A Bit O' Irish On St. Patrick's Day

Irish brogue filled to and fro as Kathleen Patricia Bridget Quinlan (Mrs. Leland) Graves and John Quigley admired this green Bell of Ireland plant this St. Patrick's Day. Mrs. Graves, native of County Wexford, by the Mountains of Mourne, has lived in West Texas nine years and plans to return to her home for a visit in May. Quigley, whose parents came from Ireland, presented the Bells of Ireland as a St. Patrick's Day gesture.

Gas Accumulation Blamed For Death Of C-City Woman

COLORADO CITY—An accumulation of gas from a kitchen oven apparently caused the explosion and fire which took the life of Mrs. Ida E. Adams, 91, at her home, 408 Short St., Monday afternoon, local authorities said today. Mrs. Adams' body was found directly in front of the oven. She apparently attempted to light the stove and set off the blast, firemen said. The small frame house was almost consumed by the fire which followed the explosion. Rescue efforts were beaten back by the flames. Mrs. Adams lived alone. Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. J. F. Selcraig, pastor, officiating. Interment was to be in Colorado City Cemetery.

1 1/2 Per Cent Clause' Cut From Planning Contract

Acting at a special called meeting Monday evening, the City Commission voted to change the contract agreement with Forrest & Cotton, Dallas engineering firm selected to conduct a master plan survey here. The change removes the clause tying the city to Forrest & Cotton for future work. Under provisions of the contract approved last week, the city was obligated to pay Forrest & Cotton for any engineering improvements covered by the master plan for five years from the time the master plan work was completed. The city was to pay the firm $15,000 for the master plan. This fee, however, could be refunded on a pro rata basis out of regular 1 1/2 per cent engineering fees due on the capital improvements work. In the event the city hired another firm to engineer projects mentioned in the master plan during the five years, the city would have to pay Forrest & Cotton 1 1/2 per cent of the construction contracts in addition to the fees to the firm actually handling the engineering. As the contract has been amended, the city pays Forrest & Cotton $15,000 for its phase of the master plan and then it may hire any firm it chooses for the improvements. There will be no return from Forrest & Cotton, nor

Argument Over Taxes Roars In Legislature

Presidents Meet No Blarney: Son Of Ould Sod Designed U.S. White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Sean Thomas O'Kelly of Ireland will be receiving a bit of a surprise this St. Patrick's Day and be after giving one of his own, he will. From President Eisenhower himself O'Kelly will be getting, 'White House was designed by a son of Dublin, James Doban by name. The White House staff has been researching it, they say, and it will be dropped, as casual as a Donegal air, into today's Eisenhower-O'Kelly palaver at the summit. And fine news it will be to the first Irish president ever to visit the new sod. O'Kelly let it be known on arrival at New York Monday. He felt right at home. There's a grand parade, from the airport to Hoban's White House, with Irishmen of all nationalities marching and cheering, and there's also a fine sign, three stories overhead, written in Gaelic. "Cead mile failte," the sign says. "One hundred thousand welcomes." As to Hoban, he walked off with the prize for the best looking White House design. He pocketed $500 and, in the 1790s, that wasn't Killarney dew. Hoban finished the work Oct. 18, 1792. But then the British burned it down in 1814 and he had to go and do it all over again. He stayed faithful to the original facade, and why not? It is the likes of the Duke of Leinster's house in Dublin. But Sean O'Kelly has a surprise, too. According to an old Irish source, the most reliable kind, he will scatter shamrocks on the grave of George Washington Parke Custis in Arlington National Cemetery. Custis, the son of the stepson of America's first president, was a Protestant of English descent. But never was a man so fond of the Irish or the Irish cause. No man of his time in Arlington, Va., could forget the sights of Custis marching in his coat of green on St. Patrick's Day. In 1884, Custis declared: "Years after my mortal body shall have been laid in the bosom of our common mother, some honest Irish heart may come, and dropping a shamrock on my grave cry 'God bless him.'"

Daniel, Carr Disagree On Sales Taxes

AUSTIN (AP)—The argument over taxes and tax terms roared on in the Legislature today. Gov. Price Daniel and Speaker Waggoner Carr were in sharp disagreement over what makes a sales tax, although Carr said he had no quarrel with the governor. The state AFL-CIO sided with Daniel who again voiced opposition to a sales tax. Carr also agreed on the phrase "general sales tax"—but the speaker did not agree with the governor, who said that some of the broad-based tax proposals Carr has mentioned favorably are in effect sales taxes. The Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas followed Daniel's attack on natural gas lobbyists with a statement saying that the industry is already paying more different taxes than any other. It is now paying out 74 million dollars a year in taxes, said the statement. Spokesmen for producers and transmitters of natural gas told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee Daniel's proposed three per cent tax on contract gas is invalid. Backers of the plan testified that it was legal and that consumers who use Texas gas in the northeast are getting it cheaper than Texans and should be taxed for it. The bill went to subcommittee. Carr said on television last night it was too early for him to say just what tax he would ultimately favor, but that if Texas teachers are going to get the pay raise they want, "some new people" are going to have to be brought into the tax picture. Daniel said yesterday the biggest lobby in 20 years was fighting his program and that corporation lobbyists wanted to put the burden on the cost of living and not on the ability to pay. Some taxes proposed within the "broad base" definition are in effect sales taxes, the governor said. Carr disagreed, saying they were not even though the consumer ultimately had to pay. Other important measures were sent to the calendar for debate by legislative committees. Before a big crowd, the House State Affairs Committee heard last night lengthy arguments on a bill favored by the rural electric co-ops and opposed by private power interests. It was a measure to nail down the desire of the REA's to peddle power in formerly rural areas annexed to cities. The start of the hearing was delayed by a long parliamentary argument and the committee adjourned after 11:30 p.m. without hearing all the testimony.

120,000 Irishmen Gather For St. Patrick Parade

By IRISH DONNELLY NEW YORK (AP)—Free and frisky Irishmen gathered today for the St. Patrick's Day parade. An estimated 120,000 sons and daughters of Erin assembled in 62 battalions for the Fifth Avenue march in honor of Ireland's patron saint. This was the first time in 24 years that the event was not under the guidance of John J. Sheahan, sidelined by illness. The music of the day from hundreds of bands given places in the parade included such Irish favorites as "Garryowen," "The Wearing of the Green" and "O'Donnell Ahu." Among the musicians was the St. Laurence O'Toole Pipe Band of Dublin, a sight to behold in green kilts with navy blue jackets trimmed in green and white. The "Fighting 69th," officially the 165th Infantry Regiment of the New York National Guard, had the honor of showing the way along Fifth Avenue for the 108th consecutive year, with its 38-piece band.

Catholics Buy Church Site

St. Thomas Catholic Church has acquired ownership of a 10-acre tract south and west of the city on the old San Angelo Highway as a future site for a new church. A deed was filed in the office of the county clerk on Monday transferring ownership of the tract from Sunny Edwards to the Most Rev. John L. Morkovsky, bishop of the Amarillo Diocese. The price stated in the deed for the land was $34,000. Church officials here said that the new church would be built when funds are available and that plans call for an edifice with an auditorium large enough to seat 500 persons. The official description of the land acquired by the Diocese is the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of northeast quarter of Section 13, Block 33, Township 1-south, Texas and Pacific Survey.

Cliff Hurt, Veteran Druggist, Succumbs

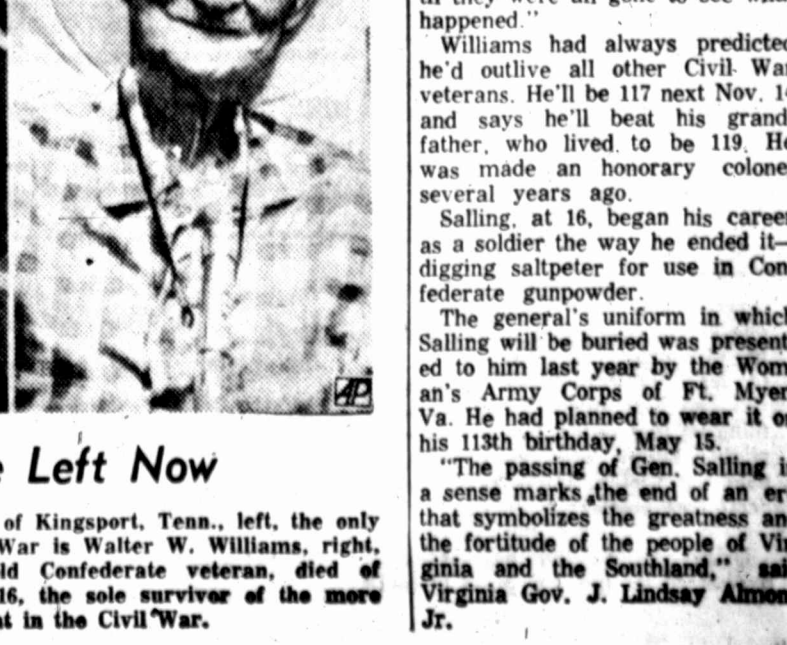

John Clifford Hurt, 68, who served his fellow man for more than two score years as a pharmacist, died early today at Baylor Hospital in Dallas. He had entered the hospital a week ago after suffering a massive coronary attack. Although he managed to hold his own despite the critical extent of the attack, he died at 12:22 a.m. Tuesday. The funeral will be held at the First Baptist Church at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday with his pastor, the Rev. Clyde Nichols, minister of the First Christian Church, officiating, assisted by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church where the family worshipped most frequently. Arrangements are in charge of the River Funeral Home. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park. Almost everyone knew him simply as Cliff Hurt, a friendly, solid and unassuming man who had a genuine interest in his friends and others for whom he compounded healing drugs. For 45 years he dispensed prescriptions for three drug firms. Four years ago in March that tenure was interrupted for a time when he suffered two heart attacks, one of which almost took his life. However, he had regained his health and returned to his post. Mr. Hurt was a member of a prominent pioneer family and was born in Big Spring on June 13, 1889, to Dr. and Mrs. John H. Hurt. His father was an early day physician who served for many years as the T&P doctor. When he was sent far in school here as he could, Cliff Hurt went to Columbia Military Academy in Tennessee and was graduated from it in 1914 when he graduated from the University of Texas School of Pharmacy at Galveston, where he was a member of the pharmaceutical fraternity. He returned to Big Spring and worked for a time with the late B. Reagin in his drug store before joining the late J. D. Biles. He joined Cunningham & Philips in

Neighbors, Nation Pay Last Respects To Civil War Vet

GATE CITY, Va. (AP)—The hill country neighbors who loved him and an Army for which he never fought began paying final homage today to John Salling, the next-to-last of the boys in gray. Salling, 112, died Monday in a short illness. His passing left Williams, 116, of Houston, Tex., the only surviving Civil War veteran. Salling never saw combat. He never rose above the rank of private in "General Lee's army," with which he proudly identified himself. But he will go to his grave in the full dress uniform of a Confederate general and with full military honors from the Army of the United States. Today, Wednesday and most of Thursday morning, the body of the frail old rebel will lie in state in a shining copper casket in the National Guard Armory here, while a 2nd Army honor guard stands watch. Thousands are expected to file with the casket, draped with a Confederate flag. At 11:30 a.m. Thursday, an Army chaplain will conduct funeral rites at the 1,000-seat armory, then, under military escort, the body will be taken to the Salling family cemetery in Slant, Va., 12 miles away, for burial. The Army will provide a color guard; an eight-man firing squad for last salutes; six officers as honorary pallbearers; six enlisted men as body-bearers. An Army band will play. Friends and relatives of Salling agreed it will be just the sort of exit scene the old man would have liked. Among the flowers at the funeral will be some sent by Williams the only man left from the four million troops of blue and gray. At word of Salling's death, Williams asked, "Am I the last one?" Told that he was, he said, "Well, I always wanted to stay here until they were all gone to see what happened." Williams had always predicted he'd outlive all other Civil War veterans. He'll be 117 next Nov. 14 and says he'll beat his grandfather, who lived to be 119. He was made an honorary colonel several years ago. Salling, at 16, began his career as a soldier the way he ended it—digging saltpeter for use in Confederate gunpowder. The general's uniform in which Salling will be buried was presented to him last year by the Women's Army Corps of Ft. Myers, Va. He had planned to wear it on his 113th birthday, May 15. "The passing of Gen. Salling in a sense marks the end of an era that symbolizes the greatness and the fortitude of the people of Virginia and the Southland," said Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr.

Worst Storm Of Year

Jim MacPhee guides a snowplow clearing the walk in front of the Boston, Mass., Symphony Hall as the worst storm of the season hit New England. The snow, driven by winds blowing 30 to 40 miles an hour, accumulated 6 to 12 inches. MacPhee, an employee of the Boston Flower show at Symphony Hall, had to take time out from his flower-tending duties to try and keep the walk clear.

Father, Children Leave Death Notes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two children wrote notes to their mother. Then Gerald Ray Glass kept a log of events of the few minutes preceding the time when he and his children lost consciousness and died of carbon monoxide fumes in the family car. The notes penciled by Glass said: "It is now five minutes to eight. The engine is idling and the motor has been on 10 minutes. "I am beginning to get sleepy. "My heart is speeding up and pumping fast. "My eyes are droopy but otherwise normal. "We're talking about God and heaven. "Sheriff's deputies did not reveal the contents of the children's notes but said the sense of each was that the children agreed with their father's plans for their deaths. "Dep. Coroner James O. Butler ruled that Glass killed his only children—10-year-old Jerry and 8-year-old Arlene—and took his own life Sunday night. "Butler said notes found in the car indicated the 34-year-old aircraft company electrician was depressed. He declined to elaborate. "Neither friends nor relatives give a motive for the deaths. "Mrs. Glass said there had been no trouble between her and her husband. They had been married 12 years. "I just can't believe it's my husband and children," she repeated over and over. "It must be a mistake. "The Glass family had only recently moved into a new medium-priced home and have not yet had a telephone installed. "Neighbors said Monday night that Mrs. Glass had been given sedation and put to bed. "When the bodies were found in a lonely spot near suburban Homewood Monday Glass still clutched the tape which Butler said he had used to bind a garden hose to the car's exhaust and lead it into the car. The carbon monoxide fumes did the rest, Butler added. Arlene was found on the front seat beside her father, her dolls on her lap and other toys beside her. In the back seat lay Jerry's body, his school books at his side. The car apparently was parked soon after Glass left home Sunday night reportedly to take the children skating. Mrs. Glass spent a worried, sleepless night before reporting her family missing Monday morning. Police Chief E. L. Scott of Homewood found the grim scene when he noticed the car parked in the lonely spot, for several hours. The ignition key was turned on, the gas tank empty.

2,342 Texans Died In Traffic

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas closed its 1958 traffic death book today with 2,342 persons killed in accidents, the Department of Public Safety said today. Department Director Homer Garrison Jr. said there were 197 less fatalities than in 1957, a decrease of 8 per cent. It was the lowest death rate since 1949 when 1,957 were killed. Injuries increased from 122,000 to 127,000. There were only five deathless days. The worst day was Aug. 17, a Sunday, when 23 traffic deaths were counted. Christmas Day had 22 deaths. Loving County continued its deathless record that began in 1939. Eight other counties reported no traffic deaths. They were Franklin, King, Lipscomb, Madison, Menard, McMullen, Real and Schleicher, the department said.

Yale Students Get Warning Against Riots

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University's student body was under indefinite probation today with a warning from school officials that any public misbehavior — such as the weekend snowball melees — would bring immediate expulsion. Three deans issued the order Monday. It placed the city of New Haven off-limits to any campus social functions. However, except for a curtailment in two freshmen dormitories, there was no ban on any on-campus social functions. Yale is located in the center of the city.

University President A. Whitney Griswold said a study group of New Haven and school officials would be formed to prevent further outbreaks. Griswold made the announcement after meeting with Mayor Richard C. Lee, who once headed Yale's news bureau. Yale has about 3,900 undergraduates. Forty-one were arrested during last week's trouble, which began with a heavy snowfall Thursday. The snow forced cars to crawl along the streets between the campus and the city green. Students took the opportunity to bombard the cars with snowballs, and did the same to police when they showed up. Police arrested 24 of them. On Saturday students again threw snowballs, this time at the rear guard of a St. Patrick's Day parade. About 1,000 students gathered on a street that cuts through the campus as police approached. One hundred policemen, armed with night sticks and backed by fire hoses, drove the students inside the gates of a residential college. That time 16 students were arrested. Another student was arrested Monday in a separate incident. A policeman claimed the student shouted an obscenity at him. The students under arrest, on assorted charges ranging from breach of the peace to resisting arrest and abusing a police officer, will appear in city court later this week. Griswold apologized for the outbreaks, charging the students with "boorishness." The Yale Daily News, a student publication, has agreed that the students were responsible for the trouble, but also accused the police of brutality. Some students showed up in classes Monday wearing armbands with the number 14 on them. This was an ironic reference to the armbands worn by Cuban revolutionaries, who took their name and insignia from an unsuccessful uprising on the 26th of July.

Iraqi Sheiks Suffer Crushing Defeat In Anti-Kassem Revolt

Editor's note: AP Correspondent Stan Carter was the first American newsman to reach Iraq after the abortive revolt against Premier Abdel Karim Kassem last week.

MOSUL, Iraq (AP) — Iraq's landowning Arab sheiks have suffered a crushing defeat in Mosul that may hasten their final dispersion into the desert. The palace of the paramount sheik in this city of minarets on the banks of the Tigris is blood-stained, scarred by gunfire and gutted by looters after the failure of last week's rebellion against Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

Sheik Achmad Ajil Aliliyawa, a handsome figure in flowing tribal dress, is absolute ruler of 60,000 Shammar tribesmen in Syria, Iraq and Saudi Arabia. He is believed to have escaped into the desert while his followers fought from room to room defending the palace. With him may have gone virtually all of his power in the economic and political structure of the country. It appears in Mosul that the rebellion was the work of sheiks, wealthy merchants, sympathizers with President Gamal Abdul Nasser of the United Arab Republic, and ambitious officers — divergent of overthrowing Kassem.

The wealthy were behind the plot, said a French priest at a Dominican Roman Catholic monastery surrounded by mud-walled dwellings of the poor. "They were afraid they would be dispossessed. They were going to lose some of their land because of the agrarian reform law. They took up arms against the government and now they will lose all." The battalion commander whose forces restored order for the government claimed that Col. Abdul Wahab Shawaf, who led the revolt, was an opportunist encouraged by sheik Ajil, lesser sheiks and wealthy city merchants who also are absentee landlords of farmland tilled by the peasants. They are said to have been provoked to force by the government's attempt to put into effect an agrarian reform law issued by Kassem two and a half months after last summer's revolution overthrew the monarchy. Redistribution of land is a major project of Kassem, who says the reason for overthrowing the monarchy was the urgent need for improving the lot of the incredibly poor masses.

For centuries most of Iraq's farmland has been owned by landlords who took up to nine-tenths of the crop. The reform law limits ownership to 600 irrigated or 1,200 unirrigated acres. It provides for redistribution of the balance to peasants, with the owners to be repaid over a 20-year period.

In recent weeks the leftist Baghdad press had been complaining that authorities in Mosul province, in the northwest corner of the country, were dragging their feet in putting the law into action.

The Shammar tribe of nomads in central Arabia marched with the Hashemites against the Ottoman Empire in World War I. After the British installed Hashemite King Faisal I as ruler of Iraq, Shammar sheiks became extremely influential politically and economically. Gradually many of the tribe settled on farmland on the fringes of the desert, but thousands still roam with herds of camels from western Syria through Iraq and down into Saudi Arabia.

The tribe is still a law unto itself, with hundreds of lesser sheiks acting as judges of the first instance and the paramount sheik the final, supreme judge. Achmad Ajil, who succeeded as paramount sheik when his father died a few years ago, is a young looking, dark skinned man of about 40 and extremely wealthy. The tribe owns hundreds of thousands of acres, some of it in his name, some in the name of the tribe. Achmad Ajil also owned big warehouses and factories in Mosul. He divided his time among his Baghdad and Mosul palaces and with his tribe in the desert. A foreign acquaintance says he bought tractors, plows, combines and other modern equipment to improve the lot of the tribe. But when threatened by redistribution of land which might lead to the shattering of the tribal system, he ordered thousands of his tribesmen to Mosul to participate in the revolt.

Kurdish tribesmen from the northeast, who are less dominated by their sheiks, arrived in Baghdad on Kassem's side. Shawaf's soldiers turned on him and killed him after he was wounded in a bombing by Iraqi air force planes. Pro-Kassem city dwellers, already organized into a volunteer militia, were joined in the mop-up of the rebels. Estimates of the dead run as high as 2,000.

Most of the Shammars faded into the desert. A large number were said to have been killed by pro-Kassem villagers. Achmad Ajil was first reported killed and his body hung from the heels on the bridge over the Tigris but a government spokesman says he is believed still at large.

Nasser-Khrushchev Fight Out In Open

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The fight between Gamal Abdel Nasser and Nikita Khrushchev was out in the open today after a bitter exchange of words in the struggle for control of Iraq.

The Soviet premier and the president of the United Arab Republic for the first time pulled off the wraps and accused each other of fomenting trouble in the Middle East.

Khrushchev accused Nasser of stirring up trouble in Iraq in an attempt to overthrow the Communist-influenced regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

He proclaimed the Soviet Union on the side of Kassem and warned Nasser that his new policy of attacking communism was "doomed to failure."

Granting a 550-million-ruble ($137,500,000) loan to Iraq in Moscow, Khrushchev told the representatives of the Kassem regime: "You have selfless and reliable friends who are ready to come to your aid any time you are in trouble."

A bitter retort came from Nasser, who until then had confined his attacks on Communists to Arab Reds and had carefully refrained from mentioning Moscow. "We do not interfere in the internal affairs of the Soviet Union or support a faction of it against another faction," replied Nasser in a statement distributed by his semi-official Middle East News Agency. "Mr. Khrushchev's support of communism in our country is a challenge to the Arab people's will."

Khrushchev and Nasser had clasped hands in hailing the July 14 revolt in Iraq that brought Kassem to power with the assassination of King Faisal and his pro-Western Premier Nuri Said. They joined in proclaiming the revolution a blow at the West.

The strain between Khrushchev and Nasser is the result of the abortive revolt in Iraq last week of army officers sympathetic to Nasser's goal of pan-Arab unity. Kassem's government in Baghdad coming more and more under the influence of the Iraqi Communists, accused Nasser of fomenting the rebellion. Nasser in turn has mounted a steadily rising campaign against Kassem and his Red supporters.

Khrushchev in Moscow accused Nasser of trying to force Iraq to join the United Arab Republic.

Nasser called this charge a "distortion of fact because we have always announced that our path is Arab solidarity, and in order to achieve this there must be unanimous Arab approval."

Geologist Hits 'Panicky' Oil Rights Search

DALLAS (AP)—A geologist claimed today that some U.S. companies have become what he termed "panicky" in seeking foreign oil concessions. He said these companies may upset financial arrangements and cause expropriation.

The speaker was George S. Buchanan, who addressed the American Assn. of Petroleum Geologists, of which he is president. In a speech prepared for delivery, he told the delegates that some companies have "jumped in on many occasions and consummated deals in foreign areas by paying enormous bonuses, high royalties, or made confiscatory net profit deals without proper evaluation."

He said the firms are more interested in the number of acres they can tie up than in oil possibilities. Buchanan called them "Johnny-come-latelys" and said they "have been so panicky... they have upset existing patterns of barter to the extent that they may encourage expropriation."

Buchanan, vice president of the Husky Oil Co., Cody, Wyo., said some of the rush to foreign fields is caused by failure to find more oil in the U.S. than is consumed. "True," he said, "we have found about as much as we consume annually, but much of this has been accomplished by deeper drilling in proven areas, extensions of presently productive fields and through improved engineering techniques."

He advocated developing foreign fields primarily to serve markets where the oil is found. "I am not suggesting that the American petroleum industry cease its foreign exploratory activity," he said, "but only that we use considered judgment in the future allocation of our exploratory budgets between domestic and foreign operations."

"The industry both here and abroad is simply not generating enough money to carry on its present ambitious commitments. More thought should be given to keeping our domestic picture strong and in balance."

He urged elimination of wasteful producing methods and continued study of oil recovery from shale, tar sands, lignite and coals. He also pointed to the underwater fields off the Texas and California coasts as possibilities for aggressive oil development.

3 Fishermen's Bodies Recovered

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP)—Bodies of three fishermen who drowned in Lake Texoma were recovered yesterday.

The victims were Jesse L. Atnip, 53, Sherman; Farrel Kyzer, 32, Garland, Tex.; and Atnip's son, J. C., 24, Garland.

Their home-made aluminum boat sank about one-half mile from the Walnut Creek Resort boat dock on the Texas-Oklahoma border lake. The men were last seen alive about 11 a.m. Sunday when they started fishing on the windswept lake.

Student Happy, Speechless Over Medal For Bravery

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—An 18-year-old University of New Mexico freshman said he was real happy about being awarded the Young American Medal for bravery.

But William Joseph Steury didn't know what else to say about it.

"I've never been a hero before," said Steury who was announced the winner of the honor Monday for saving the life of the Rev. Wayne Piety, 62, when the minister fell through the ice of a lake near Bluffton, Ind. Feb. 21, 1957.

Steury, then 16, was a junior at Bluffton, Ind. High School at the time.

"I took my girl out to Kunkel Lake near Bluffton and we started walking around," he said of the day the accident happened.

"While we were walking around the lake I saw this fisherman fall in the water. I got a rope and walked out on the lake to help him while my girl went back to the road to get help.

"I walked out there thinking I'd pull him out with the rope. But when I got there, the ice started cracking and I thought I'd go in."

"I tried to pull him out but the ice cracked and I couldn't get enough of a foothold to pull him out. I just couldn't budge him."

"I couldn't leave him either without breaking the ice, so I just held on until a state trooper came out and helped me. We both held on."

"I must have been out there about an hour and a half before a boat came out and picked all three of us up. It was getting dark and it sure seemed longer than that."

Steury, selected from a field of 23 nominees from 10 states, the District of Columbia and Hawaii, will be presented the medal by President Eisenhower at the White House.

County To Call For Bids On 10.8 Miles Of Paving

Howard County commissioners are to advertise for bids to pave 10.8 miles of county-built road, it was announced Monday. Bids are to be opened on April 6. Walter Parks, county engineer, said that all of the 10.8 miles of road will be ready for surfacing by the time the bids are opened and approved. He estimated that the cost of the project will run around $24,000. He said the per mile cost of topping county roads averages a little better than $2,100. Several road projects are lumped in the lot to be paved. Three miles on the West Knott road and four miles on the All-red road comprise the biggest projects. Other jobs are Old San Angelo road, one and one half miles south from Wasson Corners; one half mile on 2nd St.; 9 mile to complete a paved road to the Moss Creek Lake from the end of present paving; 9 mile of road in For-san. All of these jobs but, a small part of the West Knott road are ready now for paving and Parks said that this road will be out of the way before April 6.

Architect Dies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Kenneth Franzheim, 68, a former president of the American Institute of Architects, died Friday of a heart attack. Franzheim, who had requested that news of his death be withheld until after his funeral, had designed many of Houston's office buildings. He was born in Wheeling, W. Va.

10 Days Left To Get Auto License Plates

Just 10 days remain in which to buy 1959 license plates. April 1 is the deadline. After that date, motorists who have not attached the new plates will find themselves in difficulty. The anticipated grand rush of belated motorists is building up day by day at the present time. Last week was the busiest since the tags went on-sale Feb. 1. Monday started off with a boom and long lines of buyers waited in front of each window throughout most of the day. Friday's "take" across the counter was the largest of the period at the county tax collector's office—$28,400. The week saw $79,728.15 paid in by motorists for new tags. Total collected so far exceeds $150,000. The county's out of receipts to date stands at $99,204.96. The state's share has been $49,212.71.

Bladder Created By VA Doctor

DALLAS (AP)—The successful creation of a urinary bladder from a segment of the small intestine was reported yesterday by the Veterans Administration Hospital in Dallas.

The new operation was developed by Dr. Charles L. Reynolds, 31, of the VA hospital. It holds hope for patients where cancer, other disease or injury necessitates removal of the bladder.

Dr. Reynolds' operation has been described in papers read before the American College of Surgeons and the Mexican Surgical Society.

Increasing Number Of TV Viewers Becoming Vocal

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—One positively apparent trend in television this season is that an increasing number of viewers are becoming vocal about what they see on the home screen.

From Robert McGrath, Editor of the Hobbs Daily News-Sun, Hobbs, N.M., criticizing Leonard Bernstein's Feb. 28 classical music program for children.

"He brought up what he called the 'humor' in music, and to Bernstein 'humor' is, as he said, the 'incongruous.' That word in incongruous is from a script written by Bernstein, Cap VOGH define it exactly: 'Surely not one child in 20 knew what he was talking about. I think he meant unexpected rather than incongruous.'

"But how can the unexpected in music — that is, the changes in key, tempo, and so forth — be humorous to children when they don't know in the first place what to expect? Nor do the majority of adults know what to expect in classical musical pieces.

"Bernstein's whole program was founded on the contention that the 'incongruous'—he said it over and over and over again—is the humor in music. That is not necessarily so: all unexpected bits of music are not humorous. He has missed his child audience altogether; he has not even pleased adults."

Comment: I can't define "incongruous" exactly. But Webster's Unabridged defines it as "characterized by lack of harmony, consistency or compatibility with one another." Charles Dickens once said that the incongruous is a basic element in humor. But I think it's stretching the theory pretty far to apply it to music.

Mayor Admits 'Slashing' Hoax To Cover Money Loss

GREENSBURG, Ind. (AP)—Mayor Sheldon Smith of Greensburg shamefully admitted Monday night he slashed himself with a razor, then invented a story about being cut and robbed by three men.

The 39-year-old mayor said he made up the story "to explain the loss of the money and hide the shame of being taken through one of the oldest confidence games, the pigeon drop." The missing $7,178 belonged to the city.

When asked for details of the slashing and confidence game, Mayor Smith said, "I'm too ashamed to talk about it."

In the pigeon drop, a confidence man tells his victim he has found a large amount of money and will share it if the victim will put up some money as a show of good faith.

Prosecutor Richard Garvey said the mayor's admission ended the case. He said Smith would not be prosecuted.

Earlier Monday Smith returned the $7,178 and said "moral responsibility" led him to borrow money to repay the city court funds.

Smith, who also serves as city judge, had accumulated the money since 1957, but had not deposited it. The exact amount was determined in an audit by the state board of accounts.

Garvey said Smith told him he became "so concerned that an innocent person was suffering the loss of freedom that he decided to uncover the mystery." Smith had identified Forest Hollars, 40, Dayton, Ohio, as one of the three men who attacked him.

Smith's original story was that he had been lured to his private office the night of Feb. 21 on the pretext of filling out an income tax return. He said two of the men held him while the other methodically slashed him with a razor blade.

The executive board of the Texas State AFL-CIO commended Daniel in a policy statement released yesterday. It was drafted March 14 during a Dallas meeting.

The statement hit at what it called "the increasing threat" of a sales tax or taxes which accomplish the same end under a different label.
