Salan Speaks In Algiers

Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander in chief in Algeria, held the microphone close to his face in speaking from a balcony of Government House in Algiers. Standing beside him at right was Leon Delbecq, civilian representative of the extreme right wing. Delbecq has claimed Salan backing of the rebellious Committee of Public Safety and Gen. Charles de Gaulle as well.

De Gaulle Denies Dictator Role, But 'Stands Ready'

Old Soldier Again Worrying British

LONDON (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle once more is giving the British the uneasy feeling he did during World War II. He is respected as a patriot who rallied the Free French forces to the side of the Allies during the Nazi occupation. His courage and determination are admired. Yet British are wary about the prospect of his return to power in France.

The News Is Serious

French Premier Pierre Pflimlin reads his newspaper in a car while riding to a state of emergency session at the National Assembly in Paris. The Assembly overwhelmingly voted Pflimlin emergency power to fight any grab for power by Gen. Charles de Gaulle's backers at home and in Algeria.

Politicians Lashed For 'Betrayal'

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle today repudiated the role of dictator but said he remains ready to try to lead France out of chaos. The wartime hero described himself as "a man belonging to nobody but belonging to all" and added: "Have I ever attacked the fundamental liberties of the republic? No, I restored them. How could you have me at 67 start a career as a dictator?"

Death Takes Ronald Colman

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Ronald Colman, suave creator of dozens of memorable movie roles, died today 24 hours after being hospitalized with a lung infection. He was 67.

RONALD COLMAN End of a brilliant career

The British-born star, a favorite of film fans since 1922, was operated on for a lung infection a year ago and had been in poor health since then.

He became ill Sunday at his ranch home near Santa Barbara and was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Santa Barbara, where he died at 5 a.m.

Colman, who won an Oscar in 1948 for his role of an egomaniac Shakespearean actor in "A Double Life," starred in such movies as "Lost Horizon," "Random Harvest," "A Tale of Two Cities," and "The Late George Apley." During his long movie career, Colman was known as a man of culture and distinction.

His widow, the former Benita Hume, survives him.

Colman's soft, nasal voice was one of his greatest assets and helped him bridge the gap between the silent movies and the talkies. His career was saved when his cultured speech was heard in the theaters.

He was married in 1938 to the English-born actress Miss Hume. They had one child, a daughter.

Lake Lapping Near Spillway

Light showers during the week-end added slightly to the level of Lake J. B. Thomas.

Another 1,400 acre feet came into the reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District and inched the level to within 9 1/2 inches of the service spillway level.

Elevation Monday morning was 2,257.21, an increase of 17 of a foot during the weekend. With 197,400 acre foot on hand, the lake is now 96.8 per cent of capacity.

At this stage, the lake covers 12 square miles of area. So far this year the lake has impounded 34,000 acre feet of water, or more than 11 billion gallons.

Daniel Urges States To Pay Own School Bill

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel told applauding fellow governors today that if the states can't finance public school construction without federal help they will be giving up their "last bulwark" of independence. Daniel predicted in a panel discussion of federal-states relations at the 50th annual governors conference that Congress will not approve President Eisenhower's plan to turn total financing of vocational education back to the states.

As Daniel spoke out, it was evident that the governors are sharply divided on administration proposals to turn over to the states some federal program in exchange for a portion of the telephone taxes now collected from Washington.

Daniel told the conference that while he wants to see better cooperation between the federal government and the states, the states ought to "close the barn door now" against further Washington encroachment on their functions.

In a congressional election year that may set up some signposts for the 1960 presidential contest, the governors were finding little unanimity on any subject as they headed into their business sessions.

Democrats generally forecast their party will make telling gains in this year's battle for control of Congress. Republicans disputed this, pointing to farm price increases as one of their chief hopes for political advances. GOP Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois, the conference chairman, barred any official action on civil rights. But Democratic Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida persisted in efforts to sell his idea for federal-state commissions to handle local school integration problems.

Gov. Averell Harriman, New York Democrat, called for a tax reduction for lower and middle income groups—a field in which disagreement cut across party lines. Stratton and Democratic Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania opposed any general reduction which would increase the federal deficit at a time when government spending is being accelerated.

GOP Gov. Lane Dwinell of New Hampshire viewed a large-scale tax cut as a last resort move against an economic recession. He said he would fear the effect of such action on the federal budget.

Lebanon Loyalists Again Hold Control

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Government forces held control again today in the streets of Tripoli after a weekend of bitter fighting between loyalists and insurgent Moslem nationalists.

At least 60 persons were reported killed in the bloodiest fight of Lebanon's internal strife. Government forces finally stormed through the twisting streets of the northern coastal city to end the fray.

Another reported factor was an order by Rachid Karami, a top opposition leader, for his forces to stop fighting because casualties were growing.

President Camille Chamoun, who heads the pro-Western government of this tiny Middle Eastern nation, charges President Nasser's United Arab Republic with inciting Lebanon's Moslems to revolt.

Cuban Rebel Aide Enters Guilty Plea

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—Anthony del Conde, whom the government charges made arrangements to smuggle arms and troops into Cuba, pleaded guilty today in Federal Court.

Thirty-nine others on trial with him pleaded innocent. Trial of the 40 on charges of Neutrality Act violations began today.

Del Conde is from Mexico City. Bryan Odom, assistant U. S. district attorney, said about two and a half days will be required for prosecution evidence.

Del Conde was not sentenced at once. Coast Guardsmen and other officers captured the 40 in their converted snapper boat in the Gulf near this South Texas city.

All are accused of conspiring to export arms and ammunition. They claimed they set out to fight with the Fidel Castro forces in Cuba.

Most are New Yorkers of Cuban descent. U.S. Dist. Judge James V. Allred will hear the case. Penalties on conviction could range up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine or both. There is no minimum.

The government claims the men gathered on a lonely Gulf Coast beach and boarded the vessel Orion last March 27. Two Coast Guard cutters stopped the Orion a few miles off Brownsville and took them prisoner.

It took two ramblings by one of the cutters to halt the boat. A New York construction worker who claims to be the leader, Arnold Barron, 34, told officers he met the men in New York and discussed the Castro-led revolution with them.

Barron said most of the men were born in Cuba and are 20 to 30 years old.

The others include Anthony Del Conde of Mexico City, accused of making arrangements to move the $200,000 worth of arms found on the Orion, and a Protestant minister and a doctor.

Customs agents and border patrolmen escorted the men to county jail here, and most of the group immediately went on a hunger strike.

They claimed the United States was supplying Cuban government forces arms and said they would not eat until such shipments ceased.

Most were taken to a hospital before the strike was called off, but none apparently suffered any damaging effects.

As he spoke to a news conference, the city's subway system came to a halt and many buses left their runs. This was in a response to a Communist call of protest. The Communists picture De Gaulle as aiming at a one-man rule.

Thousands of police stood alert to prevent any demonstrations for or against the general.

De Gaulle again did not specify the exact terms under which he would assume national leadership. But he insisted this would have to be on his terms—not in the way a long string of premiers have followed since 1946, through solicitation of support from various parties. The present government is the 25th since World War II.

De Gaulle blamed the Algerian situation on the Paris government and said the army officers there are not rebels in his book. Actually, he said, the army deserves a "well done" for keeping disorders from turning into riots.

The general, dressed in a gray suit, spoke in a firm voice. He made a statement and cut off questioning after a half-hour.

"I am going back to my village but I remain at the disposition of the country," he said.

At the outset, De Gaulle made it clear he felt that the present regime, encompassing many parties, could accomplish nothing.

He said France's future and past are entwined with that of Algeria, which is now in near revolt against the current Cabinet in Paris.

De Gaulle said he is ready to head the government of the French Republic as he did in a previous great national crisis.

He described himself as "a man alone belonging to nobody but belonging to all."

He made a slashing attack on the French political parties, which he said had betrayed the country. He recalled that he took power legally in postwar France after returning here with the Allied armies.

De Gaulle said he had kept silent until the moment when he felt he could serve the country.

The general opened his news conference of nearly 700 people with a brief statement. He then said he would answer questions only concerning French institutions and relationships with Algeria.

Referring to the last four years in North Africa, he said the present situation could lead to an extremely grave national crisis.

"But it can also be the start of a kind of resurrection," the general said.

He said that in "This moment of grave confusion all should be aware that the party regime could not and would not solve the enormous problems confronting France—the association of France with the peoples of Africa, and within the communities living in Algeria."

De Gaulle said the fighting in Algeria and the boiling emotional fever there grew out of the failure of the regime in Paris.

He continued: "We are going into a diplomatic Dien Bien Phu."

"The population of Algeria sees in Paris crisis upon crisis. How does one avoid rebellion in this population of Algeria? The population of Algeria is looking somewhere else, outside the parliamentary combination, for a way to end its troubles."

ARMY PRAISED "In these conditions, the army, which was able to see this feeling, prevented disorder. The army has acted." He said the army sees the "mediocrity" which prevails. "I understand perfectly well the attitude... of the high command in Algeria," he said. De Gaulle implied that if he assumed leadership of the French nation he would insist only on those powers freely given him. The general said he interpreted the powers of the Republic to be "only those given you." "If things continue the way they are going," De Gaulle said, "we all know perfectly well that the regime as it is cannot accomplish anything.... I am a man alone, with no party, with no organization, who for six years has engaged in no political action and for three years has made no declaration. I belong to no one and I belong to all," he said. Speaking of the action of French generals in Algeria, De Gaulle said that if the generals were insubstantial the public powers in France had taken no sanctions against them. He said he did not see why he therefore was called upon to term them rebels.

THE LAST HOUR Just half an hour after starting the press conference, De Gaulle cut off further questions, saying: "This is my last word—I believed it would be useful for the country to hear what I have said. I am going back to my village but I remain at the disposition of the country." The 67-year-old World War II hero came to Paris by auto early this morning under heavy escort. Some 36,000 security forces had taken stations at the vital points in Paris prior to De Gaulle's arrival to put down any demonstration for or against his return to power. The Communists called on workers in the Paris region to drop tools in factories and shops and stand ready to thwart any coup d'etat. The Reds did not call a general strike, however, nor was the appeal addressed to workers in other parts of France. De Gaulle had been expected to spell out what he meant last Thursday when he announced he would be willing to "assume the powers of the republic" in crisis-ridden France. Breaking a six-year silence, the austere, proud idol of the rightists who seized power last week in rebellious Algeria touched off a storm of questions with his brief announcement. NO ASSAULT Premier Pierre Pflimlin expressed confidence De Gaulle's original statement did not mean he wanted to attack France's republican institution. Speculation arose that an announcement that De Gaulle would take power only in legal fashion without demands for dictator's powers could bring Pflimlin's downfall. The theory was that, with such assurances, the majority (See DeGAULLE, Pg. 2-A, Col. 5)

Light Vote May Hamper Stassen

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The prospect of a light vote may hamper Harold Stassen's chances of winning the Republican nomination for governor on an independent ticket in Pennsylvania's primary election tomorrow.

A light vote in a Pennsylvania primary traditionally favors candidates backed by state political organizations.

Stassen is running against the Republican organization candidate, Arthur T. McGonigle of Reading, head of one of the largest pretzel firms in the country. Williams S. Livengood Jr., former state secretary of internal affairs, also is making an independent bid for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, 68, is the Democratic organization candidate for governor. His chief opposition is Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, running on an independent ticket.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R) of Philadelphia is running with McGonigle for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Sen. Edward Martin (R) next January. Walden B. Heyburn, former state auditor general, is Stassen's running mate for the Senate. Heyburn has been inactive since he suffered a slight stroke at the beginning of the campaign. Livengood is running alone.

Gov. George Leader is the Democratic state party choice for the Senate nomination. Clarence P. Bowers, Reading battery manufacturer, is opposing him on the Furman ticket.

Stassen, 51, was governor of Minnesota three times. An issue during a listless campaign has been his Pennsylvania residence. He also was President Eisenhower's disarmament aide and in 1956 he strongly opposed Vice President Nixon's bid for renomination at the Republican National Convention.

The state GOP leadership looks favorably on Nixon as a 1960 presidential candidate and a Republican governor would wield great influence over the direction the Pennsylvania delegation takes in 1960.

McGonigle, also 51, was tapped by the state leadership as a new face to spark a GOP rally from defeats in the 1954 gubernatorial election and the 1956 senatorial election. He has never run for political office before.

Graduation Slated In City Auditorium

Big Spring Junior High School will promote its largest class in history into high school Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Tom Ernest, principal, said that by the time the class members, their parents and families had been considered, the high school auditorium space would be overtaxed.

Members of the ninth grade will be attired in their red caps and gowns for the occasion.

Tragedy Strikes Family On Same Date Two Years

LAMESA — May 19 is a black date on the calendar of the G. A. Mennix family of Lamesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Mennix returned home from church Sunday morning to find the house and all their possessions had been destroyed by fire. Only the clothing they wore was left.

Mr. and Mrs. Mennix and their six children now are staying in the home of his mother, Mrs. Lena Mennix, 1602 N. 8th. Friends have started a campaign for assistance and have asked that clothing and other contributions be delivered to Mrs. Mennix's home.

Soldier's 'Leave' Is Ended Quickly By Local Police

Jerry G. Wright, 18, Army private, "went over the hill" from Webb AFB Monday — but not very far or long.

City police, who had noticed a youth leaving the base with a fatigue suit under his arm, doubled back quickly when they got a radio message moments later that a prisoner had escaped from Webb.

Base officials said that Wright, whose home is in Midland, had been put in the base stockade after being 24 days AWOL from Fort Bragg, N. C. Monday at 7:40 a.m. he was let out of the stockade to enter the hospital because he complained of being ill. However, he had his civilian clothes under his fatigue suit, and once at the hospital he kept going—that is until Patrolmen Sherrill Farmer and Frank Glasscock spotted him about a quarter of a mile away.

Solons Set Probe Of Nixon Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee starts an inquiry today into the factors behind such recent anti-American demonstrations as those which marred Vice President Nixon's good will tour of South America.

One purpose of the inquiry is to determine whether the attacks on Nixon, the burning of U.S. Information Agency libraries in Lebanon and anti-American outbursts elsewhere were part of a worldwide Communist pattern.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the attacks on Nixon definitely were inspired by Communists who, he said, are but a very small minority in the South American countries.

"There has been a concerted effort throughout the vice president's trip to embarrass him," Hoover said in an interview transcribed for New York State radio stations.

Nixon also blamed the incidents on a small group he said was directed by the Communists seeking to discredit the United States.

"In South America a majority are friendly to the United States," he said in a TV interview. He suggested this friendship might be promoted through sports and the arts.

"We are natural friends," he said. "We need to know them better and they need to know us better."

There has been no indication that Nixon will appear before the Senate committee.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) said one goal of the committee is to find out "the extent to which the CIA and the State Department briefed Mr. Nixon in advance on the dangers he might encounter" on his South American trip.

Electric Service Contract For Library Is Executed

Contract for electric service to the new library building was signed by the Howard County Commissioners Court at its meeting today. The building is nearing completion and the library staff plans to begin placing books on the shelves in the building sometime this week.

No definite date was set for the opening of the building but it is hoped to have the library operating in its new quarters on June 1.

Announcement was made that the next meeting of the commissioners as a board of equalization will be on July 21. That session, to open at 9 a.m., will deal with the industrial properties of the county.

of the Assembly would turn to the general as the only man the rebellious French military and civilians in Algeria would listen to.

There also was vague speculation that President Rene Coty himself might resign and the Assembly and Senate would elect De Gaulle to this job — now largely a ceremonial post.

There were other important developments in the crisis which arose after the army and right-wing settlers seized power last week in Algeria.

A new, unprecedented decree requiring Frenchmen to get exit visas from the police before leaving the country went into effect.

The government called an unspecified number of militarized police reserves to duty throughout France.

Interior Minister Jules Moch, who smashed the Communist riots 10 years ago, arranged with the Defense Ministry for roving patrols. Moch appealed to the French people to remain loyal to the republic.

"Responsibility censorship," whereby the Information Ministry might seize or shut down newspapers, radio stations or news agencies it considers guilty of publishing irresponsible news, went into effect.

In Algiers, meanwhile, Gaullist leader Jacques Soustelle followed up his triumphant return to the French colony he had governed by appearing before 50,000 frenzied followers at war memorial wreath-laying ceremonies.

MRS. ROBERT S. JOHNSON

Miss Thiel Repeats Wedding Vows With Robert S. Johnson

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Johnson left immediately after their wedding Sunday for a trip to Chicago and Brookfield, Ill., home of the bridegroom. They will also visit their relatives of the bride in Mitchell, Ontario, Canada.

The bride is the former Barbara Thiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shannon of Forsan. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Johnson of Brookfield, Ill.

The Rev. Gage Lloyd read the double ring vows following the morning worship service at the First Presbyterian Church.

A prelude of organ music by Betty Guthrie included "An Affair to Remember," "I Love You Truly," "Because and I'll Walk With God." For her wedding gown, the bride chose white chiffon; the bodice was shirred in folds, which formed the abbreviated sleeves, stemming from a wide scooped neckline. Flowers of pink embroidery covered the cummerbund type belt at the waist and were centered with pearls.

A crown of pearls held a waist length veil; pearls also fashioned the antique bracelets which the bride had borrowed from her grandmother. She carried a pink rose on a white ribbon.

Attending as maid of honor was Zimmalew Cooper of San Antonio. She was attired in pink net and tulle over taffeta, with pink sweetheart roses forming her head-dress. She wore a corsage of roses.

Bill Bradford of Big Spring was best man.

When the couple left for the trip to Illinois, the bride wore a suit dress of blue crushed linen, with a blouse of Japanese print satin, sequin-trimmed. Blue velvet and piping of the print enlivened the jacket. With the suit, Mrs. Johnson wore patent shoes and bag, white braided hat and gloves.

She has been a teacher in the Forsan school for the past two years. An alumna of the University of Louisiana, she was a member of the LSU Band and the LSU Orchestra. She also played with the Baton Rouge, La., Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Johnson holds memberships in Sigma Alpha Iota, professional honorary musical fraternity; in Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary group; Alpha Omicron Pi, social sorority, and in an honorary sorority for bandwomen, Tau Beta Sigma Sorority. Prior to her marriage, she was a member of the Midland Symphony Orchestra.

The bridegroom attended the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. After joining the United States Air Force, he was stationed at Webb AFB, where he was a member of the band. He is a member of the National Barber Shop Quartet, and until his transfer to Randolph Field, sang in the choir at the First Presbyterian Church.

The couple will make a home at 616-B South Austin Street, Seguin.

Carl Wayne Thurman and Sharon Elaine Timm of La Mesa, Calif., are to be married May 31 in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Timm. She was also given the award of distinction for an arrangement of umbrella palm and brown and gold Dutch iris. Accessories were an oriental figurine in a black base. The tricolor winner was a vertical arrangement of lavender and pink larkspur featuring purple iris.

Sweepstakes winner in the artistic arrangement division was Mrs. Dan Lewis; horticulture sweepstakes winner was Mrs. Tubb.

Staged against a background theme, "It Came From Outer Space," the show was given a special award for the educational exhibit depicting meteors and the solar system.

Judges were Mrs. Fred Girdley and Mrs. J. N. Castner, both national judges of Midland; Mrs.

Obie Bristow and Mrs. Cliff Wiley, local national judges; Mrs. Dale Smith and Mrs. V. A. Whittington, student judges.

Jupiter May Have Passed Re-Entry Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Jupiter intermediate range missile—a project the Army almost lost five months ago—apparently is the first ballistic weapon to solve the re-entry challenge.

Army rocket men at the nation's missile test center agreed the re-entry success was due to an almost perfect shot of the mighty Jupiter shortly after midnight Sunday.

Some 4½ hours after the launching the huge nose cone—the first full-sized warhead ever mounted on a Jupiter IRBM—was plucked out of the Atlantic by frogmen and the crew of a Navy auxiliary submarine rescue ship.

First reports indicated the re-entry test was a complete success.

The precious nose cone was taken to Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., where Army scientists will study its intricate instruments to learn the secrets of re-entering the earth's atmosphere without burnout after a cruise through space.

It was the first time a full-scale ballistic missile nose cone has been recovered intact. The only other recovery came last Aug. 8 when a four-foot nose cone was retrieved from the sea.

This is the same Jupiter the Defense Department ordered the Army to drop last December. Later, however, it was decided that the Army should continue with development and production of the weapon.

Most details of the missile's latest performance are classified. But it was reported unofficially that the Jupiter was fired at a range of just over 1,000 miles. The launching ran like clockwork. The 69-foot missile lifted away with a mighty roar and billows of white flame.

It was seen as a tiny yellow dot in the sky for almost three minutes. Then engine burnout occurred and the rocket began its free flight through space.

The Jupiter, now in mass production by Chrysler Corp. and expected to be operational with troops late this year, was designed for a range of 1,500 miles. It reportedly has traveled as far as 2,200 miles.

History Teacher Corralled Vandals

DALLAS (AP)—Harassed by youthful bandits, history teacher E. O. Rogers, 68, shot a 13-year-old boy in the leg and collared another outside his home in exclusive Highland Park.

Rogers told police a group of boys dumped a department store dummy on his lawn, rang his doorbell and shouted obscenities from hiding before dawn yesterday.

He fired twice at fleeing figures and captured a 14-year-old in an alley, the junior high school instructor said.

As a result, both boys were summoned before juvenile authorities along with two companions, 14 and 16, and their parents.

Police records show vandal raids at the teacher's home have done about $200 damage in the past few months.

Elmer Davis, Noted Newscaster, Is Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Elmer Davis, 68, nationally known news commentator, novelist, essayist and short story writer, died Sunday of a stroke. Davis, who was chief of the government's "Office of Information in World War II," was one of the founders of Americans for Democratic Action in 1947.

Playwright Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—F. Hugh Herbert, 60, author, playwright and screenwriter, died Saturday of lung cancer. Two of his biggest successes were "Kiss and Tell" and "The Moon Is Blue." He was born in Vienna.

Airman 2.C. Weldon Clegg, 18, of Huntington, Tex., was killed. A companion, Roy Spurgin Jr., 21, of DeSoto, Tex., and James Smith, 23, of Patmos, Ark., were hospitalized.

Clegg was on furlough from Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio. Spurgin is stationed at a naval base in Rhode Island.

'YOU CAN'T WIN' Kibitzer Helps Take The Sucker Money

EDITOR'S NOTE: "You Can't Win at Bridge and Gin Rummy" is a newly published book written by Bill Duvall of Tulsa, Okla., and published by You Can't Win, Inc., of Midland. Fred Turner Jr. is president. The book is an expose of cheating in friendly card games. This is one of a series of articles about the book.

Few Texans make a science of losing money, but Bill Duvall spent 14 months and 73,000 miles on his car learning to throw dollars away.

Duvall let crooked card players milk him for thousands while he gathered material for his book, which lists the wiles of the "operators."—"the not-so-solid citizens who milk their friends for millions of dollars a year.

Kitizens, palmists, double-whammy artists and box-game teams, Duvall says, earn their keep by following the ancient formula: Never give the sucker an even break.

In the double whammy, two operators occasionally square off for a game between each other. The game is suggested to determine who is the better player.

One of the operators suggests three games across the board at 25 cents a point. The second operator only wants a nickel of it but the bystanders snap up the balance of the bet and the slaughter is on.

Using a code, the operators read their hands back and forth and one of them enjoys a phenomenal run of luck. And the bystanders pay off, 20 cents a point, for the privilege of watching the rigged play.

The box game consists of three-handed gin, two operators and one sucker. One player takes on the other two.

The players alternate, until they have completed the cycle of two against one and one against two, but always the sucker is in the middle.

The partners are looking down the sucker's throat and know every card in his hand and in no time at all they have taken him to the cleaners.

The kibitzer, or spectator, is a common adornment in gin rummy games and in combination with a player can make a shambles of unsuspecting opposition.

The kibitzer may concentrate on one player, continually revealing his hand. Or he may help a team of operators, watching both of the opposition hands by moving back and forth.

By a code, he tips off the operator who can then play as if all of the cards were face up.

A veteran of Reno and Las Vegas, Duvall is no slot machine addict.

"One fellow I know," he writes, "will play the machines until his arms are tired, then call time out and pay the porter or waiter to pull the lever while he rests up for another attack.

"The only requirement for a steady player is a numb brain, a strong arm and a fat check book. "I have never met a winner."

Legalized gambling, Duvall says, is far safer than playing gin rummy in a crowded room where a kibitzer can tip your hand with a rattle of his drink.

NEXT: It's a 20-billion-dollar deal.

Cardinal Who Lost Arm Is Stroke Victim

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Samuel Cardinal Stritch, whose right arm was amputated three weeks ago, suffered a stroke today. Word reaching the Vatican was that his condition was grave.

The 70-year-old Roman Catholic Archbishop of Chicago previously had been recovering well from the amputation which was made necessary by a blood clot in the arm. Sunday he had celebrated Mass for the first time since the operation.

The cardinal was stricken again early today but by noon had recovered consciousness. A source close to Vatican authorities said he had improved slightly, "can talk again and can recognize people."

A medical bulletin said, "Prognosis is reserved for the present," meaning that the doctors would not forecast the outcome of the cardinal's latest attack.

A medical bulletin issued by Dr. Ralph Bergen, the cardinal's personal physician from Chicago, and Italian Dr. Filippo Rocchi said: "His Eminence Cardinal Stritch, preoprect of the Congregation for Propagation of the Faith, during the early hours of Monday, May 19, suffered a cerebral vascular accident."

"There is a weakness of the muscles of his right leg and face. "Prognosis is reserved for the present."

The cardinal's personal aides said they could not immediately give any fuller information on the stroke.

The prelate is still at the Rome clinic where he underwent the amputation April 28, but in recent days he had been spending part of each day at Chicago House, the residence headquarters for priests and students from Chicago studying in Rome.

Tule Jim New Jumping Champ

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP)—Tule Jim, monarch of an Oakland, Calif., bog, is the new world champion jumping frog.

Tule Jim spanned 14 feet 5 1/2 inches in three hops yesterday and won the 32nd annual international jumping frog derby, which is based on Mark Twain's yarn, "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

Tule Jim landed two feet short of the world mark of 16 feet 10 inches set in 1954 by a lady frog named Lucky.

Owned by Chuck Basacker, Tule Jim was only an inch and a quarter ahead of his stablemate Maggie, owned by Basacker's son Larry. Maggie was followed by Tule Pete (no known relation to Tule Jim), who leaped 13 feet 7 3/8 inches for third place. Pete is the pride of Mike Voitch, Stockton, Calif.

Qualifying trial jumps don't count, otherwise the record would have been broken this year by several frogs.

The best an imported frog could manage was the 12 feet 10 inches hopped off by Vemi Vidi Vici, a South African frog entered by Piem Fourie and Mrs. Teuns Botha of Elsburg, Transvaal.

Rolli, a frog from Sunne, Sweden, did 4 feet 9 inches. Rolli may have been incompletely recovered from laying 5,000 eggs here during training last week.

Robbery Mishap Fatal To Bandit

DENVER (AP)—A young stickup man flailed an elderly man on the head with the butt of a gun last night. The weapon fired, fatally wounding the bandit's accomplice.

The red-haired victim, between 18 and 21, was not immediately identified.

The gunman tried to arouse him, then fled in a car before a half-dozen witnesses.

The intended victim, Emil Myers, 68, was treated at a hospital for a severe head cut and released. He told officers the pair had accosted him outside his home and demanded money.

DEAR ABBY

A HOUSE WITH LOVE

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-aged girl who likes a teen-aged boy. I live with my grandparents, whom I love, because my parents are both dead. My grandmother keeps telling me to bring my boyfriend home and not to meet him on a street corner but I meet him on the corner anyway because I am ashamed of the house I live in. It is old and shabby and not in a very nice part of town. I think he would like to meet my grandparents, but I haven't got the nerve to ask him over. Help me, Abby! ANNA

Crittenton Home will help you. Or contact your local Community Chest. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: My husband wants to spend every Friday evening with his folks and it is wearing me down. His mother can't even speak English well enough to hold a conversation and she has been in this country for almost 40 years. They are old and we are young and we have nothing in common. How can I explain to my husband that if he wants to see his folks he should go over there alone and leave me home or drop me at a show? YOUNG AMERICAN

DEAR YOUNG: You can explain it to your husband, but how can you explain it to your conscience? He is trying to show proper respect and affection for his parents. If you were wise, you'd help him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHEMISTRY TEACHER: Kids will be kids... Take it with a grain of NaCl.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Churches Can't Win Youth With 'Play'

HOUSTON (AP)—An Alabama minister said today churches cannot woo young people with record players, shuffleboards and coke machines.

"I am confident young people will definitely respond in this day to a straightforward, effective, sincere presentation of the Gospel and really like it," said Dr. Harold Seever, pastor of Mobile's Dauphin Way Baptist Church.

Dr. Seever spoke at a pastors' conference that precedes tomorrow night's opening of the 101st meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention.

"Young people are clever and are the very first to react to a superficial appeal," Dr. Seever said.

"You cannot woo them into the church with a record player, a shuffleboard and a coke machine, and then subtly try to squeeze in unconsciously a little religion and expect it to captivate them."

"Young people are too intelligent for that and resent it. They are really alert. They will participate in the good time and then skip the religion."

In welcoming the ministers, the Rev. Owen White of Houston's First Baptist Church—which has just completed a million-dollar expansion of its downtown facilities—said the downtown church of today must be strong to survive.

"Our church was offered $1,500,000 for its property about two years ago and had to face a momentous decision," he said. "The decision was to stay, but not to stay as we were."

"We believe that Baptists have a responsibility to maintain an evangelistic ministry at the heart of our great cities. To stay downtown we must be strong. No weak, puny, declining church can survive downtown in a day like this."

A North Carolina minister told the pastors that life's experiences can be broadened through travel. "Travel is a means whereby pastors can go where people live and, therefore, become acquainted with their needs and ways of life," said the Rev. Charles Coffey of the First Baptist Church of Kannapolis, N.C.

"A few years ago a trip outside the borders of our own country was an experience reserved for a chosen few. Today, the age of travel has been ushered in. The growth of American tourist travel has kept pace with the tremendous surge in diplomatic, military and business travel in the most remote corners of the world.

"As a result of this increase in travel, the second half of the 20th Century may some day be considered as the beginning of an era of better understanding among the peoples of the world."

Three other groups also began preliminary meetings today. They are the Woman's Missionary Union, the Religious Education Assn. and the Church Music Conference.

Rep. Brooks Hays of Little Rock, Ark., president of the 8,966,255-member convention, will speak at the pastors' conference tonight and before the WMU tomorrow morning.

About 17,000 Baptists, including a record 13,000 official messengers from 43 states, are expected to hear Hays' presidential message tomorrow night at the first general session of the four-day convention.

Speaking to an overflow crowd of nearly 20,000 at the Cow Palace, he warned of the end of the world, chided churches for failing to give "both warning and hope" and then offered some hope of his own.

"The Bible says that when the conditions that were present in Noah's time are present again, God will come to judge the world. These conditions are here now," he said, "but we are living in the days of grace in which God says 'You can be saved' by having faith in Christ."

Neither scientists nor college degrees can save the world, he told a Stanford University audience before his Cow Palace talk.

"Some of our finest brains and intellects are being given to the creation of the weapons of war instead of to the weapons of peace," he said. "We don't need more Ph. D.'s, but more Christ." The evangelist said he didn't know when God's judgment would come to the world, although "it can come at any time."

Van Cliburn Loses Sleep In Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Van Cliburn says his music conquest in Russia has taken its toll on his sleep.

The 23-year-old Kilgore, Tex., pianist told a news conference his victory in the Tchaikovsky International Piano Competition left him too keyed up to sleep well.

But he said he takes care of that with some "very excellent Russian sleeping pills."

The lanky, bushy-haired Texan returned to New York Friday after more than a month in Russia. With him came Soviet conductor Kiril Kondrashin, who will lead the Symphony of the Air in a concert featuring Cliburn tonight.

Kondrashin, who conducted the Moscow Symphony during Cliburn's appearances, said he was well pleased with the Symphony of the Air and thought he and the orchestra understood each other.

"I forgot they were Americans and we were talking the language of music," he said.

Cliburn said Kondrashin was "tremendously kind. He took me, sort of like a young friend whom he wanted to help. And it was wonderful to find someone who loved Rachmaninoff so much, and expressed it. In the American vernacular, we hit it off."

Cliburn said the most amazing thing to him was that the home folk took any notice of his winning.

"I'm very thrilled that the people of my own country feel this way," he said.

Venezuela's Junta Grapples With Crisis

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The ruling government junta grappled today with the most serious political crisis since it seized power from Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez's dictatorship in January.

The junta's two civilian members have resigned without explanation. The three remaining military members were threatened with a general strike if they showed signs of breaking the junta's promise to hold nationwide elections.

"The people will go into the streets in a general strike just as they did in January," said Fabricio Ojeda, whose Junta Patriotica was one of the key civilian groups in the January revolution.

Ojeda said the strike could come if the government command remained entirely military of if the two civilians who resigned, Eugenio Mendoza and Blas Lambertini, are replaced with reactionary elements.

However, he expressed confidence that liberal civilians would be appointed to the government junta, which now consists of Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal; Col. Pedro Quevedo, chairman; and Col. Carlos Luis Araque. They have promised to hold elections but have not set a date.

Meanwhile, Col. Miguel Ramon de la Rosa, former governor of the federal district of Caracas, told newsmen seven high officials of the Perez Jimenez regime were arrested during the weekend and apparently charged with planning a political upheaval.

Here's Proof Texas Origin No Millstone

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—An Illinois newspaper publisher said in effect yesterday that being born in Texas doesn't necessarily put two strikes on a man. He said his brother can prove it.

The publisher: Earl D. Eisenhower of LaGrange, Ill. His brother: President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Brother Earl represented the nation's chief executive at ceremonies dedicated to Eisenhower State Park on the Red River's 30-mile-long Lake Texoma, astride the Oklahoma-Texas boundary.

The President sent regrets at being unable to attend. He said in a letter read by his brother that he was proud "I could rightly claim the distinction of being a Texas native son."

Earl told a crowd of about 500: "I'm sure this park will always stand as a symbol to the fact that a man can be born in Texas and still be president of the United States."

The crowd chuckled. WELCOME GIVEN
Gov. Price Daniel's brother, rancher Bill Daniel of Liberty, Tex., welcomed the Republican President's brother on behalf of the governor, a Democrat.

Daniel gave the Illinois publisher a certificate naming him an honorary admiral in the Texas Navy.

In the letter read by Earl Eisenhower, the President also said: "I suppose many of those present will know that it was due to a Kansas drought and locusts, combined with the opportunity afforded by the westward march of the M-K-T Railroad, that brought our parents to Denison almost three score and 10 years ago."

"It was that incongruous combination that accounts for the circumstances that I alone of our sizeable family was born in Texas."

"The fact that I was shortly thereafter trundled up and, when a year old, bodily carried off to Kansas was an involuntary act of my part as my selection of the place and year of my entering this world; but nonetheless I have been proud ever since that I could rightly claim the distinction of being a Texas native son."

"I feel deeply that the dedication of this park is properly a tribute to the courage, industry and unbounded faith in God that so characterized our mother and father—the same qualities of spirit and faith that in but two centuries have made of America the most fortunate nation on earth..."

"All present will feel as I do

Ives Sees Best Chance To Pass Labor Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has its best chance in a decade to pass major labor reform legislation, Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) says.

But he cautioned that Congress must avoid a partisan approach, saying, "It is tragic to approach these problems as a political issue."

For the first time since passage of the Taft-Hartley law in 1947, Ives said in a radio address, responsible union leaders now are offering to cooperate on what he called reasonable labor legislation.

Without naming them, he said some senators favor drastic anti-union legislation and would prefer no law at all than one short of their demands.

This "rule of ruin attitude is no way to tackle the problems uncovered by the Senate Rackets Committee," Ives added.

He is senior Republican on the committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) which has been probing improper labor-management activities.

Referring to the group's disclosures, he said some union leaders have made progress in cleaning up labor's house, "but they need the federal government's help in this effort."

The proposed legislation is designed primarily to protect rank and file union members, Ives said, but "it also will benefit management by introducing greater responsibility into labor-management relations."

A Bible Thought For Today

Therefore said he unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest. (Luke 10:2)

Folks Are Making It 'Our YMCA'

At the outset of the YMCA campaign this evening had been set apart as the time for the dinner to celebrate victory in the appeal for building funds.

At the last regularly scheduled report Friday the total was around $265,000 or 77 per cent of the goal. Barring a miracle of most happy proportions, the difference could not be made up during the weekend, so the victory dinner was postponed.

Instead, campaign leaders have set a final report meeting for 5:15 p.m. Thursday. In the meantime the campaign will be reorganized, in a manner of speaking. Efforts will be exerted to get all unworked cards back into the hopper so a "clean up" committee can launch a whirlwind drive to invite these people to have a part in the new civic venture.

Although 77 per cent is a considerable distance from 100 per cent, the results of the YMCA building appeal thus far are most encouraging. On an average, individuals and business operators have responded generously. The weakness—if it may be called that—is the failure to make contacts with all prospects. Had this been done, the figures undoubtedly would have been substantially higher.

Apparently the YMCA has a wonderful reservoir of good will. This is being translated on an individual basis by warm-hearted folks who want to make it "our YMCA." This, after all, is the key to an even more successful YMCA.

Blow At Part Of Mental Code

In Waco last week the 10th Court of Civil Appeals held that a section of the state's new mental health code which became effective Jan. 1 is unconstitutional. The court held that the state's constitutional guaranty of a jury trial is violated by the law which denies a jury trial for a mental health patient seeking legal recognition that his sanity has been restored.

While this raises the question of whether other sections of the code might be brought under attack, particularly that which waives the jury in most sanity hearings, there is quite a difference in the case applications.

Texas, in a constitutional amendment, said positively that they did not think it was wise or necessary for individuals to be subjected to the ignominy of being tried before a jury for insanity. Rather, under proper procedure, this archaic step could be waived in favor of committal by competent medical testimony.

Having been admitted to a hospital and exposed to the possibility of restored sanity, a patient could not demand a sanity trial before a jury under terms of the code. The trial (county) court so held, but the appellate court said that the patient was indeed entitled to be heard in court and before a jury. The difference in the one is the right to waive and in the other the loss of the right to waive. We do not believe the court's finding will upset the heart of the code, which would indeed be a severe blow to humane progress.

Can Moscow Intimidate The U.S.?

WASHINGTON — Patriotism may be dormant at times, but partisanship never. Thus, the wholehearted welcome given to Vice President Nixon and the demonstration of confidence by President Eisenhower and by members of both parties in Congress at the airport on his arrival here was later marred by a brief debate in the House of Representatives when a few partisans applauded criticism of the State Department for letting Mr. Nixon go to Latin America in the first place.

The United States government, it was argued in effect, should have yielded to the threats of terror and canceled the visit.

Only a few months ago, on the other hand, there was a lot of talk in Congress about "freedom to travel," and the State Department was denounced because it didn't want American newsmen to take risks inside Red China, whose regime is not recognized by the United States. But now the argument has been switched around. It appears that "freedom to travel" should not be exercised by the high officials of the American government in friendly countries to which diplomatic recognition has been given.

on his tour, complaints about U. S. attempts to shift its recession to the backs of Latin Americans, complaints about what Moscow called insolent American interference in Latin-American affairs. The purpose of Nixon's trip, said Moscow, was to exert pressure, and Latin Americans wanted no such visitors.

"From the start of the tour, Moscow radio devoted considerable air time to Nixon, constantly stressing that he was being poorly received. On April 30—in Portuguese, for Brazil—Moscow said Nixon had been coolly received in Uruguay and reported a movement against his rising in Peru, Chile, Colombia and Venezuela.

"In Russian and English broadcasts for Europe, Moscow radio reported Nixon meeting difficulties—this before the first demonstration against him—on May 10 Moscow radio reported with great satisfaction that in Montevideo, Buenos Aires, LaPaz and Asuncion, Nixon had the experience—and I quote—of experiencing personally the violent exhibition of hatred of the people for Washington's policies.

"Then, in Spanish, Moscow gloated about the student demonstration against Nixon in Lima, said the visit to Peru had turned into a veritable scandal. No one listening to the voice of Moscow could have failed to know what the Kremlin was hoping to see."

What a cowardly thing it would be for the United States government to refuse to go ahead with a trip previously announced and to give as the reason that it couldn't expect—friendly governments—protection or security for a visiting delegation!

Not only would the governments of Latin America have been offended, but they would have winced under the charge that they couldn't protect the distinguished visitors they themselves had invited.

As for the Communist rulers in Moscow, this would have been grist for their mill. They would have been delighted to read that they had intimidated the United States government. This would have been a propaganda success of transcendent proportions.

Indeed, instead of standing up for the government of the United States, the word now is that some members of Congress want an investigation to be undertaken to find out what the administration knew of the possibility of outbreaks in Latin America, as if there is blame to be imposed here. Here is what Daniel Schorr of the Columbia Broadcasting System, formerly Moscow correspondent but now in Washington, said over the radio at midnight on the eve of Mr. Nixon's return:

"Any Communist sympathizer in Latin America, listening to Moscow radio for the past two weeks, would know that it was important to the Kremlin that Nixon's tour be turned into an anti-United States demonstration.

"On April 27—the day Nixon left Washington—Moscow beamed a broadcast in Spanish to South America, predicting that Nixon would hear grave complaints

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The President will ask soon for another rise in the national debt limit, thinks Rep. Frank Kard of Wichita Falls. His guess is that the request will be for an additional $5 billion, bringing the total to $280 billion.

When the debt limit was first fixed it was with the thought that it would really limit. Each raise has been accompanied by the implied promise that it would be the last one. But it is losing its character as such. A flexible limit is not a limit.

If taxes are to be lowered, or if the business decline causes a sharp drop in tax revenues, Congress is confronted with the alternative of raising the debt limit or cutting expenditures.

It should pursue the latter course. It can do so in measurable degree by eliminating the various state and local government aid programs. This sending of money to Washington to be sent back to the states and cities is wasteful. Cut it out and let states and local governments use their own judgment in assessing on whatever tax resources may be released to them in the process.

Raising the debt limit and resorting to deficit financing can encourage only a fictitious prosperity through more inflation. Governments as well as individuals have to exercise will power to face some situations realistically. That will power of the government must be exercised through the President and Congress. It is time for them to start exercising it.

A Great American Dilemma

WASHINGTON — The cold war against Communist dictatorship of the left makes strange bedfellows for the United States, which preaches democracy but does business with dictatorships of the right.

This is one of the great American dilemmas at mid-century.

The immediate effect may be to limit the spread of communism. The long-range effect can be bad. For example, in Latin America which has thrown out seven strongmen since 1955 and has three left. The effect can be bad elsewhere too.

This is why Vice President Nixon—home after being stoned and spat upon in Latin America—has reportedly decided to recommend this kind of American policy in the future:

To be stiff and formal in dealing with Latin-American strongmen but friendly with democratic regimes.

In the meantime this country has close ties with dictatorships abroad. For example, it does business with the Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco, because it wants to keep American bases in Spain.

The United States, anxious to keep the Middle East oil lines open, only last year gave a warm reception to the King of Saudi Arabia, who gathers in all the American money he can for his family. Little trickles down to his people.

Nixon received his worst and most violent treatment in Venezuela. Only last January that nation threw out its dictator, Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez, who then was given asylum in the United States.

In 1953 Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, made a Latin-

American good will tour similar to Nixon's this year. When he reached Venezuela he announced he was carrying a personal message to Jimenez from President Eisenhower.

That same year in Colombia the U. S. Embassy gave a banquet honoring Milton Eisenhower and the Colombian strongman, President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla. Pinilla was thrown out in 1957.

That same year in Peru Eisenhower and President Manuel A. Odría, military dictator, toasted each other in champagne. Odría was thrown out later.

Here are other Latin-American countries which have rid themselves of strongmen since 1955: Argentina (Juan D. Peron); Haiti (President Paul E. Magloire); Honduras (Julio Lozano Diaz); Nicaragua (President Anastasio Somoza assassinated).

But the strongmen are still going strong in Cuba (President Fulgencio Batista); in Paraguay (President Alfredo Stroessner, military dictator); and the Dominican Republic (Rafael Trujillo).

In the meantime the Communists—blithely ignoring the fact that their regime any place they establish it is a dictatorship—make propaganda against this country for its footsie-playing with dictatorships of the right.

Different Ways Of Making A Living

It occurs to me there is great opportunity for the young man of today. What with so many well-heeled companies assigning their gumshoes at the college portals to grab off the graduates who are going out into the world of business.

Banking seems like a good and noble calling. Counting the money. Putting it in neat, little stacks here and there. Shuffling to and from the vaults. Lending a sympathetic ear to the people on the shorts. And locating the burglar alarm, in event some one wants to borrow some coin of the realm, without collateral.

Accounting sounds like a nice job. Seems to me one has it made, if he can account for where he's been from the time he closed the office until he gets home.

I've always thought cooking would be a nice profession to take up, and have since I was in khaki and visited the mess kitchen of my outfit. Such nice, three-inch steaks, complete with French fries, those Army chefs cooked up—for themselves. After they had fed the dough-foet on canned ham patties and potato soup.

I'd never made a kitchen jockey, however. Invariably, I burn my elbows reaching in the oven for the buttered toast. There is said to be a big demand for civil engineers. Some one said you should look into this, if you are naturally courteous to everyone.

Being a watchman might not be bad, except that you have to work at night. Of course, if you must sleep in the daytime, you could paint all the window panes black.

I wouldn't advise you to take up columning for a living. You're always suspect, in the eyes of a lot of people. They liken your trade to a sort of blackmail and suggest you never tell the story behind the story. If you do decide to take it up, hire yourself a Girl Friday for the menial chores, so that you can sit in some bistro and gather the news that can't be printed.

There seems to be a shortage of international playboys though, at best, it must be a stopgap profession. Regrettably, the life of the playboy is too short and it offers no pension plan, unless you can marry a rich widow who wants someone to clip coupons for her.

The field seems to be wide open for buffalo hunters, chariot drivers, lamp lighters and town criers.

It's Tough Being A Friend To Man

When Alfred E. Smith patted his brown derby and said, "Nobody ever shoots Santa Claus," it seemed a profound truism that would stand forever against political time and tide.

Yet within a single generation, Santa has become the favorite target in the international shooting gallery. It isn't safe to allow him out of the house any longer without a steel helmet, a bulletproof vest and a double-identity insurance policy.

Within the past four weeks, practically the only belligerent who hasn't taken a pot shot at Uncle Sam Claus or torn up his flag is Lady Nora Docker.

The most dangerous occupation in the world today is to sit by the side of the road and try to be a friend to man. It is a sure invitation, as Uncle Sam Claus is learning, for the passers-by to put a torch to the house and shoot the occupants.

Since the end of World War II, it has been fairly obvious that the United States wasn't going to be elected Miss Universe. But I never dreamed they'd try to lynch us for trying!

These mixed metaphors—Uncle Sam Claus and Miss Universe—will probably get us no place. But neither is our policy of trying to shore up freedom around the world solely with money. And it is my guess that we have all heard the reasons for Uncle's unpopularity until the clinches clank of their own weight—to wit: nobody ever loved the banker on the hill; the richest man in town is always the most unpopular; money won't buy loyalty, respect or friendship; and the gift without the giver is bare.

And the political philosophers all remind us that when Great Britain was the world's leading power, someone was always setting fire to John Bull's coattails, too.

Still and all, it is hard for me to embrace the consolations of philosophy at home when Miss Zsa Zsa Gabor is one of the principal beneficiaries of our foreign aid program. I, too, would like a foreign sports car and a chinchilla coat, come to think of it.

And would it not be cheaper in the long run and less offensive to some of our trigger-happy critics if we just sent her the money direct? This would by-pass the pockets of that despicable tyrant, Generalissimo Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican "Republic," who must then be put to the inconvenience of transferring it to the pockets of his son who, in turn, squanders it on this—well, I don't want to be forced to wash out my typewriter with soap.

And must we always offer political asylum to the most obnoxious tyrants once their people have given them the bum's rump?

However, if Uncle Sam Claus is headed for an agonizing reappraisal of his foreign policy and his aid programs, it seems to be high time that some of our shootin' cousins south of the border do likewise.

One of the world's basic truisms, still unchallenged, is that "God helps those who help themselves." Some of our neighbors would do well to tack that motto over their assorted thresholds. What have they been doing since World War II to improve the standard of living, maintain orderly, democratic government and check communism?

No matter how Uncle Sam Claus tries, he can't do it alone. Sure, he's been ham-handed. But governments and peoples who look eternally beyond themselves for rescue, without ever a tug at their own boot straps, are darned hard—if not impossible—to help.

American Broker In Soviet Eyes

I knew Winthrop H. Smith, managing partner, many years before it became Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith. I have seen him in his home and his office. I have always regarded him as a pleasant, considerate, intelligent, and well-dressed man.

But now I learn from another journalist that Smith has completely pulled the wool over my eyes—even to the way he dresses. And, apparently, he has spoofed his associates at Merrill Lynch, too.

Smith may give "the appearance of a kindly grandfather who on Sunday takes his grandchildren to church or to the circus," but deep down underneath he demands of his associates instant subordination. And he wears frayed clothes covered with cigar ash to emphasize his power and disregard for the sensibilities of others.

All this I gathered by laboriously translating a section of Amerikanski Dnyevniki—"American Diary"—by B. Polevoy, one of the Soviet Union's leading journalists and a principal editor of Pravda.

Polevoy was among a group of Soviet journalists who came to this country in 1955 to see how the private property system works. After looking over the New York Stock Exchange, the group visited Merrill Lynch, where, said Polevoy, we were greeted by a "strong, compact gentleman in horn-rimmed glasses." That's Smith all right. So I wasn't dreaming. Polevoy was writing about the man I, shall I say "knew," or "know," or "thought I'd know?"

"It was sensed," wrote Polevoy, "that Smith was accustomed to great power and subordination; and, in order to underline his power and the right to spit on the opinion of those around him, he wore an old jacket, frayed at the arms, from which cigar ashes were not shaken off."

To me, Smith has always been conservatively, neatly attired. So also to his associates with whom I checked—Victor B. Cook, Milija Rubezanin, Louis H. Engel, and Donald B. Regan. But to Soviet eyes, to Marxian eyes...

There's something else I learned from Polevoy. Our office equipment is passe.

While touring Merrill Lynch, Polevoy and party entered a room full of IBM tabulating machines, which, to Polevoy, were "not very modern" and were decidedly inferior to models in Soviet scientific-research institutes and laboratories. Nevertheless, a Merrill Lynch messenger "rushed up in great emotion and said very loudly that these machines were not to be shown to the Soviet journalists."

According to Polevoy, the visitors then "goodheartedly made out as if we heard nothing and tried to conceal smiles, though inwardly we were surprised by the suspicions of Americans who so jealously guarded from our eyes techniques that long ago had been written up and explained in our technical textbooks.

"That's the bunk," said Smith, when I read this incident to him. "They were welcome to see all our IBM machines, and if they want to see the new 705 electronic unit we're installing, they're welcome to see that, too. None of this is secret." Engel observed that the Russians were so fascinated with the firm's IBM equipment that they overstayed their schedule. "They were due for lunch at Columbia University at 12:30 and didn't leave here until one."

When I was in the Soviet Union, some months after Polevoy and his group toured America, I went through the main office of the State Bank in Moscow and carefully inspected their punch card and tabulating machines. I had seen similar machines at the National Bank of Detroit, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, the Philadelphia National Bank, and other U. S. financial institutions. I thought the Soviet machines were many years behind ours—in speed, simplicity, and arrangement. But then if I can't see Smith's old clothes, how can I see that the U.S.R. machines are more modern than ours?

Polevoy's book is put out in the Soviet Union by the Publishing House of Children's Literature. It's for school children, youngsters who are impressionable. Let us hope some day some of these youngsters come to the United States to see if Smith wears jackets frayed at the elbow.

Stork Report

MADISON — The Wisconsin Public Service Commission, which takes an official look at all kinds of things, gave unofficial notice when a fifth child arrived for Commissioner and Mrs. Arthur L. Padrutt. The notice:

"A delivery was made at the Padrutts' by an unlicensed common carrier at 4:39 a.m. The carrier is described as a long-legged, winged, feathered, long-beaked buzzard type.

"The passenger is a stranger to us. Best described as a female, loud-voiced, 3½ inches tall, weight 7 pounds, 2½ ounces. No other data available.

"Mrs. Padrutt is fine, but the father is suffering from shock."

Just Strayed

POWELL, Wyo. — Bob Robertson's car stalled near Powell late one night and he decided to leave it along the highway.

The next morning he took a truck and chain to pull the stalled car into town. It was nowhere in sight. Robertson decided the car had been stolen and reported its theft to police.

Returning home to obtain the vehicle registration number, he noticed the garage door ajar. There was the car. Some thoughtful friends had brought it home during the night.

Any Alterations?

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Cmdr. Bob Mareness is known around naval district headquarters as one who seldom resists the opportunity to improve on memos and letters written in his department and submitted to him for approval.

So when his staff brought him a 35-pound bronze plaque, to be awarded later to a Navy ship crew, it was accompanied by a hammer and chisel.

Aching Back Theory

HONOLULU — Most backaches are caused by sitting with your legs crossed, a Honolulu chiropractor says.

Addressing the Chiropractic Association of Hawaii, R. J. Parker said: "Sitting with one leg crossed over the other twists the hips and causes the muscles to stretch, pulling the bones of the spine out of line.

"If you must cross your legs to be comfortable, switch from one side to the other from time to time. It will balance the strain and help minimize painful ailments."

Ditto

DAYTON, Ohio — Identical twins earned identical scholastic averages at the University of Dayton last semester. Gerald and Thomas Spahn, business administration seniors, qualified for the dean's list of honor students with 3.55 averages.
