More Response On Rental Plea Sought

Encouraged by first day response, the Chamber of Commerce renewed its plea for a listing of all rental units. Tuesday 61 property owners responded.

This is part of an over-all survey needed to help in meeting housing needs, explained Bill Kimbly, manager.

"We earnestly request everyone who has a rental unit of any type—whether occupied or unoccupied—to call our office (AM 4-4641) and let us know what they have," he said.

All the chamber needs to know is whether the unit is a bedroom, apartment or house; whether furnished or unfurnished; occupied or unoccupied.

In event vacancies are anticipated, the chamber might be useful in locating a tenant on or near that date. It was explained.

Meanwhile, owners of property which could be converted to apartments were urged to consider this as a good investment.

Webb AFB housing authorities said they had a number of listings which are not renting. In almost every instance the quality of the facility is not commensurate with the price asked.

Also, in most instances, they report minor repairs, painting, refurnishing, etc.—most of which could be done without great expense—would vastly increase the rentability of the property.

Tunisian Battle Cry

President Gives Naval Grads Goal Of Peace

Blakley Flatly Against Cut In U.S. Income Tax

By The Associated Press
Senatorial candidate William Blakley reiterated Wednesday he was flatly against a federal income tax cut.

Blakley was asked about the tax cut urged Tuesday in Washington by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce as a recession measure.

"No sir, no tax cut," Blakley told a press conference at the Capitol in Austin. "I think we should have deficit financing only in extreme emergencies."

Meanwhile the fight for precinct control of the state Democratic party continued to spread with both Texas factions aiming at the July 26 primary.

At San Angelo, Glenn Kothmann said: "Texas needs an agriculture commissioner who can get along with the Legislature and with whom the Legislature can deal."

Kothmann served in the House last session and is running for agriculture commissioner.

Blakley skipped questions concerning the fight for precinct control and references made to his wealth at the DOT convention here last week.

The financier was told a DOT official referred to him as a candidate being publicized as "saddling up old paint to ride to work at Exchange Park," his modern office area in Dallas.

"I don't know him (the DOT official) but I can still make a pretty fair cowhand," Blakley said.

He said the recession in Texas was not bad "and there's a lot of green in the country. The farmers need help to get the crops in."

Asked about unemployment, Blakley said: "They ought to do what I did. I'd go out and hunt for a job and if I couldn't get the one I wanted I'd take the one I could get."

Creemore Fath, secretary of the Democrats of Texas, replied Tuesday to a statement by State Democratic Chairman Jim Lindsey, who accused the DOT of recent secret sessions.

Fath said he was surprised that Lindsey was selected "to whine about honesty and purity in politics." He said that Lindsey was a parliamentarian for "the minority gang who stole the Fort Worth convention."

In Dallas, Gov. Price Daniel pledged Tuesday to lead the fight for the conservative faction of the party to control precinct conventions. At a recent press conference he said he considered this issue more pressing than his campaign for re-election.

Accident Rate Still Climbing

The city's accident rate continued to climb last month, hitting 78. This is above the previous month as well as the comparable month of 1957.

Out of the 78 mishaps last month, only two were hit-and-runs, according to the Citizens' Traffic Commission and the police department. Injuries resulted from five of them.

The 78 compares with 66 for April and 67 for May of 1957. The worst streets, accident-wise, were U. S. 87 with 17 accidents and 3rd with 16. Thirteen occurred on 4th and seven came on Main.

Four mishaps occurred at 3rd and Benton, and three each occurred at 4th and Gregg and 2nd and Gregg.

Ayes Leading Baseball Ballot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Yes" votes in the baseball issue swung to a narrow lead today in counting suspenseful and unpredictable as an extra-inning World Series game.

Returns from 800 of the city's 4,519 precincts showed a 3,625 margin in favor of letting the Dodgers build a new stadium in Chavez Ravine.

"Yes" votes totaled 56,091; "no" 52,466.

A total of 62.3 per cent of the city's 1,105,427 registered voters cast ballots in the heaviest non-presidential election turnout in Los Angeles history.

Actually, the narrow margin in favor had suffered a hairline setback. At the last previous official announcement the bulge was 4,018.

Successful Flight

Chief test pilot John Konrad steps out of the cockpit of the Navy's one-man jet fighter, the push-button F8U-3, following the first test flight of the plane at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Chance Vought aircraft officials said the plane flies at more than twice the speed of sound and at altitudes above 95 per cent of the earth's atmosphere.

House Faces Ruling On Army Cut Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) The House faced a decision today on whether to take "a calculated risk" and cut the strength of the Army from 900,000 to 870,000 men during the year starting July 1.

The administration favors the cut. At issue is an amendment that would add 99 million dollars to a bill appropriating $38,310,561,000 to run the Defense Department during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

The big money bill, as sent to the House by its Appropriations Committee, provides among other things for an 870,000-man Army June 30, 1959. That is what the administration recommended. It is 30,000 less than projected strength at the end of this month and 127,000 below actual strength last June 30.

The amendment to block the cut is sponsored by Rep. Robert L. Sikes (D-Fla.), who claimed enough backing to give him a 50-50 chance to win.

Sikes, voicing concern over what he called continued cuts in Army strength since the Korean War ended, said: "These cuts constitute a vital deficiency in our national defense posture. The calculated risk of a further reduction to 870,000 men for the Army is too great to accept. It was not proposed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff but was dictated by purely fiscal considerations."

MAHON OPPOSES
Sikes is a member of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee, whose chairman, Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.), opposes the amendment.

Mahon noted that the committee's recommendations provide for increases in the strength of the Marine Corps, the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve and for a regular Army equipped with the most modern weapons.

There is no known controversy over the committee's manpower proposals for a 630,000-man Navy, 700,000 Marines, and Air Force personnel of 850,000 by June 30, 1959, for a total strength of 2,550,000 men.

Looted Bodies Of Mexican Air Crash Are Returned

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP)—The looted bodies of the 45 victims of Mexico's worst air disaster were being brought to Guadalajara today for identification.

At the rain-swept, mountaintop scene five miles away, investigators sought to learn what caused the Constellation of the Aeronaves de Mexico line to crash into El Picacho Peak Monday night during an electrical storm.

The plane was climbing away from a takeoff. One official said 10 feet more altitude would have taken it safely over the peak.

The dead included 13 American and two Canadian passengers—all residents of California—and two American engineers of the crew. The passengers from California had boarded the plane at Tijuana for vacations or business in Mexico City, the Constellation's destination 290 miles southeast of Guadalajara. Their bodies will be flown back to Tijuana as soon after identification as possible.

The rest of the victims were Mexicans. The army was ordered to make a house-by-house search of Tijuana village, about four miles from the crash scene, in an effort to recover property looted from the wreckage.

Searchers arriving from Guadalajara more than eight hours after the crash found the bodies and luggage stripped of money, jewelry and some clothing. Officials charged that villagers, awakened by the explosion and flames, had raided the wreck.

Ike Speaks At Annapolis Rites

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower today told United States Naval Academy graduates their overriding goal in this nuclear age must be prevention of war and promotion of world peace.

But he said too that a just peace can be won only from a position of strength—and that the armed services "have become, indeed, great shields to guard the peace."

In sounding that note, Eisenhower also plugged for his controversial defense reorganization program without mentioning it specifically. He told the 900 academy graduates—being commissioned as ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Air Force or Marine Corps—to keep up to date on the principles of effective military management.

Then he added: "Obsolescence in military management and organization can be as dangerous to our nation as obsolescence in weaponry."

In an address delivered at the academy commencement exercises, the President said the target of all military officers in these times must be a just peace and prevention of war because winning that goal has become of transcendent importance.

"For modern war," he said, "is preposterously and mutually annihilative; peace is the imperative of our age."

The capacity audience of 11,000 in the academy's big new field-house gave Eisenhower a standing ovation at the start and conclusion of his talk, but listened in solemn silence all the while he spoke.

After his talk the President personally presented diplomas to 145 honor men among the 900 graduates. The first man in his class was John W. Foindexter of Odon, Ind.

Eisenhower congratulated Foindexter and shook his hand, then chatted with him for a moment.

There was another big hand when Eisenhower handed a diploma to Edwin W. (Ned) Oldham, football star who played a big part in Navy's victory over Army last fall.

The President flew here from Washington by helicopter to address the class of '58. It was the first time he had attended graduation ceremonies here and his visit to the academy since he took office in 1953.

Among ways of helping their careers, Eisenhower suggested that the graduates develop a healthy and lively sense of humor.

He said the capacity of free people to accept their mistakes in good humor—to experience setbacks without fear or resentment—adds vitality to their characteristic searching for truth and knowledge and for higher standards of excellence.

"A Communist is not permitted the adventures of this kind of searching," the President said.

He also advised the graduates they should: 1. Keep abreast of developments in their chosen profession. He said adherence to obsolete viewpoints is a liability to the nation.

2. Make a habit of reflecting seriously upon the unfolding world drama to "help you along the road to responsible leadership for peace."

3. Develop a genuine proficiency in a foreign language as a means of improving human understanding throughout the world.

4. Strive for a deeper understanding of the nature of man, of the economic and political systems of nations, and of cultural heritages of all societies.

5. Become effective leaders in the moral and spiritual realm of life—particularly in the light of the threat of communism and militant and aggressive atheism.

U.S. Considers Expanded Trade With Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States began looking into the possibility of increased trade with the Soviet Union today on the basis of a direct bid from Premier Khrushchev to President Eisenhower.

The issue of Western trade policy toward the Soviet Union seems likely to come up in top-level U.S.-German and U.S.-British policy talks in the next few days.

President Theodor Heuss of West Germany and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano began a visit today with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will hold two days of conferences here beginning Monday.

The latest Khrushchev letter possibly was timed with those meetings in mind. The State Department announced only that "the subject matter concerns trade relations between Russia and the United States."

But it was learned that Khrushchev put before the President his announced desire to obtain large amounts of equipment for increasing Soviet industrial capacity for the manufacture of synthetic materials and plastics.

Officials said that Khrushchev probably would have no difficulty in buying in this or other Western industrial countries any machinery not barred from trade with the Soviet Union. But the Allies maintain a list of goods denied to Soviet commerce because, in the view of Western governments, they would increase Soviet military strength.

The definition of what industrial equipment would contribute to Soviet war potential, however, is a controversial problem among the Western Powers. And Khrushchev's letter coupled with a long-time Moscow campaign against the strategic trade control system may very well stir the controversy afresh.

Dulles, Wife Tell Of Vacation Living In Book Published Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Relaxing from the cares of state, John Foster Dulles squeezes lemon juice for his wife, washes and dries the breakfast dishes and splits small wood.

This glimpse of the secretary of state on vacation comes from a log of their latest trip to their cabin on Duck Island in Lake Ontario.

The diary "By Janet and Foster Dulles" is published today in a copyrighted story in the New York Herald Tribune.

Dulles generally gets up at 7 a.m. and starts an open fire going. The lemon squeezing done, his wife gets up, and, if the water is warm enough, she swims.

Breakfast is consumed leisurely in an hour. After Dulles washes and dries the dishes, he dumps the garbage and contents of wastepaper baskets; hauls water, splits small wood, and brings logs to the wood into the cabin for the day's fires.

There is no luncheon at Duck Island. Most of the day, the log reports, the Dulleses spend considerable time and effort keeping themselves living comfortably.

In the early spring and fall, the hours from 10:30 to 4:30 are spent in walks, looking for deer, birds and flowers. Maples are tapped for syrup and dead trees cut down, sawed and chipped, in the spring.

Summer means fishing, sailing and canoeing. Berries are picked according to season.

On rainy days, Dulles often works on speeches and his wife types for him.

The dinner meal is quite elaborate and carefully thought out. It is cooked largely over an open fire and follows cocktails and hors d'oeuvres—outdoors if weather permits.

A typical dinner includes hickory nuts from the island; raw carrots and celery; tinned lobster, crab or anchovies; broiled giblets or pate de foie gras; soup or fish and meat, generally chops, beefsteak, chicken or veal cutlets; and two green vegetables; and potatoes or rice.

That's not all. Pie or homemade pudding follow, salad with French dressing in warm weather; and cheese with pie or, usually, with cognac.

Then, after a walk or canoeing if weather permits, the day closes at 9 p.m. with Mrs. Dulles reading aloud some book of travel or adventure.

'MYSTERY FARM'

Big Wilkinson Ranch Owned
By Same Family For 45 Years

One of the largest—and oldest in point of continuous ownership—ranches in Howard County was last week's "mystery farm."

It is the Wilkinson Ranch, a 32-section spread sprawling between the shinnery sand of western Howard County and U.S. 30 Highway through the south end of the ranch lie a chain of natural lakes, one of the largest of which is backed up by a natural dam across Sulphur Draw. Last year successive cloudbursts put the level of the lake within a foot of the top of the natural dam, and an additional dike was thrown across the crown for safety's sake. Water has receded some within the past year, but the lake level is not down as much as one might expect.

Since 1913, or for 45 years, this ranch has been in the possession of the Wilkinson family. It was purchased from a Mr. Knott, for whom the Knott community in northwest Howard County was named. Some 10 sections of the ranch are leased and four are in cultivation. The remainder is in range much like it was half a century ago.

Drought hit the ranch hard as it did all farms and ranches in West Texas, but judicious stocking has given the grass a chance to start coming back.

"The weeds are dying out now," said Bill McIlvain, manager for the past 16 years, "so it doesn't look so good. Actually, however, there's quite a bit of grass coming out."

For many years good management has been practiced on the ranch, giving the more desirable grasses a chance to become well established.

Mr. and Mrs. McIlvain live in a new 3-bedroom modern ranch style home which was completed last fall. Before that they lived in a big frame home which had sort of grown up with the ranch—a room added here and there over the years. The new home has every comfort of an urban dwelling—plus a lot of peace and quiet. Water is taken from the Colorado McIlvain came to Howard County in 1933 and worked for W. A. Lay near Coahoma until 1942 when he became Wilkinson foreman. He and Mrs. McIlvain were married Jan. 4, 1936. Their only child, Billy, attended the old Hartwells and Stanton schools before being graduated from Big Spring High School. where he is a junior in agronomy.

In the summer time and during holidays, Billy hurries home to give his father a helping hand. There's always plenty to do, what with 12 windmills to keep going, fences to mend, cattle to be dehorned and branded and watched for pinkeys and screwworms.

Most of the time since the ranch was acquired in 1913, it has been under direction of H. H. Wilkinson, Fort Worth. Mr. Wilkinson is now a retired Fort Worth banker and gets out occasionally to ride over the vast range, though not as frequently as a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. McIlvain love the ranch. It's nice to be handy to various activities and to attend the First Methodist Church, help in livestock shows and rodeos, but it's always good to wake up to a fresh breeze and the song of a bird, and to get the good feel of saddle leather or to hear cattle lowing.

Food Poisoning Turns Luncheon Into Nightmare

MARION, N.C. (AP) — Food poisoning turned a gay year's-end school luncheon into a nightmare for 202 teaching, screaming children and teachers at a small grade school yesterday.

The tide of ill youngsters completely overran the small community hospital and taxed emergency facilities at the school.

Doctors said all patients will recover. The sudden emergency was met quickly when officials at Marion General Hospital executed a never-practiced hospital disaster plan. The 60-bed Marion General Hospital admitted 202 children and teachers from the 227-pupil Eugene Cross Elementary School.

Dr. W.F.E. Lottin, public health officer, suspected that the poisoning came from ham.

The hospital, alerted by school officials when the first symptoms appeared about two hours after lunch, started preparations immediately for handling an emergency situation. Hospital staff members moved 19 ambulatory patients to nearby nurses quarters, discharged four patients and emptied all hospital beds except four.

Additional beds—many of them cots and roll-aways donated by townspeople after a radio appeal—were placed in hospital corridors. The nurses' lounge and living room became wards.

The town's medical force was supplemented by nurses and rescue squads from nearby towns. Pupils received first aid at the school. Ambulances shuttled the pupils and teachers to the hospital.

State highway patrolmen rushed additional medical supplies from Asheville, 35 miles to the west.

By early evening many of the children had recovered sufficiently to chatter excitedly about the situation.

Eight-year-old Buddy Honeycutt, a curly-haired second-grader in a bed near the third-floor staircase, whispered to a newsman: "Where's my britches? I want to go home now."

DEAR ABBY

HUSBAND IS RIGHT

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who is unhappily married. She is seeing a married man on the G. T. and although I know it's wrong I am the only one she can trust to help her. Her husband drops her off at my house every Friday night, thinking she is spending the evening with me. Then her boyfriend picks her up here. Her boyfriend always gets her back in time for her husband to pick her up promptly at midnight. My own husband says I am as glibly as she is and if I don't wash my hands of this deal he will handle it his own way. Please tell me what to do.

A FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: I can't give you any better advice than your husband already has. Tell your friend that your husband forbids you to be a party to this affair, period.

DEAR ABBY: Before I married my husband I was his bookkeeper. With pay, of course. Now that we're married, I am still his bookkeeper. But without pay. I am beginning to think I was better off before I married him. What gives?
SLAVE GIRL
DEAR SLAVE: Not your husband. You are in a better bargaining position than you were when you were only his bookkeeper. Use your head.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to tell every woman who has had her pride hurt by a philandering husband: "Don't be proud—be practical!" I went through plenty with a husband who I knew was stepping out on me all the 26 years of our married life. I stuck until the kids were grown and married and then I finally divorced him. Believe me, if I had to do it over again there'd have been NO divorce—REGARDLESS! Get a new hair-do, tint it if you like—fix up your home, take up painting or gardening, or anything to keep busy, but DON'T start out trying to live alone. It never works. I know. I have tried.

PROUD AND VERY SORRY
DEAR ABBY: I am nine years old and I still suck my thumb. The doctor tells my mother not to worry that I will outgrow it but my mother is worried anyway and keeps after me. Now my mother says if I don't stop it she will take me to one of those men who makes you lay down on a couch and tell your dreams to. That would be awful. Please help me.

THUMB SUCKER
DEAR THUMB SUCKER: If your doctor says you will outgrow it, your mother should believe him. Help the doctor, and try a little harder.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HEAD OVER HEELS IN LOVE": Dear "Head" (and you could use one) your girlfriend likes only two kinds of men. Foreign and Domestic. Let her go, Lover!

Social Revolution In Saudi Arabia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
JIDDAH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Prayer time . . .

All a young Bedouin newly trained for a technical job, is forgetfully busy. He feels the rap of a baton on his shoulders and looks around to see one of the Mutaween.

All must drop whatever he is doing, and pray.

All — like many of his brethren — is becoming heartily sick of the Mutaween.

The Mutaween are known to the Bedouin as "the Society for the Ordering of Good Deeds and the Remonstrating Against Bad Deeds." They are the workers of a puritanical sect of Mohammedanism called Wahabism. Westerners shorten the title to "Committee for Enforcement of Public Morality."

In this land ruled by Koranic law, the Mutaween roam the streets seeing that people pray at prayer times. They watch to see that the Bedouin wears his tagiyah, a round skull cap. A cap with a peak is forbidden, for the peak would prevent a man's head from touching the ground as he kneels on his prayer rug and faces toward Mecca.

Eventually the Mutaween will pass away in the developing Saudi social revolution. Right now its members are salaried, but there is reason to believe Crown Prince Faisal, who has recently taken the reins of government, is intent upon getting rid of the organization gradually. The salaries are getting smaller and smaller.

The Mutaween see to it that women do not go about without long heavy veils covering their faces. They see to it that men do not shave too completely. They watch for all abominations under the strict tribal code of Wahabism, a sort of reformation in reverse instituted by the Saudi house years ago as a purification of Mohammedanism.

This code prevents Saudis from from mixing socially with Europeans. It prevents women from appearing unveiled at any social function, however private. It limits women to the home, and their studies to the teachings of the Koran, Islam's Bible.

But the laws are being violated. There is a black market in liquor. Saudi women appear unveiled at social functions, when they are sure they are safe. A Saudi and his wife will accept an invitation to a foreigner's home when they are sure no other Saudis — particularly bachelors — are present, or at least only their closest friends.

Saudi women send their servant girls into the Suk — Jiddah's market place — to buy cases of pretty European clothing for use on such rare occasions, or just for parading their charms.

Lawn-Watering Equipment Out

By The Associated Press
The lawn-watering equipment got another workout over Texas Wednesday.

The day dawned warm and clear, except for a few scattered clouds over South Texas.

Only isolated thundershowers were forecast.

Dawn temperatures varied from 65 degrees at Junction to 80 at Galveston.

Showers hit Tuesday west of Lufkin in East Texas' piney woods, south of Dallas, and a trace at Dalhart.

Highs Tuesday ranged from 105 at Presidio to 88 at Galveston and Corpus Christi.

before their husbands in private. Punishments can be terrible. The crime rate in Jiddah and other towns is low, with good reason. For a first offense, a petty thief can be taken to a town square where, publicly, one of his hands is chopped off. A second offense can cost him the other hand. A third — if he still can manage to steal — can cost a foot.

A woman taken in adultery faces a terrible fate. If the charge is proved by three witnesses, she is taken to a public square. A truckload of stones, about the size of baseballs, is dumped there. Police throw the first stones at the kneeling woman, then invite or prod the crowd to join. It takes about half an hour to stone a woman to death. But convictions are infrequent. No Saudi man wants to admit he has been betrayed by his women.

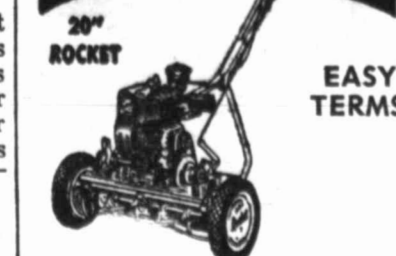

Revolt against such things is rising to the surface among the tiny group of educated people. Saudi Arabia is emerging into the modern world.

There is a fever of eagerness among the unlettered Bedouin to educate their children. Soon even girls will be sent to schools — perhaps next year, 1378 in the Islamic calendar — although coeducation surely is years away. Saudi children soon may be allowed to mix with foreign children. A new generation is rising.

LONDON (AP)—The trapeze line survives, but with hints of bumps and dents.

That is today's verdict for British women given in the autumn collection of Christian Dior's London branch. It indicated that it will soon be correct to define busts and waistlines slightly.

But the trapeze, a little modified and softened, is still the favorite outline.

Winter coats were wide and short, some stopping at the knees. Some had scarf collars. Necklines of coats were nearly all loose, standing away from the shoulders.

Black was the predominant color.

New Fall Fashions Still 'Get The Sack'

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—New York's garment district took on the characteristics of a record day at the stock exchange today as buyers from all sections of the country jammed the showrooms of 7th Avenue, nervously awaiting the unveiling of new fall fashions.

While the great chemise controversy still raged from coast to coast, the dilemma facing the nation's buyers was: Will women heed their husbands' protest against the sack, or will they defy them and buy the new clothes anyway?

First news from the embattled fashion front is that manufacturers have provided a few alternatives to the sack for fall. The first dress and suit collections to open continue the "relaxed look" which camouflages the waistline, but offer a choice of several silhouettes. The most important appears to be the high-waisted Empire look, with the belt just below the bustline, the skirt falling loose and free. The next is the bloused silhouette, with belt or band somewhere around the hips.

Indications on the first day of the openings is that the woman of fashion may wear her belt almost anywhere next fall except at the normal waistline. Some of the more extreme fashions show a belt about six inches above the knees, often with a flared or pleated flounce below.

The few fitted, full-skirted styles shown are principally for late-day or evening wear. Some canny evening dress designers show a transparent lace or chiffon chemise or loose coat over a carefully fitted slip, thus bowing to the new mode while preserving due attention to the lines of the feminine figure.

Skirts are barely below the knees in costumes for all occasions, except for full-length ball gowns.

Despite the general air of apprehension, both buyers and manufacturers are generally sanguine in their outlook for fall business, feeling that any fashion is good as long as it's talked about.

The host couple presented the engaged couple with a chafing dish.

Knowland Behind In Primary Vote

By The Associated Press
A Democratic resurgence in California today gave State's Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown a commanding position for his November run for governor against Sen. William F. Knowland.

Brown rolled up a heavy vote total in Tuesday's Democratic primary and also polled approximately a third of the ballots cast in the GOP gubernatorial primary.

Where it counts most—in total votes—the 53-year-old Brown held a 3-2 margin over Knowland with more than a third of the tabulation complete. Brown's total was 484,412, Knowland's 337,858.

Although each won in his own primary, the results bore out Democratic claims that Brown would have a decided edge in the over-all vote. But Knowland, who is giving up his role of Senate Republican leader to seek the governorship, called it "just the opening skirmish."

On other primary fronts Tuesday:

- Retiring Gov. Goodwin Knight defeated Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco in a relatively close race for the Republican senatorial nomination in California. Returns from a third of the state's 26,543 precincts gave Knight 194,890 votes, Christopher 151,923.
- The Democratic nomination went to Rep. Clair Engle, who had no opposition from within his party. Engle's vote total for both primaries under the cross-filing system far surpassed that of Knight.
- State Atty. Gen. John Patterson won the Democratic nomination for governor in Alabama in a runoff primary with Circuit Judge George C. Wallace. Nearly complete returns gave Patterson, 38, the leader in last month's original primary, 304,080 votes to 239,529 for Wallace. The nomination means virtual victory in Democrat-dominated Alabama.

- Sen. Mike Mansfield, assistant majority leader in the Senate, staked out an early lead in Montana in his bid for Democratic renomination. Mansfield held a 6-1 lead over John Nickey and Thomas G. Stimatz in slight returns and seemed assured of overwhelming victory.
- Mrs. Blanche Anderson, an Helena widow, was leading Louis W. Welch for the GOP senatorial nomination.
- Another state's attorney general—Phil Saunders—gained nomination for governor on the Republican ticket in South Dakota. Saunders, 38, defeated Lt. Gov. Roy Hauck and State Rep. Charles Lacey.
- With 75 per cent of the vote in Saunders had 38,038 to 15,644 for Hauck and 6,813 for Lacey.

Ralph Hersth, a farmer and merchant, took the Democratic nomination without challenge.

Both Brown and Knowland issued statements predicting victory in California's general election. A side issue in Alabama was a fight for control of the State Democratic Executive Committee between a States Rights faction and a loyalist group favoring retention of a pledge to support national party nominees. Seventeen positions were filled but the outcome was in doubt pending a complete count of ballots.

6 Crewmen Die In C124 Crash

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An Air Force C124 Globemaster crashed, burned and exploded while attempting a take-off yesterday, killing six of its eight crewmen.

The four-engine transport was en route to Honolulu and then its home base at Tachikawa, Japan, after being overhauled by Douglas Aircraft Co. at Long Beach, Calif. Its crew had picked up the plane here.

Air Force spokesmen refused to comment on the possible cause or to identify crew members although they said the plane carried 20,000 pounds of cargo.

Eyewitnesses blamed a power failure. They said the plane lifted, then made a 90-degree turn and plunged to the ground near a state highway.

Two crewmen escaped unburned but one was injured seriously.

Leonard Wasson later confessed to the crime and sentenced to 3 years. Clements, in 1929, was pardoned by then Gov. Dan Moody.

Baptists Approve Program Budget

DALLAS (AP)—An $11,500,000 cooperative program budget, one million dollars above the current one, was approved for 1958-59 yesterday by the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The budget earmarks $140,000 for the Baylor Hospital and $84,222 for the College of Dentistry, Dallas.

The appropriations are from a total of $2,660,000 allocated for Christian education at the Baptists' 8 hospitals and 11 colleges and universities.

Also approved was $150,000 to add a 68-bed wing to the 100-bed Baptist Memorial Geriatrics Hospital, San Angelo.

Special appropriations totaling $25,000 were authorized for the San Angelo hospital and a state mental institution in Austin.

An immediate gift of $10,000 was made toward a campaign to build $76,000 chapel at the State School for Mentally Retarded Children in Austin. The institution will receive another $10,000 after $66,000 of the goal has been raised.

The San Angelo Geriatrics Hospital received $5,000 for current operating expenses.

The largest single appropriation is $445,000 for the BGCT stewardship and direct missions department.

The board also:

- Appointed a committee to study Biblical principles of church-state separation. The appointment is the result of inquiries into Baptist attitudes toward accepting federal funds and loans for institutions.
- Approved criteria for establishing a San Antonio junior college branch of Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Belton.
- Authorized the employment of an "expert" to work with Texas utility companies in an effort to establish "more equitable charges to churches for electric service."
- Heard a report that the current BGCT budget has been over-subscribed by $460,000.

McElroy Defends Ike Defense Plan

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy said today disputes within the military organization should be settled without running to Congress.

But he contended, in an address prepared for the U.S. Military Academy graduating class, that a congressional plan for defense reorganization would encourage the opposite.

The bill is now awaiting House action. President Eisenhower, like McElroy, has criticized a provision which would permit top officials in the military services to take on their own initiative in taking problems to Congress. Eisenhower said it could lead to "legalized insubordination."

McElroy praised the bill recommended by the House Armed Services Committee as going far toward meeting the objectives set by Eisenhower. But he called for improvements to "permit flexibility in meeting unpredictable situations, to clarify the authority of the secretary of defense and to eliminate invitations to take disagreements to Congress instead of settling them within the executive department."

McElroy said that Eisenhower's central goal is "unity of military planning and operations, the concept under which the required combinations of the various military forces of this nation are brought to bear on major objectives in the form of cohesive, smoothly coordinated teams."

McElroy assured the cadets that the separate traditions of the military services are "sources of great strength for the nation and therefore the individual services will be preserved as separate organizations."

He cautioned, however, that the continued separation of military organizations "need not and must not offer obstacles to the truly unified operations of our combat forces."

De Gaulle Addresses National Assembly

French-Tunis Crisis Cools

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The explosive French-Tunisian dispute appeared headed back toward friendly negotiations today. U.N. diplomats expressed the belief that conciliatory messages exchanged by Premier De Gaulle and President Bourguiba had averted a Security Council fight which might have had far-reaching effects.

The 11-nation Council was scheduled to resume debate today on French and Tunisian complaints against each other, but informed quarters said the emphasis would be on a renewal of private talks. Tunisian sources said Ambassador Mongi Slim would declare his country's readiness to resume negotiations with France on the basis worked out by the U.S.-British good offices committee earlier this year.

French Ambassador Guillaume Georges-Picot was expected to say whether France would accept these terms or, if not, just how France proposed to approach the problem.

The good offices team of U.S. Undersecretary of State Robert D. Murphy and British Middle East expert Harold Beley had recommended that both sides shelve frontier disputes while they negotiated on points where agreement appeared possible.

The major sore spot for Tunisia is the continued presence of 22,000 French troops at Tunisian bases where they have been stationed under a 1956 treaty. France complains of Tunisian aid to the Moslem rebels in Algeria.

Improvements Noted In Station Wagons

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The 1959 line of automobiles will include more nine-passenger station wagons with improved tail-gates and rear-facing rear seats.

The leveling device that is part of most air suspension systems also will be more widely used—possibly without the air suspension units.

The extra-cost optional air suspension systems have not had the wide appeal the industry generally expected. The same is true of fuel injection.

Industry experts have not challenged the efficiency of air suspension and fuel injection, but both are relatively expensive installations. The leveling device has been particularly advantageous with the lowered over-all height of the conventional car.

Some makers will use it with leaf springs or coils. It will be an extra-cost optional item but not nearly as costly as the over-lenged the efficiency of air suspension and fuel injection, but both are relatively expensive installations. The leveling device has been particularly advantageous with the lowered over-all height of the conventional car.

The nine-passenger station wagon with rear-facing rear seat has been a controversial subject ever since it first was introduced. Criticisms included the assertion it contributed nothing to safer or more comfortable operation. But some advocates said the seats were more easily folded down to provide cargo space in the vehicle.

Instead of the hinged upper half of the rear opening more station wagons will use a section that drops into the lower half. Both upper and lower half then open outward as one unit.

Screen Veteran Ward Bond Gets 'Leading Man' Ulcers

By WARD BOND
NEW YORK (AP)—There's no denying that the life of men like Maj. Seth Adams, the wagonmaster I portray in television's "Wagon Train" series, was a rugged one.

But in all the books I've read about frontier life, I haven't yet run across a wagonmaster who got ulcers because of his work. Unfortunately, I can't say the same for the man who pretends to lead that existence once a week on TV.

After 30 years as a supporting player in motion pictures, they decided I should enter television with star billing. And what happened? Two months later I developed an ulcer.

The troubles we encountered in getting our wagon train from Independence, Mo., to Sacramento, Calif., would have shaken the toughest of last century's wagonmasters.

For one thing, we spent almost a full year making the trip which our real-life counterparts covered in half that time. And the problems of logistics, personnel and time topped anything that was dreamed of 95 years ago.

The show's production office had to consider and solve — for the purposes of the story — all the difficulties that faced the wagon trains of that day. This was the easy part. Because then came the problem of finding good scripts. When the series was begun, in May 1957, there wasn't a single script which could be adapted to our format. Each of the 39 stories presented during the season was written especially for Wagon Train.

The newness of the format, that is, featuring Robert Horton and myself in alternating episodes, with each story built around a name guest star, required not only unusual stories, but a special style of writing.

At least half of every Wagon Train episode was shot on location. Most of them were filmed in the vicinity of Thousand Oaks, Calif., about 40 miles from Hollywood. Others were made at more distant sites, with three filmed in the desert near Tucson, Ariz.

Truck Collision Fatal To Driver

VICTORIA (AP)—An explosion-wrecked smashup of two trucks yesterday killed Edgar Simpson Jr., 29, of Houston.

A state highway patrolman said Simpson, his clothing almost burned from his body, ran from his truck and died several yards from the collision.

An explosion ripped the tractor-trailer truck Simpson was driving and the pickup driven by Wallace Bell, 17, of Victoria. A passenger with Bell, Gregorio Vasquez, 56, of Victoria, also escaped uninjured.

A second explosion later damaged a wrecker trying to clear the busy highway.

Higher Need For Ministers Told

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The General Assembly of the newly-formed United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. was told today the church's seminaries will have to train twice as many students over the next 12 years to meet the increasing need for ministers.

The report by the church's Council on Theological Education also stated 157 teachers will have to be added to the faculties of the seminaries over the 12-year period.

Texas Suspect Being Returned

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A deputy from the Oklahoma County sheriff's office was en route to Dalhart, Tex., today to return to Oklahoma City a former State Agriculture Department official charged with embezzlement.

At Dalhart, Cesar signed a waiver of extradition after saying he did not take the money. Cesar moved to Dalhart April 15 after 23 years with the Oklahoma Agricultural Department.

Harold Hutton, president of the department, said Cesar had been asked to resign after receiving complaints from persons in industries dealing with the department.

One Of British Ford Line Offered Here

This is the Prefect model of the British Ford line of small cars, now being handled in Big Spring by Truman Jones Motor Co., 403 Runnels. Produced in England for the Ford Motor Company, the car is sold and serviced through selected company dealers. Called a "joy in traffic and a joy to park," the Prefect is powered by a lively 4-cylinder engine developing 36 brake horsepower at 4500 r.p.m. Gasoline mileage in the British line is said to range up to 35 miles per gallon. While the cars have the advantages of economy, ease of handling and small size, they are designed for ample room for four passengers.

Local Dealership For English Fords

Announcement of acquisition of the English Ford line (known sometimes as the "Anglia") is being made by Truman Jones Motor Company, and the firm at 403 Runnels now has a variety of models on display for public inspection.

are brought to this country by the Foreign Products Branch of Ford International Division.

The English Ford line includes the Mark II series Consul, Zephyr and Zodiac cars, offered in 4-door sedan and convertible models.

dively is the word for the Anglia engine used in all these cars. Compact sturdy and dependable, it is a 4-cylinder, side valve power unit which develops 36 b.h.p. at 4500 r.p.m. Gasoline economy up to 35 miles per gallon is claimed for the cars.

Road holding and cornering qualities are said to be excellent and with a wheelbase of 67 inches the Anglia engine series cars have a turning circle of 34.5 feet.

In the 2-door Anglia and 4-door Prefect engineers have combined features in a car to furnish comfortable transportation and at the same time low initial cost plus economy of operation. These four-passenger cars offer ample head, shoulder, hip and leg room.

Lake Arlington Swept For Bodies

FORT WORTH (AP)—Fifteen boats swept Lake Arlington early today in a search for the bodies of two Fort Worth men feared to have drowned on a fishing trip yesterday.

Missing were Amos Meador, 45, and his son-in-law, Robert Smith Jr.

Lake Custodian Hooks Blanton said the search was started early last night when an empty boat was spotted.

Computers Best For Manned Moons

AUSTIN (AP)—The success of a manned satellite flight will remain questionable as long as the controls are handled by the human element, an Army ballistic missile official said yesterday.

Otto Hirschler of the Ballistic Missile Agency's computation laboratory in Huntsville, Ala., spoke to a conference on automation and computers at the University of Texas.

"When we come to fire a manned satellite, we must avoid failure under all circumstances... The human element always has to think; by nature, this takes education, skill and time. Using automation in the missile control system will overcome this time barrier," he said.

Charles Bradstreet, another Army Ballistic Missile Agency computation specialist, said the main interest of the ABME in tracking the Explorer Satellite "is to gather data that will aid in improving future design of satellites."

De Gaulle Arrives For African Talks

ALGIERS (AP) — Premier De Gaulle landed in Algeria today for a fateful meeting with the French insurgents who seized control of the vast North African territory.

A tumultuous hero's welcome awaited the World War II leader brought back to power by the insurgency of French colonists and military chief in Algeria.

Waiting beside the runway were Gen. Raoul Salan, the top insurgent commander, and all the other leading military men and civilians of the Public Safety Committee now ruling Algeria.

Dressed in his general's uniform, the usually grim De Gaulle beamed as he stepped from the 500-mile-an-hour jetliner.

Tremendous cheers went up from the huge crowd, which broke through police lines at several points. However, the crowds were quickly pushed back.

The airport ceremonies lasted less than 15 minutes. Then De Gaulle and Salan entered a car and sped into the city.

The general carried with him France's hopes that he can reunite the rebellious French in Algeria with the motherland and also that he can make a start toward settling the costly, bloody Moslem war for independence.

Underneath the hero's welcome was a wide band of uncertainty about the new Premier's program for ending the rebellion carried on for nearly four years by Moslem nationalists.

These questions are paramount: Will he try to settle the problem by more liberal policies toward the Moslems?

If he proposes "integration" — of French and Moslems — politically, socially and economically — how far will he go?

How can he reconcile the aspirations of nearly nine million Moslems with the deep-rooted interests and emotions of 1½ million Frenchmen, who from the first have insisted Algeria is French?

In short, the word "integration" bristles with almost as many problems here and with some of the same emotional overtones as it does in the Southern parts of the United States.

No one in Algiers apparently knows the answers to these questions.

As far as you can determine, not one of the officials in the military-civilian revolutionary regime here has the slightest inkling of what is in De Gaulle's mind.

And how do the Moslems regard the immediate outlook?

There has been a great surface effusion of Moslem and French amity since May 13. Arabs and Berbers participated in regular nightly demonstrations in the white marble forum in front of the government headquarters hailing De Gaulle and the local revolutionary group.

A colored poster showing a Frenchman and an Arab walking together hand in hand bears the motto "Same heart, same flag." But an Arab talking to a reporter said tersely, "When the chiefs in the mountains speak about this, then I will speak."

He referred to leaders of the National Liberation Front fighting from the mountain fastnesses who have drawn more than 400,000 French troops to Algeria and kept them busy.

An official at the Committee of Public Safety — the real government of Algeria at this moment — said huge crowds were streaming toward Algiers to see and hear De Gaulle.

"We don't know whether we will be able to handle so many people," the official said. "For the first time since May 13, we are worried."

The atmosphere in Algiers today is a curious mixture of gaiety, excitement, color and apprehension.

Electrically lit symbols of the Cross of Lorraine, De Gaulle's insignia in World War II while France was occupied, gleam from walls, balconies and in windows in many parts of the city.

Crowds mill through the streets, plainly enjoying the spectacle and pageantry.

Georgia Poet Found Dead

YOUNG HARRIS, Ga. (AP) — Byron Herbert Reece, 40-year-old Georgia poet and novelist, was found dead of a gunshot wound last night in his campus apartment at Young Harris College.

Dr. C. R. Clegg, college president, said the writer had been in poor health for years and recently had become despondent.

Reece was a part-time lecturer in English at the school in north Georgia near the North Carolina line.

Reece was author of "The Ballad of the Bones," a book of poems, and of two novels, "Better a Dinner of Herbs" and "The Hawk and the Sun." He was at Young Harris under a Guggenheim Fellowship and was working on a prose trilogy.

In 1950 he taught verse and short story writing at the University of California at Los Angeles, and became associated with Young Harris in 1953.

A revolver was found near Reece's body. He said an inquest would be held.

Airport Project Gets Final Okay

Final agreement with the Civil Aeronautics Authority on the procedure in connection with the building of the Howard County Airport was reached Tuesday afternoon. A formal work order, to supplement a verbal order issued earlier in the day, was dispatched to the contractor.

Glenn Gibbs, CAA engineer, Fort Worth, R. H. Weaver, county judge, and Louis Jean Thompson, engineer in charge, made a trip of inspection to the airport site Tuesday afternoon.

B. G. Brown, speaking for himself and his Abilene associates—holders of the contract to build the airport—said that first machinery and men would probably be moved onto the airport site by Monday of next week.

He said actual work would start immediately. Weaver, Thompson and Gibbs conferred at length Tuesday afternoon on details of the project and worked out an agreement by which the federal agency's $400,000 contribution to the project's cost can be utilized.

The contractors met with the county officials on Tuesday morning and later conferred briefly with Gibbs relative to the job.

Brown said that machinery now employed in a road building project near Sterling City will begin to move to Big Spring during the weekend. The Sterling County job is now nearing completion and Brown said that some of the machines, mostly graders, would be free later this week.

First task will be clearing the 384-acre site, located four miles north and east of Big Spring just to the south of the old Colorado City road.

At the same time, the contractors said that workmen will begin laying in a six-inch water line from the city main which runs along the north side of the highway. This water line will be most important, Brown pointed out, when the work of grading the site begins.

The contract awarded to B. G. Brown & Son, T. B. Brown and Co., and J. A. Pruitt for $617,418.32, calls for the preparing of the site, grading, fencing, lighting, runways, aprons, water and utility facilities, erection of wind marker and construction of an access road into the site.

North-south runway will be 5,500 feet long and 100 feet wide. The east-west runway will be 3,500 feet by 75 feet.

No buildings are provided in the current work plans.

Ultimately, officials believe, these will be added. By the time the project is completed, the total investment of county and federal funds is expected to run nearly $900,000.

Lt. Col. Leland A. Younkin, presently serving as the executive officer of the 356th Pilot Training Group, was named the commander of the AFROTC Summer Training Unit.

Base personnel assigned to assist Col. Younkin include Lt. Hugh McGuire, physical training officer; Lt. Gordon Links, pistol and rifle range officer; Lt. Jerry Gilpin and Lt. Luster Vickrey, protocol and public information officers.

The summer training unit will begin June 15 and last for four weeks. During the cadets' stay, they will receive 187 hours of primary training and 11 hours of secondary training. In the primary training phase they will receive training and indoctrination in such phases as the organization and functions of an Air Force base, survival training and air base defense, aircraft and aircrew indoctrination, military fundamentals, officer training security, physical training, weapons familiarization and sanitation.

According to Col. Younkin, the following colleges and universities will be represented: University of Arkansas, Bradley University, University of Illinois, Illinois Institute of Technology, Southern Illinois University of Iowa, Drake University, Grinnell College, Kansas State College, Municipal University of Wichita, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Tulane University, Holy Cross, St. Louis University, North Texas State College, University of Missouri, Washington University, Princeton University, Syracuse University, Oklahoma A&M College, Oklahoma University, University of Tulsa, The Citadel, South Dakota State College, The University of the South, Texas A&M, Baylor, SMU, Texas Technological College, Texas University, Texas Christian and East Texas State Teachers College.

'Overseas Blind' May Get Windfall

NEW YORK (AP) — If it can cash some old checks, the American Foundation for the Overseas Blind will get a windfall of $253.

Workmen renovating offices of the Board of National Missions of the United Presbyterian Church found 32 pieces of unopened mail behind an old cabinet. The mail contained checks addressed to the Association for the Chinese Blind which once had occupied the office.

The mail was taken to the American Foundation for the Overseas Blind, which absorbed the Chinese group in 1952.

A Bible Thought For Today

And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last: I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death. (Revelations 1:17-18)

NATO Holds Its Breath

The newest French "revolution" was not one of politicians, or civilians, or street mobs, or red or leftist elements, but of the military. From top to bottom, and by the military.

The politicians were fairly happy with the way things had been going. Their traditional stamping ground, the National Assembly, was firmly in the saddle. Like all politicians, they enjoyed the reality and the feel of power.

The Communists were perhaps happiest of all the way France was coming apart at the seams. Confusion, chaos and disunity are their tools of conquest. The bulk of French military strength had been concentrated in Algeria. Months ago, we are told, many former French officers and non-coms who had served under Gen. De Gaulle in WW II, got the word there would be a place for them in Algeria. They took the hint, and became leaders of the public safety committees being formed throughout Algeria.

Astonishing enough was the adherence of many Algerians, as well as French "colons," to the new movement. They had been fighting each other for more than three years, but neither side could see any advantage in remaining loyal to the National Assembly, which had wrecked every effort to settle their quarrels. In a sort of mutual disgust with the Whited Sepulchre in Paris, these disparate elements coalesced in a common cause—the getting rid of a central government that had dillydallied and shilly-shallyed too long.

They found a common rallying point in the figure of Gen. De Gaulle, under whom "colons" and Algerians alike had served. If it seems likely the Gaullists come to power there will be a period of three to six months to overhaul the machinery of government. Probably some sort of accommodation will be worked out on a cooperative basis in Algeria. The bulk of the French army likely will return home.

What of NATO if and when Gen. De Gaulle comes to power? There is uneasiness in London, in Washington, in Bonn, in Rome.

If Gen. De Gaulle doesn't take France out of NATO, it is all too painfully clear that he will be in a position to impose his ideas upon the alliance with gunpoint immediacy, under threat of withdrawal. This is a very real threat and a nightmare in the chancelleries of 14 nations, including our own.

Security Doesn't Come Cheap

Fort Worth last Saturday bade farewell to the last of the B36 bombers ever to darken the sky in that vicinity—or anywhere else so far as we know. This sky giant, having served its usefulness and become as antiquated as a horseless carriage with a chain drive, is being retired to the aerial pastures along with a whole host of other warplane types.

In its comparatively brief span of production and use, 385 of these monstrous machines were turned out at the Fort Worth Convair plant at a cost in round figures of $3.5 million per copy—a powerful economic stimulant to the city and thousands of its residents.

We remember with what awe we strolled under the monster's wing years ago and climbed into its "office"—you wouldn't call it a thing that big a cockpit, for it was bigger than the average private office.

It would be inaccurate and uncomprehending to call the B36 a senseless extravagance. For years it was the biggest deterrent our Air Force possessed to global war, literally and figuratively.

But it has long since been superseded and outmoded by much smaller, faster and more deadly deterrents costing even more money in terms of size of product. In their turn—they will become outmoded—as the mighty B47 is already becoming.

The costs of peace and security run to a pretty penny, but one sure way to be plunged into war without much chance of survival is to start counting the costs of peace in pennies.

Trying to "economize" by being niggardly with the cost of being prepared is like junking a first rate fire department and going back to the old horse and steam engine days.

Equitable Revision Of Tax Structure

WASHINGTON—Most members of Congress would like to see a tax cut made. But certain legislative and political obstacles will have to be surmounted before this can happen.

The Democrats, for the most part, are willing to go along with the administration's request that no "general tax cut" be tacked on to the bill that is to be passed by June 30th. This is the measure that would continue the existing rates on corporation incomes and on the sale of articles on which excise taxes are imposed. But action on this bill doesn't preclude another battle on tax legislation later in the session. Nor is the passage before June 30th of the pending bill without some amendments absolutely sure yet.

The big argument that will be made against all amendments is that since the Senate Finance Committee will not have approved any cuts, the Senate as a whole should not try to write a tax bill on the floor. It will be insisted that, just as in the case of broad labor legislation recently, a bill that hasn't been studied by the committee in charge should go back to it for hearings and further examination, and hence amendments on the floor should be tabled.

But between June 30th and the middle of August when Congress is expected to adjourn, the heat will be on to do something on the tax problem. The administration has expressed a deep interest in legislation to help small business men. The pressure for reduction of excise taxes will be renewed no matter what tax bill comes up for debate. If the business situation shows little improvement, members of Congress will manifest considerable interest in tax legislation during July.

Just how, it is being asked, was the administration able to ward off any opposition by the Democratic leaders of the Senate and House to the proposal that there be no change in existing tax rates on excises and corporations, and no tax cut in the other categories? Why did the Democrats go along with the administration's plan?

The answer is that once the line is broken and a concession is made, for instance, in one article on the list, the demand for similar treatment would come from all other groups.

The point was made, too, in the conferences between the administration spokesmen and the leaders in Congress that with a $3 billion deficit this fiscal year and a deficit of more than $8 billion anticipated for the next fiscal year, it would be dangerous further to curtail federal tax receipts.

But what becomes of the doctrine that tax reductions would add to purchasing power and that this would help to restore the economy? The administration's answer is that a bigger deficit in the Treasury would bring on an inflation and impair the dollar's purchasing power.

Why, however, did the Democrats accept that argument inasmuch as since New Deal days they have argued the other way? The reason is that the Southern Democrats who are the leaders in Congress today don't think like New Dealers and are concerned with a sound and stable economy.

From a political point of view, the Northern Democrats—who will put up a fight for amendments to the tax bill that comes up for passage before June 30th—will continue to try to make political capital out of the administration's position and they will not be too much bothered by what their Southern conservative brethren have done.

For, politically speaking, the natural tactics of the Democrats in the North will be to say on the stump in the forthcoming congressional campaign that the Republicans are responsible for the "recession" and have failed to provide tax relief and more purchasing power. The Republicans will make their rebuttal with arguments about the dangers of runaway spending and inflation that could diminish purchasing power, especially for those persons living on fixed incomes.

The truth is everybody knows the Treasury can't stand any immediate cuts of substantial size in tax revenues, but the truth also is that sooner or later a start has to be made on an equitable revision of the tax structure. There is no reason why it shouldn't be begun in the current session of Congress and the way paved for early action next year, especially if business improvement by that time has begun to be widely felt.

Moscow's Picking Up The Pieces

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Communists blew the roof off in 1956, and have been going around picking up the pieces ever since. They picked up a piece Tuesday, disclaiming the idea that communism outside the Soviet Union could develop independently of Moscow.

Nikita Khrushchev, then party boss and now premier, put on a shattering performance as principal speaker of the Soviet Communist party's 20th Congress in February 1956.

He not only denounced Stalin's one-man rule and the "cult of the individual" but painted him as a murderer. He pictured the Soviet Union in the future as being guided by a collective leadership instead of that of one man.

This had shock effect on some non-Soviet Communists who had slavishly followed and defended every twist and turn laid down by Stalin. This brutal disillusionment drove some Communists out of communism. It helped split the American Communist party.

But this was also a time—in 1956—when the Kremlin was trying to woo back Marshal Tito and his Yugoslav Communists who had broken with Stalin and were pursuing their own course, independent of Moscow.

So long as Tito could survive and thrive separate from the Soviet Union and her European satellites, he would be a constant encouragement to them to try the same.

The 20th Congress was told that socialism, meaning communism, could develop at different speeds and in different ways in different countries and that conformity to the Moscow model was not compulsory.

This was trying to make the best of a bad situation, since Tito showed no signs of conforming. It was also propaganda to help Communist parties in non-Communist countries make a show of acting as nationalists concerned about their own countries' Communist development without subservience to Moscow.

But it had a bad effect. It looked as if Moscow was loosening or losing its grip on Communist parties in the Soviet Union. It caused confusion in non-Soviet Communist ranks. And it gave captive peoples the idea they might throw off communism altogether.

The first bad effects showed in Poland. There were riots there. Then the Hungarians revolted in the fall of 1956. Things were getting out of hand. The Soviets sent in their army and crushed the Hungarian rebels.

But Tito wouldn't be wooed. He continued to play footsie with both the Soviets and the West, going his own independent way, seeking aid from both sides. In recent weeks the Soviets finally and publicly got sore at him.

And Tuesday in Bulgaria Khrushchev hit out at the Yugoslav boss. Said Khrushchev: "No one will ever believe that there are two kinds of socialism (communism) in the world—one which world reaction furiously hates and the other which is agreeable to imperialists and to which they are giving their help and support."

Khrushchev said the Yugoslav leaders had declined to confer with other Communist parties to draft a general Communist program.

With these statements Khrushchev threw out the window those encouraging words of 1956: that different countries could follow their own road to communism without conforming to the Soviet model.

If any non-Soviet Communists took those words of 1956 seriously, and few probably did, they're disenchanted now.

Thus slowly and even painfully Khrushchev has been forced to repair the damage the Soviets did to themselves in February 1956.

End Of The String

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—A stopped freight train delayed a frustrated motorist one too often.

A 104-car Reading Co. freight train blocked traffic for nearly half an hour waiting for a signal to move onto the Jersey Central tracks. Finally the signal came. Freight cars, including the one blocking the street, moved off with the locomotive. The rest remained and traffic began to flow.

Someone "unofficially" uncoupled the freight cars in the crossing.

Around The Rim

How To Write A Column

So you'd like to write a column? That's what we all thought more than a decade ago when this corner came into being. Every staff member assigned a day out of each week liberally teamed with enough ideas and material to have supplied the column every day of the week.

But you know, it is surprising how quickly you can exhaust the inexhaustible. Pretty soon you have told all the interesting things that ever happened to you (even including some which have been colored and retold so long that they take their place in the repertoire of bonafide experiences).

Then you turn to alternatives such as old times, the nostalgic romanticism of when you were a boy, or when the T&P shops burned down, or when you floated up and down the railroad yards on the crest of a historic flood. Presently you begin to wear this theme thin.

Maybe you can resort to airing your likes and dislikes, or letting the world in on your aches and pains, on some of your joys or tribulations. It doesn't take much to supply this market, for not many people regard our aches and pains with nearly the importance we given them.

You can haul out the soap box and orate on some pet subject. Again you run the risk of running it in the ground. You won't admit it, but perhaps the reason a lot of these pet peeves remain pet peeves is that they aren't of sufficient general interest to merit attention and action.

Of course, you can let the folks in on something you have read, and not infrequently, when deadlines bear down, you turn to this device. The deterrent to constant use of the convenient clipping is a corps of skeptical colleagues just waiting to yah yah at you.

All around are the elements for an occasional "think" piece or a bit of free writing—something on the poetical or lyrical side. Alas, these take time and effort, and on top of that you have to use your brain. Moreover, you have to write and rewrite, polish and rewrite again, else you don't have a chance of accomplishing what you set out to do.

Always you can write about people but for fear of turning this space into a profile column such writings usually deal with someone near and dear. Here again you have to be most judicious, realizing that others have their own personal interests and family circles.

So you have to try to change the pace, maybe try to be serious one week, flippant the next; poetical once a year, and tragic maybe once in a decade; occasionally informative (if possible) and funny (as an unfunny person can be) frequently. Sprinkle in some old times; pay a tribute now and then. Look at the countryside in the spring, and turn to somber feelings in the overcast of winter. Cuss the sand and praise the rain. Just keep plugging and watching the calendar and clock—and you'll fill up another column for another week. Maybe not much, but filled—like this.

Inez Robb

From TV Westerns To Shetlands

NAMPA, Idaho—Maybe my pitiful cry of yesterday that creeping civilization is beginning to erode the Old West, to take its toll of the great open spaces, was premature. I've been having some second thoughts.

Truth to tell, the Old, Old West, with its cow pokes and sheepherders, with its nesters and prospectors, with its gun men and homesteaders, with its Indians and its Custers, with its brave sheriffs and its bad men and its stagecoaches is more active, ebullient and ubiquitous than ever before. But it's all on television, morning, noon and night.

And who—on this fading Idaho frontier where grandparents can still remember the real thing, where my own aunts can recall being taken to the fort when the Indians were on the warpath, in this state where the Old West was real so short a time ago—who watches this teevee hokum?

Everybody, friends. Just everybody. Everybody in this state is living it up on the 21-inch screen in the sweet long ago when men were men and women were either dance hall doxies or pure as the driven snow. They know from tales told by their grandparents and parents that the stuff on the screen isn't even a reasonable facsimile of the Old West.

But, by golly, the men, after a hard day in their charcoal gray flannels in their air-conditioned offices or a rugged day on the golf course, and the girls, after a tough day over the bridge table, eat up the teevee version of the West in all its glory. Or gory.

"I've seen that stagecoach robbed eight times already this week," my Aunt Nell said last night when the bad men jumped out from behind a handy boulder to demand the gold dust shipment from the mines to the settlements.

"It wasn't nearly as lively in the old days," added Aunt Kit, rather wistfully.

There is even a new definition of a teeveeeroot out thisaway since the advent of the synthetic teevee Western. He's the man who turns off the teevee when the boys start shooting up the saloon because he can't bear to see whiskey shed.

The teevee version of life in the wild and woolly has even led to a new and profitable industry in the valley. Back East, mink and chinchilla farms may show a profit, but out here there is real money in breeding Shetland ponies. As a matter of fact, at the moment there is more money in these midgets than in regular horses.

The teevee Western, I am told, has created a nationwide demand for Shetlands among the small fry. Kids are no longer content merely with a cowboy suit, a ten-gallon hat, fancy boots and a holster with a pair of matched pistols. What's the good of all that regalia if a tiny tot can't have a horse under him?

So Junior, either male or female, puts on a screaming match in a nation no longer equipped with woodsheds. And before long, Mama and Papa, to get a little quiet and peace around the house so they can enjoy the Westerns, buy Junior a Shetland pony. After all, it isn't much bigger than a dog and it doesn't cost much more to feed. And it'll keep Junior quiet for a while.

Not a mile away, there is a farm on the highway with a pasture full of Shetland mamas and colts. And if I thought I could horsebreak one, I'd be tempted to take a colt back to New York with me. Undoubtedly, they are among the most cunning, seductive babies in the animal world. That is, I'd take one with me if I could raise it. I understand they sell at auction for as much as $500 each.

As for regular-size horses, I see so few of them in the valley today that I have a feeling if Godiva rode she'd have to bob her hair to beat her horse as a spectator attraction.

Military Pointed A Gun At Paris

PARIS—In the sober light of the morning after in this harried capital, the events of the past few days are still to be sorted out. But enough is known already to reveal that the military junta in Algiers pointed a gun at Paris and produced an atmosphere of panic in which the painful process of bringing Gen. De Gaulle to power was effectively accelerated.

How great the danger of a military takeover in Paris had actually been will be determined only when all the records are put together. But it was taken with the greatest seriousness by American and British diplomats here and even by those French observers who had up until then remained skeptical of the possibility of a coup d'etat in the capital or in any part of metropolitan France.

Shortly before noon on the day President Rene Coty indicated that he might resign, word began to circulate that an ultimatum had come from the generals in Algiers. They had served notice on Coty that if the process of bringing De Gaulle to power were not put in motion by three o'clock—some said the deadline was four o'clock—then action would be taken against Paris with the help of elements of the army in France. They were believed to have taken all preparations for action and the widespread fear which shook even the most hardened observers was that Paris would be under the control of the military junta by nightfall.

At the same time word got out that President Coty, utterly disgusted with the whole mess, would in his message to the Chamber of Deputies announce that he was tendering his resignation so that De Gaulle and the generals could assume absolute power. Coty is 76 years old and he has a chronic kidney infection aggravated by a number of sleepless nights. Those close to the Elysee Palace, his residence in Paris, said he had come to the end of his rope.

With this report, Vincent Auriol, former President and still a leader of the Socialist party, rushed to the palace to plead on his knees, as one close to the scene put it, with Coty to change his mind. Auriol warned that the President's action would bring anarchy to Paris and to all of France. He said that it would put power in the hands of irresponsible militarists who would carry out a savage blood bath with inevitable reprisals from the Communists.

Coty was at last persuaded to say that he would resign unless De Gaulle were put in power.

While this was happening in Paris, the military junta in Algiers was disclosing more and more openly the bold intentions of those in control there to work their will on France itself. The military plot against the government, revealed in this column at the beginning of the crisis, originated many months ago and details are now beginning to come to light.

The generals and their political allies in Algiers were saying openly that if Paris did not act, then they would have to move. Foremost among them on the political side is Leon Delbecq, who was chief aide to former Minister of Defense Jacques Chaban-Delmas. Delbecq, considered a much more important figure than Gaullist deputy Jacques Soustelle, who is discounted as a demagogue, told newspapermen that the army was finished with the Fourth Republic and would not wait long for De Gaulle to be installed in office. He also boldly revealed that the plot had been in progress for at least six months, which was about the time that he became one of the principal officials in the Ministry of Defense under Premier Felix Gaillard.

This reporter was told some days ago that Delbecq as Chief of Cabinet accompanied Chaban-Delmas on numerous inspection trips to defense installations in North Africa and elsewhere, and on these trips he had an opportunity to discuss the details of the plot with the military men who were planning it.

A major question about the weeks ahead is whether De Gaulle can control the fanatical colonels and their political allies such as Jacques Soustelle. Already one of the colonels in Algiers, reading the rumored list of the politicians in the general's cabinet, is supposed to have said: "Well, if that is the kind of De Gaulle we're going to get, then we may have to sweep him back into the wastepaper basket of history."

R&H Hardware Featuring Versatile Lawn Trimmer

R&H Hardware, 504 Johnson, widely known as Big Spring's garden and lawn tool and supply center, is now featuring an amazing new kind of lawn trimmer. Manufactured by a Lubbock concern, the new trimmer is called the "Rota-Trimmer." It comes in either electric or gasoline powered models. Far more powerful in all ways than the ordinary trimmer, the Rota-Trimmer has the added advantage that it needs only short pieces of coat-hanger wire for blades and the operator can prepare a season's supply in a matter of minutes. The Rota-Trimmer will slash away all grass and weeds along walks as rapidly as the operator cares to work. It will trim away weeds and grass in flower beds.

By making a special blade with a right-angle at the base, it will clear up the grass and weeds which grow close to the foundations. It can also be used to clear out dirt which accumulates in "breather" openings in sidewalks or driveways. A set of blades will usually last two to three trimmings. Replacing the blades is but a moment's task — no bolts to be undone. The R&H is demonstrating this new device and it is meeting with much interest with scores of Big Spring residents. Either the electric or the gas engine model will do the job, R&H associates say, and they welcome an opportunity to prove that with the Rota-Trimmer.

Braves Blast Past Giants

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
The Milwaukee Braves have rediscovered the home run, slamming back into the National League lead by walling 12 in their last four games.

The champs belted five, their best one-game total of the year, and made them good for all but one of their runs in a 7-6 decision at San Francisco last night. The Giants were shoved back into second place, .010 percentage points behind.

West Covington and Hank Aaron each hit a pair, Covington's second haulled the Braves from behind in the eighth inning and Aaron's second clinched it in the ninth.

There were at least two home runs in every NL game yesterday except at Los Angeles. That cozy corner in the Coliseum gave up just one, a sliced shot by Duke Snider, as Cincinnati used a bunch of walks for an 8-3 victory over the Dodgers.

St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 8-4 on two-run homers by Stan Musial and Joe Cunningham, and the Chicago Cubs clobbered Philadelphia 12-4 with Ernie Banks hitting his 14th homer, tops in the NL.

The Braves, who set a team record and led the NL in homers (199) for the first time since 1930 as they won the pennant last season, had been averaging less than one a game before the current spurt. Covington, with four in the last four games, hit his first in a two-run effort that gave the Braves a 2-2 tie, matching Ray Jablonski's two-run homer in the Giants' third inning.

Aaron and Felix Mantilla hit consecutive homers for a 4-2 lead in the fifth, but starter Lew Burdette and reliever Gene Conley blew the bulge.

Unbeaten Don McMahon won his fifth in relief, but needed Ernie Johnson's help when the Giants scored with one out in the ninth on Willie Mays' triple and an infield out. The Giants had 11 hits. The Braves had a dozen, 10 off starter Ruben Gomez, who lost his fourth.

Cunningham's second home run of the season junked a 4-1 tie against losing reliever Curt Raydon (0-2) in the fourth for the Cardinals. Musial slugged his 390th in the majors, ninth this year, in the sixth. He drove in three runs. Larry Jackson won his fourth although allowing 10 hits, including home runs by Bob Skinner and Bill Mazeroski.

The Tramps bopped the Cardinals, 13-5, last night in a Senior Teen-age League baseball game. The contest was the opener for the four-team arrangement.

The Cardinals resorted to four pitchers in the error-filled game with Dewey Phillips taking the loss. Other card pitchers were Preston Myrick, Charles Johnson, and Wilson Bell.

The Tramps were able to get only four hits, Bob Andrews taking credit for two of them, but the winners were given 11 bases on balls.

Pitcher for the Tramps, Marvin Simmons, came in the bottom of the second inning and gave up only one hit through the seventh.

The Card's Donnie Everett slugged two hits. His team was tied with the Tramps at the end of the fourth, but a six-run spurt by the Burns in the fifth was disastrous.

Thursday night, the Elks will meet the ABC Cats in a duel starting at 8 p.m.

WITHDRAWALS REDUCE TURNOUT AT DALLAS

DALLAS (AP)—Promoter Jim Ling of the $25,000 Dallas Open smoldered today over so many top golfers skipping his tournament but he still maintained that he would have one of the best fields of the year when the 72-hole grind starts tomorrow.

Ling fired a protest to the PGA yesterday when he learned that Masters champion Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper, Paul Harney and Jay Hebert had joined the growing list of players who won't be here because they reportedly want to practice at Tulsa for the National Open. He didn't expect to get anywhere with the protest since the four were not on the official tournament list.

Ben Hogan previously had passed up the tournament to practice at Tulsa. National Open champion Dick Mayer and National PGA champion Lionel Hebert can't make it because of National Golf Day. Several of the minor lights are staying out because of the travel involved and because of the injuries, etc.

But Sam Snead, a major attraction for any tournament, and Ken Venturi, the brilliant young man from San Francisco who has won more tournaments this year than any—three, are in the field.

So are Doug Ford, Ed Oliver, Billy Maxwell, Roberto de Vicenzo, Dow Finsterlin, Mike Souchak, Tommy Bolt, Chick Harbert, Cary Middlecoff, Gene Litter, Fred Hawkins, Gary Lyster, Howie Johnson, George Bayer, Ernie Vossler, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros and Don January.

That the Oak Cliff Country Club's par 70 is due for a hammering was indicated by practice rounds yesterday. Harbert dug a 6-under-par 64 out of the 6,500-yard layout. Snead did a 67 and Venturi eased around in 68.

Most of the touring golfers play in a $2,500 pro-amateur today with $250 top money for the low pro and $200 for the pro in the winning team.

with Plews doubling home two and scoring the tying run. Albie Pearson scored the clincher on an error. Truman Clevenger (3-3) won it in relief. Duke Maas (2-5) lost it in relief.

Portocarrero got his second in a row with the help of four double plays. Jim Bunning lost his fifth, giving up a single to Jim Marshall and Foster Castelman's double for a run in the second and a bases-loaded single by Gene Woodling for another in the fifth.

Dick Gernert hit a three-run homer for a 5-0 Boston lead in the fifth against starter-loser Mudcat Grant (4-3). Tom Brewer won his first since April 23 with relief help in the ninth, although all the Tribe runs were unearned.

CLOBBER WHITE SOX
Yanks Widen Gap Over Challengers
By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

That's a heckuva race going on in the American League—behind the New York Yankees, that is.

Only four games separate second-place Kansas City and last-place Baltimore. But the A's are 8½ behind the Yankees.

The Yankees clobbered Chicago 13-0 last night, rapping three home runs in support of Johnny Kucks' two-hit pitching that extended the White Sox's scoreless slump to 39 innings. It was the ninth shutout by the Yankee staff this season.

The Washington Senators, who hadn't managed a double-header sweep since Aug. 16, 1956, until they took two from the Yankees Memorial Day, now have done it twice in five days. They jumped into a three-place tie with Boston, just two games behind Kansas City, by beating the A's 5-4 and 10-9.

Boston beat Cleveland 7-3, and Baltimore shut out Detroit 2-0 on Arnie Portocarrero's six-hitter.

While Kucks (4-1) no-hit Chicago over the final 6 2-3 innings, he the Yankees shelled Dick Donovan before he retired a man in a four-run first. Mickey Mantle hit a three-run homer and Bill Skowron socked a solo homer on consecutive tosses by the big right-hander, now 2-6 with his third straight loss.

Yogi Berra hit his sixth home run for the Yankees.

Billy Goodman, out since May 6 with a leg injury, singled for both hits by the Sox.

The Senators scored four in the first game first, then got the clincher on Roy Sievers' ninth home run in the second inning. Ralph Terry (2-5) lost it with Russ Kemmerer winning his second. Dick Hyde relieved in the ninth after Bob Cerv, who hit his 15th homer in the fourth, singled home two runs.

Herb Plews committed four errors in the nightcap, tying an old-timer AL record for third baseman, and booted three in the seventh, when the A's scored two for a 9-6 lead. But the Senators hustled back with four in the eighth.

Jay Fullmer In Big-Time Debut Against Joe Miceli

By JERRY MARTIN
WEST JORDAN, Utah (AP)—Youthful Jay Fullmer and seasoned welterweight Joe Miceli of New York battle here tonight in a 10-round bout that marks Fullmer's debut in television as well as his big time opposition.

Fullmer, 21, has more finesse and speed than his older brother, Gene, the former middleweight champion. But hometown partisans wonder whether it will be enough to counter Miceli's experience.

The bout will be televised nationally (ABC-TV, 7 p. m. MST-10 p. m. EDT).

The 29-year-old Miceli expects to weigh around 149 to 150 and Fullmer's camp says they boy will weigh 142.

This test should at least partly answer a question Jay has in his mind about his pro career. He says he wants to go as far as he can, but doesn't want to wind up hearing bells.

Miceli may be the man. He has fought some of the top lightweight and welterweights and has a 56-31-7 record. He whipped former lightweight champion Ike Williams in two of three fights and bested ex-lightweight champion Bud Smith.

For him, brushing aside Fullmer's challenge perhaps will earn him another television payday.

"Money goes fast with me," Miceli says. "I have to keep fighting." He and Fullmer each get a $4,000 television fee plus an unspecified percentage of the gate.

Fullmer's hopes lie chiefly in lasting the full route. He is unbeaten in 13 pro fights but he fought only one 10-round bout. He is a clean but not a hard puncher.

Miceli, however, has a reputation as one of the hardest punchers in boxing when he has a good night. A converted southpaw, he has a vaulted left uppercut. He once clipped Art Aragon so hard that Aragon's ankle was broken in the fall.

If he still has that much power, Fullmer may be hearing more than that TV silver clinking.

DODGERS UPSET OWL NINE, 11-6, IN NATIONAL L.L.
The Dodgers waylaid the Owls last night in a National League baseball game, 11-6, under Larry Alexander's five-inning, eight-hit control.

The best hitter for the Owls, Bill Sharp, managed three hits, each a single.

First baseman Gary Anderson hit a home run for the Dodgers in the second inning, driving Larry Alexander across the plate. Anderson also got a double in the fourth inning.

Alexander was winning pitcher, going five innings and then being relieved by Pat Nelson who finished.

The Owls have won six, lost three. The Dodgers have three wins, five losses, and one tie.

DETROIT AP — George Mathews is in charge of season ticket sales for the Detroit Tigers. Mathews recently promised his wife he would get her a good seat at the ball park on their 25th anniversary Tuesday.

Mrs. Mathews didn't go to the game, however. Her husband had forgotten the Tigers were playing at Baltimore.

Y Renews Efforts To Form League

YMCA officials will renew efforts to organize an Industrial softball league team, if enough interest is shown.

Right now, no more than two teams of Industrial league stature are organized in the city. At least six are needed to have a well-rounded league, a Y spokesman said.

Those who would like to field a team in such a league or who would like to play for such a club should contact the Y within the next few days.

Broncs Stamped Tip-Toppers, 23-12

Big Spring Hardware's Broncs stamped for eight runs in the fifth inning against the Tip-Toppers last night in American Minor League proceedings, and won by a score of 23-12.

The Tip-Toppers were thus dropped into second place from their once-held first-ranking. The Broncs now have a 5-3 record for third place.

Mike Schaffer pitched for the winning club; Talbot was loser. Leading hitter for the Broncs was Doug Roundtree who drove in six runs on hits including a double and a triple.

Colts Ramble Past Bruins

The Colts annihilated the Cubs, 15-0, last night in the American Little League, keeping the losers shackled in the cellar.

The Cubs have won one game, lost seven, while the Colts are somewhat better with three won, six lost.

Joe Percy was winning pitcher, as he corralled the Cubs for four singles in the six-inning melee.

Michael Kraas slammed his first home run of the season, a long drive in the fifth inning with Percy and Arthur Farris on base.

Next Saturday marks the end of the first half for American League teams, and it appears that the Jets, and Cabots are the top three contenders. The Jets are in the lead by one-half game, while the Jets and Cabots are tied for second.

Tramps Nudge Cards, 13-5

The Tramps bopped the Cardinals, 13-5, last night in a Senior Teen-age League baseball game. The contest was the opener for the four-team arrangement.

The Cardinals resorted to four pitchers in the error-filled game with Dewey Phillips taking the loss. Other card pitchers were Preston Myrick, Charles Johnson, and Wilson Bell.

The Tramps were able to get only four hits, Bob Andrews taking credit for two of them, but the winners were given 11 bases on balls.

Pitcher for the Tramps, Marvin Simmons, came in the bottom of the second inning and gave up only one hit through the seventh.

The Card's Donnie Everett slugged two hits. His team was tied with the Tramps at the end of the fourth, but a six-run spurt by the Burns in the fifth was disastrous.

Thursday night, the Elks will meet the ABC Cats in a duel starting at 8 p.m.

Church Holds Annual Meet
BOSTON — Humanity's emergence into the space age should be greeted with firm assurance of God's unerring direction and supporting care, the Christian Science Board of Directors said this week.

Some may view this new age with fear and trembling, but Christian Scientists welcome it and the opportunities that accompany it, the board declared.
More than 7,000 church members from many parts of the world heard the directors' message at the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientific.

Scientific reliance on God's power is showing the way, the directors said, to bring peace and harmony both to the individual and the world. In spite of the material progress being made, it is becoming evident that material discoveries "are not really solving the basic problems confronting humanity, but seem, in fact, to be increasing them," they said.

Named president of the Mother Church was Leonard T. Carney of Boston, Mass., a Christian Science teacher and practitioner active in the healing work of the denomination for many years. He will serve a one-year term.
Carney told the assembly that vast new opportunities for service to humanity are at hand. "It is yielding to materiality that blocks our progress," he declared. "The shackles of materiality fall away as we advance spiritually."

Stage Practice On Workshop Agenda

The Civic Theatre's workshop will begin scenes from a locally written play Thursday evening. The play, "Catch Another at the Corner," is authored by John Austin, who also is director of the workshop. Austin has lectured on general theatre topics at previous workshop meetings, but has come to the conclusion that actual practice must begin as soon as possible.

The next workshop will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the museum building in City Park.

There was some talk recently of coming up with a name for the old museum building. Since the place has now been indefinitely assigned by the City Commission to the Civic Theatre, the feeling is that it should cease to be referred to as the old museum building. Yet, there's not another name by which it may be called.

A city-wide contest has been suggested as a means of finding a proper name, but nothing has yet been done, mainly because some theatre members think prizes the theatre could afford to offer would not be incentive enough to potential contestants. Might I suggest a life-long season ticket to the grand prize winner, with one-year season tickets to other winners?

Incidentally, "Prairie Playhouse" and "Tumbleweed Theatre" have already been suggested by members.

Order Of Arrow Ceremony Slated

The regular Order of Arrow tap out at the Davis Mountains Boy Scout Ranch camp will be held Friday evening.

Originally the event for those nominated by their troop as outstanding campers had been set for Thursday evening, but because it has been a traditional Friday evening feature it has been set back. The campfire ceremony will begin about dark. A number of parents are expected for the occasion.

Approximately 250 boys, mostly from the local district, are in the camp this week.

Lincoln Stamp Issue To Be Standard Four-Center

After Aug. 1, citizens will become increasingly familiar with the homely but magnetic portrait of Abraham Lincoln.

This is made evident by the indication the U. S. Post Office Department plans no special stamp to replace the regular four-cent issue now being used.

The new four-cent postage rate on first class mail will diminish almost to the point of extinction the widely used three-cent Liberty issue now in use.

The current four-cent, a member of the 17 regular stamps ranging in value from one cent to 5¢, features a portrait of Lincoln. It is reported that the postal department is readying a vast supply of these to replace the three-cent stamps.

There has been some hope on the part of philatelists that the department might usher in the new postal rate with a special stamp. Apparently this is not to be done.

The four-cent stamp is lavender in color. The old familiar purple three-center will be only rarely seen.

First commemorative in the four-cent denomination is to be Simon Bolivar issue "Champion of Liberty." It will go on sale first on July 24.

The current four-cent Lincoln has been in service since Nov. 19, 1954.

In the course of a year, the post office will issue and sell nine billion copies of this stamp. Adequate supplies are being dispatched to all of the 35,605 post offices in this country.

One-Man Business Advice Given In U.S. Bulletin

Practical suggestions concerning possibilities faced in case of the death of the owner of a one-man business are contained in a new bulletin published by the United States Department of Commerce.

It is particularly important, said Bill Chamber, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce, because there are more sole proprietorships than any other form of business organization in the nation. By some estimates 70 per cent of the businesses are one-man firms.

In most states laws provide that, upon the death of a sole proprietor, his business becomes a part of his estate, to be administered by his executor or administrator and passed along to heirs as quickly as possible, unless otherwise provided. Families can face possible losses or even liquidation at a severe sacrifice unless some specific plan is set up in advance, the bulletin points out.

Problems to be faced by the sole proprietor's heirs, with suggestions for meeting them under a carefully drawn plan, are discussed. A list of related publications is given for additional reference. Ask for Business Service Bulletin No. 23, which is available for review in the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, a cooperative office of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Also offered for review by your Chamber of Commerce are Business Service Bulletins Nos. 34, Business Life Insurance; 35, Corporation Life Insurance; 36, Partnership Life Insurance; and 125, Building an Insurance Plan for Your Business.

Solved Carpet Cleaning Problem

Research now has the answer to carpet and upholstery cleaning with the new product, Blue Lustre. It is completely safe for finest carpets whether woolen, rayon, nylon or cotton.

The nap is left open and fluffy as colors return to their original beauty and lustre. No residue remains to cause rapid re-soiling. Clean entire carpet or just spots and traffic paths with Blue Lustre and a long handle brush. One-half gallon of odorless Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.
