How Space Probe Is Due To Miss Moon

This drawing indicates how the little space probe called Pioneer IV is due to fly past the moon, according to preliminary estimates by scientists. Estimates were that the 13-pound cone would miss the moon by 37,000 miles, continuing toward and into orbit around the sun. The drawing is necessarily not to scale.

New Hospital's Dedication Set

LAMESA (SC) — Formal opening and dedication of the Medical Arts Hospital in Lamesa is set for Saturday.

The 66-bed hospital was erected and equipped at a cost of $800,000, financed equally by Dawson County and by Hill-Burton federal funds. The building itself cost $600,000 and is semi-irradiation proof with brick exterior and weight bearing tile walls. Floors are terrazzo tile and halls have a 50-inch ceramic wainscoting.

Patent accommodations will be divided into three main functional groups of obstetrical, surgical and medical-pediatrics. The building is completely air conditioned and each room may be controlled individually. Patient rooms have connecting or private toilet facilities. Rooms have audio-visual communications with the nurses' stations and there are connections for telephone, oxygen and other special services.

African Nationalists Routed By British

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP) — Strong security forces today tried to crush a wave of militant African nationalists. The British government charged was instigated to massacre white settlers.

The rioters were accused of using women and children as human shields in a raid on a prison at Mzimba to free a number of African nationalists.

Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd defended the proclamation of a state of emergency in the protectorate populated by 3 million blacks and only 6,000 whites. He declared the government had uncovered African plans for a massacre.

Mobile security forces, racing to far-flung trouble spots to put down every show of resistance, appeared to be gaining the upper hand.

More State Aid, Not Higher Tuition, Dr. Hunt Suggests

By BOBBY HORTON
College costs can and should be carried as much as possible by local taxation, but the state must give more aid to colleges, says Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College.

Dr. Hunt says that he will have no part in placing more expense on students by raising tuition fees, as has been suggested recently by a West Texas newspaper.

The newspaper, reasoning that taxpayers are overburdened and should not be assessed with more and more taxes to help support overcrowding colleges, said that more of the financial burden should be shifted to the students and their parents.

It contended that those were the ones who gained more, directly, from the college than anyone else.

The assumption, it was said, that the taxpayers of this or any other state owe every youngster a college education is completely cockeyed. The philosophy that the intellectually unprepared and the campus loafers have as much right to four years in college as the intellectually prepared and serious students is as wrong as can be, said the author in an editorial.

SLIDING SCALE
One thing the author suggested in remedy was that a sliding schedule be set up by which the individual student, by his own scholastic record, sets his own tuition charges.

In other words, charge a higher minimum tuition for all, but after the first semester, let only those whose high grades entitle them — say the top ten per cent — pay the minimum. Hike tuition for the next lowest 20 per cent ranking, more for the next 20 per cent, etc.

By this a student making poor grades would pay more than the high-ranking student; the article said this would separate the academic sheep from the academic goat while raising additional funds for the college. It allowed that adjustments would have to be made to balance the harder courses and the "snap" courses.

Hunt greeted the plan with pessimism. He said he believed that as many able students failed to go to college because of the costs, as were enrolling yearly. Too, he said, some people think that education is a luxury rather than a necessity.

An educated individual pays dividends of 20 to one, in dollars invested, he added. And more burden on the students' shoulders would be like "killing the goose that laid the golden egg."

The HCJC president also pointed out that the local college received as little as two-sevenths the state aid per student as higher institutions, but did an equally good or better job.

Two college instructors were of the opinion that the sliding schedule had possibilities, but that it still could be improved upon.

UNFAIRNESS
Dr. Marvin Baker, assistant to the college president, said that he, too, had always been against placing more expense upon the student.

The $50 tuition required now, he said, prevents many a young man from setting foot in the college classroom.

A local college student, Don Anderson, a graduate from Big Spring High School and a track athlete who receives a tuition scholarship, said:

"It would be unfair if one guy is smart and can make B's and another fellow works hard but can get only C's, why discriminate against the C student? I just don't think paying according to the grades would be a good solution."

Other students argue thusly: the proposition assumes that poor students will be able to scrape around and come up with that extra $25-$50. A tide of the "average" students could drop from college rolls. And, they ask, who has proven that the "brains" make a better contribution to the world than the graduate who has plugged along making C's and an occasional B?

One individual at the college offered a look at California's junior college setup. There, junior college schooling is free, tax-supported locally with a certain amount of state aid according to the economic index.

The difference is that California junior colleges come under secondary education administration, while Texas junior colleges are under a higher education administration.

California is the only state with such a system. It has more junior institutions — 70, whereas Texas has 45 — with some 414,945 total enrollment, almost half of the enrollment in junior colleges in the nation. Texas enrollment stands about 68,700.

Part of the enrollment strength can be attributed to the state's high population, but, as this individual pointed out, the junior colleges draw a large number to the state.

Water, Temper Boil Quickly In Bolivia

By BEN MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody gets mad in this country when somebody says "Let's give New York back to the Indians."

With the volatile Bolivians, it's different. If a U.S. magazine quotes a U.S. Embassy official as wisecracking that the country ought to be abolished, then riots break out.

There is a saying in La Paz, about 12,000 feet up in the mountains, that water boils quickly there, and so do tempers.

Bolivia has had a history studded with troubles. It once formed a part of the Inca empire and was seized by the Spaniards in 1538. The natives were killed or put in practical serfdom.

Rich mines once made Bolivia a source of wealth, and of speedy population growth. Potosi, a mining town founded in 1545, rose to a population of 160,000 in 1650, was once the largest city in the New World. As mines gave out, its population fell to 8,000 by 1825.

Independence came to Bolivia in 1825, and the country has been fighting much of the time since.

In a war with Chile, Bolivia lost its Pacific seacoast area. After a terrible war with Paraguay, which decimated the male populations of both nations, Paraguay emerged in possession of most of a disputed area known as El Gran Chaco. The three-year war ended in 1935.

Bolivians say their country was despoiled by tin barons who lived like princes in Paris and other European capitals while the Indian miners died of starvation, malnutrition and overwork.

In recent years, the country's president, Hernan Siles, has come to be regarded as one of the ablest and most conscientious chief executives in Latin America. Everyone agrees also he has had a job of tremendous difficulties.

The country has been plagued by economic troubles, political strife, a few plots, and low living standards. Things seem to have improved, however, since Siles took over in August 1956.

The job in Bolivia, however, is so tremendous that the country still faces many problems. That is why the United States has made grants to Bolivia of about 139 million dollars since 1953.

DEAR ABBY YES, BUT NOT YOU!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: One of my best friends is going steady with a boy she can hardly stand. She started going steady with him just to be able to say she was going steady. Sometimes she doesn't even wear his ring. Now she doesn't even have the decency to tell him she hates him. I feel sorry for him. Don't you think somebody ought to tell him?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: It is up to the girl herself to break off with the boy if she "can't stand him." A friend who acts as a bridge between a girl and her boyfriend can expect to get stepped on.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very nice man. He is only 36 but he looks much older because when he takes off his hat he is bald as a billiard ball. I am sort of ashamed to bring him around to meet my parents because I know they'll think he is much older. He has a good job, goes to church regularly and treats me nice. I like everything else about him but I am wondering about this bald business. Do you think it is important or not?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: Don't be influenced by anything as transient as hair. Tell them he had a "crew cut"—but the "crew" bailed out.

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl who works with me. She is about 37 and single. She said she had lost a little weight and it made her knit suit baggy on her in one particular place. I asked her why she didn't get one of those girdles with a foam rubber seat. She said she didn't think her boyfriend would like it. I told her if her boyfriend knew her well enough to notice it and remark about it she should know him well enough to tell him why she was wearing a false bottom. Besides, some girls wear false tops, so what's wrong with a false bottom? She got mad at me and doesn't speak. How can I make up with her without telling her I was wrong, which I still think I was not.

CHARLOTTE

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Offer a simple apology like, "I'm sorry," but don't rehash the issue.

DEAR ABBY: To "burned up" waitress who complained because the old folks left no tips, just a hankie at Christmas. I had an experience as a waitress that I will never forget. A woman came into the cafe with a little child. They were clean but shabby looking. They sat at a table where there was salt, pepper, ketchup, crackers and sugar and cream. I brought two glasses of water and a menu. She asked me to please heat a glass of water and bring only a bowl and spoon. Curious, I watched her. She put the ketchup, hot water, salt, pepper and cream (intended for coffee) into the bowl. She mixed it and gave it to the child. I saw her open her purse and take out her last dime to leave me a tip. I was glad I had a job and wasn't the one who had to make "tomato soup" for my child.

THANKFUL

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAB DRIVER: Your wife could use some improvement in the department. Set a better example.

Wreck Results In Suit For Damages

A suit asking $15,000 damages as result of a car accident on last Dec. 9, was filed in 118th District Court on Tuesday.

Curtis W. Saunders is the plaintiff and he names Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith as defendants.

The petition recites that on the date named, Mrs. Esther I. Saunders was driving her car southward. At the intersection of Gollard and E. 10th St., she brought the car to a halt to heed a red signal light. The plaintiff contends that Mrs. Smith, in another car, crashed into the rear of the Saunders' car. As a result is alleged Mrs. Saunders was injured and that she is entitled to $15,000 damages.

A spokesman said AURA officials have long been intrigued with the idea of space telescopes which they say would permit them to get better, clearer pictures of distant stars.

But he said such a development is many years in the future after many engineering problems have been solved and that the Kitt Peak project is still the group's major undertaking.

Library Workshop Planned

Librarians To Attend Sul Ross College Conference

Mrs. Opal McDaniel, librarian at the Howard County Library, and Mrs. Miller Harris, high school librarian, have already made their reservations to attend the second annual Library Workshop scheduled at Sul Ross College, Alpine. The workshop will be on March 20 and 21.

It is possible that several other librarians from city schools will also attend but plans of these were not completed. Paul Vagi, Howard County Junior College librarian, said he did not plan to attend.

Delegates to the workshop will have an opportunity to view the new Aldrich Collection, recently acquired by Sul Ross. This was announced by Dr. Warren Baxley, former Big Spring, and director of the library.

The meeting is expected to draw librarians and teachers from all of West Texas, as well as others interested in improving the reading standards of West Texas.

Registration is to begin on Friday morning, March 20, in the Fine Arts Building on the campus. Outstanding speakers and others in the field will make up the program, which is designed to call attention to reading problems in schools and public libraries of West Texas.

On Friday afternoon, a reception will be held in the new Aldrich Room in the library.

"The Aldrich Collection of rare Texana and Southwest materials is one of the outstanding collections in the State," Dr. Baxley said. "The collection has been valued at more than $50,000 and brings many materials of early Texas to Sul Ross that are not available in any other part of Texas."

Capt. Roy W. Aldrich was a wealthy Texas Ranger whose hobby was the collection of rare books, and his collection is now an invaluable source for writers and scholars of early Texas, Dr. Baxley said.

Dr. Baxley lived in Big Spring for many years and finished Big Spring High School. He has recently returned to West Texas after an absence of many years. At Sul Ross, he is director of the Sul Ross Library and an assistant professor of English.

Trailer Burglary Is Discovered, Many Items Stolen

Belated report of a burglary reached the sheriff's office on Tuesday.

Sometime between Nov. 15 and March 3, thieves broke into a trailer house at Sand Springs. When Mrs. W. E. Milam, owner, returned to check on Tuesday she found the following items missing:

One record-player phonograph, two Dearborn air conditioners; one 31-inch electric range; one Army foot locker filled with women's summer clothing.

The articles had been left stored in the trailer, Mrs. Milam told the officers. She did not see them between Nov. 15 and yesterday.

More Candidates In School Races

First-woman candidate to enter the school board election derby in the county filed her name with the county judge on Tuesday afternoon.

She is Mrs. Mary O. Thomas who is a candidate for a place on the Knott school board.

Two Forsan candidates also filed on Tuesday. They are L. T. Shoultz and J. B. Anderson.

Town Repeals 'Skin' Diving Law

HOPEDALE, Mass. (AP)—After studying the matter for two years, a committee recommended Tuesday the repeal of a town bylaw which tacitly permits bathing in the nude after dark.

The law reads: "That no person in a state of nudity shall bathe in any of the waters of this town between the hours of sunrise and sunset or in places exposed to public view, or near any dwelling."

BREAK THE CHAIN LAXATIVE HABIT

Millions find gentle, safe relief with Kellogg's All-Bran and milk

For irregularity caused by lack of bulk

Wouldn't you like to rid yourself of harsh laxative drugs and find a safe, gentle way to natural regularity?

You can, you know, because there is a way, a delicious way, the Kellogg's All-Bran way. And every year more and more people discover that this good cereal food can do for them what laxative drugs never could.

Actually, there's a good reason why Kellogg's All-Bran works when laxative drugs don't. You see, one of the common causes of irregularity is lack of bulk in the diet. So the laxative drugs which contain no bulk can do nothing to correct the cause of the trouble.

Kellogg's All-Bran, on the other hand, is a whole bran cereal. And since bran is nature's best bulk-forming food, just a half a cup of nutritious Kellogg's All-Bran with milk provides all of the good bulk food needed for consistent, natural regularity.

So try Kellogg's All-Bran yourself. You'll feel better than you have in years. Just see if you don't!

Treasury Inflation, Investor Fears Make For Vicious Circle

Editor's note: One of the government's biggest problems is financing a record national debt of 286 billion dollars without fostering inflation. This is the second of four articles on debt management, discussing "fiscal discipline."

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury is promoting inflation of the money supply just as surely as if it were printing paper greenbacks.

The Treasury doesn't like this, of course, because it could lead to inflation of the whole economy. At the moment, however, it sees no clear way out.

Investor fears of rising interest rates and inflation have made it difficult — if not impossible — for Uncle Sam to borrow needed billions on a long term basis, or even for an intermediate period like five years. As a result, he has had to concentrate on getting short term loans which are much more inflationary.

Many of these loans, which come due in three months to three years, are kissing cousins of greenbacks and they create a paradox.

Uncle Sam has trouble getting less-inflationary long term loans, partly because of inflation fears. So he borrows on a short term basis and thus reinforces the very fears which are compounding his problem.

For Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, this is a bitter irony. Anderson is so vocal a foe of inflation that Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) recently accused him of being obsessed on the subject.

The Treasury chief is acutely aware that he, through his department, is helping to increase the inflation potential he decries. The secretary's dilemma stems from the fact that the banks are the principal source of short term loans.

Anderson has made a point of acquainting a number of recent visitors with the relationship between bank loans and inflation. He has done so in hopes of gaining missionaries for a balanced budget, which he regards as part of the basic solution to his problem.

The secretary begins by asking the visitor's opinion on "monetization of the debt." He has found that a surprising number of government and business leaders are puzzled by the term. In such cases, he launches into a simple explanation.

Assume the Treasury borrows a million dollars from a Washington bank. What is involved?

The Treasury gives the bank a piece of paper — a government security—which says Uncle Sam has borrowed a million dollars and will repay in so many years at a fixed rate of interest. Because the worth of this piece of paper is vouched for by Uncle Sam, it assumes real value and is listed among the bank's assets.

On the liability side of the bank's ledger is written an offsetting entry. The bank sets up a new deposit of one million dollars against which the government can write checks to pay its bills.

Anderson asks, where did the bank get this million dollars? Did it take the cash out of someone else's account and give it to the Treasury?

The answer is that it got the money from no one. It created one million dollars worth of credit on the strength of the Treasury's I.O.U.

At this point the visitor is apt to comment, "That's just like printing greenbacks, and I'm against that."

Carrying the illustration further, as soon as the government writes checks against that deposit, money which didn't exist before goes into circulation.

This is inflation of the money supply.

Monetization of debt doesn't have to be bad. Bank credit—another term for it—should expand in line with the growth of the economy. Otherwise there might not be enough money around to finance essential business operations and construction.

However, if bank credit outpaces economic growth, inflationary pressures build up.

Has this happened?

The active money supply is measured in terms of the total amount of cash plus deposits in checking accounts. At the end of 1958, the figure was just over 143 billion dollars compared with about 138½ billions a year earlier. This was an increase of about 3½ per cent and was approximately in line with economic growth, as measured by the gross national product.

On a longer range basis, developments in this sphere have been even less alarming from the standpoint of inflation potential. Since 1955, cash and checking deposits have increased 3½ per cent while the national product has advanced more than 7 per cent.

The picture could change for the worse this year, however, if the Treasury continues to do most of its borrowing on a short term basis. The "greenbacks" could get out of hand.

Saw Signs Of Age

Diane Brewster finds that make-believe old age has alerted her to the dangers of growing old ungracefully. So she follows a daily routine to prevent a double chin and sagging facial muscles.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

There's A Routine To Avoid Double Chin

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD Diane Brewster is still in her twenties, but for her mother role in 'The Philadelphia' she is middle-aged. When I lunched with her recently at Warner Bros. she was eager to talk of this experience. 'It's fascinating watching the make-up men work,' Diane began. 'They have cleverly made a study of the aging process, and it is frightening to look in the mirror. It is so natural. I'm in the make-up chair for hours, and when they have finished, all my youthfulness is concealed. 'The make-up men say the eyes are the first to lose your youthfulness. As one grows older the eyes get smaller and are surrounded by wrinkles. In making me up plastic wrinkles are used. 'Then wishbone lines are drawn on each side of my mouth with a pencil and powder applied over them. You can't really see them too plainly, but they register on camera. 'Then they go to work on the chin-line, making it saggy and giving the effect of a double chin. They do a wonderful job of making the neck lined and wrinkled. When they get through it really looks like deep creases. 'This has made me realize as nothing else that I'm going to take that ounce of prevention. You will find me using cream around my eyes and doing exercises, to prevent a double chin, every night. I have already bought a special throat cream. 'I have a magnifying mirror—the best I could buy,' Diane said. 'This picture has made me the stitch-in-time girl.' I asked Diane about the anti-double chin exercises. 'There was a character actress on the set with the firmest jawline I've ever seen on woman past 30. She told me that she had started doing exercises as a young girl. It seems everyone in her family had a double chin, and she was determined she would not look like them when she grew older. So I have taken her routines and I am practicing them faithfully.' Diane concluded.

PREVENT THAT DOUBLE CHIN

How is your facial contour? There is nothing which robs a face of its youthfulness faster than a double chin. If you feel you are beginning to get flabby, get to work with Diane Brewster's anti-double chin routines. With these brand new exercises in Leaflet M-21, 'Prevent That Double Chin,' you'll strengthen your facial and chin muscles and prevent those sagging lines. For your copy of this important leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of the Big Spring Herald. Be sure to ask for Leaflet M-21.

Symington Gets Job Of Policing Space Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — An assignment to police the efforts to conquer space gave Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) an expanded forum today to display his wares as possible 1960 presidential aspirant.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas appointed Symington Tuesday to head a subcommittee to inquire into possible duplications among 14 government agencies with authority and responsibility in the field of outer space.

It will be the job of the Symington subcommittee to determine what each of the agencies is doing, head off conflicts in authority, and recommend legislation to the Senate.

In this field, Symington will be enlarging the base of his operations as the chief congressional critic of the administration's defense program. He has contended that because of what he says soon will be a substantial lag behind the Soviets in missile development "we are now faced with the problem of survival."

The fall, graying senator from Missouri at 57 has made something of a political career out of long-time efforts to jack up the nation's defenses.

As long ago as 1950 he resigned as secretary of the Air Force under President Harry S. Truman in protest against what he called "armament reductions for the sake of budget balancing." The Missouri senator thus can claim a kind of consistency on this issue that doesn't always mark the record of some of his potential rivals for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

In a Senate which boasts at least three of these Symingtons has been notable for sticking largely to the subject of defense while other possible contenders have spread their talents widely.

Occasionally Symington dabbles in other matters. He has tried to make himself an expert on farm issues, for instance, because agriculture pursuits are important not only in Missouri but in many other states with substantial electoral votes. But mostly he talks about defense needs.

This is in sharp contrast to Sens. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) and John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), who speak about and issue statements on almost any topic.

Sen. Johnson, as majority leader, is involved in nearly every issue that comes before Congress. He has covered the field in his own "state-of-the-union" speeches.

Turner Exits Film After Studio Fuss

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A dispute between Lana Turner and Director Otto Preminger has caused the actress to withdraw from a choice role in Preminger's movie, "The Anatomy of a Murder."

Miss Turner said Monday night she was withdrawing because of Preminger's temper. But the director-producer said the dispute was over costumes she was to wear in the movie.

Shooting is scheduled to begin March 23 and Preminger says will be no delay. "I'll take an unknown for the part and make her known to another Lana Turner," he said.

CRITIQUE Of The Local Entertainment Scene

By Bob Smith

All-U.S. Chorus Time Again

One of the greatest friendship winners this nation has had overseas is the All-America Chorus, a non-profit, privately financed organization which spends not one cent of Uncle Sam's money.

Volunteer members give their time and talent without pay, and meet their own expenses. All their concerts are given free to the overseas public. This is cultural missionary work of the highest order, something that has been sorely needed to fill the gap between impersonal giveaway programs and the bad feelings created by too many American tourists.

It won't be long before James Allen Dash, the Baltimore gentleman who organizes and underwrites the chorus, will be calling once more for volunteers.

In the meantime, if you're interested in spreading a little good into the far corners of the earth, you might want to check with two Big Springers who spent last summer with the chorus in Europe. They are Ira Schantz, head of the voice department at H.C.J.C., and Joyce Howard, public schools music teacher.

Abilene Goes 'Norwegian'

News from surrounding towns: In Abilene a rather unique project is under way. The Abilene Symphony and the Abilene Rotary Club, under the chairmanship of Conductor Walter Charles, have started the first of a series of "Salutes to the Free Peoples of the World."

The object of the program is to strengthen the bonds of free people by learning more about their way of life.

On March 10, Oslo, Norway, will be the first of the cities to be saluted when the Abilene Symphony opens the week of activities with a concert of music by Norwegian composers Edvard Greig and Klaus Egge. The mayor has proclaimed the week of March 10th "Norway Week."

During the week there will be displays by business firms—the 168 churches of Abilene will devote a portion of their service to an understanding of Norway. The public schools will make a special study of Norway. The colleges will make contact with colleges in Nor-

Daily Average Oil Production Drops

TULSA (AP)—The daily average production of crude oil dropped 4,932 barrels to 7,212,709 during the week ended Feb. 28, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma was down 10,600 barrels to 563,700. Arkansas had the top increase, 2,175 to 79,165 barrels.

The Journal estimated 1959 production at 422,453,360 barrels compared to 403,461,011 a year ago.

Increases were reported for Louisiana, 1,115 to 943,615, and Colorado, 300 to 29,200.

Production was unchanged in Texas at 2,882,500 barrels and New Mexico at 290,600.

Death Rings Down Curtain For Noted Comic Lou Costello

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death called the final cue for chubby comedian Lou Costello while, by coincidence, Bud Abbott watched a TV movie of the team's famed "Who's on First" routine.

"Tell me, why was I watching that picture at that particular time? I never watch it. After all, I've seen it a thousand times."

Abbott, who had seen little of his old sidekick since their split-up in 1957, cried Tuesday as he told how he received the news of Costello's death at 53.

A heart attack — his second within a week — took Costello's life only minutes after he had sent his wife home from the hospital with a wisecrack to cook dinner for the couple's youngest child.

He turned to a nurse and said he wanted to be rolled over on his side.

"I think I'll be more comfortable," were his final words.

Thus ended the comedy career of a modern day Pagliacci who clowned through a personal life filled with illness and tragedy.

In the decade from 1943 to 1953, Costello suffered six serious illnesses—four of them rheumatic fever attacks — and the tragic drowning of his only son. Infant Lou Costello Jr. wandered into the family swimming pool in 1943.

Abbott and Costello performed their famous "Who's on First" baseball routine five times for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who told them it was his all-time comedy favorite.

Costello, who was born in Paterson, N.J., was a burlesque comic when he teamed up with Abbott in 1930. Abbott was drafted from the cashier's office when Costello's straight man failed to show up. The team clicked from the start.

Once they hit their stride in Hollywood they turned out a string of box office hits that put them among the top 10 money makers in the movies for most of the decade from 1941 to 1951.

Their films, including "Buck Privates," "In the Navy," "Mexican Hayride," "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein," and "Hold That Ghost," helped keep Universal-International Studio afloat during one movie depression.

But they kept little. They got into trouble with the income tax people, lived high, and loved to gamble.

Ironically, Costello's death came after he had taken his last comic pratfall. He recently confided that he wanted to be a serious dramatic actor.

He had done two such portrayals on TV shows and got good public reaction. His next movie projects would have had him playing the screen life of the late colorful mayor of New York, Fiorello La Guardia, to whom Lou bore resemblance, and a priest.
