Map locates key spots in the French government crisis. In Paris there is an emergency session of Parliament. In Corsica insurrection forces pledged to support De Gaulle. In Algiers new controls were imposed on departures of Frenchmen and foreigners. In southern Tunisia renewed fighting occurred between French and Tunisian forces. Meantime the French government sought to ease Tunisian tension by some redeployment of French forces in that country. But these crises seemed about at an end as De Gaulle today announced formation of a new government.

Senate Panel OKs Aid To Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today formally proposed economic aid for the Soviet Union's European satellites. This is the area of maximum vulnerability in the Soviet complex, the committee said. The issue is expected to bring a major Senate debate. Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California already has served notice he will fight it. The committee's recommendation is part of a $3,712,500,000 foreign aid program. It proposes unprecedented authority for President Eisenhower to provide economic and financial aid to Yugoslavia, Poland, East Germany and other satellites. The committee said in its report that it was well aware of the risks that are outweighed by the increased chance for world peace which may result if the United States can help some countries within the Communist bloc gradually to loosen their bonds. Knowland's view as given to a reporter is: "I do not think the granting of mutual aid to the Communist countries can be justified." He said his fight would be directed primarily to shutting off any assistance for Yugoslavia and Poland. In reporting the House-passed aid bill to the Senate, the Foreign Relations Committee said: "A series of cracks have appeared in the Iron Curtain. This is conclusive evidence that the subject peoples of Eastern Europe have never fully accepted communism." As approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, an amendment to the House-passed bill would authorize the President to provide economic aid to any country except the Soviet Union, Communist China and Communist North Korea. In doing so, the President would have to find that such assistance would (1) strengthen U.S. security by enabling "freedom loving peoples" to gain additional release from Red Chinese and Soviet domination, (2) strengthen their efforts to make their governments less dependent on Moscow, and (3) reduce their economic dependence on the Soviets and Red Chinese. Knowland said State Department acceptance of the amendment will not deter his opposition.

Patrolman Added To Police Force

A new patrolman has joined the police force and has been placed on the night shift captained by Walter Eubanks. Police Chief C. L. Rogers said today that he had hired P. L. Curtis. The vacancy was created when C. O. Taylor resigned last week. Taylor had been hired less than a month ago.

De Gaulle Starts Forming New Government For France

Pflimlin Cabinet Expected To Resign

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle today started forming a new French government. There were growing indications he would have the assistance of President Rene Coty and Premier Pierre Pflimlin. A high source at the President's Elysee Palace, who would not be named, said the resignation of the Pflimlin Cabinet could be expected tonight. The same source said De Gaulle saw the Premier during his mysterious visit to Paris Monday night. The two agreed on the formation of a new government, which would be headed by De Gaulle but include at least some of the ministers now in office. His plans ran into difficulty when Socialist members of the National Assembly agreed they would not support De Gaulle under any circumstances. With their 97 votes in the badly split Assembly, the Socialists made Pflimlin De Gaulle's chances of coming to power constitutionally on an Assembly vote. The De Gaulle-Pflimlin meeting took place at the country estate of Defense Minister Pierre de Chevigne, a few miles west of Paris. The two men quietly talked over the grave political situation France is facing as result of the virtual breakdown of the French generals in Algeria and the mounting clamor for the World War II hero to take over. De Gaulle announced earlier in the day he was moving to take over the government. He urged the nation to remain calm. De Gaulle promised quick contact with his supporters in Algeria who precipitated France's gravest postwar crisis by seizing control of that vast North African territory in defiance of Paris. De Gaulle has always insisted he only would take power legally and that when the proper moment came he would speak to the right man. Apparently Pflimlin was that man. Pflimlin called his ministers one after the other to his office. There were several reports during the afternoon of columns of gendarmes, some with armoured cars, moving in the general direction of the capital. WORKERS DISPersed About 1,000 workers at the naval base of Toulon marched from the arsenal and paraded, shouting "Down with De Gaulle." They were dispersed by armed riot police. The mayor of Toulouse called on the population to turn out tonight to demonstrate in defense of the Republic. De Gaulle's arch foes, the Communists, lashed out with a general strike that idled coal fields and factories. Paris suburban train service was halted. Socialists called for a day of national protest. Non-Communist unions ignored the strike call. Transportation inside Paris was about normal. Subways were running and only 40 of the city's 1,700 buses quit. The National Assembly recessed shortly before De Gaulle issued his statement. Premier Pierre Pflimlin and members of his Popular Republican Movement (MRP) hurried off to see President Coty. De Gaulle moved today in utmost secrecy. No one at his Paris headquarters had advance notice that he intended issuing a statement. From his country home 150 miles from Paris, De Gaulle telephoned the declaration to his orderly officer, Lt. Col. Gaston de Bonneval, in Paris. He said in part: "I started yesterday the regular process necessary for the establishment of a republican government capable of assuring the unity and the independence of the country. "I depend on that process being carried through and that the country will show by its calm and its dignity that it wishes it to succeed. "I expect the land, sea and air forces in Algeria to remain exemplary under the orders of their chiefs—Gen. (Raoul) Salan, Adm. (Philippe) Auboyneau, Gen. Edmond Jouhaud. "It was not immediately clear whether the World War II hero had been asked by President Coty to form a government. A spokesman at the presidential palace said he was not aware that Coty had asked De Gaulle to step in. But he added that could have been done by telephone. De Gaulle slipped into Paris Monday night and presumably set the takeover machinery in motion. He spent four hours in Paris, then returned to his home. OPPOSITION ACTION In the wake of De Gaulle's statement Communist and non-Communist leaders met together and decided to make immediate joint contact with the government. De Gaulle is 67. He dropped out of French political life in 1946 disdainful of the nation's political system. He stepped into France's blackest crises two weeks ago when he came to Paris to announce that he was willing to take over the reins of government—but on his own terms.

BULLETIN

PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Pflimlin today refused to step down so that Gen. Charles de Gaulle could form a government.

A Different Look This Spring

The usually gay and bright streets of Paris in the springtime are taking a different look this year. Here on Champs Elysees Avenue, empty tables and chairs are prominent while heavy detachments of police in the streets keep watch for any possible disorder. Demonstrations have been forbidden in the French capital since National Assembly voted a "state of emergency" asked by Premier Pflimlin.

Rayburn Supports Ike In Opposing Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said today he is "in full accord" with President Eisenhower's recommendation against substantial tax reductions this year. Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark), chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, concurred in Rayburn's statement at a joint news conference. Mills said his committee will start consideration tomorrow of a bill to continue corporate and excise tax rates at their present levies. These rates, under existing law, would drop automatically July 1. Eisenhower has asked Congress to continue them to prevent an estimated three-billion-dollar drop in revenues. Several members of Congress have said they will seek a reduction in the excise tax on automobiles, whose sales have been lagging. A bill to extend the present corporate and excise rates is expected to reach the House floor early in June. Rayburn said both he and Mills are "in accord with the statement (from the President) that there will be no further recommendations for tax reductions this year." "I have never thought that a tax reduction would be very potent in stopping a recession," Rayburn said. He added he could not comment on whether the recession is tapering off. Republican congressional leaders said the administration's stand against any antirecession tax cut is prompted by the uneasy international situation and the threat of inflation. Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland of California gave newsmen that word after he and other GOP chiefs had held their weekly meeting with President Eisenhower. RENEWS REQUEST Eisenhower Monday said he opposes any general tax reduction now. In doing so he renewed his request for a one-year extension of corporate and excise taxes at current levels. Since tax-raising and tax-cutting legislation must originate in the House, the position of the House speaker and the chairman of the tax-writing committee could be considered decisive on the issue. The President's stand was announced late yesterday after earlier conferences between congressional leaders and the Secretary of the Treasury Anderson. Presumably it had the advance blessing of the House leaders. Although some senators disagreed, Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee, which handles tax legislation, openly welcomed the administration stand. He said tax cuts could start a new spiral of inflation. Eisenhower called again for action to halt scheduled reductions in corporate and excise taxes due to go into effect July 1. Without renewal, corporate tax rates would drop from 52 to 47 per cent on that date and excise levies on liquor, cigarettes and automobiles would dip to their prewar levels, taking an estimated three billion dollars off next year's federal income. The Ways and Means Committee probably will meet in the next day or two to approve a simple one-year extension of the present rates. The White House didn't foreclose the possibility that it may alter its position later if developments warrant. "The Treasury, as always, will study and evaluate all proposals and the entire tax situation and will act in the light of the economic situation as it develops," a White House statement said. Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), a member of the Senate Finance Committee, called the President's stand "a very bad mistake." He contended the country still is in a serious recession which only a tax cut can decelerate.

State Tax Collection Probe Due

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate General Investigating Committee said today seven witnesses—all from the state comptroller's office—will be questioned Thursday on tax collection procedures. "The hearings are designed to determine whether or not the present procedures and laws are adequate to collect the taxes which are now on the statutes of Texas," Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, the chairman, said. State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert is responsible for collection of various taxes. He has district offices in many parts of the state. Subpoenaed for 9:30 a.m. Thursday are O. H. Kellogg, Harvey McKenzie, J. C. Pugh, V. E. Davis, Donald Guy and Arthur Froetsch, all of Houston, and S. M. Marrs of Longview, Herring said. "In these times when it appears that the state will run a financial deficit before the present biennium is up, it is essential that we be certain that the state is collecting all the money it is entitled to receive," Herring said. "If not, recommendations should be made to the Legislature for whatever additional laws are needed to correct the situation." He said other hearings concerning the state comptroller are planned. Calvert said he did not know what the probe was about but planned to attend the hearing. "I wasn't subpoenaed but I'm going down there," he said. "I don't know what the investigation is about. We've been bragging for years about our tax collection procedures." Calvert's office is responsible for collecting taxes on motor fuel, cigarettes, occupations, gross receipts and production. "We collect all big taxes except franchise taxes on corporations, insurance company taxes and liquor taxes," he said. Calvert said there were no indications that his office had been lax in collecting taxes. "Maybe we'll know what it's all about later," he said.

Phillips Returns Depth Laurels To West Texas

MIDLAND (AP)—Phillips Petroleum Co. brought the world's drilling depth record back to West Texas yesterday, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reported today. The company's No. 1-EE University, Central, 85 airline miles west of here, was drilling at 22,595 feet today, 25 feet below the old record of 22,570 feet. The previous record holder was Richardson and Bass and Associates' No. 1-L Louisiana Land and Exploration Co.-Humble Oil and Refining Co. in Louisiana, the Reporter-Telegram said. The Phillips project, 12 miles east of Ft. Stockton, has been watched closely by the oil industry since its spudding date more than 19 months ago.

Mercury Goes To 98 Degrees

The sun worked overtime Monday and managed to push the mercury up to a sizzling 98 degrees. Air conditioning equipment, idle in many homes so far this spring, was put into service and the heat caused people to hasten to the shady sides of the streets. So far this spring, the temperature has not touched the century mark. Monday was the hottest day of the current season and it was still 8 degrees under the record for that date—105 degrees in 1913. Low for the night was 65.

New Fighter-Bomber Bears Cannon, Speeds At Mach 2

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The Air Force disclosed today that its new Republic F105 fighter-bomber is capable of flying twice the speed of sound, and is armed with the new 20mm Vulcan automatic cannon. Republic Aviation Corp., Farmingdale, N.Y., is building the F105 for the Tactical Air Command. Described as the most powerful one-man airplane in the world, the F105 can carry the new nuclear weapons along with clusters of rockets, 4,000 pounds of conventional bombs, napalm bombs and guided and unguided missiles. The General Electric-manufactured Vulcan cannon, called the world's fastest and most potent machine gun, can fire 6,000 rounds a minute. The plane is powered by a Pratt and Whitney J75 engine. Earlier, the Navy announced it would continue training its fledgling pilots instead of using civilian instructors for primary flight training as the Air Force and the Army do. The Navy made its stand known in a news release at an Aviation Writers' Assn. meeting here, taking issue with certain recommendations of a survey conducted by a Cleveland firm, Robert Heller and Associates. The Navy described the Aero-nautical Training Society of Washington, D. C., which made the Heller report public, as a "bargaining agent for civilian flight training organizations." ATS represents the primary instrument and ROTC flight training schools which conduct primary training for the Air Force and the Army. The Heller report, made public at ATS urging after being kept secret for more than a year and a half, estimated the Navy could save almost seven million dollars a year by using civilian flying instructors. before the body and each give his assistance and relatives including two nephews, the Rev. Morris Stritch of Memphis, Tenn., and Robert Emmett Stritch of Chicago. Pope Pius was one of the first notified of the cardinal's death. He gave his approval for funeral and burial plans in accordance with canon law. Cardinal Stritch had asked that his body be returned to Chicago. The cardinal's death brought to 15 the vacancies in the College of Cardinals. The full complement is 70. In Yugoslavia Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac was reported in critical condition. He is suffering from a blood disease complicated by bronchial pneumonia, a weakened heart and a blood clot in his leg.

Death Takes Cardinal Stritch Following Amputation, Stroke

ROME (AP)—The body of Samuel Cardinal Stritch lay in state today at the Pontifical College where Americans study for the priesthood. The 70-year-old Archbishop of Chicago died early today at Rome's Sanatrix Clinic. He had been confined there with circulatory ailments since he arrived in Rome April 25 to assume the high post given him by Pope Pius XII. The cardinal's body will remain at the North American Pontifical College until Wednesday night. Then it will be taken to Rome's St. Ignatius Church. A funeral Mass will be celebrated there Thursday and the body will be flown home to Chicago for burial. The funeral mass will be celebrated by Bishop Martin John O'Connor of Scranton, Pa., the rector of the Pontifical College. All cardinals in Rome will pass

YMCA Fund Still Growing

Momentum from the formal campaign boosted the YMCA building fund drive to 87 per cent of its quota Tuesday as clean up volunteers went to work. Whereas the campaign proper closed out last week at $265,775, the total pledged and paid Tuesday morning stood at $268,340. Under the direction of R. L. Tollett, general chairman, and R. W. Whipkey, teams chairman, 20 workers (there were two others who previously had asked for their quota of cards) gathered Monday evening to map the clean up phase. They took cards which had been turned in unworked and took off with the avowed purpose of winding up their new contacts by Friday. That they were dead serious was reflected not only by the excellent turnout for the Monday party, but also by the fact that some had reported in by Tuesday noon. Meanwhile, letters went out to all workers in the formal campaign who had not made a report. These asked that they conclude their contacts no later than Friday, or else bring the cards to headquarters at the Y in order that others might take the contracts.

6 Million Gallons Of Water Used

For the first time this year, water consumption topped the six-million-gallon mark Monday. Continuing to climb upward, the usage Monday was 6,824,000 gallons. It was only 4,816,000 on Sunday but had been over five million on several days this month. The Monday total raised the month's sum to 108,194,000 gallons for a daily average for May of 4,161,000 gallons.

Singleton Quitting Stanton C-C Post

STANTON (SC)—No successor will be sought immediately for Allen Singleton as manager of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce. Singleton, whose resignation was accepted last Thursday by the chamber board, will leave his post on June 1. F. O. Rhodes, chamber president, said that no successor would be named immediately, although when Singleton departs an interim manager may be named. If this is done it will afford the board a longer period in which to seek a permanent replacement. In stepping out of the management which he assumed a year ago, Singleton said he did so with regret because of the many friendships he had formed in his work. He had praise for the people of Stanton and Martin County and for the support given the chamber. The board at first tabled his resignation then accepted with regrets. Singleton said he had no immediate plans, although the first order of business after his retirement will be to take a troop of Boy Scouts to the Boy Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains for a week. He said he might continue in chamber work or public relations, although he is considering an assignment in the Big Bend park. He holds both his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts as a political science major from Sul Ross College in Alpine. He came to Stanton shortly after receiving his MA degree.

SHAGGY LION STORY—NO HUNTING AFTER SUNDOWN

EATONTOWN, N.J. (AP)—This is a shaggy lion story. It started over the weekend, when a Monmouth College biology professor, Dr. William Garner, reported seeing a lion lying contentedly on the grass just off the Garden State Parkway. Hunt Brothers Circus is playing in nearby Freehold, and authorities theorized the lion may have escaped from there. The circus met this theory halfway. It reported a zebra missing. But the zebra was found munching grass in a corner of the circus grounds, and that seemed to be the end of that. Later, however, James L. Orr, principal of the Whitesville School in Neptune Township, said he heard what sounded like a lion roaring during the night. Orr lives in the area near the parkway. Armed with the testimony of the two educators—and also some guns—police, white hunters and volunteers beat the bush for the elusive beast. The natives spent all day looking for the displaced king of the jungle but the biggest game they sighted was a rather large alley cat. Finally, one of the hunters looked up to see the sun sinking into the trees and said in his native dialect: "Betcha it's nothing but a dog, a big fuzzy dog." Police Chief Bill Zadorozny was inclined to agree. He suggested they all go back to their huts. So they did.

Lightning Bolt Strikes Bus

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A bolt of lightning struck a crowded transit bus at a busy Portland intersection yesterday evening, setting it afire.

All the 50 passengers — many with singed eyebrows and hair — escaped without serious injury. Thirteen were hospitalized overnight for treatment of smoke inhalation and noncritical burns.

Witnesses said the lightning, which struck at the height of a sudden storm, skipped along the trolley wire before it shot into the electric trolley bus.

Inside the bus, the bolt became a huge ball of fire which flashed over the passengers' heads and set the rear portion of the vehicle ablaze.

"The bus is on fire, open the doors," a passenger shouted. Bus driver Walter Nabors pressed the electric door switch, which still was operating, and the passengers — some of them hysterical — poured out into the street. A number of them lost shoes, purses, umbrellas and other possessions in the scramble to get out.

The bus burned.

Candidates Spar At Long Distance

By WHITEY SAWYER
The Associated Press

Candidates in the Texas Democratic primaries sparred at long range Monday as they warmed up for the heavy campaigning.

Former U.S. Sen. William Blakley, who wants to go back to Washington, concentrated on his roadwork Monday and Tuesday. Despite the heat, he loped through Southeast and South Texas, shaking hands and introducing himself to the populace at large.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, the man Blakley hopes to outpoint, was in Washington. He called on Texas officials to make sure the state shares fully in pending legislation designed to encourage educational TV. He also joined in introduction of a bill which would increase federal aid to the aged, blind and disabled.

State Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, who wants to be governor, was to speak at a $100-a-plate dinner in San Antonio Tuesday night. He planned to ask supporters to help him stage a statewide television rally June 9.

Gov. Price Daniel, who says he is saving his heavy campaigning for later in the season, was at Austin. He urged that local communities seek for themselves new industries to improve their economic balance.

Blakley walked the streets of Houston, Pasadena, Jacinto City and Baytown Monday. He ducked into stores, stopped people, at random and visited city halls, fire stations and the like.

Tuesday he started at Sugarland and headed for Richmond, Rosenberg, Sealy, Columbus, Halteston, Schulenburg, Yoakum, Shiner, Cuero and Victoria.

Yarborough is a member of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee which has approved a bill calling for up to 49 million dollars in federal grants to the states to promote educational TV.

Of the bill to increase federal aid to the aged, blind and disabled, Yarborough estimated it would mean about 15 million dollars yearly to Texas.

Gonzalez termed his fund-raising affair a kick-off dinner. All proceeds were earmarked for an open air political rally June 9 in La Villa, the rebuilt community center that represents old San Antonio.

Gonzalez faces Daniel, W. Lee O'Daniel, Don Booker of Orange, Joe Irwin of Dallas and Alvis Vanduygrew of Austin in the primary.

Daniel spoke at the First Colorado Valley Industrial Seminar at Austin.

"Texas has more to offer industry than any other state and we should go all out to make known our attractions to out-of-state business people," he told the group.

Presbyterians Show Little Race Mingling

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The door is open to all races at most Northern Presbyterian churches, a survey indicated today. But there's relatively little interracial traffic through it.

In one of the most comprehensive denominational studies of its kind, the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. reported 85 per cent of its pastors (4,050 out of 4,766) think their congregations would admit persons of any race.

But only about 8 per cent (647) of the congregations actually have active mixed memberships.

The findings were presented in advance of ceremonies here tomorrow merging the big Northern Presbyterian body and the United Presbyterian Church.

They'll form a combined church of 3 1/2 million members, fourth largest in United States Protestantism.

The report on the generally pro-integration policy of the Northern church pointed up the absence of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. (Southern) from the merger. It declined to join.

The racial report, drawn up by the Northern church's Social Education and Action Department, said about 60 per cent of the congregations "have virtually no choice but to remain segregated" because of segregated residential patterns.

Most white congregations are half a mile or more away from the nearest Negro home, the report said.

Only 105 congregations said definitely they would not take in other races while 261 said they probably would not. About 350 said they didn't know.

The U. S. A. church, popularly referred to as Northern, includes some congregations in the South.

As its merger with the United Presbyterian Church approached, there were reports of scattered opposition in the latter organization.

About half a dozen congregations reportedly were threatening to pull out of the plan—and want to take their church property with them.

Both merging denominations hold their final separate assemblies today.

Unknown Soldiers Now On Potomac

WASHINGTON (AP)—A grim, gray warship threaded its way up the Potomac River today, returning the bodies of two unknown fighting men to the country for which they died.

In twin bronze caskets, the two will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery Friday to symbolize all the nameless dead of World War II and Korea.

A third, brought with them from foreign battlefields, was given a sailor's burial in the sea yesterday after a final selection was made during a rendezvous off the Virginia Capes. He was one of two picked from the anonymous dead of World War II.

Tomorrow morning the two caskets containing the Unknowns will be removed to the rotunda of the Capitol. There they will lie in state, in the place reserved by custom for presidents and other famous men who have died. On Memorial Day, they will be entombed in Arlington close by the Unknown Soldier of the first World War.

The three men — one from Korea, one from the European-North African battlefields of World War II, the other from the Pacific theater of that war — came to the seaward approaches of their homeland yesterday.

The man from Europe was aboard the destroyer Blandy.

Aboard the guided missile cruiser Boston were the bodies of the Pacific World War II dead and the man who died in Korea.

In the rain, on the gray swells of the Atlantic off Cape Henry, Va., all three bodies were transferred to the missile cruiser Canberra.

Then, in solemn ceremony, William Charette, a Navy enlisted man and holder of the Medal of Honor, chose between the identical caskets of the two World War II dead. Charette prayed for guidance before he placed a floral wreath on the casket to his right to mark his choice. The chosen one of World War II and the man from Korea's battleground were transferred to the Blandy.

The Canberra, with the body of the other Unknown, steamed farther out to sea, out where fifteen fathoms of water roll above the rim of the Continental Shelf.

Six bearers brought the flag-covered pallet to the slanted platform on the afterdeck. Chaplains, in their vestments, said the prayers of four faiths.

The bearers tilted the platform. Out from under the covering flag slid the shrouded body, weighted to carry it down. A little cloud of foam drifted back from the stern of the Canberra, to mark the spot briefly on the quiet sea.

Lincoln's Catafalque Will Receive Unknowns' Bodies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Abraham Lincoln's catafalque stood under the great dome of the Capitol today ready to receive the caskets of two unknown American fighting men of World War II and the Korean War.

They will lie in state from 10 a.m. tomorrow until 1 p.m. Friday.

The two houses of Congress will assemble separately in their chambers and go together to the rotunda to receive the honored bodies.

Lincoln was the first man so to lie after death in the rotunda of the Capitol. The honor—to which Congress must agree—has been accorded since then to only 12 others, including the Unknown Soldier of World War I.

The heavy timber catafalque, built 93 years ago to support the casket of the martyred Civil War President, was brought up earlier from its vault and re-covered in black velvet.

The Army has made an exact duplicate. When the caskets first are brought to the rotunda, that of the World War II Unknown will be placed on the Lincoln catafalque and the Korean conflict representative's casket on the duplicate. At noon Thursday the places will be exchanged.

As in Lincoln's day, the public will be admitted at the door opening on the broad east steps of the Capitol, to stream past the caskets with their military guard and leave the building by the rarely used west portal.

The rotunda has not been used for funeral honors since 1953, when the body of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio was brought there. Five years earlier Gen. John L. Pershing, U. S. commander in World War I, lay in state there.

Appraisers Set $800 Per Acre Price On Road Land

A board of appraisers named by the Howard County Court set a price of $800 an acre for slightly over three acres, owned by Marshall Field, Odessa, which the county seeks as a part of the right-of-way for FM 700.

Field indicated he would appeal from the action of the appraisers. He can do so in county court where the matter will be heard before a county jury. However, the action of the appraisers clears the way for the county to take possession of land in question for public use.

Field has asked for $20,000 for the three acres in his initial offer but was reported to have reduced this price to $12,000.

The Howard County commissioners court voted Monday afternoon on three to one to offer J. E. Russell $3,000 for the acre of land he owns and most of which will be required for the new road. Russell has asked the county to pay $6,000. This was declined and the county anticipates that condemnation proceedings will be initiated at once to gain title to the property.

G. E. Gilliam, commissioner, had contended that the $6,000 price asked by Russell was "high" but that he regarded the matter as one in which "replacement" was the issue. Judge R. H. Weaver said there was land in the general neighborhood available at $750 an acre.

When the matter was brought to a vote, only P. O. Hughes voted against offering the owner but $3,000 for his property. Gilliam joined in the "aye" vote with Hudson Landers, Earl Hull and Weaver.

Seaman Feels Like Whale In Suspension Traveling Undersea

Editor's Note — The Navy has announced that two U.S. submarines, Skate and Seawolf, have completed a record-breaking month under water. What did it feel like cooped up in an atomic submarine?

By LOUIS E. KLEINLEIN
Special Staff Writer, U.S. Navy
ABOARD THE U.S.S. SKATE, GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Cruising beneath the surface, with no feeling of motion whatsoever, was a very eerie feeling.

This feeling of suspension must be what a whale feels when he swims under the ocean. We spent a long and tiring 40 days at sea, but surprisingly none of us had that "bottled up" feeling.

For more than 31 of those days we were totally buttoned up under the water. This was longer than any men have remained under the sea before.

Reading was a favorite past-time. The most popular books at the beginning were "Peyton Place," "Onionhead," and "Don't Go Near The Water." But books became a little boring.

Movies were shown in the mess hall every night. Some of the movies were "The Benny Goodman Story," "Underwater," "Away All Boats," and "The Country Girl."

As the days passed, a fad started for exercising with the muscle-building outfit, so timely purchased before underway time. Everyone took a crack at it.

The crew's attitude was good all the way. No tension developed at all. I suppose this will be a surprise to many, especially when they imagine themselves with more than 80 others in a sealed pipe 250 feet in length and 25 feet in diameter.

We had virtually no news of the outside world. We did learn of the stunning of Vice President Nixon in South America and of the pay raise passed by Congress. These scraps of news came to us during reception of official messages received by radio.

But after 20 days the games began to wear off and we all became a little restless. The air was still country fresh and our source of "sunlight" via the neutron was still bright.

Bears began to blossom out in good shape. Everyone tried to outdo the other. I attempted to trim mine in the gay 90s style. It was in pretty good shape by the thirty-first day. I'm still wearing it. My wife, Betty, doesn't like it, but I am going to attempt to keep it a little longer.

The most difficult part of our journey was now nearing, but this was chiefly for the smokers in the crew. That includes just about everybody.

Our oxygen banks were empty.

To freshen the air we began to bleed into the sub high pressure air from our air banks, which are normally used for surfacing the boat. This air was later pumped back into a low air bank.

The first noticeable effect of the thin air was that a match, when struck, would immediately go out. Eventually, it took four or five matches struck together to get a light for a cigarette.

We surfaced at 7 a.m. on Sunday, May 25. It was like the end of a dream.

2 Atom Subs Set Records For Endurance

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Two of the nation's atom submarines — the Skate and the Seawolf — have sailed for 30 days and more under the sea to set new endurance records.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, hailed the records as "major breakthroughs of the first magnitude with implications far beyond undersea warfare."

During a training exercise, the Skate operated continuously underwater for 31 days and 5 1/2 hours. The Seawolf surfaced after 30 days. She held the previous endurance record of 16 days.

Burke made the dramatic announcement moments before the nation's sixth and fastest nuclear sub, the Skipjack, slid down the ways into the choppy gray waters of the Thames River.

The Skate rode quietly at anchor only a short distance away in the yards of the General Dynamic Corp.'s Electric Boat Division, where it, too, had been launched only last year.

Across the river in New London was the Seawolf, also a product of the same yards along with the pioneer Nautilus.

Burke said the time spent under water by the 160 men of the two vessels was the longest known period in which man has been exposed to an artificial atmosphere under actual rather than laboratory controlled conditions.

"Space life existence under actual working conditions was proved a reality," he said.

"The men who established the new mark dramatically proved the ability of the Navy's submarine service to conduct unrestricted operations under artificial atmospheric conditions with no adverse effects."

Nobody Dying?

EGREMONT, Mass. (AP)—This town of 851 residents has nowhere to bury its dead. There is no room in either the Riverside or Town House Hill cemeteries, the town's two burial areas. And now the voters have defeated a proposal to purchase three acres of land for burial purposes.

Daily Average Oil Production Falls

TULSA (AP)—Daily average crude production declined 7,075 barrels to 6,231,200 the week ending May 24, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Kansas and Arkansas had the largest drops, the former down 8,475 barrels to 319,025 and the latter off 8,000 to 75,700.

Oklahoma rose 5,200 barrels to 554,200.

The Journal estimated 1958 production at 935,504,450 barrels compared to 1,091,241,496 a year ago. Colorado dropped 625 barrels to 136,750.

New Mexico rose 350 barrels to 253,350 and Louisiana a 300 to 815,400.

Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,198,000 barrels.

CAA Grant Is Accepted By County

Howard County Commissioners Court has formally accepted the tender of a $400,000 grant from the Civil Aeronautics Authority for the Howard County Airport project.

The County Commissioners Court Monday afternoon approved the agreement. The acceptance notice was dispatched last night to the CAA office in Fort Worth.

The CAA transmitted the $400,000 letter of grant subject to minor stipulations—principally to the effect that the county will proceed with and complete title to the site as applied to mineral holdings on the land.

The county has already begun negotiations with the royalty and lease holders and is empowered to either purchase such minerals (in which case the federal government will participate in the cost) or to subordinate such claims.

The officials do not indicate that this phase of the title acquisition will in any way delay actual construction work on the airport.

Holiday Deaths May Reach 350

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents in the nation will kill an estimated 350 persons during the Memorial Day holiday weekend, says the National Safety Council.

The council's predicted toll is for the period from 8 p.m. (local time) Thursday to midnight Sunday. The 350 estimate is about 50 more deaths than would be likely if the period were not Memorial Day weekend, the council said.

The council said that the estimate could be kept lower "if a large enough number of motorists and pedestrians use more care and judgment than they do habitually."

An estimated 40 million cars will be on the highways during the 78-hour holiday period, the first extended weekend of the spring season.

A Bible Thought For Today

And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. (Acts 16:30-31)

The Urban Renewal Program

Acting under the slum clearance provisions of the Housing Act of 1949 many American communities set out to remove the scar tissue formed by slums and blighted areas with federal assistance, so the areas could be restored to public and private uses.

But the nationwide program was scarcely under way before some cities made a startling discovery: New slums were forming faster than old ones could be cleared.

This called for a broadening of the original program, for revisions that would prevent as well as clear blighted areas, and rehabilitate areas that could still be saved. This required not only federal assistance but called for full-scale local community programs.

The President's Advisory Committee on Government Housing Policies and Programs reported these needs, and in January 1954 the President asked for and received congressional approval of new legislation that would aid localities in these objectives:

1. To prevent the spread of blight into

2. To rehabilitate and conserve areas that can be economically restored.
3. To continue clearance and redevelopment of areas that cannot be saved by any other approach.

This new program was given the name of "Urban Renewal."

To enable Texas communities to operate under this broadened program it was necessary for the Legislature to confer new powers upon the municipalities, notably the right to exercise the power of eminent domain under certain rigid requirements and restrictions.

This the Legislature did last year, and many Texas communities have taken steps to work out their own renewal problems—for it calls for a vote of the people before the plan can be made operative.

Participation in the renewal program calls for several qualifying preliminary steps. The basic requirement is that the city must have a prepared and approved plan outlining in detail just what is proposed to be done. Nothing concrete has been done here but there is mounting talk of looking into the possibilities.

Governors Win Partial Victory

In their final session at Miami the Governors' Conference won a victory over the Pentagon of no mean proportions.

General Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, told them the plan to abolish six of the National Guard Divisions had been discarded, and Guard divisional strength would remain at 27.

However, the governors were informed the administration may not agree to abandon its plan to reduce Guard manpower by 10 per cent.

So the governors rolled up their sleeves again and shot another resolution at the White House, demanding that the Guard be kept at a strength of 400,000 men in 27 divisions.

Their success was therefore only partial—if the administration persists in going through with manpower reduction for the Guards.

There has hardly been a time in our history when the National Guard, once called the militia—made up of part-time soldiers in peacetime, but towers of strength in war—hasn't been the object of high-level flogging in the higher echelons of our military command.

The only element in our military establishment which the Guards as "poor relations" of the regular establishment are the reserves, who have been able to hold their own only because they were able to use political pressure shrewdly and directly, whereas the Guards either couldn't or at least haven't exercised that aid to survival except through the good offices of the governors.

One would think the outstanding war records of many of the Guard divisions, including especially the 36th and 45th, would insure their survival as an indispensable part of our military strength, but such is not the case.

With our regular divisions being whittled down and decimated by the relentless axe of "economy" over the past several years, the importance of a standby force of Guardsmen, capable of being turned into first-class fighting units in a matter of months instead of years, should be perfectly obvious.

The National Guard is the most economical of all our military arms to maintain and administer.

The governors are quite right in keeping a sharp eye on the Pentagon, lest the National Guard be abolished entirely—as some would have it. And if anybody could think of a worse time to destroy the Guard than this, he must be incapable of recalling the valiant service it rendered in three violent wars—WW I and II, and Korea.

The Gallup Poll

Democrats Show Heavy Majority

PRINCETON, N. J. — Some of the sharpest GOP losses in nearly four years are recorded today on the Institute's barometer of potential registration.

A mass re-registration of all U. S. voters with one or the other of the two major political parties would doubtless make one of the biggest political stories of the century.

Through the medium of the public opinion poll, indications are that if the estimated 100,300,000 civilian citizens eligible to vote were required to sign up with either party at present, the final tally would read as follows:

56,800,000 Democrats
35,100,000 Republicans
8,400,000 On the Fence

What today's figures demonstrate clearly is that the Republican administration, as it approaches its third national election since taking over the White House in 1952, has done little to convince voters across the country that their basic party allegiance should be to the GOP.

When the Institute's first audit on the re-registration question was conducted in the fall of 1954, the potential party line-ups were little different from what they are at present.

With an estimated voting population of 97,500,000 at that time, the Democrats held a margin of nearly 20 million voters over the GOP—or just about what it is today.

From 1954 on, the Republican were narrowing the margin. In June of last year, for example, the gap was only 12.6 million voters.

Even last November, although the margin had widened slightly, the GOP could still claim a net gain of some 5 million voters since the original audit in 1954.

Today, however, the Republicans are showing no gain in potential voters despite the increase in the voting population in the last four years.

Of course, GOP fortunes may turn up if, for example, the business situation begins to look better.

In just three months at one point in the past—from January to April, 1956—the Republicans made their biggest gains on the registration barometer. They picked up a total of 4,500,000 potential voters during that period.

If many voters today do not feel that their basic allegiance is with the GOP, it may well stem from the fact that their image of a typical Democratic voter is one of a person more like themselves.

Psychologists and sociologists in recent years have talked much about the "images" which develop in people's minds concerning persons, things or ideas. For example, the general notions people have concerning the country's political parties constitute part of the image, in their mind's eye, of the Democratic or Republican party.

To apply this concept to the political picture today, the Institute—in a companion question to the one on re-registration—asked persons what their image was of a typical Republican and a typical Democratic voter.

Although many people said there was no basic difference, the answers of those who did see them differently reveals the following:

Voters tended to describe the typical Democrat as a person like themselves—or someone from the "common people," or the "average man."

Here are some of the images people have of Democratic voters:

"Middle class... common people... a friend... an ordinary person... works for his wages... average person... someone who thinks of everybody."

On the other hand, the typical Republican voter to many people is someone other than the person talking—someone, perhaps, a little higher up the social scale and consequently less like the "common man."

Descriptions like these were given by those visualizing a typical Republican: "Better class... well-to-do type... money voter... above average... well off financially... wealthy... higher class."

Congress Still Has A Long Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consideration of a bill to get home for the November elections, has a hatful of problems to solve before it gets to the House. At the rate it's going, Congress won't get out of here before sometime in August.

Here are major pieces of legislation still unfinished: defense reorganization, Alaskan statehood, taxes, labor reforms, foreign aid, reciprocal trade, extended unemployment pay, and a space agency.

In addition, action still has to be taken on the usual appropriations bills—voting the money to keep the government agencies running another year.

Defense Reorganization—Neither house has acted on this yet. President Eisenhower months ago asked for a streamlining of the Defense Department.

Alaskan Statehood—Giving Alaska statehood is a question kicked around in Congress for years. The House may decide yes or no this week. If the House boots this aside, no Senate action will have any meaning.

If the House approves, the Senate may still stall because approval of statehood for Alaska is almost certain to bring pressure on the Senate to approve statehood for Hawaii too.

Taxes—Monday President Eisenhower came out against an income tax cut, even though there is a recession. So it's unlikely those taxes will be chopped this year.

But unless Congress acts to stop them, there will automatically be reductions July 1 on corporation taxes—from 52 to 47 per cent—and on certain excise taxes, most of them imposed during the Korean War.

Eisenhower asked Congress not to let the automatic reduction take place, for it would mean a loss of about three billion dollars in revenue to the government.

Labor Reforms — By mid-June a bill to put some curbs on unions should land in the Senate's lap—or at least on union bosses—

Merry Life At The Wine Factory

TIFLIS, Republic of Georgia, U.S.S.R. (AP)—Life is very merry after a few hours at the Tiflis champagne factory.

Take a trip out to this favorite tourist attraction in the Georgian Republic and you'll soon be filled with the spirit of brotherhood and friendship—and with generous samples of the finest bubble water produced in the Soviet Union.

"We turn out 5 1/2 million bottles of champagne a year," says factory deputy director Vassili Goglidze in an office decorated with pictures of Stalin, Lenin, Khrushchev and Bulganin. "And by 1960 our output here will be six million bottles a year."

"Try this," he says, handing you a king-sized glass of champagne. "This is our sweet variety." "To friendship," he says. And you down your first glass of champagne.

If you make the visit to the factory, here's a word of advice. Don't go into ecstasies over the champagne, because the staff will promptly see to it that your glass is refilled. And there are three more types of sparkling wine to go—semisweet, semidry and dry. The semisweet and semidry are the most popular in sales, Goglidze says.

The factory itself is impressive.

MR. BREGER

Around The Rim

Does It Help Their Case?

There is an oft-repeated development in court trials which never ceases to amuse and amaze me.

An attorney asks the witness a question. The witness blurts out his reply. The other attorney, in the meantime, is on his feet spluttering "Your honor, I object,—I object!"

When some semblance of tranquility is restored the court asks the attorney the basis of his objection.

He replies that the witness' answer was "not responsive" (whatever that may mean) and he demands that it be "stricken from the record and the jury instructed not to heed it."

The court acquiesces.

He tells the jury: "You will give no weight to the answer the witness has just made in the consideration of this case. It is stricken from the record."

Sometimes, the other attorney, who likely has not asked the question with the sly intention of getting the witness to say what he did say, will beat the opposition to the draw.

He suavely announces:

"I withdraw the question, your honor."

The joker in the deck is that the question has been asked and the witness has answered it and the damage that the answer may do to one side or another is already done.

Telling 12 jurors to erase the question and the answer from their minds only underlines and emphasizes it.

It is actually given impact often much greater than it would otherwise carry. If the lawyer who objected to the question had merely let the matter pass, whatever it was the witness may have said would have been merely more words added to the flood of evidence already seething in the minds of the jurors.

Now, because of the special treatment it has received, the peculiar way human brains work will tend to give it even more weight than ever.

Or so it always seems to me.

I know one reason the objections are posed and the ruling sought. The possibility of an appeal is always on hand regardless of the outcome of the litigation. The lawyers are always most careful to "make the record"—that is, inject into the transcript of the proceedings every feature and aspect of the proceedings.

If the court had refused to sustain the objection, for example, it might be exactly what an appeal would need to establish a reversible error.

Nevertheless, I often marvel as the novelty such exchanges outwardly appear to express.

Let Mrs. Nixon Rest A Little While

There are political prophets who believe that the courageous and dignified behavior of Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon under Communist attacks in South America has, inevitably, made them the next occupants of the White House.

But I ain't so sure. It is one woman's opinion that Nixon and his Republican advisers should give careful consideration to a cloud no larger than another woman's communication in the letter column of the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

"I'm tired of reading about 'Pat Nixon, Superwife' and her daily routine," writes Mrs. Marcia Isaacson. I have a hunch that Mrs. Isaacson is an average housewife like myself who, when she reads yet another blurb about Mrs. Nixon doing every single, solitary lick of her own housework, including washing, ironing and — for heaven's sake—pressing her husband's pants, has to take a tranquilizer and lie down for an hour in a darkened room.

That is, Mrs. Isaacson and I have to take the tranquilizer and lie down. Not Mrs. Nixon. No, no, not she, Girl Veep who, like Iris March of "Green Hat" fame, is obviously "never let off anything." (In the above paragraph you can see what my agitation over Mrs. Nixon's work schedule does to my syntax.)

While Mrs. Isaacson and I are prone from exhaustion simply from reading about Mrs. Nixon's schedule, that indomitable woman is out mowing the lawn, no doubt, and with an old-fashioned, non-power mower at that.

I yield to none in my admiration for Pat Nixon, a sweet, attractive, beautifully groomed lady. But ever since the 1952 election GOP press agents have been busy selling the public the idea that Mrs. Nixon, despite her heavy official duties, does all her own housework.

We have been told, ad nauseum, that Pat does all the washing, ironing, cooking, dusting, sweeping, scrubbing, polishing and sewing for her husband and two daughters. Then she emerges radiant, from this servantless household, day after day and night after night, for a continuous round of official breakfasts, luncheons, teas, dinners, suppers and general barn-raising. And all without dishpan hands or housewife's sag!

Since Mrs. Nixon's terrible ordeal in South America, all these stories have been revived and further garnished, this time with the added item that Mrs. Nixon pressing her husband's pants prior to state parties! At this point Mrs. Isaacson blows her stack. Me, too.

Surely there are others beside myself who remember reading news stories within the past 10 months, after the Nixons moved into their beautiful, big new home, that they had acquired a full-time housekeeper. Mrs. Nixon said she was happy to have such a jewel (and I said "high time").

The GOP myth that Mrs. Nixon is a domestic slave is no help to her husband politically. A man who has a salary of $40,000 annually and a fat expense account, in addition, and who can't afford a little help in the house for his wife, is—largo fact—a poor manager. If he can't manage his home, he surely can't manage the U. S. A. and he doesn't get my vote.

The GOP would be wise to soft-pedal all this propaganda picturing Pat Nixon as a patient Griselda. In the first place, it has a phony ring. Second, it makes the Veep look like a 19th Century domestic tyrant, which he isn't. Third, it costs Mrs. Nixon in the role of doormat, which isn't what the White House needs as a First Lady. (Who ever heard of Mamie, a most popular First Lady, pressing Ike's pants?)

And fourth, it antagonizes the woman voter.

Finally, even the Creator rested on the Seventh Day. Isn't it time for Mrs. Nixon and the Republican press agents to follow suit?

Removing Tax Burden From Business

WASHINGTON—The big tug-of-war on the new tax bill is shaping up. Unless a new tax law is passed before June 30, many rates automatically go down or are repealed.

Thus, if Congress didn't act, many excise taxes would be reduced. Also, corporate-tax rates would go down from 52 per cent to 47 per cent of net income.

This means that each group in Congress will have a certain leverage in the contest. A tax bill that favors low-income groups altogether would run into the stiff opposition of a non-radical coalition of both Republicans and Democrats which would insist that something be done to give incentives to business.

Naturally the administration has been deferring the announcement of its own tax plan. This is because, if the debate on new rates were started now, it would perhaps cause a slow-up in buying. When it is considered that autos and many consumer items could be affected by lower excise taxes, the hazard of a lengthy debate in Congress becomes obvious.

There will be pressure, too, for lower rates on both passenger and freight transportation as well as lower rates on telephone calls and other items.

The Treasury, of course, is worried about the effect of all these changes on the federal deficit. For the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, the deficit will be about three billion dollars. For the next year, it looks now like somewhere between eight and 10 billion dollars in the red. Much of this is due to the severe decline in corporate profits.

How then to stimulate corporate earnings? It will not come by merely giving $2 a week for a year to every taxpayer. It has to come from factors that will lead to job creation.

The Treasury is likely, for tactical reasons, to resist at the outset any changes in the corporate rates. But a substantial sentiment is building in favor of at least a two-and-a-half point reduction, which would mean the halfway mark between 52 and 47 per cent. Businessmen would like to feel that the government is not a majority but a minority partner in profits.

If businesses which are climbing back out of the recession can see a chance to build up their surpluses, they can plan to invest in plant and equipment—something that is vitally needed if unemployment in the hard-goods industries is to be materially reduced. And that's where the recession has hit hardest.

There are indications that the adminis-

Old-Fashioned Girl

Swiss Star Lilo Pulver came to America for the lead in Universal-International's "A Time to Love and a Time to Die." In today's Hollywood Beauty she brings readers many of her old-fashioned beauty secrets.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Swiss Beauty Adopts Old-Fashioned Ideas

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—"The women in the United States are so attractive it's depressing. I don't know what to do to be noticed," declared Lilo Pulver.

Lilo came to Hollywood from Switzerland for the lead in Erich Remarque's "A Time to Love and a Time to Die" for Universal-International. This is her first trip to California, but she speaks English with scarcely an accent.

"I specialized in foreign languages in college," Lilo explained. "My parents made me complete my education before I went into theater work."

Lilo has beautiful skin and wears a minimum amount of make-up. When I asked her beauty secrets she replied: "When I want to look my best I rest all afternoon if possible. Then I take plenty of time to dress because I hate to rush. I soak in a tub of hot water, scented with French perfume. Afterwards I smooth on a body lotion. I want to feel that I'm as elegant as I can be and that I've done my best to look my best when I leave my dressing room."

"I believe another beauty ad is plenty of sleep. I seldom have trouble going to sleep at night, but when I do, I have an old-fashioned way to make me sleepy. I sip hot water with sugar. Try it. It is most soothing."

Shower Compliments Bride-Elect

Naming Carolyn Sue Hogard as honoree, a group of friends entertained recently with a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. R. C. Stocks.

Miss Hogard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Hogard, 1604 East 17th, will be married June 6 to A. C. Sidney Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Tifton, Ga.

Cohostesses alternated in greeting guests. Mrs. Ernest Rainey, Mrs. Bill Steagald, Mrs. Bill Sandridge, Mrs. W. L. Clayton, Mrs. H. L. Eason, and Mrs. L. R. Helms joined Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, Mrs. L. E. Taylor, Mrs. Raftord Dunagan, Mrs. H. M. Macomber, Mrs. Dick Davis, Mrs. Harold Cain, Mrs. Guy Simmons, Mrs. Melvin Ray and Mrs. Stocks in arranging the party.

Table decor featured the honoree's colors with a floor-length cloth of white organdy over blue. Queen Ann's lace, white stock, phlox, carnations and Peruvian lilies combined for the centerpiece. Serving was done by Carolyn Sue Helms and Janie Kendrick.

About 87 were registered by Carolyn Sue Duckett.

"I prefer old-fashioned remedies. I remove my make-up with oil of almonds, and I also use this after being in the sun. It's very pure. You can buy it at most drugstores," Lilo revealed.

"For my teeth I have been using baking soda and salt for years. I used to hate the taste of it, so Mother mixed in a little powdered cloves or a blend of spices—not much but just enough to give an interesting flavor.

"For exercise I prefer fencing. This is one sport that brings all muscles into play, and it makes you graceful, strong and alert. It takes skill to fence properly and like ballet, one has to begin young to make it an art. But there is really no age limit if you do it for the exercise," Lilo concluded.

Program Highlights May Birthday Party

Women of the First Presbyterian Church held their annual May birthday party in the form of a program tea Monday afternoon at the church. Arrangements for the event were in the charge of Mrs. Perry Jones, stewardship chairman.

Each year at the celebration, an offering is taken for appointed objectives. This year two of the objectives are the Oklahoma Presbyterian College and the Chinese Presbyterian Church. These were brought out in a devotion which was developed as a simulated broadcast over television stations in New Orleans and Durant.

Mrs. Garrison Walker, acting as announcer for "On the Spot News," interviewed Mrs. Carl Hollingsworth and Mrs. Julian Quinn, who represented reporters on the two objectives.

Mrs. Elmer Boatler and Mrs. Robert Middleton had charge of the presentation. Other program participants were Mrs. John H. King, Mrs. Leonard Hanson, Mrs. Jim Bill Little, Mrs. Charles Lusk, Mrs. Johnny Johnson, Mrs. William Talbot, Mrs. Thomas Bauch and Mrs. Tommy Jordan.

Cake and punch were served from a table laid in linen which held an arrangement of roses and Queen Anne's lace. Mrs. Minnie Allsman and Mrs. Lucian Jones served the 31 who attended. Spring blossoms were placed throughout the recreational hall.

C. W. (Bud) Forbus became commander of the local post of the Disabled American Veterans in a special installation service held jointly with the auxiliary Monday evening. Forbus succeeds Eldon Cook as commander. Mrs. James Horton became head of the auxiliary, succeeding Christine Horn. Conducting the installation ceremonies was Greely Aston, Region I commander. Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served. New officers of the post and of the auxiliary will participate in the state convention set for June 20-21 in Dallas. Officers installed in addition to Forbus were Desmond Powell, senior vice commander; Roy J. Low, junior vice commander; Marvin Graham, chaplain; Leslie Joy, sergeant at arms. Continuing as adjutant was R. R. McKinney. The auxiliary officers include Mrs. Horton as commander; Mrs. Mammie Whitley, junior vice commander; Mrs. Isa McKinney, chaplain; Mrs. Eldon Cook, adjutant and treasurer. Installation took place in the post headquarters at the old airport terminal building on U. S. Highway 80 west. Officials said that the public was invited to attend any of the meetings on the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month.

Rodeo Parade Has Nine Riding Groups

Nine mounted groups have signed up to participate in the parade opening the rodeo here June 12, but so far only one float has been entered in the procession. Malcolm Patterson, chairman reported today. The Big Spring Civic Theatre and Evening Lions Club are co-operating in the construction of the float. The two groups won second place in float judging with their entry last year. First place then was won by the Howard County 4-H Club. Prizes of $50, $30 and $20 are again being offered for the three best floats in the parade. The entries will be judged on the basis of originality, artistry and portrayal of subject. All local clubs and other organizations are invited to enter floats in the parade, Patterson said. The parade is scheduled for 4 p. m. June 12, opening day of the annual rodeo. Mounted groups which will participate include Sheriff's Poses from Martin, Lynn, Dawson, Lubbock, Borden, Ector and Scurry counties, the Sterling County Polo Club and the Big Spring Mounted Patrol. In the groups are more than 175 riders. A barbecue for the participants is to be held at the rodeo grounds immediately following the parade, Patterson said. At the Chamber of Commerce it was reported today that arena boxes are being reserved rapidly.

Lamesan Named In Two Cases

Leslie R. Stapleton, Lamesan, charged with aggravated assault in two cases, is being held in the Howard County Jail. Bonds of $500 in each case have been set but he has not posted surety. Stapleton was arrested after an affray in the L&M Cafe at 305 E. 3rd last Saturday. He allegedly slashed George Reid, also of Lamesan, on the arm and also across the abdomen. William Wymer, a waitress, was also slightly wounded. She was cut as she sought to separate Stapleton and Reid. Neither Reid nor the woman are believed seriously injured. Billy Wayne Cockrell, charged with DWI, has been released from jail on a $500 bond. He was placed in jail Sunday.

Party For Derby Entrants Set For Thursday Evening

Boys who will be competing this year in the Soap Box Derby are scheduled for a get-together Thursday evening. An ice-cream supper for all the Soap Boxers and their Dads is set for 7:30 p. m. at Tidwell Chevrolet Co. All boys are urged to attend, since there will be important information given out on final planning for the 1958 race. This year's Derby will be run on the Lancaster Street track on June 26. This date replaces the July Fourth race of former years.

CRMWD Board Appointments On City Agenda

Two appointments will probably be made to the CRMWD board tonight at the regular meeting of the City Commission. The two-year terms of R. L. Cook and Willard Sullivan end this month, and Sullivan has asked that he not be reappointed. Four members on the water board are appointed by the city, two each year. In other business on the program for tonight, the commission will purchase a car for the police department and a pickup for the street department. The car is to replace one severely damaged in an accident on the North Side recently. The city asked for bids with and without trade-in of the wrecked 1957 Ford. An old pickup is to be traded in on the new one. Also, the city will have the second reading of an ordinance to annex the city park and all property west of it to the Old San Angelo Highway. Three readings are required to make the annexation official. Right-of-way problems for the proposed sewer line around the south part of town will be discussed. Several stretches of property needed have not been acquired. The city has already asked for bids on the job, and they will be accepted June 10.

None Seriously Hurt In Wreck

Kell Davis, Texas Highway Patrol officer, said that none of the persons involved in a car truck collision east of Big Spring Monday morning was seriously injured although all were taken to the hospital for a check-up. Davis said that Philip Osborne, who gave his home address as Sparks, Neb., was driving a 1955 Ford Coach with three other persons as passengers in his car. At the intersection of FM 820 and East U. S. 80, he was behind an International truck driven by Harold D. Craig of Waco, Craig planned to turn on to FM 820. The Ford was damaged $200 and the truck $100, Davis said. He was informed the passengers in the car were en route to attend the funeral of a relative who had been killed in a traffic accident last week.

27 Civil Cases Are Lopped Off Docket

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, trimmed down the size of his civil case docket by 27 cases in a busy session Tuesday morning. The cases, mostly divorce suits which have been long on the docket and in which no developments have arisen, were dismissed. The dismissals were entered on the motion of attorneys in the cases and, in some instances, on the motion of the court. Judge Sullivan also scheduled half a dozen non-jury civil cases for trial at sessions before him the remainder of the present week.

Out Of Prison And Into Jail

Miller Harris, sheriff, returned last night from Tacoma, Wash., where he went to take custody of John Wise, 39, wanted here to answer charges of forgery. Wise has just completed a prison sentence in Washington. When he was released Harris was on hand to rearrest him and return him to Howard County where the forgery charges have been pending against him for more than two years.

Asks Name Change

Donald Charles Price has filed a petition in 118th District Court asking that he be granted the right to change his name officially to Donald Charles Dickey. The petition relates that Price has been known as Dickey for much of his life and has used that name although he says his birth certificate shows Donald Charles Price.

MARKETS

WALL STREET—The stock market remained on a lead center in moderate trading early in the session. A hedge-pooler of small gains and losses made a pretty even division among key stocks. Agreement among spokesmen for both major parties on a no-tax-cut policy was major news. That Wall Street has been fairly bullish to this session. Rains, resulting after their rise Monday, showed minor fluctuations. The market was again in a technical rebound, but not to further advance because it was near the 1958 highs where stock is being sold. The condition in steel production and another copper price boom at the custom smelter were bullish factors. Lukens Steel, Goodyear and American Cyanamid were used that point each while Union Carbide's loss was a bit more than that. Otherwise it was virtually a featureless market. U. S. government bonds were mixed. MOORE HAS AN EASY TIME WITH NORKUS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore, whose boxing line keeps rolling right on through his 40s, plans a promotion campaign to win another shot at the heavy-weight crown.

he asked Monday night after handing veteran Charley Norkus a thorough beating in 10 rounds. "I gave the better part of my younger days trying to learn this boxing game."

"Retire, why should I retire?"

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

ARTHUR DONOVAN, the former fight referee, comparing the present lightweight champion, Joe Brown, with Lew Jenkins, the Texas product who ruled his division at one time:

"If Jenkins got in his right first, he'd probably win, but he wouldn't be there long if he missed. It would be a club fighter against class..."

HAPPY CHANDLER, former high commissioner of baseball:

"The club owners want a stonzo for a commissioner, and they got one. I wouldn't have stood for the Little League fence in Los Angeles. I wouldn't have stood for breaking up the Pacific Coast League. When I was commissioner of baseball, we had about 60 minor leagues. What have you got now? They pulled out the rug because I stood up for the ball players and the cities that had rights. I told the club owners when I was commissioner that we needed three major leagues and that it would be a mistake to move into a couple of cities like Los Angeles and San Francisco and leave the others out of it. You can't have club owners stepping all over everybody, and a commissioner to do just what they say."

JOCKO CONLAN, big league umpire:

"The pitchers often ask for a new ball... so I take the ball they beef about, stick it in my pocket, pull it out again and they think they have a new one. Haw!"

HERB SCORE, Cleveland hurler:

"I don't believe in good luck or bad luck. At least, I don't believe that you have more than the other. Most of us are inclined to forget the good things that happen to us and dwell on the bad things. I don't think a ball club wins because it is lucky. It wins because it is good. Good luck and bad luck cancel out. You have your share of each."

WHITEY FORD, New York pitching ace:

"Ours is a real good pitching staff. I'd say it shapes up as well as the one we had in 1953 when we had Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds, Ed Lopat, Johnny Sain and Bob Kuzava."

GEORGE HALAS, coach-owner of the Chicago Bears:

"We've decided on three major personnel changes designed to bolster the attack. (1) shift J. C. Caroline from defense to left halfback on offense; (2) acquisition of offensive linemen, including such outstanding tackles as Dick Klein of Iowa and (3) develop Bo Dickinson, the rookie from Mississippi, as a combination fullback and halfback."

PAUL (BEAR) BRYANT, new coach at Alabama University:

"My boys won't play like they're dead — and if they do — they'd better be dead."

ABE SAPPERSTEIN, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters:

"We have been scouted by the Russians and Soviet basketball has been patterned after the Globetrotters. We are trying hard to visit Russia but it doesn't look encouraging. I'll tell you why the Russians may be reluctant to book us: Remember, right after the war, the Communist propaganda said the American Negro was downtrodden and exploited. Many Europeans fell for that line. When I first took the Globetrotters overseas, there were some fans surprised that our boys even knew how to talk. But when they saw the Globetrotters buying meals in the finest restaurants and staying in the finest continental hotels, they knew the Communists had been lying. We hadn't said a word, but the people saw... Maybe the Russians don't want their people to see!"

JACK GOULD, New York sports writer:

"Silky Sullivan's poor Kentucky Derby showing occasioned little surprise among experienced viewers. Television performers from California seldom show to best advantage in a live program."

The late BOB ZUPPKE, one of the football coaching immortals:

"Football is to physical culture what bullfighting is to agriculture."

JOHN CARMICHAEL, Chicago writer:

"Silky Sullivan still runs like he's on a treadmill and, if they elect to send him after the Belmont, he ought to be shot with roller skates."

Carl Erskine Sharp In Win Over Phils

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

A year ago, Carl Erskine was prepared to quit if his arm trouble didn't respond to treatment. Today you'd have to tear that Dodger uniform off his back.

The Happy Hoosier gained his second complete game victory last night, following up a shutout victory over St. Louis eight days ago, with a two-hit, 2-1 decision at Philadelphia for the last-place Los Angeles Dodgers.

The fourth-place Chicago Cubs were beaten 4-3 at Milwaukee in the only other National League game scheduled.

Only one game was scheduled in the American League, and the Kansas City Athletics won it, beating Baltimore 5-4.

Erskine, once the ace of the Dodger staff, was shooting for his third no-hitter for 5 1-3 innings, and had a one-hit shutout until the eighth while ending Robin Roberts' comeback winning streak at three. The Dodgers scored in the fourth on Don Zimmerman's two-run double off the left field screen.

Erskine, while padding his record to 3-2 against the Cards and Phils, a couple of pushovers for the 31-year-old right-hander looked plenty sharp in this one. He walked four batters, giving up a single to rookie Chuck Esganian with one out in the sixth, and a single to Willie Jones in the eighth. A walk, Roberts' sacrifice and Richie Ashburn's fly ball brought Jones home with the run.

Don McMahon won his third without defeat for the Braves, riding in on Ed Mathews' 11th homer in the eighth after Lew Burdette had blown a 3-0 lead.

Burdette gave up 10 hits in his 5 2-3 frames. McMahon allowed just one single the rest of the way.

Frank Torre's second 1958 homer, following a walk to Mathews and Billy Bruton's single, built the 3-0 lead in the fourth against Moe Drabowsky.

Cosden Sweeps Doubleheader

Cosden swept a practice softball doubleheader from Nabors Paint Store, 6-0 and 4-2, at the City Park here last night.

The Oilers were to have seen action in the Midland City league last night but a mixup in the schedule delayed their appearance until Thursday night, at which time they play Gulf Oil and the Eagles in a double header.

Spec Franklin and Trot Wetzel pitched the wins last night. Franklin fashioned a three-hitter in the opening game. Gene Gross got him off to a good start by clubbing a three-run homer in the first inning.

The second game went an extra inning and was decided when James Tidwell drove out a home run with Pete Cook on base, after one man had been retired.

Wetzel also set Nabors down with three hits.

WHO'LL DANCE?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away four months ago. My daughter is getting married (She has to) as soon as I finish the hem on her dress. The wedding party plans to go to a hall for a wedding dance right after the ceremony. I don't feel much like dancing. Is it my duty to go to the wedding dance? Could I go to the dance and sit? This husband was not my daughter's real father so she can dance, can't she? Please steer me right.

enjoy corresponding with a couple of cute pen pals? Thanks.

TWO BORED GIRLS

DEAR GIRLS: Surely you must have a friend or relative in the service (or in a hospital or sanitarium) who would appreciate hearing news of mutual friends. REAL charity begins at home, girls.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning to marry a young widower whose wife died two years after their marriage. Because he was in the Navy, they traveled around a lot and all their wedding gifts were left in their original boxes, never used and placed in storage. He has recently bought a home where we would have use for these things. My family feels that each gift should be returned as they were meant for his first wife and not me. I want to do what's right. These gifts were sent almost three years ago. I'd appreciate your opinion.

DEAR ABBY: I have a bone-headed sister-in-law who thinks she knows it all. Her little girl is almost four years old and she still drinks milk out of a bottle and niddle. Even the minister's wife told her that she was doing the wrong thing. This sister-in-law says that she doesn't care what anybody says, it won't do the child any harm and she would rather have her drink milk out of a bottle and niddle than not at all. What is your opinion?

B52 Jaunt Routine To Fliers, But New Thrill To Newsman

By VERN HAUGLAND

AP Aviation Reporter LORING AIR FORCE BASE, Maine (AP)—A 5,000-mile nighttime jaunt eight miles above the earth is routine for the men flying the B52 intercontinental bomber—but a new thrill for an outsider.

Lifting some of the secrecy from this giant of the jets, the Air Force for the first time has permitted a newsman to go along on a B52 training mission.

This one was a 10-hour simulated nuclear bombing run which included radar jamming and refueling.

Ranging a zigzag, roundabout course of 5,000 miles or more, 12 B52s rained make-believe atomic death on successive bombing targets in Richmond, Va., St. Louis, Mo., and St. Paul, Minn.

Launched from this northern Maine base at 10-minute intervals, the big eight-jet Boeing bombers attacked from altitudes of 41,000 to 43,000 feet. Electronic scoring equipment on the ground ranked up the devastating accuracy that has become standard with B52s of the Strategic Air Command.

The mission also included ECM runs—sorties involving the use of electronic countermeasures to jam the enemy's radar—against Air Defense Command radar stations near Burlington, Vt., Williamsport, Pa., and Kirksville, Mo.

There was a planned attempt by a radar-jamming simulator on the ground at St. Louis to knock out the radar aids by which the B52s navigated their way through darkness toward their targets.

The men aboard the B52s matched their wits against this simulator. When they could no longer identify on their radar scopes the landmarks along their course, the B52 operators switched to other frequencies. This usually gained them a few seconds in which to pinpoint their location before their sets were jammed again.

In spite of this interference they worked their way in and hit their targets.

These B52s had to get over their targets to release their make-believe bombs. Already in production for delivery later this year is an improved version, the B52G. This can carry in addition to bombs the supersonic, nuclear-armed Hound Dog guided missile which can be fired while still hundreds of miles from the target.

The final phase of the night-long mission was a series of high-altitude refuelings from four KC 135 tankers, with three B52s assigned to each tanker. Each bomber was required to take aboard 15 minutes of fuel within a half-hour working period—a difficult task with wind and other conditions making for frequent separations.

Newsman here and at Westover Air Force Base, Mass., also were permitted for the first time to watch "cocked" B52s—that is, bombers fully loaded with atomic weapons and fueled and ready for action—take part in practice aerials.

The average time for these cocked bombers, from the instant of the alarm until all eight engines were roaring and ready for taxiing, was eight minutes.

Commented Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., commander of the 8th Air Force: "These men have a fantastic responsibility. I remember back in 1948, when we wrote the first war plans, we thought in terms of retaliation within six days of an enemy attack."

"Then we cut it down to hours. Now we can be off in 15 minutes—and over the target a very few hours later."

Nothing happened to the man ahead of her, but she got a ticket. "She was retreating for having to follow the slow driver," Asst. Police Chief Charles Batchelor said. "When she finally got ahead longer identify on their radar scopes the landmarks along their course, the B52 operators switched

Union Enjoined From Damage

AMARILLO (AP)—U.S. Judge Joseph Dooley has issued a temporary injunction to prevent molesting Panhandle properties of Phillips Petroleum, officials of the firm said yesterday.

They said the order enjoins Local 551 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, members of the unions and others from damaging Phillips property.

A hearing on a permanent injunction was set for Saturday in Amarillo, a Phillips spokesman said. He added that a temporary restraining order has been served on the defendants.

The company claimed $831,418 in damages from sabotage to pipelines since the union struck the Phillips plants.

The strike started May 1 at a plant in the Borger area and spread to four other major and several smaller installations May 14.

The union claimed its dispute was mainly over working conditions. Negotiations were started at Borger last week with 21 crafts seeking settlement for about 2,700 men.

The Phillips damage claims were announced last week and presented at a hearing before Dooley. At the time the damage claims were made, Union President Burt Curtright said at Borger he would have no immediate comment on the charges. Dooley issued his order yesterday.

Baptists Approve Education Budget

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas Baptist Christian Education Commission approved yesterday distribution of a $1,950,000 Christian education budget which included $100,000 for faculty pay raises.

The commission also authorized procedures for establishing a branch of Mary Hardin-Baylor College in San Antonio. Plans call for a minimum 1 1/2 million dollar 100-acre campus and a 1 1/2 million dollar endowment.

Traffic Too Slow, Justice Too Fast

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. David Goldstein complained to the City Council yesterday traffic on the Expressway is too slow, and justice too fast.

She said she was balked recently by an auto going 30 miles an hour. The minimum on the Expressway is 40. "I start honking at the guy thinking that the motorcycle police would get him. I couldn't pass him. I kept honking. Boy, was I burning," she told the council.

Nothing happened to the man ahead of her, but she got a ticket. "She was retreating for having to follow the slow driver," Asst. Police Chief Charles Batchelor said. "When she finally got ahead longer identify on their radar scopes the landmarks along their course, the B52 operators switched

Robber To Die
With 'Buddy' McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—"I stuck with my buddy," Eddie Oxendine told a newsmen who accompanied him to the state penitentiary yesterday.
Oxendine, 27, and his buddy
James Spence, 29, were taken to death row. They are sentenced to die Aug. 16 for the murder last March 31 of Mrs. Ruth Zimmerman,
19.
The North Carolina news were convicted last week of shooting the young mother after forcing her husband Reggie, 22, to open a Lawton store for robbery. Zimmerman was wounded by gunfire as he and his wife sat trussed in the closet of their apartment above the store.
Oxendine expressed no regret about insisting on a joint trial with Spence, the triggerman.
"I stuck with my buddy," said
Oxendine. "We did the robbery together. We did everything together."
"And I guess we'll die together."

Primary Date Resetting Urged

AUSTIN (AP)—The Resolutions Committee of the State Democratic Party recommended yesterday party primaries be rescheduled for May or June to avoid two sets of conventions in presidential election year.

The policy-forming group also recommended delegates to county conventions be elected at the party primaries instead of appointed after precinct conventions are organized.

"We find this to be the only practical and feasible way to eliminate all of the ugly contests, rump delegations, and bitterness prevalent in past precinct, county and state conventions," the report said.

The full state committee will consider the report at its regular meeting here June 9. Both recommendations, first presented by Gov. Daniel, would have to be acted on by the Legislature.

The resolution group sidestepped action on two other pending proposals. The committee said it had not been able to complete an investigation of party registration and asked the state Democratic chairman to name a special committee for the study.

On the proposed political code of ethics, asked by the Democrats of Texas (DOT) organization, the resolutions committee decided it would be "an unwise and dangerous precedent" for it to prescribe procedures for precinct and county groups. However, the committee said it would make specific recommendations in changes of procedure at state conventions but the recommendations were not yet in a form to be announced.

Prof Sees Indonesian Revolt Based On States Rights Tenet

ado. Kerosene and oil tanks at the Shell Co. compound were hit at Menado. One person was killed and eight wounded in the hour-long shelling and the people of Menado now realized they were involved in a real-life war.

Most of my students enlisted in the army. Many foreigners, including most of the Dutch, prepared to leave.

Prices rose, cigarettes vanished and gasoline — now that the tanks had been destroyed — was impossible to get without military authorization. What few ships did arrive brought weapons, and the province took on the appearance of an armed camp.

It seems to me that if Sukarno should lose the civil war, it will be because of the fighting spirit of the Minahasans.

Victory over rebellious Central Sumatra proved fairly easy. The real grievance of the Sumatrans was over-exploitation of their natural resources by a central government.

Instead of emphasizing this genuine grievance against the Jakarta government, the Sumatran rebel leaders stressed the Communist menace. This, though real enough in Java, seemed to the Sumatrans a rather vague and distant threat.

In the Celebes, the powerful sentiment of anti-communism is combined with a strong — and clearly enunciated — sense of dissatisfaction with Jakarta.

The Permesta movement was proclaimed March 2, 1957, by Col. Ventje Sumual, military commander of East Indonesia.

For the workers of the North Celebes it has meant more jobs and higher wages, partly the result of the province's trade with Singapore. For the people in general — 60 per cent of whom are Protestant and 40 Roman Catholic — it took on the aspect of a Christian revival movement.

One of the first jobs of the Permesta movement was to clean up the local Communists. Some 30 Red leaders were arrested. Communist party headquarters was converted into an army barracks.

Although a new province was created, with a civilian governor of the Celebes to replace the old Jakarta control from Makassar 800 miles to the south, the real power of the Permesta government was in the hands of the military.

But while the army officers represent the authority behind the government, there is no atmosphere of military dictatorship.

The North Celebes is the only part of Indonesia which voluntarily joined the Dutch — it was never conquered. And after the Minahasans had accepted Dutch sovereignty in the 17th Century, they helped form the backbone of the Dutch colonial forces.

Disputes in Minahasana villages and towns are settled by public discussions, officials are elected and problems aired in "town meetings." Perhaps because they are a racial, religious and linguistic minority (they speak Philippine languages) the Minahasans have never taken kindly to any form of discrimination.

In contrast to the Communist inspired seizures of Dutch firms which were ordered by the central government in Java, the policy of the Permesta government has been to allow all foreign firms, including the old Dutch trading companies, to continue operations. The opening of direct trade with Singapore has meant a great boost for the North Celebes economy.

At the final faculty meeting of Permesta University in Manado, Maj. Korompis, an army lawyer who is both acting chief of police and chairman of the university, said a farewell to foreign lecturers which summarized the spirit of his government.

"It's like this: we must have a federal system in Indonesia. We're not a bunch of adventurers fighting for money or to avoid paying taxes. We believe in Indonesia and in support for the central government, but not for a central government which is composed partly of Communists, partly of leaders who take our taxes but neglect our country."

Driver Faints, 18 Children Hurt

HALIFAX, Va. (AP)—Larry Conner, 17, was finishing his second trip as a substitute driver of a county school bus yesterday when he momentarily blacked out, he said.

The bus, loaded with high school and elementary school pupils on their way home from classes, left the highway and hit a tree. Eighteen of those aboard, ranging in age from 7 to 16, were injured—none critically.

Ten of the young victims still were hospitalized today.

State Trooper R. A. Adams Jr. said the bus was traveling about 35 m.p.h.

Conner, who received his driving license four months ago, said he couldn't explain his blackout though he had not felt well all day.

Houston Newest Movie Capital

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A Houston TV man says he will start shooting movies with a newly organized company in Houston where "we have better weather than they do in California."

Jim Ross announced the forming of a company which bears his name. He was in California to buy film equipment and contact movie people.

Stanley Cowan, publicity firm spokesman for Ross, said Director Jorge Portillo, who has made movies in both Spain and Mexico, will be vice president of the firm. Maria Ross, Ross' wife, will be secretary-treasurer.

Board directors include Don Sheppard and Janice Rogers, both of Houston.
