Ike Withholds Action, Sees Public Pressure On Schools

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower hopes public pressure will force reopening of closed schools in Arkansas and Virginia...

The President's position in the school shutdown controversy over racial integration was set forth at the summer White House late yesterday.

After a 40-minute meeting with Eisenhower, Atty. Gen. Rogers said a news conference in connection with the wait-and-see policy the President approved...

Rogers also talked of announced Justice Department plans to enlist the help of U.S. marshals for preservation of law and order in communities where there is resistance to admittance of Negroes to white schools.

But he did not rule out use of federal troops again if the marshals should find themselves unable to check violence such as broke out in Little Rock, Ark., a year ago.

In Little Rock, Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus commented: "I have always maintained that the use of federal troops is illegal. They know it is illegal and that is why they are trying to avoid it."

Faubus ordered four Little Rock high schools closed shortly after the Supreme Court last Friday called for integration to proceed without delay at Central High.

Reflecting the hope of the President and himself that public pressure will bring about reopening of the schools without legal intervention by the federal government, Rogers said in his statement...

"Such efforts indicate that the important human factors of good judgment and civic responsibility, to which the President has referred on several occasions in the past, are beginning to play a much more important role."

"It seems inconceivable that a state or community would rather close its public schools than comply with the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. The reports received from the communities involved indicate that the serious impact of what it means to have the public schools closed is beginning to be keenly felt and its significance more fully appreciated."

Rogers declined to provide any clue as to just what kind of legal action the federal government may take if the schools are not reopened without it.

In Virginia, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. commented when told of the administration hope that public pressure will force opening of the schools: "It is the old familiar technique of divide and conquer."

Then in a reference to Russia's Premier, Almond added: "I am sure this would meet with the full applause and approbation of Mr. Khrushchev."

At the summer White House, meanwhile, there was a chilly reception for a suggestion that Faubus would be willing to confer again with Eisenhower about Little Rock's integration troubles.

A reporter said Faubus was receptive to the idea, and asked how the President feels about such a meeting.

"He hasn't any reaction," said James C. Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary.

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Highway Department reported the following highway conditions today by districts:

Del Rio: State 55 closed by high water south of Rocksprings and at Nueces River in Uvalde County; State 76 closed at Nueces River in Zavala County; Ranch 334 closed in Kinney County, and Ranch 674 closed in Edwards County. All other highways open.

San Angelo: U.S. 377 closed between Junction and Rocksprings and Ranch 385 closed in Kimble County. Ranch 189 now open between June and U.S. 277.

Enrollment is continuing in several schools, although drop-outs also are beginning to show up on the attendance reports, the official reported. Cotton harvest operations are expected to result in considerable absenteeism in some schools.

Ford Workers Strike; Contract Talks Rushed

Heart Attack Wreck Cause?

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—An autopsy shows that heart disease contributed to the death of the engineer on the Jersey Central train that plunged into Newark Bay.

Another finding indicates that the train's brakes were not applied until it was within 300 feet of the open drawbridge.

The third coach of the train was recovered from the water today. Bodies of three men and a woman were taken from the coach. Divers found two other bodies floating nearby.

Recovery of the six bodies brought the death toll in Monday's disaster to 27. Another 19 persons, including the train's fireman, brakeman and conductor, are missing and presumed dead.

The railroad originally estimated 40 persons died in the crash. If all the missing are dead, the toll will reach 46.

The two engines of the train still were on the bottom of the bay.

An autopsy was performed Tuesday on the body of the engineer, Lloyd Wilburn, 63, of Red Bank.

Dr. Chester R. Rydwin, who performed the autopsy, listed the contributory causes of death as "hypertensive heart disease, pulmonary edema and congestion of the lungs."

A hypertensive heart condition is a weakened heart caused by high blood pressure. Pulmonary edema is congestion caused by fluid in the lungs which can result from a heart condition or drowning.

Dr. Francis Boyle, assistant Hudson County medical examiner, said the edema did not result from drowning in Wilburn's case.

A spokesman for the Jersey Central said its trains with two men in the cab are not equipped with a "dead man's control," a device that halts an engine immediately if the engineer releases his grip on the controls.

The commuter train's two locomotives and three of its coaches plunged into the bay from an open drawbridge Monday.

Divers, coastguardmen and police worked into the early hours today to raise the coach as floodlights played on the glittering water.

Bodies taken from the water and from the train were removed to the Hudson County morgue for identification.

The coach itself was lifted up and swung into a lighter, next to the two coaches that were recovered earlier.

Dr. Boyle was asked directly: "Did Mr. Wilburn suffer a heart attack?"

"Just about that," he replied. "Medical officials were careful to point out, however, that the exact cause of death will not be known until further tests are made."

The drawbridge operator, Patrick Corcoran, 55, said he had set the signals to halt the train and watched helplessly as it continued its approach.

An automatic derauling device had thrown the train off the rails 550 feet from the edge. It rolled along on the ties for 200 feet. Then the wheels bit hard into the ties, indicating a desperate last-second effort to halt the train.

Mystified officials strove to find out why the train did not halt on the bridge before it reached the gap. And why applied the brakes? And why weren't they applied sooner?

The disaster set off a series of investigations, including probes by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New Jersey Public Utility Commission.

The ICC ordered a public hearing in New York for tomorrow.

PENITENT THINKS OF UNCLE SAM

A repentant thief even remembered Uncle Sam when he sought to make amends for theft of a bottle of fingernail polish here.

Along with 20 cents to pay for the merchandise, the thief sent two pennies to cover the U. S. sales tax.

The money and a brief note were addressed to McCrory's Store, Big Spring, from Los Angeles, Calif.

"Here's 22 cents for a bottle of clear nail polish that I look from your store a few years ago. I'm awfully sorry," the sender wrote. The money was taped to the note, received today.

"The polish costs 20 cents," said J. V. Gregory, McCrory manager. "He figured in the tax, too. Now, I guess I owe Uncle Sam two cents."

ACKERLY ENROLLS 230

ACKERLY—Enrollment in Ackerly schools this fall has swelled to 230 according to Supt. R. N. Pierce. Included are 68 in high school. For the school year, a new science laboratory is being set up, and the school system added a new teacherage during the summer.

Pair Injured Today When Cars Collide

Two persons were injured this morning in a collision at 17th and Austin, but neither was seriously hurt.

Hospitalized were Mrs. Carolyn Kelley, 209 1/2 Harding, and Judy McCrory, 16, of 708 W. 16th. Mrs. Kelley, wife of A.Z.C. Clayton Kelley, is in the Webb AFB Hospital, while Miss McCrory is in Big Spring Hospital.

Cars driven by Mrs. Kelley and Jerry Bill Hutchens, 708 N. Scurry, collided at the intersection. Mrs. Kelley, driving a 1955 Ford, was proceeding north on Austin and Hutchens was going east on 17th. The cars collided in the center of the intersection, and force of the impact shoved the Kelley car into the yard on the northeast corner.

The car hit a tree which prevented it from crashing into the house. Mrs. Kelley was rushed to the base by a River ambulance, but she was not seriously hurt. She will be held over night for observation, however.

Miss McCrory was riding in the car driven by Hutchens, and the two were taken to Big Spring Hospital by a Nalley-Pickett ambulance. Hutchens wasn't hurt, and the girl only sustained cuts and bruises plus a fracture of one bone in her foot.

Another accident occurred this morning and involved vehicles driven by Clarence Daves, 818 W. 5th, and Wallace Taylor Jr. of Larcus. The mishap was at 4th and Gregg.

Four accidents occurred Tuesday. Betty Barr of Coahoma and L. R. Ray, 408 Austin, were in collision in the 300 block of Main. Alvin Vieregge, 1111 N. Gregg, and Gene Robertson, Odessa, collided at 300 E. 3rd. At 4th and Johnson, Mildred Puckett, Gail R. and Marilyn Moore, 403 Young, collided. An accident at 23rd and Gregg involved Sharon Nuckolls, 644 Manor, and J. W. Payne, Stanton.

Negotiations were in recess at General Motors and Chrysler. Talks there will resume this afternoon with both sides obviously awaiting the outcome of the Ford talks.

Any Ford settlement would set a pattern for the other two in the auto industry's Big Three.

When old contracts ran out over the Memorial Day weekend, Reuther had backed down from an original demand that new contracts include a profit-sharing plan.

He demanded a substantial U.N. Faces Issue Of Red Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N.'s powerful Steering Committee today faced up to its first major test—the question of seating Red China—after the election of Lebanon's pro-Western Charles Malik as General Assembly president.

Debate over the Red China issue undoubtedly will drag in the dispute over Nationalist China's offshore islands in the Formosa Strait.

Park Hill Parents' Proposals Denied

Request of Park Hill parents that their fifth and sixth grade pupils be returned to their home schools was rejected by school trustees last night.

The parents, led by Dr. George Peacock and others, last week protested the transfer of the pupils to Goliad Junior High after enrollment overflowed the Park Hill building. They suggested that the cafeteria be partitioned or that a temporary building be moved in to provide additional classrooms in the Park Hill campus.

Pupils also were transferred from Cedar Crest and Washington elementary schools to Goliad and Runnels Junior High schools as a result of overcrowding.

"It was felt that so long as adequate vacant classrooms existed, it was educationally sound to use those classrooms by pupil transfer in lieu of adopting a plan considered less satisfactory, i.e., half-day sessions, moving in temporary non-fireproof structures, partitioning existing facilities, et cetera."

In a statement read by Angel, trustees said that enrollment in several schools was greater than had been anticipated. Several plans for relieving overcrowded conditions were studied at four special meetings of the school board before the transfer plan was adopted, the statement said.

"This board of education is indeed sorry for any inconvenience created by pupil transfers. Please be assured that decisions of this board are made in the interest of system-wide pupil welfare," the statement said.

Trustees are going to consider the advisability of acquiring portable classrooms for use throughout the school district, Angel said in answering a question from R. E. McKinney about that phase of the Park Hill delegation's proposal.

Mercury Falls To Chilly 54

There was a variation of a full 30 degrees from the maximum temperature of 84 at mid-Tuesday afternoon to a chilly 54 degrees at 5 a.m. Wednesday.

Big Springs shivered in a chilly dawn and the temperature was still 57 degrees at 8 a.m. It was by far the coolest night of the current fall season.

The low compares with the all-time record of 41 which was registered in 1903. Highest temperature on this date in Big Spring was in 1911 when the temperature hit 102 degrees.

No measurable rain was reported for the past 24 hours at the U.S. Experiment Station.

FHA Conservation Loans Available

Loans for conservation measures are possible under the Farmers Home Administration, Fred T. Ross, county supervisor, pointed out Wednesday.

These loans are to help eligible farmers (whose requirements cannot be met from private sources) to carry out needed soil and water conservation measures such as terracing, improving pastures, drilling wells, developing farmstead water facilities and irrigation equipment.

In four such loans have been made in the amount of $30,551. Nationally, 7,391 loans for $43,100,000 have been granted. Congress made $5,500,000 available for this program this year. Applications may be made at the FHA office at 208 East 3rd St.

Nationalists Bust Blockade Again

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists succeeded today in delivering two more shipments of supplies to the besieged Quemoy Islands through a hail of Communist fire.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said two LSTs unloaded all their cargo without suffering damage.

The ships were escorted across Formosa Strait by Nationalist warships and by vessels of the U.S. 7th Fleet, which remained outside the three-mile limit as usual.

District Highway Conditions Reported

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Highway Department reported the following highway conditions today by districts:

School Enrollment Climbs, Teacher-Pupil Ratio High

Enrollment in the Big Spring schools has climbed to 6,329—an increase of 594 over the comparable date last year.

The elementary enrollment is up more than 400—from 3,635 at this time last year to 4,064 at present. The junior high load stands at 1,231, compared to 1,202 a year ago. The high school gain is 131—925 now, 794 last year. Lakeview High has 109 now, had 104 at this time in 1957.

The heavy enrollment, which already has been responsible for transfer of some Park Hill, Cedar Crest and Washington elementary pupils into less crowded areas, is resulting in what S. M. Anderson, assistant superintendent, terms an "alarmingly high" teacher-pupil ratio in the elementary schools.

The average, he said, is 30.61, which reflects a very heavy ratio in grades one and two.

"We are subject to warning from accreditation agencies because of overload in those grades," he said.

The fact that the school system has no visiting teacher (truancy officer) may explain the fact that junior high enrollment is little higher than it was a year ago, Anderson said. Enrollment in Runnels Junior High should be near 700. It now stands at 624.

Enrollment is continuing in several schools, although drop-outs also are beginning to show up on the attendance reports, the official reported. Cotton harvest operations are expected to result in considerable absenteeism in some schools.

Sewage Line Goes Back On Original Route

The contractor on the city's sewage line to the Capehart housing area was proceeding today along the route originally laid out after the city and two housing developers were unable to come to an agreement about rerouting the line.

The City Commission met for a special session Tuesday and talked to Cecil McDonald and Lloyd Curley about rerouting the line through property McDonald plans to develop. Originally, the line was slated to cross the Douglass Addition and go north for a short distance and then westward again on the south property line of the proposed M a r c y Elementary School.

However, Curley had asked that the line cut through McDonald property to the Old San Angelo Highway without making the cut northward to the school property. Curley wanted the line so as to develop a tract west of the road.

The meeting Tuesday was held to try to reach a definite agreement so the contractor, R. B. Hodgson, could proceed; he worked Tuesday in the City Park.

But the meeting failed to bring an agreement, so the line will not be changed. Curley proposed that board pay equal costs of a line to serve the school, but McDonald wouldn't agree. He said he had promised the schools the sewer line wouldn't cost the district anything.

As a result, Curley asked that a connection be made where the line turns north in the Douglas Addition so he can tie it with a line he plans to lay himself.

T&P's Main Line Restored

Only cleanup work remained today for the Texas & Pacific railway crews in the wake of Monday evening's big derailment just east of Odessa.

Workmen, held in check temporarily by washouts on either end of the pile-up of 22 freight cars, got in on the job by mid-morning and by 3:35 p.m. had trains passing on the main line.

There were no estimates on damage, but the total will be heavy. Included in the cars going into the flooded section which caused the wreck were several loaded with perishables.

T&P got a mild break in the other direction Wednesday when drawbar failure caused trucks on one car to derail at Judd, just west of Santo. The car did not go off the track and the mishap occurred at a point where trains could be routed on the passing track without delay.

THE OLIVER HOMEPLACE EAST OF LUTHER
Farm one of most productive in the county

MYSTERY FARM

Sid Oliver Family Has Owned Place At Luther Since 1924

Since 1924, last week's "Mystery Farm" has been in the Oliver family. And so far as Mrs. W. V. Boyles, who has charge of managing the farm, is concerned, there just aren't many better farms in the county.

Carved out of raw land purchased in 1924 by the late Mr. Sid Oliver, the farm has an unusual record for productivity. It's 586 acres are in relatively tight black soil that yields heavily in years of normal or better rainfall.

This is what is known as a "short section" and all but 100 acres of pasture have been put into cultivation. The cotton allotment is around 200 acres, and Mrs. Boyles put 100 acres of the land into the five-year conservation reserve as permanent pasture.

On several occasions the cotton land has made a bale to the acre and could push that figure this year.

Mr. Oliver farmed the place with teams a few years after he bought it, but he was one of the first farmers in the county to go to tractors. There are three wells on the place and one of them is good enough that some slight irrigation might be attempted. However, they are plenty adequate for domestic purposes. After he came here from Runnels County, Mr. Oliver acquired some land from the Anderson ranch and then got this home section from Tom McWhorter. He proceeded to build a four-room and bath residence which became the family home until he retired about 10 years ago. He died in 1956.

The farm land is terraced and practically all the rain that falls on the place is held to soak in. Just to give an idea how well it can do, the farm made about a bale to the acre in 1953—a dry year. The crop was made on a planting rain and the sub-seasoning left from the previous year.

It is conveniently located, just a mile east of the Luther gin and on the paved road.

Since Mr. Oliver retired, only two men, Ralph Smith and Van Owens, have operated the place. Children of Mrs. Oliver operate surrounding places, but the old home place has been kept intact.

More Rains Hit Texas

By The Associated Press

More rains fell over Texas Tuesday night and Wednesday, swelling South Texas rivers to threatening proportions and closing roads and highways.

Rain hit Cotulla, San Antonio, Junction, Longview and Tyler Wednesday while Houston, Lufkin and College Station had fog.

Moisture fell Tuesday along the Gulf Coast and as far north as Amarillo and the Sherman-Denison area. Rain also hit Eagle Pass, northern Mexico and Central Texas.

The heavy rains in the Eagle Pass area and northern Mexico sent the Rio Grande on a rise at Eagle Pass. It was still far short of serious flooding, but residents kept a wary eye on flood waters coming down from the El Paso area.

The Weather Bureau warned that more rain would cause flash floods along the upper Nueces, upper Frio and Sabinal Rivers. Downpours earlier also threatened to flood streams in the Colorado River watershed west of Austin.

Abilene reported 1.05 inches, Perrin AFB in the Sherman-Denison area 1.36 inches and Del Rio 1.75 Tuesday.

Four inches fell Tuesday at Eagle Pass, Llano got an inch and heavier falls were reported in the area.

Some state and U.S. highways were closed in Uvalde and Kinney counties Tuesday by high water. The cool front blamed for most of the rain lay along a northeast-southwest line Wednesday from between Tyler and Longview to an area east of Austin and San Antonio. It continued to move southeast.

Painting Job Is Finished

With a few minor exceptions, the City Auditorium repainting job has been completed.

The city manager, along with Olen Puckett, the architect, inspected the auditorium Monday and found it satisfactory with a few minor items yet to be completed. The auditorium had been cleaned by the contractors, the Sundry brothers, but there were a few places which needed additional cleaning.

The painting was done as part of city hall and auditorium remodeling work authorized by city voters in August of 1955. The repainting contract also called for sanding and restaining the stage floor.

Draperies have been ordered by the city from Good Housekeeping Furniture Store here, and the firm notified the city Monday that the drapes have been shipped. No delay in getting them lined and installed is expected.

As a part of the remodeling, the city is considering new covers for the seats plus restraining the backs.

The city also has plans to purchase new spotlighting equipment before the first Civic Concert Assn. program in October.

First Space Trip Delayed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Man's first space journey has been indefinitely postponed. Too much radiation.

So says Dr. Albert R. Hibbs, chief of research analysis at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. A band of radiation surrounding the earth is much more intense than was believed, he reported Tuesday.

Dr. Hibbs, back from the International Astronautical Federation convention in Amsterdam, said the intensity was disclosed by the U.S. satellites Explorers I and II and reported in detail by Explorer IV.

He told a California Disaster Office meeting: "Until we can set the boundaries for this radiation field, we cannot even estimate the amount of protective shielding which will be required to enable a man to travel safely through this extremely hostile environment."

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Nine-year-old John McDermott Jr. ran into the back of a car going the same way he was running. That's what the boy's father told city police while John was being treated at a hospital for a bump on his head. It seems young John stirred up a wasp nest and had to move fast.

DEAR ABBY

RUN RAGGED!

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been a sales person in women's dresses for twenty-two years and I still want to know what the customer means when she says, "That is not what I had in mind?" I show them dresses that are the latest fashion and when they try them on they look simply beautiful, and still they look in the mirror and turn around and say, "Sorry—that is not what I had in mind." If they want a dress of a certain color or style, I bring it. I never misfit anybody. Now, if they don't want to buy a dress, what are they doing in a dress shop? Can YOU tell me what they had in mind?

SALES PERSON
DEAR SALES PERSON: They are probably just killing time—and the only thing they had in mind was to drive you out of yours.

DEAR ABBY: When a boy calls me up and asks me to go somewhere and I don't want to go with him, I never know what to say. I usually stutter a little and make an excuse like, "We're having company." My father says I should just tell them I don't want to go out with them, but that's too embarrassing. What is your advice?
DEAR STUMPED: It is too unkind to tell a boy bluntly that you don't want to go out with him. An excuse (like the one you offer) is more gentle. After you've turned down a boy three or four times, he will catch on and give up. In the meantime, he's salvaged his pride.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer "Mother of Seven" who was all for Grandma's hard, natural child-bearing method who said, "Brave the pain and like it!" Your reply was superb and correct. I can never stop grieving for a lovely school teacher mamma who bore her eleven babies in a farmhouse. She screamed loud enough so that we children were terrified. At 47 she died, her last attempt to bear a child. She buried six. Thank God today we are enlightened and Medical Science has made a childbearing practically painless.

THANKFUL
DEAR ABBY: One of our neighbors is really a terrific person when it comes to handling children. She has a wonderful disposition and nothing bothers her. All the neighborhood children love to go to her house because she plays games with them and tells them stories and they adore her. Our problem is this: She can leave dishes in her sink for a week and never trouble to make her beds or sweep up. Her kitchen is always a mess and she insists on feeding our children. I get sick when I think that my children eat over there. How can I tell her not to feed my children from her filthy kitchen without hurting her feelings?

TACTFUL
DEAR TACTFUL: First instruct your children that they are not to eat "between meals" and if they get hungry to come home. Then tell your neighbor that your children have promised not to eat between meals and she could help by not offering them anything.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married three years and our biggest problem is my parents. I admit they are a pretty shabby lot (morally) but they are still my parents and I can't ignore them. My husband has gotten to the point where he absolutely refuses to have anything to do with them. I don't say he is wrong. They use terribly vulgar language and ask questions that are none of their business. They have also borrowed money from him and have made no attempt to return it. But, Abby, these are my parents! How can I get him to go along with me when I visit them?
UNHAPPY
DEAR UNHAPPY: An unwilling guest makes pretty poor company. Leave him alone and visit them on your own time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DORIS:

Hale-Aikin Group Sets Oct. 15 Meet

AUSTIN (AP)—The Hale-Aikin Committee will meet here Oct. 15 to draft a final report to the Legislature on the school needs of the state.

The committee has approved, basically the subcommittee reports on the school program, teacher supply, school construction and yesterday passed the school finance report.

Cost estimates—to be determined more specifically by the Texas Education Agency before Oct. 15—run around 120 million dollars a year, Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi, vice-chairman, said the overall program meant a quarter of a billion dollar tax bill for expanding the educational program.

By a vote of 9-6, the committee recommended the state turn down federal money available for the vocational education and school lunch and milk programs. Federal aid for these programs amounts to about nine million dollars annually.

The committee said the local school districts should provide the school lunchrooms and the food should be paid for by the parents of the children. It did recommend that the state furnish money to replace federal funds involved in the vocational education program. Charles Simons of Dallas, chairman of the finance subcommittee, and Stone Wells of Houston were the only members voting for the subcommittee recommendation to transfer one per cent of the permanent school fund yearly to the available school fund. The Board of Education has opposed the transfer which was put in effect temporarily by the last Legislature. Board President Thomas Jarney said "now is not the proper time to start decimating the public school fund."

These are other key proposals which have been made by the committee:

1. A school year at least two weeks and possibly four weeks longer than at present.
2. An increase of about $800 a year in teachers' salaries.
3. Each district to provide additional classrooms necessary by raising its assessments and without taking federal aid.
4. Allow the permanent school fund to be invested in corporate stocks and bonds.
5. Provide in-city transportation to school regardless of place of residence.

6. Allow teachers with master's degrees to reach the top salary bracket in 15 years instead of 26 years.

Plane Crash Fatal To 3

ALICE (AP)—A twin-engined plane crashed in a muddy field near here yesterday, killing 3 persons.

The plane belonged to Esteve Hermanos, a cotton company of Matamoros, Mexico.

The dead were identified as Robert Boswell of Port Isabel, Tex., the pilot; Paul Heiligenthal, 33, of Mexicali, Mexico; and Hans von Hennings, 26, a German employed in the company's Matamoros office.

A spokesman for Esteve Brothers of Dallas, an associated company, said the plane had left Matamoros en route to Dallas.

Deputy Sheriff C. J. Floyd quoted a witness as saying "There was some kind of explosion and the wings fell off and the plane flopped over and crashed on its back."

12 Texas Colleges Sell $12 Million In Bond Effort

AUSTIN (AP)—A last-minute effort by 12 tax-supported colleges yesterday brought about the sale of $12,375,948 in building bonds.

President J. C. Matthews of North Texas State and head of the committee of governing boards which recommended the sale said: "We needed to sell Texas Women's University, Texas A&I, several teachers' colleges and, I believe, Lamar Tech already had authorized contracts for construction."

A syndicate made up of Phelps-Penn & Co., Lehman Brothers & Co., Glore Forgan & Co., and associates paid a $29,200 premium for the three per cent 8-year bonds. The schools originally offered for sale about $17,500,000 bonds with a 10-year maturity but they had no bidders, not even at the constitutional maximum of three per cent interest.

A tight bond market was blamed for the failure of the full sale, said Ben Woolton of Dallas, North Texas State board of directors chairman. The schools reoffered the bonds for sale on an option as to the maturity date.

Low bidder as the paying agency was the First National Bank of Dallas with Chemical Corn Exchange Bank of New York City as co-payer. Their bid was announced at one-eighth of the price contract.

The institutions sold $15,400,000 worth of building bonds in April at 2.07 per cent interest, Matthews said. The issue is part of the constitutional tax bonds

Governing boards of these institutions authorized the sale of their bonds at the maximum three per cent interest:

Texas State Teachers; East Texas, Commerce; Sam Houston, Huntsville; Southwest Texas, San Marcos; West Texas, Canyon; Stephen F. Austin, Nacogdoches; $4,460,000; Texas Tech, Lubbock, $2,970,000; North Texas, Denton, $2,365,000; Lamar Tech, Beaumont, $725,000; Texas A & I, Kingsville, $935,000; Texas Woman's University, Denton, $760,000; and Texas Southern, Houston, $160,000.

A Bible Thought For Today

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. (Galatians 6:7)

Let's Make War On The Mice

Although we apparently have not been afflicted to the extent of some of our neighboring cities—such as Abilene, for instance—we need to be alert to the menace of an unprecedented rodent infestation.

On every hand you hear that the presence of mice is much heavier than before. Here and there are reports of an increasing rat population, too.

Conditions have been favorable for propagation during the past two years. Last year's results went virtually unnoticed because they simply re-established the base stock, but with this foundation, the mathematics of rodent breeding have rocketed the rat and mice census to almost astronomical figures.

Now that the weather is turning cooler, these creatures are abandoning nests in the fields for warmer quarters in barns, garages, residences and business houses. This mass migration also puts the creatures nearer to food supplies.

Granted that no one wants rodents around the place because they create great economic losses and because they leave a loathsome evidence of their presence, there is still one more consuming reason for vigilance against them. That is health.

We have not yet seen accounts of any of the dead or captured specimens having lice, but they easily could. Not so many years ago we had an outbreak of typhus which almost got out of hand before the community realized that lice-bearing rodents were spreading this malady. To prevent this from happening now, the forces of all the community need to be marshalled to action.

Without the final adjustments and the ultimate reports as a basis, comment upon the net results of the revaluation work would be ill-founded.

While those who have been raised so sharply in assessed valuations would probably dissent violently, we believe that one result of the re-appraisal has been the establishing of the fact that revaluation needs to be done at more frequent intervals.

Some exceptional increases have come out of the present campaign, and whether they are justified or not is something we leave to more competent testimony than ours. Undoubtedly some of the figures have been unrealistic as witness adjustments by the appraising engineers and the boards of equalization, and undoubtedly there will be some inequities remaining despite the best efforts of all concerned. In time these can be largely ironed out.

A more frequent readjustment of values, up or down, as values change, will avoid much of the shock which has attended many cases under the present program.

Recently a master planning engineer told an audience here that master planning was done on a 20-year basis, but with the expectation that it would be revamped every five years. The same would apply to valuations. Waiting 17 years is too long.

Absorbing The Shock At One Time

The thing which has generated the most reaction was not that current values fixed on property were wholly unrealistic or unrelated to comparable property, but rather that the percentage of increase was so great. The thing behind a lot of this was the interval of time since the last comprehensive revaluation—from 1941 to 1958. Not a few pieces of property absorbed all the change in values of that period within this one year.

Without the final adjustments and the ultimate reports as a basis, comment upon the net results of the revaluation work would be ill-founded.

While those who have been raised so sharply in assessed valuations would probably dissent violently, we believe that one result of the re-appraisal has been the establishing of the fact that revaluation needs to be done at more frequent intervals.

David Lawrence The Proposition Of 'Settled Law'

WASHINGTON—The state of Arkansas has not "defied" the Supreme Court of the United States by closing the high schools in Little Rock. Nor has the state of Virginia committed any act of "defiance" by closing schools.

The federal government has not "defied" the states of Arkansas and Virginia by supporting plans that seek through the courts a means of reopening the public schools.

Each is acting within its own constitutional orbit. The exercise of legal rights to contest the validity of state or federal action is not "defiance." The federal Constitution itself permits these legal procedures.

It is erroneously being preached that there is only a "moral question" involved and that the states of the South are disregarding it when they contest by legal means the orders of a federal court requiring "integration" in the public schools.

Although Abraham Lincoln had always held that the Southern states had never been out of the Union, Congress—after his death and three years after the war between the states was over—insisted that the Southern states be excluded from representation in the House and Senate. So when the Fourteenth Amendment was voted on, there was no representation in either house from many states in the union. Also, when the state legislatures in the South—subsequent to the war—ratified the Thirteenth Amendment abolishing slavery but rejected the Fourteenth Amendment, Congress caused new legislatures to be elected with most white voters excluded, and then, with federal military commanders sitting alongside the presiding officers in the legislative sessions of the state legislatures, "ratification" of the Fourteenth Amendment was compelled.

In case after case the Supreme Court of the United States has always evaded the issue of whether the Fourteenth Amendment was constitutionally "ratified" and has said that this is a "political question" and not within its power to resolve.

Many people are saying that all this happened long ago and that it isn't feasible to turn the clock back now. The present Supreme Court, however, in its 1954 decision, did turn the clock back 58 years and nullified the "settled law" of the land on the question of "equal but separate" facilities which had been upheld by some of the most eminent men who ever sat on the high court, including its greatest liberals.

What is "settled law"? Abraham Lincoln defined it as something that has been initially decided by the Supreme Court when the issue was first raised, and then "affirmed and reaffirmed" in decisions for years afterwards. Thus, it is "settled law" today that no state can be compelled to appropriate money or keep schools open or do any affirmative thing just because the federal government may want to see it done. The "settled law" on this point was proclaimed in a decision known as Hopkins vs. Clemson College, decided in 1911, when Justice Lamar wrote in behalf of the Court: "No suit, therefore, can be maintained against a public officer which seeks to compel him to exercise the state's power of taxation; or to pay out its money in his possession on the state's obligations; or to execute a contract, or to do any affirmative act which affects the state's political or property rights."

But will this be accepted as "settled law" by the present Supreme Court of the United States in the Arkansas and Virginia cases? Can anything be considered "settled" when the highest court departs from legal precedents and decides cases on the basis of what is "desirable"—the philosophy that the end justifies the means? There was prophetic vision in a famous dissent by Justice Edward D. White of the Supreme Court, who later became chief justice, as he wrote: "Teach the lesson that settled principles may be overturned at any time, and confusion and turmoil must ultimately result."

"If the permanency of its conclusions is to depend upon the personal opinions of those who, from time to time, may make up its membership, it will inevitably become a theater of political strife, and its action will be without coherence or consistency."

"Break down this belief in judicial continuity, and let it be felt that on great constitutional questions this court is to depart from the settled conclusions of its predecessors, and to determine them all according to the mere opinion of those who temporarily fill its bench, and our Constitution will, in my judgment, be bereft of value, and become a most dangerous instrument to the rights and liberties of the people."

Battlefront Artist

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A Madison garage has yielded a collection of original battlefront sketches and field note books of a once widely-known Civil War artist. Raymond Simplot, whose grandfather, Alexander Simplot, sketched war scenes for Harper's Weekly magazine, found the material and turned it over to the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The sketches were made between April, 1861, and Jan. 10, 1863, of events in the war along the Mississippi river.

Not Helping Them Concentrate

James Marlow War Of Nerves Here And Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is now waging a war of nerves at home and abroad.

Overseas, it's against the Red Chinese. At home, it's against state governors who are trying to prevent integration of public schools.

In both cases it's administration policy not to fire the first shot—real abroad, legal at home—in the hope pressure will win the day.

President Eisenhower has warned the Chinese Communists not to get so tough as to try to take the Quemoy and Matsu islands by force.

The Street Called Straight

Snaps from a traveler's album: It is only a short walk, but it crosses 2,000 years and brings you to a street called Straight.

You leave the modern section of Damascus, the hotels, theaters and department stores, and walk toward the east. The pavement ends. Soon you come to a narrow street. There are no signs, but without asking, you know its name.

"Go into the street called Straight." It runs straight as an arrow through the bazaar to the crumbling remains of the city's old wall. How old? Nobody knows.

When Alexander Pope so translated Horace, he had no thought, you can be sure, of Mao Tse Tung, Chou En-lai, Generalissimo Chiang, John Foster Dulles, or the beleaguered islands of Quemoy and Matsu. Yet he took a fair measure of U. S. defense economics after World War II. We've spread and swelled over ourselves to the brink of war over two tiny islands off the China mainland.

Voters in September can use current voting lists; after Oct. 1 new lists would be needed.

It's hard to see the practical effect of a "no" vote, since the Supreme Court last Friday refused to delay earlier orders for integration at Central High School.

But two can play in a war of nerves. And the Eisenhower administration can only hope things get better instead of worse in Arkansas and Virginia, as well as around Quemoy and Matsu.

Pinups To Pintos

WEST ORANGE, N. J. (AP)—As a painter, Allen F. Brewer Jr. has gone from pinups to pintos. He is now one of the country's leading painters of horses. But two decades ago Brewer worked his way through Yale painting pinup girls with innocent pastoral scenes on the other side that could be switched when parents came to visit.

He has since moved from here to Kentucky but on a recent visit he says he still does pinups—on the backs of playing cards.

Just Play It By Ear

My friend Beauregard Mountbatten (Curley) Keese, commenting on football forensics by coaches, raises this question: "Why don't they cut a tape on that stuff?"

Now that's a good idea. I herewith offer a script for same, chronologically and historically. It's not copyrighted, and any coach is welcome to use it.

Aug. 15—"We're going to have a pretty fair squad. We'll have greater depth but be a bit short on speed. The boys have been working hard, are eager to get going and ought to be in prime shape."

Aug. 20—"I never saw spirit higher. The boys checked out their equipment today and went through some light calisthenics, and they were full of pep. We really ought to be ready."

Sept. 1—"We've got two key kids hurt. I don't know what's the matter with the players, but they just aren't coming around like they ought to."

Sept. 2—"We lost three more boys through injuries. I never saw a worst conditioned squad. They must have been training on cream puffs and late hours. I wonder if we'll have enough to suit out."

Sept. 3—"We'll never make it. They'll clobber us. Two of my best boys are laying out with some minor injuries—fractured arms or something another. No spirit!"

Sept. 10—"You've got to give these poor little who are left credit for desire. They want to go—but they just haven't got it. It tears your heart out."

Sept. 13—"I don't know why I let them talk me into booking Zlich High for the first game. Those boys are heavy and fast. Why, they've got 10 lettermen returning and are a cinch to win their district—maybe the state. I just hope we can manage somehow to hold the score to a reasonable figure."

Sept. 15—"I'm proud of my boys. I knew we could upset them. We had it all figured out if they ran from that old split Q-box formation we could turn 'em inside. They fell right into the trap."

Sept. 18—"I never saw a worse crippled team. Those Zlich linemen punished us plenty. I don't see how I'll ever get 11 men ready by Friday."

Sept. 20—"They're slow, sluggish! I don't know what's happened to the old desire. Only the fourth stringers want to play."

Sept. 21—"If we're lucky, we might play a decent game—just on grit. Naw, I don't believe that stuff about their star tail-back begin out with a broken leg or their all-state tackle having pneumonia. They're sleepers, that's what. That bunch coming Friday had rather beat us than win all the rest this season."

Sept. 22—"Well, we fooled 'em. Like we figured—we played dead for two quarters until they made a mistake—and boy were we ready! How about that 80-yard run? We practiced blocking on that all week."

Sept. 24—"Well, this is the week we're going to catch it. I've been dreading this one all season. Three of the boys are in the hospital with epizootus. My star wing-back has cement in his head when it comes to mathematics; I doubt he'll even be eligible. My linemen have gone to practicing brotherly love. For the life of me, I don't know why I left the farm."

You can take it from there and play it by ear.

Inez Robb You Can't Tell The Winner In Yacht Race

The designation of the yacht Columbia to defend the America's Cup against the British challenger beginning next Saturday has left my respiration normal. Naturally, as a true-blue American I wish her luck. But I have seen a yacht race.

The trouble with yacht racing for the simon-pure amateur who can barely paddle his own canoe is that it is impossible to tell who's on first.

In such simple sports as football, baseball, horse racing, boxing and tennis, any idiot can keep track of the score and know instantly, when the game is over, which side has walked off with the ham. But yacht racing strongly resembles wrassling (and it will do the New York Yacht Club no good to sue). It is full of trickery, deceit and low cunning. And when a race is over, the announcement of the winner is delayed until the judges consult a stop watch, slide rule, book of logarithms and their consciences. (The losing side always insists the judges are lacking all four.)

To the uninitiated, yacht racing is the most confusing of spectator sports. Very often contestants compound the felony by racing in exactly opposite directions, a situation that would have grounded Native Dancer, John Landy or Barney Oldfield for good. This is where the stop watch and the slide rule come in.

Another subtle confusion arises from the fact that anything is a "gentleman's sport," yet anything goes. Anything, that is, except actually ramming and sinking a rival. It is quite proper for one yacht to sail close enough to the other to take the wind out of its sails, plainly a form of premeditated grand larceny.

The permissible higger-muggier also allows one yacht to skid so near another as to force the second to change its course, a tactic that would be known as interference, if not assault and battery, in any less-eloquent contest.

It is not too much to say that the last America's Cup races, off Newport in August, 1937, played a vital part in my subsequent career. They definitely convinced me that sports writing was not my métier. The United States Coast Guard also gave a mighty assist in that decision.

It was the whim of a city editor to send me to Newport in 1937 to cover the races, on the theory that the observations of a novice would be unusual. They were, too. I never did get the hang of it, or know who was doing what and to whom "way off yonder in the blue Atlantic. I suspect no one else knew, either.

It was my luck to be with the press contingent assigned to follow the races in the Coast Guard cutter Chelan. It was her cuisine that discouraged me with sports reporting. Always when the sea was choppiest, the odor of salt pork and beans would waft from the galley. Probably that was the only thing the chef could cook, that and a kind of hard-tack apple pie with cheese.

Anyway, there was wholesale fasting and abstinence among the press corps on the Chelan. It is just possible that my jaundiced view of yachting as a sport stems from her menu, especially when all around me parties on decks of spectator-yachts were feasting on champagne, lobster salad and mounds of raspberry ice.

There was only one thing of which I was certain throughout this experience—all the yachts were at sea, and so was I.

Pinups To Pintos

Even though U. S. security outlays are approaching $50 billion, the quantity of security purchased has been on a buying-power plateau ($28-$29 billion in 1948 prices) for five years. That's because the purchasing power of the dollar has dropped.

Defense—ability to speak softly and get what you want—cannot be measured in dollars. It can only be measured in results. And so far, the results have been unsatisfactory. The Chinese Communists refer to the United States as a "paper tiger." President Eisenhower has to rush Marines to Lebanon after a pro-Nasser palace revolt in Iraq. And now Quemoy.

The postwar lesson is plain. The Soviet Union never let up the pressure. It reduced manpower under arms, but only in accord with its international aims. The United States, on the contrary, put prosperity before a police force.

In interviews, Khrushchev invariably deplores the waste of money on armament. He would much rather, he declares, use Soviet materials and Soviet manhours for peaceful production to raise the standards of living of people at home. But he keeps turning out planes, tanks, submarines, and Soviet equipment both up in the hands of Nasser or Mao. Collaterally, U. S. arms reach Tito in Yugoslavia, the Israelis, and the Lebanese. Arms, unfortunately, overflow into use.

A nation with great economic resources can afford consistent outlays for security. It can't afford inconsistency. The U. S. can even afford an arms race—if necessary, if Khrushchev insists. Only through "steady-does-it" can we hope to impress Khrushchev that the quickest and cheapest way to grant the Russian people a better standard of living is to make peace, not talk peace and fashion wars. Then nuclear power can be planned to raise man's level of living rather than to level living men.

Rebekahs Adopt Welfare Project

Members of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge have adopted a project for adding to the treasury. Proceeds from the sale of Christmas cards will go into the fund for the lodge's welfare work.

This was decided at a meeting of the group in Carpenters Hall Tuesday evening. Mrs. Byron Smith, treasurer, submitted her resignation from the lodge, as she is to move to Odessa soon.

Mrs. H. F. Jarrett urged members to subscribe for International Rebekah, the oldest exclusive Rebekah magazine. On the subscription committee are Mrs. Jarrett, Mrs. Alma George and Mrs. Grace Grandstaff.

Drill practice was announced for the next meeting, with Mrs. Jones Lamar to be the director. Visits to the sick were reported by the 28 members attending.

Truman Rakes Press For Bad Job Of Reporting On Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry S. Truman said today "the myth of Democratic extravagance and Republican thrift would be exploded" if the press did a better job of informing the public about the budget.

The former Democratic President, here for the start of a speech-making tour on behalf of New York state Democrats, made the remark in an address prepared for delivery at the New York Advertising Club.

The occasion was a club luncheon celebrating the 50th anniversary of the University of Missouri's School of Journalism.

Truman, whose home is in Independence, Mo., said: "The press has the job of informing the people. This is not always the same thing as 'getting the news.'"

"In great public affairs," he continued, "a practice of printing just the clashes or controversies may be a long way from informing the public as to what the issues really are."

"It is surprising what just a little factual background will do for a news story."

He said the average newspaper reader, "if you asked him, would probably tell you: (1) that Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal were wildly extravagant, (2) that the Democrats never balanced the budget, (3) that the Republicans are very economical, and (4) that even if the present administration has had to carry heavy domestic expenditures, it has cut domestic expenses to the bone."

"These are all myths, the legacy of 25 years of reading inadequate public information about the budget," Truman said.

He said the biggest New Deal budget before defense spending began was in 1939 and totaled $8,658,000,000. "Compare that with our present budget of 74 billion dollars," he said.

"Of course, the dollar was worth more in 1939, but even if you double and triple Roosevelt's peak New Deal budget, you don't come to more than a third of today's programs."

"And now let's take the idea that the Democrats never balanced the budget," he went on. "Over the four peacetime fiscal years between 1946 through 1951, the budget ran a net surplus of over four billion dollars. In fiscal year 1951, the first year of the Korean conflict, there was a budget surplus of 3 1/2 billion dollars."

"The great defense program of 1952 and 1953 unbalanced the budget again. But in the so-called peacetime years of my successor in the presidency, the budget has shown a surplus in two years only."

and the net deficit for the period — until fiscal 1952 — is over six billion dollars. For fiscal 1959 I believe a deficit of over 12 billion dollars is expected, which will be the biggest deficit in history, except for the years of World War II.

"I cite those figures not in a spirit of partisan pride or animosity, but simply to suggest that if they were widely known, as they ought to be, the myth of Democratic extravagance and Republican thrift would be completely exploded."

Faubus Slaps Presbyterians

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus Tuesday attacked segments of the clergy as left-wingers and repeated his defiance of the federal government in Little Rock's seething integration dispute.

Faubus told a newsman, in reply to a question about some Presbyterian ministers' opposition to his policies, that he knew a large number of pastors in that church had been brainwashed by left-wingers and Communists.

He added that he firmly believed some clergymen were supporters of Communist views.

Angered by the charge, a group of Arkansas Presbyterian ministers and laymen issued a denial and a demand for Faubus' apology.

Rains Dampen Areas Of U. S.

By The Associated Press

Persistent late summer rains continued to dampen sections from Texas to New England today in the wake of the stormy weather and heavy downpours in Texas and Missouri.

Tornadoes skipped across areas in Missouri Tuesday, causing extensive property damage. There were no casualties. Torrential rains drenched southwestern sections of the state as well as in the southern half of Texas, where more than 5 inches were recorded in some areas.

Rains hammered wide areas in the middle and lower Mississippi Valley and Eastern Texas. The wet belt extended eastward along a front through the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes region and New England.

In the Missouri storm belt, one small tornado struck South St. Louis, damaging several homes. More than 2 1/2 inches of rain fell during the storm. At least three other twisters were reported in southwest Missouri, west of Joplin, south of Cahoon and southeast of El Dorado Springs.

Engineer Points Up Texas Underground Water Issue

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas receives enough rainfall to meet its needs for the next 52 years but must develop programs for its storage and proper use, an official of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation estimates.

Harry Burleigh of Austin, area engineer, also warned the state faces the loss of up to 80 per cent of its underground water use for irrigation.

He estimated the state in the next 50 years will need 12 million acre-feet of water each year for municipal and industrial use and for irrigation if it is to develop the full potential of its economy.

"This is about three times the 1956 use of surface water for these purposes," he said in an address to the Water for Texas conference at Texas A&M yesterday.

"The problem is holding enough mation, he said, indicate there are about 1.5 million new acres suitable for irrigation along Texas streams and rivers. They include 250,000 acres in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and 600,000 acres on the coastal prairie near Corpus Christi and Alice.

He listed other major areas of possible irrigation development as alluvial lands along the Trinity River below Dallas and a large area between the Lower Brazos and Colorado Rivers.

Gov. Daniel told the conference he believed Texas has dissolved disagreements over the solution of the state's water problem and is attacking the problem both through cooperative development of present resources and long range planning.

Gov. George Clyde of Utah also called for long range comprehensive programs. He said Texas water problems are a miniature of the national water problem.

The Power to Ask Protects Your Right to Know

Every day some policy-makers in government, or leaders in other walks of life, make decisions which vitally affect your future and that of your family.

In many countries of the world you would be forced to follow these dictums blindly, unable to ask why, or in many cases unable even to know that they had been made.

In America, everyone with public responsibility knows he must be prepared to answer for his actions. He knows that your representative—the skilled reporter of the daily newspaper—will appear, pencil in hand, to ask pertinent questions that he had better be prepared to answer.

Every day your newspaper, through its reporters and wire services, covers a multitude of newsfronts probing for answers to the whys and wherefores of actions that affect your job, your home, your family and your safety.

The answers published in your daily newspaper are not fleeting messages, but are an indelible record that give you and your neighbors the basis for discussion and for rendering the ultimate decision on unpopular and unjust actions.

Thus your daily newspaper is an extension of your power to ask questions about policies that affect you. The answers furnish you the basis for constructive action built on an informed judgment.

SAILORS IN CUP RACE ARE TOLD TO CLAM UP

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A strict gag rule was imposed on crew members of the Sceptre and the British withdrew into a tight little shell today—three days before they make their bid for the America's Cup.

"No interviews with our sailors, starting immediately," said the traveling secretary and press attaché of the mission at a news conference. "This is an order from the syndicate. Our yachtsmen have been told not to talk."

The attaché, Tad Beddington, said there would be one mild exception. Lt. Cmdr. Graham Mana, helmsman of the challenging yacht, will attend a press conference tomorrow, but even then he will not have full freedom. Syndicate members will supervise the session.

This latest directive is in line with the cloak-and-dagger secrecy which has marked Britain's attempt to recapture the cup which has resided on these shores for 107 years.

The Sceptre will meet the United States' Columbia Saturday in the first race of a best-of-seven race series between trim 12-meter boats—successors to the majestic, million-dollar "J" boats which last competed for the trophy in 1937.

Since the schooner America whipped a fleet of British yachts around the Isle of Wight in 1851, there have been 16 attempts to recover the simple trophy, none successful.

The Sceptre was built under wartime security in Scotland by an 11-man syndicate of the Royal Yacht Squadron. She never has had an official race while Columbia has logged 692 nautical miles in 29 competitions. Virtually nothing is known of Sceptre's speed or her crew.

"We don't want any of the foolishness and bitterness which has marked some of the races in the past," said the Sceptre's designer, a silver-haired Scotsman named David Boyd. "We want everything to be of the pleasantest nature."

This perhaps explains the gag order. Feuding for the trophy in the past produced protests, bitter fights and rancor on both sides.

Forsan Veterans

Two of the stalwarts in the Forsan High School football lineup are George White (18), quarterback; and Charles Skeen (87), an end, pictured above. The Buffaloes, who play slight-man football, have already won two decisions in a non-conference outing with Knott in Forsan. It will be their first home game.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

I think the coloring schemes of some of our state's high school football teams are strictly bush, and by accident.

The coaches have set about to make the numbers on the uniforms blend as closely as possible with the jerseys themselves. They work on the theory that scouts in the stands will have trouble following this player and that and thus will not be able to give an entirely adequate report to their head coaches once they return with the information they have gathered.

The uniforms of the Big Spring Steers don't photograph well, mainly because they are black against a black background, but no one could ever accuse the coaches of trying to confuse the issue through poor lettering.

It's easy for spectators and scouts or anyone else present to follow the local players, because the numbers fairly leap out at you. With the San Antonio Edison club which played here, however, it was something else again. The Edison coloring plan appeared to be light red on grey. Under the lights, once the players had skidded across the grass, the numbers seemed to disappear entirely.

The spectators, who purchase programs to distinguish between one boy and another, and who, after all, pay the freight at ball games, deserve a better break.

The programs themselves, by the way, need closer scrutiny before they are placed on the press.

Purchasers prefer that the numbers of the boys to be placed numerically in order. When they're not, as was the case here last week, then the spectators find they have to spend more time seeking out the identity of the players than they do watching the game itself, and they don't like that.

There were also a few incorrect numbers in the program. These should be changed before the next game.

If he keeps improving, this Freddie Brown, who is only a sophomore, could take his place as one of the great ball carriers in Big Spring High School football history before he's through.

All the Steer mentors are very high on him. He averaged over ten yards a carry in five tries against Edison here the other night in his first varsity competition.

At one time, Big Spring had an all-sophomore backfield in action that looked tremendous. Other members of the soph backfield were quarterback Tommy Whitley, Carey King and Jerry Dunlap.

Frogs, Steers Picked To Win Grid Debuts

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Most experts agree there will be confusion galore at the start of the 1958 college football season because of the change in value of some conversions, the almost two-platoon substitution rule and the one-arm blocking.

Those experts are correct. There is confusion. Here are the first selections of the season to prove it.

Georgia Tech over Kentucky: Both teams are bouncing back from poor seasons but Tech will bounce the higher with Fred Brellerton ticketed for stardom.

Missouri over Vanderbilt: You can see this one for yourself on your TV screen. Coach Dan Devine brings his multiple offensive technical to the Tiger campus and gets off with a victory.

Washington State over Stanford: Bobby Newman, Washington State quarterback, was the nation's leading ground gainer last year and is back for more action. Stanford's entire backfield was graduated.

Penn State over Nebraska: The Pennsylvania Lions are mature at every position while Nebraska still is trying to learn the single wing plays added to the Huskers split-T formation of the past.

UCLA over Pittsburgh: Lack of expert tackles will hurt Panthers in this inter-sectional clash.

North Carolina over North Carolina State: Coach Jim Tatum has 22 lettermen back and admits this is the best team he has had since starting coach at North Carolina. State whipped the Tar Heels the past two years and this will be for blood.

Maryland over Wake Forest: The 13th loss in a row for Wake Forest.

TCU over Kansas: The Texas Frogs have added a passing attack to their 1957 running game. They also are big and fast.

Oregon State over Southern California: A Friday night encounter that sends Oregon State's veteran array against Trojan sophomores.

Duke over South Carolina: A squeaker that likely will be decided by one of those new fangled conversions.

Oklahoma State over Denver: The Oklahoma Cowpokes are getting ready to move into the Big Eight circuit.

Texas over Georgia: The defense minded Texans will turn Bobby Lackedy loose often enough to skip the Bulldogs.

Skipping over the others in a hurry: Friday night: Detroit over George Washington, Davidson over Catawba.

East: Boston College over Scranton, Villanova over West Chester State.

South: Clemson over Virginia, Florida State over Furman, Florida over Tulane, Mississippi over Memphis State, Virginia Tech over West Texas State, Virginia Military over Morehead State, West Virginia over Richmond.

Midwest: Bradley over Butler, Cincinnati over Dayton, Iowa State over Drake, Wyoming over Kansas State, Marquette over South Dakota State, Wichita over Bowling Green.

Far West: Arizona State over Hawaii, Utah State over Arizona, Brigham Young over Fresno State, Oregon over Idaho, Utah over Montana.

Southwest: Arkansas over Baylor, Louisiana State over Rice, Texas A&M over Texas Tech.

Kay Leighty of Bruce's team had high game of 188 and Lue Best of McClure's Texaco high series of 474. Paula Showers of Hamilton Flying Service posted a 182 game while Mrs. Leighty proceeded to a 478 series.

Low Burdette Guns For 20 Hill Wins

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Low Burdette, a troubled World Series hero at the All-Star game, now has a shot at 20 victories since his winning season in the majors.

The big right-hander, who had only a 6-7 record in early July, has won 12 of 15 decisions since. And he's won seven of his last eight, with two shutouts and three one-run games for a 1.08 earned run average over the past month.

Burdette, whose best winning year was 1956, when he was 19-10, nailed his 18th last night as the Milwaukee Braves whipped San Francisco 4-1 and cut their magic number for a second straight National League pennant to three.

Pittsburgh chopped its magic number for second place to two, beating St. Louis 3-1 after wrapping up a 2-1 victory in the completion of a game suspended Aug. 3. Cincinnati took a two-night pair from Los Angeles 5-3 and 7-5 in 10 innings. The Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 10-8 in 10.

Burdette gave up seven hits, one a fifth-inning homer by Bill White. The Braves beat Johnny Antonelli (15-13) with three in the seventh, when three errors followed Felix Mantilla's leadoff triple.

Rookie right-hander George Witt (9-2) backed up by Bob Skinner's RBI singles, became the first NL pitcher to win seven in a row this year as the Pirates finished last month's curfewed game. The Bucs six games behind Milwaukee, won the nightcap with Dick Stuart and Skinner driving in all the runs. Each had three hits. Ron Klince (13-15) won it. Wilmer Mizell (10-13) and Bob Mabe (2-7) were the losers.

A pinch, two-run homer by Smoky Burgess won the nightcap for the Redlegs, who took the opener on home runs by Jerry Lynch, Pete Whisenand and rookie Dutch Dotterer that doomed the Dodgers to their first sub .500 season since 1944. Brooks Lawrence (8-12) and Tom Acker (4-3) were the winners. Johnny Podres (13-14) and Johnny Klippstein (6-6) took the defeats.

A two-run single by Al Darr bagged it for the Cubs and gave rookie John Bushardt his first major league decision. Rookie Don Erickson lost his first for the Phils.

Burdette's record is 18-10. He has a 1.08 earned run average and a .275 batting average. He has 107 strikeouts and 107 walks.

Many Rumors In Big Leagues

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Reports, rumors and denials today clouded the 1958 status of such major league figures as Fred Hutchinson, Birdie Tebbetts and Eddie Stanky.

If Hutchinson, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is headed for the same job with Baltimore, it's news to Orioles chief Paul Richards.

Reports that Tebbetts, ex-manager of Cincinnati, is going into an executive capacity with either St. Louis or Milwaukee, also brought denials.

And to top it all off, Cleveland Coach Stanky would not confirm or deny a report that he will take over at St. Louis as director of player personnel.

With the New York Yankees having won the American League pennant and Milwaukee having all but clinched the National League flag, baseball officials and job-seekers are currently engaged in the greatest rumor spree since the closing days of World War II.

Richards, the only man in the majors to hold the dual position of field manager and general manager, denied a story originating in St. Louis that Hutchinson would take over the Orioles on the field and that he, Richards, would remain in strictly an executive capacity.

"If there are any changes to be made," mused Richards, whose Orioles Tuesday night dropped a 4-3 decision to the Chicago White Sox. "I guess it would be up to the Baltimore owners."

In Pittsburgh, Hutchinson denied having been contacted by the Orioles.

Several reports in the last few days have Hutchinson out as St. Louis manager, to be replaced by Solie Hemus, Philadelphia infielder and former Cardinal.

Meanwhile, the Cardinals announced they would hold a press conference this afternoon. Prior to the conference, Cardinal officials said they would talk to Hutchinson and his coaching staff.

Now for Tebbetts. Birdie, who a couple of days ago was reported going to St. Louis in an executive capacity only to have Cardinal officials deny such a move. Tuesday was rumored headed for a similar job with Milwaukee. That, too, lost impetus when Braves' President Joseph Cairnes denied he would be replaced by Tebbetts.

Stanky, who a couple of days ago was reported going to St. Louis in an executive capacity only to have Cardinal officials deny such a move. Tuesday was rumored headed for a similar job with Milwaukee. That, too, lost impetus when Braves' President Joseph Cairnes denied he would be replaced by Tebbetts.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears have placed waivers on four players, including eight-year veteran end Bill Wightkin, former Notre Dame football star.

Wightkin announced his retirement Tuesday and took a Bear scouting job.

The Bears, unbeaten in five exhibition football games this year, also asked waivers on Bobby Watkins, four-year veteran halfback from Ohio State; M. L. Brackett, third-year tackle from Auburn and Dick Lucas, rookie end from Boston College.

Low Burdette Guns For 20 Hill Wins

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Low Burdette, a troubled World Series hero at the All-Star game, now has a shot at 20 victories since his winning season in the majors.

The big right-hander, who had only a 6-7 record in early July, has won 12 of 15 decisions since. And he's won seven of his last eight, with two shutouts and three one-run games for a 1.08 earned run average over the past month.

Burdette, whose best winning year was 1956, when he was 19-10, nailed his 18th last night as the Milwaukee Braves whipped San Francisco 4-1 and cut their magic number for a second straight National League pennant to three.

Pittsburgh chopped its magic number for second place to two, beating St. Louis 3-1 after wrapping up a 2-1 victory in the completion of a game suspended Aug. 3. Cincinnati took a two-night pair from Los Angeles 5-3 and 7-5 in 10 innings. The Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 10-8 in 10.

Burdette gave up seven hits, one a fifth-inning homer by Bill White. The Braves beat Johnny Antonelli (15-13) with three in the seventh, when three errors followed Felix Mantilla's leadoff triple.

Rookie right-hander George Witt (9-2) backed up by Bob Skinner's RBI singles, became the first NL pitcher to win seven in a row this year as the Pirates finished last month's curfewed game. The Bucs six games behind Milwaukee, won the nightcap with Dick Stuart and Skinner driving in all the runs. Each had three hits. Ron Klince (13-15) won it. Wilmer Mizell (10-13) and Bob Mabe (2-7) were the losers.

A pinch, two-run homer by Smoky Burgess won the nightcap for the Redlegs, who took the opener on home runs by Jerry Lynch, Pete Whisenand and rookie Dutch Dotterer that doomed the Dodgers to their first sub .500 season since 1944. Brooks Lawrence (8-12) and Tom Acker (4-3) were the winners. Johnny Podres (13-14) and Johnny Klippstein (6-6) took the defeats.

A two-run single by Al Darr bagged it for the Cubs and gave rookie John Bushardt his first major league decision. Rookie Don Erickson lost his first for the Phils.

Burdette's record is 18-10. He has a 1.08 earned run average and a .275 batting average. He has 107 strikeouts and 107 walks.

Steelworker Is Swept Through Dam Tunnel

COUGAR, Wash. (AP)—A Portland steelworker was swept by raging waters into a dark dam diversion tunnel yesterday. He clung to a watery perch for seven hours.

After frantic efforts to rescue him failed, Charles R. McGhee swam with the current more than 2,000 feet to safety at the other end.

A companion, Earl Snodderly, 31, Portland, was drowned. McGhee, 53, Snodderly and Frank Moser, of Beaverton, Ore., were thrown into the water near the mouth of the Swift hydroelectric project on the Lewis River at 11:40 a.m. when a beam they were riding suddenly dropped.

Moser was pulled to safety by other workers. Minutes later, Snodderly's body appeared at the other end of the 2,900-foot tunnel. Then frantic efforts began to rescue McGhee, who could be seen some 400 feet inside the tunnel—knee deep in frigid water and clinging to a steel rod that had been left there when workmen drilled the diversion burrow through a mountain.

Several attempts were made to float boats and rafts, with ropes attached, down to McGhee. But the rafts smashed up as they rammed against the sides of the 35-foot-wide tunnel.

Later in the day a rescue team from the Portland air base arrived with a large liferaft. The airman attempted to shoot the rapids in the tunnel, hoping to snatch McGhee as they passed by him. But the current upended the raft and both the airman—1st Lt. Arthur Bennett and S. Sgt. Richard Grigsby, both of Portland—were swept through the entire length of the tunnel. Both were banged up but not seriously injured.

Then McGhee, apparently seeing that his chances of rescue by raft were slim, decided to jump and take his chances. Shouting, "Here I come. Here I come," he plunged into the dark rapids at 6:40 p.m.

Later, at a hospital, he said he prayed all the way through the tunnel and "all the time I was in there." A nurse at the hospital quoted him as saying, "I was under water for at least a hundred feet. And I was swept under a number of times as I was washed out of there."

CRITIQUE Of The Local Entertainment Scene

Don't Forget Playhouse Opener

Don't forget "The Box," to be staged in the Prairie Playhouse Thursday at 8 p.m. It will be the first play presented by the Civic Theatre in its new Playhouse.

Guests will be given a chance to see the Playhouse from stem to stern following the play.

A work party (for members, not guests) will follow later in the evening, and theatre members have been warned to show up in work clothes, or with a couple of dollars for the labor fund.

"The Box," written by Robert Walker as a part of Webb's orientation program, is a two-act drama concerning brainwashing techniques.

And speaking of work parties: It is the considered opinion of many Civic Theatre members that not enough effort is being put forth. Seems that most members sit back and wait for someone else to drag them out to a work party, and only a few at a time ever show up on a call for volunteers.

The Civic Theatre has its building now, and there remains a passel of work to be done before it can properly be called a theatre. The roof is just one example; here the autumn rains have begun, and the roof is not yet fixed. It needs a coating of tar, bad.

A call is going out for some technical help on the roofing job. Theatre members, not being experienced in such work, would appreciate some help from an experienced roofer. Any interested professional may call the Civic Theatre's president, Capt. Allen Robertson, at Webb AFB.

Yule Pageant Plans Being Laid

Rev. O'Brien, dean of Big Spring's ministers, is laying out plans and specs for the Christmas Pageant. The idea will be laid before the Pastors Association a couple of weeks hence for their approval.

The pageant, it is hoped, will be performed by a 100-voice choir, to be recruited from the community's church choirs and other choral groups. Sponsors of the pageant also hope to have some sort of orchestra worked up by Yuletide for accompaniment.

The main problem to be tackled first is to guide individual singers without membership in any formal organization, into those organizations. Mrs. (Rev.) Betty Ware, who dreamed up the idea for a Christmas pageant, suggests, for example, that unaffiliated singers would be welcome at St. Paul's Presbyterian choir rehearsals. Other church choir directors probably would be equally happy to recruit new, though unaffiliated, members for the project.

The pageant will be presented sometime during the Christmas season, and, if present plans hold up, will consist of one evening of traditional carols, and another evening devoted to Handel's "The Messiah."

Sandefur Wins Story Contest

Capt. Bill Sandefur, Webb dentist and a member of Big Spring's writers club, is the winner of the Air Force's regional short story contest.

The award carries a $200 prize and covers the Air Training Command. Sandefur's story now goes to the Air Force-wide contest, where it will compete with other winning entries from various Air Force branches.

Sandefur will be cited at 7:30 p.m. Friday at a Pilot Training group dinner for his winning story, which bears the title, "Scandal of Stillpole Creek."

A rather amusing paradox accompanied Sandefur's accomplishment. It seems that he had submitted two short stories in the base contest, winning first and second places here. Yet, in the ATC contest, it was number two that copped the prize, while the story that won first place here didn't even place in ATC.

Sam Blackburn, of The Herald staff, was a member of the judges panel for the local contest.

Battle Re-Enactment Getting Too Real

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—The forthcoming re-enactment of the battle of Antietam already is real enough for Mrs. T. J. Sharp. She got a cannonball, vintage 1862, in her back yard yesterday afternoon. "Soldiers" who will stage the Civil War battle were practicing at a farm about 1½ miles from Mrs. Sharp's.

Runaway Burned Critically When Fire Razes Barn

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—William Blake, 13, who said he ran away from home so he wouldn't be a financial burden to his stepfather, was burned critically yesterday when fire swept a barn where he was sleeping.

Flames cloaked the boy as he leaped from the hayloft at a farm 20 miles southeast of here, near Mansfield.

"I was asleep and then the fire was all over me in the hay," he mumbled through burned lips. "I was running away, but I wasn't having any trouble at home."

He pointed a burned arm toward his stepfather, John Crabtree. "I didn't want him spending all his money on me. He doesn't make much money."

Another runaway, Benny Pannell, 16, of Fort Worth, dragged him from the flaming loft and made him jump. Pannell wasn't burned.

Wage Cut Voted

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—About 1,000 union employees of the O. A. Sutton Corp. voted yesterday to take a reduction in wages and benefits in an attempt to avoid suspension of production at Sutton's plant here.

Regulus II Fired

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—A Regulus II missile, capable of carrying a hydrogen warhead, has been launched from a submarine for the first time.

3-Ft. Tall Circus Midget Is Dead

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—John D. Velikanoff, 65, a Russian-born midget who came to this country with a touring carnival that helped settle Sweetwater, Fla., has died. Velikanoff, three feet, eight inches tall, was a member of a vaudeville troupe billed in Europe and Asia as the Royal Russian Midgets.

Doctor Dies

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP)—Dr. William Usery Gunn, 38, clinical director of Whitten Village, a state institution for handicapped children at Clinton, S.C., died Tuesday after a brief illness. He was born in Harlan, Ky.
