More Violence Predicted For
 The Coal Fields

WASHINGTON (AP) — More blood is likely to be spilled in the east Kentucky coal fields. The violence could spread to West Virginia.
 What is behind the fierce tensions in these mining areas? The answer is simple: Human beings are caught on an economic rack. It is an old story.
 The big, relatively prosperous mine owners and the United Mine Workers Union agreed to a new wage contract last fall. This called for a $2-a-day pay boost, increasing the basic wage to $24.25 a day. Big mines can afford it.
 But invariably there are smaller mines that can't afford it, or at least say they can't. They haven't put in the machines that enable the bigger mines to absorb the higher wage costs and still operate at a profit.
 When these balking mines try to operate without a union contract, UMW pickets appear. It is UMW policy that a mine that can't meet the industry wage scale has no business being in business.
 In the coal areas this has a grim meaning because most residents depend on mining for a livelihood. There isn't much other work available.
 A further complication this year is a new UMW contract proviso. This binds all the mine owners signing the contract to boycott coal produced by mines not under contract.
 Smaller mines generally feed their coal to the larger mines to be assembled, prepared and sent off to market. The effect of the new proviso is to cut off the non-union mines from production outlets.
 Thus the industry is constantly narrowing to the bigger, more efficient mines.

ROUGH WEATHER

King-Size Hailstones, High Winds Hit Texas

By The Associated Press
 Tornadoes, hailstones reported as big as grapefruit, and torrential rains lashed Texas Saturday.
 A wide sector of North Texas remained under tornado alert early Sunday as the U.S. Weather Bureau predicted the turbulent weather would continue throughout the weekend.
 Two tornado funnels were sighted heading toward Dallas late Saturday night but they dissipated before touching the ground.
 The U.S. Weather Bureau said a few severe thunderstorms with isolated large hail and isolated damaging winds would continue from 10 p.m. Saturday until 4 a.m. Sunday in the southeastern portions of Oklahoma, portions of East Texas and in Western Arkansas.
 The approximate area of the Saturday-Sunday alert was along and 100 miles north and south of a line from 60 miles south of Mineral Wells, Tex., to 60 miles south of Flippen, Ark.
 The area in Texas was from the Red River northeast of Saint Jo southwestward to the vicinity of Bowie, southward to 15 miles northwest of Austin, northeast to Palestine, Longview and Jefferson and into Arkansas. This area includes the Dallas-Fort Worth sector.
 Earlier, there had been heavy hail, some as big as grapefruit, a small twister and torrential rainstorms and high surface winds to batter Texas on a stormy Saturday night.
 Widespread rains and hail fell in the Abilene area. The hail was described as golfball size. Damage was sustained by roofs.
 Rainfall in the Abilene area included 1.80 inches at Buffalo Gap and the following: Abilene 1.34, Baird 1.50, Clyde 1.10, Eastland 1.20, Lawn 1.50, Ovalo 1.05, Purnam 2.00, Tuscola 1.20. Hail was reported at Aspermont, Santa Ana, and Munday.
 Despite the heavy hail and twisting winds, only two persons were reported injured. Jack White, 47, of Godley received a broken left leg. And Travis McCall, 52, of Godley broke his left thigh while trying to rope a horse that had been injured in the storm.
 The heaviest hail apparently pounded the small town of Dilley, halfway between San Antonio and Laredo shortly after 7 p.m. But big hailstones were reported to have caused damage at Cresson, in the Hood County area southwest of Fort Worth, at Pearsall, in Frio County, north of Dilley, and at Seymour, 50 miles southwest of Wichita Falls.
 Sgt. W. V. Weeks of the Texas Highway Patrol said hail the size of grapefruit and baseballs pounded the windshield out of his patrol car. Weeks said automobiles, business houses, and homes were damaged as the hailstones struck Dilley. City officials there estimated damage as high as $50,000.
 Hen-egg size hailstones pounded down on Seymour. Car tops were dented and windows broken in business houses and homes. The damage was unestimated.
 The short, hard rain at Seymour amounted to .55 of an inch in 10 minutes and filled the North Texas town's streets with water. High winds, ranging from 30 to 40 miles per hour, accompanied the hailstorms.
 Earlier the storm had left the ground covered with hail between Santa Ana and Coleman, 45 miles south of Abilene.

CHRISTIAN A. HERTER
 New secretary of state

Former Aide
 Steps Into Boss' Shoes

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Christian A. Herter was chosen by President Eisenhower Saturday to be secretary of state. Herter promised to "do the very best I can."
 The widely expected selection of Herter, 64, for the Cabinet post was announced by the President at a news conference at the Augusta National Golf Club. Herter was present.
 Herter, former member of Congress and former governor of Massachusetts, has been undersecretary since early 1957. He succeeds John Foster Dulles whose resignation because of incapacitating cancer was accepted by Eisenhower last Wednesday.
 The President said he will nominate Herter formally early this week. In Washington, Congress members generally praised the choice of Herter, and swift Senate confirmation was predicted.
 Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, called a committee meeting for Tuesday to consider the nomination.
 The committee chairman said Herter has arranged to appear personally before the public meeting Tuesday to discuss his nomination.
 Herter, acting secretary since the onset of Dulles' illness in February, takes over as State Department chief at a crucial time in negotiations with the Soviet Union.
 In the continuing effort to ease East-West tensions, he will represent the United States at a Paris meeting of Western foreign ministers starting April 29. He will go on from there to Geneva for that group's session with the Soviet foreign minister, commencing May 11.
 The White House acknowledged for the first time that Eisenhower personally had suggested to Herter last Monday that he undergo a new physical checkup to determine whether he was up to the crushing grind of the No. 1 State Department position.
 Herter has had arthritis of the hips for the last 10 or 15 years and now walks most of the time with lightweight metal crutches to ease his discomfort.
 The White House reported that Herter had a complete medical check at Johns Hopkins University Hospital at Baltimore, Md., last Wednesday, the day Dulles resigned.
 "Everything was very good," said Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty regarding the examination results.
 Eisenhower's Monday suggestion to Herter that he undergo a medical examination was made at the White House during a 24-hour interruption of the President's Augusta vacation.
 By that time Dulles' doctors had discovered that his cancer had spread from the abdominal region to the neck area. The physicians undoubtedly had told Eisenhower that Dulles never would be able to resume full-time work.
 Herter was flown to Augusta by Army helicopter from his plantation near Green Pond, S.C. He is resting there this weekend and plans to be back in Washington Monday.

Texans See What Raid Would Be Like

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans got a dress rehearsal Friday of what would happen if enemy planes or missiles were detected heading this way.
 Shortly before noon, word flashed from state defense and disaster relief headquarters to 10 cities that simulated enemy bombers had been picked up by radar over Canada.
 The 10 cities used Department of Public Safety equipment to relay the warning throughout the state, acting coordinator James Garner said, and acknowledgment came in an average of six minutes. This was a minute less than last year's average, he said.
 The most noticeable effect was a blackout of television and FM radio stations and the switching of AM stations to special frequencies (1240 and 640) for a half hour.
 The 23-year-old spiritual ruler of the high land of the lamas emphasized that he had fled Lhasa, the capital, March 17 only after the Chinese Communists had attacked his summer palace with mortars.
 At almost the same moment as the Dalai Lama's statement was being read, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was repeating in Peiping that the god-king had been carried off to India by reactionary elements.
 Chou expressed hope that the Dalai Lama would return to Lhasa, and a nervous Indian government undoubtedly would like to see this happen. But the Dalai Lama said he will make known his future plans later and gave no hint he was in a mood to return.

Knott, Ackerly
 Merge Schools

Voters in both Knott and Ackerly school districts Saturday approved consolidation of the two schools and formation of the Sands Consolidated Independent School District.
 Margin at Knott was slightly less than two to one — 57 for and 34 against. At Ackerly, slightly fewer than two thirds of the voters approved, 93 for and 38 against.
 Consolidation cleared the way for the calling of a second election on issuance of $325,000 in bonds to finance a new high school and junior high on U.S. 87 about halfway between Knott and Ackerly.
 The new district proposes to continue to operate elementary schools at present locations in the two communities. In event the bond issue isn't approved, the high school will be set up at Ackerly.
 Next step in the consolidation is the merger of school boards. This is expected to take place Wednesday evening. It already has been agreed that four of the Knott trustees and three of the Ackerly board members will serve until regular trustee elections are held next April.
 In the agreement, Knott was given the majority on the consolidated board because that district has less indebtedness than the Ackerly district. Knott owes $71,000; Ackerly has a school debt of $132,000.
 Before the consolidated board can be organized, Knott and Ackerly trustees must meet separately to canvass Saturday's election returns.
 Holding the election at Knott Saturday were R. L. Stallings, judge, and Roosevelt D. Shaw and Harrison Wood, clerks. Ackerly election officials were Curtis White, judge, and Mrs. White and Joe Lemon, clerks.

Reviewing The Big Spring
 Week
 With Joe Pickle

Few weeks have been busier for this area. There were new city and school board members to be sworn in; projects shaping for Webb AFB; a projected freeze and showers; related tax and bond votes; two major real estate developments; Operations Alert and more activities than you can count.

The U. S. House passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing $2,913,000 in new construction for Webb AFB. This still has to clear the Senate and conference committee in order to go to the president for approval. Meanwhile, under previous authorization, bids were asked for May 21 on munitions storage facilities at the base, and for May 26 on base utilities extensions.

Coahoma Independent School District has set April 25 as the date for a referendum on $605,000 in bonds to finance school improvements. The breakdown includes $170,000 for classrooms at Coahoma, $50,000 for Midway classrooms; $150,000 for a high school gym and $105,000 for an auditorium; $50,000 for a home economics department; $40,000 for vocational shops; $30,000 for junior high remodeling; $36,000 for furniture and fixtures; $39,000 for contingencies; and $20,000 for land.

Elbow Common School district also took steps toward obtaining more operating finances. The district will vote May 2 on a proposal to levy the entire $1.50 rate for maintenance, and authorizing an additional 25 cents for bond service.

After a prolonged cool snap, the weather broke off and dipped to 27 degrees to nip some vegetation and fruit. By mid-week it was back to a summerish level and on Thursday there came a quarter of an inch in a spring shower, but still no drought-breaking rains.

The First National Bank announced purchase of the Hurt Estate property at 4th and Main which gives the institution a full half block for a new plant. Whether plans will include additional office building space depends on requests for such space, said officials.

Big Spring Country Club members voted to put their 90-acre tract south of FM 700 and west of U. S. 87 on the market. They also put a $250,000 price tag on the area.

Rockets Boss Gets 15 Years In Prison
 NEW YORK (AP) — Rackets boss Vito Genovese was behind bars today, sentenced to 15 years as the mastermind of an international narcotics ring.
 It took U. S. Dist. Court Judge Alexander Bicks just three minutes Friday to send Genovese to jail, revoke his $150,000 bail and fine him $20,000.

Guardsmen Use Rockets To Quell Prison Revolt
 DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—Rockets-firing National Guardsmen ended 36 hours of rebellion by Montana State Prison convicts early Saturday by storming the rebel defenses and rescuing 21 hostages.
 The guardsmen needed only 2 1/4 hours to quell the uprising after surging into the prison at 3:45 a.m. under cover of bazooka, machine gun and rifle fire.
 The prison's deputy warden was slain soon after the riot started Thursday afternoon. Two mutiny leaders died by what officials said was murder and suicide in the final moments of the showdown battle.
 Guardsmen reached the 21 hostages within a minute after the attack started. The hostages' lives had been threatened by hanging, knifing, fire and other violence. None was injured.
 Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson, a member of the prison's administrative board, said several hours after the rebellion ended that it was an "insane outbreak by a few bad boys." He also asserted that Montana is "trying to keep 20th century hoodlums in a 19th century jail."
 "This is like trying to run a zoo with the elephants in monkey cages and the monkeys in the elephant cages, in which case you can't control either the monkeys or the elephants."
 The outbreak, he added, "makes all too clear the imperative need for prison facilities in which a modern program of segregation can be carried out."
 He praised Warden Floyd E. Powell and said he "has proven himself to be a mature and astute prison manager."
 Powell described the disturbance as "definitely an escape attempt. It was not a riot."
 Convicts were digging a tunnel when guardsmen burst in upon them.
 The prison has 433 inmates and 127 employees.
 Prison authorities said 25 guardsmen will patrol the prison area for at least a week and that highway patrolmen will continue on an alert basis.
 The mutinous ringleaders, burglar Jerry Myles, 44, and murderer Lee Smart, 19, lay dead in the prison's northwest tower. Three other convicts, sidekicks of Myles and Smart, were holed up in the tower.
 When guardsmen ordered them to surrender, the trio emerged with their hands raised. There was no response when the troops demanded that Myles and Smart also surrender. They fired a bazooka shot at the tower. The silence from within continued.
 The guardsmen surged into the small 6 by 6-foot tower and found the bodies crumpled in the smoking ruins. Myles and an unidentified inmate were digging a tunnel under a wall when the first bazooka fire signaled the approach of the onrushing guardsmen.
 Among the hostages were five convicts labeled "stool pigeons" by the die-hard riot leaders. The rest were guards.
 The prison chaplain, Father Gerald J. Lyman, asserted that "no more than 15 or so of the inmates were leaders or sympathetically inclined to the revolt" which claimed the life of Dep. Warden Theodore Rothe, 40, at the very start.
 Newsmen interviewed some of the prisoners in an effort to pinpoint the reason for the uprising. Spokesmen for the inmates said they wanted reform of parole, the firing of Parole Director Benjamin W. Wright, better hospital facilities, elimination of the disciplinary "hole" cell, and other changes.

World's Religions Hold Dallas Meet

DALLAS (AP)—Can the world's great religions halt Communism and prevent a war that could destroy mankind?
 Can Christianity, Judaism, Buddhism, Islam, Hinduism and Confucianism find a common ground for unified action?
 Representatives from virtually all the great faiths sought the answers this weekend at the World Conference on Religion and Freedom.
 "All mankind stands at crossroads today—on one hand there is the threat of fearful destruction and on the other, great prosperity," B. K. Nehru, Indian's High Commissioner for Economic Affairs and a Hindu, told the conference Saturday.
 "We must recognize that there are strong human urges that have promoted Communism," he said.
 Nehru said the great religions should meet the needs of two-thirds of the world's population which suffers from dire poverty.
 Service to mankind, he said "is the lowest common denominator that embodies the greatest values of all religions."
 But Nehru warned that "the eternal truths of each religion must be revived."
 Dr. Kenneth Brown, executive director of the Danforth Foundation, St. Louis, Mo., told the conference that the world's religions can work together for a common goal.
 "Men do not have to agree to walk together," he said. "They can walk together with their disagreement if they walk in love."
 "Every one of the great religions embodies the principle of the Golden Rule but no single religious group can show the Golden Rule fulfilled," he said in stressing the need of adherents to live up to the basic teachings of their religious leaders.
 "The time has passed when we believed that, as we belonged to different religions, we could indulge in the questionable and harmful luxury of approaching each other on a negative basis, prepared only to criticize and to join in combat, thus stressing our differences and drifting further apart."

 Had Short Life

MEXICALI, Mexico (AP) — A baby was born aboard a Mexican airliner about 30 minutes before it exploded in flight Friday near Guaymas on the Gulf of California.
 The baby was killed along with 26 other passengers and crew of the twin-engine C46.
 An airline official at the scene of the wreckage said Saturday the baby was born either to Mrs. Anita Lagan of West Los Angeles or Mrs. Narcala Cazare of Tijuana.
 He said they were the only women aboard the plane who were in an advanced state of pregnancy.
 The official said the pilot radioed ahead to Guaymas to have an ambulance ready at the airfield because of the birth.
 The Tigres Voladores lines plane took off before dawn from Mexicali for Mexico City and exploded 2 1/4 hours later.

THE FOUR-PASSENGER RENAULT DAUPHINE
Leads imported cars in four-door class

Bob's Imported Cars To Be Renault Distributor Here

Opening of Bob's Imported Cars, associated with Tarbox-Gossett Ford Co., was announced Saturday.

The new firm, located at 4th and Johnson, just south of the Tarbox-Gossett establishment, is to be distributor of the French Renault cars, including the Dauphine and the 4CV. The new business also will provide complete service and parts for the cars.

Bob Brock is manager of the firm. The Dauphine is a four-door, four-passenger sedan with the engine in the rear. The exterior is compact — a total length of 155 inches — but surprisingly roomy. Two comfortable, bucket-type seats in front afford a relaxed and natural driving position.

Because of the rear-engine design there is no transmission hump down the center of the floor, and leg room is more than adequate. The interior is tastefully as well as functionally styled. There are a variety of colorful, functional fabrics to match exterior color options. The easy-to-read, hooded instrument cluster is directly in front of the driver. All controls — horn, headlights, dimmer, parking lights, directional signals, ignition key and starter — are grouped conveniently on the steering column.

The water-cooled, four-cylinder overhead valve engine is a lively power unit that has proved itself in world-wide competition. The three-speed transmission control, following the conventional American pattern, is operated by a conveniently placed floor shift. An automatic electro-magnet clutch known as the "Ferlac" is offered as optional equipment. Economy of operation is outstanding, with over-all fuel consumption up to, and often, better than, 40 miles per gallon. The Renault 4CV gets up to 50 miles per gallon.

The Dauphine has a large luggage compartment — actually seven cubic feet — at the front. The spare tire is carried horizontally in a compartment below the luggage space, which is reached by tilting forward the license plate holder.

All four wheels are independently suspended on helical springs. The four-wheel hydraulic brakes are extremely powerful, with large 9-inch drums. Steering is instantly responsive and accurate at all speeds, reacts to a fingertip's pressure.

3 Men Drown When Car Rolls In Creek

MOUNT VERNON, Tex. (AP)—Three men drowned Friday night when their car plunged into a rain-swollen creek northeast of this Northeast Texas town.

The bodies were discovered Saturday in an automobile submerged completely in White Oak Creek. Sheriff John Tittle Jr. said the accident apparently happened at about 10 p.m. last night. The dead were Dennis Henry, Lewis Rogers, a Negro; and George Skitts Sr., 47, all of Mt. Vernon.

Skitts' son, 14, escaped from the car and was found wandering near the scene. He said his father was driving and that the car ran off a bridge. Bodies of the three were found when the submerged car was hauled to the surface.

DEAR ABBY

SKIP THE SISTERS

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is I married a man with too many sisters. I held a good position before I was married and didn't exactly come out of the hills, but my husband's sisters think they know everything and are very free with their advice. One tells me how to dress, another one tells me how to wear my hair and another tells me how to arrange my furniture. I have heard from all of them that I am not "the type" they expected their brother to marry. (What could they mean by this?) Is there any way I can be friendly with them without letting them run my life?

DEAR TOO: Be friendly, agreeable and willing to listen to their advice—and then do exactly as you please.

DEAR ABBY: I am a housekeeper in a Catholic Rectory. I have always spoken of the kitchen there as "my" kitchen and when I speak to others I always refer to the parish as "my" parish. I was told by a friend that I should not refer to the kitchen as "my" kitchen or the parish as "my" parish. Am I right or wrong?

DEAR CRITICIZED: You certainly have a right to refer to the kitchen as yours, and those who merely belong to a parish refer to it as "my" parish. Your criticism to dig pretty deep to find something to criticize. Ignore it.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I married a widow. I bought a home, furnished it completely with new gas furnace, automatic washer, dryer, electric range, refrigerator and TV. I have to give her my check uncashed or she storms. On my day off I scrub and wax the floors and woodwork, I wash the Venetian blinds, vacuum rugs and polish furniture. I take care of the lawn and garden. I own a car, but she never lets me drive it. I carry my lunch and walk to work. I get $3 a week allowance for gum and cigarettes. You hear there no rights for men? I wish you could help me. NO RIGHTS FOR MEN. There are "rights" for men... but only for those who are man enough to demand them. A little less "wishbone" and a little more backbone.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem with my boyfriend. We go to the same school and he brings me home when school is out. I like him a lot but when we get home I have trouble getting him to leave. I'm afraid people will start talking about us if he keeps coming in and staying so long. Please tell me how to tell him to leave without making him mad.

DEAR WHAT: It isn't necessary to tell him to go—simply say, "I wish you could stay longer but I have so much to do that I must start now."

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. J.: People are usually "down on" the things they aren't "up on." Study the subject from all angles.

Legislature Faces Special Sessions

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel said Saturday he has new hope that the Legislature can solve its urgent money problems without a special session.

A compromise 209 million dollar tax proposal which he said is backed by a majority of the House holds the key to solution of the overwhelming problem of taxing and spending.

A scant 30 days remain before the Legislature's final adjournment date. There is so much to do and so little time that many leaders have said privately a special session could not be avoided. The lawmakers face three possible routes:

1. An expression of leadership and compromise that might find agreement on how much to spend and where to get the money.
2. An extension of the session —without pay—for two to three weeks. That is considered unlikely.
3. A special session or sessions —with pay.

Gov. Daniel's impromptu news conference Saturday indicated for the first time this session that the governor, legislators and the House leadership may be ready to get together. That is, one of the session's big features has been an absence of summit conferences between Daniel, Speaker Waggoner Carr, Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey and other top men in the Legislature and in the all-powerful lobby.

Yesterday's conference between Daniel and 31 House members, whom he said represented a total of 50 members, was the first step in that direction. Daniel said he had been advised that 80 House members had now joined the group and more were being contacted. A majority of the House is 76.

Daniel said some of the legislators would ask Carr to permit debate on the substitute proposal Monday. If necessary, he will ask Carr himself, the governor said. If the House can finish work on a budget-balancing tax bill and send it to the Senate by Wednesday, Daniel said, he believed the regular session could finish its job. That includes his plans to erase the 65 million dollar deficit. The new compromise tax bill would furnish the money for the next two fiscal years. The deficit elimination propositions would also have to be passed to get the state back on a sound fiscal basis.

The compromise 209 million dollar revenue bill is being prepared as a complete substitute for the 300 million dollar measure which has been sharply criticized as being a selective sales tax measure.

"I do not believe HB 727 would get one vote in the House," Daniel said. "The quicker it is laid away and buried the better." The governor said the new tax plan includes many features of his own program including increased levies on natural gas. It adds taxes on utilities, soft drinks and a one cent a pack boost on cigarettes.

"I believe this proposal has a good chance," Daniel said. He talked to newsmen while looking over a batch of petitions claimed to be signed by 500,000 Texans opposing a general sales or transactions tax.

Extension of the present session beyond May 12 seems unlikely in view of the disgruntled attitude of most lawmakers who are angry because they were denied the annual session—annual pay plan. They would get no pay during such an extension, but would be paid in a special session.

Despite Daniel's new optimism, many legislators still believe that a special session cannot be avoided in view of the shortness of time and the magnitude of what remains to be done.

The "why" of the Legislature's impasse lies in all those factors. Antagonism toward the governor, political futures of ambitious legislators, extreme pressures from lobbyists who have not been able to agree on a practical solution to the major problem, have also contributed.

Hundreds of bills, aside from the spending and taxing matters, have stacked up in committees and on the calendars without final action. Strict session-closing rules will soon kill most of these proposals. All pending bills die when a session ends. At a special session, nothing can be considered except that which is specifically submitted by the governor.

Gov. Daniel's urgent suggestions for erasing the deficit have made some progress in the House, but they are far from final enactment. They still face critical Senate tests.

The House and Senate have each completed preliminary work on the general spending bills, widely varying in total amount and many particulars. These differences must be adjusted in conference committee. Members from each branch of the Legislature may be named this coming week. In the past, it has taken from two to three weeks to complete that job.

Spending is only half the problem. The other half is raising the money.

Faubus Disclaims 3rd Party Support

DALLAS (AP)—States' rights issues may split the Democratic party, says Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, but he will have no part in any third party.

The segregationist governor told a news conference Friday: "I regret nothing I have done and would do it the same way if I had to do it over."

He referred to his controversy with the federal government over school integration at Little Rock. "All I ask," he added, "is that the schools be under the people's control and not that of the U.S. Supreme Court."

Lopez Checked Into State Penitentiary

Armando Lopez, convicted murderer, changed his name for a number Friday. He was duly checked in at the Texas State Penitentiary and began serving sentences aggregating 107 years and a day.

Lopez, found guilty of murder in the death on Jan. 7 of Gerald D. Limer, filling station attendant, was removed from the county jail to the state prison by Tommy Cole, deputy sheriff, and Wayne Tollett, city police officer. Also taken to the prison was James H. Webb. Webb was placed in the penitentiary to serve a 5-year sentence imposed earlier on him in another county. He had been held in the jail here.

Aerial Mapping Bids Invited

A special session of the City Commission is planned for May 5 so bids can be accepted on aerial mapping of about 30 sections in and around Big Spring.

The city manager, A. K. Steinhilber, said that notices had been sent to 10 firms inviting them to bid on the job. The maps are needed as part of the comprehensive master plan being undertaken here.

Forrest & Cotton, engineering firm conducting the master plan, worked with the city in preparing specifications for the aerial mapping work, and these specifications were mailed out last week.

The city is calling for mapping of 30 sections around the city with an alternate of 10 sections less. Plans call for five-foot contour maps.

The city considered two-foot contours, but it found these maps would be too expensive.

Cole and Tollett went from Huntsville to Fort Chaffee, Ark., to take custody of Alexander Joseph Couette, 19, under burglary indictment in this county. Couette, who jumped bond, had been apprehended in the military post and was being held for local authorities.

Cole said that Lopez seemed embittered as he was admitted to the state prison. It was not known if he will be returned to Howard County later when his codefendant in the Limer murder, Andres Marquez, comes to trial. Marquez, if he is indicted, will be tried sometime after the next term of court opens.

Pay Library Visit

Observing Library Week, pupils in the second grade at Elbow School recently made a visit to the Howard County Library, some checking out books, others applying for library cards. Visits were also made to the post office and to the courthouse and jail by the 29 youngsters. Mrs. L. A. Newman accompanied her class.

Take Your Choice

If ever there were doubts that a family's desires in a new automobile could be fulfilled in Big Spring, these were dispelled Friday afternoon as a mammoth parade of new car beauty was unfolded on the downtown streets. There were at least 100 units (watchers lost count) of every size, color and body style, entered by all 10 of the city's franchised dealers. Here Herald Photographer Keith McMillin uses a telephoto lens to give an idea of the scope of the new car parade. Things came to a halt for a time, while the procession reached for many blocks, but people got an eye-full of what's available in auto transportation. Value of all this handsome merchandise Make your own guess: $350,000? $400,000? More? Anyway, here was the colorful choice for anyone to make. The parade climaxed a two-week period of coordinated promotional efforts by the Big Spring new car dealers to demonstrate how any family can "live better by far in a brand new car."

Two Murder Cases On Docket For Grand Jury Investigation

Two murder cases, one case of murder by an automobile, one of robbery by assault and a charge of assault with intent to rape will face the Howard County Grand Jury when it convenes Monday morning.

The grand jury, recalled for a second session in the present court term, will also deal with nearly 20 additional felony complaints ranging from burglary to DWI second offense.

The grand jurors, with Eugene R. Peters as foreman, were first organized when the court term opened. It is not unusual to call a grand jury back for a second week's work at this term of the 118th District Court which is the longest of the year.

Murder cases on the docket include the charges against James Tindol and John Tindol, brothers, who are accused in the death of Walter Gatlin. Gatlin, yard worker, was beaten on the night of Feb. 14. He was found unconscious in the yard of his home, and remained in a coma until his death more than two months after the assault.

Another murder case to be investigated by the jurors will be the case against Lillie Mae Miles, charged with the murder of Ernest Myers. The woman allegedly knifed Myers, her common law husband, to death as climax to a quarrel on the night of April 4. The killing occurred in the rear of a cafe on the north side of town.

Francis Raymon, who was driver of the car in which Delores Carrillo died on March 3, is defendant in the murder by auto case to be laid before the grand jury.

Burnice Joe Young and Phillip Taylor are accused of robbery by assault. They are alleged to have robbed Lawrence Fisher on March 15.

Travis Raughton is charged with assault with intent to rape. He is alleged to have made an attack on a 12-year-old girl on Nov. 22, 1958.

Other cases to be taken before the grand jury include: James Morris Knight, forgery; Marvin Robinson and Don E. Gibson, forgery and passing; Lewis Arce, burglary; Harvey Lee DeWitt, forgery; W. E. Harris, forgery; Benny Earl Pearson, forgery; D. B. McWhorter, theft; Edmond Miers, removal of mortgaged property; Owen D. Sellers Jr., defrauding with worthless check; Emmett E. Pendergrass and Morris Leo Pendergrass, theft of an automobile; Horace L. Kelly, theft by bailment; P. C. Leatherwood, DWI, second offense; Billy Bruce Carson, DWI, second offense; Artis White, child desertion; Wilbur Hampton, DWI second offense; James P. Womack, burglary; Johnny L. White, burglary; Emmet W. Turk and Donald Medlin, burglary; George Liles, theft; Douglas Marvin Noe, theft of automobile; Marty Rice, procuring; Jay Stanford Matthews, burglary of an automobile; Carlene Williams, theft over $50; Glenn Billy Wiley, DWI second offense.

Frank Wilson Is Outstanding Dawson Farmer

LAMESA—Frank Wilson of the Welch community in north Dawson County was named the "Outstanding Farmer of the Year" and honored in a special ceremony at the meeting of Noon Lions Club in Lamar Forrest Community Center Thursday.

W. H. (Bill) Meeks, chairman of the soil conservation district board, made the presentation of the award. The outstanding farmer is selected by the board annually, and the Lions Club presents him with a plaque.

Lee Roy Colgan, county agent, outlined Wilson's accomplishments, tracing his operation back to 1940 when he rented a section of dryland farm. He bought the section in 1957 and now has three irrigation wells and a new home. Colgan told of Wilson's farm practices and how they had improved his land.

Ferguson-Steele Drivers To Get NSC Safety Awards

Nine Ferguson-Steele employees are to be presented with National Safety Council safe driving awards at a breakfast affair here this morning.

W. P. Hollis, assistant vice president of the petroleum transport firm and in charge of operations here, was to be in charge of the awards presentation at the Phillips 66 Truck Stop Cafe.

Among members of the company staff from Albuquerque, N. M., due here were E. L. West, W. K. Barton, B. J. Ewing and B. E. Musgraves; and from Dallas N. L. Newton Sr., N. L. Jr., and Mr. Forbes.

"These awards to the Big Spring drivers makes a system-wide total of 55 for an accumulated 172 years of safe driving by operators," said Hollis.

Scouts Break Camp After Big Round Up

Hundreds of weary and well-fed Boy Scouts broke camp here Saturday after another successful spring Round Up. More than a score of units went away with blue ribbons for excellence in camping and contests and others with red ribbons and yellow ribbons. Three of the blue ribbon troops were from the Lone Star District. In all, 1,246 boys and leaders registered for the event, and while it was about 200 under last year's record turnout, the Round Up was one of the largest ever held. This year only Boy Scouts participated, and what few Explorers (seniors) who were on hand were serving as judges and aides in operating the big outdoor camporee.

S. M. Smith's annual good turn in assembling, preparing and overseeing the service of a barbecue meal to boys and leaders left them all with their fill of food. As for all other meals Friday and Saturday, the boys themselves had to do the cooking. FROM FAR AWAY Troops were here from as far away as Penwell, Kermit, Wink, Odessa, Midland, etc. and from Snyder and Colorado City as well as in this district. Cliff Epps, general chairman, and Sam McComb, who helped shape the activities, were gratified with the manner in which the two-day event was unraveled. Under Capt. Earl Lothringer and Maj. E. L. Pettus, approximately 25 officers and airmen from Webb AFB performed the judging and scoring.

There were no casualties beyond minor cuts and bruises, but representatives from the Big Spring chapter of the Registered Nurses Association stood by constantly to handle first aid problems. This year the MARS (Military Auxiliary Radio Service) unit stood by to handle communications via field telephones to various parts of the sprawling camp southeast of the City Park and to keep in touch with town for emergency messages.

TIMING EQUIPMENT In some of the contests the Big Spring Timing Association's electronic starter and clocker equipment was employed. Friday evening as more than a thousand gathered around the big campfire, the Order of the Arrow put on a program of Indian dances. Leo Lee, Odessa scout executive, led a big singing.

Scout troops were judged on camping, neatness of site, sanitation, cooking, patrol leadership, discipline, etc. They also were scored on knot tying relay, blanket race, chariot race, Scout law relay, pony express, signaling, height judging, first aid and silent signals.

Lone Star District troops rating blue ribbons were No. 5, No. 8 and No. 9. Those rating red ribbons were No. 4, No. 6, No. 7, No. 28, No. 39, No. 146, No. 300. Those earning yellow ribbons were No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 10, No. 13, No. 17, No. 49, No. 81, No. 136, No. 341. Several of the troops would have reached the blue rating except for one patrol falling down.

Two Billfolds Lost

Billfold losses were reported by two persons Saturday. Alberta Fulcher reported loss of a wallet in the vicinity of the Piggy Wigly store. Charles Ray lost a billfold in the area of 1st and Austin.

C-C To Open Drive For More Membership Funds Monday

First phase of a Chamber of Commerce membership and dues adjustment campaign will be launched Monday morning. A kick-off breakfast is scheduled for 7 a.m. in the Settles ballroom for the dues adjustment portion of the drive. The new membership solicitation will start a week later.

Some 300 Chamber members will be contacted during the week with the request that they adjust their dues upward to conform with the minimum membership fee now being put into effect. A few of the group, already paying the minimum, will be asked to set their dues more in line with other, comparable members. Goal of the adjustment effort is $3,000 in new money to help finance the Chamber's program of work.

Singers' Reunion Slated At Brady

Among the groups will be the Cavaliers Quartet, featuring Del Clever, of Fort Worth; the Gospel Quartet of Corpus Christi; the Melody Four of Fort Worth; the Hoover Girls Trio of Burnet; the Neely Ham Quartet of Fort Worth, and young vocalist J. W. Turney, Big Spring.

No Traffic Problems

Pedestrians had no difficulty in getting across streets in Big Spring during the Civil Defense air raid drill Friday. Not a car was moving, as this aerial view of the downtown district shows. The picture was made by Air Force photographers from the Web AFB helicopter. All traffic was halted in and around the city for about 15 minutes. The drill was largely an effort to determine if the Civil Defense organization was capable of clearing streets and highways for military operations in event of a real attack.

Salvation Army In Special Fund Drive

Board members and others are engaged in a special appeal for funds to erase Salvation Army deficits created by unprecedented welfare demands. Although the post is actually $5,000 in the red, the local forces are seeking to raise only half that amount. Divisional officials in Dallas have said that the state organization would absorb half the over-run if the community could raise half. The United Fund, having been unable to supply assistance, recognized that this does constitute an emergency and gave permission for the informal campaign. The UF board requested that efforts to bridge the gap be completed during April. The excess of expenditures for home service and local charity as well as transient relief is not restricted to this year. What has happened is that the local post held off on payments to various other accounts, even to payment of the officers corps, in order to meet the relief appeals as they arose. Headed by Lewis Price, a committee has come up with a revised budget which recognizes that welfare aid must necessarily be held in check to a more realistic degree. "As difficult as it is to have to curtail help in some cases, we are going to have to play it by ear as well as by heart," he said. Elmer Tarbox, chairman of the advisory board, appealed for understanding help. If people respond, the post accounts can be brought back into balance and kept there, he said.

Donated Bond Frees Connie

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — After two days in prison, Connie Nicholas went free on a donated bail bond Saturday to appeal her conviction for manslaughter of her wealthy lover, Forrest Teel. Leaving the Indiana Women's Prison in cheerful spirit, she said, "The first thing I'm going to do is go to a drive-in and have a cheeseburger. Then I'm going to have that sudsy bath." She left the prison in a car with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blankenship, to stay in their home during the appeal period. The Blankenships live in New Whiteland, an all-new community of modest-priced homes 17 miles south of Indianapolis. Before she was free to go home with the Blankenships, the 45-year-old double divorcee stopped at the downtown office of the bonding company. Although her right hand remained cramped in therapeutic harness, she managed to scrawl her signature on the $10,000 appearance bond. Mrs. Nicholas was hustled to prison Thursday less than an hour after she was sentenced to a manslaughter term of 2 to 2 1/2 years. She was tried on a first-degree murder charge.

Mayor G. W. Dabney, too. When Mr. Dabney retired Tuesday after 13 years as mayor, the commission adopted a resolution naming him honorary mayor. The new mayor is a Big Spring product. Mayor Pro-tem is John Taylor. John L. Dibrell Jr. was elected president of the Big Spring school board succeeding the veteran Clyde Angel, who retired. Omar Jones was named vice president and Dr. Floyd Mays secretary. Another personnel change in the area came with the announcement that Fred Salling, long time principal at Coahoma High School, had accepted the superintendency at Miles. Meanwhile, H. L. Miller, resigned Coahoma superintendent, said he was going to New Home schools. French M. Robertson, chairman, and W. D. Kirkin, member of the board for state hospitals and special schools, Dr. L. J. Rullmann, executive director, and others came here for dedication of the $5,000 amplifying system of the Big Spring State Hospital. It was given by the people of Big Spring and area. Mrs. Malcolm Gregory, Austin, state chairman of advisory councils, paid our hospital this compliment: "Patients here I smile when you speak to them. I can't say that of many other of our mental hospitals." The city went looking for a city engineer as well as a city attorney. Clifton (Jack) Bellamy announced he was entering private practice. Earlier Wayne Basden had left his attorney's post to go into practice. A. D. Meador, fire department captain, was promoted to fire marshal, which opened the way for elevation of R. T. Hale to captain and Jake Tranham to lieutenant.

Guard Decision Due In Strikes

HAZARD, Ky. (AP) — A decision on whether to move National Guardsmen into eastern Kentucky's coal fields will be made sometime Sunday. Maj. Gen. J. B. Williams, state adjutant general, arrived here Saturday for an on-the-spot check of the violence-ridden mountain area. Gen. A. B. Chandler ordered two National Guard battalions mobilized Friday after the second killing in the six-week-old United Mine Workers strike and left the decision on whether to move the guard to Williams.

Executive Board Of 'Y' To Meet

The executive committee of the Big Spring YMCA has been convened for a special session at 5 p.m. Monday. James M. (Bob) Hardy, executive secretary, said that President R. H. Weaver had indicated that some decisions regarding potential sale of the present property might need to be reached at the meeting. This session is being held a day in advance of the regular meeting of the board of directors.

Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Chou Seeks Calm In Tibet Situation

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China strove Saturday to calm any apprehension among Asian neighbors arising from Peiping's harsh measures in rebellious Tibet. "China does not want to threaten or harm anybody, or ask anybody to change the social-political systems they have chosen," he told the opening session of Red China's Parliament in Peiping. Peiping radio said Chou addressed himself particularly to India, an uneasy host to Tibet's fugitive Dalai Lama. He declared attempts to drive a wedge between India and China because of the Tibetan uprising had failed. The Premier praised the people's communes that have uprooted families in Red China in the drive for greater production, and he told the Chinese people they must work even harder.

Kennedy Puts Head Into Buzzsaw

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youthful Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) puts his head into a political buzz saw this week. This will be the showdown voting in the Senate on his labor regulation bill. Dozens of amendments already have been proposed by senators attacking the complex 59-page measure from many different angles. On the 41-year-old Kennedy will fall the principal burden of defending the bill from these attacks. He is author of the measure as well as chairman of the labor subcommittee that approved it. It probably will be far the most important bill Kennedy handles on the floor in this Congress; his performance is sure to affect his chances for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination.

Experts Disagree On Narcotics Laws

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Stern punishment doesn't help curb drug addiction, says Dr. Robert H. Felix of the National Institute of Health. He said long sentences are deplorable because addicts get no psychiatric help in prison. But Col. George White of the U. S. Bureau of Narcotics disagreed. "I don't think it is in the nature of the American public to pander to any vice," White said. White said that when stronger laws are applied, narcotics addiction shows a decrease.

Several Projects On C-C Board's Agenda

Several current projects are on the agenda for Chamber of Commerce directors at their monthly meeting at noon Monday. The membership drive which opens Monday, plans for the Mayor-G.W. Dabney Appreciation Dinner, and arrangements for a goodwill dinner in Coahoma all will be discussed. Directors also will be asked to participate in a community leaders workshop to be held by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce at Odessa May 13.

Youth Arrested

Police arrested a 15-year-old Latin American Friday night after he allegedly stole a motor scooter and struck the scooter's owner with a bottle. The scooter was damaged during the incident, officers said.

Forsan Pupils Hold Big Activity Week

FORSAN — A Wiener roast on Monday night for the student body of Forsan junior and senior high schools will terminate a full week's observance of student activity week. This annual event is sponsored by the Student Council. The activities opened last Monday with the day designated as public day. Campaign posters were displayed for the students running for student council president. Tuesday was Ranch Day and all boys and girls came to school dressed to fit the occasion. Jay Creighton and Linda Duffer were recognized as best dressed cowboy and cowgirl. Wednesday was kid's day. Students were asked to dress, but not to act, like kids. Walter Fields and Sue Ann Dolan took top honors as the best dressed kids. Thursday was school colors day and the students wore black and white, the school's colors. Jan Fields and Tommy Gilmore were top pair in this competition. Dress-up day on Friday was won by Sherrie Fletcher and William Conger. Also on Friday morning a big political rally was conducted with Student Council presidential candidates being lauded by their managers. Candidates are Tommy Gilmore, Benny Barnett, Lynda Camp and Omega Ratliff. Citizens Traffic Commission awards for safety essay contest winners were presented. Honorable mention went to Sherrie Fletcher, Ginny Dee Scudder and Lynda Camp. Five dollar gift certificates went to the boy and girl rated as best and most appropriate dressed of all the days observed during the week. These certificates were presented to Sherrie Fletcher and Jay Creighton.

Police Wearing Summer Garb

Friday's sultry weather, so much like summer that one could hardly tell the difference, brought the Big Spring police out in summer garb on Saturday. Something new has been added — or, perhaps, subtracted. The uniformed force blossomed out in sports shirts. This is still a further concession from the old days when long sleeves and neckties were required regardless of the weather. Last summer, the officers were permitted to wear their shirt collars open. The uniformed force now calls for a sports shirt with sleeves a couple of inches above the elbows and open collars. Thirty-five male members of the force were out in the new uniforms on Saturday. The straw hats adopted last summer for hot weather wear were also broken out for the first time this year. Similar uniform blouses for the women on the force have not yet arrived, C. L. Rogers, chief, said, but they will be on hand soon. Most of the officers bought five of the new shirts—the plan calling for a fresh shirt each shift.

Commissioners To Hear Report On Law Enforcement

Howard County Commissioners Court will hear a recommendation from a group representing the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Law Enforcement Committee Monday. The recommendations were scheduled for presentation at last Monday's meeting but Judge Ed Carpenter asked that it be delayed a week since he was busy in county court last week and could not be present. The committee recommendations on steps that the county, as well as the city and other agencies can take, to insure better enforcement of the law and more safety for the public will be reviewed. The commissioners will probably canvass votes cast on Saturday's consolidation election at Knott. Further study of ways and means to sign up additional easements on approach areas at the new Howard County Airport will be discussed.

Coahoma Revival

COAHOMA — A revival will begin today in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Paul West to be the evangelist. Services will be held each day this week at 7:30 p.m.

El Paso Woman Dies In Plane On Way To Hospital

The 34-year-old wife of a Ft. Bliss Army sergeant died aboard an Army transport at noon Saturday just a few minutes before the plane reached Big Spring. She was being flown from El Paso to the Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio. The plane landed at Webb Air Force base and River Rural.

Union Voters Down School Merger

LAMESA — For the third time, voters in the Union school district Saturday said "no" to consolidation with Lamesa. While Lamesa voters, in a light turnout, were giving the proposed merger a 75-20 blessing, Union voters provided an equally strong margin against it. They defeated consolidation 90-39. Union, which has no high school, currently sends its high school pupils to the Klondike school.

Bonds Are Set

Bond in the sum of $2,000 has been set in the case of Mamel B. Guiterrez, 34, of 516 N. Gregg, who has been charged with DWI second offense. He was arrested Friday a mile west of City Park, records show. Bond of $500 has been set for John Shack, 20, WAFB, accused of aggravated assault. Otis West, 56, Coahoma, has been charged with DWI. He was arrested on 10th. Bond has been set at $500 in his case.

Workers Cheer End Of Walkout

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — A sudden, mighty cheer rose from scores of throats. Bitter tensions evaporated in a giddy whirl of joy. Henderson's violence-racked five-month textile mill strike was ended. This industrial city of 16,000 heard the news Friday night from a conference hall where white-haired Gov. Luther Hodges, an ex-industrialist, reached an agreement with officials of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills and the Striking Textile Workers Union of America in 3 1/2 hours of negotiations.

Panel Charges Public Hurt By U.S. Censorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors charges that suppression of military information is preventing the American people from making intelligent decisions on national defense. The report of the society's Freedom of Information Committee was made by its chairman, Herbert Brucker, editor of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant. Brucker criticized congressional committees for closing a high percentage of their hearings to the press. He also deplored what he described as a similar tendency in the executive branch. At this moment, he said, the American people have insufficient information to make intelligent decisions bearing on national security.

Touted Russian efficiency to the contrary—bed linens, table cloths, shirts and towels in that big country go into Soviet laundries and come back to their appointed places definitely "tattle-tale gray." Col. Peter W. Agnell, former Big Spring man, now coordinator of small arms training for the USAF, who spent nearly three weeks in Moscow last fall, said Saturday that cleanliness, as it is known to Americans, is not a highly regarded trait with the citizens of the U.S.S.R. Agnell, in Big Spring for a visit with his mother Mrs. Della K. Agnell, 311 W. 6th, was with the official U. S. small arms marksmanship team which competed against other teams in the international matches in Moscow last September.

Cow Pokes By Ace Reid

New car models went on glamorous parade here Friday afternoon, stretching over a 10-block course. There was something like $350,000 tied up in that little procession. Our city lost a veteran merchant and one of its friendliest citizens on Monday when Victor Mellinger died of a heart attack. He proved that the American story is no myth, coming up from an immigrant cigar maker to foot peddler and finally to modern merchant. He didn't forget his town, either, for he put in years service as a city commissioner.

Big Springer Finds Moscow Uninviting, City Of Contrasts

"We saw few vehicles as we passed through the country. There were no highways that we saw, comparable with the American network of roads," Agnell reports. The hotel where the American team was housed was a "modern" structure of some eight floors. Each room contained a lavatory and essential furnishings. The only bath, however, was a shower room in the basement. At a bigger hotel, where the official head of the American group was housed in another part of Moscow, Agnell said he spent half an hour going from official to official trying to find what room his chief was occupying. The building, ornate and garish, was one of the most modern in the city. It was 25 floors and Agnell observed there were no stairways to any of the upper levels and no fire escapes. The only access to the rooms above the lobby was by elevator. "All they had to do, if they wanted to," he said, "was bring the elevators to the lobby level, lock them in place and all persons on the floors above were prisoners." What most Americans cannot realize, he pointed out, when they see the limited luxuries the Russians have and puzzle over their apparent acceptance and approval of their way of life, is that the Russian has only one comparison. "He remembers how life was in the days of the czar," the colonel pointed out. "There are millions in Russia who will remember that in those days, it was the regular duty of scores of horse drawn cars to patrol the streets of Moscow each morning and cart away from the curbs the bodies of peasants who had died on the streets during the night of hunger and disease. "There are no carts today and no need for carts. And to the modern day Russian, even though to us his life seems harsh and bitter, things are so much better now than in those old days that he is happy."

GOLDEN GATE CHOIR TO SING HERE MONDAY
Big Spring key on itinerary of West Coast Group

Golden Gate Choir Due For 8th Year

For eight years the chapel choir of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary has been going on a spring tour, and for eight years the First Baptist Church in Big Spring has been on the itinerary.

This is the case Monday at 8 p.m. when the 19-voice group will be presented in concert to which the public is invited. Big Spring is the only point to which the choir has returned every year.

Directing the group is Carlyle D. Bennett, member of the music faculty of the seminary, and the accompanist is Mrs. Orine Suffer. Mrs. Suffer is the former Orine Hughes, who made her home in Big Spring for several years while her father, S. P. Hughes, was pastor of the E. 4th Baptist Church.

The program Monday evening will include passages by the chapel choir, the men's quartet, the men's chorus, the women's chorus, some with anthems and passages such as "Rock of Ages," "Wherever He Leads I'll Go," and favorites such as "Malotte's setting for the Lord's Prayer."

There is no charge, of course, although the customary free will offering will be received.

Mitchell Farm Wage Idea Rouses Ire, Farmers Told

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell has roused more wrath than he expected in his avowed aim of applying wage and hour laws to farmers, an American Farm Bureau official said Friday.

Matt Triggs, assistant legislative director of the bureau's legislative committee, said Mitchell seeks to unionize farm labor.

Addressing about 400 farmers from throughout Texas, he blasted the secretary's proposal for making wage-hour regulations cover farm employers hiring domestic or foreign workers through federal and state employment agencies.

Triggs said this was an "executive usurpation" of legislative authority based broadly on wording of the 1933 Wagner-Peyser Act. He said Congress consistently has denied the Labor Department authority which Mitchell now claims it has held since 1933.

He said Mitchell is reported to have been startled by the opposition he has met, ranging from "certain people" in the White House to Secretary of Agriculture Benson and many ranking Republicans.

Mitchell probably has hurt his chances for a Republican vice presidential nomination next year, Triggs said.

He said there is no indication, however, that the secretary intends to back down and farmers face a long, hard fight.

Angelo Penney's Destroyed By Fire

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Fire before dawn destroyed the J. C. Penney Co. store Saturday causing damage estimated at more than $200,000.

The two-story frame building had been a landmark more than 50 years. Penney had occupied the structure about 30 years.

Investigators said they believed the fire started in a steam press in the alteration department. A bakery employee discovered the blaze at 3:53 a.m. Merchandise that did not burn was damaged badly by smoke and water.

Body Recovered From Stream

'Alphabetic Hash' Tells ADC Operations Story

By JOE PICKLE
VO31 VP2-60 M35 2103 2 MARD 2107.

This alphabetic and numerical hash could mean life to you and your family.

Glancing at this on one of the plexiglass wingboards in the control center of the North American Air Defense Command at Oklahoma City, the trained eye and mind instantly can translate it into the interception of an unknown aircraft.

By looking straight ahead, one can get a visual picture of this action on the big 20x16-foot plexiglass board where clerks constantly mark in the latest information on movement of aircraft.

In this case, an unidentified plane appeared on radar screens as it crossed the southern border near Del Rio, Fat Chance (Sweetwater) direction center picked it up and instantly notified the 33rd Air Defense Control Center at Oklahoma City. Instantly, civilian traffic control centers in Fort Worth and Kansas City are checked for information on this craft.

When none was available, orders were issued for a scramble of two F66, all-weather interceptor-fighters from Webb AFB. Within five minutes the two fighters from the 33rd Interceptor Squadron are airborne and closing in for contact.

While all this is going on, controllers are scanning the boards in the center, assessing other data such as the current and predicted weather, wind aloft, available aircraft, readiness status, communications and a host of other information.

On the big board in front, arrows indicating the flight of the Webb interceptors bear toward the bright orange arrows representing the unidentified craft. Then flashes word of contact.

LOOK OR SHOOT?

Shall the pilot lock in his radar and fire his rockets or shall he move in for a closer look? The controller says take a closer look. It is a bomber, reports the pilot, but the bomb bay doors are not opened. OK, says the controller, fly along and keep it under close check but be ready to fire in event of any hostile move. Meanwhile, word comes through that this is a bomber out of Castle AFB which has been carried south of the border on a routine flight and is off course.

The order is issued to "pancake," which sends the interceptors winging back to Webb AFB.

This is a simulated picture, but for 24 hours a day and for 365 days a year this constant watch goes on and on. Radar direction centers and radar gap fillers are eyeing the sky for any strange aircraft, and particularly they are looking southward where they are looking for a possible Soviet bomber.

Col. John T. Fitzwater makes it plain that this is the most logical route for an aerial attack on the target-rich Southwest (33rd Air Defense) region. Hostile craft from Eastern Siberia could swing far out over the Pacific beyond radar detection reach and down south until opposite northern New Mexico. Then by riding the strong jet air streams, they could streak to a point south of the United States border and then turn the corner to bore up from the south.

Their speeds would be in excess of 600 m.p.h. (and probably much greater), hence air controllers would have to react instantly and unerringly.

BROADSIDE ATTACK

Radar equipped interceptors would, contrary to popular notions, try to come in broadside (or from right angles) to the unknown craft and fire a salvo of rockets. These create a pattern much like a shotgun and the timing is done electronically so that the target will run right into the pattern and the interceptor will go in behind it.

With plane speeds increasing, the degree of electronic controls between the center and the interceptor will be increased. Eventually, the pilot will be reduced to the role of chauffeur for ultra-complex electronic systems packing a lethal one-way charge. He will be the monitor for information flashing on boards and screens in the cockpit.

If there should be an air battle, Col. Fitzwater, as the commander of the 33rd Division, would direct it from the center of the fourth floor which rises some 20 feet above the bottom level of the semi-darkened control room. The plexiglass board affords him a clear picture for it is marked into 30-degree azimuth, has concentric circles at 50 mile intervals and is further divided into small grids. These are identified by two letters (such as AA, AB, etc.) which fit into larger blocks with similar two letter designation within 500 yards of any spot. There is no confusion in time, either, for information is in Greenwich time which applies all over the world.

The main thing is that this machinery is never idle. You ought to be able to sleep more securely knowing that.

Good News For Spacemen

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Here's good news for seven astronauts assigned to ride space capsules two years hence:

The Project Mercury "escape mechanism" has been given its first test—and it works.

This means the astronauts have excellent chances of getting out of the vehicle safely if something goes wrong at the launching.

The successful test was disclosed today by Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the project. He said small auxiliary rockets designed to provide emergency escape from the capsule were test-fired successfully last week at the Wallops Island, Va., experimental center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The escape rockets hurled an unmanned dummy space capsule 2,000 feet into the air, Gilruth told the World Congress of Flight. Then a parachute lowered the capsule into the Atlantic half a mile offshore at 30 feet a second—a rate of descent that both the capsule and the man can withstand.

Green Gets Life Term For Slaying

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Judge Harold Holden sentenced convicted murderer Johnny Green to life imprisonment Friday after a jury failed to decide between death or a life sentence.

The judge sentenced him rather than order a new trial.

Green, 25, of Fort Worth, had been convicted of first degree murder for the strangling of Mrs. Beatrice Hajdukiewicz, 44, last September. He will be eligible for parole in seven years.

LETTER

Regrets End Of Dabney Tenure

To the Editor:
Most of us here in Big Spring regret the stepping down from the mayor's office by the proficient man, G. W. Dabney of this city, and to say that he administered to us the very best his administration could bestow is but putting it mildly.

About the time that I inhaled my first whiff of atmosphere of Big Spring, Mr. Dabney began his tenure of office as mayor here. So I have observed closely his carrying on and conducting his administrations — which I think, was good.

So in conclusion I'll say that Mr. Dabney has a host of friends who will say "Good luck to you, whatever you may now pursue."

Elbow Tax Election Formally Ordered

Elbow School District No. 10 patrons will vote on May 2 on a maintenance tax proposal for the school. Ed Carpenter, county judge, signed the election proclamation on Friday and sheriff's officers posted the required notices of the election.

The election is to authorize the county commissioners to fix the rate on ad valorem property at $1.50 for each $100 valuation — the funds to be used for maintenance and operation of the schools. Under this plan, as provided by state law, a district can use all of its fixed ad valorem levy for operation of the schools and assess an additional levy to meet bond requirements.

If such procedure is not authorized by election of the patrons of the district, the school has to divide its $1.50 levy to cover both maintenance and bond needs.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, said that if Elbow approves the proposition it will be the third school district in the county to do so. Big Spring Independent School District has such a program and recently Center Point voted for the proposal.

All qualified electors, resident of the school district, who are property owning citizens are eligible to vote in the Elbow election, Bailey said.

Courthouse Parking Plan Is Under Study At Lamesa

LAMESA — A proposal to convert part of the Dawson County Courthouse lawn into parking space was presented to members of the retailers committee of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

The committee moved to make a study of the plan, reported chairman Roy Speck. Several businessmen, who have initiated the circulation of petitions on the project, presented the plan to Chamber directors this week. The directors, in turn, passed the proposal to the retailers committee for consideration.

Carl Rountree and Dr. Nobel H. Price appeared at the committee meeting to explain the proposals which were addressed to the Commissioner's Court and County judge.

The discussion brought out the fact that no definite plans have been made on the size or physical outlay of the proposed parking space, and no definite plans for operation of the space have been recommended.

Housing Bill Will Have Influence On Texas Construction

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas building levels will be "greatly influenced" by whatever federal housing bill is eventually passed by Congress, the Bureau of Business Research predicted Saturday.

So far 1959 building levels in Texas have not been up to expectations, the University of Texas branch reported.

An estimated $114,200,000 in urban building permits were issued in March, 17 per cent higher than in February and 16 per cent above March 1958.

However, the bureau noted that the January-March average, when adjusted for seasonal variations, was slightly below the 1958 average and substantially below the average for the second half of 1958.

The total construction figures with the value of new dwelling units authorized, included:

Dallas $19,808,450 total, $9,516,079 new dwellings; Houston $18,872,401, $13,260,398; El Paso $6,305,772, $3,723,575; San Antonio $5,629,803, $3,232,343; Austin $4,811,317, $2,225,000; and Fort Worth $4,012,002, $3,135,400.

Eudy's Condition Reported Improving

J. C. Eudy, with the McDonald Motor Co., is in Cowper Hospital following an attack which struck him as he worked at his job on Thursday morning.

Eudy, who lives at 1315 Mulberry, is making some progress toward recovery, Mrs. Eudy said Saturday morning. However, she said, he will have to rest for a considerable period before returning to his work.

R. L. LASATER WINS 100 IN 2-4A MEET

By BOBBY HORTON
ODESSA (SC) — Ablene High School turned in what apparently is the fastest mile relay time in the nation here yesterday while winning the District 2-4A track and field title at W. T. Barrett Stadium.

Ahlene ran off with the crown with 66 points. Midland had 40. San Angelo scored 29, Big Spring 12 and Odessa 7.

Big Spring's R. L. Lasater, a phenomenal sophomore sprinter, led the district century race record of 9.8 in the preliminaries but a muscle spasm during the sprint relay event forced him out of the 220-yard dash.

A quartet composed of James Blackwood, Charles McCook, Daniel Roberts and John Byram whipped to a 3:20.7 for Ablene in the mile relay, and unless another track team did better last week that clocking is tops over the nation.

Andrews had held the limelight for that honor briefly after running a 3:21.5 at the Monahan's Sand Hills Relays two weeks ago. Baytown, Texas, owns the national mark of 3:17.9 set in 1955.

The Steer's Lasater, after his record-tying run in the 100 preliminaries, came back to win the final in 10.0. He appeared to be running light all the way.

Then anchoring the 440-yard relay team later, Lasater was making his move to beat Ablene for third at the tape when his leg appeared to become paralyzed. A "slight muscle pull or spasm" as Coach Harold Bentley called it, stabbed his right leg five yards from the finish line and the Big Spring sprinter finished fourth.

He sprawled to the cinders and for five minutes coaches worked with him on the ground. Bentley said Lasater wanted to run later, but the coach pulled him out of the 220-yard dash.

"He'll probably be back in shape for regional at Odessa next week, but there was no need to gamble against a serious injury by letting him run in the 220 today," said Bentley.

Eight records were erased from the books and two others were tied on the near-perfect day—temperature was about 81 and wind was about five miles per hour.

DIST. 2-4A SUMMARY

Palmer Takes A Stroke Lead At Houston

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, with the aid of a beautiful chip shot into the final green, Saturday moved into a one-stroke lead after three rounds of $30,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Palmer shot a one-under-par 71 for a 205. Freddie Haas, who had begun the third round tied at 154 with Palmer, was second with 206. He had a par 72.

Palmer led by four strokes after nine holes Saturday, but took four bogies before recovering on the 18th.

Palmer, a 29-year-old pro from Ligonier, Pa., had a four-under-32 on the front nine, but he lost his putting touch on the back nine.

Tied at 207 were Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., and Jack Burke Jr., a Houston native playing out of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. Cary Middlecoff, the only two-time winner here, took a bogie on the 18th green for a 208.

"I had a beautiful chance but couldn't take advantage of it," Palmer said. "My putting went bad and I didn't hit very good irons."

Haas, the New Orleans' pro who had a hot putter for a 66 Friday, said the rain during the early holes did not bother him much but that the greens were a bit slower.

Medalist Sharp Still Winning

LAMESA, (SC)—Medalist Bob by Sharp of Hardin-Simmons University forged his way into the semi-finals of the annual Lamesa Invitational Golf Tournament here Saturday with two resounding wins.

Sharp defeated a fellow collegian, Jerry Moberly, 3 and 2; and then felled a Lamesa youth attending Texas Tech, in the quarter-finals, 4 and 3.

Others who made the semi-finals were Roland Adams, Lubbock; Charles Hedrick, Texas Tech; and Rocky Thompson of Wichita Falls.

Sharp plays Adams and Hedrick in the final round on Saturday afternoon. Sharp has won medalist honors Friday with a five-under par 67. In all, 128 players—above expectations—entered the three day meet.

No Big Spring player made the title flight but Tommy Hutto of that city made it on the third round in the first flight with wins over Jim Benson of Midland and Lanier Wilson of North Texas State College.

It took a 73 or better to rate the title flight and only two of the six who shot that figure were included.

CHAMPIONSHIP RESULTS

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Now that the Elementary School athletic program has been curtailed, two more mentors are needed in each of the local junior high schools. . . . The job of coaching upwards to 40 boys in the Seventh and Eighth grades is too much for one mortal. . . . Johnny Genung, Wichita Falls' great football tailback, plays shortstop on the Coyote baseball team. . . . There was a faint aroma that didn't smell of roses hanging over this year's Florida Derby. . . . It is told that news of an injury to the horse, Troilus, was kept secret until after $300,000 in bets on the animal had been made by the public. . . . Wilson High School (near Lubbock) has hired Norman Roberts, the former Robert Lee grid star who made good at both San Angelo College and East Texas State, as its head coach. . . . The fifty boys now in spring football drills at New Mexico State lost more than 300 pounds in their first day of practice. . . . The Howard County Junior College track team broke records in both the sprint medley relay and the mile relay in the junior college-university freshman division of the North Texas Relays at Denton last week, yet failed to win either event. . . . Bickering within the ranks of Orange High School faculty broke into the open recently when the high school principal recommended that the head basketball coach, Leroy Owens, be downgraded to assistant mentor. . . . The head football coach there, Wayne Shoemaker, had resigned recently under fire. . . . Bronko Nagurski Jr., son of the all-time football great, will play pro football in Canada (for the Hamilton Tigers) next fall. He was a starter at Notre Dame for three seasons and had been drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. . . . Colorado City High School apparently got an excellent coach in 34-year-old Otis Holladay, who signed on as head man there last week. . . . The former White Deer mentor has his work cut out for him, though, in that rugged district.

Green Still No. 1 L'heavyweight

Norman Cash, who has been putting a lot of wood on the ball for the Chicago White Sox, is the same boy who twice led the nation's football players in running with the ball while performing for Big Spring's Al Milch at Sul Ross College. . . . Cash never played baseball until he reached college. . . . He approached Milch one day and allowed as how he wanted to give the game a try. . . . Cash signed for an $8,000 bonus. . . . Hank Thompson, who played the infield for the New York Giants several years ago, has been charged with unlawful entry and assault in New York. . . . Shortly after Vernon Harrison, the Big Spring High School basketball mentor, completed his schedule for the 1958-59 season, Ysleta officials came forward with an offer to book two games each with Ysleta High and that city's new school, Bellaire, which is opening in September. . . . The San Jose (Calif.) Red Sox of 1953 were sometimes identified as the Gold Sox because, outside of a veteran hurler who

Giants Defeat Cards, 8 To 1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco right-hander Jack Sanford survived a siege of first-inning wildness Saturday and set the St. Louis Cardinals down 8-1 with a 1-hit pitching show.

Three walks and a hit batsman in the opening inning provided the Cardinals run and St. Musial's single in a seventh-inning pinch hit role ruined a possible no-nitter. A double play erased Musial.

Sanford struck out four Cardinals and didn't issue a walk after his shaky first inning. He faced only 25 batters in the final eight innings. Except for shortstop Andre Rodgers' error and Musial's hit no Cardinal reached base after the first inning.

Rodgers homered in the sixth following one by Orlando Cepeda. The blasts came after San Francisco had built a 2-1 advantage at the expense of starter Lindsay McDaniel.

Odessa Broncs Flip Angelo

SAN ANGELO, (SC) — Odessa scored three unearned runs in the first inning on two errors by shortstop Don Hall and went on to defeat the San Angelo Bobcats, 3-2, in a District 2-AAAA baseball game here Saturday.

Jerry Tyson was the winning hurler, although he had to have relief in the fifth. Ingram came in with two on and none out and pre-got the side out.

Cox, Ormand and Ronnie Goodwin scored for Odessa in the first. Mike Sabato and Hall collected San Angelo's other hits.

ARILENE, Tex. (AP) — Bill Woodhouse of Abilene in the Christian College Saturday became the third sprinter in the history of track and field to run a 9.1 100-yard dash.

The legal wind limit is 4.75 miles per hour.

Only Mel Patton of Southern California and Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian have been clocked in 9.1 previously.

Morrow was one of the three timers here Saturday who caught Woodhouse at 9.1.

Dabbs Runs 100 Yds. In 9.6 At Amarillo

AMARILLO (SC)—Clyde Dabbs, Howard County Junior College sprinter from Port Lavaca, broke a six-year-old record with his 9.6 100-yard dash here Saturday afternoon as the Jayhawks won the West Zone track championship.

It was the third consecutive year Howard County had won the meet.

HJCJ piled up 63 points to almost double Amarillo, which had 32. Lubbock Christian College had 14, Odessa 6, South Plains Junior College of Levelland 2 and Frank Phillips of Borger 0.

Dabbs had a strong wind to his back but was running on a wet track. It rained shortly before the meet started and whipping wind hampered the athletes otherwise.

The old century record was 9.7 set by Charles Messer, Clarendon, 1953.

Delbert Shirey soared over the standard broad jump distance of 21-5 1/2 with a 22-2 leap. Virgil Trower, Odessa, set the record in 1956.

Shirey also won the pole vault at 11-6 and high jump at 5-10 for an outstanding performance.

Dabbs won the 220-yard dash in 23.1 and ran on the sprint relay team which finished first in 45.9.

Pinch Hit Home Run Rips Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Philadelphia Phils cut loose with a barrage of 15 hits Saturday that included a grand slam home run by Gene Freese for a free-hitting 14-9 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

It was the third victory for the Phils over the Reds without a defeat in the still young National League season.

Reliever Al Schroll was the winning pitcher and Don Newcombe the loser for the second time against Philadelphia.

Bob Mabe was the only one of six Cincinnati pitchers who didn't take a beating from the Phils hitters. The Philly pitchers didn't fare too well either but Seth Morehead and then Al Schroll had the advantage of always being out in front after the second inning.

Freese's home run with the bases full came in the second inning.

YANKEES OVERPOWER BOSTON SOX, 16-7

BOSTON (AP) — Big Moose Skowron and Andy Carey each hammered across four New York runs Saturday as the world champion Yankees overwhelmed the Boston Red Sox 16-7, touched off by a decisive second inning.

Southpaw Ted Bowsfield was the victim of all six New York tallies in the second as he was driven out.

Elston Howard, who drove in 3 runs as did Mickey Mantle, got 2 of the 4 Yankee singles in the siege prolonged by 4 walks, an error and a passed ball.

Dave Sisler, who threw a strike past Skowron as the 11th New York batter to end the second frame, ran into his old nemesis—the home run ball. Hank Bauer, Skowron and Carey hit the drives before Sisler was replaced. Bauer's homer was the 150th of his major league career.

Jackie Jensen, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1956, lagged winner Duke Maas for a two-run homer in the seventh.

Maas coasted along on an 11-hit job until rookie Jim Coates came on in relief in the eighth.

Jensen belted him for a second two-run homer in the ninth.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Wayne Hardin, 32-year-old Navy offensive backfield coach, today was named head football coach at the Naval Academy, succeeding Eddie Erdelatz.

Erdelatz resigned suddenly 10 days ago for "personal reasons" after nine years in charge of Navy football.

Capt. Slade Cutter, director of athletics, said in announcing Hardin's appointment at a news conference that the young California redhead was the only person "seriously considered" for the job among 30 applications, which included a number of "name" coaches from other schools.

He declined to disclose terms of the contract. "I can tell you he's not an interim coach — he's our boy and we expect him to have a long and successful tenure here," Cutter said.

Jury Trials End In County Court

Edward Owen Robertson, charged with DWI, was found guilty by a Howard County Court jury Friday afternoon. The jurors deliberated 15 minutes. They assessed Robertson's punishment at a fine of $50 and ordered the defendant to serve seven days in the county jail. Robertson was the final defendant to face trial on the jury docket which had been under way since last Monday.

Two Committed To Boys School

Two more Big Spring juveniles will be removed to the Gatesville State Training School in the next few days, A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said Saturday. The youths were ordered committed to the school by Ed Carpenter, county juvenile judge, at a hearing Friday afternoon. One of the boys, a 15-year-old Latin American, who has been in the juvenile court on many other occasions, was before the judge this time accused of stealing six pairs of shoes in two recent forays.

A 16-year-old lad, also a Latin American, who slashed some automobile tires, was caught speeding and driving recklessly on the same night, has likewise been before the court on other occasions.

Local Ministers Express Views On 'Going Steady,' Early Marriages

By BOBBY HORTON
Going steady is dangerous. Best age for marriage is at least 17 and less than 23. The smart thing for a young man to do, even if he has just been married, is to go to college. Those are reactions from three Big Spring ministers concerning the before and after of young marriage. It typifies the advice they would give to a young couple before the marriage vows. All three would refuse to marry a couple under age or without consent of parents, or divorced. T. E. Cudd, minister of the Church of Christ, 1401 Main, would refuse to marry a couple if he felt they had lied about their age, or if one was a divorced party. "I don't marry on a fly-by-night basis, such as a couple just dropping in and wanting to be married. I think a wedding — which is a solemn and serious thing — should take a good bit of preparation. And I think it's perfectly all right for people who have the money to go all out for a really nice wedding, if they are in that position," Cudd says. Cudd does not discourage a young couple when the boy wants to go to college. "In fact, I think it might be an ideal situation. Many colleges now provide cottages for married couples, and I think there is some good when a boy can settle down and have a home while he is in college. I hear where 20 per cent of the students are flunking in one college, and I don't know but what it's because of running around." Cudd thinks going steady is a major problem, particularly where it involves junior high and elementary students. It can be a good thing at about 17 and into the college level, he believes, because by then boys and girls are more mature. "The bad thing about going steady, he says, is familiarity and intimacy between the boy and girl. There is a crucial period up to about 17 where a young person needs to have variety of life. About 18 is a good age for a girl to marry, and by 21 a boy should have begun to settle down to accepting responsibility. "I would say that I marry 10 for every couple I turn down," says Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church. "Generally speaking, the only reason I refuse — if you want to say 'refuse' — is when one party has been divorced for reasons other than unfaithfulness. . . . I believe there is scriptural basis for that."

"I don't offer my advice in marriage, but I gladly give it; I don't invite couples to my study, but I welcome them for counseling. This is because I do not like to pry into people's private lives. I don't believe I should be the one to say whether or not they are ready." The marriage vows are discussed and explained to every couple. The ideal years for marriage, says Dr. O'Brien, are from 21 to 25 for the man and 18 to 22 for the woman. Before that, they are likely to be immature and become disillusioned after marriage. After that, one or both may have become so set in habits that adjustment is difficult. The man should have or be on the way to a college diploma, the First Baptist minister adds. "Ditches are not dug by hand now."

Dr. O'Brien declares that "going steady is the most dangerous fad in modern young society today." Young people should and can "shop around" while they are at that age. "I think it is best that a young man have a college education before getting married," says Dr. R. Gage Lloyd of the First Presbyterian Church. The first year or so of marriage is usually difficult enough, he says, and college work at that time can create a division of interests. "The situation is divided even more if one is newly married, wading into college and attempting to work, simultaneously, he adds. "I advise young couples only when they come to me before they set the date to be married. Usually, however, they come with license in hand and parent's permission. Before the wedding, I discuss with them the marriage vows, tell them to expect difficulties the first year, advise them to seek marriage counsel before their problems become too large, and so forth," says Dr. Lloyd.

structor, thinks "going steady" is unwholesome. The best age for marriage he says, is after college or about 22 for the man and about 20 for the woman. "The only time I refuse to marry someone is when they are divorced not on grounds of adultery," says the Presbyterian minister.

School Board Attorney Quits

HOUSTON (AP) — Homer Cox, attorney for three minority members of the feuding school board in suburban Aldine quit Saturday, a few hours before the board was to meet in emergency session. The Aldine schools have been closed since Wednesday afternoon. Teachers voted to walk out when they failed to receive their mid-month pay checks. In a sudden move Friday, the minority faction asked Judge Wilmer Hunt to require that a fourth member of the board attend a meeting with them. Richard Cass countered by calling an emergency meeting for Saturday afternoon.

"I feel that when Mr. Cass called a special meeting to provide the necessary funds to operate the school and speed through the necessary legislation, as he did, that it was the only thing to do," Cox said. The Legislature and Gov. Price Daniel on Thursday approved emergency legislation that would permit the Aldine board to issue $200,000 in time warrants so the school year can be completed.

3 Cubans Executed

HAVANA (AP) — Three men were executed at Havana's La Cabana fortress Saturday on war crimes convictions, raising the official total of war crimes executions to 513 since Premier Fidel Castro's forces took over Jan. 1. Firing squads shot an ex-police man, an ex-corporal, and a civilian who worked for the police under former President Fulgencio Batista.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, said he was pleased with the results. Eight cases were cleared from the crowded county criminal docket during the week. Three defendants were convicted by juries, one was acquitted and a fifth was ordered dismissed when state witnesses failed to identify the defendant as the person who had committed the offense. One defendant drew a dismissal by the state for lack of evidence. Three of those on the docket pleaded guilty during the week. Two or three others are reported to be planning to enter guilty pleas rather than face trial at the next session of the court. Six of the 18 cases on the docket when the week opened were continued for the term.

Burns and County Judge Ed Carpenter said they would schedule another jury docket the first open week that arises. The county court functions when the district court is not in action. It is not practical for both courts to be in session at the same time, it was pointed out.

Meet Some Newcomers

IN TRUE WESTERN STYLE, Keith Wright, 4 years old, rides his fiery steed as his parents, the D. K. Wrights, look on. The family recently arrived from Fort Worth for Wright to assume management of the local Goodyear store. The two grew up in Weatherford, meeting after each had been away in school, he to Texas Tech, she in Baylor University. Result—Baylor lost a student and Tech gained one. An education major, Mrs. Wright has taught in intermediate grades for about five years. Bridge, photography, home movies and work in the Masonic and Eastern Star lodges are listed as interests by the Wrights. They are making a home at 1417 Eleventh Place.

ALL WIVES KNOW that it isn't wise to let your husband teach you to drive a car. Is it the same with learning to drive a golf ball? It probably doesn't apply to Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rhodes, since they have been married just since January, after his separation from the U.S. Army. The newcomers, who live at 405 East 11th Street, were married in Abilene, where the two met in Hardin Simmons University. Mrs. Rhodes is employed at the Chamber of Commerce, and his work is with Cosden. Rhodes is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Rhodes, 805 Magnolia. Besides golf, hobbies include piano and organ for Mrs. Rhodes; basketball and baseball for her husband.

AH, HERE'S OUR SONG seems to be what Lt. Phil Hurley is saying to his attractive wife as they listen to favorite recordings. The couple, naming Yantis as home, insist they have known each other "always". They went through grade school and high school together, parting company when she entered Baylor University as a Home Economics major, and he went to A&M College, of which he is a graduate. Hurley has been a member of the Air Force since June; their home is at 1014½ Nolan, and, don't be surprised if some changes are made—Mrs. Hurley is interested in interior decorating; he goes in for woodcraft.

AN EXPERT at operating the television set is five-year-old Keith Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bryant, 1304 Stadium, and Beverly, 4, feels lucky to have "a man at the dials". Originally from Hamburg, Ark., Bryant met his wife in Winnsboro, La., where they were married, later moving to Oak Grove, La. Coming here as manager of the Desert Sands Motel, Bryant left a department store in their former home town. He is a member of the Lions Club and the Jaycees, and Mrs. Bryant, who is in West Texas for the first time, is a Jaycee-Ette member.

WILLING AND ATTRACTIVE MODELS for the hobby of W. A. Frampton are his wife and sons, nine-month-old Gary and Scott, who is almost three years old. The family, (pictured at right), at 1503 Avion, recently came here from Lubbock, where Frampton had completed his studies in Texas Tech in January. He is an employe of Pioneer Gas Company. Mrs. Frampton is a product of Oklahoma A&M. Besides photography, the couple is interested in bridge and dancing. They list First Methodist as their church affiliation. The bookshelf in the background is a result of Frampton's woodworking talent.

Weldon Appleton Takes Houston Girl As Bride

In the First Baptist Church of South Houston, Jeanette Peterson became the bride of Weldon Appleton Saturday afternoon in a double ring ceremony. The ritual was read by the Rev. H. J. Tullis, pastor of the church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Peterson, South Houston; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest C. Appleton, Vincent.

Tapers in candelabra, smilex, and baskets of white stock and gladioli formed the altar before which the wedding party stood.

Wearing a Maurer original of silk organza over tulle and taffeta, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Appliqued roses of organza outlined the scooped neckline, extended down the bodice front and at points from the waist down the skirt, which swept in to a chapel train. Brief sleeves were also applied in the same fashion.

From a lace cap, sprinkled with seed pearls, floated a veil of silk illusion. The bride carried pale yellow roses on a white Bible.

Serving the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. James E. Riggs of College Station, whose husband attended the bridegroom as best man.

Bridesmaids were Margie Appleton, sister of the bridegroom; Rebecca Kinsey and Mrs. William E. Kitch, both of S. Houston; Hazel Stinson of Alvin, and Joyce Stewart of Galveston, junior bridesmaid.

All feminine attendants were attired in the same style — aqua taffeta frocks with tulle cummerbunds of darker hue. Headpieces were circles of aqua over bows of taffeta, and their flowers were daisies.

Candles were lighted by two of the ushers, who were Hubert Bowers and Brady Barr, both of College Station; Melvin Kalmans of Houston and Lt. John Ligon of Ft. Hood.

The flower girl was Julie Hugo, a cousin of the bride; Daryle Coates of Big Spring, matron of the bridegroom, carried the rings. A reception in the church entertaining suite followed the exchange of vows. Assisting with serving were Carol and Gail McDowell, both of S. Houston; Mrs. D. R. French of Houston and Bonnie Boatright of Pasadena, Texas. At the guest register was Ann Hudson of S. Houston.

For a wedding trip to New Jersey, the bride chose a silk suit of navy with matching accessories. The couple will make a home in Elberon, N. J., while the bridegroom, an A&M graduate, will be stationed at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. His bride was formerly employed as secretary of the church in which they were married.

Tailored Elegance

Looking as if she were ready to board the plane for Mexico is Mrs. Omar Jones, Woman's Forum member, who will model some of the Vacation in Mexico styles to be presented Wednesday by Swartz at the study clubs' Federation Day luncheon. Truly a dress that will go almost anywhere is the navy silk pesante, the epitome of good taste with its understated tailoring. The straight lines are relieved with slight fullness at bodice back. Notable are the cropped dolman sleeves. The garment is accessorized here with black patent shoes and bag, while iridescent jewelry and gloves, and a stanning cartwheel of navy straw glorified with red band.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Federated clubwomen of Big Spring are getting into the last of the year (club wise) activities with the Forum group planning a festive luncheon Wednesday and the Hyperions holding their annual gathering on Saturday. The spring flower show, Gems of the World, will get May off to a good start if the weather settles down to being springlike without the damaging winds that frequently play havoc with blooms.

From Cortez, Colo., comes a centennial edition of the Durango-Cortez Herald sent by Mrs. C. M. BOLES. I have enjoyed reading about this part of Colorado where I have never been. The San Juan Basin sounds like a beautiful place and I'm beginning to believe it would be quite wonderful to rush to the Rockies as the paper suggests. There is also a section expounding the beauty of Pagosa Springs. There must be something to all this other than newspaper promotion. Remember when Big Spring celebrated her centennial... it took a year to get going. It was a full year after to get back to normal... All the men looked anemic when they finally shaved their beards... And one young woman was heard to say she loved centennials and had been to every one her home town had celebrated... she should live so long!

JO ANN BROWN, University of Texas student from Victoria, has spent the weekend with ANN RATLIFF, SARA KEYS AND SALLY SANDLIN, all of whom are TU graduates and now employed here.

Spending the weekend in Sulphur Springs with relatives were MR. AND MRS. R. B. BARNETT and family.

BENNY COMPTON will return to Lubbock this afternoon after spending the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Compton. He is a junior at Tech.

The big family reunion at the home of MRS. ADA BOADLE terminated Wednesday and Thursday when the last of the family group left for their homes. It was the first time the family had been together for five and a half years. Here for the reunion with their mother and brother, Charles Ray, were MR. AND MRS. JOHN W. HOLLANDSWORTH and daughters of San Diego, Calif.: LT. AND MRS. MELVIN E. BOYLES their daughters and son of W. Palm Beach, Fla.; and MR. AND MRS. JOE ROBERT BOADLE JR. and three daughters of Stanton. Other members of the family here from Fort Worth were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corcoran and Mrs. Paul E. Corcoran and her daughter, Ray Skalicky of Fort Worth visited with the family during his weekend visit here in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Skalicky. He was a childhood friend of the Boadle children.

Comes a note, written aboard the Queen Mary, from Dr. JOHN and DIXIE HOGAN. They had enjoyed their visit to the United Nations building and other sights in New York and were having an even more enjoyable time on their trip to England, where they landed on Monday. And, they were looking forward to getting the Herald, which is being airmailed every day to them.

A Devotional For Today

Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts. (Zechariah 4:6.)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to see the weaknesses in our human strength. Help us to receive and rely upon the Holy Spirit whom Thou hast sent to us. Only so can we find the needed strength and guidance to do Thy will. In Jesus' name. Amen.

A Meaningful Memorial

When Dr. L. J. Rullmann, executive director of the state's hospitals and special schools, described the new amplifying system at the Big Spring State Hospital as a memorial, he summed it wisely.

The sound system, actually valued at around $5,000, was given to the State of Texas as a means of adding to the comfort, convenience and the curative powers of the hospital. It was, first of all, an expression of concern of people in this area for their friends and relatives who have or may fall victim to a mental illness.

More than that, it was a symbol of a willingness to help those who are unable to help themselves, and few attributes of man are as noble as this.

It is a memorial to the vision, tenacity and courage of those who assumed a role of leadership in making the system possible.

Intelligent Acceptance Of Reality

A precursory study of response of our people to the Civil Defense alert Friday lead to satisfying conclusions. Not a few of high placed officials were surprised by the cooperation exhibited by the public.

On every hand there appeared to be a willingness to conform to instructions. Even people stopped on the highways did not appear annoyed at the momentary delay. Traffic in town came nearer to a complete halt than most people believed possible.

These were but some of the superficial evidences of cooperation, but they indicate that the public is awakening to the urgent need of orderly teamwork in event of attack or disaster.

We pray God there will never be an occasion to employ the lessons learned in our test alert, but in a day when chances of reaction to defend against a surprise attack diminish in the face of supersonic flights, we cannot afford to be anything less than ready.

What might seem to some a foolish waste of time and even of productive manpower may be the wisest time we could employ. It could easily be the difference between life and death for millions.

We congratulate our people on their intelligent acceptance of this reality and upon their willingness to cooperate.

The Campaign Against Lewis Strauss

WASHINGTON — Communists could gain a big victory in the United States Senate if the nomination of Lewis Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce is denied confirmation.

Apparently there is a movement to punish Mr. Strauss not only because he prevented America from abandoning the development of the hydrogen bomb during the Truman administration but because he had the temerity to carry on the fight later which led to the denial of security clearance to J. Robert Oppenheimer, the noted scientist who had advocated delay.

Many who are participating in the movement are unwittingly playing the Communist game. Renewal of antagonism to Mr. Strauss because of his part in attacking security risks in scientific circles was noted this week. In a news article by Edward Garmarekian, a staff reporter of the Washington "Post & Times Herald," it is stated that petitions began to be circulated last week protesting the selection of Mr. Strauss as a speaker at the meeting and banquet of the American Physical Society on May 1 in Washington. These petitions were circulated at Cornell University, Columbia University, the Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont, Ill., and the Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, Long Island, as well as in the Boston area.

The petition stated that the invitation to Admiral Strauss to speak "gives the public impression that Admiral Strauss has the backing and respect of the scientific community" and that it would be "unfortunate" if the invitation were "construed as American Physical Society support of Admiral Strauss and his attempts to obtain Senate confirmation of his appointment as Secretary of Commerce."

The newspaper article then goes on to say: "The individuals who sparked the protest at the Argonne National Laboratory said they objected to Strauss because he had 'deliberately misled everyone on such matters as fall-out, clean weapons, and weapon testing,' and because he had 'used security regulations as an instrument of political power, particularly in the (J. Robert) Oppenheimer case.'"

Whatever Admiral Strauss ever said publicly on the subject of weapons tests was based upon the advice of noted scientists known to be loyal to the government of the United States. Naturally there are differences of opinion among scientists, and in recent years there has been a tendency to exaggerate the ill effects of fall-out from bomb tests. But, in any event, those who held the view that there was no present danger in the way the tests were being conducted had as much right to their viewpoint as the critics.

It is regrettable that the Oppenheimer case has to be dragged in once more, but some of the critics of Admiral Strauss evidently want it that way. Their assumption is that the senators have not read the record in that tragic episode and that the American people are unfamiliar with Oppenheimer's many financial contributions to Communist causes in the past.

Most damaging, however, was Oppenheimer's lie to American military intelligence officers who wanted to know the details of a visit by a Russian agent who sought to get secrets from Oppenheimer while he was in charge of the government's atomic laboratory. It is true that after several months Oppenheimer confessed that he had lied, but this was only after the American government had established in other ways the case against the Russian.

Usually when a Cabinet officer is up for confirmation by the Senate, there is the customary inquiry as to his views on public questions. The feeling has always been that the President has a right to choose Cabinet officers sympathetic to his own policies, irrespective of the views of the political opposition. So it seems strange that any extraneous issues should be interjected into the Strauss case. It is a mystery, too, why there is a protracted delay in the Senate in acting on the Strauss appointment. It looks like an attempt to block it by delay till the end of the present session when, if not confirmed, the nomination expires.

There are some senators active in the fight against the confirmation of Mr. Strauss who have their own antipathies—such as are involved in the controversy over government control of the public-utility industry—all of which are unrelated to the friction among the scientists. Some of the scientists, on the other hand, have subtle ways of exerting pressure on the government and on Congress itself.

The Communists will be happy if they can just "get Strauss." It is doubtful whether the senators are aware of the true nature of the underground battle being waged against a loyal American whose courage enabled America to develop the hydrogen bomb as a factor in its deterrent force against the Soviet Union.

Caught In The Wash

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis. (AP)—A murrer ran through the Wood County Board chambers as the committee chairman, reading a list of bills submitted for approval, came to this item:

"Jail laundry—Judge's Laundry $8.10." "Since when," demanded one of the newly-elected rural supervisors, "are we paying for the Judge's laundry?"

It was all smoothed over when a city supervisor explained that Judge's Laundry is a local cleaning establishment and the bill was for laundry work for the county jail.

The Game Goes On

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—John W. Ulmer takes his bowling seriously, as reflected in this testimony in traffic court: "They paged me and told me another car had smashed into mine. I came out and looked at the wreck. About $1,000 worth of damage had been done to my car. So I told my wife to see what could be done about getting the names and addresses of witnesses while I went back and finished my game."

A Brighter Analysis Of Unemployment Situation

Hot dogs, baked beans, apple sauce, bread, and coffee or milk. That was the "austerity dinner" (at a cost of 25 cents) set before delegates of James B. Carey's International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers in Washington during the recent Unemployment Rally promoted by Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, and acquiesced to by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

It was a dramatic gesture, intended to cause sympathetic suffering where people suffer quickest—in their stomachs. It was to indicate to delegates how unemployed electrical workers eat.

But, like the entire rally, it didn't reverberate. Despite speeches by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, Reuther, Meany and others, unemployment didn't emerge as a national problem, a major problem, a threatening problem. Why?

Unemployment, for those who are unemployed, is a serious, difficult, self-respect-destroying experience. But for most persons in the United States, unemployment is a remote problem. The country's doing all right.

Industrial production in March was 15 per cent above a year ago, at 147, an all-time high in the Federal Reserve Board index. Personal income ran at a record annual rate of $368,600,000,000, 6 per cent above a year ago. Builders started work on new homes at the hard to believe annual rate of 1,390,000. This was the best March ever.

Official Forgets Bill

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP)—The face of Lt. Gov. Ed Mead of New Mexico was slightly red recently after he attended a press convention in Alamogordo.

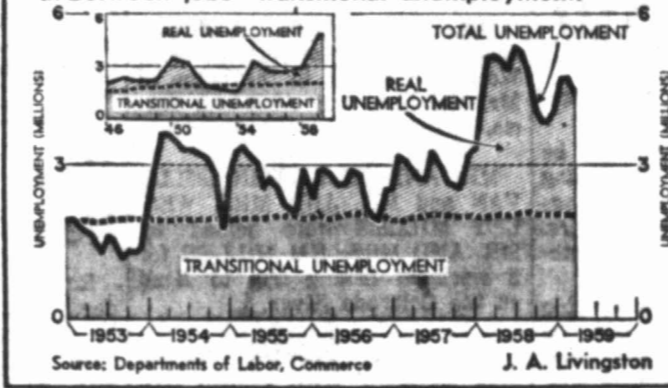

He drove off without paying his motel bill.

He explained later in a letter to the motel that he had driven his car up to the front office when he met a friend got into a political discussion. When it was over, he said, he got into his car and drove home.

He asked for a bill and apologized.

4,360,000 UNEMPLOYED, BUT ...

Only 2,360,000 are genuinely jobless. The others are in-between jobs—"transitional unemployment."

for the first quarter are gladdening stockholders and emboldening David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, to assert a wage increase can easily be absorbed without a price increase. Retail merchants rub their hands and send in reorders to suppliers. Department store sales since Easter have been exceptionally good.

Amid these outward manifestations of well-being, it's hard to believe that 58 persons out of every thousand in the labor force—4,360,000 in all—were on the hunt for jobs last month. In most cities and towns, there aren't breadlines; there aren't queues before employment offices. Unemployment is intense in about two dozen places.

Although the Departments of Labor and Commerce have reported 4,360,000 persons are out of work, does that actually mean the country is short 4,360,000 jobs. The answer is, No.

Switch your mind back to the boom years immediately following the war—1946 and 1947. The demand for automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, cloth-

Smoke But No Fire

STERLING, Ill. (AP)—Where there's smoke there is fire didn't prove out for Sterling firemen who chased a smoking truck down the street.

The truck had blown a head gasket and the engine was burning oil.

I KINGS 20:40 "As thy servant was busy here and there, the man was gone." (AV)

The text tells us the story of a man who was assigned the responsibility of keeping another man in his custody; but because of inattention and negligence he let the man escape.

It is a serious indictment against anybody who is so busy in looking after his personal interests that he neglects his responsibilities and obligations to God and to his fellow men. When any person gets the reputation of being long on promises and short on performance, stock in that person's usefulness and importance speedily drops. In fact it is one of the most serious social offenses for a person to accept any responsibility, knowing at the time that he has no intention of meeting it, or that in all probability he will not be able to carry through. Such nondependability is unpardonable, because a person guilty of such may keep someone else from accepting the responsibility who would meet it.

One of the best recommendations anybody can have is that he possesses the Christian virtue of dependability.

Around The Rim When A Pill Works Fifteen Ways

It surely must take a distinctive type of persuasion, customer appeal, or call it what you will, to sell patent medicines and body panaceas. Perhaps this is a most difficult category of merchandise to get people to buy, but I wish some smart fellow in the advertising game could come up with a formula that would put across the merits of medicinal products without being so objectionable to reasonably good taste, and without invading the privacy of all our body functions.

The newspapers have been carrying these little small-spots ads for medicines for generations, and I am sure these messages have done a job of selling. But it always gives me just a bit of the flutters to see a black headline that says the worms are going to eat up your child, or pimples will mark you for life, or your whole waste system is clogging up beyond all hope of recovery.

Things like nagging backache I can understand, but even to be hounded into having the backache is not too appealing.

But now that we have commercials over the air with moving pictures, yet, there seems to be no limit to the graphic illustrations that can happen to your entire digestive system, respiratory system or assorted other segments of the human body if you don't—or if you do—take a certain nostrum. And this nostrum, invariably, now contains a secret new ingredient, carrying a scientific sort of numbered identification.

If all the secret ingredients currently being used in everything from hair oil to foot pads were concocted in one vast cauldron, we would have the making of a new substance that would blow us off the face of the earth, and no nuclear fission needed. Or else we would have one big pot of mixture which contains (a) colored water, (b) a bit of olive oil, and (c) maybe just a touch of calomel.

I think it is fine if a pill works 15 ways, but I always shudder a bit to see it working, particularly when the traveling dotted lines are going all 15 ways at once. This makes me feel squeamish inside, but not to the extent that I want the pill. I build up a defense complex and picture what would be happening to my insides if one of those pills were working—with secret ingredient—on me, 15 ways from Sunday. Heck, I'd rather just go put my finger down my throat.

Some types of this advertising has gotten us poor common people so worried about our status in life that we are going to be running about chewing our nails and tearing our hair; but there are remedies for that, too.

An advertising expert with a major agency said this about women customers and advertising:

"Consider what is in her mind. Already she is worried about her tired blood and laxative habit, and denture breath, and lower back pains, and clogged sinuses, and rough red hands. Her hair is dull, her pores are large, her skin is itchy. Her stomach valve keeps letting out more A's than B's, and her stomach acid keeps burning holes in her handkerchief. She's never felt really clean before, and even now she feels only half safe. Worst of all, it turns out that her bra isn't a living bra; for some reason it just lies there."

See what I mean? Everything happens to us consumers. What we evidently need is more secret ingredients.

Don't Be A Shadow Pusher

One sunny day I was standing with a friend at a window in a tall New York office building, looking down at Fifth Avenue and Forty-Second Street, one of the world's busiest intersections.

My friend was Amos Parrish, famous merchandising expert and a creative and imaginative thinker. I knew an idea was agitating his mind because he was scratching his chin and looking reflective.

Suddenly pointing at the sidewalk many stories below he said, "A lot of those people down there are shadow pushers."

"What do you mean shadow pushers?" I asked.

"Just look at them," he replied. "They are walking away from the sun and their shadows are in front of them. They are shadow pushers. But those others are shadow leaders. They are walking toward the sun and their shadows fall behind them. It's symbolic, of course, but it tells a lot about some people, why their lives are so hard, and why they are so worn out by life. They are shadow pushers. It must be awfully wearing to push shadows all the time."

"You're right," I said, "but whether pushers or leaders, our shadows are always with us. So the issue in life seems to be what do we do about shadows, push them or lead them?"

Life forces each of us to deal with what the human shadow symbolized to Amos Parrish, namely, difficulties, problems and unhappiness. But the difference between a leader and a pusher is very significant; for if you are leading the shadows you are master of life, but if you are trying to push them, then you are being mastered by living.

One of the purposes of religious faith must surely be to develop people as life's shadow leaders rather than shadow pushers. And it is this wonderful accomplishment that leads to real happiness. Every happy person I have ever known has been a man or woman who walked head up toward the sun with the shadows falling behind. "If ye know these things," the Bible tells us, "happy are ye if ye do them." Happiness depends upon what you are looking at in life, whether difficulty or God, and what you do about it.

It is not what you have or who you are that determines happiness, but your inward state or mental condition. Whether or not you are happy depends upon what goes on in your mind. As Marcus Antonius said, "No man is happy who does not think himself so." The late William Lyon Phelps said, "He is happiest who thinks the happiest thoughts."

You can be happy, whoever you are, if you do a constructive job on your thoughts. Turn your thinking toward the sun, toward God. Turn your thoughts to the brightness and power of faith. Then your mind will become filled with hope and optimism. Discouragement will fade out. So finally you will know the wonder and delight of being a happy person.

But if you continue to turn your thoughts away from the sun, away from God and good, and into dark negativism—your mind holding grudges, pessimism or selfishness—you can hardly expect to be a happy person.

But get rid of those unending negativisms and you can begin living a different mental life, one that is full of faith, hope and love. Then the sun will shine and the shadows will fall behind. You will start living in an altogether different world. No longer will you be a tired, discouraged shadow pusher. Shadows may trail you, of course, but with your face to the sun you will always keep well ahead of them.

Extra Burden Placed On Herter

WASHINGTON—By failing to name an immediate successor to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles the President left an area of confusion and uncertainty on the eve of diplomatic negotiations that may prove to be the most critical since the end of the second World War.

He has certainly not contributed to the usefulness of Under Secretary Christian A. Herter, even though he ultimately selects Herter for the Cabinet post. The announcement from Augusta seemed to reflect little understanding of the situation that has developed during the two months that the President has clung to the conviction Dulles would return to his office.

During that time Herter has had responsibility without authority. His position has been difficult to the point of impossibility. The President never at any time gave him an indication of who might succeed Dulles. Instead, having clung to the belief that the man to whom he had delegated so much authority over foreign policy would take up the burden again, the President refused even to consider what might follow if this did not come to pass.

The uncertainty was sharply accentuated during the meeting in Washington of the Western Foreign Ministers and the NATO Council tenth anniversary session which followed. The Foreign Ministers were acutely aware of Herter's dilemma. They admired him for the quiet professionalism with which he held his position, even though in some areas he could not define American policy.

It could not be defined because the Secretary of State was far too ill to give more than casual attention to the continuing problem of the Berlin challenge and a divided Germany. Refusing to recognize this fact, the President insisted on assuming that sooner or later he would return. At Augusta the President said that Herter would attend the conference of Foreign Ministers that opens in Paris on April 29 and the meeting with the Russians on May 11, even though he is not Secretary of State.

What has been apparent for some time is that the United States must have a Secretary of State at these meetings with full authority as well as with comprehensive knowledge of what has gone before. The split in the alliance can be healed only by a firm American lead toward the end of a compromise on the negotiating front the West presents at Geneva.

The split, between Britain on the one hand and West Germany on the other, is minimized in official quarters here. It is said to be a difference over tactics rather than substance. British lack of precision is blamed for West German misunderstanding of the real intent of Prime Minister Macmillan's reconnaissance mission to Moscow.

Nevertheless, if the West is to present a strong united front at Geneva, Dulles' successor must have full support. Dulles himself has understood this. One of his hallmarks has been an unflinching professionalism. He has been increasingly aware, as the President seemingly has not, of the difficulties of Herter's position. It is why he insisted on moving up the date of his resignation by at least a week.

Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has given quiet support to Herter. He has pointed out that the administration, with little more than 18 months to go, could hardly expect to bring in an outsider who would have so much to learn on the eve of the all-important confrontation with the Russians. Herter and Fulbright would have a good working relationship, which is important when the two parties divide the two branches of government.

No matter who is finally chosen—and Herter may be named even before these words are in print—it will be well to remember that Dulles as Secretary of State was unique. No one will have the authority, the experience and the knowledge that he brought to bear in the almost singlehanded direction of American foreign policy. Above all, in his working relationship with the President—his ability to germinate the concepts the President adopted—he was irreplaceable.

Because he was unique there will be no point in comparing him with his successor, no matter what the successor's attainments may be. His role will be difficult enough in any event, since the Dulles policy and the Dulles personality will cast a long shadow over the future.

To Be May Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Hedleston, 1009 Indian Hills Drive, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nita Jo, to Stanton Koop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koop, Dumas. The marriage will take place May 30 in the First Christian Church of Big Spring with the Rev. Clyde Nichols officiating.

MRS. SHERROD DEE DUNN

Miss Pritchett Wed To Sherrod Dee Dunn

LAMESA (Spl) — Saturday evening, in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, read a double ring service which united in marriage Frances Anese Pritchett and Sherrod Dee Dunn. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pritchett and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn are the parents of the couple. Marian McDonald was organist and Sue Barron soloist for the program of nuptial music which preceded the ceremony. Pritchett escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of Chantilly type lace over satin styled with Sabrina neckline, long sleeves tapering to points over the hands, moulded lace bodice and bouffant skirt of satin over net which was floor length and extended to a chapel train in back. A Juliet cap of lace, edged with seed pearls, secured the fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her flowers were white iris showered with stephanotis and satin streamers which she carried atop a white Bible. Stephany Stephens was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janabeth Pritchett, sister of the bride, Mitzi Green, Virginia Dunn and Nancy Henry. All wore white dresses of starched lace over taffeta fashioned with lace edged scalloped necklines, tiny puff sleeves and bodices outlined at the waistline with yellow velvet ribbon belts. They carried bouquets of white daisies. The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushering were Wayland Reeves, Sonny Baldwin, Ned Culp, Bob Brown, Frank Jones and Donnell Echols. Members of the houseparty for the wedding reception held in the church parlor were Mrs. Olin York, Mrs. Davie Jones, Mrs. Carl Peterson, Mrs. Joe B. Whitlow, Mrs. Blaine Wiggins, Mrs. Doyle Shillingburg, Mrs. L. D. Echols, Mrs. Elmer Cope, Mrs. Lloyd Mitchell, Mrs. Maurice Lamphere, Mrs. Stansell Clement, Mrs. W. K. Crawley, Mrs. Gene Baird, Mrs. Arthur Nolen, Mrs. J. W. Foster, Mrs. Ross McDonald. Also Mrs. Herbert Green, Mrs. Ruth Henry, Mrs. W. A. Stephens, Mrs. Mildred Barron, Martha Watson and Connie Nolen. A graduate of Lamesa High School, the bride is a graduating senior at Texas Tech. She is an elementary education major and a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority. Dunn, also a Lamesa High graduate, received his degree in mechanical engineering from Texas A&M College.

Woman's Forum Sees Ideas For Home Decor

To illustrate ideas for the home with an international feeling, Mrs. Carl Benson showed colored slides for members of the Woman's Forum Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Cecil McDonald. Meeting at noon, the group was served a salad luncheon, spread on a rose linen cloth bordered with deep white fringe. A silver pitcher held an arrangement of pink roses interspersed with bridal wreath. Quartet tables were centered with replicas of the same floral grouping. Mrs. Benson explained the styles and fabrics used in the furniture and decorations of the homes, which included those from Denmark, Spain, Austria, Siam and Japan. The Forum council luncheon, April 22, was announced for the Desert Sands Motel at 1 p.m. Setting and theme will feature a South of the Border atmosphere. Mrs. E. P. Driver told the group that April 30 had been set as clean-up day at the Fashion Shop at the state hospital. Workers were assigned for this task, and names were slated for those who will work at the shop during the next two weeks. Ending the club year will be the

May 15 meeting, to be held in the home of Mrs. J. G. Lewis, when new officers will be installed. Mrs. J. D. Jones and Mrs. Merrill Creighton joined Mrs. McDonald as hostesses for the Friday luncheon.

Let Antiques Spice Up Your Bathroom Decor

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Feature Writer

The bathroom can prove to be a wonderful challenge to the antique collector, as many old-fashioned articles now fall into the antique bracket. Take that old Victorian hat rack that used to hang in the front hall. Even a purist antique collector could find satisfaction in using it for a towel rack, though it doesn't have the correct amount of aged dust to put it in the antique category. But why should that worry lovers of the old? It'll make a handsome addition to the modern bathroom painted to match the color scheme. Antique shows are loaded with old-fashioned items, and one dealer at the New York Coliseum Antiques Fair suggests a small-size library rack as another possibility for a bathroom towelholder. Another exhibitor has a good collection of curved brass tiebacks. One set is shaped like dragons' heads—ideal for towel holders or clotheshooks.

CLOTHES HAMPER
The show is rampant with ideas along that line. An excellent clothes hamper for the modern bathroom is a handsomely painted toile bin, unless you'd rather earmark it for firewood. These were used sometimes for tea or grain in general stores. Many of them held coal or kindling in Victorian homes.

All dealers seem to be jar-minded, and these old jars fit nicely into modern bathrooms, no matter what the motif. There are apothecary jars with labels, and in handsome colors to be used for bath oil, salts, cologne. Oil de-canters and even barber bottles of colored glass serve this purpose, also. Old-fashioned shaving mirrors

Mystery Tidbits Rate Raves

Enjoy your friends' pleasure and mystification when you serve them little cookies called Banana Chews. The mellow tidbits, quick to make, count on bananas both for flavor and for that built-in fresh and moist quality.

Actually, the cookies are basically cornflakes and bananas blended into an old-fashioned butter and sugar batter. Here is the secret:
BANANA CHEWS
¼ cup butter or margarine
2-3 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1-3 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
½ cup chopped nuts
5 cups corn flakes
½ cup mashed ripe bananas
Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
Cream butter or margarine; add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add nuts, corn flakes and bananas. Shape into rounds by pressing mixture by tablespoons against side of mixing bowl. Drop carefully on lightly greased baking sheet and bake for 10 minutes or until done. Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

— the kind that can be placed on top of the vanity or those on wooden legs with drawers may be used to good advantage in a roomy bathroom.

Large covered sugar bowls of china or pewter may be pressed into modern service to hold small bars of soap or cotton balls. You'll find ironstone or china tooth brush holders with floral designs on the cover, or perhaps you'd prefer an antique glass, goblet or small pitcher to hold your toothbrush.

SOAP DISHES
The big brass soap and sponge racks that are so popular now are counterparts of those you'll find at antique shows, and the earlier ones have that advantage of mellowness that somehow lends to authenticity in home decorating. In this category you'll find shell-shaped soap dishes, and ornate tissue racks. If you're the type who goes in for art in the bathroom, consider some old botanical prints. Pottery wash basins, urns or large ironstone pitchers can lend to bathroom decor as planters. When traipsing through an antiques show, don't look for the obvious. It is the small versatile thing, often inexpensive, that can put your home in the unusual bracket.

Beware Pitfalls Of That Joint Checking Account

AP Newsfeatures

The joint checking account used by both husband and wife, can be a boon or a calamity.

When both husband and wife write checks against the same account without frequent checkups, the result often is an overdraft account, say the bankers.

They advise that a record of checks be kept in one big check book at home, and that checks written during the day be recorded and checked against the balance each evening.

The husband and wife who carry separate checkbooks and don't bother to consult with each other as to expenditures are headed for trouble, caution the bankers.

Drop Cookies

It's best not to chill drop cookie dough. And be sure to allow enough space between each cookie for spreading.

To Bake Bread

When you are baking a loaf of bread be sure to seal the ends of the loaf shape together well by pinching the creases in the dough together with your fingers.

Leftover Magic

Put odds and ends of cooked vegetables together so that you have about two cups; heat them in a cup of medium white sauce. Add a topping of grated cheddar cheese and place under the broiler until cheese melts and begins to turn golden-brown.

Family Reunion Today Marks Anniversary

A family gathering here today is marking the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hubbard, 704 Goliad, who were married in Truman, Ark., April 18, 1909.

Expected for the reunion are the couple's four children and their families, Mrs. Ed Watts of Midland; Mrs. Woodrow Wickman of Beaumont; Mrs. Leonard Clare

The couple met in the small post office, where Mrs. Hubbard, the former Inez Campbell, assisted with the operation; the young Hubbard made it a practice to call at the Campbell home for musical evenings, being a talented violinist.

His violin playing has continued through the years, and he has become well-known in square dancing groups for his music. His services in the musical field are in demand at both the VA and the Big Spring State hospitals as entertainment for the patients.

Hubbard worked for the Gulf Oil Company following the marriage, and about 20 years ago was transferred to Big Spring. He is an Indian by birth and was employed by a lumber company when he met his future bride.

VERSATILE STYLE

Color Will Govern The Purpose Of Frock

Elected for the summer season by unanimous vote, this simply cut, easy-to-make dress by Herbert Sondheim will serve you well.

Depending on your choice of color and texture, it can go to the office, the country club, take a trip (it packs like a dream) go out to parties.

The rounded neckline curves into rounded shoulders to give a slight width to the shoulders; the wide, belt is shaped to be worn above the waist.

Black raw silk or shantung for dinner in town is wonderful, light colored linen or white pique perfect for country, novelty cotton for career girls — any of these for travel.

From this size chart select the one size best for you:

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Neck to Waist
8	33	23	34	16 1/4

NO DIMINISHING RETURNS

You Can Buy Good Schools, NEA Study Group Decides

More money means better schools and if there is a point beyond which increased financial support will yield no further educational returns, that point has not been reached in any school in the United States. That is the verdict of the National Education Assn.'s Committee on Tax Education and School Finance. The conclusion is based on several studies of cost-quality relationships in public education. Supt. Floyd Parsons of the Big Spring schools has condensed the committee's report on its studies for local school trustees, pointing out that there is considerable disagreement over the definition of "quality" and several other terms used in the report. Here is a summary of the NEA committee's findings: Better prepared teachers, more instructional materials, longer school terms and better pupil attendance result from spending more money on schools. On the average, pupils make higher scores on tests in the three R's in elementary grades and in academic subjects in high schools where more funds are invested. Communities spending more per pupil generally get educational programs which take better account of the needs of society and findings on how children learn best. There may be a point of diminishing returns in educational expenditure—a point beyond which increased financial support will yield little or no further educational returns—but this point has not been reached in school systems at the top level of expenditure in the United States. Certain small expenditures apparently count larger in advancing school quality than might be expected. As districts raise per-pupil expenditures, they begin spending more for such items as audio-visual materials, physical education and health supplies, professional staff travel, public relations activities, science supplies and similar materials. The effort of an intelligent long-range program of adequate financial support in a school system is cumulative, and therefore, is especially powerful in its effect on quality. On the other hand, low expenditure, if continued, will greatly reduce quality. States which make superior provision for the financing of schools rank substantially higher than low-expenditure states in educational achievement and in earning power.

Supt. Parsons also called attention to a Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn. study of the per capita expenditures for education in 441 Texas school districts. The survey showed Big Spring in the lower 22 per cent on per-pupil outlays during the last full school year. The per-pupil expenditure here was $256.79.

Welfare Laws Have Replaced Old-Time Political Bosses

By TOM HENSHAW
 AP Staff Writer

"It's entirely a practical proposition," said the late Tom Pendergast of Kansas City. "We have the theory that if we do a man a favor he will do one for us." "Most people don't know anything at all about how to vote," said the late Ed Crump of Memphis. "If you put Judas Iscariot on the ballot he'd get a thousand votes in Memphis. He'd get votes in your city, too."

"You've got to have organization," said the late Frank Hague of Jersey City. "Not for just a few weeks before election, but all year round."

It wasn't too long ago that Pendergast, Crump, Hague and men like them were putting those fragments of philosophy to work at the ballot box and fashioning for themselves comfortable political empires.

They were the old-fashioned, give 'em hell—and a basket for Christmas — big city political bosses. For years, the Pendergasts, the Hagues, the Crumps, the Curleys in Boston and the Ed Kellys in Chicago, were the men who made things political hum. Then, suddenly, they were gone. The last — eloquent and salty old Jim Curley — died only last November.

What happened to them? What little-noticed political upheaval shunted them to the sidelines? The most widely accepted answer is the rise of social welfare legislation, which replaced the warmth of the district clubhouse with the impersonal efficiency of Social Security and the unemployment office, the Christmas basket with the pension check.

Jim Farley, who rose from the district clubhouse to plan the campaign that put Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House, subscribes to this theory—but only up to a point.

"Bosses are with us now just as much as they always have been," says Farley. "But the public does not look at them in the same way it looked at the old timers." "The legislation passed during the first 100 days of Roosevelt took away a lot of things the old leaders used to do and gave them to the federal government. Today's leaders have lost personal contact with the people."

Surely personality and personal contact were the trademarks of the old-fashioned boss. While today's big city political leader might be just as effective working behind the scenes, the old boss made his points while leading the parade. It was a rare campaign in which the boss was not the big issue. The old fellows did go astray at times. Curley served two terms in jail. Pendergast went to jail for income tax evasion. Charges of graft forever swirled about the heads of Hague, Kelly and Crump.

Friends like to remember the boss for his good works. Crump instituted the Blind Bowl football game in Memphis and personally directed ticket sales. Naturally, the games were sell-outs and it meant checks of about $100 each at Christmastime for the blind of Memphis and Shelby County, white and Negro alike. Hague, who admitted to being "what folks termed a bad boy," once overturned a thoughtless decision on two juveniles by the Jersey City Special Bureau with the explanation: "In this case I am the law." His words, wrenched from context by his enemies, came back to haunt him. Curley, who never forgot that he grew up in the slums and tenements of Boston's rundown Roxbury district, took his greatest pride in being called "The Mayor of the Poor." More than 100,000 persons showed up at his wake.

The boss could control votes. Crump once backed a man named Gordon Browning for governor of Tennessee. Browning swept Memphis, 59,000 to 800 for two opponents. Then Browning broke with Crump and ran for reelection. Memphis gave him only 9,000 votes to 57,000 for his Crump-backed opponent.

Pendergast, a Democrat as were most of the best-known bosses of recent years, once produced 808 votes to one for the Republican in a Kansas City precinct. Later, a grand jury found that a number of those who voted had been dead for several years.

Cokers Observing 25th Year In Restaurant Business Here

The Cokers — Leonard and Lonnie — are marking their 25th year in the restaurant business in Big Spring with formal opening of the Anniversary Room.

Although they were somewhat reluctant to engage in a major addition less than two years after opening their modern restaurant at Fourth and Benton, the Cokers took the step boldly.

"We felt that there was a demand for the additional service it would make possible," they said. "The people of Big Spring and area have been so wonderful in supporting us all these years that we couldn't do anything less than take the step out of appreciation for this support."

Named the Anniversary Room because it marks their Silver Anniversary in business here, the new facility adds more than 800 square feet of floor space.

Elegantly appointed and draped, it has rheostat controls for lights so that any degree of illumination desired from soft glow to bright is instantly available. As with the remainder of the plant it also has refrigerated air conditioning. Still another feature of the room is that of privacy for special dinner parties and gatherings.

During the day the room is part of the regular dining facilities, but in the evening it may be closed off as a private room. It has an outside entrance an exit so that those coming to the special functions need not use the regular dining room entrance.

The Coker twins have been in the restaurant business more than three decades. When they finished high school, Lonnie got a job at a restaurant in their hometown of Chillicothe. When he wanted some time off and couldn't get it, he had Leonard substitute for him.

The owner never knew the difference until the alternating work schedule had been going for quite some time. He fired Lonnie and kept Leonard.

So the boys decided to go it on their own, opening a place across the street. They did so well that presently they opened a larger restaurant in nearby Quanah. After three years they went prospecting for another location and had tentatively settled on Lamesa.

That was so close to Big Spring that they decided to visit a relative in Big Spring overnight. Within an hour after arriving here and seeing the potentials in a cafe location in the Homan building near the Crawford, Montgomery Ward, the courthouse and post office, they were in the process of negotiating a lease with the late J. H. Homan. They opened April 13, 1934.

For the next 23 years they operated there as the Twins Cafe, eventually enlarging their operations. At different intervals they also operated the Douglass Hotel Coffee shop, the Post Office Cafe, and Permian Snack Bar. Aug. 1, 1957, they held open house for their new restaurant under the name of Cokers. It has proven so popular that already they have made their major addition.

Bill To Modernize Veterans' Pension Program Is Proposed

Hearings are expected to start about May 1 on a bill to modernize the war veterans pension program, according to Rep. Olin E. Teague, chairman of the House Committee on Veterans Affairs.

The plan, drawn up by Sumner G. Whittier, administrator of Veterans Affairs, features a graduated scale of payments keyed to individual needs. Whittier prepared the plan at the request of President Eisenhower who called for "legislation both to provide more equitable treatment of needy veterans and to modernize the veterans pension program in the light of social changes."

Under the proposed bill, 55 per cent of the 1,223,000 veterans, widows and children now on the Veterans Administration pension rolls would receive increased pensions. Approximately $100,000,000 would be added during just the first year to pension payments which currently total $993,000,000 per year.

In the long run, however, it is expected that the modernized pension structure would involve annual pension outlays substantially below those under present statutes.

SAVINGS PROVISIO
A "savings provision" in the measure would insure that no beneficiary now on the VA rolls would be cut off, and, in addition, would give these beneficiaries their choice between old and new rates.

Under present law, veterans of World War I, World War II and Korea who met length-of-service and discharge requirements are eligible for pension if they are considered permanently and totally disabled for reasons not attributable to service, and if their annual incomes do not exceed $1,400 (with no dependents) or $2,700 (with dependents.)

Pension rates at present are $66.15 and $78.75 per month, the latter payable when a veteran reaches age 65, or has been on the rolls 10 years. These flat rates are paid eligible veterans on an "all or nothing" basis regardless of variances in the amount of their other income, and without regard to whether the veteran is single, married, or has more than one dependent. (For instance, a veteran with the maximum allowable outside income receives exactly the same pension as a veteran with no income at all, and a single veteran gets the same pension as a veteran with a large family.)

KEYED TO INCOME
Under the proposed "graduated scale," payments would be keyed in the future to both the amount of other income, and the number of dependents, and increases are proposed in income limitations as well as maximum rates of pension.

Under the graduated scale, for example, a veteran under 65 with three dependents, no outside income and on the rolls less than 10 years would receive $100 per month, an increase of 50 per cent over his present rate. On the other hand, payments in the future could dip as low as $10 per month for a veteran who has the near-the-limit income from other sources.

The principle of the graduated scale involves paying higher pensions to veterans, widows and orphans most in need, and lesser sums to those least in need.

VA records indicate that present pensioners with outside incomes of less than $400 a year include 71 per cent, or 254,000 of the single veterans, 39 per cent, or 170,300 of the veterans with dependents, and about 49 per cent, or 210,000 of the widows and children receiving death pensions.

INEQUITIES
The proposed legislation is designed to correct other inequities in the present pension program including definitions of "other income" applicable to all pensioners, and consideration in determining pension eligibility of a spouse's income as well as the size of a veteran's estate.

At the present time, certain required federal employees may waive enough of their retirement pay to meet income limitations, and thus become eligible for full VA pensions benefits, while veterans under other forms of retirement or not receiving retirement pay are not permitted such adjustments of income. The proposed law would count as income for all pensioners their total income, excepting welfare donations.

Under present law, neither a veteran's estate nor the income of his spouse is considered in computing outside income. Both would be considered under the proposed law. It was emphasized that the proposed bill deals only with disability and death pensions payable for non-service-connected conditions. It in no way affects compensation, which is payable for disability or death resulting from military service.

Honor Students Attend Phi Theta Kappa Meet

By BOBBY HORTON
Three of the highest academically ranked students at HCJC and their sponsor, Miss Ina Mae McCollom, are spending a week in Idaho during the national Phi Theta Kappa convention.

Ronald Leatherman, Malcolm Roberts and Mrs. Mary Breckenridge left Saturday for Coeur D'Alene with Mrs. McCollom, the social science chairman. Phi Theta Kappa is the junior college honor society for high-ranking students, and is the "little brother" of the senior colleges' Phi Beta Kappa.

The party at first was told it would be unable to make the trip but after last minute arrangements was off in a new Chevrolet station wagon of the college.

Approximately 150 Howard County Junior College students will be recognized Wednesday in the annual Honors and Awards Day program in the college auditorium. The special ceremonies will be highlighted by an address from Dr. R. M. Caviness, president of San Angelo Junior College. Dr. W. A. Hunt, HCJC president, spoke to a similar audience at San Angelo recently.

Certificates of award will be given to students who have contributed to this school year at HCJC, academically or athletically. Besides college awards to be presented, two other special citations will be made by the American Legion and Dibrell Sporting Goods Co.

Students will be recognized in Student Government Assn., boys basketball, speech department, Phi Theta Kappa, girls athletics, college publications and class offices.

Class favorites, college favorites, yell leaders and Who's Who nominations from the yearbook will get honor certificates. The Dean's List will be announced, revealing the highest ranking students for the spring semester.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies which will be held from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m.

It would be difficult for a stranger to pass down Birdwell Lane these days without being impressed at the amount of construction going on around HCJC. A graduate of the past years would certainly have to look twice at the expanding plant. To the north and east are the men's and women's dorms, well ahead of the construction schedule. Both stories of each building have been framed and masonry should be finished soon. Roofing is nearing completion.

Of course, the new Dora Roberts Student Building, which even many Big Springers haven't inspected, is the most popular fixture of the plant. Shrubbery around front has already given the building a lived-in look, and Friday, crews poured concrete for the front sidewalks. Curbs were finished not long ago, and as soon as a lawn is started the picture will be complete.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, college president, said Friday that bids would soon be taken for dormitory furniture (chairs have already been purchased).

The SUB really jumps now during activity period and off-class hours. A new jukebox has been installed with sufficient volume and students have taken to it like registrants to a PE class. That makes the records played over the public address system and piped-in music obsolete. One student playing checkers was seated in front of the blaring machine in a contented state. But an hour later in class when the Konekrad siren sounded, he was heard to complain, "I can't think for all that noise." Paul Vagt, college librarian, attended a Texas library association meeting in Houston last weekend.

Lt. Jerry Thomas, instructor from Webb AFB, spoke to government students in night classes at HCJC last week. He explained the commune system in China before Miss Ina Mae McCollom's group.

RUNNELS REPORT

Book Reviews Presented Daily

By DIANE BAKER
"Wake Up and Read" was the slogan as Runnels observed National Library Week. Each morning two students gave short book reviews over the public address system. Students in English classes wrote themes on the subject, Library Week. In the poster contest, Josh Sullivan won first prize; Gene Hartin second; and Allan Smith, third.

First place winner of the Safe Driving Essays was Pat Loudamy of Runnels. Receiving honorable mention at Runnels were Charles Clay, Carol Clark and Linda Morton.

The two girls selected from Runnels to attend the State FHA meeting April 24-25 in Dallas are Judy Pate and Linda Sudberry. To be eligible for consideration, a girl had to be working on (or have received) her junior degree of achievement and to have an A average in homemaking and nothing lower than a B in other subjects.

It was decided at the April executive council meeting of the FHA to make the six chapter mothers honorary members of FHA.

The seventh, eighth and ninth grade track teams left Friday afternoon to take part in the track meet at Snyder.

Many more Runnels boys also were out because of the Boy Scout Round Up at the jamboree grounds on Friday and Saturday.

Students enjoyed a special showing of "A Tale of Two Cities" at the Ritz on Wednesday afternoon.

Friday three new electric water coolers were delivered to Runnels. These new water fountains are the gift of the P-TA.

Runnels students joined in Operation Alert on Friday morning by having an evacuation drill when the siren sounded. More tornado and fire drills are scheduled for the school.

Don't forget next Friday night is the spring formal dance. Boys, if you don't have a date, get one this week!

about Mary Oliphant being eligible for a scholarship from Shell. The scholarship is correct, but the company is Phillips 66.

Janice Downing, Jeanne Hammond, and Janace Kirby received awards for their themes on safety: Janice Downing received a 12-inch trophy for first place; Jeanne Hammond, a small trophy for second place; Janace Kirby, a medal for honorable mention.

Eighteen competed in the district literary Interscholastic League meet in Odessa yesterday. Kay Loveland and Sherry Coats entered the shorthand contest; Beverly Osborn, Carolyn Halbrook, Bobby Hollingsworth, Jane Cowper, Gloria Coker, typing; Lyn Anderson and Gary Pickle, poetry reading; Robert Eubank and Christine Brownlee, declamation; June Johnston and Doug Davis, extemporaneous speaking; Illameta Carr, original oration; Kaye Chadd and Jeanne Hammon, spelling and legibility of writing; and Janice Downing and Janace Kirby, ready writing. The scene from "Heaven Can Wait" also was entered.

"Don't be earth bound. Wake up and read." This was the slogan printed on the poster made by Janice Downing and Linda Thixton which won a first place prize in the library week contest. Sue Carpenter's poster placed second and Irene Rudd's third.

The Corral (newspaper) staff is slowly but surely developing gray hairs trying to get the senior magazine ready for publication. The seniors wrote their last will and testament, and several staff members are preparing prophecies for the seniors. The magazine is supposed to contain a little of everything. It is now on sale for 50 cents.

One would be amazed to have seen almost 900 students sitting quietly on the floor in the halls as the Civil Defense alert proceeded Friday. This is what one could have seen if he had visited the high school around 10:30 a.m. He could have seen also what well-trained students Mrs. Don Green has. All through the year she told her typing students to push their chairs under the desks when they left the room. When Principal Roy Worley sounded the ghastly alert, the students promptly arose, pushed their chairs under the desks, and proceeded to the hall. Over all, the alert seemed to be a success around BSHS.

The student council sponsored its last dance for this year last night. The theme was "April Love."

Once again politics have invaded the campus of BSHS. First, there will be an election for student body president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer for next year. Second, there will be tryouts and elections for cheerleaders. Wednesday campaign speeches will be given by those running for an office and the ones running for cheerleader will show the student body what they can do.

Many boys laughed when the teachers and girls began crying. Last Wednesday morning, the entire student body got to see the "Tale of Two Cities." The girls and teachers were crying because Sidney Carton, a very handsome man, got his head cut off. Well, who wouldn't cry?

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of HCJC, impressed the members of the National Honor Society with his talk Thursday night. "What we should fear about Russia," was his topic. One of his strongest points was expressed when he said, "Their greatest point of weakness is our greatest point of strength."

End-Of-Year Activities Keep Students' Schedules Filled

By PAT ROGERS
Our schedule at BSBS has been slightly confused this past week. It seems this is only the beginning; at the end of the year, the parties and extra-curricular activities get into full swing.

Last Monday night about 30 members from the combined senior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs dined at Carlos' Restaurant.

Other clubs seem interested in filling their tummies. The short-hand girls ordered Mexican dinners and chicken-fried steak at Morales' Friday noon. This was their last party of the year.

Mrs. Erma Steward, journalism director, announced that the El Rodeo staff had proof-read the dummy of the '58-'59 annual. She also stated that students could expect their annuals around May 8. I pulled a boo-boo! In last week's story there was a paragraph regular meeting at the Y Wednesday afternoon. The group had a Coke party as entertainment. This club will meet with Runnels club week after next to elect one group of officers for next year.

The annual staff urges all students who have not completed payment on their yearbooks to please do so as soon as possible. The ninth graders are especially behind on their payments and need to finish buying theirs soon so as to insure no confusion when the annuals arrive.

The decoration committee for the Spring Formal has been working hard on the decorations and hopes everyone will come. Some of the rules composed by the Student Council are: 1) No one will be allowed at the dance unless he or she is the date of a Goliad student (Special permission must be obtained from Mr. Walker for out of town dates); 2) Students must wear proper dress; 3) Students must present their activity cards at the door.

The FHA representatives from Big Spring will leave for Dallas Thursday morning. They will be staying at the Baker Hotel. The group will attend several meetings during their stay including one at the Fair Grounds. They will be back Saturday afternoon. The paper staff at Goliad presented the two girls from our chapter with a check to help with their expenses while there.

GOLIAD NEWS

Teachers Pick Politest Pupils

By PAT ARMSTRONG
The most polite boy and girl from each grade were announced on Friday last week at the FHA assembly. Sharon Gary and Jerry Younger were the winners from the ninth grade; Sheryl Whiteside and Freddie White from the eighth; and Molly Goodman and Tommy Earhart from the seventh. The girls received silver crosses and the boys were presented with gold key chains. These students were chosen by a secret panel of teachers.

Traffic safety essay contest winners were announced last Thursday. Sharon Gary won second place in the junior high division and was presented with a trophy. Karom Koger and Carol Ann Tatum received honorable mention medals for their entries. Sharon, along with the first and second place winners from the other schools will have her picture taken.

The entire student body of Goliad went downtown to the Ritz theater Thursday morning to see the movie, "The Tale of Two Cities." The students rode in cars by homerooms. The trip was very worthwhile for the film was an enjoyable one. Several of the English classes wrote themes on the show Friday.

The two eighth grade Spanish classes went to the Junior College last Tuesday at 1:00 to see Don Quixote. Transportation was provided by a school bus which took them to and from the college.

The ninth grade Tri-Hi-Y held its regular meeting at the Y Wednesday afternoon. The group had a Coke party as entertainment. This club will meet with Runnels club week after next to elect one group of officers for next year.

Danny Kaye Is Unforgettable In First Straight Role; Other Top Films On Tap

ME AND THE COLONEL, starring Danny Kaye. Produced by William Goetz. Directed by Peter Glenville. Screenplay by S. N. Behrman and George Froeschel from the play by Franz Werfel, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ritz.

It would seem like a sick joke to find humor in the plight of Europe's Jews under the heavy hand of the late, lamented Adolf Hitler. "Me and the Colonel," however, is about as healthy a kind of humor as one can expect.

The Jewish mind is unique—through centuries of oppression, they have evolved a sense of humor that allows them to laugh at their own foibles (take for example "Abie's Irish Rose")—and a wit that can be barbed and subtle when directed against their persecutors.

"Me and the Colonel" is the tale of a wandering Jew and an arrogant, anti-Semitic Polish officer, both fleeing Hitler's wrath. As they journey through France for a rendezvous with a British submarine, the colonel's idiotic fits of temper and inane impulses bring the travelers more than once to the brink of disaster. But it is the Jew's quiet courage and uncanny insight into human character that bring them through.

Danny Kaye is unforgettable as the Jew, his first straight dramatic role—he'll be remembered for this long after his comic roles are forgotten. Curt Jurgens as the officer is comic-opera buffoonery in the flesh as "the finest mind of the 12th Century," who must learn to live in the 20th Century.

Other notable roles are handled by Nicole Maurey as the colonel's girlfriend, and Akim Tamiroff as his orderly. But it's not just the acting that makes "Me and the Colonel" the fine film that it is—everyone from the producer to the script girl obviously handled its production with loving tenderness. The film's humor is neither slapstick nor ready-made. It is that true human comedy that arises from character, and each role has something to contribute. It is the kind of humor that allows the actors to play it straight, without having to dig for laughs. You'll get a lot of knowing chuckles and no belly laughs from "Me and the Colonel," and you'll never forget it.

THE BLACK ORCHID, starring Anthony Quinn and Sophia Loren. Produced by Carlo Ponti and Marcello Girosi. Directed by Martin Ritt. Screenplay by Joseph Stefano. Sunday and Monday at the Ritz.

Here, too, is a film that was handled with loving care. It is a drama, although it has its moments of humor—again, the human kind, such as one may recall from the immortal "Marty." "The Black Orchid" may sound like a lurid title, but the film is a warm and sentimental insight into the lives of a group of Italo-Americans. Sophia Loren is an immigrant who, greedy for glitter, pushes her husband into the rackets and eventually his grave. Her son is growing into a delinquent. Later, she meets Anthony Quinn, a successful but wholly honest businessman, and her love for him is much more humble than for her first husband. But Ina Balin, Quinn's daughter, needs some growing up. She is spitefully jealous of her new mother, and refuses to accept her. The story follows Sophia's attempts to get through to the girl, and Quinn's try at straightening out his new stepson.

JURGENS DRIVES KAYE & MAUREY His is the finest mind of the 12th Century

"The Black Orchid" is almost unique in one respect—it was not pre-sold as a book or play. Joseph Stefano wrote it originally as a TV drama, later sold it to Hollywood as an original script before the TV moguls got a look at it. It takes some amount of daring in Hollywood to attempt a film from an original script.

It has been many a moon since Quinn has had a role he could get his teeth into. The same is true of Miss Loren. But their roles are choice in "The Black Orchid." The supporting cast is good throughout. Miss Balin is especially effective, and gives promise of a great career.

Mark Richman, as the girl's suitor, and Jimmy Baird, as Miss Loren's son, are more than adequate.

ming of the falling stones is like the voice of doom.

Rod Steiger said of his role in "Al Capone" that he has purposely made it lurid. The reason was that the notorious gangster deserves no Robin Hood type memory; thus Steiger does a switch and plays an unsympathetic role. It is an expertly unhappy characterization of a clammy personality, and Steiger deserves some sort of award.

Other viewing: "Smiley Gets a Gun." Fair story and good scenery, filmed by an Australian company. "Arson for Hire." Steve Brodie in a uniformly good crime story that will satisfy most fans. "Shane." Alan Ladd's cowboy film that won several awards. Now nearly a classic, it was a pioneer in the high-class Westerns.

The acting, the scenery, the direction—in fact, all that goes into the making of a good movie—are tops.

"The Buccaneer." DeMille's last epic, starring Yul Brynner as the pirate, Jean Lafitte, and Charlton Heston as Andrew Jackson. Critics seldom went mad over DeMille's productions, but the public went blissfully on and enjoyed them. And you'll probably enjoy a tale of the pirate who saved the U. S. from possible destruction and was almost lynched in reward.

"Mardi Gras" and "Sing Boy Sing." A double bill aimed primarily at the younger generation, but which many adults will find enjoyable. Musical epics by Pat Boone and Tommy Sands.

The Hollywood pipeline: Latest attempt at real science fiction is "12 to the Moon," with a Brazilian scientist . . . and speaking of Brazil, that country is going all-out in the film industry . . . "Macumba" will be the first of a series of 18 movies in the next two years. . . . Christianity is on trial in Scandinavian films . . . "The Seventh Seal" questions fear of purgatory as a basis of morality, and "Ordet" speaks the New Testament Christians who hold only contempt for those of the faith who go mostly by the Old Law . . . Denny Miller, the latest Tarzan, is a painter in oils who's good enough to have sold some canvases . . . a long cry from the original apeman . . .

CRITIQUE

Of The Local Entertainment Scene

By Bob Smith

The Civic Theatre's ambitious summer season is well under way. Friday evening, director John Austin called his cast for the first rehearsal. They read through the script and discussed and analyzed their characters.

Sometime this week, Austin will meet with producer Roy Rosen and the entire production staff.

Meanwhile, ticket sales are being pushed by a special task force who are appearing before civic groups. These people include chairman Bill Sandefur, Jo Bright, Mary Archer, and Austin.

Name of the play is "The Seven-Year Itch," scheduled for presentation June 4, 5 and 6 at H.C.J.C. Auditorium. It is the riotous tale of a married man who lets himself be tempted into running loose. Only it turns out he should have stayed on the leash.

There will be two other plays, and you can see all three on a season ticket: three dollars each, or five dollars for two.

Taking major roles in "The Seven-Year Itch" are Athol Atkins as the wandering husband, Carol Ackerson as The Girl, Mary Archer as the wife, Dr. Bill Sandefur and Dr. Phillip Deza.

Other roles are filled by Lt. Gerald McMillan, Marjorie Havins, Mark Austin, Shirley Bailey, Verne Davis, Liz James and Ann Suter.

The production staff: Producer, Roy Rosen; director, John Austin; assistant director, Lt. Mike Maney. Set, Mat Bertalini, Chuck Worley, Thomas Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Conway and Charles and David Austin.

Props, Jo Bright, Ann Suter and Liz James.

Furnishings and interior decoration, Caribel Laughlin. Lights, Jerry McMillan and Jim Williams.

Airman Proves His Knowledge Of Job

A valuable man on the job. That's Webb Air Force Base's evaluation of S. Sgt. Robert E. Yount of the 2010-3 Airways and Air Communications Squadron detachment at Webb.

Sgt. Yount made the highest score in the Air Force on his job knowledge test.

In addition, he has improved flight indicator equipment to enable the AACRS radar crew to determine the accuracy of an aircraft glide slope on only one approach to the runway.

Previously, numerous passes at the runway were required for making flight checks of a glide slope installation.

Sgt. Yount developed an extra circuit which can be switched into service when the radar indicator is making flight checks. The additional circuit doesn't alter the basic equipment.

The modification gives an accurate GCA altitude and distance from station indication up to 10 miles out without affecting the close range accuracy of the radar scope.

The modification was endorsed by Clarence Bolton, technical representative for the manufacturer of the radar equipment.

Sgt. Yount has been instrumental in making Webb's AACRS unit and the detachment's ground controlled approach one of the most efficient in the Air Force, said Bolton.

Another Yount modification improves the stability of what the technicians call the "moving target indication." This improvement also cuts down on the consumption of an expensive radar tube by about 75 per cent.

Sgt. Yount, according to his first sergeant, M. Sgt. James R. Sage, keeps up with all scientific advancements in his field through constant study. He also has a good training program for the men under his control and is reputed to have one of the cleanest and most efficient sections on the circuit.

The sergeant has recently been awarded an AFSC championship card for a score of 172 in a job knowledge test in his field.

It Works This Way

S. Sgt. Robert E. Yount, right, explains his radar modification to Clarence Bolton, technical representative. The improvement saves considerable time and expense in AACRS operations at Webb, and helped Sgt. Yount earn recognition as one of the most valuable men in the Air Force.

Bill Evans Rates All-'A' Honor Roll

DENTON — Bill Garfield Evans of Big Spring is one of 63 students named to the 3.0 honor roll at North Texas State College for the fall semester.

This is the highest achievement possible, representing a grade of "A" in all courses. Vice President A. M. Sampley said.

Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Evans, 2410 Johnson, is a junior piano major. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity.

School Revenues From Local Sources More Than Expected

Local revenues of the Big Spring Independent School District already have exceeded budget estimates for the fiscal year, but more than 303,000 in state funds and $13,000 in federal money are still to be received.

Revenues from all sources have amounted to $1,590,393.52 against budgeted anticipation of $1,903,136. That leaves $312,742.48 to be received.

Local income, practically all tax collections, total $874,931.33 so far in the year. When the budget was prepared, local revenue was expected to amount to $871,243.

The district has received $648,394.25 from the state and expects to receive another $303,051.75 for a year's total of $951,446, according to the budget. Actually, state contributions probably will exceed the estimate because of a marked increase in school attendance.

Federal funds received by the local district for maintenance and operations total $66,557.70, against the budget estimate of $80,000. That leaves $13,442.30 to come in from that source.

With seven months of the school year gone, the district has disbursed $1,204,832.79. Appropriations for the year total $1,952,426. If it is all spent, and if revenues live up to expectations, another $729,986.64 will be disbursed by Aug. 31.

Expenditures according to the various operating categories (with amounts budgeted in parentheses) include:

Administration and business $67,190.63 ($99,390); Instruction $743,376.36 ($1,313,195); Plant operation $82,240.52 ($142,700); Plant maintenance $30,910.95 ($60,500); Capital outlay $21,482.18 ($55,815); Debt service $153,790.43 ($182,688); and all other categories $105,851.72 ($91,080).

The average in the last grouping is due to the necessity to repay a short term loan of $40,000 and interest for which no funds were budgeted.

So far, receipts are $385,560.73 in excess of disbursements. Starting the fiscal year with $89,822.58 in the bank, the school district now has bank balances totaling $475,383.31.

Producer Urges 'Warm Touches'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer Herbert Bayard Swope believes too many directors nowadays are forgetting the warm touches in entertainment—"the little touches that separate the award winners from the also rans."

Swope believes there is too much emphasis on realism and brutality among modern movie-makers.

"Human interest is the choicest ingredient of a newspaper story," he says, "and it should be of movies."

Stanton IOOF Lodge Elects L. C. Waits

Interscholastic League To Hold Region Meet Saturday

LUBBOCK—West Texas high school students—some 2,600 of them—will jam the Texas Tech campus Friday and Saturday to attend the Region I Interscholastic League Meet for some 194 schools.

Dr. S. M. Kennedy, general director of the meet, said that entries from 42 Class AA schools, 42 Class A schools and 106 Class B schools are expected in the literary, drama, business and math contests and athletic events.

Texas Tech students are also going all out to show the regional high school students examples of engineering, science and home economic projects.

The Engineering-Science Show will be held in the Chemistry, Science and East and West Engineering buildings. Exhibits will include chemical and physical "magic," electronically controlled vehicles, gaming devices that illustrate methods of quality control, and industrial safety projects. Tech's School of Home Econ-ics is holding its 30 anniversary open house with a series of events beginning at 1 p.m. Friday and continuing until 5 p.m. Saturday in the home economics building. Exhibits, a stately show and numerous demonstrations will highlight the open house that has as its theme "Then, Today and Tomorrow."

An operational intercontinental missile—the Air Force Snark—will also be on display in the Science quadrangle at Tech during the Engineering-Science Show. Capable of carrying a nuclear warhead at near sonic speeds, the Snark is 60-feet long, 15-feet in diameter and has a wing span of 42-feet.

A mock-up of the B-52 bomber seat ejection system and worldwide survival gear carried in the B-52 will be displayed.
