Laying Down A Runway

First asphaltic hot mix was spread Monday afternoon for one of the runways at the new Howard County Airport northeast of Big Spring. The initial batch is being spread in the top scene. Lower picture shows the big plant which is mixing the hot mix on the site. Some 20,000 tons of the material is to be spread and compacted for the surfaces of two runways, numerous taxi strips and access roads, said Louis Jean Thompson, engineer for the project. The north-south runway is 100 feet wide, 5,500 feet long. The east-west strip is 75 feet wide and 3,500 feet in length. The 40-foot taxiways will total 12,000 feet in length. The paving should be completed in 12 working days, said Thompson.

Big 3 Ministers Open Strategy Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big Three foreign ministers today open a two-day strategy meeting they hope will move them three-fourths of the way toward the united front they need before negotiating with the Soviets. They are expected to give quick approval to German proposals already drafted by a team of allied working experts during the past month. In a second meeting this afternoon at the State Department they are to review the German outlook with West Germany's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano. Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter Jr., substituting for ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, is to represent the United States. Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, a veteran of many diplomatic conferences, is to attend along with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, another newcomer to such meetings. Leaving London Monday night, Lloyd pictured the meeting as an opportunity to coordinate Allied policy. He said he anticipated discussing problems fully and frankly. The results of the sessions are to be made known to the full 15-nation Atlantic Pact Council which begins a 10th anniversary meeting here Thursday. The Berlin crisis promises to be the main worry at this three-day conference. The most important part of the strategy talks probably will come Wednesday when all four foreign policy chiefs consider how to reconcile their remaining differences. The four Allies have pretty much decided on a master "package" offer to the Soviets which would seek to solve the long-range problem of how to unite East and West Germany while providing security to the rest of Europe. But they are understood to be far apart on a short-term plan for dealing with the Soviet Union's threat to give East German Communists control of all land, air and water routes to West Berlin. This is the remaining 25 percent of their chore—and the toughest. Some British authorities are talking privately of negotiating an international status for West Berlin along with promises to curb the anti-Soviet tone of the West Berlin radio.

Witnesses Line Up As Connie Goes On Trial For Murder

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The jury hears opening statements and first testimony today in the love triangle murder trial of Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas, charged with shooting her married lover after he jilted her for a younger woman. A tedious 10 days of jury selection wound up late Monday with the seating of two alternates—both married men, as are the 12 regular jurors. The first state's witnesses were two police officers. They were among the first at the scene after wealthy, handsome Forrest Teel was slain in his car last July 31. Patrolman Richard Anderson was the last man to talk to Teel, who was an executive vice president of the big pharmaceutical firm of Eli Lilly & Co. Anderson has said Teel gazed only "hospital" when Anderson told him he might die and asked him to name the person who shot him. Teel died minutes later. The other policeman called was Lt. Cecil London of accident investigation. A possible third witness was Earl Alexander, who lives near the apartment development where the shooting occurred. The shooting occurred outside the fashionable apartment of Laura Mower, 30-year-old secretary at the Lilly firm. Teel had been seeing her for three months after a 15-year affair with Mrs. Nicholas. Mrs. Nicholas has admitted she found Teel's car outside Miss Mower's apartment and waited there three hours until Teel returned to the car after midnight. The 44-year-old double divorcee said Teel was enraged when he found her at his car and that her 25-caliber French revolver fired accidentally as she tried to defend herself from blows and an arm twisting. After the shooting she returned to her own car. Teel apparently tried to drive his car away, but it crashed into a post as he collapsed from three bullet wounds. Mrs. Nicholas was found near death 20 hours later. She had parked her car on a secluded creek bank and swallowed 75 sleeping pills in fruit juice in a suicide attempt. The state contends Mrs. Nicholas planned the shooting. The defense is building its case on the premise the shooting was an accident in an effort of self-defense.

Legislators Cut Into Luxury Budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators don't want state officials and employees driving around in high-powered, air-conditioned cars that were bought with tax money. The fine print of the 308-page appropriations bill laid before the House today includes a provision that Highway Department cars may not have eight cylinders, automatic transmissions or air conditioning. However, the same fine print—labeled "special provisions"—authorizes free maid service for state hospital superintendents and lets the governor's office be exclusive by using engraved stationery.

Mail Service Extension Set

Eighteen families who live in the 3200 and 3300 blocks of Drexel St. will be provided with mail delivery to their residences starting Wednesday. E. C. Boatler, postmaster, announced today. He said that 54 individuals reside in the homes of the 18 families. A petition was filed asking for mail service. The residents have, for the most part, complied with requirements of putting up a suitable mail box and seeing to it their houses are numbered. Drexel St. is in the neighborhood of the Howard County Junior College. The service will be provided by extending a route already operating in the general neighborhood. Boatler asked that any of the residents in the two blocks, who were not as yet provided mail boxes and house numbers do so at once in order that the new service can be made effective.

Retired Dentist Dies At Lamesa

LAMESA — Dr. Riley Franklin Nix, 69, retired dentist and former chairman of the State Board Dental Examiners, died in Medical Arts Hospital about 1 a.m. today. He suffered a heart attack early Monday. Funeral services are to be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church with the pastor, the Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, officiating. Interment in Lamesa Memorial Park will be under direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home. Dr. Nix was born May 2, 1889, in Murray, Ky. He came to Lamesa in 1924 shortly after graduating from the Baylor University school of dentistry. This was the only place he ever practiced his profession. He retired in 1949. Dr. Nix was a member of the Baptist church for 35 years. He was a Scottish Rite Mason and Shriner. He is survived by his wife, one son, Bill Nix of Lamesa; one sister, Mrs. Will Washer of Murray, Ky.; and two grandchildren.

Makes $6 Million From Chipmunks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Seville is a fellow who has done pretty well in the chipmunk and witch doctor business. In the year which ended Monday, Seville—real name Ross Bagdasarian—figures he has sold $6,700,000 in novelty records and ties. The chipmunks who helped him are named Alvin, Theodore and Simon. They are, of course, the singing chipmunks on the records "Chipmunk Song" and "Alvin's Harmonica." The witch doctor? That was the title of the song which launched Seville's big-time career. Seville crashed in an commercial tie-ins with the chipmunks, whose pictures appear on wallpaper, T-shirts, and cookies. He saved money by not having to hire singers. Seville himself is the chipmunks. A tape recorder enables him to achieve the strange sound attributed to Alvin and his pals.

Officials In Austin

County Judge Ed Carpenter, Ralph White and L. J. Davidson, members of the Howard County Commissioners Court, are in Austin attending the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. They left Monday afternoon and will be back in Big Spring on Wednesday. After the WTCC meeting the trio had an appointment with the State Highway Commission to discuss local road projects.

Daniel Plan 'Inconsistent' Solons Claim

AUSTIN (AP) — Three representatives joined today to tell the House they felt Gov. Price Daniel was inconsistent in his plans to solve the state's deficit and need for new revenue. "I'd like to ask the governor to be a little more consistent when he asks that taxation be on the ability to pay in one breath and then wants to levy a new one cent tax on the little man in the next breath," said Rep. Louis Dugas of Orange. Dugas' personal privilege speech came minutes after Daniel issued a statement expressing again his confidence that the House would back away this week at the state's $5 million-dollar deficit.

Mother Critical After Being Turned Into Human Tor

EL PASO (AP)—A young mother was in a critical condition today after being turned into a human torch when her clothes were soaked in gasoline and set afire with a cigarette lighter. Police said they were holding her husband, Airmen Victor Blodgett, in the El Paso jail. They said Blodgett, 32, signed a statement saying he came home late Sunday night, threw a glassful of gasoline on his wife and ignited the fuel. Jean Blodgett, 22, ran out of the trailer home with her clothes afire. A neighbor caught her and smothered the flames with his coat. Mrs. Blodgett's 18-month-old son by a previous marriage was in a crib of the trailer. He suffered minor burns but was reported in good condition. Mrs. Blodgett later told officers she set the fire when she lit a cigarette after he threw the gasoline. However, officers said the airman stuck to his story that it was he who ignited the gasoline.

Blowing Dust For W. Texas

By The Associated Press A cool front was headed toward Texas Tuesday, threatening to set off thundershowers as it moved across the northern part of the state. The low pressure system centered in the Texas Panhandle was due to move eastward during the day, with cool northerly air pushing in behind it. Meanwhile stiff southerly winds carried heavy clouds northward across most of the state. The front was expected to set off thundershowers from the Panhandle eastward to the Fort Worth-Dallas area as the cooler air of the front met the warm, moist air from the Gulf. Winds Tuesday varied from light to gusty up to 30 miles an hour in the Abilene area. Blowing dust was expected in West Texas as the wind increased in intensity during the day. Skies were generally clear over Texas Monday with maximum temperatures ranging from 70 degrees at Dalhart to 90 at Presidio.

12 Vote Absentee In School Election

Twelve citizens have cast absentee votes in the Big Spring Independent School District election and one or County Commissioner Precinct 2 trustee, according to Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk. No votes have been cast in a number of other pending elections in other school districts where trustees are to be selected on next Saturday. Deadline for absentee voting expires at 5 p.m. Wednesday, she said.

Record Sum Paid For Quarterhorse

AMARILLO (AP) — The sale of a quarter horse for a record $50,000 was reported yesterday by the American Quarter Horse Assn. Charles E. Boyd of Sweetwater, Tex., bought the 6-year-old black stallion, King Glo from J.O. Hankins of Rocksprings, Tex.

Aircraft Falls During Dense Fog

AUSTIN (AP) — Four prominent Odessa men died today when their plane crashed and partially burned in a dense fog five miles northwest of here. They were: Harvey A. Lee, 35, attorney and president of the Ector County Bar Assn.; Kenneth Frank Karr, 48, service station owner and believed to be the pilot of the plane; Royce Joe Cauthon, 24, personnel director of the City of Odessa; Marvin Lewis Gilbert, 28, assistant manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce. The plane had taken off at 5:15 a.m. from the Ector County airport near Odessa. It ran into heavy fog blanketing the Austin area and shortly after 7 a.m. it radioed it was in trouble. The plane crashed on the grounds of the Capitol City Country Club. A flaring gasoline fire was quickly extinguished. The four were en route to Austin to attend the weekly West Texas Chamber of Commerce breakfast for legislators. Another private plane from Odessa carrying persons who would attend the breakfast, landed later at the airport. The aircraft circled the club house area several times before smashing into the ground. Apparently the pilot was trying to land on one of the golf fairways under construction. As he attempted to land a wing of the plane dipped. The plane banked sharply and struck a tree. It burst into flames and skidded 75 feet or so before coming to a halt. As officers searched for identification, gasoline still burned. The tree which the plane struck was less than 100 feet from a clearing. Two of the men, their bodies badly broken, were thrown clear of the wreckage. The other two were pulled free of the burning plane by workmen building the golf course clubhouse. Clothing and personal effects were strewn over a small area near the plane. Ripped trousers, eyeglasses and coats were scattered about. Personal papers blew into the ground. Ed Wallace, who saw the crash, said: "I heard the plane as it made two or three circles and came out over the shop. I thought it might be the boss." Vaughn was on a flight from Mannheim to Nuerberg. A spokesman of the East German Foreign Ministry in East Berlin said an official announcement will be made shortly. "The circumstances of the border incident will be investigated very carefully since it is the third time in less than a year that an American plane has strayed into the German Democratic Republic," the spokesman said.

FOG CANCELS FLIGHT FOR BIG SPRINGERS

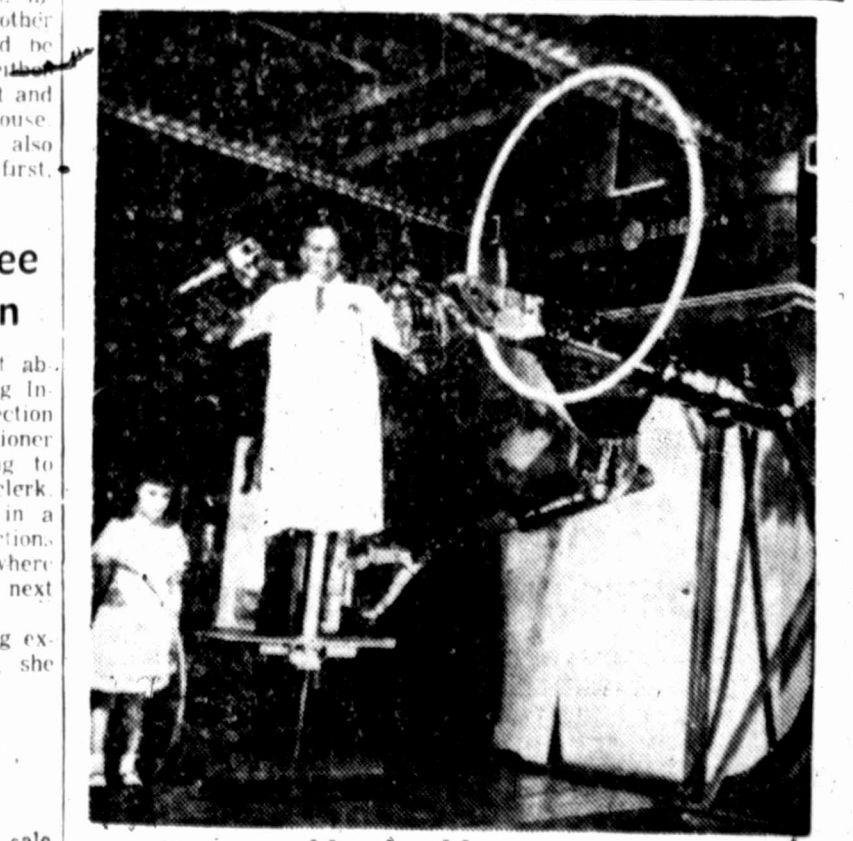

Four Big Spring men avoided a late flight by canceling a scheduled flight to Austin for the weekly legislative breakfast sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Clvide McMahon, local Chamber president and a private pilot, called off the flight after learning from the Weather Bureau that the Austin area was under a dense fog. Jim Lewis, R. W. Currie and Bill Quimby planned to accompany McMahon to Austin. Four Odessa civic leaders en route to the WTCC breakfast were killed when their plane crashed in the fog near Austin.

E. Reich Confirms American Is Held

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany, today confirmed that it is holding an American civilian pilot whose sports plane strayed across the Iron Curtain last Friday. F. A. Vaughn, 32, an employee of the U.S. Army in Heidelberg, landed his plane just over the East German border near Dippach, apparently after getting lost. Vaughn was on a flight from Mannheim to Nuerberg. A spokesman of the East German Foreign Ministry in East Berlin said an official announcement will be made shortly. "The circumstances of the border incident will be investigated very carefully since it is the third time in less than a year that an American plane has strayed into the German Democratic Republic," the spokesman said.

Delegations Expected For City Budget Hearing Today

The public hearing on the new fiscal budget will be resumed this afternoon at 5:15 by the City Commission. Should it be approved by the commission after completion of the hearing, it will take effect Wednesday, first day of the new fiscal year. The commission last Tuesday decided to continue the hearing after several persons appeared, some complaining, some approving the budget, and set tonight for the completion time. Delegations are expected tonight, both opposing and sanctioning the proposed $2 million budget. The increase of 13 per cent in the budget over the financial plan of last year includes raises for city employees, an enlarged engineering department, funds to pay for first year's part of the master plan, and additional employees in the fire department. The meeting will begin in the council room of the City Hall at 5:15 p.m., and the budget is the only item to be handled by the commission tonight, said City Manager A. K. Steinheimer this morning.

Psychiatrist Blames Girl's Trauma On Parental Bliss

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A psychiatrist says he has found a married couple who until recently never got angry—outwardly, at least.

But the couple had a little girl who sometimes pulled her hair out of her long, blonde tresses.

The couple took the child to Dr. Gene Gordon, of the Children's Hospital of Washington, D.C. Dr. Gordon told the American Orthopsychiatric Assn. Monday how he linked these two specimens of behavior.

The little girl, he said, didn't know how to show anger in the usual way because she never saw her parents in a fit of temper.

Dr. Gordon said he convinced the parents it was all right to show anger, and gave the child some tips on how to throw a tantrum. This, he reported, stopped the hair pulling.

Dr. Reginald S. Lourie of the Pennsylvania State Welfare Department at Harrisburg, reported in the same panel discussion that self-mutilation by youngsters often is their way of symbolizing their desire to kill.

Children up to the age of adolescence will bang their heads against walls, pull their hair, pierce their ears and noses, cut designs in their skin and even cut off the end of a toe because they resent a parent or someone else whose influence they cannot escape, Dr. Lourie said.

He called these "localized self-destruction drivers." They appear to be juvenile substitutes for suicide, the physician said in talking to reporters. Anyway, the gestures are expressions of desire to get rid of the influence of the other personality.

Not all self-mutilation has this sinister meaning, Dr. Lourie said. Sometimes it is done for the sake of gaining acceptance by a group.

Nehru Predicts Tibet Victory, Urges Patience

By JOHN BARBOUR

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today predicted "ultimate victory" for Tibetans fighting Chinese Communist rule but urged them to be patient.

Nehru gave his soothing counsel to a delegation of refugees as Red China offered leniency to Tibetan rebels who surrender. Peiping warned that "those who stubbornly resist will be punished."

The official Peiping People's Daily quoted by Peiping radio, declared that the present goal is to "wipe out all the rebels" and establish peaceful order.

Two groups of petitioners called on Nehru—Indian nationals of Tibetan origin and Tibetan nationals who reside in India. Each group of about 100 presented the same requests.

1. India's active support of their demands for the safety of the Dalai Lama.

2. Dispatch of an Indian mercy mission of doctors and nurses to Lhasa to help those wounded in last week's fighting.

3. Assurance that India will immediately refer Tibetan demands for autonomy to the United Nations.

4. Permission for Tibetan refugees to enter India freely.

"Have patience, the trouble is not in Tibet alone," Nehru told the petitioners. "It is part of the whole world's situation. What we need is wisdom, wisdom and patience, and ultimate victory will be yours."

"There is nothing you can do here," he said. "It is better for you to return to your homes. I will do my best."

"Nehru told the petitioners he was inquiring into the whereabouts of the Dalai Lama, Tibet's 23-year-old spiritual and political leader.

"I've no reliable information now," he said. "I only know what I've read in the newspapers."

"The Chinese Reds insist Tibetan rebels abducted the Dalai Lama and whisked him off to south Tibet. Refugee circles in India say the ruler fled to escape Communist capture and is now with holdout forces in south Tibet."

The Reds have elevated the rival Panchen Lama in the missing ruler's place but indicated they would again make the Dalai Lama head of the local Tibetan government if he returns and collaborates with them.

Silun Likhwangwa, Tibetan prime minister from 1949-54 who headed the group of Tibetan nationalists, said the delegations would go back to northeast India as Nehru counseled. But he said a small committee would remain in New Delhi to maintain contact with the Indian government and keep the Tibetan refugee community advised of developments.

Viruses Uncovered In Leukemia Cells

By JOHN BARBOUR

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP)—Viruses, a suspect in the cause of leukemia, have been found in both human and chicken leukemia cells, a Duke University researcher said today.

And another virus which lives in the human intestine has provided an important clue to a defense against cancer-causing viruses, a University of Pennsylvania scientist suggested.

Dr. Joseph W. Beard of Duke and Dr. Seymour Cohen of Pennsylvania spoke at the week-long American Cancer Society seminar on cancer research problems and progress.

Dr. Beard told how the virus causes leukemia in chickens—a disease that each year costs the U.S. poultry industry many millions of dollars.

The virus invades the blood cells and converts their power plants into factories to produce more virus. As the virus units come off the stolen assembly line they infect more blood cells and turn them into more virus factories.

There is a great spurt of white cell growth in the blood—as if the cells are trying to outgrow the virus, Dr. Beard said. The viruses have discovered the secret of uncorking life's principal store of energy, a molecule package called ATP.

The virus, masquerading as an enzyme, knocks off an atom from this ATP bundle of energy, exploding the energy-packed compound. The cancer cell then spends this energy wantonly, probably producing more cancer cells.

Dr. Cohen discovered how a virus commandeers the basic life machinery of a cell. He outlined the chemistry of this virus invasion and the revolution it creates in the cell.

He described viruses which attack bacteria in the human and animal intestinal tracts. The infected cell produces a variety of off-beat chemicals. These exist only in virus-infected cells but are strangely similar to the key chemicals of life.

This is the first demonstration of the drastic chemical changes a virus can inflict on a cell it attacks. The findings hold promise for both the drug treatment of cancer and the production of a vaccine for the prevention and treatment of the disease.

because they already had been impounded in other litigation in the state courts.

The jury has the ballots from the other five counties, including Pulaski (Little Rock), the heaviest voting in the state.

More than 60,000 votes were cast in the Alford-Hays contest. The grand jury inquiry followed an investigation by the FBI on two specific complaints to the Justice Department. One of these charged that in certain precincts more ballots were counted than there were persons registered to vote. The second alleged that anonymous campaign literature, prohibited by federal statutes, was circulated.

Alford won by 1,200 votes in Arkansas' 5th District. Since then he has been seated as a Democrat. After hearing several witnesses on March 23, the grand jury asked U.S. Dist. Judge J. Smith Henley to impound all ballots and related records in the six-county 5th District. Henley issued the order.

At Danville, Ark., a Yell County official refused to turn over the ballots to deputy U.S. marshals.

Christine Snags On Attempt To Get Marriage License

NEW YORK (AP)—Christine Jorgensen's efforts to obtain a marriage license have been delayed by a technicality, not connected with the fact that she changed her sex.

The delay came Monday when the would-be bridegroom, Howard J. Knox, 33, a Waukegan, Ill., statistician, couldn't produce a copy of an Illinois divorce decree that ended a previous marriage.

As for Miss Jorgensen's sex, which was changed from male to female by surgery in Denmark in 1950, a blood test certificate on which a physician certifies that she is a woman should be sufficient, said City Clerk Herman Katz.

Miss Jorgensen, a former soldier, gave her age as 33 and listed her occupation as an entertainer.

New Climax Due In K-City Politics

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The continuing struggle for control of Kansas City's municipal government reaches another climax today in the city election.

Once again, a combination of the city's Democratic party factions, known as the coalition, is challenging the non-partisan Citizens Assn. The goal of both sides is control of the 8-member City Council.

The duel began 19 years ago when the association, composed of Democrats, Republicans and independents, wrested control of the government from the Democratic party machine of the late Tom Pendergast.

This year many observers believe the coalition has its best chance of reducing association strength.

There are two primary reasons: higher taxes and an anticipated light vote.

On the surface, there virtually is no race for mayor. There has been little pre-election excitement.

In the last election four years ago, only 85,979 votes were cast despite a bitter campaign between Mayor H. Roe Bartle of the Citizens Assn., and a coalition candidate.

That was only 47.3 per cent of the registration. The registration this year is about 180,000 close to the figure of 1955.

Bartle is seeking re-election as a Citizens Assn. candidate, but this year the coalition also threw its support to him. Former Jackson County Judge Ray G. Cowan, is running against Bartle as an independent, and reportedly is making a hard, handshaking race.

In a bid to gain at least five of the eight council seats, the coalition is running on a promise of no new taxes and no increase in taxes. Two years ago, pleading that more revenue must be obtained, the administration sponsored a proposed earnings tax. The Citizens Assn. supported it, but the voters rejected the proposal by a wide margin.

TV Camera Goes Offstage

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—An interesting entertainment idea tried to blossom on the television screen Monday night with "America Pauses For Springtime" on CBS-TV.

Using film, tape and live cameras, producer Barry Wood and his staff broke out of the studio walls and ambled around America with a variety of entertainers against a variety of actual scenes. The concept was big and imaginative. Why it did not come off for me personally I'm not exactly sure. Perhaps an American spring is too big and complex to encompass in an hour of television.

I enjoyed Marge and Gower Champion dancing in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park, Herb Shriner wandering around the hamlet of Coessee, Ind., the West Point choir and the Air Force chorale.

Suddenly, when Genevieve appeared singing a French song in a Louisiana swamp, I wondered what in the world she was doing there.

Spring, delightful season though it is, simply failed to hold together a diffuse program.

HOUSTON (AP)—A grand jury studied today testimony of 14 witnesses called in an investigation of charges by two brothers that they received rough treatment at the hands of county police officers.

Uneven Fight

A fallen member of the Mexican Railroad Workers Union and a policeman during a scuffle in which police broke up a meeting of union members in Mexico City. Policeman at left holds a teargas gun and at right a union man is restrained by an officer's hand grasping his shirt. Five hundred rail union leaders were under arrest in Mexico as railroad operations were crippled by strikes.

Old Line May Have Been Strike Victim

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Eastern wildcat railroad strike may have killed the country's oldest, most historic and most scenic line, the Mexicano.

As officials continued to round up agitators and work around the clock to resume service elsewhere, no effort was made to get the Mexicano running again.

It has long been an unprofitable run, and the Veracruz-Mexico City route it serves is duplicated by a more modern line.

The strike has given the government a chance to drop it, get rid of 5,000 employees, and eliminate a red-rink line.

When the Mexicano and Pacifico on the West Coast struck last week, the walkout was declared illegal, and the lines given permission to fire all striking workers.

They fired the strikers. And although Pacifico workers have been offered their jobs back, those of the Mexicano have not, as yet.

The Mexicano was started in 1850 over the historic route the Spanish Conqueror Hernan Cortes followed to Mexico City. It was officially opened in 1873.

It is by far the most scenic route in the country.

As for the strike in general, officials said last night that 35 per cent of striking railway workers had returned to their jobs, and that forty trains operated carrying 19,000 passengers.

Cargo accumulated during the strike which in places lasted four days will begin being cleared up, probably today. Much of it, such as perishable fruit and vegetables, has rotted.

There were still arrests and minor clashes between die-hard leftist labor leaders and police, but the estimated 3,000 arrested over the weekend were being questioned, screened, and released by the hundreds.

Demetrio Vallejo, the leftist railroad labor leader, and his subordinates were still under arrest and incommunicado.

A sweeping purge of the railroad syndicate leadership was launched, and officials said many known Communists had been found in key posts.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTERTH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Another Radiation Belt Seen As Hazard To Space Flight

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Another radiation hazard to space flight may exist at altitudes below 20 miles above the earth, and the 600-mile level at which the admitted dangerous Van Allen layers begin, there well might be a danger from atmospheric effects produced by certain kinds of cosmic rays, said Dr. Herman Yagoda of the Air Force's Cambridge (Mass.) Research Center.

He said new findings about intensity variations in these incoming rays — which appear to depend upon sunspot cycles — suggest that studies aimed at determining their possible biological significance to spacemen be made only at the proper times as regards the occurrence of sunspots.

Otherwise, he said, scientists might miss the boat in determining if they do constitute a hazard and, if so, how much of a danger.

Yagoda described the new findings at a meeting of the American Physical Society at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The findings, he said, boil down to the fact that at periods of minimum sunspot activity, the particular cosmic rays under study — called "low-energy heavy primaries" — are much more intense than at times when sunspots are at their maximum.

The evidence was obtained, he said, from flights of Navy Viking rockets in 1952 and 1954, when sunspots were at a minimum — and flights of other rockets made during 1958 when there was a sunspot maximum.

Explaining that this particular kind of cosmic ray is stopped at high altitudes by impact with electrons — but that it causes the generation of a kind of secondary ray called a "thin-down track" — Yagoda said: "This action might very well be responsible for biological changes in human tissue upon exposure."

He said that black mice carried in balloons into the stratosphere had their hair turned gray and that this might be due to such "thin-down" tracks.

He said no evidence of any adverse effect was experienced by the Air Force's Col. David Simons in his record stratospheric balloon flight, but that Simons remained in the stratosphere only for a limited time.

It is possible, he said, that a manned satellite, cruising at 200 miles altitude for months might be exposed to real danger.

Therefore, he said, it behooves researchers to find out what is happening in the "thin-down track" department at such altitudes — and to make sure their studies are made at a time when the radiation activity might be expected to be at maximum.

Mexican Lottery Is A Safety Valve

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—When a woman feels blue, she buys a new hat. When a man feels low, down here he buys a lottery ticket.

And, says a news editor of a leading newspaper, "You have no idea what a boost it gives you."

"You immediately begin to dream of what you can do with that big prize you convince yourself you're going to win," he continued, fingering two tickets he had just bought.

"If debts are worrying you, you can pay them off. If your wife is nagging for new clothes, a million pesos ($80,000) first prize is certainly the answer. Sickness? The money will pay for doctors and hospitals."

"A poor man who doesn't know where his next meal is coming from often buys a two-peso ticket just to get a lift. He's buying hope."

"The odds, naturally, are heavily against winning that first prize, but it often goes to a poor man — you read about it all the time."

The national lottery in Mexico is operated by the government. Profits go to such welfare institutions as the children's hospital, the tuberculosis hospital, orphanages, the national school for the blind, maternity homes, and charity dining rooms. The lottery started in 1771.

There are three drawings a week, with prizes ranging from 250,000 to one million pesos. On national holidays and other important dates, the first prize runs up to 15 million pesos ($1,200,000).

Mexico forbids such gambling as roulette, dice and blackjack.

But the lottery is a vital part of Mexican life. Tickets are sold on almost every street corner and in special booths.

After each Monday, Wednesday and Friday night drawing, the winning numbers are telegraphed to every corner of the country.

Payments are immediate and in cash, with small deductions for taxes.

Judge Overrules 'Weird' Testimony Against Beat Joint

HOUSTON (AP)—"Weird," said Policeman D. E. Lee of paintings and sculpture found in a beatnik coffee house.

"I object," said Defense Attorney Ben Levy. Lee, Levy contended, was not an authority on art and "the word 'weird' is inflammatory." Judge Wendell Odum agreed.

It led to a court victory yesterday for Matthias Reese, 27, red-bearded former partner in the Outside Club.

Reese was convicted in Corporation Court Feb. 4 of failing to have a food-selling permit posted at the Outside's premises. He appealed a $10 fine to the county court.

Lee and City Sanitation Inspector Clyde Cull testified the Outside had no such required permit. But Cull added that he'd never actually inspected the inside of the Outside since a night at the Outside doesn't ordinarily start until after Cull's working day ends.

Lee also testified he saw a Negro musician "beating weird tune from an old drum" at the coffee house. Levy objected, Odum sustained.

The jury, the judge ruled, would return a verdict of innocent.

Anyone Got Money For A New Door?

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A dozen years they've worked on it — off and on. Now it's finished. But alas, the blooming thing's too big for the door.

Not a boat. Not a plane. Not the work of home craftsmen but of experts, it stands, six feet tall, as fine a dwarf elephant as anybody ever saw.

It was pieced together at the Museum of Natural History from hundreds of delicate bones out of 14 fossilized elephants.

Ease it through the door to an exhibit hall? Impossible, says Dr. P. C. Orr, curator. It won't fit. The slightest pressure — and it would shatter into fragments.

Now what? That's right, Orr says — now what?

Experts say that only one of every 50 to 80 tickets wins a prize exceeding the value of the ticket. A small percentage more than double the investment. And there's one chance in five of getting your money back.

en in goes to prizes, about 15 to 20 per cent to welfare groups and the rest to overhead and commissions to vendors.

A SALESMAN'S KIND OF WORK IS Tough on his Car!

Start-and-stop driving is the biggest cause of engine wear. That's why his car needs the extra protection of Phillips 66 Trop-Artic* Motor Oil.

Making calls around town, this man uses his car mostly on short trips. In fact, most of us use our cars mainly for short trips. And that's when corrosive wear poses its biggest threat to smooth engine performance.

To preserve and protect a motor under such driving conditions requires a very special motor oil. Phillips 66 Trop-Artic has the special ability to flow fast even when the engine is relatively "cold", as on short trips. Yet, on long hard drives, it keeps on protecting.

To keep your car running better longer... change oil regularly and insist on Trop-Artic All-Season Motor Oil at your Phillips 66 Station. *A trademark

Chinese Visitor Tells Of Women's Role In Affairs Of Her Country

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Free China today is a woman's world, says petite Elizabeth Wang, a member of the Taiwan Legislature, now visiting America at the invitation of the U.S. Department of State.

of the Legislative Yuan out of 500," says Mrs. Wang. "In the National Assembly there are 210 women. There is no field in business, the professions or the arts where women are not making distinguished records."

UNIVERSITY GRAD
A graduate of the University of North Carolina, she is married to C. Y. Chang, also a member of the Legislature, and has three sons: Bobby, 17, a student at Cheng-Kung University, Eddie, 15 and Frank, 3.

"We call them by American names," laughs Mrs. Wang. "They have long Chinese names, too, but these are easier."

Daughter of a high official, Elizabeth was born in Kiang-su province, on the mainland of China, and was educated in Chinese schools and colleges before coming to the United States to take a master's degree at Chapel Hill, N.C.

Garden City Folks Have Visitors For Weekend

GARDEN CITY—Students home from San Angelo Junior College for the Easter holiday visiting their parents were Marceline Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gill; Frank Plagens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plagens Sr. of St. Lawrence; Milton Mow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mow; and Jimmy Davee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davee.

Sandy Little. She is also a student at Hardin-Simmons in Abilene. Guests in the home of the Dick Mitchells for the Easter holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McCordale, students at Texas Tech at Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Winston Pritchard and Dan of Dalhart. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roach and children of Florence are visiting Mrs. Warren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hardy.

The Holidays Bring Trips And Visitors

FORSAN — Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Miller are in Fort Worth on business. They will also visit in Garland with his daughter and family, the Hudson Henleys. Henry and Freddie Park have returned from Dallas where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Park and Bruce. Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Brethaupt Beverly and Karen of Odessa were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cardwell.

Thora Calverley, student at Texas Tech, was home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Calverley, for the Easter holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cunningham and children of Big Spring spent Sunday here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hardy.

Returns To Canyon

Robert Dean Hobbs, West Texas State College faculty member, has returned to Canyon after having spent the weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Murphy and Frank have been in East Texas visiting relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harper, Betty and Susan of Crystal City, are visiting her sister, Mrs. Jack Allen.

Back In College

Nita Hedleston is back in Texas Tech after a holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Hedleston, and Nancy.

Recent guest of Mrs. Johnny Miller was Mrs. Floyd Emmons of Odessa. Winona Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Walker, is recuperating following a tonsillectomy.

New Nylon Hinges

"Nylon hinges that operate without lubrication promise to outwear their conventional metal counterparts. The non-sticking hinge reportedly withstands hammering, boiling water, and sub-zero temperature."

A room that is carefully assembled and colorfully accessorized will add up to one that is completely smart and livable. No matter what period you have in your home, there are handcrafted glass accessories which will fit the mood.

Even little accessories can do a lot to give a "professional decorator" look to a room. The well-chosen ashtray, vase or bowl can become an exclamation point in a room. It is best to play up large pieces by using them alone, while small objects are better grouped together to make one collection. Use contrasting textures, forms and colors to create added interest to a small object grouping. If you are planning to display a glass collection on shelves in a window area, for instance, and there is one predominant color, repeat that same color somewhere else in the room to give unity and importance to the collection. Mixing of periods makes for an interesting effect in a room, and if done with care, can be a most rewarding experience.

Today, the growing nostalgia for our native Colonial past is reflected in many interiors. Accessories with the Americana accent can lend flavor even to modern rooms.

For an inexpensive cover for a round table, use gaily flowered chintz and border it with fringe in white or a color to pick up the shade of the flower in the fabric. Such a cloth is easy to make and will add beauty to informal entertaining during the coming months.

Wayne Burns Speaker For Credit Group

Wayne Burns, county attorney, was speaker for the luncheon meeting of the Credit Club and the local credit executives, Monday, at the Settles Hotel.

Discussing the subject of worthless checks, Burns told the group of laws governing the punishment of givers of such checks; he related ways of avoiding the receipt of worthless checks and the preparation for the identification of the writer.

A question and answer period followed his discourse. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. B. Apple of the Retail Merchants Association.

The club will meet for the regular session Thursday as scheduled. Another extra luncheon meeting will be held in the Settles on April 13, when the credit executives are invited to hear a discussion of repossession.

Sixty-one attended the luncheon Monday.

Methodist Group Meets For Study

Members of the Martha Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church met at the church Monday evening for the continuation of the study in the book, Isaiah Speaks.

Mrs. Lina Flewellen presented the historical background of the study, along with the prophecies of Isaiah. Roberta Gay told of Isaiah's message.

A meditation was in the form of a whistling solo by Malinda Crocker, who accompanied herself at the piano as she presented Sweet Hour of Prayer.

The group will meet again April 6 at the church for another study in the course. Hostesses Monday evening were Mrs. Jewel Kuykendall and Nell Hatch.

Awards Announced For Forsan Club

Mrs. Frank Shannon, Mrs. C. V. Wash, and Mrs. Roy Lamb of the Forsan Study Club have returned from the Eighth District Convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, held recently in Pecos.

They received three certificates of award for the club. Second place was given the presbook, entered in Class A, Division I competition.

A commendation for 100 per cent subscriptions to the Texas Clubwoman was presented, and the club's yearbook, Mrs. W. M. Romans, chairman, received honorable mention.

Visit In New Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. William T. McRee, and Kathy, 1905 Morrison, returned Sunday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dowalby in Albuquerque, N. M. On the way, they stopped for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cregar in Tatum, N. M.; the two women are daughters of the McRees. Miss McRee has returned to Lubbock, where she is a student in Texas Tech.

AAUW TO MEET

Elizabeth Daniel, president of Big Spring's AAUW branch, announces that there will be a business meeting of the group at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the HCJC Music Building. A refreshment period at 8 p.m. will be followed by a talk by Dr. Lee O. Rogers, outlining the Master Plan. Each member may bring a guest.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

This is the beginning of the long session (to students only) between Easter holidays and the end of school. Now that the egg hunting season is passed and the thrill of hiding and hunting is over, it is almost safe to sit on the chairs or walk about the yard without fear of smashing another of the pretty eggs.

Where did March go? Just blew away, probably. There seems to have been nothing accomplished but the reports of numerous nominating committees.

MR. AND MRS. BILL FLETCHER and their little daughter, Pamela, of Irving, and BOBBY JACK GROSS of College Station, spent the Easter holidays here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gross. They came early enough to see the ABC Relays.

MRS. T. R. FLEENOR and her children, Carol, Nancy and Danny Ray, have gone to Farmington, N. M., after a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T.

O'Daniel. The Fleenors had been making their home in Brownfield until recently when he was transferred to Farmington by Mid-Continent Supply.

Easter guests of MR. AND MRS. JACK GRAY were Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitney and their children, Nancy and Mike. The Whitneys are former residents of Big Spring.

MR. AND MRS. ROSS BOYKIN and Betty spent the holidays in Carrollton and Dallas with her mother and other relatives.

The CHARLES SWEENEYS returned late Monday from Durant, Okla., where they visited relatives.

New Flowerpots

Flowerpots of peat and fiber provide a work-saver for the part-time gardener. The pots, which dissolve in the soil, eliminate the shock of transplanting. Slow-acting fertilizer contained in the pot itself feeds the young plant long enough to give it a firm start.

Ackerly Group Attends Senior Day Activities

ACKERLY—Attending the recent senior day in Lubbock Christian College were Robert Billingsley, Royal Lewis, Donald Gibson, Glenda Fay Little and Sylvia Ann Smith.

The A. H. Smiths were in Lorenz Sunday as guests of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hall of Abilene have been here for the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Edwin Hall and Larry, and in Vealmoor with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Iden.

Here for the Easter holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Etchison and daughter, who were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ingram.

The Dallas Woodses were in Big Spring this weekend as guests of their parents.

Visitors with the Jewel Franklins have been Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Winkle of Snyder, and the Ray Fords Jr. of Brownwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Etheredge entertained their children, the Waymon Etheredges of Hereford, during the weekend.

Mrs. H. C. Bristow is expected home today after being in St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock for some time.

A family gathering in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Archer included Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Coker, Mrs. Lula Mae Watts, Mrs. Lucy Britton and the Wayne Smiths of Lamesa.

Here on Sunday were the Bill Blankenships of Snyder, who were guests of their parents, the B. O. Springfields.

Mrs. Darrell Smith is in Colorado City this week to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson.

A Devotional For Today

Ye are witnesses of these things. (Luke 24:48.)

PRAYER: Father, make us living, speaking witnesses of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. When the world's unsaved call out, like the Macedonian of old, "Come over and help us," lead us to answer with the Prophet Isaiah, "Here am I, send me." In Jesus' name. Amen.

Gnarled Nobleman Of The Plains

Alexander Pope got off the remark that "Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined." Like many of this most quotable and quoted of English poets sayings, this one has a profound meaning: it belongs in the same category of wise maxims with another oldie, "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

But our sermon today is not concerned with precepts on conduct and child training, but mesquites. It was set off by a call from Lyndon Allen, 130 Cedar Crest, who reported that a tiny mesquite sapling he had transplanted and watered frequently a few weeks ago was putting out leaves. The sapling itself was hardly larger around than the lead in a pencil, but it started from a 30-inch root he had set out earlier.

Few people, we imagine, ever bother to transplant a mesquite, many people regard them as nuisances, especially cattlemen. More than thirty years ago we had several mesquites, including some large ones, on our little bit of piece of property, but they all died out; no profane axe was ever laid to one of them — they just up and died. (Ingrates!) Nowadays they are banished from new developments in favor of a great variety of other trees not half as pretty and a lot more costly and troublesome to nourish and maintain.

You can apply Pope's formula to mesquites as well as other trees, and shape them up almost any way you prefer. With braces, such as dentists use on children's teeth, you can make 'em grow straight and tall.

But who would want to? After all, the mesquite is a creature of its environment. The winds of the West shape it, and the more twisted and contorted it is the better it bespeaks its natural selectivity — a survival of the fittest. To us it is the very symbol of the rugged, windblown country we inhabit, scarce in rainfall but long on vitality and determination.

Constructive Spirit For Hearings

The second round of the city commission's public hearing on the proposed budget comes up this evening, and if last week's showing is repeated, there will be lively interest.

Although not all people are totally objective or restrained in their comments, this resurgence of participation in governmental affairs is to the good. Year after year our public bodies have met for budget hearings with no one other than a representative of the press present.

Reaction of a number of those to the budget is simple. It is simply this: "We don't want to pay any more taxes." Well, this is a perfectly valid expression and can be appreciated for being candid. More helpful, perhaps, are those who raise specific questions. If the budget is to be modified, areas of reduction should be suggested. If there is sufficient demand for delaying or avoiding certain projects or expansions, this should be brought out in the hearings. If there is a feeling of going too fast or too far, this should be pin-pointed as to particular areas.

And even those who believe that the budget is a reasonable expression of fiscal responsibility as against the needs and demands of a growing community, the commission will be aided by such opinions.

We can hope that the remarks before the commission will be in a constructive spirit. After they are over, the commission can then weigh the suggestions and come up with what it believes is a representative and fair provision for the year. In the end it must be remembered that we are in a critical period of our city's development. While we ought to make every penny count, we can ill afford to pinch off the heartbeat of progress.

Marquis Childs NATO Faces A Bigger Job Ahead

WASHINGTON—What the North Atlantic alliance has failed to do, and the list of failures is long, is not so important on this tenth anniversary as the fact that a coalition of 15 sovereign nations has endured with major benefits to all.

Fortunately for the anniversary, which will be observed here beginning Thursday with great pomp and ceremony, a success is still in recent memory. That is the settlement of the long-standing dispute between Greece and Turkey over island of Cyprus.

This bitter quarrel had gravely weakened the eastern pivot of the NATO alliance. With encouragement from NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak and under the wing of the British with their bases and responsibility for order-keeping on Cyprus, the Turks and the Greeks got together on a compromise settlement.

Within the framework of the alliance a series of steps toward European unity have been taken. While the bright hopes of the European economic community have been dimmed by the failure to come to an understanding with Britain on a larger trade area, it is nevertheless an important beginning, evolving from the coal and steel pool, Euratom and the other first steps toward unity.

In 1949 when Europe was only slowly beginning to repair a structure battered by the disaster of the war almost no one would have predicted such an outcome. The life-giving help of the Marshall Plan had only begun to make itself felt. The end result was still very much in doubt as large-scale Communist parties posed a threat of internal subversion.

With reason the self-congratulatory note will be sounded often in the anniversary celebration. But the bands, the speeches, the solemn ceremonies will not disguise the unvarnished truth—the continuing and evermore serious challenge of communism the effort that has gone into NATO is far short of enough.

The limits of sovereignty, the confines of the alliance itself within the Atlantic and its periphery, are too narrow. The problem of the NATO powers spill over into other areas of geography and economics. In the private business sessions as the 15 foreign ministers move out of the atmosphere of the banqueting hall it will be demonstrated once again that the stubbornest issues cannot be resolved within the North Atlantic frame.

France still struggles with the savage war in Algeria. General DeGaulle, to show his dissatisfaction with France's role in NATO and French resentment over lack of support in Algeria, recently announced the withdrawal of France's Mediterranean fleet from the NATO command. This was a symbolic act less significant than French refusal to accept United States missile bases because they would not be under French control but nonetheless signifying a deep distrust.

The British have their ties to the Commonwealth which have precedence over the economy of a unified Europe. The Dutch, staunchly loyal to the NATO concept through thick and thin, are disturbed by the American action in limiting oil imports which adversely affects their Caribbean possessions. Many of these divergences and internal political necessities will come to a focus in the NATO discussion of Berlin and Germany.

As to the future of NATO, a member of the distinguished audience that will hear President Eisenhower address the council Thursday could give his sharp, even scornful analysis of its weaknesses and the perils ahead. Dean Acheson, who as Secretary of State in 1949 had much to do with fathering NATO, is crying alarm out of his conviction that the strategy of the nuclear deterrent is bound to destroy the alliance.

Even those who take a less gloomy view of the test that Berlin puts up for the Western alliance are profoundly concerned for NATO's future. They are convinced that steps of much greater moment must soon be taken or the end result will be failure.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Another effect of Hawaii's admission to statehood. That significant spot called national population center takes another jump westward.

After the 1950 census it was located near Olney, Ill. Now it is estimated 40 miles farther west, near St. Peter, Ill., not far from Vandalia. Addition of the Hawaiian and Alaskan populations, plus natural growth between now and the taking of the 1960 census, is expected to bring the population center close to St. Louis, Mo., and the Mississippi River.

The geographical center is something different; that is determined by the farthest boundaries of states, and, the two new ones have moved it way west. The population center is determined by the number of people in all directions, regardless of how near or far.

Here is the way the center of population has shifted in the United States: 1790—23 miles east of Baltimore, Md. 1810—40 miles northwest of Washington, D. C. (in Virginia). 1830—19 miles west of Moorefield, W. Va. 1850—23 miles southeast of Parkersburg, W. Va. 1870—48 miles east of Cincinnati, Ohio. 1890—20 miles east of Columbia, Ind. 1910—In the city of Bloomington, Ind. 1930—Three miles northeast of Linton, Ind.

And with the 17 western states growing at a rate 66 per cent above the national average — to say nothing of possibilities of population growth in Alaska and Hawaii — there is good reason to believe that the center of population will keep moving for a while. Westward, ho! —MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

More Footsteps To Nowhere?

James Marlow War With Russia Long Way Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—War with the Soviet Union looks a long way off.

That seems the sensible interpretation to put on hitherto secret testimony of American military leaders before a committee of Congress.

For months there has been deep concern here and abroad as to whether the Berlin crisis might lead to conflict with the Soviet Union.

But the Joint Chiefs of Staff pointed for the House Appropriations Committee in secret a picture of such overwhelming American power that the U.S.S.R. would look crazy doing anything to cause a war.

There are a couple of big "ifs."

The Soviets would be crazy to start a war if they are as convinced of America's military power as are the joint chiefs and if no one in the Soviet Union loses his head in a way that would cause war.

The chiefs' testimony, after security censoring, was released in part Monday. It can be summed up this way: The U.S.S.R. would be flattened by America's nuclear bombs if war started.

The chiefs said American military power — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any Soviet military adventure in the future.

The joint chiefs didn't discount the Soviet Union's ability to have wide-ranging missiles in the future but right now they saw any Soviet nuclear attack would have to be done almost entirely with manned bombers.

Defense Secretary Neil McElroy backed up the chiefs, said this country's power is enough to destroy the Soviet Union if it attacked.

Then he predicted: "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in overall strength at any projected point in the future."

It was one of two borrowed from a circus to lead a circus parade around the Ohio State University campus.

Change Of Tactics

OKMULGEE, Okla. (AP)—Hypnotist Harry Klein asked for volunteers from his audience but no one responded. He then said it was possible to hypnotize persons to aid them in losing weight. Three women immediately went to the stage.

Hal Boyle More About Bachelors

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks bachelors get tired of hearing—or overhearing.

"When are you going to settle down, Harry?"

"He's set in his ways no woman could stand him now."

"Hypothetically speaking, I think big weddings are just a waste of money, don't you, Harry?"

"Poor thing. Someone ought to take him home and give him a good meal for a change."

"What does he do with all his money? After all, he doesn't have anyone to spend it on."

"Harry, I know just the girl for you."

"It's funny, Harry, you're the only one of the old bunch still single."

"Harry, I hate to bother you but you're in the morning, but have you seen my husband?"

"Remember, Harry, if my wife calls, we were playing poker at your place last night."

"Son, when I was your age, mother and I had three children."

"It may be just a mother's intuition, son, but is she good enough for you?"

"Sure, Harry, you've got a nice apartment of your own, a sports car, a swell job, a different date every night, and you're your own boss—but what does it all add up to?"

"Sure, Harry, she's got three kids, but look at it this way—you'd have a ready-made family."

"I'm glad you like the dress, Harry. I made it myself. I just love to cook and sew."

"Hypothetically speaking, don't you think a girl ought to give up her job when she gets married, Harry?"

"Don't invite anyone for Harry. It'll help the party to have an extra man around."

"Hypothetically speaking, I think two people can live as cheaply as one if they really love each other, don't you, Harry?"

"Harry, where do you hide during Leap Year?"

"Hypothetically speaking, what qualities do you think a fellow looks for in a wife, Harry?"

Around The Rim An Unusual Lesson

The cafe was just across the alley back of the newspaper office. It was open 24 hours a day and was the biggest eating place in the town.

I was a cub reporter on the paper. Being a cub, I got the assignment of staying around the office from midnight until press time. There was seldom anything to do. I was required to check the layout against the proof of the front page, making certain that all of the headings were correct, and that the right story was under each head. I also was supposed to answer the phone if anyone phoned. I supposed I was also expected to deal with any big story which might happen. I don't know about that. No big story happened.

It was a dull task. The street in front of the shop was deserted. Most of the late traffic, such as there happened to be, travelled the other street. The office was isolated from the business district. I spent most of my time in the back shop. The linotype operators and printers were awake; at least, which was more than I could say of the front office and the visible portion of the town.

Around 1 a.m. the printers usually took a little breather. They wanted coffee and I was the handy fellow to send after it. I'd go out the back door, across the dingy alley and into the cafe through the kitchen.

It was also my "lunch" time. I combined the coffee toting with eating. The cafe was a popular place for the artillery officers from the fort. Since it was a definitely peace time, the garrison at the fort was definitely a peace time army. A different sort of army from the one we have today.

The duties were light, the job bore some. The married officers and their wives tried to break up the monotony by innumerable parties and dances. Climax to these affairs was a trip to the cafe for coffee and sandwiches sometime after midnight. Usually the place was filled to capacity about the time I made my journey there for my own midnight meal and for coffee for the crew.

The chef was an enormously fat old man who wore one of those tall chef's hats and who usually gave the impression of being mad at the world in general and at what customers there might be in the cafe in particular.

However, for some reason he had taken a liking to me. No matter how busy he was when I appeared in the kitchen, he'd stop and we'd have a chat. Waitresses would come from the front and anxiously ask about orders. They might as well have saved their breath. The chef ignored the inquiries. We'd talk about the weather and any other subject.

"Well, kid," he'd finally remark. "What you gonna eat tonight?"

I would shake my head. I didn't know, I'd say.

He would lead the way to the table where the many orders were in process of being prepared. He'd point to one and remark "It was a Denver sandwich—did I like Denver sandwiches?" I'd reply "I didn't know. What did they have in them? He'd go over the ingredients, checking them off on his fat stubby fingers. I would shake my head. He would point to some other dish and inquire if I liked it. We'd finally agree on some one of the already prepared dishes.

"Okeh, kid," he'd say. "Go up front and get you a seat. I'll send this one up by a waitress."

So I would go on into the dining room, find a place and in about two minutes would be munching away on my supper. And the luckless Army officer or his wife who had ordered the particular sandwich I was enjoying would fume over the delay in getting the order filled. That, however, was none of my business.

When I had finished, I would pay the cashier, tell the waitress how many cups of coffee I wanted and she would fix them. She would put the saucer over the top of the cup and then turn the cup upside down. That way I could navigate the rough alley without sloshing all of the coffee on the return journey.

One night my fat friend, the chef, asked: "What you carry coffee like that for, kid?"

I explained.

"Nuts," he snorted. "Don't do that—just pick up the saucer and walk away with it just as though it was solid."

I tried it with considerable misgiving.

He was right. It worked just swell.

The chef was an enormously fat old man who wore one of those tall chef's hats and who usually gave the impression of being mad at the world in general and at what customers there might be in the cafe in particular.

Inez Robb Bossy Gets Her Garlic In The Spring

Just yesterday I picked up a New York City newspaper and read a headline and story that only a metropolitan editor and gazette would classify as news.

"Garlic Milk Irks Londoners" read the headline. The lead on the story began: "South Londoners complained that the milk they poured in their coffee and tea yesterday was flavored by garlic."

To think that the paper paid cable tolls on that item! Anyone born and reared west of the Hudson River could have told the civilized editor that garlic or onion-flavored milk is standard operating procedure in spring of the world around.

Just as certain as March winds and April showers produce May flowers, just as certain as a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of, just as surely as the reappearance of the robin and of chickweed, there is going to be a fortnight in spring when milk takes on the morbid flavor of wild onions and wild garlic. That taste is one of the harbingers of—

Within the lifetime of any of us, man has flown faster than sound, extracted the secrets of the atom, sent his own satellites around the sun, and invented electronic brains.

But he has had absolutely no luck at all with some of life's more profound problems, such as teaching Old Bossy, when she is first turned out to pasture in the spring, to eschew the succulent shoots of wild onion and garlic that dot the "meadow trim with daisies pied."

If anything, milk cows take spring harder even than college students, although, in defense of cows, I have never heard of one involved in a party rind or a stampede to crowd into a telephone booth.

After a long winter of hay and silage, it is useless to expect Bossy to ignore inviting tufts of emerald green onion and garlic.

In all the springs of my childhood, we wrestled out in the Boise Valley with milk redolent of garlic or onion the n-nature. The Jersey cow was turned out to pasture. They were delicacies she could not resist, like a woman on a diet confronted by a chocolate bar.

The thick yellow cream that gathered on the milk was contaminated. Papa couldn't abide it on the hot oatmeal. For a fortnight, Mama abandoned making her justly famous Opera Cream Cake with Whipped Cream filling. None of us had ever seen an opera, but we felt it shouldn't be garlic-flavored just the same.

And for a fortnight, until the Jersey settled down to eat the meadow grass, I was left off of my household chores, the churning. It was the only part of the on-ion-garlic fiasco I enjoyed. The old wooden churn stood idle, it wasn't until I was almost grown that Mama bought a new-fangled glass one with a handle that turned until the Jersey frame to her senses, got off the on-ion-garlic kick and we could once more enjoy her output.

In the interim, Mama solved the problem in the way her mother had solved it, and in the way I always presumed every one solved it. Mama fed the Jersey's entire output to the chickens and the pig. Apparently, they had neither taste buds nor taste, and what we humans couldn't abide they consumed with relish.

Later, when the chickens reached the frying pan and the pig the smokehouse, they were uncontaminated by their fortnight of really rolling in clover, a fortnight of yellow-rolled Jersey milk.

Someday, maybe, man will conquer the common cold and discover a way to keep milk cows out of the wild onions and garlic in spring. But until he does, there really isn't a genuine headline in either.

The Gallup Poll Rose Is Choice For U.S. Flower

PRINCETON, N. J. — Impassioned Senatorial pleas for the corn tassel, the carnation or even just plain grass as the nation's official flower leave the typical American unmoved. His entry in the floral sweepstakes currently stirring sound and fury in the halls of Congress is that perennial favorite — the rose.

As the public's choice for the official flower of the United States, the rose, of one kind or another, runs ahead of its nearest contender by a landslide vote of 14-to-1.

The rose, in fact, which is backed in the Senate debate by Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York, gathers more votes than all of the many other entries submitted by the public put together.

In second place with the public is the carnation — candidate of Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado who called it a flower of "fertility, virility, stability and courage." Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa disagreed saying it was too "often used at funerals."

The third place choice of the public — the sunflower — raises an interesting problem in cold war relations. It happens to be already the official flower of the Soviet Union.

With thoughts of spring weather supplanting thoughts of such things as the Berlin crisis and balancing the budget, the Gallup Poll entered the heated battle now raging in Washington over which flower should be the official symbol of the U. S. It assigned its reporters to ask this question of persons across the nation.

If you had to make a choice, what would you elect as the official national flower of the United States?

Ranked by order of mention, here are the top five choices:

CHOICE OF NATIONAL FLOWER

1. Rose
2. Carnation
3. Sunflower
4. Daisy
5. Dogwood

Also receiving frequent mention but finishing out of the top five nationally were the bluebonnet, carnation, chrysanthemum, geranium, gladiolus, goldenrod, lilac, lily, magnolia, orchid, poppy, rhododendron, tulip and the violet.

At the risk of disappointing Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky it must be reported that there is little evidence of a groundswell in support of his floral candidate — grass. Speaking in defense of his choice, Senator Morton commented: "What would happen to the patient cattle — the gentle sheep — the loving horse — if it were not for grass?"

Although the rose is a clear first-place winner in all major regions of the country, certain regional variations do show up.

In the South, for example, a loyal Texas vote helps to put the Lone Star State's official flower, the bluebonnet, in third place. Right behind it in fourth place is the magnolia — official flower of Louisiana and Mississippi.

In the East, the violet, official flower symbol of New Jersey and Rhode Island, ties for fifth place.

In the Far West, California's poppy ties for fourth place.

One form or other of a rose is now the most popular official state flower — it is the symbol in four states (Ga., Iowa, N. V. and N. Dak.) as well as in the District of Columbia.

Help For Medics

CHICAGO (AP)—Tomorrow's doctors are finding other careers.

Dr. John A. D. Cooper, assistant dean of the Northwestern University medical school, says the ability of other professions to offer greater inducements for fellowships and research assistantships is one of the reasons for the loss of "Medicine," he said, "has no equivalent source of subsidy for its students."

Dr. Cooper urges that steps be taken to shorten the medical program and grant higher professional and economic status to the physician in specialty training.

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: GEORGE HALAS, owner-coach of the Chicago Bear pro football team.

"One big weakness last season was our inability to beat the champion Baltimore Colts and that was a weakness shared by every other club in the league."

LARRY SNYDER, coach of the Ohio State track team which competed in the ABC Relays here last weekend.

"We'll always remember our trip to Texas. We've been treated wonderfully everywhere we've been and my boys are going to want to come back. They sure like this Texas hospitality."

RYNE DUREN, New York Yankee hurler: "Why don't you write that I want to become a starting hurler this season? I'd better withdraw that suggestion or somebody will take it seriously. Actually, I have no complaints about lack of recognition. I established myself with this club as a relief pitcher, and I got a good raise. I do think that every pitcher subconsciously wants to be a starting hurler, and I'm not different. The thing that's nice about starting games is that a pitcher gets a chance to relax for a day or two after he works. A relief pitcher had better be ready for three days out of four."

HAROLD LAHAR, head football coach at Houston University, who stopped here last week to sign Wayne Fields for his school: "Danny Birdwell (another Big Spring boy) is making us a fine hand. Has a lot of desire. We intend to play him at defensive end and offensive guard."

NAT FLEISHER, the expert on professional boxing: "Greed and the struggle for the state's prestige has ruined all control of the fight game in this country. The open defiance of such title holders as Floyd Patterson and Ray Robinson is preposterous. All in all, boxing is in a mess. Gus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, has brought boxing down to its lowest ebb. Brian London (matched against Floyd in April) is just an ordinary fighter, slow and easy to hit. Yet the gamble is always there that even a featherweight might lay one on the champion's whiskers and put him away."

HOWARD (RED) HICKEY, new coach of the San Francisco 49ers: "Players like Dickie Moegle (former Rice player) are going to play where I want them to play, or go. The day of the coach playing the player where he wants to play is over."

BERT BELL, pro football's commissioner: "Last season, in 72 games, the favorite won 31 and the underdog 38. There were two ties and one 'pick 'em' game. The home club used to win 75 to 80 per cent of the time. Last season, the home team won 37, the visitors 35, with two ties."

SAMMY MALZONE, Boston infielder: "My problem is to make myself swing all the time and get away from this lazy business. Slumps are caused just by being lazy with the bat."

JIM GENTILE, Los Angeles Dodger hand: "Is Vada Pinson (Cincinnati newcomer) fast? Why, that jack rabbit could run .300 or better."

OVER LAST YEAR

Higgins Looking For Improvement

By CHARLES MAHER
SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox last season had the American League's leading hitter, its second leading pitcher, and its RBI champion, who also turned out to be the most valuable player.
Probable is, in the final standings, the Red Sox were listed as only the third best team.
The Sox this year have what could be a slightly more formidable organization. Manager Mike Higgins sees improvement.
"The pitching should be a little improved," Mike said. "For one thing, Tom Brewer had a slow start last year. Came to training with the mumps. He's coming along real good now. He's winning more than 12 games." Brewer was 12-12 in 1958.
Higgins also hopes to get some help from at least one of the youngsters on his staff. He's had his eye on a couple of lefthanders, Frank Baumann and Ed Bowfield, and he wants a good look at Bill Monbouquette, a righthander who has been under six-month contract to the Army.

Older hands on the staff include Ike Delock (14-8), Frank Sullivan (13-9), Mike Fornieles (4-6) and Willard Nixon (1-7). Dave Sisler (6-9) and Herb Moford (4-9) with Detroit and 6-6 with Charleston) may be used in relief with Leo Kiely (5-2) and Murray Wall (6-9).

The Red Sox were fifth in team hitting last year with a .256 average, but somehow they look stronger than that. First, of course, there's Ted Williams, a 40-year-old outfielder who won his sixth batting title last year, hitting .328. Williams, of course, is doubtful for the early weeks because of a neck ailment — for which he is under treatment in Boston.

Behind him Pete Runnels, a second baseman who hit .322. Then there's Jack Jensen, who hit .286, drove in 122 runs and won the most valuable player award.
At third base is Frank Malzone, who hit a solid .262 year before last and nudged it up to .295 last season.

Vic Wertz, a first baseman acquired from Cleveland, may well be the most important newcomer on the roster. Wertz missed most of the 1958 season because of a broken ankle. But in 11 previous years in the majors he drove in 928 runs, about 84 a year, which is not a bad average. The Sox have picked up another swift lefty named Jim Busby who hit .237 for Baltimore. They also have Steve Kouss (220) and Gene Starchy (219). Bill Renna (268) can pinch hit.

T. Jones Motor Regains Lead

Truman Jones Motor regained first place in Housewives Bowling league standings by blanking the erstwhile leaders, Zale's Jewelers, 4-0, in play at Clover Bowl last week.

In other matches, Wasson and Trantham won over Canpack Restaurant, 4-0, while Warren's Clinic trounced back Tom's Peanut, 3-1.

Betty Duncan of Tom's had a game high of 166, one pin more than Betty Reid of Zale's.

Virginia Pickett of Truman Jones' came in with a 437 aggregate.
Splits were converted by: Joanna Boyd, Truman Jones Motor, 3-10; Dottie Redden, Caprock, 4-10; Annette Campbell, Wasson-Trantham, 3-10; Edna Varnadore, Wasson-Trantham, 5-7; Dora Court, Tom's, 2-7; Ernestine Schroeder, 5-6; and Wanda Warren, Warren's, 4-5.

Sox's Medical Reports Are Far From Good

By MIKE RATHET
Associate Press Sports Writer

A knotty lump arose in the throat of Boston Manager Mike Higgins today as he thumbed through the medical reports on his decimated outfield corps.

Higgins faces the prospect of opening the season without the big bat of Ted Williams, who has entered a hospital for treatment of a neck ailment.

Another outfielder, Gene Stephens, is sidelined with a badly sprained thumb. Jackie Jensen, the American League's MVP, has just returned to the line-up after missing valuable time due to a tooth infection.

Monday, 22-year-old Gary Geiger, hitting sensation of the Boston camp, suffered painful bruises on his neck and right leg in a collision with teammate Don Budin. Geiger, knocked unconscious for 20 minutes, will be sidelined for several days at least. The Red Sox won the game, defeating Cleveland 6-5.

If Geiger, acquired from Cleveland, is out longer than expected, Higgins will have to go with either light-hitting Jim Busby or Marty Keough in center field. With Stephens and Williams bypassed, Bill Renna is the only available left fielder.

While Higgins pondered his misfortune, a knowing smile crossed the face of Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney as he checked the reaction to his charges of complacency among the National League champions. Stung by the accusation, the Braves laced 15 hits Monday and broke a three-game losing streak with a 12-2 thumping of St. Louis.

In other games, New York defeated Cincinnati 4-0, Chicago's Cubs clubbed San Francisco 10-8, Detroit beat Los Angeles 9-4, Philadelphia subdued Washington 11-7, Pittsburgh hopped Baltimore 8-4 and Chicago's White Sox nipped Kansas City 5-4.

Sammy White's single in the ninth drove home Dick Gernert, who had doubled, with the winning run for the Red Sox.
Hank Aaron's three-run homer paced the Milwaukee attack which also included four hits by Del Rice, Carl Willey and Bob Rush six hit the Redbirds.

Veterans Bobby Shantz and Virgil Trucks combined for the Yankees' third shut out triumph of the exhibition season. Don Newcombe pitched four-hit ball for the Reds, but took the loss.

Pin-Ups Widen League Lead

The Pin-Ups widened their lead in the Officers' Wives bowling league last week by slaughtering the Sexy Five, 4-0.

The After Burners crashed past the Shoudda Beens, 3-1, and the Head Hunters rapped the Ball Points with a 2-2 split.
The Pin-Ups salvaged a 2018 high series victory, while Nancy Kan led bowlers with her 187-46 game and series.

A flock of splits were converted: Zeda Bruffat, 6-7-10 and 3-10; Betty Tillman, 4-5-7; Betty Reid, 3-10; Kay Wickard, 3-10; Ruby Harrison, 3-10; Fran Nixon, 5-6; Linda Johnson, 5-8-10; Nancy Kan, 6-7-10; and Margaret Cotter, 5-10.

Zora Folley Is Advanced To 2nd Spot In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—Nino Valdes, Valdes, who was ranked second contender behind Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, was dropped to sixth place today.

In a chain reaction, Zora Folley, of Chandler, Ariz., advanced from third to second, British champion Henry Cooper moved up from fourth to third, Philadelphia's Sonny Liston from fifth to fourth, and Briton's Brian London from ninth to eighth.
London, the former British heavyweight king who lost his crown to Cooper last January, is scheduled to fight world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson at Las Vegas, probably May 1.
Powell, the former 81½ lb. ball star from San Diego, entered the elite circle in the No. 9 spot. Eddie Machon of Redding, Calif., is fifth, Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach, seventh, and Joe Erskine of Wales, tenth.
Davey Moore, the freshly crowned world featherweight king, was named "fighter of the month" for his title victory over Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria. Bassey was named No. 1 contender.

Finish In University High Hurdles

(second from left) put on a burst of speed to wind up third. Dick Murphy of Texas Tech (far left) tied for fourth with Joe Hill of SMU (not pictured). The Texas Aggie pictured is Ernie Uribe, who didn't place. Bode was clocked in 14.6.

ART WALL CRITICAL OF TOURNEY PLAY

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Art Wall, a serious student of golf, tempered his enthusiasm over pocketing $2,000 first money in the $15,000 Azalea open tournament Monday with the observation that he hadn't played exceptionally well in the final round.

He had finished with a one-over-par 73 that gave him a 282 total, six under par, and a three-stroke margin over Mike Souchak, his ex-teammate on the Duke University golf squad.
Reminded that he has gone over par only seven times in 44 rounds in the 35-year-old Wall, who plays out of Pocono Manor, Pa., noted that five of his seven ventures over regulation figures have come in the final round.

"I can't understand that," he said. "I figure I'm as good a charger as the finish as anyone. I'd prefer going into the Masters at Augusta Thursday off a good closing round."

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON Steers To Visit Colorado City

Marking time for their Wednesday afternoon game in Colorado City, the Big Spring Steers scrimmage the Webb AFB team at 4:45 p.m. this afternoon.

The Steers will be seeking their ninth victory of the season in Colorado City tomorrow. They beat the Wolves, 16-6, in a game played here last week and will be heavily favored to turn the trick again.

However, Coach Ron Gurley will probably send stronger pitching to the mound this time.
The two teams will be playing in an enclosed park. Gurley and a crew of workers put up a fence around the Colorado City park over the weekend.

The game is the first of four scheduled for the Steers this week. The other three will be played here.

On Friday, the Longhorns play host to Lamesa in a return engagement while Snyder moves in Saturday for a double header.

In their previous meeting, the locals defeated Lamesa, 14-8. The locals hold two victories in as many starts over the Snyder team. They came from behind to win one here, 7-6, and then benefited from Jay LeFevre's no-hit hurling to win the other one in Snyder, 8-0.

The Steers open their conference season against San Angelo there a week from today.

Five Meg Keglars Post 500 Series

Mike Hammer Mobile Homes team, pitted against Hamilton Flying Service, took three of the four games in the Webb Rock 'n Rollers Bowling League last week. Cooley Shamrock tied in one game with Jack's Grocery No. 3, won the other three, making it 3-1 to their credit. Roy Bruce Phillips 66 defeated Christensen Bob Shop, 3 to 1.

Cooley Shamrock rolled the highest team series, 242, with a single team game of 624. Mike Hammer Mobile Homes rolled highest single team game of 896, with 2375 series.

Five ladies rolled series of 500 and over. High game of 219 was topped by Shirley Johnson of Mike Hammer, along with a 525 series, Marie Irwin of Cooley Shamrock rolled a 213 and 573 (high series of the night).

Ruth Glover, also of Cooley Shamrock, knocked out a 197 game, but did not quite make the coveted 500; she had 496. Janice Sursky, Jack's Grocery, rolled second high series of 549, with a 196 high game. Next highest game was a 193, rolled by Dot Kam of Bruce Phillips 66, with a 315 series. Helen McHugh of Mike Hammer, kegled a 197-520.

One bowler from each team, except Cooley Shamrock, covered splits. The 5-10 was picked up by Rose Overholt of Bruce Phillips 66, the 3-10 by Lynn Myles of Christensen Bob Shop. Mary Zubiate, Hamilton Flying Service, converted the 2-7. Mike Hammer Mobile Homes representative was Jeanette Hayden in getting the 2-5-7. Lee Duncan, Jack's Grocery No. 3, topped the 5-6-10.

Volleyball Teams To Resume Play

Play will be resumed in the YMCA Church Volleyball League tomorrow night and continue through April 14.

Only one round of games has been unrolled to date. Action was called off over the weekend due to the Easter holidays.
Tuesday evening, the Methodist Couples challenges First Baptist at 7:30 p.m., while Methodist Epworth tries Wesley Methodist at 8:30 p.m.

The schedule:
March 31 — 7:30 p.m., Methodist Epworth vs. Wesley Methodist.
April 7 — 8:30 p.m., First Church of Epworth vs. Wesley Methodist.
April 10 — 7:30 p.m., First Baptist vs. Methodist Epworth.
April 13 — 8:30 p.m., First Church of Epworth vs. Methodist Epworth.
April 16 — 7:30 p.m., Wesley Methodist vs. Methodist Epworth.
April 20 — 8:30 p.m., First Baptist vs. Methodist Epworth.
April 23 — 8:30 p.m., First Baptist vs. Wesley Methodist.
April 26 — 8:30 p.m., First Baptist vs. Wesley Methodist.

Girdner Winner Over River's

Girdner Electric bowled River, 3-1, and Tate-Bristow-Couples clubbed Barton, 3-1, last week in the Ladies' Star bowling league. Park Inn also smashed Edwards Heights, 3-1, and Harmonson shocked Jo, 3-1.

Park Inn rallied to pick off an 832 high team game over Tate-Bristow-Park's 823. Park Inn also had second high series behind Tate-Bristow-Park's 2330.
Shirley Starnes' 520 was best series and Grace Todd had 188 high game.

Splits were converted by Jan Sursky, 5-7 and 5-10 (Park Inn); Shirley Starnes, 4-9 and 3-10; Audrey Paper, 5-6; Angie Merrill, 1-10 (River); Beverly Gibson, 5-10 (Girdner); Beulah Johnson, 5-7, Olive Couble, 3-10, 5-8-10, and 5-6 (Harmonson); and Jean Couble, 6-10-7 (A-B-P).

After his shaky front nine on his last tour of the 6,800-yard Cape Evar Country Club course, he settled down to an incoming 35, one under par. He made eight pars and a birdie, his only one of the day, on the home turf.

Wall, enjoying his greatest year as a pro, moved past Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., in the race to lead the Ryder Cup team selections.

He now is a point ahead of Finsterwald, who shot the best score of the last round, 68, to win third place and $1,200 on a 287 total.

Souchak finished with a 71 for 285 and $1,500 run-up money. Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., finished fourth at 290 for $1,000.

'River Kwai' Tops Critics Poll; 'Cat On Hot Tin Roof' Second

By CHESTER B. BAHN
Editor, THE FILM DAILY
NEW YORK — In one of the closest contests in recent years, Sam Spiegel's production of "The Bridge on the River Kwai" finally nosed out "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" by 17 votes to emerge as the No. One picture of 1958 in The Film Daily's 36th annual "Ten Best Pictures" poll.

The closing tally in the poll, participated in by representative motion picture critics, reviewers and commentators for mass communications media — press, magazines and broadcasting — was "The Bridge on the River Kwai," 240 and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," 221, it was announced Sunday night.

A Horizon picture and a Columbia release, "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was directed in Technicolor and CinemaScope by England's David Lean, the screenplay being written from his own best selling novel about a wartime Japanese prison camp by Pierre Boulle. The brilliant cast was headed by William Holden, Sir Alec Guinness, Jack Hawkins and Sessue Hayakawa. The successful, highly dramatic story was wholly filmed on location in Ceylon. "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" was produced in Metrocolor as an Avon Production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by Lawrence Weingarten and directed by Richard Brooks. The extremely successful Broadway stage hit of family conflict by Tennessee Williams, a Pulitzer Prize winner, was adapted for filming by Brooks and James Poe. Its stars were Elizabeth Taylor, Paul Newman and Burl Ives, and also prominent in the cast were Jack Carson and Judith Anderson.

It may or may not be significant, but nonetheless it is interesting to note that all five pictures nominated as Oscar contenders by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are included in this year's "Ten Best," while "The Bridge on the River Kwai" was the Academy's choice just one year ago. At that time, it was not yet eligible for The Film Daily's national poll.

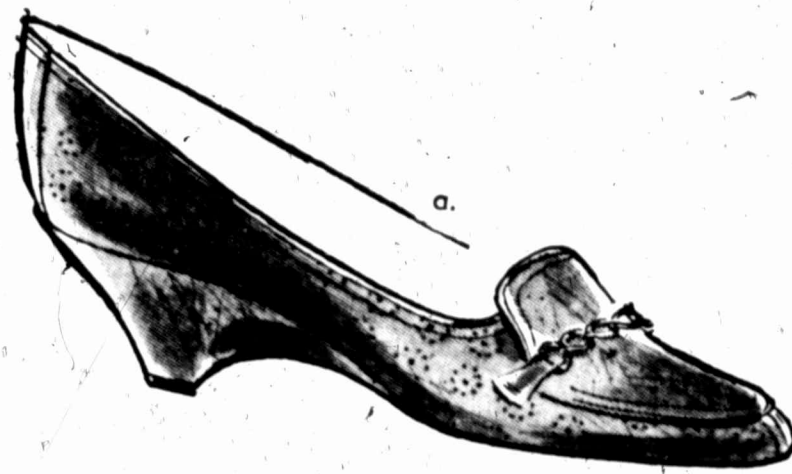

Four of the current Academy contenders finished second, third, fourth and fifth in this year's voting. Pressing "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" very closely indeed were "Gigi," like "Cat" a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release, and Warner Bros. "Auntie Mame." The two polled 210 and 200 votes, respectively. Stanley Kramer's production of "The Defiant Ones" for United Artists release followed with 169 ballots.

"Gigi," an Arthur Freed production, in Metrocolor and CinemaScope, was directed by Vincente Minnelli and had its genesis in the novel by Colette. Alan Jay Lerner provided the delightful screenplay and lyrics, and Frederick Loewe the lilting score, his first since that for "My Fair Lady." The admirable casting was headed by Leslie Caron, Louis Jourdan and Maurice Chevalier, with Hermione Gingold, Eva Gabor and Jacques Bergerac making their own sizable contributions. From Novel to Play to Film "Auntie Mame" like "Gigi" also stemmed from a best-selling novel by Patrick Dennis, which first was adapted for the Broadway stage by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. The hilarious screenplay was written by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, with ronce Rattigan who later wrote the screen play with John Gay. Harold Hecht produced and Delbert Mann directed the gifted cast headed by Deborah Kerr, Rita Hayworth, David Niven and Burt Lancaster, whose support included Wendy Hiller, Gladys Cooper and Cathleen Nesbitt.

To fill the eighth and ninth niches of the "Ten Best," the voters chose two impressive Twentieth Century-Fox releases, Jerry Wald's production of "The Long, Hot Summer" with 93 votes and "The Young Lions," produced by the late Al Lichtman, with 89.

The former was written as an original screen play by Irving Ravetch and Harriet Frank Jr., and was directed for Wald by Martin Ritt. Expert casting placed Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Anthony Franciosa, Orson Wells, Lee Remick, Angela Lansbury and other highly capable players in graphic roles. It was filmed in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color.

"The Young Lions" was skillfully adapted from Irwin Shaw's absorbing World War II novel. Edward Anhalt providing the screenplay, Lichtman's choice of director was Edward Dmytryk. A top-flight cast included Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift, Dean Martin, Hope Lange, Barbara Rush, May Britt and Maximilian

Schell. The CinemaScope process was employed for filming. To round out the 1958 "Ten Best" the critics, reviewers and commentators chose one of the screen's finest Westerns, "The Big Country," which polled 84 votes, only five fewer than "The Young Lions." Produced for United Artists distribution by William Wyler and Gregory Peck, the picture also was directed by the former. Donald Hamilton's Saturday Evening Post serial was adapted by Jessamyn West and Robert Wyler, and the screen play was written by James R. Webb, Sydney Bartlett and Robert Wilder. The exceptional cast included Peck,

Jean Simmons, Carroll Baker, Charlton Heston, Burl Ives and Charles Bickford. The picture was filmed in Technirama and printed in Technicolor. Twenty-seven pictures, receiving from 10 to 77 votes, comprise the traditional supplementary Honor Roll. The two leading Honor Roll selections are "The Last Hurrah," produced and directed by John Ford for Columbia, with 80, and "The Brothers Karamazov," an Avon Production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with 76. It was produced by Pandro S. Berman and directed by Richard Brooks. Only four votes separated "The Brothers Karamazov" from Warners' "Indiscreet," which Stanley Donen both produced and directed. Ballots cast in the 36th annual "Ten Best" election totaled 307. The picture eligibility period was the calendar year, thus coinciding with that for the Academy's "Oscars" which will be announced in Hollywood one week from tonight. However, it should be noted that Academy contenders need not be in general national release during the "Ten Best" voting period and furthermore that "Ten Best" ballots were cast only for pictures professionally seen by the participating voters.
