Japan, Korea At Odds

TOKYO (AP)—Japan agreed today to let poverty-stricken Koreans here go to Communist North Korea in defiance of a South Korean government warning that it would resist the transfer "with every power at its disposal."

The deepening crisis threatened to create new divisions between two of the firmest friends of the United States in the Far East. Both governments held hurried consultations with American representatives in Tokyo and Seoul.

There seemed little or no likelihood that the quarrel, so far confined to verbal blasts and implied threats from South Korea, would blow up into a shooting conflict.

But there was a danger of a break in economic relations and in diplomatic negotiations going on between the two countries.

The United States, whose voice is the dominant one in the U.N. armed forces in Korea, would be sure to stop South Korea from using either its navy or air force in this dispute. They are under U.N. operational command. South Korea has only a small coast guard.

The Japanese government was moving cautiously, but in an obvious effort to placate—at least not further arouse—President Syngman Rhee's government.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi and his Cabinet after a long meeting approved Foreign Minister Aichiro Fujiyama's recommendation for the repatriation but in effect tossed the whole scheme into the laps of the International Red Cross.

Kishi told Parliament the critical issue would be approached "on the basis of the basic human right to freedom of residence."

Presumably North Korea will charter ships to transport those cleared for repatriation. It is understood Japan will not furnish ships, and all Japanese companies whose ships operate between Japan and South Korea have canceled sailings because of the crisis.

CHARGE PRESSURE
The government has charged that the 600,000 or more Koreans living in Japan—most of them poverty stricken and 95 per cent of them originally from South Korea—are being cajoled, threatened and bribed by North Korean sympathizers to go to the North.

The South Korean charge they will be sent into Red slavery.

At the end of World War II there were about two million Koreans in Japan. About half had been brought here as laborers by the Japanese.

In a mass repatriation directed by the occupation forces, about 1,300 went home. The overwhelming majority went to South Korea.

The number involved in the present repatriation scheme has not been firmly established. Estimates range from 43,000 to 117,000. After a Red Cross screening, the figure may drop sharply. Most of those who have indicated a willingness to go to the Communist North said they were attracted by promise of work.

The United States said it was maintaining a hands-off attitude in the dispute unless both sides ask her to act as mediator and the chances of success were good.

In Seoul, South Korean Vice Foreign Minister Kim Dong Jo called U.S. Embassy Counselor Sam P. Gilstrap to the Foreign Ministry to discuss the worsening situation.

In Tokyo, Osamu Itagaki, chief of the Japanese Foreign Office's Asian Affairs Bureau, held a general discussion of the situation with U.S. Minister William Leonard at the Foreign Office.

No, really, Horace C. Ivy, a member of the Webb AFB fire department, is simply modeling the latest in protective garb. This new aluminum attire which fits over older type of gear gives 80 per cent more protection from heat. The helmet has a special fireproof glass to protect and yet give ample vision. All of this is important because of the extreme heat generated by aircraft fires, into which firemen must wade if there is a chance of saving a life.

Latin Extremists Inauguration Threat

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Troops and police stood guard today against the threats of Communists and rightists to disrupt the inauguration of President Romulo Betancourt.

Betancourt, 56, a moderate leftist and political veteran, is Venezuela's first freely elected president in 10 years. The leader of the Democratic Action party, he is opposed by supporters of ousted dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, for Caracas who voted heavily for the leader of the junta which replaced Perez Jimenez, and the Reds.

Intelligence agents said the opposition planned street disorders during the inauguration, with women dressed in black to block traffic around the Capitol while demonstrators denounced the president.

The newspaper Pregon said free liquor was distributed in a big working class neighborhood to get gangs of youths drunk so they would roam the streets and cause trouble.

A demonstration reportedly arranged for midnight in the central El Silencio district of Caracas did not come off, however. Streets in the area were practically deserted. The district was the site of battles between police and rioters Tuesday night.

Betancourt ordered the inaugural ceremonies kept simple because of the legacy of unemployment and poverty from the ousted dictatorship. He dispensed with the usual parade, grand ball and banquet.

The most elaborate event was a formal reception Thursday night at the Plaza Bolivar to watch the foreign delegates to the inaugural. Only a small crowd turned out in the Plaza Bolivar to watch the guests in evening dress.

Betancourt made plain that he would not rush ahead with the proposals by leftist and nationalist elements that the foreign operators of the oil industry give Venezuela a much larger share of the profits.

There will be no sudden decrees, he told the Caracas Journal, in an obvious reference to the outgoing junta's sudden 10 per cent raise in the income tax in December without prior consultation with the U.S., British and Dutch oil companies.

A youthful Communist who long ago turned his back on the party, Betancourt has spent more than 20 years off and on in exile. He was provisional president in 1948 after the overthrow of Gen. Isaias Medina.

In the presidential election last December he rolled up a huge vote in the provinces to defeat Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal, the former head of the junta, whose vote came largely from Caracas. Larrazabal left last weekend to become ambassador to Chile.

Cable Breaks, Drops 4 Men Into Deep Hole

VIBERNUM, Mo. (AP)—A wire cable splice parted and dropped a heavy hoist bucket containing four men 100 feet or more to the bottom of a lead mine shaft late Thursday.

Two miners were killed. The two others survived, although gravely injured. They are in critical condition.

James Gilman of Potosi and Don Hall of Fredericktown were killed. Gilman was thrown out of the bucket. The bucket was lifted out an hour later with Hall and the survivors still in it.

All four were from 30 to 35 years old and married, mine officials said.

Loy Bennett of Fredericktown, whose right arm was severed, and Lloyd Francis of Dillard, who suffered multiple fractures, were conscious when brought up.

It happened in a flash, Bennett said. Almost incoherent, Bennett said that a moment after the explosive impact of the heavy bucket on the shaft's bottom 175 feet of the heavy wire cable rained down on them.

Officials of the St. Joseph Lead Co. mine explained a ¾-inch cable attached to the bucket had been spliced to the 1½-inch cable from the hoist.

Francis F. Redfield, division mine superintendent, said the bucket fell 100 feet with its human cargo.

3 Candidates Seek School Board Posts

Three candidates today added their names to the ballot for the Big Spring Independent School District trustee election.

They are Walter Stroup, insurance agent, and Mrs. H. D. (Mauryne) McCright and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, housewives.

One other candidate, Dan Krause, Cosden vice president, announced Thursday.

The trustee election will be held April 4. Deadline for candidates to get their names on the ballot is 30 days prior to the election.

"I feel it is my duty to offer to do whatever I can for our schools," said Mrs. McCright. "Education is becoming more and more important, and I want to do my part to help our system grow."

Mrs. McCright is a native of Big Spring, daughter of the late J. B. Shultz and Mrs. Shultz. She attended local schools and now has one son, Vance, in Big Spring High School. Her husband, H. D. McCright, is employed by the T&P Railway Co.

She has been active in P.T.A. work and is a past president of the South Ward unit. She served two years as city hostess and with her husband was engaged in the automatic laundry business until they sold out last year.

Mrs. McCright is a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. She is a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Cowper has been a resident of Big Spring since 1936, and taught in local schools for one year after receiving her degree from the University of Texas.

"I have no axes to grind," she said. "I believe the school board is a place where I might contribute something to the community, and I feel that I should."

Mrs. Cowper is a native of Denton and attended public schools there. She and Dr. R. B. G. Cowper were married after she moved to Big Spring.

She is a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and is a past president of St. Mary's Guild. She has taught a Sunday school class there, and also has been active in several P.T.A. units and in various women's clubs.

The Cowpers have four children, two now in the local schools, one a Texas University student, and the other a pre-school youngster.

"I want to do whatever I can to help Big Spring children to get the best possible education with the funds that are available," said Stroup. "I feel that my teaching and business experience can be of some value."

Stroup was reared at Cosham and attended public schools there, graduating from high school in 1941.

After serving with the Navy in the South Pacific during World War II, he enrolled in Hardin-Simmons University. He majored in biology and chemistry and received his degree in 1948. He entered Texas University for a year of graduate study, then taught chemistry and biology at Clarendon Junior College and Clarendon High School in 1949-50.

In August of 1950, Stroup entered the insurance business in Cisco. Late in 1951 he moved to Big Spring and has been in the insurance business here ever since.

He is a member of the American Business Club and is past president of the Big Spring Life Underwriters Assn. He and Mrs. Stroup, the former Joan Higginbotham of Big Spring, are members of the Church of Christ at 14th and Main. They have two daughters, both in elementary school.

While he was teaching at Clarendon, Stroup was president of the Donley County Teachers Assn.

No Mention Is Made Of Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today underwent a hernia operation which was pronounced successful, but doctors delayed a public report on whether they found a recurrence of cancer.

Walter Reed Army Hospital, where the surgery was performed, has elaborate arrangements for quick findings on an examination of tissue for malignancy. At least preliminary results often are provided to the surgeon before he finishes operating. In Dulles' case an announcement was put off until noon Saturday.

Dulles was operated on in 1956 for removal of a cancerous portion of his lower intestine. Doctors said in advance of today's surgery they had found no sign of a recurrence.

Word of the success of the operation leaked quickly to President Eisenhower by his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who was one of those in the operating room.

About the time of the report to the White House, press secretary James C. Hagerty again emphatically denied reports that Eisenhower is sounding out members of Congress regarding a possible successor to Dulles.

A reporter at Hagerty's news conference told him about a published report—New York Herald Tribune columnist Roscoe Drummond—that the President "is already taking soundings in the Senate on an acceptable successor" to Dulles.

Hagerty recalled he announced earlier this week that he had termed such reports "completely cockeyed," and that Eisenhower himself had requested him to repeat that with double emphasis.

Today, Hagerty said he hoped any newspapers continuing to publish such reports "will reprint what I said the other day."

State Department press chief Lincoln White announced the surgery was successful and Dulles' immediate postoperative condition was quite satisfactory.

White said tissue and fluid were removed during the operation "for microscopical examination."

Such an examination would be to determine whether there was a cancerous condition.

White said Dulles was on the operating table less than an hour.

White's announcement to newsmen was made at the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center. The operation was performed there by the hospital commandant, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton.

White indicated no word had come from the doctors on the results of the examination of tissues and fluids.

Word that surgery had been delayed to newsmen around 8:10 a.m.

The announcement of results came about 2½ hours later.

The secretary, who will be 71 Feb. 25, entered the Army's Walter Reed Medical Center last Tuesday. Since then each State Department bulletin on his condition has been almost identical: sleeping well, eating well, in good spirits.

Heaton said the operation was relatively simple, a bit more complicated than, say, an adenoid operation.

Heaton told newsmen Tuesday he found Dulles "worn out" and in need of a rest. The secretary still is suffering from the colon inflammation which hit him Nov. 30. Heaton said he wants to try to clear that up, too, with medication and rest.

The secretary underwent surgery at Walter Reed in 1956 to remove a cancerous portion of his lower intestine. Heaton and the White House have said there is no connection between that and Dulles' more recent troubles.

FLOODS WANE

Ice Jams, Rains Menace Indiana

By The Associated Press

Huge ice jams and more rains were potential danger marks today in flood menaced sections of Indiana as overflows in northern Ohio subsided.

Wet weather drenched the two states as well as most other sections in the eastern half of the nation.

The major flood peril appeared to be the upper Wabash River along the Delphi, Ind., after driving thousands of persons from their homes. West Terre Haute was in line as the next major target of the floods waters.

Sandbagging crews, including National Guardsmen, worked through the night in a steady drizzle at West Terre Haute building a temporary dike along Sugar Creek, a Wabash River tributary, instead of trying to patch a 300-foot break in the permanent levee. Some 150 homes were evacuated. The town's 3,200 was declared a state of emergency by town officials.

Meanwhile, evacuated families in Logansport and Wabash prepared to return to their homes. The Wabash also dropped rapidly at Peru, one of the communities hardest hit by the midwinter floods.

In Ohio the Maumee River, after overflowing in several places along a 20-mile stretch southwest of Toledo, dropped back to normal after a huge ice jam moved into Lake Erie.

Residents were returning to their homes in other northern Ohio communities. Hardest hit cities were Fremont, Findlay, Warren, Van Wert, Paulding and Ottawa, but the overflows did not cause as extensive damage as the floods in January.

Fairly mild winter weather prevailed in wide areas from Texas to the Great Lakes region and eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Southerly winds pushed warm air from the Gulf and with it came widespread precipitation and considerable cloudiness. Light rains or drizzle sprinkled most areas except in western Texas and from Pennsylvania northward.

Cosden Opens Pipe Line To Link Refinery With Midwest

Cosden officials today were to turn the valve which will connect refining facilities here with Midwest and Eastern markets.

Headed by R. L. Tollett, president, a delegation from the general offices in Big Spring, was to take part in ceremonies marking the completion and operational start of a 47-mile pipe line link between Wichita Falls and Duncan, Okla.

The line will connect Cosden's Wichita Falls terminal with the Oklahoma-Mississippi River Products Pipeline at Duncan. By means of connections possible with other trunks in the Duncan area, Cosden will have access to some of the nation's heaviest petroleum product markets.

Representatives from several of the connecting pipe line companies were to join with Tollett and other Cosden officials to commemorate the occasion.

Flying in Cosden planes from here with Tollett were Marvin M. Miller, senior vice president in charge of exploration and production; Dan M. Krause, senior vice president in charge of refining and pipe lines; Richard M. Johnson, vice president sales; R. W. Thompson, vice president pipe lines; Douglas Orme, vice president transportation; Carl W. Smith, sales director; Jack Womack, Odessa advertising representative; and Vernon Adams, Odessa, photographer for Womack. George Grimes, refinery superintendent, and Garth Reed, sales manager, were to meet them in Wichita Falls.

Designed capacity of the line is 230,000 barrels per month. It can transport a variety of petroleum products, including everything from No. 2 fuel oil to butane. However, the bulk of the shipments will be automotive and aviation gasoline.

Connection with OMR Pipeline provides Cosden with access to 33 products terminals in 14 states through the Texas Eastern, Great Lakes, and Badger Pipeline systems. With markets already in the Midwest, the new line will enable Cosden

GOP Speakers Use Lincoln Day Speeches To Strike At Demos

By The Associated Press
Republican speakers swung sharp verbal axes Thursday night as they chipped away at Democratic policies in Lincoln Day speeches across the nation.

They heaped volumes of praise on the rail-splitting Civil War president who was born 150 years ago. They strongly defended the leadership and policies of President Eisenhower.

The speech-makers criticized the Democrats as wanting more spending and controls along with bigger government. They asked for greater restraint in federal spending and cautioned that excessive spending means higher taxes.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell took a wide swing at the Democrats in a Boston speech.

He said, "When it comes to personal rights for all Americans, no Republican owes a debt — political, financial or moral — to any one group, any one faction, any one system or organization. The compromises are all on their side. The implied promise and the part performance is all theirs."

In New York, Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, challenged the democratic-controlled Congress to boost taxes to cover any programs that would job through the budget ceiling. "The future strength of our nation requires strong fiscal policies," he said.

Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, speaking in Brooklyn, also called for a pay-as-you-go operation. He reminded his audience that New York's Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller "is following that course—that is, trying to raise taxes."

Republican National Chairman Meade ALCORN told an audience at Silver Spring, Md., the Democrats are befuddled by the complexities of the future. He said the Democrats' solution for everything is bigger government, more spending, more taxes and more controls.

At Bridgeport, Conn., Charles C. Finucane, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, hit what he called the "absurd slander" by Democrats that Eisenhower is not in command of the government but is a custodial type of chief executive. He said he knew Eisenhower to be the nation's leader in every sense of the word.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said at Los Angeles that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was off base when he said the Republicans lost the November elections because of U.S. foreign policies. Kuchel said foreign policy has been bipartisan for the last six years.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), another speaker in New York, described modern Republicanism as "Lincolntian Republicanism brought up to date."

At Alamosa, Colo., Sen. Gordon Allott (R-Colo.) said next year's campaign must tell the people that the Democrats are too divided to rule the nation.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) at Exeter, N.H., described as "plain nonsense" charges that the administration is putting the budget ahead of the defense of the country and dollars above human welfare.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) said at West Orange, N.J., that Congress should limit federal spending to programs which have real priority.

At Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md.) cautioned that excessive spending means higher taxes — which he said would curtail freedom just as if the government put citizens to enforced labor one day out of every three or four.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) said at Frankfort, Ind., Republicans should stress in the next campaign that if the Democrats win in 1960 it will mean more deficit spending and higher taxes.

Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker told a Toledo, Ohio, dinner crowd President Eisenhower is a born leader who commands worldwide admiration.

World Pays Honor To Abe Lincoln

By The Associated Press
Tributes and eulogies—respectful, eloquent and plain—were paid to Abraham Lincoln in scores of languages and in many nations Thursday on the 150th anniversary of his birth. The ceremonies highlighted the Lincoln Sesquicentennial Year.

The international nature of the observances underscored poet Carl Sandburg's tribute at a joint session of Congress that the Civil War president truly belongs to the world.

Mayor Willy Brandt, of West Berlin, emphasized Lincoln's universality in a speech at Springfield, Ill., where Lincoln made his home for many years and where he is buried.

Brandt, speaking at a dinner attended by 1,500, including envoys from 21 nations, said that Lincoln's warning made 101 years ago that a house divided cannot stand applied to his German homeland today. Brandt promised that Berliners "will bend our knees to nobody."

Hundreds, including the West Berlin mayor, went to the marble tomb near Springfield where Lincoln is buried. Wreaths from President Eisenhower and Brandt were among a score of floral tributes placed on the cenotaph.

Thousands made a pilgrimage to Hodgenville, Ky., near the site of Lincoln's birthplace. George A. Moore, executive assistant to Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, declared there that "if the principles for which Lincoln stood could reach the hearts and souls of all mankind they could produce lasting peace."

Republican orators appealed in scores of Lincoln Day speeches throughout the country for an end of discrimination in the field of civil rights and for frugality in government spending.

In London and Moscow, Tel Aviv and Oslo, Salisbury in Rhodesia and in Formosa in the Far East the Lincoln anniversary was noted.

Safety Conference Studies Legislation

AUSTIN (AP)—A statewide safety conference studied today proposed legislation aimed at cutting down a grim prediction that 30,000 persons will die on Texas highways the next 10 years.

About 200 traffic court judges, attorneys, justices of the peace and safety directors attended the second day of the University of Texas law school's traffic court conference.

"If the present death rate continues, the Texas traffic toll will approach 4,000 a year," W. F. Leonard, Southland Corp. safety director, said yesterday. He predicted 30,000 would die in accidents the next 10 years unless traffic laws and enforcement were improved.

Speaker of the House Waggoner Carr said the public must share the blame with the Legislature for the continuation of accidents and traffic deaths.

Kiwanis Hears Discussion On Scout Program

Big Spring Kiwanis Club observed Boy Scout Day Thursday with Bill McRoe, scout executive, as speaker. Also presented were several boy scouts who staged two Indian dances.

McRoe discussed the new Explorer program which is being pushed by the Scout organization. He reviewed findings of a survey into the desires and ambitions of teen-agers and showed the relationship between these expressed wishes and the Explorer program.

Dr. Roscoe Cowper also spoke briefly on the importance of support for the national Heart Fund campaign which is now in progress. He urged all Kiwanians to support the program, pointing out that heart disease is the most deadly of all killers at this time. Research, he said, could find the answer and strip the disease of its lethal powers.

Announcement was made that Kiwanians will meet on next Wednesday instead of Thursday as guests of the Big Spring Lions Club. The interclub meeting will be offered in observation of National Brotherhood Week.

Jack Alexander, chairman of the annual Kiwanis Club Pancake supper set for Feb. 28, urged all members to push ahead with the ticket sales.

Lion Claws Noted Trainer On Arm

DETROIT (AP)—A lion clawed Clyde Beatty's arm Thursday night but the animal trainer completed his Shrine circus act before going to a hospital for treatment.

Six stitches were taken in Beatty's right arm. He suffered several scratches on his left arm.

Beatty was injured when Caesar, a 10-year-old African lion, knocked the trainer's gun and chair from his hands and slashed both arms with his claws.

DEAR ABBY

WIDOWER'S APPEAL

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a wandering widower through no fault of my own. I have had to move from nine different places in the past two years because every rooming house where I go, the landlady tries to marry me. I am a friendly type and am nice to everyone but the women seem to take me wrong and before I know it I have to pack up and find myself another room. I tell them from the beginning that I am not looking for a wife, but they all think they can change my mind. Have you any suggestions?

ON THE MOVE
DEAR ON: There is something about the way you are saying "No" that makes them think you mean "maybe." Get yourself a room at the "Y" or a Men's Club and you won't be bothered by the landlady.

DEAR ABBY: Last Friday I had a date with a boy (he is 19) and he put me on Cloud Nine with all the wonderful things he had to say to me. He said he never met anybody like me and that he fell in love with me the minute his eyes met mine. He even talked of marriage. On Monday I met him for lunch and he said he had "lost interest" in me. Could he have meant all those things he said to me, Miss Abby, and then lost interest in me over the weekend? I still love him and want to know how to get him back like he was last Sunday.

MIMI
DEAR MIMI: If you try to "get him back" YOUR weekend is your head! He was handing you a line. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband went into a business recently with a friend of his. It took practically all we had. My husband refuses to ask him for a partnership agreement on paper. He claims he can trust him. We argue about this constantly. I say maybe he can trust the man, but if something should happen to him we wouldn't have a chance of getting anything from his wife. Please tell me I am right? POLLY

DEAR POLLY: You are right. No matter how strong the friendship — when it comes to "business" — get it in writing.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that I have to make my dentist and doctor appointments two months in advance and when I get to the office they keep me waiting for state hours sometimes? Nobody apologizes for keeping me waiting either. And they act like they are doing you a favor by seeing you. Then they send you a big fat bill. There, I feel better now. NORMA

DEAR NORMA: Dentists and doctors are usually behind schedule because some poor soul has had an emergency and must be worked in. If you ever have to be "worked in," you'll understand it better.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO GOOD": The more chaste the girl — the more she's chased. Believe what your mamma done told' you.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Fritz Lacks Qualifications As A Student

MONROE, La. (AP) — Fritz Hans Fredericks Jr., was enrolled two weeks ago as a general business student at Northeast State College here.

A number of things tripped up his continued enrollment. The most obvious was that his registration forms were not in proper order, his admission fee was not paid and the certificate from a high school principal required under Louisiana's segregation statutes could not be found.

Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions, examined the registration card further. Under special talents and hobbies were listed: "Bone burying, flea scratching, sleeping, swimming bayou." Club affiliations: "Member Northeast Student Center four years, honorary member Feline Chasers of America, president of Dog Lovers Society."

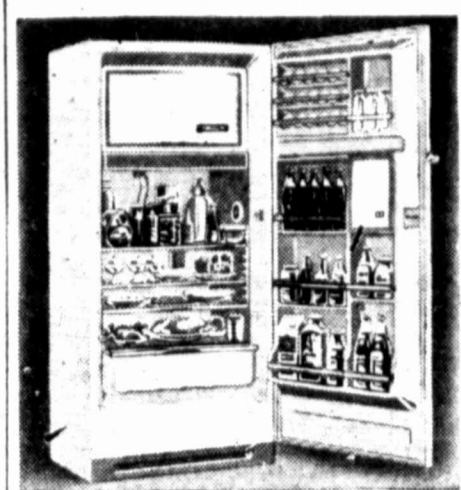

The head of the journalism department, Annie Lee West Stahl, remembered the name from a local feature story about three weeks earlier. The story told how Fritz swam Bayou Desiard each day and generally had the run of the campus as unofficial school mascot.

Prof. Wilbur Lee Perkins, head of the commerce department, called Fritz' name in class the first day and was told Fritz was hit by a car and couldn't attend. It was true that he had been bumped by a car, but he wasn't hurt.

Willie Taft Smith, accounting instructor, complaining of excessive absences, dropped Fritz from his class roll and sent his class card back to the registration office.

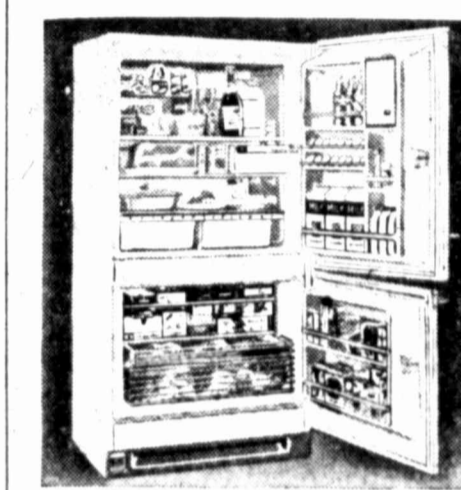

Fritz still has the run of the campus, excepting the cafeteria, and he is somewhat better known. School officials hadn't solved the mystery of who enrolled him.

Fritz is a boxer dog, owned by O. N. McNeil.

Lone Panel Works As Solons Recess

AUSTIN (AP) — Both houses were in recess today while a lone subcommittee carried on the weekend work of trying to figure out how much the 56th Texas Legislature should spend.

A subgroup of the House Appropriations Committee met today to hear the budget requests of the Board of Hurdressers and Cosmetologists.

The main legislative body, along with the numerous committees, will return Monday morning.

Gov. Price Daniel took opportunity of the recess to point out in a memorandum from his office late yesterday that his plan to seize abandoned bank accounts would help many persons find money they did not know they had.

He endorsed a statement issued by 22 Representatives sponsoring the bill that it would raise more than the estimated 20 million dollars.

The measure (HB 32) is set for public hearing Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. before the House Revenue and Taxation Committee. The committee will resume a hearing Monday afternoon on another of Daniel's money-raising plans—revision of state franchise laws (HB 238).

The Abandoned Property Act endorsed by Daniel would have dormant bank accounts and other property abandoned for seven years turned over to the state.

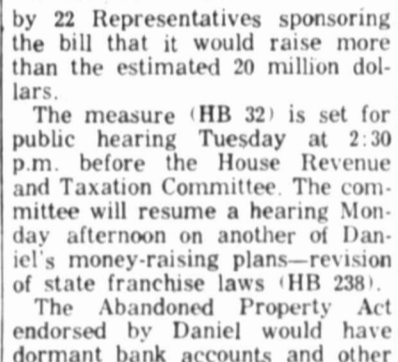

He said the bill would "protect old and unclaimed funds from loss through dissipation, limitations and embezzlement." Another feature, he said, "is the protection of the state's ultimate right to ownership of unclaimed property if there are no lawful owners."

New bills offered yesterday included: A measure (HB 406) making an appropriation of five million dollars to establish the South Texas Medical School, a branch of the University of Texas at San Antonio.

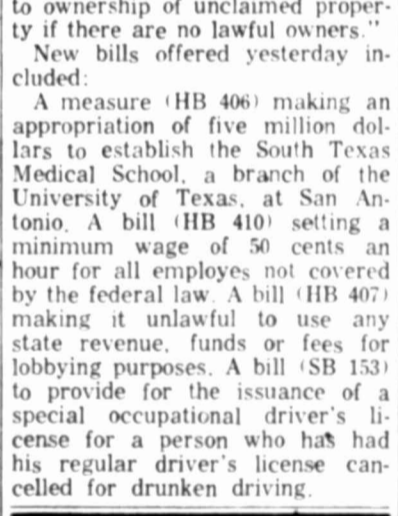

A bill (HB 410) setting a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour for all employees not covered by the federal law. A bill (HB 407) making it unlawful to use any state revenue, funds or fees for lobbying purposes. A bill (SB 153) to provide for the issuance of a special occupational driver's license for a person who has had his regular driver's license cancelled for drunken driving.

Girl Drowns

MIDLAND (AP) — Three tots went exploring yesterday and crawled under or over a 10-foot fence around a partly filled swimming pool. Lula Frances Adkins, 5, drowned. Her companions were rescued.

W. Texas Skies Partly Cloudy

By The Associated Press
Low clouds, fog and drizzle covered central and eastern sections of Texas Friday with West Texas skies partly cloudy.

There was no freezing weather in the state with temperatures ranging from 33 at Dalhart to 69 at Brownsville. Humidity was high across East Texas.

Forecasters expected widely scattered thundershowers across North Central Texas Saturday night. But otherwise the immediate forecasts called for partly cloudy skies in West Texas and considerable cloudiness over the rest of the state.

A five-day forecast issued Friday called for temperatures 5 to 10 degrees above the normal in East Texas and Central Texas and 4 to 8 above normal in West Texas.

For the coming five days, little or no precipitation was indicated for West Texas with light to locally moderate precipitation in widely scattered showers for the rest of the state.

West Texas basked under clear skies for the most part Thursday, but the rest of the state was overcast and received light scattered showers. High temperatures Thursday ranged from 44 at Texarkana to 74 at Brownsville.

3 Persons Die

ORANGE (AP) — Two cars smashed together head-on killed three persons and injured three others yesterday. The crash 12 miles north of here on Highway 235 took the lives of Mrs. William A. Williams of Moss Point, Miss., and Clarence Breaux and Julius Hughes, both Negroes from New Orleans.

TEXAS CHAMPIONS OF FREEDOM

Ben McCulloch

The Lone Ranger of Liberty and Independence

He was a famous Ranger and a true "loner." Ben McCulloch even remained a bachelor throughout a life as colorful and adventurous as any recorded in Texas history. As an Indian fighter, a champion of Texas Independence, a Confederate Brigadier General and a U. S. Marshal, Ben McCulloch was a man of action and of devotion to duty and his state.

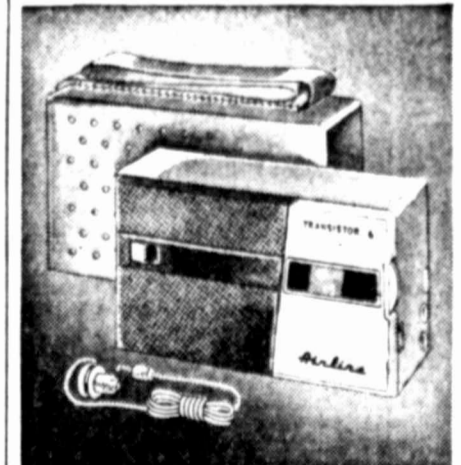

The Battle of San Jacinto was history, with Ben playing an active part, when Surveyor Ben McCulloch laid out the original plat for the town of Seguin that year, 1838, he rose to Captain Jack Hays' Texas Rangers and saw extensive Indian fighting.

During the war with Mexico which followed the annexation of Texas by the United States, Ben commanded the McCulloch Rangers. Before the decisive Battle of Buena Vista he scouted the enemy's force from a hill less than a mile away. For that service he was promoted to Major, a man famous from coast to coast for daring skill and courage. More years of patriotic service followed as U. S. Marshal, as Commissioner to settle Mormon troubles in Utah and as a ranking officer in the Confederate Army always ready to defend the rights and independence of his people, wherever and whenever duty called.

Today Texans still demand and get their right to choose the way they want to live. In this vigorous and freedom minded homeland, Beer Belongs and this is why the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly, in conjunction with brewers, wholesalers and retailers, to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions. Believing that strict law enforcement serves the best interest of Texans, the Foundation stresses close cooperation with the Armed Forces, law enforcement and governing officials in its continuing Self Regulation program.

Charm School Workers

Mrs. A. F. H. Scott of Dallas shares with Mrs. Tommy Gage and Mrs. George Elliott, at extreme right, the notes which she has accumulated in five years of Charm School work at the Terrell State Hospital. Here to assist the Xi Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and their fellow volunteers in the Charm School program at the local state hospital, Mrs. Scott has directed a two-day orientation course which was to be completed today.

Charm School Workers Complete Course Today

Coming to a close this afternoon is the class in carrying on the Charm School at the state hospital. Instructor in the work has been Mrs. A. F. H. Scott of Dallas, who has, for about five years, been a volunteer in the Terrell State Hospital.

Her work started when, as a volunteer, she decided that she could serve by assisting the women patients in walking, standing and sitting correctly, applying make-up and improving their personal appearance generally. Mrs. Scott told of taking a regular charm course and of her work in building up a group of helpers in her field of service. At the present time, the Charm School volunteers teach about 952 patients in 13 wards of the Terrell hospital, she stated.

From various sources, they get the money to provide cosmetics for the patients; two Sunday school classes in Dallas provide $10 each every month; gifts come in at Christmas and on other occasions. Thursday local volunteers received training in teaching the women patients to improve their appearance in various ways, and the work today was to consist of training on the wards of the hospital.

The Charm School is sponsored by the Xi Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, but it is open to anyone wishing to serve with them. Three workers from Lamesa and three from Midland joined the group to receive the training Thursday. A total of about 25 attended the class.

Mrs. George Elliott, AM 3-3616, is in charge of arrangements for the school.

History, Accomplishments Of Altrusa Club Are Reviewed

The history of the local Altrusa Club was recounted by Mrs. Coy Nalley, Thursday for members at a luncheon at the Wesley Methodist Church. Mrs. Nalley also told of the various accomplishments of the club.

Organized in 1950, the club has assisted in annual fund drives, such as the March of Dimes, the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Heart Fund, Cancer Society, Summer Recreation Program for the YMCA as well as the Y Building Fund and the United Fund.

Donations have been made for the air conditioning at the state hospital; for transportation of members of the Chero Club; for the salary of a Bible teacher in the local high school and for the chapel at McKnight Sanatorium.

Gifts for the sanatorium gift shop have been sent at Christmas time, and collections of books have been sent to the patients in the sanatorium. Linens were sent to Girls Town near Cisco, and sheets were collected to be used for bandages for the Cancer Society.

Members of the club financed the plumbing fixtures which were installed at the Northside Recreation Center; the group also assisted in buying rose bushes which were planted at the state hospital.

A regular activity of the club is the March of Dimes which were benefited to the tune of $32.50. It was announced at a meeting of the Luther Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. R. Williamson. That amount was turned in through the efforts of the club.

Mrs. W. R. Jones, county HD agent, spoke to the women on color harmony, giving tips on selection of colors for dress and home.

Foremost Women Journalists In America Lead Multiple Lives

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—This is one of those times when I'm proud of women.

Assembled here this weekend are America's leading ladies in the field of communications. They are arriving by land and by air from all over the country to help celebrate the 50th anniversary of the nation's first school of journalism.

The school was founded at the University of Missouri because of the dream of working newspaperman the late Dean Walter Williams, who never graduated from college but acquired a long list of honorary degrees.

These are working women, many of them graduates of the school, who have beaten their way to the top in the fields of newspapers, magazines, advertising, television and radio.

You might think they would be a hard-bitten lot, but you would be mistaken. They are good-looking, well-groomed, vital, and having the time of their lives.

Most of them lead not only double but multiple lives—as career women, wives and mothers. All of them had to sit up nights getting their work ahead so they could be here.

There's Margot Sherman, vice president of one of New York's biggest advertising agencies, named Advertising Woman of the Year for 1958, married to a lawyer, mother of two children, who manages home, business and extra-curricular community work with practiced ease, pleased as a debutante at the student ovation after her speech.

There's Inez Robb, columnist, wit, lifelong newspaperwoman and doting wife, who says: "It's more important to be a successful woman than to have the world's most important job."

There's Mabel Temby, president of the National Federation of Press Women and editor of the Kewanee (Wis.) Enterprise, wife of a publisher, mother of a newspaper family, who cast her lot with country journalism and loves it.

There's Eleanor Lambert, the country's best known fashion publicist, widow of the late Seymour Berkson, publisher of the New York Journal American, mother of Bill, a student at Brown University. Flying from Europe, she brings last minute news of Paris fashions to the J-School coeds.

Many of the women here for this program are competitors but if there is rivalry, it doesn't show.

At a similar meeting of men, I'm inclined to think there would be a number of oblique verbal knife thrusts.

But women who have to run jobs, homes and families all at once don't have time to be petty. They're all pleased at each other's success.

And that's what I like about women—busy women, that is.

West Working On Reich Unity Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western leaders expect to draft within the next month a new formula for German reunification. They hope it may promote serious negotiations with the Soviet Union for uniting East and West Germany. The shape of the formula is still to be determined, but it is expected to push the Western request for free all-German elections somewhat into the background.

Many experts now believe that the unifying process could go on for as much as two years before nationwide elections were held. In the meantime practical steps in the economic and political field could be taken to bring the two Germanies closer together.

Diplomatic informants said today that the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are guided by two main tactical considerations in the wholesale review of their German policies which is now under way.

Their primary aim is to test to the limit—without sacrificing vital Western interests—the possibility that the Soviet government may be ready for serious negotiations and compromises on the unity issue.

Their other concern is to demonstrate to the world a Western readiness to negotiate with initiative and flexibility.

Several Western concessions already have become known as a result of exchanges among the governments in Washington, London, Paris and Bonn. These concessions include:

1. A decision to propose in a forthcoming note to the Soviet government that German advisers participate in a prospective East-West foreign ministers conference.
2. A declared readiness—recently stated by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles—to have a foreign ministers conference with the Soviet Union without advance agreement on a detailed program

Cops Chase Car At 120 M.P.H.

ALPINE (AP)—Police chased three men in a station wagon at speeds up to 120 m.p.h. on two trips through the main business district yesterday.

The three men surrendered peacefully after one of them had been hit by police gunfire.

Sheriff Jim Skinner identified the men as Leo Kidd, 26, of San Antonio, Tex., driver of the station wagon; Jimmy Dale Myers, 20, who told officers he was AWOL from the Navy at Quonset Point, R.I.; and William Triford, 21, of Norfolk, Va.

Triford, who was wounded in the shoulder in the chase, was taken to Brewster County Memorial Hospital. Kidd and Myers were jailed.

No formal charges were filed but Skinner said the three were being held for further investigation.

Skinner said the chase began shortly after he received a telephone call that a car, fitting the description of the one Kidd drove, purchased gas at a filling station in Marathon, 31 miles east of here, and left without paying.

BUT NO RUSSIAN, EITHER

Soviet Historian Denies Chris Discovered America

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet historian says Christopher Columbus didn't discover America—but he doesn't claim a Russian did.

Moscow radio said the historian's study of ancient documents showed that Columbus already had maps giving the position of some lands of the New World when he set out aboard the Santa Maria on his famous voyage in 1492.

Somebody, the Soviet concluded, must have visited those places to put them on the map.

"It also has been made clear that the best course toward these lands was known to Columbus," Moscow told listeners on its home service.

The research was carried out by a lecturer at the Alma Alta Pedagogical Institute identified only as Superny.

Superny made a detailed study of publications and documents in Portuguese, Spanish and Italian archives, the broadcast said.

The theory he advanced before the U.S.S.R. Geographical Society was that "European navigators had visited the New World (before Columbus) but the names of these navigators remained unknown."

Here's how Superny pieced together the voyage:

Columbus crossed the Atlantic following the latitude of the Canary Islands because his charts told him trade winds and currents existed there favorable for navigation toward the New World.

Before the three-ship expedition departed, Columbus handed to his captains secret instructions which they were to open only should the group be scattered by storms.

If this happened, the ships were to proceed "at fixed speeds by day and by night until they had covered 700 leagues (about 2,600 miles)."

After covering this distance, they were to continue the journey only in good visibility in order not to run aground.

The Soviet historian said Columbus' son Ferdinand had written about these instructions and showed that his father knew before leaving Spain about the presence of lands to be found 750 leagues to the west of the Canaries.

"In those latitudes the New World is exactly that distance from the old world," Superny said.

He added: "An analysis of diaries of Columbus and of other documents shows that before departure of the first voyage in 1492, he had a map with some islands of the Antilles group marked on it."

"A study of documents contained in the archives makes it possible to conclude that before Columbus, European navigators had visited the New World, but the names of these navigators remained unknown."

"The inhabitants of the Azores possessed maps drawn by these navigators and this made it possible to organize the expedition correctly."

Ike, Mamie May Visit San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Friends here believe President and Mrs. Eisenhower plan a rendezvous in San Antonio among the scenes of their courtship.

Elaborate preparations at the hotel where Mrs. Eisenhower and her sister are staying and Mamie's assertion Thursday night that the President may visit here en route to or from Acapulco, Mexico, brought on the conjecture.

The President is due in Acapulco for a Feb. 19 meeting with President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico.

Mrs. Eisenhower told friends the President indicated he may stop over either here or in Austin on his trip. The President was a young Army officer here when he and Mamie Doud announced their engagement.

Mrs. Eisenhower and her sister, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore of Washington, also a former San Antonio resident, arrived shortly after noon Thursday. They are en route to a vacation at Elizabeth Arden's Maine Chance beauty and health resort near Phoenix, Ariz.

Although no interviews have been granted, the San Antonio Express said last night, when the two women were hostesses to about 25 persons, that they apparently "are having a wonderful time." Most of the guests were local military personnel and friends.

Hilton Hotel Manager Tom Powell said that while he knew somebody important was coming, it wasn't until Saturday that he knew it was to be Mrs. Eisenhower. He added that while the party is to be here "about two days" that the hotel is prepared for them to stay any length of time.

The suite occupied by Mrs. Eisenhower, with switchboard, a direct line to the White House, and an Army sergeant operator, is on the 14th floor's west wing. A Secret Service man took up duty there. The rest of the wing is turned over to others in the Eisenhower party.

Friends who attended last night's party indicated that Mrs. Eisenhower probably would be a guest tomorrow night when the military gives its Saturday night entertainment at the Lackland Air Force Base Officers Club.

About 14 hotel officials, bellboys, waiters and maids were questioned closely as to background and birthplace when the group staffing the Eisenhower suite was chosen.

But the big question in the old Army town and its various military establishments today was: "Is Ike coming?"

Louisianan Guilty In Death Conspiracy

HOUSTON (AP)—A district court jury found a Louisiana man guilty of conspiring to murder and recommended a sentence of seven years.

Seise James Westbrook, 42, Pineville, La., was charged with conspiring to kill Walter Berger, a Pasadena, Tex., house painter, last month. He was indicted with Mrs. Maudell Berger, wife of the intended victim.

Westbrook, who did not testify in his own behalf, was charged with having plotted to kill Berger by planning to break his neck and make it look like an accident.

No date has been set for the trial of Mrs. Berger.

among House members for state ownership of liquor stores in event repeal is approved.

The bill which squeezed through the Senate Thursday calls for privately owned package stores and Gov. J. Howard Edmondson put his full weight behind that proposal.

Edmondson expressed hope the House will adopt the Senate resolution without change. If changes are made, they will have to go through a joint committee of both houses and then make another trip through the Senate and House.

A Devotional For Today

Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee. (Psalms 119:11.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the light and inspiration, the comfort and strength, that come to us through Thy holy Word. Guide us in our study of the Scriptures, that with hearts that love Thee and with minds attuned to Thy spirit, we may come to know Thy will for us. For Christ's sake. Amen.

How About A Hat, Bub?

From New York comes word that the hatmaking industry and its union employees have joined hands to promote sales of headgear.

Union members gave up one per cent of their recent wage demand and manufacturers agreed to contribute one per cent of weekly payrolls as a promotion fund.

Thus hand in hand the hatters and their bosses plan to fight cheap imports and "antiquated government procurement policies."

Incidentally, they hope to popularize the union label.

More effective in upping sales and production by increased market demand would, we imagine, be a move to popularize hats as hats.

Compared to the hat-wearing habit of the American male of fifty years ago, today's American male still is bareheaded.

Convenient and "stylish" we imagine a people who will buy anything could be sold on the notion that bareheadedness is no longer stylish, that it leads to baldness, that it contributes to eyestrain, that it increases the incidence of the common cold—or what have you. A people who will fall for any sort of nostrum or gimmick the geniuses of Madison Avenue can think up would fall for the drawbacks of hatlessness enumerated above—whether there is a word of truth in them or not.

You can prove anything by statistics, and what the hat-making industry really needs is to call in the hard-sell guys with their statistics, their charts, their "demonstrations" and their sidshow appeals.

To float the notion that going bareheaded is unhealthy, that he-men with tattoos on their hands and a sort of snooty look on their faces always wear hats—not just any old hat, but a particular style and brand of hat.

Why, man it's a cinch. We doubt if anybody goes hatless for reasons of economy. Not when they will spend nineteen dollars for a shirt or twenty dollars for a rod and reel or fifty dollars for a hand-painted necktie.

The industry should promote the notion that going without a hat is tacky, unhealthy and anti-social, then stand by for the avalanche.

Why, even beards are coming back. Why not hats?

The Formula For Genius

The sesquicentennial of Abraham Lincoln's birth is being observed this week on a nationwide scale for the first time in history. Not the least of the occasions was the joint session of Congress Thursday to hear an address by Carl Sandburg, a Lincoln biographer.

An article in this week's Saturday Evening Post by Jacques Barzun hails the rail-splitter-to-President in something of a new light, at least a light that has never been sufficiently stressed by any of his biographers.

That is Lincoln's mastery over the written and spoken word. It is Barzun's contention that Lincoln developed to a high degree of perfection the art of using words as instruments not only of conveying thought and developing ideas, but as a force in persuasion. His sentences were short, and he chose those carried the exact shade of meaning intended. Compared to the spoutings of the average orator, all of Lincoln's "set pieces" stood out like a beacon light of English undeveloped.

Barzun says that he wrote out of an unconscious confidence and with the detachment of a genius. He had a natural rhythm and a gift for choosing precisely the right word.

How could an "uneducated" backwoodsman achieve such heights of literary excellence? By tireless effort by lifelong study, by a realization that practice makes perfect.

There was another "uneducated" country boy who had quite a success with English. His name was William Shakespeare. To this day the snobs are still trying to tear him down by "proving" someone else wrote his plays and poems.

They take no account of genius, which—as another simple country boy named Thomas Alva Edison remarked—is ten per cent inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration.

Russia Wants Only Unconditional Surrender

WASHINGTON—It seems easy sometimes to personalize big issues and doubtless Moscow is reading with exultation the news that maybe Secretary of State Dulles will not be as active as before. For there are in the Soviet Union as well as in the United States and Britain many who think that the policy of this country is "inflexible" or "rigid" or fixed at "dead center" because Mr. Dulles presumably wants it that way—and that, once he has left office, all will be changed.

Actually, there is only one simple barrier between Moscow and Washington today. The Soviets want unconditional surrender, which means no concessions of substance on their part. Anybody who stands in their way is promptly labelled as unrealistic and inflexible and as desiring to continue "missions" in preference to acceptance of a supposedly attractive alternative—"peaceful co-existence."

Mr. Dulles is an international lawyer and an experienced negotiator. He is handicapped by the fact that there are newspapers in America which continually tell the Russians, in effect, not to worry about what he says, and that American public opinion is virtually ready for peace at any price. When Deputy Premier Mikoyan returned to Moscow after his visit to this country, he told the 21st Communist party congress that the American people are really in favor of peace but their government isn't. The attempt to drive a wedge between the people of the United States and their government was transparent.

Oddly enough, the angry reaction which followed the Mikoyan visit showed that American public opinion hasn't changed a bit—it is basically and indistinctly of the Communist regime and isn't ready to surrender, either. This correspondent received a bigger mail about it from all parts of the country than on any other subject in recent years.

The people from coast to coast insisted in their letters they were not taken in by the Mikoyan trip. It is interesting to note also that many citizens are beginning to say about war that there comes a time "when you can take just so much and no more." Phrases like this have not appeared in letters to this writer since the days before the last two world wars. It is a strange phenomenon but there are many observers who wisely think that, because war is almost too horrible to contemplate, this means the people are willing to swallow their pride and their patriotism and surrender to a foreign foe. No greater mistake could be made in evaluating public opinion in America.

Perhaps the most realistic appraisal of the opinion of the American people today would be to say that they want peace, but not at any price. They are willing to see peace negotiated but this does not mean that our side must make all the concessions. Nor does it mean that the supposed "settlement" can be of such a nature that it obviously will breed war as a consequence.

What makes international diplomacy hard to conduct these days is the fact that some of the influential newspapers in all the free countries are so eager for peace that they give the impression to Moscow that almost anything will be accepted. This is called "flexibility." A press that can express itself freely is important to maintain, but there is an obligation also to make sure that the opinion of the silent citizen is taken into account. For today there is really a greater support by world opinion than ever before behind the policies of the United States and her allies in the face of Communist trickery.

The problem of Berlin does not seem on the surface anything that in and of itself would be difficult to resolve. Whether the traffic to and from Berlin through the eastern zone is controlled by an East German government or by the Soviet military patrols isn't the real issue. What is more important is whether West Berlin shall continue as a symbol to the West German people—as a free city—or whether the Communists will be able to insist of another propaganda victory that will not only depress the Western countries, but will discourage the people of the captive countries. The craving for liberation is not dead in Eastern Europe. It is very important to maintain the morale of the people of Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, as well as the freedom-seeking people of East Germany. To capitulate to the Reds—or to seem to be doing so—is dangerous because it could lead to a miscalculation by Moscow and a further "testing" that can bring on the kind of incidents out of which in the past sudden war has come.

Nothing To Crow About

ORANGE, N. J. — James Cook is fond of animals. So is somebody else.

Cook recently bought a pig to keep in his backyard. Some one stole it. Then he bought a dozen ducks. Some one stole them. Then a possum which promptly had a litter of 10. The whole family was swiped.

Finally, he bought 10 chicks which grew up into nine hens and a rooster. If you think some one stole all of them, you're wrong. They left him the rooster.

Mike And Ike, They Look Alike

WASHINGTON (AP) — As 1959 unfolds, the big issues between Democrats and Republicans seem to be spending, the quality of American defense, and foreign policy.

And at this point the water in which all three issues are swimming is a little murky, or foiled, as fishermen say.

The anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth is one of the best times of the year for seeing what kind of ammunition the Republicans think they have for firing at the Democrats.

This year one Republican speaker after another hit at spending or, to put it another way called for action to avoid inflation by spending no more than President Eisenhower asked in his budget message last January.

Economy was the constant theme of the speeches. In hitting the speakers were following the lead of Eisenhower who has been banging away at the "big spenders" in the Democratic-run Congress.

The Republican attempt to picture the Democrats as spenders already had gotten under the Democratic skin, with Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas setting the pace in firing back.

Johnson, leader of the Senate Democrats has cracked back with phrases like these: "To set up the present administration as the guardian of the balanced budget is in the same class as hiring a coyote for a watchdog over sheep."

This year's Republican speakers hit in other themes — like protecting civil rights — but economy was the main one.

The Democrats already have been assailing the Eisenhower administration by questioning the quality of the defense program sponsored by the President. They ask: Is defense being jeopardized by Eisenhower economy?

This is indeed a murky field since the experts are wrangling among themselves and the public is hardly in a position to know who's right.

Democrats have been critical of the administration's conduct of foreign affairs but when these differences are examined they are not really basic differences but rather differences in details.

Again the public — which can't know what the insiders know — can only guess as to who is right.

Nevertheless, spending, defense and foreign policy disputes will probably dominate Democratic and Republican statements for the rest of the year.

In an evolving society like this the political issues seldom seem to change suddenly or be abandoned. Rather they change little by little until, as the years go by, one finally isn't heard of any more and something else takes its place.

Yet a check back on the issues Republicans raised at Lincoln Day dinners in past years shows that at least one thing which was an issue in 1959 is still being hammered on.

It was spending. In 1950 President Truman and his Democratic administration had the job of running the country now held by Eisenhower and his administration and what he called the "reckless spending" and "socialist programs of the New Deal."

That was also the year when Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin began his crusade against Communists in government. It was a theme which served the Republicans well for a while but in four years, or after McCarthy was brushed aside by his fellow senators, it faded away and no one this year was talking about it.

Retaliation

GLEN BURNIE, Md. — Police Sgt. Leroy Voltrath, who works the "graveyard" shift, had been in bed only an hour or so when the telephone rang.

An attorney on the line said it was imperative he speak to him so Mrs. Voltrath reluctantly woke her husband. When he learned the call dealt with a minor accident he had investigated, Voltrath asked:

"Don't you realize I worked all night?"

"Of course," said the lawyer, "but don't you realize that this is my working day?"

Voltrath hung up in anger. At 3 a.m. next morning, he phoned the attorney.

"This is Sgt. Voltrath," he said, "this is my working day. Now what did you want to know about that accident?"

Special Delivery

TOLEDO, Ohio — Six fire trucks rushed through afternoon traffic to find a 7-year-old girl standing beside an alarm box at a downtown intersection. The girl's mother explained that they lived on a farm, the girl was not used to the city and thought the box was a mail box.

Patient 7-Year-Old

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio — Susan Davis, 7, has been in City Hospital 37 times in 4½ years. She has a severe asthmatic condition, and a hypogammaglobulinemia condition (lack of making her own antibodies) makes her highly susceptible to lobar and bronchial pneumonia, which she had 21 times in 1954.

Universe Only A Thought?

This old universe is full of paradoxes — not the least of which is that we aren't really here.

It was Einstein who pioneered the newer concepts through his Relativity. The old concepts had to be discarded—the earth-bound ideas were not valid for the universe. In space, there is no distance, no dimension, no direction. There is no such thing as a point in space, this idea being useful only on the surface of our world.

Every single particle, every wavelength of energy in the entire universe is in constant motion, there being nothing absolute to peg their motions on. Yet, this motion is relative; each particle or wavelength has motion only in relation to every other particle or wavelength. There is no "still" point from which these motions may be resolved.

If all the universe were contained in a single grain of sand, surrounded on all sides by the infinite void, how would you be able to tell it was not a Boulder, except in relation to your own dimensions? So, just imagine you are a bodiless spirit, without any dimensions for comparison. That grain of sand might well be a single atom or an entire universe, for all you could tell. No matter how small you might make it, or how large, there still exists the infinite void on all sides—and how can there be a difference in measurements against infinity? Size, then, is relative—against the observer and the subject, or between the grain of sand and the expanded universe. The concept of size becomes meaningless. The same could be shown to be true of all other earthly concepts.

Every theory of creation leaves unanswered the question of origin; for example, one theory supposes an exploding primeval atom that once contained all the present universe, but does not say where that primeval atom came from, where that matter push matter back into infinite time, thus precluding the question of where it all came from.

Practically everyone, cosmologists included, very naturally assume that matter is "something." Space being represented as "nothing," it is quite natural to assume that this "something" is a bit more than "nothing." Yet, is it not just as logical to assume the existence of "something" which is a bit less than "nothing"? It would be most logical, indeed, to assume that, space being zero, then matter and energy are compounds of a bit more than nothing and a bit less than nothing.

And where did even this come from? From the physical law that causes the universe to exist. If even time itself becomes relative, a mere earth-bound concept of man, and is distinguished as a separate thing from eternity, then the plus-minus concept becomes feasible. Time, matter, energy, distance, dimension, direction — even space — become meaningless, with an existence that is not existence except as an exponent of whatever prime law rules this universe.

Or, as a philosopher once phrased it, "the universe is but a thought in the mind of God."

Explanation For Soviet Shoplifting

I have a well-documented politico-economic theory about Soviet shoplifting. For that reason, I heartily applaud New York's R. H. Macy & Co. for not making an international incident out of $42.41 worth of kleptomaniac. Soviet propagandists could accordeonize the incident even as Gennadi Lvov, who forgot to get a capitalistic sales check, weaves and stretches his instrument as an accordionist with the visiting Beryozka Russian Dance Co.

Lvov follows a distinguished duo of Russian shoplifters. In September, 1959, Nina Ponomareva, 27-year-old women's Olympic discus champion, wandered out of a London department store with five bargain-basement hats valued at less than $5. British courts, applying justice "with equal force to prince, pauper, poet, peasant and Ponomareva," required her to face charges.

Whereupon the Russian embassy spirited her out of circulation and Soviet athletes refused to participate in a track meet with a British all-star squad costing the sponsors $70,000. Subsequently, Ponomareva paid $8.92 in court fees. The Russians called it all a "dirty pravocation." Nevertheless, later they removed Nina from the All-Soviet Athletic Squad.

Then last June, Olga Lepesinskaia, a famous ballerina, was arrested for acquiring an umbrella, two pairs of gloves, cuff links, and some tape without the formality of paying L'Innovation, Brussels department store. The store followed its policy of not prosecuting first offenders. Macy's, with a suggestive nudge from the State Department, pursued a similar policy after it recovered from Lvov 23 ties, five pairs of socks, a handbag and a brassiere.

These itchy-fingered impulses can be readily explained by the drab, barren displays at GUM, the showplace department store in Moscow. The merchandise is not only expensive, but it is plain, of poor material, and ineffectively made. So, when Russians are turned loose abroad without pounds, francs, or dollars, they substitute desire for the medium of exchange.

There is another theory. Soviet citizens have been brought up to "hate" capitalism and the private-profit system. Department stores in London, Brussels, and New York are capitalistic. They may sell attractive merchandise but they grind down and oppress their customers by profiteering. Therefore, these Soviet citizens take it upon themselves to expropriate some of the profits.

I prefer the explanation submitted by Milovan Djilas in his significant book, "The New Class." The Communist planned economy conceals within itself an anarchy of a special kind. . . . In Communist systems, thefts and misappropriations are inevitable. It is not just poverty that motivates people to steal the "national property," but the fact that the property does not seem to belong to anyone.

In 1954, in Yugoslavia alone, over 20,000 cases of theft of "socialist property" were discovered.

Djilas ought to know. Until expelled from the party in 1954, he was vice president of Yugoslavia. He observes that "Communist leaders handle national property as their own but . . . they waste it as if it were somebody else's."

In the Soviet Union and in the satellite countries, everything is owned by the state, but the Communist party controls the state and thereby the distribution of wealth and income. In rationing plus jobs, salaries, apartments, dachas, autos, etc., favored members of the party get theirs.

Thus, although for most persons in the Soviet Union there is no private property, the less the all-powerful 7,600,000 members of the Communist party have become an owning class. This New Class, accountable to no one but its own membership, treats the state property as if it were privately theirs. Result: Disillusionment, resentment, and ethical rebellion.

Plucking Daisy Petals—For $290

La, me, what lovelorn lass, frantic to plumb the true depths of her beloved's attitude toward her, has not devoured the daisy patch to get at the truth?

For centuries, as far as I can discover, my impatient sex has torn, one by one, the petals from the unoffending Bellis perennis, murmuring as it does so:

"He loves me; he loves me not." Breathes there a maiden with soul so dead that she has not performed this age-old strip tease, denuding one hapless flower after another?

If the final petal fell to "he loves me," what rejoicing has filled the air! If, alas, it fell to "he loves me not," it was up to the young lady's friends to restrain her from throwing herself into the nearest millpond. Fortunately, in my salad days, the irrigation ditches of Idaho did not lend themselves to such romantic purposes.

Well, sir, those were the horse-and-buggy days. The English, Shogun, African and oxeve daisy, no less than the marguerite, pyrethrum, black-eyed Susan and the chrysanthemum are guaranteed from now on against the wistful deprivations of my sex.

Automation has taken over in the daisy department. The frail forecasts of love have been put on the assembly line. Sputnik, mutnik, let Russia match this!

As I say, automation has taken over. An enterprising jeweler is now advertising a jeweled daisy that will blab all, and, what's more, on a permanent and not just a one-shot basis.

This jeweled daisy, with its eight petals, is the center of a gold disk that looks about the size of a 20 dollar gold piece, if I still remember correctly that lovely, long-lost coin.

"Play the Roulette of Love" advertises this enterprising jeweler. "Don't pluck the daisy; spin this new French love roulette charm."

So the lovelorn lass spins the daisy, thoughtfully and permanently made of "turquoise and rubies with a coral love marker." And where it will stop nobody knows. Because this jeweled daisy doesn't tell a girl if "he loves me; he loves me not." Oh, no! This roulette of love is much more complicated and informative. It predicts good, like an automatic brain should.

Not two but six choices or degrees of love are registered by the automated daisy. Eros's little helper, its coral "love marker" can stop at any of these legends, after a free spin: "I Love You," "A Little," "Very Much," "Passionately," "With Madness" or, alas and how ghastly for heart-broken teens, "Not At All."

Even the girl for whom the spinning daisy stops at "A Little" can still hope. But it's the millpond for the Ophelia who rates only the automatic "Not At All."

This 18-carat gold roulette of love plus jeweled daisy only costs $290. That sum will, I admit, buy a lot of tea leaves. Still and all, while tea is nice, gold and jewels last forever. And there aren't any messy cups to wash. Furthermore, for only another $200, one can purchase a gold bracelet from which to hang Cupid's compass.

Thus, for only $490 one can obtain a daisy not only indestructible but as reliable as the Delphic oracle and a lot closer to home. (And it is cheap at any price if it will save the herbaceous borders.)

How nice, too, that with St. Valentine's Day in the offing, automation is beginning to fulfill its promise with this prophetic of amour toutours for sure.

Scripture—Mark 12:28-31.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THIS LESSON is one that can be understood by everyone who studies it, from the youngest to the oldest. It should be especially helpful in our generation when there is so much crime committed by those who hate others. That means neighbors in other countries as well as our own, and includes the whole wide world. Wars are brought on by hatred, just as neighborhood quarrels are. They are promoted by the desire to average some wrong, whether feuded or real.

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, clergyman and editor, suggests that both younger and older pupils might be introduced to the lesson by the question: "Who has a right to command us?"

Parents, of course give commands to the young; teachers in none other commandment greater than these.—Mark 12:28-31.

Can we learn to love God in the way Christ said? We can teach ourselves if we turn dislikes and hatred out of our hearts. We must do to others as we wish them to do to us.

The scribe, as I have said before in these lessons, was a high priest of the Jewish temple and a writer, as the name "scribe" indicates. He answered Jesus by saying: "Well, Master, Thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and none other but He: And to love Him with all the heart, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices."

Parents, of course give commands to the young; teachers in the schools have a right to command obedience of their pupils. A military officer has a right to command those under him and a traffic officer may command the driver of an automobile if the traffic law is violated. In our moral life we must not only obey the laws of our country but God's laws.

What did Jesus say about obedience? A scribe came to Him, praising Him for his answer to a question he had been asked, and saying: "Which is the first commandment of all?" Jesus answered that the first was to love God with all our heart, soul, mind and strength. "And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is Jesus' way and should be ours."

Japanese Protestant Church Celebrates 100th Anniversary

By KAY TATEISHI
TOKYO (AP)—The Protestant Church in Japan celebrates its 100th anniversary this year noting with pride its many achievements in a major non-Christian country.

There are, by government count, 332,135 Japanese Protestants in 4,312 churches out of a total population of 90 million.

The Rev. Kaname Tsukahara, secretary of the National Christian Council of Japan, is one who feels the cold statistics do not adequately reflect what he terms "the true following and real strength of the Japanese Protestant Church."

"It is extremely important to remember," he says, "that Protestantism has had a tremendous influence on the Japanese—particularly in the cultural, educational and social welfare fields and in their daily lives."

He cites as an example the fact that some 20 members of Japan's 466-member lower house of Parliament are Protestants. One is former Prime Minister Testu Katayama.

Protestantism came to Japan with a handful of clergymen in 1859 when the Christian religion was banned as dangerous to the state. The ban finally was lifted in 1873.

In the past century, protestants list these major contributions to Japanese life:

- Founding of 228,373 schools, including four universities and 23 colleges and Japan's first girls' school—the Ferris School in Yokohama.
- Organizing and building 23,028 YMCA and 12,093 YWCA groups, two hospitals, 11 medical clinics, 18 social settlements, three leprosaniums, three homes for the aged, 12 orphanages and 40 miscellaneous establishments.
- Popularization of the Bible, which is Japan's top postwar best seller. More than 25 million copies of the Bible have been sold since the end of World War II.
- Publication of the first Japanese-English and English-Japanese dictionary, and transliteration of the Japanese language into the Roman alphabet.

The 100th anniversary program will be observed for a week beginning Nov. 1.

A number of Protestant leaders plan centennial trips to Japan, including the Rt. Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, and possibly evangelist Billy Graham.

"But the anniversary," says the Rev. Mr. Tsukahara, "will not only look back on our achievements. Primarily, it will center on our future."

The Church In Your House
In the letter of Paul to Philemon there is found this rather startling phrase—"the church in your house."

There is a church of some kind in every home that is Christian. What is it like—the church in your house?

So very, very much depends upon your home and mine. In his memoirs, Henry Grady, recounting the re-building of the South following the great Civil War, wrote: "We began with legislation because that seemed the quickest, but it didn't work. We turned next to the schools, thinking it better to educate than to legislate. That also failed."

"Then we tried the church. Perhaps warm emotion could accomplish what cold intellect could not. Again we were disappointed. Eventually, we came to see that the only place to begin any kind of rebuilding was with the home."

And there is where we must begin. If we are ever to have a better community, a better nation, a better world, we must look to our families and homes, to the church in your house.

It is said that when they built the Queen Mary, one of the greatest ocean liners ever to sail the sea, they first of all constructed a 30-foot model, complete in every aspect. They knew if the model worked that the Queen Mary itself would work. And so it is with the Kingdom of God. Christ needs you and me to demonstrate it in our homes. If it will work there, then it will work in the world. God is counting so much on the church in your house.

And no home can be a real home without God. "Unless the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it."

In an Indian mission in the Northwest there has been built a beautiful chapel of native stone. The old Indian chief gave the art glass window which is over the baptistry. It is the picture of a cross superimposed upon an Indian teepee.

Says the old Indian chief, "I want my people never to forget that Jesus Christ is the hope of men who live in teepees."

And Christ is the hope of all of us, whether we live in a teepee or a tenement, in an apartment or a palace. God is shut out or gets his chance through your home and mine.

What is it like—"the church in your house?"

Jukebox Man Says Industry Needs Help To Fight Rackets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of a New York City jukebox operators association told the Senate Labor-Management Committee his industry is "frantically in need of help" to fight off gangsters.

The committee placed in formal records a list of 10 men it said are in the coin machine business and delegates to the alleged crime convention in Apalachin, N. Y.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the 10 men are: Gerard Catena, Carmine Lombardo and Mike Miranda of New York and Brooklyn; John A. DeMarco and John Scialisi of Cleveland; Joseph Falcone of Utica, N.Y.; Michael Genovese, Gabriel Mannarino and John La Rocca, operating in Pittsburgh; and Frank Zito of Springfield, Ill.

The committee had been told in testimony that high-ranking underworld men repressed Lombardo from a death sentence at Apalachin but fined him $10,000, apparently for getting out of line in the coin machine business.

Kennedy also told the committee that members of "the syndicate" in the Gary, Ind., area pulled 1,000 pinball machines out of bars and other places Wednesday night, apparently because of the committee's investigation.

Gary, he said, is "one of the most critical areas" involved in the committee's investigation. He said the machines were of a type that could be used for gambling.

Albert S. Denver, president of the Music Operators of New York, Inc., told of the need for help to combat gangsters in a statement placed in committee records.

Denver said his association speaks for 160 members operating 8,000 of the 11,000 jukeboxes in New York. He said the 11,000 jukeboxes provide a return of more than 11 million dollars a year.

Gangsters, he said, view this business as "a field ripe for their intervention." The association is fighting them, he said.

Denver was the first of 10 witnesses called for questioning about charges New York mobsters use phony union locals to exact tribute from the jukebox-coin machine industry.

Kennedy said Alex. Cohen, whom he described as a powerful figure among labor unionists dealing with coin machine operators, would get a chance to answer testimony linking Cohen's name with gangsters.

James Cagiano of Flushing, L.I., a former associate of Cohen in labor unions, testified Thursday that Cohen used to receive phone calls from John Dioguardi (Johnny-Dio) and from Tony (Ducks) Corallo.

Stephen Vladeck, counsel to the Retail Clerks Union in New York, testified the international union has expelled both Cagiano and Cohen for their handling of locals which attempted to organize machine repair and maintenance mechanics.

Kennedy said Cohen and Cagiano at one time headed rival unions picketing each other in a fight that caused havoc in the industry. The rivals finally merged into a single unit of the Retail Clerks Union, with Cagiano as president and Cohen as secretary-treasurer, Kennedy said.

Cagiano described a stormy career in a variety of coin machine servicemen's unions. He said these locals' main purpose was to picket business establishments that installed machines not owned by members of the trade associations with which the unions bargained.

Abraham Gilbert, former office manager of one of Cagiano's locals, testified that "the employees didn't need a union. They got very good wages." He said he agreed with Kennedy that the union existed "for the help and assistance of the association" of machine owners.

But George Kolibash, former recording secretary of the local, contending the employees do need a union to represent them, and Vladeck said he thought so too.

Welfare Leads Income Sources

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The largest single source of income in 84 of Texas' 254 counties now is welfare checks.

Alvin Burger, Texas Research League director, Thursday told the Texas Bankers Assn. his staff now was studying "how well the various welfare programs are doing the job of getting aided families back onto a self-supporting basis."

The Texas Research League is a private fact-finding and survey-making organization.

While the state's population is expected to increase 65 per cent from 1950 to 1975 the population of the above-65 age group will soar to at least 120 per cent, he said.

Burger listed six factors for the rising expenditures, tax collections and debts of the states: (1) the large post-war population growth; (2) the backlog of state and local public works; (3) industrial expansion; (4) inflation; (5) expansion of federal grants-in-aid programs requiring matching funds; and (6) the post-war technological, cultural and social changes which have created new demands for public services.

He said the problem is more complex in Texas because the population growth is not spread evenly over the state. Eighty-six per cent of the state's growth since 1946 has occurred in only 11 counties. More than 130 counties have lost population in the last 18 years.

Pilot Describes Red Death Lure
SARNIA, Ont. (AP)—A former Royal Canadian Air Force ferry pilot said today his Sabre Jet and three others were almost diverted into a North Atlantic grave 2 1/2 years ago by a radio signal apparently coming from a Soviet ship.

The report has been circulating in Canada for several days. Defense Minister George Pearkes told a questioner in the House of Commons Thursday he was unable to confirm the report.

The pilot, Kenneth V. Hagarty of Sarnia, said in an interview he was at the controls of one of the planes following a radio beam into Kinloss, Scotland, when a new and stronger radio signal was superimposed on the beam.

The signal came from a different direction, he said, and nearly sent the whole flight winging north into the arctic.

The Sabres are short-range planes and transatlantic flights are worked out carefully.

The Sabres did not alter course and were able to distinguish enough of the Kinloss signal to complete the flight without trouble, he said, and the pilots were told not to mention the incident.

Hagarty said it was overcast and the pilots could see nothing below, but the Royal Air Force later sent out scout planes and sighted what they described as "foreign" ships in the area.

Banking Course Enrolls Fifty

A new semester's work was started Thursday evening at Howard County Junior College by the local chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Approximately 50 people associated with banking in Big Spring, Colorado City, Snyder and Lamesa have enrolled in two courses.

One in commercial law is being taught by W. S. Morrison, Big Spring attorney, and the other in economics is being taught by Harold Vale, HCJC instructor.

The courses are all part of the AIB special training program which leads to certification including the graduate level. Only officers and employees who are members of banks enrolled in the American Bankers Association are eligible for participation.

Instructor this semester constitutes the third and fourth courses, said Larson Lloyd, chapter president. The initial course was in the principles of banking, followed by negotiable instruments. Enrollment ranges from the newest employees to top executive officers in several banks of the area.

The objective is to improve the knowledge and effectiveness of people in banking.

Response of banking employees in this section has been such that national attention has been focused on the chapter's AIB program.

Approximately 14 weeks will be required for the class members to complete the current phase of the study. Those enrolled meet each Thursday at 7 p.m. in the college and have three hour classes. In the autumn, a new series of courses will be offered.

Attempted Car Theft Charge Is Planned

Officer J. D. Campbell arrested the man in the used car lot and reported that when apprehended, he was in a 1956 Chrysler. It is to be charged with attempted car theft.

No Marriages Planned Today?

Marriage licenses, which have been in fair to brisk demand nearly every day in February, were in the doldrums today.

Whether it was the shadow of the Friday 13 jinx or just because, the county clerk's office did not know.

Two marriage licenses were issued on Thursday. To noon Friday no romantic couples had braved the potential bad luck of the date to apply for licenses.

Jury Trials End In County Court

Trial of criminal cases in Howard County court came to an abrupt termination for this week on Friday morning.

Four Cars Are Burglarized

Sheriff Miller Harris said that two automobiles parked near the Clover Bowl south of town were burglarized last night.

Don Hanks, Lubbock, reported at 11:20 p.m. that two white shirts, one sport shirt, two white pairs of slacks and a fifth of whisky had been stolen from his car.

At 12:15 a.m. Hugh Wallace, 1707 E. 15th, reported that a pink quilt, a green checked quilt, a blue wool blanket and a pink wool blanket had been taken from his parked car.

Two cars parked at Johnnie's Roundtop cafe, 241 Scurry, were rifled about midnight, and an Army blanket and a man's jacket were taken.

It was reported to the police shortly after midnight that cars owned by Robert Burchett and Gary Overstreet. Both the blanket and jacket were taken from the Bursett car. A venetian glass was broken to get into the car, the police reported.

Nothing was found missing from Overstreet's vehicle, but it had been rifled.

STEERS HOST RUGGED RED HOSSES AT 8:00

The Big Spring Steers try to ride the tiger tonight. They go against mighty Odessa, still unbridled after 27 games. Tip-off time is 8 o'clock, scene of action is Steer Gym.

Nothing will be riding on the game except prestige and a desire on the part of the Bronchos to protect their unsullied record. Odessa has already clinched the conference title. Big Spring has already nailed down third place, ahead of Abilene and San Angelo.

Coach Vernon Harton would like to see his boys win their 20th game of the season tonight. Win or lose, the Steers have had a successful season. They've lost only ten times in 29 starts.

Odessa is coached by John Malaise, who went to Odessa from Big Spring after serving as cage mentor here for three years.

Bill Thompson Big Spring's ace, and Jackie White of Odessa, will be winding up their fight for the individual scoring honors in the circuit.

Jack's Grocery No. 3 downed Roy Bruce's Phillips 66, 4-0. Goodyear Shamrock bounced by Cooley Shamrock, with 800-2297.

Ginger Kobi of Jack's had 201-533 for individual laurels. Jeanette Hayden of Hammer's registered a 193 and Janie Pascual of Cooley's a 508 total.

Lucie Garrison of Hamilton's scored 40 pins over her average to win the two free dinners at Carlos' Restaurant.

Spills were converted by Marie Roughtley, Hamilton's 3-10. Audrey Piper, Hamilton's 3-10. Cecil Ross, Cooley's 2-7.

the other Odessa starters. At 6-3, Harris is the tallest Odessa player. Opening with Thompson will be Preston Hollis, Zay LeFevre, Benny McCrary and Bobby Evans.

Last time out, Big Spring gave the Bronchos a lot of trouble before losing by nine points. Winding up their basketball careers for Big Spring are Thompson, McCrary and Hollis. LeFevre and Evans are juniors. Also departing will be Joe Bob Clendenin and Charles Greene.

All five of the Odessa starters, plus several reserves, are seniors. There'll be a B game starting at 6:15 p.m.

When and if Sammy Baugh leaves Hardin-Simmons for another coaching position, I predict he'll go back to his old employers, the Washington Redskins of the NFL.

Baugh never mentions how many coaching offers he receives but I venture to say the owner of the Redskins, George Preston Marshall, sounded him out on a job when Joe Kuharich departed the Redskins to replace Terry Brennan at Notre Dame.

Sammy doesn't particularly want to leave HSU. He has a ranch at nearby Rotan and his arrangement with the Baptist school leaves him with plenty of time to pursue both careers.

Baugh never mentions how many coaching offers he receives but I venture to say the owner of the Redskins, George Preston Marshall, sounded him out on a job when Joe Kuharich departed the Redskins to replace Terry Brennan at Notre Dame.

When Ben Martin, who coached the Air Force Academy into the last Cotton Bowl game, scored that hole-in-one in a practice round prior to the recent Phoenix Open, he was playing with clubs borrowed from Art Gleason, the fellow who used to broadcast "Game of the Day" baseball over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Roland Powell, the one-time Sweetwater football lineman who checked out of the University of Oklahoma before using up his eligibility there, has had offers from at least two NFL teams to turn pro.

Lakeview Quint Sews Up 1-A Championship

Lakeview's Rockets broke up a two-way tie in District 1-A here last night, pouncing on Sweetwater, 46-37, for the right to enter the state tournament at Prairie View next weekend.

Sweetwater had been the only team to defeat Lakeview in district play. The Rockets now boast a 17-6 season record.

Coach Roosevelt Brown, who took his team to the quarterfinals in the state meet last year, led the Big Spring team would leave Thursday. Woodville, state champs last year, dropped the Rockets from contention in 1958.

Big Spring was in the lead all the way, 11-8, 20-15, and 30-25 at quarter marks. The Rockets outscored Sweetwater, 16-12, in the final period for added comfort.

B. F. Newton canned 24 and Johnny B. Wright had 12 for the winners. Bill Johnson had 18 for the losers.

Lakeview's girls won also, 31-22, after breaking a 12-12 halftime tie and snapping losses from a 17-17 third period deadlock.

Betty Seages had 16 for Lakeview. Sweetwater's 11-13. Sweetwater's 11-13. Sweetwater's 11-13.

Lakeview (46) - Newton 22-24, Baker 9-11, Brown 1-2, Wright 6-12, Evans 1-1, Harris 1-1, Hollis 1-1, Johnson 1-1, McCrary 1-1, Powell 1-1, Ross 1-1, Seages 1-1, Thompson 1-1, White 1-1, Zay 1-1.

Sweetwater (37) - Johnson 8-18, Wilson 1-2, Brown 3-17, Smith 1-1, Taylor 1-1, White 1-1, Wright 1-1, Zay 1-1.

Jayhawks Seek 6th Zone Win Tonight

Still looking for that first big victory against some of the West Zone powers on the road, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks visit Odessa tonight for an outing against Larry McCulloch's salty Wranglers.

The Jayhawks are now tied for second place in conference standings, behind Clarendon. Boasting a 5-3 won-lost record against league teams, the Hawks are deadlocked with Frank Phillips of Burger for that coveted No. 2 spot.

The Big Springers have been able to beat South Plains, J.C. of Levelland and Lubbock Christian College in road outings but have lost to Frank Phillips, Clarendon and Amarillo in games away from home.

A loss to Odessa would seriously jeopardize their chances of winning the runnerup spot and a trip to the state junior college tournament.

Odessa is still very much in contention for the runnerup spot, as is Amarillo. The Hawks will carry a 16-7 won-lost record to Odessa with them. Odessa is 4-4 within the conference.

Against Amarillo in Amarillo Tuesday night, the Wranglers led by the close score of 3-2. The Odessians had a chance to win in the final five seconds when Paul Thorpe was fouled but he deliberately missed the shot and went for the win. Amarillo controlled the rebound, however, and let the clock run out.

Probable starters for HCCJ tonight will be Bobby Davis and Gilbert Bell at the pivot position. Benny Carter, Tommy Zinn and Ray Clay outside.

Odessa is apt to go with a lineup consisting of Thorpe, Henry Cooper, David Fortune, Bob Kisinger and Bill Swerdson. The game will be the last regular season contest on the road for HCCJ. They play Amarillo and Clarendon here next week, then close out against Odessa here the night of Feb. 24.

Longhorns Meet Midland Team

High school track and field teams representing Big Spring and Midland tangle in a dual meet here, starting at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Field events start at that hour, while running events get under way 30 minutes later.

Coach Harold Bentley and Curtis Kelley have had upwards to 26 boys working out and most will see action. Big Spring will not enter a boy in the high hurdles or the high jump, however.

The meet will serve as a warm-up for Big Spring before the Fort Stockton Relays a week from tomorrow.

Events, and local boys who will run tomorrow, include: 100-yard dash — Freddie Brown and Roy Burklow; 200 — Lasater, Burklow and Carey King; 400 — Bill French, Benny Edwards and Gordon Dickson; 800 — Billy Engle and Steve Blair.

High hurdles — Joe McWilliams, Sprint relay — Lasater, Brown, David Abreo and Burklow; Mile relay — French, Edwards, Pole vault — Mike Zubiate; Shot put — Mackie Alexander, Donald Dorsey and Danny Anderson; Discus — Gary Walker and Robert Phelan.

Broad jump — King; Gordon Brister, a hurdler who has been out, suffered an injury of the heel tendon recently and may be lost for the year.

Robert Sanders, Bill Parsons and Dooney are among high jumpers who may come around later.

The Chicago Bears reportedly offered him $6,000 per annum (as a starter) to try it with them. The Baltimore Colts also want to see what he can do. He's up to 230 pounds now.

The ex-Big Spring hurler, who has spent the winter playing baseball in the Cuban league, will perform for Almendra in the Caribbean World Series, which takes place in Caracas, Venezuela, shortly.

Goliad JH Girls Defeat Runnels

Janice Dixon and Jo Ann Rawdon, athletes from Howard County Junior College, coached the Goliad Junior High girls to an important 32-15 volleyball triumph over arch-rival Runnels yesterday afternoon.

The two teams are engaged in a three-game series in which Goliad will be in the Big Spring H.S. School volleyball tournament which begins in late February.

The game was the first of the series, with the second to be played this afternoon at Runnels 8:30.

Bill Bell posted high game and series in Men's Classic Bowling league competition at Clover Bowl earlier this week.

Bell paced together games of 221-196-203 for a top series of 629. Gooden had high team game and series, with 925-783-852-250.

B.B. Construction won over Costen, 3-0. Turner Drilling turned back Madewell, Humble, 2-1; Humble, 2-1; Webb AFB lashed Campbell Construction, 2-1; and Standard Sales knocked Jones Shell, 2-1.

A meeting of all bowlers in the league will be held at Clover Bowl at 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening.

Elliott fielded the coldest team seen in the competition, missing a dozen consecutive shots in the first ten minutes to trail 12-0 before Nabor's took over. Okkie Harrod sparked Nabor's with 14 and Fisher pitched in 13.

Fields will play with the North team in the All-Star game at Fort Worth. Coaches for the opposing teams have not yet been selected. The Coaching Club itself starts Aug. 2 and continues through Aug. 7.

Fields, a 190-pounder, is the fifth Big Spring athlete named to play in the contest.

The others were Cliff Patton of the 1940 team; Norman Dudley, 1953; Carlisle (Frosty) Robison, 1954; and Jerry Graves, 1955.

Patton, who later made good in professional football, was a tackle. Dudley and Graves were centers while Robison, like Fields, was a back.

Garden City Bearcats Win Over Sterling, 74 To 43

STERLING CITY (SC) — The Garden City Bearcats had power to burn here last night as they completed their District 19-B slate with a 74-43 runaway from Sterling City. The game left Garden City with a 7-1 mark in the district, and pending the outcome of tonight's Forsan-Knott battle, the Bearcats have a deadlock with Forsan for the crown.

Should Forsan win, the two teams will have lost only a game to each other. A two-of-three game playoff will be used to determine the district representative in the bi-district rounds. Play will be on a home and home basis, and a third game, if necessary, will be played on a neutral court.

Garden City had a blazing 53 per cent of its shots, as compared to 29 per cent in Tuesday's loss to Forsan. Four players notched scoring in double figures. Dennis Carverley picked off nine field goals and six free tosses for 24 points, while Frank Murphy had 15. Don Plagens 13 and Harold Jones 12. Garden City shot to a 16-8 first period edge and was ahead 39-15 at halftime. At the end of the third, the Bearcats had reserves on the floor to protect a 49-26 advantage.

Alfred Chappel had 15 for Sterling City. Sterling City nipped the Garden City girls, 39-27, after overcoming a 17-15 first half deficit. Sterling was in front, 28-20, going into the last period but scored only two points in the fourth.

Wanda Williams had 14 for the losers; Elizabeth Payne had 15 for Sterling.

Knott P-TA Cards Benefit Contests

KNOTT (SC) — The Knott P.T.A. in an effort to raise funds for purchasing library books for the Knott High School, will sponsor two basketball games here tomorrow night.

First game, at 6:30 p.m., will be between two outside women's teams, one coached by Mrs. Robert Cline and the other by Mrs. Odell Roman.

Lindsey Assumes Odessa High Job

ODESSA (SC) — Melvin Lindsey, formerly a coaching aide at Abilene High School, has become the first assistant coach to Jack Brewer at Odessa High School here.

Lindsey is a graduate of Howard Payne College. He's been at Abilene since 1957, at which time he moved from Albany.

Andrade, Ryff Mix Tonight In Madison Square Garden

NEW YORK (AP)—Friday the 13th, the first of three on the 1959 calendar, is an appropriate date for tonight's "battle of the comebacks" at Madison Square Garden.

In one corner, Cisco Andrade, on the way back after an elbow operation and a fight in which he broke both hands in 1957.

In the other corner, Frankie Ryff, the thin-skinned boxer who underwent surgery for the removal of scar tissue around the eyes in 1958.

Both lightweights claim they are hale and hearty now, ready for their 10-round match that will be carried on NBC radio and television at 9 p.m. CST.

Andrade has given his hands a thorough test. He stopped Jorge Mascia, Bobby Bell and Lauro Salas before he lost a decision to clever Johnny Gonsalves. His record for 44 starts is 39-4-1.

Although Andrade, 29, is a busy businessman in the Los Angeles area, he still wants to get a crack at the title. He thought he earned it once when he beat Orlando Zulueta in 1955. And again when he whipped Jimmy Carter in 1956.

But he never got it, although he has beaten three former champs — Carter, Ed Smith and Salas.

Manager Danny McCrary (above) is lauded by coaches and players alike for the job he does as student manager of the Big Spring High School basketball team, which ends its season here tonight against Odessa.

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK AP) — You may find me watching the television set at any old time, but in the coming week I'm going to try to be viewing these things at these hours — all times Eastern Standard:

On Sunday at 11:30 a.m. over ABC the 61st anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana will be commemorated on "Johns Hopkins File 7" with "Remember the Maine and to Hell with Spain. Historian Walter Millis will narrate.

Another in the "Wisdom" conversation series on NBC offers an interview with writer Van Wyck Brooks at 2 p.m. at 3:30 "The Last Word" has as its guests William Saroyan and TV critic Marya Mannes.

"Omnibus" presents Gian-Carlo Menotti's opera, "The Medium" on NBC at 5. At 6 on CBS Edward R. Murrow's "Small World" offers a conversation involving Carl Sandburg, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen and British writer C. Northcote Parkinson. The topic of their discussion: "If Abraham Lincoln were alive today, would he be a Republican or a Democrat?"

At 6:30 "20th Century" presents on CBS "The Incredible Turk," the first filmed biography of Kemal Ataturk, founder of modern Turkey.

At 9 Sunday evening the Dinah Shore Show on NBC has as its guests Vera Ellen, pianist Andre Previn and George Gobel. At the same hour on CBS "G.E. Theater" offers Ernie Kovacs in "I Was a Bloodhound," playing a private detective hired to protect a pet baby elephant.

At 10 on CBS is the debut of a new private eye series, "Richard Diamond, Private Detective," starring David Janssen.

Monday at 9 on ABC "Voice of Firestone" presents Rise Stevens and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. If you don't care for classical music, try taking a look at "Peter Gunn" on NBC at the same hour and listen to the background jazz.

At 10 on CBS Janis Paige plays a rare straight dramatic role on "Desilu Playhouse," a commercially successful but dramatically disappointing series. In "Cher Rouge" Miss Paige portrays a woman running a Panama nightclub.

Wednesday at 10 on CBS "Armstrong Circle Theater" does a one-hour dramatization of the compulsion to gamble. Dr. George Stevenson of the National Assn. for Mental Health speaks at the end of the program.

"The Raider," starring Paul Douglas, will be seen on "Playhouse 90" over CBS at 9:30 on Thursday. It concerns a proxy battle in a large corporation. The cast includes Frank Lovejoy, Rod Taylor, Leif Erickson, Donald Crisp and Leon Ames.

Mother Won't Attend
Buddy Bregman, Hollywood musical director, gives singer-actress Anna Maria Alberghetti a hug as they announced they're going ahead with their planned April 5 wedding despite the opposition of Anna Maria's mother, Mrs. Vittoria Alberghetti, who opposes the marriage because Bregman is divorced, said she would not attend the wedding.
