Weather Outlook Is Stormy

By The Associated Press
Another death was added Wednesday to the weather's toll in Texas as the past week's forecasts promised a return of thundershowers.

The Weather Bureau predicted scattered thundershowers in the Texas Panhandle-Plains Wednesday afternoon and night, and east of the Pecos Valley Wednesday night and Thursday.

Two fishermen found the body of a man identified by police as Richard B. Johnson, 42, of Dallas in the swollen Trinity River early Wednesday. Officers said he apparently drowned while fishing near flood-stricken Roosevelt Heights in Southeast Dallas.

His death was the third in rambling waters which inflicted property damage estimated at more than 10 million dollars.

No rain fell during the night or early Wednesday at any weather reporting station. Skies were clear throughout the state early in the day.

Forecasters said a low pressure system pushing into the state from the Great Salt Lake area in Utah was expected to trigger another round of thundershowers.

Temperatures early Wednesday varied from 49 at Amarillo to 65 at Galveston.

Highs Tuesday varied from 76 at Sherman to 102 at Presidio.

Flood threats eased in Texas Tuesday. Lake Worth crested at 1.66 feet over the spillway and Eagle Mountain Lake crested at 4.48 feet above the dam, lessening the peril of floods to 250 families who had left their homes in the Fort Worth McGee Bend Place.

East Texas water courses, swollen by last week's rains, generally eased. The Trinity at Dallas was cooled by water releases from floods above Dallas.

Flood waters from the Red River surged upward in northwestern and North Central Louisiana.

The Red was expected to crest near 33 1/2 feet at Shreveport Thursday and Friday, about two feet above flood stage. Other points along the river predicted crests above flood stage, but the rises have been lower than expected.

The rambling waters have killed at least two persons. Property damage was estimated at more than 10 million dollars.

To Bomb Shelter

President Eisenhower, accompanied by two aides, walks along a covered walkway between the White House executive offices and the residence section on his way to a secret underground bomb shelter. The president went to his fully equipped command post in a practice drill touched off by a mock H-bomb attack on the United States. Gen. Wilton B. Parsons, left, deputy assistant, and Capt. E. F. Aurland, naval aide, walk with Eisenhower.

TWINKLING STUDY

Astronomer Ends Flight In Balloon

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—An astronomer and a veteran Navy balloonist, tired and hungry after a 12-hour ascent to 40,000 feet, today said they found a place near their maximum altitude where the stars didn't twinkle.

Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, long-time Navy aeronaut, and astronomer Alfred H. Mikesell, were flown here after their landing in a clover field near Dubuque, Iowa.

"We're a little tired, but very happy," both men said. They wanted shaves and were anxious for breakfast.

Ross and Mikesell said the balloon was around 40,000 feet when they observed the stars were not twinkling.

Mikesell, 44-year-old father of eight children, specializes in studying the scintillation or twinkling of the stars. This was his first balloon ascent.

Observation of the stars from the balloon was "different and better" than any previous viewing he has had, the astronomer said.

Cmdr. Ross said the landing was a "textbook landing." Delicate equipment aboard was undamaged.

In Washington, a Navy medical officer said flight data suggested a possible built-in hazard in a pressure-breathing arrangement, which had been designed as a safety factor.

"I am very charmed by this unique method of conducting astronomy," Mikesell had radioed during the flight.

The ascent provided the first test of techniques that some day will be used to record men's physical reactions in an orbiting satellite.

Heart beats, respiration and other physical reactions were recorded by radio and piped 1,300 miles by telephone to a naval medical laboratory near Washington, D.C.

Observers described the balloon's return to earth as an expert landing. Ross maneuvered the big bag away from river bluffs and came down about a mile from the Mississippi. The landing site was near U.S. Highway 20 about six miles southeast of East Dubuque, Ill.

Between their 7:50 p.m. ascent from an open mine pit near Crosby, Minn. last night and their 7:26 a.m. landing today, the balloonists crossed parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. They were in a small fibreglass basket, open to the air.

As protection against cold, that reached 76 degrees below zero at the 40,000-foot stage, Mikesell and Ross wore heavy clothing. Above 12,000 feet they breathed oxygen.

Ross reached 84,000 feet last fall in an ascension in a spaled gondola.

On landing, the men were flown into a waiting helicopter and brought to the Dubuque, Iowa, airport. There they transferred to their tracking plane and flew to Minneapolis.

At the naval laboratory near Washington, Capt. Norman L. Barr, a medical officer, said one of the men had a decrease in the rate of electrical conduction from the top to bottom of his heart.

Barr said this apparently happened about the time an automatic safety device cut in at 37,000 feet to increase pressure inside the men's oxygen masks.

Initial YMCA Campaign Reports Scheduled Today

First report session from the general division of the YMCA fund campaign is set for 5:15 p.m. today at the Settles ballroom.

This also will be the occasion for another report by workers in the big gifts committee.

R. W. Whipkey, teams chairman for the general division, and the sectional chairmen, K. H. McGibbon and Clyde McMahon, all urged every worker to make a report on the status of the contacts he is to make.

D. M. McKinney, office manager, said it was almost as important to know the number of uncontacted prospects as to know results of the contacts made.

Workers may make their reports immediately upon reporting to the ballroom, filling out a solicitors envelope. Captains will make out team reports and in turn the sectional leaders will make reports for their sections.

The general division, with a goal of slightly over $100,000, has upwards of 300 volunteers at work on the building campaign.

Big 3 To Take NATO Allies Into East-West Summit Talks

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The Western Big Three announced today they are willing to take some of their NATO partners into East-West summit talks.

A joint statement by the United States, Britain and France singled out Italy as a possible partner in a future meeting at the top with the Soviet Union.

The statement was issued at Christiansborg palace where the 15 foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were preparing a communique expressing their firm resolve not to let the Soviet Union dictate the ground rules for a meeting at the summit.

Stressing unity of the North Atlantic Powers, the communique is expected to express the determination of the United States, Britain and France to continue negotiations in Moscow for top-level talks.

But it also will make clear the Millions 'Die' In Mock Atom Assault On U. S.

Civil Defense Alert A Success

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Civil defense forces across the nation today began the task of adding up the mythical death and injury toll from the biggest mock-nuclear attack in the five-year history of Operation Alert.

Millions of Americans theoretically died in the three-hour assault by more than 500 imaginary bombers and a few scattered submarines yesterday.

Uncounted others were marked for death by simulated radiation fallout from 291 bomb blasts swept across the country by prevailing winds today.

Civil defense officials hailed the annual exercise as an apparent success.

"The attack was heavier than ever before, but local and state planning and participation was better than ever too," a spokesman said.

"We've never had such effective simulated evacuations."

Eighty-five key cities undertook hypothetical evacuation. Ten of these, ranking in size from Blytheville, Ark., to Baltimore, Md., reported virtually 100 per cent evacuation.

Half a million civil defense workers took part in the paper test of their ability to cope with an actual attack.

Four million Illinois school children hurried from classrooms in evacuation drills. Mississippi river boats were tried out at Memphis, Tenn., for use as possible evacuation craft. President Eisenhower rushed to a secret bomb shelter outside Washington.

The test continues through tonight. Most of today's activities will focus on theoretical fallout problems.

Civil defense officials reported bomb blasts having the explosive power of as much as 10 million tons of TNT exploded in or near 270 cities and military installations.

The first attack warning came at 10:03 a.m. and the first wave of imaginary bombers roared over the nation's northern borders shortly after noon.

The Ft. Peck dam in Montana crumbled in the blast of the first bomb dropped in the United States.

Fifteen minutes earlier, a submarine lurking off the Pacific Coast theoretically put the Panama Canal out of commission with a pair of intermediate-range missiles that wiped out two locks.

Mythical attacking aircraft also swept in over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and hit points stretching from Augusta, Maine, to Honolulu, Hawaii and Fairbanks, Alaska.

Air defense forces knocked out 80 imaginary enemy aircraft, but more than 400 others got through.

Heart Attack Kills Witness At Labor Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sidney Lewis, described as a New York City publishing house official, fell dead of a heart attack in the Senate Office Building today. He was there to testify before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, told newsmen Lewis published the Labor Chronicle, a publication of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York.

Neither the Council nor the publication has been mentioned previously in the committee's hearings, and Kennedy declined to discuss the matter further.

Samuel R. Schneider, a New York attorney who was with Lewis, told reporters Lewis had appeared in response to a subpoena and had expected to testify today.

Lewis collapsed just 25 minutes before publication. McClellan (D-Ark.) gavelled the committee's hearing to order.

Today's hearing was reportedly to deal with an alleged swindle of New York employers through sale of advertisements in a union-sponsored publication.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the special Senate committee used the terms swindling and extortion yesterday in referring to a similar practice in Pennsylvania. Employer witnesses from the Philadelphia area said they were asked to buy advertisements to show friendliness to labor unions.

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—An infant, given a blood transfusion ordered by the court over the religious objections of his parents, was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital today.

The 6-day-old son of Willard and Darleen Siems, members of Jehovah's Witnesses, was given the transfusion Sunday. Doctors had said the infant was born with a blood condition which could cause death or permanent brain damage.

The doctors told the Siems couple an immediate blood transfusion was necessary but they refused to grant permission, contending it violated God's law.

State CD Officers To Determine What Happened In Alert

AUSTIN (AP)—State Civil Defense officials were expected today to determine what five Texas cities should have done on paper in mythical nuclear bomb attacks.

Five Texas cities were bombed in the make-believe exercise yesterday. Almost a half a million persons were theoretically killed and another 350,000 injured.

San Antonio suffered the heaviest under the simulated bombs. An estimated 390,835 were reported dead, 108,282 seriously injured and another 220,868 slightly injured in the mock attacks.

Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Beaumont and Port Arthur were the other target cities taking part in the nationwide operation alert practice.

The control center here said it spread the warning of approaching mythical enemy planes within seven minutes after the alert came from the national warning system. Texas cities had about 4 hours, 45 minutes warning before any make-believe bombs fell.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who flew here from Moscow to report on the latest Soviet position, talked for more than three hours last night with Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Jean La Loy, head of the European Affairs Section of the French Foreign Ministry.

Informed sources said Thompson brought with him a 15-page outline from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spelling out some of the Soviet proposals for a conference of government chiefs.

The Big Three diplomatic chiefs agreed that their envoys should continue their separate negotiations with Gromyko on summit preparations.

Former W. Texans Are Shot To Death

KILGORE, Tex. (AP)—Early Green and his estranged wife, both 36, were shot and killed about midnight at her home.

Justice of the Peace Coke Wilkins said Greene, unemployed and minus his left arm from an accident some years ago, fired two shots into his wife, Mrs. Ubie Rose Greene, a tavern waitress. He then shot himself in the head, Wilkins ruled. Greene died instantly. His wife succumbed about three hours later.

Mrs. Greene had planned to file suit for divorce, the justice of the peace said.

The couple was married here about four years ago, moved to Midland, Tex., and returned to Kilgore six weeks ago.

Law Experts Plan Procedures Study

AUSTIN (AP)—Attorneys, prosecutors and judges will start work Friday on a program aimed at advancing court procedures and rehabilitation.

National Probation and Parole Assn. Consultant Aubrey Elliott said the newly-formed Texas Council on the Administration of Justice will work with his group, which appointed it, but also will work independently.

"We visualize them going out to work under their own steam, although they also will advise us as to legal matters," Elliott said.

The headmistress at her school has asked Suzanne's mother to make other arrangements for her education. Parents of other girls at the school think Suzanne is too precocious. She gave an interview to a newspaper saying she wanted to be a model. The girl's mother says: "I feel my daughter is being penalized because she is growing up too fast."

Mass Killer Says Girl Friend Put Stop To Surrender

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Defense counsel for Charles Starkweather says he made a statement that his girl friend talked him out of an urge to surrender.

That was after six persons had died in a killing spree that brought death to 11 last January.

Counsel released parts of the statement to reporters at the end of the second day of Starkweather's first-degree murder trial for which a jury is not complete. It dealt with Starkweather's story of a talk with 14-year-old Carl Ann Fugate after the slaying near Bennet, Neb., of Robert Jensen, 17, and his date Carol King in an abandoned storm cellar.

In the statement, taken by Deputy County Atty. Dale Fahrenbrueck, Starkweather said he became miffed at Carl as the two drove away from the storm cellar and told her, "I am going to give myself up."

Starkweather quoted Carl as replying, "No, I wouldn't" and then saying she "wasn't going to give up and she wasn't going to let anything stand in the way of her giving up (sic)."

Baby Gets Blood Over Religious Protest Of Parents

ELGIN, Ill. (AP)—An infant, given a blood transfusion ordered by the court over the religious objections of his parents, was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital today.

Operation To Be Televised

Three-year-old Mable Chin, apparently unaware that she will star in a real-life television drama in New York City, gets cheerful attention from an interne, Irene Kriakopolu at University Hospital of New York University-Bellevue Medical Center. The operation to correct a heart defect of little Mable will be televised by the DuMont network in a program entitled, "Operation Heart Saver." The New York Heart Assn. says the telecast has been arranged to help the public better understand heart surgery.

DISLIKES PROTESTANTS Landlady Walls Up Evangelist

FONDI, Italy (AP)—A bucket and a 20-foot rope kept the Rev. Umberto Righetti in touch with the world today. His Catholic landlady had the Protestant minister bricked up inside a palace.

Unperturbed, the minister appeared at his second-story window and sang Protestant hymns.

It happened this way:

The Rev. Mr. Righetti came to this Catholic town, 75 miles south of Rome, eight years ago and gradually built up a church of Christ congregation of about 350.

Recently he rented rooms for residence and church services in an old baronial palace.

But there is only one door to his new quarters, and it is owned by Mrs. Gemma Rasile, who has rooms on the ground floor.

Mrs. Rasile said she wouldn't put up with Protestants trooping in and out her door.

When she warned the minister she planned to have it bricked up, he tried to have a new doorway cut. But the provincial superintendent of fine arts, who has the job of keeping old buildings unchanged, said he couldn't.

Mrs. Rasile's bricklayers showed up Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Righetti refused to come out and the door was sealed.

The minister said he was prepared to wait it out. With the bucket and rope, he pulled up groceries provided by his church members.

Folsom Resigns As Welfare Director

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marion Folsom resigned today as secretary of welfare, and President Eisenhower picked Arthur Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, to succeed him.

Folsom, 64, wrote Eisenhower he is leaving the Cabinet for personal reasons which he did not specify. He will step down sometime between July 15 and Aug. 1.

Accepting Folsom's resignation, Eisenhower sent to the Senate a formal nomination of Flemming to be chief of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Flemming, 53, is a former director of the Office of Defense Mobilization and for many years was a member of the Civil Service Commission.

Lt. Robert Estes Killed In England

Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Dillon received word this morning of the death of Lt. Robert L. Estes in Bentwaters, England, in a take-off crash of an airplane. No other particulars are known at present.

Lt. Estes was the husband of their niece, the former Mrs. Myrna Sproules Kuhens, who lived with the Dillons at the time she attended Howard County Junior College.

Mrs. Estes, who is at the home of her parents in Anthony, Kan., had made arrangements to join her husband in June. The couple was married here in January.

Water Withdrawals Show Big Increase

Water usage took a big jump during the past two days over the other four days of the month, topping 4.5 million on both days.

The city used 4,809,000 gallons on Tuesday and 4,502,000 on Monday, raising the month's total to 21,345,000 gallons. This is an average of 3,557,000 gallons per day.

The boy, son of M. Sgt. Andrew Royster of Bessemer, Ala., was rushed to the Base Hospital by a River ambulance after the accident. Officials at the hospital X-rayed him and then discharged him a short time later.

Sgt. Royster and his family were en route to Jackson, S. C., when the accident occurred. The other car involved was driven by Clinton Muse, 406 NW 7th.

Thundershowers Forecast In Area, Wind Stirs Dust

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast for Big Spring for today and Thursday took no note of the blustery wind which was whipping up dust. No mention was made of any wind at all—but the forecast clung, as it has stubbornly clung for days, to a repetition that there may be widely scattered thundershowers today and tomorrow.

Skies are to be partly cloudy to cloudy and it will be warm. A high of 90 is forecast for today with 60 as the low tonight and 89 as high for Thursday.

Tuesday was a summery day, with generally fair skies and a warm sun which pushed the thermometer to 90 degrees. Sixty degrees was the low this morning.

The gusty winds which prevailed today whipped in thin clouds which left the skies hazy.

DEAR ABBY

TOO MUCH PERFUME

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There's a woman in our office who thinks she is hot stuff. She dresses much too young for her age, but the worst part of her is that she uses a perfume that gives me a headache. When she passes my desk I can smell her perfume for hours. It's not only me. Others in the office have complained about it. How can we tell her without hurting her feelings?

THE OFFICE GANG
DEAR GANG: Let the co-worker who is on the friendliest terms with the offender be the spokesman; helpful advice of this nature must be handled with the utmost diplomacy, goodness "nose."

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to be a mean mother-in-law, but my problem is that my daughter-in-law lets her kids take her pots, pans and baking utensils outside to play with like they were toys. Then she borrows mine. Instead of asking for them back, I go out and buy myself new ones, but there has to be a limit. I have bought more baking pans, pie tins and flour sifters than you would believe. I know this isn't a matter of life or death but I wish you would tell me how to handle it.

MOTHER-IN-LAW
DEAR M-I-L: Go to the dime store and buy the kids TOY baking utensils intended for playing outside. Give them to your daughter-in-law to give to her children. Tell her from now on she must keep her baking utensils for baking only. (And be sure to smile when you say it.)

DEAR ABBY: About that family where the mother is Protestant and the father is Catholic and they expect to raise all the boys Catholic and all the girls Protestant. Our family is split just like theirs. We made the same bargain and believe me, it isn't working out. Our daughters go to Protestant Church and our son goes to Catholic school. They are growing apart from each other because all they do is fight over religion. I love my husband and I love all my children the same, but if I had known what the future held, I would never have made that kind of a bargain. SORRY NOW

DEAR ABBY: What's all this fuss about split religions in the family? We have three religions in ours and get along fine. I married a widower who is a Mormon but his deceased wife was Catholic so he is raising his two daughters Catholic. I am a Baptist and practice my own religion. We have never had a harsh word in our home about religion. It is a personal opinion, like one's political belief. TOLERANT CONFIDENTIAL TO UNHAPPY HAT-CHECK GIRL: You've been everything to that guy but an income tax deduction. Of course he won't marry you now. Why should he?

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Union Official Charges Strike Meant As Affront

JASPER, Tex. (AP) — A national labor union official charged yesterday the Operating Engineers Local 450 staged a one-day Gulf Coast strike in 1957 to embarrass a fact-finding committee.

Richard Gray of Washington, president of the Construction and Building Trade Department, made the charge in testimony in First District Court here. He was a witness in a hearing on a suit brought by Local 450 petitioning for a temporary injunction against an international trusteeship order.

Gray said the committee was composed of both craft union officials and representatives of national contractor groups and the tour was made to determine the cause of excessive construction costs.

"On the morning of Feb. 18, we were told that Local 450 had struck all jobs of national contractors in the Houston area. Employer members of our committee were incensed and took it as a personal affront. They resented it and so did I," Gray told the court. It was brought out in testimony there were 26 work stoppages along the Gulf Coast from July 1956 to March 1957 of which 13 involved the Operating Engineers local. It was also brought out there were 18 operating crafts in the building trade.

Earlier yesterday a spokesman for the local termed the trusteeship order a retaliatory move. A. J. Reinhardt, international district representative from Fort Worth, charged the action stemmed from opposition of the local to international union officers at a Chicago convention in 1956.

Reinhardt also said officers of Local 450 enforced terms of contract and work jurisdictions. He said "They insisted that if a man worked overtime they forced the employment of a master mechanic and steward at premium rates."

The local has approximately 3,800 members in six districts covering 94 counties.

Who Has The Power?

The Mikado (Lt. Paul Wagner) wants to sing out to the world about his power and nobility but Katisha (Mrs. Don Newsom), his self-appointed daughter-in-law-elect, overshadows and outshouts the Emperor of Japan. This is one of the scenes from "The Mikado," lively Gilbert and Sullivan musical to be staged at City Auditorium Monday and Tuesday by the HCJC Chorus, sponsored by the Rotary Club. "The Mikado" is a sort of sideways jibe at the pomp and circumstance of Imperial Britain.

Brunette Claims Dennis Crosby Fathered Child

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A pretty Hollywood brunette says that Dennis Crosby is the father of her 5-month old daughter.

Dennis, son of Bing Crosby, is honeymooning in Las Vegas, Nev., with a blonde show girl he married Sunday night.

Marilyn Scott, 25, told her story when newspaper reporters produced copies of Denise Michelle Scott's birth certificate, listing the father as Dennis Michael Crosby.

"I'm sorry this had to come out, she said. "All the more sorry for the effect it will have on my baby's future."

She said she met Dennis in a Sunset Strip restaurant, began dating him and went with him for a couple of months.

"When I first told him I was pregnant he made no offer to marry me—nor did he offer to support the baby," she said. "So I went to an attorney. The attorney took care of everything."

When newsmen asked Dennis about the report, he phoned his family's attorneys in Los Angeles and later told reporters: "On my attorney's advice, I am not going to comment on the situation. Until I can straighten some things out with a few people, I cannot make any further statements."

There was no word on the matter from Bing, who was reported on a fishing trip. Reporters have been trying to locate him since Dennis married Pat Sheehan. Pat is a 26-year-old divorcee. She has a 6-year-old son. She and Bing dated at one time.

Mrs. Scott, a divorcee who came to Hollywood seeking a movie career, said she was sure Pat knew about the baby girl. Pat, like Dennis, wouldn't discuss the subject.

Mrs. Scott is a former model and switchboard operator. She said that she received a settlement from the Crosby family, but wouldn't say how much.

"I saw no reason to say anything to anybody," she said. "The Crosbys have been fair and square with me."

She said Dennis had never seen her baby.

"I met Dennis again in January," she said, "and I invited him to come and see the baby. But he didn't come."

Pat Morin's Pulitzer Prize Climax To Heart Disease Fight

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—Every newsroom has its favorite drama. This is ours.

On April 25, 1955, Relman (Pat) Morin, special correspondent for the Associated Press, who had covered most of the big ones in war and peace, was hit by a heart attack. He was convinced he was through.

On May 5, 1958, Pat Morin won a Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the integration violence in Little Rock, Ark. It was one of the biggest, most complex, most emotional stories of the year and the decade. Also, one of the most strenuous.

Pat Morin's comeback was complete. The word is used advisedly for he had never been away, except in his own mind.

Three years ago, he recovered physically from his heart attack. After four months, he returned to his desk and to a warm welcome. But Pat was suspicious. He couldn't shake loose the dark feeling that he was being shelved; that, far from the electric excitement of the big, breaking news stories, he would be given only the quiet easy assignments, the leisurely background stories, the relaxed features.

A starting pitcher for many years, Pat Morin was now certain he'd only be used in batting practice.

"Everyone at the office was very solicitous when I got back," he recalls. "Gradually, I got the feeling I was being wrapped in cotton wool. I remember there was talk of sending me up to New England to cover the floods but someone thought that would involve too much jumping around. So they gave me an assignment right here in New York.

"In 1952, I had covered the political campaign trains, always one of the most tiring assignments. In 1956, I covered a couple of primaries, did some analytical pieces but never got near a campaign train. I began to wonder whether I'd ever get a fast-breaking story again."

Since joining the AP in 1934, Pat had covered many fast-breaking stories—in Los Angeles, in New York, London, Algiers, Tokyo, Cairo, New Delhi, Italy and Korea. Came Pearl Harbor and he was interned by the Japanese. Released in 1942, he covered the war in Europe. Came the peace, and he headed AP bureaus in Paris and Washington. This time among the paddies, where he won his first Pulitzer Prize.

He became the kind of correspondent for which they coined the word "roving." In a given year, he traveled more than 40,000 miles, at home and abroad. He covered the coronation of a queen in Westminster Abbey and the inauguration of a president in Washington—the execution of the Rosenbergs, presidential campaign trains, strikes, crimes, trials.

All these were strenuous assignments but in 1955, after a heart attack at 47, Pat Morin thought he was to be benched as an arm-chair reporter.

"I had doubts on two counts. Frankly, I myself wondered if I could again take on a physically demanding story. Also, I doubted the office would give me one."

Both doubts were removed in Little Rock last year, between Sept. 10 and Oct. 1. For days he was on his feet hours on end, fighting through crowds, rushing to phones, dictating and writing far into the night, sleeping little most nights, not at all some nights.

Now and then, he slipped into a grocery store near the Little Rock High School to make notes on a napkin, to grab a cup of coffee and gulp down some pills and drops. The pills were to counteract the fat deficiency in his diet. The drops were to strengthen his heart muscle.

"Actually," Pat recalls, "I don't think I thought about my heart attack except once, after working all night, I wondered whether I was pushing my luck too far. But my health remained fine."

"Little Rock, for me, was getting over a mountainous hump. That's why the Pulitzer Prize was doubly sweet."

Texas Boy Wins $32,000 On TV

Texas Cotton Men Push Legislation

AUSTIN (AP)—A unified Texas cotton industry began pressing today for congressional passage of a bill giving cotton growers their choice of taking either more acreage or higher price supports.

The recommendation grew out of a meeting yesterday of 50 representatives of all phases of the industry.

W. F. Hofman, president of the Old Cotton Belt Assn, which sponsored the statewide meeting, said he understood there was little chance for a bill to pass unless the cotton interests united on a single bill.

Present cotton acreage allotments expire with this year's crop and allotments will drop to about 13,600,000 acres in 1959, a slice of nearly four million acres unless new legislation is passed.

If Congress approves the bill it would be submitted to the farmers at a referendum later this year.

A seven-man committee, headed by Eugene Butler, editor of the Progressive Farmer, of Dallas, returned these legislation guideposts, adopted without dissent, calling for:

1. Equitable income protection to cotton producers.

2. Abolishment of the acreage reserve of the Soil Bank.

3. A national allotment for the 1959 season of not less than 17 1/2 million acres to be made available for allocation to growers for planting under the following plan: The grower would have his choice of accepting lower acreage at higher price support or higher allotment at lower parity support.

4. A competitive price to all mill customers of American cotton growers at a price on a level with synthetics and foreign cotton production.

5. Continuation of the organization to promote liaison and harmony among the Texas cotton industries.

Hofman said it was the first time spokesmen from all the cotton producing areas and related industries had met to find a common ground for getting an acceptable bill passed in Washington.

Cotton Week

AUSTIN (AP)—National Cotton Week in Texas will be May 19-24, Gov. Daniel said yesterday. He said millions of people will benefit if efforts succeed to increase the use of cotton, cottonseed and their products.

U.S. Cage Players Missed Razzing

MOSCOW — The main thing American Basketball players missed on their just-completed tour of the Soviet Union was the good old U.S.-style "razzberry."

No booing by Russian spectators. No barracking. No show of favoritism.

"The Russian fans were almost too polite," said Bert Born, star of the Peoria, Ill., Cats. "We sometimes felt we were playing some other game."

The girls found the Soviets leaned over backwards to be good sports.

"When the Soviet girls beat us they did it gracefully," said Margaret Holloran of the Nashville (Tenn.) Business College team.

Relations were so good between the two teams during the 10-day visit that the Americans immediately invited Russian teams to play in the United States next winter.

Preliminary plans were made for a series of U.S.-Russian games, starting Feb. 1. Games would be played in Denver, Peoria, Kansas City, San Francisco and New York.

The American teams headed homeward today.

Texans Argue Water Projects

WASHINGTON — Ten delegations of Texans were called before a House Appropriations subcommittee today to present their views on proposed flood control, navigation and water utilization projects.

One group from deep East Texas and one from West Texas waited turns to oppose construction of dams they contend would flood valuable timber and farm lands.

More Texans were lined up to testify tomorrow on other projects. Most of those appearing today before the House committee also move to the other side of the Capitol tomorrow to plead before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

M. I. Bryant of San Angelo backed pleas of Rep. Clark Fisher (D-Tex) for money to build a 32-million-dollar reclamation and flood control project at San Angelo. Water users eventually would repay the government about 19 million dollars of this cost.

Rep. Lindley Beckworth (D-Tex) arranged for a delegation from his part of East Texas to testify in support of funds to continue planning surveys along the Sabine River and its tributaries. In that group were Gregg County Judge Earl Sharp and Verne Clements of Longview and Jimmy Hudnall, Tyler geologist.

Standard of Texas No. 1 Currie drilled today at 6,668 feet after recovering only 15 feet of drilling fluid with no shows of oil or gas on a drillstem test. Operator tested from 6,480-538 feet with tool open one hour. All pressures were zero. The 11,000-foot project is four miles south of production in the Howard-Glasscock field, C NW NW, 220-29, W&NW Survey.

Woodson Oil Co. took potential test today at the No. 3 Pauline in the North Vincent field. Total depth is 7,651 feet, and perforations extend from 7,408-18, 7,444-49, and 7,458-63 feet. The well is 2,002 from south and 330 from east lines, 57-20, Lavaca Navigation Survey.

ORIENTATION MEET PUT OFF

The orientation session at Big Spring State Hospital on May 13 has been postponed, Mrs. Ira Thurman, coordinator, announced Wednesday.

Too many conflicts forced the postponement, she said. The date has been reset tentatively for June 24. Volunteer workers at the hospital go through the orientation as a prerequisite to working with patients.

Robbers Snag Money Truck

LONDON — Six robbers intercepted a money truck today. One of them drove it on to a London bank and in no time at all had $120,400 inside the truck—also a cashier and a guard.

The truck was on its way to the bank as the robbers stopped it, bound and gagged its driver and shoved him into the back seat of their car.

One of the gang then got behind the wheel of the truck. He drove it to the Westminster Bank where a cashier and his guard were waiting. The robber calmly got out, opened the doors and the two bank employees got in with the money. The robber slammed the doors, locking the pair in, and drove off to his rendezvous with the other gang members.

After clubbing the cashier and guard, the robbers dumped them into the street, transferred the money to their car and made their getaway.

CD Leaders Are Pleased With Results Of Tornado Test Alert

Big Spring pulled off its first practice tornado alert Tuesday, with Civil Defense leaders coming away well pleased with the result.

R. R. Black, assistant coordinator, said today that overall, the alert was a success. He said that naturally there were a "few bugs" in the procedure which would have to be ironed out.

"But that was the idea in having the alert—to find the bugs," said Black.

One of the reasons for staging the alert was to test the coverage of the warning system. The blasts of sirens belonging to the city, T&P, and governmental agencies were generally heard, said Black, but there were several spots over the city where they weren't noticed.

Black said that persons were still calling the police at 8 p.m. Tuesday reporting that coverage in their area was good, or bad.

During the time of the alert Tuesday evening, CD Coordinator W. D. Berry presented the picture of the CD setup to his organizational chairmen assembled in the classroom of the police building—headquarters for the tornado alert.

Berry explained how the organization would go into action in case of a real tornado. Assembled were men and women in charge of operational services—transportation, communications—fire, police rescue, welfare, medical, engineering, and first aid. Also there were representatives of the Red Cross and other agencies which would be affected in case of a disaster.

In addition to the police department, a unit of the Military Affiliate Radio System maintained communications with the helicopter which served as the "tornado." Black expressed gratitude this morning to the MARS group for its communications setup.

He said the Air Force crew should be commended not only for the work in the alert Tuesday but for the extra work which went into getting the emergency truck ready for Tuesday's activities. The truck belongs to the MARS unit but is available for disaster work.

Job of tracking the "tornado" was given to units of the Department of Public Safety (highway patrol), the sheriff's offices of Howard and Martin counties, and the police department.

A call came into the CD Headquarters every two or three minutes from the time the "tornado" was sighted until the all-clear was sounded at 6:41. These sightings were made by the various agencies and then plotted by Berry on a large county map.

He said the Air Force crew should be commended not only for the work in the alert Tuesday but

Widow Held In Poison Deaths Of 4 People

MACON, Ga. (AP)—A young widow faced murder charges today in the arsenic poisonings of her 9-year-old daughter, two husbands and mother-in-law over a six-year period.

Mrs. Annette Donovan Lyles, 32, was arrested in a hospital room Tuesday and placed under guard. She reportedly has been hospitalized since shortly after her daughter Marcia Elaine Lyles, died April 5.

Through her attorney, Mrs. Lyles said, "I have committed no crime."

In addition to the death of her daughter, Mrs. Lyles is accused of murdering her first husband, Ben F. Lyles Jr., Jan. 25, 1952; her second husband, Joe Neal Gabbert, Dec. 2, 1955; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ben F. Lyles Sr., Sept. 29, 1957.

Murder warrants were obtained by Coroner L. H. Chapman, who said tests by the state crime laboratory showed arsenic poison in the bodies of all four victims.

Mrs. Lyles—she resumed that name through a court order after Gabbert's death—operates a restaurant in downtown Macon.

Sheriff James I. Wood would not release information on a possible motive. He said he has "many facts which need verification before they can be released."

Gabbert, 26, a pilot for Capitol Airlines, was buried in Bibb (Macon) County but the body later was exhumed and sent to El Paso, Tex., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Gabbert Sr.

MARKETS

WALL STREET (AP)—Stock market prices moved irregularly in active dealings early this afternoon. Most key stocks showed fractional changes.
The market was holding fairly well at 11:30 a.m. but reached after a drive in five straight sessions.
The lighter tape fell behind for the third straight day. Initial prices were slightly higher. As prices became mixed, trading moderated.
Some encouraging company reports gave further ammunition to those who believe a business upturn is not far off.
American Motors continued strong, adding another fraction following news that the company is again increasing production and hiring more workers.
Republic Aviation was ahead around a point.
Lorillard was down about a point in profit taking.
Most major groups were thoroughly mixed. Bulls showed a slight advantage on average. Santa Fe and Southern Pacific were up a bit. Chesapeake & Ohio were a small loss.
U. S. Steel, Goodyear, Caterpillar, Zenith, Texas Co. and International Telephone gained a little. Losers included Gulf Oil, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Anaconda, Du Pont and General Electric.
U. S. government bonds were unchanged to a bit lower.

Confessed Killer Arrives In Texas

AMARILLO (AP)—Unkempt, unshaven David McKnight, shackled in leg irons, arrived here today to face charges of brutally murdering a crippled pawn broker.

The confessed killer still harbored his girl friend, who favored a bullet in the head to trial. Georgia Bryan, 19, killed herself in a filling station office as authorities closed in on the pair Monday in Colorado. She died in a Denver hospital.

Amarillo Police Chief Wiley Alexander, who brought McKnight to this city, said: "We didn't get much out of him on the way back. He answered everything with a shake of his head or a grunt. He hasn't had much to say or eat—a hamburger is all he would take—since he learned the girl died."

McKnight still wept for the girl as Alexander and Detective Sgt. E. N. Smith took custody at Georgetown, Colo., yesterday. The arrest of McKnight, 21, and

Sherman Due Air Base School

DALLAS (AP)—Sherman school authorities and officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare plan to confer Tuesday in Sherman on details of a new elementary school at Perrin Air Force Base.

Dr. W. R. Skipping, senior field representative for the office of education in Dallas, said the planned school would have room for 130 elementary students. There is no mention of a high school in present plans, he said. The base does not have a school now, although, said Dr. Skipping, "a site is reserved in the housing area, and it is a very nice site."

He said the Sherman Independent School District would operate the school. It would be built with federal funds.

Dr. Skipping said he understood that the total cost has not been estimated by the Housing and Home Finance Agency which would be responsible.

He said it would require a couple of months for the letting of a contract after details of the school are settled.

Dr. Skipping said the conference will be, among other things, to determine how best to use the 7,700 square feet of space allotted. Children of parents now stationed at the base attend Sherman schools. Many military installations have school buildings on the installations with local school districts operating them.

A Bible Thought For Today

Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. (Hebrews 4:16)

It's How You Say It

Ignorant outlanders in the electronic field of newscasting have been guilty of mispronouncing our noble mesquite. They put the accent on the first syllable and shorten the "e," and it comes out sounding like mess kit, which is what an infantryman on field maneuvers eats out of. Even the dictionary does wrong by our feathery native, by making a first syllable accent permissible, but it stands staunchly by the long "e."

What they do to many Texas place names is a caution, particularly Waco and Waxahachie, in which the "a" is given variegated treatment. They can be forgiven in the case of Bexar, Mexia, Yegua and some others, for even Texans have their troubles here. We once heard Chihuahua called Chickahaha. In Arizona, the cowboys soon reduced Chiracahua to "Cherry-cow," which wasn't so bad. (Or did you know the natives of Cowpens, S. C., site of a famous Revolutionary War battle, call it "kup-enz"?)

We have quit trying to figure out why so many Texans always place a heavy accent on the first syllable of a double-named town, such as Big Spring, Fort Worth, and Hot Springs, but not if the last name has more than one syllable, such as Fort Ringgold.

A still greater mystery is why so many school children these days give the Cockney sound to the "a" as in polyto, tomyto and "plyce" for place.

Glorification Of Crime Blasted

John Edgar Hoover, as director of the FBI, is a man peculiarly in position to trace the origins of crime and pass an opinion on their probable inception.

Taking the role of editorial writer in the May issue of the FBI Bulletin Mr. Hoover writes:

"As a law enforcement officer and as an American citizen, I feel duty bound to speak out against a dangerous trend which is manifesting itself in the field of film and television entertainment.

"In the face of the nation's terrifying juvenile crime wave, we are threatened with a flood of movies and television presentations which flaunt indecency and applaud lawlessness. Not since the days when thousands filed past the bier of the infamous John Dillinger and made his home a virtual shrine have we witnessed such a brazen affront to our national conscience."

Mr. Hoover related some recent incidents to indicate the shocking nature of some modern juvenile crimes of violence, including two Oklahoma boys, aged 10 and 12, who terrorized a town and left one dead, and two wounded in their gunplay. These boys, Mr. Hoover added, told police they got the idea from watching television and movie crime stories.

Be that as it may, the excessive use of crime as a theme seems to obsess the producers of motion picture and television programs. Only lip service is paid to the theme that crime does not pay; almost without exception such productions are filled with all forms of violence, of which simple old-fashioned gunplay is a minor part. Brutal beatings are frequent; fist-fighting between officers of the law and their quarry predominates.

Not only that, but many of these crime themes falsify history. Kit Carson, who stood 5 feet 4 and weighed 125 pounds wringing wet, in real life a trader, scout, explorer and a brigadier general in the Union Army, becomes a lawman on the screen—a rocking, socking, 6 foot, 2 in., 200-lb. holy terror to evildoers.

The Texas Rangers, who never in their history wore a prescribed uniform, emerge in natty get-ups, slugging and punching themselves to glory—wham, wham, wham—wrecking the furniture and laying their out-cold victims in windrows by sheer fist-power.

Horsethefters. The old Rangers were shooters, not fist-slingers. In their time fist-fighting was regarded as sissy.

Violence to the person, involving both lawmen and their quarry, is the hallmark of the stuff Hollywood is feeding our children today. Small wonder some of them catch the fever.

David Lawrence We Deserve To Know The Umpire

WASHINGTON—Attorney General William P. Rogers has his baseball metaphors mixed up. He says the bills being considered in Congress to curb the excesses of the Supreme Court are the result of the same sort of outcry heard from spectators at a baseball game who shout, "kill the umpire!"

But what the critics of the Supreme Court really want is for the "umpire" to stick to his job of watching the ball and abiding by the rules. They don't think it's the umpire's duty to make new rules or to tell the manager of the club, for instance, just when he can put in a different pitcher. They don't like to see an umpire deciding that, when a ball drops outside the foul line, it is a foul for one team but, when the other team hits the ball into exactly the same spot, it isn't a foul at all. In other words, the fans don't want to see the umpire moving the foul line around to suit himself.

That's essentially what the dispute is about as the Supreme Court ignores the rules of the game repeatedly and makes up its own rules that are then proclaimed as binding on everybody—even to the point of telling Congress what questions may be asked in formal hearings through which its committees seek to get information to guide them in writing new laws.

Also, in a baseball game, everybody knows who the umpire is. He appears in full uniform and he has a rule book to go by. In the Supreme Court's work, it isn't always possible to know who the umpire happens to be.

Thus every justice has two law clerks, and the chief justice has four. These assistants don't have to be confirmed by the Senate. They are not supposed to be judges. Yet they perform some of the work of the Supreme Court justices, especially in connection with what are known as "writs of certiorari." These are petitions to the Supreme Court to grant an appeal from the lower courts. If the writ is denied, there's no appeal. It means a final judicial decision so far as the citizen is concerned. The justice himself signs the denial of the writ, but the basic judgment which has preceded it often comes from a young law clerk imbued with all sorts of ideas as to the role of the Supreme Court in the nation today.

Just a week ago, the "New York Times," in its Sunday magazine, had an article by a former law clerk to a Supreme Court justice who discussed very frankly the role played by the law clerks, many of whom come from the law schools imbued with the viewpoint of the so-called "intellectuals." The article said:

"Law clerks, then, generally assist their respective justices in searching the law books and other sources for materials relevant to the decision of cases before the court....

"The clerks often present the fruits of their searches to their justices along with their recommendations. They go over drafts of opinions and may suggest changes. They tend to see a lot of their justices, and talk a great deal with them. And the talk is mostly about law and cases....

"What is more important, the way to the justice's mind was always open. There was always someone—fresh from the immersion in ideas that marks a law-school and law-review career—poised at the justice's elbow, willing and able to do intellectual combat."

In baseball, anybody making decisions on the field of play must appear in uniform as an umpire and has to be seen. There are no invisible umpires.

Certainly when a lawyer has argued his case and submitted it to the Supreme Court justices, he ought to have a right of rebuttal against any new points raised by "law clerks," especially some of those remarkable "footnotes" in Supreme Court opinions which have introduced new material of a controversial nature never brought up when the case itself was argued.

Another former law clerk to a Supreme Court justice, writing last December in "U. S. News & World Report," said:

"After conceding a wide diversity of opinion among the clerks themselves, and further conceding the difficulties and possible inaccuracies inherent in political cataloging of people it is nonetheless fair to say that the political cast of the clerks as a group was to the 'left' of either the nation or the court."

"Some of the tenets of the liberal point of view which commanded the sympathy of a majority of the clerks I knew were: Extreme solicitude for the claims of Communists and other criminal defendants, expansion of federal power at the expense of state power, great sympathy toward any government regulation of business—in short, the political philosophy now espoused by the court under Chief Justice Earl Warren."

Surely the Senate of the United States ought to examine the whole law-clerk system to determine whether perhaps these "clerks" should be given "umpire status," or at least classified as "assistant justices," perhaps, instead of letting them change from year to year, Congress should provide permanent assistants to the justices and require that among their qualifications should be actual experience on the bench in trial courts. For if the "law clerks" play such a vital part in the making of the "supreme law of the land," something more ought to be known by the Senate judiciary committee as to the method of their selection and the limits of their "judicial" activities.

Three's Quite A Crowd

James Marlow A Gruesome Cold War Question

WASHINGTON—This is one of the most gruesome questions in the cold war:

Could this country, now in recession, afford a big cut in defense spending even if it could reach a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union tomorrow?

Over the past five years this country has spent another 200 billion dollars for defense, a rate of 40 billions a year.

And this year President Eisenhower is asking for another 40 billions. That means a lot of jobs for workers and a lot of money for American business.

Eisenhower didn't ask this direct question in two talks Tuesday to the Republican members of Congress and to an Advertising Council Conference.

But he raised it obliquely by asking what would happen if the foreign aid program alone — for which he's asking about four billions — were stopped or deeply cut.

The foreign aid program, more recently called mutual security, has cost 60 billions since World War II.

It includes arms and military equipment for Allies, plus economic help for them and other friendly countries. On this foreign aid alone Eisenhower said: "I remind everyone that 80 cents out of every dollar that we spend for mutual aid does not go to foreign lands. It goes to work right here at home. That means hundreds of thousands of jobs for American workers."

"It means large outlays for American machinery, iron and steel, farm goods, chemicals and motor vehicles."

Then, pointing out mutual aid helps American security besides helping the economic development of the non-Communist world, he said: "Now, stating these same results, in a converse way, and in the form of a question: 'What would it mean to us, aside from the loss of thousands of jobs, if this program were stopped or sharply reduced?'"

He might have gone further and asked:

"If thousands would be thrown out of work by ending or drastically cutting a program so comparatively small as foreign aid, what would happen if the defense program were cut from 40 billion dollars to say 10 billions?"

Eisenhower did try to envision what might have been done with the 200 billions spent over the past five years for defense—if we hadn't had to spend it for that purpose.

He conjured up a picture of "all our schools built, all of our roads built and all our hospitals built that we would need for the next 10 years with everyone of them splendidly equipped."

A nice picture. But it doesn't explain what would happen to the American economy if the 40 billion—because of a disarmament agreement — were suddenly chopped in half or less.

And it's not a realistic picture that Eisenhower painted.

Before Congress would spend 200 billions, or close to it, for the hospitals, schools and roads Eisenhower dreamed of, the legislators first would have to undergo a profound change or be shocked into it by a catastrophic economic collapse.

Just one example will illustrate the point: Eisenhower himself has been talking of federal aid to schools for years, a major program of school building.

And Congress still hasn't spent a dime on such a program and it won't this year either.

In short: we're not living in a natural economy. We're living in a cold war economy. Even with all the defense spending we have a recession. It remains to be seen how we'd make out if there were no cold war.

Contented Dogs

BRANCHBURG, N. J. — A dog's best friend in over 50 communities around here is the Contented Warden Service.

Started six years ago by David Condit and Michael Kreodovski who were fed up with the dog food business, Contented offers dog-warden service at a fraction of the cost of retaining a full-time municipal dog catcher. And Contented dogs have it soft.

And they are kept until claimed by an owner or an interested dog lover and have free lodging and medical service while they wait.

Burning Idea

MANITOWOC, Wis. — The Coast Guard is planning to clear debris from Lake Michigan with a bonfire.

A derelict barge, of a type no longer used on the Great Lakes, has ridden up onto a reef about 400 yards offshore from Point Creek, 7 1/2 miles south of here. It is believed to be one that sank in a storm many years ago.

When Lake Michigan calms down, the Coast Guard will try to burn the wreckage, since it is too heavy for any available towing equipment to pull from the reef.

Fit For A Dog

MILWAUKEE — Dogs these days are offered a variety of lodgings that rival their human masters' choice of quarters.

Milwaukee offers a Puppy Lodge, a Motel for Pets, a K-9 Ranch and, for dogs barking with a Spanish accent, a Chihuahua Hacienda.

Around The Rim We Go For A Sunday Ride

We didn't exactly make it a family affair as in the old days, but my wife, our youngest and I did make a stab at experiencing a once revered institution—the Sunday afternoon drive.

Driving about the country was once an established procedure, long before the teen-agers resorted to the practice of dragging Main. It started back in the surly days and blossomed to its highest form during the days of the model-T. You see, that worthy machine, at its fastest, moved at a pace which permitted one to take in everything.

But back to our Sunday safari. We moved out the highway and drank in the beauties of the flowers and of the lacy pale green of the cautious mesquite.

Then we turned off on a lateral road and just poked along. There wasn't much traffic and we savored the vast spread of color over the landscape. At one point the bitterweed had covered the pasture as though it had been dusted with gold. Across the way the tansy asters created the impression of a solid spread of lavender.

Alongside the road we slowed to see the buttercups and the wild verbenae as well as the Indian blankets and sweet william and the yellow daisies. At one point, almost obscured by the mesquite thickets, we could see a veritable flower garden in an adjoining pasture.

Most of the fields had been put up and the deep listed furrows lay precisely and patiently awaiting the planters. Here and there were patches of wheat, some grazed partially by the livestock in the belly deep verdance. Other patches stood thigh-high and ready for the threshers.

It was such a lazy day that the jack-rabbits sat indifferently as we drove by, pricking up their ears when we whistled. Now and then a young cottontail hopped off beside the road, unharmed and unfrightened. The cattle were sleek and fat and their coats shone as though they had been waxed and polished.

Scissor-tails fluttered off their perches, and occasionally a pair of doves fluttered up from the roadside. In the distance you could hear the trills of the mockingbird. Once we stopped dead still and gaped. There he was—a cardinal—blandly pecking himself a meal and totally unconcerned that his flaming beauty had stopped the traffic.

You Don't Have To Be Gouged In France

PARIS—The French as a nation may be as sore as a boil at Uncle Sam over the Algerian crisis, as we keep hearing back home. But they don't seem to be the least bit mad at me, as an American. If I have been insulted, robbed or snarled at during the past week, then I am just too dumb to realize it.

If there is anti-Americanism here, it doesn't seem to be directed toward the individual. At least every Frenchman I have come in contact with has been as polite as pie and Nellie nice, and that includes everyone from customs clerks to countesses, and from taxi drivers to femmes de chambre.

But then, I have never felt that the French as a race were any more larcenous than any other national, including Americans. I even cherish the maverick view that the French have to put up with as much from the tourist as the tourist has to endure from the French.

It has always seemed outrageously unfair to me to hear a tourist complain because it costs him as much to live in France as it costs a Frenchman! If a tourist finds the cost of living high in France, he should hear a vocal Frenchman on the subject of low income inflation, soaring living costs, and lack of housing.

I have been coming to France regularly for more than two decades, and I have never yet understood the general reputation of the Paris taxi driver for highway robbery. No one has every called me Pollyanna, but it seems to me that a taxi driver here is almost excessively grateful for a 100-franc (about 22 cents) tip.

The other night, I took a guest to one of my favorite Paris restaurants, Fouquet's, for dinner. We had an aperitif each, a delicious three-course a la carte dinner with a bottle of wine. The tab, with 15 cent per service and an additional small tip, came to $13.

It seems doubtful if a French tourist could buy a comparable dinner in a comparable restaurant in New York for much less than twice that sum. I stayed at one of the best hotels in Paris, the Bristol, where it cost me about $12 per day for a delightful big room with bath. A French tourist would be very lucky to get a comparable room in a comparable hotel in New York for $18 per day. There is no law that forces an American Tourist to stay at the Paris Ritz or to eat luncheon every day at the Tour d'Argent and dine every night at Maxim's, devoutly as this parlay may be desired. To me, this way would spell financial ruin. And I have scant sympathy for tourists on a Ritz-Maxim's-Tour d'Argent kick who have the nerve to complain about the prices.

Part of the fun of being in Paris is shopping for the good, small and inexpensive restaurants that dot this city. By law, every restaurant, great or small, must post its daily menu with prices in the window. I have shopped many a time until I have found a restaurant that fitted my pocketbook.

The last time I was in Paris I lost my temper because a hotel charged me 100 francs for hotel stationery. Nothing like that had ever happened before, and there has certainly been no gouging on this trip.

Furthermore, the American tourist this season will not be met in Paris by any of the old "Yank, Go Home!" signs. These have all disappeared under an avalanche of chalked slogans growing out of the Algerian rebellion, and aimed at Frenchmen by other Frenchmen.

J. A. Livingston Tax Cut Means More Easy-Come, Easy-Go

This recession is like a serious illness. One doctor says, "Operate." Another prescribes further tests. Another suggests a specific medication. Result: A quandary for the patient and his relatives.

Which doctor is right? Which doctor penetrates to the real cause and, hence, proposes the proper treatment? In medicine, as in economics, the majority can be wrong. The most clamorous isn't necessarily right.

Our plight in America today, with $5,100,000 persons unemployed and no recovery in sight, is to find the doctor who is right. The common prescription for what ails us is: Cut taxes. Push five to 10 billion dollars into the hands of taxpayers, consumers, and you'll get an increase in spending.

A tax cut could be like giving a patient adrenalin. He may be temporarily stimulated but hurt in the long run. All depends on the diagnosis.

It isn't as if consumers don't have money. They do. Personal income is off only slightly from its high. Weekly earnings of workers have dropped only 4 per cent. Yet, prices keep going up, and the purchasing power of a week's wages is down. People are balking at the high prices.

Some consumers are caught up in installment obligations they can't meet. They have been sold what they couldn't afford, which is poor business as well as poor morality. Finance company repossessions of new cars sold within 12 months have risen to about eight per hundred. Before the big spurge of nothing-down-and-three-years-to-pay selling of 1955, repossessions were considerably lower, two or three per hundred. No doubt, a tax cut would stop some repossessions. But it would also perpetuate what ails the economy.

We have gone through 12 years of rising wages and prices. On July 1 as the result of a three-year contract, David J. McDonald's United Steelworkers union is to get 20 cents an hour more in wage and fringe benefits. That will add to costs in steel. It will rigidify if not increase the cost of autos, washing machines, typewriters, nails. It's a bad deal for the union, the steel industry, and you and me. It ought not to go through, unmodified.

The boost won't help steel workers who are unemployed. It won't help school-teachers, printers, construction workers, department store clerks, taxi drivers. Only steel workers who are working will profit at the expense of all of us. The purchasing power of everyone else will be squeezed.

Wouldn't it make more sense to speed defense contracts to Detroit to alleviate the distress of workers rather than hope that a general reduction in taxes would increase demand for autos?

We must decide as a nation whether a tax cut will persuade Harlow H. Curtis, of General Motors, and Henry Ford II, of the Ford Co., to reduce prices, cut costs, and make cars that Americans will buy more avidly. We must ask ourselves whether a tax cut, by acting as a temporary spur to business will prolong and intensify ills besetting an industry in a state of what may be fundamental change.

The Big Three in automobility have offered Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers a two-year contract. They've offered an annual boost of seven cents an hour for increased productivity. Yet productivity is down, not up. They've offered to extend the cost-of-living escalation clause, which is built-in trouble built-in inflation.

This is a period when labor leaders and industrial leaders ought to decide whether any wage increases are justified. A hastily contrived tax cut would give us another dose of the easy-come-easy-go. It would treat the symptom—and delay needed price reductions and hard-to-get labor-management decisions.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Oklahomans who have been dutifully paying their taxes and eating their oleo will note that butter is again available to the state's relief clients. Believers in the more abundant life may detect nothing unusual in this state of affairs. As long as the federal government has more butter than it knows what to do with it's only fitting that somebody should be delegated to eat it up. But where does this leave the working stiff who pays the taxes that buy the butter to keep relief clients fat and the farmers less disgruntled?

Politics has become largely a matter of using the police power to take wealth from some people and bestow it on others. But in this accelerating process a point may eventually be reached when the people who are getting special political favors outnumber those who are supposed to provide the wherewithal. Obviously everybody can't ride. Who wants to work for oleo when by not working he can eat butter?

Ike Leaves Way Open To Hold Support From GOP Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says GOP prospects are bright and the party can win, if it works, in the November election. But he left himself free to withhold his support from Republicans who do not back his program.

Teasing off the party's 1958 election campaign, Eisenhower said last night that, in a nutshell, the Republican case before America is "responsive, responsible government at home—plus effective support for programs essential to America's peace and security in this gravely menaced world."

He exhorted Democrats and Republicans alike to line up against what he termed the evil force of tyrannical Communist imperialism and push through Congress his world trade, foreign aid and military reorganization plans.

In a new era of great uneasiness and "unbalanced terror in the world," he said, "our national survival and human liberty are at stake in the way we form and sustain our national policies."

The approaching decisions on the three key legislative items he named, he said, "demand our attention as Americans, without regard to partisanship" because they are of grave importance to the nation and world peace.

Yet all three are encountering rough going on Capitol Hill—and some members of the President's own party are helping make it rough. Only yesterday a House committee halted work on reciprocal trade extension and called on Eisenhower for a compromise proposal.

SURE TO WIN

At a dinner honoring Republicans in Congress, Eisenhower wound up with this political forecast and promise: "If we will but try—if we will never forget the value of good, hard work—we are certain, with our record, to win next November. This is the sure road to a Republican 86th Congress."

"For myself—you will find me standing beside you and with you I shall do my best for every member of our Grand Old Party and for all others who with them are carrying forward the never-ending fight for peace, for security, for sound, sane and progressive government in America."

The reference to "all others," a last-minute insert, aroused conjectures that the President might even prefer the candidacy of what he called discerning Democrats to

SUPER SABRE IN SUPERSONIC ROCKET ASSAULT
Fighter-bomber fires salvo of 114 aerial rockets

Newest Weapons Of AF Demonstrated In Florida

By WAYLAND YATES
EGLIN AFB, Fla.—Virtually every weapon in the Air Force arsenal — excepting nuclear warheads — was displayed at the Air Proving Ground Center here Tuesday in the annual AF Aerial Firepower Demonstration.

Supersonic fighters, the only faster-than-sound bomber, guided missiles, and the latest toss-bombing techniques were shown to a crowd of more than 6,000, including diplomatic representatives of 44 nations.

Probably the most spectacular part of the 90-minute show was the destruction of a target rocket with a Sidewinder missile launched from a Super Sabre. Operated by a self-contained, heat-seeking guidance system, the Sidewinder rammed itself into the five-inch exhaust port of the target rocket. Both exploded in a shower of sparks just a few hundred yards in front of the packed stands.

A Matador guided missile was launched from the reviewing area to a target far out in the Gulf of Mexico.

An F104 — probably the fastest plane in existence — blasted ground targets with air-to-ground missiles and a volley of 20-millimeter shells from the 100-rounds-a-second Gatling gun. Other fighters in the F100, F102 and F105 series dumped napalm and conventional bombs on ground targets and strafed with rockets and the 20- and 30-millimeter Gatling guns.

The B56 Hustler, still highly classified as to performance but which operates in the speed and altitude range of the leading supersonic fighters, was little more than a dart-like blur as it swept past the reviewing stand. The F105 Thunderchief, traveling at one and a half times the speed of sound, also was a mere flash of color. Sonic booms became almost a routine part of the show.

B47 and B52 bombers and huge jet tankers demonstrated aerial refueling techniques. Precision formation aerobatics were performed by the Thunderbirds.

The annual firepower demonstration was staged primarily for members of the Joint Civilian Orientation Conference. Guests included numerous military and Congressional leaders, the foreign representatives and about 300 American and European newspaper reporters. Also attending from Big Spring were Col. Charles Pierce, AFB, J. R. Hensley, Dan Krause and Champ Rainwater.

Long-Range Hospital Study To Test Needs, Expansion Routes

A Chamber of Commerce committee Tuesday evening embarked upon a long and detailed look at community hospital problems of the future.

The findings, which may take months or longer to develop, may be the basis for suggesting either a continuation of the present course of action or a new tack for providing hospital facilities.

The 16 participants in the first meeting, including half a dozen physicians and two hospital administrators agreed that the four private hospitals had established the city as an area medical center with facilities possibly adequate for the present. Their ability to make major expansion was doubtful if not impossible, said several speakers. The majority opinion was the anticipated growth in population would create a progressive demand for more hospital accommodations.

R. W. Whipkey, general chairman of the study group, named three sub-committees. One will make a study of facilities and includes D. S. Riley as chairman, Joe Pickle as secretary, Charles Weeg, Dr. R. B. G. Cowper, Dr. Nell Sanders, Dr. P. W. Malone, and Larson Lloyd as members.

A second one, the legislative group, will explore courses of action. R. H. Weaver is chairman, George Thomas secretary, Obie Bristow, Robert T. Piner and Ward Hall members.

The third and largest unit will make studies of how other cities have dealt with the problem. Bill Hensley is the chairman, Dr. C. B. Maxey the secretary, and Dr. Clyde Thomas, Dr. Arch Carson,

Whipkey said he believed that "we are on the threshold of a new breakout in population and growth, and if so, one of the provisions we will have to make is for adequate medical and hospital care."

Dr. Hogan, chamber president, termed the study one of paramount importance. The aggregate of hospital beds in the four private institutions is jam against the national average of 4 1/2 beds per 1,000 population when based on Howard County population, he said. However, the hospitals serve a wide area in West Texas, which means that the bed total is substantially under the national average. Others commenting on the problem said that hospitals were having to exceed the recommended 80 per cent occupancy factor, and that facility limitation was mitigating against the recruiting of more physicians, particularly specialists in currently inadequately served fields.

Southern Lady Is Mother Of Year

By ROBERT FARRINGTON
NEW YORK (AP)—A little Southern lady, who quietly has devoted her life to helping others in a small town, is the American Mother of the Year.

Mrs. May Roper Coker of Hartsville, S.C., was thrilled at the honor, but not quite sure the American Mothers Committee hasn't mistaken her for someone else.

She sidesteps credit for raising eight children and deprecates any fuss over her many civic activities and personal charities.

"Miss May," as they call her back home, is a cultured, educated woman. She is 67. More than 40 years ago, she forsook the social glitter of Washington to become the wife of a plant pioneer in a little farm community.

Her father was a well-to-do former Cabinet officer, Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, who served six years in the Franklin Roosevelt administration (1933-39). Long before that, in 1915, she married into one of the prominent families of the Carolinas.

"Miss May" was reared in Washington, where her father was assistant postmaster general and commissioner of internal revenue before becoming secretary of commerce.

While still a college girl, she worked with children on Washington playgrounds during the summer months.

When she was 24, she met and married David R. Coker, a widower with five children and a man with a dream. Coker believed he could improve the lot of farmers by giving them better seed. He took his bride to Hartsville, where visitors came from all over the world to see his experiments and their applications on local farms.

"Miss May," too, believed strongly then and now in social improvement. She followed her husband's experiments and taught classes in vegetable and flower growing to farm hands and mill workers.

Miss Coker was born in Gobson, N.C. Oct. 10, 1890, and has been a friend to white and Negro all her life. She says she is troubled by the current integration problems of the South.

Characteristically, hers is a soft answer: "None of these problems (racial matters) are going to be settled by force or ignorance or prejudice," she says.

Her husband died nearly 20 years ago.

Top Mom

Mrs. May Roper Coker, of Hartsville, S.C., embraces a flowery tribute after her designation as "The American Mother of 1958" in ceremonies inaugurating the annual Mothers Conference in New York City. Mrs. Coker, 68 years old and a widow who raised eight children, will visit the World's Fair in Brussels after Mother's Day ceremonies next Sunday.

Women Clubs Give $10,000 To SMU

FORT WORTH (AP)—A check for $10,000 was presented to SMU President Willis Tate yesterday by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The money is to be used to establish the Dorothy House Vietnam Memorial Oriental Scholarship to the memory of the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Joseph House of Yoakum. She had served as a voluntary teacher in Korea before the Korean War.

Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, spoke to the federation last night.

Business Boom Leads Town To Plan Big Fete

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP)—Business is booming in Mount Carmel's main industrial plant and the town, to the jingle of a ton of silver dollars to be paid workers, is going to celebrate.

Union-management teamwork in the signing of a new long-term contract was cited by Eugene Powers, plant manager, as making possible expansion of the plant and increased production. He said he believes the contract is the first of its type negotiated between company and union.

"The contract gave us a stable basis for progress," Powers said. "We've been able to hire 230 new employees and add a whole new line of products."

The contract with the company, Thordarson-Meissner Co., was signed last August and becomes effective May 14.

"It was a simple renewal of the previous three-year contract," Powers said. "The union agreed to give up an opportunity for wage increases over the next five years on the company's promise to expand and keep everyone working." Workers now earn from $1.30 to $2.20 hourly.

When the contract was signed by the union, the International Assn. of Machinists, Local 2942, the plant employed 175 persons in the manufacture of electronic equipment. Today 405 are on the payroll.

"Sales are up 20 per cent over the three million dollars of last year," Powers said.

To celebrate the beginning of the new contract, Mount Carmel, a Wabash River town of 10,000, has designated next week as Thordarson-Meissner Co. Week.

Plant workers will be paid in silver dollars — 27,000 of them weighing more than a ton. Merchants have agreed to give $1.10 value for each silver dollar.

Bank Robber Falls To Inner Weakness

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP)—The man with the big blue eyes was robbing the bank.

Counting out the money was the teller with the pretty face, Mrs. Pat Thelander, 23.

One thousand...two thousand...nearly three thousand dollars she piled on the counter.

Suddenly the robber slid from sight. Mrs. Thelander stood on tiptoe and peered over the counter. There he was, slumped on the floor. His big blue eyes were closed.

He had fainted — from hunger. It happened in a branch of the Bank of America, the biggest bank in America.

Police came from the station house a block away and hauled him out on a stretcher.

In his pocket was no gun to back up his threatening robbery note. There was only 2 cents.

He said he was Timothy J. Mahoney, 49, an ex-Army sergeant. He had lost his job in a Feather River Canyon resort.

He had checked into an Oroville hotel. Police said they found remnants of six practice notes he had written and torn up before presenting the robbery note to Mrs. Thelander.

Police hauled him to the local Bastille. They fed him and he felt better.

They left him there for the FBI.

Double Jeopardy

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—Beekeeper Shovine Beam held a butcher knife while tending a hive. A bee settled on his bare arm. Beam took a swipe at the bee with the hand holding the knife. He sliced his arm. The bee stung him too.

Floods Menace Dixie States

By The Associated Press

Rain-swollen streams and rivers menaced wide areas in four Southern states today, forcing hundreds of persons to leave their homes and causing extensive damage to crops and property.

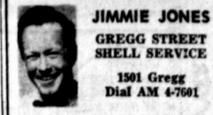

More rain fell during the night in sections of West Virginia, southwest Virginia and eastern Kentucky, increasing the threat of further flooding. Overflows from the Red River spilled across sections of northwestern and north-central Louisiana. Damage to crops and property was estimated at 10 million dollars.

Two deaths were attributed to the floods in Louisiana. About 100 families already have been evacuated from their homes in the Marksville area, south of Shreveport.

An undetermined number of families moved out of low-lying homes in the path of the surging Tug River in West Virginia, and in Pikeville, Ky., where the Big Sandy River rose two feet above flood level.

It was cool in most of the flood belt as well as in areas east of the Mississippi River, with the chilly air extending into extreme northern Florida.

The praise was from Carl R. Mitchell, Imperial Secretary, Cincinnati, Ohio, who was in Big Spring last Saturday to attend the spring ceremonial of the temple at 1407 Lancaster.

The temple conferred the Eighth Order on a class of tyros. Initiated into the DOKK were Mickey Casey, Richard Duke, Choc Smith and Taylor Anderson.

Fort Worth, Austin, Lubbock, San Angelo, Abilene and Brownwood sent delegations to the ceremonial.

H. M. Rainbolt is the royal vicer of the local temple and J. V. Gregory is secretary.

Naughty Song In 'The Mikado'

Some random notes on "The Mikado":
Gilbert and Sullivan really thought they had something. They uncovered a Japanese song that was close enough to Western musical styles to be included in their satirical operetta.

On opening night in the year 1885, those who understood Japanese (including the Japanese ambassador) got the shock of their lives. The song, it turned out, was pornographic to the nth degree. There was a quick refurbishing of the lyrics, and today we have the innocent "Miyasama" song.

The Big Spring presentation (Monday and Tuesday at City Auditorium) has been re-written in at least one particular. A song in the original contains the word "nigger" to rhyme with "figger." The British definition of the word was not the same as ours, nor as harsh. Nevertheless, this is the United States, not 19th Century Britain, where "nigger" was a noun applied to all natives under the Union Jack, and never meant as an insult.

Vocal director Ira Schantz, who also portrays Prince Nanki-Poo, is having a time with Texas diction. Members of the HCJC Chorus, among others, insist on "daug-der." Schantz insists it be pronounced "daugh-ter." It will be interesting to see who comes out on top opening night.

shirt); and Pish-Tush (more of same); and Pitti-Sing (another obvious one); but none to rival Peep-Bo (which is Bo-Peep spelled backwards.)

The music, which is most of it, is coming out fine, but the dialogue sequences need some more brushing up. The chorus is especially effective in the musical regions.

Maj. Vincent Brophy, who plays the role of Pooh-Bah and also acts as stage director, is getting some valuable advice from Fred Short, HCJC drama chief.

The dialogue, slapstick and stage action must be worked out to the same level as the music, or it will detract from the music's effectiveness. Brophy, with Short's help, is doing a good job.

Midland Students Cited At Austin

AUSTIN — Outstanding French language students were honored yesterday at the University of Texas.

Recognized were Kerstin Eklot of College Station, Charline Hawthorne of Conroe, Sue Young of Port Arthur and Martha Mast, Mary Miller and Frank Moffett, all of Midland.

Demos, GOP Pick Their Candidates

Party candidates were tapped for a variety of offices in primary elections Tuesday in Ohio, Indiana and Alabama. There were no major upsets.

Gov. C. William O'Neill was nominated by the Republicans for another run in Ohio, while Democrats picked Michael DiSalle, who carried the party's banner in 1956 when he was defeated by O'Neill.

Indiana's House contests saw all 11 of the state's congressmen nominated for new terms. In Alabama, Atty. Gen. John Patterson showed the way in a 14-man field seeking the Democratic nomination for governor. But he faces a runoff primary next month because of a failure to win by a majority. His opponent will be Judge George Wallace.

O'Neill won the Republican gubernatorial primary in Ohio over Charles P. Taft, a brother of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Returns from 11,521 of the State's 12,499 polling places gave Taft, onetime Cincinnati mayor, 186,042 votes to 324,054 for O'Neill.

DiSalle led all the way to score an easy triumph in the seven-man Democratic primary. With 11,521 polling places reporting, he rolled up 226,580 votes to 107,125 for Cleveland Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, his closest opponent.

Sen. John W. Bricker was nominated for another term without opposition in the GOP primary. The Democratic senatorial nominee, Stephen M. Young, likewise had no opposition.

Patterson held an 87,291 to 70,369 lead over Wallace on the basis of returns from 1,640 of Alabama's 3,261 precincts. Both men, like all others in the races, were pledged to continue segregated schools.

A sharp fight over a state Democratic loyalty oath was still in doubt in contests for election to the party's Executive Committee. The outcome might determine whether the state — traditionally Democratic — supports the national Democratic ticket in 1960 or leaves the door open to back an independent or third party candidate.

Bit Prices Down

HOUSTON — A 15 per cent price reduction for all drilling rock bits distributed for use in the United States and Canada was announced yesterday by the Hughes Tool Co. M. E. Montrose, vice president, said the cut was made to aid the drilling industry during a serious slump in operations.

Oil Firm Signs Aussie Agreement

DALLAS — Delhi-Taylor Oil Corp. of Dallas said yesterday it had signed an agreement with Santos, Ltd., an Australian exploration firm, for exploration rights in Australia.

A spokesman said the agreement covered rights in an 267,000 square mile area in the states of Queensland and South Australia but that Delhi-Taylor will search in only about half of the area. The search will be by a subsidiary, Delhi Australian Petroleum, Ltd.

The amount of money involved in the agreement was not announced.

Spokesmen said work is expected to begin this summer. Delhi

Australian has agreed to drill a test well and conduct other exploration activities.

Australia produces no oil. The continent has a present market for about 160,000 barrels of crude oil a day.

B47 Brings About Increased Work

OKLAHOMA CITY — The B47 bomber has brought an increased work schedule at Tinker AFB. Tinker officials announced yesterday a three-shift a day, six-day a week schedule, marking the first time base workers have gone on an overtime basis since the Korean War. The Air Force announced last week all B47 bombers will be modified for low level operation.

It took Bob Martinez just two hours to build two Japanese bridges for the set. Pretty neat job. He's busy now with other props, but he's short of help. "Sets here can't be taken from a warehouse," he says. "They must be built from scratch."

In keeping with its nonsensical nature, "The Mikado" sports a cast whose names hit a low point even for 19th Century puns. There is, for example, the girl named Yum-Yum (that one's obvious); then there's Pooh-Bah (two favorite expressions of a stuffed

Labor Views

Senate Republican leader William Knowland of California gestures at the witness table as he testified before the Senate Labor Subcommittee in Washington as it began a hearing preparatory to drafting a broad labor reform bill. In his testimony Knowland rejected a suggestion that an omnibus 1958 labor bill be limited to non-controversial provisions.

Europe Bound? Better Make Reservations

By GEORGE McARTHUR
PARIS — European innkeepers peered over their bulging reservation files today and concluded they could shoehorn in a few more American tourists. One expert admitted:

"You may ask for a double with bath and get an attic with a water bottle."

The one almost hopeless spot is Brussels, where the Belgians are staging a world's fair. Hotels are so packed there that many tourists are commuting to the fair from other cities.

Along the tourist axis of Britain - France - Germany - Italy the hurried traveler can still get rooms if he looks around a bit.

By June, airlines say they expect to be handling 20 per cent more passengers than last year. The French tourist office says low and medium class hotels have rooms during even peak seasons. The better hotels in Paris already are packed.

In Germany and Austria the innkeepers fear occasional bottle-necks but feel they can provide enough pillows for tired tourists. However, the Austrians warn that during events like the Salzburg Festival only an adventurous tourist would go without a prior reservation.

The Italians are building up motels and medium class hotels, especially in the south, but a tourist office spokesman urges travelers to try an off-season vacation in Italy.

Tourists seeking first class hotels in London come up against a mathematical impossibility — the British say demand will exceed supply by about 3,000 roomers. However, there are plenty of smaller hotels and inns — lacking the most modern plumbing perhaps but generally comfortable.
