Passive Resistance Marks Assault Case

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Most of the 2,800 Negro students at Florida A&M University stayed away from their classes today as part of a "passive resistance" move designated to focus national attention to the mass rape of a Negro coed by four white men.

our determination to get justice," Taylor said. Buford Gibson, another student, spoke in a lengthy prayer of "brotherly love," but said "we will not sit idly by and see our sisters, wives and mothers desecrated."

Florida A&M Dean H. M. Efferon said the college staff shared the students' feelings about the case. In Atlanta a spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said evidence is so strong in the alleged rape that "not even an all-white Florida jury could fail to convict."

Small groups of the students milled about the campus. It was an orderly protest, as was a mass meeting of an estimated 700 students Sunday night.

Florida law prohibits publication of rape victims' names. The co-ed, hysterical when taken to a hospital, was reported improved. Sheriff Joyce said the girl and another, 17 years old, were taken from two male student escorts after attending a college dance.

The younger girl wrenched free and fled. A Leon Lovry of Tampa, president of the Florida branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, also called for vigorous prosecution.

There was speculation in the Legislature that the case might have some effect upon a move by Gov. Leroy Collins to abolish the death penalty in capital cases, including rape.

Also under legal attack were two related acts which have permitted the transfer of funds that otherwise would have gone to the Little Rock schools for the now-displaced pupils.

At the outset, attorneys held a brief conference among themselves to see if they could reach a stipulation on some of the facts involved. Apparently it was futile.

Placards reading "double standards of justice must be eliminated," and "it could have been your sister, wife or mother" bobbed Sunday night over a rally of several hundred hymn-singing praying Florida A&M University fellow-students of the rape victim.

At the hearing, the state argued the law merely extended the police powers of Gov. Orval E. Faubus and was invoked to prevent violence.

The school-closing law was upheld last week by the Arkansas Supreme Court in a 4-3 decision. Attorneys for the state argued the law merely extended the police powers of Gov. Orval E. Faubus and was invoked to prevent violence.

Those arrested were identified as Patrick G. Scarborough, 20, on leave from the Air Force at Ft. Fisher, Wilmington, N.C.; William Collinsworth, 24, a telephone line-man; school student Bagles, 18, a high school student, and Ollie Stoutamire, 16.

Carl F. Hansen said Sunday that academic standards had risen and delinquency declined since desegregation in 1954.

The superintendent discussed the effects of integration during a television program sponsored by the Georgia Council on Human Relations.

Florida's maximum penalty for a rape conviction is death, but no white man has ever gone to the state's electric chair for raping a Negro.

In reply to questions Hansen said that tests given in 1954 and 1955 and again in 1958 indicated there was a "phenomenal increase in the rate of learning."

Today's hearing is an extension of the original Little Rock school integration suit, filed by the NAACP in 1956. It challenged as too slow the Little Rock board's voluntary plan for gradual integration.

Caldwell Taylor, president of A&M's student body, told the campus meeting it was essential that the students control their emotions.

The school official explained that Washington's schools grouped pupils by ability into four divisions, honor pupils, college preparatory, general and basic.

The House refused to work last Friday. It took a long weekend recess to go on a golf coast fishing trip. The Senate also took a Thursday to Monday weekend.

But at the same time we must show by peaceful demonstration

Asked if any racial differences were noted in the four divisions, Hansen said the larger proportion of honor pupils were white and that the larger proportion of the basic pupils were Negroes.

Carr called attention to a long calendar loaded with many controversial as well as scores of local and uncontested measures, set for today.

Trustees Will Hear Evaluation Report

Final report on evaluation of the Big Spring school system will be explained to trustees at a called board meeting tonight.

Godfrey Condition Said Satisfactory

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey was reported in satisfactory condition today at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center where he is recovering from an operation to remove a lung cancer.

Asked if assigning Negro teachers to white pupils prompted any protests, Hansen replied: "Given proper teaching, parents soon forget whether the teacher is white or Negro."

Band Soloists Win Ratings Of Superior

Five Big Spring High School band soloists received Division 1 (superior) ratings in contests at the Tri-State Band Festival in Enid, Okla., last weekend.

Ensembles winning Division 1

Second division ensembles were a brass sextet made up of Larry Latson, Wayne Griffith, Wayne Williams, Charles Rice, Leo Brooks and Durward Rutledge; a saxophone quartet made up of Robert Eubank, Joe Ed Crawford, Jimmy Clemens, and Edward Loveless; a clarinet trio including Beverly Osborn, Nan Rankin and Don Chapman; and a second clarinet trio composed of Phyllis Palmer, Ronnie Buie and Mike Bishop.

Awards Banquet To Close Beauty Show

Beauty operators from a wide area will close out their first Southwest Texas Beauty Show here tonight with a banquet in the Settles Ballroom.

Members of the powerful Senate State Affairs Committee will listen to the public's views on projected tax levies said they hoped the public hearings this week would serve as spadework for the special session.

Major interest this morning was centered on two nationally famous hair stylists—Grace Duran of Hollywood, Calif., and Gerald Raich of Mason City Iowa. The two staged simultaneous demonstrations this morning, explaining latest techniques of their work and showing some of the newest hair fashions.

The beauty show is being held in conjunction with the annual convention of District II Texas Assn. of Accredited Beauty Culturists. Convention manager is Glen Nealeigh of Abilene, Gordon Wheeler, Big Spring unit president, is assisting.

Even if the lawmakers decide on a tax prior to the session end, May 12, there is virtually no prospect their major task can be finished.

The session started in January with finances as its main problem. It apparently will end at its starting point on the money question.

A conference committee may work on a 2 1/2 billion dollar spending bill this week. Unless money is provided to finance that part of it to come from the red-inked general revenue fund, the comptroller could not certify it under constitutional restrictions. He has to say cash is in hand or in sight before certifying any spending measure.

The outlook now is that special session or sessions will have to write a new spending bill, although advance work done on the present measure should expedite action on it.

Many of the most important pending bills are lined with spending. That in effect will kill them at session's end. Any measure not finally acted upon in a regular session automatically dies when the session adjourns finally.

A special session can not consider any measure unless it is specifically submitted by the governor. Gov. Price Daniel is not expected to give the Legislature anything to do at the start of the special session but solve the fiscal problem.

WACO (AP)—It's a myth that the United States is pricing itself out of world markets, a top U.S. trade official said today.

Ninth Theft Arrest Made

Another arrest has been made by the police on charges of hub cap thievery.

Prices in the United States on the whole have risen less, or not significantly more, than in the major European industrial countries.

The man was taken into custody this morning after telling the police about several thefts. His arrest may lead to others, too, detective Leo Hull said.

He added that U.S. industrial wage rates have not risen more rapidly than in Europe.

The arrest is the ninth in less than two weeks for hub cap thefts.

Kearns said, however, that "while I do not believe we have priced ourselves out of the market as yet, there are many indications today that we may not continue to hold our price rises in line with our competitors."

Over the weekend, however, L. L. Montgomery, 1011 NW 4th reported theft of two tires and wheels along with one hub cap. His car, a 1954 Chrysler, was parked behind his house Saturday night when the items were stolen.

He called this the most significant development for cotton in the last 20 years.

Oil Business Is Sold At Lamesa
Truman Hits Ban On A Third Term

LAMESA — Tom Conner, co-shipper for the Texas Co. in Lamesa, Saturday announced the sale of his business to Howard L. Chapman. The changeover was effective May 1. Chapman, who is in the oil field construction business, has been a resident of Lamesa for 14 years. Conner has been with Texaco since 1944 as consignee; prior to that time he was a traveling auditor for the company. He announced he has accepted a position as vice president of the Ford Gum and Machine Co., New York, and his headquarters will be in Houston, where he plans to move Mrs. Conner and their son, Tommy, at the end of the school term. Conner has been an active civic worker and on the Board of Stewards of First Methodist Church. Chapman is married and has one son, Howard Hall, 17. They are members of First Presbyterian Church.

Truman Hits Ban On A Third Term

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry S. Truman said today the Constitution's ban on a third term sends a president into a second term "with one hand tied behind him." "It makes no sense to treat a president this way — no matter who he is—Republican or Democrat," the former president told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee in one of his rare appearances before Congress. Truman said the amendment which put the ban into the Constitution in 1951 "is a bad amendment and ought to be repealed." He noted that he alone, among 175 million Americans could be elected for a third term, if he could get the votes. This is because the amendment specifically exempted the man who was then president—Truman. The amendment was submitted to the states by the Republican 80th Congress, and Truman said it was "ironic that the first 'lame duck' president to be hamstrung by this amendment is one of the Republicans' own." This was a reference to President Eisenhower. "You don't have to be very smart to know that an officeholder who is not eligible for re-election loses a lot of influence," Truman said. "So, what have you done? You've taken a man and put him in the hardest job in the world, and sent him out to fight our battles in a life and death struggle—and you've sent him out to fight with one hand tied behind him because everyone knows he can't run for re-election. "If he is not a good president, and you don't want to keep him, you don't have to re-elect him. There is a way to get rid of him and it does not require a constitutional amendment."

Services Today For Former C-City Man

COLORADO CITY — Marvin G. Venus, 70, Breckenridge, died in a Breckenridge hospital Saturday night. He was born Feb. 18, 1889 in Comanche County, but had lived in Mitchell County from 1907 to 1938. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Baptist Church. Services were to be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the Payne Baptist Church near Colorado City, with the Rev. Fred Smith, pastor, officiating. Burial was to be in the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of the Kiker and Son Funeral Home. He is survived by a son, Lewis Venus, Breckenridge and a brother, Earnest Venus, of Colorado City, and one grandchild.

Lyndon Speaks Of American Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson spoke of the peaceful relationship of the United States, Canada and Mexico in his weekly radio address yesterday. The Democratic majority leader commented on the trip to Paris of the new secretary of state, Christian Herter. "We are, as you know, spending billions on defense," the Texas

Senator said. "But not one dollar need be spent to defend this nation from aggression by our neighbors to the north or south." Herter "can present his case as a man who serves a country that has proven its readiness to live in peace with its neighbors—both to the north and to the south," Johnson said. "I believe that one of the most potent arguments we can make is a living example of a Western Hemisphere in which we are not only at peace with our neighbors but in which our type of friendship is deep and strong. . . . To the north is Canada. Separating this nation and that great dominion are 3,987 miles of open border. "To the south, buttressed against more than 2,000 miles of border, is a second good neighbor, the Republic of Mexico. And nowhere, on either border, does gun face gun or missile point toward the world to see."

Marital Strife Running High

Matrimonial strife in Howard County seems to have been at high peak in April. There were 34 suits for divorce filed in the office of Wade Choate, district court clerk, which he said was an all-time high for one month. During the month 18 divorce suits were disposed of and, of these, 15 ended in decrees of divorce. Twenty-four passports were issued in April, 10 more than were requested in March. One hundred and sixty tax suits were filed and 23 of these settled. Twenty-one civil suits were filed and 12 were disposed of without juries. One was tried by a jury. Thirty-four criminal cases were put on record. Nineteen such cases were cleared away by pleas of guilty. No jury trials of criminal cases were conducted. Three contempt orders were issued and two adoptions approved.

"There are grave questions that await discussion," Johnson said of Herter's trip abroad. "The Berlin crisis is still with us. The picture in the Middle East daily becomes more uncertain. Trouble can break out at any moment in Asia." He concluded: "My point is this: When you really want to know a man you visit him in his home. Let's brag a little and invite men everywhere to lift their eyes from the gunstair, raise the shades on the record of our achievements, to let them see that in a free world three great nations can live in unity, peace and godly love."

Theatre Concession Stand Burglarized

Teen-Age Road-E-O Slated For Saturday At Webb AFB

Teen-agers are being urged by Jaycees to enter immediately as participants in the Road-E-O set for Saturday at Webb AFB. The driving-skill and safe-driving event is open to all teen-agers under 19 years of age who have a driver's license. The only other requirement is that the participants not have a moving traffic violation charged against them. Entries should be filed at once with the principals of the Gollad and Runnels Junior High Schools and the Senior High School. The principals will announce the time and place for the written portion of the test which qualifies the participants for the driving portion Saturday.

The required obstacle course will be set up Saturday at 10 a.m. at Webb in the base exchange parking lot. Guards at the gate will direct entrants to the contest site. Automobiles will be furnished for use in the contests. Winner of the event here will go to the regional meeting in Anson on May 23, and winners from that point will take part in the state contest to be held in Stephenville. The state winner qualifies for a free trip to Washington, D. C., and the national winner will receive a college scholarship valued at $4,500.

Commissioner Renews Effort To Fire Worker

P. O. Hughes, commission Precinct 1, renewed his effort to have Robert Brown, a member of the road and bridge crew of the county discharged, Monday morning. Brown and Hughes have been in disagreement for a long time and on other occasions Hughes has voiced complaint against the man. Today, Hughes moved that Brown be discharged, but the motion did not receive a second. After prolonged discussion, the commissioners decided that a plan will be adopted effective June 1 by which all personnel of the road and bridge department will be reviewed each six months of the calendar year. This action defers until that date any further action on Brown's case, according to Ed Carpenter, county judge. Walter Parks, county engineer, told the court that insofar as he was concerned Brown's work was satisfactory. This his difference with the Precinct 1 Commissioner may be, Parks said he had no personal knowledge. He contended that there was a need for a firmer enunciation of the policy of the court on such questions. He observed that it has been the plan for him to fire and hire members of the county road crews.

Run-Away Girl Is Found With Man

A. E. Long, juvenile officer, is holding a 13-year-old girl apprehended Sunday in an apartment in Nolan. She was with a 20-year-old man, Long said, at the time of her arrest. Long said that the girl had been sought as a run-away. He said that Fort Worth detectives will come to Big Spring today to take custody of the man. Long said he was informed the man is charged in that city to answer charges on file against him. The girl is in the juvenile ward and the man is in the county jail.

Guthrie Suffers 3 Fractures In Fall

Cecil Guthrie, Big Spring oil operator, suffered three fractures of his leg in a fall Saturday evening. He was resting well Monday at the Big Spring Hospital. Guthrie was visiting in the C. D. Turner home at the time he slipped and fell, striking his head and eye on the fire place mantel as he sought to stay himself. The big bone in his leg was broken at an angle above the ankle and the little bone was broken in two places.

Bedrolls, Band Uniforms Found

The police found bedrolls and clothing behind the high school Sunday night, probably leftovers from the high school band's trip to a contest at Enid, Okla. The officers brought a green suitcase, two bedrolls, a man's jacket, and a band uniform to the station which had been found behind the school.

Texans In Capitol For Water Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 100 Texans swarmed onto Capitol Hill today hoping to persuade Congress to provide a liberal appropriation for waterway projects in their state. At least fifty persons were in a delegation from the Trinity River watershed. A group of 20 plucked for a Colorado River channel inland to Bay City, and delegations were on hand for at least a half dozen other projects. They came to testify before a House Appropriations Subcommittee which will recommend funds for rivers and harbors projects for the fiscal year starting July 1. They will go before a similar committee of the Senate tomorrow. First Texas project before the House committee was one calling for continued improvements to the Houston Ship Channel, for which President Eisenhower budgeted $1,150,000. The Trinity group was escorted by Dale Miller of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, and former Fort Worth congressman Fritz Lanham for the Trinity Improvement Assn. There is $200,000 budgeted for continuing a comprehensive survey of the Trinity watershed but the Texans want this increased to $450,000.

Audit Of City's Records Begins

Auditors today began going over the city's books for the fiscal year which ended April 1. Neil Hilliard is auditing the records this year. C. R. McCleary, city secretary, said that representatives of the firm contacted him last week, but no actual work was begun until this morning. The audit should be completed and the final report presented to the City Commission sometime this summer.

Five-Man Airport Commission Urged

A suggestion that the Howard County Commissioner's Court appoint a five-man aviation commission to operate the Howard County Airport was presented to the court on Monday. The suggestion was in a letter from Robert J. Cook, chairman of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee. It proposed that the five-man board be selected from men interested in aviation and informed on flying needs and problems. Such a committee, Cook suggested, would make policies for general operation of the airport. It would screen applicants for the position of airport manager and reach a recommendation to be laid before the county court. Such a committee, Cook proposed, would meet regularly and review problems connected with the airport. It would also meet with the commissioners to go over any major decisions but these would be decided by the county board. Minor decisions would be handled by the aviation commission. Ed Carpenter, county judge, read the letter. No action was taken by the court on the proposal. Another communication, signed by 15 men who own private airplanes and who will be potential tenants of the "T" hangars at the airport, was received. This letter suggested that the rental fee, now established at $25 for end hangars and $20 for inside hang-ars per month, be reduced $5 per month. Cecil Hamilton, operator of a private field, who was present at the meeting, said that the rates already set by the commission did not seem out of line in view of the cost of the hangars and the time which would be required for the county to regain its initial outlay. No action was taken on this petition by the court. A request by the Mesa Oil Co., that it be compensated by the county for lowering pipelines which cross the Hyman road — a state project on the southeast border of the county — was considered. The oil company said it wanted $2,300 to pay it for the work of lowering the lines. The commissioners indicated they would refuse the claim and pointed out that it was not the responsibility of the county to bear the expense of such changes where pipelines had to be relocated as road improvements progress. The commissioners accepted an invitation from the Texas Highway Commission to attend a dedication in Abilene on May 22. Mary Cantrell, county welfare officer, submitted her report on expenditures during April — $2,388.76 for relief of indigent residents. The report showed that grocery orders issued totalled $929.50; hospitalization $945 and drugs $172.73.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Starlet Has A Diet To Lose 10 Pounds A Week

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD — Although Patricia Donahue has never sung a note in "The Thin Man" series, she started her career as a singer with a band.

"It's hard work and very difficult to look your best when you're constantly on the set at MGM. I was very happy to make the switch to acting. But one thing I have discovered about the screen is that it makes me look heavier than when I was at a mike on a bandstand."

"I've been told this so many times before," I commented. "You have plenty of company in your misery."

"But I LOVE to eat," she exclaimed. "And I like all the things that are rich and tasty such as Mexican food. Don't start to count the calories in beans or all the oil they use in frying things! And I adore rich curry with lots of rice and anything from an Italian kitchen. I'm always searching for a way to keep the flavor up and the calories down."

"I buy spaghetti with the starch removed at the health store and make a wonderful sauce with minced clams, low calorie oil, green pepper and garlic. I have forgotten the exact calorie count, but it's delicious and not nearly as fattening as what I would buy in a restaurant."

"Life wouldn't be worth living for me if I had to eat cottage cheese and lamb chops all the time. So I live it up occasionally and then I go on my favorite diet and lose 10 pounds in one week."

"Ten pounds?" I exclaimed. "Oh, yes!" Pat insisted. "and I'm not weak or hungry. But of course, I use a vitamin supplement every day. And if I just must drop two or three pounds I have a liquid diet that is sensational. But," Pat added, "I don't do this more than once a month."

PATRICIA DONAHUE'S FAVORITE DIET

Ten pounds in seven days! Since Patricia Donahue loves to eat and has no intention of giving up her favorite foods, she follows a strict plan — every feast is followed by a well-planned famine. In Leaflet M-12, "Patricia Donahue's Favorite Diet," is her own vitamin supplement, which she drinks as a mid-afternoon snack, plus menus for the seven days. For your copy on Leaflet M-12, send only ten cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, care of The Big Spring Herald. Be sure to ask for Leaflet M-12, "Patricia Donahue's Favorite Diet."

Former Residents Win Scholarships

Harriette Mignonne LaLonde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LaLonde of El Paso, formerly of Big Spring, has been notified that she is the winner of a $500 scholarship awarded by the Kennecott Copper Corporation. The awardee is now a freshman at Texas Western College.

Another daughter, Yvette, who graduates this month from Austin High School in El Paso, has won two scholarships.

The girls are the grandchildren of Mrs. Gladys Ogle, 810 Johnson, and Mrs. S. H. LaLonde, 706 Rosemont.

Girl Scouts Discuss Slumber Party Plans

Girl Scouts of Troop No. 34, meeting Friday afternoon with their sponsor, Mrs. W. H. Booher, made plans for a slumber party; the date will be set before the close of school.

Opening with the Girl Scout promise, the ten girls reported on their good deeds for the week and continued study for the second class rank requirements. The friendship circle was the closing exercise.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lackey and family, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Beam and children and the Maurice Browns, Patricia; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hazlewood and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hazlewood and daughter, Stanton.

All newcomers are invited to the Newcomers Social Club meeting and coffee which will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Manhattan Cafe.

Miss Byrd Is Bride Of Local Man

In a ceremony Sunday afternoon, Peggy Sue Byrd became the bride of C. R. Crabtree at the home of the bride's parents in Hobbs, N.M.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crabtree, Knott Route, and the bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Byrd.

For the wedding, the bride wore a frock of blue lace with blue satin cummerbund, ending in streamers at the back. Her bridal bouquet was of white lilies.

Mrs. Ray Edmiston of Midland was her sister's matron of honor; the best man was Jesse McCormick of Big Spring.

After a wedding trip to Albuquerque, N. M., the couple will return to Big Spring to make a home. The bridegroom, a graduate of Big Spring High School, is employed by the Texas Electric Service Co. The new Mrs. Crabtree has attended the schools in Hobbs.

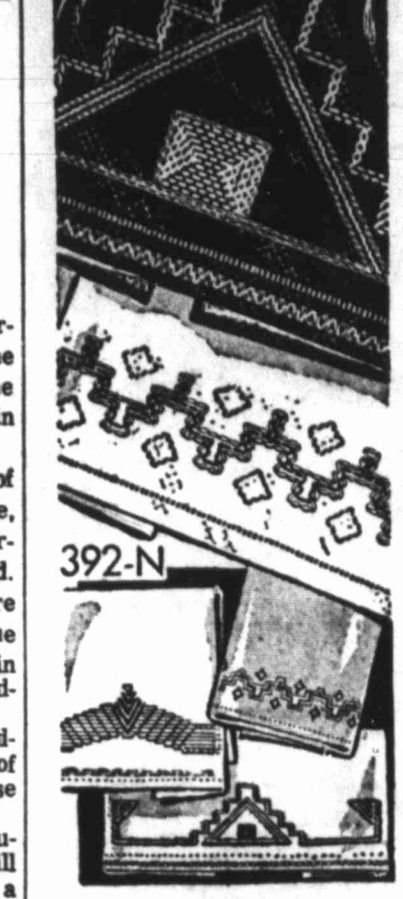

Rogans Have Guests

Dr. and Mrs. V. K. Rogan of Baytown departed Sunday for San Antonio after having spent a few days here as the guests of his brother and family, the Roy Rogans. The Baytowners are attending the state meeting of the Texas Dental Society.

Juniors, Seniors Of Garden City Have Annual Banquet

GARDEN CITY — one of the big events on the school's calendar was held Saturday night, when Juniors and Seniors gathered at the Woman's Club in Midland for their annual banquet. A Mardi Gras theme prevailed in decorations.

Billy Fisher worded the invocation. Responding to Harold Jones' welcome was Glenn Joe Riley, as Frank Murphy acted as master of ceremonies. Music was in the form of songs and guitar music by Dee Phillips of Odessa, and the Junior Class song "May You Always", sung by Nell Nixon to Joe M. Calverley's accompaniment.

Guest speaker was Targe Lindsay of Midland, former Garden City teacher. B. L. Murphy, high school principal, said the benediction after the group of 40 sang the Senior Class song "Moments to Remember."

Sponsors for the juniors are Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Oakes and Mrs. R. R. Ricker; for the seniors, Murphy and Bob Young.

size of the United States with a diversity of scenery, languages, people and types of civilization, ranging from primitive tribes to modern cities with the latest improvements.

Descriptions of various types of safaris were reviewed by Mrs. Helton, who told of the conditions to be expected on a trip on the continent and explained the way of life followed by the natives of the country.

Mrs. Koger told of the conflicts in the land between government agencies, in industries and in the racial elements. She stressed the fact that Africa's future is tied with the white man because of the need for leaders in law, medicine and business. Good will has been strengthened more through the work of missionaries, she stated, than in other ways.

The growth of the independent countries was described, and the speaker recommended the welcoming of students here, since that is a source of activity upon which the communists are relying for strength. There are ten small universities for 125 million people, Mrs. Koger told the group.

During a business meeting, Mrs. Stipp reported on the work being done at the Westside Recreation Center by the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

Pays The Piper

Patricia Donahue, who admits to being a calorie counter from way back, says her way of life now is to go on an eating binge and then pay the consequences with a seven-day diet. She can drop 10 pounds in seven days. Patricia is a regular on "The Thin Man" series for MGM.

Engaged Couple Is Feted Sunday

Elreeta Ann Crain and her fiancé, Ray Rowland Weathers, were guests of honor at a tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James W. Johnson.

The couple will be married May 31 at the First Baptist Church, where she is youth director. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Verza Crain of Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ormer Weathers, 1102 North Nolan, stood with them in the receiving line.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. B. T. Faulkner,

Mary Ann Attaway, Mrs. W. D. Arnold, Mrs. George W. Hill, Mrs. J. W. Arnett and Mrs. F. W. Bette joined Mrs. Charles Kee, Mrs. Wayland Yates, Mrs. E. E. Bryant and Mrs. C. T. Clay as hostesses. Another hostess Mrs. Johnnie Winham, was at the register.

Silver appointments decorated the refreshment table which was in a floor-length cloth of green organdy. Red roses and honeysuckle twined around the tired candelabra. Punch was poured by Mrs. Willard Hendrick and Rex Browning, also of the entertaining group.

Assisting in the houseparty were Mrs. Lillian Witt, Alice Coker, Elaine Biffar, Mr. Bettie, Mr. Hendrick and E. Hartin.

Attends Exhibit Tea

Mrs. J. F. Skalicky accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Roxie Witten of Colorado City, attended an exhibit and tea Sunday afternoon in Sweetwater. The affair was staged by the Porcelain Art Club of Texas, West Texas Chapter No. 4, at the Blue Bonnet Hotel.

Rich Pastry

If you want an absolutely wonderful rich pastry for turnovers, cream a three-ounce package of cream cheese with a quarter pound of butter, then mix in a cup of unsifted flour and a dash of salt. Chill before rolling out on a prepared pastry cloth.

Extra flavor Sometimes adding stewed rather than the regular plain variety of canned tomatoes to a dish does wonders for it.

FASCINATING ART

Mosaics Have Strong Appeal For Do-It-Yourself Believers

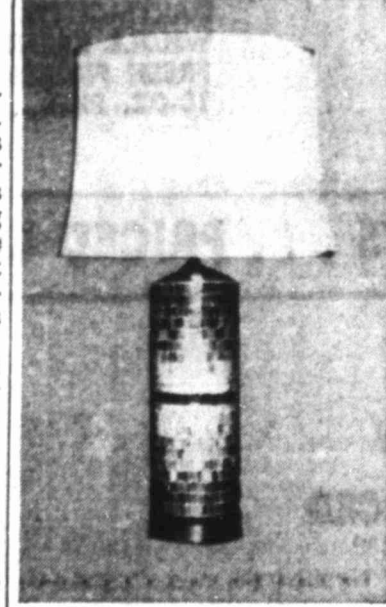

By HELEN HURT (Editor's note: This is the second in a series of two articles on mosaics and localities who are pursuing the hobby.)

It is interesting to note how individuals are attracted to hobbies. Most of the Big Spring mosaics enthusiasts have picked up their know-how by following instructions from manuals or by watching friends at their work. One of the strong appeals of this hobby is that professional guidance is not a requirement. And the possibilities know no bounds.

A few years ago, Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach accompanied her husband to San Angelo to see about a motor for his boat. While she was waiting, she investigated a hobby shop across the street. Just that casually she was drawn into mosaics. Having done china painting and ceramics, art was not a new hobby and she does most of her own patterns freehand.

Although she has made numerous objects, from table tops to wooden plates and wall hangings, she has but two examples left at her home, 637 Manor Lane. One is a small mural, a still life. The other is a coffee table paved with a trio of large butterflies on a motley background. It is vivid with colors—yellow, orange, beige, greens—all in Italian and Venetian glass tesserae. She completed it while convalescing with a broken knee last summer.

DESIGN IDEAS From a college course which she took just for fun, Mrs. W. R. Jones learned about mosaics and their design. This information she is now passing along to the club women whom she is guiding as Howard County's Home Demonstration Agent. Currently at work on a wall hanging, she has previously completed a coffee table top; its original pattern is done in beige, browns and turquoise with slight touches of coral and purple. It can also be used as a wall hanging, edged as it is in mahogany.

MOSAIC LAMP BASE . . . By Mrs. Doug Orme

elements of design should be considered: Line, form, color and texture. A curved shape is more feminine than angular forms. Important objects should be given warm intense color, such as red, orange or yellow; but the background requires cool colors, such as blue or green. The four elements, used in rhythm, contrast, repetition and gradation, will bring rewarding patterns.

A. McNary, who sells himself some of the mosaic materials he stocks at the Rock Shop west of town, is at work now on a small square table with wrought iron base. Its sunburst pattern will be carried out with glass tesserae. He also has made outdoor tables.

MAKES GIFTS One of the town's most enthusiastic boosters of mosaics is Mrs. Jim Zack, Indian Hills, who has experimented with many of the hand crafts. Although she has made numerous mosaics, such as plaques and table tops, she has given away all of them. She contends that the fun is in the doing, not in the having. Her pieces have all been original patterns.

On the other hand, Mrs. Douglas Orme, 1600 Park Hill, enjoys using her mosaics. Drawn into the hobby by Mrs. Zack, she has done a round table top, its sunburst achieved through gradations of greens, grays, chartreuse, orange and yellow, in Italian glass tesserae. The greens and greys are echoed in a mosaic lamp which she also made, filling the crevices with dyed grout. She has done plates in ceramic tile. But her best effort, she contends, is the mosaic mural which decorates her husband's office.

These are only a handful of the Big Springers who find aesthetic satisfaction and a sense of achievement in creating mosaics. Such is their enthusiasm that if they are not on a project now, they have one in the planning stage.

Local Mechanic Uses Thyro-Cream

To Whom It May Concern: I have used every kind of ointment and cream that I have ever heard of. I have gone to Doctors and every specialist with a breaking out on my hands, face and body. I used one tube of Thyro-Cream and it cleared up this breaking out. The breaking out on my feet was the hardest place to heal. I have had my feet to break out they would run water which would turn into another sore and finally it would be all over my feet. I could not wear my shoes, again Thyro-Cream would heal them as no other preparation I have ever used.

I am writing this testimonial because I would not want others to suffer as I have. I want them to just try one tube of Thyro-Cream. You have my permission to use this letter in any form of advertising as you wish and I was not paid one cent to write this. I am a mechanic and have my hands in grease and gasoline most of the time.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand this 18th day of April, 1959. Signed Doyle Holland Thyro-Cream is sold at Collins Bros. Drug. Adv.

Shoemaker Is Margin In Tomy Lee's Derby Victory

By ORLO ROBERTSON

This may be the year in which Henry Aaron establishes himself as one of baseball's greatest right-handed hitters, alongside such famous sluggers as Rogers Hornsby, Harry Heilmann, Ed Delahanty, Sam Crawford, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg and Al Simmons.

second place following the split of their doubleheader. The Reds won the first game 6-3 and the Dodgers took the second, 7-1.

Aaron is batting an even .500 with 36 hits in 72 times at bat. He is tied with teammate Eddie Mathews for the league's home run leadership with 8; leads in hits, is third in runs scored with 18, tied for third with 20 doubles, and tied for fifth with 20 runs batted in.

Chicago maintained its 500 level, dividing a pair with Philadelphia. The Cubs won the opener 4-3 and the Phillies triumphed in the nightcap 5-4.

Comets Win, 18-3, In League Opener

The Comets defeated the T-Birds, 18-3, in the opening game of the International Little League Saturday night.

Despite the respect for Shoemaker, a number of the horses who trailed Tomy Lee will take another shot at Fred Turner Jr.'s ace in the Preakness May 16.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

The most recent ring ratings showed only one Texan (Paul Jorgensen, a featherweight) in the top ten in any division.

Such headliners as Roy Harris of Houston and Donnie Fleeman of Midlothian have been dropped from the elite group.

Of the 85 fighters ranked (including the champions in each division), 46— or more than half— hail from places other than the United States.

Frank Hardesty Sr., of Big Spring witnessed part of the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas Nevada, on his recent trip there.

He said Billy Maxwell seemed to be concentrating so hard on his play he managed only to say "hello" to the ex-Big Springer.

If you wear bifocals while playing golf, they can cost you as much as five strokes a round — if they're too big. So says an optometrist.

One of the boys being considered for the East-West all-star basketball game, which will be played in Hutchinson, Kansas, in June under the direction of Moss Simms, is Big Spring's Bill Thompson.

Brian London, the British Heavyweight who fought Floyd Patterson in Indianapolis last Friday night, is the son of a former pugilist.

Brian's father fought for 19 years. In his four years in the ring, Brian has earned $116,000, far more than the elder London ever made.

One of the brightest football prospects here is Mike Hughes, a sterling youngster who becomes a sophomore in the local high school next fall.

There are those who reason that the bettors would have the time to attend baseball games in New York City, if the off-track betting was legalized, but might not have the money.

He didn't take into account American football, which he is in no position to study. Rugby and soccer, distant cousins of the American brand, ranked second and third in producing injuries.

Track and field, swimming, automobile racing, horseback riding (including jumping), and hunting all were found to cause more injuries than boxing.

Hogan, Hawkins Vie For Colonial Crown

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A couple of Texans—Ben Hogan and Fred Hawkins—clash for first money in the $27,300 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament today.

It will be Hawkins' first playoff in 14 years where he got a birdie with a fellow with more experience but less success at it.

Hogan, the Fort Worth great making a comeback to the winners' circle, has been in 12 playoffs in his illustrious career and won only one. That was the National Open of 1950. His last effort—in 1955—was a loss to Jack Fleck in the National Open.

Hawkins, whose sole tournament triumph has been the Oklahoma City Open in 1956, and Hogan, winner of 64 tournaments in his career, meet at 1:30 p.m. in an 18-hole playoff to see which gets $5,000 and which takes $3,000-second money.

Maxwell Hits Four Consecutive Homers

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Jimmy Dykes' first line-up change as manager of the Detroit Tigers has fans in these parts talking about the Tigers in complimentary terms once again.

The 62-year-old veteran of nearly 40 major league campaigns pulled slugging Charlie Maxwell off the bench Sunday and the popular slugger responded with a record-setting performance at the plate.

Maxwell hit four home runs in consecutive times at bat, added a single for five hits in seven at-bats and drove in eight runs as the last-place Tigers blasted the New York Yankees 4-2 and 8-2 in a Briggs Stadium doubleheader.

Maxwell's explosion at the plate equals a mark first set back in 1894 by Bob Lowe and tied seven times since. The last to do it was Ted Williams in 1957.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (AP)—An unidentified man from California's Imperial Valley won $64,069 at the races — but didn't stick around to collect it.

The man placed a wager in the 5-10 handicap contest at the Caliente track Sunday, but had to leave before the program was over to catch a bus back to El Centro.

The track announced after the 10th race that only one bettor had picked six straight winners, in the 5th through 10th races. That bettor was entitled to the entire gross award of $62,837, plus two consolation shares of $616 each.

A few minutes later, a mid-dressed man turned up at the cashier's window and showed a copy of the winning ticket. He said his cousin, who had left early, held the official ticket. He said he was going to call the cousin to advise him he had won. But he wouldn't give his cousin's name.

The second game runs were scored in the ninth inning. Washington tallied three unearned runs on an error, a single by Bob Allison, a two-run double by Harmon Killebrew and Ed Fitzgerald's single. Rocky Colavito ruined Griggs' shutout bid with a home run for the Indians in the last of the ninth.

Billy Gardner and Chico Carrasquel hit home runs in the tenth off relief pitcher Turk Lown to give Baltimore's Billy Loes his second triumph against one defeat. Loes replaced starter Billy O'Dell in the ninth.

Homers also won for Kansas City, Roger Maris and Bob Cerv were the four-bagger hitters, each coming with a man on base. Ralph Terry allowed eight hits for his second victory. Frank Malzone hit two homers for the losing Red Sox.

Fireball Bowlers Set Fast Pace In Mercenary League

Jack's tumbled before 66 Cafe, 3-1, and Fireball stuck in second place by downing Wagon Wheel, 3-1, last week in the Commercial bowling league.

Bell and Sinclair also had 3-1 victories over McGibbons and 66 Terminal, respectively.

Only three weeks of bowling are left in the league.

High team series of 2812 was scored by 66 Cafe, which holds down the top slot in the standings. Wagon Wheel turned in a 1018 high team game.

Harry Heise of Fireball had 579 single series, and teammate Keith Henderson had a 223 high game.

Runs, Luck Do It, Burdette Claims

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Pitcher Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves chuckles when he hears others say that he has a secret for winning baseball games.

"All you have to do is come up with a combination that provides lots of runs and just plain luck," grins Burdette, "and you have it made."

So far in this young National League season Burdette has delivered five triumphs without a loss. Sunday's 9-4 victory over San Francisco was his 13th straight defeat of the Giants since Sept. 16, 1954.

Cisco is defending champion of the meet. HCJC won second last year. Among other Texas junior colleges which should be on hand are Paris, San Antonio, Blinn, Navarro, Decatur Baptist, Amarillo, Lee of Baytown, Uvalde, and Temple.

Also Clarendon, Frank Phillips, Le Tourneau Tech of Longview, Panola, Henderson, Gainesville, Weatherford, Lon Morris and Concordia of Houston may send individual entries if not entire teams.

Howard County owns six of the standing records in the State track meet. The 220-dash record is held by John Curtis, 21.5, set in 1955.

The oldest record is a 146-3/4 discus throw by Robert Burch, Navarro. It was set in 1954.

Four other HCJC boys holding records Millard Bennett, 49.8 in the 440-yard run, 1958; Bobby Fuller, 4:32.5 in the mile and 2:00.6 in the 800, both set in 1958; Freddie Stuart, 23.6 in the 220 low hurdles, 1957; and Tommy Black, 13-1 and 1-8 in the pole vault, 1956.

For the Big Spring school in the 100-yard dash prelims will be Sammy Kruse, Clyde Dabbs and Fred Thompson; in the 220, Kruse, Dabbs, Ray Clay and Thompson; in the 120-yard high hurdles, Don Anderson and Bert Mansfield; and in the 440, Millard Bennett, Clay, and Jerry Hale.

TWU Coach Quits

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Texas Western needs a new basketball coach. George McCarty, coach since 1953, has resigned to become dean of students. His teams won the Border Conference championship in 1957 and tied for it last season.

DEAR ABBY

NEVER SATISFIED

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband buys me a plant every Easter. I have told him many times that I like a bouquet of cut flowers but he says a plant is better because he can plant it outside later. I say if that's the reason he buys a plant he isn't buying it for ME, he is buying it for HIMSELF. It's not that I don't care for plants, Abby, but if he was really thinking of me he would buy what I wanted, not what he wanted. What do you think?

LIKES FLOWERS DEAR LIKES: Don't look a gift flower in the roost. Be satisfied that he remembers you with something lovely at Easter.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a boy who goes to a boarding school. He says he likes to get letters from me, but I shouldn't expect to get any letters from him because he hates to write. I have written him every day since last September, and he has never written to me once. When he comes home for weekends he calls me up for a date when he feels like it, and I go, like a fool. I know he has been home for weekends and hasn't called me. Before he went away he said we would be married in nine years and he gave me his sweater. I am 15 and so is he. Should I break the engagement? GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA: You'll need more than a sweater to take the chill off this romance. He is not ready to make any long-term promises, and you aren't ready to accept any. Go out with the gang, and don't regard yourself as anybody's private property. Quit writing, and don't be so available when he calls.

DEAR ABBY: A close friend of mine is planning her wedding. Last week her doctor told her she was pregnant. Tomorrow she plans to order her invitations and procure her dress. My friend's mother has not been informed of her daughter's condition. This girl is selfish and ridiculous to go ahead with this affair. Her poor mother will simply die of embarrassment when she learns the truth. How does one explain to a 20-year-old girl that a simple, quiet wedding is in order and soon? Kindly publish your reply. CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: One explains it to her exactly as you have explained it to me. The decision is hers, right or wrong.

DEAR ABBY: We have been told by our children (a son 24 and a daughter 20) that it is quite old-fashioned for a young man to ask the father of a young woman for "her hand." They say that this is not being done any more. Are we out of step or not? OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: There are still many young men who have a "chat" with the father of the young lady to assure him that he is able to provide for a wife, but nowadays when a fellow asks for a young lady's "hand" he usually has both feet in the door.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISAPPOINTED DAD: If your son wants to be a mechanic, let him be a mechanic. Not everyone reaches the top by degrees.

Are your parents square? Get ABBY's booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Wants to Know." Send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY in care of the Big Spring Herald.

For a personal reply write to ABBY in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mama Gabor Pulls Coup Over Soup

By HUBBARD KEAVY

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—If you'd care to know what kind of onion soup Zsa Zsa's mama, mama's count and I prefer, stick around for a few paragraphs.

This is a report on an onion soup contest, and you'll get the winning recipe to boot.

But the story cannot be told without mentioning Mama Gabor's poodle, her $6.95 hat and what mama has to say about her favorite daughter's latest romance.

Mama, who likes to be called Jolie, her husband, Count Edmond Szigeti, and your reporter were judges for George Ringwald's contest. George writes a column for the Riverside Press and Enterprise and made so bold as to extol an onion soup as the best ever. Readers challenged him.

The way to settle the argument was to cook the seven outstanding recipes and have them tasted.

Only Jolie would think of bringing a French poodle to a French onion soup tasting. The other diners were aghast, as dogs are not allowed in California restaurants, but Jolie silenced would-be hecklers with the magnetic Gabor smile.

Someone asked Jolie: Is Zsa Zsa going to marry Hal Hayes. Jolie answered: "Why should she marry Hal Hayes—she makes more money than he does."

Then Jolie adjusted her hat again—and again insisted it cost a mere $6.95. It was made of coarse white straw, with a high crown and a bright red satin bow. It looked to me like an upside down coffee pot, but the ladies said it was fetching.

Now if you want to make this prize winning soup, which got a unanimous verdict Sunday night, cut up two large white onions very fine. Saute them in butter, adding a pinch of salt and a pinch of powdered sugar.

Let the onions get golden brown and then add a tablespoon of flour, stirring it slowly. After two minutes, add a quart and a half of boiling water and stir until the mixture boils.

Take off the fire and add half a bay leaf. Beat two egg yolks with a half pint of cream and add to the onions. Heat and serve with thin slices of toasted, buttered french bread doused with grated parmesan cheese.

Mrs. J. H. Carley of Banning, Calif., who turned in the recipe, says it came straight from France.

Graham Urged To Aid Summit

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. Girl's Body May Solve Disappearance

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The body of a little girl, found bobbing in a Columbia River slough, provided a probable solution today to the baffling mystery of the missing Ken Martin family of Portland.

The body, found Sunday and identified as that of 11-year-old Susan Martin, had been in the water for a considerable time, said Coroner Paul Mylan. It may have been submerged since the Dec. 7 disappearance of Ken Martin, 54, his wife, 48, and their three pretty young daughters—Barbara, 14, Virginia, 13, and Susan.

Police, who have run down scores of clues in the five-month-old case, believe the Martin car plunged off a highway into the Columbia River or one of its tributaries. The body of Susan apparently floated free of the wreckage in the spring current and was washed to a backwater slough near Camas, Wash., a few miles east of this lower Columbia River city.

Dr. E. A. Waterman, the Martin's dentist, examined the body and said he was certain it was that of the missing girl. There were six fillings in four teeth, the same as the work Dr. Waterman had done for Susan.

The body was clad in red and white striped pedal pushers and a blue quilted coat. Friends and relatives of the Martins said Susan was wearing similar pedal pushers the day the family vanished and that the coat belonged to Virginia.

The family, after telling friends they were on their way to the woods to get Christmas greens, happily climbed into their red and white station wagon Sunday morning Dec. 7, and drove east up the Oregon side of the Columbia River to Cascade Locks where Martin purchased a small amount of gasoline. Then they disappeared.

After ground and aerial searches of the heavily wooded gorge areas failed to turn up clues, police speculated that the Martin car plunged into the river. In one of the most unusual search operations ever undertaken in this area, the flow of the Columbia was halted by an upstream dam while skin divers and a sonar device were used to probe the slack river's bottom. This too was fruitless.

Friends and neighbors of the Martins have given up hope that the happy, well liked family ever would be found alive.

A sister, Miss Margaret Martin, a Seattle school teacher, said she was saddened but relieved to hear that Susan's body had been found. "Now, at least I have some idea as to what happened to the family," she said.

Storms Rake South Plains

By The Associated Press Severe thunderstorms raked sections of the plains and rain damped many other parts of the country today in the wake of damaging storms over the weekend.

Tornado winds and funnel clouds were reported in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas during the night and early morning. No injuries were reported.

Hail and heavy rain swept across areas in the storm belt from southeast Nebraska southwestward into western Oklahoma and across the Texas Panhandle into east central New Mexico. Hail stones reported as big as golf balls pelted Leedey, Okla., as tornado winds lashed the area.

Sections of east Texas were drenched with heavy rain Sunday, causing much flooding. Property damage was estimated unofficially at more than a half million dollars. Heaviest rainfall nearly a foot, was in the Kilgore-Henderson-Overton area. Wind gusts reached 70 m.p.h. in the Henderson district.

The flood waters washed out dams, blocked some roads and stranded scores of motorists.

Earlier Sunday, hail rain and strong winds hit northern Illinois. Showers were reported this morning in the extreme Northwest, the central Rockies and parts of the northern plains, upper Great Lakes region and the Carolinas. Snow fell in the higher elevations of the Rockies. One inch of snow was on the ground at Big Piney, Wyo.

6 Airmen Die In Traffic Crash

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Six airmen from nearby Scott Air Force Base were killed and another was injured Sunday when the car in which they were riding crashed through two highway barricades and hit a crane.

The only survivor was in serious condition after emergency surgery at the base hospital. He is Airman 3.C Dennis G. E. Buske, 21, of Johnson Creek, Wis.

Killed were: S. Sgt. Billy Smith, 27, Shelbyville, Tenn.; S. Sgt. Virlyn Steele, 26, Elmore, Ind.; Airman 1.C Paul Monte, 22, Milwaukee; the driver; Airman 1.C Gerald Netherlain, 20, Shelburne, Ind.; Airman 2.C Edward Kangas, 20, Hancock, Mich.; and Airman 3.C Michael Sancia, 19, Salem, Ohio.

Jones Motor Co. Wins Special Award

Jones Motor Co. Inc., 101 Gregg St., has again been singled out for a special training award from the Chrysler Corporation. This award, in the form of a plaque with special bronze inserts, was presented in recognition of 10 years continuous participating in the Master Technicians Service Conference dedicated to the advancement of technical automotive service. Henry Jones, who received the award on behalf of his concern, stated that it marked another milestone in their efforts to keep up-to-date on the service needs of all automobile owners. "We continually take an active interest in keeping our mechanics up-to-date on the latest service techniques because it eliminates guesswork from our service operations and helps us serve our customers better," Jones stated. Jones Motor Co. maintains a service department modern in every detail, equipped to give its customers the best possible service at the greatest savings of time. Jones said he takes great pride in the experience and background his mechanics have at their trade, mechanics who not only are called upon to diagnose the trouble with an ailing vehicle but to repair it as well.

Necklaces of many styles are on display at Grantham's. If you prefer, the firm has an open stock of pendants from which you may have a necklace of your own individual preference made up.

Auto Tires Have To Be Better Now

Automobile owners who complain their vehicles seem to need new tires more often than they did a few years ago may be right but tire manufacturers contend they're not at fault. Automobile manufacturers are to blame, according to the tire engineers, speaking out in a recent edition of the Wall Street Journal. One engineer of a large Akron tire manufacturer was quoted as saying: "We develop a tire that'll wear longer and Detroit designs a car that cancels out most of its advantages." Increased horsepower, greater auto weight causing overloading, power brakes, power steering and low tire pressures recommended by auto manufacturers which insure a soft ride but cause rapid wear are all factors listed by tire engineers for shortening tire life. Also mentioned by tire engineers as an enemy of long tire life is the move by auto designers in 1957 to lower car altitudes by using a 14-inch rather than a 15-inch diameter wheel. A 14-inch tire, of course, must revolve more times than a 15-inch tire in covering a specified distance. It stands to reason, then, that a 14-inch tire heats up faster than the 15-inch variety; heat tends to weaken tires and shorten their lives. The Wall Street Journal also reports that Detroit auto makers plan to stick with the 14-inch wheels on most of the 1960 models. Tire concerns like the Phillips Tire Company, which is located at Fourth and Johnson Streets in Big Spring, strive to please their many customers not only by stocking the best possible casings, but by offering the finest recapping service to the public. The most valuable thing a trucker or motorist has is his carcase; he shouldn't waste it on an inferior recap. Retreaders like those at the Phillips Tire Company do a good job with good tire carcasses and refuse to cap poor, broken carcasses.

Resigns

Clare Booth Luce listens as White House Press Secretary James Hagerty announces her resignation as ambassador to Brazil. Mrs. Luce said she quit because of her public row with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.). The decision to quit was announced to newsmen after Mrs. Luce conferred with President Eisenhower for more than an hour.

Truman, Nearing 75, Never Lets Pressure Get Him Down

By CLARENCE JOHNSON
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—In an age when emotional pressure often is an excuse for emotional collapse, Harry S. Truman still acts like a man who never had anything more pressing on his mind than the next lodge meeting. Approaching 75, there is still about him a hearty self-confidence, a fighting sense of optimism, uncomplicated way of looking at himself and the world.

With his brisk stride, his defiant smile, his galloping pride, his trigger-like readiness to put his foot into his mouth or a fight, there is little about this man to suggest that he once was President of the United States.

Or that he: Presided over the dawn of the atomic age, the end of a world war, the entrance of the United States into the United Nations, the winning of an election even his best friends had wrapped in black crepe, the decision to fight in Korea and get public approval later, the dismissal of a fiercely popular general, and a host of other incredible strains and stresses that might have bent the psyche of other mortals.

History may record Truman as a great president or a poor president but in either case it will have to agree that this was one of the bounciest egos ever to wrestle with affairs of state. There was, and is, about Truman, a rare and enviable rhythm: problem, study, decision, action, no regrets.

Now on the threshold of his diamond jubilee—his birthday is this Friday—Truman still radiates all the healthy outgoingness of a man who has no regrets.

As always, he walks, he talks, he comes to judgments with a zing. His repartee, his grin, his unlined face, his unthinned hair, his proudly straight shoulders and visible chip, his trim 176-pound frame, his erect carriage, unchanged from that of the captain who led Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, in the first World War, continue to mystify his friends and neighbors.

But to Harry Truman, there is no mystery. A man needs a simple formula to live by and his, as always, is work hard, walk fast, sleep tight and learn to relax.

Truman's favorite subject is American history, to which he has contributed his own share, but he also pays loving attention to the small, neighborly world and lore of his own independence.

His roots here go deep. Here Truman attended grade and high school. One of his schoolmates, Elizabeth Virginia Wallace, whom he married in June 1919. Here daughter Margaret was born in 1924. Here in due course Margaret was married to Clifton Daniel, a New York newspaperman, before a beaming Truman clan. Margaret has since presented the ex-president with a grandson, and another grandchild is on the way.

All this is a familiar story to Independence—and everything about Independence is familiar to Truman. He pointed proudly to "the best-kept lawn in town," at the home of his friend Louis L. Compton. A little farther down Delaware Street, Truman pointed to another home.

Throughout the walk, there were greetings from friends and from strangers who recognized him. Some said, "Hi, Harry." Others greeted him with "Good morning, Mr. Truman," or "Good morning, M. President." Some motorists slowed down, tooted their horns, and waved. Truman acknowledged them all.

Sometimes, he walks the six blocks to the stately Truman Library, where he has his office. He gets there early, often ahead of his staff consisting of a personal secretary, an administrative secretary, and a stenographer. In the library reposes the papers and records of a public life that started modestly enough as a judge of the Jackson County Court in 1922 and, via two terms in the U.S. Senate, reached the vice presidency of the United States in 1944.

The Senate, Harry Truman has often said, was the limit of his ambitions in public life—until that day in April 1945, when the Missouriian took office as the nation's 32nd president.

Truman keeps busy. He has written his memoirs, is the active elder statesman of the Democratic party, writes, reads, and, in his comfortably appointed office, applies himself to mountains of mail.

Invitations to make speeches and attend functions pour in. Only a fraction can be accepted. Last month Truman was in Southern California for a series of talks. There was a political address at Omaha, and a ceremony in connection with the Oregon Centennial wagon train. In Lamar, Mo., Truman attended a function marking transfer of his birth house to the state, as a shrine. The schedule was topped off by three lectures to students at Columbia University and an appearance at Washington for a citation for launching the American Point Four program.

Not long ago Truman had a thorough checkup from his doctor, and was pronounced in excellent physical shape. Then the doctor asked about his memory.

"I told him I had no trouble with my memory," Truman said with a grin, "and that same night, while I was making a talk at the installation of new officers at the Grandview Masonic Lodge, I suddenly remembered I'd forgotten to drop by and bring my brother Vivian to the meeting."

Snags Fail To Halt U.S. Mail

HOUSTON (AP)—Note to Linda Blum, visiting grandparents in London:

Your classmates at Hunter's Creek Elementary School wrote you a new, 22-page letter about social activity in the third grade. A sorting machine at the post office ripped off your London address. Caused a bit of a stir, but the post office traced the letter back to your teacher. She supplied a new address label. And the message from Hunter's Creek is en route once more.

Meanwhile, Houston Post reporter C. W. Skipper sifted the meatier bits of news into a letter to you printed in the newspaper today:

"Dear Linda, "First, your classmate Randy says 'The boys stood the girls in softball and the score was boys 23 and girls 0.' Randy adds, 'I don't think we'll play softball anymore.'"

"Several of your friends told you that they are starting a Downey fan club, I'm sure you know that Downey, also an 8-year-old, is the handsome, star athlete of the third grade.

"Downey's a bit shy and doesn't care much for girls but all you girls like him.

"Janet is going to sing in the luncheon.

"The Brownie troop went to Camp Tejas, but Dana and Janet couldn't go because it was on Saturday and they had to go to Sunday school. I don't quite understand that, Linda.

"Beverly said, 'I wish you could come back with us. It isn't very fun with arithmetic.' It wasn't very fun when I was in the third grade either.

"And finally, Carolyn told you this: 'The boys are looking at books that have pretty girls in them.'

"Are you sure you're only in the third grade, Linda?"

"Your friend, The Houston Post."

New Aldine Board Studies Troubles

HOUSTON (AP)—The money-short Aldine school board, its ranks rearranged with the election of two women members, studied ways to pay teachers and re-open schools today.

Mrs. R. B. Clarke Sr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith won election to the board by lopsided majorities Saturday. Both are mothers with children in district schools. They beat candidates backed by a three-man minority board faction which has opposed raising taxes to solve the district's financial troubles.

GI Sentenced In Murder Case

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Pfc. Kenneth M. Burke was sentenced by a U.S. Army court today to life imprisonment for the murder of a soldier and the attempted murder of another.

The 22-year-old GI from Del Rio, Tex., also was ordered reduced to the lowest rank, dishonorably discharged and directed to forfeit all pay and allowances due him.

The court convicted Burke of slaying Pvt. Frank Galgano, 23, of Miami, and attempting to slay Specialist 4.c. Philip B. Mead, 18, of Lancaster, Pa., while on guard duty last Jan. 23.

The Army charged Burke fired five pistol rounds into a truck cab occupied by Mead and Galgano.

The defense claimed Burke was not responsible for his actions and introduced testimony from four psychiatrists stating he suffered from psychomotor epilepsy.

Both women said the solution appeared to rest with the sale of $200,000 in emergency time warrants authorized by the Legislature. But a Houston bank has said it will not handle the warrants.

Teachers of the 11 schools serving 9,000 pupils walked out a second time last week when the district was unable to meet its payroll. A hastily-called board session broke up when demonstrators attacked several members.

Manuel Salinas, vice president of the Aldine Classroom Teachers Assn., said he saw little chance of the teachers returning to their jobs today.

"I don't think they'll go back unless they are guaranteed they'll be paid," he said.

"We certainly are going to keep trying to get the schools open," said Mrs. Clark 30, mother of two. "But I cannot see any money unless the three minority members of the board withdraw their suit."

Minority members seek an injunction to enjoin board president Richard Cass and member Jack Buckley from attending board meetings and voting on matters before the panel.

Both live in an area transferred from the Aldine district to the Houston school district last year.

A hearing on the suit is set in district court May 11.

Business manager Thomas Tope Jr. said several brokers are giving serious thought to purchase of the warrants. "They're not eager to buy them but they might in the hope of getting better business from us later," Tope said.

Even Princes Get Whacked

LONDON (AP)—A boy of 10 can be an awful pest even if he happens to be the future king of England.

His mother can also get annoyed at his behavior even if she happens to be the Queen of England.

This was demonstrated Sunday at a polo game between Ascot and Windsor Park, led by Prince Charles' father, Prince Philip.

Queen Elizabeth II, wearing a green raincoat, scarf and low heeled shoes, drove to the game from Windsor Castle. Accompanied by Charles and his 8-year-old sister, Anne, she went to a canvas-roofed canopy because it was raining.

The roof sagged from the weight of pools of water on either side of the center pole. Suddenly Charles punched the canvas, causing water to splash on his mother's stockings. Mother frowned. Charles repeated the maneuver against the other bulge.

As 4,000 spectators watched, the Queen's high girlish voice was heard saying: "Charles! Sit down!" Charles sat down.

Try R12 Today

To Whom It May Concern: To my many friends and loved ones:

After reading the woman's letter in the paper and going to see her, talking to her I decided to try R-12.

I was carried by my husband to see and talk to her. That was just 5 days ago and now I am up doing my house work and cooking for my husband.

I had what I call the gout or rheumatism causing my bones to ache and throb as if some one was trying to break them. It would get in my hip and I could not get up or down.

R-12 was the first and only thing I have ever used that would let me get up and walk 7 blocks to church besides doing all my house work.

That has just been five days ago and now I feel good. I am writing this letter with my own free will and have not received and do not want one cent for it. I just want those who are suffering from rheumatism, lumbago, arthritis or gout to try one box as I have. You may use this letter in advertising this wonderful remedy.

In testimony whereof, witnessed my hand this 12th day of April, 1959.

I live at 3003 1/2 West Old Highway. Signed Mrs. E. Jackson Mary E. Jackson Sold at Collins Bros. Drug. Adv.

2 Dead, Damage Is High After Storms

By The Associated Press
Texas counted two dead and property damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars Monday as skies cleared slightly and flood waters dropped after cloudbursts over East Texas Saturday and Sunday.

Rains up to 12 inches turned sandy draws and sluggish creeks into raging torrents that smashed dams, piled up debris and ripped out roads and bridges.

Heaviest rain reported was in the Kilgore-Overton-Henderson area where water poured into boat houses and swamped boats in the Lake Cherokee area. The water washed out Sylvey Bridge and snapped an oil pipeline.

Cherokee Bayou poured five feet deep over Highway 149 and Highways 26 and 259 were closed when Rabbit Creek went out of its banks.

Rabbit Creek, a tributary of the Sabine River rose so quickly nine automobiles were trapped and had to be pulled to safety by a rescue unit.

An 18-month-old Negro girl, Elsie Jeanette Abrams, drowned when flood waters swept her parents' auto off a bridge southeast of Palestine. Her body was recovered Sunday.

Charles Beall, 74, died when a heart attack struck him as he tried to stop floodwaters from menacing his home Henderson.

Tornado warnings were issued by the U.S. Weather Bureau for sections of the Panhandle of Texas, western Oklahoma and most of Kansas, but the forecasts expired at 5 a.m. with no reports of major wind damage in the area.

Monday's forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and showers over most of the state through Tuesday—but nothing to compare with the weekend's violent weather.

Cregg County Sheriff Noble Crawford said rains of 11 and 12 inches were general in that East Texas section.

National Guardsmen were called out in Henderson to help evacuate a housing project when a dam burst at Lake Crest Park. A second dam, holding a lake of 15 to 20 acres was reported demolished about five miles southeast of Henderson.

Winds as high as 70 miles per hour knocked down trees and television antennas and damaged roofs of homes in Henderson.

Tornado funnels were sighted in various sections of the state, but there were no reports of damage from the twisters.

The Jacksonville area also lost a dam, when the barrier at the Pinecrest Lake, five miles east of Jacksonville, went out during a 6.9 inch rainfall. Street damage also was reported.

Mill Generous,
But Revolt Of Givers Grows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Writer

There is talk of a "givers' revolt" and evidence of a "welfare war." Yet Americans gave more last year to philanthropy than ever before, more than seven billion dollars.

This is almost twice as much as was contributed in 1950 and enough to keep philanthropy comfortably among the top 10 of the nation's biggest businesses.

What then about the rumored revolt of the givers? Statistically there is no evidence that Americans are tightening their purse-strings. Last year the nation's 100 Community Chests and United Funds raised almost 425 million dollars. Last year 40 of the big independent national health organizations and the Red Cross raised well over 200 million dollars.

There are, however, hints of trouble. The cause of the trouble is an old sore: too many organizations, too many appeals for funds, too many outstretched hands.

A community service organization in a suburban area surveyed residents on the charity-solicitation question. One rich man estimated he receives at least 150 appeals a year—by personal visit, telephone and mail. A middle-income, middle-class housewife rattled off names of 31 organizations which had asked her for funds within 12 months.

The welfare war has been in progress for several years between advocates of independent fund drives and proponents of the once-a-year, one-shot campaign.

Both sides have adherents. The independents, most of which have strong emotional appeals, believe they can raise more money and educate the public better with a campaign of their own.

Federated fund boosters argue that overlapping and multiple appeals harry contributors and tire volunteers.

In some places contributors are taking matters into their own hands. A couple of years ago, women in Gates Mills, Ohio, organized and collected money for a lot of health organizations. Then they offered the money to the agencies. One, the National Foundation, refused the money. The others took it, many reluctantly.

But the idea proved epidemic, spreading through the Cleveland area. Today, funds-raisers everywhere know "what happened in Cleveland," and many don't like it a bit.

Plagued by solicitations inside plants and offices, which had become so frequent they were disrupting production, labor and management teamed up in Los Angeles to form a contributors' organization. Donors may pick the philanthropies they choose to give to and the funds are forwarded.

When the contributors set themselves up in business and start telling philanthropy what they will do a revolutionary situation is in the making.

Strikers Wives Are Back Home

OKMULGEE, Okla. (AP) — Striker's wives, who maintained a five-day around-the-clock human blockade of an oil refinery here, are back home today with their housekeeping.

They gave up their unauthorized blockade at the strike-bound Phillips Petroleum Co. plant Saturday. Some weren't too happy.

"I just feel like we've lost something," said one of the women with tears in her eyes.

But according to another, the end came just in time.

"Now I can go home, clean house and get the dishes done," she said.

During the five days of their blockade, which kept oil trucks from entering the plant, the women had ignored "home" demands from their husbands and officials of the striking oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union.

They also ignored a court injunction against their impromptu blockade and five were called into court Sunday on contempt citations.

The charges were dropped when the women agreed to give up their stand. Ten minutes later trucks began rolling into the refinery.

The plant has been struck since February on a dispute between union and management over seniority issues.

Boy Dies After Hanging Attempt

NEW YORK (AP) — A 16-year-old boy who tried to hang himself in jail after being convicted of robbery lived for an hour after he was cut down—then he died.

Pedro Ortega used a twisted bedsheet, which he fastened to the door of his cell Saturday in the Brooklyn Adolescent Center. A guard spotted him and cut him down. He was revived with oxygen and artificial respiration. He put up a struggle, and was put in a strait jacket and given a sedative.

The autopsy report Sunday said the cause of death was strangulation. The medical examiner explained that although Ortega had been revived temporarily, the noose had done fatal damage.

A Devotional For Today

The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. (I Corinthians 2:14.)
PRAYER: We thank Thee, O Lord, for this precious gift, faith in Thee, which has come to us through Christ. Keep our vision clear of all false values, so that we may hold fast to this pearl of great price. For our blessed Redeemer's sake. Amen.

So Long, Mr. Yankus

Any citizen of the United States who gets sore at the government for not conducting its affairs the way he thinks they should be conducted, and in a peevish pull-out stakes and migrates somewhere else is free to go and stay, as far as we're concerned. We hope he finds happiness in his new surroundings, and we hope he never comes back and tries to reclaim his American citizenship.

In this case everybody seemed to be out of step but Jim So, to mix a metaphor, the small boy who didn't like the rules in a game of marbles picked up his law and went home.

You remember the case, Stanley Yankus, a farmer near Dowagiac, Mich., was allotted fifteen acres of wheat under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, but went ahead and planted thirty-five acres in defiance of the law. He was fined $5,072. His defense was that he used all his wheat surplus to feed his chickens.

Maybe it is, as Yankus seems to think, a darn-fun law; but tens of thousands of American farmers accepted it as a means of holding down a badly over-produced crop, and presumably abided by the rules and regulations laid down by Congress. Some who were caught trying to evade it were duly fined, and no doubt paid off however reluctantly. Yankus, describing himself as a sort of Paul Revere to notify the American people of the evils in federal farming regulations, sold off his holdings, including household effects, and announced he would move to Australia to get away from this "socialistic country." This was a sheer case of jumping out of the frying pan into the fire; Australia is one of the most thoroughly socialized nations on earth.

If he expected anybody to plead with him to reverse his decision he must have been disappointed; for the other day Yankus announced he would bundle up his family and — "for the children's sake" — depart for Adelaide and vicinity in "two or three weeks," where he hopes to find a temporary job and eventually locate a farm.

Well, so long, Mr. Yankus.

Cuba No Revolutionary Hub

A handful of soldiers of fortune, self-identified as Cubans, landed in Panama at a place called Nombre de Dios few days ago and announced they were going to overthrow the de la Huerta regime in the canal republic.

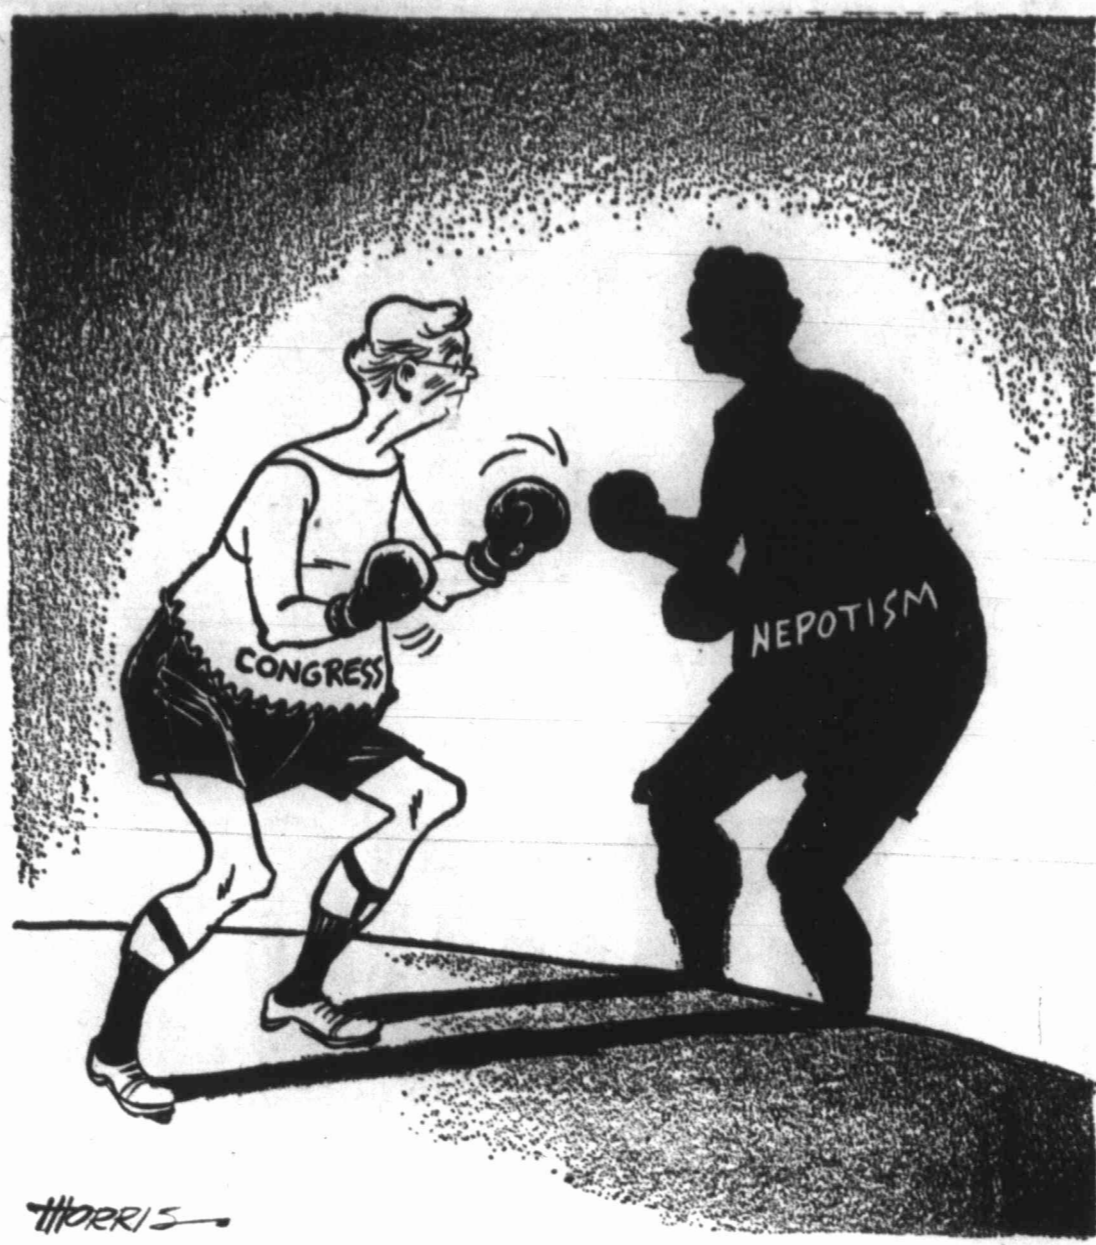

First and last the incident created quite a stir, but as of yesterday the "rebels" had given up and called it quits hoping they'd be forgiven and sent back to Cuba. Efforts to build the "invasion" into a big thing simply fizzled out when Fidel Castro and other Cuban spokesmen repudiated the imputation that his government had anything to do with the matter.

Even the Organization of American States displayed some interest, however, and the U. S. kept a weather eye on the goings-on. Our government could hardly be expected to stand idly by and let a "foreign invasion" of the republic that plays host to the Panama Canal get very far.

Yet it is obvious that after Fidel Castro's shoe-string conquest of Cuba, coupled with some of that young man's own remarks about further swipes at some other Latin American dictatorships, with special reference to Haiti and the Dominican Republic, there has been an air of expectancy in revolutionary circles in that area.

Internal upheavals are one thing, foreign invasions another; it isn't likely the OAS to say nothing of Uncle Sam, would look the other way if such passes at member nations should become fashionable.

Perhaps such ambitions are a natural outgrowth of Castro's own successful invasion, but it is hardly likely Cuba will become the center of intrigue involving expeditionary forces to other republics. Castro will have his hands full making his own revolution stick, and in giving Cuba a stable, economically sound government of its own.

No All-Out War For The Moment

WASHINGTON (AP) — What is the likelihood of war with the Communist world any time soon? And where, since communism is dedicated to conquering the earth, will the Soviets and Red Chinese do their pushing?

The State Department has provided careful answers to both questions. It doesn't rule out some shooting on a limited scale, if the Communists think it worth the price and the danger.

But the department says: For the foreseeable future it is likely the Soviets and Red Chinese will avoid all-out war and try to push their programs by political, economic and psychological means.

The State Department gave written answers to a series of questions from the Senate's Disarmament subcommittee.

Although the department is optimistic about avoiding a world war, it said enough to show it expects this country to have its hands full trying to cope with the Red bloc for years to come.

One thing the department made clear: It is satisfied that Premier Nikita Khrushchev, having eliminated his rivals, is undisputed boss of the Soviet Union and that therefore the political situation there should be stable for years.

It is ironic that just a few days before the May 11 meeting at Geneva—between the Western and Soviet foreign ministers to talk about troubles in Europe—the department should be anticipating no end of trouble from the Communist bloc around the world.

This is the picture. So long as the West remains as well armed as the Soviets — and therefore could make all-out war unendurable — there isn't likely to be a general war.

But the Soviets' main thrust will probably continue to be in the under-developed countries, with main emphasis on the Middle East, where anti-Western feeling and native Communist help gives the Soviets hope for takeover.

Latin America and particularly the newly emerging countries of Africa will probably become increasingly important targets of Moscow's political-economic offensive.

The department added: "In Europe the basic Soviet objective is consolidation of Moscow's control in Eastern Europe and reduction of Western military strength, particularly that of the United States."

"Soviet policies there for the foreseeable future will thus be aimed at tightening Moscow's grip on what it has and depriving the west of its advantage there rather than at direct Soviet expansion, although they will also seek to force the West from its position in Berlin."

As for the Red Chinese: For the immediate future the most likely form of Chinese Communist expansion is continued effort to increase political and economic influence, especially in Southeast Asia through trade, subversion and political pressure.

The department seems less hopeful that the Red Chinese will refrain from shooting. It said: "An attack could of course take place anywhere along the perimeter of Communist-controlled territory in Asia."

Threat Gets Results

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—When it was learned a club was hidden in a cell block of the county jail, prisoners were advised that unless the weapon was turned in, there would be no evening television permitted.

Five wooden clubs and three hacksaw blades were turned in.

Had Spines

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A group of 10-year-old Norfolk girls were guests of Iris Rountree on her father's dairy farm. One found a cockle burr.

"Oh lookie," she cried, "a porcupine egg."

High Enlistment

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP)—When Marine S.Sgt. James R. Davis Jr., 28, reenlisted in the Marine Corps he did it on the fly. He was on a Marine RAQ "Flying boxcar" trip from Cherry Point, N. C., when the time came, so he repeated the enlistment oath 3,000 feet above Camp Pendleton. He first enlisted in 1948.

Justice In Hotrod

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—When a garage mechanic discovered that Samuel R. Searing's station wagon was "souped up" and capable of 120 m.p.h. speeds, it came as quite a surprise to Searing.

He's a police justice, and said: "That's well over twice as fast as I'd ever care to drive."

Around The Rim

Some Infallible (?) Weather Signs

How times do change.

When I was graduating from knee pants, every old timer worth his salt knew the signs by which to forecast the weather, whether it was for the following day or the next year.

Now, it takes a guy with a degree, an arm full of weather maps and a balloon full of helium, not to mention a two-way radio set with which he can talk to Duluth and Damascus to read the weather signs.

The greybeards in my day didn't resort to such fol-de-rol. In the first place, no equipment was to be had and, in the second place, use of such would have been a sacrilege of sorts, bordering on voodoo.

True, they missed their forecasts every now and then but, after all, the baseball greats rarely hit .400 and Red Grange never ran for a touchdown everytime he grabbed the football. The fact that the patriarchs did call the shots wrong once in a while only proved that they were human.

When I was a stripling, our community had one or two old heads who were better authorities than the others and more than once they got quoted in the papers because of that wisdom.

Those shrewd individuals would come to their conclusions about the changes in the weather after studying the actions of the animals in the field, the fish in the pond or the behavior of insects on the bark of trees.

If rabbits fled from open fields into the thicket, that often meant a storm was brewing. The same held true if the birds stopped singing and started a nervous chirp. Another telltale sign was the bark of a fox or some other night animal.

If birds flew low or snakes shed their skins or bees remained close to their hives, that meant the rains were on their way. To others, however, that was a sure sign that an early winter could be expected.

Cats sleeping peacefully, stretched out full length, or the fact that spiders spun unusually large webs often was a tipoff that fair and pleasant weather was in the offing.

Of course, everyone kept an eye on the migration of birds. If the ducks and geese were late in coming over, that was a sure sign that a mild winter was upcoming. However, the sight of one crow winging his way to a secret rendezvous could upset the prognostications in a hurry.

One old timer I knew would always start airing his heavy coat and buy a spare pair of winter underwear if the fish in the ponds started swimming near the bottom, rather than close to the top of the water, as the fall months came on. He said he learned from his Indian friends that such a sign meant a cold winter.

Onions, whether they had thick or thin skins, often told the weather forecasters a great deal about the elements that could be expected from November to March. If the onion skins were very thin, there was nothing to fear from the winter winds. If the skins were thick, however, the old men insisted, everyone would be wise to chop an extra supply of wood for the pot-bellied stoves.

Of course, many believe today that animals have built-in barometers, which enable them to tell the upcoming changes in the weather.

The trouble is, not many of us take the trouble to study them. It's much easier to turn on the radio or TV or read the weather forecast in the paper.

Denunciation From A Congressman

When I was a child I dreamed the usual childish dreams of future glory and triumph. Every train whistle echoing through the Boise Valley carried me to some great world capital to star as the heir to Pavlova, Mme. Curie, Sarah Bernhardt and to curtsy to the queen.

But never in my wildest flights of fancy did I dare envision success in spades. My ambitions were too modest to imagine myself the center and subject of a lengthy discussion in the august House of Representatives of the United States Congress.

However, such heady success is mine. The laurel crowns my brow. I have been roundly denounced by Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.). Rep. Hoffman, one of Congress's most articulate practitioners and champions of nepotism, singled me out in particular during a recent and general castigation of the press.

Michigan's representative had no harsh words for either Congressional nepotism or Congressional extravagance. The angry words were all reserved for the United States press for dastardly to uncover and write about both.

In particular, Mr. Hoffman is hurt, hurt, hurt because of two columns in which I pointed, enviously, to all the lovely perquisites and costly lagniappe that go hand-in-hand with membership in the House and Senate. The lady enjoys more fringe benefits than a three-seated scurry with tax advantages to match.

Mr. Hoffman is very sensitive, according to the Congressional Record, because I truthfully wrote that "American Congressmen are among the most highly paid and lightly taxed executives in the country." They planned it thataway.

Sensitivity in a Congressman is lovely to behold, particularly in a congressman who does not shrink from permitting the taxpayers (you and me, honey) to support two of his in-laws, Mrs. Florence H. Hoffman, a daughter-in-law, and Mrs. Sherrie Hoffman, a granddaughter-in-law. Both labor in Mr. Hoffman's congressional vineyard at annual salaries of $4,800.85 each, paid not by the congressman but by Uncle Sam.

Mr. Hoffman cries out piteously against the press, and me in particular, because we do not tell the truth about Congressional pay as he sees it. But Mr. Hoffman is guilty of some glaring inaccuracies that a minute's conversation with any member of the congressional press gallery would have corrected.

"She sits up there," he said, gesturing to the House press gallery where I have never worked, "and pounds a government typewriter; lolis back in a comfortable chair, has a cigarette tray handy."

Well, sir, aside from the fact that I live in New York and own my own typewriters, never have been guilty of "lolling" and have never even smoked one cigarette in my life, the congressman is absolutely correct.

My mother was a strong-minded lady, a convent graduate who did not believe that a lady either "lollied" or smoked. To this day, neither of her daughters would dare do either, for fear of instant and massive retaliation! I just want to set the record straight, for even Heaven would be ruined for Mama if she thought either of her daughters "lollied" or touched the horrid weed.

I do not have the pleasure of knowing Rep. Hoffman. But since he continuously referred to me as "Inez" throughout his denunciation, I feel we should be on a first-name basis. Hereafter, in my thoughts I shall always cherish him as Clare de Lune.

Arithmetic Will Change Stock Market

What can possibly put this stock market down?

Business is good. The U. S. buoyantly bows its way into the golden 'sixties. Corporation profits are rising. Dividends are increasing. Stocks are being split. On top of all that, there's long-term wage-price-cost inflation. The risks are all on the side of not buying stocks.

So what's to put stocks down? How often I've heard that question! How often I've failed to answer. Yet, there is an answer. Rich men will put the market down—rich men with the help of arithmetic.

Americans have not all lost a sense of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and alas, taxes. But whether arithmetic will catch up with Wall Street next month, next year, or three years hence, I don't know. And so when people ask, How can the market possibly go down? I answer with a knowing click of the tongue. Translated that means, "some day."

A well-to-do man recently walked into a bank. He had a problem. Some years back, he sold his company for a million dollars' worth of stock in another company. He held on to the stock. The company grew. Today he's a millionaire four times over—on paper. But he doesn't live like a millionaire.

The stock he owns pay only 1 1/2 per cent on its market value, or about $60,000 a year. It's a "growth" company—high price, low yield. He has some other resources which boost his income to about $70,000. He's in the 65 per cent tax bracket. After taxes, his net is about $37,000 a year.

He manages all right—I'm not passing a plate for him. But he can't swish around in the manner expected of a multimillionaire.

Nor is his income likely to rise greatly. The company plows too much of its earnings back into the business. That's why it is a growth company. And when the stock increases in market value, this doesn't help him. It merely builds up a bigger inheritance tax for his heirs. So, he does some arithmetic.

His original stake was $400,000. Suppose he sold off 50 per cent of his stock—

$2,000,000. He'd have to pay a capital gains tax of 25 per cent on about $1,800,000. He'd have $450,000 less in capital. Still, he'd have $1,350,000 left after the sale of half his shares.

He can invest that $1,350,000 in high-grade municipal bonds at 3 per cent. His income from them would be $40,500 a year—tax free. So he reduces taxable income from $70,000 to $40,000, and his tax from about $33,000 to $14,500. His spendable income becomes $72,000 instead of $37,000.

He has $1,550,000 in tax-exempt municipals as a hedge against a stock market decline and he has $2,000,000 in growth stock as a hedge against inflation. He has cut his exposure to Wall Street in half and nearly doubled his income. Thus, the investor wasn't "locked in" his stock by the tax he'd have to pay on his profit. He is better off, financially, paying the tax and putting the proceeds in "tax-frees."

Now this is the question: As stocks rise will more and more well-to-do persons take out their pencils, do some arithmetic, and shift from stocks to bonds in spite of the taxes they'll have to pay on profits.

Every time stocks rise and bonds fall and vice versa, the arithmetic of stocks versus bonds changes.

The principal investment officer of a university endowment fund recently told me that no new money, whether it comes from dividends or contributions, is going into stocks. For the time being, this investment trustee prefers bonds.

The trust department of a large bank recently decided that 60 per cent in stocks is enough. If the stock market rises and pushes stock holdings in its investment accounts above 60 per cent, it cuts back on stocks and increases the amount in bonds.

The Insurance Co. of North America, traditionally a consistent purchaser of common stocks, has been a sparing buyer for several years. When Treasury bonds pay 4 per cent and common stocks about 3 per cent, and income-minded investors become conscious of Wall Street's crucial but simple arithmetic.

But when . . . ?

Soviets' Real Intentions Unknown

PARIS — The big theme of the meeting here of the four Western foreign ministers turns out to be not so much what to negotiate as how to negotiate with the Soviets at Geneva.

It might be surprising to many people to learn that tactics mean almost as much as does the nature of the proposals themselves. Thus, in the last twenty-four hours, the foreign ministers' group here took considerable pains to answer questions propounded by the reporters, who already want to know what the "fall back" positions would be in the event of Soviet rejection of initial propositions. The assumption had been growing that the so-called "package plan" of the West is to be offered only as a basis for future retreats and compromises by the West. The official spokesmen here insisted that this is not true and that the Western Allies are standing on firm ground and will continue to present a solid front on basic principles in their dealings with the Communists.

As a practical matter, however, the big question is just what are the Soviets' intentions? Do they mean to carry through their threats about Berlin? Do they want to risk war over this issue? Do they really want to negotiate at all? Naturally, the Western Allies must come to some conclusions on these very points, and their fundamental thesis now is that the Soviets do not want war, although the Communist envoys might bluff their way through the negotiations with that question lingering unanswered in the background.

It appears very difficult for the four governments of the West to have a conference without divulging through the press what they have in mind. Yet in Moscow nobody tells the press or the Western diplomats there what the Soviet delegates will say when they get to Geneva or what positions they are prepared to insist upon or give up.

Under the circumstances, all the four foreign ministers here could do was to write up a "working paper" and agree that it is a good starting point. Chancellor Adenauer, who is something of a realist, has been displeased with all the outpouring of publicity from the West lately indicating the various positions the Western Allies might take. It has been explained to him by American diplomats that part of this is due to a desire to placate public opinion in the West, which, recently at least, has been led to believe that it is the West that is "inflexible," while the Soviets are "flexible."

Undoubtedly this sort of thing handicaps the Western negotiators. Too many politicians on the Western side who want to get their names in the newspapers seem to think they must continually offer their advice in public on how these all-important negotiations should be carried on. Actually, this needling from behind the lines does not help the men in positions of responsibility. It would be a happy day for the West if some of those same politicians in Congress or in the parliaments of Western Europe would stop imagining themselves vested with the mission of conducting foreign relations—hitherto regarded as an executive responsibility in each government.

So far as the peoples of the West are concerned, they certainly do not want war. But it is questionable whether war is best prevented by weakening the public position of the men who have the responsibility for doing the actual negotiating. The Soviets are watching carefully to see how strong the Western Alliance will prove to be when the chips are down. They suspect that maybe there are fundamental differences between America and Britain or between West Germany and the other Allies. It may be said with emphasis that the objectives of all the Western governments are the same, but naturally their diplomats differ on what techniques shall be employed to attain those objectives.

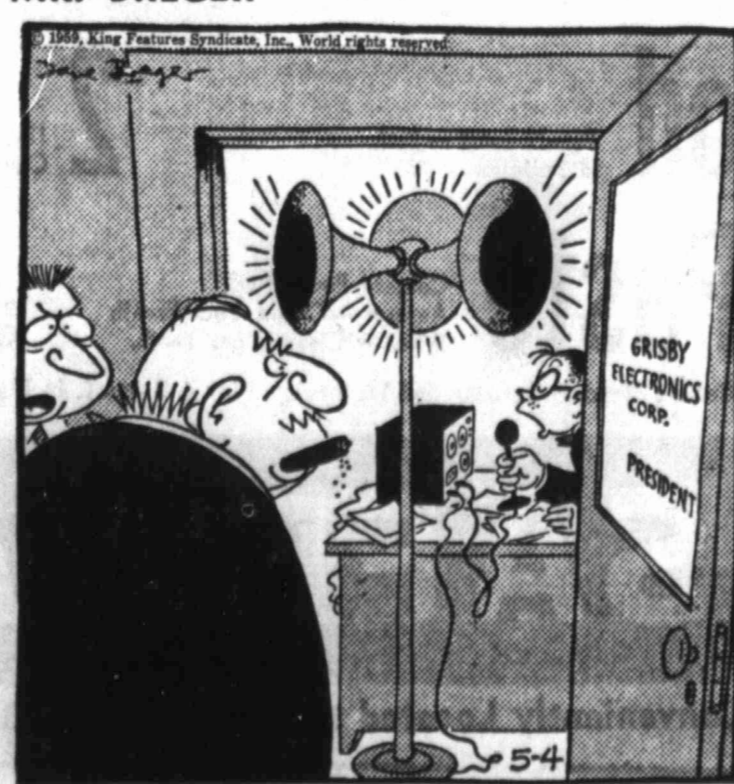

Curiously enough, the lessons of Munich are often mentioned as a warning against appeasement. The four foreign ministers here gave a lot of their time last week to a discussion of the effects on public opinion of any hints of new proposals or deviations from the "package plan." It is obvious that there is a readiness on the part of the Western representatives to negotiate seriously on all pending questions. It is most important for Moscow to understand that any "concessions" must be balanced by counterconcessions from the Soviet government which will in themselves assure the free world that there is a chance of a peaceful solution of all other questions, even though they are not finally resolved at Geneva this month.

To avoid the disappointment or even alarm that might sweep the world if a "summit" conference held in the late summer or early autumn in Geneva should fail to reach any important conclusions, there is much interest now in a British suggestion that a series of "summit" conferences be scheduled to take place, possibly one every six months.

In America, there is a television program called "Keep Talking," and a prize is given at the end of each contest in conversational endurance. So here, too, the idea seems to be that the West and the East might agree to keep talking in the hope that maybe out of each diplomatic conference will come some rewarding result—either a solution or, at least, an agreement not to go to war in the foreseeable future. This formula could gain support, provided the Communists, by their cold war tactics and the aggressions they instigate intermittently in different parts of the world, do not themselves suddenly bring on the war crisis nobody wants.

Soviet Agents Hustle Victim Off To Russia

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A Soviet military attaché who apparently had tried to escape by leaping from a hospital window was flown out of Rangoon on a Communist plane Sunday.

A screen of 40 hefty guards from the Soviet Embassy roughed up newsmen and prevented them from questioning him.

Hospital sources said the attaché was Col. Mikhail I. Stryguine, who apparently wanted to get political asylum in Burma. The embassy neither confirmed nor denied published reports of his identity.

The slightly built, haggard looking man was brought to the airport in a Soviet Embassy car minutes before a Chinese Communist transport plane took off for Kunming and Peiping. He was hustled aboard with such haste most of his personal baggage was left behind.

A weeping woman identified as his wife, a Soviet nurse and two guards accompanied him.

Hospital sources said Stryguine was brought to the hospital a week ago suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills. It was reported he had tried to commit suicide when told he must return to the Soviet Union. His wife and two Soviets sat with him all night, the woman weeping almost continuously.

WANTED PROTECTION
The next day, upon recovering, Stryguine shouted invectives in English against the Soviet regime and his associates at the embassy. He asked that Burmese officials, particularly the director of military intelligence, Lt. Col. Win, be summoned. Apparently he wanted to ask their protection.

The two Soviets then demanded that he return to the embassy and tried to remove him when he refused. He broke away and threw himself through a first-floor window in what one witness said was "a leap for life."

He was brought back, given a sedative and bundled into a car by the Soviets, who drove off.

Newsmen learned Friday that the Soviet Embassy had taken out exit permits for Stryguine and his wife, and that they would leave Sunday for Moscow, via Peiping.

The newsmen waited at the airport all night. Three hours before the plane's departure, members of the Soviet Embassy staff began to arrive. By plane time 40 of them were on hand. They kept a close watch on the newsmen.

Ten minutes before takeoff time, a car carrying Soviet Ambassador Alexi D. Shibern and the Stryguines drew up. As Stryguine stepped out, a newsmen called out:

"Colonel, have you anything to say to the press?"

Before he could say a word, a wedge of three Soviets rushed the reporter and threw him several feet. Guards shoved and pushed other newsmen aside and seized the cameras of two photographers.

Looking bewildered, Stryguine was almost lifted from the ground by two Soviets, who rushed him inside the customs room and locked the door. Shortly after he was escorted to the plane, his wife trailing behind.

'Record' Bits An Old Custom

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you have ever wondered why poems, recipes, sermons and high school essays are printed as part of the Congressional Record you have company in Congress.

Rep. Paul C. Jones (D-Mo) also wonders. In fact, he has put out feelers for support of some relatively modest curbs on the amount of non-legislative material included in the official record of Congress' doings.

Jones made a one-minute speech inviting colleagues to think about the problem. He said he might propose rule changes later. Jones is up against time-hallowed custom that unanimous consent is always given a member who wants to "revise and extend my remarks, and include extraneous matter."

True, the rules say the material must have a connection with legislative business. But, as Jones noted in an interview, each member is his own judge on that.

There is, in theory, another limitation. Each insertion is limited to two pages, except by special permission. In practice, a member with more expansive ideas to commit to print gets an estimate — at $81 a page — from the public printer. The member then asks for unanimous consent to revise and extend "notwithstanding cost estimated at..."

"I've never heard anybody to object," Jones said. His idea is simply to prescribe a quota for each member, a number of pages per session that would not hamper the average member, but would require heavy or habitual revisers and extenders to be more selective.

"In one recent Congress," Jones said, carefully avoiding names, "some 40 members inserted nothing at all. One member inserted 200 items."

Why do members fill up the appendix of the Record?

"Well, some of the new members apparently have been advised it's good to have material in there," Jones said. "suppose, for example, you put in editorials on both sides of a question. Then, later on, if you're challenged, you could point to one of these. You could even get reprints and mail them out."

College Concert Pleasing Event

National Music Week was launched in a pleasing way in Big Spring. Sunday, at 4 p.m. in H.C.J.C. Auditorium, the college chorus and other students were presented in a musicale which reflected the teaching abilities of the music department's faculty.

sure on the keys, and the softer passages of the Liszt work, as interpreted by Miss Phillely, showed evidence of strong feeling.

The first portion of the program featured religious songs by the chorus, conducted by Ira Schantz, vocal instructor.

There are a goodly number of pianists whose technical accomplishments on the keyboard are worthy of note, but it is a rare one indeed who can translate a suppressed volcano of emotion through the fingers and into the kind of music that causes a critic momentarily to forget where he is.

"The Last Words of David" was the kind of song only a big chorus would attempt, but Schantz's singers did exceedingly well.

Music Week events will continue tonight at 8 p.m. with a piano concert by Bill Evans, NTSC music major, with Hendrix on second piano.

Avanel Greenwood, piano student, opened the second portion of the program with Chopin's Prelude in D-flat, Op. 28, No. 15. She was followed by Patsy Potter, soprano; Ronnie Phillips, tenor; and Hubert Murphy, baritone.

Phillips' enunciation was good, even on the one Italian number. His voice had a bit of substance, with the right amount of quaver. He had no timidity and a good tone sense.

It was obvious that Schantz's choral students were not afraid to make themselves heard. Their 19 voices sounded like a much larger number.

Staged under simulated combat conditions, the exercise stressed the importance of preparing missiles for firing and establishing contact with the target by using tracking radar, as well as the actual firing of the missiles.

Miss Phillely was the star of the show, and a most pleasant surprise, as this critic had not yet had the pleasure of having heard her play.

In fact, it is obvious that, with a few more years of work, Miss Phillely could make a profession of music.

Her tiny fingers were light and

Crude Flow Rise Seen

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A steady rise in U.S. crude oil production was forecast today by the supply and demand committee of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America.

The forecast, made at the association convention here, tied the brighter outlook to a recovery in economic activity "somewhat more rapid" than had been expected.

The report estimated, daily crude production will reach 7,335,000 barrels a day, an increase of 625,000 barrels over the 1958 output.

Production will increase to 7,680,000 barrels a day in the first quarter of 1960, said the committee. This would top the 7,612,000 barrels a day in the first quarter of 1957, when U.S. production was stepped up to meet European shortages during the Suez crisis.

Domestic and export demand in 1959 is expected to average 9,786,000 barrels a day—an increase of 445,000 barrels daily over 1958.

The committee said export demands will decline to an average of 254,000 barrels, but domestic demands would increase 487,000 barrels a day or 5.1 per cent over 1958.

A major factor in the higher rate of U.S. production is stabilization of oil imports, said the committee.

In addition to the crude oil production, the committee estimated that output of natural gas liquids this year would average 839,000 barrels daily.

U.S. Matador Described As Gravely Hurt

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Brooklyn bullfighter Sidney Franklin was described by a doctor today as gravely wounded. A dying bull gored Franklin, 55, twice yesterday in the Plaza Monumental ring.

Dr. Rodriguez Miranda, who operated on Franklin at the Clinica del Perpetuo Socorro, said the matador suffered broken veins and extensive internal bleeding after the bull's left horn penetrated 12 inches into Franklin's groin and ripped through the muscles in his shoulder.

Franklin was caught by the bull as he moved in to retrieve his sword after delivering the death stroke. It was his second bull of the day.

He attempted to walk from the ring, but collapsed in the arms of attendants and was carried out. Dr. Jesus Castillo, ring physician, ordered him taken to the clinic.

Baron Clements Jr., a protege of Franklin who also appeared here yesterday, said he will contact the bullfighters union today and attempt to have Franklin moved to Mexico City for treatment by specialists.

It was the second wound suffered by Franklin, who was making his first appearance in Mexico since 1951. A similar incident in Spain forced Franklin to retire from the ring for over a year.

Franklin disposed of the first bull and was given one ear. Clements, of Kilgore, finished both his bulls after being tossed by the first one. He won the approval of the crowd, including a large group of Texans, by rolling away from the bull and coming back for the kill.

A third matador, Pepe Luis Vasquez of Mexico, killed both his bulls and won three ears in approval his sedilla style of fighting — a more flamboyant method than the classical romeno used by Franklin and Clements.

Air Instructors Killed In Crash. EUSTIS, Fla. (AP) — Two Air Force ROTC instructors from Oklahoma died Sunday when their T33 jet trainer crashed and exploded near Lake Johanna two miles from Eustis.

Hurling pieces of wreckage from the two-place craft smashed into two homes in the Lakeshore housing development as children dashed for safety.

McCoy Air Force Base at Orlando identified the dead men as Maj. Jack L. Sutton and Capt. Willis L. Sutton, members of the ROTC detachment at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater.

The plane, based at Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma City, Okla., was en route from McCoy AFB to Maxwell Field at Montgomery, Ala.

East Texas Roads Closed By Rain. AUSTIN (AP) — Several highways in East Texas were closed because of the heavy rains, the Highway Department said today.

These were closed: State 259 from Kilgore to U.S. 80; State 322 Henderson to Longview; Farm 225 from Henderson to Laneville; Farm 2064 from Jacksonville to Troup; and several small farm and ranch roads, which were closed temporarily from local wash outs.

18 Die Violently Over Weekend

At least 18 persons died violently in Texas over the weekend. One of the latest fatalities reported in the count from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday was an unusual accident at a San Antonio chemical plant.

Tomas Manta, 35, died instantly when he fell into a paper compressing machine of which he was operator. Other workmen said he was crushed by the machine.

Drownings totaled 6 traffic and miscellaneous 6.

Panamanian Panic Has Simmered Down

By JACK RUTLEDGE PANAMA (AP) — The Panama panic involving a wealthy aristocrat, a famous ballerina, a nightclub owner and a boatload of Cubans desperately trying to make like Fidel Castro seems to have simmered down.

The Cuban invaders surrendered last weekend, ending the immediate threat to President Ernesto de la Guardia's government. The peace team from the Organization of American States announced Sunday night that the threat to Panama was over.

De la Guardia, elected for a four-year term in 1956, is still fairly popular with the people. But some members of his administration are not, and there is discontent and talk of a change.

Talk turned to action several weeks ago when some dissident students visited Cuba and asked for help from some of Castro's veterans.

There were reports that wealthy Roberto Arias, who comes from a family of presidents, was financing some sort of uprising.

Arius' wife is British Dame Margot Fordeyn, one of the most famous ballet dancers west of Moscow. The government raked up a witness who said she took pictures while Arias and some men raised some arms caged in a rowboat at the bottom of the Gulf of Panama. Arias eluded government forces, and finally took refuge in the Brazilian Embassy. The frustrated government meanwhile arrested Dame Margot and shipped her out of the country.

Then a band of Cubans landed at an unlikely place called the San Blas Peninsula of Panama's tropical Caribbean coast. Inspired with the idea of liberating yet another country after winning their own civil war, these young Cubans took over the headlines and hardly anything else.

Dodged by misfortune, the invaders landed at the wrong place. Three members of the party were drowned in the landing, among them the Panamanian who were supposed to lead them. Cesar Vega, a Cuban night club owner with a record of unsuccessful revolutionary activity, was left in charge of 89 invaders, almost all Cubans.

Vega, who is in his late 30s, said the invaders expected the people of Panama would stage strikes and demonstrations and rush to volunteer for the revolution. None of these things happened.

MEN IN SERVICE

Pvt. Kirby Reed, son of Mrs. Maggie Reed of Lamesa, recently completed an eight-week basic administration course at Ft. Ord, Calif.

Reed received training in typing, record keeping and Army clerical procedures. He has been in service since December of last year and took basic infantry training at Ft. Carson, Colo.

Pfc. Garth Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Gregory of Colorado City, recently participated with the 43rd Artillery at Red Canyon Missile Range in New Mexico in firing the Nike-Ajax guided missiles.

Staged under simulated combat conditions, the exercise stressed the importance of preparing missiles for firing and establishing contact with the target by using tracking radar, as well as the actual firing of the missiles.

Gregory is regularly assigned as a missile launcher crewman in Battery A of the artillery unit at Fairchild AFB, Wash. He has been in the Army since March of 1958.

Tomatoes Move

MALLEN, Tex. (AP) — Light movement of tomatoes from the lower Rio Grande Valley has started but no prices were established last week. The Valley crop is about three weeks late.

Cuban invaders surrender to OAS without firing a shot. The invasion leader Cesar Vega climbs aboard the landing craft which took the men from Nombre de Dios back to Panama.

INSTRUCTION

LEARN THE BARBER PROFESSION G.I. APPROVED Lubbock Barber College is the cheapest way to a good profession since the full six months course costs only $200. Upon completion of the state approved course, anyone over sixteen and one-half years of age is eligible to take the examination for a state license. Since the student is in school only seven hours per day, some work after school hours will pay the expenses. The school is G.I. approved and has dormitory facilities.

Bill Evans Piano Concert Scheduled At HCJC Tonight

One of Big Spring's better talents will return tonight for a concert in conjunction with National Music Week.

Sponsored by the Music Study Club, Evans will appear at 8 p.m. in HCJC Auditorium. Jack Hendrix, college music department chief, will accompany the pianist in the orchestral part of the program.

Evans, 20, started out his musical training like most other American youngsters — the family had a piano available, and it wasn't long before he was taking lessons. His music and accomplishments since that time are a matter of record:

Big Spring High School honor student and graduate, 1957; drum major both Junior and Senior High bands; first chair clarinet in the BSHS band; All-State Band in Dallas; piano soloist with the BSHS band in spring concerts; total of 14 medals in high school, including the Arion Award; national winner for seven consecutive years in NGPT auditions; 1957 winner of the NGPT high school diploma; alternate winner in 1957 of Young Soloist competition sponsored by the Amarillo Symphony; 1958 winner of Young Artist and Young Soloist competitions in Amarillo, the first double winner in history; soloist in 1958 in the Beethoven "Concerto No. III" with the Amarillo Symphony.

Evans began his early study with Mrs. Nell Frazier, then at her request was accepted as a special student by Hendrix, in 1955. He is now a first semester junior at North Texas State College in the class of Stefan Bardas, resident pianist.

Space Jockeys Might Outgun The Gunslingers

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can the space jockeys shoot down the gunslingers?

Paramount TV boss Jim Schulke thinks so. He is masterminding the film company's break into the TV filming business with a new show called Destination Space. It's Schulke's opinion that the next big cycle in home-screen entertainment will be space exploration.

Apparently CBS shares his faith. The network is backing the series and scheduling it Tuesday nights. The opposition: Laramie on NBC and Bronco-Sugarfoot on ABC. So Americans will have a clear-cut decision to make on whether they like their spaces wide open — or outer.

Destination Space is in good hands. The actors include John Agar and Cecil Kellaway, Director of the pilot was Joseph Pevney ("Away All Boats," "Tammy and The Bachelor," "Torpedo Run"). The coproducer and writer is Rip Van Ronkel, writer of the excellent film, "Destination Moon."

"When we did the picture," he recalled, "the events were said to be at least 25 years off. That was nine years ago, and today the seven men who will make the first flight into space have been named."

Keeping up with the latest developments is his problem, for the series is aiming at authenticity. The space agencies have helped him. "But I don't want to see any classified material," he said. "What they have in planning is more fantastic than anything I can dream."

Getting plots is the main problem, he added. "We're getting good stories, and good characters too," Van Ronkel said. "The spaceman is a new type — not the hotshot pilot at all. He's a solid engineer."
