Twining Cancer Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cancer was found in the exploratory operation on Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, it was announced today. Surgeons removed the upper lobe of Twining's left lung in an operation Tuesday.

A bulletin issued at the Pentagor, today said cancer was found and added

"The entire diseased portion of the lung was removed at surgery and there was no evidence of involvement in other areas of the

The 61-year-old air officer underwent the surgery at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Brig. Gen. James H. Forsee, acting commandant of the Army hospital, informed the Defense Department that Twining should be able to leave the hospital with in three or four weeks and should be able to return to his duties in about two weeks after he is dismissed from the hospital.

Twining has served two years as head of the top military planning board and was recently nominated by President Eisenhower for a second two-year term.

Siberia's Safety Insured

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Two scientists disclosed today they are shock waves from breaking windows and causing other damage in Soviet Siberia when they use hig nuclear bombs to create a new harbor in Alaska.

As planned by the U.S. government, five nuclear bombs will be set off, probably in 1961, to excavate a harbor in Kotzebue Sound, on the northwestern Alaska coast.

The site is only about 200 miles from Siberia. The researchers said they had learned that under certain conditions shock waves miles away with damaging effect.

Blast waves from the bombs ride on air-ducting layers, said J. W. Reed and H. W. Church of the Sandia Corp. They addressed the second Plowshare Symposium on Industrial and Scientific Uses of Nuclear Explosions. The symposium is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory. The Sandia Corp. is a privately owned organization which makes nuclear weapons for the government, operating at Los Alamos and Albuquerque, N.M., and at Livermore,

It was these air-ducting layers that caused shock waves from the Nevada atom bomb tests to leap frog over the immediately surrounding area and come down 70 miles or more away on Las Vegas and other inhabited places with window-busting effect, Reed and Church said. There are three air-ducting layers, they added. One is about 6,000 feet up, another at around teachers. The teachers have been Leo Hull's place, four miles north- his place, there was extremely 35,000 feet, and a third at 100,000 to 150,000 feet.

searchers said. If it is found that excessive shock pressures will be carried to Siberia during certain periods the nuclear firing will be delayed until the duct pattern shifts.

Eisenhower caught the Democrats by surprise Wednesday with a special message outlining the damage to the economy that may result in these three politically potent fields if Congress dawdles.

There seemed little doubt that Democrats will answer the President's request for emergency action with passage of a series of bills calling for government spending far beyond the limits Eisenhower has said he is willing

Because he emphasized the critical nature of the problems, Democrats think the President has put himself in a position where he may find it difficult to veto such measures.

James Hamm, editor of the Toreador, said the declaration was made Tuesday. The effigy incident occurred Saturday. Hamm said the Toreador would not print a story or picture. He said this was not because of the statement by Dr. E. N. Jones, the president Instead, Hamm said, there is a possibility the effigy was hung to manufacture news-that someone on the staff of the Toreador may have promoted the sunt thereby making the story questionable. Jones was not immediately available for comment. Hamm said Jones made the statement to him in the presence of Tommy Smith, editor-elect of the Toreador. The editor said Jones also said he would put the newspaper under what Hamm called "censorship" if the story and picture were pub-

The effigy remained up only about 30 minutes Saturday. The name "Jones" was on it. Indications were that the incident stemmed from two panty raids at the college recently and the establishment of a faculty committee to investigate.

W. D. Watkins of Abilene, head of the Tech board of trustees, said he would delay comment until he had an opportunity for further investigation. He was out of the city when the incidents occurred.

Experts Deny Many Delinquency Ideas

Editors Note: — What is a delinquent act? It all depends on who does it, when and why, says a group of experts who have just finished a ninemonth study of juvenile delinquency. This is the last of three articles. By G. K. HODENFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP) - Juvenile delinquency is a thing of time, place and circumstance. The childish prank of a 5-yearold may be hooliganism in a teen-

Foul language is shocking in a classroom, but passes unnoticed in a street corner gang. To steal for kicks is outright crime, to steal because you're hungry and don't know where your next meal is coming from is crime tempered by the instinct to survive.

Even adults can't always make up their minds about what's right and what's wrong. Some communities permit bingo games, others rule them illegal. Some churches consider bingo immoral, others use it as a source of income for charitable work.

A panel of six experts, who have just concluded a nine-month study of juvenile delinquency for the National Education Assn., says a delinquent act can only be judged in relation to the forces that caused it. The specialists represent the fields of cultural anthropology, pediatrics, psychiatry, psychology, criminology and Truancy, or skipping school, is But what is it?

It may be the healthy rebellion of a normal adolescent who only rarely breaks the rules. It may fect. be conformance to the standards of a gang that hates school. It may be a brief emotional recess from a confining and unfriendly classroom. It may be a serious conflict with overly demanding parents who are pressuring a child to succeed. And it may be a symptom of a child's inability to cope with the realities of his daily life. There's a big difference in the way adults and youngsters look at things. To "e average adult, a misbehaving ceen-ager may be maladjusted. But to the teen-ager, what he does is purely adjustive, he's just trying to adapt himself to his family life, his neighborhood, his friends. Nearly everyone considers himself an expert on juverile delinquency, and has firm ideas about its causes and cures. But, say the experts, it's not that simple, or delinquency would long since have ceased to be a major topic of national concern.

study, a great deal of fable and there. folklore has grown up around the problems of the adolescent. Myths, half-truths and misconceptions are accepted as fact.

Primarily, it said, "in seeking a cure for delinquency, the neighborhood, not the child, must be the patient."

Mary people, for instance, point to working mothers as a major cause of delinquency. According to the experts, however, the effects of a working mother varies from family to family, neighborhood to neighborhood. More research is needed, they say, before this theory can be accepted.

Broken homes often are blamed. But it may be only because the youngster with two parents to back him gets a better break in court. The youngster from a broken home runs a bigger risk of being sent off to a state institution - and he's the one who gets mentioned in the newspapers.

The proposition that delinquents aren't really bright is a common assumption with little or no scientific support, according to the

Another popular idea knocked by the experts is that "a community with mary playgrounds is a community with little delinquency." Carefully planned recreation programs can help, they say, if coordinated with other efforts, but their research indicates no direct relationship between such programs and delinquency rates. Bad companions, heredity, poor physical health and slum neighborhoods also were cited by the experts as oft-quoted causes of delinquency which really aren't.

"Juvenile delinquency is not a 24-hour malady," says the report. "It does not develop overnight. a form of juvenile misbehavior. Serious and persistent trouble with the law on the part of youngsters can be traced back to a long sequence of cause and ef-

Even the term juvenile delinquency has become "corroded overworked and useless, except as a dirty word used to strike back at the kids," says Dr. William C. Kvaraceus, director of the NEA project.

"There has been such frequent and indiscriminate use of the words in recent years that they don't really mean anything now. The current report offers no pat solution for the juvenile delinquency problem because, the experts say, there just isn't any. The report did make these points, however: There is a desperate need for more and better research than ever has been attempted in the

Shorter Campaigning Time

Some of the bugs in the so-called "Johnson for President" bill as originally passed have now been ironed out, and the hill re-passed by the Legislature. It will become law with the governor's signature. Although Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson was castigated by some members for his presidential ambitions, and the part the new legislation plays in furthering the cause, it seems pretty obvious that an overwhelming majority in both Houses were strongly favorable to "the man in the gray flannel toga," as one of the objectors described the Senate majority leader. Passing controversial legislation twice in a single session is going

Another objector put it this way: "I'm glad it helps you, Senator Johnson, because it inconveniences everybody else in the State of Texas."

That was a hyperbolic sour grape, of course. For decades the matter of moving the dates of our bifurcated primary forward has been spoken of, but nothing done about it. The July-August dates served to prolong the biennial campaign beyond all reason. Candidates ran themselves ragged and bored everybody to distraction by long weeks of speech-making, rallying and barbecuing and picnicking. It is costly enough to cover Texas in a statewide campaign at best, and dragging the campaign out for needless weeks made it costlier still.

The first primary always reached it climax in the heat of summer, at the end of July; and the second or runoff always came at the end of August, when even the lizards panted for breath.

The new "Johnson" law moves the dates forward eleven weeks, making the primaries fall in May and June, while the Texas weather is still tolerable. That will still allow enough time to get the job done without wearing everybody out, and keeping the state in turmoil over politics an unconscionably long period. Modern communications have changed the nature of campaigning; in the horse and buggy days the July-August dates made some sense. This is 1959, and the earlier dates make sense

The new law applies to both major parties, Democratic and Republican. Its advocates aver it should result in greater voter participation, and that could very well be the case. People won't be forced to go to the polls with their tongues hanging out. They won't have to listen to long harangues for two long hot summer months. They can get their political plowing done in the freshness of spring, with the scent of flowers in their nostrils and the song of birds in their ears.

Regarding Salk shots, the first flush of ment on the medically approved schedule public excitement over the vaccine's magic powers over the crippling type of polio has worn off, and indifference is now widely prevalent,

That is characteristic of the American temperament. As a people we are inclined to take things for granted, to overlook the obvious in favor of the not-so-clear, to postpone, procrastinate and look for little rays of sunshine in the best of all possible worlds

In spite of the Salk vaccine, the threat of crippling polio is almost as great, today as before it startled the world with its message of hope.

That is not the fault of the vaccine. which has undergone improvements along with improved techniques since the first few unfortunate experiences with it, but to the aforementioned American habit of neglecting the obvious.

People have simply not taken advantage of the immunity the Salk vaccine confers on its recipients; the percentage of children who have received the full treat-

is far too small for comfort, and adult failure to acquire immunity leaves no room for complacency. (age forty is no longer the ceiling for natural immunity to polio; it can strike at any age.)

Texas is at this time marked as one of the critical areas in what threatens to be a nation-wide polio outbreak. Salk vaccine that stays in bottles is worthless; it has to be used to be effective.

Thousands of questionnaires devised by the local organizations were sent through school children to homes, covering every member of the family and not just the children, have been returned.

That is just the opening phase of the local campaign, just the beginning. The important thing now is to see that the Salk barrier to polio is put to use. Waiting for an outbreak of the disease before taking action is tempting condign fate. of wholesale immunization, and act could improve the situation came to this: money and more tact in administering aid. Both at the time of Nixon's mistreatment and since, Communists have been blamed as the nucleus of the attacks on the vice president and the continuing anti-Unit ed States feeling there. The charge that the United States has played too cozy with Latin American dictators has been thrown at this country ofter. Nixon was aware of it on his trip. So was President Eisenhower's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, who visited Latin America after Nixon's trip. Both came back recommending a much stiffer American attitude toward dictators.

Here are things the United States has done in the past year to improve the situation:

The Eisenhower administration has backed and will approve the billion dollar Inter-American Development Bank to make loans in Latin America alone; it has asked and backed increases in the capital of the World Bank and International Moretary Fund from which Latin American nations as well as others benefit.

The administration is asking Congress for a 25 per cent increase in technical assistance funds for Latin America in 1960; the U.S. Development Loan Fund is stepping up its credits to Latin American nations; and moves are under way to encourage further the already big flow of U.S. private investments into Latin America.

These actions, if carried through, may seem plentiful to a U.S. citizen. To a Latin America, then still may seem too little.

Designing For Movie Stars Isn't Easy

Do you know why the clothes worn by the girl movie stars on the late, late show don't really date too much, no matter how old the film - or the girls? Well, sir, because sex doesn't date, ei-

This is the conclusion to which her first venture in designing clothes for the movies has driven Mollie Parnis, New York dress designer whose most famous customer is Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower. But let Mollie, who year after year turns out relaxed, ladylike clothes for a contented clientele, have the floor. "The other fellow's grass always looks greenest," she said ruefully, as she discussed her trials -and-errors career in designing costumes for Mitzi Gaynor who is co-starring with David Niven in "Anniversary Waltz" (now being shot in New York City). "Until a few weeks ago, I always thought those Hollywood dress designers had a shoo-in. Look what they start with: the prettiest women with the best figures in the world. At that time, my idea of an easy dollar would have been a commission to dress a Hollywood star for a "To my humiliation, all my first designs had to be discarded. I had not the slightest idea of what the term 'camera angle' implied. All my nice, relaxed clothes simply had to be 'tightened up,' that is closely fitted. I kept taking in and tightening up till there wasn't an iota of slack left

"The relaxed look may do for Ma Kettle, but it won't do for anyone else That 'camera angle' makes it look like a BAG! 'So pretty soon what you have is a tightly fitted, sexy-looking dress. And something else, too, I had never thought of:

from the time a picture is planned until it is released usually takes a year's time.

The designer has to project himself a year head.

"You've got to hit on something that doesn't date. Well, sex doesn't date. And between the time element and camera angles, those tightly fitted clothes make sense. Box office, too. "But despite this problem, the movies do not want in clothes the 'drop dead' look that I had innocently supposed was their first requirement. They don't want overpowering clothes that obscure the girl. When I design for the American woman, I want people to see the woman before the dress, and the movies, to my surprise, feel the same way. So there went another of my pre-conceptions. "Then, when I make my collections I am always the alpha and the omega in every department. So you can imagine what a shocker it was to me to have to design clothes that not only pleased Miss Gaynor, who is a darling, but her husband, who is her manager; the director; the set designer; a fashion coordinator, who is employed on every picture; two producers; an associate producer and an unknown number of cameramen, not to mention my son, Bob Livingston, who is in the business end of the picture and who was a gratuitous entry.

"I came home many an evening and wanted to fall on my shears! So now I take off my hat to Hollywood designers who can please everyone at one fell swoop, as well as design clothes that are timeless. They're geniuses. It's an experience I wouldn't have missed for anything, but wouldn't repeat for anything.

P. S. Miss Parnis just called to say, rather breathlessly, "Miss Gaynor rushed up to me today and said, 'Mollie, thank you for the divine clothes!' You know, I might be fool enough to do it again!" (Copyright 1959, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

Despite Conference, Cold War Goes On

GENEVA-The almost-insuperable obstacles in the way of any real discussion-any meaningful meeting of mindscould hardly have been better demonstrated than in the tragicomic confusion

The West fully expected that the Soviets would try to make the Germans full partners in the conference; that they would haggle and higgle for several days over the status of the delegations from the two Germanys. But that they would insist at the outset that the conference should from the first day convert itself from a four-power meeting into a sixpower meeting gave the West a shock. Had they not agreed, or seemed to agree, that the East and West Germans should come as advisers to be consulted when in which this conference has begun.

For their part the Russians seemed to have been amazed at the reaction in the West to their opening gambit. They called a hurried meeting of correspondents representing the Communist press of the world to say that they had not meant to create any such reaction at all and that having made the pitch for the East Germans they fully expected to carry on with the four around a table that might be round or square and its shape was of no great importance in any event.

The two sides are speaking two different languages. It is not merely that Russian is a language alien to the West, with an alphabet entirely different from that of English and French. Interpreters are able to solve that minor difference. But the two languages are profoundly alien in that they derive from utterly different ways of life.

Words that seem to mean the same thing in Russian and English convey something quite different, and the West is forever being surprised that the Russlans have apparently deliberately distorted the meaning of plain English. What becomes apparent as Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko presents himself in his familiar role as the great stone face is that, while in some respects the outer surface has changed, the hard core of Communist policy remains as solid as ever. The first warning came with Premier Khrushchev's threat of the eight hydrogen bombs to reduce West Germany to nothing and another eight to dispose of the rest of Europe. This had an ominous and familiar ring, recalling the fearful days after the Suez attack when the Soviets' remarkably blunt letters to Paris and London threatened to rain down rockets on those cities. The Russian response, of course, is that this is no more than the West is doing by proclaiming the placing of nuclear rockets in Italy and other NATO countries.

In short, the conference opens with the cold war going full blast and Gromyko's opening move appears as no more than a cold war tactic transferred to the conference room. But this does not mean that the conference is bound to end in failure or disaster.

On the contrary, tactics to one side, the prospect despite the snafu at the start is for the limited agreement that will make a summit conference possible. Self-interest on both sides of the table compels the East and the West to at least a modest attempt at agreement on the most obvious issues, such as Berlin.

Chancellor Adenauer in his stubborn determination to make the Russians pay the highest possible price for a summit conference may exaggerate the Russian self-interest-the need to relieve the intolerable severity and harshness of Soviet life, to make the promise of a higher standard of living, at least partly true. In the popular desire to end the armaments burden and ease the long tension the self-interest of the West has some resemblance to Soviet motivations.

There is one conspicuous advantage at the start of this conference over past meetings of this kind. The public has been educated to expect not the millenium but at best only a small start on the long and painful road toward competitive and peaceful coexistence. Gromyko at the start, simply by being the old familiar Gromyko at the end of a telephone line from Moscow, may have helped to harden the skepticism and thus he may have performed a useful serv-

The choice is not between the millenium and despair. It is a choice between steady, patient negotiation through an interminable future and the awful peril of letting the cold war rage unchecked. (Copyright 1959, United Peatures Syndicate Inc.)

Crying Shame

BLANCHARDVILLE, Wis. (#) - Safecrackers who worked over three Blanchardville offices must have felt their night's work was a crying shame.

At a garage, they practically demolished a safe before opening it far enough to set off a tear gas cartridge that routed them. They moved on to a business office. This time the tear gas cartridge went off sooner. Then they made a final attempt, at another garage.

The safe there was empty.

Russians Want To Confuse The Issues

GENEVA-If the people of East Ger- didn't mean this at all. That's really why many wished to send representatives to the big conference going on here to settle the fate of Berlin and if some way were devised to make sure that they were chosen through the processes of a free government, there wouldn't be the slightest difficulty here about accepting such envoys. But the realistic truth is that the East German people have nothing to say about it and that most of the so-called "advisers" from East Germany are actually Soviet citizens or handpicked by the Moscow government.

This really ought to be an overriding issue here. Instead, it has been dealt with as a "procedural" question. Yet it presents an opportunity to tell the whole world about the fundamental cause of the present conflict which every now and then emerges as a threat to peace. Representative government that rests on the consent of the governed is a tradition which has motivated peoples everywhere. So, when a dictatorship not only enslaves its own citizens but extends its tyrannical hand to keep other nations in captivity, it is surprising that there is any inclination to "negotiate" with such an autocratic government as the Soviet regime

But it was no insignificant question to the Moscow strategists. They wanted to show the other "captive" states in Eastern Europe that the Moscow government is not only accepted as an equal at Geneva but is acting here as the champion of the interests of East Germany and neighboring states now under the control of the Soviets. The Western foreign ministers had thought that the exchange of notes a few weeks ago with the Moscow government had cleared up the question but, with their customary insincerity, the Soviets declared here that the note they sent this conference is going to be a long one. It's to be just one quibble after another.

Also, Foreign Minister Gromyko, who was taught by Molotov the art of saying "no" to everything and introducing a lot of extraneous topics to confuse the issue, has been instructed to make the going as hard as possible. For presumably that is the Soviet way of proving that a "summit" conference is necessary and that only one man-Nikita Khrushchev - is capable of negotiating for two hundred million people and of determining the fate of tens of millions held captive in the smaller countries that border on the Soviet Union. Molotov is the man who helped Stalin double-cross the Allies. While "negotiating" with Britain, he secretly made the deal which gave Hitler his chance to start World War II. Gromyko sat for years under Molotov and knows exactly how to mess up any negotiation that the West undertakes. He speaks English and has a smooth manner, but everyone knows that he has been instructed to agree to as little as possible here so as to make necessary the "summit" conference. Already there is speculation as to what "crumb" is to be thrown by Moscow to the Western foreign ministers. Actually, it may take the form of a declaration by the Soviets agreeing to what is being called an "interim solution" for Berlin. This means that, in effect, the ultimatum will be withdrawn for a while and, with some slight changes, the Western Allies will be able to exercise the same rights and privileges as heretofore. This device is known as a "modus vivendi" - a method of getting along temporarily on the same basis as before. But this very concession implies that at a moment's notice the threat to Berlin can be re-

In the center of the whole dilemma here is the question of how to deal with the East German puppet regime. Moscow insists that it will soon sign a 'peace treaty' with the so-called government of East Germany and that the Western governments will have to deal with that government. This is called "de facto" recognition as distinguished from "de jure" or legal recognition-a differentiation developed in international law. Theoretically there is a difference but actually the conduct of business or diplomatic relations with East Germany would be hailed behind the Iron Curtain as a sign that the Western Allies had capitulated. It would discourage the people of "captive" states like Hungary who have been hoping that the Western countries would stand firm against every scheme that would imply an affirmation of the Soviet role as master and conqueror. The road to world domination is made easier by just such apparently small concessions that involve a big principle. When symbols of a great cause are disregarded, the aggressor is encouraged and liberty-loving peoples become discouraged.

Kurdish Tribes Flee Iraq To Seek Freedom

Editer's Note: — One of the weapons the Soviet Union is employing to maintain ferment in the Middle East is the desire of the Kurd tribes for independence. AP Foreign News Analyst William L. Ryan, making another tour of the perennially troubled area, reports from the Iran-Iraq border on strong anti-Communist feelings among some of the Kurds.

RW WILLIAM I. RYAN

By WILLIAM L. RYAN PASVEH, Iran (A) - Thousands of Kurd tribesmen have fled across the rugged northwest Iranian frontier from Iraq rather than submit to domination by a pro-Communist chieftain.

There was sharp fighting in the frontier area as recently as four days ago, when about 5,000 Kurds crossed into Iran. Others of the tribe have fled into Turkey.

This information comes Amir Aly Asheyara, the head khan (landlord) of a huge area occupied by Kurds of the Mamash tribe. He owns this village and about 150 other Kurdish villages in the southwestern part of Iran's Azerbaijan Province, only a few miles from the Iraqi border.

The Kurds, under a leader identified as Sheik Raschid, left 13 Barzar.i tribesmen dead after a fight with them and Iraqi gendarmerie. The khan said Raschid lost two dead and had two wound-

The Barzanis are followers of Mullah Mustafa Barzani, who spent a dozen years in exile in the Soviet Union after an abortive attempt to establish a satellite Kurdistan in Iran, Iraq and Tur-

The khan said Sheik Raschid's people lacked sufficient ammurition to continue the battle and had to flee. He said the 1,000 refugee families now live in tent settlements not far from here.

Apparently many Kurds preceded Raschid's people across the frontier in a migration which be gan soon after the Iraqi revolution last July. This country is so rugged, vast and underpopulated that it is easy for Kurds to lose themselves in it.

INFLUENTIAL MAN This village is not likely to appear on many maps, but its leader is an influential Kurd, ruling about 20,000 people. His home is a hilltop dominating the primitive mud hut village and overlooking a valley richly green with winter wheat. Towering snowcap mountains surround the fertile

The khan leases the land to his followers, taking a percentage of their production in payment. To Kurds this is normal.

Amir Aly is fiercely anti-Communist and says all his people are too. Most Kurds are equally anti-Communist, he maintains. He says the Soviets have no chance to promote another Kurdish uprising as they did 13 years ago, when Barzani with Soviet backing tried to set up an independent Kurdistan in northern Iraq and Iran.

Barzani's revolt was crushed, but he and thousands of his followers escaped to the Soviet Union. With the overthrow of the monarchy in Iraq, last summer Barzani returned to Iraq and has steadily gained influence in the regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem Nearly 1,000 Kurds who followed Barzani to the Soviet Union were shipped back to Iraq in April. Egyptian newspapers said they had been trained for partisan warfare. Moscow described them as refugees and said almost half were women and children.

Amir Aly, an educated, cultured man, remembers Barzani with bitterness and says the Mullah's followers murdered his brother. uncle and four nephews in a massacre of anti-Communist elements in Azerbaijan Province in 1946. # SPAHN BECOMES FIFTH LEFTIE TO WIN 250

Associated Press Sports Writer

In the four score and three years of major league baseball, only four left-handed pitchers ever had won 250 games. Now Warren Spahn is the fifth. The southpaw put it away Wednesday night, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, and hoisting the Milwaukee Braves back into the National League lead. It was Spahnie's third shot at No. 250. Now 4-4 for the season, he had lost twice since bagging his 249th victory-which also came against the Cards. Spahn, who joined American League right-hander Early Wynn (253) of the Chicago White Sox as the only active pitchers with 250 victories, was happy of course, with Wednesday night's decision, but he ac*cepted it like an old pro. "It's just a stepping stone," he said, "to the one I really want—No. 300."

39, his age-tovictories ratio is in keeping with that of the other four lefties to win 250. Eddie Plank, an American a n d Federal League player, is the top southp a w winner of a sore ankle.

Dick Stuart's two-run homer Austin Victoria brought the Pirates from behind as they chased Don Drysdale (3-3) with three in the eighth at Los Angeles and slipped the Dodgers a half-game behind Milwaukee. Don Demeter's solo home run had given the Dodgers a 4-3 edge in the sixth against Ron Kline, but reliever Roy Face (5-0) shut them out on three hits over the last three frames. Face has a 10-0 record since last Memorial Day, the longest winning string now alive in the majors. He also has 19 saves in that span.

Jones (3-4) beat the Phils for the fifth time in a row and didn't allow a hit until Willie Jones beat out an infield roller with two out Odessa in the seventh. Pinch-hitter Gene Freese singled in the eighth for the other hit off Sad Sam, who hit the NL's season high with 12 strikeouts. A three-run homer by Willie Mays high-lighted a fiverun Giants' first against former mate Ruben Gomez (0-2).

Ernie Banks' grand-slam homer triggered a seven-run third for the Cubs against Bob Purkey (4-3) as Hobbie (4-3) handed the Reds their third straight loss. Ed Bailey had two of the hits off Hobbie, who retired the last 12 men in order.

He is Dave Allred, 25, son of Federal Dist. Judge James V. Allred of Corpus Christi, governor of Texas back in the 1930s.

As a researcher and press relations man, Young Allred works directly under Bob Bray, former Houston Chronicle and Amarillo newspaper man who directs public relations for the senator. Allred himself worked 15 months with The Associated Press in Montgomery, Ala., before joining Yarborough's staff in Austin last

Prior to joining the AP, Allred worked for the Corpus Christi Caller-Times and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Young Allred, who is single, was a B.A. degree, majoring in journalism. He had two years in the Army, and was commissioned a lieutenant after ROTC training in Retired Air Force Col, Edgar T. Noyes of San Antonio has a hobby which led to his appearance before a congressional committee in support of a Troy, N. Y., delegation.

A special bus load of Troy folks came down to Washington plugging a resolution which would recognize Sam Wilson, a Troy meat packer who supplied food to the soldiers in the War of 1812, as the original "Uncle Sam."

Noyes brought before the committee books and other items from his $80,000 collection on the subject, all tending to support the Troy contention that "Uncle Sam" was indeed once a live, flesh and blood individual born in 1766. The boxes with the foods he shipped were stamped "U.S.," and that the soldiers soon were saying this stood for "Uncle Sam," the affectionately and widely known

CAB Ruling Retains Texas Air Service

WASHINGTON (AP) - Trans-Texas Airways should continue service to nine Texas and Arkansas cities but should be allowed to suspend service to seven other points, a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner said yesterday.

Examiner Thomas L. recommended continued service for Galveston; Brownwood and Marfa-Alpine between Fort Stock-ton and Dallas; Kerrville and Fort Stockton between El Paso and Dallas; Pecos and Marshall; and about 500 front feet on Granite Magnolia and Camden, Arkansas. He decided the airline does not have to serve Beeville, Coleman, College Station-Bryan, Brady, and Stuttgart and Helena, Ark.

San Antonio Contractor Buys Log Cabin

SAN ANTONIO (P-Antique col lector Hal Clayburne won't be stumped by distance. He moved his 203-year-old log cabin here from Virginia.

The cabin, still sound after a cross-country trip by rail serves as a rustic home for Clayburne and his family.

Clayburne learned about the old homestead during visits with friends in the Sherandoah Valley. Later, hearing it was about to be razed, he made a hurried trip

The San Antonio contractor found the dwelling in a sad state of repairs. Its owner was happy to take $65 for it and Clayburne figured it could be fixed up.

Most of the massive yellow pine, walnut and oak logs in the twostoried, five-room house were sound. He had it dismantled and turned it over to the railroads.

Once here, Clayburne took liberties with the original floor plan when remodeling. He placed the downstairs flooring upstairs, replacing handmade floor nails with wooden pegs. Three of the old mantels are still in use. Six fireplaces keep the cabin warm.

"We heat altogether by wood, I'm sorry to say," Mrs. Clayburne told Shirley Deviney, writing for the Houston Chronicle.

"Taking out ashes is a nuisance. When my husband removes them, ashes settle all over my antiques.

Clayburne's few concessions to modern times are a wall stove and refrigerator, electricity and indoor plumbing. Then he installed a front door lock which came from an old Texas jail. The key weighs a pound More than 300 antique clocks line the walls in Clayburne's office. His wife displays part of her 500-piece pressed glass collection on shelves above the kitchen fireplace.

A split-rail fence of Virginia chestnut encircles the home. Clayburne's daughter, Pam, says it makes a dandy hitching rail for her sorrel horse.

Roma Got Its Start In Texas As A Mission

ROMA (P-This town about a hundred miles up the Rio Grande from Brownsville began as a mission, which may explain why it is named for Rome, the "Holy City" to Catholics.

Jose Escandon founded a mission here nearly 200 years ago. Later the town was called Los Saenz after the Spanish captain who first owned most of the land hereabouts. There was only the mission settlement at Roma when, shortly after the Texas revolution, a small party of Texans invaded Mexico, only to be captured and held at the town of Mier, just across the Rio Grande. It was at Mier that the famous drawing of the beans took place. Each Texan was required to draw one from a box. Those with the white beans were imprisoned; the unlucky men with the black beans

But Roma wasr't much of a city until after the Mexican War. when Mifflin Kenedy advertised that it was "situated on the east bank of the Rio Grande on a high stone bluff. The adjacent land is the richest soil, well adapted to the main staples of the South . .

But apparently the Romans were not farmers, for when Mexican boundary surveyors passed through a year or so later, a Major Emory recorded that smugglir.g was the chief occupation. He noted fine homes and stone warehouses, but said nothing about the old chapel, which is one of the town's show places.

Father Kerulam built the present chapel over a hundred years ago before he left on one of his customary circuit of ranches and was never seen again.

His horse returned alone and his fate remained a mystery until 10 years later when cowboys found his bones in the brush near Mercedes. Nearby were his saddle, some coins and a crucifix. Old and nearly blind, it was thought that he had been bitten by a rat-

Today the steeple of the church he erected looms high over everything in sight. The chapel is constructed of adobe brick and stone like most buildings in the city.

Pupil Transfer Appeal Issued

June 1 is deadline for transfer of children from one school dis-

d children from frict to another.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, warned parents of children living in districts where their children's grades will not be taught bildren's grades will not be taught bildr to transfer to another district.

Children must be transferred the new district where their grades will be taught and the transfers have to be made by June 1. Applications should be filed immediately with the school superintendent. The earlier this is done the better it will be for the children and for their parents.

Bailey urged all parents to come to his office at once and make arrangements for the proper trans-fer in order to insure their children will be properly enrolled when the next school term opens.

A dinner meeting for all Bay-lor ex-students in the Permian Basic area has been planned for Saturday evening at the Lincoln Hotel in Odessa.

The dinner will start at 7:30 p.m., and Dr. James W. Rainer, temporary chairman, said that those who would not be able to arrive in time for this are urged to come to the business session at 8:30 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is the organization of a Permian Basin Area Ex-Student Assn. There will be a discussion for determining the specific objectives and func-tions of the association and for promoting contacts between for-mer students of Baylor.

Among those to attend from Baylor University are Coach John Bridgers and Hayden Fry, one of his assistants and formerly coach at Odessa High School, and Graves Blanton, executive secretary of the Ex-Students Assn.

Every Baylor ex-student is urged to attend. Reservations will be appreciated, said Dr. Rainer, but they are not at all necessary.

Now that summer is around the corner, the homemaker will be turning her attention to cool dishes. If she is calorie-conscious, she will likely serve gelatin plain or imbedded with fresh fruit.

Let her select a single color or a rainbow of gelatin and add fruit cocktail. This is good to serve as either salad or dessert. Salad lovers extol the old-fashioned combination of orange or lemon gelatin enriched with grated carrot and pineapple, and spiked with a drop of vinegar. Dessert cravers sing the praises of Bavarian cream, which is the mating of whipped cream with your choice of gelatin. The combinations are endless. But here are recipes for salads and desserts to serve with the assurance that both their beauty and their flavor will lure compliments from your guests:

VANILLA PINEAPPLE SPONGE 1 envelope unflavored gelatin ¼ cup cold water

1 cup hot pineapple juice 1 tbsp. fresh lemon or lime

11/2 tsps. pure vanilla extract

1/2 cup crushed pineapple 2 egg whites 2 tbsps. sugar

Celery Makes Up Large Share Of Salad Greens

With that or similar sales appeal, Holland-American gardeners near Kalamazoo, Mich., launched commercial celery product on in this country. It was around 1874 that they began to vend celery to train passengers passing through. Demand for the crisp delicacy zoomed after that. Today, celery makes up about one-fifth of the tonnage in the salad group. Production has increased almost 50 per cent since 1940, reports Agri- and spreads to fill whole stalks cultural Marketing Service.

"You can't enjoy the trip with-ut a stalk of celery." | supply. Other leading states are | Florida, Michigan and New York. The 1958 crop in these four states was valued at $49 million.

This spring, the crop has been so large and prices so low that some Florida growers are harvesting only to fill orders on hand. So you'll find it to your advantage to serve celery often, whether you take a train ride or not.

Perhaps you'll wish to highlight your salads with cheesefilled celery "circles." To prepare the circles, use a variety of cheese dips of celery. Chill about 30 minutes. California ships celery in volume then slice celery into 1/2-inch thick

THE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL BAND WILL APPEAR IN ITS ANNUAL SPRING CONCERT IN CITY AUDITORIUM FRIDAY NIGHT

CRITIQUE

By BOB SMITH

It was a little late for National Music Week, but the local school bands' concert will be of interest to music lovers.

Especially noteworthy will be evidence of the way Doug Wiehe has improved the high school band. Aside from the customary program, the concert will feature a major concert work, the Haydn Trumpet Concerto, by John Hay-nie member of the North Texas State College music faculty.

Haynie is recognized as one of the leading trumpeteers of the na-
