Traffic Toll Mounts At Alarming Rate

Table with 2 columns: Category, Count. Includes Traffic, Drowning, Miscellaneous, Total.

By The Associated Press. Four of July traffic deaths mounted today at a rate safety officials called alarming.

Multiple-death crashes gave the fatality toll a stiff boost as millions of cars jammed the nation's highways. The early death count ran well ahead of that set during the recent Memorial Day holiday weekend. It also outdistances advance estimates made by the National Safety Council.

"The toll is alarming and unless checked will exceed not only the Memorial Day toll but our estimate for the Fourth of July toll," said Ned H. Dearborn, NSC president. He added: "Certainly one of the freedoms worth remembering on Independence Day is the freedom from suffering and tragedy caused by these traffic accidents. We ask every driver to remember this and to act behind the wheel as he believes a good American should act."

ITS EARLY MARK In the first 18 hours of the Memorial Day observance, traffic deaths still numbered in the 30s. The 40-mark was reached in less than 16 hours in the current observance.

Four persons were killed in a head-on collision in Virginia; four others perished in a two-car crash near Orlando, Fla., and three were killed in an Ohio accident. Four others died when their car pulled out from a combination restaurant - filling station near Weldon, N. C., and was hit by a tractor-trailer truck.

Another large trailer truck was involved in a three-vehicle crash near Eunice, La. Two persons were killed and 23,000 pounds of frozen chickens were scattered over the highway.

The NSC estimated in advance that traffic accidents would kill 410 persons in the 78-hour holiday period starting at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ending Sunday midnight. The council said 45 million cars would travel a total of 12 billion miles on the nation's highways.

OVERALL TOTAL Traffic deaths were reported in 13 states during the first 10 hours compared with the seven deaths in five states during the same period of the Memorial Day holiday period. The final traffic count for the three-day Memorial Day holiday was 371, plus 132 deaths by drowning and 88 from various other accidental causes. The overall total was 591.

The record traffic toll for a three-day Fourth of July holiday period is 407, set in 1955. The all-accident death toll high for the same holiday is 805, also set in 1955.

The Associated Press, for comparative purposes, made a survey of traffic fatalities during a non-holiday weekend, from 6 p.m. June 19 to midnight Sunday June 22. It showed 339 traffic fatalities, 118 by drowning and 63 miscellaneous types of accidents, an over-all total of 520.

Most states ban the sale of fireworks and only two deaths by fireworks were reported last year compared with one each in 1956

Texas Politicos Take Advantage Of The Holiday

By WHITEY SAWYER

The Associated Press Texas politicians, took traditional advantage of Independence Day gatherings Friday to press their campaigns.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, running for re-election, planned to attend the annual rodeo and parade at Alvin. Late Friday he was to speak at an Atascosa County political meeting and then go to Corpus Christi to speak at a political gathering and the American GI Forum national convention. The Forum is an organization of American war veterans of Latin-American ancestry.

William Blakley, who wants to take Yarborough's place in Washington, intended to spend the weekend in Dallas planning the final three weeks of his campaign.

Gov. Daniel, seeking re-election, was to spend the day at San Antonio, then go to North Ft. Hood Saturday for the annual governor's review of the 49th Armored Division.

Henry Gonzalez, another candidate for governor, also was to speak at the American GI Forum convention. He then planned to campaign through Cuero, Odem and Pleasanton.

W. Lee O'Daniel, former governor who wants the job again, was to speak at an American Legion picnic in Terrell Friday and later at a Jaycee Independence Day political rally at Lake Creek, near Paris.

FORMAL OPENING

Yarborough said at San Antonio Thursday he would spend all his time campaigning in Texas between now and the July 26 primary. He said plans for a formal opening rally and telecast will be announced soon.

The senator was challenged at Dallas Thursday to name an individual who has been threatened with a bank loan cancellation because he supported Yarborough. John McKee, Dallas campaign manager for Blakley, said such a charge, made by Yarborough Monday, was "just one of many unfounded and unreliable remarks made by a man who is desperate."

Daniel spoke at the State Bar Convention at San Antonio Thursday. His Austin office issued a statement backing mandatory congressional oil import restrictions. "Our domestic economy and the security of the nation is being endangered and will continue to be threatened unless mandatory restrictions are ordered by Congress," Daniel said.

Gonzalez spoke at Nixon Thursday. He said earlier he was continuing to turn down campaign gifts with strings attached. O'Daniel said at Lufkin Daniel was driving industry away from Texas by appointing a tax commission to think up new levies that would scare industry.

Agriculture Commissioner John White, seeking re-election, was to attend the July 4 celebration at Terrell. He also planned to visit Paris Friday.

State Rep. Glenn Kothmann, who opposes White, campaigned at Conroe Thursday. Tom Griffin of Bastrop, another agriculture commissioner hopeful, planned to attend the Oak Cliff Junior Chamber of Commerce July 4 celebration at Dallas.

Jet Plane's End

Fiery destruction is dealt to an F-80 radio-controlled airplane by an Army Hawk missile. Intercept was at 500 feet altitude, and was clearly visible five miles away. The Hawk missile, designed for use on hedgehopping attackers, gets above its prey and dives down for the kill. Only 16 feet long, the weapon can be airlifted for battlefield use and can keep pace with fast-moving land forces in a fluid situation.

Crops Damaged In Dawson Storm

LAMESA — Crops were wiped out or heavily damaged in some sections of a storm area that covered approximately a third of Dawson County north and west of here last night.

Cotton damage was estimated at from 15 to 100 per cent in the Welch, Fairview and Grandview areas. Rainfall, accompanied by heavy hail and high wind, ranged from 4 1/2 to 6 inches around Welch, and from 2 1/2 inches at Grandview to 4 inches at Fairview.

Hard winds destroyed a cotton picker shack and tore down a barn near Punkin Center, where 3 inches of rain were gauged.

High water closed State Highway 137 between Lamesa and Brownfield last night, but the road was reopened this morning.

Heavyest hail was reported in the Welch community, while a devastating fall also occurred around Fairview and lighter hail was reported at Grandview.

Patricia reported from 3 to 4 inches of rain, with no hail and light winds, but the storm was more violent to the west of that community.

In Lamesa, up to 25 of an inch of rain was reported, but only a trace was registered at the official weather station at KPET, two miles south of town.

Light rains also were reported east of Lamesa.

3-Way Crash Kills 2, Scatters Load Of Frozen Chicken

EUNICE, La. (AP)—A three-vehicle crash involving a large trailer truck today killed two persons and scattered 23,000 pounds of frozen chickens over the highway.

Dead were Michael Genovese III, 18, Opelousas musician, and Frank Chaney, 29, Negro of 19F Cedar Terrace, Galveston, Tex.

State troopers said the three men driving the big truck from Atlanta to Los Angeles received cuts and bruises when it turned over and swung across the highway.

The top popped off the trailer, troopers said, and it blocked the highway about one hour.

The injured included Benjamin Abernethy, 36, Lutetville, Mo., driving the truck at the time; Walter McLaughlin 46, Miami, and Anthony Errett, 30, Lynwood, Calif., alternate drivers.

Troopers said Chaney pulled into the left-hand lane and collided with the trailer truck, which swung around on top of Genovese's car.

Allies Likely To Accept Russ Surprise Attack Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and its NATO allies appeared likely to accept, with conditions, a Soviet proposal that military experts study ways of preventing a surprise attack.

The proposal for a conference was made by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a letter to President Eisenhower Wednesday. Eisenhower is expected to reply promptly after completion of consultations already started with NATO nations.

Advance indications of conditional agreement came both from Secretary of State Dulles and from unofficial comments by British officials. Both Eisenhower and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd have made similar suggestions in the past.

They hope that Soviet leaders are seriously interested in coming to some practical agreements on a problem, the solution of which would go a long way toward reducing the dangers of an outbreak of war and mark the beginning of disarmament.

However, authorities do not rule out the possibility that the Soviet government may be trying to regain its peace propaganda position. This has been badly damaged in the last few weeks by such things as the breakdown of summit conference negotiations in Moscow, the execution of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and the threat not to attend nuclear test talks at Geneva.

Another purpose, officials said, may be to inject new steam into Khrushchev's eight-month-old drive for a summit conference.

Dulles told reporters that the long exchange between Eisenhower and Soviet leaders over the need to do something about preventing surprise attack might now result in technical talks on the question of what practical steps can be taken.

The Khrushchev letter was released yesterday in Moscow. It suggested that the United States and the Soviet Union take the initiative in arranging a meeting in the near future of representatives, including military experts, designated by the two powers and "possibly by the governments of certain other states."

They should meet, Khrushchev said, for a joint study of the practical aspects of the problem and should develop "within a definite period of time, to be determined in advance, recommendations regarding measures for the prevention of the possibility of surprise attack."

The results of these negotiations, Khrushchev said, "could be considered at a meeting of heads of government. Such preliminary work would undoubtedly facilitate the adoption of a decision on this question at the meeting itself."

Dulles said that some of Khrushchev's ideas were unacceptable. He did not specify which points he had in mind, but other officials said there were several.

They objected to the idea of a rigid time limit and they did not like the implied commitment that the meeting of experts, if successful, would be followed by a summit conference which would thereupon agree on measures to prevent surprise attack.

They also indicated that in reply to Khrushchev's proposal, the United States would make as one of its conditions a requirement that the experts be limited to technical considerations in studying what measures would be effective.

They considered this an important point because Khrushchev once more advanced familiar Soviet proposals for inspection systems in Europe and the Pacific area and rejected various suggestions which the Western powers have made for inspection zones.

Pacifists Begin Missile Vigil

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Six Protestant ministers, members of a religious pacifist group, today began a round-the-clock vigil outside the gates of the world's largest missile center in what was described as an appeal to end the arms race.

The Rev. Robert Gussner, Congregational minister from Cambridge, Mass., and spokesman for the group, said the churchmen would march in silence for a 24-hour period until midnight tonight.

The protest walk was the wind-up of a two-week "Vigil at Canaveral" sponsored by the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

There have been no incidents or disorder. Gussner called for "a declaration of interdependence... for the people of the world to declare peace regardless of what government's may do."

The fellowship also was a sponsor of "Walks of Peace" to the United Nations and Washington and of several voyages to Eniwetok in the Pacific to protest nuclear tests.

43 Yanks Spending Fourth With Rebels

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Forty-three Americans spent the Fourth of July in rebel camps of eastern Cuba today waiting for their own Independence Day. There was no indication when it might come.

The U.S. Embassy said it had no word that the Americans and two Canadians kidnapped by the rebels were being freed. Informants said the rebels appeared now to be hedging on their release after turning loose four Americans and one Canadian.

A U.S. Navy helicopter flew the five captives to the naval base at Guantanamo Bay Wednesday after U.S. Consul Park Wollam conferred with the rebels.

Informed sources said a snag developed in the negotiations and rebel leader Fidel Castro had decided to hold out for further talks. What he wanted to talk about was not known. The embassy here was believed awaiting new instructions from Washington.

There appeared to be some sort of disagreement — or perhaps a breakdown in communications — between Castro and his brother Raul, who engineered the kidnappings.

In a broadcast Wednesday night, Fidel Castro said it is possible the kidnapping campaign was a reaction against the recent delivery of 300 U.S. rockets to President Fulgencio Batista's army to replace some of the wrong size delivered last year. But the rebel leader said he nevertheless ordered the captives freed "because they are not responsible for their government's action in sending arms to Batista."

Castro has been conducting a guerrilla war for 19 months in an effort to overthrow Batista. Raul Castro was reported drafting an apology "to the parents, wives and sweethearts of the men retained by us," Howard A. Roach of Watertown, N.Y., one of the five captives released, saw it being revised and typed.

Lamesa Doctor Shot Critically

LAMESA—Dr. F. E. Seale, shot five times in the chest, shoulder and arm last night, was in critical condition at Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, late this morning.

Dr. Seale was shot at the rear entrance of Seale Clinic-Hospital which he operates here.

A few minutes after the shooting, Charles McLaurin, about 35, surrendered at the courthouse to Police Chief Morris Zimmerman and Chief Deputy Joseph Anson (Shorty) Hancock. He was being held in the Dawson County Jail this morning, although no charges have been filed.

Dr. Seale, about 40, was shot twice in the chest, twice in the right arm and once in the right shoulder with a 22-calibre rifle. He was treated locally and then was transferred to the Lubbock hospital on advice of a chest specialist.

No reason was given for the shooting. McLaurin, a former Lamesa, now resides southwest of Seminole.

Mrs. Seale, a nurse at the Seale Hospital, helped care for her husband last night.

Rackets Probers Tell Nation Of Menace From Underworld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee pictured the nation on this Independence Day as facing an arrogant challenge from organized crime that could menace freedom if it isn't met. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) gave that appraisal in the committee's name. His group plans to launch here Tuesday an investigation of rackets in Chicago's restaurant industry. McClellan said witnesses will include Tony (The Enforcer) Accardo, whom he described as a notorious gangster who rose to power in the old Capone mob. The inquiry has been billed as the kickoff for months of hearings designed to spell out, city by city, the details of careful scheming by a criminal syndicate to infiltrate and dominate businesses, industries and labor unions from coast to coast. McClellan and committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy contend objectives of the scheme are twofold: To provide a front through which to channel revenues from the rackets without disclosing their source, and to use these revenues to build power in these legal enterprises in which they can undersell and crush law-abiding competitors. The committee yesterday wound up four days of preliminary inquiry in which 13 witnesses named as big-time racketeers paraded to the witness stand and invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions. In a statement at the close, McClellan said the testimony and the alleged racketeers' refusal to answer showed that a conspiracy existed and that the Black Hand, known as the Mafia, was responsible. McClellan said that what was disclosed amounted to "an arrogant challenge to the government and to the decent people of this country." He stuck to what he had told some of the witnesses—that this underworld infiltration has reached proportions which "menace our freedom."

Air Force C124 Missing In Pacific With 7 Aboard

HONOLULU (AP)—A U.S. Air Force double decker C124 plane with seven crewmen aboard was reported missing today in the mid-Pacific and feared lost at sea. The giant Globemaster last reported its position 200 miles northeast of Tiny Johnston Island while on a flight from Honolulu to Wake Island. Rescue headquarters were reported the plane radioed at 1:20 a.m. Hawaiian time, that it was feathering its No. 3 engine and was returning to Honolulu. The distressed plane radioed 13 minutes later that it was unable to feather the No. 3 engine and could not stop the engine's propeller from turning and was losing oil rapidly. The plane asked permission to land at Johnston Island and permission was granted, but the plane was not heard from again after the second message at 1:33 a.m. A spokesman at rescue headquarters said the C124 was feared lost. The U.S. aircraft carrier Boxer, en route from the Far East to Hawaii, was immediately pressed into the search and designated as the on scene commander of the search.

They will be aided in this by members of Boy Scout Troop No. 9, sponsored by Wesley Methodist Church. About 17 Scouts planned to help tonight.

Church To Open Building Bonds Sales Campaign

A campaign will be started Monday by the East Fourth Baptist Church to sell $155,000 in bonds. The church recently authorized sale of these bonds to finance construction of a new auditorium. The structure will be located just east of the present building at 4th and Nolan.

Charles Wester is general chairman of the drive to sell the bonds. American Church Loans of Dallas is directing the campaign and is handling such matters as printing of the bonds. Bonds will be offered to members of the church as well as to anyone interested in purchasing them. Interest rate of the bonds is five per cent compounded annually on Aug. 1. Bonds will be in $100, $250, $500, and $1,000 denominations and mature in one to 14 years.

Working with Wester as leaders of various sales teams are Mr. and Mrs. Rafoed Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Matlock, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ray.

The First National Bank will act as paying agent for the bonds. All matters will be handled through the bank, said Wester. Preliminary drawings of the new auditorium to seat about 900 are now being made by Gary & Hertz, local architectural firm.

U.S. Ham Invited To Judge Red Show

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Russia has invited an American ham to help judge the Soviet's International Amateur Radio Contest July 23-27 in Moscow. The invitation sent to the American Radio Relay League also offered to defray the expenses to Moscow for the judge.

Dr. John Sharp, assistant professor of modern languages at Texas Western College, said the offer was made in a letter in Russian sent to him by the ARRL for translation.

A similar offer was wired to the ARRL last year, Dr. Sharp said. "A couple of days before the contest," he was regarded by the group as a propaganda gesture because it did not allow the U. S. organizations time to send a man to Moscow.

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. has brought up the forbidden subject of Soviet censorship by asking publicly for an end of it. Thompson's call was in a Fourth of July speech to the Soviet people at the government's invitation. He spoke on Moscow television last night—the first American ambassador to do so—and the 15-minute speech was scheduled for nationwide radio rebroadcast today.

Speaking in Russian, Thompson said, "We believe it would be to our mutual advantage if the citizens of both countries could have full access to the other's publications and uncensored news dispatches." This was one of the first public mentions here of censorship.

The career diplomat also said the United States would like to do away with travel restrictions.

Rev. Woodie Smith Dies At Age 80

The Rev. Woodie Smith, 80, retired Baptist minister who once had served the East Fourth Baptist Church here, died Thursday in a Tulsa, Okla., hospital. Arrangements were not known here immediately. Mrs. Smith, who had achieved fame as her own as a hymn writer, died several years ago in Fort Worth. The Rev. Smith served East Fourth Church during the mid-thirties, following the Rev. S. B. Hughes and preceding the Rev. W. S. Garnett. He also held pastorate in Fort Worth, Rosenberg, Knox City and Crow.

Fireball Critically Injures Worker

BARON, Calif. (AP)—A fireball, from an exploding propane tank swept over Clarence Steussy, 56, scorching all his clothes off and critically burning him. A 5,000-gallon tank of the liquid petroleum gas blew up yesterday at Steussy's fuel supply yard in Baron. Steussy ran to see what had happened and was enveloped in flames. Other tanks in the yard also blew up in a series of explosions that one witness said sounded like an artillery bombardment.

Present Flag Is Collector's Item

PITTSBURGH (AP)—According to a flag company in Pittsburgh, the flag of the United States has become a collector's item because of impending statehood for Alaska. The A. And a few orders have come in for single stars-to sew on the 48-star flag.

Educators Agree On Need For Funds

By G. K. HODENFIELD Associated Press—Education Reporter CLEVELAND (AP)—The National Education Assn. winds up its 96th annual convention today and the 15,000 delegates are pretty well convinced of one thing: Education won't regain its rightful place in the American scene until the public decides it will have to put up more money if it wants better schools. For the most part, the delegates are convinced that any substantial financial aid to education will have to come from the federal government. They say the local property tax, traditional source of U.S. school money, just won't stretch far enough to get the job done. Today the delegates scheduled two general sessions for debate on this year's list of resolutions. None of them are expected to cause much trouble, although there may be a hassle on the wording of some. One of the proposed resolutions says that teachers' salaries should start at $5,000 and range upward to $13,000 annually. The national average now is about $4,560. The proposed resolution on integration, which has caused trouble in the past, seems designed this year to make everyone a little bit happy and no one really distressed. It reads: "The National Education Assn. recognizes that integration of all groups in our public schools is a process which concerns every state and territory in our nation."

Two Accidents Occur Early

The city had its daily quota of accidents—two—early today. One occurred shortly after midnight. For the previous three days, two accidents have occurred each day, and today's two occurred before 10 a.m. Shortly after midnight, Samuel Fleck of Webb AFB and Lee Warren, Indianapolis, Ind., were drivers of cars colliding at 4th and Gregg. Also this morning, Kenneth Scown, 411 Ayford, and Curtis Lollar, 606 Abrams, were in an accident at 7th and Bell. Wednesday's two accidents were at 12th and N. Gregg and at 1020 Ridgeroad. At 12th and N. Gregg, a car registered to a Crane resident didn't stop after being involved in a collision with a car driven by Joe Sherman, 1406 W. 2nd. Floyd Moss, 1207 Ridgeroad, and J. W. Neece, 308 Lincoln, collided at 1020 Ridgeroad.

Stolen Musical Equipment Found

Police and sheriff department officers Thursday recovered $150 worth of musical equipment stolen Monday. Police officers Leo Hull and Stanley Bogard and Sheriff Deputy E. W. York recovered a guitar amplifier from a car on the North Side Thursday afternoon after York got a tip about location of the stolen property. The articles, valued at $150, had been taken from a car while it was parked at a North Side drive-in cafe.

Easy On The Eyes Infant Dies

DALLAS (AP)—John Appling Jr., 16 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Appling, died in a hospital Wednesday. His death was blamed on liquid furniture polish the child swallowed while the mother had her back turned, the family said yesterday.

U.S., Britain Call A-Bomb Letter Hoax

LONDON (AP)—Russia and Britain wrote off today as a probable hoax a letter purportedly written by a U.S. Air Force pilot saying he planned to drop an A-bomb off the English coast and then take refuge in the Soviet Union. The Soviet Embassy released the letter Thursday night. The U.S. State Department immediately described it as a Russian forgery published for propaganda purposes. It was signed only with the initials "W." A spokesman for the British Foreign Office told a news conference today that a photographic copy of the letter had been turned over to the Foreign Office Thursday night by M. N. Roschin, No. 2 man at the Soviet Embassy. "He said it was probably a hoax," the spokesman said. "This is a view which we share. We do not take this letter very seriously." The Foreign Office was understood to regard the letter as faked by the writer but not by the embassy itself. The State Department in Washington, however, termed the letter the fifth of such forgeries it has seen recently—"all clearly emanating from Soviet sources." The State Department said it was "a new and particularly irresponsible move in the campaign of fright which the Soviet Union has launched with its recent charges in the U. N. Security Council about alleged flights of American military aircraft toward the Soviet Union." Describing himself as an American stationed in England, the writer said he would drop the bomb during a routine flight not very far from the English coast "so too many people won't be killed. Our D-day will be sometime after July 1." Then the crew will fly on to the Soviet Union and reveal "all the secret information we know," the letter said. The anonymous letter obviously would play on British fears that U. S. planes might accidentally drop a nuclear bomb on Britain, despite the government's assurances that American bombers do not carry such weapons on routine flights.

Panel Releases Goldfine Gift List

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several present and former congressional and government employees have acknowledged being among those listed by a House subcommittee as receiving Christmas gifts from Bernard Goldfine. Among those acknowledging gifts are two White House secretaries, several New England political leaders, and congressional assistants. The subcommittee, now inquiring into Goldfine's relations with White House aide Sherman Adams, disclosed Thursday that Goldfine had sent checks of $35 to $75 to 33 persons described as present or former employees of the White House or congressional members. Four employees in the office of Rep. John McCormack (D-Mass) have names similar to those on the subcommittee list. They are Eugene Kinnally, Joseph Feeney, Edythe Arbor Pargament, and James Hartney. Kinnally, the only one of the

Martin Reunion Program Complete

STANTON (SC)—Program for the 25th annual Martin County Old Settlers Reunion has been completed, and everything is in readiness for the big day Tuesday. Highlights will be the parade at 5 p.m. and the barbecue at 7 p.m. in the city park. There also will be an old fiddlers contest and showing of past reunion movies at the American Legion Hall at 8 p.m. Monday. Jo Ann Forrest is to be master of ceremonies and John Atchison Sr. will give the invocation. After the barbecue served by Walter Jetton of Fort Worth, O. B. Bryan, president, will welcome all the old timers. Bert Rollins is scheduled to make the response. Awards will be made to those who are the oldest settlers, who traveled the greatest distance, etc. Mrs. Morgan Hall is to read the communications from former residents unable to attend. After the election of officers, G. B. Shelburne Sr. will conduct the traditional memorial services for those who have died during the past year. There will be a pause for silent prayer before Shelburne pronounces the benediction.

Capital Has Dual Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's capital honors two historic anniversaries Friday night with a dedication of a Potomac River island to Theodore Roosevelt, the country's 26th president. The festivities combine Washington's traditional Fourth of July celebration with a program observing the centennial anniversary year of Roosevelt's birth. Maryland's Gov. Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin will be the principal speaker at ceremonies formally dedicating the heavily wooded, 90-acre island to the memory of Roosevelt, who was born Oct. 27, 1858. The island long has been named for him. At separate ceremonies a short time later, Secretary of Agriculture Benson is to deliver the capital's principal Fourth of July address honoring the nation's 182nd birthday. Barring rain, the program will be climaxed with a 45-minute fireworks display touched off by a special clearing on Roosevelt Island. Because of the Roosevelt ceremonies, the fireworks display was shifted this year from the Washington Monument grounds to the island. President Eisenhower, in a proclamation, asked all Americans to observe the Fourth as the beginning of a national year of dedication to the goals of free men.

Lebanese Rebels Ousted From Town

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Strong government forces launched a coordinated attack today and drove rebels out of the village of Kabr Chemoule, a road junction overlooking Beirut's airport. The rebels were pushed into the hills beyond sight of the airport in the half-hour battle. Unless they manage a strong counterattack, their threat to Beirut appeared ended. President Camille Chamoun has said the rebel force in the hills, under Druse Chief Kamil Jumblatt, was making an all-out attempt to link up with other rebels barricaded in the capital and to overthrow the government. De- feat of the attempt, he has said, would mean the rebellion would be smashed. Jumblatt's force seized Kabr Chemoule Monday and hung on to it stubbornly until this morning.

Powder Puff Derby Begins

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Sixty-one airplanes fly away today with 117 women, but no many powder puffs, on a race across the United States. It's the 12th All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race, commonly called the Powder Puff Derby. About three-fourths of the contestants are married and many are mothers. They come from as far away as Sydney, Australia (Mrs. Nancy Bird Walton) and Fairbanks, Alaska (Mrs. Pearl Laska). The race is over a course from this city's Montgomery Field to Charleston, S. C. Flying is limited to daylight hours and planes must reach Charleston by noon Tuesday to be eligible for a share of the $2,500 purse, for the first five, and other prizes. Winners will be determined on a plane-speed handicap basis. Mrs. Alice Roberts of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's winner, is competing again, with Mrs. Darline Sander of Lemon Grove, Calif., as her copilot. Checking-in cities are Yuma and Tucson, Ariz.; El Paso, Midland, Abilene and Tyler, Tex.; Jackson, Miss.; Montgomery, Ala.; and Macon, Ga.

JULY 4th & 5th ENJOY THE HOLIDAY WEEKEND BUT—DRIVE CAREFULLY

No Nostalgia At Time Of Drowning

By PAUL DUKE
 VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—They say a person who is drowning has vivid flashes of his entire life moments before his death. I don't believe it.

At this instant of ultimate crisis the mind is too busy with what is basic—preservation of the species. There is no time for nostalgia.

I know, because I went through that struggle.

It was Wednesday. The holiday weekend crowd had begun checking into the miles of hotels that front the ocean off Virginia Beach. The weather was a hot 90 degrees—a perfect day for dipping in the green Atlantic.

After a morning swim, I rented a small float to zip over the waves as the kids do. I paddled out about 150 feet.

This was a mistake.

For some minutes I lay on the float as it rocked gently amid the waves. Suddenly, a big wave heaved the float into the air and me into the water.

As I reached out to pull myself back, I felt a sudden excruciating tightening in my left leg. It was every swimmer's nightmare—a cramp.

With mighty efforts, I pulled myself onto the float, only to be hit by a second wave that sent me spinning in a dervish sea.

I tried to find the bottom, it wasn't there.

Frantically working both arms and one leg, I fought back to the surface. My lungs felt as if they would explode. The ocean's salt seemed to be draining inside me. The cramped leg was like an anchor.

I lurched for the float, caught one end and tried to pull onto it. It was as if the brain were sending out thousands of SOS signals to all parts of the body, each giving the order to fight, fight, fight. I tried to float and sideswim. I couldn't. My strength seemed gone.

At this moment the terrifying thought struck me. I was going to die.

With what stamina I had left, I yelled for help.

There were persons within 75 feet laughing and frolicking in the surf. I could see hundreds of people on the shore.

But no one heard.

I waved and yelled again. No one saw or heard.

I saw a man swimming to my left and shouted as loud as my ebbing energy permitted.

He heard.

In seconds, he was at my side, helping me onto the raft and then with his strong arms pulling it to safety. I asked his name and he said it was Lindsay.

The cramp disappeared when we reached the beautiful—oh, so beautiful—white sand. I flopped from exhaustion.

When I sat up a few minutes later and looked around for my rescuer, he was gone. I glanced among the bathers along the shore and in the water but I didn't see him.

Since then I have walked up and down the beach for miles hoping to find a man named Lindsay. I have asked at hotels and restaurants. I have asked lifeguards and dozens of other persons.

But I still don't know who Lindsay is, where he is from or what he does.

There's not much I can do, of course, except offer humble thanks for the greatest turn one man can do another—save his life.

Foodhandlers' School Slated

Operators of all food handling establishments are being urged by Lige Fox, city-county sanitarian, to arrange their schedules so all employes can attend the Food Training School next week.

The school will be held in the City Auditorium twice daily — at 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Foodhandlers can attend either morning or afternoon sessions for five days and receive full credit for the course. Material covered in the morning classes will be repeated at the afternoon session.

Completion of the course is required of all foodhandlers every two years for renewal of their licenses. No school was held last year, so Fox anticipates a heavy enrollment in the 1958 classes.

Sadder, Poorer After 2 Crashes

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP)—Edmond Lowe, 28, Salisbury, Md., was a sadder and a poorer man today after two traffic accidents less than an hour apart.

As he neared Columbus yesterday he crashed into the rear of a car driven by Norma Jean Everdow of Columbus when she slowed to avoid a highway workman. His car received $100 worth of damages.

Then he drove on into Columbus, only to be hit broadside by a car driven by Patricia Lange of Columbus. The damage this time was $250.

For the second accident he was taken before a justice of the peace on a charge of failure to yield right of way. He was fined $5 and costs.

Blacksmith Shot, Killed At Brady

BRADY, Tex. (AP)—A towering blacksmith was shot off his horse and fatally wounded yesterday as his West Texas town opened its July jubilee celebration.

Joe Kuykendahl, 32, a 235-pound, 6-4 blacksmith from Abilene, Tex., was hit 13 times as he sat on his horse at a race track. Some 50 to 100 persons looked on.

Jesse B. Harris Jr., 32, a horse owner from Shreveport, La., was charged with murder.

No reason for the shooting was given immediately.

Liner Discovers First Stowaway

HONOLULU (AP)—The liner Leilani radioed its owners, Hawaiian Texton, Inc., it has discovered its first stowaway.

Stanley Conrad, 18, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., told ship officers yesterday he boarded the liner Sunday just before she sailed from San Francisco. He said he had no job and hoped to find work in Honolulu. Conrad was discovered when he went looking for the ship's chaplain.

"I'll be near my husband," she said.

Housing, Farm Bills Next For Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate will take up housing and farm legislation next week, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said today.

But ahead of those measures, it will act on less controversial bills involving minerals, atomic projects and public works to give members ample chance to return from extended Fourth of July vacations. There is an informal agreement that there will be no record votes before Wednesday.

Mansfield announced the calendar plans as acting majority leader. He has been filling in for Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), who has been resting in Texas.

Scheduled for consideration Monday is a bill that would continue the defense minerals exploration administration as an agency under the Interior Department. DMEA has been a part of the Office of Defense Mobilization and provides government assistance on locating domestic mineral reserves.

Western senators sponsoring it hope for Senate passage without opposition.

Similar quick action is expected for the annual bill providing funds for rivers, harbors and flood control projects.

True Love In County Jail

DALLAS (AP)—True love bloomed at the Dallas County jail despite numerous obstacles.

Ted Daniel, 34, was a trusty in the jail office while serving three years for car theft. He met Frankie Koepf, 23, three weeks ago when she was booked on charges of passing bad checks.

Frankie made bond, but returned during visiting hours to see Ted.

They decided to get married and Frankie arrived Wednesday for the ceremony. But she was arrested at the jail door on four more bad check charges.

Sheriff Bill Decker said she could get married anyway, but when she returned to her car to get the marriage license, the car was gone. It had been picked up by a finance company.

The ceremony was postponed until yesterday to allow time to obtain a duplicate license.

After the ceremony in a Criminal Court jury room, Frankie and Ted were returned to jail.

Frankie said she might be able to make bond, but wanted to remain in jail.

"I'll be near my husband," she said.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Daniel urged drivers to slow down and live. The Department of Public Safety predicted 28 persons will lose their lives in traffic accidents in the 72-hour period ending at 11:59 p.m. Sunday.

The 3-day Fourth of July holiday period on traffic fatalities counting started at one second after midnight early today.

Daniel said he was confident Texas drivers would take it easy and use plenty of time to go from one place to another to keep down this year's fatality list.

It is running 14 per cent behind last year, he said.

The worst July 4 traffic toll in Texas history was recorded in 1954 when 33 were killed in a 3-day period. There were 18 persons killed in the last July 4 period in 1955. It too was a 3-day holiday.

3 Times Married But To Same Man

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Starlet Jill St. John has been married three times—and she's just 17.

But a single court action changed all that yesterday. All three marriages were last year to the same man, Neil Dublin, 23.

She divorced him on testimony that he harassed and ridiculed her and caused her to break out in hives.

She and Dublin eloped to Yuma, Ariz., and then got married again in Las Vegas, Nev., because they weren't sure if the first ceremony was legal. When they got back to Los Angeles their parents insisted on another marriage—just to make sure.

Dulles Due For De Gaulle Parley

PARIS (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles flies in today for talks with Premier De Gaulle amid a rising clamor of French demands for access to U.S. nuclear weapons secrets.

Diplomatic quarters emphasized the importance of this first meeting with a top American leader since Gen. De Gaulle became premier June 1. They said the day-long talks tomorrow will cover a wide range of subjects.

"In effect, they are all related to the over-all question of how to make France stronger," one well-informed source said. "The strength of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization depends in large part on the strength of France."

Among the topics that diplomatic circles expected to be covered are nuclear developments, France's contribution to the strength of NATO, her shaky financial position and Western relations with the Soviet Union.

There was speculation here that the soldier and the diplomat also would talk over the Algerian situation. De Gaulle returned last night from a three-day tour of French field positions in the 44-month-old Algerian nationalist rebellion.

Dulles said before leaving Washington, however, he did not plan to raise the subject of Algeria. He is known to regard it as the key to De Gaulle's success in his efforts to revitalize France and reform its government.

The secretary of state discussed the French situation with President Eisenhower for two hours before taking off. He told newsmen later immediate U.S. help would be given France in obtaining nuclear-powered submarines.

But the French want more nuclear information than that, as large headlines bristling with aggressiveness have been proclaiming in Paris newspapers for the past few days.

In general, the U.S. position is that the fewer who share nuclear secrets, the better.

Fiscal Year Ends With Oversize Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Uncle Sam ended the 1958 fiscal year with the largest national debt in 18 months—$276,444,354.81.

The total, representing the debt on June 30, was the highest for the end of any month since December 1956 when it came to $276,731,000,000. At the same time last year, it was roughly $5,800,000 lower.

The daily Treasury statement, which gives the cash position of the Treasury, gave no reliable indication of how far the 1958 budget exact figure won't be known until the next monthly Treasury statement is published in about two weeks. However, top officials have been predicting a 1958 deficit of 2 1/2 to 3 billion dollars—compared with a budget surplus of $1,645,000,000 last year.

Detonation Cap Blamed In Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A ruptured detonation cap is blamed for the Nike missile explosion that killed 10 persons and injured two others at Middletown, N. J., May 22.

The Army gave that explanation yesterday and added: "The procedure which may have caused the accident has been corrected and eliminated."

Eight of the big antiaircraft missiles were destroyed or badly damaged in the explosion. But the Army said an exhaustive investigation showed "no evidence of gross carelessness, smoking, inattention to operations or any other cause such as sabotage."

The Army said that somehow a detonation cap was ruptured while workmen were replacing an old triggering device from a missile with a new and more efficient type.

There was no evidence the part being replaced could have caused the accident, the Army said.

A Bible Thought For Today

Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep yours also. (John 15:20)

A New Concept Of Freedom

This should be more than a day when shops close and we apply ourselves diligently to killing one another upon the highways.

This should be a day of meditation and reflection upon the blessings of liberty which our forefathers endowed upon us.

This should be a day when we pause to reflect upon the courage, faith and dedication which possessed our ancestors to pledge their lives and sacred honor to casting off a government of men for a government of law.

It is this momentous step that we commemorate today—our Independence Day.

Let no one think that they entered upon this undertaking, lightly or inadvisably, but only after the agonizing of soul with which a man hears duty's call above those of motherland. Perhaps the only thing which could have prompted this was the intolerable indignities and abuses which the government of the king had persistently inflicted upon the colonies.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly... he has obstructed the administration of justice... he has made judges dependent upon his will alone... he has refused his assent to laws... he has subjected us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution... depriving us... of the benefits of trial by jury... taking away our charters... abolishing our most valuable laws and altering fundamentally the forms of our government...

And so they could stand this no longer and placed their lives and all that they had in their stake in a government which would respect "certain unalienable rights" (among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness) because that government derived its "just powers from the consent of the governed."

Under God they won their crusade, establishing a new concept of freedom of conscience and speech which shall endure so long as those who come after are vigilant and devoted enough to deserve them.

No Stumbling Block Here

Least Alaskans and citizens of the "other 47" outside Texas get the wrong notion regarding Texas' attitude toward the admission of that territory to the Union from what Texas says, we are glad to report the comment of "Bob" Bartlett, territorial delegate from Alaska, made at his first opportunity to appear before the public after the Senate completed the necessary legislative action.

As for Texas being reduced to second in size, Mr. Bartlett said, he wished to say that if it hadn't been for Texas there wouldn't be a State of Alaska—at least this time. He explained that House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson had made it possible by scheduling statehood for action in House and Senate. He expressed his gratitude for this courtesy, in a situation where either Rayburn or Johnson might have thrown up roadblocks.

The speaker and the Senate majority leader put aside whatever personal feelings they might have had and permitted the respective branches of Congress to have their say, win or lose. In this both Messrs. Rayburn and Johnson showed a sense of responsibility to their high offices, and justified the prestige they have gained throughout the country by living up to the great powers entrusted to their hands.

It was not only a proper attitude from the standpoint of official responsibility, but wise politically; for if either had thrown any stumblingblocks in the way of a House or Senate vote on the matter, he would have been accused of letting his pride in and loyalty to Texas outweigh his official duty, and that would have done no credit either to them or to the state they represent.

Tourists Getting A Look At Russia

MOSCOW—Arriving with varying emotions of fear, suspicion and wide-eyed wonder, American tourists in increasing numbers are this summer discovering Russia. The total this year is expected to reach 3,000, and it is likely to be at least twice that number next year if the Soviets continue to encourage visitors by granting visas with a minimum of red tape.

Many of the Americans are here on business or they are delegations arranged for under the cultural exchange agreement negotiated between Washington and Moscow. Seven American women doctors have just completed a tour and a delegation from the American plastics industry is having a look at certain aspects of Soviet industry.

But some of the visitors are just tourists out to see the sights. Five tourists from now it may be as commonplace as visiting Paris or Rome.

But today the American in Moscow for the first time has somewhat the feeling of having penetrated into the fastness of Tibet and the lamasery of the Grand Lama. He nervously clings to John Gunther's "Inside Russia" and he spends a sleepless night, or perhaps two or three, until his passport is returned to him.

Some of the more glossy types are beginning to come — travelers who have been everywhere except Russia and all ways on de luxe ships and in de luxe hotels.

The impression they take away is an unhappy one. The eggs at breakfast were cold and even the caviar didn't live up to advanced billing. Their attitude is that the Russians may be able to send up Sputniks but they can't run a hotel properly, and when they go back and lecture to the Women's Club and Rotary on their experiences under communism, they are likely to contribute their small mite to the American sense of superiority.

The most sensible and hard-headed American tourists this reporter has encountered were nine GIs who drove in from Frankfurt, Germany, in three Volkswagens. They were intensely interested in everything they saw, but at the same time they were questioning, and skeptical.

They were met at the Polish-Russian border by three Inourist guides, one for each car, who drove with them to Moscow and accompanied them on all sightseeing tours. The guides, two men and a woman, were also young and they and the visitors were quickly on a friendly basis.

But when it came to arguing politics, the young Americans found themselves up against a stone wall. Specialist Third Class Oscar D'Angelo of Chicago told of one of their arguments with a guide as follows:

"We said, 'We love our country just the way you love your country, but we don't say everything our country does is right because we know it isn't and we're willing to make concessions. But you say everything you do is right.' And then I said I wanted to ask him something. I asked him if he loved his wife and if he thought she was a wonderful woman. He said he thought she was the most wonderful woman in the world.

"Well, I said, she makes mistakes, doesn't she? Yes, he said, she did, but it wasn't the same as with his country. We just couldn't get anywhere with them.

Tourists are, of course, not an unknown blessing, and the number in Russia will never be large, since the facilities are not now adequate for any great number despite the addition of 1,200 rooms to the new Hotel Ukraine, largest in Europe. A great deal of the available space is taken up by official delegations, most of them from the Communist bloc and the uncommitted countries.

While the tourist who comes for 10 days may qualify as an expert before the Rotary Club when he gets back home, it is the Westerner here as a more or less permanent resident who feels this extraordinary nation. He lives in an enclave staked-out for foreigners. All his contacts must be on a strictly official basis, and if he has been here a year or two years or longer, he feels that he knows less and less about more and more.

The permanent resident feels for the wide-eyed visitor a pitying contempt—if only he stayed a little longer he would know how much he didn't know. Yet if the tourist takes away no more than a small view of the Russian people, he may have made a contribution, however small, to the vast problem of existing together in an incredibly dangerous world.

Document Has Come A Long Way

NEW YORK (AP)—"Is not America already independent?" demanded Samuel Adams of Massachusetts after Colonial forces had fought three battles against the British.

"Then why not declare it?"

The statesmen of 1776 moved leisurely toward the framing and adoption of the noblest document in political history.

The North Carolina Legislature voted on April 12 to join any other colonies in a "Declaration of Independence." Virginia on May 15 voted to initiate the declaration. And so on June 7 one of its delegates, Richard Henry Lee, arose in the Continental Congress and moved that:

"These united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

Helped by the wisdom of Benjamin Franklin and John Adams, young Thomas Jefferson composed the historic document in 18 days. To him it was more than a political statement. It was a profound testament of the imperishable rights of all men.

As any young author would, Jefferson wrote it in his masterpiece. It deleted his censure of the British people and his stirring denunciation of human slavery. It inserted appeals to "Providence." It tightened a few of his florid phrases.

But the document remains as Jefferson's mightiest monument. Although Congress voted independence on July 2, it didn't adopt the Declaration until July 4, and it wasn't publicly read until several days later.

New York abstained from the voting, and Pennsylvania and Delaware cast divided votes. But by July 15th, when the Declaration was ordered engrossed, the vote had become unanimous.

It is doubtful if anyone signed the Declaration the day Congress passed it. Some men who voted for it on July 4 never did get to sign it; some signed it who were not present when it was first passed. The final signature—that of Thomas McKean of Delaware—wasn't affixed until 1781.

What sort of men were they who risked the hangman's noose to put their names to the Declaration? Not at all the immature or irresponsible firebrand types often associated with revolution.

Missing are some of the great leaders for liberty of the period, including George Washington, whose tool then was the sword rather than the pen.

Only two of the 56 signers were bachelors. Sixteen were married twice. The signers fathered 325 children—Carter Braxton of Virginia leading with 18.

Slightly more than half were Episcopalians. The rest were Congregationalists, Quakers, Baptists, Presbyterians and Catholics. Ten were the sons of preachers.

The last signer to die—and the oldest at the time of his death—was Maryland's Charles Carroll of Carrollton. He lived to be 95. First to die after the signing was John Morton of Pennsylvania in April 1777.

Some paid a costly price, losing their lands and fortunes in the Revolution.

Some died violently. George Whythe of Virginia was poisoned by a grandnephew impatient for his inheritance. Button Gwinnett of Georgia was killed in a duel with a political rival.

Most of the signers remained active in public life. Two later became presidents—Jefferson and John Adams. Elbridge Gerry served as vice president under James Madison.

The document itself was nearly captured by the British in both the Revolution and the War of 1812, twice narrowly escaped being destroyed in fires.

Over the years it found refuge in 10 cities in five states before in 1921 the Library of Congress gave it a permanent home, and made it a national shrine.

TV Products Often Bring Script Changes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—On a recent television thriller, the victim met his end by cooking gas. The turn of events came as a great surprise to the author of the show who had painstakingly figured out murder by means of a live electric wire.

As it happened, the rewrite of that portion of plot was no reflection on the writer's ingenuity. It was just that the sponsor of the show happens to be the manufacturer of electric household devices.

In the planning of every sponsored, live television show there is some responsible soul, employed by an interested advertising agency, who is constantly on the lookout for untoward situations.

"You are so accustomed to checking scripts against clients' products that you don't even think much about it," says one agency program supervisor. "It's a built-in protection."

Thus some interesting changes and arrangements are made. In one show, it was necessary to show a number of closeups of a robber's getaway car, so close that it would be easy to identify the make of vehicle. The interested advertising agency had clients who manufacture automobiles, even though they were not sponsors of that particular show. The getaway car was chosen very carefully: a four-year-old model of a car handled by a rival agency. The theory was that a nice car is us-1 by nice people.

It is perfectly all right to hit a comedian in the face with a pie on a program sponsored by a pharmaceutical house selling pills, all other conditions being complied with. It is strictly banned, however, in shows sponsored by a big food specialty manufacturer whose products include pie filling mixes and a pie crust mix. When pies are shown on their time, they want them taken seriously.

Beer manufacturers don't like drunk scenes; limousine manufacturers don't like shots of people slipping; airplane people hate plane crash dramas and so it goes all the way down the line.

The people who watch for these things also have the job of seeing that clients' products are used whenever possible. When a kitchen equipment manufacturer's show has a scene in the kitchen, it is carefully checked out in the nicest examples of the sponsor's product. One TV-wise manufacturer has on hand examples of its obsolete models so that, if the scene is laid in 1935, its own product can still be correctly shown.

"When it is feasible, too, we suggest that the scene use the product of other agency clients as long as they have to use some prop," said one advertising executive. "As long as they have to show a bottle of a soft drink, or a typewriter, for instance, they might just as well show the one we handle. Directors and producers are nice about it; we give them the prop free and they like to save money."

LYNDHURST, N. J. (AP)—Macaroni, spaghetti, glue, cardboard, and water colors—these are materials used by an 8th grade art class.

The teacher, Mrs. Ruth Horton, got the idea when she noticed the interesting patterns provided by spilled noodles. Now her pupils are gluing the paste to cardboard and applying paint.

The titles of such art work? Man in the Bushes, "Jones' Locker," and "Color." One picture was named "Just Spaghetti."

No Recession

ROCKVILLE, Va. (AP)—John Julian Snead says there isn't any recession in the country store business—it is just still bad. There is a bright side though—an opportunity to kid salesmen and to get news from them.

"Trouble is if a fellow has two dollars he spends one on gas and drives to Richmond with the other," said Snead, who is 75. "I try not to let anything bother me, as long as the conversation is good."

Poor Political Tactic

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A student at Arkansas Tech College modestly voted for his opponent in a race for president of the student council. The opponent won, 216-215.

Who Knows All The Verses?

A couple of weeks ago, Edith Gay of the B&PW asked me to write some sort of program on the meaning of the Fourth of July; she wanted something to add a patriotic touch to the B&PW's annual beauty pageant. As it turned out, something was needed also to tie together the pageant with the fireworks show.

So I came up with a long-winded and slightly pompous narrative recounting the story of how the Star Spangled Banner was written. A blue pencil and a little re-writing cut the narrative's length to manageable proportions and took out most of the pomposity.

But narration alone sometimes gets a bit tiresome, so I cast around for some background music. The result is that several citizens pitched in to provide the music and the techniques for putting the program on tape. These people included: J. N. Young of KBST, narrator (he's also MC for the beauty pageant); Walt Wilson of the Hi Fi House, musical research; and Ben Hall (ditto), technical work.

You may, if you wish, hear that program this evening. It was designed to allow for a battery of rockets to be shot off in a criss-cross pattern on the last, symphonic note.

During the research and writing of this narrative, there was one fact that struck me: There is a wealth of meaning to be had in our national anthem. Despite this fact, it is well known that few people know any more than the first verse (and I was just a gully).

Thus, the rest of today's column is turned over to Francis Scott Key. Read the following verses as poetry and seek out the meanings, if you would feel a bit patriotic this Fourth day of July:

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars

through the perilous fight
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,
Oh say, does that Star Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

On the shore dimly seen, through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected, now shines on the stream,
'Tis the Star Spangled Banner, oh long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Oh, thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand
Between their loved homes and the war's desolation,
Bless'd with vict'ry and peace, may the Heaven-rescued land
Praise the Power that has made and preserved us a nation.
Then, conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, in God is our trust.
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Let Service Write An Ode For Alaska

Dear, big, beautiful Alaska, welcome home!

And, on this grand and glorious day, congratulations on a grand and glorious event that foreshadows a new state two and one-half times the size of Texas. Manifest destiny can hold no greater boon for the new state than to whittle down to size the Texas talker!

If an outsider may be pardoned for putting in her two-cent's worth with reference to the celebration that will attend Alaska's formal admission to the Union, I would like to suggest an invitation as an honor guest be sent one of the foremost soughs alive.

Although this distinguished man is a British citizen who now lives in Monaco, he is in his heart the poet laureate of the Far North. He is Robert Service, now in his 85th year, who penned more pay ore out of the great Gold Rush than any other sougher.

Service struck the mother lode—and it was really loaded—with the immortal ballads of Sam McGee, the Lady Who Was Known as Lou and Dangerous Dan McGrew.

When I saw this peppery old gentleman on the Riviera two years ago, he was still versifying ("I'm a verse man, and a poet!" he insisted at the time). And it is one woman's opinion that the new state of Alaska would do well to commission Service to strike the lyre and turn out an ode on the occasion of its admission to the Union.

While other prospectors worked with pick and shovel to wrest gold from the North, Service took pen in hand and made a million. His "Songs of a Sougher" and other epics of the great Gold Rush earned him more than any other poet before or since.

Hold me that he could still live—and well—on the royalties of these poems 50 years after their publication. There is still a steady demand for old Sam and Dangerous Dan.

When I was growing up, the poet was known as Robert W. Service. But he dropped the "W" years ago because, he said, the Uncle William for whom he was named didn't leave his namesake a farthing when he died.

Service was sent to the Far North as a bank clerk. He attended the ledgers by day, all right. But it was the tough, rough men of the Gold Rush and the living legend they were creating that fascinated Service and won him fame and fortune.

His interest in the soughs has never flagged. He came to the United States about 10 years ago to attend a sough convention.

Granted, he is not getting any younger and might hesitate to undertake a long journey to Alaska. Still, only two years ago he not only wrote every day, but walked at least three hours a day and always swam in warm weather. His touch of angina he dismissed by saying that it only bothered him when he ran for a bus.

Service explained his unquenchable addiction to verse by saying that it was an inheritance from a grandfather "who used to get drunk with Bobbie Burns."

Even if he should refuse the invitation to journey to Alaska for her great day of admission into the Union, perhaps he can be persuaded to write a verse for the occasion. Sam and Lou and Dan McGrew ought to have an honored place in the celebration.

Statehood Will Cause Alaskan Rush

WASHINGTON — It isn't often that a state is admitted to the union. The last time it happened was 46 years ago when Arizona and New Mexico came in. The event caused a lot of excitement then—and the boom isn't over in those states yet. The admission of Alaska will bring the same kind of excitement—new hope and new adventure.

For a new state means new opportunities for millions of people. It means some hardship, of course, for new settlers. But it means also a chance to make money—and that's a motivation which has stirred men many times in American history. Thus the "gold rush" to the Klondike area in Alaska in 1896 took on the same pattern as the "gold rush" to California in 1849.

What does the entry of a new state really mean? It affects not merely those who want to set up a stake in the 103,000,000 acres previously owned by the government that will be thrown open to settlement. Our own Pacific Northwest will benefit by the increased trade, and indirectly there will be an impact commercially on the people of the United States as a whole.

For if Alaska—which in area is twice the size of Texas—becomes more heavily populated, it means a new market for many products. Likewise, if the valuable oil resources of Alaska are developed, it could mean that the American consumer of oil will be less dependent on the oil that comes from the troubled Middle East. It could mean that tankers some day will go from Alaskan ports direct to some Asian countries. Oil means a chance for industrialization of regions not now able to buy cheap fuel.

Politically, Alaska will add a few electoral votes. There will be 98 United States senators instead of 96, and 436 members of the U. S. House of Representatives instead of 435. In a close situation—as, for instance, in the Senate where in recent years there has been almost a tie between the two parties—the two Alaska votes could be decisive on many questions of public policy.

Internationally, the addition of Alaska to the Union should not mean much change. But there is perhaps a sentimental difference when one of our states becomes the border of the mainland of Russia, and it is no longer an area of just territorial or colonial status. Certainly there will be more of a national consciousness now that the United States is actually adjacent to Soviet Russia in the Siberian region.

To many Americans Alaska is something remote, a place that's very cold in winter. It's true that Alaska is the first state of the Union that reaches across the Arctic Circle, but its resources are fabulous.

Certainly a new state can establish a full system of state courts of its own and a whole set of administrative facilities. It is no longer dependent on the federal government in Washington, which usually handles all territorial affairs in an already overburdened Department of the Interior.

It's possible that there now will be a revival of talk about a merger with Canada. This has often been suggested in American history but has always met with disfavor by most of the people of Canada, whose basic ties are with Britain. Fundamentally Americans, like Britons and Canadians, will object to anything likely to deprive each of their national traditions. But with what has been happening in the world in recent years, especially in defense problems in the Arctic, it is not unthinkable that Britain and Canada will be urged to join a three-cornered union of some kind with the United States.

Anyway Alaska now is in the union—not formally ad technically yet, but for all practical purposes—and the people in all parts of the United States, particularly the youth hunting jobs nowadays and families in search of adventure, can "go West" in their covered station wagons and try their luck in the new bonanza of the North American continent.

To Erase Tensions, Slow Down A Little

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD—"If you think it's difficult to lose weight," Christine White told me, "you should compare it to trying to gain. Food alone won't do it. You have to be relaxed and able to assimilate what you eat."
 "I tried to gain by stuffing myself with every high-calorie food I could think of. I ate oatmeal with cream and sugar, avocados, and hot chocolate with whipped cream. But I didn't gain an ounce."
 "Then I realized that it would be impossible for me to gain while I was so keyed-up," Christine added.
 Christine was given a puppet set as a child, and from playing with it she developed a desire to become an actress. Later she studied at Actor's Studio in New York, worked in summer stock and TV and is currently being seen as a blind girl in "Macabre."
 "I am very high-strung and realized that unless I did something about this it would affect my career," Christine confided.
 "You don't look nervous," I said, as she sat cool and confident in her dressing room at Allied Artists.
 "They say it's worse when you repress your tensions and that's what I used to do. But I'm much better now because I've really worked at it."
 "Did you have any special program?" I asked.
 "Yes, I made a plan. On the top of the list of resolutions was 'Eliminate Rushing.' I felt that if I allowed more time I could do everything more slowly. I stopped making appointments too close together. And I tried not to crowd too many things into one day."
 "Being prompt was a big help. I found I didn't talk or walk so fast and that I didn't get tied in knots as I used to when I was late."
 "To set aside some part of every day for what I call 'my recollection period,' gives me balance on a hectic day. This means sitting calmly and letting my thoughts and my mind float into nothingness. It looks as though I'm doing nothing but actually a great deal is accomplished. I get rid of my anxieties and my sense of crossing bridges ahead of time," Christine concluded.

RELEASING TENSION AND GAINING WEIGHT
 Strangely enough, it is harder for a thin person to gain weight than for a heavy person to lose. This is because a thin person is usually very nervous and can't relax long enough to assimilate calories. Outlined in Leaflet M-10, "How to Gain Weight," are tension-releasers and seven days of weight-increasing menus. If you have trouble gaining, you'll want Leaflet M-10. For your copy of this vital leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Stop Poking Fun, Start Poking Earth Says Garden Enthusiast

By MARY COCHRAN
 Let's come to the defense of the much maligned garden club woman. She is lampooned by the cartoonists. She is a prophet without honor in her own neighborhood. Yet, when a beautification project for the community is under way you will always find her and her club members busy at work in the background.

Gardening is a wonderful hobby to many people. Many of these horticulturists are unable to belong to an organized group for various personal reasons. These gardeners, too, do a wonderful job.

Garden club women feel there is strength in unity and these members use this strength for community beautification. They, as a group stimulate the public interest in gardening through pilgrimages, flower shows, park beautifications, public plantings and their own gardens.

Each community has its own soil and weather problems. West Texas seems to have several unique ones. By an exchange of problems and solutions between club members and advice by local experts who lecture at meetings, many of these problems are solved. Plants unique to this community or plants particularly suitable to this climate are promoted by these clubwomen.

They are aware of state conservation rules and abide by them. They conduct therapy programs through their clubwork. They cooperate with state and national beautification projects. With all this, they are dedicated to producing a lovelier garden at home.

There are about 110 club members in Big Spring who are affiliated with the National Garden Clubs. There is a local Garden Club Council made up of representatives from the six affiliated garden clubs. There is also an active club not affiliated with the national group.

If you are interested in belonging to one of these groups, memberships are open in several clubs. You can contact the president of the Council, Mrs. Dale Smith, or the vice president, Mrs. Sam Thurman. An interest in gardening is all that is necessary to make you eligible for membership. If a group of you desire to work together,

Anderson-Crow Vows Are Pledged In Luther

The Bethel Baptist Church at Luther was decorated with blue and white for the wedding Thursday evening for the wedding of Connie Joyce Crow and Larry Wynn Anderson. The Rev. Darrell Robinson, pastor, officiated at the double ring service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Crow, Luther, and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Anderson, Rt. 2, Sudan.

An archway of emerald fern and white bells formed the background for the wedding party. Cathedral tapers studded candelabra at each side, flanked by baskets of white gladioli.

Traditional nuptial music was offered by Mrs. C. A. Boyd, pianist, who also accompanied Margaret Verner of Farwell as she sang "Because and The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDAL ATTIRE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a street-length dress of white lace over champagne taffeta. Back interest was achieved in the neckline which dipped low from a high rounded effect at front. The bodice featured cap sleeves. At the junction of the molded bodice with the full skirt, a satin sash was caught at the back into a wide bow.

She wore white pumps with rhinestone bows and white gloves of embroidered lace. A tiara set with rhinestones, seed pearls and veiled sequins held in place the veil that fell to her shoulders. On a white Bible given to her by her parents, she carried white roses.

With her new bridal attire, she wore her mother's wedding ring as something old, a blue garter, and the veil was borrowed from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Don Anderson of Lubbock. A sixpence from England was placed in her shoe.

Sandra Crow attended her sister as maid of honor. Her dress of blue cotton satin was styled identically to that of the bride. White gloves and a matching headband edged with rhinestones complemented her dress. Summer flowers in harmonizing colors shaped her colonial bouquet.

Don Anderson, Lubbock, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Ronald Brantner, Lubbock, and William Crow of Luther, brother of the bride.

Taper lighters were Diane and Karen Wells of Lubbock, cousins of the bride; their dresses were fashioned of white cotton satin.

Following the ceremony, guests gathered in the Educational Building of the church where they were received by the bridal couple and their parents.

White lace over blue decorated the refreshment table, which was enhanced by white tapers tied in satin bows and the colonial bouquet of the maid of honor. The her bouquet were her corsage.

 The newlyweds will reside in Gail where he is employed by the Texas Highway Dept. and she is Home Demonstration Agent for Borden County. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard County Junior College and Texas Tech. Anderson, an alumnus of Roosevelt High School, attended Texas Tech.

Religious Training Trial To Continue

OMAHA (AP) — Next fall suburban Westside High School will give another trial to a compromise religious program falling somewhere in between "released time" and no official public school recognition whatever of religion.

Under the "released time" formula, schools frequently allow students to spend one hour of school time a week studying religion at classes held by Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic organizations off the school premises.

Development of the procedure has been studded with friction in and out of courts, with opposition based on claims it encroaches on the traditional separation of church and state.

Since a Supreme Court decision in 1952 upholding it, however, the method has become increasingly popular, with an estimated 3 1/2 million pupils taking part. Much of the program's growth has occurred in the Eastern states.

The compromise system at Westside has cleared the way for some religious training for its students and at the same time won praise for firmly maintaining separation of church and state.

It works this way: Wednesday is "church day" at Westside, a rambling school in a rapidly growing Omaha area. There are services in nearby churches before classes and Westside teachers are asked to keep Wednesday evenings free of activity. They are also asked to keep Thursdays free of tests that would require Wednesday night study.

"What we are doing is being sure that there is one day a week that students will have a chance to attend their own religious activities if they want to," Supt. C. L. Retelsdorf explains. "We are being very careful that we are not participating in what the churches do with that time."

THE LORD IS GOOD TO ALL, AND HIS LOVE IS EVERLASTING

Scripture—Deuteronomy 6: 10:12-11:1; Psalm 145; Micah 6:6-8; Romans 5:6-11.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
FOR THE younger classes, our editor of Peloubet's Select Notes, Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, suggests that we begin this lesson on the love of God by asking how we know others love us. And how do we know when we love them?

We know others love us by their words and actions. They know we love them when we want to be with them, to hear their voices, and to make them happy.

The same might be asked of the older pupils, and the emphasis there should be placed on the love of our heavenly Father, the ways in which He has manifested it, and what we owe Him.

The children of Israel had cause to know God's love to them, for He had brought them out of bondage in Egypt and given them a land of their own.

love and obey the Lord their God. "Therefore thou shalt love the Lord thy God, and keep His charge, and His statutes, and His judgments, and His commandments."—Deut. 10:11.

Further they were told that the Lord "doth execute the judgment of the fatherless and widow, and loveth the stranger, in giving him food and raiment. Love ye therefore the stranger for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt."—Deut. 10:18, 19.

Micah asks what pleases the Lord. Nor burnt offerings or sacrifices. "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, and to walk humbly with thy God."—Micah 6:8.

Psalm 145 is David's song of praise: "I will extol Thee, my God, O King; and I will bless Thy name for ever and ever.

Every day will I bless Thee; and I will praise Thy name for ever and ever."—Psalms 145:1, 2.

Paul wrote to the Roman church, that even while men were sinners, "God still loved them enough to send His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, to die for all." For all their lives. Some of the scripture in today's lesson we have studied recently, so we refer briefly to it here.

The Israelites who were listening to Moses' reading knew personally of their miraculous escape from captivity, but their children and later generations would know of it only by being told. What a tale it would be to relate to wondering children—of the miracles the Lord performed before Pharaoh; of the long, weary journey on foot across the wilderness, led by Moses and always guided by their God! They were told never to forget these things or cease to adore Him.

These words, written so long ago, are as true in our war-torn, crime-ridden world today as they were then. If we love and bless God, we thank Him daily for His blessings. If we obey His laws and follow in the footsteps of Christ when He was on earth, showing it by loving one another, with mercy and justice to all, we too shall be blessed in our lives and please our Father in heaven.

MEMORY VERSE
"The Lord is good to all; and His tender mercies are over all His works."—Psalm 145:9.

Moses, whom the Lord designated to lead His people out of bondage, reminds them of this and reads the Lord's laws and commandments to them. For His mercies they are to love Him with all their hearts, minds and souls, and obey His laws and statutes for all their lives. Some of the scripture in today's lesson we have studied recently, so we refer briefly to it here.

The Israelites who were listening to Moses' reading knew personally of their miraculous escape from captivity, but their children and later generations would know of it only by being told. # Hoffa Busily Woos Unions To His Side

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, whose Teamsters Union has been cast out of the AFL-CIO, is rapidly wooing other unions to his side and further building his already tremendous power.

Hoffa's new partners include some of the same AFL-CIO leaders who voted only a little more than six months ago to oust the Hoffa-led truck union from the federation on sensational corruption charges.

If there were any doubts of what the fast-moving Hoffa is up to, they could be laid to rest with his announcement yesterday of a plan to link all the nation's transportation unions into a mutual aid alliance.

Already in a position, with his 1 1/2-million-member Teamsters Union, to call the shots on the vital trucking industry from coast to coast, Hoffa envisioned the new alliance as embracing all workers in air-land-sea transport.

Hoffa counted as initial members of the alliance the International Longshoremen's Assn. and National Maritime Union. The I.L.A., like the Teamsters Union, was exiled from the main body of organized labor on grounds it was infested with hoodlums.

The NMU is headed by Joe Curran, an AFL-CIO vice president and member of the federation's Ethical Practices Committee. Curran said he couldn't recall whether the AFL-CIO rules prohibit, as they do, an affiliated

Allowable Hike Is 'Possible'

AUSTIN (AP)—An increase in Texas' oil producing days for August may be possible, says Railroad Commissioner Ernest Thompson.

He said lower inventories, especially in the area east of the Rockies, plus application of the Texas Market Demand Law, might make the boost possible.

Texas wells are now on a nine-day production schedule.

"We were on an eight-day production before July when it was possible to add one day, which added 121,000 barrels per calendar day for July. That brought Texas' actual daily oil production up to more than 2,350,000 barrels every day of July," Thompson said.

Such an increase in producing days would be in line with the Texas Market Demand Law, Thompson said, explaining that its aim is to allow sufficient production to fill demand by withdrawal from storage plus current production.

"When storage of oil above ground has been reduced to adequate working levels, then current demand for oil can and should be met with and by current production," the commissioner said.

2 Workmen Killed By Falling Roof

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Collapse of a freshly poured concrete roof during construction of a new high school killed two workmen and injured another yesterday.

The men were trapped under 40 tons of concrete, timber and steel when a portion of the first floor roof, which was being poured, collapsed and fell nine feet.

Dead were Jerry E. Hollingsworth, 26, of La Vernia, Tex., a carpenter, and Edward Carolan, 32, of San Antonio, an electrician.

Edward Briano, 37, of San Antonio, a carpenter, suffered leg injuries.

Probers Call Goldfine Shrewd Man, Anything But 'Naive'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill) said today there has been a well-organized public relations effort to make Bernard Goldfine appear to be more naive than he really is.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich), another member of the House subcommittee which is looking into the Boston millionaire's relations with presidential aide Sherman Adams and others, said he considers Goldfine "anything but naive — a very brilliant business man."

Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo) said in another interview that "any man who has been as successful as he has been both in his enterprises and in securing influence is bound to be a very shrewd person."

The rosy-cheeked Boston industrialist has stressed his humble beginning as an 8-year-old immigrant boy from Russia, and his fascination at meeting important people.

And when the subcommittee disclosed what Goldfine described as Christmas gifts "that we send to some poor workers in different offices," Goldfine commented that "if that is something that is bad, I would like to be told about it."

The subcommittee recessed until next Tuesday its questioning of Goldfine after disclosing that he sent checks of from $35 to $75 each to 33 persons it said were present or former employees of the White House and congressional offices—both Democratic and Republican.

The White House confirmed that two of its employees had received checks. One, Miss Laura G. Sherman, said she had received a $75 check last Christmas. Press secretary James C. Hagerty said Miss Sherman, whose home is at Franconia, N.H., had been at the White House about a year and formerly was on the staff of Sen. Norris Cotton (R-NH). She now is No. 2 secretary to Sherman Adams, whose acceptance of favors from Goldfine has been aired by the subcommittee.

Hagerty said Mrs. Helen Colle, secretary to appointments secretary Thomas E. Stephens, reported getting checks each year since 1950—a period including three years of the administration of former President Truman. The checks ranged from $35 to $75, Hagerty said.

NO EXPLANATION

Hagerty said neither had any explanation of why they received the gifts, and added that neither ever handled any matters dealing with Goldfine.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said another of those listed as recipients was Mary Ryan, a stenographer for the House Commerce Committee of which the subcommittee is a branch. She was not available for comment.

A number of others listed had the same or similar names to present or former employees of the offices of Rep. John W. McCormack (D-Mass), the House Democratic leader, and Senators Cotton and Styles Bridges, New Hampshire Republicans. Goldfine has woolen mills in New Hampshire.

Most of those with corresponding names were reported out of the city for the Fourth of July holiday, and not available for checking.

Day's Weather Outlook Good

By The Associated Press

Scattered rain splashed the eastern Panhandle and upper Red River Valley of Texas early Friday in the wake of hard storms Thursday night.

But the general outlook for the Fourth of July weekend was good weather.

High winds, hail and rains of up to three inches lashed the Denver City area of West Texas. Heavy cotton damage was reported.

Six inches of rain and light hail was reported at Welch, 15 miles northeast of Lamesa, Thursday night. Some crop damage was reported. State 17 between Lamesa and Brownfield was reported closed for a time.

H. H. Banks, a farmer living six miles east of Denver City, said the storm dumped three inches of rain on his farm in 30 minutes. He said a well house was blown away and 150 acres of cotton damaged.

R. W. Jacques, who lives nearby, reported 300 acres of cotton damaged by rain, hail and wind. Wichita Falls received a light rain shower at dawn Friday.

Graham Puts Need For Christians Ahead Of Soldiers

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—America needs Christians more than it needs soldiers, evangelist Billy Graham said last night.

Graham told a youth night crowd at the State Fairgrounds that America's greatest unused power is not the atom—it's the nation's youth.

"There is enough potential power in the youths tonight to change this area for Christ if dedicated in the right direction," he said.

An estimated 897 of the 18,500 present walked forward to make "decisions" for Christ. Both figures were new highs for Graham's Sacramento crusade, and brought the attendance to 84,500 and decisions to 3,000 for the five meetings.

Graham said young people want leadership and direction. Today's youth, he said, has too much leisure time, and "idleness can play tricks on the soul."

Fatal Infant Epidemic Over

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An infectious disease epidemic which killed 18 infants since Dec. 1 is now under control.

The disease was staphylococcus aureus, a bacteria infection which resists the so-called miracle drug.

Dr. Martha Yow, chief of a special study team at the City-County Hospital, said a new antibiotic, manycin or kantrax, helped bring the infections under control.

TEXANS BEGIN 3-DAY HOLIDAY

Texans plunged Friday into a three-day July 4th weekend of sunshine, fireworks, partying, picnicking and death.

Generally sunny and hot weather was forecast, with only scattered showers to mar the outings.

Rallies and group outings were scheduled all over the state. Candidates sprinted madly about, trying to address as many groups as possible.

Fireworks are legal over much of Texas and many group displays were planned.

The three-day holiday meant a great deal of time for family fishing, loafing, picnicking and fun.

The Department of Public Safety predicted 28 persons will die in traffic accidents in the 72-hour period from midnight Thursday to midnight Sunday.

More were expected to drown or be killed or injured in falls, by fireworks and miscellaneous accidents.

Bishop Oxnam Hits Racism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Methodist Bishop Bromley Oxnam said today a politician who swears to uphold the Constitution and then "cooperates with the forces that seek to deny the Negro the vote is a subversive."

Bishop Oxnam, president of the Methodist Church Council of Bishops, bitterly assailed racial discrimination in an address opening a four-day Methodist convocation on evangelism.

"Once again the Ku Klux Klan burns crosses and masquerades in white," the bishop said. "It proclaims its message of vicious racialism, anti-semitism and religious bigotry. Many church members, who proudly declare they are 'saved,' belong to this un-American and un-Christian body. When the Ku Klux Klan burns the cross, it desecrates a sacred symbol."

Calling for Methodism to "turn the tide in the race issue," Bishop Oxnam said:

"The preacher who pledges himself to follow Christ and then stands silent in the presence of segregation betrays his Lord. The silence of Christians when the vote is denied Negroes, and segregation is enforced, speaks so loud that black men overseas cannot hear what our missionaries say."

Jobless Pay Hits New Low

WASHINGTON (AP)—Continuing a 10-week decline, unemployment among workers insured for jobless benefits hit another 1958 low during the week ended June 21.

The Labor Department said yesterday the total declined by 93,700 to 2,610,900—the lowest reported so far this year.

However, the department said initial claims for jobless benefits—which reflect new layoffs—rose seasonally by 47,800 during the week ended June 23 to a total of 366,400.

The increase was attributed to new auto industry layoffs, partly due to the beginning of the switch-over to 1959 model production and to plant shutdowns for summer vacations.

Despite the drop in insured unemployment, the department noted that joblessness in that category still is more than double the 1,368,700 reported for the same week a year ago.

The rate of unemployment among the nation's 43 million insured workers during the week ended June 21 was 6.2 per cent, compared with 6.4 per cent the previous week and 3.1 per cent a year ago.

U.N. Lebanon Observers Can't Tell If Arms Come Over Border

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. observers in Lebanon reported today they were unable to tell whether any rebels or their weapons had come from outside the country.

But the vast majority of rebels who have been trying for eight weeks to overthrow Lebanon's pro-Western government are Lebanese, the observers said.

Their report said the rebels had barred the international watchdog teams from areas through which the government says President Nasser's United Arab Republic is sending in men and arms.

The tone of the observer team's first report was so inconclusive that members of the U.N. Security Council were not expected to call for an early meeting to consider it.

The Council sent the observers to the embattled Mediterranean President June 11 to investigate President Camille Chamoun's charges against the U.A.R. Chamoun has indicated if his own forces or the observers cannot end the rebellion he will call for a U.N. police force and, if he doesn't get that, direct U.S. and British help.

The Council resolution instructed the observers "to ensure that there is no illegal infiltration" from the U.A.R.

The observers said, "It had not been possible to establish from where these arms (of the rebels) were acquired . . . nor was it possible to establish if any of the armed men observed had infiltrated from outside; there is little doubt, however, that the vast majority was in any case composed of Lebanese."

Of Lebanon's 180-mile border with the U.A.R.'s Syrian province, the government controls only about 11 miles where the main Beirut-Damascus highway crosses the border, the report said. The rebels have tried several times to cut this highway in the center of the country.

The observers' findings were anticipated somewhat by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. He told a news conference he could find nothing during his recent visit to Lebanon to back up charges of "mass infiltration" by the U.A.R.

Lebanese Foreign Minister

Charles Malik promptly replied he would stand by a complaint to the Security Council of "massive interference." Malik said infiltration was only part of interference. A government spokesman in Beirut also disputed Hammarskjold's statement and claimed the U.A.R. had sent the rebels 36,000 automatic and other weapons. The spokesman said 3,000 Egyptians, Syrians and Palestinian Arabs were fighting in the rebel ranks.

In Cairo, however, an Egyptian radio commentator said Hammarskjold's statement directly indicates Britain and the United States "who gathered their fleets in Lebanese territorial waters to turn an internal issue into an international one. . . ."

The observers said they planned to add new observation posts to the 10 now established, extend motor patrols deeper into rebel territory and use more aerial photography.

Big Difference

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A pay envelope found in an empty whiskey bottle disclosed a coal miner's pay for two weeks work in the Du Quoin area in 1906 was $25.86. The dark color of the glass helped preserve the penciled writing on the envelope.

Du Quoin coal miners now are on a two-week vacation for which they will receive $180.

PAIRINGS COMPLETED FOR Y TENNIS MEET

Pairings have been completed for singles play in the YMCA City-Wide Tennis tournament, which gets under way here Monday afternoon. Present plans call for the men's singles meet championship play to end Monday, July 14, after which consolation honors will be determined. Doubles play in the men's division begins Monday, July 21, and winds up Wednesday, July 23. Nineteen players, including 11 from Webb AFB, are entered in singles play. Seven doubles teams will compete for the crown.

Four junior players have entered that division and a junior meet will be started July 24, according to present plans. Because of the odd number of entries, most of the players in the singles field drew first round byes.

Here are the pairings, as announced by Bob Hardy, general secretary of the YMCA: Monday, July 7—Briek Johnson vs Barton Grooms, City Park courts; Harry Jordan vs David Reed, Cosden Country Club courts; Bob Scarborough vs Bob Bateman, City Park; H. B. McCauley vs William Tilson, Cosden Country Club.

Tuesday, July 8—Bob Leach vs Bob Petty, City Park; Stephen Baird vs W. G. Carswell, City Park; Bill Walker vs winner of Jordan-Reed match, Cosden Country Club; R. H. Rogers vs Murray Denton, Cosden Country Club.

Wednesday, July 9—James Nickens vs winner of Johnson-Grooms match, City Park; winners in Scarborough-Bateman and Leach-Petty matches, City Park; Robert Stripling vs winner of McCauley-Tilson match, Cosden Country Club; Julius Glickman vs Ed Quill, Cosden Country Club.

Thursday, July 10—Three quarter-finals and one semi-final matches. Friday, July 11—One semi-final and three consolation round matches.

Monday, July 14—Championship match, City Park court, 5:30 p.m. Lt. Bateman is a former member of the junior varsity net squad at West Point. Scarborough and Denton were varsity players during their college days.

The tournament is taking three times as long to stage as is ordinary due to the shortage of playing areas here. Had Cosden not been so gracious enough to loan the YMCA use of its new courts, it might have run all summer.

Sam Bell is director of the tournament. Dr. C. W. Deats, Big Spring's No. 1 trapshoot enthusiast, was reminiscing aloud within the hearing of The Herald's Bobby Horton recently and delved at length on the shooting exploits of Ad Topperwein, the most amazing marksman who ever lived.

Dr. Deats dug out an old clipping on Topperwein, which recalled the fact that Ad, in 1906, fired at 72,500 wooden blocks 2 1/2 inches in size, tossed in the air over a period of ten days. He had a run of 14,561 without a miss and failed to hit only nine of the entire lot.

He had to call a halt when all available ammunition in San Antonio, site of the historic feat, was exhausted and the two men who were throwing the blocks into the air for him were all but prostrate.

Ad's weapons were three .22 automatics. Topperwein is still alive, by the way. He is 88 years of age now. His wife, a famous marksman in her own right (she specialized in trapshooting) (Ad was a specialist in the rifles) died of a heart attack in 1945.

Incidentally, the family name was originally Topperwein, which is the way The Daily Herald had it in its recent story. The Winchester Arms Company cut out the third letter of the name to simplify the spelling.

Condemnation, the fleet thoroughbred Big Spring's Jess Wilbanks picked up in a claiming race in California several months ago, won the 6 1/2 furlong 11th race at Ruidoso Downs last Sunday.

The price was good—Condemnation paid $19.20, 8.40 and $5.90, which is surprising in view of the fact that Condemnation hit the track with quite a reputation.

However, Wilbanks' entry was running against a classy field. Joey Giambra, the middleweight, boxer who beat Joey Giardello with the help of a highly controversial decision in San Francisco recently, years to become an actor.

He's using his GI Bill of Rights to attend the Elizabeth Holliday School of Dramatic Arts. Some athletes are reluctant to go to the movies nor watch TV often because they maintain it impairs their vision. Not so Giambra. He tries to see every movie and legitimate stage show in town. His favorite movie star is Marlon Brando.

He'll change his name when and if he goes before the footlights. He says a handle like "Marlowe McGuinness" will serve him better.

Governor's 'Cap Is Slated Today At Track In Ruidoso

RUIDOSO, N. M. (SC)—July 4. Second of the four big days featured at the "Downs" over this particular weekend, features the six furlong "Governor's Handicap," named in honor of Governor Edwin Mechem. A top field of nine runners face the starter in the Stake, vying for the winner's share of the $1,500, plus 5 per cent of the mutual purse.

The favorite, Liveitup, carrying the silks of R. E. Hirst of Roswell, N. Mex. is always hard to beat. He favors this shorter distance and drops two pounds from his last effort. Siston won her only start here, appears in sharp form and her best race could win.

Condemnation, winner of last week's "West Texas Handicap," is picking up weight and may find this distance a trifle short. Condemnation is owned by Jess Wilbanks, Big Spring.

Past Master was a good winner at Turf Paradise last winter and his best race would give him an excellent chance. Drop N' Turn has been running with the good ones on the West Coast—is making first appearance on local oval here, close while General George appears to be the outsider.

Ashley Cooper Wins

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Ashley Cooper won the men's singles championship in the Wimbledon tennis tournament today by beating Neale Fraser in an all-Australian final 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 13-11.

Starnes, Blum Fly To Chicago

Bobby Blum and Jack Starnes departed Big Spring via commercial plane last night for Chicago, where Monday they open play in the 1958 National Public Links golf tournament.

The two expected to land in the Windy City sometime this morning. They'll get in a couple of practice rounds before qualifying starts in the gigantic meet at Silver Lake course, Orland Park, on Monday.

Blum and Starnes earned the right to represent West Texas in the tournament in a Sectional round staged at the Munny course here several days ago.

The two must be among the 64 qualifiers in a field of 150 in order to compete in match play. Qualifying rounds will include 36 holes over two days.

Blum, 55th off the tee, will be playing in company with Richard Angle, Phoenix, Ariz., and Tommy Horton, Chattanooga, Tenn. The trio gets away at 10:24 a.m. Monday and 1:44 p.m. Tuesday.

Starnes will be part of a threesome which has William G. Moore, Dallas, and Bob Kletche, Chicago, as other members. They play at 10:40 a.m. Monday and again at 2 p.m. the following day.

Other Texans in the meet include Ed Petri, Austin, who will be trying to qualify in a group with John Chmeil, Buffalo, N. Y.; and Bard Jones, Salt Lake City; Gene Towry of Dallas, a finalist last year; and Dudley Krueger, Austin.

Towry goes off with John Dombroski, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Tom Oppel, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin. Kreuger will be in company with Henry A. Birk, Indianapolis; and Archie Dadian, West Allis, Wisconsin.

About half way through the first game last night, Dodger Vice President Red Patterson announced with a trace of dejection that the crowd would have swelled to over 70,000 if it hadn't been for tonight's American Legion fireworks show at the Coliseum. Workmen had moved some of the fireworks equipment into the park Thursday and the club was asked to stop selling tickets to keep fans out of the area where the equipment was set up.

Patterson said 8,000 to 10,000 fans turned away at the ticket windows.

The Cards won the first game 4-2, but the Dodgers came back to take the nightcap 3-2.

Obie Bristow Grabs Tournament Medal

Playing some of his best golf in years, the veteran Obie Bristow copped medal honors in the annual Fourth of July Golf tournament at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday with a two-under par score of 70. Bristow, matched against W. E. Ramsey in first round play this morning, toured the first nine in 34 strokes and slipped to a 36 the second time around.

A record field of 64 players—exactly enough for four flights—entered the club meet. First two rounds of competition takes place today. The linksters rest tomorrow and return Sunday for the final two rounds.

James Lee Underwood is the defending titlist and one of the favorites to repeat. Underwood returned here from college yesterday. One thing is assured. He and Judge R. H. Weaver won't be meeting in the finals for the third straight year. The two are in the same bracket and could conceivably tangle in the third round.

Weaver's first round opponent is Jack Wallace, who could upset the judge if he waxes warm. Wallace qualified with a 76.

It took a 79 or better to rate the title flight and one 79—piced together by Jack Cook—didn't make it. Cook drew for a position in the championship flight with Sunny Edwards and lost. Thus he heads up the first flight.

Bobby Wright, Weaver and Son Powell all wound up with 72's in the qualifying round. Wright, who has enjoyed more success on the tournament trail than any other player in the field, must be regarded as the outstanding choice to win the meet. He plays Tommy Hutto this morning.

First round opponent of Powell's is Col. Kyle Riddle of Webb AFB, who qualified with a 78.

If Wright gets by Hutto, he challenges the winner of the Underwood-Speedy Nugent scrap.

Ell McComb is director of the meet. He has been busy the last couple of weeks, lining up prizes for the winners.

Pairings, with qualifying scores in championship flight listed: CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT: James Lee Underwood, defending champion, vs. Speedy Nugent (76); Bobby Wright (72) vs. Tommy Hutto (78); Weaver (72) vs. Jack Wallace (76); Ed Underwood (74) vs. Earl Reynolds (78); Obie Bristow (70) vs. W. # Amans Decisions Odd Fellow Nine

The Odd Fellows matched Amans hit-for-hit last night, and very nearly pitch-for-pitch, but failed in scoring as Amans won, 13-12, in a Texas Little League ball game.

Robert DeLeon, pitching his first six-inning game, gave up seven hits and his team collected that many. The Odd Fellows went to bat 32 times, as did the winners.

The Icers took a 7-2 lead early, but the Odd Boys reacted and took a 7-up tie. They lost the game in the fifth inning as Amans imported a sextet of tallies. The losers got five in the last frame.

Terry Woods went three-for-four, a double and two singles, and Martino had a double for the winning club. Glenn Hartwell managed two doubles and a single for the Fellows.

Reed and Clover tangled tonight in what should be an outstanding match. Amans (13) AB R H O. # Cougars Clobber Panthers, 78-55

The Cougars belted the Panthers, 78-55, in a YMCA Summer Senior basketball league game here Thursday night.

In junior league activity, the Bears outlasted the Stars, 37-35, after leading by one point at half time.

COUGARS (78) — Thompson 13-27; Green 10-21; F. Hollis 7-15; B. Evans 6-12; Londermilk 11-22. Total 37-78. PANTHERS (55) — F. Hollis 11-22; Patterson 11-21; Cotton 11-13; Baskins 6-6; Bell 6-6. Total 17-55. Half time score—Cougars 31, Panthers 25.

Leonard Perry Is Low At Angelo

SAN ANGELO (SC) — Leonard Perry of Sweetwater won the Jaycee Regional Junior Golf tournament here Thursday with a 36-hole score of 146.

He qualified for the State meet at Corpus Christi July 14-16, along with James Whitehead, Texas; Guy Gross, San Angelo; and Jerry Johnson, San Angelo. Gross will not be able to make the trip, however. James Bardwell of Sweetwater will take his place.

Donnie Everett, Big Spring, finished with a 196 in the 16-17 year bracket. Richard Atkins, Big Spring, had a 198 in the 14-15 age bracket, one stroke lower than his fellow townsman, Emmett Kent Morgan.

In the 12-13 year group, Richard Clark of Big Spring finished with a 221.

Bowdry and Luedee Collide Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jesse Bowdry, a rising fighter with deadly hooks, meets slower, heavier-punching Jerry Luedee tonight in a light heavyweight 10-rounder. The nationally televised (NBC) Freedom Hall bout begins at 9 p.m. (CST).

Pigs Decision Bruins, 19-5

The Pigs showed the winless Cubs with more than a dozen runs in the first three innings, and crushed them, 19-5, in an American Little League game here last night.

In doing so, the Pigs tightened the clamps on a tilt with Cubs, both having 7-1 records. The pair met in the next closing week of action in a tilt which would determine the ALL crown-holder.

Carrying a big stick, Terry Isbell rapped out two extra-base hits and a single in five efforts for the Pigs, and Jimmy Lane bounced away a double and two singles.

Top tosser Mike Lane played selfish with hits as he distributed three hits in toying with some 20 batters.

The Pigs scored four runs in the first, and then went hog-wild in the third for eight. The Cubs had their big moment in the fifth, when they garnered three tallies.

Tonight at 7:30, the Stars will try to break the Colts who have given top showings lately.

School Study Panel Seeking More Teachers

AUSTIN (AP)—"Wanted: 46,165 additional teachers for Texas public schools during the next five years."

An attempt to provide an answer to where Texas will harvest its future teachers gets a big push Monday.

At that time a subcommittee of the Hale-Aikin Committee, studying public education in Texas, will check 251 county reports on teacher supply.

It not only seeks an answer to the supply problem but also ways and means to better the teachers in public schools.

Another immediate problem: Texas now needs 4,343 teachers to fill vacant positions and to relieve overcrowded conditions. Another 3,349 teachers are needed to replace unqualified instructors or teachers on a temporary basis.

Horace Jackson, Gatesville businessman, heads the committee.

Here's what the counties said about teacher supply:

1. Teachers are now being used to the fullest extent, 195 counties said, but 31 disagreed. Better salaries were the most important factor in keeping teachers. Better working and living conditions followed in importance.
2. To recruit new teachers, money is the main need, said 183 counties to 13, who did not rate money as most important. Suggested salaries to get new instructors ranged from a $4,200 minimum to a $7,000 maximum.
3. Keeping teachers is an unsolved problem, but again money helps. From 1955 to 1957, there were 14,982 teachers who left their jobs, with 5,883 merely transferring to other schools. But 6,700 quit altogether giving personal and family reasons for leaving the profession. Another 1,664 accepted employment outside of the schoolhouse.
4. The report showed 12,046 possible teachers available now, but there was no indication where sources may be tapped in the next five years.
5. To improve teachers, almost all counties agreed that the best way was to encourage instructors to seek additional degrees. Another way was to have specialization of subject matter, said 135 counties.

DEAR ABBY CHEESECAKE

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There has been a very special cheesecake recipe in my family for generations and all my friends are wild over this cheesecake. I serve it when I have company. I am having a party soon and everyone looks forward to my cheesecake dessert except this one man, who told someone that he does not care for cheesecake. I know if he ever tried mine he would like it, but I don't want to force him. Should I disappoint all the other guests and serve a different dessert, or should I let majority rule and serve the cheesecake?

CHEESECAKE MAKER
DEAR CHEESE, ETC: Serve the cheesecake and suggest he try it. If he doesn't want to eat it—pass the fruit and nuts to him!

DEAR ABBY: We have an eleven-year-old son whom we are trying to raise up clean and decent. The people across the street are making this hard for us because they have a twelve-year-old girl who is telling our boy all the facts of life. I don't know how I can make this any plainer and still get it in the paper. Will you please tell us what to do about this?

MRS. G. L.
DEAR MRS. G. L.: If your boy is interested enough to listen, this is an ideal time for YOU to give him YOUR version of the same facts.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a boy who takes you out three nights straight and practically breaks your back kissing you and then goes around telling all his friends that you are an easy make-out? ELLIE

DEAR ELLIE: I think he's right!

DEAR ABBY: Must a girl pay all her life for one mistake? I am 23, hard-working, good-looking and decent, but when I was 16 I had a child born out of wedlock. I go to church faithfully and feel that God has forgiven me, but my mother won't let me forget it. We put the child out for adoption, and although very few people know about me, my mother says I have disgraced her. I am a prisoner in my own home. I work in a dress shop all day and have to come right home after work. I am not allowed to go out with a man and I give all my pay to my mother. My mother says no respectable man would ever marry me so I can forget about men. I am only human, Abby. Should I just jump off the bridge or what?

MISERABLE
DEAR MISERABLE: Your mother is wrong. Plenty of respectable men marry girls who have made "one mistake." You are over 21, and can support yourself. Pack your clothes and rent yourself a room. You've earned your freedom and paid for your "mistake"—start living and good luck!

Surety Rate Hike Blamed On Costs

AUSTIN (AP)—Higher costs to insurance companies because drivers have more accidents were the major reason given for increased auto insurance rates to take effect Aug. 1.

"The average rate increase, statewide for all classes combined, will be about 19 cents for liability insurance and about 17 per cent for collision insurance for private cars," the Board of Insurance said yesterday.

The announcement of the expected higher rates came as Chief Actuary Angus McDonald said the new rates have been mailed to local agents throughout the state and should be available by Monday.

Rate increases will vary greatly in different areas. The board set the rates after a public hearing here last month and a study of statistics on auto losses in Texas the past two years.

"These increases result directly from an increasing number of automobile collisions, higher cost of repairs, larger medical costs and higher jury awards in actions for damages," the board said.

The new provisions will permit rate reductions in certain instances, the board said.

They are:

1. A motorist can reduce his rate 50 per cent on comprehensive physical damage insurance (not including collision) by using a $50 deductible provision.
2. Owners of two or more cars can save on rates if all cars are insured under a single policy and if there are no drivers in the household under age 25. Such a policy will permit a 25 per cent reduction on the rate for the lowest rated vehicle for collision, liability and medical payments insurance.

Jackson said the driving public determines what the rates are going to be from year to year because the number of accidents determine the insurance costs. He urged what he called a "get-tough policy" against traffic law violators in an effort to curb accidents and bring about lower rates.

Plush Desert Hotel Opens
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The top investment in this land of cactus and crap tables—a seven-million-dollar tourist attraction called the Hotel Stardust—opened Wednesday night with a Hollywood and Parisian whoop.

Searchlights and stars like Bob Hope, Ethel Merman, Marie McDonald and Polly Bergen hailed the opening of the strip's newest luxury hotel. It was once the dream of Tony Cornero Stralla, who operated gambling ships off the California coast in the 1930s until beached by the then Atty. Gen. Earl Warren.

Stralla died at a crap table here three years ago while trying for the hard way. His mammoth development wasted until 2,900 investors were corralled to put up the finishing money. The hotel's 1,065 rooms far exceed the capacity of other hotels on the town's strip.

For an opener, the Stardust imported the celebrated Lido show from Paris. Never in Las Vegas history were so many showgirls covered by so little. Also adding to the spice were the clothed but
