Widow Will Get To Keep Home

Mrs. Juanita Malin of Evansville, Ind., and seven of her nine children Saturday were assured of keeping their $10,000 home, which had been sold by the sheriff for $150 to satisfy a $69.99 grocery bill. Offers of help poured in, and there'll be enough money to satisfy all judgments. Mrs. Malin's husband died three years ago of cancer. Children shown are, left to right, Tony, 5; Jerry, 17; Gary, 9; Shelby Doyle, 3; and Yolanda, 6; and in front row Deyong, 11; and Wayne, 14. (AP Wirephoto.) (See story on Page 4-A.)

U.S. Wants 'No Limit' On Summit Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, though possibly prepared to compromise a little, is expected to demand again next week that Russia agree to a no-limits discussion of East-West issues in advance of a summit conference.

Without such agreement the deadlock over whether to have a top-level meeting is likely to continue indefinitely.

Khrushy Confident Of World Prestige

MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats said Saturday a new Soviet note proposing to speed up summit conference preliminaries seemed to be another example of the Kremlin's dealing from strength.

The note to the United States, Britain, and France Friday suggested that diplomatic groundwork talks begin in Moscow Thursday and wind up by the end of April.

One Western diplomat said the spirit behind the words in the note "reflected the growing confidence of Premier Khrushchev in his international strength and prestige."

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

The riot of color is about to begin as the best showing of wild flowers in many years takes shape in this area. Gold and lavender will be the predominant colors but within the next fortnight you'll find a liberal dose of the salmons, reds, whites, purples.

Reports in Washington said the three Western Powers plan to consult quickly with their NATO allies on a formal rejection of the Soviet terms (Thursday).

The Kremlin said the sole purpose of the diplomatic talks would be to agree on the time, place, and participants in a later meeting of foreign ministers.

The foreign ministers, in turn, would set the time and place and decide upon the participants of a summit meeting. They also would take up questions to be discussed. But the Soviet note said there should be a summit meeting regardless of what the foreign ministers decided.

(The Western Powers want the diplomats to go fully into the subject of issues to be discussed, thus providing a test of whether a summit meeting could be successful. The Soviet Union wants to concentrate on disarmament.)

It opposes Western demands for a discussion of German reunification and the status of Eastern European states under Communist rule.)

Guns Stolen From Guard Armory

EDNA, Tex. (AP)—Eleven sub-machine guns and 40 automatic pistols were stolen Friday night from the Edna National Guard armory.

No ammunition was stolen but the loss included 20 cartridge magazines for the machine guns, 42 magazines for 30 carbine rifles, and two flashlights.

Four-Engine Jet Streaking For New Distance Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The four-engine U. S. jet tanker—named the Kiwi—seeking a new world distance flight record over a 11,467-mile course from Japan to Madrid was apparently making good time Saturday night.

At 10 p.m. EST the plane was directly south of Anchorage, Alaska, and directly west of Vancouver, B.C.

Andrews Air Force Base said the plane reported it was flying at 37,500 feet altitude, having started out at 31,000 feet.

The plane advised it had varying tail winds from 17 to 160 miles per hour.

The flight as far as Washington was originally expected to take 13 1/2 hours but Andrews said the latest estimate was that the tanker would be over here in 11 hours, 30 minutes after leaving Japan. The estimated time of arrival over Washington was put at 3:14 a.m. EST Sunday.

It was the second attempt in five days by the Strategic Air Command to crack the world record of 11,236 miles set with a U.S. Navy propeller-driven bomber 12 years ago.

The first KC135 left Yokota April 8 and set a new speed record of 13 hours and 47 minutes from Tokyo to Washington, D.C., but landed in the Azores 1,259 miles short of Madrid. Jet stream winds, necessary to lift the big planes and conserve fuel, faded over the Pacific.

The Kiwi took off at 5:24 a.m.—

NATO Leaders To Take Check On Defenses

PARIS (AP)—Defense ministers of the Atlantic alliance meet here this week to determine the elements of an effective shield for the Western world in this era of supersonic missiles and pocket-size nuclear warheads.

The ministers, representing the member countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, will meet at NATO headquarters Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to examine the long-range needs—as well as the immediate requirements—of joint defense.

NATO sessions normally are cloaked in secrecy, and the coming session is no exception, only more so. About all that NATO officials will say about the three-day meeting is that the ministers will review the progress made in fulfilling the program laid out for NATO members at the NATO summit meeting here last December.

French Defense Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas lifted a tiny corner of the veil with a news conference statement that the defense ministers will study a new document setting forth the contribution which each NATO partner should make toward common defense in the coming years.

"We will establish in a precise manner," said Chaban-Delmas, "How we can increase the value of the European shield with the employment of progressively developed nuclear weapons, particularly tactical arms."

Some diplomatic sources said the ministers will spend most of their time studying what NATO might need in the more distant future, 5 or 10 years from now, when the allies presumably will possess a whole series of long and short-range missiles and sufficient nuclear arms of a tactical nature.

The immediate picture is clouded by uncertainty about East-West summit talks and other matters.

Radio Manager At Snyder Dies

SNYDER, Tex. (AP)—J.T. Hughes, 56, president and general manager of Radio Station KSNY here, died Saturday. He had been hospitalized since last Wednesday.

His attending doctor said he died of a heart attack. He was confined to the hospital this week with a slight case of pneumonia.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Mel Gilbert of Snyder, and a grandson, Gilbert is commercial manager of KSNY.

World Watching Sputnik's Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Academy of Sciences said Saturday U.S. Navy units in the Pacific have been alerted to watch for the possible end of Sputnik II in that area.

The academy said the latest estimate of the probable time of impact is about 4:30 a.m. EST, Sunday morning, plus or minus two or three hours.

Thompson And Harte Given Honorary Degrees At Tech

LUBBOCK (AP)—Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, and Charles Thompson, Colorado City attorney and financial leader, were awarded honorary doctor of laws degrees Saturday by Texas Tech.

The actual presentations will be made at the June 2 commencement.

The decision to award the degrees was made by Tech directors. The College Faculty Board approved earlier.

Both names were suggested by Jim Lindsey, Tech board member and managing editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Harte was a Tech director from 1927 to 1933. Thompson was a director more than 19 years, retiring last year.

Many accomplishments by Harte were cited to the Tech board. With the late Bernard Hanks of Abilene, he was an organizer of the Harte-Hanks newspaper group in Texas. He produced the book, "In Our Image," a volume of edited stories of the Bible. He also was cited for numerous civic services.

Thompson was cited for several acts of public service, including leadership of farm credit groups, in school affairs and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and his successful advocacy of highways and dams in West Texas.

SHAVE BEARDS, CUT THAT HAIR, MOSCOW BOPSTERS ARE ADVISED

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian bopsters were told Saturday to shave off those crazy beards and get decent haircuts.

The youth paper Komsomol Pravda also lowered the boom on the Soviet version of the zoot suit. At the same time it cracked the knuckles of Russian fashion designers who dress men in baggy pants.

The chinwhiskers, haircuts and zoot suits are strictly from capitalism, said the paper. As for the baggy pants, it said: "Men are seen sweeping the sidewalks with their long, wide trousers, and they suffer in summer because of the excessive cotton padding in the jackets."

Getting back to the beards, the paper figured the bopsters are just too lazy to use hot water and a razor. Besides, it asked: "What do future miners need beards for?"

Land Re-Moistened By Rain Up To .25

Rain — acting as if it were in no hurry to reach the ground — moistened the countryside Saturday, with measurements in Howard County up to .25 inch.

The drizzle applied a balm to scars from recent dust storms and put a new sheen on agricultural prospects.

More of the same damp weather is forecast for today. Cloudiness with occasional light rain is the forecast, with clearing weather by Monday.

The precipitation was fairly general over the county, ranging from .20 to .25 inch in most areas. Webb AFB recorded only .07 inch, while The Herald gauge showed .15.

Bill McVain on the Wilkinson ranch west of Big Spring recorded .25 inch, the same as was reported at the Hanks Store at Vealmoor. These totals were at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, and both places reported the mist was still falling.

Near Center Point, .20 inch was reported at the A. A. McKinney place, and Ralph Proctor, about five miles south of Vealmoor, reported the same amount.

Ted Fields at Elbow reported a steady light shower most of the day but had no measurement. The same was true at the Arthur Stallings place about 12 miles southwest of Big Spring.

The rain started falling at the Kilpatrick Store west of Luther about 9:30 a.m. Saturday and was still falling at 6:30 p.m. The moisture had not been gauged, however.

In Big Spring, Saturday's rainfall raised the year's total to 4.99, which dwarfs the 1.90 inches which had fallen through April 12, 1957. During the entire month of April, total rainfall was 1.57, but only .01 had fallen by this time in the month.

Saturday night, the official gauge at Lamesa showed .15 of an inch. Throughout southern Dawson and into Martin County the precipitation held steady.

Ranchers, already in the best position for spring forage since 1941, saw their prospects further enhanced. Winter grass and rank weed growth gave assurance of good grazing for several weeks, and crowns of some summer grasses were beginning to green.

Farmers began to watch the temperature charts. With ample planting moisture they were ready for the soil to warm up enough for planting.

Locals Qualify In TIL Events

Big Spring High School qualified at least three entries for the regional meet Saturday at the district 2-AAAA interscholastic League literary contests at Abilene.

Julius Glickman and Stephen Baird, a sharp debating combination, took a first place as did Sandra Tally in the ready writing contest.

Betty Guthrie, with a second in typing, also qualified for a berth in the regional contests at Lubbock this weekend.

Bill Owen took second place in extemporaneous speech and Kelsey Meek also took a second place with his original oration.

In capturing the debate title, Julius Glickman and Stephen Baird continued an exceptional record. Before the district meet they had won 34 and lost only five decisions. In the first round they defeated Midland and drew a semifinal, then went on to defeat Bill Medley and David Deaton of Abilene in the finals. They had won tournaments at Brownwood and in El Paso and took second place at Midland. Topic in the league meet was the same as is used in all other meets, namely whether the United States should limit its foreign aid to disaster relief and technical assistance.

Miss Tally's essay was judged the best in a sizeable field.

Miss Guthrie had a record of 80 words of shorthand per minute with only three errors. There were 25 entries in this event and two places qualified for the regional.

Sound Whipping Administered By Court's Orders

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Five birch switches and a belt were used Saturday to carry out the orders of Circuit Judge John D. Hooker as six boys bent over in the privacy of their backyards to receive a good, sound, old-fashioned whipping.

There were cries and tears as the boys — ranging in age from 12 to 15 — took their licks for beating a neighbor's mule. In some instances brothers and sisters watched solemnly as their parents applied the rod.

None of the boys knew beforehand that this was the day the court-imposed whippings were to be carried out. Some were out playing when Chief Deputy Ray Smart arrived to inform the parents that the hour had arrived.

Open Resistance To Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy Saturday launched a strong flanking attack on President Eisenhower's plan to unify military strategy, research, and spending under a secretary of defense with greatly increased authority.

The first public opposition from the military services was announced through the protective screen of the Navy League, which describes itself as "the civilian arm of the Navy."

The league's president, John J. Bergen, made public a set of resolutions adopted by the executive committee of the group. These resolutions oppose major parts of the Eisenhower program.

The Navy League's membership includes civilians or non-active military men.

The league centered its counter attack on the President's proposal which Congress would have to approve, to reduce the three military departments to the subordinate status of agencies of the Defense Department. Specifically, the league resolutions opposed eliminating a provision in existing law that the departments must be "separately administered."

TRANSFER LIMIT
 The league also would limit to five per cent of total military appropriations the amount of funds the defense secretary could transfer from one function to another to meet emergencies.

Defense Secretary Neil McElroy said Thursday that he would need transfer authority for somewhat less than 10 per cent of defense appropriations.

The Navy League also appeared to oppose the President's plan to strengthen the Joint Staff, which works for the Joint Chiefs. The league resolution on this point stated its opposition to measures "establishing or leading to" the formation of a national general staff.

MORE OPPOSITION
 A more direct active Navy connection with opposition to the President's Pentagon reorganization program was disclosed in actions of the Naval Advisory Council. Component units of the council operate in the naval districts in the United States, and members of the councils are directly appointed by the district commanders, all of whom are two-star admirals on active duty. The Navy League finances publications and activities of the Advisory Councils.

The memorandum, signed by the national chairman of the Advisory Council, J. W. Reeves, urged all members to approach their congressmen during the Easter recess and voice "deep opposition" to sweeping Pentagon reorganization. Council members of the Navy Advisory Council group or of the Navy League.

FEWER SECRETARIES
 The virtually identical bills sponsored by these congressional leaders would increase rather than decrease the policy-making influence of the service secretaries by making them members of the National Security Council. The measures would also decrease the Defense Department's civilian command by eliminating 14 of the present 29 deputy or assistant secretaries and would put a 600-man ceiling on the number of employees in the Department of Defense.

To Set Early Date For Airport Bids

Bids on construction of Howard County's long delayed airport are to be requested "at the earliest possible date," County Judge R. H. Weaver announced Saturday.

The county received the all-clear signal from the Civil Aeronautics Authority Saturday. As a result, the airport project holds the top spot on Monday's agenda for the commissioners court.

Weaver said commissioners will set the bid opening date Monday and bid notices will be on their way to prospective bidders by Tuesday morning.

The judge said the bid date may be set for two weeks from Monday, although he will check the statutes to determine if a longer period is required.

The CAA gave its final approval and authorization to proceed Friday after months of planning and revision of construction plans. Weaver received notification of the approval Saturday.

Howard County voters approved a $500,000 bond issue for airport construction more than two years ago. Since then, a 384-acre site has been purchased northeast of Big Spring and the CAA has agreed to add slightly more than $300,000 in federal money to the construction fund.

Airport plans have been prepared by Benson, Thompson & Nash, local engineering firm, and Louis Jean Thompson was in the CAA offices at Fort Worth when final approval was given Friday.

He had revised the plans several times in meeting all CAA requirements.

A.2.C. Thomas R. Hardee, wing headquarters, receives a $25 savings bond from the 3560th Pilot Training Wing executive officer, Col. Raymond J. Downey, after being chosen Airman of the Month for March at Webb Air Force Base. Along with the savings bond is an all expense paid trip to Carlsbad, N. M., for two, sponsored by the Settles Hotel, Big Spring. Airman Hardee was elected by a board of five officers and was in competition with airmen representing each organization on the base. Hardee, a graduate of Deming High School, Deming, N. M., was elected to represent his school at the 1955 New Mexico Boys' State. He also received the Rotary Good-Citizenship Award for Deming High School in May, 1956. He was a member of the Student Council for two years and was vice president of the Future Teachers of America in '54-'55. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hardee, Fort Worth.

Russian Explosion Heard 5,000 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey said Saturday that the Soviet Union conducted an underground explosion March 25 which was detected by seismic stations ranging from more than 1,000 to 5,000 miles away. Spokesmen for the Atomic Energy Commission said they had made no public announcement of a Soviet explosion occurring on that date. The last one they reported was March 22. The AEC has said it only announces Russian nuclear test explosions when there are circumstances of special interest. Humphrey did not specify that the March 25 explosion was nuclear. As chairman of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee, Humphrey said he had written to 27 seismologists in the United States to obtain information on the detectability of underground explosions. The question whether nuclear blasts can be reliably detected by a distance is bound up with the issue of whether an international agreement to stop such tests would work. British Prime Minister Macmillan said April 3 that undetected explosions are possible. Some Eisenhower administration advisers, notably Dr. Edward Teller, have argued that the Russians would cheat and therefore the United States should not agree to halt testing. Other scientists have argued that sneak tests would involve such a risk of detection that the Russians would be unlikely to hazard public exposure and loss of prestige by violating the ban. Humphrey said the Soviets' March 25 underground test was recorded by seismic stations in Kiruna, Sweden, 1,290 miles away and Eureka, Nev., 5,650 miles away. He said it also was recorded by these stations: College, Alaska; Hungry Horse, Mont.; Uppsala, Sweden; and Shillong, India.

Jobless Steelmen Draw Their 'Sub'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A mill worker broke the bad news to his wife that he had been laid off until business improves. "At least," he said, "I'm a steelworker and will get that supplemental unemployment money." The man was one of some 125,000 basic steelworkers furloughed since last September. Many of them already are receiving supplemental unemployment benefits, known as sub. Sub is part of a three-year contract negotiated by the basic steel industry and the United Steelworkers to end a 34-day strike in 1956. It provides that furloughed workers with two years' continuous work will receive up to 65 per cent of their take-home pay. The companies pay eligible idle workers the difference between state compensation and the total unemployment benefits allowed under the contract. The length and amount of state compensation varies widely. The maximum in Pennsylvania is $35 weekly for 30 weeks. After state compensation expires, the companies pay up to $55.50 weekly to a worker with four dependents for the remainder of the 52 weeks. A USW spokesman said more than 10 million dollars has been paid out by basic steel companies since the sub clause went into effect in September.

Lanky Texan Scores Piano Triumph Before Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—Van Cliburn, the lanky Texan who electrified Russian music lovers Friday night, started out on another task Saturday: gaining back the 10 pounds he lost playing the piano. "All I want to do is relax for the next few days," he said. The 23-year-old pianist from Kilgore, Tex., wowed a Moscow audience with his playing in the final round in the Tchaikovsky International Piano-Violin Competition being held here. He was easily the most popular of all the competitors so far. He pounded the keys with a bandaged index finger—which he cut during a grueling rehearsal—and did not falter when one of the piano strings snapped during his performance. He got a 10-minute ovation for his rendition of Tchaikovsky's First Piano Concerto, Rachmaninoff's Third, and a rondo by Soviet composer Dmitri Kabalevsky, one of the judges, who wrote it for the contest. "I've never known so much joy," Cliburn said. But he admitted he was tired. "It's like a ton of bricks being lifted off my back," he said. Cliburn, who has played the piano since he was 3, is finished playing for a few days at least. He had played through the preliminary rounds and practiced in between. But Soviet recording agencies are besieging him with offers. The competition is not complete, and another American, Daniel Pollack of Los Angeles, went through 10 hours' practice Saturday for his final performance Sunday. The winner will be announced Monday. Pollack, who with his wife, Amy, 21, said he felt tired but plugged on with his rehearsal of Tchaikovsky's First Piano Concerto. He never has played that piece before, and Mark Shubert, dean of the New York Juilliard School, gave him some pointers. Pollack, also 23, is studying music in Vienna on a Fulbright scholarship.

Ike Works On Defense Talk

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower played another round of golf Saturday after working on the defense reorganization speech he will make in Washington next week. The President got out on the Augusta National Golf Club course after lunch at his cottage near the 10th tee. The weather continued just about ideal—sun bright and the temperature in the low 70s. Eisenhower flew here from Washington Friday afternoon for the weekend and got in 18 holes almost immediately. He announced plans for 18 more Saturday and a final round Sunday before flying back to Washington. The speech will be delivered in the capital Thursday at a luncheon meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the International Press Institute. Entitled "Why We Must Modernize Our Defense Establishment," the address will be broadcast coast to coast on TV and radio. The controversial reorganization plan already has been sent to Congress. The President told a news conference Wednesday he doesn't care how numerous or how powerful the foes of the plan are—he intends to fight for it with every means at his disposal.

Gambling Spy Is A Winner

DALLAS (AP)—An undercover police officer was in the embarrassing position Saturday of having won more money than he lost at a tavern operator on whom he was gathering evidence for a gambling charge. The police report, which did not name the undercover officer, was disclosed when charges of operating a gambling house were filed today against William James, 49, operator of the bar. The report stated that the officer wagered bets several times on their skill at playing a bowling machine in the bar. The officer won most of the bouts, nipping the bar owner $1 and 50 cents in their last two encounters. The undercover agent was not so successful playing against customers in the bar. The report showed he lost at least $125 in games with them.

Ike Plays Baseball Scout, Pirates Sign Young Negro

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower played the role of baseball scout in the Pittsburgh Pirates' signing of "a pretty darn good pitcher"—the young son of a White House doorkeeper. The Pirates announced Saturday night the acquisition of Preston Bruce Jr., 21, a Negro whose father has worked at the White House for four years. At the same time Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here disclosed that the President—a good center fielder in his youth—called the Pirates' attention to young Bruce several months ago. It happened at a White House stag dinner given by Eisenhower last July 23. One of the guests was Branch Rickey, the Pirates' board chairman. During the affair the President called in the elder Bruce and introduced him to Rickey. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Saturday in response to inquiries, that Eisenhower had told Rickey of young Bruce's interest in baseball and referred to him as "a pretty darn good pitcher." "That's all the President had to do with it," Hagerty added. The press secretary did not know whether that was the first tip on Bruce the Pirates had. Eisenhower met the lanky young pitcher last spring when Bruce and other members of the Lyndon Teachers' College baseball team visited the White House. The school is at Lyndon Center, Va. GALVESTON (AP)—Robert Utterback, a vacationing salesman from Nebraska City, Neb., was found shot fatally through the right temple Friday night. A rifle was found beside the body. Officers said he had suffered from a heart ailment.

Expect Veto Of Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A meeting of state officials called to discuss new highway legislation has been canceled, a spokesman said Saturday, because there is "such a degree of uncertainty" that President Eisenhower will sign it. The bill, passed overwhelmingly by Congress a week ago, would pump $1,800,000,000 additional into roadbuilding in the fiscal year starting in July. That would raise total authorized spending on federal-state road projects to about 5 billion dollars. Sponsors called it a major antirecession measure. Unconfirmed reports have circulated that Eisenhower will veto the bill, which was sponsored principally by the Democratic leadership of Congress, although it had bipartisan backing. The American Assn. of State Highway Officials, as is its custom when major new roads legislation is enacted, had called a meeting in Chicago Monday and Tuesday. State officials were to discuss the new bill with representatives of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads. AUSTIN (AP)—The traffic death toll in Texas stood Saturday at 493 compared to 554 last year, the Department of Public Safety said. This is an 11 per cent decrease.

BAY CITY, Tex. (AP)—Alice Beverly, 35, burned to death in a fire that destroyed a small home in the Negro section early Saturday.

Increasingly Complex Duties Facing Pilots, Gaylord Says

The "Theory of the Vanishing Man" met an imposing array of contrary facts and figures at Webb's graduation for Jet Pilot Class 58-K Friday night.

Harvey Gaylord, president of Bell Helicopter Corp., Fort Worth, scoffed at predictions that push-button warfare soon can be waged with men needed only "as escorts for ladies."

campaign in engineering circles to simplify the rotary aircraft—paralleling a move, as at Bell, Douglas and other aircraft companies, to simplify equipment, systems and cockpit procedures of fixed-wing aircraft.

C Of C Membership Meeting Is Called

A Chamber of Commerce membership meeting has been called for Monday, April 21, by Dr. J. E. Hogan, president.

Hospital, the State Hospital, Webb Air Force Base, highways and in countless other areas of development have paid dividends over and over again.

TORNADO WARNING PROCEDURE

(The following procedure has been adopted by the Civil Defense organization, to be followed in event of a tornado or similar disaster reported in the Howard County area. It is suggested that this be clipped out, and kept handy for reference in time of emergency.)

- 1. Any person or persons reporting a tornado or disaster in the City of Big Spring and Howard County and adjoining areas should call the Big Spring Police Department.

Yarborough's Plans Political Question

By DAVE CHEAVENS AUSTIN (AP)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough's immediate re-election plans stood Saturday as the biggest unanswered political question in Texas with the filing deadline just three weeks distant.

Backstage maneuvering by the political string-pullers intensified. William Blakley of Dallas cleared the air somewhat by announcing he will try for the six-year Senate term.

Will Yarborough try for the Senate again? Will he run for governor? Yarborough said he was not ready to declare his intentions. He planned to fly back to Washington tomorrow after an Easter recess swing over the state appraising his chances.

Blakley, millionaire lawyer and businessman, had said he had no intention of returning to Washington. He set the stage for a possible bitter conservative-liberal battle in the Democratic primary by asking voter-approval for the full term. He served briefly by appointment of Gov. Allan Shivers when Price Daniel vacated the post to become governor. Yarborough is filling the unexpired portion of the term after winning a sudden-death special election last spring.

Capitol gossip was that considerable conservative pressure was being put on Yarborough to try again to beat Daniel for the governorship.

There was some sound reasoning behind what might seem to be an absurd position for conservatives in view of Yarborough's liberal leanings. Conservatives fear that if Yarborough should win the full term, he would have at least six years in the Senate and perhaps a lifetime job. If, however, Yarborough became governor he would have only a two-year term, after which he might be displaced. Or, in the event of re-election he would have a second term to make it four years.

The conservatives are fully aware that a governor's power is not as great as many voters think it is, and that control of the Legislature, especially the state Senate, is more vital.

Rep. Martin Dies, a conservative, said he was still undecided and may run for the U.S. Senate. Two conservatives running against Yarborough, a liberal, would help Yarborough materially by splitting the vote.

State Senate control became an issue in the 1956 elections when George Nokes of Waco said he would contest Ben Ramsey, who is seeking an unprecedented fifth term for lieutenant governor.

Nokes, former House member and senator, will have liberal backing against the conservative support that Ramsey will command. Nokes said he would campaign with a charge that Ramsey denied majority rule in the Senate and had shielded wrongdoers there. The lieutenant governor presides over the Senate. Nokes insisted that the liberal label should not be applied to him, but it was common political knowledge that the liberals would adopt him in a race with Ramsey. Ramsey is especially opposed by union labor.

Meet The First National Folks Who Always Have Time for You

MRS. REBA BAKER

Dean of the First National Bank family is a lady — and a very favorite one, too. She is Mrs. Ralph Baker, whose smile has charmed thousands of people in the 38 years she has been with the bank. She's one of those who "always has time" for friends and patrons.

Reba, the only name by which many people know her, came to Big Spring from Hill County in 1906. The day after she graduated from high school in 1919, A. E. Pool, then First National's president, asked if she wanted a job. She hesitated because she had no bookkeeping training and because her father, W. G. Orenbaum, had mixed feelings about women working. She won him over and went to work the next day. Except for a couple of years spent in California after her marriage to a young engineer, Ralph W. Baker, in June of 1924, she has been with the bank. When she returned to Big Spring, the late Louis Price made her a teller, and at a better figure than her original $40 a month.

She continued as a teller when First National merged with West Texas National in 1933; was made assistant cashier and head teller Dec. 31, 1937, and a vice president Jan. 13, 1953. She has continued as head teller and in charge of the vaults until now. Recently the bank presented her with a beautiful watch.

Reba became a human adding machine at the outset of her career, adding long columns of figures flawlessly. Her employers didn't believe in adding machines. She also posted each check and deposit individually and by hand, a chore done by machine today. However, she developed a sixth sense for signatures and can recognize them as easily as she recognizes thousands of faces. As a teller she instinctively spots bogus bills and once helped send up a counterfeiter. She has never been held up but a few years ago helped trap a check swindler.

Although extremely busy, she has 30 years of unbroken service with the Red Cross and is chapter treasurer. She was the first Gray Lady at the VA Hospital, and except for a couple of times, she has projected films for VA patients every Monday night for the past eight years. The VA Hospital on March 27, 1956, named her its "ideal volunteer" in national competition.

Reba squeezed in time for membership in the Big Spring Credit Women's Club 10 years ago. She was picked in 1954 as a member of the first woman jury chosen in Howard County. Her hobbies are sewing (she makes practically all her clothes) and gardening—and her first consideration is her family, including her 91-year-old father.

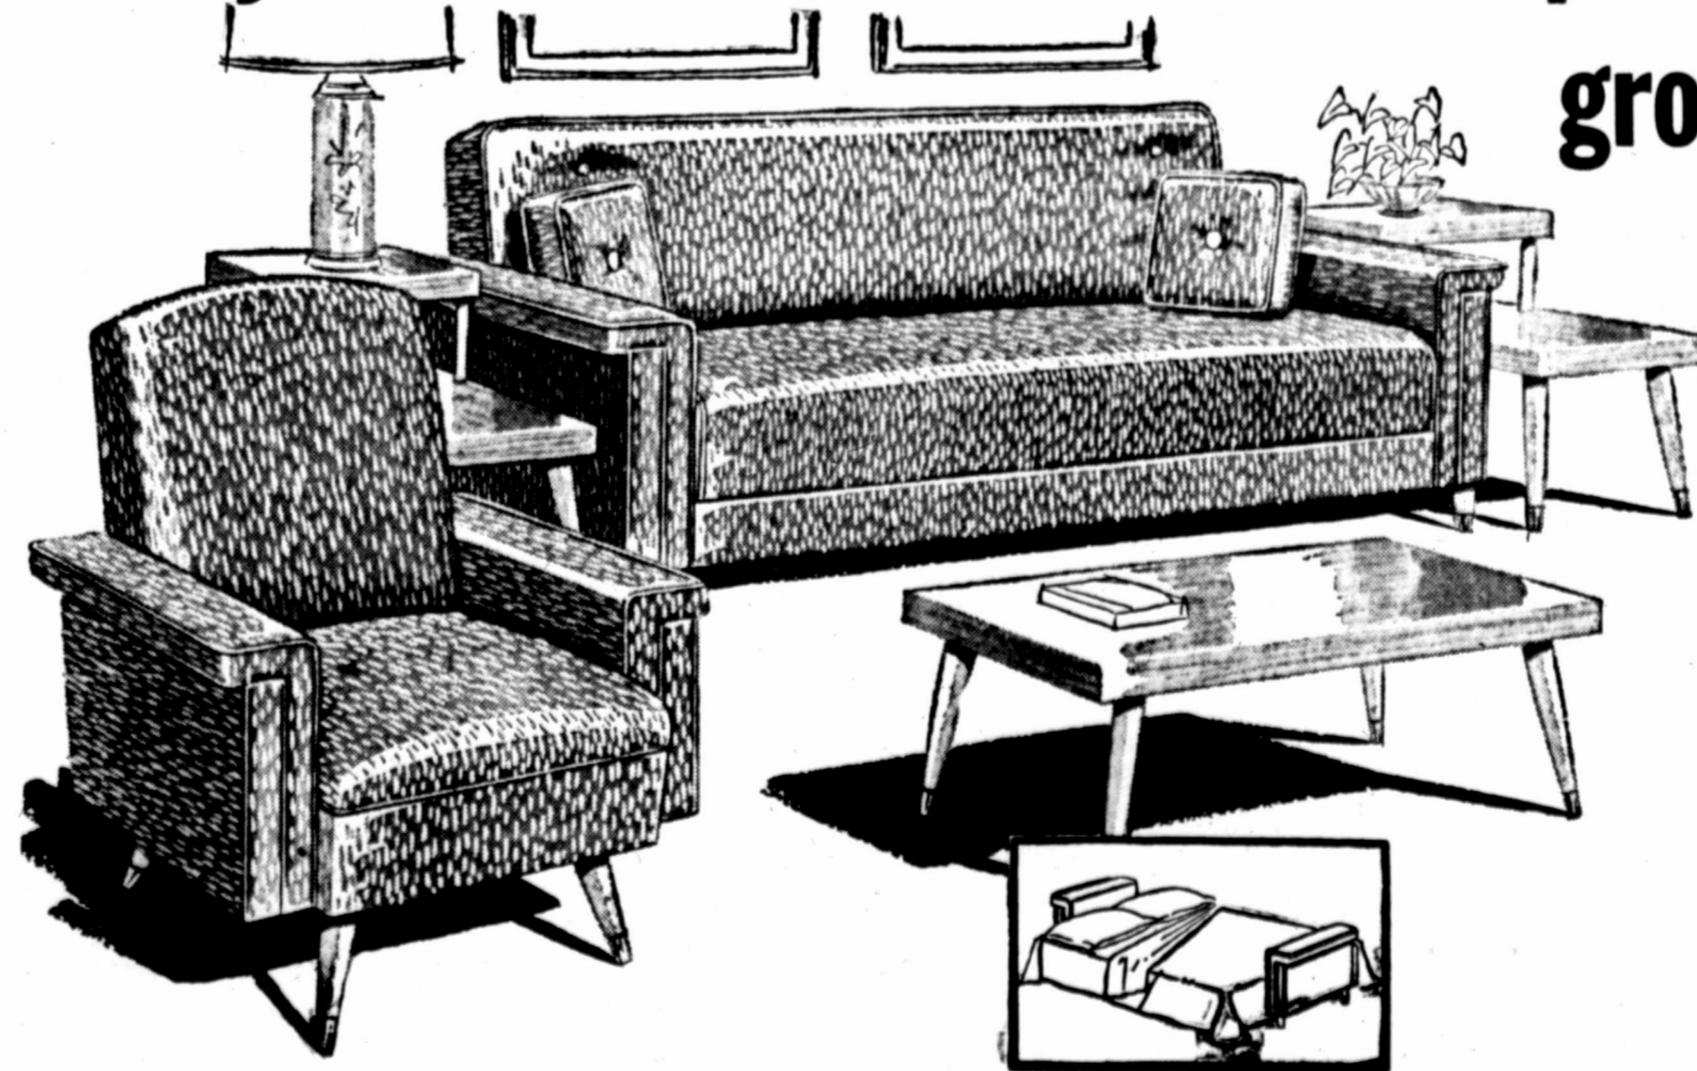

Any day now she will be moved out of her front cage to a new accounts desk. Before Reba would consent to the move, bank officials had to convince her she would get a chance to meet and greet more people. And in the tradition that has made the bank distinctive for its friendliness — Reba had rather meet people than anything else.

Lana Makes A Surprise Call To Daughter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Lana Turner, recovering from the ordeal of her dramatic recital of John Stompanato's fatal stabbing, paid a surprise visit to Juvenile Hall Saturday to see her daughter.

The girl, 14-year-old Cheryl Crane, was absolved Friday of criminal responsibility in the butcher knife slaying of her mother's boy friend, described by police as a gigolo.

Normally, visitors are not permitted at Juvenile Hall on Saturdays, but the rule was waived so that Sunday's visiting routine would not be disturbed.

Judge Lynch could certify the girl as an adult, leaving the door open for her prosecution for Stompanato's death.

Dist. Atty. William H. McKesson indicated there would be no prosecution, however.

"I would not prosecute on the basis of the coroner's verdict and the information I have at present," he said.

Nichols' Payoff Room

Elma Nichols grades eggs and places them in cartons for delivery. This is one of the most agreeable tasks around his egg factory — the last step before the payoff.

Dinner Is Served

All the Nichols family and some Latin American hired hands all pitch in help care for the caged flock. An eager helper here is Nichols' young son, shown raking one of the feed troughs to inform the hens that dinner is served again.

Stanton Farmer Learns Trick Of Profiting From Caged Hens

By JESS BLAIR

Caged hens have been quite a chore for Elma Nichols on his farm just north of Stanton. They have also helped out when the cotton crop didn't pay off. Most of all they have provided the family with a sizable part of its income for nearly two years now. Starting in May of 1956 with about 1,100 hens, Nichols has steadily increased the housing, cages and hens until he has 3,600 layers at one of Martin County's biggest egg factories.

After building his first house, he bought another from a Howard County producer, and then put in a brooder house for raising the baby chicks. He also has a small processing room where the eggs are chilled, washed, graded and put into cartons.

Nichols has learned by experience several ways to increase the profits and reduce labor and overhead. One of the main problems was establishing a good market. "That was our biggest mistake," he said. "We went into this thing without a market, so we had to create one. You can't make anything selling eggs wholesale, for the middle man takes out too much."

The Nichols' eggs are now sold to a couple of large dairies, with the remaining eggs going to various customers. The dairies pay a nice price, but are strict on the quality of eggs they buy. To hold this trade, Nichols must furnish them with eggs above average.

MANAGEMENT

Keeping caged layers is a tricky business, says Nichols. The owner can easily lose money unless he manages carefully. These are some of the problems he encountered and the methods he used to overcome them.

1. Saving on feed. He soon found that he could mix his own feed at a substantial saving. He bought an electric mixer and now runs three parts of maize and one of laying supplement through it. This makes a complete feed for about $2.25 per hundred pounds. A laying mash bought at the stores would cost $4.90.

"And my home-mixed feed will produce just as many eggs," Nichols said. "We've been getting over 60 per cent production, which is about the same as before starting the home mixing plan. Since Nichols feeds each hen about a quarter of a pound a day, this adds up to about 900 pounds, or a saving of several dollars per day."

2. Diseases can put an owner out of business quickly. Nichols buys only the healthiest, egg-producing chicks, and then vaccinates them until they are immune to most diseases. The chick is vaccinated for Newcastle and bronchitis at four days of age, again the fourth week and still another time between the 10th and 12th weeks. In addition, he gives another dose of medicine for fowl pox, and a booster shot for Newcastle.

This treatment plus a clean house, clean feed and water kept his flock almost completely free from any disease. He has had no trouble with colds, which rob many producers of profits.

SAVES ON LABOR

3. Eliminating labor can also result in a saving. For awhile he kept daily records on each hen, but this is too time-consuming. Just writing down a mark beside each cage 3,600 times a day can add an extra hour or two of work.

So now he has a poultry expert come down from Lubbock once a month and rapidly cull the flock. In the meantime, if Nichols finds an ailing bird, he takes her out for observation. He also has a young pullet ready to go into the empty cage.

Another way of reducing labor and housing expense is to put two hens to a cage. He ran a test on this and found they lay more eggs than when one lives alone in a cage. He thinks it is because two hens can stay warmer than one, and also the two become competitors for feed.

"The more you can get a hen to eat," he said, "the more eggs she will produce. Also plenty of feed will keep hens from moulting."

Nichols has some hens now starting their third year of production and they still lay their quota of eggs. Within the next few months, Nichols intends to remove the partitions from the eight-inch cages and put three hens in the sixteen-inch spaces. This will enable him to add a third more birds without buying extra cages or housing, or installing more feeders or waterers.

Nichols says hens will not take the place of a big cotton crop and high prices, but a farmer seldom gets this combination. Meanwhile, hens can provide a tidy income. While reluctant to say how much money can be made with caged layers, he did make this comment: "With careful management and a good market, a poultryman ought to clear two dollars a year on each hen. This takes into account all expenses, including depreciation of equipment."

So those 3,600 hens rolling out over 2,000 eggs a day mean more than a mere hobby. They could afford the Nichols family a nice living—even without the cotton crop.

Recently honored as "Salesman of the Year" by the National Sales Executives Assn., Gove annually addresses more than 100,000 salesmen at sales meetings and conventions.

Employment Probe Has Political Tinge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry into the unemployment problem has erupted in party-line debate two days ahead of the testimony of the leadoff witness, Harry S. Truman.

Rep. Talle of Iowa, top Republican on the House Banking Committee, Saturday accused the Democrats of planning to use the committee hearings starting Monday "as a loudspeaker for Democrat political propaganda."

Former President Truman, he said, is "the advance pitchman sent on ahead to set the stage for the flow of anti-administration propaganda to follow in the weeks ahead."

Rep. Reuss of Wisconsin, a Banking Committee Democrat, replied that he suspected the Republican National Committee authored Talle's statement.

To Talle's assertion that the predominantly Democratic witness list shows a design "to make political hay out of the recession," Reuss said fewer Republicans are testifying "because the Republicans are hiding their heads in the sand, unwilling to recognize that there is a recession."

College Operating In Budget Limits

Howard County Junior College continued its in-the-budget trend during March according to the regular monthly financial statement filed by trustees Thursday.

Expenditures for the month stood at $30,960.12 from the general fund, and there were no disbursements from the interest and sinking fund. For the first seven months of the fiscal year, expenditures have aggregated $243,617.22 from the general fund and $30,960.12 from interest and sinking fund.

Revenues for March amounted to $5,319.66, bringing the total for the year to $356,883.70. During the month the aggregate tax collections reached $198,346.88, which meant that the district has collected $106.88 more than anticipated for the year. The entire budget lacks only $16,750 attaining its anticipated revenues.

COMPARE and you'll go GAS everytime!

GAS IS THE FAST FUEL...THE CLEAN FUEL...THE FLEXIBLE FUEL...THE DEPENDABLE FUEL!

Where food is finest, it's cooked with Gas! Why? Because Gas lends itself to complete control! Remember, completely "automatic" does not mean completely "controlled". Only the oven thermostat on an automatic gas range permits you to set-and-forget the time and temperature, confident in the fact that the temperature setting will be held within a margin of only five degrees! This is just one of the many advantages of Gas cooking! Let us give you the rest of the facts, then visit your gas appliance dealer.

A. Pot Watching is ended when the Burner-With-A-Braze makes every pan an automatic utensil. A hypersensitive thermostat prevents scorching and boil-overs.	B. Perfect baking results are the rule in a self-starting, self-stopping GAS oven with the most accurate thermostat yet devised by mechanical science.
C. Closed door broiling—with no odors escaping into your kitchen—is advisable only with Gas, because only a live flame can CONSUME cooking vapors.	D. A meat thermometer operating the control of your automatic Gas oven assures finer flavor and texture, with much less shrinkage and drying in the meats you serve.

Turning Back The Calendar

The atmosphere around the J. C. Penney store is definitely of another generation. People at the store are garbed in costumes of a half-century ago. It's all because of a special celebration, with "old-time" sale prices of the J. C. Penney Company 54th anniversary, being observed through the vast retailing system. It was in 1904 that James Cash Penney opened his first cash-and-carry store in Kemmerer, Wyoming. Today there are nearly 1,700 Penney stores, all of them served by central buying research departments with an eye out for customer welfare. The Penney people in the costumes of the first of the century are (women, left to right): Mrs. E. A. Nance, Mrs. Frances Oliver, Mrs. Irene Mann, Mrs. Olean Melton, Mrs. Louella Moore, Estelle Cox, Mrs. Dolores Patterson, Joan Lane, Mrs. Nola Erwin, Mrs. Clarence Todd. The men are Troy Todd, Jim Eastham, E. J. Wyatt, C. M. Epps, Neal Hatch.

Dawson County is one big field of listed rows. For mile after mile they come right down to the pavement, and stretch back till lost from sight. Not a weed is showing except along the burrow pits where a few tiny white and yellow wildflowers try to color the bleak landscape. Some of the land is fresh plowed; other fields have been knifed to get the few weeds as farmers await the weather signal for planting. At Sparenberg, groceryman W. R. Foster said several farmers had planned to start planting cotton, but the cool, wet snap postponed it. The ground had dried out a bit, and two or three irrigation farmers were getting ready to start the pumps. Now they can wait awhile. In fact, not many irrigation owners plan heavy pumping this year. They say that with the bottom moisture they may use the wells very little. Last year the irrigated cotton averaged from a bale to a bale and three-quarters and made no more profit than dryland crops. The feed business has hit a slump, according to several feed dealers contacted lately. At Lamesa, Johnny Clark says some creep feeding is going on, but not many ranchers are feeding their range cattle. "They don't need to," he said. "The rancher is in better shape than at any time since 1942. He will soon have a cover of grass, and cattle are worth twice as much as a few years ago. The strange thing is that feed has gone up very little in recent years." Clark sells to several customers in Eastern New Mexico, and says that range conditions are comparable to those in West Texas. He said stocker cattle were still in good demand, but it might be quite awhile until ranges were stocked to their pe-drought capacity. The old varieties of maize may someday become as obsolete as the mule and one-row go-devil. Hybrids are taking over throughout West Texas. James Dunn, seed breeder and dealer at Lamesa, estimates that Dawson County farmers will plant 75 per cent of their feed acreage to hybrids. "The only trouble is that the seed supply may become exhausted if they do plant it all in hybrids," he said. Dunn says he has sold lots of hybrid seed but hardly a sack of the standard kinds. He says two kinds are selling well—610 and 620. He thinks 620 will do even better than 610. "One farmer near here tried both kinds last year," Dunn said. "He pre-irrigated the fields and then made it on rainfall. The 620 out-produced the 610 by nearly 800 pounds to the acre." Some farmers have been told the 620 is only for irrigated land, but Dunn says this is not true. It will out-produce the other any time except on an extremely dry year, when there might not be much difference. The 620 stands up well, dries out fairly quick, and makes a large head. C. J. King, who farms and operates a grocery store in the Old Flower Grove community, says most farmers in his area had planned to wait till the last of April or first of May to plant cotton. The fields are fairly wet and there will be plenty of planting moisture. A few miles south of his store I checked a couple of sandyland fields and found they had dried out about four inches. However, the rain yesterday had pushed down three inches, leaving a one-inch band of dry soil. Without any more rain, however, the moisture has probably met by now. King and some friends recently went fishing down on the Corpus Christi lake and found the South Texas farmers a month behind with their crops. He said the cotton and maize

1,000 Expected Next Weekend For Scout Camp

As they have for every year for the past three decades, Boy Scouts and their leaders will flock here this weekend for the four corners of the Buffalo Trail Council. Pre-registrations by troops and Explorers posts from the council area indicate that considerably more than 1,000 men and boys will be here Friday and Saturday for the big campout and contests, and there may be as many as 1,500. The Round Up, as the gathering has come to be known, is the largest single event of the council which stretches from the Big Bend area to Scurry County. No other event even approaches it in attendance. In keeping with a custom inaugurated in the beginning of the decade, friends of scouting in Big Spring will serve a barbecue lunch with all the trimmings at noon Saturday to registered Scouts and scouters. Seldom, if ever, have the munny golf course area been in as good a condition for camping and activities as they are this year. Repeated rains have brought out the turf and held down the soil to where dust should be one of the least problems. Big Spring scouts will join with early arrivals on Thursday afternoon in setting up camp. Bulk of the crowd is expected to arrive Friday morning and set up camp in time for beginning of skill-fun contests that afternoon. Finals in the events will be held Saturday. Friday night there will be a big campfire and program, to which everyone is invited.

Claims Harry Relaxed, Too

WASHINGTON — Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn hit back at former President Truman Saturday for criticizing President Eisenhower's golf playing during an economic recession. Alcorn said Truman spent two months in Key West, Fla., and Independence, Mo., during a 1949-50 recession. A search of the record, Alcorn added in a statement, also discloses that Truman "did little to cure the 1949-50 recession beyond canceling a tax increase he had proposed and by directing that some defense contracts be canceled to areas of especially high idleness." "In contrast," the GOP chairman said, "the Eisenhower administration has moved vigorously in over 50 ways to stimulate the economy. The latest figures indicate that this program is paying off. Employment is stabilizing after a disturbing period aggravated by severe bad weather." Alcorn said the recession in the Truman administration "drifted along for 13 months—including all four seasons—with from 5.2 to 7.8 per cent unemployed each month before the economy was revitalized by the outbreak of the Korean War." Alcorn's statement was distributed by GOP national headquarters while he was on a speaking trip in the South.

An airman from Amarillo AFB was in the Webb Hospital this weekend suffering from a bullet wound in the side which he said was self-inflicted, according to local police. S. Sgt. Whitman came to the house of Sgt. Dewey Magee, 208 Carey about 11 p.m. Friday and told Magee that he had accidentally shot himself. Magee carried him to the hospital. Air Force investigators were handling the case and checking Whitman's story.

Leopold Aided Identification For Arrest

CHICAGO — Authorities said a photo identification made by Nathan Leopold before he was paroled had led to the arrest Friday of a man sought in a North Side robbery. Miss Celia Miller, 44, told police a man she knew as Jack Keller took $800 from her home Dec. 7 after binding her hands and mouth with tape. Miss Miller recalled her assailant had surrendered a chauffeur's license, bearing a photograph of himself, for a traffic violation a few days earlier. Detectives found the photo under the name of Jack Lavergne. They sent it to Stateville Prison on the hunch that their man might be an ex-convict. At Stateville, Warden Joseph E. Ragen said Leopold recalled seeing the man at services in the prison chapel. Leopold also recalled that his name was Jack Besmel, 52, a lifer paroled in December 1956. Police picked Besmel up Friday night at a rooming house where he formerly had lived. Officers said he admitted the holdup. The check of the photo at the prison was made some time before Leopold was freed on parole March 13.

Princess Margaret Changing To Woman Of Many Moods

By JACK SMITH LONDON — "Call me Maggie." Her royal highness the Princess Margaret, lips brightly rouged and a cocktail glass in hand, was in a mood for fun and informality. But as the intimate Mayfair party romped into the dawn, her mood suddenly changed. "Please," she commanded. "Call me ma'am." More and more in recent years the dainty princess with the glamor or girl figure has become a puzzle to the people who know her. When she is with friends her blue eyes sparkle with gaiety one moment and cloud over with brooding solemnity the next. Relaxed and chatty, she freezes abruptly into icy formality. "And how is your sister?" an old friend asked at the height of a party. "One assumes," she replied, "that you mean her majesty the Queen." Some of her old chums say they no longer feel at ease in her company. Caustic remarks spring quickly to her lips, and she can switch from "Maggie" to "ma'am" with bewildering suddenness. With Peter Townsend on her mind and perhaps in her heart, the 27-year-old princess sets off next Saturday on a 17-day official tour of the West Indies. But it will not be a carefree, light-hearted Margaret who smiles at sun-splashed garden parties in the New World or waxes regally to the crowds from sleek black limousines. UNPREDICTABLE Official informants express confidence that she will do her job well as an ambassador of the crown. But beneath the assurance there is an undercurrent of uneasiness, for Margaret has become unpredictable. "Such perversity!" one official snapped with unconcealed irritation after her reunion with Townsend last month. It was the first open meeting in 2 1/2 years between the princess and the suitor she renounced because the Church of England could not approve her marrying a divorced man. Margaret, who was brought up to know the workings of the British press, could have anticipated the speculation which her teatime tete-a-tete with Townsend would touch off. In some British eyes the speculation damaged the dignity of the crown and stole the headlines when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were on a state visit to Holland. The picture the world has of Margaret as a gay, fun-loving, doting younger sister has become dated. She is no longer the laughing princess of a decade ago, the madcap young prankster who danced the can-can to the delight of bluebloods at a Mayfair party. People close to her say she is lonesome and moody, has few real friends, seems worried over what life may have in store for her. "A woman of mystery, not completely understood by anyone," Italian artist Pietro Annigoni said after painting her portrait. Her intimates suggest she takes a perverse delight in defying royalty's staid etiquette. In normal circumstances the British press last November would have been full of warm, human stories about the Queen's family dinner party preceding the celebration of her 10th wedding anniversary. Instead, papers splashed the news that a family dinner took place with Margaret absent. The princess chose to go to a movie and a public restaurant. There were rumors of a rift between the royal sisters. "Nonsense," one official said. But well-informed people say the Queen could hardly have failed to feel hurt. Court sources openly showed annoyance after Margaret's reunion with Townsend. The handsome, 43-year-old war hero was abroad during most of this time, traveling alone from country to country and continent to continent. Margaret's friends say the couple corresponded regularly during his absence. It was known that they longed to see each other again. Royal sources continually emphasized that it was only natural for two old friends to want to meet. HARD TO REVERSE And officials here expect them to meet again and again. But Margaret's decision to put duty before love would be hard to reverse. "I have been aware that subject to my renouncing my rights of succession it might have been possible for me to contract a civil marriage," she said. "But mindful of the Church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble, and conscious of my duty to the Commonwealth, I have put these considerations before any others." Her statement is now history and cannot be blotted out. In the years since Townsend's departure more and more of Margaret's friends and escorts have married, had children, and withdrawn into lives of their own. Her invitations to the intimate, informal parties she relishes — cocktails in Mayfair, the theater, night clubs — have become fewer and fewer. Her oldest friends suggest there is more behind the change in the princess than a matter of brooding over a broken romance. At 27, they say, she is still the younger sister. In a sense she is on the sidelines while older sister Lilibet — her name for Queen Elizabeth — gets the cheers. She has often admitted enjoying the limelight. Yet Margaret spends more time with the Queen and her family than most bachelor girls spend in the family circles of older married sisters. The Queen often has her for long vacations at Sandringham in Norfolk.

Burglars Raid Brooks Store

Burglars hit the Brooks Town & County Furniture Store here Friday night and tried unsuccessfully to get in another downtown store. Police discovered the burglary early Saturday morning, noting that the lock was off a back door. The lock had been broken off by the burglar in gaining entrance to the 205 Rannels store. Taken were two transistor pocket radios, $25 to $30 in cash, and a money box from the furniture store. From an office in the building were taken two watches, and $5 to $6 in change. Officers also found a plate glass had been removed from a window at the rear of Big Spring Hardware, 117 Main, but the building had not been entered, they said.

"Oh, heavens, I don't know how you could get along without the newspaper! You'd never know about sales or where to buy anything."

NEWSPAPERS + PEOPLE = ACTION

Every day when newspapers and people get together, things start popping. News stories, editorials and features constantly arouse readers to action. So does the advertising. Without it, as the lady says, "You'd never know about sales or where to buy anything." Newspaper advertising differs from many other kinds because it is wanted. People not only look for advertising in the newspaper — they act upon it. They buy from it. That's why more money is spent in newspapers than in radio, television, magazines and outdoor combined. Over 58,000,000 newspapers are bought daily, providing news, features, information — and advertising. If it's action you want — action you'll get — from your advertising in the action medium, the daily newspaper. All business is local... and so are all newspapers.

Three Cases Are Set Tentatively

Three criminal cases have been docketed tentatively, and a jury panel has been ordered to report to 118th District Court at 10 a.m. Monday. The district attorney's staff said

Saturday the prosecutor hopes to be ready for trial of the three cases. Defendants are Orville J. Key, charged with forgery under the "habitual" statute; Norman C. Wood, charged with forgery; and T. L. Davis, charged with defrauding with worthless check, also in the habitual category.

Appeal For Aid To Check Crime Rise

WACO (AP)—The state law enforcement commission appealed Saturday to every lawyer in the state and every Texas newspaper to join in a fight to stop Texas' rising crime rate.

"That includes every private citizen, too," said Dist. Atty. Jack Hightower of Vernon, commission member. "We want every person in Texas to become law enforcement conscious."

The announcement that the 9-man commission needed help in its anti-crime crusade came at the end of the meeting where they considered state law revisions that would affect teen-age and adult crimes.

Commissioner John Crooker Sr., former Houston district attorney, said the only report the group would make would be just before its authority expires Jan. 1. He said there would be at least one more meeting.

"We are looking at maybe 15 or 20 proposed changes in the state's criminal code," Crooker said. "Mainly they are designed to better clarify and simplify law enforcement. We have not reached any specific conclusion on any particular change."

Crooker said that at least two of the law changes were suggested by the Texas Youth Council. When the commission was activated last Feb. 15, Gov. Price Daniel urged that the group work with the youth council and give top priority to juvenile crime problems.

One change considered today would allow juvenile courts to release jurisdiction to regulate district courts in major crimes involving chronic juvenile offenders 15 years or older.

The second change would set up an interim reformatory for teen-age convicts between the ages of 15 and 20. The inmates could be sentenced to the institution either by a district court or a juvenile court.

"No specific decisions were made at today's session," Asst. Secretary of Labor Newell Brown said. "It was a matter of getting a first-hand report on the problems here and clarifying our position which can best be described as that the importation of Mexican nationals can only take place when domestic labor interested in working in the fields has had an opportunity to these jobs."

Robert Goodwin, director of the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security, said the door was not closed to more braceros.

"There is a chance the ceiling will be adjusted. We have not closed the door to braceros. We have never said this is all for this season... We are going to require that all reasonable steps be taken to hire American labor before we certify the importation of any additional Mexican labor."

TEC officials have said that about 6,000 more braceros were needed in Texas now. No more braceros are allowed to enter the state because the Texas quota of 26,505 already has been filled, they said. The Texans had requested a quota of 30,000.

The Dallas meeting followed one yesterday at Austin where Texas agriculture employers said that housewives may face higher prices for fruits and vegetables because of the lack of farm laborers.

The TEC consultants, most of whom said they hired braceros, blamed organized labor for what they called "pressuring the U. S. Labor Department into making ridiculous rules and regulations."

The consultants also declared that unemployed U. S. citizens, most of them industrial workers, were not interested in taking farm labor jobs.

"Every surplus employment area of the state has already been checked and cleared and the jobless say they wouldn't do stoop labor," Maurice Acers of the Texas Employment Commission said.

"There is a chance the ceiling will be adjusted. We have not closed the door to braceros. We have never said this is all for this season... We are going to require that all reasonable steps be taken to hire American labor before we certify the importation of any additional Mexican labor."

No Braceros Until Local Jobless Aided

DALLAS (AP)—U.S. Department of labor officials said here Saturday "all reasonable possibilities" of employing jobless U. S. citizens must be exhausted before the government will consider raising the quotas for Mexican agricultural workers.

The statement followed a two-hour closed-door meeting here between Texas Employment Commission's farm labor consultants, who have urged that more Mexican braceros be permitted to enter Texas as agricultural workers, and the Department of Labor officials.

"No specific decisions were made at today's session," Asst. Secretary of Labor Newell Brown said. "It was a matter of getting a first-hand report on the problems here and clarifying our position which can best be described as that the importation of Mexican nationals can only take place when domestic labor interested in working in the fields has had an opportunity to these jobs."

Robert Goodwin, director of the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security, said the door was not closed to more braceros.

"There is a chance the ceiling will be adjusted. We have not closed the door to braceros. We have never said this is all for this season... We are going to require that all reasonable steps be taken to hire American labor before we certify the importation of any additional Mexican labor."

Cuba Rebellion Apparently Is Sputtering Out

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The flame of Fidel Castro's rebellion seemed Saturday to be sputtering. Government troops smashed another rebel move, and dissension shattered the rebel organization in Havana.

In what could be a serious blow to the rebels' total war against President Fulgencio Batista, the rebel high command in Havana branded Castro's personally appointed top lieutenant here a traitor. The rebel high command charged he had bungled last Wednesday's call to arms in the capital and threatened to kill him if he doesn't resign.

The dozen officers who make up the high command told newsmen in their secret headquarters here they no longer will take orders from 35-year-old Faustino Perez, Perez, who is in hiding somewhere in the capital, could not be located for comment.

The high command said 5,000 fighters were ready to stream out into Havana streets last Wednesday but Perez never gave the word. The uprising fizzled when Batista poured heavily armed troops into the city's trouble spots.

The charges against Perez left the whole Havana rebel organization in doubt. If Castro fails to remove Perez quickly, it could fall apart.

The attack on Perez came on the heels of an outburst by Castro against the Junta of Liberation led by ex-President Carlos Prío Socarras and Cuban millionaire Jose Aleman. Both are in exile in Miami. Castro, in a statement last Wednesday, charged that while they were living in Florida luxury, his men were without arms.

His men face Batista's well-equipped and well trained forces. Heavy casualties have been inflicted on rebel striking units.

Bank Facilities At Military Bases Declared Illegal

AUSTIN (AP)—Eighteen different military installations throughout Texas house national banks' facilities which are operating illegally, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said Friday.

He said national banks cannot have offices on military reservations to cash checks and make deposits. These are functions of branch offices prohibited under Texas law, he said in an opinion to State Banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner.

The attorney general's office mailed copies of the opinion to banks including those in Big Spring, San Antonio, Amarillo, Denison, El Paso, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, Wichita Falls and Houston.

Although the Austin news dispatch said copies of the attorney general's opinion in regard to "branch" bank facilities were being mailed to Big Spring, no such facilities are being maintained at Webb Air Force Base here. The two local national banks advised The Herald that there was no applicable operation here.

Hawk Tracksters 2nd In Arlington Relays

ARLINGTON, April 12 (SC) — Host Arlington State College used first places in six events and a tie for another first in gaining the title trophy of the 5th annual Rebel Relays here Saturday afternoon. Howard County Junior College of Big Spring counted 36 points for runnersup honors, while Tarleton State was third with 34. Paris JC got 15, Navarro 13, San Antonio 10, and Odessa JC failed to score. In all, seven records were cracked today in the meet which was unreled under ideal track conditions. New standards were lapped up in both relays, the mile run, 120-yard high hurdles, 880-yard run, broad jump, and shot put. HCJC came in for two of the new marks with ace distance man Bobby Fuller scoring in the mile and half-mile events. Fuller ran the mile in 4:46.5 and then came back to take the 880 in 2:03.5 to establish new marks. Incidentally, HCJC scored 20 of its 36 points in the two distance events. Charles Dobbs and Darrell Froman finished second and third, respectively, in the mile and then the order was reversed in the half.

Rickey Phinney picked up another first by the Jayhawks in the 220-low hurdles, and Ben Faulkner tied for first in the pole vault. James Pettit of Tarleton was high point man of the meet with 12 1/2 points, 1/4 more than were hauled in by Arlington's Charles Allen. Pettit picked up five points

There was a major reshuffling of the standings as first round leader Don Whitte took a 77, ten strokes over his initial effort, to drop almost out of sight. Thirty-five men passed him in the rush.

Weather permitting, the Big Spring Panthers will make their 1958 baseball debut in Steer Park this afternoon, at which time they meet the Odessa All-Stars. Game time is 3 p.m.

Elias Gamboa is again managing the Panthers, which formerly was known as the Tigres.

Pitcher Johnny Subia and Salvador Sarmiento, a catcher, recently joined the Panthers. Both formerly played with the Big Spring Hawks.

Probable starters for the locals today are Pat Martinez, first base; Andy Gamboa, second base; Jimmy Ferra, shortstop; G. U. y Lara, third base; Tom Arista, left field; Tito Arancibia, center field; and Bobby McAdams, right field.

Danny Valdes, Charley Fierro and Guy Fierro are other pitchers on the team.

Local Girls Are Defeated In Finals Of 2-4A Meet

ABILENE, April 12 (SC) — Big Spring won second place in District 2-AAAA girls' doubles tennis play here Saturday.

Odessa's combination of Brenda Beicher and Suelis Smith, defending champions, turned back the Steerette pair of Betty Ellison and Shirley Killough, 6-1, 6-1, in a match finished indoors. Odessa had beaten Abilene in the semifinals.

Earlier, Ellison and Killough had shaded San Angelo's Sandra Procter and Lena Harper, 6-0, 6-2; and Midland's Donna St. Clair and Ann Brazill, 6-2, 6-2, to attain the finals.

In junior doubles, Maxine Roberts and Lyn Anderson of Big Spring also placed second, losing to Joan Kirk and Margaret Levell, Odessa, in the finals, 6-1, 6-0.

Joan Bratcher, Big Spring's singles player, lost to Landa Erwin, Odessa, 6-0, 6-2, in the second round after drawing a first round bye.

Miss Erwin then shaded Sherry Peabworth, Abilene, in the finals, 4-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Kaline Home Run Provides Margin

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Al Kaline's 375-foot home run in the 15th inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 decision over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday in the longest exhibition game played this spring by either team.

A crowd of 5,915 shivered through the 4-hour, 23-minute struggle in 45-degree weather at County Stadium.

Kaline's blow off Joey Jay, who pitched the final eight innings for the Braves, ended the Tigers losing streak at seven games. It was his sixth homer.

The Tigers' spring win-loss record now is 7-18. The Braves have won 15 and lost 12.

Buckeye Star In Dazzling Track Show

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Glenn Davis of Ohio State put on a dazzling one-man show at the Quantico Relays Saturday. He won his third gold medal of the meet in the high hurdles and personally achieved two relay triumphs for the Buckeyes.

The 23-year-old Olympic champion started out the second day of his Quantico success by upsetting Elias Gilbert in the 120-yard sprint over the hurdles. Later he anchored Ohio State's 400-yard shuttle hurdle team and came from behind to win that one.

The versatile Davis returned in the climactic mile relay and again was sensational. He closed up a 6-yard gap and bolted at the finish to carry Ohio State over Villanova.

Officials didn't bother taking a vote for the two-day meet's outstanding performer. No one rivaled Davis, the 1956 Olympic 400-meter champion and owner of the world's record for that distance.

The mile relay triumph for Ohio State gave the Big Ten an edge over the East's track powers in Saturday's major relay competition. The Mid-West won the big test as Michigan State hustled off first in the two mile and Michigan in the sprint medley.

Ohio State captured the mile and shuttle hurdles, and Morgan State scored a double among Division I schools, winning the 440 and 880-yard relays.

Among the smaller schools, North Carolina College collected three titles—the mile, 880 and 440. St. Joseph's doubled in the sprint medley and two-mile.

Davis proved his brilliance in the thrilling mile relay. Dick Payne pulled away in the waning moments to nip Phillips, in the finals of the Regional AA volleyball tournament staged at Texas Tech here Saturday, 22-18.

Phillips made it extremely rough on the Big Spring throughout the game. The victory earned the Steerettes a trip to the State meet for the second straight year. The State tournament will be held in Abilene.

Big Spring attained the finals with a 25-18 victory over Pampa. Phillips shelled Snyder, 22-12; and Andrews, 29-24, in that order.

Phillips' win-loss record is now 15-3.

In Class A play, Fort Stockton prevailed by defeating Canyon in the finals, 44-4.

In Class B Gore emerged as the titlist with a 31-25 success at the expense of Roosevelt.

Gore had moved up with wins over Witharral, 37-17; and Guthrie, 21-19, in that order.

Roosevelt had hurdled Happy, 27-9, in its semi-final test.

Peggy Isaacs, Barbara Burchett, Nita Farquhar and Lynda Glenn of the Big Spring were named to the all-tournament team, along with Layne and Burress, both of Pampa.

In Class AA, all-tournament selections were Emerson, Snyder, Armstrong, Phillips; Dickson, Phillips; Truax, Phillips; Ingram, Andrews; and Albrook, Andrews.

All-star selection in Conference A were Wim, Canyon; Shearer, Spur; Bueno, Stockton; Ramos, Stockton; Salinas, Stockton; and Salmon, Stockton.

In Class B, all-tournament picks were Jean Orsak, Gore; Jo Moore, Gore; Elizabeth Turner, Guthrie; Gloria Gray, Spade; Nahwana Lambeth, Gore; Ann Jones, Roosevelt; Williams, Roosevelt; and Linda Hendricks, Meadow.

The HCJC Jayhawk Queens of Big Spring played two exhibition games at the tournament site Thursday and won both of them.

The Queens decided Texas Tech, 25-4, with Jane Blissard and Rose Sirohan playing key roles; then kayped the Lubbock Independents, 51-3. Blissard and Sylvia Schmidt sparked in and the Queens thus ended with a 10-3 win-loss record.

ABILENE EASILY WINS DISTRICT TRACK MEET

ABILENE, April 12 (SC) — Abilene, living up to all expectations, lapped the field in winning first place in the 1958 District 2-AAAA track and field meet here Saturday, scoring 64 points to 32 for second place Midland.

Odessa was third, with 28. San Angelo had 26 while Big Spring wound up with four — the result of four fourth place finishes.

Records fell in the broad jump, discus throw, 120-yard high hurdles, 180-yard low hurdles, mile run and mile relay.

Though Abilene ran away with the meet, San Angelo's Charles Starkey was high point man, with two first places and ten points to his credit. He won the 100-yard dash in 9.9 and the 220 in 22.3. Neither was a record.

Abilene won first places in both hurdles, the sprint relay, pole vault and mile relay, in addition to splitting a first with Midland in the high jump.

San Angelo did almost as well, copping firsts in the 100, 220, 880 and shot put but couldn't rally the all-around strength the Eagles showed.

Odessa copped firsts in the discus throw and quarter mile while Midland was first in the mile run and broad jump, in addition to splitting a first with Abilene in the high jump.

The afternoon finals were run off in the rain. The moisture didn't stop Midland's Bobby Barrett from running a record 4:28.6 mile, however.

Big Spring's four points were earned by Buddy Barnes in the low hurdles, Joe McWilliams in the high hurdles, Freddy Brown in the 220 and the Steer sprint relay team.

McWilliams was clocked in 16.3 in the high hurdles. Barnes was timed in 20.8 in the lows while Gordon Bristow of the Steers had a 21.9 time in the same event.

Big Spring's time in the sprint relay was 22.8 while Gordon Bristow of the Steers had a 22.8 reading in the furlong.

The Steers qualified no one for the Regional meet.

California 14-Year-Old Sets Second Swim Mark

DALLAS (AP)—Chris Von Salta, the 14-year-old star from the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club, set her second AAU and American record of the Women's National AAU indoor swimming meet Saturday when she speared the 250-yard freestyle in 2:41.9.

This bettered her own AAU and American record of 2:42.9 set last year. Previously the comely blonde established a record of 56.8 in the 100-yard freestyle and placed her alongside Sylvia Ruskuska of the Berkeley, Calif., YMCA as a double record breaker in this meet.

Miss Ruskuska set records of 5:03.5 in the 400-yard medley and 5:44.9 in the 500-yard freestyle.

Nancy Ramey of the Seattle, Wash., Athletic Club set an AAU and American record of 2:22.9 in the 200-yard butterfly just before Miss Von Salta took her second record.

Miss Ramey's record, like Miss Von Salta's, was in the preliminaries.

It bettered both AAU and American records of 2:26.3 held by Shelly Mann of Walter Reed Swim Club, Washington, D. C.

Miss Mann, defending champion in the event, didn't compete here.

Carin Bone of Ridgewood, N.J., easily led qualifiers in the 100-yard backstroke, doing the distance in 1:04.1. Miss Cone is the defending champion and record holder at 1:03.8.

Irene MacDonald, the Canadian girl who swims for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, led Paula Jean Myers of the Encino, Calif., Swim School, defending champion

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Some one in Stanton pulled a boo-boo when Bowden Cook and Wayne Grable were not rehired as athletic coaches. . . The school is going to have to face up to its athletic responsibilities, no matter how some patrons of the school feel about the problem — either that, or cease fielding teams entirely, and I don't think anyone in Stanton wants to see that happen. . . Cook and Grable were doing fine jobs and had all the boys pulling for them. . . Prospects are good to field a football winner there next fall but the right kind of men are going to have to head up the program. . . Some observers regard Roscoe and Stanton as the toughest among the District 6-A football teams at the present time, now that Merkel has departed the conference

GENE WOODLING

Incidentally, Carroll Benson, Merkel's coach (here for the District 125-B track and field meet last Thursday) says he'd have been perfectly satisfied for his Badgers to have been left in 6-A. . . He anticipates a tough time in trying to combat the likes of Albany in District 10-A. . . Cliff Patton, the Roscoe coach, says three of those years he worked for Alex Thompson and the Philadelphia Eagles in the NFL, the profits the team showed were divided up among the players. . . Patton still regards Steve Van Buren, his one-time teammate, as the finest running back he's ever seen in action. . . Patton says Van Buren was a rarity among pro backs in that he would beg to carry the ball when the Eagles were in a huddle. . . Wayne Wallace, the ball when the Eagles were in a huddle. . . Wayne Wallace, San Angelo first sacker. . . One reason Elgin Baylor may be playing with the basketball pros rather than for Seattle University next season: His eligibility is suspect. . . When he brought his North Texas State College track team here for the ABC meet, Coach Pop Noah said he was looking for sprinters, weight men and hurdlers for next year.

Don White May Go To McMurry

Don White, Coahoma's fine football back, says he will probably wind up at McMurry College next fall. . . If he can stay free of injuries, he could do the Indians a lot of good and White says his knee, which kept him out of the sidelines for several games, no longer gives him trouble. . . Zora Foley, the Texas-born Negro who fought a draw with Eddie Machen in San Francisco last week, appeared in 75 bouts while in the Army. . . Bill Henderson, the Baylor University basketball coach who took in the last NCAA tournament, says champion Kentucky had one of the weakest teams he had seen in a long time. . . Henderson was more impressed with Temple. . . Henderson opined that the 1958 Kentucky club couldn't begin to compare with the 1948 Wildcat club, which beat his own Baylor team for the national championship. . . One of the Big Spring High School graders passed out cold in class the other day. . .

Keaton Said He Never Protested Shoe

The father of Richard Ellis, one of the brightest basketball prospects to come along at Stanton High School in years, is stationed at Webb AFB here. . . Local observers who witnessed the Donnie Fleeman-Alvin Green Light-heavyweight championship scrap in Odessa the other night say Green, the Webb airman, was robbed of the decision. . . A fraternity in Iowa State University charges each member 50 cents a month to feed a huge St. Bernard dog, which it keeps as a mascot. . . Apparently, it's not enough. . . He devours everything in sight, has eaten eight footballs, among other tidbits. . . Jerry Paul Dehlinger, second baseman for the Abilene Eagles, is the son of Bill Dehlinger, who grew up here, and one of the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. William Dehlinger. . . Paul Jorgenson, Texas' leading featherweight boxer, was born in Tallulah, La., 23 years ago. . . Jorgenson is in line for a championship bout with Hogan (Kid) Bassey. . . McCadoo Keaton, track and field coach at SMU, says he never entered a protest against Texas Tech's Dub Thornton for using that arch support for his jumping shoe in the ABC Relays here last week, and the facts back him up. . . McCadoo was used as a whipping boy by some members of the press. . . Despite the unpleasantness the problem caused, Thornton landed the local club for the show it put on. . . Bert Coan, Pasadena's track star, says he'll probably play freshman football in college and then make up his mind whether he'll concentrate on track or the grid sport. . . They say he's bound for the University of Texas. . . Wayne Grable, the Stanton coaching aide, may wind up at Anton, where he would be head basketball mentor and football assistant to Dave Smith. . . Smith had both jobs last year. . . Carlos Salazar, one of the scribes covering the ABC Relays, had his typewriter stolen while waiting for a bus here. . . He was enroute to Albuquerque's spring baseball camp at Laredo in a championship bout with Hogan (Kid) Bassey. . . McCadoo Keaton, track and field coach at SMU, says he never entered a protest

George May Joins Sponsors In Campaign Against PGA

FORT WORTH — The controversy between the PGA and the International Golf Sponsors Assn. over who is to get the tournament entry fees heated up again Saturday when George May, who cancelled $210,000 in tournaments at Chicago, joined forces with the sponsors. . . May, in cancelling his Tam O'Shanter tournaments, said he was doing so rather than give in to the demands of the PGA for the entry fees. He said a number of tournaments weren't required to hand them over. . . The ISGA, with 20 members, has its headquarters in Fort Worth where Paul Ridings is executive secretary. Ridings said May had sent in the membership fee and 1958 dues and had indicated he would take an active part in the organization's affairs. . . May said he would cut short a trip to Europe, on which he departed Saturday, in order to be back for the next meeting of the Sponsors at Clearwater, Fla., May 12 and a joint session with the PGA the following day. . . The two organizations have been at odds since last August when the PGA announced its policy of taking entry fees in place of service fees, since the former was much more. When the PGA re-

BASEBALL FANS GET PREVIEW ON MONDAY

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
The 1958 major league baseball season, opens with a sneak preview Monday and rolls into high gear Tuesday with "a new look." . . It will present a new world championship, two new major league cities, a new general manager, a new field leader, a scattering of new coaches and a flock of new faces in the playing ranks. . . For the first time in nine years there is a defending champion from a city (Milwaukee) other than New York. For the first time in history, the majors have become national in scope. . . The boundaries of the national pastime have been pushed westward some 1,500 miles to the shores of the Pacific with the advent of big league ball in Los Angeles and San Francisco. . . On the bleak side, however, the exodus of the Dodgers from Brooklyn and the Giants from Manhattan leaves New York without National League representation for the first time in more than three quarters of a century. Unless the 10-team league idea turns from rumor to reality, prospects are dim for New York to return to the National League despite occasional transfer reports from Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. . . The switch of General Manager Frank Lane from St. Louis to Cleveland is expected to live up to things in the American League. Lane already has completed a flock of trades designed to help his new manager, Bobby Bragan, pull the Indians out of the second division. With Frantic Frank showing the way, the majors completed a near record number of trades this past winter and spring. . . As a result the new season finds a goodly number of old reliables in new surroundings. Ted Kluszewski has become a Pirate, Billy Martin a Tiger, Minnie Minoso an Indian, Bobby Thomson a Cub, Harvey Haddix a Red, Wally Post a Philly, and Early Wynn a White Soxer, to name a few. . . Such glittering stars as the unfortunate Roy Campanella, George Kell, Jerry Coleman and Joe Collins are gone from the scene. Others such as Bob Lemon, Pee Wee Reese, Hank Sauer, Robin Roberts, Enos Slaughter and Sal Maglie may be having their final fling. . . But some of the game's all-time greats, Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Warren Spahn, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Willie Mays, Gil Hodges, Henry Aaron and Alvin Dark, still command tremendous respect from their rivals. . . For every great player who fades, there are several ready to take his place. Among the more publicized rookies this spring are Vada Pinson and Dutch Dotterer, Redlegs; Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland, Giants; Carleton Willey, Braves; Marty Keough and Bob Smith, Red Sox; Billy Moran and Jim Grant, Indians; Dick Gray, Dodgers; Roman Semproch, Phillies; Bennie Daniels, Pirates; Kohn Goryl, Cubs; Albie Pearson and Neil Chrisley, Senators; Ronnie Harmon, Milt Pappas and Jim Marshall, Orioles and Mike Baxes, Athletics. . . As for the pennant races, observers have chosen the Yankees and Braves to clash in another World Series. Neither club is a sure thing, however. Manager Fred Haney of the Braves feels secure but the Cards are expected to be tough with the same ball club which gave Milwaukee a terrific fight last year. The Redlegs have improved their pitching. The Dodgers still have superb pitching and the transfer to Los Angeles may act as a tonic to the familiar old "Bums." . . The Yankees have been quoted at 2 to 5 to win the pennant but may not be one of the great Yankee teams. The race should develop into a four-team scramble. The White Sox have the hitting and the Red Sox appear to be the most improved team in the league. . . Either the Red Sox or the Senators face an opportunity to get a jump on the rest of the league Monday when they clash in the majors' traditional opener in Washington. A crowd of 28,000 is expected in Griffith Stadium to see President Eisenhower throw out the first ball. The noted White House right-hander will be making his sixth opening pitch. His record is two victories and three defeats. Only the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, with a 4-4 record, participated in more openers. . . Following the President's annual pitch, a pair of proven right-handers, Boston's Frank Sullivan (14-11) and Washington's Pete Ramos (12-16) will match pitches. . . Weather permitting, the two-day program will attract around 254,000 spectators. All openers will be played in the afternoon with the exception of the Cubs-Cards game, a night affair in St. Louis. Only three times before, in 1950 and 1952 at St. Louis, and 1957 at Philadelphia, were season openers conducted at night. . . Here are Tuesday's opening games with the expected attendance in parentheses: American League—New York at Boston (25,000), Washington at Baltimore (27,000), Kansas City at Cleveland (35,000), Detroit at Chicago (25,000). . . National League—Philadelphia at Cincinnati (30,000), Pittsburgh at Milwaukee (43,000), Chicago at St. Louis (19,000), Los Angeles at San Francisco (23,400).

3 MAJOR LI'L LEAGUES OPEN DRILLS MONDAY

Three major Little Leagues in Big Spring will launch spring baseball training Monday. . . Each of the three circuits—the American, National and Texas—are prepared for the biggest seasons ever. Each has been expanded through the addition of two teams and each will have a farm club. . . Prospective players in the National league will report for workouts at the 17th and Lancaster Street diamonds at 5 p.m. each day the coming week. The play-er auction is due to take place on the night of April 18, at a site yet to be chosen. . . Boundary lines of the American and Texas leagues have been altered to the extent that Coahoma and Sand Springs are now in Texas League area. . . The Texas League will stage its workouts Monday and Tuesday in Coahoma. All players within its boundaries can attend but Coahoma boys have a special invitation to be on hand for the drills both days. . . On Wednesday, the drills will continue at the Airport school. On Friday, the scene of operations will switch to the Little League Park on North 12th Street. . . American Little Leaguers will work out daily all week on the HCJC diamond immediately west of Memorial Stadium. . . The Texas League is still in need of one major league sponsor. . . Sponsors and managers of the other teams are: Oilers—Cosden Pet. Corp., Al Valdes. . . Read Oil-Tigers, Jack Griffin. . . Clover Bowl — No nickname yet. O. F. Newell. . . Big Spring Locker Co.—Lions, Mr. Carver. . . Local 826—Locals, C. H. Harrison. . . The Texas League also has

Tuttle's Single Boosts Athletics

KANSAS CITY — Bill Tuttle singled with two out in the ninth inning and drove in Frank House with the winning run Saturday as the Kansas City Athletics took the first of a three-game series with their Missouri neighbors, the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3. . . The Cardinals had gone ahead in the eighth inning 3-2 when Don Blasingame sliced a triple down the left field line off relief pitcher Ralph Terry and rode home on a double by Eddie Kasko. Kasko then came in on Del Ennis' single to right. . . Billy Muffett, who had relieved starter Sam Jones in the seventh, held his lead through the eighth and ninth. But then the Athletics struck as Harry Chitt doubled to left field. . . Milt Graff ran for Chitt and missed a third when Ken Boyer went to tag on him after fielding Joe DeMaestri's slow roller down the line. Frank House grounded to Muffett and Graff was out at the plate, but Mike Baxes singled DeMaestri home and set the stage for Tuttle.

AAA Schools Vote On Training Ban

AUSTIN — Conference AAA schools are voting on whether to eliminate spring football practice, the Interscholastic League said Saturday. . . Conference AAA and AAAA schools are the only ones allowed to hold spring practice. They have 21 consecutive days. Class AA, and B schools do not hold practice.

Red Sox Downed By Virginians

RICHMOND, Va. — Ted Williams slammed a home run to keep his pinch-hitting record perfect, but the Boston Red Sox dropped a careless 11-7 decision to the Richmond Virginians of the Class AAA International League Saturday. . . Williams, who had walked twice and singled in previous pinch roles, took two called strikes from southpaw Jim O'Reilly, a Yankee farm-hand, then two balls before he slammed a drive over the 375-foot right field wall. . . Richmond had taken the lead by scoring six unearned runs off starter Tom Brewer in the second inning as shortstop Don Bud-din committed two errors. . . Kuzma New Coach
NEW ORLEANS — Loyola University of the South Saturday announced the signing of Henry Kuzma, one of the nation's top young small college basketball coaches, as its new head basketball coach.

Tony Kubek Will Miss Yank Debut

NEW YORK — Shortstop Tony Kubek will miss the New York Yankees' opener in Boston Tuesday and may not play for 10 days. . . The 22-year-old infielder pulled a bicep tendon behind his left knee while running bases on a muddy field during an exhibition game at Richmond, Va., Friday. . . Dr. Sidney Gaynor, club physician, examined him Saturday. "He has a pull of the tendon above and below the knee area and behind it," he said. "He won't be able to run on it for seven days." . . Manager Casey Stengel said Gil McDougald would shift from second base to shortstop, with Bobby Richardson taking over at second.

NCAA Denies It Is Out To Dent NAIA's Armor

KANSAS CITY — The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) says it isn't engaged in a battle with anyone at the moment and apparently has no intention of getting into a squabble with the National Interscholastic Athletic Assn. (NAIA) over dual membership. . . Walter Byers, executive director of NCAA, said he couldn't agree with recent charges made by NAIA that the smaller schools don't have adequate participation in affairs of college athletics on the national level. . . "Almost 200 smaller institutions have become members of the NCAA during the past seven years which seems to be positive proof that the NCAA provides services and benefits which they can't find anywhere else," Byers commented after considerable prodding. "We do not conduct membership drives or solicit members and we are really proud and grateful that our membership has increased by 88 per cent during this period." . . There has been open resentment by numerous NAIA members against the NCAA since NCAA started its college division basketball tournament two years ago.

Gail Triumphs In 120-B Meet

Nine records went by the boards in the District 120-B track and field meet, which was staged here under favorable conditions Friday. The powerful Gail Coyotes, led by Reuben Vaughn, won the meet by counting 74 1/2 points. Ackerly, winner last year, copped second with 44 1/2 points; followed by Loop, with 13 1/2; Flower Grove, 12; Klondike, 6 1/2; and Dawson, 1 1/2. . . Gail also won the junior division of the meet, counting 20 1/2 points. Flower Grove wound up second, with 18; followed by Loop, with 14; and Klondike, with 1 1/2. Dawson failed to score. . . Records were shattered in the 120-yard high hurdles, 100-yard dash, sprint relay, half-mile, 220-yard dash, mile relay, pole vault, high jump and discus in the senior division. . . Reuben Vaughn led Eddie James' Gail team to victory and wound up as the top individual scorer of the meet getting 19 1/2 points. . . Vaughn won the 100 in 10.5 seconds, the 120 in 23 flat, the high jump by leaping 5 feet 6, had a leg on the winning sprint relay

Baseball Faces Big Challenge

By FORD C. FRICK
Commissioner of Baseball
Written for The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP)—Every baseball season is interesting but the sport faces a particular challenge this year because of the move to California by the Giants and Dodgers. Within the last five years, we have attempted to modernize ourselves. How far this program will go depends on what happens in Los Angeles and San Francisco. . . To my way of thinking, we still haven't touched on the real issue of expansion. Moving one club from a two-club city may be expansion in a sense but we must be prepared to move to new frontiers to keep pace with the growth of our nation. . . I am convinced that expansion has to come. How rapidly it comes, will be determined by events on the Pacific Coast. . . Baseball's adjustment must be carried all the way down through the minor leagues. Many cities still are in a league of lower classification because they were put there 30 or 40 years ago. Population and industrial changes indicate that many are entitled to move higher. Within the next five years, I think we will see a realignment all the way through the minor leagues. . . As for the majors, I formerly talked about a third major league. I have changed. To my way of thinking, the answer now would be two 12-club leagues. Each league would have two six-team sections. The clubs would play all the teams in their own section, plus a limited number of games with the teams in the other section of the same league. At the end of the season, the two section winners would meet in a special playoff. Then the two league winners would play the World Series, as usual.

McCreary Guides Horse To Win

NEW YORK — Martins Rullah owned by George Lewis of Los Angeles, finally won a stakes race Saturday when he came from next to last place under a cool ride by Conn McCreary and accounted for the $27,250 Experimental Free Handicap at Jamaica. . . Not only did Martins Rullah qualify for next Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, but he injected himself into the Kentucky Derby picture as 3-year-olds took over the spotlight before a crowd of 40,004. . . In the preceding race, George D. Widener's undefeated Pundit ran his string to three straight when he outgamed Templeton Stable's Clendestine in another ding-dong mile and one sixteenth battle.

HC Twosome Wins Stephenville Meet

STEPHENVILLE, April 12 (SC) — Howard County Junior College's team of Jerry Scott and Bobby Blum made their first day's lead stand up in winning the Tri-State Golf Tournament championship here Saturday.

The Jayhawks, with Scott's 54-hole score of 215 playing the lead role, beat out Odessa's combination of Danny Mason and Ed Moore by nine strokes to cop the title and with it an 18-inch trophy.

Scott put together rounds of 72-72-71 to earn medalist honors and a 12-inch cup. Blum was almost as sharp. He finished runner-up to Scott in the individual race, with a 219 aggregate. Par was 216 for the 54 holes.

Blum toured the course in 74 strokes his first time around, then came in with a 72 and followed with a 73. Mason finished five strokes back of Scott, with a 221, while Moore was one stroke off that pace.

San Angelo College's combination of John Gandy and Don Turner scored a 461 for third place, one stroke lower than Odessa's second team, composed of Jerry Mobley and Les Howard.

Kilgore was fifth. It's team of Carl Jones and Kelly Skipper wound up with a 474 aggregate. Kilgore also had the sixth place team, the Ranger second teamers had a 476 aggregate.

Then followed Tarleton, with 477; Amarillo, 482; Tarleton's second team, 488; Tarleton's third team, 491; Arlington, 497; San Antonio JC, 503; and Frank Phillips, 515.

Cameron Okla.; Weatherford and Arlington entered other teams which did not finish.

In all, 11 colleges entered 18 teams. Scott was one-under par for the 54 holes. The sweep to the title marked the first time this year the Hawks have been able to beat Odessa in golf.

After 27 holes had been completed Friday, HCJC led Odessa and Kilgore by six strokes. HCJC had a 218 while Odessa and Kilgore each wound up with a 224.

A sprinkle has started to fall as the linksters were finishing. Here's the way the six low players progressed to their scores.

MEET SET JUNE 16

Big Spring 1 Of 5 New Publix Sites

NEW YORK (AP)—The growing national public links golf championship will require 42 qualifying sections—five more than last year, the U. S. Golf Assn. said Saturday.

The 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds will be played on various dates from June 14 through June 21. These will qualify 148 players for the championship proper at the North Course of the Silver Lake Golf Club, Orlando Park, Ill., July 1-2. Last year's champion and runner-up are exempt.

Sectional qualifying sites were added at Washington, D. C.; Fargo, N. D.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Austin and Big Spring, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo. The one at Baltimore was dropped.

The tournament attracted 1,923 entries last year, when it was played at Hershey, Pa. An even greater number is expected this year with the tournament at a central location.

The two exempt players, if still eligible, and the sectional qualifiers will play a 36-hole qualifying competition at the tournament site July 7-8. This will determine the team championship for the spring series with one game remaining in Philadelphia Sunday.

A small crowd of 3,567 sat in chilly, cloudy weather as the Yankees made their 1958 debut at a 420-foot into the center field bleachers in the fourth inning and a 330-foot drive into the right field stands in the sixth. Both blows came off reliever Ray Semproch. They were the seventh and eighth of the spring for the slugger.

Robin Roberts gave two singles and didn't walk a man in his first three-innings. He will open against the Redlegs in Cincinnati Tuesday.

Semproch pitched four-hit ball for four frames, including Mantle's jolts, and Angelo LipPetr finished up, allowing only an infield hit.

Turley was rapped for a run in the second when Rip Repulski's sacrifice fly scored Harry Anderson who had doubled and advanced to third on an infield out.

Two more Philly runs came in the fourth on Gran Hamner's double, a walk and singles by Repulski and Wally Post.

The teams' leading hitters stayed hot. Hamner's double extended his hitting streak to 14 games, all he has played in, and his average is .509. Moose Skowron got two singles and is batting .438 for the Bombers.

White Sox Triumph

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—The Chicago White Sox collected only three hits Saturday, but they were a pair of homers and a single good for a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Jim Landis and Bubba Phillips hit solo homers in the second and eighth innings, respectively. Tito Francona singled across two runs in the first inning.

Savitt Is Seeded First In Meet

HOUSTON (AP)—Dick Savitt was seeded first Saturday for Monday's opening of the River Oaks Country Club Tennis Tournament.

Three other players among the nation's top 10 amateurs will play, they include Hamilton Richardson, who won here in 1956 while holding a No. 1 ranking nationally.

Foreign stars as Mervyn Rose, Don Candy and Warren Woodcock of Australia, and Luis Ayala of Chile are also entered.

A year ago Rose lost to Herb Flam in the Oaks finals, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4. Flam is not here this year.

Richardson has been seeded second. He will be followed by Barry Mackay and Ayala. Other favorites will not be rated until Monday night. Richardson does not hold a current national ranking. Mackay is No. 5. Other ranked players are Tut Bartzon, No. 9, Bill Quillan, No. 10, and Sammy Giammalva, No. 16.

McHan Is Signed

CHICAGO (AP)—Lamar McHan, the Chicago Cardinals' regular quarterback for the last four seasons, has signed his 1958 contract.

Bilko Massacres Enemy Hurling

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore and Cincinnati traded 3-2 decisions in an exhibition doubleheader Saturday. The Orioles captured the opener on Bob Nieman's seventh-inning pinch single and the Redlegs took the nightcap with an unearned run in the ninth.

The first game, in which catcher Ed Bailey clouted his fourth spring homer with one Redleg mate aboard in the fifth frame, was called with two out in the Cincinnati eighth by virtue of a pre-arranged curfew agreement.

First baseman Steve Bilko socked a double and two singles in this fray to pace an eight-hit Redleg attack, while the Orioles collected six safeties off Brooks Lawrence, Bob Purkey and loser Bob Kelly.

Three of these—singles by Al Pilarcik, Jim Marshall and Gene Woodling, plus a sacrifice fly by Joe Ginsberg—accounted for two Baltimore tallies before Nieman's single scored Brooks Robinson from second base with the decisive run in the seventh. George Zuverink, second of three Baltimore pitchers, got the win.

It was the inability of Robinson to hold onto catcher Gene Triandos' peg on an attempted steal of third by rookie Vada Pinson that decided the nightcap for Cincinnati.

WHERE STYRENE WILL BE TURNED INTO CLEAR GRADE PLASTIC MATERIAL
Cosden Petroleum's new polystyrene facility due to begin operation on May 21

Cosden's Huge Polystyrene Plant Is Nearing Completion

A big polystyrene facility—the first to be fully integrated into an oil processing operation—is nearing completion at Cosden Petroleum Corporation's plant area east of here. May 21 is the target date for production.

Reactors and other equipment are in position and the equipment of one piece, the machinery is ready. The massive building, with its 60 x 180-foot space cloaked in corrugated transite siding in translucent panels, is complete except for minor finish work.

The main thing remaining is the completion of the piping system for flow of materials through the processes which will convert Cosden's styrene monomer (a liquid) into polystyrene (a solid for clear plastics).

Cosden is adding another "first" to its impressive record of industrial pioneering because this will be the first such plant to be integrated completely into other steps connected with the processing of crude oil.

Existing polystyrene plants get their raw material from outside sources. Cosden's will draw its charge stock directly from its styrene unit which turns out 20,000,000 pounds of high grade styrene monomer per year.

Cosden's styrene facility was the first of its kind to be put into operation, breaking industrial barriers to get ethyl-benzene from the xylene stream of its BTS (benzene-toluene-sylene) unit. The BTS unit looks to the aeromatics in the straight run gasoline for its supply, and of course the gasoline is a product of the crude oil stills. Thus from crude oil to plastic pellets, it's all in one big plant at Cosden.

Reactors, in a double-decked arrangement, rise to a maximum height of about 40 feet so that part of the plant building is as high as a four-story building.

Blaw-Knox has handled construction of the $2 million project for Cosden and some 85 men are engaged in the construction. In one respect it is comparatively novel for Cosden—instead of sending up towering fractionating columns this one has the appearance of a big factory building. The use of the corrugated panels, however, takes it out of the ordinary class in appearance and gives it a striking modernistic effect.

Building Cutback Follows Adverse Court Decision

HOUSTON — The president of Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. said Friday the firm had cut its building plans this year by about 60 per cent.

Gardiner Symonds said the pull-back resulted from a ruling by a District of Columbia court of appeals which is referred to as the Memphis decision.

Pipeline companies have been filing new tariff schedules with the FPC and starting to collect the higher rate six months later. Any such increases were subject to refund if the Commission rejected the rate hike.

The court held that rate increases may not go into effect unless gas customers agree. The ruling, industry circles said, might force pipelines to refund their customers 217 million dollars now and millions later.

Symonds told stockholders the company is trying to negotiate with customers for new agreements that would solve the problems arising from the Memphis decision.

The company declared a quarterly dividend of 35 cents per share for the second quarter of 1958 on the firm's 18,968,250 shares of outstanding common stock. It totals more than $6,693,000 and is payable June 16 to holders on record May 23.

The board also voted quarterly dividends aggregating $2,168,000 on the preferred stock, payable July 1 to holders of record June 6.

Cosden To Spud Stonewall Test

Cosden spudded a new 7,100-foot wildcat in Stonewall County at the end of the week and was in the process of completing ventures in Andrews and Ector counties also.

The Cosden No. 1-A Alexander was spudded this weekend. The wildcat is five miles north of Hamlin, 1,980 from north and east lines of Section 4, Austin and Williams Survey No. 349.

In Andrews, Cosden was completing the No. 1 Bryant-Link at 7,130 feet, and in Ector, the Cosden No. 1-W Cowden underwent potential test. Also in Ector, Cosden No. 1-S Cowden drilled at 3,500 feet.

Cosden No. 1 Sumerlin, in the Fullerton field of Andrews, waited on cement to set intermediate string at 1,780 feet.

New Locations In Snyder Pool Due

A new location has been staked in the Snyder field this weekend and Mesa Petroleum announced completion of a well in the Howard-Glasscock field.

The new site is Rankin & Wilson No. 1-B TXL about seven miles southeast of Coahoma. Drill-site is 990 from west and 330 from north lines, 35-30-1s, T&P Survey.

It will drill to 3,400 feet. In the Howard-Glasscock field, Mesa No. 7 W. T. Scott produced 26.22 barrels of 32-degree oil on 24-hour potential test after fracturing with 1,500 gallons. The well is 990 feet from north and 330 from east lines, 93-29, W&NW Survey.

Total depth is 1,361 feet, and operator hit pay in the Yates at 1,344. Production is from open hole.

Ready To Take Test At Ackerly

Cosden Petroleum Corp. prepared to take potential test at a project in the Ackerly (Dean) field of Borden County.

The Cosden No. 1 J. J. Cosby Estate was bottomed at 2,340 feet in the Dean sand Saturday, and operator fraced getting ready to run final test.

The project is four miles east of Ackerly, 578 from north and 550 from east lines, 6-33-3n, T&P Survey.

In the same Ackerly (Dean) field, Cosden No. 2 Shortes deepened to 7,332 feet.

Harper & Huffman, No. 1 Frank Miller, a wildcat eight miles north-east of Gail, waited on cement to set intermediate string at 2,672 feet Saturday. The Ellenburger wildcat is C NW NW, 1-30-5n, T&P Survey.

Area Drilling In Small Gain

Rotary drilling activity continued on an even keel for the second straight week and showed even a slight increase.

The count on Friday of active rotary units in the Basin, taken by Reed Roller Bit Co., showed 353 units in operation, as compared with 350 for April 4. The 353 is also the average for the first 10 weeks of the year.

Lea County, N. M., continued as the individual area leader with 45 active units, same as last week, and Winkler was again second, although dropping to 36.

Howard County gained one to seven.

The overall picture (with April 4 totals in parentheses) include Andrews 29 (33), Borden 7 (6), Cochran 1 (1), Coke 6 (7), Chaves 2 (2), Crane 20 (15), Crockett 8 (5), Culberson 3 (4), Dawson 5 (6), and Dickens 2 (2).

Also Ector 33 (34), Eddy 4 (7), Fisher 8 (5), Gaines 7 (10), Garza 10 (9), Glasscock 3 (3), Guadalupe 1 (1), Hockley 4 (4), HOWARD 7 (6), Irion 1 (2), Kent 1 (2), Lea 45 (45), Lubbock 1 (1), Loving 4 (5), and Lynn 3 (3).

Others surveyed include Martin 4 (4), Midland 6 (4), Mitchell 2 (2), Nolan 9 (6), Pecos 20 (19), Reagan 4 (4), Roosevelt 4 (3), Runnels 7 (5), Scurry 9 (8), Schleicher 2 (3), Sterling City 2 (2), Stonewall 4 (5), Terry 1 (2), Terrell 2 (2), Upton 8 (9), Ward 11 (5), Winkler 36 (40), Yoakum 8 (8), and Permian Basin totals 353 (350).

Completions Near 4,000

AUSTIN — Another 245 oil wells were brought in this week, the Texas Railroad Commission said Saturday. This increased the daily oil allowable by 11,407 barrels.

For the 3,996 wells have been brought in compared to 4,693 a year ago. Thirteen gas wells were completed, bringing to 614 for the year compared to 523 this date in 1957.

Wildcaters failed to strike on gas wells but hit on five oil wells. The number of oil wells brought in from unproven territory is only 116 compared to 165 for this date last year.

For the week, 139 wells were plugged, included 99 dry holes.

Garza Wildcat Is Set West Of Post

Threeway Drilling Co. of Midland has announced location of a San Andres wildcat about 3 1/2 miles north and west of Post in Garza County.

The try is Threeway No. 1 S. C. Storie and will drill to 4,400 feet seeking San Andres production. Drillsite is 974 feet west of the west lines of Survey No. 1, Scrap File No. 1,439, and 2,357 feet north of the north line of Section 1,311, TTRR Survey.

OIL LIFTING STUDY SLATED

LUBBOCK — Six hundred men from all phases of the petroleum industry are expected to attend the fifth anniversary meeting of the West Texas Oil Lifting Short Course Thursday and Friday at Texas Tech.

W. I. Ducker, Tech petroleum engineering department head, and Short Course board chairman, said this year's program would be the largest and most diversified in the history of the annual meeting.

More than 50 papers on all phases of oil lifting will be given by experts from the field during the two-day meeting. Enrollment for the course will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday in the foyer of the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on the north end of the Tech campus.

The first general session will begin at 10 a.m. in the auditorium.

Domestic Output At 41-Month Low

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON — Domestic crude oil production has dropped to its lowest point in 41 months.

Production is 20 per cent below the record level attained in March 1957 during the Suez-Canal crisis that disrupted the flow of Middle East oil to Western Europe.

Since that all-time high, domestic production has been slashed 1,568,256 barrels a day. Producer income has been slashed by over four million dollars a day.

Domestic producers have seen the gains made during the Middle East emergency wiped out and also have seen their output drop 731,015 barrels a day below the average that was being maintained at the closing of the Suez.

United States output last week averaged 6,250,135 barrels a day, compared to a record 7,818,400 the week ending March 22, 1957, and 6,981,150 the week bombs fell on the canal in late 1956.

The 6,250,135 barrels a day level is the lowest since the week ending Nov. 5, 1954, when the average was 6,191,350.

Production slashes in Texas have been sharper than the national average. In March of last year Texas was producing 3,333,000 barrels of crude a day or 42 per cent of the nation's output.

Last week's Texas average was 2,254,500 barrels or 36 per cent of domestic production.

Against the national average of 20 per cent, Texas has cut its crude flow by 32 per cent or 1,078,500 barrels a day within 13 months. The loss to Texas producers amounts to nearly three million dollars a day.

The sharp drop in crude production does not reflect all the cutbacks the oil industry has effected during the prolonged period of readjustment since Suez. The nation's petroleum refiners last week were operating at an estimated 77 per cent of capacity, compared to 91 per cent a year earlier.

Faint Hope Held For Gas Bill Action This Session

WASHINGTON — Although some supporters of the Natural Gas Bill say it's dead, there's one who sees a chance it may be passed this year.

"I think there is still a chance," said Rep. Belcher (R-Okla.). The Fulbright-Harris Bill passed by the House in 1956 and by the Senate, 52-38, but was vetoed by President Eisenhower. The President said that while he favored the principles of the bill, he objected to lobbying in its behalf.

That bill would have exempted natural gas producers from all federal regulation. The Harris-O'Hara Bill now pending in the House wouldn't go that far. It would, however, ease federal controls.

The FPC would be permitted, however, to regulate prices paid producers on a reasonable market price basis.

"The Texas incident," said Belcher, "afforded the enemies of the bill some propaganda and it also permitted proponents to have a good excuse if the bill failed to pass."

Jack Porter, Texas Republican national committeeman, wrote inviting the purchase of tickets to a $100 a-plate-dinner at which House Republican Leader Martin (R-Mass) was honor guest. He mentioned Martin's support of the gas bill.

The Power Commission has reported increases in both the operating revenues and the operating expenses of interstate natural gas pipeline companies.

Operating revenues of the reported companies, FPC said, were $271,081,896 in January this year, a 12.8 per cent increase over the same month a year ago.

Half-Way To New Record

Merkel's Manley Denton shuttles the baton to Joe Neill to start the third leg of Merkel's record-breaking performance in the 440-yard relay of the 125-B track meet held here Thursday. In the background are runners of Roby (on either side of the Merkel pair) and Rotan (at far right). Merkel had a winning time of 46.4 to break the record set by the same team last year, and Roby and Rotan finished in a tie for fourth in the event.

Revamped Texas League Set For 63rd Season

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas League whose future was clouded last winter but which emerged with two new cities and a new operator at Dallas as one of the solidest of the minors, opens its 63rd race next Friday.

President Dick Butler viewed the 154-game campaign with optimism. He said if the weather was favorable and there's a good crowd, the season should again produce a one million plus in attendance.

Last season rain and cold caused more postponements and hampered attendance greater than any race in history for the first month. The league is opening its campaign the latest yet in order to combat the bad weather jinx.

Last year the season started nine days earlier. Shreveport and Oklahoma City are no more. The former sold its franchise to Victoria after 17 straight seasons in the league. Oklahoma City transferred its franchise to Corpus Christi and will be without Texas League baseball for the first time in 22 years.

The crux of the trouble came when the Burnett interests turned in the Dallas franchise and said they would operate no further here unless they could get into a league of higher classification. It appeared for a time that Dallas might not have a club in the league. But finally J. W. Bateson, wealthy Dallas contractor, stepped in to take over the franchise and lease the baseball plant owned by the Burnett interests.

Not only will the league open the season with two new cities but it will have six new managers. Davey Williams will direct Dallas; Lou Klein, Fort Worth; Ray Murray, Corpus Christi; Lou Rochelli, Victoria; Harry Lowrey, Austin, and Grady Hatton, San Antonio. Holdover managers are Al Widmar at Tulsa and Harry Walker at Houston. All are playing managers except Rochelli.

Practice Drags Slated Today

The Aces Auto Club will hold practice drag runs on the racing strip at Webb AFB this afternoon. Spectators will not be encouraged to attend, this event is for test purposes only.

Entry fee is 50 per person, which entitles the holder to a pit pass, as well as insurance. Any boy with a dragster who desires to race a friend is eligible to enter.

Giles Foresees Record Season

By WARREN GILES
President, the National League
Written for The Associated Press
CINCINNATI (AP)—One needn't be an optimist to predict the most successful season for the National League in 1958. The debut of the Dodgers in Los Angeles and the Giants in San Francisco; increased advance ticket sales by all our clubs; prospects of another hot pennant battle—these form the basis for a genuine optimistic outlook.

The enthusiasm generated by the addition of Los Angeles and San Francisco would, in itself, guarantee a most interesting season. Not only the Dodgers and Giants, but all our clubs, will receive a royal welcome in these two great cities and I am confident the enthusiasm on the West Coast will increase as those fans get a first-hand taste of big league ball.

In addition, however, we have every reason to anticipate a great pennant race—another of the kind that has become a National League trademark, it was branded an "optimist" when I predicted, at this time last year, another race such as we enjoyed in 1956. Though we didn't have the "spine-tlingling" finish of the '56 race when the Dodgers, Braves and Redlegs went down to the wire, we did have a real thriller. You will recall that five of our clubs (the Braves, Cardinals, Dodgers, Redlegs and Phillies) were nipped and tucked all the way into August. That had never happened before in all of major-league history.

I have said many times, in recent years, that the National League's over-all strength makes it the best balanced league I've ever seen and the pennant races of the past few years have justified that contention. I think the Braves will have a more difficult time in 1958 than they encountered last year, and am sure they realize it. Fred Haney preached a gainst overconfidence all spring and, judging by what I saw of our other clubs in spring training, he was wise in so doing.

The Cardinals made a fine impression on me and it is apparent the club has lost none of the strength that made it a serious challenger to the Braves all of last year. I also liked what I saw of the Phillies who have some really solid pitching and should pack additional power this year.

because it has lost such stars as Billy Muffett, Benny Valenzuela and Phil Clark to the majors.

Houston and Fort Worth, which will get its material from the Chicago Cubs, will probably be co-favorites when the race starts. "But I believe the clubs are all more evenly matched than last year," said Butler.

Tulsa will be at Fort Worth, Dallas at Austin, Victoria at Houston and San Antonio at Corpus Christi to open the season Friday night. The clubs change stands Sunday with Austin at Dallas, Fort Worth at Tulsa, Houston at Victoria and Corpus Christi at San Antonio.

Umpires named for the season are Al Smith, Bill Malesky, Hank Stein, Don Fisher, Frank Walsh, Lloyd Harper, Jim Odum, Serge Schuster, Bill Smeathen, Bill Vakentine, Len Roberts and Mike Runyan. Roberts and Runyan are new.

BIG LEAGUERS DEBUT ON COAST TUESDAY

By JACK STEVENSON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Major league baseball on the West Coast, a goal for decades, becomes reality on Tuesday when the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers open their 1958 National League season here.

A throng of 23,400 farsighted and quick acting fans will watch Mayor George Christopher throw out the ball that ushers in a new baseball era for California, a home for the minors since the turn of the century.

President H. R. Grace Stoneham, who moved his Giants from New York's Polo Grounds to San Francisco in the face of dropping attendance, says only the physical restrictions of Seals Stadium kept the opening day crowd below 90,000. More than $200,000 had to be returned to fans who ordered after the sellout of last Dec. 1.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles will skip the opening of the world champion Milwaukee Braves to see the California inaugural. Mrs. John McGraw, widow of the most famed of the Giants' managers, will be an honored guest.

Missing the opening day will be pay TV, acknowledged as a motivating influence in the shift of the Giants franchise here and that of Brooklyn to Los Angeles. It may be ready for 1959, the season the Giants expect to move into a new park with a 45,000 capacity. Until then they play in the old home of the San Francisco Seals, a former bulwark of the Pacific Coast League.

Taking advantage of the traditional San Francisco-Los Angeles rivalry, the two clubs play here Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon. Then they go to Los Angeles for games Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Dodgers for this season and next play their games in the Los Angeles Coliseum, a vast edifice with 101,000 seats. Transforming this track and football stadium into one for baseball brought some howls because it's only 250 feet to the left field fence. To compensate a 42-foot high barrier was erected.

Civic celebrations are planned both in San Francisco and Los Angeles with parades and banquets. San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney introduces his players at a Monday noon luncheon with Frick, Giles and Dodger Manager Walter Alston also in attendance along with Stoneham and other Giant brass.

Harridge Sure Of Prosperity

By WILL HARRIDGE
President, American League
Written for The Associated Press
CHICAGO (AP)—The American League, with improved league balance, which I feel will produce a good pennant race, and with excellent ticket sales reported by every club, should enjoy a banner season in 1958.

As champions, the New York Yankees will be difficult to dethrone. Under Casey Stengel, the Yankees have standout stars such as Mickey Mantle, Bill Skowron, Whitey Ford, Gil McDougald and Yogi Berra backed up by younger players certain to be improved through experience.

Their chances at gaining a rough straight flag, however, should be rugged because of the improved strength of several clubs. Boston's Red Sox, on their fine spring showing, could be the most improved over 1957, with better hurling, a settled infield and a standout outfield built around Ted Williams, one of baseball's all-time greats.

The Chicago White Sox, good enough to win 90 games last season, should be a solid contender from the start with a tight defense, excellent team speed and fine pitching. Baltimore, which played excellent ball to finish fifth last year, could reach the first division through winter trades and marked improvement of several young players. Detroit, handicapped by inconsistent pitching which slowed the club during the training season, will be a tough club to beat with such standouts as Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn, Charley Maxwell, Ray Bonne and Jim Bunning.

RELAYS FILMS ARE AT RITZ

Action films of the 1958 American Business Club Relays, which featured the 100-yard dash between Dave Sime and Bobby Morrow, will be shown as part of Metro News at the Ritz Theatre today and Monday.

Arrival of the films surprised the Robb of the theatre chain somewhat, since it had never been confirmed that Metro would have a cameraman here, although he had extended an invitation to them.

Universal Newsreel is also due to screen pictures of the race here at a later date.

Morrison Defeats College Heights

Kate Morrison achieved two victories over College Heights in Elementary School softball league games played on the College Heights diamond Friday.

The Morrison A team won, 13-1, behind the six-hit hurling of Emilio Ramirez after the Bees had prevailed, 15-3.

Manny Pineda led the Maroons' attack, in the A game, getting four hits in four tries.

Each of Morrison's team has won twice in two league outings.

Pleased With Texas

A pair of friendly New Englanders and their Florida puppy are enthusiastically making their acquaintance with Texas. Lt. and Mrs. Gardner Brewer, who call Massachusetts home, came to Big Spring via a six-month assignment in Winter Haven, Florida. That's where they found Tuppy Bit, the cocker.

Introduction To Texas Pleases Annapolis Graduate And Wife

Last month, 18 graduates of the U. S. Naval Academy and 35 graduates of the U. S. Military Academy, along with their families, came to Big Spring to form almost half of jet pilot Class 59-B at Webb AFB.

They are scheduled to receive their wings September 3. Meanwhile, though, the community can get to know and enjoy these young folk, such as 2nd Lt. and Mrs. Gardner Brewer.

This is the Brewers' first exposure to Texas and, despite the initiation to sand storms, they recite their good fortune in being stationed here. They came here March 10 from Florida, for six months Lt. Brewer was assigned to Bartow Air Base, and the couple resided in Winter Haven, where she responded to the teacher shortage by taking the third and fourth grades.

Both of them hail from Melrose, Mass. They "went steady" from the time she was a sophomore and he a junior in high school there. He had a year at Dartmouth before Annapolis. She received her degree from MacMurray College for Women at Jacksonville, Ill.

The sports-minded couple skis, swims, golfs, and plays tennis. They also like to camp and play bridge, and Mrs. Brewer, a musician at heart, is an organist, who would like to keep up her practicing.

In addition to all these interests, the Brewers have a live hobby, Tuppy Bit is a 12-week-old registered cocker spaniel whose coat is the palest of blondes. She is the offspring of show dogs and won the hearts of her future owners when they were in Winter Haven.

C-City Club Gives Tea For Founders

COLORADO CITY—The Hesperian Daughters of Colorado City honored their mother club with a tea Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. H. Rudd. The occasion is an annual affair honoring the Hesperian Club; this year marked the 30th anniversary of the host club.

The tea used the theme of International Relations Day, and the motif of the Rudd home was Chinese. The Brownsie, troop sponsored by the Hesperian Daughters gave a program on China; Dr. Seth Cowan lectured and showed slides taken during his two-year tour of duty in Turkey.

In addition to Mrs. Rudd, co-hostesses of the tea were Mrs. Don Albright and the Hesperian Daughters, Mrs. L. H. Rudd Sr. of Burleson was a guest.

Reservation Deadline Set For Luncheon Of All Forum Units

Final plans for the Forum luncheon, to be held Wednesday, were made at the meeting of the Modern Woman's Forum when members gathered at the home of Mrs. J. D. Leonard on Friday afternoon.

For the affair, to be held at Cosden Country Club, members must make reservations before Monday evening by calling Mrs. Leonard AM 4-5954, it was announced.

Mrs. A. C. Bass, delegate to the district meeting, recently held in Alpine, reported that Mrs. B. F. Seay of Andrews had been elected president of the district; the next convention site was announced as Pecos.

Speaker for the afternoon was D. W. A. Hunt, whose topic was "Picture of Higher Education." He discussed the problems faced by education for at least the next 10 years.

One obstacle in higher education's progress, he told the group, is the lack of adequate classrooms. The shortage will be intensified, he said, by the increase in registration of the young people born during the war years.

The speaker told of the assistance given by federal aid in securing buildings, but he admonished that more private help is needed. As an example of the good gained from private sources, he cited the Student Union Building now being built at Howard County Junior College.

Another problem discussed by Dr. Hunt was the shortage of teachers. He remarked that in the next five years there will be probably be 45,000 teachers entering the profession. In order to keep them, he recommended that salaries be made more attractive.

A question and answer period followed the discussion.

House Plans In J. R. Hensley Home Changed By Englishman's Bed

By ANNE LEFEVER
The late G. H. Seymour, one-time Lord Mayor of London, would probably be quite impressed could he but know how he was responsible for changing the house plans of a home in Big Spring.
Seems the J. R. Hensleys, in planning their new home at 518 Edwards Circle, desired the ground floor on one level. However, because of a bed, once owned by Seymour, the floor of the bedroom wing was made about two feet lower than the remainder of the home in order that there might be space for the bed and its high canopy.
And what's so special about the bed? According to a silver medalion affixed to the ornate head of the huge four poster, "At the Mansion House York on the 23th of October, 1850, H. R. H. Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, slept in this bed, property of G. H. Seymour, who was Lord Mayor at that time."
Fashioned of a dark wood, which might be ebony or teakwood, the bed is topped by a canopy of wood with side curtains of blue brocade. Much elaborate carving decorates the large posts, the head and the footboard.
Tempo of the spacious and livable home is set at the entrance-way to the home, where the terrazo floor of pink Mexican tile is continued into the hall and family room. Comfort and ease of hospitality come from the inviting furnishings and harmonious blending of colors.
High point of interest in the living room, done in cranberry, blue and sand tones, is the large square

Steinway piano, which is about 200 years old. The carving on the rosewood instrument attests to its age.
Wide doors open into the family room with its walls of birch in a fruitwood finish; in here, are draw draperies of brown and beige, which open to disclose a wide view of the patio and garden, now in the process of being made.
One chair repeats the fabric of the curtains, while others pick up the tones of the corner divan or serve as accent pieces. A round table, painted pink to complement the shade of the floor, stands conveniently near the book shelves for study or for a late evening snack.
Antique copper glows warmly in the kitchen, where a wide, shallow cabinet is glass-fronted to show the sparkle of clear and colored glasses for a variety of uses. Birch again fashions the walls and forms a fitting background for the copper ovens and refrigerator.
A table, with glass top, and chairs in a delicate dusky pink are pretty enough to bring a sleepy-head out of his dreams for breakfast, or it will serve for lunch or family supper. In the more formal dining room, walls in a muted green are broken by a large window framed in draw draperies in a pleasing shade.
Bedrooms and adjoining baths portray the color preferences of the individual members of the family. The master bedroom is done in browns, beige, yellow and green.
Upstairs, the bedroom with the blue tones belongs to Mrs. H. D. Munal, mother of Mrs. Hensley, and to Kandy, the young lady of the household.
Bright scarlet bedspreads cover the twin beds in the room of Randy and Bill, and gay red, white and black curtains cover the windows. Gray, red and black are repeated in the bath—with surprise—a solid red ceiling! Pretty, too.
The upstairs area also houses a sewing room and another bedroom for guests, with a hall spacious enough for members of the family to use as a refuge when the lower floor is the scene of merrymaking.

World's Fair Girl Guides Shun Sack

AP Newfeatures
American girls who will serve as guides at the Brussels World's Fair have shunned chemise lines for simple tailoring.
Their uniform is an informal daytime suit in grey wool and dacron, loosely fitted. The skirt is permanently pleated. A white nylon blouse is worn under the jacket, which has three-quarter length sleeves.
The outfit is topped by a gold sateen beret. The shoes are specially designed Capezos.
Although the guides are not raving about it, they think it is practical. They have two complete outfits for the six months they will be on duty in the American pavilion.
The costume is designed to blend with interior decorations of the pavilion.
Male guides will wear dark, striped sport coats and grey slacks.

Decorations

During the 18th and 19th centuries it was quite fashionable to replace unsightly teeth with carefully matched healthy ones. These were obtained from desperate men and women who would sell their own teeth to earn some money.

Carry-Overs

The Middle Ages abounded with hundreds of legends and superstitions concerning teeth. We still refer to "eye-teeth" and "wisdom teeth," a carry-over from the medieval belief that the eyes and mind were strongly tied up with the teeth.

For Water, Sun

The matelasse textured surface of a wool knit swim suit is both newswy and smart for the water and sun bathing season. Just around the corner, a panel front maillot, it has a square neckline in front and a deep V in the back and is as comfortable as your skin. The natural resilience of wool and its affinity for dye add to the desirability of the suit which comes in a rosy red, black, blue, soft green and other colors.

MRS. MILTON HOLCOMB FORTSON

Milton Fortson Takes Bride In Midland Ceremony On Saturday

Double ring rites were read for Barna Margaret Dougherty and Milton Holcomb Fortson Saturday afternoon in the chapel of First Baptist Church of Midland.

The ceremony was performed as the bride stood before a background of emerald fern, with baskets of white gladioli and carnations accenting the greenery. Seven-branched candelabra were decorated with arrangements of same flowers in sunburst design. Pews for the families were marked with white satin ribbon.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Fortson, 1106 Sycamore. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. S. C. Dougherty of Midland and the late Mr. Dougherty.

Wedding music consisted of the vocal numbers, "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee," which were sung by Mrs. Harlan T. Howell, accompanied by Mrs. Maudell Meredith.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE
S. Fred Dougherty gave his sister in marriage. She chose for her bridal gown a model of white tulle and hand-clipped Chantilly lace. A mandarin collar topped a yoke of tulle, which completed the fitted bodice of lace, joined to the full skirt of lace and tulle; appliques of the lace decorated the lower part of the skirt.

Tiny leaves of tulle were dotted with pearls to form a shell hat of lace and tulle; the miniature brim was embroidered with sequins and held an illusion fingertip veil.

On a white Bible, the bride carried a bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis. Tied with narrow picoté ribbon in love knots, the flowers were highlighted with pearl hearts and nylon tufts.

Frankie Ratliff of Midland was the only feminine attendant. She was attired in a frock of peacock blue taffeta similar to that of the bride. Her shoes and hat were of the same shade, and she carried a styled hand bouquet of yellow carnations, showered with nylon tufts and yellow satin ribbon.

Arnold Ray Fortson of Big Spring attended his brother as best man. Another brother, Joe E. Fortson of Big Spring, and Gerald T. Buchanan of Plainview seated the guests.

At the reception, which was held in the banquet hall of the church, the bridal couple received guests assisted by their parents, the brother of the bride and Miss Ratliff.

Mrs. Bill Clinton was at the guest register. The bride's table was decorated with arrangements

Watches Are New Note For Spring

For spring, the fashion watch is the newest note. It may be a bracelet, a new long-line necklace, a lapel pin for a suit. The costume watch in any of its new forms provides a light, bright touch to freshen up your winter clothes, to spark your new spring outfit.

The fashion watch is worn anywhere—around the neck on a long chain or rope of beads, or it may be a charm bracelet or a lapel pin. It may be strictly a "suit watch," a whimsical figurine or a jewelry item to complement anything you own.

One of the new watches of the spring collections is a basket-weave circlet for the wrist with tassled end and a buckle enclosing a smart watch. A bejeweled pair takes a cue from "The Wizard of Oz." Still another watch is in a treasure-box bangle set with a large brilliant, suspended from a heavy link chain. Many are designed especially for the lean chemise.

One new watch has a petite round face and comes with three interchangeable straps. Another is a smooth golden cuff, perfect for a sleek tailored dress. Some do double duty, like a long necklace of mock pearls, which holds a fleur-de-lis and pearl-circled watch. Both pieces may be worn separately.

The watch face may show, or it may be hidden under a flip-up top or a crown of rhinestones. It may be the head of a small figure or the center of a charm. One thing these timepieces have in common is that each is a smart fashion accessory, made to accent the new spring styles.

Timekeeping? Of course! While the accuracy wouldn't suit a railroad man, these new watches keep good time in normal use. Equipped with one-to-seven-jewel Swiss movements, inset second hands, and steel backs, they are more than dependable enough for you to enjoy without having to wear your wristwatch, too!

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

The last Easter visitors are about all home again, and the college students are well on their way to studying right through to the end of school.

One Easter visitor who delayed her return to North Texas State College was MARILYN DOAN; she came home to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Doan. Marilyn has returned now after having her holidays brightened by a case of three-day measles. Her roommate, Claudine Ratliff, returned to classes for the regular schedule after visiting the Doans.

When MR. AND MRS. WARD HALL and Linda were in Denver, Colo., they were met by former residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Ward and their children, who took them to their ranch at Fort Collins for a visit.

MRS. R. E. MITCHELL and her sister, MRS. ELVIN BEARDEN, would like to thank two young men who were so helpful recently when Mrs. Mitchell was too ill to climb steps into a local clinic. Becoming faint on the steps, Mrs. Mitchell was more than Mrs. Bearden could support. Suddenly two young men came up, lifted Mrs. Mitchell and took her into the waiting room. In the excitement, the women failed to get the names of the young men who disappeared as suddenly as they appeared. The women are grateful and if the "good Samaritans" should see this, "Thanks a million."

Guest of MR. AND MRS. HUBERT STIPP is his sister, MRS. C. W. MCKNIGHT, of Dallas. Today the three are in Lubbock where Mrs. McKnight's son, Jim, is a Tech student. This is her first trip to the college campus. She plans to be in Big Spring until Tuesday.

MRS. FRANKLIN McDONALD has been in Paris where she was with her parents. Her mother became ill while she was there and is now resting in a hospital.

EUGENE CARPENTER has returned to New Orleans, La., where he is stationed on a special safety project by Goodyear. He has been here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carpenter, and other relatives.

The W. T. McREE clan had a reunion last weekend in Albuquerque, N. M. Accompanied by their daughter, Kathy, the McRees went to Portales and were joined by another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cregar, for a trip to Albuquerque. There they were guests of a third daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Dowalby, and the young man who was the center of attraction, young Mark Dowalby.

Double Ring Ceremony Is Read For Lamesans

LAMESA—A double ring ceremony read Friday evening in the sanctuary of the Second Baptist Church united in marriage Sharon Jeanette Schoonover and Jerry Douglas Boyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schoonover are the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Boyer of Welch are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. A. E. Hughes, pastor, read the ceremony as the couple stood before an archway entwined with white satin ribbon and banked with baskets of white gladioli and greenery. Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra completed the setting for the ceremony.

Musical selections were played by Ann Montgomery. She accompanied Mrs. Jay Flippin as she sang "I Love You Truly" and at the conclusion of the ceremony as the couple knelt, "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Chantilly gown of white Chantilly type lace. The fitted bodice was covered with a lace jacket, featuring tapered sleeves which extended to points over the hands. A Peter Pan collar was appliqued with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with a white gardenia.

Mrs. Bill Meares was the matron of honor. Her dress was of blue polished cotton with a white chiffon drape completing the fitted bodice and full skirt. Bridesmaids included Connie Jackson and Lorene Todd. They were gowned identically to the matron of honor in yellow. White carnations were used to fashion the colonial bouquets.

Doyle Coor, cousin of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers included Gerald Gartman and Dan Hart of Welch.

Norman Schoonover, brother of the bride, and Basil Thompson lighted the tapers.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the Mesa Room. Laid with white linen the bride's table held an arrangement of blue and yellow stock. The tiered wedding cake decorated in blue and yellow and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom completed the table setting.

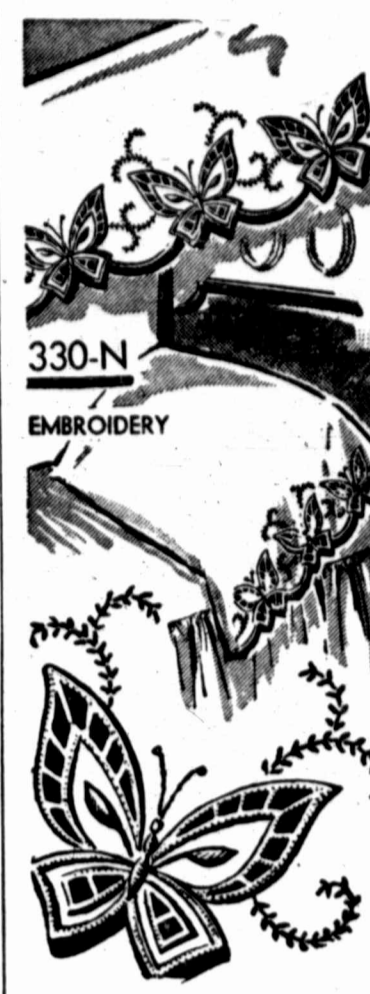

Alternating at the serving table were Sue Lynch, Glenda Vines and Latrice Weir. Guests were registered by Ann Montgomery, and Martha Smith furnished musical selections.

For traveling to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride chose a blue linen suit with pink accessories. Following their return the couple will make a home at 1212 Bryan Avenue in Lamesa.

Mrs. Boyer attended Lamesa High School and her husband was graduated from Dawson High School.

HI--TALK

By Brenda Barr

The holidays were officially over Tuesday as everyone weofully trekked back to school. Tuesday morning we were entertained by an assembly dealing with live snakes. Following the program, nomination speeches were made for next year's student council officers. Election of these officers and for cover girl of the senior magazine was held Thursday.

The results of the elections were announced Friday. Holding the honor of being next year's student council president will be James Howard Stephens. There will be a run-off election between Toni Thomas and Celia Grant for first vice president and one between JoAnn Ebling and Peggy Isaacs for recording secretary.

Dancing in the midst of "Seventh Heaven" at the Rainbow Formal Saturday night were Marilyn Bigham and Bill French, Carol Phillips and James Drake, Betty Lou Jones and Larry Knight, Janet Kendrick and Alan Alexander, Catherine Greenlees and Mel Johnson, Sherry Coats and Mike Jarrett, Beverly Alexander and John Curtis, Pat Johnson and Chuck Wolk, Iva Nell Cole and Lefty Morris.

Sammie McCamb, Janet Carpenter, and Sandy Hale left Friday for a gala weekend at Tech visiting Jerry McMahan, Dennis Jones and Lewis Porter. The highlight of their visit was the ROTC formal Friday night.

Life looked just a little brighter for one senior girl this week. Opal Hancock surely did look happy Friday with Billy Johnson home to walk her to classes.

Many students were in Abilene this weekend representing BSHS in the annual Interscholastic League. Stephen Baird and Julius Glickman went for the debate competition; declaiming were Linda Nichols and Bill Parsons. Entering the typing competition were Sherry Coats, Kathleen Thomas, Dickie Snyder, Kay Loveland, Rosemary Donica and Judy Roberts. Jean Hammond was entered in the spelling contest.

ley Terry, Celia Grant and Judy Reagan, went to San Angelo Thursday to attend a clinic for cheerleaders. The girls were accompanied by Miss Tommie Hill. Lana Wren, Becky Gebert, Ann Robinson, Mary Ella Bain, Sue Brown and Betty Lou Jones had a lot of fun Friday night at Betty Lou's slumber party. Did you see the sun come over the hill, girls?

If an award were given for the person who had contributed most to BSHS in the shortest length of time, Tony Starr, today's senior of the week, would surely win it. A transfer from Forsan, Tony has contributed his abilities in many phases of high school life. He played the male lead in the fall play; he is a principal figure in the Continentals, and he was in the Follies. An active member of the First Baptist Church, Tony was runner up for FHA Dreamboy this year.

During his high school years in Forsan, Tony was elected a favorite of his sophomore class and was vice president of his class that year. As a freshman he was elected FHA Dreamboy. Tony was named all district basketball player two years, and he played football for three years. In his sophomore year Tony also won the Forsan Citizenship Award.

Not only well-liked, but also admired and respected by everyone and with his ability to do almost anything well, Tony is sure to be a success. Truly, when Tony moved to Big Spring, BSHS got a real asset to its student body.

there will be a grand prize for overall high score. Fee for the play is $3.50 per person.

Members discussed the possibility of having Sunday luncheons served at the club immediately following church services.

The association was asked to donate any discarded furniture or draperies for use by the Civic Theatre Group. Contributions will be picked up if Sgt. Dewey Magee at Webb AFB or Mrs. Frank Sabatto is notified.

AREA PHYSICIANS INVITED

Noted Doctor To Lecture At VA Hospital This Week

Opportunity for "a good post graduate education" will be afforded West Texas doctors here this week.

Dr. Arthur Grollman, professor, author of textbooks and chief of experimental medicine at the Southwestern Medical School (University of Texas) in Dallas, will lecture for three days at the VA Hospital here.

All VA doctors in West Texas, Webb AFB Hospital staff members and local physicians are being invited to attend the lectures, said Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, Big Spring VA Hospital manager.

It was Dr. Friedlander who classed Dr. Grollman's lectures as a good post graduate education. The two are long-time friends and Dr. Grollman has visited the hospital here several times.

His appearance Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be a continuation of the Physicians in Residence training program inaugurated by Dr. Friedlander several years ago.

Dr. Grollman has been recognized as one of the world's foremost authorities in the medical field for many years—almost ever since he received his M. D. degree and Ph. D. degree in chemistry from Johns Hopkins University.

He received his M. D. in 1930 and the same year he led an expedition to the top of Pike's Peak to test the effect of low atmospheric pressure on the amount of blood a man's heart circulates. His findings in tests himself and companions were published in the American Journal of Physiology.

While at Johns Hopkins, he was the first to develop a practical method of measuring the volume of blood the heart pumps, and his writings on that topic are now considered a classic throughout the scientific world.

His monograph on the subject was published in the U. S. in 1932 and in Britain in 1933. It is titled "The Cardiac Output of Man in Health and Disease."

He also has established to the satisfaction of a great many doctors his thesis that cirrhosis of the liver is not universally fatal, but is seldom fatal if properly treated at an early stage.

Twenty years ago, he pioneered the idea that hypertension is a specific disease, caused by a kidney defect. That theory also has been substantiated by subsequent discoveries.

Dr. Grollman was the first to prophesy, years ago, that the adrenal glands probably produce a substance far more significant than their then accepted principal product, the hormone desoxycorticosterone. Other researchers have since learned that the adrenal glands produce cortisone, a hormone which, with related materials, is now used widely in treating a variety of diseases including some types of arthritis.

NEW TECHNIQUE

One of the Dallas scientist's most recent accomplishments has been development of a simple procedure for hospital in place of complicated and risky artificial kidneys. The procedure utilizes tubes and common fluids to irrigate the peritoneal cavity during periods of acute kidney failure.

It was described in an exhibit at the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn. in New York last summer.

His belief that cirrhosis of the liver need not always be fatal received dramatic support following the assassination of a Panamanian president a few years ago. Dr. Grollman had been treating the official for the disease. Following his death, a portion of his liver was removed and was flown to Dr. Grollman in Dallas. Examination of the tissue showed that it was perfectly normal—that Dr. Grollman's treatment had produced an apparent cure.

The treatment, he explains, is principally the provision of good nutrition and the elimination of what has been considered beneficial—the tapping of the patient of fluids.

Dr. Grollman's wide range of medical knowledge has taken him throughout the United States and other parts of North America, Europe and the Far East as a lecturer and consultant. As a civilian consultant by doctors treating various forms of cancer, gland diseases, heart ailments, kidney diseases, leukemia, hypertension and other illnesses.

STUDIED IN EUROPE
Dr. Grollman was born in Baltimore, Md., Oct. 20, 1901, and received his B.A. degree from Johns Hopkins in Baltimore in 1920. After winning his two doctorates, he taught chemistry and physiology in the university, later going to the Universities of London, Berlin and Heidelberg to lecture and perform research.

After 10 years as associate professor of pharmacology and therapeutics at Johns Hopkins, Dr. Grollman became research professor of medicine at Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, N. C.

He transferred to the new Southwestern Medical School at Dallas as professor of medicine in 1944 and two years later became head of the experimental medicine department, also directing at various times the departments of physiology, pharmacology and biochemistry.

At the VA Hospital this week, Dr. Grollman will lecture twice daily. He also will make the regular round of patients with VA doctors and confer with them on all problems. Among his lecture topics will be:

1. Drug Therapy in Malignancy.
2. Thyroid Dysfunction and Diagnostic Aids.
3. Inborn Errors of Metabolism.
4. Shock, and
5. Calculi, Renal and Biliary.

With a Discussion of the chemistry of physiology, later going to Mrs. Grollman probably will accompany her husband to Big Spring. They will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Friedlander.

Visiting Teacher Fights Non-Enrollment Causes

By JOE PICKLE
How much a child learns in school may be debatable, but his chances of learning are practically nil if he does not get to school. In this enlightened and literate nation, people have the happy misconception that every child goes to school. Yet, about one of 10 scholastics doesn't.

Big Spring Independent School District is attempting to hold this margin to an irreducible minimum, and the task centers in the visiting teacher—H. Clyde Rowe.

There are two primary extremes connected with non-attendance—one is truancy among the over-privileged, the other is non-enrollment by the under-privileged. Of the two, the latter is by far the greater problem.

The vast preponderance of cases referred to Rowe are tied to economics—the lower the earning bracket, the greater the attendance problems. In most of these cases he has found that clothing, food and health are the barriers—not disinterest.

Records reflect the enrollment of 79 youngsters who could not have been in school but for physical aid. Except for the few who have moved from the city, all are still in fairly regular attendance.

OTHER ABSENTEES
Not all cases are of this nature, for there are a few who chronically play hooky. Most of these have a background of over-indulgence or sheltering. An infinitesimal number become truancy cases out of a sense of boredom as witness the case of one lad who had an IQ of 160.

A surprising—or perhaps not so surprising—number of non-attendance cases may be traced back to broken homes.

The philosophy of the visiting teacher is not altogether new, but it is progressively unfolding. His job is not to lurk behind a bush and catch hooky players but to go into the home and learn and try to meet basic causes. He may become welfare agent, father confessor, truant officer and good Samaritan rolled into one.

Teachers initiate attendance studies, referring the case to school principals. In turn, the cases warranting special action are passed on to the visiting teacher, usually with helpful comments. Sometimes teachers communicate orally to assist in solving problems.

Rowe goes into the home, as he has 737 times this year, and seeks to ascertain the trouble. In a large percentage of cases clothes and food are root causes, in such cases he issues an order to the Salvation Army—to whom good hearted local people have given supplies of serviceable used clothing. Wherever items are available, the children are outfitted for school. A total of 451 children (nearly 10 per cent of average attendance) have been assisted.

Usually, this occasions the issuance of free meal tickets to these children, for what food they get at school is usually the greater portion of nourishment they receive.

FREE MEALS

At junior high level 3,645 meals have been served under this arrangement, 620 at senior high, 1,050 at Airport, while only 40 have been necessary at Washington Place. (The 4,320 meals served at South Ward are part of the exceptional children program and do not necessarily reflect economic need.) Value of the meals thus provided will run about $3,390 to April 1. This cost is absorbed in the cafeteria program. Schools also absorb the 1-cent net cost to the schools for a pint of milk to indigent children each day.

Against the cost factor involved for the school is state aid based on ADA (average daily attendance). Each child in school each day is worth approximately $1 to the district. One child absent one day might cost the district at least $3,200 because teacher aid units are based on 26 ADA, not a fraction less.

Sometimes the Salvation Army's supply of clothing, particularly in levis, underwear and shoes, is exhausted. The high school student council has provided a modest welfare fund out of which Rowe draws for emergency purchase of new shoes.

School nurses are of great help in getting at health problems, and

Restrictions On Applications For Passports Eased

Changes in passport application procedures at the local level have been announced by Wade Choate, district court clerk, who handles the applications here for the U. S. government.

Applicants no longer are required to produce witnesses who have known them for two years or more. Identification of the applicant "to the satisfaction of the clerk" is now sufficient, and Choate said driver's license and similar documents usually are all that are necessary to prove identity.

Seal of the district court is not now required on photographs submitted with passport applications. However, applicants still must sign all photos.

A Bible Thought For Today

And when he had called the people unto him with his disciples also, he said unto them, Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. (Mark 8:34)

Law, Policy And Orderliness

For many years the City of Big Spring has been looking with increasing interest to its perimeter. Prompted by an awareness that what lies in proximity to the city today may be part of the city tomorrow, the commission has for many years required that the plats of all outlying additions be approved by the city.

This has been helpful in setting up uniform standards for street width, tie-ins to existing streets or arterial roads; it has made provision for subsequent servicing of the areas when they become part of the city.

as to type and use, but it is powerless to zone for required quality of construction. This is something that must be covered largely in deed restrictions, which is just one more facet of the problem that is going to become an increasingly more pressing one.

Already the pressures are growing for annexations and yet they are mild compared to what they will become within even the space of one short year. Much thought has been given to the problem, but we believe study needs to be stepped up and broadened to see just how law and policy can be combined to insure the most orderly sort of development.

Can This Be THE Green Light?

After a year of bouncing back and forth, the Howard County Airport project appears to be at last ready for the bid stage.

Word from Fort Worth on Friday was to the effect that the CAA has given final approval. This is taken to mean that it will go along with its $301,000 grant to the project according to the plans and specifications laid out for it.

those of a daily growing number of private fliers.

We can be forgiven a certain amount of skepticism because of the repeated and long delays, but now we hope that the latest development indeed is the green light. We've been peered too long without a modern civil port to fit between the military and the smaller port.

As this project comes to a starting point, it will be just another of the evidences of great progress in our vicinity.

'Governments More Stupid Than People'

WASHINGTON — Sometimes a casual remark expresses a great truth. It has more meaning than ponderous and lengthy pronouncements. Such a bit of wisdom of profound significance came from the lips of President Eisenhower in an extemporaneous address on Wednesday to a visiting group from abroad when he said:

"I have tried to talk a great deal in this country about people and people meeting people. I think governments are far more stupid than are their peoples. If we could get the peoples talking to each other, living with each other, visiting in homes, going to schools together, I am perfectly certain that most of the world's troubles would be over. And we could use all of the great inventions of science to human betterment and improvement rather than in the attempt to destroy ourselves."

The dictionary defines "stupidity" as a "lack of understanding" or perception. Why does the President say that "governments are far more stupid than are their peoples"? If he is thinking about Western democracies—and he might well be—then undoubtedly he is referring to the evils of modern politics which infect Congress here and parliaments abroad. For the fallacy is cherished by politicians that the people just don't understand vital issues and will vote for the candidate who resorts to demagoguery. This has rarely proved true in elections, though there are some exceptional cases where a guitar-playing crooner widely popular in a state or district has won the race over someone less spectacular.

The outpouring of propaganda from politicians' offices and some vitriolic speeches printed in the "Congressional Record" indicate that a few very aggressive political personalities still believe it is possible to fool the people by smears and sneers.

Men of this type are not easily removed from political office, as the opposing candidate often is not skillful enough to do battle effectively against them. But history shows that the demagogue has relatively little influence in shaping public policy. To the extent that the public anywhere tolerates men of "stupidity" in Congress or parliaments, there can be no doubt that democracies in the Western world suffer somewhat from such inadequacies.

But the President undoubtedly had in mind the stupidity of the autocratic governments which today assume complete mastery over the people. Mussolini and Hitler carried on their governments with a stupidity that brought tragedy to the world in the form of a global war. Khrushchev and his cohorts in Moscow now are engaged in applying the same formula of stupidity—they underestimate the intelligence of the people. It is precisely because the dictators are afraid of free communication that they deprive their people of liberty of expression.

Thus the Communist regime does not permit free access by the American people to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. America, for instance, lets the Soviet ambassador roam around this country making speeches and appearing on television, but the American ambassador in Moscow has no such reciprocal privilege. America permits newspapermen generally to come to Washington from the Iron Curtain countries, but the Soviet government picks and chooses whom it will admit and confines the selection to a small number. It is a fact that the Soviet and Chinese empires are the only important areas of the world where wartime censorship still exist.

Mr. Eisenhower is right that there are governments in the world which are more stupid than their peoples. He might also have said that there are governments which are truly afraid of their own peoples and keep them under the tyrannical control of a personally operated police force. In this respect the world sees little difference today between the dictatorships of Hitler and Mussolini and that of Khrushchev although the latter, by a more adroit use of the air waves and the help of a world-wide apparatus of Communist agents, does manage to carry on campaigns of deception.

The days of every dictatorship, however, are numbered. The time will come when the peoples behind the Iron Curtain will manifest their interest in other peoples, just as Mr. Eisenhower describes it, and will demand the kind of government that will truly represent them—a government that will remove the tensions that today are threatening another world war.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

One of the idiosyncrasies of Congress is its usual readiness to appropriate billions for ships and planes and missiles while at the same time refusing to approve the pay scales necessary to attract men to man and service the expensive hardware.

In recent years, for example, Congress has appropriated even more than the executive asked—under both Truman and Eisenhower administrations—for strategic bombers. But repeated appeals for military pay increases were rebuffed, so that great numbers of the costly and potent bombers have been grounded.

Assistant Defense Secretary William H. Francis Jr. told a Senate subcommittee the other day that six and a half wings of strategic bombers have been grounded, on the average, over the past two years for lack of trained maintenance men and crews. Normally a strategic bomber wing would include 45 planes.

Nor does this situation apply to the Air Force alone. "Conventional" weapons are becoming increasingly complicated in the Army and Navy, and in addition both services pack more and more of their punch in missile systems. These latter require highly trained men for both maintenance and use. And the very training which the services give such men eminently qualifies them for higher paying civilian jobs.

The House Armed Services Committee has unanimously approved the military pay raise embodied in the so-called Cordinger plan.

This will be a first step in an over-all program designed to attract to and keep in the services the kind of men needed to maintain and, if necessary, operate the modern machines of war. Other steps which should follow include such things as the provision of economical housing in shortage areas, stabilized assignments, and the like.

Views Differ On Tax Cut To Stimulate Business

On the way to work the other morning my eye caught a blind man confidently tapping his way toward a street crossing. Suddenly, the driver of a laundry truck, intent on making deliveries, backed into the pedestrian right of way. The blind man tapped to the left, waving his cane, his antenna, questioning before him.

I dashed to his side and took his arm. "What's wrong here?" he said. "Something's in the way."

"A truck pulled into the crossing," I answered, as we walked around it. "Cops ought to hand tickets to crosswalk hogs." "What made you stop?" I asked. "How could you tell something was there?"

"I can tell," he answered. "I could hear it."

He thanked me and said good bye, leaving me to send that blind man having extra-sensory perception. They feel sound waves far too delicate for ears with eyes. And I should have thanked him. He helped me resolve my problem.

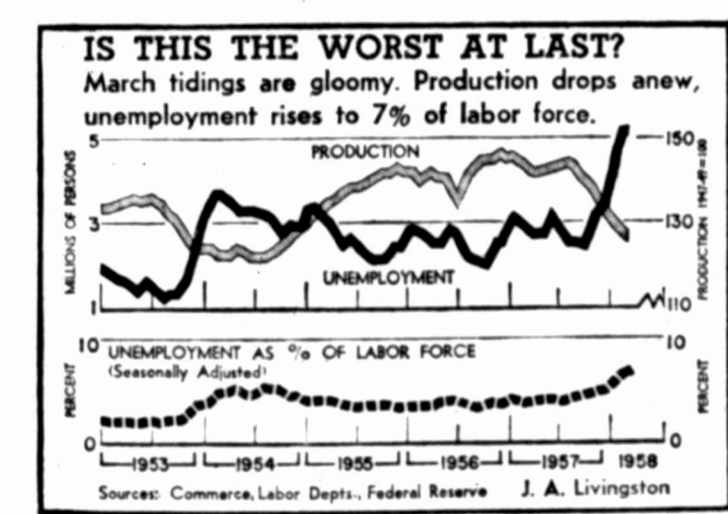

I'd been mulling over the recession: What to do about it? Arthur F. Burns, former chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, has come out for a five-billion-dollar tax cut. This put him in direct opposition to the President, to whom he is fondly loyal. But Burns feels unemployment would get worse if action is not immediate.

Members of the President's present Council of Economic Advisers feel much the same. But the President says, "Not yet."

Mr. Eisenhower is influenced by Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson. The Secretary feels that steps already taken—to accelerate defense orders, highway construction, public works, and to make housing credit easier—will soon increase job opportunities.

Anderson, along with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, hopes that the worst in unemployment is past. Recent data on new claims for unemployment compensation, when adjusted for seasonal and end-of-the-quarter peculiarities, afford some basis for thinking that layoffs has reached a crest. But how much is real, how much is wish-thinking?

If only I thought to myself, I had the gift of extra-sensory perception. Is this really the floor of the recession? Or just a temporary low plateau leading to another economic slowdown, another drop in production, another rise in unemployment (see chart)? Is it, in short, the transition from recession to depression? If I thought it were, I'd urge a tax cut to put more money into the pay envelopes of consumers. That would be a stimulus, but it wouldn't necessarily be the stimulus the economy needs. What would consumers, you and I, spend this increased income on? Automobiles? Homes? Appliances? Those are the doldrum industries? This is a tug-of-war between consumers and producers, between buyers and sellers. I could use a new pair of shoes. I've been watching the store windows. But the prices! Nix. I don't need a pair of shoes that badly.

Last night at a dinner I talked to an automobile dealer in the town of Elmer, N. J. (pop. 1,500). A customer came in the other day, decided on a car, asked the price, "$77 per month."

"Too high," said the customer. The dealer looked up his records. "But the last time you bought, you paid $66 a month."

"That's just it," said the prospective purchaser. "I just can't swing the difference. I'll wait."

For persons who have lost their jobs, there is no such thing as recession. Unemployment is a searing, humiliating experience. An emotional depression! And I'm convinced that as an aftermath of this decline there will be social reform, executives, who sit in high-up offices, drawing excellent pay, overproduced in 1955 and 1956. Their over-rich bargains with labor leaders forced up costs and prices. Result: Recession. Executives often pay themselves bonuses in good times. Maybe, instead, they ought to get bonus based on the stability of their operations, of employment.

Today, the executives who overproduced have a responsibility to get us out of this recession. President Eisenhower says consumers are "disenchanted" with the goods producers offer. To that, I'd add, and the prices.

On the theory that business men will act sensibly in their own and the country's interest, I'd chance waiting on a tax cut. I'm hopeful that out of adversity, recession, will come a stimulating price cut. But I'm waving my economic antenna ahead of me. I hope I'm not wish-thinking—hoping for some miracle man to take the economy by the arm.

I hope President Eisenhower's will wish-thinking either. His wish-thinking is more influential—more consequential—than mine.

Too Many Hogs, Not Enough Money

One of the best things about this country is the fact that government red tape has not yet choked everybody to death. American enterprise being what it is, there is always some individual who finds a way to capitalize on bureaucratic restrictions.

Take the fellows involved in the following letter. The communication below—author unknown—has been going the rounds, having been published in several newspapers and having been typed and mimeographed for private distribution. It has reached me through a friend in the oil business, who now is sitting up nights to devise means whereby his own industry can share in the government bounty. Here's the letter:

Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
Dear Mr. Secretary:
My friend Bordeaux over in Terrebonne Parish received a $1,000 check from the Government this year for not raising hogs. So I am going into the Not-Raising-Hogs-Business next year. What I want to know is, in your opinion, what is the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on and the best kind of hogs not to raise. I would prefer not to raise razorbacks, but, if that is not a good breed not to raise, I will just as gladly not raise any Berkshires or Durocs.

The hardest work in this business is going to be in keeping an inventory of how many hogs I haven't raised. My friend Bordeaux is very joyful about the future of his business. He had been raising hogs for more than 20 years and the best he ever made was $400 until this year, when he got $1,000 for not raising 50 hogs. If I can get $1,000 for not raising 50 hogs then I will get $2,000 for not raising 100 hogs.

I plan to operate on a small scale at first, holding myself down to about 4,000 hogs, which means I will have $80,000. Now another thing, those hogs I will not raise will not eat 100,000 bushels of corn. I understand that you will pay farmers for not raising corn, so will you pay me anything for not raising 100,000 bushels of corn not to feed the hogs I am not raising? I want to get started as soon as possible as this seems to be a good time of year for not raising hogs.

OCTAVE BROUSSARD, Louisiana

P.S.: Can I raise 10 or 12 hogs on the side while I am in the Not-Raising-Hogs-Business—just enough to get a few sides of bacon to eat?

Old Broussard, of course, is one of those fellows who will get ahead, and chances are before he's through, he will not be raising as many as 20,000 hogs. This will get him a Cadillac, and also bring him under the scrutiny of the Internal Revenue Service, which has not yet come around to the economic theories propounded by the Department of Agriculture. If it did, think what—

A fellow could apply for, and receive, an income tax refund every year he did not make any money. All he would have to do is show the pittance received, and the astronomical amount that went out. For every penny of deficit, there would be a tax rebate of one dollar.

I rather like this plan, because it reaches more people than the Not-Raising-Hogs-Business. It's not everybody who can't raise hogs, but it darn sure is everybody who can't make money. Write your Congressman.

Battle Over Defense Reorganization

WASHINGTON — If President Eisenhower really meant what he said at his press conference about defense reorganization, using greater emphasis than he has applied to almost any other issue in his five years in the White House, then the prospect is for a political battle royal such as this town has not seen in a long time.

He holds many strong cards, and his opponents on Capitol Hill have been warned that he is prepared to use them. But these opponents are prepared to fight equally hard, since they believe that this is a critical struggle over Congressional power to control the purse.

The legislation drafted by the administration to carry out the President's recommendations for a drastic revision of the powers of the Pentagon is still a closely-guarded secret. But key members of Congress have been told of the principal joker in the proposed law.

It does not contain a single syllable giving the Secretary of Defense power over appropriations made to the Defense Department, a power the President had indicated he would seek. But a White House staff working for many months on a reorganization plan has evolved a method whereby Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy will be given this power without changing the law.

The order has gone out. Congressional sources have learned that the 1960 defense budget is to be so drawn up so that McElroy will, in fact, be able to determine how the $40 billion or more is to be spent between the services. This is to be done by reducing the Army, Navy and Air Force to the status of "projects." The word "project" is the key, since the Secretary currently has authority to shift funds from one project—the reconstruction of a naval base, for example—to another project.

This is, in short, a resourceful way of wrapping up the $40 billion defense budget so that, short of tearing it completely apart, the Congressional committees will have to take it on the President's terms. The President is reported to have said that if they do try to tear his next defense budget apart, he will simply refuse to accept Congress' own handiwork and will operate the Defense Department on deficit requests which, in view of national security, the Congress could hardly deny.

The principal changes proposed in the legislation soon to be sent to the Capitol are:

1. Abolition of the planning committees now responsible to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the creation of a joint staff responsible to the chairman of the JCS. This has already been done in large part by an executive order issued after the President sent his recommendations to the Capitol. It is here that the opponents see the "Prussian staff system" which they are determined to block.

2. Creation of unified commands, with all operating forces assigned to these commands regardless of uniform. The over-all commander will have complete authority to change any function. Thus, say the admirals, he could assign all the aircraft carriers to the Strategic Air Command.

3. Strikingly out the "separately administered" provision which has given comparative autonomy to the Department of Army, Navy and Air Force. This is the end of the "executive agencies" system which the President said in Reorganization Plan 6, sent to Congress in 1953, would insure "positive civilian control" over the armed services.

As the full significance of the new proposals became evident, top admirals met with Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. Asked later what the meeting was about, one of them remarked: "Oh, we were just planning to commit hari-kari, falling on our swords in the traditional fashion."

But before any such rash act is contemplated there will be a prolonged engagement, with the White House forces advancing up Capitol Hill against the steady fire of some of the veterans of that scene of frequent battle.

Too Much Crime In Movies?

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Is there too much crime in movies?

The question arose last week when FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover appealed to the film industry to soft-pedal films glorifying crime.

Hoover wrote Eric Johnston, head of the movie producers: "As a law enforcement officer, I am deeply concerned by an apparent trend in the motion picture field."

The matter relates to motion pictures which traverse the bounds of common decency and result in the glorification of the gangster and his elevation as a folk hero for American youth.

The "trend" was caused by the amazing success of the Mickey Rooney film "Baby Face Nelson." But the producers' association says only two films are now slated to follow in Nelson's bloody footsteps.

One is "Machine Gun Kelly," now completed. The other is "The Bonnie Parker Story," in production. Both come from an independent company. There has been talk of films on Pretty Boy Floyd and others, but none has materialized.

A spokesman for the production code office told me what is being done about crime pictures.

"We can't stop the making of films about crime," he explained. "The code revisions of a year ago did away with many restrictions on such matters as kidnapping, dope, tommy guns, etc."

"What we can do is prohibit the sympathetic portrayal of criminals and we are strict about that. Also, we can try to limit excessive brutality—the mass slaughter of citizens with tommy guns, etc."

Most of the crime films are made by independents, he pointed out. The code has no control over the quickie makers, yet many of them submit their scripts to the Johnston office. The reason: they expect less trouble with censors throughout the United States and the world if they have a code seal.

A Sure Way To Relieve Tension

A physician from Scotland recently commented that Americans have too much expression in their faces. We live on our nerves, he said, and it shows in our faces. Over in Europe, he went on, people seem to show less tension.

Well, perhaps we do live under greater tension here. But it results from a restless driving power that has done much to make America what it is. Our problem now is to get this power under control and keep it from causing abnormal tension. How to have plenty of drive yet not allow tension to destroy us is something we Americans must learn.

One way to control tension is through mental picturing of peaceful conditions. Such practice reduces stress in the mind. Some time ago I had a pleasant visit with my friend Carl Erskine, pitcher for what was then the Brooklyn Dodgers. In the course of our conversation, we got around to talking about tension and I asked him what his tensest moment and how did he handle it. I thought I would get a good baseball story. I didn't but I did get a good tension control technique.

He told me about having to make a speech at the banquet at New York's Hotel Astor celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the dedication of our church building. The church structure was erected in 1854, though the organization goes back to 1828. There were at least 2,500 people present for the anniversary dinner and Lowell Thomas, who was the toastmaster, had a long list of famous speakers. And one of these was to be Carl Erskine.

There was no doubt that Carl was a famous pitcher, but he did not have any great confidence in himself as a famous speaker or as any other kind of speaker. He sat there waiting for his turn, getting alternately hot and cold and growing more tense and nervous each moment. As he worried about his increasing tension, he asked himself, "What can I do to get hold of myself?"

Then he happened to remember that just before coming to the banquet, he had put his two little boys and his little girl to bed at home. Watching them as they fell asleep, he had remarked to his wife, "Aren't they sweet when they're asleep; they're so absolutely relaxed."

And, as he sat at the speakers' table awaiting his turn, he went back in his mind to that quiet bedroom where his children were sleeping. Mentally he "walked" around their beds, looking at each of them, little hands curled up under their faces, golden curls on the pillows, peacefully asleep. As he saw all this in his mind, suddenly he could feel himself growing quieter and the tension subsided. He seemed perfectly at ease when he got up to make his speech and actually he was one of the hits of the evening.

Carl Erskine had discovered one of the greatest secrets of relieving tension: to divert the mind from anxiety to something that stands for quiet assurance. He had made a mental excursion into a place of peace and came back refreshed. I wonder if God does not actually give us moments of peace, now and then, so that we may return to them in memory to draw quiet control from them in moments of need. It pays to store up quietness deep in the center of our lives.

If tension is a problem for you, as it is for so many, I suggest that you try Carl's technique. What have been your greatest moments of perfect peace and quiet happiness?

Recall one such wonderful moment and visualize it fully. As you return to the great experience via memory, see if you do not feel the tensions of the moment draining from you. Of course, the supreme mental returning is to the peace of God with passeth understanding.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 8:34-35—"If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's shall save it." (RSV)

From the dawn of history man's greatest problem has been himself and certainly no one was ever more keenly aware of this fact than Jesus was. Our Lord states in this passage an unalterable truth which people still in their own defense deny. Until we have removed our own desire and ambition from the throne of life, God cannot be enthroned. Without God as ruler, life's purpose cannot be fulfilled. Meister Eckhardt wrote:

"There are plenty to follow our Lord halfway but not the other half. They will give up possessions, friends and honors, but it touches them too closely to disown themselves."

The problem is ever the same but there is an answer. As man loses himself in the service of the Master, he discovers his true identity as a son of God.

PRODUCTION, MARKETING SET

Big Spring Man Develops Air Pressure Control Device

MELVIN WITTER WITH 'AIR CONTROL' 50,000 sales per year expected for invention

Big Spring's newest manufacturing corporation is all set to begin marketing on a national basis come May 1.

It is the Witter Manufacturing Corporation, producers of a new type of air control for pressure tanks. Headquarters and sales offices for the firm are located here, but actual production of the new control is under way at Dallas.

Melvin Witter, president of the company, is resigning from the Saunders Company, with which he has been associated here, to devote his time to the new enterprise. He also will maintain his connection with Wasco, Inc., in which he is associated with Marvin Saunders and T. B. Atkins.

Wasco is successor to the Western Service Company, heating and air conditioning firm. Other offices in Witter Manufacturing Corporation are W. B. Struble, Dallas, vice president and general sales agent; T. B. Atkins, Big Spring, secretary, and Marvin Saunders, Big Spring, treasurer.

Production is being geared to anticipated sale of at least 50,000 units per year. Sales outlets already have been established at Philadelphia, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Oshkosh, Wis., Billings, Mont., Dallas, El Paso and Palo Alto, Calif.

Witter's invention already has drawn orders for 3,000 units. He attributed its reception to the economy, durability and flexibility of the control. The unit is competitive in price with other types.

In many types of water systems, pressure tanks, the tank has to be connected with or in proximity to the pumps. Efficiency is lost in several types of pumps because they have to furnish air recharge as well as to deliver water.

Witter's control works entirely on a pressure differential and is independent of the pump. Thus, distance of the tank from the pump is of no consequence to the Witter unit.

Like conventional units, it takes into consideration the goal of two-thirds fluid level in the tank and maximum air pressures of 40 pounds and a minimum pressure of 20 pounds.

As water is pumped into the tank, the air pressure works on a diaphragm in the Witter control and pushes up a piston. The piston compresses air in the cylinder until greater pressure of the compressed air flows through a valve in the piston head and thus into the pressure tank.

Then when the tank pressure diminishes, two things happen. First pressure of the air in the expansion chamber drives the piston back to its original position. At the same time, this motion activates a valve in the top of the cylinder and sucks in one and a quarter cubic inches of outside air. On the next cycle this new air is introduced into the tank as recharge.

The unit has a metal base but the piston, cylinder, and expansion chamber are all made of a clear Bakelite. This material was selected after experimenting with several types, said Witter. It has a temperature tolerance of minus 10 to 180 degrees Fahrenheit without affecting the 1-10,000ths inch working tolerance of the piston. The material also presents no water absorption problems.

Witter hit upon the idea after working in sales and service work for years on home pressure systems. A few national manufacturing concerns have made offers to purchase the unit, but Witter said he and his associates decided to market it themselves.

Deposit Of Tax Funds Required Under New Law

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Russell C. Harrington today announced that with the signing by the President of Public Law 85-321, the Internal Revenue Service has been given a new and effective means of assuring that income taxes and social security taxes, which employers are required to withhold from the salaries and wages of their employees, are paid over promptly to the government.

The commissioner stated that, although the great majority of employers fully comply with this requirement, the government continually has been faced with the problem of a relatively few employers who fail to pay over such taxes promptly.

Harrington also said that while the delinquencies are a relatively small proportion of the total amount of taxes collected each year, nevertheless to permit their continuance places an unfair burden on law-abiding employers and the tax-paying public generally.

The new law makes it a criminal offense for any delinquent employer, after notice is served on him in accordance with its provisions, to fail to deposit these taxes, within two banking days after their collection, in a separate bank account in trust for the United States. Noncompliance can result in the imposition of severe penalties.

Tax Cut's Fine - But What Kind?

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL WASHINGTON — Members of Congress are heading back to Washington favoring a tax cut of some sort by about a 2-1 margin. But they veer off in so many directions on the kind of cut that getting together on one looks like a mountainous task.

constituents fairly evenly divided on more or less government spending. The weight of opinion was slightly on the side of bigger spending, but with enough persons on the fence to tilt the balance either way.

A Republican complaint bobbed up here and there. Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan) said that "many of my Republican friends tell me (Secretary of Agriculture) Benson has made Democrats of them."

CINEMA COMMENT

'Brothers Karamazov' Has Good Script, Top Acting

"The Brothers Karamazov." The screen version of the Dostoyevsky classic brings Europe's leading dramatic actress, Maria Schell, to the American screen, along with some of the nation's top notch actors.

BRYNNER & SCHELL ... an original flavor respect, quite an achievement, as Dostoyevsky's writing style is one of the most difficult to translate into pictures and dialogue.

Dostoyevsky's word pictures of the Russian countryside and its reflection in its people—splashes of gay springtime color but with an all-pervading sombre mood and a sinister undercurrent—has been well translated into the action and dialogue of the screen. The color film process, however, detracts from this mood somewhat by making the actual coloring too bright and too gay. Hollywood's brand of color was originally designed for gay musicals, not for Dostoyevsky.

The story has not been sliced to ribbons by the screenwriters. What you see in the movie is, in essence, the story that the great Russian author originally conceived.

Dostoyevsky chose as the theme for his study of a father and his three sons the effect of greed and sensuality on a family and on those with whom they came in contact. Yul Brynner is seen as the impetuous Dmitri Karamazov; Miss Schell as the gypsy temptress, Grushenka; Claire Bloom is the aristocratic Katya; Lee J. Cobb is Fyodor, the dejected father; Albert Salmi is seen as Smerdyakov, Fyodor's bastard son; Richard Basehart as Ivan, the agnostic writer; and William Shatner as Alexey, the saintly monk.

"Saddle the Wind." Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer has never been known to produce a second-grade Western. This one is not the inevitable exception. In fact, it's pretty good in its class, if you like that particular class.

Robert Taylor and John Casavetes are seen as two brothers who are pulled apart and eventually set one against the other by one brother's growing thirst for blood, an insanity that is set off by his victory over a notorious gunman, Julie London, the recording star, is seen as the woman in the picture, and screen veteran Donald Crisp helps round out a good cast.

"Hear Me Good." Hal March makes the TV-to-movies switch with a yarn that is in the tradition of Phil Silvers' burlesque. In fact, March even borrows one of Silvers' little helpers, Joe E. Ross, who plays Sgt. Ritzik on the Phil Silvers Show.

March's screen debut tells the tale of two Broadway slickers (March and Ross) who attempt to fix a beauty contest, and end up on the wrong end of a business

Television Puts 'Spine' Into Old Fairy Tales

By CHARLES MERCER NEW YORK (AP)—"The old fairy tales don't have a thesis," says Yasha Frank. "They lack a spine. On television we have to give them one."

Frank, who wrote and staged "Pinochio," has the same assignment for the musical version of Hansel and Gretel, which will be seen on NBC-TV Sunday, April 27. Red Buttons, Barbara Cook, Rise Stevens and Stubby Kaye will appear in the Talent Associates production.

You're a rare adult if you recall the story of Hansel and Gretel, which is a hair-raiser, filled with violence, in its original or pretlevision version. As told in its ancient fireside days it concerned a nasty stepmother, who sent her two children, Hansel and Gretel, into the woods to get lost. After much terror the children fall under the influence of an evil witch who turns them into gingerbread. As the witch is about to bake them in an oven, Gretel asks if she's sure the oven is hot enough. The witch opens the oven, looks inside — and Gretel pushes her in. End of witch.

Well, you can't show that sort of thing on television in a children's hour without frightening the kids and inciting their parents. At least the television industry says you can't — and nobody has yet come along who will say such cruelly makes grand entertainment for tiny tots of all ages.

"For one thing you can't make stepmothers evil," says Frank. "In these days of remarriages there are just too many of them. The whole concept of stepmothers has changed. Why, in Hollywood some children have four stepmothers."

How will he overcome this problem? "By changing their stepmother into their real mother," said Frank, "and making her the epitome of a nice mother. Her whole thesis is one of family loyalty."

Frank has also added to the story four apprentice witches "who are eventually converted by Hansel and Gretel and reclaimed as good members of society." And the witch eventually is tipped into the oven Hansel and Gretel throw in a dipper of water so that she won't really burn up "because we can't subscribe to the idea of capital punishment."

Gospel, Oriental Style

The Shinnai halland company of composer Bunya Okamoto presents the premiere performance of the Gospel according to St. John. Okamoto, seated at left, adapted the story of the adulteress to the ancient Japanese art form.

Oriental Ballad Master Interprets Bible Story

By FRED SAITO TOKYO (AP)—Samisens twanged. Singers in formal silk kimono squatted stiffly on the tiny stage. And the premiere performance of the Gospel according to St. John, in traditional Japanese ballad style, opened to a tiny but select audience.

Reception was mixed. But the Shinnai version of the Holy Scriptures will be repeated many times through Japan.

It was composed by Bunya Okamoto, the nation's master of this ancient and highly sophisticated art. Because of this, the 100 select pupils of Okamoto and their students, numbering many hundreds, will add it to their repertoires. Okamoto's Shinnai halland is taken from the eighth chapter of the Gospel of St. John and centers on the theme, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

The composer acknowledges it was at least partially inspired by the anti-prostitution drive. "The government is doing practically nothing to afford relief to these poor women (who must find other means of livelihood when brothels close April 1)," Okamoto declared. "I think a musician is entitled to express a protest."

The Shinnai performance opens with a recitation of the Gospel by one of two female singers to the accompaniment of two samisens, a three-string instrument which sounds something like a lute. "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her," (a woman accused of adultery), the alto singer chants.

The soprano follows with a declamation asking the audience to define adultery. The declamation gradually changes into a scherzando, as if mocking at all males. Presently she introduces a modern street walker, a widow with a son.

One of the two male singers joins in, taking the role of a passerby who mocks the street walker. The street walker responds with a pathetic and passionate aria, the most beautiful piece in the whole work.

The other man approaches the street walker, identifies himself as a police detective, and tries to arrest her. She tries to escape. As she breaks away, a racing motorcar hits and fatally injures her.

The woman dies crying for her son as all the singers join in a requiem. The music ends with a stern declamation by the first woman: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

Liz Taylor May Return To Work HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor, described by her friends as a heartbroken widow, is expected to return to work Monday.

The raven-haired actress has not been before the cameras since three days before her husband, producer Mike Todd, and three others were killed in a New Mexico plane crash last month.

Fan Dancer Makes History

LONDON (AP)—Fan dancer Rhoda Rogers made history in staid old Britain last night. She soloed on television dressed only in a G-string and a pair of tiny rosebuds. And nobody complained.

The bright-eyed 27-year-old dancer showed up at TV rehearsals earlier in the week carrying a pair of fans, the G-string around her middle and the rosebuds on her chest.

"Wow!" exclaimed Douglas Hern, producing the variety show for commercial TV. "Wouldn't you be more comfortable wearing a little more?"

"No," snapped Rhoda. "I'm a fan dancer. What do you expect me to do, dance in blue jeans?" The producer gave in. Rhoda's shapely form wiggled across the TV screens.

The television network said no complaints were received. "But they would have had them had I gone on in anything but my G-string and rosebuds," beamed Rhoda.

British TV Turns Dog's Stomach

READING, England (AP)—Mrs. Betty Leslie-Smith said her pet retriever, Lindy, got sick while watching a televised medical program showing a dog with rabies. "She turned from the set, walked over to a corner of the room and lost her dinner," Mrs. Leslie-Smith told a reporter. "Now she just doesn't display the same interest in television as she used to."

British coroners have ruled in three cases recently that women committed suicide by gas in fear of ailments and surgical procedures they saw on BBC television programs.

Joke Victim Gets Last Laugh

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man-curler had the last laugh on two practical jokers who subjected her to a mock arrest.

Miss Irene Bailey, 33, was awarded $5,000 damages on testimony that Billy Grady, retired movie casting director, and Jack Monte, manager of the Bel-Air Country Club where she worked, conspired to have some fun when she forgot to return a ring she had polished for Grady.

Miss Bailey said she suffered shock and anguish when a policeman led her from the club barbershop to a patrol car in a phony arrest Feb. 14, 1956.

'Mikado' Due Local Showing

Ever since the end of World War II, there has been a growing relationship between America and Japan. Signs of the trend are novels, biographies and travel books, plays, TV shows and movies.

This is in addition to the thousands of ex-GI's who spent a year or two in Japan, who returned to spin their fascinating yarns of life in the Orient.

On the other hand, there is a tradition that is of ancient origin—the American tendency to spoof the British for their pomp and circumstance.

Now, between the trend and the tradition, and thanks to the efforts of two of the greatest opera creators in history, Big Springers can laugh at British pomp and Japanese eccentricities, as thousands of other Americans have been doing for some time.

I refer to "The Mikado," the classic by Gilbert and Sullivan. The HJC Chorus, with considerable help from local citizens, has scheduled production of "The Mikado" May 12 and 13 at City Auditorium.

With Gilbert writing the book and Sullivan the music, this team of British satirists produced a series of musicals aimed primarily at lampooning their own countrymen's foibles. But in "The Mikado," their barbs were so terrific they had to re-locate the scene of action. Else, good Queen Victoria may have ordered their heads removed.

Their choice of Japan was the right choice in more ways than one. Japan has often been pointed up as the "England of the Orient." "The Mikado" punctures, not only quite a few stuffed British vests, but some of those of Old Japan also.

Local citizens fill out most of the major roles. Ira Schantz, choir director, will take the role of Prince Nanki-Poo, leaving music director Doug Wiehe and dramatic direction up to high school band coaching to HJC drama department chief Fred Short.

Major Vincent Brophy will be Poo-Bah, Lord High Everything Else in the Mikado's court; Jim Hennigar will be Koko the tailor who becomes Lord High Executioner with his own head leading the list; Lt. Paul Wagner takes the juicy role of the Mikado.

Don Jones, TV announcer, will sing the part of Fish-Tush, a noble lord; Joyce Howard, public schools music teacher, will be Princess Yum-Yum; Virginia Wagner will be Pitti-Sing; and Marilyn Newsom will play the role of the old crone, Katsisa, kinswoman of the Mikado and determined to wed the Prince.

The chorus will be made up mostly of the HJC choir, with volunteers from various church choirs helping beef up their numbers.

Accompaniment will be by both piano and organ, with Jack Hendrix, HJC music department chief, at the organ, and his student, Bill Evans, at the piano.

Scenery will be executed by Bob Martinez, an accomplished artist in that field who is already well known for his work in the local theatre groups.

The college has taken off a big bite with "The Mikado," and with all the help they've been promised they should be able to stage a memorable show.

Watch Those Blind Dates

"If you invite any friends to visit you in the next few months, you'd better make sure to sign your name plainly," says Phillip Wayne, high school drama instructor.

Wayne refers to a key chunk of the plot of "10 Little Indians," murder mystery his student players are producing April 24 and 25 in this Agatha Christie classic, ten people accept an invitation from an unknown person whose signature is indecipherable—and, one by one, the ten people are murdered.

Miss Christie's original story, published in the Saturday Evening Post, was titled—what else?—"And Then There Were None."

"These people got bumped off because they too readily accepted an invitation," reasons Wayne. "So, after April 25, people are going to be careful about blind dates."

Distemper Is One Of Greatest Hazards To Welfare Of Dogs

By AKIN M. SIMPSON, D.V.M.
Veterinarians find that one of the greatest threats to the health of a dog is distemper. Distemper is a disease caused by a virus that is found in all parts of the world. Dogs are not the only animals susceptible to the disease. Many of the animals closely related to the dog family are also affected. In addition to attacking dogs, the virus may also infect the wolf, fox, raccoon, marten, skunk and ferret. Distemper is one of the most highly contagious diseases affecting dogs. The virus can be carried from place to place easily, and birds, flies and other insects often are guilty of spreading it, or it may be transmitted by the sick dog coming into contact with healthy dogs. The dog owner himself may bring the disease home to his pet merely by walking across an area where a diseased animal has been. And there is also very good proof that wind may transport this virus for quite a distance. Veterinarians and dog owners generally accept the fact that most pets more than two years old will not get the disease. But because of the exceptions, veterinarians must be alert to the possibility that the disease will strike in dogs that are older. SYMPTOMS DIFFER Symptoms may appear differently in different dogs. Blood counts and bacteriological studies are often carried out in diagnosing distemper. The disease may be divided into two stages. The first stage is caused by the distemper virus itself, and the second stage results from secondary invading bacteria which strikes after the dog has been weakened.

Symptoms of the early stage of distemper include loss of appetite, diarrhea and signs of an intestinal upset, and a discharge of watery fluid from the eyes and nose. The animal's temperature will be very high with possible fevers of 105 to 107 degrees. The normal temperature of a dog ranges from 101 to 102 degrees. The first phase caused by the distemper virus usually lasts for only a day or two and then the dog may show some signs of recovery. In fact, it is not too uncommon for this stage to pass unnoticed by the pet owner. The temperature which ranged up to 105 or 107 degrees during the first stage often subsides. However, the dog may still run a slight temperature, one to two degrees above normal, for two or three weeks, or until the disease runs its entire course. The dog's appetite will pick up a little, but he will continue to be listless and seem to lie around most of the time. The discharge from the eyes and nose is heavier, and it is at this point that the dog's body becomes vulnerable to other germs and diseases. SECONDARY INFECTIONS The stomach and intestinal tract often is the primary seat of the infections that follow the first phase of distemper. Bronchitis or pneumonia or some other form of respiratory condition is another common development in the second stage. Often the nervous system is affected. If the dog's central nervous system, the brain and spinal cord, become involved, there is some chance that the pet will develop fits or an involuntary twitching of parts of the body. This condition is called Saint Vitus dance or chorea. This is why it is important to have veterinary attention for the sick dog. Sometimes dogs with frothing distemper fits are presumed to have rabies, while actually there is no frothing at the mouth with rabies. Veterinary scientists estimate that about 50 per cent of the cases that develop typical signs of distemper terminate in death. However, with the advent of newer drugs and antibiotics, more of the animals are being saved. AFTER-EFFECTS Many dogs that survive the attack of distemper have poor vision, poor teeth, less growth, and generally lowered resistance. Such diseases as infectious canine hepatitis, encephalitis, tularemia and leptospirosis, can easily be confused with distemper unless efforts are made to secure an accurate diagnosis. Distemper can be prevented by vaccination. The dog's body is stimulated by the vaccine to produce distemper antibodies and its ability to withstand infection can be increased and strengthened. Dogs that are in good health are usually considered good vaccination risks. In such cases veterinarians usually provide a temporary form of protection by giving a serum that will last two weeks. Puppies under 12 weeks are also given a temporary vaccination. After vaccination the dog should be placed on a well-balanced diet, and his living quarters should be warm and dry. Strenuous exercise and exposure should be avoided.

DEAR ABBY BABY-SITTER PROBLEM

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor across the hall has a baby who is eight months old. She hires a sitter who is only 13 to come in and look after the baby for maybe three or four hours at once. The sitter is a nice girl but I can tell the way she handles that baby that she doesn't know much about babies so I run in about every half hour to see if the baby is wet. If he is, I change him because I am always so afraid that child will pin the diaper on him. The little sitter resents this but I can't help it. I can't be across the hall and not worry about that baby. Would you call this meddling?
GOOD NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Your heart is in the right place, but you are out of order. Most 13-year-old sitters know how to keep their powder dry. . . .

DEAR ABBY: My husband works nights and I have the worst time getting him up for work. I have pulled the covers off him, thrown cold water on him, yelled at him, turned the light on in his face, tickled his feet and even kissed him, but he doesn't budge. About an hour later he wakes up and asks me how come I didn't call him! Now, what do you do with a man like that? THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First I'd test his hearing—and then his reflexes.

DEAR ABBY: I am ten years old going on eleven. I asked a boy in my room to write in my autograph book and he wrote: "Dear Sharon. I hate you." I felt so bad

I cried and then I showed it to my mother when she asked me why I was crying. When she saw it she said it means he loves you. Please tell me, Abby, if my mother was just trying to make me feel good or does it mean he loves me? I love him.
SHARON

DEAR SHARON: This ten-year-old boy is normal and your mother is probably 100 per cent correct. . . .

DEAR ABBY: I don't trust my husband. He gets himself tripped up in lies about his working hours and where he is half the time. Last night he came home very late and when he took his shirt off, he had his T shirt on backwards and that wasn't the way he put it on in the morning. I am not the type to fight and holler but I feel very bad about this. You see next week we will be celebrating our first wedding anniversary and I so want to make a go of our marriage as I am expecting. What should I do? VIOLA

DEAR VIOLA: Why not call on your clergyman and renew your marriage vows on your first anniversary? Your husband needs a refresher course. . . .

CONFIDENTIAL TO MINNIE'S MOM: true . . . the apple doesn't fall far from the tree . . . but this one must have rolled a long way. . . .
