Beirut Minister In Narrow Scrape

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An attempt to assassinate Premier Sami Solh missed by a split second today. This and heavy exchanges of gunfire in Beirut emphasized that Lebanon's 81-day crisis is still on despite some expressed hopes for early peace. The incidents coincided with 15 new demands by the opposition National Front just as it seemed possible a compromise might be reached on election of a new president, which some thought might lead to an easing of this nation's problems. The opposition and supporters of the pro-Western government were reported practically agreed on the army commander, Gen. Fuad Shehab, as a compromise. But the National Front turned thumbs down on any candidate unless he would agree to demand immediate withdrawal of American troops. It also demanded immediate resignation of President Camille Chamoun, whose term does not expire until Sept. 23. The U.S. Embassy announced that American troops would be withdrawn only if Lebanon's internal security is re-established and the United Nations provides adequate guarantees of Lebanon's independence.

In the assassination attempt, eight persons were killed and a 5-year-old girl hurt, but Solh was not touched. A car parked along the road was blown up as he was driving into Beirut. Detonator wires from the car ran up a hillside to a spot from which two men were seen to run. Had they delayed the detonation a split second longer, Solh would have been blown to bits. The dead included a policeman on a motorcycle, three gunmen, and four persons in a car just ahead of Solh. The heavy firing in Beirut occurred around the main government building, in Capital Square near the postoffice, and in the Zerif quarter near The Associated Press office. Security forces fired guns from armored cars in reply to rebel small arms and automatic rifle fire. Dynamite explosions were heard. The attempted assassination occurred nine miles outside Beirut. The Prime Minister passes there daily en route to his Beirut office from his suburban home. The road runs along a sheer drop down to the Beirut River in the valley below. Legend Lost In Old-Style Judge

LONDON (AP)—With the retirement this year of Lord Chief Justice Goddard, Britain will lose a legend—an English judge who reads Dickens, thinks criminals ought to be flogged, and enjoys telling spicy jokes. At 81, spry, wiry Lord Goddard still seems bustling into a courtroom adjusting his long white judge's wig. "Your appeal is of an imprudent nature," he will chastise one lawyer. Or he will ask scathingly: "Am I correct in thinking you are going to make what I might call the usual defense?" He has a painstaking sympathetic concern for the rights of the little man. As lord chief justice he presides over the entire administration of the common law courts, but he personally hears cases that may seem trivial. Britain's lord chief justice hears ordinary civil and criminal cases along with the other judges of the Queen's bench.

Though Goddard is endlessly patient when he senses an injustice, he does not believe in light sentences once guilt has been proved. "I have never understood," he said once, "how the criminal law could be a deterrent unless it were also punitive. I believe we have thought too much of the criminal and not enough of the victim." Hence his much criticized advocacy of flogging for certain types of criminals, and his belief in capital punishment of convicted murderers. A widower, he lives alone and seldom goes out except to visit his grandchildren. It's a treat when he does go to a party. His repertoire of all-male jokes is the envy of professional London. Goddard was appointed lord chief justice by the Labor government in 1946.

Lebanon's Only Hope Called A Reluctant Man

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst The one man who is an outside chance of restoring Lebanon to some semblance of political normalcy is a reluctant politician. Square-jawed Gen. Fuad Shehab may be able to help solve the Lebanese crisis over the presidency by agreeing to serve. But he doesn't like the idea. He considers himself strictly a military man. Shehab has interposed his bulky figure midway between the two major warring factions—the supporters of President Camille Chamoun and those who want Chamoun's scalp. As a member of the Maronite sect of the Roman Catholic Church, Shehab is eligible for the presidency under Lebanon's unwritten law dividing the government carefully among the nation's numerous sects, Moslem and Christian. Because of his neutral position, he has been looked upon as probably the only possibility for compromise candidate. But all along, Shehab has been serving as a politician. His job, he claimed, was that of a soldier—the commander in chief anxious to save the republic. Reluctant or not, Shehab is in a position to attempt to untangle the Lebanese mess. He is respected throughout the whole country, by Moslems and Christians alike. He comes of a heroic family, descended directly from the Emir Bashire Shehab who ruled Lebanon under the Ottoman Turks in the 19th century. While a Christian, he has relatives both among the Moslems and the Druses, an offshoot sect of Islam which is deeply involved in the current rebellion. Shehab's Moslem cousin, Khaled Shehab, once was premier. Another cousin, Abdul Aziz Shehab, has been serving as director general of the Interior Ministry. Shehab, now 56, has considered his role to be that of pacifier, to prevent the Lebanese from hurling themselves into a Moslem-Christian religious war. For this reason his army took little resolute action in the rebellion, leaving most of the fighting to the gendarmerie and the Christian irregulars supporting Chamoun. But while Shehab's position is strong, he is no political strongman. In fact, he is essentially weak in politics—the stolid military man, French trained as a professional soldier and lost in the maze of intrigue woven by experts in intrigue.

to be a taxi cab, had been parked there three days, with a rock under a wheel. As the Solh procession approached, a policeman stepped forward and asked the green car to pull to the side of the road and permit the Solh car to go ahead. At that moment the explosion occurred, knocking the motorcycle and the green car far down the slope. Reasons for the attack on Solh were not immediately clear since most rebel animosity in the near-by three months of rebellion has been against President Chamoun. Assaults fired on Marine positions at two different points in Beirut Monday night, a headquarters spokesman said. There were no casualties, and the Marines did not return the fire. Parliament Speaker Adel Osseryan told The Associated Press there is general agreement among all parties that the army commander, Gen. Fuad Shehab, will be elected to succeed pro-Western President Camille Chamoun. Osseryan said Shehab would get a virtually unanimous vote when Parliament meets to elect a president Thursday. Shehab has been mentioned as a compromise candidate, but until now censors had eliminated such mention of him in dispatches from Beirut. If the rebels and the government supporters do unite behind Shehab, he may be able to end the 81-day-old rebellion of anti-Chamoun forces who opposed his Western leanings and reported ambitions for a second term. An end to the rebellion presumably would result in the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon. Despite the mounting signs of political truce, there was fighting Monday four miles northeast of Lebanon's northern seaport of Tripoli, around the town of Zegharta. Two families, the Frangiyehs and the Duwayhs, were involved. They have had a long-standing feud and now have split over politics, the Duwayhs favoring the Chamoun government and the Frangiyehs opposing it. Jordan made new charges against the Syrian province of President Nasser's United Arab Republic. The Jordanian government said security forces had seized "large quantities of arms, ammunition and explosives" last night near the Syrian border.

Part Of Town Gets Moisture

A late afternoon thunderstorm which kept the public highly hopeful of a good rain petered out badly and barely dampened the parched countryside Monday. The U. S. Experiment Station reported that its gauge showed 2.3 inch rain but this was more than was generally received over the town. The Texas Electric Service Co. switching plant had 0.8 inch and in other parts of town the rain was not enough to measure. Webb Air Force Base measured 2.1 inch. The 2.3 inch reported by the station brought the total for July to 1.18 inch—making this month the driest of the current year and nearly an inch under the 57-inch average for July. TESCO reported that Morgan Creek gauged .12 and Snyder .30 inch.

Waitress Reopens Dusty File In 35-Year-Old Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston waitress reopened the dusty file of a 35-year-old slaying yesterday. She told police her convict brother killed an Army sergeant here in 1923. Mrs. Bernice Busbe walked into the Harris County sheriff's office and made a written statement on the fatal shooting, saying her conscience had bothered her for years. She said her brother, Benjamin Franklin Ray, 57, told her many years ago he killed Army Sgt. Thomas Turner. Ray, who has a Texas police record dating back to 1925, currently is serving a robbery by force sentence at the North Carolina state prison at Raleigh. Hugh Irby and Harold Carpenter of the Harris County sheriff's department planned to fly to Raleigh to question him.

Panel Slaps Goldfine With Contempt Charge

Baghdad Pact Meeting Opens

U.S. Continues Baghdad Pact Discussions In New Ally Role

LONDON (AP) — The United States continued Baghdad Pact discussions today in the new role of a virtual partner with Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Britain against Soviet threats to the Middle East. Secretary of State Dulles pledged Washington to defense of the three Asian nations still active in the alliance to bolster the group after the apparent loss of its only Arab member, Iraq. Dulles' announcement tightened U.S. military commitments in the tense area but did little to extend them. Iran is the only one of the four active pact members with which the United States had no direct military alliance and it is in the Eisenhower Doctrine area that Washington had promised to aid against Soviet aggression. Dulles flew home last night after signing a declaration of military support with the prime ministers of the four nations.

The U.S. action was welcomed in Britain and by the Asian pact delegates in London but drew the expected criticism from Moscow. "Dulles never tires of fishing in muddy waters, especially in those he himself has muddied," a Soviet broadcast said. Iraq's place at the pact table was empty although the new republican government in Baghdad has not withdrawn from the alliance concluded by the late King Faisal II's government. One of the topics of discussion is whether any change is now needed in the pact's form because of the Iraqi situation. Delegates also considered taking a new name to replace the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, where the pact was signed and had its headquarters. The declaration signed by Dulles and the four active members said they "reaffirmed their determination to strengthen their united defense posture in the area." It added: "Similarly, the United States, in the interests of world peace and pursuant to existing congressional authorization, agrees to cooperate with the nations making this declaration for their security and defense and will promptly enter into agreements designed to give effect to this cooperation." Such agreements under the Eisenhower Doctrine would eliminate the need to push a formal American adherence to the pact through the U.S. Senate.

licizing Khrushchev's words was viewed as added proof that he was mainly interested in maximum propaganda advantage rather than anticipating any American acceptance of his idea. One of Khrushchev's accusations that was likely to bring a sharply worded retort from Eisenhower was his comment that Eisenhower was not working for a settlement of the military conflict in the interests of preserving peace, but seeking to expand Middle East conflicts "with the threat of world catastrophe." These Khrushchev remarks were looked upon as not only personally offensive but as stepping up the Soviet campaign to convince the world that Anglo-American troop landings in Jordan and Lebanon pose an immediate war threat. Mos. officials said Khrushchev's move in rejecting a summit meeting within the Security Council reflected a fear that Eisenhower intended to counterattack Soviet accusations by blaming the Soviet Union for fomenting Mideast tension.

Ike, Dulles Confer On Answer To Khrushchev On Summit Note

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower conferred with Secretary of State Dulles today about getting off a speedy note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on bitterly disputed plans for a Middle East summit conference. The new Eisenhower letter may suggest a date in the next few days for a U.N. Security Council meeting to work out arrangements and a date for a summit session. Officials said Eisenhower was certain to insist the meeting be held entirely within the regular procedures of the Council. Dulles went to the White House shortly before noon and about four hours after he returned, leaving the meeting of the Baghdad Pact powers at London. Dulles spent 45 minutes with the President. He left the White House without talking with newsmen. He told reporters at the airport that he had read only fragments of Khrushchev's latest letter to Eisenhower and he would not comment until he had seen the full text and conferred with the President. The Soviet leader's message was an angry denunciation of the President's determination to keep the proposed summit meeting in regular U.N. Security Council channels. Khrushchev accused Eisenhower of deliberately confusing negotiations for a summit session in order to delay its start. The Soviet leader also said he would prefer a summit session in Geneva outside the U.N. Some officials said the Khrushchev letter was remarkably insulating for one head of a great power to send another. But they agreed Eisenhower's message of July 25 had been pretty tough in tone also. The United States is prepared to take part in an 11-nation meeting of the Security Council. Officials said Eisenhower and Dulles are still thinking as they were late last week in terms of a summit session at New York around Aug. 11 or 12. Some authorities felt Eisenhower should counter Khrushchev's blast by announcing he will show up for a high-level Security Council meeting, whether or not the Soviet leader shows up. They recalled that the Soviet Union threatened to boycott the current Geneva technical talks on disarmament, but changed its mind when American officials went to the meeting despite last-minute Soviet objections. The White House foreshadowed Eisenhower's attitude when it announced that there was no change in the President's proposal for keeping the meeting within the U.N. despite Khrushchev's newest blast. The initial White House reaction came from reading news accounts reporting the text of Khrushchev's letter as broadcast by Radio Moscow. The full text of Khrushchev's message still had not been received by the State Department last night. Moscow's move in swiftly publicizing Khrushchev's words was viewed as added proof that he was mainly interested in maximum propaganda advantage rather than anticipating any American acceptance of his idea. One of Khrushchev's accusations that was likely to bring a sharply worded retort from Eisenhower was his comment that Eisenhower was not working for a settlement of the military conflict in the interests of preserving peace, but seeking to expand Middle East conflicts "with the threat of world catastrophe." These Khrushchev remarks were looked upon as not only personally offensive but as stepping up the Soviet campaign to convince the world that Anglo-American troop landings in Jordan and Lebanon pose an immediate war threat. Mos. officials said Khrushchev's move in rejecting a summit meeting within the Security Council reflected a fear that Eisenhower intended to counterattack Soviet accusations by blaming the Soviet Union for fomenting Mideast tension.

Delegates to the state Democratic convention will be chosen at the county convention and resolutions adopted in the precinct meetings will be considered. Hardesty asked that all qualified delegates make a special effort to attend the county meeting.

County Democratic Convention Is Set

Howard County Democratic Convention will convene in the District courtroom Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Frank Hardesty, county chairman, said Tuesday. He said that he anticipated more than 100 would attend, pointing out that only delegates elected from the precinct meetings are eligible to participate in the county convention. Delegates to the state Democratic convention will be chosen at the county convention and resolutions adopted in the precinct meetings will be considered. Hardesty asked that all qualified delegates make a special effort to attend the county meeting.

Vote Tallies Are Confirmed

Canvass of the votes cast in Saturday's primary election was completed Tuesday morning by the Howard County Democratic Executive Committee. Frank Hardesty, county chairman, said there were no discrepancies and that vote totals as determined by check of the tally sheets were identical with those previously announced. The committee also made plans for the runoff primary on Aug. 23. Only three contested races will remain to be settled by that vote. Places for names on the ballots were drawn and instructions issued for ordering a supply of ballots for the election issued. J. W. (Jim Bill) Little drew No. 1 spot for County Commissioner Precinct 4. L. J. Davidson is his opponent. Ralph White drew No. 1 place for County Commissioner Precinct 2. Sam McComb will be in Precinct 2. Robert W. Hamilton, for associate justice of Supreme Court, Place 1, is No. 1 on the county ballot and J. Edwin Smith is No. 2.

House Probers Urge Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators today recommended contempt of Congress proceedings against Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams. Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the investigating subcommittee's recommendation would be submitted soon as possible to its parent, the House Commerce Committee. If endorsed by the full committee, the contempt citation would go to the House. And, if approved by the House, it would go to the U.S. district attorney for handling as a criminal case. It will have to be done quickly to get action at this session of Congress, Harris told newsmen after a 40-minute closed session of the subcommittee. Goldfine, 67, could not be reached immediately for his reaction to the subcommittee's vote. Conviction for contempt of Congress carries a possible penalty of $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment. Harris said the contempt proceedings were voted unanimously at the subcommittee meeting. Eight of the 11 members were present. Harris was asked whether today's action completes the subcommittee's handling of the case which involved eight days of testimony by Goldfine and one by Adams. "No, this is one phase," Harris said. "We have to wait and see what might happen in the future." The subcommittee carefully laid the groundwork for its action several weeks ago, demanding answers to a series of 23 questions about the Boston millionaire's financial dealings. Goldfine with equal firmness refused to answer, contending the questions had nothing to do with the subcommittee's inquiry on whether improper influence had been brought on federal agencies. Goldfine readily answered numerous other subcommittee questions, claiming a long personal friendship as the basis for his frequent contacts with Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide. But he contended, as Adams had earlier, that he had received no special favors from government agencies as a result. Subcommittee action would be only the first step toward possible prosecution for contempt of Congress. Action by the full committee and by the House itself would be required to send a recommendation to the Justice Department for action. The Justice Department then would decide whether court action was warranted, and if so would present the case to a grand jury. A contempt conviction carries penalties up to a $1,000 fine and a year in jail. Goldfine has textile mill and real estate interests. The subcommittee questioned him for eight days about his dealings with the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission on wool labeling and stock registrations. Adams made inquiries to both agencies about the status of cases involving Goldfine interests. The Harris subcommittee was created by the House to inquire into federal regulatory agencies. The first proposed legislation from the subcommittee, approved yesterday, resulted from hearings earlier this year on allegations of misconduct and backstage maneuvering in the grant of television channels by the Federal Communications Commission. The bill would require the FCC to set up standards of conduct for its members and employees. It also has provisions designed to prevent special pressures.

Early County Resident Dies At Age Of 97

Mrs. Martha Emma Henderson, a resident of Howard County since 1900, died Monday afternoon at the age of 97. Death came at the family home northeast of Big Spring. Mrs. Henderson had been ill since last December. She lived with a son, Ted Henderson. Funeral services are to be held at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the River Funeral Chapel with Cecil Smith, Church of Christ minister from Abilene, and Rev. E. L. Jones, Baptist minister from Lamesa, officiating. Interment will be in the Salem Cemetery beside the grave of her husband, J. L. Henderson, who died July 13, 1931. Mrs. Henderson was born July 22, 1861, in Comanche. She and Mr. Henderson moved to Howard County in 1900 and engaged in farming. She is survived by four sons, Ted, West and Nathan Henderson, all of Big Spring, and Leo Henderson of Santa Anna; two daughters, Mrs. Emma Franklin of Lamesa and Mrs. Minnie Smith of Menard; 32 grandchildren, 49 great-grandchildren and 18 great-great-grandchildren. Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Church Sells Most Of Bonds

Members of East Fourth Baptist Church are left with only about $20,000 in bonds to sell, and efforts are being exerted to dispose of these this week. The church is financing a new 950-seat sanctuary with sale of $185,000 in bonds, and a report meeting Monday revealed that all but $20,000 of the total had been sold. The sale drive began July 7. Monday's meeting showed sale of $16,550 since last Friday's report. Bonds are being sold to members and investors and bear five per cent interest. The remaining bonds mature from two to 11 years. Plans for the new auditorium are now being drawn up by Gary & Hohertz, an architectural-designing firm here.

Alberta Careful In Sharing Wealth

EDMONTON, Alta (AP) — Alberta's provincial government is going to be a lot more careful in distributing this year's share-of-the-wealth oil dividends. Last year too many people got too big a share. The 11-million-dollar oil royalty pie was split up into $20 cash payments in 1957. All you had to do was sign a residence statement, say you were over 21 and the bank clerk or treasury agent would hand over the money. More than half a million people collected. But drifters, confidence men, drunks and people who just couldn't resist the temptation promptly saw the loophole and began making the rounds of treasury offices and banks. They gave false names and addresses at each stop—and some of them got more than 100 "citizens' bonuses." After the confusion cleared, 323 people had been convicted for false declarations and false pretenses. By February of this year the provincial jail had 328 prisoners, about 225 more than normal. But Premier E. C. Manning's Social Credit government stood by its original declaration that the citizens of Alberta should "share personally in the prosperity resulting from the development of the oil industry." This year the government will pay the bonuses by check. Dividend applications have been mailed to Alberta householders, who will have to swear to their statements before a commissioner for oaths (notary public). A 25-man staff at the Treasury Department will run the applications through a battery of electronic sorting machines and, after careful cross-checking, mail out the money. Another significant difference will be the size of this year's bonus—only $17.50. Market conditions forced Alberta oil and gas producers to lower their output and this cut the government's royalty by a million dollars.

Educator Quits

EL PASO (AP)—The resignation of Dr. Dysart Holcomb, president of Texas Western College, to become director of research and development for El Paso Natural Gas Co. was announced yesterday. Dr. Holcomb has been at Texas Western since 1954. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and has received numerous honors. He is married and has three children.

Snake Hunters Foil Bad Cobra

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Clarence, a 5-foot Egyptian cobra, managed to slip through a half-inch crack in his cage but he couldn't elude Texas rattlesnake hunters.

The cobra, known as the 'bad boy' of the Waco Zoo, escaped yesterday morning. Cautious zoo employees moved all animals from the building to protect them from the grey and yellow snake whose bite can be fatal in 26 seconds.

After a fogging machine failed to rout Clarence, searchers last night began taking up the floor plank by plank.

Experienced rattlesnake hunters slipped wire loops around his head and body when Clarence was found under the floor. Seconds later then had him back in his cage.

Rain On Schedule True To Custom

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Citizens of this southwestern Pennsylvania community usually don't pay too much attention to rain.

But today was different because there is a belief that it always—well almost always—rains in Waynesburg on July 29. Each year, Atty. John Daily, head of Waynesburg's Rain Day Club, wagers a hat that it will rain. This year he put up a tri-cornered Revolutionary War hat against a jet pilot helmet put up by Maj. Donald Johnston, commander of the 147th Squadron of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard.

At 12:10 a. m. a steady rain began falling—marking the 73rd time in 82 years that rain has fallen on Waynesburg on July 29. Daily had won his helmet.

Satellite In Orbit

Dr. James Van Allen, acting head of the U.S. Satellite Technical Panel, points to a map in Washington, D.C., showing the path of the new satellite, Explorer IV, as it went into orbit after being fired from Cape Canaveral. Dr. Van Allen, holding a Jupiter C model with the satellite attached to the nose, announced that Explorer IV was in orbit two and one half hours after it was fired.

Car Dealers Face Conspiracy Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-two car dealers in the Washington area faced charges today of conspiring to jack up the price of new cars in violation of antitrust laws.

Indictments returned yesterday by a federal grand jury also accused the dealers of collusion in setting artificially high prices for parts and repairs.

The indictments were the first returned in a Justice Department probe of car pricing practices. Other grand juries are investigating the car markets in New York, San Francisco, Cleveland and Detroit.

Indicted here were the area's 17 franchised Ford dealers, the 14 Chevrolet dealers and the 11 Oldsmobile dealers. In addition, the Ford Motor Co. and the Greater Washington Chevrolet Dealers Assn. cooperative were charged with joining the conspiracy to fix prices to the detriment of open competition.

The basic charge was that each of the three groups of dealers conspired to set minimum prices "substantially in excess" of those recommended by manufacturers.

The charges were denied by several of the dealers and by the Ford Motor Co.

The dealers said the only agreement ever entered into was one setting up a suggested asking price for cars. The asking price, they said, was never the selling price because of varying trade-in allowances and discounts.

In Detroit, William T. Gossett, vice president and general counsel of Ford, denied that the car manufacturer had entered into agreements with its dealers to set the price of parts and accessories.

Gossett said the charges apparently stemmed from a program undertaken by Washington Ford dealers in 1954 whereby identification cards were issued to bona fide wholesale parts customers.

"The program involved no agreement as to the prices at which sales were made to any customer," said Gossett.

Conviction under the indictments could bring a penalty of $50,000 on each of seven counts. No prison sentences are possible because the charges were limited to corporations.

"The purpose of these indictments is to restore price competition by condemning and removing arbitrarily imposed restraints designed to maintain prices at artificially high levels," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor Hansen.

Ford and Oldsmobile dealers were charged also with agreeing for a time on minimum gross profit margins per car, and Chevrolet dealers were accused of conspiring through the cooperative to fix repair rates.

Famed Doctor Supports UFO

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Dr. Carl Jung, Swiss psychologist, says in a report that Unidentified Flying Objects are real and "show signs of intelligent guidance by quasiuman pilots."

"I can only say for certain these things are not a mere rumor, something has been seen," Jung said in the report. "A purely psychological explanation is ruled out."

Jung, who started his research on UFOs in 1944, released his report through the UFO filter center of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization here. It was released by L. J. Lorenzen of Holloman Air Force Base.

"I have gathered a mass of observations of Unidentified Flying Objects since 1944," Jung said. "The discs do not behave in accordance with physical laws, but as though without weight."

"If the extraterrestrial origin of this phenomena should be confirmed, this would prove the existence of an intelligent interplanetary relationship. What such a fact might mean for humanity cannot be predicted."

"But it would put us without doubt in the extremely precarious position of primitive communities in conflict with the superior culture of the whites."

"That the construction of these machines proves a scientific technique immensely superior to ours cannot be argued."

Lorenzen and many members of the APRO are scientists and technicians employed at Holloman and nearby missile bases. The APRO is a private organization.

The Air Force has said investigation of flying saucers reported over the past 10 years has produced no evidence that such things exist.

It has contended that not a shred of evidence has turned up to show the existence of a flying saucer or interplanetary space ship or that the objects sighted indicate developments beyond the range of current scientific knowledge or pose a threat to the nation's security.

The Air Force said last November investigations of 5,700 reported sightings showed the mysterious objects were balloons, aircraft, astronomical phenomena, birds, fireworks or hoaxes among other things.

Faubus Hopes Racial Stand To Aid Election

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus is hoping that his stand in the Little Rock integration crisis will sweep him to a third-term Democratic nomination in today's primary.

Faubus, who ordered state troops to block school integration, faced two opponents.

In strongly Democratic Arkansas, nomination is equivalent to election.

Should Faubus not win a majority today, he will face the runner-up in a runoff second primary Aug. 12.

The two candidates opposing the controversial incumbent — Chris Finkbeiner, 37-year-old Little Rock meat packing company executive, and Lee Ward, 51, of Paragould, Ark., a state court judge—both conceded Faubus an excellent chance to lead the preferential ticket, but they pinned their hopes on forcing the governor into a runoff.

All three candidates made election eve appeals for support.

"In 10 years — or 20 years — schoolchildren will study in their history books about the election and the issues we must face and decide," said Ward.

Both Ward and Finkbeiner have strongly criticized Faubus' action last September when the governor prevented nine Negro children from entering Little Rock Central High School by placing a cordon of National Guardsmen around the school.

After Faubus removed the state troops in face of a Federal District Court injunction directing him to cease interference, President Eisenhower sent regular Army paratroopers and federalized the State Guard to enforce the court-ordered integration.

Finkbeiner and Ward said they too believed in racial segregation but prescribed only "legal" methods of maintaining it.

Faubus' campaign assistants have predicted that the 48-year-old governor will receive 79 per cent of the vote — more than enough to make him Arkansas' second third-term governor in history.

Hungry Fish

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Indigestion may have killed a big Mackinaw trout found dead on the shore of Middle Piney Lake in Wyoming. Game and Fish Department officials said the stomach of the 26-pound fish contained a large ball of fish line, several lead sinkers, three spinners, one minnow hook, two regular hooks, one swivel and several bones.

MY SINCERE THANKS

It is hard for me to express in words my deep appreciation for all of you who voted for and helped me in the first primary. All I can say is simply thanks for everything. To those of you who voted for my worthy, though unsuccessful opponents in the first primary, I earnestly solicit your earnest consideration and vote in the August 23 primary. I hope to see each and everyone in my precinct personally between now and August 23rd, but should I fail to see you, won't you please accept this as a personal solicitation of your vote and influence in this second primary?

How Many Beans...

Perhaps you, too, stood outside a store window in your youth and tried to estimate the number of beans in a display.

Guessing the circulation of a newspaper was once quite a game for advertisers, too.

But the Audit Bureau of Circulations took all the chance out of this game. A.B.C. auditors don't stand outside and estimate—they come inside the publisher's office and count.

When the auditor is finished and his precise findings published, well there's just no room for guessing.

It's all there in his report—how much circulation, where copies were circulated, how much people paid, and some of the reasons why the people bought our paper.

There's no reason to guess about the circulation audience you get when you advertise in our paper. The facts are down in black and white for you to see.

Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

Yarborough Says No Nominee Should Seek Party Control

AUSTIN (AP)—U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough said yesterday he "does not seek to control the state convention or the Texas Democratic party."

Yarborough issued the statement as all signs pointed toward another showdown between rival Democratic factions in next Saturday's county conventions.

Spaceman Takes Project In Stride

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The man now designated to be America's first venturer into space is a poised New Yorker who takes the assignment in easy stride.

Sometime within the next two years, if everything goes according to schedule, Air Force Capt. Robert M. White will be piloting the X15 higher than man has ever flown.

The Air Force predicts the research plane now under construction will have an altitude potential of 100 miles.

It wasn't until last weekend, when his good friend Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe was killed in a jet crash, that White knew he would be replacing Kincheloe as the No. 1 man in the highly secret X15 program.

Prior to that, he had been Kincheloe's "backup pilot."

How does he feel about his new status? "I'd feel fine about it if it had come about in any other way. As an individual Kinch cannot be replaced. He was an entity in himself."

How did he get started in aviation? "When World War II began, I was 17 and I decided I wanted to fly."

Tanned and trim, White has a handsome combination of blue eyes and brown hair that makes him look younger than his 34 years.

His natural poise is backed up by experience — 4,200 hours as a pilot, including 52 combat missions in World War II and Korea.

It was during the Korean War that White made application for the flight test center at Edwards Air Force Base, his station the past four years.

What about making hazardous, space-age flights on a captain's pay? "I guess it's just our orientation. It's sometimes taken lightly, but those of us in the service feel we have a responsibility to the American people. We like our work. It's a matter of contentment."

White said he works 9 to 10 hours a day — six days a week sometimes — and spends much of his spare time reading technical manuals. Does his family object to this schedule? "I'm blessed with a very patient wife."

White married the former Doris Allan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 10 years ago in his native New York City. They have two youngsters.

White, interviewed after a secret conference here on the X15 program, said the space aircraft will be carried aloft under the wing of a B52 bomber piloted by Capt. Charles Bock of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Somewhere in the lower stratosphere over Utah, Capt. Bock will release the X15 and White will fire the rocket plane's powerful engine. It's anticipated he may hit 4,000 m.p.h. in his missile-like climb.

Clerics Protest Police Raid Of Church Shrine

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Roman Catholic officials have protested a police invasion of a monastery housing vows of church allegiance by a million Poles.

Senators Back Ike In Summit Demand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three senators urged the Eisenhower administration today to stick to its demand that any over-all Middle East settlement be attempted only through the United Nations.

The raid came after a demand by the state prosecutor for information on the Institute of National Vows founded by Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland.

The three, all members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, are Senators Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) and Homer Capehart (R-Ind).

The church charged that police broke down the gates of the Jasna Gora (Golden Hill) monastery, a national shrine, and stripped the institute offices there of books, records, and tape recordings.

They expressed the opinion in separate interviews it would be a mistake to agree to the five-power conference outside the U.N., as suggested by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

A spokesman for Cardinal Wyszynski said the police beat a man who tried to stop them and that three truckloads of reserves dispersed a crowd of protesting pilgrims with clubs.

Humphrey said he believes the meeting ought to be held in New York but would raise no objections if a decision were made to transfer it to Paris or Geneva.

A million Poles made a pilgrimage to the monastery in August 1956 and took vows of allegiance to the church which were kept in the institute.

Capehart said the matter of a Middle East settlement "belongs in the Security Council and if the Russians are unwilling to go there we should tell them there will be no meeting outside."

Two months after the pilgrimage, the Communists released Cardinal Wyszynski from house arrest where he had been held for three years. That was the beginning of an uneasy truce between the Communist regime and the church, a truce that seems endangered by the current crisis.

But Mansfield said he is against agreeing to Khrushchev's proposal for a conference of the United States, Britain, France, The Soviet Union and India outside of U.N. auspices.

Police made their raid July 21, the church statement said. A protesting letter from Bishop Edzislaw Golinski of Czestochowa was read in all of Warsaw's churches Sunday.

Humphrey, a former U.N. delegate, said Khrushchev had "laid himself wide open" by proposing a conference of this nature.

The Institute of National Vows was set up to organize pilgrimages. The government has charged that the pilgrimages were being used for anti-Communist propaganda.

Manuscript said the U.N. Security Council could meet in Geneva "in the cool and detached atmosphere that De Gaulle desires and that I think is needed."

Creekmore Fath, secretary-treasurer of the labor-liberal DOT, claimed that it had "nailed down" a majority of the votes in the precinct conventions.

"This would be away from the glare of publicity in New York and it would not involve the security problems that might be encountered on any visit of Khrushchev there."

An independent survey of the precinct sessions indicated strongly that the SDEC-Daniel forces won. The county conventions Saturday should provide another sign of who is on top, but the ultimate outcome may not be known until the next votes are cast at the September state convention.

But Mansfield said he is against agreeing to Khrushchev's proposal for a conference of the United States, Britain, France, The Soviet Union and India outside of U.N. auspices.

Yarborough predicted that the September state convention will mean new unity and "will be a clear-cut victory for Texas Democrats who really believe in the basic principles of the party of the people."

Manuscript said the purpose of the convention is "to give the people a voice from the grassroots." He said "Texans are tired of having their party machinery operated and for the whim and convenience of a bunch of half-Republican political bosses" and added the days "of political bossism and party disloyalty are done in our state."

TULSA (AP)—Daily average oil production dropped 1,800 barrels to 6,506,500 barrels during the week ended July 26, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Leo Slagie, 22, Albany, Calif., arrived here yesterday for treatment of frostbite and told how 23-year-old David Toland of Grand Rapids, Mich., was killed when snow piled high by a blizzard collapsed their tent.

Ray D'Arcy of Boston and Ritten Walling of Philadelphia dug away the snow but not quickly enough to save Toland, who suffocated.

The four were camped at the 13,000-foot level of the peak on the Alaska-Canada border about 275 miles northwest of here.

The climbers made their way over rugged terrain to the fishing village of Yakutat 70 miles away—a trip that took them eight days. There, Slagie was picked up by a Coast Guard plane.

The mountaineers were former members of the Harvard Mountain Climbing Club.

Results Of The Democratic Primary

The political seers are now trying to analyze future developments in the wake of Saturday's Democratic primary in Texas. Pat conclusions are not easy to come by, but some things are obvious: Sen. Ralph Yarborough achieved a solid personal victory, getting that strong majority that has evaded him in prior campaigns. His victory had been anticipated by all but the most rabid Blakely supporters, but probably by not such a decisive margin. He can return to duties in Washington secure in the knowledge that he has the support of the people of the state. His margin of triumph had uniformly over the state since he got strong leads in city, small-town and rural areas alike.

because he has appeared in the political picture so regularly. Senator Yarborough won his race, and there need be no bitterness about it. If the liberal-conservative scrapping is to continue, that might be another story. The so-called moderates are pointing to the strength shown by Ben Ramsey and Bill Alcorn—and principally pointing to an apparent margin in precinct conventions.

The decision on party control is yet to be written, and Texans can expect to see fresh struggles at the state convention. Affairs may get to such a state again that Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Rep. Sam Rayburn—the most potent politicians in Texas—will have to be summoned, or may have to appear for their own safeguard, to settle the Yarborough-Daniel feud. And where that puts the power, is something else again.

Emphasizing The Word Reciprocal

Less spectacular than troop movements but no less important to free-world defenses is the Senate's strong support of the reciprocal trade program. The action is all the more gratifying because it involved emphatic rejection of hamstringing provisions attached in the Senate Finance Committee. Chief among these was a proposal permitting the Tariff Commission to jack up rates unless overruled not only by the President—as at present—but by a majority of both houses. It would have revived the old logrolling tariff-making method which Congress itself 24 years ago recognized was not in the national interest. At that time the plan of having the executive negotiate with other countries to obtain a lowering of their trade barriers in return for American concessions was adopted. It proved effective and beneficial.

of bipartisan support. In the Senate Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic leader, and William F. Knowland, the Republican leader, joined in support of the policy.

Some opponents look at only one aspect of a national policy designed to increase trade. They hear only the complaints of domestic producers who feel themselves imperiled by foreign competition. They give little heed to gains experienced by American consumers and exporters. Indeed, they talk as if this were not a reciprocal program, bringing many advantages through the opening of foreign markets for American goods. And they ignore the vital way in which undergirding the economic strength of the free world contributes to American defense.

The House and Senate bills must be reconciled in conference—notably as to the length of the extension—but there is now good expectation of agreement on a strong measure.

France Views Soustelle With Concern

PARIS—Crisis in this crisis-ridden era have a way of coming so fast, one on top of the other, that the consequences of the last disaster are obscured by the explosion that follows.

At the end of May the world waited to see whether anarchy and civil war would overwhelm the thin line of authority in France. It was touched and on the last frantic days until, finally, General Charles de Gaulle came to power and the rebels in Algiers welcomed him as a leader who would resolve France's troubles and put an end to the futility of the party system.

De Gaulle was a last resort, and most Frenchmen, as well as most friends of France in the West, wanted to believe that he would save democracy, reform the economy, and restore confidence at home and abroad. That was a large order, and certainly no one expected that the general, for all his great prestige and sense of mission, could achieve it in six weeks. He had scarcely made a start when the crisis in the Middle East, which touches France in so many ways, presented his government with new difficulties and the need for new decisions.

Both within NATO and among highly placed Americans here De Gaulle is still given every benefit of the doubt. That is understandable if only because so much for the future of the Western alliance depends on whether France can achieve stability.

So formidable was the job he assumed on June 1 that it is hard to measure progress, but there has definitely been progress. The situation in North Africa is nothing like as explosive as it was two months ago, thanks in large part to the agreement the De Gaulle government has worked out with Tunisia.

While the war in Algeria against the Moslems still goes on and new French troops have just been moved in, the effort of the French to win Moslem support is meeting with limited success. That effort is based on the appeal of "integration" and the promise that the Arab population will have the same rights and privileges, including the same elaborate social services, as the citizen of France.

The author of that appeal, Jacques Soustelle, who was also one of the principal engineers of the revolution of May 13 in Algiers, is rapidly becoming one of the principal powers in the De Gaulle government. Quite a number of Frenchmen who follow public affairs believe he will be the next prime minister of France and it is lost all your marbles, you'll be a comic. "Then you take your $50,000 out of the bank and spend it buying fresh jokes, costumes, building a number of routines, and finding an agent. By the time you've spent the $50,000 you should be working - or else you'll never laugh again."

How To Lose All Your Marbles

NEW YORK (AP) - Unlike many professional comedians, Henry Youngman doesn't discourage newcomers from trying to find a career in the yuk industry.

or buff comedians around now - such as Milton Berle, Red Skelton and Bob Hope," said Henry. "It's a new age of comedy—the age of charm. The tiptoe comedians have taken over. They have crew cuts and the little-boy appeal."

"People say 'Cut out the comedy,'" he remarked. "But don't believe them. There's a million dollars in it if you can make enough people laugh."

Henny has an unfair advantage over most comedians. He was born in Brooklyn. But he insists he became a comic in self-defense.

"They are lightweight charmers and they get light laughs. They don't have to be hilariously funny - just charming and pleasant. The audience loves them, so anything they say is funny."

"In what other business can you make a million dollars—and carry your inventory in your head?" Youngman, celebrating his 25th year as a one-man gag factory, has long been known in the trade as one willing to help a talented young beginner find his way around.

"I was a fiddler in a dance band, and a lousy one," he admitted. "The couples used to make comments on my playing as they danced by, and I started to wisecrack back. Things just went on from there. I used my bow less and less - and my mouth more."

Youngman isn't bitter about the change. Just philosophical. He feels there will always be room for a few rapid-fire old - timers such as himself.

What does it take to get started as a comedian today? "The thing you need most today is wealthy parents, or a do-it-yourself comedy kit consisting of $50,000 in the bank," said Henry.

This is an art which even Jackie Gleason, one of the most astute situation comedians of his day, has never quite mastered.

Henny has noted one other major change in recent years. "Men used to be the biggest hecklers in night clubs," he said. "Now it's the women."

You start out by telling jokes until you're bored. Then someone will tell you, 'You're a riot. You ought to be on the stage.'

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF THE STOLEN CAR

Twentieth of a series by Donald J. Sobel

The entire month of May had been rainless in Hicks county, but during the first week of June rain fell every day, ruining Haledjian's vacation and causing him to welcome the diversion promised by Sheriff Monahan.

"Smiling Charlie—that's Charlie Wilson—is an old friend of mine," said the Sheriff. "I hate to bust in and accuse an old friend of selling stolen automobiles."

"Do you really believe I can tell if the car is stolen simply by posing as a customer?" "I've heard tell you solved tougher problems."

"Look," interrupted the youth who sat beside Haledjian in the sheriff's car. "It's my convertible Charlie's showing. It was stolen five days ago. I don't care what the motor number reads, or the papers. He could have changed them. Arrest him!"

"Calm down and stay out of sight," warned the sheriff. "Here we are, doctor."

The sheriff and Haledjian entered the used car dealer's tiny office. "Not an official visit, Charlie," said the sheriff. "My friend is interested in the green convertible."

Smiling Charlie frowned. "The one the Bragg kid from Tarrytown keeps insisting is his?" "I take it you had the convertible on the lot before the boy's car was stolen," remarked Haledjian.

The sheriff put smiling Charlie under arrest.

WHAT NOISE DID THE SHERIFF HEAR THAT WRECKED THE DEALER'S STORY? The sheriff and Haledjian entered the used car dealer's tiny office. "Not an official visit, Charlie," said the sheriff. "My friend is interested in the green convertible."

Around The Rim Proving Things By Scientific Test

Old Ben Franklin, so the history books relate, discovered that lightning and electricity were one and the same by flying a kite on a cloudy, thundering afternoon. Somehow, according to the pictures I recall from my textbooks, Ben used a house key attached to the kite as to attract the lightning.

The books I have read are not very complete on the story. I wonder, maybe, if Ben didn't really go out flying a kite to shock the staid and conservative Philadelphians and that somehow the key got accidentally tangled up in his tackle. When he had his kite aloft, maybe lightning slashed at it and then travelled down the wet kite string to give the eminent first postmaster general of the United States a stiff jolt.

Whereupon, canny old Benjamin, to save face and because it suddenly dawned on him that such was the case blithely announced to the bystanders (I know there were bystanders) "Well, Well! Whatta you know? Lightning and electricity are one and the same." At which the bystanders' mouths dropped open and they looked with awe on Mr. Franklin.

Or maybe it didn't happen that way. I know that I proved to my complete conviction that "dry ice," so called, is pure carbon dioxide and that you can't breathe its fumes and do well. Other folks may have already known such was the case. I didn't but I do now.

I am reminded of this highly important scientific experiment, by Saturday night's election. For years on end, one of my jobs used to be to broadcast election returns box by box and bulletin by bulletin over our radio station. It was a full time chore and no one ever bothered to relieve me.

We wanted the stuff hot off the griddle so we rigged a line from the transmitter directly into the newsroom. There was an abandoned phone booth in the room, formerly used for long distance telephone calls. The microphone was set up in the booth. There was no method of cooling this cubicle—even an electric fan makes sort of funny with a radio mike. For several election broadcasts, I sweated in this cramped and heated space.

Came an election and I vowed I would do something to bring the temperature in my "studio" to a bearable level. I purchased 50 pounds of "dry ice." I placed this on the booth floor under my chair, closed the door and went about my preparation for the first session at the mike.

With a clutter of copy I stepped into the phone booth. It was not only cool—it was downright cold and I congratulated myself on my ingenuity.

I closed the door, flipped the switch and went into my act. In about 10 minutes, I began to be most uncomfortable. I couldn't get enough air. I was conscious of a sort of dizziness and it became increasingly difficult to read the copy before me.

I had to kick open the door—outside noise and heat regardless—in order to finish the hitch. When it was over and I had a little time to think, I realized my error. Dry ice is solidified carbon dioxide. As dry ice dissolves, it releases pure carbon dioxide. The carbon dioxide replaces the oxygen in the area involved. You can't breathe carbon dioxide (unless you are a plant with green leaves and I wasn't).

So I learned that while you can cool down a phone booth with dry ice you cannot breathe and do well in that phone booth while the dry ice is in charge. Thus I proved an important scientific fact by experiment. I have never forgotten what I learned. SAM BLACKBURN

Using Sugar On Premier Khrushchev

Grandma's always said you caught more flies with sugar than with vinegar. I think this might be a good slogan for every American to paste in his hat if and when Nikita S. Khrushchev comes to these United States.

Let us take a leaf from Mrs. Malaprop and behave toward the Russian premier as if we were all the very pinnacle of politeness, even if it half-kills us to do so. Let us also face one other fact: rudeness will get us no place with Khrushchev. He is the world's expert in that division, and can give us cards and spades and still win, hands down.

If the Russian premier comes to New York for a semi-summit conference at the United Nations, he must be given the honors and treated with the dignity that this nation would afford any other head of state, no matter how bitterly we may indict him in our hearts.

I see that Mayor Robert Wagner is making "no plans" to receive Khrushchev at City Hall, although the welcome mat is automatically out for any major leaguer who bats .400 or marbles champ. Thus does a politician count votes before they're hatched.

This is all pretty small potatoes, and I hope the American people will remember with what mounting indignation and rage we read the daily accounts of Vice President Nixon's insulting reception at the hands of South American mobs last spring.

Thanks to the Secret Service men who accompanied him, the Vice President escaped serious injury and mayhap even death. But the stories of mobs stoning Mr. Nixon and spitting at him enraged even his political enemies.

Similar treatment of Khrushchev can only inflame the Russian people and only stiffen his angry antagonism toward the West and all its works. Our own enlightened self-interest dictates that he be received with the diplomatic honors due him. No matter how much as individuals we may hate this man and the slave state he stands for, we Americans have no right to complicate the tremendous problem of the Secret Service and police in guarding the Russian premier. We must control our feelings and our temper not for his sake but for the sake of Uncle Sam who will be responsible for his safety while in the United States.

For Khrushchev to come to bodily harm or worse while under the protection of the United States Government would create an international situation too serious to contemplate. If necessary, we must each be prepared to clench our teeth and count to a trillion until Khrushchev is safely home again.

Refugee groups that have found sanctuary from Soviet persecution in the United States—and they have had my active support as well as my sympathy—must remain calm and collected, and remember that they owe Uncle Sam more than they hate communism.

If the Russian premier visits us, it will be in the interest, let us hope, of world peace. Our outward behavior toward him must, at all costs, be correct.

In this connection, there is a wonderful story about Marshal Poch. At a dinner party in his honor in Denver, following World War I, a guest told the Marshal there was nothing but wind in French politeness.

"Neither is there anything but wind in a pneumatic tire," the Marshal replied, "yet it eases wonderfully the jolts along life's highway." Does anyone have to be reminded that the highway we are now on is the roughest and most dangerous the world has ever known? (1958, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

The Gallup Poll Public Supports Arms Inspection

PRINCETON, N. J. - People in six major nations of the non-Communist world are prepared to play a personal role in seeing that reliable systems of disarmament inspection will function properly within their own countries.

This is one of the key findings in a six-nation study to determine the climate of public opinion regarding a unique system for detecting violations of a disarmament agreement—when, and if, such an international agreement is reached.

The public opinion study in the U. S., Great Britain, France, West Germany, India and Japan was one phase of an extensive investigation, conducted at Columbia University into the feasibility of workable inspection systems for enforcing disarmament agreements.

The manner in which disarmament agreements could be "patrolled" has been one of the key issues at stake in recent discussions between the U. S. and Russia on the disarmament problem.

The Columbia report indicates that workable systems of inspection can be designed to insure compliance with international disarmament agreements. These agreements could range from pacts of limited scope on halting nuclear bomb and missile testing, to comprehensive pacts of halting production of all major weapons.

The investigations coincide with growing concern over the whole question of disarmament and is of particular interest as the world moves in the direction of a "Summit meeting" at the U.N. to ease tension in the Middle East.

that—ranging from 83 per cent in Japan to 50 per cent in Great Britain. Behind this willingness to report attempted violations by their fellow countrymen is an overwhelming desire by the public in these six nations to put into effect some kind of disarmament with inspection by the world's major powers.

This series of questions was put to a cross-section of persons in the six nations:

"Would you favor or oppose setting up a worldwide organization which would make sure, by regular inspection, that no nation including Russia and the U. S. makes hydrogen bombs, atom bombs and missiles?"

Steady, Now

Beach belles cavort at Coney Island in the days when a bathing suit was a real production, and the feminine figure was camouflaged by yards of fabric.

Bloomer Girls On Way To Take Over Fashions?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Feast your eyes on the feminine pulchritude basking on the beach, boys, and be thankful for small favors. A while back the sight could have overwhelmed you. And it could happen again.

If you don't believe it, take a good look at the family album. Those bloomer bathing suit girls cavorting on the beach were Grandma, Aunt Jane, and some other feminine members of the family—fine examples of bathing belles at the turn of the century or in the Twenties. You can bet they were beauties or Grandpa and Uncle Jim would have saved their film.

Time was when one became a lady overnight. Grandma jumped from girlhood into marriage, to avoid that awful fate of being an old maid.

THE SAD OLD DAYS

There were no sleek, well-groomed fillies like our modern teen-agers gracing the beaches. Unmarried girls were considered gawky and they huddled shyly together like nervous coccons.

It wasn't until much later that girls made the grade in glamor and launched into a regimen of fastidiousness. Then they graduated to marcel or permanent waves when they cut off their pigtails, had beauty parlor facials, manicured their nails, used lipstick and rouge.

Today's teen-ager shows no resemblance to her shaggy counterparts of long ago, who greased their hair instead of washing it. The modern girl washes her hair one or more times a week, keeps it trimmed or wears it pulled back in a clean sweep from her face in a bun or ponytail. Though she wears a headache band, it does not compare to the stringy halos of lathered cloth that graced the heads of the younger set in the Flapper Era. Modern head-bands are flowered or of leather, velvet, felt or what have you.

UNGLAMOROUS PAST

The giggle set who first wore the chemise permitted the salt spray only to lick their toes, and the legs they strove so hard to hide from public view had a coat of fuzz as thick as kitten's fur. These days even the schoolgirl has her own razor, maybe an electric one in pink or blue to match her nightie. Her legs are as sleek as a piece of sculpture, summer and winter. She never finds an excuse to escape her grooming chores.

From the top of their shining heads to their manicured toenails, figure-conscious young American moderns lead the world in clean-cut beauty. Let's hope they don't turn in their up-to-date glamor for a 1924 model chassis.

Shades Of Grandma

This 1958 suit by de Givenchy may recall the styles worn by bathing beauties in Granny's day.

Miscellaneous Gifts Presented At Tea For Barbara Shields

Friends of Barbara Shields gathered recently at a miscellaneous shower given for her in the home of Mrs. W. D. Lovelace.

The honoree, bride-elect of Charles Johnson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shields, 1500 Wood. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Johnson Jr., 210 Circle Drive.

The couple will be married in the Wesley Methodist Church, Aug. 9.

A yellow and white color scheme was used by the hostesses, Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls, Mrs. J. T. Morgan, Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. John M. Garrison, Mrs. J. N. Bryant Jr., Mrs. Luther Coleman, Mrs. Frank Arner, Mrs. Douglas Boyd and Mrs. Nelson Clegg II.

First Baptist WMS Will Sponsor Six At Latin American Camp

The First Baptist WMS will sponsor six Latin American youngsters from the local Mexican Baptist Church to a three-day encampment to be held this week at the camp grounds near the City Park. The camp is under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the church.

This decision was reached Monday morning in the monthly business session held by the women, at the church. They also learned of a cooperative installation service in which the Big Spring WMS groups will install their new officers in a joint ceremony at the Baptist Temple in September.

Mrs. A. E. Lightfoot, district president, will serve as installing officer.

Mrs. Clyde Angel presided for the meeting which opened with prayer by Mrs. T. K. Price. The devotion, centered on the parable of the unjust steward as told in Luke 16, was brought by Mrs. Armour Long, member of the Evening Circle. She pointed out the two great teachings of the parable, self-justification and the truism that actions of daily life speak louder than words.

Monthly reports were read by various officers. Mrs. W. F. Taylor gave attendance and membership figures of the circles, and the group voted to dispense with a meeting on September 29. Mrs. C. O. Hitt spoke in behalf of subscriptions to religious magazines, and Mrs. R. D. Urey, prayer chairman, told of the Week of Prayer for State Missions, scheduled for September.

Mrs. B. T. Faulkner and Mrs. Beulah Bryant, Sunbeam sponsors, notified the group that the District Sunbeam Encampment would open Tuesday and continue for three days. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Odum of Snyder will be the camp missionaries. Community missions activities were outlined by Mrs. G. G. Morehead.

Mrs. W. B. Younger, WMSU's association president, urged early registration of all those who plan to attend the annual WMSU house-party in August. Dormitories at Baylor University will be open to those who attend.

The birthday calendar of prayer was read by Mrs. Urey, with Mrs. Faulkner leading the closing prayer.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Lamesa Couple

LAMESA—A double ring ceremony read Saturday evening in the chapel of the First Baptist Church united in marriage Katherine Johnson and Sam Jones.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Slater H. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Boich.

The tapers were lighted by Jolene Bolch of O'Donnell and Francis Jean Phipps of Denver City, nieces of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess style dress of white Chantilly lace and bridal satin designed and made by her mother, The Empire waistline and the low rounded neckline of the softly fitted torso were marked with wide satin bands, and long sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. A large bow over satin in the center back cascaded to the hemline of the gored skirt.

Her headpiece was encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestone from which floated a veil of illusion. On a white Bible belonging to her sister she carried a white orchid surrounded by red roses.

Beth Johnson was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a dress of red chiffon over taffeta fashioned with a low neckline and shoulder drape. She wore matching gloves and a bandeau of white satin and carried a single long stemmed white carnation.

Johnny Jones was his brother's best man. Ushers included Horace Johnson, brother of the bride, and Wayland Holladay.

Following the exchange of vows, a reception was held in the parlor of the church where the bride's table was laid with net over white satin. Red and white tapers in branched candelabra banked in white pearlized grapes formed the focal point for the table.

Included in the houseparty were Imogene Johnson, Mrs. Wayland Holladay, Mrs. Vernon Holcomb, Sandra Lewis, Glynnda Medford and Kathleen Beeman.

For traveling the bride chose a embroidered cotton-satin suit of beige with matching accessories. Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the couple will make a home at 202 N. 10th St. Guests attended from Midland, Big Spring, Lubbock, Andrews, O'Donnell, Denver City, Mt. Pleasant, Ackerly and Lamesa.

4-H Style Revue

Date for the Borden County 4-H Club Dress Revue has been set for Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Girls will model the clothing which they have made. The show is to be held in the high school auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Home Were Mrs. Bill Blankinship and Mickie of Lubbock.

Mrs. Bob Mahan entertained her son, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Crass of Midland recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Woods, in Lubbock recently, and Brenda Ingram, who had been visiting there, returned home with them.

Guests This Weekend of the Local Brashears and the Rogers were the Oklahoma Brashears and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Smith and Rickie of Fort Worth.

Paris Presents Suits in Two Versions. One has a tunic-length jacket cupped in at the bottom of the hip with a Chesterfield air. This one so far has not shown up elsewhere. The other, right in this season's groove, has a very short jacket hiked up in front.

Dresses and coats often have full, gathered-on sleeves, and this, with the tapering torso or stem, looks even more like a mushroom than Cardin's mushroom silhouette shown Monday.

For formal wear these big puffy sleeves are short or elbow length and often covered with ornate embroidery to contrast with a plain velvet sheath. Another trick is pulled off with ruffs or clown collars on dresses, and with big collars of long-haired fur on cloaks with swinging skirts.

While he likes black as does everybody else, and also bright red as everybody else, Balmain pursues a rather lonely preference for violet. He tucks bunches of violets into the draped bosoms of some of his models. One violet chiffon floor-trailing formal has the new dizzy-dip bra top made of violets.

Paris hasn't seen so many belts in many a season, but most of them hug the rib cage and might almost qualify as "throat-upholders."

Necklines Come In For Attention By Balmain

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—Necklines took their first dizzy dips of the season in the Pierre Balmain collection shown today.

It was perhaps as well that they did, for there was nothing else in the sedate Balmain collection to raise the blood pressure. He keeps skirts at the knee line, the waist up high where everybody seems to have pushed it this time, and the neckline lightly cupped.

The new décolletage, designed to give you "vertigo" (giddiness) according to Balmain, is really a double dip and owes its uplift to "an interior artifice" called the "gorgerin." It gives the bare-bosomed effect of a half-shell bra.

DEAR ABBY THEY'RE STRANGERS

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please explain something? WHAT is a stranger. My wife and I are grown adults (61 and 63) and we often go to a nightclub where there's dancing. Men stag it there. I don't dance every dance but my wife would like to. When a PERFECT STRANGER comes over to our table and asks her to dance she introduces herself and then he introduces HIMSELF and asks me if I like dancing with him and I am forced to say yes, go ahead. I say she is dancing with PERFECT STRANGERS but she says when a friendly gentleman introduces himself he is not a stranger. Now is my wife dancing with strangers or isn't she? Thank you kindly.

her paid vacation. If she's healthy, she can find a job.
DEAR ABBY: I hope when you read this you won't think I am a silly schoolgirl. My problem is I am in love with a married man and he is in love with me. I am 22 and he is 26 and so is his wife. She won't give him a divorce and she is costing him $25 a week. She won't leave him alone although they live apart. She waits outside his rooming house to talk to him and follows him everywhere he goes trying to get him back. How can I get her to leave him alone?
DEAR IN: Why don't YOU leave him alone? If this man is annoyed by his wife let HIM do something about it. In the meantime, until a man is divorced, he is married. A woman cannot be blamed for trying to save her marriage.

NO DANCER
DEAR NO: Your wife is dancing with strangers. They may be COURTEOUS strangers and they may be FRIENDLY strangers, but they are still strangers.

DEAR ABBY: My blood boiled when I read that letter from the man who said he didn't know why the modern woman made such a howling fuss over a natural little thing like having a baby. Then he had the nerve to compare us with dogs and cats who crawl into a corner and don't bother anybody with their suffering! Men act big and brave, but very few of them could stand the ordeal of giving birth to a child. That is why God, in His wisdom, assigned the noble task to women. MOTHER OF TEN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 24 and refuses to work. She thinks she's got pure royal blood in her or something. She doesn't lift a finger to help me with the house-cleaning or cooking. When the food is on the table she comes to the table. When she's through eating she goes in and looks at TV. Can you help me do something with this lazy creature?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: If you allow her to lounge around like "royalty" you are as much to blame as she. Tell her to get off

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours invited my husband and me to her home for dinner. My mother is visiting me from out of town and this friend knows my mother is visiting me, but she didn't include her in the invitation. I told this friend I couldn't accept because I didn't want to leave my mother. My husband thinks I am wrong and that we should have accepted the invitation. I'd appreciate your opinion.

MRS. N. L. K.
DEAR MRS. K: Your husband is wrong. One never leaves a house guest behind. If your friend didn't have the good manners to include your mother, she has a lot to learn.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GREEN EYES: Neck is something which you won't get into trouble up to if you don't stick it out.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Poage Dares Russia To Okay Inspection Plan

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, (AP)—A Texas Congressman yesterday challenged the Soviet Union to accept U. S. inspection proposals as a basis for nuclear disarmament.

Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, spoke at the conference of the Interparliamentary Union attended by more than 300 legislators from 49 countries.

Poage said the United States repeatedly has expressed "willingness and desire to restrict all types of armaments, but no intelligent person could expect or want us to abandon any weapons without some dependable assurance the U.S.S.R. would do likewise and do so at the same time."

He continued: "We would no more think of asking the U.S.S.R. to accept our unsupported promises to abandon weapons than we would accept their unsupported promises: There can be no substitute for full and unlimited inspection to assure compliance with mutual promises. Such acceptance of mutual inspection is an absolute prerequisite for any effective disarmament or any control of either the use or testing of nuclear weapons."

"We challenge the sincere cooperation of the U.S.S.R. to join in a real, completely inspected program of disarmament."

Poage also replied to charges by Soviet delegates that the landing of American and British troops in Lebanon and Jordan constituted aggression. He said the British and American forces are ready to leave as soon as a United Nations force moves in.

Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) joined the Texas Democrat in calling for creation of an international police force to maintain peace.

Poage, Keating and Gorkin spoke after the conference debated resolutions calling for resuming disarmament talks at the U.N., and end to nuclear tests and creation of an international police force.

Parkhouse To Fight Recreation Curbs

AUSTIN (AP)—A Senate leader who has sponsored major water legislation in the past today said he would oppose any efforts to curtail use of water reservoirs for recreational purposes.

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, chairman of the Senate Water Committee, said "it's necessary that such recreation be maintained. I would oppose efforts to stop it."

Parkhouse was asked for comment on a prediction by Dr. Paul Weaver, distinguished professor of geology at Texas A&M College. Weaver yesterday told the laws committee of the Texas Water Conservation Assn. that some reservoirs in the future may have to be marked off limits for recreational purposes in an effort to curb evaporation and increase the usable water supplies.

He said that chemicals can reduce evaporation up to 30 per cent on lakes covering 700 acres.

"It looks like we're really getting somewhere in our efforts to cut down evaporation," Weaver said, "but we can't do it if the lakes are used for recreational purposes."

He said motor boats break up the chemical film on the water's surface. The film cuts the evaporation rate. Wind action, Weaver said, does not bother the film for the most part.

The privately financed water conservation association was active last session in getting the Legislature to adopt the Texas Water Planning Act.

Made up of well-known water attorneys, engineers and interested laymen, the committee also met with the Board of Water Engineers. Ed Easterling, Beaumont attorney, heads the committee and has worked with Gov. Price Daniel in planning water legislation.

Couple Faces Murder Trial

KOUNTZE, Tex. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Bryant William Bowles face trial today on charges of murder in the slaying of their brother-in-law, James Earl Harvey of Loebe, Tex.

Bowles, 38, is the founder of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, an anti-integration organization.

A 75-man jury venire has been summoned to appear in Dist. Judge H. A. Coe's court.

Dist. Atty. R. S. Coe hadn't indicated which of the two cases he will move to have trial first.

Bowles and his wife, 28, who live at Beaumont, have been free under bond. They are represented by two Beaumont attorneys, Joe Goodwin and Wyatt Baldwin.

Harvey was killed by a blast from a shotgun as he stood on his front porch on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 4, after a family argument. Harvey was married to Mrs. Bowles' sister, Mrs. Bowles sat in her husband's car at the time of the shooting.

Speaker Candidates Continue Efforts

AUSTIN (AP)—Candidates for speaker of the Texas House of Representatives continued today in their efforts to gain majority control of the 150-member lower branch of the Legislature.

Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, who is speaker now, and Rep. Joe Burkett of Kerrville are the candidates. Each said he was confident of ultimate victory, but neither claimed majority support at this time.

One of the most important posts in state government, the speaker appoints members to the various committees as well as being the presiding officer of the House.

'Frisco Ferry On Last Run Tonight

By BUD SPRUNGER
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ferry-boat service—once as much a part of San Francisco as fog, cable cars, and the smell of roasting coffee—ends tonight when the San Leandro delivers its last train passengers.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's boat is the last of what was once the largest fleet of ferries in the world, a company flotilla that numbered 43. SP's fleet and others in San Francisco Bay were doomed by three big bridges.

On hand when the aging San Leandro arrives at the Ormate Ferry Building from the Oakland train mole will be a small army of nostalgic bay buffs, many of them former commuters who have long since been chased off boats that ran from many points across the bay. They have been watching the ferry lines disappear for almost 20 years and this is the absolute end.

SP, which hung on the longest, finally convinced the Interstate Commerce Commission and the California Public Utilities Commission that the cost was too high.

After 89 years of SP ferries, train passengers now will be put aboard buses in the East Bay and transported across the San Francisco Oakland Bay bridge into the city.

In the past, tourists got their first view of the city and its hills, from the deck and the landing was a noisy affair with fog horns, yeling deck hands and raucous sea gulls.

In 1930, the peak year, the SP alone ran 43 white boats and in that year carried 40,211,535 passengers and 6,117,186 automobiles. That was before the depression and the Bay, Golden Gate and Richmond-San Rafael bridges.

Although it had the largest fleet, SP was not alone. Among the other firms was the Key system, which operated the two biggest and finest boats, the Peralta and the Yerba Buena.

Key, primarily an East Bay trolley and bus service, ran passenger boats exclusively from its own mole to the ferry building. The Yerba Buena and the Peralta, built in 1927, were huge, orange, turbo-electric, steel boats—each with a good restaurant, a bank of bootblacks, a huge newsstand and a few claw-type gambling machines.

Key started in 1903 and quit in 1929 when the Bay Bridge was completed. The Peralta was towed north to Puget Sound, streamlined and renamed. The Yerba Buena hung on longer as government property. Renamed the Ernie Pyle, she hauled soldiers from San Francisco to Camp Stoneham until 1954.

Most of the boats carried commuters. Despite fog and crowding, there never was a serious collision from the time John Reed started the first boat to Sausalito in 1826.

Fall Is Fatal
LUBBOCK (AP)—Jimmie Cover, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cover, fell from a bridge into a rain-swollen creek in McKenzie State Park and drowned yesterday.

Temperature, 110 Degrees

Nurse Mary Crosby uses an electronic thermometer to check the temperature of Donald Kneel, 13, of Phillipsburg, Ohio, who was brought to Good Samaritan Hospital in Dayton suffering from a blood clot at the base of the brain. An attending physician reported the boy's temperature rose to 110 degrees. A 105-degree temperature is usually damaging to the brain. The youth's condition remains critical.

Hurlers In Spotlight As Giants Rip Phils

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer
More and more it is becoming evident that the San Francisco Giants pitchers have been getting a bum rap.

able pitching. But, in fact, the hitters have been the guilty ones, not the pitchers.
Last night's impressive routing performance by southpaw Mike McCormick and right-hander Ruben Gomez in the Giants' 3-2 and 2-1 sweep of a twilight double-header in Philadelphia furnished additional proof that the San Francisco hurling has been underrated.

In their last seven games (not including the resumption of last month's suspended game), Giant pitchers have permitted 20 runs, half of them in one game. During the same period, the hitters have produced only 10 runs.
It is to the pitchers' credit that with such feeble hitting support they were able to win three and tie one of those seven games. Yesterday's double triumph boosted the circuit's Cinderella team to within one percentage point of the front-running Milwaukee Braves.

With the exception of the 10-0 loss to Pittsburgh last July 25, no Giant pitcher permitted more than three runs in any of the team's last seven games. Failure to win more than three of them can be traced to the hitters' inability to score more than three runs in any of those contests. Twice the team was shut out and twice it was held to one tally.
Rookies Felipe Alou and Orlando Cepeda provided the key hits in the Giants' twin victories. Alou followed a fifth-inning double by McCormick with a home run to provide the key blow in the first game, although it took an error by relief pitcher Farrell to provide the Giants with the winning run in the ninth.
Cepeda figured in both second-game runs. He singled and scored on Valmy Thomas' single in the second inning, and drove in Willie Kirkland with another single in the sixth.

Sports dialogue:

"I see no harm in an occasional drink so long as it's no stronger than beer. There's nothing wrong in cigarettes, either, so long as consumption is moderate. Thanks, I will have one."

SAN FRANCISCO WOMAN BASEBALL FAN, writing to Russ Hodges and Lon Simmons, who broadcast the Giants' games:
"Why don't you fellows keep quiet more so that we can see what's going on in the game?"

FRANK LANE, general manager of the Cleveland Indians:

"A kid has to be crazy to sign with the Yankees—that's what we tell them. It's true. How can a first baseman sign a Yankee contract when he knows George Weiss has 17 of them lying around. He'll be ancient before he hits Yankee Stadium. We're telling every prospect we can find: 'There's only one place to play baseball and that's in the majors. You'll never make it with the Yanks. You have a chance with us.'"

CASEY STENGLER, manager of the New York Yankees:
"I trusted a bathy in Brooklyn once with my $37 and the last time anybody saw him he was peddling away like crazy on a bicycle. The moral of that is, never trust a boy on a bicycle."

DON NEWCOMBE, Cincinnati hurler:
"When Roy Campanella and I were in with Nashua in the New England league, it was my job to drive the team bus and, boy, that was some bus. There was only one li'l ol' hold holding the whole front end together. And the lights were so lousy that one night I got lost driving and we wound up in a cemetery."

DAN PARKER, New York writer:
"The Naval Air Station in Atlantic City has assured the Month Park race track that its new high-powered jet planes will avoid flying over the track, lest they scare the thoroughbreds. That should settle once and for all the question of which is more important to our national welfare—strengthening our defenses or improving the breed."

HANK BAUER, New York Yankee outfielder:
"I haven't been in a fight since I was 13 years old. That time a kid doggedged near drowned me in a pool and I got so mad I nearly killed him."

BIRDIE TEBBETTS, Cincinnati manager:
"This boy Ed Bouchee of the Phils will have to show more fortitude than Jackie Robinson did when he became the first Negro to break into baseball. There'll be a few who'll taunt Bouchee relentlessly."

BOB MATHIAS, former Olympic decathlon champion:
"I won't forget how the Soviets busted themselves at Melbourne in 1956. They had cameras getting shots of the form and techniques of every top star. They took notes every minute they were awake. We Americans didn't. We were too complacent. We still are."

PEEWEE REESE, Los Angeles infielder:
"I've often wondered how it was to play on a last-place ball club. I found out. You get a defeatist attitude. You find yourself looking for a way to get beat if you don't watch out. You get in front—but you've lost more than you win. How are we going to lose this one? It's tougher playing on a last place ball club. I used to think it wouldn't be too hard."

All Past Winners Of Meet At Stanton Are Entered

STANTON (SC)—Stanton's West Texas Sand Greens Golf Tournament is shaping up as one of the city's best to date, and approximately 20 top area golfers from Big Lake, Stanton, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Texon, and Goldsmith have signed to participate for title honors Saturday and Sunday.

The tournament, fourth of its kind, has been a big success previously and all indications are that this year's will be tops. Prizes for flight winners and the medalist cost in the neighborhood of $150. All three past tourney winners will be competing during the weekend meet, as well as a few local sharps and many respected linksters from surrounding communities.

Howard Gibson of Goldsmith, Y. G. Winslow of Stanton, and Jack Arrington of Stanton, all past winners in that order, are in.

Latest entrants included J. H. Davis of Goldsmith, A. G. Davis of Midland, and Dub Austin of Goldsmith.

Qualifying rounds and medalist competition will be Saturday, and

Dorm To Be Named After Henderson

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The memory of Bill Henderson, Texas A&M's greatest all-around athlete, will be perpetuated by the naming of a new athletic dormitory "Henderson Hall."
The dormitory will be completed in August with open house scheduled Aug. 28.
Henderson, who died in 1955, was a star in football, basketball, track, baseball and swimming and was boxing and handball champion of A&M intramural competition in the late 30's and early 40's. He later was a state legislator from Harris County.

THEY TELL CONGRESS Coaches Frown On Grid Draft

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Bud Wilkinson, Duffy Daugherty, and Bowden Wyatt have told Congress they don't like pro football's player draft.
The three bowl-winning college coaches expressed the same low opinion of legislation designed to relieve professional team sports of many antitrust law restrictions. Oklahoma's Wilkinson, Michigan State's Daugherty and Tennessee's Wyatt testified yesterday before the Senate Antitrust monopoly subcommittee.

They hit the draft line harder than any witnesses since hearings began last summer.

"Very unfair," each said of the system by which National Football League teams acquire exclusive bargaining rights with designated college players.

They disagreed with NFL Commissioner Bert Bell, who contended that the league would collapse without a draft to equalize the strength of all 12 pro teams. They questioned whether one club could tie up all the good players.

Wilkinson, draft aside, declared he would recommend pro football only to men of superior skill. "A Sammy Baugh, a Sid Luckas or a Don Walker." It might also help those with a law or medicine, to pay for advanced education, he said.

"Beyond that," he testified, "anyone who plays is making a bad mistake."
Wilkinson, president of the Coaches Assn., said a collegian's only leverage in bargaining with NFL clubs is the possibility he may play Canadian football.

All three insisted that equalization through the draft is fallacy, that scouts can never be sure they've picked the right players

Minor Leagues Won't Die, Says Hubbell Of Giants

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the big league pitcher getting great who is farm director for the San Francisco Giants, says minor league baseball never will die—"the majors can't afford to let it."
Here last night to see the Giants' club at the Sophomore League perform, Hubbell declared "The majors must have a place to train young ball players and we always will even if it means increased subsidization of the lower minors."
However, Hubbell said he didn't

Padres Sell Star To Denver Bears

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The San Antonio Missions of the Texas League helped their treasury through the sale of pitcher Harvey Golen to Denver of the American Association for $20,000.
They also got two players. Cohen isn't to report to Denver until San Antonio finishes the season.

Tabbies Are Tough In Extra Innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Any club that beats Fort Worth better do it in regulation time—the Cats will bat your ears off in extra innings. That's one of the reasons they're leading the Texas League by the proverbial mile.

Russians Are Closing In On U.S. Track Leadership

By STERLING SLAPPEY
AP Sports Writer
MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviets are closing in, surely and speedily, on American leadership in sports. And even a controversial ruling and a debatable scoring system can't make it appear otherwise.

Local Fems Clash With Snyder Team

The B&H Well Service women's softball team of Big Spring takes on the Snyder colored girls in an 8 o'clock game at City Park here tonight.

LOCAL TEAM LOSES IN ROTAN TOURNEY

ROTAN (SC)—The Brownwood Americans ousted the Big Spring Americans from the Sectional Little League baseball tournament here Monday night by winning a 4-3 decision.
In the other game played, the Dumas contingent turned back Lubbock, 3-2.
Abilene's Dixie All-Stars challenge Dumas at 5 p.m. in a semi-final engagement today. Brownwood takes on Big Lake at 7:30 p.m. for the right to enter the finals.
Big Spring was kept away from the plate by Johnny Chaney until the last inning, when the Big Springers batted around. The bases were loaded when the end came.

AT FORSAN Cosden Decisions All-Stars Twice

FORSAN (SC)—Cosden's Oilers of Big Spring swept two practice games from the Forsan Softball league All-Stars here Monday night, 2-0 and 4-1.
The Oilers had to go an extra inning in the second engagement. Forsan had tied the score with a third inning tally and Jack Webb held the Oilers at bay until the sixth.
Two bases on balls, a sacrifice,

Dillard Horse Denver Winner

Merry-Bo, a Kentucky-bred two-year-old owned by J. T. Dillard of Big Spring, dazzled onlookers at the Centennial Race Track in Denver last week when she won the $2,500 five-furlong Miss Colorado stakes in .58 seconds flat.
With Eugene Curry in the irons, Merry-Bo equalled the world record for a two-year-old racing around one turn.

Mickey Goes On Rampage As Yanks Belt Athletics

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer
Apparently the rest cure was all Mickey Mantle needed to emerge from his prolonged batting slump.

Handicapped by a sore right shoulder practically from the start of the campaign, the New York Yankee slugger had stubbornly shrugged off repeated suggestions that he take a brief rest. His batting average dipped to low as .270.

It took another injury—a bruised left forearm—to finally sideline the switch-hitting star just before the team's current Western swing. Since returning to action in the second game of this trip, in Detroit, Mantle has cracked 15 hits in 27 times at bat for .556. That seven-game surge boosted his mark to .294.

Mantle waloped two home runs and a single last night as the Yankees outslugged Kansas City 14-7. Gil McDougald of New York and the Athletics' Bob Cerv also slammed a pair of homers.

Jap Islanders Fear Snakes

TOKYO (AP)—Life on the small southern Japanese island of Amami Oshima is a struggle of man against snakes.

Despite a concerted four-year campaign by the government, 200,000 islanders live in fear of the habu, a viper growing up to five feet long.

Islanders have developed a "habu neurosis" for fear they will be stung at night, says the weekly Yomiuri magazine.

It's not surprising to see Amami people carrying umbrellas, even on clear nights, as a shield against snakes.

Seven of 392 persons bitten in 18 months have died.

Prompt medical attention and a new American drug, ethylene diamine tetra acetic acid, are credited with lowering the death rate.

Japan has shipped 1,000 skunk-like mongooses to Amami Oshima. It raised the bounty for a live habu from 41 to 55 cents.

Some people make a business of habu hunting, using 10-foot bamboo poles with a wire sling for lassoing.

The snake meat is sold in powder form as a rejuvenating drug. The venom is used in not yet perfected immunization serums.

Space Expert Plans New TV Program

By RALPH DIGHTON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A wise man once pleased his king so greatly that the monarch told him, "as a reward you may have anything you desire, up to half my kingdom."

"Sire," said the wise man, "my desires are very simple. I would be more than content if you would reward me in grains of wheat, in this manner:

"Lay one grain on the first square of a chess board. On the next square, two grains. On the third square, four grains. And so on for each of the 64 squares on the board."

The king thought this was a small request, until he tried to pay off. There wasn't that much wheat in his kingdom, or even in the world.

This is one of the "Tales of the Universe" that research scientist Dr. Heinz Haber is bringing to television this fall.

How many grains of wheat did the wise man actually request?

"The figure is astronomical," said Dr. Haber, "and for all practical purposes, meaningless. You can get a pretty fair idea of it, though, if you say that all the wheat harvested in the world since Christ was born wouldn't be enough."

Dr. Haber, science consultant for Walt Disney studios and Television Station KNXT, has worked up 52 half-hour programs, each answering such apparently simple questions as "why is the sky blue?" and "why do stars have such funny names?"

The show, which will start about Oct. 1, is aimed at adults, but youngsters probably will enjoy it, too.

It will be telecast locally on KNXT the first few weeks. If it clicks, Dr. Haber says, there are plans to put the program on the CBS network.

Tall, handsome and friendly, Dr. Haber could become a new TV personality. At 45, with 20 years of scholarly research behind him, he believes his scientific career is only beginning.

"Some years ago I came to the realization that Americans are not really afraid of science," he says. "They just need someone to explain it to them. Who is better qualified to explain science than a scientist?"

The trouble is, so many scientists don't want to bother—they're too busy. This program is designed to let down the drawbridge to science's ivory towers."

Dr. Haber has made a specialty of letting down drawbridges in the past few years. In 1953 he wrote a book, "Man in Space," which became the title of a Walt Disney TV show. He narrated the portion of the program which dealt with space medicine, a field in which he pioneered at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Tex.

"Haber, born May 15, 1913 in Mannheim, Germany won his doctorate in astronomy in 1939. During World War II he was chief of the department of spectroscopy at Kaiser Wilhelm Institute. After the war, American occupation forces hired him to instruct military personnel and in 1946 he was sent to Randolph Field, where he remained five years. In 1952 he joined the faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles. When his work with Disney began taking most of his time, the university gave him a leave of absence but still listed him as "visiting professor."

Satellite Notes Radiation Band

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Explorer IV satellite is sending back a wealth of information on a hot field of radiation high in space.

Although in orbit only three days, the heaviest and most important U. S. satellite already has confirmed the existence of the killer rays at an altitude of 600 miles above the earth.

Dr. James Van Allen of Iowa State University, who directed the development and assembly of the satellite's complex instruments, said the data so far looks very satisfactory.

Explorer IV, which is expected to whirl around the globe for the next five years, records radiation energy and intensity on four counters and relays the messages on two radios which are expected to last for two months.

Meanwhile, the Air Force stepped up preparations for the first moon launching. It was learned the target date was set for sometime between Aug. 15 and 17.

The Air Force reportedly will attempt to shoot a satellite around the moon on a one-way flight. A three-stage version of the Thor-Able rocket will be the launching vehicle.

The Army's first chance to shoot the moon probably will not come before November.

Indonesia Spreads Profits On Exports

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesian government today cut the rich Outer Islands a bigger slice of the nation's export profits.

The action was an effort to quiet one of the main complaints in the recent rebellion: charges that the government, based on the island of Java, was spending the bulk of the returns from the Outer Islands' exports on Java. Java itself exports comparatively little.

Finance Minister Sutinko Slamet announced that exporting regions of Indonesia will be allocated 10 per cent of the export proceeds, retroactive to July 1. Another 10 per cent will go to the central government in Jakarta.

The remaining 80 per cent goes to the exporter.

Prior to the ruling, the central government took the entire 20 per cent above the exporter's portion and allocated only negligible sums to the Outer Islands.

Sad, Lonely Days For Bereaved Man

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—These are sad and lonely days for John Willoughby. His wife and their six young children lie together in a common grave at nearby Newton, West Virginia. He, escaped by clinging to a tree.

A simple graveside service was held at Newton's Kirkhart Cemetery yesterday, where some 150 neighbors and friends had dug the grave with picks and shovels.

WHEN'S THE TIME TO BUY A CAR?

"WHEN I CAN AFFORD IT!"
Tsk, tsk! Too bad he hasn't checked up on car prices lately. He'd find that Ford is the lowest priced* of the best-selling three!

"WHEN THEY INVENT A CAR THAT DOESN'T NEED GAS!"
Gracious! The gentleman obviously hasn't heard about Ford's Mileage Maker Six—the modern short-stroke, low-friction Six that delivered the most miles per gallon in Class A in the last two Mobilgas Economy Runs!

"WHEN THE OLD CARS HAD IT!"
But it has . . . and so has his budget. If he could only have back all the money he's been paying out (and is going to pay out) in repair bills . . . he could be the proud owner right now of a built-for-keeps '58 Ford!

"WHEN MY PRESENT CAR IS WORTH MORE!"
Poor man. He's not only missing out on summer driving in a Thunderbird-inspired Ford . . . he's missing out on money! Doesn't he know that his present car will NEVER be worth more in trade than right NOW!

Every Ford has SAFETY GLASS in every window

WHEN FORD DEALERS ARE GIVING THE YEARS BEST DEALS DURING FORD'S SUMMER TRADING PICNIC!

Smart fellow! He's buying NOW while Ford Dealers are holding their Summer Trading Picnic and giving the longest deals and the highest trades ever . . . and while the selection of models and colors is best. What's more, he'll find that Ford is the lowest priced* of the best-selling three! Why don't you join him at your friendly Ford Dealer's?
