JUDGE PHILIP GILLIAM WITH R. H. WEAVER
Juvenile authority speaks at YMCA banquet

JUDGE GILLIAM SAYS

Youth Agencies Hold Answer To Problem Of Delinquency

An appeal to get behind character building agencies like the YMCA and to use its Christian principles to "make decency popular" was voiced here last night by Judge Philip B. Gilliam of the famous Denver Juvenile Court.

"We'll have delinquency so long as we have people who are not interested," Judge Gilliam told some 300 persons at the annual YMCA banquet. "As long as we have apathy, we'll have trashy literature, sloppy schools, weak judges and inadequate youth facilities."

Encouraging reports on every phase of the YMCA program were heard at the annual meeting of members. Bobo Hardy, general secretary, classed 1958 as the organization's most successful year. Membership increased 28 per cent and participation in activities gained 30 per cent, he said.

Plans to award contract early in March for a new YMCA building were reported by R. W. Whipkey, chairman of the long range planning committee.

"Prospects are good that you'll have a new $325,000 facility all paid for in another three years," he said.

The capital funds campaign which raised $276,650 in cash and pledges last year was the largest drive of its kind ever conducted here, he said. As a result, the YMCA now has cash and securities amounting to $162,146, with the balance in the form of pledges due in 1959 and 1960.

Dan Krausse, vice president and membership chairman, discussed the annual membership drive which opens next Monday. The membership goal, which will provide 55 per cent of the YMCA's operating budget, is up slightly from 1958, but Krausse predicted a swift and successful campaign.

Hardy presented a plaque to Dorothy Cauble in recognition of six years of service as a Tri-Hi-Y group leader. He also paid tribute to the 147 other group leaders who conduct the YMCA program.

"The Y is not a panacea, but through these volunteers it has stepped into many areas of need," Hardy said. "Still, it is not reaching 58 per cent of our young people under 18 years of age."

Former presidents of the organization were recognized by R. H. Weaver, who is starting his second year in the presidency. They are Jack Y. Smith, 1946; Dr. R. B. G. Cowper, 1947; Judge Cecil Collings, 1948; Walter Reed, 1949; Dr. G. H. Wood, 1950; Arnold Marshall, 1951; K. H. McGibbon, 1952; Joe Pickle, 1953; Clyde Angel, 1954; Clyde McMahon, 1955 and 1956; and Truman Jones, 1957.

Judge Gilliam said the principles of Christianity taught by the YMCA have made the agency

100 Pct. Increase In Juvenile Crime In 10 Years Predicted

Juvenile delinquency as a social problem in the United States will increase in volume by 100 per cent in the next 10 years, Judge Philip B. Gilliam, Denver juvenile court, told a group of civic leaders at a conference in the Big Spring YMCA Monday afternoon.

Three per cent of all the juveniles in the nation are total delinquents. The other 97 per cent never come to the attention of juvenile authorities—yet the small minority poses one of the major problems in crime control that the country has to meet.

He explained that population increase in the next 10 years will account for 5 per cent per year upsurge in juvenile crimes. He foresees an additional 5 per cent stemming from the prevailing moral trends of the nation.

"This will mean there will be 100 per cent more juvenile crime in this nation in 1969 than at present," he told the group, "and such a prospect is frightening to contemplate."

Employment of competent probation officers whose one duty is to control and guide boys and girls who have gotten on the wrong path is the best possible solution to the reformation of such youngsters. He said that it is imperative the probation officer selected for this work be trained properly, that he like the work he is doing and is deeply concerned in the salvation of his young charges.

A certain percentage of the boys and girls who are delinquents are apparently incurable and cannot be reformed, he warned, but the percentage is small.

Majority of youngsters who get into trouble can be straightened out and put on the right path again if they are given the proper help and supervision.

"Nine of every 10 kids who are placed on probation make good and are rehabilitated into good citizens if the probation officer placed over them is competent and capable," Gilliam declared.

He thinks that one of the solutions for the menacing increase in crime in this nation is to stop "molly-coddling" the adult criminal. Sterner handling of adults involved in crime will have its reflective benefits on juveniles who make the wrong turn, he believed.

It costs this nation $40,000 to place a man in a penitentiary, he told the group—the cost from the time of the convict's youth until he "graduates" into a prison.

The meeting was opened by R. H. Weaver, president of the YMCA and a former juvenile judge himself.

Judge Gilliam was in Big Spring to address the annual banquet of the YMCA on Monday night.

House Panel Starts Work On Ike Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee starts work on President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget today with two key members saying it can be cut.

But the general tenor of comments among Democrats—who hold large majorities in both House and Senate—indicated that Congress is more likely to raise than to decrease the total.

Maurice Stans, director of the Budget Bureau, and Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson were called before the committee to explain details of Eisenhower's spending plans for the year starting July 1.

Both Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) and Rep. John Taber of New York, senior committee Republican, said they believed the budget could be cut.

They never saw a budget that couldn't be cut, they said in separate statements. But they didn't say where or how much. The committee will work several months on those questions.

Following today's meeting of the 50-member group, the committee will break up into subcommittees to start whipping into shape more than a dozen separate bills providing the money to finance the budget.

Gold Finder Disappears

CORSICANA (AP)—The whereabouts of filling station attendant D. E. Jones, who claims he is in possession of two and a half million dollars in gold bars, was a mystery today.

For the second day, Jones was away from his job at Doc Allen's filling station here.

Allen said Jones borrowed his car yesterday for an undisclosed mission. Allen said Jones called late yesterday from "some place in East Texas" and said he would return to Corsicana late today.

Jones, 38, before leaving yesterday, declined to say where he was going.

Reports of possible action by Secret Service agents were prevalent. U. S. Dist. Atty. William Steger had asked the agents to look into Jones' claim of finding 85 gold bars while picking berries near Alto in East Texas last May.

Jones, the father of eight, declined comment when asked last week if the Secret Service had been in touch with him. He said he put the gold in safekeeping after finding it.

The Internal Revenue Service at Tyler estimated today the income tax Jones would have to pay on an income of $2,408,000 would be $2,135,996.

The amount he would retain would amount to his present salary for more than 100 years.

Showers, Freeze Possible In This Section Tonight

Unpleasant weather, with a possibility of light showers and freezing drizzle late today and tonight was forecast for Big Spring and area by the U. S. Weather Bureau in its Tuesday noon forecast.

Cloudy skies, wind and dropping temperatures were in prospect. The possibility of moisture should develop late this afternoon and if the temperature falls to the levels anticipated, will become freezing drizzle during the night.

Wednesday will be cloudy and cold. High for today was estimated at a warm 70 compared to the chilly 38 anticipated for the maximum.

Low for tonight will be 27 degrees. High on Monday was 59 and the low for the night was only 7 degrees lower—a balmy 52.

Alaska's Governor 'Extremely Critical'

SEATTLE (AP)—Alaska's Gov. William A. Egan was reported extremely critical today and an emergency operation was scheduled to relieve what surgeons said was complete paralysis of his bowels.

Egan, the first elected governor of the 49th state, was flown here Monday afternoon after failing to recover satisfactorily from a gall bladder operation in Juneau, Alaska, Jan. 6.

Police Probe Arson In Blast That Killed 6

KEMAH, Tex. (AP)—Police probed the ruins of a small home near this Galveston Bay fishing town today on the theory that a blast which killed a family of six may have been planned.

"There is a possibility that the explosion which caused the tragedy may have been deliberately set off," Galveston County Sheriff Paul Hopkins said.

The charred bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Neal Odem and their four children were found yesterday after an explosion touched off a fire which burned the home in minutes.

Trueman Stone, sheriff's investigator, said he found a length of pipe leading from a butane tank to a point under a mattress of a collapsed bed in the bedroom. Stone said a jet on the tank was turned on.

Neighbors said they noticed smoke rising from the roof of the home seconds before the explosion, which one described as like that of a plane breaking the sonic barrier.

Firemen said the blast apparently resulted from an accumulation of butane.

The family moved in last week after a man who identified himself as Walter Paul Johnson rented the home. Police obtained photographs of the Odem family from a relative, however, and neighbors identified them.

The youngsters were Barbara, 7; Carol, 6; Neal Jr., 4; and Deborah, 2.

"The house seemed to blow up," Earl Bulot, 14, said. "I heard somebody hollering inside. It was one voice and it sounded like a baby screaming."

Bulot said he had noticed the smoke and was hurrying to the house when the blast occurred.

Another neighbor, H. S. Bell, said, "It looked like it blew out all the windows. There wasn't anything we could do but back up."

Intense heat from the flames kept firefighters at a distance.

Seeks Children

Mrs. Maria Batista, wife of the ousted Cuban dictator, arrived at Idlewild Airport at New York on her first leg of a trip to gather four of her children in this country and take them to their father in Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic. Roberto, 11, and Carlos, 5, are in New York. Fulgencia, 4, and Maria Maria, 17 months, are in Daytona Beach, Fla. Another son, 15, is with his father.

Negro Rapist Is Sought Here

Police officers are looking for a Negro who is reported to have raped a woman early today in her apartment on W. 3rd.

The woman, 24, told officers that the Negro broke into her apartment about 2:30 a.m. and criminally assaulted her. She had been in Big Spring only two days. Her husband had been employed here for a longer period, but she moved here to be with him only this week.

Her husband was working at the time of the incident.

One Negro was picked up this morning, but has denied any connection with the case.

Tax Effort Topic For Inauguration

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel started his second term today promising that his new tax bill would be smaller than the last one passed in 1955.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey began his unprecedented fifth term saying that any new demands for spending should be backed by specific tax proposals, with their advocates bearing "a fair share of the cost."

The 1955 tax measure mentioned by Daniel provided for about 50 million dollars a year for the general revenue fund. Meanwhile, state expenses have risen and the deficit has soared. Daniel did not explain in his brief inaugural address how he proposes to solve this fiscal riddle. He promised he would tomorrow in a message to the Legislature.

The governor solemnly took the oath of office in a ceremonial under the massive south portico of the Capitol, striking a clear note of optimism in the face of the state money crisis.

Daniel, 48, said he would put the "emergency" tag on his plan for retiring the current deficit which has been estimated at 65 million dollars as of next Sept. 1. The need for new revenue has been variously figured at from 167 to 200 million dollars for the next two fiscal years—roughly 83 to 100 million new dollars a year.

After retiring the current deficit, Daniel said, he would propose "means for providing new revenues for the next biennium with an annual tax bill smaller than the last one enacted in 1955."

Daniel has repeatedly promised that his tax plans did not include either a general sales tax or state income tax.

Ramsey also emphasized money matters.

"The hard, cold facts of the balance sheet must be recognized," Ramsey said. "The sole question of this session is not, or should not be, the question of which unfortunate taxpayer we are going to catch and string up by the heels and shake until enough money rolls out to give everyone everything he wants."

Daniel recalled that many past administrations and Legislatures had been faced with, and solved, crises as great as today's. When Sam Houston became governor in 1861 he hadn't had a dollar in the treasury for months and warned that "Comanche Indians were threatening within 50 miles of the Capitol," Daniel said.

"Some of the finest chapters in Texas history were written by governors and Legislatures which faced and met problems and challenges that demanded the full measure of public service and leadership," Daniel said in his 12-minute address.

Daniel stressed the need for complete fiscal and administrative reform.

"Texas today has over 175 separate departments, agencies and boards, and many of them have overlapping functions," the governor said.

"We have 213 separate funds in the state treasury and 30 separate funds deposited in banks without ever entering the treasury.

"There is a need for certain special and permanent trust funds such as our public school, university and other constitutional funds, but I am positive that more efficiency and economy can be obtained by eliminating and combining many of the separate state agencies and special funds.

"There is something wrong with a system that allows its housekeeping fund, the general revenue fund, to receive nothing but the crumbs left over after statutory transfers are made to other funds, most of which remain in excellent condition.

"Every bank in Texas would have a cash deficit if it had to keep each depositor's money in a separate safety deposit box rather than merely have it credited for withdrawal when called for."

Prayer Begins Daniel's Day At Inauguration

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel began the day of his second inauguration with prayer and a pledge to "acknowledge the power above us."

A prayer breakfast, which Daniel has made a feature of inauguration day, opened the series of events climaxed at noon when Daniel and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey formally began new two-year terms.

Corpus Christi businessman and lay religious leader Howard E. Butt Jr., speaker at the breakfast, told Daniel and more than 600 other guests the occasion was "a fitting way to begin an administration—quoted by prayer."

Daniel quoted the motto of the Texas Supreme Court: "It is a good thing to ask for God's help in our work."

The governor, 48, began his second term at noon placing his right hands on the 118-year-old Bible and repeating the oaths of office after Chief Justice J. E. Hickman.

Crowds expecting to reach into the tens of thousands began gathering early for the ceremonies. More than 51,000 invitations were sent out, but threatening skies held the crowd well below that figure.

At mid-morning came the inaugural parade, with the governor and lieutenant governor and their wives, state and city police escorts, a sheriff's posse, high school, college and military bands and drill teams, and other marching and musical groups from around the state.

The afternoon schedule included a reception for foreign dignitaries at the capitol with Daniel as host. A reception and two inaugural balls wind up the day's activities after supper. At 7 p.m., a reception begins for out-of-town guests at Austin's new auditorium. Entertainment, featuring the University of Texas concert band and the choir of Midwestern University of Wichita Falls, starts at 7:30 p.m.

The formal inaugural ball starts at 9:30, with governor and Mrs. Daniel leading the grand march, and dancing continuing until 1 a.m. Concurrently, at the City Coliseum a second dance will be held, with J. M. Tidwell's Cripple Creek Cowhands providing less formal music.

Ike Warns Nation Must Achieve Self-Discipline Or Face Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the nation faces a grave choice—either self-discipline to prevent a damaging inflation, or government controls "which are alien to our traditional way of life."

He called on Congress, for the third time in a fortnight, to abide by the spending cuts in the 77-billion-dollar budget which he sent to the Capitol Monday for the year starting July 1.

This, he told the legislators, would be "the most important single step in discharging the government's responsibility to help preserve the stability of prices and costs through the prudent management of its own affairs."

TAX REDUCTION

If government income and spending can be matched in the year starting next July 1, and if tax collections are swelled by the expected growth of income and business profits, Eisenhower said, then—"A significant additional step in tax reduction and reform can be taken in the reasonably foreseeable future."

More directly than in the past the President aimed his exhortation at unions entering wage negotiations. "Leaders of labor unions have a particularly critical role to play, in view of the great power lodged in their hands," he asserted.

"Self-discipline and restraint are essential if reasonable stability of prices is to be reached within the framework of the free competitive institutions.

"If the desired results cannot be achieved under our arrangements for determining wages and inflation, the alternatives are either price controls, which would damage our economy and work hardships on millions of Americans, or controls, which are alien to our traditional way of life and which would be an obstacle to the nation's economic growth and improvement."

Eisenhower reported that national output climbed to a rate of 453 billion dollars annually in the final quarter of 1958. This was a record in dollar terms, but not quite up to the pre-recession peak when discounted for the 2 per cent price rise during the year.

The economic message was based on studies by the President's Council of Economic Advisors headed by Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier.

News Unit Accused Of Unfair Practice

DALLAS (AP)—A charge that Harte-Hanks Newspapers, Inc., drained money from its seven other newspapers so it could operate the Greenville Banner at a loss and drive the Greenville Herald out of business was made by the federal government here yesterday.

A defense attorney countered that while the Greenville Banner lost money, the loss was not intentional. He also maintained that the newspaper market in Greenville was not adequate to support two daily newspapers.

The charge and rebuttal came in the opening day session of an anti-trust case trial of the Harte-Hanks group before Federal District Judge T. Whitfield Davidson. The federal government has charged that the newspaper group illegally conspired to restrain trade and set up a newspaper monopoly in Greenville.

The case, which continues today, is being heard by a jury of 13 members—two women, 10 men—and an extra man—in case one of the regular jurors becomes ill.

The charges against the newspaper group were summarized at the opening day session by Chief Prosecutor Henry M. Stuckey who said the Banner sustained $168,000 in losses during a three-year period but got loans totaling $233,000 from other newspapers in the group.

The federal prosecutor charged that Harte-Hanks bought the Banner in 1954 and during a 3-year period cut subscription and advertising rates, gave copies of the newspaper away and sought to curtail the credit available to the competing Greenville Herald.

Defense attorney J. McMahon called the case "a classic illustration of the economic decline of the newspaper industry."

"The newspaper market in Greenville was not adequate to support two daily newspapers," McMahon told the court.

"After we bought the Banner in 1954 we saw the only way to make a profit would be to have one paper in the town," he said.

The $300,000 paid the Herald's owners for the paper showed Harte-Hanks desire to settle the affair in a fair manner, McMahon said.

The only witness called by the government yesterday was Tom R. Poole of Greenville, one of the former owners of the Herald.

In reply to questions by Stuckey, Poole said the Herald never lost money prior to the 1954 purchase of the Banner by the Harte-Hanks interests.

"We had to cut rates when the Banner began doing it," Poole testified, "in order to keep our business. But our situation became worse as time passed."

Defense Lawyer William L. McGovern, in cross examining Poole, submitted statistics showing continued gains in the Herald's advertising and circulation after Harte-Hanks entered the Greenville field.

No License Numbers To Be Reserved

If you planned to ask for a special number on your car license plate for 1959—forget it.

The office of Viola Robinson, county tax collector, has announced that no special numbers will be reserved for anyone this year.

The reason is that the demand in recent years has grown to such an extent as to greatly increase the work of issuing the plates. The rule this year will be first come first served when the plates go on sale on Feb. 1.

Invoices for the shipment of car plates for the county have already arrived and the truck with the load of plates is expected in a few days.

Letter prefiles for the county in 1959 will be CS and CY.

The office also emphasized the importance of all motorists making certain they have their car titles with them when they come for the new plates.

Motorists are asked to check their records and determine if they have their titles. If the title is misplaced or lost, car owners should come to the office of the tax collector now and obtain the required forms for a certified title form. Such applications take a week or longer to get processed in Austin so it is urgent that action be taken at once.

Car owners who neglect to bring titles with them when the tags go on sale will have to make a second trip before they can be served, the office said. The state has issued strict orders on this requirement, it was pointed out.

Venue Change Is Granted In Canada Murder

The case of Roosevelt Wiley, young Negro charged with the murder of Shorty Canada, milk truck driver, scheduled to open on Monday in Robert Lee, has been reset for trial, possibly in March, in Lubbock.

A motion for a change of venue lodged by the defense was upheld by the court. The change to Lubbock was announced. Witnesses who had been asked to report to Robert Lee were excused until further notice. Approximately 20 persons from Big Spring had received subpoenas to appear as witnesses in the case.

Canada, whose home was in San Angelo, was held up by Wiley and Willie McDade, a juvenile at the time, at a lonely point on U. S. 87 south of Big Spring. The locale was in Coke County.

He was knifed to death, robbed of several hundred dollars and his body was concealed in tall weeds.

The milk truck was driven on to Big Spring where it was abandoned. Later local officers arrested the two Negroes and obtained confessions from them.

Cancer Society Sets District Meet Here

Plans for the district Cancer Society meeting to be held here Thursday were mapped out at a meeting of the local group Monday.

Here for the Monday meeting were Allen Singleton, district field representative from Midland, and Dick Russell, field supervisor from Austin.

Thursday's district meeting will begin with registration at 9 a.m. at the VA Hospital. All sessions with the exception of the luncheon will be held at the hospital.

Dr. C. B. Marcum will be in charge of the morning session, and Frank Kelly of Colorado City, a state executive committeeman, will speak.

Buck Epler of Andrews will be the speaker at the noon meeting at the Cosden Country Club. His talk will be "It Could Happen to You." Dr. R. B. G. Cowper will preside at the luncheon.

During the afternoon, persons attending the meetings will be divided into three groups for discussions on Cancer Crusades, Mrs. O. D. Kennedy, Mrs. Jack Barley, both of Terry County, and Mrs. Bill Hardy of Fisher County will be in charge of the discussion groups.

Bo Bowen, Mrs. Clyde Angel, and Mrs. H. C. Stipp are on the registration committee, while Mrs. Alton Underwood, Mrs. Coy Nalley, and Mrs. Neil Norred are on the hospitality committee.

Delegates from the local organization are Miss E. Bowen, Mrs. Stipp, Mrs. Garner, Mrs. Adams, Rad Ware, and Dan Krause.

Gee Moving To France, Hull Is New Lions Leader

Ted Hull has been named new president of the Evening Lions Club, it was announced today.

Hull will replace Owen Gee who is being transferred to France. Gee works for Cabot Carbon Co.

The action was taken by the executive board of the club after the regular meeting Monday night. Hull has been first vice president and has presided at the meetings for the past two months while Gee was in Pampa on temporary duty.

The executive board also promoted Squeaky Thompson from second to first vice president, Bob Tawater from third to second vice president, and Earl Penner to third vice president.

Ted Phillips presented the program at the meeting Monday, showing slides of his stay in Mexico. In addition to Phillips, other visitors present were C. D. Wade and Carl Schaffhauser.

It was announced that the next meeting would be a Ladies Night. Royce Cooper also announced that the club's blood-donor drive would be officially launched on Feb. 11 with blood-typing of all volunteers in the courthouse.

Legislators Agree State Due New Tax

AUSTIN (AP)—House and Senate money-wise members agreed last night that Texans definitely will have a new tax this year.

One said an extra session of the Legislature will be needed to pass it.

Sen. William S. Fly of Victoria and Rep. Frates Seeligson of San Antonio said they didn't know whether a new tax bill could be passed during the regular session.

Fly said he had a special session would have to be called.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Says Budget Cut Will Cripple Hospital Program

To the Editor:

Many of us heard Mr. Frazier's news item this morning that Big Spring State Hospital's budget request for 1960 has been cut $300,000 by the State Budget Board. This letter is a plea to the people of Big Spring to realize how important this decision is, how detrimental it will be to the progress of our hospital.

For the past six months those connected with the hospital have had two main goals: Better care and treatment for the patients and an increased community understanding of what the hospital can offer to those in need. Many people in Big Spring have worked with the hospital staff through volunteer activities and learned that a state mental hospital is a place to come with its new patients, developing new programs which can reach more people quickly. It is a widely accepted fact that the earlier we know of and treat the illness, the better chance we have of correcting the emotional disturbance and preventing chronic, lifelong, illness.

The staff is grateful to all those who have helped us encourage early acceptance of the aid which is offered. The hospital has tried to keep pace with its new patients, developing new programs which can reach more people quickly. It is a widely accepted fact that the earlier we know of and treat the illness, the better chance we have of correcting the emotional disturbance and preventing chronic, lifelong, illness.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. JUNE WRIGHT

Sideswipe Due From Norther

A slow-moving norther was due to take a sideswipe at Texas Tuesday.

The Arctic air mass was due to bring snow and temperatures down to around 12 degrees Tuesday night in the Panhandle and South Plains. Snow flurries were forecast for the extreme north portion of North Central Texas.

Forecasters said that the center of the storm was veering to the east of Texas into Oklahoma. Severe snow warnings were issued for Kansas and Oklahoma.

A freezing drizzle and a reading of 28 degrees was reported at Dalhart, where fog cut visibility to a quarter of a mile early Tuesday. Amarillo, with 35 degrees, also reported fog.

The front was stationary on a line running from Wichita Falls westward north of Lubbock and into New Mexico before dawn.

Partly cloudy to cloudy weather prevailed over most of the state. Early morning temperatures ranged upward to 67 degrees at Brownsville and Alice.

Maximum readings Monday afternoon ranged from 44 degrees at Dalhart to 82 at Alice.

Gra-Y Pet Show Set Tonight

Members of the Gra-Y—grade school Y—program will have their inning in the YMCA week observance this evening.

Everything from love birds to mutts of dubious ancestry is expected for the pet show scheduled at 7 o'clock in the YMCA building.

Boys entering pets should have them at the Y at 6:30 o'clock.

There will be three classes with first, second and third place ribbons in each class. They are cats, dogs and any other pets.

Besides these placings there will be an award for the largest pet, the smallest pet and the most unusual pet.

Judges will be Dr. Kirk Simpson, James Eubanks and Mrs. Marilyn Fortson.

All parents of the 150 or more boys in Gra-Y are invited to attend as are all others interested in witnessing this event.

Fast Gun Fails In Wife Assault

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP)—A laborer who once served time for shooting a man in a Western-style gun draw in a hotel lobby tried seven times Monday to shoot his estranged wife in Circuit Court here.

William Gann, 24, was held today on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon in trying to shoot his wife, Helen, as she neared the witness stand in a hearing over support for their two children.

The weapon did not fire because Gann was using American ammunition in a foreign-made pistol.

Lawyer John Grimes, waiting for another case, took the pistol from Gann as the court bailiff and another lawyer hurried Mrs. Gann out of the courtroom.

Gann was sentenced to prison for a year in 1953 after shooting Don Gurnsey in the spine. Police said the two wound up a day's drinking in an argument over which could draw and fire the fastest.

Stockholders Meet Set At Country Club

Annual stockholders meeting of the Big Spring Country Club is set for 7:30 p.m. today at the clubhouse.

A. K. Turner Jr., president, urged all stockholders to take part in the session, one of the most important in a long time.

Among other details, the stockholders will name directors and officers. They also may consider other business which will have long range implications for the club.

Girl Detained

A 24-year-old Latin American girl, seized by waterlister, grabbed a passing freight train and rode in a flat car all the way to El Paso last week, according to Shorty Long, county juvenile officer. She was picked up there and Big Spring officers were notified. She is now in the detention ward in the county jail.

Wins First Place

Farrel Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron B. Smith, former residents who recently moved to Odessa, took first place in his division at the All-State band try-outs Saturday in Lubbock. The tenor saxophonist was a band student in Big Spring. The senior Smith is an employe of Westex Oil Co.

Special music at the banquet was provided by Janice Dixon and Ronnie Phillips. H&CJ students who sang selections from "Oklahoma." They were accompanied by Frank Arner. Dinner music was furnished by Mike Jarratt. Invocation was by James H. Stephens, president of the Hi-Y Council.

Rites Held Today For Mrs. Lacy, 75

Funeral services for Mrs. Fannie Jane Lacy, 75, former Big Spring resident, were to be held at 4 p.m. today in the River Chapel with the Rev. Weldon Stevenson, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Lacy died Saturday in a hospital at Fort Worth, where she had resided since moving from Big Spring four years ago.

Interment is to be in the City Cemetery beside her late husband, the late Charlie Lacy, who died in 1949.

Pallbearers will be to be Floyd Pritz, A. G. Hall, W. P. Holland, Lloyd Kinman, Carl Hammack and Jimmy Brunson.

Bobby Carlile Heads A&M Club

COLLEGE STATION — Bobby Carlile of Stanton has been elected president of the Student Chapter of the American Society of Agronomy at Texas A&M College.

Larry Hausman of Goliad is vice president and Norman Mahrenholz of Vincesnes, Ind., is treasurer. They are all seniors.

Other officers elected include Harold Henk of San Marcos, treasurer and Dale Darling of College Station, reporter, both juniors. Dr. H. E. Hampton, professor in the agronomy department, is the faculty advisor.

Burglars Strike Service Station

Between $18 and $20 was the amount taken in a burglary of the Phillips Service Station at Eleventh and Johnson last night.

Police officers said that burglars broke into the station by prying the lock off the front door. All the money was taken from a cigarette machine.

Lunacy Hearings Conducted For Nine

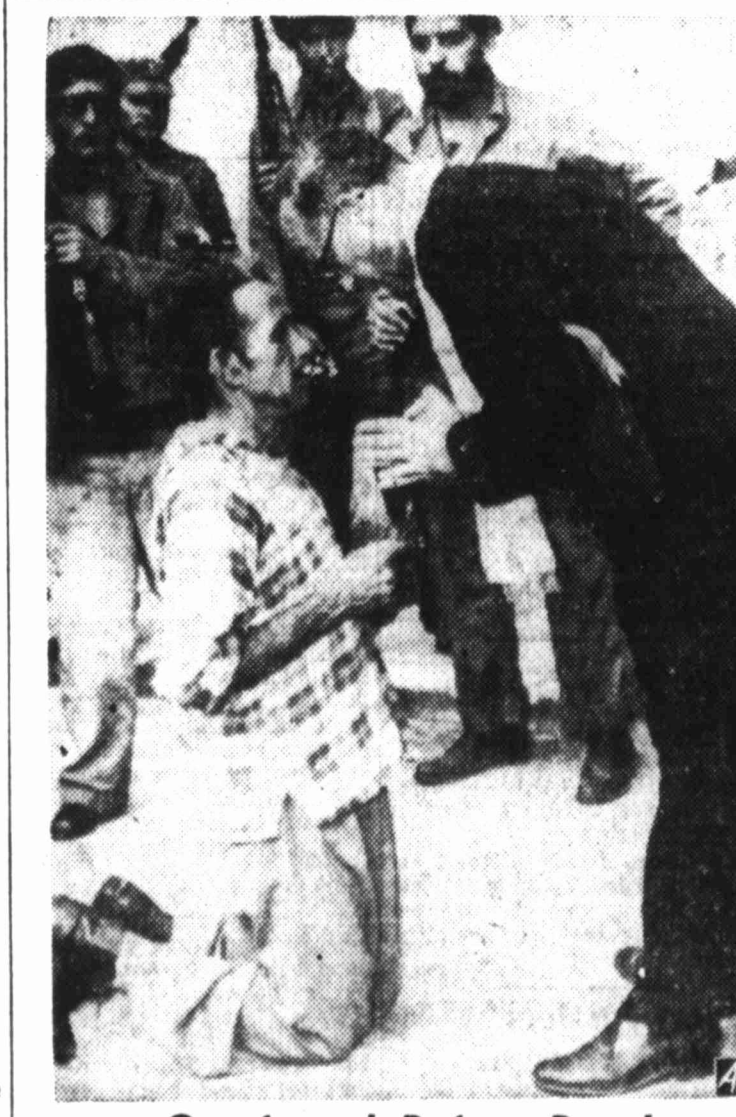

Nine lunacy hearings were conducted at the Big Spring State Hospital this morning.

Judge Ed Carpenter of county court presided. Wayne Burns, county attorney, and Pauline Pettit, county clerk, were present to represent the county at the hearings. This was one of the smallest lunacy dockets for any month in a long time.

Mrs. Robinson Is Slightly Improved

Some slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. Viola Robinson, Howard County tax collector, was reported Tuesday morning.

She has been in the hospital for a week suffering from a heart condition. She is in Medical Arts Hospital.

A Devotional For Today

I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. (Psalms 122:1.)

PRAYER: Gracious God, help us not to become anemic in our faith. Awaken in us the love for Thy house; let difficulties keep us from worship of Thee. Give us the faith and persistence which we so often lack. We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen.

Democracy And Communism Don't Mix

Regardless of the welcome given him in this country, or anything done in conferences with high government figures including the President, or any agreements or engagements undertaken, or anything else under the shining sun, Anastas Mikoyan is still the faithful and dependable representative of the Kremlin and the goal of the communists: to conquer the world for communism.

Even at the time Mikoyan was soft-soaping the American people and bamboozling some floating the idea that communism and freedom can co-exist in the earth, organs of Communist authoritarianism were blasting away at the very suggestion that these two mortal ideological enemies could ever, like the lamb and the lion, lie down together.

By way of lecturing Yugoslavia for its deviationism, the magazine Kommunist, which reflects the thinking of the Kremlin masterminds, blasts Tito's notion that the Western system might one day evolve into something "with which world communism might live in peace," to quote an AP commentator.

There is only one way to communism,

Communist warns Tito — the Soviet way. Capitalism will have to be overthrown everywhere and be succeeded by a dictatorship of the proletariat; "it is wrong for a Red nation to collaborate with capitalist countries and make apologies for the capitalist system."

This is the gospel according to St. Lenin and Stalin in the Red theocracy. It always has been and deep down it always will be, regardless of how Soviet spokesmen in search of ways and means of undermining Western determination to hold the ramparts of freedom may seek to twist its meaning for temporary gain.

The visit of Mikoyan, and the great deference and unwarranted respect shown him, is calculated to undermine Western determination, and to drive a wedge between the U. S. and her friends and allies.

No other interpretation is possible. And this was the sole aim of the Mikoyan visit.

To the extent that he weakened American determination to stand firm and not be taken in by Communist blandishments, Mikoyan has scored heavily for the Communist cause throughout the world.

Wholesome Influence -- The YMCA

Among the more encouraging developments that have been going on for the past few years for the betterment of our community is the tremendous growth of the YMCA in influence and impact.

Much of the story was told, cheerfully so, at the Y's annual membership banquet meeting last evening.

While most of us put too much emphasis upon the "delinquency" of the younger generation, we are prone perhaps not to give sufficient recognition to those programs and influences that are making our young people better citizens.

The Y's program has broadened so in scope that it is reaching thousands of people—all the way from little fellows in the Indian Guide program to adults who get recreational and informational work in Y classes. Through every phase of the YMCA program there is the very strong foundation of Christian principles, and a religious motif underscores every Y activity. This alone is enough to assure continuing success for the Y program.

The expansion of the YMCA and its increasing acceptance in the community has been substantially proven in the fine job that has been done toward providing a new physical plant. This is one of the organization's crying needs, and it is cheering to note that probably within a year this need will be filled.

Such a physical investment could come about only when the YMCA deserves it, and shows it can make full and profitable use of it. This the YMCA is doing, and all its workers are due a salute as they reach a climax to one year's activity, and enter a new year of work.

Justice Warren And The Bar Association

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Earl Warren has resigned as a member of the American Bar Association — but how he did it and why is something of a mystery. He says he wrote a letter of resignation in the autumn of 1957. The association's secretary says no such letter was received. Only when a bill for current dues was presented to the Chief Justice did the association learn that he wanted to resign. To clarify the matter, the Chief Justice now has written a formal letter of resignation, but he does not give any reasons.

Rumors have been current here for some time, however, that the Chief Justice was withdrawing from the American Bar Association. They were heard more often just after the conference of state chief justices adopted last August, by a vote of 36 to 8, a report critical of various decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. The report was submitted by a committee established by the conference at its annual meeting in August 1957 in a resolution "expressing concern" over "recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States."

It has been widely reported that Chief Justice Warren was not only miffed at the 1957 action but was particularly disturbed when a speech criticizing Supreme Court decisions was delivered on August 25, 1958, by Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of Michigan, chairman of the conference of state chief justices. This was at the annual dinner in honor of the judiciary given by the American Bar Association's section of judicial administration. Besides Chief Justice Warren, Justices Clark and Brennan of the Supreme Court of the United States were present and heard the Michigan chief justice say:

"The conference report, so far from attacking the court, expresses only its concern with certain of the decisions. It contains no applause for suggestions on the political front that the court be stripped, by congressional action, of any of its traditional powers. The power of the court to uphold and reserve human liberty and the rights of the people must not be crippled, curbed or destroyed. The conference report would have none of this. It concludes, therefore, in most respectful and temperate terms, and with extreme restraint, to urge upon the court, that:

particularly in the field of determining federal and state powers and relationships, it exercise that greatest of all judicial powers, the power of judicial self-restraint, by constant recognition and giving effect to the vital difference between what, on the one hand, the Constitution prescribes or permits and that which, on the other, may, from time to time, to the majority of the court, seem desirable or undesirable, and by adhering firmly to its tremendous, strictly judicial powers and eschewing so far as possible the exercise of essentially legislative powers, contenting itself with use of the policy-making role, where at all necessary, with only the utmost care and moderation.

"Such is the general tenor of the report, offered in a spirit of good will and cooperation in the public interest. If, perchance, it should come to the attention of the esteemed members of the Court, it is our fervent wish and hope that it will be received and considered in like fashion."

But evidently it wasn't. The comment among members of the bar around Washington was that not only was Chief Justice Warren annoyed but that so were the other two members of the Supreme Court who were present.

It seems incredible, however, that any members of the federal judiciary — particularly those who are so quick to crack down on the intolerance of school boards or state bar associations when they frown upon teachers or applicants with a Communist background — would be intolerant about speeches or criticisms by fellow members of the legal profession, especially state jurists.

The report adopted by the conference of state chief justices unfortunately was not published in full text by those newspapers in the East which usually give considerable space to such pronouncements, so the report itself has not had the widespread reading which it otherwise might have had.

An exchange of letters recently between U. S. Attorney General Rogers and Chief Justice Brune of Maryland's highest court, chairman of the committee which prepared the report, performed a service in drawing attention to the fact that the state chief justices did not mention the desegregation cases but did call for the exercise of "judicial self-restraint" in many other decisions affecting state and federal relationships. For the wider impact of the state chief justices' report has been misrepresented by those who have passed it off as just another argument on the subject of desegregation, when actually the subject wasn't touched on by the state chief justices. The report does, of course, expose the weaknesses and inconsistencies of the U. S. Supreme Court in many recent decisions. (New York Herald Tribune.)

Two Questions About Mikoyan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, home-bound today, left a trail of questions behind him. They can be boiled down to two: why did he come? What was the result of his visit?

A modern form of self-torture is to try to read the Kremlin's mind. Many interpretations have been put on the Soviet deputy premier's visit here.

But the reason for his trip may be this simple: He just wanted to look around, and, as a byproduct, create a little good will for the Soviet Union.

So far as is known he didn't budge an inch or anything and neither did the Eisenhower administration.

It's traditional, in thinking of relations between nations, to regard everything one of them does as a profound, stiff, stuffy and highly meaningful move or counter-move in high diplomacy.

It might sometimes be more realistic, in the case of the Soviets, to think of some of their actions in simpler terms.

Hal Boyle

Unusual For An Actor

NEW YORK — Van Heflin has an unusual ambition for an actor. He wants to remain an actor.

"I've never had a real desire to direct or produce, as so many actors do," said the big red-haired ex-sailor, who is one of the most literate as well as best-liked personalities in the entertainment field.

"I wasn't born with a good enough looking puss to be the guy who always gets the girl, and that has enabled me to play a variety of characters. And when you have a variety of characters, you have a variety of characters. And when you have a variety of characters in your life you never get bored."

Heflin believes in realism. His latest role called for him to wear a beard. Van disclaimed a false beard, took the time to grow his own beard, complete with red handkerchiefs he later had to part with.

"You can always tell an actor with a phony beard," he said, grinning. "He won't let his hand near it for fear it'll come unstuck. His face also looks constricted, and he wears a forced smile."

Oklahoma-born Heflin was born in California, had considerable difficulty making up his mind whether he wanted a career in the theater or before the mast. After 13 weeks on Broadway, he went to sea for two full years, rising to the rank of third mate.

"One morning I woke up on San Francisco broke," he recalled. "I had been rolled the night before, and couldn't even remember where They've broken a lot of diplomatic rules since Nikita Khrushchev became boss and Mikoyan his right-hand man. For example: All the letter writing to President Eisenhower last year on a summit conference.

Khrushchev dropped the whole idea when it suited him. He had made some good propaganda at home with it, and perhaps a little headway with other people.

The Soviets have done the same thing other times, in other ways. They've twisted, turned, dodged, ducked, proposed, and reversed themselves as it suited them.

Why these tactics? One explanation could be that they look on us with contempt, think we're slow and pompous, figure they can jab and poke and dance around us, like kids in a cartoon calling a rich, fat man names and knocking his high silk hat off.

Since neither side wants a shooting war — it costs the Soviet Union nothing to try all sorts of unorthodox things. If it gains a little, good, so long as, if it loses, doesn't lose much.

The Kremlin didn't figure to lose by sending Mikoyan here. He is well able to take care of himself.

By his visit the Soviet might gain a little goodwill, although that could well be a secondary consideration so long as he got a look around, met some people, and did some talking intended to be beneficial to the Soviet Union.

It shouldn't have been surprising that he neither revealed nor proposed anything new. It would have been surprising if he had.

The Soviets are hard bargainers. For Mikoyan to come here and make concessions, without getting plenty in return, wouldn't have been bargaining.

The fact that he offered nothing new during his trip is pretty good evidence he came for the ride. His visit looks like just one of the impromptu, free-wheeling moves the Soviets have used since Khrushchev came to power.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

From Hong Kong down around the curve of Southeast Asia the shadow of Communist China looms increasingly large today.

At Hong Kong, Peking flexes its economic muscles and shows how it could put a desperate squeeze on the crown colony's booming economy when the right day comes. In Rangoon, Singapore, and Djakarta goods from the Chinese mainland are on sale in shops at prices which undercut those of Japan or India. Chinese banks squeeze out "noncooperative" merchants and make exceedingly favorable loans to those in local Chinese communities who will side with Peking.

In only one country outside of SEATO, the new Federation of Malaya, has there been effort to halt this economic and political penetration. Malaya has forthrightly banned the importation of Chinese textiles and has taken steps which will close down Communist China's bank at Kuala Lumpur.

The real peril to Hong Kong is that gradually throughout Southeast Asia products from Communist China will be underselling the whole range of goods which Hong Kong's spanking new factories now are manufacturing. If Hong Kong's new industrial boom — on which it has placed such hopes — is throttled, the colony's whole economy could tailspin. That is why some observers forecast that Communist China may eventually take over Hong Kong without firing a shot.

There are economists in free Asia who say hopefully that Communist China cannot continue these "dumping" practices without doing itself serious economic damage. But others simply remark, "With their abysmally low wage scales, they don't need to keep books."

Many Asians feel a vicarious satisfaction at Communist China's achievements in both the economic and military fields. Here is an Asian country which has made a prodigious name for itself, they comment. But disillusionment with Peking is beginning to set in here and there.

The launching of the system of communes has shocked some Asian opinion. Still other people in India, Burma, Malaya, and elsewhere have been aroused by the appearance of maps in Peking which show mainland China's boundaries southward significantly enlarged — by taking slices out of India, Burma, and Malaya.

If Peking persists in this sort of bumptious behavior, dropping the pose of reasonableness which it donned at the Bandung conference, a larger resistance to its designs may yet spring up among the understandable timid new regimes of Southeast Asia.

Around The Rim

He's Sorry, Lady

I got a letter a few days ago which shook me up.

I was so distressed by what it said that I have been carrying it around with me right next to my heart ever since it arrived.

It is a glaring example of the hurt that a fellow can sometimes do without even being aware of what he has done. There was no intent on my part to cause any disturbance by my action, but it seems I was wrong. I have just played the very dickens with a great organization.

Wait just a moment until I get the letter out of my hip pocket.

It all began some months ago when I checked up on my financial status and decided that it was to my fiscal advantage not to renew the subscription I have had for several years to a nationally circulated magazine.

So when the paid-up time ran out, I just didn't renew. I received several letters in the mail which from their outward appearance were obviously reminders that I had let my subscription lapse. These I carelessly and callously tossed into the wastebasket without even reading them.

I know now what a grade A heel I was by so doing.

I happened to open one letter by mistake the other day.

I quote from part of it: "Dear reader," it begins. "Will you write to me? I am very curious to know why you have not renewed your Blank Magazine subscription. Miss X of our subscription department tells me that she has written you several times about it but has had no reply.

"If you have really made up your mind not to renew I would like to take this opportunity of telling you what a pleasure it has been to have your name on our list for so long and to say how sorry I am that you have made this decision."

It goes on in this same heart-breaking strain to advise me that this lady — Miss R. E. — is enclosing a ready addressed postal card with the postage already paid. All she pleads, she wants is that I jot down on this postcard a "short personal note" to her saying why I decided to make so drastic a decision.

I was deeply touched by this letter. Farther than that I am told if I will only change my mind I can pay any old time I want to.

Then the lady wrote across the letter in red ink "may we hear from you please?"

I am ashamed of myself. I didn't know that they even cared in that great big magazine office way off there in the East. In fact, I suspected they didn't even know I was a subscriber.

And I certainly didn't intend to get things all in an uproar. I just didn't happen to have the cash it would take to renew the subscription and I just acted thoughtlessly, I guess.

Well, I sure would like to do something to make amends. Something besides sending in the money, that is. I just can't find it in my heart to do that. So, disturbed or no, this kind lady will just have to take a tranquilizer pill, tell herself "Well, Sam Blackburn just isn't going to renew his subscription" and made the best of it. I am real sorry.

Americans Not 'Sold' By Mikoyan

Americans of every social strata are too smart to be gulled, lulled or bullied by Anastas I. Mikoyan and the sweet-talking claptrap he has been producing on his cross-country tour of the U.S.A., in the sally opinion of a leading American capitalist.

"No American is being taken in by this Russian burlesque show starring Mikoyan," said Gordon W. Reed, board chairman of the Texas Gulf Producing Company and consultant to the U. S. Air Force on its whole missile program.

"It's nonsense to believe the American people and industry are so stupid that Mikoyan can soften us up for another blow at this country," he snorted, when we met the other day.

"At the Economic Club dinner the other night, I sat next to Mikoyan. Or rather, his interpreter, Alex Troyanovsky, sat between us so we could talk to each other.

"Now, that dinner was attended by 1,200 leaders of American finance, business and industry. And everyone was there in the mood of a fella attending a burlesque show. Not one was fooled by Mikoyan. You know as well as I do that if Al Capone came back to life, someone would give a dinner for him!"

"I don't know a single person who went to that dinner last week who didn't exit laughing at Mikoyan and his show. Do you think that crowd was fooled when Mikoyan told it that Russia had freedom of the press until we — we, mind you! — started the cold war?"

"If I were writing a definite headline to cover this whole Mikoyan tour, I'd just say: 'The Clown Takes the Bow.' You can't believe a word the Russians say, and Mikoyan's visit hasn't altered that fact in the American mind.

"You never know how much of what you're saying to a Russian really gets through to him. But I told Mikoyan that it was we Americans, not the Communists, who had solved the problem of how to take money away from the rich and share it with the poor without bloodshed. We do it via the income tax. I pointed out to him that the highest income tax rate in the U.S.S.R. is 15 per cent versus our 92 per cent.

"I also pointed out to him that our inheritance tax ranges up to 80 per cent, while the U.S.S.R. has neither an inheritance nor a gift tax. I told him that what Russia really has is state capitalism with inherited jobs."

"There can be no doubt but that what is eating the Russians is the German question. They are terrified of another Hitler who would unify and militarize the Germans, the most powerful nation in Western Europe. They want to get our armed forces out of Germany. But they'd probably keep there a uniformed police of their own, that could be expanded, and we'd be dead."

"I talked with Mikoyan about the oil business and Arab turmoil, but how much got over to him I'll never know. I made the point that if the Arab countries collapse into such turmoil that oil production comes to a halt, Russia could and would take over the Arab oil market.

"Russia has enormous oil potentials. She couldn't take over the Arab markets immediately, but she could eventually. And don't think she wouldn't double-cross her 'Arab friends' if she got the chance in the oil market."

"No, Americans haven't been gulled. I think Mikoyan has learned considerable. I think he's discovered that the American capitalist is an alert, steady guy. Mikoyan's going home, I'm sure, with a wholesome respect for the U.S.A." (Copyright 1958, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

The Texas Poll

Financial Needs Of State Government

By JOE BELDEN
Director, The Texas Poll

Ninety-nine per cent of us Texans are failing to recognize the financial needs of the state government.

The "ninety-nine per cent" is not a figure of speech. When Texas Poll interviewers recently asked a cross section of adults what they thought needed to be done by the state government in the next year or two, only 1 per cent mentioned bringing in more revenue — which practically all experts agree is the number-one problem facing the new Legislature.

The citizenry places school integration and educational improvements ahead of the fiscal problem. Financial matters of various kinds were mentioned by about as many people as mentioned the need to improve highways, higher old age and retirement benefits, and water conservation.

So the widespread publicity given current state needs for new money we apparently had little effect. Headlines have been pounding the fact that Texas will be in the red by more than $60 million come next August, and, on top of that, about $75 million of new revenue will be needed per year to maintain government services at existing levels. Growth, higher cost, and the depressed status of the oil industry are given as the main reasons for these conditions.

Obviously some people are uninformed of the problem. Others choose to push it aside in their minds. In the survey a total of 8 per cent named state finances as something they felt needed to be done by the government in the immediate future; of these, however, 4 per cent said "cut taxes," and 3 per cent said "stop waste."

This is not to imply there is no awareness of the problem. As we will show in a subsequent Texas Poll report, when asked directly about the matter, many say they have heard or read about it. But the rank and file does not have the raising of more money uppermost in mind as a pressing problem at the state level.

A sampling of one thousand men and women representative of the entire state was asked these questions a few weeks before the Legislature convened: "Are there some things that you feel need to be done by the state government of Texas during the next year or two? Tell me whatever you think should be done by the state. Anything else you can think of?" Here are the responses, compared to the answers given to similar questions in other years:

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Good Grooming Paid Off With Good Jobs

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Marilyn Hanold believes that good grooming pays off. This stately beauty, who is whirling from one TV show to another, was once a secretary.
"Mother would not hear of my going into show business, but it was a secret wish in my heart. I told myself I would dress for my job as carefully as if I were dressing for the cameras.
"I didn't have much time or money to spend on myself, but I had a plan. The night before, I always got everything out that I was going to wear the next day, and I saw to it that everything was ready to be slipped into immediately.
"I didn't have many clothes, but what I had were good. I would pay $20 for skirts because they hold their shape better and come back from the cleaners looking like new. I had easy-to-iron blouses and nylon sweaters so that I always had something fresh to wear.
"Looking hand-box clean means everything to me. My hair was long and I wore it in a chignon which was easy to keep neat.
"Mother believed in big breakfasts—eggs, bacon, toast—the works. If it had been up to me I would have had nothing more than a cup of coffee, but I know

Mrs. Vance Kimble, chairman of the Iva Mae Moffett Circle III, opened her home to the members. She discussed the survey article and announced her intention of being in San Angelo Thursday.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

There's a lot to be said about Corpus Christi, and what I can say about it with great truth is that it's a long way from Big Spring.
It was worth the long drive to see so many good friends and especially to see former city manager HERBERT WHITNEY, MRS. WHITNEY and their daughter, BETH. Talking with them of their new location, we learned that the coast city has a number of former Big Springers.
The Whitneys are enjoying renewing their friendship with MR. AND MRS. NED BEAUREAU. She is the former Thelma Jackson, who with her sister Evelyn, furnished many a violin duet for the various civic gatherings here during the time they taught school here. Mrs. Beaudreau plays with the Corpus Christi Symphony.
Another native of this city who is making his home in the fast growing city is VERNON CRAWFORD. Another is HOWARD HEFFLEY, brother of Rogers Heffley.
Another, who made his home here for several years when he served as high school principal in 1929-31, is DR. ERNEST POTEET who is at present president of A&I at Kingsville. We visited with him and his wife at dinner Saturday night and found that although he has been away for many years, he still has a great fondness for West Texas.

TINY LEDBETTER, who worked for Empire Southern Gas here and married MARIE GRAY, lives down in the country where the mist rolls in nearly every night.
We enjoyed seeing MR. AND MRS. ROBERT (RED) WILLIAMS, who is head of the Corpus Christi school system. He mentioned his friendship with Clyde Angel, and both the Williamses asked to be remembered to MR. AND MRS. FLOYD PARSONS.
Also we got to visit with MR. AND MRS. CECIL BURNEY of Corpus Christi, who had known the Floyd Parsons for years. Burney and Parsons were in the University of Texas together and the families more than once lived in the same town.
There is a host of other former Big Springers in Corpus—among them Frank Williamson, brother of Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards; Alvis Lovelace, and, of course, Cliff Lawrence, who used to be on the Herald staff.

Class Luncheon, Women's Meeting Are Held At First Presbyterian

The First Presbyterian Church was the center of women's activities Monday. Following a covered dish luncheon for the Elizabeth McDowell Class, there was a business meeting for all the women of the church.
MCDOWELL CLASS
Mrs. Lucian Jones and Mrs. Dalton Mitchell were hostesses for the covered dish luncheon enjoyed by 11 members of the Elizabeth McDowell Class and their five guests.
The visitors were Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, who brought the invocation; R. Gage Lloyd Jr., Mrs. W. W. Harrell of Morristown, Tenn., Mrs. Norman Furlong and Mrs. William Lyons.
While mums were grouped as the centerpiece.

Shower Is Given For Recent Bride

Mrs. Bobby Potts was honored recently at a miscellaneous shower, given in the home of Mrs. Howard Schoffer.
She is the former Alice Kay Coats, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Coats of Coahoma.
Hostesses were Mrs. R. L. Cooper, Mrs. Lee Cahoon, Mrs. T. A. Brown, Mrs. L. O. Coppegge and Mrs. Gerald Bell.
The register was marked with a miniature wedding ring and a Bible. Refreshments were served from a table laid in pink linen and centered with an arrangement of pink and white snapdragons and tapers.
Gifts were displayed on a table decorated in the same fashion.

Women of the Church, Monday Afternoon, Announcement Was Made of the District Meeting of Women Slated for Thursday at the First Church in San Angelo. Mrs. Lucian Jones, Mrs. Cecil Wasson, Mrs. C. E. McStravick and Mrs. T. S. Currie are making plans to represent the local First Church.

Mrs. Joe Moss presided for the session which opened with prayer by Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach. The devotional period was divided among several speakers, who reviewed coordinated articles. Basing her presentation on 1 Cor. 4:12, Mrs. McStravick told of World Mission Progress. She quoted excerpts from Norman A. Homer's book, "Missionary To Africa."
"Their Responsibility, Are They Ready?" was the topic given by Mrs. Charles Harwell, while Mrs. Earl Stovall spoke on "Are Our Missionaries Ready for Christianity?" The concluding part was taken by Mrs. Schwarzenbach who dealt with "Fellowship With the Exchange of Personalities." A panel discussion centered on Questions of Christians from Other Lands.
Mrs. H. C. Stipp dismissed the 19 with prayer.

WSCS Meet Is Led By Mrs. Thomas

Mrs. Pete Thomas was in charge of the program, given Monday afternoon for the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service at the church in Coahoma.
Subject for the discussion was Spiritual Food, and the group suggested the kind of spiritual food needed by each member. Susie Brown read the scripture selection, and Mrs. Joe Whirley gave the devotion on the topic, Bridges.
During a business meeting, members discussed the spending done for the Texas Home Missions and the Conference Daughters. Refreshments were served in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Ed Carpenter.
Mrs. Thomas and Miss Brown were hostesses.
Members were dismissed with the circle prayer.

First Baptist Circles Have Monday Meeting

As is their custom on the third Monday of the month, members of the First Baptist WMS met at circles in various homes. The gatherings are a combination study period and social meeting for the groups.
CHRISTINE COFFEE
In a study on Measuring Your Success at Enlisting Women in Missions, Monday morning at the home of Mrs. Clyde Angel, the Christine Coffee Circle correlated the importance of household measuring devices in their purpose with the ingredients of a Christian life.
Mrs. Charles Sweeney introduced the program by stating "We are short in our measurements of a Christian life when we commit sin against God and humanity." She listed the seven deadly sins of modern society as policies without principles, wealth without work, pleasure without conscience, knowledge without character, industry without morality, science without humanity and worship without sacrifice.
World Awareness was discussed by Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, who had phrased the opening prayer. She stated that WMS membership develops a awareness of stirrings among the world's people for recognition and understanding. Mrs. H. Cowan pointed to the various sizes of measuring spoons and noted that they become larger, just as a woman's vision becomes larger as her prayer life develops.

Mrs. Sweeney cited fellowship with other women as an indispensable appeal in enlisting women in missions, while Mrs. Angel said that in measuring success in any WMS, the variety of women the society is trying to reach must be considered; personal witnessing must be reinforced with tact and prayer.
"A yardstick of successful enlistment is the number of women the society has trained for leadership," observed Mrs. G. G. Morehead. Mrs. R. D. Urey handed the hostess a jar of preserves, and revealed that many faithful women among the South Alabama Indians give one tenth of their canned goods to young people's assemblies.
Mrs. Urey presided for the business session, when committee reports were heard and a letter was read from a local rest home acknowledging gifts. She introduced to the nine members Mrs. Della K. Agnell, who told the group of the Feb. 17 birthday of Mrs. Robert Chambers, missionary emeritus who is now residing at 2875 West 33rd Ave., Denver 11, Colo. Each member of her WMS will send birthday remembrances to Mrs. Chambers who served 29 years in the mission field in China, as Christine Coffee.

Mrs. Cowan will be hostess to the circle Feb. 16. Mrs. M. R. Erhardt will be reviewer of one chapter of "Ways of Witnessing," John Caylor, at the all-day session Feb. 23; all circles will participate.
MARY WILLIS
Indonesia, Malay and Thailand were considered in a review heard Monday afternoon by the Mary Willis Circle. Mrs. F. W. Bettie, guest reviewer, concluded J. W. Crawley's book "Into A New World."
Mrs. G. J. Couch opened the meeting with prayer at the home of Mrs. Theo Andrews. The birthday calendar was handled by Mrs. H. H. Squyres.

Runnels Tri Hi Y Hears Discussion

At a meeting of the Runnels Eighth Grade Tri-Hi-Y Monday afternoon at the YMCA, the girls heard a panel discuss what boys expect of a date. Bringing the program were Larry Gist, Donnie Clanton and Carl Paris.
The devotion for 20 members was read by Susan Gibbs. Candidates for the Valentine Queen were named, and include Carolyn Wallin, Judy Jones and Beverly Dobbins.

Inaugurations Keep Legislature Away

AUSTIN (AP)—The problem of taxes or some way to find an estimated 181 million dollars in new revenue was shoved aside today as the inauguration moved into the spotlight.

Gov. Price Daniel and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey took their oaths, then participated in festivities which also kept legislators away from their work.

Both Houses met briefly this morning.

The House yesterday sent to the Senate house bill No. 1, which would transfer $1,750,000 from funds to pay for the legislators' $25 a day and operating expenses of the regular session. It also agreed with the Senate that on May 12 the session should end.

No opposition was voiced to taking $950,000 from the state insurance building fund. Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria said the money would not be needed since construction was not expected to start until next year. He said the money would be replaced.

Another $800,000 would come from the operator's and chauffeur's license fund of the Department of Public Safety.

The effect of the sine die—ending the session as set out in the constitution after 120 days when member's pay checks stop—was talked about more after it was passed.

Some members felt, as Speaker Waggoner Carr has said, that it would set a deadline for the Legislature to complete its work. Others considered it as a "death message" for highly controversial matters unless they could be considered in special sessions.

"Everyone thought at the time they were doing the right thing," Rep. J. C. Zbrank of Daisetta said. "It passed because enough of the members didn't stop to consider it, but there'll be some second thought on the part of a lot of people."

The Senate passed the sine die resolution on the session's opening day Jan. 13. Only 22 House members voted against it yesterday.

"It looks like such matters as small loans water and other controversial subjects which need legislation have gone by the way-side," Zbrank said.

Rep. Criss Cole of Houston will sponsor a constitutional amendment and bill aimed at regulating the small loan business. It has been pinpointed as one of the major problems, next to the state's financial troubles. If the constitutional amendment is not acted on before the sine die takes effect, it will have to wait until 1961 because amendments cannot be considered in special sessions.

Collapse Raises Segregation Issue

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The collapse of Virginia's massive resistance laws in the courts raised the question today whether segregation will be breached in public schools before a new anti-integration program can be formulated.

Two separate court decisions Monday stripped the state of the laws which for more than two years had prevented classroom integration.

In a 5-2 decision, the State Supreme Court said the package of anti-integration laws passed by a special session of the Legislature in summer of 1956 violated Virginia's constitution. It was under provisions of one of these laws that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. closed and seized control of nine white public schools last September as the state moved to prevent court-ordered integration.

Almond planned to give a radio and television report on the school crisis to Virginians tonight.

Contributing further to the demise of the massive resistance laws was a ruling by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Norfolk that the school-closing statute violates the federal Constitution.

The state court ruling is not appealable. Its effect was to return to local control nine closed schools in Norfolk, Charlottesville, and Front Royal. Only in Norfolk did school officials demonstrate sentiment to reopen schools quickly. Thirteen thousand students were displaced by the school closings.

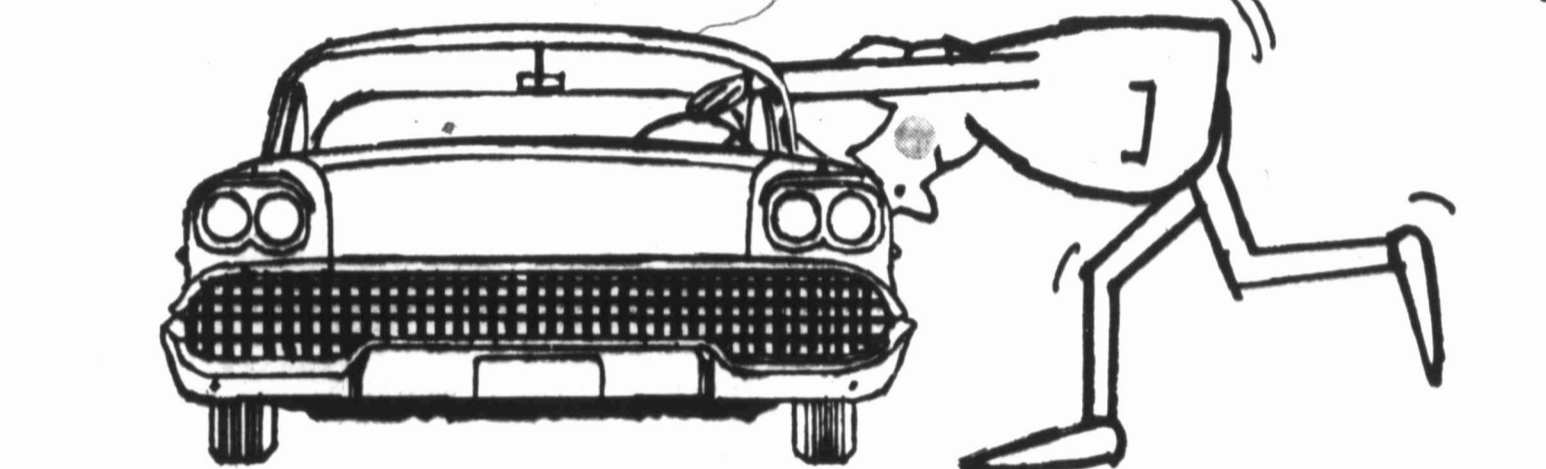

Ralph Schweitzer, chairman of the Norfolk School Board, said the board "is interested in educating the children of Norfolk. I personally feel that our first obligation to the children is to get our schools back in operation in an orderly manner at the earliest practicable date."

Charlottesville's school board met with City Council to discuss the school problem and deferred action pending an opinion from the city attorney.

Q. D. Gasque, Warren County school superintendent, said the board would "stand fast until we have an opportunity to discuss the matter with our counsel."

In Arlington County, across the Potomac from Washington, the school board directed its attorneys to ask for a stay of the federal court order of last September which called for admission of four Negro students to Stratford Junior High.

The board indicated the decision would be appealed up to the Supreme Court, if necessary. However, the board said if all appeals are turned down it would direct the county school superintendent to "take such reasonable and lawful steps as he deems necessary to maintain order and continued effective operation of the school."

Radio Panel Tells Growing Sex Role In Big Business

NEW YORK (AP)—Viewpoints expressed on a radio program indicate that sex has become big business in the world of big business.

Unidentified speakers on the program, "The Business of Sex," said that the use of call girls to help swing big deals for large corporations has become so widespread that some companies pay prostitutes by the month and others keep them on regular payrolls as part of public relations staffs.

The program, "recommended for adult listening only," was broadcast on the CBS network Monday night and narrated by Edward R. Murrow.

Girls described as prostitutes said anonymously they made as much as $25,000 a year through their deals with companies and did not pay income taxes.

One girl said that girls-for-hire actually get verbal agreements on deals for companies.

An unidentified corporation executive explained another aspect of company-financed prostitution.

"The point is that I know that the buyer has spent the night with a prostitute that I have provided in most cases the buyers are married, with families," he said. "It sort of gives me a slight edge; well, we will not call it exactly blackmail... it is a good weapon to have."

Estimates of the number of prostitutes operating here ranged from 5,000 to 30,000. One publicist said even more use is made of call girls in Chicago, St. Louis, and Cleveland.

T-Man Reports Number 1,221

There were almost half as many T-Man reports during 1958 as the previous year, according to the Citizens' Traffic Commission.

The CTC showed that T-Men (citizens watching for traffic violators) reported 1,221 violations last year as compared with 2,126 during 1957. These 1958 violations were committed by 920 drivers.

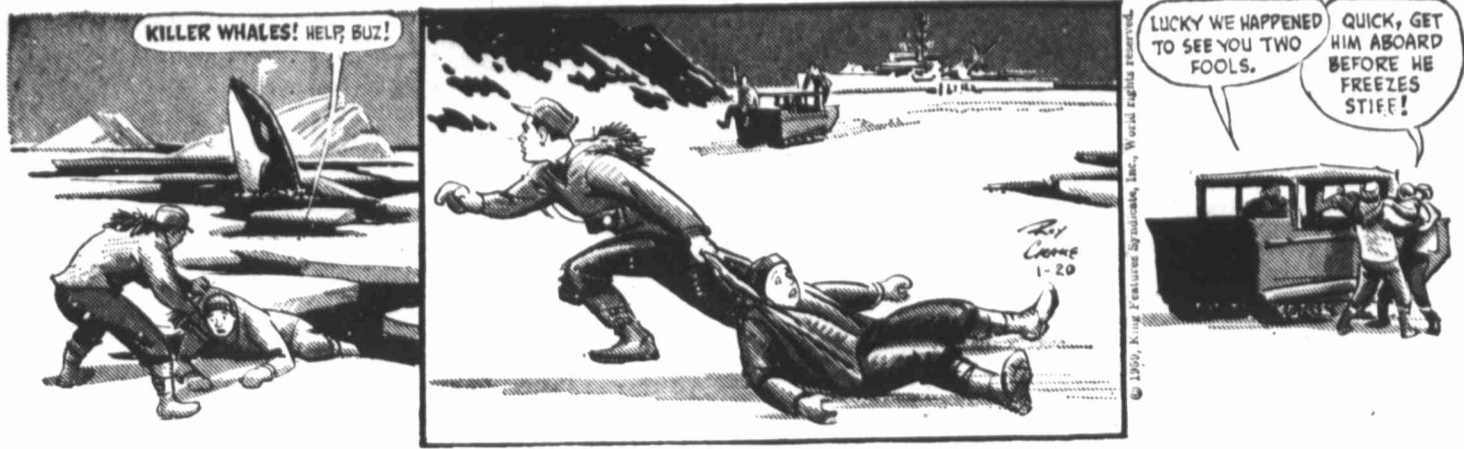

A total of 475 drivers were seen speeding by the T-Men, and 196 ran red lights. Seventy-six ran stop signs, and 74 cut in front of other vehicles. Twenty-eight drivers made turns from the wrong lanes, and 35 parked illegally. Eighteen disregarded pedestrians, while 12 were noted driving the wrong way on one-way streets.

On the courteous side of the ledger, 30 drivers went out of their way to use hand signals, while 27 volunteered right of way to pedestrians. Another 26 volunteered right of way to other cars, and 20 displayed extraordinary caution at intersections.

Dispute Over Dirt Results In Suit

Just plain dirt is the basis for a law suit filed on Monday in the 118th District Court.

The plaintiff is Williams & Dunlap, contracting firm building the Capehart Housing Project southwest of town. The defendant is W. D. (Dub) Caldwell, local contractor.

Plaintiffs obtained a temporary restraining order against Caldwell in the court on Monday and the court set a hearing for Jan. 23 on whether the injunction should become permanent.

The petition filed by the defendants recites that Williams & Dunlap are prime contractors for the housing project. Caldwell, they say, is an "off-site" contractor on the job, charged with building certain roads and streets.

The plaintiffs allege that under the terms of their contract they are charged with turbing all lands on the site except that where buildings are located. They are expected to plant grass, trees and shrubs. In order to make this effort work, they say, all top soil from the entire site has been carefully hoarded.

ed—a stockpile having been set up on the southeast corner of the tract. They planned, the plaintiffs, said, to place this soil on the yards of the houses.

Now, they complain, Caldwell has been helping himself to the stockpile of topsoil, using it on projects of his own. The plaintiffs say they have told the defendant to stop and have been defied. They have already lost 2,000 cubic yards of the dirt, valued by them at $3,000. They will lose more and their contract fulfillment with the Air Force will be materially delayed, they contend, if Caldwell isn't halted from taking dirt from the stock pile.

Judge Charlie Sullivan issued the temporary order and set Jan. 23 as the date on which he will decide if the order is to become a permanent one.

Who created the idea that went into the message that sent the reader out of the house to buy?

SINCE A MAJOR AMOUNT OF ADVERTISING is created by advertising agencies, the chances are that one of the country's 3,000 skilled agencies thought up, wrote, designed and placed the newspaper ad that sent this lady out to buy.

Last year advertising agencies and other advertisers in the U. S. and Canada placed over $10 billion worth of advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio, television and outdoor advertising. The largest amount, by far, was invested in daily newspapers.

The function of an advertising agency is to increase the sales and profits of its clients. In a relatively few years agencies have helped to make thousands of products household words. Through their contribution to greater sales, they as well as their clients have helped us to enjoy the highest standard of living anywhere in the world.

Agencies and newspapers have always worked closely to bring news of products and services to you. Most agencies, like the clients they serve so well, recognize the daily newspaper as the most effective advertising medium to introduce and maintain any product on the market.

Army Pvt. Vicente S. Bustamante, son of Mrs. Vicenta S. Bustamante, 1003 NW 1st, Big Spring, recently was assigned to the 304th Signal Battalion's Wire Company in Seoul, Korea.

Bustamante received basic training at Fort Carson, Colo., and arrived in the Far East last December. He was formerly employed by F. H. Talbot and Son Construction Co.

Walter C. Rose, aviation electronics technician third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus R. Rose of 1226 E. 15th St., Big Spring, a crew member aboard a seaplane of Patrol Squadron 46, on Dec. 20 assisted in the rescue of the crew of a Nationalist Chinese vessel which ran aground on a reef 200 miles from Manila, P. I.

The plane was on a routine patrol in the China Sea when her crew sighted the vessel flying three square red flags, the international distress signal. The plane immediately informed the search and rescue unit at Luzon, P. I., which dispatched the aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga and destroyer USS Buck to the scene. The flattop's helicopter picked up the survivors, and transported them to the destroyer for return to Subic Bay, P. I.

Army Cpl. Herbert D. Faulkenberry, son of Mrs. Emile A. Faulkenberry, Star Route 1, Lamesa, recently arrived in Germany and is now a member of the 46th Infantry.

Cpl. Faulkenberry, an assistant squad leader in the infantry's Company C in Munich, entered the Army in September 1949 and was last stationed at Fort Stewart, Ga. Among his awards he holds the Bronze Star Medal for valor and Combat Infantryman Badge. The 31-year-old soldier attended Lamesa High School.

Improve Service, Get Passengers, Airline Is Told

DALLAS (AP)—A Civil Aeronautics Board hearing was told yesterday that if Trans-Texas Airways would improve its service, Magnolia, Ark., would be able to furnish the minimum 150 passengers a month.

Magnolia and Brownwood, Tex., representatives appeared before the first day session of the CAB hearing, urging that airline service be continued at those two cities.

Trans-Texas is seeking to discontinue service to six points in Texas and five in Arkansas. The airline has said some of the cities have not met their quota of 150 passengers a month.

The air line is asking authority to continue flights to six other Texas cities.

Points which the airline seeks to drop are College Station, Bryan, Pecos, Beeville, Marshall and Coleman, Tex., and Camden, Magnolia, Stuttgart, Helena and West Helena, Ark. It is asking permission to continue serving Brownwood, Kerrville, Galveston, Fort Stockton, Marfa and Alpine, Tex.

Examiner Thomas Wrenn expects to hear testimony in behalf of all the cities during the week-long hearing. The cities are being heard in alphabetical order. Camden is scheduled to be heard first at today's session.

2 More Planners To Get Hearings

The last two firms being contacted about a master planning survey of Big Spring and the surrounding area will be interviewed by the special committee this afternoon.

On the special committee are two representatives each from the city, county, Big Spring, and HCJC school boards, as well as the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting is to be held at the City Hall at 5 p. m.

To be interviewed this afternoon are the firms of Forest & Cotton of Dallas, and Parkhill, Smith & Cooper of Lubbock.

Atomic Knife In Surgery

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Working with an invisible "atomic knife" Swedish scientists have pioneered a brain operation which neither opened the skull nor shed a drop of blood.

The team of brain surgeons and nuclear scientists at the Gustav Werner Institute for Nuclear Chemistry at Uppsala University destroyed diseased tissue with an American-invented proton ray.

The operation was performed on a man at 55, the team disclosed in radio and television interviews. By destroying a piece of tissue three millimeters thick inside the patient's skull, he was cured peacefully of a serious mental depression.

The man left the hospital two days later. A similar operation carried out by orthodox lobotomy would have required weeks of preparation and a long period of recovery.

Prof. Lars Leksell of Lund University, who supervised the operation, expressed belief the new method can be applied to ease many chronic pains, for treatment of Parkinson's disease and for certain mental illnesses.

Proton rays, the positive charged unit of the atom nucleus, penetrated the patient's brain from 18 directions during the two-hour operation, said Prof. Brod Rexed of Uppsala, one of the six-man team.

The atomic knife was supplied by the synchrocyclotron, one of only two in the world suitable for this kind of operation. The other is at the University of California at Berkeley.

During the operation, the patient was alone in the operating room. To avoid risk of atomic radiation, Leksell and his assistants operated the ray from an adjoining room and watched the patient on a closed television circuit.

Icy Air Grips Northern U.S.

By The Associated Press
Icy air tightened its grip across northern sections of the country today as new thrusts of snow, sleet and rain added further winter weather discomfort.

Below zero weather was the rule from east of the Rockies in Montana across North Dakota and northern Minnesota into Wisconsin and northern sections of Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy snow warnings, with falls of five inches or more, were posted for the Oklahoma panhandle and southern Kansas into extreme west central Missouri. Snow was widespread from Montana to eastern Colorado and most of Nebraska and South Dakota while heavy falls were reported in parts of eastern Wyoming.

More snow fell in the snow-plagued sections of the Northeast. Forecasters said two to five inches of fresh snow may hit northern parts of Maine and New Hampshire.

A wet belt extended from southern Missouri and northern Arkansas across Tennessee and the Ohio Valley. Snow and rain and freezing rain created hazardous driving conditions.

A general warming trend was reported in the Gulf and Atlantic Coast states although it was chilly again this morning in parts of northern Florida with temperatures dropping into the 30s.

Psychic Phenomena Featured In Series

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — "I believe in psychic phenomena," says actor John Newland. Although his belief has been long, he says he has not had the opportunity to participate in the expression of it in dramatic form until now. He is the host of a new series which dramatizes mystifying experiences on "Alcoa Presents," making its debut tonight on ABC-TV—10 p.m., EST.

Each program, he says, tells a story employing the basic elements of love, suspense, adventure—but based on an actual event of psychic overtones.

The opening half-hour drama concerns, he says, "a girl possessed of another wandering spirit who uncovers a murder. The case actually happened in Rome and was authenticated by the Vatican."

A man asked Newland if he believed that one skeptical of psychic phenomena who watched the series would be likely to be converted.

"We aren't trying to convert anybody," Newland replied. "We're trying to present good drama. But I believe that watching the program will make it harder for one to be a skeptic."

Newland went on to describe the background of one of the dramas in the new series. In Peru there are the ruins of massive, perfectly cut granite such as does not exist in the Andes and is found only in the Nile valley of Egypt. How was the granite moved from Africa to South America in some long past age?

"Look," Newland answered his own rhetorical question, "we can levitate this table. Table levitation is accepted everywhere."

He went on to expound his theory as to how the granite reached the high Andes from Egypt: By levitation, the art that possibly built the Pyramids and has since been lost after the death of those initiated into it.

The man said he was just a plain skeptic.

"You think about it," Newland said.

Ever since, the man has been bemused by the mental image of frail little Egyptians crossing the Atlantic in tiny boats as they levitated 20-ton blocks of granite overhead with delicate hands.

Questions Of Germ Warfare Shrouded In Secrecy, Mystery

By ROGER GREENE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Could a few ounces of lethal germ crystals wipe out the population of New York City — even annihilate all life on the North American Continent?

Could plague germs spread by an enemy touch off a nationwide epidemic?

Could enemy planes or saboteurs destroy this country's crops and livestock, reducing the land to starvation?

The truth about gas and germ warfare is shrouded in secrecy and mystery.

Last May, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization warned in an official report: "The Russians are capable of waging biological (germ) and chemical warfare on a large scale."

But the United States' policy on the use of these fearful weapons is top secret, says the Pentagon. One high Pentagon official puts it bluntly: "We're scared to death even to mention germ warfare."

One man who presumably should have the answers is Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubbs, chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

It took seven weeks for the Pentagon to approve a newsmen's interview with Gen. Stubbs. The event turned out to be little more than a handshaking formality.

Stubbs said frankly he would like to clear up many points of confusion but had been ordered to observe strict silence.

A written question was submitted to the Pentagon asking if we have enough biological warfare weapons now to combat the enemy if they used them first. After 25 days came back the reply: "The Chemical Corps has a capability in biological warfare."

In such an atmosphere of secrecy, it is little wonder that the most lurid distortions and conflicting statements about germ warfare go virtually unchallenged.

Item—Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the United Nations' World Health Organization, says scientists have discovered a substance so deadly that seven ounces would be enough to kill all the people in the world.

Item — Army pamphlet No. 8-12 entitled "What You Should Know About Biological Warfare": "No kind of biological warfare could kill or sicken every person in a large area or city. Talk of one ounce — of toxic material — killing millions is silly."

Item — The British Medical Journal says two or three drops of nerve gas on the skin will kill within 30 minutes; one drop in the eye or a tiny amount inhaled as vapor kills in a few minutes.

Item — Chemical Warfare Service handbook, issued by the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood Arsenal, Md.: "A single droplet of nerve gas in a person's eye could kill him."

Item — Col. D. G. Brothaus, commanding officer at the Army's Rocky Mountain Arsenal where nerve gas is manufactured: "Nerve gas does not have the super-powerful attributes that some writers would have you believe. One drop on the skin will not kill in 30 seconds, and one quart jar will not kill every living thing in a cubic mile."

Item — Military experts engaged in the Army's 1955 "Exercise Sage Brush" mock warfare maneuvers in Louisiana said a cloud of concentrated nerve gas could kill men at a distance of 50 miles from the point of release within 15 minutes.

Item — Dr. Selman A. Waksman, famed co-discoverer of streptomycin, director of Rutgers University Institute of Microbiology: "Maybe if you stood directly under a germ-bomb explosion with your mouth open or had some skin cuts, there would be an infection."

What then, are you supposed to believe in all this welter of conflicting statements?

Tight official silence has created a virtual blackout on authoritative information. Yet the Pentagon, in response to written questions submitted by a reporter, allowed the following sentence to remain among heavily censored answers:

"The Chemical Corps is anxious to put the true facts before the public so that the nature of chemical and biological warfare can be viewed in its proper perspective."

Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy, former Chemical Corps chief, had chafed at the bonds of secrecy imposed on him. Before resigning to enter private business last Sept. 1, he publicly urged:

"We must strip all mystery from these munitions so that our understanding of their nature will not be clouded. The job of education will not be completed until the public knows as much about the realities of Chemical-Biological-Radiological (C-B-R) warfare and defenses against it, as it does about atomic warfare."

Stickney Jury Being Formed

HOUSTON (AP)—Jury selection continued today in the second trial of Howard Stickney, charged with murder in the slayings of a man and wife last spring.

Lawyers chose three jurors yesterday to hear the state's case against the former Highway Department worker. The state claims he killed Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barnes on a Galveston beach outing.

Stickney, 20, first went on trial last September. A mistrial was declared when a juror suffered a heart attack.

Cliburn Ends Red Visit With Harmony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Van Cliburn, the 6-foot-4 pianist from Texas, ended the visit of Russia's deputy premier to the United States on a resounding note of international harmony here last night.

Appearing unannounced at a farewell party for Anastas I. Mikoyan at the Russian embassy, the prize-winning pianist from Kilgore for a few moments was even more important than the Soviet's No. 2 leader.

Mikoyan, grinning excitedly, joined in the furious applause when some 200 guests spotted the tall curly-haired Cliburn as he walked into the gray and gold trimmed reception room.

The 5-foot-5 inch Mikoyan pulled Cliburn down for a bear hug, then kissed him on the cheek. After a few words of greeting, he hustled Cliburn over to a baby grand piano in an adjoining room.

Mikoyan implored him in Russian to play. He revealed that he was just another of the fans Cliburn had won in Russia when he won the International Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow last spring.

Cliburn started with the rousing "Moscow Nights" with Mikoyan standing a few inches behind him. Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov started singing the words loudly in Russian. Then Mikoyan joined along with other Soviet embassy personnel and their wives.

The Russian visitor insisted that he play the Liszt 12th Rhapsody, the same selection that made him the toast of Moscow.

Mikoyan listened for 12 minutes with rapt attention as Cliburn's powerful fingers raced over the keys, loudly, then softly and then with a final flourish. Tears welled up in Mikoyan's eyes.

When Cliburn finished, Mrs. Boris Krylov, wife of the embassy cultural counselor, rushed over to the Texan and embraced him, kissing him on both cheeks as tears trickled down her face.

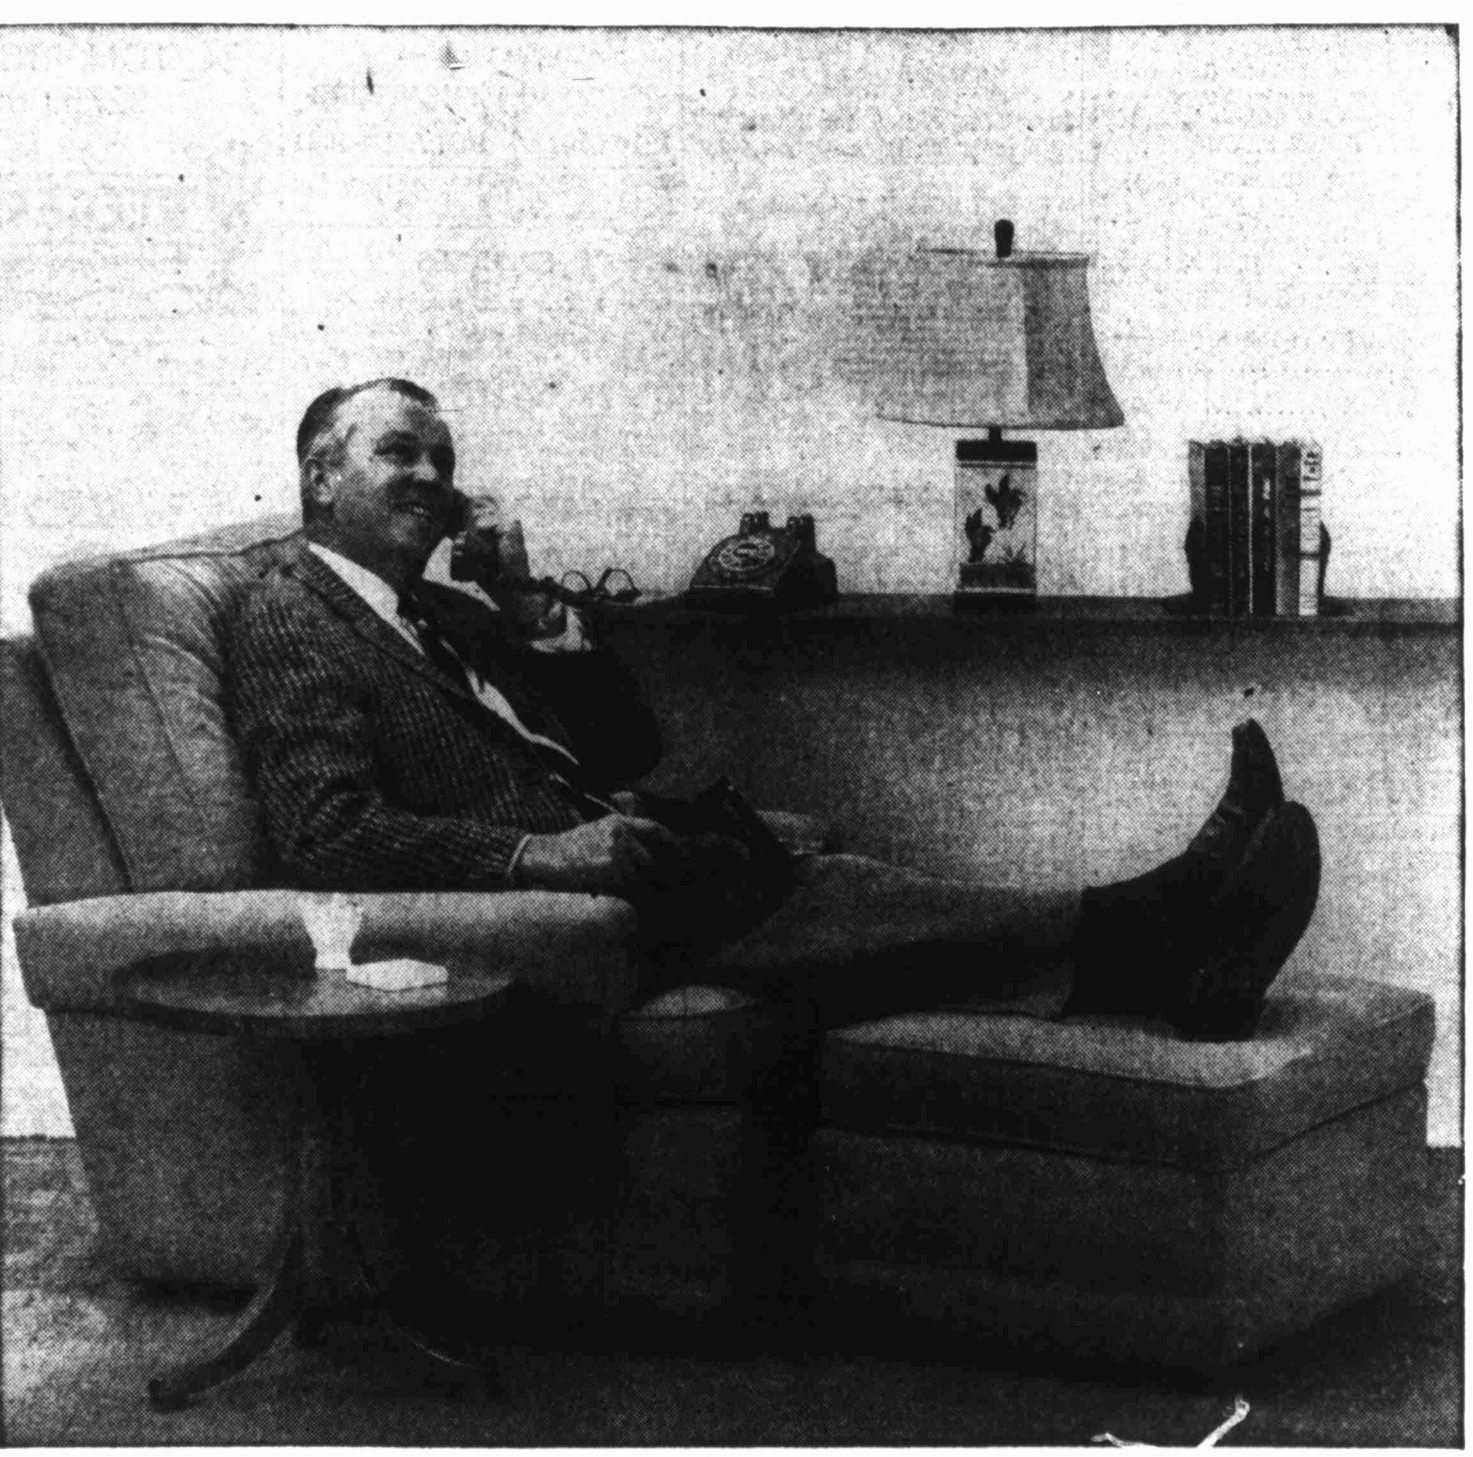

The Russian deputy premier hugged Cliburn again, then joined in the prolonged applause for the 24-year-old Texan's impromptu concert.

Taking Cliburn by the hand, Mikoyan led him into a private reception room that had been set aside for the most distinguished guests and for almost an hour, he talked with Cliburn who had flown down from New York for the surprise appearance.

Mikoyan, 63, confessed that he has always had a secret hankering to be a dancer instead of a Communist party revolutionary.

"It is what is most important in bringing the people of the world together today—music and dancing," he said.

"Music knows no boundaries," said Cliburn. "If we would emphasize more music in the struggle for peace, everything would be better."

GOOD LIVING...YOUR TELEPHONE BY YOUR SIDE

Today's homes are full of wonderful new appliances, accessories, furnishings — all styled for easy living and smart appearance. They help you get so much more done every day. Your telephone, too, is part of good living. Extension phones in bedrooms, kitchen, other family living areas help you get more out of life.
