Plenty Of Time

Kenneth Heth, 55, of Dallas works on one of the more than 200 clocks in his collection as his 16-year-old daughter, Susan, watches her dad at his hobby. Heth, a service station manager, became interested in old and unique timepieces when he was stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark., during World War II and passed the evenings with a German prisoner of war and a U. S. officer working on old clocks around the camp. Heth's son, an airline pilot, frequently brings him clocks from other countries.

SUSPECT CONFESSES

12 Burglaries Are Solved By Police

Police detectives cleared up 12 burglaries this morning following the arrest of a Latin American from California Sunday. The man was to be transferred to county authorities today where burglary charges are to be filed. Patrolman Frank Glasscock arrested the Latin American in the east T&P railroad track area Sunday when he noted the man carrying a gun. At the police station, he admitted taking the gun in a burglary of Gallaway's Gun Shop last Wednesday. He also admitted taking a pair of nail clippers and two magazines from a service station the same day in another burglary. Detectives Leo Hull and Jack Jones questioned the man at length this morning and he cleared up 10 more burglaries that have occurred in the city since the latter part of June. Sgt. Hull said most all unsolved burglaries reported to the police have now been cleared from the books. The list of entries the man admitted include the National Supply Co., entered June 26, 80 cents taken from a soft drink machine; the City Warehouse, July 20, soft drink machine entered; Bill Reed's Garage, July 18, $10 taken from soft drink machine; Brookshier Laundry, entered on June 27 and July 11, candy, peanuts taken on both occasions; Jamie's Cafe, July 12, about $45 taken; Jax Distributing Co., entered July 3 and 21, $15.50 missing the first time and 15 cents the second time as well as some beer; Ray's Groceries, July 12, undetermined amount of groceries missing. He also admitted an attempted entry at the Carpet Shop, July 20.

AT COURT HOUSE

65 Taxpayers Ask To See Tax Boards

More than 65 persons had signed to speak to one or both of the boards of tax equalization this morning, and almost one-third of them had been heard by 11 a. m. The county commissioners, who sit as their own board of equalization, and the three-man board representing the city and school district were holding a joint meeting in the court house. One register was being used for both boards. Some of the property owners asked to meet both boards. Also hearing the citizens was Novis Wornack, the appraiser hired by the three agencies. C. E. Johnson Jr., city tax assessor, and J. O. Hagood, school tax collector, were aiding the city school equalization board, which includes Jack Cook, Harold Talbot, and Worth Peeler. Both groups plan to spend Tuesday in the sessions if necessary. At 11 a. m., 68 persons had been heard, and 21 of them had registered. Population Flees ST. BERNARD DES LACS, Que. (AP) — The entire population was ordered today to abandon this small Gaspé village in the face of a raging forest fire. The order was given after the flames destroyed four or five farm buildings on the outskirts of the remote community, 350 miles northeast of Quebec.

Lloyd Sounds Out Gromyko On Berlin Deal

GENEVA (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was reported to have sounded out Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today on whether Russia will make any cut in its terms for a Berlin deal.

Lloyd held a luncheon conference with Gromyko which lasted more than two hours.

As the East-West conference went into its ninth week of negotiations, a crowded schedule of talks also called for strategy consultations among the Western foreign ministers and a Big Four secret session at the end of the day.

When the luncheon at Lloyd's residence ended Gromyko was asked whether there was any progress toward East-West agreement. He replied, pointing to Lloyd, "You had better ask the minister."

Lloyd had no comment.

The United States and France have been reported standing firm against British pressure to cut down on Western terms for a Berlin agreement in order to clear the way for a summit conference.

STILL DETERMINED

Associates said Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is still determined to try to get an agreement from Gromyko to protect West Berlin. He is reported equally determined not to accept any deal which will put a deadline on Allied rights there.

Lloyd, who conferred with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan over the weekend, reportedly believes that limited assurances already offered by Gromyko are the best the West can hope for and should be accepted conditionally.

The condition, British informants said, is that the U.S.S.R. for the time being drop its demand for agreement on direct unification negotiations between the West German and Communist East German governments. All three Western Powers were reported agreed that this price demanded by Gromyko for a stopgap Berlin settlement is completely unacceptable.

Lloyd took the lead today in sounding out Gromyko on the possibility of a change in the Soviet position. He arranged a luncheon meeting with him to be followed by a meeting of the Western Big Three and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

DIFFERENCES TALKED

After returning from London Sunday night Lloyd dined with Herter. Diplomats said the differences within the Western camp undoubtedly were discussed.

The disagreement, centering on the summit conference issue, seemed too deep and persistent to be reconciled quickly.

Lloyd and Macmillan believe a summit meeting sooner or later is inevitable. They would like to get it on the basis of some agreement on Berlin here even though that falls short of what the West is asking.

Herter and President Eisenhower feel it vital to stand absolutely firm in the face of Soviet threats even if there is no summit meeting. They believe the minimum the United States can accept is a Soviet pledge — with no time limit on it — not to take any action to interfere with Western occupation rights in West Berlin. The French view is said to coincide with the American.

Herter indicated an attitude of no further compromise in a speech he made when he visited West Berlin Saturday. He said Western rights in the Communist-surrounded city "are clear and cannot be terminated on the unilateral action of any other power."

"We have not accepted and we will not accept any deadline on them," he said.

Chances Dim For Fast Tax Action By Senate

Closed-Door Steel Strike Talks Resume

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of the strikebound steel industry and the United Steelworkers met today with federal mediators in the first joint negotiation session since the walkout began.

Both sides were mum concerning possible changes in their positions.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, reiterated his warning that no early or easy settlement of the 13-day-old strike appears likely.

Finnegan, who arranged the joint talks last week, said on his arrival from Washington Sunday night: "They can't settle this strike by not talking."

Heading the negotiating teams for today's talks are David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of the United States Steel Corp.

The strike of 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers has shut down plants that produced almost 80 per cent of the nation's steel. The stoppage has idled an estimated 78,000 employees in other industries, with railroads the hardest hit.

The union's demands include a 15-cent-an-hour package increase in each year of a new contract, plus fringe benefits. The industry, rejecting the demands, contends that an increase in labor costs would force a rise in steel prices and thus help spur inflation. The union contends that industry profits and increased productivity make a wage rise possible without a price increase. Prestrike wages averaged $3.10 an hour.

Long Tells Of Tax Trouble

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana rested in this resort city today on the wind-up of a vacation and planned to take some thermal baths. He affably commented on a range of subjects — including an investigation of his income tax by the Internal Revenue Service.

Long said he had been investigated before, a few years ago. "They'll find less this time," he said. "I saw to it that all records and books they could harass me with have been destroyed."

The peppery governor arrived in Arkansas by plane Sunday. He drove from Little Rock and took a top floor hotel suite in this city nestled in the Ouachita Mountains.

Long plans to leave Wednesday for Monroe, La., and a series of meetings with legislators on the special session he has called for Aug. 10.

He said he didn't mind the publicity given him on his Western tour. "It's helped me," Long said. "If anything it's made me a bigger man than I am. I'm glad they jumped on somebody who could stand it."

Strange Channel Flier

Britain's first flying saucer, resembling a futuristic space craft, is shown arriving at Calais, France, by ship for its 2-hour, 3-minute crossing of the English Channel to Dover, England. The hovercraft skimmed the 23-mile flight a foot above the waters on its self-made air cushion. A fan blows air down to support the craft and through ducts to push it. Its inventor, Christopher Cockerell, was at the controls.

Hoffa Says He'll Sue Labor Prober

WASHINGTON (AP) — President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union repeated today that he is going to sue his chief congressional inquisitor, Robert Kennedy, for libel.

Hoffa said he's conferring with Edward Bennett Williams, Teamsters Union general counsel, and other union attorneys on the suit. Kennedy charged last Wednesday night on NBC's Jack Paar television show that Hoffa had betrayed the Teamsters membership and said this could be proved in a court of law.

Hoffa announced Friday his attorneys were working on a libel action against Kennedy, the network, Paar and others connected with the show.

There was a new round when Kennedy and Hoffa were guests Sunday on separate TV shows. Kennedy, appearing Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," said Hoffa had misused union funds, put gangsters on the Teamsters' payroll, made deals secretly with employers, and betrayed union members.

"I would welcome a suit," Kennedy said. "I have made these charges. I feel them strongly, and I think it would be well to submit them to a jury. But if Hoffa is not sustained in his libel action he should resign."

Hoffa himself appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation." Largely he answered a volley of questions about legislation and listed objections to pending labor reform bills which he called punitive rather than corrective.

N. Carolina Road Death Toll High RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — Five persons were killed in one highway accident in North Carolina Sunday, three in another, and two in another. The accidents struck during the state's weekend traffic death toll to at least 20.

In neighboring South Carolina, a two-car crash near Myrtle killed five persons. Col. James R. Smith, commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, said he could pinpoint no specific reason for the highest weekend toll of the year.

Mrs. Nixon said the wives of the three Soviet leaders — Mrs. Khrushchev, Mrs. Anastas I. Mikoyan, and Mrs. Frol R. Kozlov — had agreed that the discussion they heard was "very enlightening."

Twining Returns Following Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Nathan F. Twining returned to duty today as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Air Force general has been away from his desk for 11 weeks. He underwent surgery May 12 for removal of a lung cancer.

Twining told reporters that he felt "better than ever" and then he quipped that "it was a hard way to get a rest."

Twining looked a little thinner and paler than before his operation.

There was one other notable change in his appearance—the absence of the black cigar that used to be habitually in his mouth or between his fingers.

Twining said that he had quit cigar smoking.

Hardeman Sets Hearings On Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Prospects for immediate Senate floor action on the House-passed general tax bill vanished today.

Sen. George Parkhouse, Dallas, demanded and was granted public hearing on the measure by the State Affairs Committee.

By agreement, it was set for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Originally it was set for Wednesday. The action means no floor debate until the hearing is completed.

The House bill emphasizes sales levies. It also includes enough natural gas pipeline principal and revenue to touch off a new battle. The Senate thus far has opposed the pipeline tax but in the last go-around wrote in a natural gas production tax.

The Senate adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow. Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, San Angelo, chairman of the State Affairs Committee, said he did not know if the senators would have a tax bill on the floor then.

La. Gov. Ben Ramsey renamed his Senate conference conferees at the appropriation bill. They are Sens. William Fly, Wardlaw Lane, Ray Roberts, Crawford Martin and Floyd Bradshaw.

Parkhouse said he had been able to get his witnesses here a day earlier than expected. He said he wanted advance public notice on the bill to give new taxpayers under the House bill a chance to protest.

Several local bills were introduced and passed this morning by the Senate. One included setting the date of election of board of directors of the Upper Neches River Municipal Water Authority by December, and creation of the Tarrant County Pantego Water and Sewer District.

Parkhouse said the bill levies a sales tax for the first time on camera equipment, furriers, motor boats, air conditioning and jewelers.

"I don't like that $25 deductible on jewelry. If they are going to have a sales tax they ought not to put in a deductible," he said.

Parkhouse said he also will vote against the bill unless enough money is raised from other sources to operate the state government the next two fiscal years without relying on a severance beneficiary (pipeline) tax.

"There won't be any money coming in for at least a year and a half or more" on the pipeline tax on natural gas, Parkhouse said. "I don't want that to be counted."

The pending tax bill was figured by some sources to be enough to cover spending needs in a $2,415,000,000 appropriations measure on which House and Senate conferees reportedly agreed at the end of the second special session.

The third special session's official spending bill has not been formally sent to conference committee. Each house agreed to the idea, but Speaker Waggoner Carr has not yet named the House members of the joint committee.

The House meanwhile is in recess until 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Members apparently felt it would take the Senate at least that long to debate, approve or reject the revenue bill the House voted last week. The measure was variously estimated to produce some figure between 168 and 180 million dollars for the general revenue fund during the next two fiscal years.

The appropriations bill worked out last session by the joint conferees calls for $311,104,372 from state sources for the two fiscal years starting Sept. 1. The balance of the huge appropriations bill is financed by such other sources as federal aid.

The third special session went into its second full week today. It will end Aug. 15.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Small Business Administration today declared Brazoria, Galveston and Harris counties in Texas disaster areas as a result of damage by hurricane Debra.

Communities in the water and debris-strewn wake of Hurricane Debra surveyed Monday millions of dollars in damages left by the wind, rain and inconvenience of the tropical storm.

Meanwhile another kind of disturbance struck near Kenedy in South Texas. A small tornado hit the Neil community 10 miles west of Kenedy.

The tornado tore down two barns and wrecked four REA power poles. During an accompanying spectacular electrical storm, 3.5 inches of rain fell. Rains 2 to 3.5 inches were general during the night in an area 10 miles wide and 20 miles long to the east of Kenedy.

Debra's path ran from the Gulf Coast chemical and fishing center of Freeport into Southeastern Oklahoma.

She left behind smashed fishing and pleasure boats, flattened and washed-out crops, shattered roofs and windows, felled trees and snarled traffic.

Industrial areas, which expected to catch some of the heaviest damage, escaped destruction.

The hardest blows from the storm which burst with only a few hours warning from the ocean were delivered instead to fleets of boats along the Gulf.

Small boats were swamped, shrimpers were slammed against pilings and other boats and pleasure craft were washed ashore or banged against docks and boat-houses by high and vicious tides.

Among the cities and towns, Freeport apparently suffered the heaviest damage. Mayor Jim Russell said it will total 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 million dollars.

The police chief at LaMarque said damage at that Gulf Coast town will total a million dollars. E. E. Ebard, Harris County deputy sheriff, said an estimated 1,000 small pigs were washed away in the La Porte-Seabrook-Kemah area. Homes also suffered damage.

Garage Collapses

This garage collapsed under the strains of Hurricane Debra's pounding winds and slashing rain as she raged along the Freeport area of the Texas Gulf Coast. Debra left a path of flooded streets and low lands as she fought her way inland only to lose her punch.

Russians Lift Curtain, Let Nixon See Atom Icebreaker

LENINGRAD (AP) — The Russians lifted their secrecy curtain a bit today and let Vice President Richard M. Nixon have an hour-long look at their atomic icebreaker Lenin.

But Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, father of the American atomic submarine and a member of the Nixon party, told newsmen "we are getting the run-around. I want to see the inside."

Nixon and Rickover were given a chance to inspect the prize icebreaker from top to bottom but were kept at long range when it came to the three reactors which are to supply the power.

They were allowed for about two minutes on a catwalk in the reactor room high above the reactors themselves. Rickover said that at that distance no one could see anything, and he requested a closer look.

The reactors were inactive, though the Russians told Nixon they will be running at full power before October.

After inspecting the icebreaker, the vice president told applauding shipyard workers: "We must work together to break the ice."

The vice president and his party flew to this second largest city of the Soviet Union to begin a five-day swing that will take them to parts of western Siberia.

Nixon told an airport crowd he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had many differences in their six-hour talk at Khrushchev's country home Sunday but that they had agreed on one thing — that world differences "must be settled at the conference table and not on the battlefield."

Nixon backed up Rickover in his demands to see more of the atomic icebreaker. In swapping champagne toasts aboard ship, Nixon suggested that Rickover be allowed to make an additional two-hour tour by himself to inspect the reactors.

Turning to Rickover, Nixon said: "You stay and talk to them. You point out my understanding is that you were to see just as much — no more — as Mr. Deputy Premier Kozlov when he visited the United States."

"We think that's a fair exchange. We don't want to do anything that's wrong, only what's fair."

But Soviet authorities balked at granting the request immediately. "I will take the matter up, and something will be decided," the shipyard manager said.

Nixon left Rickover, impatient in the officer's main dining room aboard the ship, waiting for an answer. Rickover made no effort to hide his annoyance.

He told 12 American newsmen allowed to follow Nixon on to the ship that Kozlov had been given far more opportunities to inspect the American atomic merchant ship Savannah and the big atomic power plant at Shippingport, Pa.

"We took Mr. Kozlov right into the reactor room and we answered every question he asked," Rickover said.

Nixon's visit with Khrushchev was capped by a six-hour discussion of East-West differences.

Neither side would say whether the marathon talk had boosted chances of agreement on Berlin's future. But Nixon said the exchange with Khrushchev was helpful "because it provided an opportunity for frank and complete discussions in a calm and objective atmosphere."

The Nixons paid an overnight visit to the Khrushchev's big cream-colored country home, or dacha, in a wooded park about 20 miles outside Moscow. Nixon returned to the U.S. Embassy residence Sunday night and drafted a detailed report on the conversation for President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Vacant Lot Control Will Be Studied By Officials

A proposed ordinance to regulate vacant lots in Big Spring will be one of the problems for consideration of the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday, meeting in regular session at 5:15 p.m. in the Commission Room of the Municipal Building.

Ike Weekend Rest Ends In Capital Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to the White House lawn after a 38-minute flight from Gettysburg.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who also spent the week end at the farm, planned to return later by automobile.

At Presbyterian services in Gettysburg Sunday, Eisenhower and the rest of the congregation joined the pastor in a prayer for those living under the tyranny of oppression and persecution.

The minister, the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill also prayed further for "alleviation of the plight and suffering of so many" so dominated.

The pastor made no specific mention of the President's captive nations proclamation which last week roused the ire of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders. But the minister told newsmen after the service that his prayer was prompted by that proclamation.

Issued in line with a congressional resolution calling for it, the proclamation urged the American people to support the government's stand in favor of freedom and independence for nations "made captive by the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Soviet Communism."

Khrushchev sharply criticized the proclamation in the crackling exchange he had in Moscow last Friday with Vice Premier Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Kremlin leaders. He said he had denounced it earlier as interference in Russia's affairs.

After Sunday's church services, Eisenhower remarked to his press that he had received a report from Nixon on his exchange with Khrushchev. It apparently was not as bitter, the President said, as he had concluded earlier on the basis of newspaper accounts.

After the services the President went to the Gettysburg County Club for his third 18-hole round of golf in as many days. He played with George E. Allen, Washington businessman who has a farm near the Eisenhower country place, and Dick Slichter, the club pro.

Hungry Burglar Is Held In Jail

A Lubbock man is being held in jail in connection with the burglary of Everybody Drive-in on W. 30.

The sheriff's office reported that two cases of beer plus money from a cigarette machine and a pin-ball machine were taken. Deputy Jack Hackney said that a south window was broken out as the burglar entered the building.

After gaining entrance, the burglar ate a meal of eggs, got the keys to the vending machines and took the money from them. A burglary at the Smith Grocery in Knott netted burglars about $6 in change and about $5 in postal stamps. Here, entry was made by breaking the glass out of the front door, Sheriff Miller Harris said.

Little Water Is Being Expended

Water consumption in Big Spring continued at a slow pace over the weekend and usage through July 26 dropped back nearly 73,000 gallons behind last year.

For the three day weekend, Big Springers used 19,300 gallons, 8,000,000 gallons less than June, 1958's, total of 27,328,000 gallons.

For the month to date, residents have opened their faucets to 122,780,000 gallons. Last year at the same time, the city had used 195,646,000 gallons.

Gun-Happy Kid Is Taken In Custody

A juvenile was arrested on the north side of Big Spring this morning for firing a gun in the city limits. Officers said the 15 year old would be released to juvenile authorities.

Apparently the boy wanted to clear the house of his family. He fired a .22 caliber 12 times into the ceiling of his home and officers said the family left the premises.

Delegation Home From Club Survey

Three Big Spring men returned Sunday from a weekend survey of Country Club properties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

With Clyde McMahon, who piloted his own plane, were R. H. Weaver, Country Club president, and J. R. (Bill) Hensley. They spent most time checking the club at McAllen, both as to operation and plans. Weaver said that it was hoped that plans for a new building on the club's new site here could go into the drawing stage soon.

$325 DONATED Air Conditioning Fund Gets Boost

Contributions to the Big Spring State Hospital Air Conditioning fund rose by $325 during the weekend.

Expressing appreciation for these and all others, J. H. Greene, chairman of a special committee, asked that any additional checks be sent to Mrs. Ira Thurman at the state hospital. He said he was heeding his doctor's advice to let up in his schedule of activities. Among the latest donors were Mrs. Sara Driver $25, Eagle Transport Company and R. L. Tollett, $50 each, and Cosden Petroleum Corporation $200.

"I want to express my deep appreciation to all who have given to this worthy project," said Greene, "and to all who have made contact in behalf of it. I wish you could hear the many calls I have received expressing thanks for providing for the comfort and welfare of patients at the hospital."

"Actually, the thanks go to those who have been bighearted enough to give and otherwise help. We have completed the original projects we set out to do, plus one extra, but I wouldn't want anyone to get the impression that we have by any means completed air conditioning the hospital. We've a long way to go on that."

Greene has been chairman of a special committee named by the volunteers advisory council of the Big Spring State Hospital. He expressed appreciation to colleagues on the committee, including Ralph White, E. C. Smith, J. D. Elliott, Mrs. Bob Bright and Jack Y. Smith.

Four Wounded In Knife Brawl

Four Latin Americans were injured and at least six involved in a fight in the 400 block of NW 4th Saturday about midnight. The knife wounds on four of the men were considered serious but not critical.

The injured were Ramon Olivas who police said was stabbed in the left side, Richard Marquez had numerous knife wounds in his right side, Jesse Hernandez had three stab wounds in his right side, and Florentino Diaz Padillo had head lacerations.

Alexander Cevallos and Leon Cevallos were also reported involved in the altercation. Police officers this morning said no charges were pending in the fight unless further developments were uncovered. The injured men indicated they did not know who had actually cut them.

DeVaney's Home From Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. DeVaney, Coahoma, have returned from Salt Lake City, Utah where they participated in a four-day American Farm Bureau Federation party on education.

Approximately 250 delegates from Bureau in the western half of the United States took part in the conference on the campus of the University of Utah. A similar session for the eastern half of the nation had been held in June in Ohio.

Charles V. Schuman, Sullivan, Ill., AFBF president, keynoted the conference. There were speeches from several of the nation's leading educators, and several work shops including: education — for what?; kind of buildings, size of school units, what to teach, who pays, who controls and influences, teachers as keys in quality education, what's new and good.

DeVaney and 23 other Texas delegates will assist in shaping a followup program for Texas. He is a state vice president for the Farm Bureau and head of district No. 6 activities.

Power Mower Lost From Back Of Truck

J. P. Franco told police Saturday he had lost a power mower from his truck — the second time an incident of this kind has occurred in the city during the week.

Delay Called Best Bar To Violence Over Integration

DALLAS (AP) — The school board here said today that each day of delay in integrating Dallas schools lessens the danger of violence.

The argument was one of several advanced in a brief prepared to answer Negroes who demand integration in the coming school year.

The brief declared: "The general tensions of the citizens on both sides of the segregation problem have been and are lessening and mellowing, and the likelihood of strife is becoming less by the day."

The brief was prepared for filing in federal court by Henry Strasburger, school attorney. A group of Negroes has requested a court order integrating Dallas schools in the coming scholastic year. Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson will hear the Negroes' plea Thursday. Strasburger's brief is a reply to the Negroes' petition.

Thousands See U.S. Exhibit

MOSCOW (AP) — Thousands of Soviet citizens again crowded into the U.S. National Exhibition in Sokolniki Park today, and the Soviet press continued its sniping at the exhibit.

The fair has been drawing well over the allotted 50,000 attendance in the opening days, and the scuffling of so many feet already is wearing out the floor of the main building. American engineers were unable to persuade the Soviet contractors to put down more stable concrete.

Americans on the streets frequently are stopped by Russians who ask how they can get tickets. None are on public sale except through public organizations such as unions and factories.

"Naturally everyone wanted to learn more about various aspects of the life of the American people, the latest technical and scientific achievements," said Tass, the official news agency.

"The crowd was thickest at those exhibits which give an idea of the high technological achievements of American workers and engineers. American automobiles are among the main attractions."

Tass said the cars are indeed "fine" but commented that a group of Moscow automobile workers closely questioned guides as to why U.S. manufacturers do not produce cheap midsize automobiles and why they change models every year.

Pair Gets Life In Strangling Of 2 Young Sons

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Wanda Brogdon and her former lover, Archie Merriam, were sentenced to life imprisonment for strangling her two young sons.

The Rockford, Ill. couple were convicted of first-degree murder last Thursday. The same jury fixed their punishment Sunday.

Merriam admitted he strangled Virgil Brogdon Jr., 5, and David, 3, last May 2, but said he did so at their mother's instigation. She denied it.

The prosecution sought death for both Mrs. Brogdon and Merriam. "I had expected to die," Mrs. Brogdon said. "I wanted to be with my boys."

"It's all been a horrible mistake. I loved my sons. It was all his (Merriam's) idea."

Advised that Merriam wanted to see her, the 33-year-old woman shot back: "No, no, I hate him! He deserves to die for this horrible thing."

Mrs. Brogdon came to California with Merriam two weeks before the boys were killed.

Mrs. Nixon Sees Russian Museum On Quick Tour

LENINGRAD (AP)—Mrs. Richard M. Nixon today made a rapid tour through sections of Leningrad's big Hermitage Museum, which houses one of the world's leading collections of European paintings and sculpture.

Going along with her, but having a hard time keeping up as they went through rooms which once were part of the Winter Palace of the czars, was Mrs. Frol R. Kozlov, wife of a Soviet first deputy premier.

Mrs. Kozlov was wearing a lavender dress and medium-heeled white shoes. She had to sit down to rest at one point, but Mrs. Nixon strode rapidly through scores of galleries in her high heeled leather pumps.

She saw some of the large collection of Rembrandts. They are housed in some of the 1,500 exhibit rooms of the museum, said to rank with the Louvre.

However, Mrs. Nixon seemed to take little interest in the paintings, although she was struck by one big portrait of Czar Alexander I on horseback.

The vice president's wife marveled over a wren red and green rug showing figures of reindeer and horses. It was found in 1949 in a burial mound in Siberia and apparently preserved in all its original color from the fifth century B.C.

Mrs. Nixon was not recognized by the general public in her one-hour and 40-minute visit to the renowned museum.

OK, Martians, Let's See You Figure This One

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's a sporting tip for any Martian spies that may be lurking around: Take a look at page 250 of "Space Propulsion," a transcript of hearings recently put out by the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

Oh, it's censored all right; enough to be incomprehensible to mere humans. But the committee left something in — a name and three asterisks on each line, and there are lots of lines. And who knows what a cold, alien intelligence might be able to do with what's left.

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) starts the exchange by asking Dr. Robert I. Strough, "What is the extent of the research and development program of the United Aircraft Corp.?"

As printed, Dr. Strough's reply is:

The transcript continues: "The chairman . . ."

"Dr. Strough . . ."

"The chairman (Charles S. Sheldon II, committee technical director) . . ."

"Dr. Strough . . ."

"The chairman: Thank you very much, doctor."

There's another colloquy, and this one takes up the very subject of caution. The speakers are Brooks, other committee members and Dr. Arthur R. Kantrowitz, director of Avco Research Laboratory.

"The chairman: may I ask you this, doctor — rather agree we are too cautious. I think we are too cautious in . . . program."

"Are you familiar with that?" "Dr. Kantrowitz . . ."

Then we're off on another of those three-asterisk exchanges. This one runs 37 more lines.

Steel Strike At A Glance

By The Associated Press
IDLE — A half-million union steelworkers, on strike for the 13th day against the basic steel industry, plus some 78,000 employees in allied industries.

NEGOTIATIONS — Joint negotiations scheduled for today in New York — the first since the walkout began.

LOSSES — Industry losing an estimated 43 million dollars daily in production; union losing an estimated 10 million daily in wages.

ISSUES — Union seeks a 15-cent hourly annual wage increase and improved fringe benefits. Industry resists any boost in labor costs, contends this would be inflationary.

Congressmen See Nixon Up To Par

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is proving himself a match for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in the opinion of several Congress members.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said Nixon is "making the best of a very difficult and delicate situation" during his visit to Moscow.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky), a former ambassador, said in a separate interview he thinks Nixon has matched Khrushchev in "directness and toughness" in their informal, caustic exchanges.

"Nixon is doing exactly what is needed," Cooper said. "He's talking the only kind of language Khrushchev can understand."

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) said in a statement that Nixon's verbal encounter with Khrushchev was "a superb example of courage and intelligence."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill), the Senate GOP leader, told a television audience he thinks Nixon has helped both himself and the nation by his actions, and added: "Frankly, I'm quite proud of his performance in the Soviet Union."

Nixon and Khrushchev engaged in a series of spirited exchanges as they toured the American National Exposition which Nixon formally opened in Moscow Friday.

The two top officials, who met in a long secret session Sunday told newsmen they considered the Friday exchanges "hard hitting, direct, frank — but not belligerent." They denied any implication either was offended.

Because Nixon is all but an avowed candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, there has been a great deal of speculation in Congress about the political effect of his trip.

The vice president, seemingly caught off base by Khrushchev's original outburst, came back strong in the latter rounds in the firefighting that left diplomats agast at their public exchanges.

The fact that Nixon tried to be polite and circumspect at first but was willing and able to return shot for shot when he found it necessary, was regarded by political friends here as a sign of their favorite's adaptability to any circumstances.

Along that line, Simpson commented that "for once Khrushchev ran up against a man who refused to be intimidated."

Mansfield, who is no Nixon rooter, said he thinks the vice president stands to benefit at home for the way he has conducted himself thus far in a decidedly cool and often hostile atmosphere.

Lyndon Says Successful Bills Based On Ike-Congress Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bills Congress will pass before adjournment will do all that a majority of its members and the President will agree can be done now, says Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Hinting strongly at a willingness to compromise, the Senate Democratic leader said he must see that the Democratic - controlled Senate avoids a legislative deadlock with the Republican Administration.

Congress must do something, Johnson added in a week radio-TV interview, even "we won't do everything that I would like to do."

"I think the people sent us here to do our job rather than to make issues or to play politics," he said.

Johnson said he feels that "the majority leader of the Senate must, in effect, try to be a leader of the Senate and not just the Democratic party."

Johnson expressed his views during a radio-TV program with Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) recorded for Massachusetts and Texas stations.

What does Johnson think about these important issues still before Congress?

Labor regulation: He predicted passage of a good bill.

Housing: He said he expects Democrats to find some area of agreement with President Eisenhower. He made no mention of a possible attempt to override Eisenhower's housing bill veto.

Civil rights: He said he hopes Congress will pass a civil rights measure this session, adding "I think it's very important that we have understanding and we have tolerance, but that we make progress."

Wheat and tobacco: The Senate will not hesitate to take another look at wheat and tobacco control legislation, he said, if Democrats can find common ground with the Republicans on measures to replace the vetoed wheat and tobacco bills.

Veterans' benefits: He predicted eventual approval of a bill the Senate already has passed providing educational and other benefits for veterans who served after the Korean War. The measure in its present form is likely to be vetoed.

Civilian Conservation Corps: He expects action on the Administration - opposed measure which comes before the Senate early this week.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the minority leader, told a reporter he has real hope that a sound program for wheat can be worked out this session. He also said he hoped a civil rights measure eventually will get to the Senate floor.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) said in a recorded radio-TV program he saw no need for a civil rights bill. Any new measure, he said, would serve "to agitate the situation rather than help it."

Police Mull Slapstick Case

CHICAGO (AP)—Police considered today what charges to file against a 17-year-old Texas Army private who led them on a chase that could have come straight from a slapstick movie.

Edwin Julian, Midland, went for a drive yesterday during a stop-over en route to an Aberdeen, Md., assignment. Police said they found the drive objectionable because (1) Julian was driving a stolen car and (2) he was speeding.

Police said the following happened when they tried to stop him: Julian parked the car and leaped over a fence. Julian cleared the fence, but the seat of his pants didn't. The Texan led police up and down alleys for half an hour, then sat down to rest.

Policeman Robert Bennett came upon him and the chase resumed. Julian burst through the back door of the home of Mrs. Helen Burgess. With Bennett in pursuit, the soldier dodged around furniture in the living room, then ran out the front door.

Bennett caught him in front of the house. He was jailed without being charged immediately.

Texas Legion Names Leaders

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Don Peters, a Houston attorney, was installed Sunday as commander of the American Legion, Department of Texas, at the last session of the 41st annual convention. He succeeds Walter Janko, Summerville.

Other new officers include Pete Turner, Midland, judge advocate; J. L. Havill, Lake Jackson, sergeant at arms; J. J. Poinboeuf, Weslaco, chaplain; and Bryan Murphy, Hughes Springs, historian.

Some 200 delegates endorsed a resolution calling on the Legislature to approve a law legalizing bingo and raffles for civic and service clubs, voluntary fire companies and first aid and rescue squads.

They also called on the Legislature to amend the veterans land board law so that a veteran could make more than one application for a loan up to the $7,500 maximum.

The convention also endorsed a veterans pension bill now pending in the Senate.

Localites Are Wed In Lamesa

Wilda Faye Carruth became the bride of Kenneth Gale Pruitt in a double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon in Lamesa at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Carruth, 1510 North 13th.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Owens, Route 1, Big Spring.

The Rev. O. O. Carruth of Wellman, uncle of the bride, officiated for the service, which was attended by friends and relatives from Big Spring, Vincent, Seminole and Lamesa.

White brocade made the street length dress of the bride, whose headress was a white bandeau. A sweetheart neckline was featured in the gown, which was styled along princess lines. Fullness in the skirt was effected by double pleats at the back. On the bolero of brocade, she pinned a corsage of pink carnations. With the new dress she wore a petticoat borrowed from her sister. A blue garter and shoes, designated as the something old, completed wedding tradition.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Ditto of Hobbs, N. M., stood with the couple.

Following the nuptials, the guests gathered with the wedding party at the refreshment table, which was done in white lace over pink. Pink flowers and a pair of white wedding bells crowned the three-tiered cake.

As her going-away costume, the bride chose a tan tweed suit of linen weave, which was adorned with the pink carnation corsage.

The bride will make her home at 305-B Willa, Big Spring, where she is employed in base supply at Webb AFB and he by Gus Oppgard, well servicing.

Pruitt is a graduate of Knott High School; his bride is an alumna of Lamesa High School and attended Howard County Junior College.

Lamesa Tea Is Honor For Bride-Elect

LAMESA — An August bride-elect, Sunny Barrow, was in the honor spotlight at a gift tea Friday afternoon at Woman's Study Club Building.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Mart Barrow, and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. A. E. Hale. Miss Barrow and Bud Hale are to be married Aug. 8.

Mrs. Lex Woodul was at the door, and guests were registered by Beverly Hale. Mrs. Bill Lane and Mrs. John Weaver alternated at the punch bowl, and background music for the tea was furnished by Carol Ann Leavelle and Tawana Boatright.

A bride doll fashioned of carnations stood before an arrangement of aqua carnations to form the conversation piece for the serving table.

Sharing the hostess duties were Mrs. Ross McDonald, Mrs. Will Ford, Mrs. Jim Hardwick, Mrs. Jack Cozzens, Mrs. John Middleton, Mrs. William Fry, Mrs. Lewis Atterbury, Mrs. Holland Kinnison, Mrs. Ben Cason and Mrs. P. A. Nowlin.

Peace costs money

If you think about it, almost everything you treasure in this world depends on peace.

The safety of your loved ones... your freedom as an American... your own hopes for the future. Peace is important to all of them. Peace is your personal concern.

But, you might ask, what can you actually do about peace?

First, remember that peace costs money. Money for military strength and for education.

And money saved by individuals—by people like you—to keep our economy sound.

U. S. Savings Bonds help provide this money. So, with every Bond you buy, you're actually working for peace by helping to strengthen America's Peace Power. And you're building up security for your own future as well.

Today Americans own almost 43 billion dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds. They know a good thing when they see it. How about you? Are you buying as many Bonds as you might?

Cleveland Pleased With Rookie Trio

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Six months ago Jim Perry and Bobby Locke were as widely unknown as Jim Baxes. To suggest that these young men would be largely responsible for boosting Cleveland into the American League lead would have been courting a trip to the booby hatch.

Perry was a good prospect who just had finished a fine season in Class A at Reading, Pa. Locke was in the Army or just getting out. Baxes, packing a little age, was just another infielder in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

Because Perry shut out Washington with two hits 9-0 and Baxes singled home the winning run in the 12th inning for a 4-3 victory in the second game on Sunday, the Indians are back on top in the American League. Locke pitched 11 of the 12 innings before giving way to a pinch hitter and Mucedat Grant, a 1958 rookie, picked up the decision.

Perry has all the earmarks of a real find for the Indians. Although his two-hitter was only his second start, it was his sixth victory. The fireballer from Jamestown, N.C. has been brilliant on relief. A pair of home runs by Woodie Held, who had four hits, eased his way.

Locke's effort was outstanding for a 25-year-old right-hander who was sent back to the minors from the Tucson, Ariz. spring training camp. He gave up only six hits in 11 innings.

Baxes, a 30-year-old "rookie", broke up that 12 inning game with a single off Pete Ramos after Minnie Minozo doubled.

Baltimore dropped Chicago a half game behind Cleveland by winning the second game 4-0 on a combination of Milt Pappas' five-hit pitching and the hitting of Gene Woodling. The veteran outfielder had a three-run homer and drove in another run with a single. Chicago won the opener on Early Wynn's two-hitter, 4-1, and Al Smith's three-run inside-the-park home run.

Detroit dropped the New York Yankees nine games off the pace with a 1-0 victory behind Frank Lary, who has a career record of 20-5 against the Yanks. Neil Chrissy, who had one hit in 21 previous pinch-hitting appearances, lined a 10th inning pinch single off Ryno Duren for the only run.

Kansas City ran its winning streak to seven, the longest for the club since it moved from Philadelphia, by thumping Boston 5-4. It was the Red Sox' ninth straight defeat.

The second game at Cleveland was a toughie for Ramos. The Cuban gave up a three-run homer to Rocky Colavito (No. 30) in the first and then blanked the Indians for 10 innings. Baxes' winning single came with two out in the 12th.

Pappas' shutout that knocked Chicago out of first place was his third of the year and his 11th victory. Like Wynn in the opener, Pappas was in charge all the way.

Nothing Right-- Just Wins, Hits

LOS ANGELES (AP)— If he threw a perfect no-hitter, or maybe a 25-inning shutout, Don Drysdale might admit under torture that he had a reasonable good day.

But as has been his custom after most of his 13 victories this season, the long, lean Los Angeles right-hander would make no such admission Sunday following a 8-2 win over St. Louis. The victory left the Dodgers 1 1/2 games back of first-place San Francisco.

Drysdale, who drove in three runs with a homer and a single, said in the dressing room:

"I just didn't have real good stuff. This wasn't one of my best. It was really hot out there, but fortunately I didn't tire too much." Drysdale did give up seven hits, one a two-run homer by George Crowe, and he struck out only five, which is below his normal rate. But he leads the majors with 159 strikeouts.

Drysdale has allowed an average of only 1.48 runs per game since June 15. He has won five in a row and eight of his last nine decisions. On the season he's 13-6.

The big blond, who won 12 and lost 13 last year, undoubtedly is thinking about a 20-game season. But he won't admit it.

"The big blond, who won 12 and lost 13 last year, undoubtedly is thinking about a 20-game season. But he won't admit it."

"It's like putting your hand in a mouse trap."

Schmidt And Brown Take East Texas Tennis Titles

TYLER (AP)—James Schmidt of Beaumont and Virginia Brown of Dallas held top championships of the East Texas Open Tennis Tournament.

Schmidt, rated No. 1 in Texas, beat Weston Wolf of Odessa 7-5, 6-1 Sunday for the men's singles title.

Miss Brown defeated Jane Carroll of Lake Jackson 6-4, 6-3 for the women's singles championship.

Miss Carroll was a heavy winner in the junior division. She won the singles title by beating

Mary Ann Blanchard of Shreveport 6-0, 6-1, and teamed with Carol Haines of Dallas to defeat Sandra Matthews and Billie Domingue of Port Arthur 6-1, 6-2 for the girls doubles crown.

Barbara Porter and Tommie Domingue of Port Arthur won the women's doubles, defeating Miss Brown and Raye Holt of Dallas 6-1, 6-2.

James Schulze of Greenville and Bill Lust of Tyler won the men's doubles, downing Jack Turpin and Walton Miller, both of Dallas, 6-4, 6-2.

Schmidt and Miss Brown won the mixed doubles title by default.

In a match played at Dallas because of heavy rains here, John McMurrin of Dallas beat Charles Gaillard of Dallas 6-4, 6-0 for the senior men's singles championship.

Jerry Walters of Baytown won the junior boys singles, beating Jerry Geyman of Wichita Falls 6-0, 6-3.

Boatler Cosden Clings To Lead

Boatler-Cosden picked off a 3-1 win from Dibrell's in Classic Couples bowling action last week and held firm to the top position.

Dibrell's had the high team game and series, a 666 and 1967. Vera Dozier's 189 and Sugar Brown's 501 were the high game and series for the women.

T. K. Price brought in a 223 high game for the men while Earl Minton supplied the top series, 580.

Two games are on tap for tonight, one at the American League park and the other in the International League stadium. Both contests are down for 7:30.

The Americans take on the National League All-Stars in the American Park while the Internationals play host to the Texas League team.

The winners will then meet on neutral ground Tuesday night for the minor league championship.

The top performers of each league were named to play in the contests.

Tigers And Odessa Divide Twin Bill

The Big Spring Tigers and Odessa split a doubleheader here Sunday afternoon, the local team getting a 7-1 victory in the first match and absorbing a 10-4 pasting in the second game.

Chubby Moser limited the Odessa All-Stars to a half-dozen hits in the opener. The former high school ace here fanned seven men, issued five bases on balls and was tagged for only one extra base — a double.

Loser Jesus Castello whiffed three Tigers and walked six before giving over to Roy Marin, his relief.

The Tigers scored their first run in the second inning but exploded for three in the third when Marion Tredaway slapped a home run with two aboard.

In the second game, Danny Valdes was saddled with the loss while Marin got the win for Odessa. Tigers had 11 hits while the Odessa shovels scored three runs in the third and Tredaway came back with another homer, with no one on, Jackie Thomas hit a homer in the third, too, but it also was a solo shot.

Tredaway put on a one-man show for Big Spring, getting his second and third home runs in the afternoon to keep the Tigers in contention after Odessa had scored four runs in the first inning for an early lead.

His first round-trip slug scored two runs in the first inning to reduce the Odessa lead to 4-2. Odessa shovels across three runs in the third and Tredaway came back with another homer, with no one on, Jackie Thomas hit a homer in the third, too, but it also was a solo shot.

Abel Houston, who coached the Brownwood High School Lions in the football playoffs against Big Spring in 1953, is now the Personnel Director of the City of Waco.

Buddy Brannum, who teamed with Doug Higgins to finish first in the recent Odessa Pro-Am Golf tournament, must have been playing at his all-time best at the time.

Buddy captained the visiting team in the Hall and Bennett trophy matches here last fall and guided his octet to a resounding 10 1/2-4 1/2 victory over the home forces but he's never fared well in the Big Spring Invitational tournament since.

Brannum wasn't able to play in the 1958 tournament. The year before, he had been fanned out by Jerry Scott in the second round, 2 up.

After he had won the National Clay Courts tennis championship for the second year in a row recently, Bernard (Tut) Bartzten of San Angelo came in for some high words of praise from Perry Jones, the 17-year-old U. S. Davis Cup captain.

"That Bartzten is really something to watch," Jones was quoted as saying. "His control of the ball is miraculous."

Tut played no fewer than 99 games the day he beat Whitney Reed for the Clay Court crown, having later teamed with Grant Golden of Chicago to win the doubles championship.

Bartzten has always had trouble playing on grass but Jones wants to give him a liberal chance to make the next Davis Cup team.

Tut is probably the best tennis player Texas has produced since Wilmer Allison. Sammy Giannalva looked capable of blowing all opposition off the court at one time but he never realized his potential and finally turned pro.

Casey Stengel, manager of the American League All-Stars, has told intimates he wants Camilo Pascual, the ex Big Springer now with Washington, on his team, which plays a return game against the Nationals in Los Angeles next month.

Al Lopez, the Chicago field skipper, says Pascual has the best curve ball in the American League.

Dr. C. W. Deats, who has taken part in several Grand American Trapshooting Tournaments at Vandalia, Ohio, in recent years, says he probably won't make the trip this summer. The giant show begins Aug. 21 and extends through Aug. 29.

In the past, Deats has been combining a trip to the Grand American with a visit with his son, Rev. Richard Deats and family. Richard had been attending Boston University. The younger Deats and his family are now doing missionary work in Manila, however.

Four Straight Send Braves Back Into Flag Contention

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

No Milwaukee burgher is hanging Fred Haney in effigy today. Nobody is whispering that Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette are over the hill. The Braves are up and at 'em again with a four-game winning streak.

Trailing the league-leading San Francisco Giants by only two games after a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee seems to have snapped out of its midsummer slump.

Spahn's emphatic five-hitter in the 4-0 opener was the Braves' third straight shutout.

One unearned run in the fourth inning of the second game finally snapped a string of 30 2-3 scoreless innings for Pittsburgh but it didn't help much. They still lost 2-1 to Bob Buhl, making his first start since June 19 after a seizure of arm trouble.

Spahn's 13th victory, the 259th of his long career, was impressive. Buhl tired after seven innings and Don McMahon finished up with two hitless innings.

The Milwaukee attack still spluttered and stalled. They had only six hits in the opener while handing Bob Friend his 13th defeat. One was Johnny Logan's 12th homer. They had only five hits in the second but one was Joe Adcock's 11th homer.

Bob Anderson pulled San Francisco back a little closer to the pack as he pitched the Chicago Cubs into fourth place with a 7-3 victory. The Giants' defeat and Los Angeles' 8-2 decision over St. Louis sliced San Francisco's lead to 1 1/2 games.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak in the first game 4-2 but Gene Conley got the Phils an even break with a 6-3 triumph in the second game when Jackie Ashburn led a 14-hit Phil attack.

Anderson grew stronger as the game progressed at San Francisco while the Cubs knocked out Mike McCormick in the fifth. Ernie Banks' 27th homer with Art Schult on base helped Chicago get off to an early lead. Willie Mays hit No. 17 for the Giants.

Don Drysdale drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and led St. Louis to seven hits while winning his 13th for the Dodgers. The smallest Sunday crowd of the year at the Coliseum, 14,453, saw the Dodgers break out of a hitting slump with 15 hits including homers by Drysdale and Charlie Neal.

Brooks Lawrence, taking over after Don Newcombe left because of a leg injury, beat Robin Roberts in the first game at Cincinnati. Ashburn's four singles in five trips helped hang a fourth defeat on rookie Jim O'Toole.

Short has been assistant coach at Lamesa High School for three years. This summer he has worked at the city-owned North Swimming Pool and has been in charge of Red Cross swimming instruction for two months. During this time he issued 12 senior life saving certificates, 14 swimmer certificates, 11 water safety certificates, 42 beginner cards and 40 intermediate cards.

Willie DuBose, a Baylor University student, will take over management of the pool for August.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak in the first game 4-2 but Gene Conley got the Phils an even break with a 6-3 triumph in the second game when Jackie Ashburn led a 14-hit Phil attack.

Anderson grew stronger as the game progressed at San Francisco while the Cubs knocked out Mike McCormick in the fifth. Ernie Banks' 27th homer with Art Schult on base helped Chicago get off to an early lead. Willie Mays hit No. 17 for the Giants.

Don Drysdale drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single and led St. Louis to seven hits while winning his 13th for the Dodgers. The smallest Sunday crowd of the year at the Coliseum, 14,453, saw the Dodgers break out of a hitting slump with 15 hits including homers by Drysdale and Charlie Neal.

Brooks Lawrence, taking over after Don Newcombe left because of a leg injury, beat Robin Roberts in the first game at Cincinnati. Ashburn's four singles in five trips helped hang a fourth defeat on rookie Jim O'Toole.

Short has been assistant coach at Lamesa High School for three years. This summer he has worked at the city-owned North Swimming Pool and has been in charge of Red Cross swimming instruction for two months. During this time he issued 12 senior life saving certificates, 14 swimmer certificates, 11 water safety certificates, 42 beginner cards and 40 intermediate cards.

Willie DuBose, a Baylor University student, will take over management of the pool for August.

Francisco Giants by only two games after a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee seems to have snapped out of its midsummer slump.

Spahn's emphatic five-hitter in the 4-0 opener was the Braves' third straight shutout.

One unearned run in the fourth inning of the second game finally snapped a string of 30 2-3 scoreless innings for Pittsburgh but it didn't help much. They still lost 2-1 to Bob Buhl, making his first start since June 19 after a seizure of arm trouble.

Spahn's 13th victory, the 259th of his long career, was impressive. Buhl tired after seven innings and Don McMahon finished up with two hitless innings.

The Milwaukee attack still spluttered and stalled. They had only six hits in the opener while handing Bob Friend his 13th defeat. One was Johnny Logan's 12th homer. They had only five hits in the second but one was Joe Adcock's 11th homer.

Bob Anderson pulled San Francisco back a little closer to the pack as he pitched the Chicago Cubs into fourth place with a 7-3 victory. The Giants' defeat and Los Angeles' 8-2 decision over St. Louis sliced San Francisco's lead to 1 1/2 games.

Cincinnati snapped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak in the first game 4-2 but Gene Conley got the Phils an even break with a 6-3 triumph in the second game when Jackie Ashburn led a 14-hit Phil attack.

Warming Up

Fidel Castro, wearing a baseball uniform, takes warm-up pitches before the start of an exhibition game in Havana. The Cuban strong man pitched one inning of the game which was played as a benefit for Cuba's agrarian reform program. Castro wears the uniform of the "Barbudos" army team, meaning "Bearded Ones." A crowd of 25,000 watched him retire the opposing police team in order.

Castro Warns U.S. Not To Get In His Way

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro, swept back into the Cuban premiership as expected, by an enormous popular demonstration served notices Sunday night he will be friends with the United States only if the United States does not get in his way.

The spectacular crowd estimated at nearly a million cheered wildly as he told them he would bow to "the will of the people" and resume office. The demonstration again underscored that the bearded, 32-year-old revolutionary leader is Cuba's strong man.

The vast sea of humanity set up reverberating cheers as Castro by implication told off critics in the United States.

He asserted that Cuba is not a protectorate or colony of any other country but a free sovereign nation and "we have to account to no one."

Castro said Cuba wants to be friends with all nations but can not be with those "who offend us, who insult us and who exploit us" nor with any vested interest which tries to "impose itself on the destiny of our people."

NO NAMES CALLED

But in 2½ hours of talk, Castro failed to mention communism by name at all. He referred to it only obliquely, when hitting at his critics, but apparently did not feel it necessary to deny their influence his government.

Uptown Havana's vast Civic Plaza was packed with the shouting, cheering throng. Castro told it emotionally that from now on the "symbol of our revolution will be the machete," the long, sharp knife used for cutting sugar cane. The announcement provoked furious response during which some 400,000 campesinos — farmers — brought from the provinces to swell the demonstration clashed their machetes in unison to add to the general uproar.

Castro whipped up another ovation when he added that if his enemies should ever think of coming back to Cuba "let them contemplate for just about five minutes those machetes."

Castro made it clear that such mammoth demonstrations will be held whenever it is considered necessary to demonstrate popular support for his policies. That of Sunday, officially celebrating the anniversary of his 26th of July revolutionary movement, was called originally to demonstrate support for his land redistribution program.

"WILL OF THE PEOPLE"
Castro claimed it was only the will of the people that persuaded him to resume the premiership he left nine days ago to force the resignation of provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

The first announcement of his return to office came from President Osvaldo Dorticos, Urrutia's successor. It set off a wild, jubilant ovation, with the campesinos joyously throwing straw hats into the air.

Enormous showmanship went into making the rally the spectacular thing it was. Gymnastics included the release of a thousand doves as Castro made his appearance and release of hundreds of red, white and blue balloons trailing the black and red colors of the 26th of July movement.

Planes and helicopters zoomed low overhead dropping small, multicolored parachutes containing candy.

Before the speech, a Cabinet minister presented Castro with evidence of recovery on 20 million dollars in cash and 51 million dollars worth of property from collaborators of Batista.

Half a dozen persons died here and elsewhere in the nation.

The Rochester, N.Y., Red Wings of International League refused to take the field for their scheduled Sunday contest with the Cuban Sugar Kings as a precaution against shooting. Spent bullets which hit a player of each team broke up their Saturday game in a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning.

Beacon Back In Operation Again

This airport beacon now graces the scene at the Howard County Airport. Formerly it was a part of the CAA air route marking system and was in service north of Wink. When the county began plans to build a new airport, the CAA told the commissioners they could have the beacon if they would go get it and transport it to Big Spring. For more than two and a half years, it lay dismantled at the county warehouse. Last week it was put up at the airport and will flash identification of the port to passing planes hereafter.

Blue Law Foe Uses Enforcement Plan

BRISTOL, Pa. (AP) — "There's more than one way to skin a cat," figured Justice of the Peace Earl B. Dougherty. That, he said, is the theory he applied Sunday to Pennsylvania's Sunday blue laws.

Dougherty spent the day driving through Bucks County, just north of Philadelphia, handing out 159 conviction-on-sight notices. The recipients included actress Peggy Cass, two toll booth collectors, a radio announcer, numerous plant guards, a druggist, a newspaper, and the reporters and photographers following him.

"I'm actually against the Sunday blue laws," Dougherty said. "They're chaotic and outmoded and if they were strictly enforced, they would strangle Pennsylvania's entire economy."

"I'm a justice of the peace and it's my duty to enforce the law. So I did."

He reached the Bristol Playhouse, a summer theater, during the first act intermission and asked to see Miss Cass.

"Are you workday employed?" he asked, after introducing himself.

"Yes," said Miss Cass.

"Are you being paid?"

"Yes."

"I hereby convict you on view for violation of the Sunday blue laws." He handed her a notice.

"Why I've never won a thing, and I'd rather not win this," the actress joked.

But, like the others, she must, according to the notice, appear today before Dougherty and pay a $4 fine plus $9 costs.

The same thing happened at the Levittown Times, where employees were working on the weekly paper, and at WBCB, Levittown, where announcer Mike Mayo allowed him to state his question on the air.

Then there was a taxicab driver, a Bell Telephone Co. maintenance man, bowling alley and golf driving range operators, and a variety of merchants and guards at a half-dozen factories, including a Radio Corp. of America plant and the struck Fairless works of U.S. Steel Corp.

Dougherty said he wanted to serve the workers in some of the plants, but he couldn't get by the guards.

Two toll collectors at an interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike referred the notices to higher-ups. A spokesman said the Turnpike Commission's legal department was studying the case, but the commission felt the turnpike is a necessary function.

"The toll collectors are being paid, aren't they?" said Dougherty. "They're worldly employed, and that is prohibited by the blue laws."

Dougherty's tour came at a time when the State House is considering a Senate-passed bill increasing the fine for violating the 1794 blue laws to $100 for the first offense and $200 for each subsequent offense. The purpose is to discourage merchants who consider the $4 fine a business expense.

For years, the blue laws were almost never enforced, but two years ago a department store objected to a nearby discount house doing business on Sunday. Since then arrests have been made throughout the state.

Dougherty conducted a similar tour last Sunday, issuing 66 conviction notices. This brought criticism from Dist. Atty. Paul Beckert of Bucks County. Beckert pointed out that Dougherty is allowed to keep the $9 costs.

"All you have to do is multiply 66 by $9 costs and you have $594," Beckert said. "That's a good morning or afternoon's work."

Dougherty said the fees are only a "by-product" of what he is trying to do and not the real issue at all.

U.S. Apparently Snatches Victory In Iceland Battle

By THOMAS A. REEDY
REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The United States appears to have won the battle of Iceland, nearly lost three years ago to nationalists teamed with Communists.

In 1956 the theme was "Ami, Go Home", the Communist cry.

In 1959, the coin has been turned completely over. The Communists have been repudiated. The Iceland has concluded his destiny lies with the United States.

Talk of closing out the NATO early warning base at Keflavik has halted completely.

Criticism of the Americans is confined to the Red camp.

A survey among Icelanders indicates a feeling that the once attractive appeal of the Communists — Iceland for the Icelanders — has been exposed as a fraud.

Hungary shocked the Icelanders. Red China's conduct in Tibet furnished the nail for the Communist coffin.

This is the opinion of the prime minister, Emil Jonsson, and also of opposition leaders.

The man on the streets of this tiny nation (160,000) will tell you the same. The Viking came here to escape oppression in Norway and Denmark. He became fairly safe from it to the point where he believed "It can't happen here". Now, he believes it can happen without the backing of Uncle Sam.

A constitutional amendment is reshaping the Althing, the parliament established a thousand years ago in 930. Seats go up from 52 to 60.

What happens, according to Wjarni Gudmundsson, the Foreign Office spokesman, is that the base is broadened. Seats which once represented as few as 300 or 400 votes are eliminated.

The Independence Party, which averages 42 per cent of the total vote, will have 27 seats instead of its present 20. This is the party of dynamic Olafur Thors which defended the NATO base and the American position. Thors is still not strong enough to go it alone. But the forecast is that the Independents will team with Prime Minister Jonsson's Social Democrats, who will have six seats, for a clear majority and control.

In the new Althing the Reds will have seven seats but no one to team up with.

Salesman's Trip Ends Hunt For Missing Stricken Boy

DALLAS (AP)—Because a Port Arthur salesman came to Dallas Sunday, the search for a partially-blind, almost-deaf boy has ended.

But in many ways, the ordeal for the parents and foster parents of the youth nicknamed "Johnny Smokey" has only begun.

Johnny is Simon Reyes Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Reyes, Dallas. He left home Sept. 13, presumably to visit his grandparents in Bryan.

When Orange police picked him up four weeks later in the railroad yards there, he was clad in half-rotten clothes and doctors said he was starving.

Officers were unable to tell who he was or where he came from.

Then Bill Ridings, a salesman for Bell Chemical Co., heard of the boy.

"We took him home, gave him a bath and some clean clothes," Mrs. Ridings said. "The first night he wouldn't even take them off." Mental and physical tests at a Houston clinic showed:

Mentality of a 12-16 year old child, 30 per cent hearing in one ear, none in the other; congenital cataracts that left his vision equivalent to peering through a key hole, and a speech defect.

Declared a ward of the state, Johnny began classes at the special education division of South Park High School in Beaumont. He spent weekends and vacations with the Ridings.

The Ridings and Johnny drove into Dallas yesterday, en route home from a business trip.

"Johnny" began waving his arms and saying, "Daddy, Daddy."

They drove to the police station where a check of files by juvenile officers turned up a missing persons report on Johnny.

The Reyes came to the station, where both sets of "parents" talked over what would be best for Johnny.

The Reyes family planned to decide today whether to keep him here or allow the Ridings couple to return the boy to Beaumont.

A Devotional For Today

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me. (Matthew 11:29.)

PRAYER: O Lord, help us to free our minds from prejudice and our hearts from hatred. Teach us to use Thy truth as it is made known unto us, and understand Thy love as Christ has revealed it. Set us free from fear and sin, for perfect love casts out fear and wrong. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Bring Back La Grippe

In the August Harper's magazine Elaine Kendall, under the heading "No Fun to Be Sick Any More," suggests that the advertising geniuses of Madison Avenue start a campaign to "bring back grippe."

People used to get la grippe—quite often, she hints, as a means of gaining a few days' rest from household chores or the deadly routine of office hours. It was a respectable excuse, it had status, and "no apologies were necessary."

"A kindly doctor—of a type as extinct as spats—came to call," writes Elaine Kendall. "These doctors are collectors' items today—Life gives them four-page spreads and treats them in historic perspective, like the mastodon." His office was "uncomfortable and tastelessly decorated." But when he came to call at your pain-racked bedside—at home, of course—he was apt to phrase his diagnosis in these words:

"Chicken soup. Hot toddies. Rest and quiet. Aspirin. Keep the children out. Call me in a day or two."

With this kind of approach, the lady writer avers, "the whole lost generation emerged bright-eyed and rosy-kneed, with a provocative hushiness in the voice to indicate that they had just been released by La Grippe."

Today, she goes on in effect, getting in contact with your doctor is a production, a rigmorle involving electronics, mechanical doodads to record telephone calls, and quite a bit of sheer luck.

An exaggeration, of course; but the old days are far spent and new order cometh. If today's practitioner is hard to locate and seems to surround himself with devices intended to provide a little peace and quiet now and then, it is hardly surprising.

For we are not the same kind of patients our fathers and mothers were. We demand more. We get scared too easily. We are confronted with a whole array of diseases and disorders our grandpas and grandmas never heard tell of, and new ones are showing up almost every day.

They called in a doctor in cases of la grippe and other "minor" ailments only "in extremis."

It's different now. We demand service. We want attention pronto. The slightest sign of trouble and we reach for the telephone. We have become extremely health-conscious, which isn't a bad idea per se but we sometimes wonder if the advent of health and hospital insurance doesn't have something to do with it. We are a suggestible generation. We are threatened with wholesale hypochondria.

Diplomacy Changes Its Garb

The jet airliner bearing a score or more U. S. press representatives to Moscow to cover the Soviet Union visit of Vice President Richard Nixon made the trip in four minutes less than nine hours—a new east-west record.

Yet we have bombers now preening their wings that could make the journey in three hours or less. And one or more ballistic missiles are now developing could do it in a matter of minutes.

So, this is the world we live in: but our approach to the settlement of little and big world crises, in spite of our inventiveness in every other field you could mention, has changed but little since the days of the ox-cart and the spinning wheel. Diplomacy has put aside spats, striped pants, cutaway coats, monocles and most of the traditional gimcrackery of the trade, but in spite of the United Nations, the World Court and a multitude of international schemes calling for cooperation, grave issues involving war and peace still are largely matters for high-level, mouth-to-ear management.

Surely one man, Khrushchev, speaks for the Soviet Union and for world communism. Our side—the free world—is handicapped by a multitude of voices all talking at once, disagreeing sharply on issues and procedures.

Mr. Nixon is barking up the right tree, all right, but we doubt if the varmint is impressed.

David Lawrence Our Concern For Captive Nations

WASHINGTON — Nikita Khrushchev has unwittingly contributed to his own spectacular defeat in the court of public opinion throughout the world. The resolution passed by Congress and the President's proclamation in answer thereto, designating the third week in July as "Captive Nations Week," but, thanks to the Soviet Premier, the proclamation now has been publicized everywhere. He has denounced it and has thereby opened up a debate as to whether the satellite nations are "captive" and "enslaved."

The Soviet autocrat says that only the "capitalist" countries are "enslaved," but he ignores the fact that free elections are not held anywhere behind the Iron Curtain and that only governmental rulers handpicked by the Kremlin are in office, while the dissenters are dead or in jail.

Small wonder the resolution, which passed by overwhelming vote of both parties in the Senate and House earlier this month, got under Khrushchev's skin. It was the boldest, most forthright statement issued in a long time concerning the fate of the "captive" nations. It is reminiscent of the phrases used in the crusade begun by the late John Foster Dulles in 1952, when he called for the peaceful "liberation" of the satellite states in Eastern Europe. It is in line with the traditional policies of the United States for decades past which have expressed sympathy with the aspirations of oppressed peoples.

The language of the resolution passed by Congress constitutes the most severe indictment of Soviet imperialism that has been proclaimed in a long time by any country of the West. The full text follows: "WHEREAS the greatness of the United States is in large part attributable to its having been able, through the democratic process, to achieve a harmonious national unity of its people, even though they stem from the most diverse of racial, religious, and ethnic backgrounds; and "WHEREAS this harmonious unification of the diverse elements of our free society has led the people of the United States to possess a warm understanding and sympathy for the aspirations of peoples everywhere and to recognize the natural interdependency of the peoples and nations of the world; and

"WHEREAS the enslavement of a substantial part of the world's population by Communist imperialism makes a mockery of the idea of peaceful coexistence between nations and constitutes a detriment to the natural bonds of understanding between the people of the United States and other peoples; and

"WHEREAS since 1918 the imperialistic and aggressive policies of Russian communism have resulted in the creation of a vast empire which poses a dire threat to the security of the United States and of all the free peoples of the world; and

"WHEREAS the imperialistic policies of Communist Russia have led, through direct and indirect aggression, to the subjugation of the national independence of Poland, Hungary, Lithuania, Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Estonia, White Ruthenia, Rumania, East Germany, Bulgaria, Mainland China, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, North Korea, Albania, Idel-Ural, Tibet, Cossackia, Turkestan, North Vietnam, and others; and

"WHEREAS these submerged nations look to the United States, as the citadel of human freedom, for leadership in bringing about their liberation and independence and in restoring to them the enjoyment of their Christian, Jewish, Moslem, Buddhist, or other religious freedom, and of their individual liberties; and

"WHEREAS it is vital to the national security of the United States that the part of the peoples of these conquered nations should be steadfastly kept alive; and

"WHEREAS the desire for liberty and independence by the overwhelming majority of the people of these submerged nations constitutes a powerful deterrent to war and one of the best hopes for a just and lasting peace; and

"WHEREAS it is fitting that we clearly manifest to such peoples through an appropriate and official means the historic fact that the people of the United States share with them their aspirations for the recovery of their freedom and independence; now, therefore, be it

"RESOLVED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President of the United States is authorized and requested to issue a proclamation designating the third week in July 1959 as 'Captive Nations Week' and inviting the people of the United States to observe such week with appropriate ceremonies and activities. The President is further authorized as requested to issue a similar proclamation each year until such time as freedom and independence shall have been achieved for all the captive nations of the world."

The President in his proclamation repeated the phrases of the resolution and formally called on the American people to observe the week "with appropriate ceremonies and activities," and he urged people everywhere "to study the plight of the Soviet-dominated nations and to recommit themselves to the support of the just aspirations of the peoples of those captive nations."

Khrushchev insists now that all this is a "direct interference in the Soviet Union's internal affairs," and that it interferes with the possibility of "improving relations between the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R." But the truth is that as long as autocracy prevails anywhere, the world cannot be a safe place for free peoples. (Copyright 1959, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Quite A Load To Dump On Him

James Marlow Nixon-K. Argument Just For Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public argument between Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have given diplomats a shock but it didn't amount to much except perhaps to help both men politically at home.

They agreed Sunday their fast set-to at the American fair in Moscow Friday was just frank and hardhitting but not belligerent. It was almost like calling the whole thing good, clean fun.

All they did was hit each other over the head with propaganda where it could get the most mil-ed in their private talks, of which they have had several.

To professional diplomats, used to washing dirty international linen out of sight and with polite palaver, the spectacle of these two high government officials stepping on each other's toes may have seemed clumsy.

But the United States and the Soviet Union both have been clumsy in the way they have handled Nixon's visit. Nixon's own government put him under a hand-

There is small excuse — except on the ground of thoughtlessness — for the fact that Congress and the Eisenhower administration combined to declare last week Captive Nations Week. This was a deliberate, anti-Communist slam, intended to remind the satellite peoples this country hadn't forgotten them.

What was forgotten was that last week was also the week Nixon was to arrive in the Soviet Union and that the Russians might—as they did—take out their irritation on Nixon.

But if this was clumsy, the Soviets looked over more gawking. They were incredibly clumsy.

They provided the world with living evidence of Nixon's suggestion to Khrushchev that the Soviets are afraid of ideas. Khrushchev's rejoinder — "we are telling you not to be afraid of ideas" — looked ridiculous in view of events.

The Soviets insisted that more than 100 books — including the World Almanac — be taken off the shelves of the American book exhibit at Moscow.

On top of this the Soviets scrambled up the news coverage of Nixon's trip with censorship — a fact that was duly noted in the American press whose dispatches from its reporters in Moscow were delayed or chopped up.

But, while ideas unquestionably have more freedom in this country, there should be a slight pause before crowing.

It was only six years ago that the State Department — under the prodding of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) — went in for some book-burning among volumes on the shelves of this government's overseas libraries.

Nixon's ordeal in Latin America last year — when, because of anti-American feeling, he had to endure spit and stones — did him political good. It created great sympathy for him and appreciation for sturdiness in an ordeal.

Now his slug-fest with Khrushchev should do him political good here. Many Americans, fed up with Khrushchev's bluster, can easily identify themselves with him and tell themselves: "He told off that guy."

And Khrushchev could hardly lose at home by battering on Nixon. Any Russians, more concerned about their own feeling of inferiority toward the United States than the actual content of the argument, will no doubt applaud their premier for standing up to the American.

Takes Exception

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — After pleading guilty to kicking his sister and her two small boys, James Walsh, 25, objected to the part of the battery charge.

"I didn't kick the family dog like the charge says," he told Superior Court Judge Warren L. McCarthy. Walsh was given a six-month jail sentence.

Around The Rim The Indians Are A Smarter Race

One thing and another: You're not getting any younger if you can remember—

Rolley holey marble games, played by digging four cavities in a straight line in the good earth, then sinking another at a left angle from the fourth excavation. The bigger finger span the player had the aimed at the succeeding hole from the outer perimeter of his span), the better chance he had to win.

Automobiles with buckled flaps between the top and the body, a forerunner of today's convertible. The flaps invariably whipped around in the breeze when the car was in motion.

Chasing ice wagons in the summer time, to pop chips of the congealed water in your mouth while the ice man was on one of his errands. It had such a soothing, cooling effect and the ice man didn't seem to mind even when he caught you at it.

Unsalted bread, bought at the bakery. The following letter from an American Indian won first prize in an American farm magazine contest, for its description of a deserted farmhouse:

"Picture show white man crazy. Cut down trees. Make big tepee. Plow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass gone. Door gone. Window gone. Whole place gone. Buck gone. Pappose gone. Squaw too. No pigs. No corn. No plow. No hay. No pony. Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat grass. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make tepee. Make moccasins. Indian no build dam. All time eat. No ask relief. No shoot pig. Great Spirit made grass. Indian no waste anything. Indian no work. White man crazy."

Sign posted in a foreign airport: "Give us your baggage and we will send it in all directions."

Sign on Italian train: "The in taking of dogs and the out putting of heads is strictly prohibited."

Hear the story about Ted, the baker's boy, who was in the habit of bringing his teacher a fresh pretzel every day?

"I wish you'd tell your father not to make them quite so salty," she said one morning.

Thereafter the shiny, brown delicacy was found frequently on her desk—always minus the salt.

"It's very kind of your father to make one on purpose for me," the teacher told the boy.

"Oh, he doesn't make them this way. I lick the salt off," he replied.

You Just Think You're Seasick

Sputnik, multnik—there are still eternal verities, and seasickness is one of them. Probably the first voyager into space will have hands in his pocket a sure cure for motion sickness. But no matter what the stomach screams, it-mal de mer—is mostly in the head.

Yep, in keeping with medical trends, seasickness is now regarded as largely psychosomatic. Otherwise, why would a certain percentage of passengers succumb to seasickness on such a calm, pond-smooth crossing of the Atlantic as blessed the maiden voyage of the new North German Lloyd liner, the Bremen?

"Mainly psychosomatic," reported the Bremen's doctor, Dr. Joseph Von Geyr, who has been practicing medicine at sea for more than 30 years.

"Furthermore," he continued, "although ships ride incredibly better than ever before—look at the Bremen without her stabilizers in action—seasickness is on the increase instead of the decrease."

"But why?" asked this Bremen passenger who, despite the fact she was never in a row boat until she was grown, is a hardy sailor. I'm the type that never misses any one of the five meals per day served aboard ship.

"Modern nerves, tension," answered Dr. Von Geyr.

"And," continued the doctor, bringing the ancient ailment right up to date, "seasickness is, in a way, an allergy, or an allergic condition. All the best remedies for seasickness today are anti-histamines.

"We didn't know anything about anti-histamines before the war. The old seasickness remedies put patients out, literally. Today, with anti-histamines you can stop the average case of seasickness in 30 minutes.

"Even the occasional desperate case can be made to feel that life is at least bearable."

The new Bremen, the fifth of her name under North German Lloyd registry, has a splendid modern hospital to match her other accommodations. It includes special equipment for maternity cases, since babies born at sea seem to be SOP on ocean crossings.

To my surprise, I learned that a ship's doctor is entitled to charge a fee for the delivery of a baby born at sea, if the delivery is normal. In other words, if a pregnant woman boards a ship within a week or 10 days of the expected arrival of her child, and if the child is born during the voyage, the doctor is entitled to a fee.

"However," said Dr. Von Geyr, "if the baby arrives ahead of time, it is calked up to the action of the sea, and the baby comes F.O.B."

As a product of the air age, who flies the Atlantic at the drop of a travel agent, I had all but forgotten the many joys of a sea voyage. I arrived home unacceptably full of health after seven days on the Atlantic, far from the telephone's maddening ring.

The new Bremen is equipped with "cure," including a genuine Finnish sauna device needed to take a health na and something new, at least to me, called "underwater massage." It is my honest conviction that only genuine Finns and mascalchis can endure a Sauna, but apparently there were scads of both on the Bremen.

In the underwater massage, given in a receptacle four times the size of the average bath tub, streams of water at varying pressures are turned on the patient. Wonderful! And just dandy for what ails the voyager who has danced all night in the Bremen's "Taverna." (Copyright 1959, United Features Syndicate Inc.)

J. A. Livingston McDonald's Views On Steel Issue

OTTSVILLE, Pa. — David J. McDonald's body was relaxed. The president of the United Steelworkers sat in an armchair in the Bucks County home of his friend, Bob Post, who puts on the steel union's television shows.

McDonald had had a gruelling week. His steelworkers were on strike. Last-minute, way-into-the-night sessions with industry negotiators had failed. After a meeting with workers in Trenton, a TV-interviewer asked McDonald if his career was at stake. Uncharacteristically, McDonald demanded the film, an indication of his fatigue. When the TV-man refused, two aides smashed the camera, for which McDonald later apologized.

The steelworkers' chief had come to Bucks County to rest up from it all, and get away from the telephone. The next day, he'd be back in New York, talking to a federal mediator. He also was pondering strategy to get an aluminum contract by July 31. He looked relaxed in shorts, sport shirt, and whipcord jacket which zipped up front. He sounded relaxed too — he's so soft-spoken. But his words were tense.

"They want a price increase. They don't want an agreement. They used all kinds of excuses to avoid an agreement. They hung their hat on 'local practices.' That's a fake."

McDonald looks calm even when vehement. He has silken white hair and a benign face. Hollywood would cast him as a priest or a kindly father. His voice has a soothing, hypnotic quality.

He relieves tension by fondling his ever-present pipe.

He gave me some examples of "local practices." In some plants, men will have 15-minute coffee breaks. Or, sometimes it is the custom for a worker to knock off a few minutes early to clean up when his relief comes in. Or, there'll be customs on seniority — which worker is to get the higher job.

"The companies now ask us to let them make all those decisions unilaterally," he said. "They know damn well we could not possibly agree on this. Some of our men say they're trying to break the union. Still no rise in voice. He could have been saying, 'It's raining outside,' which it was."

"Trying to break the union!" I couldn't restrain myself. "Why, they couldn't do that, Dave! The country'd break before the union would break. We'd have to have steel before your union would fall apart."

"I didn't say I believe it," responded McDonald, darting an appraising look at me. "I said that some of the men in the union feel that way."

"Well, then what is the issue — what is the dispute all about?" I asked.

"They just don't want a contract." Again, I couldn't restrain myself: "They are in business to make steel. They have to have a contract."

"Steel-making's our business, too, Joe," he replied, not raising his voice. "We want to make steel. We want a contract. But they insist we give up everything we hold dear. If we gave them what they asked, we wouldn't have a union!"

"Look, Dave," I said, "I'm not arguing with you. I'm trying to understand this. What do you think the companies are driving at?"

He lit his pipe again.

"First, they want to get inventories reduced. That was the only reason for the 1958 strike. They want to put in another price increase. Finally, they want a whipping boy. That's us — the union. We're the excuse for the price increase."

"Do you think the companies are getting back at you for insisting on your wage increase in '58?"

McDonald took his pipe out of his mouth, looked at me, and smiled. "Do you know, nobody — not a single steel executive — ever asked me to eliminate that wage increase. Not one!"

"Does that bear out your contention that they're more interested in a price increase?"

He smiled again and let the question go by, as if it answered itself to his satisfaction. "I can tell you this. They could have settled this without a strike — settled easily. Now, it's going to cost them more, much more, before this thing is over. They'll pay for it."

That same soothing, unfruffed tone. I couldn't judge: Was this a boast, a threat, a declaration of determination, or a pout?

Woman Prefers Mouse To House

HAVANT, England (AP)—Stella Thompson thinks mice are nice. She would rather have a mouse than a house.

The mouse, a wild one which Miss Thompson tamed, has the run of her one-room flat. She calls him Will.

Miss Thompson, 37, has been left a large modern house by her late father, but she has decided not to move.

"I don't think Will would take to new surroundings," she explained. "He is shy and cannot fend for himself, and I just can't leave him."

Lamesa Banker Now On Board

LAMESA — William B. Beeson, vice president of the First National Bank here has been named to the board of directors of the bank. Announcement of Beeson's election was made Saturday by J. W. Bryant, chairman of the board.

Beeson succeeds J. C. Powell Jr. who resigned in April to accept presidency of the National Bank of Sweetwater. He joined the First National Bank July 1, 1956 as assistant vice president; in January 1957, he was promoted to the position of vice president, a position he continues to hold. Beeson was formerly with the Farmers Home Administration and is a graduate of East Texas State College.

He is married, has two daughters, and is presently serving as treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce and treasurer of the Dawson County Community Chest.

Water Flows, Haltingly, Into Thirsty Community

ROY, N.M. (AP)—Water flowed haltingly, but flowed, into the homes of this thirsty little New Mexico cowtown for the first time in more than five days today, but a new problem has arisen for village officials.

How to pay for a new pump which the town purchased to push water through a leaky seven-mile water main from the town's town wells to its bore-dry storage tank? "I haven't figured that out yet," said Mayor Robert Keirsey.

"We had to have it. I bought it and now we're going to have to figure out how to pay for it. Don't worry, we'll get it paid for."

A combination of two faulty pumps and a leaky seven-mile water main of low-grade wartime pipe — caused the town's storage tank to go dry last Wednesday.

Roy had money, but none of it could be used for new water works equipment because of a state law which prevents the transfer of earmarked funds.

The state couldn't help because the fund for village emergencies was available only to unincorporated ones. Roy is incorporated.

Many of the 750 villagers worked most of Sunday installing the new pump and patching holes in the leaky main.

Killed In Mishap

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Alice Thompson, 16, San Angelo, was thrown from a sports car and killed Sunday. She was pinned beneath the auto driven by Leonard Sullivan, 18, Carmelo, Calif.

Sullivan received minor injuries. The Texas taped a brief speech to be broadcast in Russia at a luncheon in the director's office.

Russians Crowd Visiting Cliburn

NEW YORK (AP)—Texas' Van Cliburn, who won the Tchaikovsky competition and the hearts of admirers in Moscow last year, got another taste of Russian hero worship here Sunday.

The 25-year-old pianist from Kilgore had to stop countless times to sign autographs—many on sheets of music handed him by Russian musicians—as he toured the Soviet exhibition.

A model, Lillian Grishina, tossed Cliburn her bouquet of jonquils after he watched a fashion show that is part of the exhibition. Other models crowded around him and each gave him a carnation.

The Texas taped a brief speech to be broadcast in Russia at a luncheon in the director's office.

Hillbilly Music Foe Now Can Afford To Talk

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—"If you can't sing, you need a guitar to cover up the noise."

That's 23-year-old Larry Hedgepeth's opinion of hillbilly music. In Springfield, that is heresy.

Springfield, a city of 105,000 deep in the Ozark Mountains, is dedicated to perpetuating music with a twang — string and nasal. It takes pride that one of television's top hillbilly music shows—Jubilee, U.S.A. — originates here.

But Hedgepeth can state a minority opinion with impunity, being one of Springfield's newest heroes. He's the tenor for the Pitchers, new world champions of barbershop quartet singing.

"A couple of us can do a little guitar picking but we don't do it in the quartet," said Hedgepeth.

The quartet won this year's competition at the Chicago convention of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

Winning the title climaxed a four-year campaign that carried the Pitchers to a regional championship. They traveled about 100,000 miles a year to fill weekend concert engagements.

Besides Hedgepeth, the members are Keith Young, 24, Keith Keitner, 23, and Joe Delzell, 42. All are amateur performers and all live in Springfield.

You don't have to talk to them long to recognize all four as natives of the Ozarks. The vocal twang is there. When they sing, the twang dissolves into chords of harmony.

Largely responsible for the harmony is S. K. Grundy, the Pitchers' organizer and coach.

Once a musician and arranger with Lawrence Welk's orchestra, Grundy heads the music department at Baptist Bible College here.

Grundy says his primary job is choosing the quartet's material.

To pass Grundy's test a song must have "good cadence and cordial line and a story to tell."

"That's why modern songs or rock 'n' roll are no goods," he said.

"The text will kill you."

Ballerina's Spanish Spate Example Of Winning Way

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A passer-by would have seen a strange sight backstage at the Greek Theater the other night. There was prima ballerina Alicia Alonso addressing a spate of Spanish to her ankle.

Pointing a finger, she spoke sharply (rough translation): "I don't care if you hurt or not. You are going out on that stage and dance 'Copella.'" And it did.

The incident helps explain why

Exercise is a way of life with Miss Alonso. She has been doing the strenuous ballet workouts since she was 9, continuing them even when she was pregnant.

"I don't even think about it any more," she said. "It just seems a natural thing to do. I never go more than a week without practicing."

On this score, she agrees with her partner, Igor Youkevitch. He argues that boxers and baseball players would not face obsolescence in their 30s if they trained year-around, as a ballet dancer does. Instead, many go to seed in the off-season and have to fight to regain trim when the time near for a contest.

Adlai Sees Duel As Nothing New

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's verbal duel with Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Moscow Friday was nothing new.

"Khrushchev is that way often," the former Democratic presidential candidate said. "It's no novelty. He behaves according to his sudden changes in mood. He has done the same with other Americans. He acted the same way with me when I went to the Soviet Union last summer."
