De Gaulle Victor As Rightists End Strike

ALGIERS (AP)—French rightists today called off a scheduled general strike to protest Premier Charles de Gaulle's policies in Algeria.

CHARLES DE GAULLE A victory in Algeria

The cancellation was a victory for De Gaulle's policies. Organized opposition to De Gaulle appeared to be falling away.

"We are going until the end," declared Pierre La Gaillarde, bearded former paratroop lieutenant who heads militant local student organizations.

their days of political power and of operating virtually independently of the Paris government were over.

A number of committee members walked out after Gen. Raoul Salan, supreme civilian and military commander in Algeria, in a radio appeal knuckled under to De Gaulle and said he could not "accept" the strike and demonstration.

Cherif Sid Cara, a Moslem co-president of the committee, sent a message from Oran, his home town, repudiating the committee's call. Azem Ouali, the other Moslem co-president, and EXL Madoui, a vice president, appealed from Paris for the population not to follow the committee's orders.

Public Safety Committees in other large cities of Algeria also had voted strike calls before Salan's declaration was made. It appeared doubtful whether they would be effective in view of his stand.

The strike call was the result of De Gaulle's directive Monday politics. This meant army officers ordering the army to get out of Algeria, leaving the civilian population with little strength to resist the Algerian political situation.

Other diehards admitted that public response to their call would be vital to the future of the movement. They obviously feared

Sen. Knowland Seeks To Link Demo, Gangster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland, GOP candidate for governor, sought Wednesday night to link Democratic National Committeeman Paul Ziffren of Los Angeles with a dead Chicago gangster and "the machine political boss" of the Illinois city.

The Senate minority leader then told a Republican rally that Ziffren is "one of the chief supporters" of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown's "Campaign to capture the governorship of California and with it the control of the executive structure of our state government."

Knowland charged Ziffren is the "political architect behind my opponent for governor," Democrat Brown. He cited testimony from the Kefauver committee crime report indicating Ziffren had business dealings with Alex Louis Greenberg, slain in Chicago Dec. 8, 1955.

In Los Angeles, Ziffren told the San Francisco Chronicle by telephone, "This sounds to me like another Joe Kamp pamphlet of absurdities."

"I've never believed in talking about dead men and I don't propose to engage the Knowland-Kamp campaign on such a ghastly level," he said.

Joseph Kamp is a right-wing pamphlet writer of Connecticut. Some of his leaflets were distributed by Knowland's wife, Helen. Mrs. Knowland said she did not know Kamp's background, and her husband ordered use of the pamphlets discontinued.

The Senate minority leader asserted also that Ziffren was a partner in the law firm of Jake Brown of Chicago—the same firm which is the machine political boss of Chicago and a business affiliate of Alex Louis Greenberg.

In Chicago, Arvey said "I do not want to dignify a wild charge with a derogative man who is facing certain defeat."

"I am perfectly willing to rest my reputation on what the Kefauver committee records disclose," he added.

Hodgson completed the last work on the sewer line last week and immediately moved equipment in on the water line. The sewer was laid from the sewage disposal plant directly to the Capehart housing area while the water main was going from the Edwards Main sewer to the west gate of the AFB, following the north side of FM 700.

The contractor was asked to push the sewer job so it would not hold up occupancy of the Capehart addition, but the housing area isn't ready yet.

Employees of Swartz's women's store were the first to turn in gifts to the United Fund campaign.

The Swartz workers' gifts were turned in this morning. The firm reported 100 per cent participation in the United Fund campaign.

Workers in the Special Gifts Division, who with Advance Gifts solicitors are setting a fast pace for the 1958 financial campaign, were scheduled to turn in additional progress reports this afternoon.

Mother, 3 Children Die In Collision

WAUKESHA, Wis. (AP)—A Milwaukee mother and her three children were killed Wednesday night in a collision near here.

The victims were Mrs. Althia Wagner, 25, and her children, Keith, 6; Kevin, 3; and Karlene, 3 months.

Mrs. Wagner's husband, Leonard, 30, was reported in fair condition at a hospital as was Lloyd Schank, 20, of Germantown, the other driver.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

Bosses' Problem: How To Hire Union Members Only

By NORMAN WALKER Associated Press Labor Reporter WASHINGTON (AP)—The construction industry is facing a major problem. It wants to continue hiring only union members despite a federal law which says that is illegal.

Some of the vast industry's major employers and unions feel they have a solution that will pass legal muster, yet continue their practice of keeping only union members, or substantially so, on the payroll.

The hiring hall only the qualified man can be hired and the qualifications usually fit the union man.

Allowable Based On 11-Day Pattern

By ED OVERHOLSER AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission boosted the statewide oil allowable for November today by 61,465 barrels a day, fixing the permissive flow at 3,044,401 barrels.

The allowable figure was based on an 11-day pattern, the same as in October.

The increase results from a calendar day differential and means that wells will be shut down in November only 19 days instead of 20 days as during October.

Independents unanimously asked for 11 days and most of the major crude buying companies asked for either 10 or 12 days.

The independents speaking during the statewide prorating hearing told the commission that they thought there would be no danger of pipeline prorating if the production pattern was set no higher than 11 days.

Nominations by companies: 12 days, Indiana, Humble, Texas, Cities Services, and Atlantic; 11 days, Standard of Texas; 10 days, Shell, Sun, Sinclair, Gulf, Phillips and Continental; 9 days, Magnolia.

Magnolia's low nomination resulted from a market loss of 32,000 barrels a day because of a refinery shutdown in New Jersey knocked out the demand. Magnolia said it would have to sell 33,000 barrels a day if an 11-day production pattern was set.

Humble said that they had made spot purchases during October of 83,000 barrels a day but inventories were still below desired levels. Charles Shaver of Houston said Humble already had made commitments to buy 45,000 barrels a day of spot purchases next month and would need to buy an additional 25,000 barrels a day on the 11-day pattern.

J. G. Coates of Houston, representing Gulf, said unforeseen repairs at their refineries had cut down on Gulf's oil needs.

On the 1-day pattern Coates said Gulf would like to sell 74,000 barrels a day.

Voting Begins

Absentee voting is now under way in the office of the Howard County clerk.

Ballots for the election have been received and Mrs. Pauline Petty, clerk, has dispatched ballots to half a dozen early applicants who had sent in requests by mail.

Any person eligible to vote by this method can be served by coming to the office of the clerk before Oct. 31.

The ballots include listing of those state offices at stake, the names of county and district candidates who technically have no opposition, and the gist of nine constitutional amendments on which decision will be made on Nov. 4.

Any person who is to be detained from going to his regular voting box on election day is eligible to vote by absentee ballot. He has only to make an affidavit stating his inability to go to the polls.

Tunisian President Nasser, Throws In Towel

TUNIS (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba defiantly threw in his lot with the West today in a bitter attack on the United Arab Republic.

The Egyptians had collaborated in an assassination plot against him.

"The primary enemy, one has the habit of saying, is Israel," Bourguiba said. "However, why is it that this state (Israel) is quiet while the Arabs are killing one another?"

Bourguiba professed confidence in the outcome of this test of strength between him and Nasser, strong man of the U.A.R., whose ambition is a united Arab world under his leadership.

The president of the young North African republic did not mention President Nasser by name, but he ripped into Nasser policies. Bourguiba bluntly said

School Board In Teacher Quandary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock School Board today faced the threat of legislative action to make it release teachers for a private school operation.

remain in force until the court makes its final ruling "as soon as possible."

Gov. Orval E. Faubus accused the board of blocking progress on the private education plan by refusing to free its teachers from their contracts.

The order was extended Wednesday by the U.S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

After conferring with the governor, State Rep. Paul Van Dusen of Perry County said if the board continues in its refusal the legislature will step into the matter.

Leasing of school buildings "for the purpose apparently of nullifying the racial integration which up to this point has been achieved" is forbidden by the order.

Dr. William G. Cooper, a School Board member, replied to Faubus' charge by saying the board had not attempted to tell public school teachers what to do.

Gov. Faubus, commenting on the court's move, said if a final ruling on its enjoining action had been made, the private school corporation "probably would have had an announcement of interest, regardless of how the ruling went."

Faubus said despite the restraining order against public school teachers' participation in a private system, there is nothing to keep them from teaching in private schools "if the School Board would release them from their contracts."

The existing auditorium will be converted into a small chapel and Sunday school rooms. Six additional classrooms also will be provided in the new sanctuary building.

U.S. Proudly Trundles X15 Spaceship Into Public View

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Air Force, the Navy and the new civilian space agency have proudly trundled the forerunner of tomorrow's space vehicle out into public view.

"X15 is perhaps most exciting because of the fact that it is designed to carry man into space for the first time."

Vice President Nixon called the new rocket-powered X15 a "major step in man's greatest adventure in exploration beyond our world—the first and logical step in space exploration."

The initial flight tentatively has been scheduled for early February, test pilot Scott Crossfield told reporters. However, Crossfield may make the first flight in January or, with exceptional luck, in December.

For its space probing, the X15 will be carried aloft under a B52 jet bomber and launched over the Wendover, Utah, area.

In full-scale flights its rocket engine will burn for 90 seconds, hurtling the craft into a ballistic flight path. Empty of fuel, X15 will arc 460 miles to Edwards and a deadstick landing on steel skids it uses in place of wheels.

"We are on the threshold of even more exciting adventures into space, of which X15 is but one manifestation," he said.

Harrison Storms, chief engineer of North American's Los Angeles division, which built the plane, put it this way: "The X15 can fly three times as fast as the fastest jet fighters, twice as fast as a high-speed rifle bullet, and can 'easily exceed a world altitude record by many times.'"

Sewer Line Work Starts

Construction work on the sewer line is well advanced in the Capehart housing area.

The contractor was asked to push the sewer job so it would not hold up occupancy of the Capehart addition, but the housing area isn't ready yet.

Dynamite Is Stolen

Ten pounds of dynamite, with necessary caps, was stolen sometime Wednesday from a storage hole maintained by the Texas & Pacific Railroad, the sheriff's office has been notified.

Fred Newell, party chief, reported the theft at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Church Retains Architects For New Sanctuary

The architectural firm of Gary & Hohertz has been retained to prepare plans for a new sanctuary for the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, 12th and Owens.

The church probably will invest more than $100,000 in the expansion of facilities. The new sanctuary will be erected on two lots now occupied by the church parsonage and an adjoining residence.

The existing auditorium will be converted into a small chapel and Sunday school rooms. Six additional classrooms also will be provided in the new sanctuary building.

Mrs. Agnes Young, Pioneer Of City, Dies Today At Age 98

Agnes V. Young, 98, who knew Big Spring in the days of tents and shacks along the sandy Front Street, died at 12:37 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Van Gieson, newly widowed, operated a hotel here.

where the Greyhound bus terminal is located but they kept the family home, a historic two-story house at 506 Main.

Death thus removed one of the real pioneers of this city and area. She had come here with her widowed mother around 1882 and was the leader of the younger set for many years.

She found great delight in amateur dramas and invariably got the assignment of staging them in the historic Big Spring Opera House. One of these, "Dross, or the Root of Evil," was staged as a benefit for the St. Mary's Episcopal Church and included her brother and his bride-to-be in the cast. It was so successful that it not only raised the church funds but supplied enough for the purchase of a new hearse for the cemetery.

Mrs. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Van Gieson were a tightly knit family and his death on Jan. 22, 1953, followed by that of "Miss Jessie" on Feb. 20, 1953, proved a staggering blow to Mrs. Young. Soon her already fragile health began to fail and for several years she had been an invalid.

On holidays and weekends she joined with her close friends, Olive Gentry Biles, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Fisher and others for happy picnics and excursions.

She had been married in 1889 to John Bennett (Monk) Young, a businessman, and in 1909 they moved to Toyah to open a business. He died there in 1916 and her brother, V. Van Gieson, went there to help with management of the business. In 1928 Mr. and Mrs. Van Gieson and Mrs. Young returned to Big Spring, then on a big boom.

There will be a requiem celebration of Holy Communion at 10 a.m. Friday in the St. Mary's Episcopal Church in memory of Mrs. Young, the rector, the Rev. Wm. D. Boyd, announced. Funeral arrangements are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Young was a charter member of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church, being in the membership when it was started as a mission in December of 1885. Much of the building back as well as its furnishings and programs and special affairs, which Mrs. Young had arranged.

Washington (AP)—The U.S. appeals rejected today a challenge that a Jesuit education foundation is ineligible to hold a broadcast license.

The legal right of Loyola to hold a broadcast license was challenged by James A. Noe & Co., an unsuccessful applicant, and by a predominantly Protestant organization—Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State. The group, not a party to the action itself, filed a friend-of-the-court brief urging the court to overturn the award, made by the Federal Communications Commission.

The Times-Picayune Publishing Co. also was an original applicant for the Channel 4 permit. The court said The Times-Picayune had withdrawn its appeal under an understanding with the Justice Department "in connection with an antitrust problem."

Dr. J. Morrison Ritchie, director of the Public Health Laboratory, Birkenhead, England, told about it Wednesday at the sixth annual Symposium on Antibiotics.

Speaking for a unanimous three-judge court, Judge George T. Washington said the university is legally and financially autonomous and does not receive support from the Society of Jesus in a monetary way.

The vaccines were made from microbes taken from nose and throat areas of volunteers at the time they showed the first sign of a cold. Then the vaccine was administered to the volunteers once a week during the winter. Another group of volunteers received no vaccine.

Complicated colds developed five times more frequently in the untreated group than in the treated, Ritchie said.

The following winter, similar success followed use of antibiotic lozenges, administered to a group of 100 people suspected of having colds. Only four of them developed a complicated cold compared with 26 out of 100 in an untreated group.

Parsons Elected Lt. Governor For Area Kiwanians

Floyd Parsons, superintendent of Big Spring schools, is the new lieutenant governor for the 22nd Kiwanis Club Division of the Texas-Oklahoma District.

He was elected at the 1958 convention of Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis clubs this week in Brownwood. Parsons succeeds Clyde Davidson, Midland, as lieutenant governor.

He will have jurisdiction over Lamesa, Snyder, Colorado City, Big Spring, Midland, Andrews, Monahans and two clubs in Odessa. He assumes his new duties Jan. 1.

Parsons was elected unanimously. The Big Spring club sponsored his candidacy and at the convention to campaign for his election were Jack Alexander, president, Sherman Smith, vice president, and Ernest Welch, secretary. Parsons also attended.

Escapee's Freedom Comes To Quick End

An airman escaped from Webb AFB's guardhouse this morning and got as far as Midland before being found.

The escapee, Ned Stewart, had been gone only a short time when picked up in Midland. He was en route back to the Webb stockade at noon.

Church Leaders Will Set Fire To Peace Idea

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A group of church leaders will try to set fire to an idea in St. Louis in the next few days. They want to burn into your mind the idea nothing should be more important to you than world peace.

They have proposed to the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) a plan for peace. They want the 8,000 Christian Churches and their two million members in the United States to pray and speak and work for peace in the next year.

Their formula is certain to stir lively debate for it involves such controversial proposals as birth control and admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

The debate will start before the convention's Committee on Recommendations, beginning its deliberations today. It likely will spill over into sessions of the General Assembly, starting Friday night and continuing through Wednesday.

While the Assembly has the final say, its actions are not binding on the Christian Churches. Each congregation is self-governing. But 10,000 ministers and laymen are expected for the convention, so what they decide will be at least a barometer of thinking in the churches.

ORIGIN OF IDEA
The resolution on peace originated in the Social Welfare Department of the United Christian Missionary Society. That is the worldwide agency which cooperating Christian Churches use to carry out their missionary and education projects.

"If large-scale war comes again," says the peace resolution, "Christians will share heavily the responsibility for indiscriminate slaughter of human beings."

It suggests an immediate start on universal disarmament with the United Nations as watchdog. It proposes suspension of nuclear testing, limits on long-range missiles, U.N. control of nuclear energy production and U.N. jurisdiction over exploration of outer space.

The United Nations, the resolution says, is the world's best hope of peace and it should be strengthened—by getting all nations, including Red China, into it as quickly as possible and getting them to bring more of their disputes to it.

The peace plan also proposes money and technical help for have-not nations, freedom for colonies and satellite countries, equality for the races, freedom of communications, freer trade, and birth control for overpopulated areas.

'The Body' Sued For Coat's Cost

DALLAS (AP) — Entertainer Marie McDonald, sometimes known as "The Body," is trying to unfreeze $8,000 of her salary tied up in a suit over a chinchilla coat she says she hasn't got.

Miss McDonald was sued by New York furrier Milton Herman, who alleges she bought a $7,000 coat, paying $2,000 down in December 1957, but never paid the balance.

His attorneys filed a writ of garnishment on the hotel here where she sang last week, seeking to attach the amount due her. The singer's attorney argued the money represents wages and cannot be garnished in Texas.

Not so, the furrier's attorneys said. She was an independent contractor when she signed with the hotel, they asserted.

No decision was announced by the district judge. Miss McDonald told newsmen she last saw the coat last Christmas Eve when she quarreled with her husband Harry Karl, whom she divorced.

"Harry bought the coat for me and as far as I know he still has it," she said.

Nixon Predicts 'Shockers' In U.S. Election

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Republican party is surging toward an upset victory as the polls in November, says Vice President Nixon.

Nixon told 2,000 GOP campaign workers Wednesday night that the biggest political shocker since Harry Truman's unexpected victory in 1948 is in the making.

"This is 1948 in reverse," he said. "The Democrats think they've got it made. They've been reading the polls — and believing them. They're playing it safe. We're playing to win, and we're going to win."

Earlier, in San Francisco, Nixon told a press conference that to win, the Republicans could not let Democratic criticism of administration policies go unanswered.

"I think one reason the Republican party is in trouble is that it has allowed criticism to go by without making effective reply," he said.

He said he considered President Eisenhower's statement at his press conference that foreign policy should be kept out of political campaigns "a proper position... for the President of the United States."

But he said "those of us who have the responsibility for carrying the weight of the campaign" should speak up in the administration's defense.

OPPOSES DISCUSSION

Nixon said that once a decision has been made committing American forces, he is opposed to partisan discussion that might lead a potential enemy to attack because of divided United States opinion.

He said U.S. action in the Quemoy-Matsu and Lebanon situations are in this category.

But on what he termed long-range policy, he said differences should be discussed.

The $100-a-plate Los Angeles dinner was billed as a "salute to Dick." Pretty girls did a brisk business among the audience selling "Dick in '60" buttons to supporters of his candidacy for the presidency in two years.

"We've got the candidates and the issues," he said. "And here's the issue:

"You guarantee progress by electing more Republicans. You stop progress by voting for radical Democrats. So why take a chance with a change?"

Aiming his remarks at the crucial California election, Nixon predicted that independent Democrats would vote for Republican candidates, thus wiping out the big lead recorded by the Democrats in last June's primary.

Nixon sought to heal the damaging split between two top men on the Republican state ticket, Sen. William Knowland, who is running for governor, and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, running for the Senate. Knight has steadfastly refused to support Knowland, due to the latter's advocacy of legislation outlawing the union shop.

"The cause in this campaign is bigger than any differences between Republicans," said Nixon.

He warmly praised both Knight, who sat next to him at the dinner, and Knowland, who was campaigning 450 miles away in San Francisco.

His tribute to Knowland brought thunderous cheers from the audience, with one notable exception, Knight, alone among the dignitaries at the head table, did not join in the applause.

Highly-Prized Paper

It's only a piece of paper that Mrs. Robert Rhodes holds, but the printing on it makes it important to her. Mrs. Charles Watson, at left, and Mrs. Thomas Casey are reading the information that Mrs. Rhodes has contributed more than the required 150 hours of Gray Lady service during the past year. Mrs. Watson, who was a member of the first Gray Lady class, along with Mrs. Rhodes, also received just such a certificate. Mrs. Casey will be the new unit chairman for the Gray Lady Corps, since Mrs. Rhodes has resigned the office.

Webb AFB Gray Ladies Receive Pins, Caps, In Morning Service

Nineteen new Gray Ladies received caps and pins in a ceremony at Webb Air Force Base Wednesday morning. The meeting, at which three of the workers received special awards, was held in the Wing Headquarters conference room. Chaplain Wilbur Hall voiced the invocation, and the group was welcomed by Col. Don R. Keefer. Certificates were presented by R. W. Whipkey, chairman of the Howard-Glasscock Counties Chapter of the American Red Cross. Caps were placed on the volunteers by Maj. Marjorie Erdmann, chief nurse at Webb AFB Hospital.

Attaching pins to the uniforms was Mrs. Robert N. Rhodes, who has served as unit chairman at Webb for over a year. She has trained 50 Gray Ladies during her period of service.

Mrs. Rhodes, who was in the original class of Gray Ladies at Webb, was given a certificate for having served more than the required 150 hours per year. A red stripe, to be worn on the sleeve of her uniform, accompanied the certificate. Another Gray Lady, who received the certificate and stripe was Mrs. Charles Watson, who was also in the first Gray Lady class. Mrs. N. F. Allen, Mrs. Cletus Piper and Mrs. L. R. Simpson were presented with the stripes denoting a year's work.

The special awards were presented by Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, executive secretary of the local chapter. Mrs. Thomas Casey, who will take over the duties of the chairman, was introduced to the gathering by Whipkey. Following the benediction by Chaplain Hall, a coffee was held in the Officers Club.

1905 Hyperions Have Great Religion Study

Hinduism, Buddhism and Islam shared the attention of the 1905 Hyperion Club when 17 members met Wednesday afternoon at the Officers Club. Mrs. Kyle Riddle was hostess.

In their study of the great religions of the world, the group concentrated on the three major faiths in Asia and the Middle East. Mrs. Floyd Parsons said that Hinduism seems to be a simple religion since it has no central authority, no strict moral code and no divine revelation; however she continued, it is complex, and countless teachers sit daily with the followers teaching the subtleties of the religion. Hinduism is embraced by 300 millions in Pakistan, Ceylon and Burma. Its origin dates back 4000 years. Its devotees believe that nothing is ever destroyed but after death it returns to earth in another form.

Discussing Buddhism, Mrs. Marvin Baker termed it a gentle, peaceable religion, which had its inception 2500 years ago as a Protestant revolt against orthodox Hinduism. It is embraced by 500 millions from Ceylon to Japan and over much of Asia. Buddhists believe in reincarnation.

Youngest of the world's great religions is Islam, said Mrs. Ben Johnson Jr. It was begun by the prophet Mohammed, who was born in 570 AD. Mohammedans recognize only one god and declare Mohammed as his prophet. The true follower believes that religion and other phases of life are inseparable. Its adherents today number 300 million, encompassing one seventh of the earth's population.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Norman Read read the devotion a chapter from "The Prophet." The heart of its message was that "a man's religion is something which either is with him at all times or is worthless to him."

In the business session, Mrs. Dick Simpson was elected vice president to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. W. A. Hunt, who has resigned the office. Announcement was made of Mrs. Read's appointment to the state revision committee of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Simpson reported on the City Federation, which is seeking a project for the year. The federation, with presidents of the member clubs, will meet Monday evening.

Autumnal splendor was prevalent in the refreshment table decor. The Italian cutwork cloth was centered with a dried arrangement in fall shades, flanked by silver candleabra holding gold candles. Coffee was poured from a silver samovar, and other appointments were in silver and crystal.

Mrs. Clyde Angel will be hostess to the club at 3 p.m. Nov. 19.

A shortage of agricultural workers in Howard, Martin and Glasscock counties has been certified by the U. S. Thousands Flee Flooding River

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The flooding Rio Grande teamed up with heavy downpours yesterday and today to chase thousands from their homes on both sides of the border river. More rains upstream on the Mexican side threatened even higher water. Heavy releases of water were made from Falcon Reservoir, about 150 miles upstream, because the flood pool was full and more water was headed downstream. The releases combined with downpours and inflows from Mexico to spread flooding and misery from the huge reservoir to the Gulf.

Sunday School Method Defended

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A new look on Sunday school teaching—centered on childhood experiences and not just Bible verses—has firm support from the Episcopal general convention. The program has been under fire from some elements in the church as slighting scriptural details. But a move in the church's House of Deputies Wednesday to junk the whole technique was overwhelmingly defeated, and authorization was given to continue developing and improving the new method. The program—known as the Seabury Series—seeks to adjust Biblical content and creeds to a child's age level and experiences—rather than just putting them in their fixed form.

BEN McCRARY MOVED INTO BS SECONDARY

Benny McCrary, star end of the Big Spring Steers, has been moved into the backfield for this week's game with El Paso Austin.

McCrary replaces Buddy Barnes, the fullback, who has been absent from drills all week due to a siege with the flu.

One other change will find sophomore Freddie Brown starting the game at the tailback spot in place of Wayne Fields.

Fields has pronounced himself ready to play, despite an ankle injury he suffered in last week's game with Lamesa, but Coach Al Milch said he wanted to make sure the big senior, leading scorer in District 2-AAAA, was ready for next week's conference opener with Abilene.

For that reason, Milch added, he plans to go with Brown as much as possible. Too, Freddie has fine potential and Milch wants him to get as much experience as possible.

McCrary will fill the bill as a back, Milch predicted, and, in fact,

Johnson Continues To Lead Border League In Offense

ABILENE (SC)—The University of Arizona's Dave Hibbert and fullback Pete Hart of Hardin-Simmons University made the biggest noises in individual statistics of the Border Conference this week figures released here today show.

Hibbert not only held a wide lead in the conference figures, he also became one of the top national leaders in pass receiving. He has caught 22 passes for 236 yards to lead New Mexico A&M's Bob Kelly by nine receptions. Hart took the conference rushing lead although gaining only 61 yards against Arizona State last week.

In other individual statistics, New Mexico A&M's Charley Johnson of Big Spring, Tex., moved further out front in total offense while also keeping his passing leadership. Johnson has rushed for 73 yards and passed for 480 more for a total of 533 yards on total offense. He has completed 39 of 73 passes for the 480 yards. Jim Tom Butler of H-SU is second with 404 yards on 34 completions out of 74 attempted.

Scotties Face Real Toughie

By The Associated Press
Defending champion Highland Park will find out Friday if it's back in last year's class. The Scots play Miller, the power of the south in Class AAAA, at Corpus Christi.

This test headlines a 259-game schedule.

Miller is one of four Class AAAA teams with undefeated, untied records and will be one of a dozen such teams in danger of losing its status in the four divisions.

There are 44 unbeaten, untied teams left in the state with 7 in Class AAA, 15 in Class AA and 18 in Class A.

Other headline games Friday include the clash of unbeaten, untied Orange with Longview, an undefeated but once-tied outfit.

Miller, Orange, Houston Bellaire and Laredo are the Class AAAA teams with perfect records.

Wichita Falls will be at Odessa, Abilene at Waco and San Angelo at San Antonio Jefferson in important inter-sectional clashes.

Phillips, Weatherford, Diamond Hill, Carthage, Nacogdoches, San Marcos and San Antonio, San Houston are Class AAA's undefeated, untied teams and Weatherford is in the gravest danger. The Kangaroos play powerful Garland of Class AAAA.

Defending champion Terrell of Class AA continues district play with Duncanville as the opposition. The Tigers will be heavy favorites.

Co-champions White Oak and Mart of Class A also have conference games. White Oak meeting Judson and Mart taking on Fairfield.

Of the undefeated, untied teams in Class AA, Caldwell may be in for the toughest evening. Caldwell plays a strong Taylor team in a conference struggle.

Seven of the 16 Class AAAA districts have championship play but only two in Class AAA. However, Class AA has conference warfare in all of its 32 districts and Class A has them fighting for championships in 30 districts.

Pete Hawkins Leads Big College Scoring

NEW YORK (AP)—Pete Hawkins, one-half of Army's fearsome backfield duo, is showing the way in major college individual football scoring with 42 points.

The 197-pound halfback from Royal Oak, Mich., who with Bob Anderson gives Army its best one-two punch since Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, crossed the goal line seven times in pacing the Cadets to three straight victories.

Figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau shows Hawkins leading Colorado's Howard Cook by one point. Cook scored 25 of his 41 points against Arizona last Saturday. The 25 equalled the season's one-game high by Kentucky's Calvin Bird against Hawaii.

Bill Patton of California is third with 36 points. Bird, Dick Bass of College of the Pacific and versatile Bill Austin of Rutgers are next in line with 32 each.

Arizona's Dave Hibbert is the top pass catcher. He has been on the receiving end of 22 aerials, the highest four-game total in five years. Hibbert's closest competitor is Ulmo Randall of Virginia, whose 19 receptions is five more than he caught all last season.

Bobby Walden has averaged 48.1

yards on 15 punts to top that department. Second at 46.5 is Don Croker of North Carolina.

The honor of being the hardest working back goes to Austin. The Rutgers ace has handled the ball on an average of 36.3 plays of all types per game. In addition he has scored five touchdowns and two extra points, tossed three touchdown passes and a pair of two-point conversion aerials. That makes him responsible for 54 of Rutgers' 72 points.

Vernon Cole of North Texas State, in one more game than Austin, also has had a hand in scoring 54 points (2 touchdowns, 5 TD passes and 6 two-point conversion passes). Responsible for only one point less is Cook who figured in 6 TDs, 2 TD passes, 3 extra point and a field goal.

Vanderbilt's David Ray is tops in punt returns with 4 for 120 yards and a 10-yard edge over John Horrillo of Oregon State. Tom Newell of Drake has run back 11 kickoffs for 219 yards, eight more than Virginia's Randall.

Ram-Bear Battle Will Be On TV

The rampaging Los Angeles Rams, fresh from a 42-28 win over the Detroit Lions, will take on the powerful Chicago Bears on Sunday's televised game over the Columbia Broadcasting System. The Bears themselves were busy defeating the 49-ers in last week's tilt. Both teams stand at two wins and one loss, and the game promises to be a high-scoring affair.

Willie Galimore and Rick Casares of the Bears may prove too much for the Rams' young squad. However, Coach Gilman has been surprising all comers with his sophomore group, and the Bears could drop into third place in league standing.

The game, co-sponsored by American Petrofina, can be seen in this area over station KEYD-TV.

Giants Are Beaten In Jap Playoffs

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP)—The defending champion Nishitetsu Lions got their first victory over the Yomiuri Giants, 6-4, in the fourth game of the Japan baseball series today.

The underdog Giants won the first three games in the best-of-7 series between the champions of the Pacific and Central Leagues.

3,173 WITNESS LAMESA GAME

The smallest crowd of the Big Spring Steers' home schedule witnessed last week's football game between the Steers and Lamesa.

Only 3,173 paying customers were in the stands. They paid $3,287.90 for the privilege.

After expenses, each school earned $1,560.75.

Lamesa sales for the games amounted to $327, school officials here stated.

Ducats for the upcoming game with El Paso Austin, priced at $1.50 each, are moving slowly. Officials blame the reluctance of the people to buy on the weather.

Pitcher Bought

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Left-hander Marshall Bridges, 27, the Pacific Coast League's strikeout king, has been bought by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Burke and Venturi In A Tie For Lead

IRUMAGAWA, Japan (AP)—American golfer Jack Burke Jr. and Japan's Torakichi Nakamura each shot a one-under-par 71 today to tie with Ken Venturi of the U.S. in the Japan Open championship. Venturi shot a par 72. Today's second round made it a three-way tie for first place.

Space Agency Chief Stays In Background

By ED CREAGH
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you hire T. Keith Glennan you may not know quite what you're letting yourself in for.

A Yale professor hired him in his undergraduate days as a part-time chauffeur. Glennan wound up by marrying the boss' daughter and they now have four children.

President Eisenhower picked the same Dr. Glennan last August to head the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It's a headline question at the moment whether the 53-year-old Glennan will wind up as boss of the Army's space projects.

Glennan gives no impression of being an empire-builder—the term they use in government for the official who grabs other people's projects, or invents new ones, to build his own importance. He is a quietly friendly family man of Irish ancestry. He has his share of the Old Sod's gift of gab but his reputation rests on engineering and administrative achievements rather than salesmanship.

Glennan was best known, probably, as president of Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland. He left that post for two years to serve on the Atomic Energy Commission under an appointment from President Harry S. Truman. He returned to Washington to head the new civilian-run space agency, this time as an appointee of President Eisenhower.

Early this month the new outfit, NASA, took control over the Navy's 150 civilian scientists working on satellites. Then this week word leaked out of the Pentagon that Glennan's agency wanted to run the Army's much larger space missile program as well.

Resentment surged up quickly among the Army missilemen, who feel they're doing fine under the present setup. There were threats of resignations and of protests directed to Eisenhower. The President told a news conference that no decision on transferring control away from the Army has been reached.

Glennan kept quiet about the controversy.

He never has done a good deal of sounding off in public. His statements run to such things as calls for higher educational standards in this country—in the sciences especially—and a recent rueful tribute to Soviet advances in that field.

"They have developed a demand for education because it pays off," he said after a 15-day look at Soviet teaching methods earlier this year.

Born in Enderlin, N.D., Sept. 8, 1905, Glennan is a keen-eyed, stocky man with thinning dark hair. His main interests apart from his work and his family, are books and music. He is far from the conventional idea of a book worm, though. Among his other jobs he was a Hollywood studio manager and an underwater sound detection expert for the Navy before going to Case.

DEAR ABBY
GROW UP, 'CHILD'
By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't throw this letter away thinking it's from a mixed-up school girl. I am a married woman of 34 and have three children and am very unhappy in my marriage. Just for the fun of it I called up a man who has a radio program. I fell in love with his voice. He doesn't know who I am and wants to keep it that way. Abby, just hear his voice does something to me. In a few minutes of conversation with my secret lover I get all the warmth and happiness I've always wanted. He doesn't know how I feel about him and I would never tell him. I have made a scrap book of his pictures and write-ups. Could this be real love?

DEAR IN: This is not love—it's "hero-worship." We have to live in a real world with real people. Come back to reality and direct some of that energy to your husband and children. They can reciprocate.

DEAR ABBY: I take a trip back home to see my parents in another state every summer. For the last two summers when I was gone, I got letters from my friends telling me that my husband has been seen around town with a very good looking blonde divorcee. My husband is a very friendly type and I never was jealous because he sees a lot of women for business reasons. This one bothers me more than the others. Do you think he is seeing her for business reasons?

DEAR ANNETTE: It's possible. What's her business?

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Unpaid Seamstress" hit home with me. I was one of those women who couldn't say "NO" when my friends would ask me to "run up a seam" for them. I found myself sewing for friends so much I didn't have time for my own housework, so my husband told me that when a friend would ask me to sew I should say, "I'd love to, but here are six shirts and three dresses for you to iron, and also a little mending if you get time." I did—nobody has bothered me since.

ANOTHER SEAMSTRESS

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a swell fellow. We were planning on being married, but recently we've had to change our plans because he received a letter from a girl he met while he was still in the service. She says she is pregnant, and my boyfriend is the father and he had better hurry and do something about it because she isn't able to button her skirts any more. Abby, I am crazy about this fellow, and love him all the more because he was honest enough to tell me the truth about this girl. We hate to have to go to court about this matter, but he says the chances are 50-50 she is lying. Please give us some advice. Fast. IN A JAM

DEAR IN: The only place you'll find a solution to this problem is in a lawyer's office. Go! Fast!

DEAR ABBY: They say in Old Testament days Jewish mothers did not suffer the agonies of childbirth as Gentile mothers did because they were God's chosen people. I am wondering if this blessing still holds true today?

A GENTLE

DEAR GENTLE: I don't know where you got your information, but it wasn't from any Jewish mothers. Jewish mothers (along with Gentiles) go down "the same valley in the shadow of death" according to the Good Book.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GOOD-LOOKING BUTCHER: If you did my ask her if she was married you've got no beef!

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

Reserve Board Stiffens Stock Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today put into effect the stiffest stock market credit restraints in nearly 12 years. The board's purpose: to discourage speculation with borrowed money.

The board announced plans Wednesday to increase to 90 per cent the margin, or minimum down payment, required on purchases of stocks. The minimum margin had been 70 per cent since

Aug. 5, when it was raised from 50 per cent.

The latest action means investors henceforth must put up at least $90 in cash for every $100 of stock they buy. It does not have any retroactive effect on stocks bought when margins were lower.

Only once before have margins been this high—when they were 100 per cent in the first year after World War II.

Wall Street had been expecting an increase and some stock analysts said they believed the action had been discounted in advance. The market reached an all-time high Monday but prices fell in heavy trading Tuesday and Wednesday.

When the reserve board raises margins, the aim is to prevent excessive use of credit in the stock market. If too much borrowed money moves into the market, less is available for use by borrowers in other sectors of the economy.

G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said credit on that exchange totals $3,100,000,000. He said this is only 1.3 per cent of the total market value of the stocks.

Funston said stock market credit has not kept pace with increases in stock prices or with nongovernment credit in the rest of the economy.

A reserve board spokesman said loans by brokers and banks for purchasing stocks totaled $4,300,000,000 at the end of September. He said this was the largest amount since this type of statistic was first collected during the 1930s.

Brokers' loans had increased 20 per cent this year and bank loans for stock purchases are up 8 per cent, he said.

Helium In Short Supply

AMARILLO (AP)—If there are no big gas-filled balloons in Macy's traditional Christmas parade in New York this year—or worse still no parade at all—you can blame it on a shortage of helium.

Harry Ingram, an official of the Air Reduction Co., which handles 80 per cent of the helium for commercial use and in the past has supplied the thousands of cubic feet of the rare inert gas to inflate the big rubber figures, gave the doleful news yesterday.

"But this year we told them there would be none available, even if they went to the White House with the matter," said Ingram. He was one of 125 scientists and technicians who attended a two-day meeting here to study ways of conserving helium.

"The stuff is just needed too badly in critical parts of our national defense to let it be used like that. They (Macy's) told us they wouldn't have the parade this year unless we would supply the helium but they will probably come up with some substitute," he said.

Although the discussions here were classified, officials said helium is now in critical supply because of the need for large quantities in missile, Atomic Energy Commission and nuclear weapons programs.

The Plymouth 'Fury'

C. Y. Clinkscales of Lone Star Motor Co. exhibits the stylish "Fury" model of the Plymouth line of 1959 automobiles, on display today. Swivel front seats, self-dimming headlights and rear view mirror, and Plymouth's Torsion-Aire suspension system are among the features of the new car.

Sporty Hardtop

Joyce Grigg and Brenda Patton admire the Chevrolet Impala hardtop, one of the many new models on display today at Tidwell Chevrolet Co. New streamlining, giving the cars a "lean look," is illustrated by the distinctive tailfin. Engineering advances also are stressed.

U.S. Teachers Compared To Colonial Debtors Slaves

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some of the first teachers in colonial America were virtual slaves, working off a term in debtors' prison.

There are many teachers today who insist that times haven't changed a bit.

Perhaps the almost uniquely American attitude of disdain for teachers is the primary reason for this country's teacher shortage. It shows in salary schedules that almost all educators say are too low to lure good teachers into the field and keep them there.

By the latest estimates, U.S. public schools are short some 125,000 qualified teachers. The results are overcrowded classrooms, double sessions, and emergency teachers who aren't really qualified for the job.

The recent report of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, Inc., said the root problem of the teacher shortage is financial.

"Salaries must be raised, immediately and substantially," the report noted. "Those (teachers) with more than modest financial needs and responsibilities can only solve their problems by becoming administrators, or leaving education altogether."

In 1957-58, the average salary for all classroom teachers was $4,520 a year. But that figure is deceptive. California and New York hire the most teachers, and they pay the highest salaries. That brings the average up.

One out of every four classroom teachers last year received less than $3,500. In eight states the average annual salary of the entire teaching staff was less than $3,500.

In three states—North Dakota, Mississippi and Kentucky, one teacher in three was paid less than $2,500 for the school year. The average for all of Mississippi was just over that: $2,525.

If we use the national average of $4,520, it works out to about $120 a week for the school year, or about $96 a week if the salary is supposed to cover a full 12-month period.

On the basis of a 40-hour week that $120 works out to an even $3 an hour. That's a nice round figure that sounds fairly impressive—but here again the figure is deceptive. The teacher who works a 40-hour week is a rare bird, indeed.

Most surveys show that teachers work anywhere from 50 to 60 hours a week on school chores—teaching, preparing lessons, grading papers, taking tickets at basketball games, chaperoning dances, and organizing and supervising outside activities.

At 50 to 60 hours a week, the pay scale drops to $2 to $2.40 an hour. That is considerably below the pay of the average plumber, carpenter, bricklayer or other skilled workman in the building trades, and even further below the pay scale in most other professions.

These weekly and hourly figures are based on the national annual average of $4,520. If we consider Mississippi's yearly average of $2,520, it comes out to $68 a week for a 37½-week school year, or about $49 a week on a full-year basis. And the hourly rate, even for the school year alone, drops to between $1.13 and $1.36.

To earn this salary, Mississippi requires that a teacher have at least a bachelor's degree from a four-year college or university, with from 18-24 semester hours in professional education courses. Since this pay scale doesn't attract many such teachers, Mississippi and other states have to rely heavily on "emergency" teachers, some of whom have had little more than a high school education.

At the other end of the salary scale sits California, paying its classroom teachers an average annual salary of $5,750. Using the same basis as above, this works out to either $153 or $110 a week.

Even so, California is having trouble finding enough teachers. Officials in other states complain of California raiding parties that scour the plains east of the Rockies, find good teachers and lure them West with the promise of bigger paychecks.

In any discussion of teachers' salaries, nothing muddies the waters so much as the length of the school year. Someone is sure to say, "I don't think teachers do too badly, considering they work only nine months a year."

And there's no doubt about it. A three-month vacation every year is a very attractive fringe benefit—if you can afford it.

There aren't any exact figures available, but most surveys indicate that two of every three men teachers have to work at summer jobs to make both ends meet. The ratio for women teachers seems to be about one in eight.

That takes some of the gloss off the three-month vacation.

Motorist Is Killed As Plane Hits Car

BABYLON, N.Y. (AP)—A military transport plane with seven men aboard crash-landed on a busy highway Wednesday night, smashing into three cars during a wild skid and fatally injuring a motorist.

The twin-engine C123 ran out of gas and swooped down on the four-lane Southern State Parkway on Long Island. Skidding hundreds of feet, it ripped through an underpass and struck three cars before stopping in flames.

Harold J. Schneider, West Islip, N.Y., died of head injuries shortly after the accident.

Three Air Force men and two women motorists suffered minor injuries.

The plane had been trying to land at Zahn's Airport, about half a mile from the crash scene.

After hitting the highway the plane skidded several hundred feet and into an underpass. The plane has a wingspan of 119 feet; the underpass is 50 feet wide. The plane emerged with wings, tailpiece and one engine gone.

When it finally came to a stop, the other engine burst into flames.

The men inside scrambled to safety from a side exit.

In landing on the parkway, the pilot avoided a heavy concentration of houses in the immediate area.

Police said the craft hit one of the cars before going into the underpass, hit another in the underpass, and a third auto after coming out.

The woman motorists injured were Mrs. Mary Rehm, Islip Terrace, and Mrs. Frank Calabrese, West Islip.

The injured Air Force men were identified as Capt. John Florio, Sgt. Wallitt A. Carman and Sgt. Edgar H. Williamson. The pilot was Lt. Gary L. Moolson.

The plane had been en route from Dobbins Air Force Base, Marietta, Ga., to Mitchel Field on Long Island.

The Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, said that planes of the same C123 type had been grounded until this past Tuesday to remedy a defect in the fuel system. The grounding of the planes was ordered after the fatal crash of a C123 in Idaho last week.

Demos Puzzled By Ike-Dulles Policy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—What's a bewildered Democratic politician to do?

Secretary of State Dulles says it's all right for administration opponents to debate the "basic problems" of foreign policy. But he finds it highly undesirable for them to talk in the campaign about "current aspects" of that policy.

President Eisenhower says the "basic parts" of U.S. foreign policy have been standing on their own feet for a long time. But he does not decry "intelligent questioning and criticism" of the tough daily decisions needed to carry out that policy.

Faced with this seeming contradiction, Sen. George A. Smathers will continue to discuss "matters of such vital importance to the nation that decisions on them cannot be left to two men alone—Eisenhower and Dulles."

From the other side of the political fence, Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) said in a separate interview there is room for campaign debate on international af-airs "only if the discussion is constructive and it is for the purpose of keeping the electorate informed."

In San Francisco, Vice President Nixon told a news conference responsible Republicans must answer Democratic criticisms, even if the attacks appear ridiculous. Otherwise, he said, the Republican party will go down to defeat.

He said Eisenhower's stand is a proper one for a president, but "those of us who have the responsibility for carrying the weight of the campaign" should speak up in defense of the administration.

At the time Eisenhower was telling his news conference Wednesday that he deprecates injection of foreign policy into the campaign, the Republican National Committee had in the mails a new blast against Democrats.

The GOP committee said that Dean Acheson, former secretary of state, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler and Senators Wayne Morse (D-Ore), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) and Smathers "have been preaching appeasement, retreat and surrender over the matter of Quemoy and Matsu."

"They want to substitute the policy which led to Korea for the firm policy of this administration which has brought a cease-fire to the Formosa Strait, with honor retained," the GOP committee said.

Eisenhower did not reply directly to a question as to whether he thought it fair to use the term appeasement for those who opposed his Quemoy policies.

Instead, he said he had spoken out against appeasement as others had years ago. He added that "when you give way to force and readjust yourself and go back through force, it can't be anything else but appeasement."

Smathers, who heads the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he would not describe as appeasers those who discuss policy moves that may mean the difference between peace and war.

"I am strongly in favor of a bipartisan foreign policy program but this administration has not seen fit to consult with Democratic leaders before making its decisions," Smathers said.

Windows Broken In N.Y. Temple

NEW YORK (AP)—A Jewish synagogue in Brooklyn reported to police Wednesday night that three windows had been broken some time during the day.

Police said it apparently was the work of stone throwing children but that an investigation was being made.

Fatal Collision

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A two-car smashup last night killed Murry Hartfield Jr., 5, and injured his brother and two sisters. The driver of the second auto failed to stop, police said.

Reaction Sought On School Plan

AUSTIN (AP)—Grassroots reaction was sought today by the Hale-Aikin School Study Committee on its new school program which would cost more than 100 million dollars additionally yearly.

Federal aid for vocational education and the school milk-lunch programs is a good idea, the committee decided yesterday in flip-flopping from a previous stand.

Other main features of the new program:

1. A school year two weeks longer. This sets up a 9½ month school year with local districts having the option of holding school for 10 months with corresponding state aid.

2. An increase in the starting salary of a teacher with a bachelor's degree from $3,204 to $3,800 for 9½ months and to $4,000 for 10 months.

3. Removal of the state from the field of ad valorem taxation and leaving this tax source for the local districts.

4. Requiring school districts to furnish any necessary additional classrooms from money collected by raising assessments and rejecting federal aid.

5. Reducing from 26 to 15 years the time necessary for a teacher with a master's degree to reach the highest salary bracket.

U.N. Interpreters Must Know A Lot More Than Languages

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations delegate, proud of his florid oratory, delivered a long speech with each word rich and consciously beautiful.

When he concluded, a U.N. interpreter read the French translation—clear, lucid, but neatly pruned of excessive verbiage.

The delegate rushed up. "That's not what I said," he protested furiously.

"Monsieur," replied the interpreter smoothly, "that is what you ought to have said."

This is the favorite story of the United Nations Interpretive Section, but in practice the 70-odd translators have little time or inclination to edit speeches. Mostly they just try to keep up with them.

It might seem simple to merely translate sentences word for word as a speaker mouths them.

Actually, much more is required of a U.N. interpreter. Many know almost as much about the subject under discussion as the speaker. About a third of the interpretive staff—numbering 70—are Ph.D.'s. Most own degrees in law, economics, political science, mathematics, comparative literature, or some other learned specialty.

All are constantly boning up on documents and background material to keep up with subjects under discussion by the various committees to which they are assigned. Recently, before 35 interpreters went to Geneva for the atomic energy conference, they had a cram course to familiarize them further with the subject and the terminology. At least one interpreter, though, didn't need it; he already held two advanced degrees in nuclear physics.

"The minimum requirement for an interpreter is fluency in three languages and most of our staff can handle more than that," says George L. Sherry, acting chief of the section. "But none of us thinks of himself as a linguist. Language is just a tool."

Interpreters must pass a rough examination before they are hired for the jobs, which pay from $6,000 to more than $14,000 a year.

Sherry's U.N. languages are he's also fluent in German and Romanian. (The official U.N. languages are French, English, Russian, Chinese and Spanish.) Sherry is an English interpreter, which means he always interprets Russian and French into English.

ability to analyze things on the fly."

Once Sherry was making a simultaneous translation of a speech by the late Andrei Vishinsky, with the Soviet delegate charging the Western Powers with causing bloodshed. He used the phrase, "bloody boys before my eyes"—a reference Sherry instantly recognized as a quotation from Brois Godunov, the Russian classic.

A literal translation would have meant—nothing to listeners, so Sherry nimbly substituted an appropriate quotation from Macbeth, about bloody instructions which, being taught, returns to plague the inventor." All this while he was translating at a clip of 200 words a minute.

Slips by interpreters occasionally provide some merriment, as when an English interpreter during a Security Council session quoted Andrei Gromyko as calling for a "reduction of arguments" instead of armaments. The Russian joined the laughter and said that perhaps the interpreter had the better idea.

Navy Studies Shattered Polaris

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Navy missilemen today pieced together the shattered fragments of the second Polaris experimental rocket to explode in the last three weeks.

The 55-foot rocket was blown apart Wednesday after the second stage suddenly shot aloft a split second before launching and zigzagged over the Cape in a series of cartwheel turns.

On Sept. 24, its predecessor was destroyed by the range safety officer 50,000 feet over the Cape when it jerked out of control.

The upper section of the latest missile, named AX2, impacted in an isolated field on the Cape, igniting a brush fire that roared through a one-mile area for several hours. Herds of rattlesnakes crawled onto a nearby road to escape the flames.

The Polaris is the Navy's 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile designed for launching from nuclear submarines beneath the surface.

Tuesday Is Now Immunization Day

The day for the weekly clinic at the city-county health unit has been changed, according to Bo Bowen, health nurse.

Miss Bowen announced that the clinics are now being held on Tuesday afternoons from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. Prior to the change, the clinic had been on Thursdays.

The change in schedule probably was the reason that only nine persons came to the health unit Tuesday for shots.

IN OHIO ELECTION

Right-To-Work Stirs Things Up

By ART PARKS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The right-to-work issue has really stirred things up in this year's Ohio election.

Even seasoned politicians are having their troubles figuring the outcome.

Right now, the Ohio capitol is solidly Republican from cellar to cupola. All officeholders from Gov. C. William O'Neill—on down seek re-election, not for two-year terms as in the past, but for four-year terms. Another GOP stalwart, John W. Bricker, is a candidate for a third U.S. Senate term.

This strange and fascinating campaign, in the opinion of competent observers, appears to be shaping up in this singular pattern:

Ohio voters probably will write into the state constitution a right-to-work section—a provision prohibiting union shop contracts which require union membership as a condition for holding a job.

But Republican Gov. O'Neill who is stumping for the proposal, appears on the ragged edge of defeat after only one term in office.

His Democratic challenger, Michael V. DiSalle, who personally opposes the union shop prohibition, sees victory finally within his grasp despite a trouncing by O'Neill in 1956.

And Bricker, who delayed taking a public position on the constitutional proposal, appears a cinch to coast to another victory, this one over former Ohio Congressman-at-large Stephen M. Young, Democrat.

Bricker said he will vote for the right-to-work proposal, but he has no intention of making it a campaign issue.

Republicans who now control the Ohio delegation in the U.S. House 17-6 and both houses of the Ohio Legislature are plainly scared—but hoping for the best. Why, after rolling up huge

Soil Bank Suit Filed

Nevie Lee Blalack has filed a suit in 118th District Court against John G. (Gabe) Hammack, manager of the Howard County Committee for Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation demanding that he be paid money he claims is due him for participation in the Soil Bank program.

The suit, lodged in the court on Wednesday, alleges that on Aug. 1, 1958, funds in the sum of $4,464.90 were transmitted to the ASC for delivery to the plaintiff for his participation in the program.

He claims that Hammack has refused to surrender the money to him and that he has repeatedly demanded that he be paid.

He alleges the defendant is liable for the money and that he is entitled to the original amount plus interest at 6 per cent and for $350 for attorney fees.

Hammack had not filed his answer in the suit on Wednesday.

Personal Income At A New High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income climbed to a new record last month. Much of the increase was in the durable goods industries that had been hard hit in the recession.

The Commerce Department reported that the income total in September reached an annual rate of 37½ billion dollars—up 1½ billions from August and up about 11 billions from the recession low last February.

It was the seventh straight month in which personal income had risen and the third straight month in which it set a new mark.

The figures given out by the Commerce Department were adjusted for seasonal factors.

Hogs Wind Up In City Pound

The city collected $6 through the dog pound which didn't come from rounding up dogs. It came from picking up three pigs.

The city impounded the three porkers on the North Side and held them until redeemed. Charge per pig was $2.

The fees were included in $23.50 collected in pound charges during September, according to the report on the pound. License charges amounted to $13.25.

During the month, the city impounded 96 dogs and destroyed 84 during the same time. Seventy-eight were picked up by the city which had been killed on streets.

A total of 13 animals were either redeemed or sold during the month.

Unquestionably, O'Neill has regained some of his political losses. DiSalle, 50, once known nationally as President Truman's roly-poly, jovial director of price stabilization, has shed most of his excess weight. The joking is under wraps and his mustache is gone too.

Already this year, he has visited each of Ohio's 88 counties at least twice, some of them many times.

Fines Add $4,200 To City's Coffers

Fines from Corporation Court contributed over $4,200 to the city's General Fund during September, the monthly report from the city secretary showed.

The fines brought in $4,242 during the month to the fund, and the gas franchise contributed $2,820.11. Delinquent tax revenue amounted to $1,035.88, and interest and penalties on taxes brought in another $213.13.

Boating and fishing permits at Moss Creek Lake amounted to $500, the electrical permit fees were $361.05. Occupation taxes contributed $337.50.

At the golf course, $167 was paid for nine-hole green fees, and day-play fees amounted to $357. Monthly golf cards brought in $150. Revenue at the swimming pool—it was open one day during the month—amounted to $303.80, but this included $270.30 in club swims paid during the month.

Receipts from parking meters totaled $3,130.53 as compared with August parking meter revenue of $3,875.09.

The report showed that 226,617,500 gallons of water were metered to customers during the month, just 999,800 gallons more than were used in September of last year. During August, the city metered 58,956,300 gallons more than last month.

Water and sewer bills last month amounted to $88,582.78, an increase of $9,479.13 over September of 1957 but a decrease of $13,633.45 from the August billing.

Without any disbursements from the Interest and Sinking Fund, the city's bonded indebtedness remained at $1,177,500 tax bonds and $1,411,000 revenue bonds.

HJC Teacher To Attend Math, Science Conference

George McAister, chairman of the mathematics department at Howard County Junior College, is to participate in the fifth annual University of Texas Conference for the Advancement of Science and Mathematics Teaching.

The conference is scheduled for Oct. 23-25. No high school teachers are planning to attend from Big Spring.

President Eisenhower's Committee on Scientists and Engineers and the National Academy of Sciences are cooperating with the University in planning the conference for the first time.

"At no time in our history has it been more essential that our teachers, scientists and mathematicians coordinate their efforts," Dr. Lewis Hatch, conference chairman, pointed out. "Science alone is not enough but without science all else will be of little value."

Speakers will include Dr. G. Bailey Price, Mathematical Assn. of America president and University of Kansas mathematics professor; Dr. E. G. Begle, director, Yale University School Mathematics Study Group; Dr. Gerald S. Craig, Columbia University Teachers College; Dr. Randa-Rand Whaley, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council; and Dr. Glenn Warner king, National Science Teachers Assn., both of Washington, D. C., and Dr. Julius Miller, physicist, El Camino College, Calif.

Other conference sponsors are Texas Academy of Science, Science Teachers Assn. of Texas, Texas Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the Texas Education Agency.

of $9,479.13 over September of 1957 but a decrease of $13,633.45 from the August billing. Without any disbursements from the Interest and Sinking Fund, the city's bonded indebtedness remained at $1,177,500 tax bonds and $1,411,000 revenue bonds.

Wesley Women Send Malay To College By Cooperative Catering

By HELEN HURT
One of these days, people in a far corner of this earth are going to have their lives enriched as the direct result of a group of Big Spring women who are endowed with Christian love and the talent for cooking.

The women of Wesley Methodist Church, particularly those in the WSCS and the Wesleyan Service Guild, have pledged themselves to the goal of sending Christine Bonney, Malay teacher, through McMurry College. It was their funds which brought her to this country 13 months ago, and it is their funds which will see her through to graduation in 1960. Then Miss Bonney plans to return to Kuantan, Malay, to teach in the elementary grades at the Methodist Girls' School.

Just how is such a feat possible? Call together a group of consecrated women, let them decide on a project no matter how difficult, and they will come through with a solution. The route the Wesley women chose was suggested by their kitchen know-how.

For instance, it is they who prepare and serve dinner regularly to the Evening Lions Club on Monday evenings. As WSCS chairman of local church activities, Mrs. J. T. Gilmore, who is also church secretary, has charge of planning for the Lions dinners and always rounds up a faithful committee to assist. Mrs. Marshall Day looks out for the Thursday luncheon meetings of Altrusa Club.

Usually the menus are left to the discretion of the Wesley women. Various ones in the WSCS and Guild are asked to prepare certain dishes at home, and as a rule the coffee and salad are readied at Fellowship Hall. In both cases the Rev. C. W. Parmenter, former pastor of the church and now retired, figures prominently. He not only makes the coffee but cuts up the salad. Food is paid for from the women's treasuries and the net profits, about 40 per cent of the plate charge, go into the Bonney educational fund.

Those who cook the food are excused from serving duty, to even up the work load. Normally, each woman who participates is called upon only once a month.

Plates range from $1.50 for banquets to $1.25 or $1.35 for lunch, depending upon the salad. Meals are served buffet style and their delicious bountifulness is accounting for more engagements on the calendar. The women feed the men of Wesley Church once monthly, and there are other catering dates, such as the Past Matrons Club dinner Tuesday night.

Willing workers, the women take pride in certain specialties of their own. There is Mrs. W. W. Coleman, who has a way with green beans and other fresh vegetables; Mrs. Nelson Clemow, who is known for her decorated cakes; Mrs. Fred Franklin, who smothers chicken fried steak with mushroom sauce; Mrs. Jerry Allen is usually asked for scalloped potatoes or German chocolate cake; Mrs. W. D. Lovelace for chicken spaghetti or potato salad, which she makes in company with Mrs. Marshall Day, who stirs up a mean meat loaf.

Meat-wise, members of the Friendship Class have the knack for old-fashioned fried chicken, and so does Mrs. T. C. Richardson. Mrs. T. A. McGuffey prepares chicken and dressing. When a turkey is to be baked, the honors might go to Mrs. W. B. Ayers, Mrs. S. M. Barbee or Mrs. John Appleton. Casseroles challenge Mrs. M. O. Hamby.

Congeeled salads are Mrs. Joe Kitching's contribution; Mrs. Bert Smith, Mrs. John Garrison, Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls and Mrs. J. T. Morgan like to mix salads; Mrs. J. W. Bryant Jr. prepares tasty macaroni and cheese; Mrs. Bill Smelser enjoys cooking vegetables; Mrs. Elmer Askins and Mrs. E. R. Hamlin contribute Spanish rice.

Hot rolls get the attention of Mrs. Raymond Hamby and of Mrs. C. W. Parmenter, who is also asked to fix red beans.

More often than not, pies are the dessert. And plenty of pie bakers there are in the group, too. There might be chocolate, of the cream or chiffon variety, from Mrs. Cecil Drake and Mrs. Royce Womack, wife of the pastor; crunchy pecan from Mrs. Lester Goswick; tangy pineapple from Mrs. Henry Dubree; juicy apple from Mrs. Luther Coleman; rich Jeff Davis from Mrs. Alta King; smooth butterscotch from Mrs. Doyal Miller; spicy pumpkin from Mrs. J. D. Hancock; coconut cream from Mrs. E. B. Patterson; French lemon from Mrs. R. E. Lee.

Old favorites in pastries come from Mrs. Nile Bailey, Mrs. Dean Forrest, Mrs. R. V. Forestry, Mrs. Dub Purser, Mrs. Bill Estes, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. Henry Hodges, Mrs. Delbert Burchett.

Mrs. Doug Clemens is a cookie baker; cakes intrigue Mrs. Luther Kelly. Mrs. Harriet Steele bakes coconut cake; Devil's food cake comes from Mrs. B. E. Reagan. Mrs. J. R. Parrish concocts fruit cobbler.

Think We Have Enough?

Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls, at left, seems to be asking Mrs. J. T. Gilmore if there is ample steak in the skillet. They are two of the Wesley Church women who were on hand Monday to prepare dinner for the Evening Lions Club. Dollars earned in this fashion will go a long way in sending Christine Bonney, Malay student, through McMurry College. This project is jointly sponsored by the WSCS and the Wesley Service Guild of the church.

Built-In Maid Service For Food Costs Little

Built-in maid service in your food costs less than a penny on the dollar, the U. S. Department of Agriculture learned in a recent scientific shopping tour. Built-in maid service is a term frequently used to describe the partial cooking or other preparation of food in the factory to save your time in the kitchen.

USDA shoppers picked out 52 different food items on which they would compare prepared or "serviced" foods with unprepared, un-serviced foods of the same quality and quantity.

For example, they compared frozen orange juice concentrates with fresh oranges; packaged patties of ground beef with bulk ground beef; breaded, ready-to-try shrimp compared with bulk shrimp; packaged mixes for cakes, cookies and pie-crust compared to the cost of flour, shortening and other ingredients.

Of the 52 different foods compared, in 18 instances the prepared, packaged foods actually cost less than the same foods in bulk or unprepared. In 28 instances, the prepared or serviced foods were more expensive.

Then the USDA shoppers asked, "Suppose we bought $100 worth of those 52 unserviced items. How much more would it cost to buy the same foods in prepared, serviced packaged form?"

They came up with this answer

—only 61 cents extra for all the preparation involved in $100 worth of food.

Fresh Pears Have No Peer In Flavor, Texture

Late summer's fruit, the mountain Bartlett pear, may be your answer for a delectable salad to serve to your bridge group or club committee. It can be dressed up in many ways, but it bows to no other fruit for spicy flavor or tender, juicy texture.

An example might be the Pear Cooler Salad, made by arranging the halves of two Bartlett pears with four slices of pineapple and several bunches of grapes. Top the plate with a scoop of your favorite sherbet. This combination can be prepared in minutes, and has the added advantage of being low in calories.

The pear is at home on the patio or at a formal dinner. It is at its best served in its natural form, and makes a nice surprise to pack into a school box or workman's lunch.

Don't be hesitant if the Bartlett on the fruit stand are green. Unlike most fruit, pear flavor is improved rather than impaired when picked green. Fruit growers watch their pear crop carefully and determine the proper time for picking by means of a scientific "pressure test". Once picked, the pears are sorted and packed. Green colored Bartlett pears may be purchased with confidence. Left at room temperature for one or two days, they turn golden yellow and reach the peak of goodness.

Plentiful Autumn Greens Are Rich In Vitamins

Autumn ushers in a supply of green vegetables rivaling that of spring.

You'll find plenty of mustard greens, kale and turnip greens; also Swiss chard, spinach and cabbage at most markets now, says the Agricultural Marketing Service.

These vegetables are coming mainly from truck farms near the large consumer centers, so they are garden-fresh, often arriving at your store the same day they are picked.

Some experts claim that fall greens have a special, delicate flavor because their juices react favorably to the warm days and cool nights. Extreme heat often causes greens to taste strong or bitter.

Green vegetables are important in your meals not only for color and variety, but because they contribute vitamin A and vitamin C to the diet. You need a generous share of these vitamins to protect your health during the winter months.

Both the intensity of the vegetable's green color and the part

Try Artichokes For Starter At Dinner

A delightful starter for any dinner is this salad inspired by the Spanish cuisine. Combine a package of frozen artichoke hearts with a 4-ounce can or jar of pimientos, drained and cut into strips, and about 2 tablespoons minced onion. Place in a heavy saucepan with ¼ cup olive oil, add ½ teaspoon salt, and cover tightly. (No water is needed.)

Bring oil to the boiling point, lower heat, and steam the artichokes in the oil until tender, about 7 minutes. Cool, then sprinkle with lemon juice. Serve as it comes from the pan with slivers of hard-cooked eggs. No additional dressing is needed.

Win The Men's Bravoos With Home-Made Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When a husband asks a bunch of his pals to a "for men only" evening, the distaff side usually prepares the snacks. If you want to win friends and influence people, you might consider this offering that most men like.

Three simple foods make it up: sliced ham, sliced Swiss and cheddar cheese, bread. They're accompanied by ready-prepared or home-made mustard and such relishes as celery, olives and pickles. The men make their own hearty sandwiches.

But here's the real enticement: the bread is home-baked and fresh from the oven. The acquaintance who originally convinced us this combination was man-bait, arranges her kitchen life so that the loaf comes out of the oven shortly before it's eaten. She says the old-fashioned aroma wafting through the house puts her husband's men friends into a wonderful mood of anticipation and the collation never fails to be a success.

No kneading's necessary for this loaf; its texture is more crumbly and less elastic than the rye flour bread you buy. Many large food markets carry the packaged whole rye flour called for and your kitchen shelves probably hold the caraway seed that adds to the loaf's flavor and crunchiness.

Rice Jamboree Goes With Fried Chicken

Tired of serving the same old dishes with fried chicken? Then, here is a rice dish that will fill the bill. Pimientos and currants give it a flair.

RICE JAMBOREE

Ingredients:
1 cup converted-type rice
2 drained canned pimientos (diced)
1-3 cup currants (rinsed in hot water and drained)
1-3 cup pine nuts (pignolias)
2 tbsps. butter

Method:
Cook rice according to package directions using amount of water and salt called for. Drain. Gently stir pimientos, currants, pine nuts and butter, with long-handled fork, into hot drained rice until currants and pine nuts are evenly distributed and butter is melted. Makes 6 servings.

Note: 1-3 cup seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained) may be chopped fine with a knife and added instead of the currants called for.

Frozen Blueberries

Frozen blueberries, in 10-ounce packages, may be had in some food markets. Use them in recipes that call for (and have been tested) with both the fresh and frozen variety.

FRESH-FROM-THE-OVEN BREAD

A Labor Of Love

Jerry Gilmore lends a hand with the Rev. C. W. Parmenter in preparing salad for the Wesley women to serve to the Evening Lions Club. That Slaw Need Not Be Limited To One Recipe

Put a dozen cooks in one room, tell them to make slaw, and chances are no two will prepare the salad in the same way.

Some like slaw sweet, others prefer the sharp flavor. It seems that it is a dish which lends itself to improvisation.

With that in mind, here are two versions which perhaps you have not yet tried:

GOOD SLAW

Ingredients:
2 cups firmly-acked thin strands-green cabbage (use sharp knife for shredding)
10 black olives
1 large carrot (pared and grated medium-fine)
1 scallion (chopped with most of green part)
1-3 cup old-fashioned boiled dressing
Salt, pepper
Romaine
Paprika

Method:
Turn cabbage into a mixing bowl. Cut olive pulp from pits so it is in attractive lengthwise slivers; add to cabbage with grated carrot, chopped scallion, salad dressing and salt and pepper to taste.

Serve on romaine; sprinkle with paprika. Makes 4 servings.

APPLE-GRAPE SLAW

Ingredients:
4 cups finely-shredded green cabbage (packed down)
1 cup small fan-shaped pieces unpeeled red apple (1 medium-or large-sized)
1 cup halved seedless grapes
½ cup (about) old-fashioned boiled dressing
Salt, pepper
Salad greens
Paprika

Method:
Shred crisp cabbage with a knife so it is in long thin strands; mix gently with apple, grapes and boiled dressing, adding salt and pepper to taste. (Amount of dressing will vary depending on its flavor and how thick or thin it is.)

Americans Love Their Coffee

Chances are you have had your coffee today. Especially if you are one of the 120 million Americans over 15 years old who drink coffee fairly regularly.

Consumers in this country are the coffee-drinkingest people in the world. In 1956, the U. S. imported about 46 per cent of that year's world crop. This involved 21 million bags of coffee, mostly from South America and Africa. Exact per capita use varies from year to year, depending on supply, prices, consumer incomes and the use of substitutes. In the last 22 years, the average adult consumed 22 pounds, in terms of green beans. Immediately after World War II, it was 24 pounds and in the war year of 1946, a peak of 28 pounds.

Does that mean we drink fewer cups now? Not necessarily. In fact, it may be more. Instant coffee has entered the picture. A recent government survey shows that instant coffee is about 17 per cent of total consumption, and these soluble products provide about 15 per cent more cups of coffee per pound of regular coffee. Other estimates range from zero to 40 per cent greater efficiency.

Recent estimates put the 1957-58 crop at 51.9 million bags—6.3 million more than a year earlier. So it looks like the familiar American coffee break will continue in popularity for some time.

A Bible Thought For Today

Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us. (Hebrews 12:1)

Oil, The Backbone Of West Texas

Oil has become commonplace in West Texas, and the commonplace we often take for granted.

If there was ever an area that should not take for granted this great industry, it is West Texas. Even those with short memories have only to recall the un-lamented historic drought of the early 50's to realize that had it not been for oil, West Texas would have all but collapsed. Oil kept the region going when there wasn't enough grass to support even the remnant herds. Oil kept business houses open when farmers were reduced to consuming their surplus and going back to the banks again and again. Oil took a healthy bite out of the financing of schools, of local governments, of public improvements.

Oil kept many supply and allied firms prospering. It touched other commercial activities indirectly and pumped in life blood.

Oil spread into petrochemicals and created new products and new drugs. Oil stayed competitive in the market place, bidding for the consumers' dollar. And oil did not have to ask help from anyone, least of all the government.

Anniversary Of The Wordmaster

This year is the bicentennial of Noah Webster, and the anniversary of his birth (in West Hartford, Conn.) falls on October 16.

It is quite possible Noah Webster made a great contribution, of a more lasting nature, to the history of the United States than the other Webster, Daniel, whose biographical space in the history books and encyclopedias takes up a lot more room than Noah's.

The American people cut their cultural teeth, so to speak, on Noah. His Blue Backed Speller was second only to the Bible in circulation among early Americans. In 1783-85 he published at Hartford "A Grammatical Institute of the English Language" in three parts—the famous spelling book, a grammar and a reader.

The spelling book was an instantaneous success. Webster's royalty was less than half a cent on each copy, but so great was the sale—eventually 70 million copies—that he managed to live and raise a medium-sized family on it.

But his great work was the American Dictionary of the English Language, on which he had worked many years. The first edition, in two volumes, came out in 1828, his final two years on it having been spent in France and at Cambridge in England. It contained 12,000 words and 40,000 definitions. A second edition containing much new material came out in 1840, three years before Webster's death. Webster has been the standard and definitive work on English definitions and pronunciations ever since.

Webster was tireless in tracking down the meaning of words. It has been said that he did more than all other forces combined to give the American people a language that varied very little from section to section. He could see no sense in a slavish conformance to English; he felt that Americans should have their own way of expressing themselves.

He toyed with the idea of creating an entirely new language, but gave it up as impractical and perhaps undesirable.

A list of his activities as editor, educator and public figure of his time would be a long one. He was far from being stuffy and bookish, and his life and works deserve a brighter page than history has seen fit to grant him, perhaps because the more colorful — and vocal — Daniel overshadowed his time. He was an authentic genius, but would have scorned the term. He believed in and practiced tireless work and endless patience.

Communist Infiltration Behind Bombings

WASHINGTON — The bombing of a Jewish temple in Atlanta has all the earmarks of a Communist plot. It follows the pattern of similar bombings of Jewish places of worship in Florida at Miami and Jacksonville, in Alabama at Birmingham, and in North Carolina at Charlotte and Gastonia.

When Mayor William B. Hartsfield of Atlanta calls it an "international conspiracy," he puts his finger on the fact that only by a concerted action and money from a foreign source could stooges in this country be employed to carry out the bomb plots. It is significant that, in connection with almost every one of the bombings, there are always anonymous telephone calls and there is every time a reference to a "confederate underground." The word "underground" is all too familiar in the Communist world, and it sounds as if the individuals who did the jobs are trained carefully to do exactly what they are told in every instance. They do not have versatility of mind sufficient to vary even the telephone calls.

The anti-Semitic crusade has money and is worldwide in its scope. The Communists like to fish in troubled waters and they tie up with members of all the crackpot organizations they can find and use them for their own diabolical ends. There has always been a mystery where these organizations and their publications get the money to carry on their persistent campaigns of vilification.

But most surprising of all is that governmental detective agencies seem never to have uncovered the international connections of these local organizations. One reason perhaps is that gradually the processes of detection were weakened in this country through Supreme Court decisions and the pooh-poohing tactics of the so-called "liberals."

It is the same abroad. Though it is apparent that the race riots in Nottingham, England, are not characteristic in any sense of the British people, yet there are leading newspapers in England which have ridiculed the idea that any foreign influence could possibly have given stimulus or momentum to the local controversies. There is an almost indignant defense of the Communist cult as unlikely to have done anything so improper. Indeed, there is always a tendency in some quarters in Britain to forget altogether the cases of Klaus Fuchs, who stole the atom secrets, and of Donald McLean and Guy Burgess, who defected from the British Foreign Office and now sit as advisers in Moscow.

One phase of the anti-Communist battle in the United States is that too many misguided "liberals" seem to think the individual rights of Communists to preach treason and to plot against the state transcend the rights of all the people to be defended against such attacks. When congressional committees try to get witnesses to help their own government by telling the names of Communists they have known, any refusal to divulge such friendships is protected by the Supreme Court as "freedom of association."

The men charged with detecting conspiracy and crime in America are discouraged by these technical obstructions. Yet it is well known that bombing is a Communist technique, and a good deal of practice in that sort of business has been obtained by terrorists in the Middle East. To import a few who can enlist a handful of American criminals to assist them is not a difficult job for trained Communists to handle. They have the money and the criminals at their beck and call.

There have been demands that the Federal Bureau of Investigation get busy to ferret out the wrongdoers. The FBI for some time has studied the series of bombings and has done everything it can within its limited jurisdiction. The time has come for the intelligence agencies which operate all over the free world to co-operate and spend more time and energy getting at the plots being hatched on foreign soil against them and us. In Canada and Mexico there are, for instance, some very active survivors of the Soviet spy rings that were exposed a few years ago. In Canada in particular Communist agents have become very active recently in the distribution of their literature. Their views are echoed in important places, Mexico is a well-known base of operations for Communist activity throughout this hemisphere. Argentina is another.

It is not merely inside the United States that the race riots in Nottingham, England, are not characteristic in any sense of the British people, yet there are leading newspapers in England which have ridiculed the idea that any foreign influence could possibly have given stimulus or momentum to the local controversies. There is an almost indignant defense of the Communist cult as unlikely to have done anything so improper. Indeed, there is always a tendency in some quarters in Britain to forget altogether the cases of Klaus Fuchs, who

The Communist purpose, of course, is to make propaganda. The objective, for example, of the bombings of synagogues is to stir up antagonisms inside the United States and to portray America before the world as denying religious freedom. Testimony before congressional committees has disclosed Communist mischief-makers in the South who are allied with organizations ostensibly interested in agitation of racial issues. There has been too much indifference to the facts already revealed by Senate and House investigating committees about Communist infiltration in the United States.

Ike, Dulles Set Up A Contradiction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have suggested that political campaigners refrain from debating foreign policy. Each suggested an exception. The exceptions seem to cancel each other out.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday: "There is a very clear distinction to be made with respect to foreign policy as I see it. One is the policy and one is its operation. . . . I do not, by any means, decry intelligent questioning and criticism of any particular point. But when it comes to the policy that is being established, I think it will be standing pretty well on its own feet for a long time."

Dulles told his news conference the day before: "I do not think that it is wise that current aspects of foreign policy should be injected in the campaign. I think there are some basic problems of foreign policy which can be discussed in terms of underlying principles." That would seem to leave Republican and Democratic orators in a dilemma. If they discuss current aspects, it would be all right with Eisenhower but not with Dulles. If they talk about established basic policy, Eisenhower might object but not Dulles.

However, the conflict may be more apparent than real. Usually, in such cases Eisenhower's stock comment is that he and Dulles keep in touch and always see eye to eye.

And anyway, few politicians of either party ever show much inclination to avoid discussing foreign policy if it means possible votes. Eisenhower and Dulles themselves had quite a bit to say about foreign policy in the 1952 campaign.

Eisenhower hit the issue hard in campaign speeches. In Detroit on Oct. 24, 1952, for example he said his first job, if elected, would be to end the war in Korea. He added: "That job requires a personal trip to Korea. I shall make that trip. Only in that way could I learn how best to serve the American people in the cause of peace. I shall go to Korea."

It is generally conceded that Eisenhower's pledge to visit Korea, fulfilled between his election and his inauguration, was a big vote-getter.

Dulles did most of the drafting of the foreign policy plank in the 1952 Republican campaign platform. It lambasted Truman administration foreign policy as having, among other things, "abandoned friendly nations after World War II and of having 'traded our overwhelming victory for a new enemy and for new oppressions and new wars which were quick to come.'"

Republican campaigners this year probably would welcome Dulles' idea that current aspects of foreign policy should be barred from political debate. That would rule out virtually all criticism of Eisenhower administration foreign policy, since the administration in power always is responsible for the current conduct of foreign affairs.

Mystery Of The Shaking Hand

LONDON (AP) — The strange case of the man who is not running for Parliament has been solved at last. It is now known that he will cease shaking hands around the end of November.

This man, who for our purposes may be called Frank Baker, is always standing around street corners shaking hands with various residents of the suburb. He works hard at it, and the conclusion was reached that he must be seeking to win friends for political ends.

Sears the janitor was asked to confirm this.

"Hal," snorted Sears. "The only thing he's running for is to be the richest man in Hampstead. That's the local street bookmaker."

Frank, a tall, red-faced fellow in his 50s, is a genial sort, but it was suggested that this hardly explained his compulsion to shake hands. It was noted that he had even been seen shaking hands with some people twice within an hour or so.

"You are a green one, aincha?" said Sears. "Whenever Frank shakes hands he puts his hand back into his pocket with a piece of paper and some money in it. The paper has the name of a bet on the horse."

The American observer remarked in shocked tones that such cash betting is against the law.

"It may be illegal, but it ain't immoral," snapped Sears. "Have a flutter on a horse now and then yourself, don't you?"

The reply was made that any such bets are telephoned to a bookmaker on a credit basis. Settlements—usually in favor of the bookie — are made weekly by check through the mails. This is 100 per cent legal under British statutes.

"Certainly," said Sears. "But to open a credit account you have to give a banking reference. A working type like me can't give a banking reference because he hasn't never had nothing in the bank. But illegal or not, I got just as much right to bet the horses as you have. That's where Frank comes in."

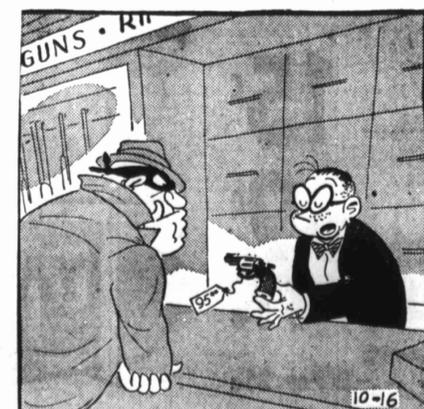

It was recalled that Frank usually shakes hands like mad on the day of a big race, such as the Epsom Derby. But on the following morning he seems to shake hardly any hands at all.

"On the day of the race," Sears explained patiently, "he is taking bets. On the following morning he is paying off the winners."

He stops taking bets when the flat racing season ends in November," said Sears. "Says too many favorites win over the jumps during the winter. So during the winter months you never see Frank shaking hands."

Around The Rim

Better Keep Eye On China

Uncle Sam, Father Khrushchev and all the other actors on the world stage should start looking out for bit player Chou En-lai.

First thing anybody knows, he's liable to be in the starring role.

Blessed with almost unlimited human resources, probably as many as the happy natural resources as any other area, and a climate much more favorable than that of the Khrushchev domain, Chou is on the way to becoming the dominant figure in the Communist half of the world.

And at the rate American and British influence is sinking, People's China may control most of the non-Communist world in the next decade.

At present, about all China lacks is a little more industrial capacity and some scientific know-how. The present generation of Chinese school children is likely to present Chou with a corps of scientists capable of matching wits with the rest of the world. And it is now estimated that China, which gave us gunpowder, the compass, etc., will catch up with the world's most advanced technology by 1968.

A McGraw-Hill magazine, American Machinist, claiming reliable contacts behind the bamboo curtain, reports that 1958 has been "the year of the leap" in Red China. Already this year, the nation has achieved industrial strides which exceed all the impressive gains registered during China's first "five-year plan" which ended last year.

During the five-year period, steel output was quadrupled, coal production was doubled and electric power was tripled. Production of metal-cutting tools went up more than 60 per cent.

In 1952, China could make about 180 types of steel and steel products to some 400 specifications. By the end of 1957, the range had extended to about 370 types and more than 3,000 specifications. By 1961, the country expects to be producing some 10,000 types of steel products, the magazine says.

So far this year, total industrial output has increased more than 30 per cent over last year.

Can you blame Comrade Khrushchev for being a little wary of his Asian neighbor? If we're lucky, Russia and China may eventually turn the cold war on each other.

The Bells Of St. Clement's Ring Again

LONDON — The most joyous circumstance of this visit to London is the happy chance that I am here at the bells of St. Clement Danes, one of Sir Christopher Wren's loveliest structures, pour out their sweet music for the first time since the church was destroyed by enemy bomb and fire early in 1941.

Once more "the bells of St. Clement's cry oranges and lemons," as they had done for 260 years before the blitz and as it was feared they would never do again. And Londoners stand in the street, listening to the bells of this famous old church and are not ashamed to mop their eyes.

Only a battered shell remained of St. Clement's after the blitz, and it was feared it was too badly damaged ever to be restored. Then, a few years ago, the Royal Air Force took it over, to restore it as a shrine to the 145,000 men and women of that force who died in the war.

On Sunday, October 19, Her Majesty will attend the reconsecration of St. Clement's as a Royal Air Force shrine, and what she will see is a Wren church exquisitely restored in all its beauty. Only the terrible pockmarks on the exterior stone remain as the church's wound stripes to remind one of the fearful destruction wrought here.

St. Clement Danes' beautiful new pipe organ is "a gift of the United States Air Force, their families and their friends," and is so inscribed. The USAF raised about $90,000 for the organ and for the American Shrine of Remembrance beneath the West gallery, a shrine that will contain a book inscribed with the names of 16,000 members of the American Air Force who died in World War II.

The American shrine will be flanked by a panel with quotations from Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and will carry the inscription: "To the Glory of God and in memory of the United States airmen who made the supreme sacrifice during the Second World War, 1939-45."

But in addition to the organ and to the shrine, a third American memorial is included in the restored church. Inlaid in the floor at the spiral staircase leading to the crypt (to whose restoration the royal air forces of the Netherlands, Denmark and Norway have made handsome gifts) is a medallion of pink Georgia marble, about three feet in diameter.

It is the gift of the English Speaking Union of Atlanta, Ga., in memory of the 4,500 members of the Royal Air Force who trained in Georgia in 1941-42. Cut in the marble are the haunting words from the Civil War memorial at Chickamauga: "Those who fought and lived and those who fought and died; those who gave much and those who gave all."

St. Clement's was the parish church of Dr. Samuel Johnson, who is memorialized by a bronze figure of the good doctor on a granite pedestal in the rear of the church. The blitz was no respecter of persons, and he was knocked askew on his pedestal. Now, at last, the doctor is upright on his pedestal again, and surveying Fleet Street as of yore.

Since it was built in 1681, St. Clement Danes has stood at the head of Fleet Street, London's famous newspaper row, and it and St. Bride, another Wren church just a dozen steps off Fleet Street, have always been beloved of newspaper people.

Now both are fully restored, and St. Clement's famous bells once more echo through Fleet Street. Only the "Sanctus" bell escaped destruction in 1941, but the metal of the other bells was saved, melted down and recast. Today the bells once more send their glorious music over London.

Dulles Must Stand Firm On Formosa

WASHINGTON — Even though it means leaving the initiative to the Chinese Communists, if and when they decide to break the Quemoy cease-fire, American policy on China is currently to stand firm on the offshore islands.

While critics may call this a "do-nothing" policy those who chart America's course believe there is no choice. And while it is sometimes reported that others in the State Department would like to take a bolder line it is Secretary of State John Foster Dulles who, with President Eisenhower's approval, makes the final decisions.

Dulles is convinced that the risk in trying to persuade Chiang Kai-shek to give up Quemoy and Matsu and pull his troops back to Formosa is too great. Not only would this gravely weaken Chiang but, by undermining the Nationalist Chinese position on Formosa, it would threaten the status of the United States everywhere in the Western Pacific.

In reaching this decision Dulles, in discussion with his top associates, has projected the China problem as a long-term one that will almost certainly confront his successor. When he speaks of his successor he means, of course, the Secretary of State who will take over in a new administration in 1961.

The China problem can be resolved only by a certain number of births and deaths in Formosa. As Chiang's armies are made up more and more of Formosans the determination to hold Quemoy and Matsu as a psychological booster and a token of return to the mainland will be weakened. And as the exiles from the mainland die off it will be possible to treat Formosa as an entity separate from China.

If this means going through successive crises and war scares in the Formosa Strait, then that is something to be endured in the current phase of the cold war. An extension of the cease-fire by Peiping was considered likely, and the announcement that it will be maintained for two weeks more has brought a distinct sense of relief. Dulles knew that if the opposite decision had been reached the Communists would perform have had to enlarge the attack, since the artillery barrage had failed to cut off and subdue Quemoy.

Such an enlargement by aerial bombardment would sooner or later have brought American participation and in all probability a general conflict with China. Dulles had no illusions on that score as he waited for the first week of the truce to expire while he made his own plans to attend the services for the late Pope Pius XII.

Although friendly Western nations with ambassadors in Peiping brought word of Red Chinese attitudes, Dulles heard the first word of the cease-fire while week-ending on Duck Island. Cut off from the island from all telephone and telegraphic communication—except in the gravest emergency when a special plane can be flown in—Dulles tells his associates that he listens to the 8 a.m. news broadcasts on a battery radio and it was thus that he heard Peiping's original announcement.

The Secretary believes that the Communists found the artillery barrage both futile and too costly. At about $100 a shell they fired a total number of rounds costing an estimated $50,000,000. After the attack started American military specialists coached the Nationalist in handling supplies under hazardous and adverse conditions.

Far from taking a negative attitude toward Chiang, Dulles believed that his stubbornness has often served the free world. He cites the package deal to bring certain Asian nations into the United Nations in the first instance included Outer Mongolia. Chiang was unyielding in his opposition, insisting that Mongolia always been a part of China. As a result, the deal was revised and the other Asian nations were admitted while Outer Mongolia was kept out.

Discussing Chiang's role, Dulles gives as a more recent instance the generalissimo's declaration that if Japan, in a trade arrangement with Red China, allowed the Communist flag to fly over Red China headquarters in Tokyo he would break off relations with Japan. Trade between Japan and Formosa is currently much greater than any that the trade negotiation with Peiping contemplated, and Japan yielded, calling off the agreement tentatively reached with the Communists.

As he analyzes the American position in the Pacific, the "falling domino" theory implies for Dulles a very real threat. Weak and unstable nations relying on the United States could not stand the shock of a seeming setback to the U. S.—Nationalist Chinese position. So, for the foreseeable future it is stand firm, regardless of what critics at home or abroad may say.

Cotton Benefits From Booming Birth Rate

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Cotton has been one of the chief beneficiaries of America's booming young population. According to the National Cotton Council's market research section, cotton consumption in children's and infants' apparel almost doubled in the 10 years ending in 1956.

In 1947, about 320,000 bales of cotton were used in the manufacture of children's and infants' clothing. Ten years later, consumption in this market had jumped to almost 610,000 bales. Cotton's share of the market remained almost steady at approximately 76 per cent during this period despite heavy competitive pressure from man-made fibers.

The big trend toward casual living extends to the small fry, too. Cotton consumption has soared in children's sportswear as it has in men's and women's apparel. Children's sportswear accounted for about 38,000 bales in 1947 and more than quadrupled consumption to 171,000 bales in 1956. Already holding 92 per cent of the market, cotton increased its share to 94 per cent in 1956.

Cotton also increased both its share of the market and consumption figures in the production of children's dresses. In 1947, cotton held 81 per cent of the market and consumption was almost 55,000 bales. Ten years later, cotton held 84 per cent of the market and consumption was past the 95,000 bale mark.

The production of diapers (excluding paper) is a traditional cotton market and the fiber maintained its 100 per cent share of this market. During the 10 years covered by the study, cotton consumption increased more than 38,000 bales—from more than 28,000 in 1947 to well over 66,000 bales in 1956.

FRUIT BASKET TURNS OVER

WESTBROOK — This town's one-man administration has resigned.

L. R. Messimer, elected last April, has quit the offices of mayor, clerk and tax assessor.

His duties have been divided among Altis Clemmer, new mayor; and Mr. and Mrs. George Sweatt, clerk and tax assessor.

Scout Camp-Out Slated Friday

Boy Scouts and Explorers of the Lone Star District will take to the out-of-doors this weekend in a big campout.

Purpose of the function, said S. M. Smith, camping and activities chairman, is to give new Scouts a chance, along with more experienced ones, to get in some camping.

There will be a series of contests Saturday morning and the camp will break up Saturday afternoon.

Boys will set up their camps after school Friday, but those who wish may return to town for the Big Spring-Austin (of El Paso) football game. The camps will remain under supervision during their absence until the game is over.

Saturday morning there will be a pancake relay (in which boys build their fires and cook pancakes), bean-hole-bean cooking contest (making and heating a sort of fireless cooker), knife and ax sharpening, string burning, compass course and setting up a mile trail with all conventional signs.

Every Boy Scout and Explorer in the district is urged to take part, said Smith.

Lions Club Hears Oil Progress Talk

Big business and little business go hand in hand, and one cannot succeed without the other. Dorothy Winterbauer told the Downtown Lions Club in its Wednesday meeting.

Using the magic suitcase routine as an Oil Progress Week feature, she cited the oil industry as a case in point. Half of the so-called business in the country is the oil or petro chemical trade.

Small concerns are dependent upon the big firms for their supplies, she explained. Just as a service station could not afford the investment of refining oil into gasoline, so innumerable small processors are dependent upon major concerns for their basic products.

For instance, some five concerns have invested an aggregate of $150,000,000 to produce cellophane, but 400 smaller firms processing cellophane are looking to the five for their supplies. Some 6,000 other businesses packaging foods, etc., look to these 400 for cellophane in specified forms.

Around $50,000,000 has been pumped into facilities for producing orlon, but scores of smaller firms use the synthetic fibres. The same is true for dacron, nylon, etc.

Dulles Defends Record Of CIA

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, says, "We are far from perfect but we are improving."

Dulles defended the agency against criticism that it had failed to alert Washington about the impending Suez and Iraqi crises.

"Sometimes — not always — our record is much better than the press would have you believe," he claimed.

Dulles' remarks on this issue were different from those in an advance press release of his text, issued by his office.

The advance release read that the agency's record was sometimes much better than "we can publicly advertise." He omitted these four words from his delivery and substituted the reference to the press.

She ran on down through a number of products from the almost endless chain of petrochemical compounds including mylar, a clear plastic paper with one-third the tensile strength of steel; lucite, replacing glass in some instances and capable of bending light rays; polyethylene for packaging, a rope that floats, etc.; freon gas which alone supplies 500 smaller firms putting up spray cans of everything from shaving cream to shoe polish.

John H. King was in charge of that program. B. M. Keese, president, urged the club to step up its membership campaign during the month of October in order to do its part in helping district 2-T-2 set the pace for the nation. Bob Dyer, Toastmaster member, urged support of the United Fund.

End Of Escape Try

Records Clerk C. J. McCleary, left, checks the fingerprints of the body of Aaron Walter Bargett, escaped Alcatraz convict, which was found floating in San Francisco Bay just 100 yards from where he tried to swim away from the island prison. Note the taped remains of a homemade swim fin on the left foot of the body. The body was identified from a belt and undershirt with the Missouri post office robber's prison number.

EAT AND GROW YOUNGER—11

Essential Elements To Good Health Cited

By LELORD KORDEL
 Installation Eleven
 Minerals rank with protein as the most neglected, haphazardly obtained nutrients in our North American diet, and more especially in the diets of persons past 40. Protein and minerals are so closely linked that to advise you to eat plenty of protein, without stressing the need for equal care in obtaining a full quota of minerals, would be to tell only half the East-and-Grow-Younger story. That is why my second nutritional commandment is "Minerals without fail."

A report to the National Academy of Sciences by a research team headed by Dr. Paul R. Cannon emphasizes that the minerals potassium, phosphorus and magnesium are essential in the diet for proper use of all body-building protein foods.

depends upon the presence of adequate high-proteins in the diet. Your vitamin needs should always begin with a high protein diet. Only when the good earth is mineral rich can it produce food plants containing all the nutrients vital to the health of the men and animals that feed on them. Much of the meat and poultry that should be a rich source of the various vitamins, in reality contains inadequately varied amounts of these food elements, because the animals and fowls were fed on plants and grains which, in turn, were mineral-starved from being grown on depleted soils.

MAY LACK VITAMINS
 Fruits and vegetables may appear fresh and green in the market, yet be grossly lacking in vitamins, and minerals as well.

Therefore, unless you grow your own fruits and vegetables on properly fertilized soil—or can purchase them from farms and gardens containing carefully enriched soil to your certain knowledge—there is very possibility you are not obtaining in your food all the vitamins and minerals needed to keep you looking and feeling young. In that event, the safest course is to supplement your East-and-Grow-Younger diet with a reliably manufactured vitamin-and-mineral concentrate.

Carefully planned meals plus added vitamins and minerals in concentrated form, provide the only way I know of whereby you can make certain that vitamins and minerals are "adequate" in your diet. And adequate they must be, if you don't want your East-and-Grow-Younger program to bog down.

Tomorrow: Reduce in safety with a high-protein diet. Sample menu for reducers.

If you are seeking that all-over glow your body radiates when you are in excellent health, why not try Lelord Korde's 15-Day Pep-Up Diet? It is designed to give you the protein, vitamins and minerals your body needs for dynamic living.

Protein and minerals are the chief actors in the nutritional drama, while vitamins play a secondary, although essential, role needed to set other substances into action. To neglect any of these three food elements is to wreck the nutritional drama.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, noted authority on diseases of older persons, states: "The foremost nutritional defects in the mature and aging are calcium, iron and protein. Seventy-five per cent of the men of 60 suffer a lack of one or more. On the other hand, many suffer dietary excesses, notably carbohydrates and possibly cholesterol."

CALCIUM IMPORTANT
 Calcium is so important an ingredient of your blood that your bloodstream will attempt to maintain its calcium level, even though it has to rob other body parts of their vitally needed calcium. That is why, in many older persons, the bones, robbed of their calcium by the blood, become fragile, resulting in easily fractured arms, legs and hips.

Your nerves, your heart, your teeth, your brain cells, your blood—all need sufficient calcium to remain healthy, and to function as nature intended.

An inexpensive and convenient way to obtain added calcium in the diet is through the use of powdered skim milk. This dry milk provides needed calcium and protein along with iron, copper, manganese, cobalt and other trace minerals—less the fats which are wisely limited during the later years.

And, dandelion greens—that springtime dish of your childhood—have a high calcium and vegetable protein content which make them an excellent spring salad.

IRON-POOR AND BODY-POOR
 It is Dr. Crampton's belief that a deficiency of iron is nearly always present in the "uncared-for person in the higher-age brackets."

He says that the typical person of 60 is anemic, iron-poor and body-poor, unnecessarily so. And this condition is worse in those persons who are following some unwise diet because of "dyspepsia" or "indigestion." Insufficient hydrochloric acid and gastric secretions is a common cause of iron poverty in the older body.

THIRD COMMANDMENT
 My third commandment—"vitamins in their rightful place." The constant need for vitamin-rich food in your diet is an old-told tale, and one which I shall not repeat here. Yet there are two facts about vitamins which you may not know, and which deserve to be included here.

The first little-known fact about vitamins is that proteins and vitamins work together. The chemical agents called enzymes, that do the greatest part of the digestive work for your body, are all made of protein (at least those which have been analyzed successfully so far). Certain of these protein enzymes actually take part in your body's use of its vitamins, while certain vitamins affect the body's production of protein enzymes—a sort of "mutual aid society."

In other words, you can't expect the vitamins in your food (or the vitamin-mineral supplement you take) to give you all the benefits you expect from them, unless you also provide your body with ample quantities of protein foods each day.

Nutritional science has learned that successful vitamin therapy

Court Ruling Due Seeding Case

EL PASO (AP)—A court ruling is expected in about a month on the bitter fight between ranchers and cotton farmers in West Texas over cloud seeding operations.

Attorneys who argued the case before the Eighth Court of Appeals said yesterday there is no court decision touching on the legal right to water in the clouds.

Former Gov. Dan Moody headed a half dozen attorneys appealing from a temporary injunction granted Aug. 6 halting cloud-seeding over Pecos and Reeves County ranches owned by J. P. Epsy, W. W. McCutcheon and Jim Duncan.

Cotton farmer in the area, plagued by costly hail losses, had contracted with Southwest Weather Research to use brine and silver iodide to reduce the hail damage.

The farmers agreed to pay $35,000 for the anti-hail protection from April 10 through Nov. 10.

The ranchers contended the seeding scattered badly needed moisture an obtained a temporary injunction.

DENTON — Cadet Col. William (Buddy) Blankenship of Big Spring has been appointed wing commander in the Air Force ROTC unit at North Texas State College this semester. San Antonio Minister To Direct Evangelism Effort

The Rev. W. E. Schlecht, San Antonio has been named director of the "Lutheran Open House and Friendship Week" evangelism program, scheduled for this area October 19-23.

The Rev. Schlecht, pastor at Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, San Antonio, for 16 years, has been a pioneer in preparing religious programs for television. An early endeavor, entitled "The Pastor Calls" was the forerunner of many counseling-type religious programs. His "TV Bible School" was widely recognized for its audience appeal and teaching effectiveness. At the present time, he is chairman of the Department of Public Relations of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

As area director of a simultaneous evangelism effort involving Lutheran churches from Big Spring to Pecos, Schlecht will conduct a training school for all lay workers, and will coordinate the work of all the pastors and congregations during the "Open House and Friendship Week." He will be held every morning during "Friendship Week."

St. Paul Lutheran Church of Big Spring will have services each evening, to which members of the churches, their friends, and the unchurched will be invited.

WE MEAN BUSINESS

WE MEAN GOOD BUSINESS! Only a solid newspaper advertising effort can bring about the kind of sales activity and buying traffic that means business is good! The big difference between success and failure in merchandising, proven over and over again, is a consistent program of well-thought-out newspaper advertising!

Every issue of this newspaper reflects the business activities of this community. Sales events . . . special services . . . news of new products . . . opening of new business establishments, etc. BUT — if the community isn't told about these — THEN WHAT THEY DON'T KNOW DOES HURT THEM — AND YOU, TOO!

That's why the best insurance against any financial business reverses for US and the U.S. — IS a planned, consistent program of newspaper advertising that starts the wheels turning toward success. Every prosperous community — however small — can help add up a total of Prosperity for all!

Convertible In 1959 Ford Line

Here is the 1959 Skyliner—Ford's popular retractable hardtop convertible, and the only such convertible in the industry. It is one of the spectacular models of the complete Ford line, which goes on display Friday, to be seen locally at Tarbox-Gossett, 214 E. 3rd. Ford's 1959 design is marked by an air of elegance, and quality features are stressed for improved operation, as well as more economy.

PUBLIC SHOWING FRIDAY

Quality In Structure, Design Stressed In Ford Cars Of '59

New in concept, new in style, with special awards already made for design elegance, the 1959 Ford line goes on display Friday. The new cars will be shown to the public locally at Tarbox-Gossett, 214 E. 3rd.

In addition to Ford engines that have been engineered for greater fuel economy, Ford offers quality-designed construction and a new, lighter Fordomatic transmission with 105 fewer parts than in 1958.

Ford's 1959 styling earned the plaudits of the noted fashion authority, the Comité Français de l'Elegance, which, for the first time in history, bestowed a gold medal for styling on an American automobile at the close of the Brussels international exposition.

The 1959 Ford engines offer greater economy and improved performance in the normal driving ranges, 30 to 70 m.p.h. Ford recommends regular grade gasoline in all standard engines, which can result in a saving of up to one dollar a tank full. These benefits have been achieved in part by a slight horse-power reduction.

Quality has been the Ford keynote. The result is a simplified design where possible, elimination of unnecessary parts as in the case of the new transmission, and more durable parts, such as Ford's new extended-life muffler and Diamond Lustre finish, an enamel that requires no waxing for the lifetime of the car.

The 1959 Ford line includes 17 models ranging from the Custom 300's, which are six inches longer than in 1958 through the six station wagon models, to the Fairlane and Fairlane 500's. Station wagon length has been increased more than five inches; cargo area is eight inches longer, and cargo space is 11 cubic feet more than in last year's models. All 1959 Fords will be on a 118-inch wheelbase and will have an over-all length of 208 inches.

Windshield area has been increased 280 square inches, or 29 per cent, over 1958 Ford models.

With its refined engines, Ford is introducing a new version of the Fordomatic transmission. The 1959 Fordomatic, a two-speed automatic transmission, has eliminated the need for 105 parts, which, with the use of aluminum for the transmission case and bell housing, has reduced the total Fordomatic transmission weight by 50 pounds, or 22.8 per cent.

Ford's four modern engines combine efficiency, durability and economy with the added customer savings resulting from quick and easy servicing. The full-flow oil filter, standard equipment on all 1959 engines, permits Ford to recommend an oil change only every 4,000 miles, resulting in further savings to the customer.

In addition to the new Fordomatic and Ford's proven three-speed synchromesh manual transmission, Ford offers an improved version of the dual-range Cruise-O-Matic, combining overdrive economy, the three-speed manual transmission also can be obtained with overdrive.

A new, Ford-designed Equa-Lock differential, providing positive traction when driving under conditions of poor footing, such as ice, snow or mud, is available as optional equipment.

Ford is introducing a new version of the Magic-Aire heater which provides instantaneous temperature response and even control. The new heater mixes hot and cold fresh air by mechanical dampers instead of modulating the water temperature in the heater core, thus maintaining a constant temperature even when car speed is changed.

A new foot-operated parking brake, affording more convenience and knee room for the driver, is released with an easy-to-operate tip-down handle.

Ford's Master - Guide power steering has been improved to reduce the power required to operate the pump by as much as 37 1/2 per cent, thereby reducing the drag on the engine.

Good, Bad Points Of Alcohol Cited

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Alcoholic drinks are a gift of God if used properly—but a horror if misused, Episcopalians were advised today.

A report to the church's general convention, now in its second and final week, said that moderate social drinking is in full accord with Old and New Testament teaching.

It cited scriptural references from Genesis to St. Paul's Epistles.

But the report added that there are some signs in modern America that plenty of occasions on which liquor is served are degenerating into plain drinking bouts—with no social purposes.

At an "evening party at home for relaxation with friends," the report suggested, the host seems to be "becoming more and more of a bartender, continuously and anxiously filling all glasses."

"Many forms of the so-called 'cocktail party' fail to fulfill the needs of wholesome social fellowship and deteriorate into pointless and unhealthy confusion," the report added.

Drawn up by a commission on alcoholism, headed by Delaware's Bishop J. Brooke Mosley of Wilmington, it traced the full range of Biblical teaching on alcoholic drinks.

"There is no scriptural command respecting total abstinence for the God-fearing man," the report said.

"A Christian who drinks moderately with due regard for the feelings and needs of his brothers and with a conscientious care for the claims of God can drink with thanksgiving to him for these blessings."

The report added that it is "sub-Christian" to drink shamefacedly as it is a minor compromise with evil because this in itself is a little part of God's creation—the "fruit of the vine."

The report said there are scriptural grounds why certain individuals should be total abstainers, if reasons such as these exist:

That drinking would hurt others; that health or occupation make it unwise; that the individual feels alcohol is a luxury he should give up or wants to abstain as an act of discipline or devotion or because he just doesn't like the stuff.

"If a man does not drink, it is important that he not drink for the right reason," the report said. "Similarly, it is important that if a man drinks, he should drink for the right reasons."

The report said that if drinking itself becomes the primary motive of any occasion, rather than a secondary asset to sociability, then what is good has been prevented.

If offered these tips to hosts:

Never give a party for the main purpose of drinking.

Always serve food with drinks. Serve the food without undue delay if drinks come first.

Always serve nonalcoholic drinks too.

Never allow pressure on guests to drink if they don't want to.

Never leave it up to liquor to do your job of creating a wholesome, sociable atmosphere.

The report noted that in modern life, with its tensions and pace, drinking has become both "more attractive and more dangerous."

About 70 million Americans drink, the report said, and spend about 10 billion dollars annually on it—an average of $150 a year each. There are about four million alcoholics whose "distressing situation cries out for help," according to the report.

Area Legislators Will Talk Safety

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Legislators from 20 counties of this part of West Texas have been invited here for a dinner Oct. 30 to discuss Texas Safety Assn.-backed proposals for the Legislature.

Herbert Emery, safety superintendent of General Electric Co. of the Southwest, which has headquarters here, said the meeting was one of 17 planned throughout Texas.

Shivers Calls For Labor Challenge

DALLAS (AP) — Former Gov. Allan Shivers said last night if labor's legislative influence is to be balanced, business and professional groups must be willing to pay the same price that labor is paying for its votes.

"This means smart leadership, well-disciplined following and an appreciation of the sacrifices and the rewards of political action," he told the annual convention of the Printing Industry of America, Inc.

"While business, despite its thousands of trade organizations, remains politically unorganized, labor is a great and growing force in American politics with impressive results," he declared.

The former governor said this "type of class warfare" in politics is not necessarily healthy, and could be avoided if there were a revival of interest in government "among all our citizens." He also cautioned that business should not participate in politics merely for the purpose of defeating organized labor.

"If organized labor chooses to take the lead for the forces of centralization and federalization, then we must oppose it—but our object must be to serve the best interests of the nation, and not merely to substitute the selfish interest of business for the selfish interest of another group," he said.

Attacking House Speaker Sam Rayburn, Shivers said it was not difficult to understand why labor reforms bog down in Congress.

"And to labor's hold on Congress the whim of a dictatorial speaker who refuses to allow the House an opportunity to write a good labor reform bill and the result is racketeering labor bosses who go unchallenged while the good people of this country—yes, the good union people included—shake their heads in shame and wonder," Shivers said.

Praising the right-to-work law, Shivers said it allows the worker a legal choice between belonging and not belonging to a union.

"When a union has the power to withhold or forfeit a man's job merely because he does not wish to become a member, it is an open invitation to unscrupulous labor leaders to perpetrate abuses upon both the employee and the employer," he charged.

Shivers expressed his conviction that if rank-and-file union members were allowed a stronger voice in union affairs they would "effectively handle the Hoffas, the Beckas and all others of that ilk."

E. B. Germany, president of the Lone Star Steel Co., also spoke to the group, tracing the struggles of his Daingerfield plant to continue operations despite what he called illegal strike.

"I am not a union-hating man," declared Germany. "I believe in honest collective bargaining, but contracts must bind unions as well as companies. The numerical strength of a labor union should not permit it special rights that are not enjoyed by the individual."

Three Needed In Ceramics Class

At least three more persons are needed to round out the class in beginners ceramics at the YMCA, Bobo Hardy, general secretary, said today.

The class meets again at 7 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. Billy J. Owen as instructor. Charge for the 8-session course is $2 for Y members and $3 for non-members, and it includes some supplies but not greenware.

The ladies intermediate bridge group, which meets Thursday at 1:30 p.m., can accommodate a few more entries. The beginners bridge and the conversational Spanish classes, however, are filled.

Styled, powered and priced for today's driving! There never was a Ford like this before! Its classic new design was awarded the Gold Medal of the Comité Français de l'Elegance at the Brussels World's Fair! With new Thunderbird flavor in each lively line and tastefully new interiors, these 59 Fords are beautifully proportioned for elegant driving.

Power, performance and economy are served up in new proportions, too. All standard Ford engines—Six or Thunderbird V-8—thrive on regular gasoline at regular prices. You save up to 5 cents on each gallon! There's a new aluminum muffler that normally will last twice as long as conventional mufflers used on other cars... full-flow oil filtration that lets you change oil at 4000 miles instead of the 1000 often recommended... new Tyrex cord tires for greater economy and safety... a brilliant new Diamond Lustre Baked Enamel Finish that's so durable you won't have to wax it ever... and two new economy power-transmission teams that will bring you savings automatically. That's why we say, for '59, Ford is truly a masterpiece of underpricing!

NEW economy team Number One! Get all the high performance of a completely new Fordomatic Drive teamed with a Six or Thunderbird V-8—at a price that puts automatic driving within everyone's car budget. It's a simplified Fordomatic with nearly 1/4 fewer parts. NEW economy team Number Two! Take Ford's versatile new Cruise-O-Matic Drive, add the responsiveness of Thunderbird Special V-8 power and you have the last word in automatic driving plus the "built-in" overdrive savings of an economy-g geared axle.

Altogether NEW in everything you can see, feel or touch!
