Braceros on the farm of Lawrence Hoelscher, St. Lawrence Route at Garden City, shake hands with his son, Jerome Hoelscher, as they board a bus for their return trip to Mexico this morning. Some 1,300 braceros have gone back since last Thursday.

Chilly, Wet Days Stir Up Nostalgia Among Braceros

More than 1,300 braceros in the Howard County, restless with inactivity caused by rain, have swarmed into contract offices in Big Spring since last Thursday for transportation to Mexico. "They are all over the streets," Mrs. Vera Lee Johns, office worker at Farm Growers Assn. declared this morning.

Cecil Leatherwood, manager of the Farm Growers office, said he has been averaging at least 300 a day since last Thursday, and that today he had to send at least 75 back to farms because of a lack of transportation facilities. James Fryer, manager of the Howard County Farm Assn., which

Grand Jury Convenes For Probe Of Lynching Case

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP)—The Pearl River grand jury convenes today with the spotlight on the Mack Charles Parker lynching case.

The FBI, called into the case by Gov. J. P. Coleman, turned over a voluminous report to Mississippi authorities. It reportedly contains names and statements of chief suspects. Broom said he would read it to the grand jury. He said the jury may call the FBI to present its evidence if it desires.

Parker, 23, a Negro truck driver from Lumberton, was charged with raping a white mother, who was pregnant. The woman said she and her 5-year-old daughter were sitting in the family car on a desolate road. Her husband had gone to get help to repair the car. A Negro drove up, dragged her from the car into the woods and, with her daughter looking on raped her.

also contracts workers, said he is averaging 60 a day. Leatherwood said he normally has three buses in operation taking the workers to Eagle Pass, but that one is broken down. Normally he can process 183 braceros a day on the return trips. Leatherwood said part of the crush is caused because farmers fail to give the association any notice that braceros are leaving. He said the association is supposed to get a five-day notice. Leatherwood said part of the braceros for farmers in Howard, Martin and Glascock Counties and had 3,500 here at the peak of the season. Frye said he had some 2,500 braceros contracted in Howard County.

Most of the workers leaving now are doing so because of the weather, but contracts of some have expired. He has protested before about the absence from negotiations of Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel; Charles White, board chairman of Republic Steel; and President A. B. Horner of Bethlehem Steel.

Doctor's Small Daughters Die In Home Blaze

HOUSTON (AP)—A doctor's three small daughters burned to death yesterday when a fire which spread from a candle lit in a jack-o'-lantern destroyed their home.

Investigators called the gutted $50,000 home of Dr. Bryan Forsiter in fashionable River Oaks the worst such fire they had ever seen.

They sifted the ruins for clues to the cause of the blaze which killed Brenda, 6, Leasa Rader, 5, and Patricia, 2. The jack-o'-lantern left in a chair near the window drew the immediate blame. "I figure the candle caught the drapes on fire," investigator B. A. Cook said. Patrolman W. A. Addison noticed the lantern as he drove by about 2 a.m. "Everything was quiet. . . . Just a jack-o'-lantern shaped like a horse's head burning in the window," he said. The doctor told police smoke awakened him about 4 a. m. Frantically, he tried to make his way across the hall to his children's room. Flames drove him back.

He and his wife climbed out of their window to a first floor roof. He jumped to the ground and she climbed down a tree. The flames were "boiling out the windows." Fire Chief J. F. Little said. "A man told me his little girls were inside and several of my men chopped the door down and tried to get them." Little's men found the three small bodies huddled together on a bed.

STEEL STRIKE U. S. Mediators Re-Enter Parleys

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal mediators met separately with both sides in the 111-day-old steel strike for 75 minutes today with no indication a settlement was near.

Federal Conciliator Joseph F. Finnegan set further meetings for 1:30 p. m. (EST) with management negotiators, and 4 p. m. (EST) with negotiators for the striking United Steelworkers Union. Finnegan showed no particular optimism. David J. McDonald, steelworkers president, had only a glum appraisal of settlement prospects.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, told newsmen "it is now apparent that the union is determined to force a 'skaiser-high' settlement on the steel industry and the nation."

BE PRESENT Before going into session with the mediators, McDonald complained to newsmen that many of the top steel company officials were absent, declaring: "I don't think a summit conference could be held if the presidents and premiers were not present. Nothing can happen if they sulk in their homes and their offices," he said.

Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and leader of the management negotiating team, declined to comment or make any appraisal of prospects for an agreement. "We're here to find out," he said. Joseph F. Finnegan, chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, met first with union negotiators. Federal mediators moved back into the strike picture, shifting the deadlocked negotiations from Pittsburgh to Washington a day before the Supreme Court is to hear arguments in the government's suit to halt the strike with an 80-day Taft-Hartley Act injunction.

NOT LONG McDonald said he figured that "if some of the great bankers would give the signal to the Bloughs and the Whites and the Homers, etc., it wouldn't take long to reach a Kaiser-type settlement."

McDonald pictured the top industry officials as "waiting impatiently for a Taft-Hartley injunction so they can continue their strike against the American people."

As board chairman of the Kaiser Steel Corp., Kaiser agreed last week to a 20-month contract with the United Steelworkers Union. He estimated its cost at 19 1/2 cents hourly per man, not counting a cost of living rise that could add as much as three cents. "The final agreement," Kaiser said on a television program, "will be close to the economic package we offered. The contract

U. S. Team Seeks Saline Plant Site

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government selection board leaves Tuesday on an inspection trip aimed at picking a site for a demonstration plant in the Southwest to convert brackish water into liquid fit for humans. The government will build 5 plants costing up to 10 million dollars to test as many different techniques for water purification. Three will handle salt water, two brackish water.

The finding of a low-cost technique for conversion of such water would be, in the opinion of a federal official, a scientific achievement of major rank. The selection board, named by the Interior Department, will look over Safford, Ariz.; Santa Rosa, Alamogordo, Roswell and Carlsbad, N.M.; and Pecos, Monahans, Ballinger, Stamford and Wichita Falls, Tex.

The five plants will be at Freeport, Tex.; San Diego, Calif.; in the Southwest, in the northern Great Plains area and on the East Coast.

The Federal Office of Saline Water has in the past four months awarded or renewed contracts to language, I don't know. It may be a much deeper issue." One of the biggest obstacles to agreement has been the companies' insistence on contract changes which would give them more leeway in changing working rules. The union strongly opposes this.

Rails Present Plans Today

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's railroads today present their work rules to five railroad operating unions representing 210,000 members.

The proposals, which may turn out to be the most disputed in recent labor history, were made public Sunday by the Assn. of American Railroads in advance of presentation to the unions. The issue about which the proposals center is what the railroads term "featherbedding"—forced payment for work neither done nor needed.

The railroads claim present work rules for operating personnel cost them more than 500 million dollars annually. Some of the working agreements which the railroads seek to change have been in effect for about 40 years. A three-year moratorium against changing the rules expired Saturday.

Meeting Opens CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The 74th annual Baptist General Convention of Texas opens today with 6,000 delegates attending what some have said will be the most significant session in recent history.

Algerian Rebellion Begins Its 6th Year

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian nationalist rebellion against French rule began its sixth year Sunday with the usual daily hit-and-run terrorism and French military operations in the mist-shrouded mountains.

Terrorist attacks killed 4 persons and wounded 39 at various points in the North African territory. Military casualties were not announced. But the daily average, according to French figures, is about 80 rebels killed or captured, and 10 killed and 50 wounded in the French forces.

The long for peace was great among Algeria's one million Europeans and nine million Moslems. But peace seemed far away in the atmosphere of suspicion, fear and despair. Rebels struck in bands and individually in Algiers and other cities Sunday. Terrorists threw bombs and grenades into cafes and crowded streets, let loose with machinegun fire, derailed a train 25 miles south of Algiers and cut high tension wires near Sidi Aissa. A village chief was kidnapped and killed near Ain-Temouchent. A French territorial guard was killed by a rebel patrol in Affreyville, southwest of Algiers.

The semi-official French News Agency said about 250,000 persons have been killed, injured or imprisoned since the rebellion broke out Nov. 1, 1954. The agency gave this breakdown: 120,000 rebels killed, 60,000 taken prisoner; 10,000 French soldiers killed, 22,000 wounded; 1,700 European civilians killed, 4,500 wounded, 300 missing; 12,000 Moslem civilians killed, 9,000 wounded, 10,000 missing. Gestures towards negotiations to end the fighting have aroused misgivings among both the Europeans and rebels.

The French government only three days ago gave assurance to worried Europeans and their Moslem collaborators that France would not abandon the territory or engage in political negotiations with the rebels. President Charles de Gaulle has promised a free referendum in Algeria within four years after peace is restored and offered three possible choices—integration with France, home rule under the protection of France or independence.

NO LETUP IN WET WEATHER IS FORESEEN

More rain to come. The month of October bowed out with showers, and November arrived with more of the same. The weather bureau predicts still more rain, with fog and drizzle becoming mostly cloudy through Tuesday. It also predicts widely scattered showers in the vicinity. There were 2.77 inches of rainfall in October, making the total for the first 10 months 21.39.

Conductors and brakemen, the Switchmen's Union of North America, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

The railroads are represented by the Eastern, Western and South-eastern Carriers Conference committees. These are the changes proposed by the railroads: 1. Revision of the 40-year-old pay standard, based on mileage, for engine and train crews to reflect increased train speeds. 2. Elimination of rules prohibiting crews from operating through present crew-change points, in order to end multiple changes on short train runs. 3. Erasure of arbitrary lines drawn between the work that may be performed by road crews and yard crews.

4. Establishment of the right for management to determine when firemen should be used on diesel and other non-steam locomotives in freight and yard service. 5. Elimination of all rules which stipulate the number of crew members required. 6. Ending of rules which require idle standby operating employees when self-propelled equipment is used in track maintenance, repair or inspection.

The railroads and three key unions are presently deadlocked in wage negotiations.

Congress Panel Told Of Deception

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles Van Doren, his boyish face drawn and his eyes bloodshot, confessed today he followed script in giving the apparently impromptu answers which made him a TV quiz show celebrity. "I was deeply involved in a deception," Van Doren told House investigators.

He also confessed he gave false testimony to a New York grand jury investigating the quiz shows. The youthful professor, intellectual scion of a noted literary family, admitted he had given the wrong answers in denying previously the show on which he won $129,000 was rigged in his favor. Van Doren's appearance before the House subcommittee conducting its own quiz into TV question and answers programs was as dramatic as his weekly displays of mental wizardry on the since abolished "Twenty-One" show.

The hearing room was packed as Van Doren entered from a side door to evade reporters and photographers. Only those who could squeeze into the chamber were able to see Van Doren relate the details of a personal ordeal in which he wrestled with his conscience and finally bowed to a producer's urging that he rehearse the baffling questions and answers which made him famous. The hearing, under House rules, was neither televised nor broadcast. Before reading a statement—prepared in advance—Van Doren asked for a glass of water. Then he told all.

He followed a script, admitted the young professor who became the best known of all big money winners in the heyday of quiz shows. He was coached on mannerisms. He was cautioned against spelling out the answers. He hesitated and grimaced before the cameras, he said, to build up suspense. Van Doren said he is now agrieved that he gave in to the persuasive arguments of Albert Freedman, a producer of the show—that, after all, it was only entertainment for the millions of TV viewers.

Things Not Always As They Seem

"I learned a lot about good and evil," Van Doren said. "and I learned that things are not always the way they appear to be." Answering questions posed this time by the congressional investigators, Van Doren later testified that in late January 1957, while he still was on "Twenty-One" Freedman demanded $5,000 of his potential winnings.

Van Doren hurriedly added that he didn't think Freedman meant it. Nothing came of it, he said. The incident occurred, Van Doren related, when Freedman approached him one night "and told me I was to be the first contestant to win more than $100,000."

"I knew I could not lie anymore," Van Doren said. "I was told he became aware he had been running away from himself. But he couldn't bring himself to face the situation at that time."

'Help' For Intellectual Life

A telling argument Freedman used, Van Doren said, was that as the scion of a famous literary family and a member of the Columbia University faculty, Van Doren would "increase public respect for the intellectual life, for the teaching profession" by making a good showing.

He said Freedman also told him "it was all entertainment" and coaching of contestants was routine. "Perhaps I wanted to believe it," Van Doren told the committee. "Foolishly and wrongly I persuaded myself it was all true."

Van Doren appeared before a packed audience with crowds waiting outside. This time his questions and answers were not televised, since such broadcasts are prohibited by House rules. Van Doren started his testimony with a prepared statement telling how he was coached and given answers. He admitted he testified falsely before the New York grand jury. Van Doren said he stood by on the Twenty-One program for several weeks without actually appearing. Finally, he said, Freedman summoned him to his apartment and took him into a bedroom.

Doren's eyes as he related the incident. "I'm very sorry to have to mention this," he said. Freedman "never repeated it," Van Doren said, adding: "No arrangements of any kind were ever made between me and Mr. Freedman."

Van Doren kept his emotions in check as he read his prepared statement. He read rapidly, however, and it was obvious that he was undergoing turmoil. Reporting his reactions after receiving the subcommittee's invitation to testify last month, he said: "I knew I could not lie anymore."

He said he became aware he had been running away from himself. But he couldn't bring himself to face the situation at that time.

add to the entertainment value of the program. Stempel was a major witness earlier before the subcommittee and the New York grand jury. He testified he was given answers and thoroughly coached for his Twenty-One appearances. Van Doren said he pleaded to be allowed to compete honestly, but was persuaded otherwise.

At first, he said, Freedman guaranteed him $1,000 winnings for appearing on one show. Ultimately Van Doren won $129,000.

After his Twenty-One career he signed a $50,000 a year contract with the National Broadcasting Co. Since the question of his being in on rigged TV shows arose he has been suspended from that job. It took Van Doren about half an hour to read his prepared statement.

When he had finished, Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) said: "I want to compliment you on this statement."

And Robert Lishman, committee counsel, said he had no questions to ask because the statement in itself was "so complete" an exposure of "this whole sordid mess."

Hard Work, Reliability Pay Off For Civil Servant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Over the years, Livingston T. Merchant has acquired the reputation of a hard working civil servant on whom you can rely to get a job done. Now it's paying off with his elevation to the No. 3 job in the State Department.

After graduating from Princeton University in 1926, Merchant had a career as an investment counselor and financier before joining the State Department in 1942. His first job there was assistant chief of the division of defense materials. Merchant started late in State

DEAR ABBY

HE'LL BE SORRY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman who recently married a widower with a 9-year-old daughter. We are all very happy. There is only one irritation. My husband wants me to tell everyone that this child is my own. I love this child, Abby, and I wish she were my own, but she isn't. I am very young looking, and the few times I've told people she was my own they looked at me as though they suspected I got into trouble when I was 13 or 14.

I have asked my husband to please let me tell people that this is his child by a previous marriage. The child knows it, but he has instructed her to tell everyone I am her real mother. Can you help me, or am I wrong to feel this way? NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: When you meet people for the first time, there is no need to tell them whether the child is your own or not. Should anyone remark on the fact that you appear too young to have a daughter that age, it is certainly proper for you to tell them that the child was your husband's by a previous marriage. If you deliberately lie, questions will be raised about the real parenthood of this child, and no good will come of it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress. There is an elderly man who comes in every morning about 10 o'clock. He orders a 10-cent cup of coffee (no cream) to sit while he reads his newspaper. He always leaves me a 50-cent tip. The other girls kid me about him. They call him my boyfriend and tell me to watch out!

He has never said anything more than "Good morning" to me. He just smiles. Do you think he is just big-hearted, or is he looking for something? SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Not everyone is looking for something. I once asked a man why he left such out-of-proportion tips. He replied, "That's the way the girl makes her living. You never know how many mouths she has to feed at home." That man was my father.

DEAR ABBY: For nine years I have ignored, stifled and glossed over the nasty things my mother-in-law said that hurt me deeply. Finally I could take no more, so I talked it over with my husband to see if he could straighten it out. He straightened it out all right. Rather than hurt his mother feelings, he told her I wanted nothing to do with her WHOLE family. This included my husband's father, sisters and brothers, whom I loved.

Now, no one in his family will have a thing to do with me. I am completely out of the family picture because my husband has made me "mud" in their eyes. How can I make my husband see that he was wrong to hurt me to keep from hurting his mother?

"MUD" IN THEIR EYES DEAR MUD: Your husband certainly pitched you a curve. Now he has a little more "straightening out" to do. Give him his choice. Ask him if HE wants to tell his family the truth—or does he want you to? It's admirable of a son to want to spare his mother's feelings—but not at the expense of his wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am a member of a family who recently lost an aged and beloved mother. We are being severely criticized because we did not all go to the mortuary the day before the funeral. We all loved our mother very much. We're very emotional and did not want to display our grief publicly. In her death notice we published the fact that we would receive friends and relatives in my home, which is a few blocks from the mortuary. We requested the casket be closed during the funeral services as we didn't want the agony of viewing her for the last time. Do you think we were disrespectful to our mother? LOVING CHILDREN

DEAR LOVING CHILDREN: Ignore the criticism. The Lord (and I am sure your mother) knew what was best. He has a plan for everyone. Who else matters? CONFIDENTIAL TO "JOSIE" at the "BASE": Your boyfriend's "image" tricks should be very helpful. Tell him if he doesn't come up with a wedding ring by December, he can make himself disappear.

What's your problem? For a personal reply write to ABBY, care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fog, Drizzle Cover Texas

By The Associated Press

Fog, drizzle and clouds covered most of Texas today and the Weather Bureau promised widely scattered showers over portions of the state tomorrow.

A light drizzle fell on flood-torn Houston yesterday but flood waters in that area began receding allowing some families to clean the dirt and debris from their homes. Two persons died as a result of the floods in Houston.

Rain fell yesterday in portions of South Texas and a few points in West Texas. The Victoria, Alice and Kingsville areas received the heaviest rains. Victoria had .62 inches, Kingsville .29, Cotulla .09, Waco .09, and Abilene and Alpine .01. A trace of rain fell at Austin, Midland, El Paso, Fort Worth, Laredo and Lubbock.

Heavy fog settled on Houston yesterday cutting visibility to 100 feet and halting shipping activities in that area. Some roads in the southwest part of Houston were still covered to a depth of four feet yesterday and police patrolled the flooded areas to prevent looting.

The high temperature yesterday was 86 degrees at Brownsville and Harlingen.

Anderson Brings About Hard Reappraisal Of Foreign Aid

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert B. Anderson, the quiet man who is secretary of the Treasury, has quietly brought about a hard-eyed reappraisal of the U.S. foreign aid program.

Just as important, he has put across a new policy designed to insure that a bigger proportion of U.S. loans to underdeveloped countries are spent in the United States.

Working behind the scenes, Anderson won administration backing for these major policy moves without touching off an acrimonious public debate.

His performance has solidified the widespread impression here that he is the most influential member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

While the secretary's aides take pains to point out that Eisenhower made the decisions and his policies are administration policies, Anderson was the architect.

He acted because he felt some changes might be made in the aid program that would help stem the outflow of gold and dollars from the United States.

This outflow, measured in terms of the country's balance of international payments, will reach four billion dollars this year. Since trade produces a surplus, all of this deficit results from military spending abroad, foreign aid and private investment overseas.

As the Treasury chief, it is Anderson's job to watch this deficit because it inevitably affects the stability of the dollar.

Critics say that the benefits to be gained from tying development loans to purchases in the United States are piddling compared to the potential harm.

They say it represents a turning-away from this country's liberal trade policy and may encourage protectionist forces.

Anderson does not see himself as a protectionist but as an internationalist. He believes the payments deficit itself would strengthen protectionist forces if it is not curbed.

To the plain-spoken, mild-mannered Texan, the new development loan policy makes plain horse sense at a time when this country is losing dollars.

In dollars and cents the new policy is unlikely to have a profound effect soon. From Anderson's point of view, this may not be too important.

The secretary has always emphasized the importance of confidence, which often can be influenced as much by psychology as by measurable developments.

An aide, echoing Anderson's view, said: "What if we provide cash for a country and say, 'go buy yourself a power plant in West Germany.' Would we be helping that country or West Germany, which doesn't need any help?"

In dollars and cents the new policy is unlikely to have a profound effect soon. From Anderson's point of view, this may not be too important.

The secretary has always emphasized the importance of confidence, which often can be influenced as much by psychology as by measurable developments.

An aide, echoing Anderson's view, said: "What if we provide cash for a country and say, 'go buy yourself a power plant in West Germany.' Would we be helping that country or West Germany, which doesn't need any help?"

Science TV Program A Weekend Shocker

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The most dramatic program of the weekend was neither a drama nor a so-called special. It was "Conquest," CBS' science series, which returned to television Sunday with a shocker for the sentimental. It showed film of a research project which is exploding some widely held beliefs on the subject of a child's love for his mother.

Host Charles Collingwood visited the primate laboratories at the University of Wisconsin where psychologists are experimenting with baby rhesus monkeys, in an effort to learn more about human development.

Some of the project monkeys, separated from their natural mothers at birth, have been provided with two substitute mothers: one a metal frame with an aperture through which nursing bottles can be placed; the other, a metal frame padded with cheesecloth.

The little monkeys all chose the inanimate, padded substitute — to play near or on, to cling to when frightened, to hug. They merely took food from the metal mothers. This, said Dr. Harry Harlow, suggests the feeding function of a mother has less to do with the child's religious and affection than what he calls "contact comfort."

Baby monkeys, when frightened, flung themselves upon their cheesecloth mothers, soon becoming calm and regaining their feeling of security. This was followed by their curiosity about the very thing which had frightened them.

Baby monkeys which had neither real nor substitute mothers, were pathetic little beasts which huddled forlornly in the corner. The experiments show that all babies must have something to love—even if it is only a padded metal frame—if they are to develop. If they don't have this contact comfort at a critical period in their young lives—Dr. Harlow suggests this period is between three months and a year in human babies—they may never be able to learn to love at all.

It was a fascinating, enlightening and thought-provoking program.

Milton Berle's NBC special turned out to be another hour-long "I Love Lucy," which was no better, no worse, and not even much different from those recent CBS hour-long shows built around the Ricardo's adventures. None of them has been up to the standard of the old half-hour Lucy series.

This one had Milton and Lucy, in Las Vegas, getting mixed up with some jewel thieves. There was a lot of running around but not many laughs and it was a dull, pedestrian hour.

Ed Murrow, on "Small World," presided over a conversation between Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion in Israel and former Burma Premier U Nu in Hong Kong. The conversation ranged from their hopes for peace and mutual disappointment with the United Nations to a discussion of the similarities and differences of Judaism and Buddhism: the former believing in God, the latter believing in fate.

"If I have ill luck, nothing can prevent me from assassination," said U Nu, smiling cheerfully.

The experiments show that all babies must have something to love—even if it is only a padded

Sandburg Aids Dedication Of His Namesake School

LEVITOWN, Pa. (AP)—"Poetry is a silver of the moon in the belly of a frog."

"Slang is language that rolls up its sleeves, spits on its hands, and goes to work without fuss."

"The past is a bucket of ashes, nor so live not to your yesterdays, nor just for tomorrow, but in the here and now. Keep moving and forget the postmortems. And remember, no one can get the jump on the future."

It'll be Carl Sandburg talking, richly, in a tongue the world has come to know as one of literary greatness and of mountains-to-prairie wisdom.

A decidedly special occasion it is, too, which has brought him to this sprawling, teeming town of over 75,000 which is not yet 10 years old. The community's newest junior high school, named after him, is being dedicated today.

Gathered round him will be the kind of audience he likes best, a cross-section of life in this country — children with growing pains, many of them awkward, restless, confused in a world of pull and haul; parents and teachers, often as mixed up as the kids, but aiming for what's best; farmers bucketing into town for a gander at this authentic American, the 82-year-old poet and minstrel, biographer and historian, with the cowl of white hair over his forehead, the slightly twisted grin, the built-in radar system for spotting humbug, and equally for finding true beauty.

A few intellectuals will be around, but what is happening today is not really for them. Sandburg means to draw upon his works, his colorful, many-sided life, his knowledge of Lincoln and of human nature to let the crowds, young and old, know how thrilled he is to be honored in this way.

"It is grand. It is swell. It is all the things that give some teachers conniptions when you use such adjectives. They tell you that you shouldn't use them because they ain't pure English—whatever that is. The English language hasn't got where it is by being pure."

Someone once said, affectionately, "When Carl runs out of facts he picks up his guitar and makes sweet music." The guitar is bound to be much in play this day, making music to Sandburg's resonant rhythms.

New Mexico State University, where Big Springer Charley Johnson has been starring this fall, reportedly will have an even stronger team in 1960.

Buddy Travis, the HCJC cage mentor, said he is more pleasantly surprised with the progress Stamford's Ronald Weeks has shown since practice got under way than any other boy in camp.

Young Weeks, who stands nearly 6-feet-4 and weighs 190, never got a chance to play much basketball in high school because he played football and his team invariably reached the playoffs.

Lonnie Holland, the former Plainview great who went to the University of Oklahoma and then transferred to Houston, set a Cougar record recently when he played 50 minutes, 11 seconds at the quarterback spot against North Texas State.

Dick Hoover, of St. Louis, one of the bowling greats, was only 16 when he rolled an 847 series in Akron, Ohio, in 1946.

Jess Neely, the veteran Rice Institute mentor, made nine line-up changes immediately prior to the Owls' game with Clemson last week but left Boyd of Abilene as the No. 1 center ahead of Big Spring's Jerry Graves.

The only other player to hold his first string job was guard Bobby Lively.

A couple of the regulars were dropped to the third team.

R. L. Lasater, the Big Spring High School sprinter who checked in his football togs recently, says he might possibly try the sport again next fall.

Grandfalls, which joins the District 3 eight-man football conference next fall, is coached by Homer Jefferson, who was head mentor at Colorado City in 1958.

Garden City, Forsan, Klondike and Sterling City will be other members of District 3 while Flower Grove, Christoval, Mertzon, Water Valley and Dawson — all now playing eight-man ball — would drop to six-man and compose District 7. The winner of the District 3 eight-man setup draws a bye into the regional finals.

Sands (composed of Ackery and Knott students) steps into 11-man ball and will compose part of District 4. B. Sands' opponents within the league will be Lorenzo, Cooper, New Deal, New Home and Wilson.

49ers May Make It This Time: Wilson

By ALAN CLINE
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Who's going to stop the San Francisco 49ers, surprising front runners in the National Football League's Western Division?

Detroit management, after the Lions took a 33-7 whipping Sunday, aren't figuring on anyone halting the 49ers, at the top with a 5-1 mark.

Forty-nineer Coach Red Hickey concurred.

"The 49ers are good," said Lion coach George Wilson. "They've got the feeling they can win. They're going to be hard to beat."

Edwin Anderson, president of the Detroit club, added in congratulating Hickey:

"You have a real good football team and you should go all the way."

Hickey commented: "This club just won't be licked. There's nothing they can't do."

That could be an overstatement, but his team did just about everything against the Lions. It took two plays to start the scoring before a crowd of 59,064 in sunny Kezar Stadium.

Fox was awarded the sportsmanship brotherhood's plaque given each year on the anniversary of Rice's birthday for an outstanding example of sports writing in the Rice tradition.

Many notable sports figures attended the dinner at the Hotel Astor.

Previous award winners were Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner, Red Smith of the New York Herald Tribune, Sec Taylor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and Frank Graham of the New York Journal-American.

Harold W. Handley, governor of Indiana, sent a written tribute of Fox, saying "his own record of achievement and journalistic superiority merits the distinction you are now giving him."

JIMMY BROWN SCORES 5 TIMES IN VICTORY

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jimmy Brown finally exploded, jarring Baltimore's world champion Colts out of the Western Conference lead and making Cleveland a contender again in the East as the National Football League races hit the halfway mark.

The 6-2, 228-pound bulldozer mixed speed with power for five touchdowns Sunday, triggering the near-record performance with the longest gain of his pro career—a 70-yard rumble with a pitchout that got Cleveland rolling on a 38-31 victory over the Colts at Baltimore.

The Browns' feared fullback fell one short of tying the NFL record, but is only the third player to score five TDs in a single game. He is the first to do it in eight years.

With Cleveland backing Browns break-through with a defense that was tough when needed, San Francisco's surprising 49ers leapfrogged the Colts into the Western Division, a 5-1 record to Baltimore's 4-2.

Cleveland's third straight success left the Browns in a second place tie with Philadelphia in the East behind the New York Giants. The Giants (5-1) retained their one-game edge by smacking Green Bay 20-3.

Philadelphia worked a 30-23 job on Washington. The other games went to the two Chicago teams, with the Cardinals walloping Pittsburgh 45-24 and the Bears beating Los Angeles 26-21.

Northwestern, also 7-0 after turning up a new weekly star in fullback Mike Stock in a 30-13 whipping of Indiana, all but nails the Rose Bowl trip if it beats Wisconsin, 19-10 winner over Michigan. Southern California, ranked sixth nationally and 6-0 after rallying to beat California 14-7, ordinarily would be the foe but the Trojans are ineligible. So it's Washington (6-1) in the lead for the host spot at Pasadena.

Brown, who has led the NFL in rushing for each of his two campaigns, setting a record with a 1,527 net last season, upped his six-game 1959 total to 737 yards—a 123-yard average.

He carried 32 times and moved 178 yards. His other TDs came on a 17-yard run and three plunges.

Ernie Nevers set the one-game record of six touchdowns with the Cardinals against the Bears 30 years ago, and Cleveland's Bill Jones matched it, also against the Bears, in 1951.

For all Browns' brilliance, Cleveland had his hands full containing Johnny Unitas, who passed for all four Colt TDs. That gave him 17 scoring passes for the season and stretched his consecutive game record to 31.

The Bears beat the Rams with a row, ripping the Lions after a 73-yard scoring run by halfback J. D. Smith on the second play. It was Smith's seventh TD of the season, one less than co-leaders Brown and Philadelphia's Tommy McDonald.

Hugh McElhenny, after nursing a broken hand for a month, returned to full-time duty and hauled in a pair of scoring passes from Y. A. Tittle, one on a 62-yard play.

The Bears beat the Rams with 19 points in the third quarter, scoring twice within two minutes on a blocked punt and a fumble.

Orange, Lions Get National Title Ideas

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a bundle of Mondays since any Eastern college team excluding the service academies had any notions about a national football championship.

But Syracuse and Penn State have "em today, especially the former, and the hunch is it'll take a strong man to talk down the winner—even granting the obvious claims of Louisiana State, Northwestern and Texas—after these two unbeaten tangle next Saturday.

The big game at University Park, Pa., is the second in a row matching two sectional titans—coming on the heels of defending national champ LSU's 7-3 squeaker over third-ranked Mississippi last Saturday night.

This one tries Syracuse, No. 5 nationally in the last Associated Press weekly poll, and winner of six straight, against Penn State, with a No. 7 national ledger and seven consecutive victories.

Meanwhile, LSU tries to run its winning streak to 20 as tough Tennessee, Northwestern (No. 2) is home to 10th-ranked, once-beaten Wisconsin in the Big Ten showdown, and Texas, ranked fourth, entertains Baylor in another step toward the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl.

"Now we find out if we're a football team," said Syracuse coach Ben Schwartzwalder after the Orange had crushed Pitt 35-0 Saturday. He is still cautious despite statistics that list Syracuse first nationally in both offense and defense.

One reason could be that Syracuse, trying regularly in alternate years, hasn't won at Penn State since 1934.

Their only common foe, West Virginia, fell to the Lions 28-10 last Saturday. Syracuse beat the Mounties 41-21.

There's Orange Bowl, Cotton Bowl and Gator Bowl interest in the game and both—win or lose—might wind up grabbing a spot, just as looms possible for hard-knocking Mississippi despite the loss to LSU.

The 67,000 who roared as All-America Billy Cannon's 89-yard scoring punt return beat Ole Miss after LSU had been outplayed and outgained probably would vote for an LSU-Mississippi rematch in the Sugar Bowl. Neither Syracuse nor Penn State can be considered since each has Negroes on the roster.

That would leave, say, Syracuse for the Cotton Bowl against probably Texas, 7-0 and closing in on the SWC championship after nailing Southern Methodist, 21-0; and perhaps Penn State against the Big Eight nominee in the Orange Bowl.

Northwestern, also 7-0 after turning up a new weekly star in fullback Mike Stock in a 30-13 whipping of Indiana, all but nails the Rose Bowl trip if it beats Wisconsin, 19-10 winner over Michigan. Southern California, ranked sixth nationally and 6-0 after rallying to beat California 14-7, ordinarily would be the foe but the Trojans are ineligible. So it's Washington (6-1) in the lead for the host spot at Pasadena.

Brown, who has led the NFL in rushing for each of his two campaigns, setting a record with a 1,527 net last season, upped his six-game 1959 total to 737 yards—a 123-yard average.

He carried 32 times and moved 178 yards. His other TDs came on a 17-yard run and three plunges.

Ernie Nevers set the one-game record of six touchdowns with the Cardinals against the Bears 30 years ago, and Cleveland's Bill Jones matched it, also against the Bears, in 1951.

For all Browns' brilliance, Cleveland had his hands full containing Johnny Unitas, who passed for all four Colt TDs. That gave him 17 scoring passes for the season and stretched his consecutive game record to 31.

The Bears beat the Rams with a row, ripping the Lions after a 73-yard scoring run by halfback J. D. Smith on the second play. It was Smith's seventh TD of the season, one less than co-leaders Brown and Philadelphia's Tommy McDonald.

Favorites Defined In Most Districts

By The Associated Press

Only a half-dozen district champions can be determined this week in the upper divisions of Texas schoolboy football but favorites are well-defined in each area.

Defending champion Wichita Falls of Class AAAA, riding a 19-game winning streak, is the choice to repeat with Abilene the only serious obstacle.

Corpus Christi Ray, which plays its first conference game this week, is a favorite to reach the finals from the South.

In Class AAA Breckenridge is the team to beat but Nederland, which starts the district race this week, is expected to be the southern bracket finalist.

Breckenridge goes after its third district victory Friday when it meets once-beaten Weatherford. Brownwood is expected to be the team Breckenridge must beat on Nov. 20 to win the district title.

Nederland has won seven straight and scored 199 points to remain one of four undefeated, untied teams in Class AAA. The others are Littlefield, Bay City and San Marcos. Breckenridge has lost one and tied one but they were against Class AAAA Abilene and Wichita Falls.

Only Abilene and Ray are undefeated and tied in Class AAAA, Wichita Falls, Amarillo and Arlington are unbeaten but have been tied. Wichita Falls plays Arlington Friday in a fight for the lead in District 4.

Fort Worth Carter-Riverside and Fort Worth Paschal meet Friday night with the District 5 title riding on the game. Milby and Reagan, Houston teams, clash Friday night with the District 9 crown on the line. Texas City saw up District 12 representation in the state playoffs if it beats Pasadena and Alice can clinch District 16 if it defeats San Antonio Burbank.

Two cities are up for grabs in Class AAA. Eastern Hills of Fort Worth can bag District 5 if it beats Carrollton Friday night. Lamarque can do the same in District 12 if it downs Bay City.

The Big Spring High School basketball cagers, now in the midst of practice for their 1959-60 season, visits Odessa Tuesday afternoon to scrimmage Odessa Ector.

ABC TO SELL HC TICKETS
The American Business Club has again agreed to sell season tickets to home basketball games of the HCJC Jayhawks. The ABC members push the tickets without profit to their organization.

The tickets, good for 11 home games, sell for $2.50 each. That figures out to less than 23 cents a game.

The Hawks open their season here Dec. 30, at which time they host Decatur Baptist College.

Other home games will be played against San Angelo, Tarleton State, Cisco, Clarendon, HSU's Butlens, Amarillo, Frank Phillips, South Plains, Lubbock and Odessa.

Last year, more than 800 season tickets were sold by the school.

Shakespearian Actor Pops Up On 'Alamo' Set

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

BRACKETVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The actor you would least expect to find amid the grizzled defenders of the Alamo is the Lithuanian-born Shakespearian, Laurence Harvey.

"Sometimes I wonder what I'm doing here myself," said Harvey as he hobbled around his hotel suite after a day's shooting on "The Alamo." "But here I am, and I've got to make the most of it."

Harvey was hobbling because a cannon had fallen on his foot that day. He was commanding the Alamo forces in a battle scene and a huge cannon landed on him after its recoil. He carried on in grand style, refusing medical treatment.

"This sort of thing has happened to me many times," he explained. "I played soccer, you know."

His combat training was a good background for this movie location. He seems ready to take on anyone in the company, up to and including Producer-Director John Wayne.

"Sure, we have had our differences," Harvey admitted. "We had a set-to one day that made me very angry and I stewed about it all evening. Finally at 11 o'clock I called up his house and told him I wanted to have it out with him."

"I went over to see him with a bottle of wine. He brought out his bottle of whisky and we argued until 4:30 in the morning. We ended up with an excellent understanding."

Wayne himself told me: "Yes, Harvey has given me some trouble, but it's worth it. He's giving the picture some damn good quality. I wanted him because of the quality he could offer and because he seems to be the rising name in pictures today."

Several lucrative offers await Harvey in Hollywood.

Harvey is a spare, handsome, doggedly articulate 31-year-old with black hair that sticks out at all angles. He appreciates life's finer things, as evidenced by the dozen crates of imported wine (vintage 1955) stacked in his rooms. He will be able to afford the better vintages for some time to come, thanks to the Hollywood offers.

Sen. Douglas Dislikes Lyndon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) was termed "unacceptable" as the Democrats' presidential nominee Sunday by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.). Douglas said Johnson's connection with oil and gas interests in Texas and his Southern viewpoint on civil rights, ruled him out as a presidential candidate. Douglas, identified with the liberal wing of the Democratic party, said he regarded Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) as "highly qualified for the presidency."

Murder Trial Due In Cleburne

CLEBURNE (AP)—The murder trial of Billy Joe Willis, 28, of Waco, was scheduled to start here today. Willis, a Waco tire company employe, is charged with the July 5, 1958, shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Karlyn Willis, as she sat in a car at a Cleburne cafe.

A Devotional For Today

Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. (Luke 23:34.)
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy willingness to forgive us. We thank Thee that through Thy grace we can forgive others and be forgiven. Open our eyes to the sins we do not see that we may repent and seek forgiveness. In the name of Christ, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."
 (From The 'Upper Room')

All Of Us Share The Blame

Years ago we read a comparison of American justice with its fountainhead, British justice, and the British brand was described somewhat as follows:
 When a crime was committed the accused was brought in and stood up in the dock. The king's counsel took his stance, the presiding magistrate adjusted his wig, and the bailiff was sent out to round up a jury. He took the butcher from behind his counter, apron still on, and marched him in. He grabbed off the merchant from his ledgers and the tobaccoist from his counter, and so on until the jury box was filled. Then—
 King's counsel asked the accused his name, age and place of residence and little else; the jury stood up and gave its verdict; the judge rapped his gavel, scratched his wig, and sentenced the guilty party to 14 years in prison.
 A ludicrous exaggeration, of course; but near enough to the truth to shock American readers who bothered to contrast the highly efficient British system with our own. At that time all Britain had fewer murders than any of several American cities, including Dallas and Memphis. The ratio is not much different today.
 British justice is stern and swift because the bulk of the British people are solidly behind it. British juries, counsels and judges are firm and relentless in law enforcement because they know that's what the public wants and expects.

 There are widespread complaints all over our country of crime waves, of criminals going unwhipped of justice, of delays and miscarriages, of piddling punishment handed out to evildoers.
 No one factor in our body politic is to blame; it is shared responsibility. The cure is obvious: more juries with crow-bars for backbones instead of macaroni; more fighting prosecuting attorneys; more judges with iron in their souls.
 Above all, a more resolute and vocal general public that demands, in season justice be swift, certain and stern in behalf of the overwhelming majority of our people who are law-abiding and peaceful.
 But we can't refrain from pointing out that whatever is whopper-jawed and disgraceful about our administration of justice, civil and criminal, might be traced to general public indifference, a disinclination to raise the roof now and then. And that applies to us all. We reap what we sow. We endure rather than be bothered, we put up with a disagreeable problem rather than face up to it.

A Belated Big Hurry

The Justice Department was guilty of a near-impertinence when it asked the Supreme Court to change its mind and order the Steelworkers Union to hurry up its appeal from a circuit court order that would end the long strike.
 The high court had granted the union a stay of six days to prepare its appeal from the circuit court order which upheld a district judge's decree that workers must return to work immediately.
 The Justice Department, in effect, took exception to the Supreme Court's order setting down the hearing for Monday, November 2, and urged that it be set ahead to Thursday, Oct. 29.
 The high court refused, promptly. The effect of this rejection was to prolong the strike into this week.
 The administration seems to be in an all-fired hurry, all at once, to get the Taft-Hartley going after it had dawdled a hundred days before doing anything definite about ending the strike, beyond one or two perfunctory, non-decisive actions like naming a board to study the problem.
 It could be that the high court felt a little irked at the Justice Department for rushing in with a plea to get a move on after the administration had delayed so long taking any action to end the strike.

 "Where were you fellows ten days or two weeks ago or two months ago?" the Supreme Court might feel justified in asking. "Are you trying to make it appear that now it's the court that's dawdling?"
 What if, finally, the highest court finds the union appeal has merit, and throws out the injunction? What will the union do if, on the other hand, the court says "get back to work?" Union spokesmen have made a point of saying they would obey the law, and presumably they would.
 An order to return to work would exhaust the legal recourses available under Taft-Hartley; the government can go no further.
 If the unions refuse to obey and come up with some new stalling gimmick, the government would have only one course open to it: a special session of Congress that might confront union and management with new emergency legislation that would make Taft-Hartley look like child's play.

Quiz Fraud Is Only Superficial

WASHINGTON—While it has been good for sensational headlines, the congressional investigation into the rigged quiz shows gets at only one of the minor symptoms of the deep trouble in the broadcasting industry. That is why many observers are saying that the inquiry will inevitably be broadened in an attempt to get at the root of the evils of pull and power and the control exercised by the merchandisers and the advertisers over what the American public is to see and hear.
 Theoretically, the industry is regulated by the Federal Communications Commission. But, as with other regulatory commissions that make up so stable a segment of the federal government, politics becomes entwined with authority and the lure of big money results in pressures that are irresistible.

speaking for the sponsors who determine what a hundred million Americans, more or less, will see every night in their homes.
 The professional critics have been saying for a long time that the level gets lower year after year, with more and more of the valuable time given over to crime, violence and sensation. As FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer made clear when he was questioned about the rampant fraud in the quiz shows, the commission draws hastily back at any suggestion of censorship. Certainly, censorship by a government agency would be highly undesirable. But under present circumstances there are no restraints of any kind, and the lowest common denominator of the mass audience is the end result.
 A serious inquiry into the relationship between government and broadcasting would not concern itself with the peccadilloes of the commission. The central problem is the failure of regulation for a wide variety of reasons, one of them being the cumbersome, bureaucratic approach of the commission which has been overwhelmed by an industry that has grown fantastically since the Federal Communications Act of 1934.

COMMISSION FOCAL POINT
 A focal point for an expanded inquiry could well be the commission and its relation to broadcasting. Seven men, each appointed for a term of seven years and paid $20,000 a year, are delegated to police an industry charged with the public interest and involving vast sums of money. A complex of one television and two radio stations in Philadelphia was sold recently for $20,000,000.

LIKE ANALYZING AILING BUSINESS.
 Such an inquiry would have to be conducted with skill and patience. It would be comparable to the analytical dissection of an ailing business performed by a team of efficiency managers. The refusal to delegate authority, the long debates within the commission, the confusion of legislative, judicial and regulatory functions all within one agency would be brought to light.
 But who would be interested in conducting such an investigation? The rewards would be not in headlines but in a final report that could result in truly remedial legislation.

Four of the present commissioners are civil servants who came up the communications commission ladder. Three are political appointees, one of them, Robert E. Lee, the patronage of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy when McCarthy was riding high. Lee's term expires next year.
 The commission has no authority over the networks but only over local stations. Yet, it is a few network executives along with a few advertising account men

Too many members of Congress, some directly and some indirectly, are tied into the broadcasting business. At least 30 members of the Senate and House have a direct ownership interest in TV and radio stations. Sen. Warren Magnuson, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, owns slightly more than 4 per cent of a Seattle TV station. Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee last year sold one-fourth interest in a station in his home town of El Dorado, Arkansas, because he said he was tired of the implication that this would color his judgment.
 All this being the case, the powers in the broadcasting industry may feel they can ride out the storm. Young Charles Van Doren is coming to Washington for a Roman holiday before the TV cameras. And how could one find a better victim, a better diversion, than this young intellectual who seemed so sure of his knowledge? But it is possible that this time the public itself is fed up and it will not be enough to stop for a time some of the worst wrongs, counting on the short memory of a gullible public.

World's Warming Up For Yuletide

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world—moving toward Christmas 1959—seems more comfortable than it has in years.
 As winter closes in there is an international warm spell again.
 The Western Allies, who seemed at sixes and sevens for a while, agreed to meet Dec. 19 as a preliminary to a summit conference.
 Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who sounded irked at not getting to the summit right away, appears satisfied so long as he gets there at all.
 President Charles de Gaulle of France chilled the United States and Britain just a few weeks ago by wanting no summit meetings until spring.
 There had been a feeling until then that the Big Four might get together in Geneva in December.
 But De Gaulle said this was too soon, that the Western Allies should first decide on what to say and how far to go before meeting Khrushchev.

This makes sense, even though a delay till spring permits events which could ruin Soviet-Western relations.
 De Gaulle, strong for prestige, may have had a couple of personal reasons for not rushing to the summit.
 Both President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have had recent talks with Khrushchev but De Gaulle has not.
 So he will be even with his partners if he also meets the Soviet Premier as he now expects to do early next year.
 One other thing: before spring and a summit meeting France may have produced its first atomic explosion, giving it a sense of equality with the American-British-Soviet atomic club.
 In a major policy speech in Moscow Saturday Khrushchev not only did not sound annoyed over a summit delay but rather pleased that things were looking up.

Perhaps the most important thing he revealed was a stand-off attitude on the conflict between India and his partner, Red China.
 He backed the Chinese Communists on wanting Formosa but stood neutral on the India-China border shooting.
 He has a stake in wanting to keep the Indians friendly.
 And, as if anxious to dissociate himself from some future Red Chinese adventure which might cause trouble, Khrushchev pointedly indicated the Soviet Union should not be held responsible for what the Chinese did.
 Khrushchev takes full credit for the Soviet Union in making the world seem a little more relaxed and comfortable place to live in. He emphasized the U.S.S.R. had taken the initiative to bring this about.
 And he is pretty much right. The initiative this year belonged to the Soviet union, not the West.

Problem Is Passing 65

 What are your longevity prospects after you reach 65? Two out of four will live to 75, and one of every four will make it to 85 or beyond.

 One hears of a smoke-filled room being a prelude to the presidency, but many U.S. presidents never acquired the smoking habit. They include Harry S. Truman, Abraham Lincoln, and Thomas Jefferson. Woodrow Wilson tried smoking once, got sick and quit. George Washington hated tobacco smoke so much he grimaced when he had to join Indians in puffing the peace pipe.

 Benjamin Franklin founded the first U.S. public library in Philadelphia in 1731. Its first librarian, Louis Timothee, had this firm rule: "If any person hath to be awakened twice, he shall be requested to leave."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

One of the interesting by-products of the continuing drive against the Constitution of the United States and the free enterprise system in the United States is the increasing trend in private advertising towards emphasis on fundamental American principles.
 It is refreshing to run across advertisements of this kind in the national magazine and to realize that, to some firms at least, preservation of sound principles in economic and government seems more important than dollars and cents.
 At least it is logical to assume that when a firm takes a whole page in a national magazine to declare that "federal aid is as childish as Santa Claus or Easter rabbits" and then expounds that idea without ever mentioning products or prices. But that is what Warner and Swazey of Cleveland, Ohio, makers of precision machinery, is continually doing.
 "Only little children," said the noteworthy advertisement, "believe they get something for nothing"—or for just "being good." Yet school boards plump for "Federal Aid" to build local schools. States and counties demand "their share" of Washington billions for roads. Areas that call themselves "depressed" (who isn't?) want Federal dollars to make them prosperous. Thousands expect jobs to be brought to them by national subsidies rather than move to where jobs are. Builders want Federal aid so they can build more housing at a profit.
 "Federal Aid" there is no such thing. The money can only come from the taxpayers, from you. For every $1 in Federal "aid" the average state "gets back" from Washington, you pay to Washington $7 in Federal taxes.

"Why should you pay for 'benefits' to someone a thousand miles away—and why should he pay for yours? The only one who 'benefits' in this sleight of hand is the tax collector. You'd be better off to keep your money and pay your own bills—and save the difference, and your self-respect."

Around The Rim
The Silent One . . . Offends Democracy

How good a citizen are you? Do you speak out when you think some public official might have his hand in the till, or you reason taxes are becoming so high that they threaten the economy of our nation?
 Or do you fume and keep quiet because you are afraid of being labeled as a radical or a pink or perhaps because you have become resigned to the fact that nothing you do can change the course of events?
 Odds are overwhelming that you never take much of a stand on any matter pertaining to your governing bodies, other than discuss it with a neighbor over a backyard fence.
 Quite probably, too, you say to yourself, that "we have elected a man to do that particular job and, if he fails, we can always replace him." The odds are overwhelming, too, that he automatically becomes suspect for being part of a huge conspiracy almost from the instant he assumes office.
 Recently, in a full page ad appearing in the Saturday Review magazine, there appeared a picture of a contented man in a chair with his hands draped across his stomach. The caption read:
 "Trouble-Maker"
 "He is the silent one," the article read on, "He never speaks up on issues. He never sounds off in the letter writing column of his local newspaper. He never writes his congressman. He is quiet as a clam. And in his wish to offend nobody, he offends democracy. How could democracy succeed . . . If all of us, like this one, withdrew our opinions, our ideas, our criticisms?

 "Voting on election day is only part of a citizen's duty."
 "Active, day-to-day participation in government, in society, in business associations, is a responsibility for each and everyone of us."
 "The silent troublemaker fails to understand this. In his worship of 'law and order,' he never dares to question an oppressive law, never distinguishes 'order' from stagnation."
 "He is the apostle of social decay, not democracy."
 Have you purchased your poll tax this year—attended a school board, city or county commission meeting lately?
 In Europe, politics is a religion. In America, it is a three-ring circus in which great concerns, intent on protecting their own interests, all too often decide on who will "represent the people."

Architects Are Picking On The Kitchen

Do you know that architecture's latest non de guerre, the family room, is passe? Yes, indeed, the family room that seemed so chic only yesterday has been rechristened the activities room. (This is the sort of shattering information you read first in this column, and don't forget it!)
 Friends of mine who are building a winter home in Tucson have passed along the floor plan, just to keep me up-to-date. And right here in the blueprints, where the family room would have been only 24 hours ago, is plainly marked the activities room.
 Like the family room, it is hard by the kitchen, with a pass-through for real dogs, hot dogs and children. It enables mummy, the modern whirling dervish, to keep her eye on everything, including the electric dryer, fryer and baby, while bidding four no-trumps with the girls.
NEED A REVOLVING HEAD
 This unfortunate woman's angle of vision is 360 degrees, and all she needs is a revolving head. (Science is now working on this.)
 Just what activities are suitable for the activities room, the architect has failed to specify in the blueprints. But it is safe to presume that it will house teevee, the hi-fi or stereophonic sound equipment, the dart board, the sewing machine, a putting green, the triplex power equipment, roller skates, miniature bowling equipment and sound-proof walls to tone down the hysteria when all this together rears up at one and the same time.
 Of all the arts, architecture is my first love. If, out in Idaho in my salad days, I had realized that anyone beside carpenters built houses, newspapermen might have lost a recruit. It wouldn't surprise me to learn that this yen for architecture is common to my sex.
AS HOMEMAKERS, WE LIVE ON MORE INTIMATE TERMS WITH ARCHITECTURE THAN ANY other group. Stripped to the essentials, one doesn't have to acquire paintings or sculpture or even music to survive, although life would be mighty barren without 'em. But man does need a roof over his head and four walls around him, even if they are of grass mats or ice blocks.

 Women have to live with houses. Half the time when we are pushing furniture around, it is a valid criticism of what the architect did in the first place to the rooms in which we live. Often, as we have and haul on the Steinway or the sofa, we are simply exercising our inalienable right to try to make the space more livable.
 It is one woman's opinion that architecture is a natural and rewarding field for my sex. If women had a real hand in the business, I'll bet a cookie these new and frightfully expensive show apartments now building all over New York, would be equipped with kitchens sufficiently large to assemble a club sandwich and in which at least two persons could find sufficient space to stand at a time, if not sit.
THE KITCHEN A DODO?
 I don't know how it is in other parts of the nation, but in New York apartments, the kitchen is being a dodo act. The kitchens now being built in apartments to house families look like the "efficiency" kitchenettes that once went with one-room bachelor flats. Granted, there are horrendous short-cuts to cooking these days; nonetheless, it even takes elbow room to open cans and, God forbid, peel the cardboard off the frozen teevee dinner.
 There is a possible solution. Let us abolish the kitchen altogether and simply regard it as a function worthy of inclusion in the activities room. A room by any other name is justified if it is large enough for swinging a four-rib roast or an apple cobbler like mother used to make.

WASHINGTON—U. S. Steel Corporation lost $31 million in the third quarter of this year.
 Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the next largest, lost $28 million in the third quarter.
 Jones & Laughlin, the fourth largest steel producer reported a loss of $16 million.
 Inland Steel reported a net loss of $7.3 million.
 Wheeling Steel reported a net loss of $4,263,000.
 Lukens Steel reported a net loss of three million dollars.
 Those are the figures just announced and they add up to about $100 million—hey do not tell the whole story.
 For the government of the United States lost taxes equal to these amounts and foregoes as well the taxes on profits that have been at least $200 million. Also, the Treasury lost far more in tax receipts usually collected from the many industries indirectly affected by the steel strike.
 But the losses in wages to the workers are even larger than the deficits of the corporations involved in the strike. This, too, means a loss of taxes.
YOU PAY MORE TAXES
 So the American people must continue to pay more taxes to meet these deficiencies and thus the hoped for day of a reduction in tax rates is postponed.
 Nobody gains by a strike and yet struggles arise periodically that are eventually ended by negotiation after which euphemistic statements are issued about victories won. The truth is that every big strike is due to the failure of the processes of reason and a breakdown in the communication system between adversaries.
 Sometimes union politics keep a leader from making an agreement that he fears will make him unpopular with his constituency. Sometimes management hesitates to make a concession for fear that next year it will face a strike again as advantage is taken by the union to press later for further concessions. Collective bargaining nowadays means that anything granted in a previous year is permanent and not subject to change.
 So far as the public is concerned, it can hardly bring its influence to bear except through government and this, too, leads to settlements of strikes that are likely in the long run to do more harm than good. In fact, today's strike in steel is largely the result of the mis-handling of labor-management relations in the past with too much government

In fact, today's strike in steel is largely the result of the mis-handling of labor-management relations in the past with too much government pressure of the political sort that forced unsound settlements in order to get a resumption of production at almost any cost.

 Today's impasse between the steel companies and the unions will not be solved overnight. The Taft-Hartley Act injunction when imposed will not necessarily bring a cooling off period or even a disposition toward conciliatory moves on either side.
 The current steel strike has raised some fundamental issues that are not going to be solved merely by a compromise on wage rates. The conflict is broader and there will only be more and more strikes until the equities are clearly established and new machinery in factory operations is accepted for what it is—a means of cutting costs and assuring savings to the public as a whole.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS
 BY CURTIS BISHOP

The national game of baseball had its beginning among Texans on this day in 1867.
 The civilian teams clashed in San Antonio, the first meeting of Texas nines. Yankee troops garrisoned at Galveston in 1865, and 1866 had competed among themselves and had introduced Texans to the game.
 The Galveston team traveling to San Antonio was the "Robert E. Lees," named in defiance to the federal military personnel.
 The new sport caught on slowly. It was 20 years before organization of the Texas League of Professional Baseball Clubs in a meeting at Austin on December 18, 1887. Six teams had played a semblance of a schedule the year before, each using some paid players.
 Members of the first Texas loop were Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston and San Antonio.
 Probably the first "ball play" in Texas was among the Cherokee Indians who emigrated to East Texas in the 1820's. These Indians were enthusiastic players, supporting their teams in a spirit even more ardent than present-day collegians. Tribal honor was at stake when two Cherokee clans clashed on the ball field. Games usually lasted all day, making endurance as important as agility or strength.
 Sam Houston was noted as an outstanding ball player in his younger years among the Cherokees.

Spray Proves Effective Prickly Pear Killer

So far results from hand spraying as a method to replace hand grubbing in eradication of prickly pear has produced good results on the Lee Reed ranch 10 miles northeast of Coahoma. A test plot was sprayed on July 7 and the picture shows how the pest plant was dried up. Used was a mixture of five gallons of kerosene, five gallons of Diesel fuel and a quart of 2-4-D-T. Cost was $4 plus two hours of labor in covering an acre. Other methods of eradication cost $10 per acre. (Photo Soil Conservation Service).

Plane Crash Survivor Tells Of Silence Amid Wreckage

WAYNESBORO, Va. (AP)— "Things were all quiet, no moans, no groans."
This was the way a 33-year-old union official described the aftermath of a crumpling impact against a Virginia mountainside in which 26 persons aboard a twin-engine airliner lost their lives. He alone survived.
"I yelled to see if anyone else was alive, but no one answered," said E. Phil Bradley of Clifton Forge, Va., as he told of his 36-hour ordeal in the wilderness following the crash of the Piedmont Airlines DC3 Friday night.

He suffered a dislocated hip and minor cuts.
Within a few hours after Bradley was taken to a Charlottesville hospital Sunday, 26 bodies, wrapped in tarpaulins, were laboriously carried to the summit of Bucks Elbow Mountain near Virginia's famed Skyline Drive.
Bradley, who said he noticed his watch showed 8:40 p.m. moments after the crash, was first reached at the wreck scene by Air Force Sgt. John Weis of Pittsburgh.
"I was damned glad to see him," Bradley said.
The plane, en route from Washington to Roanoke, Va., was last heard from at 8:24 p.m. Friday, when the pilot requested landing instructions at Charlottesville.

The wreckage 18 miles west of Charlottesville was not sighted until 8:20 a.m. Sunday.
Bradley, seated near the rear of the plane, was thrown from the cabin strapped in his seat, because of his dislocated hip, he remained upright in the seat some five feet from the wreckage until rescuers arrived.
With a pole he managed to fish for a coat and blanket to warm him in the chilly mountain air.
Weis reported Bradley's first words were: "I'm all right. Go on up and see if anybody else is alive."
Bradley said the pilot never gave any indication there was anything wrong.
Of the actual crash, it "sounded like the roaring of an ocean," he said. "The only sensation was the wings cutting the tops of trees."
Asked when he realized he was the only survivor, he said: "I can't say I ever really knew."

FELL FROM TRUCK

Martin County Man Is Fatally Injured

Martin County farm worker Jesus Morales, 45, died at Big Spring Hospital yesterday of injuries received in a one-vehicle accident 1.9 miles west of Lenorah earlier in the day.
Morales, a worker on the J. C. Epley farm 18 miles northwest of Stanton, fell out of the truck when it went out of control on a dirt road.
Morales fell into a ditch and the truck ran over him, according to Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders.
A tractor riding with Morales was not hurt in the wreck, which occurred about 1:30 a.m. yesterday.

School Administrators To Attend Lamesa Meet

LAMESA — School administrators from 30 West Texas counties will meet here Wednesday, according to Ross A. Buckner of Seagraves, superintendent in charge of arrangements.
The counties cover both District 4 and District 13, formed when the Old West Texas Teachers Assn. was divided recently to make two districts.
"Administrators are in agreement they want this annual meeting to continue so those engaged in administrative capacities in any manner can benefit," Buckner said.
City and county superintendents, high school, junior high and elementary principals and supervisors are included in the group. Texas Tech faculty members engaged in working with school administrators are expected to be present.
The meeting will be in the Lamesa High School cafeteria. The program will be preceded by a banquet and reservations at $1.75 per plate should be made with C. W. Tarter, Lamesa superintendent of schools.
Dan Proctor of Houston will be speaker for the banquet and the Lamesa High School music department will present several numbers.

'Day Of Dead' For Mexico

MANZANILLO, Mex. (AP)— Today is the "Day of the Dead" but commemoration of the deceased in this Pacific region of Mexico took second place to caring for the living after last week's punishment by the elements.
Fifteen hundred or more apparently lost their lives in the hurricane that struck Tuesday bringing floods and mountain slides.
The governor of this state of Colima said officials would begin today making a check on the number killed—by coincidence choosing the day when the dead are usually honored.
Supplies of food, medicine, clothing and some building materials continued to reach this port and other damaged towns and villages by air, road and sea. Rail lines are closed.
Rebuilding and building of shelters has started on a minor scale.
Despite food supplies brought here, many say they still are not getting enough. Many are not adequately sheltered at night.
There is still confusion and bewilderment. Many walking along the highway yesterday toward Colima, aimlessly seeking places for new homes.

1,200 Ball Gum Sales Credited To Kiwanis Club

Big Spring Kiwanians sold approximately 1,200 packages of ball-gum in its Halloween effort, Sherman Smith, president of the club, said Monday.
Mampong shortage hampered sales drive. Response on the part of the citizenship at large was good, Smith said.
The gum ball sale was to benefit the club's fund for aid to underprivileged children.
The club had hoped to sell 2,000 boxes of the gum.

Lyndon Gets Applause At Austin Citizenship Meet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A lengthy demonstration of standing applause and cheers was given Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday at a citizenship seminar when the Texas Democrat was mentioned as the next president of the United States.
House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) told about 1,000 young men and women that "if our Democratic party is wise enough in 1960, and I hope it will be, it will make this man (Johnson) our standard bearer and if they will do it we will make him president of the United States."
Johnson was not announced his presidential campaign intentions but Rayburn has been booming him for the office for several weeks.
The citizenship seminar was sponsored by Johnson and the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce.
Speakers included Rayburn Johnson, Sen. Thomas Dodd (D-Conn.), Secretary of the Air Force James H. Douglas, National Space Agency director T. Keith Glennan and Radio Corp. of America president John Burns.
Dodd's talk was interrupted seven times by applause when he praised Johnson and Rayburn.
"I am a Johnson man and where I come from there are a lot more. I don't believe in geography of politics. I am sure a man from Texas can win in my state," Dodd said.
"If our nation is to lead, it must produce leaders," Johnson said in opening the meeting.
Several speakers in return pointed out Johnson as the leader. "He has the personality, the energy, the capacity to fill with honor any office within the gift of the American people," said Rayburn.
Dodd won sustained applause when he predicted Johnson could win New England voters in a presidential race.
"Sure he can," Dodd said in answer to the question.
Dodd was asked if he thought too much leadership was being concentrated in Johnson.
"If you can, why not get it all in one package?" Dodd replied.
Glennan, the space agency head, praised Johnson for supporting space experiments. Air Secretary Douglas praised Johnson for support of the Air Force and missile tests.
Glennan said he is satisfied the man in space program is on schedule. "We'll have about 20 shots in the next 14 months in orbit," he said.
Douglas, in answer to a question about the Russian moon shots, said "It is easier to hit the moon than to hit a city with a military missile at 5,000 miles."
Radio and television actor Arthur Godfrey said "The only thing that will destroy America is the failure of communications between those who know and those who want to know."
Burns repeated his proposal for a fourth major branch of government—the permanent council on plans and policies.

HEADQUARTERS

Get That 'Piece Of Paper'
M/Sgt. Jesse J. Deason (left) and T/Sgt. Robert Campbell, who "graduated" from the Air Force Saturday at Webb, display that all-important piece of paper for which they had looked 20 and 22 years, respectively. Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, wing commander, presented the retirement certificates in an informal ceremony at wing headquarters. Deason, a native of Henderson, has been an aircraft inspector with the 331st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron; Campbell—a World War II flight officer glider pilot—was a member of the 3500th Flight Line Maintenance Squadron. He is a native of Monticello, Iowa.

Ike Will Attend 4-Power Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and the heads of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in Paris Dec. 19 to work out a solid Western stand for talks with the Soviet Union.
Agreement on the date and place of the meeting was announced in the four capitals Sunday. The White House said Eisenhower will return here in time to spend Christmas with his family.
Prime subjects for discussion at the Paris meeting appeared to be:
1. When do the leaders meet with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a summit conference?
2. On what issues, if any, will they compromise in negotiations with him?
Reports from London said that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will go to Paris determined that the summit conference with Khrushchev be held in January or February. President Charles de Gaulle of France has insisted the conference be delayed until spring, at the earliest. It is believed Eisenhower leans toward Macmillan's position.
On the second question, observers believe Macmillan is willing to make concessions to Khrushchev, setting the Berlin issue before reaching an agreement on German unity. But De Gaulle feels that the Soviets are responsible for the crises in the world. He believes that if there are concessions to be made, the Soviets must make them. Past statements of Eisenhower indicate he tends to agree with De Gaulle on this issue.
The fourth leader, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, will not attend the summit conference with Khrushchev.
At the Paris conference, Bonn sources indicate, Adenauer will confine himself to discussions of the German and West Berlin problems.

CORSICANA (AP) — Lowry Martin, 76, business manager and co-owner of the Corsicana Daily Sun who died Saturday, was called "an unselfish, imaginative man" by the pastor of the First Methodist Church Sunday.
Dr. Floyd Johnson, in a funeral sermon, said "the world is better informed today because of such unselfish men as Lowry Martin, and we are freer men today because Lowry Martin and men of his caliber have lived."
Martin was one of the founders of the Texas Daily Press League. He was a leader in numerous civic undertakings and was president of a commission responsible for the Texas Centennial Celebration in 1936. He helped keep the idea for the observance alive after it was first advanced in 1923.
Dr. Johnson called Martin "an unselfish, imaginative man with determination and fine strength of character and will."
"To this man our country owes much. Mr. Martin was indeed a man worthy of our honor. He performed an invaluable service to this community," Dr. Johnson said.
He added that "never did Mr. Martin seek honor. Men have sought him out to do him honor."
The funeral service was held at McCammon Memorial Chapel and burial was in Corsicana's Oakwood Cemetery. The Rev. Don Holt, assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church, joined in conducting the funeral.
Martin had served as president of the Texas Press Assn., the Texas Daily Press League, the Texas Advertising Clubs and the Texas Good Roads Assn.
In 1908 Martin became co-owner with the late A. A. Wortham of The Corsicana Daily Sun and The Corsicana Semi-Weekly Light, both published by the Sun - Light Publishing Co.
Survivors include a sister, Mrs. W. M. Anderson of Dallas, and several nieces and nephews. Mrs. Martin preceded him in death.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP News Service
Tristan Da Cunha, a small group of islands in the South Atlantic halfway between South Africa and South America, has issued a new pictorial set depicting various fish found in surround waters.
Each of the 14 stamps issued by this British Colony also bears a portrait of Queen Elizabeth. The prices range from the half penny to the 10 shillings.
The fish illustrated are starfish, concha fish, klip fish, heron fish, sword fish, Tristan Crawfish, soldier fish, five finger, mackerel, stumpnose fish, blue fish, snook, shark and the Atlantic right whale.
Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announces that a stamp honoring the Fifth World Forestry Congress — the first ever held in this country — will be issued on Aug. 29, 1960. The date coincides with the opening day of this meeting in Seattle, Wash.
Finland and India, as host nations to this Congress in 1949 and 1954 respectively, issued postage stamps honoring the meetings at that time. Many of the 83 member governments of the United Nations and its specialized agencies which have been invited to participate are expected to issue stamps in 1960 commemorating the conclave.
The design, denomination and color of the new U. S. stamp will be announced later.
The recently issued Canadian set honoring the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been discovered with the illustration inverted. Many collectors are trying to obtain some of the "errors" in their collections. Gim-

LaRue Glasscock Bride Of Dwayne K. Walker

LAMESA — Before an archway of greenery flanked with white candelabra, LaRue Glasscock became the bride of Dwayne Kenneth Walker. The double ring service was read by the Rev. H. M. Secord in the First Methodist Church of Earth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Glasscock of Earth are the parents of the bride. A graduate of Springlake High School, she is employed at McCormick Steel Co., Lubbock.

Walker is the son of Mrs. Frances Walker of Lamesa; he was graduated from Lamesa schools and attended Texas Tech for two years. He is an associate of Shook Tire Co., Lubbock.

Mrs. Dale Winders, organist, accompanied Mrs. Dwayne Jones who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white brocaded satin fashioned on princess lines with softly flaring skirt. Her nose tip veil was attached to a wavy crown, and short nylon mitts, studded with rhinestones, completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Honor attendants were Mrs. Bob Green and Bill Grimes of Lubbock. As matron of honor, Mrs. Green wore a red faille dress and carried a single red rose.

Usher was Don Randolph; Frances Cole of Lubbock was candlelighter, and the wedding guests were registered by Connie Glasscock.

Silver and white wedding bells decorated the serving table for the reception held in the church parlor.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Walker selected a pink wool suit with black accessories. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., they will reside at 2824 B, Second Place, Lubbock.

MRS. DWAYNE KENNETH WALKER

Art Club Will Have An Exhibit

At an all-day meeting of the Permian Basin Pottery Art Club Sunday, the group planned an exhibit to be held in Lamesa. The workshop was held at the East-side Recreation Center, Odessa.

Gathering for a day of painting, with a covered dish luncheon at noon, the artists set the date for an exhibit on Nov. 22 at 2 p.m. The public is invited to attend the event, slated for the Lamar Forest Community Center, Lamesa.

Local women attending the meeting included Mrs. Florence McNew, Mrs. Roland Schwarzenbach and Mrs. Jim Skalicky.

Three new members were introduced to the club; a painted plate, donated by Mrs. D. V. Kelley of Midland, was awarded to Mrs. A. W. Moon of Odessa.

Women's interest in our nation's public affairs is increasing at a rapid pace, according to the women's division of the National Association of Manufacturers. Proof of this is seen in the increasing demand for the political education program kit entitled "Politics Is For People," which the NAM is currently distributing to women's clubs.

Thousands of women's organizations already have scheduled political education programs based on the NAM kit, and many of the clubs receiving it say that they have never before placed as much emphasis on public affairs.

Clubs which receive the "Politics Is For People" kit may either follow the program as written, or may develop their own variations. In either case, the completion of the program will give the members a clear general picture of the workings of the two-party system in local, state and national affairs.

If women's club presidents or program chairmen would like to have more information about this political education kit, they may write to Mary B. Brown, Women's Communications, National Association of Manufacturers, 2 East 48th Street, New York 17, New York.

Settles WMS To Have Called Meet

There will be a called meeting of the Settles Baptist Mission WMS Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the church, it has been announced.

Purpose of the session is to complete the mission study book, "Ways of Witnessing." Mrs. J. T. Grantham will review the final two chapters. Helping the Harassed and the Witnessing Word.

All women of the church are invited to attend the meeting.

Saturday Party

The senior class of St. Paul Lutheran Church was given a party at the church Saturday morning, with the teacher, Mrs. W. F. Pachall, Sharon Marino and Barbara Young directing games.

The group viewed a film dealing with the works of Martin Luther, which was shown by the Rev. Claire Weiderhoff. About 11 attended.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Actress Says Adapt Styles To Suit You

HOLLYWOOD — Barbara Billingsley is a very happy member of the "Leave It to Beaver" family. And as I watched her playing a scene with her 14-year-old TV son, I thought she typified our ideal American mother with her charm, slim waistline and good taste.

"I can tell that you were a high-fashion model by the way you wear your clothes," I commented. "I don't mind telling you, Lydia, that was a long time ago," Barbara laughed. "But it was a priceless experience. I learned how impossible I looked by accepting every style, so in my private life I was determined to be selective."

"I admire the bouffant hairstyle," Barbara continued. "I tried it, but my face got lost. I looked like a mushroom, and so do a lot of other people, but they don't seem to mind. I do adjust to fashion but I wear a variation of a style to suit my face."

"I like to keep up with new cosmetics. I'm all for keeping the skin from getting old. Every woman, when she reaches a certain age, should care about this, too. Even if she has to use a little of the household money."

"But it is sad when a woman makes too much of a new wrinkle. None of us wants them, but if you keep busy you won't have time to worry about them."

"People have such funny ideas about age," Barbara observed. "There is something compensating about every time of life. I believe there is nothing that keeps you looking younger than the forward-point of view. Look ahead not back."

"And stop worrying." I put in. "Did you see the woman on TV who was 110 years old?" Barbara asked. "Her secret for a long life was not worrying! So often a person will tear himself down by not being able to make decisions. That is deadly. If you stop self-agitation, be still and listen, you'll find a solution."

STOP WORRYING AND STAY YOUNG
Here are two leaflets which go hand in hand: Leaflet M-4, "How to Relax" and Leaflet M-40, "How to Stay Young." Ask yourself these questions: Do I know how to relax? Do I have frown lines around my mouth and eyes? Do I feel irritable over nothing? What do I know of corrective creams, skillful make-up and exercises to keep muscular flexibility? These questions and many more are answered in these two leaflets. Start your forward-point-of-view campaign today! For your copies of these two vital leaflets send 10 cents for each leaflet and one self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Big Spring Herald.

Beaver's 'Mother'

Barbara Billingsley, who plays June in the "Leave It to Beaver" TV family, believes that there is something appealing about every age.

Martin Dehlinger Weds Miss Gigstad Saturday

In a morning ceremony, read at St. Thomas Catholic Church, Martin E. Dehlinger took as his bride Audri Gigstad of Dallas, a former resident of Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Dehlinger, 1207 Johnson, are parents of the bridegroom.

Father Francis Beasley read the double ring vows as the wedding party stood before a grouping of white gladioli in baskets. He was assisted by the younger brother of the bridegroom, Arthur Dehlinger.

Mrs. Leslie Green, organist, played traditional bridal music. The bride chose a suit of blue flannel for her wedding; the collar of mink matched her small hat of mink, and her accessories were navy. On a white prayer book, she carried white roses.

Millie Payne of Midland, the maid of honor, was attired in a dress of blue flannel and wore a hat of white feathers. Her accessories were white and her flowers, white roses.

Attending as best man was Wayne Word of Midland.

Following the ritual, guests gathered at the Dehlinger home where they were received by the bride and groom.

Refreshments were served from a table laid in a white Madeira cloth and holding an arrangement of tapers and white roses. White roses also decorated the three-tiered cake, frosted in white, and supporting a bridal figurine.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Art Custer and Joe Reese, all of Midland.

The new Mrs. Dehlinger wore her bridal attire for the wedding trip to Santa Fe, N. M. She is a graduate of Lutheran College in Seguin and, at one time, taught in Midland. Prior to the marriage she was employed in Dallas.

The bridegroom is a Big Spring High School graduate and an alumnus of the College of Mines, El Paso. He received his masters degree from the University of Texas. At the present time, he is a geologist with the Forest Oil Company, Midland, where the couple will make a home.

If You Feel You Have To Wear Them, Here's How

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
Women who wear pants should take a backward glance.

This has been the theme of cartoonists and satirists for 10, these many years, ever since Marlene Dietrich launched American women on a slacks-happy era.

Many were the sins committed in the name of fashion in the early days of feminine slacks, when the female form often looked far from divine. Big or little, fat or thin, women took to slacks with happy abandon, ignoring rear views that pained their public. These first bifurcated garments usually sagged in the seat, bagged at the knees and gave the wearer the general appearance of a bag of potatoes.

After 30 years and much research, slacks have become pants, carefully designed for figure flattery, slim, tapered and without a bag or bulge in a carload.

One of the new champions of pants for every woman is Jack Winter of Milwaukee, who started turning out a precisely engineered kind of pants some five years ago and now has three factories.

Winter says all women can wear pants successfully, if they are carefully fitted. He uses supple, non-bulky fabrics, goes in for expert tailoring and believes all women's pants should be sleek and smooth. He offers these pointers on how to buy a pair of pants:

1. Always try on pants before buying, and look at them fore and aft, in a rear-view mirror. If they fit, they must follow the natural lines of the body, with no bulges, bags or straining seams.
2. If you want to be sure of a perfect fit, always remove your girdle before trying on pants.

3. If you have a bulge in front, choose pants with a little fullness at either side. This may be achieved by darts or pleats. Winter uses a belt that goes through a two-inch loop concealing a dart on each side. This allows ease through the middle, without apparent bulk.
4. If the pants fit through the hips and stomach, don't worry about waistline adjustment. This is easy to do by taking in or letting out the center back seam.
5. Only women with slim, boyish figures should wear the boy-style pants, which fit tight across the stomach, with no extra fullness. These hang slim and straight, emphasizing long legs.
6. Design for women of average figure are fly-front pants with side slash pockets, concealing a slight gore at each side.

Pants are made for all figures these days—the important point is to be sure you choose the proper style, and see that it is perfectly fitted.

Also remember that pants are made for different occasions—some for sports, some for at-home wear — and pick the right style for the right time and place.
