Too Dry To Plow

Lanny Parker of San Angelo took a turn at plowing a field on the Andrews highway Wednesday afternoon but all he got out of it was a fractured collar bone and a badly damaged Renault. Parker was carried to Big Spring Hospital by a River ambulance, but has been released. Parker's car evidently went out of control while he was coming toward Big Spring. We went to the right side of the highway twice, but the second time it didn't straighten up when coming back on the pavement and bounded into the field on the left side of the road, ending about 30 feet from the shoulder.

Rhodesian Minister Declares Emergency As Race War Grows

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—The government of this British territory outlawed the African National Congress today and launched a wholesale roundup of its leaders. Up to 500 Negroes were reported under arrest. The Prime Minister, Sir Edgar Whitehead, declared a state of emergency to prevent the spread of nationalist unrest to Southern Rhodesia where a white minority runs a prosperous economy. The unrest is backed by the congress in neighboring Nyasaland. Nyasaland is a protectorate united with Northern and Southern Rhodesia in the Central African Federation of the British Commonwealth. Whitehead announced in mid-morning that raiding squads had rounded up between 250 and 500 persons who had been causing trouble by trying to undermine the loyalty of African employees of the government. He expected the arrests to be completed by tonight. The Prime minister said the efforts of the group to alienate the African employees had been vain. Among the captives was James Chikema, acting president of the congress in Southern Rhodesia, and George Nyandoro, the general secretary. There was no immediate word whether similar action would be taken in Nyasaland, where three natives have been killed and more than 50 injured in riots. Nyasaland's capital, Blantyre, is the headquarters of the party chief, Dr. Hastings Banda. A 54-year-old London-educated physician, he returned home a year ago after 40 years of self-imposed exile. Regulations published in the Southern Rhodesian government gazette empowered the government to prohibit gatherings of more than three people, to control publications of information about activities of security forces. Whitehead said a grave situation similar to that in Nyasaland might be created in Southern Rhodesia unless immediate steps were taken. So far, the only threatening unrest was reported at Kariba, where 4,000 striking Africans have brought work to a halt on the huge Zambezi River hydroelectric project. The row apparently started over wages, but British officials say "there is something definitely political about it now." There were reports that members of Banda's organization had slipped into the area to direct strikers from a secret hideout. Banda, who describes himself as "the extremist of the extremists," wants to take Nyasaland—a British protectorate—out of the British-ruled federation of Rhodesia-Nyasaland in Southeast Africa. The British are strongest in Southern and Northern Rhodesia, which have 250,000 white settlers and 4 1/2 million Negroes. Nyasaland has only 7,000 Europeans to 3 1/2 million Africans. With vivid memories of Kenya's bloody Mau Mau outbreak, worried British administrators and isolated settlers were again checking their defenses. Sir Roy Welensky, white prime minister of the Central African Federation and a former boxer, has called to arms virtually all young white men in Southern Rhodesia to augment British-led native troops. More than 300 seasoned African troops have been flown from Salisbury, capital of the federation, to Nyasaland's capital of Blantyre. Other troops were rushed to Kariba. African nationalists are reported to have captured a customs post on the Tanganyika border, severing the only road link between Nyasaland and Dar es Salaam, major sea port on the Indian Ocean. Britain's minister of state for colonial affairs, the Earl of Perth, was flying to Salisbury today. His mission officially was to discuss the political future of the federation. The situation in Rhodesia-Nyasaland was part of a wave of nationalist challenges to white authority. Demonstrations, some marked by violence, spread over thousands of miles—their only apparent link a restless urge for immediate independence. There was trouble or unrest in the Belgian Congo, Italian-administered Somalia and the Union of South Africa. The British Labor Party organ, the London Daily Herald, warned this morning in a big headline: "Whole of Africa is smouldering." Many trace the upsurge of discontent to the All-African Peoples conference in independent Ghana last year, at which hundreds of delegates mapped a campaign to rid the continent of colonial rule. The Accra conference urged peaceful conversion, but Banda and other extremist African leaders are openly calling for force as the only way to speed the expulsion of the white rulers. In the Union of South Africa, long a hotbed of antiwhite nationalism, club-swinging police fought Wednesday with striking dock workers in Durban. Police arrested 30 and were met with a hail of stones. The walkout of 1,500 dockers demanding more money has paralyzed the port of Durban, stranding 25 ships.

County Proposes Medical Aid Plan

Howard County Commissioners Court has proposed that the county agree to pay $25 for the first day of hospitalization and $15 per day for subsequent days for indigent patients, Ed Carpenter, county judge, said Thursday. The hospitals have recently been pressing for broadening the base of compensation for the hospitalization of such patients. Carpenter said that a communication from the County Medical Society indicated that the proposal offered by the commissioners would be satisfactory with one additional provision. The hospitals want some sort of policy established relative to the admission of emergency patients. Under the plan offered by the county, all applicants for charity hospitalization would have to be approved by Mary Cantrell, county welfare officer. The hospitals asked what would be done in the event a patient required immediate hospitalization at some time when Miss Cantrell might not be available to okay the order. Carpenter said that he felt that in such cases the policy the commissioners would approve would be to proceed with the case without formal approval and that adjustment could be made to perfect the records on the next day. The hospitals have been complaining to the county that the burden of caring for indigent patients has become so heavy they must have some additional financial assistance. The county commissioners expressed themselves as being willing to cooperate insofar as county finances would allow.

Demos Push Toward Housing Bill Despite Veto Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democrats shrugged off veto warnings today to push toward House action a $2,075,000,000 federal housing bill going far beyond President Eisenhower's proposals. The wide ranging House measure was approved by the Banking Committee late Wednesday over futile Republican efforts to cut it back in line with the administration's more modest $1,660,000,000 program. No immediate House vote was in prospect. The measure still must be considered by the House Rules Committee, which has delayed such action in past years. The bill's impact on the President's budget immediately raised the prospect of a veto. House Democrats professed to have no concern at that point. They announced they would press for enactment of their bill as a mandate from the voters based on last November's Democratic election gains. Banking Committee Republicans, outnumbered in unsuccessful attempts to substitute Eisenhower's program, blasted the Democratic-backed housing measure as a "budget busting bill." They contended its cost was nearer six billion dollars than the $2,075,000,000 figure put on it by the Democrats. GOP members contended it would have a "devastating impact on the federal budget," which the administration estimates can be balanced at 77 billion dollars next year with a surplus of 70 million dollars if Eisenhower's recommendations for higher postal rates and gasoline taxes are enacted. Both House and Senate have now taken steps toward passage of new housing legislation which could throw the administration budget plans out of gear and turn the small prospective surplus into a whopping deficit. The Senate, in an opening session rush, already had passed a bill calling for around $2,660,000,000 in federal housing grants and loans. The House Rules Committee is sharply divided over housing policy and could stall the bill indefinitely. The rules group, headed by conservative Rep. Howard Smith (D-Va.), last session blocked House consideration of a less sweeping bill until the closing days of the session. Brought to the floor under a procedure which required a two-thirds vote for passage, the bill lost by seven votes. But Democratic House leaders have made housing and airport aid bills the first order of business this session. Consequently, heavy pressure is certain to be brought on Rules Committee members to clear the housing bill for quick floor consideration. Major administration opposition to the House bill centered on revival of federal subsidies for low-rent public housing, to which Eisenhower asked an end.

Bids Opened On Pipe Line For CRMWD

Mitchell Darby Construction Co. of McAllen was apparent low bidder today on construction of a 33-mile pipe line from the Colorado River Municipal Water District's Martin County well field to Odessa. The firm's proposal was $2,115,980.12 for construction of a 30-inch pipe line, $2,404,148.34 for a 33-inch line, and $2,275,102.64 for a combination of 30- and 33-inch pipe. Second low proposal came from R. B. Hodgson & Co. of Dallas and third low bid was submitted by Clyde Yarbrough of Odessa. Both were about $100,000 higher than Darby. There were 14 bids, with the highest about $700,000 above the low proposal. CRMWD directors and engineers were analyzing the bids. A contract award was expected during the afternoon.

Sailor Halted In Death Leap

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The young sailor teetered on a hotel parapet six stories above a street, clutching a photograph. Donald W. Horton, 21, of Denton, Tex., threatened to jump if police rescuers approached him. About 200 spectators watched from the sidewalk. Detective Jack G. Harris inched to within 30 feet of Horton. "Maybe you don't want to talk to these uniformed guys," he suggested quietly. "Will you talk to me?" "Yes," the Navy man whispered. Horton asked about the picture. Horton said it was a photo of his girl friend, Bobbie. They had had a fight. "Don't get too close to me!" Horton snapped. Harris asked again to see the picture. Horton held it up. Harris said he could see the girl was beautiful and charming. The youth's eyes filled with tears. He sobbed and put his fists to his eyes. Harris lunged and grabbed him. They hung on the brink. Other officers rushed forward and dragged both to station.

Horton, stationed at nearby Terminal Island, was booked for a psychopathic investigation after yesterday's 30-minute drama. Macmillan Ends Khrushchev Talks

Neither Side Budes An Inch

KIEV, Ukraine (AP)—The Macmillan-Khrushchev talks have ended with neither side "budging an inch," a British spokesman said here today. The only outstanding business is agreement on a formal communique next Monday, the spokesman added. At the same time he confirmed earlier reports that the British Prime Minister's visit to the Soviet Union came perilously close to ending abruptly two days ago in Moscow as a result of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's Kremlin speech. These disclosures were made as Macmillan flew here from Moscow, where he had addressed stern words to Khrushchev in a meeting at the Kremlin. British sources said he had warned Khrushchev that any attempt to interfere with Western rights in Berlin would be fraught with danger. Khrushchev had planned to fly to Kiev with Macmillan but the visiting British Prime Minister took off alone. Khrushchev was not even at the Moscow airport to see him off. A British spokesman said Khrushchev told Macmillan at a meeting in the Kremlin this morning he had a bad tooth and must have it filled. Diplomats wondered whether this was a diplomatic illness. The British have made no secret that relations between the two delegations have worsened since Khrushchev's speech on Tuesday in which he virtually rejected Western proposals for a Big Four foreign ministers meeting on Germany. It became known that Macmillan and Khrushchev have virtually ended their talks on world problems. The expectation was they would meet formally Monday to draw up a communique. Diplomatic sources said the communique likely would touch only slightly on international affairs, and would express agreement in principle to have more trade and more cultural exchanges. The talks thus appeared to have made little headway in reconciling British and Western policies with those of the Soviet Union. In a chilly political atmosphere, Macmillan made it clear to Khrushchev at a meeting in the Kremlin that any attempt to interfere with the Western powers' position in Berlin "would lead to a dangerous situation," British informants said. A communique by Tass, the Soviet news agency, in which every word is officially weighed, omitted any reference to a friendly atmosphere at the latest meeting. A Moscow radio broadcast insisted the morning's talks were "warm and friendly."

Explosion Hits British H-Bomb Center; 2 Die

ALDERMASTON, England (AP)—A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb research base here today after somebody dropped an explosive charge. Two men were killed and one injured. Officials announced there was no radioactivity hazard to the staff or the general public. The explosion set doors and windows rattling in the village of Aldermaston, two miles away, where 300 people live. Fire engines screamed through the village streets. But there was no panic. "We get used to living close to this thing," said Woodley Thomas, 19, a clerk at the ivy-covered post office. The British Atomic Energy Commission said the accident occurred as the explosive was being unloaded from a vehicle. The vehicle was destroyed and a fire broke out, damaging a nearby building extensively. The fire was soon put out. "The explosive was of a conventional type and no radioactive materials were involved," the commission said. "There is no radioactivity hazard to staff or to the general public." The Aldermaston base lies up a leafy lane near the village and is screened by trees. It houses Britain's biggest hydrogen bomb plant. Aldermaston is 45 miles west of London. (Two employees of the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic laboratory were killed Tuesday in an explosion of nonradioactive material.)

The senior has distinguished himself by his high scores on the two college aptitude tests used in competition. About six-tenths of one per cent of the seniors in each state received similar awards. A national total of 10,000 students were honored. Over 478,000 students were tested in the 1958-59 National Merit Scholarship competition which began last April. The test results have placed the competitors down to the 10,000 finalists. Some 700 of the finalists will share in $3.5 million in Merit Scholarship funds offered by over 80 organizations and individuals.

Senate Will Probe Unions In Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee plans an extensive investigation of labor unions' tactics and spending in political campaigns, Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said today.

Mundt, the committee's vice chairman, predicted the inquiry will deal at some length with:

1. Whether some union flower funds—set up to buy flowers for members who are sick or have died—are used only for those purposes.
2. Whether federal laws forbidding unions to participate in federal election campaigns have been violated or circumvented.

The inquiry is believed certain to plunge the committee's four Democratic and four Republican members into bitter controversy. An investigation of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers union last year touched off such a squabble.

The UAW and many other labor unions traditionally support Democrats against Republican candidates.

Republican members raised some critical questions about UAW flower funds during last year's inquiry, but the committee refrained from ordering an audit of those funds at the time.

One committee member, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), was described as proposing that the new inquiry embrace the explosive subject of unions' tactics in last November's election campaign against "right to work" laws. Such measures were defeated in five of the six states in which they were voted on last fall.

The committee's chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) confirmed that the right to work issue had been mentioned Wednesday in a closed meeting, but he said no motions were made or votes taken. He declined to elaborate.

The committee wound up its public hearings Wednesday on alleged extortion rackets in Chicago area jukebox and game machine operations.

Poe, Lee Differed In Reading Habits

NEW YORK (AP)—Edgar Allan Poe never borrowed a book from the West Point library while he was at the U. S. Military Academy.

Robert E. Lee borrowed more from the library as a cadet than any other before or since.

Lt. Gen. Gar Davidson, superintendent of the Academy, recalled these bits of West Point lore Wednesday night at an Overseas Press Club dinner.

Davidson said it has never been clear whether the poet Poe was dismissed because he wore his uniform improperly at a parade or because he failed to pay debts he incurred at the Academy.

Turncoats Finding Their Way Back

(Editor's Note — What has happened to the Korean turncoats who after throwing in their lot with their Communist captors decided to come home? Here's the story of some of them.)

By HUGH MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

Life has dealt differently with a handful of Korean War turncoats who finally renounced Communist blandishments to come back home. In the five years since the war's end and their ignominious return, some have managed to soothe an uneasy conscience and thwart the taunt of "traitor" by finding acceptance or at least obscurity in their communities.

Others have wandered aimless and townless, from job to job, from angry words to barroom scuffles, unable to forget the past or make other people forget it, incapable of seeking any future beyond a vague hope of oblivion.

A few have married and had children. None has had an easy time.

"From now on I'm through with drinking. Drinking got me into this and some other things," said Otho Bell from a jail cell in Olympia, Wash., where he is being held on charges of taking indecent liberties with a 14-year-old girl.

It is Bell's fourth brush with the law since he went to work here as a fruit picker and a packer in a mushroom plant. Twice he has been arrested for drunk driving, once for third degree assault in a fight with another man over possession of a gun.

Married before he went overseas, Bell has three children, two girls and a boy. His wife, he says proudly, has stuck by him in all his difficulties and he wants to keep her and the children "out of this."

For alert, crewcut Richard Tenneson of Minneapolis, the past may soon vanish into a scrapbook. Not his own, but one he prepared on the activities of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in nearby Hopkins. The task was routine, but Tenneson volunteered because it represented a milestone, a measure of the trust that the young men of the community hold in him after refusing repatriation from Korea in 1953.

"I don't hear it much now," he says, "but it stings more than ever. I think it's because I can see the truth of it now, where before I tried in my own mind to defend myself against it."

At first he tried to hide from the light of publicity by working on a farm, in a junk yard, as a proof-reader on a suburban weekly, and now in a warehouse. "But I should have known better," he says, "than to think I could conceal my marriage. Janet and I applied for a license one day last December. Three hours later a reporter called up to interview me."

The Tennesons live in a neat but meagerly furnished apartment over a store in Hopkins. They have a small circle of friends, go out occasionally.

"I know I can never completely live down what happened over there," Tenneson says, "but it helps tremendously to think that people are willing to help me back by giving me a chance to do something constructive."

Samuel David Hawkins also wants to do something constructive. Now he is living in a rooming house in Oklahoma City. He attends night high school twice a week in hopes of entering the University of Oklahoma, where he now works as a hospital orderly.

He recently separated from Tanya, the China-born Russian girl whom he met and married during his sojourn with the Communists.

"I think of this separation as temporary," says Tanya who with their only child has gone to live nearby with a sympathetic widow.

"David just cannot afford to help me now because he is going to school, and that is the important thing. It is what you might call a financial separation. We often visit and are not mad at each other."

Hawkins has had several jobs since coming home and found some difficulty adjusting. This Tanya blames on publicity. But now he seems happy at his job and would someday like a career in medicine or biology.

"I've always been interested in taking care of the sick," he says. "I hope I can make a career of it."

Lewis Griggs of Jacksonville, Tex., is a senior at Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches, majoring in sociology and with a minor in biology. He says he is "getting along fine" in his studies. He plans to graduate in May, but doesn't know what he'll do after that. Unmarried, he says he has gone with several girls without getting engaged to any and has had no trouble finding dates.

Cop Charged In Rape-Slaying

NEW YORK (AP)—A police officer and his companion were charged today in the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old widow.

Police said Mrs. Viola Mirman of Brooklyn was dragged into a car Monday, beaten with fists and a blackjack, raped and abandoned in a parking lot.

A tip to authorities led to the arrest Wednesday night of Patrolman Francis J. Rogers, 26, and Thomas Murtha, 22, a truck driver.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said Rogers, who was off duty, admitted beating the woman, but denied raping her. Rogers accused Murtha of the rape. Murtha also denied raping Mrs. Mirman, but told of beating her.

Rogers and Murtha were charged with homicide, rape and kidnaping. Rogers was suspended from the force.

Utopia Wasn't Heaven For All

CHICAGO (AP)—Everything it appears, was not so hunky-dory in Utopia, a small community west of Chicago.

A group of Utopia residents and property owners appeared in Du Page County Court at Wheaton Wednesday and told Judge William L. Guild they were unhappy over the tax situation and wanted to secede.

Judge Guild granted the request. He disconnected an area of 492 acres, roughly half the area of Utopia and containing 27 homes and 99 residents, which now reverts to unincorporated territory. Still left in Utopia are 286 homes with 1,071 residents.

Magnolia Cuts Prices

DALLAS (AP)—Cuts in crude oil prices in three Texas areas, effective today, have been announced by Magnolia Petroleum Co.

The company announced the cuts, which run up to 8 cents per barrel, yesterday.

Magnolia said it was the last substantial buyer in the Texas Panhandle to meet a 7-cent reduction posted Feb. 3 by Phillips Petroleum Co.

The largest amount of crude affected, 19,000 barrels daily in North Texas, was dropped 7 cents to a new top of $3.01 with 2-cent gravity differentials retained. This area includes Archer, Clay, Montague, Wichita and Wilbarger counties.

The 7-cent drop in the Panhandle affects 5,200 barrels daily in Carson, Gray and Hutchinson Counties. The new top is $2.95 with a 3-cent differential substituted for the former 2 cents for below-40 gravity crude. A 2-cent differential was retained for 45-below gravity and above.

The 8-cent cut by Magnolia affects about 5,000 barrels daily bought in the Luling-Bryan field in Caldwell and Guadalupe Counties of Southwest Texas. The new flat price is $2.87 per barrel.

Magnolia's action followed by one day price drops in the Panhandle by Humble Oil & Refining Co. Humble is not a North Texas poster.

Dixie Senators Hit Mexican Cotton Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Southern senators moved today to oppose what they termed State Department pressure on the Agriculture Department to alter the cotton export program so as to aid Mexican cotton interests.

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) sent telegrams to the State Department and the White House. Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also took up the matter with State Department officials.

The two acted, aides said, in the face of reports that the State Department is exerting pressure on the Agriculture Department as a result of President Eisenhower's recent trip to Mexico. The President has said he will review U.S. policy to see how it affects Mexico.

Aides said the U.S. cotton trade has heard reports that the State Department wants the Agriculture Department to reduce the export subsidy on U.S. cotton and thus raise its price on the world market.

At present, U.S. export cotton and Mexican cotton are on a par and any such move would put U.S. cotton above the price of Mexican cotton.

In telegrams to acting Secretary of State Christian Herter and to Don Paarlberg, economic adviser to the President, Eastland said Mexican cotton industry is "dominated by several giant companies."

"These companies," he said, "will be the beneficiaries of any change in the cotton export program. Thousands of U.S. cotton farmers would suffer financial loss in order that four or five giant corporations operating in Mexico would be enriched."

Angry Mother

Mrs. George B. Scott, left, an angry mother of one of the pupils at Bartlett High School near Memphis, Tenn., who were spanked by the principal, tries to make a point with John Barnes, right, who administered the spankings. In the center is Labraun Gardner, 18, one of the recipients of the spankings. The action was at an informal meeting in the office of Sessions Judge Willard Dixon, who told the mothers he would not issue an assault warrant against the principal.

Fears Of Berlin Crisis Building Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western fears of a dangerous Berlin crisis late this spring are beginning to build up again under the impact of Nikita Khrushchev's oratory. Unless the Soviet government can be drawn into high level negotiations on Germany issues in the next two or three months, authorities here are not sure what may happen. But they see an increasing possibility that his present cocky, confident mood the Soviet premier may try some extremely risky moves.

United States officials still cling to the hope that Khrushchev will agree to a foreign ministers meeting for late April or early May. His speech in Moscow Tuesday rejecting negotiations about German reunification does not constitute a real answer to the Western proposal of Feb. 16 for a Big Four session, informants said.

But President Eisenhower's rather gloomy appraisal of the outlook at his news conference Wednesday seemed to reflect a growing uncertainty over the possibility of actually getting serious negotiations started.

Eisenhower said Khrushchev had displayed an "obviously, palpably intransigent attitude" in his speech and though there was nothing very new in it the tone and the timing were matters of concern.

Noting that the speech came in the midst of Khrushchev's talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Eisenhower said the development "is not one that certainly, you could call hopeful."

He then defined a two-point policy for the United States in the present situation. First, he said, "we are not going to give one single inch in the preservation of our rights" to maintain the Western position in West Berlin and to move supplies into that city. The possibility of another Berlin blockade has been considered ever since Khrushchev last November suggested the western powers get out of Berlin. He announced plans which in effect would turn over to East Germany control of the Allied access routes to West Berlin.

Second, Eisenhower said that this country and its allies are "always ready to negotiate when the other person will give us the slightest area or region in which to negotiate."

But he added that he could not see "very much use for conferences" or much promise for negotiation if the present Soviet attitude continues.

Reports from Moscow described Macmillan as stunned by Khrushchev's maneuver in publicly taking an unyielding line on German issues in the midst of his discussions with the British prime minister. Diplomats here considered it a radical departure from normal diplomacy.

One possible explanation suggested was that Khrushchev was trying to bring public pressure to bear to get concessions from the British leader in private talks.

Khrushchev, for example, wants to negotiate with the Western powers solely about their status in Berlin. But that question is not negotiable, Eisenhower declared Wednesday. The British have taken the same position.

Officials said today that the real purpose of Khrushchev's recent speeches could not be judged until the outcome of his talks with Macmillan is known early next week.

Sometimes when the Soviets are engaged in tough bargaining, officials said, they deliberately build up a very hard, antagonistic front in order to be able later on to give the appearance of making concessions without actually conceding anything important.

Pair Charged In Trying To Poison Retarded Child

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Charges of attempting to kill a retarded six-year-old with poisoned candy have been filed against a California couple.

Phoenix officers were to go to Los Angeles today to pick up Mrs. Edna F. Howard, 36, and James L. Will, 38, her former husband, both of Pasadena, Calif.

They are charged with trying to poison Michael Howard, son of the woman by an earlier marriage. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years to life.

An official of the Valley of the Sun School for Handicapped Children uncovered the poisoned candy Wednesday when she disregarded instructions to see that it went only to Michael.

As Mrs. Bernice Kussell, school superintendent, broke up the candy for the distribution among all the children, she discovered two capsules later found to contain lethal dog worm medicine.

The discovery led to the arrest of the couple in Los Angeles.

Phoenix police said Michael has been adopted by Mrs. Howard's present husband, George.

Los Angeles officers said the child's natural father is believed to be Edward Weishaupt, Mrs. Howard's first husband. Will was her second husband.

Sgt. Claude Everley of the Los Angeles sheriff's homicide detail said the boy and his mother each received $125 per month from a $25,000 estate. He is retarded both mentally and physically.

Titan Flights Called Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force says it has chalked up two successful test flights in a row with the mighty Titan intercontinental range ballistic missile.

The 90-foot war rocket, newest entry in the U.S. arsenal, roared off Wednesday on a launching covering close to 300 miles. Project officials announced later that the shot appeared to be good all the way.

The latest Titan triumph came three weeks after No. 1 blazed aloft marking the advent of the so-called "second generation" missiles.

Both firings were limited range tests using dummy second stage vehicles loaded with thousands of gallons of water for ballast.

Titan is a 100-ton rocket which the Martin Co. developers say is more versatile and less complex than Atlas, the present ICBM leader. The new weapon reportedly has the potential of covering ranges as high as 9,000 miles, far outstripping the "Big A."

Grange Urges Wheat Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the National Grange opened a drive today to get congressional approval of its new farm program for wheat.

Members of the farm organization's advisory committee on wheat met to consider ways of winning support of legislators for the plan.

Called the domestic parity or certificate plan, the proposal would assure producers a relatively high price for wheat used for food in this country, but the remainder of the production would have to find whatever other markets it could find at home and abroad at lower prices. None would move into government surplus stocks as is now the case.

This plan was passed in 1956 as a part of a broad farm bill, but was vetoed by President Eisenhower. Grange leaders estimate their plan would have saved taxpayers at least a billion dollars since that time. But the administration says the plan would raise bread prices and would create bad relations with other wheat exporting nations because of the possibility of low-priced American wheat taking over world markets.

Federal Judge Raps U.S. Handling Of Postal Case

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. Judge Lindsey testified that a post office employe hit him a couple of judo chops to the body while trying to get a confession.

The postal investigation started when church officials reported that six envelopes had been received after having been released. Several test letters, including one containing four $1 bills, dusted with a powder which is visible under a special light, were sent by the investigators. They testified that traces of the powder were found in Lindsey's wallet and trouser pocket but they couldn't find the bills.

"I want to comment that this is a poorly prepared case," the judge said. "I'm not speaking of the U.S. Attorney's Office. I'm speaking of the Post Office Department."

"We hear a lot of public relations about the infidelity of our government bureau—the Post Office Department, the FBI and 'men and these men and those men,'" Ingraham said. "But I find that what most of them want to do is in some way or another get a confession and that's their case. I want to discourage the filing of these kind of cases in this court."

Judge Ingraham said he didn't think he could submit the case to the jury as long as there was only a reasonable probability that the man took the money.

Revenoor Spoofs Moonshine Quality

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Thirty years of tracking down moonshiners gave Dorsey Keeton some pretty definite opinions on their activities.

One is that Kentucky still operators aren't turning out a quality product.

Keeton, 70, of Ashland, retired from government service Wednesday from the comment that Kentucky moonshine "now is about as low grade as you can get."

"It's all sugar now. They used to make it with corn, and you never heard of sugar until after World War II."

Even so, he added, Kentucky moonshiners generally use better equipment than their colleagues elsewhere.

Keeton helped raid 3,000 stills during his career.

Her Eyes Have It

Jeanne Baird, of CBS-TV's "Lineup" series, tells how she manages to keep pretty eyes and gives her favorite formula for eye lotion.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Eyes Can Be A Most Interesting Feature

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — When I'm at CBS I can always count on meeting a pretty girl on the "Lineup" set. Jeanne Baird was the young lovely I met the other day. The big topic of conversation was the terrible smog that was irritating everyone's eyes.
 "I'm from Santa Barbara (Calif.)," Jeanne told me, "and we don't have smog there. But here, on days like this, I'm bathing my eyes constantly."
 From her handbag she took a little bottle, which had an eyepdropper attached to the stopper. "I've become an expert at this," she explained. "I can wash away the smog without disturbing my mascara. These drops clear my eyes and keep them from discoloring."
 Jeanne told me she got her basic acting experience at a small TV station in her home town.
 "It was wonderful training," she recalled. "I was called on to do almost everything. Naturally, I had my eye on Hollywood as almost every actress does. I found that with preparedness, patience and perseverance — the three big P's — you can usually get any job you apply for."
 An assistant director joined us with more remarks about the smog.
 "I find soaking cotton in witch hazel and placing the pad over my eyelids helps to relieve eye strain," Jeanne volunteered. "I make an eye-lotion that is very inexpensive. I add a teaspoon of

Garden Council Sets Tasting Tea

Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs will stage a "tasting tea" April 2 at the H.C.J.C. Student Union Building. The novel event will be undertaken to help provide funds toward the erection of a new headquarters building for the Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. at Fort Worth.
 The decision was made Wednesday morning when 14 council members met at the home of Mrs. Clyde Angel.
 Land has already been given for the building by the Parks Commission of Fort Worth. Funds for construction will be raised by the garden clubs through various projects.
 Local gardeners will cook their most fascinating dish for the tea. Patrons will be invited to sample those dishes which appeal to them, and may purchase the recipes of their choice for 10 cents each. Tickets will be 50 cents.

'Wobbling Winnie' Result Of New Shoe Styles, Expert Says

By DOROTHY ROE
 Associated Press Women's Editor
 We're producing a new generation of "wobbling Winnies" in shoes with needle toes and stiletto heels, says Dr. H. L. Collins of Columbus, Ohio director of public education for the American Podiatry Assn. and a podiatrist and foot surgeon for 27 years.
 "Older women want to wear these precarious shoes, that's up to them," says Dr. Collins. "But we foot specialists are alarmed about what the current shoe styles are doing to teen-agers' feet."
 "Young feet are not yet set in their shape, and young girls haven't learned how to walk in these pointed, high-heeled shoes without wobbling. They are developing bunions, ingrown toenails and foot infections."
 Dr. Collins says toes are designed to grip the ground and heels provide the greatest support for the body.
 On the other side of the fence are numerous shoe designers and foot health experts who contend that the tapered toe is well adapted to the shape of the normal foot. A recent survey by the American Foot Care Institute, for instance, reports that a well-fitted tapered-toe shoe causes no discomfort, fatigue or foot ailments.
 Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, chairman of the National Foot Health Council, shares these views.
 "If shoes are big enough and carefully fitted, there is no reason why they should cause foot damage or discomfort," he says.
 Dr. Collins, however, insists that toes should have "wiggling

Clever Hat Parade Is Party Feature At Quimby Home

A note of hilarity was introduced at the Barbara Reagan Class party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bill Quimby. The comedy touch was in the form of a hat parade staged by the cohostess, Mrs. D. G. Harris, and commented by Helen Burt.

Bargain Buys To Be Seen In Eggs, Meats

Eggs and a wide assortment of meats continue to be top-value foods at Texas stores.
 Pork and lamb supplies are large and retail prices generally reflect the lower prices on live hogs, chicken, turkey and fish also are comparatively cheap, says the Department of Agriculture.
 Deliveries of several fresh fruits and vegetables to Texas markets are sufficient to encourage generous use. Chief among these are apples, avocados, bananas, green cabbage, Texas cauliflower, celery, Texas oranges and grapefruit and California oranges, d'anjou pears, radishes, tomatoes, old-crop potatoes and pole beans.
 Lettuce and green peppers are priced lower than last week. New-crop potatoes from Florida also are cheaper but still high compared to fall potatoes.
 Up from a week ago are cucumbers, eggplant, onions and Florida corn. Other fruits and vegetables are generally unchanged.
 Fresh strawberries from South Texas and asparagus from California made their appearance for the first time this week but the supply of each is still small.

CHICKEN OR CHILI

Herald Newsboys (And Their Fathers) Will Know

March 2

Yes, the annual "CHICKEN OR CHILI" contest between Herald Newsboys is here again! And this year it will be even bigger as it will be a Father and Son contest. The boys — more than 50 of them — are now competing in a two-week friendly game of business and they'll get together for one big party. At that party, the winning team will sit down to a plate heaped with golden brown fried chicken and all the trimmings, while the losers must be satisfied with a bowl of chili and crackers. But it'll be fun, for the boys and their dads and the contest will be a worthwhile enterprise for every one of them!

Herald Newsboys during the "Chicken or Chili" contest will be testing their mettle as little businessmen. Two teams will be in friendly competition, each out to best the other in such practices as signing up new subscribers, in making prompt delivery of papers, in giving good delivery service to all customers, in making prompt collections, so that they can be prompt in meetings and activities. It all means that the most energetic boys, and the best business boys, will get to eat good old fried chicken.

If You Are Not Now A Subscriber, Sign Up During This Contest!

Divorce Grounds: One Meal A Day

DETROIT (AP) — After 40 years of working for one company, Antonas Waitkunas retired in June 1954. He testified Wednesday that his wife then issued an edict: "No work, no eat."
Waitkunas, 74, said he turned his $150-a-month pension check over to his wife, Josephine, who cashed it and gave him $10 a month. She also cut him to one meal a day and made him move into the basement of their home.
"She rented my room," Waitkunas said. "I could hear her up there, entertaining a boy friend, having lunch and beer, while I was only getting one meal a day."
Circuit Judge Miles N. Culehan granted Waitkunas a divorce, commenting:
"You shouldn't have married such a young girl."
Mrs. Waitkunas is 64.

Kiwanis Pancake Supper To Be Served Friday Evening

Annual Kiwanis Pancake Supper — seventh such feast in as many years — is the big event of Friday night in Big Spring. It is anticipated that hundreds of hungry residents will gather at the high school cafeteria starting at 5 p.m. to avail themselves of the gustatorial treat offered by the Big Spring Kiwanis Club.
The supper will be served on a continuous operation plan from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tickets have been on sale for several weeks by Kiwanians and can be bought at the door of the cafeteria.
Guests are invited to come at the hour they prefer — anytime from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Sherman Smith, president of the club, expressed the hope that this year's turnout of patrons would set a new high record. He pointed out that not only does the patron get a big meal at a bargain price, but that any profits which may derive from the project will go to the assistance of boys and girls of the community who need help.
The motto of these annual pancake suppers is "All you can eat for the price of a ticket. If the original order of pancakes, bacon, butter, syrup and coffee is not all the customer wants, he is free to go back for more until he is satisfied. Tickets are 75 cents for adults; 50 cents for children.
All profits from the supper go into the club's fund for the aid of underprivileged children. Last year hundreds of persons were on hand for the supper — as they have been each of the seven years the events have been staged.
Jack Alexander, chairman of the arrangements committee, reported Thursday that all was well in

Infection Keeps Graham In Bed

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — A recurrence of an eye infection kept evangelist Billy Graham in bed today. But he will go on with his Melbourne crusade, said the Rev. Grady Wilson, a member of Graham's evangelical team.
"The eye trouble has been with him ever since the Melbourne crusade began almost a fortnight ago," Wilson said.
The infection delayed Graham's departure from the United States for Australia early this month. He spent two weeks in Hawaii recuperating from it.
The doctors have advised Graham to rest as much as possible and told him to cut his sermons from 60 to 36 minutes to reduce the strain.
About 200,000 persons so far have attended Graham's Melbourne meetings, which began 11 days ago.
The evangelist told a capacity crowd of 25,000 Wednesday night to pray for "Macmillan in Moscow, and Dulles and all other world leaders who are working for peace."

GOP Restatement Gains Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move by national Chairman Meade Alcorn to draft a statement of long-range Republican party objectives won support today from GOP members of Congress.
Alcorn announced after a conference with President Eisenhower Wednesday the appointment of a 44-member committee to draft a statement of party principles. The group will be headed by Charles H. Percy, president of the Bell & Howell Co., Chicago.
Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said "it certainly is worth a try" for party members to attempt to define where they are going.
"We can't get hurt trying this approach and if the members of the committee can come to an agreement on Republican principles it will indicate that the party can do the same," Goldwater said.
Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, former House Republican leader, commented, "It can't do any harm to have a new statement of principles before the 1960 campaign."
"Only time will tell, of course, whether they will have any influence on the campaign," he added.
Alcorn said he expects the committee, which meets here March 13-14, to have ready by Sept. 1 a statement covering such topics as civil rights, agriculture, labor, monetary policy and other areas.
"This is an attempt to state what the party ought to be trying to do in the next eight or 10 years," he said.
Saying that the committee represents "all segments of Republican party thinking," Alcorn said he invited only one Republican governor, Cecil Underwood of West Virginia, to join the group.
Alcorn named Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, party leaders in the two houses, as the only congressional members.
Other members include several from the GOP National committee, several professors, a number of women, and leaders in the fields of labor, agriculture, business and law.
Plans to appoint the group were made tentatively at a recent national committee meeting in Des Moines, Iowa. At that meeting, Goldwater and Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania called for a clear statement of party principles.
Goldwater said in an interview he expects the committee to agree on a conservative position. He added that if the group should come in with a recommendation that the GOP be made over "into a me-too, New Deal party, they'll have a fight on their hands."

Carters At Work

Rep. Steven V. Carter (D-Iowa) and his 19-year-old son, Steven A. Carter, work on correspondence in the congressman's Washington office. Rep. Carter said he is considering reducing the $11,837 annual salary of his student-son and might even remove him from office. The son, a freshman pre-law student at George Washington University, works part time for his father.

Taxpayers Revolt Enters Third Week

RITZVILLE, Wash. (AP) — A "non-partisan taxpayers' revolt" that started here over a cup of coffee went into its third week today with the letter-writing campaign spreading to the far corners of the state.
An estimated 10,000 or more revolt-inspired form letters have poured in on state legislators in Olympia, and Gov. Albert D. Rosellini's office said he has received 1,338 of them.
In addition, thousands of companion petitions were being circulated, the signers pledging not to ask for additional services from the state government and demanding in return that no new tax laws be passed.
"The campaign has exceeded our wildest dreams," said Edward Cross, an attorney who helped start it. "With all the phone calls, my practice has gone by the board. We're really got a tiger by the tail."
It started at a Lions club meeting in this town of 2,200 on Feb. 11 when Bryson Reinhardt, a Wenatchee, Wash., salesman, made a speech about government and taxes.
"When it was over, some of us got to talking and decided that's what we always do—just talk," Cross said. "We agreed to meet for coffee next morning and consider some kind of petition and form letter."
Twenty men showed up, then 40 more joined in. $300 was collected for printing and a nameless organization was born with an eight-man steering committee headed by Ralph Danekas, a mortician who says he is politically independent.

"It's a completely nonpartisan, grass root effort," said Cross, a former Republican county prosecutor. The steering committee includes Roy Scott, one-time Democratic county commissioner.
The original goal was to get 1,500 signatures on a "no-new-services, no-new-taxes" petition in Adams County. Cross said they got 1,150 in three days and the idea "snowballed."
After 500 form letters piled up on his desk, Rosellini, a Democrat, replied with a form letter of his own, asking revolters to be "realistic" and claiming increased taxes are needed to maintain even a minimum of services.
"We weren't convinced," Cross said.
The revolt spread to Spokane, 70 miles away, and Norman Bishop, insurance man and chairman there, set a goal of 75,000 signatures. He got city permission to set up booths at four downtown Spokane locations and said his group plans to stay active as a "taxpayers lobby" through 1960.
Letters started coming in to Olympia today from Anacortes and Aberdeen in extreme western Washington. The presidents of both the Young Republican and Young Democratic clubs in Bellingham said they're joining forces to get signatures. Cross said a Seattle campaign will start next week.
Rosellini has proposed increasing the state sales tax from 3 1/3 to 4 per cent and letters or not, some kind of tax increase is expected.

Officers Hold Suspect In 1935 Death Of Police Chief

GILMER, Tex. (AP) — A man held by Louisiana officers has been identified by police as the crusading, gun-toting preacher who shot to death an Orange, Tex., police chief in 1935.
Alexandria, La., officers said yesterday they had broken down a hotel door to arrest the aging man, Charles Edgar Eskridge.
Louisiana police said he barricaded himself in the hotel room and threatened to kill anybody who tried to take him into custody. After he had fired a .45 caliber pistol four times, injuring nobody, officers broke into the room and subdued him.
Lunacy charges are pending here against Eskridge who is also wanted for sending two threatening telegrams from Louisiana to Upshur County residents.
Upshur County Sheriff Hub Owen said he had no authority to return Eskridge to Texas under such charges but that the FBI was looking into the case.
Orange Police Chief Ed J. O'Reilly was killed in 1935, a day after he took two pistols away from Eskridge.
Eskridge then the pastor of the First Baptist Church at Orange, fled to Louisiana after the slaying, which occurred about noon on Orange's main street.
Captured in Louisiana, he was returned to Orange, but the case was moved to Houston.
Eskridge pleaded insanity but was convicted of killing the policeman and was sentenced to five years. He served 2 years and 9 months of the sentence in the state penitentiary.
Eskridge crusaded against vice in Orange County while he was pastor, wore his guns in public, and at least on one occasion caused Texas Rangers to raid establishments in the county.

Youth Killed In Cycle Accident

FORT WORTH (AP) — A youth identified as Richard Blackmon, 16, formerly of Flint, Mich., was killed here yesterday when a motorcycle he rode crashed through a concrete-block wall.
Police said the boy drove the motorcycle from a garage, down a driveway, across a street, down a 100-yard-long driveway across the street and through the wall of another garage and struck an automobile inside.

Priest Gives Aid To Farm Workers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Hungry farm workers who traveled hundreds of miles desperate for $6 a day jobs, only to find neither work nor shelter, had brighter prospects today.
They could thank a slight, compassionate man in black clothing — the Rev. Richard A. Crowley.
For days they had barely enough food to keep alive. Men, women and children camped in the open, along ditch banks, without protection from winter rains and freezing night temperatures.
They took their drinking water from irrigation ditches used by cattle. Many of their children were sick.
Cotton crop failures in Arizona threw the people out of work. They heard rumors crops were ready to be picked in Nevada's Moapa Valley near Overton, 65 miles northeast of Las Vegas. Hopefully they headed north, 300 strong.
They found the harvest late and farmers' housing already bulging with hundreds of other workers who follow the crops. Until the onion, radish and tomato crops ripened, there would be far more workers than jobs.
"The only thing these people have to bargain with is their hunger," says Father Crowley, Roman Catholic priest.
He visited the workers' camps daily, in a borrowed truck, with meager offerings of food and clothing he has collected from donors.
For a week State labor commissioner George Jolly was on the scene, sent by Gov. Grant Sawyer largely at the urging of Father Crowley.
"It was a bad deal, but I think things are in pretty good shape now," Jolly said today.
The migrants — American citizens of Mexican, Negro and Anglo descent — now have tents set up by the National Guard. New housing should be finished in two or three weeks.
The harvest is starting, giving work. The workers average six or seven dollars a day, Jolly says, and several members of the family usually work. "But that's for a long day," Jolly adds.
Authorities are starting inoculations against typhoid.
Ted Potter, executive secretary of President Eisenhower's Committee on Migratory Labor, planned an on-the-spot survey today for Secretary of Labor James Mitchell.

GOOD YEAR

PRESENTS THE WORLD'S FIRST TURNPIKE-PROVED TIRES

- New rubbers...
- New chemicals...
- New cords...

New Turnpike-Proved Tires by Goodyear—built with phenomenal new rubbers, chemicals and cords—give you to 25% more safe mileage even on the turnpikes! That means, they'll give you more mileage with greater safety than ever before.
Here are two vital problems Goodyear scientists solved to bring you these great, new tires!

Problem #1—tread rubber: At high speeds, ordinary tread rubber is literally eaten away. But by intimate mixing of new chemicals and rubber molecules, Goodyear scientists created today's longest-wearing tread rubber for today's toughest driving conditions!

Problem #2—tire cord: At high speeds, the heat that eats away tread also weakens cord. The answer? Goodyear's All-New 3-T cord (Iyrex or Nylon) triple-tempered in an exclusive process involving Tension, Temperature and Time.

Tested on the 140 mph "Turnpike That Never Ends" these Turnpike-Proved Tires by Goodyear are the toughest, safest, longest wearing tires you can buy.

Teen-Age Death Watch

The covered body of 17-year-old Tony LaBachino, shot to death in a teen gang feud, is the centerpiece of a grim, movie-like drama on the sidewalk of downtown Brooklyn. Police surrounded wounded John Lombardi, 17, as the black-jacketed youth raises his bleeding hand and averts his eyes from the body of his friend. Four teenagers were arrested in the rumble, started when a rival gang invaded the pinball amusement arcade at the right where the victim and his friends were playing machines.

10 Conservation Plans Approved

Conservation enterprises, under the Great Plains Conservation program, for 10 Howard County farms and ranches have been developed and approved in recent weeks, according to J. C. Ebersole, work unit conservationist for the local office.

Interest, he says, in the general plan of the conservation program is higher than it has been in a long time. Thirty-six applications for programs have been received and are in process of evaluation and study. Thirty-two of these involve Howard County; four are in Glasscock County and one in Borden County. The farmers and ranchers whose programs have been completed and are now ready to get under way are R. W. McNew, Kent Morgan, J. F. Winans, Kent Morgan, Hardy Morgan, O. D. O'Daniel, L. J. Stewart, H. F. White, Tom C. Castle, C. H. DeVaney and Mrs. W. J. Lloyd.

Brush control by root plowing followed by reseeding to native grasses are practices most frequently planned. Reseeding of cultivated lands is another practice widely used. Pitting or chiseling of range land, either for improvement of the existing stands of grass or to form a seedbed for reseeding is also found in several of the plans. Storage tanks, water wells and pipelines to serve livestock are also popular. There is a cost share-payment of 50 to 80 per cent of the average cost for all of the above practices. Some terrace systems and ponds have been planned for cost share payments under the conservation program, but most of these are covered by payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Ebersole points out this is one of the advantages of the Great Plains Conservation Program in that it is a complete conservation plan for the farmer or rancher. It involves the use of the ASC Program, the Conservation Reserve Program and any other assistance which the operation may wish to include.

Farmers and ranchers whose plans are now in the process of being completed are Jack Buchanan, J. E. Norris, Rex Shive, Reed & McDonald, Marshall J. Spruill, Roscoe Gilliam, and Mrs. George White.

Applications which have been received since January have come from the Wilson Ranch, Clay Reid, Charles Read and Rufus Rogers.

Applications can be made at any of the USDA offices in Howard or Glasscock counties.

Killer To Begin 99-Year Sentence

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Convicted two-time killer William D. Long, 28, was taken to Huntsville's state prison yesterday to begin serving two 99-year terms for murder. Long pleaded guilty to a second charge of murder with malice yesterday in the slaying of Mrs. A. B. Lippman, 75, at her Somerset, Tex., home last May 19.

Ministers Join Protest Against Atheism Charge

AUSTIN (AP)—Ministers have joined student protests to four legislators' charges that atheists teach at Texas' major tax-supported colleges and universities.

A barefooted, black-bearded student dragged a 6-foot wooden cross around the border of the University of Texas campus yesterday. Eliud Martinez, 24, an Austin art student, said: "I'm doing this in protest against legislative control of values."

Four Texas legislators have charged atheists are teaching at major state colleges. They introduced a bill to require state-paid teachers to swear they believe in a supreme being.

"You've got to remember that all we've got is based on hearsay," Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline said.

"The whole thing is so utterly absurd it doesn't warrant comment," Dr. Blake Smith of the University Baptist Church said about the legislators' charges. "It might be healthy if a good Baptist would study under an atheist once."

The Rev. Jack Carter of the Canterbury Assn. called the charges "malarkey. This is a bid for public attention. They can't think of anything else to raise an issue about."

The Rev. Branchford Lovely of the Unitarian Church said, "No self respecting professor would sign such an oath. I'm not sure God really needs it."

"Religion is at its most vital when it wins the assent of men in a free market place of ideas," said Dr. Lawrence Eason of the University Christian Church. "The cause of true religion is never served by attacks or dissenters."

Martinez's demonstration lasted about eight minutes at noon. His friends sported two-day stubbles. Scott Carter of near Dallas had bristling red whiskers. He said the names were the names of groups known for their beards, long conversations and cynical attitudes.

Dean of Student Life Arno Nowotny and campus police kept Martinez off the campus. Nowotny said no disciplinary action would be taken.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Patrice Wymore opens a night club act here today but husband Errol Flynn can't be present.

So he sent her an olinga, a small Cuban animal. "How appropriate," exclaimed Patrice. "It's nocturnal, a night prowler. Nothing could remind me more of Errol."

Scientific Agriculture

George Washington, Farmer, Is Honored During FFA Week

Day radio broadcasts are being staged this week by the Big Spring FFA chapter in observance of FFA Week.

The programs are being aired by Radio Station KHEM, said Charles Driver, one of the local chapter leaders.

FFA Week is being observed nationally by FFA members who are farm boys studying vocational agriculture in high school. Officers of the local chapter are Buddy White, president; Ronnie Parrish, vice president; Roger Hubbard, secretary; Rip Patterson, treasurer; Larry Moore, reporter; and Robert Carr, sentinel. There are 68 members.

The organization's activities are designed primarily to help develop rural leadership and good citizenship, and to stimulate the boys to better achievement in their study and work toward successful establishment in farming.

The national Future Farmer organization has 380,000 members, with 9,000 local chapters. Membership in Texas totals 3900.

Future Farmers choose the week of George Washington's birthday each year for the observance of National FFA Week. Although usually recognized as a Revolutionary War general and first U. S. President, Washington's first love was his farm. He was one of the first in the nation to practice contour planting, crop rotations, fertilization, and other soil conservation and improvement methods. It was more than a century after Washington's death before general use was made of many of the sound agricultural practices that he advocated.

Today, vocational agriculture programs are placing increased emphasis on farm mechanics throughout the state. Since the nation has become so highly mechanized there is an increasing need for mechanical skills.

Vocational agriculture departments are required to have farm shops and equipment in order for a student to adequately learn basic skills in farm mechanics, where the student is taught welding, rural electrification, concrete work, wood work, farm buildings, farm plumbing and soil and water conservation.

He also learns how to handle the managerial problems connected with selecting, purchasing and maintaining farm machinery, electrical equipment and household appliances. The student makes practical immediate use of his knowledge gained by constructing equipment such as self-feeders, trailers and other items he needs to carry out his FFA project program of livestock and field crops.

Science and mathematics are taught in every vocational agriculture class on a practical basis. Vocational agriculture is actually a laboratory for applied science and math.

Teachers of vocational agriculture are required to take courses in organic and inorganic chemistry, biochemistry, zoology, botany, entomology and genetics along with such science filled courses as animal nutrition and plant physiology. Each year in agricultural research there is a need for approximately 1,000 more research workers than are available.

In studying livestock production students learn about nutrients, vitamins, reproduction of animals, digestive processes, insects and diseases of animals. When studying crop production, FFA boys learn about the chemistry of fertilizers, plant reproduction, insecticides, the analysis of soil and other scientific facts.

Geometry has real meaning to students when applied to the measurements of fields, pastures and farm buildings. Arithmetic, when used to calculate the price of commodities or to maintain records for FFA projects, has a real meaning and students have a desire to learn.

15-Year Prison Term Assessed In Murder Case

Elbert Ford's story that he plunged a huge clasp-knife blade into the body of Julius Bedford, his brother-in-law, only when he believed his own life was in danger failed to convince the jurors hearing his case on Wednesday.

The 12 jurors, weary with nearly three days of work behind them, took only 40 minutes to find the young Negro laborer guilty of murder. They assessed his punishment at 15 years in prison. Ford has been on trial all this week on a charge that he stabbed Bedford to death on the night of Dec. 6. Monday had been absorbed in selecting the jury from a special venire of 71. Tuesday saw the state and defense present their array of witnesses. All of Wednesday morning and to 2:30 p.m. Wednesday they heard argument by counsel.

The case was turned to the jury at that hour. Half an hour later they were back in court asking that portions of the testimony be read to them — particularly that of Dr. Fabian Gomez, who examined the victim soon after the killing, and that of Leo McGriff, one of the witnesses of the fatal affray.

Gomez's testimony was provided for the jurors but Judge Charlie Sullivan declined to permit re-reading of McGriff's testimony.

Within 10 minutes, the foreman was knocking on the jury room door advising the court that the jurors had reached a verdict.

At 3:15 p.m. Wade Choate, district clerk, read the verdict — guilty as charged and punishment fixed at 15 years in the state penitentiary.

Next major criminal trial docketed in the court is scheduled for March 9. On that date Robert Larez, indicted for murder with malice in the slaying of Joe Villa last Dec. 28 is scheduled to face the court. It stems from the sensational shooting of Villa on a sunny Sunday afternoon when he and Larez, old enemies, met on North Gregg Street near the Alexander Grocery.

On March 23, Armando Lopez, already convicted this month of assault with intent to rob, faces trial on a charge of armed robbery. In this case, Lopez and Andres Marquez, not yet quite 17 years old, are alleged to have robbed the McClure Service Station on the night of Jan. 7. In the holdup, Gerald D. Limer, 19-year-old night attendant, was shot to death.

Improved Atmosphere In Europe Reported

Hold freedom high in our relations with Europe and we will come out ahead because freedom is unbeatable.

This was the plea of Dr. Philip Deza, Big Spring State Hospital physician, to the Downtown Lions Club on Wednesday. Dr. Deza, who speaks three languages, spent several weeks in Europe last summer, reappraising his impressions of the countries and of the relations between people.

"I wanted to see if the Marshall Plan had had any effect," he said.

Fifteen years after World War I there was an intense nationalism and men still talked with bitterness about certain battles and campaigns.

Dr. Deza said he found last summer that men talked of battles as things of the past and without bitterness. The extreme nationalism was gone. Moreover, there are evidences of economic and interrelations.

For instance, formerly it was unthinkable that a Frenchman would have a Volkswagen, or that a German would have a Renault-Dauphine. Now the automobiles are seen in increasing numbers in either country and some manufacturers have assembly plants in both countries. This economic thaw is rather extensive, the speaker said.

The Europeans are traveling far more than in history, and consequently there is an interest in what is happening to the man behind their immediate borders. This is melting down rabid nationalism.

Can the United States count upon the better feelings it has generated? Dr. Deza thinks so if this nation doesn't make the mistake of trying to buy friendship.

"You have to cultivate and earn friends," he reminded.

The thing the United States can do is to seek to promote good will and most of all to stress freedom.

"Freedom is our main stronghold and if we hold freedom high we will succeed. The one who holds the truth will sooner or later arrive to his final point," he said.

B. M. Keese, president, announced Ladies Night has been set for next Tuesday evening at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Composer Blasts 'Canned' Music

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—American composer William Schuman criticized Wednesday "this poison, with which we are being inundated daily."

"In the dentist's office, on the beach, in the hotel, in the restaurant, everywhere are the incessant sounds of canned music," he told delegates to the Music Teachers National Assn. convention.

Schuman, president of New York's Juilliard School of Music, said "music education in the United States must supply an antidote."

Versatile Hostess Uses Skill Plus Imagination In Her Culinary Art

Two of Mrs. S. M. Smith's preferred activities are cooking and informal entertaining, and among her friends she has built a reputation for cleverness in both.

From her kitchen come delicious concoctions, partly the result of following a recipe but largely the outcome of her own imagination. A case in point might be the tiny cream puffs; she fills each with a different flavor and color of ice cream and ends with a luscious sundae sauce.

The deep freeze at the Smith home, 1300 Runnels, will yield desserts "most any day. Have you ever tried packing a pint of slightly softened ice cream into a 9 inch layer pan and freezing it? This Mrs. Smith does, and, when company comes, she uses it as the filling between two layers of cake. What could be better than chocolate cake cut in wedges, centered with ice cream and topped with chocolate sauce? This trick is particularly satisfactory with lemonade cake, the recipe for which is shared here.

Mrs. Smith, a former school teacher, left the classroom a number of years ago to manage the office of her husband's butane company. The couple has long been active in the First Baptist Church, and she is presently superintendent of the senior department. She is a board member for the Kiwanis-Queens, and gives her Saturday afternoons to volunteer service at the state hospital.

Here are some of the recipes for which she has had numerous requests. Those who attend covered dish suppers at her church will recognize several of Mrs. Smith's specialties:

- CHICKEN A LA RITZ
1 2/4 or 3 lb. frying chicken
3/4 pkg. Ritz crackers, finely crushed
1 tsp. flour

Cut, wash and dry the chicken thoroughly, seasoning each piece with salt and pepper. Melt enough margarine, dip each piece of chicken into it and roll in the cracker crumbs and flour mixture. Place chicken in shallow baking dish, cook for one hour or until done in 350 degree oven; do not turn the chicken.

HUSH PUPPIES

- 1 3 cup all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
Pinch of soda
1/4 cup white cornmeal
1/2 cup onion, finely chopped (if desired)
1 egg
1 cup buttermilk

Mix together the dry ingredients; stir in the egg, slightly beaten. Add buttermilk. Drop by teaspoonful into hot deep fat (350 degrees) and fry until golden brown, turning only once. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot.

For Luncheon

Quick luncheon dish: mix a well-flavored cheese sauce with cooked elbow macaroni and drained flaked tuna. Turn into a deep pie plate, sprinkle with cheese and brown under the broiler.

Cooking Is Experimental

Experimenting with recipes is a rewarding habit for Mrs. S. M. Smith. Sometimes the slightest change of ingredients can make the most surprising difference. She uses few packaged mixes. Salads are great favorites at her house, which accounts for the stockpile of salad recipes in her kitchen.

MEAT LOAF

- 1 lb. ground meat
1 egg, beaten
1 cup cornmeal, crushed
1 cup scalded milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1 small onion, chopped fine
1 tsp. horseradish
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. black pepper
1 cup catsup
Grated rind of 1/4 lemon

Pour scalded milk over cornmeal. Combine meat and egg, add seasonings, catsup or tomato sauce and mix well. Bake at 350 degrees in greased loaf pan for about 1 hour.

PINEAPPLE AVOCADO SALAD

- 1 pkg. lime gelatin
1 pkg. lemon gelatin
1 avocado, mashed to a paste
8 marshmallows, chopped fine
1/2 cup pecans, chopped fine

Soak gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water. Place tomato juice and cream cheese over heat and dissolve. Let it get hot and should it seem lumpy, take an egg beater and smooth while still over heat. Add gelatin, stir well until it dissolves. Place in refrigerator to cool, then add mayonnaise and other ingredients. Stir well.

LEMONADE CAKE

- 2 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
5 eggs, well beaten
3 1/2 cups flour
2 tps. baking powder
Pinch of soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/4 cups sweet milk
1 tsp. lemon extract
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Cream together the sugar and shortening. Add remaining ingredients in the usual order. Bake in loaf pan for 1 hour, 10 minutes at 350 degrees.

Allow cake to cool for a few minutes, then spoon lemon topping over it slowly, allowing it to soak into the cake.

Coffee Cake Pleases Guests

Coffee Cake Pleases Guests

Is there a committee meeting scheduled at your house? Are the teen-agers coming over for a record session?

Light refreshments would be hospitable. How about steaming coffee or delicious hot chocolate served with a freshly baked coffee cake. If there is any left, it can be warmed and spread with butter for a breakfast lift.

ORANGE RAISIN COFFEE CAKE

- Ingredients:
Two large oranges
1 1/2 cup walnut pieces
1 cup seedless raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained)
1 cup ready-to-heat bran
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. double-acting baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup milk
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 large eggs
1 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
1 tsp. cinnamon

Method:
Squeeze juice from oranges; reserve. Grind (fine blade), peel of one orange (including white membrane) with walnut pieces, raisins and bran. Sift together the flour, baking powder, hot water, soda, salt and 1 cup sugar. Add butter and 1/2 cup of the milk; beat vigorously about 2 minutes. Add eggs and remaining 1/2 cup milk; beat 2 minutes more. Fold in ground orange peel mixture.

Turn into greased floured baking pan (12 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until cake tests inserted in center comes out clean.

Pour juice from the 2 oranges over cake; mix 1-3 cup sugar with finely chopped walnuts and cinnamon; sprinkle over cake. Cut in squares in pan and serve warm.

3/4 cup sugar
1 1/4 tsp. salt
2 eggs, well beaten
3/4 cup shortening
6 to 7 cups sifted flour

Chicken Dish Features Odd Partner

Maybe you haven't thought of combining sweet potatoes and chicken into one luscious casserole. It certainly is not a run-of-the-mill idea and might lift your menus out of the rut.

Here is the recipe:

SWEET POTATO-CHICKEN CASSEROLE

- 3 cups diced cooked chicken
4 cups sliced sweet potatoes
1 tsp. salt
3/4 tsp. ground black pepper
3/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
3 tpsps. butter or margarine
2 tpsps. flour
2 cups chicken stock
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. ground ginger
1/4 tsp. ground thyme
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
3 slices bacon

Arrange alternate layers of chicken and sweet potatoes in a 1 1/2-quart casserole, having chicken on bottom layer and potatoes for the top. Sprinkle each layer with salt (using the 1 teaspoon), black pepper and nutmeg mixed together.

Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour. Stir in chicken stock and cook until slightly thickened. Add seasonings. Pour over sweet potatoes and chicken.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes. Fry bacon until about half done and place over the top. Bake until bacon is crisp, about 15 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

With Chicken Curry

Ever heat drained canned pineapple chunks with chutney and butter? Wonderful to serve with chicken curry. Use mango chutney and onion, then add a little of the spicy chutney syrup when the combination is being heated.

Mock Napoleons

Put oblongs of rich baked pastry together with a thick vanilla custard; frost tops with white icing. Melt unsweetened chocolate and make wiblike design by dipping a knife in the chocolate and running it over the frosting.

Barbecue Sauce

Your favorite barbecue sauce recipe, used for outdoor cooking, may be turned to good account indoors: use the sauce with which to baste a meat loaf.

Ham And Beans Make Delectable Winter Meal

Ham and baked beans form the backbone of a wonderful winter meal. You can cut the preparation time considerably by using ready-to-heat ham and canned beans. Here's how:

GLAZED HAM STEAK

- 1 1/2-inch-thick slice ready-to-heat ham
4 tpsps. unsulphured molasses, divided
Slash fat edges of ham to prevent curling. Stud fat edge with whole cloves, if desired. Place in a heavy skillet. Do not add fat or water.

Fancy French Bread

Cut a loaf of French bread into lemon-size halves; butter and sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese. Heat bread, while the cheese melts and browns a little, under the broiler. Let cool a minute or two before slicing and serving.

CHERRY BONBONS

Cherry Bonbons Are Springtime Novelties

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Neatest trick we've come upon recently is this way of baking cherry bonbons—and in good time for springtime tables.

Do you know the jars of maraschino cherries that come with stems? Well, the stemmed cherries are stuffed with small pieces of semi-sweet chocolate, then dipped into batter and baked.

CHERRY BONBONS

- Ingredients:
1 jar (1 pound) maraschino cherries (with or without stems)
1/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1/4 cups sifted flour
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/4 cup corn oil
1/4 cup light brown sugar
1 egg
1/2 tsp. distilled white vinegar or lemon juice
1/4 cup undiluted evaporated milk or light cream
1/4 tsp. vanilla.

Method:
Pour off cherry juice and reserve for frosting; drain cherries on absorbent paper. Stuff a semi-sweet chocolate piece into each cherry. Sift together the flour, baking powder and baking soda; with fork or pastry blender blend in corn oil until mixture looks like fine crumbs.

With rotary beater (hand or electric) beat brown sugar and egg thoroughly. Stir vinegar into undiluted evaporated milk; mix with vanilla into brown sugar-egg mixture. Beat into corn oil-flour mixture about 1-3 at a time, mixing until smooth after each addition. Batter will be thick.

Dip cherries into batter, turning to coat cherry completely. Lift cherries out of batter with a teaspoon and place them one at a time on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 8 to 10 minutes. (Expect stems on cherries to burn a little.) Cool on wire rack. Makes about five dozen bonbons.

To frost bonbons: Gradually stir 1-3 cup maraschino cherry juice into 2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar until mixture is smooth. Spoon frosting over tops of bonbons. This makes a thin covering. Use less liquid and add red food coloring for a thicker frosting.

Note:
1/4 cup commercial sour cream may be used instead of the vinegar or lemon juice and the evaporated milk or light cream.

Fruit, Nuts Spark Rice Pudding

Want to please the men? Then treat them to rice pudding often. They'll love this apricot-pecan version with the tender puffed meringue topping.

RICE PUDDING

- 1/2 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups milk
1/2 tsp. salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
1-3 cup granulated sugar
1 1/2 cups finely chopped, dried apricots
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 tsp. lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 tsp. vanilla

Cook rice and milk over hot water until most of the milk has been absorbed by the rice (about 45 minutes). Stir occasionally. Stir in the salt, egg yolks, sugar, apricots, pecans and lemon juice. Pour into a greased glass baking dish. Bake in a pre-heated 350 degree F. oven for about 30 minutes. Pudding will start to bubble around the sides. It will be of a creamy consistency. Top the pudding with a meringue made from the two egg whites.

MERINGUE

Beat the egg whites until they peak. Add 1/4 cup sugar a little at a time, beating after each addition. Add the vanilla. Beat until whites are very stiff. Spread on the pudding and brown in a 425 degree F. oven for about 8 minutes.

Molasses, Bran Flavor Hot Muffins

Does your family enjoy hot muffins? Here is a recipe that capitalizes on the flavor qualities of molasses and dates.

MOLASSES BRAN MUFFINS

- 1/2 cup shortening
1/4 cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
1 cup bran
3/4 cup milk
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 1/2 tps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup finely cut dates

Blend together shortening and unsulphured molasses. Add egg; beat well. Stir in bran and milk; let stand until most of moisture is taken up.

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to molasses mixture with dates; stir only until blended. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 30 minutes.

YIELD: 12 small muffins.

A Devotional For Today.

Unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. (Ephesians 4:7.)

PRAYER: O God, our Father, as members of the "one body in Christ," help us to come together in our efforts to save the world from sin and suffering. Let us join hands until we encompass the whole world with our love and dedication, in Christ's name. Amen.

Fighting A Windmill

Another tempest in the Jeapop has been raised at Austin with proposals by some House members that all instructors be required to take an oath that they believe in a Supreme Being. This came on the heels of claims that there were atheists teaching in some of our state and church colleges.

When pressed for specific details, the legislators hedged considerably and admitted that a lot of the claims were based on inattention. But he that as it may, such legislation would be ill-advised if not unconstitutional.

The first and 14th amendments of the United States Constitution seem clearly to indicate that the requirement of non-atheistic oaths would be abridging the unlimited right of exercise (or not to exercise) religion. Church colleges certainly can screen their faculties as they see fit on religious matters.

While state-supported teachers have no right under academic freedom to expound their religious views, they do possess the right to hold whatever views they wish. Adherence to this rule is not difficult to obtain. But if you require an atheist to sign an oath, by whom will he swear or affirm? And if he believes in no Supreme Being, perhaps he will have no compulsion of conscience regarding signing any such statement. This is the thing that has made the non-Communist oath so innocuous—the Communist will sign these oaths all day long.

The Legislature has enough problems that it can deal with effectively so that no time is left for such side excursions as this.

Presidential Sweepstakes

In the last several weeks the magazine U. S. News & World Report has polled political leaders and politicians in general on the subject of presidential prospects for next year, and the results of this inquiry are presented in this week's issue.

The Democratic prospective nominees are Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, in that order.

On the Republican side, Richard Nixon, the magazine concludes, is way out front and unlikely to be headed. For a few weeks after his election as governor of New York, Nelson Rockefeller was ahead of Nixon rather decisively, but not any more. Conensus was that Rockefeller's pronouncement in favor of higher New York State taxes had cooled his goose.

But while Nixon is firmly in the lead for the GOP nomination, the figures compiled by USNAWR show he is one percentage point behind Stevenson and 16 percentage points behind Kennedy in the election sweepstakes.

On the basis of the magazine's count of noses, Symington's lead for the Democratic nomination is pretty firm. Nine states with 318 probable convention votes give him a lead over Stevenson, whose percentage points in eight states total 260 probable convention votes. Required to nominate: Stevenson is first in ten states with 230 votes, while Johnson is first in seven states with 208 votes. (But Kennedy was second or third choice with 762 votes, more than any of the other three. Interpretation: Kennedy would be an almost certain choice for vice president if he misses the top honor.)

Johnson has come up rapidly and strongly in pre-convention talk in recent weeks, and the magazine survey indicates he is a serious contender, whether he wants it that way at this stage or not.

In any case, the magazine declares the Democratic nominee will come from this group of four prospects, and barring a reversal Nixon will carry the Republican banner.

Some of the handicaps borne by each of the four in the magazine's check of all 49 states:

Symington, an outspoken advocate of all-out defense preparations, might suffer should the mood of the country be pacifistic in 1960. (On the other hand, if there was an acute international crisis, he might benefit.)

Stevenson, a two-time loser ("We don't want to create another William Jennings Bryan," commented one interviewee, Kennedy, a Catholic, on religious grounds Johnson, on geographical grounds.

Suspending Nuclear Tests Debated

WASHINGTON—The dispute within the Administration over whether to go on trying to reach an agreement with the Russians on suspending nuclear tests is at the boiling point.

While it is almost entirely hidden from public view by top-secret classification and the censor's blue pencil applied to testimony before a Senate subcommittee, a high-level decision may soon be required to resolve it. Here, as in other areas, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' grave illness has removed the authority that might have been invoked.

Reduced to simplest terms, the dispute, which has deeply divided the scientific community, is over whether a detection system can be devised that will detect underground nuclear blasts. Those opposed in any suspension of tests—most of the Pentagon, the Atomic Energy Commission, Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb," and the scientists in his camp—argue that the series of nuclear tests at the Nevada Proving Grounds last fall show that no inspection system can be trusted.

But from an unimpeachable source it has been learned that scientific testimony, later stricken out of the disarmament subcommittee record by the censor, seems to undermine this argument. The two principal points were as follows:

1. In the laboratory, without any further tests, the efficiency of nuclear weapons can be doubled. The ratio of increased efficiency could be even greater than this suggests.

2. Since the nuclear tests in Nevada last fall, designated by the name Hardtack, detection methods, including those for underground tests, have been worked out that promise far greater effectiveness. New techniques of picking up earth waves raise the factor of assured detectability many times.

The witness who gave this testimony was Hans Bethe, one of America's leading physicists, a participant in the early work on the atomic bomb and now a professor at Cornell University. Because of Bethe's position as head of the panel of scientists that appraised Russia's test and detection system, his testimony cannot be easily dismissed.

Furthermore, what Bethe and others have testified to in secret session is that America's present development of nuclear weapons may be sufficiently far in advance of Soviet development so that a test suspension would be to America's advantage. At the very least, it would be a stand-off, with neither side gaining.

Those favoring a policed and controlled inspection believe that besides curbing the deadly atomic fallout, it would be a small beginning toward negotiating a check in the nuclear armaments race.

Dulles, before his illness, was on the side of suspension—the official position of the Eisenhower Administration. The danger in the view of those arguing for a strong U. S. position on suspension, is that the Russians themselves, wanting to continue testing, will use American foot-dragging as a justification for breaking off the talks at Geneva. This is not likely to happen until after Prime Minister Harold Macmillan concludes his visit to Moscow.

So bitter is the division within the scientific community that some scientists fear another explosion like that which saw J. Robert Oppenheimer forced out of government on charges of being a security risk. Teller, whose zeal both as scientist and advocate of weapons of ever-greater destructiveness is legendary, was perhaps as responsible as any single individual for launching the drive on Oppenheimer.

Only flashes of this, like figures suddenly silhouetted against a brilliant light, are revealed to the public. Military witnesses discuss the necessity to accept 30 to 40 million casualties in the United States in a future war, but all this is censored out.

Humphrey has repeatedly fought the censorship, which is fourfold—Defense Department, Air Force, White House and State Department. Nevertheless, most of the testimony falls under the censor's pencil.

Dr. James R. Killian, the President's adviser on science, has given cautious testimony favoring a test suspension. But that, too, is censored out. It is like a debate being held in almost total darkness, with only a voice heard and identified now and then. And as one despairing observer remarked, it is a debate that can determine the future of mankind on this planet. (Copyright 1959, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

Khushy Turning Diplomacy Upside Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev is turning world diplomacy upside down, making a farce of efforts to avoid a Berlin crisis, and acting like a man determined to force President Eisenhower to talk, whether he wants to or not.

Khrushchev wants a summit conference with President Eisenhower, who is reluctant about it. Twice now Khrushchev, just before an Eisenhower news conference, has blasted off in a way bound to get an Eisenhower response the next day.

Last Nov. 27 Khrushchev demanded the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin—they're there under World War II agreements with the Soviet Union—and leave the city's Western zone a "free" city in the heart of Communist Germany.

He indicated if this wasn't done by May 27, the U.S.S.R. would turn all access routes to the city over to the East Germans to do as they pleased.

This means the East Germans could refuse to let men or supplies through, and if the West refused to quit Berlin, there would be a showdown, perhaps shooting, perhaps war.

On Dec. 31 the United States, Britain and France sent a note to Moscow suggesting that they and the Soviet Union have a Big Four meeting to discuss the various problems of Berlin and of East and West Germany which remain divided.

This was the usual, traditional diplomatic way of doing business. On Jan. 10 the Soviets sent an answering note to the West.

The Soviets, brushing aside just a four-power conference, proposed that the Western Big Three and 24 other countries have a conference. So far neither side had yielded anything. They were maneuvering.

On Feb. 16 the Big Three, still following tradition, sent another note to Moscow. They suggested a Big Four foreign ministers conference (this was getting a little more specific on who would do the conferring) on the whole German problem.

It was Khrushchev, not the Soviet Foreign Office, who gave a reply.

That was Feb. 18, one day before Eisenhower's news conference last week. The Soviet premier warned that if the East German tried to block allied shipments to Berlin, and there was shooting, the result would be war.

This was a kind of shocker. It made hash of the Western notes which had been seeking to get together to talk things over. Naturally, Eisenhower was asked about it at his news conference Feb. 19.

Eisenhower didn't back up in the face of Khrushchev's threat. He said the Allies wouldn't abandon their responsibilities to the West Berliners and said that if anyone tried to use force it would not be the West.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan went to Moscow this week to see Khrushchev, try to get events on an even keel, and maybe lay the ground for peaceful solutions on Germany. Khrushchev received him joyfully.

Then on Tuesday, after talking with Macmillan apparently in most friendly fashion, Khrushchev took time out to make another speech. He apparently rejected the idea of a Big Four meeting on German reunification. That's a German problem, he said.

This was strictly not the diplomatic way of doing things, particularly since Macmillan was right there to talk to Khrushchev diplomatically. The British were reported to be shocked by Khrushchev's performance.

And as if to show he didn't have much time for small fry like foreign ministers, Khrushchev, at a reception in the British Embassy, looked at British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd and asked sarcastically, "Where and when did you ever solve anything? How do you justify your post?"

All this occurred just the day before Eisenhower's news conference Wednesday. So once again the President was asked about Khrushchev.

He said any talks with the Soviet Union would be almost useless until Khrushchev changes his refusal to consider Western proposals on Germany.

And he said the West isn't going to give "one single inch in the preservation of our rights and of discharging our responsibilities in this particular region."

So all the diplomatic channels got clogged up and Eisenhower and Khrushchev are doing the talking.

Chevalier Still The Gentleman

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"All the good ideas come from the heart," said Maurice Chevalier.

There are few men his age today who can match France's gay boulevardier in either grace or gratitude.

"I am 71, and have been in show business now for 60 years—yes, I started at 11," he said. "I take my job seriously, because it is my whole life, my whole happiness.

"You have to love a profession that has been so good to you."

Chevalier, who quit a dubious future in a thumbtack factory to become the most durable song-and-dance man of his time, retains a charm that is financial as well as physical. Nearly 30 years ago he was making $20,000 a week, and today is more solvent than the French government, for that matter.

Seated in the living room of his hotel suite, Chevalier is the picture of a timeless, old-fashioned sport. He wore a smart plaid suit whose pattern looks as if it had been woven in Braille. His spring-blue eyes crinkled in a ruddy complexion.

But at 180 pounds, his agile frame gave a slight hint of portliness.

"If I were intelligent, I would weigh a little less," he sighed.

"But I am getting at a moment in my life when it is hard to refuse to eat a little more, or drink a little more, if I feel like it.

"To give way to all the bad instincts that we all have—that is what defeats most people. When I see young artists who are broken by liquor and things like that, it makes me sad.

"I am not a moralist—ah, no!—I only know what is good. I know you never run a risk in doing less of anything tempting, and you always run a risk in doing too much of anything.

"Too much of anything is too much—whether it is virtue or vice."

Chevalier is immensely pleased over the international success of his latest movie.

Despite his light-hearted air, work has been a religion with him. His art is endlessly rehearsed.

But the old boy, now minus his famed straw hat, still wears life like it was a flower in his buttonhole.

"Take exercise? Ah, no!" he shook his head. "But I stopped smoking 25 years ago, and I drink very little.

"Whisky is the best drink—when you can indulge it. It gives you a lift. So"—he laughed—"So you must not drink it until you fall down."

SAFE DRIVING TIP

Drive carefully wherever there are pedestrians. Motorists who roar into a gas station, supermarket parking lot, or a private driveway are endangering adults and children alike, the Chicago Motor Club points out. Maturity and common sense are of little advantage to pedestrians in such a situation.

In shopping centers with large parking areas, this unsafe driving practice is doubly hazardous.

Around The Rim

AMA Replacing Talk With Action

After years of crying "socialism" at every suggestion for bringing medical care within reach of those who can't afford it at existing rates, the American Medical Assn. is coming up with a plan that may actually corral its old bugaboo, socialized medicine.

The AMA, through one of its committees, has suggested to state and county medical societies that they give "earnest consideration" to a plan for providing medical insurance to low income persons over 65 years of age at reduced premium rates.

The House of Delegates of the AMA last December called for the immediate development of such a program, one that would be "acceptable both to the recipients and the medical profession."

While no specific plan has been outlined by the AMA, the organization's Committee on Insurance and Prepayment Plans agreed in general with a program suggested by the Blue Shield insurance group.

It proposed that income ceilings could be flexible according to the economic level of the area served, with a possible range of $1,500 single and $2,500 husband and wife, to $2,000 single and $3,000 for a couple.

The Blue Shield plan suggested in-hospital medical care at $5 per day for the first day, $3 a day for the next 19 days, and $2 a day for the next 100 days. Reduced rates for surgery, anesthesia, and diagnostic services also are contemplated.

This schedule of compensation for the physician would result in an average insurance rate of $2.15 per person per month for the special coverage.

To cut down on the costs of hospitalization, the AMA committee also suggested that a major effort needs to be made to provide an alternative to hospital treatment. Treatment in nursing homes might be one such possibility. Others could be home treatment, or treatment in out-patient clinics.

Everybody has talked about the medical problems of aged, low-income citizens for years. It's good to see that the medical profession is taking the lead in doing something about them.

Do Your Bowling While You Launder

It is a notorious fact that we who live in New York City are always caught in a shameful time lag with what gives west of the Hudson. (Although, as a born Westerner, I KNOW there is land west of the Hudson.)

So the breathless discovery—breathless to me, that is—I made on my recent trip to Missouri may be tired old stuff to the rest of the nation. But, to me, it was a peak in Darien.

When I went to Moberly, Mo., to visit my old friends, William and Catherine Van Cleve, they drove me out to inspect Moberly's newest industry, literally a two-in-one ten-strike.

Some local entrepreneurs in Moberly have combined two of the most disparate industries imaginable, and the financial result is better than a license to steal. Some genius, and I do mean genius, has had the wit to combine a bowling alley and a laundromat.

Now when a Moberly housewife takes the family wash to the laundromat, she is not forced to sit idly by, improving her mind with a movie map or adding to her store of local lore by dishing the dirt with other housewives.

From the gleaming white laundry room, a door opens almost automatically, into the bowling alley. And there the tired and frustrated housewife can, for 45 cents a frame, send the pins sprawling in any of 16 alleys while the machines next door remove the tattle tale gray and then dry the sheets and shirts. It's a great while you wait.

As a result of this farsighted union of self-service laundry and leisure, the bowling alley is jumping day and night. There is always a waiting list, signed up, to get at the lanes and the laundry. And for those who are impatiently waiting for either, the owners of both have thoughtfully provided recreation lest the devil find work for idle hands.

The bowling alley is equipped with three pinball machines, a miniature bowling lane, a scale that also pierces the veil of the future and provides horoscopes, a machine that automatically scrubs and purifies your bowling ball and a sales force to sell any kind of bowling equipment from shoes to balls.

Nor is this all. Automatic food and drink vending machines make it unnecessary for the washer-bowlee to leave the premises if assailed by the pangs of hunger. Hot and cold drinks are available, and the large and rather formidable machine that dispenses a variety of sandwiches for a variety of prices is haughtily labeled "Buffet."

These adjuncts to gracious living on the premises make it unnecessary for the housewife to go home for dinner if her husband is also a bowler and cares to join her for a hot frank and a frame. All in all, the new combo is a beautiful inducement to togetherness.

However, it is only fair to report that mechanization, widespread though it is, is not yet king. While I was visiting friends in Missouri, their daughter, who was graduated summa cum laude from a famous college, came home so Aunt Inez could see her infant son.

With great enthusiasm she told her mother and me of a new and handy gadget she had just discovered, a time-saver that kept her from running so often to the laundromat.

"It's called a washboard," she warbled enthusiastically, "and it has a corrugated glass inset. All I do is just rub a little and the clothes are clean! Isn't that marvelous?"

Menshikov's Meddling In U. S. Affairs

WASHINGTON—Sen. J. William Fulbright, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has denied the report published in the Soviet government's weekly, "New Times," which gave the impression that the Arkansas senator had told a Communist writer softer treatment of Soviet Russia by the United States could be expected if the Democrats should win the 1960 presidential election.

The article in the "New Times" was written by Stanislav Menshikov, son of the Soviet ambassador here, while visiting in Washington recently. Inasmuch as the ambassador's son was writing for a Soviet government publication and was himself a part of the Soviet embassy entourage during his four-month stay in the United States, the publication of this article, impugning on American politics, becomes the responsibility also of the head of the embassy, Mikhail Menshikov.

This correspondent at first was under the impression that it was the Soviet ambassador who had the interview with Sen. Fulbright and mistakenly wrote it that way but corrected his dispatch an hour later upon learning that the author of the article was the son of the ambassador.

Unquestionably the ambassador, however, was familiar with the mission of his son in approaching Sen. Fulbright for the interview on politics and must have known the nature or contents of the article finally transmitted to Moscow for publication in the government-controlled "New Times."

For an even less tenuous connection with American politics, a British envoy was expelled from Washington by the United States government many years ago.

In this instance, Sir Lionel Sackville-West, British minister to Washington, sent a letter marked "private" to an American who had asked what would be the best way for a naturalized citizen, formerly of Great Britain, to vote in the presidential election of 1958. The minister wrote that it would be to the best interests of Great Britain if the vote were cast for Grover Cleveland. The letter was made public through friends of the recipient. Though any intent to interfere in American politics was disclaimed by the British minister, he was promptly handed his passport by order of President Cleveland. But the damage was done, and Mr. Cleveland was defeated in that campaign largely because of the opposition of anti-British groups.

Meddling in American politics by any diplomatic representative of a foreign government has always been considered by the United States government as an improper activity.

In an early instance, "Citizen" Genet, the diplomatic representative of the French government, criticized the United States in public for issuing a proclamation of neutrality in the war then going on between France and Great Britain.

When he threatened to appeal over the head of President Washington to the American people, his recall was requested by the secretary of state, Thomas Jefferson.

In 1962, the Soviet government itself requested the recall of Ambassador George Kuznetsov because of some remarks he made to the press while in Bonn, Germany. These comments were critical of the Soviet government, which, in a formal note, declared that he had committed "a rude violation of the generally recognized norms of international law."

To this, Secretary of State Acheson replied that the Soviet itself had disregarded the rules of international intercourse and that what Mr. Kennan had said was true. Anyway, the recall, of course, took effect, as it is the custom to comply with the requests of other governments when they declare any member of an embassy or legation to be "persona non grata" or unacceptable any longer to the resident government.

Mikhail Menshikov, the present Soviet ambassador, has violated the rules in more ways than one. He refused last November, for instance, while at the Department of State to listen to a tape recording which dealt with the crash of an American unarmed airplane in which 17 Americans were killed. To refuse to accept a part of any communication submitted in diplomatic intercourse and, in effect, to challenge its veracity is to offer an insult to the resident government. For ambassadors are regarded as channels of communication and, if these are inoperative, there is little use in continuing to receive the same ambassador as an accredited representative of his government.

FM Radio Shows Remarkable Growth

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the fastest growing entertainment media in the country today is FM radio.

A basic reason is that a rapidly increasing number of adults who enjoy listening to "good," though not necessarily "classical" music are failing to find it on their regular local AM radio stations.

There are now 579 FM stations on the air. Last year the Federal Communications Commission issued 127 new construction permits and only 22 stations went off the air. Today there are 70 FM applications pending. A year ago there were 39. Five years ago there were only four.

After a period in the doldrums resulting from the impact of television, the revival of FM reflects a growing public demand for high fidelity music reproduction. One who grows accustomed to hi-fi music often is not satisfied with the musical tones heard on AM radio, which generally cuts off at from 5,000 to 8,000 cycles.

Most TV audio reception is equally constricted.

But an FM station operates in a wider frequency band than AM. Normally utilizing a range up to 15,000 cycles, its signal is almost free of static and can be heard in fuller dynamic range. Subdued musical passages don't have to battle background noise and there is less distortion in loud passages.

Experts in industry and government say that the present comeback of FM also reflects the terrific crowding of the AM band. The fact that TV no longer is novelty, and the opportunity of an FM station to make real money for the first time.

The profit lies in "subsidiary authorizations" which the FCC started granting three years ago. Under these authorizations, stations can sell "background music" services to stores, factories and the like without advertising content. Because of the very wide FM channel, a station can simultaneously handle two different programs—one for the general public and the other for special service subscribers.

FM is a development by the late Dr. Edwin H. Armstrong of Alpine, N.J., who had difficulties in launching his brainchild of the 1930s. The FCC authorized 35 commercial channels and five educational effective Jan. 1, 1941.

The National Assn. of Broadcasters estimates that there are 15 million FM sets in use in this country today. Of this total, 12 million are estimated to be in American homes. This means that 24 per cent of all homes contain at least one FM receiver.

Little Rock School Man Due New Job

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Trustees of the North East School District are reported to have agreed on hiring Virgil L. Blossom, former Little Rock school superintendent, as superintendent of the suburban district's schools.

The trustees were expected to announce at a meeting scheduled today the appointment for Blossom to the post effective July 1. Although no salary has been announced amounts mentioned ran from $14,000 to $20,000 per year.

William C. Reader, the present superintendent of the district in a suburban district northeast of San Antonio, has announced he will not be a candidate for reappointment when his contract expires June 30.

Blossom was author of the court-approved Little Rock school integration plan. After Gov. Orval Faubus closed the school, the Little Rock School Board bought up Blossom's contract and he resigned.

DEAR- ABBY

BETTER DENTURES

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When the lights go out I like to give my wife a bedtime kiss. Did you ever kiss a woman with her teeth out? Well that's my problem I can tell you it isn't very much fun. She used to wear her teeth to bed but lately she takes them out because she says they hurt her. I tell her to get them fixed but she says they don't bother her that much. Be a pal, Abby, and help me out. NOT SATISFIED

DEAR NOT: Cajole, threaten or bribe but get the little woman to the dentist who made her dentures. A tiny bit of adjusting can make a whale of a difference in your domestic relations.

DEAR ABBY: I am too ashamed to sign my name to this letter but I hope you will print it in the paper because I need an answer and I don't know where to turn. My eleven-year-old son is getting to be a very clever thief. I give him a generous allowance and if he'd ask for anything extra he would get it, but he seems to enjoy stealing. He steals from his friends, the grocer, the drug-gist and he will even go into my purse and steal money. I see things in his drawer I know he didn't buy. I've threatened to take him to the police station frighten him but nothing helps. Oh, Abby, am I raising a criminal? Please help a broken-hearted mother.

BROKEN-HEARTED
DEAR BROKEN-HEARTED: A child who steals merely for the thrill of stealing should get professional help. He can be straightened out if he is taken in hand early. Threatening him with punishment by law is unwise. A policeman should be identified as a friend whose duty is to protect us and our property — not as an enemy who takes pleasure in punishing our wrongdoing. Ask your family doctor whom to see.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wife who comes home with an expensive item like a dress or handbag and announces, "This is my Christmas present from you." Sometimes it's "my anniversary present" or "my birthday present" or some other special-day present. In the 16 years that we have been married I haven't been able to buy her one gift because she beats me to it by three months. As an excuse she says she wants to make sure she gets something she likes. I resent it. What can I do about it? HENPECKED

DEAR HENPECKED: If you've been "henpecked" in this manner for 16 years, I'd say you were a pretty dumb cluck. Tell the little shopper that the next "gift" she buys herself she will have to pay for or return.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is always the "life of the party" but he will be the death of me. He will do anything to get a laugh, including putting a lamp shade on his head and doing the

"hootchie-kootchie" dance. I am the quiet type and hate to see him make a fool of himself. How can I get him to be more dignified? He is almost 50 and ought to know better. EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If your husband enjoys himself and others enjoy him, there is no reason to feel that he is "making a fool" of himself. Let him have a good time.
