It Huffed, Puffed — And Blew The Garage Down

Lindy Oldfield, who lives northeast of Big Spring had a big cleanup job this morning—the biggest being trying to find his garage. Part of it is shown here after a hard wind or twister hit the building, completely destroying it and moving appliances in it. Oldfield had a horizontal-type deep freeze, a washing machine, and a hot water heater in the garage and all were displaced by the wind. Oldfield also lost a chicken pen in the bad weather, but his house was not hurt.

Business Interests Pushing Sales Tax

Utilities, Chambers At Senate Hearing

AUSTIN (AP)—Corporation and utility lawyers and Chamber of Commerce heads supported a sales tax route today during the tax hearings before a Senate committee. Jeff Neely, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce president, representatives of Southwestern Electric Power and Light Co. and Gulf State Utilities Co. plugged the sales tax in preference to the pending tax bill. The 149 million dollar, two year tax bill likely will go to a subcommittee later today to be revised for possible floor debate by mid week. "Where ever I go in other states I leave a token payment when making purchases for the privilege of being there. I'm not in favor of hiding all the taxes. We should have the pride of government in making direct tax payments," Neely declared. Bill Sedberry, Marshall manager of Southwestern Electric, said the company would suffer a 215 per cent increase in gross receipts tax provided in the bill. "It may be the straw that breaks the camel's back and will force us to go to the city councils and pass this on to the consumers in rate increases," he predicted. Asked by Sen. Doyle Willis of Fort Worth how he felt about a broad base tax, he replied: "Naturally we prefer a broad base tax." "You think you are being discriminated against?" "In gross receipts tax, we feel we are." "Of the two broad base taxes, which would you prefer, the income tax or the sales tax?" "The sales tax."

Major Bell of Beaumont said for Gulf States Utilities that the bill would increase the company's taxes $600,000 a year and 90 per cent of the increase would be passed on to the customers. He said he preferred a sales tax. The hearing got off to a late start while chairman, Sen. Dorsey Hardeman and Senate dean R. A. Weimer of Seguin, conferred with Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, undoubtedly over the tax issue. Gov. Price Daniel defended the bill at the hearing's outset in an unusual appearance. "Texas is one of only two states which treat foreign corporations better than the state corporations on franchise taxes," he said in support of a revised franchise tax formula for companies doing interstate business. He dealt largely on the franchise formula which will raise 24 million dollars and the 25 million dollar "five and five" plan for taxing natural gas. The gas section lowers the present production tax from seven to five per cent and adds a five per cent tax of value on gas dedicated for "future production through severance beneficiaries." He explained the latter section is aimed at pipeline companies which buy gas in Texas to distribute to customers outside Texas. Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPTRO) officials took the position that if the dedicated tax section is later declared unconstitutional the added burden will fall on the producers. Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo charged "a fraud on the newspapers" for misrepresenting the bill as applying only to pipelines. TIPTRO President Harry Jones of Kilgore said natural gas is overtaxed and consideration should be given to lowering the tax instead of raising it. "It is our judgment that one source of our present tax troubles is that our state revenues have been geared too closely to the oil and gas producing industry," Jones said. "There must be some substantial broadening of the tax base if financial needs are to be met." Replying to Sen. Jap Fuller of Port Arthur, another TIPTRO official, A. E. Hermann of Amarillo, said the organization would not go along with any tax increase even though the tax load was spread equally to all businesses in the state. "The old gray mare you've been riding is about worn out," he added. Two power and light company presidents told the committee the other tax sections would increase their tax bills by 150 per cent. J. L. Bates, head of the Corpus Christi Power and Light Co., said most utility companies will request rate boosts if the bill is passed.

Biggest Rains Of Year Hit County Pastures And Fields

Heavy rains, strong winds, a brilliant electrical display made Wednesday night a spectacular period for Howard County. Today the community was checking on minor damages reported from the rugged weather. Rains measured from .90 to 3.75 inches. Streets were battered by the roaring deluges which swept down the hills on the heels of the downpour which brought the heaviest rain of the year. Several reports of damage to small outhouses were reported. Hardest hit section was in the vicinity of the Hamilton Flying Field. Electric service was subjected to a beating and many city street lights winked out in the midst of the storm. No major interruption of service to residences was reported. The heavy rains made virtual rivers of many streets. Heavy washing was reported on Birdwell Lane. Third and 4th streets were blocked on the west end for about 45 minutes during the worst part of the storm. Debris in the streets were reported in almost all parts of the city. Collections were reported at 11th and Goliad, 11th and State; 5th and Presidio, 4th and Galveston and West 3rd and West 4th. Power failures, due to lightning hitting the equipment of Texas Electric Company, were largely confined to the north side of the city. Lightning struck a line or pole about 10:10 p.m. which affected a street lighting circuit. James Beale, manager of the local office, said workmen made switches in circuits and bypassed others to get power back on over most of the area by 10:58 p.m. By 1:43 a.m., all the power was back on, he said. At about 10:30 p.m., lightning hit some bushes at the main plant, knocking out power in an eight block area bounded by Gregg and Goliad, 3rd and 5th. The damage had to be repaired and service was returned by 1:43 a.m. Texas Electric had four crews working during the storm to make repairs and maintain service. Cliff Fisher, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., said there were only nine cases of individual trouble during the storm. It was caused by wet cables, he explained. The first trouble was reported about 11 p.m. and all repairs were made by a.m. today. Local service was not interrupted, he said, as emergency power units were put into use when the electric power failed. The emergency units were used almost four hours. GARAGE DEMOLISHED Lindy Oldfield, who lives north of Hamilton Field, lost a garage in the high winds. A water heater, freezer, and washing machine were blown over. The heavy freezer was moved about 10 feet. He said his chicken house was demolished. Alvin Bates, a neighbor to Oldfield, lost his barn in the strong wind. The fire department answered a rash of calls for about an hour Wednesday night during the worst part of the rainstorm. Little damage was reported, however. A motor fire at the Bell Telephone Co. office was the result of another call. Electrical problems (See WEATHER, Page 8-A, Col. 5)

West Texas Areas Hit Hard By Heavy, Damaging Rains

Lubbock caught its third straight night of heavy rain and high wind Wednesday evening. The roof of a drug store caved in, apparently from the weight of water, and lightning was blamed for one fire. Roads were closed in the Sudan-Muleshoe area northwest of Lubbock as high water followed soaking rains. A thunderstorm which moved north over the Houston area spilled 3.27 inches of rain and dropped temperatures 20 degrees Wednesday afternoon. The Weather Bureau said 2.60 inches of the total came between 4:45 and 5:25 p.m. in north Houston. It was the heaviest rain in a short period since 1951, according to Weather Bureau records. Another storm poured 4 to 6 inches of rain onto the Colorado River Authority area in San Saba County, most of the rain falling in 45 minutes. The Lubbock storm blew in as the South Plains city mopped up from an early morning downpour which brought water damage to at least a half dozen downtown stores and ripped one end from the Randolph Manufacturing Co. South of Lubbock, at Slaton, winds unroofed several houses and hurled the tin roof from the West Texas Granite and Marble Co. Large hail, rain and wind tore roofs from two houses, knocked down power lines and damaged a number of other roofs at Placid, 14 miles northeast of Brady. Wink, in far West Texas, measured 71-mile-per-hour winds in gusts. Rain and light hail also hit the city. Alpine, also in southwest Texas, was lashed by a storm which knocked 22 windows from the Presbyterian church and smashed stained glass windows in the Episcopal Church. Other windows, neon signs and car tops also were damaged. Russ Largent, a rancher who lives three miles northwest of Alpine, said hail stones the size of baseballs knocked him to his knees. He suffered a cut head.

4 Space Mice Apparently Fail To Return From Orbit

VANDEMBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Four black mice, blasted aloft in an Air Force attempt to return a living creature from a satellite for the first time, apparently didn't make it. The Air Force wanted them to orbit the earth in a satellite, Discoverer III, for 26 hours, then parachute in their air-conditioned capsule. However, something went wrong. The two-stage Thor missile roared into space Wednesday as scheduled and sent back radio signals for 13 minutes. Then the signals stopped. The Air Force said it has heard nothing since. The 78-foot-long projectile was presumed to have burned up on reentering the atmosphere. It was considered highly unlikely that it could have escaped the earth's pull, because of speed factors. Planes had been poised to try a difficult aerial catch over the Pacific. But officials had given them only one chance in 700 of succeeding. The mice, pick of their breed, would have been the first creatures retrieved alive from orbit. Two monkeys were fired into space from Cape Canaveral by the Army May 28 but their trip covered only 1,500 miles. They were not intended to go into orbit. Information from Wednesday's launching will be used in planning the Project Mercury attempt to put man in orbit some two years from now. At blastoff the mice underwent an acceleration force seven or eight times that of gravity. This was nothing new to them — they had trained for the flight in test chambers simulating the severe stresses to which they would be exposed. Strapped on their backs like saddles were tiny radios. These were intended to relay their heartbeat, breathing, temperature and muscular activity back to earth. Their color — black — was to have shown the effects of any cosmic radiation, based on the degree of graying. The Thor IRBM first stage and Bell-Hustler second stage functioned satisfactorily, the Air Force said. The missile was last heard from by a telemetering ship 1,200 miles south of the launch site. The absence of sightings or radar contacts from that time on led authorities to doubt that the missile had gone into orbit. The Air Force said its next Discoverer will not carry animals but will be strictly an attempt to improve the propulsion and instrumentation of the rockets used in the series. Wednesday's launching followed four unsuccessful tries. Poor weather and technical difficulties delayed the others.

Presbyterians Of Southwest Close Meeting

The Southwest Presbytery closed out its semi-annual meeting here Wednesday afternoon with a bid to the general assembly to negotiate a union with another major branch of the church. At the same time, Harold G. Ocum, First Presbyterian Church, San Angelo, was named moderator elect as the Rev. Jack Ware, Pecos, stepped up to the moderator's post. As a final act, the presbytery named its ministerial and lay delegates to the general assembly meeting next spring. Fort Stockton was selected as the meeting place for Jan. 19-20, 1960. The presbytery overruled the general assembly to appoint an ad interim committee to enter into negotiations with and to prepare plans for union with the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Received under the care of the presbytery were two young men who are entering the ministry. They are John T. Wehmeyer, Manhattan Church in El Paso and a sophomore at Austin College; and Phil Nettleton, First Presbyterian in Lubbock, a student at Texas Tech. Ministerial commissioners to the general assembly meeting in Jacksonville, Fla. in April of 1960 are: Lindy Crossman, Faith Church in El Paso, John Byrd, Sander-son, B. Gage Lloyd, First Church in Big Spring, and David M. H. Richmond, student work director at Tech; alternates, Charles Brinkley, Kermit, Dr. Tom Brewster, Fort Stockton, David L. Zachariah, Westminster in Lubbock, and Burke Kerr, Seminole. The elders named commissioners were D. T. Evans, St. Paul's in Big Spring, Norman Breed, Van Horn, and Wendell Nichols, Barstow (the fourth principal commissioner will be named in January); alternates, W. H. Neubaur, Amarillo; Paul Page, Eldorado; Arthur Brooks, Manhattan in El Paso, and J. S. Lester, Lovington, N. M.

Latest Turns On Hollywood's Marry-Go-Round

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The latest turns on Hollywood's marital merry-go-round: Deborah Kerr—off. Mickey Rooney—On (No. 5). Gordon (Tarzan) Scott—Vera Miles—solo rides (trial separation). Dorothy Malone—Jacques Bergerac—Could be. Earnest Borgnine — Maybe on, maybe off. That's the cast. Their stories: Kerr—The English-born actress arrived by jet Wednesday night and said she hopes to get her divorce from British producer Tony Bartley, 39, during her two-month California stay. The case has been pending for a year. On the same plane was writer Peter Viertel, 38, whose name has been linked romantically with Miss Kerr. Rooney — The pint-sized actor disclosed his marriage to Barbara Thomson, blonde starlet. He said they married Dec. 1 in Mexico after he got a quickie Mexican divorce from No. 4—the former Elaine Mahnken. Scott—Miles — Scott, 31, and his actress wife said they plan a trial separation after three years of marriage. Malone-Bergerac — Miss Malone, 31, and the French actor reportedly plan a Hawaiian wedding this month. Borgnine — Mrs. Rhoda Borgnine, 35, said Wednesday she'll try to get her August divorce from the actor set aside. Her attorney declined to say whether she wants a reconciliation. Last month, Borgnine said he plans to marry Mexican actress Katy Jurado, 32, next September.

Legislature May Shift Gears Today

AUSTIN (AP)—The Legislature may move into high gear today on its race to solve the state's financial crisis. The first special session ends June 16. If lawmakers fail, they'll have to start again. The House approved 149 million dollar tax bill which the Senate's attention. Most Senators listened to testimony on the measure before the State Affairs Committee. The House talked about authorizing a $12 a year increase in compulsory student activity fees at state-supported colleges and universities. The measure will raise two million dollars in 1960-61 to pay for activities for which the legislature refuses to appropriate money. Representatives may get to work on Gov. Price Daniel's abandoned property tax bill. The measure allows the state to take over deposits abandoned in banks, pipeline and utility companies through court proceedings. It originally was estimated to produce 25 million dollars. The House revenue and Taxation Committee cut its revenue potential to three million. In a rare move, Daniel appeared before the Senate committee yesterday. He talked 90 minutes, urging speed toward solving the state's money problems. He said another special session will mean seven million dollars must be added to the tax bill. "I do not stand before you today to say that this is the only tax bill you should consider or should pass. We worked for nearly a year to come up with something," Daniel said. Senators questioned Daniel on his proposed natural gas tax provision, corporation franchise tax increases on interstate businesses and additional sales taxes on liquor, motor vehicles, cosmetics, high fidelity equipment, cigarettes and other tobacco. The House State Affairs Committee sent to subcommittee measures to: Give consent to congress to make part of Padre Island a national seashore park, by Reps. Roger Daily, Houston and Menton Murray, Brownsville. Allow local governmental unit employees to come under social security, by Rep. Dean Johnston, Houston. Ask Congress to set qualifications for appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court, by Reps. Don Kennard, Fort Worth, and Sam Bass, Freeport.

Ex-German Soldier Recalls The Invasion

Editor's Note — When the Allies swarmed ashore on the French coast, a young German artillery officer was busy training green replacements for the defense of Hitler's Atlantic Wall. In this third of four eyewitness articles commemorating D-Day, Hans Flegel, now on the Associated Press staff in Germany, recalls the momentous events from a German viewpoint.

By HORST FLUEGGE
BONN, Germany (AP)—We had waited for the phone call for a long time. It came around 8 o'clock on June 6. A sergeant picked up the receiver. He listened for a while, then turned to us and said, "They have landed."

That was D-Day, 15 years ago. I was a lieutenant stationed with a German army mobile artillery unit at Avranches, 60 miles from the main Allied beachhead at Cherbourg on the Normandy coast of France.

I didn't see what happened at Cherbourg that morning, for we were marshaling the curious mixture of youthful veterans of the Russian front and the kids and old men hastily recruited for the defense of the Atlantic Wall.

We marched for two days until we reached the Orne River near Caen and there we ran into the powerful barges of the Allied naval vessels that lay offshore.

We were an exhausted, defeated bunch, the men of Artillery Unit 1154. We knew we had lost the war, but there was nothing to do but fight it out. To us it did not appear honorable to surrender.

I remember standing among the batteries of inferior Italian long-range guns and Russian material confiscated on the Eastern front and listening to our staff chief.

"Maybe they'll smash our artillery in a hurry and we'll get new stuff," he observed laconically.

Another artillery officer, a man with whom I had made the long retreat from the heart of Russia, had this cynical observation: "We might as well start the counter-attack. Then we can retreat faster."

It's difficult to remember what I thought and felt then. I was tired, worn out from four years in Russia and from trying to train our inexperienced replacements. Normandy was a long way from Berlin where I had been studying philosophy at the university when the war began.

From the middle of May I had been adjutant to the commander of Artillery Unit 1154 in Avranches. I was moved there with our other officers from the Eastern front.

Our men were mostly youngsters and old men who had held staff jobs in Berlin. They were inexperienced and unable to cope with the superior weapons and manpower of the enemy.

We were not at all surprised that the Allies struck at Cherbourg. The coastal area of Normandy was the most vulnerable region in the Atlantic Wall whose defenses had been planned by Field Marshals Rommel and Von Rundstedt.

Our main forces lay 60 miles from the coast and we had to rush men to the beaches to combat the Americans, British and Canadians who stormed ashore.

From the first it was clear that the Allies had air superiority, more than the Russians had managed in the East. And the naval artillery on the Allied ships had greater range than our big guns. They could hit us while our shells fell far short.

Never during the war, including the dismal days in Russia, did I find the morale of our troops as low as it was in the first days of the Allied invasion.

I remember talking to our staff chief in those first invasion days and hearing him say with a defeatist grin: "Let's take a Messerschmitt and go off to Spain."

On July 20, 1944, the plot to assassinate Hitler took place and failed. Word got around fast and we felt then that the war would last until we were driven back into Germany.

I remember the signs at the railway stations in the early days of the war. "The wheels must roll for victory," the signs said.

After July 20, there was a new twist to that: "Heads roll for victory—of the other side."

Near us was one of Hitler's crack SS divisions, the Leibstandarte. The morale in that division was much higher than the morale in the regular army divisions.

But in talks with officers of the division I was surprised to find so few dedicated Nazis.

We fought hard, though it is difficult now to explain why. We felt back slowly before the advancing American and British tanks.

On Aug. 11 we underwent a particularly severe attack. Most of the men of Unit 1154 were killed or taken prisoner. I was hit in the side by a tank machinegunner and removed to a hospital in Holland.

When the Allies moved into Holland I was shipped back to Germany and eventually found myself in command of a newly organized artillery unit on the Eastern front.

I was in Czechoslovakia when the war ended in May, 1945.

Oil Reserves May Be Tripled

NEW YORK (AP)—Modern production methods may triple United States oil reserves.

Research projects offer hopes reserves in old fields can be boosted from a current 30 billion barrels to about 85 billion.

An official of the Fifth World Petroleum Congress said today modern technology may eventually permit recovery of 85 per cent of the crude oil known to be in underground reservoirs.

C. E. Reistle Jr., chairman of the drilling and production section of the International Oil Forum, said only an estimated 33 per cent of known oil deposits can be recovered through normal or primary production.

Reistle said spiraling costs have forced studies to obtain added oil from old fields.

Increased emphasis is being placed on improvement of such secondary recovery practices as injection of water or gas into the reservoirs. Such injections boost reservoir pressure and facilitate oil production.

Other experiments under way include the burning of part of the oil in the reservoir.

"Just how practical this will prove to be, we don't know," said the executive vice president of Humble Oil & Refining Co. at Houston.

The cost of such an operation probably would be high when you consider the value of the oil burned and the cost of compressing air into the reservoir for ignition purposes," he said.

Emphasis on improving production practices, Reistle said, is spreading to oilmen throughout the world.

"The Russians, for instance, report that in many fields they are making extensive use of water injection from the very beginning of production," he said. "The importance of the waterflood process can hardly be overemphasized."

Encouraging gas injection projects were reported in Texas, Mexico and Venezuela.

Long Can't Yet Be Politically Dismissed

GALESTON (AP)—Alling Gov. Earl K. Long, though down, still can't be counted out of the Louisiana political potpourri today.

Attending doctors at the John Sealy Hospital here said the 63-year-old Long might recover, possibly, within a three-month period.

It was the first official speculation on how long the governor might be out of action.

Physicians added to the bright picture by reporting that Long had quieted down and his thinking and speaking were very clear.

At the same time, Mrs. W. M. Knott of Many, La., the governor's sister, indicated his inclination was to be in touch with the political scene in his state.

"He knows what should be done," said Mrs. Knott, who is visiting him regularly. "His friends are cooperating."

In the Louisiana capital city, Baton Rouge, legislators split in their camps of opinion on Long's political future. But while there was doubt as to if and when he would return, nobody moved to challenge his leadership.

"The people around me know that I expect the governor to come back," Acting Governor Lether Frzaz said.

In the Legislature, Sen. B. B. Rayburn, in an effort to hold the pro-Long faction together, made a guarded announcement that his name had been mentioned as leader of the Long forces.

But Rayburn, the administration Senate leader, was quick to add that he would step up only if Gov. Long was unable to return.

There also reports that the governor's nephew, Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), wanted to succeed his uncle in office. But again, the feeling was the senator wouldn't be interested unless the governor was out of the picture.

Still in doubt was what Long's actions will be regarding his wife's committal petition.

Probate Judge Hugh Gibson ordered Long into protective custody after reviewing the petition. It was filed by the governor's wife, Blanche, and a cousin for Long's "protection."

Gibson will set a date for a sanity hearing today. It will probably be scheduled for June 13 or 15. Just what the governor intends to do at the hearing is not known.

Methodists Study Red China Issue

DALLAS (AP)—A full study of a resolution calling for diplomatic recognition and U.N. membership for Red China was ordered yesterday by North Texas Methodists.

The church group's conference accepted a report from the Board of Social and Economic Relations and World Peace calling for study of the resolution by "a small but representative committee—scholars familiar with the problems of documentary analysis, lawyers familiar with the rules of evidence and preachers familiar with Methodist policy."

The report came after the resolution—drafted by a study conference of the National Council of Churches—came under extensive criticism.

Marriage Next For Many Cadets

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Marriage next for one-third of the Air Force academy's 207 new graduates—first of an elite officer corps for the nation's air arm.

Weddings began three hours after the cadets, lauded by President Eisenhower and other national leaders, received bachelor of science diplomas and second lieutenant commissions Wednesday.

Seventy-two of the graduates, prohibited from marrying while cadets, scheduled weddings in the next 60 days.

The 207 are the survivors of 330 enrolled in 1955 when the academy began operating in remodeled wooden barracks at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver.

WEIGHTY PROBLEM

DEAR ABBY
 By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have a fat aunt in our family who comes to visit us quite often. No one knows exactly how much she weighs but she looks almost as fat as the fat lady in the circus—and she weighs 450 pounds. This fat aunt sits down on a chair and the chair almost comes apart. She can't get all of herself into certain chairs so she sits on the good ones that match our sofa. The springs are hanging down underneath. My father says he is going to have the chairs fixed up and send her a bill. My mother says he had better not as this fat aunt is her sister. Can you help solve our problem?

IN BETWEEN
DEAR IN: It is a pretty weighty problem, but unless your father wants to insult her outright he had better keep quiet and let the springs fall where they may.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and people ask me why I wear my diamond and wedding ring on my left hand. Should I wear them on my right hand? If so, when is the proper time to make the change? I would like to get married again some day, but don't want to look too anxious. WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: After a woman has been widowed for a year, if she is interested in attracting another man she should put her wedding ring in the drawer. But she may wear her engagement diamond on her right hand.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago my husband had an affair with my best friend who lived next door to me and still does. I forgave him but he broke my heart. We have four children and this woman is married and has three. Her husband forgave her and we hushed it up. This woman's last child is the very image of my husband. The boy looks so much like my youngest (same age) that people keep getting them mixed up. My husband says to forget it as it is all over and done with and I believe him. But, Abby, every time I see this child I get sick to my stomach. He plays with my children and is in my home often. What do you advise?

HEART-BROKEN
DEAR HEART-BROKEN: Your husband is asking you to do the impossible. How can you "forget" when this child is around to remind you daily? You forgave your husband, now he owes YOU a favor. Ask him to move his fam-

State To Continue Tidelands Rentals

AUSTIN (AP)—The General Land Office must continue to collect rental fees on Texas tidelands, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson held Tuesday that despite the controversy over the state's claim to 10 1/2 miles into the Gulf the land office has to collect the fees from oil drillers.

A. T. (Moon) Mullin, chief clerk of the land office, said $96,960 a year is involved. He said the rent will be held in suspense until the U.S. Supreme Court decides whether Gulf Coast states' boundaries extend three or 10 1/2 miles.

CUTS FORCE ITALIAN TO QUIT TITLE BOUT

By MURRAY ROSE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Light-weight king Joe Brown, truly a fighting champion, said today "I'm ready to go again on Monday if someone brings along a little money."

The 33-year-old fighter from New Orleans and Houston stopped cut-prone Paolo Rosi for a ninth-round technical knockout in their 15-round title fight at Ulice Arena Wednesday night. Rosi suffered a deep, wide gash over the left eye.

Old Bones and the bald challenger were even in the scoring at the time but it didn't matter much when the blood started to flow.

It was the seventh defense for the busy Brown since he won the 135-pound crown from Bud Smith on Aug. 24, 1956. Now the champ wants to go again.

"I don't have anything lined up," said Brown, "but if Rosi wants another shot and it can make some money, that's okay with me. There's Kenny Lane and Carlos Ortiz (the No. 1 and 2 contenders) and I'm ready for them."

Brown edged Lane in his fifth defense on July 23, 1958.

A straight right—Rosi moaned it was a butt-split open an inch and a half long, one-quarter inch wide cut over Paolo's left eye in the eighth round. Blood streamed from the gaping wound and it was no surprise when Referee Charley Reynolds, at the direction of the two ringside physicians, stopped the fight during the intermission between the eighth and ninth rounds.

Under District of Columbia rules it went into the record books as a ninth round TKO.

"He hit me with his head," Rosi said bitterly. "No punch, just his head. He's a champ? Say — a champ don't have to run away. I chase him all night—he hold. In the last round he butt and hold out his hand, say 'I'm sorry.' I fight him again and I beat him, you see."

"That little bald head can butt pretty hard," said Brown in rebuttal. "Feel them lumps on my forehead (he had them, too). I don't blame him for yelling 'but' as an alibi but everyone in the place saw that right cut him open."

Rosi, a 31-year-old Italian-born New Yorker, was the aggressor up to the finish.

The three officials were divided in the scoring. Referee Reynolds had Rosi ahead 76-71. Judge Harry Volkman had Brown in front 77-75. Judge Norvel Lee had them even at 75 each. The Associated Press had Rosi leading 77-75. The ringside poll showed an 8-4 margin for Rosi with two even.

Brown weighed 132 pounds, his lightest in many years. Rosi scaled 134. The champ was a 3-1 favorite in his 100th pro fight.

A crowd of 3,968 paid $28,769 for the telecast fight. Television added $40,000 to the pot, making Brown's purse $25,598 and Rosi's $12,799.

A Long, Long Wait

After 13 years of trying, Lt. Byron M. Chudom (above) scored his first hole-in-one on the Webb AFB golf course here last week. Using a seven-iron, Chudom punched a shot that traveled 135 yards to hit the flag pin and then drop into the cup on the ninth hole. The officer is the assistant staff judge advocate at Webb. LOOKING 'EM OVER
With Tommy Hart

Negotiations are quite far along for the construction of Big Spring's third bowling center (Webb AFB has one, you know).

If the plans jell, it will be located east of the city off Highway 90 near the underpass this side of Cosden's refinery.

Bobby Layne heads the group which is planning to build the sports palace. It's been estimated the center will cost upwards to $475,000 and will include 32 lanes.

Experts in the bowling business say the number of lanes within a city should be figured on the basis of one for each 1,000 population. If Layne's emporium is constructed, that would give the community 54 lanes. The city's population is now figured at close to 35,000.

Walker Of course, the bowling centers here are accessible to residents in Sand Springs, Coahoma, Forsan, Garden City and etc., and those places are now without bowling facilities of any kind.

Layne, who resides in Lubbock, has been in Houston beating the tubs for the Aug. 29 pro football exhibition between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Chicago Bears.

Bobby made the Steelers socially acceptable in pro football again.

He caused Coach Buddy Parker to stay awake nights with his extra-curricular activities when both were with the Detroit Lions but Buddy was quick to negotiate for Bobby once he hired out to Pittsburgh.

Doak Walker (who now lives in Denver, by the way) once said that Layne would probably play pro football until he was forced into retirement. He's regarded as the Ted Williams of pro football and gives no signs of slowing down.

He triggered the Steelers to six straight victories and a tie after moving over from Detroit last year and exudes confidence about this year's race.

Gene Carpenter, who went from the Big Spring High School basketball team to stardom at Texas Tech, recently was transferred by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company from Akron to Dallas.

Gene played one season of Industrial League basketball after graduating from Tech.

Ronnie Daugherty, who dealt the Big Spring Steers misery as a back for the Odessa Broncs last fall, recently signed to attend Oklahoma State University.

Witty Quintana, the one-time Big Spring infielder, was struck in the head by a pitched ball in a recent Monterrey-Austin Texas league game but his plastic batting helmet saved him a possible fracture.

The blow connected so solidly it broke his helmet into two parts. He was in the lineup the following night. And on the following night, another ex-Big Spring, Juan Visteur, scored the winning run as Monterrey tipped Austin, 3-2.

Freddie (Trompoloco) Rodriguez, still another one-time Big Spring player, recently was acquired conditionally by the desperate Philadelphia Phillies from Class AAA Buffalo.

Rodriguez, no doubt, will be used almost exclusively in relief mound work by the Phils.

Some one asked Bob Rogers, the Texas A&M basketball coach recently, if he thought Lewis Qualls, the seven-foot boy from Smiley, would help the A&M cause. (Qualls' temperament had been suspect among some mentors).

Replied Rogers:
"As long as he's with us, he won't beat us."

Tech To Have New Pressbox Ready For Opening Contest

LUBBOCK (SC)—Steel for Texas Tech's new pressbox is to arrive this week.

The three-story pressbox, extending from the 20- to 20-yard lines, with elevator service, is to be ready for the opening home game with Oregon State Sept. 26.

As construction of the pressbox gets under way, a new light standard will also be installed to replace the one taken down when the old pressbox was removed. The new standard will be the first of six to be installed eventually in the expanded Jones Stadium. On it will be 96 bulbs, as compared with the total of 72 carried on the three poles (24 each) over the east stands.

With all six standards bearing 96 bulbs, Jones Stadium will have 576 bulbs instead of the 144 now illuminating the playing area. This fall, 206 bulbs will light the field.

Finishing touches are being made on the excavation for dressing rooms.

Basilio OK's Fullmer Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio has agreed to fight Gene Fullmer for the National Boxing Assn. version of the middleweight title and let Ray Robinson keep his New York version of the 160-pound crown. But there still is a big "if" to the muddled situation.

A few hours after Syracuse (N.Y.) promoter Norman Rothchild announced Wednesday that Basilio and Fullmer will meet during the first two weeks of August in a Western city, NBA President Dr. Ward Wylie came up with a statement that started boxing fans wondering.

Dr. Wylie, from his Mullens, W. Va., home, said the NBA's executive committee might reconsider its stand on stripping Robinson of his title at a meeting later this month.

The Basilio - Fullmer bout would bring together two ex-champions, who have met. Each won and lost championship bouts with Robinson, whose title claims were sustained by the New York State Athletic Commission two days ago.

Early last month Robinson was bereft of his crown by the NBA for failure to make a title defense in more than 14 months. The New York Athletic Commission's reverse action was based on its reasoning that Robinson had actually signed to fight Basilio in Philadelphia.

Basilio objected to that meeting because he said he was not consulted.

Under District of Columbia rules it went into the record books as a ninth round TKO.

"He hit me with his head," Rosi said bitterly. "No punch, just his head. He's a champ? Say — a champ don't have to run away. I chase him all night—he hold. In the last round he butt and hold out his hand, say 'I'm sorry.' I fight him again and I beat him, you see."

"That little bald head can butt pretty hard," said Brown in rebuttal. "Feel them lumps on my forehead (he had them, too). I don't blame him for yelling 'but' as an alibi but everyone in the place saw that right cut him open."

Rosi, a 31-year-old Italian-born New Yorker, was the aggressor up to the finish.

The three officials were divided in the scoring. Referee Reynolds had Rosi ahead 76-71. Judge Harry Volkman had Brown in front 77-75. Judge Norvel Lee had them even at 75 each. The Associated Press had Rosi leading 77-75. The ringside poll showed an 8-4 margin for Rosi with two even.

Brown weighed 132 pounds, his lightest in many years. Rosi scaled 134. The champ was a 3-1 favorite in his 100th pro fight.

A crowd of 3,968 paid $28,769 for the telecast fight. Television added $40,000 to the pot, making Brown's purse $25,598 and Rosi's $12,799.

Ingo Will Remain Active, He Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson promised today if he wins the world's heavyweight title from Floyd Patterson at Yankee Stadium June 25, he won't be a lazy champion.

"If I win the world championship," the Swedish challenger said, "I would like very much to fight and fight much. I cannot say how many times, but I will like to defend my title."

The 26-year-old Ingo was quick to add that he wasn't predicting a victory over Patterson. The outcome, he said, is anybody's guess.

Golfers Hone Game In Eastern Tourney

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP)—More than one quarter of the players teeing off in the Eastern Open today will be honing up their competitive game for the prestige-laden United States Golf Assn. National Open Championship.

Nearly 40 of the Eastern entrants are eligible for the USGA event starting next Thursday at Mamaroneck, N.Y.

Three past winners of the National Open, Julius Boros in 1952, Jack Fleck in 1955 and Dick Mayer in 1957, are using the Eastern as their last tuneup for another fling at the big prize.

The Eastern, a municipal undertaking in all respects, is co-sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn. which has lined up a field of at least 135.

Among them are virtually all of the most successful golfers on this year's tour.

These include Art Wall Jr., Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler, Don Whit, Ken Venturi, Ernie Voelster and Mike Souchak. Among them, scheduled starters in the Eastern have taken 14 of the 19 PGA tourneys to date.

Wall won the Masters and Souchak the Las Vegas tourney for PGA winners. Wall won last year's Eastern in a playoff from Bob Rosburg and Jack Burke.

The touring pros will be using the Pine Ridge course for the first time in the 72-hole Eastern. The two-month old course is 6,800-yard course built around a lake and has a par of 72.

Local Fishermen Catch 56 Beauts

John Gregory and John Allison, both of Big Spring, caught 30 black bass and 26 crappie in six feet of water while fishing off Lefty's Camp at Possum Kingdom Lake near Breckenridge recently.

The two were using minnows as bait.

A Colorado City threesome, composed of Oscar Snyder, Jackie Barnett and Jimmy Tucker, gathered in 10 sand bass and as many black bass while trying their luck off Rock Creek at the same lake.

Midland Winner In Kegle Loop

The Longhorn Traveling league of bowlers terminated action this month and Midland Shamrock Lanes was winner by a one-game margin over Snyder Town and Country Bowl.

Madewell Humble of Big Spring ranked third and Fireball of Big Spring fifth.

B. Sprecher of Midland was named president, T. K. Price of Big Spring Fireball received the vice presidency and Ed Isaacs of Sweetwater became secretary-treasurer.

Games To Be On TV

CHICAGO (AP) — Athletes in the third Pan American Games Aug. 27 to Sept. 7 will be able to watch fellow contestants in other contests by television.

Husband Finds His Memory

WINTERS (AP)—Mrs. Hershel H. White, who learned yesterday that her husband has turned up in Hawaii after a seven-week absence, expected to find out today when he'll be home.

White, 31-year-old farmer and rancher, told Honolulu police yesterday that he remembered nothing between March and Tuesday night, when his memory returned as he sat on a waterfront wall.

"It's the most wonderful thing in the world," Mrs. White said after Runnels County Sheriff Don Atkins telephoned her White had been found safe.

She said she talked to White briefly by telephone in Atkins' office after learning of his whereabouts. "He talked only a little while, he is so upset," she said.

Atkins said Honolulu police told him White will be hospitalized in Honolulu until he is able to return home.

Police said Atkins told them the last thing he remembered was going to bed one night in March and making a mental note to go to the bank the next day to borrow $900 to pay his taxes.

Private Patrol Service Growing Popular Locally

A growing number of business firms here are using the private night patrol service offered by Vernon Gilbert, a Midland operator.

Gilbert has had one patrol car operating here for about three months, but he has operated a like service in Midland for six years and in Odessa for two.

He also hopes to initiate a central-office burglary alarm system here in the near future.

Horton Kennedy is the patrolman for this area and can be reached at AM 3-4037. The patrol car goes in service about 6:30 p.m. every day and patrols the area of its customers until the daylight hours the next morning.

Each customer is guaranteed his place of business will be checked five to seven times per night, but Gilbert reported that the number is usually much higher. The car is equipped with a radio on its own frequency.

Gilbert's patrolmen are not commissioned as police officers and have only the powers of any private citizen.

Plane Buzzed Over Pacific

TOKYO (AP)—Jet planes believed to be Soviet made three observation approaches on an American airliner over the north Pacific today more than 200 miles off Soviet territory, Northwest Airlines reported.

The U.S. Air Force said it had no planes in the area at the time, prompting speculation that Soviet fighters had approached the Seattle-to-Tokyo Northwest DC7C.

The plane crew reported that the closest approach came within two or three miles but the plane or planes did not cross in front of the airliner.

The American plane continued on course and reached Tokyo ahead of schedule. Its 46 passengers were asleep and apparently unaware of the incident.

A Northwest spokesman said the mystery planes appeared when the airliner was some 200 miles southeast of the Soviet Union's Kamchatka Peninsula, at 50 degrees 50 minutes north latitude, 162 degrees 55 minutes east longitude, and in the center of the busy commercial airline used by five U.S., Canadian and European companies.

Prices are $1.50 for a single performance; $3 each for season tickets, and two for $5; and $1.50 each for season tickets for students.

'7-Year Itch' Tonight Opens Civic Theatre Summer Series

There comes a time in most men's lives, so the doctors say, when the itch to roam becomes overwhelming.

The first, seventh, and 15th years of marriage, it is further said, are the most dangerous for a married man. It is the first that means adjustment to a new way of life, but the latter two periods bring about the itch.

It is with such a subject that "The Seven Year Itch" deals. The play, first in the Civic Theatre's summer series, opens at H.C.J.C. Auditorium tonight. Curtain time is 8:29 p.m. The play will run through Friday and Saturday.

Dewey Magee takes the role of the husband with an itch, the role made famous on Broadway and in the movie version by Tom Ewell. Many of his motivations are subtle, others are obvious; the most obvious one being The Girl Upstairs, played by Marjorie Brown, Marjorie Havins, Shirley Bailey and Liz James.

Another complication to the plot is created by Jerry McMillan as a writer friend of the family whom the husband suspects of flirting with his wife.

Dialogue of "The Seven Year Itch," unlike the cleaned-up film version, is a bit raw at times. The theme makes this inevitable; the husband tries to seduce the Girl Upstairs while his wife is away for the summer. Yet, the language and sex are not the crude, earthy Tennessee Williams type. The humor often is subtle.

Some of the risqué lines are accompanied by slapstick, others are more Continental in their approach. One piece of especially funny slapstick occurs when the husband attempts a love scene on the piano bench.

All in all, however, there's nothing morally misleading about "The Seven Year Itch." Indeed, the ending is sort of a warning to husbands who feel like scratching.

Magee, in these scenes, finds himself talking to spectres from his own imagination, or just sitting aside and listening; sometimes talking with his own ego.

Bill Sandefur's off-stage voice will be that of the husband's alter ego.

The dream sequences are filled with girls from Magee's imagination; the girl who has a habit of undressing with her shades up; his secretary; a French girl he once met on the beach; and a high-toned friend of his wife's. These parts are filled by Marjorie Brown, Marjorie Havins, Shirley Bailey and Liz James.

Rosene, Austin Oversee Crews For Civic Theatre

John Austin, director, and Roy Rosene, producer, had a hard row to hoe in staging "The Seven Year Itch." The production problems, especially, were headaches.

No play, and certainly not one so complicated stage-wise as "Itch," could be produced without the cooperation of a large number of people. Nor could the production crews have accomplished what they have without the expert overseeing of Austin and Rosene.

Thus, a salute to the crew members, who are:

Soap Box Derby Champion To Appear In Rose Parade

DETROIT — A trip to California to take part in the Tournament of Roses, $15,000 in college scholarships and other valuable awards and trophies make up the rich array of prizes at stake in the 22nd All-American Soap Box Derby Sunday, August 16, at Akron.

A total of 171 contestants from the United States and overseas, largest field in the history of the great amateur racing event or boys, will match car-building and driving skills as they vie for the prizes and national acclaim. Winner of the Big Spring Derby on June 25 will have a chance at the honors.

In addition to the $5,000 first place scholarship, the National Champion will win a trip to Pasadena to ride on the Soap Box Derby float next New Year's Day. In the starting spot he will be seen by nearly 80 million television viewers, will attend the Rose Bowl football game and take in other Southern California sights. The National champion also will be given a trip to New York City immediately after the All-American to make a national television appearance and for a round of sightseeing and entertainment.

The four boys finishing behind the champion also will be awarded scholarships and trophies, as follows: Second, $4,000; third, $3,000; fourth, $2,000; and fifth, $1,000. Valuable merchandise prizes go to boys finishing sixth through ninth. These include a 24-volume Encyclopedia Britannica with world atlas, dictionary and book case for sixth; a 16-mm. motion picture camera and projector for seventh; a power tool set for eighth; and a trans-oceanic portable radio for ninth.

Skill in car construction as well as driving will be rewarded again this year. Special trophies have been designed for builders of cars with the best brakes, construction, design and upholstery. A trophy also goes to the driver recording the fastest heat of the All-American.

Each of the 171 champions coming to Akron from cities in the United States, West Germany, Canada, the Philippines and Venezuela will be presented with a handsome 19-jewel, shockproof, waterproof wrist watch. Each champion also will receive a pair of Levis and tennis shoes and may keep his All-American racing helmet, champion's shirt and city flag as souvenirs.

Special silver championship racing wheels will be issued to each champion upon arrival at Akron. These are to be mounted on each car on Friday before the race. Each champion may keep the silver wheels as souvenirs.

Honor Student Diploma Given Big Spring Man

Brown Buford Rogers Jr. of Big Spring was graduated "magna cum laude" at commencement exercises at Texas Christian University-Wednesday evening, June 3.

The honor requires a grade point index of between 3.7 and 3.9 for the student's four years in college; 4.0 is "straight A."

Forty-one students were graduated with honors: six "summa cum laude" (3.9 or above average index); 12 "magna cum laude" and 23 "cum laude" (3.5 to 3.7 grade index).

Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown B. Rogers, 309 N. Main St., Big Spring, received a bachelor of arts degree in physics and mathematics.

He was treasurer of the TCU squadron of the Arnold Air Society, a member of the Air Force ROTC detachment, and was treasurer of the Disciples Student Fellowship, secretary of the TCU Physical Society and secretary-treasurer of the Parabola Club, math organization. He was elected to Alpha Chi, national honorary scholastic society.

Heald Woman Gives House To Church Pension Fund

A Wheeler County woman has made the second major gift in five months for the benefit of retired Methodist ministers.

She is Mrs. Nita Green of Heald, Tex., who has given a duplex in McLean, Tex., to the Superannuate Pension Endowment Foundation. The duplex is valued at $6,000.

Five months ago, Mrs. Green gave the foundation $1,000 in cash.

Gift of the duplex was announced at the closing session of the annual Northwest Texas Methodist Conference in Abilene by Dr. T. M. Johnston, who introduced Mrs. Green.

Dr. Johnston, of Abilene, is executive director of the endowment foundation, which is for the support of retired Methodist preachers and widows, and dependent children of Methodist preachers of the Northwest Texas Conference. Dr. Johnston also announced another gift to the foundation at

The Pension Endowment Foundation was organized in 1923 to undergird the pension program. All moneys earned in interest from these funds is turned over to the Board of Pensions of the Northwest Texas Conference to be used in paying of pensions.

Marshall Man Arrested Here

Amos Junior Jackson, wanted in Marshall, was arrested here Tuesday night by Jack Hackney and E. W. York, deputy sheriffs.

Jackson, according to a Harrison County constable, who was in Big Spring to return him to Marshall, had burglarized a hardware store in that city. He and a second Negro, now in jail in Marshall, allegedly stole three television receivers.

The Harrison county officer said that three $120 receivers were sold for $15 each. They have been recovered. Also stolen, the officer said, was two 200-pound bags of grass seeds. Unable to sell these the thieves had left them in the quarter one of the occupied in Marshall.

The prisoner was not even booked in at the Howard County jail. He was turned immediately over to the waiting officer who loaded him in a car and took off for Marshall.

The arrest was made at an apartment on N. Bell where Jackson and his family were living. The family was left in Big Spring.

A Devotional For Today

You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you. (Acts 1:8)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the promise that we shall have power to do work for Thee. We ask forgiveness for the many times we have neglected to keep in contact with Thee. Help us this day to abide in Thee. We ask in Jesus' name. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

Right Of Access To Seashore

The right of public access to seashore and lakeshore has, in the language of Shakespeare, been "cabined, crib'd, and confined" to the point of a national scandal. The public's right of access to the Texas seashore was dealt a mortal blow May 6 when the State Supreme Court refused to rehear the case of Luttes vs. State. It ruled that "mean higher high tide" should mark the line between the sea and the land, a legal gimmick the Gulf beaches to private interests by making it legal for them to fence to the water's edge.

A bill to offset this ruling has been written by Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston and Governor Daniel is expected to submit it to the special session in time for action. Off-hand we can imagine no measure more in the public interest than this, and the Legislature should waste no time and use no madding words in correcting this outrageous situation.

Another vital step in the preservation of the people's right to enjoy the beauties of nature is a resolution which would place the Texas Legislature on record as giving "all consent necessary to Congress and the President of these United States to enable the creation and establishment of a national seashore area on that portion of Padre Island deemed necessary."

Padre Island has been called the longest strip of unspoiled natural beach left in the United States. It is privately owned, and this complicates the problem of developing it and preserving it for the public use and benefit. Many steps at state and national level must be taken to that end, and the matter now before the Legislature is the necessary first step in the process. The designation of a "shoreline area" is similar to but not the same as a national park, and a resolution to declare Padre Island a shoreline area is ready for introduction in the U.S. Senate when and if the Texas Legislature adopts the "consent" resolution now pending.

Only a portion, not all, of Padre Island would be involved, but half a loaf is better than no bread.

Texas who believe in making available to the people all the recreational facilities they so sorely need and feel they have a right to enjoy should write their state representatives and senators urging immediate action on these two measures.

Judge It By Its Opposition

The prognosis for the Kennedy-Ervin labor bill, which ran the gauntlet of the Senate, is not good in the House where it comes on for action soon.

Last year it won in the Senate but was bottled up in the House. The same debilitating disease that barred any labor bill last year in the House confronts it again—a crossfire of criticism that it is either too weak or too strong, pending on who's looking at it.

Its co-author, Senator Kennedy (D-Mass) took note of this situation in an interview Sunday. He said the bill may be judged by the people opposing it—the big labor unions and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The bill is aimed at curbing the evils in labor-management relations, and Kennedy said it would be nothing short of disaster if Congress adjourns without passing it.

He was questioned by Senator Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY), who noted that James R. Hoffa's Teamsters union, the AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.

have all assailed the measure as passed by the Senate.

Kennedy said he would be worried if Hoffa was for the bill, declaring it was wrongheaded by Hoffa that brought the move for a tough labor law in the first place. Hoffa "does not come into this fight with clean hands." He commented that the bill "sounds as if it might be all right" if both AFL-CIO and the Chamber are fighting it. Neither one of these groups, he declared, have anything in common to offer.

Many advocates of reform have argued that a weak bill is no bill at all, since if adopted it would merely postpone any real reform indefinitely.

But how Congress can adjourn without passing some sort of reform measure in the face of revelation before the McClellan Committee is simply beyond comprehension. The Kennedy-Ervin bill is not the whole answer, but it is neither as strong as labor leaders say nor as weak as the U.S. C.C. alleges. The public and the rank and file of labor unions are entitled to action, not further stalling.

Impeachment Rather Than Rejection

LONDON — The spectacle which the United States Senate is making of itself nowadays is causing a good deal of comment in Europe. It is incredible to most Europeans that a president is evidently not allowed to select his own Cabinet officers without getting the consent of the opposition political party.

Newspaper accounts telling how the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has undertaken to pass on the qualifications of ambassadors tend to re-enforce also the criticisms which have long been made of the American form of government as lacking a sense of responsibility because it permits divided authority.

It was more than 100 years ago that Lord Macaulay wrote his famous treatise on the American constitutional system and said it was "all sail and no anchor." Even allowing for the differences between European and American concepts, the fact remains that the prestige of the United States suffers when such picaresque matters as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been dealing with lately in passing on ambassadorial appointments are reported in the press of Europe.

There is more than a passing interest, moreover, in the case of Lewis Strauss, whose appointment as secretary of commerce has stirred up such a controversy in the U. S. Senate. Over here, where they heard tales of "witch-hunting" and "persecution" under the era of so-called "McCarthyism," newspapers on European papers are asking what is back of the apparent vendetta launched against Mr. Strauss. In Europe they know him as the man who helped to prevent Communists from getting atomic secrets and as an official who has had the most cordial relations with Western governments on atomic matters. It is asked whether the pendulum has swung the other way and if the anti-Communists now are the ones being persecuted.

When some of the newsmen who inquire about the issues involved in the Strauss case are told that much of the opposition comes from senators who favor government ownership of electric-power projects and that the present secretary of commerce has been opposed to their views, the question then raised is whether the Democratic party is America's socialist party and whether this is going to be the issue in the 1960 campaign.

There is a revival naturally of the discussion about the celebrated case of J. Robert Oppenheimer, noted scientist, who was denied "security clearance" while Mr. Strauss was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. But it was an impartial board which revealed that Dr. Oppenheimer had contacts with Communists while he was at the head of a secret laboratory project of the U. S. government and that, when intelligence officers questioned him about these contacts, he misled them for a long while and then, three years afterward, confessed that he had lied to the American intelligence officers. It was, in the final analysis, matters involving Dr. Oppenheimer's judgment and discretion which led to his being barred, rather than any question about his loyalty.

The case has come to be talked about abroad as one that is not likely to end if the Strauss nomination is rejected. The controversy establishes an interesting precedent in that it helps to support the case for some form of parliamentary government which would provide America with a way to fix directly on one or the other of the major political parties the responsibility for the conduct of both the executive and legislative branches of the government at the same time.

The handling of the Strauss appointment is equivalent to an impeachment of the secretary of commerce, who took the oath of office seven months ago and has been performing the duties of his office satisfactorily ever since.

This is an obviously unfair approach. Conceivably it could, in time of war, take away from the commander-in-chief the power to promote a worthy military officer to a higher command post. It certainly is a means of frustrating executive operations by interfering with the right of a president to select his own advisers and aides.

It's small wonder that so many Europeans who study the abuses permitted under our constitutional system think that America hasn't quite matured.

Boys Get Goat

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Three youths, ages 11, 12 and 14, were caught as they led a goat from a farm near Tucson.

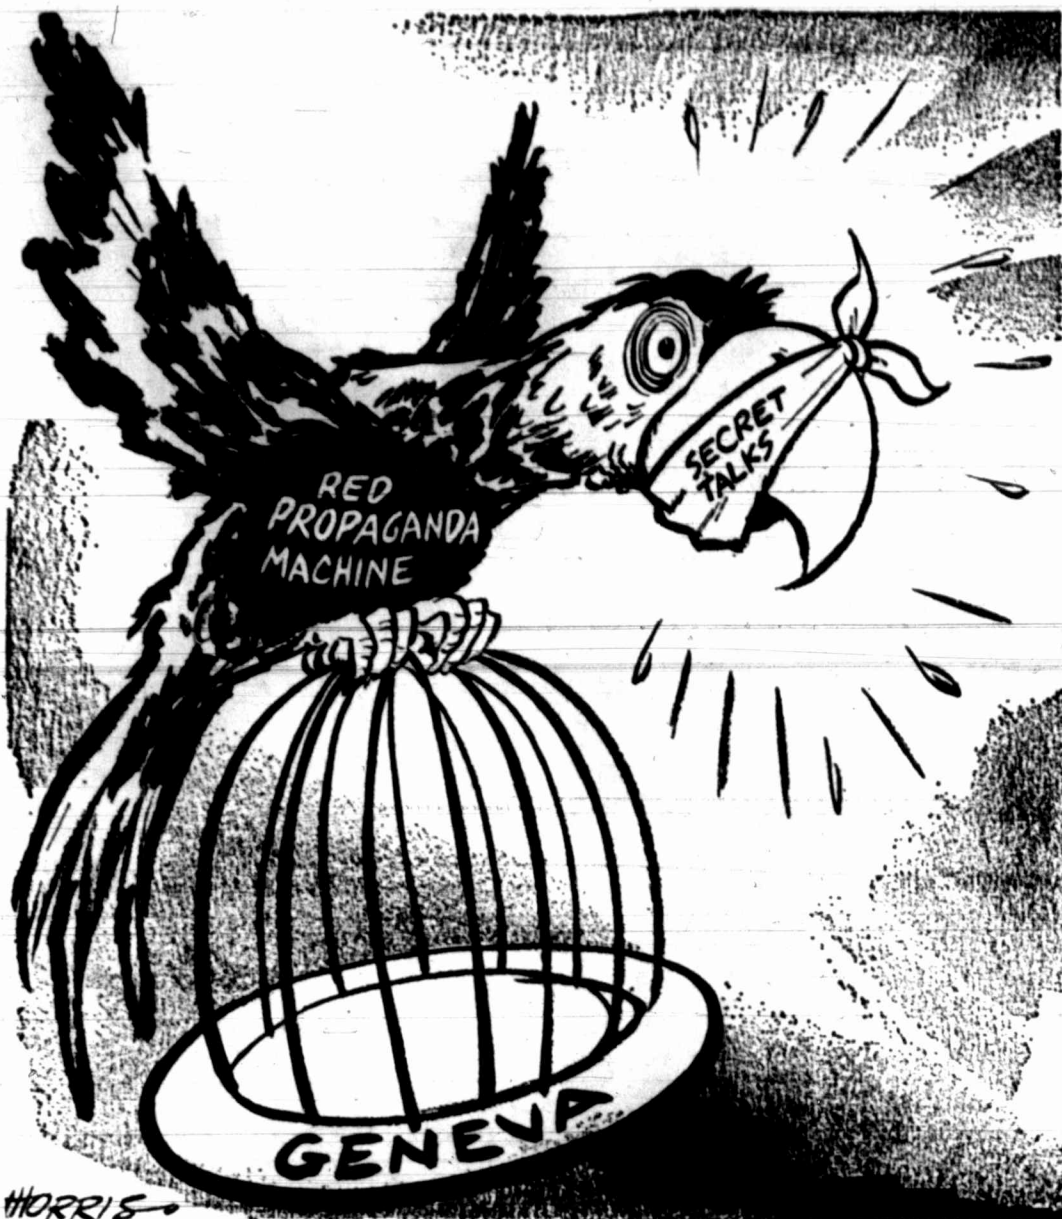

The boys said they wanted the animal for a pet. They had saved $2, but the goat cost $5.

Pima County deputies chipped in the $3, then released the youths and their new pet.

Well Tagged

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Earl Fuller of Washington, Pa., who spends his winters in Tucson, decided he needed a hobby to help occupy his time. He started collecting license plates.

Fuller now has 18,000 plates and he's not satisfied yet. He wants a complete series of auto tags from every state.

U.S. Listening With Both Ears

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has to listen with both ears. Nikita Khrushchev, the bouncy Soviet premier, is forcing this country to have two conversations with him at the same time and on the same subject.

The United States is negotiating with Moscow at Geneva, but at the same time must pay attention to every word Khrushchev says, miles away for a clue to what may happen in the talks.

At Geneva when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko says something, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter says something back. And when Khrushchev somewhere else says something, the State Department says something back to him.

This has been going on for weeks. Since Gromyko says only what his boss tells him, it isn't what Gromyko says, but what Khrushchev says, that counts.

They Want A Say

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A petition by 26 San Diego youngsters, headed by Charles R. Nielson, 10, sent to Rep. Bob Wilson (R-Calif.) said:

"Dear Congress — We think that children between 12 and 21 should be able to vote also. It would give them more opportunity to give their opinion. We are of age 9 to 11 and can see the difficulties. But we can also see the advantages."

Hal Boyle

Rich Man's Philosopher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hal Boyle, the right-of-landlord of this space in your newspaper, likes to turn Poor Man's Philosopher and make with homespun observations.

Now that Boyle — unlike most poor men of our acquaintance — is gallivanting about Europe, let's switch the pitch and play Rich Man's Philosopher.

Poverty is no handicap if you have money enough to afford it. Money can't buy everything, but it can buy a lot more things than no money.

The tolling of a cathedral bell may be more melodious than the jingling of a cash register—but where did the money come from to pay for the bell?

Julius Caesar was great, and Napoleon has his admirers, but why don't they put up a statue to the man who invented credit? Neither a borrower nor a lender be. Just have rich parents and disconnect your doorbell and telephone.

When you are poor you have to borrow a buck from time to time. When you are rich you can't afford to borrow less than a million.

Never forget that the rich man and the poor man have the same right to sleep on a park bench.

The love of money may be the root of all evil, but the lack of it is more likely to turn a man into a pickpocket.

If all the money in the world were divided equally among all the people of the world, women would still insist on having charge accounts.

Any man who wouldn't rather be thin than wealthy deserves to be fat and poor.

Start worrying about money when you miss your first meal.

Not Exactly The Hero Type

Isn't it good to read those stories that occasionally show up in the papers about some cool, clear-thinking individual who calmly saves a panic-stricken crowd from self-destruction.

That's my favorite kind of hero—the one who refuses to yield to panic, and who proves the value of the ability to look danger squarely in the face and avert tragedy by some simple, positive action.

I suppose it's because I feel that I'm out of another mold. People like I am need the other kind around to keep us out of trouble.

Fortunately, for me and the crowd, I've never been caught with a large group in a burning building or in any other situation that might call for quick, clear thinking. But I've panicked under less trying circumstances.

Once, for instance, when I had a major story to write for the paper. The deadline was at hand, and everyone was waiting on me.

The boss ushered me into his private office, turned his personal typewriter over to me, and said: "Get it written as quickly as you can. We're holding up the paper."

Somehow, I got the paper in the machine. I spread out my notes, which instantly took on a ghastly, grey, wordless hue.

Then my mind went completely blank. I could hear the old heart pounding a thundering stream of blood against my eardrums. My stomach felt empty, and my chest tightened so that I could hardly breathe.

"Don't panic. Don't panic," I mumbled. "Do something."

I felt around for the typewriter keys, and began to go through the motions of trying to write a few words. Somehow I got started, and between resurgences of paralyzing fear managed to turn out a story that got in the paper.

I didn't have the nerve to read the report after the day's paper came out, and to the present don't know what it said.

It must have been a terrible story, but nobody raised any fuss or sued for libel. Maybe they couldn't understand it.

Although I haven't experienced it any more, that moment of panic still hangs over me threateningly. What'll I do if I ever get in a real tight?

Shivering Voice Of Big Brother

COPENHAGEN — A week in Moscow does not entitle a visitor to return home and write the definitive volume on the Soviet System. Still, some aspects of the Soviet way are so obvious they would be apparent even to a mole.

One of the most obvious is the fact that in the Soviet system, nothing is too good for the Communist child. Friendly critics of the U.S.A. have not hesitated to say the same thing of the American way—that nothing is too good for the American young.

The difference, and it is a difference as between night and day, is the method by which both the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. strive to provide the maximum for the child. In the U.S.A. it is the parent who strives to give his child the best. In the U.S.S.R. it is the state and to such an extent that the child seems even more a creature of the system than his parents.

Only the nursing child, still unweaned, can spend his entire day at home, untouched by the state. When he is 12 to 18 months old, he is ready for the nursery school. At that tender age, in Western eyes, the state takes over and begins its alienation of the child from home and parents.

When I asked my Intourist guide (who took me to see a model playground in a parklike square centering a block of big new flats) if some of the children were not very young to be separated from their parents, it was her turn to be surprised.

"Oh, no," she assured me. "This summer every child in Moscow who is weaned and who is under 18 years of age will go to country camps for the whole summer."

In some country camps, the mothers are allowed to visit their children once during the summer and, in some, they can even visit twice.

Apparently, Miss Intourist sensed my dismay, for she added quickly, "The authorities cannot allow families of children to come and go as they please. Think what diseases they might bring with them!"

One swiftly becomes accustomed to children en masse, rather than as individuals, on the streets of Moscow. One sees them everywhere, in large groups, being herded through museums, the Kremlin and always accompanied by teachers—the agents of the state—and seldom by parents. They come in bunches, like asparagus, quiet, subdued and disciplined. I never saw any skylarking, any horseplay.

Children play decorously if happily, and part of their learning to be "useful citizens" is learning a song in which they are admonished "to hate the enemy." And who is the enemy? I leave you to an educated guess.

Nothing I saw in Russia left me more discouraged for the future than the indoctrination and regimentation of its children from the earliest age. It was by accident, on the day I visited the Kremlin, that I saw the culmination of much of this system in the rally of Young Pioneers (children the age of Boy and Girl Scouts) in Red Square.

Children were massed in that vast square by the thousands. There could have been anywhere from 20,000 to 50,000 boys and girls, behind their red flags and Russia's modern-day ikon, the eternal banner imprinted with the likeness of Lenin.

In Red Square that day I looked at the future of Russia, disciplined and indoctrinated almost from birth, untainted by anything but the party line and party thought, and now applauding on signal the voice of some Big Brother reverberating via loudspeaker.

It was not a reassuring sight.

Strauss May Be In By A Whisker

WASHINGTON — Senators of long service are saying they have never experienced such pressures as are being applied to bring about the confirmation of Admiral Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. The pressures come from a wide range of sources, indicating an intensive and thoroughly prepared campaign.

Several senators have had telephone calls from John L. Lewis, the doughy, 79-year-old president of the United Mine Workers. Lewis' theme is that Strauss, as Secretary of Commerce, would be helpful to the coal interests.

Other senators are being told that Strauss would be good for the oil interests. Word came to Sen. Hubert Humphrey from banking interests in his home state of Minnesota that if he considered himself in the "national picture" as a possible Presidential candidate he should rise above petty factional politics and vote for Strauss.

By parlaying these pressures from various quarters the Strauss managers believe they have the votes to confirm him by two to six votes. Checks show they are probably right.

The deciding factor may have been the statement issued by Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.). Gore said he was giving favorable consideration to Strauss and would probably vote for him. His colleague from Tennessee, Sen. Estes Kefauver, has been one of the leaders in the fight against Strauss.

In the long and bitter battle the irony is that Strauss, in the view of many senators, has been his own worst enemy. At the beginning of the confirmation hearings a private poll showed the committee for him, 14 to 3. At the end of the hearings, with Strauss day after day zealously and righteously seeking to erase even the slightest blemish on his record, the vote was 9 to 8 for confirmation.

Sen. Dale McGee (D-Wyo.) began in March with the fair-minded view that all things considered Strauss deserved confirmation. Now he has become one of those most determined to block the Strauss appointment. Almost every day since the hearings ended he has risen on the Senate floor to cite an instance from the record in which he charges that Strauss lied.

In the light of the bitterness engendered there are those who believe that Strauss' usefulness in the office has been seriously impaired. They say, therefore, that when he has been confirmed—and thereby vindicated—he should immediately resign.

The Strauss partisans say it would be a precedent subjecting every presidential appointee to the necessity for withdrawal under the clamor of public attack. They see no sign that this will happen with Strauss.

Of the political consequences for the Eisenhower administration and the Republican party there can be little doubt. It has fanned into flame the old and half-forgotten controversies of the Eisenhower first term—Dixon-Yates, the atomic power reactor program, secrecy and the fallout issue. Some of the votes for Strauss will be cast with extreme reluctance on the score that only twice before—once in 1867 and once under Calvin Coolidge—has a President been denied the right of his own choice for a Cabinet post.

No one is more aware of all this than the political realists close to Vice President Nixon. Nixon is going straight down the line for Strauss. But the young men in his entourage are scarcely happy about it.

When Sinclair Weeks resigned last fall they had a candidate of their own for his successor in 39-year-old Charles H. Percy, secretary of Bell & Howell in Chicago. They saw Percy fitting in with Attorney General William P. Rogers and Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton, putting a young face on the administration and the party. Instead Percy was made chairman of the special Republican committee to find a new image for the party.

But his image, that of a vigorous, progressive young businessman, would be far more effective in the Cabinet.

Variety In Names

DOUBLE TROUBLE, N. J. (AP)—When a New Jerseyite says he'd rather be in Double Trouble than Mount Misery, he's not just handing out some double talk.

He's simply stating a preference of towns. Actually these are only two of a number of unusual names by which communities in the state are called.

Others include Pi Hi, Plumsted, Allamuchy, Manaka Chunk, Oneg's Hat, Love Ladies and Hi-Nella Borough.

Produce, Dairy Items Ease Price Of Meats

By The Associated Press

Bargains in fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products and eggs this week are almost enough to make a housewife forget the prices at the meat counter.

The shopper who, in winter, must choose from a few items shipped from southern and far western fields now can pick from a long list of locally grown fruits and vegetables at attractive prices.

Milk production is expected to hit a seasonal high this month, which has caused the Department of Agriculture to proclaim June as Dairy Month. This year's output is expected to be close to or slightly larger than last year's 125 billion pounds of milk.

Egg prices, generally at the lowest levels in many years, turned upward in many sections with increases of 2 to 6 cents a dozen. The extra-seasonal decline continued by another 2 cents in other areas, however. Egg prices are expected to strengthen shortly as hens enter their summer laying slump.

Meat prices show reductions of 2 to 6 cents a pound for frying chickens, one of the most frequently offered specials this week. Chuck roast also is featured in many stores.

Sirloin steak prices are up here, and down there, while veal and pork chops are stronger in a few areas. Lamb also is more expensive, by 2 to 10 cents a pound.

Best vegetable bargains are green peas, broccoli, all types of lettuce, topped carrots, asparagus, spinach, radishes, green onions, new cabbage, new yellow onions and local cooking greens. You can get good buys from among pascal celery, sweet corn, snap beans, cucumbers and potatoes.

Cauliflower, green peppers and eggplant are moderately expensive.

Outstanding fruit bargains are bananas, pineapples, strawberries, North Carolina blueberries, apples, lemons, limes and even grapefruit.

Substantial bargains in peaches may be repeated again this year, for southern peaches already have made the good buy list with prices reported as low as two pounds for 35 cents.

WEDDING SPECIALIST'S ADVENTURES

To Specialist Weddings Are A Lot Of Hard Work

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U.P.)—Dressing ushers for a wedding is tough work. They're the dumbest things you ever saw. They can't put a button in a collar or a pair of cuff links in their sleeves.

"You take the smartest guy in the world, talk to him at a wedding and all you get out of him is uh-uh-duh!"

And that is why the wedding specialist of one of the nation's most high-fashioning men's clothiers turns up at fashionable weddings in a tee shirt and tennis shoes.

"I strip right down and get busy," said George Feen, who has handled more than 150 weddings for the more wealthy customers of J. Press Inc.

GETS TO TRAVEL

One anxious bridegroom paid for Feen's plane ticket to British Columbia to oversee a wedding, but his most exciting trip was to a huge society wedding on Long Island.

Feen, driving from New Haven with his car jammed with specially tailored cutaways, took a wrong turn. Instead of arriving at noon, he was still tearing toward the church at 1:45 p.m. The wedding was at 3 p.m.

But the bride's panicky father had called out the state police, who collected Feen and sped him—sirens screaming in a special motorcycle escort—to the scene.

"I got 'em dressed and to the church on time."

The weddings dearest to Feen's heart are those where the bride, groom, best man and ushers all invest in expertly tailored tails or cutaways to the tune of about $150 for each complete outfit.

"But if they insist on renting, we recommend an establishment," added the practical Feen. Even so, the purchase of shirts, ties, socks and collars mounts up.

"We average $150 to $200 on little last-minute details," he said. Feen throws in his services—which cover a wide range.

"I have my wedding suitcase. I have a needle and thread—bridgemen and ushers always have loose buttons—shoe horns, shoe polish, aspirin and smelling salts."

"I've had bridegrooms pass out on me so many times it isn't even funny. Fathers of the bride, too. One fellow, I tied his ascot with one hand and waved smelling salts under his nose with the other."

"I've got common pins, extra collars and shirts in a whole range of sizes, spare ascots and shoe laces. Men get all fussed at weddings and they're always ripping out their shoe laces just as the music is starting."

Small, dapper, black-haired Feen doesn't limit himself to just the men in the wedding party.

"I was at one wedding where the three bridesmaids somehow misplaced their dresses. That's right—lost 'em. The father of the bride was ready to die."

"I'd been at another wedding in the morning and was bringing back the bridesmaid's dresses to be cleaned. So I said, wait a minute, and ran out to my car."

"The dresses were a little bit loose, but the girls got down the aisle. The bride's father nearly wept on my shoulder."

"I usually spread the bride's train before she starts down the aisle. Listen, you've got to be a showman to run a wedding!"

Then there was the New Haven customer who felt he could get along without Feen. The wedding was at 1 p.m. At 11:30 a.m., a frantic telephone call summoned Feen.

"You never saw such a mess. The rented coats didn't fit, one fellow had the striped cutaway undertakers use. One had a white vest. One had brown cordovan shoes—with a cutaway!"

Feen's brow creased in pain at the memory.

"I ran back and forth from the church to the store 15 times. But they were all ready to go when the music started."

STAYS CALM

After the men are dressed, Feen grabs a shower, dresses rapidly in a conservative dark suit and reappears with impressive face.

"I've got to stay calm—somebody has to."

After the wedding, he has more work.

"I always change the groom's shirt. And listen, you can just wring out a bridegroom's shirt. You just don't know how rattled a man gets when he has to face that altar."

Shower Is Courtesy For Miss Barr

Hostesses for the supper were Mrs. Guin and her daughter, Jane, and Mrs. Jack Irons.

Emphasizing the bride's chosen colors of yellow and white, daisies were used to decorate the serving table and the smaller tables at which guests were seated.

Gifts placed on a cart were presented the honoree, who also received a remembrance from the hostesses.

About 20 were included in the invitations, with Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Howard joining the group of friends.

Helps Her Daughter

Frances Bergen, who is always so beautifully dressed, discusses teen-age grooming with Lydia Lane in today's Hollywood Beauty. Frances is a regular member of the "Yancy Derringer" TV series.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Encourage Teen-Agers In Good Grooming

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—When I visited Frances Bergen on the "Yancy Derringer" set at CBS I met her teen-age daughter Candy. "Isn't she beautiful," I said when we were alone.

Frances accepted the compliment graciously but added: "When someone reports to me that she has lovely manners I'm even more pleased. I'm from Birmingham, Alabama and my mother drilled southern courtesy into me and I'm so grateful for it. I want to pass this training on to my daughter."

"I'm also trying to teach her good grooming. You simply have to stay with a girl of 13 and insist on cleanliness. She would much rather watch television than take a nightly shower."

"Before she goes in to dinner I always inspect her fingernails. I gave her a manicure set and in return, for keeping her cuticle neat she is allowed to wear clear polish."

"Candy has to give herself a shampoo once a week. I'm teaching her to put up her hair on big rollers. When I was modeling in New York, I had to wear my hair three different ways in the same day and so I learned to do it myself. It is impossible to go to the beauty salon as often as we'd like to, so the next best thing is to learn to do it yourself."

"What cosmetics do you allow your teen-ager?" I asked.

"It is a very fine line between giving a young girl training in caring for her appearance and encouraging vanity. In California it is so dry even children need complexion creams if they are out in the sun a great deal."

"I won't let Candy use anything but the milky-type baby lotion. My doctor recommended it, and she is so humiliated that it's for babies that she always washes off the label."

"Then she has her own deodorant, bath powder and cologne, oil for her cuticle and of course shampoo. I'm very insistent that she have two hair brushes so that she always has one that is clean."

"Candy is fortunate to have such excellent training," I said in parting.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

This may be true only for today but no one can properly refer to our county as being in 'dry West Texas.' This morning there wasn't a dry spot to be found. In fact some of the houses found some wet spots where the driving wind blew the water under the otherwise tight doors.

Just when women were getting accustomed to wearing sleeveless dresses and rather enjoying them, the stylists set out to make the sleeve the 'thing' in fashion. With all the treatment given to arm covering I shouldn't be surprised to see leg o' mutton style revived for this winter. Which will call for new coats, etc.

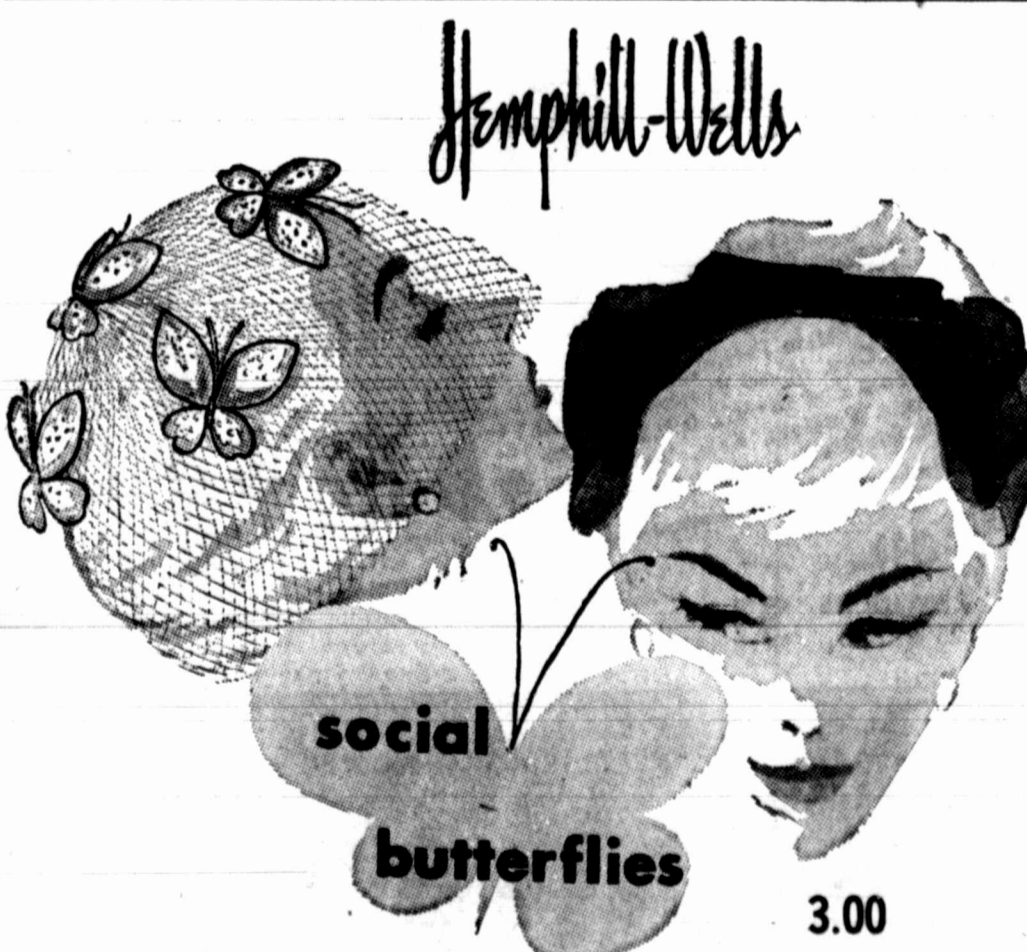

Through the years, professional duos have brought musical thrills to their audiences by singing Indian Love Call. None I have heard have done it as beautifully as JOYCE HOWARD and IRA SCHWARTZ when they sang for the Downtown Lions anniversary dinner Tuesday night. Each had sung solo, and both numbers were delightful, but the duet was thrilling.

Back home to help the club celebrate were MR. AND MRS. HAROLD STECK and MR. AND MRS. ARNOLD O'NEAL of Midland, MR. AND MRS. BOYD MCDANIEL of Abilene, and JUDGE AND MRS. CECIL COLLINGS of Eastland.

Flowers for the guest tables were all gathered from the yards of Big Spring and were arranged by MRS. SCHLEY RILEY and MRS. DAN CONLEY; it took a bit of doing as they prepared 12 or 14 small bouquets and three large arrangements. Incidentally, MRS. JOHN COFFEE furnished magnolias for the larger centerpiece from her tree which has bloomed beautifully this year. I can see why the southerners named their favorite daughters Magnolia.

MRS. HOWARD KEMPER visited here during the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dublin, and her sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Garrett and their daughters. Mrs. Kemper continued her trip to Fort Worth where she got her daughter, Dorothy Jean, who is a student in TCU. They returned to their home in Phoenix, Ariz.

MR. AND MRS. A. W. MOODY and their children, Sarah, Joe Vernon, Sue and Sylvia, left this morning for their home in Aurora Grande, Calif. Mrs. Moody has been in Bentonville, Ark., with her parents until her husband re-

Cap your curls this new delightful way with an airy cobweb of veiling, whimsically decorated with butterflies in flight . . . or with gossamer wings of hairbraids set on a velvet clip. Come see our group of delightful conversation-makers . . . Black, beige, white or pink.

Fairview HD Club Appoints Nominee

Fairview HD Club, meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. S. Hanson, elected Mrs. Shirley Fryer as their nominee for delegates to the state convention. The meeting will be held in September at Galveston.

The hostess brought the devotion from Psalms 23. Roll call was answered with Do We All Practice the Golden Rule?

O. M. Alexander, of Bell Telephone Company, presented a film on safety. The program on health, given by Mrs. Jim Smith, was climaxed with the serving of brownies made with whole grain meal. Women in the HD clubs have been promoting recipes using enriched meal.

Mrs. R. N. Adams will be hostess at the next session.

Space Monkey Dies

Able, the space flight monkey which died during an operation for removal of a recording instrument, was a frisky animal during the postflight press conference in Washington, D.C. Able, the larger of the two monkeys which rode the missile, succumbed at the Army medical research laboratory in Ft. Knox, Ky., as an electrode implanted under its skin to record physical conditions during the flight was being removed.

Senate Probers Call 2 Kingpins In Pinball Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probers today call two alleged kingpins of a multimillion dollar pinball-gambling racket to answer questions about their activities in Indiana's Lake county. The pair, George Welbourn and Steven Sohacki, have been described as the collectors of a fortune from operation of the machines in the populous steel-making area. Committee Counsel Robert Kennedy said the two would be asked — among other things — about any payments they may have made to any public officials. Two days of testimony on the Lake county situation, has pictured the Welbourn-Sohacki combine as the beneficiary of "protection" from the office of Metro Holovachka and his chief investigator, Walter Conroy. Holovachka, former Lake county public prosecutor, now is deputy prosecutor. Both Holovachka and Conroy are scheduled for appearances before the committee Friday. Holovachka's office has been described throughout the hearing as an enemy of any pinball machine not owned by Welbourn and Sohacki, and as willing to leave any Welbourn-Sohacki machine unmolested. A string of witnesses testified that Conroy confiscated machines of rival owners or ordered them removed. Committee investigators testified earlier in the week that Welbourn and Sohacki collected over 12 million dollars from these mysterious machines in a five-year period. The machines bore only a telephone number.

Charged In Murder

Clark Brillhart, 24, left, talks into a microphone held by Highway Patrol Lt. R. E. Frusher who nabbed him near El Reno, Okla. Brillhart is charged with the crowbar bludgeoning of his mother, Mrs. Elmer Brillhart. His father also suffered a fatal beating at his home near Hobart, Oklahoma.

... he gets pretty mad at the unfair things some people say about Electric Cooperatives. He says that if it hadn't been for our electric cooperative we might still be without electricity. He says we borrowed the money at interest to build our own system — That we made a covenant and agreed to serve as many rural people as we could and that in many areas we put up several miles of line just to serve one member. He says the cooperatives are the world's greatest rural electrification experts. My husband also says that we've never tried to take consumers from other utilities, and he doesn't think they should invade the areas we fought so hard to develop. My husband says we must have equal rights to survive.

Fulbright Protests Ike Summit Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) took issue today with President Eisenhower's decision to shun a summit conference unless the foreign ministers at Geneva make "a measure of progress." The President, in a news conference Wednesday, set as his minimum requirement Soviet acceptance at Geneva of Western rights to stay in Berlin until Germany is reunited into a single nation.

Minister Admits 'Involvement,' Asks Dismissal

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Three times, a couple in the congregation of the Rev. W. S. McBirnie was on the verge of a break-up. And three times, he sought to reconcile the couple. Twice, he said, the couple was reunited. But when he tried to repair the family ties a third time, he said, "I unwisely became partisan in my defense of the wife." "This led to an involvement between us of the kind I now recognize to have been improper." The 39-year-old pastor of the Trinity Baptist church, second largest Baptist church here, asked his congregation Wednesday night to replace him, and to forgive him "as I have begged God for forgiveness."

A standing-room-only crowd jammed the sanctuary and listened in silence as McBirnie—married and the father of a high school pupil—confirmed a report published by San Antonio News columnist Paul Thompson. The minister did not elaborate on the "improper" involvement. McBirnie asked an assistant pastor to lead a prayer. As heads in the sanctuary were bowed, McBirnie left the auditorium and went home. He became pastor of the church three weeks after it was organized in 1949.

Court Action Helps 'Wets'

AUSTIN (AP) — A State Supreme Court action Wednesday will enable a city or precinct to vote "wet" even though it is in a "dry" county. A brief in the case declared the final decision will affect the status of incorporated cities in 76 counties in Texas. The high court refused to review a decision of the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio. Justice W. O. Murray wrote the decision in a case brought from Dimmitt County. A suit was brought against Dimmitt County Judge Jay Myers seeking issuance of a writ requiring an election to be called to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages in Asherton. The Commissioners Court had refused the order since the county had voted dry. The trial court ordered the writ issued and Murray's opinion upheld the lower court. A constitutional amendment in 1935 authorized elections to prohibit or legalize the sales of alcoholic beverages. Dimmitt County voted dry.

Mrs. Truman Leaves Hospital

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Harry S. Truman, who underwent surgery for removal of a breast tumor May 18, has returned to her home here. The 74-year-old wife of the former President was released from research hospital in nearby Kansas City Wednesday, accompanied only by her husband, Mrs. Truman walked from the hospital to the family car for the short trip to her home. The tumor was not malignant.

Quinn Orders A Probe Of Data Removal

HONOLULU (AP) — Territorial Gov. William F. Quinn has ordered a formal investigation of removal of office equipment and supplies from Senate chambers after the last Territorial Legislature adjourned May 11. Quinn, a Republican running for governor in Hawaii's first state election July 28, issued a statement Sunday asking legislators to "account for their stewardship" of public property. He followed this up Wednesday with a directive for an inventory.

Some members of the Democratic-controlled Legislature were accused indirectly of making off with desk sets, chairs, desks, vacuum cleaners, typewriters, filing cabinets and other equipment after their last session as a territorial body. Some senators conceded taking the articles but contended such practice was traditional. Some others said they had paid for the articles. Newspapers, radio stations and some Republicans are making a big to-do of it. Newspapers report the equipment involved is worth several thousand dollars. The acting president, Democrat Sen. Matsuki Arashiro, and the Senate Accounts Committee Chairman, Sen. John G. Duarte, agreed to cooperate in the investigation. "So far as the Legislature goes, it has always been done," Arashiro said. "The Legislature gets new things every session. Who, as a legislator, wants to use something that has been used by someone else?" Arashiro said he gave his Senate desk set to school children for souvenirs. Duarte said 852 pounds of such furnishings were sent to him by plane to his Maui Island home. But he said he paid for them. The shipment includes a desk, four chairs, a foam rubber couch, a filing cabinet, a fan, a typewriter and stand, a TV set and two cartons of miscellaneous items.

BRUSSELS (AP) — The controversial wedding of Prince Albert of Belgium and Italian Princess Paola Ruffo di Calabria will take place July 2 in Brussels, the royal palace announced today.

Compromise Reported Brewing In Army-AF Battle Of Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise decision to continue both the Nike and Bomarc missile programs at a cut-back level was reported in the making today. An influential congressional official said he has been informed that Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy plans to recommend a go-ahead for both the Nike-Hercules and Bomarc missiles. But he said the secretary is likely to propose to President Eisenhower a reduction in outlays for both of the missiles, since they represent air defense only against bombers at a time when charges of missile attacks are growing. This decision was expected to depend in part on the reports McElroy receives on progress toward obtaining the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile. Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that "a complete and exhaustive" survey of the missile field is being made by McElroy and should be completed within 10 days.

The Army and the Air Force have been squabbling over the respective merits of their missiles and House and Senate committees also have taken opposing stands. The Army contends its Nike-Hercules, although limited to a range of about 85 miles, is a proved weapon which already has been installed in some areas. The Air Force Bomarc is still being developed, but its proponents contend it is needed to keep enemy planes from getting too close to their targets. It now has a range of about 200 miles, with a hoped-for increase to 400 miles in an improved model. The House, in passing a $38,848,339,000 defense money bill Wednesday, cut $182,700,000 from budgeted funds for the Bomarc. It rejected an effort to cut another 200 millions which the appropriations committee left in the measure for a Bomarc procurement. The House also gave the Army the full 95 million dollars budgeted for its Nike-Hercules. The Senate Armed Services Committee earlier had cut 17 millions from a proposed 22 million dollar authorization for extension of the Nike system, saying that system is virtually obsolete. It acted in approving a military construction bill on which Senate action has been delayed. At the same time it was cutting Bomarc funds, the House added 200 million dollars to budget requests for the Army's Nike-Zeus, to speed the time when the weapon can be developed and made available for defense against enemy missiles. The money bill passed 392-3 by the House followed without change the recommendations of the House Appropriations Committee. The total voted was $399,851,000 less than Eisenhower requested both increases and decreases from his specific recommendations. The biggest cut was elimination of 260 million dollars asked by the Navy for a super aircraft carrier, but 255 million dollars was added to the money for antisubmarine warfare programs. The House rejected a number of proposed changes in its committee's recommendations, among them one to cut out the extra money for antisubmarine warfare. It also turned down an amendment to require the President to maintain Army strength to 900,000 instead of 870,000 as recommended by both the President and the committee. Also turned down were proposals to increase Air Force plane procurement funds, and to restrict employment of high-ranking retired military officers by companies having defense contracts. "There was no attempt made to put back in the bill the 260 million Eisenhower requested for another super carrier for the Navy. Backers of the carrier complained against the committee's denial of this money but, in the face of apparent defeat, decided to make their stand in the Senate. The House bill allots $9,206,905,000 to the Army, $11,025,103,000 to the Navy, $17,228,506,000 to the Air Force and $1,387,825,000 to the Office of the Secretary of Defense. For the Army this is a $221,905,000 increase; for the Navy a cut of $82,672,000; for the Air Force a reduction of $538,694,000, and for the secretary's office a cut of $400,000.

Nicaragua Doubles Its Army To Meet Invasions

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua began doubling its army today in the wake of invasion thrusts by opponents of Dictator-President Luis Somoza. The buildup of the nation's armed forces got under way even though it was officially announced the small band of rebels who invaded by air over the weekend was fleeing and no longer a danger. The government said it was adding 2,000 men to the National Guard—the nation's army which already numbers about 2,000 actives. In addition, 10,000 guard reservists are being called up for training. To support its claim that the airborne invaders were on the run, the government was taking foreign correspondents to the area in south Nicaragua where the rebels landed from Costa Rica. The army has said only about 75 rebels landed and that they were on the point of annihilation. But in San Jose, the Costa Rican capital, the Nicaraguan rebel leader, Enrique Lacayo Farfan claimed that strong contingents of farmers were joining the rebels. He said a National Guard force had been ambushed in Pozo Canyon and a large amount of military equipment captured. A rebel radio broadcast said the rebels had suffered no more than six casualties. Somoza's government also was pressing for the Organization of American States (OAS) to intervene. The OAS met Wednesday to consider Somoza's appeal for help and set another emergency session for today. The Nicaraguan Ambassador, Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa relayed to the OAS his government's report that three yachts from Cuba, carrying revolutionaries "from various nations" were nearing the Nicaraguan coast.

This Prospective June Bride Is Happily An Accomplished Cook

"What a lovely bride, and what wonderful cook she is, too!" Not every bride of June or any other month can rate such a compliment. But when Darlene Agee walks down the aisle June 20 to pledge her vows with Ray Lewis Dabney, the wedding guests will doubtless be murmuring these very words.

That she can cook is no accident. When her maternal grandmother came to Texas from Tennessee, she brought with her a reputation as a great cook in the southern tradition. The talent has been inherited by her descendants, including Darlene's mother, Mrs. H. J. Agee, 704 West 18th, who has been the Herald's featured cook. She encouraged Darlene as a youngster in the kitchen usurping some of her mother's pie dough for her own miniature goodies.

Cookouts as a Brownie, three years of homemaking in high school, when she won the state degree in FHA work, and a year in Baylor University, where she spent spare time composing a scrapbook of fancy food pictures and their recipes, only whetted her culinary aptitude. Creating fancy dishes challenges her, although her mother points to cakes as her specialty. But she is equally adept at preparing whole meals.

One of them, Favorite Chocolate Cake, is well known to Miss Agee's co-workers at Security State Bank, where she is bookkeeper. She frequently takes one for the employees' coffee breaks. Moist and light as a feather, the whole concoction takes little time to prepare, especially since the icing has a powdered sugar base. The recipe is given here, together with one for Brownies, which are Ray's pet sweet. Another recipe, Talarani, will be an 'old faithful' when the couple starts housekeeping in Eldorado.

A gifted musician, Darlene is in demand as a pianist and organist. For two years she was organist for College Baptist Church, and she has frequently served in that capacity at the First Church. Try this bride-to-be's recipes:

- FAVORITE CHOCOLATE CAKE
 1/2 cup shortening
 2 cups sugar
 3 eggs
 2 cups flour
 2 squares chocolate
 1 tsp. salt
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1/2 tsp. baking powder
 2 tsp. baking powder
 1 1/2 cups sweet milk
 1 cup chopped pecans, if desired
 Melt chocolate over hot water while mixing other ingredients. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs. Sift dry ingredients together. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture and then add melted chocolate and chopped nuts. Cook at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes or until done.
- BUTTER ICING
 1-3 stick butter
 1/2 box powdered sugar
 1 tsp. vanilla
 3 tbsps. cocoa
 4 or 5 tbsps. cream or milk
 Mix well together and thin to desired texture with milk. Add chopped nuts, if desired.
- BROWNIES
 1-3 cup butter
 2 oz. unsweetened chocolate
 2 eggs

Pretty As A Picture

And so is this chocolate cake freshly baked by Darlene Agee. Not only has she developed cooking skill; this bride-to-be has another homemaker talent—sewing. The attractive frock she is wearing is testimonial. She is holding her scrapbook of fancy culinary recipes and party ideas, which she began as a freshman at Baylor University.

- 1 cup sugar
 1 tbsps. corn syrup
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1/2 cup flour
 1/2 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 2-3 cup chopped nuts
 Place butter and chocolate in a sauce pan over low heat, stirring constantly until butter and chocolate melt. Remove and cool. Beat eggs in, one at a time, until well blended. Add sugar, corn syrup and vanilla to chocolate mixture and mix well. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and add. Beat until well blended. Stir in nuts. Grease pan or line with waxed paper. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Yields 16.
- TALARANI
 1 lb. ground beef
 1 small can tomatoes
 1/2 cup English peas
 1 large onion
 1 lb. cheese
 1 cup spaghetti
 3 tbsps. fat
 1 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper

- Brown meat. Chop onions and cook. Put spaghetti on to boil. Combine the tomatoes, peas and grated cheese. Add cooked spaghetti. Mix well and serve hot.
- AVOCADO DIP
 1-8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
 2 medium sized ripe avocados, mashed to pulp
 3 tbsps. lemon juice
 1-3 cup chopped green onion
 1 tsp. salt
 Dash Worcestershire sauce
 Leave cheese at room temperature to soften. Cream cheese and avocado pulp with electric mixer until thoroughly blended. Add lemon juice, onion and salt. Mix. Add Worcestershire sauce and mix thoroughly. Serve at room temperature with corn chips.
- Fried Chicken
 Spice fried chicken by adding paprika, dry mustard and garlic or onion powder to the dipping flour.

Hors D'Oeuvres Are Best In Ample Variety

Giving a party soon? If hors d'oeuvres are in order, remember that they are small and plenty of the bite-sized tidbits should be provided. It's best to offer guests a variety of flavorful treats. Here are two suggestions which capitalize on minced ham and chicken livers:

CHICKEN LIVER APPETIZERS
 18 mushrooms
 8 oz. chicken livers
 1 cup packaged prepared stuffing
 1/2 tsp. minced onion
 3 tbsps. butter
 1 cup chicken broth or water
 Clean mushrooms, putting caps aside and chopping stems. Sauté stems and onion in butter. add chicken broth, heat and add stuffing and finely chopped chicken livers. Stuff mushroom caps with chicken liver mixture and bake 20 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Slices of bacon may be laid over the top of each mushroom cap while baking, if desired.

MINCED HAM PINWHEELS
 1 can minced ham
 1 chopped hard-cooked egg
 1 tsp. pickle relish
 Enough mayonnaise to moisten

Potatoes Get Credit For Power To Please

Potatoes and peas have been given a lot of varied credit down through the years. Potatoes have been known as a "healer," for example. It was said the next to ward off rheumatism, sciatica or lumbago was to carry a potato in your pocket. In Holland, the potato had to be stolen to be effective. A sliced potato carried around the neck in a stocking "cured" a Newfoundland sore throat.

A Texas folk cure for burns and frostbite was scraped raw potato. In Mississippi, a raw potato poultice was recommended for a black eye. The Irish said water from boiled potatoes was good for rubbing on aches, sprains and broken bones. Even a pebble boiled with potatoes, it was believed would assume great curative abilities.

Peas, too. Water in which peas had been boiled once was recommended for measles in England. Or, if you wanted good luck, merely find a pod with either one or nine peas in it. And luck for the girls during Leap Year was insured because peas grow the wrong way in their pods for that occasion.

The days of superstition are past. But the days for giving lots of credit to potatoes and peas will remain as long as these items are so delicious and nourishing.

And the credit a family will give mother as she combines peas and potatoes in spring menus will be encouragement to do it more often. Even father will join with praises because he'll recognize good taste and economy of frequent potato-pea servings. Both items are on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods this month. Most of the abundant supplies of potatoes this spring are from storage stocks of the fall crop. They're the best for baking, French frying, mashing or for chips. But the amount of new, spring-fresh potatoes is increasing. These have been raised in mild winter areas and have thin, easily bruised skins, so you'll want to buy them by the week and take good care of them. They'll keep best in cool, dark, well-ventilated places. New potatoes go especially well with their plentiful partner, green peas. You'll score heavily by preparing either of these recipes: Vegetable du Jour. Scrub new potatoes, clean and steam them in their jackets until fork-tender. Drain, cool slightly and remove skins. Heat canned green peas to serving temperature; drain; add new potatoes and medium-thick white sauce. Serve with a scattering of grated golden cheese. Potato Soup. Cook new potatoes in their jackets until tender. Cool. Remove skins. Dice potatoes. Add potatoes to thin white sauce, seasoned with salt and green peas and thin celery slices. Bring to serving temperature. For additional flavor, add 1 small diced onion to white sauce. Serve with buttered toast points. Or, you can bring additional credit to potatoes, peas and your-foods generously in spring salads. Potato-pea salads are ideal for picnics because they can be prepared with infinite variety, well in advance of the time you pack the car.

Guests Will Love Tiny Meat Balls

Serve hot meat ball bites as hors d'oeuvres if you would shine as a hostess. The mouth-watering tidbits are easily made. Just remember to stir up enough of them, and stick them with toothpicks for easy serving. This is a recipe for your perusal:

MEAT BALL BITES
 8 oz. chuck, chopped
 1 1/2 cups packaged prepared stuffing
 1/2 cup water
 1 tsp. minced onion
 1 tsp. Parmesan cheese, (grated)
 1/2 tsp. salt
 Good shake of black pepper
 Chopped parsley to taste
 1/4 cup water
 3 tbsps. butter
 Melt butter in water, add stuffing, meat and onion, cheese, parsley, salt and pepper. Mold mixture into 1 inch balls. Broil until nicely browned. Serve hot on toothpicks. Makes about 24 meat balls.

Milk Family Contributes Much To Human Health

A family is known by characteristics. Are its members leaders? laggards? thrifty? extravagant? helpful? pleasant? just ordinary good folks? substantial?

The same is true of food families. Take the milk family, for instance. If awards could be passed out to food families for long, sustained and impressive public service, milk and the whole family of dairy products would qualify. In a way, dairy products are receiving the distinguished service medal this month for June in Dairy Month.

What are the characteristics of milk and its family members that make them such a standout among foods? WHOLE MILK has a minimum of 3.5 per cent butterfat and 8.25 per cent milk solids. Most milk purchased has been pasteurized, or scientifically heat-treated, to keep it pure and sweet longer. Whole Milk contains proteins, carbohydrates and fats which furnish food energy for supporting the demands of the body at work or play. It is rich in calcium and phosphorus from which our bones and teeth are formed. It is one of the best sources of vitamins A and B2 (Riboflavin), and a good source of vitamin B1 (Thiamine). The vitamin D content is increased by irradiation. Vitamin D helps to utilize the calcium in the body.

SKIM MILK contains all the goodness of whole milk, except for the butterfat which has been removed. Skim milk is interchangeable in cooking and baking with whole milk, and is especially desired as a beverage for persons on lowered-calorie diets. NONFAT DRY MILK is skim milk with the water removed and easily reconstituted with water into the fluid form. Nonfat dry milk has excellent keeping qualities; it's handy to keep for emergencies. Nonfat dry milk can be used to add high-quality protein and calcium to diets by mixing into ground meat entrees, soups, pastries and beverages.

BUTTERMILK: Cultured buttermilk may be made from skim milk, partially skimmed milk, sweet cream buttermilk, reconstituted nonfat dry milk. Most buttermilk sold commercially is of the cultured variety, which insures a uniformly textured and flavored product. Use buttermilk as a beverage, or add it to many cooked and baked dishes. FLAVORED MILK is whole milk to which flavored syrup or a flavoring agent and a sweetener have been added. It provides excellent bases for tasty combination beverage concoctions; serve as is, well chilled, or heated.

YOGURT has a consistency resembling custard. Special cultures are added to whole or skim milk which turn the fluid into a slightly acid semi-solid mass. EVAPORATED MILK: Take whole milk, reduce liquid to less than half in a vacuum using low heat; homogenize; thermally seal, cool, sterilize, and you have double-rich evaporated milk. Use as is for smooth sauces and soups, or for special prepared dishes. Chilled until crystals form, evaporated milk is easily whipped. CREAM: Light cream, coffee cream or table cream has a minimum butterfat content of 18 per cent. HALF AND HALF: A blend of milk and cream. All the goodness of cream but with an 11.5 per cent minimum butterfat content. WHIPPING CREAM: Serve in swirls on desserts, salads, beverages, ice cream treats and fruits—slightly accented with vanilla, almond, orange, lemon or black walnut. Add freshly grated horseradish to whipped cream, and serve with roast beef or lamb. SOUR CREAM: Commercially-soured cream adds to foods a snowy white color, a slightly acid mellowness. Use it on fresh fruits, hot vegetables, meats, salads; hot and cold soups. Or roll it up in tissue-thin pancakes; spread over steaming slices of meat loaf; mix with chives to enhance baked potatoes or blend into salad dressings. BUTTER: Not too many years ago, churning butter was a tedious task—with variable results. Today butter is purchased as needed, in packages to suit needs and preferences—pre-wrapped in quarters or full pound blocks. Sweet cream is made from mild flavored cream, sweet to the taste. High grade cream goes into this product. Sour or ripened cream butter is made from cream soured either with a culture or naturally. ICE CREAM: Modern fast freezing insures a ready supply of a host of ice cream flavors, since homemakers can keep several of the family's favorite flavors in the home freezer. CHEESE: The king of the cheese world is cheddar, with about 400 other varieties or kinds also available. Flavorwise, cheese may be very mild, mild, flavorful, sharp, very sharp or robust. The texture also ranges from soft to very hard. Processed cheeses are specially treated so the product is always consistent in flavor and texture, usually soft textured, easily sliced and without rind. Cheddar is the most frequently processed cheese, although Swiss, brick and other varieties are also used.

Next time a crowd descends on you without warning, whip up some bacon and egg sandwiches. It's a savory combination hard to beat, especially if you add a bit of finely diced onion. SAVORY BACON AND EGG SANDWICHES
 For each serving:
 2 to 4 slices bacon
 1 1/2 tbsps. butter
 1 small onion (finely diced)
 2 to 3 tbsps. green pepper
 2 eggs
 1 tsp. water
 1/4 tsp. salt
 Pepper
 2 slices buttered whole wheat toast
 Chili sauce.
 Cook bacon until crisp; drain and keep warm. Melt 1 tbsps. butter in a hot 6-8-inch skillet; add onion and green pepper; cook gently for a few minutes. Beat eggs with water, salt and a dash of pepper just until yolks and whites are combined; pour egg sets, draw edges toward center and tilt pan so liquid will fork toward edges or stir with a fork holding times flat. Lift omelet from pan, adding the remaining 1/2 tbsps. butter in small pieces as you do so and flip over; or cut in half in 8-inch pan before flipping. Brown slightly; with wide spatula, place on toast; pour a little chili sauce in the center; arrange bacon over sides of omelet.

MORTON'S POTATO CHIPS

Downey's HONEY-BUTTER for Melt-in-your-Mouth BISCUITS

SPICE VOCABULARY

PAPRIKA, a spice, is available in ground form. Red in color, it boasts a distinctive, very mild flavor. PAPRIKA is compatible with poultry, fish, shellfish, goulash, ham; deviled eggs, Welsh rabbit, cheese; gravies, salad dressings; vegetables; canapes; stuffed celery; cream soups, chicken soup, chowders.

Something For The Picnickers

Recreation at Lake J. B. Thomas is not necessarily fishing, boating or water skiing. The Colorado River Municipal Water District is steadily erecting picnic units around the lake shore. Already a dozen such as these near the southeast end of the lake have been erected. They have met with instant popularity, according to R. A. Schooling, lake superintendent.

Woman Admits She's Not The Lost Daughter

HOUSTON (AP) — Annie Mae has gone back to Alabama.

The sad-eyed blonde from Decatur decided she was not the long-lost daughter of George W. Dodd, as she had claimed, and went back to her husband yesterday.

Dodd, a pest exterminator and small-scale farmer, said he and his family last week began doubting that Mrs. Annie Mae Wolaver was his daughter.

"She kept calling me daddy," the heavy, 59-year-old man said. "And my daughter Annie Mae always called me papa."

Dodd's daughter, Annie Mae, mysteriously disappeared 15 years ago.

Dodd never gave up the search, although authorities believe the 17-year-old girl may have been ambushed and murdered on a lonely country road, where she was last seen. Four years after her disappearance, the bones of a young girl were found near the area.

Last month the Decatur woman wrote Dodd that she was the missing Annie Mae Dodd.

Dodd made a trip to Decatur to see Mrs. Wolaver, and came back skeptical. Fingerprints of the Dodd girl didn't match Mrs. Wolaver's, and a marriage license showed that Mrs. Wolaver married a Decatur man in 1937, when Annie Mae Dodd was 9 years old.

But Dodd, yearning for his lost daughter, changed his mind. He forgot about the fingerprints and the marriage license and opened his arms to Mrs. Wolaver.

Last week, Mrs. Wolaver came to Houston vowing she would "never leave my daddy again." Dodd called a reunion, and folks from all over that end of the county came to see the long-lost Annie Mae.

Dodd pulled his fiddle from a dusty case, and there was dancing that went on for two days.

Then Dodd's son from Holly, Mich., arrived and took a long look at the woman who said she was Annie Mae.

"She is not our Annie Mae," Floyd Dodd said.

Other friends and neighbors, who had been afraid to speak for fear of hurting Dodd, agreed openly with Floyd Dodd.

Then Monday, Mrs. Wolaver tossed her blonde head and confessed, to Dodd, "I'm not your daughter."

Dodd bought her a ticket back to Decatur.

"I'll never quit looking for my Annie Mae though," Dodd vowed.

3 States Combed For 4 Escapees

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Scores of officers combed a three-state area around the southeast tip of Iowa today for four desperadoes who engineered a daring escape from the Iowa Penitentiary.

A 24-hour search had failed to turn up any trace of the prisoners who tied up two unarmed guards and crawled through small openings they had sawed through the bars of an outer wall.

It took the prisoners 90 minutes to saw the bars in cellblock 19.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The United States educational system is based on goals similar to those in the Soviet Union, a Soviet educator says.

Gounds Named To High Post

Wayne Gound, Big Spring pharmacist, has been elected to the second highest post of the Texas chapter of the American College of Apothecaries.

In a mail ballot of the membership, Gound was elected vice president. Others named were George Rosser, Dallas president, and Henry M. Buriage, Austin, secretary-treasurer.

Installation of officers is due to be held sometime in July at a dinner in connection with the annual meeting. They will serve for a term of one year.

Membership in the association is based upon qualification and invitation and is a counterpart of professional boards and associations within the medical profession.

Well, Just So Long As It's Not A Red Herring

NEW YORK (AP)—When is a sardine not a sardine? When it's a herring, says the U.N.

Not so, says the Maine Sardine Council, which wants a hearing for the herring.

It started when the U.N. published its agenda for a World Scientific Meeting on the Biology of the Sardine to be held in Rome next September, under sponsorship of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

The agenda includes "the species of the genera sardina, sardinops and sardinella."

Calvin Stinson Sr. of Birch Harbor, Maine, council chairman, promptly asked FAO Director-General B. R. Sen for justification in not listing the herring.

Stinson said the California sardine is the pilchard or sardinops, many European and Asiatic countries pack the sardina and sardinella, but that Maine and Canadian sardines and Norwegian slid are herrings.

"Any expert," Stinson added, "should know that there never has been a fish entitled to be called a sardine exclusively."

seem to us to be much more unified than it did at a distance." Soviet teacher Aleksel I. Markushevich writes in the current issue of the Texas School Board Journal.

"In its great scope and in its effect in raising the educational level of all the people, it shows itself to be based on goals akin to ours; for we, too, wish to make education available to everyone."

Markushevich recently visited American schools including some in Texas. He wrote the article before returning to Moscow.

He said the Americans showed the visiting teachers only the best — "the developments of which they're most proud."

Ability groupings—"Segregation of children by ability is one of the distinctive features of the American schools. Of course, we noted many interesting variations of it—in Chicago and San Angelo, for instance—but in one form or another it seems to prevail generally. In the Soviet Union, where we do not consider ability groupings significant, we mix the children in school just as they must mix with each other in life."

IQ tests—"You in America make much use of psychological tests—intelligence tests, aptitude tests and achievement tests. We, however, don't use such tests at all; we tried them for 20 years and came to the conclusion that they do not measure adequately."

Mathematics—"I must say that in the classes I observed the teachers presented their subjects with skill and knowledge and the students were enthusiastic. But when I compared the tempo of instruction here with the tempo in the Soviet Union, it seemed as if I was watching a slow motion movie."

Science and math curriculums—"In the USSR we require all our students to take both science and mathematics for several years, whereas you permit them to choose how many if any."

Peace—"Teachers here, like teachers in the Soviet Union, are bringing up children in the spirit of peace. And the American people, too, are working for peace."

Literature—"From what we observed, we are inclined to think United States education in world literature casual and incomplete."

"I'm not talking about Russian literature—I'm talking about Stendhal, Flaubert, Anatole France, Balzac. And the American students I talked to seemed less interested in and knew less about foreign literature than Soviet children of the same age."

History—"I noted that American children are well-grounded in the history of their own country."

five uses of the forests — water, timber, grazing, recreation and wildlife. Stockmen say grazing is getting short shift from the Forest Service and in some cases from the BLM.

Reporter John Corlett of the Idaho Statesman looked into the matter.

Corlett's conclusion: "Either the Forest Service and BLM have failed in their duty in adjudicating the range in the last 20 years or the cuts are too severe."

"We have been overoptimistic about what we could do with the range," concedes Don Seaman, forester in charge of grazing on the Boise forest. "We were a little too slow. There were things we didn't know."

H-SU Student Wins $2,000 Study Grant

ABILENE—Vernon M. Arrell, 1959 Hardin-Simmons University graduate, has received a $2,000 grant for advanced study in vocational rehabilitation counseling at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. Arrell will work toward a masters degree in psychology. His undergraduate work at H-SU was in psychology, history and education.

The federal agencies say the cuts are necessary for proper use of the land.

"Certainly grazing is a desirable thing, but we can't let one use destroy another," says Howard E. Ahlskog, supervisor of the Boise National Forest.

Bond Posted In Theft Complaint

John McDonald has been released under $1,000 bond on charges of theft over $50. He had been booked originally on the count on June 6, 1958. Following that, however, he was removed to the Big Spring State Hospital for treatment, and upon leaving there was taken by sheriff's deputies on a hold order. The bond had been fixed at the time of the charge at $1,000, by Justice of Peace Walter Grice.
