Steelworkers Bow To Ike, Delay Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America bowed Saturday to a bid from President Eisenhower and delayed a steel-strike threat for two weeks.

David J. McDonald, the union's president, agreed to extend existing contracts from their scheduled termination next Tuesday night to midnight July 14.

Eisenhower intervened at a time when steel talks were floundering worse than ever and an economy-crippling strike of the half million workers in the basic steel industry seemed inevitable.

Storm Gets Blame In Airliner Crash

MILAN, Italy (AP)—A terrific thunderstorm was blamed Saturday night as "almost certain responsible" for the fiery crash of a TWA airliner.

The TWA Constellation exploded in flames 15 miles north of Milan Friday on a flight from Athens to Chicago via Rome and Paris.

The bodies of the 59 passengers and 9 crew members were burned beyond immediate identification.

Gen. Dulio F. Anelli, heading Italy's six-man investigating commission, said the first day of inquiry had indicated that "one way or another, yesterday's storm was almost certainly responsible for the tragedy."

In New York, an executive of Trans World Airlines expressed doubt that lightning or a thunderstorm were probable causes.

While recovering the bodies, disaster teams wept when they came upon the form of a small child clutching a woman, presumably the mother.

We caught one of those gully-washing thunderstorms Monday night, and it is just as well that not all the surrounding area was so heavily endowed.

Harrington, Rudder Head A&M College

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The Board of Directors of Texas A&M College named Dr. M. T. Harrington chancellor of the college system Saturday and Earl Rudder president of Texas A&M College.

The board named Dr. Jack Woolf president of Arlington State College. Woolf had been acting president since November.

Leon Madole poses with a broom for the last time. He is giving up his janitor's job at the University of Oklahoma and retiring to his farm where one producing oil well has been brought in and plans are being made to drill more wells.

Hawaiians Ballot In First Election

HONOLULU (AP)—From Hilo to Honolulu, Hawaiians turned out in an a-ha-shirt heat Saturday to vote on statehood for their islands.

In a combined statehood referendum and primary election, islanders also chose party nominees for their first state election July 28—an election destined to send at least one Oriental to Congress.

Howard Native Dies In Crash

Seaman Third Class Billy Marvin Hanson, 23, a native of Howard County, was killed Saturday morning in a head-on automobile collision near Laredo.

Demetrius Bernal of Laredo, driver of the other car, also died in the accident. George Terk, 19, was in critical condition at the Laredo AFB Hospital.

House Spurns Tax Battle, Calls Recess

Weary Solons Have Last Bid Monday

AUSTIN (AP)—House members turned a cold shoulder Saturday night to all compromise tax proposals offered them by feuding sales tax and gas tax factions.

SEN. FULBRIGHT: Lack Of Initiative Cause For Worry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said Saturday night a survey of retired U.S. diplomats reflects widespread concern over "our seeming inability to grasp the initiative" in the cold war with the Soviet Union.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also said the State Department had refused to supply the views of current diplomats to the committee for a study it is making of U.S. foreign policy.

Gov. Long Hints More Heads To Roll

COVINGTON, La. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long — still deeply angered over treatment that sent him to two mental hospitals — strongly hinted Saturday night that more Louisiana officials are going to be chopped down.

Already, in 24 hours of freedom, Gov. Long has banished three of five-holders.

Before leaving, Long assured newsmen he would return to Covington Sunday night and there were indications to support the move.

AF WIFE DYING, MAY NEVER LEARN OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP)—An Air Force sergeant's wife, Mrs. Betty Scott Shaw, lay dying of cancer here Saturday and may never learn that her husband, Sgt. Max Shaw of Goldthwaite was killed early Saturday when he was struck by a Fort Worth to Oklahoma City Santa Fe train.

Director Roy W. Johnson of the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency told the House Space Committee about it.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China charged Saturday two U.S. Navy patrol planes had violated its air space Friday.

Up in Ackerly, where voters will elect a city council and marshal next month, Eddy Criswell had to take his name off the ballot for mayor on account of being a federal employe.

Big Springers To Decide Issue Of Public Housing

On July 11 — just a little less than two weeks hence — Big Springers may go to the polls to express an opinion on the creation of a Public Housing Authority here which would be the opening step toward low-rent public housing.

The referendum is by way of being an unofficial one, called by the City Commission after it had heard requests from delegations of citizens favoring Public Housing. It could be taken, however, as a mandate to proceed with the establishment of a local authority.

A group of citizens some months ago banded together as the Big Spring Civic Improvement League to work for general social and economic uplift of the city — particularly areas occupied by lower-income people. One of their projects has been the Public Housing program.

CAMPAINING TO COME?
In recent days, some other interests in the city have been discussing points in opposition to the program. There has been no particular campaigning for or against the proposition yet, but the next ten days may see some action.

Basically and briefly, the Public Housing program follows these lines:
If the City Commission sees fit, in view of public expression for such a program, it would form a Local Housing Authority, consisting probably of five men. This Authority assumes full obligation and responsibility henceforth, functioning as a separate political entity, and no more responsibility rests with the municipal administration. The Authority then would request a loan from the Public Housing Administration for surveys and planning to determine need, size and location of low-rent units.

Once the local Authority is legally created, it has powers to request funds from the Federal Public Housing Administration to the extent of 90 per cent of the cost of the project. The other 10 per cent is financed by a bond issue privately marketed and guaranteed by the federal government.

When the project is complete, such bonds will be sold to cover the 90 per cent cost, these also being federally-guaranteed.

FEDERAL GRANTS
In turn, the bonds are retired at a rate of 10 to 12 per cent per year on grants made by the Public Housing Administration.

The housing project is exempt from all local taxes, but under an agreement made with the city, stipulations can be made for remitting 10 per cent of rent income (less utilities costs) in lieu of taxes.

houses, administration, utilities and permits would be borne by the local Authority.

One, two, three or four bedroom heated masonry houses with necessary paved streets and utilities generally would be provided. Units could be built in several different localities of the city. Members of the armed forces and veterans get preference as renters.

BASED ON INCOME
Rentals per unit are based on the income of the family, as follows: One-fifth of the income if there are three minors; one-sixth of the income if there are more than three minors. Number of bedrooms is based on need of family.

Terms of the Housing law provide that a "floor" may be set on income of families accepted as tenants. Also there is a "ceiling" on such income, and if a tenant's income exceeded this level, he would be ineligible for residence. Some nearby cities have set $20 per month as minimum rental (for the lowest income levels), and followed the scale as outlined above for higher rentals.

The law also provides for the elimination of various sub-standard living units over the city, in accordance with the number of families accommodated in Public Housing.

Proponents of Public Housing assert that the upgrading of living conditions for lower economic families would help improve social and health conditions, and correct much of the slum living conditions that exist in parts of the city.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST
Opponents are citing many arguments against the program. Their points include:

1. Public Housing is socialistic, leads to further government interference, financing and operation, and is an opening wedge to accelerated federal expenditures for various modes of living which Americans traditionally have regarded as private domain.

2. It is in competition with the free enterprise system, and actually improved building methods and available loans programs (under FHA) can meet the needs of income brackets Public Housing could serve.

3. It places an unfair burden on many other citizens whose income is limited, and who must scratch to pay their own taxes.

4. Public Housing does not help the very poor. Generally the lowest income level cannot get into the units. Experience in some places shows that those it is desired most to help are not helped, and that many really unqualified families get into the Public Housing units. In other words, there is subsidization of a certain group not actually needy or eligible.

FEDERAL SUBSIDY
9. This is simply government subsidization for a program that will not cure the social evils meant to be cured. Operation of most Housing projects show that administrative costs (up to one-third) in some instances and maintenance outlays actually account for all rental income. The amortization of the original loans is accomplished through the annual grants from the government, so that in the last analysis, this is a hand-out from Uncle Sam, with local taxpayers meeting the bill.

10. Local agencies assuming new burdens, no real social or economic gains accomplished, and the most needy not being helped.

11. It is in competition with the free enterprise system, and actually improved building methods and available loans programs (under FHA) can meet the needs of income brackets Public Housing could serve.

12. It places an unfair burden on many other citizens whose income is limited, and who must scratch to pay their own taxes.

13. Public housing is actually "luxury housing." Most projects built elsewhere are found to be much more expensive than comparative units built privately. Government red tape adds its cost, and the expense of local operation, with payment of a managerial and maintenance staff adds to the outlay.

14. Public Housing have been found to be islands of delinquency, or at the best, soon become downgraded until they are another set of sub-standard living units. The argument is that housing does not change people.

LOCAL TAX LOSS
15. Local governmental authorities — city, schools, county — are deprived of tax monies yet must provide their services. Children in the projects are educated;

the city is expected to furnish utility connections. Opponents question the absolute requirement of remittances made by the Authority in lieu of taxes, and claim that in some instances these are not paid regularly or in constant sum.

16. Few cities where Public Housing exists have actually cleared away any corresponding undesirable living quarters. It is claimed here that there is no actual enforcement for the slum clearance proviso of the program.

Lubbock Paper In New Plant

LUBBOCK (AP)—Lubbock Avalanche-Journal this weekend is moving to its new publishing plant, completed after 18 months of construction.

Simultaneously with the beginning of operations in the new location Monday morning, the newspapers will be published under new mastheads. Lubbock Morning Avalanche will become Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, morning edition. Lubbock Evening Journal will become Lubbock Avalanche-Journal evening edition. The Sunday edition will remain as Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Occupying a block of ground and with adjacent trackage and warehouse facilities, the plant has 80,650 square feet and is in three full floors.

4 Men Die When 2 Jet Planes Crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Four air-men died Friday night when two Air Force jet planes from Florida and Virginia crashed near here.

One victim was Lt. Roy Owings Jr., who piloted a Tee trainer from Homestead Air Force Base near Miami. The Great Falls S. C. officer was returning to Miami from Oakland, Calif., when his craft crashed 26 miles southeast of San Antonio near Lavernia. The wreckage burned.

The other three men died 40 minutes earlier at 10:40 p.m., where their RB66 reconnaissance bomber from Langley Air Force Base hit a steep, rocky hill about 20 miles northwest of here and burned.

Langley identified the bomber victims as Capt. James Junge, 28, the pilot, of York, Neb.; Lt. William McCasland, 26, the navigator, of Logansport La., and Airman Michael Kemp, 22, the gunner, of Leon, Iowa.

All three bodies still were strapped in seats of the plane. One parachute had opened, suggesting that one victim might have tried to eject himself. The hurtling wreckage killed 20 to 30 head of cattle in a 300 yard swath cut in the hillsides.

Local Restaurant Cited By Magazine
Coker's Restaurant has been given an editorial feature award by American Restaurant magazine.

The story, included in the magazine's special report section, tells how the Cokers, Lonnie and Leonard, erected a new restaurant at 4th and Benton despite a potential interstate loop sometime in the future. Business not only doubled, but to such an extent that the Cokers only recently had to add more space to their dining room.

Executed Killer Is Buried Friday

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Clutching the same cross he had held as he died in the electric chair, slayer Charles Starkweather was buried Friday in a Lincoln cemetery.

The services for Starkweather, who admitted killing 11 persons with gun and knife, were conducted by a Nebraska penitentiary chaplain, the Rev. Robert Klein.

The Rev. Mr. Klein, who had been asked by the family of the 20-year-old killer to conduct the services, quoted Starkweather as having said: "I have died a thousand deaths."

Starkweather had four stays of execution before he finally walked calmly to his death.

New Swim Class Starts Monday

Registrations for the second period of swimming instruction closed Saturday at the YMCA with both boys and girls sections completely filled.

In fact, there were numerous parents still wanting to register their children. These can be accommodated during the third and final period, said Bobo Hardy, general secretary of the YMCA and director of the summer recreation program. Classes for the second period with 100 girls and 100 boys signed up begin on Monday and continue through July 10. Registration for the final period, in which beginning, intermediate and advance swimming will be taught will be July 11-17 and instruction will be on July 20-31.

Approximately three-fourths of those registering for swimming in the third period were new in the recreational program. Hardy thought most of them were youngsters who were enrolled in the Vacation Bible Schools of their churches during the first period.

Parents Night For Recreational Group Set For Tuesday

Parents Night will mark the completion of the first period of special activities classes in the summer recreational program on Tuesday evening.

The program is a joint undertaking of the YMCA, Big Spring Independent School District, United Fund, City of Big Spring and others.

The Tuesday program will be at 8 p.m. in the YMCA gymnasium and all parents and friends of the program are invited to participate. Gary Tidwell will be in charge.

On the program are exhibitions by four trampoline groups and a demonstration by the instructor, two girls tapping classes, two modern dance groups, three judo classes, boys and girls archers, and a tumbling class.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP News Service

An unusual looking 7-cent air mail stamp commemorating the centenary of the mail carrying flight by the balloon "Jupiter" will be issued Aug. 17 at Lafayette, Ind.

The stamp will feature the balloon with American flags flying from the ropes connecting the balloon and the basket in which John Wise and the mail were carried.

Colors of the adhesive are red, white and blue.

crowd are blue. To the left, reading upwards in red, is "Lafayette, Ind." To the right, reading down and also in red are the dates "1859-1959."

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 7-center may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Lafayette, Ind., prior to Aug. 17. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 7-Cent Balloon Jupiter Stamp."

The 3-cent Polio commemorative stamp, which was first placed on sale Jan. 15, 1957, was removed from sale at the Philatelic Sales Agency in Washington, D. C., on May 29. This stamp was one of the most generally printed large-size commemoratives with a total of 186,949,627 being issued.

Hungary has issued a new stamp to mark the Hamburg Conference of the International Philatelic Federation. The multi-colored stamp shows a mail coach drawn by four horses. The words "Hamburg 1859" appear on each side of the design.

From Nationalist China on Formosa comes word that a set of four new stamps will be issued to honor the 40th anniversary of the International Labour Organization, now a specialized agency of the United Nations. The new stamps each will bear the emblem of the ILO and a view of its headquarters in Geneva.

Atlas Delayed In Readying For War Use

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy announced today a delay of at least 60 days in getting the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile ready for combat. The first ICBMs had been expected to be operational by July 30.

The defense chief was asked at a news conference if the Air Force would make the originally scheduled deadline, despite recent test difficulties with the missile. McElroy replied that "the initial operational date will be delayed not less than 60 days," adding that the time could be longer.

He met with reporters after the chiefs of air offensive and defensive forces had given their personal and secret estimates to a session of the U. S. military high command on the ability of their units to respond to Soviet attack. McElroy said there are reasons to believe the Russians will not have their ICBMs ready for combat any sooner than the Atlas.

Asked if the Soviet Union had encountered the same delay as the United States, he replied: "We do have some information. . . . We believe that they had serious trouble. Whether they worked out that trouble, we don't know." Then, to another question, McElroy said it was possible the Soviet Union would have operational a few, perhaps 10, missiles by the end of this calendar year. But, he insisted, the number of

"is not important; it is when they have enough to cream the country, when they have the capability to at least seriously degrade our ability to respond" with counterattacks by knocking out American launching sites and air bases.

Testing of the Atlas has been suspended by the Air Force "while some corrective work is being done," McElroy said. Testing will be resumed before the end of July, he added.

McElroy was asked how many missiles the Soviet Union would need operational in order to attack the United States.

He replied: "Oh, some hundreds." Coming before the final business session of the annual Defense Secretaries' Conference were Gen. Thomas S. Power of the Strategic Air Command and Gen. Earl E. Partridge of the Continental Air Defense Command.

The schedule for them to give briefings and answer questions at the conference was set some time ago. But what they had to say gained new significance in light of a report by the Senate Armed Services Committee since the annual meeting at this Marine base started.

In accepting, with reservations, the Pentagon's "master plan" for air defense, the committee asked whether the missiles and interceptor planes now used or being built would be effective against improving Soviet attack weapons. And committee members also suggested that perhaps the offensive system might constitute the real defensive protection through swift and heavy reaction to attack.

In what Power and Partridge had to say today Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy probably would be able to find some of his answers for the committee's questions.

Dowell Develops New Method For Stimulating Wells

A new process for stimulating wells is now in use, having been developed recently by the Dowell Division of Dow Chemical Company.

The key to the new process is a short, hollow tool utilizing a powerful abrasive jet, stream. This tool is a modification of the Dowell Jet Gun used for many years. In service, the new tool assembly is attached to the end of the tubing string and lowered in the well until the jets are opposite the producing zone. A fluid—water, oil or inhibited acid—containing abrasives is pumped into the tubing and out through the jet openings. The abrasive jet scours the rock, enlarges the side of the well bore and removes deposits that clog flow channels, Dowell reported.

Abrasive may be sand, steel pellets, flint particles or similar material. Hydraulic horsepower necessary to give force to the jet is provided by pumping equipment.

As Railroad Revives, Friends Recall Robert Young Mystery

By WILLIAM FERRIS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For those who knew him, the mystery of Robert R. Young haunts a reviving railroad economy.

The revival would have cheered Young. To some extent it would have vindicated him. Coming a little sooner, it might have saved his life.

Young killed himself in his palatial Palm Beach home Jan. 25, 1958.

Thus ended the career of a speculator, promoter, dreamer, builder. He moved up from Allegheny Corp. once a catch-all collection of assets left over from the great depression, to control the historic New York Central Railroad.

He was the most prominent, and also the most controversial, figure in post World War II railroad history.

Why did he kill himself? To get an answer, his associates say, you have to understand Young.

Although Young's life consisted of one flamboyant battle after another, he was a shy and sensitive man lonely and introspective.

He graduated at the top of his class at Culver Military Academy and was offered the honor of class valedictorian. But he turned it down because he couldn't stand up and face an audience.

Young spent two hectic years at the University of Virginia. Poker playing, crap shooting and drinking occupied much of his time. Young popped out at the end of his sophomore year—he didn't even bother to take his examinations.

Yet he got something out of his stay in Virginia—his wife, 19-year-old Anita O'Keefe, a Sun Prairie, Wis., girl living in the Old Dominion. They were married in 1916. Mrs. Young is executrix of the Young estate. He left her everything.

The drinking, card-playing Young was left behind in youth. Business associates recall him as a non-smoking, nondrinking man. Young felt he should be fresh and clear-headed "to deal with his adversary."

This was another part of Young's personality: the intense competitive spirit, the compulsive need to win. Young wanted to excel in everything he did.

When he wanted to learn golf, he went to Claude Harmon and Sam Snead to teach him. When he wanted to learn billiards, he hired Willie Hoppe as teacher.

He was not without wit and polish. He enjoyed playing the grand old piano, although in one dark period of his life and his wife retreated from Newport, R. I., society.

That was after the death of their only child, Eleanor Jane, in a private airplane crash in 1940.

There was an even darker period in Young's life.

In 1937 Young struggled to hold control of Allegheny Corp. against bitter senatorial investigation and a former associate got an injunction blocking his financial program.

That autumn the stock market went into a tailspin, its worst since 1929. Young took tremendous personal losses.

In October Young suffered what was called a nervous breakdown, a handy phrase which can cover a multitude of ills. The precise medical diagnosis was never disclosed.

During this period—it was relatively short, lasting three months — no one but his wife and nurse was permitted to see him.

From this low point, Young rose to the height of his dreams in May 1954, when he won control of the New York Central. Less than four years later he was dead—by his own hand.

Young's associates blame his act upon accumulated frustrations and stress.

Young wanted influence in railroad circles and, once in control of the Central, he thought he could use its weight to get reforms he felt were needed in the Assn. of American Railroads. His efforts were completely frustrated.

Another element of stress was the collapse of rail passenger traffic. This had been dear to Young—some felt he wasn't a railroad man at all because he emphasized passengers too much and freight too little. In 1955 the Central, in its first year under Young, turned in an appalling $9-million-dollar passenger deficit.

An additional stress evolved from litigation. Young loved legal tangles. He enjoyed the position of attacker, particularly if the attack was made on the big names, the big capital.

But in this case Young was on the defensive. An injunction brought by a former associate was granted against Allegheny Corp.'s plan to issue new stock. This legal hassle dragged over several years, occupying much of Young's time when he needed his energies for the Central.

Ironically, Young's position was upheld in a Supreme Court decision two days after his death.

Finally, of course, there was the recession. It hit the vulnerable rails, and the equally vulnerable Young, very hard. New York Central stock fell from a high of $47.25 a share in 1956 to $13.50 in 1957. Young sold large blocks of Allegheny and Central stock at distressed prices.

Moreover, his associates say, Young was upset at the financial licking his friends—and small investors who trusted him—were taking.

The parallel with events years earlier was striking—the recession, the personal stock market losses, the legal battle with a former associate. To it could be added the failure to achieve his dreams with passenger service and the Assn. of American Railroads.

In January 1958, Young presided at a Florida meeting of Central directors. The dividend he had promised would someday be boosted was, in fact, completely omitted.

Associates who talked with him during these days recall he was dull and lifeless. As had happened back in 1937, the spark was gone. But he refused to seek medical attention.

Young loved to read his morning mail. On Saturday, Jan. 25 in the billiard room of his Palm Beach home, he apparently read one letter—from a small stockholder who had bought Central stock on Young's recommendation and had lost much of her limited savings.

It was the only letter found open when police entered the billiard room after Young fired a shotgun blast into his head.

Youths Held For Grand Jury Action In Rape Case

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Negro youths are being held for a grand jury on rape charges. A doctor testified that the 14-year-old white victim apparently was a virgin before the attack, June 18 in a schoolyard.

Dr. Peter J. Milazzo said he examined the girl the day after the attack and "her general appearance. . . suggested virginity had been present very, very recently."

Queens Adolescent Court Magistrate Milton Solomon refused to reduce the $25,000 bail for each of the youths, telling defense lawyers sternly "since I heard the evidence, I'm inclined to make it $50,000."

"This court," said the magistrate, "believes in reclamation and regeneration of youth, provided the crime is not of brutality and violence."

"There is sufficient evidence in this case that each of the defendants is guilty of the charges as set forth in the complaint, and that there was violence and brutality involved."

The court hearing was to determine if there was sufficient evidence to hold the four for a grand jury. To be tried on a charge of rape in New York state a defendant must first be indicted by a grand jury.

Conviction on a charge of first-degree rape—the charge against the four—carries a maximum 20-year prison term.

The girl's name has not been revealed because of her age. Two other Negro boys, one 14 and the other 15, were accused of taking part in the attack but because of their ages could be charged only with juvenile delinquency. The maximum sentence they could get would be confinement to a reformatory until they are 21.

Aerial Platform

This long-necked affair, used about the streets of Big Spring last week, is known as an aerial platform. The equipment was brought here for a demonstration on Texas Electric Service lines. Mounted on the rear of a truck, it may be hoisted easily into position and the worker and materials hoisted by hydraulic lifts to any level or place. The last 14 feet of the boom, including the platform or bucket, is of fibreglass with insulation capacity against 250,000 volts. In place for heavy work, such as in this picture, a steel footing extends to the ground to counterbalance weights up to 1,000 pounds. Without the support, it can lift 300 pounds into position and still be totally mobile. The apparatus can make a 360 degree turn. David A. Clampt, Baton Rouge, La., and Robert E. Fitzgerald, Lubbock, were demonstrating the Pittman platform here. Inset shows a closeup of the platform.

Foster Songs Are Theme In Jeanie Story

By JULES LOH
 BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Stephen Foster wooed and won Jeanie with the light brown hair here Friday night in a heady atmosphere of juleps and honeysuckle. It was the premiere of "The Stephen Foster Story" before an enthusiastic near capacity audience of 1,158.
 The setting was a cool, wooded slope 150 yards from Federal Hill and My Old Kentucky Home — the antebellum mansion which inspired Foster to write what became Kentucky's state song.
 When baritone James Rouse Morris Jr. poured out the melodious "weep no more" the sniffles were plainly audible.
 Pulitzer Prize winning author Paul Green weaved a smooth, un-complicated script around a brace of songs which have survived a century. The story encompassed a period of about a year in Foster's short life. He died at 37.
 Green took necessary liberties with a few facts, but the story may be the most literal portrayal of the troubadour among many plays presented for many years.
 The story actually had two themes — the main one Foster's triumph in his fight for the hand of Jane McDowell. He won with his music, while his suitably-moustached rival's stuffy practicality lost. The second theme depicts Foster's struggle as a writer of folk songs at a time when there was little demand.
 The character of Jane McDowell — Jeanie, as Foster called her — was played by Barbara Allen Lockard of West Frankfort, Ill. The J. Dan Talbot Amphitheater was built by the state especially for the production at a cost of $97,000.

Defector To Expose Burma Spy Network

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Alexander Urevitch Kaznacheev, who fled the Soviet Embassy and took refuge in the U.S. Embassy, said Saturday he would expose the Communist spy network in Burma.
 "The main occupation of all Soviet Embassy staff (in Rangoon) is to spy," Kaznacheev told a news conference.
 Kaznacheev, 27, was information officer at the Soviet Embassy until Wednesday, when he sought asylum at the U.S. Embassy. The American Embassy released Friday a statement signed by him in which he declared: "I desire a life of freedom which is not possible for a citizen of the U.S.S.R."
 The statement said he hated the Soviet regime because of its terrorist, subversive, and police state methods.
 Kaznacheev was the second Soviet diplomat in Rangoon in recent weeks to defect, or seek to defect, to the West. In early May Col. Mikhail I. Stryguine, the military attache, was forcibly repatriated in a Communist Chinese plane after attempting suicide by taking sleeping pills and leaping out of a hospital window.
 Kaznacheev shed some light on that incident at his news conference.
 "The day before Stryguine was admitted to hospital there was a secret meeting in the Soviet Embassy when Stryguine was severely criticized by members of the party including Soviet Ambassador Alexi Shborin," Kaznacheev said. "After the meeting Stryguine tried to commit suicide."
 Shborin has since been recalled to Moscow.
 Kaznacheev said Stryguine knew a lot about the Soviet Embassy's spy network, but he could not say more now "for obvious reasons."
 The former information officer appeared at the news conference wearing a white shirt, gray trousers, and a natty blue and white striped tie. He spoke in English with assurance, with hands on hips, after being introduced by Arthur W. Hummel Jr., an attache of the U.S. Embassy.
 "I chose to seek the protection of the American Embassy because the United States is the leader of the free world's struggle against communism," he said.
 When reporters asked him to explain the statement Friday that he had been asked "to spy on my Burmese friends," Kaznacheev said Soviet diplomatic missions "as also all other Communist bloc missions," maintain espionage activities in all countries where they are stationed.
 As to Burmese engaged in subversive activities for the embassy, he said "all the names I know will be submitted to the proper authorities." He declined to give the names at the news conference.

CHIROPRACTIC REMOVES SHINGLES

A condition which is not uncommon and causes a great deal of misery is called "shingles." This is a skin eruption along the course of a sensory nerve. It occurs as a group of small blisters of vesicles on one half of the body along the line of distribution of the nerve. It occurs usually on the chest or the torso but may appear on the face or the lower portions of the body. Burning, tingling, or severe neuralgia pains accompany the eruptions. Frequently pain remains even after the eruption begins to disappear.
 The orthodox approach in dealing with this condition is to treat it as a viral infection with anti-biotics. In older people the neuralgia pains are often particularly severe or may persist for months after the acute disease has disappeared.
 Under chiropractic care, the condition is treated as an irritation of the posterior roots of spinal nerves caused by a vertebral subluxation. Adjustments if applied early enough will frequently result in a clearing up of this condition.

Monitor Quits Teamster Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Godfrey P. Schmidt the attorney whose case started court efforts to clean up the Teamsters Union, resigned Saturday as one of three court-appointed monitors of the union.
 Schmidt said one reason for his resignation was a court ruling earlier this month which found an obvious conflict of interest in his activities as monitor and as attorney for employers dealing with the union.
 On June 10 a federal appeals court in Washington ruled that James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, and the union must obey reforms recommended by Schmidt and the other two monitors.
 In the ruling the court questioned Schmidt's dual status as a monitor and an employers' attorney. The court made it plain, however, that it was not questioning that he conducted himself lawfully and in good conscience.
 "While I do not agree with the legal reasoning of the Court of Appeals in this connection, Schmidt wrote in this letter of resignation—sent Friday to Dist. Court Judge F. Dickinson Letts in Washington—"I must respect and defer to their authority."

Market Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market broke out of the doldrums this week, evoking comment that a summer rally is in the making.
 It was the market's first advance in four weeks and it was fairly substantial.
 While there's nothing to guarantee a summer rally, the records show that industrial shares since 1897 have posted gains in all but seven years from June through August.

Ike-Congress Test May Spark Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and the Democratic Congress are heading into a crucial test of divided government that could produce a wave of vetoes.
 If these presidential rejections materialize, they are certain to harden Democratic opposition to administration requests for action, particularly in financial fields where budget balancing is involved.
 Republican leaders in Congress expect Eisenhower to follow up his vetoes of tobacco and wheat bills last week with rejection of a $1,375,000,000 compromise housing bill.
 Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois already has raised the possibility that the President will take the unusual course of vetoing a $4,056,000,000 health-labor money bill that goes through his budget ceiling.
 Lined up behind this are several measures which have been passed by the House or the Senate but not both, in a form strenuously objected to by the administration.
 These candidates for possible veto action include area redevelopment, veterans pensions, TVA financing, antipollution of water, and self-employment pension bills.
 Congress has never overridden an Eisenhower veto.
 Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) have been laboring to trim down some of the Democratic-sponsored spending measures to avoid this rejection by the President.
 The housing measure was one of these. But the President's action to their efforts in this case is expected to follow the line of the Republican National Committee which said the result added up to "a cheap political trick."
 Democrats already are planning to capitalize in next year's campaign on Eisenhower's rejection of the wheat and tobacco bills. They are ready to add housing to this list.
 The Democrats have made it clear also that they are not going to give Eisenhower increases in the gasoline tax and postal rates he said are necessary to balance the budget.
 Although Congress voted to raise the ceiling on the debt limit, Democrats have put in cold storage the President's request for an increase in the 4½ per cent interest ceiling on long-term government bonds.

Pat McCormick Booked On July 4 Bullfight Card

Patricia McCormick, Big Spring's lady bullfighter, will enter the ring in competition with three men during the July 4 weekend at Reynosa, Mexico.

Miss McCormick will tackle two bulls and each of the men will fight only one. It is the twelfth time she has fought in the ring at this border city. Baron Clements of Kilgore, sometime protegee of Sidney Franklin, the first American ever to fight bulls, will also be on the card. Clements has fought three times at Reynosa and was wounded once.

The Mexican matadors are Antonio Canales and Vicio Huerta.

Officers Warn Against Road Hazards As Holiday Nears

Forty-five million motorists across the nation will start out to enjoy the three-day July 4th weekend and an estimated 25,000 will end the weekend in either a hospital or a cemetery.

That is the prediction of an insurance company making a study of traffic deaths for the holiday period. Moreover, 50 per cent of those killed or injured will be under 30 years of age. And 40 per cent of the highway crashes will be the result of a speeding car ramming into the rear of another. At least, those are the predictions.

The Texas picture is as bleak. Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety, forecast 25 Texans will die in their automobiles during the three days.

The streets and highways will be much more dangerous on July 4th this year than in previous years, the director said. As a result, 125 extra patrolmen will be pressed into service to man radar units as a deterrent to speed.

"We will do everything in our power to stem the tide of motor-cides," Garrison said, "but the main job is up to the driving public. They must guard against too much speed, drinking, fatigue and general inattention."

Additional figures from the insurance company survey show that many of the fatal accidents in past years occurred near the victim's home and only three per cent of the accidents were caused by mechanical defects in the cars involved.

Loan Groups Raise Dividend

Savings and loan associations in at least eight Texas cities are raising the interest they pay on savings from 3 1/4 to 4 per cent July 1. Indications are that other associations planned a similar move.

Guaranty Federal Savings & Loan Assn. of Galveston, with branch offices in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, said it will pay 4 per cent on savings beginning July 1.

Farm & Home Savings & Loan Assn. directors were reported meeting in Dallas Saturday to consider a similar move.

Several reasons for the increase were mentioned. One industry source in San Antonio said the interest rate was being boosted in the hope more people will save and thus create larger supplies of money for the loan associations to loan.

Falls Asleep And Out Of Truck

A 15-year-old Latin American is reported to be improving from injuries suffered when he fell from a truck south of here Friday afternoon.

The boy, Julio Nieto of San Antonio, is being treated at Cowper Hospital for a brain concussion. His doctor reported Saturday that no fractures had been found but the concussion was "relatively serious." However, he was reported in an improved condition Saturday morning.

According to the highway patrol, Nieto was sitting in the back of the truck. He evidently fell asleep and tumbled out of the truck, Jose Soria of San Antonio was driving.

They were en route to Hereford when the accident occurred, the highway patrol reported. A Nalley-Pickle ambulance brought Nieto to the hospital.

Architectural Firm Builds Own Offices

Puckett and French, architects and engineers, have filed a building permit with the city to build a $14,000 office building at Fourth and Austin.

W. A. French said Saturday that the building will comprise 19,000 square feet and will house the offices of the firm.

Puckett and French who now have offices in the Permian Building, will be sole occupants of the new building.

Minor Mishap

James H. Buchanan, an oil field worker, was treated for minor injuries early Saturday morning, as the result of a mishap on an oil rig. He was taken to Big Spring Hospital where attendants said he had abrasions of the left hip and right leg. His condition was called satisfactory.

Medical Center Is Still Growing

By JIM BOWMAN
HOUSTON (AP)—The giant plane flew south in answer to a life-or-death appeal from the Colombian government to the American ambassador in Bogota.

Maria, a 4-month-old girl, needed help. Hundreds of miles north across the Gulf of Mexico, a team of heart specialists at Houston's Texas Medical Center prepared for surgery Bogota doctors said was her only hope.

But time ran out on Maria before she reached the plane. The C121 returned home without its young passenger.

"That should never have happened," pondered quiet-spoken Dr. Frederick Elliott, executive director of the medical center. "A few hours, perhaps a day, might have saved a life."

The 80 million dollar Texas Medical Center, little more than a dream a dozen years ago, annually administers to the sick from scores of nations of both hemispheres.

Scattered over its 142 acres are six hospitals (one a cancer and tumor institute) with 1,778 beds, Baylor University College of Medicine, the University of Texas Postgraduate School of Medicine, the University of Texas Dental School and the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation and Research.

That's only the start, says Elliott. Additional institutions will bring the center's capital investment to well over 100 million dollars within a few years.

Except for state projects, the center is privately financed through contributions. Recently, an anonymous Texas couple—identified only as "public spirited"—citizens—gave the center seven million dollars for construction of a Lutheran hospital.

5 Years Ago, Fatal Flood Struck Ozona

OZONA, Tex. (AP)—Five years ago Sunday a deadly flash flood ripped through the heart of this small West Texas town divided by a meandering, harmless looking dry creek bed.

Hours later, Ozona's 4,000 residents counted 18 dead, thousands of head of livestock drowned and millions of dollars in damage.

Oldtimers always said Johnson's Draw, a Devil's River tributary, would someday rear back and flood the Crockett County ranching center. It did early on June 28, 1954.

Johnson's Draw, ordinarily bone-dry, cuts a 50-foot-wide channel through the center of Ozona. A Highway 290 bridge spans the 15-foot deep creek bed.

In late June, 1954, rains touched off by a Gulf hurricane which pushed inland began on the parched ranges above town. They developed into torrential cloud-bursts which continued for three days.

By late Sunday, ranchers reported they had measured more than 40 inches in their rain gauges. Water poured off the tightly-packed turf, into ditches and on to Johnson's Draw.

West Texans have seen many flash floods and many Ozona people went to bed Sunday night unworried.

The crest came down the draw about 4 a.m. like a tidal wave. Many drowned trying to escape.

Soon, houses, cattle, oil drums and trailer houses were swept down the stream by the raging current.

Some called for help from fence posts, trees and tops of houses. A house marooned by water burst into flames.

About 2 1/2 hours later, the water began to subside. It left entire blocks with only the foundations of houses remaining.

Household appliances littered the streets. Clothing dangled from fences.

Scars of the flood are still prevalent in Ozona but they have hopes history will never get a chance to repeat itself. Government engineers have completed the first series of dams to protect the town from flash floods in the future.

Agriculture School

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Uttar Pradesh State soon will have an agricultural school on the pattern of U.S. land grant colleges. A U.S. technical cooperation mission has agreed to put up $424,000. The school will be situated on a state farm at Rudapur, in the Himalayan foothills.

Satchmo's Wife Vetoes Menu

By STAN CARTER
SPOLETO, Italy (AP)—"Bring it all," Louis Satchmo Armstrong said Saturday. "I'm hungry."

But the great jazz man's wife, Lucille vetoed Satchmo's having a baked potato, spaghetti, and a tomato stuffed with rice — all starches — at his first real meal since he fell ill with pneumonia Tuesday. So Satchmo had roast chicken, a green salad, and one of the starches, spaghetti.

He was grinning, laughing, and telling jokes as he lay back on his hospital bed in this town in the central Italian hills.

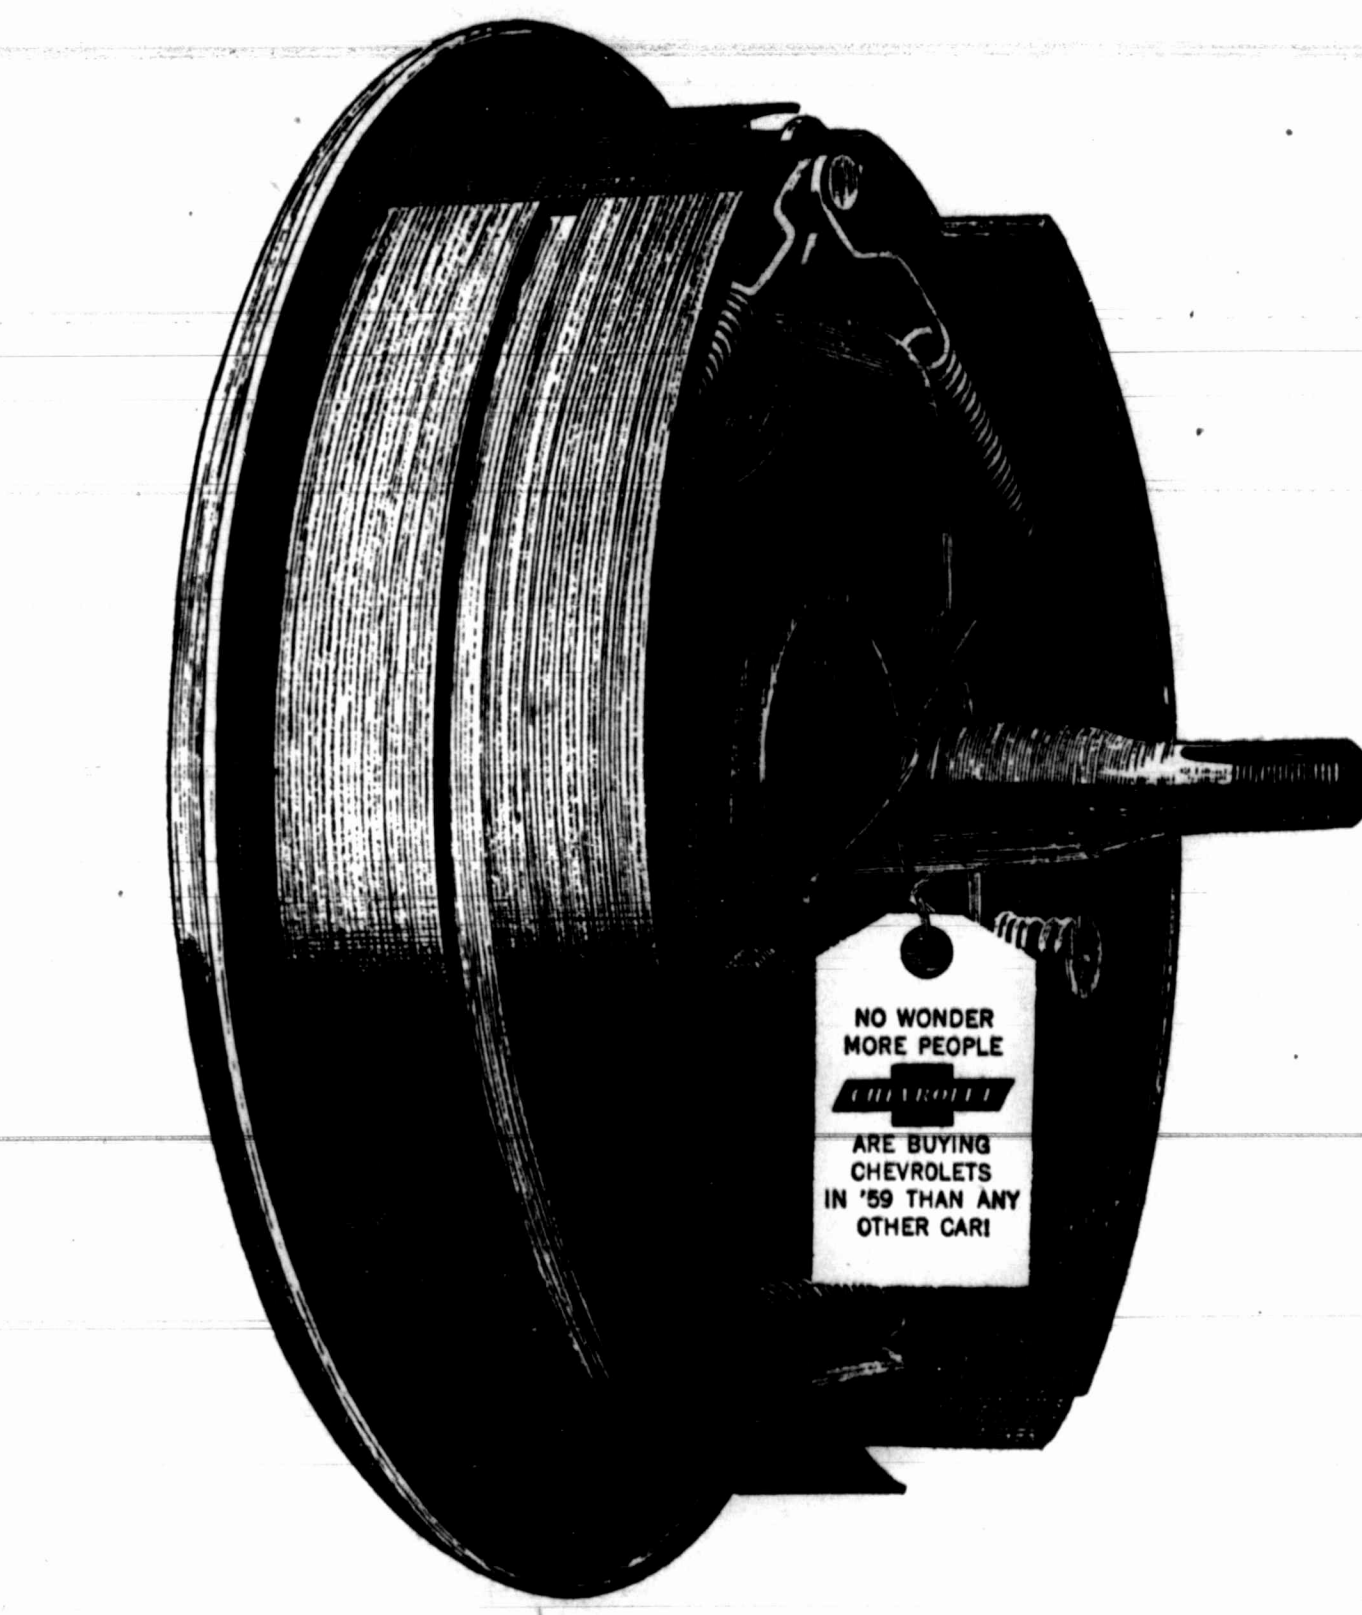

Armstrong has recovered so rapidly since overcoming the Thursday crisis in his illness that Dr. Alexander Schiff, his personal physician, hopes to move him to Rome Monday or Tuesday.

After a couple of more days' rest in the Italian capital, doctors believe Satchmo can fly to New York to spend his 50th birthday, on July 4, at home.

"I'm ready to leave right now," said Satchmo. "But I've got to wait for the doctors."

"When I was a boy in New Orleans, we didn't do it this way. If you got sick Sister Jones would come over and rub goosegrease on your chest."

"If you ever had to go to the hospital, you were out and working again as soon as you were on your feet. We didn't have the money for all this modern recuperation idea."

NO WONDER MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS IN '59 THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

BIGGEST BRAKES!

One of the 7 big bests Chevrolet gives you over any car in its field

The published opinions of independent experts, plus comparative facts and figures, bear us out on this: Chevy gives you 7 big bests over its competitors—beginning with biggest brakes. Not only biggest, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. To prove its advantage, Chevy out-stopped both the other leading low-priced cars in direct competitive tests, conducted by NASCAR,* of repeated stops from highway speeds.

BEST ECONOMY
No doubt about it: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 m.p.g.

CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST ROOM
Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.† make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST MOTOR
MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. Stop by your Chevrolet dealer's for a look at a whole raft of little advantages besides these 7 big ones.

BEST TRADE-IN
Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST ENGINE
Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS

BEST STYLE
It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Scouts Enjoy Aquatic Camp

Buffalo Council Boy Scouts find the water to their approval after recent rains at Lake Thomas where their Camp Ed Murphy is located. Five troops smaller than the number the previous week, took the rainy days in stride and managed to keep on their aquatic training schedule. Troops camping there include Nos. 34 and 36 from Snyder, 143 from Monahans, 96 from Midland and 159 from Odessa. A total of 12 boys and 14 staffers bucked the more than three inches of rain and headed home Saturday. Above boys make use of the tall diving platform; below, a lad makes a "belly buster" while other boys watch from a boat.

Hospital Air Conditioning Project Gets $1,000 Gift

News of an air conditioning project at the Big Spring State Hospital struck a generous response Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hyer told Jimmy Greene, chairman of the project committee for the Volunteers Advisory Council they were giving $1,000 toward the program. They said they had wanted to do something for a long time to make matters more comfortable for patients at the state hospital and that they felt the air conditioning project would help accomplish it. Greene thought that a major portion might be used to air condition dining rooms where 300 to 400 gather a time and create a considerable heat problem in the summertime. If there is any residue, some funds might be applied to the geriatrics ward where the Coahoma Lions and the Big Spring Evening Lions Clubs last week provided two units. Greene said that units were being placed upon consultation with the hospital staff, but that the geriatrics (elderly) patients building had been given a priority. Response to appeals for this work had been so encouraging the perhaps more air conditioning may be effected than at first thought, said Greene.

Four Big Springers Enter Band School

ABILENE — Registration for the annual McMurry College Summer Band and Twirling School continued to climb this week, as advance enrollment crowded the 300 mark. The annual two-week twirling and band school will be held on the McMurry campus, beginning July 12. Four additional students from Big Spring High School band have enrolled, including A. J. Pirkle Jr., Joyce Horn, Beverly Horn, and Donald Baskin.

Marquez, Sanchez Trial Dates Set

The murder trials of Andres Marquez and Juan Sanchez, two 17-year-old Latin Americans indicted by the grand jury here last week, have been set by District Judge Charlie Sullivan.

Both cases have been set for July 20, but the Marquez case will be tried first. Marquez is charged with killing Gerald D. Limer, 19, in a holdup of the McClure Service Station at 4th and Douglass Jan. 7.

Sanchez was indicted for the murder of Larry Vierra on the parking lot south of the Ritz Theatre on Nov. 1, 1958. Vierra died of a stab wound in the chest. Sanchez will be defended by George Thomas, while Carroll Smith has been appointed by the court to defend Marquez.

Marquez was indicted on four counts for robbery and murder, burglary, robbery by assault, and assault with intent to rob. In addition to his murder trial, the robbery assault case has been scheduled for July 6.

This case concerns the holdup of the Chevron Service Station at 4th and Birdwell on Jan. 3 in which Donald Bippus was wounded.

No other cases have been set for the criminal docket beginning July 6, Wade Choate, district clerk, reported. Some of the indictments returned by the grand jury last week may result in pleas of guilty, and these will probably be handled next week if time allows after completion of the civil docket, Choate said.

Compensation Case First On Docket In District Court

A compensation suit is the first case docketed as the second week of the 18th District Court convenes Monday.

Five civil cases remained on the docket Friday afternoon, one of these being postponed from last week. District Clerk Wade Choate said that possibly some of the five may be settled by the time they are called this week.

First case set is Nathaniel Green versus Argonaut Underwriters Insurance Co. Green is asking for $35 per week for 401 weeks as compensation for an injury he said he sustained while working for C&R Transport.

Green claimed in his petition that he was repairing a tire when another tire and wheel fell on him, hurting his back.

This is the last scheduled week of civil cases during this term of court and beginning July 6, criminal cases will be heard.

Aynes Lamesa Lions Prexy

LAMESA—David Aynes was installed as president of the Lamesa Noon Lions Club Thursday when Marie Cowan, Lubbock, international counselor, installed the club's slate of officers.

The ceremony took place at the weekly luncheon meeting in Forest Park Community Center. Aynes took over the gavel from outgoing president Abe Holder.

Other officers installed were Ray Evans, first vice president; Bob Crawley, second vice president; Howard Garner, third vice president; Purvis Vandiver, secretary; Don Holt, assistant secretary; Art Bizzell, treasurer; Rev. J. L. Mayhew, sky pilot; Sidney Randa, Liontamer; Rex Dunn, Tallwaster; G. L. Trice and Speedy Nieman, directors; Bob Woodrum and Marshall Middleton, holdover directors; Mrs. Flora Barnard as pianist and Ed Wilmer as song leader.

Cowan, who installed the officers, was a district governor while in the Williams, Ariz., club. He is a member of the Hub City Club in Lubbock and a director of the Lions Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville.

Mrs. Squyres' Father Dies At Gatesville

I. P. Pancake, father of Mrs. H. H. Squyres, Big Spring, died in Gatesville Saturday at 4:30 a.m. He was 86. Mr. Pancake had been in ill health for several years. Funeral services are being held today at 2:30 p.m. in the Scotts Funeral Home, Gatesville.

MEN IN SERVICE

Cadet Roger D. Brown, son of Mrs. Mary E. Brown, 1606 Wood, is now participating in ROTC Summer Camp at Ft. Lee, Va., along with students from 21 universities.

Brown will be a senior at the University of Texas next fall.

Korean Vets Should Change Insurance Policy, Says VA

Veterans whose insurance policy number is preceded by the letters "RS" were reminded Saturday they have received forms to apply for an exchange of policies which will save up to two-thirds in the cost of their GI insurance.

Ray Boren, contact representative at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, said the application forms have been mailed to all veterans eligible to make the conversion.

These veterans, who for the most part fall in the Korean and post-Korean conflict period, now have a chance to exchange their present 3-year term policies at a lower premium cost, due to the improved mortality tables resulting from modern medical advance.

The new policy, however, must eventually be converted to a permanent plan of insurance since it cannot be renewed by the insured past age 50.

Veterans who return the applications are cautioned to continue to pay premiums at the old rate until VA notifies them the new type policy is in effect. Any overpayment will be credited to their accounts.

Upon graduating, he will receive a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve.

At Ft. Lee, Brown and the other cadets are getting acquainted with Army life and are receiving instruction in marksmanship, map reading, and developing command leadership techniques.

Pvt. Edwin L. Faubion, son of Mrs. Helen Faubion, 207 Mobile, was recently assigned to the 101st Airborne Div. at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He is a member of the Headquarters Company of the 500th Infantry Regiment.

First Bale Brings Award To Texas

HARLINGEN — The nation's first bale of cotton for 1959 brought Jack Armstrong of Mission $2.75 a pound at auction Friday night.

The $1,289 auction price was coupled with a $1,500 cash bonus from the Harlingen Chamber of Commerce.

ONLY DAILY NEWSPAPERS SELL GASOLINE FROM REFINERY TO CAR OWNER

PETROLEUM COMPANIES use daily newspapers as a rich source of prospects for their products. With daily newspapers they can dig deep and profitably in any or all markets, reaching over 100,000,000 people at any one time.

All down the line, through jobbers, distributors and local service stations, the daily newspaper keeps selling motorists on your brand of petroleum products. Last year local advertisers, including oil distributors and service stations, spent $2½ billion in this Total Selling medium—six times more than in radio; nine times more than in TV!

If you want to sell more people all the way to the sale—sell them nationally and locally at the same time in the same medium—the Total Selling daily newspaper.

A Pat on the Back

For AVERY
FALKNER

One Of The Crew
Who Makes The Soap Box Derby
Possible

While many members of the Downtown Lions Club have labored faithfully for the Soap Box Derby, none has put in the time and interest in this event for boys as Avery Falkner. He was chairman of the event in 1958, and for four years served as chief inspector, taking a helpful interest in every boy who worked to build a racer.

Falkner watched hopefully as two sons fought for a Soap Box victory for all six years of the Derby. Avery, Jr., now 18, raced for three years when he was of eligible age, and never won. This year, Johnny, a younger boy, completed his fourth year as a Soap Box contestant, and he, too, missed the championship. This has been a disappointment to Falkner, but he never lost interest in helping all the other boys, and consistently set a standard of good sportsmanship for all the youngsters.

There's another son, Riley, now 7, who very likely will be striving for that Soap Box Derby crown a few years hence—and his Dad will be pulling for him.

Falkner has been a member of the Lions Club for nearly 14 years, has been a director, and served as president in 1949-50.

Baruch Visits Sir Winston

Sir Winston Churchill, 84, is on hand to greet his friend, American financier Bernard Baruch, 88, in the steps of the former British premier's country home, Chartwell Manor, at Westerham, England. Baruch is on a six-weeks visit to Britain.

Union Faces Probe Of Revolution Link

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Labor-Management Committee disclosed Saturday it is investigating whether some Teamsters Union officials were involved in a plot to smuggle arms to foes of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said a woman is a key figure in the case but that he has no plans now to call her as a witness. He declined to name her or others involved in advance of hearings Monday.

Kennedy told newsmen the gun smuggling is just one of several matters he plans to explore in the hearings before James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, is called back for more questioning either Wednesday or sometime during the following week.

Kennedy made clear he was not accusing Hoffa of having anything to do with the gun smuggling effort, which apparently is one of several that have been thwarted by border patrol officials.

Hoffa and the committee wrangled bitterly Friday as to whether he has the desire or the power to crack down on racketeers the committee says his union harbors. Hoffa testified he would drive them out, but in his own good time after the committee quits its investigation.

As Kennedy told it, the arms smuggling plot was designed to get munitions to Fulgencio Batista, the ousted Cuban dictator who has taken refuge in the Dominican Republic since Castro's revolution deposed him.

Kennedy did not make clear whether the plot he mentioned is the one in which the border patrol at Miami, Fla., seized 13 persons and a C-47 transport plane loaded with munitions allegedly bound for Batista.

Crash Investigated

A minor automobile crash was investigated by police Friday about 3 p.m. at Michael and Monticello. Drivers of the vehicles were Leon Eugene Blanchard, 1200 Michael, and W. C. Martin, 619 Caylor Dr. No injuries were reported and damage was small.

Texas Weather Settles Down

Texas weather settled down Saturday while rivers in the south drained away the excessive rainfall of the week.

Only Midland reported rain during the morning and that was just a trace. Dry air high above ground was creeping over the state ending the wet spell.

The Weather Bureau said a few more evening thundershowers were possible but that these would be few and far between. Winds were brisk and southerly, gusting at 35 miles an hour in North Central Texas.

Gainesville, near the Oklahoma line, had a small tornado Friday night and 3.62 inches of rain. The wind stripped shingles and brick veneer from a Veterans of Foreign War clubhouse and tumbled some trees. Otherwise there was little damage.

Stockmen and campers along the Colorado and Nueces rivers and their tributaries were alerted to possible lowland flooding. Heavy rains, such as the 3.53 inches that fell in Llano County, dotted the watersheds of the streams.

THE WEEK

For several years John has been carrying the load of promotion, etc. on the national public golf program in this area. Now he urgently needs help in raising enough funds from those interested in the afternoon and Saturday golfers to send three qualifiers to the national meet.

We had the longest day of the year last Monday with the sun up for a total of 14 hours and 57 minutes. The shrinkage will be gradual until September, and then days will grow noticeably shorter in a hurry.

Buddy Adcock was awarded the annual A&M scholarship at the Aggie barbecue here Thursday. He wasn't on hand to receive it in person (being in Albuquerque, N. M., on a job) but it will be worth $1,000 to him over a four-year period.

Pharmacists last week were almost unanimous in saying that they had either lost or had to send back vials of polio vaccine simply because there is no demand for it. Hard to believe that this was the magic fluid for which even moved heaven and earth just a few years back—and now that we have it, too few of us take advantage of it.

George Elliott, representing the local realtors, was honored last week at the state convention. The Texas Real Estate Assn. made him a member of the board of directors.

The city commission ruled last week that U turns would be ended at 1st and Main, and that a traffic signal would go up there. This set up a howl in some quarters, particularly from those who make a ritual of dragging Main. We can remember when a similar howl went up on U turn bans at 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th on Main.

Tommy Welch was crowned champ of the sixth annual Soap Box Derby here Thursday evening. Tommy went out to win, but he realized it would have been just as easy to fall out in the first round — so he'll make a great champ.

Douglas Orme, who is a member of the Texas Tech board of directors, was tapped out for a heavy responsibility last week. He was named a member of a three-man panel to search out a new president for Texas Tech. To find and get the calibre and kind of man Tech deserves is no easy task.

By the way, telephone directories are due to be in the mail to you Monday. We repeat the simple little tip on how to protect your book—get a cover if possible, but most of all, turn the pages midway in the book instead of on the corners.

Tests Made In Death Of Stripper

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Further medical tests will be made in the unexplained death of a red-haired night club strip-teaser whose nude body was found Friday night in the apartment of a convicted narcotics peddler.

Raymond I. Harris, St. Louis County coroner, said an autopsy indicated the death of 24-year-old Gloria Pascual was due to natural causes—air bubbles in the bloodstream. Harris said Mrs. Pascual was three months pregnant.

The coroner said exhaustive tests are under way to determine how the air bubbles got into the blood. He said his staff will try to determine whether an abortion was attempted shortly before her death. Harris said no inquest will be held for a week or 10 days.

Police of suburban University City are holding Marvin Roth, 29, a pharmacist who had been free on bond pending appeal of an eight-year federal prison sentence for peddling narcotics, and was working as a cab driver.

Detective Sgt. Walter Gorman quoted Roth as saying Mrs. Pascual, who used the professional name of Lorrie Vincent, came to his apartment Friday and asked him to perform an abortion. But he denied doing it.

A warrant was issued charging Roth with unlawful possession of apparatus for unauthorized use of narcotics. Officers said they found narcotics, hypodermic needles and medical instruments in his apartment.

The woman's body was identified by John Luciano, proprietor of the Chick Inn, an East St. Louis night club where she was performing. Police said her husband, Paul Pascual, a former St. Louis bartender, is reported to be living now in Danville, Ill. Her stepfather, A. R. Hamilton, a retired Army colonel of Santa Ana, Calif., telephoned Harris and said he would have the body sent here.

Officers To Check Addison Holdings

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—State officials and members of the Bexar County District Attorney's office will go to Colorado next month to look over uranium holdings and a hotel site of John Milton Addison.

Addison, 31, is scheduled to make depositions July 6 in a civil suit he has filed against state and county officials.

He is under three indictments for theft over $50 on complaints from two Austin dentists and a Kelly AFB worker.

Addison said he has complete plans for an ultra-modern resort hotel to be built on property he controls in Colorado.

Gas Rate Increase Delayed By Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. of Houston will have to wait five months before learning whether it can charge higher rates.

A Power Commission order suspended yesterday until Nov. 18 the increase Transcontinental has had proposed to start charging today.

The company sought an 11.1 per cent boost from wholesale customers in Alabama, Georgia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Body Found Along T&P Odessa Track

ODESSA (AP)—A body was found along the tracks of the Texas & Pacific Railroad 21 miles west of here Saturday. Police identified him as John Sigler, 44, of Blackwell, Okla. Officers said he apparently fell from a train.

Nixons In Gotham

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his family arrived here Saturday night for a two-day visit. He said it was not a political visit.

Missing Derby Racer Found

Police officers recovered the missing Soap Box Derby racer Friday.

The car belonged to Doyce Wilhite, 701 E. 13th, who "parked" the car near the finish line following Thursday's race. When he came back to pick the car up, about 11 p.m., it was gone.

Officers spotted the car in the 200 block of Northwest Second Friday evening. Several Latin American boys abandoned the car when officers approached.

Mrs. Weldon Miers, 1318 Sycamore, reported a bicycle theft Saturday afternoon. She said the bike was taken from 401 Washington Pl.

Mrs. Johnson, 1505A Lexington, gave police a description of her dog, reported missing since Saturday morning.

Mary Elizabeth Hendricks, Big Spring, turned over to police a purse found in a department store Saturday. Officers said it apparently belonged to Mrs. James Buchanan, 708 Johnson.

J. B. Fisher told officers that some screens had been cut at his home at 1902 Morrison. It probably occurred Friday night.

A burglary reported Saturday was at Brookshire's Laundry, 607 E. 2nd. Officers said entry was made through a window and only some candy was missing. Another breaking and entering was reported Friday. Investigating officers said entry to National Supply Co., 205 N. Gregg, was made through a window and 60 cents was missing from a soft drink machine.

Wendell Campbell, 1706 Young, told officers that two towels were taken from his truck while parked at the L&M Cafe. He said the loss probably occurred between 9 and 10 p.m. Friday.

Services Today For Noah Smedley

Services were to be held at 3 p.m. today in Baird for Noah Smedley of that city, who died Friday at the age of 101.

The elder Mr. Smedley was the father of Lester Smedley and the grandfather of Virgil Smedley, both of Big Spring. Four other sons and three daughters also survive.

The local relatives of the deceased planned to attend last rites.

The elder Mr. Smedley's wife preceded him in death in 1946, shortly after they had observed their 67th wedding anniversary.

Survivors Arrive

SINGAPORE (AP)—Twenty-five survivors from the 4,700-ton Greek ship Georgios M, which foundered Monday off the Andaman Islands, arrived Saturday in the Japanese cargo ship Meiva Maru.

A Free Man

Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long, left, leaves the court at Covington, La., a free man after a habeas corpus hearing during which he gained his release from a mental hospital. The man with him was not identified.

U.S. Seeks To Convince Legate Of Berlin Stand

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington officials from President Eisenhower down will try to impress on Soviet First Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov this week that the United States really means to stand firm in West Berlin.

U.S. authorities said the aim is to get word back to the Kremlin that the United States meant what it said at the deadlocked Geneva foreign ministers' conference. That position is that the West can go no further in concessions on the German city, and that it's up to Moscow to shift course if there is to be a peaceful solution to the German crisis.

Kozlov flies into New York Sunday aboard the newest Soviet jet airliner. On Monday Kozlov, with Vice President Richard M. Nixon on hand to welcome him, will open the Soviet exhibition staged at New York Coliseum this summer. Tuesday he travels via Philadelphia to Washington, arriving in late afternoon.

Two Webb Contract Awards Announced

Awarding of two contracts for work at Webb AFB has been announced by the base contracting officer.

Musgrove Electric Co. of Big Spring was given the contract for installation of a fire detection and alarm system at the base nursery. Cost of this job is $4,326.

Standard Dayton Co. of Dayton, Ohio, received the contract for shelving in the commissary, on a bid of $4,842.23.

BURNED UP His Job Keeps Him In A Sweat

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Robert McGrath gets burned up at his job all the time. But he is never injured, although there have been some close calls.

McGrath lies in hospital beds under a blazing sheet, protected by an asbestos blanket, to teach hospital personnel how to react swiftly and properly when they see a fire.

Attached to the Chicago Fire Prevention Bureau, he carries his message across the nation. In classes in 92 cities, he has perfected his technique and improvises many tricks to test his trainees.

During one class session, nurse Gladys Gordon speedily smothered fire in an empty bed. Seconds later she walked around a screen and was confronted with what looked like an honest-to-goodness emergency.

McGrath was in bed with flames spouting from the bed clothes. Miss Gordon gave one startled gasp before she grabbed a blanket and snuffed out the fire.

Not all nurses do such a good job.

36th Heads For Camp At Ft. Hood

NORTH FT. HOOD (AP)—Convoy of trucks, buses and troop trains will converge here Sunday for the 9,400 men of the 36th Division.

For two weeks the National Guardsmen will undergo their most intensive field training when a reshuffling of troops and demands for a fighting army in the atomic age.

"I anticipate a very successful training period," said Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney, Dallas attorney and commander of the division.

"We have a very tough training schedule and I'm sure the officers and men of the 36th Infantry Division will make every effort to accomplish our mission."

Serious training will begin Monday. Most of the division will move into the field Tuesday for nine days of training under simulated combat conditions.

This is the first time the division has assembled for training since its reorganization last spring when a reshuffling of troops and units divided the 36th into five battle groups plus support instead of the traditional three regiments. The result is a beefed-up outfit with far more fire power and mobility than ever before.

Wildcats Sited In 2 Counties

A new wildcat has been sited in Sutton County and an old well will be plugged back in Winkler to try to complete it.

The Sutton project is Monterey Oil Co. No. 1. Schutz and is about 20 miles southeast of Sonora. It is 1,980 feet from north and east lines; 6-V-26. J. Worthy Survey.

It is nine miles west of the Sutton No. 1 Warren, recent Pennsylvania strike and half a mile north of the Monterey No. 1 Anderson, a current wildcat. Drilling depth at the new site is 5,200 feet.

In Winkler, the Gulf No. 8 Hendrick well will be plugged back to 2,800 feet for completion attempts. It was completed originally in June of 1928 while bottomed at 3,045 feet. The site is 330 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter, 34-B-3, PSL Survey, 1 1/2 miles northeast of Wink.

Church Begins Addition Work

Work is under way on a $20,000 addition to College Baptist Church. The new addition will be for office and educational space.

Pastor of the church, Rev. H. W. Bartlett, said the structure, which is an addition to the north wing of the church, will be about 40 by 62 feet. In addition to the offices, it will house two Sunday School departments.

Rev. Bartlett said the expansion was to care for expected growth of the church in general and specifically dormitory students at HJC. Since the church expects a number of college students, Rev. Bartlett said the church planned to have the additions completed by opening of school in the fall.

Ector, Pecos To Road Hearing

AUSTIN (AP)—Delegations from 17 counties ask the State Highway Commission next week for road projects and improvements.

Most of the requests involve farm to market roads. Also to be discussed Tuesday and Wednesday is Interstate 10 in Pecos County. Counties to be represented include Ector on Tuesday and Pecos Wednesday.

Queen Unveils Graceful Arch As U.S.-Canadian Unity Symbol

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, after a three-hour delay caused by fog, unveiled Saturday a graceful aluminum arch—symbol of friendship between the United States and Canada and their joint 650-million-dollar St. Lawrence power project.

The Queen's weather luck, after a lapse, returned for the ceremony. A warm sun shone by the time she pulled a long golden cord to reveal the mirror-like black granite commemorative plaque.

Then the Queen and Prince Philip went to Cornwall, Ont., where they were greeted by the citizens and various officials.

The Queen crossed over to American soil for the first time on her royal tour of Canada. She came to visit the huge hydro-electric power plant and two American locks of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

She had joined with President Eisenhower at Montreal Friday to open the seaway officially. Saturday, the Queen journeyed out onto the 3,300-foot dam and, standing 68 feet above the swirling gray waters in earshot of churning generators, she unveiled a marker on the international border between the United States and Canada.

The royal yacht Britannia was unable to bring the Queen and her husband to the Eisenhower lock as originally scheduled.

After anchoring in the St. Lawrence Seaway in the morning because of the fog, the ship lifted anchor and proceeded to the Snell Lock, where the royal couple disembarked and proceeded the rest of the way by automobile.

Vice President Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and a large delegation of senators, congressmen and members of the diplomatic corps welcomed the pair.

Enjoying Padre Island

Mexican finds are useful in many ways. Rose Marie Beebe of Port Isabel hints out. She's using hers to shield herself from the hot summer sun on South Padre Island, playground of the semi-tropical Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas which is being boomed for a National Park.

Padre Isle May Join U.S. Ranks

ARANSAS PASS, Tex. (AP) — Padre Island is a vast and beautiful area of large and irregular dunes along the beach, sculptured anew by each passing breeze.

Chances are that more and more persons from over the nation will learn its beauties if it becomes a new national seashore park.

A resolution in the Legislature calls the island a "magnificent, history-rich, romantic expanse of dune and beach that is a priceless Texas heritage."

The resolution is to authorize Congress to establish a seashore park between the Port Mansfield Channel and Yarbrough Pass.

It further says, "Padre Island is the longest unspoiled natural beach still in existence in the United States. The major part of the island is still unspoiled and might yet be preserved for public use and enjoyment if steps are taken without delay."

Not all persons are in favor of the seaside park plan. Private owners of some of the land claim that the park plan will infringe on private property rights.

The island is a very thin, very long strip stretching from the southern tip of Texas far north and slightly east to near Corpus Christi.

When held in place by sparse vegetation such as sea oaks, morning glories and sea grape vines, the dunes are often imposing, towering 40 feet or more.

Elsewhere, the sand lies in small rippling mounds, or is non-existent, as on the southern part of the island where flats stretch across it from sea to the Laguna Madre.

Its appeal is well expressed in the words of a representative of the National Park Service who said:

"The general atmosphere of the island is one of undisturbed isolation and seeming endless expanses of beachland. The island is a typical example of a barrier beach, unusual because of its great size which enhances its primitive character."

"The wide, clear beach, composed of fine sand and broken shell, extends in an unbroken sweep from horizon to horizon, and the slope of shore is uniformly gentle, providing ideal conditions for swimming, surf fishing and other beach recreations."

It Was Drink Or Else With Noted Outlaw Sam Bass

COLEMAN (AP) — It was drink or else with Sam Bass, recalls William R. Hinds, 93.

The day before the noted bank and train robber was fatally shot in an attempt to rob the Round Rock bank in 1878, he compelled most of the men of Belton to take a drink with him in a saloon, Hinds says. Hinds is a retired farmer and hotel man here.

"He was a big hearted fellow," the old-timer remembers. "My father and my Uncle David Pitman were in the group."

"Most Belton men knew it was Bass. A member of his gang tipped off Texas rangers about the planned bank robbery in a letter posted in Belton."

"The next day Bass and his gang, except the traitor, were wiped out."

Bass escaped temporarily, although fatally wounded. He was found under a tree and taken back to Round Rock, where he died in a tin shop.

"He refused to tell where he had hidden lots of money taken in other train and bank robberies," Hinds said.

Hinds migrated with his family from Waldron, Ark., to a farm between Belton and Salado in 1872.

Two years later, he said in a recent interview, a mob broke into the Bell County jail and shot nine men accused of stealing horses.

"The next morning I visited the jail and it was a bloody shambles," he related. "The bodies of the men were buried in one long grave."

In those days, rich blackland could be bought for 50 cents an acre. An influential college was at Salado. The present city of Temple didn't exist then.

Hinds moved to Coleman in 1896 and farmed near the present city park. Later he moved to another farm. Still later he operated a hotel and wagon yard at Valera, and held other jobs.

He now boards in a private home. His wife died three years ago.

Lubbock Man Dies When Car Rolls

LUBBOCK (AP) — Bill Ayres, 30, of Lubbock was killed Saturday when his sports car overturned north of here.

He was a Texas Tech student. His widow, an 8-year-old son and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ayres of Andrews, survive.

NO BIG RUNOFF, BUT LAKE LEVEL REMARKABLY CONSTANT

Lake J. B. Thomas, the big reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, has varied less than a foot in level during the past three months.

Although the lake on the upper Colorado River on the Scurry-Borden line has missed out on heavy run-off during several waves of thunderstorms, it has varied no more than .84 of a foot since March 23. That was the date that it dropped below elevation of 2,252 and touched 2,251.95. Once, in mid-June, it dipped to 2,251.99.

Last week heavy downpours again stayed off the lakeshed but it rose slightly to reach 2,251.57, and at the end of the week it was only .05 of a foot off that level.

The rise accounted for .30 of a foot or 1,900 acre feet, which is 660,000,000 gallons. Although all the rises have been relatively small, the lake has trapped more than 10,000 acre feet of water since March.

Pioneer Furniture To Operate Unique Display Unit Here

A new kind of mail order house will make its debut in Big Spring, probably around July 1.

Pioneer Furniture of Odessa and Midland has leased the store building at 117 E. 3rd, according to Adolph Swartz, and plans to open for business about July 1.

C. W. Pruitt, president of the firm, was in Big Spring Friday making arrangements for remodeling and the opening.

Apparently, the new store will have no salesmen. It will consist of large show windows with furniture arranged in room groups. Prospective customers will be asked to call the parent organization at Odessa to order merchandise.

The building was formerly occupied by Pitman's Jewelry and Gift Shop.

NO VACATION FOR VITAMINS

Many of us take vitamins during the winter to build up resistance to colds and other winter miseries. But, comes summer, too often our vitamins are stored away with mothballs.

The need for vitamins does not automatically disappear with the season. Summer, with its strenuous outdoor activities and vacation sports consumes our reserves; and the torrid hot spells rob many people of their usual vitality.

Normal appetites wane as the thermometer rises, diets often become lopsided—with further effects on general good health.

Summer is the time to continue taking vitamins to build up resistance for winter months. If you have been taking vitamins, don't stop now! And, if you haven't, why not check with your physician on the advisability of beginning now. Let him also suggest the formula that is best for you and for your children.

We at Cunningham-Philips feature a full selection of nationally known vitamins from makers of the highest ethical and pharmaceutical standards.

Protecting your health is the life's work of your pharmacist. His skill and trust are devoted to you and your community.

WHOLE WORLD CLIMBS ON INGO BAND WAGON

NEW YORK (AP) — The whole world wide climbed on the Ingemar Johansson bandwagon Saturday while Promoter Bill Rosenzohn, a $400,000 loser, planned a million-dollar-plus rematch in September.

The 26-year-old Swede looked ahead to a rosy future, strewn with dollar bills, after stopping Floyd Patterson with his "thunder and lightning" right hand in 2:03 of the third round Friday night at Yankee Stadium. The mystery right he hid in training now rules the heavyweight division.

Rosenzohn, haggard and worn, said he would take a vacation before getting down to serious work on the rematch. As he holds an iron clad contract for the fight, he can afford to wait. The boy promoter, who lost 20 pounds during his ordeal, said he will not start talking date or site until July 20.

"I have the contract, calling for a rematch in 90 days," he said. "The site is to be in the United States with the city to be determined by me. Johansson's entire purse will be held in escrow until the rematch under terms of the contract."

Rosenzohn revealed a gross gate of $470,712 and explained that the $100 tops made this amount possible. He admitted that many of the $100 customers did not show up. As the promoter got half of the net gate of $203,569 (half of $407,139) and his expenses ran to about $245,000, he lost a little over $40,000.

"I will be in complete charge of everything next time," said Rosenzohn, who did not share in the theater-TV-radio-movie money this time.

Johansson was swamped with offers from all sides, including Hollywood. Cables from all points of the globe included one from Prime Minister Tage Erlander of Sweden, whose government wants to outlaw boxing.

The new champ, still not quite used to his title, had a light breakfast and then watched the fight movies.

During the seven knockdowns in that furious third round, Ingemar grinned and said, "There's just no end to all these knockdowns." There was an end, though, and it was a shock heard around the world.

As for the rematch, Johansson said he was not sure it would be held in 90 days because "I think Patterson will need more time."

Patterson was resting at his home in Rockville Centre, N.Y. Cus D'Amato, his manager, said Patterson definitely would be ready to go again in 90 days.

The game had been a pitchers' duel between cousins through the first four stanzas. Ricky Hamby was starting pitcher for the losers, being pulled in the fifth in favor of Ronnie Lee. Both starters gave up six hits each. Ricky walked eight batters and Kenneth six.

The Butane Boys were scoreless in all but the fourth inning when they picked up the edge with seven runs. The Drillers pushed across runs in the second, third and fourth innings with two in the fifth.

Richard Thompson got the only extra-base hit for the winners with a double. Ryan, for the Drillers, got two doubles in the ball game. The victory gives the Butane Boys a 5-0-1 record for the season.

Intentionally Is Chicago Winner

CHICAGO (AP) — Brookfield Farms' Intentionally equaled the world record of 1:33 1-5 for one mile while winning the $55,900 Warren Wright Memorial Stakes by 2 1/4 lengths at Washington Park Saturday.

Intentionally is a 3-year-old colt, bred by Brookfield Farms, owned by J. P. McMane and trained by Billie L. Mumford. He was ridden by jockey Billie L. Mumford.

Intentionally was the only horse to break the 1:33 barrier in the stakes. He won by 2 1/4 lengths, the largest margin in the history of the race.

Aaron Choice Of All Voters

By WILL GRIMSLEY Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Aaron, Milwaukee's slugging outfielder, set a baseball precedent Saturday when he became the first player ever to be chosen unanimously for the major league All-Star game.

Commissioner Ford Frick made the announcement in releasing the opening lineups—as picked by the players themselves—for the attraction at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh July 7.

The same teams, with the addition of three players to each, will also meet in the second 1959 All-Star game Monday Aug. 3, at Los Angeles.

Aaron, receiving a maximum 306 votes, was one of three members of the champion Braves named for the National League team. The others were third baseman Ed Mathews and catcher Del Crandall.

By contrast, the world champion New York Yankees, who have dominated teams in the past, placed only one man on the American League team. He is Bill Skowron, first baseman.

Even Mickey Mantle was shunted down to the second team as the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, who have been battling for first place, each put two men on the AL starting team.

In the early days of the All-Star game the players picked the teams. Later the job was turned over to the fans. When this was found impractical, the voting was returned to the players last year.

No pitchers were chosen. This will be left to the rival managers—Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Fred Haze of the Braves. Aaron is one of three repeaters

A Rare Trick

H. D. Smith, owner of the Shady Grove Grocery at Lake Thomas, has done this trick only once. Last week he hung three 10-pound catfish on the same line in the same night. Not an ounce separated the weight of the three channel cat. He holds one of them above. The catfish struck at 5-inch shad about 1 1/2 miles downstream the Colorado River from Smith's shop located on the western end of the lake.

Butane Boys Win A Close One, 7-5

The Butane Boys squeezed off a last inning threat to bump the Drillers 7-5 and regain the lead in the American Minor League Saturday night.

The Drillers pushed across two runs and filled the bases in the fifth inning before reliever Cooper Proctor could stem the tide. Proctor relieved Kenneth Hamby, the winning hurler, for the last two outs in the inning.

The game had been a pitchers' duel between cousins through the first four stanzas. Ricky Hamby was starting pitcher for the losers, being pulled in the fifth in favor of Ronnie Lee. Both starters gave up six hits each. Ricky walked eight batters and Kenneth six.

The Butane Boys were scoreless in all but the fourth inning when they picked up the edge with seven runs. The Drillers pushed across runs in the second, third and fourth innings with two in the fifth.

Richard Thompson got the only extra-base hit for the winners with a double. Ryan, for the Drillers, got two doubles in the ball game. The victory gives the Butane Boys a 5-0-1 record for the season.

TURLEY GETS LOSS

Simpson's Blast Beats Yankees

CHICAGO (AP) — Harry (Sultcase) Simpson's grand-slam homer with two out in the eighth inning offset four solo homers by the New York Yankees Saturday and carried the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 victory.

Simpson smashed Bob Turley's first pitch off the right field facade for his third homer of the season and the fifth grand-slam of his career. Norm Siebera and Bill Skowron hit back-to-back homers to open the ninth to shave Chicago's lead to one run.

Going into the eighth, New York held a 2-1 lead on a pair of homers by Hector Lopez. Aside from that, the Yankees had done little against Bob Shaw who departed in the eighth for a pinch batter but collected his sixth victory against two defeats.

Turley, who took his eighth loss against six victories, retired the first two batters in the eighth before Nellie Fox drew a walk.

Earl Torgeson singled and Sherm Lollar also walked to fill the bases for Simpson's tremendous drive.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

RICKY LEMON HARMON HALAS

In the first 12 days of racing at Ruidoso Downs, Texas-owned horses finished 'in the money' in 137 of the 432 events and rewarded their owners to the extent of $154,773.42 . . . In four weekends of racing, Ruidoso's parimutuel handle has now reached $2,262,211, with the lush July 4th and Labor Day weekends still ahead . . . Brian London, who lost to Floyd Patterson in a Heavyweight championship match recently, says his $2,800 fine was about what the British Board of Control would have gotten had the scrap been held in England . . . "It looks as if the board was determined to get its cut in any event," London said . . . Bill Goodwin, older brother to the Odessa football phenom, Ron, is a grid coach in Kansas . . . Bill Thompson, the local cager who is bound for Rice Institute, is working for the local fire department this summer . . . George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, says he thinks the National Football League may expand as early as 1961, adding he didn't think the circuit would add more than two franchises . . . Halas didn't say it but it's likely the first two cities which will be taken into the league are Miami and Buffalo . . . Miami, of course, has the Orange Bowl while Buffalo is building a new stadium expressly for football . . . Ex-SWC star Lamar Mahan and the other Green Bay quarterbacks are already in a football school, which should be a tipoff on the fact that the gridiron season isn't far removed . . . Jay Riviera, who used to play tackle on the Rice Institute football team, is now on Claude Harmon's golf teaching staff at Winged Foot Country Club, New York, scene of the recent National Open . . . His picture decorated the Open program . . . Fred Taylor, a city policeman here, won Grand Aggregate honors in the recent Texas State Muzzle Loading Association shoot at San Angelo . . . Taylor's gun, a 53 calibre job, was made in 1852 . . . Some of the guns used at the San Angelo meet were 300 years old . . . The entire outfield of the Washington Senators — Roy Sievers ($38,000), Jim Lemon ($14,000), Harmon Killebrew ($8,000) and Bob Allison ($7,500) — works cheaper than does the New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle ($85,000) . . . If you count four Washington outfielders, you're right . . . They alternate . . . Pepper Martin, the ex-Big Spring baseball manager, reportedly is no longer connected with Mantle's bowling business in Dallas . . . He's back in San Antonio.

Cheyney Almost Switched To Ga. Tech

Joe Bailey Cheyney, the well known track starter who visited here recently, says he probably would have wound up competing in athletics for Georgia Tech back in the '20's but for the fact that a race he ran against Charley Paddock in New Orleans gained too much publicity around the nation . . . Bill Alexander, then the coach at Tech, asked Cheyney to consider transferring from Howard Payne to Tech, then backed off when reports on Joe Bailey's new found fame began to reach his desk . . . Cheyney probably would have qualified for the Olympics in '26 but for the fact that he pulled a muscle in a 100-meter sprint in an Olympic tryout at Boston . . . Harold Henson, the HJC athlete from Meadow, is farming 75 acres of his own this summer . . . He says he's had too much rain, has had to replant parts of his crop as much as three times . . . Branch Rickey, the former big league manager, says the third major league wouldn't have any trouble finding the players . . . "They'll come from the world

. . . From the minors, from the majors and from the free agency field," he explains . . . Then he asks, "Who is to explain what a major league is? Is Willie Mays the only major leaguer on the San Francisco club. There are 24 others. They are not Willie Mays, but they are major leaguers" . . . Don Bartz of Milwaukee, who won that $20,000 purse in the recent Peterson Bowling Classic in Chicago, actually could claim only $13,133.33 as his very own . . . The other money went to his teammates . . . Bartz also received a $2,000 diamond medal, however . . . A total of 10,144 kettlers competed for the proffered $253,600 in prize money . . . Midland High School is going to get a new gymnasium, with completion date due in six months . . . One golfer asked another for "two strokes and a throw" prior to a links match they played at Sapington, Mo., recently . . . The handicap was readily conceded . . . When the two reached the first water hole, the player used his "throw" by tossing his sputtering opponent's ball off the green into the lake.

Grass Should Be Planted By October

Shirley Robbins, the Big Spring Country Club golf pro, says he can grow greens on the proposed course by '60 if allowed to plant by October . . . He would prefer distributing the seed as early as September, however . . . Incidentally, Shirley will team with Frog Kruger in next week's Odessa Pro-Am tournament . . . Despite the heavy rains that have fallen in recent weeks, the fairways at the present Country Club haven't come along too well . . . Something has gone out of the soil and can only be restored by the use of fertilizer . . . The entire nine fairways of the course can be fertilized for less than $400 . . . Regulars at the Muni course here are hopeful golf architect Warren Cantrell can be persuaded to appear before the City Commission while here and help sell the commissioners on the idea of providing the Muni course with a complete irrigation course . . . It was Cantrell who got the City of Lubbock to redo the Meadowbrook course there . . . Meadowbrook is now one of the state's finest golf layouts . . . Incidentally, the former Big Spring High School and HJC athlete, Harold Berry, is now course superintendent of the Meadowbrook course and has an eight-man crew working under him . . . Bobby Blum, winner of the recent Sectional Public Links Golf tournament at Midland, wound up with a first round 74 after touring the front nine in 42 strokes . . . That means he cut ten strokes off his game after the turn . . . They say he changed a complete set of irons in the middle of his game . . . Big Spring's John Pipes, director of the Public Links meet, was given permission to make use of the Midland Country Club facilities without charge . . . Boyd Huff is the pro there . . . They say they've dumped up to a million gallons of water a day on the Midland course . . . The three Big Spring players who won trips to the National Public Links — Jerry Scott, Bernard Rains and Ben Mooring — will be competing against 145 other players from all over the nation at Denver . . . The original Public Links field totaled 2,448.

Eastern Grid Coach Signs 17 Boys, Looks For More

PORTALES, N. M. (SC) — "We have 17 newcomers and we are still looking for more," stated Eastern New Mexico University football coach Carl Richardson when asked about the latest additions to his 1959 Greyhound squad . . . The latest signers are quarterbacks Billy Brooks, Amarillo Tascosa high, and Jim Cromartie, Quanah, Texas; tackles Mike Connolly, Lubbock Monterey, Dick Dodd, Andrews, Texas, and Bo Nicholson, junior college transfer whose home is Denver City, Texas; and halfback Pete Jacques, Roswell . . . Brooks was an All-District performer for the Tascosa eleven last year and has been selected to play in 'pre-season Texas schoolboy games this year. Cromartie has been an All-District choice for the past two seasons for the Quanah Indians. Both are good passers and runners. Brooks is 5-9, 150 pounds, and Cromartie is a six-footer, weighing 165 . . . The new tackles are Connolly, a 195-pounder from Lubbock Monterey; Dodd, a 200-pound freshman from Andrews, Texas; and sophomore Nicholson, a 6-3, 210-pound transfer from Ranger Junior college . . . Jacques is a 170-pound freshman halfback from coach Dewey Johnson's 1958 Coyote squad in Roswell.

OLMEDO AND MACKAY WIN AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Alex Olmedo of Peru and his U.S. Davis Cup teammate, Barry Mackay, paced a phalanx of men's favorites into the quarter-finals Saturday while upsets rocked women's ranks in the All-England Tennis Championships.

Morrow States He'll Return

ABILENE (AP)—Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow failed to even qualify in the national AAU but he wants it definitely known that he's going after an Olympic spot in 1960.

BOBBY MORROW

Morrow has finished his worst season in a long and distinguished track career and is quite disappointed that he couldn't make the American team to run against the Russians or in the Pan American Games.

AAU because of a muscle injury suffered in the meet of champions at Houston. He said the leg did not pain him in the AAU—that he just didn't have any zip in his legs.

Frank Medina, the University of Texas trainer, said he noted Morrow favoring the injured leg regardless of whether it pained him.

There's one thing he's going to do to further his bid for a return to the Olympics: After Sept. 1 he'll make no speeches.

Morrow has been traveling all over the country since coming to AAC, speaking at this or that banquet or luncheon or at a church. He admits it has handicapped him in his track program.

He said no pressure ever had been brought on him from the coaches or officials of the school but that he had done it on his own. But that's going to end in September, he declared. From then on it'll be track only.

When he returns to the track Monday he will work under a schedule of three days a week on the weights (weight-lifting to build up his shoulders and stamina) and three days a week running. He also will wear a 4-pound weight on his legs.

Morrow will stay in Abilene where he has bought a home and will graduate from ACC in August. Starting next March he will compete against somebody every weekend.

"I'll get it another even if it's against the Abilene Christian College freshmen," he says. "And I'll run both the 100 and 200 every time. The fact that I seldom run the 220 this year hurt me in my conditioning."

Morrow had a two-weeks lay-off from work before the national

Broglie Hurls Cards To Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ernie Broglie hurled two-hit shutout ball Saturday as his St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 5-0.

Three Cards contributed home runs to feature a 10-hit attack. Jim O'Toole was the loser for the second time this season. He has yet to win. In winning, Broglie posted his second victory against five defeats. He struck out six.

Bill White put the Cards ahead 1-0 with his seventh homer of the season in the first and they added two more in the second on Gene Oliver's second of the season.

Hal Smith poled his ninth homer of the season off Orlando Pena in the ninth.

Eagles Bury Broncs 9 Under 14-2 Tab

The Eagle Transport Eagles walloped the Broncs, 14-2, in an American Minor League contest played here Friday.

The Eagles swept to victory with the aid of only four hits. Hollar, on the mound for the winners, set the Broncs down with three.

Coden bolted past the Optimists in both ends of a Teen-Age baseball league doubleheader here Saturday night, 10-4 and 6-5.

In the second engagement, J. Patterson scored the winning run on a fly ball hit to right field after reaching base on an error.

Coy Mitchell was the winning pitcher in the first game while Terry Isbell got credit for the victory in the afterpiece. Mitchell set the Optimists down with three hits.

Isbell batted in four runs for the winners in the first contest and Johnny Farquhar drove across two.

Here's the way the results went earlier in the week:

ST. LOUIS

CINCINNATI

DETROIT (AP) — Gus Zernial celebrated his 30th birthday Saturday by breaking into Detroit's starting lineup for the first time this season.

Zernial took over at first base in a desperation move by Manager Jimmie Dykes because the other first basemen, Gail Harris and Larry Osborne, have been in season-long slumps.

Zernial drove in five runs with two tremendous wallops into the upper left field seats. He connected off ex-teammate Billy Hoelt with one on in the second inning, then off Arnold Portocarrero with two on in the sixth.

Before Saturday, Zernial had played only two innings in the

Bruins Chalk Up 2nd Win In Row

The Cubs won their second straight game in American Little League play here Friday night, turning back the Stars, 7-4.

The Bruins' won-lost record is now 2-4 for the second half.

Doyle Irwin kept the Stars in contention with a three-run homer in the third. He also had a single. Bruce Bellamy had a single and a double for the winners. The triumphant pitcher was Tommy Lane.

Age and a Frenchman overtook 45-year-old Gardner Mulloy, Uncle Sam's lone other male contender. The Miami, Fla. veteran lost to Jean-Claude Molinari 6-1, 6-2, 7-9, 6-2.

The United States suffered another reversal when its doubles team of Olmedo and MacKay lost to a lightly regarded South African tandem, Gordon Forbes and Abe Segal, 6-4, 10-8, 2-6, 1-6, 6-1.

Three Australian Davis Cup members — Neale Fraser, Roy Emerson and Rod Laver — also advanced to the quarter-finals along with Luis Ayala of Chile and Bobby Wilson of Britain.

Surprise elimination of Miss Truman and Mrs. Fleitz threw the women's division into a wide open scramble, with two representatives left to guard the title Uncle Sam has not lost since 1937.

They are Darlene Hard, from Montebello, Calif., and Sally Moore, a 19-year-old from Bakersfield, Calif.

Miss Hard trounced Rija Bentley of Britain 6-2, 6-4. Miss Moore won a hard-fought match from a teammate, Janet Hoppe of Seattle, Wash., 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Cubs Ramble Over Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Chicago Cubs erupted for four runs in the fifth inning to beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-1 Saturday behind the six-hit pitching of Glen Hobbie.

It was the 23-year-old right-hander's fourth straight victory over the Braves in two full seasons with the Cubs. He had the National League leaders under control all the way, in posting his eighth victory against six defeats.

Right-hander Carl Willey, now 3-2, was the loser. The Chicagoans rapped 13 hits, including 3 doubles and 2 homers, off Willey and his successor, Joey Jay. Don McMahon retired the Cubs in order in the ninth.

Ernie Banks crashed his 21st homer of the year with none on in the seventh while boosting his major league leading RBI total to 71.

Bengals Visit Villa Acuna For Double Header Today

The Big Spring Tigers, 12-2 on the season, make one of their longest road trips of the season today, meeting Villa Acuna, Mexico, in Villa Acuna.

The Bengals own two victories over the Mexicans but will be hard pressed to score a sweep today.

The two teams take the field for the first time at 10 a.m., then return to competition at 2 p.m.

Jerry (Spot) Cockrell and either Joe Cadenhead, Ronnie Moser or Danny Valdes will probably pitch for the locals.

Other starters include Isidro Arguello, center field; Jackie Jency (Tito) Arencibia, first base; Nick Paredez, left field; Billy Weather-all, right field; Jackie Thomas, second base; and Guy Lara, third base.

Most of the Tigers left via private cars yesterday for the long trip to the border.

Villa Acuna is across the river from Del Rio, about 250 miles from here.

Howard Assigned To Spokane Club

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Howard, the powerful young outfielder recently brought up from the Texas League by the Los Angeles Dodgers, is being sent to Spokane of the Coast League at his own request.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston said he didn't know who would take Howard's place, but indicated it might be a relief pitcher.

Howard, a 6-foot-8, 245-pounder, hit 27 home runs for Victoria in the Texas League before he was called up several weeks ago. But, after 19 at bats with the Dodgers, he had no homers and was hitting only .105.

McAnany Recalled

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Saturday recalled Jim McAnany, who has been batting .313 for Indianapolis of the American Assn., and sent down John Callison, Association home run champ last year, as a replacement.

Houston Star NCAA Champ

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Houston's Dick Crawford celebrated his 20th birthday by winning the NCAA golf championship Saturday with a 7 and 6 victory over Jack Luceti of San Jose State.

Crawford was on the 30th hole when Luceti missed a three-foot putt. Crawford, from Jacksonville, Ark., two-putted from 25 feet.

Oil Revenue Drops, Production Steady

AUSTIN (AP)—July's oil production in Texas will equal July 1958 but the state treasury will take in about $500,000 less revenue.

A sliding oil price is the latest bugaboo for the industry which has been unstable since the Suez Canal blockade.

Within 10 months the state's tax on a barrel of crude oil has dropped from 14.03 cents to 13.44 cents. Over a year's time it makes a substantial total.

Figures in the state comptroller's office Saturday show the decline is steady.

The production picture is more generally known. Since the state hit its peak allowable of 3,820,426 barrels daily March 31, 1957 the allowable has shrunk to 2,661,771 barrels a day for next month.

Oil company executives, meeting here in March, predicted a 4.4 per cent growth in the domestic industry this year. So far production is about 370,000 barrels a day above 1958.

But the increased volume is not expected to do much more than match the amount of taxes collected last year on oil because of the skidding price.

For July an estimated 72 percent barrels of oil will flow from Texas wells. A year ago the total was 71,991,995 barrels which produced $10,103,064 in taxes. The take on taxes for next month is estimated at only $9,676,800.

Despite the shaky state of prices for both crude and products, oil operators are unanimous that cost increases justify a price hike.

Although price is never considered openly at the proration hearings of the Railroad Commission, independent producers have recommended the allowable be kept low this year.

They express fear for pipeline or purchaser proration but know that with heavy surpluses of gasoline and other stocks an increase in production might also ignite a price war. This would bring chaos faster than a continuation of low production.

In fiscal 1956-57, the state's oil wells operated 189 days and cranked out 1,095,500,000 barrels while 131 production days in 1957-58 reduced the output to 917 million barrels.

Average prices for the three years on a barrel of crude were $2.68 in 1956, $3.04 in 1957 and $2.98 in 1958.

A new law requires the comptroller to count the July oil revenues in this fiscal year ending Aug. 31. In the past June oil revenues were the last to be added in the fiscal year.

Estimates now point to a 970 million barrel fiscal year.

In calendar 1957 Texas tax revenue from the crude oil tax increased about 16-17 million dollars due to increases in average prices while three to four million dollars were lost due to a production dip.

In 1958, the state lost about three million dollars in price and about 18 million dollars from a drop in production.

The tax revenue in 1957 amounted to $149,966,525, up $13,670,754 from 1956. The next year the take dropped to $128,219,072.

REED SURVEY

Drilling In Permian Basin Dips Slightly During Week

Drilling operations over the Permian Basin slipped slightly during the past week, with 386 rotary reported turning on Friday.

This total is down three from the count made by Reed Roller Bit Co. the previous Friday, June 19. On June 12, it was 397 and 388 on June 5.

The Basin has maintained an average of over 380, however, since the early part of May. Since May 1, only twice has the rig count slipped below the 380 mark.

Lea County, N. M., continued to lead the individual areas, with 51 active rigs, the same number as the previous week. Andrews was still second, with the same total as on June 19, that being 48.

Other counties with 20 or more active rigs include Crane with 21, Ector with 30, Gaines with 22, and Winkler with 25.

Howard County topped its total by two to eight for the week, while Borden added one for a total of 10. Five rotary were turning Friday in Dawson, while two were active in Glasscock. Martin also had three, as did Mitchell County.

Over the Basin, the individual county totals (with June 19 totals in parentheses) include Andrews 48 (48), Borden 9 (8), Cochran 4 (6), Chaves 7 (10), Crane 21 (22), Crockett 2 (1), Coke 2 (2), Culberson 5 (3), and Dawson 5 (3).

WOMEN'S NEWS

The Big Spring Herald
 Big Spring, Texas, Sunday, June 28, 1959

Bride-Elect

The engagement of their daughter, Darlene, to Jesse McElreath is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Williams, 1005 North Gregg. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Artie Williams, 1615 East 16th. Northside Baptist Church will be the setting for the nuptials, August 15.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Visiting here in the home of her brother, Raymond Eads, and Mrs. Eads are MR. AND MRS. L. A. DeVANEY and their sons, Lloyd Alan and Lynn Arthur, whose home is in Perry Village, Kan. This is Mrs. DeVANEY's first trip to Texas. He was stationed at Midland during World War II.

The family and their hosts fished at Lake Thomas Saturday and today they were to spend the day in San Angelo. This will start after Sunday school as Lynn Arthur has a perfect attendance record and he wants to keep it that way. The Kansans will leave for their home Monday.

Today marks the final day of the week-long family reunion of the BILLY GILL family at Luther. For the first time in three years all 22 members of the group gathered at the Gill home and that of MR. AND MRS. HOLLISS PUCKETT. From Long Beach, Calif., were MR. AND MRS. MELVIN GILL and their family. MR. AND MRS. ED SARGENT and family came from Eastland. MR. AND MRS. BILLY GILL, JR. and their family came from Morgan City, La., and the DAVE INGLISH family was over from Odessa.

Word comes from MRS. JOE GOODMAN who is in Brownwood to be with her mother, Mrs. J. T. Taylor, 1612 Roselawn. While Mrs. Taylor is very ill she has improved some since Mrs. Goodman went to be with her several weeks ago. Molly and Pat are with their mother.

W. W. WILSON almost got off to a fishing trip to Buchanan Dam with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilson Jr., but a call from Venezuela came just before they were to take off. Wilson is an observer for an oil company and was on leave here from a job in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, where he has worked for the past several months. He has been stationed in Maracaibo, Venezuela, before and he will probably be here a year. His parents took him to Midland Thursday where he boarded a plane.

CAPT. AND MRS. SAM A. SUE and their two sons, Art, 2, and Gary, 6 months, will leave Monday for North Carolina where he will commence residency before entering private medical practice. Capt. Sue has been at Webb AFB for the past two years.

CAPT. AND MRS. JAMES FRY and their children, Donna, David and Kerry, are to return this evening from Georgetown where they have spent the weekend with their parents.

MRS. EUGENE THOMAS called her husband Wednesday night from Charleston, W. Va., where she is attending the ABC National convention with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson and their family. After pondering for weeks whether or not to go, Mrs. Thomas had finally decided against making the trip. About an hour before the Andersons were to leave, she decided in favor of the trip and when they were ready so was she.

She told Mr. Thomas it had taken three and a half days to get to Charleston because the highways out of Texas just aren't as straight. But they all had enjoyed the beautiful country through which they passed. They were all to take a river boat trip Thursday night.

Dr. George H. (Woody) Wood III arrived Friday night from New York City for a visit with his parents, DR. AND MRS. G. H. WOOD. Woody completed a year's residency in internal medicine at St. Alban's Hospital on Long Island. He will remain in Big Spring a week before going to San Francisco, thence to Formosa where he will be in the Navy Station with the Military Assistant Advisory Group at Taipei, Taiwan, for 15 months. Also visiting here is his brother, Harris Wood, who is attending summer school at the University of Texas. He will receive his BA degree in August.

We're still interested in your vacations and the visitors to your homes, as well as other news about members of the family that have moved away or who are do-

Mid-Morning Ceremony Unites Margaret Fryar, Lt. Bob Tarleton

In a mid-morning wedding ceremony Saturday at First Methodist Church, Margaret Fryar became the bride of Lt. Bob L. Tarleton with double ring vows read by the uncle of the bride, the Rev. Wayne Cook of Lubbock.

Mrs. Tarleton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fryar, Lamesa Highway. Parents of the bridegroom, who is stationed at Hahn AFB, Germany, are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dyer of Aiken, S. C. Palms and baskets of white gladioli formed a base for the altar, which was accented with two tapers.

During the exchange of vows, Mrs. Champ Rainwater, organist, played Claire de Lune; she had accompanied Mrs. Carl Bradley as she sang Beloved, It Is Morn, by Aylward and I Love Thee, by Grieg.

Appiques of lace banded the bouffant skirt of tulle and the low neckline for the shaped bodice of silk handclipped Chantilly lace. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins re-embroidered the lace pattern at the neck and encircled the tiara from which floated a veil of silk illusion.

The floor length skirt of tulle over taffeta extended into a chapel train.

BRIDAL BOUQUET Given in marriage by her father, the bride carried a bouquet of white roses garlanded with English ivy.

Mrs. Neil Pruitt of Lawton, Okla., attended her sister as matron of honor. She chose a frock of organdy embroidered in floral designs, and featuring a scooped neckline and full skirt. A green ing things that we'd enjoy but can't do. Let us hear about them. Call me at AM 3-2542.

Mr. and Mrs. Madison Smith and Gary are here from Baltimore, Md., for a two-week visit in the home of his mother, Mrs. W. H. Ward Sr., and with other relatives.

veil was attached to a band of pearl and net for her headpiece; her flowers were white gladioli and bells of Ireland.

LA. George Koch of Hahn AFB served as best man, and ushers were Rodney Sheppard, Tom Henry Guin, Norman Gound, all of Big Spring; and Richard Neely, Rock Hill, S. C.

Mrs. Pruitt registered wedding guests, who were greeted by the two newlyweds and Mr. and Mrs. Fryar immediately after the ceremony, as they stood in the foyer of the church.

Coming from out of town for the nuptials were Mrs. C. R. Fryar of Cisco, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gabriel of San Angelo, her aunt and uncle; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Roberts of Fort Worth; Theora Calverley, Garden City; Marilyn Morris and Worita Clanton, both of Lubbock; Carolyn Boles and Janet Huffman, Midland.

For her traveling ensemble, the bride donned a navy silk shantung sheath with roachman collar. Her accessories were navy with white gloves and she wore a white feather cloche.

A graduate of Big Spring High School, Mrs. Tarleton was a senior in Texas Tech, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Her husband is an alumnus of Clemson College, Clemson S. C. The couple will make a home in Hahn, Germany.

REHEARSAL DINNER White gladioli in combination with calladium were used for the centerpiece at the rehearsal dinner, Friday evening, Dr. and Mrs. Lee O. Rogers were hosts for the patio affair at their home. Hurricane lamps lighted the garden.

About 20 sat at tables carrying out a green and white theme.

Newlyweds Will Make Home In Sweetwater

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie O. Roberson Jr. will be at home at 805 East Ave. C, Sweetwater, after a brief wedding trip which includes San Angelo.

The former Barbara Stander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill F. Stander of Stanton, repeated wedding vows with Roberson Saturday evening in the Methodist Church at Stanton. The Rev. Jimmy Kenney, pastor near Sweetwater, read the double ring service as the wedding party stood beside the altar, which was decorated with pink and white flowers. Sprays of white gladioli completed the setting.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Roberson, Route 1, Trent.

Ila Mae Gray, organist, accompanied Mrs. Bob Haislip as she sang O Promise Me, during the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a floor-length gown of white lace and tulle designed with long pointed sleeves, V neckline and full skirt. Her new shoes were of white satin, and she had a strand of pearls at her neck. A blue garter and an antique handkerchief belonging to her mother were part of her ensemble.

On a Bible borrowed from her sister, Mrs. C. G. Turner of Stanton, she carried a bouquet of white daisies encircled with blue-tinted ones, tied with streamers of the two colors. Her fingertip veil descended from a satin crown brushed with seed pearls. White daisies in a colonial arrangement were carried by Anita Ringmer of Stanton, who was maid of honor, and bridesmaid Bonnie Roberson of Trent, sister of the bridegroom.

J. R. Rycraft and Herbert Haupt, both of Sweetwater, served as best man and usher, respectively.

After the exchange of vows, guests were received in the parlor by the newlyweds and their parents. From a lacelaid table appointed in crystal and centered with pink and white gladioli, Mrs. Turner and Carolyn Johns, Midland, served punch and the three-tiered cake; its trim was in blue roses and a bridal figurine. Mrs. Dale Geiger sat at the register.

Among the guests were Mr. and

Mary John Cherry Has Her First Party

The first birthday of their daughter, Mary John, was the inspiration for a party given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Cherry.

Movies and candid snapshots were made of the celebration. Tiny pink roses decorated the birthday cake which was served with punch to 12. Among the guests were Brenda Jane and Jeanne Tom Cherry of Lubbock, Mary John's cousins.

Plans July Nuptials

Janice Kae Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Dixon of Phillips, and Warren H. Wise Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Wise, Route 1, have chosen July 18 as the date for their wedding. The announcement was made by the bride-elect's parents, in whose home, 13 North Oberfell, the nuptial vows will be taken.

AMERICAN SQUARE

we call it sophisticated contemporary... colonial-inspired designs in walnut finished soft as candle light

American Square is sophisticated contemporary because it captures the essence, the familiar beauty of colonial craftsmanship... and yet, is not "quaint". The feeling is there in the carefully reproduced planking with set-in keys, and in the cut out decorative motifs, the horizontal linenfold drawer fronts... and in the inviting gleam of the soft new finish, warm as a hearthside. Yet, American Square is at home in today's rooms with today's accessories because the designs are contemporary-keyed, tuned, just so, to today's living.

American Square is for the bedroom in your home. Available in groups or open stock pieces... Open a budget account tomorrow...

Overton-Robinson Vows Read In Forsan Church

To Be August Bride

First Methodist Church will be the setting for the August 29 nuptials planned by Carol Anne Rogers and Robert S. Galbraith Jr. The announcement is being made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Stephens, 1106 Stanford, Galbraith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Galbraith Sr., El Paso.

Engagement Is Told

The betrothal of their daughter, Sandra Sue, to Ray Young of Eunice, N. M., is being announced by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Havens, 810 East 18th. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Young, Eunice. First Presbyterian Church will be the scene of the wedding, August 28.

Wallace Weds Sadie Nixon

Friday evening nuptials in Coahoma united in marriage Sadie Marie Nixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nixon, and Ernest Wayne Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wallace, all of Coahoma.

The Rev. David N. Knox officiated for the double ring service in the Assembly of God Church. A pair of baskets filled with gladioli and ornamented with white aster bows enhanced the altar. On the piano was an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations trimmed with silver. Annette Porter played traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a streetlength dress of lace over satin, styled with upstanding collar, sheath skirt and short sleeves. Its neckline, dipping low at back, was framed with pearls. Her headpiece was a small hat of white velveteen softened with a cluster of feathers. Her flowers were gardenias in corsage.

In bridal custom she designated her dress as something new and a pair of white gloves borrowed from Mrs. P. F. Lancaster as something old. She had a blue garter which had been worn by friends in their weddings.

Glenda Lee Denton of Coahoma, maid of honor, was attired in a yellow ensemble featuring full sleeves; a touch of yellow lace accented the waistline. A close-fitting white-ribboned hat and white carnation corsage were accessories.

James Procter, Coahoma, served the bridegroom as best man. Out-of-town guests for the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Beall, Odessa.

Upon their return from a trip to White Sands and Ruidoso, N. M., the couple will make their home at 905 Abrams in Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School where she was a member of the Future Homemakers of America and Student Council, and was a cheerleader. She is an employee of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

Wallace attended CHS and was a member of the Future Farmers of America. He is employed by the Howard County Road Dept.

Baker Family Had Three In Hospital

FORSAN — Dennis Baker, son of Mrs. Johnny Baker, was hospitalized at Medical Arts during the week. He made the third member of the family in less than a week to enter the hospital. Troy, 11, underwent an appendectomy recently, and Mrs. Baker underwent minor surgery Monday.

Delores Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Parker, had a visit in Abilene with Martha Cowley who returned with her to visit her grandparents, the S. C. Cowleys.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pye and family of Crane are here to be with her father, Walter Gressett, who is in Big Spring Hospital.

Wedding Date Set

August 6 is the date chosen for their wedding by Nita Beth Farquhar and Dempsey Guinette Gibbs, it has been disclosed by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Farquhar, 903 Scurry, parents of the bride-elect. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gibbs, 1101 Johnson. The couple will repeat vows in the First Baptist Church.

Localite's Kin Win Kiwanians' Praise

Big Springers who attended the Kiwanis International Convention in Dallas recently returned with glowing praise for Vioki and Javonne Braga of Cleburne, who were sweethearts of the Texas-Oklahoma District. The personable youngsters, 12 and 10 years of age, are the nieces of Roy Rogan, 317 Lincoln.

Although neither girl has had training in voice or expression, they have made themselves known in the entertainment field, beginning their career as a sister act six years ago. They regularly appear on the radio-stage show, The Cowtown Hoedown, in Fort Worth, and have performed in the Louisiana Hayride show in Shreveport.

Bride-Elect Gets Gifts For Kitchen

Gifts for the kitchen were brought to Edith Freeman, Thursday night when Kathleen and Toni Thomas entertained in her honor at their home. Darlene Williams was also a hostess.

Miss Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Freeman, 2110 Johnson, will repeat wedding vows July 24 with Carl Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Franklin of Sweetwater. The event is planned for the First Methodist chapel.

From a table done in blue linen, pineapple punch and doughnuts iced in blue and white were served. The flowers were carnations tinted blue.

The honoree wore a blue cotton sheath embroidered in white. From the hostesses she received a blue carnation corsage.

About 35 were present.

Ice Cream Supper

Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority members and their families, numbering about 45, attended an ice cream party Thursday evening at City Park. Mrs. Kenneth Smith, a transferee from Kermit, was introduced as a new member. The group agreed to meet only once a month during the summertime, designating the fourth Thursdays as assembly days.

Witters In Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Witter and family are in Stuttgart, Ark. for a few days. They plan to return to Dallas Wednesday to be with the E. C. Smiths when their daughter, Cindy, undergoes heart surgery at Children's Hospital.

The Jerry Gordon Fowlers Are On Wedding Trip To Galveston

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gordon Fowler are on a trip to Galveston following their marriage Friday evening in the First Presbyterian Church. Upon their return, they will reside at 407 East Eighth.

The former Janice Priscilla West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon West, 404 Park, repeated double ring vows with Fowler as Doyle Maynard, Church of Christ minister, officiated. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Fowler, Sterling City Rd.

Before the altar, an archway was entwined with white pompon mums and huckleberry, and flanked with cathedral tapers against a background of palms. A white aisle cloth marked the approach, and family pews were noted with orchid and white satin bows.

Prior to the ceremony Betty Guthrie, organist, played O Promise Me, I Love Thee Truly and Indian Love Call, and during the lighting of the tapers, Liebestraum. She accompanied Jack Wise as he sang Whither Thou Goest.

LACE GOWN
Imported Chantilly lace and tulle over satin made the floorlength gown of the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. The elongated fitted bodice was styled with high sweetheart neckline emphasizing scallops of the lace, which was embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Its short sleeves were complemented with brief white gloves. The tulle skirt had a modified overlay of the lace.

Her veil of silk illusion, which fell to her waist, was clasped to a half cap encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. On a white Bible she held a bouquet of white Japette orchids and French carnations with satin leaves, showered with picotee streamers and pearls.

With the new dress she had an heirloom ring belonging to her mother's family, pearls borrowed from Mrs. Fowler, a penny in her shoe, and a blue garter made by her sister, Jo Nell West, of Atlanta, Ga., who attended her as maid of honor.

Miss West and bridesmaid Jane Williams of Lubbock, who had been the bride's roommate at Texas Tech, were attired in identical fashion as the matron of honor. Mrs. Henry West, the bride's sister-in-law.

Their streetlength dresses of orchid silk organza were worn over taffeta in a deeper hue. Short sleeves, sweetheart necklines and bouffant skirts cinched with orchid cummerbunds were featured.

They wore white lace hats, white gloves and pumps, and carried cascade bouquets of white pompon mums tied with purple net and ribbons.

In similar dresses were Glenda Watkins and Charlene Shuff, who lighted the altar tapers. Their flowers were wristlets of white chrysanthemums. Clarinda and Lea Harris, flower girls, had orchid net dresses over taffeta, their long skirts made of tiers of double ruffles; their hats were of white net.

Randle Fowler stood with his brother as best man. Henry West.

FOR LITTLE ONES

Casual Adds Sweater For Costume Effect

David Goodstein designs for country club life. Impressive proof — this classic in casual sportswear, sized for diminutives.

Sleek of line, and original of detail, it is versatile beyond description, particularly if you add the suggested sweater. It is not included in the pattern but the fabric allowance for the trim is.

It is strongly recommended that the sweater be added, for the dress is sleeveless and its addition not only makes a complete costume but it is certain to come in handy on breezy occasions.

Denim, pique and linen are the suggested materials for now; but in wool, possibly flannel, it will be a sensational weekender in the fall.

From this size chart select the one size best for you:

Size	Bust	Waist	Slips	Neck to Neck	Waist to Waist
12-D	34	28	25	16	36
14-D	36	30	27	16	36
16-D	38	32	29	16	36
18-D	40	34	31	17	36

Size 12-D requires 3 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for dress.

To order Pattern No. 1185-D, state size, send $1. Add 5 cents postage.

For DAVID GOODSTEIN label, send 25 cents. For 96-page Pattern Book No. 15, send $1.

Address: SPADEA, BOX 535, G.P.O., Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y. If paid by check, bank requires 4 cents handling charge. (Next week look for an American Designer Pattern by TONI OWEN).

Visitors Make The News In Ackerly

ACKERLY — Mr. and Mrs. Curtis White have returned from Waco where they visited his aunt, Mrs. J. D. Deford, and from Temple where they were guests of friends.

Howell-Clark Nuptials Are Solemnized In Colorado City

Wedding vows of Brenda Kay Howell and Joe Allen Clark were solemnized Saturday afternoon in the First Baptist Church at Colorado City.

The Rev. Bill Worrell, pastor of the Fairview Church in Colorado City, performed the double ring service as the wedding party stood before an altar banked with emerald foliage. A quartet of seven branched candelabra was grouped with three baskets of white gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Holly W. Howell, Colorado City. She is a spring graduate of the high school there.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark, 107 Harding, are parents of the bridegroom. An alumnus of Big Spring High School, he attended Howard County Junior College. Presently he is employed at Col-Text Refinery.

Nuptial music was presented by Gene Pickens, organist. Mrs. Velma Lindsey, pianist, accompanied Janie Faye Reed as she sang Always, The Wedding Prayer and Whither Thou Goest.

Howell gave his daughter in marriage. The fitted bodice of her formal gown, which was worn over satin, was fashioned of nylon lace, with portrait neckline and short sleeves ending in scallops of the lace. Panels of the lace swept over the full skirt of tulle at either side, front and back. Just above the waist at back, a large bow released a flowing streamer of the tulle which fell to the hemline.

HANDMADE TIARA

The waist-length veil of tulle was caught to a tiara embroidered with seed pearls and accented with staphanotis; the headpiece, and those of the attendants, had been made by the bride's mother. Pearl earrings, a gift of her parents, were designated by the bride as something new, and were worn with a pearl choker, the something borrowed. A blue garter, a penny in her shoe for luck, and a handkerchief which had belonged to her late maternal great-grandmother fulfilled the bridal tradition. Red roses combined with white carnations for the bouquet which topped her white Bible. The honor attendants were identically attired, except for color. Their ballerina-length dresses were of organdy over polished cotton. The severity of the bodices was relieved by bateau necklines extending to deep V at rear, and short kimono sleeves. Back streamers reached to the hemline from a criss-cross sash effect at front waist. An organdy sash was worn by Mrs. L. J. Brown of Colorado City, matron of honor, who was in pale green. Polished cotton formed sashes used by the bridesmaids, Mary Jane Rutherford of Colorado City and Mary Ann Goss of San Antonio, each of whom wore pink, and Marilyn Clark, sister of the bridegroom, who was in blue.

Face veils of nylon net fell from wide bandeaux of organdy over cotton; they were ornamented at back with pink rosebuds and small velvet bows. Each carried an open white fan, lavished with shattered pink carnations and streamers to match her dress.

Sue Howell, cousin of the bride, wore pastel green organdy, with a wristlet of pink carnations; she acted as flower girl. Altar tapers were lighted by Cleve Moore of Colorado City, the bride's cousin, and Doris Short of Texarkana, whose flowers were pink carnations on her wrist.

GROOMSMEN

John R. Shackelford, Colorado City, served as best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Bill Land, Earl McMurray and Jimmy Griffith, all of Big Spring, and Maurice Short, Texarkana.

Mrs. Howell chose a dress of pink lace, designed with round neckline and full skirt and accessorized with white. Her carnations were white, as were those worn by the mother of the bridegroom, whose frock of Cupinot cotton featured a straight skirt.

Retiring afterward to Fellowship Hall of the church, the guests were received by the bride and groom, their parents, and the feminine attendants. Mary Ellen Hobbs, Colorado City, was at the register; in the houseparty she was joined by her fellow townswomen, Mrs. Tierman Moore, Mrs. Bill Lindsey and Miss Reed, and by Mrs. Jerry Moomey, Wink.

Focal point of the refreshment table was the three-tiered cake, with bridal figurine. It offset an arrangement of pink carnations, tied with streamers, which graced the Quaker lace cloth over blue.

The couple will reside at 919 East 15th in Colorado City upon their return from a trip to San Antonio. For traveling the bride chose a nubby cotton dress of teal blue, with red accessories and the roses from her bouquet.

Among the wedding guests were Mrs. D. A. Brown and Mrs. Paul Short, both of Texarkana; Tommy Brown, Hooks; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brown, Mrs. W. W. Clark, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Anderson, Mrs. Jeff Morgan, Comanche; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lumpkin, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lumpkin, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Martin, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Lumpkin, Loop; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Lumpkin, Seagraves.

Bridal Tea In Knott Features Pastel Hues

Pastel colors beautified the tea table at the home of Mrs. H. C. McClain, Knott, Thursday afternoon when several hostesses staged a bridal shower in honor of Patsy Jean Bristow.

Miss Bristow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Bristow of Ackerly, will repeat nuptial vows this afternoon in the Ackerly Baptist Church with Roosevelt Shaw. He is the son of Mrs. W. S. Shaw of Knott and the late Mr. Shaw.

Two of the hostess group, Mrs. J. H. Woods and Mrs. Gerald Willborn, served from the crystal-appointed table, which held white and pink gladioli on pink linen.

Mrs. Morris Molpus and Mrs. Johnny Shortes of Big Spring took part in hostess duties with Mrs. V. L. Jones, Mrs. John Jones, Mrs. Louis Harrell, Mrs. W. A. Burchell and Mrs. T. M. Robinson. Also entering in were Mrs. Arnold Lloyd, Mrs. O. H. Petty, Mrs. Leatrice Thornton and Mrs. R. L. Stallings. Mrs. McClain greeted the guests.

About 35 called during hospitality hours.

Stanton Girl To Be Wed Next Week

STANTON — Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Kilpatrick have announced the approaching marriage of their daughter, Evelyn Myrtle, and Marvin Cecil Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Norris of Fort Hancock. The wedding is planned for July 2, in Odessa.

The bride-elect is a 1957 graduate of Stanton High School and attended Draughon's Business College in Lubbock. She is employed by CIT Finance Company in Odessa. Morris, a graduate of Fort Hancock High School, served 30 months in the U. S. Navy. He is a foreman for El Paso Natural Gas Company, in Odessa.

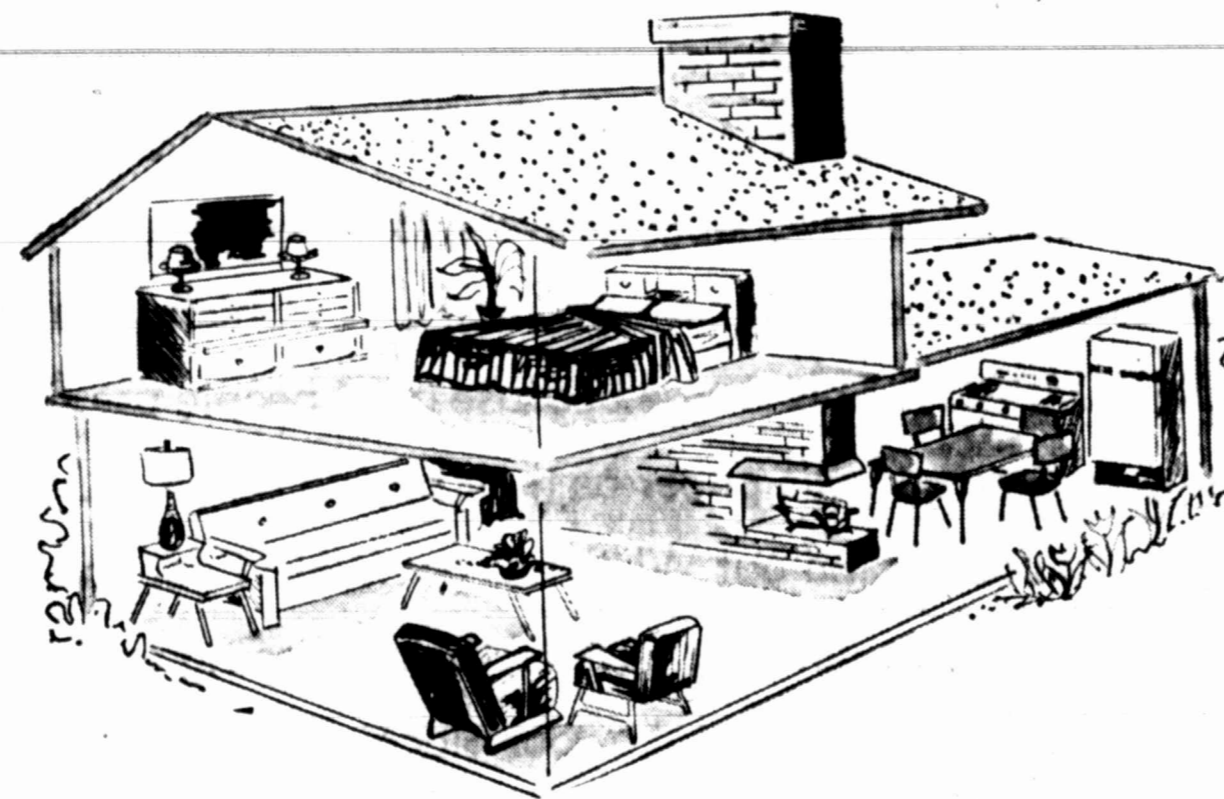

Mrs. G. A. Bridges has been a patient in the Big Spring Hospital for the past ten days.

Birthday Party

Rev. D. L. FOSTER AND FAMILY

Minister, Family Are Newcomers

New arrivals in Big Spring are the D. L. Foster family, now making their home at 407 Aylford. The Rev. Foster, in his first pastorate, is the new assistant pastor at the First Assembly of God Church.

The Fosters moved here June 6 from Dallas, where they resided for three years while he studied at Southwestern Bible Institute in nearby Waxahatche.

The Rev. and Mrs. Foster, known to their friends as Darrell and Kitty, are originally from Amarillo where they met while attending high school. They were married in Durant, Okla., in 1956.

Major interests of the couple include semi-classical and church music, and taking pictures of 22-month-old Skippy and a 8-month-old D' Ann.

Mrs. Biles On Visit To Son In New Jersey

Louis Biles, of Mountain Lakes, N. J., arrived by plane Saturday to accompany his mother, Mrs. J. D. Biles, back to his home Sunday for a month-long visit. For the July fourth weekend she will go to Atlantic City with Mr. and Mrs. Biles and Linda for a holiday.

The quartet plans to come to Big Spring the first week in August, and Mrs. Biles will go with the visitors on several short trips before they return to New Jersey.

Watermelon Feast

Six members of the Gleasons Class of East Fourth Baptist Church met together Friday night at City Park for a watermelon feast. Mrs. Jess Blair led in prayer and a devotion was brought by Mrs. Jewel Field.

'Feather Girl' Helps You Overcome Allergy

BUFFALO, N. Y.—June Spohr makes the best chicken feather juice in town.

Miss Spohr is a medical technician in the Buffalo General Hospital allergy laboratory, maintaining a connoisseur's collection of extracts for testing and treating allergic patients.

Just about everything in our environment can produce an allergic reaction in someone—ragweed, camels-hair coats, mohair furniture, a neighbor's dandruff or the chicken feathers in a pillow.

Why certain people react to some things and not to others is a mystery, says Miss Spohr, but the treatment is immunization injections of the stuff that riles you. Ragweed pollen, for example, causes misery to persons allergic to it. But pollen extract injected into the bloodstream builds up antibodies that produce immunity.

As part of her job, Miss Spohr maintains an elaborate supply network. She has contacts in zoos, farms, beauty shops, poultry markets, flower shops, grocery stores, race tracks and industrial plants.

"You get the stuff you need wherever you can," she says.

"If we need camels hair I go to the zoo and clip a camel. I go to poultry shops for feathers, to factories for industrial dusts and to beauty shops for human hair."

"I even nag my friends to save the dirt in their vacuum cleaners for me. That's for household dust, one of the common causes of allergy in women."

After she has whatever dirt, dust, pollen, hair or feathers she needs, Miss Spohr produces a juice by pressing them in a chemical

Cindy Smith Is Party Honoree

A lazy susan filled with candy pills and miniature surgical instruments and centered with a doll dressed in nurse's uniform formed the focal point of the refreshment table at the Melvin Witter home Friday afternoon, when Debbie Witter entertained for Cindy Smith.

Cindy, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith, will undergo aorta surgery at Children's Hospital in Dallas Wednesday morning. She will be confined there for two weeks and will convalesce for a like period upon returning home.

Thirteen little girls attended the Coke party and brought gifts for the honoree to use during her hospital stay. After a session of games, cold drinks were served with cookies in the den.

GA's Slumber Party Is Farewell Honor

Betty Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Thompson, who will be moving to Stamford, was guest of honor for a slumber party Friday evening in the B. T. Faulkner home. Ten fellow members of the Junior GA's of First Baptist Church were entertained by Pamela Faulkner.

In the afternoon the group enjoyed swimming and a picnic supper in the City Park. Later, as a community missions project, they took flowers to the rest home. The girls saw the movie, "Tom Sawyer," as guests of the Faulkners. For the afternoon festivities the group was accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Pickle and Mrs. Johnnie Winham.

Forsan HD Ends Season With Picnic At Lake Colorado

FORSAN—Climaxing summer meetings of the Forsan HD Club, the women held an all-day picnic Wednesday at Colorado City Lake, at the cabin of the M. M. Fairchilds and Lee Parkers. Swimming and boat riding were diversion for the 25 members and their friends. The next assembly will be Sept. 8. Among the group at the picnic were Mrs. Jimmie Dee Jones, County HD Agent, and Mrs. Sonny Shroyer of Fairview Club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Toops Jr. and family left for their new home in Farmington, N. M. He is an employe of Sunray. En route to their destination, they stopped in Andrews for a visit with his parents, the J. A. Toopses Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Swiger have been in San Angelo.

Mrs. R. D. Anderson entertained for her daughter, Paula, 4, with a birthday party. Gay hats were presented to the 12 guests, who enjoyed indoor games.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Bassinger and Vicky are on a two-week vacation and plan to spend the first week fishing on Lake Colorado City.

In Sweetwater recently were Mrs. Cliff Nichols and Joanna.

Mrs. R. D. McNallen has been hospitalized in Medical Arts Clinic.

Mary Kay McNallen is attending summer camp at King's Camp near Kerrville.

J. R. Fullerton of Vernon is spending several weeks with his sister and family. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schwede and LaDonna. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Patton and children spent a few days with his parents in Sweetwater.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Miss MacLaine Scores As An Individualist

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—On the Hollywood horizon, no star shines more brightly than Shirley MacLaine. Four years ago she came to Hollywood under contract to Hal Wallis, who had caught her performance in Broadway's "Pajama Game" when, as an understudy, she went on for the ailing Carol Haney. This year she was nominated for an Oscar for her dramatic performance in "Some Came Running."

Though Shirley is a veteran in the theater, having started her dancing career at the age of two, it took Hollywood to uncover her versatility. Currently Shirley is working on "Career" with Dean Martin, but instead of meeting her at Paramount I visited her in her new home in San Fernando Valley.

"It's the first home I've ever had," Shirley beamed. "Hollywood has been good to me."

"You made your point," I said, referring to the first time we'd met when she was resisting all suggestions to be made over.

"Now they call me the off-beat type," she said with a smile. "But before I made a picture, the hair-dressers and make-up men weren't too happy about me. I didn't want to be uncooperative, and I did let them try, but I looked impossible with curly hair and false eyelashes."

"From their points of view they were right," Shirley said with characteristic fairness, "but I preferred to look like myself—even if some feel my hair looks as though it were cut with a lawn mower." "How did you discover this style?"

"Six years ago I was dancing in a chorus and had long hair, but it kept getting in my way so I chopped it off. After that nothing but good things happened to me, so this crazy haircut of mine became a sort of trademark."

"Individuality paid off," I offered.

A maid brought in a tray of coffee and goodies, and as Shirley poured she obviously enjoyed being a hostess.

"Here I am with so many new interests. I'm enjoying things I used to think were not for me. When I went for a fitting with Edith Head for this picture and she complimented me on the way I was dressed, it made me feel good. I used to run around in any old thing," she confessed.

"What made you do that?" I asked. Shirley nibbled a cookie before she replied.

"I suppose it was inferiority. I felt incapable of being well-dressed. But when I saw myself on the screen, it gave me confidence. Confidence—that's the basis for so much."

"The first opportunity I had to express my new interest in clothes was in Hong Kong where I could get a whole costume—dress, coat, shoes, hat and purse—for less than one coat would cost here. I couldn't afford to buy so many outfits before."

Though Shirley was loaned out for $200,000, her salary by Hollywood standards is still rather small.

"But let's face it," she said cheerfully. "Mr. Wallis had confidence in me, and I'm grateful to him."

I asked Shirley to what she attributes her success.

"This may sound corny to you, but I don't care what you are trying to accomplish, if you follow the Golden Rule it will keep you out of a lot of trouble. Just stop and ask yourself—would I want that done to me? I've spent a lot of energy and time protecting mine. It seems to me, people without it are destroyed sooner or later."

36-HOUR DIET

The amount you'll lose on this diet varies with the amount you need to lose. Many stars have lost as much as seven pounds the first time they tried the routine in Leaflet M-39. 36-Hour Cleaning Out Diet. Resting your digestive tract is so beneficial that after completing the diet, you'll feel so vigorous and look so radiant you'll want to try it once or twice a year. For your copy of this vital leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of the Big Spring Herald. Be sure to ask for Leaflet M-39. ### Sheltons Are Here

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Shelton of Shreveport, La. are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hurt and Mrs. John Clifford Hurt, Helen and J. C.

Nautical Motifs Are Used At Lamesa Tea

LAMESA—"Friendship" was the theme for a morning coffee at Lamesa Delphian Club House Friday. Hostesses were Mrs. Wade Alverson, Mrs. Lee Roy Colgan, Mrs. Victor Crawley, Mrs. Hal Fees, Mrs. Dick Edwards, Mrs. Howard Garner, Mrs. Ed Hatch, Mrs. Edwin Matthews, Mrs. W. D. Mitchell, Mrs. Luther Standifer and Dr. Muriel Stuart of San Angelo and Lamesa.

Guests were served from a table laid with a drawn-work linen cloth. Its featured decoration was a flower decked ship in pink and white bearing the "Friendship" banner, offset by a large sea shell which held pink carnations. The arrangement was on a reflector which was sprinkled with smaller sea shells.

On one end of the mantle was an alabaster vase which held pink grapes pink carnations and garlands of English ivy. At the other end was a low alabaster bowl overflowing with shasta daisies.

At the register table, guests signed their names in a pink book shaped as a ship and the hostesses were identified by the tiny pink ship corsages which they wore.

Approximately 200 guests attended including Mrs. L. F. Greer of Hillsboro, Mrs. B. E. Read of Odessa and Mrs.azel Hogg, Fort Worth.

Joyce Stevens Has Birthday Celebration

Joyce Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stevens, marked her sixth birthday with a party Friday morning. Her cake was decorated in a school girl motif, and was served with punch and ice cream to 30.

Prize winners in the games were David Falkenberry, Linda Findley and Randy Grimes. Each guest received a nut cup filled with bubble gum and balloons.

Alford Cluck Is Home From Japan

ACKERLY—Alford Cluck has returned home from Japan where he has been teaching. He is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cluck.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Harry and son of Big Spring and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blasingame and son of San Antonio were guests of the Jake Harrys Thursday.

Daphne Hogg of O'Donnell and Doris Harry, Andrews, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Harry.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Crain of Sinton were recent guests of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Crain. Other visitors were a granddaughter, Carol Crain of Midland, and a son, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Crain.

Mrs. Gladys Johnson and son Paul Jr. of McGregor are visiting with her aunt, Mrs. J. Archer, and Mr. Archer. They were in Big Spring Wednesday with Mrs. Lonnie Coker.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brown and Judy spent the weekend with Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. Nell Curby, and other relatives in Wichita Falls; they also visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Preston and family in Burkburnett.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox have returned after spending two weeks with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Cox of El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Phillips and family of Odessa are vacationing here with her parents, the Travis Russells.

Stand-Out Gal

Shirley MacLaine, who is one of the most sought-after stars in Hollywood, doesn't profess to prettiness but recommends individuality. It has paid off for her. She is next to be seen in "Career" for Hal Wallis and Paramount.

Happy Occasion

Happiness and pride abounded when J. C. Rice, Dallas zone manager for Chevrolet Motors, presented the championship trophy to Tommy Welch, winner of the sixth annual Big Spring Soap Box Derby. Tommy's proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Welch Sr., 306 Harding. They hope to be in Akron, along with their other three children, to cheer Tommy in the All-America Soap Box Derby.

Champ Built His Racer For Winner

"I built it to win." Tommy Welch said it without bragging. He had built a Soap Box Derby racer the previous year that was good enough to win one heat. But when he sat down to put together a new racer this year, he had in mind something that would go all the way—possibly even in the All-America Soap Box Derby at Akron, Ohio. As champion of the sixth annual Big Spring Derby here Thursday, Tommy now will get a crack at that.

A rangy 15-year-old blond lad who will be a sophomore this autumn, Tommy has an infectious grin and eyes that crinkle at the corners when he smiles. Several thousand Big Spring people hope he gets a chance to flash his victory smile at Akron.

MODEST CONFIDENCE
Tommy is not nervous about it—at least not outwardly. He was confident in all his races Thursday, but he realized that he could be beaten just as easily as he could win. The only time he got nervous was when he was in position to start and the race was held up for the truck to bring back a load of winners.

At the start, he crouched as low as he could and lunged forward as the car rolled off the ramp. Everytime he was edging ahead as he came to the first swell in the downhill course. And from that point on he knew he had it if he just kept down and held a perfectly straight course. As far as Tommy was concerned, he preferred the second lane to the first, which some people thought was faster.

LEARNED A LOT
"I learned a lot from my last year's racer," he said. "I knew I had to build a car that was as narrow and small as possible to cut down the wind resistance. I got that back axle absolutely square to the center line of my car so there wouldn't be any friction on the wheels."

Then he put his cockpit bulkheads in place for what he considered best operating conditions; from that point on, he let his car take shape as he added the brakes (salvaged from last year's racer) and other plywood bulkheads. Except to allow for covering and a tiny margin of safety, Tommy built for maximum length. His racer turned out to weigh 230 pounds (with him) and was only 22 inches high at the maximum point. He covered with quarter-inch and eighth-inch plywood. Cracks were filled, and a coat of primer was sanded and followed with five other coats of paint, each sanded to a fine smoothness.

PROTECTED WHEELS
Tommy did what a lot of boys don't do—and that was to put his wheels up in plastic bags. This kept them dust free. On the day of the race he washed them out with a solvent and then began spinning and adjusting them for the greatest ease. His building and strategy paid off.

Tommy was born on March 10, 1944, at Temple, but he has lived in Big Spring all but two years of his life. He considers himself an average student but does best in agriculture and math. He now thinks he might make a career in agriculture.

Every Sunday morning he is at his place in the Airport Baptist Church Sunday School. He also is senior patrol leader of Boy Scout Troop No. 146, sponsored by Webb AFB, and is a Life Scout.

DOESN'T MISS SCHOOL
In his Future Farmers of America chapter, he was secretary in the chapter conducting team. At school he never missed a day all last year.

His hobbies are camping, archery and helping his brother build model planes. He might owe some of his success to this tedious hobby.

Tommy will have plenty of enthusiastic support at Akron. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Welch Sr., and his brother, Jimmy (who is going to build a racer next year) and sisters, Sharon Ann and Debra Lynn, plan to lock up the family home at 306 Harding and take off for Ohio in August.

Westex Telephone To Extend System

A construction program designed to improve telephone service to 100 families and extend it to 200 others appeared assured Saturday. Board members of Westex Telephone Cooperative, headed by A. A. McKinney of Big Spring, approved a low bid of $176,145.38 for the work.

Two other proposals were submitted to the board in its session Friday morning at the cooperative's headquarters in Stanton. The successful bidder was D. O. Creasman Co., Inc. of 206 Miles Building, Asheville, N. C.

Other proposals were by Irby Construction Co. of Jackson, Miss., for $190,640.56 and A&M Construction Company of Bryan for $189,087.74. Engineering estimates had run around $190,000.

AWAIT APPROVAL
Actual award of the contract will await approval of REA in Washington, D. C., but O. B. Bryan, manager of Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, a sister organization, estimated that this could be obtained within about 10 days. If so, construction could begin anywhere between one and two months hence. REA previously had given loan authorization for the project.

The major end of the construction program will be for complete replacement and extension of the system which Westex acquired from SCVAK Telephone Company in the Knott-Ackerly area. The remainder would be in the Vincent area and to the south shores of Lake J. B. Thomas.

Previously Westex had let contracts to Stromberg-Carlson for two automatic exchanges, one to be located north of Vincent and one in the south part of Ackerly.

Both of these are due to be in place by Oct. 1. Completion of the line facilities by Creasman is due the latter part of December.

EXTENSION AREAS

Covered in the contract with Creasman are 245 miles of outside plant (wires, cable, poles, etc.). About 17 1/2 miles of this will be in the Knott-Ackerly territory, including extensions to Brown community in Martin County. The remainder would be around Vincent and in the Lake Thomas sector. About 100 families are presently served on the Knott-Ackerly exchange and their service will be improved with a complete replacement of lines and exchange. Westex officials estimated another 200 connections can be handled under the construction program. This would bring to 800-850 the number of phone connections in the rural system serving principally Howard and Martin counties.

After the first of next year, the Knott-Ackerly system is due to operate toll-free from the Big Spring exchange of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Currently the Lomax and Luther exchanges of the company are toll-free through Big Spring, and the West Stanton and Lenora exchanges dial toll-free through Stanton.

DEAR ABBY

BETTER BELIEVE

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When I returned from a 3-week visit to take care of my daughter's new baby, I found a cheap earring between the cushions of my sofa. I questioned my husband. He admitted that one night he got restless and couldn't sleep and went up town to a bar for a few drinks. He said he invited a gang of strangers home with him including this woman who lost the earring. But he swears nothing happened. I said I'd forgive him, but I can't keep wondering if he told me the whole truth. I won't be satisfied till I know. How can I be sure?

MUST KNOW
DEAR MUST: Just keep harping on it and you'll drive him back to the bar in search of a nice sympathetic ear (to go with the earring.) Believe him, and forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young divorcee with a problem. When I go out with a young man should I tell him I am divorced the first time I go out with him or should I wait until I know him better? My mother says it's none of his business.

YOUNG DIVORCEE

DEAR YOUNG: Your mother is wrong. Wouldn't you want to know if a man had a divorce in his background? Give him the same break.

DEAR ABBY: We have two boys, 7 and 12. My husband is a fanatic about the boys getting hurt. The older boy has begged for a two-wheel bicycle for years so we finally got one last Christmas. His father won't let him ride it anywhere except in front of the house. He can't take it across any streets. His friends laugh at him. We live five blocks from school, but my husband drives the boys there in the morning and I pick them up. He is afraid they'll be hit by a car if they walk. I go along with his ideas to keep peace in the family. What else can I do?

MRS. J.
DEAR MRS. J.: In an effort to keep his sons "safe" physically, Dad is crippling them emotionally. Children need to be taught to care for themselves. Your husband should have a long talk with a professional counselor.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder why there are so many women who can't get along with their mothers-in-law? I have two in my house plus my own mother and we get along just wonderful. When my first husband died his mother was living with us. She was 73 and in a wheelchair from a stroke so I kept her with me. She's jolly and never complains. I was married again to a man who had a 77-year-old widowed mother with sugar diabetes and one leg gone. So there are two in wheelchairs. You never saw sweeter women. My own mother is 76 and partially blind and she's with me, too. I read them your column out loud every day, Abby, and when we hear other people's problems, we think we are real lucky. Love,

SALLY
DEAR SALLY: You are lucky, indeed, because you have a lot of love in your heart and know how to give it to others. Thank you for your beautiful letter and God bless you.

Use Of Shallow Lakes As Recharge Source Studied

Natural lakes in this and the plains areas have been looked upon as sources of recharge for dwindling underground reservoirs. However, there is more than simply pumping or draining the water into subterranean sand and gravel formations before the sun can evaporate the shallow lakes. A high percentage of clay and silt particles are suspended in the water. When raw lake water is drained into a well and subsequently into the underground aquifer, the coarse grained suspended particles are filtered from the water by the sand and gravel, but the fine-grained particles move with the water into the underground formations.

Studies by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District have indicated that permanent clogging ultimately might be the outcome. The district is conducting tests at several southern High Plains lakes to determine the practicability of various methods of settling the fine particles out before introduction into the aquifer. This would be done by chemicals to flocculate (collect) the fine materials. It involves methods of getting the chemical into the lake water so that the agent will cause the clay and silt particles to adhere to each other in large enough masses to drop to the lake bed. In a relatively brief time, normally about every 24 to 48 hours, approximately 85 per cent to 90 per cent of the particles originally suspended in the water have combined and dropped to the bottom of the lake, leaving the water in a more desirable condition for recharge into underground storage.

One method tried is dusting the chemical onto the lake surface by airplane. Another is using a mechanical hand broadcast spreader while walking in shallow water or riding in a boat. Extensive experimentation has been carried on in Castro County by the water district under the direction of W. L. Broadhurst, chief hydrologist. This work was centered on the Bill Sutton farm near Dimmitt. Although diluted to one-half per cent strength the solution was exceedingly thick like honey. The chemical was pumped in varying proportions to a point in the lake where the water entered a concrete pipeline and flowed into a large earthen settling pit. The chemical commingled with the lake water before reaching the pit; however, no flocculating action took place until the water reached the pit and slowed in velocity. From the pit, the water, relatively free from silt and clay, then moved on into the recharge well.

New Type Yard Light Offered

A program to introduce "Ready-Lite," the modern electric yard light in Big Spring was announced Saturday by R. L. Beale, district manager of Texas Electric Service Company. This program is being carried on by the electric company with the cooperation of local electrical contractors and fixture dealers who will sell and install the yard lights. "The Ready-Lite has two distinctive features that aren't found on ordinary yard lights," Beale said. "The light has an electric eye that automatically turns the light on at dusk and off at dawn. It also has an electric convenience outlet in the post that is handy when using electric powered lawn tools and for other uses. Our electric customers who buy these lights from authorized dealers may pay the cost in monthly service bills." The lights come in a variety of styles and are displayed at the electric company office and by authorized dealers, but are sold and installed only by dealers. Authorized dealers who are listed in the announcement and in this issue of the Big Spring Daily Herald are C & D Electric Co.,

Agency Supporting Savings Associations Has Birthday

A little known government agency which has wide effect upon the economy of the country observes a 25th anniversary this week.

This would be the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which has made a staggering contribution to the nation's thrift and home ownership trends over the last quarter of a century. FSLIC is given credit for making funds available to finance over 13 million homes which have been built since the end of World War II.

The agency was established by Congress on June 27, 1934, to insure savings accounts in savings associations against loss up to a maximum of $10,000 per account.

The First Federal Savings & Loan of Big Spring is, of course a member of the FSLIC, and Robert Stripling, secretary and treasurer of the local association pointed out some of the major contributions of the corporation:

1. Increased confidence in savings and loan associations, and financial institutions generally, which has resulted in an increased flow of capital in the form of individual savings into land and homes and an expansion of the nation's basic wealth.

2. The availability of a continuing and ever-growing supply of home mortgage funds to meet the needs of an increasing population. Savings account insurance has enabled insured savings associations to make long-term loans on homes at more liberal terms and at lower interest rates, to the advantage of today's cost conscious home buyer.

3. The adoption of uniform, simplified and better operating practices and procedures among savings associations, thus making for a more efficient and smoother operation, and accordingly a stronger and more vigorous thrift and home financing movement.

"One of the best ways to measure the contribution of the FSLIC," Stripling said, "is to take a before and after look at our business and thrift and home financing."

"At the end of 1934, the year the corporation was established, the assets of the savings and loan business amounted to only $6.4 billion, while reserves set aside for loss or contingency amounted to only $525 million. Today, on the corporation's 25th birthday, total assets exceed $56 billion, while reserves exceed $3.8 billion."

"At the same time, home ownership has expanded from roughly 45 per cent of the population in 1934 to over 60 per cent today."

Water Safety Course Open

Registration has started for the annual Red Cross lifesaving and water safety course, and early reports indicate there will be a large number participating this year.

Olen Puckett, water safety chairman, said instruction would begin July 6 at 6:30 p.m. Phil Puckett will be the instructor for the course, assisted by as many as are necessary to handle the registration.

There is no charge for the annual lifesaving course. The Howard Glasscock chapter of the Red Cross sponsors the event at the municipal swimming pool in the City Park.

There is a total of 15 hours of instruction involved with sessions each evening an hour-and-a-half long. All interested persons, who are good swimmers and over 14 years of age, may enroll for the free course.

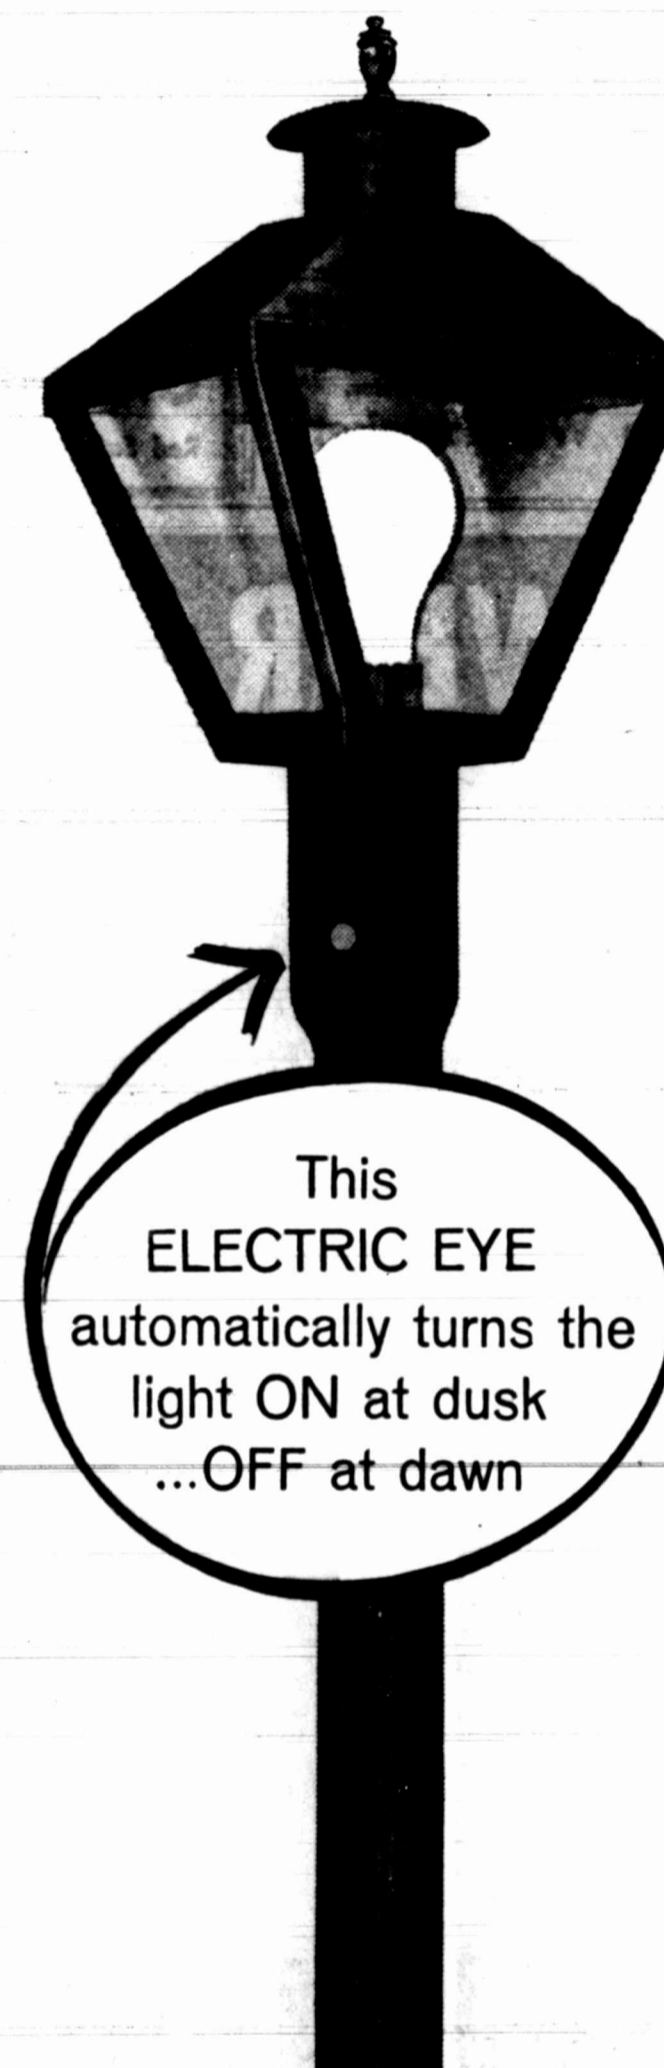

To register early and be sure of participation, Puckett suggested calling 4-9031 as soon as possible.

Local Men Attend School Meeting

LUBBOCK — Neighboring states will continue to siphon teachers from Texas schools because of better salaries, Texas' assistant commissioner of education told a School Business Services Workshop.

More than 80 school district business managers, superintendents and tax assessors attended the two-day meeting Wednesday and Thursday (June 24-25).

School officials participating in the workshop included Don Crockett, assistant school business manager and Pat Murphy, school business manager of Big Spring.

Eight Kids Go To a Prom

"...And Then There Was One"

"To Judy, On Her 18th Birthday..."

was recovering from a recent illness; everyone thought it would be good for her to get out and watch the kids dance and listen to the music. There were, in fact, about 100 adults sitting in the balconies of the high school gym that night. Outside of the country club, about the only way to hear a live orchestra in Shelbyville is at the high school homecoming dance in the fall and the prom in the spring. Tonight the music was supplied by Frankie Leonard and his nine-piece orchestra from Springfield. In their powder-blue jackets and dark trousers (as classy as anything you'd see in Chicago), they played under the east basket. Mostly they played sweet, slow music, like "Separate Tables," "No Love," "Stardust," "Blue Moon."

ALL ARE DANCING Only every fourth number approached rock 'n' roll and they were mild versions. In Shelbyville, the girls can dance fast but many of the country boys are too heavy-footed for the speedy stuff. Ivan Moon and his group entered the gym and took more pictures and then went to their table. Lyle Pfeiffer and his group arrived later and went to their table. And soon they were all dancing. The gym had a Mardi Gras decor that night — gay carnival scenes, clowns, smiling masked faces painted on paper on the end walls, the ceiling grids draped in bright hunting and under the west basket, the throne awaiting the coronation of the student King and Queen.

Card tables ringed the shiny gym floor, four students to a table, $1 admission per table. Each table had a bowl of mints and a little paper mache center-piece — a carnival hat. There were also tables for teachers, school board members, the principal, the superintendent, the sheriff and their ladies. Refreshments consisted of punch and cookies baked by the girls. All told, the prom cost $500. Part of the cost was met by the $1 table charge. The rest came out of the class fund, and the class fund came from the earnings of students who went out the previous autumn to help farmers pick up the corn missed by the mechanical pickers at the ends of the long rows. At intermission, the dancers retired to their tables to watch a sophomore on the Hawaiian guitar, a girl play the piano, another girl vocalize. The dancing resumed. Before it became a cliché, someone in higher authority should have pulled the word, "radiant," out of the English language and reserved it for high school girls at a prom. The girls that night were radiant; the boys, handsome. Mrs. Keen, in the balcony, noticed it. Particularly she noticed it in Judy Keen. She could see Judy but Judy couldn't see her mother in the shadowed balcony. It was now 11:05. At 11:05, an Illinois Central train called the "Louisiane," southbound from Chicago to New Orleans, was near Champaign, 73 miles northeast. The train was running about 17 minutes late. It was late leaving Chicago and farther down the line there were mail handling and passenger delays, nothing serious.

PROM'S CLIMAX At 11:05, in the gym in Shelbyville, the prom reached its traditional climax. A little girl walked down the floor, carrying a crown. She dropped it, recovered, proceeded to the throne. Then came the royal attendants, four student couples. Then came the King and Queen to be crowned while the orchestra played, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody." (The band didn't have a tune for the king.) Then the King danced with the Queen and the royal attendants danced and soon they were followed onto the floor by 200 others. For most kids this was the end of the prom and this was the last dance. The song was, "Mementos to Remember."

It was now 11:15. Like the vast majority of others, Judy Keen and her friends were leaving. From the shadowed balcony, her mother could see her leaving. Some time then, or before, Lyle Pfeiffer and his group decided to merge with Ivan Moon and his group. Why? One can only guess. Judy Keen and Dorothy Thomas were best friends. They could have been the catalytic agents who brought the two groups together. Besides, the Pfeiffer car had a bearing shod Ivan Moon's car was in good shape, as always. And they left together and crowded into Ivan's car.

with them. It is known that some of the kids took the root beer with them. In any case, they ordered, ate and left in a hurry. They had to hurry. They had only a few minutes left. NORTH TO NOWHERE Home and Shelbyville lay due west. Ivan Moon drove north. Why? We don't yet know. Ivan Moon and his chattering passengers drove north, on a dark black-top road. In less than a mile, the road began to parallel the Illinois Central tracks. In less than two miles, it turned abruptly to the left. In less than 100 feet, it rose over an unguarded railroad crossing.

At 12:05, the Louisiana Express roared down at 75 miles an hour and smashed into Ivan Moon and his friends. In one second of sickening motion and furious sound, seven kids became part of a national statistic. Irene Moon and Jerry Hill and Judy Keen and Lyle Pfeiffer and Lorraine Pfeiffer and Jerry Hayes and Dorothy Thomas were dead — an obscure fraction of the 37,000 killed every year in auto accidents.

CORSAGES AND DEATH The train hit Ivan Moon's car toward the right rear. It threw the car forward and to the right, like a sliced golf shot. It sheered off the road and cut the chassis almost in two and stopped the clock on the dashboard and scattered metal and glass and upholstery and corsages and root beer containers and clothes and eight human beings in the soot-stained weeds along the tracks. How did this accident happen? Was it the crowded car and the blocked vision, the noise, the misting up windows, the distracting lights of a busy highway paralleling the railroad on the far side? In Shelbyville, they will be asking these questions through an eternity of pain. In Shelbyville, Sunday, Jerry Hill's dog was still waiting. Monday, Irene's horse met the school bus as usual. Monday, the day she was to be installed in the National Honor Society, Irene Moon was buried. Monday, nine days before graduation, Judy Keen was buried in her graduation dress, next to her best friend, Dorothy Thomas. Lyle Pfeiffer and his sister, Lorraine, were buried outside Shelbyville. Lyle's college roommate, Jerry Hayes, was buried in Woodlawn. The delegation from their fraternity had to split into two groups to attend the funerals. Jerry Hill was buried in his new blue suit.

... Then there were eight ... They drove the 27 miles to Mattoon in about 30 minutes. The speed was not unusual. The road was straight, flat, uncrowded. The speed limit was 65 by day, 60 by night. It was now 11:45. In Mattoon, Ivan Moon pulled his sparkling Chevy, up to "Gill's Drive-In" ("Serving Selected Foods With A Devotion to Quality"). From their formals, the attendants could see the kids had been to a prom. From their gay, busy chatter, they could see they were having fun, but were not drinking. They ordered hamburgers and giant root beers. They were served within five minutes. They left soon after, eight in the car, four in the front seat, four in the back. A girl sat on a lap in the front seat, to Ivan Moon's right. They may have taken the food

By SAUL PETT AP Newsfeatures Writer EDITOR'S NOTE: Next weekend, Americans will celebrate the Fourth of July and, as usual, police and undertakers will be busy. Can Americans be told anything they haven't read or thought before about the need for highway safety? We think they can. We think this story does.

... First there was one ... His blue suit was new and his green 1956 Chevy, shiny like new. Ivan Moon was proud of his car and always kept his tires up. That afternoon he had washed it and polished it and vacuumed it and filled the gas tank. At 22, there is soul satisfaction in dressing up your car for a big Friday evening and telling the man, "fill it up."

He backed out of the Moon place, a small farm and saw mill operation two miles north of Shelbyville, and drove up the country road. It was a clear night, cool for May, and the windows of a car could easily mist up. Ivan drove past the home of his friend, Jerry Hill, just 200 yards from the Moons, and headed for Dorothy Thomas' house, a mile up. All three houses were on the same road and the same party line — one long, three shorts for the Moons; one short, two longs for Jerry; four shorts for Dorothy. And boys being boys and girls being girls, it was beginning to look like the three houses would be linked for a long time by more than a country road or telephone line. Ivan dated Dorothy, and Jerry dated Ivan's younger sister, Irene. They double-dated frequently. They went cat-fishing together and bowled together and sat in drive-ins together. The boys took turns with their cars. Last Sunday they drove to Ramsay Lake in Jerry's car. Tonight, prom night, it was Ivan's turn.

RING FOR IRENE Jerry had just bought a ring for Irene. But she was only 16, just finishing her junior year in high school, and Mrs. Moon said she couldn't accept the ring unless she told Jerry it would be a long engagement. Irene hadn't told him yet. That is where their romance stood on the night of Friday, May 15, 1959. Ivan and Dorothy were much farther along. She was 18 and graduating in 12 days. She had been wearing his diamond a year and it wouldn't be long now. Ivan had a steady job as a mechanic in a farm equipment store in Bethany. Things looked good. Ivan expected they would be married before the end of the summer. Ivan turned off the road toward the new frame house where Dorothy lived with her aunt and uncle, Betty and Bob Agney. She had come to live with them when she was 6, when her parents separated, at a time when the Agneys had no children of their own. Since then, the Agneys had had children of their own. But that made no difference. Dorothy was the first child in their house. She was still something special.

As Ivan turned in, Little Brad Agney, aged 3, was waiting with the usual shakedown. "Gum," he said. Ivan gave him gum and was allowed entrance. Contrary to all the natural laws of womankind, Dorothy was ready. Her dark hair was short in a poodle cut. She wore a new, pale yellow, ballerina-length formal, which was heavily ruffled and spread wide over an inner skirt containing 75 yards of material. Ivan seemed to approve of what he saw. As they left, Mrs. Agney asked that they return with Irene and Jerry so she could see "how everyone looks." They promised, and headed back to the Moons.

ready. Mrs. Moon took their pictures outside the house with a flash box camera. Mrs. Moon told them to be home by one. Irene protested, "Oh, Mom, we want to go somewhere and eat afterward." Mrs. Moon said one would be fine. No one felt it necessary to remind Ivan to drive carefully. Neither he nor Jerry drank. And it wasn't difficult for Ivan to recall that three years and three months ago his older, married sister was killed in an auto accident. At the filling stations around town, they'd tell you Ivan Moon was no hot-rodder; in pulling out, he didn't gun his car. It was now about 8. The dance started at 9 but the girls wanted to be there early to take pictures of friends. Everyone got into the car.

... Then there were two ... At Jerry Hill's house, things were jumping. He had been talking about nothing but the prom for more than a week. Now, at last, he came downstairs, a slender, slightly short boy, scrubbed and glistening in his new blue suit. The week before, he had turned 19 and got, from his mother and brothers, a back-seat radio speaker for his car. Tonight, a man of substance, who held a steady job as daytime manager of Broverman's Pool Hall opposite the fire house in Shelbyville, Jerry Hill was taking his girl to the prom. It was to be a big night, and there was no particular point in recalling that 11 years ago tomorrow — very early tomorrow — his father was killed in an auto accident.

Ordinarily, Jerry was very affectionate with his mother. He'd hug her and she'd say, "Jerry, save that for Irene," and he'd say, "I'm just rehearsing, Mom." PASSES INSPECTION Tonight, Jerry didn't bug his mother because the tiny living room was full of women enjoying ice cream and cookies at a Stanley Products Party. The ladies were gathered for a demonstration of the new line of dust mops, furniture polishes, brooms and other household gadgets. Jerry contented himself with the one question, "Do I pass inspection?" The assembled ladies agreed he did, and he left for Irene's, on foot. As usual, his tired, black, old cocker spaniel, Miltzi, followed him over. Miltzi always waited at Irene's house until Jerry brought her home from a date.

At the Moons' house, a small square frame building with TV and a RING FOR IRENE. Jerry had just bought a ring for Irene. But she was only 16, just finishing her junior year in high school, and Mrs. Moon said she couldn't accept the ring unless she told Jerry it would be a long engagement. Irene hadn't told him yet. That is where their romance stood on the night of Friday, May 15, 1959. Ivan and Dorothy were much farther along. She was 18 and graduating in 12 days. ability of the car. Walter Pfeiffer had no particular reason to remind his son to drive carefully; the boy was level-headed. About 8:30, Lyle Pfeiffer and Jerry Hayes arrived at Judy Keen's small frame house in Shelbyville. They came in on the tail-end of a party. This day, May 15, 1959, was Judy's 18th birthday. Tonight she was going to the prom. In 12 days, she would graduate from high school. A girl couldn't ask for more momentous events. For her birthday this attractive blonde girl had asked for and received from her parents a combination birthday-graduation gift — an extra fine, extra expensive white graduation dress. Came her birthday, and her parents added several blouses. The girls were now ready. They should have been; they had been getting ready all afternoon with the help of Mrs. Keen, who did their hair. Melvin Keen, superintendent of a road construction company, took pictures of his daughter and her friends. He took pictures of them eating slices of Judy's birthday cake. He took pictures of the girls in their new dresses and wrist corsages — roses for Judy, carnations for Lorraine. He took pictures of the girls pinning on the boys' boutonnières. HOME BY 2:30 The Pfeiffers had left it up to the Keens to decide when the couples should return that night. Now Melvin Keen told them: "It's okay if you want to go out and eat afterward as long as you tell me when you'll be back." They said they'd get home by 2:30. Melvin Keen was content with that; Lyle always got Judy home when he said he would. And they left for the prom in the Pfeiffer car. Mrs. Keen and some friends also went to the dance. Mrs. Keen

... Then there were four ... They drove back up the country road to the Agneys and were duly admired and photographed again. Ivan said, "We better get going. With all those ruffles, it'll take a half hour just to get Dorothy into the car." Everyone laughed. Have a good time, the Agneys said. The two couples left, headed for Shelbyville. Shelbyville is a farming town of 4,600, a quiet town a bit too busy to be called sleepy and too serene to be called bustling. Main Street is wide and clean. The county courthouse steps are broad and roomy enough for men in baseball caps and dusty jeans to gather and converse or just watch the traffic of the day. And, across from the courthouse, inevitably, in a little fenced off triangle, stands a monument to the war dead. The town has two industries to speak of. One makes hay balers. The other makes hair-pins. Other than that, Shelbyville exists for the surrounding corn and soybean farmers. They come in on Friday nights and, while the women shop, the men mostly stand around or have a beer. FEW CHANGES IN TOWN The town is about 120 years old and clings proudly to its historical footstep. Abe Lincoln once rode over here from Springfield to debate a judge. It has changed little. The population remains fairly constant. It has little racial mixture and few stresses. Most families have been here three or four generations and, as one man says, "They've kinda lost track of where people came from."

And a little after 8, on the night of May 15, while Ivan Moon and his group were driving in from the north, Lyle Pfeiffer was about ready to drive in from the west. Most boys who go formal to the Shelbyville High prom rent their white jacket, black tie, shirt, studs, cuff links, cummerbund and black pants from Richardson's Clothing Store, on Main Street, for $9.75. But not Lyle Pfeiffer and his friend, Jerry Hayes. They were COLLEGE MEN. They had brought their formal clothes down with them from Champaign, where they were freshmen, fraternity brothers and roommates at the University of Illinois. Lyle was 18; Jerry 19. Both were handsome, clean-cut, excellent students. Lyle had a college scholarship. In high school, he was president of his chapter of the Future Farmers of America. In his high school at Woodlawn, Ill., 100 miles south,

A Devotional For Today

I exhort . . . that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty. (1 Timothy 2:1, 2.)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to grow spiritually so that our lives may be united with Thy will. Help us to live so close to Thee, that we may be truly candles shining for Jesus Christ, our Saviour and Master. In His name we pray. Amen.

Successful Community Venture

The sixth annual Soap Box Derby drew its largest crowd Thursday, and from all angles it must be regarded as a successful community enterprise.

For one thing it supplied wholesome and at times exciting entertainment for around 5,000 people, not to include those who listened by radio.

More important, it provided an experience in creative construction and craftsmanship as well as a lesson in perseverance and tenacity for some three score boys.

Beyond this, it brought the family groups in this circle closer together, and particularly fathers and sons.

It gave businessmen and individuals a chance to participate in a boy's future by sponsoring him as a Derby entrant.

It taught boys to lose bravely and with their chins up, and the harder lesson of how to win with grace and humility.

Of course the Herald is proud of its part as a co-sponsor along with the Downtown Lions Club and Tidwell Chevrolet, the team which has made all these Derbies such outstanding successes. We salute all the others who had a part, particularly those like Texas Electric Service Co. for illumination, Southwestern Bell for communications, Webb base for its sound truck, Taylor Implement for its tractor trailer, to the city street and police employees who prepared the course and policed the crowd, and to everyone who came out to see the big show.

Something Must Be Done Quickly

We don't know how it is with other places, but the successive impasses by the legislature are creating some problems locally as well as on a statewide basis.

For instance, our schools and college are unable to project budgets for next year with any degree of accuracy so long as the air of uncertainty hangs over them. Neither can they calculate the degree or extent of state support with reasonable assurance that the figures will stand. At the rate things are going, they are coming down to budget time without knowing what one of the most important sources of their revenues may be.

On a statewide basis, each delay of passage of a tax bill is depriving the state of certain revenues for the biennium for the reason that it takes 90 days from the date of enactment for the law to become effective. Those who will pay the taxes—whatever they are—may welcome the delay, but this doesn't solve the state's financial problem.

There is going to have to be some sort of compromise in order to come out with any kind of a tax bill in this second special session. So far neither the forces wanting an out-and-out sales tax nor those favoring an omnibus type of selective sales and severance tax program have been willing to yield. Each has insisted in compromising on its own terms, and this is no compromise. Something must be done quickly. Once that is accomplished, perhaps attention can be turned to a complete reassessment of the tax structure with the view of doing something constructive next session.

David Lawrence New Approach To A 'Summit' Conference

WASHINGTON — There's a way out of the dilemma that has arisen over the holding of a "summit" conference between the East and West. It's by appointing a special ambassador to represent the President of the United States. He could sit indefinitely either with the Soviet foreign minister or any special ambassador that Nikita Khrushchev might appoint.

The conference could take up all subjects where the foreign ministers recently left off. The sessions could go on for weeks or months if necessary. If talk can solve anything, this would afford every opportunity for exhaustive discussions.

Whenever the new conference reached agreement on any substantial points the heads of state for final approval, President Eisenhower himself just a few days ago paved the way for such a conference when he said:

"There is developing in the world sort of an idea that heads of government can take themselves away from their normal posts and go and do a lot of things that cannot be otherwise accomplished.

"Now, the foreign ministers of free countries are people who go to conferences clothed with a very great deal of authority. The governments involved normally try to establish limits within which their foreign minister can negotiate. He communicates with his own government every single night. There are exchanges of telegrams and cables to keep him informed and to keep the government informed so that from the standpoint of traditional diplomacy the foreign minister or his ambassadors or the government's ambassadors provide the mechanism through which these agreements are supposed to be obtained.

"Now, everybody knows that, when you are dealing in a dictatorship, there is only one man, finally, that can make the decision, a firm decision, a final decision. Therefore, there has grown up what I believe to be a false doctrine that we should rework our entire diplomatic procedures in order to go to a 'summit' meeting every thirty days or so.

"Now, from my viewpoint, the dictator can give his foreign minister just as much flexibility in dealing with these troublesome and tough questions as can a democracy. Therefore, I think to assume that foreign ministers have now become useless, that they are no good and to throw them away and make every single head of government or head of state spend his time in work that has been the function of specialists in this line. I think is a step backward in diplomacy. This is like Alexander and Napoleon meeting on a raft in a river and settling the fate of the world.

"You can't do that. And, to my mind, if these foreign ministers' meetings cannot prepare the ground and at least some of the seed for accord, then I see no use whatsoever for trying to have a harvest when there is no planting and no tilling."

This is sound doctrine. It is an effective approach to the problem of negotiation. For the business of big governments should not be disrupted while the heads of the departments of foreign affairs spend all their time in Geneva or some other remote place as matters in their respective fields involving other governments and equally important subjects are neglected.

The United States government already has tried out the special ambassador technique. At Geneva, for instance, right now James J. Wadsworth is serving effectively as special ambassador at the conference which is negotiating on the complex problem of suspending nuclear tests. Mr. Wadsworth has been at it steadily for more than six months. He is well informed because he concentrates every day on a single subject. He has become a specialist in his field and is relied on by the Secretary of State for guidance and advice step by step in carrying on the difficult and delicate negotiations.

A specialist on the problem of West Berlin could be appointed ambassador and when the conference with the representatives of the Soviet government as well as the British and French governments reached a definitive stage, the foreign ministers could come to the meeting. If sufficient progress has been made, even a "summit" meeting could then be held.

It would be a waste of time for President Eisenhower to go to a "summit" meeting unless adequate preparation is made. British officials privately agree with that position, though for internal political reasons they keep agitating publicly for an immediate "summit" meeting even without any preliminary progress.

The sooner special ambassadors are appointed, the more quickly will the world learn whether talk is going to get anywhere and whether there is a sincere desire at Moscow to reach agreement or merely to use the "summit" idea for propaganda purposes.

Want Shorter Name

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Milwaukee man and wife have asked court permission to legally change their name. They want to be called the Bores.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Borzyskowski said that not only did other persons have difficulty with their name but their own five children couldn't pronounce it.

For Convenience

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—After hearing testimony of John L. Adams Jr., a police accident investigator, Municipal Judge Ronald Abernathy declared a recess in the trial.

He took Adams and Margaret Roush, who had been among court spectators, into his office and married them. Adams had arranged for this double day in court.

J. A. Livingston Top Economists See Continuing Prosperity

No matter who or what you are—whether a school teacher, housewife, factory worker, rising young man in the corporate orbit, business executive, banker, or professional man—life should be fairly pleasant and productive during the next year and a half.

Business will be good to excellent. Employment will increase.

The standard of well-being of the American family will rise. The Republicans, in November, 1960, will boast, "We did it."

Wall Streeters and home-builders will feel slightly on the edge of prosperity rather than in the heart of it. But they won't be by-passed.

That is the business outlook as foreseen by 61 of America's top-ranking economists who replied to my semi-annual questionnaire.

The respondents are well distributed occupationally—in labor unions, banks, investment firms, industrial enterprises, government, universities, and research.

"We are now in a period of strong expansion, with the force behind it well distributed," said one economist.

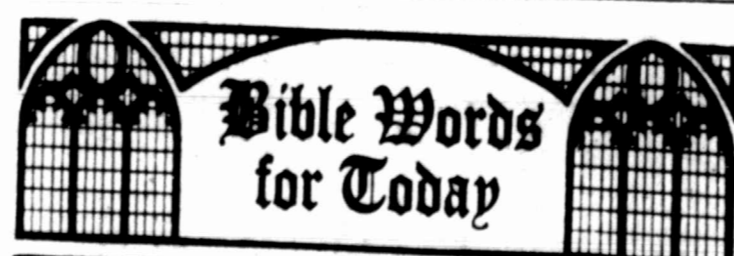

Another commented: "It is difficult not to be influenced by the prevailing state of mind, for the man in the street is as sure of the future as he was in 1929."

The majority feels that the current upswing will be of classical dimensions. Since 1954, upswings of the business cycle have lasted an average of 30 months. The present rise celebrated its first anniversary in April. If it conforms to the economists' consensus, it has 1960 or 32 months in all. The three postwar upswings all lasted longer.

Recovery Plus Inflation

This shows 61 economic experts see the next year and one-half. Total output of goods and services will rise 8% by December, 1960, and industrial production will increase 5%. Living costs also will go up 2%.

II CORINTHIANS 5:20 "So we are ambassadors for Christ, God making his appeal through us." (RSV)

Here is pinpointed the responsibility which rests upon every follower of Jesus Christ. We are His ambassadors to all men and nations. We are called into this high and holy service by the command of our Lord: "Go . . . make disciples of all nations." (Matthew 28:19)

How do we go about our ambassadorial duties? By accepting our portfolio as ministers of reconciliation. Every minister in the pulpit and every layman in the pew is equally responsible for this ministry.

Through us God makes His appeal! Is there anywhere a word so humbling? Who are we that upon us God should lay such a tremendous task? We are reconciled to God through Jesus Christ, Being reconciled we witness in our thoughts, words and deeds to the love, the power and the joy which God has given us. Amazing—but true: God does make His appeal through us!

Around The Rim The Country Is Being Flim-Flammed

There's been some major skulduggery going on somewhere, and I am impelled to sound the clarion, Citizens, Arise!

It's probably too late to do anything about it, as is generally the case when human rights are trampled, but there still exists the right of protest.

While we've been sitting here worrying about space missiles and cutworms and taxes, do you realize what has been ordered, under our very noses?

Well, I'll tell you. The good old American inch—yes, I mean the 12th part of a foot, the 36th part of a yard—is being reduced. Actually cut down, mind you.

If this comes as a shock to you, I will sympathize. Because it was with no little consternation that I learned that there exists a difference between Great Britain's inch and the American inch—of .00002. That, if I can read decimals, or interpret five zeros, is two millionths.

How this difference got started I don't know, but it is certainly something we should be looking into. Anyhow, somebody in the two countries got together—probably at a secret summit conference—and agreed to whack out this discrepancy.

Come July 1, the U. S. inch is going to shrink by .00001 (that's a millionth), and the British inch is going to expand the other oh-oh-oh-oh-one. This gets 'em together, and I'll just bet there are eggheads or scientists with eyes on the skies who will say that henceforth everything will be just dandy.

As an old fuddy-duddy chronically resistant to sweeping changes, I view this development with alarm. We are going to wake up next Wednesday morning and find a millionth of an inch gone from every one of our inches. This is improvement?

There ought to be some questions per-tened here. How come England ever got ahead of us on the inch? What were our forefathers thinking of, when they tossed tea overboard and hung the lantern in the Old North Church? Didn't they realize that the Redcoats were skimming them out of good honest measurement?

And even if they were hoodwinked then, why have we let this nation across the seas outsmart us by shrinking our inch? Why couldn't Britain just stretch her own inch by .00002 and leave ours alone? There have been congressional investigations of less serious matters, and I would like to think that on such an issue as this there would be non-partisan thinking.

Oh, we're in trouble, come July 1, all right. You had better whack a millionth off your desk ruler and your yardstick, or you're way off base. If you thought you had a 75-foot lot, you sure don't. You got only a 74 and 999,000-millionths foot lot, and you have a right to call for appropriate adjustment on your taxes.

If women thought that the proper skirt length is 15 inches off the floor, they've got to get a new design. If inches are shorter, then skirts probably will be longer, no?

What if a highway patrolman stops you while your drifting along at 61 miles per hour? You can say, "Officer, you're wrong. The mile has been changed, didn't you know? Your radar is completely unsynchronized. It ain't right. I was only going 60 and 999,000-millionths miles per hour, which is not enough to exceed the speed limit."

Yeah, see where this gets you. I tell you, we're in trouble. It's the little things that count, like millions of an inch. We ought to raise havoc.

—BOB WHIPKEY

Norman Vincent Peale There's A Way To Deal With Moods

A young wife consulted me regarding her marriage problem. She told me she was going to leave her husband. She had been married very long but already it was becoming intolerable to her and she "just couldn't stand it any longer."

The atmosphere in which she lived had never been like this and she couldn't take it. So ran her pitiful recital.

I listened patiently while she told me all this and then I asked, "But specifically, what is the matter with your husband? Does he drink?"

"Oh, no," she said. "He never touches a drop."

"Well, then," I continued, "does he gamble?"

"Oh, no, no, he doesn't gamble. He never would gamble."

"Does he hit you and swear at you?"

"I should say not! He's as gentle as a lamb."

"For the life of me," I exclaimed, "I don't see what's wrong with him then."

"It's that he doesn't speak to me; he just sits and sulks," she explained.

"How long does he sulk?" I asked.

"Oh, just about a day. Sometimes two days."

"Well," I said, "I know hundreds of women who would take on that husband of yours very gladly. You ought to be happy that he isn't drinking, gambling or running around with other women."

Her problem is to learn to adjust to those moods of his. I realize even that is difficult and annoying, but, good heavens, woman, you've got to have some problems in marriage. And you're pretty lucky. I'd say."

"But how do I handle this mood problem?" she questioned me.

One important fact I pointed out, which is basic to all human relations including marriage is that you have to take people as they are. And you must love them as they are. Everyone has some qualities which we would like changed, and but we have some that they don't like. But you must learn to let people be what they are and like them, bad qualities and all. So if a husband has moods, he has moods, and you've got to love him moods and all.

The young woman went at her problem intelligently and patiently. It helped her when she gained psychological understanding of the case. The day came when she was able to talk frankly with her husband who confessed to the misery his moods caused him.

They agreed on and carried out a counseling program. Then they decided to "go all out with a spiritual program."

They started praying together every morning at breakfast and each night before retiring. They read the Bible together and carefully selected spiritual literature as well. They attended church worship regularly and entered into a fellowship group of young married couples.

There were times when the husband fell back into the old gloomy moods, but they gradually lost their strength. The psychiatrist and the pastor pooled their resources in helping him with his problem and gave him understanding followed by release.

This little case history demonstrates that moods or any problem can be handled successfully. There is always a way if only we will look for it. And then work at it when we do find it.

Marquis Childs The Drive To Stop Smut In The Mails

WASHINGTON — From time immemorial public officials have set themselves up as guardians of public morality. In ancient Greece Socrates, perhaps the greatest of all philosophers, was charged with corrupting the moral of the youth of Athens and put to death.

In barring from the mails the unexpurgated edition of the novel, "Lady Chatterley's Lover," Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has put himself in the role of public arbiter over private morality. Quite aside from the merits or demerits of the case, the reasons are not hard to find.

Summerfield, who with Ezra Taft Benson is the only holdover from the original Eisenhower team, is a man of great moral earnestness. As Postmaster General he has become familiar with the flood of pornography sent through commercial channels into every corner of the country.

It was a shocking discovery, as it must be to every innocent citizen, to learn that big-business methods and techniques have been applied for profit to the dissemination of smut. Not alone to those who answer phony sounding ads but unsolicited in the mails this filth comes to young people whose names are on mailing lists available for a price.

Summerfield says the volume is up to perhaps a half-billion dollars a year. He tells of one raid in New York City that netted 17 tons of pornography which was being mailed out by assembly-line techniques.

In a locked room adjoining his office the Postmaster General has assembled a chamber of prurient horror. It runs the gamut from the nudist magazines, published allegedly in the interests of those seeking health through sun-bathing, to the vilest representations in photographs and drawings. All the material, including several pornographic motion-picture films, was taken from the mails in the drive to stop the traffic which for a few exploiters apparently brings in very high profits.

Summerfield has shown a number of members of Congress through his chamber of horrors. Women members, he explains, are escorted by a woman post-attendant. Escorting the visitor around this display the Postmaster General speaks with undisguised dismay and horror of the contribution he fears it is making to juvenile delinquency. Thousands of letters come to him, he says, from parents whose adolescents have received such literature or come-ons urging them to write for it.

The Postoffice Department has had great success recently in prosecuting the mass pornography peddlers. Formerly the prosecution could take place only at the point at which the material was mailed, the two chief centers being New York and Los Angeles. Today the accused can be tried at the point at which the material is received and where the damage is done.

Those who criticize Summerfield in the case of Lady Chatterley are fearful that in his zeal he will blur the line between pornography and art and literature and open the way to wide suppression of work that should not be branded by the censor. He himself has no doubts of the rightness of his action. In his desk he keeps a marked copy of Lady Chatterley and the use of short Anglo-Saxon words not employed in polite society.

The novel, by D. H. Lawrence, makes a poor case for those who champion freedom of expression. When it was first published in its unexpurgated form it was banned in England in other countries. Critics have found it turgid and self-conscious, and the book would probably have been forgotten if it had not been for the love scenes between Lady Chatterley and her husband's game keeper.

Nevertheless it is the work of a widely recognized genius who exercised considerable influence on his time. Without the publicity resulting from the action barring the book from the mails the new edition might have been all but ignored. The Postmaster General says the publisher invited the action, which raises a question as to why he responded to the invitation and gave the book such wide publicity.

The drive to stop commercialized smut is all important. But if it spills over into the area of literature, and unfortunately legitimate publishers often use dubious lures, it can do great harm.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	2 Kings	12	8-21
Monday	Deuteronomy	4	1-14
Tuesday	Deuteronomy	5	1-21
Wednesday	Deuteronomy	14	1-14
Thursday	Deuteronomy	6	1-19
Friday	Deuteronomy	7	1-16
Saturday	Deuteronomy	8	1-20

If someone were to deprive you of the right of relaxation you would be a slave.

Yet relaxation itself can enslave us!

Nero is a villain of history because he fiddled while Rome burned. He couldn't have put out the fire . . . but what a colossal stupid time to relax!

There are hours in every week when we need to relax. And there are hours that challenge our mightiest effort.

It is like those hours when, with millions the world over, we have opportunity to seek in our churches truth . . . faith . . . God!

The value of relaxation is unquestionable. But the value of religious and moral growth is supreme!

More Girls Are Enrolled In Miss Big Spring Contest, Pageant Rehearsals To Begin

SHIRLEY TERRY

Plans for the Miss Big Spring pageant will take more solid form this week as the deadline approaches.

The event will be staged at 7:30 p.m. July 4th in City Auditorium. The local winner of the senior division will go to Corpus Christi for the Miss Texas contest, the winner of which will compete for the Miss America title in Atlantic City, N. J.

Preliminaries will be held at the auditorium July 3, and admission will be 25 cents. Admission to the Jaycee sponsored pageant on July 4 will be one dollar for adults, 50 cents for children.

Entrants in both junior and senior divisions will meet Friday at 7 p.m. in the auditorium for a rehearsal. Monday, they will meet at the Cecil McDonald home for a swim party and rehearsal, with the full rehearsal planned for July 2 in the auditorium.

There are nine entrants in the senior division, and 27 in the juniors, according to the latest count. Entrants announced Friday included:

In the senior division is Patricia Ann Johnson, 35 1/2-24-35, age 18, height 5 feet 6 inches, hazel eyes, weight 118, light brown hair, medium complexion. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Johnson, of 212 Dixie.

She is sponsored by Margie's Dress Shop.

Miss Johnson has been a YMCA swimming instructor for five years and lists swimming and sewing as hobbies. Her talent demonstration during the pageant will involve swimming.

Besides swimming, she has had training in voice and expression. The high school senior would like to attend Texas Tech.

Miss Johnson's activities have included Rainbow Girls, pep squad, Junior Historians, MYF Tri-Hi-Y, FHA. She served two years on the junior high student council, was cheerleader at that time, reported for the high school paper, and served as a volunteer assistant in the school office.

Her father is a public accountant.

Entered in the junior division are:

Betty Boykin, 34-25-35, age 16, height 5'7", blue eyes, weight 132, black hair, fair complexion. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Boykin, of 101 Jefferson.

Mr. Boykin is an independent oil producer.

Miss Boykin is sponsored by Mellinger's.

A junior in high school, she would like to attend HJCC and Baylor. Her hobbies are centered on cooking and homemaking, plus swimming water skiing and tennis.

Activities include Tri-Hi-Y and the Rainbow Girls, and she is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Marilyn Bigham, 34-23-34, age 17, height 5'5", brown eyes, weight 116, brown hair, medium dark complexion. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bigham, of 706 Tulane.

Miss Bigham is a high school senior, and would like to further her education at Texas Tech. She has had two years of tap dance, ballet and acrobatics.

She is sponsored by Newsom's Grocery.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

GREEN MANSIONS, starring Audrey Hepburn and Anthony Perkins. Produced by Mel Ferrer. Screenplay by Dorothy Kingsley. Music by Villa-Lobos. Sunday through Tuesday at the Ritz.

There are some novels that Hollywood just ought to leave be. "Green Mansions," by W. H. Hudson, was a magic book, one of the classics of the last century.

It mixed the ethereal and the eerie in a way that made readers' spines tingle.

It was the story of Rima, the bird-girl, living as a faun in the Venezuelan jungle. It was also the story of an idealistic young man, adventuring into the jungle in search of his soul.

But Hudson's fragile prose has lost its magic fire in translation to the screen. The results are almost embarrassing.

The production and photography were beautifully done and Audrey Hepburn, as Rima, is wonderfully effective at the first of the show, before the young man appears.

She darts in and out of the jungle in a state of innocence, and the musical score of Villa-Lobos helps to create a fabric of magic.

But then Anthony Perkins, as the young adventurer, appears, hauls out a guitar, makes cow-eyes at Rima, and the magic is spoiled from then on.

Jerry Lewis, it seems, is slipping. If his "Don't Give Up the Ship" is any indication. Some Hollywood columnists have been saying that he has surrounded himself with yes-men, who will laugh at his corniest jokes to keep the boss happy.

This may or may not be true, but it might explain his latest unorganized batch of lame gags followed by a pause for facial contortions.

Lewis just hasn't realized that it is his wistful smile and not his St. Vitus dance that appeals to most movie-goers.

Those African giants (seven feet tall, they say) are restless again. It's "Watusi," starring George Montgomery, and it's a sort of follow-up on "King Solomon's Mines." Same natives, same plot, same scenery.

But it's a pretty interesting film, especially the scenery and wildlife. Taina Elg is pretty interesting scenery, too.

Returning and recommended: "Bernadine." Pat Boone in a rollicking movie about teen-agers that does not paint the kids as delinquents. A bit of mischief, maybe, but no vandalism.

"The Mating Game." Debbie Reynolds, as the farmer's dotter, and Tony Randall, as the tax man with an ax for papa, take a romp in the hay. It's great fun from beginning to end.

"The Hanging Tree." Gary Cooper and Maria Schell in a good Western, centering about a lonely man and a woman with a past. "I Want to Live!" Susan Hayward's award-winning role as a convicted murderer who met her death in the gas chamber after a long series of legal snafus. The subject is still controversial.

"Don't Go Near the Water."

He Likes Quiet

NEW YORK (AP) — A sheriff who can't stand noise is Jack Prince. He plays law officer in "Destry Rides Again," Broadway musical starring Andy Griffith.

Each evening when the plot requires Griffith to fire a few pistol shots, Prince arrives onstage for the scene with ear plugs carefully in place.

African Crisis May Involve Nasser, U. S. In Somaliland

By WILTON WYNN
 CAIRO (AP)—A crisis that won't come due till 1960 already is creating tension in northeast Africa. The area is the Somalilands, a series of desolate territories hugging the African coastline just south of Ethiopia. In 1960, Italy must give up its trusteeship over the Italian Somaliland and the independent country of Somalia will be born.

As soon as Italian Somaliland becomes independent, there is certain to be a hue and cry among Somalis for independence for other Somalilands and union of them all. And that will cause trouble for the British, the French, and the Ethiopians, all of whom hold Somali territory.

The crisis also is expected to involve Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, which already is backing its fellow Moslems in the Somalilands. The United States may get drawn in indirectly because it is supplying arms which Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia may have to use to hold his portion of Somali territory.

CAIRO OFFICE OPENED
 Somali political exiles have opened an office in Cairo from which they direct propaganda attacks against Ethiopia. Somali nationalists claim that Ethiopia's rich Ogaden Province is a part of the Somalilands. It is largely populated by Somalis but has been under Ethiopian control since 1887.

The Somalis are Moslems, while Ethiopia's rulers are Christian. This religious cleavage has added to the tension in the area.

The Cairo daily Al Gumhuriya

—owned by the Nasser government—has charged that Ethiopia had "annexed" Ogaden Province from the Somalilands. The paper demanded the return of Ogaden to Somali rule.

In Addis Ababa, the official Ethiopian Herald angrily denied Ethiopia had taken Ogaden from anyone else. The Herald accused Egyptian writers of "ignorance of history" in making their charges.

CLAIM THERE ARE FIVE
 Only three Somalilands are shown on the map, but Somali nationalists claim there really are five. The three on the map are the French Somaliland, British Somaliland, and Italian Somaliland. Somalis there add Ogaden, which they call "Ethiopian Somaliland," and the northern frontier district under British administration in Kenya.

Ahmed Omar of the Somali office in Cairo says a general Somall congress in the Italian Somaliland will demand full independence and unity for all the Somalilands by 1960.

"We will fight to the death to achieve our independence and unity by 1960," Omar says.

When the Italians leave their sector, the British are expected to offer their Somaliland the choice of independence or commonwealth status. The French apparently intend to hang onto their little Somaliland, and the Ethiopians clearly will fight to keep Ogaden.

Ahmed Omar predicts there will be serious trouble if the demand for unity is frustrated.

Forbes Resigns As O'Donnell Mayor

O'DONNELL — Jim Forbes resigned his post as mayor of O'Donnell during a special meeting of the city council Thursday night. Members selected Jimmy Hash to complete Forbes' unexpired term.

Forbes said that since he is president of the bank in which city funds are deposited, he thought it necessary to resign his post. He was commended by the council for the work he has done and was asked to serve in an advisory capacity in the future.

In other business, Forbes reported that work on the new city hall and community building should be completed by July 1. Councilmen voted to retire the debt on the street sweeper.

Only Good Magic Can Fool The Kids

By GERALD MILLER
 BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—"Yes," says the magician as he makes a length of rope stand on end. "It's easier to fool 200 college professors than a dozen youngsters."

of a move more closely. If you're not really top-notch they'll catch you every time."

Gordon speaks from experience. Now 55, he has been a practicing magician for 47 years.

"Every kid who ever sees a magician wants to be one for a few weeks in his life," he says. "Some never recover." That was Gordon's case. He saw his first magician when he was 8.

At 18 he and another magician founded the International Brotherhood of Magicians, which today claims 16,000 members around the world.

After 20 years on the road as an entertainer, Gordon opened a magic supply house here.

"Magic," he observes, "has made fantastic strides. It used to be you could play cities for months before you'd meet another magician, even an amateur. Nowadays everybody's a magician."

"Salesmen use magic to break down sales resistance. Dentists use tricks to calm patients. I know of surgeons who practice sleight of hand to keep their fingers limber."

"But it still takes a real pro," he says, "to fool the kids."

C. City Begins Museum Unit

COLORADO CITY — A group of 35 Colorado Citizens met Friday night at Civic House to plan a membership drive in the newly organized Colorado City Museum Association. The Association has 31 members and has selected R. H. Ratliff, local attorney to act as chairman until a permanent slate of officers is selected.

The association plans to provide a museum to display evidence of Colorado City's colorful frontier history, and has made a start by quarrying several of the buffalo tracks at Seven Wells. The indentations in the sandstone cliffs at Seven Wells are said to be the footprints of the giant bison, which once roamed the Texas plains.

Ratliff says the next steps will be a membership drive and then to find a site for the proposed museum. He said that the Legion Hut is being considered.
