Bull Creek Big Contributor To Lake Thomas Expansion

A flood of water, product of the series of heavy rains which have fallen these past few days, is pouring down Bull Creek and into the big Lake J. B. Thomas reservoir.

Showers Continue In Area As Lake Thomas Level Inches Up

Showers continued to fall in this area Thursday at the Lake J. B. Thomas level inched up. But the center of the storm area shifted slightly to the south-west and swamped Midland and Odessa.

shed could add slightly to the level. The front along which the showers fell seemed to stall out on a east-west line at Big Spring on Wednesday.

5 inches in two days and W. L. Wilson Jr., slightly north, had 3.5 inches. Martin County was getting a country soaking.

Three inches or more had fallen at Midland and Odessa within the last 24 to 36 hours and at mid-morning more was falling. Streets in both cities were running bank full and stalling traffic.

Heaviest falls in this vicinity occurred along the Howard-Borden line directly north of Big Spring. W. L. Wilson Sr. reported

Other reports included the Morgan Creek pump station of CRMWD 2.2 inches; Big Spring-Odessa intake station (at Lake Thomas for 36 hour period) 3.2 inches.

Senate Votes $2 Billion Loan Fund For Foreign Development

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today voted for a two-year, two-billion dollar program of foreign development loans to be financed by direct appropriations from Congress.

The compromise washed out a scrap which saw the administration win a 48-42 initial vote Wednesday night. Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) raised a point of order that an authorization for direct Treasury borrowing had the effect of appropriating money in a legislative bill.

focus the issue between the Democratic-controlled Congress and the Eisenhower administration over what Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois calls "raids on the Treasury" and "backdoor financing."

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and others had wanted a five-year, five-billion-dollar program to be financed by simply authorizing the foreign aid administration to borrow the money from the Treasury.

Case ran into stiff opposition from other senators who contended that if his point were upheld, it could be raised also against housing, rural electrification, farm subsidy and other programs also financed without direct appropriations.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the majority leader, who sided with Fulbright, said he didn't think any question more important to the American people had arisen since he became a senator.

Pope Appeals For Peace, Church Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII appealed today to the leaders of rival nations to "try every approach" for peace because a war with nuclear weapons would destroy victor and vanquished alike.

The pontiff warned that if nations do not aim at "fraternal unity which must rest on the precepts of justice and be nourished by charity, conditions of gravest crisis remain."

"We therefore ask all, and statesmen in particular, that they ponder these matters prudently and earnestly before God the Judge; and, as a result, with genuine good will, be ready to try every approach which may lead to the essential unity. This harmony and unity, by which alone, we say, the joint prosperity of nations will undoubtedly be increased, will be able to be restored only when minds are at peace and the rights of all recognized."

He warned repeatedly and in plain language of the ruin which will result "if the fires of discord are set ablaze" again in a world which he said already has seen too much of war.

Khrushy Hard On Berlin In Harriman Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Two New York newspapers report that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in his interview with former New York Gov. Averell Harriman, adopted a very tough line in discussing the Berlin crisis.

"Khrushchev indicated he is determined to get us out of Berlin and apparently thinks he can do so because he judges that the world balance of power has shifted in his favor."

The Herald Tribune said Harriman did send an account of the interviews through the Moscow embassy to Washington, but he questioned that "this account be held closely for the time being, apparently because he (Harriman) is under contract to publish his own story of his trip to Russia."

If An H-Bomb Were To Land On The Howard County Court House

Here's the areas of greatest damage, the districts of severe but slightly diminished damage and the general scope of the desolation such an explosion would create.

SURMISES ON THE H-BOMB

What Happens When The Light Goes Out? We Go Out, Too

By DON HENRY
What would happen if an H-bomb packing the force of 10 million tons of TNT exploded over the courthouse?

If you were in the county, you would be affected, if not destroyed.

Dr. Frank Shelton, a Pentagon nuclear specialist, sketched the picture before a Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee, giving the figures on effects of an H-bomb attack on the U. S.

Bringing it closer to home, this would be the result of a 10-megaton bomb if it hit the court house.

A crater 240 feet deep would be gouged out (solid black area) extending a quarter of mile on either side — as far north as the T&P yards, south of the Herald Building, west to Newsom's Grocery and east past the police building.

Basements would be no protection against the blast, and radiation would kill anybody within slightly more than two miles of the explosion point. This would catch most of Big Spring, including H.C.J.C. the Cosden Lake, City Cemetery, and reaching almost to Webb AFB.

Every brick structure in seven miles would be leveled. This would get Elbow, Center Point, and Midway schools and almost reach the Fairview Gin.

Within a nine-mile radius, all frame structures would collapse. This would destroy Sand Springs, reach well past the Fairview Gin and take in most of the Harwell road west of town.

Fires would break out on all sides, and as far as 10 miles away, you would be enveloped by deadly radioactive fallout in half an hour. This would reach nearly to Coahoma, within two miles of Forsan, as far west as Morita, and within 2½ miles of the Martin County line on the Andrews highway.

In this area, you would absorb 3,000 roentgens in an hour. (A roentgen is one unit of radiation.) You could not survive more than 15 minutes of such intense exposure.

Within 25 miles, anyone standing in the open would suffer second-degree skin burns. In the same area, window curtains and similar light material would flame up. This would occur over the entire county with the exception of the extreme northeast corner.

Speaking to the subcommittee, Dr. Shelton said that in an area of 1,300 square miles, a 48-hour accumulated dose of radiation would kill anybody who could not get shielding. Over that area, fallout would ruin the soil for certain crops, and it would catch all of Howard County's 912 square miles.

It would probably be a desolate place here if a bomb were to fall.

Raft Skipper Is At It Again

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (AP) —Capt. Devere Baker is at it again.

The 43-year-old raft skipper, who drifted to Hawaii last summer, laid the keel for his new raft, Lehi V Wednesday.

He said he plans to drift 18,000 miles in 1961 from the Red Sea, up the coast of Asia and across the north Pacific to California and Guatemala.

His goal: to show that builders of ancient cities unearthed in Central America lived on the Red Sea until they followed ocean currents across the Pacific more than 2,000 years ago.

Queen To See History, Bard, Indian Revolt

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II looks today at history, a renowned Shakespearean festival and possibly the aftermath of a comic opera Indian independence movement.

The royal tour, now in its third week, is taking the Queen and Prince Philip through a region of southwest Ontario where the echoes of the War of 1812 between the United States and Britain still resound.

In anticipation of the royal visit, flags were flying at a farm house known as "Battlefield House," on Stoney Creek near Hamilton.

The battle of Stoney Creek, not the most glorious passage of American military history, saw some 800 British regulars attack under cover of night and rout four times that many Americans. Historians say the skirmish vitally affected the course of the war.

An Indian uprising took place last spring near Brantford, another stopping point for the royal couple. A group of hereditary chiefs from the six Iroquois nations challenged the authority of the elected governing body on their reservation. They took possession of the town hall for several days until the mounted police restored the elected council.

One of the rebel leaders was Chief Wallace (Mad Bear) Anderson of Lewiston, N.Y. A report circulated Wednesday night that some of the dissidents would try to present Elizabeth a petition demanding independence within the commonwealth.

After short visits to a number of small towns en route, the royal couple was to ride through Shakespeare Street in Stratford and attend Canada's celebrated Shakespearean festival.

Since its start six years ago, the festival has become one of Canada's foremost theatrical events.

Texas, N. Mexico Solons Get Credit For Border Friendship

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service
 WASHINGTON — Whatever degree of friendship exists between the United States and Latin American nations, especially Mexico, can be credited in some measure to Texas and New Mexico congressmen.

Since the time when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt pronounced the Good Neighbor Policy the role of lawmakers from these two states has been increasingly significant.

This spring at an interparliamentary conference of the Latin American states held in Lima, Peru, one of the U. S. delegates was Rep. Joe Montoya (D-NM), who addressed the assembly in Spanish.

The American ambassador to Peru observed later that only a U. S. congressman speaking in Spanish could have convinced the Latin American delegates of the sincere aims of this country.

In line with this phase of Latin American relationships, four Texas congressmen are in the midst of a 10-week refresher course in Spanish.

They are Reps. Joe Kilgore of McAllen, whose district runs along the Rio Grande from Brownsville up to Laredo; J. T. Rutherford of Odessa, with a long stretch of the Mexican border in his bailiwick—from El Paso down along the Big Bend country; John Young of Corpus Christi, with a large Spanish-speaking population in his district; and Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, who has an interest in the language and those who speak it.

Each Friday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. the four Texas lawmakers, joined by a few of their staff members meet in one of the congressional offices for tutelage from a woman instructor they have engaged.

"We all had Spanish in school years ago," observed Kilgore, "but we were getting pretty rusty on it. It's coming back though, and we're thoroughly enjoying the course."

Montoya, commenting on his experiences in Lima, said: "These and other incidents strengthen my conviction that we need more of our boys and girls from the southwestern part of our country in Foreign Service posts in Latin America."

Proof of the serious intention of U. S. officials to improve the relationships between this nation and Mexico is the proposal to create a joint-parliamentary group or union composed of 24 members of the U. S. Congress and a like number of members of the Mexican Congress.

A joint House-Senate resolution authorizing a meeting of the group at least once each year to discuss common problems has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and is awaiting action on the House floor. Similar legislation is under consideration in Mexico.

While the measure pending in the House leaves it up to the Speaker to designate the 12 House members—specifying that not less than four shall be Foreign Affairs Committee members, it is believed likely that all U. S. congressmen with districts confronting Mexico would be named.

That would include Rep. Clark Fisher of San Angelo as well as Kilgore and Rutherford, and Rep. Tom Morris of New Mexico as well as Montoya.

Representing the U. S. Senate on the group would probably be the two senators from each of the bordering states—Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. The group, in any event, undoubtedly would include Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM), who speaks Spanish as well as he does English.

Incidentally when dignitaries of Spanish speaking nations address joint sessions of Congress in their native tongue, Chavez can often be seen breaking out with a smile or a burst of applause while nearly all his colleagues sit by and wait for a translator to tell them what's been said.

The U. S.—Mexican interparliamentary group would be similar to the recently created U. S.—Canadian conference. Rep. Frank Kard of Wichita Falls was named to that group, which flew to Canada to participate in the June 26 ceremonies officially opening the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Earnings Reported

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co. reported yesterday its earnings for the first five months of 1959 are 50 per cent greater than in the same period last year.

"My Daddy says that the electricity that lights our house comes from the Electric Cooperative and that if it hadn't been for the Cooperative we might still be using a kerosene lamp."

That's right young lady. Twenty years ago you, Dad and some of his neighbors got together and borrowed money to build their own lines. They are paying the money back with interest. During the drought the payments were sometimes hard to make but they never missed a one. When you're old enough to have your own farm, remember the electrical system wasn't given to you. You are paying your own way with interest. It's a wonderful story of rural people working together to make a better life with Rural Electrification.

Judge's Memory Enriched By Old-Time Mustang Hunts

ARANSAS PASS — The mustangers who made their living by catching wild horses were a rugged breed. They reached their peak in the 1850s when vast herds roamed the Texas prairies.

Sometimes they roped a lot of things besides mustangs, including mountain lions, javelinas and wild turkeys.

Judge J. W. Moses, the first Aransas County judge, was one of the wild horse catchers before he was admitted to the bar.

In later years, after he moved to San Diego, he used to reminisce about mustanging.

"Boys started young in those days," he said, "and I remember a couple of Judge Robert Love's youngsters that I saw one day—one about five and the other about seven—and a lot of other small fry on the Judge's Nueces ranch."

"They were rounding up all the chickens they could find. Two or three of the boys would act as herders and the rest of the gang, would rope the chickens as they ran by."

"Every rancher's child began to throw a rope almost as soon as they could toddle—boys and girls alike although of course the girls soon quit. They practiced on everything: chickens, goats, calves, pigs, dogs, cats and anything else small enough for them to rope."

In those days wild turkeys venturing out of the brush along the watercourses were frequently prey for the cowboys and mustangers.

When a fat gobbler was spotted on the prairie the rider would get between him and the brush and chase the bird as fast as the horse could lope. The turkey would run for a little bit, then fly, with the horse at full run on his trail, until the bird landed and started running again.

A fat gobbler rarely ever flew over 200 or 300 yards, and, if pressed, could never rise over twice and sometimes only once.

The plan then was to chase them hard until they endeavored to hide in the first small bit of brush or grass they reached. Then, if the pursuer was active, the turkeys were no trouble at all to catch.

And Moses once saw one of his companions rope a big gobbler on the wing.

The Mustangers used to pick up fawns on the prairie in like manner and when out of provisions would rope wild cattle or javelinas for food.

The latter were quite abundant and not too hard to rope after the knack was learned.

"Though it is true that when a javelina is wounded and squeals," he said, when reminiscing, "the drove will sometimes stay around and fight fiercely. Yet we never regarded them as very dangerous animals. I have often seen Mexicans ride into a herd of them and kill two or three with the butt of a loaded quirt."

Once the Judge and several companions roped a Mexican mountain lion.

As the beast made for the timber, Jose Maria Villareal put a rope on him. The big cat whirled and started for Jose's horse and nearly caught him before Andres Ximenes, fighting his own fear-caused mount, got close enough to make his throw, which caught the lion around his neck and a foreleg.

Between them the men stretched the beast out, and started to drag it to camp and it lunged and pulled, snapping and clawing at the ropes.

"He came near pulling down one of the horses two or three times," Judge Moses used to say, "but at last they got their ropes around a tree and snubbed that lion up tight, and we shot him. It was very exciting sport; but dangerous, and one that even Andres and Jose Maria did not want to try again. They said lassoing a wild bull was child's play in comparison."

Beauty Queen Gives Up Title

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A statuesque blonde who stands 5 feet 9 gave up her Miss Maryland title after a reign of only 4½ days Wednesday because she didn't want to try for more stary heights.

"Since the excitement has died down, I don't desire a very glamorous career," said 25-year-old Marie Litz.

The right to represent Maryland in the Miss Universe contest at Long Beach, Calif., went to the runner-up in the state contest, 24-year-old Diane White, a brunette who's only 5-4½.

Both women are secretaries. Miss Litz, who measures 36-24-36, is a divorcee but said that had nothing to do with her decision. Sponsors here said being divorced was not bar to entering the Miss Universe contest. The West Coast event was thrown into turmoil two years ago when Miss Maryland, Leona Gage Ennis, turned out to be a Mrs. with two children after winning the title of Miss U.S.A.

Miss Litz also said she didn't want to "deprive Diane of an opportunity to go into the movies or theater."

Miss White, whose vital statistics are 35½-24-36, was overjoyed. "I still can't believe it," she cooed. "I wanted to be Miss Maryland so badly and still do."

The new beauty queen will fly to California July 15.

Women Can Be Feminine

Constance Ford has temporarily deserted Broadway for Warner Bros. "A Summer Place." She defends the criticism that American women are not feminine and also tells how she keeps her hair soft and shiny.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Lots Of Brushing Is A Fine Formula For Hair

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—I arrived on the "A Summer Place" set at Warner Bros. in time to see Constance Ford bossing her screen daughter and husband in a most dominant manner. Later, as we lunched in the studio Green Room, we chatted about aggressive women.

"It's a talent I don't dare practice too often," Constance's hair is particularly soft and shiny, and when I complimented her she revealed, "I'm not a natural blonde, but it photographs better this way. I try to make up for the bleaching by lots of brushing. I think dried-out blonde hair is dreadful."

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Since the days of the drought any day that rain fell was, to us, beautiful. The No. 3 boy-having arrived in our family during that time naturally believed that a rainy day was a good day even if it meant he couldn't play out of doors in his first year work in school this past semester, his work book had a sentence that said, "It is raining today." Then came a choice of answers, "It is a good day — it is a bad day." He said "I said it was a good day but the teacher said it's wrong." It all depends on where the author of the work book lives. I suspect that all of us who lived in this part of the U.S.A. during the drought still find beauty in a rainy day and cringe when we see water being wasted.

MRS. JIMMY SMITH and little daughter, Elizabeth, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Daniels, and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith. Jimmy plans to arrive here today from their work in home and will stay until Saturday when Mrs. Daniels and the baby will accompany him back home.

Boys List Date Tips For Girls

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer
Are you popular with boys? If not, why not? Here are 20 tips to help you get along with the opposite sex, all pointers suggested by young men:

- 1. Save your gossip for hen parties. The boys are not interested, or so they say.
2. Dress to suit the occasion of the date. Overdressing embarrasses the boy as much as underdressing does.
3. Let him be a gentleman. If you open doors and put on your own coat to save him the trouble, you're being silly. A boy has much more respect for a girl who flatters his ego in that respect.
4. When you are with him, avoid talking about dates with other boys.

- 5. Let your date make decisions about how you will spend the evening. If he insists on your assistance, then make a suggestion.
6. Avoid being too critical of others—your parents, teachers, neighbors, etc. It may give the impression that you can't adjust to minor difficulties.
7. Give the young man the impression you've enjoyed your evening with him, unless he has been rude.
8. When out with boys, do not table hop.
9. Be sure to observe good table manners.
10. Stay with your escort at a dance. Don't act eager to dance with other boys, particularly those on the stag line.
11. If he forgets to bring you a corsage, don't spend the evening pouting. He'll have more respect for you if you ignore the omission even though every girl in the room wears one.
12. When he invites you into a restaurant for a snack on the spur of the moment, ask him to order something for you. He knows how far his wallet will go.
13. Modulate your voice if you have a tendency to talk in a high pitch. Don't shout to passers-by or call to people from car, windows, etc.

- 14. Be modest in conversation. If a boy is rude enough to tell you an off-color story, change the subject, pointedly.
15. It's a good idea to avoid being too competitive with men. When you play a game—golf, tennis or what have you, do your best, but don't kill yourself to beat him.
16. Never break a date with a boy unless you have a very good reason. Above all, do not break a date with one boy because some thing better is suggested by another boy.
17. You don't have to be the best dressed girl or his date list, but make an effort to be the cleanest. It won't cost more than an expenditure of elbow grease.
18. Never call a boy on the telephone unless it is absolutely necessary.
19. Assume the boy is going to pay your way when he asks you out, and never offer to pay your share.
20. Do not try to lure a boy away from another girl deliberately. It puts you in the position of hunting the boy, very unsteady ground for romance.

ed to a family that came to Texas with the original Austin Colony; a melodeon that was the first musical instrument used in the first Roman Catholic church in Austin; a day bed carved by a German carpenter; two spinning wheels, a chest of drawers made in New England about 1770; a child's chair with a rawhide seat and a small drop-leaf table. Walls of the Pioneer Room are of pine sheathing, and the floors are of random-width, wooden-pegged boards.

The coverlet on the bed is hand-woven, and the hand-hooked rugs are copies of old Southern spreads. The wardrobe doors have no metal hinges, but are hung on wooden pegs. The wallpaper has a field of conventionalized cotton bolls with panels of plantation homes and river boats inset.

It was a long-cherished dream of Miss Mary E. Gearing, who organized the home economics department in a two-room shack in 1911, that the Home Economics Building, built in 1932-33, should have a suite of rooms dedicated to the Republic of Texas. Miss Gearing purchased the handsome Hepplewhite mahogany dining table and 10 chairs.

A VERSATILE EPERGNE

Be Discriminating With Flower Containers

There is nothing quite so cheerful or brightening to a room as a pretty floral arrangement. It adds color and excitement, when the flowers and the container have been selected as a complement, conforming to the period as well as the overall feeling of the room.

The sparkling property of glass makes it particularly unexcelled for floral containers. Glass pieces, handcrafted in America, have striking shapes, interesting textured effects and smart lines. Choose your container so it will fit agreeably into your surroundings, blending with the room where it will be placed, and corresponding in size with the table, buffet or mantel on which it will appear.

Plant Annuals, Gladioli For Fall Garden Beauty

By ANNE LEFEVER
Looking forward to blossoms for your fall garden, plant seeds of zinnias, cosmos and summer flowering marigolds during the early part of this month. They will germinate quickly if kept fairly moist and will put on a good show of color when other flowers are fading.

Put in another planting of gladioli corms soon for October blooms; planted promptly, they should have time to flower before the first frost.

Remove all annuals from beds after they finish their blossoming season and make space for the new plantings. When shasta daisies have bloomed, cut back the plants and give them a feeding of liquid fertilizer with plenty of water.

For winter potted plants, cuttings should be rooted now as they do better in warmer weather. Take slips from coleus, begonias, geraniums and shrimp plants.

making the cutting about four inches long. Remove all but the top leaves and place the stem in sand, keeping it moist, but not soggy. Too much moisture will cause the stalk to rot before roots can be formed.

Set out some ornamental peppers in the garden, since they thrive on hot weather and will add color to the landscaping. Just before frost, place some of the plants in pots for indoor brightness during the winter months.

Chrysanthemums need special attention this month. Keep giving them liquid manure and see that they have plenty of water. All through July, they should be pinched back to make sturdy, bushy plants instead of tall straggly ones.

Shape hedges and shrubs with sharp pruning shears this month, and remove dead canes from the climbing roses. To prevent harmful insects from entering the bark, paint the wound with a tar compound which is obtainable at seed stores and nurseries.

'Will I See Again?'

That was the first thing 11-year-old Jerry Collings asked his parents from his hospital bed in Oklahoma City after he was injured when a firecracker exploded in a bottle. Doctors say the sight in one eye may be saved. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Collings, haven't told the boy he will be blind in one eye.

Long May Have A 'Failing Heart'

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Doctors say Gov. Earl K. Long, working restlessly day and night on fourth-term campaign plans, may now have a slightly failing heart. Dr. Victory Lief, one of four doctors attending the 63-year-old governor, said Long had a slight heart failure Wednesday. There was no indication the Louisiana governor suffered a coronary attack he said, but doctors are concerned about the con-

Premier Delays His Resignation

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has postponed his resignation after winning Parliament's approval of his government's decision to sell 250,000 Israeli-made grenade launchers to West Germany. The 71-year-old Premier announced he would "not resign within the next few days." But he is still expected to quit and try to form a new government without the two left-wing parties in his Cabinet which opposed the arms deal. Parliament voted 57-45 Wednesday against a motion to cancel the contract, of the four parties in the coalition Cabinet, Ben-Gurion's Mapai (Labor) and the Progressives supported the sale, while the leftist Achduth Avodah and the Mapam opposed it. Ben-Gurion contended Israel's national defense necessitated the sale. Opposition was generally based on the argument that sufficient time had not elapsed since the Germans slaughtered millions of Jews prior to and during World War II.

DEAR ABBY

MAKE A DEAL

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband will soon be 57 and I am 56. We've been married 34 years and he has been very lucky in business. He says if I won't give him a divorce he will go to Mexico and desert me. He also says that when a woman is 35 a man should kick her out. I am deaf on top of it. He has offered me $1,000 a month, but what good will money do me if I am alone? His lawyer laughed at me. How can I keep my husband, Abby? Maybe I am a crackpot but I love him. FAITHFUL

DEAR FAITHFUL: Make your husband a deal. Tell him you will have a complete physical (and mental) examination if he will. A doctor might be able to help both of you. And ask the lawyer who laughed at you to go along. He doesn't sound too well either.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Polish man who likes to go out with American girls. Many times when I am at their homes and there are American men present, the American men offer to collect and wash the dishes. The men in the Polish home from which I come never did this. As a result I do not know if I am supposed to offer to help when I eat in an American home. Is this an accepted American custom? Sincerely, CASIMIR

DEAR CASIMIR: In America it is proper for a guest to offer assistance to the hostess if she has no hired help.

DEAR ABBY: My child is a head-bumper. He gets up at night and starts rocking on his knees and bumping his head until he tires himself out. Then he falls asleep. He has been doing this since he's been ten months old and he is almost four and still does it. The thumping sounds like our house is falling apart. Also we are afraid he will hurt himself. Is there any cure for this or should we let him outgrow it?

DEAR MOTHER: If he's bumping his head on the wall—move the bed away from the wall. If he's bumping his head on his bed, pad the bed so he can't hurt himself. Ask your pediatrician for other suggestions, but don't wait for him to outgrow it.

DEAR ABBY: My parents were "the best" but with all their good intentions they failed miserably as parents because of their own mid-Victorian upbringing. They could not bring themselves to mention sex in any form. I can't tell you how ignorant (not INNOCENT—IGNORANT) I was for a girl of 16. You simply would not have believed it possible. Fortunately I married a man who had to educate me and re-educate me in such matters. Thank heavens I do not have to raise my children the way I was raised. I tell them everything they want to know as soon as they are sufficiently interested to ask the questions. Please pass this on. It might help others. HAPPIER NOW

DEAR "HAPPIER NOW": With pleasure—it might help others to be "HAPPIER LATER."

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Brazil Seeks Mystery Sub

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazilian planes and torpedo boats searched today for a mystery submarine which a Brazilian naval task force reported sighting in the south Atlantic 55 miles off the coast.

The Navy command ordered an attack if the sub was located and refused to identify itself. However, contact had been lost since noon Wednesday.

A diplomatic source said it was unlikely that a friendly submarine would be in the area. He said there are no U.S. submarines in the south Atlantic at this time. A Brazilian Navy communique said a strange periscope was spotted Wednesday morning off the coast of the northeastern state of Bahia while Brazilian submarines on maneuver were running on the surface.

The mystery sub was reported running submerged at four knots and on a westerly course, headed toward the coast.

The task force commander said contact was maintained for 30 minutes through sonar—underwater sound-echo equipment.

"The naval general staff decided that the task force should attack the possible submarine should it not identify itself through sonar... (but) the suspected target was not attacked for lack of opportunity," the communique said.

The high command called on the air force to carry out reconnaissance and sent two torpedo boats to search the area. During the past year several strange submarines have been reported sighted in Latin-American waters.

Company Airliner Crashes, All 10 Aboard Believed Dead

MARION, Ohio (AP)—An airliner owned by Continental Co. hurtled out of an overcast sky late Wednesday and disintegrated in a wheat field near here. All 10 aboard, including eight of the firm's top executives, apparently perished.

The plane literally dug the graves for most of them. Only parts of three bodies were found. The others evidently were buried under the earth.

Eight were top executives returning to New York, where the firm has its headquarters, after a meeting of company officials in Chicago, Continental Co. said.

The plane, carrying a crew of two, was believed to be a twin-engine B26 Martin. It was demolished almost beyond recognition. The wreckage was spread over an area 150 yards in diameter, a sheriff's deputy reported.

The aircraft hit with such impact that only one engine was found, said the deputy, Robert Obenour. The other engine presumably was buried with the victims.

The plane crashed shortly before 6 p.m. on the farm of F. Smith, six miles east of this north central Ohio city.

Smith was in his barn when he heard the aircraft approaching from the north. He said he thought it was going to hit the barn, but it passed over and crunched into the wheat field 100 yards away.

It was raining lightly at the time, a midafternoon thunderstorm having blown itself out.

The pilot had reported by radio to Marion Municipal Airport a short while before that he was flying over Findlay, in northwest Ohio. He said he was trying to skirt a thunderstorm north of Marion, and that he would report again when he reached Mansfield, 74 miles to the southeast.

He traveled about half that distance when, unexplainedly, the craft lunged out of the cloud-covered sky and crashed.

Alvin DeVore, a service station operator, said he watched as the plane soared over his station at 700 to 1,000 feet altitude, then suddenly dipped down and nosed into the field half a mile away.

In Chicago, a B26 Martin took off from Midway Airport at 3:30 p.m. This undoubtedly was the doomed craft. The pilot, in making out his flight plan, gave his name as Dunham, and his destination as Baltimore, Md.

Continental Can identified the pilot of its plane as John R. Dunham, Madison, N.J. His copilot was Donald Martin, Dover, N.J.

All the passengers, except one, tan area. One resided in Baltimore, and it may have been that Dunham was going to take him directly home before continuing to New York.

The company identified the passengers as: Abbot W. Sherwood, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., product sales manager of Eastern Division; J.R. Wallace, Pound Ridge, N.Y., product sales manager; R.I. Weimerskirch, Westwood, N.J., manager of products and materials; W.J. Mutschler, Mamaroneck, N.Y., general manager of production engineering; M.D. Sandine, Baltimore, manager of the Mid-eastern District; H.G. Schier, Wood-Ridge, N.J., production engineer for equipment and maintenance; J. De Bliek, plant manager at Passaic, N.J.; and J.M. Kelly, Darien, Conn., manager of production engineering of the Eastern Division.

As of Wednesday night, authorities had recovered the bodies only of Sherwood, Wallace and Dunham, the pilot.

Continental Can, which has sales of more than a billion dollars a year, has 145 plants in 35 states with 53,000 employees.

CHUBBY MOSER BENNY MCCRARY AT CHILDRESS

Moser, McCrary Chosen For Game

Two Big Spring players — Ronnie (Chubby) Moser and Benny McCrary — have been named to play in the annual Green Belt Bowl game in Childress next month.

Moser is a 185-pound tackle while McCrary performed at end and defensive halfback on last year's Big Spring club.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Ex-Big Spring Oddie Alvarez was getting his share of base hits after he joined Richmond of the International League last week but he was kicking the ball around occasionally, too.

The District 7 Teen-Age baseball tournament, which will be held here in early August, could help the Teen-Age Association 'get off the mat' before the 1959 season becomes history.

When Tom Conway took over as president of the association last year, the organization was operating in the red to the extent of $700. Conway saw to it that the debt was reduced to $400 before this season began.

Although he only recently signed a four-year contract that would have increased his annual stipend to $9,000, Wilson Waites last week checked his head coaching job to the Orange school board.

Alton Underwood, who has been playing in the Fourth of July Golf tournament here, had a narrow escape in an accident at home recently.

There's no entry fee and virtually everything is furnished but the will to win.

Some members of the New York Yankees have been picking up loot on the banquet circuit this year. (Some are so serious about the job, they've been taking speech courses in their spare time).

Sands was created when school districts at Knott and Ackery were consolidated several months ago. The school will field an eight-man football team.

Garlon Freeman coached at Ackery last season while Eugene Jones had the same job at Knott.

Freeman has not announced his plans for the future but indicated to school officials at Sands he would not be available for the job. Jones revealed he would be coach head mentor at Clark (near El Paso) in September.

R. N. Pierce, Sands superintendent, said the work of both Freeman and Jones was "very satisfactory."

Sands will have an estimated 100 students in high school next year. Of that number, an estimated 65 will come from the former Ackery district and the other 35 from Knott.

Williams Again Named For All-Star Contest

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — The American League announced this morning that Ted Williams was named to the All-Star squad today and the name of Ted Williams was on the roster for the 15th time.

MCDUGALD MANTLE

Williams was not selected by his fellow players on the basis of performance. But Casey Stengel, who will manage the AL Stars, said through Joe Cronin, league president: "If you had to look down the bench for someone to hit for you, who'd you like to have?"

WILLIAMS STENDEL

Stengel made one other change. He named Gil McDougald of the Yankees as an infielder in place of Rocky Bridges, runner-up for shortstop.

WILLIAMS STENDEL

Stengel explained through Cronin: "McDougald gives me three hitters, you can say, I can use him at any of three positions."

Conley Proves Worth As Phils Blank Corsairs

No doubt about it, long Gene Conley is the No. 1 contender for Comeback of the Year honors in the National League. And he's doing it the hard way—as a winning pitcher for Philadelphia's last-place Philles.

The 6-foot-8 right-hander, who couldn't win a game last season for pennant-winning Milwaukee, underscored his selection to the All-Star staff by pitching his second shutout Wednesday night, beating Pittsburgh 1-0 with a five-hitter.

It was the sixth victory in 10 decisions for Conley. In the only other NL game, the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 5-5. Milwaukee's game at Cincinnati was rained out, leaving the first-place Braves with a half-game over the San Francisco Giants.

Copley, 28, walked but one and struck out eight while gaining his sixth complete game and lowering his earned run average to 2.80. Dick Groat had two of the Pirates' hits, all singles.

The Phils had six hits, using just one to score in the third inning against loser Ron Kline (6-6). Joe Koppe walked, stole second and came home on Richie Ashburn's single.

The Cubs overhauled a 5-1 Cardinal lead with four runs in the eighth, then won it in the ninth when Ernie Banks singled, moved up on an infield out and scored on Bobby Thomson's single. Don Elston (5-1) was the winner after a perfect relief job in the ninth.

SOX SPILL INDIANS; YANKS KEEP COMING

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

If somebody's going to grab the American League pennant from those New York Yankees, the rest of the clubs better stop squabbling over who is to do it.

Take Cleveland and Chicago, the two most likely to succeed. The White Sox dropped the Yankees to fifth last Sunday with a three-game punch. But while they struggled through two games with the Indians, the Yankees jumped back to third.

The second-place White Sox split the series at Cleveland with a 6-5 victory Wednesday night, cutting the Indians' first-place edge to one game. More important, it also trimmed the Indians' lead to three games over the Yankees, who beat Baltimore 4-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Ralph Terry.

Detroit, one percentage point shy of New York, beat Kansas City 5-4. Washington whipped Boston 4-1.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated St. Louis 6-5, and Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 1-0 on the five-hit pitching of Gene Conley.

The White Sox won on Jim Landis' ninth-inning sacrifice fly and a clutch relief job from Turk Lown. Woody Held's two-run homer, his 15th, chased Gerry Staley.

second Sox pitcher, in the ninth, but Lown then retired the side. That saved it for starter Barry Latman (2-2).

Terry (3-5), reacquired by the Yankees from the A's May 26, walked only one and struck out six for his first victory and complete game since May 3. Billy Gardner doubled and singled for half of Baltimore's hits. Hee Brown lost it.

The Tigers beat Ned Garver (6-7) with a four-run seventh. Eddie Yost's single broke a 1-1 tie, and a double by Harvey Kuenn and singles by Charlie Maxwell and Gus Zernial put it away with two out against reliever Johnny Kucks. Paul Foystack was the winner for a 7-7 record.

Right-hander Camilo Pascual had Boston blanked on two hits with two out in the ninth. Then singles by Vic Wertz and Frank Malzone sandwiched an error for an unearned run, leaving him with a four-hitter and a 7-7 record.

Murphy said Mr. and Mrs. Lange are expected to move here about the middle of this month. Mrs. Lange will teach English in the Garden City system.

Lange, a graduate of Southwest Texas State College, has been coaching in a military school here. He played basketball while in college. He is about 30 years of age.

The new coach succeeds Martin Dodds, who held the job one year. Under Dodds, the Garden City football team won seven of ten starts last fall.

Jets Are Tied By Cubs, 9-9

The Jets failed to win a game for the first time this season in American Little League play here Wednesday night.

The league curfew caught them and the Cubs all tied at 9-9 after seven innings of play had been completed.

League officials had to work on the field two hours to get it ready for play and it was still soggy.

Baxter Moore pitched three innings and Freddie Mears four for the Jets while Tommy Lane tolled six innings and Gary Miers one for the Cubs.

Big blow of the night was a bases-loaded home run by Freddie Mears in the fourth. He also had a single.

Johnny Hughes had two doubles for the Jets while Baxter Moore batted out a triple.

Lange Is Hired At Garden City

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Frank Murphy, superintendent of schools at Garden City, announced this morning that Albert Lange has been hired as the new head coach of the Bears.

Murphy said Mr. and Mrs. Lange are expected to move here about the middle of this month. Mrs. Lange will teach English in the Garden City system.

Lange, a graduate of Southwest Texas State College, has been coaching in a military school here. He played basketball while in college. He is about 30 years of age.

The new coach succeeds Martin Dodds, who held the job one year. Under Dodds, the Garden City football team won seven of ten starts last fall.

Flint, Mich. (AP) — The strongest professional field of the year tees off today in the first round of the $52,000 Flint Open Golf Tournament.

Led by defending champion Bill Casper Jr. of Chula Vista, Calif., Grimes of Big Spring meets Holt Magee of Monahan in a first round, first flight match of the Abilene Invitational Golf tournament here today.

Dodgers Batter Braves, 11 To 0

The Dodgers toyed with the Braves in National Little League play here last night, winning, 11-0. Larry Alexander and Ronnie Smith teamed up to do the Dodgers' mounds work, rationing out only four hits between them.

The Dodgers combed the slants of Gene Storms, the Brave hurler, for ten assorted blows, including two each by Alexander, Pat Nelson and T. Dobbs.

Paul Solden had two safeties for the Braves, one of them a double. Only extra base hit recorded by the Dodgers was a two-baser driven out by Donnie Hall.

Ingo Disproves Theories On Fight Conditioning

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ingemar Johansson's sensational knockout of Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight championship may revolutionize the training methods of American boxers.

From now on managers are going to have a tough time convincing their fighters that the spartan, monastic life is necessary to prepare for a fight.

Johansson lived in a luxurious ranch house just off the grounds of the plush Grossinger resort on the Catskill Mountains. He had most members of his immediate family and his fiancée, gorgeous, 22-year-old Birgit Lundgren with him.

He golfed, he swam and he danced.

True, he worked out about 15 rounds daily including seven or eight rounds of boxing. But as far as American, as well as most foreign observers were concerned, he might just as well skipped rope or punched the bag.

For in the ring he held back his vaunted right, the right that was mockingly called the "mystery" right. Most experts didn't believe he had it. If he did, why didn't he use it?

"I don't want to hurt my sparing partners," Ingemar patiently told one interviewer after another. "What good are they to me on the floor?"

In addition, Ingemar looked so terrible in the sparring you had to wonder if his record was a hoax. His sparing partners out-painted him daily.

"It was Ingemar's underlying over-all top condition that served as a backbone for his fight with Patterson," said Dr. Gösta Karlsson, Johansson's private physician.

"I think that Ingemar was better trained than Patterson. In America I think they train according to old fashioned methods. Working yourself up to a fine peak just isn't the way to do it.

"What really counts is the basic condition of the boxer. Ingemar has it for he trains 12 months of the year. I don't mean the boxing part of it. But he keeps a rigid schedule of roadwork, runs at least one hour daily, summer or winter."

Johansson himself says roadwork and relaxing were important keys to his success.

Safety Council Hopes Forecast All Wrong

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council is one group of experts who hopes its predictions are 100 per cent wrong. Among its tasks in the field of safety, the 47-year-old organization includes estimating the nation's traffic death toll on major holidays.

For the July 4 weekend the council estimates 350 persons will die in traffic accidents and 13,000 others will suffer disabling injuries. "But our goal is no accidents at all," says an NSC spokesman. "All we are doing is telling people there is extra traffic, extra danger and therefore, extra precautions, and we are asking them to be extra careful."

The council's mass communication campaign—newspapers, radio, television—the council pounds at the public urging them to be careful.

Has it been successful? The council spokesman said tentatively yes. "Who can say what the toll would be if this were not so?" he asked.

Still, the final toll usually comes only to NSC estimates. Holiday estimates are based on a complicated formula applied to previous records for these holidays, current traffic volume records, current toll trends, nature and length of the holiday and weather.

The council was formed in Milwaukee in 1912 at a safety convention of a steel industry convention. Now its Chicago headquarters has a staff of 350 statisticians, writers, artists and traffic and industrial engineers. More than 300 other councils are affiliated in some way.

Actually, the traffic safety program accounts for no more than a third of the council's function of gathering and distributing information about the causes and ways to prevent accidents.

The NSC divides its work into three principle classes: work on motor vehicle and public accidents, the latter including accidents at play, such as drown-

The council operates on a $4-million-dollar budget, nine tenths of it supplied from membership fees paid by industrial concerns and from the sale of its posters, films, data sheets and technical information.

The council also publishes 13 national magazines with a circulation totaling more than 1 1/2 million.

The rest of its money comes from contributions.

The organization's president is Howard Pyle, former governor of Arizona and former presidential adviser.

Administering the staff activities is Gen. George C. Stewart, executive vice president.

Police Chief Asks Safety For Holiday

By GLENN COOTES
Help us help you to stay alive with the caution from Chief of Police C. L. Rogers for the July 4th holidays.

Rogers pointed out that there would be more people on the highways and more boaters on the lakes than at any time of the early summer. This additional traffic on roads and lakes means extra caution is necessary to prevent dangerous accidents.

Rogers linked boating problems with traffic problems. "It is one of the safest forms of recreation, yet just as motoring has its minority of irresponsible 'hot-rod jock-eyes' and 'drag race show-offs' so does boating have a few smart alecks who imperil the safety of others and themselves."

Safe boating just like safe motoring is usually a matter of common sense, Rogers said. Excessive speed becomes more hazardous when more cars are on the road. The same is true of boats and lakes. More cars and boats will be in operation this year than ever before, and speed will be one of the worst causes of accidents, Rogers predicted.

Drinking and driving, whether in a car or boat, don't mix. Whether operating a boat or a car, there is a high powered engine that requires clear thinking to handle properly. A mind fogged by alcohol cannot operate a vehicle safely, Rogers said.

SPECIAL ENFORCEMENT
The police department has recently inaugurated a new traffic division which will be on duty during the holidays. Chief Rogers explained that the division would be extra watchful during the holidays for traffic offenders.

"We expect motorists to be careful in passing, especially when pulling a boat trailer," he said. Trailers can be dangerous when pulled at excessive speeds or when passing another car.

Making turns from the wrong lanes, disregarding traffic signs and signals are major causes of holiday accidents. The city radar equipment will be used considerably during the holidays, Rogers warned, and citations will be issued to offenders of good traffic behavior.

Another rule to remember during the holidays concerns fireworks, Rogers said. It is against the state law to throw fireworks from or toward a passenger car. Fireworks can be a fire hazard as well as a danger to the well being of Big Spring residents. They should be handled with extreme care.

Residents who have purchased fireworks should remember that they must not be fired near schools, churches or hospitals, Rogers explained that fireworks should not be considered toys. They are dangerous explosives that can cause permanent injury.

Safe handling of your car, your boat and your fireworks can help give Big Spring an accident-free city during the holidays, Rogers added.

Addison Says He'll Stay In Business

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — John Milton Addison, facing federal, county and state suits and court orders, says he'll remain in business with a machine he claims can rejuvenate uranium mines.

The 31-year-old promoter said yesterday "The conspiracy cannot completely put me out of business." He acknowledged the series of actions is making it difficult to operate.

Addison returned here yesterday to post $10,000 bond on the latest indictment returned against him by the Bexar County Grand Jury.

The indictment alleges Addison has been selling securities without a license.

Addison said he plans to move from his $180-per-day hotel suite to the homes of some of the people who have loaned him money for development of the "Benson Upgrader."

State and local officers claim the loans total more than a million dollars.

Addison said the latest indictment "is some more of that harassing I was talking about. They can make it harder but when you get straight, honest people like I've got behind me mad at you, you've got a formidable opponent."

The action came after he was served in Dallas with a summons for a Federal Court hearing July 10 and a Federal Court order to cease soliciting loans and to refrain from disposing of his assets.

Another Dallas development was the announcement by the Internal Revenue Service that a $400 to $600 assessment is pending against Addison.

James M. Cooner, chief of the IRS intelligence division, said two agents are working on the case and citations will be served soon.

Judge Will Review Houston Integration

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Plans for integration of what is now the nation's largest segregated school system will be ready for review by a federal judge next week, school officials have indicated.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ben. C. Conally ordered the Houston School Board Wednesday to report to him by Aug. 17 on steps taken to comply with a 1957 integration order.

The 1957 ruling did not specify a date for integration, saying such action should be "with all deliberate speed." Parents of two Negro children asked Conally May 20 to reopen the case and set a deadline.

Dr. John W. McFarland, superintendent of schools, said Conally's order represents "nothing new or alarming or unexpected."

"The board attorney and I will have a conference about the matter next week," McFarland said. "Then he will submit to Judge Conally the report that was asked for."

The Houston district has 170,000 pupils.

The board attorney, Joe Reynolds, declined comment on what sort of plan will be presented to Conally. Reynolds prepared the latest of three desegregation plans which have been drawn up.

The Reynolds plan calls for a referendum, required by state law, on a proposed liberal transfer policy under which no Negro child would be forced to attend a segregated school and no white child would be required to attend an integrated school.

Desegregation would begin on an area basis.

The board has agreed to call a special election on the issue, provided 49,961 qualified voters sign petitions asking for the election.

Parents Urged To Stay Home

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S. Air Force colonel is urging parents in his command to stay home and take care of their children.

Col. Charles W. Johnstone, of Sacramento, Calif., commander of the 6000th Support Wing, said he is deeply concerned with some parents' shirking of moral responsibilities for child guidance, child training and child discipline.

A large number of children have been for all practical purposes deserted by their parents," he stated in the wing's weekly newspaper.

"There have been many serious incidents involving American children which can be traced directly to a lack of parental control. Almost invariably, the parents of the children were not at home at the time of the incident."

Johnstone did not elaborate but there have been reports juvenile delinquency by American kids. Last April, five youths were sent back to the United States after an 18-year old Japanese girl said she was raped by nine Americans.

"No maid however competent can be expected to properly control and discipline her employers' children," Johnstone said. "No maid should be expected to accept this responsibility."

"The combination of low-priced entertainment in the military clubs and low-priced domestic help in the homes (in Japan) has given many couples the freedom they have missed since their first child was born."

Lubbock Bracero Legate Optimistic

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Francisco Gonzalez, a member of the Lubbock delegation here attempting to get the government to lift a bracero (farm worker) ban in Lubbock County, says he is optimistic.

Gonzalez, director of the South Plains Lions Club, said "I think we are pretty close to a solution, but the matter needs more time. We are trying to clear up misunderstandings on both sides. It is a matter of diplomacy and smoothing hurt feelings."

Mexico blacklisted the Lubbock area from contracting braceros after a Lubbock beauty shop refused service to two Mexican women who work at the Lubbock Mexican consulate.

Gonzalez told newsmen, "I love both countries." He is a Mexican citizen with residence in the United States.

Space Clock Set For Relativity Test

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A space clock, accurate within one second in 1,000 years, is being built to test Einstein's theory of relativity.

The clock is designed for an orbiting satellite. Whirling around the earth, it will be compared with a similar clock on the ground.

By comparing the two clocks' performances by radio, theories on relativity can be tested, according to Dr. Harold Lyons, head of the Hughes Aircraft atomic physics department directing the project.

Lyons said the space clock should run slow compared with the ground clock for orbits below 2,000 miles and fast above 2,000 miles.

The launching of a clock satellite is expected to be several years off.

Wednesday, Jackie Parr, 17, died of injuries received June 21 in a motorcycle crash. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parr, and two young brothers died in a fiery collision of an automobile and pickup truck near Lamarque, Tex., last October.

Three Parrs are left—Jackie's two sisters and a brother.

JULY FOURTH SPREAD — AL FRESCO

Celebrate July Fourth With A Picnic Or Al Fresco Supper

The Fourth of July means firecrackers, loud pageants, orations, and beat celebration. It also means al fresco dining.

Some celebrants will wander far afield in search of a just-right picnic site. Others will gravitate to the backyard or patio, with friends or family, to spread a taste-tingling supper table.

It's great fun to proffer something out of the ordinary to your diners. But whatever you do, don't forget to provide great quantities of iced beverage, whether it be tea, lemonade, bottled drinks or what-have-you.

Perhaps these recipes will help make your holiday a happy one:

FLAG BUNBURGERS

2-3 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 1/2 tps. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
6 frankfurter buns
American cheese strips
Grated American cheese

Combine milk, eggs, beef, crumbs, celery, onion, green pepper, salt and pepper. Blend together until well mixed. Form meat mixture into six oblong patties. Cut frankfurter buns in half without cutting all the way through. Place each patty on frankfurter bun, covering completely. Place bun on broiler pan. Broil five to seven inches from heat for five to seven minutes or to taste.

Arrange cheese on bunburgers with strips of grated cheese for stars, to resemble flags. Broil until cheese bubbles, one to two minutes.

RED-WHITE-BLUE SALAD

1/4 tsp. salt
3/4 quart boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
3/4 tsp. salt
3 medium-sized tomatoes, diced
1/2 cup crumbled American blue cheese

Crisp salad greens
1/2 cup French dressing

Add 1 tsp. salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender.

Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain. Combine macaroni, onions, celery, garlic salt and salt; toss lightly, but thoroughly.

Chill. Arrange macaroni mixture, tomatoes and blue cheese on salad greens. Serve with French dressing.

CHICKEN 'LIBERTY BELL' RINGS

1 long, thin French loaf
2 5-ounce jars of boned chicken, chopped
2 tbsps. minced pimiento
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/2 tsp. curry powder
Dash Tabasco

Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs (from loaf)
1/2 cup mushroom pieces, finely chopped

Prepare loaf by cutting it in half (across, not lengthwise), then scoping out the soft center from both halves using a sharp-tined fork.

Leave a crusty bread edge about 1/2-inch thick or less, depending on the thickness of the loaf. Combine remaining ingredients, using bread scooped from loaf.

Mix thoroughly. Add additional seasoning, chili powder or oregano, if desired. Use chicken mixture to fill scooped out loaf halves, pressing it well so cavity is filled solidly.

Use a very sharp knife and a sawing motion to cut into half-inch or three-fourth inch slices.

One long loaf (approximately 16 inches) will make 20 to 30 bread ring sandwiches, depending on thickness of slices. The loaves can be prepared in advance, wrapped in wax paper or foil and chilled in the refrigerator until ready to serve.

DEVILED PEPPER RINGS

5 small, well-shaped green peppers
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 small jar deviled ham spread
1/2 cup finely chopped salted peanuts
1 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce

Other seasoning to taste

Cut a slice from the top of each pepper and remove membrane and seeds. Rinse and wipe dry. Combine and thoroughly mix remaining ingredients. Taste and add additional seasonings if desired.

Use mixture to fill pepper cases, press in well so cavity is very solidly packed. Cut with a sharp knife. As with the bread rings, the pepper rings may be made in advance, wrapped and placed in the refrigerator. Any remaining filling makes an excellent sandwich spread.

HOT DOGS IN BLANKETS

8 skinless frankfurters
2 1/2 cups biscuit mix
1 cup milk
1 tsp. caraway seed

Impale franks on skewers. Mix biscuit mix, milk and caraway seeds with fork. Dough should be a little stiffer than for biscuits, otherwise it will slide off franks. With metal spatula, cover each frank with dough about 1/4-inch thick.

If the dough is too thick it will fall off. Place skewers on grill and turn frequently so that the "blankets" are browned on all sides.

Cooling Vegetables Show Their Versatility

Sweet corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, carrots, snap beans, field peas, eggplant, squash, okra, green peppers, cabbage and lettuce — all are expected to be abundant during July, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service.

For tidbits, sandwiches, or entree accompaniments, careful planning around these "cooling" vegetables can save many hours of toil in the kitchen and contribute essential vitamins to summer health and energy.

TIDBIT FARE

Tidbit fare for the family's afternoon snacks, or for the gathering of the clan on the Fourth, will be both tempting and tasty when prepared with fresh vegetables.

Try these:
Slices of cucumber topped with a fluting of cheese. Cut slices about 1/8 inch thick and serve atop round crackers, if you desire.
Green pepper and carrot sticks for dipping in creamy cheese dips. Fresh sweet corn relish.
Wedges of tomatoes and cucumber slices marinated in vinegar and oil.

SANDWICHES

Hearty closed sandwiches, open-face sandwiches, open-face ones cut into quarters, or tiny individual treats using crackers — prepare them all with summer vegetables. Here are some ideas:
A frill of lettuce with thin tomato slices and a generous fluting of cheese.
The eternal favorite... bacon, lettuce and tomato.
Ham spread with a scattering of finely chopped fresh green pepper.

Egg salad sandwiches, prepared with chopped celery and served, with lettuce leaves.
Grated cheddar cheese and chopped green peppers in mayonnaise. Surprisingly different for treats.

Accent meat and cheese sandwiches with coleslaw.

ENTREE ACCOMPANIMENTS

You'll make a hit with:
Steamed or roasted sweet corn served with herb flavored butters.
Green snap beans... cooked, drained and chilled in a french dressing marinade... served with a garnish of thinly sliced green onions.
Shredded cabbage, orange segments and ground green peppers served with French dressing.

Green peppers filled with potato salad. Cut each pepper into thirds, remove seeds and membrane, wash and dry. Fill with potato salad. This is an especially attractive way to serve potato salad at buffets.

Coleslaw... combine finely shredded cabbage with chopped carrots or green peppers... add diamonds of red tomatoes or chilled, cut-from-the-cob, cooked fresh sweet corn.

A tart French-type dressing or a sweet-sour combination of vinegar and oil seasoned with herbs improves coleslaw... gently, yet distinctly enhances the spring-like goodness of the vegetables with a refreshing dressing.

STUFFED MELON: INVITINGLY COOL

Make Magic With Those Chilled, Juicy Melons

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP NEWSFEATURES EDITOR

Ripe juicy melons are all ready to be decked out in summer finery — for "the girls" when they come over to play bridge, for vacation-time visitors, for just the family. But how to go kitchen-pretty without too much extra work?

A stuffed melon, we find, is always a delight — and easy to do. Cut a thin slice from one end of the melon so it will stand straight. Cut a thin slice from the top, with an ice-tea teaspoon scoop out the seeds. Pare the rind from the melon, removing all the inedible part, and invert to drain away any more juice.

Now wrap the melon tightly in transparent plastic wrapping and refrigerate. This wrapping is important because melon imparts its fragrance to other foods, and delightful as the fruit itself is, it doesn't add a thing when it mingles with butter and eggs!

Next make up some fruit gelatin and cool it, then pour it into the melon's cavity. Rewrap the filled melon and refrigerate it for at least four hours or overnight. When you are ready to serve, slice the filled melon and use it as a salad (with greens) or "as is" as a dessert. Either way, cottage cheese, sour cream (or sour cream substitute) make fine go-alongs.

You can have fun with colors! Gelatin flavored with fresh lime and tinted apple green is pretty as can be in cantaloupe; gelatin made with an orange-juice base

Refreshing Punch Mixes Fruit Juices

Nothing is so welcome on a sweltering day as a tall chilled glass of punch. Fruit juices, spiked with ginger ale, lend just the needed tang to satisfy parched throats.

Here is a recipe that will refresh:

THREE-FRUIT COOLER

1 can (1 pint and 2 fluid ounces) pineapple juice
2 large oranges
1/2 lemon
1 bottle (7 ounces) ginger ale
Mix pineapple juice and juice from oranges and 1/2 lemon. Add ginger ale and stir lightly; makes 1 quart.

Fill four tall glasses with ice cubes and pour in drink. Serve at once.

Needed In Summer

Beef in the diet is especially important during the summer months. Meat sharpens the appetite and promotes good digestion, both of which may be lessened in the hot weather months.

1 medium onion, minced

1 tsp. salt
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) tomato puree
1 cup lightly crushed corn chips (measured after crushing)
8 large, fresh tomatoes.

Saute onion in fat. Add beef, salt and mix well. Cover and cook for ten minutes. Add tomato puree and cook until beef is tender. Mix corn chips with the beef.

Remove top and centers from tomatoes. Sprinkle shell with salt and fill with beef mixture. Bake for 20-30 minutes at 350 degrees F. until shell is tender.

Better Show Than The Exhibit

President Eisenhower went to extraordinary lengths to welcome the opening of the Soviet Union's cultural and scientific exhibit in New York City. Ostensibly he just "dropped in" casually and without advance planning, and it turned into quite a mob scene as rubber-necking New Yorkers almost overwhelmed the President and the visiting firemen, who included the official Russian host and third man in the Communist hierarchy, First Deputy Premier Kozlov.

Police all but lost control of the surging crowds, having to resort to their nightsticks to quell some of the more obstreperous ones.

Also present was Vice President Richard Nixon. Had the police muffed their job of protecting the President and vice president from the crush of the unruly demonstrators, Sam Rayburn might have awakened Tuesday morning to find himself President of the United States, and Moscow might have been looking for another first deputy to Premier Khrushchev.

Perhaps Mr. Eisenhower thought it a good thing to show up at the opening to invite a like courtesy from top Soviet Union officials when the American exhibit opens in Moscow.

But it was a close squeak, and if anything really serious had happened to the President and his vice president, or to Khrushchev's principal deputy, we shudder to contemplate the consequences.

From preliminary press reports the Soviet exhibit was hardly worth so much bother and pother.

Metamorphosis Of July 4

There are fewer scheduled Independence Day celebrations now than formerly, but more public occasions designed to amuse, entertain or titillate the public eye for something to do or someplace to go.

"The Fourth" forty or fifty years ago was a patriotic occasion. There were speeches and fireworks displays in most communities, and the singing of patriotic songs.

In some of the older states "The Fourth" was the big holiday of the year, bigger even than Christmas in some localities. In some of those states, along in May and June, people would start asking each other, "What are you going to do on the Fourth?" just as people now ask each other along in October and November, "What are your plans for Christmas?"

Texas had its own experience of tyranny that led to independence and nationhood, but most of the original white settlers came from Southern United States, but brought with them the same fierce independence of spirit and hatred of oppression that was born and bred in them. It is quite possible our Texas forefathers were much too busy building a new country to dwell overmuch on the past. They were making history, not reading about it.

Nevertheless, "The Fourth" was a much more important occasion in Texas half a century ago than now, and its observance more widespread and patriotic in tone. Today it is just another holiday on which more than the average number of human beings get ground to bits in reckless vehicular traffic.

As for our own state's Declaration of Independence and Independence Day, we doubt if more than one Texan in five can name the correct anniversary date.

The Gallup Poll Committee's Findings On Inflation

WASHINGTON — July 1st is New Year's Day so far as government finances are concerned. One fiscal year ends, and another begins. The deficit is more than $12 billion, largely due to the economic recession. It's a record for so-called peacetime. The coming year, however, is expected to see a balanced budget.

With armament expenditures taking a bigger and bigger proportion of the national budget, due to the "cold war" in a nuclear age, it is not surprising that a setback on the economic front runs into such big figures. For the government's chief worry is the continuation of rising prices. It has to pay each year more and more for the same articles of warfare that it bought in previous years at lower prices.

This is why "inflation" is being so widely discussed as a danger to the American economy. President Eisenhower appointed a committee of the Cabinet to analyze the problem. After several months of study, it has just issued its report.

Unfortunately, because of the prominence of some of the Cabinet members in the political arena, the report is being regarded by Democratic opponents as political. It would have received more attention perhaps if it had been signed only by such non-political figures as Robert Anderson, secretary of the Treasury, and Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. Here, for instance, is an extract from the Cabinet Committee report which reads like the language of Messrs. Anderson and Saulnier:

"Without firm control of the quantity of money and credit, all other measures to monetary policy requires that the federal government avoid making its bonds, other than those of comparatively small denomination designed for family savings, the equivalent of money. Government bonds are the equivalent of money if they can always be changed into actual money at virtually face value, not only when they are due and payable but any time before.

"This is the case if the Treasury is forced to issue only very short-term bonds, or if the Federal Reserve system stands ready to buy at a pegged price all government bonds offered to it in advance of the date when they are due to be paid by the Treasury. There is only an imperceptible difference between the government's issuing bonds that are equivalent to money, and the government's just cranking up the printing presses and rolling out greenbacks. The government will be forced to continue issuing large additional amounts of short-term bonds that are the near-equivalent of money until the Congress allows the Treasury sufficient flexibility to achieve a balance in our debt structure by inducing people of their own free will to invest their savings in long-term government bonds. Thus, to avoid inflation it is essential that the present limitation on the interest rate on long-term government bonds be removed, as the administration has already recommended.

"The issue is whether we want price stability or whether we want, in a concealed way, to do the equivalent of printing money — something the American public would not stand for if done openly." This is the most outspoken appraisal yet of what deficit spending can mean. It comes at a time when the President is asking Congress to permit interest rates to find a natural level and not to be restricted by government action. Many Democrats are fighting for the maintenance of artificially low rates.

Inflation is to no small extent a matter of public confidence. If interest rates are held low for government securities, while in the money markets interest rates generally are rising, the danger is that investors will turn from government securities to other forms of investment.

The inflationary spiral is related, of course, to many other factors besides government spending and Treasury deficits. The Cabinet Committee report says, for instance:

"Wage settlements have been made recently which raised wages substantially; wage agreements negotiated in earlier years provide for increases in rates this year; and wage agreements to be negotiated this summer or autumn in many industries (steel, aluminum, other metals, construction, rubber, lumber, railroads, paper, longshoring, meat packing, and metal containers are among them) could result in wage increases of such magnitude as to lead to price increases. . . . We face a serious risk of price increases which not only would be directly harmful to American families but would seriously endanger the healthy prosperity now developing."

The Cabinet Committee doesn't propose any concrete solutions but does point out that "excessive concentration of power in the hands of labor or business results in practices which are contrary to the public interest" and that "such practices reduce efficiency and productivity, and they create inflationary pressures."

But what to do about them? The Cabinet Committee says it soon will examine and later report on the extent to which such concentrations of power in labor and business "contribute to inflation or impede economic progress."

So Rare, So Delicate, So Fragile

Sam Dawson Most Americans See Better Times

NEW YORK (AP)—Still better times afooting? Most Americans think so.

The second half of the year holds the promise of being better than the first. Both consumers and businessmen know that the first half was a sleeper. They'd been promised improvement over 1958. But what they got was surprisingly better than that.

Now they're being promised a measure of prosperity in the months just ahead that once was thought a year or more away.

It adds up to more jobs, fewer jobless, bigger incomes from wages and investments. It also seems likely to add up to slightly higher prices, a bigger load of personal debts, still tighter money, and more taxes at the state and local levels.

The outlook is a bit more clouded for housing, stock prices, the status of the dollar in world eyes, and the acceptance of Detroit's new cars.

The immediate question is how much, if any, of a summer lull? And what part will the steel industry play in it?

If there's a steel strike, several hundred thousand workers in that and allied industries will be out of work. How long steel users can live off stocks they've built up is the subject of much guessing.

If there isn't a strike, how long these users will live off their strike-insurance stocks before re-ordering is also uncertain.

Some industries — notably textiles — expect to do so well this summer that they plan to hold vacation periods to a minimum.

A slow but steady rise in wage scales is widely expected during the rest of the year. Further shrinking in unemployment is looked for by most.

Most items in the cost of living have crept higher during the first half of the year and seem likely to go right on that way, perhaps at a faster pace. The moderating item has been the important one of food, but the summer is expected to see a seasonal rise in food prices.

Farmers saw their prices shrink during the first half of the year but expect total farm income to be fairly stable the rest of the year.

Hal Boyle We All Have Character

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: Mankind's hardest industry is getting out of bed every morning. It is the greatest test of the human will.

Civilization only makes the problem worse. In cavern days, a man got out of bed for only one reason — he was hungry. It made sense for him to arise rather than lie there and starve.

But today everybody is on a diet. It is fashionable to starve. Therefore it makes more sense to stay in bed. Why starve on your feet when you can starve comfortably lying down?

The worst demand of civilization is that a man get out of bed every morning — or at least five days a week — at the same hour. It is inhuman and unnatural. Can you name any other animal in nature that gets up every day at the same time?

Bears don't. Tigers don't. Rats won't. Mice won't. Even at a racetrack the starter is unable to wake up all the horses at the same moment — particularly the horse who have bet on.

Man's normal attitude toward a bed is very simple. It is the last thing he wants to go to at night — and the last thing he wants to leave in the morning. He fights sleep as long as he can. But once he surrenders, he surrenders all the way.

Now and then you hear a fellow brag about how he likes to leap out of bed, nimble and clear-eyed, eager to greet the rising sun and meet the fresh challenges of another day. I always feel a bit sad when I go to these fellows' funerals later — cut off, as they so often are, in the very prime of life.

Getting out of bed is a real test of character. Obviously, anybody who can jump easily and merrily out of bed has no character. And that's what eventually mows them down in the stern strain of living — lack of character. Also lack of strength. They wear out all their strength leaping out of bed in the morning. By noon they are hollow-eyed. By 50 they are dead, and unmourned.

After waking, one should think the problem through for a full half an hour. Then should follow 15 minutes of careful exercise — consisting of yawning and scratching. After that you should sit up slowly, and let your feet down over the side of the bed one foot at a time.

An hour from the time the alarm clock first sounds you should, if all goes well, be looking at yourself in the bathroom mirror and wondering why such a fascinating devil has to work for a living.

There are, of course, mechanical aids to getting up — such as being awakened by a clock-radio delivering the morning world news broadcasts. But world news is so terrible now that, listening, one has more of an urge to cover under the bed sheets than to arise and face such a terrible universe.

More helpful is the psychological approach. When you wake up you start brooding about how all the people you have probably got up early this morning and are out making money. Before you know it you are out of bed, too-trying to catch up with them.

But the best solution of all is to marry. A wife will insist not only that you get to bed on time, but that you get out of bed on time — to earn her a living. She will take the responsibility from your worn shoulders.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Scientists long have been saying that the chemicals in the human body were worth about 98 cents. This has always had a deflating influence on man's ego.

And for as long as we can remember, most economists have been saying that inflation was a bad thing. But now a Texas college chemist has figured out that because of inflation the chemicals in a man's body are worth $1.17. So inflation has at least added to man's essential worth.

For longer than we can remember, doctors have warned about overweight. But that can have good points, too. The man down the street, who has added 40 pounds in the last several years, can now claim that because of inflation and overweight he's worth a lot more than he used to be. He figures his chemical value at something like $1.67.

Traveling Cabin

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Antique collector Hal Clayburne won't be stumped by distance. He moved his 203-year-old log cabin here from Virginia.

The cabin, still sound, after a cross-country trip by rail serves as a rustic home for Clayburne and his family.

Clayburne learned about the old homestead during visits with friends in the Shenandoah Valley. Later, hearing it was about to be razed, he made a hurried trip East.

The San Antonio contractor found the dwelling in a sad state of repairs. Its owner was happy to take $65 for it.

Firemen Slow Down

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—St. Joseph firemen now take it easy when they go to a fire.

The driver's license of one fireman was suspended under the state financial responsibility law even though he was exonerated of any blame in a traffic accident.

The law provides that a person must carry liability insurance or be financially able to pay off any damage claims.

Firemen said that since they have no liability insurance to protect them in city-owned trucks, they are stopping at red lights and stop signs when answering alarms.

Long Delay

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Commissioner of Revenue E. Glenn Jordan says he received a letter containing income tax blanks mailed with return address from his office in 1944. The post office couldn't locate the person the letter was addressed to.

Around The Rim

Democracy At The Grassroots

A group walks into the room, find seats behind the rail and watch the proceedings at the big table in the front.

It is the regular meeting of the Big Spring City Commission. Sitting around the table are Mayor Lee Rogers at one end with City Manager A. K. Steinheimer at his right, Commissioners John Taylor and George Zachariah sit on that side of the table. On the other side are City Secretary C. R. McClenny with Commissioners Tom South and Paul Kasch.

The seat at the opposite end of the table is empty.

At the first break in the discussion around the table, Mayor Rogers asks the group, "Do you have a spokesman?" A spokesman identifies himself and is invited to sit in the vacant chair at the table.

And in this manner, another group of citizens prepare to petition the commission concerning some problem which interests them.

The City Commission meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of every month to work out problems facing the city. The city manager, prior to the meeting, prepares a working agenda which includes such things that deserve the attention of the Commission. Each week, right at the top of the list is: "Consideration of requests presented by the audience."

Many times there is no audience. At other times, there may be several wanting to air some problem.

An example of a delegation was the fishermen and boaters who petitioned the commission to establish new fishing and boating regulations for Moss Creek Lake. The members approved an ordinance to set the times when fishing and boating would have precedence on the lake.

However, this move failed to please all concerned, and more groups appeared before the commission. Again the problem was discussed and this time, the Mayor appointed a committee of interested citizens to study the problem and offer recommendations for Commission action.

Many individuals bring requests before the commission, such as requests for water service beyond the city limits or approval of a plat for a new subdivision.

In other instances, individuals discuss their problems with the city manager at their convenience and leave it to him to bring the matter before the commission. Where the particular problem can be handled under a policy previously laid down by the commissioners, the city manager takes the necessary action.

Petitioning a governing body is a common practice after a free and in an authoritative manner made this provision. It is found in the first amendment to the Constitution which states, in part, "Congress shall make no law . . . prohibiting . . . the right of the people . . . to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

It is rare that residents attend the meetings unless they are personally interested in some particular action of the commission.

But all you have to do to be heard is to show up at the meeting.

Russians Talk Only In America

If you want to meet and speak with Russians, I have a word or two of advice: Stay home!

It is far easier to do both in the U.S.A. than in the U.S.S.R.

The increasing number of Russian delegations visiting this country and their far-ranging trips across country are bound to put a Russian on almost any American doorstep sooner or later. In the motherland, the cat seems to have the Russian tongue. But it appears to be hung in the middle once a Russian delegate lands in the U.S.A.

Since the arrival of Deputy Prime Minister Frol R. Kozlov of the U.S.S.R. in New York to open the Soviet exhibition in the Coliseum, I have talked with more Russians than during my recent trip to Moscow. Now I have chatted with everyone from Mr. Kozlov to a clutch of Russian newspapermen and photographers.

Yet when I was in Moscow, my request to talk with a Russian newspaper woman was turned down. And if I had asked to speak with Mr. Kozlov (currently slated, according to scuttlebutt, to succeed Nikita Khrushchev if and when), well—

But now I have gone on that tourist must, a boat trip around Manhattan Island, with Mr. Kozlov and his party. Subsequently, I dined with them, at a party given by Norman K. Winston, the amusing and unabashed capitalist who is vice president of Mayor Wagner's committee for the Soviet exhibition.

On both occasions, Mr. Kozlov was as affable as a presidential candidate in his home precinct. And he had certainly been kissing some baby because there was a trace of lipstick on his cheek.

But if, after my Moscow experience, I was dazed by the artesian flow of Russian conversation, my long-time friend, Mary Hornaday of the Christian Science Monitor, was staggered.

Mary spent three days in Tashkent, capital of Uzbek in Soviet Central Asia, waiting to interview probably the most important woman in Russian public life, Mme. Yagdar S. Nisriddinova, chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the Uzbek Republic.

One excuse after another was served up to Mary, who was finally told that Mme. Nisriddinova was too busy "planning medals on" worthy Uzbek citizens to see anyone. So Mary left Uzbek in considerable frustration only to walk on the sightseeing boat and meet Mme. Nisriddinova, a member of the Kozlov party, within five minutes.

Even Mme. Nisriddinova unbends some in the American air, although no one will ever accuse her of being a chatterbox.

At the Winston dinner, amid the Victorian charms of Luchow's restaurant, I was seated next to Andrei N. Tupolev, the distinguished aircraft engineer responsible for the development of the Soviet jet fleet. He liked the shrimp cocktail, but refused the rest of the dinner. He patted his bay window as explanation.

Yes, he assured me through an interpreter, he is working on a supersonic plane to fly 2,000 miles an hour.

"You will live to fly in a supersonic plane," he assured me. "No, it will not be hard on the passenger to go through the sound barrier. The passenger will be comfortable."

He said I didn't want to go to the moon, and he said he didn't, either. Then Mr. Tupolev, who looks like everybody's Foxy Grandpa, picked up his water glass (he is a teetotaler) and said the only phrase he knows in English — "bottoms up!"

Khrushy's Heir Apparent Visits U. S.

NEW YORK — President Eisenhower's sudden decision to come to New York for the opening of the Soviet exhibit here puts a special seal of importance on the events that are taking place this summer.

For one thing it insures that Premier Khrushchev will attend the opening of America's fair in Moscow's Sokolniki Park on July 25. This tends to upgrade Vice President Nixon's mission to the Soviet Union, for it means that at the outset he will have a firsthand meeting with the Russian premier.

Behind the scenes a great deal of pulling and hauling had been going on as to whether the President would or would not come to New York for the opening of the exhibit. The Russians had made it perfectly plain that if he did not come here then Khrushchev would not be present at the opening in Moscow on which Americans who have planned it place such a high propaganda value. Naturally Nixon had been hoping that Eisenhower would find time for at least an appearance at the preview.

The vice president's trip to Moscow in July, if it goes well, will advance the concept of the heir apparent who knows how to manage foreign policy, stand up to the Russian challenge and still keep the peace. The Nixon trip becomes, therefore, a highly significant campaign maneuver.

While he is ready to disassociate himself from certain aspects of the Eisenhower Administration, it is important for his political future that some of the Eisenhower reputation in defense and foreign policy should rub off on him.

In the confrontation of Nixon and Soviet Deputy Prime Minister Frol R. Kozlov there is a very special drama. At opposite poles in most respects Nixon and Kozlov have certain things in common. They are both comparatively young, Nixon 46, Kozlov 50. They would both like to believe that they are in line to take over power from men much older.

Kozlov rose rapidly to the position of first deputy premier under the sponsorship of Khrushchev, who is 65. Nixon has been vice president for more than six years with President Eisenhower, who will be 69 in October. The Nixon managers believe all the evidence indicates that Eisenhower regards him as his logical successor in 1961.

For Kozlov who has only twice been outside the Soviet bloc, once on a trip to Finland and again on a trip to the Brussels fair, it is vital to visit this country,

With years of experience in the supervision of Russian industry through the instrumentality of the Communist party he is believed to have primary responsibility in administering internal affairs in the Soviet Union. The other first deputy premier, Anastas Mikoyan, who visited the United States in January, has a more direct relation with foreign policy under Khrushchev.

Following his stay in Washington, Kozlov will go to Pittsburgh, Detroit and San Francisco. There he will see, and it may well be the main objective of his visit, America's industrial might which the Soviet Union under Khrushchev's leadership has set itself to surpass.

As Nixon climbed the political ladder by his own intense efforts, so did Kozlov. The methods, in a free and in an authoritarian society are entirely different. But in their rise to power, each with at least the beginning of a grip on the No. 1 job, they have a lot in common.

One knowledgeable observer describes Kozlov as "cocksure." He is said to use a technique of personal appeal to the masses undreamed of in the days of the Stalin dictatorship. Meeting with Soviet citizens even in fairly large groups he calls on them for a frank presentation of their problems which he then discusses, often aiming his appeal at the young in his audience.

It is by no means a sure thing that Kozlov will succeed Khrushchev. Although he drives himself at a fierce pace both at home and in his travels, K. is estimated by those who see him at fairly close range to be able to carry on for another five years. Bossing the Soviet Union, even though some decentralization has been carried out, is an undertaking too vast for a man over 70.

Kozlov has rivals for the job. Two highly rated for the succession are Aleksey Kirichenko and Mikhail Suslov. They also came up the ladder behind Khrushchev.

Neither, of course, is there any guarantee that Nixon will succeed Eisenhower. He has several formidable rivals who will contest every step of the way with him in '60. But the fact that, thanks to the President and to his position as the one and only vice president, he stands in a conspicuous role opposite the Russians is a very great help.

With hazards on either side of the path it is not an easy role. But as he has demonstrated again and again Nixon is capable of fast—and sure—footwork.

Drink With A Kick

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Frank Barto, concessionaire at an amusement park, was working late and got thirsty.

He dropped a dime into the soft drink machine. Nothing happened so he banged it with his fist. A shotgun blast was the response, the pellets inflicting superficial wounds on Barto's head, shoulder and back.

John W. Stewart, the park owner, said he heard the noise and thought burglars were looting the machine.

Bear Fine

STAUNTON, Va. (AP)—Frank Drito brought home one of three bear cubs his children found in a tree. A game warden ordered the bear returned. Drito couldn't find the spot where he found the cub and returned it to his home. He was fined $100 for illegal possession of wildlife.
