

Scene Of Devastation

This was the scene on the Imperial Highway near Norwalk, Calif., after a truck, right, loaded with migratory workers smashed into two autos. Police said the brakes on the truck apparently failed as it was coming off the Santa Ana Freeway. Rescue workers at left bend over some of the injured. Police said two persons were killed and 29 injured.

Events Are Moving Swiftly In Africa

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Things are moving swiftly in darkest Africa. Map makers are having a hard time keeping abreast of changes south of the Sahara as former colonies gain independence and others fight for it.

Outbreaks of violence and spreading discontent in widely separated African dependencies of European powers foreshadow acceleration in the struggle for self-rule by African peoples.

Since Jan. 1 there has been news of trouble and strife, much of it serious and some of it aimed against colonial regimes, in such areas as the Belgian Congo, Rhodesia, Somalia, Nyasaland, the French Congo and the Union of South Africa. There is little doubt that more trouble impends. Africa is in ferment.

In the last three years three African countries have acquired independence south of the Sahara and joined the U.N. In 1960, according to present schedules, four more countries in this area will become independent.

The last few months have seen cataclysmic changes in the French empire in Africa. Almost all French territories south of the Sahara have become semi-autonomous republics and acquired a broad degree of control over their internal affairs.

Africa today is in part the product of less than a century of colonial rule. The portion of the continent south of the Sahara was a late comer to world affairs.

In the 1880's European colonial powers—including Britain, France, Germany, Belgium, Portugal and Italy—carved up the continent. Italy and Germany were subsequently ousted after defeats.

Here is the status currently of the most important countries, colonies and areas of Africa south of the Sahara:

1. Countries with complete independence include Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Liberia, Sudan and the Union of South Africa.
2. ETHIOPIA—Ruled by Emperor Haile Selassie I. It lost its independence to Italy in the mid-thirties but regained it after World War II.
3. GHANA—Came into existence March 6, 1947 when that former British colony of the Gold Coast and the former territory of British Togoland under U.N. trusteeship was granted dominion status in the British Commonwealth. Ghana's prime minister is Dr. Kwame Nkrumah.
4. GUINEA—Came into existence as an independent republic when the territory of French Guinea was voted against the new French constitution in September 1958. The premier is Sekou Toure. A project is now on foot to establish a West African Federation which would include Ghana and Guinea, and perhaps other nations.
5. LIBERIA—A republic, independent since 1847. Its president is William V. S. Tubman.
6. SUDAN—Proclaimed an independent republic Jan. 1, 1956, ending the former British-Egyptian Condominium which was run by the British. The prime minister is Gen. Ibrahim Abboud who took power in a coup in November 1958. He fought off an apparent challenge to his rule last week.
7. UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA—Established in 1960-10, it is a member of the British Commonwealth with a parliamentary form of government. Whites make up about 3 million of 14 million population and concentrate ruling power in their own hands under the concept of apartheid—segregation—which is a source of bitter controversy inside and outside the union. The prime minister is Hendrik F. Verwoerd.
8. The most important British-ruled territories include:
 - NIGERIA—A federation with a parliamentary form of government due to receive independence Oct. 1, 1960. It has the largest population of any single African territory or country, estimated at about 31 million. One small strip of present Nigeria in the east, formerly a part of the Cameroons, is now in dispute between native political groups. One faction wishes it to be part of the Cameroons when that area acquires independence in 1960 and the other wants it to remain in Nigeria.
 - FEDERATION OF RHODESIA AND NYASALAND—A self-governing unit under British rule including Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia, and Nyasaland. Europeans number about 300,000 out of about 8 million but
9. hold 29 seats in the federal assembly. Nyasaland factions led by Dr. Hastings Banda want to get out of the federation. Banda, now held in a detention camp by the British, demands that Africans be given a majority in the Nyasaland Legislative Council commensurate with their numerical predominance in the population. The first act of an assembly so constituted, he has said, would be to take Nyasaland out of the federation.
10. EAST AFRICA—A purely administrative unit comprising Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda. Of these three, Tanganyika is administered by the British under U.N. trusteeship while Kenya and Uganda are British colonies with limited self-government. Kenya was the center of the Mau-Mau rebellion and there have been some rumblings that another such anti-white drive may be in the making.
11. BECHUANALAND—A protectorate lying between the Union of South Africa and Southwest Africa ruled directly by Britain. Two much smaller native territories ruled directly by Britain from enclaves inside territory of the Union of South Africa—Basutoland and Swaziland.
12. Smaller British colonies include Sierra Leone and Gambia on the West Coast, and British Somaliland.
13. Portugal has two important territories and one small one:
 - ANGOLA—on the west coast, was first settled by the Portuguese in 1482. It is run by a governor-general sent from Portugal.
 - MOZAMBIQUE—Colonized in 1505 and like Angola run by a governor-general sent from Portugal. Portuguese Guinea is located on the west coast next to Guinea.
 - 4. France has big and rich territories which are undergoing rapid changes:
 - THE CAMEROONS—Held under U.N. trusteeship as former German colony, will get independence in 1960.
 - TOGO—Another U.N. trusteeship territory, is an autonomous republic which will become independent in 1960.
 - Other French territories include the 12 now semi-autonomous republics: Dahomey, Ivory Coast, Niger, Senegal, (French) Sudan, the Chad, Gabon, Congo, Central Africa, the Mauritanian Islamic Republic, the Voltaic Republic, and the Malagash Republic (Madagascar). They remain in the French Union but are getting control over their internal affairs and taking long steps to probable ultimate independence. There are also projects for federation among them, as for instance the proposed Mali Federation to include Dahomey, Senegal, Sudan and the Voltaic Republic.
 - One other small French territory is French Somaliland.
 - 5. Belgium has one rich and important colony—the Belgian Congo, scene of riots in January which quieted when the Belgian government promised future independence to the territory, without setting any date, and voting rights in 1959. One small corner of the Congo territory, Ruanda-Urundi, is held under a U.N. trusteeship by Belgium.
 - Three other African territories deserve mention:
 - SOMALIA—A U.N. trusteeship under Italian administration which is scheduled to receive independence in 1960. It is a former Italian colony.
 - SOUTHWEST AFRICA—A former German colony, handed over to the Union of South Africa under League of Nations mandate after World War I. A source of conflict between the U.N. and South Africa because the union refuses to admit U.N. trusteeship over the territory and runs it directly as a part of South Africa.
 - One of the few relics of the ancient great Spanish empire left in Africa is Spanish Guinea (Rio Muni) located between Gabon and the Cameroons.

Oil Industry Fighting Off Assaults On Tax Allowance

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—As it is learning to live with the new federal import curbs the oil industry today is fighting off another of the perennial congressional attacks on its depletion tax allowance.

This exemption as set up in 1926 by Congress provides that 27½ per cent of each barrel of crude oil produced would be considered as used up capital assets and as such wasn't subject to income tax payments.

A limit was placed: the exemption couldn't be more than 50 per cent of the net income of the particular oil producing property, and each property should be treated as a separate unit.

This allowance often is challenged—particularly by congressmen from nonoil producing states—as giving the oil companies undue preference when figuring corporate income taxes.

It is accused of giving individuals getting their income solely from oil wells a running start on others whose incomes come from different sources.

The allowance for depletion of natural resources—or one-shot assets that can't be tapped again—applies to other minerals. The percentage for sulphur and uranium is 23 per cent; for metals 13 per cent; for coal 10 per cent; for sand and gravel 5 per cent.

The oil industry puts up a strong fight each year against such charges. It fears that this year Congress may be more in the mood to cut the size of the allowance.

The case for the present allowance is put strongly by an oil country spokesman—Tom Lester, oil editor of the Houston Chronicle. It runs like this:

Depletion is defined as a "decline in value caused by the consumption or diminution of an asset." As such it can be compared with a factory writing off the depreciation of equipment for income tax purposes.

The oil wildcatter may drill 12 or 100 dry holes before he finds oil. That becomes his capital asset. But just how much of the sale of the oil is profit, how much is the cost of discovery, how much is operating expense, and how much is capital?

Hunting for oil is one of the world's most risky businesses. It is also an expensive trade.

One of the chief talking points of the oil industry is that there must be an incentive—beyond the mere gambling instinct of the hope of finding oil—to get enough risk capital put into oil exploration.

They say that without such an incentive as the depletion allowance holds fourth for the successful discoverer there would be precious little more oil found in the United States.

They stress that we should find more oil in the interest of national security.

Here is where the depletion allowance and oil import curbs have a point in common.

Those in the industry who produce oil only here or use most of the oil produced here say that unlimited imports of cheaper foreign oil could stifle the domestic search for more oil. Then, in times of emergency, with foreign oil perhaps cut off, the nation would be in a bad way.

Those who have oil sources overseas and other fuel competitors, like the coal industry, and those of a conservation turn of mind, argue we should use more foreign oil, and hold on to what we have for such an emergency.

It's one of the most controversial items before Congress.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Advertisements for a revival meeting Billy Graham will hold at Melbourne University Friday were removed during the night.

Organizers of the American evangelist's local crusade said some of the students are opposed to the meeting.

Hawaiians Ship 600 Leis To Congressmen

HONOLULU (AP) — Exuberant Hawaiians air-expressed 600 leis to Washington for members of Congress today after Senate passage of the Hawaii statehood bill.

The flowers were sent to Territorial Delegate John A. Burns, who will present them Friday on behalf of the Hawaii Legislature, Territorial Gov. William F. Quinn flew to the nation's capital for the big occasion.

Acting Gov. Edward E. Johnston proclaimed a two-day holiday throughout the islands to start immediately after Congress completes passage of the bill.

His proclamation said passage of Hawaiian statehood would mean the culmination of patient striving and the long-nurtured hopes of Hawaiians.

Senate passage of the bill Wednesday was greeted joyously. After receiving the word by telephone from Washington, Johnston exclaimed: "It's wonderful news!"

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin hit the streets with an extra and radio stations interrupted programs to broadcast the news.

In anticipation of the House completing approval of the measure, preparations were rushed for fireworks and celebrations. Hawaiian Airlines planned to fly flags with 50 stars and flash the word to its pilots in flight for passengers' information.

Senate approval was hailed by politicians, businessmen and civic leaders. The Honolulu Stock Exchange reacted with the heaviest trading in months.

Judge Rolls Dice For The Sentence

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A city judge's roll of the dice sent Tommy Jackson to jail for 30 days.

Jackson appeared before Judge Mitchell Goldman on a charge of gambling. Goldman convicted the 27-year-old Negro and found out he had three previous dicing convictions. Jackson also had a pair of dice.

"You want to roll for the time?" asked the judge. "No, sir," said Jackson.

"I'll roll for you," said Goldman, rattling the dice. "Hm— an ace and a deuce. Three. Thirty days."

Roving Steers In Last Roundup

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — A fusillade of bullets Tuesday brought down two tons of beef on the hoof — and ended Westchester County's wild West story.

It started last August, when six steers weighing about half a ton apiece broke out of a corral on the Norda Experimental Farms here.

One was shot down a few days later. The other five hung around, just out of reach, until shoggly before Christmas.

Then they took off and started to roam over the county. Reports poured in from startled drivers, harassed suburban homeowners, and fearful parents.

Authorities were deluged with suggestions on how to corral the critters. The merits of tranquilizer bullets and doped hay were hotly argued. Some favored bringing in hired gunslingers.

Last week somebody shot one of the steers. Then there were four.

Tuesday the remaining four were spotted. Sheriff John E. Hoy sent word to his posse, bring 'em back—dead or alive.

It took five hours of hard riding, but the posse finally caught up with the steers. A burst of gunfire signaled the last roundup.

Smoke Over Brooklyn

Marine Supply Firm Sets Grand Opening

Dewey's Marine Supply will stage a grand opening Friday for the firm's new home 2 1/2 miles west of downtown Big Spring on U. S. 80.

A 2,300-square-foot, all-steel building has been constructed for the business, on a spacious lot that later will be equipped with undercover boat storage facilities, making Dewey's Marine Supply a complete dry-dock marina.

Co-owners of the concern are Dewey M. Yates, his son, Harold C. Yates, and Bert Brewer. Harold Yates will continue to reside in Fort Worth where he is president of Corsair Marine Corp., a boat manufacturing concern established three years ago by the family.

Dewey Yates moved to Big Spring last September and purchased Jim's Marine Supply, 1805 W. 3rd. He has continued to operate the business at that location while planning and building the modern new store and shop building.

Brewer, formerly head track coach and first assistant football coach here for three years, now is sales manager for the Corsair Marine Corp. and plans to devote most of his time to the Big Spring operation.

In conjunction with the opening Friday, the concern will have several special boats on display, including a 23-foot cruiser manufactured by Lone Star. Coffee and donuts will be served throughout the day.

In addition to Corsair and Lone Star boats, the firm will distribute Johnson outboard motors, Cushman motor scooters, Lawnboy mowers, and a complete line of boating accessories. Complete motor and fiberglass boat service will be provided by factory trained repairmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Yates have purchased a home on the Moss Creek Lake road east of Big Spring. They are members of the Church of Christ at Coahoma.

They moved here from Eden where Yates was John Deere implement dealer for 15 years. Their daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Dressler, is bookkeeper for the marine supply business. Another son, James, is secretary-treasurer for a farm loan association at Dimmitt and Hereford.

Since leaving Big Spring, Brewer has served on the coaching staff at Amarillo, but plans to leave the coaching profession entirely. He will move his family here late this summer.

Family Helps Out Teacher Shortage

CORPUS CHRISTI — The Carlos Reyes family of Beeville not only believes in getting an education but is also helping to relieve the teacher shortage in South Texas.

Of the 12 children of Mr. and Mrs. Reyes who have graduated from college, six are now teaching in elementary schools in Corpus Christi and San Antonio.

The Reyes have a total of 14 children. Besides the 12 who have degrees, one is now in college and the one who is in high school plans to go to college.

The teachers are six daughters, who hold degrees from Texas A&I, Southwest Texas Texas Woman's University and Trinity. Mrs. Rachel Gonzalez, Mrs. Stella Arango, Mrs. Christine Trevino and Miss Florida Reyes teach in the San Antonio schools. Misses Olita and Martha Reyes are in the Corpus Christi school system.

Five of the Reyes boys have graduated from Texas A&M and the sixth is now enrolled there. Mrs. Reyes was honored in 1956 as "Mother of the Year" at Texas A&M.

Reyes, a Beeville accountant who was educated in Mexico, says the girls' interest in education was probably influenced by their love for children.

"They used to take care of their younger brothers and sisters," he said. "There was ample opportunity for the girls to learn to handle children at our house."

School work was given a high priority in the Reyes home. One of the girls recalls nightly homework sessions around the dining table.

Sometimes there were as many as 14 children in the room studying. Neighbor children would attend to take advantage of encyclopedia and other reference books available there.

"There was no fooling around," Miss Otilia Reyes said. "The Reyes children's grandmother presided over the session and made sure that school work was the only object of attention. When one finished his work, he was hustled out of the room and not allowed to remain and distract others."

With such a large number of children to send through college, a number of sacrifices were required of the entire family.

"Of course most of the burden fell on mother and daddy," one daughter said, "but as soon as one graduated from school and began earning, he was expected to help those still in school."

Wilson overrules suspension power. AUSTIN (AP) — The governor does not have the power to cancel suspensions on motor vehicles licenses, according to Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

Wilson reversed an attorney general's opinion issued in 1944 with his ruling yesterday. A driver may have his license returned only when the suspension expires, Wilson said.

Pardons Board Member Jack Ross said several licenses had been restored since the 1944 opinion. Ross said the board would follow the Wilson opinion in the future.

Texan Discovers Spider Not So Bad

DALLAS — A prominent Texas biologist has come up with some interesting facts about the feared black widow spider.

First of all, he says bites of the dreaded spider aren't as deadly as people have been led to believe.

And further, according to Dr. Elmer P. Cheatum, chairman of the biology department at Southern Methodist University, the black widow spider is not as numerous in this area as it was 10 years ago.

Dr. Cheatum says records show comparatively few deaths as the direct result of the black widow spider's bite. He said only 17 lost their lives from 380 reported cases in the United States within the last 15 to 20 years.

"Death usually is caused by the failure of the victims' respiratory or circulatory system," Dr. Cheatum said.

The biologist added that an antitoxin given shortly after the victim has been pierced enhances the patient's chances of recovery.

Patterns brought out by clinical reports, explained Dr. Cheatum, show the symptoms of black widow bites are similar to those of an attack of acute appendicitis.

"Ordinarily, the patient will become dizzy, weak, thirsty and nauseated, and show symptoms of shock," Dr. Cheatum said.

The biologist says most black widow spiders usually found in the back yard are the male and immature female—not the feared adult female.

How can you distinguish one from another?

"Take a stick, turn the spider over and see for yourself," Dr. Cheatum says.

Both the male and adult female are coal black and each has an hour glass marking underneath. There the similarity ends. The hour glass on the male is either pink or cream color while the adult female's is a reddish or orange color. Additionally, the male is only about one-half the size of the female, which is about a half-inch in length.

The immature female has the same color markings as the male spider.

Mahon Urges Cotton Data

LEVELLAND, Tex. (AP)—Rep. George Mahon has urged the Department of Agriculture to take immediate and favorable action on a request that local information be released on how many farmers have signed up for the government A and B cotton allotment program.

Seventeen Levelland businessmen protested to Mahon and Secretary of Agriculture Benson Tuesday that such information was not being released.

The businessmen acted after J. W. Evans, manager of the Hookley County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee office, revealed he had instructions preventing him from releasing the figures locally although he filed weekly reports to the state ASC committee.

Mahon had reported earlier that a state-wide release is expected about March 13. The release will cover the sign-up period as of March 6 and counties will be authorized to make releases.

Forrest Weimhold, publisher of the Levelland Daily Sun News, said "this type of restriction on

Asks Better Deal For Mental Cases

AUSTIN (AP)—Members of the prison population in Texas who have mental illnesses should be treated as patients rather than as prisoners, the Texas Council of Churches was told yesterday.

Dr. George J. Beto, president of Concordia Lutheran College and a member of the Texas Department of Corrections staff, said a large percentage of the prison population is mentally ill.

He urged that funds be provided to employ psychiatrists, clinical psychologists and counselors.

Festive Table Settings Displayed For Planters

A display of table settings was arranged for the Wednesday gathering of the Plants Garden Club in the home of Mrs. J. Thomas Marks.

The hostess and Mrs. R. L. Crowell arranged a table for the serving of an informal coffee, with daffodils and daisies in a basket on a white cloth.

With Easter in mind, Mrs. Sony Rose and Mrs. E. O. Sanderson arranged a table with a styrofoam chicken which had roses and tulips as feathers. Colored Easter eggs formed the base of the decorations.

Mrs. C. W. Neefe and Mrs. Dick Collier followed a pink and white theme in the table which they set for a wedding shower. A large parasol sheltered a grouping of peach blossoms and pink carnations, with pink candles and tiny parasol favors to complete the arrangement on a pink cloth.

Announcement was made of the district meeting to be held in Lubbock on April 15-16. Mrs. R. O. Carothers gave the report from the council meeting and told of the Tasting Tea slated for April 2 at the SUB at HCJC. Hours are from 4 to 7 p.m.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Ballet Exercises Can Make Legs Shapelier

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — "I'm always being taken for a teen-ager but I'm 21," Yvonne Craig announced with a great deal of pride. "But there is nothing I can do about it. When I try to look older I just look foolish."

Yvonne has invited me to a showing of "The Young Land" in which she co-stars with Patrick Wayne. Afterwards we talked of when she was with the Ballet Russe, and I asked why she had given up ballet.

"At one time I thought I wanted to be a ballerina, and I was so thrilled to win a Danilova scholarship. But it is such a demanding life," Yvonne sighed. "You have to be dedicated to dancing to the exclusion of everything else."

"I still do my ballet exercises every day. Once you are used to having complete control of your muscles you want to stay that way. But I don't think I'd ever want to give up everything for my dancing."

Yvonne mentioned Ballerina Danilova, who was a star before World War I.

Student Council Of Forsan Attending State Gathering

FORSAN — W. M. Romans, sponsor of the student council, and members of the council left Wednesday morning for Brownsville, where the state convention of student councils is being held. Council members are George White, Lynda Camp, Janet Gooch and Delores Parker.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash were her brothers, Hubert Crumley of Salt Gap, Elmer Crumley of Brady and Albert Crumley of San Antonio.

Mrs. W. M. Romans and her daughter will visit in Lampasas with her parents while Mr. Romans is in Brownsville attending the student council convention.

Exercise For Legs

Yvonne Craig has come to Hollywood from the Ballet Russe and tells of an exercise routine to make legs more beautiful. She will soon co-star in C. V. Whitney's "The Young Land" with Patrick Wayne.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

There seems to be a good thing afoot in the informal organization of Lousy Listeners who just listen or think or sleep or wherever when people who like to do that, too, get together at the same time. How about a Lousy Listeners gathering to look at abstract art and see if anyone can come up with anything good... ideas or whatever. If you are so moved, don't forget the exhibit at the junior college this weekend. All the work won't be abstraction, and everyone will enjoy seeing the local artists' work as well as the offering of many other artists throughout this area.

MR. AND MRS. JOE MOSS and Joe David plan to spend the weekend in Austin when they take Mrs. Moss's mother, Mrs. F. D. Reese, back home. Mrs. Reese came here last month to be with Joe David on his birthday anniversary and liked the visiting so much she just stayed a little longer.

Friends here will be interested in the approaching marriage of Patti Elizabeth Jones who is a cousin of MRS. ALBERT SMITH. The wedding will take place in Taipei, Formosa, Saturday but according to our time it will be on Friday 13.

Miss Jones is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Davis Jones of Sweetwater and the sister of the former Flozelle Jones (Mrs. Bill Norred of Sweetwater) who was a Rotary Exchange Student and who has spoken here on numerous occasions.

The couple had a very interesting introduction through no less important person than Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. The prospective bridegroom, Clarence Jerry Schneider Jr., accompanied Mrs. Dulles to Taipei from Tokyo, Japan, where he is an engineer with the United States foreign

MRS. W. B. HENRY is in Odessa to be with a daughter who has recently undergone surgery.

RUTH ANN ABAT will be one of the many journalism majors who will have the opportunity of hearing Mary Kimbrough, writer of an advice column for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and James A. Byron, news director of WBAP-TV who will be featured at the Southwestern Journalism Congress this weekend. The congress will be held at the University of Texas. Miss Abat is a junior at Texas Woman's University at Denton.

Helping to Find a Child's Career was the topic for study at a meeting of the Child Study Club Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ross Boykin. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. David Hodnett and Mrs. Luther McDaniel.

Benny Pierson, assistant high school principal, was the guest speaker and told the members of the importance of developing a child's emotional stability. Parents should help their children to find an interest and then assist them in developing it. Pierson stressed the desirability of beginning at an early age to begin the guiding pattern.

At the tea hour the hostesses served from a highly polished table that was centered with an arrangement of jonquils. Branching from the holder were stems of pussywillow to which were tied pastel colored miniature Easter eggs.

Twelve members attended.

Study Club Has Guest Speaker

The effect of white ceramics pinks reaching for the colored eggs was cleverly achieved by using them on white candle holders which held white candles.

British Phone Operators Told To Be Human

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
LONDON (AP)—Britain's telephone operators were told to be more human today. They are being encouraged to greet the customers and even address them by name if they know it.
The new approach, ordered by Postmaster General Ernest Marples, is to make the service more helpful. It was only a couple of hours old when we rang our local operator to see how things were going.
They went like this:
"Fleet Street operator, can I help you?"
The voice was distinctly masculine.
"How's this good morning business going?" we asked.
"Oh, you mean the friendly telephone service?"
"That's it," we said. "How's it going?"
"Well, we're supposed to try to make your lives happier — and ours, of course."
"How?"
"By being less formal. We don't have to use standard phrases any more, like 'number please'."
"Anything else?"
"Yes, we can give our names now. We don't have to give our names, but we can if we want to."
"Is this going to make much difference?" we wanted to know.
"Well, it'll probably make more difference during the day than during the night."
We said we could understand that, since the operators during the night are all men and the operators during the day are girls.
Will the girls be able to give their names under this new friendly telephone service? we asked.
"If they want to."
"And what about addresses?"
"Are you kidding? The telephone service isn't that friendly."
We excused ourselves.
"That's all right," said the operator. "Hope you've learned something about the new service."
We assured him we had learned one thing.
If a man answers, hang up.

DEAR ABBY HONEYMOON IS OVER

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm a bride of three months and my husband is very good to me, when he's awake. After dinner he stretches himself out on the sofa and watches TV and then falls asleep. He doesn't do this every night. Two nights a week he plays league basketball and I don't see him at all. I feel so unneeded. Seriously, Abby, I'd like your advice.
DEPRESSED: When a groom of three months falls asleep right after dinner in front of the TV set, it's a pretty poor commercial for his wife if he's got the pep to play league basketball. He's got plenty of vitality. I'd say it's your move.

DEAR ABBY: We are a family of five. My husband traded in a perfectly good five-passenger sedan for a two-seater sports car. What would you say he had in mind?
HIS WIFE:

DEAR WIFE: Himself.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I fell in love with a married man, and at the time I didn't know he was married. Naturally when I found out I quit seeing him. I never stopped loving him though. Last week he called to tell me he had had his divorce and he wants to see me. I still care for him, but my parents do not approve of him because he didn't tell me he was married when he first went with me. I am 24 and have a good job. I would like to see him. Please tell me what to do.
TORN:

DEAR TORN: There are two possibilities: This man could still be married in which case he's a poison. He could be free now but if you married him he could "forget" to tell the next young lady who looks good to him that he is married to you. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman of 22 and nothing special. The man next door is in his sixties and has cancer. The doctor says he can't last more than a year. He's not bedfast yet and drives a car and goes to work half-days. He's not married and

Texas In Strong Position To Get Saline Conversion Plant

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Special Service
WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas appears to be in a strong position in the race among many states for the first of the five government pilot plants to develop practical ways of taking the salt out of sea and brackish waters.
Under law, one plant is to be built on each of the three major coastlines — the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf; one is to be built in the Southwest area and one in the northern Great Plains.
The Interior Department announced recently that the first plant will use the distillation process — as contrasted to electrolysis and other methods. That means, in all probability, it will be on the sea coast since the electrolysis process is considered more adaptable to brackish inland water conversion.

An official in the department's Office of Saline Water said Texas would seem to have an excellent chance for the first plant through weight of applications.
Twenty-eight are on file from Texas. About a dozen are from inland cities which hardly would be considered for the distillation plant.

California has filed 13 applications; Washington state 1; Louisiana 2, Mississippi 1, Florida 4 (on the Gulf side, none of the Atlantic Side), Virginia 2, New York 1, New Jersey 1, Connecticut 1, Rhode Island 1.
This same official observed that if a Texas coastal city got a plant, it would decrease, though not entirely eliminate the chances of inland Texas getting one, since there are only five for the nation.
The Interior Department is expected shortly to announce a committee to select the first site. The plant is expected to cost about two million dollars and have a capacity of about a million gallons of fresh water daily — enough for a small city.
Texas cities which have filed either individually or jointly: Port Lavaca, Port Isabel, Port Mansfield, Brownville, Harlingen, San Benito, Rio Hondo, Corpus Christi, Galveston, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Orange, Bay City, Del City, Matagorda, Freeport, Imperial, Houston, Crane, San Angelo, Monahans, Ozona, Andrews, Childress, Fort Stockton, Midland, Cameron, Wichita Falls, Denison.

Rep. Frank Icard of Wichita Falls said:
"There seems to be little doubt but what a feasible method will be developed within the next few years. When this occurs, vast areas of non-productive land can be irrigated."
Publisher Charles Roberts of the Andrews County News went with Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock to talk with the new director of the Office of Saline Water, former Nebraska Congressman A. L. Miller.
"Those folks were surprised to learn that salt water which we have has any commercial use at all," commented Roberts.
"It was news to them when I told them it works fine to mix up mud for oil well drilling. We have it in abundance, a few hundred feet down."
Around the Capital:
The First Baptist Church of Washington celebrated its 157th anniversary with a real Texas-Oklahoma atmosphere.
Sen. Robert Kerr (D-Okl.) a Sunday school teacher there, gave the anniversary dinner address. Prominent in the program were Speaker Sam Rayburn and Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa, both Baptists; Rep. W. R. Poage, a Universalist whose district includes Waco and the Baptists' Baylor University; Harold Kennedy, former East Texas state legislator here as an Ohio Oil Co. attorney.
Among other Texans who have attended the First Baptist Church in the past are Sam Houston and Gov. Price Daniel.

One of the Sunday School classes is known as the Dawson Class, named after Mrs. J. M. Dawson. She taught the class for years while her husband handled matters here for Southern Baptist churches. He was for many years pastor of a Baptist church in Waco. They now live in Austin.

The top officer of the U. S. Women's Marine Corps, Col. Margaret Henderson, hails from Lubbock and attended the University of Texas.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Henderson, recently were luncheon guests of Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.). After the luncheon Mahon introduced her to the Texas Congressional delegation, which was holding one of its regular weekly luncheon meetings in a nearby room.

She got a big hand as Mahon left the speakers' dining room with her, one of the few in the on the all-male Texas Congressional luncheons, even if for only a few moments.

Paperwork Doesn't Help Space Work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Because government contracts finance the missile business almost completely, "the paper work needed to meet legal requirements is intricate, complex, and confused beyond imagination."
Richard D. Geckler, vice president of Aerojet-General Corp., gave this picture to a Chamber of Commerce space age business conference.
"The patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, and the unconquerable spirit of Alexander the Great usually will see one through," Geckler said.

Research Grant

AUSTIN (AP)—A research grant of $20,870 was announced yesterday by Dr. Lyndon C. Reese and Hudson Matlock, two University of Texas engineers. They will study the effects of wave action on soil supporting off shore drilling structures.

Northeast Hit By Snow Storm

By The Associated Press
A driving snow storm slashed at the northeastern section of the nation today, moving eastward from Ohio and making highway travel treacherous.
At Delaware, Ohio, a 56-year-old man was killed in an auto-truck collision, the first storm-attributed death.
In New York City, about four hours after the snow started falling before midnight, 3 1/2 inches were measured by the Weather Bureau, which predicted moderate to heavy accumulations before the fall abated in the afternoon. It already was the heaviest snowfall of the winter for the city. The heaviest previous fall was 3 inches Dec. 8-9.
In western Maryland, state police reported 8-12 inches in the mountains, with mixed snow and rain across northern counties.
In western central and north-eastern Pennsylvania authorities issued warnings of hazardous driving. In all affected areas, sanding crews were out in force attempting to keep highways open.

Special Venire To Be Drawn For Lopez Trial

Lopez is under indictment for the hold-up murder of Gerald D. Limer, young filling station night attendant.

Little Girl's Hope

Condition of Vicki Lynn Cuchia, 12, cerebral palsy victim, has deteriorated seriously since she last her Chihuahua puppy, "Pat", above. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin E. Foster, fear her health will be injured permanently unless the pet is returned. Pat disappeared from the family home at 506 Lancaster Monday night. He was on a leash in the yard at the time. He is wearing a red harness with his name stamped on a plate. The puppy is brown with light tan markings on his feet, face and throat. Foster said he is offering a $25 reward, and no questions asked, for return of the dog.

MEN IN SERVICE

Seaman Melvin Bryant, son of Mrs. Ruth Hardin, 2111 Johnson, has returned to Pearl Harbor aboard the frigate USS John S. McCain after a six-month tour of duty with the 7th Fleet in the Far East.

While with the 7th Fleet, the McCain patrolled off Formosa during the Quemoy crisis.

Billy McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Cobb, 1600 Gregg, is assigned to a ship which recently took part in an amphibious landing exercise on the beaches of Camp Pendleton.

McIntyre, a seaman, is serving aboard the attack cargo ship USS Skagit.

Airman Harry E. Musick, son of Mr. Emmette E. Musick of 1321 Mulberry Ave., Big Spring, has been assigned to a unit of the Strategic Air Command at Schilling AFB, Kans., for duty and training as a Cook.

He recently completed basic military training at Lackland AFB. He attended Big Spring High School.

Airmen assigned directly to a duty station from basic training at Lackland will receive on-the-job training under specialists. They are selected for assignments on the basis of interests and aptitudes.

Electric Power Demands Rising

Power demands are on the increase for the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.

Operating statistics for February show that KWH sales were up by about half a million over the same month a year ago.

During February Cap Rock purchased 4,436,529 and sold 1,923,189 KWH. In February of 1958 purchases were 1,765,490 and sales 1,429,673 KWH.

For the first two months of this year Cap Rock has purchased 4,436,529 KWH and sold 3,446,415 and last year for the same time purchases aggregated 3,565,690 and sales 2,733,573 KWH.

Contributing largely to the increase is the continued dry weather which has made it necessary for irrigators to water fields prior to planting. Last year abnormally generous winter rains made this unnecessary.

At the end of February Cap Rock had 2,031 miles of line energized, which was three miles more than in January. Similarly three more members were connected, making the total 3,955. Bills averaged $13.75 for the month, up $1.21 for the month.

Infantry Nuclear Weapons Disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baby-sized nuclear weapons for use by foot soldiers may now be part of the U.S. arsenal.

Without any elaboration, the Atomic Energy Commission disclosed Tuesday that it has developed or is trying to develop nuclear weapons with a wallop of only one ton of TNT.

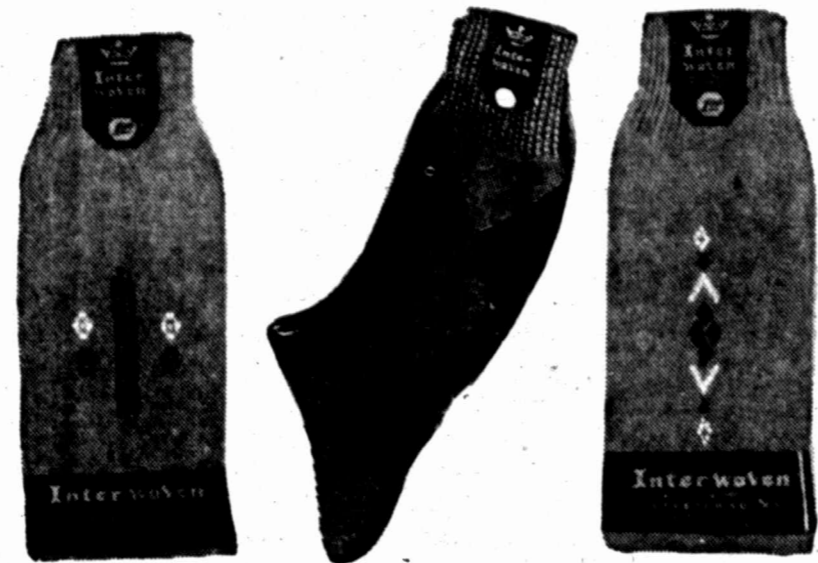

Such a weapon, only 1-20,000 as powerful as the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima, presumably would be designed for infantry use similar to the anti-tank bazooka gun.

The AEC mentioned the baby-sized weapons in a report listing for the first time specific explosive yields of the 19 test shots during last fall's "Hardtack" series in Nevada.

240 Faculty Members Given Contracts For Another Year

Some 240 Big Spring teachers have been re-elected for another year. A few others—number not specified—haven't been given new contracts. Trustees Tuesday night elected the group recommended for contract extensions by Supt. Floyd Parsons. The superintendent said he was not recommending a few, but didn't list any names. All those re-elected hold college degrees and Texas teacher certificates. Those not meeting those requirements are not eligible for election at this time, although some now teaching probably will be employed after Aug. 15, Parsons said. Teachers re-employed are subject to assignment by the superintendent and principals. Here is the list of those re-elected Tuesday.

Pupils In Trouble Over Censorship

UNION, N.J. (AP)—Several high school students face disciplinary action because they said "hell" and "damn" during last Saturday night's presentation of the play "The Man Who Came to Dinner." The original script of the George Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy contains those words, but student players had agreed to eliminate them for the senior class play. They did, on Friday night. On Saturday night, they didn't. School Principal Harry Cooke is attempting to learn if it is a deliberate slap at censorship.

Jobless Figures Down For Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Insured unemployment figures were down about 10,000 for last week compared with a year ago, the Texas Employment Commission said. A total of 72,563 jobless workers drew $1,431,394 in unemployment compensation for the week ending March 5, compared with 82,576 drawing $1,433,438 in jobless pay for the comparable week in 1958.

Bauer Students Plan School Safety Patrol

A student safety patrol will start operating Monday at the Bauer elementary school. The school's student council is organizing the patrol. Twelve fifth and sixth grade pupils will be chosen to take turns patrolling street crossings at noon and in the afternoon.

Shotgun Death

FORT WORTH (AP)—Dee Keith Garner Jr., 14, was killed by a shotgun blast fired accidentally by a hunting companion, Wallace Craig, 13, yesterday. Police Capt. A. C. Styles said Craig fired after Garner suddenly shouted: "There goes a rabbit."

Accidental Death

MERCEDES, Tex. (AP)—Officers said they believed the shooting death of Rafael Guzman, about 65, at his home near Relampago yesterday was accidental. Tom Winbert, Hidalgo County deputy sheriff, said Guzman apparently shot himself accidentally while chasing a horse.

Annual Meeting

GALVESTON (AP)—The Texas Baptist Woman's Missionary Union will hold its annual meeting in Wichita Falls next year and its 1961 meeting in Brownsville. The union yesterday also elected Mrs. Clem Hardy of Waco, a former missionary to Brazil, to her fifth term as president.

Zachariah Awarded Certificate Of Merit

Wednesday at a luncheon given at Cosden Country Club, George Zachariah was presented a certificate of merit for his services as district health chairman and president of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Hostess for the luncheon was Mable Fair of Dallas, state coordinator for The Federal Service Campaign for National Health Agencies, from which the award came. Miss Fair explained that the agency had been formed by the government for the purpose of giving an opportunity for military personnel, civil service and federal employes to contribute to their chosen charity. She remarked that the main purpose of fund drives is, in the majority of cases, the research that can be carried on for the elimination of certain diseases. She cited the decline of smallpox, typhoid fever and other diseases which have been brought under control. The speaker expressed the hope that through research funds it will be possible to lessen the ravages of polio, cancer, heart trouble and the other dread diseases which are being studied. Miss Fair introduced Martin Ricker of Fort Worth, executive director of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, who presented the certificate to Zachariah. Special guests were Elmer Boatler, postmaster; Maj. E. L. Pettus, project officer at Webb AFB; Dan Krausse, chairman of the Cancer Society; Hayes Bacus of the VA Hospital staff, and A. K. Steinheimer, city manager. Members of the Crippled Children's Society board of directors were present.

Fidel Lashes Loan Sharks

HAVANA (AP)—A crackdown on loan sharks has been announced by Prime Minister Fidel Castro as one of the steps in his campaign to make Cuba over. Calling the loan sharks "buzzards," Castro told Cubans: "I propose that you refuse to pay them." The bearded leader said he had been assured by Cuban banks that they propose to develop a personal loan business at moderate interest rates. The loan shark racket has flourished in Havana for years, with interest rates running 10 per cent a month and in some cases up to 20 per cent. Laws against usury have largely been overlooked in the past but strict enforcement is expected now.

Up-And-Down Chinese Dies

HONOLULU (AP)—P. Y. Chong who opened — and failed in — 20 Chinese restaurants in Honolulu and found "life velly funny, up and down," died Wednesday. Chong, who was 62, was an immigrant who had thousands of friends throughout the world. His showiest restaurant, Lau Yee Chai on famed Waikiki Beach still is a show place—but operated by other owners. It is world famed among tourists and service men. He invariably introduced himself as "Me, P. Y. Chong, allee same No. 1 cook." He explained his business failures: "Me soft. Give away too much." He is survived by his widow, five sons and a daughter.

Shamrock Sundaes Take Note Of St. Patrick's

Sure and March 17 is St. Patrick's Day. Don't overlook the occasion. Introduce a green note on the dinner table, be it only a touch of greenery or a mock shamrock. Best of all, take note of it in dessert.

Shamrock Sundaes can be created with the aid of a cookie cutter. If you don't own one in the traditional shape, use the club cookie cutter for a similar effect. Garnish the sundaes with halves of green maraschino cherries.

Here is the recipe:

SHAMROCK SUNDAES
Ingredients:
 1 quart vanilla ice cream
 1 can (1 pound and 4 ounces) crushed pineapple
 1 tsp. cornstarch
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1-3 cup (about 15) chopped mint-flavored green maraschino cherries
 1/4 cup broken walnut meats (if desired).

Method:

Slice ice cream about 1 1/2 inches thick. Cut ice cream slices with 3-inch shamrock cookie cutter. Place on waxed paper. Freeze until firm.

Drain pineapple and reserve syrup. Stir cornstarch and salt together in a medium-sized saucepan; gradually add pineapple syrup, stirring until smooth after each addition. Cook and stir constantly over low heat until thickened and clear.

Add well-drained pineapple and chopped cherries; mix well. Chill. Add walnuts to sauce before serving. Serve sauce over ice-cream sundaes. Makes eight to 10 servings.

Stitch In Time For Summer Clothing

Right now is a fine time to make your new summer clothing on remodel any that you had left over from last summer. There are a few things to keep in mind before starting your sewing.

Be sure to take your body measurements before buying patterns for your summer clothes. There may be a change in your measurements since you last bought patterns.

Just make a record of your measurements and then compare with chart of measurements found in either the front or back of pattern book before you purchase the pattern.

Use a tape measure that won't stretch when taking your measurements. Always measure over a well-fitting foundation garment and a simple dress with set-in sleeves.

Pasta Pointer

Ever try the large tubular pasta called manicotti? It may be cooked, drained and stuffed with meat or cheese mixtures and then be reheated in a tomato sauce.

TASTY EASTER BONNETS

Easter Buffet Can Be Delightfully 'In Style'

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor
 Whimsical cooks come into their own at holidays. At Easter time the custom of offering colored eggs, festive yeast breads and lamb cakes have lured many culinary artists to add other gay creations to this joyous occasion.

Fashion creeps into food; lately we've been having bonnet cakes and bonnet cookies on Easter tables. Now here come Easter bonnet sandwiches—and they're as cute as buttons.

One point on which we insist: holiday food, although it may be whimsically shaped and decorated, must not be so tortured that it doesn't taste good. These open sandwiches, bonnet style, measure up because they are a delightful flavor combination.

The "brims" and "crowns" of our edible sailor-hats are made of cream-style cottage cheese seasoned with lemon juice. Cucumber slices give height to the "crowns" and the bonnet "trimming" of water cress sprigs and colorful berries are plain perky.

These bonnet sandwiches are fun to serve during the Easter holidays, perhaps for a one o'clock luncheon or a four o'clock tea. Grownups will enjoy them as much as teen-agers and small fry.

They also are amusing to serve as an hors d'oeuvre for Easter dinner and, if you like, you can easily cut the recipe in half to make just eight of these appetizers.

Or make them part of an Easter day supper buffet that features ham because the cottage cheese and cucumber flavors are fine with that meat. What else would go on the buffet table? We might choose a hot potato puff and a salad of broccoli or green asparagus. Dessert could be a sponge-cake roll with an orange filling and a topping of whipped cream; or a meringue filled with a tangy lemon cream.

EASTER BONNET SANDWICHES
Ingredients:
 1 carton (8 ounces) cream style cottage cheese (small curd)
 2 tps. lemon juice

Stuff Onions With Cheese, Ground Beef

The thrifty homemaker is forever searching for mouth-watering ways to use ground beef. Here is one recipe that provides a meal-in-one dish.

STUFFED ONIONS IN HAMBURGER HOOPS
 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
 6 large mild onions
 2 1/2 cups cooked rice
 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 cup canned green peas, drained
 1/4 tsp. black pepper
 5 tbsps. milk
 1 egg
 1 1/2 tps. steak sauce
 1 1/2 tps. salt
 6 small slices of American cheese

Remove skins from onions and simmer until tender; drain and cool. Cut a large hole in the tops of the onions and remove centers, leaving a substantial wall of two or three layers of onion. Mix 1 1/2 cups of rice, Worcestershire sauce, peas, 1/2 tsp. of pepper and 3 tbsps. of milk. Fill onions with this mixture.

Combine ground beef, 1 cup rice, steak sauce, salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, and 2 tbsps. milk. Form into 6 equal-sized balls; place on a large, well-greased baking pan, and flatten into patties, making a hole in the center of each patty. Place an onion in each hole and press the meat up around the onions to within about half an inch of the top.

Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until meat is done. Cover rice filling with cheese and heat until cheese melts. Serve with tomato sauce or a gravy made from the drippings. Serves six.

Fruit Pies

Try a dash of pure vanilla in any of the fruit pies you make during the year—it brings out the flavor and adds a special fillip to the taste. With fresh fruits coming onto the market in abundance, such pies make a light and welcome dessert to round out a Lenten menu.

Festive Touch Is Result Of Apples

Apples have a nice way of making foods seem more festive. Perhaps it's the fresh flavor they impart, or maybe it's the bright beauty of their peel.

Whatever it is, next time you entertain manage to inject apple in the menu one way or another. For instance, encircle your main dish with minted apple rings. They are made like this:

MINTED APPLE RINGS
 Put 1 cup water, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup white corn syrup, 6 to 8 drops green food coloring, and 1/4 teaspoon mint flavoring in a 10 inch skillet. Simmer over medium heat 5 minutes. Cut 4 peeled and cored apples into 1/2 inch thick rings. Slide rings into the skillet and simmer until apples are tender, not mushy, turning once. Lift apple rings with spatula and arrange on platter.

Could be an apple salad is the right lift for your meal. In that case, here is a recipe that may be made well in advance of the party.

APPLE PARFAIT SALAD
 1 envelope plain gelatin
 1/4 cup cold water
 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
 1 tsp. salt
 1 cup milk
 1 small cucumber
 2 apples

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Cool. Combine mayonnaise, cream cheese, salt; add gelatin; mix thoroughly. Gradually stir in milk; add 1 cubed unpeeled apple. Pour into fancy mold which has been rinsed with cold water.

After mold has set, peel, score and slice cucumber; cut cored, unpeeled second apple into crescents. Unmold gelatin on crisp lettuce and garnish with crescents and cucumber circles. Serves six.

The gentlemen among your guests will salute you for serving such a favorite dessert as:

APPLE CRISP
 6 Winesap apples
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 tsp. cloves
 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
 2 tsp. lemon juice
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 cup sifted flour
 1/4 tsp. salt
 6 tbsps. butter or oleo
 1/4 cup chopped nut meats
 Peel, core and slice the apples into a bowl. Add 1/2 cup sugar.

Olive Etiquette

The only etiquette involved in eating olives is that you do so gracefully. Take two bites from the large Spanish green stuffed olives and pop the tiny stuffed olives into your mouth whole. Olives with pits are eaten out of hand in two or three small bites and the stones set on your plate.

Color Appeal

Color plays a big role in making your meals more appetizing. A touch of green in the guise of a sweet or tangy pickle is an easy way to add both color and zest to a meal.

To Glaze Bread

Want to glaze the top of a yeast loaf before baking? Beat an egg white slightly and brush it over the loaf.

Tasty Sauerkraut

Season sauerkraut with minced onion, a bay leaf and brown sugar; add frankfurters and small boiled new potatoes. Simmer in a large skillet until savory hot.

LENTEN SPECIAL: OMELET CASOLETTE

Cheese And Eggs Are Lenten Menu Mainstays

Cheese and eggs, rich in protein and winning flavor, occupy the food spotlight during the Lenten season, which this year prevails until March 28. Both appear on the plentiful list and are low in cost, timely for those "meatless" dinners.

They team for some taste-tasting dishes which help you solve your menu-planning perplexities, whether you are one of the thirteen million American working wives or a full time homemaker. For instance, there is an Omelet Cassolette which begs for nothing more than a mixed green salad and French bread for a satisfying meal. You'll find the recipe here.

You have no doubt made a macaroni casserole many times. Give it added zest with cheese and deviled egg halves; bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Or spread four asparagus spears on buttered hot toast. Top with deviled eggs and cover with cheese sauce. Sprinkle a dash of paprika on top for beauty's sake.

DEVILED EGGS

Here is the correct method for preparing deviled eggs. Place the eggs in a saucepan, cover with water and bring water to a simmer. Reduce heat and simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Don't let water boil; intense heat tends to toughen valuable protein in eggs.

Cool the cooked eggs at once by plunging them in cold water. Remove the shells when eggs are cool enough to handle and cut in half, lengthwise or crosswise. Wash the warm yolks; season with salt, pepper and melted butter, adding a subtle combination of mustard and vinegar. Mayonnaise, mustard-flavored sauces and herb vinegars add interest, as do anchovy paste, cayenne, chili powder, lemon, parsley, paprika, thyme and celery, garlic or onion salt. Flute yolk mixture into whites with pastry tube or press in with teaspoon.

Have you ever tried a Spanish style egg casserole? Sauté chopped eggs and celery in melted butter. Blend in flour, using 1 tablespoon for each cup to tomatoes. Add canned tomatoes. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Season with sugar, garlic salt, salt and pepper to taste. Pour into shallow baking dish and arrange deviled eggs atop tomato sauce.

Grapefruit Boasts Coloring Of Roses

For a pretty introduction to a company meal, try your hand with grapefruit and oranges. If you follow the recipe, you will have grapefruit the color of talisman roses.

TALISMAN GRAPEFRUIT
Ingredients:
 For every 2 servings—
 1 large grapefruit,
 1 orange
 2 tbsps. grenadine sirup.
Method:

Halve grapefruit; remove any seeds. Separate sections by cutting down both sides of dividing membranes, working from the center to the rind. Cut around rim to loosen both sections and membranes. Loosen center core and pull out with side membranes so fruit sections remain in place. Pare orange so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes.

Immediately before serving pour 1 tsp. grenadine over grapefruit half; arrange orange sections petal fashion over grapefruit. Serve at once.

There Is No Dearth Of Popcorn

Popcorn has never been so plentiful! Farmers have just harvested the largest crop on record—484 million pounds, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service. This is almost twice as much popcorn as produced on 1957 and 88 per cent above the 10-year average.

Here's what happened to make this record crop. Farmers planted about 50 per cent more acres in popcorn last year than average, encouraged by the small crop and good markets of the previous year. In addition, yields per acre averaged 2,069 pounds. Yields in some fields were as high as 2 to 2½ tons per acre! These record yields can be traced to nearly ideal growing and harvesting weather for popcorn. Quality of the corn is usually high this year because of such low moisture content at harvesting.

About 13 states—most of them in the commercial corn belt—produce the largest share of the popcorn crop. Iowa was the leading producer last year, harvesting 87,750,000 pounds. Indiana was second, with 80,000,000 pounds.

Popcorn was evidently grown by the Indians of both North and South America before the coming of the white man. However, the crop has been important commercially only since about 1890.

Production and consumption have expanded phenomenally, since the U. S. Department of Agriculture introduced hybrid popcorn just before World War II.

For Older Folk

Cream-style cottage cheese is ideal for older folks who may have dental or digestive difficulties. Cottage cheese is easy to digest, quickly assimilated and a nourishing food.

SPICE VOCABULARY

GINGER, a spice, is available in either whole or ground form. Its color is tan, slightly lighter in ground form. The flavor is penetrating, distinctive and spicy.

GINGER is compatible with cookies, spice cake, Indian pudding, pumpkin pie; baked, stewed and preserved fruits, apple sauce, conserves; chutney, pickles; custard; buttered beets, carrots, squash, baked beans; cheese dishes; broiled and chopped beef, lamb and veal, meat stews, poultry; bean soup; French dressing.

Good Advice

If your cakes are not browning the way they should, it may be you are baking them in pans that are too deep for the amount of batter. Use the size of pan specified in a reliable recipe.

Tutti-Fruiti

A spoonful of orange marmalade on cherry vanilla ice cream makes an elegant tutti-fruitti sundae. The flavor of orange and cherry are natural partners.

Nutritive Fish, Easily Digested, Challenge Cooks To Experiment

Did you know that nine out of ten housewives in the nation serve canned fish or shellfish year round? It's true, according to a recent survey.

In this area we rely principally on the frozen or canned variety and use our imagination to conjure different ways of serving it, knowing that fish are easily digested and are an excellent source of complete protein.

A Devotional For Today

(Calaphas) prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation; and not for that nation only, but that also He should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad. (John 11:51, 52.)

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee that Thy Church is mother to all Thy children. We pray that Thy love, which was also in Christ, may fill all members of Thy Church and thus spread peace and good will among all men. In Christ's name. Amen.

Key Issue In School Consolidations

Voters in the Gay Hill district of Howard County and Gail Independent School District of Borden County ballot Saturday on whether to combine their districts.

Two other districts, Knott Independent of Howard County, and Ackerly Independent of Dawson, Martin and Borden counties are engaging in informal talks regarding consolidation.

These proposals may stem in part from a desire to provide through unity what either district may not be able to do singly. They also may stem from conscious or subconscious fear that some big district will gobble up the small district. The former basis is a commendable approach to the problem, but the latter is hardly the basis for a wise solution to school problems.

School consolidation is much like marriage; the ties are so enduring that it should not be entered into lightly or impulsively. Unless the course is clearly in the long-term interests of the children, it is wise to take the conservative approach to the problem and not to change until the course is clear.

Unfortunately every time the Legislature goes into session, an undercurrent of rumors about forced consolidation is set in motion. No measure now before the Legislature gives basis for this fear. Unfortunately, the rumors sometimes take the form of libels to other districts. For instance, there have been tales to the effect the Big Spring district lacks in scholastic standing, that its unit costs are high. The truth of the matter is that the Big Spring district ranks with the best in standing with all the accrediting agencies; it is constantly trying to improve through evaluation surveys (such as will begin within weeks); it has a broad range of fields of study such as is possible only with a larger system; it has library, laboratory, and other facilities; yet it has managed to keep one of the lowest unit costs in the state.

But this is not the issue, except that decisions should be based upon facts and not upon rumors.

And who makes these decisions? Why the people in the districts involved, and nobody else. That's the way it is, and we are persuaded the way it should be. When people come to a decision on the basis of facts and on the basis of what will be the best for their children down through the years; and when they reach those decisions voluntarily and without fear, and without putting the pocketbook ahead of children they generally will come up with an answer they can live with in good conscience.

Ike Sounds More Emphatic

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, who in recent weeks has had to depend more on himself than at any time since entering the White House in 1953, sounded more emphatic, blunter, and more determined in his news conference Wednesday. At his meetings with congressional leaders last weekend he reportedly was very much in charge.

The two men he leaned on most are now out of the picture. Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's chief of staff in the White House until he resigned last summer, was a great cushion against the burdens of the presidency. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, now ill with cancer, had an extraordinary relationship with the President. He was Eisenhower's eyes and ears in foreign policy and much of the time his spokesman.

Now far more of the presidential load has landed on Eisenhower's shoulders, along with his many irritations. And Eisenhower is responding with a show of vigor.

In times past, if you attended one of his news conferences and didn't have to concentrate on taking notes, your mind was apt to wander as Eisenhower rambled through generalities that lacked a sharp edge.

Not Wednesday. He still got wound up in long, involved sentences which often scrambled subject and predicate, but he made points that did have an edge.

Perhaps it was out of exasperation with congressional Democrats, who have been calling on him to pump more men and money into the armed forces, that he finally said in effect: "There's not going to be a land war in Europe, and if the Allied troops there can't cope with whatever is done by the far more numerous Soviet troops, then the whole situation has passed beyond the point of limited war."

He didn't volunteer any statement that if war could not be limited to land engagements then nuclear weapons might have to be used. But under questioning he indicated he was not ruling out the possibility of nuclear war.

This might have been intended to make the Soviets think soberly before they tried any adventures around West Berlin. But, since it might also make American Allies in Europe edgy, he must have thought of that, too, before he spoke.

It was tough talk. But Eisenhower's attitude on the crisis Premier Nikita Khrushchev cooked up on Berlin has been increasingly, although not blatantly, tough.

Perhaps the best sign of his bluntness came when he was asked what he thought of Khrushchev's proposal that maybe the Berlin problem could be solved by letting Soviet troops join Allied troops in West Berlin.

"At first, almost as if by force of habit, Eisenhower launched out on an explanation with a generalized moral tone.

He said this country would consult in the most democratic way with its allies in framing an answer to the Soviet demands about getting out of West Berlin and leaving it a free city.

Then, as if impatient with himself for not getting to the point on the question about Khrushchev's proposal, Eisenhower wound up by saying: "Now, as to the violating everything I have said, I'd say I don't think much of it."

Kissing Can Be A Hard Job

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—In the old West, the man who usually wound up being bussed by his faithful pony.

Because of a growing feminine interest in these hothead sagas, however, horse kissing has died out as a major American art.

To please the ladies in the audience, the story now ends with the hero in a tender clinch with the faithful dance hall hostess—and the faithful horse can go eat grass, for all anybody cares.

Kissing pretty actresses seems an ideal job to the average man. But there are days when Gene Barry would just as soon turn this chore over to a stand-in.

For a temperamental actress he implied, can be worse than a temperamental mustang.

"Some of them try to give you that old feminine flimflam," Gene said.

He began his professional career at 16. He sold jewelry, shoes and ladies' wear before making the big time on Broadway.

Since then he has been in a dozen films, traveled the night club circuit, and appeared on more than 100 television shows before he hit the real pay dirt as a stand-in.

His derby hat, tight suit and gold-headed cane—it often takes the place of a pistol—are now symbols of elegance to the teen-agers and middle-aged ladies who idolize him.

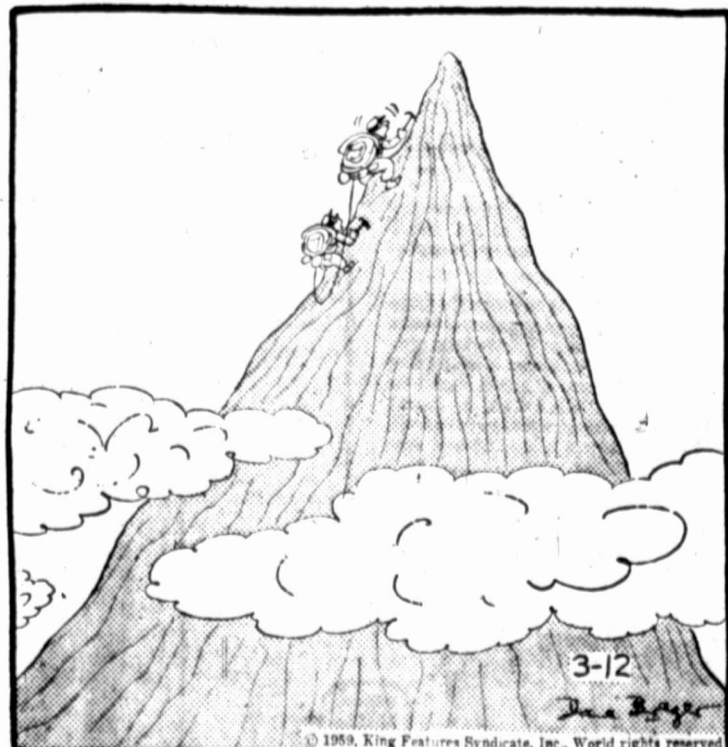

He hopes to go on to directing and producing. But if the present mania for Westerns should fade and leave him stranded—unlikely, since he is a man of many talents—he's ready to take up a new career.

"I'd go in for contracting and building," he said. "I recently built my own house, and I like the field."

Barry recently said his goal was to have "a greater concern for the more simple and basic things" in life.

Then he added with a grin: "But first you gotta get rich. Then you don't have to worry about dough and can afford to squander your money... on the simple, basic things."

Around The Rim Oh, For A Little Less Hair

I wish my hair would either turn all gray or recede a little further.

Like it is, my acquaintances keep me off balance an embarrassed. And I can't tell whether they're joking or not.

I happen to be afflicted with a gray streak that starts right in the center of my forehead and goes over the top. Something like a skunk's stripe, which it reminds me of.

It suggests something else to my thought.

"Well, I see you've dyed that strip of hair again," they're apt to remark when I join their circle.

"Such vanity," someone else generally chimes in. "I though high school kids were the only ones to do that."

Now, I've always been one to poke fun at people who smear black stuff on their eyebrows, rub blue paint under their eye sockets and change the color of their hair.

I realize they do this in order to achieve what the beauty and personality columnists refer to as "naturalness." And I certainly don't want to discourage anyone from looking natural, at any cost.

If a blue smudge under the eyeballs, black eyebrows and green or red hair streak together to make one look natural, more power to the paint peddlers and the beauty columnists. But I don't believe the greasing, dyes, stains and bleaches will do anything for nature.

Just for the record, I don't dye that skunk's streak across the top of my head. Fact is, I once got clobbered in the crown with the head end of a shoe.

It peeled back the scalp a few stitches, and when it came back there was a scar. Out of that scar sprang my white stripe.

How come I got hit in the head with a shoe is another story. If you'll keep quiet about my gray hair, I'll tell you about that someday.

Nasser Has Own Problems In Egypt

What effect the current trouble in Iraq will have on the West's relations with the United Arab Republic, i. e. with Gamal Abdul Nasser, is beyond my power of prophecy.

But when I was in Egypt a fortnight ago, there was cautious, and I emphasize the word cautious, belief that the West's relations with the U.A.R., which holds down Nasser, had hit bottom and are currently on the upgrade. This was the feeling in Western diplomatic circles.

There was no overweening optimism that Nasser is going to be easy to live with—just easier than in the past two or three years when the honeymoon with the Soviets was still on. Nor should the trouble in Iraq be much of a shock to anyone who has recently been in Egypt. Nasser adherents were openly confident that it was ready to fall like a ripe plum.

Even a brief visit to Egypt underscores one tough fact that we shall probably have to live with for a long time: like him or lump him, Nasser will be in the camel saddle in the foreseeable future. His hold on the Egyptian people is mesmerizing and absolute.

But if the Egyptian dictator and rattle boxer of Arab nationalism presents a problem to the West, he in turn has problems that seem to demand miracles if they are not to be classified as insurmountable. He must, if he is to succeed, do the impossible—abolish the semi-starvation and the hideous poverty that debases his people and all but wrings the humanity from men, women and children.

If Nasser should succeed in building his dream, the Aswan Dam, it will do no more than irrigate enough additional arable acreage to feed the present Egyptian population of approximately 25,000,000. The new acreage, if and when achieved, cannot hope to keep pace with the high Egyptian birth rate.

Egypt had a population of 4,000,000 in 1900 and now, 59 years later, has more than six times that number! An additional half-million hungry mouths are added to the population annually.

To give his people a half way decent standard of living is an appalling problem. It is one woman's opinion that a full stomach is basic to Nasser's other great reforms, including his fight on mass illiteracy and mass insanitation. But the exploding birth rate will make his primary problem increasingly difficult to solve.

It was fascinating to see great billboards throughout Cairo calling attention to a "Women's Health and Welfare Program," government inspired. I was told that through this agency, Nasser not only hopes to make some progress in teaching the rudiments of sanitation to Egyptians, but also birth control.

Nasser has not only made his nationals conscious of their dreadful poverty but ashamed of it, and the resultant debased standard of living for millions. The first thing an upper-class Egyptian does on meeting a Westerner is to deprecate the awful poverty and dirt of the masses, and explain plans to mitigate both.

As for the wretched masses, they are so sensitive now of their unenviable lot and its reflection on Egypt that the thoughtless tourist with a camera who turns his lens on some picturesque instance of squalor can find himself in the midst of a hostile mob. Nowadays, it is the better part of wisdom to ask permission, which will usually be granted, before snapping at random the scenes that Nasser's Egypt hopes to abolish if the age of miracles is not past.

The Drop-Off In Congressional Voting

WASHINGTON—What happened to the 8,600,000 Republicans who voted in 1956 but didn't vote in 1958?

This is the puzzling question that is stirring the Republican party leaders as they strive now to write a platform designed to bring "conservative" and "non-conservative" groups together behind a single expression of party policy.

At first glance, it might be assumed that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans voted Democratic and that, therefore, the Republican platform now might better imitate the Democrats. But a closer look at the Democratic total shows that most of the 8,600,000 Republicans couldn't have voted Democratic. For even if some of them did, this didn't make up for defections from the Democratic party. The total of all votes for the Democratic ticket for members of Congress throughout the nation in the last election was 4,200,000 less in the 1958 congressional elections than the party got in 1956 for members of Congress. Of this total which didn't vote, more than half were in the South. Thus, the loss in the North for the Democrats was about 1,700,000.

Two facts, therefore, stand out. One is that both parties lost votes, and the other is that the Republicans had the larger loss.

But why, it may be asked, do fewer persons vote for members of Congress than for the presidential candidate? A drop-off in the total vote might be expected in an off-year election, because there is no single figure running for office at the top of the ticket, but the real question is why the persons who actually get to the polls in a presidential election fail to vote at the same time for members of Congress.

Over a period of 60 years, the gap between the presidential vote and the congressional vote has been steadily widening, irrespective of party. Probably the answer is to be found in the gradual change that has been made in the nature of the ballot, in different states and also in the growing population of each state and district. The voters simply do not know the candidates or what they stand for, or else the separate ballot for Congress is tossed away by many voters. In the old days, presidential and congressional candidates were on the same ballot, which made it easier for straight-ticket voting.

It's a serious thing to see the voting drop off for members of Congress, who play such a dominant role in making the laws of the land. It is often true that many voters are indifferent to national issues, or that many do not understand how such issues concretely apply to their own lives. The losses apply also to residential districts where it would be assumed that the voters would be well informed on current issues. But just why so many millions do not vote Republican any more is a question that the Republicans themselves are debating.

Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is raising the whole question in a series of chats which, as chairman of the Republic can Senatorial Campaign Committee, he is preparing to present to leaders and party workers in different parts of the country. These show that only in Arizona, where the Republican party adopted a "conservative" line, did the number of Republican votes actually increase in 1958 over the vote for members of Congress in 1956.

Let it be thought that there is something special or unusual about the 1958 congressional election, the statistics show that the Republicans, while losing 8,600,000 votes as compared with 1956, had a total vote in 1958 of 3,800,000 less than in 1954. This happened even though the voting population in the country was increasing in the interval. It is true there also was a recession in 1954; but the fact remains that the Republicans didn't get out their vote, and the Democrats did.

The Democratic success was due primarily to the superior machinery of the Democrats in getting out the vote, principally in the ranks of union-labor families. Thus, the public opinion polls show that in 1958 the labor vote divided 65 per cent to the Democrats and 35 per cent to the Republicans, which is almost exactly what it was two years before in the Eisenhower election. This means that, as the Democrats got their vote to the polls and the Republicans didn't, the labor vote, being normal, swelled the totals for the Democrats.

The advantage the Democrats have in a labor-union political apparatus that costs many millions of dollars is plain to see. Unless the Republicans find ways of getting out their "conservative" vote, the Congress will be more and more dominated by the "pro-labor" and "pro-liberal" bloc which believe in more and more governmental control of everything except their own group activities. A counterpart of the British Socialist Labor party will then emerge in the United States.

Marquis Childs Counter Views On Military Spending

WASHINGTON—What President Eisenhower made abundantly clear to the Congressional leaders was that his view of the Berlin crisis is quite different from that of almost everyone else. He sees it as another effort by the Communists to force the United States to spend itself into bankruptcy.

Prodding on the need for more military spending or at the very least the rescinding of the cuts in the size of the Army and Marine Corps got the men from Capitol Hill nowhere. The impression was of a President with his mind firmly made up and with no intention of changing it.

Reviewing their discussion with the President, the Democrats believe that in view of this attitude there is little that they can do to prepare for a showdown on Berlin that might require the use of at least limited force. It is an executive responsibility, and the Legislature cannot force the hand of the commander-in-chief.

The Congressional leaders, and later the committee chairmen who heard the President expound his views more forcefully than he has done in a long time, point out that perhaps as much as one billion dollars appropriated over and above the White House request of a year ago has been held back. Editorial criticism of the Democratic majority for failing to take the initiative is beginning to cause resentment. Disagreeing sharply with the Eisenhower thesis that the nation cannot afford to spend any more for defense than is in the administration budget, they nevertheless fail to see what they can do about it.

The President, it was evident, got a jolt when a large portion of an issue of long-term government bonds offered a month ago failed to sell in the normal commercial channels. Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson, on whom a heavy responsibility rests, took fright and he communicated his fears to the White House.

This served to underwrite the strong feeling the President already had about the need to balance the budget. If any additional indoctrination had been required it was supplied by George M. Humphrey when the President went quail shooting in Georgia with the former Secretary of Treasury. As one participant in the White House talks put it, the voice was the voice of Eisenhower but the words were the words of George Humphrey.

On the question of more money for missiles the President spoke forcefully and at length. He said that within a year the Atlas might be obsolete and large additional sums put into fixed sites and missiles above the budgetary quota would be wasted.

He gave every appearance of being completely unmovable by the growing demand to make an effort to close the admitted missile gap—a ratio of three to one for the Soviets in ICBMs within two to three years. And this was the President himself and not his secretary of Defense, Neil McElroy. As in his rather sad performance on TV's Meet the Press, McElroy got the impression of one who might have had other ideas if the line had not been so narrowly drawn by his superior.

In the course of displaying more conviction than most of those present had seen in a long time the President read Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, sitting on his left, a lecture. Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is opposed to foreign aid, and Eisenhower gave him a verbal spanking that was good-natured but nonetheless emphatic.

The President repeated what he has said several times recently—that if it was a question of economy he would rather see it in his military budget than in foreign aid. This presages the major conflict of this session of Congress as the Democrats show more and more willingness to cut deep into the $39 billion Eisenhower has requested for foreign aid. SOMETHING NEW IN BARBECUES

There is Oriental magic in the air when you barbecue egg rolls and Chinese hamburgers on an outdoor grill. Make an aluminum foil boat for Chun King's egg rolls. Fashion hamburgers, and add sliced pineapple and halved bananas to the grill. Green onions, mustard and Chinese Burger Sauce give zest to the miniature luau. To make enough Chinese Burger Sauce for four generous hamburgers mix:

- 1/2 cup Chun King Soy Sauce
- 1 clove of garlic, crushed
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon powdered ginger (or a little slice of fresh ginger root finely minced)
- 1/4 cup sherry wine (optional)

Use sauce to baste hamburgers and to brush pineapple slices and bananas.

Small Girl, Cars Struck With BB's

Complaints from two city motorists of boys firing on their cars with air rifles and a report that a small girl was shot in the leg by other juvenile marksmen has led A. E. Long, juvenile officer, to issue another warning against the indiscriminate misuse of these toys.

He said the little girl was not seriously hurt and that damage to the cars was minor but that the danger was still there. Further, he pointed out, the city ordinances sternly forbid the shooting of such weapons inside the city limits under any conditions.

He warned that any boy caught violating the ordinance will be brought before the juvenile court immediately.

Onions Down

AUSTIN (AP) — Production of South Texas onions was estimated at 1,788,000 hundredweight, about 30 per cent less than last year, the Department of Agriculture reported.

Ancient Japanese Writing Is Basis Of New Abstract Art

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's traditional way of writing with a brush is fostering a lively movement here — with influences felt in many countries abroad.

It is based on the fact that the Japanese language is a "pictorial" one. With written characters taken from the Chinese expressing ideas and concepts.

For centuries, Japanese have devoted themselves to developing a beautiful handwriting — calligraphy — reproducing the characters making up the language in graceful strokes of the brush.

Now artists are going many steps further. They take a specific character and "divorce it from its literal meaning" but retain its "spiritual identity" almost the same way that Western abstract artists may turn a still life into a seemingly indecipherable blob of paint on a canvas.

Thousands of Japanese still prefer the brush for formal occasions

Abstract Artist

Shiryu Morita, above, examining one of his paintings, is one of several abstract artists whose work is influenced by the ancient Japanese art of writing with a brush. Note that Morita paints with five brushes tied together.

and over and down again. The painting is over in less than 1 1/2 minutes.

True to the spirit of Oriental calligraphy, Morita paints on rice paper instead of canvas.

"The brush strokes, the light and dark swishes and their shadows should be visible," Morita says. "And you can't get this effect on canvas."

Morita contends that "Japanese letters have shape and form. They also have feeling. I want to bring life and expression to that feeling."

Morita, 45, lives in an old two-story house in the northern outskirts of Kyoto where he devotes much of his time editing two monthly pamphlets that are more in demand abroad than in Japan.

They are "Bokubi" which means "beauty of black and white" and "Bokujin" which means "man of black and white." He founded both publications eight years ago.

A comparatively quiet man, Morita doesn't accept any disciples. Asked why, he replies: "I have no time to give individual instructions. I'm still seeking a medium that I can call my own."

Morita's works are characterized by large bold dashing charcoal black strokes. He generally uses five large Chinese writing brushes tied together.

Morita claims that "the heart of the brush amply soaked with 'sumi' (ink) — at the moment it touches the paper — that is the essence of my writing. It is that precise moment when I know whether I've produced a successful piece."

His brush swings over to the right, then swiftly to the left and then down again. With lightning speed it continues swishing up

Man-Animal Germ Conference Opens

AUSTIN (AP) — Specialists on diseases common to man and animals looked today for new answers to break the bridge which transmits diseases from one to the other.

Representatives of nationwide research foundations, government agencies and educational institutions attended the opening of the 3-day conference on diseases in nature transmissible to man.

Sarnoff Wants Pulitzer Prize To Cover Television

By CHARLES MERCER
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Sarnoff, board chairman of the National Broadcasting Co. proposes that the scope of Pulitzer Prizes be expanded to include television.

Sarnoff said in part: "I believe television's ability to attract the finest creative talent would be increased if it were possible for a TV drama to win America's most universally respected mark of creative excellence, a Pulitzer Prize.

"I further believe Pulitzer recognition could do much to stimulate electronic journalism—a form of journalism which is now within the province of Mr. Pulitzer's heirs and of many other distinguished American publishers."

It strikes me, personally, that Sarnoff views the Pulitzers from a slightly different angle than what I take to be the view of the board that awards them.

Trying to read anyone's mind is risky, but I gather Sarnoff views the prizes as a stimulus to creative talent. The board, on the other hand, views its prizes as awards for specific pieces of work accomplished by a single or group talent—and if they stimulate others to excellence, so much the better.

Personally, I don't believe that anyone ever tried to accomplish anything because he hoped to win a Pulitzer Prize. Surely the expectation of a Pulitzer never inspired anyone to write two lines of poetry (to name one category of awards) or to undergo the grinding labor of writing a novel (to name another). Why, then, should it lead anyone to write a television drama?

Sarnoff's argument is weakened, in my opinion, because he fails to list a dozen or more original television dramas which he considers prize material. I believe they simply didn't exist in 1958.

And I can't believe that a dozen or so outstanding originals would suddenly be produced in 1959 simply because the possibility of a Pulitzer Prize came into being.
