Legislators Object To Parts Of Hale-Aikin School Report

AUSTIN (AP)—Objections to some or all parts of the final report of the Hale-Aikin School Study Committee have been raised by the six members who will vote on the program in the Legislature. Five more days of classroom instruction and $600 a year raises for school teachers were key points in the report adopted yesterday 14-2.

ing school districts to provide transportation to children whose route to school involves unusual hazards was tabled. A motion also was defeated to retain the present minimum 175-day classroom instruction. San Antonio's Ed Ray, editor of the Express-News, said the extended school program would leave to the local boards the scheduling of class room days. He said it would even be possible for schools wishing to adopt the maximum 190-day classroom calendar to do so almost within the limits of the current school year by cutting back on holidays.

3. Increase transportation formula by $300 per year for buses. 4. Annual increments of $10 a month for each year of teaching service until a maximum of $4,750 was reached for the bachelor degree teacher. A teacher with a master's degree would attain a $5,700 maximum. 5. Teachers of driver education classes should be added. 6. County school administration should be financed on the local level and eliminated where no longer needed.

DEAR ABBY

SOMEBODY'S FLIPPIN'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is having an affair with a widow who lives right across the street. I see with my very own eyes when he passes her house he blinks his lights and she flips her Venetian blinds. They signal back and forth and then he makes up excuses to get out of the house to meet her. He says they are only good friends, but I know that she is man-hungry and not at all fussy who she goes with and she likes my husband. How should I put a stop to this?

and pay the tab. Now, what do you say to that? RON AND PETE DEAR RON AND PETE: The man reserves the privilege of "hunting," choosing and asking. The female must wait to be discovered, chosen and asked. The male can pay for this privilege.

DEAR ABBY: We have a friend who is a wonderful person, but she has the strangest cough, which to us sounds like T.B. We know someone who had T.B. and the coughs sound identical. I know we are not doctors but we would like to find out for sure because this person visits us often and eats and drinks from our cups and plates. We also have little children around and this bothers us. We hate to hurt her feelings, but how can we find out?

DEAR ABBY: I haven't been married six months and I'm having a terrible problem with my husband. I am 19 and he is 27 and he is insanely jealous of me for no reason at all. He accuses me of encouraging the delivery men or any neighbors I happen to smile at. He is even jealous of my own brother and he doesn't want him around here unless he is home. I'll take truth serum or even go to the police station and let them give me a test on the lie detecting machine. I'll do anything you say to prove I am a faithful wife. I can't take any more of his jealousy. Please help me. FAITHFUL DEAR FAITHFUL: Your HUSBAND has the problem. Constant false accusations are symptoms of a sick mind. He should see a doctor.

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell your friend at once that she should contact her local TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION. They will examine her free of charge and there will be no guessing about her condition. If she does have T.B. you would be doing her a tremendous favor—and if she doesn't she will be happy to know she is well.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ART: It takes two to tango. Sit this one out!

DEAR ABBY: Whoever started the "ethical" idea that the male should pay the way for a girl on the date? The girls enjoy it as much as the fellows and in some cases are better able to pay for it. If it weren't for the silly rules set years ago, the girls would be tickled to death to ask the fellows

Hatchet Man Must Now Aid French Regime

By HARVEY HUDSON
PARIS (AP)—Jacques Soustelle, a hatchet man who delighted in collecting scalps of governments under the Fourth Republic, now must find ways to make French cabinets more durable. Soustelle is looming as one of the big men of the new National Assembly as a result of the extraordinary success of his new party, the Union for a New Republic (UNR), in the first round last Sunday of elections for a new Assembly. The UNR got 17.6 per cent of the votes and elected 10 deputies. In runoff balloting next Sunday, the party is expected to roll its Assembly strength to well above 100 and perhaps as high as 150 deputies. It may well emerge as the biggest single group among the 546 Assembly members. The UNR actually is a jerry-built coordinating committee for three separate smaller parties. It was put together for the elections and may fall apart after the voting is over. The only cohesive element is that all the founders are old-time supporters of Premier de Gaulle.

Some reports have said De Gaulle found the UNR surge a little embarrassing because of the faction's rightist tinge, especially on the critical Algerian issue. Soustelle and his cohorts are closely allied with the European settlers in Algeria, who are clamoring for all-out integration with France. De Gaulle has refused so far to endorse this idea and is reported to favor a solution linking the two areas on a federal basis. One report was published that if De Gaulle is elected president he is generally expected to would prefer to avoid naming Soustelle premier. This report said the general might turn instead to Michel Debre, now justice minister, who had a big part in framing the new constitution. Debre is also a veteran Gaullist. Soustelle is charged with tons of political dynamite because of the main pliers against the Fourth Republic and a leader of the uprising in Algeria which brought the republic down. Political leaders of the center and left, particularly the Socialists, have not forgotten this.

Norther Rumbles Toward Texas

By The Associated Press
A norther rumbled toward Texas Tuesday from the northwest. It follows a mild front which eased into the upper part of the state yesterday but did little. A hard freeze with temperatures as low as 20 degrees, was forecast for the Panhandle and South Plains Tuesday night. Freezing temperatures also were forecast for parts of North Central Texas. Colder weather was predicted for the entire state. Showers were forecast for East and South-Central Texas and in the west from the Pecos Valley eastward. Skies were clear to partly cloudy over most of Texas early Tuesday with some cloudy patches over West Texas. Predawn temperatures ranged from 65 at Galveston to 43 at Amarillo and Dalhart. Highs Monday varied from 46 at Wichita Falls to 82 at Laredo. Rainfall reported Monday included .08 of an inch at San Angelo, .02 at Abilene and traces at Big Spring, Childress and Alpine.

Moral: Don't Hit The Driver While Bus Is In Motion

NEW YORK (AP)—Emerson Cox, 27, dropped 30 cents in the till as he boarded a bus in the Bronx with his wife and their two children. After the family settled in a seat, both parents holding a baby, he discovered that his wife also had paid the fare. At the end of the line, Cox demanded a refund from the bus driver, John Cunningham, 23. Cunningham said he tried to explain that he could not refund the money because it was already registered in the machine. But Cox laid his 11-month-old son on the floor of the bus and took a swing at Cunningham, who promptly returned the punch. Meanwhile, the bus began rolling slowly down a hill. About a block from the starting point, it crashed into the rear of a car waiting for a stop light to change. The car rear fender was damaged. Then police arrived. Cox was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing Tuesday.

Alabama Makes Legal Gain But Faces Hurdle On Racism

By DAN GOGGIN
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Alabama made legal headway in its school segregation struggle Monday, but the U.S. Supreme Court may prove an invincible guard against racial discrimination. The high court's face-value validation of the Alabama school placement law, which most Southern officials met with joyful surprise, actually has little racial significance. In effect, the decision means Alabama has a legal weapon against school integration efforts until a Negro proves he has been discriminated against. Then the law undoubtedly would be held unconstitutional. The school placement law avoids any mention of race or color, but gives local school boards sole authority to assign students to the schools they want them to attend. Proof of discrimination was not contended by the four Birmingham Negro parents who appealed their suit to the Supreme Court. They merely claimed the law is designed to subvert earlier Supreme Court segregation decisions. Consequently, the high court upheld a decision by a three-judge federal panel in Birmingham last May that the law contains no provisions to make it invalid on its face. But the Supreme Court reiterated the lower court's warning that the act might be put into practice in a discriminatory—and thus unconstitutional—manner. Without evidence the Negro children had been treated unfairly, both courts rested their decisions on the presumption that the law "will be administered in a lawful manner."

Army Sets Moon Shot For Dec. 6

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army hopes to fire its first space probe Dec. 6. It will be much lighter and simpler than the ones the Air Force used in three tries at reaching the vicinity of the moon. The launching will be made from Cape Canaveral, Fla., the base from which the Air Force sent aloft its lunar probes earlier this year. One of these was partially successful, but two other rockets failed not long after takeoff. The Army plans to launch a new rocket combination it calls Juno. This comprises a modified Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile and three rocket stages fueled with solid propellants. The probe, riding in the nose of the rocket, will contain 15 pounds of instruments while the probe case will weigh another 15 pounds. The Air Force lunar probes weighed about 85 pounds, with instrumentation account for about 25 pounds of this. Unlike the Air Force, the Army goal is to pass the moon and head toward the sun. If the probe enters the sun's field of gravity, it could be pulled into orbit. Then it would be a baby planet revolving about the sun just as Earth, Mars, Venus and the other planets do. Cape Canaveral soon will have to share attention with the Pacific Coast in missile and space, vehicle launchings. Informed sources say the first launchings from Vandenberg Air Force Base near Lompoc, Calif., will come in December. There had been speculation that the new launchings would include the reconnaissance satellites Sentry and Pled Piper. They would circle the earth, about 200 to 400 miles up, and scan the land below. But a Defense Department spokesman said the Pled Piper and Sentry will not be tried for at least a year. In the three Air Force shots at the moon, one rocket blew up after a bit more than one minute in the air. The second traveled roughly a third of the 230,000 miles to the moon, then fell back to a flaming death in the atmosphere. The third reached only 1,000 miles when one of its stages misfired. Now the Army has two chances. Although the aim of the first probe is to pass the moon, Dr. Werner von Braun, head of the Army space probe program, has said it might get caught in the pull of gravity instead. Then the Army probe could become a satellite of the moon or hit it.

Weak Viruses May Hike Resistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government scientist suggested today that early experience with mild forms of certain viruses—such as polio—may help children in later encounters with more virulent forms of the same microbes. "It is possible," he said, "that infection at an early age with some of the viruses may prove beneficial by preventing or modifying the clinical manifestations of subsequent infections with the more virulent microbes of similar groups." Rosen made the statement in describing one phase of a long-term study of little-understood virus infections of children.

China Claims Victory Over Flood, Drought

TOKYO (AP)—Red China claims it is winning a fight against two age old natural enemies—flood and drought.

Some Japanese observers believe the claims are well founded. Shozo Otani, a Japanese agricultural expert who recently returned from a visit to Communist China, says the mainland is becoming one of the world's leading agricultural nations "at a surprisingly speedy rate."

Red China's agricultural production this year, he said, will double that of last year.

An Indian Cabinet minister, Dr. Pankajrao Deshmukh, who made a five-week tour of Red China and Japan, also reported that many of the things the Communists are saying about their "leap forward" campaign in agriculture appear to be true.

Elimination of weeds, greater use of fertilizer and liberal employment of insecticides are some of the factors in the increased production, he reported.

Otani, a professor of agriculture and technology at Tokyo University, said the rapid agricultural development was greatly aided by irrigation and water control projects.

In a recent broadcast, Peiping Radio said a giant shelter belt of trees more than 3,000 miles long will be completed in Kansu province this year.

"This will transform the dry climate of Kansu," add 1,600,000 acres to farmland and boost timber production, the radio said.

The shelter belt starts from the western edge of Kansu province, goes along the ancient Great Wall and the border of the Tengri Desert and extends eastward to another shelter belt in eastern Kansu.

Texas Legislators Unhappy With Lobby Control Law

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—It doesn't take many questions to find that Texas legislators are not happy with the new lobby control law, which becomes effective Jan. 1, 1959.

"Do you think additional legislation is needed on lobbying?" The Associated Press asked each state senator and representative.

Only six said they were happy with the law the way it is written. Twenty-eight spoke out definitely for additional legislation. Three said they thought lobby control was the third most pressing problem of the next session.

Others said they were undecided or preferred not to comment.

The Lobby Control Act, one of the most controversial laws in recent years, was signed Nov. 27, 1957. Although it had been one of the reasons for which Gov. Price Daniel called the first special session of the 55th Legislature, the measure was not acted on finally until the last 10 minutes of the 30-day session.

Essentially the law requires that anyone who tries to influence legislators by "direct communication" must register as a lobbyist after next Jan. 1.

Those who spend more than $50 on such influence during a legislative session must make monthly reports. However, the reports do not have to be itemized. And they are not required when the Legislature is not in session.

Violators can be punished by fines up to $5,000 or two years in prison.

"The lobby bill should apply all the time instead of just during the session," said Rep. Truett Lattimer of Abilene.

"We got, as I have said, watered down lobby bills and lobbied down water bills," said Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio.

"I feel that the recent defeat of legislative pay raises makes it even more necessary that an effective lobby registration act be enacted making not only paid lobbyists but the legislators themselves responsible for accurately reporting any expenditures made by persons attempting to influence legislation as well as revealing the principals for whom those lobbyists are employed," said a new representative Don Gladden of Fort Worth.

Another new representative was on the other side.

"A satisfactory lobby bill is a difficult item to draft into law," said J. C. Whitfield of Houston.

"I am rather inclined to rely on the present penal code as to bribery and so on. After it is all said and done, almost every citizen who participates in government has lobbied at one time or other."

Those who want more lobby control don't think it will be easy.

"Of course I favor a strong lobby control law," said Miss Maud Isaacks of El Paso, a veteran and respected member of the House "but I am certainly not optimistic that one can be passed."

FCC Man Tells Of Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP)—T. M. Craven, a federal communications commissioner, said today the FCC has long exercised a subtle form of censorship over radio and TV programming.

He said he is strenuously opposed to this. Craven expressed his views in a lengthy dissent to a commission proposal to revise and simplify some of the forms filled out by applicants for new broadcasting stations and by stations seeking license renewal.

The forms require the applicant to state what percentage of his air time has been or will be devoted to various types of programs, such as religion, agriculture, news and sports.

Craven said that if the forms were to be revised, it would be a good time to get rid of these listings. He said they inevitably suggested what FCC wanted the station to handle in its daily programming.

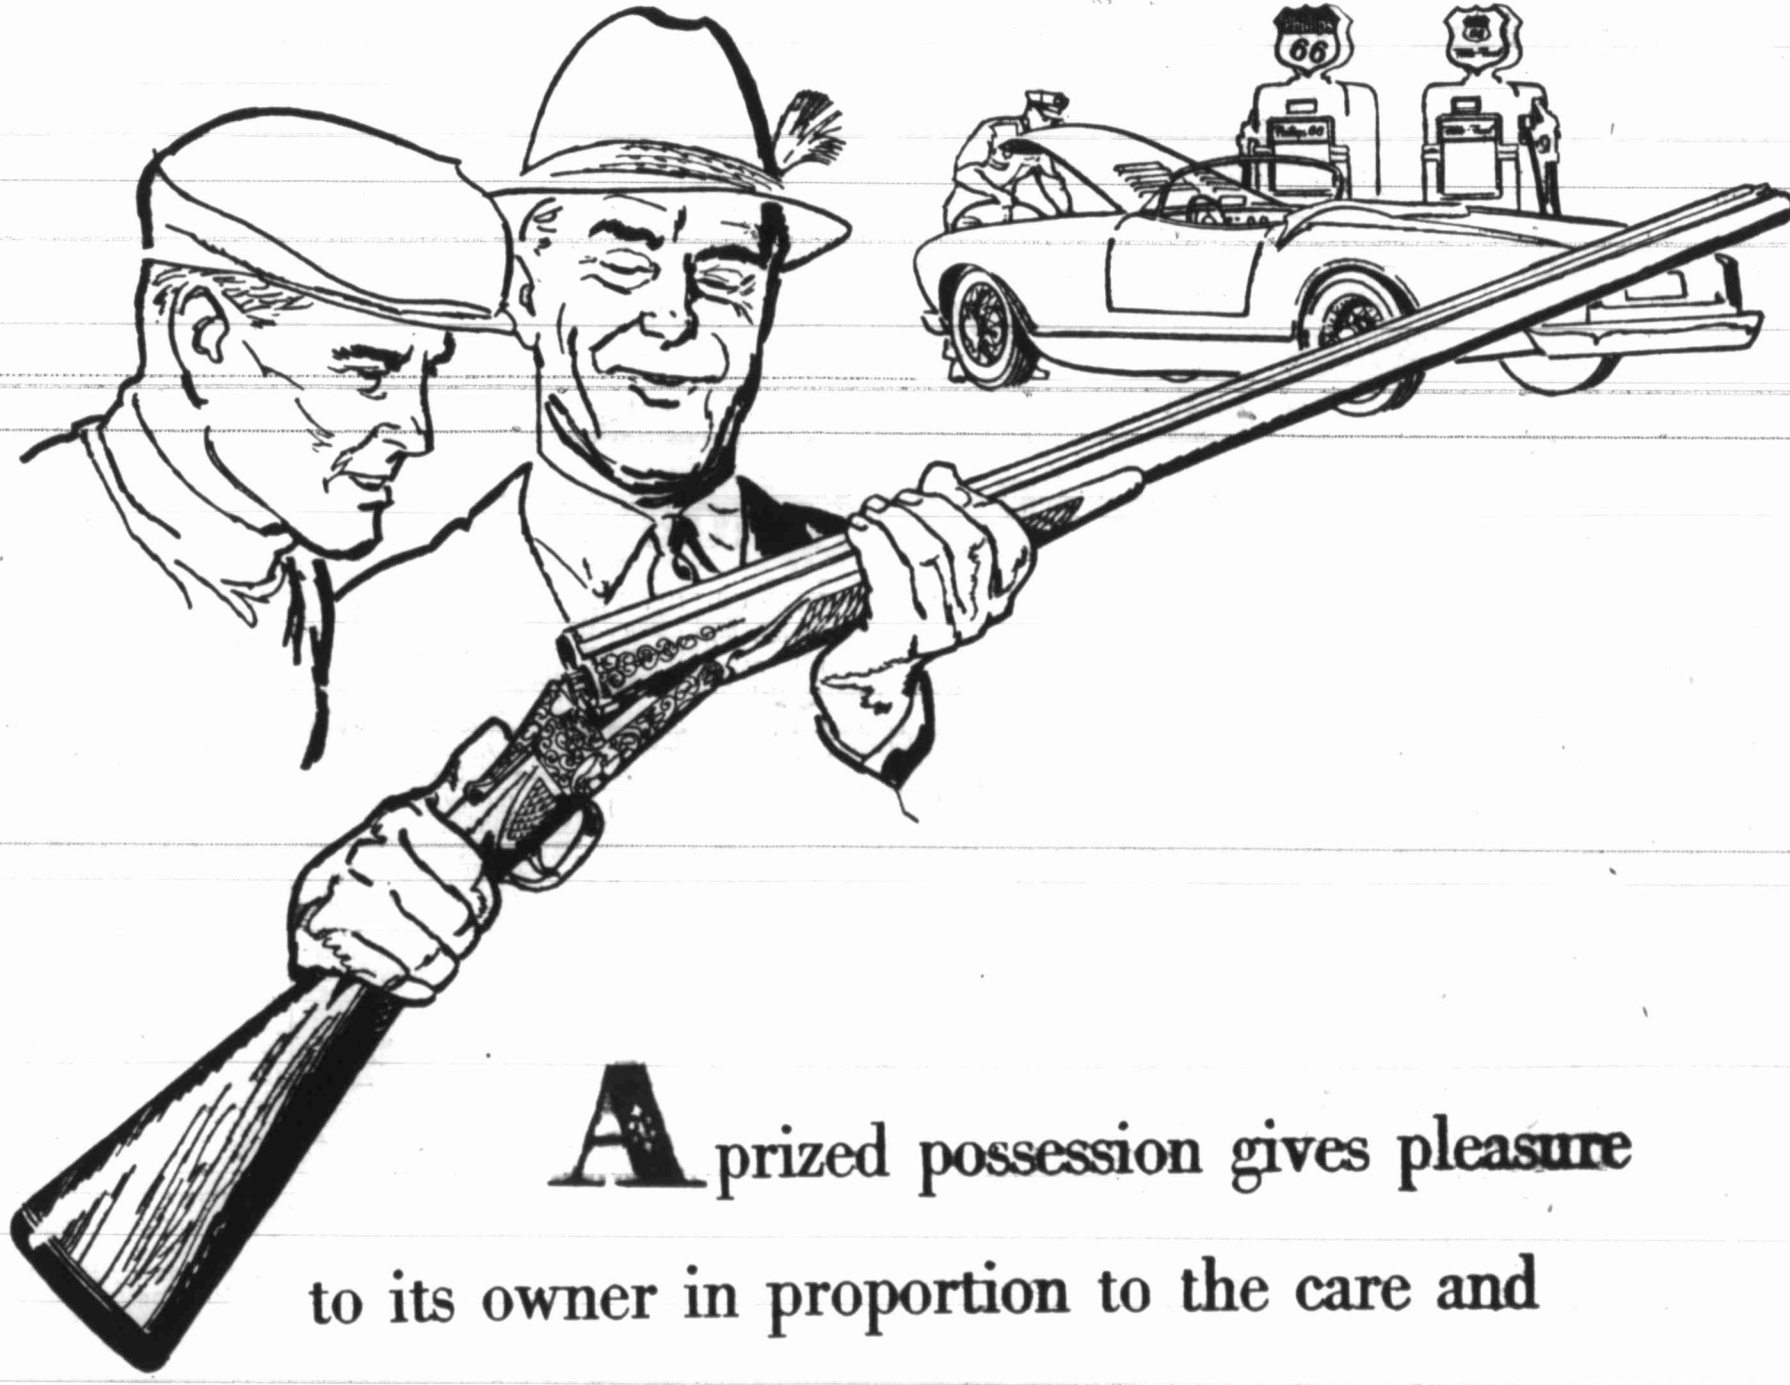

The commission has always taken the position these categories were simply designed to serve as guideposts for the broadcast industry.

But Craven said the applicant filling out the forms "knows full well that his views are destined to be evaluated in the light of preconceived opinions of the regulating agency."

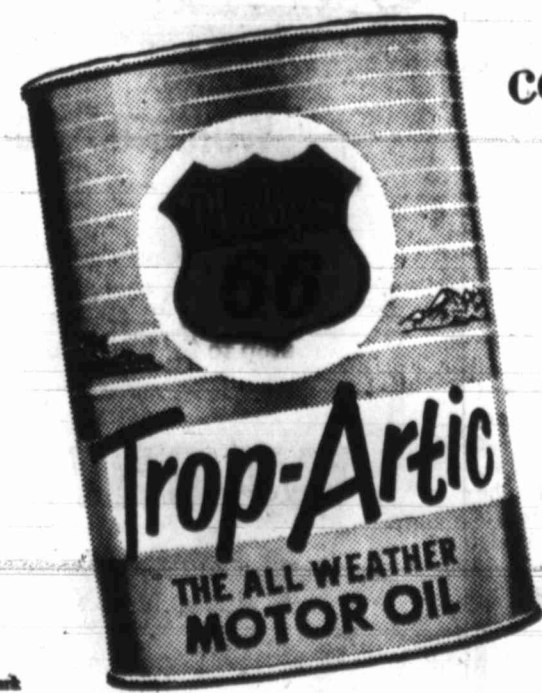

In general, he said, the commission "should leave the task of programming in the public interest exclusively to the licensee where it belongs as a matter of right and duty."

Strikes Cripple 3 Airlines, But Court Order Blocks One

Airline Employees Strike

Eastern Airline flight engineers carry strike signs as they mingle with employees who walked off their jobs at the Eastern terminal in Miami.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An 11th-hour court order blocked a pilots' strike at American Airlines and prevented the Thanksgiving holiday air travel crisis from becoming worse.

The Air Line Pilots Assn. had threatened to strike American at midnight. Federal Judge Frederick V. P. Bryan issued a temporary restraining order Monday night enjoining the walkout.

Eastern Air Lines, the country's largest air passenger carrier, shut down operations Monday as flight engineers and mechanics went out.

Trans World Airlines has been struck by 6,700 machinists since Friday. The strike at Eastern sent holiday travelers rushing for alternate accommodations.

Other airlines were expanding their schedules and railroads added facilities to handle the Thanksgiving Day throngs. But it appeared that thousands of students, servicemen and others would not get home.

Judge Bryan's order required the pilots' association to show cause by Friday why it should not be enjoined from striking.

American asked for the restraining order on the grounds that a walkout by its 1,500 pilots would violate Railway Labor Act requirements for mediation and other compulsory "cooling off" measures.

The association argued it had fulfilled all such requirements. About 7,500 Eastern employees stopped work, and both sides prepared for what they predicted would be a long strike.

A spokesman for the Pennsylvania Railroad said the line has been carrying extra equipment since the Capital strike.

Universal Air Lines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington for emergency authority to serve Miami from New York and Chicago and National Air Lines said it will run additional flights. Eastern serves 124 cities in 25 states, Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Bermuda.

On strike are the Flight Engineers International Assn. and the International Assn. of Machinists. Those who weren't members of either union were union stewards observing the others' picket lines.

Eastern said it will furlough the balance of its 16,000 employees in batches as shutdown operations are completed.

A new strike was threatened against a carrier plying north-south routes from Los Angeles to Medford, Ore. Machinists for Pacific Air Lines said they would strike Dec. 2 unless agreement is reached on a new home contract.

The machinists rejected a 22 percent wage increase in a two-year contract over the present $2.51 per hour scale.

Machinists for Eastern, the world's largest air passenger carrier, now average $490.53 a month. They are demanding a $58.80 raise now, another $20.50 next year and $287 in retroactive pay.

The company has offered $51 a month now, $12.36 more next Oct. 1 and $287 retroactive. Flight engineers struck because of Eastern's demand that they qualify as pilots to work on jets.

Circus Elephant Kills Performer

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—A grumpy circus elephant did a headstand on a man Monday and crushed him to death.

The elephant, named Dorothy, had previously injured 11 persons. James Lloyd, 28, New York City, and another Hagen Bros. Circus employee were walking past Dorothy when she lashed Lloyd to the ground with her trunk.

Deputy Marshal Martin Carey quoted witnesses as saying she then butted the employee with her head and after a couple of tries, performed a headstand on him.

Circus attendants drove her back with blows and shouts, but Lloyd's head and chest were crushed and he died in about an hour.

Carey said the attack appeared unprovoked. James Cole, circus manager, said none of Dorothy's previous victims had suffered serious injuries.

"She is very valuable. She is the best performing elephant we've got," he said. Cole said Dorothy was 12, relatively young for an elephant.

No immediate decision was made on what to do with her.

Vandals Suspected In School Bombing

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—Officials of a bombed integrated school say they have no reason to think racial tensions caused the explosion, "and we hope it was a simple act of vandalism."

One room of the Heizer Junior High School was badly damaged by the explosion of what appeared to be a single stick of dynamite thrown through a window or skylight Sunday night. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

FBI agents, state police and local officers reported no luck in following out several leads to the identity of the dynamiter.

Principal Rex Haynes said there was no indication that the presence of about 65 Negro students among 611 pupils was the motive for the bombing. The school has been integrated since 1954.

GOP Liberals May Share Leadership

By JACK BELL. WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, a Republican conservative, said today he thinks the party's liberals are entitled to share in leadership of the sharply reduced GOP contingent in the Senate.

Highway Safety Panel Pledges Aid To Daniel Crusade

AUSTIN (AP)—A statewide Highway Safety Commission of about 150 members pledged itself yesterday to push Gov. Daniel's traffic safety crusade through the next Legislature.

a solid, united party ready for the job that is to be done." Williams spoke out after Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) served notice in a statement he intends to demand "more vigorous representation of the progressive views of our party."

Cooper's statement was interpreted as indicating he is receptive to a proposal by Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) that Cooper be given one of the GOP leadership posts when the new Congress convenes in January.

This pointed to the possibility of a split among the Republican liberals. Several of them already are understood to be committed to Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California as their representative in the leadership.

The GOP liberals in the Senate are still outnumbered by their more conservative Republican colleagues. Thus they are unlikely to challenge the elevation of Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois from whip to floor leader.

Dirksen would succeed Sen. William F. Knowland, who retired to run for governor of California and lost.

If Dirksen gets the top post, the liberals want one of their number as second in command in a new job of assistant leader which may be established.

Some of the conservatives would like to keep these two places within their own ranks and give the third position to the liberals.

Whether the liberals will settle for such an arrangement, however, seems to depend partly on the kind of committee assignments they draw. There is keen competition for seats on the more important committees.

Foil That Sneeze With A Few Simple Precautions

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP News Features Writer

The long pull of winter lies ahead. Can you keep your baby well during the season of bad weather with all the coughs, sneezes and wheezes that will be about? You probably can. But be sure to take advantage of all our modern knowledge of keeping healthy.

First and most important of all—take your baby regularly to the doctor. Take him when he is quite well, and learn all the tricks about keeping him healthy. Don't hesitate to ask all the questions you want to ask. Doctors are accustomed to questions. Your doctor won't think you're silly because you ask.

The question of going outdoors during the winter season puzzles many mothers. There is, of course, no hard and fast answer. But in general take your babe out every day for an airing when the weather is pleasant enough for you to enjoy it yourself.

While fresh air is good for everyone—you as well as your baby—don't be a slave to daily-aring idea. When it's clear and sunny, when there is little or no wind it is exhilarating for both of you to be outdoors for a while.

Sudden warm days in the winter may not be as good as you think. If the ground has been covered with snow and the whole world seems one mass of melting slush, the atmosphere will be cold and damp even though the sun may be shining. This is not a good atmosphere for a baby of any age—better stay in.

Dress your baby warmly for winter outdoor excursions but don't overdo it. More mothers put too many, rather than too few, clothes on a baby. The only way to judge is to feel the baby. Hands and toes should be warm (he has enough clothes on) back and trunk should be dry (if they are damp he is too warmly dressed). A baby whose body is wet with perspiration will chill just about as easily as one who is too lightly dressed.

Indoor temperatures are important in the wintertime too. The general tendency in most American homes is to have the house too warm in the winter.

When a house is much over 70 it's apt to be very dry unless you have a good modern-humidifying device on your furnace. Dry air is irritating to mucus membranes and makes it easy for cold germs to grow.

Gratitude Is Theme Of WMS Meditation

Thankfulness was the heart of the meditation led by Mrs. J. C. Pickle for the First Baptist WMS, Monday morning.

This is the season when gratitude should be uppermost in the hearts of man, Mrs. Pickle stated. We should be thankful for our religious freedom and we should be grateful for Today. She concluded her message with the poem "Just Familiar Things", and with prayer.

Mrs. H. B. Reagan presided for the business session, when reports were heard from various officers. Progress in the Sunbeams was outlined by Mrs. Faulkner and Mrs. Reagan, and Mrs. T. K. Price told of those completing study books.

As prayer chairman, Mrs. W. F. Taylor pointed up the approach of the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions, in connection with which the Week of Prayer will be observed Dec. 1-5. The suggested goal for the First Church is $5,000.

The prayer week will be culminated with an all day of prayer, with sack lunches to be brought. A special program will be presented at the prayer meeting hour by the Business Women's Circle, as a feature of the observance.

Mrs. Pickle, GA counselor, reported on this phase of endeavor and Mrs. C. O. Hitt, Mrs. W. B. Younger and Mrs. F. W. Bettie were named as a reviewing council for the GA's.

Mrs. A. W. Mallow was introduced as a new member of the WMS. She has affiliated with the Mary Hatch Circle.

Focusing their thoughts on the mission field, the women were called to prayer for those missionaries whose birthdays fall on Nov. 24. Mrs. Taylor stressed the need of special prayer for workers in Korea, and phrased the benediction.

Malinda Crocker, accompanied by Mrs. Nell Frazier at the piano, whistled The Holy City and sang a solo Mrs. Frazier also accompanied Sally Pachall as she sang for the group.

Members assembled a Thanksgiving basket, which will be presented to a needy family.

Negro Delegate To U. N. Works Quietly For Peace

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—When Marian Anderson was chosen as an American delegate to the U.N., a friend told her: "We're expecting great things of you." After two months of the General Assembly session, her friends may be disappointed that the Negro delegate hasn't turned the U.N. into a sounding board for her ideals of international goodwill. She prefers to work more quietly. Opening out her palm to an interviewer, she explained: "We try to get in the hand—not the fist." Miss Anderson spends about six hours a day in the Assembly's 81-nation trusteeship committee, a watchdog over more than 100 million Africans and Asians in nations that are technically wards of the U.N. Her job is explaining the U.S. policy of encouraging democracy and independence for the U.N. trust territories when they've emerged far enough from their tribal past to handle their problems. Her first introduction, to the committee, produced a startling halt to the regular background noise of paper shuffling, whispered chatter and the footfalls of meandering delegates. "You could have heard a pin drop," said committee Chairman Frederick Boland of Ireland. Miss Anderson is the committee's only Negro delegate from any of the Western nations which administer trust territories. This fact is not lost on her dark-skinned colleagues from Africa and Asia. A delegate from a newly independent nation said privately that Miss Anderson's appointment was a good sign because he felt it showed U.S. policy was growing more liberal toward nations like his own. A Negro delegate wondered why Miss Anderson did not speak for the United States when the committee was debating South West Africa—a bitterly fought trusteeship issue that really hinges on South Africa's policies of racial segregation in the territory. Miss Anderson explained that presenting the compromise U.S. view on South West Africa was too difficult a diplomatic assignment for her.

School Law Appears Valid
By The Associated Press
A Texas student placement law which apparently would allow some continued segregation appears to be valid. The U. S. Supreme Court said yesterday a similar law in Alabama was valid. Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said the Alabama case was one of 10 or 12 test cases his department was watching closely. "We have one man assigned primarily to watch those cases," he said, "and by the end of the year we should know pretty well what the law is." The Texas bill, passed in May of 1957 by the Legislature, sets out 17 factors to be considered by school boards in assigning students to particular schools. The factors include such items as "relative intelligence or mental energy of the pupil," his home environment, the psychological qualifications of the pupil. The possibility of threat of friction or disorder among pupils or others, the possibility of breaches of the peace or ill will or economic retaliation within the community. It does not mention race specifically. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Virginia Duff of Ferris, set off a 36-hour filibuster by Sens. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio and Abraham Kazen of Laredo. It finally passed and Gov. Daniel signed it. Kazen and Gonzalez claimed the bill intends "to circumvent the Constitution of the United States and the law as has been promulgated by the Supreme Court." Gonzalez said the bill would "legalize the segregation of children of Latin-American descent." The high court said it assumed the Alabama law would be administered as written. If not, it said, some proceeding may be declared unconstitutional on application of the law.

Half-Hour Drama Possible On TV

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Those who believe that effective drama cannot be accomplished in a half-hour of television should have taken a look at "Guy in Ward 4" on Goodyear Theater Monday night over NBC-TV. The drama by Paul Monash based on a Harper's magazine story by Leo Rosten was vastly superior to most of the mawkish melodrama that clutter the channel half-hours these evenings. It was a simple story movingly played by a cast of three. Richard Kiley portrayed an Army psychiatrist, attached to the Air Force in England during World War II, who was goaded by his sergeant, played by Charles Aidman, into working the emotional restoration of a flight gunner. The gunner, played by Edward Ryder, was killed on his return to active duty, causing the psychiatrist to have the same feelings of guilt that he had purged from the gunner. The sergeant restored the psychiatrist in the same way that he had observed the psychiatrist aid the gunner. Brevity of time resulted in an overly simplified statement of the therapeutic nature of sodium pentathol (truth serum). But the strength of the drama more than compensated for a medical technicality that was minor to the themes of guilt and man's dependence, one on another. One refreshing aspect of the drama was to see a psychiatrist portrayed as a fallible human being. Television usually makes that profession appear infallible.
