Road Deaths Short Of Record Tally

Hey, Buster, Not That A-Way

When school doors opened this morning, hundreds—yes, thousands—of youngsters thronged into corridors just as above in Rannels Junior High. But one young man seemed bent on reducing the crowding by one—or did he forget his book card, or that he should have gone to Goliad Junior High, or even maybe Senior High? Anyway, one wouldn't make much difference to harassed school officials who kept their fingers crossed in the face of what looked like the biggest enrollment yet.

Sharp Rise In Final Hours Raises Toll

Table with 2 columns: Category, Count. Includes Traffic, Drownings, Miscellaneous, Total.

The toll of violent death on America's highways during the extended Labor Day weekend fell short of record proportions.

A sharp rise in deaths on the highways in the closing hours of the 78-hour holiday period shot the total close to the prediction made last week by the National Safety Council.

An estimated 30 million cars were on the highways yesterday, the windup of summer's last long holiday.

The final count may surpass the estimate. But it did not appear likely it would reach the 1957 Labor Day holiday total of 445 or the record high toll for a Labor Day period of 461 in 1951.

However, the over-all accident death toll may equal the count of 636 for last year's three-day Labor Day period, but below the record high for the holiday of 659 in 1951.

In the country's three major summer holiday periods—Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day—more than 1,140 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents. All the holidays extended over a period of 78 hours. The Labor Day count was from 6 p.m. (local time) last Friday to midnight Monday.

The number of highway deaths still was 3 short of the pre-holiday prediction of 29. Eight persons drowned and 9 died violently in other ways in the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

During the afternoon numerous friends of the venerable doctor called to extend greetings.

School Delay Eases Tension In Little Rock

By The Associated Press
Postponement of the opening of Central High School in Little Rock, Ark., until Sept. 15 eased tension in that center of the integration struggle as new tests loomed in Virginia and Mississippi today.

The Little Rock School Board voted 5-1 for the delay Monday night in a show of good faith with the U. S. Supreme Court.

Whether Negroes would be admitted Sept. 15 apparently depended on what the court decides after hearing oral arguments on the Little Rock case Sept. 11.

At Alexandria, Va., the legality of the amended version of Virginia's Pupil Placement Act may be tested in federal court during a hearing on a motion to order Arlington County to admit 30 Negro pupils into its white schools.

At Gulfport, Miss., Negro minister Clennon King planned to enroll his 6-year-old daughter in all-white North Central School.

But neither King nor his daughter showed up at the school today. Registration is scheduled for Thursday.

Mayor R. B. Meadows Jr. arrived at the school shortly after 8 a.m. He said his only comment on King's plan to enroll his daughter was that "there will be no integration, there will be no trouble."

King was unavailable for comment.

In an apparently related incident, a black-faced effigy was found hanging from a flagpole on the federal building in downtown Gulfport. It was removed immediately.

At Raleigh, N.C., litigation over racial mixing in the public schools flared briefly.

Federal Dist. Judge Edwin M. Stanley refused to grant a court order for admission of Joseph Hiram Holt Jr., a 15-year-old Negro, to all-white Needham Broughton High School.

The judge said Holt and his parents had appealed to the courts before they had exhausted the administrative remedies provided them by North Carolina's pupil assignment law.

Faubus Not In Favor Of Marshals

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he had information that U.S. marshals are being mustered for possible use in the Little Rock school integration crisis. He said he would resist any federal use of force.

"Even now in Little Rock there are U.S. marshals and other federal officers ready to take over at Central High School if integration is ordered again," Faubus said.

The governor declared he would resist "any federal force interfering with any public school in my state" and he included troops as well as marshals. Asked how he could resist federal force, Faubus replied: "By closing schools."

Faubus made his statements at a press conference this morning, called for his comment on the school board's action of Monday night postponing opening of Little Rock high schools until Sept. 15 in deference to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Faubus said that if he had been a school board director he would have opened the schools under a decision by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley whose ruling and appeal from it for a 2 1/2-year delay now are before the Supreme Court.

The governor said he was displeased with the board's decision to refrain from irritating the high court.

Faubus said he noted a New York Times story about the marshals but he had confirming information from other sources.

He said there was nothing wrong with enforcing federal court orders with marshals except that in this case "the court order is unconstitutional."

Borden Strike In Ellenburger Potentials Over 300 Barrels

W. A. Moncrief of Fort Worth has completed the No. 1 Miller in Borden County as an Ellenburger strike, with the venture flowing over 300 barrels of oil on potential test.

In Dawson, a wildcat had slight shows of oil on drillstem tests.

The Moncrief well is about seven miles northeast of Gail and made 311 barrels of oil and some water on final test.

The Texas Seaboard No. 1 Nowell about 10 miles southeast of Lamesa found heavily gas-cut mud and oil and gas-cut mud on two drillstem tests below 7,400 feet, probably in the Pennsylvanian.

Shell No. 1 Dillingham, a wildcat 12 miles northeast of Gail, penetrated to 2,428 feet in shale. It is 1,380 from north and 560 from east lines, 4-Abstract 1,412, Hood Survey.

The Shell No. 1 Miller, C SW NW, 527-97, H&C Survey, was shut in today after it pumped 2 1/2 hours. No gauges were reported on the test. The site is 12 miles northeast of Gail.

The Lone Star No. 1 Porter was cored today below 9,725 feet after cutting a core from 9,711-25 1/2 feet. Operator recovered 1 1/4 feet of Woodford shale with no oil shows. The wildcat 12 miles southwest of Gail is C NE SW, 9-32-4n, T&P Survey.

Pierce, Davis & Stillwagon No. 1 McDowell, C NE NE, 135-25, H&C Survey, waited on orders after reaching 8,890 feet and making water. The exploration is eight miles southeast of Gail.

Moncrief No. 1 Miller flowed through a 20-64-inch choke for 26 hours and made 311 barrels of oil and 116 barrels of water on final test from the Ellenburger. It is 1,980 from south and west lines, 32-30-6n, T&P Survey, and about seven miles northeast of Gail. Top of the Ellenburger pay section is 8,740 feet, and it produced from open hole.

The second test from 7,570-644 feet had tool open two hours and returned 200 feet of heavily gas-cut mud which was also slightly oil cut. It is C SW SE, 35-34-5n, T&P Survey, and 10 miles southeast of Lamesa.

Texas National No. 2 Richardson, a wildcat 10 miles northwest of Lamesa, made hole in lime and shale at 8,204 feet. It is C NW NE, 7-7M, ELARR Survey.

Eight miles southwest of Big Spring, the Amerada No. 1 Lester penetrated to 9,055 feet in lime and shale. It is a 10,500-foot exploration C NE SE, 41-33-1s, T&P Survey.

Driver Falls Out Of Pickup Truck But Is Not Hurt

G. W. Daniels, involved in a freakish one-vehicle accident here this morning, was not hurt seriously enough to be hospitalized and has been released.

Daniels was driving a pickup and fell from the vehicle when the door came open. He was negotiating a corner at 15th and Birdwood about 8 a.m. and landed on rocky ground when he fell.

An ambulance from Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home rushed him to Medical Arts Hospital for treatment, but he was released a short time later.

Daniels' pickup, after the door had come open and dumped the driver out, ran into a slight embankment nearby and the motor died.

Both persons injured in a Martin County motor accident Monday morning remained in Medical Arts Hospital here today with various injuries.

Leo Payne has a fractured rib and a severe scalp laceration, while Mrs. Claude Davis sustained a concussion and a cut on the head. Payne's head injury was considered serious, but both were reported improving today.

Payne was in a pickup which was in an accident with a car driven by Mrs. Davis on FR 1212 northwest of Stanton Monday morning. Both are residents of the area.

27 Injured By Fireworks Blast

DETROIT (AP) — Eleven children and 16 adults were injured last night when a defective aerial bomb exploded at a fireworks display in suburban River Rouge.

The bomb exploded near the top of a crowded grandstand. It was designed to explode in the air twice but instead went off only once and then plunged into the grandstand where it blew up again. An estimated 8,000 persons were watching the show.

All but two of those injured were given first aid and released. Hospitalized with burns and lacerations of the face, arms and legs were Mrs. Lillian Keith, 33, and Dorothy Beckner, 19, both of suburban Lincoln Park.

Officials of the 10th annual Rouge Days held at the Great Lakes Athletic Field were unable to explain what caused the bomb to malfunction. One witness said it went off with "a sound like a big stick of dynamite."

Police said the bomb apparently struck Mrs. Keith's purse and then went off. It peppered her and those around her with exploding particles.

Negro Soldiers Charged With Rape

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army charged two Negro soldiers today with raping a young German housewife Aug. 25.

The 5th Corps identified them as Pfc. Charles Burge, 22, of Rome, Ga., and Pfc. Solomon Warren, 24, of Navasota, Tex. They were stationed with the 14th Armored Cavalry at Fulda, 60 miles northeast of Frankfurt.

German police said the woman, 21, reported the two soldiers met her and her husband in a tavern, overtook them on their way home, knocked out the husband and assaulted her.

Hurricane Weakens

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ella weakened to a 60-mile-an-hour storm today as it moved west-northwestward along the southern coast of Cuba.

Gale warnings were hauled down in Florida and replaced by small craft warnings from Palm Beach, on the east coast, and Fort Myers on the west coast, southward through the Keys.

Flash floods still are possible in central and western Cuba as the storm moves along. It is expected to stay in Cuba for the next 12 hours. Its winds were 75 m.p.h. earlier today.

Winds reaching a top velocity of 40 miles an hour in scattered squalls are forecast for the Florida Straits tonight.

Ships at the Key West naval base were standing by for possible movement out to sea if the hurricane comes close.

Chief storm forecaster Gordon Dunn said reports from Cuba and reconnaissance planes indicated Ella's core was well broken up as it passed over the mountainous area near Santiago.

Late this morning at 11 a.m., Ella was about 300 miles southwest of Miami moving west-northwest at 16 miles an hour.

No material change in intensity is expected for the next 12 hours but Ella probably will gather strength when it moves into the sea off the Cuban west coast late Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Whooping Crane Population Gains

OTTAWA (AP) — Three baby whooping cranes have been spotted in the northwestern Canadian breeding grounds of the nearly extinct bird, boosting known population of the rare species to 35.

The Northern Affairs Department says two young cranes were spotted with an adult pair and one youngster with another adult pair in Wood Buffalo National Park.

The park covers sections of northeastern Alberta, northwestern Saskatchewan and the south central Northwest Territories.

Since 1945, when their numbers had been reduced to 17, efforts have been made to preserve the cranes in Canada, where they winter. The 35 now living include six in captivity.

County Commissioners Make Fire Protection Proposal

Howard County Commissioners Court Monday proposed to the city of Big Spring Monday that the county allocate $12,000 a year to the municipality with an agreement that the city use $6,000 of the money annually toward payment of a fire truck and $6,000 toward maintenance in combating rural fires in the county.

This offer was proposed by R. H. Weaver, county judge, seconded by Hudson Landers, and approved by a three-to-one vote. G. E. Gilliam voted "no" insisting that he thought the question of a county-paid fire truck be submitted to the voters at the November election and their approval secured. Commissioner P. O. Hughes did not vote.

Herb Whitney, city manager, attended the meeting and told the commissioners that he had no authority to accept or reject a proposition of this character and that final decision would be up to the city commissioners. He said he would lay the proposition before the commission.

Weaver's plan envisioned the county allocating $12,000 annually for the next three or four years—with the agreement that the city use half of the annual payment toward purchase of a truck. When the truck—estimated to cost approximately $15,000—was paid for—then the county would diminish its annual payments to a sum equal to the extra cost and maintenance that the equipment would require.

FUNDS NEEDED
The county plan is also contingent on the county auditor finding funds which may be earmarked for the purpose. Lee Porter, auditor, told the court that he would check that all available funds at present are well absorbed. However, he said after this year, the county would be well able to proceed with such a plan.

Hughes expressed the view that a plan similar to one in use in other cities where a contract has been made between cities and counties with rural runs paid for on a per-mile basis was more suitable. The city had submitted a plan by which it offered to combat rural fires with its own equipment and men, at $2,000 per month. This was rejected by the county as too costly.

It was stipulated that if the plan as suggested by Weaver that the truck, when acquired, would be used in combating city fires as well as rural fires and that, in a justifiable emergency, the city would utilize all needed equipment it might have to combat any rural fire that develops.

The rural fire question developed some months ago but solutions have been held up. A truck purchased several years ago by the county and operated by the city on a contract basis was wrecked making a run. Since that time, the city has continued to answer rural fire alarms with regular city equipment. Now the city commissioners have set a deadline when no such additional runs will be made.

The law specifies that the county cannot buy fire fighting equipment without approval by the voters at an election.

Gilliam said he felt that such an election should be held in November and that the county act in accordance with the expressed wishes of the citizens.

Providing for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men. (2 Corinthians 8:21)

He Made A Real Contribution

Although he was not the type of a man who sought the limelight, Fred E. Keating made a great contribution to this area before his untimely death here last weekend.

He was as retiring as he was thorough in his work as manager of the United States Experiment Station. In his 35 years of research and study at the farm on the northern edge of Big Spring, he hammered away at the answers to the problem of making West Texas agriculture more productive and more profitable. He was a firm believer in the potentials of this section, yet he was not stary-eyed in his approach to the riddle.

Fred Keating's outlook was that of the real student—he neither glossed nor defended his findings. He understood what so many who have come after have failed to understand—that you bend your agriculture to the country. Accordingly, he based his conclusions upon the performance of certain crops over a long period of time rather than a single season or similarly inconclusive period.

Just as he let plants write their own record of performance, he dutifully followed the problems and potentials of livestock feeding. When tests proved conclusively that homegrown feeds can be used even more effectively than imported ones, he tackled other problems which would cut down on feed pen losses.

He was instrumental—perhaps more than any other man—in organizing the Howard County Fair Association. Out of this came not only a fair, but livestock shows. He also added his weight to civic enterprises to leave this a much better community than he found it.

Alaska Joins The Circle

To no one's surprise Alaska last week voted to "join the Union" under conditions laid down by Congress, the majority being 5 to 1.

Among conditions laid down was that the federal government retain its present rights to public lands, minus 100 million acres to be selected by the State of Alaska from areas unreserved.

Other States have been required to fulfill similar, and other conditions. (Texas, as a sovereign republic, was granted special privileges, among them the retention of all its public lands and the right to divide itself into five states if it sees fit to do so.)

Missouri agreed not to deprive citizens of other states of their constitutional rights. Utah was required to abolish polygamy and to provide for religious toleration.

Some states reneged. Oklahoma failed to keep its capital at Guthrie for six years. President Taft vetoed the resolution granting statehood to Arizona because of a provision for the recall of judges. Arizona withdrew that provision, but promptly revoked it after being admitted in 1912.

Statehood once granted cannot be revoked for any cause (Texas vs. White, Supreme Court, 1869).

No member of this Congress had ever before voted on the admission of any state. Probably the closest was Speaker Sam Rayburn, who took his seat in 1913, the year after Arizona was welcomed into the fold.

Our Indecision Over Offshore Islands

WASHINGTON—With the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu threatened with Communist Chinese attack and perhaps invasion President Eisenhower is confronted with one of those unhappy choices which in the past have grown out of compromises within the Administration.

By the resolution adopted by Congress on January 29, 1955, the President must determine when an attack on the offshore islands still held by the Nationalists threatens the security of Formosa and the Pescadores. If he finds that Formosa is threatened, then he can on his own initiative order American armed forces to participate in the defense of the islands.

The language in the Congressional resolution, this reporter has learned from a source participating in the making of policy at the time, was not that originally desired by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Dulles and Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson, in charge of the Far East, wanted a definite and clear-cut statement that the United States would be jointly responsible with Nationalist China for the defense of Quemoy and Matsu. This, they argued, would put the Communists clearly on notice that an attack on the islands would immediately involve American armed forces.

But the President was reluctant to make such a firm commitment. He had in mind the conflict that had raged only a few months before over the defense of the Tachen islands, another offshore group on which Chiang Kai-shek had deployed part of his forces.

In that controversy some of the President's principal advisers believed the United States should join Chiang in repulsing the kind of attack that appeared to be preliminary to a direct assault. Among them were listed at the time Admiral Arthur S. Radford, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Secretary Dulles. On the opposite side, it was reported, were other JCS members, conspicuously General Matthew Ridgway.

Finally, the President after much wearisome pulling and hauling ruled against any joint defense of the Tachens. Chiang was advised to evacuate the islands which were difficult to supply.

Having had to resolve this conflict in his official family the President was in no mood to make a firm commitment on the islands still held by Chiang's forces. When, therefore, Dulles went to the White House with his proposal for a Congressional resolution that would put the United States squarely on record for the defense of Quemoy and Matsu, the President proposed the compromise giving him the right to decide when an attack warranted the use of American forces.

The language of the resolution adopted by a vote of 85 to 3 in the Senate gave the President the authority to take such measures as he might see fit to secure Formosa and the Pescadores against armed attack. This, the resolution said, was "to include the security and protection of such related positions and territories now in friendly hands and the taking of such other measures as he judges to be required or appropriate in securing the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores." The President in his message asking Congress for a resolution on Formosa said it would "clarify present policy" rather than establish a "new policy."

But following adoption of the resolution, which was rushed through under the stern admonition of the late Senator Walter George who said that any debate suggesting doubt would endanger peace in the Pacific, there has been much criticism. By leaving the status of Quemoy and Matsu open, it has been charged, the Communists were encouraged to believe that they could attack without involving the United States. This criticism has increased in volume since the Reds stepped up their latest barrage against the islands.

Two years after the Formosa resolution Dulles came to the President with another sweeping proposal. This time it was for the declaration that became known as the "Eisenhower doctrine" for the Middle East. As passed by Congress it provided that "if the President determines the necessity" the United States will use armed forces to assist any nation requesting aid against attack from a Communist-dominated country.

As events in the Middle East have proved, the threat there is not direct Communist aggression. Now in the Far East, thanks to a compromise he insisted on, the President must determine whether an armed attack justifies the use of American planes and warships.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Texas will be covering the water front in the next 20 years.

That's one of the assurances coming out of the national Congress on the basis of the estimate by Sen. Lyndon Johnson that Texas is 20 years behind in finding the solution to its far-flung water problems. Congressional approval of the Johnson bill authorizing the President to name a 14-man commission to study the Texas water picture will provide some of the background for future development.

In addition there was an appropriation of $28,993,000 for 38 water development projects in Texas, and another bill authorizing the Department of Interior to build five demonstration plants to convert sea water and brackish water into fresh water. One of these plants will be built in Texas.

The importance of these programs in themselves cannot be underestimated, but at the same time the urgency of the water problem bears down with increasing impact because of industrial and population growth.

Water use in Texas has increased 24 times since 1940. Further increases in consumption are ahead and should it continue as in the last 18 years, the state could suffer immeasurably if it doesn't keep pace on the water front. Any lack of preparation toward conserving all of the water available could penalize the state in impending potential progress.

Undoubtedly the drought of recent years, hitting many parts of the United States and impairing its economy, had much to do with making the national Congress more water-minded than has been evidenced heretofore.

Approval of the Three Rivers Dam for San Angelo likely stemmed from the dehydrated lands the President saw on a trip to the Southwest in January of 1957. The publicity attendant to his drought tour helped to establish the program now evident in new moves toward conservation.

Not Everyone Believes Faubus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas still has trouble getting some people in high places to believe him. What he says one time isn't necessarily what he says the next.

In the past year he has, in effect, been called a liar by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and James C. Hagerly, President Eisenhower's press secretary.

Last year—after he had called out guardsmen to keep Negroes from entering Central High School

Guard last year in the integration controversy at Little Rock Central High School.

Latest example of Faubus' troubles in the credibility department came Sunday when he said the White House had pressured him into saying the Supreme Court's order banning segregation in the public schools was the law of the land.

And the U.S. Court of Appeals in St. Louis has derided his reasons for calling out the National Guard last year in the integration controversy at Little Rock Central High School.

—Faubus flew to Newport, R.I., to confer with Eisenhower, who was vacationing there. They issued separate statements.

Part of Faubus' statement said: "I have never expressed any personal opinion regarding the Supreme Court decision of 1954 which voted integration. That is not relevant. That decision is the law of the land."

Since then Faubus has made statements saying the Supreme Court's decision is not the law of the land and that the Supreme Court has no authority to make a law.

Sunday he appeared on the CBS TV Show Face the Nation.

Reminded of the statement he issued in Rhode Island, he was asked why he has changed his mind about the high court's decision being the law of the land. Faubus said he hadn't changed his mind; that his saying so didn't make the decision law. Then he added this:

He said he had been required by the White House to make that statement as the price of negotiating with the White House. He admitted it was unusual for a governor to let himself be pressured into something like this.

Monday, Hagerly was asked about this Faubus statement. Hagerly said: "I think the only thing I can have is no comment. You wouldn't print my comment that I feel like giving."

But Faubus even seems to have trouble making up his mind on whether a law passed by Congress ordering integration would be a law that had to be obeyed. He was asked on TV: "Would you accept a declaration or a law by Congress on this (integration of public schools)?"

Faubus replied: "Well, I think if Congress passed a law, then it would be the law of the land, and there would be no means of questioning its legality."

Just a few days ago he appeared to take an exactly opposite position. On Aug. 26, appearing before the Arkansas Legislature to ask authority to prevent public school integration, he said: "There is no clear-cut federal statute regarding the integration of schools. If there were it would be unconstitutional, for the authority to control public education has never been delegated by the states to the federal government."

Last year Faubus charged that FBI agents were tapping his telephone (he offered no proof) and that they were holding teen-agers incommunicado for hours in Little Rock. Hoover said both statements were false.

Also last year—after Eisenhower sent federal troops into Little Rock to make sure Negroes got into Central High—Faubus said the soldiers had invaded the privacy of girls' dressing rooms.

Hagerly answered for the White House: "Completely untrue and also completely vulgar."

Faubus has always argued that when he called out guardsmen to keep Negro children out of Central High—which a federal judge had ordered integrated—that he was not defying the court, but only trying to prevent mob violence.

The U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis lashed out at this by saying that if Negro children were kept out of school to prevent mob violence, then by the same kind of reasoning: "The courts could be closed and emptied of their cash to prevent robberies, the post office locked to prevent the mails from being robbed, and the citizens kept off the streets to prevent holdups."

Cancel My Reservations To Mars

I have been looking at the moon for a long, long time. I like it where it is and I like it the way it is. I have no desire to go to the moon and I am not particularly interested in blasting its face with explosives. I have never seen the other side of the moon. I have no particular desire to do so.

I believe it would be much the case of the legendary bear who went over the mountain. The other side of the mountain, you will recall, was all that he could see. If the face of the moon that we see is ruggedly broken by craters and mountain ranges, I am reasonably sure the other side will be ruggedly broken by craters and mountain ranges.

From what I read, a lot of folk seem thoroughly convinced that the salvation of the world depends on (1) shooting a rocket to the moon and (2) seeing what it looks like on the other side.

At the present rate of progress, I suggest that if these projects are so all-important, the program had better be speeded up materially. The moon, in case you had forgotten, is getting further and further away from the earth year by year. When it reaches the distance of a little more than four times its present distance, it will cease to be satellite of the earth and will become a planet.

Instead of circling the earth it will find its own orbit around the sun. The rate of recession, I am told, is 5 inches a year.

It is estimated the day when the earth and the moon become entirely divorced is several million years in the offing. So we had better hurry.

I have looked at Mars for a long, long time, too. I like it just like the moon—the way it is and where it is. I am merely academically interested in the burning question of whether there is life on Mars. What seems far more pressing to me is that life be kept on this earth.

I do not think the Martians, if there are any, are malignant demons intent on conquering the earth. I do not think they are even bothered about the earth; that they have quite enough to keep them occupied and busy trying to eke out a living. I do not want to bother them by dropping in unexpectedly.

The skies and the endless mysteries they hold fascinate me and inspire me. I like to study the heavens and marvel at the complexities they pose. But I have no desire at all to meddle with these things as a person. They have been as they are for more billions of years than my poor feeble mind can picture.

Here on this little ball whereon we live are innumerable problems which are as far from being solved today as they were when the first barbarian crept from his ancient cave and discovered that he would stand on his hind legs.

Shooting a rocket to the moon, looking at its other side, or even projecting a space ship to Mars is not likely to solve these problems.

The inequities of life, the injustices the inhumanities which make life so miserable for so many are mostly earth-made and man-made.

We have barely learned to walk. Maybe we should perfect that art before we decide to take over the universe at large.

The Swag's Gone, Before We Could Get It

There is no issue so quick to rouse civic virtue and moral indignation as the conviction that one has been had, i.e., treated as a knucklehead.

Deponent is seething with civic virtue and indignation (leave out that moral connotation for the moment) as the presses roll. I am rocked not so much by the venality and the fix in the quiz show biz as by the unconscionable fact that I never had a chance to get my tootsies in the trough while the getting was good.

It was one thing to sit all alone by the telephone, waiting for a quiz show impresario to call and beg me to come and try for Fort Knox—as long as I was convinced that I possessed neither the intellectual grasp, the education or the brass to "Name one city on the Boston Post Road" or "Identify the statue in the Lincoln Memorial."

But it was quite another matter to realize that I was snubbed because quiz managements didn't even credit me with being a sufficiently quick study to memorize the answers during the warm-up or rehearsal period.

Okay, so maybe, without prompting, I don't know "the primary purpose of a bread knife." But the obvious implication that I can't learn as quickly as the next fellow, that I can't pick up a hint as big as a barn from the M. C. before the show goes on the air or that I can't read and memorize a list of answers before video time is simply adding financial insult to intellectual injury.

Obviously, I have been done out of a fortune by the networks' lack of faith in my ability to learn while I earn. Never mind the fell blow to my faith in mankind at evidence of hugger-mugger in the mint. My tired blood can fake it. My beef is that I was never, ever tapped to stagger civic virtue under the weight of loot that would have made the legions of Genghis Khan ogle with astonishment.

I'm just as greedy as the next guy, and I deeply resent the fact I was never given a chance at the swag. Now I fear the spring has dried up before I have a chance to rework my way through college, or assist my favorite charity (named, just by chance, Inez) or assist a worthy couple (Robb, perchance) to build a little nest egg for their sunset years.

Nitwits like myself were content to sit home and swoon when contestants won airplanes, speedwell yachts, sports cars with wall-to-wall carpeting and $250,000 to help support same as long as we were convinced that the spoils were going to double-domes. We were satisfied and only vaguely disturbed by intimations of envy as long as we felt the egghedary was on the up and up.

After all, who are we faceless numbskulls to aspire to the supremacy of men and women who can instantly identify the couple for whom the Albert and Victoria Museum was named or tell how many other reigning monarchs of England have been named Elizabeth in addition to Queen Elizabeth II?

But, when we groundlings discover that it is all done not by mirrors of the mind but by the biggest answering service this side of "The Bells Are Ringing" or A.T.&T., we are enraged not by chicanery but by base chance that kept us off the gravy train. Is this democratic?

I can bear up under the fact that the cat is out of the bag. What fractures me is that, before I got mine, so is the swag. (Copyright 1955, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Changing Tone In Labor Day

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

There was something different about the tone of Labor Day this year. The atmosphere surrounding the event has long been undergoing a steady change.

Originally the celebration was designed to give the overall wearers some dignity. Parades were held to stir up interest in unionism, and as a sort of notice to the bosses that working men had faces.

Seventy years ago a man could get his head cracked for being too vociferous about the idea.

By the turn of the century the idea was gradually beginning to seep into the public consciousness that there was a difference between a loom and the man at the loom.

At first it was mostly that the man needed care so he could work efficiently, just as did the machine.

Then a few economists began to see the man en masse, not only as the worker at the loom, but as the most potent consumer of its products.

The term "dynamic economy" began to be used, connoting a situation in which more and more workers earned more and more money to buy more and more products.

The uneducated laborer ceased going stammering to his boss to ask for a raise, and pooled his resources with other laborers to hire trained representatives to do it for him.

Labor became one of the most powerful forces in America, competing with management for a place in the sun. In its eagerness it committed offenses, as had management in search of profits. But gradually it began to grow in responsibility, even as the new dynamism was replacing short-sighted selfishness in management.

Just as racketeers have used every form of human organization from the church on down, so they have sought to use labor.

The effort to escape them, however, has now become so widespread that their operations, instead of being winked at, have become big news.

High public officials, where they formerly dared not interfere lest they be accused of attacking labor, self, spoke of cooperating to help the cleanup.

High labor officials, who once could not afford to admit any virtues in management, spoke of cooperation within the framework of the dynamic economy.

Who Would Have Thought It?

Paris Likes Hair Jewels This Season

Straight from Paris comes new attention and new excitement for one of the most flattering fashions of the year—jewels worn on the head and in the hair.

These head jewels take several forms; often they are pins worn on hair bands or bows and matched to earrings for a "costume" look to an ensemble.

Special hair ornaments, to be worn in the hair itself, also have a new importance, reports show. Combs, barrettes, pins, clips, all designed to give a glittering touch to tousled Empire curls, are important.

The simplest and most effective jewel touch of all was seen at several famous houses where pins were worn in the hair itself to give a lovely "suspended" jeweled touch to the cocktail and evening clothes.

The trick lies in fastening the most beautiful pin you own to a simple narrow transparent head clip, sold in most variety stores. The clip hugs the head securely; hidden under the hair, it leaves the pin to glitter apparently suspended by magic in the new coiffures.

This jewel-in-the-hair fashion—seen in everything from glittering gowns worth a king's ransom to glamorous costume pieces—is one of the smartest fashion ideas of this fabulous season, the experts agree.

Mature Job Hunter May Be Helped By These Tips

The forgotten woman some people call her. She's the mature woman whose family has grown. Suddenly she finds herself with nothing to do, but she refuses to reconcile herself to boredom.

Or perhaps she finds it necessary to supplement the family income years after she thought she had left the business world for good.

Whatever the reason, there's an increasing number of mature-looking women seeking jobs. And an increasing number is getting them.

Employers are finding that older women who have gone back to work are generally capable, punctual and steady. Furthermore, they provide a breath of viewpoint younger women just don't have.

But the woman herself before she goes job hunting is often shaky and unsure. Should she try to look younger? How should she dress? She'll be competing with younger people, so should she try to act their age or hers?

Trying to look young is usually a mistake, say employment consultants. It only makes you look as if you're trying to be something you are not. Dignity in both manner and appearance is respected. So take that as your cue.

For instance, discreet make-up is never conspicuous. If you wear rouge, remember that bright red

Hey, Light Company; It Must Be Nice To Live In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Last year Detroit Edison Co. gave away more than 11 million light bulbs to housewives and husbands in southeast Michigan.

All the company asked in return was the family's burned out bulbs. The idea was unique when it was put into effect in 1913 by the late Alex Dow, who then was president of Detroit Edison. And today it still is a unique idea. Nobody else in the country goes in for customer service to the extent of Detroit Edison, even though Dow's original thinking seems based on the soundest of business principles.

He said: "Empty sockets don't burn kilowatts."

The company gives free around-the-clock electrical service to its customers. If a fuse blows out in your house at midnight, an emergency crewman will come out and replace it. Last year more than 372,000 iron cords were handed out in return for the customers' faulty ones. Thousands of small appliances were repaired—free, except for parts that cost more than $1. The bigger appliances—electric ranges, driers and water heaters—Detroit Edison will repair without charge.

All of this service points back to the 1913 decision of Dow, who believed that if it isn't working the company isn't making money on it.

This policy cost the company seven million dollars last year. Detroit Edison has 1,100,000 customers and it spent an average of $6 per household to provide free service last year. At the same time, the average household electric bill last year was $85.

As any businessman will attest, a giveaway like this is difficult to call off.

So, the question: If they had it to do over, would they do it? "If anything, it should be bigger," said William R. Milby, assistant director of customer services.

Milby adds that the policy has "a definite value in customer relations." In other words, people like Detroit Edison for it and that's worth something in dollars.

It is almost impossible to figure how much Detroit Edison has profited—or lost—through its customer service policy.

But the 100-watt light bulb gives an example. Given to a customer free, it must burn 50 hours before Detroit Edison starts making money on it.

Marinade Steak In Olive Oil, Garlic

Crushed garlic with olive oil makes a delicious marinade for broiled steaks. Here is a version adaptable to both indoor and outdoor cooking.

SIRLOIN STEAK PHYLLIS

Ingredients:
1 large sirloin steak (4 to 5 pounds and cut 1½ to 1¾ inches thick)
¼ cup olive oil
1 large clove garlic

Method:
Trim steak of excess fat; slash edges. Mix olive oil and crushed garlic in a flat container. Dip both sides of steak in mixture, then let meat stand in remaining marinade for a couple of hours.

Broil over charcoal to desired doneness. Makes 6 servings. To make sure of doneness, test by cutting into meat in a small slit near bone. Carve crosswise and diagonally in strips.

Remove Fruit Stains

To remove fresh peach, pear, cherry or plum stains from cottons, soak stains in cool water; then work in studs of nonalkaline detergent; rinse.

Freshmen Play Field In College Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

A freshman may major in any subject, but it's a safe bet that her major concern is clothes.

This season the problem of assembling a proper college wardrobe is complex, because a girl is faced with a bewildering choice of silhouettes. There are the chemise, the trapeze, the blouson, the jumper, the middy, the Empire, the camise, the balloon, the dust-ruffle, the harem and goodness knows what else.

Many girls starting off to college play safe and take along one of everything. This puts a strain on both transportation facilities and closet space and is likely to irritate parents when most of the extra clothes are shipped back home.

A better plan is to consult an upperclassman from your college on campus clothes customs. You'll probably find that most of your weekday hours will be spent in sweaters and skirts or Bermuda shorts.

For weekend trips and dates a few simple dresses of wool, jersey or corduroy will do the trick, with maybe a suit for traveling. And the street-length cocktail dress is the usual choice for dressy evenings, rather than formal evening gowns.

The college girl also should consider wardrobe upkeep, and choose as many things as possible in washable fabrics that need little or no ironing. In this category corduroy is a popular choice, available this year in high colors and bold plaids, in separates or dresses.

Swimming Can Be Great Sport For Older Folks

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—When the gray hair and wrinkles begin to show, "get in the swim," advises a great grandmother.

Swimming keeps her young, says Mrs. Archie W. Lamb. Admitting 60 odd years, Mrs. Lamb swims and dives three nights a week at the YMCA pool.

Until three years ago, Mrs. Lamb couldn't swim and was afraid to go over her depth in the water.

It took a lot of courage to join the swimming class, she relates, but she told herself: "I'm not getting any younger so I may as well do it now."

Mrs. Lamb recommends swimming for elderly folks.

"As you know," she says, "when you get older, your circulation slows down and this swimming is excellent for stimulation. You can't beat swimming for relaxation and recreation."

At times, she says, she practically dragged herself to the pool, but "swimming washed all my tiredness away. In fact, since I have been swimming, I've never slept so well."

Mrs. Lamb's favorite stroke is the back crawl. But she has mastered many strokes.

Rind Flavors Oatmeal Cookies

Here is a recipe for Overnight Cookies which have rolled oats as their base. A touch of orange rind adds a distinctive note.

OVERNIGHT COOKIES
Ingredients:
Two cups quick-cooking rolled oats, ¼ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup salad oil, 1 egg, ½ cup chopped pecans (medium-fine).

Method:
Stir rolled oats, sugar, orange rind and salt together thoroughly in a mixing bowl. Stir in salad oil; cover and let stand overnight.

The next morning beat egg until thick and ivory-colored; fold into oatmeal mixture with pecans.

Place rounded teaspoonfuls of mixture on ungreased baking sheet, 1 inch apart. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove cookies at once with wide spatula to cooling rack.

Return any cookies that are hard to remove to oven for a few seconds before taking off. Makes about 4 dozen.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Labor Day seemed to have passed rather quietly in our village. Although I don't know that all who have lake cottages and boats were spending the day there, I have an idea the pleasant day was a perfect one for those who enjoy water skiing; they would have had a full day of enjoyment.

Members of the Clayton Stewart family were here Monday to attend to matter of business. They included MR. AND MRS. KEITH STEWART of Sweetwater, MR. AND MRS. WHIT YATEMAN of Coleman, and MRS. LEWIS RIX of Lubbock.

Also here for the day were MR. AND MRS. RANDAL PICKLE, LEWIS RIX JR., HANK HUNT and LAWRENCE BANKS, all of Lubbock.

MR. AND MRS. RAY SLAUGHTER left Monday for Philadelphia, Pa., where they will visit their daughter and son-in-law.

Guests for the day at the home of MR. AND MRS. J. FRED WHITAKER were her niece and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Louder, Nola Margaret and Dillard Debs, of Canyon.

LAWRENCE DEASON came up from San Antonio to spend the holiday weekend with his sister, IMA DEASON.

MR. AND MRS. R. D. ULREY are back home after spending most of August touring the New England states. The first stop on their train trip was made at Silver Springs, Md., where they visited in the home of their daughter and her family, MR. AND MRS. O. W. SCOTT. They then joined the Scotts for an automobile trip to Hanover, Mass., where Mrs. Ulrey's brother, Dr. O. E. Burley was teaching summer classes at Dartmouth. His regular teaching work is at the University of Pennsylvania where he is a professor of economics.

Leaving the states, the party spent three days in Canada and were in Quebec and Ontario before returning through Sault St. Marie and came down to Racine, Wis., for a stay with Mrs. Ulrey's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rhodes. The Scotts then went to Effingham, Ill., to spend some time with his mother and the Ulreys went to Eldon, Mo., to see his sister-in-law. The couple made their last visit with Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bond, who live in West Mineral, a suburb of Parsons, Kansas.

MRS. W. C. BIRDWELL returned Saturday night from Abilene where she has been with her son, who underwent a tonsillectomy Friday morning. Also there Friday were Mr. Birdwell and Mrs. Bill Earley.

Luke Thompson Trips Ray Ferguson, 3 And 1

By TOMMY HART
Luke Thompson, an Army Pfc. who majors in golf, marshalled his shots with the wife of a general and beat Breckenridge's Ray Ferguson in the 36-hole finals of the annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament here Monday, 3 and 1.

played their usual games Monday. In winning, Luke was one over for the day while Ferguson exceeded par by three strokes. Luke was never down after the fourth hole. The bespectacled Ferguson copped the first hole with a birdie four but Thompson evened matters on four with a birdie three. He then won five with a par four and held that margin throughout the first nine holes.

The Big Spring youth prevailed on ten with a birdie to lengthen his advantage to two up but Ferguson fought back to win with a par. They matched stroke for stroke down to 18, which Thompson won with two strokes to spare with a birdie three. Luke went to lunch with a two-hole advantage. There were those who still thought Ferguson would apply the pressure and finish on top when afternoon play was resumed but Thompson never gave his opponent a look-in.

Luke missed only two greens all morning and he was almost as sharp in the afternoon. He won 19 with a birdie, 22 with a par, 25 with a par and 27 with a par the third round around the course. Ferguson neutralized the effect by copping 20 with a birdie, and 24 with a par but was four down when the final nine holes of play started. It appeared to be a hopeless task and it was.

Champion And Runner-Up

Luke Thompson (left), Big Spring, and Ray Ferguson, Breckenridge, chat briefly before teeing off in their Big Spring Invitational Golf Tournament championship match at the Country Club Monday. Thompson won, 3 and 1, to gain his second local title in three years.

Junior Loop In Need Of A Transfusion

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The American League is not dead, just sick. That's what a lot of people in the rival National League think. They can't understand why the seven other clubs in the junior circuit hate the Yankees. Without the championship New York team to fight its battles virtually year after year, the American League would really be dead.

clamping a hammerlock on the World Series in 1947, only the Cleveland Indians have been able to break into the monotonous string of triumphs. They won it in 1948 and again in 1954. Since then they have fallen from eminence. Today, despite the denials of top officials and club owners, the American League is in a disorganized state.

It is no secret why. All semblance of a pennant race disappeared as far back as last May. The biggest sufferers have been Chicago, Boston and Cleveland. Their deficit would have been much worse had it not been for the Yankees, the only attraction left. New York will soon represent one third of all the road attendance in the league. This means that six-sevenths of the time, the other clubs aren't drawing much more than enough to make expenses.

HOW GOOD ARE THEY? Cushion Still Big But Yanks Ailing

By The Associated Press
Just how good are these New York Yankees who lead the American League by 1 1/2 games? A month ago today they led by 17 games. They've won 14 of 31 games since—a scrawny 43 percent that's only sixth best in the AL for that span.

Herb Score, Cleveland's jinxed southpaw, made his first appearance since July 15 and saved the opener for Don Ferrarese (2-4) with ninth-inning relief. Billy Pierce (15-9) lost it, beaten by a pair of Sox errors in a three-run third inning and Mimmie Mino's 21st home run, with two on, in the first. Rookie Gary Bell (8-8) won the nightcap with an 8-hit.

With Cleveland a certainty to dip to a new 13-year low in attendance this season, William Daley, the Indians' board chairman, also wants to move to Minneapolis. Latest attendance figures show that the National League is outdrawing the American by more than 2,300,000. Every club in the junior circuit shows a decrease in attendance from last year. Even the Yankees.

Footballers Hard At Work Throughout The Country

Only two regulars — Elston Howard (.329) and Norm Siebern (.303) — are hitting over .300. Mickey Mantle is at .300. Shantz and Maas came through with complete games in the Labor Day double-header, but the Yankees came off with only a split against Boston, getting only eight hits in a pair of 4-2 decisions.

The theme song is the same on all college football practice fields today — work, work, work. The tuning up began Monday as the official opening of fall practice got under way — in some places in mid-season form.

UCLA, whose luck turned bad before practice started with the sudden death of Henry "Red" Sanders, began its last fall practice as a member of the doomed Pacific Coast Conference without new Coach George Dickerson. Dickerson is in UCLA Hospital with a nervous condition that will sideline him most of the week. Top aide Bill Barnes is in charge.

QBC TO HOLD VITAL PARLEY

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will hold one of its most important meetings of the fall at 8 o'clock this evening in the High School Library. Final plans for the barbecue honoring the Big Spring High School gridder's and their coaches will be cemented at tonight's session. Reports from various committees will be heard.

DRAGONS WON'T PLAY SEPT. 5

FLOWER GROVE (SC)—Flower Grove should have time to start its season well-prepared this year. Another of the six-man schools converting to eight-man ball, Flower Grove will not open Sept. 5 due to incompleteness of their schedule and that period of time they will have for workouts will probably leave them well-adjusted to their new head coach.

BUIL BACK IN FORM AS BRAVE PITCHER

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Buhl, the missing 18-game winner who was hardly missed, is back with the Milwaukee Braves. And right in form too.

Pitching for the first time since May 13, when he dropped out with a burn shoulder, Buhl won the game of the Braves' Labor Day. And he's not talking about his best double-header with Chicago, besting the Cubs 2-1 with an eight-hitter. He walked only one, struck out three and blanked the Cubs after the first inning.

Cincinnati held fourth place, beating St. Louis 9-3 after a 1-0 defeat. The Cubs got their run off Buhl (5-2) on Al Dark's double and Ernie Banks' single in the first. Milwaukee put it away in the fourth, scoring two on an error and singles by Ed Mathews and Hank Aaron, who split six of the Braves' nine hits off Bob Anderson (1-1).

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
DUFFY DAUGHERTY, Michigan State football coach:
"Confucius say he who score plenty of touchdowns don't need worry about new extra point rule."

STAN MUSIAL, St. Louis batting great:
"This thumb, where I was hit by a pitched ball, hurts during batting practice, because I am expecting it to hurt. But it doesn't hurt when I'm hitting during a game because I don't think about it. That's all there is to ignoring these things."

KEN HALL, former Texas A&M back, now trying out with the Baltimore Colts:
"I'd like to prove Bear Bryant (former Texas Aggie coach) was wrong. If I don't make this ball club it won't be because I don't have a fair chance. Do I prefer to be a runner or a pass receiver? I like to do both. I never did catch much in college. Of course, I never did play much."

BILL TERRY, Sally League president, former big league manager:
"We baseball men are not supposed to talk about the minor leagues, but I'm going to talk about them anyway. We have a bad situation that has to be rectified if they're going to get players from the minors. Nearly everyone in the minors is losing money and we have to get down to earth on this and talk man to man. I'm not talking about any meeting between league presidents or people like that. I'm talking about the men in baseball who put up the money."

GABE PAUL, Cincinnati Redleg president:
"I consider Leo Durocher one of the soundest baseball men who ever lived but knowing Leo as I do, I don't think he would be happy in Cincinnati, even if he would agree to come. It would not be fair to him or to the club to consider him an manager."

WEBB EUBANK, Baltimore football coach, discussing Ray Berry, former SMU end:
"Ray is a boy who is perfectly honest with himself. He's always working on his weaknesses. He's always studying... studying the other receivers, studying the films. He has it all down in a book... every pass we made last year and every one our opponent's been with us."

JIMMY POWERS, New York writer:
"The fastest growing sport today is pro football. The New York Giants set a season record for ticket sales last year. This year they are already ahead of last year. The Detroit Lions will sell 42,000 reserve seats before they open their season. The San Francisco 49ers have sold a record 31,000 season tickets. The Baltimore Colts have sold 24,387 seats, and in Los Angeles the Rams are selling ten per cent ahead of last year's record sale despite the tremendous publicity for the Dodgers."

JIMMY BROWN, former Syracuse grid star, now with Cleveland:
"There are a lot of big men in this league and when they tackle, you feel it. I follow in stiff and sore for four days after a ball game. It wasn't that way at Syracuse."

BOB FELLER, former mound ace, now a play-by-play broadcaster:
"It's not easy to compare this New York team with other Yankee teams. You must avoid snap judgment. You have to sit down with rosters and study them. I would say that this New York club, with Ryne Duran and Moose Skowron available, is about as good as any Casey Stengel has had. I know that the Yankees had their DiMaggio-Henrich-Keller outfit and it's tough to outrank that club. But taking the present Yankees, in the preslum form, there's much to recommend this club."

Prepare For Those Cool Fall Nights

These cool nights are suggestive of fall. It won't be long before a fire is required at night in order to keep warm.

If you reside in an area which cannot be reached by the city's gas main, the smart thing to do is equip your house with butane gas.

And the smart place to shop, if you have such a thing in mind, is the S. M. Smith Butane Co., main office of which are on the Lamesa Highway just within the city limits in the north part of town.

Butane gas is economical and safe for use in the house, barn or in the farm implement. And the fuel serves many, many purposes, which makes it perfectly suited for use in rural areas.

Wooten Is Expert Household Mover

Beginning of a new school year oftentimes means that families have to move to new places of residence. Such moves may have to be made to better meet with the problem of school attendance by their children.

Most moves, naturally, are planned and carried out before the day school opens. However, it may be that this development cannot always be anticipated.

H. P. Wooten Transfer & Storage, 505 E. 2nd, is generally the agency most Big Springers contact when faced with a problem of moving. It doesn't matter whether the move to be made is next door, across town or across the continent, Wooten is ready to handle the problem with equal efficiency.

H. P. Wooten, proprietor, is an expert in his work with years of experience to back up his training. He knows how a move should be made and sees to it that the staff under him does the job the way best for the client.

H. P. Wooten Storage and Transfer is agent for the famous Grevan and Lyons Van lines—two of the most widely known and popular moving agencies in the nation.

Night or day, you can solve your moving problem by a phone call to H. P. Wooten Transfer & Storage. Day phone is AM 4-7741 and night phone is 4-6292.

Home Of Understanding Service

For three decades in Big Spring this has been the site of an understanding service to people of this area in a time of need. River Funeral Home has emphasized this objective in helping families in a time of sorrow when expert, sympathetic counsel is so deeply appreciated. This same degree of consideration has been extended, too, in ambulance service, whether in meeting emergencies instantly at any hour of the day or night, or whether taking loved ones to and from hospitals.

Ice Man's Ice Is Always In Season

Labor Day is a big time for picnic and outings, but it by no means is the last day of the season for picnics. It doesn't mean that hot weather is over by the coming of September, either.

And as long as there are picnics planned and hot weather is in control, you are going to need plenty of ice, more than your refrigerator can produce.

Plenty of home-made ice cream will be turned during the next few weeks. And food and drink will have to be chilled before the picnic season is halted by the presence of Jack Frost.

So remember Western Ice. Regardless of the season, however, you can know that the place to get your ice is Western Ice Co., located at the corner of 3rd and Owens.

The firm has as much or as little ice as you need and when you need it. You don't have to get a lot of extra ice when you trade at Western Ice; you can get as little as is needed to fill a thermos jug. They also have what you need in sacks of crushed ice or in blocks.

After regular store hours, too, you can get ice at Western's dock. Outside the building are located coin-operated vending machines which dispense crushed or block ice, permitting you to purchase your ice around the clock.

The firm delivers also. A call to AM 4-4921 will bring the ice to your door if the order merits it, and that way you don't have to worry about picking it up on the way home only to see it melt away in your car.

Picnics or whatever the occasion, you always need ice, and the place to get it on the corner of 3rd and Owens, Western Ice Co.

Handy Tiple

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A drunk, explaining how he happened to get that way, described for police a wonderful place where he "just drove in and filled up from a spigot." The officers found the spot near here. They smashed a 500-gallon all-copper moonshine still.

Both Speed And Quality Is Stressed By McMahon

If you want concrete in the Big Spring area, you want Clyde McMahon.

A load of ready-mix concrete, exactly to your specifications, is almost as handy as your telephone because McMahon Concrete Company has built its growing business on two concepts—quality of product and speed of delivery.

Clyde McMahon, owner, has spent his adult life in the building materials business and knows that when builders want concrete, they want it promptly and want it to do the job for which it is intended.

He has equipped all his units with two-way radio communications, thus expediting service to any point with a wide radius of Big Spring. Almost within a matter of minutes from the time you place an order, a McMahon truck is backing up to the point of delivery and pouring into your forms.

Similarly, whatever type of mix you specify, will be adhered to rigidly. All McMahon jobs are compounded to meet laboratory specifications.

While McMahon has won a great clientele among professional builders and contractors, his service is equally accommodating to those who use occasional loads or small lots of concrete. The do-it-yourself client gets prompt attention.

McMahon also maintains a full line of builders power and hand tools for masonry and concrete work at his headquarters at 605 N. Benton.

Easy Way To Kill Roaches And Ants

Scientists recommend that you control roaches and ants the modern way — with Johnson's No-Roach. U.S. To Urge U.N. Control In Outer Space

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States will propose in the United Nations in a few weeks a program for international cooperation in the field of outer space.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. representative in the U.N., announced today that the program will be presented at the next regular session of the General Assembly.

Without going into any details of the U.S. plan, Lodge said in an address prepared for the annual national convention of the American Legion.

"No matter what happens, study and exploration of outer space will go on and will take man where no human being has gone before. This will affect every man, woman and child in the world—and can be to their great benefit."

Lodge added that the United States will continue efforts to reach agreements, consistent with national security, in an effort to increase prospects that outer space will not be used for military purposes. He added:

"But even as we work for such agreements, an important start must be made now in opening this new realm for the benefit of all mankind."

WHAT TO DO

"The United Nations, therefore, should immediately consider what it can do in this field; what outer space projects for peaceful purposes can be undertaken under United Nations auspices; and what sort of organization the United Nations can build so that the nations will work together in outer space."

"Some practical program for international cooperation in the scientific and peaceful study and exploration of outer space must be set up."

Lodge also predicted that a new attempt will be made again in the next few weeks to admit Communist China to the U.N.

He said the United States, which has blocked such moves on more than 30 previous occasions, "will undoubtedly deal with it successfully."

The convention, after a week-end of parading and merry-making, moved into the serious aspects of its convention today.

Some 3,000 delegates, in three days of business sessions in the Chicago Stadium, are to pass on some 600 resolutions ranging from child welfare to "Americanism."

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy speaks tonight at the annual National Commander's Dinner.

An all-day parade along Michigan Avenue by some 50,000 marchers, units of all military services and their massed colors, decorative floats and about 8,000 musicians featured the Labor Day activities.

500,000 WATCHED

An estimated 500,000 persons dressed in coats or heavy sweaters watched the parade in chilly 60-degree temperature.

In one prepared resolution, the Legion will be asked to reject a proposal for a general pension for all World War I veterans in favor of an increase in present non-service disability pension rates and relaxation of outside income restriction governing such pension.

In a prepared address, Ross L. Malone, president of the American Bar Assn., asked for Legion backing for the bar's "campaign to increase the effectiveness of our courts by removing the selection of the judges of state courts from the arena of partisan politics."

Malone told the convention judicial reform plans have been adopted in Missouri, California and Alaska and are in various stages of consideration in Illinois, Kansas, Ohio, Oregon, West Virginia and Iowa.

He said that "in contributing to the removal of the state courts from partisan politics you will be increasing the confidence of our citizens in their courts and thereby making another contribution to the maintenance of our representative form of government."

Khrushy Reported Saying Arms Race Is Too Expensive

MOSCOW (AP)—Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton said after a long talk with Premier Khrushchev Monday that the Premier feels the arms race is an expensive operation that the Soviet Union wants to end.

Eaton, here as guest of the Soviet Ministry of Agriculture, said he discussed disarmament with Khrushchev in a 95-minute meeting in the Kremlin. The two met shortly after Khrushchev returned from a vacation at a Black Sea resort.

Eaton said Khrushchev told him that the Soviet Union wanted to be relieved of the expense involved in developing new weapons.

Eaton said the Soviet Premier told him that he felt the U.S. State Department was antagonistic toward the Soviet Union, but added that he would like to visit the United States.

Khrushchev expressed concern, Eaton said, over foreign journalists who return to the West after short visits to the Soviet Union and report that the Russian people are friendly but that the Soviet government is antagonistic.

Eaton said Khrushchev told him he knows the American people want peace but he is not so sure about the U.S. government.

Eaton replied that American industrialists—favorite targets of Soviet propaganda—do not want war. He said he told the Soviet Premier that industrialists do not want to pay higher taxes which would go for weapons.

Love Is The Victor

Ty Hardin, rising young television actor, and his bride, actress Andrea Martin of the films, pose happily in Hollywood, Calif., after their marriage. It was a triumph of love over the advice of unromantic agents who had advised them to defer marriage plans until they were more firmly established in their careers. They took the advice for a week, then decided to ignore it.

Newsman Describes Quemoy Sea Battle

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Correspondent Forrest Edwards and P. Photographer Fred Waters were among 18 foreign correspondents going to Quemoy when Communist torpedo boats intercepted their convoy early today. This is Edwards' account of the battle.

By FORREST EDWARDS
MAKUNG, Pescadores (AP)—Fred Waters and I were halfway down the landing nets, handing our gear to the men in the small landing boat below, when the first shell broke near us at about 12:40 this morning.

The small boat broke away from our landing ship and Waters and I were left dangling there. We climbed back up on deck.

Eight foreign correspondents and about 30 troops were already in our small boat and another one being loaded on the other side of our landing ship.

Our convoy consisted of our landing ship carrying 400 men to reinforce Quemoy and several escort patrol boats. We had dropped anchor six miles offshore to get into the small boats when the Communists attacked.

The Red torpedo boats kept up a running battle with our flotilla for an hour and 10 minutes. We took evasive action and tried to pick up the men in the small boats, but we could not find them in the darkness. Officers on our ship said they thought the small boats would be able to make it to shore.

(Nationalist headquarters on Formosa later reported that the boats with the correspondents and the troops had reached Quemoy safely.)

Train Derails In Austin

AUSTIN (AP)—Part of a 125-car freight train was derailed here today. One car jumped an overpass guard rail, crashing into W. 5th St.

There were no injuries to the train crew of the Kissouri Pacific freight en route to San Antonio.

The last eight cars of the freight skidded and left the tracks, smashing into the guard railing above Lake Austin Blvd., and W. 5th St. A spokesman at the freight yard said the derailment came when the journal mechanism attaching the wheels to the box car burned out.

Railroad construction crews worked today with torches in an effort to clear the twisted wreckage. Traffic was rerouted from the scene which was west of the downtown area.

A railroad spokesman said the freight was hauling vegetables, grain and chemicals. No estimate of damage was made immediately. The rest of the freight continued on to San Antonio.

Sheriff Asks Dove Hunters To Be Considerate, Careful

Miller Harris, sheriff, said that he is getting complaints from rural residents that dove hunters are parking their cars on country roads so carelessly they are blocking traffic.

He said that one farmer complained today that he was unable to get to his home for an hour and a half yesterday because dove hunters' cars had his road so clogged he could not pass.

Harris said that hunters be more considerate and make certain their cars are parked properly so that other traffic will not be

More People In Churches

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Council of Churches says reported religious affiliation in the United States was at a new high of 104,189,678 last year, but the ratio to population dropped slightly from 1956.

The statistics indicate a net gain of 964,724 church and synagogue members for 1957.

The 1957 total was 61 per cent of the nation's estimated 170,400,000 population.

The increase of 0.9 did not keep pace with the population rise, estimated at 1.7 per cent.

The new figures are included in the annual statistical report of the National Council of Churches, leading Protestant and Eastern Orthodox group in the country, released Monday.

Benson Y. Landis, editor of the Yearbook of American Churches, stressed that the figures were reported by religious groups.

The statistics covered 255 denominations in 48 states and the District of Columbia.

The major denominations for 1957 were listed as: Protestant 59,823,777; Roman Catholic 35,846,477; Jewish 5,500,000; and Eastern Orthodox 2,540,446.

A total of 478,978 persons were listed as affiliated with other groups.

Services Today At Cisco For Sister Of Mrs. P. D. O'Brien

Services for Mrs. Mary Leonard King, 67, sister of Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, were to be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist Church in Cisco.

Mrs. King died Sunday morning after a long illness with cancer. Burial was to be in the Oakwood Cemetery at Cisco. Services were to be conducted by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, assisted by the Rev. Ed Crow, Cisco Baptist minister, and the Rev. R. F. Cleveland, Presbyterian minister.

Born Jan. 23, 1891 in Wise County, she was married on Nov. 1, 1908 to J. L. King at Cisco. For the past 45 years they had made their home in the Sabanno community southwest of Cisco. Besides her husband, Mrs. King leaves her mother, Mrs. M. A. Matthews, Colorado City; 10 sisters and a brother.

More School, Pay Urged By Study Panel

AUSTIN (AP)—Two weeks more of school and a $3,800 starting teacher's salary have been proposed by subcommittees of the Hale-Aikin School Study Committee.

The committee accepted the subcommittee reports yesterday on the school program, school construction, teacher supply and finance.

Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris called his committee of 24 following the Labor Day meeting of the State Board of Education.

A 10-month school program with a minimum of 190 days of classroom instruction compared to 175 days now was aired by the committee. The cost of extending the minimum foundation program for one month was estimated at $28,485,247.

No final action was taken on the proposals which later will go to the governor and the Legislature. Earlier the education board heard the cost of the foundation school program would be $349,416,000 compared to $336,116,108 for 1957-58. The increase is based on estimated 3,000 new teachers needed for 67,000 more pupils.

The foundation school program is used by the state to determine the costs and sources to meet public school needs. The biggest portion of the cost will be $151,075,000 from the available school fund. This fund is compiled from revenue from investments of the permanent school fund gathered from oil and gas leases.

At present, school teachers receive a minimum $3,204 a year. The subcommittee recommendation would raise this to $3,800 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and $4,000 with a master's degree. Annual increments would be $100.

DEAR ABBY TO EACH HIS OWN

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You made a booboo when you told the Sgt. he made a wise choice when he married his childhood American sweetheart in favor of the Okinawa girl. Any G.I. will tell you that the Okinawa girls make better wives than American girls. The American girl just wants a man for a "meal ticket" and she never appreciates him once she gets him. The Okinawa girl looks up to her husband, waits on him and makes him feel important. She is grateful for everything he does for her and adores him as master, provider and protector. The Okinawa wife is happy in her devotion and asks nothing more than the privilege of pleasing her husband. I ought to know. I married one. SATISFIED

DEAR MISS ABBY: Excuse me, please. I am Okinawa Missus. I marry American G.I. He promise me to be faithful husband. He is not faithful. He is happy, I am not. Respectfully,
OKINAWA MISSUS

DEAR ABBY: Every morning about 3:00 a.m. our 4-year-old and 6-year-old come in quietly and get in bed with my husband and me. I try to make the children go back to their own beds but my husband calls me "unreasonable" and "cruel." He doesn't mind sleeping with children in the bed because his mamma tells me as a child he used to sleep in a bed full of cats and is used to a mob scene in bed with him. I am not used to it. The children always have sand in their hair so between waking up squashed and with sandy sheets I am unhappy. What should I do?
SANDY SHEETS

DEAR SANDY: Children belong in their own beds and if you don't want them sleeping with you forever, better put a stop to it right now. P.S.—If you bathe the children and wash their little heads every night, the sand problem would be solved. Even if they sleep alone, sandy sheets are no fun.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wife who grabs my billfold and looks through it every chance she gets. She also opens every letter that is addressed to me and seals it back together again. What do you suppose she is looking for? PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If YOU don't know, nobody does. And if she ever finds it, heaven help you!

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend has been seeing another woman for about six months and he tells me how much free love he has been getting from her. I have refused to give him any free love because I don't believe in acting like that before marriage. He tells me I am from the old school. Is there anything wrong with my beliefs or is it him?
OLD SCHOOL

DEAR OLD: Hang onto your "old school" ideas. The "free love" he has been talking about is the most expensive kind. Drop that salesman before he enrolls you in his school.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FIVE FOOT TWO: Before you see lawyer—see a doctor!

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

65 Canadians Die
TORONTO (AP)—Sixty-five persons were killed in accidents during Canada's three-day Labor Day weekend. The traffic toll was 44. Last year's over-all toll was 83.

Gunman Kidnaps Cop, Surrenders

GLADEWATER, Tex. (AP)—A snarling gunman kidnaped a policeman and forced him to drive a hundred miles at top speed today while he blazed away at pursuing officers.

But he tossed his two pistols meekly into the kidnaped officer's lap and begged, "Don't let them kill me." when cornered at a roadblock just east of here. "I'm so nervous I can hardly talk," Sgt. Harvey Derrick of the Irving, Tex., Police Department said shortly after the capture. Derrick, 41, is the father of seven.

Officers identified the kidnaper as Lee Roe, 24, Irving. He sat sullen and silent before reporters. Derrick said he drove alone in his squad car to investigate a disturbance in Irving late last night. He said he left the auto and spotted a man walking down the street and called to him.

"He threw a gun on me and got the drop on me. He took my gun and told me to get in the car. 'We're going for a ride,' he said. He said he'd kill me if I didn't do what he told me. He said we were going to Little Rock, Ark." Police Chief W. W. Odom quoted Roe as saying the reason for his action was "because I had an urge to see blinking red lights and hear sirens."

Derrick radioed headquarters saying he was being held at gunpoint and that his captor ordered all other police cars to stay clear. Then his radio went silent.

The car was spotted in Dallas, just east of Irving, but lost. It was picked up again on U.S. 80 headed east. "They (the State High Patrol) tried to stop me near Terrell. He started shooting and I tried to wave them off. He shot the glass out of my patrol car. He said he'd shoot me if I didn't wave them off," Derrick said. Officers in the pursuing car were unable to fire back for fear of hitting Derrick. Several other police cars joined the chase.

"He forced me to drive at top speed, about 110 miles an hour," the officer said. "He fired 10 or 15 times at the State Highway Patrol cars following. Every time they tried to close up a little, he'd shoot."

No one was hit. Local police were warned to

5 Persons Die In Road Crash

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — Two cars collided head-on near here Monday on an open stretch of U.S. 90, killing five persons, including a Texas grandmother, her daughter and grandchild.

Killed in one car were Mrs. Lydia Daigle, 75, Mrs. Waza Daigle Meaux, 51, and Wanda Meaux, 21, all of (1012 Twelfth St.), Port Arthur.

Victims in the other auto were Billy Jackson and Charles Kough, both Negroes from Welsh, La.

Six persons were injured, including two girls in the Meaux car and four in the other auto. Police said one car was passing another vehicle on the highway and collided with the car occupied by the Texas group.

Demonstrator Clubbed

A policeman, center, wields a club at a demonstrator, who covers his head in a protective move, during a disturbance in Mexico City. Other policemen move in and a Red Cross doctor, right, is on the scene for first aid duty as riots continue. Students and oil workers with separate complaints united in five hours of rioting before police quelled them with gunfire.

Dead Scientist Carried To Goal

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—A French minesweeper today carried the body of scientist-adventurer Eric de Bisschop to Tahiti, his goal on a 6½-month raft trip from South America. The balsa wood raft was wrecked on a reef Sunday night at Raka-hanga in the northern Cook Islands, the French Navy Ministry said. De Bisschop was killed, but his four crew members survived and were en route to Tahiti with the body.

MAKES YOU WANT TO CRY when you think how many families need kitchen phones—and don't have them. Instead of grabbing the baby and dashing off to another room every time the phone rings, wouldn't it be easier to take calls right in the kitchen? Let the baby go on eating while you talk. Kitchen phones come in 9 beautiful colors or standard black. For color, there's a one-time-only charge. Call the telephone business office.
