Full and free information is an integral and indispensable part of American society, and newspapers are dedicated to supplying that information, Sam Blackburn told the Downtown Lions Club on Wednesday.

Blackburn, member of the Big Spring Herald staff, said that everywhere newspapers are engaged in a constant struggle to keep people informed.

"No people without information can long remain free," he declared. He cited examples of bulwarking for freedom of assembly, religion and economy as well as of speech and press.

"As a matter of fact," said Blackburn, "one of the greatest contributions to freedom which newspapers makes is that result-

Playhouse 90 Goes To Past

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—For reasons best known to itself, Playhouse 90 decided to present one of William Saroyan's love affairs with the world entitled "The Time of Your Life" on CBS-TV Thursday night.

"The Time of Your Life" is a period piece of great appeal to anyone who at any period feels out of joint with the world as it is. It so affected playgoers of 19 years ago, when the world was badly out of joint, that even the austere Pulitzer Committee awarded it a prize as the best play of the year.

It is not a play. It is a series of sentimental sketches. It was so as televised by Playhouse 90 with moderate faithfulness.

It was so far offbeat from the expectations of settled middle age that it probably appealed to few except members of the current beat generation.

When their elders were pretty badly beat by the prospect of an imminent war, Nick's Saloon of Saroyan's play was a pleasant place into which to escape. It still was pleasant enough on television Thursday night, if you wanted to escape from the usual definition of reality.

There was Joe, with his sentimental philosophy of life, rather dourly played by Jackie Gleason. There was Kitty Duval, played by Betsy Palmer, a normally good woman doing an adequate job of being a normally bad woman. Kit Carson never was more entertaining than he was as portrayed by James Barton.

LETTER TO EDITOR

JayCee Speaks For Annual Sessions

To the Editor:

The Herald of October 2 contained an article from Senator Dorsey Hardeman headlined "Hardeman Opposes Annual Sessions". I feel this article misinterprets the proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 1.

On November 4th, the voters of Texas will be asked to decide if our state government shall be improved by holding annual legislative sessions, and if our legislators shall be paid an adequate salary.

In his letter Senator Hardeman offered the following objections to the proposed amendment:

1. "HJR No. 1 would permit continuous sessions of the legislature." HJR No. 1 actually states that the sessions of the legislature shall be 120 days in odd-numbered years and 60 days in even-numbered years, and that per diem shall be limited to such number of days.

2. "The proposed amendment authorizes a per diem, unlimited in amount." Unlimited per diem is at present the prerogative of the legislature. With adequate salaries, it is likely that per diem would be lowered rather than increased.

3. "HJR No. 1 authorizes unlimited expenses of office in an amount and manner as determined by the legislature." Existing statutes give the legislature the power to determine expenses of office. HJR No. 1 does not change this.

4. Senator Hardeman states, "The proposed amendment is wholly unnecessary from the standpoint of either results contemplated or expenses involved." Our system of biennial sessions was established 83 years ago, in "horse and buggy days". Quite obviously this has been inadequate, for in the past 32 years it has been necessary to have 17 "Called" sessions in addition to the 16 regular sessions. Currently, the budget for the State of Texas is adopted some 30 months in advance. The fallacy of this practice has never been more apparent than recently during the reduction

Lyndon Disavows Presidential Hopes

Johnson told the annual banquet of the Oak Cliff Chamber of Commerce he appeared as "your senator. I speak in no other role."

"For such time as I remain in public life, this is the only title I expect to hold and the only role in which I expect to speak. I am seeking no other position and I want no other role," he said.

Despite Experts, Mama Still Spanks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whatever the child psychologists say, spanking goes on.

"We spank and we don't apologize," said one of the 100 women delegates attending a conference on better living.

The mothers in the group were almost unanimously in favor of spanking as a form of discipline.

As the cross-section of American mothers saw it, parents have to agree on the discipline to make it work and you still have to "make the punishment fit the crime."

Horse, Gun Were Rangers' Mainstays

(Editor's note: This is the last of a series about the Texas Rangers, one of the peace officer organizations being honored during Law Enforcement Appreciation Week Oct. 5-11.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The horse and the gun have been the two indispensable aids of the Texas Rangers.

The Rangers learned to ride superbly, and they learned to care for their horses. An early-day Ranger could afford to own but one horse. In Indian country the Ranger slept on the ground with his horse nearby, hobbled or staked and sometimes tied to his wrist.

A Ranger's gun received almost as much attention as his horse. The Colt six-shooter not only gave the Texas Ranger a new weapon, it provided an entirely new method of fighting the Indians.

Few criminals the Rangers faced have been more dangerously murderous than those fierce gangs who escorted pack trains of illegal liquor across the border into the United States.

Typical of the heroism of the Texas Rangers, who will be honored at a banquet in Fort Worth

Friday night, is the story of a single Texas Ranger who stood alone in the darkness facing nine smugglers.

A group of Rangers had been sent to intercept a load of bootleg liquor being shipped into Texas. The only workable plan called for one man to pose alone as a contact the smugglers expected to meet.

The Ranger waited at the water's edge. For several minutes he watched the blackness of the night. Then he saw a match flare on the other side of the river. The Ranger struck a match. Two matches lighted across the river. The Ranger struck two. The exchange of signals went on until the Ranger saw a band of men wading the river with their knives and guns held high.

The Ranger explained he had been sent to pick up "the load." With conversation appropriate to the event, the Ranger stalled until the last smuggler had reached dry soil. Then, with a quick motion, he shoved the barrels of two six-shooters into the stomach of the leader and demanded their surrender.

Working quickly, the Ranger collected the weapons and then marched the outlaws up the hill to his captain.

Changes Mark 1959 Chryslers

DETROIT (AP)—A series of new engines and styling changes mark the 1959 Chrysler cars. Dealers will display the cars Oct. 24.

New optional, extra-cost items include front swivel seats, automatic dimming rear view mirror and headlight beam changer, extra low pressure tires and rear air suspension for automatic leveling.

Horsepower claims for the new engine range from 305 to 380. The 1958 range was 290 to 245.

All models except the sport-styled 300E have a new roof styled in two sections, separated by a stainless steel band. Hardtop roofs are changed to provide more passenger room.

Dual headlights have been integrated with parking and turn lights. A heavy grille and bumper mark the front. Rear quarter panels terminate in a notched tail light treatment. The taillights are in the fender fins.

The Chrysler 1959 line consists of the New Yorker, Saratoga and Windsor series and the Chrysler 300E.

The New Yorker has a 350-horsepower engine; the Saratoga 325 with four-barrel carburetor and the Windsor 305. The engines have 10.1 to 1 compression ratios. New Yorker and Saratoga models have dual exhaust systems.

Chrysler says the new engines have been designed to deliver increased torque and horsepower in the low and medium speed ranges for greater agility in traffic.

Brooklyn Site Of Racial Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Sixteen Negro teen-agers attacked a number of white high school students on a Brooklyn elevated train Thursday. Authorities blamed the attack on racial unrest.

The racial conflict began Wednesday at Franklin K. Lane High School in Brooklyn. Three white boys attacked some Negro youths outside the school. School officials termed the assault unprovoked and suspended two of the white boys. The third was not a student.

Principal Harry Eisener commented: "I believe that the insecurity and unrest between Negroes and whites has been provoked by the situation in Arkansas and Virginia."

Supt. John Theobald termed the student battles "a most deplorable situation," adding, "White boys and colored boys are equally blameworthy."

Quality, Not Quantity, Counts In Proteins

By LELORD KORDEL

Installment Six

Not all proteins are alike. It is as much a question of "plenty of protein" as it is a question of making certain to eat enough of the right kind of protein—or complete proteins. The youth protecting value of the protein foods you eat depends not so much on the quantity as on the quality of the proteins you select.

In recent years you've probably heard or read about "the amino acids." What this means is that all food protein is broken down in the chemical laboratory of your body into amino acids. Amino acids might be well described as the travelling form of protein in the human body.

From these amino acids, after they reach the bloodstream, your chemically efficient body proceeds to construct the kinds of body proteins needed to repair or replace the varying types of worn-out body cells.

The truth about these various kinds of food proteins was first suspected when laboratory animals were noticed to be slowly starving to death on an exclusive diet of certain proteins, and yet thriving on an exclusive diet of still other proteins.

From these observations it was discovered that some foods are complete proteins, while others are incomplete. What this means is simply that some foods (the complete proteins) contain all of the essential amino acids, and other foods do not. You could live to a healthy, youthful old age by eating nothing except the foods that are complete proteins (witness the exclusively meat-eating Eskimos and gauchos), whereas slow starvation would be the inevitable result if you attempted living exclusively on the incomplete, not wholly digestible proteins found in vegetables and fruits.

Lean meat (this includes gland-meats, fish, poultry), eggs, cheese and other milk products are complete proteins, that is, they contain all of the essential amino acids in correct proportions for maximum human nourishment.

Whole grain products, soybeans, legumes and some nuts are classed as partially complete proteins—meaning that their amino acids are not in balanced proportions to meet all body needs. However, these proteins are valuable "secondary" foods.

INCOMPLETE PROTEINS

Vegetables, fruits and some grains are incomplete proteins. Corn, for instance, contains only 7 of the essential amino acids, while cabbage has even fewer. Yet by no means does this lessen the value of vegetables, fruits and whole grains in your diet; what "incomplete" means is that you would eventually starve to death trying to subsist entirely on these low-grade protein foods. But these incomplete proteins can be used to great advantage in a diet, as supplements to the high-protein foods.

(When I say that you would starve to death on a diet of fruits and vegetables, I can imagine you thinking, "But how about the vegetarians?" We'll get to them a little further along.)

Each plant or animal food we eat contains a special variety of protein. The closer a food protein resembles human protein, the more valuable it is for human nutrition. That is why we speak of high-grade proteins, meaning those foods that yield a maximum of protein nutrition in relation to the quantity consumed; and low-grade proteins, meaning those that furnish the body with only small amounts of usable protein.

MEAT PROTEIN WORTH MORE

To illustrate: 100 grams of meat protein (high-grade) are far more valuable to human nutrition than 100 grams of carrot protein (low grade).

A diet built around foods containing all of the essential amino acids is a youth protecting health-promoting diet because it is a high-protein diet. If any do not still linger in your mind that a high-protein diet, if any doubt still lingers over your allotted span of years (four score and more) let me remind you again that you are made of protein.

Let me outline briefly what we know to be the direct effect of the essential amino acids on the human body. (You needn't remember their names—which are jaw-breakers!)

Arginine is called the "fatherhood amino acid." When seriously lacking in the body, the sex instinct undergoes marked decrease in men and women alike.

Tryptophane is known to help ward off signs of premature aging. It protects you against certain eye disorders, easy susceptibility to colds and respiratory disorders.

Valine is directly related to the nervous system (one part of the body that really takes a beating as we grow older), and your diet must contain plenty of this protein if you want to avoid nervous disorders and digestive upsets.

Methionine, if seriously lacking in the body, may cause hardening of the liver (cirrhosis) and nephritis, (a serious kidney disease). It is also necessary to maintain normal body weight.

All of these essential amino acids, plus the literally thousands of different protein combinations manufactured in your body from them (the red coloring matter in your blood, or hemoglobin as its called for example, may contain as many as 376 different amino acid groups)—must do an uninterrupted job of building, repairing and replacing, if you are to remain a living animal.

LIVES ONLY ABOUT 30 DAYS

A red blood cell lives about 30 days. This means that every month a fresh, newly processed red blood cell must be recruited from your bone marrow into the bloodstream as a replacement for the defunct cell. The same is true of white blood cells. Kidney, bladder and intestinal cells are constantly being lost and must be replaced if these organs are to do a good job of removing wastes from your body. Skin, hair, fingernail and toenail cells are continually being destroyed and new ones must be provided. Internal and external secretions (such as hormones, enzymes, digestive juices, tears, skin oils) must be produced without interruption in a healthy body.

To make sure that you have the correct answer to the nutrition riddle "How much protein is enough?" your safest bet is to eat more than enough.

Teacher Sticks It Out

ELKHORN, Colo. (AP)—Mrs. Esther Murphy undoubtedly feels like a captain without a ship. She's a schoolteacher with no one to teach.

Nevertheless, she sat in her empty classroom Thursday for the fourth straight day.

Parents of the 10 children who had been attending Elkhorn School claim Mrs. Murphy, 58, isn't a good teacher. They asked the school board to fire her. The board refused.

The parents have charged that Mrs. Murphy, in her first year as this combined elementary-high school's lone teacher, (1) allowed two boys to become lost, (2) had one youngster tied to his chair and (3) maintains no discipline in the classroom.

Mrs. Murphy answered two of the charges.

Of the lost boys, she said: "They asked me if they could go down the road. I told them to go no further than the bridge. I meant the culvert. The boys went to the bridge about a mile away."

About the youngster being tied to his chair, Mrs. Murphy said: "The boy couldn't have been tied up more than 15 minutes. It was the only way to keep him from jumping up all the time."

Five of the eight parents took their complaint to Dr. Leg F. Black, assistant Colorado state

She Takes It Easy

Lee Remick, whose stardom is predicted by Hollywood critics, believes in individuality. She is soon to be seen in 20th Century-Fox's "These Thousand Hills."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Plenty Of Sleep Her Prize Beauty Secret

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—One of our favorite pastimes in Hollywood is predicting who will zoom into stardom, and one name on everyone's lips is Lee Remick. The critics raved after seeing her in "The Long Hot Summer," and 20th Century-Fox rewarded her with a starring role in "These Thousand Hills."
 Lee went to school in conservative Boston, which is quite a contrast to Hollywood.
 "I was told to be careful here or that Hollywood would try to fit me into the current standard—like a cookie from a cutter," Lee told me. "But I really can't complain because they didn't change anything about me except the color of my hair. I felt I could have played the role just as effectively with my natural color, light brown. As soon as this picture is over I'm going to stop bleaching it."
 When the conversation turned to fashion, Lee revealed that her father had a department store and she had become clothes-conscious early in life.

 "I don't adopt a style just because it is designed by some famous person or because someone in France issues an edict. We must strive for individuality if we want people to notice us instead of the dresses we are wearing."
 I told Lee I had heard she was the most relaxed person on the set. She laughed and replied:
 "It is true. I really don't get upset easily and my family is easy-going, too. I think my father worked to keep an anti-ulcer atmosphere in our home. It helped me develop a sense of values, to see things in their proper proportions and not to allow trivia to be magnified. So many people blow their tops, making a mountain out of a molehill."
 When I asked Lee her most prized beauty secret, she admitted it was getting plenty of sleep.
 "I like to get more than eight hours sleep, but this getting up at six-thirty. . . . She made a face. "I try to rest as much as I can between takes. I have a trailer on the set and I go there and lie down."
 Lee was married last year but she still looks like a teen-ager. "Being well-rested is the secret of youthfulness," I commented.
 "They tell me I have a baby face and there is nothing I can do about it. Putting on a lot of make-up doesn't help. I just look like a little girl playing at being grown up," she concluded.

Mrs. Zant Hostess For Luther Club

Mrs. Frances Zant was hostess for the Luther Home Demonstration Club Thursday, when nine answered roll call by naming the title of a favorite poem.
 Mrs. Dan Self reported on the recent council meeting, telling the amount of money gained from the sale of pies at the 4-H Club pig sale.
 A demonstration was presented by Mrs. W. R. Jones, HD agent, who showed a method of pastry-making and also told the group of a lemon pie that can be frozen. Arrangement was announced for the Oct. 20 tour of homes, to which all HD club members are invited.
 Mrs. Billy Gill is slated as hostess for the next meeting, to be on Oct. 23.

Lutheran Women To Midland Rally

Eight local women were in Midland Thursday to attend the fall rally of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of the West Texas Zone. The all-day meeting, held at Grace Lutheran Church, drew approximately 75.
 Present from Big Spring were Mrs. Albert Hohertz, Mrs. Henry Fehler, Mrs. Wayne Dittloff, Mrs. Gus Oppgard, Mrs. Walter Pachall, Mrs. Ted Pachall and Mrs. John Foster.
 During the morning, Mrs. A. J. Alfie of Pecos, president, had charge of the business session. It resulted in a vote to give the offering for the day to the church extension fund, in the interest of building more churches and increasing the mission work.
 Guest speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. Orville Buttrick of Lubbock, former missionary to the Philippines. He told of his work in the islands and showed colored slides.

Church Folk Stage Housewarming

About 70 members of the Wesley Methodist Church surprised the Joe Kitchings with a housewarming Thursday night. The group met at the church before proceeding to the Kitching home at 514 Washington Blvd.
 Mrs. J. W. Garrison, Mrs. T. A. McGuffey, Mrs. W. Nuckols, Mrs. Frank Arner, Mrs. W. D. Lovelace, Mrs. Bill Estes and Mrs. Doug Clemens served refreshments at the party.

Altrusans To Sponsor Films On Foreign Tour

Altrusa Club members met for a business luncheon Thursday at the Wesley Methodist Church.
 Announcement was made by one of the units of the gathering planned for Monday evening at Howard County Junior College. Bruce Frazier will show films taken on his trip to Europe and will comment on the highlights of the journey.
 Tickets are priced at 50 cents, with the proceeds to go into the fund of the club. Function of the money raised by members is to assist in furnishing a room at the YMCA upon completion of the building.
 Included in the disbursements of the club is the scholarship fund, through which a Howard County student is enabled to attend HJC.
 An invitation was read to the group for a dinner to be given by the Altrusa Club of Midland on Oct. 23.
 Mrs. A. C. Bass, vice president, was named delegate to the state meeting, slated for Waco, on Oct. 17-18, with Mrs. Ruby Billings as alternate. Mrs. G. B. Sawtelle president of the club, will be unable to attend as delegate, it was announced.
 Twenty-three were present for the meeting. The next session will be a luncheon instead of a night affair, as originally planned.

ESA Sorority Sees Souvenirs Of Europe

Purchases made abroad were shown to members of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority Thursday evening when Mrs. Betty Ray Clifton was guest speaker.
 Meeting in the home of Mrs. Fred Stitzell, the group viewed Irish linen, Scotch plaid, Delft china, and other articles, which Mrs. Clifton had brought back from her trip to Europe. She told of some of the places visited and showed slides taken during the trip.
 Mrs. W. L. Phillips, who was co-hostess for the meeting, outlined rush activities slated for the month of November. They are to be announced at a later date.
 Announcement was made of the meeting of District Eight, which will be held in Snyder on Oct. 19; the hostesses served refreshments to nine members and the guest.
 Mrs. Tolford Durham will be hostess for the Oct. 23 meeting when Barbara Ann Ewe will be cohostess.

Mrs. Carlton Is Named XYZ Prexy

Mrs. Travis Carlton was elected president of the XYZ Club, auxiliary to the American Business Club, at their dinner meeting at the Wagon Wheel, Thursday night.
 Also named to office were Mrs. Merrill Creighton, vice president, and Mrs. Royce Satterwhite, secretary-treasurer, who will also serve as reporter.
 The invocation was worded by Mrs. J. D. Jones. The group presented a gift to Mrs. Bill Draper, retiring president.
 Queens wreath in a crystal basket was used as the centerpiece by the hostesses, Mrs. J. G. Lewis and Mrs. Satterwhite. During the game party which followed the meeting, they awarded prizes to Mrs. Carlton, who had the high score, and to Mrs. Draper, as consolation winner. Two attended.
 Mrs. Bob Spears and Mrs. Draper will cohost the next meeting.

Listeners Hear Wagner, Beethoven

Wagner, Donizetti and Beethoven were the composers in the spotlight Thursday night when the Classical Music Listeners' Group met at HJC Music Building. The group, sponsored by the Women's Association of Cosden Country Club, is open to the public.
 Adrian Randle planned the program of recorded music, which featured German lieder composed by Wagner and sung by Kirsten Flagstad. Also heard were Donizetti's "Elixir Of Love," with Albert De Costa as artist, and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.
 Ten were present.
 Mr. and Mrs. Harold Summers, 1413 Sycamore, will host the next session at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 21 at their home.

Halloween Party Is In Store For Club

In a business meeting Thursday evening, the Indoor Sports Club planned a Halloween party for the next meeting, which is set for Oct. 23. The club met at the Girl Scout Little House.
 A guest, Mrs. Sarah Parker, read selected poems as the entertainment for the members. She is a teacher in Cedar Crest School.
 Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nina James, president of the Good Sports Club, Mrs. Ruby Rowe, Ruth Beasley and Mrs. Alma Gollnick.
 Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt Eason and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalley left today for Hot Springs, Ark., where they will spend three or four weeks. They plan to undergo the hot baths, and the menfolk will do some fishing.

P-TA Groups Discuss Traffic, Carnival Plan

Local P-TA units, meeting Thursday, discussed various activities for future work. Carnivals are in the planning stage, and traffic is a major concern.
CEDAR CREST
 The school carnival date was set by the Cedar Crest P-TA when members met at the school Thursday afternoon.
 Oct. 30 was selected for the celebration, which will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the school. Arranged will be various booths and a concession stand at which hot dogs, cold drinks, pie and coffee will be sold.
 Mrs. R. B. Hall, vice president, presided for the meeting; members elected Mrs. E. B. Pierson president. This was the only office that had not been filled.
 Mrs. Fred Overton brought the devotion. The fifth grade, taught by Mrs. Jim Anderson, won the attendance prize.
 It was decided to award a $5 prize to the room getting the greatest number of memberships for the association. This is to be based on a percentage basis.
 Refreshments were served to about 40 by the mothers of first grade pupils.

Westbrook Group Attends State Fair

WESTBROOK—Westbrook High School students and sponsors attended the Dallas Fair last weekend. They made the trip by bus.
 Mrs. T. L. Ramsey of Clyde is guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Aluis Clemmer and sons this week. Mrs. Clemmer and Mrs. Ramsey spent Tuesday in Stanton visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Webster.
 Mrs. W. E. Rucker was in Big Spring Tuesday.
 At a meeting of the College Heights P-TA Thursday afternoon, the problem of traffic around the school was discussed. A committee was appointed to investigate possible solutions.
 Mrs. Earnest Stewart opened the gathering with a musical devotion, and the business meeting followed. Elected secretary was Mrs. L. L. Robertson, who will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Garland Land.
 Floyd Parsons, superintendent of schools, was guest speaker, whose topic was American Education—Why? Parsons stressed the fact that the present day schools are designed to give the student a well-rounded background.
 Announcement was made that 450 are listed on the membership roll, with Grace Mann's room leading; the attendance count was

334-N

Cosden Women Hear Tips On Vacation Plans

Secrets for reaping dividends from auto vacationing were revealed by a nationally known travel authority Thursday noon to members and guests of the Women's Association at Cosden Country Club. Carol Lane, women's travel director for Shell Oil Company, shared the suggestions which she has gleaned in her thousands of miles of journeying.
 Vacations need not be exclusively the usual two-week variety, said Miss Lane. Throughout the year, free weekends may provide the opportunity to take a touriste. She suggested getting a map of the area, pivoting from the center a string measuring a 200 to 300-mile radius, and looking for points of interest within the circle traced. Such a practice frequently opens up new avenues of leisure-time activity and teaches one to get to know and appreciate his section of the country.
 By careful planning in advance, an auto vacationer can secure the maximum stimulation, recreation, comfort and economy. Camping is becoming increasingly popular, said the speaker, because it offers a change of pace, an economical holiday for an entire family, and an opportunity to be out in nature.
 More than 87 per cent of the vacations in this country are planned by women, stated Miss Lane. In her presentation, she demonstrated the packing of a woman's wardrobe for two weeks into a 26-inch suitcase. The magic is in taking versatile, dirt-defiant, packable clothes and being prepared for the unpredictable. Included in the wardrobe were hats, made by a Carol Lane pattern and styled to pack flat, interchangeable cummerbunds and bags. The items were packed in catalogued layers cut of pellant, which absorbs wrinkles.
 Mrs. Lloyd Nalls, president, introduced the speaker and presided for the business session following the luncheon. She read a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Bill Crooker, initial president, and presented her with a gift from the group. Mrs. Crooker was also awarded the centerpiece, which was a wicker container filled with a dried arrangement in tones of orange and beige.
 About 34 attended.

ASSOCIATES CONGRATULATE R. W. HOLBROOK ON 25-YEAR AWARD

Rubert Holbrook Honored By Cosden For 25 Years' Service

Rubert W. Holbrook, whose associates staunchly hold as operating the best refinery machine shops anywhere, became a 25-year man for Cosden Petroleum Corp. Wednesday evening.

Fellow workers and high company officials were on hand, including President R. L. Tollett, who made the presentation of the 25-year pin and the customary month's salary Cosden gives those with a quarter of century continuous service. So were his father, R. H. Holbrook, his brother, R. L. Holbrook, and a brother-in-law, Elmer Boatler.

Holbrook ranks as the oldest foreman, from point of service, in the Cosden employ, for he has been a foreman since he was hired on Oct. 10, 1933.

That was a big break for the man who had found the sledging pretty hard back in the depression days.

Having left school at the age of 15 to help bolster family finances, he worked for a dairy for two years before getting on with a road construction crew. This brought him to Big Spring and he got a job in the T&P shops as a machinist—the very same trade his father had followed in the railroad shops at Baird.

But when the depression scrapped bottom in 1932, his job at the shops was abolished. He worked at anything he could find to keep his family going, and even picked cotton at 25 cents a hundred pounds. Then came his first chance to work for Cosden as a construction hand and a pump mechanic, but when the project was completed, so was his job. He worked briefly as a machinist at Col-Tex refinery in Colorado City, then came back to Big Spring to look for another job. He was planning to leave the next morning for a position in Odessa when he was offered a machinists' place at Cosden.

"I jumped at the chance," he said. To his delight, he found that the offer was for a foreman's

Church Shunts Prayer Change

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Episcopal Church has shunted aside a proposed change in the Lord's Prayer.

The diocese of Harrisburg, Pa., proposed at the church's general convention Thursday that the words "lead us not into temptation," be changed to "let us not fall into temptation."

The matter was promptly referred to a long-range study committee.

post as well as serving as a machinist. Six months later the foremanship was combined with that for pump maintenance and continued so until 1955 when the new machine shops were constructed.

"If you want to spit in his shops, you'd better spit in your pocket and not on his floor," said one of his associates. Holbrook has a reputation for sternness, but here again his fellow workers rate him as "one of the tenderest-hearted men" they know.

He's never fired anyone in his 25 years.

"Never had to," he said. "They've all been good workers."

Holbrook is married to the former Clara Bailey and they have a daughter, Carolyn, 16. He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, active in the Knights of Pythias, and devotes all of his off-work hours to his yard at 1111 Wood.

MOON SHOT

Still Another New World To Be Opened Columbus Day

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
WASHINGTON (AP)—Columbus Day, the 466th anniversary of the discovery of America, may find American scientists probing toward a new world in space.

Although there has been no official announcement, the Air Force reportedly is ready to make another try at hurling an unmanned space satellite to the vicinity of the moon — possibly before dawn Saturday.

Thus, if all goes well, man's first device to explore the moon area would be well on its way on Columbus Day, Sunday.

This is so because a rocket flight to the moon—some 231,000 miles away at this particular time—would take a little over 2 1/2 days.

The first moon probe attempt by the Air Force failed Aug. 17. The rocket exploded after 77 seconds of flight.

The four days starting Saturday are the best in October for trying a moon shot. During this period the moon is closest to the earth. The shot will be fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

There is no plan actually to strike the moon with the 85-pound lunar probe mounted in the nose of an 88-foot, three-stage rocket.

Included in the payload are 25 pounds of instruments—notably a television-type scanning device designed to get rough pictures of the side of the moon never before seen from the earth. Other instruments are intended for counting meteorites and for determining whether the moon has a magnetic field. And the probe is equipped with radio transmitters for sending information back to earth.

Lunar probe rocketeers have cautioned that complete success would hinge on perfect functioning of some 300,000 parts of the payload and its launching rocket.

The rocket would have to reach speeds up to 24,000 miles an hour to escape the earth's gravitational pull. In this connection, the rocketeers say the venture would be considered a partial success if the rocket was able to break away from the earth's gravity.

Project scientists have said there's only a slight chance of the probe going into an orbit around the moon.

Their best hope, they say, is to be able to shoot the rocket's instrumented payload within 50,000 miles of the moon. Chances of coming within that distance on the first trial are rated as no better than 1 in 10.

Even at such a distance, valuable information might be obtained — possibly pictures of at least the visible surface of the moon.

And if the object did not achieve any kind of lengthy orbit around the moon, one or two erratic passes around it conceivably could produce crude pictures of the hidden side.

Even on the four most favorable days in a given month, rocketeers have only about 15 minutes leeway each day to fire the device—and still have any chance of coming even within 50,000 miles of the moon.

This is because the launching site and the moon are best aligned for a shot only during such a brief period.

The rocketeers won't be aiming directly at the moon. Rather, they will shoot for an area some 137,000 miles ahead of the moon at the time the rocket is launched.

The moon rocket would be launched in a southeasterly direction from Cape Canaveral to take advantage of the earth's easterly rotation. This would add to the rocket's inherent speed.

The rocket's course would take it over the equator and about half way around the earth to gain height and speed before hurtling toward its rendezvous with the moon.

Weak Norther Enters Texas

A weak-kneed norther pushed across Texas Friday but didn't have much effect.

The cold front passed Dallas at 3 a.m. but by 5 a.m. temperatures had dropped only five degrees.

At 8 a.m. the front lay along a line from Texarkana to Longview to north of Waco to near Junction and then west into the Big Bend Country. It continued to move south and east.

Predawn temperatures ranged from 38 degrees at Dalhart to 79 at Galveston.

Thundershowers boomed near Longview and Tyler Friday, light rain fell at Dallas and drizzle at San Antonio.

Skies were cloudy east of a line from Childress to Abilene to the Big Bend Country and clear west of that line.

Thunderstorms boomed over the upper Red River Valley Thursday night and the Weather Bureau warned of severe thunderstorms, isolated hail and damaging surface winds along a 120-mile wide strip from 40 south of Wichita Falls to Flippin, Ark. The alert expired at midnight.

Cooler weather was forecast for all of Texas with scattered thundershowers in the east and south.

Divorced Fathers Here Have Good Record Of Child Support

Howard County's record for prompt payment in child support cases and for fewer delinquent payees is better than that of nearly any county in the state, according to Fred R. Crawford, Ph. D. research associate for the Hogg Foundation of Mental Health. Dr. Crawford, who is in the Big Spring area at the present time engaged in a mental health research project, checked through the child support books in the office of Wade Choate, district clerk, as a part of his survey activity. He expressed the opinion that child support payments in this county are more promptly paid than in other counties where he has investigated. Choate's records show there are 91 individuals on his books who are paying child support. Then payments range from $200 — the highest — to $20 per month for the lowest. Under the system employed here and in most counties, where a divorce suit terminates in the father being ordered to make monthly payments for the support of dependent children, he pays his money to the court clerk. The wife collects the payment from the clerk. When Choate became court clerk he introduced a new system which has been highly effective in keeping down confusion and in keeping the records clear. In the past, the payments to the wives were made in cash. If the man paid in $20 the clerk handed his ex-wife the cash. Choate's plan is to take all the payments, deposit them in a special bank account and make all payments to the wives by check against this account. He has found this eliminates the often heard contention in the past that a payment for a certain month was not made. All he has to do is pull the cancelled check and the argument is over. Judge Charlie Sullivan keeps a watchful eye on the fathers he has ordered to make payments for support of dependent children. When a parent gets behind in his monthly payments, Choate reports the matter to the court. The judge can call a hearing to have the parent show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court. If his explanation for his delinquency is unsatisfactory, the court can send him to jail. This has been done in a few cases. The sentence orders him detained until he makes up payments he owes. Six such contempt matters are now docketed for disposition on Oct. 17. Generally, the court will exercise leniency where a legitimate excuse is presented and give the man time to correct his delinquency. "We try to keep an eye on cases where a divorced woman with dependent children remarries," Choate said. "The new husband knows that she has the children and that it will be his responsibility to care for them. We also keep an eye on divorced fathers who remarry and who are supposed to make continued payments to their ex-wives for support of their minor children. His remarriage does not relieve him of his obligation. The court is aware of these developments and they have their proper bearing on cases which come before it." Choate said the oldest regular paying client on his books has been making $5 per week payments since 1945. His record is excellent, the clerk added. Each week, he shows up and leaves his $5. Later in the week, his former wife appears and is handed her check for that week's payment.

St. Paul Lutheran Slates 'Friendship Week' Oct. 19

The Rev. Paul Stueckler of El Paso, a close friend of Dr. Werner von Braun, German rocket expert, will be the speaker for "Lutheran Open House and Friendship Week" Oct. 19-23 at St. Paul Lutheran Church. Von Braun was a member of Zion Lutheran Church in El Paso, where the Rev. Stueckler is pastor, for several years after World War II. The scientist's daughter was baptized by the pastor. The Rev. Stueckler became a favorite with the numerous German scientists who were assigned to Ft. Bliss in 1946, because of his Lutheran faith and his fluency in the German language. He helped educate some 75 children of the German families. He will deliver sermons Sunday morning and each evening at the special evangelistic services of Friendship Week. Each service will feature a special message for children. In addition, training sessions for various groups will be conducted. A native of Birmingham, Ala., the Rev. Stueckler studied at Lutheran College, Fort Wayne, Ind., becoming proficient in six languages. The former athlete has been in the ministry 36 years and has never missed a service because of illness. He played college baseball during his studies and helped pay his way as an outfielder-infielder.

REV. PAUL STUECKLER

for a semi-pro team at Wheeling, W. Va. His ministry began with a pastorate at Alexandria, La. Since being called to El Paso in 1946, he has been named chairman of the Area Lutheran Conference of the Missouri Synod. In this capacity he has started several churches including Redeemer in Grace, in the Lower Valley; Grace Church, Mountain View; Trinity, Alamogordo, N. M.; Bethlehem, Las Cruces, N. M.; and St. Johns at Truth or Consequences, N. M.

Services are planned for 6 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. each day during the week.

Webb Employes Cited For ATC Suggestions Program

Civilian employes at Webb AFB for the second consecutive year have achieved the distinction of winning both the highest participation rate and the greatest increase in participation in the Civilian Suggestion Program for all bases of Air Training Command during Fiscal Year 1958. Maj. Gen. Carl A. Brandt, ATC vice commander, in a letter to Col. Kyle L. Riddle, base commander, said, "The accomplishments are an indication that you and your staff are aware of the Incentive Awards Program to the accomplishment of your mission in a more economical manner. I am confident that your base will continue its outstanding promotion and administration of the program throughout fiscal year 1959." Webb AFB, as a result of its achievements in the Civilian Suggestion Program, received two certificates signed by Lt. Gen. Frederic H. Smith Jr., ATC commander, one for its highest participation rate and the other for its greatest increase in participation. The awards have gone through channels to Lt. Col. Carey B. McCoy, wing personnel officer, and Warren A. Farrow, civilian personnel officer.

Chief Crocker, Family Stage Program On Fire Prevention

Kiwanians observed National Fire Prevention Week Thursday and the program was 100 per cent presented by the Crocker family. H. V. Crocker, fire chief for Big Spring, discussed the need for more care in preventing fires and reviewed information about fire losses in the community. His son, Johnny Crocker, played two selections on the piano and his daughter, Malinda, whistled two numbers.

They are: Remain calm and avoid getting excited; call the fire department immediately; clear the home or building of all occupants; use available fire extinguishers or other fire fighting appliances to control fire until local department arrives and, above all, make sure at all times to practice fire prevention as a protection against fire.

selected as a member of the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by Mitchell's retirement. Jack Alexander, president, Sherman Smith, vice president, and Ernest Welch, secretary, in company with Floyd Parsons, Big Spring candidate for lieutenant governor of Division XXII, Kiwanis International, will leave this weekend for Brownsville for the Texas-Oklahoma District Convention.

Boydston P-TA Sets Carnival

Date for the annual carnival was set back to Oct. 31 by the Boydston P-TA at its monthly meeting Thursday at the school. Program speakers developed the topic of faith in their discussion. The Rev. Clyde Nichols, introduced by Bill Nichols, gave the devotion thought, "Responsibility in the Matter of Keeping Faith." Weldon Stephenson spoke on "Having Faith in Our Children." Named as delegates to the state P-TA convention were Mrs. O. L. Collins and Mrs. Robert E. Lee, president, with M. R. Turner, principal, as alternate. The unit voted to confer two life memberships in the state association during the year. Announcement was made by Turner that the school board had asked that the sidewalk building program be held up pending establishment of curb and paving by the city. The budget report was given by Mrs. Bluford Turner. Program for the day was in charge of Mrs. Collins, and 128 attended.

Machine Strips Lubbock Man

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Charles Sweeney, 41, an insurance inspector, finished checking an electric motor at a gin. He stepped from the ladder and...zip...he was tossed nearly naked on the floor. E. K. Schwartz, superintendent of the cotton gin, found the missing clothes wrapped around a two-inch drive shaft near where Sweeney had stepped from the ladder. All he had left was a coat sleeve, a necktie, shoes and socks. Sweeney, who suffered minor cuts and bruises, later told Schwartz: "First thing I thought about when I woke up was how come I was lying on the floor with all my clothes gone."

Baptist Churches Will Observe Layman's Day At Sunday Services

Layman's Day will be observed in two Baptist churches Sunday morning. Lay speakers will occupy the pulpits at First Baptist and Baptist Temple churches.

Hillcrest Baptist will conclude a revival conducted this week by the Rev. C. E. Waincott of Andrews.

Phillips Memorial Baptist will launch a week-long revival Sunday.

Father Francis Beazley, pastor of St. Thomas Catholic Church, will start a three-month series of lectures on teaching of the church Monday evening.

The Church of the Nazarene congregation will mark the 50th anniversary of the denomination's founding with services Sunday.

Lay speakers at Baptist Temple Sunday will be Paul Vagt, W. L. McCarran and Billie Montgomery. Martelle McDonald of Odessa will speak at the First Baptist Church at the 11 a.m. service.

Here are details of Sunday church programs:

BAPTIST
Airport Baptist Church will hear the Rev. W. A. James in sermons on "The Triumph of a Repenting Soul," Luke 7:36-50, and "The Christian's Armor," Eph. 6:11.

At Baptist Temple, the church will observe Layman's Day with morning messages by three members, Paul Vagt, W. L. McCarran and Billie Montgomery. Montgomery is a newly licensed minister.

The 10-day revival which has been underway at Hillcrest Baptist Church will be concluded Sunday, announces the pastor, the Rev. H. L. Bingham. Topic given for the morning message by the Rev. C. E. Waincott, pastor of Second Baptist Church in Andrews, is "Six Marks of a New Testament Church."

Dr. P. D. O'Brien will be preaching on "Avoid Extremes," Eccl. 7:16-17, at the 8:45 worship service at First Baptist Church. In recognition of Layman's Day, Martelle McDonald of Odessa, formerly of Big Spring, will bring the message at the 11 a.m. service. For his evening sermon, the pastor will preach on "Christ and Emergencies," John 6:17.

At Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. D. R. Phillely will pave the way for the weeklong revival with a sermon Sunday morning on "Five Secrets of a Successful Revival," Judges 7:21. The revival will begin at the evening service, with the Rev. Calvin White of Levelland doing the preaching. Services are planned daily at 6 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

"Sustaining Grace," Rom. 8:24-25, and "Baptism" are the topics to be used for the Rev. R. B. Murray's sermons to Northside Baptist Church. At evening worship, there will be a baptismal period.

The Rev. Haskel D. Beck, pastor of Settles Baptist Mission, 19th and Settles Sts., will preach on "The Way Out," 2 Kings 6:16, and "Sin in the Camp," Josh. 7:10-11.

CATHOLIC
Mass will be said at St. Thomas Catholic Church, 605 N. Main, by the Rev. Fr. Francis B. Beazley, OMI, at 7 a.m. and 11 a.m. Rosary and benediction are at 7 p.m. Sunday. Confessions are heard on Saturday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. Catechism classes for grade school children are from 10 to 11 a.m. Saturday and, for high school children, from 10 to 11 a.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Fr. Beazley announces that a series of lectures on the teachings and practices of the Catholic Church will be held in the church basement beginning at 8 p.m. Monday. For three months they will be given by the pastor on Monday and Thursday evenings, and will embrace all phases of Catholic belief. All interested are invited to attend the hour-long session, which will conclude with a question and answer period.

At the Sacred Heart (Spanish-speaking) Church, Mass will be held at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Confessions will be heard on Saturday from 5 to 6 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. Benediction will be at 5:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Mass will be said Sunday at 5:30 p.m. in Coahoma at St. Joseph's Mission by the Rev. Fr. Adolph Metzger, OMI.

CHRISTIAN
With text from James 1:15, the Rev. Clyde Nichols will bring a message on "Just What Is Sin Anyway?" Sunday morning at First Christian Church. His evening topic will be "Men and the

THE SECRET PLACE

By CLYDE NICHOLS

"He that dwelleth in the secret places of the most High shall abide in the shadow of the Almighty."—Psalms 91:1.

Transformed Lives

The Apostle Paul was writing to the Church in the city of Rome. The Christian people there faced terrific problems. In those days the Christian life was difficult to maintain anywhere. It was especially hard in Rome. It was so easy for converts to gradually drift back into the ways of the pagan world about them.

Paul writes: "Be not conformed to the world." We know what he has reference to; it is the great danger we all face. A certain young boy was going away to military school. His father admonished, "Son, be loyal to your Christian faith. Have the courage, if needs be, to be different. Let no one turn you aside from what you know is right. I shall be praying for you that God will keep you steadfast." The father was saying to his son, "Be not conformed to the world."

Paul goes on: "But be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." Here perhaps is the greatest hunger of the human heart, the sincere longing to be transformed, changed, to be made better.

"Oh, that a man might arise in me that the man I am might cease to be!"

But such a transformation is difficult. First of all because of our inability to see our own faults. We see the faults of others, but not our own. A college boy complained to a fellow-student, "The people in the apartment next to mine are very rude; they pounded on my wall until after midnight." "I wouldn't stand for anything like that," said his companion, "What did you do?" "I just ignored them," was the reply. "And went on practicing on my trombone!" It isn't easy to see that "It's me, O Lord, standing in the need of prayer."

But even if I can, what then? As one young man confessed to his minister, "I am so tired of trying to be good! I want to be better, and I try so hard, but I just fall over and over again." That is the second difficulty, and the real one, our inability to change ourselves.

But Paul is saying, "That's just it, you are not to change yourself; you are to be changed!" The darkness in your life is like the darkness in a room. You can fight it all you want to and still not get rid of it. But there is an answer—you open the blinds, the light streams in, and the darkness is gone.

No man need stay the way he is. Christ can come into your life and change it. Do you want to be changed? It's up to you!

The Promise Fulfilled

CHRIST IS BORN IN BETHLEHEM

Scripture—Luke 2:1-10.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

ST. LUKE tells in the scripture assigned to our lesson today, Luke 2:1-10, of the journey that Joseph and Mary made from their home in Nazareth to Bethlehem because of a Roman tax levied on the Jews. The lovely story of Christ's birth will be told again at Christmas time, as has been done for 15 centuries; now we will study the text of the chapter.

The word Bethlehem means "house of God," and it was five miles south of Jerusalem. Nazareth, the home of Joseph and Mary, was 90 miles north of Jerusalem. It was a fitting place for Christ to be born, for it was the birthplace of King David, and is often called the City of David.

What a vivid picture we have in our minds of the shepherds tending their flocks in the fields and hearing from an angel of God that the long-looked-for Messiah was born! These poor men did not ignore the tidings, but hurried to Bethlehem to see this wonderful Child and to worship Him.

people Israel."—Luke 2:29-32.

This song of Simeon's "has been recognized and for ages it has entered into the evening services of the Church, both the Roman Catholic and the Anglican churches," Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says in his "Psalms Select Notes."

Simeon blessed Mary and Joseph, who were traveling at these things. He said to Mary, "Behold this Child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against; (Yes, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed."—Luke 2:34-35.

Simeon was proved a true prophet as the word did indeed pierce through the gentle Mary's heart as she witnessed the persecutions and final cruel death of her beloved Son.

There was also in the temple that day in Jerusalem a widow of many years who never departed from the temple, "but served God with fastings and prayers night and day." She "gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."—Luke 2:36-38.

When Joseph and Mary had "performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth. And the Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:39-40.

Today, while we rejoice in the thousands of scientific discoveries that help make the world a better and easier place in which to live, the sword is still piercing many mothers' and fathers' hearts all over the world as they fear their sons' lives sacrificed on battlefields. Let us pray and strive diligently to bring up our sons so that they, too, may be filled with wisdom, strong in spirit, with "grace of God upon them," as was our Lord Jesus. Then they may bless the world and peace may finally become a reality on Gentiles, and the glory of Thy the earth.

MEMORY VERSE

"The Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:40.

A certain number of days had to elapse after the birth, according to Jewish law, before Mary could enter the temple. When the time was up, she and Joseph took the Blessed Child there to be presented to the Lord, and to offer a sacrifice of two young pigeons, as they were too poor for a more expensive offering.

Now there was in Jerusalem a just and devout man named Simeon, who waited for the "consolation of Israel." The Holy Ghost had revealed that he "should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ."—Luke 2:25, 26.

The Spirit took him into the temple just as Mary and Joseph brought the infant Jesus in, and Simeon at once recognized that here was the promised Messiah, and he took the Babe into his arms and blessed God, saying, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word; for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation, which Thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy the earth.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Luke	2	21-33
Monday	Luke	2	41-52
Tuesday	Matthew	2	19-23
Wednesday	Genesis	18	19
Thursday	Proverbs	1	8
Friday	Proverbs	23	22-25
Saturday	II Timothy	1	5

One of the great days in Joe's life . . . and not just because it's a birthday.

It's THE birthday. The third birthday, which, in the custom of Joe's church, brings a child to the threshold of formal religious education.

Already Dad and Mother have taught him his prayers. Simple Bible stories have brightened bedtime. And Joe has enjoyed many a happy hour in the church nursery while his parents worshipped.

But during this important third year of his life he will become a full-fledged Sunday School pupil. He'll be a "regular" in the Beginners' Department.

And Joe's parents are going to join an adult class. For, while starting-age may vary slightly in one church or another, all Christendom knows that sound religious education depends on The Big Three—Father, Mother, and Child!

A Bible Thought For Today

And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I gather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me. (2 Corinthians 12:9)

Dream Home Might Not Include Wife

A dream-house was displayed in the nation's capital this week to a hundred young married women from all of the 48 plus the upcoming 49th state, Alaska. And what a house it was!

The work of a New York theater and industrial designer, Henry Dreyfus, the dream house was described by its author as equipped with walls that glow, in natural light, automatically dimming or brightening to balance the sunlight and changing color with the householder's mood.

An electronic gadget removes all dust from your clothing and dirt from your shoes as you enter. Baths and kitchens have self-cleaning features. No dust or pollen can enter anywhere, kept at bay by year-round air conditioning.

Clothes are electronically cleaned and pressed when you hang them in the closet. Bedsheets and towels will be made of soft cellulose that you can throw away after use. There will be no doorknobs, faucets or refrigerator handles—everything will open by proximity switch as you brush past it.

Kitchen racks containing food, presumably prepared for instant serving, will automatically push fresh containers forward as these up front are used up. You touch a button and out comes a squirt of milk or a pat of butter. But the architect of this dream-house had a word of comfort for husbands. There will be no push-button, full-course meals. "A meal," he avers, looking sternly at the young ladies, "will always taste better when made by a woman's hands." (You mean "fixed," don't you, Buster?) The man's a piker, of course; he doesn't go even halfway toward the millennium in designing livable houses.

The push-button is old-fashioned. Why bother with buttons when you can smile in the direction of an electric eye and—whoosh!—the house is cleaned and scented from front to back?

Or wink at a hidden proximity switch and a robot servant brings to your lazy morning bedside a steaming hot breakfast? The time is approaching, apparently, when the housewife won't have to do more than lift a finger or make a move at some special gadget to have all her cooking and housework done before you can say scat.

If and when that time comes, the masculine side of the family may start asking such questions as, "Why maintain an expensive luxury like a wife when you can make a face at a proximity switch and have all your creature comforts taken care of in a matter of seconds?"

Think it over, gals. Men are already beginning to wonder.

Getting A Bit Tattered

James Marlow Baleful Signs For Nasser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baleful signs for Gamal Abdel Nasser are beginning to appear on the troubled horizon of the Middle East, but American officials are taking no comfort from them.

Nasser and his flirtation with Moscow have been the bane of U.S. policy makers for years. The thorn has been particularly irksome because they had such high hopes for him when he overthrew the corrupt and decadent Egyptian government of King Farouk in 1952.

His power reached a peak last Feb. 1 when Egypt and Syria merged into the United Arab Republic. At last he had taken a giant step toward his goal of uniting all the Arab countries.

But Nasser may now be having second thoughts, not only about the wisdom of taking over Syria, but also about leading pan-Arabism as well. Nasser is confronted with a disenfranchised and restive Syria within his own camp and a strong new Arab force outside it.

The best available intelligence estimates here on the Middle East is an apprehensive one. In the opinion of one highly qualified expert, almost anything could happen anywhere—perhaps before the month is out.

Nasser is faced in Iraq with the rise of Abdul Kassem, leader of the July 14 revolt which threw out the pro-West government of King Faisal and Premier Nuri Said. Kassem is no pan-Arabist like Nasser, but an Iraqi nationalist. Nasser cannot dispose of Kassem as an American stooge or a tool of Britain.

Kassem demonstrated his independence and growing power last weekend by smashing a revolt led by troops following Col. Abdul Aref, his chief rival. Aref, a strong supporter of Nasser, has been agitating for Iraq's annexation to the U.A.R.

Iraq and Syria, lying together in the Fertile Crescent, are far closer culturally than are Egypt and Syria. Reports are that some in Syria, unhappy over playing second fiddle in the U.A.R., would like to break away and join up with Iraq.

Nasser may have been reacting to such sentiment when he reorganized his Cabinet two days ago. Of the 21 members, 15 are Egyptians and 6 Syrians.

According to some advances, Nasser now believes Egypt and Syria might better have federated, instead of merging. That way each would have preserved more national identity, and less responsibility would weigh on him.

One result of Nasser's difficulties in his new role might be to arrest his ambition to get all Arab states under his power. But there could be a far more ominous result.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia is reported ailing while intrigue rages among the princes over who should succeed him. The Sudan is shaky and Yemen is no better off, these reports say.

Lebanon's leaders are fighting among themselves in what could develop into a religious war, pitting Christians against Moslems in a further confounding of an already embittered situation.

A weak and confused Nasser would not be a welcome sight to Washington officials concerned about the general state of Middle East affairs. They were happiest when Nasser emerged as a leader. He seemed then to be the one man commanding general respect with whom they could get things done.

Hal Boyle A Traitor In Our Midst

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most effective ways for a newspaperman to lose grace among other newspapermen is to write a book.

The reason is simple. The rest of us talk all the time about writing a book. But being men of great talent, vivid imagination, and easy rationalization, we never do. Thus, Dick Newcomb of The Associated Press has dismayed his old friends. He not only talked about writing a book; he actually wrote one. To make matters worse, he wrote a good book, and it is now a best-seller. How unfriendly can you get?

His book is "Abandon Ship," a taut chronicle of the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis late in World War II. What makes Dick's defection even more painful is that all along he had the excuses of the rest of us had for not writing a book. Such as: "Too tired at the end of a working day." And: "My family demands too much of my time." And, best of all: "I got no place to write."

Dick had no place to write, but he cleared and laid claim to the starboard side of the basement of his home in Haworth, N.J. His wife Alice was told that henceforth she would be confined to the port side, the side with the oil burner, the washing machine, and surplus family junk.

"It worked out fine," Dick says, "except in the winter when she violated our territorial agreement. She hung wet clothes to dry over my desk."

His desk was a sheet of plywood stretched over two sawhorses. His filing cabinets were grocery cartons and the cinder-block basement wall where he soon spread out with huge charts of the Pacific and blueprints of the Indianapolis.

The book took 2½ years for research and writing.

"Apparently," he says, "I was fated to finish it. Every spring I thought I'd have a grand excuse not to finish it. Every other spring the basement used to leak. But in the time I worked on the book it stayed dry until two weeks after I finished the final draft."

How does a man who spends eight hours a day working, two hours a day commuting, and supposedly the rest of his time appeasing a wife, two high school daughters and a house in need of repair—how does such a man write a book?

"It's easy," Dick insists. "You work nights. First you have dinner. Then you do your daughter's geometry. Then you get your wife well situated with the evening paper, a TV program, and a tall drink. Then you disappear into the basement until, hours later, a voice yells down from the master bedroom 'Hey, Zola, it's midnight!'"

Now that the book is written and selling, Dick has other problems to cope with. Most people have inflated ideas of best sellers. The author of a best seller has a hard time convincing others that the east wing of Ft. Knox is not involved.

"The children," Dick says, "are convinced they're going to get their own cars, and my wife is convinced we're getting a new house, and I'm still worried about making payments on the old car and the old house."

"Relatives think I'm hoarding my fortune. Friends think I'm greedy for not retiring and giving my job to someone who needs the money. And every time I buy a new hedge clipper or rake, a neighbor says: 'You're smart, Dicky boy. Live it up while you can!'"

It Was All The Clock's Fault

I don't know if I ought to say anything or not, because I know you'll never believe it . . .

. . . yes, I know, but like I said, you probably won't believe it . . . well, alright, if you insist . . .

It was pretty late when I got out of the show, you see; I think around 11:30. Robbie and George and I went around the corner for a midnight cup, and stayed for a while—it wasn't really so late, so please don't raise your eyebrows.

We gabbed awhile, and then I went to the office to check the machine and it was on. That was about 12:20. I went straight home and first thing I noticed when I got there was my clock was stopped. Right almost on 7:30. Well, I knew it was about 12:20 when I left the office, so it must have been about 12:30 then. I set the clock on 12:30 and went to bed.

I felt awful strange this morning—so rested, for a weekday. The clock said almost 7 a.m., so I didn't hurry. I dressed, shaved and went down to Coker's for breakfast—but something kept bothering me.

It's awful early in the morning for such a lot of noise, I told myself . . . . how's that? . . . no, I mean people moving around; cars and all that . . . pretty noisy for seven in the morning.

Anyway, it sort of bothered me, too, that it seemed awful light for seven in the morning. I mean, this time of year, it's not exactly black as pitch, but it's not broad daylight, either. I couldn't be sure about it, though, because it was so cloudy. These things didn't really bother me much—at least, not until, just finishing breakfast, I noticed the clock on the wall said it was after 8 o'clock.

It was then that all those things began to make sense—the awful racket for 7 in the morning, the way I was feeling on getting up, the light in the sky, the clock telling me it was after eight—

I must have just thought I set my clock for 12:30; I must have accidentally set it for 11:30.

Well, anyway, that's why I came in at 8:30 instead of 7:30. Honest, Boss . . .

Revolution In Travel With Jet Planes

LONDON—It may be difficult to grasp for a few more months, but the propeller airplane and even its speedier cousin, the turbo-prop plane, have just become the horse-and-buggy of the aviation age. They will soon be equated with the surrey with the fringe on top.

Their decline and fall began a week ago when BOAC's jet airliner, Comet 4, leaped from New York to London in six hours and seven minutes. Nobody, but nobody is going to take twice as long, in this restless age, to go anywhere when he can get there in just half the time.

To get that fustest (but not necessarily with the mostest, considering baggage weight restrictions), there is nothing like the airplane. For a feller in a hurry, it is The Most. But I, who have traveled some million miles by air and expect to travel a million more, am the first to admit that air travel is dull and kinda tiresome, and that the sooner it's over, the better.

Hence, the jet with its telescoping air time, is going to be every traveler's baby. People, including me, are going to cry for jets.

We are facing another revolution in travel, just as surely as the Wright brothers' experiments at Kitty Hawk ushered in the new medium. It is going to cost the air transportation companies not millions, but billions.

But I predict that we shall all be riding jets and loving it, just as rapidly as they can be produced, and the air transport companies can buy, beg or borrow money to buy 'em. The public isn't going to stand much longer for those old slow planes that go only 300 to 350 miles per hour.

And I guess this is the place to get in a few statistics about the advance of transatlantic passenger service in the 19 years since it was inaugurated by Pan American Airways. The figures tell the story more dramatically than any words.

Pan Am inaugurated the first transatlantic air passenger service in history in June, 1939. With its famous seaplane, the Flying Clipper. The route was across the Atlantic to Horta, in the Azores, for refueling; then on to Lisbon for an overnight stop, and finally to Marseilles, which was the European terminus of the run until World War II broke out that autumn.

I was a passenger on that first Pan Am flight, leaving Port Washington, L. I., on June 17. My notes and stories of that flight show that it required 29 hours and 49 minutes of flying time to span the Atlantic from Port Washington to Marseilles, at an average speed of 156.4 miles an hour, for a total of 4,800 miles. The elapsed time was 42 hours and 28 minutes.

To say that the flight was historic and that it created a sensation throughout the world is understating the matter. The Clipper (and I) made the round trip in four hours and 22 minutes under eight days and this, too, was, to put it mildly, a sensation. To Europe and back in a little over a week! Formidable!

Yet today no one in his right mind would dream of making such an "endless" trip on such a slow-boat-to-China. From Port Washington to Lisbon was a distance of 3,597 miles via clipper, which flew the distance in 2 hours and 39 minutes, at an average speed of 156.4 miles per hour. I thought man had reached the ultimate in travel, time and speed.

Only a few days ago I flew 3,560 statute miles from New York to London in the Comet 4 at an average speed of 580 miles an hour, to set a record of six hours and seven minutes for an Atlantic jet passenger crossing.

The propeller and the turbo-prop may not know it, but they are just as dead as the flying clippers. And I can't hardly wait for 1970 and the supersonics. (Copyright 1968, United Feature Syndicate Inc.)

Liberalism And The Right To Work

WASHINGTON—Some day the historians may describe the 1950's as "the age of hypocrisy." At a time when the so-called "liberals" have been shouting loudly that "all men are equal" and that the "liberty of an individual and his freedom of choice" must not be restrained or restricted, the worker is being compelled in millions of cases to accept a system of private slavery, conducted by labor-union masters, as the price of a job in free America.

The denunciation of the "right to work" laws that have been adopted by many states is an example of how the principle of work, as guaranteed by the Constitution itself, is being flagrantly disregarded. Not a single one of the so-called "liberals" of prominence has ventured to make a militant fight for the "right to work" laws which are an issue in the elections this year in several states, particularly California. Yet the Supreme Court of the United States, in its historic 1954 decision against the continuance of racial segregation in the public schools of the District of Columbia, said:

"Although the court has not assumed to define 'liberty' with any great precision, that term is not confined to mere freedom from bodily restraint. Liberty under law extends to the full range of conduct which the individual is free to pursue, and it cannot be restricted except for a proper government objective."

This definition of "liberty" would appear to invalidate the provision of the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947 which—unless state laws forbid it—permits employers and unions to agree on a private contract that compels a worker to join a union within 30 days after he is hired or lose his job. State laws barring compulsory unionization were upheld in 1949 by the Supreme Court, but there has been no decision against the federal statute which legalizes involuntary membership in labor unions in most of the states of the union today.

The Department of Justice has no unit or division that devotes itself wholly to the "civil rights" of the workers of the United States, and hence there has been no effort to get the federal courts to issue injunctions against employers and unions who conspire together under a plainly unconstitutional federal law to compel citizens to give up their conscientious beliefs and join an organization they don't want to join. The unwilling "member" is also deprived of his property in violation of the "due process" amendment of the Constitution, because he is forced against his will to pay dues to an organization he does not care to join.

The "right to work" doctrine is founded on the words of the Declaration of Independence and is imbedded in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution, but the politicians on the so-called "liberal" side are apparently afraid of the labor-union bosses, some of whom have been using money obtained from the workers to buy the services of hundreds of thousands of precinct agents to drag workers and their wives to the polls to vote for candidates being supported by the labor-union bosses.

Who is making the fight against this kind of illiberalism? Certainly not the spurious "liberals" who are trying to defeat a true liberal like Senator Knowland of California when he stands up for the right of every man, irrespective of color or creed, to get and keep a job without paying tribute to a union.

Nor have the members of the Eisenhower administration been consistent in claiming that this issue is a "state matter" and hence not one calling for presidential or vice-presidential advice to the people. For, while the President issued a direct appeal to voters in Virginia and Arkansas just before local referendums dealing with school issues were held, there has been a noticeable unwillingness on the part of administration spokesmen to tell the people of California and other states, where the "right to work" principle is at stake, that they ought to uphold the "law of the land."

The Senate Rackets Committee in recent months has exposed illegal pressure, fraudulent use of dues money and criminal activity in the control and management of certain big labor unions. Yet the last Congress, most of whose members are this autumn up for re-election, failed to insure by the passage of legislation the right of American citizens to "life, liberty, and property," as guaranteed to them by the Constitution.

One would think that, in the face of such hypocrisy, the American people would be ready to repudiate the illiberals, but the truth is that the channels of public opinion have been to a large extent adulterated by false cries that the "right to work" laws are simply a device to destroy legitimately operated labor unions. The voters generally have been misinformed on this issue. The fact that such a misrepresentation can be given wide currency is proof of the hypocrisy of the age—that the preservation of all the liberties of the individual citizen are not really the concern of many articulate persons who call themselves "liberals." (New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

The Newest Member Of The Court

When Associate Justice Harold H. Burton of Ohio retired from the Supreme Court this week, Washington wisecracks felt that Mr. Eisenhower would select as his successor someone from the Middle West, to maintain a geographical balance of a sort.

Sure enough, the plum went to Judge Potter Stewart of Cincinnati, who sits on the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, a handsome young man in his early forties. It was Eisenhower's fifth appointment to the highest court, and since Stewart, a Republican, replaces a Republican Burton, the court's political coloration remains the same—five Democrats, four Republicans.

The Middle West thus maintains its strength on the court, with two, since another recent Eisenhower appointee, Charles E. Whitaker, hails from Missouri. The South has one, Hugo L. Black of Alabama and the Southwest one, Tom Clark of Texas. California has the chief justice of the United States, Earl Warren.

That leaves the court topheavy with members from the so-called effete East—John M. Harlan of New York, William J. Brennan Jr. of New Jersey, William O. Douglas of Connecticut and Felix Frankfurter of Massachusetts (a native of Austria).

Although Democrat Douglas was born in Minnesota and brought up in the State of Washington (he still lists his home address as Forks, Wash.), his career as a lawyer and college instructor at Columbia and Yale is of the East, eastern. He started the practice of law in New York in 1926, joined the court in 1939, and is now listed as a citizen of Connecticut.

Big 3 Ready With Small Car—But

DETROIT—When you register at the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel here, the clerk politely asks: "Would you like a large or medium room?" You are left to infer that the Sheraton-Cadillac, which Detroiters still nostalgically call the "Book-Cadillac," has no small rooms whatsoever.

The Sheraton-Cadillac's way with guests is compatible with Detroit's recent way with automobile purchasers. The Big-Three manufacturers, General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler, have offered Americans any size car they wanted so long as it was large to medium.

But, in a city as dynamic and competitive as Detroit, change is ever possible. G. M., Ford, and Chrysler are physically set to produce an "American small car." But mentally they're definitely not ready for it. They have every financial incentive to let George—George Romney, that is—do it. Nor do they mind Studebaker's musing in with its Lark.

To each of the Big Three, the small car is like trading stamps. None want to go into the business. Yet, if one enters, all will have to for competitive reasons. Plain arithmetic is against the venture. Add to the estimated sale of about 300,000 foreign cars in the U. S. in 1958, Rambler sales of about 200,000 and you get a total of only half a million "small cars." That's only 10 per cent of a close-to-five million-car market. The Big Three still purvey nine out of every ten cars in the U. S. A. But the Big Three motto is "Be Prepared."

E. N. Cole, general manager of Chevrolet, has announced that tools and dies for a small car have been ordered "but no materials." Thus, G. M. has made one fundamental decision: A G. M. small car will be Chevrolet's baby.

L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler, has told newspapermen: "For much longer than some of you suspected, we have had a staff of hundreds designing, styling, and developing a small car." Colbert indicated that a Chrysler small car would be big enough to carry at least five people and luggage; "it would need adequate power and acceleration to hold its own in safety on a turnpike," and its engine would be forward, ahead of the driver.

And J. O. Wright, general manager of Ford's Ford division, has left no doubt that if there's a small car in America's future, Ford will build one. Plans are ready down to the "last detail."

Big-Three small cars are likely to be longer than most foreign cars, which have wheelbases of less than 100 inches, and shorter than the Chevrolet, Ford, Plymouth wheelbases of 118 inches. They'll crash the American Motors market head-on. The wheelbase of the standard Rambler is 108 inches and the Rambler American is 100 inches.

Big Three executive have not made up their minds whether the small car is a fad or a revolution in buying habits. They concede that there will always be a market for the foreign car among students, seekers of the unusual, and the ultra-conformity minded. But they are firmly convinced that most Americans want a general-purpose vehicle with power and stability to highball on turnpike and haul boats, trailers and heavy luggage.

Big Three executives seek assurance from market analysis that a small car won't be a case of borrowing sales from Peter to build up Paul. They'll go small car only if it will increase total sales and not subtract from sales they already have.

Consequently, if 1959 models sell well, if sales near 6,000,000, the small-car decision may be put off for another year. It isn't easy for an industry which sold 7,200,000 bi cars in 1955 and 5,900,000 in each of 1956 and '57 to stake all on one and year, 1958.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hest

What does it take to infuse a football team, a school and a community with a winning spirit? Nothing more than a few victories, you say. Perhaps, but some teams can be counted upon to win as consistently as tax days come around. Others win a few, lose a few but can never seem to play .500 ball. And still others play patises for every opponent on their schedules, as regularly as each campaign rolls around.

Place us in the second category. True, we haven't been easy marks for our opponents but we lose more often than we win. At least, we have in the past 28 campaigns. Since 1930, our teams have won 113 times while finishing on the short end of decisions in 155 other contests. During that period, we have played 13 ties.

In those 28 seasons, we have had only eight teams which have been able to win more games in one season than they have lost. The 1931 and '54 Steer clubs were more successful than the others, percentage-wise. The 1953 team went farther in the state playoffs than any other local team in history. The '31 and '54 eleven's each ended its campaign with a record of eight wins, one loss and a tie. Neither of those teams reached the playoffs, however, although the '54 contingent tied Breckenridge for the district championship. The 1934 and '53 Steers won the most games. The '34 club, built around Ollie Cordill, George Neel, and the Flowers boys, Bob and Sam, copped nine decisions while losing only twice on the way to the district championship and the state quarterfinals. The great '53 team, generally regarded as the best in Big Spring's history and boasting such stellar athletes as Frosty Robinson, J. W. Thompson, J. C. Armistead and Brick Johnson, had a record of nine wins compared to only four reversals. Only other Big Spring ball clubs which have won more games than they have lost in the last 28 years were those in 1932 (won 6, lost 3, tied 1); '35 (5-3-1); and '40 (5-3-1).

One observer who has studied the situation here closely said he was appalled at the lack of school spirit. He insisted some members of the student body actually pull against the local team and have gone so far as to draw and circulate posters forecasting its downfall in a particular game. He subscribed to the theory that the athletes themselves are going to have to be made to feel that their efforts are better appreciated by their fellow students, that more pride is going to have to be taken in victory. Others have saddled adult supporters with the blame. That group says many of the local patrons of the sport are too quick to criticize and too slow to praise. Do we let our children mature fast enough? Do we baby our budding athletes, when they should be facing up to their challenges? That has been pin-pointed as the reason by some. The coaches, of course, have been used as the whipping boys by many. Why don't we hire coaches who can lead our teams out of the wilderness, as is lamented I'm sure you've heard more than once. The casualty rate of coaches here has been heavy. I think you'll agree, though not as high as it is at some schools. Often you hear the cry that Big Spring isn't able to keep a 'good man', that the second-guessers and the downtown quarterbacks are prone to force him out, before he has had a chance to prove his merits. "Bud Wilkinson wouldn't be able to win here." It's likely you've intercepted that caustic remark as often as I have. Let it be said that it is healthy to air our troubles, as long as we set about to do something about them. And I think you'll agree that pulling together, getting behind the boys and the coaches, and letting them know we appreciate their efforts, is the best way to start to lick any complex we might have developed. Our trouble is that we may be diagnosing our troubles too thoroughly and then concluding that the best way to take remedial action is "to let George do it." The Chinese have a saying that "a journey of a thousand miles begins with one step." Let's begin that safari tonight.

Two Rannels Teams Score Smashing Football Wins

Two Rannels Junior High teams scored smashing victories over Goliad opponents in football outings at the old stadium here last night. Dan Bustamante's undefeated Rannels 7th graders turned back the Mavericks, 28-0, after which Bobby Zellars' Rannels 8th rolled to a 44-0 success. In the 7th grade engagement, Manny Martinez put Rannels ahead in the first period on a short scoring jaunt. Martinez completed a long pass to Manny Pineda for a TD later in the period but the play was nullified by a penalty. In the second, Martinez dashed 75 yards to Goliad's 15, Humberto boomed to the one but Rannels later lost the ball on the three. The Yearlings came right back to score, however, when Hernandez circled end for 16 yards and a tally, after which Dick Irons added the extra points on a run to make it 14-0. Martinez blazed 60 yards on a punt return for a score later in the second benefiting from excellent blocks on the part of Dee-Roby Gartman and other members of his club. In the fourth, Hernandez set up the Yearlings' final score when he intercepted a Goliad pass and returned to the Mavs' 22. Richard Bethell ultimately powered over from the one. Irons added two points to the Yearling score on a run. Gene Lamb and Rickey Weisner

Locals Defeated By Colts, 28-0

SWEETWATER (SC) — Sweetwater's 9th graders humbled the Big Spring Rannels Junior High Yearlings, 28-0, in a game played here Thursday night. Despite ten fumbles, the Yearlings played their best game of the season. They made three threats at the Sweetwater goal but lost the ball on bobbles each time. Long runs provided the Colts with each of their tallies. Leahman Bryant and Claudie Horn played outstanding ball for the Big Spring club.

Terps, Aggies Await Battle

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Fans at the Texas A&M-Maryland football game tomorrow will see two uncommon offenses, the single wing and "shotgun." The Aggies switched to the single wing this season under new Coach Jim Myers. Coach Tommy Mont pulled his "shotgun" attack against Clemson last Saturday. While it failed to score, it gained a lot of yardage and hinted of interesting possibilities. The new offense puts both ends on the same side of the line plus a flanked half-back. This makes the tackle on the weak side eligible to catch a pass and Ed Nickla did snag one against Clemson. Mont says he'll use the unorthodox lineup against the Texas Aggies and something new besides. The Maryland offense has shown signs of needing something. It failed to score in both its losses to Wake Forest and Clemson while producing three touchdowns for a victory over North Carolina State. The Aggies also have had trouble getting started. They lost their first two games to Texas Tech and Houston before beating weak Missouri 12-0 last week. Coach Mont feels his squad will be more of a physical depth match for the Aggies than it was for Clemson. Maryland's second team was unequal to Clemson's and the first team showed signs of weariness in the last quarter. Last year, the Aggies beat Maryland 21-13 by scoring two touchdowns in the last quarter.

STEER-SOONER OUTING HIGHLIGHTS PROGRAM

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Writer Texas tries to gain back some intersectional prestige for the Southwest Conference Saturday as the Longhorns meet Oklahoma in the feature of a six-game schedule. It's the last big intersectional weekend and the league needs victory in three of four games to pull even for the season. But triumph over Oklahoma would carry more weight than victory in the other three games—Texas A&M vs. Maryland, Baylor vs. Duke and SMU vs. Missouri. However, only SMU is favored. And if that be the sole winner Saturday the conference will fall to its lowest ebb in intersectional football in many years. Rice goes to Fayetteville for a whack at twice-beaten Arkansas in the Owls' start toward a repeat as conference kings. TCU hosts Texas Tech, a member that's not competing for the title. Texas takes on Oklahoma in a jammed Cotton Bowl at Dallas Saturday afternoon, putting the conference's last unbeaten record on the line. The Longhorns also will be trying to break a stranglehold clamped on by the Big Red six seasons ago. SMU faces twice-defeated Missouri at Columbia, Mo., without its great passer, Don Meredith. Meredith was injured last week against Notre Dame and won't even make the trip to Columbia. But Missouri isn't given much chance of stopping the Methodist express despite its crippled condition. Texas A&M journeys to College Park, Md., to tackle a Maryland team that doesn't have any better record than the Aggies. Baylor will play Duke at Durham, N.C., still seeking its first intersectional victory of the season. The Bears took a 14-8 trimming from Miami last week. The record was five out of six last week. Hoping to do as well this time: Texas - Oklahoma — Oklahoma looks stronger than last season and Texas doesn't appear as good, so the obvious choice is Oklahoma. Baylor-Duke — Going against all the others and picking Baylor to snap back. SMU-Missouri — SMU is in a position to be upset but here's a weak vote for the Methodists to ward it off. Texas A&M-Maryland — Neither is a ball of fire but Maryland ap-

Fall Elementary Enrollment Increases At Coahoma

COAHOMA (SC)—A substantial enrollment increase in elementary grades here this fall more than offsets the loss of high school students, and the school system reported an overall increase of 76 students.

Supt. H. L. Miller announced this week that the Coahoma School District had 681 scholastics this fall, compared with 605 last year. The present total includes 79 students at Midway, 134 in high school, and 468 in Coahoma Elementary.

There were 148 in high school last fall and 85 at Midway, but only 372 in Coahoma Elementary.

There were 148 in high school last fall and 85 at Midway, but only 372 in Coahoma Elementary. The second grade is the most populated with 91, including 18 at Midway. There are 84 in the first grade, 71 in the third, 76 in the fourth, 56 in the fifth, 63 in the sixth, 59 in the seventh and 42 in the eighth.

There are 29 seniors, 36 juniors, 39 sophomores, and 33 freshmen, Miller reported.

DEAR ABBY 3 STRIKES—OUT

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The minister who confirmed our daughter officiated at her wedding in 1952. The marriage blew up and they were divorced. This same minister performed her marriage to another fellow in 1954, but he was worse than her first husband so that marriage only lasted three months. Now our daughter wants to get married again and she says this time it's for keeps. Our minister said he would rather not perform the ceremony for this marriage. Isn't it his DUTY to perform the ceremony or can he refuse her? We are members in good standing of his congregation.

UPSET MOTHER DEAR UPSET: Your minister's first "duty" is to his own conscience. His reasons for refusing to perform this marriage ceremony would probably be very educational for your daughter, her fiancé, and you. I suggest you ask him to spell them out—and listen carefully.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in need of advice on how to handle barking neighbors. We own a 5-month-old puppy and she barks at all moving objects so naturally she barks quite a lot. Several times a day I get phone calls from a woman who doesn't say anything, but just "barks" into the telephone. In the evening, I get the same kind of calls, only it is a man who is "barking." I think this is very childish and I have a good idea who these people are. Should I go have a talk with these "barking" neighbors?

DEAR BARKED: People with legitimate complaints (and sorry, but a barking dog IS) should be adult enough to identify themselves and air their grievances. Neighbors who expect to get results with this childish stunt are barking up the wrong tree. By all means, have a talk with them.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and am considered a "nice" girl. I have this girl-friend who has a bad reputation and is considered "wild." She doesn't get along with her parents and sometimes when she has a fight with them she will come over here to sleep at my house. There have been a few times when her mother would telephone my house looking for her and she has not been here. My friend told me if her mother calls my house asking for her to say that she is spending the night here but she won't come to the telephone. I have done this a couple of times but I don't like the idea. Would it be wrong of me to tell her mother the truth when she is not here?

A FRIEND DEAR FRIEND: If you are really a FRIEND tell your chum that you refuse to lie for her. A 16-year-old girl who can't account for a night away from home is heading for serious trouble. Her mother ought to know about it.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for six months and are very happy with one exception. She makes me wear pajamas. I never wore pajamas before marriage. I always slept in my shorts, but she says I should wear pajamas. I hate pajamas because they always get wrapped around me so tight. Please put this in your column and tell my wife that not everybody in the world wears pajamas so she will get off my back. Thank you.

ALL WRAPPED UP DEAR WRAPPED: As I told the woman who complained because her groom slept in nightshirts: "What a man sleeps in is between him and his wife!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MURPH:" Your marriage is not the first union to defy management. He thee to a marriage counselor!

Formosa Jets Blast 5 Reds TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Jet fighters of the Chinese Nationalists and Communists battled over the Formosa Strait today. The Nationalists said five Red planes were downed at a cost of one of their own.

The Nationalist air force said machine-gun fire from its F86 Sabre Jets shot down four MIG17s. A Sabre jet collided with a fifth MIG, sending both crashing into the ocean and killing the Nationalist pilot, a spokesman said.

Peiping radio claimed Communist planes shot down two Nationalist Sabre jets and damaged a third. It said one Nationalist pilot "has been captured alive." Red losses were not mentioned.

The Nationalists now claim they have shot down 34 MIGs and damaged or possibly destroyed 11 more since the Communists began bombarding the Quemoy Islands Aug. 23. In that period the Nationalists say they have lost only the plane in today's collision.

Maleness, Energy Mark Top Actors

By BOB THOMAS AP Motion Picture Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What manner of men are the 12 famous stars who are now the kingpins of the movie world?

The majority come from the heartland of America. They were born in such places as Winterset, Iowa (John Wayne), O'Fallon, Ill. (William Holden) and Indiana, Pa. (James Stewart). Only two came from a metropolis: New Yorkers Burt Lancaster and Tony Curtis.

Just one was a foreigner: Cary Grant, born Archibald Leach in Bristol, England.

Most of them came from humble beginnings. Gregory Peck's and Wayne's fathers were druggists, Curtis was a barber, Frank Sinatra's a boxer and Clark Gable's an oil field worker.

All the stars came up the hard way. Before they clicked as actors, Lancaster was an acrobat, Grant a stillwalker, Gable a lumberjack and Kirk Douglas a bell hop.

So you think that America worships youth? Then it may surprise you to learn that the average age of the dozen most successful film stars is 47.

Only Marlon Brando (34) and Curtis (33) are under 40. Three of the dozen most successful film stars (54), Gable and Gary Cooper (both 57).

What about their physical characteristics? Handsomeness in men is a matter of divided opinion. But I would hazard that of the 12, only Curtis might be classed as a pretty boy. The others have good looks with rugged rather than classical features. They run rather slim and rangy. Sinatra, Brando and Curtis are 5 feet 10, but all of the others are 6 feet or over. Top man is Wayne at 6 feet 4 and a solid 210 pounds. Most of the others manage to keep in the 160- to 180-pound bracket through rigorous exercise and diet.

They are not necessarily the most honored actors in films. Only half of them have won Academy Awards.

Their records would seem to belie the claim that Hollywood is a shaky place for marriage. Half of the golden dozen have been married only once.

They are all pros. They average almost 19 years of experience in films, and most of them had some experience on the stage before coming to Hollywood. (Exceptions: Wayne, Cooper.) Cooper has the most film experience—32 years.

The 63years. But beyond the statistics, what are the qualities that have made them kings of the film world?

All are strong personalities with plenty of drive. Don't let Stewart's drawl and Cooper's "yup" fool you. They have worked hard to get to the top of the heap. Now they've got to work even harder. There are plenty of young stars eager to take their places.

Basically, they are thoroughly masculine types. They seldom play weak characters; when they do, the result is usually a failure. But manliness is not enough. They must also effect a communication with the audience, and they do that through the emotions.

"The main thing we do is give people an emotional experience," explains James Stewart. "If we don't get it into a picture, it's usually a flop. If we do get it, the picture has a chance of being really great."

Lions To Continue Industrial Series At Monday Meet

The Evening Lions Club will continue its series of major industrial programs Monday with Cabot Carbon in the spotlight.

Last week Willard Schulz, Dallas, gave the club highlights of T&P's activities, particularly on the western division and in Big Spring.

Monday James McCune, Panama, will bring the Cabot program, describing the processes of making carbon black, the Cabot operations here, and will project a film about Cabot.

Capt. Walter M. Bullock, purchasing and contracting officer at Webb AFB, will discuss Webb's role in the community's life on Oct. 20.

Jack Alexander will be the speaker for Cooden Petroleum Corp. on Oct. 27, telling of the teamwork between community and industry.

Nixon Calls For Truman Backbone

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—What the Republican party needs to win in November is backbone, says Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The vice president urged his fellow Republicans Thursday to display "some of the same backbone" Harry Truman did in winning the 1948 election in the face of adverse forecasts.

"Let us resolve from this day forward," Nixon told an enthusiastic state GOP convention, "that we Republicans are not going to be defensive, apologetic or mealy-mouthed in telling voters of this country about the magnificent record of the past and the great promise of the future if the sound progressive policies of our Republican administration in Washington are continued."
