Air Force Furthering Plan For Webb AFB Expansion

Projects May Involve $16 Million

U.S. Air Force is furthering plans for extensive additional expansion of Webb Air Force Base facilities — a project which unofficial sources hint could involve expenditure of perhaps $16 millions within the next two years.

Groundwork for this program has been laid — contracts have been let for architect and engineering on the several jobs involved.

The program, it was explained by a spokesman for the U. S. Air Force Installation Office in Dallas, will involve acquisition of additional land, building of hangars, installation of facilities and construction of runways and aprons.

The project will be under the direction of the U. S. Corps of Engineers, Fort Worth. Webb is in the Fort Worth engineer district.

The facilities, as planned, will be used by the 31st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, operating under the Air Defense Command.

The U. S. Air Force spokesman said that use of the installation on the base would be separated from the training operations of the base and that the agencies installed would be classed in Air Force terms as "tenants."

"In projects of the nature contemplated for Webb," the Dallas office said, "the customary time element for completion of design is usually from 6 to 8 months."

It was explained that funds for the program are not now available but that money for planning and engineering is on hand. Appropriations are anticipated over the next two years.

The construction funds, assuming the program carries through as contemplated, the spokesman said, would probably be available sometime "in November or December."

Unofficial sources have revealed that the architect and engineer contracts awarded at the base ten days ago went to four firms — including two local organizations.

Benson and Thompson are reported to have contract for a rocket assembly building, fire ammunition storage units and a security building. Puckett and French have contract for hangars; Smith Parkhill and Cooper, Lubbock, were awarded contract for grading and Haise & Greene, Lubbock, contract for runways and aprons.

Surveyors have been busy for more than two months checking additional land west of the present installation as location for the new facilities.

Senate-House Panel Meets On Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees met today to put the finishing touches on a $3,675,400,000 foreign aid program tailored to meet virtually all President Eisenhower's specifications. They reached a tentative agreement yesterday authorizing, among other things, $1,605,000,000 in military assistance and 810 millions in economic defense supports to allies with which the United States has defense pacts.

The totals in the bill—$3,031,400,000 in new authorizations—are 26 1/2 percent less than Eisenhower asked. That amount will be added to 644 millions in authorizations voted last year for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Even the most enthusiastic supporters of the foreign aid program, however, agree that this $3,675,000,000 figure will be cut sharply when the two houses act on a money bill to provide the funds for which the foreign aid bill simply sets ceilings.

The Senate conferees—at House insistence—dropped a Senate policy statement declaring it is in the United States interest to join other nations in providing support to India of the type, magnitude and duration "adequate to help her complete her second five-year plan."

The House conferees, on the other hand, dropped a provision which would have put new restrictions on aid to Yugoslavia. That country's breach with Moscow is steadily widening.

Under existing law, left intact, Eisenhower may continue to aid President Tito's government as long as he is continuously assured it is maintaining independence and is not involved in any plot of world conquest, and that such aid strengthens U.S. national security.

No military assistance is proposed in the bill for Yugoslavia and economic assistance is sharply reduced.

The House conferees agreed to Senate language under which military assistance to Latin America—scene of riots during Vice President Nixon's visit—would be limited to that needed for Western Hemisphere defense.

WTCC Directors Slate Meeting In Angelo Thursday

Big Spring's two West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors and the local Chamber of Commerce manager will go to San Angelo Thursday for a meeting of the WTCC board.

The WTCC officials are to decide on the organization's stand in regard to a proposed constitutional amendment which would permit the state to advertise its tourist attractions and industrial opportunities.

Local Chamber directors Monday voted to oppose the measure. Champ Rainwater and G. H. Hayward, WTCC directors from Big Spring, and Bill Quimby, Chamber manager here, are to inform the WTCC board of the sentiment here.

The WTCC directors are to meet at 1:15 p.m. Thursday in the Cactus Hotel at San Angelo.

Odessa JC Asks Four-Year Status

ODESSA — Trustees of Odessa Junior College are filing an application with the Texas Commission on Higher Education asking that the college be made a four-year institution.

The application must first be cleared by the commission, and then it would have to get legislative approval. Dr. Murry Fly, president, said he would be in favor of the four-year state college if it could maintain its community aspects. He added that he thought this could be done. The college board, at the same meeting, lowered the rate from 16 to 14 cents per $100 valuation.

Tax Extension Bill Up For Senate Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's request for extension of present corporation and excise taxes came up in the Senate today with approval appearing certain.

However, a lively floor fight was in prospect over a proposed amendment to wipe out the 3 per cent freight and 10 per cent passenger taxes. On this the issue looked very close.

Other pending amendments to repeal taxes on automobiles and auto parts appeared to have only a slim chance.

The House passed the bill June 5 without any tax-cutting amendments.

Unless Congress acts to extend them, the wartime rates will drop automatically June 30, cutting Treasury revenues an estimated $2,600,000,000 a year.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), floor manager for the measure, was ready to lead a vigorous fight against any amendments. He contends the government faces an 11-billion-dollar deficit next year and cannot afford to lose revenue.

However, a bipartisan bloc of senators was equally prepared to battle for repeal of the freight and transportation taxes put on in World War II. These levies yield about 685 million dollars a year.

The repeal amendment has the support of the 15 members of the Senate Commerce Committee, who recommended it to help the nation's hard-pressed railroads.

It also is backed by many Western senators, who contend the freight tax puts an especially unfair burden on their section.

Byrd told a reporter, however, that the railroads would get only 48 per cent of the relief from the freight levy. The other 52 per cent would go to truckers and other carriers, he said.

Death For Midland Slayer Is Upheld

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld today the death sentence given Eusebio Regalado Martinez of Midland for killing a 9-month-old girl.

The court said it found no reversible error and that Martinez's plea of insanity was invalid.

Martinez confessed to the crime, saying he was "feeling drunk and sick" when he crushed the child's head with his right knee in a pasture near a Midland night club, the court said.

Martinez told of taking the sleeping child from the front seat of an auto in front of a Midland night club, where the parents had gone, leaving their five children asleep in the car.

Court Upholds Cox Conviction

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals, in a 2-1 decision, today affirmed the two-year bribery sentence for former State Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe.

Cox was convicted here of agreeing to accept a $5,000 bribe to withdraw a bill he introduced in the last session of the State Legislature.

He had what the hospital termed a "poor" night and was still on the "extremely critical" list today.

Campbell was wounded when a shotgun he and a companion had been using shooting jackrabbits west of town was discharged.

Crash Of Spray Plane Kills 3

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—A two-engine airplane spraying grasshoppers 30 miles south of Pueblo crashed and burned today killing the three men aboard.

The B18 was owned by Plains Aero Spray Co. of Dalhart, Tex., contractor for spraying operations over eastern and southern Colorado's infested rangeland.

Delmer Miller, owner of the company, identified those aboard as Ralph Kelly of Missoula, Mont., the pilot; Ed Worrall, also of Missoula, the co-pilot and Ray Younger, a rancher in the good pasture area of Pueblo County whose land was being sprayed.

Witnesses said the plane was flying low and was banking when it went down. There was a loud explosion, followed by fire and clouds of smoke.

Shotgun Victim Is Near Death

Harold Campbell, 30, shot in the abdomen in a gun accident Monday afternoon, was reported as barely holding his own in his fight for life at the Cowper Hospital this morning.

Doctors explained that the hour's delay from the time the man was wounded until his arrival at the hospital had subjected him to extreme shock and that his condition was extremely serious.

He had three pints of blood and has undergone extensive surgery to repair damage caused by the full charge of 410 shotgun at close range. The load lodged in the victim's liver.

He had what the hospital termed a "poor" night and was still on the "extremely critical" list today.

Blind Hitchhikers

Two blind Miamians, with the help of their seeing eye dogs, wait on the outskirts of the city for rides that will take them to Boston where they will attend the annual convention of the National Federation of the Blind. At left is Bill Scrimageour, president of the Dade County chapter of the Florida Federation of the Blind, and his traveling companion is Bill Lambert, a candidate for a doctorate in psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

Goldfine Next For Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) —Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said today he intends to call for testimony from Bernard Goldfine, the Boston industrialist whose gifts put presidential aide Sherman Adams in hot water.

"It is certainly my intention" to summon Goldfine, Harris said, but he fixed no date. He said a week or more may be needed to develop the case for testimony.

Harris heads the House subcommittee which yesterday heard President Eisenhower's top aide acknowledge he should have "acted a little more prudently" in matters involving his old friend Goldfine.

But, Adams said, he accepted expensive favors from Goldfine only innocently and contacted two federal agencies on Goldfine cases with no intent to win favored treatment for the wealthy Bostonian.

In the political uproar, Eisenhower has expressed confidence in his right-hand man while Republicans split over whether Adams should stay on the job.

So far the subcommittee has made no move to summon Goldfine himself. It has tussled with him over his records, part of which finally wound up in subcommittee hands.

Harris said in an interview he would have preferred to have Adams testify at a later date. That's because the congressmen have yet to complete another chapter in the Goldfine inquiry which is said to involve Adams again.

Adams set a precedent for a presidential aide in volunteering to testify. Harris did not rule out the possibility of receiving a further explanation from Adams on questions that may still come up.

Harris said the House group also intends to get testimony from John Fox, publisher of the now defunct Boston Post, who was quoted in testimony as alleging that Goldfine got preferred federal treatment through his friendship with Adams.

Subcommittee plans were to resume hearings next week on a case of alleged leniency by the Securities and Exchange Commission toward two Goldfine firms, the East Boston Co. and the Boston Port Development Co.

Adams said he asked for SEC information about Goldfine's troubles with that agency but did nothing further. Subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lishman alleged, and Adams denied, that the information appeared to have been passed on to Goldfine in violation of SEC law.

Adams said he had exerted no influence on government agencies in behalf of Bernard Goldfine, Boston industrialist, in return for expensive favors he had received from his millionaire friend — including the loan of a $2,400 Oriental rug and the payment of more than $2,000 of hotel bills.

President Says Adams Was Imprudent But 'I Need Him'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Sherman Adams was imprudent in his relations with Bernard Goldfine but "I need him" to continue as top presidential aide.

Eisenhower made it plain at a news conference that he has no intention of firing Adams, although he did not say that in so many words.

In anticipation that the President would talk about the hottest Washington subject of the moment, newsmen were packed into the conference room.

At the outset, Eisenhower announced he had a statement he wanted to read.

Then, reading from typewritten large cards, Eisenhower said Adams had been imprudent, as Adams himself acknowledged in testimony Tuesday before a House investigating committee.

Despite that imprudence, Eisenhower said, he has reached these personal conclusions: "I believe that the present-cratic attacks in the upcoming political campaign.

Some GOP members indicated that if they do so, it will be with reluctance. Others called outright for Adams' resignation.

Adams told a House subcommittee yesterday he had exerted no influence on government agencies in behalf of Bernard Goldfine, Boston industrialist, in return for expensive favors he had received from his millionaire friend — including the loan of a $2,400 Oriental rug and the payment of more than $2,000 of hotel bills.

Creek On Rampage

Residents of Austin watch the rampaging waters of Barton Creek swirl into the Barton Springs swimming pool area in the city. Cloudbursts measuring up to 10 inches in many sections flooded great areas in the southwest part of the state.

FLOOD THREATS

New Thunderstorms Build Up As Nueces River Rises

By The Associated Press

New thunderstorms built up Wednesday in South Texas while swollen streams carried the runoff of three days of drenching rains in the Southwest. Major flooding on the Nueces River below Uvalde was predicted.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said a pilot flying between Corpus Christi and Victoria spotted a line of heavy thunderstorms at mid-morning. A line of showers extended west and northeast of Victoria and showers built up south of Brownsville.

Ranchers were advised to remove livestock from lowlands along the Nueces River and tributary Turkey Creek in the Crystal City area. The Corpus Christi Weather Bureau said Crystal City can expect a flood comparable to the one which hit the Southwest Texas town in 1955. The Nueces, which runs on the city's outskirts, forced some evacuations in 1955.

Streams which had gushed with flash floods quickly subsided in the Southwest Texas hill country, but there were still a few trouble spots.

The heaviest cloudburst was a 20.1-inch deluge northwest of Medina.

As reports trickled in from isolated rural areas, damage appeared to consist largely of destroyed bridges and flood-gouged roads which had blocked dozens of highways.

HARDEST HIT
Hardest hit was a sector across Bandera, Uvalde and Kinney counties.

An estimate of $100,000 damage at Brackettville, in Kinney County, came from the Department of Public Safety. It said water from Los Mores Creek poured 4.9 feet deep into the Gateway Hotel there, and 60 homes and business houses were damaged.

A pilot reported water lapped at the window sills of some houses late Tuesday in D'Hanis, a village near Brackettville.

At the C. E. Maffett ranch 12 1/2 miles northwest of Medina, where rain gauge caught 20.1 inches, an intermittent drizzle continued Wednesday morning. The heavy downpour, lasting nearly 13 hours, ended about noon Tuesday.

Offsetting flood losses, the U.S. Agriculture Department said the rains had revived crop and pasture prospects over a wide area of the state. Farmers welcomed badly needed relief from damaging heat and dry weather.

Streams in the hill country quickly dropped back within banks after racing madly from heavy runoffs.

The floodwaters blocked highways and marooned hundreds of persons for a time. Floyd Miller, 47, of San Angelo, was drowned in Concho River Tuesday by a wall of water. Narrow escapes were legion.

Water Consumption Is Climbing Again

Water consumption which tumbled Monday almost to four million gallons climbed back to 5.4 million gallons Tuesday.

The usage Monday was only 4,166,000 gallons after a string of eight million-gallon days. It jumped up to 5,466,000 gallons on Tuesday. This raised the June total for 17 days to 118,179,000 gallons.

front of the setting sun Tuesday and jittery Dallas residents reported two funnels skipped about near the city. But the Weather Bureau said it was only a mirage.

The Sabinal River went back into its banks at Sabinal, where 100 persons were reported evacuated earlier.

Water seeped briefly into a few homes in low sections of Utopia, on the Sabinal River in Uvalde County. Eleven inches of rain there washed out telephone lines. Some 127 Girl Scouts near Utopia and a Boy Scout party of 266 in nearby Kerr County were marooned during the flash floods.

The Texas Department of Public Safety at Austin said the Gateway Hotel at Brackettville in Kinney County had 4.9 feet of water in it from flooded Los Mores Creek. The Department said 60 homes and 25 business buildings were damaged at Brackettville. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Miller was fishing with some others when a wall of water rolled down the Concho. His stepson, Robert Robinson, 11, was swept into the water and Miller went in after him. He apparently was hit on the head by a piece of floating wood. Others rescued young Robinson.

Last Stop Before Winner's Circle

Finish line for the 1958 Soap Box Derby is being painted on the Lancaster Street pavement in preparation for the big races next week. Left to right are R. V. (Skeet) Forsyth, city street superintendent, Loyd Wooten, Derby director, and J. T. Gallan, city engineer. New lane lines also are being painted in preparation for the Derby. Around 50 Howard and Mitchell County boys will vie for the local championship at 8 p.m. June 26. The winner gets a trip to the All-American Derby in Akron, Ohio, and runners-up will share numerous other prizes.

Simpson Named To Board For School Agency

Dick Simpson, Big Spring, is among the 21 Texas executives and businessmen who have been named trustees of the Texas Foundation of Voluntarily Supported Colleges and Universities.

Trustees for the 1958-59 term, each representing one of the 21 member schools, were announced by Dr. Joseph R. Griggs, executive director of the state organization which provides financial aid for support of higher education in independent, church-related colleges and universities.

Simpson will represent Texas Christian University, his alma mater, on the foundation board.

The Texas Foundation was established in 1953 to provide an effective, business like opportunity for industry to aid privately supported higher education through corporate gifts. Presidents of the 21 colleges comprise the governing board and are advised by the public trustees.

Dr. Griggs estimates that funds in excess of a million dollars will be contributed to these privately supported Texas liberal arts colleges by business and industry this year. This is vital for institutions of higher education which derive none of their revenue from taxes. He pointed out that one-fourth of their required operating funds are given by business and industry and paid through the Foundation.

SUSPECT TALKS AFTER SEEING LIE DETECTOR

Sheriff Miller Harris said Wednesday that sight of a lie detector machine in the office of the Midland police proved effective in bringing a solution to the theft of two oil field centrifugal pumps stolen earlier this week.

A suspect had been arrested in the case and reluctantly agreed to a lie detector test. However, when he saw the polygraph, he decided to talk and Harris said he made a statement admitting the theft of the two pumps.

He is being held in jail and two $1,000 bonds have been set in his case.

The two pumps, valued at several hundred dollars each, were taken from the RH&K lease and the Gular lease.

The missing pumps have been located, Harris said.

Testing Continues Today At Two Well Sites In This Area

Tests continued today at the Standard of Texas No. 2 Guffey in the North Vincent field of Howard County, and Shell prepared to take a 24-hour potential test in the Strawn at the No. 1-CD Slaughter in Garza.

The Stanotex well is testing the Canyon and it yielded 161 barrels of oil and 40 barrels of water through a partial choke in 22 hours Tuesday.

The Garza well finished as an Ellenburger discovery Monday, and the Strawn producer will be as an extender to the one-well Happy (Strawn) pool.

Operator has re-installed a pump at the El Paso No. 1-A Lamb in the one-well Lamb (Spraberry) field, and pumping tests with no gauges on production were under way today. The project is C NW NW, 24-32, EL&RR Survey, and 16 miles northeast of Gail.

Hiawatha No. 1 Miller, offset to the Harper & Huffman discovery, drilled in anhydrite at 1,962 feet today. It is staked 660 feet from south and east lines, 47-30-6N, T&P Survey, and eight miles northeast of Gail. The Harper strike finished only from the Ellenburger but found shows also in the Strawn.

Shell No. 1 Miller, a wildcat C SW NW, 527-97, H&TC Survey, drilled in shale at 7,465 feet today. It is staked 12 miles north-east of Gail.

Dawson

Camp No. 1 Oldham, C NE SE, 26-34-4N, T&P Survey, drilled at 3,607 feet in lime today. The Pennsylvania wildcat is five miles northeast of Ackery.

Queen candidates will ride the Dawson County Sheriff's posse today; winner will be determined on the rodeo ticket sales garnered by each of the sponsored girls.

Participants and their wives and riding clubs and posses will be honored the first day with a "West" barbecue in Forrest Park at 4 p.m. with the local posse serving as hosts.

Queen candidates and their sponsors include Klata Woodul, Kiwanis; Judy Shofner, Sparenburg Mercantile Store; Joy Nichols, Dawson Palmetto Polo Club; Betty Burleson, Noon Lions; and Carol Beard, Evening Lions.

Shell No. 1-DA Slaughter, in the Lazy J-L field, drilled in lime at 8,042 feet. It is staked 660 feet north and 760 feet east lines, 17-1-Hays Survey, and 11 miles south of Post.

Shell No. 1-F Slaughter made hole today at 8,410 feet in lime after taking a straddle test in the Pennsylvania from 8,153-66 feet. Tool was open two hours, and re-water and 630 feet of salt water. It is 1,980 from north and 660 from west lines, 21-1, Hays Survey.

Smith & Breyer & Joe Humphrey No. 1 Roy is a new site in the Justiceburg pool about four miles northeast of Justiceburg. Drillsite is 330 from south and 1,650 from east lines, 134-5, H&GN Survey. Operator will drill to 2,800 feet.

Smith & Breyer & Humphrey No. 2 Roy is staked 1,650 from south and 330 from east lines, 134-5, H&GN, and about four miles northeast of Justiceburg. It will also project to 2,800 feet.

Smith & Breyer No. 1-C Connell, in the North Justiceburg (Glorita) pool, yielded 77 barrels of oil and 25 per cent water on 24 hour potential. Gravity of the oil is 39.8 degrees. Top of the pay zone is 2,625 feet, perforation interval is 2,626-78, and total depth is 2,706 feet. Location of the well is 2,193 feet from south and 1,767 from east lines, 124-5, H&GN Survey.

Howard

Brinson-Collins No. 7-B Percy Jones, in the Iatan East Howard field, completed for a daily potential of 109.30 barrels of 31-degree oil after fracturing with 20,000 gallons. The well is 1,653 from south and 990 from east lines, 9-30-18, T&P Survey. Total depth is 2,962 feet, and top of the pay zone is 2,663. Perforations extend from 2,663-703 feet.

Martin

Husky & Pano Tech No. 3 Breedlove cemented 5/8-inch string in the Devonian at 12,039 feet and prepared to perforate and test. The project is in the Breedlove field 1,419 from north and 4,509 from east lines of League 25B, Briscoe CSL Survey.

Operator prepared to test an unidentified zone from 12,650-710 feet at the Hamon & Republic No. 1 Holton today. The wildcat is six miles northwest of Tarzan, 5,872 from south and 7,577 from east lines of League 247, Wheeler CSL Survey.

Pan American No. 8 Breedlove drilled in lime at 11,893 feet today. It is in the Breedlove pool 1,073 from south and 25 from west lines, Labor 112, League 25B, Briscoe CSL Survey.

Two checks are reported stolen

Two checks from the American National Insurance Co. and made out to individuals were stolen from a car here Tuesday.

Mrs. Glen Gale, 1405 Eleventh, reported that checks made out to Daniel Sparks for $60.50 and to Monroe Casey for $56.94 were taken from her car while it was parked at 1905 Runnels.

Police officers were investigating the incident today.

Highway booster agency may be established here

Plans for a Highway Boosters organization, to provide support for all local highway associations, are being considered by Chamber of Commerce leaders, Bill Quimby, manager, announced today.

There are three highway organizations now operating here. They are the Henry Ford Memorial (U. S. 87 Highway Assn., the U. S. 87 Highway Assn., and the U. S. 87 Improvement Assn. Each attempts to secure financial support by enlisting members.

If the new agency is set up, its membership dues will be distributed among the individual unit on the basis of Big Spring quotas for membership in national and regional associations, Quimby explained.

Big Spring's quota for the Henry Ford Memorial Assn. is $350 this year. Quota for the U. S. 87 Assn. is expected to be set in the next few weeks. A relatively small sum is required for the U. S. 87 Improvement Assn., which functions only in Texas and north-eastern New Mexico in an effort to encourage state governments to improve the highway in this area.

The Henry Ford Memorial Highway Assn. and the U. S. 80 Highway Assn. function nationally and their objective is to encourage travel on the two highways.

John Taylor Named To Kothmann Staff

John Taylor of Big Spring has been appointed one of the area campaign chairmen for Glenn H. Kothmann of San Antonio, candidate for state agriculture commissioner.

Other regional campaign aides named by Kothmann, a state representative from San Antonio, are George Thurmond of Del Rio, Jack Taylor of San Antonio, John R. Reeves of San Antonio, and Chico Mason of Corpus Christi.

Vending Machines In Cafe Looted

Burglars took an undetermined amount of change from vending machines in a cafe here during the night.

Police officers said that three vending machines at Cline's Cafe, 303 E. 3rd, were broken into, but the amount of change confiscated was not known. The burglars removed part of a vent fan from the back wall of the cafe to gain entrance.

INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATION

40 Girls Entered In Beauty Pageant, Fireworks On Hand

Forty girls have entered competition for the 1958 Miss Big Spring and Miss Howard County titles, and about 20 others are expected to enter the contests. Business & Professional Women's Club leaders said today.

Outstanding beauties of the city and county will be selected at the annual Fourth of July Beauty Pageant, to be staged in the City Park Amphitheatre.

B&P officials said 53 merchants have signed up to sponsor the contestants in the two divisions of the pageant.

The pageant, to start at 8:15 p.m., and the traditional Independence Day fireworks display, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will highlight the holiday observance here as they have for several years. The fireworks show, to be staged on the hillside in front of the amphitheatre, will follow the pageant.

Fireworks, including five elaborate ground displays and nearly 100 aerial pieces, already have arrived, said Bill Quimby, Chamber manager.

Girls who have entered the contest are being urged to have photographs made. Appointments can be secured at either Bradshaw Studio or Barr Photocenter. There will be no charge for the photographs, except for prints the contestants might wish to purchase.

Contestants also must report to either the Swartz store or Ruth Dyer Beauty Shop in order that they can be measured. Wilma Richbourg is in charge of the measurement work at Swartz's and Ruth Dyer is recording the measurements at her establishment.

The B&PWC is lining up prizes to be awarded winners of the first three places in each division of the pageant. A program of entertainment also is being arranged.

A few additional sponsors can be accommodated if the number of entries reaches the expected 60, club officials said. Merchants who wish to participate should contact Miss Richbourg at Swartz's or Edith Gray at the Chamber of Commerce.

M. E. Byerley Dies Tuesday

M. E. Byerley Sr., former long-time resident of Howard County, died Tuesday afternoon in Bend, San Saba County, following a second heart attack. He had sustained the first attack more than a week ago.

Mr. Byerley entered the Texas & Pacific Railway service in 1923 and was made a car inspector in 1924. He established an insurance agency and upon his retirement from the railroad operated it before selling in 1953 to Tate, Bratton & Parks.

Mr. Byerley bought a ranch in San Saba County about five years ago and had made his home there with his wife. She survives him as do two sons, M. E. Jr., and H. W., both of Big Spring; and a daughter, Mrs. Jim Boswell of Plainview.

Services will be at 9 a.m. Thursday at the Methodist Church in Bend and interment will be following graveside rites at 4 p.m. Thursday at Trinity Memorial Park.

The family will gather here at the home of M. E. Byerley Jr., 1708 Morrison Drive.

County Jail Being Kept Nearly Full

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that the county jail has been kept almost filled to capacity for the past several weeks.

"We have been holding 35 to 40 prisoners a day," he said, "which is far above the average. I do not know how it happens but we have more men business recently than in many weeks."

Tuesday night, nearly all available cell space in the jail was in use. What prisoners are released each day are usually offset by the new inmates checked in.

Forgery Suspect Takes Refuge In Ladies' Lounge

A 22-year-old Negro woman, wanted for forging a check, made an unsuccessful effort to evade arrest by hiding in the ladies lounge at the bus station Tuesday afternoon.

Officers were a little frustrated but succeeded, through assistance of bus station employes, in routing the fugitive from her hiding place.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that the woman, with three small children, cashed a forged check for $50 at Hull & Phillips food store. When it was ascertained the check was no good, a search for the woman followed.

She had gone to the bus station with a small mountain of luggage and purchased a ticket to California. The officers closed in before the bus left and she retreated to the ladies lounge.

She was being detained in the county jail and her luggage, which had gone on before, was halted in Midland and returned to the sheriff Wednesday morning. The three minor children had been farmed out in temporary homes pending disposition of the case against the mother.

Easement Given For Water Line

Right-of-way easement for a water line from the Big Spring main into the new Howard County Airport was granted to the county on Tuesday by J. T. Sherrod, across whose property the line will pass.

The right-of-way calls for a strip of land 40 feet wide and approximately half a mile in length. The contractors are ready to lay a six-inch line into the airport.

Water service onto the project is a key need in getting construction in action, contractors have said. The county commissioners met Monday night to agree to provide an addition of $750 above the original $1,000 earmarked for the special meter at the point of connection with the main.

Queen candidates and their sponsors include Klata Woodul, Kiwanis; Judy Shofner, Sparenburg Mercantile Store; Joy Nichols, Dawson Palmetto Polo Club; Betty Burleson, Noon Lions; and Carol Beard, Evening Lions.

Contestants also must report to either the Swartz store or Ruth Dyer Beauty Shop in order that they can be measured. Wilma Richbourg is in charge of the measurement work at Swartz's and Ruth Dyer is recording the measurements at her establishment.

Auditorium Plans Almost Finished

Specifications and plans for re-planting the City Auditorium are being readied by the architect and will be sent to bidders in a short time.

City Manager H. W. Whitney said today that the revised plans had been turned back to Puckett & French for final touches. This work will include repainting the interior of the structure as part of the program outlined in the bond issue of 1955.

The city was ready to advertise for bids several weeks ago, but local paint distributors suggested some changes, and the city considered them.

State Hospital Orientation Class Reset For July 1

The state hospital volunteer workers' orientation course announced Tuesday has been postponed today. The new date is July 1.

The unexpected change in plans came when Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the hospital, received word of a conference with head of the state hospital system on the day of the proposed orientation date.

Dr. Harrison is on the orientation program for two key parts, said Mrs. Ira Thurman, coordinator of volunteer services, and she felt it wise to set another time when he could be present.

The orientation program, which was announced originally for next Monday before its postponement, is designed to acquaint volunteers with the various problems and objectives of the hospital. More than three score people have completed the course and have put in over 20 hours each in volunteer service to patients at the hospital.

CIA Never Makes Alibis To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A money-conscious Congress bestows an estimated 350 million dollars a year on an agency so secret only a handful of the highest officials know how the money is spent. The hush-hush expenditures are charged off to the high cost of spying. And the supersecret outfit is the Central Intelligence Agency.

The CIA operates a vast American espionage network in an atomic-age world when the mere scrap of information could mean the difference between survival and annihilation.

So rigid is the secrecy that when Congress grumbles over failures, real or imaginary, the CIA takes it in silence. It never alibi. We never explain.

To alibi or explain might reveal a source and endanger the undercover legion of men and women who gather its information throughout the world.

The CIA is unique among American governmental agencies. Its estimated budget of 350 million dollars is little better than a reasonably good guess. No one outside the highest official circles can say for sure.

MORE THAN DIPLOMATS But, if the estimate is correct, it is 130 million dollars more than the State Department spends on its 282 diplomatic outposts around the world.

Only a handful of top executives in the government know exactly how many people work for the CIA.

The State Department has about 16,000 American employees. It has been estimated that the CIA has almost as many. But, again, an outsider cannot say for sure.

(The Soviet Union is believed to be spending six times as much as the CIA on espionage. And up to 45,000 Soviet agents are said to be directly engaged in spying.)

Comparisons drawn between CIA and State are particularly apt. Each is run by a man named Dulles.

CIA Director Allen Welsh Dulles, 65, brother of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, is a heavy-set man with a bushy, white walrus-type mustache. He tells friends his sole ambition in government is to stay on as intelligence chief until he dies. He's headed the CIA for 5½ of its nearly 11 years of existence.

Allen Dulles' job is unique in at least one respect. He can write a check for a million dollars without telling even the government accounting office exactly why he is spending the money.

ONLY A VAGUE IDEA Most congressmen, who watch financial matters like a detective eyeing a pickpocket, have only a vague idea of how much the CIA spends and what it spends it for. Yet each year the agency's budget is appropriated promptly.

The exact figure is known to six senators and representatives who form the special subcommittee that handles CIA finances. They alone of Congress see the agency's detailed budget.

Why spend so much on espionage? Like everything else, the cost of spying has shot up like the Sputniks and missiles that make it urgently necessary.

Only a small percentage of CIA funds go to pay the salaries of Nuclear Scientist Sees Old Friend

COPENHAGEN (AP)—American nuclear scientist Robert Oppenheimer flew into Copenhagen Tuesday night for a reunion with Denmark's grand old man of atomic physics, Dr. Niels Bohr. Oppenheimer, chief of America's wartime atomic bomb development, and Bohr, Nobel prizewinner and head of the Danish Institute of Theoretical Physics, have been personal friends for more than 30 years. During the war they worked together on the American nuclear bomb program.

French-Tunis Peace Aided By Troops Pact

TUNIS (AP)—Long troubled relations between France and Tunisia are expected to improve markedly as the result of an agreement to withdraw a third of the French troops in this former protectorate and concentrate the rest at Bizerte.

The agreement also should improve the West's position in the key North African republic. President Habib Bourguiba has been handicapped in trying to keep Tunisia on a pro-Western course by the troops' presence, which was considered a threat and an affront to national sovereignty.

The agreement announced last night provides that 7,000 French soldiers will be out of the country within four months, French officials said. The remaining 15,000 will be stationed at the Bizerte naval and air base, which now is manned by 12,000 men.

A Tunisian government spokesman said over the 7,000 are gone, talks will open on the status of the Bizerte base. The West wants to keep it in French hands for use if necessary by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Since February, Tunisian forces have blockaded Bizerte and other French military posts in the country.

Before Tunisia was granted independence March 20, 1956, France had 40,000 troops here. She kept 22,000 on, under terms which were supposed to be negotiated later, to help protect Tunisia and in hopes of stopping aid to rebels in neighboring Algeria.

French planes bombed a Tunisian border village Feb. 8 on the ground it harbored Algerian rebels, killing 79 civilians, and Bourguiba demanded immediate evacuation of all French troops. A makeshift Tunisian militia blockaded the French in their bases near Tunis and at Bizerte, Sfax, Gabes, Gafsa and Remada. Several clashes occurred at Remada in the southern desert.

Wilma Cole Receives Special Scholarship

Texas Christian University has announced a special scholarship to Wilma Frances Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cole, 700 Tulsa Road.

Miss Cole, who plans to major in foreign languages at TCU, was on the A honor roll at Big Spring High School throughout her high school career. She was a student member of the organizing committee for the National Honor Society chapter in the high school and won honorable mention in "Who's Who." She also was valedictorian of her freshman class.

The special high school scholarships are given by TCU to high school graduates who have demonstrated superior performance in various school activities.

A newsman going to the source invariably runs into the tight secrecy surrounding the heart of the operation.

RECORD ESTIMATED But from other sources, including congressional, it is possible to estimate the CIA record on nine important world developments of the past three years.

The scoreboard: Soviet satellites—Excellent. The CIA warned for a year that the Soviet Union was capable of launching its first Sputnik in 1957. Missiles—Good. But the agency was conservative in forecasting the size and thrust of Soviet rockets.

Anti-Nixon riots in Latin America—Very good. But the CIA apparently failed to foresee the dangerous disorganization of the new Venezuelan police force.

Indonesian revolt—Excellent. Soviet nuclear test ban—Excellent. Bulgaria - Khrushchev reshuffle—Very good. The CIA not only forecast this three months earlier but it fingered Frol Kozlov as a fast-rising Kremlin newcomer.

Hungarian revolt—Fair. The CIA reported signs of mounting unrest in Hungary but even it was surprised when the people actually revolted.

Suez war—Good. The CIA predicted British and French troops would invade Egypt a few days before they did.

Suez Canal seizure—Not good. The CIA failed to estimate fully Nasser's reaction to the withdrawal of a proposed U. S. loan for construction of the Aswan dam. (Tomorrow: Who works for the CIA?)

Nagy Death Raises Question Of What Happens To Kadar

By CARL HARTMAN BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—The execution of Imre Nagy raises the question of what will happen to his collaborator and successor, Janos Kadar, the current Communist boss of Hungary.

Nagy and Kadar were both considered Titoists, Communists who thought the local parties should be allowed to depart from Moscow's dictates to meet local conditions.

At the start of the 1956 revolt, they worked closely together. When Hungary's Communist party command reorganized in the midst of the crisis, Kadar became the party chief, a job he still holds. He was a member of Nagy's Cabinet and presumably backed its measures.

Kadar in speeches and interviews supported the revolt. Then he broke with Nagy to collaborate with the Soviet forces which installed him in power.

After Nagy took refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy, Kadar gave him a safe-conduct and arrested Nagy when he left the embassy.

Many observers believe that Kadar had promised Yugoslav President Tito there would be no trial for Nagy. As recently as April 3 Kadar brushed off the whole question of Nagy in a talk with this correspondent, saying it was "not of current interest."

He added that the ex-premier was at a health resort he had wanted to go to. He implied the whole matter ought to be forgotten.

What happened to revive it? Most observers here and in Belgrade believe the executions to be the result of the quarrel between Moscow and Tito. But what remains unclear is the wider picture of which this strike at Tito and Titoism is a part. Here are some of the questions being asked:

1. Was the trial of Nagy meant to make no less than two optimistic observations concerning things or people each day?

It was scarcely noon—and really too early to look on the bright side of anything—but already Stan had made at least one optimistic observation.

"I was reading the financial pages this morning," he said. "I noticed a couple of things that looked good. I'm telling you about it. That's an optimistic observation."

One of the club's credos, carried on the back of the membership card, reflects its philosophy in the words of a Greek philosopher named Epicletus: "He is a wise man who does not grieve for the things which he has not, but rejoices for those which he has."

"He's right," said Stan. "People never seem to take the time to stand back and look at the good side of life. It's too easy to see the gloomy side."

Stan doesn't expect optimistic observations to chase every stray cloud of gloom, economic or otherwise, out of the country. But the club is no joke to him either.

Seventeen young men were being outfitted with acreage measurement equipment yesterday in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, and the majority of them will be touring Howard County today figuring acreage totals.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, 23 men over 18 years of age applied for measuring jobs and by Monday morning 17 had been hired, said Gabe Hammack, manager.

Wendall Warren, district performance supervisor from Colorado City, gave classroom instruction to the group on the first day, and Friday the men were taken to the fields for actual experience.

Carrying three crews on the demonstrations were Virgil Little, R. E. Haney, and James C. Barr.

Tests were given Saturday including questions in regard to measurement figuring, and 17 filled out qualifications.

ASC manager Hammack extends thanks to the farmers for their past cooperation with the measurement reporters—cooperation which has resulted in efficient measurement, he said.

A Bible Thought For Today

Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law; that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. (Romans 3:19)

Amendment May Face Tough Sledding

If the action of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce directorate may be taken as a straw in the wind, the double-barreled approach to the proposed state resources advertising constitutional amendment may be its undoing.

Wrapped together in one package are tourist development and industrial promotions. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce reaches a decision today in Abilene on what stand to take toward this proposed amendment and it is probable they will affirm the local stand—opposition to the measure.

There is widespread sentiment—in a good part of West Texas, at least—in favor of the state advertising its tourists attractions. Those with key highways such as ours realize full well the importance of tourist business. As the Big Bend gains in popularity, the area will experience the happy feeling of feeding traffic into it.

But the industrial advertising is something else again. Chief beneficiaries of such an advertising program, most in this area suspect, would be the Gulf Coast. Thus, all the state would be taxed to benefit primarily one region of it. Moreover, the divergence of interests and potentialities would make it difficult to sustain anything but watered-down generalities in a national industrial advertising campaign. Finally, the WTCC has found that most industrialists look for a lot more than an advertisement in locating a plant. In short, most of them know more about specific areas and communities than the ad-makers.

The tourist trade, representing a mass market, is susceptible to effective advertising, but whether sprawling and versatile Texas can be wrapped into a single industrial advertising package is quite another thing. Enough Texans may feel the two should be divorced that the amendment may be beaten at the polls.

Car Insurance High? Brace Yourself!

Aside from the 40,000 lives and 2,525,000 injuries and the incalculable property damage involved in traffic accidents in 1957, there was a tremendous financial burden in the form of public liability insurance premiums inflicted on American motorists.

And if you think your last premium on this insurance was outrageously high—and it was—wait until you get your next bill. It will be from 15 to 30 per cent higher than the last you paid.

F. Darby Hammon of Dallas, executive director of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, made up of 70 fire and casualty companies operating in Texas made this prediction the other day.

Who sets the figures higher and higher? Well, you, the great American motorist help set them. Like all other forms of insurance they are adjusted to the losses paid out by the insurance companies, otherwise the companies would have to go out of business.

Mr. Hammon pointed out that insurance companies are paying out in Texas $116.90 in claims and expenses for every $100 they receive in premiums. The new rates, effective in August, will have to be adjusted upward to cover that excess of outgo over income.

As a motorist, by your own carelessness or recklessness as a driver, or by some other driver's recklessness which makes you an innocent victim, you help to push premium rates higher and higher.

Or if you sit on a jury and join in awarding excessive damages in a suit for personal injuries—some jury awards have run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars—you have contributed to the spirit of "sock the insurance companies" which has spread over the land. As a motorist, you pick up your share of the cost; you, as well as the insurance companies, get socked.

Many factors enter into the rising cost of public liability and property insurance premiums. There undoubtedly are some instances of collision somewhere down the line to run the cost of repairs higher than justified, and this too enters into the cost of your insurance premium.

Finally, a good-sized slice of the bill is due to reckless and irresponsible driving habits of American motorists—perhaps the lion's share of it.

Improve your driving habits, and you automatically remove some of the pressure that is driving premium rates higher and higher. Traffic safety is a personal thing in more ways than one.

David Lawrence

What Is 'Ethical' In Washington?

WASHINGTON—What's "proper" and "improper" in the Washington world—and what's "ethical" and "unethical"? Judging by the headline publicity given to the Sherman Adams case in the last few days and to the General Vaughan episode during the Truman administration, it is "improper" for any official to do for a friend what he would do for a stranger.

General Vaughan, who was military aide to President Truman, was unjustly maligned for accepting a "deep freeze" and other gifts from old friends who happened to have business relationships with the government. This correspondent wrote on August 17, 1949, in defense of General Vaughan as follows:

"General Vaughan presumably has the right to speak for the White House. If the words 'military aide' had been dropped from his title and he had acted simply as one of the many civilian assistants at the White House, it is doubtful whether much fuss would have been stirred up about his activities. As one of the President's assistants he has had the right to telephone to or confer with anybody about anything happening in the government.

"The impropriety, if any, on General Vaughan's part was in going beyond the functions of a military aide, though again and again in the past military aides have acted virtually as super-secretaries.

"The acceptance of gifts in itself cannot be held to be improper unless in some way the gift can be proved to have been related to some governmental action taken. If, indeed, it can be proved that it was a bribe, then the laws already on the statute books can take care of such cases."

No such proof was ever offered in the case of General Vaughan.

Sherman Adams, chief aide to President Eisenhower in the work of the executive offices, is a man of integrity. The President is convinced he is. The mere fact that Mr. Adams may have accepted gifts and hospitality from a long-time friend is not evidence either of corruption or of the exercise of an improper influence by Mr. Adams upon any of the independent governmental bodies mentioned in the case. To insinuate or infer that there was corruption is to libel Mr. Adams. Congressional committees are, however, immune from libel prosecutions. Thus reputations can be irreparably damaged by statements made by members of congressional committees or their staffs in giving "smear" news to the press.

In this instance the information as to what Mr. Adams really did was not handled by the House committee in such a way that his answer could be given to the public the same day the charges were made. The accusations were widely spread before the rebuttal could be presented. The implications of wrongdoing were not supported by any proof of undue influence.

The House of Representatives, by resolution, in March 1955 modified its own rules and provided that evidence which might "tend to defame or to degrade" an individual must be submitted in private session and an opportunity afforded the person involved to submit a rebuttal. This rule was violated by the House committee in the Adams case even after attention was called to the rule. For there was no "evidence" of any wrongdoing.

Incidentally not so long ago the so-called "liberals" were crying out vehemently against the doctrine of "guilt by association" and against "innuendoes" publicly made against individuals who had not had a previous opportunity to know of the charges being made against them before congressional committees or to answer such charges before degrading publicity was issued.

The reason for all this of course, is politics. The Republicans in the 1952 campaign referred often to the charges of corruption which they said had happened under the Truman regime. Now the Democrats are striking back.

Plainly, if Sherman Adams had thought at the time that there was anything wrong in accepting presents or hospitality from an old friend, he would have avoided any such embarrassment. Likewise, if he had believed it was improper for him to phone a governmental agency to make an inquiry about a friend's case, Mr. Adams would never have done it. Theoretically, he should have rejected any hospitality or gifts at Christmas from every friend and should have said: "I am sorry, but, if I take the gifts and someday you need an introduction to any government official—to which you would be justly entitled—I will not be able to do for you what I could do for a perfect stranger."

Many members of Congress frequently accept gifts and hospitality from their constituents who have legislation pending in the Senate or the House. Is this "proper" or "improper"? It certainly is not on its face evidence of corruption but only a striking example of how "guilt by innuendo" can impair the right of every individual to be considered honest until proved dishonest.

Horse Loses Again

OWENTON, Ky. — The machine has won the latest battle in the old war between the horse and the machine.

Dave Agee's horse fell in a gully on his farm and, try as he did, the horse couldn't get out. It was hopeless.

But a machine—a wrecker—did the job in nothing flat.

Now It's Goldfine's Turn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine, millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, got special treatment which, under the law, no citizen is entitled to. That's the main point disclosed so far in the Adams-Goldfine case.

The White House—through presidential press secretary James Hagerty—said June 13 the real issue is whether the wealthy businessman got preferential treatment from a government agency as a result of his friendship with Adams.

There is no evidence that any agency ruled in favor of Goldfine because he was Adams' friend, but there is evidence he got confidential government information he could not have hoped to get without Adams' help.

The Goldfine and Adams families have been friends for years, at quite some expense to Goldfine. He paid more than $2,000 hotel bills for Adams, gave him a vicuna coat worth $700, and lent him a very expensive Oriental rug.

Goldfine, a textile manufacturer, got into trouble with the Federal Trade Commission for alleged mislabeling of his product. He went to see Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant.

Adams—in a letter to a House subcommittee investigating government agencies—said on June 12 that Goldfine came to him in 1953 with a letter from the Federal Trade Commission and asked what prompted it.

(Why Goldfine, if he didn't want special treatment, didn't go directly to the FTC and ask that question hasn't been revealed yet because he has not been called before the committee to testify. He will be.)

Adams said he called FTC Chairman Edward F. Howrey and asked if the information Goldfine wanted could be made available. Then Adams in his letter said Howrey sent him a memorandum which he turned over to Goldfine.

But when Adams himself went before the committee Tuesday, this is what the committee counsel, Robert Lishman, told him:

Howrey, in his memorandum to Adams, revealed the name of the company which had filed a complaint with the FTC against Goldfine. Lishman said disclosing such information was a double violation of:

Nightmares At The Summit

NEW YORK — Would you like to be a captain of industry? The idea of serving as president of a giant business firm—a firm with only five employees is a giant if the town it serves is small enough—appeals to many.

They see themselves as a glamorous big wheel surrounded by many small cogs desperately anxious to please. They see the executive life as one of endless power, plenty, prestige and leisure.

Perhaps it actually was that way in the old days when a boss didn't rate as a tycoon until after he had bought his second yacht.

But today, Ah, no. Many a modern magnate has found that achievement of the great American dream—to run a big business—has many nightmare aspects.

Let us take a typical mythical example—Mr. Alonzo Q. Quagmire, president of the Acme Tidywinks Co.

In an off-the-cuff interview, President Quagmire gives this picture of the private life of a captain of industry:

Q. Mr. Quagmire, do you feel any pressures in your post from stockholders, labor or government?

A. I did until I went numb.

Q. What do you think's the best thing an executive can do when he feels government is sticking its nose into his business?

A. Write 'em a hot letter on plain stationery—and forget to sign it. If you mail the letter, leave off the stamp.

Q. Are you afraid of your workers?

A. Last year yes; this year no.

Q. Are your workers afraid of you?

A. Not as afraid as I am of the stockholders.

Q. Mr. Quagmire, what are a few of your secret woes?

A. Well, if I get to work too early, they say I'm worried about my job, and if I get to work too late they think I've got a hang-over.

And if I get an ulcer, they say the job's getting me down. But if I don't get an ulcer they say I'm spending too much time on the golf course.

And if I don't hire five new vice presidents, they say I don't know how to delegate authority. But if I do hire five more vice presidents I know I'll have to spend most of my time watching them.

Q. Do you tell your employees funny jokes to keep up their morale?

A. Yes, but I figure the ones that laugh have a sense of loyalty—and it's the ones who don't laugh who have a sense of humor. I never could tell a joke well.

Q. What is the worst thing about being a boss?

A. You're so lonely. There's no one you can talk to. You can't even discuss the weather.

Q. Why?

A. Well, if you glance out the window and say to an employee, "Gee, it looks gloomy"—well, five minutes later a rumor is going through the plant that the firm's on the skids.

Q. What do you think is your greatest reward in your post?

A. I get a free parking space in front of my office.

Is Piston Engine To Follow Horse?

Considerable comment has been forthcoming on the dilemma of the automobile manufacturers—whether to press with their future designs or whether to regard the recent boom in foreign models and domestic smaller types as a firm shift in American tastes.

Since tastes and trends have to be anticipated two or three years in advance—at a minimum—guessing wrong can be a fearfully costly adventure.

Although its intrusion on the scene may be more subject to orderly anticipation, the gas turbine engine may present still another headache to makers of automobiles. Must the makers guess on this, too?

For some time now observers have been predicting that someday the gas turbine would be the most popular type of engine. Whether this is so remains to be seen, but some of the advantages that such an engine would have is simplicity of mechanism, fewer spare parts, easier servicing and overhaul, and simpler parts. This is because hot expanding gases are used to spin a turbine wheel directly as opposed to the multiplicity of moving parts in the piston or reciprocating engine.

Unleaded gasoline and liquefied petroleum gas appear to give better results than even the super-premium automotive fuel grades.

Until now, most of the gas turbine talk has been conditioned by cost. The turbine wheel, which must withstand tremendous heat, figured to cost around $4,000. Obviously, you wouldn't see many buggies going around with a piece of equipment at that price. But now this same wheel cost has been hammered down to slightly under $100, plus cost of blades.

Produce Engineering, a trade magazine, takes the view that as a result the automotive gas turbine is just a whole lot closer to extensive use on the highway.

One evidence that this may be true is the military's interest in the engine. One Army spokesman says that within two to four years use of the gas turbine engine will outpace the piston engine in tactical equipment where weight is important.

Manufacturers are confident enough that they are quoting performance guarantees. This could effect a saving in the cost of many defense projects, the magazine points out. Well, that won't be so bad, seeing as how that once held figure of a million bucks for a submarine is up to a $45,000,000 tab today and is apt to hit $100,000,000 by the time the complete, electronically controlled and atomically powered models come along.

Why Don't We Drop Adult Delinquency?

This practicing curmudgeon would like to serve notice on all communications media—newspapers, radio, television, magazines, stage and screen—that if she never again sees, hears or reads of certain public characters, she will still be able to lead a rich, full life.

I shall suffer no sense of intellectual or emotional deprivation if I never again see or hear of the Gabor, and that goes for all four of them. Yes, especially for each and all of them.

If it should be my extraordinary good luck never again to have to read about or look at Linda Christian or Barbara Hutton or Ingrid Bergman, their fluctuating domestic arrangements of their current traveling companions, I would somehow manage to bear up with an admirable fortitude.

Perhaps I am a dreamer of dreams, but if Jayne Mansfield and her whole entourage, both front and rear, were just quietly to go away, life could still be beautiful in these United States.

Perhaps I live a cloistered life, but somehow I managed to exist and still be happy without ever having heard of a Jerry Lee Lewis, complete with child bride, until a few weeks ago. I crave to return to that chambered nautilus.

As one interested in international affairs and national policy, it probably behooves me to keep an eye on Kim Nekavak, the junior Generalissimo Trujillo and their great and good friend, the Gabor who introduced them—such a touching formality—across a crowded room.

It is just possible that you and I, in our dull, grubby way, have a tax interest in the chinchilla coat and car that Trujillo Jr. bestowed upon the Gabor who introduced him to the Nobel, and in his subsequent substantial gifts to the latter.

If our government feels that the friendship of the dictator of the Dominican Republic is worth aid of approximately a million bucks a year, it seems highly probable that we taxpayers will have to grin and bear it, even if the Junior Trujillo spends about that sum annually on his pleasures in the U.S.A.

But is it asking too much of the nation's communications media not to make shining heroines and heroes and models of deportment of any and all of the above? The Trujillo revelations have acted as a pulmotor on the Gabor, en masse. It is impossible these days to turn on the teevee without being confronted by at least one member of this family or to open a family newspaper without yet another gossip columnist extolling their antics.

Is it at all surprising that adolescents feel that these characters constitute the flower and chivalry of our era? Or that my mail is full of letters from despairing parents, teachers and social workers who ask how it is possible to rear children in the straight and narrow path of responsible citizenship when the nation's news media present such characters as the ultimate in glamour and success?

Surely, it is possible for the American news media to stagger along without eternally featuring adult delinquency of this type. Can't we, even for a short spell, have a rest from these clinkers in the public eye?

Kennedy, Nixon Close In 'Trial Heat'

PRINCETON, N. J.—Sen John Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon run a neck-and-neck race today in an Institute "trial heat."

Two months ago—before Mr. Nixon's tour of South America during which he encountered mob violence at Caracas and Lima—Senator Kennedy had a clear lead over the Vice President.

Today, the vote of those persons who made a choice between the two men splits as follows:

KENNEDY VS. NIXON
	Per Cent
Kennedy	51
Nixon	49

Roughly one voter in 11 (9 per cent) is undecided between the two. Institute reporters asked voters this question: "Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If Vice President Nixon were the Republican candidate and Sen. John Kennedy were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

Of the three leading Democrats pitted against Mr. Nixon by the Institute since his return from Latin America, Sen. Kennedy is the only one who does not trail the Vice President.

The other two men, Sen. Estes Kefauver and former Gov. Adlai Stevenson, ran behind Mr. Nixon by the following votes, excluding those who were undecided:

KENNEDY VS. NIXON (EXCLUDING UNDECIDED)
	Per Cent
Stevenson vs. Nixon	47
Nixon vs. Stevenson	53

KEFAUVER VS. NIXON
	Per Cent
Nixon	55
Kefauver	45

Kennedy runs a stronger race against Nixon than Stevenson does, despite the fact that he trails the former Illinois governor as the choice of rank-and-file Democrats for the 1960 nomination.

In the survey published recently, Stevenson got 23 per cent of the vote of Democrats, while Kennedy was preferred by 19 per cent and Kefauver, in third place, by 16 per cent.

Senator Kennedy's greater strength is chiefly due to two factors: (1) His showing with the all-important Independent voters, and (2) His strength in the South.

Although Mr. Nixon has the lead among Independents, the Massachusetts Senator commands the support of nearly four out of 10 "switch voters"—more than that enjoyed by either Stevenson or Kefauver when they were pitted against the Vice President.

Here is how the Independent vote between Kennedy and Nixon splits today:

KENNEDY VS. NIXON (INDEPENDENTS ONLY)
	Per Cent
Nixon	47
Kennedy	53
Undecided	13

Another contributing factor in Kennedy's showing is the heavy endorsement he receives from Southern voters—again, more than the vote received there by either Stevenson or Kefauver.

Actually, Vice President Nixon is ahead of Kennedy in the other three major regions of the country—the East, Midwest and Far West.

Previous to today's survey, Senator Kennedy had enjoyed a clear lead over Mr. Nixon in trial heat races conducted by the Institute this year. Here is the trend of the vote since February, excluding those voters who were undecided:

Jess Talkin

by Jess Blair

WALL, S. D. —This little town is composed of tourist courts and service stations. Evidently it was built to stop the tourist as he enters or leaves the Badlands, which are just south of here. Today I entered the Badlands on the east side and followed the road about 20 miles until it came out on the north side.

The place is about like the pictures show it to be, but is not so pretty. I've never found a place yet that measured up to the picture post cards. However, the Badlands are desolate enough. All those domes in their weird shapes are made entirely of soil. There's not a rock out there big enough to throw at a bird.

There are no living eye witnesses to tell how they started but some expert figured it out like this. Away back yonder, say some 35 million years ago, the Rocky Mountains were much higher, and the torrential rains brought down enough silt to cover a vast plain. The climate was quite warm and wet, so the dinosaurs and other creatures took over. They roamed the great valley with its lush vegetation, and eventually died from old age or got up by something with sharper teeth.

The carcasses sank in the mud and were covered by the floods. Then, according to this expert, the climate made a big change. It turned dry for a spell, then got a bit wetter and the streams started washing through all this silt. The wind started blowing until today the wind and rain have etched weird patterns. And the erosion is still continuing. Eventually the Badlands will be worn down to a nub and the whole process will probably start all over again.

The floor of the Badlands is around 2,000 feet elevation and the peaks rise to about 3,500 at the highest place. However, mostly the buttes and peaks are little more than sharp hills. Each one has the same coloring, a yellowish red with horizontal streaks. It is almost impossible to walk through them because the slopes are so steep. Most tourists stay close to the road, for if a kid got lost out there he might be an old man before they found him.

Occasionally the deer and antelope wander down from the hills, and also eagles and prairie dogs. The only wildlife I saw was a little bird that looked like a Texas sparrow.

The area is supposed to be a good hunting ground for dinosaur bones and other fossils. I didn't see any but didn't look very close. I didn't have a shovel along.

From Sioux Falls to the Badlands, nearly 200 miles to the west, the land changes to a prairie and then back into hills again. I always thought of South Dakota as a prairie state, but only in one place for a distance of 20 miles did I see anything as flat as the plains.

This whole area has plenty of water. All along the road at every low place, one sees a pond of borrow pit with water. And there must be thousands of farm tanks. The government has helped ranchers and farmers build tanks, and they seem to be located on every pasture. They are all full and the dams covered with grass.

Along the road, instead of having Johnson grass or weeds, the yellow clover has taken over. It starts west of Sioux Falls and continues on to the Badlands. Some hillsides are a solid yellow with blooming clover.

Grass is high enough that I saw several farmers mowing it for hay. In some areas, particularly around Chamberlain, which is on the Missouri River crossing, there are hundreds of Hereford cattle, but then for five or 10 miles one won't see a cow.

Ranchers up here either like big cattle or the grass and climate cause them to grow big. Today in Mitchell there were several consignments of steers that weighed 1,700 pounds each. The cows grazing alongside the road would weigh 1,000 pounds or more.

In the eastern part of the state there were lots of hogs, but out here it's mostly cattle with some sheep. The land is more arid, farms farther apart and the houses almost isolated from one another. All this land is a part of the silty flood plain from which the Badlands were cut, so the soil is deep and fertile. However the rainfall is lighter and farming is marginal.

Back over at Mitchell where I spent last night, there are several Mennonites, sect of Russians who came over here long ago. They are a clannish sort and do not mix with the other people. They live on farms and have a sort of all-for-one and one-for-all way of doing things. They govern themselves, have their own schools, if any, and even make their own clothes. I didn't see any of the women so don't know what kind of styles they follow.

But they are good farmers and save their money. Merchants say they are a menace to the country, but mostly it's because they shop around and buy things where they are the cheapest. They do the same thing in selling grain or livestock. They pool the products and then sell to the highest bidder.

South Dakota recently passed a law forbidding them from buying any more land.

Tomorrow I'll go through the Black Hills. The place is swarming with tourists in July and August, but not many have wandered from the fireside yet; so it isn't hard to find a room. In a couple more weeks motel owners will start jacking the price up at least a dollar a room, cafes will pour more water into the coffee percolator and it will be open season on tourists.

One other advantage in coming through early. I've been spared the sight of fat women in shorts. With the thermometer down to 44 tonight, most of the tourists are well covered.

$31,800 Spent So Far On Land For FM 700 Extension

Howard County lacks only 5,361 acres of having obtained all of the right-of-way for the proposed east segment of FM 700.

This was determined by checking the right-of-way map and checking off tracts already acquired or tracts which are to be donated to the project.

The records of Lee Porter, county auditor, show that checks for $31,879.70 have been issued for 72,654 acres of the 90,815 acres in the right-of-way. The cost to the county so far has averaged $425 per acre.

Approximately 12.8 acres of the remainder are lands which will be donated to the county for the right-of-way. J. Y. Robb and others hold 6,813 acres of land in this category; Texas and Pacific Railroad has 4,783 acres; City of Big Spring has .858 acre and Texas Electric Service Co., .344 acre.

Of the remaining 5,361 acres, agreements have been reached on several tracts and only the formality of signing the easements and paying the agreed prices remains. The remainder of the acreage will have to be signed by agreement with the owners or through the process of condemnation.

Smaller tracts, where the road will practically rub out holdings of owners, are invariably more costly than are larger tracts. It is estimated unofficially, the right-of-way costs to the county will probably exceed $40,000.

The county entered into an agreement over a year ago with the Texas Highway Commission by which it agreed to acquire a 200-foot right-of-way extending north-east from U. S. 87 through the south edge of the city to connect with U. S. 90 near Cosden Refinery. A total of 90,815 acres had to be absorbed to provide the needed right-of-way.

The state has promised to build a hard-surfaced highway along this route. The plans as now drawn call for a two-lane road with the understanding that the highway commission will build a second parallel two-lane possibly in 1959.

Records of the county auditor show the following right-of-way acquisitions for which checks on the county have been drawn:

Worth Peeler and Joe Hamby, 10.5 acres, $2,100; Hartman Hooser, 13,204 acres, $3,961.20; J. C. Arnett, 17,808 acres, $3,561.60; C. R. Morris, .509 acre, $254.50; Pearl Cole and Jo Cole, 19,994 acres, $10,000; Elm Broadcasting Co., .343 acre, $500; J. H. McKinley, .635 acre, $600; R. B. G. Cowper, 1,462 acres, $1,733.20; Monticello Development Corp., .133 acre, $165.60; Otis Grafa and others, 1,436 acres, $861.60; Marshall Field and others, 3,274 acres, $2,619.20; Joe King and wife, .356 acre, $800; R. G. B. Cowper and others, .794 acre, $932.80; Omar Jones, 2,261 acres, $3,750.

The right-of-way map prepared by the State Highway Commission lists the following additional tracts needed for the right-of-way:

Horace Garrett, executor, .108 acre and .253 acre; Willie Ratliff,

.424 acre; J. M. Choate, 1,204 acre; J. E. Russell, .792 acre; L. L. Robertson, .284 acre; E. L. Jenkins, .732 acre and .461 acre; D. H. Calvert 1.103 acre; Texas Electric Service Co., .344 acre; J. Y. Robb and others, 6,813 acres; Texas and Pacific Railroad, 4,783 acres and City of Big Spring, .858 acre.

It is understood that arrangements have already been completed for the donation or purchase of several of these tracts but no checks have been issued.

United Fund Machinery Is Being Set Up

Organizational activities in preparation for the United Fund's 1958-59 subscription campaign will be getting under way soon.

Clyde McMahon, UF president for this year, has announced appointment of an executive committee to assist in over-all direction of the organization. This group includes R. V. Middleton, Bill Quimby, Champ Rainwater, Raymond River, K. H. McGibbon, Col. R. J. Downey, K. D. Hestes, John Currie, R. W. Whipkey and W. H. Wharton.

McMahon also announced appointment of Dan Krausse as chairman of the United Fund budget committee. This group shortly will be organized and will file dates for hearings with UF affiliated agencies to determine budget needs for next year. The UF currently raises and disburses money to the following organizations in the federated giving program: Red Cross, YMCA, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cancer Society, West Side Youth Center, Summer Recreational Program, and the Milk and Ice Fund.

The United Fund's quota for this fall's money-raising effort will be based on agency requirement. McMahon also said that appointment of a general campaign chairman is anticipated soon.

Library Committee Plans Improvements

LAMESA — The Library Committee of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon discussed needed improvement of facilities of the city-county library here.

The group, headed by Will Morris, is to meet again July 1 to map some definite strategy for facility improvement. Members of the committee in addition to Morris are Mrs. Jack McLaughlin, Mrs. Matt McCall, Ray Renner, Stansell Clement, Rev. Walter Horn, Abe Holder, A. J. McDaniel and Mrs. Ruth Brock.

TB Assn: To Get Report On Children's Clinic Work

Directors of the Howard County Tuberculosis Assn. will get a glimpse of some medical detective work at their meeting next Tuesday evening.

The board meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. Through a series of colored slides and a recorded talk by Dr. Katharine H. K. Hsu, pediatrician in charge of the Houston Children's Clinic, the bit of "detection" will be shown to the board.

Whenever a Houston child is found to have tuberculosis, Dr. Hsu and a team of specialists contact all members of the child's family and associates, checking each to find the original case of tuberculosis. About one-fourth of the people contacted are found to have tuberculosis—some have active, contagious cases.

By finding these cases, Dr. Hsu hopes to check the spreading of the disease from the active contagious cases, and to treat the disease while it is in its first, and therefore most easily curable, stages, in other cases.

Dr. Hsu, who is assistant professor of medicine at Baylor University College of Medicine, also aims at educating families in prevention and control of TB. A native of China, she was teaching pediatrics in Peking when she received a fellowship from the American Society of Pediatric Research. She did post-graduate work at the Cincinnati Children's Hospital and studied TB in children at the University of Pennsylvania's Phipps Institute before coming to Houston to begin the children's TB-control program.

Her present work is being done

Presbyterian Men To Hear Schreiner Institute Prexy

Dr. Andrew Edington, president of Schreiner Institute of Kerrville, will speak to the Men of the First Presbyterian Church at the laymen organization's first ladies night affair.

The occasion is set for 6:30 p.m. in the church recreation room on Tuesday.

Dr. Edington is a graduate of Southwestern (Presbyterian) College in Memphis, Tenn. and took his master of arts degree from the University of Alabama. Austin College conferred an LLD degree in college. Dr. Edington had lettered in football and track and he was coach at Springhill College when his team played the University of Miami in the dedication of the Orange Bowl.

He has travelled extensively in England, France, Germany, Africa, South America, Hawaii, Guam, Okinawa, Panama, and Mexico.

During World War II he saw service in both Atlantic and Pacific theatres in the Navy, and as a captain of an escort vessel, he

Couple Has It Made If Hobby Keeps You Young

By ANNE LEFEVER
If there is anything in the idea of the pursuit of a hobby keeping you young, the Dick Hoopers, 1703 Owens, will be perennial "kids."

Start Of Some Lovely Jewelry

The gem stone hobby began about three years ago when the Hoopers attended a show of gems in Odessa—just out of curiosity. The fever of searching for gems immediately hit them, and they purchased books on the subject of various deposits, made notes and planned their trip.

For a year, they mapped their course, and last year they used about three months for a "trip": complete camping equipment was settled in their station wagon—"everything but a bath." Mrs. Hooper remarked, and they camped wherever they found a place to their liking.

At one of their stops in North Carolina, they remember, the two inquired at a village jewelry store if the owner knew of any gem stones being found in the vicinity. "Jim Stones?" he repeated—no, I don't know him, but the sheriff knows everyone around here; he might be able to help."

Jasper, amethyst, agate and obsidian are shown in the display being discussed by Dick Hooper as Mrs. Hooper lends an ear. In the cases are agates, en cabochon; that is, cut and polished in convex form in contrast to facets, as diamonds are cut. The sphere on the table is a piece of obsidian, which the two found in California; about 35 hours were spent in forming the sphere, from first a chunk and then a cube. The collection of the Hoopers will be used some day in one of their hobbies—making jewelry.

Some study in which was mentioned a "hard substance" used by them of the Indians in Canada. The couple decided it just had to be jade, judging by the description. A bit of digging in the site showed they were correct in the calculations, and some beautiful jade jewelry is the result. Montana agate makes up part of the collection. This, as does all agate, has its special markings—a brown and beige color with a sprinkling of small black spots. Again, catch the light just right and in one of their star garnets, you'll see a six-ray star. The usual star garnets have four points in the shape of a cross, according to the searchers, who remarked that those having more than four points occur once in about 5,000 times. The Hoopers have found four, for which they feel quite lucky.

Stanton Baptists End Vacation Bible

STANTON — First Baptist Church, Stanton has just completed a 10-day vacation Bible school.

Members of Stanton High School visited Colorado's Royal Gorge on their recent tour. The trip included other points of scenic and historic interest in Colorado. Sponsors on the tour were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nowlin, Mrs. Jo Anne Weber and Wayne Grable.

Miss Jones Honored In Stanton

The Stanton home of Mrs. D. E. Ory was the scene Tuesday evening of a lingerie shower given for Janelle Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones. Sister of Mrs. Dean Forrest, 1706 East 15th, Miss Jones is the bride-elect of Ellis Wayne Britton, son of Mrs. Hoyt Britton of Stanton. The couple will be married Friday evening in the First Methodist Church in Stanton. Joining Mrs. Ory were her daughters, Mrs. Jimmy Henson, Mrs. Burley Polk and Mrs. Ray Simpson Jr. They presented the honoree with a corsage of yellow roses to adorn the yellow print frock which she wore. White net and satin covered the tea table where small pink bows caught the skirt at intervals. On the table stood a doll dressed as a bride and holding a gift; she was sheltered by a parasol to which were attached pastel colored streamers, each fastened down with a tiny nosegay. About 14 attended the informal affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fehler and Tommy returned Monday from a trip to Houston, Fort Worth and Waco. Highlight of the trip was attendance Saturday night in Houston at the wedding of their son, Gerral, to Mildred Eifer.

band is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Reynolds, 803 East 12th. Greeting guests at the door, Mrs. Irons presented the honoree, her mother and Mrs. Reynolds. The junior Mrs. Reynolds was attired in a sage green shirt-waister with her new monogram on the pocket.

Mrs. Bill Neal and Mrs. Toots Mansfield, aunts of the bride, alternated at the coffee service, while Mrs. H. R. Jarvis of Fort Worth served Cokes. The bottles "frosted", in effect, were gaily decked in tiny daisies. On the polished table, the centerpiece featured the same flower. Daisies were held in a wrought iron mailbox marked "The Reynolds," and love birds perched among the blossoms. This was presented to the bride by the hostesses.

Assisting with the hospitality were Mrs. H. F. Schwarzenbach, an aunt of the bride, Mary Ann Nugent, Sandra Sue Havens, JoAnn Ebling and Malinda Crocker.

Little Hope Of Settlement In Marine Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Shipowners and striking Marine engineers resume contracts talks today with little hope of a quick settlement in sight.

After a two-hour conference yesterday, Herbert L. Daggett, national president of the striking Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. told reporters: "We are pretty far apart as of now, and as of now there is no settlement in view. What they offered us is unacceptable from our point of view."

Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, who heads the shipowners committee, agreed the outlook was bleak.

"It looks to me," he said, "as if we can't meet their demands and as though they won't come down to what we are offering."

The strike entered its third day today on the East and Gulf coasts. The walkout of 1,700 engineers directly affects 294 ships.

Another 186 ships are affected because the companies that operate them follow the contract pattern set by the union and the 23 ship operators represented by the institute.

The engineers struck at midnight Sunday. They demand improved vacation benefits, wage increases, pension and welfare benefits and a job-security clause in case of ship transfers.

Present wages range from $493 to $1,052 a month.

Planning, Sniping Occupy Candidates

By WHITEY SAWYER
The Associated Press

Long-distance sniping and planning kept candidates occupied in Texas politics Wednesday.

W. Lee O'Daniel, candidate for governor, charged in a radio speech Tuesday the state's cash account has reached a deficit of 100 million dollars. He said if elected he would put the state on "a sound pay - as - you - go basis."

The former governor and U.S. Senator also planned to open his state campaign headquarters at Austin Saturday with a personal appearance.

Gov. Daniel spoke at Lubbock Tuesday. He called for a complete reappraisal of the state's law enforcement machinery to stem the rising tide of crime. He said the crime commission, whose establishment he recommended, is working at the job.

State Sen. Henry Gonzalez, also running for governor, attended a bingo party at San Antonio to raise money for his campaign.

William Blakley, candidate for the U. S. Senate, campaigned Tuesday at Sterling City, Big Spring, Stanton, Midland and Odessa. Wednesday he headed for Andrews, Lamesa and Lubbock.

He said at Odessa he believes the trend toward "more and more centralization and less and less local authority in government" must be halted if freedom is to continue.

Blakley's Longview backers planned a lot of hoopla for a rally Tuesday. They planned for a crowd of 5,000 with string bands and fireworks.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough remained in Washington, but planned to fly to Beaumont Thursday night and speak at the State Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention Friday. He planned to fly to Dallas for afternoon talks Friday.

He said he would campaign in Llano, Burnet, Mason and Brady Saturday, appear in Waco Saturday night and in Bell County Sunday.

Tuesday Yarborough's Austin headquarters released a statement by the senator backing a resolution protesting oil imports.

Grasshopper Battle Resumes

LUBBOCK (AP)—State-federal teams continued their attack today to stamp out the Panhandle area grasshopper plague which Gov. Daniel said is the worst in 20 years.

Daniel inspected the area. He said it was a disaster which would destroy much of the crops and grasslands in 26 Texas counties if the pests are not eradicated immediately.

The governor announced new efforts to stem the infestation will come from aid by the Highway Department, the Land Office and the National Guard.

State Agriculture Commissioner John White already has 25 men now engaged on eight spraying units in the area.

The Highway Department has agreed to pay its portion of spraying highways—favorite nesting places of the grasshopper.

Canadian Bridge Collapses, Plunging 16 Men To Death

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Two sections of a nearly finished six-lane bridge collapsed mysteriously yesterday in a tangled mass of steel, plunging at least 16 workmen to their death.

Two others were missing and 22 injured. It was 3:42 p.m. on a hot, sunny, windless afternoon when the two end sections of the 16-million-dollar Second Narrows Bridge over Burrard Inlet gave way without warning.

Forty construction workers were on the steel lacerwork of the pier-supported sections.

Suddenly, with a muted rumble, the temporary front supports of the foremost section crumbled and dropped the jutting end of the bridge 200 feet into the tide-churned inlet separating Vancouver and North Vancouver.

The strain jerked forward the concrete pier holding the section behind, and it nosed downward into the water. The two sections, each about 70 feet long, ended their collapse tilted crazily downward like a sagging W with their front part submerged and rear still on the supports.

An eyewitness, Edwin Leitch, said the "frightening roar of the collapse sounded like a continuous peal of thunder lasting about 15 seconds."

A huge crane which had been hoisting steel girders to the top of the bridge toppled and plummeted into the mass of tangled wreckage in the water below.

Some workmen were caught and killed in the tortured, twisted beams. Others were crushed beneath tons of steel and concrete after they dropped into the 40-foot-deep inlet.

One survivor, Don Mitchell said after riding the first section down that "everything happened so quickly there was little sensation of fear."

Bill Hallman, who was driving over the old Second Narrows Bridge 200 yards downstream, said, "The air was filled with shouts and cries . . . The men didn't have a chance."

"When they hit the water I could see some grasp for pieces of driftwood. It appeared about half of the men were trapped under water by the bridge sections. Others were swept away by the current."

Cause of the collapse was not known nor was a damage estimate available. Officials of the Dominion Bridge Co., the contractor, launched an immediate investigation. Atty. Gen. Robert Bonner appointed Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the British Columbia Supreme Court to make an inquiry.

The giant two-mile bridge four miles from downtown Vancouver was more than two-thirds finished and was to have been opened for travel in the autumn. Construction work began two years ago.

GM Computer Aid To Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Electric Co. has developed a new kind of airborne computer which it said would make a modern fighter-bomber nearly automatic.

As described at a meeting of military electronics specialists Tuesday, the digital computer can:

1. Help the pilot navigate from his base to the target.
2. Choose the particular weapon to be employed, and prepare it for firing.
3. Control the approach maneuvers of the plane as it nears the target.
4. Release a bomb or missile at the proper moment with regard to altitude, wind velocity, distance from the target and other conditions.
5. Select the best altitude and speed, from the standpoint of fuel economy, for the flight home.
6. Direct the aircraft back to its base.

BACK TO JERUSALEM

The Church of Christ was established A.D. 33. Before it had been in existence very long, it was corrupted by the doctrines and commandments of men.

This brought on the apostasy which resulted in the Dark Ages, in which time the people were denied the right to read and study the Bible for themselves.

About the fifteenth century people began to revolt against this corrupt institution. This movement resulted in denominationalism.

Finally, in the early part of the 19th Century some men decided to go back to Jerusalem where the Church was first established, learn what the first Christians said and did, (since they were under the personal supervision of the apostles) and imitate them.

This is what we propose to do: therefore, we do not practice some things that others do. For instance, we do not have instrumental music in our song service, our teaching service is carried on as the apostles directed, consequently we do not practice the "class" method of teaching as is done by even some Churches of Christ.

Evangelists are to establish congregations. They are violating scripture to settle at one place and pastor a church. We support the evangelist in his field of work; but do not maintain him to do the teaching in the local congregation.

We invite everyone to attend these meetings, to hear

Trujillo Strains

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic (AP) — U.S. Army to grant Rafael Trujillo's son a diploma in international relations between the government and the military.

Both houses of Congress have extraordinary sessions for U.S. congressmen. The expensive program of Rafael Trujillo's son, Kim Novak, is a diplomat. A spokesman would "adopt" by the national assembly.

Thirty Dominican officers also were from U.S. military assignments because was denied a U.S. Command College at Ft. Belvoir, Ind. Charles I. Trujillo said Trujillo the course appeal social activities terminated.

Young Trujillo country's air force has been named head of chiefs of staff. Alvarez Main

BUZ SAWYER

IT LOOKS VERY SUSPICIOUS, COMMANDER PETROVICH. THE RED AIR FORCE STATES POSITIVELY THAT NO YAK-4 BEARS THE NUMERALS FOUND ON THE MYSTERY PLANE.

WHAT ABOUT THE CREW MEMBERS?

WASHED! WE BELIEVE THE PLANE WAS FLOWN IN BY AN AMERICAN, FOR HOW ELSE COULD A WRAPPER FROM A PIECE OF AMERICAN CHEWING GUM GET INTO A RUSSIAN MILITARY PLANE?

AND WHAT'S THE LATEST ON CHESSKOV?

WE THINK HE'S GETTING MESSAGES HIDDEN IN CHALET BUTTS. HE PICKS UP A BUTT DROPPED BY A "STRANGER". AFTER LIGHTING HIS OWN CIGARET, HE DOESN'T THROW THE BUTT AWAY, HE KEEPS IT.

VERY SUSPICIOUS.

DIXIE DUGAN

STEWARDSSES—WE'RE LANDING HELP!

HUMOR HIM—BELIEVE AND I THOUGHT HE WAS ONLY KIDDING.

I'VE GOT TO GO IN WITH YOU—

WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?? YOU'RE THE PILOT! YOU SHOULD BE FLYING THE PLANE!!!

EASY, FELLA—

THERE'S A LEAK IN THE PIPE OVER THE WATER HEATER.

YOU'LL NEED THE STEP-LADDER AND A WRENCH.

OKAY, DEAR.

NOW, GET UP ON THE LADDER AND REACH BEHIND AND TIGHTEN THE TOP NUT WITH THE WRENCH.

GOOD— THAT STOPPED THE LEAK IMMEDIATELY.

THANK YOU, DEAR.

YOU'RE WELCOME.

ANNIE ROONEY

MY GRACIOUS, IF MY SISTER MAUDE COULD SEE THIS LITTLE GARDEN SHE'D LAUGH HER HEAD OFF! SHE HAS THE MOST HEAVENLY FLOWERS AROUND HER LOVELY HOME—

YOUR SISTER?? I DIDN'T KNOW YOU HAD A SISTER.

MAUDE NEVER MARRIED— SHE IS WHAT THEY CALL A CAREER WOMAN— SHE'S VERY BRILLIANT AND IS QUITE WEALTHY—I HAVEN'T SEEN HER IN YEARS—

DOESN'T SHE WANT YOU TO COME AN VISIT HER?

OH, YES— SHE'S QUITE LONELY— SHE'S ALWAYS WRITING US TO COME AND LIVE WITH HER, BUT OF COURSE THE CAPTAIN WOULD NEVER, NEVER DO THAT—

SNUFFY SMITH

...WHY DON'T YOU STOP AT THE CLUB AND DELIVER THE MESSAGE YOURSELF? I BELIEVE SHE'D APPRECIATE IT!

YOU... REALLY THINK SO?

REX MORGAN

IT'S STRANGE THAT YOU SHOULD ASK ME THAT QUESTION, REX? I'VE BEEN YEARS SINCE JUDITH ASKED ABOUT HER MOTHER!

DOES SHE KNOW THAT MARTHA'S ALIVE— THAT SHE'S BEEN A PATIENT AT STATE HOSPITAL?

FRANKLY, I DON'T KNOW! IT'S BEEN TOO RAINFUL A SUBJECT TO DISCUSS! CONSEQUENTLY, I NEVER MENTION MARTHA'S NAME!

WHY ARE YOU ASKING THESE QUESTIONS, REX?

MARTHA HAS RECOVERED FROM HER ILLNESS, BELIEVE ME. SHE'S READY FOR DISCHARGE FROM THE HOSPITAL!

POGO

I'M HERE TO TELL YOU I AIN'T GOIN' TO NO MOON.

Trujillo Failure Strains Relations

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Failure of the U.S. Army to grant Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's free-spending diploma has strained relations between the Dominican government and the United States.

Both houses of the Dominican Congress have been called into extraordinary session to retaliate for U.S. congressional criticism of the expensive presents Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. gave movie stars Kim Novak and Zsa Zsa Gabor. A spokesman said the session would "adopt decisions required by the national dignity."

Thirty Dominican cadets and officers also were ordered home from U.S. military training establishments because young Trujillo was denied a diploma from the U.S. Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R-Ind.) said Trujillo failed to finish the course apparently because his social activities in Hollywood interfered.

Young Trujillo at 29 heads his country's air force and has just been named head of the combined chiefs of staff.

Alvarez Mainardi, president of the Dominican Press Assn., issued a statement saying if Rafael Jr. had been studying in the Soviet Union, he would have been awarded a diploma with honors.

The generalissimo said a diploma from a military school that has been converted into a political organ is not an honor to anyone. He added that Secretary of State Dulles has been too busy fighting Communist subversion to return inter-American relations to their high sense of justice and solidarity.

The elder Trujillo, this Caribbean nation's dictator for 28 years, has been staunchly anti-Communist. His military forces are mostly armed and trained by the United States under a military aid grant.

Old Fashioned?

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Paul D. Bagwell, Republican candidate for Michigan governor, plans to make a 236-mile stumping trip in a 1908 Oldsmobile. Bagwell says the car symbolizes the 1908 constitution under which Michigan operates and which he thinks should be revised.

DEAR ABBY

THE OTHER 5-7THS

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a week-end wife and I don't like it. My husband could very easily come home every night, but he says he is too tired to make it, so he stays in the city all week and comes home for the weekend. Our children hardly ever see him, and I get very lonesome, too. We've been married 17 years and I'm not bragging when I say people tell me I look like a girl of 25. I keep the house nice, always serve good meals, and have trained the children to be quiet and respectful. So why doesn't he come home? WEELEND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You are only 2-7 married. Find out more about what he is doing with the other 5-7 of his life. If necessary, get a place to live nearer to his work—but if you don't put a stop to being a weekend wife, your week end is your HEAD!

DEAR ABBY: My grandfather is always trying to hug and kiss my grandmother while watching TV in the evening. My mother acts disgusted, telling them to act their age. They are over 60 and I would like you to tell me if you think they are too old to hug and kiss. LINDA

Some Triangles Can Be Dynamite

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A lighted dynamite stick tossed at a young man by three college students had a belated backfire. The students got 30-day jail sentences.

Michael P. Starjack, Charles Witter and Kenneth Griffiths, all 19, were sentenced yesterday.

They had pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor assault charge, admitting they threw the explosive at the feet of Jerry Armstrong, 22, last March 2. Police said Armstrong is married to a former girl friend of Starjack's.

The explosive failed to go off, apparently due to a defective fuse.

Senate Approves Labor Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A broad labor control bill on which the Senate spent five long days headed today toward a lukewarm reception in the House.

The Senate passed the measure 88-1 last night.

House leaders privately gave the bill little chance of passage.

These sources said the House may well pass a union pension and welfare disclosure bill which cleared the Senate in April, but that this would be the extent of action in the labor field this year.

However, Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D-Ky.), chairman of the House Labor subcommittee, noted he already is going ahead with hearings on a general bill, and declared, "We are going to proceed diligently." He did not forecast his group would be able to report a bill for House action.

The Senate wrangled through three 12-hour days and an 11-hour session, and needed another seven hours to complete action on the final day. But members then praised their handiwork.

The lone opposition vote came from Sen. George W. Malone (R-Nev.).

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) hailed the measure as "one of the important landmarks of this Congress" and "a bill with which honorable men can live."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), chief author and floor manager, called the bill "an effective weapon in the hands of responsible leaders, honest members and the federal government in driving the racketeers and mobsters out of the labor movement."

Kennedy, aided by Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), cosponsor of the bill, was successful in fighting off practically every floor amendment he opposed. Most of these came from Republicans who insisted the bill would not accomplish the purpose of curbing labor racketeering and abuses of union power.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) chairman of the Rackets Committee, also helped the sponsors with his plea not to load the bill down with amendments which might kill it. But McClellan conceded he was dissatisfied with parts of the measure.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), who sparked the fight for many of the rejected amendments, said the bill represents "progress toward assuring the workers control of their own affairs."

Key provisions of the bill would require detailed financial reporting by unions, union leaders, middlemen and employers, provide for "secret" elections and limit terms of union officers, open a way to end union trusteeships over locals after 18 months, bar a person convicted of a felony from serving as a union officer unless pardoned, and make it a federal crime to embezzle union funds.

It would also ban use of union funds to promote an individual candidacy in an election, fix criminal penalties for failure to file the reports or for false entries in them, prohibit a loan of more than $1,500 from union funds to a union officer or member, and ban organizational picketing designed to shake down an employer.

Unions also are given in the bill two provisions they long have wanted. One would permit replaced strikers to vote in a bargaining election; the other would legalize agreements signed by a building trades union before the job begins.

Child Bride Is Mother At Age 11

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Charles William Turner Jr., 11, is a mother. Her marriage a year ago resulted in charges against her husband.

Mrs. Turner gave birth Saturday to a daughter, Pamela Ann, at the University of Missouri Hospital. Both Mrs. Turner and her daughter, who weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces, are reported in good condition.

Mrs. Turner and her husband, a 20-year-old employe of Columbia's transit system, were married a year ago last Wednesday. Turner was charged last July 17 with swearing falsely that his bride-to-be was 15 when they applied for a marriage license. The charge was dropped after Mrs. Turner became pregnant.

Boy, Grandfather Saved At Cave-In

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Two little brothers from Edna, Tex., were playing in a tunnel they had dug in the bank of a sand pit yesterday.

A slide buried John Valda, 8, under about two feet of sand. Richard, 12, escaped and ran 100 yards to the farm home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Valda.

Valda, 72, grabbed a shovel and rushed with Mrs. Valda and Richard to the tunnel. Valda, who has a heart ailment, collapsed.

Mrs. Valda and Richard uncovered John, who was unconscious, 15 minutes later.

Richard gave artificial respiration to John who revived and said to Mrs. Valda: "Pray for me. I think I'm dying."

Richard ran to the house to summon a rescue squad while Mrs. Valda knelt in prayer.

The squad treated John, who suffered shock, and revived grandfather Valda. The boys and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Valda, are visiting at the grandparents' farm.

TOM E. HELTON, Co-District Manager
201 South Nolan Street

DEAR ABBY: I think I am in love with a fellow I saw only once. He is a sailor and we happened to meet the night before he shipped out. We only spent seven hours together, but we both fell in love. I promised him I'd wait for him and marry him when he gets back into port. He sent me a pillow case from the ship's store. It says on it, "Sweetheart, I love you." Is this true love and what would you do if you were me? SAILOR'S SWEETHEART

DEAR SWEETHEART: If this IS true love, it will last until you get to know him better. In the meantime—sleep on it!

DEAR ABBY: We have three children under ten and we enjoy having their little friends over to play, but find that we are running a kindergarten without thanks! Our yard is the meeting place and we have ten and twelve children here at once. The other mothers are out sunning themselves and my wife (who is pregnant) is bothered all day with requests from kids who want a drink or have to use the bathroom. We wouldn't mind if the youngsters would come for only a few hours a day, but all day is too much. Have you a solution? OVER RUN

DEAR OVER: Little ones who are "turned loose" go where they feel welcome. It might be a bit of a nuisance now, but if you continue to make your home the "meeting place" for your children's friends, it will pay off handsomely in the years to come.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GINO: You are "soaking up" too much freewater. The police blotter also does a good job of soaking things up. Watch it!

Virus-Cancer Theory Upheld

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (AP)—A major advance in cancer research was reported today by a U. S. woman scientist who said she has used a single virus to cause many types of cancer in experimental animals.

Dr. Sarah E. Stewart of the National Cancer Institute at Bethesda, Md., told the Canadian Cancer Research Congress she has induced as many as 29 different types of cancer in mice using a virus extracted from a single type of tumor-leukemia or blood cancer.

Her paper gave support to the long-held theory that cancer is transmitted by a virus. These disease-producing agents in other forms are known to be responsible for polio, influenza and measles. While some of Dr. Stewart's colleagues had reservations about the importance of her work, Dr. Arthur W. Ham, head of biological research at the Ontario Cancer Institute in Toronto, described it as "the most stimulating thing that has happened in cancer research in years."

The gray-haired woman scientist's seven years of work is expected to lead to a great concentration of research on virus causation of cancer in general. She herself said she could not say how soon her findings can be applied to human cancer. She explained it will first have to be shown that a virus causes certain types of human cancer and this has not been established.

Development Of North Side Park Is In Planning Stage

Work on development of the North Side Park is being held up pending construction of a watering system.

The park is to be turned from a bare lot into a park with picnic areas and playground facilities to tie in with the swimming pool, and the City Commission at its meeting last week asked that work begin on its development as soon as possible. The park is in the same block with the North Side fire station.

This development is being held up currently, however. H. W. Whitney, city manager, said today that the city is trying to devise a method of constructing a sprinkler system in the park which could utilize water from the swimming pool.

When the sprinkling system is installed, the park will be sodded with grass, and then trees will be planted in the park. The park superintendent, Johnny Johansen, has a group of trees spotted which he plans to move to the park.

Money for the project is available from bond funds voted in 1955.

New Deputy Starts Work For Sheriff

Jack Hackley, former patrolman for the city of Big Spring, officially assumed his new duties as deputy on the staff of Sheriff Miller Harris Tuesday.

Hackley replaces Jack Shaffer, chief deputy, who resigned from the sheriff's office to become a salesman for a Big Spring builder.

Addition of the new deputy brings Harris' staff back to full quota. Hackley is the third deputy to be replaced by Harris this year.

THE STATE NATIONAL BANK MYSTERY FARM FEATURE

Can You Identify The MYSTERY FARM

This aerial photo is Number 7 in a series taken in the Big Spring area for THE STATE NATIONAL BANK.

Nobody knows whose farms the aerial photographer snapped... so it's up to the readers of The Herald to identify the "Mystery Farm."

Call AM 4-4331—The Herald

The first person to correctly identify the "Mystery Farm" will receive two theatre tickets, compliments of The State National Bank... the name will be published next week... so if you know whose farm this is and where it's located, come by, phone or write The Big Spring Herald.

If the owners can identify this farm, go to The Herald office, make your identification and give them the story of your place. Then come to The State National Bank for a beautiful mounted photograph of your farm absolutely FREE.

Build Solidly For The Future

Whatever your plans for the future may be, from a home of your own to a college education for your children, you may accomplish your purpose best by saving systematically here.

The difference between wishing and having is usually determination. If you have the WILL to build a satisfying future for your family and yourself, we have the WAY to do so. The first step in the right direction is to come in and find out all about our purposeful savings plans.

Last week's "Mystery Farm" remains a real mystery... no one has correctly identified it yet.

Writers Change Meeting Times

The writers club has changed its meeting dates to mesh more closely with the laws of mathematical probability.

There are times when there are more manuscripts than can easily be read and criticised in one evening. There are other meetings at which no one brings a single written line.

Thus, the writers voted to hold a regular meeting the first Tuesday of each month, in place of the every-other-Tuesday format the club used previously. If there are sufficient manuscripts to carry over into another meeting, then the writers will meet again on the third Tuesday of the month. If all material is covered at the regular meeting, the second will not be held.

Patachou Does Her Gallic Bit

If you're planning a vacation to New York, you can get front center seats to any Broadway show through contributions to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund... one case where scalping not only is legal, but commendable.

Mood jazz series from Decca is provocative... it includes pairings of harmonica and guitar, cello, twin guitars, and organ... all with appropriate assembling...

The Cleveland Little Theatre has a grant of $130,000 from the Ford Foundation to carry productions to smaller communities in their area... our local thespians might do well to seek a similar grant of around $2,000 to fix up their building... unless some local citizen turns generous...

MEN IN SERVICE

A. L. Moore, 23, completed the Navy's Seabees construction school at Port Hueneue, Calif., last month as the top man in the class.

Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moore of NE 2nd. His wife, Marilyn, and two-year-old daughter, Debbie, will stay with his parents when he reports at Patrick AFB, Fla., July 3.

Eighteen men completed the 13-week electrical construction school with Moore being announced as the top student. The class graduated May 23.

Upon reporting to Patrick AFB, Moore will be assigned to the Mobile Construction Battalion No. 7.

Moore is a 1955 graduate of Big Spring High School and worked for Texas Electric prior to going into service.

Capt. John E. Shillingburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shillingburg of Lamesa, recently completed a 37-week advanced officer's course at the Army Armor School at Ft. Knox, Ky.

While in the school Capt. Shillingburg received instruction in the responsibilities of command and staff armor officers and was familiarized with armor weapons, techniques of communications, and teaching methods.

The 29-year-old captain is a 1951 graduate of the Military Academy and is a graduate of Lamesa High School.

Olie Axtens, airman apprentice, is now attending the seven-week Aviation Machinist Mate School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center at Memphis, Tenn. The school is for jet mechanics.

Axtens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Axtens, 106 Wright. He began the course May 25, and during the seven weeks, he will receive instructions in the basic fundamentals in repair and maintenance of jet propelled power plants used by naval aircraft.

The Navy Department has announced the May 16 promotion of Billy F. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Wood of 1701 Jennings, Big Spring, to quartermaster second class while serving on the staff of the commander of Submarine Flotilla One.

Texas To Benefit Under Jobless Bill

AUSTIN (AP)—Jobless Texans could receive an estimated $26,500,000 the next 11 months under the federal unemployment payments extension law, labor leaders were told yesterday.

Texas Employment Commission member Robert Newman said legal questions were under study to see if Texas could take part in the federal program.

However, labor attorney Sam Clinton Jr. told the Texas AFL-CIO Economic Conference Texas can take part in the program and extend benefits to unemployed workers in the insurance plan. He said no additional legislation would be needed.

"It is imperative that immediate action be taken," said Newman, who represents employees on the commission. He said the governor's office also was studying the new law.

The TEC said 35,684 workers had used up their state jobless compensation but it was not known how many would be eligible under the new law.

Newman said an estimated 80,000 more workers would exhaust their benefits by April 1, 1959.

"It is estimated that during the

Get relief without surgery or money back!

Crew Chiefs For 'Rainmaker'

Director Fred Short has added Pete Rasmussen and Mickey Stewart to the production crew list for "The Rainmaker." Rasmussen and Miss Stewart will be co-heads for that department.

The crew is scouting for western regalia such as lamps, clothing and such other paraphernalia that will lend a western atmosphere to the production. Time of the play is set near the turn of the century, when 40 miles per hour in an automobile was considered hot stuff, and items such as saddles, big coffee pots, buggy seats or feed sacks that fit the period are needed.

If you have any such items available, please call Short at the H.C.J.C. department.

Short has added a couple of other unusual features to his production. Bob Martinez, noted guitarist, will furnish background music, and a western band will give intermission performances.

Don't Let Carpet Cleaning Floor You

Now you can clean all types of wall-to-wall carpets quickly and easily with the new Blue Lustre carpet and upholstery cleaner.

This very gentle foam cleaner is brushed into the carpet with long handle brush without soiling or matting, leaving the pile open and lofty. Original colors spring out like magic.

Blue Lustre removes spots or traffic paths in a jiffy. Works beautifully on upholstery, too. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.
