Tough Young Convict Sought On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tough young convict was sought on fog-shrouded Alcatraz Island today after he and a companion bound a guard in a bold attempt to escape the federal prison.

The companion was captured within two hours of the 3:15 p.m. break.

Somewhere on the rugged island was Aaron Walter Burgett, 28, Missouri gunman serving 26 years for post office robbery and assault.

A 60-man prison posse ranged over the San Francisco Bay island during the night.

Burgett's companion Clyde M. Johnson, 38, onetime Public Enemy No. 1 who shot it out with the FBI in Indianapolis in 1949, was captured along the rocky shore — cowering, shivering and up to his waist in the water.

The pair were on a trash-burning detail with guard Harold Miller outside the prison walls. Suddenly they turned on him. One produced a knife. They threatened to kill him and then bound and gagged him.

The break was discovered at 3:40 p.m. About 15 minutes later Miller was found squirming in thick bushes, just below some guards' houses on the southeast corner of Alcatraz.

Johnson was spotted through the fog by a sharp-eyed Coast Guard lookout on a patrol craft circling the island. Johnson surrendered meekly to prison guards.

His teeth chattering, Johnson was hustled to the warden's office for questioning by FBI agents.

UNITED FUND AGENCY

Hundreds Engage In 'Y' Activities

This is one of a series of articles on the 10 youth, health and welfare agencies which draw their financial support from the Howard County United Fund.—Ed.

The story of the Big Spring YMCA is the story of hundreds of people engaged in wholesome activity.

Statistics can't adequately tell the story, even though there are 1,654 men, women, boys and girls who are members of the Y. Another 1,151 registered non-members have taken part in the YMCA program during the past year.

If you combine the 235 special interest groups, 45 clubs, 105 classes, 48 athletic events, 37 miscellaneous units, and 51 special events, you come up with a cumulative participation of 40,736.

But this is not necessarily the real story. That story is in the roots of a Christian emphasis program of youth activity which includes Hi-Y (boys) and Tri-Hi-Y (girls) clubs in the high school and junior high levels. It is the elementary youngster program in the Gra-Y (grade school) boys program, or for the younger lads in the Indian Guides.

It is the story of young people learning about government by participating in the Youth in Government project; taking part in leadership conferences, the recollections; working in hobby groups for those interested in crafts, cars, baton twirling, cheerleading, etc.; exercising in the physical programs of volleyball, basketball, judo, trampolines, softball, tumbling, swimming, etc., and in the church and industrial leagues; taking part in the Y program for college students or the Seniors Citizens Club which brings the older folk back in circulation; or the adult education program to develop mental and physical skills.

Although YMCA officials can recite numerous cases of how youngsters in trouble have been turned around and led into wholesome, constructive activities, the story of the YMCA is essentially one of preventing difficulties by fulfilling a vacuum with wholesome, creative activities.

If there was a dependable cease-fire in the Formosa area, Dulles said, the United States would favor withdrawal of at least some of the large Chinese Nationalist forces on the offshore islands.

Dulles said the United States acquiesced in Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's reinforcement of the islands in the first place but considered it a foolish step.

At a news conference Dulles also said that the United States thought any renunciation of force in the Formosa region should apply not only to Communist China but also to the Nationalist government.

He argued this would be a fair arrangement and that it would be wrong to ask the Reds alone to renounce force.

In the past two weeks the prospects for a peaceful outcome of the Formosa crisis have improved, Dulles said under questioning.

He attributed this to some slight tendency toward stabilization of the contending forces in the Quemoy region and to his feeling that there is now less chance of hostilities spreading into a bigger war.

Asked how an agreement to renounce force would affect Chiang's policy of fighting his way back to the Chinese mainland, Dulles said Chiang's return would seem to depend on what happens inside Communist China.

For example, he argued, should a Hungarian-type uprising come about inside mainland China, it might lead to Chiang's return.

Dulles confirmed that Chinese Nationalist fighter planes are using Sidewinder air-to-air missiles against Communist aircraft in the Formosa area. But he rejected a Red Chinese complaint that this somehow upsets the situation in relation to the Warsaw talks.

Dulles was asked whether he thought it was sound now to arrange for withdrawal of Nationalist forces from the offshore islands.

That all depends on the circumstances, he said.

The United States would never agree to a retreat under fire, Dulles said, because of the probable impact such an action would have on other peoples and other countries as well as the morale of Nationalist China.

Mrs. Jean Meukel of Hollywood, Calif., says her husband, Elmer Clarence (Mox) Meukel, 41, has been missing for more than three months and attempts to locate him have been unsuccessful. De Gaulle Calls Cabinet For 5th Republic

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle convenes his Cabinet today to plan the birth of the Fifth Republic and a new worldwide French community, or commonwealth.

The present government's first task will be to wish farewell and good luck to French Guinea. The rain-swept west African coastal area was the only segment of the French Empire to reject De Gaulle's new constitution in the referendum Sunday.

In Conakry, capital of Guinea, the special French emissary Jean Ristuer announced that sovereignty would be officially transferred to Guinea at midnight tonight. With the transfer goes an end of French economic aid to the underdeveloped area.

Guinean Premier Sekou Toure called the territory's Assembly to meet Thursday. The Assembly is expected to decree itself a constitutional convention or constituent assembly and begin drafting the basic charter for a new African Negro republic.

Referendum returns from other overseas areas of the French Union still were trickling in. Except for Guinea, the story was the same overseas and in France — heavy majorities for the new constitution and indirectly for De Gaulle personally.

With this backing the World War II hero prepared to proclaim the Fifth Republic Sunday. He will have virtually absolute powers for the next four months while launching the republic.

One of the first tasks is to write an electoral law for voting on a new French Assembly, probably in late November. The Assembly in turn will elect the President. This President — no one doubts that it will be De Gaulle — will have the first strong executive powers in France since Louis Napoleon in 1870.

Another immediate task is to end the four-year-old Algerian rebellion. De Gaulle plans to fly to Algeria Thursday. He may finally pull back the veto which so far has shrouded his intentions for the troubled North African territory.

Some reliable sources predict De Gaulle will seek some middle ground between the full independence demanded by nationalist rebels and the full integration of Algeria with France demanded by diehard European settlers there.

De Gaulle has been charged with moving against the settlers since he became premier June 1 as the result of settler and army uprisings. Now with the referendum backing he might take a stand they will oppose.

Agri - Business Program Fixed

Outline of a program for second annual Agri-Business Day observances is Big Spring and Colorado City was completed Monday at a meeting of farm and business leaders in Colorado City.

The program will include discussions on cotton, livestock feeding, grain sorghums and swine. An added feature this year will be a talk on agriculture's role in the general economy of this area, a topic designed for non-agricultural business operators. Speakers will be announced as soon as they accept invitations to participate in the program.

One of the highlights of the observance will be a summary of the day's activities by Dr. Ty Timm of Texas A&M College.

Agri-Business Day in Big Spring will be Feb. 24 and in Colorado City it will be Feb. 25. Identical programs, except for local personalities in welcoming roles, will be presented in the two cities.

Lease Plan Hits Snag, Schools Remain Closed

Government Gets Blame For Closure

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The four Little Rock high schools remained closed today and signs were placed on the campuses which read: "This school closed by order of the federal government."

The move to open the high schools as private but segregated institutions was halted officially at 8 a.m. when Dr. T. J. Raney, head of the operating corporation, declared a court injunction made it impossible.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus commented: "As long as the people stand firm, a way will be found to preserve our traditions and educate our children."

He said in the face of the injunction "other avenues and means of providing education for the students will be explored. We think the action of the federal government is illegal but if the injunctive action of the court is made permanent, it will make our efforts more difficult but not at all impossible."

Raney acknowledged that the corporation was restrained by a court order granted in Omaha, Neb., Monday by two judges of the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

MOVED SWIFTLY

The judges moved swiftly at the request of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to keep the school board and the corporation from proceeding.

Raney issued a statement which said in part: "Through the concerted efforts of the government of the United States and the NAACP, the Little Rock Private School Corp. has now been enjoined and prohibited from operating the high schools."

Only a few Negro employees of the high school and a handful of students showed up in the drizzling rain for school. Apparently most of the students interpreted the terse statement of Supt. Virgil Blossom Monday night, that the Little Rock board would comply with the court order, to mean schools would remain closed.

Federal marshals clouded the plan to reopen the schools as private segregated institutions when they fanned out over the city Monday night serving scores of persons with copies of a restraining order.

Marshals waited in readiness for the next move.

NO FURTHER ACTION

The order instructed all persons connected with the private school plan not to take "further action to transfer possession, control or operation, directly or indirectly," of Little Rock schools.

It also forbade altering the "status quo of the senior high schools insofar as their integrated status is concerned."

The judges made their ruling retroactive to last Thursday after Justice Department Atty. Donald MacGuiness said the school lease had been executed in haste to complete action before the hearing.

The retroactive clause apparently was aimed at nullifying any legal advantage sought by the quick transfer.

Whether the schools were under control of the School Board or the private corporation wasn't clear.

Thus the city's 3,700 high school students were again thrown into indecision. Their schools originally were scheduled to open three weeks ago, but they have yet to attend a day of classes.

Teachers were advised by their attorneys not to take any part in the operation of the high schools by a private group.

ORDERS SERVED

Copies of the restraining order were served last night by federal marshals on teachers and others connected with the schools.

Marshals tried to serve a copy on Gov. Faubus. They were unable to get past guards at the gates of the governor's residence.

U.S. Marshal R. Beal Kidd said Faubus telephoned him later and Kidd read the court order to him. Kidd said that would be sufficient and there would be no need to serve the governor physically.

The restraining order is in force until Oct. 6 when a three-judge panel of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals will meet in St. Louis to hear the case for a temporary injunction.

The order was issued by Justices Harvey M. Johnson and Joseph W. Woodrough a federal NAACP attorneys Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, Ark., and Thurgood Marshall of New York appeared before them.

Earlier in the day, the U.S. Supreme Court in reviewing the history of the critical Little Rock case stated in an opinion that "evasive schemes for segregation" are unconstitutional.

School Closing Brings Tension

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Restless students, police patrols, cancelled football games and closed emergency sessions of city and state officials marked a tense beginning to the closing of six Norfolk schools.

The six, three senior high and three junior facilities with an enrollment of 10,000, were ordered shut down by Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. while he considers possible ways of restoring their operation on a segregated basis.

Almond's order is in force until Oct. 6 when a three-judge panel of the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals will meet in St. Louis to hear the case for a temporary injunction.

The order was issued by Justices Harvey M. Johnson and Joseph W. Woodrough a federal NAACP attorneys Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, Ark., and Thurgood Marshall of New York appeared before them.

Dulles Opens Door To Far East Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today there could be important changes in U.S. policy as to the defense of Quemoy if there were some "give" by the Chinese Communists.

If there was a dependable cease-fire in the Formosa area, Dulles said, the United States would favor withdrawal of at least some of the large Chinese Nationalist forces on the offshore islands.

Dulles said the United States acquiesced in Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's reinforcement of the islands in the first place but considered it a foolish step.

Flee Floods

A family from Ojinaga, Mexico, carry a few of their belongings with them as they boat down U.S. Highway 67 near the International Bridge at Presidio, The Rio Grande, swollen beyond its banks by prolonged rains, sent water surging over the valley making many families homeless.

RIO GRANDE ON RAMPAGE

Flood Crest Moves Past Presidio, River Holds Own

PRESIDIO, Tex. (AP)—Threats of further flood damage apparently eased today as a muddy crest surged on down the Rio Grande past this border city in far West Texas.

The debris-laden stream dropped 12 inches here during the night. Officials said they now were confident it could absorb the additional inflow in prospect without surging into downstream cities.

"It looks like the Rio Grande is holding its own," said H. E. Dupuy, one of the owners of the flood-closed international bridge here.

The river ebbed late yesterday, rose again last night and started dropping once more after midnight.

Border Patrol inspector Raymond Morris said earlier he feared a record 20½-foot crest at this southern tip of the Texas Big Bend was only a beginning.

The latest drop occurred after the International Boundary & Water Commission relayed unconfirmed reports that still higher peaks might be rolling into the Rio Grande.

Officials had said they were concerned over the possibility of additional crests tumbling from the Rio Conchos, which flows from Mexico into the Rio Grande, and possibly from the El Paso area upstream on the Rio Grande.

This morning, however, these sources said the Rio Grande appeared able to absorb the slowed runoff rapidly enough to avert damage to populous border points to the south and east.

W. E. Walker of El Paso, chief hydrologist for the IB&WC, also expressed the opinion that the Rio Grande "seemed to be taming down."

"But," he said, "there are a couple of sections that we don't know anything about." These were listed as the Rio Conchos and a long canyon through the Big Bend National Park below Presidio.

The flood, which started Sunday, engulfed farms and homes. The crest closed the International Bridge here, washed out rail lines to Mexico, isolated the city of Ojinaga, Mexico, ruined valuable cotton land and washed away homes.

Two drownings were reported at Ojinaga, a city of 6,000 across from here.

Roughly 10 adobe houses crumbled when the water struck here and about 20 were washed away on the Mexican side of the river. About 30 families were evacuated from lowlands in this area on the U.S. side.

The flood in this 45-mile valley destroyed almost all of the cotton crop and heavily damaged dikes, irrigation ditches and equipment.

Storage at Falcon Reservoir was the highest since 1954.

City Gets Sample Of Winter Weather

Someone opened the door to the deepfreeze suddenly Tuesday morning and Big Springers were given their first official 1958 sample of what fall and winter weather is like.

A cold front, moving in on north-east wind, struck town shortly after 9 a.m. It had pushed the temperature to 64 degrees at 11:30 a.m. after the mercury had valiantly climbed from the night low of 64 to 70 degrees shortly before 9 a.m. It had been 65 degrees at 8 a.m.

The current cool weather is scheduled to hold through Wednesday, the U. S. Weather Bureau said. The maximum today and tomorrow will be 70. A low of 50 degrees is seen for tonight.

There will be a continuation of the cloudy skies both days and a probability of scattered showers late today, the forecast stated.

Cotton farmers, whose fields continued empty of pickers, watched the weather with concern and alarm. No rain fell during the night but the morning saw a heavy dew which left the fields almost as wet as though it had showered.

Little if any cotton picking has been done since early last week. Bracers have been idle and the fleecy white cotton has been soaked again and again by the repeated showers.

Jimmy Taylor, county farm agent, said that damage to the crop, if there has been any, would not be known until grade cards on recently ginned bales are returned.

He added however that he could not see how the fields can go much longer in the prevailing weather without suffering some spotting. He said that the cloudy cold weather such as prevailed today was not at all helpful—the remedy, he said, rests in bright sunshine. The sun, if it returned and the moisture halted, would bleach the lint and do much to repair the quality of the crop.

Coldest Norther Of Season Arrives

The coldest norther of the season blew deep into Texas Tuesday. The Weather Bureau warned the Panhandle of a light freeze during the night with readings tumbling as low as 30 degrees.

At mid-morning, the cold front had whipped through Amarillo where the mercury sank to 44 and winds climbed to 35 miles an hour. The fast-moving norther raked Oklahoma City with 56 mile winds. Ardmore, near the Texas line, had 40 mile winds.

Colder weather with scattered showers was forecast for all Texas areas. North Central Texas faced the prospect of 45 to 55 degree readings. The forecast was for 35 to 45 degree readings in the South Plains and upper Pecos Valley of West Texas.

Temperatures sank to the low 40s in the upper Panhandle around dawn and the Oklahoma Panhandle got a freeze warning. A few snow flurries fell in western Kansas.

Dalhart reported 41 degrees, which was 37 degrees cooler than Corpus Christi's 78. Lubbock had 59 and Childress 54.

Reported rains were light. Dalhart and Big Spring reported .03 inch and Midland .03.

Pakistan Styles Simple; Involve Only Sari Color

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives of Pakistan, even as their American sisters, are receiving the latest tips in fashion, food, child care, and how-to-keep-your-husband-happy by newspaper and radio.

Mrs. Fatima Mansuri, Pakistan's first lady of broadcasting and woman's page editor of Karachi's weekly Dawn, a newspaper called Gujrat, is now on her way back home after attending the ninth International Congress on Home Economics held recently at the University of Maryland.

Here on a travel grant from the Asia Foundation, she is loaded down with material on food and nutrition. But she wonders just how she can use most of it for Pakistan housewives who have slightly different problems than those in the United States.

Take, for one example, the editor's problem of keeping her women readers informed on the last word in fashion. In this country, housewives are fighting the battle of the sack, the chemise and the trapeze. In Moslem Pakistan, women—as they have for centuries—wear saris, long cloths draped and wound around their bodies and covering them from shoulders to ankle.

DRESS NEVER CHANGES
"The saris themselves never change," explained Mrs. Mansuri, "but the color combinations do. Some time ago, it was the vogue to wear printed saris over printed blouses. Then that changed, and we were wearing plain blouses

While in Miami, the couple will be joined by a longtime friend, Mrs. Gracie Maurehan, New York City.

Mrs. Shelby Hall of Oklahoma City, sister of Mrs. Boyd, arrived Sunday to be with the boys' family until their return, Oct. 18.

Mrs. C. L. Foster joined in the hospitality, which was informally done, with chatting the diversion for the 17 guests.

Refreshments were served from a table covered in white linen and centered with pink roses.

Hair Styles Vary From Smooth To Tousled Fashion

You pay your money and take your choice at the hairdresser's this season. And the choice in coiffures narrows down to two distinctly different styles, from which many variations should emerge.

The styles are tousled and uncombed on the one hand, and sleekly polished lady like Empire on the other. The tousled hairdo is popular with the gamin set who believe that the rag doll look improves their glamor stock. But those who crave sophistication like the Empire hairdos, distinctly feminine.

Lilly Dache, famous for her very feminine hats, suggests hairdos in the season's new styles. Her variation of the tousled hairdo is a short tapered haircut that rises to fullness at the crown of the head, punctuated with a wide tortoise-shell band that gives it a look of careless glamor. She christens it the "Little Recamier" and recommends it for girls who want a new style that is not strictly Empire.

Her Regency period hairdo, a modified Empire coiffure, is a bias cut which gives highlights of diagonal reflection. The hair is smoothly draped into long waves that cover the ears and is finished in tapered flatness beneath coils of hair at the crown of the head. The coils are separate hair pieces so the girl who owns a chignon is that far ahead on the fall beauty budget, if she adopts this hairdo.

Ex-Convict Admits Slaying Of Friend

DETROIT (AP)—A former Texas convict admitted today the nine-month-old slaying of a Texan pal.

Less than 36 hours after the body of George Kean, 32, Fort Worth gunshot victim, was found in a shallow grave in a northern Michigan area, police and Texas Rangers announced their solution.

Det. Charles Leaf said Dimitros Tsermengas, 39, native of Galveston but in recent years a resident of Ecorse, Mich., verbally admitted killing Kean accidentally in a quarrel last Dec. 15 or 16 though refusing to sign a formal statement.

Kean, described as a Texas hoodlum, was shot in a cottage hideout in the area of Pontiac, Mich., and his body was taken nearly 200 miles north and buried south of Alpena on the Lake Huron shore, police said.

Leaf said Tsermengas admitted

Jobless Worker Takes To Skates

GROVE CITY, Pa. (AP)—A 50-year-old unemployed assembly-line worker is on her way to Los Angeles on roller skates.

Miss Sophie Krofcheck left this western Pennsylvania town Monday, hoping to skate 200 miles daily in the 3,000-mile trip. She covered only nine miles in the first four hours.

"I'll take it easy," she said. "I'll stop at motels and hotels along the way as I get tired."

Miss Krofcheck, who said she won the Mercer County, Pa., roller skating championship in 1929, intends to visit a brother in Los Angeles.

46 Million Are Drafted Into China Farms

TOKYO (AP)—More than 46 million Chinese peasant families have been drafted into people's communes since Red China launched its latest communication project in June, Radio Peiping reports.

These are township-sized working organizations directed along military lines in China's "Great Leap Forward" program.

Peiping said seven million women have been "freed from household tasks" and put to work for the state in the new drive. They toil now in such fields as community restaurants, nurseries and kindergartens.

The communes—large, self-sufficient communities of villages and former cooperative farms embracing up to 50,000 persons each—have been set up with frantic haste in an effort to weld something more effective than the old cooperative system.

The movement is one of the most important steps since the Communists took over China eight years ago. Recent visitors to the mainland say the program is effective and is proceeding quickly.

The families already enrolled represent 37 per cent of the peasant population, Peiping said.

"People's communes . . . are considered to be a good form of basic organization of society to accelerate Socialist construction and the transposition to communism," the radio commented.

China's peasants have in the past few years been drilled relentlessly in politics—even the farm work songs are odes to communism—and the radio said the communes resulted in part from the farmers' "enhanced political understanding."

The communal life would push the peasants still further from the traditional Chinese family system, already crumbled by the cooperatives.

"Cooperatives were too small in scale to meet rising needs in manpower and funds and impeded the full utilization of land and better equipment," the radio said.

Detroiters Jam Vaccine Centers

DETROIT (AP)—Some 5,600 Detroiters, fearful of contracting polio during the current epidemic, jammed nine emergency clinics Monday to receive protective Salk vaccine inoculations.

Health authorities have arranged for inoculations at $1 a shot. However, no one will be turned away.

There have been 482 reported cases with 16 deaths in the Detroit area so far this year. During the same period last year, 167 cases and two deaths were reported.

None of the polio fatalities had received Salk vaccine, health authorities said.

Indiana Republicans Rallied By Nixon

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon rallied Indiana Republicans Monday night with a strong defense of administration foreign policy and a warning of "frightening" economic results if Democrats strengthen their congressional control.

He addressed a slim partisan crowd of about 4,500 in the Indiana Fairgrounds Coliseum immediately after speaking to some 2,600 guests at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner.

In a news conference after arriving at Weir Cook Airport he said Republicans face defeat in the Nov. 4 election unless they reverse the present trend. But he declared an all-out fight can win control of Congress for the GOP.

Nixon's speech was the opener in a personal campaign for Republican Senate and House candidates which will take him next to the West Coast today.

He said of administration policy in the Formosa crisis that the Communists can only be dealt with from a position of strength, and that letting the Reds take Quemoy, Matsu and Formosa would not solve the problem.

"The whole free world's position in Asia is at stake," he warned. "The Communists want us completely out of the Far East."

Nixon said higher taxes, cheaper money and the stifling of private investments would follow a "wild spending binge" if the Democrats strengthen their control of Congress.

He described the six years of the Eisenhower administration as "the best six years in the history of this country" and assailed

"malicious and false charges of Harry Truman and other Democratic orators that this administration's policies have been good for big business and the rich, but bad for 65 million American wage earners."

Ticking off a list of comparisons of national income, jobs, and wages under Truman and under Eisenhower, he called Truman "loose with the truth—and he's setting a record in this campaign."

Nixon told newsmen he didn't believe the Sherman Adams affair would be a decisive factor in the campaign, and he told the audience:

"If they want to fight out this election on the issue of money in government, we'll be glad to—and we'll give them the shellacking of their lives."

Gets Life Term In Girl's Death

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—John Hixon, 17, has been sentenced to life in prison for the Labor Day slaying of his girl friend Carilyn Waldron, 16.

He admitted shooting Carilyn when she said she wanted to break off keeping company with him. In Circuit Court, he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Hixon, a high school graduate of last June, is eligible for parole in 10 years under Michigan's second-degree murder conviction law.

Hurricane Ilsa Heads Out To Sea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hurricane Ilsa, a storm which did no harm because it chose to stay at sea, roared along toward its death today in the North Atlantic.

Unlike its savage predecessor, Helene, the closest Ilsa came to land was 230 miles east of Bermuda.

Ilsa, traveling a steady north-east course, was located by ship reports about 350 miles southeast of the Newfoundland coast this morning.

The Weather Bureau said it was obvious Ilsa was losing her punch and in all likelihood would join forces with the remnants of Helene, making for a smaller storm in the North Atlantic.

DEAR ABBY

HER MEMORIES

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently buried my husband after 23 years of a happy marriage. All of a sudden his ex-wife appears on the scene dressed like a widow in mourning. She screamed and carried on at the funeral like he was still her husband and I had to go some to keep everybody from thinking she was taking it harder than me. As far as I know he was good and finished with her years before I met him. I hear she goes out to his grave every day in her widow's outfit and prays. Can I have her locked up?

me when I'm coming home. I can't tell him because I don't know how much longer my mother will last. When I left I intended to stay till the end, but nobody knows how long that will be. Only the Lord knows. I left enough frozen dinners in the freezer to last till Christmas and he can send his laundry out. We have no small children to worry about. How can I get him to leave me alone?

DEAR ABBY: Recently, while at my employment as a secretary, a prominent businessman of this city picked up the newspaper, glanced at your column and stated he believed the column was probably written by a man and the letters were "madeup." If there are other "Doubting Thomases" readers may say that, about a year ago I wrote you asking for advice about my engagement. You told me to break it, and wait. I didn't take your advice, but got married anyway. The marriage lasted four months and now we are separated. I hope and pray that other advice-seekers will benefit by my experience and heed good advice when they get it.

DEAR ABBY: Our tax collector is 79 years old and last weekend she went on a two-week vacation trip with her boyfriend who is also 79. Now this lady goes to our church every Sunday, but do you think it is all right for her to take off on a trip with a man and then brag to everybody about it? Her own daughter can't tell her anything. This lady is the first one to point out somebody else's flaws. What do you think we should do?

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument that has been going on for four years. How often should a grown man change his socks? FIGHTING MAD

DEAR ABBY: I was called away from home to be with my ailing mother. Every night my husband calls me long-distance and asks

Job Available For Modern Pied Piper

By JESS BLAIR STANTON (SC)—A modern Pied Piper could get plenty of business in Martin County, provided he left the children behind. County Agent Bob Johnson says the rats and mice are swarming into all parts of the county, particularly in the rural sections. Most of the rats are brown-colored and somewhat smaller than the blue rats usually found around granaries. Thus far no extensive damage has been reported, although they have found a couple of sweet potato patches and are digging down to eat the tubers.

DEAR FRIENDS: This "lady" and her "boyfriend" don't need their parents' consent to go on a trip together. Unconventional behavior is "deductible" from the reputation. There is nothing you can do.

Sputnik's Effect On U.S.: We've Gone Back To Sleep

By BEM PRICE
WASHINGTON (AP)—For nearly a year the United States has lived with the knowledge that it is only 30 minutes by missile from Moscow to New York.
 A year ago, on Oct. 4, Russia launched its 184-pound Sputnik I and ushered in the age of space and the intercontinental ballistic missile.
 The initial reaction in the United States—comfortable, prosperous and convinced of its technological superiority—was stunned disbelief.
 This was followed swiftly by alarm, concern, hysteria, panic. If the vocal reaction of politicians, scientists and military men is any indication, the United States was beset by a feeling of chagrin and even a touch of inferiority.
 These emotions now seem to have disappeared. Gone, too, is the sense of anguish over the obvious Soviet possession of an ICBM which prompted Sen. Lyndon (D-Tex.) to cry, "We have entered a period of international black-mail."
 There was talk immediately after Sputnik I about complacency in high places, about the lack of a sense of urgency.
 The Army declared that if it hadn't been for Pentagon politics and penny pinching, it could have put up a satellite way back in 1955.
 Well, a year has now passed since Sputnik I. If there is a grim determination to overtake the Russians, regardless of cost, in the missile and satellite field, or in producing scientists and engineers for the future, the record doesn't show it.
 Five days after Sputnik I, President Eisenhower was asked at a news conference if this nation administration still claims this nation is superior militarily to the U.S.S.R.

 Before it adjourned, Congress set aside $4,337,000,000 for missile procurement above and beyond the $1,260,000,000 in emergency funds appropriated last February. In the previous fiscal year $2,313,000,000 was allotted for missile production.
 On Aug. 22 President Eisenhower signed the 39½-billion-dollar defense appropriations bill into law, but criticized it as wasteful of money and resources.
 Once again the question comes back one year after Sputnik: Where stands the United States? Soviet Russia has an estimated 500 submarines, the United States about 100.
 The United States has roughly 1,100,000 men in its ground forces. Soviet Russia has an army of 2,500,000; Red China an army of 2,600,000.
 The United States is in production on two 1,500-mile-range missiles, the Air Force's Thor and the Army's Jupiter.
 The United States has yet to test successfully a 5,000-mile-range ICBM over the full distance although it has test fired two ICBMs about 3,000 miles. The Soviet Union announced an operational ICBM Aug. 27, 1957.
 The United States armed forces have 29,000 operational aircraft of all types. The Soviet air force contains 20,000. In the Pentagon it is believed that the Russians have more combat planes. China's air strength is unknown.

Baptist Churches To Keep Open All Day For Prayer

Baptist Churches in Big Spring and area will remain open all day Wednesday in response to the presidential proclamation of Oct. 1 as a day of prayer.
 Baptist pastors of Big Spring, at their meeting Monday, said that doors would be open all day Wednesday and that members would be urged to come and pray.
 At their meeting, in voting active support of the appeal by President Eisenhower, the ministers noted some examples cited by Dr.

Forrest C. Feezor, executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention.
 Said Dr. Feezor, in part: "Three years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth a severe drought threatened to destroy the crops. In that crisis hour, the Pilgrim fathers prayed for almost nine hours on a day of humiliation and prayer. By evening that day rain began to fall."
 "In 1777 the ragged Continentals at Valley Forge were ill-shot, ill-fed, unpaid and disorganized. Tom Paine wrote vicious attacks on Washington's character. In that gloomy hour Washington, according to eye witnesses, knelt down and thousands knelt in their churches and pleaded with God to sustain the American cause."
 "In 1863 the armies of the South had advanced far into the North. In that time of crisis Abraham Lincoln proclaimed a day of prayer and penitence, requesting the nation to ask of God 'pardon for our national sins and restoration of our now divided and suffering country to its former condition of unity and peace.' Within hardly two months the battle of Gettysburg had been won."
 "In 1917 our nation faced a crisis hour. President Woodrow Wilson called for a day of prayer. . . The clouds lifted and again America was saved. God did it!"

HOUSTON (AP)—Questioning of prospective jurors resumed today in the murder trial of a youth accused of slaying a Houston couple.
 The state seeks death for Howard Stickney, 20, charged with the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barnes. He is on trial in the killing of Mrs. Barnes only.
 Lawyers chose two jurors yesterday.

Jap Policemen Guard Treasures

TOKYO (AP)—Some 150 policemen kept close guard today while eight cases of paintings and drawings by Vincent Van Gogh were unloaded at Tokyo Airport after a flight over the North Pole from Amsterdam.
 The paintings were placed aboard a truck and escorted by screaming police motorcycles on a nine-mile trip to the National Museum at Ueno Park. They will be exhibited with 104 other works by the late Dutch master in a mammoth show beginning Oct. 15. The precious cargo was insured for more than four million dollars.

DYLAN TODD

Ballad Singer Could Have Been Landscape Architect

Dylan Todd, who appears on the Big Spring Concert series Feb. 18, 1959, might have been a landscape architect but for the heritage of the hills.
 Born in the foothills of Kentucky's Cumberland Mountains, he early heard the ballads of the mountaineers. When he was 16, he sent off for a mail order course in music reading and for a mail order guitar.
 He faced no decision between music and another career, for he decided to cast his lot with Uncle

Sam in the Marines, fighting on Iwo Jima during his 29 months in service.
 Todd returned at once to complete high school work and put in two years at the University of Cincinnati as landscape architecture major. But the tug of music was too strong and he switched to the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music to study voice and the classic guitar.
 Success, however, came the hard way. The demand for guitar players who could sing wasn't expected, even if they did have a conservatory background. Undaunted, Todd started working his way across country playing in clubs and everywhere he got a chance. In between engagements, he worked at whatever job he could find.
 Finally he landed in Houston out of money and out of a job. Todd managed an audition at a television station and made a permanent connection. After two years, he returned to New York and made connections to play and sing on TV network shows. Among them were "Camera Three," "Garry Moore Show," "The Ernie Kovacs Show," and "Bandwagon." He also appeared in the Broadway comedy, "The Next President."
 His rich resonant voice and expertise with the guitar are matched by a warm personality.

Equatorial Space Facilities Urged

DALLAS (AP)—Some scientists are urging that the United States establish facilities along the Equator soon for launching manned space craft.
 Informal surveys of potential sites have been made.
 James R. Dempsey of San Diego, vice president of Convair Astronautics Division of General Dynamics Corp., told newsmen that launching directly over the Equator would make possible establishment of an orbit that always would trace the same path through the sky. This would require a minimum number of communication stations.

Judge Supports Unwritten Law

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—C. W. Smith sought a peace warrant last spring against a neighbor he accused of cursing his wife and children.
 General Sessions Judge John Draper told Smith he ought to take care of such matters himself.
 Smith was hailed before the same judge Monday by the neighbor, Walker Ballard, on a charge of assault and battery.
 "Not guilty," said the judge.

Heavy Rains, Business Upturn Credited For Bank Increases

By The Associated Press

Texas bank deposits showed a sharp rise on the Sept. 24 call and the heavy rains and a general business upturn were credited with much of the increase.
 The increase in deposits over a year ago was reflected in reports from a number of Texas cities. Some points reported their deposits had hit new record highs.
 Rains over much of the state, improving the agricultural and livestock situation, coupled with the upturn in business and increased employment were cited by several bankers as factors in the rise.

 Dallas' 22 banks had deposits almost 300 million dollars higher Sept. 24 than on the similar call a year ago. Deposits totaled $2,172,687,799.31 compared to $1,900,315,625.82 Oct. 11, 1957.
 In metropolitan Houston the 52 banks reported a total of $2,083,699,579.19, well above the $1,934,753,278.255 of the call of a year ago.
 San Antonio banks showed a 20 million dollar increase over deposits three months ago. The city's 18 banks reported $652,435,448.75 on deposit Sept. 24 compared to $632,280,053.79 on June 23. Abilene bank deposits reached a record high of $89,700,000. The total for all banks in the county was $95,500,000, also a new mark. The deposits topped the previous high at the end of last year by 2 million dollars and were 10 million dollars above a year ago.

 Beaumont banks gained over 12 million dollars in deposits during the past year. The four banks there reported deposits totaling $145,189,122 compared to $132,851,059 a year ago.
 Tyler deposits in the city's three banks totaled $82,188,769, an increase of $4,679,037 over the Oct. 11, 1957 call and a hike of $1,564,058 over the June 23 call.
 Cities in the Lower Rio Grande Valley also showed increases. McAllen deposits totaled $34,228,848, up 4 million from a year ago. Edinburg banks, which reported deposits of $11,157,114 showed a 2 million dollar increase over the Oct. 11, 1957 call.

At Corpus Christi deposits hit a new record. The six banks reporting $157,410,336, or nearly 9 million dollars above the previous record set by the June bank call.
 Lubbock's bank deposits as of Sept. 24 totaled $179,042,028, a gain of 22 million over the June call and 28 million above that of a year ago.
 Banks in El Paso County reported deposits of $246,344,893, an increase of nearly 16 million from a year ago but down slightly from the June call.

Daily Average Oil Production Falls

 The Journal estimated 1958 production as 1,772,817,900 barrels compared to 1,964,870,441 a year ago.
 Arkansas fell 150 barrels to 73,600.
 Colorado rose 600 barrels to 131,300.
 Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,890,500 barrels and New Mexico, 279,100.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Local Democratic party officials have obtained a certified copy of Adlai Stevenson's birth certificate from the Bureau of Vital Statistics.
 It will be presented to him when he appears at a dinner here honoring Rep. Clair Engle, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.
 The document shows Stevenson was born Feb. 5, 1900, at 2639 Monmouth Ave.—not far from the present campus of the University of Southern California.

Record High

ABILENE (AP)—Bank deposits here reached a record high of $89,798,130 on Sept. 24, a gain of 10 million dollars over last year. The figures were disclosed in a bank call issued Monday. The deposits topped the previous high of last year end by 2 million dollars.

Boys Succeed Where AF Fails

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Five St. Louis boys launched a mouse into the wild blue yonder Saturday and then recovered it—a feat tried unsuccessfully by the U. S. Air Force.
 The pet white mouse was alive and healthy after a four-mile trip in a handkerchief gondola slung under seven helium-filled balloons.
 The airborne mouse went out of sight of the launching pad before the youngsters could scramble to their bicycles and trail it. A householder in whose yard the mouse descended—after two of the balloons popped—noticed a radio station.
 A "missing mouse" bulletin was put on the air, and the boys promptly claimed it.
 The pet mouse is the property of Ed Gruenfelder, 12.
 Ed's colleagues at the launching pad in a city park were Jack Julius, 12, Jim Poehling, 12, Terry Beckerman, 11, and Steve Schoenbeck, 11.

Dag Announces Britain, U.S. May Pull Out Of Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold announced today that the United States and Britain had agreed conditionally to withdraw their troops from Lebanon and Jordan.

Hamarskjold was cautious about making forecasts on Middle East stability. He said his effort to carry out the Assembly's peace resolution is "still at an early stage and it is therefore premature to pass a judgment on the degree of success it may meet."

The Arab states are said to oppose any such debate at this delicate stage. The United States and Britain have been critical of the Egyptians and Syrians for their hostile broadcasts against Jordan despite their pledge by the August resolution to live as good neighbors.

Abdel Monem Rifai of Jordan said he expected the British to announce troop withdrawal in a few days. The secretary general was reported to have encountered opposition from the United Arab Republic, which is said to oppose letting oil supplies and plane transport into Jordan by way of Syria before the British get off Jordan's soil.

A Bible Thought For Today

Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine. (2 Timothy 4:2)

Living High Off The Card

The average American with a good name, a good credit rating and a reputation for paying his bills with reasonable promptitude, can now see the world, take a vacation, tour at home and abroad, travel by rail, by ship or by air in a rented automobile, dine on the fat of the land and have himself a high old time without a red copper cent in his pocket, figuratively speaking.

The credit-card business has proliferated like flies around a molasses barrel in the postwar world. Most of them are for free—that is, all you have to do is ask for, or receive without asking, a credit card and take off. Some charge a fee or annual dues.

The great American Express Company, whose travelers' cheques—paid for at time of purchase, but cashable almost anywhere in the world without question—have long been familiar to millions, is getting into the credit card business in a big way starting Oct. 1.

The Diners' Club, which since 1950 has been offering its "members" a wide line of credit for all manner of purchases and services, announced this month in full-page newspaper ads that it had 800,000 members, and was adding new ones at the rate of 1,000 a day. It had taken over the American Hotel Association's Universal Travelcard, with 150,000 cardholders, honored by "4,500 leading hotels." The Sheraton Corporation of America, second largest hotel chain, had earlier announced it was entering the credit card field, and had issued 800,000 cards—without a fee. At mid-September the Diners' Club and the gigantic Hilton Hotels Corp. announced an agreement whereby Hilton would acquire a substantial interest in Diners' stock and the club would take over about a million Hilton Credit cards.

Then came the American Express Company's decision to join the battle for supremacy in this field.

The credit card business was started by oil companies in the 1920s for the convenience of customers. Since the war (the idea has become almost omnipresent).

In the scramble for business and rivalry for supremacy, a condition may be created, eventually, that could bust another Mississippi Bubble. That would be when abuse of credit cards could become so serious a menace to the business that it could not survive. And an atmosphere of red-hot rivalry such as seems to be shaping up now could produce that result in short order. Policing 40 million credit-card holders could become a nightmare.

Alf Keeps Sawing Wood

Twenty-two years ago Alf Landon of Kansas took the worst beating the presidential candidate of any major party ever suffered. He was the Republican party's sacrificial goat when Franklin D. Roosevelt was up for the second of his four terms. Only Maine and Vermont gave him their electoral votes.

But if he was downhearted Alfred Mossman Landon never let on. He went right back to his business, oil producing, and continued his political interest in the state he had twice served as governor. He has been a delegate to three or four Republican national conventions since, but so far as we know he never has at any time sought to mastermind the party's policies or affairs, though he has spoken out, as is any citizen's right, on occasions.

Alf Landon is still speaking out. Currently, at 71, he has taken to the hustings again, speaking in small towns, often without an introduction, to small handfuls of any people who will listen, in opposition to two Kansas state constitutional amendments his party is actively supporting—at his own expense, without formal backing.

One of the amendments would change selection of Supreme Court justices in Kansas from elective to appointive (by the governor). The other is a right-to-work provision which 18 other states, including Texas, have found desirable.

Mr. Landon has been heckled in his current campaign, but merely remarks somewhat wryly, "I've been heckled by professionals before."

Disagree with him as we do in many political matters, we cannot but admire him for his courage, his willingness to speak out, his refusal to take the veil and retire to embittered solitude just because he ran into a buzzsaw in 1936. His willingness to fight for what he thinks is right puts to shame millions of his fellow-citizens who can't find the energy, the interest and the sense of responsibility to drag themselves to the election booths when the chips go down.

Here is a man who has every right to forewear any further bruises and mangle in the political arena, entitled to take his ease and the means to do so, willing to stick his neck out and fight for what he believes is right—a rare avis indeed among modern politicians.

Here's a salute from Texas to Alfred M. Landon of Prospect Hills, Topeka, Kansas, for courage and a sense of public responsibility above and beyond the call of duty.

One American's Zeal On Formosa Issue

WASHINGTON—Although perhaps not one American in a thousand would know his name, the Administration's policy on China is embodied in one man. The Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, Walter S. Robertson, has for the nearly six years of the Eisenhower Administration been the advocate of Chiang Kai-shek and the imperative need to keep an alternative government ready for that time when the Communist regime falls of its own brutal and repressive weight.

With skill, intense conviction and unflinching persistence he has put the case at every opportunity both in and out of government. There are those in the administration who differ with Robertson or who feel, at any rate, that American policy should be more flexible.

But in his key position and with his zeal and his talent his viewpoint has thus far prevailed. The articles of faith back of the official position, as Robertson articulates them on every occasion, can be expressed as follows:

1. The Chinese Communists are not interested in Quemoy and Matsu. Their real goal, as they repeatedly state in their broadcasts, is Formosa itself. It will not be long after they have occupied the off-shore islands, if they are allowed to, that they will start a new drive for Formosa.

2. The Reds' unyielding attitude as revealed in the Warsaw talks makes it plain that any attempt at a negotiated settlement is futile.

3. As shown by every intelligence report, the Chinese people on the mainland hate their government in the same way that the Hungarian people hated the regime imposed on them by Russian tanks in 1956. The new drive by Peiping to create great communes represents an extreme of collectivization that is certain to bring renewed resistance.

Major Setback For Segregationists

Only a few days ago Secretary of State Dulles announced the time had come to stand against "indecision and weakness" in foreign affairs. Now the Supreme Court issues a call to the administration for resoluteness on the home front.

The Supreme Court decision Monday may have demolished a number of weapons in the arsenal of the South's opponents of integration. The decision will make it more difficult for the opponents to fall back on a series of devices designed to slow the course of integration.

But at the same time the court action turned the spotlight once again on the Eisenhower administration.

The court spoke unanimously, with unmistakable clarity: the Constitution is beyond ingenious schemes to avoid its meaning. No state officer can "war against the Constitution without violating his undertaking to support it."

The cold war over integration has raged for almost five years. There is no reason to believe the end is yet in sight. But Monday's court decision seems a severe setback for anti-integrationists.

As far back as 1954 the Supreme Court ruled that segregation in public elementary or secondary schools was unconstitutional. A year later the court struck down the doctrine of "separate but equal" schools and ordered segregation to proceed with "all deliberate speed."

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas and his supporters, to say nothing of other Southern officials, went to work to build a stock of weapons with which to fight the court's order.

Among these weapons was a law which would abolish the state public school system and replace it with another in which Negroes would go to public schools supported by state funds. Whites would attend nonprofit private schools subsidized by the state.

The court has declared this an attempt to nullify the Constitution with "evasive schemes" to perpetuate segregation.

The decision may have all but wiped out several other weapons. Among these was a scheme to permit white students to transfer as they please from one school to another. In effect, then, schools would remain segregated. Another would have permitted installation of segregated classes within theoretically integrated schools.

The court already has spoken out against "evasive schemes." Such devices probably would fall quickly into that classification in any test.

The court has taken into consideration the difficulties of integration in many areas and has spelled out what is meant by "deliberate speed." There are circumstances in which the district courts can make sure that appropriate arrangements have been made to put the desegregation program into operation with as little upsurge as possible. What the court really demands now is a show of good faith in complying with its orders.

Early in the integration row, the administration gave every indication it intended to use whatever power might be necessary to carry out the law as interpreted by the court. But the quarrel went on over the past four years and the administration's plans for dealing with it were never abundantly clear.

Now some of the key arguments of the segregation forces have been struck down by the high court. It has defined the law. The administration is charged with enforcing the law.

Honest, Officer; I've Tried

NEW YORK (AP)—If I live to be 100, I doubt if I'll ever fully comprehend the highway signs erected in our so-called English-speaking country.

Who writes them, anyway? Gertrude Stein? Casey Stengel in the off season? Sam Goldwyn's old English teacher?

I've tried. Honest, officer, I've tried, but I just don't get the roadside message. The argot of the asphalt escapes me completely. "Fallen rock zone," for instance. How does one recently comport one's self in a fallen rock zone? Look up, then duck. Look down and cringe? "Drive slow"—it should be slowly but the roads' scholars decree otherwise—and give the fallen rock a sporting chance to conk me? Should I "resume speed" to avoid pulverization or hie to the nearest "roadside rest" until the rocks have had their fill of falling?

Nonsense. Let the rocks fall where they may, this sign has no place in a free society. Why should a fallen rock which pays no taxes, much less gathers any moss, be given the right of way over a sober, properly licensed, law-abiding, sign-watching, meter-feeding, tax-paying motorist?

And "end speed zone," what does that mean? Do I start to stop speeding or start to speed to stop from stopping?

Man and rod, I've been tooling along the nation's highways and byways, up "hill" and down "grade," through "thickly populated" (one barn, two sheds) and "densely populated" (one house, two barns, three chickens) areas for close to 15 years now and I have yet to encounter the stag at eye or at any other time at a "deer crossing" and wouldn't do the vaguest notion of what to do if I did.

Do the rules differ in season and out of season? What is the bag limit for a breech-loading 1953 Ford?

Come to think of it, I've never seen any eggs on the road in a "bird nesting area" or any crows at a "cattle crossing" or any backward moppets in a "slow children" sector, although several did seem a bit unstrung farther up the pike and a subsequent "slow school" sign informed me that their deficiencies were being remedied.

And please don't ask me to "be aware low flying aircraft," because the odd bug doesn't have an ejection seat, or to "watch low trees," no matter how pretty in autumn, when I should be watching the road; or to "drive off bridge in event of enemy attack," a sign on the George Washington bridge so boldly bids me. Fellows, it's a 136-foot drop into the Hudson. Let the enemy watch out for itself.

I'll "merge," I'll "yield," I'll even "squeeze," though it always makes me blush in mixed company, but I'll be darned if I'll "bump" just because a sign says so. The guy up front might be from out of state and not appreciate this legalized horseplay.

There are signs like "court quiet" and "alternate feed" which confuse and amuse me; signs like "road closed, proceed at own risk" which terrify and demoralize me, but of all sad signs that try my soul, the saddest are these: "One mile, pay toll."

Prefers Whistling Tornadoes

Personally, if I have to associate with the things, I prefer tornadoes which whistle.

That statement sounds a little ambiguous, I grant you, but there is a tale a-hanging to it.

A good many years ago, my wife and I in company with another couple took a vacation trip to the mountains of New Mexico. En route to the place, we passed through Lorenzo, Texas—where a tornado had struck just a day or two earlier. The wreckage left by the twister was on every hand and we were quite vividly impressed by the havoc we saw.

On our way back home after our outing, somehow we missed the right road and wound up in a little town called Sudan. It was late in the evening and a dark menacing evening it was. Heavy rolling clouds blocked out the skies. Lightning flashed constantly and the rumble of thunder shook the countryside.

To our inexperienced eyes, it looked very much like a doggone good night for a tornado.

This was in the days when motels were called tourist courts. And instead of fancy rooms comparable with the best hotel accommodations, you were more likely to find a tiny box shantily with a battered iron bedstead, a rusty old stove and one or two broken-backed cane chairs.

We wanted a place to spend the night. There was no hotel but we were told "to go that way" and we would find the "tourist park." In the pitch blackness, we could see nothing of our surroundings. The man who ran the place grumpily told us he had one cabin. We could take it or leave—it didn't matter to him. We took it.

The storm was rolling nearer; the clouds were blacker and more menacing than ever. We moved into the ratty looking shack, made make-shift beds and prepared to wait the dawn. There was no lock on the door so my friend borrowed the shoe laces out of my shoes and tied the rickety screen door to the frame. We bedded down as best we could and waited for what fate had in store.

An hour or two later, we were all awakened by an ear-shattering roaring. It was growing increasingly louder and more terrifying by the second. The frail cabin was trembling as if it had the ague. Our friends, who had made a bed on the floor, dashed outside. I was right on their heels. We stood there in the rainsplattered blackness looking in all directions. We shouted to one another, "Which way is it coming?" and our shouts were drowned out in the roar which by now was deafening.

Inside the cabin, my wife was still on the rathskackie bed. She pulled herself to her knees and peered out into the night through the small dingy window.

And just then, the tornado whistled. It whistled not once but three times—long, loud, clearly.

The roaring began to fade. Somewhat sheepishly we went back into the shack. We didn't tell each other that what we had heard was the sound of locomotives dragging a long string of boxcars along the tracks which were just a few feet to the rear of the cabin. We didn't say anything. We just went back to bed.

The next morning, we still didn't discuss the incident. I fingered the broken fragments of my shoe-laces—my friend had not bothered to untie his make-shift lock when he plunged out into the night. I slipped on my laceless shoes and we all quietly went to town to get some breakfast.

It didn't seem funny for sometime. Not until we had stowed away a platter of ham and eggs and gulped down a few cups of coffee.

All of us still think every tornado should be equipped with a whistle.

The Big Kitchen For Home, Sweet Home

As deponent keeps noting, not all the news is bad. Ever so often it is possible to get a cheerful little earful.

For instance, the efficiency kitchen, scarcely big enough to swing a soufflé in, is on the way out. The big, old-fashioned, all-purpose kitchen, once the core and pulse of family life is on the way back.

What this country needs, in the opinion of an impressive number of housewives, is a big kitchen-living-club-recreation room, just like mama and grandma used to command. This is the tenor of many letters reaching the National Association of Homebuilders.

The ladies, bless them, are fed to the teeth with the modern, small efficiency kitchen in which one is a crowd and two impossible. The present-day kitchen, engineer-planned and precision-built, strongly resembles the boiler room of the Nautilus.

Compact, all right, but is it homey? Oh, there's a place for everything and everything had better be in its place, or else there won't be room for the cook to lay an egg. Efficiency and step-saving is just dandy up to a point. But who wants to park the baby in the bowl of the electric mixer because there isn't room in the kitchen for a high chair, much less a play pen?

For some time, it has been obvious to me that this architectural nonsense, the family room, has been an attempt to house the displaced persons and activities that once centered in the warm, fragrant, homey, big kitchen. Usually the family room opens right off the kitchen, with only a room divider to separate it from the crockery and the cake batter.

But the family room is only a make-shift and the modern housewife recognizes it as such. What she wants is a kitchen just like mama used to have, a room that is the lively social center of the home. What the engineers forgot, when they whittled the kitchen down to cupboard size, is that love will do a lot more for a pot roast than all the efficiency they can corral.

The kitchen in which I grew up was a big, bright, sunny room, inefficient enough to give a modern kitchen-engineer the fantoms. The electric stove was on one wall and the coal range directly opposite on the other, almost a sleep-away. And the icebox was not in the kitchen at all, but in a little alcove in its own on an enclosed porch just off the kitchen.

And in the center of the kitchen was a big table, covered with a bright cloth, where we ate breakfast 365 mornings of the year, while coffee and flapjacks, bacon and eggs and fruits in variety perfumed the air. And the automatic dishwasher was a family patent named Inez.

Aunt Nell always said she dreamed of two improvements in that kitchen—either a signal system to regulate the traffic jam or a balcony where her ever-loving family and guests could watch her perform her miracles without getting under foot.

It is not too much to say that in a 14-room house we lived and had our being in the kitchen. It was the first place we gathered in the morning and the last at night, when we raided the icebox. And if there was a lot of grown-up company in the living rooms after dinner, we kids did our homework on the kitchen table, hard by the cookie jar.

No one had to preach "togetherness" in those days—it was pressed down and running over in every American kitchen. I don't say the revival of the big kitchen is the answer to juvenile-delinquency or fission neuroses but it might bring back Home, Sweet Home.

The Gallup Poll

Ike's Popularity Levels Off At 56 Pct.

PRINCETON, N. J.—President Eisenhower has held most of the ground he gained with voters last month in the sharp upswing recorded after his dispatch of U. S. troops to Lebanon.

Today, he is handling his job as President in a way that meets with the approval of 56 per cent of voters questioned in a nationwide Gallup Poll.

In August, after his decision to send Marines into the Middle East, his popularity index stood at 58 per cent—a sharp increase from the previous month.

But with the Congressional elections only five weeks away, political strategists will note that Mr. Eisenhower's present popularity with voters is significantly lower than it was at this stage of the 1954 Congressional race—the year when the Democrats took control of the House away from the GOP.

In September, 1954, 65 per cent of all voters approved of the way he was handling his job. By the time of the elections in November, it had slipped still further to his first term "low" of 57 per cent, or about where it stands today.

As they have every month since General Eisenhower first took office as the 34th President, Gallup Poll reporters asked voters in homes across the country this question: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Eisenhower is handling his job as President?"

Here is the vote today and one month ago.

Today August	Per cent
Approve	56
Disapprove	44
No opinion	15
Any direct translation of presidential	56

popularity into votes for Congress is, of course, impossible. Many factors other than party allegiance have an effect on whether a voter approves or disapproves of the President's handling of his job.

But the size of the vote of confidence a Chief Executive gets from the electorate certainly does have some effect on their chances of voting for his party.

In the case of former President Truman, for example, when the GOP had its big year in 1948 and swept to control of both Houses of Congress, the Democratic President's popularity index stood at 33 per cent.

Four years later when, in the 1950 Congressional election, the Democrats retained control of Congress by a slim seat margin, Mr. Truman's standing with voters was somewhat better than it had been in 1948—39 per cent approved of the way he was handling his job.

Thus, the fact that Mr. Eisenhower's popularity today is significantly lower than it was at a similar point in time in the last off-year campaign—a year when the Democrats won Congress—will doubtless be "good news" to the Democrats, "bad news" to GOP leaders.

Since the American political system does not provide for official votes of confidence between Presidential elections as, for example, does the British parliamentary system, scientific sampling polls can supply one indication of how the President is faring with voters.

In this sense, Mr. Eisenhower has been in the position of a "minority" President only once in the more than five-and-a-half years he has been in office—in April of this year when his popularity slipped below 50 per cent for the first time to 49 per cent.

Brand New Kind Of Competition

LOS ANGELES (AP)—J. L. Atwood, president of North American Aviation, Inc., told scientific group Monday that nowadays one aircraft company may be competing with another, selling to it and buying from it—all at the same time.

"There is a new flexibility in most companies through which their resources can be applied in whatever area and manner may be most beneficial to the nation," he said.

"A given firm may be a prime contractor on one program and a sub-contractor on another. It may undertake a complete weapon system today and a small component of a subsystem tomorrow."

Polish your car as you clean it—with POLISHAMPOO. Just apply rich hairless soaps, then scrub and flush off dirt and "road film" that resist ordinary washings. Phillips Tire Co. Has New Sealant

You can make your tubeless automobile tires puncture-proof, thanks to research done by United States Rubber Co.'s Research Laboratories.

A new puncture-sealant called Air Guard prevents the sudden loss of air even after the foreign object is ejected from the tread of your casing. Thus, it ends the danger of roadside tire changing due to tread punctures.

It is available locally at the Phillips Tire Co., located at Fourth and Johnson Streets. All five of your automobile's casings can have Air Guard installed in them for $9.95.

Air Guard makes any tubeless tire equal in mobile puncture safety to the highest priced puncture-sealing tires available today.

All tubeless tires have puncture-sealing characteristics as long as the puncturing object remains in the tread. Field tests proved, however, that tubeless tires serviced with Air Guard maintain safe, drivable air pressure for 48 hours after puncturing object has been thrown out.

Phillips Tire Co. is also the local dealer for the new low profile U. S. Royal Master, considered the first great tire advance in more than a decade.

Low-profile engineering makes possible a lower and wider, more stable and durable tire that permits the user to drive safely at maximum turnpike speeds for unlimited periods.

The motorist gets up to 60 per cent more safe mileage with the X-Tendable Tread—an utterly new concept of tread design, found in the Low-Profile U. S. Royal Master.

It's the safest tire one can put on his car. See it at Phillips Tire Co.

'Tight Money' Action Seen As Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility of another "tight money" action by the Federal Reserve Board was increased today by a sharp rise in the interest Uncle Sam pays on short-term borrowings.

The Treasury announced Monday night the government will pay an average interest rate of 2.920 per cent for the privilege of borrowing $1,800,000,000 for three months.

This marked an unusually steep rise over the 2.511 per cent which lenders demanded a week ago. Historically it's a pretty high rate to charge the nation's best credit risk for short-term money. It means all other borrowers, including blue chip corporations, are paying a good deal more.

The increase also means the interest rate on 90-day Treasury bills is now far out of line with the Federal Reserve Board's 2 per cent discount rate—the interest rate banks must pay for money borrowed from the reserve system.

In recent years, the discount rate invariably has been raised in circumstances such as these. The reserve board normally tries to keep the discount rate above the bill rate. This is to discourage banks from borrowing from the Federal Reserve and reinvesting in Treasury bills.

The current spread between the bill rate and the lower discount rate is greater than at any time in the past five years.

An increase in the discount rate usually produces an upward movement of all interest rates.

New Elegance, Power In 1959 Cadillac

Sweeping elegance of the new silhouette of the 1959 Cadillac series is matched by a powerful new engine. Shown here is the Series Sixty-Two six-window sedan, which features all the advanced engineering and design characteristics of the new models. They go on display Wednesday, at McEwen Motor Co., 403 Scurry.

1959 MODELS SHOWN WEDNESDAY

More Powerful Engine, New Design Features In Cadillac

New concepts of traditional Cadillac engineering and design are offered in the 1959 models, which go on display Wednesday. McEwen Motor Co., 403 Scurry is presenting the line locally.

Extensive changes are noted throughout the new Cadillac line. A new style note is set in appearance, from the new grille to the sculptured rear fins.

The look of elegance in Cadillac's new silhouette is matched by a powerful new engine. The 1959 power plant, the makers anouncement, is the result of engineering development based on Cadillac's 45 years of experience in the V-8 type. The power plant incorporates advanced principles of design to permit extremely smooth operation while delivering vigorous maximum power for all occasions.

The performance of the new Cadillac engine underscores extensive engineering improvements achieved in redesigning for greater displacement, a higher compression ratio, and more effective engine "breathing." There are new carburetor heating and warm-up controls.

The new engine has a displacement of 390 cubic inches and a compression ratio of 10.5 to 1. It has a 4-inch bore and stroke of 3.875 inches. The single four-barrel carburetor engine has 325 horsepower, while the "Q" engine with three dual-barrel carburetors produces 345 horsepower.

Cadillac for 1959 also is announcing a new shock absorber regarded as a major contribution to the industry.

The shock absorber has a nylon film sleeve which holds captive Freon-12. The Freon replaces the air which is in other types of shock absorbers and expands and contracts with the action of the oil. This continually keeps the unit at its best performance point.

Thirteen models are offered in the 1959 Cadillac line, including an additional sedan not available last year. The series is termed the most complete array of hardtop styling ever produced by Cadillac.

Jap Minister Friendly To U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi in a major policy speech before Parliament today reaffirmed Japan's friendship with the United States.

Speaking in the midst of propaganda pressure from Communist China and the Soviet Union because of American military bases in Japan, Kishi told the Diet: "Cooperation with free nations, especially the United States, is the keynote of Japan's foreign policy."

At the same time he called for a settlement of the Japan-Red China trade feud. He stressed that Japan will not recognize Peking but both countries could gain "mutual benefits through trade and cultural exchange."

Electric range surface units transfer heat by direct metal-to-metal contact... and electric ovens, insulated on all sides, top and bottom, keep flavors in the food and heat out of the kitchen. Dulles Encouraged Over Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles was reported a bit encouraged today over prospects of reaching a Formosa settlement but still concerned about continuing criticism of his policies in the crisis.

He faces questioning about the prospects at a news conference.

The chief encouraging note was Premier Chou En-lai's statement Sunday that the Red Chinese "do not give up their efforts to find a solution to the disputes between China and the United States through peaceful negotiations."

Although Chou surrounded that remark with more belligerent statements, some State Department officials considered it to have an important bearing on the U.S.-Red China ambassadorial talks at Warsaw. The fifth session of these talks was scheduled today.

No progress was made in the four earlier meetings, but the United States is anxious to keep the contact in hopes of finding some common ground for peaceful solution.

Some encouragement was drawn too from Nationalist China's increasing success in running the Communist blockade of Quemoy, the main target of Communist shelling and invasion threats since Aug. 23. Neighboring little Quemoy was still having supply troubles and was reported down to a 25-day reserve of food, however.

The Eisenhower administration has made considerable effort to win greater support for its policy of no appeasement of Red China over the offshore islands issue. But criticism has continued in both political and nonpolitical circles.

Some high ranking officials complain privately that this criticism may be doing the nation a disservice, in that it might give the Communists a picture of a divided nation.

Fears were expressed that the Communists might misinterpret intra-family arguments as weakness and start military action in the Formosa Strait which could embroil the United States in war.

Vice President Nixon took exception last weekend to published reports that 80 per cent of 5,000 letters received by the State Department since Aug. 23 were critical of U.S. Formosa Strait policy.

Nixon charged a State Department subordinate was deliberately trying to sabotage the policy by making this information available.

The State Department on Monday rejected that accusation. A spokesman said nobody would be fired or otherwise subjected to administrative action in the incident.

The White House, meanwhile, reported its mail was running 2 to 1 in favor of the administration's policy.

Quemoy Fears Flu As Winter Nears

By FORREST EDWARDS
 QUEMOY (AP) — More than 2,000 children on Quemoy and Little Quemoy are living in caves and underground shelters as winter approaches with threats of influenza, smallpox and exposure.

"Our greatest fear is an influenza epidemic," said Dr. Lin Chin Chiang, head of the Quemoy medical center for civilians. "Children and aged people are living in caves and underground shelters that will be damp and cold this winter."

"They need blankets, clothing and some safe way to heat their shelters. Even if the Communists stop their artillery attacks, many hundreds will have no surface homes."

Earlier, the civilian administrator of Little Quemoy said all of that island's 5,700 civilians, including 1,500 children, are living underground. Food is running low and virtually no medical supplies are available.

(The State Department announced in Washington last Friday that $180,000 in civilian relief supplies are being shipped to the Quemoy. The supplies will include shelters, temporary housing, medical supplies and emergency stockpiling of food.)

Four villages on Quemoy are 85 per cent rubble from Communist shells.

I visited Na Shan village, one of the hardest hit, Monday. Out of some 120 homes, I counted 93 demolished. I saw only five homes that had escaped direct shell hits.

Others had one livable room or a roof supported by fragments of walls. Some families had been living in underground shelters since Aug. 23, the day Communist guns began pounding the Quemoy.

Winter temperatures drop to the mid-40s, Dr. Lin said.

"Although not freezing, that cold combined with dampness will sap the resistance of the children and the aged. There will be suffering and the threat of epidemics."

Lin's medical center has 15 hospital beds in an underground ward. It was crowded with 67 wounded civilians, most of them sleeping on the floor between and under the beds. It was lit with candles.

When Lin operates, light is furnished by flashlights held by orderlies and less seriously wounded patients.

"We have a generator," the 35-year-old Shanghai-trained doctor said, "but it makes so much noise that it can be heard by the Communists on an island 1 1/4 miles from Quemoy!" and using it invites Red artillery."

Attorney Will Continue Battle For Negro Handyman

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Jimmy Wilson case may not be ended, although the 55-year-old Negro's death sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment.

An attorney for Wilson has hinted at new legal moves to attempt to change the life sentence.

"I still feel that the life imprisonment is extreme and harsh punishment for what Jimmy Wilson did," said Fred Gray, a Montgomery Negro attorney who represented Wilson.

Wilson had been sentenced to die in the electric chair for robbing an 82-year-old white woman.

Gray said he was gratified at the Governor's commutation Monday of Wilson's death sentence. But the attorney added, "I will do everything possible to help him (Wilson). If I feel that it is possible to do something about this excessive punishment by going further, then I certainly will do so."

The attorney declined to say what action he might take. He had said previously he might appeal the case to the federal courts.

At a news conference following Folsom's action in the case, the Governor said he had authority to reduce Wilson's sentence only to life imprisonment.

He added "I have given him clemency and it will be up to the Pardon-Parole Board to see how long he has to serve." Wilson would have to serve 15 years in prison before he would be eligible for parole from a life sentence.

Wilson, who had served two previous sentences for grand larceny, was condemned for robbing Mrs. Estelle Barker of $1.35 at her home at Marion, Ala. The elderly white widow testified the Negro attempted to rape her.

Judge Rules Pizza Not Proper Weapon

DETROIT (AP)—In court on an assault and battery charge, Benjamin Bendziecki, 25, testified that his wife kept telling him what a good pizza she was eating the night of Sept. 20.

"I told her, 'If you say it's a good pizza one more time, I'll stick it in your face.'"

"She did, and I did."

The judge gave him a year's probation.
