Happy Reunion

Bascom Giles, former state land commissioner, hugs his wife and gives her a big kiss after being released from the state prison at Huntsville, Giles, sentenced to six years for accepting a bribe and for being an accomplice in the theft of state funds, served 34 months and 21 days actual time in the prison.

Truman In Dark On Demo Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said today the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination contest is so wide open at this time he hasn't any idea who the winner will be. Truman, who backed Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the 1956 nomination which went to Adlai E. Stevenson, said he is keeping hands off in the scramble at this point.

likely to be decisive, the former President's backing might provide the impetus needed for one of several individual aspirants to forge ahead in what now appears likely to be a closely bunched field of contenders in 1960. The prospect that several may arrive at the July 1960 convention with about equal strength revived speculation at weekend Democratic meetings here of the possibility of a third nomination for Stevenson.

Texas Cotton Forecast Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas' 1958 cotton crop, already recognized as the biggest in five years, got a 100,000-bale boost today. The Department of Agriculture, in its final estimate for the year, appraised the Texas crop at 4,350,000 bales, up by 100,000 bales from the November estimate of 4,250,000.

Nevertheless, Arvey said he is not ruling out the possibility the convention might turn to Stevenson if several rounds of balloting should indicate a deadlock. Similarly, Gov.-elect David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania said that while he doesn't think Stevenson wants to run, he can see where the balloting stalemate might bring the former Illinois governor to the front again as a compromise candidate.

Bank Robber Suspect

Motion To Quash Indictment Against Gilbert Is Overruled

A motion filed by the defense to quash the murder indictment against Ralph Gilbert, 21, San Angelo, for the reason that one of the grand jurors who indicted him was not qualified, was denied at noon today and the young ranch hand was ordered to trial as scheduled.

He is accused of murdering Clayton Stewart, his employer, on July 17. The motion filed as court convened today asserted that George Webb, one of the grand jurors who indicted Gilbert, had not paid his poll tax and was not therefore qualified to serve as a grand juror.

At the hearing, which was completed at noon, the state brought Webb into court. He testified from the stand that he had paid his poll tax and that he held a receipt for the tax. This was verified by a clerk from the office of the tax assessor.

The court promptly overruled the motion.

A crowded courtroom—all of the available seats being filled by members of the special venire called for the case—was on hand when Judge Charlie Sullivan opened court at 10 a.m.

After qualifying the panel generally, the court recessed the hearing until 2 p.m. and instructed the jurors to report at that hour.

There were 131 members of the original 200 veniremen left in their seats at that time.

Monday morning's session for the most part was devoted to the task of sifting out the special veniremen who had legal excuses and desired to be freed from serving. This led to the release of 25. Six others did not report when their names were called. Thirty-one others on the special venire had already been excused on motion of state and defense.

Court attaches were uncertain if 12 jurors can be qualified from the 131 veniremen left in the court room.

It was anticipated the individual questioning of the juror would be a long-drawn-out affair. The state has indicated it intends to seek the death penalty for Gilbert. The qualification queries directed at the veniremen will touch on their attitude toward inflicting of capital punishment, it was believed.

Troubled Pastor Is Bid Farewell

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—About 100 parishioners attended a farewell party Sunday for a pastor who admitted a "moment of indiscretion" that resulted in his being the victim in a sex extortion plot.

The Rev. Dr. Ronald K. Adams reported the incident to police Oct. 21 and resigned as pastor of Oakland's First Baptist Church.

A prostitute pleaded guilty to luring the minister into her bed where they were trapped by her husband and another man. All three have pleaded guilty to trying to extort money from Dr. Adams.

At his side, as the church members filed by, were his wife and three children. The reception was held in the home of Norman Green, chairman of the church executive board.

Dr. Adams did not say what plans he has for the future.

Hayden Griffith Dies Sunday Of Heart Attack

Hayden F. Griffith, 53, shift foreman at Cosden Petroleum Corporation's refining plant, and a long time resident of Big Spring, died of a heart attack Sunday afternoon at his home a mile and a half south of town.

After working on the night shift, he had slept late and had got up to prepare a cup of coffee at 2:45 o'clock when he was stricken suddenly and fatally. He had suffered from an heart involvement for several years.

Last rites will be said at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park with Masonic rites by lodge No. 598.

Hayden Griffith had lived virtually all his life in Big Spring. He was born Jan. 19, 1905, in Pittsburgh, Kans. and his family moved to Big Spring the following year.

In 1929 he went to work for the new Cosden refinery in Big Spring and continued in its employ for 15 years. He acquired the Modern Cleaners from M. M. Mancill and operated it for nine years before returning to Cosden five years ago.

He was a member of Staked Plains Masonic lodge No. 598, of the Dallas consistory and the Suez Shrine Temple in San Angelo.

He was married on June 2, 1928, to Wanda True, who survives him. Other survivors are a son, George True Griffith; his father, L. Griffith, Big Spring; his mother, Mrs. Jessie Griffith, Lubbock; five brothers, Harold Griffith, Lubbock, Donald Griffith, Kennedy, Frank Griffith, Coahoma, Bud Griffith, Big Spring, and Roy Griffith, New Holland, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Cross, Big Spring, and Mrs. A. W. Nixon, Kennedy.

Pallbearers will be A. B. West, L. D. Gilbert, George Grimes, Jack Y. Smith, Cecil Milam, O. O. Craig and H. W. Nall.

Church Blast Attempt Probed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Fire department investigators today told of an apparent attempt to blow up or burn the Trinity Lutheran Church at which 1,600 persons worshipped Sunday.

Church custodian William Lampp found a crude outline of a hammer and sickle burned into the floor of the Sunday School principal's office. Then he found gas jets open in the church kitchen and in the kindergarten classroom.

First services were scheduled in little more than hour. Lampp stamped out the still smoldering fire in the principal's office and turned off jets. He called firemen and police.

Arson investigator D. A. Wigham said, "There was no forced entry and it was obvious that an explosion was planned by someone who knew the building," he said.

He said the arsonist poured fluid on the floor in the shape of a hammer and sickle, then ignited the fluid, a slow burning type.

CLUB GROUP ADDS CHEER

Two organizations, along with several individuals, gave generously today to add a nice boost to the Christmas Cheer Fund.

Members of the White Hawk Motorcycle Club, meeting Sunday, banded together to make up $38 to help needy children have a good Christmas. And the Wesley Men's Bible Class contributed $15.

The fund will take gifts right on up until Christmas, because a large sum is needed to provide usable toys and good food to all families who cannot otherwise have these holiday delights. If you'll help, just send your check to CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, The Herald, or hand your gift to any fireman.

Carpenter Accused Of Murder In Wife's 'Accident'

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — A 25-year-old carpenter has been accused of releasing the hand brake on his car and killing the car roll over his wife, killing her.

At first, the death of Janet Rowles, 24, last Oct. 12 was listed as an accident. Later police reopened the investigation. Over the weekend her husband, James R. Rowles, was arraigned on a charge of murder.

Authorities said Rowles remarried on Nov. 29, but his new wife, Faye, apparently knew nothing of the circumstances surrounding Janet's death.

State police said Rowles told them he was out for a drive with his wife and their 10-month-old daughter, Suzy. He stopped on a grade to fix a tire and his wife walked around to the rear of the car. He released the handbrake and the car rolled backward down the grade, crushing his wife.

Negro Charged With Murder

Elbert L. Ford, 29, has been charged with murder with malice and his bond has been set at $5,000.

Ford, a Negro, is accused of knifing Julius Bedford, 28, to death at 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Bedford and Ford are brothers-in-law.

Ford was arrested Saturday night and Sunday made a statement to officers in which he admitted the stabbing, according to Dist. Atty. J. Jones.

Ford took officers to the scene where the knife had been thrust into the drain pipe of an old bathtub.

Bedford, an employe at the Capehart Housing Project, was stabbed one time under the right arm. He died an hour later in the Big Spring Hospital.

The fatal altercation developed from a family row between Bedford and his wife, Dorothy. Ford told the officers. He was trying, he said, to break up this fight at the time of the stabbing. He says another man gave him the knife.

GOC Meeting Is Set For Tuesday

All members of the local Ground Observer Corps are being urged to attend a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the police building classroom, Roy Black, supervisor, reminded today.

Plans for shutting down GOC operations on Jan. 31 will be explained, and all members of the organization will be given their observer wings, Black said. An earlier report erroneously listed time for the meeting as Monday evening.

Inquiry Marks Unit's First Job

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission opened an historic inquiry into Negro voting complaints here today with an expressed disavowal of any intent to take sides in the segregation issue.

It was the first public hearing for the commission since it was created by Congress more than a year ago.

Chairman John A. Hannah and Vice Chairman Robert G. Storey issued prepared statements at the outset of the investigation, emphasizing that the hearing will be what they termed a fact-finding inquiry and nothing more.

The commission gave defiant Alabama officials a new chance to answer charges of discrimination against prospective Negro voters.

But as the hearing opened, there was no indication that subpoenaed voter registration records in six counties would be surrendered to the commission. Hannah and Storey withheld comment on what action might be taken if the witnesses persisted in their threatened refusal to produce records.

Instead, they said the hearing offered officials a chance to disprove the Negroes' charges, if they can, and expressed hope they would take advantage of that opportunity.

They said they had received a substantial number of complaints that Negroes have been denied the right to vote because of race. Hannah said he hoped the hearing could be completed in two days but would be prolonged if necessary.

Wholesale resistance to bringing records before the commission appeared to be building up over the weekend. The records in Barbour and Bullock counties have been impounded by Circuit Judge George Wallace. He said he would defy a subpoena to produce them and arrest any commission agent trying to take them from his custody.

The files of Dallas, Lowndes and Wilcox were turned over to grand juries for what was described as state investigations of the same complaints made to the federal commissions.

The other county is Macon, where there are six times as many Negroes as whites but only half as many Negro voters as white. State Atty. Gen. John Patterson, governor-elect, has instructed Macon County officials not to surrender voter records to the commission.

One of the six commission members is a Negro, J. Ernest Wilkins of Chicago, an assistant secretary of labor. All are staying at Maxwell Air Force Base because state segregation laws ruled Wilkins out of a hotel.

The other members are the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University; Doyle E. Carlton, former governor of Florida; and John S. Battle, former governor of Virginia.

Hannah is president of Michigan State University and Storey is dean of law at Southern Methodist University.

Officers Fear Revival Of Feud On North Side

What some officers regard as a possible revival of the feud which recently left three dead and two wounded, may have shown up Saturday night on the north side of town.

Two persons were arrested and charged in connection with the episode and both are identified as having had a part in the first affray.

Robert Larez has been charged with assault with intent to murder in connection with a reported shooting Saturday night or early Sunday morning. He had been released on $2,000 bond.

Joe Villa, charged with carrying a pistol, pleaded not guilty in Howard County Court this morning and his bond was set at $500.

Villa was one of those wounded in the gunfight at the bar on Oct. 4. Larez is identified by officers as a relative of Alfred C. Larez, one of those killed in the same fight.

Pasternak Absent As Nobel Winners Gather For Awards

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Winners of 1958 Nobel Prizes gathered today for the prize giving. The Russians sent the three winners of the physics prize but, as promised, literary winner Boris Pasternak stayed home.

Another blast was loosed at Pasternak, author of the novel "Dr. Zhivago" by Soviet writers at a Moscow meeting Sunday.

The prizes will be awarded at ceremonies Wednesday.

Pasternak's three countrymen arrived to share in the physics prize of $41,420. The Soviet scientists are P. A. Cherenkov, I. M. Frank and Igor Tamm.

Coming in early today from London were the British winner of the prize in chemistry, Frederick Sanger, and Dr. Joshua Lederberg, who shares the medicine and physiology prize with U.S. colleagues Dr. George Beadle and Dr. Edward L. Tatum.

Beadle arrived Sunday and Tatum was expected later today. Lederberg is from the University of Wisconsin, Tatum from the Rockefeller Institute in New York and Beadle from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena.

Father Dominique Georges Pire, Belgian priest who won the peace prize, arrived in Oslo, Norway, to receive his prize there Wednesday. The peace prize is awarded by a five-man committee from the Norwegian Parliament. The other winners were picked by Swedish groups.

Pasternak at first accepted his literature prize, then turned it down under pressure at home. But the committee making the award said he would be listed as the 1958 winner, although the $41,420 was put back in the Nobel fund. His diploma and gold medal are in a safe, to be given him if he ever comes to Sweden.

Mystery Surrounds Deaths Of 3 Sleeping Truckers

LANCASTER, Mo. (AP)—Three truck drivers, weary from the long drive from central Arkansas to this north Missouri village, went to sleep in a truck stop bunkhouse. All three of them died there.

Why? At this stage, no one knows.

Coroner Bryce Norman said the first victim apparently died of a heart attack. Autopsies on the bodies of the other two were inconclusive. Tissue samples will be tested by state police.

The chain of death began Friday, when 24-year-old Louis Lee Warden of Little Rock pulled into Lancaster with a truckload of farm tractors from Malvern, Ark. It was 1 a.m. and he had covered more than 600 miles.

Warden said he was ill and went to bed in the bunkhouse which Ed Judd maintains at his service station-restaurant on U.S. Highway 63. Late that afternoon, Warden was found dead.

He suffered from a heart ailment. His death was attributed to the disease and his body was sent back to Little Rock.

north with a load of lumber. They were John Parker, 26, Little Rock, and William Briner, 22, Malvern. One was to drive Warden's truck back to Malvern.

They went to bed about 1 a.m. Sunday. At 7 a.m., both men were found dead.

Coroner Norman said the 18-by-24-foot bunkhouse was heated by a stove which burns bottled gas. He has asked for a state inspection to determine if the heater is releasing lethal fumes.

Army Scientists Set Out For Second Try At Moon

Dry Pad Launching

Here is a real closeup view of the launching of the Jupiter rocket at Cape Canaveral, Fla., just a few seconds after ignition. Liftoff has barely started and the ice around the missile is still firm. Ice forms due to the extremely low temperature of the liquid oxygen fuel. Part of the launch pad can be seen beneath the missile. The Jupiter is fired from a dry pad on a concrete slab where other rockets are fired from a water cooled platform. White spray at left is liquid oxygen coming from the umbilical service cord after it is disconnected from the rocket. The missile itself is a dry pad up to speed to reach its goal.

Two Men With A Problem

T. Keith Glennan, right, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Maj. Gen. John Medaris, head of the Army missile program, are serious as they meet reporters at Cape Canaveral, Fla., to explain that an Army rocket failed to attain sufficient speed to put a satellite near the moon. They told newsmen that the first stage, a modified Jupiter, failed to function as long as expected.

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a second space shot ahead, Army scientists set out today to correct troubles that thwarted their first effort to hurl a tiny package of instruments into orbit around the sun.

At the same time, they rated the experiment a success in measuring the depth of man-poisoning radiation around the earth.

The space probe Pioneer III—first of two assigned to the Army—met its flaming end over North Africa Sunday afternoon.

Fired aloft by a four-stage rocket early Saturday, the 13-pound cone reached an announced peak altitude of 66,654 miles before falling back and burning in the terrific heat generated by atmospheric friction.

All told, it was 38 hours and 6 minutes in flight.

The Army's Pioneer III didn't get as far into space as did the Air Force's best effort Oct. 11. Revised figures showed the Air Force's Pioneer I reached 71,300 miles. Two other Air Force moon rockets failed soon after takeoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla., which also was the site of the Army launching.

The Air Force now has used up all three space probes allotted to it for the present at least. It sought to send a somewhat heavier satellite than the Army's into orbit around the moon, which is some 230,000 miles from the earth.

The Army's intent with Pioneer III was to pass the moon and perhaps go into orbit around the sun,

Youth Hurt In Mitchell Mishap

COLORADO CITY—Jerry Robertson, 18, was injured when his car left State Highway 208 one mile north of Colorado City, skidded into a ditch, hit a culvert and bounced back on the highway.

His injuries are not believed serious, but he is still under observation in the Root Memorial Hospital at Colorado City.

Hospital attendants say that he is shaken up and cut around the head. His car which apparently did not turn over in the 375 foot skid, is badly damaged.

Legislators Plan Action On Welfare, Vets, Atom Energy

By ED OVERHOLSER

AUSTIN (AP)—A lower voting age, more welfare and veteran benefits and a state atomic energy commission are among the legislative ideas being tossed around in pre-session play.

The Associated Press mail poll of members of each house turned up the usual large number of projects in addition to concern over weighty matters such as taxes, appropriations and schools.

One of the most imaginative proposals calls for creation of a state program to assist the federal government in discovering and developing peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The state AEC plan was a plank in the platform of Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, defeated for governor last summer. He said he still likes the idea. He also wants to extend the veteran's land program to permit buying and repairing of homes under the same long-term, low-interest rates charged in the original GI aid plan.

Freshman Rep. Roger Daily of Houston thinks the voting age in Texas should be reduced from 21 to 18. Georgia and Kentucky allow 18-year-olds to vote but all other states require a voter to be 21.

"I have had numerous people contact me recently," said Sen. J. P. Fuller of Fort Arthur, "urgently in need of institutional help for mentally retarded and/or physically handicapped relatives, particularly children." He said that "Although as a rule I have not advocated any specific spending it seems we have a dire need for this."

Another Fort Arthur lawmaker, Rep. Roy Harrington, said he would propose a constitutional amendment to give a $3,000 tax exemption to citizens 65 or older on all property taxes.

A constitutional amendment also was proposed by Rep. Marshall Bell of San Antonio to abolish the state ad valorem tax of 42 cents per $100 evaluation, most of which is funneled into the school fund.

The popular welfare angle also appealed to Rep. Charles Whitfield Jr. of Houston who called for a custodial home for severely handicapped persons.

Sen. George Parkhouse, Dallas conservative, advocated a law to prohibit unions from using dues for political purposes. He also said he wanted "stricter laws to try to make union officers recognize their responsibilities to their members."

Dallas Rep. Bill Jones believes the time for granting a divorce in Texas should be extended from the present 60 days to one year.

Speed limits must be brought in line with road conditions and a policy of strict enforcement should be backed up with mandatory license suspensions for offenders, said Rep. Tom James of Dallas. Stronger driver responsibility laws also will be pushed by Reps. Ted Myatt of Cleburne and Don Gladden of Fort Worth.

James also proposed that the Department of Public Safety's budget should be expanded with more radar units provided and the number of patrol cars doubled.

Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton was concerned because there is no law requiring school boards to call for bids before awarding a contract for expenditures over $1,000. Most other political subdivisions are required by statute to advertise for bids.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance ("Bio-Dyne")—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparations II. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Another member of the group, Mrs. Albert Ball, said: "I know of no work of the NAACP in Houston. I know a great many people are concerned that there be no violence in Houston and that the public schools be preserved."

Ministers Fire Back At Faubus

HOUSTON (AP)—A group of ministers and lay leaders fired back yesterday at Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, who claimed those critical of his scheduled appearance here next Saturday were "brainwashed."

"We believe brainwashing is a good Christian doctrine," said the Rev. Hebert Mexa, a Presbyterian minister. He is one of the group of 12 who drafted a petition declaring "we do not want another 'Little Rock' here."

Faubus termed the petitions "The work of the NAACP and a few brainwashed ministers."

The Rev. Mexa retorted: "I'll quote from the Bible: 'Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.'" He said the quotation is from the second chapter, fifth verse, of the book of Philippians.

The governor is due to speak in the Houston Music Hall under sponsorship of the Sons of the American Revolution.

"That's a usual comment he (Faubus) makes," said an Episcopal minister, the Rev. John Bosman. "It's obviously something he's said whenever he's been touched."

American, Jap Relive Roles On Pearl Harbor Day

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—An American hero of Pearl Harbor and a Japanese bomber pilot in the raid relived their parts Sunday.

As Lt. Col. Toshio Hashimoto and Lt. Col. Stephen G. Saltzman discussed their roles on Dec. 7, 1941, it was evident that time had crissed all hatred.

Hashimoto is one of Saltzman's students in the Command and Staff School at Maxwell Air Force Base.

At Pearl Harbor, Hashimoto was a lieutenant junior grade who piloted a Mitsubishi attached to the carrier Hiryu. He bombed the battleship West Virginia.

Saltzman wears a Silver Star medal for his courageous action while a second lieutenant assigned

Separated Brother, Sister Find Each Other On Date

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—On their first date, Dorothy Manewal, 16, and Richard Gillett, 22, liked each other.

And then they found that they really had something in common—they were brother and sister, parted 10 years ago.

After they were introduced by a friend last week, Dorothy said, "I sort of liked Dick and we made a date for Saturday night.

"We were sitting in a car and talking when I just happened to say that Dorothy Manewal wasn't my real name, that it was Sara Esther Alridge.

"And then he said that Dick Gillett wasn't his real name either. And then he said, 'Well, I'm your brother.' We just sat there for a moment. We could hardly believe it."

The pretty, dark-haired high school girl said they were adopted into separate homes after their mother died in 1948, and hadn't seen each other since.

Gillett, whose real name is Michael Charles Alridge, said that he knew he had a sister but had never tried to find her.

"I remember him when I was a little girl," Miss Manewal said. She said she had never attempted to locate him either.

Gillett, a factory worker in near-by Oregon City, spent Sunday helping his new-found sister make Christmas decorations.

"We talked about the old times and things that we used to do when we were kids," she said. "I think we'll be good friends."

WTSC Choir Will Sing Tuesday At BSHS Assembly

CANYON—West Texas State College's A Cappella Choir, on tour through a dozen South Plains and West Texas cities, will appear in a concert Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Big Spring High School auditorium.

The group, directed by Dr. Houston Bright, tours the tri-state area annually just before the Christmas holidays, appearing in from 10 to 12 schools. The choir also appears in a number of churches and over area television stations.

The Big Spring concert is the fourth of the 1958 tour, which also includes two Lubbock high schools, and schools in Snyder, Odessa, Midland, Kermit, Tahoka, Brownfield, Muleshoe, Dimmitt, and Hereford.

Organized in 1941 by its present director, the WT Choir now enjoys a reputation of being one of the finest concert organizations of the Southwest. In addition to tours and television performances, the group appears with the Amarillo Symphony, and assists with productions by the WT Opera Workshop.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Take Time For Rest To Be Relaxed Hostess

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Julie Adams and her husband, Ray Danton, give a New Year's Eve party each year that may not be the most publicized, but to their friends it's the most fun.

"I think a hostess has to be rested to enjoy her own party," Julie revealed. "She has to have ample time to dress before her guests arrive. In order to do this she has to be well-organized."

"When you are preparing for a gala occasion, how much time do you allow for your own personal attention?" I asked.

"Of course I can manage on much less, but I allow two hours," Julie replied.

I wanted to know exactly what Julie does to look so glamorous. As we sat chatting on the "Yancy Derringer" set at CBS-TV, Julie outlined her beauty techniques for me.

"First I put up my hair in pin curls. Then I cleanse my face and apply a coat of dry-skin cream. While this is taking effect, I relax in a sweet-smelling milk bath. I put about a heaping tablespoon of concentrated milk-bath in a full tub of warm water."

"When I come out of the bath, I remove the face cream and apply a mask that has an astringent effect. While this is drying I lie down on my slant board and rest. I find it so restful to have my feet above my head."

"After I've dozed for about a half an hour, I remove the mask and apply a moisture film before I use my make-up. I like the kind of make-up base I can smooth on with a sponge and warm water."

Relaxed Hostess

Julie Adams gives all the details on how she prepares herself for a holiday party; rest and make-up are important, she says. Julie appears frequently on CBS-TV.

Italy's Music, Art Are 1930 Hyperions' Study

1930 Hyperion Club members met Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Roscoe Cowper to hear another in the series of programs planned to show the Cultural Patterns of the Passing World.

Based on the history and background of various countries, the study was further developed Saturday as a discussion of Italy was given by Clara Secrest and Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, with music by Mrs. Don Newsom, a guest.

Miss Secrest introduced the program and told of how the past and present mingle in Italy, with the northern section of the country more cultured than the southern part. Italy's art has contributed more to Christianity than that of any other country, Miss Secrest told the group.

Brief accounts of the biographies of three artists, Michelangelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci were told by the speaker, with a discussion of the leading works of each. Miss Secrest added personal notes from her trip to Europe which she took this summer.

Mrs. Tidwell described the Italians as a singing people, and remarked that they are close to us in this country for their contribution to art music and the joy of living.

Since the 16th century, she said, they have given the world folk music, operas, a musical vocabulary and instruments. Mrs. Tidwell introduced Mrs. Newsom, who was accompanied by Mrs. Champ Rainwater as she sang selections from The Marriage of Figaro and Madame Butterfly and an Italian love song.

During the business meeting, the club voted to give $10 to the state project of a nursing scholarship. Mrs. H. C. Stipp reported that an amendment to the constitution of the city federation will admit former member clubs to the federation without the payment of a second fee of $200.

It was announced that duties had been assigned various clubs for the tea to be given in February for Mrs. B. F. Seay of Andrews, district president. The 1930 Hyperion will serve in the house party.

Mrs. Chester Barnes reported on the plans for the state hospital party to be given on Dec. 22. She asked for volunteers who will assist at the affair; six members will serve at the party.

Refreshments were served to 20 by the hostesses, Mrs. Cowper and Mrs. Maurice Koger. Date for the next meeting was set for Jan. 10, which will be a change from the regular schedule of sessions. Mrs. H. G. Keaton and Mrs. Stipp will be hostesses.

CHRISTMAS LIST

Household Items Compete With Personal Gifts In Popularity

By HELEN HURT
 In considering Christmas gifts for adults, it sometimes helps to remember that the items fall somewhat into two categories — personal or household. Whichever route you follow, you will have unlimited horizons.

Let's first browse through the items for house or apartment. A lamp or decorative clock, television snack trays, hurricane lamps, heart set, artistic candelabra will make effective gifts. Handmade ice buckets, wooden serving pieces, trays, a coffee table, sets of crystal glasses, tiered tidbit server, gaily decorated pottery, electric skillet or coffeemaker, serving cart, elegant table linen will be welcome gifts for people who like to entertain.

ADVANCE THOUGHTFULNESS
 If you enjoy playing Santa in advance, send along a centerpiece for the dinner table or deliver a door decoration, days early. A potted plant or a holiday arrangement is something everyone can enjoy. If you would have the floral accent timeless, have someone arrange a stunning bouquet of those elegant artificial flowers that defy detection. And a grouping of artificial fruit is another popularity poller. Miniature make-believe flower arrangements can be used as placecards or as sickroom brighteners.

For the bath there are beautiful plastic and ceramic accessories, piles of towels in fabulous colors, stylized scales, decorator wastebaskets, a magnifying mirror for the dressing table, hair dryer.

Kitchen-minded gifts range from elaborate spice sets to clever pot-holders and hostess aprons, washable recipe books, lazy Susans, canisters, utility stools, foam rubber-backed place mats and card table covers.

Chances are the Misters will find shirts, robes, ties, house slippers, socks, pajamas and handkerchiefs under their trees. Men's toiletries, cummerbunds, gloves, desk sets, sports equipment, scarves, cigars and cigarettes will also be there with lighters.

He might like a new billfold too, a leather address book, key chain, cufflinks, tie pin, sunglasses, sport shirt, tie rack, luggage, really good clothes brush, set of chemises, a sweater, and maybe a manicure kit. A shoe caddy is a good gift if he likes to polish his own shoe wardrobe.

Mildly will react with joy to such feminine gifts as cologne or perfume in her favorite fragrance; costume jewelry, from latched gold and silver pieces to lavished creations of crystals, clear or iridescent; lingerie in easy-care nylon, lavished with lace, separate or in matched sets, in virgin white or one of the array of rich colors.

Give a Clock . . . For Home or Office

. . . Or Earthenware

blouse — each will add a touch of luxury. Perhaps she would like a folder of greeting cards assembled by a leading stationer.

There are a multitude of pretties for her dresser — the new footed vanity mirrors encircled in pastel velvet; a cosmetic organizer tray; attractive and workable atomizer; a plastic holder for her lipstick; lucite or gold filigreed dresser sets; jewel boxes; a lamp that burns cologne.

Then there's that magic gift — a certificate for a permanent and a manicure.

So you've finished your shopping? Then relax, and have a Merry Christmas!

Sleepytime Doll
 Here's a dolly that will be the bedtime favorite of the little miss, it's so cuddly and soft. No. 337-N has pattern pieces; hot-iron transfer for face; sewing and embroidery directions.

Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to MARTHA MADISON, Big Spring Herald, Box 438, Midtown Station, New York 18, N. Y. Add 10 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing.

Couple Has Christmas Social

In the second in a series of Christmas parties for their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haptonstall hosted an after-church get-together Sunday night for members of the Adult Training Union at Baptist Temple.

A program emphasizing the true meaning of the Yuletide season was opened with the song "I Hear the Bells on Christmas Day" by Mrs. Winston Gregg. She sang "Gentle Mary" after the host had quoted the Christmas story as told in Luke 2. Mrs. Paul Vagt gave a reading "Mary", and the Rev. A. R. Posey closed the period with a prayer of dedication for Christmas.

White mums predominated at the refreshment table, where cake in the shape of a bell was served from a silver tray. Mrs. Robert Hill was at the silver service. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Newell Derryberry, Mrs. Delbert Simpson, Mrs. Doyle Grice and Mrs. Raymond Underwood.

Pete Shepherd led the group in Christmas carols. A merry note was introduced when each wife introduced her husband by describing him with an adjective beginning with the opening letter in his first name. Guests received candy canes to take home to their children.

Among the 33 present were these special guests: Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, the Rev. and Mrs. Posey, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Gafford, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carley, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pendleton, and Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Ames.

Tolletts Host Dance For Webb Officers

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Tollett, acting as hosts for Cosden Petroleum Corporation, entertained field grade officers of Webb AFB with a dance Sunday night at Cosden Country Club. About 81 couples danced to the music of Henry King's orchestra in a setting of red and gold.

Coming from out of town for the occasion were John Boles and Dr. and Mrs. David A. Wood of San Angelo; Bruce Barnes, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Hal Collins Jr., Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roden, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Minear and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Regan of Midland.

Guests were welcomed by the host couple, Col. and Mrs. Leland Younklin assisted in the greetings.

White mums combined with pink roses and silver foliage for the floral decor on the buffet table, which was covered with pink satin under black net. Castle candles bedded in the foliage and pink balls flanked the flowers.

Other tables featured hurricane lamps tied with red satin bows. Gilded lemon leaves shown from arrangements of silver spruce.

Groupings of the white mums and red roses were placed throughout the ballroom.

Demos Likely To Pass Over Domestic Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Advisory Council's broad legislative program appeared likely today to get only passing attention from Congress which may be more interested in national security than social security.

In its first meeting since last month's elections bolstered Democratic majorities in both House and Senate, the policy-shaping council drafted a 24-point program of goals for the 86th Congress Sunday.

The pronouncement, the most comprehensive and far reaching ever issued by the 24-member council, called for action on a wide range of issues from expansion of Social Security to strengthening of civil rights.

It made no specific recommendations, however, on such things as outer space developments which Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas stressed last month—also in general terms—in a 12-point legislative program for the new Congress. Johnson omitted civil rights from his program.

The council's action put a fresh accent on the liberal views expressed by many of the new Democratic Senate and House members elected last month.

Despite the contention of National Chairman Paul M. Butler that the council's program reflects the direction in which the party is pointing in 1960, however, the proposals do not appear likely to command effective sponsorship in Congress.

The general opinion among politicians is that Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas will, in practical effect, shape the final form of the legislative program that emerges from next year's session.

In the past, Johnson and Rayburn have not paid much attention to the council's recommendations. There is no reason to believe their attitude will change materially.

WOEFULLY BEHIND
In announcing its program, the council said: "Republican reaction, lethargy and indecision of the past six years have allowed this nation to fall woefully behind in meeting the demands of the times."

In addition to expansion of Social Security, the council urged "bold and comprehensive action" on such things as fighting inflation and the high cost of living, increasing the national minimum wage, a new housing program and readjustments of what it called inequities and loopholes in the tax laws.

On civil rights, the council called for enactment of a section struck out of the 1957 civil rights law that would authorize the attorney general to file civil suits against anyone who deprives citizens of "their rights to equal protection of the laws, on account of race, color, religion, or national origin."

The council also endorsed proposals for a change in Senate rules to make it easier to halt filibustering and revisions of other congressional procedures often used to roadblock civil rights measures.

Except for Southern dissents on civil rights and congressional procedures, Butler said, the proposed program was approved unanimously by the 18 council members attending Sunday's meeting.

The council's civil rights recommendations paralleled action by the Democratic National Committee in this field Saturday.

Southern segregationists lost a battle when the committee voted 79-27 to retain in a resolution commending Butler, a provision praising his "forthright utterances on civil rights," and his support of the Supreme Court's school integration decisions.

Southerners brushed aside these actions and statements by the National Committee and the advisory council as likely to have little effect on Congress, where they said the real battle over civil rights will be fought out.

Ministers In Orientation

Ministers Are Pleased With Hospital Orientation Course

Now nearing the end of their period of training, ministers in the first ministers' orientation course sponsored by the Big Spring State Hospital are pleased with results.

Several of the 11 enrolled have said that the training launched in October will be of help in regular pastoral work as well as helping to understand the potentials of the hospital.

Chaplain Marvin Berkeland said that the course has been so well received that another is planned after the first of the year. There exists a backlog of registrations left over from the first course.

The Rev. V. Ward Jackson, pastor of the First Church of God in Big Spring, observed that the course had shown him a new appreciation for the "commendable and effective job our Big Spring State Hospital staff is doing."

"This course has helped me to know what ailments call for hospitalization and how the hospital can help," said the Rev. Erling Peterson, pastor of the Midland Lutheran Church. "Moreover, what I have learned will be of inestimable help in my own ministry."

Similarly, the Rev. Bert Faerber, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church in Midland, observed that the instruction had been "a fruitful experience in helping me to understand people, especially people with emotional problems. It confirms my conviction that reli-

Another Mild Day On Weather Scene

By The Associated Press

On-again, off-again winter nipped Texas at a few spots early Monday but forecasters promised another mild day before it turns cold again Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau said another batch of icy air would start moving into all sections of the state Monday night. It predicted a few showers Tuesday in East and South Central Texas.

Skies were mostly cloudy over much of South Central and Southeast Texas Tuesday morning. It was clear elsewhere. There was no rain.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 28 at Texarkana and 29 at Lufkin to 56 at Brownsville.

At Sheridan's top marks varied from 40 at Sanger to 74 at Alpine.

gion and psychiatry must work hand in hand and in some respects are dependent upon each other."

Chaplain Berkeland explained that through the orientation pastors have been given an insight into the resources and workings of a mental hospital. In addition, they have been helped to understand problems that a busy parish pastor faces and the unique resources and responsibilities the pastor has as a minister. The chaplain and other members of the hospital staff pointed out methods of dealing with deeper human motivations of which people often are not conscious.

In learning something of the way people are, how they got that way and what is available to help them, ministers have been acquainted with spiritual factors (positive and negative) present in mental illness and emotional maladjustments.

Enrolled in the first orientation were these ministers:

- Ward Jackson, First Church of God; S. E. Eldridge, First Assembly of God; Wayne Dittloff, St. Paul's Lutheran; Clyde Nichols, First Christian; Jack Ware, St. Paul Presbyterian; Thomas Cudd, 14th and Main Church of Christ; Royce Womack, Wesley Methodist; Adolph Metzger, Sacred Heart Catholic, all of Big Spring.
- Bert Faerber, Grace Lutheran, Midland; Erling Peterson, Midland Lutheran; J. D. Mabry, First Baptist, Ackerly.

Unusual Man Builds Unusual Boat, Plans Unusual Voyage

By DONALD F. BOLLES
CLINTON, N. J. (AP)—The unusual is the spice of Robert Halvorsen's life.

So he built an unusual boat in an unusual place, got it to water in an unusual way and plans to use it for an unusual voyage.

From the first tentative drawing to the final coat of varnish, the 45-foot, power-driven boat was a do-it-yourself project. Every plank, every screw was put into the hull with care, for next summer the craft will take Halvorsen and his family across the Atlantic Ocean to Europe.

Halvorsen is president of the Sterling Die Casting Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., about 60 miles from his home here. But he managed to spend four days a week working on his ketch.

Consider the past accomplishments of this remarkable man: He once studied ship design, compiled an excellent record, but decided to become a lawyer instead and did so.

He once paddled 500 miles in a flimsy kayak from Stockholm to Oslo.

He designed his own home which fits into a mountainside near Clinton and is heated by the sun. The front is a semicircle with glass 30 feet high.

Several times he has sailed a 55-footer by himself from the West Indies to New Jersey.

He is also a flier with his own pilot's license.

And he is working now on plans for a home-made helicopter.

The sea is in Halvorsen's blood. His father was Norwegian and his mother Swedish. The gray eyes of the soft-spoken engineer light up when he discusses boats he has owned.

Halvorsen prepared the plans for his ketch, tentatively named

"Quest," and went to work on it in an old barn. When it was finished shortly before Thanksgiving, he knocked down a wall of the barn.

A house mover loaded the boat on a truck and drove it to water at a 50-mile-an-hour clip. At a yacht club in Trenton, N. J., a crane picked the ketch up and launched it in the Delaware River, which empties into the ocean.

It will be fitted with a 45-foot mainmast and 35-foot mizzenmast and then begin a shakedown cruise. But even this will be unusual, for Halvorsen, his wife and 10-year-old son expect to spend Christmas with relatives in Puerto Rico.

Next summer, the Halvorsens and two or three neighbors plan to sail for Europe aboard the "Quest."

Halvorsen has been friends for 20 years with Australian Alan Williars, the famous windjammer captain who skipped Mayflower II from England to the United States.

He tried to talk Villiers into joining him in his Atlantic crossing but was turned down.

"He said if it had been a 120-footer, he'd have jumped at the chance, but he wasn't having any crossing a on a 45-footer," Halvorsen recalls with a grin.

Auto Sales Pass Four Million Mark

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automobile Writer

DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry's new car sales have passed the four-million-mark for 1958. By the year's end total retail deliveries should amount to approximately 4 1/2 million units.

In the years immediately preceding and immediately following World War II that would have been considered a good year for the car industry. But for the present year it adds up to what many industry sources are calling a flop.

A major factor in that appraisal is the inclusion in the total of nearly 375,000 imported vehicles. Immediately before and following World War II imported car sales were wholly negligible.

Last year slightly more than 5,000,000 new cars were sold in the United States. Only 206,000 of that total were foreign-built vehicles.

It is no secret that new car sales in the new model year so far have fallen below anticipation. Industry sources generally attribute this to depleted inventories and the inability, because of work stoppages, of the industry to get production into full swing.

But dealer stocks are being built up. Most dealers now have on hand all the competitive models that were lacking in the first five or six weeks of the new model year. If the demand for new cars really exists, it should make itself felt before the year-end.

Automotive News, commenting on the new car market, said recently:

"Some observers believe no true test of the '49s' sales appeal can come until early next year. However, if the 1959 total is to attain the popular estimate of 5 1/2 million domestic units, a sharp sales upswing cannot be long delayed."

Southern Accent Deeply Rooted

When Democrats get together there are apt to be a few sparks flying about, and when top leaders gathered in Washington toward week's end to map out plans for the 1960 campaign, including a time and place for the national convention—sure enough, sparks flew.

California's national committeeman, Paul Ziffren, told a news conference that Richard Nixon, a fellow-Californian, was an able, formidable foe and the man to watch above all others.

Then he added that his Democratic Party "will have a tremendous handicap if it is going to have a dominant Southern accent."

That tore it. Georgia's national committeeman, Mrs. T. K. Kendrick, told of Ziffren's remark, snapped: "That's his opinion." Then she added: "It would be unfair to my section to write off the South. I'm a loyal Southerner from start to finish and from Georgia, which has never been out of the Democratic column. This country is too great to let any one section take charge."

Ziffren and other California leaders are excusably feeling their oats, in view of the mighty Democratic victory in the Golden State.

But a little more modesty would be becoming before the California delegation tries to dictate party policy on a national scale; it needs a little more seasoning in the Democratic tradition.

For it was not the genius of Democratic leaders who delivered California to the party. They got it on a silver platter, thanks to the muddled-headed squabbling on the part of Republican leaders. But for the ambition of Bill Knowland to become governor of California as a stepping-stone to the Republican presidential nomination, and his shoudering aside of Goodwin Knight, it does not follow that there would have been a Democratic sweep in California, or even a Democratic marginal victory. Knowland and his advocacy of the right to work law in an industrial state brought organized labor into the campaign on an unprecedented scale, and the rest is political history. Knowland, Knight and most other Republican candidates went down the same drain.

Before he starts reading Southern Democrats out of the party, Ziffren should get his head out of the clouds.

There are twenty-two Democratic senators from the eleven Southern states or eight or ten more from border states for a total of 30 to 32, or one-third of the current total membership, and a clear majority of the Democratic strength. The same situation is found in the House, and in House and Senate Southerners hold all the key committee chairmanships. It would be unwise, not to mention impractical, for Mr. Ziffren to ignore the Southern accent in party affairs. Newcomers and upstarts have tried it before.

Hospital Stays Grow Shorter

Few of our older citizens were born in hospitals. Indeed, not many were born there as recently as twenty years ago, for there has been a quadrupling of such births since 1937 and last year 95 per cent of the four million babies born in this country were hospital-born.

Compared to the old days, when childbirth meant ten days to two weeks in bed for most mothers, modern practice is to get them up and about within three or four days. The same expeditious handling applies as well to surgical patients.

Indeed, the widespread use of antibiotics and other drugs in the treatment of infections has reduced the average time in hospital from 37.4 days in 1937 to 21.0 days last year, a reduction of 44 per cent. And that included all types of patients, in psychiatric and tuberculosis hospitals along with the others. For general hospitals alone, the drop in average in-hospital time was from 12.6 days in 1937 down to 8.9 days in 1957.

These figures were rounded up by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who also found that hospital admittances in this country increased from 9.25 million in 1937 to approximately 23 million in 1957.

Being able to take care of this enormous increase was made possible, the study shows, by two factors: through increased hospital bed capacity and by marked reduction in the average length of stay per patient.

Finally, the survey observes: "Hospitals are not only increasingly serving as the focal point of medical practice and as the center for community health education, but they are also contributing more and more to the advancement of medical knowledge through research activities. Our hospitals have been a significant force in raising the level of medical care in our country to a remarkably high level, and the outlook is that they will play an even more important role in the years ahead."

Nevertheless, the demand for hospital beds is such that many communities, including our own especially, must struggle continually to keep up with community needs. In spite of expansion after expansion in facilities every growing community is hard put to it to meet its obligations to the ailing public.

But the stork plays an important role in this demand. Every sixth applicant for accommodations is an expectant mother.

Wonder World Of Credit Cards

"You, too, can feel like a millionaire."
That's the unwritten invitation extended to Americans with good credit ratings by the Diners' Club, American Express Co., and most recently the Hilton-Stalder hotel chain with its Carte Blanche.

To obtain this millionaire feeling, you fill out an application, which is checked with credit agencies in your city. If you pass, then you can sign tabs in restaurants, hotels, florists, gift shops, travel agencies, and numerous retail stores. You can rent an automobile, a secretary, or a dictating machine on the cuff. You can charge telegrams, cables and automobile parts.

This is the American business man's answer to income-tax accounting. The business man who travels around the country can sign for what he spends and then have a written record, a consolidated, itemized bill of his expenditures: Proof to Uncle Sam and his company that the money was spent. To some companies, therefore, it's a convenience.

But not to all. Jerrald Electronics, of Philadelphia, eliminated charge cards for most of its personnel because of double bookkeeping. First, the company checked the weekly expense accounts. Then, when the bills came in, it checked those against the expense sheets. Furthermore, Jerrald's comptroller noted that expenses have a tendency to rise when people don't use money.

And abuses are possible. One restaurant owner reluctantly confesses that, to accommodate a good customer, he'll advance $20 or $30 in cash and put it on the tab. How is the company auditor to know the item wasn't a food outlet?

Diner's Club has been in this charge-it business for more than eight years and has absorbed other credit-card systems including the Sheraton Hotel operation. It estimates 1959 charges at $140,000,000, based on new members and newly-signed up hotels, restaurants, stores, travel agents, etc.

American Express has three important assets in the contest for business-on-the-cuff—travel agents all over the world, long-established contacts with hotels, the traveler's check business, which has made its name a by-word in travel and commerce. Heretofore, travelers have bought traveler's checks and paid a fee for the privilege of carrying their own money (about $300,000,000) around with them. Now Amex will grant credit without getting the cash first.

In theory, the credit card offers unlimited credit. In practice, the Diners' Club has relied on the good sense of the American business man not to overrate his own company's tolerance or his own finances. Diners' puts no limit on the expenditure. American Express expects the seller or hotel to check over certain sums.

The credit-card business is banking with a difference. The borrower doesn't submit a financial or earnings statement, or put up collateral. A good credit record—prompt payment of bills in the past—is his bond. And the borrower pays no interest.

Restaurants pay 7 per cent for the privilege of allowing Diners' Club members to sign a tab; hotels less; travel agents less. The American Express uses a sliding scale—the bigger the sales (and credits) the lower the percentage.

Justification for these service charges are (1) vendors take no credit risk, (2) they don't have to send out bills, (3) they get their monthly remittance in a one-lump check (with service charges deducted). Therefore, they have no bad debts, no collection problems, no dunned and perhaps offended customers.

None the less, Seattle restaurants are considering imposing a 5 per cent surcharge on customers who offer credit cards. The 7 per cent service charge reduces their gross. Therefore, they have to raise prices to make it up. Why, they ask, should cash customers be required to pay for other people's credit?

James Marlow
Demos Provide No Answer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A highly critical Democratic Advisory Council — of which former President Harry S. Truman and Adlai Stevenson are members — blasts President Eisenhower's conduct of foreign affairs but offers no basic change of its own.

That sums up the long statement issued Sunday night by the council on American goals at home and abroad. It was a lot more explicit about domestic targets than foreign ones.

The council did suggest the Democrats, since they're running Congress, could produce a foreign policy like if Eisenhower fails to please them. The council said:

Congress "has its own constitutional tasks both in devising policy and in wisely exercising the power to grant legal authority for its execution, along with the necessary manpower, material and funds."

But the council is caught in a double irony:

The Democrats, who'll run Congress next two years, have been running it the past four. In that time they did not, as a party, produce any foreign policy basically different from Eisenhower's.

They'd be in an embarrassing position if they did.

The basic policy followed rigidly by Eisenhower since he took office in 1953 — containment of Soviet and Chinese Communists by ring-fencing them with military bases and alliances — was the one laid down and followed by Truman before him.

The council even seemed to say — but not in so many words — that it approves the containment policy and wants no change in that. It said: "We are wholly determined that our country shall carry out solemn commitments to which it is a party."

The only place where the council got specific on foreign policy was in the field of foreign aid. It wants that stepped up.

But on the basic policy — since over the years neither party has thought of something new or different — there's no reason to expect any change in the next two years.

For instance: Last week Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made it clear American policy towards Red China — a policy initiated by Truman — will remain rigidly unchanged for Eisenhower's last two years in office.

The policy toward the Red Chinese — in addition to American military alliances around them — is nonrecognition.

This country under both Democrats and Republicans has refused to recognize the Chinese Communists as the lawful rulers of mainland China, has no formally official dealings with them, and is against United Nations membership for them.

Dulles — and he seemed to be projecting his thought into the indefinite future — said that to recognize the Chinese Reds and welcome them into the family of nations would be to pave the road to American disaster.

This way: The prestige thus given the Communists would increase their influence in Asia where they are bent on eliminating American trade and driving the United States out of the western Pacific.

Since the Soviet and Red Chinese basic foreign policy is also rigid — push and take over where they can, always with the thought of undermining and surrounding the West — no real change on either side is likely, at least soon.

Rabbits Are No Darned Good

LONDON (AP)—A group of public spirited Britons have launched an all-out campaign to persuade people that oryctolagus cuniculus is nothing but a common bun.

Organized as the Rabbit Advisory Council, they hope to establish in the minds of all that rabbits are evil, dirty, cowardly, and thieving, showing little or no restraint in matters of procreation.

The council proposes to introduce this theme into British school lessons and story books. Their ultimate objective is the total extermination of oryctolagus as a costly pest.

As might be expected among a people brought up for generations on child literature of the Peter Rabbit variety, the council is meeting with outraged resistance. Five years ago the rabbit plague myxomatosis, believed to have arrived in England accidentally from France, slaughtered the little animals by the million.

Farmers, estimating their crop losses to rabbit voracity as high as $4 million dollars a year, were encouraged to believe that the British rabbit would become extinct.

On the other hand, hat makers, who rely on rabbit fur to make felt, were far from happy. Butchers, who sell rabbits for food, suffered a loss of profits.

The hopes of the farmers and the fears of the hat makers, it developed, to take into account the rabbit's hardihood and breeding ability. A strain of rabbit developed which was immune to myxomatosis. These immune rabbits proceeded to breed like rabbits.

In many parts of England fields once again are jumping with the little devils. This led to the formation of the Rabbit Advisory Council, and its members' ears are burning. Some typical letters to the newspapers say:

"I have had a toy rabbit since I was eight months old, and no criticism would make me hate it. I don't think mean, evil, or horrid are correct descriptions."

"Let us leave children their few remaining happinesses. May they long cuddle rabbits rather than toy guns."

"The rabbit is not mean, evil, loathsome, or a thief, or dirty, but is perfectly clean, full of courage, and intelligent."

It looks as though the council is in for a long, tough haul.

Teen-Age Star
Dresses Neatly

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There's hope for the younger generation of film actresses, after all. Here's one who scorns blue jeans, slacks and other sloopy attire.

Recently in this space, Richard Arlen fired a blast at the current female stars who dress like slobs in public. Dick would be delighted with Susan Kohner, a bright young talent who is the picture of neatness and glamor wherever you see her.

How did she get that way?

"I guess it was partly my training in school," she said. "I was in a private school where we had a daily inspection to see if our nails were clean, shoes were polished and dresses were neat."

"For another thing, I knew and admired all the great glamor queens of the movies as I was growing up. Stars like Marlene Dietrich and Joan Crawford. They were guests in our home. And I never saw them when they weren't beautifully groomed."

You may wonder how Susan was exposed to this glamor. Her father is the topflight movie agent Paul Kohner. Her mother is Lupita Tovar, star of Mexican and Hollywood films.

Susan came to lunch beautifully attired, though her style was 20 centuries old. She is playing her most impressive role to date, the feminine lead as an Arab princess in "The Big Fisherman."

Papa Kohner is Susan's agent. She said that's both a help and a hindrance.

"It's nice to have an agent who is so enthusiastic," she remarked. "But sometimes his enthusiasm gets a little too big, and I have to temper it somewhat."

Another drawback, she said, can be with producers who have known her since she was an infant and can't get used to the fact that she is a grown-up 21-year-old actress.

Susan has risen through summer stock and TV plays to become an accomplished actress. Her work with Lana Turner in "Imitation of Life" is drawing rave.

And she's neat, too.

If the Republicans deny Nelson Rockefeller the Presidential nomination in 1960, it is my advice to him to pick up his doll bags and go south of the border.

Unfortunately, Mr. Rockefeller has not sought my advice. Nonetheless, it wouldn't surprise me if he isn't running on the wrong ticket, at the wrong time and in the wrong country. As one who has just returned home from South America and who was in Brazil during Mr. Rockefeller's recent visit there, it occurs to me that his Presidential ambitions need not be limited to the U. S. A.

It is my hunch that Mr. R. has it made in Brazil, if he ever cares to seek his political fortunes there. He and Rockefeller funds have accomplished so much quiet work there with nonprofit organizations for economic, technical, agricultural and social development that he enjoys the popularity of Santa Claus plus Danny Kaye. His rural-aid programs alone will deliver the agricultural vote.

And speaking of the agricultural vote, some prominent members of the Broadway-Hollywood axis who bought large tracts of land in Brazil to get away from it all and live the quiet life part of the year have accidentally fallen into a tub of butter.

The extensive acreages owned by Janet Gaynor and her husband, Gilbert Adrian, the Hollywood couturier; Mary Martin and her husband, Richard Halliday; and Cary Grant are within the sphere of influence of Brasilia. When each bought his Brazilian hideaway, the properties were in the real back of beyond.

But a decision to build the new national capital, Brasilia, puts them almost on the doorstep of this exhilarating city-in-the-making. Land values are soaring in all directions in an 18-carat land boom. It's the old story of them as has, gits. To me, Brasilia, a new city rising in the great empty spaces of the biggest nation in South America, is one of the most exciting and admirable projects of the 20th Century. Of course, I am not a Brazilian taxpayer, and I do not have to foot the bill. And, goodness knows, a considerable number of tax-paying Brazilians regard Brasilia as folly.

But if the new capital, about 500 miles inland, can lure the urban Brazilians to colonize their own rich land and if it can initiate a Westward, Ho movement, it will be worth any moneys spent on it. Brazil is a fabulously rich land, but it will never realize its potential until its people are willing to pioneer their own country.

In the meantime, there is much heart-burning among federal employees, legislators, high Army, Navy and Air Force brass and the diplomatic corps at the thought of leaving the enchanting flesh pots of Rio de Janeiro for the most austere atmosphere of Brasilia.

Latins and diplomats are apt to be dedicated to light wines and dancing, of which there is a plethora in Rio. If I were an entrepreneur with a little cash in the kitty, I'd inch into Brasilia pronto and start a plush restaurant and night club — something for the boys that would reconcile officialdom and diplomats to the wilderness.

Come to think of it, as a taxpayer, I, am involved in Brasilia. Uncle Sam will have to build a new Embassy and a chancellery there. Only recently he completed such new buildings in Rio. But I am so enthused about Brasilia that I am willing to ante up my share.

Manning The Bastions For The New Deal

WASHINGTON — Back to the New Deal! That's the new slogan. It assumes that the nation has forgotten all about the catastrophe of the 1930's, when spending was unlimited and yet failed after seven years to reduce the unemployment figure below 9,000,000 in 1939. This was finally remedied only by the outbreak of the war in Europe.

Unsound economics is being advocated again as the battle impends in the next Congress between the "spenders" and the "savers." This is a classification which doesn't follow party lines — there are Democratic ranks in the North. The "savers" get their strength mainly from the South and from some conservative Republicans in the North.

The reminders of the New Deal are becoming more and more evident every day. They are to be found not only in the press releases of some of the "spenders" in Congress but in the legislative program just announced by the "Americans for Democratic Action," which pooh-poos inflationary dangers and promises unbounded prosperity by spending more each year than the government collects in taxes. The ADA, in a lengthy statement sent to all senators and representatives, calls enthusiastically for a "new New Deal."

The nostalgia isn't confined to Congress, either. It seems to have burst forth also from the sacred realm of the Supreme Court. Just after the November election, Justice William O. Douglas, in a speech at the Columbia University Law School in New York City, said:

"There was a time when the intelligentsia flocked to Washington to man the bastions. Those days may come again. At present the bulk of our elite are turning elsewhere for adventure and livelihood. Washington, D. C., and the state capitals get few of the new recruits. This is commonly attributed to the high financial returns in other lines of endeavor. That plays a part, but in my view only a minor one. The real reasons involve intangibles. One is the severe scourge given to the public service in recent years from those who, marching under the banner of Americanism, have hunted down the nonconformist as well as the subversive."

There are numerous other reasons why the climate in the nation's capital that prevailed for example in the 1930's has never quite been restored. One chief task ahead is to recreate the conditions that make a career with government an exciting life."

One wonders who were the members of the intellectual "elite" that were scared away from Washington in recent years and why. Did they have something in their past associations which they were ashamed to reveal? Why would anyone refrain from coming to work in the government — and get "clearance" — if he really had nothing to hide? Such a blanket indictment of the intellectual "elite" seems a little severe. For, while there may have been isolated cases of a guilty conscience, it doesn't seem plausible that it took on the proportions of a mass boycott of government service.

Possibly among the real reasons the "elite" have been reluctant to come back is the fact that the Democratic party has had among its leaders such non-radical individuals as Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Harry Byrd and Speaker Sam Rayburn and forthright John McCormack, floor leader of the House.

It could be that the New Deal "brain trust" of the 1930's have been waiting for a New Dealish President. Some of them tried infiltration in the "modern Republican" wing of the Eisenhower administration and called for "bold and imaginative" ideas, only to be frustrated when the President mentioned a balanced budget or "creeping socialism" or the menace of inflation.

The New Dealers of the 1930's are somewhat older now, though there are no sign they have become too much tainted with "conservatism." Their only hope is for a New Deal type of President, and it will be recalled that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote a letter saying that William O. Douglas, whom he had appointed to the Supreme Court in 1939, might be a good candidate for vice president. This was just before the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1944.

Maybe the time has come to promote Justice Douglas to the front line as a presidential candidate. Certainly so far as political philosophy is concerned, he is the clearest exponent of New Dealism in active service today — and he is only 69 and in the prime of intellectual life. Maybe he is the very man to "recreate the conditions" that made the years of the New Deal an "exciting life" for our intelligentsia. Maybe, if elected, he can "man the bastions" and coax the missing "elite" to come back to Washington.

Woman Suffers Collar Bone, Facial Fractures

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Sadler were still in Big Spring Hospital today with injuries received in a traffic mishap at the corner of 17th and Pennsylvania Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Sadler's injuries were the more serious.

The hospital reported that she sustained a fractured collar bone and a bone fracture of the face. Her husband was only "shaken up" in the accident but was still hospitalized.

The two were in a car which collided with a vehicle driven by Donald White, Ellis Homes. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sadler were taken to the hospital by a Nalley-Pickle ambulance.

Aslo Sunday, Morgan Baker and Jerry Burrow were in an accident at 18th and Scurry. At 3rd and Donley, Floyd McCormick, Sweetwater, and Vernon Atkinson, 310 Jones, collided. Horace Bowden, 1802 Nolan, and Randal Dauden, 204 Mobile, were in collision at 1900 Gregg.

This morning, Oliver Birdco, 811 NW 4th, was in an accident at 4th and Gregg with a car driven by Charles Nance.

Teen-Agers Fined For Having Beer

Six teen-agers drew fines of $15 each in Corporation Court this morning on charges of possession of alcoholic beverages — in their cases, beer—as minors.

The boys along with their parents were in court this morning when the fines were assessed. The six were arrested by police officers in the City Park Saturday but were released a short time later with instructions to appear in court today.

All of them were 16.

Texas Desperado Snared In Dragnet

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A police dragnet yesterday snared a man sought in Texas for kidnaping and hunted here for kidnaping, robbery and rape.

Police were making a house-to-house search for Thomas F. Raisbeck, 24, when two officers caught him on a Las Vegas street.

He is wanted in Houston for kidnaping a pretty school teacher. Las Vegas officers said Raisbeck launched a weekend crime spree in Nevada in which he kidnaped and robbed a gas station attendant, raped a teen-age girl and tried to rape three other women.

He was booked for suspicion of robbery.

Mrs. Betty Jo Martin was kidnaped a week ago in Houston and released six hours later unharmed. Before releasing her, she told police, Raisbeck forced Mrs. Martin to write a $300 check and cash it at a drive-in bank window.

Houston police said Raisbeck's father, Thomas D. Raisbeck, is a member of the Rock Island, Ill., police department. They quoted the father as saying his son is mentally ill.

Las Vegas officers said Raisbeck held up a gas station attendant at Beauty, Nev., early yesterday, robbed him of $100 and made the attendant accompany him to Las Vegas.

Police said these events followed:

After freeing the gas station employe, the holdup man tried to attack a 22-year-old welfare worker after ringing her doorbell. He dragged her from her home but she fled, screaming.

Next he accosted a 35-year-old housewife in a parking lot, threatening to kill her if she refused to submit to him. He left when she told him to go ahead and shoot.

Then he rang the bell of a home where a teen-ager was preparing lunch. He forced her into a bedroom and raped her after gagging a friend of the victim. He robbed the home of $14.

VETERINARIAN SAYS

Shelter Vital To Health Of Calves

By DR. AKIN SIMPSON

In recent years there has been a new trend in the winter housing of calves. Authorities now are recommending that so-called "open-housing" be used instead of the closed type that has been standard for so many years.

The main, and most important features, of "open housing" are that the buildings permit the calves to get plenty of fresh air, but at the same time, they are not exposed to strong winds or drafts. Another important feature is that the pens are kept small so that only a few calves—10 or less—are placed in each one.

This is important for several reasons. For one thing, calves can be kept together in groups about the same age. And in small groups, the farmer can keep a closer watch on individual animals. If he can watch the calves more closely, he is more likely to spot signs of disease in an early stage.

Fewer calves in each pen also mean fewer exposed to disease if one of the animals gets sick. Experiments have shown that calves wintered in this "open housing" are healthier than calves maintained in the conventional closed type housing.

There are some disadvantages to breaking calves up into small groups. It may cause more work. But the additional work wouldn't be enough to offset the advantages. Healthy animals are needed as replacements each year for the older ones which are culled from the herd. So everything done to keep the calves healthy will provide farmers with good replacements for breeding and production stock.

Since winter pens probably haven't been used since the previous spring, it is an ideal time to rid them of infection. They should be well cleaned before the calves are turned into them. That means old straw, hay, and boards should be removed and the floor and walls and equipment scraped and scrubbed with a good disinfecting agent.

A good one is a strong lye solution. It should be mixed at one pound of lye to 15 gallons of boiling water. That is a strong solution, and farmers should take precautions to keep it away from the eyes, face, and hands.

Such a strong solution is necessary to kill the eggs of parasites and germs. Germs or the eggs of parasites can live for long periods in old hay and straw, rotten boards, floors, and walls of pens if they are not exposed to sunlight. The lye solution also will dissolve and help remove dirt which may cover and protect the infectious organisms.

The building used to house the calves should have plenty of windows, especially on the south side, and they should be kept clean so the sunrays can shine through to kill germs and parasites.

Fresh air is important, too. But drafts should be avoided. When there are openings at opposite sides of a building, drafts result. So it is important that the farmer replace any broken window panes and fill up cracks around doors and windows in the building used to house calves.

It isn't nearly so important to keep the calves warm as it is to provide them with housing that is dry, has draft-free ventilation and permits the calves to get plenty of sunshine.

If the weather during the winter isn't too cold, the calves can be kept in small pens outside; the pens can be moved frequently to get away from contamination. Outside pens should provide the calves with shelter from wind and, in warm weather, from the mid-day sun.

Invite you to join the fun at our gala wedding reception for the All-New FORD GALAXIE

Come see the Most Beautiful Wedding of the Year... Thunderbird Elegance is married to the World's Most Beautifully Proportioned Cars

It's the brand-new Ford Galaxie. When you see its straight-line roof, the crisp low lines of its body, and the see-it-all rear window... you'll think it's a six-passenger, Ford-sized Thunderbird!

Just wait until you see the inside! For it's "Thunderbird" here, too. Relax in the foam-padded cushions... and let your feet sink into plush deep-pile carpets. Then put the Galaxie's Thunderbird V-8 through its paces! That's what'll really make you want to tie the knot.

Yet, for all its Thunderbird looks and luxury, the new GALAXIE is priced like a Ford.

See the car that's making all America say, "I do"

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF! IT'S COMPLETELY NEW IN LOW PRICE, TOO!

This is a car you must see... drive... and price for yourself. So come on down. There are six Galaxies to check when you buy... but every mile you drive. Like all Fords, the Galaxie has a finish that never needs wax... a muffler that normally lasts twice as long... and your choice of standard engines that use regular gas. And all engines require oil changes only each 4000 miles.

VA Sells Homes In Open Market

GI homes acquired by Veterans Administration are sold in the same way that houses are usually sold by individuals—through local real estate brokers, Robert W. Sisson, manager of the Lubbock VA regional office, explained today.

Obtained from lenders in connection with claims paid on GI loans, the houses are sold by VA to recover as much of the government's guaranty payment as possible, Sisson said.

Sale of these home may be financed by the government on liberal terms, including low down payments and long repayment periods, Sisson said, and the purchasers need not be veterans.

Contrary to a widely-held belief, the houses are sold at their current market value and not on a "government surplus" basis, Sisson emphasized.

Since the GI home loan program began in 1944, VA has sold 29,868 homes throughout the nation. As of Sept. 30, 1958, VA had 4,642 houses available for sale with 64 located in the region covered by the Lubbock office.

The total throughout the nation represents only two-thirds of one per cent of the 5,159,667 GI home loans guaranteed or insured by VA, Sisson added.
