1 Juror Needed For Gilbert Trial

One more juror was needed to fill the box to try Ralph Gilbert for murder when 11th District Court recessed for lunch today.

The 101st venireman to be examined just left the stand—excused from duty by the defense which used up its 15th and final preemptory challenge.

The four new jurors are: James F. Hollis, Cosden employee; Earl Wilson, contractor; O. O. Craig, Cosden official; and Morral Jackson, employee of an oil field mudservice company.

Other jurors previously accepted are: Charles Clark, Al R. Bagwell, J. W. Garrison, Bob Rogers, H. W. Cook, Raymond E. Neill and J. A. Sutherland. Neill, a carpenter, and Sutherland, a Texas Company employee, were accepted at the Tuesday afternoon session.

It was anticipated that a jury would be qualified by midafternoon and there was general belief that the 22 veniremen left in the hall waiting examination would be sufficient to fill the box.

Now that the defense has exhausted its preemptory challenges, it has no weapon to remove veniremen which are acceptable to the state and not acceptable to the defense. The state still has eight preemptory challenges it may exercise if it chooses.

Bob West, investigator for Gil Jones, district attorney, was rounding up state witnesses at noon but there was an impression, if the final juror is not chosen until late afternoon, no testimony in the trial proper will be heard until Thursday morning. The actual plan of the case will be dependent on the time still needed to place the 12th and final juror in the box.

U.S. Needs A Poet; Frost Volunteers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take it from Robert Frost: what America needs is Robert Frost. It's got him, in a sense: he's a highly eminent poet, a salty genial old (84) New Englander from San Francisco, and for seven months he has been "consultant in poetry in English to the Library of Congress."

All this and four Pulitzer prizes are not enough for Frost. "I want to be consulted on everything," he told a news conference Tuesday.

He said the White House has consulted him (on poetry only, though) and the Supreme Court has, too (about what he didn't say) and of the three branches of government only Congress has deprived itself of his counsel. "I don't want to run for office," he said, "but I want to be a statesman."

And he broadly hinted that if some senator wanted to retire and

Ike Slaps Refusal To Bare Records At Rights Hearing

President Scores Alabama Defiance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today called it reprehensible for public officials to refuse to produce evidence about Negro voter registration. At a news conference the President dealt specifically with such defiance in Alabama and also with defiance of the law generally. Eisenhower was asked for comment on the refusal by Alabama public officials to supply Negro voter registration data to the federal Civil Rights Commission. In the light of that development, the commission Tuesday started legal action to compel the officials to produce such data. The President remarked that he doesn't feel very well about the defiance in Alabama. He said he picked the commission very carefully, making sure that some Southerners were included on it. It is a rather sad sort of thing, Eisenhower went on, when such defiance develops. He said all around the country we are running into refusals to comply with the basic laws of the land that have been upheld as being legal and proper. And that, he said, is a reprehensible kind of thing. The President sounded a new appeal for respect for the law. He said there should be no interference with the right of free men to vote.

Message Makes Little Impression

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today that the United States and its Allies have a right and duty to protect the freedom of West Berlin and they do not intend to abandon the city or its people. The President told his news conference he failed to find anything particularly new in the latest suggestions about the Berlin situation from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) relayed the Khrushchev ideas to Eisenhower. The President declined to discuss them in detail, but it was learned elsewhere that Khrushchev mainly said he would welcome constructive suggestions from the West for ending Berlin's occupation. On another aspect of Humphrey's eight-hour talk with Khrushchev, on which Eisenhower received a first-hand report from the senator Tuesday, Eisenhower confirmed that Khrushchev had claimed a compact, five-megaton nuclear bomb and an 8,700-mile missile.

Economic Rivalry

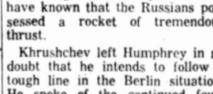

His major emphasis, in line with standard Soviet propaganda, was on economic rivalry. It was in this field that he reportedly boasted that the Soviet would eventually get the best of Western nations, including the United States. Officials said it appeared that Khrushchev did not present his weapons information for the immediate purpose of threatening or trying to scare the United States but rather to stress the adequacy of Russia's arsenal for a military showdown. He has assumed that the Soviet armed forces had the atomic and hydrogen bombs and warheads needed to strike a massive blow against this country or any other country in the event of war. And since last May 15 when the Soviets put Sputnik III into orbit at a weight of 2,919 pounds they have known that the Russians possessed a rocket of tremendous thrust. Khrushchev left Humphrey in no doubt that he intends to follow a tough line in the Berlin situation. He spoke of the continued four-month occupation of Berlin as a "cancer" but at the same time said he would be glad to consider any constructive suggestions from the Western Powers toward a Berlin solution. As a result of Humphrey's report, some authorities feel there may be a good chance of success at Geneva in working out a proposed agreement with Russia to ban nuclear tests, but the prospects for agreement in other talks there on measures to control surprise attack are regarded as very dim.

Barnes Opens Final Drive For Office Of Governor

Four representatives from the senior Hi-Y Club left today for Austin to set up headquarters for the final drive they hope will put Buddy Barnes of Big Spring in the governor's chair. Barnes is the West Texas district nominee for the top spot in the annual Youth-in-Government project of the YMCA. He is the first Hi-Y representative from Big Spring to be in the race for this spot, although one year Big Spring named the lieutenant governor, Robert Angert. Armed with two life-size posters, a big banner and an adequate supply of candidate cards, Bill French, James Howard Stephens and Eddie Kenney accompanied Buddy to Austin today. They will set up shop at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel, although their campaign plans also include displays in the Driskill. Outcome of their bid will be known after the first session of the youth legislature Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the state capitol. A dozen other members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs will leave Thursday morning for Austin, besides joining in the final drive for votes for Buddy, they also will be ready to toss their proposed bills into the legislative hopper Friday. With the group will be half a dozen sponsors.

Religious Cult Bombed; 5 Die, 4 Are Missing

CHATHSWORTH, Calif. (AP)—A bomb demolished the main building of a religious cult in a mountain canyon today. Five persons were killed and four are missing and believed dead.

Among those missing is Krishna Venta, bearded, barefoot mystic and founder of the cult.

A demolition expert from the Los Angeles police department said a bomb wrecked the sprawling building and touched off a raging fire. The five bodies recovered were burned beyond recognition.

Investigators learned that a stranger carrying a large suitcase was seen in a violent argument with Venta shortly before 2 a.m. Twenty minutes after the stranger left a tremendous explosion blew the building apart.

More than 30 persons were sleeping in the building at the time, 14 of them children. An 8-year-old girl is among those reported missing.

The remote canyon retreat, which is tucked away in mountains at the head of the San Fernando Valley, is about 30 miles from Los Angeles.

Venta, a former San Francisco shipyard worker, founded the cult about 10 years ago. He called himself a Messiah and attracted a following of about 100 men, women and children. The group practiced communal living and promised a home to "all who want to live the Ten Commandments, regardless of race or creed."

Optimist Club Adds Cheer

The Optimist Club—an organization dedicated to working with boys and with underprivileged persons—recognized the need of poor children at Christmas, and has sent in $25 to the Cheer Fund. Another gift today was for $5, from Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rainbolt. With gifts of $265.50 previously acknowledged, this brings the fund's total today to $295.50.

Far more is needed, if all destitute families in the city are to share in Christmas happiness. Good toys for the youngsters and good food for all in need—this is the aim of the fund. Won't you help? Just send your check to CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, care of The Herald, or hand your children to any city fireman.

Last Meeting Of GOC Held

The phase-out meeting of the Ground Observer Corps of Civil Defense was held Tuesday night in the police building.

S. Sgt. Buck Buchalter, sector sergeant of the Air Defense Command, explained that the reason for disbanding the Corps is speed of aircraft which makes visual reporting obsolete. The SAGE System, an extremely fast calculating and reporting device will be used henceforth. W. D. Berry, city-county Civil Defense Coordinator, addressed the meeting and expressed his appreciation for the service of volunteers. Several signed up for other slots in the C.D. system. R. R. Black, supervisor of the GOC, assisted Buchalter in awarding GOC wings to the members.

Receiving this award were Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wise, J. V. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Andrews, Ronnie Anderson, Norman Arnold, Larry Batterson, Herman Hodges, Randy Cole, Max Moore, Don Byrum, Mike Maus, Warren Scholte, Bobby Wise, Mack Green, who won his wings earlier, was introduced. Members who could not be present will be presented wings later. The GOC will be de-activated on Jan. 31.

Explosive New Test Of Power Evolves In Alabama Battle

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An explosive new test of strength between the state and federal governments—unequaled since Little Rock—boiled up in Alabama today over the issue of Negro voting.

State and county officials who defied the U. S. Civil Rights Commission's first attempt to investigate complaints of racial discrimination stood their ground in the face of threatened federal court action.

The Justice Department in Washington, acting at the commission's request, started proceedings Tuesday to ask for a court order to compel voter registration officials to produce their records and answer questions about the conduct of their offices.

U.S. District Atty. Hartwell Davis in Montgomery said a short time later his office was "working on" a petition to be filed with District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. but declined to say when the action might be taken.

Refusal to obey a federal court order, if Johnson issues one, could bring jail sentences for contempt.

In the two-day hearing, which came to an abrupt halt Tuesday, six voter registrars refused to be

Zoning, Annexation Occupy Commission

Zoning and annexation matters occupied most of the time at the regular City Commission meeting Tuesday night.

The commission passed the second reading of an annexation ordinance, deferred action on another, approved two plats, authorized changing zoning in two areas, and reappointed one man to the zoning commission.

Commissioners deferred action on a request for annexing land west of the Douglass Addition and the Old San Angelo highway. The commission has already given its tentative approval to the annexation but decided to wait before taking it into the city limits.

The second of four readings on an ordinance bringing in property on the southeastern side of town south of FM 700 was read. In the same area, the commission approved a plat of land for Worth Peeler. It is outside the city limits and Peeler said he has no plans to bring it into the city at the present time.

E. C. Smith had a plat of land—south of the newly annexed Douglass Addition—which the commission approved. Smith said it would tie into existing roads as well as could be worked out. He would consider asking to have part of it brought into the city at a later time, he indicated.

In the nearby Douglass Addition, the zoning commission at a public hearing last week tentatively approved changing the two northmost blocks in the addition from A (one-party residence) zone to E (community business) which the City Commission sanctioned. Ordinances must be drawn up, however, in changing any zones.

Another change which was approved by the zoning board was favored by the commissioners, that of changing property east of the Snyder highway. The area is now classified B (two-party residence) and it will be changed to G (an industrial district).

4-Day Holiday Set For City

City employees will have a Christmas holiday extending from Wednesday noon to Monday morning.

The commission Tuesday night authorized closing on Friday, the day after Christmas, in addition to regular time given. The city annually closes at noon on Christmas Eve, which this year is Wednesday, and since the City Hall is closed on Saturdays, the commission elected to make the holiday complete by giving the employees Friday off.

Commissioner George Zachariah said that very little business would be transacted on the day after Christmas, and it would give the city employees a chance to enjoy the holidays more.

Ward Hall added, however, that he did not like to see any business closed five days straight. The holiday will actually be 4 1/2 days.

Thieves Greet Visiting Cagers

Ranger Junior College, here for a basketball game with HCJC Tuesday night, lost more than the ball game; two members of the squad lost suitcases filled with clothing while the game was in progress.

Robert Pope and Butch Lusby lost their clothing and suitcases from a car parked on the north side of the HCJC gym, where the game was played. Pope reported that the suitcase contained a pair of trousers, two sweaters, two playing jerseys, and a suit. Lusby lost a shirt, two pairs of trousers, two playing jerseys, and an electric razor, in addition to the suitcase.

Cold Weather Tightens Grip

The season's longest spell of cold weather tightened its icy grip on the eastern half of the nation today.

There was one warm, welcome relief appeared in sight for the zero-stricken areas of the northern Midwest and North Central region. But the Arctic air clung to the Midwest as it spread eastward to the Atlantic Coast and sent a mass of frosty air deep into the southland.

Navy Tanker Hits Homes, 6 Killed

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A crippled Navy tanker plane loaded with tons of fuel went out of control just short of its home airstrip here Tuesday and plowed with a flaming roar through two homes. The four crewmen and two infants in one of the homes perished.

The twin-engine North American AJ2, just seconds away from the runway at the Norfolk Naval Air Station, clipped tree tops and the roof of a house and sheared through a trailer truck before it smashed into the two homes.

The Navy said preliminary investigation indicated the pilot tried to wreck in a swamp near the two homes.

James H. Miller, who works at the air station, said:

"I saw the plane when it was at least a half a mile away. At that time it was between 150 and 250 feet high and making a normal approach...I noticed as it came closer that the degree of bank of the wings became greater.

"Before the degree reached 90 degrees, I knew a crash was imminent. The plane was not smoking and the engine didn't sputter."

One of the two homes smashed by the plane was unoccupied. In the other were Mrs. Joseph E. Tondora, wife of a Navy lieutenant, and two children, Joseph Jr., 14 months, and Michalene, two weeks old. Barbara, 10, was in school.

The nose section of the tanker ripped into the Tondora home, the

DEAR ABBY

LINGUIST AT EIGHT

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our grandson is the smartest eight-year-old anybody has ever seen but the dirty words he uses would simply knock your hat off! We thought at first he didn't know what he was saying, but he uses all the words in the right places and it's a shame for one and all to hear. My husband refuses to let the child in our house and this is causing a big problem because we love our son and his wife dearly. We love our grandson, too, but my husband feels we must teach him a lesson. The child's parents say he picked it up at school and they were advised by their pediatrician to ignore it. Are they right or is it my husband?

NANA: Your husband should do a little growing up himself and ignore this scheme to get attention. The child is simply using those words because he enjoys the excitement it creates. When he discovers he can no longer shock and upset his listeners, he'll give up.

DEAR ABBY: My mother passed away three months ago after a lingering illness. I know it will

Skies Cloudy Over Texas

By The Associated Press

Skies were cloudy over nearly all of Texas Wednesday with fog and drizzle blanketing the lower coast.

Chill weather from the recent norther hung on. Predawn temperatures Wednesday ranged from 17 degrees at Dalhart to 58 at Brownsville.

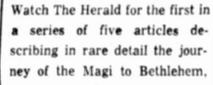

Fort Worth had 32 degrees with a light drizzle. Mineral Wells had 31, Abilene 29, Midland 24, Wink 27, Lubbock 18, Amarillo 19, Childress 19, Wichita Falls 27, Texarkana 30.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and have been dating since I was 12. I just started going steady with a real dreamy guy. He is 16 and a real doll. On our second date I let him kiss me and, Abby, this fellow doesn't know how to kiss! I can't come right out and tell him that he doesn't know how to kiss a girl can I? What do you think I should do? Pretend I don't know how to kiss either or tell him he could use a few lessons?

DISAPPOINTED: Don't tell this boy that he needs kissing lessons unless you want to tell him where you got all your experience. Take your time and be patient. You'll be amazed how quickly he'll learn.

'MYSTERY FARM'

Parmenter Place Is Ideally Situated For Access, Utilities

Ideally situated from the standpoint of utilities and access is the C. W. Parmenter farm, eight miles west of Big Spring.

The property was last week's Mystery Farm. The place consists of 320 acres, a modern home, barn, chicken house and storage building.

The Rev. Parmenter, retired Methodist minister, purchased the place from Raymond Hamby in September, 1956.

The farm is served by both Texas Electric Service Co. and the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative. It also is on the lines of the West Texas Telephone Cooperative, and receives its water from the Big Spring-to-Odessa pipeline of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The Parmenter place is located on the Hartwells road, between U.S. 80 and State 97 (the Andrews Highway).

Now residing in the farm home is James Grizzard, civilian employe at Webb AFB. James' brother, Charles Grizzard, also a Webb employe, lives in a trailer house on the place.

The farm has 147 acres in cultivation, of which 60 acres of cotton is farmed by J. B. Murphy. The other 87 acres is in the soil bank and the Rev. Parmenter has it planted in sorghum and alfalfa.

Grassland is being "rested" for a few years, to return it to full production.

The Rev. Parmenter retired last June, after serving as pastor of the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church here for four years. He came to Big Spring from McLean, and has served as pastor of numerous West Texas churches during his ministry. He earned a reputation as a church builder during his many years as a pastor, and led in an enlargement program for the Wesley church during his tenure here.

The Rev. and Mrs. Parmenter reside at 504 Birdwell in Big Spring. Their son followed in his father's footsteps and is now pastor of the First Methodist Church in Fleming, Colo., of the Rocky Mountain Methodist Conference. He is the Rev. Henry Parmenter.

Retirement hasn't meant idleness to the Rev. C. W. Parmenter. He has remained active in Boy Scout work and the Evening Lions Club, and is one of the most active members of the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church where the Rev. Royce Womack is now pastor.

He and Mrs. Parmenter also look after farms they own in Throckmorton and Young counties.

Martin Against Liberal Plans On Rules Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts indicated today he would resist efforts of a self-styled liberal bloc to curb the power of the House Rules Committee.

In an interview from his home in North Attleboro, Martin predicted that the new Congress will keep the present ratio of 8 Democrats and 4 Republicans on the potent rules group. He said he expects no change despite heavy Democratic gains in the November election.

Martin said there has been "an understanding" between the Republican and the Democratic House leadership that the 8-4 lineup would not be altered.

It was not changed when Republicans were in control of the House in the 80th and the 83rd Congresses, although the Republicans, of course, then had 8 members to the Democrats' 4.

The Rules Committee normally determines what legislation the House may consider. It has shelved many major bills approved by other House committees.

The committee is headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) who, with Rep. William Colmer (D-Miss) and the four Republican members, has been able to sidetrack bills backed by more liberal groups.

About 90 House Democrats who describe themselves as the liberal bloc would like to see the committee lineup changed to 9 Democrats and 3 Republicans, which would weaken the coalition's stranglehold on legislation.

They also are advocating a limit of 14 or 21 days on the time allowed for the committee to act on bills. Present rules give the committee unlimited delaying powers.

Martin wouldn't express himself on the time-limit proposal pending consultation with other Republicans.

However, Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, Republican whip, predicted it would be defeated.

So did Democratic Whip Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

Wilson Begins Mass Drive On Loan Firms

Two Big Spring loan companies are named in injunction petitions lodged in 118th District Court Wednesday. They are alleged to have violated the state laws on usury—charging interest rates on loans in excess of the 10 per cent maximum established by law.

The two suits are among 259 filed in 50 Texas cities today by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

The petitions filed here name the First Finance Co., 105 E. 2nd, in one suit and the Finance Service Co., 305 Main, in the second.

The case against the First Finance Co., also named Mitchell Investment Corp., identified as a Dallas corporation; Fenn Management Co. and Mrs. John R. Fenn, San Angelo, as defendants.

Amicable Discount Corp., Dallas, and The Fenn Management Corp., and Mrs. Fenn are designated as codefendants in the case against Finance Service Co. Jesse Edward Duggan, Jr., San Angelo, is named as the owner of the two Big Spring establishments.

The state alleges that the defendants have a plan which is designed to evade the state laws dealing with maximum interest rates which may be charged for loans identified as the "brokerage fee" system.

In the petitions, which are identical in each suit, the state cites that a borrower who borrows $15 from one of the defendant companies contracts to pay $3.40 interest for one month's use of the money. It is alleged that 30 cents of this is called "broker's discount" and that the remainder is identified as broker's fees.

In the suits, the Fenn interests are classified as the management company, and the local agencies, which the state alleges are owned by Duggan, are listed as "purported lenders."

The state asks the court to enjoin the defendant companies from further operation of the loan plan they are alleged to now employ.

In San Antonio, 89 loan firms had unexpected seizures as 37 assistant attorneys general swept down upon them to review all available records and files.

Wilson said the 217 injunction suits filed today and the mass violation that Texas has ever made on alleged loan sharks. All the action was synchronized from 9 to 11 a.m.

He predicted the mass drive, a continuation of a series of usury suits filed as early as Aug. 1, would result in a clarification of Texas' confusing loan shark laws by the courts and the Legislature.

"These suits are filed against what we call the high-raters, or loan firms that under the so-called brokerage plan charge interest rates of from 100 to 300 per cent," Wilson said.

Under the brokerage plan a borrower pays one individual or firm a fee for obtaining the loan from a second firm or individual, plus interest and other service charges, Wilson said.

He estimated that the 225 injunction suits filed today involved about ten million dollars in loans to about 200,000 borrowers.

Most of the suits ask only that the defendants—loan companies, their operators and financial backers—be enjoined from charging usurious rates of interest in making loans. The suits do not ask that the firms be put out of business.

Showgirls Disgusted

JEZEBEL'S PLOT TRACED

'Pay Day Inevitable' In God's Constitution For Universe

By JOE PICKLE

Pay day someday is part of the constitution of God's universe and man cannot avoid its inevitability, Dr. R. G. Lee, Memphis, Tenn., said at the First Methodist Church here Tuesday evening.

Dr. Lee, presented by the Big Spring Pastors Assn., delivered his famous sermon, "Pay Day—Someday," to a crowd that virtually filled the big sanctuary.

"I introduce Naboth," he said, in his first words from the pulpit, and for an hour and five minutes he held the congregation in almost perfect silence.

"The wheels of God's justice sometimes move slowly but they move inexorably," he declared in tracing the dramatic account of how Ahab, the wicked king of Israel, had acquired in the diabolical murder of Naboth, engineered by Ahab's even more wicked wife, Jezebel.

God dealt in three years with Ahab, Dr. Lee pointed out, but He took 20 years to bring to pass His inevitable judgment upon Jezebel.

With silver-tongued eloquence of the old school, the venerable pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, Tenn., largest congregation east of the Mississippi, divided the story into scenes. One of them was the "scouting potentate," whom he compared to contemporaries who are not satisfied with all God's blessings but misuse them in lust for something more.

Another was the wicked woman, to whom Dr. Lee tied the trend of a nation.

"Let the morality of women decline and the morality of a community, state and nation will go with it," he said. "Let womanhood be noble and chaste and a nation will be godly."

In the account Dr. Lee found a lesson to young people, as well as those of other ages.

"I wish young people would listen to me," he pleaded. "The Devil always pays off in counterfeit money. People come into my study to tell me in anguish things I would die before I would repeat—all because they know that it already has come."

In his sermon, delivered with animation and a touch of drama, Dr. Lee balanced the whole of his message against the appearance of God's prophet, Elijah. This was but for a fleeting moment when he confronted Ahab in Naboth's vineyard, but the whole of the story turned upon it.

"But it was God's judgment, and God did it," said Dr. Lee.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, presided.

Wayne Nance, First Baptist minister of music and education, led the singing with Mrs. H. M. Jarratt as accompanist.

Mrs. Hank Shick Dies Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Shick, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Granville Dawson of Midland, will leave early Thursday for Weatherford and the funeral of his sister-in-law.

Mrs. Lottie Shick, wife of Hank Shick, died in Weatherford Tuesday. Besides her husband, she leaves a nephew and niece, whom they reared, Sue Gilliland, Weatherford, and J. H. Gilliland, Seattle, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Shick lived here years ago. He was a building contractor and erected some of the larger early-day homes in Big Spring.

Church Men Told Of Need For Wills

Dr. Hubert Hopper, Dallas, emphasized the importance of wills to men of the Church at the First Presbyterian Church here Tuesday evening.

Dr. Hopper, executive secretary of the Presbyterian Foundation for the past five years, gave encouragement and progress. He said the Wynn family in Dallas had given about $2 million to the foundation and that a young Houston developer had given an entire development in that city which might return the foundation a couple of million or more. In addition, there had been numerous other gifts. The foundation also is administering many wills and helping plan estates, annuities, etc.

"Every man ought to make a will," said Hopper. The will should first of all provide for the dependents of the individual. Then it should make disposition of personal things to avoid possibility of misunderstanding among the heirs, he said. Finally, he recommended that it include something for the individual's church.

Accompanying Hopper here was Bill Gilmore, Midland, member of the foundation's board of trustees. Mrs. Jack Ware sang a Christmas lullaby for the group of men from the First Presbyterian, St. Paul Presbyterian and the Coahoma Presbyterian.

Installed as new president of the men's organization was H. C. Stipp, succeeding Owen Gee. Others taking office were Dr. Preston Harrison, vice president; and Don Farley, secretary.

Marvin Miller's Father Dies, Services Today

Funeral for O. F. Miller, 83, pioneer oilman and father of Marvin M. Miller, was to be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in El Cerrito, Calif.

Mr. Miller died late Monday after a long illness. Marvin Miller, who had been with him in May when the elder Mr. Miller underwent surgery for cancer, was reached in South Texas too late to make connections in time, and thus was unable to attend the funeral.

O. F. Miller, who once lived briefly in Big Spring, was born July 31, 1875, in Lima, Ohio, and worked for the Ohio Co. in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois before turning southwestward to the Drumright and Cushing, Okla., booms.

For a time he had production of his own in Kansas but gave it up to get in on the Ranger boom. When this bubble burst, he turned to Menard and moved his family there in 1919. Later he lived at Abilene, then worked for Gulf at Crane and Odessa in 1928-29. Subsequently, he worked all over this area as an independent driller. He retired and moved to California in 1935, and his first wife died there in 1939. When World War II came on, he left retirement to take a job as steam inspector in the Kaiser Shipyards. Still unwilling to let the rocking chair, he entered the real estate business after the war.

Surviving him are his wife, Ruth; five sons, F. D. Miller, formerly of Odessa and now of Venezuela, Marvin Miller, Big Spring; H. E. Miller, Manteca, Calif.; E. H. Miller, Los Angeles, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Jack Kelso, Los Angeles, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. F. E. O'Donnell, Lansing, Mich., and Mrs. W. H. Witter, East Lansing, Mich.; nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Can't Afford 'Good' Attorney, Lawyer Quips

Even poker-faced Ralph Gilbert grinned Tuesday at a wry statement of Harvey Hooser Jr., one of his attorneys in his trial for murder.

Hooser, examining a prospective juror to try to young San Angelonian for the slaying of Clayton Stewart, 87, rancher, remarked:

"R. H. Weaver and myself, you understand, have been appointed by the court to defend this young man.

"You see, he hasn't the money to hire a good lawyer. We hope you won't have any prejudice toward the defense because of this fact."

Gilbert grinned broadly at the sally.

City Starts Adjustment Of Garbage Collection Rates

Continuing its look at outdated garbage collection rates, the City Commission Tuesday night kicked the rates for schools and indicated it would consider rates for businesses at its next meeting.

Acting City Manager Clifton Bellamy showed the commissioners that the schools now pay $1.25 for each elementary school and $3 for junior and senior high schools. This is for daily collections, he said, the year round.

Bellamy said these rates were completely out of reason, in comparison with residential collections. After hearing the report, the commission voted to raise the rates at elementary schools and Lakeview School to $12 monthly and $18 for each of the junior and senior high schools. The city has already asked the schools to use regulation cans rather than 55-gallon drums which have been in use.

The city made this request because insurance firms will not allow men to lift the 55-gallon drums.

Bellamy said he was working on other inequities of business garbage collection. The commission agreed that the collection system should be on a self-sustaining basis which is not the case now.

The ordinance which governs garbage rates has been in effect since 1946, and the schools and business rates have not been changed since, Bellamy indicated.

Texas Baptists Set Big Mission Budget

DALLAS (AP)—Texas Baptists have budgeted a record $1,682,433 for state missions in the next year.

The executive board allotted this amount for the program and named Dr. James H. Landes pastor of the First Baptist Church in Wichita Falls, as its chairman yesterday.

Funds for the mission program are $134,000 greater than the amount provided last year.

The biggest single item is $450,000 for stewardship promotion, church building and domestic relations services, and salary supplements for pastors of small rural churches. The budget provides $191,581 for Baptist Student Union work at Texas colleges.

Board members picked Dr. Landes at a quarterly session to succeed Dr. Carl Bates, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Amarillo. Dr. Bates is the new president

This Will Ease The Burden

Roy L. Tubb, right, dispatcher at the local post office, got tired of sorting Christmas cards into in-town, out-of-town, air mail and regular delivery categories. So he fashioned this giant "mailbox" which is being set up on 4th St. just south of the Post office. Formerly, curb patrons dumped all their mail into one box. Tubb's receptacle has slots for the various types of mail, which should help speed the big volume of Christmas mail on its way. Painting the structure is Jess Smith, another member of the postal staff.

Space Capsule Tests Planned

DALLAS (AP)—Suppose your space vehicle runs into trouble thousands of miles above the earth. Will you be able to bail out?

That's what Chance Vought wants to find out Dec. 15. It will test in a specially designed wind tunnel the escape capsule it has designed for the top secret Dyna Soar.

The Dyna Soar is a man-carrying space vehicle designed to zoom out into space and then re-enter the Earth's atmosphere in a long glide. It is being developed by a group of aircraft companies and Chance Vought here has been charged with designing the escape capsule.

The Dec. 15 test will be the first working use of a big wind tunnel costing four million dollars.

In a demonstration for newsmen yesterday it whipped up a breeze of 1,200 miles an hour.

Officials say the tests on the escape capsule will give some answers as to what a space voyager can do about bailing out while within Earth's gravity.

The tunnel can blast the capsule with winds from 380 miles an hour to 3,800 miles an hour.

Chance Vought says it will be used to test models involving other supersonic craft and space projects.

While there is no air in space, vehicles leaving and re-entering Earth's atmosphere will have to contend with the effect of terrific speeds in the gassy envelope enveloping Earth.

H-SU Gets Esso Gift

ABILENE — A $10,000 gift to the Hardin-Simmons University expansion fund by the Esso Education Foundation was announced Tuesday morning by H-SU President Evan Allard Reiff.

The announcement of the grant came to the university by both letter and telegram from Eugene Holman, chairman of the boards of the Esso Education Foundation and of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Holman is a 1916 graduate of Hardin-Simmons.

This contribution of the Esso Foundation brings the amount of funds and pledges available for construction of a new chapel to approximately $650,000. The university is expecting to make an announcement soon concerning its construction schedule.

Payoff Seen In Rocketry

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Dr. T. Keith Glennan, America's space chief, predicts a huge payoff for the public from the billions of dollars to be invested in space probes.

Glennan, head of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration, tagged the organization's job as "the business of exploring the solar system."

He forecast a dozen such launchings next year.

He said in a Chamber of Commerce speech this week that weather prediction is an immediate aim of space vehicles. He said satellites could gather more data faster to aid meteorologists.

He also predicted improved communications, using satellites as way stations for long-distance transmissions.

Klevenhagen's Successor Named

HOUSTON (AP)—Eddie Oliver, longtime friend and close fellow worker with the late Johnny Klevenhagen, was appointed this week as head of Ranger Co. A in Houston.

Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, made the appointment.

Klevenhagen, one of the most colorful men ever to wear the Ranger badge, died Nov. 26 of heart disease.

Garrison also appointed James Rogers to replace Oliver as sergeant. Rogers moves here from Lufkin.

Oliver joined the Department of Public Safety in 1937 as a highway patrolman, and transferred to the Rangers in 1942. He was assigned to Co. A, and his close friendship with Klevenhagen began. He was promoted to sergeant in April, 1957.

HC HANGS ON TO WIN OVER RANGER, 74-63

A Ranger Junior College basketball team which refused to roll over and play dead gave the HCJ Jayhawks all they could handle before the locals pulled out a 74-63 victory here Tuesday night.

The win was the fourth of the season against one defeat for Harold Davis' team. Ranger departed here with a 0-2 record.

The Rangers, who are coached by Jim Furyear, never led except in the first four minutes of play but Bobby Sullivan beat a steady rat-tat-tat on the cords that kept them in contention all the way.

HCJ's defense was fairly effective from outside but nothing fell for them under the basket.

Sullivan wound up as the top scorer of the contest, with 24 points. He accumulated six free tosses to go along with nine buckets.

The Hawks, no doubt, would have been beaten had it not been for little Benny Carver, who appears to be hitting his stride after a slow start.

The nimble guard from Bowie combined with Ray Clay and Jesse McCreath to give the Hawks excellent play in the backcourts and emerged as HCJ's top scorer with 20 points.

Benny matched Sullivan field goal for field goal but was offered only four free shots and made good on two of those.

McCreath, enjoying one of his better games, tossed in 14 points for HCJ while Clay had 11. No Ranger player other than Sullivan hit in double figures.

The Hawks built up a 40-25 cushion at half time and it stood them in good stead. The Rangers might have been tougher still had not Don Russell and Wilbur Smith fouled out in the fourth quarter.

that one while Frank Hardesty Jr. had 13 and Gene Smith 10. The games served as a final warmup for the Hawks before the San Antonio Tournament, which takes place this weekend.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring's Wayne Fields was named to the Odessa Bronchos' all-opponent football team last season.

Fields was also singled out as the best ball carrier the Red Hossehs faced while Jerry Rogers of Corpus Christi Ray was designated as the best all-around back, Bobby Lowery of San Angelo the top passer and Frank Aycock of Abilene the outstanding lineman.

Since World War II, pro footballers have increased their take-home pay 300 per cent, according to Bert Bell, the NFL's commissioner.

The first world championship playoff game occurred in 1933 in Chicago and the hometown Bears received $210.34 each as the winner's share. The paid attendance was 17,866.

Last year, 55,263 saw the title game in Detroit and each member of the winning Detroit team earned $4,295.41.

Edward Donovan, who was with the Big Spring professional baseball club for a month in 1954, is taking tests to become a member of the New York City Police Department.

One of the leading dirt track drivers in the country says speed actually is only a small part of the success of a top racing driver. "It's getting around the corners that really counts," he explained. "When you see the inside front wheel raise up off the track on the curves, that means both rear wheels are getting a bite. If not, you'll spin and get lost."

BY SHELDON SAKOWITZ Associated Press Sports Writer

There seems to be no stopping the West Virginia Mountaineers as they continue their domination of the Southern Conference.

West Virginia won 26 of its 28 starts last season to compile the best won-lost record among major college basketball teams. The Mountaineers won 12 straight conference games, captured their league's tournament championship and wound up as the nation's top-ranked team in the final Associated Press poll.

The lads of Coach Fred Schaus romped over The Citadel 99-61 last night for their fourth consecutive victory. It was the Mountaineers' third conference success and 39th in a row over a span of four seasons.

West Virginia, ranked No. 4 in the first weekly poll, has won the Southern Conference, tourney for the past four years. Last season the club bowed to Manhattan in the Eastern regional of the National College championships.

Only two other members of the top 10 teams saw action last night. North Carolina State, No. 5, edged Clemson 56-54 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game and sixth-ranked Tennessee whipped Wake Forest 61-50 in a non-league affair.

West Virginia, which also has defeated Furman, VMI and Penn State this season, displayed its best brand of ball in outclassing The Citadel. The Mountaineers opened up a 12-point gap early in the second half and coasted the rest of the way.

The Citadel, regarded as a possible threat to WVU's conference stranglehold, was stymied by the Mountaineers' pressing defense and went without a field goal for five minutes in the second half.

Bob Clouston, a 6-6 center who has to fill the shoes of the graduated Lloyd Sharrar, found the range for 19 points to spark the West Virginia attack. Junior Jerry West, the Mountaineers' sharpshooting forward, was held to 11 points.

Don Englehardt's 15-foot jump shot with eight seconds left gave North Carolina State its narrow verdict over Clemson. The Wolf-pack came from behind to post its fourth triumph, scoring eight consecutive points in the final minutes as Clemson ran out of gas after leading 54-48.

After Lou Pucillo tied the game with two minutes left, Clemson's Walt Gibbons missed a 1-and-1 free throw attempt with a minute to go. N.C. State froze the ball and set the stage for Englehardt's winning basket.

Tennessee, the Kent State Invitational Tournament winner last weekend, extended its victory skein to four at the expense of Wake Forest. The Volunteers broke the game wide open with a spurt in the last seven minutes, outscoring Wake Forest 17-6 after the teams had been tied at 44-44.

Ken Upton was Tennessee's high man with 18 points but 6-8 Gene Tornohlen came off the bench to provide the scoring impetus in the late drive.

The Eagles, who now have a 5-2 won-lost record, led at the end of every period, although their margin was only one point at half time.

Royale Lewis and Benny Kunkel were hottest around the basket for Ackerly. Lewis tossed 19 points and Kunkel 13 for the Eagles. Jerry Bardwell, Charles Skeen and George White kept Forsan in the game with big efforts. White had 11 points while Sheen and Bardwell counted ten each.

KO Appears Likely In Montreal Bout

BY MURRAY ROSE

MONTREAL (AP)—Jack Sharkey will referee the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle light heavyweight title fight tonight and the general feeling here is that his main job will be to count ten.

There is hardly a soul in this zero weather French-Canadian metropolis who believes it will end in anything but a knockout.

Archie, making the seventh defense of his 175-pound division crown, remained a solid 14-5 favorite to whip the 29-year-old fighting fisherman from Bates St. Ann, N.H.

Durelle, a dock-fighting type with a minimum of finesse, said "one of us will go by the 11th or 12th round. I'm going to win or they're going to carry me out."

If they don't lug him out on his shield, it will go down as one of the great upsets in fistic annals. Moore, who will celebrate his 42nd, 45th or 49th birthday anniversary three days from now, has a big edge in everything but the calendar.

Ancient Archie can box, punch and absorb a punch far better than the crude, awkward and strong challenger who holds the Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight crowns.

Durelle knows he has to close in on Archie from the opening bell in an attempt to wear down his venerable rival. Moore, a sharpshooter with either hand, likes nothing better than for an opponent to come to him. Right now he and the late Young Stribling are tied for the all-time kayo mark at 126.

If the fight should go the 15-round limit, the scoring will be handled by three judges.

Promoter Eddie Quinn predicts some 11,000 to 13,000 fans will flock to the arena, starting at 1 p.m. (EST) will be telecast nationally in the United States by the ABC network.

SNYDER (SC)—Snyder proved no match for San Angelo here last night, as the Bobcats had points to burn in a 63-31 triumph over the host club.

Mike McCousley and Al Dodson shared scoring honors with 18 points each, five more than the entire Snyder club. Stan Hulen had 8 for the Tigers.

SAN ANGELO (SC)—Swoboda 1-2; McCousley 8-18; Cook 4-12; Haulstuler 9-22; Warner 2-4; Alexander 0-6; Dodson 8-18; Evans 9-11; Totals 23-17. SNYDER (31)—Tankersley 0-4; Fienmueller 1-3; Hulen 1-1; Olson 0-0; Drake 1-3; Hulen 4-8; Totals 10-11.

Big Spring had a 21-33 record on field goal connections in the first half for 64 per cent and got nine of 30 tries in the final half for 30 per cent and an overall record of 48 per cent.

In the B game, Donnie Everett paced the Steers in point-getting with 11 points while Homer Mills had ten.

Kermit committed only eight fouls all told in the A game (compared to 14 for Big Spring) and no more than four in either half. For that reason, the Longhorns didn't run into a 1-and-1 situation all evening.

Dietzel Named Coach Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Dietzel, who in four years as head coach, built Louisiana State's first all-winning football team in 50 years, was named today as "Coach of the Year" by his fellow members of the American Football Coaches' Assn.

The 34-year-old Dietzel scored the greatest sweep in the 24-year history of the award, made by the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Of 618 members of the association who voted in the annual poll, 495 named Dietzel first, second and third. Nearest to him in the balloting was Forest Evashevski of Iowa's Big Ten champion team, who received only 58 votes for first place, compared with 312 for Dietzel.

Dietzel came to LSU in 1955 after serving as assistant to Army's Earl (Red) Blaik, a former Coach of the Year; Sid Gillman of the Los Angeles Rams, then at the University of Cincinnati; and Paul (Bear) Bryant at Kentucky. He undertook a rebuilding program that paid off this year with ten straight victories and a national championship.

A total of 74 coaches figured in the Coach of the Year balloting. The award will be made during the football coaches convention in Cincinnati early in January.

Dietzel, born in Fremont, Ohio, Sept. 5, 1924, played junior high and high school football in Mansfield, Ohio.

Odessa JC Trips Angelo College

Odessa (SC)—The Odessa JC Wranglers jarred loose from a 26-31 halftime deficit and pulled ahead of San Angelo College, 59-53, to present the Rams with their first loss in three games, here last night.

Odessa is now 4-2 for the season and Angelo, 3-1. Doug Funk paced the Rams with 26 points; Max Hood had 10. Odessa was led by Bill Swerdson with 18, while Paul Thorpe and Robert Risinger had 12 apiece.

Odessa 4-10-18; Yates 3-0-4; Cooper 3-10-18; Totals 19-21-50. SAN ANGELO (53)—Stephenson 1-3-2; Knox 8-3; Reed 9-3-1; Cruise 2-2-4; Funk 10-26; Behrens 0-1-1; Totals 42-10-71-17-33.

Suit For $250,000 Filed In Scalding Death Of Coed

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—A $250,000 damage suit is on file here in the death nearly three years ago of a University of Houston coed who was scalded in a hotel bath tub.

Miss Sonia Sande, the coed, died 18 days after suffering the burns Jan. 5, 1956, at the Hotel Biloxi. She had been flown to an Army hospital in San Antonio for special treatment.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Sande of Merton, Wis., and sister, Mrs. Gloria Morrison, brought the federal court suit against Hickory Hotel Co., Inc., which owned the hotel at the time. It asserts the hotel was negligent because there was no safety device to prevent use of scalding water.

Family Vanishes On Yule Tree Hunt

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A Portland family of five vanished after setting out to hunt a Christmas tree Sunday.

Sheriff's deputies say their best lead placed Mr. and Mrs. Ken Martin and their three daughters on Larch Mountain Sunday afternoon.

The 4,000-foot-high mountain, at the west end of the Columbia River gorge, was searched intensively Tuesday.

Mrs. Frederick Holm told authorities she saw a family answering the description of the Martins at a mountain farm where a number of persons were buying and chopping their own Christmas trees.

The search began when Martin, 54, an employee of an electric company here, failed to report to work Monday. The daughters are Barbara, 14; Virginia, 13; and Sue, 11.

Victim's Son Is Held In Robbery

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Clara McHorse, a clerk in a grocery, was held up last Friday. One man took the money and a second drove the getaway car.

Yesterday an armed robbery charge was filed against her son, John Merrell, 31. Police Chief Paul Borum said Merrell drove the getaway car.

Officers continued to seek a second man.

Fire Losses Show Decline In November

Big Spring's fire loss total dropped below the $2,000 last month for the first time since July.

According to the city fire marshal, the city's insured loss during November was $1,795.32, and this is the lowest monthly aggregate since the $757.61 sustained in July.

November's total pushed the year's loss to $69,196, or about double the $34,196.04 for the same time of 1957.

Out of the $1,700 total lost last month, all but $24 was damage to buildings. The loss came from 19 fires; the department also made three false alarms.

Most costly fire during the month came on Nov. 22 at the 2007 N. Monticello residence of Paul Thompson. The fire, started by a water heater, caused $1,362.25 in damage.

Out of the 19 fires, six started with stoves, and five by use of gasoline. Three came from children playing with matches, two from gas connections, and one each from trash, smoking and a water pump motor.

West Berlin Gives A Hefty "No!"

An indirect referendum in West Berlin on Nikita Khrushchev's bid for making that area a neutral city was given a thunderous "No" by the people themselves in electing the 133-seat City Parliament.

The turnout of voters was about as unanimous as you can get. Out of more than 1.7 million votes cast, the Communist Party attracted only 31,520 supporters, or only 1.9 per cent. They needed five per cent to gain a single seat in the parliament. The Reds ran true to form, for they have never gained a seat in the West Berlin legislative body, but this time their compeance was more than commonly significant in view of the small showing made on the heels of Khrushchev's "offer."

Lord Mayor Willy Brandt's Socialists drew 52.1 per cent of the vote, as against 37.3 for Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democrats. The balance went to the four minor parties including the Communists.

Experts figure the Brandt party would hold 78 seats as against 55 for the Adenauer candidates, thus giving West Berlin a real two-party set-up minus the divisive effects of a splinter-party situation. In short, West Berlin wants no part of Russian machinations.

The result could well cool off the Reds' current drive to force the U. S., Britain and France out of West Berlin. If Khrushchev had hoped to create favorable sentiment among West Berliners in behalf of his scheme to euche the West out by holding out the lure of "neutrality," he must have been disillusioned.

It might cool off a situation in Berlin that reached the brink of combat last November 14, according to a U. S. military publication. The Army-Navy-Air Force Register carried a story by Gen. Thos. S. Phillips, ret. military correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, saying that the U. S. Army in Berlin readied a tank and infantry force to free three U. S. trucks stopped by the Russians at a border checkpoint on that date.

The story said the Russian command promptly ordered the trucks released when the American command protested vigorously. What if the Reds hadn't backed down?

New Crisis Among The British

It is traditional with Englishmen to air their views on all occasions and questions, trivial or great, and they usually do so with vigor and a high content of indignation. They are at their best—or worst, according to the viewpoint—on all phases of art, where tradition clashes so often with innovation.

The current flare-up of public indignation came with the unveiling of an eight-foot, two-ton statue of Sir Winston Churchill, paid for by his loyal constituents in the district he represents in Commons—Woodford, near London. The cost was $14,000, and those who paid for it got their first glimpse of it last week. The AP described it as "massive, scowling," but the locals were more specific in their descriptions. "The head, ears and feet all seem too big," "The whole thing looks much too gorillalike. . . . It's a disgrace. Fancy using our money for that."

The sculptor, David McFall, defended his brain-child ferociously, as artists were ever wont to do.

"My milkman and mailman approve it," he commented. "It is their opinion I respect."

As of last writing Sir Winston and his lady hadn't viewed the object, but four years ago when Parliament hired an artist to portray the old warhorse to mark his 80th birthday, an even noisier controversy broke out throughout the realm. Sir Winston took one look at the picture, thanked his colleagues politely—and ordered the thing stowed away out of sight.

He was "The Prime," then, and what he said went. Perhaps the indignation of his admirers will be equally potent.

Khrushchev And His Religious Concepts

WASHINGTON — Eight hours with Nikita Khrushchev—that's the challenging opportunity which came last week in Moscow to Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Democrat. His comprehensive report on what was talked about was promptly relayed to the State Department. This did not include a supplementary discussion "of a personal nature" reserved by the Senator for presentation to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles this week.

Significantly the conversation touched on some matters in the category of philosophy and religion. It didn't occupy the two men as much as the many other subjects of current importance but may have been equally worth while. For actually this is the channel that has been clogged up—Words of diplomacy and negotiation are meaningless unless they carry with them a trustfulness and sincerity that assure the fulfillment of pledges and agreements between governments.

Unless two men who try to settle any international dispute can agree on what is right or wrong, what is moral or unmoral, what is just or unjust, what is truly beneficial to millions of human beings and what is likely to be to their detriment, there is little chance to dispose satisfactorily of any of the major problems that cause friction between countries.

With these things in mind, the writer picked up the telephone on Sunday and talked with Senator Humphrey in London. Following is an excerpt from our recorded conversation which Mr. Humphrey has permitted me to quote:

"Q. Did you get into the religious phase — our belief in God and how so many people on our side have in mind this fundamental difference between our nations as being in the background of our difficulties?"

"A. Well, I commented on that but primarily in terms of questions. I asked about anti-Semitism, for example, in the Soviet Union, and about the whole question of religious freedom there. Mr. Khrushchev denied the existence of anti-Semitism and said there was a degree of religious freedom—in other words, that people could go to their churches. Of course, I pointed out that there were very few of them to go to. He was not too responsive. I might say, on this, I told him that the physical well-being of man was conditioned by his spiritual well-being, and that one of the things that always disturbed us was the lack of spiritual emphasis. He, of course, responds to this sort of talk by saying that, in the Socialist or Communist countries, people identify their own individual welfare with the welfare of the state. May I put it this way: That you can have some opportunities to discuss these things but I doubt that it changes the minds of the leaders very much.

"Q. Well, you never can tell how much sinks in—"

"A. No, you can't. The fact is that the degree of discussion—the amount of time given to it—indicated that there was some interest in what we were saying. One other thing: Mr. Khrushchev also told me a great deal about his parents and their religious feelings—that they were devout Christians and that he himself had been brought up in the Russian Orthodox faith. He demonstrated some knowledge of the Bible—so that, despite all of this odd, atheistic talk, I have a feeling that even Marxism does not fully eradicate the Christian spirit. I happen to feel that much of our activity—much of our program relating to the Soviet Union — needs to be put on this moral and spiritual basis."

Maybe Mr. Khrushchev thinks often about God but doesn't like to say so out loud. He hasn't been articulate on questions of religion, but he must realize that a vast part of the world has an abiding faith in a Supreme Being whether this faith is derived from the Old Testament or the New Testament or the Koran or the words of Confucius. He may come to realize some day that men of lasting influence have found help in the realm of the spiritual. He demonstrated some knowledge of the Bible—the first clues to the ultimate solution of the problems of war and peace.

The Minnesota senator drew certain conclusions from his talk with the Soviet premier. One of them is that Mr. Khrushchev wants a "summit" conference and anything else that would enhance his own position within the Soviet Union. He gives the impression of hurt feelings. He thinks he should not be excluded from Western councils but should be treated as an equal. This implies perhaps not exactly a feeling of inferiority but a resentment. Such an attitude is not unnatural with the leaders of governments that are relatively new in history though it should not be surprising when a whole ideology contrary to what the rest of the world has hitherto followed is being espoused.

Mr. Humphrey came away with the feeling that the areas of agreement at present are few. Certainly the episode indicates that, while "summit" conferences may have some good points for reasons of showmanship or propaganda, private talks without benefit of klieg lights and an observing army of newsmen are perhaps more useful. There can be under such circumstances a give-and-take in discussion which is not always possible when ambassadors confer with a Premier or a President and every word can be regarded as an official commitment. Informal contacts can indeed be fruitful—but again only if there is some meeting of minds on what is right and wrong.

Too Good A Display To Suit Nikita

James Marlow Lyndon's Whiphand Is Sharper

WASHINGTON (AP)—A look at the record indicates Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, won't have such a tough time as might be expected next year in keeping a check-rein on the newly elected Senate Democrats.

There are 15 of them. Not one of them can be called wild-eyed. Almost all are moderate in their views. A majority of them—eight of the 15—were members of the House this year or in the recent past.

In the House they worked pretty quietly under the leadership of Speaker Sam Rayburn, boss of the House Democrats. Rayburn, like Johnson, is a Texan. Both men are moderates, are close friends, work closely together.

So, for a majority of them—eight of the 15—were members of the House this year or in the recent past. The three Republicans who won Senate seats this year for the first time were all members of the House this year. They are Kenneth Keating, New York; Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania; and Winston L. Prouty, Vermont.

Johnson, who recently outlined a 12-point program for the Senate in 1959, omitted any mention of action on civil rights. On this point he may have trouble with some of the new men.

They may gang up with the present band of liberals in the Senate — like Democrats Paul Phipps (N.Y.) and Republicans Jacob Javits (N.Y.) and Clifford Case (N.J.) — to smash the present Senate rule on filibusters.

Under the present rule Southern Democrats can pretty well block legislation on civil rights, if they want to, with unlimited debate. Changing the rule to make it easier to cut off filibusters would also make it easier to get civil rights bills through.

Four of the new Democratic Senators were members of the House this year. They are: Clair Engle of California; Eugene McCarthy, Minnesota; Robert C. Byrd, West Virginia; and E. L. Bartlett, who had for years been Alaska's delegate to the House, without a vote.

These four were House members in past years: Thomas J. Dodd, Connecticut; Harrison A. Williams Jr., New Jersey; Stephen M. Young, Ohio; and Jennings Randolph, West Virginia. The three new Republican

Prince Is No Stuffed Shirt

For a number of reasons, I'm glad that Prince Farman Farmaian of Iran loves to renew his Casden friendships here. The foremost is that he is such a sparkling personality that you just enjoy being around him, and not the least is that I always depend upon him to furnish me copy for a column.

This nobleman is manifestly a well educated and polished gentleman, but he is no stuffed shirt. He delights to converse on any subject from international politics to food. He seems equally intense and buoyant whether engaging in little chit-chat or speculating on the Soviet threat to his country.

In perfect English, which comes near having an Oxford than Iranian accent, he speaks rapidly and with animation. Now and then he will inject a completely American idiom such as, when discussing the condition of the Abadan refinery: "Between us and the gatepost. . . ." Suddenly he may break off and say: "I have talked too much again. . . ." and then he is off to the races on another topic.

He has a pixie sense of humor. He laughed and laughed in recounting how he had accepted the offer of one of his countrymen to ride in a special open-air Cadillac in Paris. Winding through a narrow street, they came face to face with an Englishman in a Rolls Royce. Neither would budge and a great and lively debate arose. Parisians took time off to watch the discussion, and soon the gentlemen arrived. At this stage the good French women in the upper floors followed the ancient custom of throwing water down on the street. In the open air job, the prince and his companion caught the full force of the cascade. "Oh it was terrible," he roared. "We nearly drowned before both of us had to back up."

Prince Farmaian was happy to note a relaxation of travel restrictions by the United States. He said he went around the world with greater ease than he could make a re-entry into America at one point. Some of the questions on official forms rankled him a bit, such as "are you a prostitute?" Similarly bothersome is the threat bare query: "Do you have anything to declare?"

"Now look here," he said at one of his stops at Idlewild in New York, "just what is it that I can't declare?" If it's opium or jewels, I don't have any. The customs inspector waved him on.

While here the prince was taken on a bird hunt by his host, R. L. Tollett, and Cecil Guthrie, and while he found pleasure in shooting his first quail, he discovered something else of vastly more sport — shooting jackrabbits. These long-eared marsupials fascinated him, but they didn't mesmerize him for the prince sent them rolling right and left.

When it came time to go, he piled them neatly, ready to take them home.

"What for?" Guthrie wanted to know. "To eat, of course," replied the prince. "And by golly I'm sorry the prince couldn't stay long enough for someone to cook him a jackrabbit."

Mathematics Never Made Easy

There are times when I have a hunch that I was born 40 years too soon, and then there are other occasions on which I am fully reconciled to my life and times.

Mathematics stalked me as a nemesis through high school and college. I had a long and memorable stellar run in "Geometry with Tears." Papa always said that if he were his eventual destination, he hoped to meet there, in its deepest cycle, the man who had invented scatter rugs.

Now should I wind up in the nether regions, the person I most want to see there—and in the brimstone depths—is Euclid. No man, in or out of fiction, ever caused a woman more misery. To me, all his triangles were eternal because they were insolvable. The square of the hypotenuse was no problem to me; it was a dirty trick.

Consequently, I am always interested whenever I see an article in the daily prints announcing that some humanitarian has invented a simplified system of mathematics or "Mathematics Made Easy." I am past succor, but I always rejoice that another generation will be spared the blood, sweat, toil and tears of mine.

That is, I always rejoice until I read what constitutes "Mathematics Made Easy" in the opinion of experts. And then I am reconciled to my own painful past. At the moment, the Rev. Stanley J. Bezuska of Boston College is being hailed as the educator who is streamlining mathematics for the age of the electronic, high-speed calculator. He aims to take the drudgery out of arithmetic with slide rules and desk calculators.

This sounded to me as if at last a new day were actually dawning in which the mathematical fate worse than death was to be forever banished from the curriculum. I could envision a happy future in which any student smart enough to oil a high-speed calculator could enjoy intimations of Einstein.

My mistake, as usual, was in reading the story to its bitter end. I rejoiced too soon when I read that Father Bezuska proposed to abolish such sneaky problems as:

"If one boy can mow a lawn in two hours, how long will it take two boys to mow it if the second one works at four-fifths of the rate of the first?"

This is the sort of problem that threw me into a panic when I was in school, and it never seemed to do me any good, grade-wise, to ask if the name of the first boy was Tom Sawyer, or if they used a power mower.

To abolish such stumbling blocks to higher education seemed a noble project until I read what Father Bezuska proposes to substitute for the grassy dell. He's updated the problem, all right, and here it is:

"Given a supersonic airplane's attitude, speed and direction at a certain instant, describe the area of the sky in which the plane can be found two seconds later, assuming that the pilot is free to alter his course within the physical limitations of his ship under these conditions."

This is extracting the drudgery from arithmetical manipulations? So now I am supposed to parse the goings-on of a crazy jet jockey and the sound barrier! As far as I am concerned, that supersonic job is already grounded, and me with it.

Ah, for the good, old days of two boys, greenward, a lawn mower and simple hysterics!

The Gallup Poll

Campaign Shows Grass-Roots Payoff

PRINCETON, N. J. — The value of a hard-working corps of volunteer workers in an election campaign is clearly demonstrated in an audit of party activity in the 1958 campaign, completed since the election by the Gallup Poll.

The nationwide audit reveals that the Democrats had a clear edge on the GOP in the matter of personal campaigning for a party or its candidates by precinct workers.

By way of contrast—in an election when the Republicans suffered their worst defeat in 22 years—the GOP managed to contact almost as many voters as the Democrats did through the mails with campaign literature.

Looking ahead, the leaders of both parties may be interested in knowing that there is a yet untapped reservoir of potential workers who would have been willing to canvass for their party this year had they been asked.

From a national survey of election activity by both the Republicans and Democrats at the "grass roots" level this year, come these findings:

1. In early October, Democratic party members outnumbered GOP volunteers by almost 2-to-1. Although the Republicans narrowed this gap considerably during the final month of the campaign, they were unable to offset the Democrats' early start. Here are the comparative figures:

Party Workers — 1958	Party Workers — 1958
	Early October	Final Audit
Republican Workers	1,100,000	2,100,000
Democratic Workers	2,200,000	2,600,000

2. Not only did Democratic workers outnumber Republican workers, the evidence is that they made an earlier and more concerted effort in calling on voters than their GOP counterparts did.

While the number of calls per Republican worker fell off during October, the Democrats maintained and increased their number of calls per worker during the closing weeks of the campaign—all of which added up to the following big lead for the Democrats in the matter of total personal calls reported by voters:

Calls Made by	Personal Calls
	Republican Workers	Democratic Workers
Party Workers	1,100,000	2,100,000
Party Workers	2,200,000	2,600,000

By Early October

6,700,000	7,800,000
-----------	-----------

By Final Audit

8,900,000	12,500,000
-----------	------------

3. In the matter of contacting and wooing voters by mail, both parties scored about the same. When voters were asked if they had received any campaign literature from either party, here is how the replies panned out in millions of voters:

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE
Final Audit
Mail received from Reps.	Mail received from Dems.
50,300,000 voters	50,600,000 voters

4. Nearly one person in four who did not work for a party during the campaign might well have contributed some time and effort if he had been asked to do so. All persons who said they had not worked in the 1958 campaign were asked this question:

"If you had been asked to work for a party or candidate in the election campaign, would you have done so, or not?"

WOULD HAVE VOLUNTEERED?
Yes, would have	Per Cent
No, would not	24
Uncertain	60
	16

Analysis of results to the above question reveals that roughly the same proportion of persons in both the Republican and Democratic party would have been willing to work if they had been asked.

CRITIQUE

Of The Local
Entertainment Scene

By Bob Smith

Creative Man
Just A Nuisance

The public may picture the creative man as an island unto himself—one whose lofty ideals transcend those of the common mass—but to his wife, he's just a husband whose faculty for deep thought more often than not undermines the household routine.

So say a husband and wife team of psychologists, writing in Product Engineering, and giving their divergent views on the attributes of the creative man. Dr. J. H. McPherson, in a series of statements, sums up the nature of the creative thinker, and Dr. Dorothy McPherson adds her wife-like reactions.

The psychologist speaks: The original man seems to prefer the complex, asymmetrical, unbalanced, vital dynamic designs to the orderly, symmetrical, balanced designs.

A wife reacts: "I like the living room to look balanced, but no—he has to put it all off center."

When caught up in the process of putting ideas together he is apt to be so deeply engrossed that he appears out-of-contact and insensitive to human problems.

"When he is in one of his deep periods, he'll promise anything and promptly forget about it."

There is little doubt that most people dislike being confronted with disorder. In individuals who turn out original work in science or in art, however, a reversal of the usual attitude may be observed.

"He seems to like a mess. I can't touch a thing." He can accept people whose manners and appearance are repulsive to others.

And the people he collects. Original people are also independent in judgment even when put under pressure to conform to a group opinion which is in conflict with their own.

"The whole party can come to a nice comfortable agreement and then he'll charge in with something that will upset the apple cart."

The creative person seems to have a smaller number of close friends and is never a "joiner."

"Other men join clubs and play golf and relax. Not him. He and one or two of his cronies just sit, talk, drink beer, and fill up ash trays."

He is, by constitution, more vigorous and has available to him an exceptional fund of psychic and physical energy.

"When we're at the cottage, he'll bound out of bed, grab his rock bag, head for the woods and then come back bursting with what we should do next, just when I'm tired taking care of the kids and want to rest."

He can be a relentless worker when he starts on a project and tends to forget usual social commitments.

"We'll plan to go somewhere, have the tickets and everything, the party all arranged, and he'll forget to come home."

He seems possessed of a constant constructive discontent, an almost chronic dissatisfaction with things as they are:

"It doesn't matter how well somebody's house is built, he can always think of a better way to do it. It's embarrassing at times."

So say the McPhersons. Yet, most women who are married to creative men wouldn't trade them for their weight in uranium. The unpredictable nature of the creative man keeps their married life dynamic and ever interesting, so the little lady never gets bored.

Then, there are a few women who are fit only to be married to unimaginative drudges. Power to them.

'The Messiah'
An Old Custom

Singing of "The Messiah" at Christmastime is a tradition of the first order in many parts of the world.

The 200-voice employe chorus of Marshall Field & Co. of Chicago presented its 32nd performance of Handel's masterpiece this afternoon.

Of course, a 200-voice choir is next to impossible for Big Spring, Texas. A community chorus of from 50 to 100 voices, however, is entirely feasible.

Such a chorus already may be in the making. Betty Ware, who helped organize the 60-voice choir that will present "The Messiah" Sunday, has been talking it up among the members, in an effort to create a permanent organization.

Christmas isn't the only time of the year in which a community chorus could find reason for a program. The results might be much superior to the present system, which finds every small church, civic club, business or other organization which sponsors musical groups trying to push their own tiny productions. It's like trying to hit a one-inch target with buckshot at 500 paces—most of the pellets miss the mark.

Conflicts Noted In Insurance Testimony

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate Investigating Committee reported today numerous instances of conflicting testimony in its probe of financially-sound Preferred Life Insurance Co. of Dallas.

The committee started its investigation of Preferred Life in September 1957. It reported that today "the company's financial position appears to have improved since the investigation."

'Magi' Tale Proves Glitter, No Gold

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—

When a musical version of "The Gift of the Magi" was opened on CBS-TV Tuesday night, the audience found that all that glitters is not gold.

The O. Henry short story is a tremendous trifle leading to a trick ending that has lost its irony as a result of long familiarity.

A fellow sells his valued watch to buy his beloved wife Christmas gift combs for her beautiful golden hair, while his wife sells her hair to buy him a Christmas gift for his valued watch.

The music and lyrics by Richard Adler were mediocre and failed to advance the story in any discernible way. On the other hand, the story plunges downhill and over the cliff so fast that it had to be stopped frequently for enough music and business to give the audience a full hour ride.

Gordon MacRae was excellent as one of the original organization men who sold his watch. Sally Ann Howes was a charming wife, lovely enough to make him want to sell his watch.

But neither could overcome the fact that they were playing in a broad, absurd bit of teletheater.

The commodity of exchange with the audience was corn.

Although it glittered at rare moments, the production did not reveal the solid gold of good entertainment.

Speaking of gold, O. Henry received less than $500 for his Christmas story but his estate reportedly collected $40,000 for television rights for this adaptation.

The cost of Christmas mounts each season without marked improvement in its spirit.

TV-conscious politicians reportedly are listening carefully to the suggestions and pleas of the three major television networks in the choice of a 1960 national convention site.

The chief desire of the networks is that both major parties hold their conventions in the same city. In 1956 the cost of the mass airlift from Chicago to San Francisco alone was close to a million dollars—to say nothing of the wear and tear of convention coverage from two cities.

As far as television is concerned, the favorite convention sites would be Chicago or San Francisco.

Holding Glasses

A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, said Monday he is still holding a pair of spectacles which were found and turned in to his office some days ago. The spectacles are for a woman and Long said they are obviously in good condition. He asks that the owner come by his office and retrieve her glasses.
