Mrs. K. Knows Her Corn

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — When Nina Khrushchev looked over Iowa's corn Wednesday it was with a knowing eye. That's the word from her hostess, Mrs. Roswell Garst, who said Mrs. Khrushchev "knows a great deal about agriculture."

What's more, added the wife of one of Iowa's big seed corn growers, Mrs. Khrushchev understands the techniques involved in growing hybrid seed corn.

Gray-haired Mrs. Khrushchev turned aside invitations to take a look at a Coon Rapids elementary school and stuck with her Soviet Premier husband to trudge through the black soil of several farmyards and fields.

She had to put up with a crush of newsmen and photographers that at times shut off her view. She and her husband were separated completely in the mob scene.

In a black suit and wearing open, sling-back white shoes, she pushed her way through to peer over a gray fence at a special herd of Charolais bulls that Khrushchev was inspecting.

"She didn't have enough time to settle down and have a good look," Mrs. Garst lamented, nor "any time for serious, comfortable discussion."

And the fast-paced visit didn't give Mrs. Garst a chance to bring his wife the pleas of several persons who had sent letters to the Garst farm appealing for intercession to get relatives out of Iron Curtain countries.

Garst himself said he had brought up the matter in a "broad way" to Khrushchev, but not by individuals. Anyway, Mrs. Garst assured, "they aren't going ignored."

Mrs. Garst, gray-haired too, wearing eye glasses and a green and white print dress for the famous visit, was much annoyed by the working press.

Mrs. Garst told photographers "I don't want my picture taken—get away from me."

"It's very, very annoying," she said to Mrs. Khrushchev, "and I would like to kick them in the face, too." Her terrible-tempered husband actually had kicked a newsmen or two.

Bushes in front of the Garst home were trampled, equipment and people were everywhere. But the luncheon, to which the Garsts had invited more than 100 friends of their own to join the Soviet party of about equal number, apparently was a success. And Mrs. Khrushchev thought it was good.

Hostages Jump To Safety

Two women hostages, held by a red-headed gunman during an attempted holdup, jump to safety through the shattered glass of the Cleveland Trust Co. branch office in Cleveland, Ohio. The gunman released the branch manager and several other employees without harming them. The gunman was found dead on the floor when police finally rushed the building.

U. S. Steel President Suffers Knife Wound

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Munford, president of the strikebound U.S. Steel Co., wounded himself accidentally while handling a knife, Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis reported today. Munford, 59, was taken from his nearby Chatham summer home to Cape Cod Hospital in serious condition Wednesday. He had been wounded in the abdomen with a kitchen paring knife. "I am satisfied that there is no criminal aspect to this case whatsoever," Dinis said after an investigation.

He said all evidence indicated the wound was not intentionally self-inflicted. The accident, he said, apparently occurred while Munford was in the kitchen putting away kitchen utensils. He said Mrs. Munford told him the kitchen floor was made of highly waxed flagstones.

He quoted Mrs. Munford as saying there is a "difficult step leading into the kitchen" near the spot where the accident occurred. "No one knows how the accident happened," Dinis said. "No one else was present at the time."

Dinis said Munford's wife found him standing up "apparently not aware that he was stabbed." He didn't realize what had happened. Dinis indicated he would not immediately question Munford, who has been under medical treatment for fatigue and nervous exhaustion by Dr. Robert Harned of Chatham for about four weeks.

Before Dinis completed his investigation, Gerard A. Ouellette, administrator of the Cape Cod Hospital announced Munford apparently had wounded himself with a knife while in a state of fatigue. He said Munford was in serious condition when he arrived, but that his condition was excellent after surgery.

Ouellette had said earlier two doctors "were getting ready to go with Mr. Munford to Boston to arrange for further treatment" for his nervous condition. The hospital reported Munford had a good night and described his condition today as "satisfactory."

Ouellette issued this statement: "Mr. Munford has been under the care of his personal physician for the past few weeks suffering from fatigue and nervous exhaustion. The day before yesterday Dr. O'Connor (Robert B.) and Harvey N. Jordan, executive vice president of U.S. Steel, visited Mr. and Mrs. Munford as overnight guests."

"During yesterday morning while getting ready to go with Mrs. Munford to Boston to arrange for further treatment he apparently wounded himself with a knife. He was immediately taken to the Cape Cod Hospital where the wound was repaired. His condition post-operatively was satisfactory. Today his progress continues to be good."

As the district attorney in charge of Barnstable County began an investigation, it was learned that the injury to the steel executive remained undisclosed until nine hours after Munford's admission to the hospital. The circumstances of the stabbing were not disclosed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ceremony has been cut to a minimum for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's return to the nation's capital late today. The emphasis will be not on bands and an elaborate motorcade which welcomed him 10 days ago, but on getting him and his party from the airport to the President's guest house as rapidly as possible through Washington's heavy late-afternoon traffic.

Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy was assigned as the ranking American official to greet the Soviet Premier at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland. President Eisenhower and other top officials met him on his first arrival Sept. 15. Official Washington appeared to be much less concerned about Khrushchev's second stop here than about his first. When he landed the first time, concern for his personal security was so great that all available police and hundreds of men from the armed services were pressed into duty to guard the airport and his travel route into Washington. His personal security has been assigned to provide routine security at Andrews Field and the chief concern of the Washington police authorities was to move the Khrushchev motorcade safely and easily through the late afternoon traffic crush.

His route into the city was changed somewhat, and extra police were assigned to keep traffic, as well as the official motorcade, moving smoothly. No incidents were anticipated, but a group calling itself the Committee for National Mourning said it would display skull and cross bone flags despite police threats of arrest.

One member of the group, Marvin H. Merry, was jailed temporarily for displaying the pirate symbol Sept. 15. Charges against him were dropped, but police threatened to prosecute him if he repeated the incident.

Among towns he laid out were Amarillo, Hereford, Dumas, Chaney, and Chickasha, Okla. He estimated he had set boundaries on 14 million acres in Texas. Survivors include his wife, a son, Twig Twichell, Austin; and four daughters, Mrs. O.A. Seward of Independence, Tex., Mrs. L. S. Almond of Del Rio, and Mrs. F.M. Trett and Mrs. W.H. Fursman, both of Dallas.

K Sees Pittsburgh, Visits Steel Mill

Was Bandit's Aide A Lady, Police Wonder CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Police today searched for the woman companion of the holdup man who committed suicide when his robbery plan failed.

The man, identified as Harry F. Dunlap, 36, of Cleveland, had been arrested after allegedly fleeing from a taxicab without paying a bill.

The accomplice in the holdup appeared to be a woman, but "mousey blond" hair looked suspiciously like a wig. The accomplice was clad in a blue gaberdine suit and sloppy black shoes and carried a hat box and a red bag which contained a small automatic pistol. When last seen the accomplice was driving a rented car toward the branch bank where the robbery was supposed to happen.

The little man wore a blond wig too, over his balding head. The bullet with which he finished his career—when he saw the police were closing in with guns and tear gas—knocked the wig askew.

When they laid him on the table at the morgue, they found he measured only 5 feet 4, and there were elevator shoes on his feet. He had shaved the hair off his body. Under his gray slacks he wore red trunks.

The fingerprints told his story. He was William Ansley, 30, last known address Indianapolis, who had been convicted of burglary, assault to kill and robbery in several cities.

They found a smeary paper containing a plan of action, aimed at a Lorain Ave. branch of the Cleveland Trust Co.

The plan began with the "woman's" help. The pair got into the home of Herbert Fox, 51, manager of the Lorain Ave. branch.

They tied up his wife and two daughters, who later gave the only available description of the "woman." But where a gang would have left one or two men to guard the family, they left only a fake.

The little man made Fox drive to the bank, where they were to wait until a time lock opened the door. The "woman" driving, who went car, followed them, but was not seen again.

At the bank the little man tried a trick that usually takes more than one gunman. He kept holding bank employees as hostages when they reported for work.

The police soon came. Someone reported a "disturbance" and a cruiser started a siege with a shotgun. About the same time Marvin Fox, 18, had broken her bonds and had sent word to call police headquarters.

After a dozen shots and 10 canisters of tear gas, police released the hostages unharmed. The little man shot himself. His companion had vanished.

IT'S A COSTLY CONVENIENCE

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn. (AP)—What's the difference between ordinary parking and "convenient" parking? Five cents, according to the inscription on the town's new parking meters. It reads: "Twelve minutes for each penny; 60 minutes for one nickel. For convenience, 60 minutes for one dime."

Persuasion To Be Union Race Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Organized labor has decided to maintain a soft, persuasive approach to curbing racial discrimination within unions instead of adopting a hard, mandatory ban.

That is how a torrid debate wound up Wednesday night at concluding sessions of the AFL-CIO convention in a showdown over union racial discrimination practices.

The dispute pitted George Meany, AFL-CIO president against A. Philip Randolph, Negro Sleeping Car Porter's Union chief and an AFL-CIO vice president.

Randolph demanded elimination of racially segregated union locals. Meany said he deplored discrimination as much as anyone but opposed punitive action against locals that have democratically chosen to remain segregated for decades, some since the end of the Civil War.

Finally, with Meany shouting from the rostrum, and Randolph from a floor microphone, Meany exploded: "That's your policy. Well it's not my policy. I'm for the democratic rights of Negro members to maintain a union if they want to."

"Who the hell appointed you as the guardian of all the Negro members in America?" Randolph tried to interrupt but Meany continued talking.

Finally Randolph broke in saying, "I would say this and we don't have to become emotional about it: I don't believe members of a union have the right to maintain a Jim Crow local."

Meany answered, "Well, I believe that a group of members of a Negro union that want to stay the way they are, have a right to stay that way."

"Well, what about a group of members in a union that want to have a Communist dominated union?" asked Randolph. "They can't have it and belong to this federation," said Meany. "Well they ought not to have it as a Jim Crow local either," replied Randolph.

Khrushchev Schedule

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Here is Premier Nikita Khrushchev's schedule for Friday (times eastern daylight): 10:10 a.m. — Leaves Pittsburgh for Washington. 12:30 p.m. — Returns President's guest house. 4:30 p.m. — Departs by car for Camp David, Md. 6 p.m. — Arrival at Camp David.

Trades Presents With Plant Worker

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev toured Pittsburgh today in an open car under bright sunshine. The chief focus of interest was a company which makes the big machines used by steel mills. In the Soviet Premier's party was Nikolai A. Tikhonov, a big wheel in the Soviet steel industry.

This industrial center is the last stop on Khrushchev's cross-country tour before he gets down to the main business of his American mission—talks with President Eisenhower on world tensions.

On one major matter—disarmament—there were reports that Khrushchev was expressing confidence that inspection controls could be worked out.

Adlai Stevenson, the 1952-56 Democratic presidential candidate, said Khrushchev told him that at Coon Rapids, Iowa, Wednesday.

The Premier arrived Wednesday night after a flight from Des Moines, Iowa. Police had a bit of security jitters at the time, and the trip from the airport to a downtown hotel was made in a closed car.

BOONING, CHEERING Today, a crowd of four or five thousand lined the sidewalks as Khrushchev came out of his hotel. There was some cheering and some waving of hands by spectators. There also was some booning.

Khrushchev arrived right on schedule at Mesta Machinery Co. makers of steel mill machinery. As he was meeting some of the firm's employees, one of them, Kenneth Jackey, reached into his pocket and whipped out a pack of the five-for-39 cents cigars.

Khrushchev happily accepted one cigar, and then slipped off his wrist watch and gave it to the startled Jackey. Soviet officials said the watch was a "Victory," made in Russia and costing between $25 and $40. Khrushchev, an old factory hand himself, seemed to enjoy himself at Mesta. Ever practical, he checked up on what the workers make in the way of salary and how much vacation they get. Their take-home pay runs between $95 and $116 a week. There was no indication whether or not this impressed the Russian leader.

On his way, he passed the huge Jones & Laughlin sheet strip mill, silent and closed by the nationwide steel strike.

MAIN EVENTS The visit to the Mesta plant and an address to a civic luncheon were the main events on the Premier's schedule here. At 2:25 p.m. his big plane is scheduled to leave for Washington and serious business: Momentous talks with President Eisenhower on what can be done to ease East-West tensions.

Late Friday the Soviet Premier and the American President will go to Camp David, a secluded spot in the Maryland mountains. The carnival, the fun, the wild dash from coast to coast will be over.

Then the two men — both of whom have frequently said that all they want is peace—will try to find some way out of a situation that both have said could lead to disaster.

Khrushchev looked tired Wednesday night as he flew in from a rollicking day in the corn country. What he saw probably didn't pep him up any.

ANTI-K SIGNS This city has many who are of Hungarian, Polish or Slovak origin. Even before Khrushchev hit town demonstrators were waving signs that carried such legends as: "Butcher of Budapest," "Killer of American pilots" and "Remember 1776 with George Washington and 1956 Hungary with Nikita Khrushchev."

Atlas-Able Moon Rocket Explodes On Testing Stand

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An Atlas-Able rocket being readied for a U.S. shot at the moon exploded on its pad during a test of its engines today.

Flames spurted from the base of the towering rocket as the countdown reached zero in the static engine test. Suddenly the missile erupted in a flash of fire.

A mass of boiling flames and black smoke engulfed the launching pad for more than a minute. None of the approximately 40 members of the test crew in the blockhouse 50 yards away was hurt.

The Air Force issued this statement shortly after the explosion: "An Atlas-Able missile exploded on the launch pad this morning during a static test at the Atlantic missile range. The missile was being prepared for a space probe early next month. No personnel were injured. The cause of the explosion is being investigated by the Air Force."

The Atlas-Able was to have been launched sometime between Oct. 3 and 6 when the moon was to be at its closest point to the earth.

The shot would have been an attempt to put a 735-pound satellite in orbit about the moon.

It is doubtful that the United States can ready another Atlas-Able rocket in time for an early October launching. This means it will be at least early November before such a launching can be attempted.

The explosion of the more than 100-foot tall rocket was a bitter blow to U.S. hopes for leveling the moon score with the Russians. Earlier this month the Soviets recorded a spectacular space feat by hitting the moon with one of their big rockets.

A static firing is designed to test all operating functions of the missile, including ignition, while the rocket is locked on its stand.

The United States hoped through the probe to obtain detailed maps of the moon's surface, including much of the side never seen from the earth. Its instruments also were to report on the moon's magnetic and gravitational fields, its structure, atmosphere and radio activity.

Budget Chief, Congressional Record Disagree On Ike Funds

By JOE F. KANF WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget Director Maurice H. Stans and the Congressional Record are about three billion dollars apart on their totals of what Congress did to President Eisenhower's budget.

Depending on where you're punching your adding machine, Congress either: 1. Approved expenditures for the current fiscal year 597 million dollars over the President's budget recommendations (this is the Stans total) or

2. Reduced the President's appropriation requests by about 2 1/2 billion (This is the Congressional Record figure backed by Democrats).

Why the disagreement? Stans told Eisenhower Wednesday contradictory statements on the effect of congressional action on the budget often occur because such analyses are not developed on bases which are truly comparable.

Stans used a net figure when he told Eisenhower that Congress had boosted spending 597 million dollars over budget requests.

In figuring the total, Stans included not only spending authorized by Congress but also White House requests for additional revenue which Congress did not grant.

For example, Congress ignored Eisenhower's request for higher postal rates. But Stans included the request in his figuring. Presumably, his reasoning was that inaction on the request would require larger appropriations to meet the post office deficit than would have been needed if the rates had been raised.

Stans also reported spending in future years was increased an additional 1 1/4 billion dollars. Summarizing the effect of congressional actions on budget recommendations, Stans said Congress made actual reductions of 81 million dollars in expenditures for fiscal 1960. But he added that this was more than offset by increases outside the appropriation process — what critics call backdoor financing — and other increases.

Stans disputed figures in the Congressional Record listing reductions of $1,881,000,000 in Eisenhower's appropriation requests and of nearly 700 million dollars in his backdoor financing requests. This is slightly more than 2 per cent of the $81,975,368,332 appropriated.

Under back door financing, funds come directly from the Treasury without the need for specific appropriations by Congress.

Stans said various modifying factors were not considered in the Congressional Record figures. For example, he said, figures indicating appropriations reductions include 948 million which were actually postponements to another year or reductions which will have to be restored on uncontrollable items.

Comforted By Wife

Ferenc Iszak, 31, is kissed by his wife, Enese, in a hospital at San Francisco, Calif., after he was found beaten and unconscious in Golden Gate Park. Iszak, a Hungarian who helped hijack a plane to escape to the free world and who spoke against Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to San Francisco, would say only "I don't remember anything." He is president of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters of San Francisco. Iszak was reported in fair condition with multiple head, rib, and other injuries.

Good Grooming Advised

Gloria Graham stresses the importance of being well-groomed and limber of limb. "I don't think women look attractive if their movements are stiff or they feel constricted," she says. Her new picture is "Odds Against Tomorrow," a U-A release.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Being Groomed Can Be Easily Attained

HOLLYWOOD — It is nice to have Gloria Graham back in Hollywood again after such a long absence. She returned to make "Odds Against Tomorrow," and as I was watching her shoot a scene with Robert Ryan, I thought how good she looked.

"I think appearance is important to everyone," Gloria said, when I interviewed her later. "And it's too bad that so many teenagers neglect themselves. Grooming is a habit. I have had to change clothes in 10 minutes in the theater. From this I've learned how to dress quickly and neatly, but I always have everything inspected, laid out and ready to put on."

"A girl can do so much with the clothes she chooses and the way she wears her hair. I'll never forget my first big job interview. I was dressed to the teeth, but when I heard they were looking for a teen-ager, I rushed back to my room, washed off all the make-up I'd spent hours putting on, chose a gingham dress and got the part."

"Do you dress for men or women?" I asked.

"For myself," Gloria replied quickly. "I want my clothes to be becoming, of course, but they have to be comfortable. I'm unhappy if anything constricts my movements. If my gown is laced in so that I have a hard time breathing, I can't enjoy anything. I don't see how anybody can."

Bridal Pair Feted At Forsan Tea

FORSAN — Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Anderson were honored with a miscellaneous wedding shower in the school cafeteria recently. Mrs. Anderson is the former Patricia Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rogers of Big Spring. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Anderson of Forsan.

Nine hostesses entertained. The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a reflector upon which stood wedding bells. A miniature bride and bridegroom stood under a lace wedding bell that was surrounded by white net. The entire decoration was under a white parasol edged with wedding bells.

Lace cloths covered the register and gift tables that held floral arrangements of large white spider mums, pink roses, and greenery.

Duplicate Bridge Shifted To Webb

A change in the meeting place of the duplicate bridge players has been announced for Friday afternoon. The games will be held in the Officers Club at Webb AFB at 1 p.m.

This is the session sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association of Big Spring Country Club. All players are invited to attend the affair; fee for the afternoon is 50 cents.

Woodman Circle

Mrs. Viola Bowles, 1302 Scurry, will be hostess for the Woodman Circle Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Hyperion Clubs Slate Luncheon

Cosden Country Club will be the scene of the initial luncheon for the Hyperion Council Friday at 1 p.m., when members of all units and their guests gather at the club.

Included in the council are the 1905, 1930, 1946, 1948, 1953 and 1955 Hyperion Clubs.

Mrs. Jack Irons is in charge of the program, which will include the presentation of Carol Lane, women's travel director for Shell Oil Company.

Probably the most widely traveled woman in the nation, Miss Lane covers about 60,000 miles each year in a search for new ideas, plans, gadgets and aids for increasing the family's or individual's travel pleasure.

Highlight of her discussion will be the packing of a suitcase to which will arrive at the wardrobe destination in a wrinkle-free condition.

An annual affair, the council luncheon is the signal for the start of meetings for the various clubs.

Blankinships Are Honored At Parties

FORSAN — Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Blankinship and Billie Ruth were honored by Amerasia Oil Company employees and their families with a farewell gift party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lancaster. The Blankinships, who have been transferred to Burnet, were given another party at the Baptist Church Fellowship Hall following the Wednesday night service. A gift was presented to them as a community remembrance.

Billie Ruth was given a party in the school cafeteria. Piano music and singing was the entertainment. Olga and Hortensia Rodriguez were hostesses, assisted by their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Peacock have recently been to Cleburne. Their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Peacock and sons, have been visiting from Odessa. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Whetsel have returned from a short trip to Dallas.

Mrs. and Mrs. Jeff Pike were in Pecos visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Hoard and children.

Fishing this week at Port Isabel are Bob Cowley, Chauncey Long, and D. M. Barwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wash and Dianna are in Fresno, Calif. this week visiting Mrs. Wash's brother, R. D. Archer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Grant, Jimmy and Gary were McCamey night visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walraven, Sherry and Kay attended a family reunion in Water Valley.

The trick is to protect them with a special lacquer. I put on a fresh coat of polish every other day and brush this under the tips as well as on top. And once a week, before I have a manicure, I soak my nails in warm olive oil for about 10 minutes," she concluded.

A project for the year was decided upon. The group will sew for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital in Shreveport, La.

Mrs. George Bair will be hostess at the group's next meeting at her home at 1010 East 20th.

The admission fee is 50 cents; the time 9:30 a.m., Nov. 12.

Announcement was made that the garden club calendars for 1960 are available. The Tyler Rose Festival was announced for Oct. 16-18.

Welcomed by the group were three new members, Mrs. Luther McDaniel of the After Five Garden Club; Mrs. Paul Lerner and Mrs. Andy Terpening of the Officer Wives Garden Club.

Another discussion of flower arranging is slated for April 6, 1960, when the district governor, Mrs. H. D. Lewis, will speak at a luncheon for the council and will present the program.

Ruth Circle Meets

Mrs. Hack Hudgins was named chairman of the Ruth Circle, First Christian Church, at a meeting Tuesday evening at the church. Mrs. Chester Sturdivant will be co-chairman; Mrs. Melvin Darat, secretary-reporter; Ms. A. A. Marchant, treasurer. Mrs. Edward Kohanek will be the service chairman. Dates for meetings were set for the third Tuesdays in each month at 7:30 p.m.

DEAR ABBY NOT WHAT BUT HOW

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can you do with a husband who won't eat anything but meat and potatoes? I've been married for three years and that's all I've cooked. My husband refuses to try anything new. He says he doesn't like it before he's even tried it. So, naturally I've lost all interest in cooking.

I'm ready to call it quits. How do other women solve this problem? Or am I fighting a losing battle? MARY LOUISE

DEAR MARY LOUISE: Some women don't know when they're well off. Don't complain because your husband is too EASY to please. Just get a good cook book and discover the variety of excelling things you can do with meat 'n potatoes. When hubby comes home, he'll always know WHAT'S cooking — but not HOW.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for the woman who was afraid to let her aging father drive the car, but he insisted on driving anyway. Report this matter to your local State Drivers License Division. They will send him a notice to appear for reexamination of his driver's permit. Before they grant him a renewal, he will have to be checked by his physician and a report sent them. They continue a yearly check-up on a driver so reported.

My husband is 18 years older than I am, and I'm no spring chicken. His vision was poor, and his hearing was worse, and he drove like a madman. Every time I asked him to let me drive, he'd get furious. I reported him and they wouldn't renew his license. The nice part of this whole thing is that the person involved never knows who reported him. I don't know about other states, but it works in California.

"L. A. LIZZIE"

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl and thanks to my wonderful parents and religious training I've earned a good reputation. Abby, honestly, I was brought up to believe that girls who let boys paw them were the losers. Please don't tell me that boys do not marry this kind of girl because I have been going to quite a few weddings lately.

I just broke off with a boy. The reason? He got tired of an occasional kiss. When I refused to give him more, he called me a prude and said, "No guy wants a cold fish." He is the third boy I broke up with for this reason. Is there no reward for being good?

PROUD PRUDE: (And you have something to be proud of!) The reward for being good is a clear conscience and an enviable reputation. The cornerstone of a solid marriage is mutual respect. If you lose a boy because you refuse to give in to his selfish desires—you haven't lost much. Just keep on doin' what you're doin'!

CONFIDENTIAL TO MID-YEAR GRAD: Date others. Your architect sounds like he has plans of his own.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Report Confirms Yarborough Claim Farm Income Dropping

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The day Congress adjourned Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex) fired an oratorical salvo against the administration's farm policy and called for remedial legislation next year.

On the day after Congress adjourned the Agriculture Department issued a report confirming Yarborough's claim that net farm income has been dropping.

In a summary of conditions, the department's report states: "Farmers realized net income in the first three quarters of 1959 is estimated at an annual rate of approximately 11 1/2 billion dollars. This was $1,600,000,000 or 12 per cent lower than in the first three-quarters of 1958, but half a billion or 4 1/2 per cent above 1957.

"The seasonally adjusted annual rate of realized net income for the third quarter is tentatively estimated at 10 1/2 billion dollars, 20 per cent below a year earlier."

Explaining why the drop occurred, the report says: "The decline so far this year resulted from lower average prices, increased expenses, and discontinuance of Acreage Reserve payments."

Yarborough in his blast at administration policies said:

"In this period of all-time high cost of living, the plight of the family farm operator has gone from bad to worse. During President Truman's last term, net farm income averaged $14,300,000,000 a year. During the Eisenhower administration, net farm income has averaged only $12,300,000,000 annually and has resulted in some 800,000 farmers being driven from their land."

Yarborough blamed Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson as being primarily responsible for failure of Congress to pass during the last session a farm bill which the senator said would have halted the decline in farm prices.

"Appointing Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to administer national farm laws in which he has no faith is about as sensible as naming a Moslem Muezzin to head the Baptist Church in America," he added.

The department's new income report showed that cash receipts from marketing in Texas totaled $926,713,000 during the first half of this year as compared with $1,920,894,000 during the same period of 1958.

Sales of livestock and livestock products by Texans totaled $537,780,000 in the first half of 1959, down from the $540,993,000 for the first half of 1958.

Receipts from the marketing of crops in the state showed a much sharper drop. Sales netted $388,933 in the first half of this year as compared with $479,901 in the corresponding period of 1958.

Around the Capital: On their first trip to Washington, two young Texas married couples attending a housing conference got to view some of the fanfare accompanying Russian Premier Khrushchev's visit to the capital.

Mrs. Joe F. Baldrige of Fort Worth, enthusiastically recalling the first few hours she and her husband were in town, said: "We went for a walk by the White House just in time to see the President and Khrushchev driving up. The crowds along the curbs were watching intently even though in silence. It was real exciting."

Baldrige is in the personnel department of the Fort Worth National Bank. He smilingly acknowledges that it was his wife, Barbara, who really won their trip to Washington as delegates to a conference sponsored by the Women's Housing Congress, Inc., and the National Assn. of Home Builders.

Her essay on "Why I Would Like a New Home" won out among those submitted by a large number of contestants in the Fort Worth area. She wrote that needed improvements on their 16-year-old house cost twice as much as would the same equipment in a new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie E. Stephenson of Corpus Christi, winners of a contest sponsored by home builders in that part of Texas, were present when the President and Khrushchev passed near the Washington Monument.

Stephenson's wife, Mary Ann, wrote an essay on "Our Dream Home." It's the house they moved into a year ago. They are still completely satisfied with it. Stephenson, a civil engineer, drew the plans of the house.

The Baldriges have a son, Joe III, age 5, and the Stephensons a daughter, Karen, 4 1/2. The children did not accompany them to Washington.

One other Texas couple also attended the housing conference. Both had been to Washington before. They are Mr. and Mrs. George O. Stone of San Antonio. She emphasized in her winning essay that a home should be planned to provide adequate recreational and living accommodations for children, and utilize wood paneling and other materials to make cleaning tasks easier.

The Stones have four children. He is a bank president.

Shot To Death

ROTAN (AP)—W. D. Owens of Abilene, was found shot to death Wednesday on one of three farms he operated in Fisher County. He had been missing from his home since last Thursday.

Owens, 54, had been shot in the head. Justice of the peace C. H. Branson ruled the death a suicide.

Unofficial Vote Counters Loyal

DALLAS (AP)—Loyalty is the mark of the men and women who gather the votes for the Texas Election Bureau.

This year the bureau honored 65 of its election correspondents for long service—nine of them for 40 years of faithful reporting.

The bureau is the unofficial agency which counts the votes on election night. It is supported by the newspapers and radio stations which tell the public the election story.

The official count is made many days after the election. It has always borne out, and almost duplicated, the unofficial figures.

R. L. Johnson, manager of the bureau, says there are many newspapers which have reported returns since the bureau was organized with the actual reporting chore handled by various personal. But no one individual served as election correspondent in the cases of 49 daily newspapers which Johnson describes as "the backbone of the organization."

Held In Assault

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A magistrate has ordered seven Negro youths held without bail for grand jury action on charges of robbery, rape and conspiracy in the Labor Day attack of an 18-year-old white girl. The girl and her soldier escort, from whom she allegedly was dragged, identified the youths for a second time Wednesday at a hearing.

Solved - Carpet Cleaning Problem

Science finally has the answer to carpet cleaning. Blue Lustre, a new development, is mixed with water and brushed into carpet or upholstery. It's amazing the way forgotten colors spring out. The nap is left open and lofty. It's easy to apply. One-half gallon of Blue Lustre cleans three 9x12 rugs. Available at Big Spring Hardware, 115 Main St.

Pleas Granted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Commission applications from Texas include: Midland—assignment of license of KWEL to George Harrell Vaught for $126,000.

Teacher Acquitted In Statutory Case

DALLAS (AP) — A jury acquitted former school teacher Philbert William Rando Jr. Wednesday night of a charge of Statutory rape involving a 13-year-old student.

Rando and his pretty wife, Patsy, hugged and kissed when the verdict was announced.

Rando, a Texas A&M graduate employed as a health science and arithmetic teacher at an elementary school, testified he never even touched the girl.

More Troubles For Promoter

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — John Milton Addison, promoter of a uranium processing device known as the Benson Upgrader, ran into more legal difficulty Wednesday.

Addison, of Denver, was indicted for two counts of theft over $50, sale of securities by an unregistered dealer and conspiracy to sell an unlisted security.

Dan Nance, John Metz, Dr. R. C. Olson, Miles White Jr. and Lester Smith, all of San Antonio, also were named in 12 indictments by the Bexar County Grand Jury.

Addison and his associates have been in a series of state and Federal actions growing out of his efforts to finance the machine which he says will lead to cheap atomic power.

Polygamy Probe Stirs Resistance In Utah Citizens

FARMINGTON, Utah (AP)—An investigation into polygamy in northern Utah's Davis County is running into sympathetic resistance but the grand jury foreman says the jury will continue efforts to stamp out the practice.

One indictment has been issued charging Gerard Van Hoff with unlawful cohabitation, but Hoff has left the area.

Jury Foreman Henri J. Frederiksen says many polygamists— he did not specify the number— have left the county since the jury began its investigation of plural marriages several weeks ago.

He says many persons who sympathize either with the idea of polygamy or the families involved have become irritated when subpoenaed to appear before the jury, or they have become what he termed "prone to defy the law."

Some false testimony has been given the jury, he said. Frederiksen says the jury will issue reports on what he calls the "unhealthy conditions" the jury has found among polygamous families.

He says he doubts if the sympathizers really understand all of the facets of the practice of polygamy.

Polygamy once had the sanction of the majority church in Utah, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. But the church outlawed it before Utah became a state in 1896.

Like Typical, Old-Fashioned Camp Meeting

By SAUL PETT

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP)—Oleg Troyanovsky is back in action as Nikita Khrushchev's No. one translator, thus spiking rumors he was getting his own television show.

Roswell (Call me Bob) Garst, the Noel Coward of Coon Rapids and Khrushchev's host, exuded a loud, hearty friendliness once he got the Soviet leader to his own house.

Garst hovered over Khrushchev everywhere, like Perle Mesta with the prize social catch of the year.

Several times, as he introduced his guest to his neighbors, Garst said of the master of the Kremlin, "At last, I've got him where I want him."

If only Eisenhower could say the same. Earlier in the day Garst was the maddest farmer seen around these parts since Ezra Benson first mentioned cuts in price supports.

Garst blew his stack when reporters and photographers swarmed through his fields of corn and sorghum. He yelled, protested, aimed several kicks, threw sludge and once threatened them with a corn stalk.

Garst was never as effective as one of his huge manure scoops which picked up a half ton of chopped corn leaves and stalks and dumped them accidentally on the oppressed workers of American journalism.

In uproot all day, Garst's farm looked like a movie set. Soldiers with carbines at the ready guarded the hilltops, barnyards, entrances, Mrs. Garst's garden and even lurked in the rows of corn.

Photographers, reporters and TV men with mountains of equipment swarmed everywhere, scaring the sparrows out of the walnut trees, giving the livestock the shakes and thoroughly dismaying the hired hands who would have to clean up.

It was just another typical day on a typical American farm. Khrushchev was fed a typical old fashioned farm lunch of baked ham, fried chicken and barbecued ribs catered from Des Moines. He was ushered into a typical old fashioned farm living room with wall-to-wall carpeting. He paused at a typical old fashioned outdoor farm bar loaded with vodka and whisky, which was near a typical old fashioned swimming pool.

Examining Garst's corn, Khrushchev told his host:

"Too much stalk, not enough corn," which is something nobody could accuse Khrushchev of.

Married Student Ban Appeal Made Demands Settled

DALLAS (AP)—A decision backing up the Garland School District's action in taking away non-classroom activity privileges of married or formerly married students has been appealed to the Texas 5th Court of Civil Appeals.

Bert Bader said today he has filed his appeal of the decision of Dist. Judge Claude Williams in the case of a Garland married student Jerry Kissick Jr. The judge ruled the Garland board had a right to deprive married students of non-classroom school activities.

Two Of Nation's Top Sports Personalities At Abilene

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

At Abilene there are a couple of most interesting sports personalities—Sam Baugh and Bobby Morrow.

Baugh is the greatest passer football ever knew. He's new trying to groom somebody to take his place because Sam is coach of Hardin-Simmons and with his limited manpower that he figures his only chance of ever getting anywhere against the big teams of college football is to throw that ball high, wide and handsome.

Morrow is the Olympics sprint champion of 1956 who went into an eclipse in the summer and now is working out under a strict regimen in an effort to return to the Olympics in 1960. Morrow was somewhat humiliated when he failed to even qualify for the 100 meters and 200 meters in the National AAU, thus losing his chance of competing in the American-Russian meet and the Pan American Games.

Coach Oliver Jackson of Abilene Christian, the man who tutored Morrow in his great years, thinks Bobby will go back to the Olympics and be just as great a star as he ever was.

Baugh has an interesting family. He has named all his children after sports personalities. For instance there is Todd Baugh, a 17-year-old who's quarterback of the Rotan High School. The youngster was named after Dick Todd, the old Texas Aggie star who played with Baugh with the Washington Redskins in pro football.

Todd is considered a fine football player but Sam says he'll never go to Hardin-Simmons. Sam doesn't think Todd ever will be a good enough passer and besides he wants to go to Rice anyway since he's interested in chemical engineering and likes the courses they give at the Houston school.

Baugh does think his second son, David, will be a top college player. "He's a better all-around athlete than Todd," says Sam, who named this one after Davey O'Brien, the great quarterback of TCU.

Then there's Stephen, 10, who was named after the club house boy of the Redskins. Baugh has one daughter, Frances, 8, who was named for the wife of Willie Walls, one of the fellows who caught Sam's passes at Texas Christian and also was a star in pro football. Sam has a 6,455-acre ranch northeast of Rotan. He put the money he made out of pro football into it. Baugh started at $8,000 a season in pro football and that was one of the highest salaries in the game at that time—1937. He got as high as $17,000 a season before retiring.

SAM BAUGH

Morrow now is assistant vice president of the Bank of Commerce in Abilene, specializing in public relations. He will make banking his career. Bobby spends his time away from the bank working for the Olympics out at Abilene Christian College track.

Morrow's first competition probably will be in the Sugar Bowl meet at New Orleans in December. The Olympic trials are next spring.

Bobby will have an old teammate to work out with starting next week. Bill Woodhouse, who was a star with Morrow at ACC, is going to work in Abilene as an accountant and join Morrow in training for the Olympic sprints. Jackson thinks Woodhouse has a good chance, too.

Fort Worth Has Chance To Clinch Little Series Berth

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fort Worth will try to sew up the American Association championship series and a berth in the little world series tonight when they meet Minneapolis in the sixth game of the playoff.

The Cats hold a 2-2 edge in the series. They defeated the Millers.

Juniors To Play Two Games Today

Two games today by junior high teams will comprise a light week for the boys. The runnels 9th grade team goes to Snyder for a 7:30 p.m. test. At 4 p.m. the Abilene South seventh graders were due here to meet the Goliad team. Other reserves and juniors have an open week.

Braves Take No Refuge In Schedule

By JACK HAND

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee came home today to finish the National League season, tied for first place with the Los Angeles Dodgers and ready for anything.

Manager Fred Haney ordered all hands to report at County Stadium this afternoon. Instead of a day of rest on this open date, there will be a meeting and limited workout.

The Braves figure they have the best of the schedule. They finish with three home games against the last-place Phillies Friday night, Saturday and Sunday. Los Angeles plays three games at Chicago. San Francisco, two games back with three to go, winds up with three at St. Louis.

If the Braves and Dodgers march in stride there will be a best-of-3 series starting Monday in Milwaukee. If Milwaukee wins while the Giants and Dodgers lose in the final days, the Braves will open the World Series Wednesday at Chicago's Comiskey Park. If they flop, they can go home and watch the Series on TV.

Milwaukee four-game winning streak has been broken, but the Braves have won 13 of their last 17 games.

After Wednesday night's 5-4 defeat in their road finale at Pittsburgh, the Braves figure they must win all the rest to stay alive. They missed a chance to clinch at least a tie, so far as San Francisco is concerned, when they bowed to the Pirates.

Low Burdette, will pitch for the Braves Friday night. It probably will be Warren Spahn (20-15) Saturday, and Bob Buhl (14-9) and Juan Pizarro (6-2) in Sunday's finale. Buhl failed Wednesday, giving way to Bob Rush after four innings. Joey Jay, however, was charged with the defeat.

Rockets Prepare For Odessa Tilt

Lakeview's Rockets are in good condition for their Saturday 8 p.m. test against Odessa Blackshear here Saturday. Roosevelt Brown, coach, said the Rockets might depend heavily on their passing game due to Odessa's bulk in the line. A big pep rally is set for 8:45 a.m. Friday in the school auditorium, and the Lakeview Quarterback club is honoring the team with a barbecue Friday at 6:30 p.m.

TV Blackout Is Due Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP) — The Cotton Bowl Athletic Assn. says the 1960 New Year's classic will be blacked out for television in this area unless 90 per cent of the seats are sold.

The stadium seats 75,504, so 67,953 seats would have to be sold. The Cotton Bowl normally is sold out for the Jan. 1 game.

CBS has the television rights for the game, which matches the Southwest Conference champion with an outside school.

LANE RECANTS, HIRES GORDON

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Joe Gordon, the old and new field manager of the Cleveland Indians; his boss, Frank Lane, and practically all the team's fans here agreed today: "Peace—it's wonderful." Differences between Gordon and the general manager were big enough six days ago to cause Joe to announce formally he wouldn't work for Lane another year.

Then came a long talk Wednesday between the two. The differences were reconciled.

And now Gordon has signed to work another two years as Cleveland's field pilot and at a salary unofficially reported to include a $10,000-a-year raise to $40,000.

Dodgers Pull Up To Tie For First In National League

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers suddenly have crashed through again for a first place tie in the National League pennant scramble, and their ace in the race is Roger Craig, a once forgotten, ruddy-faced right-hander.

It was Craig, pulled back from the minors in mid-June, who got the Dodgers started on their jump to the top by beating San Francisco 4-1 in the opener of that day-night doubleheader sweep over the Giants last Saturday.

And last night he pushed them back into a tie with Milwaukee, blanking St. Louis on five hits for a 3-0 victory after the Braves had stumbled for a 5-4 loss at Pittsburgh.

That Milwaukee loss, ending the Braves' streak at four games, also fanned a spark of life into the third place Giants, who trail by two games after a 9-8 loss in 10 innings to the Chicago Cubs—their fifth straight setback.

Each of the contenders has three games remaining. The Braves, however, play their's at home, meeting last place Philadelphia tomorrow night, Saturday and Sunday. The Dodgers finish at Chicago against the clubbing Cubs while the Giants, more dead than alive, finish at St. Louis.

They all get a day off today.

The only other games in the majors were in the American League, where the pennant-winning White Sox were idle. New York beat Washington 5-4, Kansas City defeated Detroit 7-6 and Boston whipped Baltimore 4-0 on Jerry Casale's nine-hitter.

Roger Craig, a 17-game loser in the minors a year ago, pitched the Dodgers to their life-saving victory. The 28-year-old right-hander turned back the St. Louis Cardinals on five hits.

Dodger Manager Walter Alton, admitting to one anxious moment in Wednesday night's game, said, "Of late Craig's been our best."

Lopez' Only Problem Now Is To Hold Chisox' Fine Edge

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox is mum on his World Series pitching plans but there isn't a betting man in the country who wouldn't wager it'll be Early Wynn in the opener.

Lopez, who spent his first day after winning the American League pennant scouting San Francisco against the Chicago Cubs, said he felt this club "has a great chance in the World Series."

"Of course," said Lopez, "we don't know who we are going to play."

for the three-game, season-ending series at Detroit is all set. Billy Pierce will pitch the first game, Dick Donovan the second and Wynn and Bob Shaw will split the assignment Sunday. Star relievers Gerry Staley and Turk Lown and young Barry Latman are expected to see activity to keep in shape.

One thing which doesn't bother Lopez about the Series is his team's physical condition. It's expected to be A-1. Center fielder Jim Landis has been out of action with a leg injury but he returned to his position in the late innings of the 4-2 clincher against Cleveland Tuesday night.

Southwest Faces Tough Test Of Intersectional Record

By WHITEY SAWYER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Southwest Conference, boasting a 3-1 record against outside foes, headed Thursday into another rough weekend of intersectional football.

Seven outside teams are on the slate with Texas Christian, Southwest Conference champion, drawing the toughest assignment. TCU tries national champion Louisiana State at Baton Rouge Saturday night.

Texas A&M visits East Lansing to play Michigan State. Baylor opens the season against Colorado at Boulder. SMU plays its first game of the season against Georgia Tech at Atlanta, Arkansas has Oklahoma State at Little Rock and Maryland visits Texas at Austin.

SMU Coach Bill Meek named Frank Jackson and Billy Polk as his starting halfbacks against Georgia Tech. Meek said the two junior speedsters won out over Toney Willemson and Glenn Gregory.

Texas drilled in sweat clothes for 45 minutes in a light rain. The Longhorns divided their time between defenses against Maryland's I-formation and brushing up on plays.

Texas A&M practiced defending against Michigan State's wing-T and Coach Jim Myers felt the Aggies didn't do too well. Halfback Randy Sims and tackle Joe Johnson are doubtful starters.

An ankle and will probably be replaced by sophomore Curtis Cox. Rice scrimmaged in the rain and Wesley Stokes, alternate first end, and Johnny Stephenson, right team left halfback, were injured. Stokes is expected to lose at least two weeks with a dislocated shoulder. Stephenson suffered a slight knee injury.

The Owls are idle this week. Dick Stafford moved in as first string fullback as Texas Tech prepared for Oregon State.

Crucial Games Lacking For Schoolboys

By The Associated Press
The Texas schoolboy football campaign reaches its height this week, with every team having seen action.

Some 134 teams will be risking undefeated, untied records and the carnage is due to be terrific. In 18 instances unbeaten teams will clash with each other.

The headline game is in Class AAA where Breckenridge, called the state's top team, all classes considered, takes on undefeated, untied Levelland.

The Buckaroos will be expected to win but the game is at Level, and they could run into trouble.

Four games in Class AAAA match teams with perfect records — El Paso Austin at Amarillo, Tascosa, Midland at Galena Park, Texas City at Lufkin and Denton, an undefeated, untied team, meets Tyler, which has a tie on his record.

In AAA Kermit hosts Lamesa and Waco University is at Nederland in games between unbeaten, untied teams. McKinney steps up to play Arlington of AAAA, Bay City and Rio Grande city step down to tackle Boling and Ed-couch-Elsa respectively. Canyon of AA tries a Dumas team that has been tied.

Class AA has many attractive battles. Belton entertains Georgetown, Childress visits Burkburnett and Northwest is at Decatur in intracounty struggles. Olney takes on Archer City of A. Van gets Chapel Hill of the same class, Palacios plays Vanderbilt of A.

The feature game in A sends Canadian to Stinnett Saturday. Stinnett is the championship favorite. Canadian is undefeated and untied.

Defending champion Wichita Falls of AAAA entertains Poly of Fort Worth. Stamford, kingpin of AA, gets Sweetwater at Stamford.

How to move such stalwarts up front as Jim Huffman, Reg Scarborough, Charlie Gladson, Dave Winman, and Tommy Minton will fall to the Steer line on offense. Dr. O. B. Williams Dies At Dallas
DALLAS (AP) — Dr. O. B. Williams of the University of Texas, long prominent in football circles and former head of the Southwest Conference, died here Wednesday.

Newton played quarterback on the Lakeview team in 1957 and set at Lakeview records with 50 points for the most points made in a single game. He will play both football and basketball at Otera. Frank Fox was instrumental in assisting Newton getting the scholarship. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Newton, Big Spring.

Warren Chiropractic added to its lead in the Housewife's Bowling league Wednesday, winning its series with Newsom Food 3-1. This slipped Newsom into a second place tie with team No. 6, which downed Toby's Fast Chick 3-1.

Brooks Rug Cleaners dripped Henderson's Cosden No. 3 by a 3-1 count. Evelyn Ball (Brooks) had high game with 185 and high series with 515.

Standings showed Warren 10-2, Newsom 7-5, team No. 6 a 7-5, Toby's 5-7, Brooks 4-3, Henderson's 3-9.

Sgt. Dutch Holland, 806 Lancaster, has access to two tickets to the Alabama-Houston game in Houston Saturday and cannot use them. Anyone who could make use of them may reach him at that address or at 4-2511 (ext. 517).

Victory Dinner?

Could this be a victory dinner? Members of the Steer football team, together with their coaches, were guests of H. M. Rainbolt at his Wagon Wheel restaurant Wednesday evening. Up front, flashing the victory sign for Friday at Snyder are Tommy Whitley, Jerry Dunlap and Alf Cobb. Rainbolt treats the team every year as an expression of appreciation for their effort.

Steers Ready For Hard Snyder Game

Mentally and physically ready, the Big Spring Steers were due to move through a light workout this afternoon before meeting old friendly rivals, the Snyder Tigers, in Snyder Friday evening.

The offense has been looking up the past two days, and while defense has come along it has further to go that Coach Al Milch would like. Milch has been trying to cook up some way to contain Snyder's stylish quarterback, Dick Hayes, who is dynamite on keepers and with his passing.

The hour and a half practice session today will deal mainly with punting and punt returns, and with kick-offs and returns. Milch is seeking to develop regular teams for these specialties. There will be more defense drills on getting down to stop Snyder's double safety pattern.

Jerry Dunlap, who will try extra points for the Steers, has been looking better in this department. A few minutes of dummy scrimmage for timing on Steer plays as well as running against Snyder defenses will be on today's menu.

Except for Tommy Whitley, who was bruised in practice two days ago, the Steers are in good physical condition. Robert Carr, who suffered a leg injury in the first game, is due to be ready.

"The boys have a great spirit," said Milch, "and I know we can count on them to play hard, clean football every minute they are out there."

Offensive guns of the Snyder

Tickets for the Snyder-Big Spring game in Snyder Friday evening are on sale at the school business office 602 E. 13th.

Wednesday when the reserved seat tickets first were offered, approximately 140 were sold.

Fans are urged to obtain their tickets as promptly as possible, and certainly before noon Friday. At that time, the unsold tickets will be returned to Snyder and offered to the general public.

Tigers are Hayes, nifty quarterback, who has carried for an average of 6.2 yards in two games. Only slightly less dangerous is Eddie Watson, who has averaged 6.1 yards. Crawford, a flanker able to do a 9.7 century in track, is also tough to defend, along with John Weaver, Marcus Strickland and Jim Fitzgerald.

How to move such stalwarts up front as Jim Huffman, Reg Scarborough, Charlie Gladson, Dave Winman, and Tommy Minton will fall to the Steer line on offense. Lions Tourney Ready To Go Play will start within the next week on the annual Lions Golf Tournament.

Cliff Fisher and Avery Falkner are directing the tourney which will be played on the Country Club course.

All matches of each round will be played by Tuesday of each week. Players will arrange their own playing time with their opponents. Matches may be played at any time except Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The directors urged contestants to wear their Lions shirts while playing matches.

First round pairings include: FIRST FLIGHT—Jack Cook versus Gil Jones; Dr. J. E. Hogan versus M. Barnett; Avery Falkner versus Sam Burns; Bill French versus Jimmy Ray Smith.

SECOND FLIGHT—Carl Smith versus Pete Cook, Ray Snyder versus Don Young, John King versus John Gregory, Jeff Brown versus C. R. Come, Marshall Caley versus B. M. Keese.

Army Singing Blues Prior To Boston College Tilt

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Army opens defense of its Eastern football title here against Boston College Saturday with lady luck scheduled to play an important role if the Cadets are to be successful in winning the crown two straight years. That's the opinion of no less an authority than new Coach Dale Hall.

"We're so paper thin that any more injuries will put us in real bad shape," the bespectacled Hall

Eight-Man Teams In Tight Games

Games for eight-man football teams in this area are rated as a tossup this week.

Gail journeys to Forsan, and observers figure that there's little difference between the two. Gail is always tough and Forsan looked good even in losing to a heavier Jayton team last week.

and one White Sox substitute. It also led to the banning of three other players—Hal Chase and Bennie Kauff of the Giants and Joe Gedeon of the Browns—for having knowledge of the fix and failing to report it.

The eight Black Soxers were Joe Jackson, perhaps the most natural hitter of all time; Eddie Cicotte, master of the "shine ball" and second only to Walter Johnson among American League right-handers; Buck Weaver, brilliant third baseman and excellent hitter; Swede Risberg, rangy shortstop; Chick Gandil, flashy fielding first baseman; Oscar (Happy) Felsch, graceful outfielder and timely hitter; Claude Williams, one of the league's top southpaws; and Fred McMullen, utility infielder.

Unsuspected by the scandal were such glittering stars as Eddie Collins, the peerless second baseman; Ray (Cracker) Schalk, the Hall of Fame catcher; John (Shano) Collins, the steady and dependable right fielder; Red Faber and Dickie Kerr, the little pitcher who turned in two of Chicago's three victories.

Ellis Decisions Rory Calhoun

By GEORGE LAZARUS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Middleweight Rudy Ellis reaped a big dividend in his first television fight and now has an optimistic, hungry look.

"Maybe, with a couple years experience, I'll be fairly well known in my division," the 22-year-old Ellis said Wednesday night after pouncing out a decision over Rory Calhoun, a rugged campaigner, before a national television audience.

"Anyway, I need more experience. I'll fight anyone — anywhere."

Ellis, of South Haven, Mich., earned his 18th win in 20 fights. It was his eighth straight victory and first complete 10-rounder. He has had 10 knockouts and short duration bouts.

Ellis weighed 158, Calhoun 162 1/2 for the Chicago Stadium fight before a crowd of 837.

Calhoun, of White Plains, N.Y., took the initiative from the inexperienced Ellis at the start.

Ellis appeared bewildered by the crafty Calhoun, a trademarked fighter. The New Yorker, with five years experience, repeatedly kept Ellis off balance throughout the first five rounds.

Then, Ellis seemed to gain confidence and parlayed hard rights to the head with left hooks to pile up enough points for the verdict.

In the 9th and 10th rounds, Ellis displayed a strong two-fisted attack that had the arena in an uproar.

Lakeview Star Gets Scholarship
B. F. Newton, 1959 graduate of Lakeview High School, has accepted an athletic scholarship at Otera Junior College in Colorado. He is leaving here next week to enroll.

Frank Fox was instrumental in assisting Newton getting the scholarship. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Newton, Big Spring.

Venturi Gains Golden Gate Spotlight With Hole-In-One

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ken Venturi just naturally commanded the most attention at the Golden Gate Championships opened here today with a field of 154 golfers, but to top it off he shot a hole-in-one Wednesday.

The No. 3 iron tee shot came on the 17th hole of Harding Park, scene of this $40,000 event, but to the thousands of public links golfers who usually play the course, it came on No. 8.

For Harding Park has reversed itself for the pros as they start on the back nine and wind up on the front.

"Maybe it's a good omen," commented the 28-year-old San Francisco golfer as he shot the ace. "My other one this year came before the Los Angeles open."

Venturi won there with a terrific comeback. He also was a winner in his last tournament at this course where his dad heads the pro shop. That time it was the San Francisco city championship of 1956 when he defeated Harvie Ward 6 and 4.

An ace on the 17th Sunday during the final round of this 72-hole tournament will be worth $10,000. Asked if he hadn't made his great shot too soon, Venturi commented, "it came just at the right time."

It was his first hole-in-one here and the fourth of his golfing career.

Venturi and Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., tied for low-pro honors in the pro-amateur tournament Wednesday. The low scoring team was long hitting pro George Bayer and singer John Raitt with a best-ball of 61, including Raitt's handicap.

Master's champion Art Wall Jr., who fired an eagle 3 on the 18th finished with a 70.

A group of 68 included Bert Weaver, Doug Ford, Ernie Vossler, Don January and Bayer.

Former North Carolina basketball captain Danny Lotz of Northport, N. Y., plans to study dentistry.

Housewife's Pace Setter Victorious

Old Battlefield Due New Invasion

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—This historic Civil War battlefield community is getting ready for a major invasion — this time by newsmen.

wherever Khrushchev goes, became downright jumpy. Plans to have Khrushchev ride in an open car were abandoned, and the route he was to follow was changed.

Police lined the 17 miles in from the airport. And they stood with their backs to the road, their eyes peeled for potential trouble on any of the hills.

Khrushchev was taken up the narrow, winding road to the top of Mt. Washington for a sweeping view of Pittsburgh. From there he could see the skyscrapers, many of them especially lit up for the occasion — of downtown Pittsburgh, an imposing sight.

A crowd of 5,000 or more was jammed around the Carlton House, awaiting Khrushchev, even though he didn't arrive until 12:03 a.m.

MORE SIGNS
Here were more signs. One said: "God Bless America, God Free Ukraine."

Another: "Red Atrocities in Ukraine defy description."

But some signs were favorable. "A salute to peace," one read. And another proclaimed: "We salute the peace efforts of President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev."

Mr. K. stood for a moment facing the crowd. He waved his hat, and then went into the hotel and, presumably, to bed.

Wednesday was another rough and wearying day on a trip that sometimes seems as if it were designed to wear down the Premier's resistance — or at least the resistance of the newsmen and photographers tagging after him.

For Khrushchev finally got a chance to see Iowa's rich farm lands, its pigs, its corn, its soybeans, its complex machinery that enable farmers to harvest these bountiful crops efficiently and cheaply.

Mr. K. spent so much time looking around — he fancies himself a farm expert — that he wound up racing toward town at 70 miles an hour.

But he also dropped around for a brief stop at Iowa State University in Ames.

There he was presented with a plastic bag as a souvenir. And he agreed smilingly when an escort said, "The more I see of some humans the better I like pigs."

Pretty coeds waved at him, and the Premier kept waving back. He visited a home economics building and watched students learning how to wash, iron and cook.

"We don't have such schools," he said. "Our mothers have to teach that."

Khrushchev, an atheist who mentions religion occasionally, summed up his Iowa visit by saying "God has helped you a lot."

"You must not think God is helping only you," he added. "He's helping us too. We are developing quicker and therefore God is on our side. He helps the intelligent."

headquarters for news on the talks.

The camp, Eisenhower's secluded and tightly guarded retreat in the Cotacotín Mountains, is about 25 miles from here at Thurmont, Md.

The village of Thurmont could not possibly provide the communications facilities and living quarters required for coverage of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks.

Gettysburg is considerably larger and much better able to handle the load — although the seams are being strained.

In the first place, Gettysburg is a major tourist center because of the Civil War battle which took place here in 1863. Also, Eisenhower's farm home is on the edge of town. So there are a good many hotels and motels in the area.

Communications facilities are much better than average for a community of 7,500 population because newsmen swarm on the city from time to time — whenever Eisenhower makes major news at his farm or at Camp David.

For example, the President convened here his heart attack at the farm in 1955 and from ill-effects in 1956. Last March he conferred at Camp David with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

For that conference about 100 newsmen came to Gettysburg. Many more are expected to be on hand for the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks starting Friday evening and continuing until Sunday noon.

News headquarters in Gettysburg is a converted gymnasium in the center of town. The White House staff has managed to jam in enough work tables and chairs to accommodate about 230 reporters. In addition, an area 24 by 16 feet has been marked off for photographers and sound technicians who will be filming and recording when the official American and Soviet spokesmen hold forth.

Specific working space is being assigned to each news organization, but there is no thought on the part of anyone that the work space provided will be adequate.

Living quarters for newsmen are scattered in about 15 hotels and motels.

Hoffa Denies Secession Idea

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, president of the International Union, said today it is ridiculous for anyone to suggest some locals may secede from the union in a move to thwart a cleanup drive directed by court appointed monitors.

Hoffa denied that he had discussed such a move with other Teamsters officials.

The Nashville Tennessean, in a news story from its Washington bureau, said Hoffa reportedly was advised by his attorneys that the secession plan would remove various local unions from scrutiny of the monitors. The paper quoted an unnamed spokesman for Hoffa.

Hoffa is in Atlanta for conferences with trustees of the union's pension fund from which a new local motel has obtained a $1,900,000 loan.

At a news conference Wednesday he termed the new Landrum-Griffin labor control law a disgrace to Congress and called for its repeal on the ground it would penalize both union and nonunion workers.

Accused Murderess Files For Dismissal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a surprise move, Carole Tregoff filed a petition with an appeal court asking that she be freed of charges in the Finch murder case because she was forced to testify against herself.

In the 28-page brief, filed with the California District Court of Appeal Wednesday night, she emphasized she is now completely separated from Dr. R. Bernard Finch, once her lover.

The attractive 22-year-old Miss Tregoff and Dr. Finch, 41, are charged with murder in the slaying of the physician's socialite wife, Barbara, 33.

The petition said the evidence on which Miss Tregoff is held in the form of her own statements, which she made at the preliminary hearing without being warned of her legal rights.

District Chief Of Lions Here For Club Visit

Downtown Lions got a drill on fundamentals of successful service club work Wednesday when District Governor W. J. (Bill) Jones of San Angelo made his official visit.

There is no substitute for vigorous recruiting and thorough indoctrination, he told his listeners. There can be no let up on attendance, fellowship or a good spirit at the meetings.

The goal of a 10 per cent addition to clubs will not be sufficient to end the year ahead unless Lions stop their loss. Last year in Texas there were 8,500 new members and 7,750 dropped because clubs didn't put members to work, Jones declared.

He was introduced by Marshall Cauley Big Spring, district deputy governor.

James Tidwell, general chairman, made assignments for the annual light bulb sale early in October.

Claim Assault

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The Damascus daily Al Ayyam said today a Turkish border patrol penetrated 800 yards into Syrian territory north of the Aleppo district Wednesday and fired on Arab shepherds.

News headquarters in Gettysburg is a converted gymnasium in the center of town. The White House staff has managed to jam in enough work tables and chairs to accommodate about 230 reporters. Ex-Insurance Chief Linked By Favors To Financier Cage

AUSTIN (AP) — J. Byron Saunders' battle against perjury charges continued today with testimony linking him to favors granted by fugitive financier Ben-Jack Cage.

Two state witnesses testified Wednesday Cage furnished Saunders and Garland A. Smith with a private plane ride and paid a Dallas hotel bill for the two former State Insurance Commission members in 1954. At the time Cage was head of the now-defunct ICT Insurance Co.

Cage currently is in Brazil, evading a 10-year prison sentence given him by a Dallas jury for bilking ICT stockholders of $100,000. He also is under indictment by an Austin grand jury on charges of bribing Saunders and Smith.

Saunders and Smith were indicted by the same grand jury on charges of perjury in testimony given during the investigation of the ICT collapse. Saunders is the first to come to trial.

Most of Wednesday court session was devoted to reading a 123-page transcript of the March 15, 1957, session of the Special House Investigating Committee. Saunders told the 5-man probe he and Cage agreed Jan. 10, 1954, that Saunders would sell a Wood County oil lease to ICT Discount Corp., another of Cage's 74 financial ventures. Saunders testified he went to Tyler Jan. 11 and while there made out and mailed to Cage a royalty deed to the property.

The six accusations of perjury in the Austin indictment concern the oil lease deal between Saunders and Cage.

Angus McDonald, veteran staff employee of the insurance board, testified he, Saunders and Smith flew to Dallas Jan. 10, 1954, in a private plane with Cage. McDonald said Saunders addressed an insurance meeting in Dallas the next day, then flew to Houston for another insurance meeting on Jan. 12.

Frank Harris, assistant manager of a Dallas hotel, said hotel records showed Saunders and Smith checked into the hotel Jan. 10, 1954, and checked out together Jan. 11.

Harris said both hotel bills were signed by Saunders and paid by Ben-Jack Cage Co. Saunders' bill was $19.30 and Smith $8.15.

In questioning prospective jurors Monday Saunders' attorneys indicated Saunders will claim he made a mistake and meant to tell the investigating committee the royalty deed was made in Tyler Jan. 19 instead of Jan. 11. They contended such a mistake, if not proved to the investigation, would be false swearing, not perjury.

False swearing convictions carry a 2 - 5 year sentence but the sentence may be suspended. Perjury is punishable by 2 - 10 years, with no suspended sentence.

Youth Roundup Spikes Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Police rounded up 27 youths in two well-armed gangs Wednesday night, probably preventing more killing in the tense Bronx area where 16-year-old John Guzman was slain Monday.

One group of six youths, three of them over 21, were trapped by police on a rooftop with a pile of nine "Molotov cocktail" gasoline bombs, a shotgun with 22 shells, two hunting knives and a box of 22-caliber bullets.

A short time later three carloads of youths were spotted about four blocks away and caught after a five-block chase.

The rooftop ambush and the auto caravan apparently were the outgrowth of a planned "rumble" between the gang to which Guzman had belonged and the gang identified with his killers.

Sen. Yarborough Advises Women On Individualism

BELTON (AP)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough advised young women here today to "make a decision for individualism as opposed to conformity."

"You must decide whether you will shape your own destiny or allow it to be moulded by someone else; whether you will run with the pack or often walk alone," he said.

The senator addressed the fall convocation at Mary Hardin Baylor College beginning its 118th year.

"The needs of our nation for intellectual effort and educational attainment have never been higher," he said. "The race we are running is, certainly in one sense at least, a race against time."

Yarborough told the young women that the real hope for a permanent peace does not lie in nuclear weapons.

"Instead, I believe, our real hope for peace is for us to have a greater genuine concern for our fellow man around the world. The most terrible enemies of mankind are still hunger and disease, poverty and ignorance," he said.

Stork Shower Given For The Jeff Dunlaps

Twenty-five guests met in the home of Mrs. Carl McKee Wednesday evening. The refreshment table was decorated with a centerpiece of pink roses on a pink lace tablecloth.

Big Red Fib

MOSCOW (AP)—Correspondent K. Nepomnyiechi of Komsomol Pravda told Soviet readers in a dispatch from Des Moines today that a crowd trampling placards and banners proclaimed opposition to Premier Khrushchev's U.S. visit. The youth newspaper's writer said the crowds were friendly and many farmers among them insisted that the "provocateurs" were not from Iowa.

Angus McDonald, veteran staff employee of the insurance board, testified he, Saunders and Smith flew to Dallas Jan. 10, 1954, in a private plane with Cage. McDonald said Saunders addressed an insurance meeting in Dallas the next day, then flew to Houston for another insurance meeting on Jan. 12.

Frank Harris, assistant manager of a Dallas hotel, said hotel records showed Saunders and Smith checked into the hotel Jan. 10, 1954, and checked out together Jan. 11.

Harris said both hotel bills were signed by Saunders and paid by Ben-Jack Cage Co. Saunders' bill was $19.30 and Smith $8.15.

In questioning prospective jurors Monday Saunders' attorneys indicated Saunders will claim he made a mistake and meant to tell the investigating committee the royalty deed was made in Tyler Jan. 19 instead of Jan. 11. They contended such a mistake, if not proved to the investigation, would be false swearing, not perjury.

False swearing convictions carry a 2 - 5 year sentence but the sentence may be suspended. Perjury is punishable by 2 - 10 years, with no suspended sentence.

Youth Roundup Spikes Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Police rounded up 27 youths in two well-armed gangs Wednesday night, probably preventing more killing in the tense Bronx area where 16-year-old John Guzman was slain Monday.

One group of six youths, three of them over 21, were trapped by police on a rooftop with a pile of nine "Molotov cocktail" gasoline bombs, a shotgun with 22 shells, two hunting knives and a box of 22-caliber bullets.

A short time later three carloads of youths were spotted about four blocks away and caught after a five-block chase.

The rooftop ambush and the auto caravan apparently were the outgrowth of a planned "rumble" between the gang to which Guzman had belonged and the gang identified with his killers.

Sen. Yarborough Advises Women On Individualism

BELTON (AP)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough advised young women here today to "make a decision for individualism as opposed to conformity."

"You must decide whether you will shape your own destiny or allow it to be moulded by someone else; whether you will run with the pack or often walk alone," he said.

The senator addressed the fall convocation at Mary Hardin Baylor College beginning its 118th year.

"The needs of our nation for intellectual effort and educational attainment have never been higher," he said. "The race we are running is, certainly in one sense at least, a race against time."

Yarborough told the young women that the real hope for a permanent peace does not lie in nuclear weapons.

"Instead, I believe, our real hope for peace is for us to have a greater genuine concern for our fellow man around the world. The most terrible enemies of mankind are still hunger and disease, poverty and ignorance," he said.

Borden County Wild Shows New Oil After Sand Frac

Texaco No. 1 Johnson, Borden County wildcat, has found new oil after sand-fracing perforations between 6,565-658 feet with 20,000 gallons. Operator swabbed 77 barrels of new oil and 134 barrels of water in 24 hours.

Pan American No. 2 Turnbow, Martin County indicated discovery by the Strawn lime section of the Pennsylvania, flowed 40 barrels of new oil and two barrels of acid water on an eight hour test. Operator has killed the well, re-perforated the 10,800-810 foot section and is preparing to swab. The perforated section with the oil flow is 10,800-830 feet.

Stallworth No. 1 Barkhurst, Garza County prospector, is still pumping about a barrel of oil per hour.

Bond Oil Corporation of Big Spring has started the No. 1 G. T. Hall as a wildcat location about six miles east of Barstow in Ward County. On 160 acres, it will go to 5,300 feet with rotary tools. The elevation is 2,709 feet and the drillsite is 660 from south and 1,500 from east lines of section 14-34-5n, T&P survey.

John J. Eisner has announced plans to drill the No. 3 Knight as a Jameson, West (Strawn) field location about 12 miles northeast of Sterling City in Sterling County. It is a rotary operation scheduled for 1959.

Field completions were reported this morning in the Dorward field of Garza County and the Luther SE (Silurio-Devonian) pool in Howard County.

Big Spring Exploration, Inc., and Kewanee Oil Company have set 5 1/2-inch casing at 4,759 feet for tests in the San Andres in No. 1

The Premier And His Host

Leaving for a visit to a Coon Rapids, Iowa farm, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Roswell Garst, his host, pause in front of Khrushchev's hotel quarters in Des Moines. He made a 2-day tour of the tall corn country.

Corn Belt Settles Down After K. Tour

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Iowa's corn belt farmers turned back to their normal placid lives today after a day with the human dynamo who bosses world communism: Nikita Khrushchev.

Few of those who participated in that lively day were likely to forget it for a long time. The Soviet Premier took off Wednesday night, tired but still happy at his Iowa reception, for Pittsburgh and another round of strenuous touring.

His personal physician, A. M. Markov, seemed unconcerned by his charge's health, feeling that "when a man smiles, he is in good health." Apparently, said the doctor, American food agrees with the Premier.

The fatigue which had been apparent in Khrushchev's features seemed to drop away as he pursued his favorite subjects—corn, communism and international politics.

He had been through quite a day. On farms near Coon Rapids, he tramped through cornfields, he trudged from farm building to farm building to farm building to farm building, learning about U.S. ideas on livestock feeding, a topic in which he is passionately interested.

He opined publicly that while God has helped the Iowa farmer become the success he is today, "He is helping us, too," because "we are developing quicker, and therefore God is on our side." Khrushchev is an avowed atheist whose official policy is to discourage and stamp out religion in Communist nations, but he often calls rhetorically upon the Deity.

He argued amiably with his host, farmer Roswell Garst, about corn growing techniques, and even criticized corn prized by Garst, allowing that if he didn't, friend Garst might "have his nose too high in the air."

He was pursued throughout the day by hordes of newsmen and photographers over the Iowa landscape, and jokingly tried to shoot them away by threatening to "turn the bulls loose" on them.

He packed away an enormous farm-style Iowa lunch, under a huge brown tent hard by the swimming pool of the Garst farmstead.

Smiling broadly, Khrushchev tossed off a series of pithy comments on communism and capitalism. One of these was directed to the 1952-1956 Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson, also a luncheon guest at the Garst farm.

"Now I've seen how the slaves of capitalism live," said Khrushchev. "They live well. So do the slaves of communism. I think they can live in peace together."

Khrushchev was making a joke about the term "slave." He has been annoyed in the past by the suggestion that people in Communist nations were enslaved.

When the tumult died down around the Garst farm, Stevenson commented that Khrushchev likely would leave this country with "a more profound conviction of America's hunger for peace."

In turn, Stevenson said he told the Communist boss both the Soviet Union and America should work together in a sincere, united effort to set up a sound disarmament proposal.

After saluting Iowa's farmers as "a very wise, intelligent people," Khrushchev was whisked off by car to Ames and Iowa State University, where he got a look at American techniques in hog-raising.

And he got a look, too, at the university's home economics students at their studies in washing, ironing, cooking and other homely chores.

Khrushchev turned courtly, and pronounced them "very nice girls." But he was at a loss to understand why they were so assiduously pursuing those studies.

He remarked the Soviet boss, "Our mothers have to teach that." He wished the girls success, but added that "the main thing is to find a good husband."

Khrushchev got a warm reception at Ames, and his smiles reflected his pleasure in it. The students cheered him, and he broke through the cordon of his security guards to go to a railing and wave back at them.

All in all, it had been a hectic day, full of confusion, from the time he left his hotel in Des Moines until he returned to about nine hours later, barely with time enough to prepare for his departure to Pittsburgh for a tour of that industrial metropolis.

The Soviet boss obviously enjoyed the show of friendliness in Iowa, but he did not overlook, either, the chance to boast about the Soviet Union. For all of Iowa's superiority in corn and hogs, allowed Khrushchev, the U.S.S.R.'s farmers will catch up with them and overtake them in that sort of competition eventually.

Turbulent though the day had been, Khrushchev had not quite run out of steam.

Clutching a souvenir plastic pig as he emerged from the State University's experimental farm, Khrushchev sent a shaft at his official escort, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Apparently he enjoyed (wittingly the man who has opposed the U.S.S.R. in the United Nations. Referring to the day's trek through the farm area, Khrushchev quipped:

"I am very glad Mr. Lodge is with me. In all his life, he probably didn't take in as many smells as he did today."

Looking fatigued again, but still beaming amiably, Khrushchev shouted "good-bye" in English to his hosts before the huge Military Air Transport Service jet whisked him off to Pittsburgh.

"I leave with the best of feelings and the best of impressions, and I will convey to my people the many good wishes expressed here," he said in Russian.

Lamesa C. Of C. Draws Up List 1959-60 Objectives

LAMESA — Headed by the improvement of sewage disposal facilities, seven major objectives for the 1959-60 program of work were adopted here Wednesday by a special Chamber of Commerce committee.

Using results of a membership survey from a questionnaire as a guide, the C of C program of work adopted the objects in as near the order they were rated in the returns as possible. Eighty-five of the 320 questionnaires mailed were returned.

The objectives in the order they were adopted by the committee were:

- (1) Improvement of sewage disposal facilities, (2) adopting city master plan and zoning, (3) alleviating hazardous conditions on Bryan Avenue to assure safety of school children and to facilitate traffic movement, (4) develop a feasible plan for the prevention of juvenile delinquency and provide guidance to juveniles, (5) study the possibility of converting courthouse lawn to provide additional parking facilities, (6) promote a new library, and (7) improve appearance of Big Spring highway approach, including South Lynn and South Dallas Avenues.

These recommended major objectives for the new chamber year will be presented to the board of directors by Will Morris, chairman of the program or work committee.

The sewage disposal item was at the top of the survey, being checked a total of 79 times and rated in order of importance by 67. It was rated as first need by 37 and second by 17, far ahead of any other objective on the questionnaire.

Relocation of the disposal plant was favored 61 over redevelopment in its present location.

He packed away an enormous farm-style Iowa lunch, under a huge brown tent hard by the swimming pool of the Garst farmstead.

Smiling broadly, Khrushchev tossed off a series of pithy comments on communism and capitalism. One of these was directed to the 1952-1956 Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson, also a luncheon guest at the Garst farm.

"Now I've seen how the slaves of capitalism live," said Khrushchev. "They live well. So do the slaves of communism. I think they can live in peace together."

Jury Commission Meets, Draws Jury Panel Members

Jury commissioners for the October term of district court are in session at the Howard County Court house today.

The commission was empaneled and set to work at 9 a.m. by Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th District Court.

The commission was instructed by the court to draw 300 names from the tax lists for petit jury duty in the October term. It is also instructed to draw 20 names for grand jury duty. The 300 petit jurors will be set up in six panels of 50 jurors each.

Members of the panel are Earl Hull, Jackie McKinney, Arthur Stallings, Burt Cramer and Zolzie Boykin.

The October term grand jury will be empaneled on Oct. 28, Judge Sullivan said.

Den Meeting

Benny Hooten and Tommy Smith were elected dinner and assistant dinner at a meeting of Den 3, Pack 1, in the home of Mrs. Sidney Blanchard, den mother, Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Ernest Miller is assistant den mother. The group practiced the flag ceremony, which is to be presented this evening at 7:30 at Airport School. Dens with the greatest number of parents present will receive a trophy which will be kept a month. Three months ownership of the trophy entitles the den to a prize of two dollars.

Refreshments were served to six by Steve Blanchard.

Trial Transfer Is Announced

LAMESA—The misapplication of funds trial of a former Crosby County official has been transferred to the 106th judicial district for trial in Dawson County, it was announced here Wednesday.

Local officials said the trial of J. T. Herrington of Crosbyton, former county sheriff there, would probably be tried here when the court session opens on Oct. 12.

The case was transferred here since it was contended that the incident had received too much publicity and that a fair and impartial jury could not be empaneled without a change of venue.

E. O. Bassinger, John D. Anderson, L. T. Shoultz, Frank Philly, Dutch Cowley, V. L. Burnett, Leonard Grisham, and Dave Knight served as pallbearers at the funeral of Jeff Wylie Pike Thursday. Burial was in the city cemetery with River Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Pike, 62, a retired Magnolia Petroleum Co. pumper, died in a local hospital on Tuesday night. Workers with Magnolia were honorary pall-bearers at the funeral services.

Mr. Pike was a veteran of World War I and American Legion rites were carried out at the graveside under the direction of Post 355 of that organization.

FHA Announces Interest Rate Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A boost in the top interest rate on Federal Housing Administration loans has followed President Eisenhower's signing of a third-try housing bill.

The FHA announced the increase from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 per cent in the permissible interest rate on home mortgages it insures. It means higher monthly payments for home purchasers, but is expected to make it easier for them to obtain the loans.

Moscow Bound

Mrs. Nina Khrushchev, wife of the Russian premier, seems to be in a happy mood as she holds a toy dog she bought on a shopping tour in San Francisco. The dog is Moscow bound and is destined to become a companion for one of Mrs. Khrushchev's grandchildren.

Bond Posted, Gulf Ferries To Run Barring Legal Snag

AUSTIN (AP) — The Galveston-Bolivar ferries will keep operating—at least temporarily—barring a last minute legal wrinkle. Galveston Mayor Herbert Cartwright headed a Galveston delegation which discussed the problem with the State Highway Commission agreed to an offer by Galveston officials to furnish the required bond. Earlier this month Dist. Judge Donald Markle ruled the ferries must stop operating unless proper bond is posted to cover department employees who operate the boats. The injunction originally would have stopped the ferries Sept. 15 but was extended until midnight Monday. The bond will assure submerged land owners compensation for future damage or liability which may arise until the suit is settled by the state's highest court. City Attorney Herman E. Klei-neck said there is no problem in raising the $7,500. The Highway Commission said earlier it has no authority to put up state money for the bond and does not want to ask ferry em-

K. Following Same Script On U. S. Tour

By STERLING SLAPPEY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The amazing Nikita Khrushchev—both front man and backroom boy of the Soviet Union—is following the same script he used three years ago when he last took a good look at the Western world.

The great difference between the routine in the United States and the 10-day grand tour of Britain in 1956 is that he left straight man Nikolai Bulganin somewhere behind and in oblivion.

Bulganin was the stiff, formal premier but Khrushchev was then the boss. This correspondent toured with Khrushchev in the Soviet Union, throughout the British tour and the similarities with his American tour are astonishing.

Khrushchev told the British in Birmingham that cruisers were so far out of date he'd be glad to give them a few. In California three days ago he said the Soviet Union was scrapping cruisers.

In the House of Commons Khrushchev got into a nasty argument with Aneurin Bevan, George Brown and other British Labor Party leaders. In San Francisco he tangled with Walter Reuther and American labor leaders.

He told British Laborites he got on better with Conservatives and he told Americans he liked their business leaders, not some of their labor leaders.

He put on a pout in 1956 and did it again this week—threatening each time to pack up and go home if people didn't stop pressing him. Khrushchev lost his temper midway his British tour, regained it, lost it again and went back to Moscow just a little miffed. Thus far in the American tour he lost his temper a couple of times in New York and Los Angeles, regained it in San Francisco and Iowa and now it remains to be seen what happens in Pittsburgh and Washington.

He complained bitterly about the tight security screens in Britain and America. He is guarded as closely and in much the same manner in Moscow. He complained he could not get in amongst the British and American people. But he seldom gets in amongst the Soviets either.

In welcoming Khrushchev here, Eisenhower expressed hope the Premier's tour would improve chances of settling some of the great East-West problems.

He said Khrushchev would find that the American people have no ill will toward other peoples, want no territory and seek no additional power.

"I most sincerely hope," Eisenhower said, "that as you come to see and believe these truths about our people there will develop an improved basis on which we can together consider the problems that divide us."

President Begins His Final Preparations For Niki Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower begins final preparations today for his week-end talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

He is reported hopeful but by no means certain that some way can be found to improve U.S.-Soviet relations and promote serious negotiations on disarmament.

He has counted on Khrushchev's observations during a tour of the country to increase that possibility.

Khrushchev returns to Washington late today after a one-day visit to Pittsburgh. On an eight-day tour around the country he has spoken thousands of words, but Washington officials have found among them no really new ideas of solving East-West problems or any hint of softening in Soviet foreign policy.

Eisenhower arranged to meet with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other State Department and White House officials for a detailed survey of issues which Khrushchev and the President have already agreed to discuss.

These issues range from Berlin to Europe to the small strife-torn country of Laos in Southeast Asia. They include disarmament, negotiations to end nuclear weapons testing, the future of Germany, Soviet-American trade, and travel exchanges between the United States and Russia.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev discussed the subjects briefly and generally 10 days ago, a few hours after the Soviet Premier arrived in this country. Since then the topics have been put in order by Herter and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in preparation for two days of Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks starting late Friday at Camp David, Md.

Informal administration officials said it was impossible to say now whether or not Eisenhower and Khrushchev would find any new approach for tackling specific issues.

The one thing on which the two men seemed to agree most firmly is that war in the nuclear age would be so devastating for all countries that some way must be found to avoid it.

In welcoming Khrushchev here, Eisenhower expressed hope the Premier's tour would improve chances of settling some of the great East-West problems.

He said Khrushchev would find that the American people have no ill will toward other peoples, want no territory and seek no additional power.

"I most sincerely hope," Eisenhower said, "that as you come to see and believe these truths about our people there will develop an improved basis on which we can together consider the problems that divide us."

But officials who have followed the series of speeches and off-the-cuff remarks he has made as he visited New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and the Iowa farm belt have their doubts.

They have concluded that if Khrushchev did in fact gain some new ideas about the United States the ideas have not yet made any real impact on his firm belief that sooner or later the political and economic systems of this and other Western countries will collapse in crisis and communism will take over.

Nevertheless Eisenhower was described as hopeful in advance of the Camp David discussions.

It is understood that he is particularly interested in exploring Khrushchev's attitude toward the negotiations at Geneva for a ban on nuclear tests backed up by an inspection system.

In a somewhat similar vein the President reportedly wants to impress upon the Soviet leader that the Communist military campaign against the pro-Western government of Laos should be speedily brought to a halt.

Once Ruled Insane, Convicted Killer Gets Death Penalty

LUBBOCK (AP) — A convicted slayer who was saved from the electric chair in 1951 by an insanity ruling has been sentenced to death again.

The second death sentence against Richard W. McGee, 35, was handed down here Tuesday by Dist. Judge Victor H. Lindsey. The execution was set for Oct. 29.

A jury in 1949 found McGee guilty of murder in the gun slaying of R. L. Allston, a grocery store executive, who had refused to give his consent to the marriage of his daughter to McGee. McGee was sentenced to death but later was found insane by an El Paso court. He was confined to the Rusk State Hospital. Recently he was brought back to Lubbock and found sane by a jury Sept. 10.

McGee took the second sentencing calmly. Asked by the judge if he had anything to say, he replied that he hadn't.

Woman Dies After Anesthetic Blast

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — A woman patient died on the operating table at Bradford Hospital Wednesday after absorbing most of the force of an anesthetic explosion inside her mouth.

Hospital administrator Robert Cole said a volatile anesthetic exploded in its container while Doris Wolford was undergoing surgery. Cole said the force of the blast traveled through a tube and into Mrs. Wolford's mouth. He theorized that a spark from one of the motors in the room may have ignited the anesthetic.

Family Enslaver Dangerous Case

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Government psychiatrists say Rafael Perez Hernandez, the man who kept his family virtual prisoners for 15 years, is a dangerous mental case.

They recommend that he be moved from the penitentiary hospital where he is being held to a psychiatric hospital for treatment. They said the prison atmosphere is making his condition worse.

Perez Hernandez was arrested July 24 after a teen-age daughter smuggled a note to outsiders, saying the family was kept locked in a suburban home.

To Red River Panel

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel appointed Buster Cole, Bonham attorney interstate compact commissioner for the Red River Wednesday. He succeeds Col. John J. Ledbetter for the remainder of the unexpired term and a two-year term beginning Dec. 3.

Texas Damp Again Today

By The Associated Press. Showers dampened Northwest Texas Thursday and forecasts said some moisture can be expected in all sections of the state through Friday.

It was the second straight day of damp weather for many sections. Scattered rain splashed the eastern half of the state Wednesday afternoon from the Red River to the Gulf.

Austin caught a 2.54-inch fall from a thunderstorm in the afternoon. Low water crossings were blocked and water filled intersections, but the rain ran off quickly.

Six golfers at a pitch-n-putt course had a scare and a narrow escape when lightning hit a tree near where they were playing.

Beaumont also had a heavy afternoon rain. Showers were reported at Houston, Victoria, Beville and Corpus Christi and in a wide area from Fort Worth to Wichita Falls.

Rainy country around Uvalde in Southwest Texas was drenched by a series of thunderstorms earlier Wednesday. The heaviest rainfall report was 4.65 inches, measured at a ranch 12 miles north of Uvalde.

There were no reports of damage in the sparsely-populated area, where ranchers welcomed the rain. Cotton farmers to the south were less pleased with showers which hit their land.

Other moisture totals included 3.49 inches at Magnolia, 3.25 at Sabinal, 2.50 at Levelland, 1.52 at Utopia, 1.42 at Hallettsville, 1.35 at Dickinson, 1.36 at Hondo, 1.32 at New Braunfels, 1.23 at Madisonville, 1.20 at Tarpley, 1.10 at Liberty, 1.06 at Ennis, an inch at Mexia and lesser amounts at many other points.

Maximum temperatures ranged from 82 degrees at Brownsville to 99 at Laredo.

Scurry County FM Road Job Given Green Light

The state highway commission approved three highway projects Wednesday including one relative to small project in Scurry County.

This project involves construction on a relocation of FM 1269. It will extend from one mile south of the Garza County Line about two miles. The cost will be about $54,000.

El Paso, Travis and Schleicher County delegations discussed road projects today. The El Paso group requested a highway connection north of El Paso from U.S. 54 to Interstate 10.

The city of Eldorado asked for state maintenance of the old route of U.S. 277 in Eldorado. The Austin delegation requested an extension of a farm road from Ranch 2244 west of Austin.

The commission agreed to a Baytown loop from the end of Spur 201 north and east to the present location of State 146 at McKinney road, 5.3 miles. The state's share of the cost will be $190,000.

It also agreed to relocate State 146 in the Baytown area at a cost to the state of $100,000.

The commission ordered 8.2 miles of Farm 624 in Jim Wells and Live Oak counties graded and surfaced. The $272,700 project will go from U.S. 281 northwest to 4.3 miles northwest of the county line intersection.

It authorized surveys and plans for grading, structures and surfacing on U.S. 287 from 9th street to present U.S. 281 at Virginia Street in Wichita Falls.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL dunks

EXPLANATION - A dunk is a comparative strength rating reflecting the season's record to date. It shows average scoring difference relative to rating of opponent. Example: 100 score has been 100 points better, but opponent's 40-0 team, against opposition of relatively equal rating. The system has been continuous since its origination in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

SECOND BIG GAME OF "CROSS-OUT"!

Get a new Card each time you visit SAFEWAY continue to play All Cards. Just follow these simple rules:

1. Pick up your Safeway "Cross-Out" Card today at your Safeway Store—and each time you stop there after for the next 6 weeks.
2. Match the numbers of your card against the master numbers. Pencil an X over those numbers on your card that match these numbers.
3. If you can "X-OUT" on your card five numbers in a row either down, across or diagonally, you have WON A PRIZE! Just turn over your card and you'll know what you have won.
4. IF YOU HAVE A WINNER—Fill out the required information on the back of the card and mail it to: Cross-Out, Box 551, St. Louis, Missouri. You'll receive your prize in about 15 days.
5. IF YOU HAVEN'T A WINNER THIS WEEK—Erase the X's from your card and save it to play again! Safeway's ads next week and in this paper, and each succeeding ad of the contest.
6. Save this "Cross-Out" ad and every "Cross-Out" ad for the next 6 weeks—a previous "Cross-Out" may have winning numbers for a new card.
7. Any one card and any one ad can be brought to claim a winner but numbers from more than one ad cannot be combined to form a winning card.
8. Cards will be given to adults only.
9. Complete rules and instructions on every "Cross-Out" card.

Former Dietitian Shares Recipes For Varied Tastes

Family, food and flowers are three of the big interests in the life of Mrs. Dick Lane who, with Dr. Lane, a dentist, and 12-year-old Darrell, makes her home at 1724 Yale.

Mrs. Lane took her training in dietetics at St. Paul's Hospital in Dallas. She was assistant dietitian at Baylor Hospital before her marriage and during World War II when Dr. Lane was serving with the U. S. Army.

The Lane's new home is built for family living and includes a room that has been made into a hobby room for both the boys' who enjoy woodworking. Right now Darrell is mostly interested in model airplane building, while his father is looking forward to a project to put to use his new power tools.

Center of the family living is the beautiful birch paneled den-dining-kitchen area. Here maple furniture is blended with various brass accessories which include a modern banjo type clock that hangs over the mantle in lieu of the old timers that are found in many homes.

Mrs. Lane is active in the W.M.S. of the First Baptist Church and the Rosebud Garden Club. She enjoys fashioning arrangements with flowers from her yard, although they are pretty scanty right now as the Lanes moved to their new home in June.

Here are some of the favored recipes from Mrs. Lane's files which she has served to friends and family with good results—meaning there were no leftovers.

1/2 box spaghetti
1/2 cup catsup
Chop carrots and celery; stew in salted water until tender. Salt the ground meat and form into balls the size of walnuts. Drop the meat balls and spaghetti into the vegetables. Simmer until tender then add catsup.

CHOP SUEY
1 onion
1 lb ground beef
1 can beef consommé
Salt, garlic salt to taste
Small bottle soy sauce
1 can chop suey vegetables
1 tsp cornstarch
Brown onion and meat; add consommé with small amount of water, salt, garlic salt and 1/2 bottle of soy sauce. Cook until meat is tender then add vegetables, simmer and drain. Make gravy from this stock and thicken it with cornstarch; then add remainder of soy sauce.
Serve over rice with a tossed green salad.

AVOCADO DIP
1 pkg cream cheese
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 ripe avocados
1/2 grated onion

34-HOUR SALAD
2 cups Royal Anne cherries
2 cups orange sections
2 cups chunk pineapple
2 cups marshmallows or mini-tures
1 cup whipping cream
DRESSING
2 eggs, beaten
4 tbsps sugar
2 tbsps vinegar
2 tbsps butter
Combine eggs, sugar and vinegar and cook slowly until thick. Add butter and cool. Add whipped cream, then pour over the mixed fruit and allow to set for 24 hours in the refrigerator.

BROWNIE PIE
3 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup nuts
1/2 cup chocolate wafers, crushed
1 tsp vanilla
1/2 pt. whipping cream
Shaved chocolate
Beat egg whites to soft peaks. Gradually add sugar and beat until stiff. Add crushed wafers, nuts and vanilla. Bake in a greased pan 35 minutes at 325 degrees.

When cool, spread whipped cream over top and decorate with shaved chocolate. Chill from 4-5 hours.

Gaelic Dish For American Tastes
Colcannon is a sturdy Gaelic dish that is definitely worth tasting.
COLCANNON
4 medium-sized (1 1/4 pounds) potatoes
Boiling water
Salt
1 1/2 cups coarsely shredded green cabbage packed down tightly
2 tbsps butter or margarine
1 small (1/4 cup) finely diced onion
Pepper
Pare potatoes; halve or quarter, cover with boiling water and 1/2 tsp salt; cook rapidly covered, until tender; drain and dry over low heat; put through ricer or mash smooth.
Meanwhile cook cabbage in 1 cup boiling water and 1/2 tsp salt until soft; do not cover; drain, reserving any cooking liquid. Add 'meat' butter in a small skillet; add onion and cook gently until golden.
Mix mashed potatoes, drained cabbage and onion including butter in skillet with milk (3 tbsps or more) to moisten. Add more salt if necessary and enough pepper to give real flavor.
Reheat, over boiling water if desired, adding more milk or drained cabbage liquid to bottom of pan until very hot. Serve at once. Makes 5 servings.

Houston To Get New Industry

Duncan Coffee Co., makers of Maryland Club, Admiration, and other brands, has announced plans for a new plant and offices to be built on a 26-acre tract in one of Houston's newest industrial districts.

The plant will cost in excess of three million dollars and is scheduled for completion in the late fall of 1960. It will provide the most advanced coffee processing facilities known to the industry, and will be one of the largest capacity coffee roasting plants in the world.

The expansion has been under consideration for some years, according to C. W. Duncan, chairman of the board, and is made necessary by the rapid growth of the company's Maryland Club brand, which is finding new markets this fall in states as distant as Minnesota and Colorado. The Duncan Coffee Co.'s operations currently encompass 12 states. According to company officials, it is probably the third largest roaster in the nation. The new plant will contain 210,000 square feet and will employ many innovations in coffee processing.

Old-Time Chicken Dish Goes Modern Taste

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor
It goes under several names: Yorkshire Chicken, Chicken Baked in Batter, Chicken on a Cloud. But no matter what the name, the recipe derives from an early American one called Chicken Pudding.

One old-time Virginia recipe for the dish calls for joining the chicken and cooking it in herb-seasoned water until tender. Then the chicken is drained and arranged in a baking dish and a Yorkshire pudding or popover batter poured over. Now into the oven the whole thing goes. The chicken stock is used for a cream gravy with directions carefully given to "pass separately."

Modern recipes for the dish brown the chicken in fat, then arrange the pieces in a skillet of Yorkshire pudding or popover batter and bake. Some years ago this old-time dish won a prize in a contest for new recipes. We've taken a further liberty with this dish. Seemed to us the chicken would taste good baked in cornmeal batter as a change from the usual Yorkshire pudding or popover mixture. No sooner thought of than tried: now crisp brown chicken peeps up through a blanket of cornbread.

This is the sort of baked main dish that's convenient when company's coming. You can put it in the oven and forget about it: 40 minutes later the chicken will be tender and brown, the cornbread baked through, all ready to enjoy. We like the dish with old-fashioned condiments—pickled watermelon rind, corn relish, chow-chow. Add a big salad, dessert and coffee and you're all set.

CHICKEN CORNBREAD PUDDING
1 broiler-fryer (any size)
3/4 cup sifted flour
1 1/2 tbsps salt
1/2 tsp pepper
1/2 tsp paprika
6 tbsps butter or margarine
1/2 cup enriched yellow cornmeal
2 tbsps baking powder
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
2 tbsps soft shortening

Have chicken cut in 10 pieces; wash and drain. Stir together 1/4 cup of the flour, 1 teaspoon of the salt, pepper and paprika; coat chicken with flour mixture. Brown chicken in hot butter in a 10-inch black or enamel-coated iron frying pan; remove chicken; reserve drippings; wash and dry pan; grease. Sift remaining 1/4 cup flour, cornmeal, baking powder and remaining 1/2 tsp salt into a mixing bowl; add egg, milk and shortening; beat with rotary beater until just smooth, about 1 minute. Pour batter into prepared frying pan; arrange chicken in batter, skin side up. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven about 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted in cornbread comes out clean. Cut in wedges and serve at once. If desired, you may use the reserved drippings for a cream gravy to serve with the chicken pudding, making stock for the gravy out of the chicken giblets. Makes 4 servings.

Cake-Like Pudding Will Make A Hit

Here is a new pudding that is a cross between a cake and a torte:

COTTAGE CRUMB PUDDING
3 eggs (separated)
2 tbsps plus 1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup corn oil
1/2 tsp vanilla
3/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 tsp salt
1 1/2 squares (1 1/4 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate (coarsely grated)
Line bottom of loaf pan (8 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) with waxed paper. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in the 2 tablespoons sugar; continue beating until soft peaks form. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored, gradually beat in the 1-3 cup sugar, then corn oil and vanilla.
Stir together the crumbs, baking powder, salt and grated chocolate; stir into beaten egg whites. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until pudding springs back when lightly touched with finger. Invert pan on cake rack to cool for 1/2 hour. Cut around edges and ends to loosen pudding, turn out and remove paper. Slice and serve with Chocolate Sauce and whipped cream. Makes 10 to 12 servings. Leftover pudding may be served cold if desired.

Splurge Tonight With Garlic Bread

Feel like splurging with a rich delicious hot bread?

RICH GARLIC CHEESE BREAD
1/2 lb butter or margarine
1 large clove garlic (crushed)
1 jar (1 1/2 ounces) grated mild Parmesan cheese
2 loaves (one 10-ounce pkg) brown-and-serve French bread
Paprika
Cream the butter with the crushed garlic and cheese. Slice loaves of bread into 1-inch slices but do not cut through bottom crusts. Spread soft butter mixture over both sides of slices and top of loaves. Sprinkle tops with paprika.

Place loaves on foil and bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
Note: If you haven't time to cream the butter or allow it to soften at room temperature, melt it with the crushed garlic in a sauce pan over low heat, remove from heat and stir in the cheese. Use a thick soft-bristle brush (a clean paint brush is fine) to apply mixture to bread.

A Surprise Salad For Your Family

Surprise your family with a new, different salad

OKRA SALAD
Ingredients:
1 package (10 ounces) frozen baby okra
4 1/2 tbsps red wine vinegar (garlic flavored or plain)
3 tbsps olive oil
1/2 tsp salt, freshly-ground pepper
1/2 tsp sugar
Salad greens.
Method:
Cook okra according to package directions; drain. Mix vinegar, oil, salt, pepper to taste and sugar together thoroughly; pour over okra in fat container.
Cover and chill for 1 hour or longer, turning okra over in marinade a few times. If oil hardens allow to stand at room temperature to reliquefy before serving. Arrange okra on salad greens; drizzle marinade over greens. Makes 4 servings.

Fine Flavor For Prepared Peas

There's fine flavor when peas are prepared this way.

GREEN PEAS WITH SCALLIONS
2 tbsps butter or margarine
4 large scallions (green tops included and cut in thin diagonal 1-inch long pieces)
1 pkg (10 ounces) green peas
Salt, pepper
Melt butter in 6-inch skillet over low heat; add scallions; cook gently, stirring often, until soft through.
Cook peas according to package directions but use a deep 8-inch skillet and boil only 2 or 3 minutes, just until barely cooked through; drain and mix with scallions. Add salt and pepper to taste. Makes 4 small servings.
If peas and scallions are cooked ahead, do not drain peas; reheat both vegetables separately; at last minute drain peas and mix with scallions.

Poppy Seed Fanciers Have Special Cake

This cake is strictly for poppy-seed fanciers.

POPPY SEED CAKE
1 1/2 cups poppy seeds
6 eggs (separated)
1 cup sugar
2-3 cup corn oil
1 1/2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
2 tbsps baking powder
1/2 tsp salt
1 tsp vanilla
Place poppy seeds in a saucepan with enough water to cover; bring to a boil over medium heat and boil 30 minutes, adding more water if necessary. Drain, cool.
Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually add 1/4 cup of the sugar; continue beating until mixture holds soft peaks. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; gradually beat in the remaining 3/4 cup sugar; beat in corn oil. Stir in cooled poppy seed-egg yolk mixture. Fold into egg white-sugar mixture with vanilla.
Turn into ungreased tube pan (9 x 3 1/2 inches); bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 1 hour.
Ground, uncooked poppy seeds, if available, may be used instead of the cooked seeds.

Old-Fashioned Treat
A double-duty recipe and doubly good is fried chicken baked with cornbread.

Party Pumpkin Is Full Of Rich, Savory Spice

This dessert is for those eaters who like both pumpkin n' spice

BAVARIAN PUMPKIN CREAM
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup sugar
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp cinnamon
1/2 tsp nutmeg
1/2 tsp ginger
3/4 cup homogenized milk
3 egg yolks
1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
1 cup heavy cream
In the top of a double boiler, stir together well the gelatin, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Stir in milk with a whisk beat in the egg yolks, then the pumpkin.
Cook and stir constantly over boiling water until gelatin and sugar are dissolved and mixture is very hot — 10 minutes or longer.
Chill until a spoonful of the mixture dropped back levels very slowly or holds its shape. Beat cream until thick; fold into pumpkin mixture.
Turn into 5-cup mold or individual molds; chill until set. Unmold; serve with whipped cream if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Fix Cantaloupe With Pineapple

Use those season-end cantaloupes with tangy pineapple for a delightful fruit dessert.

CANTALOUPE AND PINEAPPLE
Ingredients:
1 medium-sized cantaloupe
1 can (1 pound and 4 ounces) pineapple chunks
2 tbsps kirsch (if desired).
Method:
Cut cantaloupe in half the long way; remove seeds with a melon-baller or round-bowled 1/2 tsp measuring spoon cut balls out of cantaloupe flesh. Add to pineapple chunks and syrup. Stir in kirsch if used. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

Making Biscuits

Don't bother getting out the rolling pin when you are making biscuits from a mix; just pat the dough to about one-half inch thickness. Cut biscuits into squares and you won't have to use a biscuit cutter.

Let Blintzes Brighten Your Bored Breakfast

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

Pancakes change depending on the cuisine to which they belong. Who doesn't like the German version? For it thinly sliced apple teams with butter, and the pancake arrives at the table a mammoth size. Doused with sugar, cinnamon and lemon juice, it's then rolled and served to a drooling audience.
From Scandinavian kitchens come some of the world's best pancakes. Small in size, made with eggs, sugar, heavy cream and a suspicion of flour plus plenty of butter—these are things to dream on.
From French kitchens Americans have borrowed crepes—delicate, paper thin, with fancy fillings and sauces to be offered as main course or dessert.
Similar to crepes, come blintzes from the Jewish cuisine. Rolled or folded around a cottage-cheese mixture, they've won wide favor. Here their batter is made with a pancake mix—and our tasters thoroughly approved. Because the mix contains shortening, not usually put into blintz batter, we found the perfect way to reheat them was under the broiler.

CHEESE BLINTZES
4 eggs
1 1/2 cups dry cottage cheese
1/4 tsp salt
1 tbsps sugar
1 tbsps grated orange rind
1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp vanilla extract
1/2 cup buttermilk pancake mix
Butter
Beat 1 of the eggs slightly, mix well with cottage cheese, salt, sugar and orange rind; reserve. Beat remaining 3 eggs slightly with milk and vanilla, gradually lightly beat in pancake mix until smooth. Place about 1 tsp batter in a 7- or 8-inch skillet and heat until bubbling; pour in enough batter about 2 tbsps and swirl, off heat if necessary, to make a thin layer. Fry until lightly browned on both sides. Turn about 1/4 tsp of butter in skillet each time, fry remaining pancakes.
Place a generous tsp of cheese filling in center of each pancake; fold top edge, then side edges over filling, fold bottom edge over. Heat blintzes under broiler 7 or 8 inches from heat source until hot through turning with wide spatula if necessary. Serve with mixed sugar and cinnamon and, if desired, with sour cream or sour-cream substitute. Makes 4 servings.

Proud Pancakes
Blintzes are a type of pancake that is an almost certain pleaser.

Don't Overlook Pears In Fall Meal Planning

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A summer visitor lingers into fall and this guest we're happy to have stay on.

So obliging! Ready to pitch in at any hour of the day — breakfast, lunch, supper, snacktime that's both refreshing and versatile.

It's the Bartlett pear we're welcoming, adding up its charms and practical contributions to family fare.

But pears need understanding treatment to bring out their best qualities. If they are a green shade and quite firm when you bring them home from market, leave them in their wrapping in a cool room in the house. After they turn yellow and yield slightly to the touch, put them in the refrigerator so you can serve them chilled.

Pears make fine partners. Put together a sandwich of date-and-nut bread with a filling of mild soft cheddar cheese, pack it into the lunch box for dessert along with a cold ripe pear.

Ever discover how well the pear and orange suit each other? Pare, halve, seed and slice pears into orange juice, serve at breakfast time. Or turn that combination into a company-time compote for lunch or supper by adding fresh orange sections and slivers of syrup-preserved ginger.

Do your young children like finger food? Cut unpeeled pears into eighth and remove seeds, place on a paper plate. Just the right size for youngsters to pick up and nibble, and full of nutrients.

Weight-watchers, too, can enjoy these juicy nibbles for dessert because a medium-sized pear counts only about 70 calories.

The pear is a fine companion for meat. Want to glorify that boneless pork shoulder butt? Insert whole cloves in it, roast it in the oven, baste with ginger ale, slice and center on a platter. Pare the pears, halve and seed. Beat some currant jelly with a little prepared mustard and spoon some into each pear cavity.

If lamb chops or roast lamb are on the menu, change the pear garnish to green mint jelly and top with pine nuts.

The raspberry turnover is a perfect mate for fresh Bartlett pears. Make your own using drained frozen raspberries or raspberry preserves and pastry dough. Or take the easy way and use the excellent puff-paste turnovers that now come frozen and need only to be baked. Because these frozen raspberry turnovers are large, they may be cut in half after baking and sprinkled with confectioners' sugar.

The new crop of Valley grapefruit and oranges appeared on North Texas markets this week. Florida grapefruit arrived in large volume.

Texas stores are featuring a large number of fruits and vegetables at attractive prices. Included are: filmpack carrots, limes, toky grapes, bell peppers, purple plums, squash, sweet potatoes, rutabagas and red potatoes.

Pole beans, cantaloupes and grapefruit are priced lower than a week ago.

Showing higher price tags are cabbage, cauliflower, sweet corn, seedless and ribber grapes, nectarines, onions, peaches, pears and tomatoes. Lemons and cucumbers are up slightly.

Lettuce prices are higher as "between season" supplies are on the market.

California cantaloupes and red delicious apples from Washington are new items on Texas markets. Other apples are available in increasing volume from many Southern states.

Large eggs are priced higher this week, and small and medium sizes provide the most economical egg buys these days. All cuts of pork are plentiful and economical, as are small-sized turkeys.

Cauliflower Has A Special Taste

Cauliflower will soon be on your family's "special taste" list if you'll add cheese sauce and bacon.

CAULIFLOWER WITH CHEESE SAUCE AND BACON

1 medium-sized head cauliflower

1 cup boiling water

1 1/2 tps. salt

4 tps. butter or margarine

4 tps. flour

2 cups milk

1 cup (loosely packed) coarsely grated cheddar cheese

4 slices bacon (cooked until almost crisp and diced)

Trim heavy green leaves from cauliflower and separate into small flowerets; wash.

Cook rapidly in 10-inch skillet with boiling water and 1 tsp. of the salt until barely tender—5 minutes or longer. Drain and arrange in heat-resistant glass pie plate (9 1/2 by 1 1/4 inches); keep warm.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and remaining 1/2 tsp. salt, over very low heat stir in cheese until melted; pour over cauliflower.

Reheat under broiler; a few minutes before removing sprinkle with bacon. Makes 6 servings.

Better Gravy

The old-fashioned way with gravy was to use browned flour for thickener. Result: good color and flavor. To brown flour stir it in a skillet over low heat until a dark golden color. Flour prepared this way has less thickening power than a corresponding amount of regular flour.

Youngsters will get a kick out of tuna sandwiches with ticktacktoe decoration, served with milk and carrot sticks.

Treat Your Child To Ticktacktoe Tuna

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

Let's face it. Many a mother is glad to see her small fry back at school again. After a summer of trying to think up answers to the perennial question, "What can I do now, Mommy?" having youngsters busy away from home is the answer to a mother's dream.

And mothers needn't feel one bit guilty. The kids are usually just as glad to get back into the school swing as older folk are eager to have them there.

But mothers are notably of two minds. Even if they can live without having their children around they'll knock themselves out preparing something special for small fry to enjoy at meals.

If your youngsters come home to lunch, they'll get a big bang out of some occasional fanciful food. One idea has always intrigued us. We once had an avocado salad with a ticktacktoe decoration served to us at a New York restaurant. Since then we've used this "game" idea in amusing garnishes. Here's our latest: Ticktacktoe Sandwiches. Serve them for lunch one day soon after school begins along with a nutritious vegetable creamed soup. Double the recipe and use it sometime for your own group of friends for an evening snack.

TICKTACKTOE SANDWICHES
1/4 cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing

1/4 tsp. prepared mustard
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1 can (6 1/2 ounces) tuna (chunk style)
Sliced bread
Pimiento or cooked beets (plain or pickled)
Stuffed green olives or tiny mushrooms (plain or pickled from can or jar).
Mix the salad dressing and mustard; add celery. Drain tuna slightly; mix in. Toast bread if you like; spread tuna over surface of slices—we use 6 slices of thinly-sliced bread. Cut pimiento or beets in strips. Make a ticktacktoe design over each piece of bread and tuna, making lines and crosses with pimiento or beets and using olives or mushrooms for circles. Makes six open sandwiches.

Have This Meat Hot And In Sandwiches

Any of this meat leftover makes fine sandwiches.

PORK SHOULDER BUTT
2 1/4-pound smoked boneless pork shoulder butt
Whole cloves
1 bottle (7 ounces) ginger ale
Remove both plastic wrapping and stockinette cover from butt. Insert whole cloves at about 1-inch intervals over entire surface. Place in baking dish or pan (8 by 10 or 7 by 11 inches); pour ginger ale over butt. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 1 hour (but will be browned), then 20 minutes in slow (325 degrees) oven.

Better Flavor
Lots of minced chives added to creamed potatoes makes a big and delightful flavor difference!

A Devotional For Today

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. (John 14:27.)
PRAYER: O God of all comfort, we thank Thee for peace through Jesus Christ. Thou canst bring quietness and calm to hearts worried about the troubles the day may bring. Grant us, O Lord, by Thy grace to trust the word spoken to us through Jesus Christ Thy Son. Let Thy peace be revealed in us to the glory and praise of Thy name. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

Mrs. K. Appears The More Astute

Maybe Nikita should have stood in Moscow and let his wife visit the United States all by herself.

For Mrs. K. is a pleasant-faced, motherly-looking woman of considerable charm and presence. She has the embonpoint peculiar to her race, but she carries it well and gracefully. Her smile seems genuine, for her eyes smile too — which is more than can be said of her husband's eyes, which glaze coldly even when his facial muscles are going through their chore of making Nikita look agreeable.

Mrs. K. is a member of a numerous band of women whose contributions to human happiness and well-being are often overlooked or downgraded, and certainly in many cases not properly appreciated.

She is a stepmother. None of the Khrushchev children or grandchildren are hers. The first Mrs. K. died years ago.

But like her husband, the present Mrs. K. is a dedicated Communist. She came up through the ranks a product of Communist schooling from bottom to top. Her formal education is much sonder than that of her husband, who had none except in biological schools.

Communists of the Lenin-Stalin-Khrushchev type were always secretive about their families. This is the first time one of the bigshots has ever made a public parade, so to speak, of his womenfolk, children and grandchildren.

The experiment seems to have paid off handsomely, for Mrs. K., simply by being agreeable to everyone and mixing and mingling quietly and without ostentation with all and sundry, has undoubtedly made a good impression as wife and stepmother.

None of the distrust and detestation that attaches to her husband, with good reason, seems to rub off on her. We have heard no adverse remarks regarding her, only a few meowms from the ladies who express an overwhelming desire to fix her hair or modernize her dress. She is a stranger, apparently, to cosmetics which American women place such store by, but we imagine few American males would hold that against her as a person, except of-course those in the multi-billion-dollar cosmetic business. Even her pleasant plumpness, probably has a certain appeal to male Americans fed up with the glorification of skin and bones prevalent in Hollywood and the modeling trade.

From this distance it looks as though the best thing about Nikita Khrushchev is Mrs. Nina Khrushchev.

Placement Law Upheld

Arkansas' pupil placement laws, based closely on similar statutes in Alabama and North Carolina, were upheld Monday by the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

The court reversed a lower court order that three Negro children be admitted immediately to an all-white rural school near Pine Bluff. The appeals court, however, pointed out that these three children and any others desiring to change schools may make their applications under the state's pupil placement laws.

These laws, covered in two separate statutes, set up 15 standards to be considered in the case of each individual pupil. One is residential proximity, and others include the child's scholastic aptitude, mental energy and the impact his admission would have on other pupils.

The Arkansas attorney general's office had argued that the original district court order at Pine Bluff would undermine and perhaps destroy the placement laws, since it would in effect take over responsibility for the assignment of pupils from the hands of the school authorities and place it with the courts.

Attorney General Bennett argued that under the decision of the district court in the Pine Bluff (Dollaway School District) case a court could order a state-supported medical or law school to admit a wholly unqualified student.

Attorneys for the NAACP gave notice that the 8th District ruling would be appealed to the Supreme Court, and asked for a stay of mandate.

None of the three judges sitting at St. Louis is a Southerner. They were Judges Harvey M. Johnson of Omaha, Martin D. Oosterhout of Sioux City, Iowa, and M. C. Mathies of St. Louis.

Their ruling is part of a pattern slowly emerging: state pupil placement laws that comply strictly with constitutional philosophy are valid, but they'd better not deviate from the straight and narrow, either in text or administrative management. Still the pattern may be one means of gradually moving to a solution

A Parting Gift For Mr. K.

As a memento of his American tour, I suggest that President Eisenhower present Premier Khrushchev a signed copy of the newly published "Statistical Abstract of the United States." It will be a modest gift.

It's a 1,042-page volume, published by the U. S. Government Printing Office and prepared by the Bureau of the Census of the U. S. Department of Commerce. The price is $3.50.

There are no pictures. There is no flowery praise of the U. S. system. Yet, the grandeur of America is there in the tightly-packed statistical tables, for any discerning, curious mind.

As a starter, the Soviet premier could turn to page 546 for evidence of the ups and downs of passenger-car production in the U. S. in recent years—4,300,000 in 1958 and nearly 8,000,000 in 1955.

If Khrushchev were to turn to page 62 of the Soviet counterpart of the Statistical Abstract — Narodnykh Khozyaystva — a 295-page and much less compactly printed book, he'd find a table showing production of 97,800 passenger cars and 357,600 trucks in the Soviet Union in 1956. Since then, passenger-car production has risen to 122,000 and truck output, including buses, to 389,000.

U. S. truck production is three times that of the U. S. S. R., and we make more passenger cars than they bicycles.

As a supplementary present the President might offer copies of Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward catalogues. In his speeches, Premier Khrushchev talks about our system in Marxist terms. Marx looked on owners of business, the capitalists, as grinders down of the working man.

Yet, the owners of business have learned, in their own self-interest, that a well-paid worker is the best customer. Ours can be described as a consumeristic, rather than a capitalistic, society. The mail-order catalogues, the laden shelves

WHO SAID WE WOULDN'T TURN RED?

K. Is A Man Of Contradictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev — after one of the most amazing performances in history — is nearing the end of his American expedition. But what kind of a man has he shown himself to be?

He's many things — some of which may prove good, some not — but above all he's a man of contradictions. Yet, he is the man with whom President Eisenhower must sit down this weekend in a search for peace for the world.

He talks disarmament but while he invites us to the moon, he won't let inspectors inside the Soviet Union to make disarmament possible. He says "I am not afraid of the devil" but there's no sign he ever dared oppose mass-murderer Stalin.

He's an atheist who talks constantly of a deity, offers to swear on the Bible, cites the Commandment against killing, says the Soviets are "brothers before Christ" and for good measure throws in: "God is on our side."

He's a braggart but he is also an optimist and this more than anything else in his character — a belief going back to young manhood that the world can be made wonderful — may hold out the best hope of dealing with him reasonably.

He's as unpredictable as a character out of Dostoevsky and his gigantic display of energy is almost like a deliberate effort to identify himself as one of these "men of might," the great folk heroes in his nation's early epic songs.

He's intelligent, he's shrewd, but he's neither an intellectual nor a Marxist theorist. He is a rock-ribbed Communist, but he is also a pragmatist. This part of his nature also may hold hope for the future.

Since he is for a practical way of doing things — and trying to do them better — he may, deliberately or not, divert communism a little more to the right and make doing business with him a little more possible.

He is one of the most powerful men in the world, as everyone knows, but he is forever trying, to remind the world of it. He doesn't need publicity but he never stops seeking it.

He's a premier but he is also as much of a showman as a barker at a circus. He says the United States "wants to obtain world domination" but he also says the United States doesn't want to change the social order in the Soviet Union.

He preaches that communism is what the world needs and that its achievements will "bury" capitalism, but he insists the Soviet Union doesn't want to change the social order in America.

He says the Soviet Union doesn't exploit any country and maintains the right of self-determination by all peoples, but he won't permit the satellites free elections to choose between communism and some other form of government.

He has wit but doesn't appreciate it when it is turned against him. He invites questions but when one embarrasses him he denounces the questioner. He is sensitive to insult but quick to give it.

For example, when he said the Soviet Union does not exploit East German workers and was asked why three million of them have fled to the West, his answer which was no answer was this: "You are hopelessly sick with capitalist fever."

He says he wants peace but keeps brandishing his rockets like a blackjack. It was he who created a crisis which may yet turn critical by demanding the Allies get their troops out of West Berlin.

He preaches freedom but when asked why the Soviet Union crushed the Hungarians' revolution against their Communist masters, he refused to admit it was a revolution. He calls it a hoodlum plot.

All across America he dwells on the progress, wonders and beauties of communism but, when finally challenged to show a single instance where people flocked into a Communist country, he said "drink your beer."

It has been his government's constant Communist line that Americans are good but their leaders war-mongers. Now he beams on all America and says he sees no difference between the people and their government.

He belloped against being prevented from seeing Disneyland on short notice, even though his own security guards were against it and so feared assassination attempts they checked his every meal.

He talks of freedom in the Soviet Union but says as head of the government he won't let his people hear American broadcasts because, he says, he wants to protect them from propaganda.

He tries hard to sound superior but in doing so gives an impression of deep-rooted inferiority.

Here's A Switch

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Now there's a college course in musical comedy acting and singing. It's offered by the University of Miami which regards musical comedy as a "distinctive American art form."

The instructor is Ladislao Valda, a former opera singer who doesn't think his old profession offers many career opportunities to young Americans.

Pause At Fort Site

CHICAGO (AP) — Old Ft. Dearborn, founded in 1803, exists no more, but thousands of motorists each year are forced to halt at the location.

The site of the fort now is the south approach to the busy double-deck Michigan Ave. bridge over the Chicago River. Motorists pause at the fort site every time the huge bridge opens for Great Lakes cargo ships.

How To Be Most Unattractive

The easiest way to be unattractive, girls, is to make up your mind that you are. Once you've convinced yourself, three-fourths of the problem is solved; it's not hard to convince others that you have nothing to offer if you really believe it.

Here are some things you might do to show others how unattractive you are. Adopt an apologetic air that says louder than words, "I'm really not much—but if I keep very still maybe nobody will notice."

Then have a defeatist attitude. Believe that you can't compete against other women. This will keep you from walking straight, tall and proud; will make you enter rooms timidly and make you too shy to express your own opinions.

Run yourself down constantly. Never make any pretense at being good at anything so you won't be criticized. When you make a mistake invariably say such things as, "I don't know how I could have been so stupid." Or make self-deprecating remarks such as "clumsy me" and "an old maid like me."

Never let it occur to you that you can build other people up without tearing yourself down in contrast. Don't praise another's talents without pointing out that you have none yourself.

If you should happen to excel at something, deny it emphatically! Don't let anyone give you credit for an accomplishment. Never accept a compliment without protest.

Have a completely negative attitude about everything. Lose all hope that things will ever change for the better. Make your song "Que Sera, Sera", whatever will be, will be. Sit around and twiddle your thumbs wishing you could be attractive and charming and witty, but don't do anything about it. Always say "I can't." Pay no attention to other people's problems. Never smile. Continually gripe and walk around with a pained look. Prefer staying at home alone to the company of others. Never try to enjoy a party and always leave before it is over.

Follow all these rules faithfully and believe sincerely in the negative approach. You'll find it very effective in proving that you're unattractive. But, you know, you could prove just as easily that you are attractive if you would only think well of yourself and your abilities. Convince yourself that even though you may not be a living example of a Greek Goddess or even another Elizabeth Taylor, you do have a certain attractiveness, and you'll find that others are willing to accept that valuation.

K. Has Gall, State Dept. Furnishes Wormwood

Even Chairman Khrushchev is unable to prevent history's sorry repetition of itself.

So American citizens must not feel that the tirades of the Terrible-Tempered Bang are a phenomenon provoked only by the U. S. climate. The Western world got its first close-up of Khrushchev's ungovernable temper when he ventured beyond the Iron Curtain to visit England in the late spring of 1956.

At that time, in an encounter with the Labor party leadership, he lost his temper in spectacular fashion, blew up like Old Faithful and, in English eyes, made a holy show of himself.

Oddly enough, for a man who proudly proclaims himself "the dictator of the working class," labor leaders seem to madden him, as witness his tantrum in San Francisco when dining with American labor officials.

During his 1956 conference with leaders of the English Labor party, dedicated British Socialists made the mistake of querying Khrushchev on the fate of more than 230 European Socialists who had mysteriously disappeared behind the Iron Curtain.

That question proved to be a good in 1956, even as the Hungarian issue, Khrushchev's "We'll bury you" threat, and American labor's disaffection for Communism are the rage-inducing themes to which the Russian despot reacts like a wild man in 1959. The unfortunate Bulganin, then Soviet Premier, tried to shush Khrushchev in 1956 when he raged at Labor party members, but without luck. In 1959, there is no one who even tries to urge him to control himself.

The exhibition stunned the Laborites and flabbergasted England. Any possibility that Nikita could make wholesome friends and influence people by his visit blew up simultaneously with his temper.

Where The Battle Must Be Fought

WASHINGTON—The real story of what happened at the last session of Congress somehow isn't being told. Republicans claim credit for important laws passed and sound fiscal policies upheld. Democrats argue that they, too, kept the spending down. The usual flood of statements "pointing with pride" or "gloating with alarm" has been issued. What is the fundamental truth?

The fact is that neither party can claim credit for the achievements, nor can either party be blamed for the failures.

For there is no way of fixing responsibility in an irresponsible government such as America has today. When the American people a year ago November voted into Congress enough Democrats from the northern states to give that party a two-thirds majority, because the South always elects Democrats, the nation was told that the Democratic party had obtained control. Yet the White House continued in the hands of the Republican party. Divided government spells irresponsibility. The national legislature and the executive are always of the same party in any system of responsible government.

Actually, on every important measure of a highly controversial nature it was the Republicans in coalition with the Southern Democrats who gave the nation some of the constructive legislation just passed.

It was the Southern bloc which helped to keep government spending down. When Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas talk in their political statements about the way the Democrats held the line on expenditures, this wasn't any action on the part of the Democratic party as a whole. It was a combination with Republicans in both houses that did it. Actually, if the Democrats had done it, instead of such champions of moderation as Messrs. Johnson and Rayburn, had been allowed to run the Democratic party in Congress and dominate its committee chairmanships, the budget would have been grossly unbalanced.

The conservative coalition saved the country from disaster at the last session of Congress. Had the Northern Democrats been given their way, the confidence of the business world would have been shaken, prices would be skyrocketing today, and the increased inflation would have further diminished the purchasing power of the dollar.

President Eisenhower, as is customary after every session, sums up the case and bestows praise for good things done and expresses satisfaction that certain bad things were not done. But Mr. Eisenhower didn't fail to put his finger on the crux of the problem when he said in his formal statement last weekend:

"I pay my respects to those among the political opposition whose cooperation our efforts against extravagance and legislative excesses would have been in vain. These men, though subjected to severe party pressures, had the conviction and courage to stand up and be counted on issue after issue basic to the welfare of the nation. Sincerely I congratulate them for their good work for America this session."

This is but another way of saying that conservatives stood together against radicals or liberal splendors. The South, which is the stronghold of conservatism, spared the nation the excesses that a radical wing of the Democratic party would have enacted. But it is to be noted that there isn't a majority always for conservative positions. The important fact, on the other hand, is that there is no two-thirds majority for radicalism and, as long as that's true, a presidential veto can prevent a simple majority from enacting undesirable laws.

The President was gracious in his praise, too, for those Democrats who abandoned partisanship on foreign affairs, even though they didn't go along with the administration on domestic questions. He said:

"Next I acknowledge, as I have each year, my appreciation to those members of both parties who have approached in a bipartisan manner most of the matters important to the nation's security and the conduct of foreign relations. To this standard of being Americans first and Democrats or Republicans second when the nation's safety and world peace are involved, all of us must steadfastly adhere. I am gratified that so many have done so."

These accomplishments are due also to no small extent to the effective role of leadership played by the President.

The issue in the 1960 campaign might well point up the direct challenge presented by radicalism and fiscal irresponsibility. The Democrats in the South will continue conservative, but in the North the voters are about evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats, therefore, where the battle should be fought so that nonradicals will be elected to Congress irrespective of the party label.

Student Council To Seek Answer Parking Problem

Jane Cowper, member of the High School Student Council, has been assigned to make a study of the problem of parking cars in the vicinity of the high school. At the present time, allocated space for such parking is not adequate to the number of cars. She will endeavor to work out a plan to improve the situation.

Her appointment was made at the regular meeting of the Student Council on Tuesday.

At the same meeting, a committee was appointed to arrange for a special section at the football games where all students of the school junior high and college would sit in a body. Shirley Terry is chairman of the committee. Linda Grant and Mary Locke Crossland are the members.

Announcement was made that the Student Council will sell "beanies" to sophomores. It was also announced the council will sell book covers featuring the school symbols. The covers will be sold at 10 cents each. Profits derived will go to the Student Council fund for activities.

The council is to plant shrubs in the new patio on the school grounds.

Twenty members of the council were present at the meeting.

IN CONCERT HERE TODAY

Col. Howard, AF Band Chief, Has Varied Music Background

The United States Air Force Band, in a brief period of 17 years, has achieved a high position in musical circles and has entertained music lovers of four continents.

This position is due chiefly to the band's versatility, its ability to resolve itself into a 100-piece marching band, a 90-piece symphony orchestra, an 85-piece symphonic band, a 25-voice glee club, the "Singing Sergeants", five dance bands, including the "Airmen of Note," the "Jumping Jacks," and many other instrumental and chamber groups.

Responsible for the adaptability of the band and the eminence it has achieved, is its commanding officer and conductor, Col. George Sallade Howard, Chief of Bands and Music for the United States Air Force.

He will conduct the Air Force Band when it plays here at 3:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the City Auditorium, under the auspices of the Band Booster Club, with all monies above expenses going to the school band fund.

A native of Reamstown, Pa., Col. Howard is the recipient of five degrees. After graduating with honor from Ithaca College, New York, he attended the Ohio Wesleyan University where he obtained his bachelor of arts degree. Both his bachelor of music and master of music degrees were received at the Chicago Conservatory of Music. He subsequently received his master of arts degree at New York University and then returned to the Chicago Conservatory for his doctorate in music.

Col. Howard's musical career embraces every phase of that art, having been, at various times, a player, soloist, composer, conductor and music educator. He began his career with the famed Patrick Conway Band as a clarinetist and later soloist. He then entered the field of music education where he spent the next 20 years in various supervisory capacities. These include being instructor in clarinet and saxophone at Ithaca College, instructor of wind pedagogy and conducting at Ohio Wesleyan University, Director of Music at Mansfield (Pa.) State Teachers College, director of music at Mooseheart, Illinois, dean of the

COL. GEORGE S. HOWARD

Ernest Williams School of Music in Brooklyn, New York, and instructor at Monclair (New Jersey) State Teachers College. At the time he entered the service, Col. Howard was director of the Band, Orchestra and Chorus School at Pennsylvania State College.

Col. Howard entered the Department of the Army in 1943 and served as executive officer for the Music Branch of the Special Services Division. He transferred to the Air Force in March, 1944, and became the commanding officer and conductor of the USAF Band.

Under his direction, the band has made nine international tours and has appeared in nearly every nation of the free world.

This entails not only selecting their leaders, assignment of personnel, determining their physical locations, conducting career programs, and making periodic field inspections of these units, but also directing every phase of music in the Air Force.

Col. Howard is listed in "Who's Who in American Education" and "Who's Who in the Musical World" and "World Biography." He is a member (vice president, 1955-56 and president, 1956-57) of the American Bandmasters Assn., and a member of Phi Mu Alpha, Phi Kappa Lambda, Phi Kappa Tau, and Kappa Kappa Psi, and the Alalfa Club. His decorations include the Legion of Merit, personally presented by the late Gen. H. H. (Hap) Arnold, the Guards Republic Medal, and the Commendation Ribbon with five Clusters.

Autumn Officially Bows In, And TV Looks Same As Ever

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Autumn bowed in officially Wednesday, but television's fall-winter season is still wide open. So far the parade of shows, old or new, hasn't given us much to cheer about.

The roll call to date includes 20 shows from last year and 17 newcomers to the home screen. And what's the word? Most of the new entries have been pallid carbon copies of things that were popular last year. The Westerns, for example, are so much like identical twins that this reviewer can't tell one cowpoke or one story line from another. All the detective-adventure shows seem to follow a gory path of sadistic violence.

In fact, the new season has been so dreary that a smooth, unpretentious half-hour dramatic show starring June Allyson seems like a tour-de-force, and a pleasant evening of Jerome Kern music like a love letter from NBC.

And there's more—much more—of the same to come.

While the American broadcasting networks have been concentrating their crews and cameras on covering the Khrushchev visit, Radio Free Europe has been doing a double job: broadcasting the news of the visit and answering Communist propaganda. RFE is broadcasting the news to Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Bulgaria and Romania, and reports that in spite of jamming it is getting 90 per cent of its programs through. This is done by aiming all 16 of their European transmitters at one target—a whole country—for 20 minute intervals so that the programs literally saturate the airwaves.

Among some dandies they have corrected are two from Radio Sophia and monitored by RFE.

One Communist broadcast to the Bulgarians led off with "Mr. Peace, as the ordinary Americans call Khrushchev, arrived in San Francisco today." And another reported that "American newspapers had characterized the Khrushchev visit as the most important landing since Columbus." RFE has also kept its listeners informed of the Soviet Premier's handling of prickly questions on Hungary, Soviet worker's right to strike and others which the Communist press has either ignored or glossed over.

Buddy Hackett, once Jackie

Gleason's second banana, has been cast as a heavy, of all things, in a forthcoming installment of "The Rifleman." George Gobel's regular aides will include his old colleague John Scott Trotter as musical director, and Harry Von Zell, late of the Burns and Allen show where he doubled as straight man and commercials-speaker. Gobel's show will alternate with Jack Benny Sunday nights starting Oct. 11. As might be expected, Edd Byrnes will this season share star billing on ABC's "Sunset Strip" after all that hair combing and hop talk last year.

By BOB SMITH

Fred Short today will post his final selections for the "Manana Is Another Day" cast. The play is to be staged at HCJC as the season opener by the College Players.

Short made some selections after final try-outs Wednesday evening. The complete list will be given in Friday's Herald.

Some random notes jotted down at the try-outs:

It is going to be a difficult play to enact, especially Spanish accents. Most so-called Spanish accents are comic versions made famous in the movies, whereas the real accents are hard to simulate. But since "Manana Is Another Day" is a comedy about tourists in Mexico, Short may choose the more comic type of accent.

There's not much to the play, as a play. But it can be an excellent vehicle for talented comedians. There are some good lines, if handled right.

There were about 24, mostly women, out for the Wednesday readings. Short estimated around 40 total. It is one of his best turn-outs and there seems to be a larger amount of interest than ever before. There was a large sprinkling of adults amongst the college kids, which suggests well for rehearsals—less horseplay and more work.

Rehearsals start next Monday at 7:30 p.m., will run Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. But already some of the players are fussing about their Thursday night bowling. Time, apparently, for another lecture and the tremendous demands it makes on one's time. Missed rehearsals and incomplete casts mean confusion and delay—and those who can't give the demanded amount of time to a play have no right to read for a part in the first place.

Your critic couldn't catch both nights of try-outs, and I didn't recognize some of the new faces, but here are some I did recognize: Marjorie Havins, as usual, was a scream with her Spanish accent—particularly when she started injecting a French accent. You will recall her character roles as the girl in the bathing suit in "The Seven-Year Itch" and the floozey in "Night of Jan. 18th." She'll be a bit in whatever role she gets. Jim Williams reads well, but he is the quieter and more subtle type.

Glenda Mahoney was convincing as a tourist, and seemed to have better than average expression for a cold reading.

Lida Fiveash read with her customary fire, but needs work on her accent. That will be no problem, Short assures, since he's taken five years of Spanish. Lida was the defendant in "Night of Jan. 18th."

Inez Parker of Midland is a recognized artist. Those are her paintings hanging from the walls of the HCJC Library, and in the hallways outside.

Her present works lean more to the watercolor, with a sprinkling of oils and other mediums.

Watercolors seem best adapted to scenic representations, difficult for more exact lines. It shows in Mrs. Parker's paintings.

"Central Park," for example, has a misty, dreamy quality to its foreground of trees and shrubs, as one would expect to see the famed New York landmark early in the morning—but the outlines of the buildings in the background come out too strongly for a misty picture, and too strongly resemble free-hand drawings, or even cartoons. Had she used oils, the buildings might have taken on a more acceptable appearance.

Mrs. Parker's work is excellent on the purely scenic, such as the well-balanced and subdued coloring of "Peccos River." Another watercolor, "Winter," uses shades of blues and whites, and it looks like winter. An oil, "South of the Border," makes good use of color and integrated detail, and the stope wall of the patio blends well—not standing out of place, as do some structures in her watercolors.

Mrs. Parker does right well with natural subjects.

Burt Lancaster Firm Downed By Economics

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happened to Hecht-Hill-Lancaster?

Hollywood has been wondering about that ever since the news leaked out that the highly successful producing firm was dissolving. Its future had seemed solid. H-H-L had been the biggest of the independents. Its prosperity had helped trigger the new era of film making, with stars heading companies that rivaled the major studios.

Now H-H-L is no more. I sought the reasons from Burt Lancaster as he changed into his '20s togs as revivalist in "Elmer Gantry."

"We were losing money," he said. "It's as simple as that. No, it isn't really. There were other factors involved. We had built up an organization that was too big for the things we wanted to do."

He explained how film economics had tripped up himself and partners Harold Hecht and James Hill.

"It would have been easy to turn out the surefire pictures, the blockbusters. But we didn't want to do that. We also wanted to do the pictures that interested us as creators."

"But you can't spend two or three years preparing a film that might have limited appeal. 'Sweet Smell of Success' cost $2,200,000 and it didn't do business. 'The Bachelor Party' cost a million and it will barely show a profit. We won't get our money back on 'The Rabbit Trap,' which cost $500,000. We have a wonderful picture in 'Take a Giant Step,' but I doubt if it will make money."

H-H-L had fabulous success with two of its early films. Lancaster reported "Trapeze" grossed 14 million and "Vera Cruz" 9 million. But big grosses were not the partners' sole aim, and now they feel they will be happier at separate tables.
