Laos Rebels Push Back Loyal Troops

SAM NEUA, Laos (AP)—Pathe Lao battalions, supported by regular troops from Communist North Viet Nam, launched a coordinated attack in northeastern Sam Neua Sunday and captured four towns. The outnumbered government forces are drawing back on a 35-mile front toward military headquarters here. The attack along the Nam Ma River was at one point supported by 105 mm. howitzers evidently fired from inside North Viet Nam, Laotian officers said. Pathe Lao is a Communist organization which ruled this province in northern Laos until two years ago. Brig. Gen. Ouane Rathikone, Laotian army commander, said it appeared that at least 80 per cent of the attackers were Vietnamese (North Vietnamese) or Thai tribesmen trained in North Viet Nam. The government troops were reported falling back to a defense line between the Nam Ma River and Sam Neua town. The commander in northern Laos, Brig. Gen. Amkha Soukha-vong, estimated there are now the equivalent of two Pathe Lao battalions inside Sam Neua province. The Nam Ma River villages, garrisoned mainly by government irregulars, fell in less than one hour, reports said. There were no radios in any of the captured villages. "All our Nam Ma River posts have fallen," Gen. Amkha said. Pathe Lao rebel battalions since July have largely controlled the belt of territory between the Nam Ma River and the Vietnamese frontier.

Rubber Union Wins Contract

CLEVELAND (AP)—The 85,000 production workers of the rubber industry's big producers will receive 10 cents an hour more under agreements reached between the companies and the United Rubber Workers. Goodyear set the pattern, agreeing to the 10 cent hourly wage increase after two weeks of bargaining with the union. The U.S. Rubber Co. granted the same increase Tuesday. Within hours, Goodrich and Firestone made similar agreements. General Tire & Rubber Co. followed the big four today, signing a contract providing similar boosts to its 3,200 workers at Akron and Waco, Tex. The present average at General Tire & Rubber is $2.63 an hour. Negotiations started Tuesday. Average hourly wages, before the new wage agreements, were $2.71 at Firestone, $2.63 at Goodrich, $2.61 at Goodyear and $2.48 at U.S. Rubber.

WEBB GRADUATES

Young Jap Flier Makes AF History

First Lt. Yukitaka Muramoto made a bit of Air Force history at Webb AFB Tuesday evening. The young Japanese Air Force officer named distinguished officer graduate of Class 60-B. Available records indicate that this was the first time anywhere in the Air Force that this top honor had been won by a member of the Allied Mutual Assistance Pact foreign students. Lt. Muramoto received the silver trophy customary for the ranking student. Team play is imperative, said Col. Burton C. Andrus Jr., commander of the 60th Bomb Wing at Dyess AFB, Abilene, speaker for the occasion, but the team has to be made up of competent, alert members to succeed. Churchill's historic reference to the RAF during World War II was the first time anyone so highly placed in government had recognized the new fact of airpower supremacy, said Col. Andrus. BOUNDARIES OF EXISTENCE. He placed four frames of reference for the boundaries of contemporary existence. First is that democracy and communism are at loggerheads and the latter is dedicated to destruction of the former. Second is the incredibly powerful equipment which science has conjured (one bomber can now pack more destructive power than used in all wars of history). Third, Americans cling to the tradition of accepting the first blow from an aggressor. Fourth, the United States has had world leadership thrust upon it. "For the first time in history," the speaker said, "those who hate us have the capacity to destroy us." He quoted Nikita Khrushchev's recent reiteration: "We will bury you."

As guidelines to the young pilot (See FLIER, Pg. 6, Col. 5) Summer Hot Seige Holds A new high temperature reading for Big Spring was established Tuesday when the mercury reached 105 degrees. This bested the previous record by two degrees. In 1930, the record for Sept. 1 was set at 103. This was equalled in 1951. The Webb weather station reported 104 as the high reading Tuesday. erful equipment which science has conjured (one bomber can now pack more destructive power than used in all wars of history). Third, Americans cling to the tradition of accepting the first blow from an aggressor. Fourth, the United States has had world leadership thrust upon it. Sponsors of the program are the Texas State Department of Health, the City of Big Spring, and Howard County Health Department, and several refuse equipment dealers. There were 12 cities within a 100 mile radius of Big Spring represented for the welcoming address by John Taylor, mayor pro tem, this morning in the Police Station classroom. Jimmie D. Dickens, sanitarian with the State Health Department, talked on the public health aspects of refuse storage collection and disposal. Jack Broad, Brownwood city manager, discussed land reclamation through sanitary landfill operations. Equipment dealers made trash and garbage pickups through the city this morning and were to demonstrate its use for the visitors at the Disposal Plant at 11 a.m. A barbecue luncheon at the central fire station, provided by the equipment firms, was also planned. A landfill demonstration was on the program in the afternoon, also at the disposal plant.

Ike, DeGaulle Launch Talks In Friendly Way

Algeria, NATO Are Likely Topics

House Fails To Override Veto By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today sustained by one vote President Eisenhower's veto of a $1,216,000,000 public works appropriation bill. The roll call vote was 274 in favor of passing the bill over the veto and 138 against. A two-thirds vote is necessary to override. Thus, this tally would have gone the other way on a single switch of a vote. The outcome upheld Eisenhower's record of never having had a veto overridden although there have been 144 of them in the last 6 1/2 years. The House action kills the bill, and the Senate will get no chance to act on the veto. The vote was so close that a recapitulation, or recheck, was ordered after the roll was first called. The final tally showed 6 Democrats voting with 132 Republicans to uphold the President, and 11 Republicans voting with 263 Democrats to override. When the roll call was first taken, it appeared the vote had been to override the veto. However, several members then switched their votes and turned the outcome the other way. The switching came at the end of the first roll call and before the recapitulation was ordered. The $1,215,477,806 appropriation bill provides financing for several hundred public works projects in just about every congressional district. Most of them are river and harbor and flood control jobs. For years it has been known as the "pork barrel" bill and has been a congressional favorite because of its popularity in the home districts. President Eisenhower vetoed it last week because it provided funds for 67 projects in 32 states for which his budget program had made no provision. It exceeded his money requests by about 30 million dollars. Seven of Eisenhower's direct or indirect vetoes have come this year. The House came within four votes of upsetting his veto of a rural electrification bill last June 30, two days after the Senate voted to override. It takes a two-thirds vote of members present to override a veto and enact a law over the President's objection. The House, as originator of the bill, gets first crack at the "pork barrel" measure. If it fails to muster the two-thirds vote, the bill will go to the Senate. Confident House Democratic leaders figured on losing few, if any, of the 283 Democratic votes and on picking up quite a few Republican ballots. If every member shows up, 291 votes will be required to override. Republican leaders pitched their plea to their 153 members on party loyalty and "fiscal responsibility." Some of them had urged the President not to veto the bill because it involves projects in many Republican districts and might adversely affect the political future of GOP incumbents.

A Cotton Pickin' Mistake An unidentified cotton picker puts her cotton-pickin' hands on a cotton plant in the mistaken assumption that it is to be picked. It was not to be picked, since the owners had made no brace contracts. All kidding aside, though—the plant belongs to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ogg, 506 Dallas. Mrs. Ogg planted the lone cotton stalk because she thought it would look nice as a yard decoration. (That's Herald Reporter Kay Loveland posing as a wetback.)

Nehru Makes No Command Changes

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today that India's defense command is continuing unchanged despite a rift between Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon and Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, the army commander. Nehru said Thimayya had resigned Monday in a dispute over the promotion of an army officer but had withdrawn his resignation at the Prime Minister's request. The Prime Minister gave full backing to Krishna Menon, long one of his closest and most controversial advisers on foreign policy. "Civil authority must remain supreme," Nehru declared. This appeared to put at rest reports that Krishna Menon would be removed from the Cabinet or shifted to another post. Nehru gave no indication that the defense minister had offered to resign, as high sources in the ruling Congress party has reported. Nehru rebuked Thimayya for resigning at a time when India's borders were in a state of anxiety. Thimayya has been commander of the army since May 1957. The Prime Minister made no mention of the commanders of the air force and navy, who had been reported resigning with Thimayya. Reports of Thimayya's resignation had caused grave concern because of the occupation by Chinese Communist troops of various bits of Indian territory along the border between Tibet and India. Krishna Menon had refused to confirm or deny the reports in Parliament. The newspaper The Statesman reported meanwhile that the situation on the Northeast Frontier appeared to have eased and said the Chinese possibly had moved away from border outposts they captured last week. Bhutan's Premier Jigme Dorji denied in Calcutta that Chinese Communist troops had crossed the Bhutanese border. He said the situation in his country was quiet and no fresh incidents had been reported. Dorji is on his way to New Delhi for talks with Nehru. India faced more difficulties on the home front, with rioting in Calcutta in protest against the Bengal state government's food distribution policies. Communists led the mobs, and there was speculation they were intensifying the trouble in revenge for the central government's ousting of the Communist regime in Kerala state. Red-led arson and bomb squads seized control of main sections of Calcutta Tuesday night and fought off police counterattacks for a time. Police reported killing 7 and wounding at least 30 with gunfire.

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower and President Charles de Gaulle began their conferences in Paris today in a "good and encouraging atmosphere." They both described the first talks in that manner. White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said. Hagerty told correspondents that Eisenhower will leave the U.S. Embassy one hour early Thursday for the chateau at Rambouillet to have more time for talks with De Gaulle. The chateau at Rambouillet, which King Louis XVI built for Marie Antoinette, is where Eisenhower is spending the night. For the same reason, Hagerty said, Eisenhower will not hold a news conference at the end of the discussions here. Hagerty said "it would be safe to assume" that the problems of Algeria and NATO would come up during the talks. He said preliminary discussions might have been held when the two heads of state met this morning. However, Hagerty said, a private one-hour talk in De Gaulle's office with no one else present. The President made a happy and triumphant entry into Paris, riding beside De Gaulle. Crowds estimated at half a million jammed the center of the city, cheering and shouting as the World War II leaders drove past in an open car, on their way to conferences crucial to the Western Alliance. It was a greeting reminiscent of the day in 1944 when Eisenhower was cheered as liberator of Paris. Officials and newsmen said the turnout appeared greater than that for Eisenhower's arrival in London. Eisenhower is the first American president to pay a state visit to France since Woodrow Wilson came after World War I. And France greeted him with all the pomp and ceremony she could muster—a booming 101-gun salute, blaring bands and a squadron of 64 white-gloved motorcycle escorts flanking the presidential car. A rainbow of red, white and blue blanketed Le Bourget Airport, where Eisenhower landed after a 55-minute jet flight from London. From the moment of their reunion at the airport, Eisenhower and De Gaulle exchanged warm and animated conversation although both are awkward in the other's language. They got down to business just after noon at a luncheon conference at De Gaulle's Elysee Palace. There were 29 guests at the luncheon, among them Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. After lunch Eisenhower drove back to the Foreign Ministry for an hour's rest before starting further talks with De Gaulle. The President's big jetliner touched down from London in bright sunshine. The wide balconies of flag-draped Le Bourget Airport were jammed with enthusiastic greeters who cheered the President's plane. De Gaulle stepped forward to greet Eisenhower with a warm handshake as the President stepped from the plane, smiling and waving his hat. The two leaders exchanged formal greetings in the airport's VIP lounge, which was draped in red, white and blue. De Gaulle saluted his visitor as the president of the country which, more than all the others, is dear to France. Eisenhower responded that De Gaulle was "the symbol of French courage when freedom itself was at stake." "We will find ways to make our common effort more effective," the American president said. A Europe-wide TV network carried the arrival ceremonies.

Banker Ends Debt To Society

DANBURY, Conn. (AP)—A 53-year-old banker, who misapplied more than a million dollars in depositors' money, completes his payment to society today. William R. Rose, once a respected banker in the Catskills foothill town of Ellenville, N. Y., walks free from the Federal Correctional Institution. He will start work in a hardware store next door to a building once occupied by the National Home Bank, which went broke under Rose's financial manipulations. He was sentenced to five years in prison on Dec. 10, 1957. The U. S. Board of Parole recently granted him a parole effective Oct. 1. But the parole board at the institution pushed the date to today as a result of Rose's work in the prison hospital. Rose, a bachelor, had been popular in his community. When he was arrested in 1956, most of Ellenville's 5,233 residents were sympathetic. He was charged with misapplying $1,266,627 in bank funds through overdraft loans. The money, Rose said, went to aid struggling local industries. None of it, he said, went into his own pocket. When the extent of the loss was learned, and the bank closed, some of the townspeople got angry. Today, the anger seemed to be gone. "Saw Mayor Eugene Glusker recently: 'Rose's return to Ellenville should be quiet and orderly. The people of Ellenville are not vindictive.' A resident said: 'He has paid for whatever wrong he did. And maybe he did wrong. But let's not pick on him.'"

AVRYBODY LEKS EEK

PARIS (AP) — Frenchmen have learned the slogan "I like Ike" from seeing it in newspaper pictures and car toons. But President Eisenhower may not recognize the pronunciation. When a Frenchman says it, it comes out: "E leek Eek."

Doesn't Get Enough Roadwork On His Job

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Paul (Hardrock) Simpson, 55 today, plans to celebrate in his usual way: By running one mile for each year of his life. Starting at Martinsville, Va., he figures it should take him about nine hours to reach Burlington, his home town. Simpson, a runner all his life, ran across the continent twice in the "Bunion Derbies" of the 1920s. By profession he's a mail carrier.

Checks Didn't Make Last Lap

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two men bought the Last Lap Cafe in Phoenix on the weekend. Police Sgt. Joe Nemecek said they gave owner Art Cousins a $2,500 check as down payment; another of $500 for equipment and one of $25 to transfer the beer license. A check for $122 covered contents of the cash register. All the checks bounced. Cousins hurried back to the bar. The new owners were missing. So were the cash register, the coin machines and 14 cases of beer.

Talks Resume

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiations in the 50-day-old nationwide steel strike resumed here today after a recess since last Thursday. There was no indication of any break in the deadlock.

SCHOOL BUS STOPPING LAW TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED

If you are driving your car on a rural road — be it a national highway, a state highway or just a country lane — and you see a school bus stopped, bring your car to a complete halt. When you are certain no youngsters are likely to be crossing your car's path, proceed on your way. But, mind, proceed at not to exceed 10 miles per hour until you have passed the bus. For these requirements are the law in Texas. It does not matter if the bus is going your way or if it is coming toward you in the other lane of traffic. The same rule applies in both cases. The only exception is in the city residential areas and it is certainly to be recommended that equal or even greater caution be exercised inside cities and towns. Highway patrol officers and members of the sheriff's staff warn motorists that the school bus stopping law will be enforced. They recommend every motorist abide by it at all times. Arrest for violation can lead to a fine of any amount from $1 to $200. Most justices of the peace look with considerable distaste on offenders who are picked up for this offense, peace officers report. Reports have reached this office of motorists who have been careless about school bus passing. One school bus driver reports that only one car abided by the regulations the first day the buses operated. That car, he says, was from out-of-state.

Storms Rake State Areas

High wind, hail and driving rain burst from a line of thunderstorms to spread damage and discomfort through West, North and East Texas Tuesday night and early Wednesday. Farm buildings and crops took the worst punishment from the disturbance that slipped through the state on a northwest to southeast path. A severe weather alert was posted for much of North and North Central Texas, but the warning expired early Wednesday without any reports of tornadoes. High wind whipped the roof from a large barn on the R. O. Koon dairy farm south of Sulphur Springs when the front moved through that northeast Texas area. An inch of rain fell in the area.

MRS. ROBERT E. OSBORN

Bride's Home Wedding Site

LAMESA — The bride's home was the scene of a double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon for Mary Rhodes and Robert E. Osborn. The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor of First Baptist Church, was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Rhodes are the parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Osborn of Odessa are the bridegroom's parents.

Orland Johnson played traditional music at the piano, and the couple pledged their vows before the mantel banked with gladioli and mums. Their only attendants were Jerry Caultlet of Odessa, the best man, and Betty Mac Sanders, maid of honor.

Rhodes gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a sapphire blue wool suit with matching shoes and small hat. Her flower was an orchid.

Assisting at the reception held in the Rhodes home were Nancy Taylor, Kay Edwards, Ruth Ann Scott and Sue Vaughn. Centerpiece for the serving table which featured the tiered wedding cake was an arrangement of mums and gladioli shaded blue and white.

Upon their return from a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Odessa. The bride was a junior at Lamesa High School last year, and her husband, a graduate of the Lamesa schools, attended Odessa Junior College and the University of Texas.

Wedding Vows Taken In Afternoon Ceremony

In a mid-afternoon ceremony Tuesday, Mrs. Olivia G. Wigmore repeated wedding vows with Gary B. Stewart of La Canada, Calif.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Williams, 609 Steakley; parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stewart of the California address.

Roy Phemister, minister of the West Highway 80 Church of Christ, read the double ring ritual in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pierce, 408 Park.

The couple stood before a large mirror over the mantel, decorated with white flowers and greenery. Recordings of Always and Mendelssohn's Wedding March were heard preceding the exchange of vows.

The bride was attired in an embroidered cotton of pale blue, street length, and featured cap sleeves and scooped neckline. Her flowers were white gladioli and Frenched carnations.

Recognizing tradition, the bride designated her wedding ensemble as the something new and blue; in her shoe she carried a penny, given to her by her brother, Wayne Williams, as something old.

She had borrowed pearl earbobs from Mrs. Billie McClure and a pearl necklace from her sister, Karen Jarce Williams, her maid of honor. Miss Williams chose a blue frock with white lace trim on the bodice and encircled with a blue velvet cummerbund. A white carnation corsage was pinned to her dress.

Serving as best man was Maj. Iwano Negi of Hamamatsu-City, Japan, student pilot at Webb Air Force Base.

For a reception, held immediately after the ceremony, Karla Pierce was at the guest register. Others assisting with the hospitality were Mrs. Billy Mac Sheppard and Mrs. Otto Ripley.

White lace covered the table, which held punch appointments and a cake decorated with a bridal bouquet in confection.

When the couple left for Pasadena, Calif., the bride was wearing a cotton frock of oxford gray, with a full skirt and fitted jacket, to which she had attached the corsage from her bouquet. Her accessories were white.

A graduate of Big Spring High school, she attended Howard County Junior College and has been employed at WAFB.

The bridegroom, until recently stationed at Webb, was graduated from Oakdale Joint Union High School, Calif. He will attend Pasadena College and be associated with his father in the tile business.

Coming from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Stewart of Del Rio, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. LeFevre, Miss Rogers and her mother, Mrs. J. C. Rogers, and the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. John D. Anderson of Fossan.

A dream boat holding a small bridal couple was filled with tiny white chrysanthemums and floated on a cloud of pink angel hair. This centered the table that was covered with white satin under net. Crystal appointments were used, and pink tapers cast a soft light over the table.

Serving were Mrs. E. C. Casey, Mrs. Gilbert Gibbs, Mrs. J. W. Pursner and Kay Coleman.

Mrs. Joe Fields registered the

No Knobby Knees To Be Shown In Leipzig

By CARL HARTMAN
LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — There will be no knobby knees showing on the Communist side of the Iron Curtain if the fashion authorities at the Leipzig Fair have anything to say about it — and they probably do.

The fair's international fashion show, one of the biggest in the Communist bloc, opened Monday. There was not a knee in sight. And no uneven hem-lines, seventh-eighths length tunics or other frills from Paris.

No sacks, either, though East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht recently said the sack was all right — if the wearer could afford it.

About 1,500 spectators paid up to six marks — $1.40 — to see the show. Most of them were ordinary Leipzigers, to judge by the drab East European look of their own clothes. A good half were men.

They sat for over two hours in Leipzig's main Concert Hall to see over 200 numbers from East and West Germany, Poland, Holland, France and the Soviet Union. Most came from East Germany.

Each skirt was almost exactly the same length, about an inch and a half below the knee. The wide spreading skirt was in high favor and necklines were prim.

Moscow's House of Models showed 20 items, some surprisingly graceful and elegant to Western observers who expected only no-nonsense styles from the Soviets. One tight-fitting afternoon ensemble with a short fur jacket, called "anthracite," would not have been out of place in a good Paris show.

Lee Tarbox Member Of Garden Club

Playground Of Death

Youngsters are shown in the playground in the Hell's Kitchen area on New York's West Side where, only a few hours before, two 16-year-old boys were fatally stabbed in a gang attack. One victim, Robert Young, reached his apartment on the second floor of the light apartment building in background before falling dead. The body of other victim, Anthony Kresinski, was found in a hallway of the apartment building at right.

Ike, British Ex-Comrades In Happy Reunion

LONDON (AP)—President Eisenhower had a happy reunion in a reminiscing atmosphere Tuesday night with British comrades of World War II.

The President was a laughing, joking host, quickly putting at rest any tenseness that might have been felt by those of the guests who have criticized his war strategy in their memoirs.

By coincidence, the stag dinner was held on the 20th anniversary of the German invasion of Poland, which set off World War II.

Eisenhower cordially greeted Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, whose critical comments nettled Eisenhower so much that he snubbed a card from Montgomery last Christmas.

When the evening was over, Montgomery left beaming and waving enthusiastically to a cheering crowd outside Winfield House, the residence of U. S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney where the dinner was held.

At dinner Montgomery sat with-in talking range of Eisenhower, just five feet across the table. What was said during the meal was not disclosed.

But Eisenhower was in high spirits and in no mood to raise past antagonisms.

He placed in an honored seat at his left Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke, who also has had a few criticisms of his wartime leadership. Alanbrooke was Britain's top commander during the war.

Field Marshal Earl Alexander, commander of Allied ground forces in North Africa and later in Italy during the war, sat at Eisenhower's right.

Wearing dinner jacket and black tie, the President greeted each of the 25 British guests at the door. The President put his hand under 84-year-old Sir Winston Churchill's elbow and led the party into a large foyer for a group picture.

When the photographers crowded around for a closeup, Macmillan seemed momentarily startled. But Eisenhower was amused and told the Prime Minister, "Now you can see the whites of their eyes."

The President then assisted Churchill to his feet and stood aside to let the aging statesman lead the way into the dining room. Whitney sat opposite the President, with Churchill on the ambassador's right.

Oklahomans Sober Over Legal Liquor

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahomans took their legal liquor soberly Tuesday.

Curiosity stood in for jubilation as almost 500 liquor stores opened their doors. Sooners bought their jugs in public for the first time since statehood in 1907.

There was no singing, no dancing in the streets.

A State Tax Commission official reported sale of liquor stamps in August netted Oklahoma close to four million dollars.

A Woman's Christian Temperance Union leader said "We don't need the taxes. Nobody needs anything that comes from the devil."

In Tulsa operators said business was so brisk the first hour it was hard to handle. Then it tapered off. Some persons merely strolled through, looking at the bottles.

Prices were relatively high, thanks to the state's $2.40 per gallon tax. But they compared favorably with what bootleggers had charged. A fifth of a popular bourbon brought $4.73 to $4.85 here.

In Wewoka a black-clad buyer told newsmen he was a bootlegger in mourning.

In Oklahoma City a bootlegger ordered a dozen pints of whisky to give to old customers "who stuck with me through thick and thin."

In Durant a man ducked a photographer who wanted to shoot him making one of the first purchases. "Heck no," said the man, "my wife doesn't even know I'm down here."

In Cushing an 84-year-old man told the store owner, "Son, I ain't bought a bottle since 1907. I like my nip, but I figure a man ought to obey the law."

He was a rarity among drinking Oklahomans. Most of them dealt with bootleggers or made their purchases outside the state line.

Five times the wets failed to repeal prohibition in statewide elections.

But last April they mustered the strength, 396,845 to 314,330.

The dries fought on. Prayer meetings sponsored by the Women's Christian Temperance Union were held throughout the state Tuesday. At one Jennie Lively of Oklahoma City declared bootlegging was not bad enough to bring repeal.

"If five snakes were loose and you had to kill them, you wouldn't turn loose a bunch of other snakes, would you? That's what they did."

Not all the buyers Tuesday were drinkers.

At Broken Arrow, Nellie Peddicord, 84, was first in line.

"I'm going to get that bottle right on my table for everyone to see and I dare anyone to break the seal," she said. "I've never touched a drop in my life and I don't intend to start now."

P.O. Strengthened In Obscenity Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has taken a step toward strengthening the postmaster general's hand in dealing with the mailing of obscene material. It passed legislation Tuesday more than doubling the time that questionable matter can be held up. The bill, which now goes to the Senate, would add 25 days to the present 20 days that challenged mail can be impounded. And the matter would be required to prove that the impounding was improper before the action could be contested.

Attorneys For Sexton Kin Must File In Will Dispute

TEXARKANA (AP)—Attorneys for four nieces of the late J. W. Sexton, wealthy ranchman, have 10 days to file a reply brief following oral arguments in a will dispute.

The 6th Court of Civil Appeals here ordered the action Tuesday after hearing an appeal from a judgment in the 4th District Court in Rusk County which upheld the nieces' claim that they are Sexton's heirs.

Appellants include Mrs. Agnes Kirk, who operated a rest home in Cleburne until last January. She was named the principal beneficiary in a disputed will she claims was executed by Sexton in Cleburne in 1954.

Sexton, whose estate is estimated in the millions, died in a Jacksonville, Tex. rest home March 1, 1958. He once stayed at Mrs. Kirk's rest home in Cleburne.

Mrs. Kirk and others appealed the refusal of a special county judge to admit the 1954 will to probate. The district court at Cleburne delayed action until the case in Rusk County has been decided finally.

Others appealing with Mrs. Kirk are I. W. Kirk, Effie Richerson, Ruby Richerson and Gean Turner.

Defendants are Lucille Beard, Loanna Silvey Jacobs and Kate Silvey Murphy and their husbands and Mozelle Silvey Pitner.

The Kirk group said the basic issues before the court are lack of evidence and the "statutes of frauds."

It also was contended the nieces are seeking the estate on the basis of an oral contract between Sexton and his brother, W. H. Sexton, to leave their interests in their joint property to each other and to leave to the nieces the property which either of them should have at death.

The Kirk group said evidence of such an agreement is not clear and convincing.

Marine Wounded 'In Line Of Duty'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marine Pvt. James Heinz, 18, has never seen action but he was wounded in the line of duty Tuesday night during a parade.

Heinz's outfit represented the Marine Corps in the parade of the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

When the unit's commanding officer shouted, "Fix bayonets," the Marines smartly jammed the blades on their rifles.

All but Heinz.

He jammed his bayonet into his right hand.

An ambulance attendant patched him up and he marched away.

A Devotional For Today

As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself. (John 5:26.)

PRAYER: Loving heavenly Father, our lives are in Thy hands. Thou alone canst guide us through this immense and clouded world which offers so little security. We beseech Thee to guide the destiny of each of us. When we come to the end of our journey, we pray Thou wilt bring us into Thy safe harbor. In the name of our Saviour. Amen.

Stepped Up Political Calendar

If you're a politician or a potential politician this first week of September is the equivalent of the first week in December on the political calendar we've been used to here in Texas.

The Legislature this year moved the date of the First Primary up about 12 weeks, from the fourth Saturday in July to the first Saturday in May. Office seekers must, accordingly, revise their planning and time tables. The search for key supporters—and campaign funds—which once went on in January and February must now be launched in football season.

The candidate must now file for office by Monday, Feb. 1, instead of the first Monday in May and must pay the filing fee by the third Monday in February.

The conventions, through which the political parties manage themselves, are changed, too. Precinct conventions will be on the same day as the First Primary, May 7. County conventions will be on May 14. These will elect delegates to the two big state conventions.

The first of the two state conventions, the one in which delegates to the national convention will be named, will be on June 14, following the Second Primary on June 4. The "governor's convention" will be on Sept. 20.

These conventions next year will be most important, a fact duly noted by factions which are already making motions toward organizing for them. The tone of the Texas voice in national conventions will be determined in early May when the precinct gatherings are organized.

Speculation as to the effects of the new political calendar have varied. Generally, however, politicians expect bigger turnouts at the polls and at the conventions during the mild weather of May than during the scorching days July produces. Certainly, the campaigners will be more comfortable in their vote-seeking during the spring.

There's one thing about this experiment in reworking our political calendar. If it proves too unpopular, the Legislature can change it again. Unlike so many "legislative" matters, this one isn't written into Texas' cumbersome Constitution. This one can be changed rather easily, as the Legislature demonstrated this spring.

Nehru's Neutrality Shaken

Prime Minister Nehru's confidence in non-alignment as the best way of life in the cold war appears to have been shaken by Red Chinese threats against India and the countries below Tibet.

As many people learned a long time ago, Nehru seems now to realize that his two major policies—maintaining Red China's friendship and maintaining his own security—many not be compatible.

India, with about 360 million people, and Red China with 600 million are the world's two biggest nations.

But, military power of the two is not so well matched.

The Associated Press reports that India's armed forces number about 500,000. Red China's Army, U. S. military men believe, is between 2,600,000 and 3 million.

Possibly of second thoughts in India about the policy of steering clear of any "military alliance" is seen in newspaper comment as the Chinese have made their latest threats. One leading newspaper chain, the Multi-City Indian Express, a few days ago called for the United States to try again to interest uncommitted nations in joining SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization formed in 1954.

This time, the Express said, the U. S. would find many takers.

Tibet has taught some Asians some facts of Communist life. You can't be buddies with those people and keep your health. Give them half a chance they'll stab you.

Test For Democratic Congress

WASHINGTON — In a few days there will be several important tests which will tell the American people whether the Democratic party majority in Congress elected last autumn has proved responsible or irresponsible.

First, a bill calling for more than $1 billion in public works projects which are not provided for in the President's budget, but which selfish interests in various congressional districts have promoted, will be up for decision as to whether President Eisenhower's veto shall be sustained or overridden.

Second, the labor-reform bill which the nation demands and which was passed overwhelmingly by the House of Representatives has run into a deadlock in the joint conference committee of both houses. Now the Senate must vote whether to follow or ignore the public sentiment that favors an end to racketeering and the "blackmail" picketing that injures innocent third parties.

Third, the House leadership of the Democratic party has bottled up a bill that calls for higher interest rates on government bonds. The issue has not been permitted to be voted on in clear-cut fashion by the Democratic leaders of the House. Failure to act could mean a crisis for the dollar and produce more inflation.

The best exposition of the case for the bill that would give the Treasury power to go beyond the present limit of 4 1/2 per cent on bonds that mature after five years has been given by Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, Democrat, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He says:

"The distinguished speaker of the House of Representatives, my good friend, Mr. Sam Rayburn, is quoted in the newspapers as saying that the House will not consider Federal interest rate ceiling legislation at this session, as requested by the President, because said Mr. Rayburn 'there is not the slightest chance the Senate will do anything this year.'"

"It seems to me to be somewhat inconsistent for the House to alibi itself around this very important matter when it has allowed the Senate no opportunity to act. Under the Constitution and custom the House originates legislation relating to taxation, debt, interest, etc. As the House, after weeks of consideration, has passed no interest rate bill the Senate has had no opportunity to act."

Ike Has Taken Dulles' Place

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower now completely dominates American foreign policy and has been almost entirely out of the public eye since taking office last spring.

First, he was occupied many weeks at Geneva negotiating with the Soviets, unsuccessfully, over Berlin. He hastened back to go quickly to Latin America for conferences. Then he returned and set off for Europe with Eisenhower.

Typically, ever since reaching Europe with the President last week, Herter has stayed in the background. There was no one to share the spotlight with Eisenhower. It wouldn't have been that way if Dulles were secretary.

Just go back four years—to the weeks before and after Eisenhower's 1955 summit conference at Geneva—and the records show how much Dulles was in the picture with the President.

Except for the actual summit meeting itself, Dulles was the one who dominated the news, not Eisenhower. Before the summit meeting he even shared a TV appearance with the President, and did most of the talking.

It seems safe to say that if Dulles, who died last May, were alive today Eisenhower would not be having the news all to himself. It might have been Dulles, not Eisenhower, who was now touring Allied capitals.

A vacuum in American foreign policy began appearing early this year when Dulles, dying of cancer, faded behind hospital walls. There was no one left but Eisenhower to direct or dominate that policy. And Eisenhower did.

He continued to do so as Dulles died and Herter was out of the country. The President relied far more on Dulles for guidance than he appears to do on Herter.

Nevertheless, through the first half of this year there was not much initiative here in foreign policy for the simple reason that Khrushchev had seized it and kept it.

First, Khrushchev created a crisis over West Berlin by threatening to force Allied troops out of the city if they didn't go willingly. Then the early months of the year were taken up with trying to get Khrushchev, who wanted a summit conference, to let foreign ministers discuss Berlin.

He continued to keep the Allies jittery with his belligerent statements. When he finally agreed to a foreign ministers conference, it was almost certain to fail anyway because he wanted it to. He preferred a summit meeting.

And when it did fail it was Khrushchev, so far as is publicly known, who first proposed, last July 7, an exchange of visits between him and Eisenhower. The President agreed.

And all of Eisenhower's activities since then have been taken up with preparations for Khrushchev's visit here in mid-September. The President's conferences with Allies in Europe now are a prelude to meeting Khrushchev.

Old Newshound's On The Wagon

NEW YORK (AP) — In middle age about the only exercise some men get is climbing on the water wagon—and falling off.

After more than a quarter century of traveling the cocktail circuit—purely in the line of duty naturally—I find myself spending more and more of my time — by choice — high and dry on the old wagon.

My reason is quite simple. I like the change of view it gives, and am getting to like it more and more.

My initiation into the cup that cheers goes back to the Prohibition days when people sat around in dimly lit apartments gulping home brew out of kitchen pans at 35 cents a pan. It was fun merely because it was illegal. The beer was green, strong enough to curdle all four stomachs of the average cow.

Later, as a cub reporter, it was pure joy to stand at the bar drinking two-for-a-quarter shots of amber spirits of grain while listening to the colorful old-timers tell how life was like in the good old days.

But one by one—in this city, in that city—the old-timers took their last one for the road, and the road never led back.

The era of social drinking came in, and the trouble with social drinking is that it isn't really social—and it isn't really drinking.

Barroom camaraderie began to disappear when they took the sawdust off the floor and started admitting wrongs.

A coeducational saloon is like a coeducational barber shop. It is an anachronism, and has no place in an ordered world.

There is another good reason for climbing the wagon. It is more peaceful and restful.

Twenty-five years ago the taverns were inhabited by wise and witty men who said wonderful things in a wonderful way. The conversation in a tavern today is downright boring. All the people there want to do is tell each other their personal woes. The bartender has become a wet nurse and a psychiatrist.

What is life like to a man still getting used to a high dry perch? Well, sometimes, he does get a bit lonely for the camaraderie of vanished times, but they are times that vanished years ago. His evening now and then gets a bit monotonous, but he has wonderful mornings.

He goes to bed feeling good and wakes up feeling fine. Life holds a new awareness. He now has time to do all the things he's wanted to do, and he does them. He reads more books, goes to more plays.

In a way it's like being born again. Nothing is stale. Everything is new, as if he were seeing the world for the first time.

He feels no urge to join a temperance league or take up Carrie A. Nation's hatchet, but he does mildly wonder why in heaven he didn't clamber up the wagon sooner—so he'd have a longer joyride.

"Could I trouble you for a light, Mac...?"

Around The Rim

Unlamented Good Old Days

While some will debate whether there have been any great advances in the curriculum (actually I think great strides have been made in both offerings and methods), there can be little debate that physical properties in schools have been improved vastly in one generation.

I can barely remember my first grade room, but I do recall that when the desks—which were too big for most youngsters that age—were exhausted, the remainder were seated around a table with sawed legs. There was certainly no public address system and the only semblance of music around the school was when they beat time on the triangle (such as ranch cooks used to call up cowhands at noon time) to set the tempo for children to march into school.

At another school, it was feast or famine with the heat. Usually by the time pupils were beginning to turn blue with cold, the janitor would come in, shake the foundation of the plant as he grabbed the shaker on the grate. Then he would pour in the coal and stoke the pot-bellied stove and set the roasting process in motion. When the wind blew in the spring, windows rattled and managed to sift out the larger grains of sand.

When we moved here, old Central Ward (where the post office stands now) was the citadel of elementary learning. This stately structure had a well from the balcony to the first floor with stairways flanking it on either side. Corridors ran off in roundabouts in each direction and no attempt was made to heat this vast wasted area. On top was a cupola topped by the traditional bell. Downstairs off to one side was a phonograph with a morning glory attachment which was used to magnify the sound of the Liberty Bell march and the Stars and Stripes Forever. The rest rooms were red clapboard affairs out to the north side and were slightly fragrant.

When I got to junior high, which was then the high school (now the west end of Runnels), this was practically the latest word. We had steam radiators which occasionally delivered the right amount of heat. There were shades, of perhaps I should say places for shades for most of them somehow managed to be torn from the rollers. As in all school buildings of that day and time, the windows were at an awkward height, probably on the theory that if children couldn't see over them while seated they wouldn't be distracted. There were light drops from the center of the ceiling, but most of them had the socket torn off or the wire was missing. I can't recall offhand that none of the lights worked except in the auditorium and offices.

Desks were for years of the old cast iron frames with a slanting top and a shelf underneath to hold your books. Usually when you pulled out one book all your papers and other books came along. The inkwell holes almost never had an inkwell in it—and that's probably just as well even though the muscular movement writing teacher insisted on a pen and staff. Most of the time some idle lad had tested his pocket knife on the desk top so that you couldn't write on it without a notebook binder or tablet underneath. Sometimes one of the legs of the frame were chipped and the desk was a little unsteady. There was no adjusting them and if you were short of stature or gangling, you managed somehow to stuff yourself in. Such were the Good old days.

Keeper Of The Charts

For what it is worth—and it probably would like to another knot on my noggin—I would like to toss out today a suggestion, recently made by one of the nation's most brilliant surgeons, as partial solution of the shortage of nurses that afflicts this nation.

This distinguished doctor expressed his conviction that a stiff, one-year course in general nursing would fully equip most Florence Nightingales competently to discharge the duties permitted them under the American medical system.

"In the first place," he said, "I have the greatest respect for the nursing profession. I would not deprive the profession of one iota of the honor it merits, or its essential importance in healing."

"But, in the second place, in the United States no nurse is permitted to practice medicine. The American nurse does not enjoy the leeway of her counterpart in England, for instance."

"Many brilliant American nurses are reduced to being medical bookkeepers. Oh, yes, the medical profession is snowed under with paper work, too. Too often the nurse only takes temperatures, counts pulses and keeps charts. She gives such medication as the doctor orders."

"The kind of bright girls who go into nursing could learn in one year of hard, earnest work all that is required of them or that most of them will ever be called upon to perform."

"I think the three- and four-year courses now required of nurses are full of drudgery and often degrading tasks that have little bearing on what they will be doing once they are graduated. And there is no reason that the girl who wants to go on and specialize in more advanced phases of nursing should not be given every opportunity."

Well, sir, when I heard this conversation over the dinner table three months ago, I came home and wrote it down, because I thought it was so interesting, novel and controversial.

But two things have happened since then to make me meditate on it considerably. First, the city of Albany, N. Y., and its surrounding territory have just announced that both are inaugurating two-year training courses for nurses. It is plainly experimental, but it is being undertaken in the belief that the old three- and four-year nursing courses can be modernized, streamlined, up-dated and handily taught in 24 months.

If the hospitals of Albany and vicinity are successful, it could establish a new pattern for the nation. Furthermore, it might help in part to ameliorate the nursing shortage.

The second occurrence to focus my attention on the nursing situation hits much closer home. The Head of Clan Robb is just home from the hospital after surgery. As a result, I spent the best part of a week in the hospital, one of the best in the city. Most of one floor of this hospital, which had just been redecorated, had not yet been reopened. Why? Because of a nursing shortage. The head of the hospital was waiting until staff nurses returned from vacation to return the institution to full operation.

Let me say immediately that my husband received the best of care. But once he was released from the recovery room, no nurse did more than keep the case chart, recording pulse, temperature and medication. We are both grateful that he required no more complicated care.

But it has made me wonder if, in many instances, the solution to the present shortage of nurses doesn't lie, perhaps, in a happy compromise between the Albany two-year school and the surgeon's one-year cram course.

The Gallup Poll

Curb Teen-Age Pistol Packin'

PRINCETON, N. J.—In New York City last week, a 17-year-old "gang leader" fired a volley from his .22 rifle into a crowd and killed a 14-year-old girl.

A 15-year-old boy shot and killed his best pal while demonstrating how the safety works on his new rifle. Another teen-ager killed his younger brother while practicing a quick draw with a revolver he didn't know was loaded.

These are just several instances of the types of gun tragedies happening daily across the nation. An estimated 40 persons a day in the U. S. are killed by firearms.

The public today shows itself willing to adopt stricter firearm legislation which might have possibly averted the kinds of incidents mentioned above.

As parts of its special study of the public's attitude on curbing the use of guns and ammunition, the Gallup Poll asked the public about two suggestions advanced by many authorities as ways in which the yearly toll of firearms deaths might be reduced.

An overwhelming majority of American adults would strictly regulate the use of guns by teen-agers. One adult in three would go so far as to forbid completely the use of guns by persons under 18.

A majority of the public would favor making it illegal for the private citizen to keep a loaded gun in his home.

(On two other suggested restrictions, as reported earlier, public support is evident. An overwhelming majority would favor requiring a police permit before the purchase of any gun. A smaller majority would back the same procedure before buying shells or ammunition.)

This was the first question asked by Gallup Poll reporters of a cross-section of the American public.

"Which of these three plans would you prefer for the use of guns by persons under the age of 18—would they use completely, put strict regulations on their use, or continue at present with few regulations?"

TEEN-AGE USE OF GUNS?

Per cent

Forbid completely 34

Regulate strictly 51

Continue at present 12

No opinion 3

The very low percentage falling to express an opinion on this issue testifies to the interest on the public's part. Reporters found this particular question sparked a great deal of interest among the people they talked with.

Support for restriction on youngsters' use of guns is significantly higher among women than it is among men. Nine out of ten women want some kind of regulation; four in ten women would forbid the use of guns by teen-agers completely.

The National Rifle Association annual casualty report for 1956 showed that youngsters in the 11-to-19 age group accounted for almost half the hunting casualties (although only about a quarter of all hunters are under 25.) A fourth of all accidental gun deaths in the U. S. happen to youths under fifteen.

A second question in the series asked the following: "Do you think it should be legal or illegal for private citizens to have loaded weapons in their homes?"

LOADED WEAPONS IN HOME?

Illegal 53

Legal 40

No opinion 7

A frequently-used argument by persons opposed to additional gun regulations has been the point that the nation's gun-owners would object to restrictions.

In the case of persons owning shotguns and rifles at present (the bulk of the country's gun owners), this is not true. Among shotgun and rifle owners, the weight of opinion favors the restriction—although they are somewhat more reluctant than the public as a whole to outlaw loaded guns in the home.

Among the nation's pistol and revolver owners however, six in ten feel that it should be legal to keep a loaded weapon in the home.

In all regions of the country, except one, the public is in favor of outlawing loaded guns in the home.

The one exception is the South—a region where present restrictions on guns are almost non-existent.

The final article in the Gallup Poll's current series will report the public's attitude toward outlawing the possession of all pistols and revolvers by private individuals. The article—will be published in the Big Spring Herald—will also deal with the size and type of "arsenal" Americans have in their homes.

DEAR ABBY

Small Showers, Please

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After being married for 11 years and bearing five children for my husband, he still says he is "GOING HOME" when he goes to visit his parents.

It is a little town about 60 miles from here and he makes the trip about once a week. I know it is natural for a man to want to see his parents, but it makes me very angry to hear him say, "I am going HOME."

Don't you think that after 11 years where his wife and children are should be called HOME? This may seem like a small matter to you but it is big to a woman whose husband feels more at home with his mother than with his own wife and children. SECOND CHOICE

DEAR SECOND: Don't jump to any hasty conclusions. "HOME" to most people is the town they've grown up in. It's simply habit and doesn't indicate that your husband feels more "at home" with his mother than he does with you.

Remove that chip from your shoulder.

DEAR ABBY: To "OLD-FASHIONED" who wants to know "Where are all those lovely teenage girls who used to sit with children for the joy of it?" May I say, "When parents start raising children who are a joy to sit with, perhaps teen-agers will again sit for the joy of it."

Yours Truly, FORMER SITTER

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon and before I announce her engagement I would like some advice. Our town has a habit of putting on huge showers for brides. Four or five women get together and invite everybody in town whether they know the bride or not. In my opinion it is just a racket to collect as many gifts as possible. Then when the wedding and reception list is made up, many of the guests are the same women who have brought a gift to the showers. How can I get across to my friends that I do not care for this wholesale kind of affair?

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE DEAR MOTHER: Inform any friends who offer to give a shower for your daughter that you prefer they do not for the above-mentioned reason, which is as sensible as any could be. People are pretty sick of being soaked at showers.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING": Of course you should ask how "ALL" the children are. A retarded child's health and progress is particularly important to his parents. Only a very ignorant or thoughtless person would intentionally avoid mentioning the retarded child when inquiring about the family.

For ABBY's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-ager Wants to Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to this paper.

Danzig Was Pain For Hitler Even On Day Reich Moved In

By LYNN HEINZLERING

Associated Press Staff Writer

The guns spoke at 4:47 a.m. in Danzig, putting the world at war for the second time in a generation. It was Sept. 1, 1939, and the fateful shots had been expected for months. Adolph Hitler was fulfilling his promise to seize Danzig back from League of Nations trusteeship for his "greater German Reich."

As the ominous rumble of gunfire echoed over the stately old city, pigeons cooed from the gables of the ancient houses. Windows flew up, Hitler's storm troopers already were pasting up signs proclaiming Danzig's return to Germany.

Down in the harbor, the German cruiser Schleswig Holstein, which had slipped into port a week earlier on a "courtesy visit," was pumping shell after shell into the Westerplatte peninsula. Here the small Polish garrison in the city guarded a munitions dump. The cruiser's white hull slowly blackened as the big guns roared.

The free state of Danzig, including the city and a small surrounding area, had been created under the Treaty of Versailles after World War I at Polish insistence. It was placed under the protection of the League of Nations.

With its many towers, Renaissance buildings and its austere Marienkirche, Danzig was one of the loveliest cities in northern Europe.

There had been no mistaking the approach of war in Danzig. For weeks, straight-backed strangers with the unmistakable bearing of the German Wehrmacht had been prowling the city in civilian clothes.

Barbed wire had sprouted at strategic positions. A pontoon bridge had been built over the Vistula. Communications lines were laid openly from the city to various headquarters in the surrounding countryside.

The day before it happened, more strangers appeared. The stores had been crowded all day with Germans. They had the greedy, luxury-loving glint in their eyes which bespoke the austerities of Hitler's Reich even before the war. The wise Danzigers finally clamped down on the sale of coffee and other cherished items.

At the Deutsches Haus, where I had been staying for nearly two months, it was hot and unusually quiet on the night of Aug. 31. The three-piece German orchestra in the hotel cafe signed off with a flourish earlier than usual and departed, never to return.

Notices were posted announcing that the sale of alcoholic drinks was being discontinued. These included two highly cherished drinks made in Danzig—goldwasser and machandel. The disappearance of whipped cream was another telltale sign of emergency.

Shortly before 10 p.m. that night, a German with a leathery face and a demanding voice gun which really was a museum piece.

Facing him, only 700 yards away, was the Schleswig Holstein with four 11-inch guns, ten 6-inch guns and other guns of smaller calibre. In addition, the Germans had almost unlimited ground and air forces to throw against him.

It was fire from the Schleswig Holstein which brought the garrison to its posts. At almost the same time, a German ground force tried to force its way into the Polish positions. Machine guns in high buildings across a canal from the garrison also opened fire. Sucharski had his hands full.

The Polish field gun was hit by a German shell after firing only 30 rounds. But Sucharski and his men repulsed the ground attack. They repulsed two more attacks at dusk.

When night fell over Danzig, Sucharski ordered some tracer bullets fired into the sky from the Westerplatte to taunt the Germans and show he was still there. Hitler had planned to take Danzig in one day. All the decorations for a celebration had been put up in the city.

For six days and nights, while their positions crumbled about them, fires burned and their communications were destroyed, Sucharski and his shrinking band held the fort.

On the seventh day, Maj. Sucharski put on his big sword, lined up 71 men who could still stand and surrendered. The other members of the garrison were dead or wounded.

The German commander was so impressed by the gallant major he allowed him to keep his sword. But Sucharski, writing an account of the action later in a German prison camp, said:

"It was the most tragic moment of my life."

Tomorrow: Warsaw's ordeal.

"Troubled with Irregularity"

Mrs. Oscar Potter, Morrow, Ohio, had been bothered with constipation due to lack of bulk. She writes:

"I had irregularity trouble for a long time. Finally I gave Kellogg's All-Bran a try to see if it would work. Believe me, it did!"

There's a good reason why Kellogg's All-Bran corrects irregularity caused by lack of bulk. It is a whole bran cereal—nature's best bulk-forming food. A half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk each day supplies all the food bulk needed for natural regularity. Eat Kellogg's All-Bran for 10 days—see if it doesn't work for you, too.

NAACP Leader, Publisher Air Race Problems

DALLAS (AP)—Verbal thrusts between a leading NAACP spokesman and a Mississippi publisher enlivened an airing of integration issues at a national church conference Tuesday night.

Six panelists undertook to appraise the issues in public education at the Methodist Conference on Human Relations, being held at Southern Methodist University.

The audience of about 1,500 persons centered much of its attention on what amounted to a personal duel between Oliver Emmerich, publisher of newspapers at McComb and Jackson, Miss., and Thurgood Marshall of New York, general counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The two, seated side by side, occasionally shouted into their microphones to emphasize a point. Each drew applause. Afterward they smiled and conversed in seeming good humor.

Emmerich told the church conference: "I cringe at any racial injustice, but segregationists are not willing to admit the doctrine of separate but equal facilities (first held unconstitutional in a 1954 Supreme Court decision) is immoral."

"Racial traits make us different, and the color of our skins is but a symbol. When the races are integrated in our schools, these conflicts are brought into sharp focus."

"Love and harmony cannot be forced. Hundreds of thousands of these (Negro) people prefer to have their own churches and their own schools."

Marshall, after declaring the law clearly forbids segregation, said: "Many persons seem to think some legal maneuvering still can be done. We forget altogether the moral issue. The children belong to all of us, whether they are white, black, green or red..."

"You have no right to keep Negroes out of your schools—they belong to all the people. You have no right to keep Negroes out of your church—it's God's church."

Dog Pulls Switch On 'Hero' Routine

DENVER (AP)—The family dog dragged 11-month-old Stephen Young's stroller into the path of a car Tuesday. The child was critically hurt. Police said the dog, whose leash had been tied to the stroller, was chasing a cat. The child's sister, Linda, 8, had left him while she went to a nearby drugstore.

In these days when so many occasions arise which require persons to change residence, the importance of moving services has become a highly important factor in modern economy.

Addison Theft Trial Delayed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Trials of uranium promoter John Milton Addison and two associates have been postponed until Nov. 2. The state claimed it had not completed its investigation and that some of its expert witnesses were not available.

With 100 backers in the courtroom, Addison issued statement declaring a trial would "completely clear my name."

Addison faces trial on two charges of theft over $50 and one of violation of the State Securities Act in connection with the promotion of his Benson uranium up-grader. Dan Nance is named in two charges of theft over $50, and John Metz one charge of theft over $50. Officials said Addison's transactions totaled about one million dollars.

IN PAN-AM GAMES

Crunching Yankee Wins Continuing

CHICAGO (AP)—The track and field phase of the third Pan-American Games ends today, but not the crunching United States' victory march which in five days of competition has produced 33 gold medals for Uncle Sam.

As the U.S.A.'s Olympic-pointing track squad seeks a last batch of titles in a seven-even program in Soldier Field, an equally powerful American swimming legion gets down to championship action in the spanking new Portage Park pool. The one-sidedness of this 10-day Western Hemisphere athletic carnival is underscored by the fact that, beyond the United States, the only other gold medal winners have been Cuba, with two, and West Indies, Argentina, Mexico and Chile with one each.

There may be a few rays of Latin-American sunshine in today's skirmishing. In track and field, defending champion Adhemar Ferreira de Silva is favored to win the hop-step-and-jump; the West Indies may upset the U.S.A. in the 1,600 meter relay; and Walter Lemos of Argentina is a strong contender in the marathon.

In swimming, Cuba's Manuel Sanguy seems a cinch to register the only non-U.S.A. title in the 200-meter breaststroke.

In tennis, Chile's Luis Ayala meets Canada's Bob Bestard for the men's singles title, while the U.S.A.'s pro-minded Althea Gibson, prancing out of retirement, faces Yolanda Ramirez of Mexico, for the women's crown.

The U.S.A.'s powerful basketball team seeks its fourth triumph without defeat against El Salvador (6-3), while Canada (1-2) meets Puerto Rico (3-1).

CHOICE SEATS CAN BE HAD Big Spring area basketball fans can still obtain choice seats for the Oct. 3 pro case game between the St. Louis Hawks and Philadelphia Warriors at Lubbock Coliseum.

Some choice tickets became available this week when Texas Tech season ticket holders failed to exercise their options on them. These duets are now being sold to the public on a "first come, first served" basis.

The pro game will feature some of the top names in basketball, including Centers Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of Philadelphia and Bob Pettit of St. Louis. Their man-to-man scoring duel is expected to be one of the game's highlights.

Other stars who will see action at Lubbock include Slater Martin, Clyde Lovellette, Neil Johnston, Tom Gola, Cliff Hagan and Guy Rodgers.

The tilt will be played at 3:30 p.m., preceding the night football game between Texas Tech and Tulsa. Thus, area sports fans will be able to enjoy a unique doubleheader in Lubbock on Oct. 3.

Tickets for the basketball contest are priced at $3, $2.50 and $2, with all seats reserved. They may be ordered by mailing a check in the proper amount to Pro Basketball, Box 5002, Lubbock, Texas.

Stalwarts At Stanton

Stanton Coach Harlin Dauphin is building his forward wall around these five linemen, who'll have their first major task in the opening game with Merkel in Stanton Friday night.

JIM BUNNING SLOWS DOWN CHICAGO SURGE

Add another chapter to the strange career of Jim Bunning, the lean right-hander who was a surprise game winner two years ago, then pitched a no-hit masterpiece—and faded.

Tuesday night he shut out Chicago's streaking, first-place White Sox, one of the toughest clubs to blank in the American League, putting them away on three singles and ending their winning string at five as Detroit took a 4-0 victory.

It was Bunning's first shutout in 45 starts since July 20, 1958—the day he no-hit Boston 3-0. It was only the sixth time this season that the White Sox, their edge over rain-aided Cleveland cut to five games, have been held scoreless.

Ted Kluszewski had two of the White Sox' hits. Luis Aparicio had the other as Bunning, now 14-10, bagged his fifth straight victory.

It also was the Tigers' fifth success in a row, matching their best streak of the year, and retained their one-game hold on third place over New York. The Yankees defeated Baltimore 5-0 as Duren Ford and reliever Ryne Duren combined for a seven-hit shutout.

Washington beat Boston 7-4, with Harmon Killebrew regaining a share of the major league home run lead with his 29th.

While Bunning continued his spell over the White Sox—He has beaten them four in a row over the past year and nine times out of 10 over five seasons—the Tigers added to their hex-over Bob Shaw. The young right-hander, who broke in with Detroit in '57, has beaten every club but the Tigers. Now 14-5 for the season, he's 0-3 against Detroit.

The Tigers tagged him for nine of their 12 hits and all their runs in his five innings, giving Bunning the run he needed in the first inning when Larry Osborne singled, Harvey Kuhn doubled and Al Kaline hit a sacrifice fly.

Kuenn was 4-for-5, upping his AL leading average five points to .356.

The Chicago White Sox can go all the way in the American League race this season, perhaps there is hope for the Baylor Bears Southwest Conference football.

The White Sox haven't won the pennant since 1919. It's been 34 years since Baylor ruled the SWC.

Harold Fischer, manager of Bobby Layne's bowling center here, noted in some parts of East Texas as the man who called a well known game official's bluff on one occasion and backed the arbiter up to a wall.

The incident occurred at the time Fischer was coach at Stephen Austin College.

Incidentally, Buddy Parker, Layne's coach at Pittsburgh, reasons Bobby got a bum rap in that Austin arrest the other day.

"We know that Bobby couldn't have been the football player he has been for ten or 11 years and lived that way," says Parker. "Because he goes in and has a beer doesn't mean all the rest. I think Bobby Layne is the greatest football player ever to come out of Texas."

Ole Miss has more eyes playing in the National Football League than any other school. No fewer than 15 one-time Rebels are now active in the circuit.

Joe Bygraves, the Jamaica Negro who fought Roy Harris in Houston last week, has now had 55 professional fights. He moved to England to further his career 15 years ago.

Ossie Alvarez, the ex-Big Spring infielder, probably the nation's most traveled baseball player this year, will finish the season with the Houston Braves but he's doubtful he'll be there again next spring. His general housecleaning is due in that American Association club.

NM Aggies Face Tough Foe In Last Game Next Week

UNIVERSITY PARK, N. M. (SC)—Coach Warren Woodson of New Mexico State University greeted 55 Aggie varsity candidates when football began in earnest with practice drills yesterday.

Monday the various candidates drew football gear and then cavorted before press cameras at NMSU's annual Fresh and Picture Day at Memorial Stadium.

Tuesday it was all business. The Aggies have a scant 10 days of practice to prepare for possibly their toughest opener, against the number two small college team in the nation last fall—Arizona State College.

Word was already being received that Lumberjack Coach Max Spilsbury feels his boys will "beat the Aggies."

Quotes from Arizona newspapers this past week include: "The Arizona State College Lumberjacks have started football workouts with a vow to go all the way in '59."

Feeling is running high in the Lumberjack camp over the New Mexico challenge.

The coach (Spilsbury) claims there is not a better back in the Southwest than senior fullback Ron Cole, a 175-pounder from Plattsburg, N. Y.

—When told that New Mexico State's Charlie Johnson was rated the Border Conference's best quarterback, Coach Spilsbury said, "He'll have to be good."

Then he pointed to his own signal caller, 170-pound Ted Sorich. "Ted likes the opposition to be keen," Max said. "We know Johnson's good, but he'll have to go some to beat our Ted."

The Aggies definitely have their work cut out for them. Arizona State College is a small school with a major team. The Maroon and White will also have to battle the tendency to look past the Sept. 12 Lumberjack encounter at Memorial Stadium to the Sept. 19 clash with arch-rival University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

Woodson will have 18 lettermen, several key junior college transfers and a couple hundred freshmen around which to mold a team.

First and foremost among the athletes is the team's field general, Quarterback Charley Johnson. He was the total offense leader in the Border Conference last season as a sophomore. He was named to the All-Conference first team and won Associated Press practice field again Tuesday and worked until dark. Coach Al Milch reasons he can get more out of the boys in the cooler temperatures. Around 4 p.m. yesterday, the accustomed hour for the Steers to get down to hard work, the temperature was more than 100 degrees.

Milch and his aides have made one change in their lineup. They've moved Tommy Rutledge in ahead of Wayne Vaughan as an end. Rutledge has been showing to advantage and will be difficult for anyone to move out. Robert Carr is the other terminal.

R. L. Lassater, the fleetest man in uniform, has been playing regularly and has proved a pleasant surprise for the coaches. He has been slow to learn the plays but he is learning them.

Big Crowd Is Due Thursday

All indications point to a record turnout when the Big Spring Quarterback Club feeds the 1959 Steer football team, John Currie told members of the booster organization at their regular weekly meeting in the High School Auditorium last night.

QBC Co-Captain Currie said the club was making plans to feed about 1,000 persons. The barbecue takes place in the amphitheatre of the City Park, starting at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Football players and their dates, along with coaches, will be special guests of the club. The principal address will be delivered by Mike Brumblow, former head coach at athletic director at Texas Western College.

An estimated 20 persons attended last night's QBC parley and heard brief talks by Curtis Kelley and Bill (Chop) Van Pelt, assistant Steer mentors, who commented on workouts of the Steers to date.

Kelley and Van Pelt also gave intelligence reports on San Antonio Edison, first opponent of the Steers this season.

A full scouting report on Edison will be given at next week's meeting of the club.

Membership tickets in the club are still being sold, and Currie said the response of the club had been encouraging.

The membership duets sell for $3 each and a card will entitle the holder to attend the barbecue without charge. Tickets to the barbecue itself sell for $1.50 each. Children under 12 can gain admission to the barbecue for 75 cents.

Bovines Go To Monahans For 5 O'Clock Scrimmage

The Big Spring Steers go to Monahans today for a 5 p.m. scrimmage, repaying a visit the Monahans club made here a season ago.

Monahans is coached by Ray Pope, who coached at McCamey for a season and gave the school five district winners.

The Lobos compete in District 2-AAA. They ended last season with a 4-5-1 record but Pope expects a big improvement this fall. They have 13 of 24 lettermen returning.

The scrimmage will be the first of three this week for the Longhorns. They visit Levelland Saturday to mix with Levelland and Amarillo High School in a three-way arrangement in which each squad works at 20 minute intervals.

The Steers reported late to the

Cobra Who Bit Snake Handler Dies

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Two weeks ago a deadly hooded cobra from India bit a reptile garden snake handler, William White. Anti-cobra serum was flown here from Miami, Fla., in Air Force jets. White, 32, recovered. Tuesday the cobra died. John Flinchbaugh, operator of the reptile garden, said the snake's fangs were loosened when it struck through a heavy canvas bag to bite White. Its jaw was dislocated when White jerked his hand away. Death was attributed to infection of the injured area. No one seemed interested in trying to reset the jaw.

Odessa Policeman Slays Ex-Convict

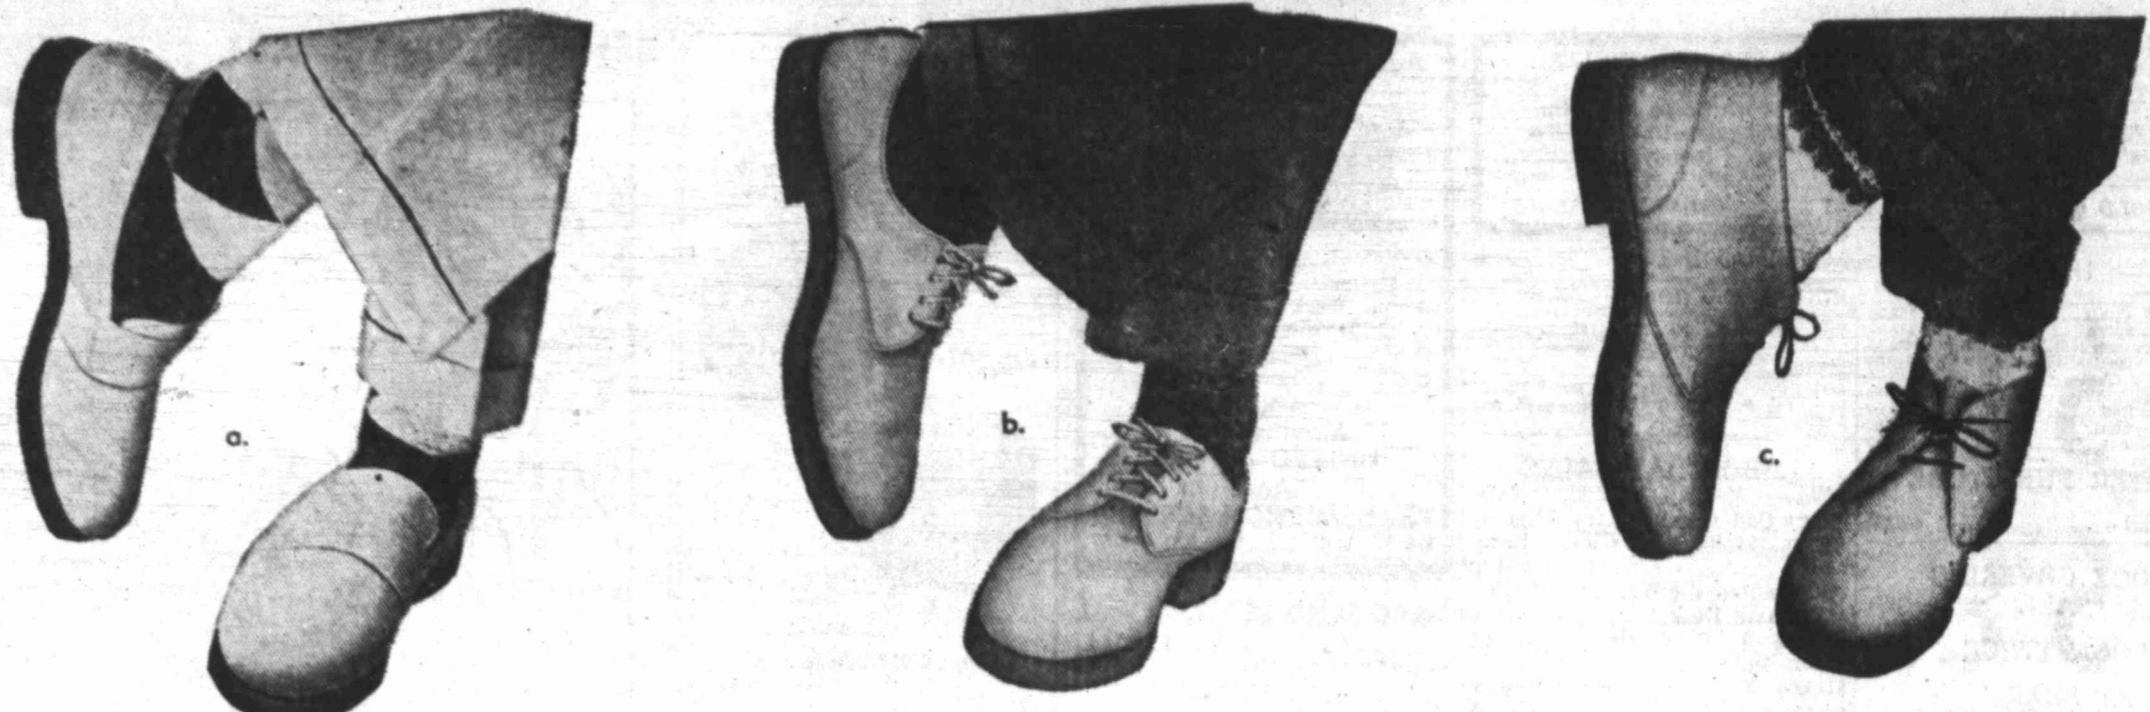

ODESSA (AP)—A young Negro ex-convict who disarmed two policemen and held them at bay was shot to death Tuesday by police Capt. M. L. Buehn. The dead man was Ira Brown. The shooting came after Brown fled from the courthouse while his wife fled formal charges that he had threatened her and the couple's four children. When detectives went to the Brown home, the Negro met them with a pistol and held them hostage until he was shot by Buehn.

Painful Curiosity

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The rock on the movie set didn't look real to singer-actor Pat Boone. He kicked it with his bare foot Tuesday. It was real. Boone has a broken toe.

By BOB SMITH

Couple months ago, Glenn Coates came back to The Herald staff. And thereby hung a dilemma. It was Glenn who originated the "Critique" banner, which this critic inherited when our colleague departed for Ohio. But with Glenn back and wanting to write an occasional column, there arose the question whether the Critique should be shared. Do what you want, Glenn said. Well, few indeed are the columns shared by more than one writer. Every critic likes to have his own nameplate, and it was Glenn Coates who invented the Critique. Next problem was a name for my column. Could have swiped one from another newspaper, but that isn't considered cricket. News, yes, but not column names. We won't go into the many names that suggested themselves — they were too corny. The Front Row was chosen mainly because it was less corny than the others, and we were getting desperate. So, The Front Row it is. What Midland's doing: Children's theatre tryouts are being held for "Tom Sawyer." Director is Doris Glenn, formerly of Cleveland, who also heads regular classes in the children's theatre. The Film Club is going strong. Each year, they choose a schedule of showings from among dozens of film classics. Some of these classics date back to the beginnings of the movie industry, such as "The Informer." Wish we had space here to list them all. "The Solid Gold Cadillac" is scheduled for early October. "Guys and Dolls" will be Midland Theatre's project for early next year. They're just finishing the annual summer mummerys. "Desire Under the Dates," locally written. Summer mummerys revives the old mellerdrammers in a tavern setting, so you can partake of beer and pretzels in the old-fashioned manner whilst watching the villain tie the helpless heroine to the railroad tracks.

Notes from other cities: The State Fair of Texas in Dallas will include seven free shows for its "Shower of Stars." The "big name" stars include Herb Shriner, Red Foley, Mitch Miller, Johnny Puleo, Steve McQueen, Sam Cooke and Bandleaders Woody Herman, Perez Prado and Chris Barber with their orchestras. "Shower of Stars" shows will be presented Oct. 12, 13, 15, 16, 19, 20 and 21.
