Checking On FM 700 Topping

Pat Shields, chief inspector for the State Highway Department, inspects this batch of pre-mix asphalt which is the topping for FM 700. Cage Bros. of Cahaoma has the contract for the job and plans call for completion of the job in about three weeks. FM 700 will be a new by-pass around the southeast quarter of the city connecting East Highway 80 and South Highway 87.

FM 700 To Be Completed Within Next Three Weeks

Farm Road 700, by-pass connecting road from East Highway 80 and South Highway 87, should be completely paved and ready for motorists in about three weeks. A spokesman for Cage Brothers, Cahaoma, said this morning that about 11 more cars of pre-mix asphalt are yet to be applied and work on the shoulders has not been finished.

The final batch of asphalt should be done sometime this week. The shoulders of the road will be oiled down with an emulsion and then pea gravel added for a covering. This final treatment should be completed in about three weeks. Cage Brothers had the contract for this work.

The new section of Scurry Street, where it has been extended to FM 700, has not been paved. Bruce Dunn, Director of Public Works, said this morning the city would not pave the extension. And it is not a part of the contract for FM 700. Responsibility for this section has not been agreed upon.

Judge Spurs Saunders Plea For A Verdict

AUSTIN (AP)—Dist. Judge Mace Thurman refused today to order an instructed verdict of innocent in the perjury trial of former State Insurance Chairman J. Byron Saunders.

Defense testimony began at once. The state rested Saturday after presenting 17 witnesses in the precedent setting trial involving alleged perjury before a legislative body.

In asking an instructed verdict of not guilty, John Cofer, Saunders' chief attorney, questioned the judicial authority of any legislative investigation.

He specifically charged that Saunders was not properly briefed on the purpose of the House investigation of the collapse of ICT Insurance Co. He argued the committee was not carrying out its role of investigating only to determine if new laws or law changes were needed.

Dist. Atty. Les Procter opposed the motion, saying that evidence shows clearly the committee was in its right to see if the ICT collapse pointed out any weaknesses in state insurance laws or their administration.

Saunders' attorney listed 51 reasons why he said the jury should be asked for such a verdict. The reasons questioned the entire authority of legislative investigations.

John Cofer, Saunders' chief attorney, said the principal contention is being based on a person's constitutional rights in order that the case may be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

Saunders is charged with lying six times during a legislative investigation into the collapse of the ICT Insurance Co., the key firm in BenJack Cage's investments empire.

Cage is now a fugitive from justice on conviction of misappropriating $100,000 from ICT stockholders.

Saunders was chairman of the State Insurance Commission which had regulatory authority over Cage's insurance company.

Saunders' attorneys claimed the six instances of alleged perjury were not material to the investigation.

Threat To Berlin Over, Ike Reports

You Naughty Capitalist, You

Soviet Premier Khrushchev shakes hands with Undersecretary State C. Douglas Dillon while wagging a finger at him on the Russian's return to Washington. "So you're the one who's blocking trade between Russia and the United States," Khrushchev said to Dillon.

Summit Parley Conditions Met

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today of his talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that the threat to Berlin no longer exists and his personal conditions for holding a Summit Conference have been met.

But Eisenhower declined to say in so many words that the Soviet leader had given him personal assurances which amounted to lifting the Berlin threat.

He replied to news conference questions on that point by saying he did not want to put words in anybody's mouth.

Eisenhower said he agreed with Khrushchev that the Berlin situation is abnormal — because of the existence of a group of free people inside Communist territory. He said that some system must be found which would be acceptable to both sides.

He disclosed that in the course of the talks which he had with Khrushchev at Camp David, Md., from Friday night to Sunday afternoon, Khrushchev had said that in a friendly way he would take up with Chinese Communist leaders the problem of five Americans still held prisoner in Chinese Communist jails.

He said they spent very little time talking about Communist China, however, because they immediately found that their views were totally opposed.

Has Praise For U.S. Politeness

The President began his unusual Monday morning news conference with glowing praise for the American people's treatment of Khrushchev.

He called them very sophisticated in being able to listen to the other fellow's arguments and criticism while remaining strong in their own conviction.

Eisenhower spoke with a slight nasal stiffness. He said he had come back from Europe with the beginning of a cold.

The news session was set just 13 hours after the latest inexhaustible Communist leader flew off to Moscow, apparently satisfied that his 13-day American visit had been a whopping success.

Well in advance of his meeting with reporters, Eisenhower was understood to have dispatched accounts of his talks with Khrushchev to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, President Charles de Gaulle of France and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer — all of whom he had consulted prior to Khrushchev's coming here.

There were reports the President might follow up the news conference with a television broadcast to the nation but these lacked official confirmation.

Khrushchev himself spent two hours in front of the television cameras, discussing the talks and extolling the achievements of Soviet communism. A few hours later he boarded his huge TU114 jet prop airliner at Andrews Air Force Base with his wife, children and aides and soared into the dark sky toward a hero's welcome in Moscow.

In his farewell address he spoke of his meeting with Eisenhower and the President's return trip to the U.S.S.R. next spring as "the beginning of joint efforts in the quest of ways of bringing our two nations closer together and strengthening general peace."

New Peaceful Era In World Affairs

Eisenhower also was reported satisfied that some progress has been made toward opening up a new and more peaceful era in world affairs.

A clue to possibly significant agreement between the two leaders, was set out in the final communique issued after they had spent about 21 hours of talking in the misty Catoctin Mountains at Camp David, Md., between 6 p.m. Friday and 2:10 p.m. Sunday.

"With respect to the specific Berlin question," the communique reported, "an understanding was reached, subject to the approval of other parties directly concerned, that negotiations would be reopened with a view to achieving a solution which would be in the interest of the maintenance of peace."

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the negotiations might be conducted by diplomats, in a foreign ministers conference or at a summit conference.

Other officials privately rated a summit conference as a good possibility before Eisenhower makes his spring trip to the Soviet Union. This immediately suggested that Khrushchev and he had perhaps worked out a new approach to the Berlin dispute touched off by Khrushchev's demand last November for withdrawal of Allied forces from West Berlin.

Eisenhower has said repeatedly and emphatically that he will not go to a regular summit conference until the Soviet threat to West Berlin was completely removed.

Khrushchev and he spent the greatest part of their time discussing the Berlin problem and other German questions, including a peace treaty.

The communique included what amounted to a renunciation of war as an instrument of foreign policy by Eisenhower and Khrushchev. They agreed, the statement said, that "all outstanding international questions should be settled not by application of force but by peaceful means through negotiations."

It also disclosed that the President's visit to the Soviet Union had been deferred until sometime next spring. It had been expected this fall.

SUGGESTED RATE Khrushchev told a televised news conference at the National Press Club that he suggested the spring date when he talked with the President's grandchildren at the Eisenhower farm at Gettysburg Saturday afternoon. He and the children agreed they should accompany the President, he said, and the springtime would be better for that "because everything is in flower then, the weather is warm, nothing is frozen up."

But there were possibly other more political considerations. With the delay, there is time for a summit meeting before Eisenhower's trip. Also from the President's point of view there will be time to see how well the new era of good feeling toward the United States on Khrushchev's part is expressed in concrete actions and policies.

The news conference was one of the highlights of a hectic and memorable day with Khrushchev that Washington officials will long remember. It began at 10:30 a.m. at Camp David where Khrushchev's meeting with Eisenhower, scheduled to end at noon, ran on through luncheon, Khrushchev's 4 p.m. date for a news conference seemed in jeopardy. He just made it after a fast automobile ride with the President to Washington and a quick exchange of farewells when the President left him on the steps at Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

ON TO SPEECH Little more than an hour later the 65-year-old Premier, beaming and bouncy, dashed by limousine back to Blair House briefly, then on to the NBC television studios where he read his speech, with frequent translation stops, for 50 minutes. A quick dinner at Blair House preceded his final automobile drive in the United States—the 15-mile trip to Andrews Field where Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other officials gave him a red carpet sendoff, complete with military honors.

Americans had never experienced anyone quite like him before. He quoted the Bible to justify communism. He spouted earthy proverbs. Peddling communism, he orated, boasted and joked his way across the American scene as no other foreign leader has ever done.

Battling Cold, Ike Wants To Get Away For A Rest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, battling a cold, said today he wants to get away in a desert climate.

Eisenhower told his news conference he has been battling a cold since he returned from his trip to Europe on Labor Day.

The subject of his health was brought up when a reporter noted that Eisenhower seemed to be speaking in a nasal voice indicating that he had a cold. The reporter asked how the President has borne up physically in the heavy schedule he has maintained during the visit to this country of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Eisenhower replied that he has borne up all right. But he said he had the beginnings of a cold when he returned from Europe. He said he always has trouble with bad colds.

If he can get five days in the desert somewhere, Eisenhower said he is going to take it quickly. He gave no indication of the exact locale of such a trip.

Aside from a slightly thickened voice, the President showed few outward signs of the cold.

Brown Rites

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for James Nelson Brown, a founder of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism and its first director.

Brown died at a hospital Saturday night at the age of 58.

So Now All We Need Is An Oscar For Best Trance

By JAMES BACON AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Something new has been added to the Hollywood scene — a hypnological director — and it could mean the end of ills among directors who have to deal with temperamental actresses.

Gil Boyne, a professional hypnotist, was hired by Allied Artists to help with the technical details on "The Hypnotic Eye."

Boyne, who takes his work seriously, soon had almost everybody on the set hypnotized, including Merry Anders, the leading lady. Now Merry is doing several of her scenes while under hypnosis. She may be the first actress to perform in a deliberate trance.

There's some basis for it in the script. Jacques Bergerac plays a professional hypnotist. He first meets Merry when she volunteers as a subject from the audience.

Bergerac hypnotizes her onstage. On the first take, Merry acted it out, but it didn't look convincing to director George Blair. He called on his director of hypnology.

Boyne spoke a few words into Merry's ear and her head dropped. He continued talking and told her that when she awakened, Bergerac would talk to her and when he mentioned the word "sleep," she would go into a trance.

Bergerac delivered his lines and at "sleep," Merry was off to the never-never land.

The scene over, director Blair commented: "Great! That's the way to make pictures. One take, no talk back and a performance that even Garbo couldn't equal."

ONE MAN IN JAIL

Gamesindo Diaz, Stabbed In Knife Fight, Is Dead

Gamesindo Diaz, 27, known to officers and his associates by the nickname of "Tarzan," died at noon today of knife wounds and other injuries received in a brawl in front of a beer place on the North Side early Sunday morning.

His home is 711 NW 8th. Held in jail, under official charges of assault with intent to kill, is Alexander H. Cavallos, 17, of 506 NW 10th. He was arrested at his home shortly after the affray.

It was understood the charges against Cavallos will be changed to murder but this had not been done at noon.

Diaz died at Cowper Hospital where he had been taken soon after the fight.

According to Fern Cox, chief deputy, who with city police investigated the affray, the event occurred in front of Barrera's place on the north side about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Diaz and Cavallos engaged in a quarrel in the establishment. Later they went outside. There a fight seems to have developed. Diaz was slashed two times deeply in the abdomen.

Dr. Roscoe Cowper, at the hospital, said that Diaz never regained consciousness and remained in a critical condition. In addition to the stab wounds in the stomach, he suffered from a brain concussion and a brain hemorrhage, the doctor reported.

These injuries were not noted at the time the man was brought to the hospital. He was in grave danger at that time due to heavy internal bleeding and transfusions had to be provided before surgery was attempted.

Cox said that police arrested Cavallos at his home. He has made a statement to the officers relative to the altercation. Cox said he understood that Diaz also had a knife but that he had not been able to definitely confirm this report. The victim was never in any condition to make a statement after he was picked up by police in front of the place where the stabbing occurred.

Cavallos, according to Cox, has no previous clashes with the law on his record.

Diaz was well known to authorities but has not been involved in any serious difficulties.

Cause of the quarrel was not known Monday. Charges against Cavallos were filed in the court of Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, Monday morning.

Hurricane Due For Mainland

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Gracie whirled ominously in toward the mainland today and the Miami Weather Bureau ordered a hurricane watch for coastal areas from Savannah, Ga., northward to Wilmington, N.C.

Gale warnings were issued from Daytona Beach, Fla., north along the coast to Morehead City, N.C., as Gracie's outer winds moved within 75 miles of shore. The hurricane packs a 90-mile-an-hour punch around the center.

Winds will increase gradually and are expected to reach gale force tonight from the upper Florida coast to North Carolina.

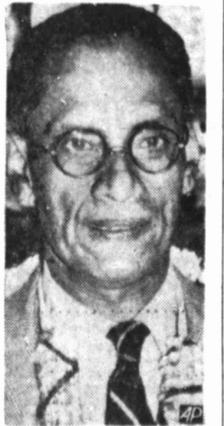

Since last Friday, Gracie has loitered in the Atlantic east of Cape Canaveral. Its movement has been erratic.

Gracie's forward speed is about 5 miles an hour. The Weather Bureau said it was expected to continue that speed and continue in the west northwest direction with little change in size or intensity for the next 12 to 18 hours.

Big Spring Man Third In Roping

NEW YORK (AP)—Texans won four first places in the Madison Square Garden Rodeo Sunday.

Leo Brannon of Omaha, Tex., was first in calf roping with a time of 14.5. Sherman Richardson of Houston won bull riding. Jim Altizer of Del Rio captured calf roping in the night events with a time of 16.2. Willie Thomas of Richmond won bull riding.

Buster Ivory of Pampa was first in saddle bronc. Guy Weeks of Abilene was third in bareback bronc riding. Don McLaughlin of Smithfield was second in calf roping and Herschel Romine of Big Spring tied for third. Buddy Groff of Bandera was second in steer wrestling and Jay B. Gibson of Houston was second in bull riding.

Seek Deranged Grave Robber

HOLLAND, Minn. (AP)—A hunt for a possibly mentally deranged grave robber began today following the weekend discovery the body of an 11-year-old girl had been stolen from her casket.

Sheriff Leonard Stelling said the body of Jean Pensyl apparently had been dragged out of the buried casket the night of her funeral, Sept. 8.

The theft went unnoticed until Saturday when a part-time grave digger and Holland town constable, Garrett Becker, noticed the grave had been disturbed.

The girl, one of nine children of Mrs. Ida Pensyl, died of leukemia.

Mumford Reported In Poor Condition

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Walter F. Mumford, 59, president of U.S. Steel Corp., is reported in critical condition with a cerebral thrombosis at Cape Cod Hospital.

Niki Returns To Moscow, Praises Ike For His 'Statesman-Like Mind'

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev told the Russian people on his return today from the United States he believes President Eisenhower "sincerely wants to liquidate the cold war and establish normal relations between our two countries."

The Soviet Premier, in a speech broadcast from the Moscow Sports Palace, could hardly say enough nice things about Eisenhower, but he reported dark spots about his visit, too. Some angry faces were spotted on his tour, he said. He called for exposure and whipping of forces which he declared were working in the United States "against easing international tensions."

He lauded the President for "his statesmanship, wisdom and courage in judging the world situation."

"I have no doubt that President Eisenhower would like to make efforts toward universal peace," he said. "I got the impression that there are forces which do not work in the same direction as the President. I do not know how influential they are, for the President is supported by a majority of his people."

The Premier announced that Eisenhower will visit Moscow some time in late May or the beginning of June with his wife and son, Maj. John Eisenhower. That is the beginning of the Russian spring, in sharp contrast to the wintry weather which the President would have faced any time this fall.

"Let those who want to ask questions about coexistence, when atom-bomb-carrying rockets started flying," he said.

Smiling broadly Khrushchev called out "okay" to newcomers at Moscow Airport on his arrival after a 10-hour, 28-minute flight from the United States.

He spoke the word in English from the top of a ramp leading down from his plane in apparent summary of the results of his tour and talks with President Eisenhower.

He was met by President Klement Y. Voroshilov, Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and many others in the government. Mrs. Khrushchev followed the Premier off the plane.

Khrushchev looked very well. He showed no signs of strain from the flight and the strenuous two weeks which preceded it.

Thousands cheered him and tossed flowers into his car on his 30-mile drive from the airport to the Sports Palace. Beaming and looking well rested, Khrushchev waved back.

At the Sports Palace, before 15,000 or more, he assured the Soviet people that progress was made in lowering tensions. He said Eisenhower showed a statesmanlike mind in assessing the situation.

The Premier came back with much credit in his own country. He went to the United States hoping to get a joint statement with Eisenhower that war would be renounced as a means of solving international disputes. He got it.

It wasn't important except for local and foreign propaganda purposes for this guarantee is in the United Nations Charter, to which both the Soviet Union and the United States subscribe.

He didn't get a nonaggression pact, but got an agreement to discuss disputes, a thing which was available without a trip but which can be converted into useful proof of the value of the trip and the strength of Soviet enterprise in foreign affairs.

Most of the major Soviet personalities are already in Peiping—Khrushchev's next stop — or on vacation. In Peiping Khrushchev will tell Mao Tze-tung of his talks with Eisenhower.

His plane touched down at 3:28 p.m.—7:28 a.m. EST. The arrival was broadcast by Radio Moscow and shown on Soviet television.

Beauty Found Slain

Mrs. Janice Drake, 32, a former beauty queen, and her companion, Anthony (Little Augie Pisano) Carfano, 62, an underworld kingpin, were found shot to death in a car near New York's La Guardia airport. Mrs. Drake, wife of comedian Allan Drake, was Miss New Jersey of 1944 as Janice Hansen. Carfano (below) was a former henchman of Al Capone and a long-time buddy of Frank Costello.

Woman Is Killed In Bus Accident

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Greyhound bus with 18 passengers aboard skidded into a power pole Sunday, killing a Texas woman and injuring 12 persons, including her young son.

Marcella Burton Eaton, 24, of Dallas, formerly of Columbia, Ky., was thrown from the bus to her death against a brick wall. Her son, James Travis Eaton, 3, was thrown into the aisle of the bus, suffering minor head cuts.

Six of the injured remained in local hospitals. All were reported in fair condition.

Final Allred Rites Scheduled Today

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Final rites for former Gov. and Federal Judge James V. Allred were to be held in the First Christian Church at 3 p.m. today.

A memorial service was conducted Sunday in the state Senate chamber at Austin for Allred, who died Thursday of a heart attack at Laredo.

The first of three funeral services was held Saturday in Corpus Christi, where Allred made his home.

An honor guard from the 149th Military Police Company of the Texas National Guard here Allred's body into the capitol, where he served four years as attorney general and four years as governor.

Ministers conducting the service eulogized Allred as a fighter for the underdog and as "a man who preserved his integrity throughout his public career, an integrity which was based on his faith."

The service was conducted by the Rev. Lawrence Bash, pastor of the University Christian Church, and Dr. John Barclay, pastor of the First Christian Church of Austin.

The body lay in state during the afternoon while state officials, former associates and old Austin friends passed by to pay final tribute.

Among those at the Austin service were Gov. and Mrs. Price Daniel, former Gov. and Mrs. Dan Moody and Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson and Ralph Yarborough.

The body also lay in state for two hours before the service this afternoon at the First Christian Church here. Dr. George R. Davis, the pastor and a personal friend of Allred, was to conduct the service.

Burial was to be in the riverside cemetery here.

Jap Typhoon Death Toll Reaches 2,618

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP)—Japan staggered today under mounting casualties from the whirlpash of a weekend typhoon which left at least 2,618 dead or missing and 927,708 homeless.

Wary officials at national police headquarters worked around the clock to keep up with the rising toll as rescuers dug through mud and debris for bodies. By noon they listed 1,161 known dead, 1,467 missing and 4,668 injured.

Widespread crop damage sent prices of rice and vegetables skyrocketing, heaping more hardship on the grieving populace.

Eyewitness accounts of one of the mightiest typhoons ever to hit Japan told a cruel story.

A Japanese newsman who visited Nagashima, a town in central Japan, reported: "I could only guess the location of the main street. It was completely submerged by floodwaters. So was the railway station and the movie theater. Everything was gone, it seemed, except for the old man and old woman on whose boat I hitched a ride."

A newsman in nearby Handa told of weeping relatives digging through mud and debris by candlelight for the bodies of 200 Japanese believed buried there.

At Kuwana city 85 bodies had been recovered but 685 persons were still missing. The harbor of the industrial city of Nagoya was described as a "sea of dead," with seven ocean-going ships grounded like beached whales and debris floating everywhere. Hundreds were killed or missing in the city of two million. There also was heavy industrial damage.

Nagoya, Nagashima, Handa and Kuwana all border Ise Bay, on the Pacific coast of central Japan, where Typhoon Vera first struck Saturday with maximum winds over 160 miles an hour.

The storm swept up the main island of Honshu, crossed Hokkaido Island and finally swirled into the Okhotsk Sea and the northern Pacific with diminishing strength Sunday night.

Japanese government leaders said a special budget allocation will be made for rehabilitation work. The damage extends over 38 of Japan's 47 prefectures.

National police said property damage included some 20,000 homes totally destroyed, over 60,000 partly destroyed, and some 400,000 homes flooded.

So, Kids Might Continue Tradition

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. J. L. Owens and Mrs. Gene F. Washington, both 26 and the best of friends, are about as staunch exponents of togetherness as you'll find.

Both are (1) pretty brunettes, (2) were born Dec. 19, 1932, (3) have 27-year-old husbands and (4) live only two houses apart in the same block.

Now they're in the same hospital with new babies born Saturday. There was one departure from pattern—Mrs. Owens has a daughter, named Stacy Lynn, and Mrs. Washington a son, named Steven Lee.

And What Does Khrushy Think Of U.S.? Still Not Convinced

EDITOR'S NOTE — Saul Pett traveled with Premier Nikita Khrushchev throughout his tour of the United States.

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—What impact did America have on Nikita Khrushchev?

While in the Soviet Union, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the Soviet leader suffered from misconceptions about the United States, which could be corrected by visiting us. Well, Khrushchev has been here and gone.

Did we change his mind at all? Indications are that we did, unless, of course, he never believed his own propaganda to begin with. Reporters on the Khrushchev tour repeatedly asked him whether his visit was altering his own image of America. Repeatedly, Khrushchev ducked a direct answer.

But there were several indirect answers from the round, voluble Communist chief.

In San Francisco, Khrushchev said — maybe he was merely being polite, but he said it — that he saw no difference between the American government and the American people in their desire for peace.

For the last 14 years of the cold war, Communist propagandists have been saying that Americans as a people want peace but the government is warlike.

For years Pravda has been screaming that American business leaders and the "ruling classes" had to keep the cold war going because to end it would bring a depression.

But after meeting with top businessmen in New York, Khrushchev conceded that the United States could move from a war economy to a true peace economy without economic disaster.

Traditionally, the Moscow propaganda mill has insisted the American worker is oppressed, exploited, underpaid, ill-fed, ill-housed and eternally afraid of sudden unemployment.

But the Khrushchev we saw on this side of the Atlantic said the American worker's situation is "not a bad one at all." He remarked several times about American prosperity and our high standard of living.

While he criticized some of our industrial and farming techniques, he also had high praise for others. He publicly admired our "beautiful cities" and our "wonderful roads." He even committed the heresy of conceding that most American newspapers had been objective in reporting his hectic tour.

In many places he noted the friendliness of Americans, although in some of those places he definitely mistook polite curiosity for friendship. He spoke warmly of the "pleasant talks" he had had with businessmen, political leaders, farmers, intellectuals, workers and ordinary Americans.

Curiously in this listing, the world leader of the proletariat usually mentioned businessmen first and workers last.

But any appraisal of America's impact on Khrushchev must bear this in mind: he evidently never intended for it to have any impact. He obviously came to talk, not see, to persuade, not learn.

His talks with so-called ordinary Americans were perfunctory, fast and hectic — a handshake and a question or two — all on camera, all part of a mob scene.

He never saw the inside of an average home. The only homes he did enter were the White House and the houses of two rich men — W. Averell Harriman in New York and Roswell Garst in Coon Rapids, Iowa.

But still, there was much for Khrushchev to notice if he happened to look. From his car or train window, he could see thousands of American homes as big or bigger than the one exhibited in Moscow, which he had insisted was not typical.

He could see TV antennae on the rooftops, the huge flow of cars and trucks and planes, the well-stocked shelves of the supermarket, the factory pickets in Pittsburgh and Des Moines, the many Americans who were not afraid to talk back to their police.

He crossed the country twice. He saw Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Pittsburgh, and he must have seen something of the vitality and variety and freedom of America.

But if, as a result, anyone thought Khrushchev was about to turn in his Communist card, the master of the Kremlin disposed of that remote possibility in his farewell appearances in Washington.

"Your country," he said, "has not changed my opinion that our political-social system is the fairest and most productive."

Reporters who followed him from coast to coast concluded that you can tell Nikita Khrushchev anywhere but you can't tell him much.

Officials Get Sonic Briefing

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Officials of eight West Texas cities are getting a three-day briefing from the Air Force on what makes sonic booms and why they are necessary.

The 43 officials are from Breckenridge, Comanche, Cisco, Dublin, Mineral Wells, Ranger, Stephenville and Mineral Wells.

The group gathered at Carswell Air Force Base Sunday and was flown in an Air Force transport plane to Omaha, Neb., headquarters of the Strategic Air Command.

At Omaha the Texans will tour the underground alert facilities. They are to return to Carswell tonight and will visit the Convair aircraft plant Tuesday. At the Convair plant they will see the super-sonic B58 Hustler bomber which travels at twice the speed of sound.

The Hustlers operate over West Texas where the sonic explosions, which the Air Force prefers to call "the new sound of security," are often heard.

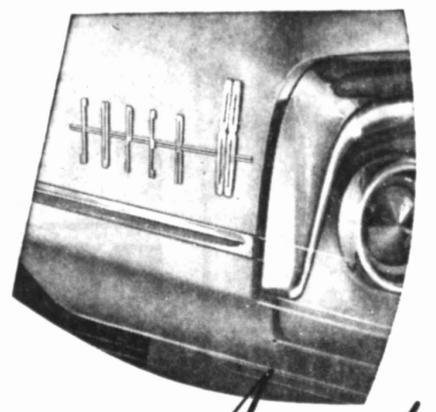

Air Force officials say that if America is to be prepared to defend itself, citizens must be prepared for sonic shocks.

The explosion-like boom is caused when a supersonic plane breaks through the sound barrier at approximately 625 miles per hour.

Attention Swinging To Nik China Visit

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington interest was swinging today toward Peiping where a familiar figure—Nikita Khrushchev—is about to make an appearance.

A visit by the Soviet Premier to his No. 1 Communist ally is a matter of note any time. It is especially so when the Soviet leader has just completed an historic trip to the United States. Red China's No. 1 hate in the cold war.

Khrushchev, who only today returned to Moscow from the United States, is scheduled to leave Tuesday for Peiping.

There has been little indication so far that Khrushchev will make much of a public splash in Peiping. To the contrary, there has been a curious silence.

The official purpose of Khrushchev's China journey is to attend the 10th anniversary celebration of the Peiping regime Oct. 1.

After the first few days of his 15-day tour, the Red Chinese press has paid scant attention to Khrushchev's journey here.

The Kremlin leader himself has made few references to his Asiatic ally despite China's prominence in cold war trouble spots. Soviet aides at his news conference Sunday selected for Khrushchev's reply none of a number of questions concerning Red China which were submitted by American newsmen.

Several theories are advanced here for the comparative Communist quietness on the U.S.-China theme.

One is that Peiping is engrossed in internal affairs for the moment. The 10th anniversary celebration talk has focused on claims for the great leap forward, the Red Regime's far-reaching plan for economic advancement.

Something of a purge has been under way in Communist Chinese ranks. Word of more than 400 job changes, reaching high into military and other positions, has reached the West.

Khrushchev may not want to put himself on the spot with a major speech now that would anger either Peiping or Washington.

Staying backstage in Peiping would not rule out serious private talks by Khrushchev with the other Communist leaders, however. He also may have some bones to pick with Peiping's leadership. For instance, the Red Chinese have now publicly admitted the error of former production claims—claims which had been used by Khrushchev in his boasts of Communist bloc strength.

3 Zoning Change Plans Are Before Commission

Public hearings on three zoning changes and four preliminary subdivision plans are on the agenda for the Planning and Zoning Commission today, scheduled for 5:15 p.m. in the Commission Room at City Hall.

The public hearings include:

Consideration of changing Block 1 and 2 of the Wiley Terrace Addition and Block 1 of the Jerald Smith Addition from Zone A to Zone B.

Consideration of changing the south 200 feet of a tract of land owned by R. E. McKinney and Q. V. Lebkowsky from Zone A residential to Zone E, business.

The tract is south of 4th Street, east of McKenney, north of 6th Street and west of undeveloped land owned by Ward Hall.

Consideration of changing all of Lots 18 through 28 of Section 32-33-1N, T&P survey from Zone D, apartments, to Zone G, industrial district.

Three of the four subdivisions up for consideration are suburban and do not lie adjacent to the present limits. The other one is the McClanahan Subdivision, which has been submitted previously.

Jet Drive-In Is Burglarized

Two thefts and four burglaries were investigated by police officers during the weekend.

Rufus Roland reported his saddle stolen at the Ratliff Ranch, Austin Street, 510 Owens told officers his 1957 model car was taken while he was in church at Coahoma.

Mrs. Tatum, 902 E. 15th reported a burglary of her home with some minor household articles missing. B. C. McKenzie, Duncan Hotel, reported his suitcase stolen containing some clothes.

J. D. Leonard reported a burglary of the Conoco service station, 1318 E. 4th. Entry was made by cutting a screen and two cigarette lighters are missing. The Burnett Machine Shop, 1318 E. 3rd, was also entered through a window, however nothing was reported taken.

Concession stand at the Jet Drive-In Theater, on the south edge of the city, was raided Sunday night by prowlers, according to Fern Cox, deputy sheriff.

He said that the cigarette machine was cleaned out of cigarettes and that possibly the money in the machine was taken. He had not contacted the operators at 11 a.m. and did not have a report on what other damage the stand may have endured.

Youth Week Set In Lamesa Schools

LAMESA — Youth Participation Week will be observed in Lamesa this week with special programs scheduled daily by the Lamesa High School Student Council.

The programs have been prepared by Governor Price Daniel's Committee for the White House conference on children and youth, and will be aired daily over radio at 1:30 p.m.

A full report of the schools' activities during Youth Participation Week will be made to the committee in charge of the programs are Richard Crump, Nat Self, Joan Tarter, Kay Edwards, Pat Anderson and David Dain. On Tuesday, a guest speaker will be Harvey Pruitt, youth director of the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock.

Suicide Notice By Telegram

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Dolores Martinez Lopez notified her sister by telegram yesterday she was committing suicide.

Guadalupe Martinez de Moreno frantically traced the telegram to a downtown hotel, and found her sister unconscious from a dose of poison. She died later in a hospital.

Italian Premier Segni Is Frail But Formidable

ROME (AP) — Country gentleman, law professor, frail but formidable politician, that's Italian Premier Antonio Segni.

Here is a man with strong convictions — about strengthening the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, about a bigger voice for Italy in Western councils, about keeping Communists in this country on the defensive.

He takes off from Rome Tuesday to air these views in Washington talks with President Eisenhower.

Internal struggles within his party, the Christian Democrats, have led him to shorten his visit to the United States and to cancel a proposed visit to Canada.

Nevertheless, Segni will be out of Italy at a time when his presence here might embolden him in party squabbles which could blow over before he gets back.

It would not be the first time he weathered a political storm by not being around.

"Taking to his bed," his friends say, "is his secret weapon."

When Segni first was Italy's premier — for 20 months in 1955-57 — he often was incapacitated by stomach complaints or other illnesses.

He wore his overcoat long into the spring to ward off chills, he died on milk and vegetables. His wife, Laura, and their four sons watched over him closely.

Still he often was ill, most frequently when he stood to gain from a bit of delay.

Since he returned to power at 68 last February, after the fall of Amintore Fanfani's government, he has rarely taken to bed, although his opponents criticize his weekend trips to the island of Sardinia to visit his farm.

Segni was born Feb. 2, 1891, on Sardinia.

In his youth he was active in Young Catholic action groups. During the Mussolini period he retired from politics and became a professor of law at Rome University. He has continued to teach while serving as a member of every one of the eight postwar governments of the late Alcide De Gasperi and the six others since De Gasperi died.

Segni's gaunt, smiling face sometimes can be deceptive. Behind it lurks a temper.

As agriculture minister under De Gasperi, he backed a land reform bill giving two million acres of land to 150,000 peasants. The bill took the wind out of Communist propaganda, and the Reds — along with conservatives.

Segni's estate in Sardinia was one of the big landholdings affected.

Among his more recent actions embittering the Communists was his strongly indicated the United States for the establishment of missile bases in Italy.

Segni is regarded as a political moderate. His government, which depends on support of monarchists and fascists, leans to the right.

Suggs Awarded 'C' Certificate

J. I. Suggs, veteran operator at the city filtration plant, has received his 3 year class C certificate from the Texas Health Department.

Two other city employes had qualified previously.

In order to obtain such a certificate an operator must have at least one year experience in addition to satisfactorily completing 40 hours of special study at short courses or regional meetings. Having met these requirements, an applicant then must pass a written examination in order to be eligible for the award.

Suggs has been an operator at the plant for the past five years. He not only has acquired proficiency in the treatment of water, but also a knowledge of plant mechanics, design and the basic layout of the system's distribution system. Suggs' certificate is a renewal of one he already held.

President, 'Sick And Tired' Of Stee Fuss, Hints At Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is "getting sick and tired of the apparent impasse" in the steel strike.

He strongly indicated the government is planning some action soon to try to end the 76-day-old shutdown.

At a news conference, Eisenhower called the situation intolerable. But he declined to say whether the Taft-Hartley law — with its court injunction provision for sending the steel workers back to their jobs for at least an 80-day cooling off period — would be invoked.

At the outset of the news conference, Eisenhower indicated that he expected most of the questions to deal with his talks over the weekend with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

He added that he first wanted to say something about a matter of great importance on the domestic scene. Then, his voice hoarse from a cold, Eisenhower read a prepared statement.

Referring to the strike, Eisenhower said emphatically:

"I am not going to try to assess any blame, but I am getting sick and tired of the apparent impasse in the settlement of this matter — and so are the American people."

Free collective bargaining, the logical recourse of a free people in settling industrial disputes — has apparently broken down."

Formal negotiations between the steel companies and the steel union broke off Friday.

The long strike, Eisenhower said, already has had a noticeable impact on the nation's economy.

"Now, with negotiations abandoned, 'the prospect becomes serious for every individual in the nation,'" Eisenhower said.

At that point the President said he was not going to discuss specific actions the government could take, including use of the Taft-Hartley law.

Sens. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and John Sparkman (D-Ala.) called on Eisenhower to take a personal hand in getting the talks going again.

They urged a series of White House conferences with both sides, and said they opposed use of the injunctive procedure at this time.

"Because of the nature and length of this dispute," Mansfield said in an interview, "the resumption of production might be accompanied by a slowdown that would mean that not very much steel would be forthcoming."

This created an impasse the government will have to meet — either by calling the parties back together, perhaps by means of separate meetings with the union and management leaders at the White House, or by invoking Taft-Hartley.

The Taft-Hartley law emergency procedures have been used only 15 times in the dozen years the law has been in effect, Eisenhower has used them twice to end maritime industry strikes and on three occasions to end atomic energy production stoppages. All 10 earlier occasions were by former President Truman.

The steel industry and union remain deadlocked on two issues. One is the demand of the companies for greater leeway in curbing allegedly wasteful work practices.

The second stumbling block is the union's demand for wage and benefit boosts of 15 cents an hour for every year of a new contract.

Nation's Capital Needs An Umbrella; Bird Season Again

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — This town is going to the birds.

During the peak roosting season ahead, uncounted millions of starlings and pigeons will hover over the unvarying and desecrate the capital's classic buildings and monuments.

Mindful that annual cleanup costs run into the thousands of dollars, the Commerce Department's Office of Administrative Operations last week issued a special order on pigeon feeding by employees. It said "This practice must be curtailed since it very obviously creates poor house-keeping and unsanitary conditions."

This was the latest move in a long standing war of nerves between man and bird.

The General Services Administration, which maintains public buildings, has been forced to adopt an expensive bird-proofing program.

One way is to string electrically charged wires along window ledges and under eaves. This was done at the National Archives for $51,000.

GSA also uses a putty-grout paint which contains a chemical that is distasteful to birds but will not harm them. Experiments also have been conducted in broadcasting high frequency sound waves.

Before the Archives strung its wires, it used recordings of a hawk's cry to scare away starling and pigeons. This worked, but it also attracted hawks.

One downtown office building several years ago stationed a mechanical owl on a window ledge. Periodically the owl would flap its wings. This scared the nuisance birds — for a time. Then they started roosting on the owl's head.

The bird-proofing program has had some unhappy consequences. The Archives and the Treasury

Tragedy In The Forest

The wreckage of a French airliner is seen amid trees after it crashed and exploded in a pine forest near Bordeaux, France, killing 53 of the 65 occupants. The plane, a DC7, crashed shortly after taking off from Bordeaux on a flight to Africa.

DECISION DELAYED Bids Received On Two Maintainers

Howard County Commissioners delayed until next Monday decision on purchase of two road maintainers. Six bids were opened at the Monday morning session but the court decided to think over the matter for a week.

Patton Equipment Co. bid was apparent low offer of the six. Their bid was $22,782 with allowance for the pieces of equipment the county proposes to trade in on the maintainers.

Other bids, after the allowance for trade-ins had been figured were:

Texas Equipment Co. $29,482.
Treasor Equipment Co. $34,500.
Plains Machinery Co. $29,500.
Western Machine Co. $30,000 and Road Machinery Co. $27,000.

Walter Parks, county engineer, was instructed to go over the specifications in each maintainer offered. He will recommend some action at next Monday's meeting. The commissioners also want time, they said, to think over the matter and decide which is the best approach for the county.

Parking Garage Project Will Be Theme At Meet

Perman Bldg tenants were to meet at 5 p.m. today to discuss possible erection of a four-story parking garage that would house between 200 and 300 cars.

Chamber of Commerce president Clyde McMahon is heading the civic effort to get the garage, which would be situated in the lot adjacent to the Perman Bldg.

Wallace Coates, owner of the building, is interested in building a 120 by 140 foot ramp-style structure, according to Chamber manager Bill Quimby, who said it would solve the future for that large office building.

The meeting was to be held in the chamber offices.

Scheffing Quits

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Scheffing today resigned as manager of the Chicago Cubs baseball team and the club's president Phil Wrigley, announced Charley Grimm would be Scheffing's successor in 1960.

Wrigley said Scheffing has been offered and accepted a position in the baseball department.

Chest Leaders Are Selected

LAMESA — Four men have been named division chairmen for the Dawson County Community Chest campaign, it is announced by Chest president, Bill David.

David and C. T. Beckham, campaign chairman, said the division chairmen would be Howard Allen, advance gifts, Jake Lippard, special division; Lloyd Cline, employee division; and Jess Merrick, farm and ranch.

Directors of the Community Chest earlier this month approved a budget of $24,288 for this year's drive. LeRoy Olsak is chairman of the budget committee.

The Chest campaign will open Oct. 20 and will close Saturday, Nov. 7. Agencies included in the budget include Girl Scouts, Boy Goodfellowes, Texas Rehabilitation Center, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Texas United Fund and American Heart Fund.

$144 Costs Face Man In Car Crash

Joe Sherman Jr., picked up in connection with a two-car collision, will be out $144 in fines and costs when he settles with the court, officers said.

He was fined $100 and costs for failing to stop and render aid — a violation of hit and run in which there are no personal injuries. He was fined $24.50 for not having a driver's license plus costs. The total bill as checked on the jail blotter at the court house is $144.

Two Accidents

Two accidents were reported in the city over the weekend.

Charles E. Reed, 1204 Sycamore, and Lolita-B. Grenus, 600 Linda Lane, were involved in a crash at 6th and State.

Three cars were involved in the crash in the 500 block of NW 4th Sunday. Drivers included Willie Evans, Lamesa, G. M. Deanda, 507 NW 8th, and Ramon Ramirez, Big Spring.

No injuries or major damage was reported.

Pan American Completes Well As Martin Devonian Discovery

Pan American has completed the No. 2 Turnbow as a Strawn discovery in the Breedlove (Devonian) pool of Martin County. The flowing potential is 448.17 barrels of 44 gravity oil per day and the allowable has been set at 224 barrels per day.

Operator found the Devonian formation dry at 11,992 feet, plugged back the hole to the 10,800 foot level for tests in the Strawn. The perforations are between 10,800-30 feet and production is through a 24-64 inch choke.

Pan American No. 1 Snell, other Breedlove field project, is preparing to core the Strawn for production signs. This project is an indicated discovery in the Wolfcamp zone where operator found oil and gas shows from perforations between 9,780-878 feet.

Anderson - Prichard No. 1-F Miller, Garza wildcat, has plugged back the hole to 2,600 feet for tests in the San Andres. Oil and gas shows from perforations between 9,780-878 feet.

Heavy Agenda Faces City Dads

A busy session appeared eminent for the Big Spring City Commission, meeting in a postponed session Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. in the Commission Room of City Hall.

The advance agenda listed 13 items, ranging from traffic problems to the tax roll. A committee from the Big Spring Independent School District will bring recommendations for solving traffic problems in the vicinity of several schools. The annual analysis of city traffic will be presented to the commissioners by James Don Hill of the National Safety Council.

Reading and approval of the 1959 tax rolls and considering an ordinance levying taxes on property for 1959 is up for consideration.

Two annexation ordinances will get readings, one bringing into the city the present Country Club property and the other annexing the Suburban Heights area.

Recommendations of the Planning and Zoning Commission will be considered. A request from the Big Spring Civic Theatre will be heard and a proposed Subdivision ordinance will get first reading.

An ordinance concerning supplemental benefits for city employes in the event of total disability while the job is set for discussion.

Oil Jobbers Plan Annual Function

Local oil jobbers will meet at noon Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce office to discuss the forthcoming annual function honoring local service station men.

George Zachariah, chairman of the chamber petroleum committee, said the event would be held during Oil Progress Week during October.

Disciplines Self

Virginia Gregg has solved her weight problem by disciplining herself. "If I go on an eating binge, I'm prepared to accept the consequences," she says. She will soon be seen in U-I's "Operation Petticoat."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Has Eating Binges; Then Disciplines Self

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Virginia Gregg, who plays Major Hayward in "Operation Petticoat" for U-I, wanted to be an actress from the time she began dreaming of what she would do when she grew up. "I was quite overweight when I was younger, and I felt I could not look attractive no matter what I wore. So I went to the extreme with this attitude. This can develop into a problem, because eating becomes a kind of self-defense. Miss Gregg has a nice figure now, so I asked her how she snapped out of it. "I'm five-seven, and I seemed to grow to my full size all of a sudden and my weight was evenly distributed. But I still have a sweet tooth, and when the urge comes on me, I can sit down and eat a whole box of candy. But I'm disciplined, and this doesn't happen too often. "I weigh myself every morning, and I don't allow myself to gain more than three pounds over my normal weight. Everyone has to work out a plan that is least painful. For me, I like to go on eating binges, but I'm prepared to accept the consequences and pay for them with privations. If I want Mexican food or an Italian dinner, I have it. "Virginia has never considered herself a beauty, but she is one of the most active actresses in the business. "I've had as many as 104 bosses a year. I work practically every day, and I love it. Acting is my hobby as well as my livelihood. "I wanted to know to what she attributed her success. "I studied and worked, but I'm fortunate to have a versatile voice. This was especially helpful on radio, because I could play several parts and sound completely different. And another thing which has helped is being able to get along with people. "What do you think makes a person difficult to get along with?" I asked. "Egotism," she replied. "Seeing everything from your point of view without attempting to understand the other. You can't consider yourself mature unless you are prepared to give and take."

Handcrafted Glass Highlights Room Decor

Call them accessories, or call them ornaments — these seemingly small items are mighty important and count very much when decorating a room. No matter how attractive your background may be, the accessories are the personal, comfort-giving items which add individuality to the room. They enable you to create the atmosphere that you want, whether it be traditional, modern or Early American. Accessories of American-made glass add bright highlights of color to practically every area of the home. The clear, glowing colors combined with the new shapes found in vases, bottles and decanters can add sharp accents and create a room that is truly decorated as opposed to one that is merely furnished. Today's decorating may be inspired by the tradition of the past, but we are now interpreting it to suit today's way of living. Modern accessories can be used with traditional furnishings and designs of olden times can be combined with modern decor. Be wise when selecting accessories, because the small things count, and when added to the basic furnishings in your room express you and your family. Don't buy isolated items without knowing where they will be used. Think of them in connection with the other furnishings in the room, so you may visualize the over-all effect. They should harmonize with the room, and they should be suitable and correct for the place they occupy. Each piece should be examined carefully with color, texture and shape in mind. Handmade glass accessories used with care around a room add interest and color, as well as pulling the color elements of the entire room together. A low budget does not necessarily mean a dull decor. You can pack your tables with many ashtrays and knick-knacks and still not have a decorated look. Choose one large accessory of good quality rather than lots of clutter. Save your money for a large, handsome free-form ashtray. Purchase a large bowl and fill it with fruit. The color of both the bowl and the fruit will help to decorate the room. Buy, as you can afford it, a variety of handsome glass vases for different size floral or leaf arrangements. With a well-stocked cupboard of attractive glass pieces, you can create varying moods for your room at will. A window, or a group of adjacent windows, is an ideal way to show off a display of interesting glass ornaments. Placed on glass shelving directly against the window enables the sunshine to go through them and adds immeasurably to the appearance and charm of a room. The mantel over the fireplace affords further space to display a collection of glassware.

CONSTIPATION can be a constant worry

As many people approach middle age the problem of constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet becomes serious. It is often such a worry that folks seek relief with harsh laxative drugs. What they do not realize is that such treatment cannot correct the cause of the trouble. But there is a simple, pleasant way that works for millions. It's the Kellogg's All-Bran way. Kellogg's All-Bran is a whole bran cereal—and bran is nature's best bulk-forming food. Just half a cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk supplies all the good food bulk your system needs each day for dependable, youthful regularity. Try appetizing Kellogg's All-Bran for just 10 days and see if it doesn't work for you.

Use Household Items To Make Inexpensive Toys

Many toys may be made from ordinary household items that might normally be thrown away. Take those empty fibre cans and tubes — oat cereal packages, cleanser cans, wax and aluminum foil tubes. These may be decorated with water colors, covered with gift wrap or any of the self-adhesive plastic papers and made into play things. A miniature bowling set may be made with three cores from wax paper or foil, cutting each in half with a razor or sharp knife. Paint them or cover them with paper, if you like. Tubes may be placed in an upright position to form a triangle. These may be placed on a table, permitting about 30 inches of space in front of them. An ordinary rubber ball is rolled toward the "pins" in an effort to knock them down, just as in bowling. A toy telephone set may be made with two empty cleanser cans and a length of cord. First, strip off the labels by running a razor or knife vertically on the can. Next, punch through all the perforations on the top of the can so that it resembles a mouthpiece or earphone. Take a pair of sturdy scissors and punch two holes into the center of the bottom of the can, about a half inch apart. Push one end of the cord through one hole, and loop it out the adjoining one. Tie a strong knot at this point. Repeat the same procedure with the other can, using the other end of the cord. If you wish to have colored phones, you can paint the outside of the phones with poster or water colors. And if you want to get the children into the garden, make a grass seeder out of a shaker top pouring spout and a can. Just fill the empty fibre can with seed through the spout. After the seed is put into it, seal the spout with a piece of tape and turn the shaker top so that the seed can be spread evenly over the planting area.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

By TOMMY HART

Buddie Cosby, Eastern N. W. Mexico University's great line-backer from Big Spring, suffered a jammed shoulder in the Greyhounds' football game with Central Oklahoma but played against Sul Ross last Saturday night. Eastern lost to Central, 20-7, and then beat Sul Ross for the first time in history, 27-22, last weekend.

Wayne Fields, the all-state full-back for the local footballers last year, talked to Coach Sammy Baugh of Hardin-Simmons about the possibility of transferring to Sam's school on a recent trip home but last reports had him back at the University of Houston. Fields asked for the interview with Baugh.

The pro football teams are passing up the chance to sign Lee Grosscup, the Utah passing great, because he's supposed to be too frail to take the pounding he was sure to get in the play-for-pay game. The New York Giants are committed to pay him a salary for a full year, however. That was in a clause in the original contract he signed.

Texas Norman Cash (he hails from Post and attended Sul Ross College) will be among those cutting in on the World Series swing this week. Cash plays first base and the outfield occasionally for the Chicago White Sox.

When the series is over, Cash heads for Venezuela where he'll play winter ball for Luis Aparicio's team.

This area's smaller high schools will compose part of a seven-team basketball conference organized since last season, starting with the 1959-60 season. Members schools are Garden City, Sterling City, Forsan, Water Valley, Sands, Robert Lee and Bronte. The circuit should make for some interesting rivalries.

Weiden Hamble, the one-time Rice Institute football great, says he believes the Ovis this year are deeper than any time since 1952. You can expect the Ovis to be tough as the proverbial boot when November rolls around.

Bobby Huestis, a 160-pound eighth grade footballer for Forsan Junior High, is a brother to a former Forsan athletic standout, Wayne Huestis.

A rather unique golf tournament was held in Austin recently, wherein each player was entitled to kick the ball once each round (from out of the rough, behind trees and etc., but not on the green).

Principally, couples attending the Texas-Maryland football game took part in the meet and tournament directors, no doubt, got the idea for the kicking of the ball from football itself.

John David Crow, the Chicago Cardinals' fine back from Texas A&M, might be tempted to play football in the new American Football League.

He's a good friend of Bud Adams of Houston, one of the big idea men behind the proposed circuit.

Breckenridge Faces A Big Hurdle In Game On Friday

Breckenridge, the tight-knit ruler of Class AAA, may have its claim to the top spot of all Texas schoolboy football jarred this week. The West Texas powers meet an old nemesis — Abilene. The Eagles, once kings of Class AAAA but rated about third this season, are said to resemble the mighty teams of 1954-55-56 that were state champions.

But they'll find out when they battle Breckenridge at Breckenridge Friday night.

This game is the state's feature but there'll be a sharp division of interest because a fifth of the field will be moving into conference play.

There has been only a smattering of conference games and District 1 is the only district in Class AAAA to have championship warfare. El Paso Austin and El Paso Burgess won the conference games played. Four districts have games counting in the standings this week.

Class AAA is the only division that won't have conference games. In Class AA six districts will be at it hot and heavy and in Class A 10 districts will be playing championship games.

Of the 556 teams in the four divisions playing to state championships only 94 have undefeated, untied records. Class AAA has only 14 and those do not include Wichita Falls in the game that established Breckenridge as the claimant to the No. 1 spot in Texas.

Wichita Falls, the defending champion of Class AAAA, still is rated tops in its class. Class AAAA has 21 unbeaten, untied teams and six that have been tied. Two of the teams with perfect records play each other. They are Arlington and Garland. But it is only an inter-sectional game and does not count in the championship race.

Class AAA's battles of the unbeaten and untied come when Kilbuck and San Marcos step down to play Gatesville and Refugio respectively. The latter two are Class AA teams.

Class AA has 35 teams with perfect records. These include the defending state champion, Stamford. And Stamford plays Brady in its own class in a game matching the unbeaten, untied. Class A has 24 teams that haven't been defeated or tied and two of them meet each other. They are Anahuac and Bridge City, who will be clashing in a District 23 conference game.

Odessans Defeat Rockets, 60-0

Lakeview of Big Spring ran in to too much Odessa here Saturday night, losing, 60-0, in Memorial Stadium.

The Rockets, who have yet to win this season, are tentatively scheduled to play Vernon in Vernon Saturday.

The Big Springers came closest to scoring in the second period, when the half time whistle caught them on Blackshear's one-yard line.

Halfback Aubrey McIntire and end Johnny B. Wright suffered minor injuries in the game but will probably be ready for the Vernon game.

Klondike Game Is Set For Nov. 7

ACKERLY (SC) — Sands Consolidated School's football game with Klondike will be played the night of Nov. 7, rather than on the preceding night, Coach Marlin Dodds has announced.

School officials chose a Saturday for the game and designated it as Homecoming for ex-students of the school.

Bulldogging A Tiger

Jerry Tucker of Big Spring seeks to bring down Eddie Watson of Snyder with a neck tackle in the above picture, taken during the game at Snyder last weekend. No. 62 is Jerry Hutchens of Big Spring. Snyder won the game, 31-6. The Steers play Sweetwater here Friday night.

BERT BELL HAS BIG REASONS FOR SMILE

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

The name Vince Lombardi has been penciled into Green Bay Packer annals. Johnny Unitas gets another line in Baltimore record books. Bert Bell smiles.

Bell, the National Football League's major-domo, again has predicted that this season — the pro circuit's 49th — will be the greatest in history. He does it every year.

But, he couldn't have known: 1. That the Packers, almost unanimously picked to finish last in the Western Division, would make Lombardi's debut as head coach a monumental success with a 9-6 upset of the highly ranked Chicago Bears.

2. That Unitas, Baltimore's passing wizard, would fire the befuddled Colts to a 21-9 victory over the stubborn Detroit Lions and extend one of the NFL's greatest records at the same time.

While the Packers and Colts were winning their season-openers over the weekend, the Chicago Cardinals continued to support the thesis they are the team to beat in the Eastern Division by thumping Washington 49-21.

In other curtain-raisers, New York's Giants pulled a mild upset by edging Los Angeles 23-21, the Pittsburgh Steelers downed Cleveland 17-7 and San Francisco's 49ers defeated Philadelphia 24-14.

Jim Ringo pounced on a fumble on the Bears' 26 to set up the Packers victory. With Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor alternating, the Packers moved goalward, Taylor going the final five yards. Hornung's conversion put the Packers ahead to stay 7-6. The Bears were the top team in exhibition play with a 5-1 record.

Unitas hit Ray Berry with an 18-yard touchdown pass as the third period closed to get the Colts, who had floundered for 40 minutes, out from 14-9. It was the 26th consecutive game in which the Baltimore signal-caller has thrown a touchdown pass—a record without parallel in pro football history.

Bob Joe Conrad scored on dashes of 56 and 35 yards, took a five-yard pass for another touchdown and wound up with 25 points as the Cardinals overwhelmed the Redskins. King Hill tossed three scoring aerials as Frank Ivy's charges averaged 12.3 yards a play.

League's Entire Season Crowded Into Final Day

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

It's impossible to crowd a whole season into a single day, but the American League came close to doing just that, painting the picture in miniature in the final games of the year.

There was right-hander Bob Shaw, the big surprise who helped boost Chicago to its first pennant in 40 years, winning his 18th as the White Sox beat Detroit 6-4 Sunday.

There was Harmon Killebrew, the quiet kid who exploded the season's first home run opening day and made a run for Babe Ruth's record, hammering the final homer of the campaign as Washington lost to Boston 6-2. It was Killebrew's 42nd, tying Cleveland's Rocky Colavito for the title in the AL and matching the Senators high set by Roy Sievers in '57.

And there was New York's 3-1 loss to Baltimore, putting an end to the year the Yankees didn't win the pennant, a year in which they lost more and won fewer than any other Yankee club in 34 seasons.

While the White Sox, who'll have to wait a bit longer for the World Series opener, will face Los Angeles and Milwaukee meet for the National League pennant, put it away early for Shaw (18-6), the Tiger's Harvey Kuenn was 1-for-4 and won

Braves, LA In Playoff

By ED WILKS Associated Press Sports Writer

On the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers had a day off but gained a tie for the National League pennant. They kept it through Saturday and Sunday, although losing 4-0 to the Braves in the final game, and for the first time in major league history a playoff decides a pennant.

That was 1946. The Dodgers, then a Brooklyn bunch, lost the flag to the St. Louis Cardinals, who swept the first two games in the best-of-three playoff.

Five years later, on the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers dropped into a first-place tie with the idle Giants with a 4-3 loss at Philadelphia. Both won on Saturday, and again on Sunday, the final day, setting up the second pennant playoff in NL history.

That was 1951. And if you don't remember how the Dodgers lost that one, you're only seven years old.

Eight years later, on the last Friday of the season, the Dodgers won 5-4 in 11 innings at Chicago and took a one-game lead. Saturday the lead was a tie, after they lost 12-2 to the Cubs and Milwaukee's Braves beat Philadelphia 3-2. It stayed a tie Sunday, the final day, when the Dodgers beat the Cubs 7-1 and the Braves beat the Phils 5-2.

So the Dodgers head into their third pennant, at Milwaukee today against the Braves.

Manager Fred Haney was undecided between right-handers Lew Burdette (21-15) and Carl Willey (12-10). He chose the latter, pitching Manager Walt Alton has decided only that he'd pick a lefty — either Johnny Podres (14-9), Danny McDevitt (10-8) or Sandy Koufax (8-6) — for the Dodgers, only club with a season edge over Philadelphia 24-14.

The Braves, with Burdette, are 5-7 favorites to win the opener. With Willey, it's 10-11 and pick 'em.

The playoff, to be telecast nationally by ABC, gets under way at 2:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time in the Braves' County Stadium, then shifts to Los Angeles for the second and, if necessary, third game. The winner will get a day off before jumping into the World Series against Chicago's American League champion White Sox either Thursday or Friday at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Dodgers and Braves, either destined to win with the fewest victories (88) in NL history, junked any chance for an unprecedented three-way tie by winning Sunday. That killed San Francisco's Giants, who made it doubly sure by losing a doubleheader at St. Louis, 2-1 and 14-8.

Roger Craig (11-5) put it away for the Dodgers, winning his fifth in a row with a six-hitter and driving in a pair of second-inning runs with a single off Bob Anderson (12-13). Charlie Neal and John Roseboro made it a breeze with two-run homers.

But last Saturday, they were battered and bruised by Northwest-ern, 4-13, their worst beating in 14 years. To be sure, a dozen members of the Oklahoma squad were laid low by food poisoning Thursday night. But they all played and coach Bud Wilkinson refused to offer any alibis.

This Saturday, Oklahoma begins its quest for a 12th straight Big Eight title by engaging Colorado in Norman. Down through the years, this has been the top game in the league. Oklahoma always won but Colorado usually made a battle of it. The Buffs, however, already have lost two games and this time around appear to be one of the weaker league teams.

But Missouri and Nebraska, two more outfits that have suffered long years of humiliation by Oklahoma, might not be so easy. Missouri clubbed Michigan, 20-15, and Nebraska whipped Minnesota, 32-12. It's a rare day, indeed, when two Big Eight teams score victories over Big Ten opponents.

As for Northwestern, the Wildcats have spent the last decade floundering around in or near the Big Ten basement. Their last ap-

Grid Powers Take Lumps

By ED CORRIGAN Associated Press Sports Writer

Could this be the year of the turning worm in college football, the year of the uprising of the meek?

Oklahoma, Auburn and Southern Methodist, proud and mighty, have been ground into the soil.

The case of Oklahoma shows the most intriguing possibilities. For 11 years now, the powerful Sooners have ruled the Big Eight. They have gone through 71 conference games without defeat.

But last Saturday, they were battered and bruised by Northwest-ern, 4-13, their worst beating in 14 years. To be sure, a dozen members of the Oklahoma squad were laid low by food poisoning Thursday night. But they all played and coach Bud Wilkinson refused to offer any alibis.

As for Northwestern, the Wildcats have spent the last decade floundering around in or near the Big Ten basement. Their last appearance in the Rose Bowl was back in 1949. Two years ago, they didn't win a conference game. Last year, they finished with a 5-4 overall record.

Wisconsin and Ohio State, the two big boys of the Big Ten this year, didn't distinguish themselves. The Badgers beat Stanford, 16-14, and the Buckeyes turned back Duke by a point after touchdown, 14-13. Northwestern meets Iowa in its first Big Ten game this week.

Shug Jordan's Auburn club now shows a 9-1 record as a result of its 3-0 loss to Tennessee. The defeat snapped college football's longest non-losing streak, 24 games and will certainly make Louisiana State's march toward the Southeastern Conference title easier.

LSU, No. 1 team ahead of Oklahoma and Auburn, in this week's Associated Press poll, stopped Texas Christian, a rough outfit, 10-0. The Bengals now have won a dozen straight regular-season games, high in the country.

Auburn should have no trouble with Hardin-Simmons this week while LSU will be heavily favored over Baylor.

Another bigwig whose defeat will cause some quick recalculations is Southern Methodist. The Mustangs, favorites in the South-western Conference, fell before Georgia Tech, 16-12.

Mississippi, No. 4, held up its prestige with a 16-0 lacing of Kentucky. The Ole Miss-LSU game on Oct. 31 could decide the SEC title.

Clemson, No. 5, swamped Virginia, 47-0, while Army, which again looks like the class of the East, crushed Boston College, 44-8.

A Devotional For Today

Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them. (Psalm 119:165.)
PRAYER: Grant us Thy peace this day, dear Father. We thank Thee that we can grow in grace and in the likeness of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. May our hearts be filled with love, so that we shall do and dare for His sake what we cannot do in our own strength. In His name we ask it. Amen.

Some Whistling May Be Going On

Russian Communists are "whistling through the cemetery" when they vow to surpass the United States standard of living, the Associated Press quotes George W. Healy Jr., editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, as saying.

If indeed they have anything superior to our system, it is not in efficiency or industry, he added. Perhaps the one sure superiority is a fanaticism pounded into the people, which, unfortunately, said Mr. Healy, is not matched in this country by one as intense for freedom.

The remarks of Mr. Khrushchev during his visit with us have added credence to Mr. Healy's remarks. Even discounting the difference in mode of expression, some of the reactions of Russia's prime minister have bordered on the puerile. Somewhere in the back of your head you can't escape the notion that there is a lot of wind of more than ordinary temperature being generated.

The danger is not so much in the outcome of competition between the two systems — for we have infinite faith that freedom is bound to prove most appealing and most effective in the long run. It is more in the possibility that an expansionist program could somehow precipitate a global war. Where any nation is controlled by one or a few men, this possibility always exists, and that's what makes the situation so ticklish.

One of the possibilities of the current talks is that some remote crack may offer the wedge through which enough truth can filter through to gain time. If we are really dedicated to our system, time certainly will be on our side, if not, perhaps nothing, not even time, can save us.

Better Fiscal Control Imperative

There seems to be some disagreement as to whether Congress actually cut under the President's budget requests or whether it upped the expenditures.

On this page today Mr. David Lawrence hints that the Democratic leadership is guilty of financial sabotage in claiming a $2.5 billion saving. He laments that the statement of Mr. Maurice H. Stans, budget director, to the effect that congressional manipulation actually added to budgetary obligations was not given wide publicity. The major wire services carried this story and it got good play in most papers, despite Mr. Lawrence's innuendo.

Mr. Stans arrives at his conclusions by an obscure line of reasoning, which boils down in some cases to this: The President is going to get, eventually, what he requested in addition to what the Congress appropriated. Hence, by adding the two together, you come up with a figure which shows that the total outlay was over and not under what the President had requested.

The Tax Foundation, which is a great deal more objective than Mr. Stans, Mr. Lawrence or even the Democrats, figures that the Congress actually saved about $801,000,000 under the President's budget request.

All of this does point up one thing, however, the federal financial machinery is in crying need of major overhaul if not complete reconstruction. Firm, clear control is impossible under the present arrangements for authorizations, appropriations and back-door financing. Any business would go broke without sound fiscal control — and maybe that's what will happen to the federal Treasury, too.

David Lawrence Were Expenditures Actually Raised?

WASHINGTON — What's more important today to 170,000,000 Americans than the purchasing power of the dollar which has already declined 38 cents since the war ended in 1945? And what's more important to the American people than the terrible effects that can ensue if inflation is continued?

The most important news that concerns the American pocketbook of today and tomorrow is what happened in the last session of Congress to promote or retard extravagant spending by the federal government.

Record assert that the Congress reduced the President's appropriation requests by $1,831 million, and reduced his requests for new spending authority outside the appropriation process — so-called back-door financing — by nearly $700 million, for a total reduction of $2.5 billion. These tables do not recognize the following modifying factors:

"1. Figures indicating appropriation reductions include $948 million which are actually postponements to another year or reductions which will have to be restored on uncontrollable items.

The politicians, including the Democratic party leaders in control of Congress, have boasted in the last two weeks that they cut the President's budget — that during the last session they were, indeed, better economists than he was.

But the people have a right to know the facts. It is unfortunate that, just because the director of the budget issues a mass of figures which look overwhelmingly complex, his formal statement released through the White House was not widely printed. Maurice H. Stans, who, as director of the budget, is charged by law with keeping the government's books on receipts and expenses, writes:

"2. On a comparable basis congressional action on new obligatory authority outside the appropriation process actually added $231 million beyond the President's request — so-called 'backdoor' financing — and other legislation authorizes or commits the federal government to expenditures of $12,354 million, not including the food stamp program which was authorized on a non-mandatory basis for a two-year period at an estimated cost of $220 million.

"Contradictory statements concerning the effect of congressional action on the President's budget occur many times because such analyses are not developed on bases which are truly comparable.

"The budget recommended by the President for the fiscal year 1960 indicated receipts from present and requested taxes of $77.1 billion and expenditures of approximately $77 billion. These figures determine the extent by which the budget is balanced when submitted.

"3. These tables do not list certain revenue proposals recommended in the President's budget but not enacted by the Congress, which would have reduced net expenditures over a full year by a total of $540 million.

So what does it all add up to? The director of the budget tells the American people the sad facts — namely, that congressional action not only increased net expenditures in 1960 by $397 million over the budget, but added $11.5 billion more in spending for the years after fiscal 1960. There were, to be sure, appropriation items amounting to about $1.9 billion which were cut by Congress out of the 1960 budget asked for by the President, but nearly half of this amount — $948 million — was merely postponed and will require later restoration, as Mr. Stans describes it. Congress, on the other hand, passed its own pork barrel legislation adding $751 million of future commitments for "public works" — enacting it over the President's veto.

"A second set of figures in the President's budget document consists of his requests for appropriations or other authority to spend for both the coming year and future years as well.

"It is inaccurate to assume that actions on appropriation bills necessarily have an equivalent effect on expenditures for the budget year. Thus, any implication that congressional reductions in the President's appropriation requests necessarily affects in direct proportion the balanced budget for 1960 is misleading. Because the congressional reductions of appropriations for 1960 were mainly in long lead-time items, the effect on 1960 expenditures is small.

There were some proposals by the President for spending in future years which were reduced by about $1 billion but, all in all, Congress saddled the country with a bill of $11.5 billion for future spending which the President didn't recommend.

It is this kind of reckless use of the appropriation process that threatens the stability of the American dollar in future years. But how many people, outside financial circles, will get the point? They'll get it in later years perhaps when the dollar declines still further. The saboteurs of 1959, however, will by that time have been forgotten.

She paints oil pictures, chewing gum at the same time. The finished product is framed in old moulding, the gum fastened to the frame and shellack added.

The finished picture has an antique appearance. Mrs. Napier says her largest picture consumed 275 sticks of well-chewed gum to frame.

They were identified as Union soldiers by the buttons of their uniforms.

NOT TOO MUCH OF A TRANQUILIZER

James Marlow One Can't Be Sure Of K-Visit Meaning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has finished his sensational and historic visit to the United States. What does it add up to? If you had to give the answer in one sentence, this would be it: "I can't be sure."

Reaction varies from skepticism to hope, mixed with wonder whether there's a gimmick in it, that he wants peace. One thing is sure: He didn't lose anything by his trip. He probably gained a lot.

So far as it is known he didn't budge an inch on anything. Even that can't be said with certainty, since he implied that the full result of his talks with President Eisenhower won't be known for some time.

He tried to create an image of Khrushchev and the Soviet Union extremely anxious for peace. And no doubt he did in some areas of the world, at least.

If he's not sincere, then the obvious question must arise in the most hostile minds: why did he go to all this trouble? That's an advantage he knew he would have when he undertook this trip in the first place. He never lost it.

He gave the impression of a man fed up with seeing the world's leaders frozen in fixed positions and determined at any cost to shove the world loose. That's exactly the impression he probably wanted to give.

Just because he created that impression he put the Western leaders on a psychological defensive. They will perhaps feel compelled somehow in some way, to do something to match in the world's eye Khrushchev's show of good intentions.

He demonstrated to any one with a lingering contempt for the Soviets after the Sputniks and the moonshot, that both he and the U.S.S.R. must be treated as an equal. No one watching his energy, quick mind, and built-in strength could doubt it.

He bragged, he was full of contradictions, he tried to bully his way past embarrassing questions, he was thin-skinned, and he never varied from basic Soviet dogma that communism is the best way of life.

But by this trip, by his down-to-earth performance, his bustle, bustle, his busybody poking around, his lack of bombast, his catch-as-catch-can willingness to take on all comers in a street-corner argument, he may have created a new era in international and diplomatic relations.

Other people who have watched Khrushchev here will feel like telling their own staffers "come off it!" if they get stuffy and don't get things done.

It will take a long time — perhaps some summit meetings and certainly a number of meetings of foreign ministers — to show whether Khrushchev's whole trip was phony or whether he really wants peace.

The concessions the Soviets make in the future — or don't make — will tell the story.

But he crowned his almost incredible 12 days here with the truly incredible Sunday night for almost an hour the head of world communism came into millions of American homes via television, lecturing on the beauties and goals of communism.

Ironically, for many Americans who had a strong distaste for the communism but only a vague knowledge of it, this lecture was probably the first time in their lives they heard it explained A-B-C, even if it was one-sided.

His hour's lecture, following another hour of questions and answers on TV, took gall and indignation. It showed how much American attitudes have changed in five years. Such a performance would have been unthinkable in 1954 when America was in the midst of the McCarthy era of hysterical anti-communism.

If you are skeptical about Khrushchev, then the net result of his trip has been suspicion. If you want to credit him with goodwill — in the sense, at least, of wanting peace in the world — then much he has done so far makes sense.

To prepare the world for the idea that the Soviet Union did want peace, Khrushchev first had to destroy the horror-image of communism built up by Stalin. Khrushchev has done that in a number of ways: by denouncing Stalin, de-emphasizing the role of the secret police, making Soviet society more open.

Then he set out on his seven-year plan to give Soviets a higher living standard and try to overtake the United States. This requires effort and it requires peace. It makes his talk of peace sound more plausible.

Since war, particularly hydrogen bomb war, could wipe out everything communism has accomplished and probably wipe out capitalism, too, it would be logical to try to remove the possibility of war. This is what Khrushchev preaches.

The one thing Karl Marx didn't visualize was the hydrogen bomb and the fact it can wipe out whole nations, including Communist ones. This alone would cause a switch in Communist tactics. Khrushchev has switched tactics.

Hal Boyle Now, Who's Civilized?

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

Civilization often can borrow an idea from the primitive past. For example, some aboriginal Australian tribes had a rule requiring men to stay at least 50 yards away from their mother-in-law.

We're getting more literate all the time. America now has three million college students, and in 10 years the number will double.

New York City boasts it has the finest fire department in the world. It needs the best because there are 1,000 fires a week here. Did you know careless smoking habits lead to more fire deaths than any other cause?

The average woman has 75 percent more body fat than the average man, despite the fact most fatheads you meet are male.

George Bernard Shaw once said, "The only service a friend can really render is to keep up your courage by holding up to you a mirror in which you can see a noble image of yourself."

The United States now has 600,000 hit-and-run accidents a year, and in half of them the drivers go unpunished.

Incidentally, a survey by the USO showed that the Christmas gifts most wanted by U. S. servicemen overseas were more family photographs, more mail from home and subscriptions to their home town newspapers.

Around 1907 the average man spent $33 a year on clothing and bought a new $10 suit annually. Now the average man wears more sports attire, buys a new suit only about every three years.

Apt definition: "Alimony," says Al Cooper, "is just the high cost of leaving."

America now has enough surplus wheat to bake about 60 billion loaves of bread or nearly 25 for every person in the world.

What state leads the nation in lady politicians? It's New Hampshire which has 55 women in its legislature.

The good old days: "Remember," recalls comic George De Witt, "when hotel rooms used to have courtesy signs asking, 'Have you left anything?' Now they might as well say, 'Have you anything left?'"

The motorist is getting more pampered every day. Some Midwest gas stations now offer free shoe shines while your car is being serviced.

"Feeling older?" By 1970 America will have 20 million people over 65 years of age.

Sign in a Greenwich Village beatnik bar: "Behave yourself. Once you go off your trolley it's the end of the line for you."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "Nothing spoils a romance so much as a sense of humor in the woman."

Marquis Childs Another Factor To Be Considered

WASHINGTON — While the scenery on the world stage has been abruptly shifted about as a result of Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United States, the fundamental issues of the cold war remain unresolved. What we have seen is only the smallest beginning at thawing a freeze going deep into the substratum.

It could hardly be otherwise. The Khrushchev visit was a great gamble. And the gambler who took perhaps the biggest risk was Khrushchev himself.

Failure — conspicuous failure that could not have been glossed over by any form of words — would have confronted him with grim choices. He would have had to resume the cold war with the prospect and even the likelihood of a hot war in the foreseeable future. Such a failure would have so weakened his position in the Communist bloc that in a new power struggle he might have been supplanted.

For Khrushchev it was the kind of gamble that has marked his whole career. By denouncing the crimes of Stalin and the "cult of personality" in his famous secret speech to the 20th Party Congress, he gambled that he could hold power in a new era without applying the full range of the Stalin terror.

When he decided to go all out in developing the virgin lands in Siberia, Khrushchev took a greater gamble. The outcome is still uncertain as a prolonged drought could wither the hopes of new food supply to augment Soviet living standards. Vast amounts of capital and labor have been staked on an uncertain card.

The impulsiveness, the volatility, the gambler's instinct have been evident in the personality Khrushchev exhibited in his two weeks in this country. It is no exaggeration to say that on his personality he put a high stake.

That he projected his humanness, his humor, his vitality, his earthy vigor through the medium of television is undeniable. Pittsburgh, with a large Eastern European population, had been considered a major security hurdle. Yet, in Pittsburgh he got the warmest reception of his tour.

The reason is not hard to discover. Those who followed him on television and were attracted by his personality wanted to get a glimpse of him in the flesh. Khrushchev was no longer the embodiment of an impersonal force, the evil and sinister force of Communism. He had come into the living rooms of millions of Americans as a personality measurable in familiar terms.

Similarly, his wife and children had passed across the magic screen as identifiable human beings. And the very fact he had brought his family with him is a measure of the daring of Khrushchev in his American adventure. Newspapers in the Soviet Union had never carried a picture of any member of his family. They have been almost completely unknown in accord with the austerity prevailing under Communism. Yet, he

Up From The Deep

DELAFIELD, Wis. — A moving van that had rested on the bottom of Lake Nagawicka for 38 years was reclaimed by Ray Salentine, a garage operator.

Salentine used a winch and cable to pull the 1912 Packard truck out of 35 feet of water. The vehicle, empty when found, was badly corroded, but Salentine hopes to restore it and add it to his collection of antique cars.

Around The Rim This Is It! The Friendly Ant!

Can you imagine an ant which not only will make his peace with mankind but actually will contribute to the betterment of his existence?

Karl Gosswald, a well known entomologist at the University of Wurtzburg in Germany, claims to have discovered how to breed a race of "ideal" ants for pest control purposes.

These are ants, says Gosswald, with a high production rate which will not only live on good terms with neighborhood ants (most ants get along with their neighbors like the Hatfields and the McCoy's), but will also kill other insects.

Foresters will find Gosswald's breed of ants especially helpful. The inmates of one large community of wood ants will kill about 10,000 insects each day.

Unfortunately, one of the largest and most insectivorous species of these ants is usually not charitably disposed toward other colonies of the same species, a fact which reduces the size and even eliminates some colonies. These ants are known as monodomous.

Gosswald has been working on the idea that even in monodomous ant communities there are numbers of ants with tendencies to defect. They are regarded as sociable and called polydomous. He believes that if he could single out these friendly ants from the truculent insects, he would be able to raise a new and useful race of ants.

This has been achieved, a news letter from Germany reveals, by grouping ants through a technique not unlike the human blood grouping system. The bodies of many thousands of ants were crushed and the resultant fluids analyzed by a method known to chemists as paper chromatography.

Gosswald learned through experiment among the inmates of one nest that there were ants with up to 24 different kinds of identifiable fluorescent substances in their bodies.

As these substances can be regarded as genetic clues or indicative of the inherent disposition of ants, it is apparent that even ants in the same species are not all alike in their characteristics.

Of course, Gosswald's ideal ant probably would be as likely as the next one to bug a picnic. He might be inclined to bow at the waist when he does it but chances are he'd carry off all his co-workers — friend and foe alike — to do the same.

Inez Robb Hevelius Got There First With A Pencil

When the recent Russian moon-shot collided with that great, glorious hub of green cheese, the facet of the feat that surprised me most was not the ability of an earthling to smack in the face the man in the moon.

No, the aspect that amazed me was the wide publicity in the newspapers of the moon maps. The maps reduced the moon to one great real estate subdivision, with the names of mountains, craters, lakes and seas as close packed on the map as if Zeckendorf had been there, Sharlie.

How in the world — or on the moon — I wondered had man already staked out by name everything on the moon surface, including bays, walls and marshes? It seemed to me that the only thing left for the first astronaut reaching the moon to do is lay out the roads and set up traffic lights.

So I hied me to New York's great Hayden Planetarium, which wheels and deals with stars and moons and suns in their courses, and asked its scientists and astronomers to explain Who put those names up there on the moon, anyway?

Well, sir, said the planetarium specialists, it was mainly the early-third astronomers with the first telescopes. They had a field day in the 17th Century and a virgin territory.

The first to get in his licks and probably the greatest moon-christener of them all was Johannes Hevelius, new Hevel, the great Polish astronomer. As far as is known, he published the first modern and relatively accurate map of the moon, thanks to that new-fangled invention, the telescope.

The invention of the telescope in 1608, and early improvements on it by no less than Galileo, enabled astronomers for the first time to get a "close-up" of the moon.

When Hevelius published his famous moon map in 1647 he had a name for almost everything. He christened left and right. The names have survived to this day.

From the poetic, brooding nomenclature Hevelius supplied, one can catch a glimpse of a fascinating, complex man as well as a great scientist. He provided the moon seas with names running from Sea of Tranquility to Sea of Crises, not to mention Seas of Clouds, Fertility, Cold, Serenity, Showers and Nectar.

Riccioli, the famous Italian astronomer, published his map of the moon only a few years after Hevelius. He, too, let himself go and christened to his heart's desire. He is credited with adding 200 new names to those already on Hevelius' map.

Almost 200 years later, two German astronomers, Wilhelm Beer and Johann H. von Madler, published a renowned map of the moon in 1836, and they, too, added a lot of names to those already supplied by Hevelius and Riccioli. Probably that explains the Wilhelm I crater.

Now, the moon is already endowed with one crater named for a Russian despot, Catherine the Great (Catharina, on the moon map).

But it will be a cold day, even on the moon, before the name of Russia's modern dictator, Nikita Khrushchev, is splashed across any moon territory. Today, moon christenings are not the province of the individual astronomer, but of the International Astronomical Union.

Names proposed for any new crater or sea or bay must first be presented to that organization. It has the final choice and say in such matters within the territorial province of June, soon and soon.

The impulsiveness, the volatility, the gambler's instinct have been evident in the personality Khrushchev exhibited in his two weeks in this country. It is no exaggeration to say that on his personality he put a high stake.

That he projected his humanness, his humor, his vitality, his earthy vigor through the medium of television is undeniable. Pittsburgh, with a large Eastern European population, had been considered a major security hurdle. Yet, in Pittsburgh he got the warmest reception of his tour.

The reason is not hard to discover. Those who followed him on television and were attracted by his personality wanted to get a glimpse of him in the flesh. Khrushchev was no longer the embodiment of an impersonal force, the evil and sinister force of Communism. He had come into the living rooms of millions of Americans as a personality measurable in familiar terms.

Similarly, his wife and children had passed across the magic screen as identifiable human beings. And the very fact he had brought his family with him is a measure of the daring of Khrushchev in his American adventure. Newspapers in the Soviet Union had never carried a picture of any member of his family. They have been almost completely unknown in accord with the austerity prevailing under Communism. Yet, he chose to take them out from behind this barrier as part of the humanizing process.

All this was particularly effective in this country because we have our own "cult of personality." President Eisenhower is one of the beneficiaries of the emphasis on personality as against the stern necessities of policy and issue.

Now that the "success" of the visit has been ratified, these same necessities must be faced up to. The belief is growing that Khrushchev will go the whole way in disarmament, accompanied by simultaneous control and inspection. He is preparing to take a gamble greater than any thus far in his career.

The United States cannot simply dismiss his sweeping proposal as propaganda, which was the first reaction to Khrushchev's United Nations speech. We must prepare to negotiate seriously on disarmament, radical and all-embracing to a degree little contemplated by American policy-makers. But how can any disarmament control and inspection, even that limited to a suspension of nuclear tests, be effective unless it includes Communist China? Would the Senate ratify a disarmament accord that excluded the great land mass of China?

Merely to ask such questions is to suggest how small is the thaw now initiated. The unfreezing process must go a long way beyond the ceremonial beginning if it is to have any meaning.

Millionaire For Day

NORFOLK, Va. — (AP) — Ronal L. Chewackin, 20, a sailor on the USS Waccamaw, asked his mother, Mrs. Art Chewackin of Minot, S. D., for $100 for travel expenses when he got his leave. When he opened his letter his eyes popped — the check was for $1,000,000. He sent it back for another check.

Easily Doused

MADISON, Wis. — Plenty of firemen were on hand when an unscheduled blizzard broke out.

Safety and rescue drills were being staged for the Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois Firemen's Assn. when a 7,200-volt power line touched off a fire on a truck being used in a mock rescue.

The blaze was put out quickly.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold without prescription—in May tablets called Primatene®.

Good Neighbor Policy

Children, their parents and a dog line up outside a Chevy Chase, Md., home to greet and shake hands with Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, wife of the Soviet Premier. Mrs. Khrushchev, after a tour of a model dry cleaning plant, made a surprise visit to the suburban home of John Armitage, a State Department official. It was her first visit to a suburban home and it brought out the neighbors.

Ike Asks International Development Loan Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today called for the creation of a billion-dollar international development association to extend easy-payment loans to underdeveloped nations.

The association would be a subsidiary of the World Bank.

Eisenhower made his suggestion in a brief address of welcome to the governing boards of the bank and the International Monetary Fund opening their annual meeting here.

Khrushchev Effect Like Rocket To Moon

Des Moines and Pittsburgh. Reporters made samplings in Atlanta, Dallas, Boston and Denver, where he did not appear.

In addition, a team of AP correspondents covered Khrushchev and talked with his audiences on the whole 12-day tour.

The following findings emerged:

1. Most of those questioned said they were uncertain in whether Khrushchev's visit would help ease international tensions. Tabulations showed 37 per cent holding this view. Many expressed hope. Many said "it can't hurt."
2. However, almost as many — 34 per cent — answered "yes" to this question.
3. Those who said "no" accounted for 29 per cent of the total.

Asked to give the reason they thought Khrushchev's visit might help ease the tensions, the overwhelming majority gave one of two answers: "He'll get to know us better" and "We'll understand him better."

"The exchange visits and the way Khrushchev explains conditions in Russia, all combined, will prevent a war," said Harry Reed, a San Francisco taxi driver.

"I hope this seeing our country and meeting our people will make him realize we don't want war," said Kenneth J. McCumber, Atlanta shipping executive.

"He'll find that people in this country are strong and not afraid," said Leo Bannister, a Queens, N.Y., accountant.

"I think he'll take back a feeling and convey it to the people of Russia that Americans want to be friendly," said Roland Mapelli, Denver meat company executive.

"It does give us a better understanding of the individual we've heard so much about," said Mel Hansen, Los Angeles aircraft factory foreman.

"He didn't come here to learn about us. He came to show off," said Charles Corbett, a New York City salesman.

"It's a grand big show for him," said Maryanne Day, a Washington library researcher.

"It's the biggest hoax that ever happened to this country," said W. B. Williams, Atlanta power company executive.

"The purpose of Khrushchev's trip was propaganda. I'm afraid he scored more points for his side," said Thomas Keenan, Los Angeles insurance adjuster.

Quite a number saw value in the fact that Khrushchev was able to get first-hand knowledge of the United States.

"It will give Khrushchev a more accurate picture of this country than he has been getting from his own sources," said the Rev. David Brown, of Dallas, Tex.

"Perhaps it will disprove some of the propaganda he has been hearing," said Elliott Harris, a New York City magazine executive.

"He impressed me that he's not an ogre," said George Viscin, San Francisco window cleaner.

Khrushchev impressed many Americans unfavorably.

"I got the impression he'd sooner lie than tell the truth," said Hubert Anderson, Glendale, Calif., warehouse shipper.

"A great showman but not to be trusted," said J. L. Oliver, Atlanta service station operator.

"He smiles but I don't think he's sincere," said Connie Birkhart, Pittsburgh secretary.

"A first-class diplomat with a terrific temper, and once in a while it gets the best of him," said Dr. Wallace Drake, Weymouth, Mass., physician.

"His temper seems childish and indicates instability," said Robert Anderson, Dallas housewife.

"He's astute, but his refusal to discuss issues on their merits indicates weakness," said Hudson McKee, Dallas public relations counselor.

"He got some straight questions but I noticed he wouldn't give any straight answers and that's where he lost me," said Nicholas Andree, Pittsburgh truck driver.

In his final television address Sunday night Khrushchev said he had received "many thousands" of telegrams and messages from Americans expressing friendliness and inviting him to their homes.

Others, however, told AP men covering his tour that they had been prepared to be friendly — until they saw and heard him.

Whatever Khrushchev's grand objective, he emerged in his tour as a unique figure in world diplomacy — admired, disliked, respected, feared by Americans who saw him at close range.

One Case Left On Civil List District Court

Only one case is left on the district court Civil Jury Docket which was opened at 10 a.m. today by Judge Charles Sullivan. All other cases on the docket have either been passed for the term or have been settled, Judge Sullivan said.

Case of C. T. Dalton, trustee of United Butane Co., a bankruptcy, versus L. I. Stewart, for debt, was the only case left on the docket. When court opened, it was announced that an attorney for the plaintiff in the case had died over the weekend in San Angelo.

It was agreed that the case be continued until Tuesday morning since rites for the deceased attorney are being conducted Monday afternoon.

Judge Sullivan excused the jurors who had reported with instructions to be back in court on Tuesday at 9 a.m.

This will be the last jury docket of the current court term. The next court term opens on the fourth Monday in October.

First Photo From Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explorer VI, the Paddle Wheel satellite, has provided the first crude picture of the earth and its cloud cover from out in space, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced today.

The picture, taken when the satellite was 17,000 miles out in space, covered the area of Mexico.

It was made from signals received by the South Point, Hawaii, tracking station Aug. 14.

"Thus the area photographed was more than 20,000 miles from the satellite," the NASA said at a news conference.

The two-pound camera device which took the picture was made by Space Technology Laboratories Inc., Inglewood, Calif.

While the earth was in the camera's field of view, the relative positions of earth, sun and satellite allowed only a crescent of the sunlit earth to be seen.

A black indentation on the upper right part of the crescent was caused by loss of data.

The signal transmission from which the picture was made was received early Aug. 14, or at 3:45 p.m. Hawaiian time, Aug. 13. At that time the central part of the Pacific was lighted, the North American continent was dark and Asian land masses were over the satellite's horizon. Explorer VI was launched Aug. 7.

Navy Unveils $400 Rocket

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A new triple-threat weapon that costs only $400 the Zuni rocket has been unveiled by the Navy.

The Zuni carries a secret warhead second only to an atomic blast in destructive power, its designers told a news conference Sunday.

It is 110 inches long, 5 inches in diameter and weighs 107 pounds. It is non-nuclear, unguided and designed for air-to-air and air-to-ground attack.

Baptists Meet

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 2,000 Baptist laymen open a statewide convention tonight emphasizing the theme of their religious belief and faith.

It is the annual session of the Texas Baptist Brotherhood, Gov. Price Daniel, a Baptist, will open the two-day session with an address. Luther Holman of Jacksonville will respond.

Satellite To Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discoverer V, America's 1,600-pound satellite, is expected to drop into the earth's atmosphere and burn up sometime before Wednesday. It will have orbited for a month and a half. The Air Force made the prediction Sunday.

DEAR ABBY

TOO AVERAGE

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Frequently you advise your readers to consult a clergyman or psychiatrist in an attempt to solve their problems. This is certainly sound counsel if the person involved is mentally or morally unbalanced. But for the average person, this is like suggesting they call the fire department to put out a cigarette butt. Sincerely yours,

AVERAGE PERSON DEAR ABBY: Perhaps you are right, but isn't it better to err on the side of over-caution? Many a forest fire has started with a cigarette butt. The fire department could easily put out a cigarette butt, but an average person could never hope to extinguish a forest fire with his tears.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a boy who is 12. My parents think he is the wrong kind of boy for me. I am 17 and think I am old enough to choose my own husband. I love this boy very much and we plan on getting married. Do you think my parents should interfere in my business?

GIRL IN LOVE DEAR GIRL: When your future is at stake, your business becomes your parents' business. Should you marry this boy and discover later that you made a mistake, where do you think you will run at the age of 17? And on whom can you depend for help? When you are self-supporting and independent, you may make your own decisions. But not until.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend who always calls me up and tells me who had a party and didn't invite me. Usually she wasn't invited either, but she knows who has parties.

Sometimes she says the party was real big and I find out later it was just a little get-together with only a few people.

I don't like to tell her it bothers me to hear about all these parties I'm left out of, but how can I do it? Is there any way I can get my point across without hurting her feelings? NOT INVITED

DEAR NOT: What feelings? With friends like her, you don't need any enemies. Tell her in plain English that you are not interested in her party reports.

DEAR ABBY: While visiting my husband's brother recently, his wife told me that we are supposed to buy their son his confirmation suit because they named him after my husband.

They say that this is the custom. I have never heard of this custom. Have you or any of your readers ever heard of it? Thank you. PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I, too, am puzzled. I have never heard of this custom. In my opinion, there is only one good reason for giving a gift of any kind. And that is because the giver WANTS to.

'Showcase' Is Proof Drama Not Dead Yet

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Those who have been loudly mourning the gradual disappearance of good serious drama from the television screen should give three cheers and a bulldog for NBC's Sunday Showcase. Or at least they should give it their attention because good adult drama is what the producers are trying for.

Sunday night is getting tough on the viewer. There are all these hour-long shows and they overlap each other.

NBC had three in a row Sunday night, a situation complicated by Ed Sullivan on CBS with a special 90-minute show and John hungry for Hollywood success and money. As a television play, adapted from the book by its author Budd Schulberg, it makes gripping viewing. If the central character isn't quite as shocking anymore it's because in 20 years Sammy Glick has become an American prototype.

Larry Blyden in the title role is a vital, electric and absolutely convincing heel. John Forsythe is fine as Al, Sammy's idealistic friend. Sunday night we saw Sammy claw and cheat his way from office boy to $500-a-week film writer. Next week we'll see him scratch and steal his way to the top of the movie heap. Don't miss it.

Almost all the long shows of the Daly on ABC with a special documentary. Then there was "The Splendid American," a filmed documentary about a group of Americans—a doctor, a teacher and an agriculture expert among them—who are helping improve the lot of the people of troubled Laos. Narrated by John Daly, the 60-minute show was designed to refute "Ugly American" stories. It was an excellent idea but except for one portion showing the clinic of Dr. Thomas A. Dooley and an interview of the dedicated young man it was rather dull and preachy.

Film Crossroads: Apathy, Censorship

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In "Blue Denim," teen-ager Carol Lynley is going to have a baby by Brandon DeWilde, who arranges an abortion.

In "They Came to Cordura" Rita Hayworth is almost raped by Van Heflin and Richard Conte, later gives herself to Heflin for the night in order to save Gary Cooper.

In "Anatomy of a Murder" such terms as spermogenesis, sexual climax and panties are discussed in testimony.

In "Horse Soldiers" Constance Towers in a low-cut dress leans toward John Wayne with a plate of chicken and asks if he would like to have a breast.

These and many other recent films have pointed up the fact that morality in Hollywood movies has undergone a change. And what a change!

Producers are looking for new and often shocking stories with which to entice the public into the theaters. They feel they must—or else be wiped out as an industry.

Does this mean Hollywood is going crazy with no moral restraints?

Of course not. Says studio boss Buddy Adler: "It would be a very bad day for the industry if there were no production code or some form of restriction on producers. Anybody who wants to do away with the code is crazy."

There are some movie makers who would like to scrap the code, which has censored Hollywood films for nearly 30 years. But industry leaders know the code is the bulwark against the multitude of would-be censors in government and religion.

But the code, a human document, can be interpreted to suit the times. And it can be changed.

The last big change came in 1956. Until then, movies could not even suggest dope addiction, abortion, miscegenation or white slavery and swearing was never heard.

Today the movie makers are at the crossroads. Should they face the wrath of the moralists or the apathy of the public? The latter seems more fatal.

Among the provisions of Hollywood's production code: Adultery and illicit sex, sometimes necessary plot material, shall not be explicitly treated, nor shall they be justified or made to seem right or permissible.

Seduction or rape should never be more than suggested, and then only when essential to the plot.

The subject of abortion shall be discouraged, shall never be more than suggested, and when referred to shall be condemned.

The sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld. No film shall infer that casual or promiscuous sex relationships are the accepted or common thing.

In general, passion should be treated in such a manner as not to stimulate the baser emotions.

Next: Are movies exploiting sex for sex's sake? Churchmen vs. movie makers.

Cooler Air Enters State

By The Associated Press

Cooler air spilled into the Panhandle Monday behind a cold front that was edging southward across the state.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 50 degrees at Dalhart to 83 at Brownsville. Skies were partly cloudy in Central and East Texas and clear in the western portion of the state.

Temperatures Sunday afternoon were generally in the 90s. The highest maximum reported was 104 at Mineral Wells and the lowest was 89, reported by both El Paso and Galveston.

The forecasts called for cooler weather in Northwest Texas Monday, spreading into North Central and Southwest Texas Tuesday. Scattered thundershowers were predicted for the eastern and central portions.

There was little rainfall in the state Sunday. For the 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Sunday Beaumont had 19 inches, Houston .02 and Laredo a trace.

MAGNOLIA PROUDLY CHANGES ITS NAME TO Mobil Magnolia Petroleum Company A Secondary Mobil Company P. O. BOX 900 • DALLAS 21, TEXAS J. L. LATIMER President To our Friends and Neighbors: On October 1, 1959, Magnolia Petroleum Company assumes a new name... Mobil Oil Company. Because of its identification with our products, the new name is both familiar and trusted throughout the Southwest. Certainly that is as it should be, for Magnolia has been the Southwestern affiliate and a member of the Mobil family for over 30 years. As friends, neighbors and business associates, we are confident that Magnolia people have earned the respect and goodwill of those with whom we do business. You may be sure we will work even harder in the future to deserve that same esteem. Changes now being made will enable us to meet increasing competition on a nation-wide basis and use more fully the skills and talent of Mobil people from coast to coast. Naturally, questions are being asked concerning this change and its effect on future operations. For many members of the Magnolia family, the change will be one in name only. Most of our neighbors will find themselves dealing with the same people... the friendly and familiar faces of Magnolia employees who will be Mobil employees after October 1. Top quality Mobil products, with world-wide popularity, will be made and distributed in the Southwest, as they have in the past. The Mobil Dealer in your neighborhood, whose products and skilled services you have used with confidence, will have even better facilities to serve you. J. L. Latimer President, Magnolia Petroleum Company
