RED CHINA TODAY

Indian Scholar Sees Chinese As 'Army Of Blue Ants'

Editor's Note - The Communist engineered changes in China are enormous, and so is the price paid in human terms. Dr. Sri Pati Chandrasekhar, noted scholar and director of the Institute for Population at Madras, recently returned from extensive travel behind the Bamboo Curtain. This is the first of five searching articles he has written on life in Communist China.

By The Associated Press

I spent about six weeks in Communist China and traveled widely by plane, train, car and jeep, visiting a dozen major cities, a few villages, and four communes. I traveled as far as Harbin in old Manchuria in the north, Lan-chow in the west, Shanghai in the east, and Canton and Shumchun in the south.

My interests covered universities, colleges and schools, hospitals and clinics, factories, agriculture, population and vital statistics, and the country's family planning program, including contraceptive factors.

China occupies an area almost equal to the whole of Europe and her people number today a little more than 650 millions, or about a quarter of the world's population.

China Visitor Has 'A Reporter's Itch'

MADRAS, India (AP)—Dr. Sri Pati Chandrasekhar is a 40-year-old population expert with a string of academic degrees and a reporter's itch to find things out for himself.

Twice offered an opportunity to visit Communist China as a member of official delegations, he refused. But when a chance came to travel there alone, he went eagerly and spent six weeks.

Dr. Chandrasekhar's primary purpose was to study China's population problem. But he noted much else besides—things he put into a series of articles distributed exclusively outside India by The Associated Press.

In his articles, Dr. Chandrasekhar reports what he saw, letting facts speak largely for themselves. But personally, he was chilled.

"I was not in favor of communism before my China trip," he said on his return to Madras, where he heads India's Institute for Population Studies. "But I never thought that it denied just about everything smacking of individuality and democratic aspirations."

At the same time, he said, it would be tremendous folly to underestimate the power of the new China—a power vividly sketched in his description of the regime's material achievements.

Dr. Chandrasekhar studied, taught and lectured in the United States more than seven years, specializing in the study of population growth and movement. In 1947, he left with his doctorate in sociology from New York University and an American bride—the former Ann Downes of Scarsdale, N.Y.

The author of several books on population problems, he has traveled and lectured widely in Asia and the Americas, including stints at the University of Pennsylvania and, in 1957, the University of Missouri. From 1947 to 1949 he was director for demographic (population) research for the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization in Paris.

He holds M. A. and M. Litt. degrees from the University of Madras, where he was a Nuffield Fellow at the London School of Economics in 1953, and has been a delegate to numerous scientific conferences in Europe, Asia, and North America.

Legislature Begins Busiest Week Yet

AUSTIN (AP)—Texans who have been wondering when something will happen in the Legislature may get their answer this week.

Beginning today this sixth week of the regular tax-and-spend session will be the busiest yet.

The week opened today with a continuation of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee hearing on a bill that would erase 29 million dollars of the deficit by revising state franchise tax collection rules.

In the Senate the big attraction will be the constitutional amendments committee meeting today where two important measures are being tested—a proposal to increase the legal interest rate for small loans and a measure which would allow two-thirds majority of the legislators to say what their annual salary should be.

The House appropriations committee, which has been working an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. shift in recent weeks, hopes to complete hearings this week by splitting into two groups and hearing budgets from a total of 60 state agencies.

Another matter that may get attention today is Gov. Price Daniel's plan to lower the deficit 18 million dollars by a "bookkeeping entry." The bill was shuttled to a subcommittee of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

This huge nation has embarked upon an experiment which seeks to accomplish in one day what other nations normally take 20 years to do. This last sentence is in fact a Chinese Communist slogan: "Twenty years compressed into one day."

What is this communism they are after and how are they trying to achieve it? Is Chinese communism the same communism we know in the Soviet Union or is it different in any material particular?

Even the most casual traveler in Red China cannot but be struck with five aspects of the people and their economy. These are dress, the continuous din of broadcast propaganda, the country's extraordinary cleanliness, the tremendous labor effort, and the new position of women.

Take dress. Everyone, men and women of all ages, is dressed in blue trousers and buttoned-up coats with collars like the uniform of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung. To a newcomer, men and women look almost alike for all the women have taken to shoulder-length bobs. It was explained to me that this new hair style needs no attention. You run your comb through your hair and you are all set.

Hundreds of thousands of men and women in blue padded trousers and coats with soiled shoes it is bourgeois to shine one's shoes. I was told to look like an endless army of blue ants scurrying to their appointed tasks. This dull uniformity numbs one's vision in the beginning, but soon one grows used to seeing a whole nation in blue uniforms.

But what is more important is that this blue uniform is only an external symbol or manifestation of the regimentation of the people's inner life and thought.

The second thing that no one can escape is the ubiquitous radio and the loudspeaker. This started when I boarded the train at Chunchun, the frontier station, taking me to Canton. The radio haunted all my waking hours until I left the same frontier station on my way out of China, six weeks later. The voice blares away at you in the bus, in the train, in the trolley, in sleepers and dining cars, on street corners, in villages, towns and cities—just about everywhere.

Even in a most backward and traditional village I saw a loudspeaker hidden in a treetop. You can escape the sun and the moon but you cannot escape the radio and the loudspeaker. And what does this radio pour out day and night? Everything that the government approves.

This is the most important medium for approved news—news of the nation's progress, industrial output, how to make a smelter, how to defeat the American "imperialists," how to be a good Communist, how to be neat, how to denounce the rightists, how to behave in a train, how to kill a rat or a sparrow, how to cook a sweet potato—and a thousand other things, interspersed with traditional Chinese opera with its deafening gongs and cymbals and martial and marching songs.

A few times in trains I had to feign illness so I could pull out the plug under the loudspeaker to enjoy a few hours of quiet. The citizen does not have a minute of silence in which to rest his mind or reflect on his new life.

The reason behind the loudspeaker is really a simple one. In a far-flung nation of 650 million, where literacy is not widespread and where, consequently, the printed word is relatively ineffective, the only way to reach the citizen is via the radio in the relay-loudspeaker which cannot be controlled and cannot even be turned off.

I once heard, on a train journey, a three-hour nonstop speech by the chairman of the Chinese Youth Communist League who was speaking from Peiping. The subject: How to be a loyal Communist.

Tomorrow: A nation hard at work.

Fire Follows Crash, Two Die

The pickup in which Mrs. Flora Larez and her grandson, Joe Louis Larez, were fatally injured is jammed against the front of the truck with which it collided early Sunday. Fire broke out in the pickup. The truck driver, Oscar Frank Cole of Dallas, made a valiant effort to save the two victims. He pulled both from the burning wreckage, but Mrs. Larez apparently had been killed instantly and her grandson died a few hours later. (Photo by Independent Wrecker Co.)

Woman, Grandson Die In Truck-Pickup Crash

Two Big Spring Latin Americans perished in a flaming traffic collision on the Andrews highway at 4:25 a.m. Sunday.

Killed instantly in the crash of a pickup and a big tractor-trailer truck was Mrs. Flora Larez, 62, whose home is in Big Spring, but who recently has been in Carlsbad, N. M.

Fatally injured and dying at 8 a.m. Sunday of burns was Jose Louis Larez, 18, her grandson, 213 NE 18th.

Highway Patrol Officer Kel Davis, who investigated the crash, said that young Larez was driving a 1952 Ford pickup toward Big Spring. He had been to Carlsbad to get his grandmother.

Both he and the woman were to have been important state witnesses this week in the district court trial of Alfonso Rodriguez, charged with assault with intent to kill.

The big tractor truck, a 1958

Guard Alert Gets Fast Response, Is Termed Successful

Response of Big Spring Guardsmen to a state-wide National Guard alert Sunday was rated as "entirely successful" by Capt. Elton Wallace, commander of the local unit.

Wallace said 92 per cent of the local unit assembled at the armory within 30 minutes after the alert was sounded at 7:30 a.m. Sunday. Fifty-eight of 63 members showed up. Four others were working and telephoned the armory. They were advised to remain on their jobs.

The local unit, Battery B of the 132nd Field Artillery Battalion, lined up all equipment and was ready for mobilization within an hour, Wallace reported.

After the alert ended, Guardsmen spent the remainder of Sunday in a regular drill.

Diamond T model loaded with oil field equipment, was driven by Oscar Frank Cole, 40, of Dallas, who was not injured in the wreck. He was travelling west.

Cole said he saw the pickup approaching at a point 8.5 miles west of Big Spring on State Highway 176. He dimmed his lights, he said. The pickup suddenly left the slab, cut into the gravel on the side of the road and swerved back directly into the path of the bigger vehicle. Immediately on collision, the pickup burst into flames. It remained jammed against the front of the larger truck.

Cole leaped from the cab and was able to drag the woman from the wreckage ahead of the flames. He pulled Larez free of the flaring car but until the driver had been burned almost all over his body.

The Big Spring Fire Department sent a truck to cope with the fire. The cab and front part of the pickup burned and the flames damaged the other vehicle to the point where it was disabled. It was hauled back to Dallas late Sunday.

Nalley-Pickle ambulance took the dead woman and the injured youth to Big Spring. Larez was admitted to the Malone & Hogan Hospital where he died four hours later without regaining consciousness.

His body was removed to the River Funeral Home.

Funeral arrangements for neither of the victims were complete at noon on Monday.

Mrs. Larez services will be arranged by the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home and that of her grandson by River Funeral Home.

Larez survivors include his mother, Mrs. Alfredo Larez, three brothers, Robert, Alfredo and Gabino, and one sister, Mrs. Domingo Vasquez, all of Big Spring.

He was born in Big Spring on June 22, 1940.

Mrs. Larez is survived by her husband, Gabino Larez, Big Spring; six daughters, Mrs. Andy Ceniceros, Big Spring; Mrs. L. M. Torres, Mrs. Manuel Fernandez, and Mrs. Frank Gallardo, all of Synney, Neb.; Mrs. Mary Uribe, San Antonio; Mrs. J. O. Carrasco, El Paso; three sons, Ray Larez, Juan Larez and Louis Larez, Big Spring, three sisters and 25 grandchildren.

The deaths of Mrs. Larez and her grandson were the first county highway deaths of 1959 on state and federal roads. Two other fatalities earlier in the year, both occurring inside the city limits, bring the total number of traffic deaths so far to four.

Beating Victim Unconscious, Two Charged

Walter Gatlin, 62, brutally beaten at his shanty home on W. 2nd early Saturday night, is still unconscious at the Big Spring Hospital, it was reported at noon Monday.

Two men, James Tindol, 29, and his brother, John A. Tindol, 22, are being held in the county jail. They have been charged with assault with intent to commit murder in the court of Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace. Their bonds have been set at $5,000.

The Tindols were arrested late Saturday night by city police and were held over the weekend in the city jail. Leo Hull, city detective, said that neither had admitted to the attack on Gatlin.

Gatlin was found sprawled on the ground in the yard of his small house by neighbors at 7 p.m. Saturday. He had been beaten about the head and face and kicked on the chest and abdomen.

Removed to the Big Spring Hospital by River ambulance, he has been unconscious since he was found.

Allies Urge Meeting On Reich Unity

Panel Would Include Bonn, Red Germans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France proposed to the Soviet Union today that a four-power foreign ministers conference on Germany be convened this spring with German advisers present.

A preference was expressed for late April or early May as the meeting time.

This is the first time the Western Powers have called for inclusion within the conference room of representatives from Communist East Germany and Allied West Germany.

While they would have the role of advisers, the step could prove to be a historic move toward some compromise on the problem of reunifying Germany.

The Western proposals were set forth in similar notes delivered in Moscow today.

U.S. officials opened up the possibility of a summit conference to follow if the foreign ministers meeting succeeded in making substantial progress on German issues.

These officials said that a top-level session which would bring together President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would not be excluded.

STRATEGY TOLD

The immediate strategy behind the call for a foreign ministers conference is to get the Soviets to the conference table just prior to their deadline for handing over their occupation responsibilities in East Berlin to the East German government.

Last November, Khrushchev threatened such action after six months. The deadline would be May 27. It holds the danger of a new Communist blockade of Berlin.

The Western Powers would prefer that the conference be held in Geneva or alternatively in Vienna.

Officials said they also thought late April or early May would be the best time to start.

The note released at the State Department here said: "The U.S. government is prepared to participate in a conference of the ministers of foreign affairs of the U.S.S.R., France, the United Kingdom and the United States, and is ready to consider any suggestions as to a date and place, which would be fixed by mutual agreement. The place and date should be settled through diplomatic channels."

WHOLE PROBLEM

"The conference should deal with the problem of Germany in all its aspects and implications. The aspects which would be dealt with include such immediate issues as the Western demand for reunification of Germany, the Soviet plan to send the Western Powers from Berlin and to make a peace treaty with the two halves of Germany; and other issues related to Germany such as broad questions of European security and of the possibility of disengagement of Soviet and Western forces in central Europe.

The Western Powers told the Soviets that if the Communists try to cut the lines of the Western Powers into Berlin "the danger to world peace" should be evident.

And, once again, as in an earlier note on Dec. 31, the U.S., British and French governments asserted their determination "to uphold by all appropriate means their communications with their sectors of Berlin."

West Germany upheld the position of the Western Powers in a parallel note, officials here said.

IN VIRGINIA

Judge Refuses To Halt Integration

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A U.S. Appeals Court judge today refused to postpone the ordered reopening of the Warren County, Virginia, public high school on an integrated basis.

Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, rejected contention by the county school board that best interests of both white and Negro students would be served if the private school system were retained until next September.

In speaking for the school board, he said flatly: "We're defeated on segregation. We know it. We don't favor integration, but we've been defeated."

He added, however, that to transfer all students from the present private school setup back to the county's high school at Front Royal would be injurious to their curricula and possibly cause them to lose credits for the year.

Sobeloff gave his decision immediately after the hearing.

After saying that he was denying the school board's plea for a postponement to integration, he said, "I think that by any standard that what Warren County has been doing is indefensible. I have heard nothing that would justify altering the lower court's ruling."

Sobeloff recently heard similar pleas for stay of federal integration orders from Arlington and Alexandria school officials. In those cases he said he found no reason to put off the integration deadlines.

Negro pupils were then admitted to former all white schools in both of the northern Virginia communities. The Atlantic port city of Norfolk also integrated six secondary schools earlier this month.

Thirty Negro students are now attending school with white children in the three cities. There have been no disturbances.

In the Warren County case U.S. Dist. Judge John Paul ordered the school board to reopen its white high school at Front Royal on Wednesday and admit 22 Negroes. The Front Royal school was the first of nine Virginia schools to be shut down last fall under the state's now defunct massive resistance laws.

Since then more than 700 of the 1,000 high school students in Warren County have enrolled in private instruction groups sponsored by the Warren County Educational Foundation.

A recent poll of parents conducted by the foundation showed 582 want their children to complete the current school term in private classes. Only five parents said they preferred public schooling.

The county school board has argued that reopening of the school now would be an unfortunate disruption of private instruction in the middle of the school year. The board has announced its intention to comply with the district court's integration order but will ask Judge Sobeloff to delay the order until September.

Weather Moons May Be Orbiting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will try in "the immediate near future" to launch the first of four satellites to help the weather man with his forecasts.

The imminence of the first attempt was announced Saturday night by Dr. Francis Reichelderfer, chief of the U.S. Weather Bureau, who said the launching would be from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

He said a successful satellite, properly equipped, could tell its surroundings as it orbited.

Sen. Kennedy States Belief In Church-State Separation

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a Roman Catholic, says he firmly believes in the constitutional separation of church and state. And he adds that he does not favor an American ambassador to the Vatican.

The 43-year-old senator is considered a potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, despite the fact that no Catholic has ever been elected to the White House.

Outlining his views as a senator on religion and the Constitution, Kennedy is quoted in Look magazine today as saying: "Whatever one's religious beliefs in private life may be, for the office holder nothing takes precedence over his oath to uphold the Constitution and all its parts—including the First Amendment and the strict separation of church and state."

"I believe as a senator that the separation of church and state is fundamental to our American concept and heritage and should remain so."

"I am flatly opposed to appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican. Whatever advantages it might have in Rome—and I'm not convinced of these—they would be more than offset by the divisive effect at home."

On the question of school aid,

Kennedy said: "The First Amendment to the Constitution is an infinitely wise one. There can be no question of federal funds being used for support of parochial or private schools. It's unconstitutional under the First Amendment as interpreted by the Supreme Court. I'm opposed to the federal government's extending support to sustain any church or its schools."

"As for such fringe matters as buses, lunches and other services, the issue is primarily social and economic and not religious. Each case must be judged on its merits within the law as interpreted by the courts."

Kiss-Kill Trial Begins

HOUSTON (AP)—Johnny Sage, 18, who kissed and then killed his 13-year-old girl friend Dec. 26, went on trial today for murder.

Sage, an apprentice plumber, is accused of slaying Stella Morrell. Sage shot Stella while playing with a pistol in his home. He claims the slaying was an accident.

The state's star witness, Terry Robert, 8, of Galveston said just before Stella came to Sage's home, he heard Johnny say: "I'm going to kill me a girl."

Sage, at the time of the killing, said Stella came to his home to pick up a Christmas gift. He said he kissed her and then placed the pistol at her head and pulled the trigger, thinking the firing pin would fall on an empty chamber.

Rep. Rutherford's Son Suffers Stroke

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Lane Rutherford, 5, son of Rep. and Mrs. J.P. Rutherford (D-Tex.), was taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital today after suffering a stroke.

He was unconscious and his condition was not immediately determined.

Union Meeting

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—AFL-CIO leaders gathered today in this Caribbean resort to plan how to combat unemployment back on the mainland and how to capitalize on the favorable political complexion of Congress.

10 Persons Die In Auto Crash On Slick Road

ALAMO, Tex. (AP) — Ten persons were killed on a rainslick highway Sunday in a shattering automobile crash that jammed the speedometer on one vehicle at 80 m.p.h.

Four of the dead were children. The head-on collision occurred seven miles south of here in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, practically on the Texas-Mexico border.

Muddy rescue workers pried and tugged for more than an hour to remove nine bodies from one crumpled automobile.

The dead:
John T. Closser, 42, Mercedes, Tex., who was thrown from his car in which he was traveling alone.

Antero Ibanez Tovar, 37, La Feria, Tex., driver of the second car.

Benito Comacho, 32, and Adelia Comacho, 23, and their three children, Zolando, 3, Ninfa, 4, and Minerva, 3, all of La Feria.

Definio Morales Tovar, 35, Harlingen, Tex.

Juan Hernandez, 19, and Linda Hernandez, 5, believed to be from La Feria.

The bodies were taken to nearby Pharr, Tex., where relatives identified them at a funeral home. All adults but Closser were migrant farm workers.

Highway patrolman M. L. Dailey said the speedometer on the car of Closser, a farmer and father of eight, was stuck at 80 miles per hour. Closser was traveling east and the other car west, Dailey said.

The wrecked cars came to rest on opposite sides of U.S. 281, almost facing one another.

Details of the crash, which killed every occupant of the two cars, were meager. Tom Handy, who lives nearby, said he stepped onto his porch about the time they collided.

"It just happened so fast. All I know was that one car was going east and one west," Handy said.

Domingo Cantu, Handy's neighbor, said he "heard something go boom real loud."
"I ran to the door and looked down the highway and saw those two wrecked cars and a man lying in the middle of the highway," Cantu said. "Then I ran up the highway to a neighbor's house where there was a phone and called for an ambulance."

Evy Norlund, Miss Denmark in last year's Miss Universe pageant, won a term contract with Columbia pictures as a result. In today's Hollywood Beauty, Evy tells of some contrasts between her country and the United States.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Foreign Beauty Uses The 'Subtle' Make-Up

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Of all the beautiful girls who came to California for the Miss Universe beauty pageant, the only one to receive a Hollywood movie contract was Evy Norlund of Denmark. This attractive blonde speaks remarkably good English and looks more like an American model than a Scandinavian.
When I was in Denmark it seemed that the women especially those in Copenhagen, were indifferent to make-up. I mentioned this to Evy one afternoon as we chatted in her dressing room at Columbia studios and she agreed. "The women in Denmark do not look in the mirror as often as they do in the United States," Evy began. "They are more interested in the enjoyment of good food than they are in having a good figure."
"But I used to study the models in the American magazines," she confessed, "and my girl friend and I tried counting calories the way they do here. I think the younger generation over there is thinking more about this."

The art of make-up is the ability to accent your good points and minimize your bad ones and still have that "gift from nature" look, and Evy's make-up was flattering and subtle.
"Don't tell me you learned how to apply make-up from looking at pictures," I commented.
"No, I was a model in Paris and I had my first real lesson there," she revealed. "But the French use heavier make-up than they do in Hollywood. The make-up men at the studios here taught me how to be really subtle."
"I realize that there is a danger of this," Evy confided. "I'm trying to hold on to a tempo that I had at home. I find exercise extremely relaxing. We walk and exercise a great deal in Denmark. When I come home after a strenuous day I make myself do exercises and I find I sleep much better. Most people think of exercise over here as a way to reduce but in Denmark we think of it as a way to better health."

Couple Is Wed In Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Touchstone, 2111 Runnels, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Georgia, and William Hodge Rosser Jr. The bridegroom is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. William H. Rosser, 1006 East 19th.

Marriage vows were recited by the couple Friday in Villa Acuna, Mexico.
The newlyweds will make their home in Big Spring. They will continue their studies, she as a sophomore at high school and he at Howard County Junior College. Rosser is a member of the Agriculture and Rodent Clubs, and is employed at the Experiment Station.

P-TA Units Commemorate Founders Day

Current and past presidents of the various P-TA units were honored last week at programs and teas in observance of Founders Day.
The National Congress of Mothers was born in Washington, D. C. on Feb. 17, 1897. It was founded as the result of the dream of Alice McLellan Birney of Georgia, who called together the first meeting of mothers. Through the years the chief objective has remained child study, but the organization is now known as the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.
Now numbering more than 640,000 women and men, the Texas Congress was organized in Dallas in October, 1909. Its golden anniversary will be observed in November, when the state convention takes place in Dallas.
Local units have taken up a collection in commemoration of Founders Day. Most of the money will go to the state organization, states Mrs. J. H. Homan, P-TA City Council president; it will largely be used for scholarships.

Charter Members Of The DOES Are Honored At Founders Day Tea

In observance of Founders Day, the BPO Does honored charter members with a tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Julius Zodin.
White cutwork linen graced the tea table, where golden-hued candlesticks held yellow candles and were encircled with yellow mums. At the center was the cake, decorated in yellow and purple and inscribed with the name of the organization. Silver appointments were employed in serving.
Mrs. Alma George, Mrs. S. V. Jordan, Mrs. Bill Gray and Mrs. A. J. Prager alternated at the table. Mrs. J. M. Morgan, charter member and "mother" of the Does, presided at the guest register.
Floating candles in composites advanced the decorative theme throughout the home. Arrangements for the event were planned by a committee headed by Mrs. Keith Brady.
Honored guests were Mrs. Bill Ragsdale, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Glen Gale, Mrs. L. D. Jenkins and Mrs. Morgan, who were instrumental in organizing the local group June 6, 1950. The national organization was founded Feb. 12, 1921.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Taylor were weekend guests of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Cave and Jane, in Roby.

Fantasyland Is Setting For Valentine Banquet

The banquet room at Hillcrest Baptist Church was transformed into Fantasyland Saturday night for the sweetheart event attended by the Young People's Training Union.
Guests were greeted by Sherrie Baird, Evie Miller and Ruth Berghill, who portrayed elves. A fairy castle had been created for the background, its windows shaped as hearts and as its door a large red valentine outlined with white carnations. Foil stars hung in the simulated sky above. A vine-covered wishing well made a popular gathering place.
Highlight of the program was the crowning of Sue Pope as princess. She was gowned in red and held a bouquet of white carnations. Making the presentation was Ronnie Bingham. Don Gavin took his place as prince during the ceremony, and was presented with organization. Silver appointments were employed in serving.

Mrs. Alma George, Mrs. S. V. Jordan, Mrs. Bill Gray and Mrs. A. J. Prager alternated at the table. Mrs. J. M. Morgan, charter member and "mother" of the Does, presided at the guest register.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have been having quite a few arguments lately about who really won the Civil War. I have some friends from Florida who say the South won. We looked it up in the Encyclopedia and it favors the North. They say it favors the North because it was printed in the North. In school I was always taught that the North won. They claim that in the South they are taught that the South won. I can't possibly understand how it can be taught differently as only one side could have won. I would appreciate it very much if you would settle this for me. CONFUSED

SPORTSMAN-TOYLAND

Get Equipped For Summer Fun

It's the time of year to start getting your water sports, camping and fishing equipment ready for another summer of fun.

And the place to do it is the Sportsman-Toyland Center, 1608 Gregg St.

Whether you need a complete boating, fishing or camping outfit, or just a few accessories to improve the gear you already possess, Sportsman-Toyland Center can fill your needs. There is scarcely an item in the outdoor sports line that you can't find in the big store.

Sportsman-Toyland Center is distributor of the new and improved Scott outboard boat motors, built by McCulloch. They range in size up to 60 horsepower, and the largest is a revolutionary three-cylinder, three-carburetor motor that is as smooth as it is powerful.

White House fiberglass boats, the most popular in the Southwest, are offered by the store. And of course, boat accessories of all kinds, including anchors, lighting systems, floats, battery boxes, fenders and life jackets are stocked.

The store has a complete line of fishing tackle, with all the major brands represented in the stock. Camping equipment—from Dutch ovens to tents—is available.

Archers will find everything they can desire at Sportsman-Toyland Center. Ben Pearson and Bear bows are stocked, in "pulls" ranging from 15 to 50 pounds. Both hunting and target arrows are provided. The bows are available in hickory, fiberglass and lemonwood. Targets and all shooting accessories are in stock.

Another popular line of goods available at Sportsman-Toyland is the swimming accessories, such as masks, snorkels, fins and other articles.

Little League baseball equipment is stocked in quantity. Young diamond aces already are selecting their gloves and personal equipment and a number of uniform orders have been placed.

'Low Profile' U.S. Royal Is Safest Tire Available

The safest tire you can put on your car is the Low Profile U.S. Royal Master, marketed here by the Phillips Tire Company at Fourth and Johnson Streets.

The long cord plies in the Low Profile Royal Master make for much better road "tracking."

As tires revolve, they "give" as they meet the road, flexing into a broad contact area. Excessive flexing generates heat, leads to strength deterioration of the body fibers of the casing.

Also, the generation of heat uses up valuable horsepower, power that should go into moving the car — while saving on gas.

The new Low Profile design shapes the tire closer to its working position, requiring less bending (flexing) as it conforms itself to the road.

The Low Profile Royal Master, which has been available to the motoring public for about seven months, offers the car owner greater safety and stability, especially at maximum highway speeds.

It also provides faster steering response on curves and when passing another vehicle.

The Low Profile Royal Master gives the car a lower center of gravity, almost as if the owner were going to a smaller wheel base size. At the same time, it increases its stability and handling features. Its new flexing action reduces strength-deteriorating heat build-ups.

Boasting nylon cords, the Low Profile U.S. Royal Master is up to 81 per cent stronger than many other tires.

Solved - Carpet Cleaning Problem

Science finally has the answer to carpet cleaning. Blue Lustre, a new development, is mixed with water and brushed into carpet or upholstery. It's amazing in how forgotten colors spring out. The nap is left open and lofty. It's easy to apply. One-half gallon of Blue Lustre cleans three 9x12 rugs. Available at Big Spring Hardware, 115 Main St.

Ward's Gives Expert Service

Montgomery Ward's big store at the corner of Gregg and Third streets is particularly proud of one of its operations—the service department it maintains to keep Ward household accessories in top shape for its customers.

The store has only trained experts on the job. These men know their product and are skilled in making the adjustments and repairs which will keep the equipment going as it should. If you have a Ward electric refrigerator for example—and there's a good chance you do have since this is a most popular refrigerator with Big Springers—and it needs a bit of overhauling, call the Ward Service Department.

An expert repairman, who will bring all of his needed tools with him, will be at your door in a jiffy. In no time at all your refrigerator will be purring like a kitten and rendering the service you want of it.

Ward's is proud of its products and most anxious that its customers get the greatest possible satisfaction from them. That's why so much emphasis is laid by the store on maintaining a service department that is unbeatable.

By all means, if you have a little trouble with some Ward accessory—don't gamble on some unknown "expert" to make repairs. Do what you should—call Ward's. Ask for the service department.

New Permaglas Heater Will Solve Hot Water Problems

Ask for an A. O. Smith Permaglas water heater when replacing that old worn out heater.

Nothing is more bothersome than an old hot water heater that spouts headaches rather than steaming hot water when called upon. And during these cold days is not a very favorable time for the water heater to go out.

You can eliminate these worries and aggravating times by having Fiveash Plumbing Co. 821 E. 3rd, install a new A. O. Smith water heater in your home.

The Smith Permaglas glass-lined Rancho water heater is just the thing to give years and years of trouble-free service, even when in use most constantly.

You don't have to worry about rust or corrosion when you have a Permaglas heater. This is because the tank is lined with the finest slick, smooth glass, which always provides sparkling clean, constant temperature hot water.

Let Fiveash install a Permaglas and you'll always be sure of plenty of clean hot water with no work, no worry, no waiting. Permaglas

By TOMMY HART

Bobby Maxwell, who visited here from Abilene last week, says his twin brother, Billy, passed up the Tucson Open golf tournament and will rejoin the pro linksters for the Texas Open at San Antonio.

Billy, who won $4,726 in California during January, had two bad rounds (for him) in the Phoenix Open and picked up.

Billy doesn't allow himself to get stale on the tour. If he thinks his game is going bad, he'll quit for a while and straighten out his game. He's now at home in Dallas.

Bobby, too, intends to compete at San Antonio. He's marking time for his return to New York, where he'll serve as a teaching pro during the spring and summer months.

Bobby, who once shot a 62 here while playing a round with his twin brother and the No. 1 son of the clan, W. O. Jr., works at the Century course in White Plains (just above New York City) from about mid-April until Labor Day. There, he serves as an assistant to Joe Moore, the head pro who hails from San Antonio.

Some of the boxing promoters are still trying to talk the well-known pro footballer, Jimmy Brown, into trying his luck in the ring. They argue he's a boxing natural.

Spec Gammon, the Odessa scribe, says three members of the current Odessa High School basketball team—Dave Harris, Don Brownlee and Stan Winter—were among the 19 senior A students at Odessa to make the "A" honor roll during the first semester of school.

The other two starters, Jackie White and James Birdsong, barely missed the distinction, according to Gammon.

Dave Campbell, the Waco scribe, is sold on the talents of Jan Loudermilk, the Big Spring golfer who is in his freshman year at Southern Methodist University.

Campbell sat in on the recent game between the SMU Colts and Baylor's Cubs (won by SMU), then came away to write:

"Before edging past the Bears in the varsity game, and thereby avenging the 17-point setback in Dallas, SMU had fielded the best-looking freshman team seen here all season."

"The team has at least five fine prospects—6-4 Jan Loudermilk, 6-5 Steve Jordan, 6-1 Jon Larsen, 6-0 Bruce Mills and 6-4 Jim Hammond. Winsie Knickerbocker, a 6-2 Dallas boy, may belong on the list."

"Mills, Larsen and Jordan have great speed and savvy, and a year of gunnery practice under Doc Hayes' direction will turn them into dangerous shooters. But the real eye-catcher is Loudermilk. A 225-pounder who can jump and move, the Big Spring giant is devastating on the boards."

"Adding that cast to the present Mustang valet, which doesn't lose a man of consequence next season, and the stage appears set for another of those Doc Hayes' reigns."

"Arkansas Glen Rose sees it that way. After to crystal ball a few days ago, he put the finger on SMU for 1960, and maybe Baylor."

"The Bears may not be a good bet, Baylor keeps four of its present big five for 1960. Only Capt. Gene McCrory graduates. But, unlike the Ponies, the Bruin freshman table is almost barren. Once again Bill Henderson must turn to the junior colleges."

A couple of nights after Jan scored 13 points against Baylor, he went out and helped himself to 25 as the Colts blasted North Texas first year forces, 101-56. Loudermilk racked up ten baskets and added five free throws in that one.

Warnell Jones, the big (6-foot-9) Negro from South Texas, is now performing for the UCLA basketball team.

John Thomas Predicts He'll Jump 7-1 1/4 On Saturday

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—John Thomas calmly predicted today he will high jump 7 feet, 1 1/4 inches in the National AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships Saturday.

No one in history ever has propelled himself that high—indoors or outdoors. The world outdoor record is 7-1 by the Soviet Union's Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Stepanov.

The amazing 17-year-old Boston University freshman cleared an even 7-foot for the second time in three weeks in the New York Athletic Club Games in Madison Square Garden last Saturday and just did miss at 7-1 1/4.

"But I think I'll do it at the AAU championships," said the 6-4 Thomas. "I was disappointed that I didn't do it in the New York A.C. meet. I don't know what happened to me."

After clearing 7 feet (he's still the only man alive to make the height indoors) Thomas tried for 7-1 1/4. He missed all three tries, but barely touched the crossbar on the second effort.

Cats To Host Auburn Quint

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What happens when college basketball's only major unbeaten team plays a road game against a school that has lost only six of 118 home games in the last 16 years?

The answer comes when Auburn, the invincible, plays Kentucky, the mighty, in the Wildcats' lair at Lexington Saturday night.

With the cooperation of much-whipped Tulane tonight, Auburn will take a 30-game unbeaten string into the showdown of major collisions. Against Adolph Rupp's precision-coached gang, By way of warming up for it, Kentucky has nailed its last 23 home games dating back to a loss in the Kentucky Invitational to West Virginia Dec. 20, 1957.

The long-awaited Auburn-Kentucky showdown tops a week of major collisions. Within a week, there ought to be a pretty good indication of how the ball seems to be bouncing for the two big tournaments—the NCAA and the National Invitation—next month.

Auburn, at home against Tulane tonight and at its peak after thrashing LSU in a school record 115-67 turkey-shoot, figures to carry an 11-0 Southeastern Conference slate against Kentucky. If Kentucky hurdles its Wednesday date with Vanderbilt, the 'Cats will be 9-2. With those two losses, Kentucky may wind up no better than third in the SEC behind Auburn and once-beaten Mississippi State.

But because of Auburn's NCAA probation and the custom that prohibits Mississippi universities from competing against teams with Negroes, Kentucky may still get the nod to represent the conference in the NCAA tournament. Rupp & Co. bagged for the fourth time last year.

A victory over Auburn could make that kind of second-class entry more palatable for Baron Rupp. Conversely, Auburn can just about clinch an all-winning season—as well as national acceptance—by beating the Wildcats. The Tigers wind up their season against Tennessee and Alabama, neither a serious problem.

St. Louis is at Bradley tonight in the second part of their home-and-home duel to decide the challenger to Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference. St. Louis, riding a 16-game winning streak with its 14-record, took the first one last week but still trails Cincinnati by a game.

Kansas State can clinch at least a tie for the Big Eight title and

Girls To Play In Imperial

The Big Spring High School girls' volleyball team goes after its fourth straight victory Tuesday night, at which time it plays Imperial in Imperial.

Teams of the two schools clash at 6:30 p.m. while the varsity teams meet at 7:30 p.m.

The Stretrees compete in the Denver City Tournament, which starts Thursday and continues through Saturday.

The local fests won't be seen at home until the annual Big Spring Tournament, which takes place Feb. 26-27-28.

Big Spring opened by winning the Permian Basin Tournament at Odessa and last Tuesday raced past Andrews.

Bernice Waggoner has succeeded Anna Smith as held volleyball coach. Miss Waggoner formerly coached at Lamesa for two years. She left there in 1956 to go to Harding College at Searcy, Ark., where she became a girls' PE instructor.

A native of Abilene, Bernice attended and graduated from Abilene Christian College in 1949.

Anna Smith resigned her job as volleyball coach at mid-term in order to replace Arah Phillips as girls' coach at Howard County Junior College.

Art Tyler Claims Bobbed Crown

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Art Tyler, 43-year-old Weston, Mass., physicist, has given the United States its first world four-man bobsled title in six years. And with it came the renewed hope that the 1960 Winter Olympics may again include bobsled competition.

Tyler, who didn't take up the sport until he was 35, conquered the tricky and treacherous mile-long chute and the world's best bobsled Sunday as he posted a total time of 5 minutes, 10.82 seconds for four runs.

Tyler's time, including a record run of 1:17.42 in Saturday's second heat, gave the American sled a margin of 35 hundredths of a second over the second place Italian sled, piloted by Sergio Zardini. The Italians were clocked in 5:11.17.

Gene Littler, Tucson Golf Winner, Heads Open Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Gene Littler of San Diego, hottest golfer on the winter trail, leads the star-spangled tour into San Antonio today for the $20,000 Texas Open.

Littler, former champion here and the only double winner on the tour this year—he took down first money at Phoenix and Tucson—heads a field of 160 that will move out Thursday in the opening round of the aged open.

Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., the year's leading money winner, won't play here but Littler, who has pulled to second place in the cash brigade, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who won at Palm

Morrow Insists He Won't Run Indoors Again

DALLAS (AP)—Bobby Morrow, the Olympic sprint champion, has had it so far as indoor running is concerned. But he has mapped quite a busy schedule outdoors this year in aiming at a return to the Olympic Games.

Morrow tried two indoor meets, didn't like them and intimated that if he never saw another one it would be 10 years too soon.

"I said after running in Washington that I didn't like indoor races but I was already committed to the Millrose Games in New York the next weekend I ran there," said Morrow.

"Running on the boards and the quick stops are hard on your legs. There's no 'give' in the boards like there is in a cinder track outdoors. There's no place to warm up. You're always dodging people. There's lots of smoke, too."

He never had seen an indoor meet until he won the 70, 80 and 100-yard events in the Washington Evening Star Games. He was third at 60 yards in Madison Square Garden.

Morrow, still a student at Abilene Christian College although he has finished his college athletic eligibility, is working for Abilene oilman A. C. Scott while he gets his degree.

"I have received invitations throughout the nation," he said. "I plan to run next in the West Texas Relays May 21. Dave Sims is supposed to be there, too."

Morrow also is shooting for the National AAU in June, the meet with Russia at Philadelphia in July and the Pan American Games at Chicago in August. He plans another outdoor campaign next year, hoping to climax it with a trip to Rome to defend his Olympic 100 and 200-meter titles.

Clarendon Skips Past Levelland

LEVELLAND (SC)—Clarendon Junior College won its ninth straight West Zone basketball game here Saturday night, beating South Plains JC of Levelland, 42-36.

The Bulldogs, coached by Buddy Travis, need only one more victory to clinch the conference championship.

Lloyd Stephens led the Clarendon attack with 12 points while Alva Carter collected 10.

Johnny Valentine stepped out to lead South Plains with 16 points. Clarendon led at half time, 26-20 and could manage only two field goals in the final 20 minutes of play.

The Bulldogs made only two more field goals than did South Plains but capitalized on 17 free shot opportunities.

South Plains has yet to win this season.

Kirshner Hits At Fast Clip

FORT WORTH (AP)—H. E. Kirchner, tall as a tree and a self-made man if ever there was one, leads Texas Christian along the championship trail in Southwest Conference basketball because he concentrates on his shooting.

Not that they stop him every time by ganging up. But when they are successful it gives TCU an easier time winning because others like Ronnie Stevenson, Derrill Nippert and Ken Brunson run wild.

Only Arkansas has been able to corner close to halting the tremendous center of the Horned Frogs. The first time, Arkansas held Kirchner to 5 points by using a 1-3-1 zone and sagging. Last Saturday night Arkansas limited him to 12 points in the same way. But TCU won the games.

Veteran Bob Baker Opposes Billy Hunter In Detroit

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Baker, once the No. 1 challenger but now an unranked heavy will test newcomer Billy Hunter of Detroit in the Monday night boxing feature at St. Nicholas Arena in New York.

Baker has fought them all, building up a 51-14-1 record, but he has faltered at the last hurdle time after time. Now he is back among the also-rans.

Hunter scored a flashy knock-out in a Madison Square Garden prelim a few weeks ago. His record is 11-5-1 for 17 fights.

Sonny Liston, a Philadelphia heavyweight who has trouble getting opponents, faces Mike DeJohn another ranked boxer, Wednesday in Miami Beach, Fla.

Liston has a fine 22-1 record, losing only to Marty Marshall in 1954 and reversing that with a knock-out in a rematch.

DeJohn, a big boy from Syracuse, N.Y., owns a 36-5-1 record. He dropped two decisions to Nino Valdes last year and thumped Bob Baker and Willi Besmanoff. He will be remembered best for his one-round knock-out over Argentina's Alex Miteff in 1957.

The heavyweight fight will be seen on ABC television.

Gene Fullmer, world middleweight champion from Jan. 2, 1957 to May 1, 1957, faces a fast-charging young prospect Friday at Madison Square Garden when he takes on Willie Greaves of Edmonton, Alberta and Detroit.

Fullmer has won eight straight since Sugar Ray Robinson knocked him out in their Chicago

TCU FROGS ADVANCING ON SWC CAGE CROWN

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas Christian, on a shooting streak even its coach admits is phenomenal, rolls inexorably toward the Southwest Conference basketball championship.

It could virtually sew up this title this week by winning from the lowliest teams in the league—Rice and Texas—in the event its closest pursuer, Southern Methodist, dropped a game.

This is quite possible because SMU plays tough Texas Tech at Lubbock after first meeting Texas in Dallas.

The Horned Frogs—the team averages 6 feet 5 inches per man—have won five straight games and shot 49.1 from the field. Against Texas A&M last week they averaged 54.8 from outside the Frogs flipped in 23 goals in 31 tries.

Coach Buster Brannon says this is the best shooting he ever has had and wouldn't be surprised if it doesn't surpass anything the conference ever saw.

Last week found TCU whipping the Aggies 80-61 and Arkansas 76-71 to make its conference record 9-1.

Southern Methodist lashed Baylor 54-50 and Rice 60-57 and moved into second place with 6-3-2½ games back of the Flying Frogs. TCU plays Rice at Fort Worth Wednesday night and Texas at Austin Saturday night. Southern Methodist clashes with Texas Tuesday night and Texas Tech Saturday.

Texas A&M just about ruined Texas Tech's chances last week as it beat the Red Raiders 53-52 while Baylor was suffering the same fate when it took that licking from Southern Methodist.

Rice beat Arkansas 68-62 to climb out of a tie for the cellar with Texas Tech took a 76-54 trimming from Texas Tech and was beaten 60-58 by Baylor.

Baylor and Arkansas play at Fayetteville Tuesday while Texas A&M gets Arkansas at College Station Saturday, the same time that Baylor and Rice clash at Waco.

Directors of the Class A League, oldest minor league in the nation, declared a one-year moratorium at a meeting Sunday. The meeting was expected to be in the nature of a wake for the eight-team league.

Thompson, Hollis Run 1-2 In Steer Scoring Derby

Bill Thompson, Big Spring's candidate for all-star basketball honors, led the 1958-59 club in scoring with a total of 572 points.

That averages out to 19.1 points a game for the Steers' 30 games, 19 of which the locals won. Thompson was crowned scoring champion of District 2-AAAA last Friday night, at which time he set a new scoring record with a total of 171 points.

Preston Hollis, like Thompson a senior, was second in the Steer scoring derby with 323 points. Two other members of the team, Benny McCrary and Joe Bob McCrary, each hit 200 or more points during the long campaign.

The team as a whole counted 1,816 points to 1,676 for the opposition. The team averaged 60.5 points a start, compared to 55.9 for the foe.

Individual scoring:
Player Points
Bill Thompson 171
Preston Hollis 138
Benny McCrary 91
Joe Bob McCrary 80
Ray LeFevre 51
Bobby Evans 37
Jerry Brooks 30

Veterans back from last year's team include Betty Ellison, Layla Glaser, Joan Bratcher and Maxine Roberts, all juniors.

Up from junior high are Neta Kay Laws and Pat Fannin. Both showed fine promise last year.

Most of the workouts take place at the City Park.

Tennists Engage In Drills Here

Under the direction of Billie Clyburn, candidates for the Big Spring High School girls' tennis team are conducting workouts when ever the weather permits.

Miss Clyburn plans to line up several dual meets for the local leagues before the District 2-AAAA tournament, which takes place at Odessa April 17-18.

MAZEROSKI COMING GREAT

By DANNY MURTAUGH
Pittsburgh Pirates

WOODLYN, Pa. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates are once again relying on the old baseball axiom, "strengthen through the middle," to put them back in the first division.

Personally, I think we compare very favorably with the other clubs in our league down the middle. That is, catching, pitching, second, short and center field.

Smoky Burgess, Hank Foiles and Danny Kravitz will do the job behind the bat. I'll get the pitching after a bit. It is around second base that I'm most delighted. Our club is very strong there.

In Bill Mazeroski, our second baseman, I feel we have one of the coming greats in baseball. This boy is only 22 years old and has already played three years in the majors. Last season he set a club record of 19 home runs by a second baseman. I've been in baseball 20 years and have never seen a pivot man his equal!

Dick Groat, our shortstop, is one of the most under-rated players in our league. Every good team must have a capable leader and Groat fits that capacity.

We have a very fine defensive center fielder named Billy Virdon.

I think that our true strength will lie in our pitching staff.

In Bob Friend we have one of the top right-handers in the league—a 22-game winner last year.

Western League Is Not Yet Deceased

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—The Western Baseball League isn't dead after all. It's merely in hibernation.

Directors of the Class A League, oldest minor league in the nation, declared a one-year moratorium at a meeting Sunday. The meeting was expected to be in the nature of a wake for the eight-team league.

Lincoln Paintings Show War's Toll

By EDWARD S. KITCH
CHICAGO (AP)—Two portraits of Abraham Lincoln reveal how the Great Emancipator aged between the two inaugurations that spanned the hard years of the Civil War.

It is fitting that during this 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth the beardless and bearded painted-from-life oil portraits owned by the University of Chicago be recalled.

The two life-size portraits of Lincoln were painted by the same artist, George Frederick Wright.

The beardless oil portrait was done in 1860, shortly after Lincoln won nomination at the Republican National Convention in Chicago in May.

In it he is a sober man, clean shaven but determined.

The bearded portrait was done by Wright in 1864, after Lincoln's second nomination. Despite his worries, Lincoln managed a smile.

When the first portrait was done in the autumn of 1860, Lincoln had established his campaign headquarters in a long narrow room in the old State House where he had served in the 1840s.

On the day before the 32-year-old Wright was scheduled to start work on the painting, an artist seven years his senior, Alban Jasper Conant—who was destined to do as many canvases of Lincoln as Stuart did of Washington—also asked for a sitting by Lincoln.

Lincoln read his credentials and said, "No," shaking his head.

"It is impossible for me to give any more sittings," Lincoln said.

Wright offered Conant his time with Lincoln. Moved by such magnanimity, Lincoln relented and agreed to sit for the two at one time. As guest, Conant called the pose.

During the course of the sitting, Lincoln told a story which Conant later recalled.

"A politician went to a livery stable for a horse to drive 16 miles to a convention where he wanted the nomination for county judge. The horse broke down, he arrived late, lost the nomination and came back to the livery stable feeling it was useless to be angry. He said to the liveryman: 'See here, Jones, you are training this horse for the New York market. You expect to sell him for a good price to an undertaker for a hearse horse.' But Jones insisted the horse was one of the best in his stable.

"Now don't deny it," said the politician, "for I know by his gait that you have spent a great deal of time training him to go before a hearse. But he will never do. He is so slow he couldn't get a corpse to the cemetery in time for the resurrection."

Before White did the White House portrait in 1864, his experience had deepened. As summer that year wore on, Lincoln became less popular. In late August he confessed in confidence that "it seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be re-elected."

Lincoln now wore a beard. By the time he posed for the second Wright portrait he had won re-nomination and was in a happier mood, although the trials of the wars showed in the furrows deeply plowed in his face.

This portrait was painted for Gen. Horatio G. Wright, the defender of Washington against Gen. Jubal Early's raid late in the war.

It came to the University of Chicago after it had passed to the possession of Daniel Huntington, friend of Gen. Wright and president of the National Academy. It successively went to Mrs. C. R. Huntington, to Augustus F. DeForest, to William Randolph Hearst who placed it with the Kleaman Galleries, from which the University Libraries secured it.

The 1860 portrait by Wright was selected as the best of several by a jury headed by William Butler, who had invited Lincoln to eat at his table after he moved to Springfield from New Salem in Sangamon County.

Lincoln bought the portrait and gave it to Butler. The canvas remained with the Butler family until its disposal in 1911 to Edward W. Payne, from whose estate the University secured it in 1934.

Hope Relaxes By Shooting Movie Retakes

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is how Bob Hope takes it easy—shooting retakes on a movie!

During his last television show, the hitherto indestructible Hope felt a fainting spell coming on—right in the middle of his monologue. He managed to finish his jokes, rested in his dressing room and completed the taping of the show.

He went to Palm Springs for a rest, but on the golf course discovered that his eyes couldn't follow the ball. He felt dizzy and one eye clouded up. That sent him to the medics—fast.

His trouble was diagnosed as a blood clot in one eye. The doctor said it had been brought on by worry and overwork.

"You'll have to slow down and not try to do so much," Hope was told.

"But I can't, doc!" he protested. "I've been doing this all my life. I love going places and playing audiences everywhere."

"You know that," the medic replied, "but your blood vessels don't."

The prescription: Rest, and plenty of it. Hope at last was a sight to be seen, and I sought him out. But I found him on a stage at Paramount, doing a day's retakes for his own film, "Alias Jesse James."

"The doc doesn't mind, as long as I take it slow," the comedian explained. "And I do it just except things as they come now. No racing around."

While sitting on the set, he made several decisions as producer of the picture, then went to a projection room to view and actor's necktie, which had to be matched in the added scenes. I can report that he walked at a more deliberate pace than usual. And though the usual corps of visitors was permitted on the set, he refrained from meeting them all and doing 20 minutes of jokes.

Narcotics Raids

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal and city narcotics agents held 27 persons in custody today after a series of raids that uncovered what the officers said was the second largest amount of heroin ever seized in the United States—more than 32 pounds of it.

Doris Day's An Oddity—In World Of Ulcers, She's Calm

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In Hollywood, Doris Day is looked upon as an oddity, albeit a very commercial one.

Doris is a nonworrier. She prefers to stay home at night and read. The bar in her Beverly Hills home looks like any other Hollywood bar except that it produces banana split much easier than Scotch and soda.

She can't tell you how many copies her latest record sold or what her latest picture is grossing in key first runs. She takes no pills.

Doris is so relaxed that she fell asleep in the makeup chair at Warner Bros. 10 years ago when she was preparing for her first screen test. At the time her only previous dramatic experience was as a duck in a grade school Mother Goose play.

Now one of Hollywood's top feminine stars, Doris remains basically a simple girl in one of the world's most complex and ulcer-ridden rat races.

"I often wonder," she muses, "what would have happened to me if I hadn't switched on my car radio that night."

She was referring to a night during the war years when she was driving home from a Cincinnati radio station.

Doris had left her hometown and hit the big time as a singer with name bands like Fred Waring, Bob Crosby and Les Brown. On the road she married a trombonist, bore him a son and was divorced in little more than a year.

It was tough to give up the career and go back home.

"But with a baby to feed," she asks "where else can you go?"

Her mother helped take care of the baby and Doris made a living singing on local radio. Coming home from work one night she flipped on her car radio and heard Brown's band broadcasting from a nearby spot.

Doris called Les, merely to renew old acquaintances, but Brown urged her to rejoin the band. His girl singer had quit and he needed a replacement.

Mama was only too happy to take full-time charge of her grandson and Doris hit the road once more with Brown. Fame came with her singing and the band playing "Sentimental Journey," one of the top record sellers of World War II.

Eventually she came to Hollywood, again married to a musician. The two lived in a trailer in West Los Angeles for a while but eventually were divorced.

Someone took her and several other musicians in for an active interview with Marty Melcher, then an agent.

Melcher, who is now married to Doris, recalls his first impression: "I took one look and whispered to the guy that brought her in: 'Let's get rid of the dame first.'"

This time Doris took off for New York to sing in a cafe but Melcher remembered her, mostly because she didn't seem to give a darn in her interview.

It was Melcher who took her to director Mike Curtiz for a screen test.

If Melcher had taken her to most any other director but Curtiz, it's doubtful that she would have been signed.

Doris is the all-American girl. Curtiz is a Hungarian-born director who specializes in films with an Americana appeal. "Yankee Doodle Dandy" was one of his big successes.

Doris didn't know the first thing about acting. Curtiz is one of the few directors who believes that acting ability can be a handicap to a potential movie star.

After nine musicals, Doris woke up to find herself one of two actresses on the list of the screen's top ten boxoffice attractions. Betty Grable was the other.

It was here that Melcher decided the girl next door had to move to a sexier neighborhood. Soon she was singer Ruth Etting making prohibition era love to Jimmy (The Gimp) Cagney, the wife of Jimmy Stewart in a Hitchcock thriller; the screen love of Frank Sinatra and Clark Gable.

Then came the bedroom farce, "Tunnel of Love," with Richard Widmark. Upcoming are bit pictures with Cary Grant and Rock Hudson.

Yet she still possesses a wide-eyed innocence.

CRITIQUE

Auditorium Nearly Filled At Pleasing NTSC Program

Members of the NTSC Choir aren't a bit bashful, as are so many non-professional singers; Sunday afternoon, they filled the HCJC auditorium with a lusty and highly pleasing sound until this critic's ears rang.

Their voices were soft when they were supposed to be soft, but when the score called for deep breathing there was none of this timidity that causes 50 voices to sound like 12.

The North Texas group was of professional calibre, with unison and balance, and restrained in the solo passages so that the soloists were not drowned out. The 39-member choral group sang to a near-capacity audience under sponsorship of the HCJC music department. They were as well received as almost any professional troupe that has played in Big Spring.

The chorus was divided into two groups for the first two numbers, "The Spirit Also Helpeth Us," by Bach, and "Sing We Merrily Unto God Our Strength," by Shaw. This helped provide additional counter melody. On the latter number, half a dozen singers left the risers and stood unseen behind the chorus, for a pleasing quartet-like vein against the major theme.

"Hymn to St. Cecilia" by Britten was an example of a modern choral work. The choir did well on this piece, but its configurations could not compare with the more classical forms; this writer still prefers the more traditional in religious works. This composition, however, did depart slightly from the modern toward the last, ending with a Russian-type melancholy more in line with the theme.

"Bruyeres" by Debussy, and "Le Polichinelle" by Villa-Lobos, were piano renditions by Mildred Armstrong during the intermission. Her artistry was more than enough to keep the audience pacified while the choir changed costumes.

Maniles were traded for formal evening clothes for the next number, and it made a striking picture—although some of the viewers could tell what it was before the curtain went up, and it spoiled the surprise. The auditorium needs about an inch and a half more curtain, unless there are plans afoot to stage foot shows.

The number was "Ballad for Americans," by Robinson, and it was the second best on the program. It was partly talk, partly song, all in the vernacular, and the music and patter was very catchy in some parts. A story of the U.S., the composition made a telling point about democracy; namely, that "nobody who's anybody believes it." It's believed only by the nobodys who are everybody.

Excerpts from "My Fair Lady" brought down the house. The choir was arranged haphazardly about the stage as though it were a party, and the tunes were even more catchy than in the preceding number. Soloists were Bernard Erhard, Dick Bryan, Frances Powell and Claudine Curb.

The closing number was a spiritual, "Religion Is a Fortune," by Johnson. It was a good choral piece well handled, although there is nothing to compare with the Negro method of singing their own music.

The soloists were all talented enough that it would be unfair to try to compare them on such short notice. And that is the main criticism that could be made about the program; it just wasn't long enough.

There was no admission, a free-will offering being taken. It proved to be just enough to cover the troupe's expenses. Food and shelter were taken care of by volunteers from the local citizenry, who took members of the choir in for the night, with dinner and breakfast thrown in.

The choir left at 8:30 this morning for Carlsbad as the next stop on their annual tour.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

WASHINGTON (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.* At your drugist. Money back guarantee.

Fire Victim Removed

Police and firemen lower the body of a victim of an apartment house fire in Ashland, Ky., which claimed the lives of 11 persons. The blaze cut off the only exit in the old building trapping the victims in the upper floors.

Villagers Await Lethal Avalanche

HERBRIGGEN, Switzerland (AP)—“All we can do is pray.” Thus spoke an aged pensioner who refuses to leave this Swiss hamlet doomed to extinction as soon as a spring thaw sends a million tons of rock, earth and ice hurtling down from a mountain peak 3,000 feet above.

“We have faith, we trust in God,” murmured Josef Burgner as he gazed up at Nadelhorn Mountain where the frozen mass will become a thundering avalanche when it reaches the edge of the precipice.

The great mass began creeping down the Nadelhorn slope toward the precipice eight days ago. Friday a new cold spell set in, solidified the thawing snow and ice, and the movement stopped.

Winter frosts immobilized the great slide over the weekend. But Herbruggen's end is certain when a prolonged thaw comes.

Resigned to losing their homes, most of the villagers abandoned Herbruggen eight days ago. But a small rear guard like the Burgners doggedly stayed on regardless of the creeping danger.

A death watch is being kept over the village by a network of watchers high on neighboring mountain slopes. They will sound an alarm if they see the avalanche begin—in hours, days or weeks. Some of the posts are equipped with walkie-talkies, one has a portable siren.

Burgner was matter of fact about the slide.

“If the rocks break up during their fall, they may fly about in every direction,” he said. “The slide would not go down the corridor in the precipice as everybody seems to believe. It would spread instead and cover a huge part of the valley.”

There are young and old among those who have stayed behind. They go about their business as though nothing happened. They feed the few cats and chickens left behind. From time to time they leave their houses, walking through empty streets, looking up at the mountain.

They read about their danger once a day. The narrow-gauge rail line up to Zermatt brings them the German-language newspaper read in the Mattertal Valley.

Occasionally a huge cloud descends over the bare and deserted hamlet. The wind and distant noises from the mountains cease. There is sudden stillness on the village streets.

“We live in fear and we don't sleep any more,” murmured Burgner's wife. She dangled a neighbor's child on her knee while his mother sought food in the remaining grocery store.

“If we should hear the slide coming,” said Burgner, “we would go down to the cellar—if we have time. It would be useless to run outside anyway.”

When the slide does come, it will be the second time the Burgners have lost their home. Residents of southern France for many years, they returned to his native Herbruggen when France fell during World War II. Penniless in 1942, he and his wife worked hard, bought their own home and raised their three children. All are grown and away from home now.

Lyndon Sees No 'Lines' In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) says “There is no line dividing this nation, one side the spendthrifts, the other side the savers.”

“There's no monopoly on patriotism in this country. We're all good Americans. We all want to accumulate a little. There is no monopoly on thrift,” the Senate Majority Leader said yesterday in a transcribed radio address over Texas stations.

The Texan said, “The President this year is asking for 825 million dollars more than the Congress appropriated last year for one program alone, the foreign aid program.”

He continued: “In some cases, no doubt, the Senate will reduce the administration's requests. In other cases, it will add expenditures as it did the other day with respect to 35 million dollars to lend veterans to build houses.

He also said that Congress during the last five years has cut President Eisenhower's budget more than 10 billion dollars.

Rayburn, Lyndon Laud Heritage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) joined yesterday in paying tribute to Mexico, France and Spain for contributions to the culture of Texas and Texans.

They spoke at a Texas State Society Heritage Day luncheon attended by the Ambassadors of Spain, France and Mexico, which once ruled the area now Texas.

Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex) of Fort Worth was elected president of the society, succeeding Mrs. Gladys Young of Corsicana. Mrs. C. P. Cabell was elected first vice president, and Tom Bartle, formerly of Houston, second vice president. Frank Jones, formerly of Lubbock, was elected historian.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate-Economic Committee plans to start an extensive study of the nation's economic problems.

British Celebrate Texas Friendship

LONDON (AP)—Sir Alfred Bosom stood in the House of Commons dining room last night waving a Texas cattleman's hat and praising the Lone Star State.

Above the veteran Member of Parliament hung two flags—the the Union Jack and the flag of Texas.

“My lords, ladies and gentlemen,” he shouted the red-coated master of ceremonies, “please charge your glasses. The toast is—to the Governor of Texas.”

Big Ben, the giant clock, chimed the hour outside. Men in dinner jackets and ladies in ball gowns rose to their feet, chorused the toast to the Texas governor and then downed their wine.

It was the annual dinner of the Anglo-Texas Society, an organization of Englishmen who love the Lone Star State. Bosom is president of the society and an honorary citizen of Texas.

The first speaker was Col. Gordon Simpson of Dallas.

“We all favor understanding between nations,” he said, “and I'm glad that everyone here understands that Texas is the greatest state in the Union.”

“Hear, hear,” shouted his Englishmen audience.

Simpson said Dallas now has a chapter of the Anglo-Texas Society and he hopes more units will spring up in his home state.

The next speaker was a Londoner, Dennis King-Farlow.

“It is fitting that we dine tonight in the Mother of Parliaments,” he said, “to honor the State of Texas, of all the countries in the world, Texas has the most.”

“Hear, hear.”

Other speakers—all of whom praised Texas—included the Earl of Bathurst, Lady Margaret D'Arcy and Michael Bryceson, chairman of the Anglo-Texas Society.

The dinner broke up as Big Ben chimed 12.

“We must continue,” said Sir Alfred, “everyone to my house.”

And continue they did, until early this morning, at Bosom's magnificent home next door to the London residence of Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Red Legate Will Probe Church Ban

DALLAS (AP)—Poland's ambassador to the United States has promised to investigate harassment of a Warsaw congregation sponsored by the Urbardale Church of Christ, the church's minister said today.

Minister Raymond J. Smith Jr. returned to Dallas after conferring in Washington with Polish Ambassador Romuald Spasowski and other embassy officers.

Vegetables Move

McALLEN (AP)—Shipments of vegetables from the Lower Rio Grande Valley hit a brisk pace last week. Harvesting started in many fields where fall rains and floods delayed planting for about six weeks.

100 JOHNSON AM 4-8722 Big Spring

A Devotional For Today

Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? (Romans 8:35.)

PRAYER: O Father, we rejoice that Thy love surrounds us, that we have our being in the midst of it. We are thankful not only that Thy love surrounds us, but that we can be rooted and grounded in it now and forever, through Christ. In His name we pray. Amen.

Does The Underworld Have Us?

Is there an invisible underworld government of thugs and criminals in this country which operates virtually unimpeded by the courts, with tentacles reaching into almost every nook and cranny of the land? Well, the Senate investigating committee under Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) thinks so, and it has already produced some persuasive evidence in support of that theory.

The current target is what is called the "jukebox racket," from which the lords of the underworld are pictured as levying a tariff of hundreds of millions from the nickels and dimes shovled into the machines in many large and small cities. It would be a misnomer to call that form of thieving "petty graft."

The committee is meeting with the usual Fifth Amendment formula in trying to get evidence from underworld figures.

But a New York City police criminal investigator told how a hoodlum with 13 convictions against his name was "tried" and convicted by his superiors for "certain activities in the jukebox industry"—meaning, we suppose, that he disobeyed orders.

This fellow, the detective testified, was "tried" at the infamous convention of top-level crooks held in Apalachin, New York, in November of 1957. The verdict was death, but the sentence was commuted to a $10,000 fine.

Just like that. The 58 gang chiefs were raided and rounded up in the midst of their "convention," but all were released after questioning. They had come from all parts of the country, with the apparent purpose of settling disputes, parceling out territory, and cutting up the swag—just like a policy session of respectable organizations.

There have been hints of Mafia influence in this and other rackets, the Mafia being the dread organization once popularly called the Black Hand.

Criminal organizations that prey on the public, which often does not suspect their existence, can operate only in an atmosphere of public indifference, corrupt police and courts, and complaint or profligate politicians.

Stamping them out is as tough a job as getting rid of any other pervasive plague. But their existence and their continued operation is a mockery of our boasted civilization, and a cancer on our body politic.

Don't Get Started On This

A bill has been introduced, and apparently met favor with a subcommittee of the House Highway Committee, to provide an extra cost to the recipient special automobile license plates for the 22,292 National Guardsmen of Texas. The special design on these plates would feature jet planes and minute men.

Our admiration and respect for Texas National Guardsmen, who wrote in their own blood brilliant records in two world wars, is unbounded.

But we oppose the creation of special license plates for them or anyone else. Once the ice is broken there would be no end to special plates. From a purely patriotic purpose it would degenerate into commercial advertising specialties for various public enterprises, and the first thing we knew there'd hardly be a license plate in Texas that didn't cater to this or that group, movement, promotion or what-not.

Leave our license plates alone, to fulfill their sole purpose of identifying the owner and operator of the vehicle.

If the Legislature cares to pay for the issuance of special small tags to be attached to the regular license plates for distribution to Nation Guardsmen, well and good.

But let's hear no more about this nonsense of creating special license plates for them, deserving though they may be. It would be a bad precedent to set, and we'd never hear the last of it.

David Lawrence Politics In Ambassador Appointments

WASHINGTON—The age-old controversy over the kind of individuals who should be appointed as ambassadors abroad—those with political influence or more

Strange vapors of piety are issuing from the holy precincts of the Democratic Party in Capitol Hill, especially from the supposedly unpolitical and unpartisan membership of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Theoretically, anyone who has a hand in influencing our foreign relations should be nonpolitical. But, to help accomplish such a Utopian state, it would be necessary to ordain that members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should themselves take some kind of Socratic oath to bar politics from their comments on world policy, particularly in moments of international tension like the present.

Those who have attended the secret conferences between the President and some of the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say they have heard no more captious or vitriolic criticisms of the government's policies than are voiced by Democrats in those meetings. If the advice of some of them were followed, America would gradually appease the Communists by a series of "disengagement" moves that spell "peace at any price." But it is not harmful for such opinions to be expressed in private, obviously partisan as they are.

What is more damaging is when public speeches give aid and comfort to the Communists and encourage them to believe they can drive a wedge between the American government and the people.

Unity and patriotism seem to be obsolete words among the politicians today. Politics, as has often been said, should end at the water's edge, but this is not an era when much attention is being paid to that estimable maxim.

As for political ambassadors, the Democrats had better be careful what they do lest they discourage the flow of campaign contributions in 1960. Many a successful businessman who is close to the age of retirement likes to think of an appointment to an embassy abroad where he and his wife can see something of the diplomatic whirl. The record will show that tens of thousands of dollars were contributed in past campaigns by Democrats who became ambassadors later on. Many of them were really successful at their jobs and some stayed on as "career" men.

As a matter of fact, a man of wide business experience, accustomed to dealing with people in large transactions, has a more acute knowledge of human nature and a diplomat trained for foreign service work as a lifetime occupation. It is true that some of the politically appointed ambassadors are duds, but the percentage is small. It might be added that some of the "career" men are not always as effective as they should be, despite their years of training.

In the early days of the republic, men like Benjamin Franklin or John Jay, who later became chief justice, were not the usual type found in the diplomatic service, but they did creditable work for the United States in their posts abroad.

There are many able men who have come up from the ranks as "career" men in the diplomatic service. Some of them have reached top posts and have distinguished themselves in tough situations, any of them are unsung heroes whose accomplishments are rarely the subject of publicity.

But it is also true that some of the ambassadors appointed from the business or academic world have throughout American history rendered valuable service and won the admiration of foreign governments.

The Weak Spot

J. A. Livingston Dulles Years An Era Of Standoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles' six years as secretary of state have been more than unique. They provided the heart and guidelines of an era which, whether or not he returns to full-time duty, may have to change.

President Truman trusted Secretary of State Dean Acheson. But President Eisenhower's confidence in Dulles has been so extraordinary that it seems accurate to say the secretary almost completely dominated foreign policy.

The Dulles years have been an era of standoff by the West and communism in which they gathered strength for any future tests. The first great test of this period is approaching in Germany.

Three times at least before Dulles became secretary—during the Truman-Acheson administration—world communism tried its muscles in a major way to see how much will the West had to resist.

Three times it failed because it was resisted—in the Berlin blockade, in the Korean War, in the pressure on Greece and Turkey in the late 1940s.

These pushes were stopped by the Truman-Acheson policy—called containment—of building military bases and alliances around the Communist world and by its willingness to fight, as it showed in Korea.

The Communist world—especially the Soviet part of it—realized it had some growing to do. It subsided, at least temporarily, behind its frontiers and avoided major crises.

There was never any doubt it would push hard again, when it thought it could.

The Truman-Acheson policy has been Dulles' basic policy. He adopted it, made it his own, and expanded it with new alliances.

He brought to it enormous energy and dedication, as his 560,000 miles of travel around the earth testify. These were essentially journeys to keep the fences mended. There was something almost heroic in this man's determination to do everything himself.

Because Dulles has pursued this containment policy relentlessly, he has been accused of being too rigid, too unbending, or, to use a phrase recently become popular, too inflexible.

True, he made few if any concessions to the Communists. But they made few, if any either.

Just because Dulles devoted himself so thoroughly to the standoff policy it is hard to recall anything which history could point to as original in his six years.

That does not mean history will find fault with his six years of stewardship as a whole, although it may quarrel with pieces of it. Perhaps in this era the Dulles policy was the only sensible one.

One thing is sure: in those six years, except for the conquest of half of Viet Nam and perhaps scattered islands near China, world communism has not obtained an extra inch of real estate.

But now the Soviets, after hibernating for years, are fully conscious of their power, as they demonstrated with the missile claims. As if to mark the end of a period, they are pushing again.

They have made demands—in calling for a Western withdrawal from West Berlin—which involve not only this country's containment policy but its relations with its allies in Europe, and the future of Germany.

And if the Soviets feel powerful enough now to push in Germany, they may also feel ready to push elsewhere.

Because of the crisis over Germany, American foreign policy will undergo one of its severest tests. Containment may no longer work. New policies may be needed. It seems unlikely Dulles will be well enough to make them, if they are made.

It is ironic that at this moment—when Dulles is stricken with cancer—Soviet pressure may show that his policy has reached the end of its usefulness.

Return Trip

YUMA, Ariz. — Border patrolmen seized Mexican Rodriguez Hernandez, 28, a Mexican national, shortly after he climbed over the international fence south of Yuma.

Hernandez said it was his 26th illegal entry into this country. He said he had been deported five times through court action and had departed voluntarily 20 times.

Going By The Book

TULSA, Okla. — Thomas Evans was explaining voting machines to potential customers when the questioning became a little too involved. Admitted the salesman: "I've never voted on a machine. The places I've lived haven't had them."

Around The Rim Now We Come To The Family Health Room

According to the trade journals, the swimming pool will be moving indoors and taking the place of the bath tub.

It'll be a sunken pool located in what was once called the bath room and will henceforth be referred to as "the health room."

The pool will permit the entire family to bathe together, if they like. A sliding top can conceal the pool and a touch of the button can provide floor space for entertaining.

Time was when the bath room was the smallest room in the house. Now, apparently, it's to be the biggest. How times have changed. It wasn't too many years ago that the family's bath tub was kept on a nail inside the barn and served a valuable purpose when it came time to do the family wash.

We've got to accept progress, however, and keep moving ahead. If the people who profess to know say the trend is toward indoor pools, who am I to doubt them?

There are other features in the future "health room" which could cause it to be the most popular room in the house. Things like "variable control health vibrators," what every they are, "power-operated towel cabinets, refrigerated health drink dispensers, three dimensional television, electronic memory scale and low frequency vibrating chair."

The health room will also have, the experts insist, an electronic home laundry which "at the mere insertion of any article will wash, dry, press and sanitize it and then ring a harmonic chime ten to 15 minutes when the cycle is completed."

You'll be able to walk through a power shower that automatically wets, soaps, cleanses, dries and scents you. The automatic car washes have been making use of the same idea for years, with great success.

Maybe, in time, they'll make a combination health room and garage, which would permit you to shower and wash down your family vehicle at the same time.

Plans for the health room have already been drawn by engineers. Such an arrangement would command three times as much space as the modern living room. If you cotton to the idea of such a facility, you'd best start trying to buy your neighbor's lot. Chances are your present real estate doesn't give you much room in which to expand.

Inez Robb Wisdom And Wit Of A Graceful Oldster

This probably will be a crazy quilt of a column about Edith Hamilton, a Texas beau geste, longevity and insurance. But here goes.

Who, but a Texan, remembering the Robbs' passion for Edith Hamilton and all her works, would have phoned all the way from Corpus Christi, to remind us that in 15 minutes we could see and hear on tee-vee this great classical scholar discussing Greek civilization?

There is friendship, beautiful friendship, the Texas way! So, thanks to Vann Kennedy, who used to be a newspaperman and war correspondent himself but is now a radio-and-teevee mogul in Corpus Christi, the Robbs were glued to the screen for Miss Hamilton's vigorous and inspiring performance on a program justly called "Wisdom."

How wonderful it was to hear this marvelous woman, now in her ninety-second year, speak of the uniqueness and sanctity of the individual, with the grace and clarity, the wisdom and wit that illuminate her great books on Greek and Roman civilizations and on the Christian ethic.

(Americans who are not acquainted with five of her books, "The Greek Way," "The Echo of Greece," "The Roman Way," "Witness to the Truth" and "Spoken for God," should RUN, not walk, to the nearest book store.)

Miss Hamilton's spirited teevee espousal of the uniqueness of each individual vs. the mass in a seemingly mass-oriented world was, if I may borrow some words from the younger generation, great, just great!

In another context, she had a cutting comment to make on the welfare state. Greek civilization did not decline and fall, she pointed out. Greeks felt it was their privilege to support the state, and not the duty of the state to support them.

"In every civilization life grows easier with time," Miss Hamilton said for those who have ears to heed, "and men in consequence grow lazier."

For years, this household has worshipped Miss Hamilton from afar. And we, who so often curse the cheapness of teevee, were grateful to that medium—and to Texas—to hear her speak from the pinnacle of her wisdom and her great age.

It was 48 hours later that I met a man who said, in passing, that longevity depends on many factors but that two can't be overlooked—ancestry and an active interest in life. On the teevee screen, it was plain as a pikestaff that Miss Hamilton had retained and enjoys the mental vigor and the active interest in the world that must have distinguished her 70 years ago.

The man, Walter M. Foody Jr., vice president of the Continental Casualty Company, was saying that in an aging nation the senior citizens who thrive best and enjoy life the most are those who maintain a spirited concern in world affairs.

Mr. Foody himself was surprised and I was astounded to learn that his company has recently sold these new-fangled hospitalization-surgical insurance policies (designed for persons 65 and over) to 48 centenarians, equally divided between men and women. And the oldest person to whom his company has sold such a policy is an Iowa gentleman of 102!

So far, almost 700 persons who are 90 or over have bought such insurance. Most of 'em can't wait to grab the newspaper off the front step every morning. Me? I am going to redouble my vitamin intake and roll out for Sunrise Semester while awaiting Miss Hamilton's next book. (Copyright 1958, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

The Gallup Poll Public 'Image' Of Labor Leaders

PRINCETON, N. J. — The parade of witnesses that has appeared in front of Sen. McClellan's rackets committee has focused attention on the public's attitudes toward all labor union leaders.

In recent years, psychologists and sociologists have talked a lot about the "images" people have, for example, of political parties, of different countries of the world or of different business firms.

To find out what images are held by the typical American of labor union leaders, and, incidentally, to turn the tables around and learn what images are held of big business leaders, the Gallup Poll has explored the public's views as part of a series of articles dealing with attitudes toward labor unions today.

Here is a quick word-picture Americans have in their minds of labor union leaders, as well as of leaders of big business:

The typical union leader has the courage of his convictions and gets things done for members, but he's likely to be dishonest, arrogant, domineering and out for personal gain.

The typical big business leader is an intelligent, honest, well-educated person, but he's likely to be bossy, inconsiderate and hungry for money.

It is only fair to say that the various images people have in their minds have been acquired from many sources—movies and stage plays, television news-papers, books and travel—and they hold these images whether they are true or not.

On the other hand, a labor leader is pictured as a smart but tough man who has worked his way up and knows what he is doing in upholding the interests of union members. Many people in the survey mentioned John L. Lewis as an example.

A typical comment of a flattering nature: "A typical labor leader is a smart, rugged guy who looks out for his workers."

On the other hand, many view a labor leader as a "dark-looking" sort of person who is domineering, arrogant, radical, dishonest and out for personal gain.

Here are some of the typical unflattering comments about labor leaders that came up most frequently in the hundreds of answers: "Dishonest," "a racketeer," "domineering and overbearing," "a robber," "strictly no good, thinks only of himself," "the strong, aggressive type," "aggressive, partial and full of greed," "a big, rough burly man," "a crook," "a radical in most ways," "wants too much power," "not open to reason."

Against the image held of a big business leader as an intelligent, honest, well-educated and influential leader of the business world is the image of a big man with a cigar in his mouth who likes to act important.

One typical comment of a flattering nature:

"The typical big business leader is well-educated, aggressive and forceful." Here are some typical comments of an unflattering nature about leaders of big business:

"Out for all the money he can make," "not considerate," "a neurotic person," "likely to be selfish and think of himself rather than the little man," "bossy," "got there by pull and doesn't know the problems of labor," "greedy," "one who works for profit and nothing else," "sometimes overbearing," "hungry for money."

Common Logic

BALTIMORE — A woman selling reference books for children was demonstrating how her product makes a boy think for himself.

She showed 4-year-old Frederick Spinning a picture of three small birds, one with an open beak, and one larger bird, "Which bird gets the worm, Freddie?" she asked.

"The bird on the end of the row," Freddie replied. "He's the biggest." She made a sale.

First-Hand Look

LOCKPORT, N. Y. — Niagara County needs a skeleton in its closet to help jurors understand complicated civil cases involving human anatomy, the Lockport Bar Assn. says.

The association hopes to present a skeleton to the county soon, probably a synthetic one.

Flying Paper Carrier

CHEYENNE, Okla. — Lee Roark has a newspaper route that covers a 2,000 square miles of Oklahoma and Texas. For seven years he has been delivering The Sunday Oklahoman to 365 ranch and farm families by airplane.

2-Armed Bandit

BALTIMORE — Mrs. Harriett Hewitt was a winner and loser simultaneously.

As she bent over to scoop up some nickels she had just won from a slot machine, someone stole her purse from atop the machine.

There was $100 in her handbag. She didn't say how much her purse was.

Don't Get Started On This

A bill has been introduced, and apparently met favor with a subcommittee of the House Highway Committee, to provide an extra cost to the recipient special automobile license plates for the 22,292 National Guardsmen of Texas. The special design on these plates would feature jet planes and minute men.

Our admiration and respect for Texas National Guardsmen, who wrote in their own blood brilliant records in two world wars, is unbounded.

But we oppose the creation of special license plates for them or anyone else. Once the ice is broken there would be no end to special plates. From a purely patriotic purpose it would degenerate into commercial advertising specialties for various public enterprises, and the first thing we knew there'd hardly be a license plate in Texas that didn't cater to this or that group, movement, promotion or what-not.

Leave our license plates alone, to fulfill their sole purpose of identifying the owner and operator of the vehicle.

If the Legislature cares to pay for the issuance of special small tags to be attached to the regular license plates for distribution to Nation Guardsmen, well and good.

But let's hear no more about this nonsense of creating special license plates for them, deserving though they may be. It would be a bad precedent to set, and we'd never hear the last of it.

David Lawrence Politics In Ambassador Appointments

WASHINGTON—The age-old controversy over the kind of individuals who should be appointed as ambassadors abroad—those with political influence or more

Strange vapors of piety are issuing from the holy precincts of the Democratic Party in Capitol Hill, especially from the supposedly unpolitical and unpartisan membership of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Theoretically, anyone who has a hand in influencing our foreign relations should be nonpolitical. But, to help accomplish such a Utopian state, it would be necessary to ordain that members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should themselves take some kind of Socratic oath to bar politics from their comments on world policy, particularly in moments of international tension like the present.

Those who have attended the secret conferences between the President and some of the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say they have heard no more captious or vitriolic criticisms of the government's policies than are voiced by Democrats in those meetings. If the advice of some of them were followed, America would gradually appease the Communists by a series of "disengagement" moves that spell "peace at any price." But it is not harmful for such opinions to be expressed in private, obviously partisan as they are.

What is more damaging is when public speeches give aid and comfort to the Communists and encourage them to believe they can drive a wedge between the American government and the people.

Unity and patriotism seem to be obsolete words among the politicians today. Politics, as has often been said, should end at the water's edge, but this is not an era when much attention is being paid to that estimable maxim.

As for political ambassadors, the Democrats had better be careful what they do lest they discourage the flow of campaign contributions in 1960. Many a successful businessman who is close to the age of retirement likes to think of an appointment to an embassy abroad where he and his wife can see something of the diplomatic whirl. The record will show that tens of thousands of dollars were contributed in past campaigns by Democrats who became ambassadors later on. Many of them were really successful at their jobs and some stayed on as "career" men.

As a matter of fact, a man of wide business experience, accustomed to dealing with people in large transactions, has a more acute knowledge of human nature and a diplomat trained for foreign service work as a lifetime occupation. It is true that some of the politically appointed ambassadors are duds, but the percentage is small. It might be added that some of the "career" men are not always as effective as they should be, despite their years of training.

In the early days of the republic, men like Benjamin Franklin or John Jay, who later became chief justice, were not the usual type found in the diplomatic service, but they did creditable work for the United States in their posts abroad.

There are many able men who have come up from the ranks as "career" men in the diplomatic service. Some of them have reached top posts and have distinguished themselves in tough situations, any of them are unsung heroes whose accomplishments are rarely the subject of publicity.

But it is also true that some of the ambassadors appointed from the business or academic world have throughout American history rendered valuable service and won the admiration of foreign governments.

The so-called "politically appointed" ambassador always has at his side a number of trained diplomats in his embassy and no ambassador worth his salt would take important steps without consulting his counselor and other high officers of the mission. The so-called "risks" in political ambassadorships have often been exaggerated.

Theoretically, politics shouldn't have anything to do with the operation of government. But if that precept be taken literally, the first people who ought to practice self-denial are the members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The millennium might be reached also if the chairmen of the Republican and Democratic national committees were to proclaim solemnly some day that to the victor the spoils do not belong and that only "career" men in the diplomatic service can do no wrong.

What'll It Be... CHICKEN Or CHILI
The Herald Newsboys—(And Their Fathers!) Will Know By March 2
Yes, the annual "CHICKEN OR CHILI" contest between Herald Newsboys is here again! And this year it will be even bigger as it will be a Father and Son contest. The boys — more than 50 of them — are now competing in a two-week friendly game of business and they'll get together for one big party. At that party, the winning team will sit down to a plate heaped with golden brown fried chicken and all the trimmings, while the losers must be satisfied with a bowl of chili and crackers. But it'll be fun, for the boys and their dads and the contest will be a worthwhile enterprise for every one of them!

Consultant
E. R. (Hico) Eudaly, above, is to be one of the consultants for the Agri-Business program here next week. He will speak on "Storage Problems of Grain Sorghum and Forage Crops." The second annual Agri-Business Day observance is planned here Feb. 24 and in Colorado City Feb. 25. Eudaly is livestock consultant for Universal Mills, Fort Worth.
