-broiled steak. Dilute condensed cream-of-mushroom soup and mix with cooked drained green snap beans. Heat in the oven; then about five minutes before the beans are ready to come out, top the casserole with canned crisp French-fried onion rings.

What could be prettier than a row of fern-like greenery in your beds? Carrots have this lacy top and will be so good to eat through the summer months. Combine Vegetables, Flowers For Good Eating And Beauty

By MARY COCHRAN Remember those wonderful fresh carrots out of grandmother's huge vegetable patch? What lovely sun-ripened tomatoes she could raise! Nobody else could raise such wonders or wanted to. It was too much work.

Live modern. Combine your vegetables with your flowers and have beauty and food all at once. Let the children help, or better still, let them have their own vegetable-flower plot.

One of the most delightful vegetables in the flower bed is lettuce. This low leafy plant makes a perfect border for your beds and furnishes greens for several months through the summer. Leaf lettuce may be pinched back and kept from heading out all through the summer. However, late in the season it will not taste sweet.

LETTUCE VARIETIES There is a number of varieties and colors available. The All-America Selection for 1958 is the new "Ruby" lettuce, a loose-leaf type in a rich bronzy red color. It is curly and will hold its color in the sun and heat. It will make a fancy salad lettuce and should often take the place of red cabbage, used for color, in mixed salads. The pretty green varieties may be what you need in your color planning.

What could be prettier than a row of fern-like greenery in your beds? Carrots have this lacy top and will be so good to eat through the summer months. Have you ever eaten carrots before maturity when they are no bigger around than your finger? All the flavor that goes into the full grown vegetable is packed in these tiny tender fingerlings. As you pull the vegetables through the season the spreading flower plants will cover the spaces you leave.

Tomatoes, properly spaced at the back of the bed, will produce fine eating and offer large clumps of background greenery. There are climbing varieties that can grow on a fence. Children will love to eat the tiny dwarf varieties, right out of the garden.

Many people edge a flower bed with a thick row of strawberries, whose leaves remain green far into the fall and then turn later into all shades of yellow, red and brown. Parsley and radishes can be tucked about in the beds or spaced in rows. Ornamental peppers make attractive plants and spice up our cooking.

Excellent climbers for fences include cucumber, beans, and as mentioned before, tomatoes.

CIRCULAR GARDEN If you want to give your children a real taste of gardening with a minimum of effort and maximum of pleasure try a planned circular vegetable flower garden as follows:

Select a sunny, open area with average soil. Tie a four foot string to a stake and mark off a circle 8 feet in diameter. The child can mark this circle with flour. Make an X of stepping stones across this circle to divide the plot in quarters and aid later in cultivation. After the bed has been spaded, shorten the string 6 inches and mark a circle for planting. Shorten the string another 6 inches and mark a second circle.

In the outer circle plant sweet alyssum seed alternated with radish seeds. Use white alyssum in two quarters of this circle and violet in the other two. After the radishes have matured and been pulled up for eating, these bare spots will be covered with the alyssum.

In the second circle, alternate blue cornflowers with carrots and white cornflowers with beets. Plant the blue flowers and carrots in two quarters and the white flowers and beets in the other two. Again the flowers will cover as the vegetables are pulled.

In the very center of the bed plant four tomatoes. Recommended are: One yellow plum, one red cherry, one yellow jubilee and one red hybrid.

Between the cornflower circle and the tomato plants will be a section in each quarter. In one, plant red zinnia, in another yellow calliopsis, in the third yellow celosia, and in the last, pink balsam or pink zinnias.

Mark out this plot on paper and let your child take care of it from planting to eating. He will have a strong sense of pride in growing something to eat and will learn that gardening can be easy and fun.

Delicious Liver Here's a good way to prepare liver, onions and bacon. Cook the onions in butter or margarine in a skillet until they are limp and golden; remove from the pan and keep hot. Now cook the bacon in the skillet until crisp; remove and keep hot. Dip liver slices in seasoned flour and fry in bacon fat; after the liver has been turned and is almost done, put the onions over the slices and finish cooking. Serve topped with the crisp bacon.

Spaders Club Studies Wild Flowers Of Texas

Wild flowers of Texas were studied Thursday afternoon by members of the Spaders Garden Club when they met in the home of Mrs. D. B. Hale.

Mrs. H. B. Perry showed colored slides of flowers in the Big Bend country, in East Texas and in this locality.

A report on the recent council meeting was given by Mrs. W. D. Caldwell, and the group was reminded of the annual garden pilgrimage, sponsored by the council.

The club will show the garden at the Bruce Frazier home, it was decided, and tea will be served there.

Another event to be given in the Frazier home is the Placement Show, which the club has set for May 7 from 2-6 p.m. Admission will be 50 cents. Mrs. C. A. Tomm Jr. is the chairman.

Fifteen were present for the session; the next meeting was announced for April 3 in the home of Mrs. Perry.

Mrs. Ernest Miller was re-elected president of the Airport P-TA Thursday afternoon at the school. To serve with her are Mrs. Leo Frank, vice president; Mrs. Kendall Wallace, secretary, and Mrs. Harold Wood, treasurer.

A flag ceremony was presented by the Girl Scouts; the program was given by the second grade, with that group winning the room count.

The 77 members voted to sponsor a Boy Scout troop; the special prize was won by Mrs. Margaret Cooper.

Mrs. G. C. Graves and Mrs. J. B. Hollis have returned from Hereford, where they attended the conference of Northwest Texas Methodist WSCS. The meeting was held from Tuesday through Thursday.

Revivals, Pre-Easter Services To Highlight City Church Calendar

Revivals and pre-Easter programs highlight the Big Spring church calendar for Sunday and next week.

The First Assembly of God Sunday begins a revival series that will continue through Easter. Evangelist will be Rev. L. G. Flowers of Beaumont.

Rev. J. D. Hudson of Odessa will be preacher for a week's revival beginning Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church. The church will be host Friday and Saturday to the Plains Baptist Association workers meeting.

Dr. Sherwood H. Reisner, Kingsville, will be the speaker for a pre-Easter series of special services at the First Presbyterian Church.

Revival services at the East Fourth Baptist Church will end Sunday.

Several other churches will continue their Lenten schedules. Here are programs pastors have announced.

Assembly Of God

The Rev. L. G. Flowers, Beaumont, will conduct a revival at the First Assembly of God beginning Sunday and continuing through Easter Sunday. Evening services at 7:30 are planned each day of the week except Saturday, according to the pastor, the Rev. S. E. Eldridge.

Baptist

The Rev. J. D. Hudson, Odessa, will be evangelist for the spring revival at Calvary Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend the services throughout next week, which will be at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m., states the pastor. The Rev. J. H. McWilliams, the church will be host to the Plains Baptist Association Workers Meeting here Friday night at 7:30 and all-day Saturday, beginning at 9:45 a. m.; several out-of-town speakers are slated to appear.

"Pangs" is the sermon topic announced by the Rev. A. R. Posey for morning services at Baptist Temple. He will also be in the pulpit at the evening hour.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, First Baptist Church, will preach on "The Relation of Good Works To Salvation," Tit. 3:8, and "The Man Who Lived for One World Only," Acts 1:18.

Sunday will be the final day of the revival services at East Fourth Baptist Church, states the Rev. Ernest D. Stewart Jr., pastor. Speaker for the weeklong revival is Dr. Franklin E. Swanner of Plainview, mission secretary for District 9, Baptist General Convention of Texas. R. B. Hall Jr. is leading the singing. In the absence of the pastor, the Rev. D. R. Philley, the Phillips Memorial Baptist congregation will hear James Eastham, member of Airport Baptist Church, preach both sermons Sunday. His topics will be "The Most Powerful Thing in the World—The Word of God," Mark 13:31, and "Oh Lord, Revive Thy Work," Hab. 3:1-2.

The Rev. R. B. Murray, Northside Baptist, will bring a morning message on "Christ And Evangelism," Luke 10:1-17. His evening sermon will be "Roll Ye Away the Stone," John 11:39.

Catholic

Mass will be said by the Rev. Fr. William J. Moore at 7 a. m. and 11 a. m. at St. Thomas Catholic Church. Confession will be heard from 5:30 to 6 p. m., and 8 p. m. on Saturday. Benediction will follow the last mass.

At the Sacred Heart (Spanish-speaking) Church, Mass will be held at 8 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. Sunday. Confessions will be heard on Saturday from 5-6 p. m. and 7-8 p. m. on Sunday.

Mass will be said Sunday at 5:30 p. m. in Coahoma at St. Joseph's Mission by the Rev. Fr. Adolph Metzger, OMI.

Christian

Vinzel Larsen, elder of the First Christian Church, will deliver the sermon Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Clyde Nichols. There will be no evening worship service.

Christian Science

How spiritual perception of God's power brings freedom from bondage to materialism will be a topic dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on "Matter" is the Golden Text from 1 John (2:16): "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world."

Church Of Christ

"The Choice of Moses" and "Jesus and The Lost" are sermon topics announced by T. E. Cudd for the Main St. Church of Christ.

Church Of God

V. Ward Jackson will preach to his congregation at First Church of God on "Workers Together With God." Sunday morning in the evening his subject will be "The Soul's Anxious Question."

Episcopal

All services of St. Mary's Episcopal Church will be held in the new sanctuary at 10th and Goliad. During Lenten season special services of the Holy Communion are set for 7:30 and 10 each Tuesday morning.

The Rev. William D. Boyd, rector, has announced this schedule of Sunday services: Celebration of Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.; family worship at 9:15 a. m.; and Morning Service at 11 a. m.

Lutheran

The Rev. Wayne A. Dittloff will bring the message at the 10:30 service Sunday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Sunday school and Bible classes begin at 9:30 a. m., and an adult discussion group meets at 7 p. m.

The series of special services for the Lenten season will continue through Easter Sunday. Each of the six Wednesday services will be held at 7:30 p. m., as will services for Maundy Thursday and Good Friday, and the public is welcome to attend. Theme for the Lenten observance is "Were You There?"

Methodist

Dr. Jordan Grooms' message for Sunday morning at First Methodist Church will be "Make All Our Wants and Wishes Known." Ira Schantz, choir director, will sing a solo "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled." The evening message will be "The Harvest of the Spirit is Kindness and Goodness."

The Rev. C. W. Parmenter has announced his sermon subjects for Wesley Methodist Church. They will be "The Plan of Salvation" and "Don't Be Foolish."

Presbyterian

Pre-Easter services will begin Sunday morning at First Presbyterian Church at 11 o'clock, with evening services scheduled Sunday through Friday at 7:30. The public is invited to attend the services, for which Dr. Sherwood H. Reisner, president of Pan American School, Kingsville, will be speaker. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, minister, announces that there will be a breakfast for men only at 7 a. m. each morning, with worship dismissing promptly at 7:50.

St. Paul Presbyterian Church will hear the Rev. Jack Ware in a sermon on "Behavior in the Light of the Cross: Love," Sunday morning. The adult choir will sing Stainer's "Grieve Not the Holy Spirit" and will join the junior choir in "Were You There," arr. Ware. There will be no evening service in order that the congregation may join the First Church for the pre-Easter services.

Webb AFB

Chaplain Verlin E. Mikesell will be in charge of Protestant services at 11 a. m. at the base chapel. His sermon subject will be "Turning Up To God." Special music will be by Mrs. Norman Furlong, who will be heard in "Consider The Lilies."

Sunday School is at 9:45 a. m. in the chapel annex and the adult discussion group will meet at the same hour to continue the study of the Book of Revelation.

Catholic confession is slated from 7 to 8 p. m. on Saturday. Mass will be held at 9 a. m. and 12:15 p. m. Sunday, with Father Kenneth E. Henriquez officiating.

Gospel Tabernacle

Big Spring Gospel Tabernacle. Noah Tuttle, pastor, is at 1905 Scurry. Sunday school, 10 a. m.; church services, 11 a. m.; evening services, 7:30 p. m. Services are broadcast each Sunday at 8 a. m.

Latter-Day Saints

Priesthood classes are held at 9:30 a. m. Sunday at the Girl Scout House, 1407 Lancaster. Sunday school is scheduled at 10:30 a. m. The evening worship service is at 6:30 p. m.

7th Day Adventist

Services of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will be at 2:20 p. m. Saturday followed by church services at 3:30 p. m.

Pentecostal

Services at the United Pentecostal Church, 15th and Dixie, will begin at 10 a. m. Sunday, with Sunday school at 7:30 p. m. there will be a church service. O. F. Viken is pastor.

The Living Word

Morning services begin at 10 at The Church of the Living Word, 1201 West Third, announced the pastor, the Rev. Lee F. Shell Jr., who will also occupy the pulpit for the 7:30 p. m. worship service. Worship hours begin at 7:30 p. m. each Tuesday and Friday.

Christ and World Evangelism

JESUS COMMANDS HIS FOLLOWERS TO PREACH TO THE WHOLE WORLD

Scripture—Matthew 28:18-20; Acts 13:1-3; Romans 1:14-15.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE WORDS taken from Matthew were uttered on the Mount of Olives, before our Lord's ascension:

"And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto Me in Heaven and in earth."

"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."—Matthew 28:18-20.

How many times, do you suppose, when the going has been rough and missionaries became weary and discouraged, they have been comforted and refreshed by remembering Christ's words, "I am with you always?"

In this day of automobiles, airplanes, buses, etc., there are many children who have never Luke tells of in Acts 13:1-3.

"Now there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul."

We know Saul (Paul), of course, and Barnabas; but of Simeon that was called Niger, we have no further knowledge. Herod the tetrarch was the Herod who allowed John the Baptist to be executed. There seems some confusion about Lucius of Cyrene, but he is thought to have been one who preached first to the Gentiles in Antioch.

"As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."

"And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away."

ridden on a train. However, many people travel by train. If you are taking a train trip, you may notice that when the train stops at a good-sized town or city, a man may come from the station and give the conductor an envelope which contains instructions concerning the next few hours of the journey, possible changes of schedule, conditions of the track, etc.

The conductor is in command of a train as Jesus is the head of the church, and when Christ gives a command, we should obey Him. The idea of interesting the young-er classes in the lesson in this manner is the suggestion of Dr. Wilbur M. Smith.

Antioch, one of the great cities of that time, was situated far north in Syria on the Orontes river. You will remember that Paul founded the church there, and he was there at the time Jew first, and also to the Greek."

Educator To Lead Pre-Easter Series

Dr. Sherwood H. Reisner, president of Pan American School, Kingsville, will conduct a series of pre-Easter services beginning Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

The school is a new institution of the Synod of Texas primarily for Latin-American boys and girls. Reisner served as a missionary to Mexico, following the completion of his studies at Princeton Seminary. Earlier, he had worked in Dr. Frank Laubach's famed literacy campaign in South America.

Dr. Reisner was born in Nanking, China, a son of an outstanding missionary couple, his father being an agricultural missionary. He attended Yale College for his undergraduate work and Yale Seminary for his BD Degree in 1945. He took his Master of Theology Degree from Princeton in 1946. At Princeton Seminary he met and married the daughter of the president of the seminary. He did his PhD work at the University of Texas. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Sigma Delta Pi, and Phi Delta Kappa.

Dr. Reisner will preach Sunday at 11:00 A. M. and at 7:30 P. M. Each morning there will be a breakfast for men only at 7:00 A. M. with worship dismissing promptly at 7:50 A. M. Evening services are to be at 7:30 o'clock through Friday. The public is invited to the services.

Has your son signed up for the Soap Box Derby?

If your son is 11 through 15 years old, he's eligible for the Soap Box Derby! And you play an important part in enabling him to compete. To start with, he must be accompanied by a parent or guardian in order to sign up at the nearest Chevrolet dealership and receive his 1958 Rule Book! After that, he's on his own. It's important that he follow all the rules and build his racer all by himself. But if he knows you're behind him ... and proud of what he's doing, he'll take the initiative and prove to you he's a real Champ.

If he wins the local Derby, he'll race in Akron, Ohio, August 17, against other Champs for $15,000 in college scholarships and many other fine prizes. This is the chance of a lifetime for your son ... and you can help him get it!

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

Youth - BY THE DRAWERFUL

In a nation as big as ours there is always a tendency to overlook the individual and to think only of groups. Youth gets the brunt of this generalizing.

About three percent of our boys and girls are delinquent. But some folks would have us believe that every child is a potential delinquent.

Time we realized that children aren't chicks! They don't grow up by the drawerful to have the same characteristics and habits.

Children respond to love, parental example, religious guidance. They possess an ever-increasing aptitude for responsibility, trust, and faith.

Most of our boys and girls will grow up to assume their rightful place in an orderly, Christian society. Some will populate our jails. But the destiny of the individual youth is not a matter of chance and percentage...

It is determined primarily by the conscientiousness of loving parents, and by the persistency with which his natural religious interests are cultivated.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yellow Page advertising pays off

no matter how well known your business is

HERE'S WHY: There's really no mystery about why so many shoppers (96 out of 100, by actual survey) rely on Yellow Pages when they're in a buying mood.

Every week has been Library Week with me ever since I learned not to hold the books upside down.

When I have a choice, I prefer Western novels, detective stories and non-fiction about the faraway places of the world.

THEY FIND YOU FAST IN THE YELLOW PAGES

OF YOUR TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

George Kennedy of Big Spring has a snake story that has probably never been equalled in this area.

He and Loyce Bean, a co-worker, and others dislodged some sandstone boulders to find four rattlesnakes.

As each one came into view, Kennedy hooked the hoe around the snake's middle and tossed it out on a flat ledge where Bean chopped the snakes to death.

The Garden City FFA members could do a bit of boasting about this year's record.

Ted Fields, farming in the Elbow community, has just come back from Oklahoma and Arkansas, and says that country is full of cattle.

If farmers don't have to plant over too many times, there may be enough cotton seed for everyone.

Norman says the de-linting plants are booked for weeks ahead. One owner in Lamesa told him he had enough seed booked to keep the plant until May 10th.

This is Library Week and every two-bit columnist in the country thinks he must say something about it.

sod shanties and the hard, lonely life farm people endured on the Western prairies.

I've met most of the professional writers in Texas and a few who came from other states.

Another writer at the conference was a leading outdoor author who wrote hunting and fishing articles.

I learned he had been in an all-night drinking bout with two sailors and had a terrific hangover.

As he finished his speech, a young woman asked what advice he could give a beginning author.

I know of nothing so enchanting as a library. It is a lovely place, but the people who put the books there are often a worried, mixed-up lot.

Oklahoma May Not Cut Allowable OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - Oklahoma probably will not follow Texas in further cutting its oil allowable next month.

Texas announced a 120,000 barrel daily reduction to 2,447,571 barrels Oklahoma's March allowable is 504,000 barrels a day.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government can save money by having its employees write clearer letters.

It should be done "so the poor fellow out in the country won't come in with a second letter asking what the first letter meant."

Grover told a House Appropriations subcommittee that one agency which handles thousands of letters each year cut its correspondence workload by 10 per cent that way.

Mother Of Eight Dies

A passerby pulls grief-stricken John Madden, 42, away from the body of his wife Mary after she was struck by an auto just after leaving a party in Boston.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A top enlisted man in the U.S. armed services could make more than $10,000 a year if Congress passes the military pay bill.

Moreover, the services would be authorized to give enlisted men special promotions, or extra pay up to $1,800 a year.

Disregarding scattered complaints that a bill estimated to cost more than 600 million dollars a year was being rushed without much consideration.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.), chairman of the Armed Services subcommittee, said he expected it to produce a "more stable, more efficient force for national defense."

Burglar Slain, Cop Wounded In Gun Battle

AMARILLO (AP)—A gunfight in a hardware store restroom last night left a burglar killed and a policeman critically wounded.

Officers said the burglar, trapped in a restroom, elected to shoot it out and put a bullet in a policeman's head before being cut down by officers' bullets.

Sgt. R. E. Breedlove said the dead man was Robert Johnson, 24, who had been staying in a hotel here since Nov. 29. He checked in from Tahoka, Tex.

The wounded officer was Edwin Fitzhugh, 27, father of two young daughters. Attendants said he was in critical condition today after five hours of brain surgery.

The hardware store was in a secondary business district, some blocks from where a mall had been roped off and a shopping festival was in progress.

A crowd of about 100 persons was attracted to the scene. Hospital attendants said the next 48 hours would tell whether Fitzhugh will survive.

Old Icebox Story Likely To Have A Tragic Ending

The boy is 12 years old. He has gotten himself locked in an old fashioned icebox such as used to be found around country stores. This box is six feet wide, six feet long and six feet high. How long can our boy stay locked in this box without serious damage to his person?

That was the problem that Wesley Huddleston, Route 2, ran into while he was writing a story for a Sunday school paper.

Huddleston needed to know a lot of things—(1) how much oxygen does a small fry consume at each breath? (2) what effect would his conduct have on the consumption of the available oxygen—if he remained calm or if he became distraught? (3) How much would he improve his chances by holding his breath two minutes and then breathing half a minute?

All of these problems, Huddleston wrote in a letter to Paul Vagt, librarian at the Howard County Junior College. His letter arrived at a most appropriate time. The Junior College Library as well as other libraries in the city were engaged in observation of National Library Week.

Along other services which libraries are happy to provide—in addition to serving as book centers—is in hunting up information on pertinent matters for patrons.

Vagt was delighted to get Mr. Huddleston's inquiry and he and his staff began a research program to find the answers.

First of all, the researchers discovered there was enough oxygen in the ice box in Mr. Huddleston's plot to provide an average sized 12-year-old (estimated weight not over 68 pounds; height not over 58 inches) for 90 hours. That, said the encyclopedia, was to say there was enough oxygen to keep up basal metabolism for that interval.

Unfortunately for Mr. Huddleston's young hero, he would not have opportunity to use up his available supply of oxygen, Vagt discovered.

He would fall victim, said the books, of carbon dioxide poisoning which becomes lethal when it reaches a concentration of eight per cent. This deadly point would be reached in the icebox containing the young hero in 28 hours and 20 minutes.

However, this is not all the bad news—our boy will die long before that time expires. His rate of breathing is the factor; as the carbon dioxide increases, he loses control of his breathing rate in a few hours. That would result in a rapid build up of the carbon dioxide. If he became excited however, Mr. H. asserted that his hero was a very level-headed, cool young man who wouldn't become hysterical) the probability is that he would push the carbon dioxide to the lethal level in about two hours and 20 minutes.

Worse yet—the lad would have died even before this theoretical saturation point could be attained.

All of this information Vagt dispatched immediately to Huddleston. (In an emergency such as this time was the essence—if Huddleston had already trapped his fictional young hero in the ice box before he wrote the library even the fastest research would be far too lengthy to do any good.)

Now Mr. Huddleston can go ahead and finish his story.

Vagt said he hopes that the author works out a logical solution to get the boy out of that ice box before the deadly two hours has passed.

"Otherwise," said the librarian, thoughtfully, "I suppose his story will have to have a pretty tragic ending."

3 Children Die In Fire, Blast

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A fire set off by an oil stove explosion last night killed three children and critically injured another child and their mother and father.

Anne Arundel County police said the fire demolished the one-story frame bungalow. They identified the dead as Jo Ann Kelly Tucker, 13, Linda Sue Tucker, 3, and Judy Ann Tucker, 12.

Their father, Norman J. Tucker, 38, his wife Edith Sarah, 36, and a fourth child, Betty Lou, 18 months, were in critical condition at Anne Arundel County General Hospital with burns over 50 per cent of their bodies.

Lyndon, Daniel Score Imports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) and Gov. Daniel Johnson (D-Tex.) scored a victory in an all-time low oil allowable for the state, said prompt curtailment of oil imports is imperative.

"The need for action—prompt and effective action—grows more urgent every day," Johnson told the Senate. He told them the Texas Railroad Commission had ordered an all-time low eight-day production rate.

The eight-day rate was made "out of grim necessity," Johnson said.

"It is to be hoped that we will soon get firm action on the important issue of imports," Johnson pointed to a letter he had received from President Eisenhower in which the President said plans were being made to reduce oil import quotas.

"I hope the President's statement is an indication that such action will not be long delayed," Johnson told the Senate.

Earlier, Daniel, testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee, said a cut in oil imports is mandatory.
