Vain Attempts To Save Drowning Child Kill 6

ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP)—Struggles of a drowning child drew 10 rescuers off a sunny beach late yesterday and seven persons perished, including the little girl the others tried to save.

Other victims were an Air Force chaplain, the little girl's mother and four other children.

The tragic sequence started after Janice Bailey, 9, stepped into a deep hole off the small public beach opposite this Texas port on the Gulf of Mexico.

Leonard Berry, 40, an Air Force priest from Syracuse, N. Y., dived in.

The father of another child, who also drowned, and Janice's mother Mrs. Mary Bailey, 26, followed. Efforts to help were made by seven other children, including the four who went down.

Wayne Bailey, an airman from Foster Air Force Base at neighboring Victoria, Tex., was in the crowd of more than 3,000 persons who saw the bodies of his wife and daughter pulled from the water.

"That's my wife!" he cried out as Mrs. Bailey was brought ashore dead. "That's Father Berry! Oh, my God—there comes my daughter!"

Fire Chief Dick Fox, who also heads the Aransas County emergency corps, said most of the surf bathers knew what was happening but there was no panic.

He identified these other dead: David Curry, 7, Aransas Pass, Tex.; and Margarita Torres, 11; Sussanna, 8, and Aurelia Tomas, 10, all of Rockport.

Eubanks Named To Governor's Highway Safety Commission

James Eubanks has been named to the Governor's Highway Safety Commission.

Eubanks, executive secretary of the Citizens' Traffic Commission here, received word of the appointment today in a letter from Gov. Price Daniel.

The letter from Daniel reported that the commission was being set up in the effort to cut down on the number of traffic fatalities in the state. Daniel said he hoped this state-wide effort would save at least 254 lives this year.

The commission will be set up to establish a state-wide policy on safety and to work with local agencies. The first meeting will be held in the fall, Daniel said.

Sixty thousand net kilowatts of electricity flowed to homes, shops and factories in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area.

Duquesne Light Co., a Pittsburgh utility, owns the 110-million-dollar plant jointly with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The world's first full-scale nuclear power station devoted exclusively to production of commercial electricity, it represents the greatest industrial achievement to date in America's drive to tame the atom for peace.

In operation since last Dec. 18, the plant has generated more than 32 million kilowatt hours of electricity for Duquesne Light's system, which serves 450,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in Allegheny (Pittsburgh) and Beaver counties.

At full power the station's nuclear reactor or atomic furnace is capable of producing 60,000 kilowatts of electricity. This is sufficient to supply the residential needs of a community of 250,000.

Basically, uranium atoms are split in the reactor, yielding tremendous amounts of heat. This turns water to steam, which spins a conventional turbine generator to produce electricity.

"Some signs warning people about that deep hole are going to be put up," the fire chief said.

He estimated the sandy bottom drops into a hole eight feet deep at that point.

Newsman Jack Baughman said the overflow of surf bathers had sent the drowning victims to a little-used north stretch of beach.

Bus Hostesses

DETROIT (AP)—Patrons of a new city bus line are getting a touch of glamor with the ride today. With pretty hostesses on board, the city is inaugurating a new express run covering the seven miles from a municipal outskirt to the downtown district. It's called the "Imperial Northwest Express."

Ike Dedicates Pennsylvania Atomic Plant

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower waved a radioactive rod in Washington today and some 215 miles away in this western Pennsylvania community electricity surged from the world's first large-scale completely commercial atomic power plant.

"It is with pride in what has been accomplished at Shippingport—and with equal confidence in the future—that I now dedicate this Shippingport atomic power station to the cause of scientific progress the cause of peace," the President said in his prepared remarks.

The ceremonies formally recognized the successful operation of the plant.

The President's participation by remote control climaxed a half-hour dedication at the plant site in the upper Ohio River Valley about 45 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

As he passed the rod over a neutron counter, an electrical impulse was transmitted via a special wire circuit to Shippingport to open the main throttle valve of the plant's electrical turbine generator.

Sixty thousand net kilowatts of electricity flowed to homes, shops and factories in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area.

812 STUDENTS TAKE SPECIAL TRAIN, KEEP OFF HIGHWAYS

CHICAGO (AP)—A special train carrying 812 school youngsters rocked and rolled its way across parts of two states this weekend.

The jiving teen-agers swayed to the music of lively combos in baggage cars. Dining cars became cafes for the occasion. Thousands of balloons were strung through the length of the train.

The occasion was an after-the-prom party cooked up by parents of junior and senior students at suburban Arlington Heights High School. The idea was to keep the kids off the highways and safe from traffic mishaps.

The youngsters boarded the special train early Saturday after the last strains of Friday night's prom dance had died away. Sleep was the last thing they were thinking of.

The train took the teen-agers, plus several nurses and chaperones, to the George Williams College camp in Lake Geneva, Wis., about 55 miles northwest of Arlington Heights. There they danced some more, swam, boated, played golf, tossed horseshoes and ate.

Late Saturday afternoon the party returned home with all safe and happy.

There was one possible aftermath. Tom Wade, 16, was found to have German measles when he boarded the train for the home-ward trip.

The jaunt cost $10,000 (that's approximately $12.30 per student.)

Condemnation Set On FM 700 Land

Discussions with property owners whose holdings are involved in the current efforts to obtain right-of-way for FM 700 took up most of the morning session of the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday.

J. E. Mitchell told the court he had a block of land involved in the tract and that he wanted $6,000 for his property. The owner said he had originally paid $2,400 for the land but that development in the area, including the construction of the new junior high school nearby, had greatly augmented his property's worth. He claimed to have turned down a $5,750 offer for it.

After some discussion, the matter was put to a vote. P. O. Hughes and Red Gilliam voted to pay the price asked. Earl Hull, Hudson Landers and Judge R. H. Weaver voted against it.

Condemnation proceedings will have to be launched and Mitchell was told that he should submit suggestions for appraisers.

L. E. Jenkins has two one-acre tracts and the route the right-of-way follows cuts across both, he told the court.

Jenkins related that the road when built will come with 17 feet of his bedroom window; it will take his barns, workshop, corrals and fences and will absorb practically all of one tract and nearly all of the other. He asked $4,100 to compensate him for the loss and for the costs of removing his house. The commissioners planned to visit the land this afternoon for a personal inspection.

The same decision was reached in connection with the 1.103 acre tract owned by D. H. Calvert which will be absorbed by the road. He told the court the project will take his house and his water well in addition to other improvements. He asked $5,000.

A conference with Marshall Field and his attorney over three additional acres needed for the right-of-way was in progress in the county judge's office. Field wanted $20,000 for the land. It was related he had offered later to trim the price to $12,000. The county declined to pay that much and appraisers were being named to set a figure on the property.

Violence Takes 40 Lives In Texas

Violence breaking into the weekend claim claimed at least 40 lives in Texas.

Seven drowned in the surf at Rockport, and there also were eight other drownings. Traffic took 17 lives.

It was a violent weekend in Dallas, where eight persons died. A car-train crash killed three. Adding to the Dallas toll were a plane crash, two drownings, a traffic accident and a shooting.

French Plan Redeployment Of Troops To Ease Tunis Tension

PARIS (AP)—Diplomatic sources in close touch with the French government said today a redeployment of French forces in Tunisia would be undertaken to ease tension there.

Whether this means withdrawal of troops from the disputed area of Hermaida could not be learned immediately. In this area, French and Tunisian forces have engaged in intermittent fighting for the past four days. French forces have attempted to maneuver out of the restricted area to which they have been confined ever since the bombing of the Tunisian town of Sakiet Sidi Youssel by planes from Algeria last Feb. 8.

The French made it clear to President Habib Bourguiba, it was learned authoritatively today, that they desire to continue negotiations on redeployment of the troops. Periodically, Bourguiba has demanded withdrawal of all the 22,000 French troops from Tunisia. In recent weeks he has agreed to a concentration of the forces in the vicinity of the big naval base at Bizerte.

Jean-Pierre Benard, the French charge d'affaires in Tunis, returned to his post Sunday with new instructions from Paris. He immediately went into conference with Bourguiba.

Reports from Tunis indicated Bourguiba had issued something akin to an ultimatum. That the troops must be withdrawn from the outlying posts and concentrated around Bizerte. If he did make such a demand, he clearly modified it later in conversations with Benard.

France and Bourguiba are caught between two devils and two deep blue seas. The French know that any dramatic concession to Bourguiba may provoke the ones they call the hotheads in Algeria to attempt either a punitive raid into Tunis, or even a re-occupation.

WRATH OF U.N.

Such a gesture, it is felt certain, would bring down the wrath of the United Nations on France and the whole affair would be internationalized. France wants to avoid that at any cost.

But they must make some conciliatory gestures to Bourguiba to permit him to pacify the hotheads in his own party. Some of these are eager to push Tunisia fully into the fray, alongside Algeria's rebels.

The Tunisians charge that a flight of light bombers took off from Algeria Sunday for a strike in the Remada area, where the French and Tunisians were scuffling with small forces. French authorities in Algeria deny the charge.

The French know as well as als and military personnel who took part in the Corsica uprising would be fined and jailed.

4. Asked the Assembly to order expulsion from Parliament of any deputy who works against the unity of the republic. The bill was aimed at Corsican Deputy Pascal Arrighi, who helped direct paratroopers and civilians in seizing power on the island. It could also be used against Jacques Soustelle, top Gaullist deputy who fled to take a top role in the Algeria revolt.

NO NEW FORCES

Pflimlin told the Assembly he was not sending new forces to maintain order in Corsica but that all "necessary" measures would be taken. This brought laughter from the rightist supporters of De Gaulle.

The rebellion spread to Corsica Saturday. Mobs led by paratroopers marched into the town of Ajaccio, capital of the mountainous island, seized public buildings and installed their own junta.

There was no word of bloodshed.

The Corsican junta pledged support to Gen. Raoul Salan, French military commander in Algeria, and demanded installation in Paris of a De Gaulle government.

The Premier in a radio speech denounced the revolt in Corsica but said there was some emotional justification for the upheaval in Algiers.

Pflimlin is putting his future on the block by demanding that the Assembly vote for constitutional reforms strengthening the executive. It has thus become a matter of confidence, and any deputy voting against it knows he may be opening the way for De Gaulle.

Security forces under Interior Minister Jules Moch have been alerted all over France to nip any insurrection attempt in the bud.

The government ordered four of its ships just back from NATO Mediterranean exercises to sail from Malta for France. Their mission remained a mystery and caused uneasiness here.

Previously De Gaulle was cool to an overture that he mediate between the government and the insurgents in Algeria, but his friends said the general within 48 hours would issue a declaration deploring the insurrection in Corsica. They added he would say once again that he is available to lead the government.

Pflimlin told the Assembly there had been "no justification and no excuse" for the military-led seizure of power in Corsica.

He said the government has already increased its security measures to prevent spread of the pro-Gaullist insurgency to the French mainland.

Striving to stem the tide of revolt, the government:

1. Cut off communications and supplies to the insurgents who consolidated their control of Corsica with Algeria-type public safety committees.
2. Extended censorship to all news distributed in France—whether from French territories or from abroad. The French police seized today's issue of the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune for publishing a declaration of support for the rebel generals in Algeria by Adm. Philippe Auboyneau, the navy commander in the Mediterranean.

'Summer Fun Days' Show Is Under Way

More than a score of Big Spring merchants turned the courthouse lawn into a summer playground this morning as they set up displays for the three-day Summer Fun Show.

The freshly groomed lawn sparkled with gleaming boats and motors, water skis and other sports supplies, swim suits and warm weather attire, picnic equipment, air conditioners and yard supplies.

Pretty models showed off some of the bathing and sun suits, "manned" the boats and animated the displays.

Spectators started gathering along the sidewalks even before many of the exhibits were set up, and typical summer weather provided an ideal setting for the show. Exhibitors were set for a large turnout of viewers this afternoon and the next two days.

The displays completely ring the courthouse. Along with the static exhibits, demonstrations were being staged by several participants. In the cases of lawn and air conditioning exhibits, store representatives were on hand to explain the operation of equipment.

The Summer Fun Days fair, which lasts through Wednesday, is a project of the Retail Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. With one or two entries filed this morning, there are about 30 local retail stores represented in the show.

Purpose of the event is to acquaint the public with the variety of equipment and other products available for leisurely living and a host of warm weather recreational activities.

The Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club is to operate a concession stand on the lawn throughout the show.

AT LITTLE ROCK

Racial Incidents Mar First Integrated Graduate Service

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An historic baccalaureate was held at Central High School last night against a backdrop that resembled an armed camp. There was at least one racial incident. About 120 armed National Guardsmen and some 100 police men rolled into the school area shortly before the first racially integrated baccalaureate began. The service went smoothly on the floodlit field. But before it started seven Negroes were arrested in a car a few blocks away. And afterwards a white youth was arrested for spitting at a Negro visitor.

Among the 600 seniors to be graduated tomorrow is Ernest Green, an 16-year-old Negro. He is the first of his race to get a diploma from Central High, the scene of rioting last September when Green and eight other Negroes entered the school. Green stood calmly outside the stadium before services. Asked if he were nervous, he said: "Sure I'm nervous. It's baccalaureate."

No one molested Green. He waited outside the stadium while after the ceremony, apparently for relatives. Then three detectives escorted him to a gate. As some 1,500 persons, including 25 Negro visitors, filed outside the stadium, a white youth spat at one of the Negroes. He was arrested by city police, charged with disturbing the peace and released on $200 bond.

LENSMAN ASSAULTED A photographer for the Arkansas Democrat who tried to take pictures of the incident was almost slugged with a board by a white woman. Officers took him away from other hostile whites. MORE Nearly an hour before the baccalaureate seven Negroes were arrested in a car a few blocks from the stadium. All were booked for disturbing the peace and two were charged with carrying a concealed weapon — a gun and a knife. All were released under bond.

Police said the chase actually started far from the school area. They declined to say whether the incident had any racial connection. A newsmen on the scene said he heard one of the Negroes say that all were on the way to the stadium to protect Green. The Negro student seemed to need no further protection. Uniformed police and plainclothesmen mingled with the crowd and watched for signs of trouble. Soldiers in battle dress entrenched themselves inside the school while jeeps patrolled around the massive building.

Several Negro news men charged that Supt. Virgil Blossom had barred them from covering the services. Asked for comment Blossom said before the ceremony: "You didn't ask me that."

Russia Offered Deal Of Lifting Of Travel Bans

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Russians will let Americans visit Omsk, Russians can sample the sights of Seattle . . . or Louisville, Ky., if Americans can go to Tomsk . . .

Seattle and Louisville, both off limits to Russians, are among the places the United States is offering anew to open to Soviet visits if the Kremlin will abolish its barriers restricting foreign travel in the Soviet Union.

Under the U. S. proposal, this country would match opening for opening—like Louisville for Tomsk—the state of Maryland for the Soviet provinces of Moscow, Kaluga and Vladimir.

Ike Aide Sees
Recession End
Before July

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Gabriel Hauge, White House economic adviser, predicts the recession will have about lost its steam by the end of June.

"We should begin to see some lift evident in the autumn," he added in a filmed television interview.

During the last half of the year, he said some of the federal programs designed to combat the recession will begin to produce results.

"In the housing field," he said, "some of these effects are already evident."

Meanwhile, automobile manufacturers were urged to "resist to the bitter end" anything that will boost car prices.

The plea came from the National Assn. of Automobile Dealers. In a letter to the major car makers, Association President Dean Chaffin said: "From the dealer's viewpoint, automobiles are priced too high right now. In fact, many of us believe we have priced ourselves right out of the market."

On another economic front, the Commerce Department said Americans applied the brake last year on adding to their debt. The report said net public and private debt increased during 1957 by 26 billion dollars to a total of 726 billion. The increase was down slightly from 1956 and less than half that for 1955.

The trend has continued this year, the report said, noting that in the first four months of 1958, short-term business debt declined and consumers repaid old debts faster than they acquired new ones.

Still another government report said the after-tax profits of commercial banks climbed by 13 per cent last year to a record high of $1,374,000,000. The 1956 figure was $1,217,000,000.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. credited last year's tight money and higher interest rates for the big profit increase.

Both policies have been reversed to a large degree in recent months in efforts to curb the recession.

Egg Tossing
'Legitimate'

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—The Cornell Student Council believes the egg-tossing demonstrations by students battling to keep off-campus parties reflected a legitimate protest against the university administration, the Council president said today.

University President Deane W. Malott was splashed with eggs and his home stoned early Saturday in the climax of two days of student outbreaks. Four students, including a professor's son were suspended.

Council President K. Peter Kellogg, a junior from Larchmont, N.Y., told reporters the Council felt the demonstrations represented a legitimate protest because the university:

1. Refused to give the students a chance to put into effect their own set of houseparty rules, told them to accept university-written rules or not have houseparties.

2. Banned alcohol at football games last fall without asking student opinion.

Under present university rules, men living in registered apartments off campus may entertain girls at parties, as long as at least two girls are present. Reports that these parties would be banned, Kellogg said, led the undergraduates to believe that the pattern of not asking student opinion was repeating itself.

Bombs Tested
WASHINGTON (AP) — Both dirty and clean bombs are being tested during the current U. S. nuclear tests in the Pacific, says Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission.

De Gaulle's Village Stirred By Events

By EDDY GILMORE
COLOMBEY - LES-DEUX-EG-LISE, France (AP) — Across the dusty road from where Gen. Charles De Gaulle sits awaiting a call to lead France, an old sign reads:

"No beggars allowed in this village."

Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglise (Colombey of the two churches) has erupted into the news from centuries of rural slumber.

Well aware that the 67-year-old general is their first citizen, many villagers now regard him as the central figure of France, if not the universe.

There are dissenters, of course, among the population's 400 souls. De Gaulle's house was converted into a home from a brewery about 50 years ago.

The general bought it in 1920 when he was a young cavalry officer stationed at nearby Metz.

The general and his family live quietly and few of the peasants know the general.

"He shakes our hands twice a year," said one old man, "on July 14 (Bastille Day, France national day) and on Nov. 11.

On the two holidays De Gaulle usually makes a short speech at the veterans' monument.

Ask any villager how De Gaulle spends his time, and he'll reply: "Writing his memoirs. He's always writing his memoirs."

Since the austere general offered to lead France out of its present difficulties, security police have appeared in the sleepy village.

They stand in the road before the village gates, in the fields about the house, and beside the hedges and fences that hem it in.

Three hundred yards away at the village hall 30 guards are stationed, on duty around the clock.

Some villagers think the French government has placed the security police around De Gaulle as much to watch him as to guard him.

New Commemorative Stamp Is Announced

Still another in the flood of U. S. commemorative postage stamps has been announced.

Elmer Boatler, postmaster, with an eye to the probability of end of 3-cent postage, in August said he would order only 10,000 of these stamps.

The new issue is the stamp commemorating the Mackinac Bridge. It is to go on sale on June 26. The stamp is bluish-green in color. It shows a picture of the bridge which connects the peninsulas of Michigan.

The new 3-cent commemorative for the International Geophysical Year will go on sale soon after the first of June. This is a two color issue. A supply of the stamps has been received at the local post office and will be available at the proper date for collectors.

Johnson Claims U.S. Suffering Lack Of Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) says the United States is suffering from a lack of leadership and initiative which Congress can do little to remedy.

Johnson said yesterday that "the first American answer was slow in coming" after the firing of the first Russian Sputnik.

"There was no great unity, no immediate dedication."

He made the remarks in his weekly broadcast over a number of Texas radio stations.

"This same confusion, this same sort of cross-purposes appeared in our midst" again when the recession developed," Johnson said.

"The American spirit has not shown through the gathering clouds of darkness. Boldness, courage, new ideas, new directions, new initiative—these have not been forthcoming," he said.

As for recent anti-American outbreaks, Johnson said "It is far too easy to say that the Communists have been at work." He added:

"Many of these nations love freedom and loathe communism no less than we do. While the stonethrowers and the mobs in the street may be in the minority, there was a day, not long ago, when these elements would not have dared attack symbols of American freedom so openly."

Showdown Due In Auto Talks

DETROIT (AP)—This is showdown week as negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the auto industry's Big Three enter the final stage.

Contracts at Ford, Chrysler and General Motors covering hundreds of thousands of workers expire within seven days or less.

With expiration in mind, 250 Ford Motor Co. executives from across the nation assembled here to figure out steps to be taken in any eventuality. The Ford-UAW agreement runs out next Sunday.

"Because of the many uncertainties involved, the company is preparing to handle any situation that might arise," said John S. Bugas, Ford vice president for industrial relations and head of the company's bargaining team.

Bugas said possibilities run a wide range from a new contract to continuing operations without one. Ford and the UAW have not operated without a contract since 1941.

Chrysler's agreement also expires Sunday. General Motors' contract runs out Thursday night. Ford and GM resumed negotiating today with Chrysler waiting until tomorrow.

The Big Three legally could shut their plants to force a contract settlement. But there was no hint of what they would do if contract deadlines pass without agreements.

The UAW previously ordered its members to work without contracts if agreements were not attained.

The UAW is standing firm on its demands for an annual wage boost of at least 10 cents an hour, increased supplemental unemployment benefits, and cost of living allowances for retired workers, Reuther said.

State College Head Defends Program In Graduation Talk

COMMERCE, Tex. (AP)—President James Gee of East Texas State College chose a Sunday graduating speech to define and defend step by step the college's much-talked about general studies program.

The Harvard-trained educator began his prepared address by saying:

"With all the talk going around these days, some people would have you believe that general education is some kind of witches' potion, brewed in the dark of the night in the best of Shakespearean tradition."

He did not mention by name critics of the program.

One of the most outspoken has been Dr. L. D. Parsons, head of the college's chemistry department until recently.

Parsons disclosed last week he had been demoted from his position of department head, which he had held since 1941. He said he is rejecting the offer of a contract which would permit him to remain as a professor, and will retire to look after real estate and other interests here.

The disputed studies program is intended to give undergraduates opportunities to explore various fields of specialized learning before they select one field for concentrated study.

"The work of the general studies program present materials which are directly related to life experiences and which will immediately become a part of the student's thinking to guide him toward making the correct next steps," Gee said.

Gee outlined 11 objectives of general education as submitted to President Harry Truman in 1947 by the President's Commission on Higher Education.

East Texas State's program follows this outline:

TWO POINTS

Two of the points in the commission's report to which Gee called attention read:

"1. To develop for the regulation of one's personal and civic life a code of behavior based on ethical principles consistent with democratic ideals.

"2. To participate actively as an informed and responsible citizen in solving the social, economic, and political problems of one's community, state and nation."

As to how consistently East Texas State is holding to these objectives, Gee said:

"It now appears necessary to answer this question clearly and forthrightly, since we appear to live among a vociferous but seemingly uninformed and uncompromising few who would vilify any attempt toward desirable change by placing the word progressive in front of it."

Regarding specialization, he said:

"While we most certainly continued to recognize that such specialization and depth of knowledge are necessary and desirable, we also recognize that it has all too often come to involve serious sacrifices in the breadth of basic learning..."

"This tendency toward the too early beginning of highly specialized study has induced an increasing number of persons to be content with being practically illiterate in all fields but one."

Gee said a study showed about 35 to 40 per cent of all college students change their major field of specialization two or three times.

Under the general studies program, Gee said an undecided freshman is not urged to guess on his life's work on registration day.

"Every subject or course of the general studies program is designed to guide the student," he said.

"During the time that he is making tentative steps toward a profession, he has the opportunity to take special subjects to test his aptitudes, interests, and abilities; and, at the same time, he also is studying several great areas of human understanding and achievement."

Yanks Looking Down Under

MELBOURNE (AP)—More and more Americans are looking to Australia as a land of opportunity.

This is a change. For until recently high living standards in the United States made it difficult for migration keen Australia to interest more than a handful of Americans in settling here.

More than a million migrants since the war included only 13,000 U. S. citizens.

America's recession seems to be changing the picture.

Letters of inquiry about living and working conditions have begun pouring in from all parts of the United States, mainly from skilled workers. And that's the kind of migrant Australia is most interested in.

Australian Immigration Minister Alexander Downer says: "We'll be happy to welcome as many skilled American migrants as we can get."

Australia offers American migrants nearly $110 each toward their fare and a proportionate amount for children.

Noel Curphey, general manager of the Victorian Chamber of Manufacturers, asserts: "We must take advantage of unemployment in North America. To many in America and Canada, Australia offers more stability of employment and a greater future security than any other country."

2 Crewmen Die In B57 Crash

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—An Air Force B-57 twin-jet bomber crashed in a field shortly after taking off from Chanute Air Force Base yesterday, killing the two crewmen aboard.

The plane disintegrated on impact and there was some fire, witnesses told Lt. George Ogles, public information officer at Chanute.

Ogles said a witness reported a canopy was ejected when the plane was at an altitude of about 3,000 feet. One of the crewmen apparently got out partially, but he was so low the wind did not catch his chute.

The victims were identified as 1st Lt. J. T. Flynn, pilot, of Indianapolis, and Capt. B. H. Griggs, navigator, of Philadelphia, both stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va.

God's Requirements Woven Into Life, HCJC Grads Told

"He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Those requirements, from the sixth chapter of Micah, are woven into life itself, the Rev. Jack Ware told HCJC graduates at baccalaureate services Sunday afternoon.

"Even though you've fulfilled all the requirements for graduation, you'll continue to face the Lord's requirements," the Rev. Ware told the group. "Your understanding of these will largely determine what you do in life."

Graduates, their families and friends filled the college auditorium for the baccalaureate sermon Sunday afternoon. Thirty-five students are qualifying for diplomas and the annual commencement banquet will be held Tuesday evening in the high school cafeteria.

On the baccalaureate program with the Rev. Ware, St. Paul Presbyterian pastor, were Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, First Presbyterian, invocation; the Rev. Clyde Nichols, First Christian, Scripture reading; Dr. P. D. O'Brien, First Baptist, prayer; and Darrell Flynt, Garden City Church of Christ, benediction. The HCJC choir, directed by Ira Schantz and accompanied by Jack Hendrix, provided music. A reception followed the ceremonies.

God's requirement of justice, the speaker said, involves respect for and fulfillment of the rights of others. Guide to justice, he added, is the Golden Rule.

"Temper justice with kindness and mercy," the Rev. Ware advised. "The Lord wants you to be of sympathetic heart."

"Humility, the other requirement, is essential to both justice and mercy, the baccalaureate speaker said. "The things God has done show he is a sympathetic and loving God. We must recognize Him as the source of justice and kindness."

The things God has done show he is a sympathetic and loving God. We must recognize Him as the source of justice and kindness."

Baby's Body Kept In Trunk 11 Years; Nurse Is Charged

NEW BOSTON, Tex. (AP)—A former Army nurse was held for murder today in the death of a baby whose body was said to have been kept in a trunk for 11 years. Sheriff W. J. Wallington of neighboring Texarkana, Tex., lodged a murder charge late Sunday against auburn-haired Mrs. Rose Powers, 46.

The sheriff quoted the tall, comely nurse as telling officers she bore the child illegitimately 11 years ago while living alone in a house trailer near Augusta, Ga.

He said her only explanation for keeping the body was: "I just couldn't bear to get rid of it." Wallington said her husband Elburn Powers, 42, called officers after discovering the body in his wife's steel foot locker Saturday night.

"She was charged with murder because she had a dead body in her possession and no satisfactory explanation as far as we were concerned," the sheriff told newsmen.

He said the partly decomposed body was packed amid clothing with a preservative powder. A physician told investigators, however, that he could not determine the cause of death nor the sex of the baby.

Wallington said Mrs. Powers came here from Nashville, Tenn., three weeks ago to work as a registered nurse in the county hospital of this Northeast Texas town. Authorities at Vanderbilt Hospital, where she had been working, recommended her highly, the sheriff reported.

He said Mrs. Powers gave vague answers to investigators' questions and had only an indirect reply when he asked whether the baby was stillborn or she killed it.

Bird's Home Flies Away

CINCINNATI (AP)—Life is full of mystery for Goofy, a small bird with a big problem.

The dauntless Martin three times each day starts busily to make a new home.

And every time, her nest flies away. The home sites are the tail sections of three airline Constellations that pull into Greater Cincinnati Airport daily.

Bill Birkley, an airline agent, said the Martin streaks for the plane when its engine stops and begins "placing sticks and grass on the tail sections before the first passenger can get his feet on the ground."

Commencement Slated Tonight

Diplomas will be handed out to the Big Spring seniors of 1958 in commencement ceremonies tonight at the high school auditorium.

First of the two-part program, the annual senior sermon, was held Sunday night with Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, speaking to the graduating class.

The commencement exercise tonight will begin at 8:15. There will be no main speaker for the program. Students on the program are George Peacock Jr., Nita

Jones, and Julius Glickman. Wesley Grigsby will pronounce the invocation.

After Principal Roy Worley certifies the graduates, Mrs. Gene Harrington will introduce the students and John Dibrell and Robert Stripling will present their diplomas. E. B. Pierson will announce the award winners, and Kelsay Meek will lead the benedictory prayer.

Sunday night, Dr. O'Brien told the graduates, parents and friends gathered for the baccalaureate program that "You, the graduates, are at the crossroads." He used the story as recorded in Hebrews 11:24-26 of Moses' faith who preferred to share his life with God's people rather than stay in Egypt as a leader of that nation.

"As you are graduating, you stand at the crossroads of life, the crossroads leading to the ultimate or the immediate—the eternal or the temporal. It is better to travel the narrow rocky road which leads to a glorious destiny than to travel the wide, smoothly paved way which leads to destruction.

"The roads are before you; you must choose which to take. The many will be traveling the wide road, but it will take courage to walk with the few down the narrow road.

"To chart your route, you have reliable road maps and highway signs to guide you. Observe these signs. It isn't safe to chart your course by yourself; use maps which have been prepared by others who have traveled the road.

Dr. O'Brien told the graduates it was better to inquire when you get off on the wrong road and change your course than to continue to walk the wide road.

He mentioned some of the highway signs of guidance. The Cross of Christ leads to the Heavenly home, he said. Also watch the church for guidance as well as the Samaritan Inn.

"It isn't what we get that counts, it's what we give. "Moses stood at the crossroads and made a choice—the right one. "You must do the same, but in choosing, don't be influenced by the immediate. Keep your eye on the eternal."

Church Burner Caught In Act

CHICAGO (AP)—A former mental patient was seized yesterday when, police said, he was about to set fire to a church. He admitted setting recent fires in a church and five other buildings, all on the West Side.

Police said Isaac Wilson, 35, admitted he set fire early yesterday to the Christ Temple Church, which was destroyed at a loss estimated at $100,000. On Saturday, he said, he started a fire in a four-story former church building. Damage was $30,000. Wilson, a Negro, was seized as he bent over a pile of rags and papers against the door of the First Congregational Church.

He told police he set fire to the church buildings because he had been refused permission to bring his dog to church. He also told police he set fires in trash cans wherever he finds them because it "keeps rats away and destroys germs."

She Lost 17 Pounds

Italian star and newcomer to Hollywood films is the captivating Sophia Loren. Sophia stresses the importance of exercise and tells how she lost 17 pounds. Her current pictures for Paramount are "Desire Under the Elms" and "House Boat."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Sophia Loren Follows Exercise Routine

By LYDIA LANE
 "It is the wide screen," she explained with her charming accent. "It makes you look heavier than you are. I learned about calories and worked hard every morning with exercises on the floor."
 "You've done a good job," I remarked as she made a costume change for the next scene in "House Boat."
 HOLLYWOOD — Standards of beauty are flexible. Latins prefer women with curves, while the most admired figures in the United States are streamlined. Italian star Sophia Loren was told to reduce 17 pounds when she came to Hollywood.
 She flipped the pages of a fashion magazine and pointed to a picture of a thin model and said, "I don't like these figures that are straight up and down. I don't think men do either. Most models look under-nourished. I have Italian hips—and they'll stay that way."
 I asked for more details about her reducing exercises.
 "You have to be serious and do them every day," Sophia began. "It won't do any good unless you work with your mind and heart. I lie on the floor on my back with my legs together and bring them up over my head, touching my toes on the floor in back of me. Then I lower them to the floor in front of me with my heels barely touching. I do this 10 times. I can feel a pull in my back and thigh muscles."
 "For my next exercise, which I do while still lying on the floor, I bring my legs up above my head. With my hands on my hips and my elbows supporting my body I pretend I'm riding a bicycle. I do this fast for 10 times, slow for 10 times and fast again for 10 times."
 "Then I stretch out on my back again, lift my legs a few inches from the floor and do the bicycle routine that way. It's good to do this fast, then slow and fast again."

Shops Showing Togs For Gay Times All Summer

Summer time is sun time as well as fun time; shops are bright and gay with the latest fashions in comfortable, carefree togs for wear at the lake beach or pool as well as for the stay-at-homes.
 Don't be shocked this season if a swim suit of all-over embroidered nylon looks as if you are seeing through it! Trimmed with bands of white cable knit in a heavy yarn, the suit is ingeniously lined with a fabric of just the right shade to match a suntanned wearer.
 For glamour at the beach or pool is a suit of golden lurex which resembles lame, so luxurious for fashioning evening gowns. Sparkle is added by the aurora borealis stones which outline the neck—cut low, of course.
SHIRRED SUIT
 All-over shirring in some of the swim suits makes a good fit, while gathered skirts of the cotton material are available to accompany the suit or to be worn with halters, blouses or sweaters. Swim caps are gay with flowers on the top or at a jaunty side angle.
 Reminiscent of the Scotch kilt is the brief skirt to be worn over a matching suit of large checks in royal blue, navy or red and white. Permanent pleats eliminate worry of any change in the charm of the skirt.
 Ideal for weekend parties or for longer trips is a white combination, flecked with watermelon seeds, hand printed. A swim suit confines its trim to the seeds,

A Bible Thought For Today

And he answering said, Thou shalt love thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself. (Luke 10:27)

Start On A Vital Study

A start has been made toward ascertaining the best means for tackling the problem of master planning for our community.

At the meeting of a Chamber of Commerce survey committee named to consider the subject, the feeling was not whether master planning should be undertaken, but rather how could it be most effectively done.

If there was any one feeling which came from the meeting—other than the unanimity of the need for coordination of purpose and effort in development of the community—it was that the public needs to understand perfectly what is involved and what is at stake.

Indeed, if the public does not understand to the point of supporting, then whatever might result from the study will be in for a rocky road. To the extent that the people do understand what a master plan can do in the way of orderly development, in preserving or upgrading values, in the way of looking out for institutional as well as commercial advance, to that extent will an ultimate plan be able to resist attacks upon it.

Make no mistake. Any appraisal of the most logical courses of action and development will not please everyone. The problem is a big one and will call for big men and women to solve it. Right now the significance is in starting the ball to roll. As the Chinese proverb so aptly says: "A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step."

Freedom No Shield To Wrong-Doers

One of the first Hungarian refugees to reach Dallas after the Soviets crushed the 1956 revolt there was arrested by Dallas police officers this week in connection with burglary of a tire store. Police quoted the 20-year-old youth as saying he wouldn't have done it if he hadn't lost his job.

But the youth's employer said the youth failed to show up for work two weeks ago, and police said his marriage to a Dallas area girl had ended in a separation.

All this is pretty familiar stuff. What interested us was that when reporters sought to question the guest within our country about his arrest he swelled up and said: "You'll make it so I won't get a job anyway."

He was told his arrest was a matter of public record. Then he asked the policemen to tear up his statement.

"You didn't tell me the newspapers could use my name," the youth complained.

"Did you ever hear of freedom of the press in this country?" a policeman shot back.

The boy shook his head and muttered: "The Communists wouldn't do this to me."

That, too, is pretty familiar stuff, though it usually comes from old-line Americans, born and raised and some of them educated here, brought up in an atmosphere which we fondly imagine to be traditional knowledge of and respect for freedom of speech, press, pulpit and assembly.

Freedom of press doesn't mean malefactors are entitled to hide behind a blackout curtain, or that newspapers and other mediums of communication have a vested right to print or report anything and everything they can lay hands on. Some matters are privileged, some are not.

What it does mean is that the public, the people who pay the taxes that support the law enforcement agencies and the courts that protect their rights as well as the rights of the sorriest felon, have a right to know what's going on, who does it and what if any action is taken.

Freedom of press and speech, of pulpit and assembly, are unknown in Hungary and other Communist countries. They are the first rights abolished when dictators come to power.

It isn't astonishing that this young man from a country under the Communist heel should be ignorant of these things. What is astonishing and heart-sickening is that so many Americans born and bred under the protection of the Bill of Rights should be as ignorant of their meaning as the refugee from a totalitarian government where no human rights at all exist. That is why the struggle to maintain freedom of assembly, speech, press and pulpit goes on incessantly—even in the freest country in the world.

Irresponsible Tactics Bring Recession

WASHINGTON—When the President of the United States speaks on the business outlook, he has at his disposal information gathered from reliable sources. Particular significance may be attached therefore, to Mr. Eisenhower's latest summing up of the present business situation. He says:

"Reports from the country strongly indicate that the economic decline of recent months is slowing down. Not all our economic troubles are over by any means. But there is a change in the making. That it will prove to be a change for the better, I have no doubt."

"No single person, no single group, however wise and well-informed, can name the day or the week when that upturn will begin. But there is reason to believe that much of the adjustment, which a free economy experiences from time to time, has already occurred."

The readjustment really began more than a year ago. It started slowly but gained momentum toward the end of 1957. During the first few months of this year, however, the retrospective appraisals of what actually had happened prompted many politicians in Congress to predict dire consequences unless the government started to spend profusely. The net effect of such talk was to generate more fear.

Today, the country is suffering from two major pains — the readjustment of economic forces to themselves and the psychological effect of "recession" talk. There is no valid objection to the reporting of the news of a recession, but exaggerations and misrepresentations by politicians just to enhance their own position are open to severe criticism as a destructive influence at this time.

Many people have postponed purchases of new cars, for instance, because they fear their working hours may be curtailed or their jobs may be lost. Until confidence in the future comes back, purchases may be deferred no matter how attractive the prices.

What will produce a renewed confidence? Washington is as much a key to this as are the business leaders themselves.

France's Split Personality

WASHINGTON (AP)—The root of the troubles of France, cannot get used to the idea that in the evolution of history they have become only a second-rate power at best. They still dream of glory.

It has an ancient political history but in 1958 it is still a political juvenile and can't adjust.

For Frenchmen freedom is a one-way street. Freedom is for them—not for the colonial peoples under their control.

This cradle of European liberty has never stopped being colonial minded.

In their insistence upon maximum freedom for themselves they have operated through a mess of political parties which have made every postwar government unstable, paralyzed the nation and brought them to the edge of chaos.

And the French, once the masters of Europe, cannot get used to the idea that in the evolution of history they have become only a second-rate power at best. They still dream of glory.

Out of their chaos, their dreams of glory, their desire to hold what they have—in this case their Algerian colony—they look more and more not to freedom but to authority.

That authority is represented to them now in the person of one man: Charles de Gaulle.

The French pride themselves on being practical minded but the growing devotion to and the desire for De Gaulle is in the realm of mysticism.

The French do not know—because De Gaulle has never said—exactly what he'll do or what direction he will take.

If they choose him as the master of their fate they are relying on hope and not on a stated policy.

He has not stated his policy—he has not even clearly said whether he wants to be a dictator —except to indicate he wants plenty of power.

The freedom-minded French held on to their Middle East possessions until they could hold no longer. Their power in the Middle East is zero now.

They held Indochina until in World War II they were forced out by the Japanese. It was the British who had to go back into Indochina after the war and hold it for the French until they could resume control.

They showed no evidence of giving freedom to the Vietnamese, training neither an administrator nor an officer corps which would have been necessary to run a new government.

In the end the Indochinese nationalists, led by the Communists, revolted and forced the French to give up their hold on the country altogether.

They lost their grip on what they held in North Africa except for Algeria. They made the mistake of trying to invade Egypt until ordered by the United States and the Soviet Union to get out.

To the rebels in the last stronghold of French colonialism—Algeria—the French said no to freedom. In short, they had learned nothing from all their disasters.

In an effort to crush these rebels, France had to pull its forces out of the NATO defense of Europe and send them to Algeria, and it still hasn't been able to win there.

Bit by bit France has been growing smaller, less powerful. The French, despite all their experience in politics, are too politically immature to face that realization.

They have now had 25 governments since World War II. What they face, if they pick De Gaulle, is something that can't even be predicted.

Old Saying Is True

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That it really does take money to make more money ... Right now it costs the federal government a dime to make 100 pennies and six dollars to make $500 worth of 50-cent pieces.

That a spoonful of diesel fuel oil in a locomotive will carry a ton of freight one mile ... Well, downhill anyway.

That some Canadian cinemas now are thoughtfully providing double seats ... for courting couples.

That the sparrow hawk is misnamed ... It actually eats far more grasshoppers than it does sparrows.

That there is still plenty of big game hunting left in crowded America ... in the last 10 years more than 600,000 buck deer were killed in California alone.

That although machines don't lay eggs, some two million dollars worth of hen fruit is now sold by U.S. vending machines each year.

That people in Chicago and St. Paul consume more fresh pork per capita than the residents of any other major American cities.

That one man can tend 40 milking cows on a typical U.S. dairy farm ... But in Russia, where the farms are less mechanized, a husky milkmaid can care for only 10 to 12 animals.

That U.S. newspapers publish more than 300 million individual classified ads each year ... and news-hungry Americans now spend a billion dollars annually to read their daily free press.

That you'd probably flunk a TV quiz if you were asked to name a half dozen of the most important vegetable diseases ... Here they are: Cucurbit mosaic, lettuce yellows, tomato early blight, tomato blossom end rot, cabbage club and bean blight.

That the teeth of elephants continue to grow throughout their lifetime ... But isn't this true of rabbits and squirrels, too?

That Bob Bobo of Black Springs, Ark., spells his name with only two letters.

That Sinclair Lewis gave this insight into human nature: "There are two insults which no human will endure: The assertion that he hasn't a sense of humor, and the doubly impertinent assertion that he has never known trouble."

That one way to keep a small child from dawdling over his meals is this: Light a small birthday candle and bet him he can't finish what's on his plate before the candle goes out.

That the porpoise does have a purpose ... Its oil is used to lubricate delicate precision instruments.

That it was President Woodrow Wilson who observed: "A few people who achieve fame grow—most of them swell."

Around The Rim

No Spare Time On The Parking Meter!

One thing and another: There are those who will argue that clothes make the man but I'm of the school that believes his name helps more than a little bit.

Mickey Mantle isn't handicapped by the name he goes by. Chances he wouldn't be drawing $70,000 per annum had he been born Joe Doaks or John Jones.

By the same token, as some one once put it, Man O'War wouldn't be near the legend he is in horse racing circles had he been dubbed Uncle Miltie.

Names make news, there's no doubt about that. Names also make for curiosity, which is the reason many cities have become tourist meccas.

Small dots on the map which may be just like any other city in their area, have been sought out by visitors, simply because they bear unusual names like Walla Walla, Woonsocket and Wampum.

Maybe we missed a bet in not calling our city Cap Rock Kitty or Yellow Rose Of.

There are people who are always conspiring against us ordinary citizens. I see now they've developed a parking meter which won't give the motorists any free parking time.

It's a sort of seeing-eye gadget which shoves up its red flag immediately after a car leaves a parking space, thus cancelling all time left on the meter.

Recent tests of the new meters in a metropolitan area showed an increase of 37 per cent in the take of the meters when the new miser meter was used.

What a trick to play on the guy who drives around town burning up 20 cents worth of gasoline looking for a meter with some time left on it.

If you're male, single and are planning to cease going around with your girl friend, proceed with caution if she's a blonde. Some of those who profess to know claim the girl with blonde tresses is more apt to try and scrag you, if she's jilted. Brunettes, on the other hand, are more prone to jump off a bridge, if they're disappointed in love.

How do red-heads react? Apparently no one has gotten a line on their demeanor, so one must conclude that very few of them are jilted.

Belgian Customs Men Nip The Russkys

What follows today is a sequel to my caviar-and-vodka luncheon party in the Russian pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair four weeks ago, a party for four persons that cost me $60 without tip and almost induced coronary collapse in the change purse.

The big news out of the restaurant in the Russian pavilion is that those two great native delicacies, caviar and vodka, are no longer for sale there—a fact that makes me one of the first and the last of the Good Time Charlies or Diamond Jims at the U. S. S. R. cafe.

I am indebted for this news to Ed Levine, president of the Brass Rail Restaurants, who is running the two eating places in the American pavilion at Brussels. Ed, who is back home for the notice, and who got clipped some $76 for a luncheon for six persons in the Russky restaurant, called to say that the innocent Russians had fallen afoul of slick capitalistic capers.

In the first place, as Ed pointed out, every bit of food imported into Belgium by the various countries whose fair pavilions boast restaurants, is subject to import duties of 20 to 40 per cent.

Russia, the people's friend, thinking to outwit the wily imperialist powers, was importing its best caviar into Belgium and valuing it, for import purposes, at $5 a pound. Thus, the champion of the proletariat figured it could then afford to charge the downtrodden capitalistic masses no more than $7.50 to 10 per serving—say one ounce per customer.

But Russia reckoned without the cunning of those tools of imperialism, the Belgian customs inspectors.

"Aha!" cried the inspectors, or words to that effect. "This caviar you are importing for your restaurant at $5 per pound is exactly the same caviar you have been sending to Brussels priced at $28 to $32 per pound. The duty, comrades, is—as usual—$12 per pound."

Argument was to no avail. The oppressors of the downtrodden, despite all blandishments, insisted that Ivan pony up $12 for each and every pound of caviar imported for the restaurant, just as he had paid such a price in the past when importing caviar to sell to the custom trade.

"They did the same thing with vodka," said Vladimir Nikolaev, who operates the Russian restaurant at the fair, as he sadly told Ed Levine of the anti-social behavior of the Belgium customs inspectors.

"So we have just quit selling caviar and vodka," added the six-foot, six-inch Nikolaev, who insisted on sending caviar and vodka to my table the day I lunched in his emporium. And then insisted on sending me a whopping check.

"No more vodka, no more caviar," said Ed's opposite number at the fair, who operates the restaurant in Moscow's Grand Hotel when not in Brussels. "It doesn't pay," he added, and no bloated capitalist could have sounded more discouraged.

"So the last day I was at the fair," said Ed, "I thought I would go over and cheer up Nikolaev and have a bowl of borsch, because I am real fond of borsch, seeing that I was born in Russia years ago."

"And what do you know? They are not only fresh out of vodka and fresh out of caviar, but they don't even have borsch!"

Business Is Good In Some Places

CHICAGO—This is a good place to start "taking the pulse" of the recession. You quickly learn why 1957-58 is a recession and not a depression, why it's not 1929-33.

Chicago, itself, is a great industrial center. Its electronic plants are not doing badly. But the steel areas, outside the city, are depressed. And there are many heavy goods plants, inside the city, with lay-off lists longer than work rosters.

But Chicago is a service area. It caters to the agricultural and industrial cities surrounding it. Included in the five-state banking domain of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago is Michigan. And in Michigan are Detroit, Flint and Lansing, all hard hit by the depression in the automobile industry.

There's also Iowa—a rich Iowa, benefiting from high prices for beef and hogs, and one of the best hog-corn ratios (which means it pays the farmer to fatten his hogs on favorably-priced corn) in years.

Recently, the Cedar Rapids Gazette put out a prideful first page asking, "Where is this recession the country's talking about?" Department store sales statistics for Cedar Rapids answer the question. They're just about unchanged for the year to date. And any merchant will tell you that if his cumulative cash-register total for 1958 is on a par with 1957 he's doing fine.

This zero change for Cedar Rapids compares with a minus three per cent for all cash registers in department stores in the United States. The hard-hit Chicago district shares with the St. Louis Federal Reserve District the ignominious distinction of being worst—minus 6 per cent.

Why is that? Because sales in Flint, which is in the Chicago Reserve District, are off more than 15 per cent. Flint is where General Motors has two major plants—Buick and Chevrolet. Sales in Detroit are off 12 per cent; in Grand Rapids the furniture city, the figures is minus 8 per cent.

Lansing shows a minus 5 per cent. Here layoffs at G. M.'s Oldsmobile works are offset by two expanding industries — government and higher education. Lansing is the capital of Michigan and seat of the government. It's also the home of Michigan State University, which has been growing awesomely, athleticswise and studentwise.

That's why this isn't a depression. Everything's not down sharply, nor are all places. In industrial Indiana, Fort Wayne department stores are doing about 13 per cent less business than last year. It's a capital goods town, with plants of International Harvester and General Electric. Gary, a steel center, registers a minus 12 per cent, and Muncie, famous for Ball jars for canning, is pulled down by the automobile depression. Borg-Warner and G. M.'s Delco-Remy make auto accessories there.

Metropolitan Chicago shows only a 3 per cent drop. Downtown State Street stores register a minus 8 per cent as against a plus 1 per cent for outlying stores. Cash registers in Aurora, a prosperous suburb, have been clicking 12 per cent more than last year. Again, the ineluctable drift of middle- and upper-income, white-collar incomes, to the suburbs. White-collar workers haven't been hard-hit as yet, which again makes this a recession, not a depression.

Up in Wisconsin, Milwaukee — a city which machinery has made as famous as beer—shows a decline of 4 per cent in department store sales as against the district total of 6 per cent. Milwaukee manufacturers, including Briggs & Stratton (motors), Allis-Chalmers (electric generating equipment), Harmsco (machinery), A. O. Smith (heavy-steel products), and a couple electrical equipment manufacturers as General Electric and Square D have managed to provide fairly steady employment for most workers by living off backlogs.

People still are eating and well. So merchants in cities associated with the food industries have done better than average. Battle Creek, Mich., a cereal and health town, shows department store volume even with last year. Green Bay, Wis., a stable agricultural center, chalks up a plus 5 per cent in sales. Des Moines, Iowa's principal center of distribution, is off only 3 per cent.

Indeed, sales of food stores are up 9 per cent for the U. S. And such sales constitute a quarter of retail sales. It's the durable goods stores—off 12 per cent in March—which have done badly, with automotive dealers off a depressing 16 per cent.

That's why this is still a recession, not a depression. Business is still good in some places. It's not universally bad. That's plain in and around Chicago, banking center for the hard-hit auto and capital-goods industries.

At A Peak

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Medical College of Virginia Hospital officials think the do-it-yourself trend has reached a peak. A man reported to the emergency room that he couldn't sleep. He was asked to wait in an unoccupied room. Moments later a nurse saw him running from the building. Missing: one stethoscope.

Shocking Thing

HONOLULU (AP)—One of Hawaii's best-known trademarks—the ukulele—was introduced here originally by the Portuguese, and a lot of them are still being imported.

Many ukuleles offered for sale here come from a manufacturer in Nazareth, Pa. (C. F. Martin Company.)

Pinball Convert

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—There's a converted pinball machine in the Salvation Army headquarters here that lights up and flashes. However, it isn't a game of chance anymore. Capt. Rodolph Lanier converted it to blink a series of lights on a map to show hometowns of youth delegates to a conference here. It also flashes out a welcoming sign.

Madison-Less

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Although many smaller cities have residents named Madison, the local directory and phone books show this city of 100,000 population can boast of not a single citizen named Madison.

Plastic Shell Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 105-millimeter plastic shell case weighing less than half as much as metal cases has been developed for the Army.

Tube Turns Plastics, Inc., of Louisville, Ky., has been awarded a development contract to produce several hundred of the plastic cases for full-scale firing tests at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground.

In research, the plastic case has withstood gas pressures as high as 35,000 pounds per square inch and a flame temperature of 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit at the instant of percussion. Weighing only 2 1/2 pounds, the new cases are expected to ease the burden of transporting shells and handling them at gun sites.
