PINNED IN VEHICLE

Girl, 18, Burns To Death In Fire Caused By Auto Wreck

Trapped in a wrecked automobile, Erlinda Ortega, 18, burned to death early Sunday as Howard County's contribution to the holiday violent death toll.

The girl was a passenger in a car which caught fire following a collision on U. S. 87 just 4 of a mile south of the Big Spring limits. She was pinned beneath the steering wheel and efforts of her companions to rescue her were futile, Highway Patrolman Kell Davis reported.

No one else was seriously injured, although Mary Lou Marquez and Froylan Lopez were taken to a hospital for examination and treatment of scratches. Miss Ortega, daughter of Aleais Ortega of Big Spring, was riding in a car driven by Octaviano Tellez Ramirez, 22, also of Big Spring, the patrolman reported.

The vehicle caught fire after it was in collision with a car driven by Henry Martin Hill, 19, of Big Spring. Apparently the Ramirez car was saturated with gasoline from its own tank, with the fire starting from a spark as the wreckage scraped along the pavement.

Davis said that both cars were traveling toward Big Spring about 2 a.m. Sunday, with the Ramirez vehicle in front. Hill told the patrolman that he was blinded by lights of an approaching car and didn't see the Ramirez auto until it was too late to avoid a collision. Hill was alone in his car. The death was the sixth due to traffic in Howard County this year.

The victim's body is at River Funeral Home where services are pending. She is survived by her father, three sisters, Mrs. Delina Fierro, Mrs. Rosa Diaz and Virginia Ortega; and six brothers, Benjamin, Joe, Paul, Israel, Alvin and Mar-garito Ortega, all of Big Spring.

Lebanon Claims Charges Proven

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Premier Sami Solh today produced a new list of rebel captives which he claimed bolstered Lebanon's charges that President Nasser's United Arab Republic is helping the Lebanese rebels. He appealed to "the world's conscience" to pin the blame for the eight-week-old rebellion on U.A.R. intervention.

11 People Hurt In Auto Accident

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — Eleven persons, eight in one automobile, were injured in a head-on collision a mile east of here Sunday. All lived near Ennis.

Old Settlers Set Reunion

Plans for the annual all-day barbecue and get-together of old settlers of Howard and Glasscock counties are to be reviewed at a meeting of the officers of the Howard-Glasscock County Old Settlers Assn. on Saturday afternoon.

Future British King Has Inglorious Financial Setback

LONDON (AP) — Britain's future king has suffered an inglorious reverse in a big deal to straighten out his shaky finances at the school candy shop.

Aware that there was an excellent opportunity to buy royal souvenirs cheap, other schoolboys flocked to Charles' sale.

Pleasant Duty

Some guys have all the luck. It seems. This soldier, who has swapped his uniform for swimming trunks, seems to be enjoying his tour of guard duty on a beach at Kyrenia, Cyprus, even though he has to lug a rifle with him. Cyprus, scene of anti-British disorders earlier this year, has been fairly quiet recently, but among the precautions being taken against further outbreaks is posting of guards on all beaches where large crowds gather.

By The Associated Press
Traffic Drownings Miscellaneous Total

ing the nonholiday period covering 78 hours from June 19 to June 22, showed 339 traffic deaths, 118 drownings and 63 deaths in miscellaneous type accidents. The over-all total of 520 was more than 100 under the combined total during the July 4 weekend.

SHOCKING EXPERIENCE

AUSTIN (AP)—Police dispatcher H. F. Moore had a shocking experience during a thunderstorm last night. Lightning struck the radio aerial on top of the police building. The charge came down a conduit with a bang, did a perfect weld on a vacuum bottle and oil can on top a metal cabinet in Moore's office.

Prober Claims Acts Not Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A batch of Bernard Goldfine's confidential papers was reported stolen from a hotel room today. A microphone was found planted to eavesdrop on conversations of his aides quartered in the same hotel.

The sensational developments swirled around a congressional investigation of relations between Goldfine, a Boston industrialist, and White House aide Sherman Adams. The probe suddenly was converted into an investigation by the committee of its own staff.

BORDER INCIDENT

Russians Release Transport Crew

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today released nine U. S. airmen whose military transport was forced down inside Soviet Armenia 11 days ago.

Their plane, a C118 transport, was forced to land by Soviet fighter craft. According to the Soviet announcement made the same day the plane burned on the ground—whether because of fighter action or because its crew wished to keep it out of Soviet hands was not made clear.

The U.S.S.R. officially protested the flight over Soviet territory as a frontier violation. The United States replied there had been no such intention and that the transport became lost in bad weather.

Some legal authorities who preferred not to be directly quoted expressed belief that the use of the microphone did not violate any federal statutes.

410 ESTIMATED

The National Safety Council has estimated the 410 traffic death toll for the 78-hour period starting at 8 p.m. local time Thursday and ending last midnight. The record high traffic toll for a three-day July 4 holiday period was 407 set in 1955 while the record low since World War II was 225 deaths in 1947.

BULLETIN

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban rebels released three more of their kidnaped North American captives today.

There were strong indications, however, that the rebels were in no hurry because the presence of the Americans in the rebel camps has brought a halt to air attacks by the forces of President Fulgencio Batista.

Sovoy Kay Station Gives Bargain In Auto Service

Sovoy Kay, owner and operator of the Phillips 66 service station at 1901 Gregg Street, wants the motoring public to know that his concern is still offering one of the best money-savings deals to be found anywhere.

Drive in to the Kay station and ask for a grease job and oil change.

Free of charge, employes of the station will balance the front wheels of your vehicle (supplying the balances as well as the labor, mind you) or adjust your brakes, upon request.

If you're going on a vacation, it will pay you to take your car to Sovoy Kay's for such work. Wheels out of balance driving over many miles can wear out tires in a hurry. And, of course, you wouldn't want to start anywhere without having your brakes in A-1 condition.

Kay and his employes will see to it that they are, upon request.

Top quality Phillips 66 products, including premium gasolines and motor oils, are stocked by the Kay station. You're sure to get maximum mileage out of any vehicle by using the famous Phillips 66 products.

Sovoy Kay and his employes specialize in servicing automobiles, where the customer wants a cleaning job on his vehicle or a change in crankcase oil.

When the servicing of a vehicle takes place at the Kay station, the motorist can rest assured that his battery water is checked and recharged, if it is low.

Sovoy Kay maintains an emergency vehicle at all times to offer that type of service to anyone in need of it. Motorists stranded in the area can summon a Kay employee by dialing No. 4-8451.

Phillips 66 tires and tubes are also sold by the Sovoy Kay service station.

Wagon Wheel Serves Top Food At Popular Prices

Big Spring's finest food—at popular prices—is served at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, 803 E. 3rd, long known as the city's finest restaurant and a popular dining spot for travelers from all sections of the nation.

The Wagon Wheel, established 15 years ago, has been expanded steadily and has attracted a growing clientele through the years on the basis of its excellent food, friendly, prompt and courteous service and pleasing, comfortable atmosphere.

Through the years it also has built up a list of patrons from coast to coast, as travelers stopped at the Wagon Wheel for breakfast, lunch or dinner, and then went on to spread the word about the delicious food and splendid service. The same travelers have returned time after time, and many other tourists have stopped at the Wagon Wheel to report that the establishment was highly recommended by their friends back home.

Duncan Hines, the world-famous gourmet, heard of the Wagon Wheel and came to Big Spring to sample the fare. As a result, the popular restaurant is now listed among his favorite places to dine.

The American Automobile Assn., nationwide organization of tourists, also recommends the Wagon Wheel to its members.

Hundreds of Big Springers, of course, need no outside recommendation. They are the ones who dine regularly at the Wagon Wheel because they've found its service and menu are unmatched.

E. L. Terry is manager of the Wagon Wheel Restaurant. The establishment is owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rainbolt, its founders.

Forty Tons Of Concrete

Forty tons of concrete—that's the amount contractors estimated poured down on three workmen at the new Sam Houston High School at San Antonio. Two men, Jerry E. Hollingsworth, 26, of La Vernia, and Edward Carolan, 32, San Antonio, were killed.

Ex-Residents Of Dead City Meet In Old Cemetery

WHAT WAS ONCE GARNETTSTOWN, Ky. (AP)—I guess it is a little unique to have a reunion in a cemetery. H. D. Higbee said.

"But it's about the only time we ever get to see each other," Higbee, a 51-year-old iron shop worker at Louisville, and about 150 other folks who once lived in the small village of Garnettstown got together yesterday at the burial grounds for their annual reunion.

The government bought their land in 1940 and made it part of the Ft. Knox military reservation. The 10-acre cemetery is the only land they retained.

What do people talk about in a cemetery? Old friends, old times, those who have passed on and the future generation, says Higbee.

Like some of the others present, he said he thought back to his boyhood days.

He also shared the surprise of meeting a family which hadn't been heard from since Garnettstown disappeared.

Just recently the family read about the reunion in a newspaper and decided to attend.

Some of the reunion is taken up by business. There's the matter of a fund to keep the cemetery in shape.

Everyone contributes as the need arises.

The list of people who purchase new lots every year — the people who want to be buried in their family lots.

"Some of the older ones are dying off each year," Higbee says. But he's quick to add the old-timers hope their children will want to carry on the custom of getting together to talk about what used to be.

Man's Fancy The Same Under Water

HAMBURG, N. J. (AP)—Take a 19-year-old youth, give him a skin diving outfit, submerge him in 15 feet of water for more than 30 hours, and what does he think about?

He thinks about girl skindivers, that's what.

Bernie Camoli spent 30 hours and 6 minutes submerged in the waters of White Rock Quarry over the weekend.

The water got cold, and Camoli got bored, sleepy and cold before he bobbed to the surface Saturday night.

But yesterday, he plunged back into the quarry waters—briefly—to get a telephone number some girl skindiver left there. He sat on a platform during his protracted stay underwater and that's where she wrote her number.

Camoli, who claims a new skin diving record with this feat, said he played cards and tic-tac-toe with a fellow skin diver to escape boredom.

But his companion, Paul Mische, 29, choked on a piece of meat after 8 1/2 hours and had to come to the surface.

While the sun was out, Camoli read whodunits. He drank warm milk and soup through a baby bottle. Fellow divers brought him bits of meat and cheese.

When the sun went down, he was too cold to read. And it wasn't very pleasant trying to keep warm wrapped in two suits of foam rubber and canvas.

Was his record-breaking stunt worth it? It'll all be decided when he uses that phone number.

Chess Kids Seen Key In Space Race

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Don't discourage Junior if he takes to moving pawns, rooks and bishops around a checkered board.

He may prove to be one of America's weapons in its scientific competition with the Soviet Union.

Jerry Spann, president of the U. S. Chess Federation.

Russians are world leaders in chess, notes Spann, and "we think there's a method in the Russian chess madness."

"Chess doesn't make brains," says Spann, "but it pinpoints those students with minds who can benefit from intensive scientific training."

"Kids take to the game and it's a perfect aptitude test. You can find talent that way which might never be known otherwise."

Who are the best chess players? "Mathematicians and musicians," says Spann.

Chess, he says, requires a mathematician's ability to analyze and a musician's ability to synthesize or compose.

Election Seen As Adenauer Victory

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—An election victory for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats in West Germany's largest state was seen today as an endorsement of his plans to provide the nation's new army with atomic weapons.

The Christian Democrats regained control of the Provincial Parliament of North Rhine-Westphalia yesterday in the first popular test of the nuclear armament program. It has become West Germany's hottest political issue since Adenauer's party won the national elections again almost 10 months ago.

Only the provincial administration of this big industrial and agricultural state was at stake, but the opposition Socialists keyed their campaign to Adenauer's plans to accept the Atlantic Allies' offer of nuclear arms.

The Socialists claimed atomic armament would put West Germany so squarely in the Western camp that all hope of reuniting with Communist East Germany by negotiations would be lost. They raised the specter of atomic warfare, while the Christian Democrats played on fears of communism and hammered home their theme of postwar prosperity.

The Christian Democrats moved from a minority position of 89 seats in the 200-member Provincial Parliament to firm control with 104 seats. The Socialists advanced, but not as far, from 76 to 81 seats.

Adenauer's party actually lost 5 per cent of the popular vote from its high point in the state in last September's general elections. The Socialists gained almost 6 per cent from last year's low of 33.5 per cent. The Christian Democrats polled 50.5 per cent.

The principal loser was the Free Democrat party, which dropped from 27 seats to 15. The Christian Democrats in a coalition government in 1954 but suddenly switched two years ago and allowed the Socialists to take over.

Two splinter groups, the neo-Nazi German Reich party and the Catholic Center party, lost their seats entirely by polling less than 3 per cent of the popular vote.

The Communists have been outlawed for two years.

This was the popular vote (with percentages of the vote in the 1954 state election in parentheses): Christian Democrats 4,011,122 or 50.5 per cent (41.3 per cent in 1954); Socialists 3,115,934 or 39.2 per cent (34.5); Free Democrats 556,274 or 7.1 per cent (11.5); The Center party 83,733; the German party 125,044; the German Reich party 43,090; and the German Union 176.

6 Persons Killed In Headon Crash

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Two cars collided near here yesterday during a thundershower, killing six persons. Two others were injured critically.

Dead are Aaron Leitwein, 66; his wife Dahna, 64; their son, Harry Leitwein, 45; and his son, Dean, 13, all of Springfield; and Howard Bigelow, 48, and his son David, 13, Kansas City.

The injured are Bigelow's other son Tommy, 9, and Mrs. Harry Leitwein, 43.

At viruses could be involved in at least some kinds of human cancers. If they are, perhaps vaccines or other controls against them can be devised.

Another main attack is aimed at producing anticancer drugs based on discoveries of the tiny but significant differences between cancer and healthy cells. The idea is to get the drugs to jam the machinery of the cancer cells.

This approach has led to drugs which have had some successes against a few kinds of cancer.

Swimmer Dies In Rescue Try

LONG BEACH, N.C. (AP)—A father and daughter bade each other goodbye upon realizing they were drowning in the Atlantic yesterday.

However, he was rescued by another man who himself drowned in a vain effort to rescue the daughter.

The other man, Ernest McCracken of Southport, previously had rescued another daughter, Inez Joyner, 10, who had been swept off her feet by a current on Long Beach Inlet.

Shirley Joyner, 14, of Nashville, N.C., drowned along with McCracken.

Inez first ventured into deep water and was knocked down by a current. Shirley tried to help her, and also was gripped by the current. Their screams attracted Joyner and McCracken.

McCracken towed Inez in, and Joyner went to Shirley.

"We went under several times," Joyner related. "We knew we were going to drown. We said goodbye to each other."

After McCracken rescued Joyner, he reached Shirley far out in the water. Witnesses said they appeared to struggle, and then disappeared beneath the waves of this beach near Southport and Wilmington.

Thief Snitches Swimming Pool

DETROIT (AP)—John Steinmetz Jr., 4, and his brother Gary, 3, and two other youngsters were filling up a plastic swimming pool in the Steinmetz back yard so they could cool off.

A man in a pickup truck was driving down the alley and saw the children. He stopped his truck, jumped over a fence, grabbed the pool, threw it in his truck and took off. Police are searching for the man.

Navy Announces Robot Brain To Match Humans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy announced today the partial development of an electronic robot it says will be able to match some of the functions of the human brain.

It calls the robot a Perceptron. At least another year will be required to complete the first full pilot model, the Navy said, but its principle and concept already have been demonstrated successfully by using a large electronic computer.

When it is fully developed, the machine is expected to be able to perceive, recognize and identify its surroundings without any human training or control. It differs from the ordinary computer in that it does not have to be fed facts and figures in advance.

Among the potential uses to which such a robot eventually may be put, the announcement said, are these:

New-type automatic landing systems and automatic pilots for aircraft... automatic reading of the printed or written word... responding to verbal commands... automatic language translation, either in written or vocal form... automatic unearthing of scientific and other information buried in library books... and even rapid-fire recognition of musical compositions, with all the accuracy of a music critic.

The Navy says the new system closely parallels, by electronic means, the "selective recognition or 'similarity' functions of man's mind."

It would operate in much the same way that the human eye and certain brain areas work together to provide the human function of recognition.

Dr. Frank Rosenblatt, research psychologist at the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Inc., working under a contract with the Office of Naval Research, came up with the Perceptron concept.

2 Men Missing From U.S. Prison

DALLAS (AP)—Two short-term prisoners, "not particularly friendly" with each other, were missing Sunday from the federal correctional institution at nearby Seagoville.

Authorities doubted that J. L. Morrison, 28, San Angelo, and Jose Acosta, 33, McAllen, left the minimum-security prison together. But both were missed at 1 p.m. head-count.

Neither of the men was considered dangerous.

Morrison was serving a 4-year term on forgery and counterfeiting and had been at Seagoville since May. Acosta, who entered last year, was serving 5 years for a narcotics violation.

Wedding In Jail

Weaver Champion At Country Club

Edges Edwards 1-Up In Finals

By TOMMY HART

The third time proved charm for Judge R. H. Weaver in the Fourth of July Golf tournament completed at the Big Spring Country Club Sunday afternoon.

Weaver, who had lost to James Lee Underwood in the finals of both the 1956 and '57 tournaments, fanned out rugged Sunny Edwards in the 18-hole finals of the 1958 meet, 1 up.

R. H. was two down at the turn but rallied after the two had halved ten to win four holes in a row. Edwards cut that margin with a birdie on 17, canning a long putt from the froghair beyond the hole.

Weaver admitted later that putt "shook him up" but he recovered well with a shot straight down the middle and played it safe all the way in.

Sunny twice saw his shots stray off to the right on the 18th. His approach then curled up and kicked off the left side of the green and Weaver was home free.

Edwards won three when R. H. three-putted and doubled his advantage with a par on seven. Weaver was out in 39 but made the second nine in 33 strokes.

The judge started fighting back on the 11th after his tee shot had strayed off into the rough to the left. Edwards eventually lost the hole to a four.

Weaver's four on the 12th enabled him to pull even and he went ahead for the first time on 13 when Sunny got in trouble with his drive, which just cleared the ditch that bisects the tee and green.

Weaver hit the green with his tee shot and wound up with a 'gimme' three.

Weaver made a long putt for a three on the 13th to go two up and the two halved on down to the 17th, where Edwards brought a roar from the gallery with his nifty putt.

Earl Reynolds was carried to the 22nd hole before he was able to defeat the veteran J. R. Farmer in championship consolations.

Reynolds thought he had it won on the 18th but Farmer made the most brilliant shot of the tournament when he sank an approach from 50 feet away. The ball found its way over an embankment, then seemed to open its eyes, seek out the hole and then take its time in going for it.

Reynolds was one under for the round and took out Farmer with a

Giants Win 3rd Straight In 9th Inning

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Giants are still pulling off ninth inning heroics, one of the reasons San Francisco continues to hound Milwaukee, hanging on only one game behind the league leading Braves today.

For the third straight day, the Giants won a game in the ninth inning yesterday scoring the winning run in that frame. With the bases full, two out and the score tied in the last of the ninth, Cardinal relief pitcher Larry Jackson plunked Jimmy Davenport with a pitch, forcing over the winning run.

It was Jackson's second straight loss. He got in a jam by walking pitcher Red Worthington with one out. Whitley Lockman singled, Willie Mays drew an intentional pass, filling the bases. Jackson's first pitch to Davenport hit him in the back.

Philadelphia's Phillies extended their winning streak to seven by defeating Cincinnati 7-1, but the Redlegs won the second game of the doubleheader 11-4. The Braves broke their five-game losing streak as Joey Jay hurled a 2-0 shutout against Pittsburgh. Chicago's Cubs, behind the one-hit pitching of Dick Drott and Don Elston, defeated Los Angeles 6-2.

The New York Yankees' first place lead in the American League remained 11 games despite their 10-4 defeat by Boston. Kansas City, tied with the Red Sox in the runner-up spot, dropped an 8-5 decision to Cleveland. Detroit nipped Chicago 2-1 and Washington snapped a tie in the eighth to defeat Baltimore 4-3.

Jay, the Braves' 22-year-old bonus righthander, throttled the Pirates with only four hits for his second victory in five decisions. Wes Covington batted in both Milwaukee runs with a single in the fifth and a home run in the seventh, both against Curt Raydon.

In the Cubs' second straight triumph at Los Angeles, Drott won his fourth in ten decisions. He had a no-hitter until Jim Gilliam got the lone Dodger hit, a single with one out in the seventh.

Drott, however, had to be replaced after he forced in a run in the seventh with his eighth pass.

Gus Bell rapped four hits and drove in four runs to pace Cincinnati's 15-hit attack in the second game victory after the Phillies had a 4-2 tie in the National League's longest winning streak of the season in the opener. Rookie pitcher Ray Semproch limited the Redlegs to five hits for his 10th triumph as the Phils made it seven in a row in the first game.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The recent shifting tides of major league baseball continue to roll today with the Washington Senators taking a sounding on their possible movement.

All Pitchers Rested For Tuesday's All-Star Game

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Bob Turley of the New York Yankees and Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves today were named starting pitchers for Tuesday's 25th All-Star baseball game.

The choice of Spahn was a surprise because the American League starting lineup contained only two left-handed batters.

Turley's choice was expected. He leads major league pitchers with 12 victories, 3 defeats. Spahn, 37, has a 10-5 record for the Braves.

Manager Fred Haney of Milwaukee pulled another surprise when he listed Willie Mays, San Francisco centerfielder, as his leadoff man.

BALTIMORE (AP)— For the first time in recent years, the managers of the All-Star baseball teams will have a stable of well-rested starting pitchers.

None of the 15 pitchers (eight in the National League and seven in the American League) slated for tomorrow's silver anniversary game started Sunday games. A few years back, it seemed everybody on the roster

Ike Delock Becomes Ace Of Sox Staff

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Editor

In spring training, Ivan (Ike) Delock was just another name on the Boston Red Sox roster. Manager Mike Higgins had plans for him, but only in relief roles. No. 2 behind Lefty Leo Kiely.

Today, as Higgins takes inventory during the season's half-way turn, he shudders to think where his second place Sox would be without Delock. Ike not only has blossomed into a starting pitcher but he has become the team's biggest winner and the ace of the staff.

The 28-year-old right-hander won his seventh game without defeat Sunday as the Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 10-4. It was Boston's first victory over the American League leaders since April 16 and only the second in eight decisions this season.

The Yankees remained 11 games in front of Boston and Kansas City, tied for second. The A's were beaten by Cleveland 8-5. Detroit nipped Chicago 2-1 and Washington came from behind to shade Baltimore 4-3.

In the National League, Milwaukee retained its first place margin of one game over San Francisco with a 2-0 shutout of Pittsburgh. The Giants made it two in a row over St. Louis, 5-4. Chicago whipped Los Angeles 6-2 and Philadelphia and Cincinnati split a doubleheader. The Phillies won their seventh straight with a 7-1 opening victory and the Redlegs took the nightcap 11-4.

After limiting the Yankees to four hits through seven innings, Delock was clipped for three more hits in the eighth, including Mickey Mantle's 21st home run. Ike received credit for snapping the Yankees' five-game winning streak, however, when Kiely replaced him with two runners on base and one out and retired the next five batters.

Delock, counting his last four decisions in 1957, now owns a string of 11 successive victories.

Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen paced the Red Sox's 12-hit attack against loser Don Larsen and five relievers. Each collected three hits. Williams rapped his 14th home run and Jensen drove in three runs to raise his league leading RBI total to 68. Jackie has hit safely in his last 15 games.

Jim Bunning racked up his fifth straight victory with a six-hit performance for the Tigers against the White Sox. The loser was Dick Donovan, his 10th in 13 decisions.

Cleveland rookie Gary Bell hurled a seven-hitter for his third victory in his first complete game in the majors.

Odessa Pro-Am To Attract 100 Teams

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—Hotshots of the tournament trail will begin arriving Monday for the $10,000 Odessa pro-amatur, a 72-hole affair that gets under way Thursday.

The field is expected to approach 100 teams, with the featured attraction to be Tommy Bolt, the National Open champion. Bolt said he would come in Wednesday and fire a practice round.

Last year there were a record 101 teams and that number may be equaled this time although tournament officials had rather not have so many teams since it makes the tournament unwieldy.

The par 35-37 Odessa Country Club course that stretches 6,700 yards was tested by one team over the weekend as Peeper and Jimmy Parvino of Longview posted 65 and 66 best-ball scores. The record is 251 for 72 holes—37 under par. It was set in 1952 by Bo Wining and Billy Maxwell, when the latter was still an amateur.

Four or five teams are being eyed as favorites with the combination of Ernie Vossler and Rex Baxter, which lost in a playoff last year and won it the year before, rated highly. The defending champions, Jerry Robinson and Miller Barber of Texarkana, are back. Maxwell and Bill Roden and Wining and Bobby French are the other well-regarded entries.

First money for the winning professional is $2,000.

Tigers Blast Rotan, 14-0

The Big Spring Tigers were nudged by the Odessa All-Stars, 3-2, here Friday, but rebounded for a big 14-0 triumph over Rotan on the 13th of July Sunday.

Against Odessa, the two evenly-matched clubs traded a run each in the first two innings.

Odessa struck first, with third baseman Marin spiking a home run in the bottom of the first frame. The Tiger's Martinez was driven in by Jose Valdez's single in the top of the second, giving them a 1-1 tie.

The Stars spurred ahead with two runs in the third, the Tigers countered with one in the fourth, and then the game settled to a scoreless defensive battle for the last four and one-half innings.

The locals had no trouble with them with seven runs in the second inning off six base hits—two doubles and one a home run by Andy Gamboa with two on base.

Cadenhead was the winning pitcher; Frank Yanez lost for Rotan. Jose Valdez was credited with the loss against Odessa.

Raffle Wins Golf Contest

Col. Kyle L. Riddle prevailed over "80 or 90 participants" in the hole-in-one golf contest staged at Webb AFB during the holidays to capture a set of four woods for the best shot in the meet.

Col. Riddle came nearest to the cup—18 inches—with one drive off the number six hole tee on the base course. The distance to the cup is 150 yards.

An associated member, Mary McConkey, landed 25 1/2 inches away for a $25 merchandise prize as runner-up. Lt. Richard Hermann scooped two honors—third place with 33 1/2 inches and sixth place with 48 away from the cup—for a $15 and $3.50 award.

Maj. Emil Urban missed the hole by 42 1/2 inches to win a $7.50 merchandise ticket as fourth place winner. Capt. Walford Jackson's drive fell exactly 47 1/2 inches off for fifth place and a $5 goods certificate.

The tournament also awarded golf balls for any drive that entered a four-foot radius of the cup.

Warrant officer and Mrs. William E. Slavin were directors of the three-day contest.

This was the first hole-in-one tournament held in Big Spring and the Webb Golf Assn. hopes to make it an annual affair.

Local Marksmen Win Two Firsts

Local junior sharpshooters brought home several first places won in the Southwest Regional Junior Outdoor Rifle meet held recently in Lovington, N. M.

Raymond Hogg earned first places in all four shooting positions in the Sharpshooter class.

Haley Haynes won three second places in the Unclassified division—thrusting from the standing, sitting and kneeling positions.

John Trego won first firing from the prone position in the Sub-Junior classification. Robert Fields was second firing from the prone position in the Unclassified division. In the Sub-Junior class, Jim Crawford finished second while firing from the prone position.

In all, six boys made the trip from here, along with instructor Les Snow.

Rafel Johnson Expected To Clobber Russian Opponent

PALMYRA, N.J. (AP)— If all goes according to plan, there are going to be a lot of pop-eyed Russians when big Rafel Johnson finishes his decathlon performance in Moscow July 29.

"Rafel should break the world record and clobber that Russian," predicted Johnson's coach, Dickey Drake. "The Russian is good, and it ought to be interesting to watch the two of them but there will be no doubt as to the outcome. Rafel will win."

The Russian Drake referred to is Vasily Kuznetsov—big, talented and eager. Right now, he has all-time world record of 8,016 points pending. If Johnson bests him in Moscow, it will never get on the books.

Johnson, a quiet-spoken 200-pounder, who is president of UCLA's student body, holds the key to a little additional balm because the Russians themselves will have to submit the record.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation meets next month to consider record applications, so Johnson will have to go for broke in Moscow.

Johnson won the National AAU championship here Saturday with 7,754 points. Both he and his coach had hoped he'd break the record then.

"He had a couple of sub-par performances," said Drake.

Johnson's current listed world record of 7,985 points. If he beats Kuznetsov's standard in Moscow, he'll

Giants' Attendance Passes 600,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— With standing-room-only crowds kept on their toes the past three days, attendance after 37 home dates of the San Francisco Giants now tops the 600,000 mark.

President Horace Stoneham says further that his transplanted New Yorkers would have been over the 750,000 mark by now had Seals Stadium only been larger.

At $12,057 the San Francisco attendance compares with 359,491 New York's Polo Grounds last season.

Odessa Hands Legion Nine First Loss In Loop Play

Odessa dealt the Big Spring Legionnaires a prize upset, 6-2, three Sunday afternoon as the local club tasted defeat for the first time in district play this season.

Unheralded Odessa, winless in four games previously, made their mark on the league leaders even though they were out of the title picture. Had not Kermit forfeited the remainder of their games, Big Spring could have been in a slightly worse position. However, the locals command the standings with a 4-1 record.

Odessa lost to Lamesa 8-4, Saturday, whom Big Spring has beaten

Chub Moser handed the pitching reins to Jay LeFevre in the first inning. Jay held on until the sixth when he relinquished duties to Zay LeFevre. The trio gave up eight hits.

Big Spring struck for two runs in the first, as did Odessa. Second-sacker for Odessa, Ormand, gained first on a walk, made second on an error, and was driven in by Cox. Cox stole home on a fly ball.

Bernard McMahon's hit tallied Preston Daniels, and McMahon scored off Wilson Bell's single for Big Spring.

Wall picked up $2,800.

Carter, Valdez To Clash Wednesday

By The Associated Press

Harold Carter hopes to make another move toward an eventual meeting with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson by hurdling over Cuban Nino Valdes in a Wednesday night fight at Spokane, Wash.

The methodical Carter whipped Willie Besmanoff June 13 in his first scrap after 8 months in the Army. He is rated No. 5 contender by the National Boxing Association and No. 9 by Ring.

Valdes, 33, is almost 10 years older than Carter. After losing a split decision to Alex Miteff in February, the big fellow from Havana has won three straight from Wayne Bethea, Mike DeJohn and Johnny Summerlin.

The 10-round match will be carried on ABC-television from the Spokane Coliseum.

Mickey Crawford and Gaspar Ortega, two welters with an idea of mixing with Virgil Akins, the new champion, fight Friday at Madison Square Garden in a match that could revise the 147-pound ratings.

Ortega lost to Ralph Dupes and beat Bob Torrancia in his two 1958 appearances. Ring ranks him No. 2 but the NBA listed him No. 7.

Crawford who has won 22 of 24 pro fights is unbeaten this year with victories over Andy Figaro, Gil Turner, Tex Gonzales and Chico Vejar. Crawford is No. 4 with the NBA. No. 9 with Ring.

The Garden fight will be carried on NBC radio-TV.

DOT Charges Racist Drive

DALLAS (AP)—The chairman of the Democrats of Texas (DOT) asserted in letters to the Texas Council of Churches today, that Gov. Price Daniel is distributing "racist propaganda in his desperate attempt to win re-election."

The letter, from Mrs. R. D. Randolph of Houston, urged the Council of Churches to inform "the people who are interested in fair play and a decent set of moral standards of these unethical campaign practices which tend to make a mockery of the Democratic process."

Congratulating the council on its "code of fair campaign practices" submitted to all opposed candidates in state races, Mrs. Randolph wrote, "I want to sound warnings at what appears to be the first step in preparing the way for the use of the same type of racist propaganda and scurrilous pamphleteering that has so lamentably marked the latter days of campaigning in Texas."

"If such an approach is not nipped in the bud," she wrote, "then later exposure will come too late."

The letter made no mention of Gov. Daniel's opponents in the gubernatorial race. The DOT has made no endorsements in that race.

The DOT is an organization of labor-liberals within the regular Democratic party.

5 Defendants Change Minds, Plead Guilty

Five defendants indicted by the recent Howard County Grand Jury who had previously insisted they wanted jury trials changed their minds Monday morning. All five entered pleas of guilty and a panel of 60 petit jurors instructed to report to Judge Charlie Sullivan's court found no work to do.

Judge Sullivan excused the panel from further duties and thanked jurors for their appearance.

Four of the defendants who pleaded guilty drew penitentiary or jail sentences. The fifth received a three-year suspension.

T. L. Davis, charged with writing a hot check which he gave to the Men's Store in Nov. 1957, was sentenced to serve five years in the state penitentiary. He had been in county jail here since Dec. 16.

Luke William Cathey, charged with DWI second offense, was sentenced to six months in the county jail. He was first convicted, the state told the court, in 1955 and then arrested a short time later for a similar offense. He has been in jail here for 49 days and was given credit by the court for that time.

Cecil Thomas Redding, 19, who was charged with forgery, made an unsuccessful bid for a probation sentence and wound up sentenced to serve two years in state penitentiary less 21 days jail time. Gil Jones, district attorney, told the court that he could not recommend clemency for the defendant, despite his youth.

J. W. Creel, 44, accused of burglary from an automobile, was granted a three-year suspended sentence. He told the court that he had been drinking on April 16 when he and a companion passed a parked pickup truck. He said he reached into the truck and took a portable radio which was on the seat. He had no previous criminal record, the court was advised.

Fields will continue to work toward a BD degree as a part-time student in Bible College of the Bible.

The only accident which occurred in Big Spring Sunday was reported at the police station.

Jerry Brown of Albuquerque, N. M., came to the station and reported he had been involved in an accident at 1004 Main with Charles Bringer of Bastrap. No other accidents occurred inside the city limits during the day.

This morning, Juanita Lujan, 702 NW 7th, and Monroe Stabeno of Elgin, were involved in an accident at N. Gregg and 3rd.

High Winds Ground Cotton Surveyors

All crews surveying cotton acreage for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office have been grounded for this week, according to Gabe Hammack, office manager.

The steady winds kept whittling down cotton crops in some communities, Hammack said, and this will give farmers more time to re-plant and make adjustments. In the meantime, the surveyors will be working on maps and tabulations of fields already surveyed.

Stolen Auto Is Found At Andrews, Suspect Arrested

Apollinar Olguin, 25-year-old Coahoman, was arrested in Andrews Sunday night a few hours after a new 1958 Plymouth had been stolen from the lot of the Lone Star Motor Co. here. Sheriff Miller Harris reported today.

Harris said that the new automobile had only temporary paper license plates. He said it disappeared in mid-afternoon from the Lone Star Motor Co. lot.

Sunday night, it was seen parked on an Andrews street by policemen of that city. A "stake out" was posted and Olguin was arrested when he came to the car. He readily told of his ride from Big Spring, Harris said.

The car and the prisoner were returned to Big Spring Sunday night.

Fines, Jail Terms Set In Five Cases

James Lamar Gilmore, accused of carrying a pistol, drew a fine of $100.

Martin Farm Hands Earn 50 To 60 Cents Per Hour

The wage survey conducted in Martin County two weeks ago revealed that workers were paid from 50 to 60 cents an hour for hoeing cotton and grain sorghums. This information was sent to the Texas Employment Commission by Ed McDonald, regional director of the Employment Security Office at Dallas.

In making the survey, Clyde Roe found the average crew ranged from three to seven persons. The wages were about equally divided between 50 and 60 cents an hour.

The demand for farm workers in this area is fairly light, according to Jack Hatch, farm labor representative of the TEC. The cotton chopping is almost finished in many communities. However, there are a few ranch jobs which offer up to $75 per month. Not many applicants want ranch jobs, though, and very few of them will consider farm work.

The farm labor picture is spotty over the state. Lubbock is advertising for 400 workers to pick cucumbers on the halves. In the Lower Valley cotton picking will begin about July 10, where hundreds of workers are needed. Farmers will pay $2.05 per hundred for cotton picking, while weighing and hauling is priced at 50 cents a hundred.

Tires Are Stolen From Used Auto

Thieves had to work to steal the tires from a car on the Fowler & Harmonson Used Car Lot over the weekend.

The thieves had to jack up the 1948 Chevrolet to take the tires and wheels from it.

Also reported stolen during the weekend were four hub caps from a 1955 Chevrolet owned by Glenn Wallace of Coahoma. Wallace said the car was parked at the Clover Bowl about 2 a.m. Sunday when the caps were taken. They were marked, he said.

Water Consumption Goes Down Again

The city's water consumption sustained a steady decline during the past four days, hitting a low of 3,685,000 gallons on Sunday. The usage for the first six days of this month was 38,360,000 gallons, or an average per day of 6,393,000 gallons.

Last Thursday's usage was 7,257,000, and it dropped to 6,810,000 on Friday, 4,018,000 on Saturday and the month's low of 3,685,000 on Sunday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton was 5 cents a bale lower to 30 higher at noon today July 30.14, October 36.35, December 36.83.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged further into new high ground for 1958 in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Leading stocks rose from fractions to about a point.

The market was generally higher at the start. Prices improved slightly as the session wore on.

Tobacco stocks were jolted at the start by advance publication over the weekend of a new health survey on cigarette smoking. Their losses were moderate, however. Lorillard bounced back strongly from its loss and showed a net gain of about two points. Other tobacco were mixed.

Other news elements provided little stimulus. Most of today's rise was in the industrial. Motors, steel, most chemicals as well as some oils, aircrafts and electronics showed plus signs.

Among the better gainers were Caterpillar, Allied Chemical, United Air Lines, Paramount and Polio, all up about a point. Zenith gained a bit more than that.

Long-term U. S. government bonds were unchanged.

Visits Alamo

William Blakley, candidate for United States Senator, takes time out from a busy schedule to visit the Alamo at San Antonio, and takes some movies. Blakley's handshake, observers reported, was still as firm as it was when he first came to San Antonio, as when he departed. He shook thousands of hands all over town.

Lopez Mateos Wins Mexican Election

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Handsome, 46-year-old Adolfo Lopez Mateos, the brilliant labor minister in the last government, was elected president of Mexico yesterday in probably the quietest vote in the nation's history.

The dominant government Party of Revolutionary Institution (PRI) claimed Lopez Mateos had won by a landslide—somewhere between 70 and 85 per cent of the votes.

No big totals were announced, however.

Lopez Mateos' victory over textile manufacturer Luis Hector Alvarez had never been in doubt. The PRI and its predecessors have never lost an election since the parent party was launched in 1928.

Mexico also elected a full new Congress of 60 senators and 162 deputies. The PRI claimed that it had retained control by an overwhelming majority.

There were prospects, however, the new Congress may contain more than the nine opposition deputies it now holds.

Only one serious incident was reported, during an argument over a local election in Ciudad Obregon, on the west coast. A voter was killed and a soldier injured during a fight.

Women voted for the first time in a presidential election.

Opposition parties began filing protests of alleged election fraud before the polls closed. But generally the election seemed to have been conducted on democratic lines. The PRI had invited foreign observers from the United States and South America to come see for themselves.

Official returns will not be known for a week. Unofficial returns may be made known tomorrow or later.

Lopez Mateos will succeed President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines for a six-year term beginning next Dec. 1. He is considered a bit more liberal than his predecessor, but is expected to continue most programs of the current administration, which selected him as its successor.

He is married, has a 15-year-old daughter, and made a brilliant reputation as labor minister, averting all major strikes during his 5½-year term.

Political Enigma, Yarborough Shuns Use Of Professionals

Editor's Note: The Associated Press recently provided a "personally profile" on William Blakley, candidate for the Senate. Here is a similar sketch on his opponent, Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
AP Staff Writer

Ralph Yarborough—who battled his way from political obscurity over the rocky road of five statewide Texas campaigns—is finding some pleasant surprises in his sixth year.

"I used to have to arrange my own appearances and talk to anyone who would listen," he said. "But last week I was invited to address three state conventions in the same day—that never happened to me before."

There are other differences, too. There are standing ovations in banquet halls where there used to be occasional catcalls on the courthouse squares. And for the first time, an independent poll shows that Yarborough isn't the underdog.

He is finding there is a difference between being Ralph Yarborough, the perennial candidate for governor, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

"I had been made well aware of the fact that the incumbent has an advantage," he said, "but this is the first time I have been able to enjoy it."

Yarborough's supporters believe that being the incumbent is only part of the charge. They say Texas before knew him only as a candidate, that they now know him as a public official who has had an opportunity to demonstrate his ability and qualifications.

Actually, that bounce, enthusiasm, and dogged determination that has carried him to the Senate, carried Ralph Yarborough a long way before he threw his hat into the state political ring.

Born at Chandler in East Texas, he was the seventh of the 11 children of Charles Yarborough and Nanny Jane Yarborough.

The Yarboroughs were a pioneer East Texas family—the senator's grandfather, Capt. Harvey Yarborough, led the first company of infantry from Smith County to join the Confederate forces.

Charles Yarborough was justice of peace in Chandler and a student of Texas history. All of his sons became lawyers.

Graduating from Tyler High School at 16, Ralph Yarborough spent a year as a West Point cadet, then returned to Texas to teach country school and attend Sam Houston College at Huntsville.

Yarborough wanted to see something of the world and decided to study in Europe. He worked his way to France on a cattleboat, got turned down by the Sorbonne, and went on to Berlin. There he landed a job with the American Chamber of Commerce which enabled him to attend Standahl Academy for a year. The knowledge of the German language which he acquired was to stand him in good stead when he fought with the 97th Division across Germany during World War II.

MANY JOBS

Back in Texas, Yarborough worked as a harvest hand, an oil-field construction helper, and a waiter in a boarding house to put himself through the University of Texas Law School and graduate with highest honors.

After several years with an El Paso law firm, he was named an assistant attorney general of Texas. He wrote the opinion advising the land commissioner to assert the state's title to tidelands oil and gas by issuing leases on the tidelands, an action that pioneered Texas' successful fight for retaining these resources.

Returning to private practice, Yarborough also became active in civic affairs. He was a member of the original board of directors of the Lower Colorado River Authority, a lecturer at the University of Texas Law school, chairman of the Austin Community Chest, president of the Travis County Bar, a member of the editorial board of the Texas Law Review, a member of the Texas State Board of Law Examiners, and a director of the Texas State Bar. He also found time to teach Sunday School at Austin's First Baptist Church, of which he was a trustee.

In 1936 Yarborough was appointed judge of the 53rd District Court. He won re-elections with ease and held the post for five years.

GOT INTO WAR

Although he was not subject to the draft, Yarborough lost no time getting into service when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. He was a captain with the 97th Division in Europe.

After V-E Day, his division was sent to the Pacific. By that time he was Lt. Col. Yarborough and, as military government officer of the division, was placed in charge of Central Honshu Province, controlling one-seventh of the area and population of Japan.

Back home after the war, Yarborough resumed his law practice. But the war had left him deeply concerned about government. Good government, he says, became a subject that was almost an obsession with him and he saw a lot in Austin about Texas government that he didn't like.

Although he had made an unsuccessful state-wide race for attorney general in 1938, Yarborough was a virtual unknown when he announced for governor in 1952. He lost the race but piled up a respectable 488,356 votes.

Yarborough ran again in 1954, polled 683,132 votes but lost. In 1956 he lost the run-off in the governor's race by a scant 3,000 votes. Then in April of last year he won the special election for the Senate by leading a field of 23 candidates. There was no runoff.

POLITICAL ENIGMA

Yarborough has been a political enigma. Defying most axioms, he shuns the use of professional publicity firms, has a loose organization of volunteer campaign workers, and is usually running an hour behind schedule because he stops too often to shake too many hands.

His refusal to accept defeat puzzled even some of his supporters.

"I just don't consider those races as defeats. The political climate in Texas today is a lot better because we kept hammering away at corruption in state government," he says. If he has any political grudges, he doesn't show them.

The senator, 55, is a happy campaigner. He has an infectious smile and dark brown eyes that one observer described as "lighting up whenever he smiles." He has lots of energy and bounce but at the same time appears unperturbed and relaxed.

Because he says it is important to be in the Senate when major bills are being considered, Yarborough to date has confined himself to weekend campaigning. His wife, Opal Warren Yarborough, and their son Richard, 26, help keep the campaign going during the week.

Yarborough obviously enjoys his job and Washington observers say he works hard at it. He starts early in the morning and doesn't quit until around midnight. His favorite bedtime snack is ice cream and buttermilk.

"Being a senator is a lot harder than being a governor," he says. "A governor is concerned almost entirely with state government. A senator must represent his own state, but he also has to consider the welfare of the entire nation and the interests of the United States in world affairs."

Fade them away with new ESOTERICA, that medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment on the skin, makes hands look white and young again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, granulous base for softening, lubricating skin as it cleans up those blemishes. At leading drug and toiletry counters. $2 plus tax. Mexico President Was Dark Horse

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Six months ago Adolfo Lopez Mateos was almost a political unknown.

Then suddenly his name was splashed across Mexico and before long people were saying without hesitation: "Lopez Mateos will be elected president of Mexico on July 6."

A former secretary of labor, Lopez Mateos was chosen by the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI) to succeed President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, who is retiring. Ruiz Cortines gave him his backing.

PRI leaders and Ruiz Cortines apparently long had their eyes on him. The dashing 48-year-old Lopez Mateos was well respected in high government circles for his ability to settle labor disputes amicably and with ease.

This ability to find quick solutions seems to go back a long way. Eighteen years ago, Adolfo Lopez Mateos wanted to go to his college dance but lacked a dark suit. He had the money neither to buy one nor rent one.

So, he found two pals of similar build and similar straits. They pitched in what money they had, rented one dark suit and shared it in two-hour shifts at the dance.

The name of Adolfo Lopez Mateos blinks in neon atop Mexico City skyscrapers all during his campaign. It was painted on mountain peaks, on countryside walls, on gift pens and cigarette lighters.

"We're with him," trumpeted the campaign posters.

The high-pressure publicity doesn't seem to have turned his head.

Born in Atzacapan de Zaragoza May 26, 1910, he is a shy, modest man.

Despite his shyness, he has a gift of speech. He is best at talking off the cuff. Chin up, shoulders back he gives the impression that he is taller than his medium height.

Most of his countrymen regard him as being somewhat left of middle-roader Ruiz Cortines, but basically he is a man of balance. Never once in his campaign did he define his feelings toward the United States, but he told this correspondent once he knew of no outstanding problems between the United States and Mexico which could not be settled "by friendly understanding."

In a nutshell, this is the kind of man he is:

He reads everything from pulp to Plato. His musical taste runs from Beethoven to Gershwin. He shuns dominoes (Mexico's classical pastime) and plays chess and canasta on Saturday nights with his wife, who is an ex-schoolteacher, and his well-traveled 16-year-old daughter. He gets up at 5 a.m., works 12 to 18 hours a day, chain smokes black Mexican tobacco and—runs his aides ragged. He drinks mildly, touching nothing but cognac and sherry.

Khrushchev Needs A Hole In The Head

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP) — One of our troubles is that we can't see through Premier Khrushchev's head. He extends a friendly hand one minute, a fist the next. But we don't know what he has up his sleeve. A great many Americans have tried to analyze the meaning of the recent on-again-off-again Soviet tactics. But this writer hasn't seen or heard of one explanation yet that looks foolproof. It's possible the Soviets' sudden reversals in recent months—from nice to nasty to nice—are the product of simple hunching and stumbling in foreign policy or of internal Communist party conflicts hidden from sight. It's also possible the Soviets don't care much what they do or say from month to month so long as they keep a couple of balls in the air, make propaganda, and keep stalling on disarmament or finding ways to prevent surprise attacks. What Khrushchev has in mind for 3, or 5, or 10 years from now for the United States is something we can only guess at. And in this contest guessing carries a chilly feeling. For, through all the shifting gears of the Kremlin one gruesome thought persists: Is Khrushchev stalling until he feels strong enough to wipe us out with a surprise attack. That's possible, too. It's almost certain neither side is going to talk seriously about disarmament, and for various reasons. One is enough: so long as both are heavily armed each has a measure of safety from attack by the other. But how much safety from surprise attack each has is something only the top men on both sides know. It would seem to behoove this country to keep its defenses A-1 for years to come.

Freed Man's Family Makes Jail Happy

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP) — Jail was a happy place today for Mr. and Mrs. James Foster and five of their seven children. They were together again under the same roof for the first time in two years. During those two years Foster twice was sentenced to die in the electric chair in the slaying of a Jefferson merchant. His wife Irene struggled to keep the family going at Greer, S. C., by working in a shirt factory. Then, on Friday, word came that a former Centralia policeman had signed a statement in the South Carolina penitentiary admitting the slaying of Charlie Drake, 60, during a robbery attempt. Sunday night Irene and James held a reunion on the jailhouse lawn. They hugged and kissed and cried in each other's arms, heedless of about 100 onlookers. After that Irene, 38, said: "We're going to stay here until we can take him back." Her slim, mild-mannered husband, a 40-year-old house painter, didn't say anything. He knew legal technicalities might delay his release a week or two. At this point, Sheriff John Brooks invited Mrs. Foster and the five children to stay at the jail, a large rambling house in this small town some 70 miles northeast of Atlanta.

One Life Saved For 3 He Took

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—Thomas Boyce, a Windsor truck driver involved in an accident April 8 that took the lives of three Detroit residents, pulled a youth from the Detroit River Sunday night. "That's one life I saved for the three I took," he said. Boyce wasn't to blame for the accident. A car traveling at 80 miles an hour hurtled across the Ambassador Bridge and skidded 340 feet into the rear of his truck. But the memory of the accident hadn't dimmed. Boyce said he felt better after jumping into the river to pull out a young fisherman who had tried to leap from some pilings to the shore. He didn't ask the youth's name.

Yarborough Ready For Opening Blast

By CLAYTON HICKERSON AP Staff Writer The campaigns for governor and U.S. senator promised Monday to take most of the attention of voters in the 18 days of politicking before the July 28 primaries. Senator Ralph Yarborough, seeking his first full term, was ready to square off Monday night in his "formal opening" blast—a statewide television speech originating at San Antonio. Yarborough's opponent, former interim Senator William Blakley of Dallas, campaigned meanwhile in El Paso with a television appearance scheduled in the far west city Monday night. Tuesday he heads for Houston and statewide T-V appearance set for Wednesday night. These television appearances of the two antagonists, who already have exchanged some hot, bitter words are expected to start the fur flying in what probably will be the campaign's hottest race. Gov. Price Daniel, who spoke Saturday at Jefferson and Waco reservoir celebrations, spoke Sunday at the Cass County All-Faith Revival, and continued to let his opponents do most of the talking. State Senator Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio—making a surprisingly active campaign for Daniel's seat—toured Dallas and Grand Prairie Sunday and was to spend Monday and Tuesday in Houston. Gonzalez, the smiling Latin-American who fought hard against segregation bills in the last session of the Texas Legislature, punched hard at Daniel in a statement at Fort Worth Sunday.

U.S.-Canada Law Channel Studied

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker in their talks opening here Tuesday may take historic steps to establish a direct channel between the law-making bodies of Canada and the United States. Diefenbaker Sunday night expressed hope the talks will lead to the creation of a joint Canada-U.S. parliamentary committee. The purpose of such a group would be to keep a constant watch on problems emerging between the neighbors and presumably to initiate fast action if friction reaches the danger point. Public aggravations between the two countries have increased in the last few years, rather than diminished.

Heir Found In London Hotel

LONDON (AP) —Craig Dahlberg, 19-year-old heir to an American fortune, was back with his mother today after being missing a week. Instead of admonishing the youth for running away, Mrs. Gilda Dahlberg expressed pride after hearing his story. "He has proved he's a man," said the widow of an American millionaire who's here to arrange production of stage plays. Craig was found in a cheap hotel in London. He said he ran away rather than tell his mother he failed his examinations at a Miami, Fla., college. He had come over to join her for the summer. Craig said he took a six-day tour of England.

Envoy Ousted For Beating Nursemaid

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodian Ambassador Sam Sary has been ordered from London for beating a nursemaid at the embassy so severely that she complained to the police. In an open letter published in Cambodian newspapers Sunday, Sary claimed Cambodian law gave him the right to beat the girl, 22. She has since married a British attorney and is remaining in England. Sary complained to the Foreign office about the marriage, but his own government fired him.

Speaks

Trooper John Tedbury—the sentry who broke tradition by speaking on duty—sips coffee in a London cafe after appearing before his commanding officer because of his indiscretion. After hearing his explanation, charges against him were dismissed. Fellow members of Queen Elizabeth's household brigade drank to his health for his calling a guide a liar for telling a party of tourists his boots were made of plastic and that he did not have to clean his own gear.

Third Minnesota Quadruplet Dies

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — The third of the Hansen quadruplets, born here Saturday, died early today. Attendants at Immanuel Hospital said Janelope died at 5:42 a.m. They said the surviving infant, Rebecca, remained in satisfactory condition. The quadruplet daughters were born to Mrs. Gerald Hanse, 26, wife of a Mankato schoolteacher. Two of the babies, Christine and Deborah, died Saturday night. The babies weighed about two pounds each and were 2½ months premature.

Cops Think Girl A Mistake Victim

NEW YORK (AP)—Police theorized today that the rifle bullet which fatally wounded a 9-year-old Queens girl was not aimed at her. About 30 rifles collected in the neighborhood were examined by police Sunday, but ballistics tests proved none was the death weapon. The girl, Grace Denezzo, died Saturday night. This was about 24 hours after she was shot in the head as she sat with her family in the driveway of their home in Queens. An autopsy indicated the bullet traveled a long way before striking the child.

Congress Maps Out A Heavy Work Docket

WASHINGTON (AP) —Shooting for early August adjournment, congressional leaders mapped out a heavy work docket today as Congress returned from its last prolonged 1958 holiday. Target date for adjournment is Aug. 9, and prospects are bright that it won't be missed far. Senate leaders posted five bills for action this week. They deal with atomic energy construction, public works appropriations, housing, agriculture and minerals development. The House faces an even more ambitious program, dealing with military construction, small business, marketing facilities, science scholarships, atomic energy construction, relief for depressed areas, construction of community facilities and small boat safety. Chances are neither branch will clean up such a heavy program in one week. There still are some controversial measures in the offing. The Senate hasn't acted on House-passed bills to provide for reorganization of the Defense Department, extension of the reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, and funding of the foreign aid program. All must be considered before adjournment. The list of "must" House bills includes measures to boost Social Security benefits, to provide pensions for former presidents, to regulate union pension and welfare funds, and to authorize and finance a big military construction program. A Senate-passed bill for general labor law revision currently is not on the program for House action but may be put there in the closing days of the session. Americans for Democratic Action renewed its call for a tax cut of at least eight billion dollars a year, and for more spending programs to provide a boost for the economy. But there appeared little likelihood either would be voted.

Survivors Tell Of Beating Off Shark Assault

HONOLULU (AP)—Three survivors of the C124 Air Force transport plane which went down early Friday in mid-Pacific returned here last night to tell of fighting off a school of sharks before they were rescued.

Nine were aboard the plane. One body was recovered and five others are missing and presumed drowned.

Returning here on the aircraft carrier Boxer, which picked up the three survivors 200 miles northeast of Johnston Island, Capt. Jonathan W. Brown, the plane's commander, told newsmen: "One of the sharks got a good hold on me and was shaking me."

"We were pounding the water and yelling and thrashing and kicking around. I was beating on the shark's head with my fist. He finally let go. There were several of them around and they swam away."

He said they apparently were put off somewhat by shark repellent from the men's lifejackets and by all the noise.

Returning with Brown were T. Sgt. James M. Phillips, Vacaville, Calif., and S. Sgt. James P. Vanderee, San Rafael, Calif. Both were navigators on the big craft, which was on a flight from Travis Air Force Base in California to Tokyo with a crew of seven plus two military couriers picked up in Hawaii. Brown, who comes from Sioux City, Iowa, lives at Travis AFB, northeast of San Francisco.

MINOR INJURIES
Brown, Phillips and Vanderee all had minor cuts, gasoline burns and stains from shark repellent. Brown had a minor shark bite on his left shoulder.

They were taken to the Army's Tripler General Hospital for treatment.

Brown said the big Globemaster ditched 200 miles this side of Johnston Island after the No. 3 engine began backfiring and threw its propeller through the fuselage, cutting off all electric power and communications and crippling all controls except the rudder and elevator. He set her down at 120 knots but the right wing dipped and the plane broke up into sections.

"It went under immediately. I came up through a hole right above me," Brown said.

Vanderee said he had gone to the rear of the plane to help other crew members and the two couriers into their life jackets when the ship hit the water. He said he tried three times to get out of his section but each time was washed back by the waves. His shoulder was dislocated.

Personality Counts

Alexis Smith feels we should not be too preoccupied with our physical flaws or with great beauty because it's personality and intelligence that carries us further. She is to be seen in "This Happy Feeling" for UL.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Accent Your Height And Be Proud Of It

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — At one time Alexis Smith was very unhappy because she is of more than average height, but when we talked at Universal-International studios recently she said:

"Now I never think of it as being a problem. You can make a stepping stone out of a stumbling block by merely changing your attitude.

"Most tall girls do not have weight problems as frequently as short girls. And most high fashion clothes are designed for tall models. But one thing a tall girl should never do is wear flat shoes—unless it is with shorts or other type sports clothes," Alexis warned. "A tall girl should accent her height and be proud of it."

We talked of contemporary fashions and the part one's appearance plays in being successful.

"We all have an obligation to ourselves and to others to accent the best in us. It's fortunate if a girl is beautiful, but it has no meaning unless she also has a pleasant personality and intelligence. To concentrate on the mere physical aspects while shutting out personal interests in others can lead to big disappointments."

"When you live in Hollywood it is so easy to fall into a pattern of visiting with movie people and talking shop all the time," Alexis confessed. "But traveling around the country has taught me how narrow this can be. I've developed an avid interest in other people and their work.

"I've also learned to be alone and like it," she added. "One of the saddest things that can happen to people is not to enjoy being alone.

"When I first started school I was so busy taking piano and dancing lessons I never had time to make close friends. I was never part of a group. This had an influence on my personality and made me want to prove that I could be popular in its accepted sense."

As I was leaving I noticed several cans of vegetable juice on Alexis' dressing table and asked her if she was a health-food girl. "It just makes sense to me," she explained, "to eliminate any foods from my diet that lack nutritional value. If you avoid over-processed foods and eat for energy, you'll never have to worry about excess weight."

Cotton Comes Into Its Own In Fashioning Togs For Summer

Cotton shapes unfold a newsworthy summer fashion story. Design highlights of the vacation group include the chemise in one and two-piece versions as well as the trapeze that swings into the wardrobe with a graceful, unrestricted manner.

Also featured are a playsuit that is transformed into a dress just by pulling a drawstring and terry play togs that make a comeback in an assortment of circus shapes.

These are appropriately named the "balloon," the "tent" and the "beachball." A wide variety of hemlines that flounce, flare and flirt with pleated, ruffled and bowed details are also shown.

The chemise has been shaped in casual cotton knit and for summer it is sleeveless, waistless and often banded or bowed at a lower line. Pleated skirts choose middy tops in a revival of the gay nineties feeling. Sailor bows or sailor collars often accompany this style.

For evening the chemise fashion glitters with glamour. It is beaded, or it is draped with flowing panels or scarfs that take to the sheerest, most supple cottons. There are almost skin-tight chemises that favor Spanish-inspired flounces.

Day ensembles styled on chemise lines are importantly featured in a variety of cottons, including prints and suitings. The avored look is the slender dress ensembled with a look-alike, chemise coat.

Twin-printed cottons are a favorite choice for this outfit along with large and small checks, bold, dimensional plaids and a novelty, giraffe-printed cotton. Many of the coats have huge collars, oversized buttons and cocoon-shaped backs.

Beach togs will charm the bathing beauties just as the chemise is captivating the landlubbers.

The balloon-shaped terry cover-up has ric-rac trim and drawstring ties for sun'n fun. The new playsuit has a dual-personality; it puffs into a dress just by undoing the drawstring tie at the hemline.

Bold and vibrant colors inspire a woven cotton plaid poncho that tops shorts.

The cotton "skant" plays a role in contemporary living with its skirted pant styling. It is teamed with a blouse and made in color-coordinated print and plain pique.

Modern Woman Is Match For Her Pioneer Sister

By DOROTHY ROE

The Associated Press — Don't be fooled by the delicate look and soft life of today's city girl, warns Mari Sandoz, historian of the Old West and author of "The Cattleman."

"If the need arose, they'd be just as tough as their pioneer ancestors, who, jolted across the plains by covered wagon," says Miss Sandoz. "Remember that many of the women who helped their husbands open up the West, who cooked over campfires and fired their own guns, were city girls too. They came from New York, Baltimore and Boston, and they learned to survive the hardships and dangers of the overland trail and to fight side by side with their men."

"Don't tell me a modern woman couldn't take it. As a matter of fact she might do better than her great-grandmother, being by training more self-reliant, more athletic and certainly healthier.

"The female of the species always has had to be tough, and I don't think the pattern has changed today."

Miss Sandoz is proudly tough, though she admits apologetically that she hasn't herded cattle to market for the last few years—not, in fact, since jeeps replaced horses on the Old Jules ranch in Sheridan County, Neb., where she was born, eldest of the six children of Jules and Mary Elizabeth Sandoz.

'Twould Be Nice But You Can't Ride In It

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Maybe the family needs a second kitchen sink instead of a second automobile. Research at Cornell University's College of Home Economics shows that the sink is the most important center of the kitchen—more time spent there, more trips to and from there.

A second sink—located by the kitchen range—was found to save kitchen work, Prof. Rose Steidl says, making possible longer periods of uninterrupted work, providing handy water for cooking and soaking pans.

A Bible Thought For Today

Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us. (1 Corinthians 5:7)

The Problem Of Inflation

One of the problems which no one likes to face may well become one of the most formidable of the issues before the Congress named in this autumn's elections.

That problem is renewed and strong inflationary pressures. These pressures, moderately restrained during the recent recession, have been strong enough even in the face of a recession to force up living costs. With easing of credit and resumption of the upward cycle, inflationary forces may well mount in intensity.

For one thing, we are back in some hefty deficit financing. What not so long ago was promised as a surplus for the federal budget is now regarded as a certain $3 billion deficit. This is partly due to a decline in tax revenues and partly in the increased tempo of spending for national defense and to offset the effects of economic recession. Almost everyone confidently expects the $290 billion debt ceiling to be raised, which means that it isn't really a ceiling after all.

A few experts predict that in the fiscal year ahead the deficit could blossom into a $10 billion figure. Except the removal of the 3 per cent excise on freight shipments, the line has been held to protect tax sources. But while guarding revenues, Congress has not been able to hold the line on expenditures.

If Congress doesn't find some way of striking a balance between the two, we're apt to be in for another devastating upward spiral, and in the end you'll pay more to get less.

Long Career In Journalism

Whether you always or almost never agree with him, you must admire that ability and stamina of David Lawrence as a distinguished journalist.

Almost half a century has passed since he was graduated from Princeton in 1910 and went to Washington as a member of the Associated Press' capital staff. He had known Woodrow Wilson rather closely during his undergraduate days and was a natural choice to become the White House correspondent. Some thought him young and inexperienced for his forecast that Wilson would defeat Charles Evans Hughes, but this "rash" prophecy created a demand for his copy.

Meantime he had joined the New York Evening Post which inserted an ad in Editor & Publisher—forty years ago this week—offering the "daily telegraphic articles by David Lawrence" as a syndicated service from Washington.

Mr. Lawrence has been at it ever since, missing only two weeks during a period when he attempted a vacation. He's never left off his writing since. Today his report is carried in some 275 newspapers which have more than 18 million readers. In addition, he edits his own widely read weekly news magazine, U. S. News & World Report.

One might disagree with some of his conclusions, but none can question the courage of his convictions. Even after half a century Mr. Lawrence seems not afraid to slug it out in the arena of opinion, and it is possible to suspect that he is never happier when he is seemingly alone. That he has survived and thrived after all these years is a tribute to his craftsmanship, integrity and knowledge of the political scene.

American Motors—Back To Building Cars

George Romney and the American Motors Corp. are well rid of Louis E. Wolfson as a major stockholder. Now investors and speculators can know what American Motors is—an automobile company. So, they're better off.

As long as Wolfson was a big owner, American Motors could have become something else—perhaps a utility. Unfortunately the company's $43,000,000 loss carry-forward. He had asked Romney, as the company president, to look into merger possibilities. By combining American Motors tax loss with a profitable company, money could be made. Profits would be tax free.

Investors, especially institutional investors, may look more favorably on American Motors now that Wolfson's exited. Although Wolfson had a sensible program for rehabilitation of Montgomery Ward & Co., and although his opponent in that proxy contest was elderly Sewell Avery, a man long past his prime, insurance companies, investment trusts, banks couldn't take Wolfson as the man for Ward's. "Too much of an operator," was their verdict.

Wolfson offers mystery. He's the type of man the get-rich-quick hopefuls go for. He likes big deals—mergers, liquidations, fast stuff.

In contrast, George Romney offers the unromantic—hard work and a niche in what he hopes will be a permanent and expanding market in automobiles and electric appliances.

Romney has staked America's future on this thesis: That demand for cars so big that they have to have power steering and power brakes is not universal; that transportation for transportation's (rather than prestige's) sake will be in greater demand; that Ramblers, as a compact, economical car, will suit this market.

Rambler is not yet a big-volume car. Output so far this year is about 91,000 cars. Compare that with Chevrolet's 700,000, Ford's half million, Plymouth's 200,000. Yet, Romney has pushed the Rambler ahead of Mercury, Dodge, Cadillac, Chrysler, and De Soto. It's in seventh place in sales, outranked by Oldsmobile, Buick, and Pontiac, as well as Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth.

Rambler's production has edged up slowly. In June, it pushed ahead of Buick and Pontiac into fifth place with five per cent of the month's total in May. Its proportion was about the same. For the year, the proportion is 4.1 per cent versus only 1.65 per cent in the first half of '57. The company recently upped its July schedules. It will maintain an 835-car-per-day production rate through the first week in August, then curtail for the changeover. A few weeks ago, July schedules called for only 450 to 500 cars per day.

When Wolfson went after Montgomery Ward & Co., Ward's had such a wad of cash and government securities on hand that it was referred to as the only bank in the world that sold merchandise. American Motors was no such citadel of financial strength. A year ago, it owed $27,000,000 to banks and $14,569,000 to an insurance company. The tax loss caught Wolfson's eye.

Now American is much stronger financially. Romney estimates nine months' earnings at $12,300,000, or about $2.20 a share on the 5,587,934 shares outstanding. And the final quarter, despite changeover expenses, may not cut that down much, if at all, because of the current favorable rate of production. The bank loans have been reduced to $5,000,000, and cash on hand is sufficient to expunge that debt entirely.

So now, for American Motors shareholders, the Big if no longer is what will General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler do?

The Rambler has its niche now. But if G. M. or Ford or Chrysler come forth with compact cars, more economical cars, will that cut Rambler sales?

Romney thinks not. He argues Big Three emulation will reinforce Rambler's position. Then, the Rambler will be the proved compact car. The other cars will be the new, the untested.

If Rambler holds its 4 per cent to 5 per cent of the market, in a good year—a 4,000,000-car year—its patient stockholders will be well rewarded. That's what Wolfson wouldn't wait for.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The State Democratic Executive Committee has not idly dismissed or hastily considered the adoption of a detailed order of procedure related to county and precinct party conventions and the functions of each county executive committee. When the issue reached the state committee, a resolutions committee was empowered last February to make a study and its report was adopted at the executive committee's meeting in Austin last week.

"We find it legally doubtful as to whether the State Democratic Executive Committee can issue any order of instructions concerning the conduct of precinct or county conventions and prescribe regulations and requirements as to the activities of Democratic County Executive Committees," the resolutions committee found. The resolutions committee did not stop there, however, but strengthened its report with these additional findings: That each precinct convention in the estimated 5,000 precincts and each county convention in the 254 counties in the state "has the inherent power and right of self organization and Democratic self determination of its own rules of procedure and activities, so long as actions do not conflict with the statutes of this state."

That the state committee is "without power and should not as a matter of policy assume to dictate to Democrats on a precinct and county level... how they must organize and conduct their conventions."

That the creation of such a precedent would "encourage the imposition upon future precinct and county conventions and committees of procedures and requirements by those in temporary control of state party machinery of such character as to destroy the Democratic party by rules and requirements that could conceivably preclude a majority of its membership from even participating at the precinct and county level."

The conclusions are fair and objective and should find acceptance among those party members who can view them without preconceived bias.

Rise Of The Tired Business Woman

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

That for 28 per cent of the country's estimated 39 million married couples, both husband and wife have jobs outside the home. The tired business woman may soon outnumber the tired business man.

That an elephant is happier when traveling by air if a hen is perched on its head. But the average man would rather have a chick on his arm.

Around The Rim

An Automobile For The Ladies

Men design automobiles for the entire family but the vehicles would be entirely different if they were planned for the sole use of La Femme.

So say Edmund E. Anderson, director of automotive styling for American Motors Corp., Detroit, Mich., and his chief assistant, William Reddig.

A segment of the women wants a machine that doesn't have to be driven but rather will go where told. The designers lament that such a vehicle would be so full of electronic gadgets, however, that the driver would have no place to lay her compact, much less store her luggage.

Cars driven by radar would enable the lassie to relax and get a sun tan in a reclining seat—something she'd like very much. Obviously, such an auto would require a cab of little but glass. Such a bold display of the driver would obviously mean new raids on the bank—since a woman couldn't drive around town in just any old thing.

Some of the women would like a compartment built in the front of their cars for their toddlers — rather than back seats. That way, they could keep their foot on Junior's head while driving and not develop a sore neck from looking around all the time.

A portion of the ladies could do without fenders, too. Seems they crumple too easy in driving in and backing out of parking places.

Built-in hair-dryers in automobiles would probably sell like the proverbial hot cakes. Others protest that modern cars are built too low to the ground—the fenders on their hats have to lay flat against the ceiling.

The short gals would do away with circular steering wheels and settle instead for the three-quarters model, in order to get unlimited visibility while looking straight ahead. And the machines with 100 per cent glass domes would have to have radically new windshield wipers, much longer than the present model and one that operates around the entire dome.

Others would have seats in the machine back-to-back and holes in the rear window, which the "space-age" cadets could use as mounts for their rifles.

Such vehicles would probably increase the market value of the Sherman tank —among the male drivers.

Dig That Wig Or Get Off The Gate

The veriform appendix and the little toe, according to science, are sick, sick, sick and hence, doomed, doomed, doomed to extinction in another millennium or so. In a wholly motorized future, the feet will probably follow into limbo.

But until a few weeks ago it seemed likely that women would continue to grow their own crowning glory, although men gave up the struggle some centuries ago. A decade ago Yul Brynner was voted the bald man's Apollo Belvedere and has since been the acme of manly beauty and virile elegance.

But suddenly, in the past four weeks, Beau Brynner has become the coiffure model for his sex. For a woman to grow her own rug is now absolutely, positively de trop, which, roughly translated, means you should be caught dead in that rag mop of your own!

By autumn a woman who is brazen enough to appear in a home-grown coiffure will be as dead to a sense of modesty as a girl in a bikini at a river baptism. Fashion has decided that the woman who wishes to hold up her head in public by the time the melancholy days are here—and you can now begin to comprehend why they are going to be melancholy—must completely conceal her own hair either with (1) a wig or (2) a hat that leaves no wisp of offending hair (her own) visible.

Believe me, Lady Godiva lived not a century too soon! "The Gift of the Magi" would never have been written if O. Henry hadn't been a turn-of-the-century writer. Barbara Fritch lived just in the nick of time, Kipling, too. It will be difficult in the future to wax poetic about "a rag, a bone and a hank of store-bought hair." Because that's where hair is going to come from—the supermarket—by Indian Summer. Wigs and/or hats that conceal all of madam's own hair like a custom-made slipcover are de rigueur or, again roughly translated, dig that wig or get off the gate.

At the moment, the all-purpose wig comes to $200 or $250 per copy, and, of course, a girl will need at least three so she can rotate 'em and keep 'em aired and dry-cleaned. This may seem expensive to the petty-type woman (and that's not a bad type to be if it's spelled with a capital "P") who loves money better than life.

But such necessities have a way of being mass produced eventually and I expect to buy mine at the five-and-dime for $4.89 in another month. (I always remember the Duchess of Windsor's Mainbocher wedding dress that was mass produced and sold on New York's 14th Street, the poor man's Fifth Avenue, for $3.98 within three weeks after the wedding.)

One thing does bother me, however. I feel that those fiction writers whose hero is always burying his face in the heroine's hair in moments of great emotion. (I've always felt it must tickle like sixty since the girls took up crew haircuts.) It's going to be an awful shock to a sensitive lover when he lifts his face and miliary's tatch comes up with it!

Nonetheless, I am of cheerful mind. Paris tried to banish the female form divine with the sack and chemise, of which the vast majority of American women would have no part. Maybe the American woman will refuse to shave her head and part with her hair at Paris's dictate.

A poor thing, mayhap, but mine own hair, is my motto.

New Role Of Religion In Russia

MOSCOW—No aspect of this extraordinary society is more puzzling for the Western observer than the status of religion.

While it has been reported that something resembling a religious revival has been taking place, with more and more young people attending church and participating in church ceremonies, this would seem to be definitely an exaggeration. But in religion, as in so many other fields, communism is rediscovering the past and adapting it to its own objectives. The past is, of course, the Russian past, or to put it more precisely the elements of that past which serve Communist aims.

A striking example of what has been taking place can be seen in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, which was once the chief center for both the Christian and Jewish religions and was known as "the Russian Jerusalem." To visit the Monastery of Lavra on the outskirts of Kiev is to have some idea of the transition taking place and of the remarkably different layers of development that exist side by side.

Lavra, part of which dates back to the 11th Century when its deep caves were occupied by famous hermit monks, was before the Revolution one of the two or three holiest places in Russia. After the revolution, in the phase of aggressive atheism, electric lights were put in the caves and the mummified saints and other objects of religious veneration were made a kind of chamber of horrors to illustrate the superstition and uselessness, from the Communist perspective, of religion. Since the war, part of Lavra, including the caves and one of the churches, has been restored to the church.

For the faithful, mostly older peasant women from the surrounding countryside, these saints arouse the deepest veneration. They kiss the glass cover of the coffin and fall on their knees and cross themselves repeatedly before going on down the dark, winding corridors to another recess where rests another saintly mummy.

The courtyard at the principal entrance to the caves looks like a scene out of Dostoevski. Bearded monks, some of them young, come and go, kerchiefed peasant women sit by the white-washed wall or lie sleeping on the ground.

In the section of the monastery retained by the state, steel scaffolding surrounds the 200-foot bell tower. Restoration is to be completed next year. The Germans, four months after they occupied Kiev—they held it for more than two years—blew up the 11th Century Cathedral of the Assumption, with its early frescoes.

Other cities represents a considerable investment at a time when the state is straining every muscle to build industry and agriculture. One can only conclude that since nothing is done here for whim or caprice the investment—small, of course, in relation to the vast sums being spent on industry and transportation—was considered worthwhile if only to recall the greatness of the Russian past.

In rediscovering the past, which is part of the theme of patriotism that is an important element in today's ideology, the Communist party is taking little or no risk. Young people almost invariably tell the visitor that in Russia very few people believe in God.

Yet at the same time a search for new forms to give life a broader and even a happier content suggests that there is a realization of the need for what the church once provided on this level. The Young Communist League, with up to 20 million members under 30 years old, has recently been encouraging wedding ceremonies at the registry office, with bride and groom in formal dress, presents and a wedding report.

The Russian church has more often than not in times past been an instrument of the state. At the time of the Hungarian uprising and the world indignation that greeted its suppression, the statements given out by church authorities here closely paralleled those of the state.

But religion, however one may construe its significance under present circumstances, is a major fact. Russia claims to be the fourth Moslem power in the world, and this is not unimportant in Communist relations with the Arab world. On his recent tour of the Soviet Union President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic is said to have been deeply impressed with the status of Moslems in Central Asia.

Elsewhere in Eastern Europe the German invaders took a heavy toll, liquidating from 70,000 to 80,000 Jews in Kiev alone. One synagogue is functioning in that city today.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

First of a series by Donald J. Sobel

"The last thing Arthur Carlton ever designed," said Inspector Wheters, indicating the house of cards balanced on the coffee table.

Haledjian moved behind the table to the couch, where the body of the noted architect lay slumped against a pillow, a kitchen knife plunged into his chest.

"Who found the body?" "I did, sir." A man wearing a chauffeur's uniform limped into the living room. "I had just returned from driving Mr. Pennington, a frequent visitor, to the city. I was delayed in getting back. As I drove the car into the garage, I noticed the lights in the living room go out, and the house fell into darkness.

"Upon entering the back door," continued the chauffeur, "I heard Mr. Carlton call out as if in pain. I ran into the living room and saw a man dart across the room and escape through the window. I might have tackled him, but in the darkness I tripped against the coffee table and fell."

"The murderer must have known the room well," muttered Haledjian, looking about at the overcrowding of furniture. "Who else lives here?" "Miss Hancock, the housekeeper. Her room is next to mine on the second floor."

"What delayed you in the city?" "Mr. Pennington asked me to look at his car—one of those sports models that can pass anything on the road. A carburetor valve was stuck, so I fixed it for him."

"Did you leave Mr. Pennington in the garage, or at his front door?" "In the garage. He wanted to test the motor."

"I believe, inspector," said

I saw a man dart across the room and escape through the window.

Haledjian, "I've heard enough."
