Kennedy Involved In Pageant Fuss

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — year-old red-haired beauty smiled faintly and admitted she knew nothing about Sen. Kennedy, the only leading Catholic presidential aspirant. "I just felt the issue is important in view of a presidential election, so as to make it clear that Catholics are not dictated to. Even after the archbishop (of New Mexico) ordered me not to appear in a bathing suit in the contest, I did, and this shows we can disagree with the hierarchy." Then she admitted something else—that she had not read the press release. Nor would she say if there exists bitter feelings between religious groups in our country, and because of the acrimony between myself and a Catholic presidential candidate, I feel a statement of clarification is in order," it read. "Non-Catholics fear the Catholic church because they fear the clergy dictates to a blindly obedient laity. The implications of such an erroneous belief regarding a Catholic political candidate are obvious. It is my sole desire to show that the hierarchy cannot, under any circumstances, dictate to laity." Questioned by newsmen, the 22-

Month-Long Wet Weather Cycle Continues In Texas

By The Associated Press southwest of Beaumont, vanished into afternoon skies without touching the ground. A six-inch rain at Eagle Pass sent the Rio Grande on a moderate rise. Runoff from West Texas rains sent the Devils and Pecos Rivers and Lake Brownwood on the rise, but there were no reports of damage. An estimated 3.25 inches of rain in two hours flooded streets and stalled cars at Bryan. Farmers and ranchers generally welcomed the rain. In the Abilene area, the long wet spell is expected to boost production of cotton and second maize crops. For the 24 hours ending at 6 p. m. Monday, Laredo's 2.07 inches topped the official rainfall reports. Some of the unofficial measurements were heavier. The twister, spotted 18 miles

Ike Sees No Tax Cut, But Is Planning No Excise Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sees no real hope for a tax cut during his remaining 18 months in office, it was reported today on high authority. But it also is known that the President at this time is planning no call for a tax increase. Eisenhower's views on this and other matters domestic and political can be reported on excellent authority. STEEL—Eisenhower does not rule out the possibility of invoking the Taft-Hartley law in an effort to end the steel strike. But he is extremely reluctant, in part because he feels it would do little ultimate good. POLITICS—He intends to say nothing to influence the Republican presidential nomination unless he sees a prospect that the choice might otherwise go to a candidate he feels does not embrace what Eisenhower calls his middle-of-the-road philosophy. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, along with Vice President Richard Nixon, is on the Eisenhower list of 10 possibilities he could support. With respect to the steel strike, Eisenhower is known to feel an 80-day strike-halting injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act would serve little purpose because both

Tax Leader Promises Bill For House This Afternoon

Printing Delays Legislature Action

AUSTIN (AP) — House Tax Committee chairman V. L. Ramsey told the House today a new tax bill may be ready this afternoon. "We're held up on mechanics," the Beckville representative said, explaining the bill is being printed. He called an afternoon special meeting of the 21-member committee. It may consider the bill at that time. "If we don't get it today, we'll get it tomorrow," he said. Meanwhile a city versus rural ruckus shaped up today in the House over an amendment to remove the farm market road program from the general revenue fund. The amendment was the first considered today when House members began an expected final round of arguments on the mammoth general appropriations bill. Fort Worth Rep. Scott McDonald offered the amendment which would take out the 30 million dollar farm market program from the general revenue fund and require the Highway Department to continue the program from its fuels tax revenues. Though there is nothing in sight to pay for it, Senate action substituting its spending budget for the House measure will follow quickly. The bill got a tentative 77-49 okay yesterday. Anxious state officials kept a close eye on the depressed oil industry's latest bad news: a 20 cent a barrel cut in the price of East Texas crude by a major producer. If the price cut spreads to other areas and companies, the slowly decreasing price of oil in Texas may plunge rapidly. A major fraction of the state's income comes from oil and gas production. The comptroller's office said yesterday the oil picture will be studied for the next day or two before a new deficit estimate is given to the Legislature. A 7-man subcommittee of the House tax body processed 15 proposed tax bills and may give its recommendations to the full committee today. Speaker Waggoner Carr has urged the House to get a tax bill to the Senate this week. One split between the two

FIRST NON-MILITARY

Nuclear Merchant Vessel Is Launched

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The launching of the first atom-powered merchant ship, Savannah, was hailed today as a "bold and enterprising experiment in the daring and distinguished annals" of American science and seafaring. Acting Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller set forth that view in an address a few minutes before the 21,000-ton Savannah slid down the launching ways. "This ship," Mueller said, "was born of the inspiration of our distinguished President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and became a reality through his leadership and enthusiasm translated into legislation by the Congress of the United States."

The President's wife was there for the traditional ceremony of giving the ship its name and sending the Savannah into the water. It is the country's first non-military atomic vessel. Another speaker, Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ), said the Savannah was "only the beginning of development of nuclear vessels of all kinds." He noted that elsewhere in the building yards work was under way on a nuclear submarine and that Congress is considering a proposal for the Navy to build a second nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. After the speeches, Mrs. Eisenhower was to strike a bottle of champagne and speak the brief part allotted by tradition to ship sponsors. "I christen thee Savannah."

It has been a long time, more than 140 years, since those words were first spoken and a little 320-ton paddle wheel steamer also called Savannah slid into the water. That ship was the first ship with steam power built for Atlantic crossings. It carried an 80-hour supply of coal and wood to provide steam, and relied heavily on its sails for an initial ocean crossing that took 29 days. Today's Savannah is steam-powered, too, but the fire will come from nuclear fission. The atomic reactor indirectly will heat the water and create the steam to spin its giant turbines. In christening the Savannah at the launching today Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower completes a construction ceremony started on May 22, 1958 when Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, wife of the vice president, presided at the ceremonial keel laying. The Savannah was built primarily because President Eisenhower wanted a ship now as an example of his campaign for peaceful use of atomic energy. He also wanted a basic prototype from which other and better merchantmen will be built. Shipbuilders might have taken longer to design and construct a vessel that could earn her way in commerce. The 21,000-ton Savannah is a

EAGER BEAVER OVERDOES IT

Someone attempted to lend the city officials a hand Monday evening by locking the city park gate. However, the move was premature and a large number of people were locked in the park. City police lock the gate to the park about 12 a. m. each night. The unknown but eager helper used a new lock and shut the gate about 10:30 p. m. locking up people who had been watching a ball game. Skeet Foresyth, city street superintendent, was called and used a hatchet to take off the lock to let the folks go home.

2-Cent Cut In Gasoline Price Posted

Gasoline prices apparently had stabilized at a lower level in Big Spring during Monday. Virtually all major company postings eased off one to two cents to hit a 27.9 cent level on regular gasoline. There had been similar postings in some stations previously, and Saturday Magnolia met the figure. Other stations followed slowly but systematically Monday so that the cut was virtually across the board. Dealers described the adjustment as a modification in prices rather than a price war. Present indications were that the change might stabilize at the present levels although there have been sporadic price slashings throughout the region.

Parsons Will Preside At Big School Meeting

ABILENE — From 50 to 100 school trustees and superintendents are expected on the Hardin Simmons University campus Thursday evening and Friday morning for conferences on public school administration. The conferences will be a highlight of a special graduate course being taught this summer at Hardin-Simmons by Floyd W. Parsons, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District. He will preside at the conferences Thursday and Friday. He is chairman of a committee which compiled "The Texas School Board Handbook" for the Texas Assn. of School Boards. The handbook will be discussed.

Queen Competition

LAMESA—Five late entries were recorded Monday in the Dawson County Farm Bureau queen contest which will be held here this evening. Selection of the county's representative for the district contest will take place at 8 o'clock in the high school cafeteria. The last entries in the contest were Grace Barron, Shari Addison, Karen Applegate and Othell McGee, all of Lamesa, and Jan Keener, Welch.

6-CAR CARAVAN?

King-Sized Haul Of Illegal Booze

Charges have been filed against six men for illegally transporting liquor in a wet area. They were arrested by Liquor Control Board officials about 6 a. m. Sunday, and all six have posted $500 bonds. Charged are Pierce A. Long, 22; Alfred Olivarez, Sylvester Lara, 36; Santiago S. Martinez, 25; Doroteo Rivera, 23; and Jose A. Lopera, 44. All but Long gave Lubbock as their addresses. Long said he was from Post.

LCB officials Billy P. Flynn and Ira B. Stephenson arrested the six men near Vealmore, and Flynn said they confiscated 256 cases of beer, two cases of wine, and a lug of whiskey. Each of the men was in a different car. Flynn said he and Stephenson were returning to Big Spring from Vealmore when they spotted the first car traveling north. They stopped it, and another behind suddenly turned and started back toward Big Spring. Stephenson stayed with the first driver while Flynn chased the one who turned. While he was catching him, Stephenson flagged four more cars to a stop. The men were returned to Big Spring where they posted $500 bonds. Flynn said the one who he chased also was charged with three traffic violations. In other county court cases filed, two Fort Worth men, Robert L. Davis and Aubra D. Gorrell, have been given 60-day sentences for theft under $50. They pleaded guilty to taking $17 from Art Kern Monday.

Wheat Growers Vote Thursday

Wheat producers will ballot Thursday on whether they desire wheat marketing quotas for 1960. The only polling place in the county, said Gabe Hammack, administrator for the county ASC committee, will be at the county ASC office at 403 Lancaster. Hours for voting will be between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Any landlord, tenant or sharecropper who has an interest in a wheat farm allotment of more than 15 acres is eligible to ballot in the referendum. In cases where the husband is eligible, the wife also may vote. Even those without quotas but who can convince the county committee of intentions to plant allotment acreage next year are eligible to ballot. There has never been a case of this sort in Howard County. A two-thirds majority nationally is necessary for the marketing quotas to carry. If the vote is affirmative, the price support will be at the full level established by the secretary of agriculture (probably around 75 per cent for 1960). In addition, those exceeding their acreage allotments would be subject to penalties. In event the vote is against marketing quotas, there would be no quotas and there would be no penalties for exceeding quotas. However, in either instance, the acreage allotments previously announced will hold good for 1960. Those who stayed within their acreage allotments would be eligible for a price support of at least 50 per cent. Any farmer may plant up to 15 acres of wheat without an allotment or quota, but no acreage over that amount may be harvested without an allotment.

McKay Critical

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The condition of former Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay was listed as grave Monday night. Officials at Salem General Hospital said a kidney condition accompanying his heart ailment is getting gradually worse and is not responding to treatment.

President Sees Dim Hope For Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower believes the chances for a summit conference have become steadily dimmer in the last 10 days. He feels Russia's attitude regarding Berlin now is tougher than ever. This Eisenhower pessimism — based on confidential reports from the Geneva foreign ministers meeting — is known on excellent authority. It embraces his view that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may not even want a summit meeting. It also is known on high authority that Eisenhower still is dead set against any recognition of Red China. The Communists there still are holding Americans as prisoners. It can be reported, too, on similar authority that: 1. Despite his pessimism, Eisenhower remains perfectly willing to attend a summit meeting, provided there is decent progress at Geneva. That means Soviet recognition of Western rights and responsibilities in West Berlin. 2. Regardless of talk by Kremlin officials, Eisenhower is not convinced the Russians really want a summit meeting. He thinks the Soviets' real objective may be to split the Western Allies, particularly the United States and Britain. 3. The President is convinced the Soviet leaders do not want a major war. But he is fearful that Kremlin miscalculations or some series of developments could touch off a conflict. 4. If war should come, the Western allies would have to decide whether to use nuclear weapons. So far as the United States is concerned, it would depend on what is best for the security of the country. 5. The greatest fear of the Kremlin chiefs, Eisenhower believes, is a resurgent Germany and a strong Red China. 6. In event of any new Berlin blockade, Eisenhower believes the tactical military position of the Western Allies would be just about as poor as possible. He feels that even passive resistance on the part of the Communists would jeopardize the Allies' land routes into Berlin and that Red jamming of Western radar could make a mass airlift operation very difficult.

Steel Union Chief In Aluminum Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald turned his attention for a while today to negotiations with aluminum companies, hoping a settlement there might shorten the steel strike. He met nearly two hours with members of his aluminum negotiating teams, who have been bargaining with the three major aluminum producers for more than a week. The union teams were scheduled to return to the bargaining tables this afternoon, but McDonald said he would not be present. McDonald said the union has not yet received replies to proposals for 15 cents more an hour for aluminum workers. Contracts with the "Big Three" aluminum companies — Alcoa, Reynolds and Kaiser—expire July 31. The firms employ about 58,000 production workers. The steel union represents about 30,500 of them. A strike would shut down about 50 per cent of the country's aluminum production. The week-old strike in the basic steel industry has idled a half-million workers and shut down about 90 per cent of the nation's steel output. It has brought unemployment to more than 40,000 workers in allied fields — coal, trucking and railroads.

Miss Big Spring Off To State Contest

"Gee, Sis is going to be in the Miss Texas contest." That appears to be the thought of six-year-old Catherine Dawson, younger sister of Miss Big Spring—Diana Dawson. Both are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Dawson. Right, Diana, Catherine and Mrs. Dawson planned to leave by auto today for Beaumont where all contestants will stay in the same hotel. Diana must be there to register Wednesday and may attend a dinner for all prospective Miss Texas's that evening. She will take part in several festivities Thursday through Saturday, when the winner is named. Miss Texas will go to Atlantic City, N. J., to compete for the Miss America crown.

U. S. Ships Complete Survey For Big 'Mohole' Adventure

Editor's Note — One of the most ambitious scientific undertakings of our time is the Mohole project: an attempt to find out what's inside the earth. The only science writer accompanying ocean research vessels on a preliminary expedition describes that project in this first in a four part series written exclusively for The Associated Press.

By LEONARD ENGEL
Copyright, 1959,
By The Associated Press

ABOARD RESEARCH VESSEL VEMA (AP)—Four United States research vessels have just completed the first survey for what promises to be one of the great science adventures of the century.

A hundred and fifty miles out in the Atlantic north of Puerto Rico, they have been looking for a place to drill a hole through the earth's crust.

The hole is expected to answer such age-old questions as what the inside of the earth is really made of. It will go all the way down to the mantle, the thick band of rock surrounding the earth's molten inner core.

The drilling scheme has been dubbed the Mohole project because the hole is to pierce a layer within the earth called the Mohole. The Mohole will be bored beneath the sea since the earth's crust is thinner below the ocean than on land.

Still, the hole will have to be several miles deep. And it will have to be drilled beneath miles-deep water—a feat never attempted before.

For several weeks, I have been aboard the "flagship" of the survey flotilla, the Columbia University research ship Vema.

The Mohole survey was directed by Vema's chief scientist, Dr. John E. Nafe. The other research ships were Gibbs, from Hudson Laboratories, a Navy laboratory operated by Columbia; Bear, from the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Massachusetts; and Hidalgo, from Texas A&M College.

The survey covered an area of the Atlantic known as the outer ridge, where the water is 3 1/2 miles deep and the earth's crust is nearly three miles thick. A possible drilling site in the Pacific off the West Coast is also being surveyed.

A final decision on just where the Mohole will be drilled will be made after a six-month study of data.

I found ocean research fascinating—and no game for the seasick-prone, or anyone afraid to wet his hands on deck.

Oceanographers work chiefly from small, rough-riding vessels; big ships cost too much. Quarters are cramped. Heavy gear must be put over the side and retrieved, and high explosives handled on pitching, tossing, slippery decks in all sorts of weather at any hour of the day or night.

Since there is never a moment when data is not being gathered, everyone on board ocean research vessels works, even visitors. I stood a regular daily watch in Vema's instrument lab, monitoring the depth recorder and other instruments. I helped move ammunition and manned a hydrophone or recorded shots during seismic shooting.

Vema, a 202-foot, three-masted iron auxiliary schooner, carries a party of 11 to 15 scientists and technicians plus a crew of 19.

For entertainment the ship has "sailor's TV"—watching cloud shapes drift across the sky sunset. Good food is Vema's only creature comfort.

The big difficulty for the scientist is making his instruments work.

"Unfortunately, the sea is a bitter enemy of electronic gear," says Dr. Nafe. "It takes a day-and-night struggle to keep ocean research equipment functioning."

But the knowledge to be won is of commanding importance. The oceans are a key factor in weather and climate. Geologists say that they are also a major arena for the forces that create continents, raise mountains and stir up volcanoes and earthquakes.

The sea is home to countless forms of life, past and present, not found on land.

Oil and many other minerals were formed in or below the sea, and minerals abound in the sea today—both in the water itself and on and below the ocean bottom.

Steel-Allied Firms Continue Layoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Layoffs of workers continue to mount in businesses affected by the nationwide steel strike, one week old today.

An estimated 45,000 employees of railroads, coal mining firms, shipping companies and other businesses are off the job.

In Cleveland Monday 1,900 more workers were furloughed, increasing to 3,900 the number laid off since the strike began.

Several hundred truck drivers were laid off by Cleveland firms that haul steel. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad laid off 50 workers in Cleveland and 200 in the Youngstown, Niles and Warren sections of Ohio. Three Great Lakes shipping companies furloughed 850 seamen because cargoes of ore could not be unloaded at steel mill piers.

The General Refractories Co. announced in Philadelphia 500 workers have been sent home because refractory brick can't be shipped to the steel mills.

The Delaware & Hudson Railroad said in New York it has had to drop 155 men from payrolls at its Colonia and Oneonta shops because of reduced shipments. Most of the men were given vacations.

In Roanoke, Va., the Norfolk and Western Railway laid off 852 railroaders.

In other developments, the Commerce Department made plans in Washington to channel available steel to high-priority military and Atomic Energy Commission projects in the event such action is necessary.

Meanwhile, action still is pending on petitions by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. for injunctions to ban the union from what the company calls illegal picketing at its plants in Aliquippa, Pa., and Pittsburgh. J. & L. contends about 400 to 500 supervisors are locked in in the plants. The union denies the charge.

In Detroit, the union said it halted an attempt of 400 to 500 supervisory personnel from entering the McLough Steel Corp. plant.

Elsewhere in the nation, picketing was reported quiet.

Arkansas Man To Be Speaker Press Meeting

"Let's Talk About Ourselves" will be the topic for an Arkansas newspaper publisher when he speaks before members of the West Texas Press Association here on Aug. 8.

W. L. "Bill" Love, publisher of the Warren, Ark., Eagle Democrat will be one of the speakers for the newspaperman's convention which will open the evening of Aug. 6, at the Settles Hotel.

Love is a past president of the Arkansas Press Association. One of a family of seven children reared in northern Indiana, Love attended a country school, and was graduated from high school at Coffeyville, Kansas. For three years he was manager of a hardware store in the Rio Grande Valley, but later returned to Kansas where he attended Baker University at Baldwin.

In 1923 he married the daughter of a printer, and worked for her father until 1941 when he came to Warren and purchased the Eagle Democrat. Since that time he has managed and operated the paper.

Steel Strike At A Glance

By The Associated Press

IDLE — About 500,000 striking United Steelworkers in the basic steel industry; also, an estimated 45,000 other persons employed in the railroad, coal, shipping and other industries that depend on the steel industry for business.

NEGOTIATIONS — Federal mediation chief Joseph P. Finnegan plans separate meetings with industry and union representatives again at the strike enters seventh day. After separate talks with both sides Monday, Finnegan showed no optimism.

DEVELOPMENTS — President Eisenhower receives a daily report on the situation from Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

LOSSES — Each day of the strike means a loss of 300,000 tons of ingot steel production to the industry; this amounts to about 300-million-dollars worth of business each week. Striking steelworkers are losing nearly 70 million dollars a week in wages.

ISSUES — Union seeks increased wages and improved fringe benefits. The industry claims higher labor costs would increase steel prices and result in an inflated economy. The steelworkers contend the companies can grant wage hikes without increasing prices.

City Expansion, New Housing, Highways Talked At C-C Meet

Various committee reports and some discussion of future action came before the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon session Monday.

For projects ahead, John E. Hogan, a former C-C president, suggested that full cooperation be extended to the City Commission in survey work looking toward all reasonable expansion of the corporate limits before the 1960 federal census. He pointed out the importance of achieving a maximum count in the official head-count.

Hogan also proposed that the Chamber take up studies toward housing improvement in the blighted areas of the city. He said rejection of the Public Housing proposal (in a recent referendum) means that new, exhaustive studies should be made to hunt out solution for undesirable areas.

Strong representation from Big Spring at a meeting of the U. S. 80-Interstate 20 Highway Assn. of Texas was urged by R. B. McEwen Jr. This session is to be at the Baker Hotel in Colorado City on July 30, and will, among other things, take up matters of reorganizing the group which works to boost business along the U. S. 80 route across the state.

Dan Krauss reported on a recent meeting held to study feasibility of establishment of a plastic molding plant here. He said that business prospects who might be interested in marketing plastic items will be contacted. Establishment of an outlet would be of primary concern in building a molding plant, which is estimated to represent an investment of at least $150,000.

Clyde McMahon, C-C president, reported on progress of program work for the dedication of the Howard County Airport in October. There also was a report on a recent meeting of the Retail Committee, which has set dates for various merchandising events for the remainder of the year.

The board unanimously re-elected Champ Rainwater and G. H. Hayward as Big Spring's representatives on the directorate of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

ABOUT-FACE!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I once heard an old lady say, "When children are young they step on your toes and when they are older, they step on your heart." These are the truest words I have ever heard.

My daughter is 12 and she knows everything. She has no respect for anyone. She is a pretty girl but the ugliest disposition I ever saw for a girl her age.

The kids get worse every day. Is it because they get too much? I know I am not the only mother with this problem because I hear other mothers say the same thing. I wish you could give me some good advice. I am at my wits' end. MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C.: By the time a child is 12, you either have the CHILD trained or the child has YOU trained. Giving a child "too much" will not spoil him unless he has had "too little" discipline. It's pretty late for new rules at your house, but if I were you, I'd get in the driver's seat and lay down the law.

DEAR ABBY: We had the sad experience of losing a premature baby girl. She lived only five days. We named her.

We are wondering if it would be proper, if and when we have another little girl, to give her the same name? We loved that name. PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: It would be proper. The decision is entirely up to you.

DEAR ABBY: I am 33, divorced and have a 3-year-old daughter. I've been going with a widower who has a 9-year-old son. He is well-to-do and would make an ideal husband.

He says he is very fond of me, and I know I love him. Should I wait and hope that some day he'll break down and marry me? I don't want a steady date. I want a husband. HOPING

DEAR HOPING: You could "break down" before he does. If this man really had his son's best interests at heart, he would marry a good woman and give his son a normal home life. The "wait" could be a lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has the habit of taking up with the oddest kind of people. He invites them to the house and after a

World Still Has Effects In Scout Camp

MOUNT MAKILING, Philippines (AP)—Some quiet reminders of the sterner outside world appear amid the atmosphere of brotherhood here where boys from 51 nations are gathered for the first World Boy Scout Jamboree ever held in Asia.

Jews that with turbaned Arabs and blacks sat with whites in the multi-nation campsites spread over the rolling mountainside "Jamboree City" south of Manila. But there are also signs of world conflicts, old and new.

Even the youngest of the scouts in the big Japanese delegation, for example, might pause for thought at a banner in a Philippine camp which says "Remember Pearl Harbor." Another display by the delegation from Bataan province stresses the war theme and includes quotes from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

World scouting leaders say they would like to hold the next jamboree in the Middle East, possibly in the United Arab Republic. But, because the Israeli delegation would not or could not attend, they say chances are very dim.

There are 28 scouts in exile who march proudly in parades and move among 12,000 scouts gathered here. They are from Communist countries where the scouting movement is banned. Twenty-five belong to the Council of Scout Associations in Exile. They include Hungarians, Russians, Lithuanians and Ukrainians, now living mostly in the United States, Britain and Australia.

Snake Cult Member Lands In Hospital

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—Bitten three times by rattlesnakes, a member of a religious group was under hospital care today. Doctors said he might lose his left arm.

"I've got no fight against medicine," said 34-year-old Earl Adkins of Stanfill. "If you can't get hold of the power of God, medicine is a wonderful thing."

A timber rattler and a diamond back snake, each about 3 1/2 feet long, bit Adkins on his left wrist Saturday night as he was taking the snakes from a box at his home prior to religious services at a church.

The cult's doctrine requires members to handle snakes to test their faith.

Nixon Hopes To Be A 'Peace Monger'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon hopes to sell himself to the Soviet people as a "peace monger" sincerely dedicated to building lasting friendship with the Soviet government.

Nixon has set this as a prime role of the flying 11-day tour of the Soviet Union he is to begin Thursday.

The vice president, accompanied by newsmen and government aides, will take off Wednesday by jet airliner, a few hours after double checking with President Eisenhower what he should say to the Soviet leaders and their people.

Nixon is reported hoping to demonstrate by his comments and behavior that he is a reasonable man, not the aggressive war monger Moscow has pictured him. But he is also ready to make clear that regardless of how much American leaders and their people want peace, they will never be frightened into a Munich-like deal under Soviet threats.

Nixon has scheduled a Sunday morning meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for what promises to be a sweeping, blunt discussion of the Berlin crisis, the Soviet-American deadlock on disarmament and nuclear testing, and the Soviet campaign for more American trade.

Khrushchev is expected to join Nixon in Friday's formal opening of the big American National Exhibition in Moscow's Sokolniki Park. Khrushchev is also to be Nixon's host at a buffet luncheon Friday. Nixon is to return the compliment at a small American Embassy dinner Saturday.

Their small scale foreign policy talk, however, has been set for Sunday at Khrushchev's summer home on the outskirts of the Soviet capital. This is Nixon's only engagement for the day, making it likely the two men will talk privately for some hours.

Nixon already has made it known he intends to treat Khrushchev's comments as private, to be relayed only to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter in Geneva. Nixon and his party will spend three days in the Soviet capital, then move on for quick visits to Leningrad and four industrial cities in Siberia.

Library Bans Book Over Race

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The Shreveport Memorial Library's chief librarian has taken a children's book out of circulation because it has illustrations of white and Negro children fishing and picnicking together.

Miss Inez Boone said the drawings in "The First Book of Fishing" presented as typical scenes that were not typical for the area. She said she wanted the City Library Board to look the book over before a final decision is made.

The book was published in 1952.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETS, the new fast-acting tooth powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETS at any drug counter.

Blonde Held In Poison Case

HARRISON, N.J. (AP)—Police say a 21-year-old blonde fed her husband rat poison in soup she said would heal a stab wound.

Police held Mary Provine Monday on an open charge of investigation of attempted murder.

Detectives Charles Hindcliffe Jr. and Edward Kennedy said Provine had been locked out of his apartment Sunday night.

When his wife let him in they argued. She said she loved someone else. They fought and she stabbed him in the shoulder with a bread knife.

After she tried to stop the bleeding, he pleaded with her to call a doctor. She refused and went out to get something for the wound.

She returned minutes later saying a druggist had given her some mustard seed. If she put it in soup, she said, it would stop the bleeding. Provine wouldn't take the soup unless she first tasted it. She took a spoonful. Provine took eight. Then Provine's mother-in-law, Helen Vecchio, entered and called police.

Provine was taken to a hospital where his stomach was pumped out and the wound dressed. He was listed in fair condition.

Dance Ban Ends

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—It's legal to dance the bunny hug and the shimmy here now. The City Council Monday night revoked a ban adopted in the jazz-crazed 1920s.

A Devotional For Today

Despise thou the riches of his goodness and forbearance and longsuffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance? (Romans 2:4.)

PRAYER: O God, help us to know that Thou dost love us even more than a father, and dost not delight in man's sorrow and loss. Thou didst send Thy Son Jesus that He might reveal Thee to us as a compassionate Father. Help us, O Lord, to respond to Thy compassion. In The Master's name. Amen.

Your Life Depends Upon It

No matter how much we talk about safety, mishaps continue to occur and with tragic results.

The latest catastrophe claimed five lives on a stretch of straight, dry highway three miles south of Sterling City on U. S. Highway 87. Apparently there were no physical or mechanical factors contributing to this horrible collision; the factor of human error was responsible.

Over the weekend there were collisions in this immediate vicinity, and although there were no fatalities or serious injuries, again the human element was at the bottom of the difficulties.

Within the past fortnight, our area has been visited by several fatal crashes on the highway. For everyone of these, there have been several others which, except for providential reasons, could have been just as bad.

How can this toll be reduced? The answer is so simple almost no one pays any attention to it. In a word, the answer is alertness.

We may call it being careful, being safe, or being cautious. Driving on busy highways this day and time is such a precarious business that it demands 100 per cent of the attention of drivers. There is no time for looking off, looking back, or checking on something inside the car. A split second of diverted attention may cause a swerve into the path of another car. Slowness of reaction may prevent you from veering to escape an oncoming vehicle which is infringing on your side. Drive as though your life depended upon every minute you spend behind the wheel — for indeed it does.

The Important Element

The folks at Stanton and in other parts of Martin County have wrapped up their big diamond jubilee celebration of the organization of Martin County. From almost every point, including financial, the big party proved a success.

Wearily — and having worked like Trojans they had a right to be — the most townspeople picked up the last pieces of props and otherwise cleaned up after the show. Would they undertake it again, knowing now how much work one of these major celebrations can be?

Well, that's a hard one to answer, and perhaps not a totally fair question. What occasion could there be for a repetition of such a major draft celebration?

The important thing about an undertaking of this sort — and Big Spring can speak from experience of 10 years ago — is not how big it is or how hard people have to work, or even how you come out financially. It is in teaming together to get a job done.

If Stanton and Martin County can carry over the lessons of accomplishment through cooperation, then every ounce of energy expended in the diamond jubilee party will have been a good investment. We believe that they not only can but will do it.

Demos Fear Bitter Rift In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. — With the legislature refusing to go along in changing Wisconsin's presidential primary law, this state is preparing for a political battle royal next year between Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. It is the kind of bruising, battering quarrel that the Democrats dread as they go into a presidential year without a natural and inevitable candidate.

The Democratic Governor, Gaylor Nelson, tried in vain to nudge the legislature into changing the law so that delegates to the national convention could run uncommitted on any candidate and all Presidential candidates could be entered in a kind of popularity contest. Nelson, who must run for re-election next year in what is normally considered a Republican state, knows how damaging to the party a Kennedy-Humphrey contest can be.

Already such fighting words as "bigot," "prejudice," "McCarthyism" and "fanatics" are being used by supporters of the two men. For just beneath the surface is the issue of religion and Kennedy's Catholicism. Humphrey men say they are accused of being anti-Catholic while Kennedy's supporters charge that reprints of an article published in 1952 accusing the Massachusetts Senator of a pro-McCarthy bias are being secretly circulated.

It is this split that can, in the struggle leading up to the Presidential primary next April 5, become a great yawning gulf of hatred and hostility. And while the kind of conflict that can occur here is exaggerated by the nature of the Democratic party in this state, Wisconsin is not alone in the dilemma of Kennedy, as front runner, and his rivals.

Because Democratic leaders fear this pattern, remembering the lethal struggles of the twenties over Al Smith's candidacy, many are now saying that the nominee will be neither Kennedy, Humphrey, nor any of the entries currently straining so hard. To the question of, "Who then?" they reply most often with the name of Adlai Stevenson. The ticket they fondly dream of is Stevenson and Kennedy.

This would avoid a showdown with Kennedy in the No. 2 spot Catholic voters would presumably not be alienated. Trying to steer a course of careful neutrality, it is the wish that Governor Nelson and other hardheaded politicians on the firing line privately cherish.

There is still one way out. That is for a favorite son candidacy with Wisconsin's Senator William Proxmire in the favorite son role and both Kennedy and Humphrey agreeing to stay out!

But for Humphrey, whose Presidential ambition has just been officially unveiled, Wisconsin is vitally important. He must prove his strength in the Midwest and then from this base enlarge his grasp with the support of labor in Michigan and other industrial states. His backers, including seven out of the ten Congressional district chairmen, says he will spend most of the fall in the state speaking at county fairs and wherever crowds can be got together.

If Humphrey is in, it will be hard for Kennedy to stay out. The Kennedy organizers, headed by Mayor Ivan A. Nestingen of Madison, chairman of the Kennedy For President Club of Wisconsin, insist that their man would win today a majority of the 28 voting delegates. A private poll recently taken lends some support to his optimism, since it showed roughly 60 per cent for the Senator from Massachusetts and 40 per cent for the Senator from Minnesota.

In this state as elsewhere the Kennedy identity—the bright young hopeful with the pretty young wife—has come through. It may be synthetic, the result of a carefully plotted buildup, but the fact is registered in various ways including the polls. His Wisconsin visit in the spring was highly successful.

In the interests of harmony and at Humphrey's instigation the legislature in Minnesota abolished the Presidential primary. Having assured peace at home, Governor Humphrey and others ask plaintively of Humphrey, why do you want to carry the row into your neighboring state? But political ambition, as has so often been demonstrated in the past, knows no boundaries.

Boost For Women Drivers

CHICAGO (AP)—Women make better car drivers than most men, a taxi operator informed aldermen who are studying the business.

"We have half a dozen women drivers, and I wish we had more," said Arthur Dickholtz. He said women drivers learn the city just as fast as men, and have a noticeably lower accident rate.

New Use For Marbles

NEW YORK (AP)—Marbles, one of the most enduring playthings, have been put to work by the paint industry.

Manufacturers of spray-on paints in aerosol cans place a marble in each can, reports the American Can Co. These marbles are identical to the "shooters" used by schoolyard marble champs.

The paint is mixed by shaking the can. The marble breaks up pigment which may have settled between uses and rattles freely when the paint is well mixed. One manufacturer uses more than 20 million marbles a year.

Many And Varied

GOOCHLAND, Va. (AP)—A new lake was opened and owner invited friends to come and bring their favorite boats. One brought an army DUKW and he had to remove a support for a 10-foot gateway to let the 11-foot wide vehicle into the state. The prize for the smallest boat went to a man who brought an inner tube, inflated it, raised an umbrella and sculled across the lake using a paddle supported by his raised knees.

A Little Leeway This Time

James Marlow
Nixon Trip Won't Solve Anything

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union and his interview with Premier Nikita Khrushchev probably won't solve anything. It would be too much to expect. After all, it's billed as a goodwill tour.

If there is any solution of anything it almost certainly will have to come from Khrushchev, not from Nixon. Newsweek wrote Monday Nixon is bearing no special message from President Eisenhower.

And Nixon on his own doesn't have the authority to deal with the Soviet leader as Eisenhower could if the two met later in a summit conference. But Khrushchev can suit himself on what he says or does.

Judging from what newsmen were told the vice president is going to be polite but firm. He is going to say the United States will not back up on Berlin.

But this is hardly news, since Eisenhower has already said the same thing a number of times. It's possible that Khrushchev, using bait to get Eisenhower into a summit conference, might make some concessions to Nixon.

It's hardly likely unless the performance of Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at Geneva all these weeks has been a stall to kill time until Khrushchev, meeting Nixon, could propose a deal on Berlin.

Gromyko, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, and the foreign ministers of Britain and France have been meeting, with a brief interval, since May 11 at Geneva on the future of Berlin.

Khrushchev has demanded the Allies get their troops out of the German city. All these weeks of talk have been a kind of ring-around-the-rosy dance, getting nowhere, solving nothing.

While Nixon is with Khrushchev, newsmen were told, he will try to turn the meeting into a far-ranging review of such East-West issues as Berlin, disarmament, atomic testing and trade.

Although Eisenhower has laid down a condition to be met before he agrees to meet Khrushchev—there must be some progress at Geneva—Khrushchev has shown no willingness to have the meeting at the cost of any major Soviet concession.

There is no reason to think—from his unbending attitude so far — that he will meet at the sight of Nixon. But, since he is mercurial and unpredictable, it's easy to guess how and why he might do one of two things.

1. He has shown contempt for any meeting of foreign ministers to deal with major problems. He considers it a waste of time. In his view only the top men can really settle anything.

That's why he says he wants a summit meeting. Just to prove that big men together can solve things—and that the foreign ministers' meeting is eyewash — he might propose some deals to Nixon for delay to Eisenhower.

That is, if he considers Nixon big enough to do business with at all.

2. If he doesn't, then he may talk tough turkey to the vice president, with the suggestion that if Eisenhower wants to find East-West answers the place to look for them is at a meeting with Khrushchev.

So—as Nixon starts out for his tour Wednesday, he may be full of hope for something good. But since he is a political realist, he can hardly come back disappointed if all Khrushchev says is "hello."

Brando Interested In U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — Marlon Brando is anxious to do a film about the United Nations.

"But so far we haven't been able to come up with the right script," he said.

The actor became interested in the U.N. during a tour of Southeast Asia a couple of years ago.

"I was impressed by the fact that people all over the world had given up good jobs to go to work for peanuts for the United Nations on its technical assistance projects," he recalled.

"I'd like to do a story that would allow people access to information about the U.N., which I feel by and large has been overlooked. But it would have to be a picture vital and interesting enough to make people want to see it. Otherwise, it would be shown only in church basements."

Brando, who has played everything from a rebellious longshoreman to Napoleon, has the role of a wandering guitarist in his 13th film, "The Fugitive Kind," co-starring Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward.

Marlon, who has trimmed down 15 pounds on a high-protein diet, still retains a glacial silence about his personal life. But during a short rehearsal break in his dressing room he was quite willing to talk about the international situation. It is much on his mind.

For the benefit of his fans, here are his views:

"I think that, sooner or later, we are bound to have a world federation of states—a world government. Economic facts can't be ignored much longer.

"It is my theory that world wars result from a multitude of civil wars within each individual.

"The thing that I hate most—that frightens me most—is the indifference and blind acceptance of the destructive impulses in people.

"When people cannot find a way somehow to resolve their own innate aggressiveness then they combine with other individuals, groups and movements and attack a symbol they call the enemy.

"But the enemy is simply their own unconscious projections symbolized by a racial, religious or economic issue. Or they may simply be against people with red hair or people who are cruel to their goldfish."

The result, Brando feels, is war, if no way is found to channel these mass hostilities safely.

But he believes the atom bomb is the world's best hope for peace:

"If a man—or a statesman—feels that something of himself will live on—his principles or his children—he is willing to die for the preservation of what he believes in.

"But when he knows that he will die and nothing will be left—no one will remain to mourn his sacrifice, appreciate his heroism or carry on his principles—then he is bound to give a second thought about going to war.

"That is the singular change the atom bomb has made."

Stalin Shrine Is Quieter, Lonelier Now

GORI, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Once this was a great Russian shrine. It still draws tourists, but it is not the busy place of just a few years ago.

This is the birthplace of Joseph Stalin, in the years when Stalin's name was magic, a trip to Gori was an event on a par with a Moslem's journey to Mecca. The historic debunking of Stalin has cut the prestige of his birthplace.

The little house in which Stalin was born has a protecting roof structure over it, but is much the same in other respects as during Stalin's boyhood.

Now the old house is the large, handsome, expensively built museum that tells the story of Stalin's life, from his days in Gori until the winning of the revolution.

American visitors are impressed by the large number of photographs on display of Stalin as boy, youth and young man. For a country boy, he had his picture taken a rather large number of times.

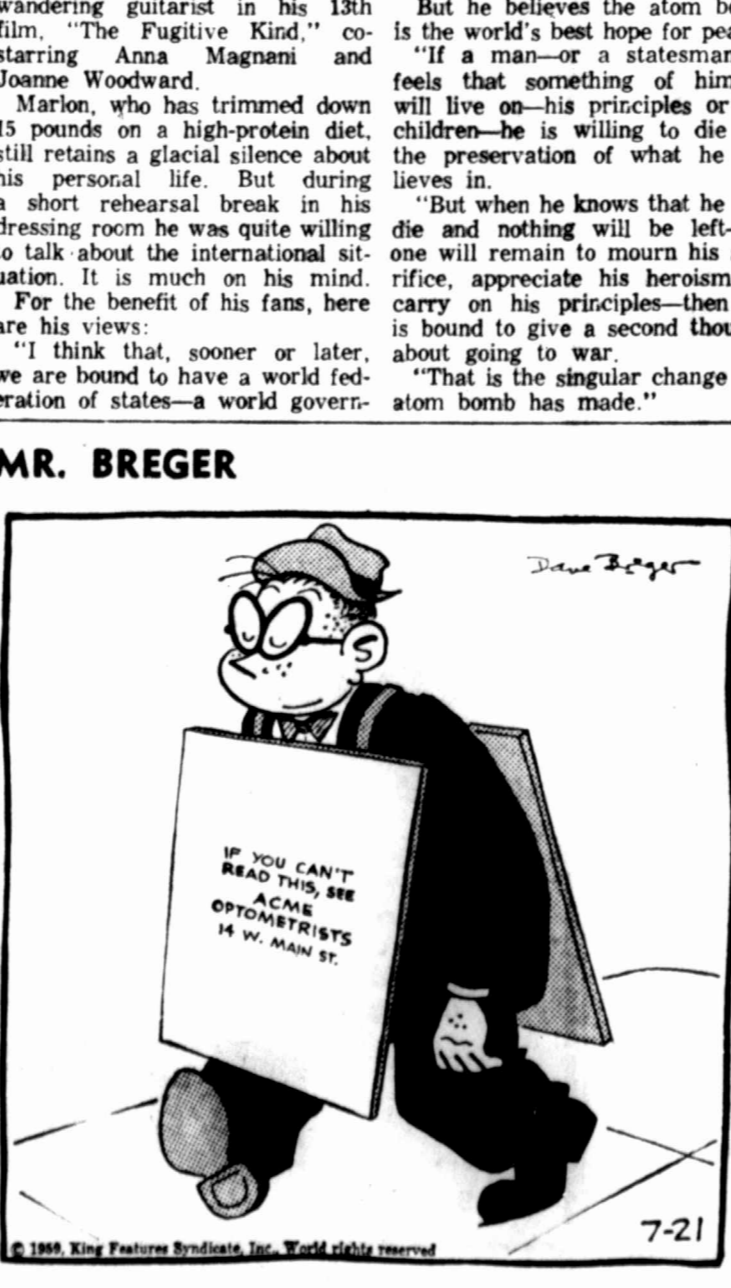

The exhibits show Stalin as a seminary student, on the way to becoming a priest of the Orthodox church. They show him taking up communism, plotting revolt. They recount the many times he was arrested, thrown into prison, exiled to Siberia, escaped from Siberia, returned to Siberia.

With success achieved and the Bolsheviks in charge, the story ends. "What about the rest of Stalin's life?" the guide is asked.

"Some more rooms are in preparation," was the reply.

"When they are ready, that part of the museum will be opened, too."

That Old Time Stealer—Procrastination

Procrastination, the copybooks relate, is the thief of time.

Could be, I know if I did everything I should do exactly on schedule and didn't postpone things, I would have a lot less worry wrinkles and frayed nerves.

Like a lot of other folk I could name I am prone to follow after the school which has as its motto "do nothing today which can be put off until tomorrow."

Take this article, for example. I know perfectly well that I have to write one of these things for publication each Tuesday. It would be just as easy to write it ahead of time. But do I? I do not. I wait and wait until the deadline stares me in the eye.

Time was when I wrote six articles very much like these each week. I did that little chore for a long long time—until I had written some 12,000 in all. I had little trouble in all those years doing the job—I knew full well that the copy for tomorrow's stint had to be in the hands of the printer by 4 p.m. on the day preceding publication. And I always made it.

Now that I have only one such article to do each week, I find it extremely difficult to get it written. The reason is—I just won't get at it.

I certainly have no better ideas or better material as a reward for the delay. The reverse is probably much nearer the truth.

I try to tell myself the reason I delay is to find more suitable material. Of course this is not true. Rather, the problem is closer to being a question of selecting one topic from an abundance of potential subjects.

I had a city editor once who insisted that every person who walked the streets had at least one good story to tell. I agreed with him but I set up some mental reservations. (It's always well to agree with the city editor verbally. I have found it tends to keep him happier.)

The mental reservations I set up was that every person might very well be packing around an interesting yarn but that getting that person to spill the dope was a horse of another color. Since it is not generally regarded as genteel to resort to rubber-hose and blackjacks in seeking news for the paper, the task of chiseling the deathless data from the subject generally made the whole assignment appear not worth the effort.

Very often, I think, the reluctance of the mythical man in the street to regale the reporter with his interesting story is not that he doesn't want to talk. It's simply that he probably doesn't know he has the story in the first place.

That's part of my personal problem. I have a wealth of miscellaneous material which could be very neatly wrapped up into articles for this space. When I try to dig through the rubbish heap of my memory, I find it difficult to recognize the little gems when I recall them.

Besides, very often I hit upon something I think I'd like to write about and then, on looking at it closer, find it is not suitable for use.

So the upshot is—I shove the matter aside and console myself with the argument that I'll think of something soon. Just like my fellow scribblers, by the way.

Inez Robb
Berlin: Business And Pleasure As Usual

WEST BERLIN — This is the season of the year when outwardly tranquil West Berliners, by the tens of thousands, sit contentedly in innumerable beer gardens and crowded sidewalk cafe and drink "Weiss mit Schuss."

To the casual eye, the West Berliner has not a care in the world as he sits with his nose in a great glass bird bath, approximately five times the size of a champagne glass, and quaffs Berlin's special drink, "Weiss mit Schuss." This a special kind of "white" beer spiked with a slug of raspberry juice. It sounds horrendous. But it is surprisingly palatable on a hot day and Berlin, like much of the rest of Europe, has been sweltering through one of the hottest summers on record.

Once in West Berlin, it is difficult to remember that this prosperous, booming metropolis, so intent on going calmly about its own business, is the focal point of an international crisis so grave that the Great Powers are once more in Geneva, trying to save the city and the world itself from blowing apart.

In the summertime, the livin' is especially easy in West Berlin, with its acres of emerald parks, its numerous lakes and their beaches and the Havel River and its swimming holes. While the powers ponder its fate and the rest of the world nervously bites its nails, the placid citizens of West Berlin crowd its beaches a la Coney Island.

Innumerable sail boats float lazily across the Wannsee and the Havel. As the Western world sweats it out, "Business and Pleasure as Usual" is the motto of the city that has brought the world to another brink. Here, in the center of the vortex, as in the eye of a hurricane, is obviously the place to relax!

This city-state of 2,250,000 persons, completely surrounded by Communist East Germany, is even more innocent of civil defense, if possible, than New York or any other American community.

If the Communists should really start suddenly to move in force against Berlin, nothing short of atomic war could stop them. In this, West Berliners do not fool themselves. They could die bravely and futilely, as did East German insurgents a few years ago, throwing stones against Russian tanks. But they have no more hope of winning by such methods than did the East German rebels.

Certainly the small Western garrisons in West Berlin could offer no real obstacle to a sudden Communist pounce in force.

The situation of West Berliners reminds me strongly of that of the Finns vis-à-vis their gigantic neighbor, the U.S.S.R.

"We walk always on the razor's edge," say the Finns. "But we cannot cease to live and work and play. We have to come to terms with life; not resign from it."

"You can't stop living just because the Bogey Man perpetually peers over your shoulder," is the way a West Berlin acquaintance phrased the same sentiment.

"We call ourselves 'Insulaner' or 'a man living on an island,'" another acquaintance said. "Ever since the Berlin Blockade and the air lift of 1948-49, we in West Berlin have had our own theme song. It is 'Insulaner Die Ruhe Nicht' or 'The Islander Doesn't Lose His Calm.'"

"If we stopped being calm and started wringing our hands, what would it get us?" he asked, and then answered himself. "A nervous breakdown!"

So the West Berliner, knowing that the solution of his fate is in other hands, goes quietly on about the normal business of living, hoping for the best, i.e., that the West will save itself and him in the bargain.

Altogether, it is a strange sensation to come from the worried West to the storm center and find it so cool, calm, collected and content with its "Weiss mit Schuss." Tranquillizers need not apply! (Copyright 1959, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

The Gallup Poll
Ike's Popularity Holds Firm

PRINCETON, N.J. — During a period in which he has come under increasing fire from Congressional Democrats, President Eisenhower's personal popularity with voters has held firm.

In the most recent check on the President's popularity by the Gallup Poll, 62 voters in every 100 say they approve of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his job.

The President's standing with voters is thus unchanged from what it was one month ago. During this period, the Washington political front has reverberated with explosions from Democratic leaders in Congress over the President's vetoes of bills sponsored by them—in particular, his veto of the Housing Bill.

Today's score represents an increase of 10 percentage points in Mr. Eisenhower's popularity since the 1958 election when the Democrats greatly increased their seat margins in both houses of Congress.

The increase in the President's popularity is of particular significance when it is considered against what was, at least until a month ago, a generally declining pattern of GOP strength at the Congressional level.

Just how the Republicans have fared in the Congressional race during the recent weeks of feuding will be covered in a subsequent Gallup Poll report to be published Sunday.

As they have at regular intervals over the last quarter century Gallup Poll reporters measured voters' feelings about the current occupant of the White House with this question:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Eisenhower is handling his job as President?"

Here is today's vote compared with that recorded in the wake of the November, 1958 Congressional election:

EISENHOWER POPULARITY
Today Nov. '58
Percentages
Approve	62	52
Disapprove	22	30
No Opinion	16	18

Mr. Eisenhower's popularity today is one based on a widespread appeal to most major segments of the population.

In no group at present—including rank-and-file Democrats—does disapproval of the President's performance in office outweigh approval.

Perhaps one of the best measures of the appeal that Eisenhower currently has is seen in the vote of confidence he gets from persons in the major occupation groups.

On the one hand, the President has a substantial majority approving his handling of office among manual workers—a group traditionally Democratic in their voting preference.

On the other, he maintains a high degree of popularity among groups such as professional and business people and white-collar workers.

Other Gallup Poll political indexes have indicated that these normally Republican groups have been coming to feel more and more that the Democratic party, rather than the GOP, is best for them.

Here is the President's popularity score today among major segments of the population:

Wedding Date Set

August 15 is the date selected for their wedding by Barbara Dunnam and Baron Bloomer. This is the announcement which has been made by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dunnam, 1016 Ridgeroad, parents of the bride-elect. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Winnie Force, 404 Lancaster, and William Bloomer of Colorado City.

French Designers Emphasize Shoulders

PARIS (AP) — Paris fashion designers are tinkering with mid-lady's knees and waist according to early snooping of haute couture experts in the French capital.

With the opening of the fall showings on July 27 fashion spies are in hot pursuit of information from secretive high fashion houses.

If early cave talks prove true, next fall's woman will emerge with shoulders of an Olympic winner, neck of a swan, bust of a beauty queen, no knees at all and a waist just north of the hips.

Despite the emphasis on bust and shoulders early indication is that this year's lines dictate that madame will have a tall, willowy silhouette.

Young Yves St. Laurent, oracle of the Dior fashion empire is reported setting the pace. But he's fighting a rearguard action to save the knee.

"There will be no change in the length of my skirts," he reportedly told one interviewer. "My new line lengthens the body, frees the neck and puts accent on legs." However, he decreed an end of the bouffant skirt which has kept a pleasant dreamy look on the faces of cafe cowboys eyeing the fashion parade on the Champs Elysees this season.

Fashion tipsters say the coming colors are blue at Dior, touches of green from Jacques Heim and black from Lanvin Castillo.

While leaving the bust cut low, designers are setting it off with flaring collars and big sleeves. To keep unwelcome eyes from seeing these expensive creations, designers seem to be demanding that when madame goes out she wears an immense coat. Some designers are favoring capes that leave nothing exposed save a glint of ankle and head.

Penner's Visit The Nation's Capital On Vacation Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Penner, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Penner of San Angelo, have returned from an extensive motor trip. The two-and-a-half week vacation took them to Washington, D. C., to visit Penner's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Morea.

They traveled through the Great Smokies on the way up, and returned via Pittsburgh and Chicago, stopping in Eldorado, Okla., for a brief visit with Mrs. Penner's parents, the T. A. Robinsons.

Mrs. McGee In Clinic

Mrs. J. G. McGee of O'Donnell, formerly of Big Spring, is in Cowper Clinic where she is undergoing a general check-up. She will remain hospitalized until Friday.

Miscellaneous Gifts Honor Mrs. Hildreth

A miscellaneous shower was a courtesy extended Monday evening to Mrs. Kenneth Hildreth, whose marriage in May was recently announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Booth, 1505 Lancaster. She is the former Paula Booth.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hildreth, 1212 Ridgeroad, are parents of the bridegroom.

Guests assembled at the Park Methodist Church for the come-and-go affair, for which the hostesses used blue and white appointments. Lace over blue covered the tea table, and a cake,

Bridal Shower Fetes Miss Boyd

Pink and white, favored colors of Helen Faye (Punky) Boyd, were employed in decor for the bridal shower given in her honor Monday evening at the home of Mrs. M. O. Hamby.

Hostesses with Mrs. Hamby were Mrs. Richard Shields, Mrs. Ray Eckler, Mrs. W. D. Lovelace, Mrs. T. C. Richardson, Mrs. Ray McMahan, Mrs. Luther Coleman and Mrs. Clayton Coats. Also, Mrs. J. W. Bryant Jr., Mrs. J. D. Hancock, Mrs. Beth Luedecke, Mrs. J. D. Thompson, Mrs. R. V. Fore-syth, Mrs. Tommy Lovelace and Mrs. Weldon Nuckolls.

Miss Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Boyd, 1303 Runnels, is the bride-elect of Gary James Tidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tidwell, 1510 Main. The couple be married Aug. 7 in Wesley Methodist Church.

Tiny pink bows highlighted the flounce of the white organdy cloth, which was spread over white. Ap-pointments were of crystal, and a crystal bowl held pink gladioli and asters.

Claudia Richardson, Janet Gooch, Tommie Sue Lovelace, Mrs. Billie Johnson, Mrs. Jerry Barron and Mrs. Whitney Reynolds were included in the houseparty. The honoree wore a beige linen sheath accessorized with brown.

Wesley Guild Has Family Supper

A covered dish supper was served Wesleyan Service Guild members of Wesley Methodist Church and their families, Monday evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Parmenter. Mrs. Joe B. Kitching shared host-esses duties with Mrs. Parmenter.

In a brief business meeting, Mrs. T. A. McGuffey told of her trip to Mt. Sequoyah, Ark. The group agreed to abandon the exchange of secret pal gifts, and to divert that money into a fund for Christine Bonney. Miss Bonney, a Malay, is attending McMurtry Col-lege.

The 19 enjoyed games of 42.

Here From Jonesboro

Mrs. Rayford Martin, Jeanette and Ray arrived Monday from Jonesboro for a visit with Mrs. Martin's mother, Mrs. Ollie At-taway, and with her sisters, Mary Ann Ataway and Mrs. Elva Bif-far and family.

OVERWEIGHT? New 24-Hour Diet Takes Pounds Off Big Eaters

Big eaters now can lose 10 to 20 pounds and more and still enjoy big meals of fine food... thanks to the Swedish Milk Diet. It is an on and off diet. Eat today... eat everything just like you now eat. Then tomorrow you diet for 24 hours taking Larson's S.M.D. with milk... that's all.

No calorie counting. No exercise. No mechanical massage. Yet not only do the pounds and inches of horrid looking fat melt away but more important, those bulges disappear in the right places from all over the body the same way. It's quickly noticeable how much weight is gone from chin, back, neck, arms, legs, stomach, bust, backside, hips and thighs.

So even if you are a true gourmet when it comes to fine food and big meals, start the Swedish Milk Diet. Automatically thousands of fat building calories are eliminated. Energy goes up... weight goes down. Once again you're slim and there's no underfeeding. This is the reducing plan you've seen published in Harper's Bazaar, Glamour, Vogue and other authoritative fashion magazines.

You can get Larson's S.M.D., the complete Swedish Milk Diet, at better drug stores. Also featured by many leading department stores... ask at the cosmetics counter. You have your choice of this filling, energy-packed food either regular or in chocolate flavor or in handy condensed food tablet form. Satisfaction is guaranteed or you need only return empty package to store where purchased for purchase price refund.

First Baptist Circles Meet; Names Will Be Drawn Soon

As is their custom on the third Monday of each month, First Baptist WMS members met at their circles yesterday. All are working on some project in connection with community missions.

Plans call for names to be drawn among the circles prior to the next business session. This is done periodically in order that the membership may be rotated among circles.

COMBINED CIRCLES
Mary Willis Circle joined the Mary Hatch Circle at their meeting Monday morning in the home of Mrs. C. O. Hitt. Eight attended.

Mrs. J. E. Hardesty opened the session with prayer. Mrs. H. B. Reagan, Mrs. Ben F. Johnson and Mrs. Hitt brought the program on Preserving Our Ideals, and the devotion was by Mrs. Theo Andrews. Mrs. Floyd Parsons worded the benediction.

In a business meeting, the Mary Hatch group voted to give $5 to the August and Christmas boxes for missionaries.

LUCILLE REAGAN
Mrs. W. F. Taylor was hostess to the Lucille Reagan circle, Monday morning, with seven present. The prayer was by Mrs. J. A. Coffey.

As community missions chairman, Mrs. T. B. Atkins reported on the leaflets and tracts which the circle has placed in the bus and railroad stations. Monthly donations to the community missions fund this summer will be given to the high school Bible fund.

Mrs. Clyde Angel announced that names will be drawn for circle membership prior to the next business meeting.

Prayer for missionaries on the birthday calendar was offered by Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. J. C. Pickle reviewed the first chapter of Dr. Floy M. Barnard's book "Christian Witnessing," and invited group discussion.

At the social hour, dainties were served from a lazy Susan.

Lohrmanns On Wedding Trip To Iowa

Airman 2 C. and Mrs. Larry Lohrman are on a wedding trip to Iowa following their marriage here Friday afternoon at Webb AFB Chapel.

The bride is the former Rebecca Ann Fox, daughter of T. Sgt. and Mrs. Edward T. Fox, Ellis Homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Franz Lohrmann of Manning, Iowa, are parents of the bridegroom.

Chaplain James E. Leath performed the single ring ceremony as the couple stood with their attendants, Mary Kay Covington and Airman 2 C. Al Scroggins.

Pate blue nylon made the street-length dress worn by the bride. Her shoes were in white satin brocade, and she had a corsage of white carnations.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at Ellis Homes. The bride expects to continue her education at Big Spring High School where she will be a junior this fall. Her husband is stationed at Webb AFB.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

That Land of Enchantment, New Mexico, is the favorite vacationing spot for a great many Big Spring residents. Ruidoso, which several years ago claimed its only fame by being in the mountains and having considerably cooler temperature, has built up its tourist trade by leaps and bounds. Of course, many local people have had cabins there for years and still enjoy living in the cool and quiet mountain areas. However, there is a greater attraction than the cool and the quiet now. Horse racing is drawing more than a few from all over the state. Since the Sonny Edwardes bought the golf course there, it's more like being at home for many golfers when they go for a weekend.

MRS. TRAVIS READ and her grandchildren, RED, BELL and BILL SCHWARZENBACH went to Ruidoso Sunday. Mrs. Schwarzenbach has been there the better part of the summer and the children had come here to visit. MRS. JACK IRONS, FRANK and MIKE are there with the family.

MRS. F. B. BLALACK and MRS. BERT WALL have just returned here after spending some time with Mrs. Blalack's friend, Mrs. Frank Ivy who lives in Ruidoso.

Others who spent the weekend in the mountain resort include MR. AND MRS. KENT MORGAN, MR. AND MRS. TOM SOUTH, MR. AND MRS. JACK COOK and MRS. R. H. MILLER.

A guest in the home of MR. AND MRS. DOYLE DEAN, 1102 Stadium, is her mother, MRS. H. S. PRIDE, whose home is in Temple. She plans to be here several weeks.

MR. AND MRS. W. J. GOODSON and their son, Richard, have as guests in their home, MRS. ALICE WELLS, MRS. GEORGE WARREN and Georgia Alice, and MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN BOOTH and their son. All of the relatives are from Temple and will be here until the latter part of the week.

MRS. LONNIE COKER is in Shamrock where she will join her daughters, Londa and Gloria who are visiting there. Londa will be honored with a tea by the mother of Wayne Henry, her fiance, to whom she will be married in September.

MR. AND MRS. A. M. RIPPES have returned from Kansas City where they visited their son, James L. Rippes and family, and with their great-grandchildren.

One of the features of a short vacation stay in San Marcos recently by DR. AND MRS. DICK LANE and their son, Darrell, was the Aquarena. The presentation is most unusual in as much as the theatre is sunk into the water and through the glass walls one can watch the show from a much different angle. The Lanes also spent some time in Austin with Henry Douglas who is a war time friend of the local dentist.

MR. AND MRS. A. M. RIPPES have returned from Kansas City where they visited their son, James L. Rippes and family, and with their great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Smith Attends Recent Meeting Of Old Settlers

ACKERLY — Attending an old settlers reunion in Buffalo Gap recently were Mrs. Durrell Smith and Sylvia and their son, Darrell. Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson of Colorado City, for the trip.

The Lester Browns were in Fort Worth this weekend to join their daughter, Judy, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. Jopling.

Glenna Faye Little was honored guest at a tea given recently in the Ackerly Church of Christ. Hostesses were members of the church and a group from Midway. Miss Little is to be married to Rodney Lane on July 26.

George Schaaf of San Antonio has joined his wife who has been visiting her parents, the Bruce Grains. Other guests in the Grain home were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eads of Lawton, Okla., and the Frank Parkers of Stanton.

Mrs. Lou Mahan is in Midland for a few days visit with her children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Crass.

Guests in the J. Archer home on Sunday were their daughters, Mrs. Lonnie Coker and Mrs. Lucy Britton of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith of Lamesa and a nephew, Walter Brunson of Lubbock.

The J. L. Rudeseals entertained the Pat Rudeseals of Lubbock this weekend.

Presbyterian Groups Plan Two Parties

Women of St. Paul Presbyterian Church combined forces Monday evening in a business and social meeting in the home of Mrs. Leon Moffett.

August is the month for the society to serve as hostesses at the Big Spring State Hospital and also at the Westside Recreation Center, and plans were discussed for parties to be given at each of the places.

The Bible study was brought by Mrs. Dalton Conway, and Mrs. Robert Rodman discussed the topic, Citizens of Two Worlds.

After a business session, refreshments were served to 18 from a table decorated with summer flowers.

Coahoman Joins In Fishing Trip To Buchanan Lake

COAHOMA—A fishing party consisting of Mrs. Elvon DeVaney and son Shannon of Brownfield, Mrs. L. B. Edwards and Mrs. L. P. Moffett both of Big Spring, and Mrs. B. T. Hale of Coahoma is at Lake Buchanan for the week. They will return Friday or Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rodgers and family have moved from Coahoma to make their home in Eastland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lindsey were called to Snyder to be at the bedside of his nephew who suffered a heart attack.

C. H. DeVaney and daughter, Rosalie, spent the day Friday in Dallas where Mr. DeVaney was attending a Farm Bureau wool meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Elder of Seagraves spent the weekend in Coahoma visiting Mrs. Rosie DeVaney, Mrs. Elder's sister. The hostess returned to Seagraves with the Elders for a week's visit.

B&PW Pair Attends Midland Parley

Mrs. Cass Hill and Mrs. Delphia Gordon were in Midland Sunday to assist in planning the District Eight Conference of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, tentatively scheduled Sept. 26-27. The conference will be held in McCamey and Crane, with headquarters in McCamey.

Mrs. Oteka Darby of McCamey, district director, led the Sunday parley.

Accompanying the Big Springers was Mrs. Eunice Gardner of Konawa, Okla., a houseguest of Mrs. Hill.

30 Days To Success

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — How's this for success? College student 30 days ago, bank manager today.

That speedy climb came to Hugh Coughanour, 29-year-old son of a Belle Vernon, Pa., coal miner. The University of Pittsburgh graduate was named Monday as manager of Western Pennsylvania community office now under construction near Monongahela, Pa. "Frankly, this appointment as manager came as a surprise to me," said Coughanour, who lives in nearby Elizabeth, Pa. "I hope this doesn't sound like the usual loyal employe talking, but I'm grateful for the opportunities — past, present and future — available at WPNB."

Coughanour joined the bank in 1950 as a night posting clerk. After serving in the Air Force during the Korean conflict, he returned to the institution and was accepted for its college work program. While attending school, Coughanour worked part-time at the bank and studied under the institution's office development program. He was graduated sixth in his class at Pitt's School of Business Administration.

Besides a college degree and a top banking post, determination has presented Coughanour with a third prize in the past month—a bride.

Airliner Noses Over, No Deaths

BOSTON (AP) — An American Airlines plane with 69 aboard nosed over on landing at Logan Airport Monday night but only one slight injury was reported.

Michael Ramos, 22, of the Bronx, N. Y., suffered a bruised knee while leaving the plane from the forward cargo door. The big DC-8-B coming in from New York skidded 150 feet when its nose gear buckled on landing.

Pesky Algae Are Back Once More

Cities and the Colorado Municipal Water District are taking steps to discourage the seasonal visitation of Asterionella and Anabaena. These microscopic twins happen to be algae that give surface waters their sometimes pungent flavor and fragrance. Their presence in critical numbers imparts distinctive characteristics—a musty, woody one by Asterionella and an earthy, grassy one by Anabaena. Last week, in an effort to discourage growth of the tiny plant life, CRMWD agents dumped almost 3,000 pounds of copper sulfate in the vicinity of the Big Spring-Odessa intake at Lake J. B. Thomas. Just a little less than a ton of the chemical was spread around the Snyder intake.

In theory the material will settle gradually to the bottom, where algae find best growing conditions, and there halt the bulk of the growth. The rate of application ranges from two to four pounds per million gallons of water in the specific area. Earlier this year the CRMWD treated the area around the Big Spring-Odessa intake because its rate of withdrawal is greater than the other intake. The rate of treatment in the lake is insufficient to disturb fish life.

Another step being taken is chlorination of water in the main supply line at the Martin County pump station on its way to Odessa. Both Odessa and Big Spring water treatment plants are being geared to use of activated carbon, which does much to help remove the taste and aroma of the algae.

PUBLICITY FOR STATE

Look Article Gives Texas Complimentary Coverage

Texas gets the spotlight in the current issue of Look magazine.

In the past, many national publications have baited Texas readers by a blistering attack on the Lone Star modus operandi. Look uses a different bait—one decidedly more complimentary although it rebashes some of the old copy in secondary roles.

"In 15 brief years the state has changed from a cotton, cattle and crude-oil empire into an industrial and manufacturing giant. Steel and rolling mills, paper mills and auto-assembly plants sprawl where cotton once bloomed. Texas now has the second largest aluminum capacity and ranks second in aircraft production," says Look.

"Eighty-five per cent of all United States petrochemical capacity... lines the Houston ship channel... Three out of every 10 gallons of gasoline burned in American automobiles are refined there... Only New York, California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan exceed Texas in income ($17,000,000,000 annually). In population Texas has grown nearly 25 per cent since 1950 and now has more than nine million people.

"The state is still more influenced by the Texas Baptists and Methodists than by oil or industry... Citizens of the Lone Star State are retesting from the boastful image often associated with them. Appropriately oil millionaires are leading the retreat.

Texas size is beginning to bow to quality."

Profusely illustrated, the 29-page article touches on Texas liquor laws, ranching, and then majors on a profile of Lyndon B. Johnson, the U. S. Senate's majority leader.

Bank Cashiers At SMU Conference

Jack I. Davis, cashier of the First National Bank, has joined with approximately 300 other banking executives from Texas and 14 other states in two weeks of advanced training.

The special course is being conducted on the campus of Southern Methodist University under auspices of the Southwestern Graduate School of Banking, starting Monday.

During their stay at the school the bankers will attend lectures, participate in case study discussion groups, compete in athletic contests, form musical groups, elect student officers, and even produce their own "musical extravaganza" for the closing banquet on July 31.

Co-sponsored by Southern Methodist University and the Dallas Clearing House Association, the school was founded last summer with an enrollment of nearly 200. Students, who may major either in commercial banking or in trust banking, must attend three summer sessions and submit a thesis before completing the program.

About 180 of the students are returning this year for the second "installment" of their program, while the others are beginning first-year studies. By next summer all three classes will begin meeting simultaneously for the first time.

AF To Get Speedy Jets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — North American Aviation is developing two planes for the Air Force that will fly more than 2,000 miles an hour at 70,000 feet.

The highly secret planes are the B70 Valkyrie bomber and the F108 Rapier interceptor, both powered with jet engines.

The F108 is expected to be ready in the early 1960s, with the B70 due about 18 months later. Both planes will be short winged and will be able to fly their entire missions at top speed, informed sources said.

Leahy's Remains To Lie In Repose

WASHINGTON (AP)—The body of Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, wartime chief of staff to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be placed in repose at Washington National Cathedral on Wednesday.

Leahy died of a brain hemorrhage Monday at the Naval Medical Center in suburban Bethesda, Md. He was 84.

His body will lie in repose at the cathedral for 24 hours. Burial will be at Arlington National Cemetery Thursday afternoon.

Business Girl Has Fine Credo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Here's the credo of Miss Ideal Business Girl, Barbara Ann Bray, 21, of Hollywood. She was chosen Sunday by Alpha Iota, 43,000-member international business sorority, at its annual convention.

"I try to be accurate, stable and well-groomed," says the tall secretary who takes 130 words dictation per minute and types at 60. "I try to be independent enough to take responsibility. When I fail in some way, I try again with more caution and level thinking."

She added that a secretary should never criticize the way an office is managed. "Just do what the boss says."

Iraqi Government Restores Order

CAIRO (AP) — Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's forces have succeeded in restoring order in Kirkuk after fighting between Communists and Turcoman tribesmen, it was reported here today.

The Iraqi government has acknowledged that disturbances broke out in the oil center in northeastern Iraq last Wednesday while the country was celebrating the first anniversary of Kassem's 1958 revolution.

Informants just returned from Baghdad said the Iraqi army still appeared loyal to Kassem, who may be facing an all-out clash with Communist elements in the country.

Miss Universe Contestants

Seventy-eight beauties, all hoping to become Miss Universe, line up at Long Beach, Calif., for the annual panorama photograph. Missing are Helen Savigny, Miss Belgium, who arrived late and Miss Arab Republic, whose whereabouts is a big mystery. Miss U.S.A. will be selected from among the American entrants to compete against the foreign girls for the Miss Universe title.

Date With Miss Turkey? Well, Fellas, It Was This Way...

By PATRICK McNULTY
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — I had a date with Miss Turkey in the Miss Universe contest Monday night.

We went on a moonlight cruise on a yacht, and then had a candlelight dinner overlooking the blinking lights of Alamitos Bay.

Sound romantic?

Well, gather around me, all you bachelors, for this sad story. Miss Turkey has a chapereone. And I don't speak Turkish. Aboard the private yacht were several candidates in the annual international beauty pageant, along with a few reporters and chapereones.

After touring the harbor for about an hour, we settled down for dinner at a waterfront cafe. The chapereone, Inasad Kurkjian, explained that Miss Turkey is learning English at a surprising rate. "Offer her something," the chapereone said. I picked up a plate of hors d'oeuvres.

"Thank you very much," said Miss Turkey, delicately selecting an olive-wrapped anchovy.

"You see," said the chapereone, triumphantly. "Now tell her something in Turkish."

We finally worked out something that sounded like: "Chalk-you-sell." This, Mrs. Kurkjian said, means: "You are very pretty."

"Chalk-you-sell," I said, smiling like Cary Grant over my soft drink.

"Thank you very much," said Miss Turkey, looking my way with the biggest, brownest eyes this side of Istanbul.

My steak arrived. The waitress set down Miss Turkey's entree, believe it or not—turkey.

Scout's honor gentlemen, Miss Turkey had turkey. Mrs. Kurkjian, whose husband, James, is a rug-merchant in Long Beach, explained that Turkish people, who raise few cattle, rarely eat beef.

Miss Turkey, who is 19-year-old Ezel Olcay, looked my way again with those big brown eyes. She pointed to her plate.

"Miss Turkey miss Turkey," she said, apparently nostalgically referring to her native land. "You speak English better than I supposed," I said, again looking over my glass like Cary Grant.

"Thank you very much," said Miss Turkey, lowering her brown eyes.

Where do you go from there? Why, back to the Miss Universe contest headquarters, that's where—and with the chapereone.

Strike Ends

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A 26-day strike in the port of Colombo ended today.

TV Causes Shift In Language Use

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Television, while still in its infancy, is effecting some interesting changes in language usage. As a public service (used in its pre-TV context) we present herewith some old words with new meanings; that is, as far as we can determine. From steady viewing and constant reading of network press releases.

Series — One idea repeated 39 different times by one or more steadily employed actors.

Wonderful — A word used in place of Mr. or Miss before the name of a guest star on a variety show.

Guest star — A performer who couldn't get his own series.

Special added attraction — A performer with a better agent than a guest star's.

Ad lib — Any line on the cue cards misread by a performer.

New (motion picture use) — Seen by 100 million people since it was made in 1932, but never before shown on this channel in this town.

New (commercial) — The package our products comes in has been redesigned.

New (performer) — This actor never has been on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Anthology — A batch of old reruns with a new host.

Host — Any performer who prepares the audience for the station break.

Station-break — A period which seems to last slightly longer than the entertainment and during which it is possible to wash the dinner dishes.

News-in-depth — A show equipped with a voice-of-doom commentator and a bunch of old newsreel clips.

Special news program — A program which results when a network finds it has 3,000 feet of film on a subject, nobody knows much about but which cost so much to get they don't want to throw it away.

Public service show — Any program without a sponsor.

Educational TV — Any program featuring college graduates with good English and a small audience.

Adult entertainment — Any program which includes one damn and two hells.

Writer — A name given to any person behind the cameras for whom no other title can be dreamed up.

Original teleplay — This has been a book, a Broadway play and a movie, but it's never before been done in 30 minutes on TV.

Talented — He does imitations of James Cagney.

Musical Draws Biggest Crowd Of Ft. Worth Season

FORT WORTH (AP) — The biggest opening night crowd of the season filled Casa Manana last night to see "The King and I."

Fort Worth Star Telegram critic Marie Stevenson called it "far and away the best offering so far this summer at Fort Worth's theater-in-the-round."

The throng of spectators was well-packed with dotting parents, grandparents and well-wishers who came to see the 40 local children who portray the Siamese Monarch's offspring.

"The King and I," if the opening attendance is any indication, should rank among the glittering jewels of Casa's summer season.

The role of Anna is played with finesse and sweeping grace by Christina Lind, daughter-in-law of the show's co-author, Oscar Hammerstein II.

William Chapman's thundering portrayal of his majesty makes a skilled counterpoint to Miss Lind's more delicate role.

Chapman thumps across the stage like a big rooster, sings in imperious tones and, all in all, seems quite believable as the monarch of all he surveys.

Larry Marshall, as the prince, has captured enough of Chapman's rich, mature style to make him a believable son. When Marshall sings, he does quite well on his own.

Kirk Jordan, as the son of Anna, is a young actor and singer of delicacy and authority.

As the kings No. 1 wife, Jean Sanders give her big number, "Something Wonderful," a warm and beautiful treatment.

Tree Fall Fatal

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A huge gum tree, uprooted by a storm, toppled over a wooden house on Sydney's outskirts early today and crushed a sleeping couple to death. The tree was 60 feet tall and 14 feet in girth.

Maurice Chevalier Needs No Padding In Dallas Show

By MARSHALL COMERER
DALLAS (AP) — "An Evening With Maurice Chevalier" which opened at the State Fair Musical last night, is a delightful two hours of songs and sketches by the French star.

It is all Chevalier. There are none of the other acts and trimmings, not even a pretty girl, that pad out the personal appearance shows of many big name actors. Chevalier has the talent to make a big auditorium like the Music Hall seem like an intimate supper club and to leave the audience asking for more encores.

He sings "Louise" from the first movie he made in the United States and "Thank Heaven, for Little Girls," from his latest movie, "Gigi." In his own style he does "There's a Rainbow Around My Shoulder," "You Made Me Love You," and "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

He sings French songs, does imitations and burlesques a Parisian's idea of a cowboy.

The sketch he seemed to enjoy most was his impersonation of the kinds of audiences he has played before.

And the sketch the first night audience applauded most en-
